High court hears case on exposes

By United Press International
The Supreme Court in the closing days of its current session considered today appeals from the federal government and The New York Times over publication of a secret Pentagon report on the Vietnam War.

Unless the court takes some action, The Washington Post will be permitted to resume publication of the documents at 6 p.m. today. The court was expected to review the cases because of the issues involved—freedom of the press and national security—and the conflicting lower court rulings in separate Times and Post cases. The Times, which started the controversy by printing excerpts from the report June 13, appealed to the high court, claiming an appeals court put undue restraints on it. The appeals court ordered a federal district court judge to decide what portions of the report the Times could print. The Times could, according to the appeals court ruling, resume publication at 5 p.m. EDT today of the parts of the report not considered classified. The current Supreme Court session is expected to end Monday.

The federal government asked the Supreme Court to study the case against the Post after the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Washington in a 7-2 decision refused Thursday to reconsider the case.

The appeals court originally upheld a district judge's decision that the Post could publish the report because it did not damage national security. The government, in its brief filed Thursday, said publication was harmful and if the Post was allowed to resume today it would make the government's case against the Times moot.

At the same time, a federal grand jury in Los Angeles was investigating how the Times got the report. A friend of Daniel Ellsberg, a former Defense Department aide mentioned as the possibly leak to the Times, told the grand jury Thursday she copied a document for him.

The Los Angeles Times, the Chicago Sun-Times and the 11-member Knight Newspapers Inc. chain also have printed stories based on the Pentagon report but have not been enjoined from publishing them. When asked why the federal government had not stepped in against these newspapers, Attorney General John N. Mitchell said "that's under consideration" but added so far the papers had not published secret information and had not endangered national security. (Continued on p. 5.)

Daughter's grief

DAUGHTER OF ONE of the 17 miners who was trapped in a cave-in caused by an explosion in an aqueduct at Sylmar, Calif., Denise Overstreet, 17, holds her head as she peers into the shaft being used by rescue workers in their attempt to reach the trapped men. (UPI)

Tunnel rescue hopes dimmed

SYLMAR, Calif. (UPI)—Crews of rescue workers, their faces drawn with exhaustion, groped in the darkness of extremely heavy smoke today to recover the last bodies of 17 miners killed in a gas explosion deep in a water tunnel. "They had no time to live," said fire department rescue workