

Space ESP try 'A-OK'

Too many wrong answers

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI)—Astronaut Edgar D. Mitchell is convinced his extrasensory perception tests from outer space succeeded—not because his "receivers" got a lot of right answers, but because they got so many wrong ones.

Mitchell, who tried to send ESP messages to four "receivers" on earth while en-route to the moon on the Apollo 14 mission, Monday broke his long silence about the unauthorized experiment.

His primary evidence of ESP cited at a meeting of the Foundation for Research on the Nature of Man was based, however, not on the number of answers the four earthbound receivers got right, but on how many they got wrong.

Mitchell said they got far more wrong than they would have by normal operation of mathematical chance, and he cited this as an indication of "extrasensory exchange."

Neither Mitchell nor the four earth subjects, it turned out, was able to adhere to the schedule agreed to beforehand. Mitchell took with him into space cards bearing standard ESP test symbols—a star, a cross, a wavy line, a square and a circle.

The plan called for him to concentrate daily on a random order of the symbols in space, with transmission of 25 symbols in a pattern only he knew, once daily for six days, with the four earth "receivers" writing down what order they believed he was "transmitting."

Mitchell was able to perform the experiment for only four days. Two of the "receivers" wrote down their "receptions" for all six days, however, while one of the others participated for only one day and the other for only two days.

A check of the results, he reported Monday, showed that in a check of 12 different sets of symbols written down on earth, the receivers picked the right symbol only 35 times out of 300.

Mitchell said this was significant, because the laws of chance indicated they should have picked the right symbol at least 60 times, and their answers indicated they were deliberately picking the wrong answer.

Appellate justices ponder war expose

By United Press International
The federal government, in two separate cases which may be before the Supreme Court within a week, went into the appellate courts today to keep The Washington Post and The New York Times from publishing any more of a secret Pentagon report on Indochina.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell in Washington Monday ruled in favor of the Post, saying publication of the report did not threaten national security and that freedom of the press outweighed the government's objections to the case.

"The government has failed to meet its burden and without that burden being met, the First Amendment remains supreme," Gesell said. "Any effort to preserve the status quo under these circumstances would be contrary to the public interest."

But the appeals court intervened on the government's request and ordered the Post not to continue its series on the report until it ruled on the case today. The Post was told not to publish anything on the report until 5 p.m. EDT today. The newspaper complied.

The Times also received a favorable ruling from U.S. District Judge Murray Gurfein Saturday but the appeals court in New York prohibited publication until after a panel of three of its members could rule on the case.

The two cases have received expedited treatment in the courts because the issues involved—national security and freedom of the press—are so great the cases will almost certainly go to the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court is expected to end its current session Monday, necessitating the haste.

The government has argued that publication of the 7,000-page report which was ordered in 1967 by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara could damage national security and relations with other countries. The newspapers have argued that the report may embarrass some persons but could not be considered dangerous to the national security.

In other developments Monday—

—Gesell refused to let a group of Congressmen intervene on the Post's behalf but allowed the House members, led by Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., to file a brief as "Friends of the Court."

Valor, 'grass' sometimes mix

TAWAS CITY, Mich. (UPI)—Peter Lemon, awarded the Medal of Honor by President Nixon last week, said Monday he was stoned on marijuana the day he single-handedly repulsed a Viet Cong attack.

Lemon, 21, was awarded the Medal of Honor for fighting off an attack April 1, 1970, at a 1st Air Cavalry Division post in Tay Ninh near the Cambodian border.

"We were all partying the night before," Lemon told interviewers. "We weren't expecting any action because we were in a support unit."

"It was the only time I ever went into combat stoned. You get really alert when you're stoned because you have to be." Lemon's citations said he engaged the enemy with his machine gun and rifle until these weapons malfunctioned, then used hand grenades. Although wounded by grenade fragments, Lemon pursued and killed the last attacker in hand-to-hand combat.

Lemon then carried a more seriously wounded comrade to an aid station and suffered a second wound from a bullet while returning to his post "through a hail of small arms and grenade fire," the citation said.

Realizing another attack was coming, Lemon "unhesitatingly assaulted the enemy" by throwing more grenades.

Mammoth housing tract planned north of CSI

TWIN FALLS—Plans for a $15 million housing development north of the College of Southern Idaho campus were announced Monday night by Greater Idaho, Inc.

Plans were presented to the college's board of trustees during the regular meeting Monday night.

The development, which is expected to span the next five years, calls for an expenditure of about $2 million this year, according to Fred Frazier, president of Sierra Life, parent company of Greater Idaho.

He said the project is designed primarily for student housing and apartments for college faculty. That portion to be completed this year will be three multi-unit dwellings for 300 students. Construction is expected to start next month, Frazier said, and the dwellings are planned for completion for the fall semester.

At the northern edge of the project a "planned community" will be constructed. These dwellings will be sold, Frazier said.

First construction will be in the southwest section of the 80-acre plat and one-fourth of a complex will be built this year. A complex is 12 multi-unit dwellings surrounding an activity area.

Also included in the project, toward the western edge of the acreage, will be a service area, which will include those services most needed by residents of the project. This probably will include a barber and beauty shop. There also will be a health club at the site.

The structures will be modules built by Regal

Manufacturing Co. of Twin Falls. For 10 units there will be 20 modules hoisted into place by cranes, Frazier said.

He said Nilsen and Miller Construction Co. of Twin Falls will be the on-site contractor. The project has been designed by Bush-Wilson Architects of Boise and Newton and Schafer of Twin Falls is doing the engineering.

Frazier said it is planned to have students living in the complex under the same disciplinary regulations as those on campus.

Costs up sharply in month

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The cost of living for Americans spurted upward by 0.6 per cent in May, the biggest jump in 15 months, the government disclosed Monday.

The rise, after adjustments for seasonal factors, was mainly due to higher costs for clothing, postage, used cars and homes, the Labor Department said.

The increase last month in the consumer price index compared with advances over the first four months of the year of 0.3 per cent or less a month and represented bad news for the Nixon administration.

Without the seasonal adjustments, prices climbed 0.5 per cent in May, the highest rise since December. But when seasonal extremes were eliminated to present a more accurate picture of price trends, the rise was recorded at 0.6 per cent—the highest in 15 months.

Administration officials had cited the moderate January-through-April rises as evidence that inflation was being brought under control.

If prices had continued to rise at the pace established in the first months, the rate for the year would have been only about 3.5 per cent, smallest annual advance since 1967.

Troop ceiling voted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate voted Monday to impose a 2.5 million-man ceiling on total U.S. military personnel on active duty.

The level could be exceeded only by an act of Congress. But it would not apply to the activation of military reserves.

The action came on an amendment to the military draft bill by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., approved 78 to 0.

The amendment eliminated a loophole written by the Senate Armed Services Committee that permitted the President to exceed the ceiling in a national emergency without getting permission from Congress.

If enacted, it would represent the first time Congress has set specific statutory levels on the size of the armed forces. Appropriations bills enacted in the past have set outer limits on personnel strength, but have allowed the President great flexibility.

The Senate amendment requires force levels to be reduced by June 30, 1973 to 974,309 for the Army, 613,619 for the Navy, 269,846 for the Marine Corps and 755,635 for the Air Force. These are approximately the levels the administration had estimated it could achieve.

Russ asks chat with defector

LONDON (UPI)—The Soviet Embassy asked Monday for access to Anatoly Fedoseyev, a prominent Russian electronics engineer who fled to England last week. Britain refused unless Fedoseyev agreed.

Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Smirnovsky made the request in a meeting with Sir Dennis Greenhill, permanent under-secretary at the Foreign Office. Greenhill said the request would be conveyed to Fedoseyev but it would be up to him whether to see Soviet diplomats, a Foreign Office spokesman said.

The spokesman said Greenhill pointed out that Fedoseyev was free to contact the Soviet Embassy at any time.

It was the first official Soviet approach to Britain since Fedoseyev, 52, vanished three weeks ago while attending the Paris Air Show.

Death clues

MAP of Lower Goose Creek Reservoir where 8 people apparently drowned Sunday shows locations where two bodies were recovered, where the ill-fated boatload of people entered the water and where it was reportedly seen at about the time it capsized.

Possible witness found in 8 deaths

OAKLEY—A Burley woman who may have witnessed an unexplained accident Sunday in which eight Oakley residents were presumed drowned was on her way this morning to Lower Goose Creek Reservoir to assist in a search for bodies.

Louise Jones told Cassia County sheriff's officers that she was traveling on the Trapper Creek Road above the reservoir when she saw a boat capsize or just after it capsized. This is about one and a fourth miles from the area where the boat was launched Sunday afternoon.

Sheriff Ray Mitchell said he hopes the woman can help pinpoint a search area. Using the woman's information and that of Hyrum Craner, Oakley, who saw the boat take off, the sheriff hopes to be able to narrow down the search area in the seven-mile long by one-mile-wide reservoir.

He said information from the two area residents is the first lead available in the search for six bodies still missing. Two bodies, that of Mrs. Annette Goodline, 34, and her daughter, Tammy, 8, were found Sunday evening.

Searchers spent Monday at the reservoir until calling off the search at 9 p.m. Skin divers, searchers in boats and drag lines were used in the fruitless search Monday. More boats were reportedly needed. About 20 were at the scene Monday, but Sheriff Mitchell called for volunteers to assist in the search.

On Monday drag lines were operating at a depth of 50 feet. Today they are searching the main channel, which is 60 to 90 feet deep and drags have been extended to that depth. At the dam at the opposite end of the reservoir, depths range from 100 to 126 feet.

Still missing are Mrs. Goodline's husband, Andy Goodline, 44, and their son, Robby, 4; Harold Dibble, 55; Charles Qualls, about 40; James Shepherd, 44, and Raymond Moore, 60.

Bodies of two victims located Sunday night were reportedly burned by gasoline or chemicals.

Dr. Leslie Fillmore, Cassia County coroner, has been unavailable for comment since shortly after the mishap.

He was notified of the tragedy Sunday night, but did not go to the drowning site. He did confirm Monday, however, that the two bodies did have injuries.

The sheriff said his office had been unable to contact the coroner regarding whether or not autopsies will be held on the two bodies already located.

Water was calm when the accident occurred, Craner told officers. He saw the boating party launch the 15-foot fiberglass craft Sunday. He said the boat made a loop toward a tower, came back toward shore and the boat was traveling south when he last saw the boat about 1 p.m. Sunday.

He said the boaters were laughing and carrying on. There is almost no undercurrent in the lake. If Mrs. Jones' information is correct, the bodies and the boat should be in that general vicinity, divers said.

About 8 p.m. Monday one of the search boats located an oil slick at about 1 1/4 miles up the Goose Creek channel.

Searchers said the slick may have been from one of the search boats. Robert Parker, Rupert, one of the divers at the site, said it is possible since no oil slick has been found there may have been explosion.

During the search Monday a hat was found floating in the water. It is not known if the hat belonged to one of the missing men.

Sheriff Mitchell said he doesn't know what happened to the hat or to the body of a pet dog which was found Sunday.

Albert Anderson, one of the boat owners and also a partner in Anderson Brothers Co. ranch where the missing people were employed, told searchers the boat had sunk on a previous occasion.

He said on that occasion, the craft sank with the bow protruding upward. The boat sank because a plug was not put in the bottom of it. The boat had not been in the water for two years, Anderson said.

War foes try

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Four votes short of a majority, Senate war critics sought support today for a compromise plan designed to force an American withdrawal from Vietnam in nine months.

Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., led a bipartisan effort to set a deadline conditional on a firm agreement by North Vietnam to release U.S. prisoners of war. A 4 p.m. EDT vote was set on Cook's amendment to the draft bill.

The Cook amendment would cut off funds for U.S. combat in or over Vietnam nine months from the date of enactment of the draft extension bill.

T. F. Council launches public relations plan

TWIN FALLS—City officials in Twin Falls will launch a new approach to public relations and communications on Saturday. City Manager Jean Milar said today the council has set aside Saturday mornings from 9:30 a.m. to noon in which to be available to confer with citizens regarding any governmental problem or issue at the city level. Beginning this Saturday, Councilman Paul Ostyn will meet with the public in the informal session and possibly other members of the council will also be available. Milar said the proposal of the council is to rotate council members on the various Saturdays. He said this is part of the city's effort to maintain closer communication with the citizens of the town and to give them an opportunity to meet informally and ask questions or discuss city issues. Milar also announced a study of city public relations has been made by his office, resulting in a number of recommendations, many of which are already in practice and should be continued by all city employees. Milar said one of the recommendations is to give each complaint or question telephoned to the city hall by a local citizen full attention and follow-through. He said the employees should make every effort to find an answer for the individual and to call back with the information as soon as possible. In the case of crank calls or those from persons who refuse to identify themselves, courtesy and patience should be extended and if possible the problem will be handled. He said it is rare when an individual does not give their name and address that a complaint can be followed through. News media have access to any and all public records, meetings, statements and information, Milar said. He added the press shall be allowed interviews with the responsible city employees regarding any subject of public information. Young people are encouraged to attend city meetings and visit city offices and facilities. Such matters as open house and public demonstrations are encouraged for all departments. Milar said there is a great need for communication between the city employees, council and the public, explaining that this is the basis of the entire public relations program of the city.

Humphrey doubts LBJ sought to 'deceive' U.S. on war

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., said Monday he did not believe that former President Lyndon Johnson was "deceiving the American people" in his conduct of the Vietnam War. Humphrey called for full publication of secret Pentagon reports on Vietnam. Publication by "The New York Times and the Washington Post has been temporarily halted by federal courts. Speaking at a news conference at MacAlester College, Humphrey said the disclosures are "not going to be helpful" to his own career. But, he said, the papers should be printed in full, particularly those dealing with administrations before Johnson. He added that he felt the papers would not damage national security. Humphrey said he was "not privy" to President Johnson's Vietnam plans during his 1964 campaign for vice president and was not aware that the secret report was being made. However, he said he would not duck his share of the responsibility for the war. "If there is fault, we're all involved. Let's admit we made a mistake and get on with the business of the future." Humphrey proposed a joint congressional committee to study the Pentagon report and Vietnam involvement, preferably one headed by Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the Senate majority leader. Humphrey also called for congressional review of classification of government documents. Government officials, he said, often go overboard in keeping documents secret.

Postal unit modernizes 300 offices

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Postal Service announced Monday new mechanization plans for more than 300 post offices as another step to speed up mail deliveries. Postmaster General Winton Blount said the $22 million program, due for completion within a year, was in addition to a previously announced plan to install $133 million in fixed mechanization in new postal buildings. The program announced Monday includes four major classes of equipment to speed processing of first class letters and other systems to handle bulk mails and speed up other mail-handling jobs.

Militant faces test

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Black nationalist Ron Karenga, who was convicted of torturing two young women followers, was ordered Monday to undergo 60 days of psychiatric tests. Superior Court Judge Arthur Alarcon said he was unable to determine if Karenga, 30, was "mentally ill or has homicidal tendencies." "He's not the typical defendant to come before the court on what I consider an extremely serious case," the judge said. Karenga, the leader of a black nationalist group called "Us," was convicted of felony charges stemming from the torture of Deborah Jones and Gale Davis, both 20. Miss Jones testified Karenga was obsessed with the idea that they were trying to poison him.

Fire razes wood shed on farm

TWIN FALLS — Fire of undetermined origin demolished a wooden shed and its contents about noon Monday on the farm of Irvin E. Perry, on Washington Street North.

Nixon also ordered for the family dinner the First Lady's favorite shredded coconut cake. "I'll have a small piece," he said, "and she'll have a large piece. She doesn't have a weight problem."

The Chief Executive was winding up a long relaxed weekend at the Florida White House and prepared to fly back to Washington Tuesday after a stopover in Atlantic City, N.J. to address the American Medical Association's house of delegates convention.

Murphy outlined the new rules at a public hearing in the Statehouse. He said the older rules were acceptable when layoffs weren't "a very significant thing" but said they were "very difficult to administer" because the wording was "pretty broad."

By executive order, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus required a 10 per cent layoff, with the first five per cent reduction by October.

He made the surprise visit to the Nosegay Flower Shop in Key Biscayne after dropping in on the executive board meeting of the Teamsters Union at the Playboy Plaza in Miami.

The new point system will give each employe one point for each month of service, one point for each month of satisfactory service and one-half point for each month of exceptional service. Results will be published and those on the lower end will be the first to be terminated.

Perry said he had about $1,200 worth of dairy equipment and milking machines stored in the building. He said he had not used the equipment for several months and was storing it in the building. Several bales of straw were also housed in the building. Perry said he had just been in the vicinity of the building and had seen no signs of smoke when he was called from the adjoining field and told the small, frame building was burning.

Two Twin Falls City fire trucks answered the alarm but the building and contents were destroyed before the fire could be extinguished.

Treatment unit needs 'home'

By LORAYNE SMITH, Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS—Organization of a group planning to set up a rehabilitation and treatment center for alcoholics has been completed and the group needs only to find a suitable home for rent to put its plan into action, Ed Talbot, who heads a similar operation in Oxnard, Calif., told an interested audience here Monday night.

Talbot's speech, outlining the wide range of operation of the 12-Step Homes in Oxnard, climaxed a dinner meeting at the Holiday Inn which was in essence a testimonial—both as to the critical need for such facilities in Magic Valley by professional persons dealing with the problem and what such help can mean in the personal life of an alcoholic's family.

L. James Koutnik, who served as master of ceremonies, said the new rehabilitation center will be known as the "Magic Valley 12-Step House," and a 12-member board of directors, as well as an advisory board has been appointed.

Mr. and Mrs. Talbot have met throughout the past week with judges, clergymen, parole officer, doctors and others interested in such facilities, Talbot said. "These people are aware of the problem. Now it is up to the community to wake up." There are an estimated 3,000 alcoholics in Magic Valley, he said.

The magnitude of the alcoholic problem was put in perspective with the report there are nine million persons in the U. S. today who are termed alcoholics, and six million more with drinking problems, compared to 100,000 hard-drug users. This last figure has remained constant for some years, Koutnik said, while the alcoholic problem is growing yearly.

Magistrate Dan Meehl, Twin Falls, likened the problem to an iceberg, of which only 10 per cent is visible. He said many of the juvenile problems and adult petty crimes which come through his court stem from drinking problems in the families.

Most people ignore the social drinker and try to deal only with the more advanced stages when the person is medically sick and has withdrawal symptoms.

Nothing in the present court procedure lectures by the judge, fines or jail sentences—has any real effect on the problem drinker, the judge said, because it fails to deal with his basic problems. He said writing bad checks is a perfect example of the cause-effect syndrome with a tremendous number caused by drinking problems.

He said that having a treatment center would cut the number of such petty crimes and allow police to spend more time dealing with "hard crime."

Mrs. Talbot, in an emotion-packed but brief talk, stressed the importance of the family's part in helping to rehabilitate an alcoholic.

Describing the bleakness of having an alcoholic in the family and no place to turn for help, she said, "It is only by the grace of God people live through this experience."

An integral part of the Oxnard operation is having spouses and children of alcoholics help those facing the same problem.

Prosecuting Attorney Leon Smith said such a center would be of immense help to his office since there is now "no better way" than to prosecute and jail the alcoholics who are caught driving or commit crimes because of their drinking.

Darrell Gardner, state parole officer at Idaho Falls, described operation of a similar center. He said 150 men have been treated since the center opened in August, 1968, and he estimated 50 per cent success rate.

Such treatment centers are neither supported or opposed by Alcoholics Anonymous, Talbot stressed; but he said the Oxnard homes "borrow freely from the philosophy of AA whose track record of success cannot be disputed."

Bruce Glandon, Twin Falls, heads the advisory board for the Magic Valley 12-Step House.

Other members include Joe Clements, Bob Kroush, Judge Meehl, Clyde Cox, Buhl, Sherry Olson, Dave Richardson, Jim May, Royal Sloten, Harry Clark, John Wallace and Bob Magel.

Based on the successful Oxnard homes, the Magic Valley 12-Step House will begin with a detoxification program and include counselling and help with personal and economic problems, hopefully expanding to the many facets Talbot and his staff engage in at Oxnard. These include out-patient care, family counselling, vocational assistance, extensive education, program highway safety program, and classes in the public schools.

ON THE FIRST DAY of what promises to be a very hot summer, what could be better than playing in the snow? That's just what Mark Johnson, 11, with the shovel, and Jimmy Kuker, 9, both of Ironwood, Mich., are doing. The snow is left over from piles dumped by the city after a record 284 inches of snow deluged the area last winter. (UPI)

Disputed LID approved

TWIN FALLS—The Twin Falls City Council approved a resolution of intent to create a Local Improvement District along Falls Avenue East for paving and installation of curbs and gutters in Monday night's council meeting.

A public hearing on the controversial LID proposal was scheduled for July 6 at 8 p.m. in the City Hall.

A large contingent of Falls Avenue East residents attended the last council meeting, with several strong protests voiced against the LID concept.

Monday night's resolution of intent calls for paving and curb-and-gutter construction on Falls Avenue East only where such improvements do not already exist in the area between Blue Lakes Avenue North and Eastland Drive, and on small portions of Willmore, Spruce and Locust Street North.

Mayor Frank Feldtman told residents in the meeting two weeks ago that if property owners wish to contract for their own street improvements at their own expense, they could avoid the LID assessment.

In Monday night's meeting, Feldtman said that property owners will be assessed $1.50 per front foot along their property line for the paving where the street is being paved for the first time. This is in line with the city's policy of requiring property owners to share the costs of new paving, he said. Where the streets are already paved, but are being reconstructed there will be no paving assessment.

In other business the council approved a list of potential members of the board of appeals for the city's dangerous building code and authorized the planning and zoning board members to contact the persons listed for selection of five members and five alternate members.

This board will review any opposition to the enforcement of the dangerous building code in which buildings found to be unsafe for public use are to be demolished through Urban Renewal work or other means.

Council members approved a transfer of $15,000.28 from the Waterworks Bond Construction Fund to the Waterworks Fund for several needed improvements. Action was postponed pending further information and research, on a proposal for handling city prosecution through the city prosecutor's office.

Airport work set

TWIN FALLS—The Twin Falls City Council approved the bid of Bannock Paving Co., Pocatello, of $446,072 for reconstruction of the old runway section at the Twin Falls City-County Airport at the council meeting Monday night.

The bid had been approved earlier in the day by the Twin Falls County Commission.

The council will meet with representatives of the Federal Aviation Agency and the county commission at 4:30 p.m. next Monday to sign the contract with the federal agency.

Consulting engineer Dale Riedesel said a complex timetable allows 45 days for closure of the runway in a total of 70 working days, for completion of the contract. The 70-day span includes 10 days for preparation, 45 days for runway closure and 15 days of cleanup after the runway is reopened, Riedesel said.

The main east-west runway will be closed to all aircraft, while the north-south runway will allow Trans-Magic Airlines planes and other small aircraft to land. Only the Hughes Air West line will have to suspend service to the field during construction.

Work should begin in the near future, with the field scheduled to close about mid-July and reopen in September. All work is scheduled for completion by October 1, Riedesel said.

Two bids were received for the work. The second bid, from Lone Pine Construction Co., Kimberly, was slightly higher.

The council rejected a bid from Home Plumbing Co. of Twin Falls for a water system booster station. The $21,700 bid included about $10,000 for construction of a small building to house the pumping unit.

City Manager Jean Millar told the council he believed the bid was in line but the building construction boosted the amount over predictions. He said the city can afford to wait about two months when contractors will be "more interested in bidding."

Nixon congratulates new chief of powerful Teamsters Union

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—James R. Hoffa, serving a prison term for jury tampering, stepped down Monday as head of the two-million-member Teamsters Union and his longtime friend, Frank E. Fitzsimmons, was named to succeed him.

President Nixon, vacationing at nearby Key Biscayne, immediately drove to the labor meeting to congratulate the new leader of the international union and declared: "The door to my office is always open to President Fitzsimmons, and that's the way it should be."

A dissident teamsters group, headed by Don Vestal, president of local 327 of Nashville, Tenn., immediately denounced the realignment of leadership. Vestal told reporters in Washington that if Hoffa is freed from prison he will "be running" the forthcoming Teamsters convention at Miami Beach in July, and would be back in the top slot within 5 years.

Although the Teamsters announced Fitzsimmons had been installed as president, he technically was simply named as an interim head to serve until a new president is duly elected at the Miami Beach convention. He is, however, considered a cinch to win the office.

Vestal's group filed suit in federal court in Washington Monday asking for a delay in the convention, and further requested the union be turned over to a neutral receiver, or put in the hands of a three-man board made up of Vestal, Fitzsimmons and Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson.

Vestal told a news conference that Hoffa, as president, had no authority to delegate his powers to Fitzsimmons while in prison, and therefore all the official acts of Fitzsimmons as general vice president during the past four years were invalid.

The Nashville labor leader said his group was asking the court to delay the convention on the grounds that only Hoffa, not Fitzsimmons, had the power to call the convention and make all the arrangements.

He claimed the unexpected resignation of Hoffa and the election of Fitzsimmons to succeed him in Miami Beach Monday obviously were prompted by Vestal's plans to file the suit and done in an attempt to "make the convention legal."

"They found out what we were going to do today," Vestal vice president during the past four years were invalid.

The suit also asked that the next election of union officers be by referendum of all the union members, and not by delegates to a convention.

U.S. District Court Judge June L. Green set a hearing for the next Monday at 4 p.m. on Vestal's petition.

It's The Nixon Syndrome

WASHINGTON — When a young freshman Republican Congressman returned from Vietnam in mid-April with a horrifying story of massive heroin addiction among American troops, he was met by icy irritation from the White House — thereby underlining a political failure that has always bedevilled the Nixon administration. In fact, the new anti-heroin program unveiled at the White House Thursday (June 17) stemmed directly from revelations of Rep. Robert Steele of Connecticut. But before that happy point was reached, the 32-year-old first-termer, a Republican moderate, was subjected to the same old mode of operations by President Nixon's staff which has disheartened so many Republican politicians. Steele's experience is a case study of the Nixon syndrome: the isolation of the President, the arrogance of much of his staff, the White House fetish for secrecy, and the Administration's inexplicable refusal to put its best foot forward. Actually, the Nixon administration has been vigorously working on the drug problem for two and one-half years under the guidance of John Ehrlichman's domestic policy staff at the White House. But nothing much was getting through to the increasingly anxious public or Congress thanks to the secrecy mania and the Teutonic fastidiousness of the Ehrlichman staff. Moreover, the White House had been sitting on a secret certain to sicken the American public: beginning in December 1969 heroin addiction among American troops in Vietnam steadily rose toward epidemic proportions. Typically, instead of putting this problem before the public, the White House tried to cover it up. So pervasive was the heroin traffic among Vietnam GIs, however, that some journalist or visiting Congressman was bound to be hit in the face with it. That was precisely what happened when ex-CIA agent Steele and another first-year Congressman, 39-year-old Chicago Democrat Morgan Murphy, visited Vietnam. They returned to Washington convinced that the profusion of cheap high-grade heroin in Vietnam was magnifying the national drug crisis in a truly terrifying way. Even then, the White House could have recouped. Steele, a loyal Republican, was not about to attack his own President. Mr. Nixon could have exploited the energy and initiative of a freshman Congressman and, in the process, give the impression of forceful prosecution of the problem. But he did not do such thing. At this writing, the President has not even conferred with Steele. Nor has Ehrlichman. Instead, the Congressman was shunted off to two young members of Ehrlichman's staff: Egil (Bud) Krogh, Jr., 31, Ehrlichman's deputy, and Jeffrey Donfeld, 28, a specialist on drug problems. Krogh and Donfeld greeted Steele's revelations with a posture of boredom and indifference, the hauteur that has made the Ehrlichman staff unloved on Capitol Hill. Donfeld, in particular, confronted Steele in a mood of now, now, my boy, we don't need your advice. Furthermore, Mr. Nixon tried to minimize the impact of Steele's revelations. At his press conference June 2, the President suggested addiction of Vietnam troops was merely part of the nation drug problem — ignoring this harsh fact inherent in Steele's report: soldiers returning home as heroin addicts would have never been introduced to the drug had they not gone to Vietnam. Both this position by the President and the coolness of his staff toward Steele stem from their awareness that the Vietnam heroin story provides powerful propaganda to the antiwar campaign for a precipitous troop pullout from Vietnam and further undermines diminished faith in the nation's armed services. To cope with this, the White House characteristically pretended it did not exist. Beyond this, staffers Krogh and Donfeld, having worked night and day on the drug problem, were genuinely irritated by a very junior Congressman who had become a 24-hour expert. In so doing, they again betrayed the exasperation of the White House with the legislative branch and its dim realization that Congress exists as a coordinate branch of government. Within the last few weeks, more politically experienced Presidential aides (including counselor Donald Rumsfeld, an ex-Congressman) stepped in to take a more conciliatory position with Steele. As a result, Steele, though still chilled by his treatment at the White House, has nothing but praise publicly for the President and his comprehensive new program announced Thursday. But in the Republican cloakroom, the real story is well known and once again betrays to all how shockingly little the White House has learned about the trade of politics.

On Swimming

In Twin Falls the big concern at the swimming pool in Harmon Park is to warm up the water so more youngsters — and adults — will use it. This is to be accomplished this swimming season. In Jackson, Miss., the situation is different. Result is that everyone hears of the Jackson pool but the Twin Falls pool is mute nationally. Why?

Well a controversial 5-4 decision by the Supreme Court has held that Jackson authorities may close public swimming pools rather than integrate them. While dissenters complained, the decision turned the plot back on integration and encouraged "apartheid." The ruling appears to be a victory for common sense.

The court upheld the city's argument that "the pools were closed because the city council felt they could not be operated safely and economically on an integrated basis."

Now all the citizens of Jackson are denied municipal swimming pools until there is assurance that the possibility of violence is removed. The situation is not unlike that which would come if a dangerous poison were present in the water. Bigotry and racism do exist and could be equally fatal. Free swimming is not worth a single life, black or white. Justice Thurgood Marshall, a negro, dissented along with three other justices. He held that to deny a negro child the opportunity to go swimming simply because he is a negro is to deny the rights guaranteed under the 14th amendment. "The fact that the color of his skin is used to prevent others from swimming in public schools is irrelevant," Marshall said.

In the majority opinion, Justice Hugo L. Black, whose record is liberal, held that closing was not unconstitutional because blacks and whites were treated equally.

The pools, four restricted to whites and one reserved for blacks, were closed after a District Court ruled they could not remain segregated, a decision not challenged. Blacks sought to force reopening on an integrated basis. Justice Black made it plain that the decision did not open any doors to segregation.

The pools will reopen in time and on an integrated basis. Jackson citizens can hasten the day by getting rid of the rotten remains of racism. Meanwhile, like we said, we will be swimming in warm water in Twin Falls and the pool will be open.

Nothing New

A school survey indicates that high grades and high IQs do not necessarily go together. This discovery merely supports an old-fashioned theory.

It is that brains aren't worth much if they aren't used and that there is no better recipe for success, in school or out, than hard work.

MR. SPECTATOR

Mistake, Perhaps?

Next time you are out on the highway and roaring down the road at a speed much faster than you should be going, Mr. Spectator suggests that you think over a few of the facts connected with the automobile.

It was on Sept. 21, 1893 that American's first successful gasoline-engine motor vehicle was in operation in Springfield, Mass. Shortly thereafter a national good roads movement sparked by cycling enthusiasts prompted establishment of the U.S. Office of Road Inquiry under the Department of Agriculture. This later became the bureau of public roads.

Well, the need for roads grew and grew and the first unit of highway construction authorized under the Federal Aid Road Act of 1916 was completed on January, 30 from Richmond to the Alameda County line in California. The 2.55 mile road was built at a cost of $53,938.85, of which federal aid totaled $24,244.56.

That was the start of the federal road building stint. Was it a mistake? Mr. Spectator will let you judge that one for yourself.

Here's the story: The newly invented car and the expansion of the highway system created a side effect which was not expected. This was the traffic accident.

Henry H. Bliss, a 68-year-old real estate broker who lived in New York around the turn of the century, is a case in point. On a sunny afternoon in September, 1899, he caught the 8th Avenue trolley from his Wall Street office. He got off at the corner of Central Park West and 74th Street.

As Bliss was helping a companion off the trolley, an electric cab, one of the earliest automobiles, struck him, causing severe head and chest injuries. The next day he died in New York's Roosevelt Hospital.

He became the first recorded traffic fatality in the United States.

Now, in 1969, an estimated 56,400 people lost their lives as a result of automobile mishaps. In addition there were two and one-half million people injured. In dollar terms the damage climbed above the $12 billion mark. We can expect 85,000 deaths by traffic accidents by 1980.

So there you have it. Even in Idaho we kill people on the highways. We killed 323 people in 1970. We have killed 1,499 in the past five years. We kill pedestrians, too. We killed 34 in 1970. We killed 140 in the past five years. And for each pedestrian killed we have injured over eight.

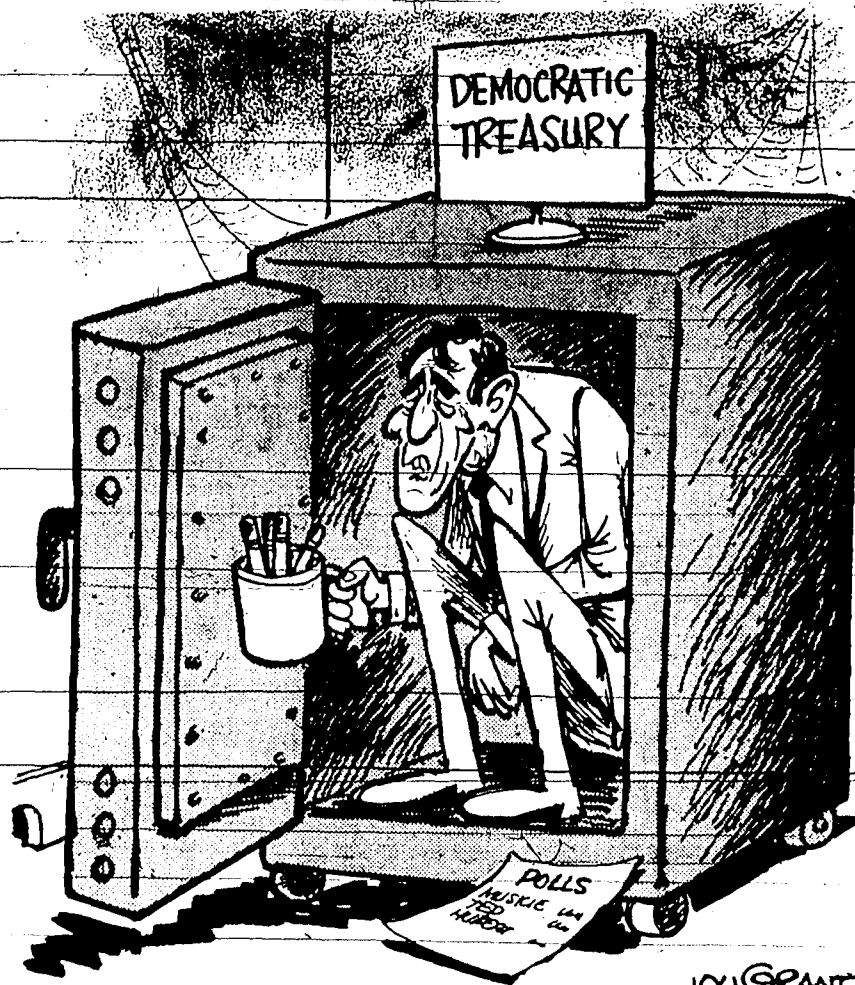

So that's the way it stands.

We complain about our involvement in war. We complain the sky is becoming full of airplanes. So what do we do? We climb into our car and drive on — not caring that more people die because of this car than all the wars put together.

Mr. Spectator hopes you have a nice trip.

ROBERT ALLEN & JOHN GOLDSMITH Arms Priority

WASHINGTON — The opening of a new round of criticism suggests that time is beginning to run out on the Nixon Administration's grand design for a lasting peace settlement to quiet the volatile Middle East.

Hope for a comprehensive agreement between Israel and the Arab states, along lines indicated by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, has been all but abandoned. Efforts have focused, in recent weeks, on negotiating an interim arrangement for reopening the Suez canal.

Even that limited objective now seems to be seriously imperiled, however. More and more the United States — like many another would-be peacemaker — is emerging as the man-in-the-middle, whose actions displease all the hostile parties in the long and complex dispute.

Egypt's President Anwar Sadat implicates the United States in the occupation of Arab lands as he renews the call for extermination of Israel, the Jewish state. Mrs. Golda Meir, the Israeli prime minister, chides the United States for foot-dragging on Israel's arms requests.

Rogers and his State Department aides, euphoric after the secretary's trip to the Middle East, seem to be persuaded that they are weaning Sadat away from warlike ambitions. Events seem to confirm their optimistic view when Sadat's purge of the Cairo government includes A. Li Sabry, the most pro-Russian member of his inner circle.

Then the blow falls: Sadat, after exorcising the Sabry influence, signs a 15-year treaty with the Soviet which seems more and more alarming to analysts here as its public provisions are subjected to close scrutiny.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., long a supporter of aid to Israel, opened a new campaign against the administration's policies in a little noticed Boston speech this week. More of the same is in prospect from Jackson and from other critics.

"The Soviet Union, by signing the new 15-year treaty with Egypt (one or more protocols to which remain secret), has firmly established a base from which to extend Russian influence throughout the Middle East," Jackson declared in his speech at a fund raising dinner for Israel.

"This latest development in a long process of increasing Soviet influence in the Middle East is yet another indication — if one were needed — that the State Department effort to wear Egypt away from the Soviet Union by pressuring Israel is a dismal failure," the Senator said.

"Far from driving the Russians and Egyptians apart, our State Department's irresolution has enabled the Soviets to cement their hold on Egypt with an international treaty, and unwittingly helped to establish there a Trojan Horse that threatens our vital interests in the strategic Middle East."

Jackson called on the State Department to "face reality and recognize that the central issue in the Middle East is not the Arab-Israeli dispute but the continuing penetration of the Soviet Union in an area toward which Russia has had historic ambitions dating back to Catherine the Great."

RAY CROMLEY

Concerned

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "Violations of labor discipline" are now so widespread in the U.S.S.R. that authorities from Leonid Brezhnev down are deeply concerned about economic repercussions.

Their worry is over the sharp increase in labor dissent, corruption, petty pilfering, parasitism, embezzlement, sloppy work and, a cynical, don't-care attitude on the part of many workers.

These conclusions show up in Washington analyses of the proceedings of the 24th Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and associated party congresses in the major Soviet bloc countries.

The Brezhnev solution: Much stricter enforcement of the laws, to crack down on the "nonproducers" and a wider role for the political police in economic "crimes." Party men will have greater authority in individual plants.

At the various Soviet republic congresses, every first secretary without exception emphasized law and order, as did many of the speakers at the 24th congress.

In these talks, law and order was seen as a principal means of enforcing stricter labor discipline.

Though in the past there has been much talk in the Western press of greater liberalization for Soviet industry, more independence for local plant managers and increasing influence of the "market place," these themes were not evident in Brezhnev's words.

Instead, he talked of the need for more centralized planning, more controls, more police and party enforced factory discipline, more supervision by government and party bureaucracy.

Despite the optimistic speeches at the 24th congress, the official figures presented showed that there will be a marked lowering of economic objectives over the next five years as compared with the five years just past.

Despite lip service to the needs of the people and the importance of consumer goods, the figures presented show that the real per capita income of the working population is planned to increase at an even lower rate in the next half decade than in the 1966-70 period.

Economically, the major emphasis over the next five years will be as in the past: Defense and investment will get the same lion's share. No major shift is seen.

In investment, the major drives will be in agriculture (one-fourth of total investment funds over the 1971-75 period), electric power generation, the chemical and petrochemical industry, machine building, instrument making, automation, computers and equipment for mechanizing operations requiring considerable manpower.

These are, in the main, the areas in which the Soviet Union is lagging farther and farther behind the United States.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Kidney Cyst

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a cyst on one of my kidneys. Is it necessary to remove it promptly or can it be left alone for a time?

Is it likely to enlarge quickly? The X-ray showed the cyst to be about the same size as the kidney.

Is there any medicine that will reduce it in size? In an operation, is all of the kidney removed or just part of it? — K. A. E.

A cyst can occur in a gland or other organ that secretes material of some other kind. If the outlet becomes plugged, the material cannot escape, and the gland or organ enlarges.

In the kidneys, there may be a single cyst, or a number of smaller ones. The average kidney is about as big as your clenched fist, so if your cyst is really as large as the kidney, that's a pretty large one.

There is no medicine that will reduce a cyst's size; a cyst tends to enlarge (although the speed of this is not totally predictable, it is slow).

Such a cyst isn't necessarily removed "just because it is there," but it is a sufficiently involved matter that you'd best be guided by your physician's advice.

As a cyst enlarges, it may not bother you — and then again it may. Headache is a common symptom of a kidney cyst. The cyst may grow until it is an obvious mass in the abdomen and cause enough crowding to create discomfort. There may be bleeding from a cyst, which can contribute to anemia. Finally, a cyst can become infected.

Ordinarily surgery deals with removal of the cyst, not the kidney, but this is a question that must be answered on the basis of further information, particularly evaluation of the kidney itself. If it is functioning adequately, why remove it? If it is not functioning, then why leave it to be a threat of further trouble?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am supposed to have an injured disk in my neck and have been taking chiropractor treatments for years. At first the treatments seemed to help, but the last few treatments didn't help at all. What do you think of chiropractors? Do they do any good or is it just believing that you have been helped? — E. H.

What I think isn't as important as what the facts are. The law specifies that chiropractors are not allowed to give medicine, nor to do any surgery — which means they must not even puncture the skin.

That leaves them little to use for "treatments" except manipulation of bones and muscles, vitamins, diet, etc. From those facts, and your experience, can't you draw your own conclusion without asking me to give you any blueprints?

Distaff protest has little bite

By United Press International
Women with "a little will power" protested the longest war in the nation's history on the longest day of the year Monday by spending no money in several cities. But it was business as usual at most stores.

A check of stores in Detroit, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Milwaukee, Philadelphia and other cities showed the moratorium on spending organized by Women Uniting Against the War (WUAW) seemed to be having little, if any, effect on business.

"I consider the absolute truth is that we did not have enough time—six weeks is not enough time—to make this as national as we would have liked to have made it," said Mrs. Torry Harburg of Ann Arbor, Mich., one of the organizers of WUAW. "This one is really for beginners." She said the group already is organizing a similar boycott Sept. 21 and "We'll have many more people participating."

Merchants and even some women peace activists said they had not even heard of the boycott, which began taking shape in May when Mrs. Harburg and other University of Michigan faculty wives adopted the idea after noting a Gallup Poll which showed 78 per cent of the nation's women wanted all U.S. troops out of Vietnam by the end of the year. "I don't know why they are trying to pick on the retailers. We have no influence in Washington," said J. P. Hansen president of the Lit Brothers department store in Philadelphia, which reported no drop in shopping volume.

Two of the largest retail stores in the greater Boston area withdrew about $50,000 in advertising from the Boston Globe in an apparent protest over an ad calling for the moratorium in shopping.

Rioting jolts Georgia

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI)—A policeman who killed a black robbery suspect was relieved of duty Monday but officers doubled patrols in violence-torn Negro areas against a third night of "gangsterism and outlaws."

While vandalism and fire-bombing racked the city early Monday, Patrolman Lauris A. Jacks shot and killed 20-year-old Willie J. Osborne when he fled from officers questioning him about a robbery.

Safety Director Joseph Sargis said Jacks, who is white, was relieved of duty pending the outcome of an investigation into the shooting. He said it had nothing to do with the street violence, but would not comment on what effect it might have on the troubles.

Sargis said Osborne was shot early Monday when he fled police who had stopped him for questioning about a grocery store robbery. Jacks fired two warning shots, then fired directly at Osborne when he failed to stop, Sargis said.

The violence apparently stems from black protests over the firing of 13 black police officers, dismissed when they ripped American flag patches off their uniforms in a Memorial Day protest over alleged racial discrimination on the police force.

Sizzling day ushers summer in

By United Press International
Sunny skies and warm temperatures over most of the nation ushered in the summer season Monday, the longest day of the year.

Except for scattered thunderstorms in parts of the Northeast, the Ohio River Valley and in Texas, skies were clear and mid-afternoon temperatures approached the 90s at numerous locations.

However, a cold front brought cool weather to the Pacific Northwest and relieved a week of hot humid weather in the Upper Mississippi Valley.

Ahead of the cold front scattered showers and thunderstorms brought moderate to heavy rainfall to parts of the Northeast with Albany, N.Y., recording .98 inches of rain in six hours.

A severe thunderstorm watch was in effect for most of Maine, most of New Hampshire, a small portion of Vermont and extreme northeast Massachusetts. Another severe thunderstorm watch was in effect for portions of Tennessee, Kentucky, Southeast Ohio, Southern West Virginia and a small portion of Southwest Virginia.

Not really angry

THE FIERCE FROWN on the face of Mrs. Torry Harburg of Ann Arbor, Mich., isn't really as bad as it looks, she insists. Mrs. Harburg is an organizer of the "Women Uniting to End the War" movement which conducted an abortive moratorium on spending in several cities on Monday. She does mean what she says, however, she told newsmen. (UPI)

'Music' event okayed

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—A federal judge Monday ordered Louisiana health officials and promoters of the "Celebration of Life" festival to work out a compromise so the eight-day rock concert could begin.

The order by U.S. District Court Judge E. Gordon West came at the end of an all-day hearing in which promoters of the festival had tried to dissolve a state court injunction against the gathering.

At the site of the rockfest on a plantation near McCrea, La., young workers were building their festival stage. Gov. John J. McKeithen ordered a National Guard unit on standby alert to backstop state police and deputies of Pointe Coupee Parish in patrolling the area.

After West ordered a compromise aimed at the issuance of a health permit allowing the festival to begin, attorneys for both sides plus festival engineers and state health officials began discussing arrangements for the event.

Sheriff's deputies and state police blockaded the site Saturday and part of Sunday, forbidding food and water from being sent inside. As the blockade was enforced, a monumental traffic jam built up along roads for miles around as law officers prevented festivalgoers from entering the grounds.

Nixon names collector of taxes

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI)—President Nixon Monday named Johnnie M. Walters, a South Carolina tax expert now serving as an assistant U.S. attorney general, to be commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service.

He will succeed Randolph W. Thrower, who resigned last January.

Walters, 51, was named assistant attorney general in charge of the tax division by President Nixon in 1969. Previously he practiced law in Greenville, S.C.

Cubans jailed by U.S.

EGLIN AFB, Fla. (UPI)—Four Cubans convicted of fishing illegally in U.S. territorial waters have been transferred to the minimum security federal prison here to serve out their six-month sentences.

A federal marshal said Monday that the four were taken from the Monroe County Jail in Key West to this Air Force base in the northwest Florida Panhandle.

The marshal said the four would be sent back to Cuba after serving their sentences. The four, ranging in age from 19 to 23, were convicted in Monroe County Circuit Court on June 9 and sentenced to pay $10,000 in fines each and serve six months in prison.

The Cuban government denounced the sentences and seized 18 Americans on similar charges on illegally entering Cuban waters. Five of the 18 Americans have been brought to trial before Cuban revolutionary tribunals.

Cable-car mishap kills workman

ELECTRON, Wash. (UPI)—A cable car carrying 25 to 30 men from work at a power plant broke loose from its line Monday, spilling them down a 75-foot cliff on the side of Mt. Ranier. At least one man was killed and about 15 others injured.

"We don't know how it broke free," said a spokesman for the Pierce County sheriff's office. "All we know right now is that it came down the side of a mountain."

He said one body had been recovered and there were "at least 13, maybe 15 injured" who were being taken to hospitals in helicopters and ambulances.

Senate votes youth crime study fund

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Monday passed and sent to the House a bill to extend and expand the program of federal aid to fight juvenile delinquency.

Under the bill, the Department of Justice and Health, Education and Welfare are authorized to make grants-in-aid to local government and private agencies involved in research and rehabilitation programs.

The bill would authorize appropriations of $75 million for the business year beginning July 1. Appropriations for the current fiscal year totaled $15 million.

simultaneously "locked" two telescopes in the station's observatory on the star Alpha Lyrae to measure its ultraviolet radiation, the Tass news agency said.

"The simultaneous operation of the telescopes is aimed at obtaining spectrograms of the ultraviolet radiation of stars in two different ranges of the spectrum," Tass said.

"The accurate and coordinated work of station commander Georgi Dobrovolsky and flight engineer Vladislav Volkov on the station's orientation to preset stars largely contributed to the success of the operation."

Studies of primary cosmic gamma radiation were continued as the cosmonauts neared the 18-day spaceflight endurance record set June 19, 1970.

The Soyuz 11 trio aboard Salyut rocketed into space June 6 and entered the station the next day. The Soyuz 11 transport ship, docked in Salyut's nose, will return the cosmonauts to earth.

If all goes well, they will break the Soyuz 9 endurance record at 12:54 a.m. Thursday. Soyuz 9 was in flight 424 hours, 58 minutes and 50 seconds.

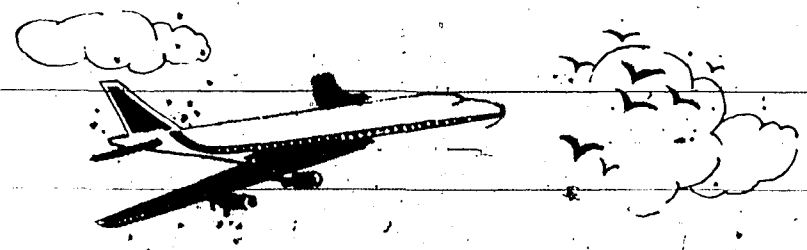

Tass said the cosmonauts continued to feel well and conducted another round of medical research. They exercise at least two and one-half hours daily to ward off the debilitating effects of prolonged weightlessness.

Nader says Lockheed loan offers precedent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ralph Nader and three economists told the Senate Monday the nation would be better off with Lockheed bankruptcy than with enactment of a "foot-in-the-door" bill to save the aviation and defense giant from collapse.

They argued that if Lockheed, the country's 33rd largest corporation, received special protection from Congress other firms would soon line up looking for relief and the free enterprise system would not long function to weed out the inefficient and reward the efficient.

All testified before the Senate

Banking Committee in opposition to the Nixon administration bill to guarantee repayment of a $250 million bank loan which Lockheed needs to ward off bankruptcy and complete work on its TriStar jetliner, a plane intended to compete with the McDonnell-Douglas DC10.

"The carrot and the stick of profits and losses are the goals that keep business and our economy efficient and productive," testified Thomas G. Moore, a Michigan State University economics professor.

"It would be a pity if we went down the path that the British followed just when they have learned the hard lesson that the stick of losses is necessary as well as the carrot of profits."

Nader and his associate, James Welch, said Lockheed demonstrated a "galling" attitude in refusing, for competitive reasons, in giving the Senate committee full data about the firm's finances and future prospects.

Also opposing the bill were economists Alan Greenspan, the head of a consulting firm, and Robert Weintraub, of the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Nader and Welch contended that the economy cannot support more than one major manufacturer of commercial airliners.

Airlines, they said, cannot afford to buy as many new jets as are turned out by the industry but are forced to buy them to remain competitive. This pressure, they predicted, would lead to mergers and curb competition in the airline industry.

Even with help now, Lockheed inevitably will be back asking for assistance in the future, the two consumer advocates said. "Clearly, the grant of a loan guarantee to Lockheed now is the foot-in-the-door which will inevitably lead to a federal underwriting of its activities," they said in a 4,300-word statement of opposition.

In arguing for the bill, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said two weeks ago it was necessary to avoid harm to the economy, to assure continued technological advances

Cities said utilizing 'Horse-buggy' methods

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American cities are using horse-and-buggy methods to perform municipal services that could be provided better and cheaper with the help of space-age technology.

That's the thrust of an amply-documented report from the Urban Institute on "the struggle to bring technology to cities."

It says "archaic technology" is running up the cost of nearly everything city governments do — from collecting trash and removing snow to fighting fires and controlling traffic.

Consider this one fact: "The hand-held broom is still a basic tool of street sanitation — long after the invention of the vacuum cleaner."

Scottsdale Plan Works

The fast-growing city of Scottsdale, Ariz., is cited in the report as an example of the enormous savings that might be realized through application of modern technology to urban services.

Scottsdale discovered that picking up trash from residences was costing the city an average of $1.80 per family per month. And 70 per cent of this cost stemmed from the large amount of manual labor required for the task.

Each refuse truck needed a driver and four other laborers, who would jump off at each stop to hand-load the contents of trash cans into the truck. This is the method used in most American cities.

powerful hydraulic "arm." The truck requires only a one-man crew, the driver. The cost of the equipment, including free containers for homes, came to just over half the first year's savings in operating costs.

Water Flow Doubled

Imaginative use of modern technology can improve the quality as well as reduce the cost of urban services. New York City is equipping 100 of its fire trucks with new apparatus which injects into water a special polymer chemical that can nearly double the amount of water that can flow through a fire hose of given diameter.

This means firemen can use smaller and lighter hoses, which can be deployed much more rapidly than the old-fashioned heavy hoses.

The federal government is financing development of a prototype computerized traffic control system which will be tried out in Washington, D.C. If it really speeds traffic, instead of tying up the capital in the kind of jam only a computer could devise, other cities may adopt it.

Suspect may be put in hospital

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Ailing mass murder suspect Juan V. Corona may be transferred to the San Quentin Prison hospital because of his heart problems, Sheriff Roy D. Whiteaker said Monday night.

Whiteaker said a decision would be reached Wednesday or Thursday after hospital tests are examined by several doctors.

Meanwhile, the attorney for Corona filed a motion in Yuba Judicial District Court seeking to remove Judge J. J. Hankins from the case on grounds he was "prejudiced against the interests of the defendant."

The motion was filed with the court's clerk, and there was no immediate action by Hankins. Under the state's civil procedure code, the defendant may automatically disqualify a judge he believes is prejudiced against him. The matter is then referred to the California Judicial Council. Whiteaker told newsmen that Corona would continue to undergo intense examination in the hospital at least until Wednesday.

Economy growth seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration could spur the economy back to full employment before next year's election — possibly by advancing already scheduled income tax cuts — without generating much more inflation than is likely anyway, a University of Chicago economist said Sunday.

Robert J. Gordon, writing for the prestigious Brookings Institution, said there is little to be gained in terms of lower prices and much to be lost in terms of jobs from government austerity intended to beat inflation.

The 239-page current issue of the three-times-a-year "Brookings Papers on Economic Activity," is filled with reasons for the administration to junk what is left of its anti-inflation program and try to stimulate the economy back to full employment.

Arthur M. Okun, co-editor of the Brookings Papers and chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers in the Johnson administration, told newsmen he could see no evidence that President Nixon would heed the advice to step up efforts to stimulate the economy out of last year's recession.

Some white House political strategists have warned the President that unless the jobless rate is brought down sharply by next summer, his chances for re-election will be damaged severely. They claim unemployment is more politically damaging than inflation.

'Secretive' practices of banks condemned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ralph Nader says banks in the United States, largely because of secretive practices, are beyond government regulation.

"Secrecy breeds ignorance, disinterest and despair on the part of those citizens who are adversely affected from various abstract levels of abuse by irregular, discriminatory or predatory banking behavior," Nader said Sunday in the introduction of a 547-page study of the First National City Bank (Citibank) of New York.

Citibank, with $26 billion in assets and more than 830 branches in New York and 820 foreign countries, is the second largest bank in the United States. Bank of America with $28 billion in assets ranks first.

The report by a Nader task force headed by David Leinsdorf, a former government antitrust lawyer, alleged that "as far as the regulatory process is concerned, the large banks are, in a word, autonomous."

Walter B. Wriston, chairman of Citibank, said the Nader report would be given "careful consideration."

But Wriston said the "painstakingly detailed" study "is unfortunately based on serious misconceptions about the proper role of the banking system and a frightening cynicism about other peoples' ethics."

Leinsdorf said the study concentrated on Citibank because it was the largest in New York and one of the most aggressive of the money market banks.

Tires blow as huge jet hits ground

TOKYO (UPI) — A landing-gear shaft snapped and six tires blew out on a Northwest Airlines 250-seat Boeing 747 jumbo jet Sunday as it was taxiing for takeoff en route to Honolulu and San Francisco. Nobody was hurt or even shaken up.

But the 216 people aboard — 11 crew members and 205 passengers — were stranded until Monday's flight, since their original flight had been the last one of the day.

Departure already had been delayed an hour when the 747 finally began rolling. But it had gone only 1,500 feet toward the main runway when the six wheel tires blew out.

Airport officials found that one of the landing gear shafts on the left side had broken.

The big plane was pulled into a repair hanger. An investigation was begun immediately.

'Fed' rules crimp economy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon is relying on a plentiful supply of money and credit to fuel the business expansion he needs to make good on his promise of a "very good year" for the economy in 1972.

But while Nixon probably is the single most powerful man in the world, he does not have the legal authority to achieve his goal by himself. He must look instead to the highly independent Federal Reserve system.

There is growing evidence that the Fed—as it is often called—is about to tighten money policy to head off new inflation. The side effects could be higher interest rates and a slower rate of recovery from last year's recession.

The Fed is as little known to the average citizen as the Geneva Gold Exchange, yet it plays a crucial role in the economy. A governmental agency with private stockholders, it is controlled by political appointees who, once in office, traditionally shun politics.

It is headed by a seven-member board of governors appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate for 14-year terms. Members cherish their independence, sometimes taking positions that surprise and even distress the president who appointed them.

Next in the Fed hierarchy come the 12 Federal Reserve banks in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Dallas and San Francisco. The banks are privately owned by the more than 6,000 commercial banks which are members of the Federal Reserve system. But the rights of their stockholders are severely limited.

The commercial banks pick six of the nine members of the board of trustees of each of the 12 regional banks. The board of governors in Washington picks the other three, including the chairman and vice chairman. Technically, the board of trustees of each regional bank picks its own president. But the choices again must be approved in Washington.

The Fed has three main tools for controlling money supply: The rediscount rate, reserve requirements and open market operations.

Open market operations are governed by a 12-member federal Open Market Committee. The committee includes the seven members of the board of governors and the president of the New York Federal Reserve Bank as permanent members. The presidents of the other 11 banks rotate the remaining four seats.

Italian elections evince weariness

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
The political heirs of former Italian dictator Benito Mussolini have won their greatest election victory. But the win portended no new blackshirt march on Rome. Rather it was an expression of Italian weariness—weariness with politicians in general, with violence, labor unrest, rising crime rates and economic stagnation.

These were local elections to name city councils in Rome and other cities and in Sicily to select a regional assembly. The neo-Fascists had campaigned on a law-and-order platform and nearly everywhere they rolled up impressive gains.

Nursing program awarded funds from government

POCATELLO (UPI) — The Idaho state nursing program has received a $150,386 award from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Dr. Vernon Lestrud, director of development and institutional research at ISU, said Saturday the money will enable the school to continue to offer its five-year baccalaureate nursing curriculum.

not enough to cause Premier Emilio Colombo's center-left coalition to lose control of major power centers but enough in some areas to make the margin dangerously slim. Less than expressing a desire for a return of fascism, what Italian voters had done was to express a strong protest against a government paralyzed by its own inner jealousies and tensions.

Crime Rate Protested
It also was a protest against a rising crime rate. A wave of robberies and murders had led to a groundswell of demands for re-establishment of the death penalty, abolished after the fall of fascism.

In addition, there was a feeling that the politicians simply could not cope with the enormous problems facing them.

Within the government, the political parties warred for such important plums as control of the oil and gas authority, the state radio and television monopoly and the largest investment bank.

Amid the turbulence and uncertainty, it was a fact that most Italians never had had it so good.

SHOSHONE — The summer firefighting crew of the Shoshone office of the Bureau of Land Management is undergoing training this week, according to Wallace Fixsen, fire control officer.

He said the 50-man crew is learning fire fighting techniques and the use of fire fighting equipment.

Sunday a five-man crew was called to a fire near Bliss. Fixsen said about 40 acres of brush and grass along the railroad tracks were burned. The fire began about 4 p.m. and the tanker crew was back in Shoshone at 8 p.m.

A "SNEEZE-PROOF" grain sniffer is demonstrated by Edward Witosky, chief grain inspector for Cargill, Inc., Chicago. He devised the glass tube for federal, state and private grain-inspecting agencies. It keeps the inspector's nose five inches from the dusty grain and isolates a particular area from surrounding odors. Since Biblical times, inspectors have thrust their noses into grain samples to determine presence of sour or musty odors, indicating bad quality. (UPI)

Irishmen deemed 'escapist' types

DUBLIN (UPI) — Irishmen are escapist who like to dodge problems—like getting married when they can, or to drown them in alcohol when they can't.

These harsh judgments come from the National Medico-Social Research Board on the basis of a study of Irish social habits.

"A much clearer understanding of the economic and social sickness of Irish society is becoming apparent," the board said in its annual report.

"These sicknesses suggest that the main problems of life have been avoided rather than faced."

In one of its few happy notes, the board said it found the drug problem in Ireland was a relatively minor one. "Only 4.9 per cent of a cross-section of Dublin schoolchildren over the age of 16 have tried drugs," it said. "And at present the problem of drug usage by Dublin post-primary schoolchildren appears to be small."

It said that Irishmen had founded a "unique method" of population control—they simply did not get married, or, if cellibacy was not possible, by late marriages.

"Excessive time off work, often because of psychological illness and dependence on the blunting effect on the consciousness of alcohol, are other forms of escape," the report said.

It noted that almost one fifth of Ireland's spending power goes on alcohol and tobacco.

"Not only does this deflect wealth from improving our environment, but it also contributes to much absenteeism from work and causes a large proportion of the admissions to our general and psychiatric hospitals," the report said.

The report said that Irishmen had a tradition of individual resistance to change, but it warned that Ireland was moving from a traditional rural economy into a modern industrial state and said: "We just cannot opt out."

Many of Ireland's problems, the board said stemmed from poverty. It noted that the largest families were to be found in the social groups that could least afford them.

Italian aide fears doom of his law

ROME (UPI)—Socialist Parliamentary Deputy Loris Fortuna said Sunday the divorce law he helped sponsor may be doomed by militant Catholic opposition unless other Italians close ranks to save it.

Roman Catholic opponents of the law, which was passed six months ago, this weekend filed 1,370,134 notarized signatures—more than twice the 500,000 necessary—with the Rome Chancery Court asking for a referendum on repealing the law.

The figure shocked supporters of divorce, including Fortuna, who was one of the law's two sponsors. It reintroduced divorce to Italy for the first time in 150 years.

"I must admit frankly that the antidivorce people have a real chance of winning, if only by a small margin," Fortuna said.

He added, "only an immediate, permanent and united mobilization of the lay forces of all parties will enable us to regain the ground that has been lost."

The antidivorce lobby deposited 301 large cardboard boxes containing signatures with the court. They were placed in a room under round-the-clock police guard until verification against voter lists.

Once this has been done, there will be nothing to stop the referendum from taking place, barring a last-minute intervention by the Supreme Court. By law, it will have to take place between next April 15 and June 15.

Dad's Day founder dies

CHICAGO (UPI)—Harry C. Meek, who said he started Father's Day observances in 1920, died of a heart attack Saturday, the eve of the 51st annual celebration. He was 84.

Meek, a retired Chicago businessman, said he founded the celebration because he felt fathers were just as deserving as mothers who already had their own day.

However, at least two other persons have also claimed they founded the yearly celebration.

Most reference books credit a Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Wash., with founding the day in 1910. She was 84 at the time.

The state of Virginia proclaimed Father's Day first in 1919 at the urging of a daughter of Edward Agnew Swineford. When Swineford died in August 1961, Virginia newspapers referred to him as the inspiration for Father's Day.

Meek is survived by his widow, Helen, 75, a brother, Walter, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and a sister, Mrs. Attawa Champlin, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Merchant avoids gloom

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sheldon Solow of New York must rate as one of the country's most optimistic businessmen. There are more than 10 million square feet of empty office space in mid-Manhattan, twice the space of six months ago. Corporations are fleeing the city. Yet Solow is putting up a 50-story, radically designed office tower.

"It will be the second most important building in Manhattan," said Solow. What's the first? "The Seagram Building," said Solow who has his office there. "I have an almost religious affection for it. But I'm sure my building on West 57th just off Fifth will be close to it in beauty, style and convenience."

Solow, who has built luxury apartment buildings but never an office building before, is not dismayed by the migration of companies out of Manhattan. General Telephone has announced it is pulling out in the next year. Johns-Manville recently announced it was going to Denver.

Rising costs, crime in the streets, high taxes, racial and labor troubles and general crowding and tensions have been given as some of the reasons for this exodus.

"I think all these problems will be solved," he said. "They have boiled up very fast in recent years, and it's possible they will be solved more rapidly than most pessimists think."

Solow said the biggest single problem for the office building operator in New York City has been the dwindling reservoir of desirable office workers. "The big reason there are fewer desirable workers is the tight housing situation and tight rent control has been largely responsible for that," Solow insisted.

"Now that Governor Rockefeller has managed to get a gradual rent decontrol program authorized by the legislature, we ultimately should get more middle class housing."

As for the direct outlook of the office rental business, he believes office rents in New York will be higher two years from now than they were a year and a half ago. Right now they are down substantially from the late 1969 level.

Solow said one reason for the high vacancy level and slump in office rents in New York today is that many big companies speculated in office space in 1968 and 1969. "They rented much more space than they needed in new buildings, hoping to sublet at a profit. The recession spoiled their plans."

Equipment 'bargains' can prove very costly

If you need a forage harvester, but feel unable to justify the cost of a new one, you have probably already thought of trying to find a "good, used machine." The problem is in making certain of the "good." Some "bargains" can turn out to be very high priced in the long run.

If you check the items discussed here, you can improve the odds. They won't guarantee success, but they will eliminate many machines that you definitely should not buy.

If the harvester has its own engine, check the same items as on any stationary engine. Do the spark plugs have an oily deposit? If so, it's probably an "oil-burner." Crank the engine by hand to check the compression. If it seems weak, remove the spark plugs, squirt some engine oil into each cylinder, and reinsert the plugs. If this process restores the compression, it probably needs new piston rings. If the oil doesn't restore compression, it likely needs a valve rod. In either case, check locally on the cost of these items.

If the harvester is plow-driven, check for wear of the bearings in the hangers which support the drive shaft and the bearings or bushings in the universal joints of the shaft.

Open the main drive-gear case and inspect the gear teeth. If they are pitted and scored and the lubricant level is low, the previous owner probably did a poor job of maintenance. You may have some large repair bills in the future.

Most choppers use many roller drive chains. Check these for any signs of unusual wear. Chain rollers or link sides that are worn more on one side than on the other indicate that the sprockets have been out of line. In fact, they probably still are.

At the same time, carefully inspect the chain sprockets. Teeth worn on one side, or worn to a point on the face, indicate misalignment or improper tension.

Check all the shafts for free play in the bearings. Have someone turn the machine slowly by hand while you check each bearing. If any shaft has free play between it and the bearing, the bearing may be worn, the shaft worn, or both.

Inspect the slip clutches used to protect the machine against overload. If the two halves are rusted together, or if the matching surfaces are badly worn, they may also need replacement. In either case, check the rest of the chopper closely for signs of damage caused by overloading.

If the chopper has a sickle-bar cutter head, check same items as on a moving machine—ledger plates, guards, hold-downs, knife sections, and pitman bearings.

In the case of a corn head, check the gathering chains for worn sprockets, links, or sprocket bearings.

If the machine has both a corn head and a forage head, can the units be changed readily? Or, if it has only one head, can you still buy the other unit new if you need it?

Check the tires and wheels. Tread will probably be good unless the chopper is very old or has been transported excessively on the highway. However, check the sidewalls for cracks. These are caused by buckling from the lack of air pressure. These buckles may have caused internal breaks which lead to frequent tire failure. Also look for large cuts in the sidewalls caused by brush or trash. If repaired soon after they occur, these generally do little damage. However, if allowed to continue, the cuts collect dirt and moisture and cause separation of the fabric plies on each side of the cut.

While checking the tires, jack up the axle and shake the

Angry Britisher contacts Heath

LONDON (UPI)—A disgruntled ship-broker personally delivered a protest note to Prime Minister Edward Heath at a lunch at Heath's No. 10 Downing Street residence—by posing as a waiter, it was revealed Sunday. Ronald Irons, who was hired on a temporary basis to serve at the lunch, said Heath was "extremely charming" when he handed him the letter protesting a foreign shipping contract.

Ginsburg plea vetoed by court

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court today denied a hearing to New York publisher Ralph Ginsburg who has been fighting a jail sentence imposed in 1963 on an obscenity conviction.

The brief order appeared to mean Ginsburg would soon have to start serving his term. The original five-year sentence has been reduced to three, subject to parole at the discretion of the parole board, to be followed by two years probation.

The publisher was also fined $28,000. He was convicted in Philadelphia of sending through the mails three of his publications—Eros magazine, the Liaison Newsletter, and "The Housewife's Handbook on Selective Promiscuity."

The case made history in the Supreme Court because the conviction was affirmed on the ground that the items had been advertised in a manner designed to pander to prurient interest. Erotic material much more sensational than Ginsburg's has been freely circulated under other court rulings.

Woman's military career

HONOLULU (UPI)—The military career of Mary Loftus already is soaring. The shapely brunette of 24 hopes that one day it'll lead to a general's stars.

"Where else could a woman, just three years out of college, have my job, responsibility, pay and opportunity?" she asks.

Miss Loftus, who considers Hershey, Pa., her home, is commander of the Headquarters Squadron, 61st Military Airlift Support Wing at Hickam Air Force Base, the first woman to be a squadron commander in the military airlift command. Some of the 144 men in the squadron are old enough to be her father.

Her work includes barracks inspections, work assignments, issuing or withholding leaves and passes, temporary duty orders, disciplinary action and dealing with hardship problems.

She Was Nervous
The first lieutenant (who must keep her long, non-regulation length hair under an Air Force regulation cap during work hours) conceded that she was nervous when first assigned the squadron commander's post in March.

"But I've gotten great support from the men," she said, "and I think they respect me now, not because I'm a woman who made it but because I'm trying to be a good commander."

How did a journalism major who "never made it west of the Mississippi" before going into the military end up with full responsibility for the work, discipline and welfare of the 144 men?

The official explanation, from Col. Lyle S. Thomas, commander of the 61st Wing, is that Miss Loftus "displayed superior performance in her prior duties and has earned this trusted position."

She said when she was graduated from Pennsylvania State University the only job she could land was at $69 a week as a newspaper copy girl. Then she remembered the Air Force recruiter in college.

She took her basic training and went to Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, San Antonio, Tex., went to an administrative job at Hamilton AFB near San Francisco, and then was assigned as a protocol officer at Hickam.

Aiming at General
Her salary is $860 a month. Miss Loftus said she hopes her military career ultimately will make her a general. Then she might seek political office, shooting for the U.S. Senate. Along the way, she hopes also for marriage and a family.

"I believe you have to shoot high," she said. "I need a real challenge and opportunity to do something important."

L. Loftus is the daughter of a retired Air Force officer. The men of the headquarters squadron say they're happy with their new boss but mention somewhat traditional reasons.

"She sure has brightened up the orderly room," said one. Said another airman, "It's great. You should hear the talk around the barracks. It has really improved morale."

MRS. GARY LANCE

Couple marries in Utah rites

EDEN — Sheri Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reese Jensen, Brigham City, Utah, and Gary Lance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Lance, Eden, were married June 11 at the Intermountain Indian Chapel, Brigham City, by Bishop Karl Black, Jerome.

The bride's gown was floor length and fashioned from silk organza. It featured a high neckline, long sleeves, semi-full skirt and garland insertions of chantilly lace. Her trailing mantilla was bordered in matching chantilly.

She carried a bouquet of white stephanotis and a lavender orchid.

Matron of honor was Julie Jensen Wallgren, sister of the bride. Maid of honor was Debra Wilcox, cousin of the bride. Donna Lance, sister of the bridegroom, and Vicki Fife Jennings, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids.

James Ritchie, Jerome, was best man, and ushers were Don Cline, Eden; Mark Jensen, brother of the bride, and Don Meyer, Eden.

At a reception at the chapel the bride's table was centered with a white cake trimmed with lavender and blue flowers. Dee and Ida Smith, Brigham City, were host and hostess. Shawna Powers, Peggy Anderson, Janet Barrus, Sandra Mason and Julia Atkinson served. Mrs. Ruth O'Toole and Mrs. Janet Holmes were in charge of gifts. Kathy O'Toole presided at the guest book.

The couple will make their home in Provo following a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe. They plan to finish their schooling at BYU.

A rehearsal dinner was held the day before the wedding at the Maddox restaurant and an open house was held the day after the wedding at Hazelton.

A Lovelier You

SHADES OF BOTTICELLI

By Mary Sue Miller

A Lovely writes: You recently had a column on heavy eyebrows. Well, mine are so light and skimpy they are practically non-existent. What can be done for me? I would appreciate advice.

The Answer: First off, an "encouraging word." There is less emphasis now than formerly on makeup fashions for the eyebrows. The ideal brow is medium thin and a powdery shade. It's not much to demand. Shades of Botticelli! But, if your brows fall short, what's missing can be made up.

A soft, light brown pencil can be used to fill in empty spaces. For the job you need a magnifying mirror and a patient hand. You first brush what brows you have in an upward direction; then you trim off the top edge with one quick stroke. The fill-in consists of short, gentle, contiguous strokes. Brush again at the finish.

Brows can be darkened in several ways: By a professional tint job; by whisks of pale brown or gray mascara at makeup time; by powdered-cake brush-on brow. Makeup fixatives help to keep the latter products secure and unsmeared for hours.

Given acceptable color and fullness, shape is the key to a brow that flatters the face. Generally speaking, the arch takes a slow curve — its width is wider than a pencil line. It begins above the inner corner of the eye socket and ends at the outer corner. The space between eye and brow is the width of an open eye.

Those ideas come in for modification when facial contours would thereby be improved. For a round face a brow needs peaking, arching for a square face. A long face asks for a straight brow, a thin face for an abrupt ending. Art principles? You bet!

Talking figures prominently

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you break a leg, a doctor can talk to you.

But the fractured limb can't be fixed by talk, no matter how soothing. It's a physical injury and it's got to be set.

Now if someone you know develops mental illness or behavioral quirks, the biggest school of thought on the American medical front leans to therapy in which talking figures prominently. Psychiatry to be exact.

In some parts of the world and among some American scientists, however, there is growing support for treating mental illness as a physiological malfunction. The idea: Something in the brain's not working right. At the biochemical level there are short circuits that can be corrected. Once the circuits are repaired, the strange behavior diminishes or stops.

Mrs. Gimbel Leads Crusade
One crusade for breakthroughs on that front is led by Mrs. Louis S. Gimbel Jr., chairman of the board of the Manfred Sakel Institute. A World War II widow, mother of three, grandmother of five and independently wealthy, Mrs. Gimbel belongs to that breed of American matrons who work harder at their volunteer "causes" than do many who work for a salary.

She also is head of the Women's Organization of the New York Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, a social service unit that operates 130 programs including hospital, homes for the elderly, camps.

"In life," she said, "I try to balance out things. I believe in education and so I'm on the board of the New School for Social Research and a director of Lincoln School."

Mrs. Gimbel became acquainted with the possibilities of a biological basis for mental illness when the distinguished Scientist, Dr. Manfred Sakel of Vienna, recuperated from an illness at their farm many years ago.

"Sakel," she said, "was the first medical man who said mentally ill persons had a physical illness and could be cured."

Sakel, now dead, discovered that giving insulin was a great help. In the thirties, interns and residents trained by him in the therapy, practice it in New York. "There was a 70 to 80 per cent improvement in patients," Mrs. Gimbel said.

Theories Dictated
When Sakel was convalescing, Mrs. Gimbel urged him to dictate his theories and cite his experiences. "I couldn't take shorthand and I typed with two fingers," she recalled. "His English wasn't very good and I had to ask a lot of questions. It took three months and it was a minor medical course for me."

These many years later there are many more developments and Mrs. Gimbel's Institute regularly brings together scientists worldwide who are working on the physiological basis of mental illness.

"There is much happening and much being learned," Mrs. Gimbel said. "But it is an uphill fight to have these new findings heard. The more we learn, the more all the parts will fall into place. Hopefully the scientists will find solutions. When we talk about helping the mentally ill, we're talking about an awful lot of people worldwide."

Lose 10 lbs. in 10 Days on Grapefruit Diet

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. (Special)—This is the revolutionary grapefruit diet that everyone is suddenly talking about. It has made people slim, attractive and feel young again. Literally thousands upon thousands of copies have been passed from hand to hand in factories and offices throughout the U.S.

Word of its success has spread like wildfire. No pills or drugs. We have testimonials in our files reporting on its success. If you follow it exactly, you should lose 10 pounds in 10 days. There will be no weight loss in the first 4 days; but you will suddenly drop 5 pounds on the 5th day. Thereafter, you will lose one pound a day until the 10th day. Then you will lose 1 1/2 pounds every two days until you get down to your proper weight. Best of all, there will be no hunger pangs. Now revised and enlarged, this new diet plan lets you partake of foods formerly "forbidden" such as big juicy steaks, roast or fried chicken, rich gravies, spaghetti, mayonnaise, lobster swimming in butter, bacon, sausages and scrambled eggs. You can eat until you are full and still lose 10 pounds in the first 10 days plus 1 1/2 pounds every two days thereafter. The secret behind this new "quick weight loss" diet is simple: Fat does not form fat. The grapefruit acts as a catalyst (the "trigger") to start the fat burning process. You eat as much as you want of the permitted foods listed in the diet plan, and still lose unsightly fat and excess body fluids. When the fat and bloat are gone your weight will remain constant. A copy of this very successful diet plan including suggested menus can be obtained by sending $2 to Grapefruit Diet, MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. If after diligently trying the diet plan you have not lost 7 pounds in the first 7 days and 1 1/2 pounds every two days thereafter, simply return the diet plan and your $2 will be refunded promptly and without argument. Fill out the coupon, mail it today, and you will receive your diet rush via first class mail. Decide now to regain the trim, attractive figure of your youth, while enjoying hearty breakfasts, lunches and dinners!

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me if it is possible for a woman to conceive while she's in the water. I mean in a pool, river or bath?
MUST KNOW

DEAR MUST: Not without a man.

DEAR ABBY: We had a letter from our son today. It was mostly full of "Who am I? ... I am me," and all that. We are getting pretty fed up with his self-indulgent soul-searching, but we do want to keep in touch with him.

He says he and his girl friend (she lives in his commune) may get married soon. He also wrote that he may "have to" get a job soon as they are running out of bread, and in the meantime he would appreciate a little more help from home.

Well, that raised the temperature a few degrees around here. Two able-bodied young people should sit on the floor and ask, "Who am I?" while these two square old working parents send them money.

No, I don't think so. What do you think?

LETTER FROM SON

DEAR LETTER: Parents who subsidize kids away from home are helping those kids continue whatever it is they are doing—or not doing. No parent wants his child to starve, but the surest way to get a child to earn his own bread is to quit sending him dough.

DEAR ABBY: You recently had a letter from a woman whose boy friend told her he was not the marrying kind. Well, after she had lent him quite a large sum of money he upped and married somebody else; so she took him to court to get her money back and lost the case. You said, "A gift is just a gift, and a loan without an IOU may as well be a gift."

Abby, an IOU doesn't mean a thing if all it states is that you lent somebody a certain amount of money. To merely acknowledge a debt is NOT a promise to pay. In order for a note to hold up in court it has to state that a certain amount of money must be paid to the bearer of the note either on demand or by a certain date.

ALABAMA LAW STUDENT

DEAR LAW STUDENT: And I O U a great big thanks for writing!

DEAR ABBY: I vowed that the next time a letter appeared from a widow complaining that her "friends" have abandoned her, I would ask you to ask her a simple question: "When your husband was alive, did YOU invite widows and other single women to parties and dinners? Or did you think of them only when your husband was out of town, or occupied elsewhere?" As far as I'm concerned, there is no more selfish or thoughtless group of persons than married women when it comes to unattached women. But with unattached MEN, that's a different story. An "extra" man is always welcome.

PLEASE tell widows and other single women to forget about married friends, because they have certainly forgotten about HER.

Mountain descent 'easy'

GRAND TETON NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI) — The descent down the so-called symmetry spire couloir of Grand Teton Peak is so easy that it is described as routine. Yet it claimed three lives over the weekend, including that of a nine-year-old boy.

Park rangers Monday removed the bodies of two of the three victims who perished in what Chief Ranger Frank Betts described as "the worst disaster in the history of the park." The third body was recovered earlier.

The bodies of Louis Ybarrando, 9, and Robert Deal, 29, were removed from an icy pond formed by water coming from a rapidly melting snowpack. The body of Wayne Creek, 36, was recovered from the site Sunday.

The three victims, all from Idaho Falls, Idaho, died Saturday when they were making a descent of the snow-covered mountain. Deal was the first to fall after he found himself unable to control his descent.

Despite warnings from other climbers, Creek and the Ybarrando boy followed the same route. An avalanche kicked off by their falls dammed up the waters around them, causing them to drown. Ybarrando's father, Lawrence, and Creek's 12-year-old son, Michael, witnessed their deaths.

Another man, Duncan Will, 22, of Bethesda, Md., fell to his death in the same area earlier this month, but it was the first mountain climbing fatality in the western Wyoming park since 1966.

Chief Ranger Betts said the descent actually was not difficult and was considered to be "a routine matter on this mountain." "It is a very easy climb," Betts said.

Prepare camp

Flavel kept as chairman

RICHFIELD — Grant Flavel was re-elected chairman of the Richfield School Board Monday night.

Ralph Riley was named vice chairman and trustees were named in charge of committees. Mrs. Udell Robinson was appointed to grade school; Riley, high school; Burl Akins, grounds and maintenance; Glen Ross, transportation.

Mrs. Robinson and Akins were sworn in for new three-year terms. Supt. Neal Anderson reported two new teachers have been hired. Walter Peck, Carey, will teach seventh grade. He is a graduate of Idaho State University with three years teaching experience at the junior high school level. He was taught in the Blackfoot district and in Pocatello. He will be assistant in the junior high school athletic program. He also has a musical background and is married.

Another contract was offered for a high school math position to Richard Sparks, Aberdeen. He is a 1971 graduate of the University of Idaho and is married. His wife graduated this year as a bacteriologist. Supt. Anderson reported the state accreditation report has been received.

Buhl golf course hit

BUHL — Vandals tore the ignition from a front-end loader owned by Twin Falls Construction Co., Twin Falls County sheriff's officers reported Tuesday.

The steering mechanism of the loader was ruined and a window was broken at an office building owned by the State of Idaho. The incidents occurred south across the Snake River from the Buhl Golf Course.

An estimate of damage was not available. It is believed the destruction occurred over the weekend.

Tractor victim at Carey said satisfactory

CAREY — Brock Baird, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Baird, Carey, is listed in satisfactory condition at Sun Valley Hospital following a tractor mishap Monday morning near here.

Young Baird sustained multiple injuries in the mishap which occurred about 9:30 a.m. According to Blaine County Deputy Don Green witnesses told him the boy apparently swerved to miss a dog on U. S. 93 one-fourth mile east of Carey. The tractor spun around in the road and tipped off a 15-foot embankment, on the other side of the road, pinning young Baird beneath a wheel and the gas tank.

Deputy Green said the lad's shoulder took most of the weight.

Hansen mill levy approved

HANSEN — Voters approved the two and one-half mill plant facilities levy Monday afternoon by a 3 to 1 margin in a special election.

The vote count was 104 for the levy and 34 votes against.

The levy had been defeated earlier this year as a result of a misunderstanding by the voters, school trustees said.

Trustees said that the levy is necessary for adequate maintenance of the school transportation system. The major portion of the money will go for maintenance.

A two mill levy has been allocated for the purchase of new buses. Remaining funds will be used for needed repairs and additions to existing plant facilities.

The trustees added a one-half mill to the levy starting this year to help cover expanding costs.

Permits seen for feedlots

BOISE (UPI) — The director of the Idaho Department of Water Administration warned Monday cattle feedlot operators and farmers with drain ditches may be required to get permits to eject waste into navigable streams and tributaries.

Keith Higginson said in his opinion feedlots and drain ditches would come under the jurisdiction of the 1899 Rivers and Harbors Act, the basis for new regulations requiring anyone putting wastes into a navigable stream or tributary to obtain a permit from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Higginson said farmers and others are being "lulled into a false sense of security" by the fact the Corps of Engineers has contacted only industries thus far about obtaining such permits. Higginson said corps officials have indicated they are not administratively prepared to issue permits for other than industries. But, he said, anyone who was putting wastes into the rivers could still be liable under the law.

Higginson was also critical of federal agencies for not either exempting or allowing a time delay for other-than-industries to make application.

He said as it stands now everyone must make application for a permit by July 1 under federal regulations.

PERCY S. CHRISTENSEN

School chief named

HANSEN — Percy S. Christensen, Murtaugh, was named as the new superintendent of schools of Hansen at a special meeting of the Hansen School Trustees Monday night.

Christensen has been at Murtaugh for the past six years as a coach. He also taught bookkeeping, typing and reading. Prior to his Murtaugh position he taught at Richfield for three years.

He received his B.A. degree from Idaho State College in 1958, and his M.A. in education and school administrative training at Idaho State University in 1970.

He was born in Nebraska, but has been an Idaho resident since he was eight years old, settling with his parents in Oakley at that time.

He is married and has five children.

Firemen get Richfield call

RICHFIELD — Richfield firemen were called out at 1:10 p.m. Monday by the fire siren to answer a call for the resuscitator at the farm home of Chief Ginther.

Mrs. Emma Ginther had regained consciousness and the resuscitator was not used, it was reported by Fire Chief Lyle Piper. The women was taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Burley okays two remodeling plans

By LePAGE LAYTON Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Burley City councilmen Monday night approved two permits totaling $16,000 for the remodeling at Ponderosa Inn and Overland Shopping Center.

It was reported the inside remodeling at the Ponderosa is planned for the convention center, and the project at the shopping center will involve improvement and cleanup of the fronts of the buildings.

Mayor Garis Robertson

reported. District Judge Sherman Bellwood is studying briefs on a suit brought by Max Dayley against the city over the city's employing storm sewer water into the old Goose Creek channel by Gem Memorial Gardens Cemetery.

Councilmen reiterated their refusal to compensate homeowners in the Green Acres subdivision in North Burley for the $13 monthly charge they pay the Minidoka Irrigation District. The householders are unable to use the irrigation district water because of installation of recent highway routes, so they are furnished culinary water during the irrigation system by the city of Burley. The city charges them 11 cents per thousand gallons for the first 30,000 gallons, the same charge as any other city resident irrigating with city water.

Roger Ling, Rupert attorney, representing the homeowners, asked that his clients be reimbursed for the $13 charge, but this was turned down.

Redraft suit filed

BOISE (UPI) — The legality of two legislative district apportionment plans was challenged Monday in a U.S. District Court suit alleging each was a "purposeful and systematic plan" to discriminate against "certain geographic areas and classes of persons."

The suit, filed by state Sen. H. Dean Summers, R-Boise, Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, Dorris M. Blough and C.J. Hopkins, both-Nampa, made the allegations in reference to the 1966 and 1971 apportionment plans approved by Idaho's 41st Legislature.

The suit contended the legislature divided urban areas in a manner designed to diffuse voting strength of urban residents in such a way to give them "minority interest" in legislative districts dominated by rural interests.

The defendants named were Secretary of State Pete T. Cennarrusa, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, Attorney General W. Anthony Park, State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon, Ada County and Bonneville County Commissioners, Ada County Clerk Clarence A. Planting and Bonneville County Clerk O. Keith Long.

The suit also alleged the 1971 reapportionment plan "purposefully" drew the legislative district lines in a "calculated and tortured manner so as to keep certain members of the 41st Legislature within the same legislative district that they presently represent."

The plaintiffs seek a special three judge panel to declare that the 1971 reapportionment plan deprives the plaintiffs of "equal protection of the laws in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States."

They also ask that the 1966 reapportionment plan be declared one which deprives the plaintiffs of "liberty and property" without due process in violation of the 14th Amendment.

The suit further asks the court to apportion Idaho's legislature and offers three plans, including those to:

—Have a 35 senator and 70 representative legislature, each running at large.

—Require candidates seeking election to run at large in regions that are as "equal as is practicable."

—And to require all candidate to run in a combination of single member, multi-member and at-large legislative districts that are as equal in population as is practicable.

The suit contended because of inequities in the 1966 plan and because of the composition of Idaho's legislature, "it is highly unlikely that a proper plan could be adopted."

He received his B.A. degree from Idaho State College in 1958, and his M.A. in education and school administrative training at Idaho State University in 1970.

He was born in Nebraska, but has been an Idaho resident since he was eight years old, settling with his parents in Oakley at that time.

Ketchum ok's rezoning

By WARREN GOSSETT Times-News Writer

KETCHUM — Ketchum City councilmen waded through a prolonged and sometimes stormy public hearing Monday night and ruled in favor of the group of homeowners seeking a zoning change in the Warm Springs area.

The homeowners, led by Keith Smith, have been fighting to have the Warm Springs Village subdivision, third edition, zoned from general residential to limited residential to keep multi-dwelling units out of the area.

The group contended that a road serving the area was not adequate to handle heavy traffic, and that a bridge spanning Warm Springs Creek was not wide enough, and that water conditions would be heavily taxed if such units were built in the area.

Local opposition came from about a half dozen property owners who apparently had planned for constructing multi-dwelling units on their property. They argued that those persons seeking a zoning change were aware of the zoning ordinance at the time they bought, and to change the zoning now would be arbitrary and could set a dangerous precedent." Mayor Kenneth Richey countered by pointing out that those property owners seeking the change owned the property before it was a part of Ketchum, and that the property had been annexed and zoned general residential despite protests at the time.

At one point in the hearing, Dave Kassandries, a property owner opposing the change charged the council was arguing with him and seemed to be siding with the others.

Mayor Richey assured Kassandries that the council was trying to remain impartial. "Why is the council arguing then," Kassandries retorted. "We are not arguing with you," Richey responded.

The city clerk, Betty Coles, read a recommendation from the City Planning and Zoning Commission urging the area in question be reopened limited residential. The commission noted that in the long run the means of the city could best be met by a rezoning. A twenty year comprehensive plan that has been adopted by the city also recommended rezoning after a 15 minute deliberation in closed quarters the council ruled in favor of rezoning.

In other business the council approved a pilot plan by Robert Ebbert, Ketchum, for construction of the 20 units of an apartment complex in the Warm Springs area, with the stipulation the planning and zoning commission also approve the plan.

First T.F. petition filed

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — One petition had been filed by Tuesday in Twin Falls County calling for an election to establish a regional airport authority in south central Idaho.

County Clerk Harold Lancaster said the petition, submitted by the Twin Falls League of Women Voters, contained 16 signatures and all but two are apparently those of registered voters of the county. He said all names must be checked against the registration records.

Five per cent of the registered qualified voters of each county must sign petitions in order to call an election in that county. Petitions are already complete in several Magic Valley counties and are continuing to be circulated in others.

When petitions calling for the election to create the regional airport authority have been certified in various counties, they will be sent to the Department of Aeronautics where the director is responsible for calling a regional district election. As few as three counties can petition for the election but the local Interim Regional Airport Board proposed an eight county district.

The petition lists the proposed airport site as north of Twin Falls and the Snake River in Jerome County. It also lists the financial responsibility of the various counties as determined by the Interim Board. This would cover construction and future maintenance and operation costs.

Calculated on a basis of population and tax base, the proposal calls for Twin Falls County to finance 45 per cent of the project; Blaine County 5 per cent; Cassia, 16.5 per cent; Camas 1 per cent; Jerome, 10 per cent; Gooding 5 per cent, Lincoln 2 per cent, and Minicoka 15.5 per cent.

Interim Board members are anxious to complete necessary petitions from each of the eight counties in time for an election in conjunction with the November municipal election in order to save election costs.

Twin Falls County Commissioners would also like to see the election on the question of table wine sales in grocery stores held at that time as a means of saving costs of another special election. They say petitions asking for such an election are known to be in circulation in Twin Falls County but none has been received in their office as yet.

Lancaster said his office is programming 50 voting machines in the county to handle two "yes" and "no" questions in order to be ready for November. He said it does not necessarily mean additional work as the machines must be cleared from the past elections and can easily be set for the question votes at this time.

Former Hansen woman joins Antique theatre

HAGERMAN — Anna Marie Walton Boles, whose home town is Hansen and who has taught speech, drama and art in Caldwell and Meridian, is one of the professionals hired by the Antique Festival Theatre, Buhl, now rehearsing its repertory of folk theater.

She has played a variety of dramatic roles at College of Idaho. Rehearsal hall for the Antique Festival Theatre is the Hagerman American Legion Hall and the girls in the company, who live at the Rock Lodge on Billingsley Creek, walk the mile to and from work each day.

They sometimes jog, as Mrs. Boles tells her scholarship actress companions, "We've got to keep our bodies in shape."

Besides her acting assignments, Mrs. Walton will play a French horn in a small orchestra, directed by Jim Cockey, Boise, and the harmonica, which will be used in the Toby show.

Mrs. Boles plays the part of Christian Custance in "Roister Doister," and will portray a decrepit old lady in "Where's My Teddy," in the Toby play, while she will play in the orchestra and sing a Grace Fields imitation in "Box and Cox and Other Acts."

Three Twin Falls performances, all at Frontier Field, to raise funds for mental health projects in Magic Valley, are planned July 15, 19 and 23.

Data given on Cassia area fallout shelters

BURLEY — Within the past few days there have been several inquiries concerning Civil Defense in Cassia County, according to Lyman L. Martindale, county Civil Defense director.

This has been brought about by different activities, chief of which is the home study course developed by the Army Staff College in Battle Creek, Mich., and currently being studied by Civil Air Patrol members and others that have an interest in their personal welfare in event of an emergency.

"We should remember, when thinking of fallout shelters that the program is not one to provide conveniences or healthful living but rather to save lives under conditions of national attack where no other means will accomplish the same results," Martindale said.

In 1969 a countywide shelter plan known as the "Community Shelter Plan" was designed. Pamphlets were distributed to every home in the county indicating not only the locations of all county shelters, but also which shelter the people living in each area of the county should consider as theirs.

The pamphlets left over were placed in several prominent places in different towns for convenience of those that had moved or for some other reason had lost their shelter plan.

Since that time two shelters have been added to the list but all are licensed and marked, providing they meet the minimum U. S. requirements.

At the present the federal government stock of shelter supplies have been exhausted so the last two shelters do not contain food, water, barrels, sanitation or drugs, but rather only the radiation kit.

The shelter owners have been generous in providing space to store the boxes and barrels without cost to the county or federal government, he said, in many large cities there have been many breakins by people seeking to obtain the drugs in the medical kits.

In Cassia County the drugs have been removed and are in the custody of Ray Mitchell, county sheriff, awaiting information concerning their disposal.

Listed is the licensed shelters in Cassia County and the number of people they will hold, rating one person for each 10 square feet of floor space

Administration Building, and McMurray Hall, both Albion, 300 each; Cassia County Courthouse, Burley, 500; U.S. post office, Burley, 375; sugar factory, Burley, 291; Simplex Processing, West Main, Burley, 1,613; Hignis pumps, Burley, 175; Haight Motor, Burley, 398; Wake Tunnel No. One, northwest of Oakley, 262; Wake Tunnel No. Two, northwest of Oakley, 622; Shelby's Grocery, Burley, 220 and Columbia Electric, Burley, 75.

In addition there is one shelter that has adequate protection but is not licensed and numerous areas too small to license, then others that are within one or two points of the minimum required by the U. S. Standards all of which will still save lives, even though the marking signs must be left off.

If any person desires more information concerning Cassia County Civil Defense activities, or if you have a desire for training contact your Civil Defense Director.

"In the field of training our most serious need is for shelter managers and radiological monitors, and training can be provided if there are enough applications to hold a class," Martindale said.

Nebraska aide talks in Boise

BOISE (UPI) — State agency lines have to be crossed to provide services needed by the mentally and physically handicapped. According to George Thomas Jr., Director of the Nebraska State Office of Mental Retardation.

Thomas and Tom Frazier, adult services supervisor, Nebraska Department of Public Welfare, were two speakers Saturday at the statewide mental retardation and child development conference at the Rowday Inn in Boise.

They said cooperation between agencies and coordination of efforts and funds are the key to success in serving physical and educational needs of the handicapped.

Thomas said in Nebraska through the cooperation of the Public Welfare Department and the Office of Mental Retardation they are now able to help four times as many retarded and handicapped persons as before. He added federal money not available before is now obtainable.

Thomas and Frazier are scheduled to return to Boise Tuesday to assist in the formulation of a plan to save time writing a contract to present to the federal government so that Idaho can qualify for funds for the handicapped.

Federal matching funds of four to one supplied by the state are available if the proper cooperation and coordination can be achieved among state agencies, Thomas said.

In a panel, question-answer session, Dr. John Marks, director of the Division of Mental Health in Idaho, said, "We are aware there are funds that would be available to provide more services for our handicapped."

"Our problem is to develop a plan so we can get the legislature, the governor, and the Department of Public Assistance to act on it."

Electrical aide sought at Heyburn

HEYBURN — Applications are now being accepted by the city of Heyburn for a city electrical manager.

The present electric manager, Don Hill, has resigned effective June 25, Mayor Harold Hurst has announced. The mayor said anyone wishing to apply for the position should contact the Heyburn City office for application forms.

The applicant should be able to service and maintain a system of 500 residential meters, one large industrial meter and 62 commercial meters.

He should also have some knowledge of underground service, the mayor explained.

Singapore originally was a trading post for the British East India Company.

Employees laid off at Nampa state school

BOISE (UPI) — The first lay-off of employees at the Idaho State School and Hospital, Nampa, was announced Monday by State School Director John G. Christensen.

Eight employees, including the director of the metabolic laboratory are affected.

At least 31 persons are expected to be terminated within the next few months due to budget cuts for the institution, Christensen said.

Anti-trust suit filed in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — An anti-trust suit has been brought against two distributors of cigars, cigarettes and candy in the Mountain West, claiming violations of the Sherman Anti-trust Act.

Consolidated Cigar Corp., a New York firm, and Glaser Bros., of Los Angeles, must answer the charges in U.S. District Court for Utah by Aug. 21.

Plaintiffs, Hemenway and Mosser Co., of Boise and Salt Lake City, say the defendants conspired to restrain trade and force plaintiffs out of business. Plaintiffs say the Glaser Bros. tried to force them to sell their business and tried to hire away their chief executive in the process of taking over firms throughout the area.

Plaintiffs are asking for $350,000 damages for the Salt Lake branch and $150,000 for the Boise company. The Sherman Anti-trust Act provides for treble damages in successful suits.

Squad talk

Talk about your big red machines—just go see new-look Cowboys Friday

If you think Cincinnati should be called the "big red machine," wait'll you see the Magic Valley Cowboys Friday night when they host the Great Falls Giants in the Pioneer League opener.

The Cowboys will come out in the most flamboyant set of flannels (actually nylon) that has been seen this side of the softball diamond. Co-business managers Kip Horschburgh and Carl Fazio have set the Cowboys up in fire engine red uniforms of the new stretch nylon variety made famous by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"We're a colorful club," said Horschburgh in explaining this crass flouting of baseball's traditional flannel white and gray. Asked if the Cowboys would have pink or some other color for the road, Horschburgh said "the same uniform is used for all games," which, evidently, is a bow to the high cost of the things.

If so, that would be the first place the two young easterners have cut a corner yet. "We're going to present a first-class image to our Magic Valley fans and we feel the uniforms and everything have to be part of it," Horschburgh says. The uniforms will go nicely with the relined and newly decorated outfield fence. Also, Howard Johnson, city parks and recreation manager, and his crew have put about 750 gallons of new green enamel on the bleachers and replaced many of the worst planks in the walkways and seating areas.

Meanwhile, out on the playing field, Art Mazmanian, who will handle this new breed of Cowboys, (they come from four major league teams this year instead of one) took the first 12 men to arrive and went through several hours of tough fundamental and conditioning work despite the heat.

Mazmanian, who is head coach at Mt. San Antonio JC. Calif., expected to have all of his men by Wednesday afternoon. The Giants' contingent arrived late Monday evening and the remainder of the expected 24-man squad was due in Tuesday or early Wednesday.

The Cowboys open with an 11-game home stand which will have the highlights of opening night featuring hall of famer Bob Feller and the Fourth of July fireworks display.

Carl Fazio said the batboys have been selected and will be announced shortly.

Dodgers' rookie turns back Cardinals and Gibson 4-0

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Willie Crawford and Willie Davis, aided by Richie Allen's key single, spoiled the return to action of Bob Gibson Monday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers rolled to a 4-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Rookie Bobby O'Brien, making his first major league start, outduelled Gibson, appearing on the mound for the first time since May 29 when he went on the disabled list.

The shutout victory brought O'Brien's record to 2-1. His other win was in relief.

The loss was Gibson's sixth in 10 decisions.

Crawford hit a one-out triple in the first inning and scored on Davis' bloop single to left field. It was his first of three hits off Gibson.

In the sixth inning Crawford led off with a single and Davis hit a ground rule double into the right field stands. Allen, who played for the Cardinals last season, then singled home both runners.

Atlanta (UPI) — Ron Hunt's two-run double capped a three-run eighth inning in the nightcap Monday night that sparked the Montreal Expos to a 5-3 victory after the Atlanta Braves unloaded four homers in the eighth inning to take the opener, 6-4.

The Braves, trailing 4-1 going into the bottom of the eighth in the first game, tied a club record as Mike Lum, Hal King and Darrell Evans all hit solo homers and Hank Aaron hit a two-run homer, his 20th of the season and 612th of his career.

The Expos then erupted for three runs off race reliever Cecil Upshaw in the eighth. With one out Jim Fahey doubled, Jim Gosger singled, Ron Fairly doubled, Rusty Staub was given an intentional walk and Hunt doubled.

St. Louis (UPI) — Ken Harrelson, the flamboyant and controversial "Hawk" through most of his baseball life, ended the baseball phase of his career in a dressing room Monday night and immediately turned his attention to golf.

The 30-year-old Cleveland Indian first baseman had hoped to make his final major league appearance at Fenway Park where he helped the Red Sox win the American League pennant in 1967.

But Harrelson's hope of batting leadoff Monday night in his final plate appearance were denied by Cleveland manager Alvin Dark.

And "The Hawk's" hope of appearing as a pinch hitter also was denied when the game was rained out in the third inning.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Willie Stargell, continuing his career feast against New York pitching, belted a two-run homer, his 25th of the year, Monday night to help Dock Ellis to his 11th triumph of the season and spark the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-0 victory over the Mets.

The victory moved the first place Pirates 4 1/2 games ahead in the National League East.

Stargell, who leads the majors in homers and runs batted in, increased his RBI total to 67 with a two-run shot off Jerry Koosman in the fifth. Stargell has hit 38 homers and driven in 112 runs off Met pitching since the New York franchise came into being in 1962.

Harrelson ready for pro golf

BOSTON (UPI) — Ken Harrelson, the flamboyant and controversial "Hawk" through most of his baseball life, ended the baseball phase of his career in a dressing room Monday night and immediately turned his attention to golf.

The 30-year-old Cleveland Indian first baseman had hoped to make his final major league appearance at Fenway Park where he helped the Red Sox win the American League pennant in 1967.

But Harrelson's hope of batting leadoff Monday night in his final plate appearance were denied by Cleveland manager Alvin Dark.

And "The Hawk's" hope of appearing as a pinch hitter also was denied when the game was rained out in the third inning.

"I quit," Harrelson said when he was asked if his plans were changed. "That's it," the veteran infielder-outfielder said. "I start my golf practice tomorrow."

Duke receiver hopes for big night in all-star grid game

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Wes Chesson is a man of many football talents. At the top of the list is his receiving ability. Louisiana State Coach Charley McClendon is certain to call upon his Duke Blue Devil's sure hands and long arms when the East faces the West in the 11th annual Coaches-All-America Football Game Saturday night.

And, if there is a need for trickery, McClendon just might use some of Chesson's other talents. Chesson played quarterback in high school, and his first year at Duke he was switched to a running back.

His second year at Duke he was moved to a receiver—simply because injuries had knocked out the other Blue Devil receivers. In his first game as a flanker Chesson caught 11 passes for 176 yards and a new Atlantic Coast Conference record.

It sure would be good to have a night like that in this game," he said. "A good night Saturday night get me a better chance with Atlanta this year."

Chesson also handled the Duke punting; for three years and might see duty as an East punter Saturday.

The game, scheduled for an 8:30 p.m. EDT kickoff, is expected to draw an overflow crowd of 42,000-plus into Texas Tech's Jones Stadium and a national television audience (ABC).

"I like being a receiver best of all," said Chesson of his football talents. "Maybe that is because I've worked so hard at it the past three years, and had more success at that position than any other."

Chesson said he has spent the week working on timing and cuts, trying to get ready for a passing game from East quarterbacks Scott Hunter of Alabama, Buddy Lee of LSU and Rex Kern of Ohio State. He played with Hunter in the Senior Bowl and against Kern in a regular season game.

"In a game like this you have to adjust to the coaches and to the quarterbacks," he said. "You also learn new terms and plays, and have to get to know the fellows on your team."

Chesson said the East would try to control the ball as much as it could. He said this would include both running and passing.

"When you face someone as explosive as the West is you have to control the ball," McClendon said the East would try a balanced offense, both running and passing. The West is expected to use a pro-style wide-open offense.

Chesson, of Edenton, N. C., said he had never been to West Texas before.

"Since I've been here any doubts have been removed," he said. "The hospitality has been just great. I hope the game will be just as good."

A college teammate of Bob Cousy at Holy Cross, Mullaney entered coaching at Norwich College in Vermont. After compiling an 18-5 record there, he became head coach at Providence College in 1955.

Ramsey relinquished the coaching job because of private business commitments in his home town of Madisonville, Ky.

"The Colonels are a young team with great potential—in a sense still in the formative stages—and it looks like a very exciting opportunity," Mullaney told a news conference.

Both Dundee and Ali, who once used Ellis for a sparring partner, spent most of the news conference building up Ellis.

"Jimmy has licked every fighter that Muhammad Ali has licked," Dundee said. "He earned this fight. Nobody gave him nuthin'."

"No one is putting down Muhammad Ali," Dundee said. "We're going to prove in this fight what the 3 1/2 year layoff did to him and Jimmy will be happy to prove it."

Ali, who was barred from fighting from March 1967 until October 1970 because of a draft conviction, said the only way he would lose to Ellis was if he underestimated him.

"I saw him (Ellis) beat

Angelo Dundee, Ali's former trainer who now is Ellis' manager, said Ali was going to change his name again, this time to "Kid Pouch." Ali formerly was known as Cassius Clay.

Alli acknowledged he was overweight, but said he only began training last Wednesday in Chicago. The former champion said he would be down to 210 for the fight.

"I'm not as fast as I once was and I'm trying to get it back," Ali said at a news conference trying to build up interest in the fight.

At his prime, Ali said he floated like a butterfly and stung like a bee.

Christensen accepts Hansen job

Percy Christensen, head football and basketball coach at Murtaugh High School for the past six years, has resigned to accept the superintendency of the Hansen school district.

Christensen signed his new contract Monday night and resigned his Murtaugh coaching-teaching position Tuesday morning. He will replace Bill Barnard as the Hansen chief, Barnard having accepted a new position at Nampa high school. Murtaugh has not yet made any plans for filling the two vacancies although it seemed likely that the basketball position will be filled from within with the football job open to applicants.

Christensen came to Murtaugh after three years of coaching and teaching at Richfield high school. At Murtaugh his teams twice won the state championship and several of his basketball players went on to college scholarships in that sport.

Chesson said he has spent the week working on timing and cuts, trying to get ready for a passing game from East quarterbacks Scott Hunter of Alabama, Buddy Lee of LSU and Rex Kern of Ohio State. He played with Hunter in the Senior Bowl and against Kern in a regular season game.

Trevino believes second open shows he's arrived

ARDMORE, Pa. (UPI)—Lee Trevino, who often talks loud and fast and funny, was speaking quietly and in dead earnest in the wake of his three-shot victory over Jack Nicklaus for the U. S. Open golf championship, and he was saying that he thinks the win qualifies him as a "real champion."

"That's why this Open championship is more important to me personally than the first one I won back in 1968," said the 31-year-old Mexican-American from El Paso, Texas, who has been competing as a tour professional only since 1967.

The rewards for shooting a two-under-par 68—that beat Nicklaus' one-over-par 71 on a hot, steamy, and rain-interrupted afternoon at the tricky Merion Golf Club were immediate and rich—

A $30,000 first-prize that moved him to the head of the class in money winnings for this year, with $165,110 against $161,213 for Nicklaus, who earned $15,000 for finishing second.

Blue wins 15th game as A's outlast Minnesota Twins 3-2

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Southpaw Vida Blue, overcoming an early streak of wildness, pitched a seven-hitter and struck out 13 Monday night to record his 15th victory of the season while hurling the Oakland Athletics to a 3-2 triumph over the Minnesota Twins.

Blue, who has lost only twice, posted his fifth consecutive triumph and third in as many career starts against the Twins while going the distance for the 15th time this season. The seven hits were the most he has allowed in any of his victories.

The hard-throwing left-hander, who is only a week away from his 22nd birthday, had some control problems in the early going and walked five in the game. However, he seemed to get stronger as the game progressed and did not allow a run over the last six innings.

The Athletics broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh when Bert Campaneris reached first on a fielder's choice, went to third on Joe Rudi's single and scored when Trevino's catcher George Mitterwald threw wildly trying to nail Rudi on an attempted steal of second.

John, who picked up his fourth win against eight losses, gave up his only run in the first inning when shortstop Fred Patek lined his first homer of the year into the leftfield stands.

Kansas City started Jim Rooker, who lost for the sixth consecutive time. Rooker uncorked a wild pitch in the first inning, allowing Lee Richard to score from third base. Richard had walked and advanced to third on the single by Walt Williams.

The White Sox broke the 1-1 tie in the second after Mike Andrews walked and advanced to second on an infield out. Luis Alvarado struck out as Andrews broke for third, but Rooker's pitch eluded catcher Jerry May. May recovered in time to throw out Alvarado at first but Andrews, who was credited with a stolen base, kept on running and scored as he slid under the throw to the plate.

Washington started Paul Blair and Boog Powell had four hits apiece as the Baltimore Orioles tagged Denny McLain for 16 hits Monday night to defeat the Washington Senators, 7-2, for their 17th victory in 21 games.

Chicago's 1-1 tie in the second after Mike Andrews walked and advanced to second on an infield out. Luis Alvarado struck out as Andrews broke for third, but Rooker's pitch eluded catcher Jerry May. May recovered in time to throw out Alvarado at first but Andrews, who was credited with a stolen base, kept on running and scored as he slid under the throw to the plate.

"I feel especially great beating a man of Jack Nicklaus' caliber," said Trevino. "That accomplishes something more even than winning an Open."

Trevino, flashing a gay smile and exchanging rapid banter with newsmen in a post-victory news conference, was asked whether he thinks people now will think of him as a "great golfer."

"At least," he said, "nobody can point to a man who has won the Open championship twice and say he isn't a great shotmaker."

Trevino, who charged hard and took risks all during Sunday's final round when he came from off the pace to finish in a tie with Nicklaus at even-par 280 at the end of the regulation 72 holes, admitted that he switched his tactics in the playoff after Nicklaus had fallen two strokes behind with a bogey on the second hole and a double bogey on the third.

"I didn't take too many chances after the third hole," he said. "I want to get through the sixth hole without being in any trouble. Those are long holes, and Jack had the advantage of being the biggest hitter."

It was on the sixth hole that heavy rain and thunder and lightning forced a halt in play for 22 minutes. Trevino was asked if the delay interrupted his momentum, since he was leading by one stroke at the time.

"Heck, I didn't have any momentum going then," he laughed. "I was one over par."

Trevino admitted he began to feel the pressure on those famous last three holes of Merion.

"When Jack missed his putt on 16, I really wanted to make my putt—and it turned out to be the worst putt I hit all day. I pushed it six inches to the right. That's when I felt the pressure. I felt it on 17, too. I just wanted to keep the ball on the green. On the 18th, I just wanted to keep the ball in bounds."

Trevino said he is looking forward to playing in the British Open next month at the Royal Birkdale course in England because "Royal Birkdale is my favorite course—I played in the Ryder Cup matches there once and I had some really great scores."

And the Open champion indicated he's changed his mind about something—he's decided to play in the Masters next year, a tournament he's been avoiding because he claims the Augusta National Course doesn't suit his game.

"I'll play in the Masters next year because I've changed my clubs to hit the ball higher—I'm using a heavier clubhead," he said. "Did I do this so I could play in the Masters?"

"Heck, no—I did it so I could win money."

Nicklaus, disappointed at failing to win the Open after putting in more practice than any other golfer, said his two fatal trap shots "were not the result of pressure, just bad execution. They were just bad shots."

The Brewers, whose only hit over the first eight innings was an infield single by Dave May, rallied to tie the score at 2-2 in the ninth on an infield hit by Tommy Harper, a sacrifice and a single by Pena.

Laver and Gonzalez collect first matches at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia routed compatriot Bob Howe, 6-2, 6-0, 6-1, today to breeze through his opening-round match in the Wimbledon tennis championships.

The two top American seeds, Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., and Arthur Ashe of Gum Spring, Va., also moved through to the second round as the two-week tournament got underway.

Smith, the No. 4 seed and fresh from his victory in the London grass court championships, beat Michel Leclercq of France, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4, and the fifth-seeded Ashe rebounded from an erratic start to defeat Erik Van Dillen of San Mateo, Calif., 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5.

Pancho Gonzalez got the reception reserved for very special old favorites on his return to center court and an even greater ovation greeted the outcome of his match with 22-year-old Manuel Oranges of Spain.

The 43-year-old from Los Angeles lost a two set advantage love lead but whizzed through the final set to win, 6-3, 6-4, 6-8, 4-6, 6-2.

Gonzalez handed out a sharp lesson in the finer points of the game to the Madrid youngster in the first two sets but then a few tired strokes crept into his game.

Oranges, without playing particularly well, took the third set and then got away with some spectacular winners in the fourth. Gonzalez, trying to save his legs, found it harder to get to the Spaniard's shots which contained considerably more venom than before.

But the amazing American was far from finished and after "stealing" an early lead by breaking Oranges in the first game of the decider, raised his game to finish immeasurably the superior player.

Marty Riessen, the outspoken pro from Evanston, Ill., whose big game is ideal for grass, won a close three-setter from Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., 9-8, 6-4, 8-6.

The first set was serve-and-volley, with both players prone to error as they adjusted to the pace of the court. Games went with serve to the tie-breaker, which Riessen took eight points to six.

Riessen broke in the first game of the second for the only break of the set, then got the vital third set break in the 13th game after both had dropped their delivery.

Australia's Ray Ruffels outlasted Eugene Scott of St. James, N.Y., 4-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-4.

Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Calif., a flute and piano major at UCLA, dropped his first two sets to Francois Jauffret before overcoming the Frenchman, 4-6, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, and Clark Graebner of New York had an easier passage into the second round by routing Alan McDonald of Australia, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

Defending champion John Newcombe of Australia, the No. 2 seed, had the honor of playing the first match before a packed center court crowd of 14,000 fans and he responded with a 6-4, 6-3, 7-5 victory over South African veteran Bob Hewitt.

Australian oldtimer Frank Sedgman, who won the Wimbledon crown back in 1952 when he beat Czechoslovak-born Jaroslav Drozny, won his first-round match Monday from another Czech, Jan Kukal, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.

Butch Seewagen of New York lost to Adriano Panatta of Italy, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, and Jim Connors of Belleville, Ill., who won the NCAA title in South Bend, Ind., this past weekend, failed to show for his opening-round match, allowing Australian Bob Carmichael to advance by default.

Australia's Roy Emerson, the 1964 and 1965 Wimbledon champion, opened with a 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Milan Holecek of Czechoslovakia and Fred Stolle of Australia, who was the beaten finalist here three straight years from 1963-65, outlasted countryman Ken Warwick, 6-4, 3-6, 9-7, 4-6 6-3.

Smith, a PFC on leave from the U.S. Army, served with tremendous power and didn't lose his service once. He used the lob to good effect, volleyed crisply and kept Leclercq constantly on the move.

Single service breaks were sufficient to give Smith the second and third sets, his crosscourt backhand winning him the vital break points.

Ashe, habitually slow to get his game going, dropped three games in the first set before holding his service. Van Dillen was able to hold onto his lead by constantly rushing the net and he won the set with an acrobatic backhand return of a passing shot.

Ashe's cool and steady style and his lightning serve finally began to work for him in the second and third sets, and he closed it out in the fourth set with little trouble.

PGA adds Disney tourney

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—The $150,000 Walt Disney World Open Golf Tournament was officially added to the Professional Golf Association tour Monday. It will be played Dec. 2-5.

The scheduling of the tourney, first revealed last week, was officially set in a joint announcement by Joseph C. Dey Jr., commissioner of the PGA tournament players division, and E. Cardon Walker, executive vice president of Walt Disney Productions.

The tourney will be preceded by a $5,000 pro-am event Dec. 1.

It will be played on the Magnolia Course, one of two 18-hole layouts at the Walt Disney World complex which will open in October 12 miles southwest of here.

It will follow the Heritage Classic at Hilton Head, S.C., and precede the Bahama Island National Open Invitational tourney.

The courses here were designed by Joseph L. Lee of Boynton Beach, Fla., who also designed the National PGA Golf Club Course and the La Costa Course at San Diego.

Both courses can be extended to more than 7,000 yards for tournament play. The Magnolia layout is 6,550 yards long with par 72. The Palm course, which will be used with Magnolia during qualifying, is 6,410 yards and par 72.

The addition of the Walt Disney World Open to the PGA tour gives the Orlando area two major PGA tourneys. The Florida Citrus Invitational is held each March at Rio Pinar Country Club.

Allison climbs in standings

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Bobby Allison continued his torrid climb in the NASCAR Winston Cup point standings with a record fourth consecutive major race victory Sunday but he still remains far behind pacesetter Richard Petty.

Allison moved into fourth place Monday in the point standings with Sunday's win in a 400-mile race at Riverside, Calif. The victory came on the heels of wins in the World 600 at Charlotte, N. C., the Motor State 400 at Cambridge Junction, Mich., and the Mason-Dixon 500 at Dover, Del.

Petty, who finished 13th at Riverside, leads the field with 2,123 points with James Hilton second at 2,017, Cecil Gordon third with 1,841 and Allison fourth with 1,808.

Petty also leads in winnings with $141,275 with Allison second with $115,075.

The NASCAR drivers will be in Houston Wednesday night for a 150-mile race and at Greenville, S. C., Saturday night for a 100-mile before the big Firecracker 400 here July 4.

Lazard double in operation. North's two-club response is Stayman and South bids two spades to show his four-card suit. North jumps to three no-trump and East doubles in spite of the fact North probably holds four hearts.

Without a heart lead, South will make at least three no-trump. The heart lead sets him two tricks.

Why did Sidney decide that the Lazard double should call for a heart lead? No particular reason. You can't have everything.

Couldn't East bid two hearts and insure a heart lead? Certainly, but if he did bid two hearts South would pass; North would double and set East two to three tricks.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There are all sorts of lead directing doubles. Perhaps the newest one is the Lazard double invented by Sidney Lazard of New Orleans for use against a no-trump game contract where your partner must make a blind lead. The Lazard double tells partner to open hearts.

It is new in contract, but if you were to go back to 1904 you would find this double suggested by J. B. Elwell in his book entitled "Advanced Bridge."

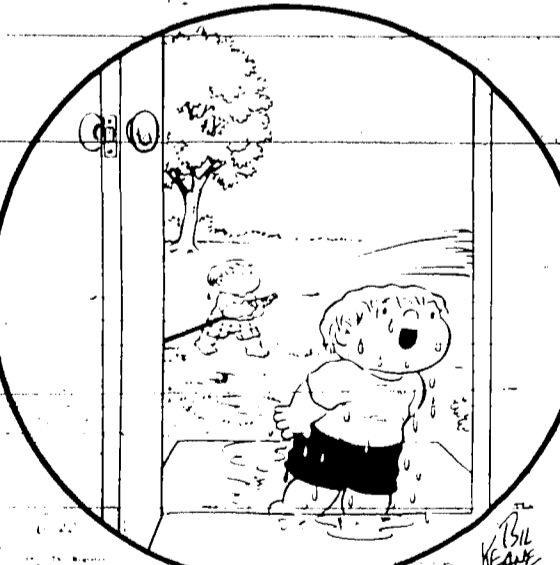

This book was on the game of "Bridge" and the Elwell bid called "The American Convention" disappeared when auction bridge made its debut around 1908.

MAJOR HOOPLE

PASS IT ON
by L.M. Boyd

YOU'RE AWARE, are you not, the chief meat eaten by the westbound Lewis and Clark expeditioners was dog? NUMBER OF SCHOLARS insist that thing called jealousy is an inherited trait. Likewise, envy... LET IT ALSO be known that Jim Arness of "Gunsmoke" is referred to by the girls on the TV set as Stud Duck... INDOCHINA correspondents say a night's worth of marijuana there costs less than an ice cream sundae... TUESDAY is that day of the week the cleaning women in the big towns get the least work.

YOUNG LADY, DID you ever undergo the experience of having a gentleman friend break off the matrimonial engagement? If so, how did you handle the sad news? How long did it take you to recover? One-third of the girls who suffer such romantic setbacks get over them in less than a month. Another third are back to normal in six months. But the remaining third still haven't pulled themselves together after a year. Such were the findings in a study of 320 coeds who admitted men had thrown them over. What's clearly indicated here is the lovelight dies within six months in two out of three amorous affairs.

OPEN QUESTION Why is it - as the statistics prove beyond question - that the time of day when the baby is most apt to be born is between 3 and 4 a.m.?

AM ASKED IF any men ever get their faces lifted. Surgically. Some do. Why is also known Research reveals the majority of such middle-aged fellows are involved somehow with much younger women - THIS IS SAID to apply whether the party is a man or a woman. A strongly masculine personality, when looking across the room, will stare directly. A strongly feminine personality will let the glance wander. Or so say the psychology boys.

CUSTOMER SERVICE Q "What's a silver cat?" A. That's a noise. When a tree freezes up north sometimes and the winter wind twists it, it cracks open, delivering the most unearthly bone-chilling groans. As a youngster, I heard that. You can't always tell it from a cougar's scream. Oldtimers call it the silver cat... Q "In this country, which are the taller usually, the black children or the white children?" A. The black, slightly. But the white are wider.

MOST RECENT surveys show that vegetable the children rate No. 1 in popularity is corn, still No 2 is peas, No 3 green beans, No. 4 carrots and No. 5 spinach. Turnips didn't even make the list, understandably. As far as fruits go, apples are No. 1 with the youngsters. No. 2 is bananas, No. 3 peaches, No. 4 pears.

RAPID REPLIES 1 Yes, sir, the average wage rate of the assembly-line worker in Hong Kong now is reportedly $2 a day... 2. Not quite, Mrs. T, the Federal Government owns every third acre and then some of the entire 50 states.

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 17076, Fort Worth, Texas 76102.

Luci says LBJ wants war to end

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Luci Johnson Nugent, now a happily busy wife and mother in Austin, Tex., looks back on her years in the White House with the belief that "my father did what he felt had to be done, not because he enjoyed having a war."

Lyndon B. Johnson's 23-year-old daughter spoke of her father's feelings about Vietnam in an interview at the dedication of the LBJ Presidential Library in Austin May 22, three weeks before The New York Times began publishing an explosive official account of Johnson's role in escalating the war in the mid-1960s.

Johnson himself has refused to comment on the Times' disclosures of top secret Pentagon documents.

When asked about Vietnam, Luci responded in a rambling discourse reminiscent of her father. It went this way:

"There is no man who doesn't want the war over more than Lyndon Johnson unless it's Richard Nixon. He gave up his political life to bring it to an end."

"I think hindsight is always easier than foresight. My father used to always say about the presidency ... that your judgment is only as good as your information."

"You could see a part of Lyndon Johnson die when they'd talk about how many died."

"I believed in him. I knew he wanted to achieve a just and honorable peace. There wasn't a man in the world who wanted it more."

"I was torn on whether he should run for re-election. I wanted him to live. I'm selfish."

"Of course, I believe he would have won the election."

As for the antiwar demonstrations that helped topple Johnson from the presidency, Luci said:

"I think I live in a country where people have the right to verbalize their grievances. If we had a situation where we couldn't, someday we'll be up a creek without a paddle."

"On the other side, when grievances are directed against you and your father, it's less comfortable ... like someone beating you on the head. It was a very frustrating experience."

"I respect a person who violently disagrees and gets out and works in a political campaign more than if he walks down Pennsylvania Avenue. I come from a family of doers. I respect them more than the talkers."

Luci said her father has had

Suspect may transfer to 'Quentin'

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)—Authorities are considering transferring ailing mass murderer suspect Juan V. Corona to San Quentin Prison because of its facilities for treating heart ailments and other illnesses, it reported Monday.

A. George Oakley, assistant to the director of the State Department of Corrections, said in Sacramento he had been contacted by Sutter County Sheriff Roy D. Whiteaker about "procedures" for transferring Corona to San Quentin.

The 37-year-old farm labor contractor, charged with killing at least 10 of 25 slain transient farm workers, was admitted to the Sutter County General Hospital in Yuba City last Friday complaining of chest pains.

Under a court gag rule, his ailment was not reported, but Oakley pointed out Monday San Quentin, across San Francisco Bay from San Francisco, has the best facility in the state prison system for treating heart cases and other ailments.

Under state law, a prisoner can be transferred to another state prison for medical reasons if the treatment he needs cannot be provided locally.

Sutter County Hospital doctors reportedly planned to recommend later whether to transfer Corona. Doctors reportedly administered extensive electrocardiograph tests to the suspect.

Before his hospitalization, Corona had been held in the Yuba County Jail, across the Feather River in Marysville.

Wax vandals

MOSS BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Vandals opened a valve at a candle factory and released 7,000 gallons of hot wax which clogged 12 sewers and left a two-inch coating of wax on the plant's floor. The plant manager estimated damage at $3,000.

trouble adjusting to retirement after 35 active years in politics. "He did not develop a lot of hobbies."

Her husband, Patrick J. Nugent, who served a year in Vietnam, left the family radio-TV outlet in Austin, KTBC, to join a cable television organization "for positive reasons," Luci said. "He had a good opportunity that appealed to him."

She enjoys rearing her two children, Patrick Lyndon Nugent, nearly 4, and Marie Nicole or "Coley," 16 months, but has no present plans for a larger family.

Salinger writes book

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Pierre Salinger, who was White House press secretary in both the Kennedy and the Johnson administrations, has just turned out an intriguing novel about a mythical new missile crisis. He also has raised some sobering questions about presidential priorities.

Assuming the validity of the theory that most first novels are largely biographical, Salinger seems to be saying that some presidents may be inclined to put too much emphasis on their political popularity and too little on national leadership.

Although the author undoubtedly would be the first to deny the idea, it also would seem fair to conjecture that Salinger got more ideas for his fictional president from Lyndon B. Johnson, with whom he had conflicts, rather than from John F. Kennedy, during whose administration the real Cuban missile crisis occurred.

In any case, Salinger's novel is likely to land him in the Johnson doghouse along with another former White House press secretary, George E. Reedy Jr. Reedy's earlier non-fiction book, "Twilight of the Presidency," dealt in part with the same theme.

Entitled "On Instructions of My Government" and published by Doubleday & Company at $6.75, Salinger's story is about the little Latin American nation of Santa Clara. The country is governed by a benevolent dictator who is out of favor with certain elements in the United States because he uses U.S. aid to help his people instead of fighting Communist rebels in the hills.

With the national election only weeks away and with his popularity at a new low in the opinion polls, the president disregards the passionate warnings of his ambassador on the scene and cuts off aid to Santa Clara, plunging the country into economic chaos.

China, which has been backing the rebels, takes advantage of the situation to slip a top rocket expert into Santa Clara to supervise construction of missile silos in the rebel area. The missiles themselves are started on their way in two Chinese whaling factory ships.

The real stunt of Salinger's book is the president's preoccupation with his own popularity at the expense of the national interest until U.S. reconnaissance planes finally expose the real scope of the threat and force him to take decisive action.

Rodeo royalty named

Campaigners face trouble

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Debt-troubled Democrats and some Republicans, too, can easily find new causes for worry about funding their campaigns for 1972.

Suppliers of goods and services for candidates may demand cash in advance, as radio and television stations already do, or at least substantial deposits.

This warning is found in a book published this week, written by Dr. Herbert E. Alexander, who is probably the nation's most highly regarded authority on campaign financing.

In "Financing the 1968 Election," Alexander quotes the political proverb "that the winners pay their bills, the losers negotiate."

He wrote that debt settlement for candidates in the 1968 Election, Alexander quotes the political proverb "that the winners pay their bills, the losers negotiate."

Auto wreck injures trio near T.F.

TWIN FALLS — Three persons were treated for minor injuries Monday morning at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital as a result of a one-car accident southwest of Twin Falls.

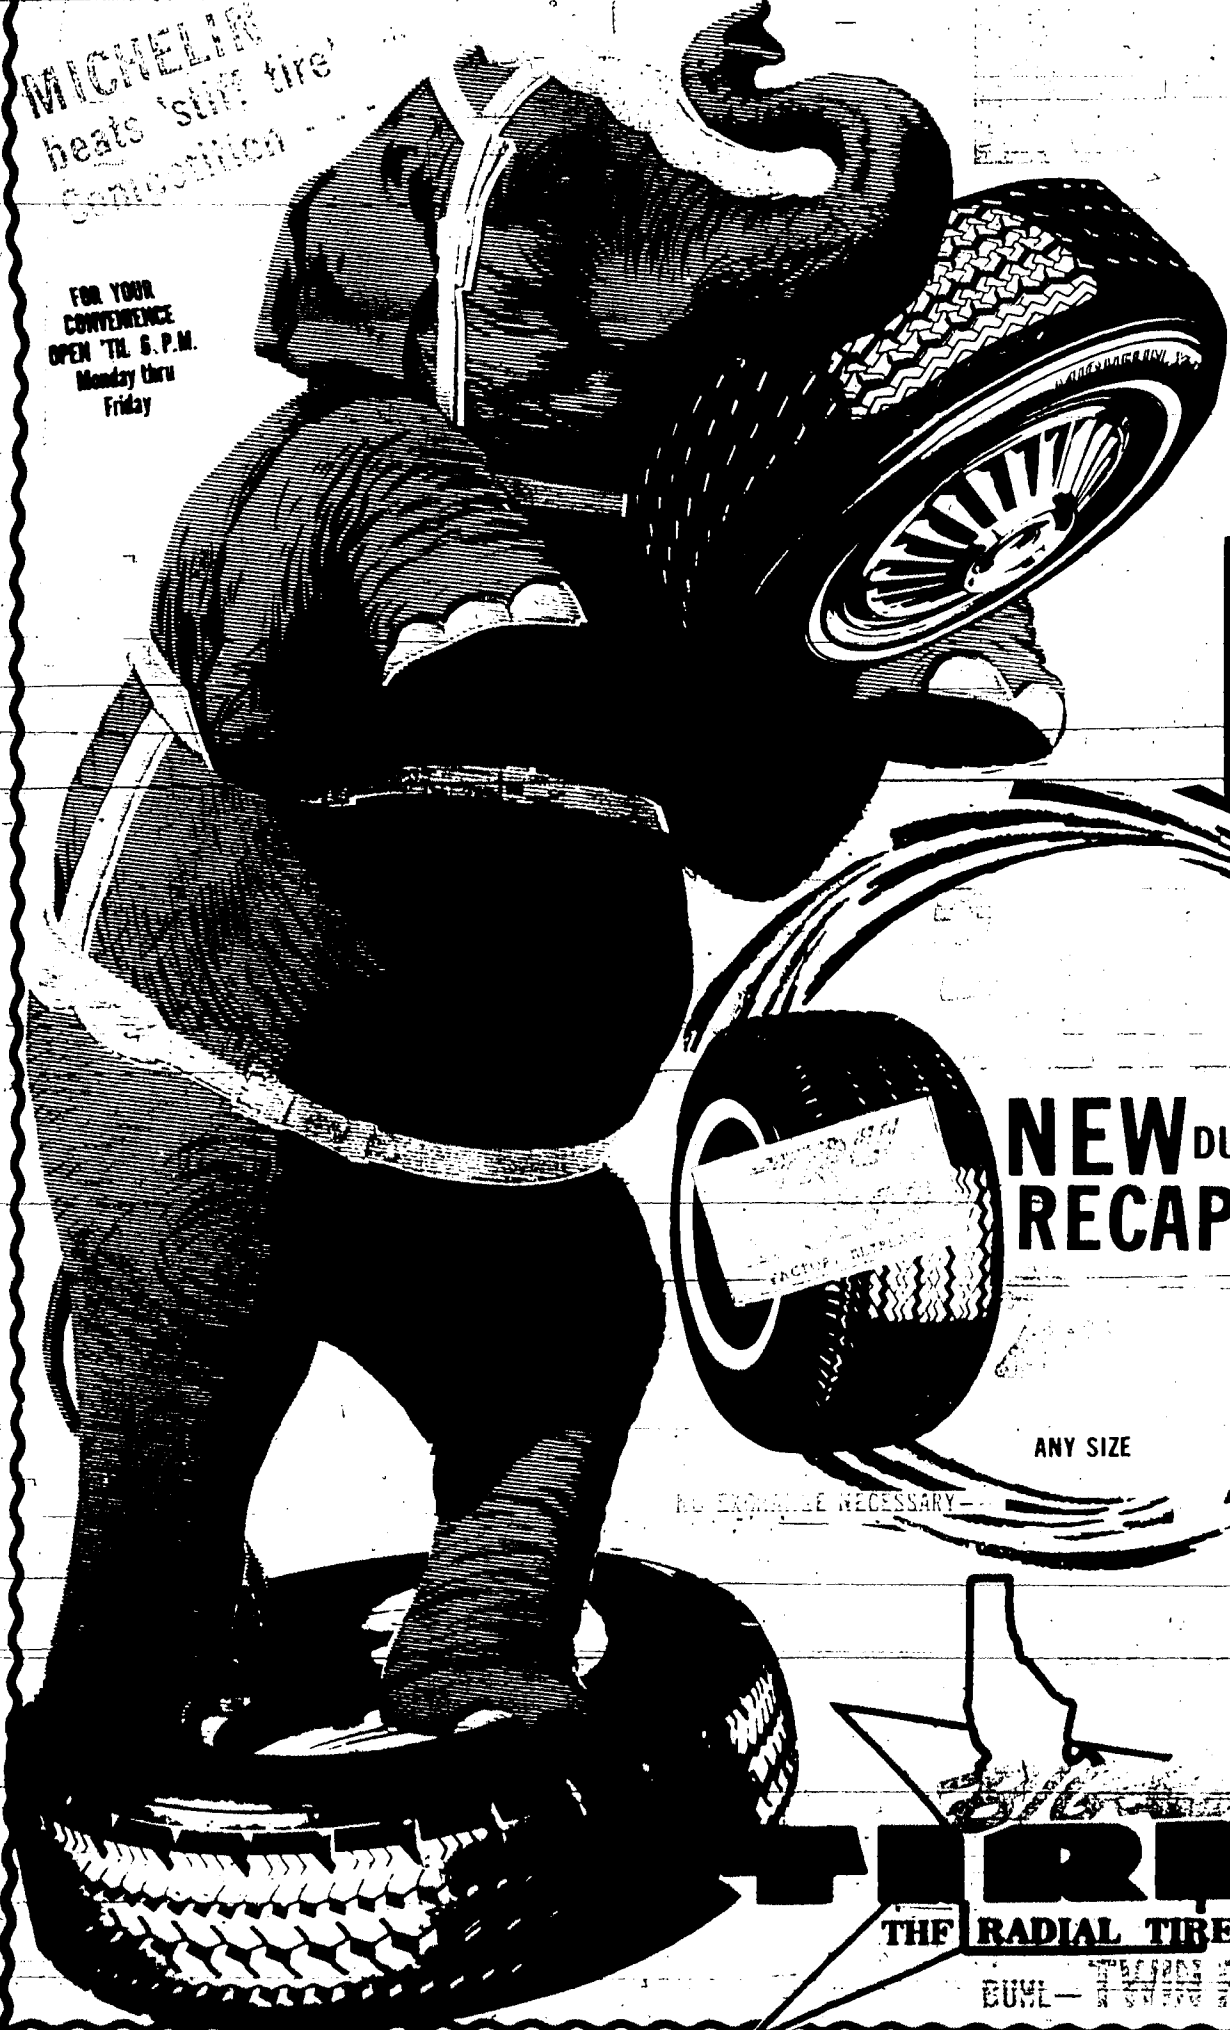

County officers said the vehicle left the road two miles south and eight miles west of East Five Points, and struck a cement culvert about 9:30 a.m.

Hospital officials said Ricardo Barrientos, about 25; his wife, Maria, 17, and their 11-month-old baby, Mary, were being treated for cuts, bruises and possible fractures.
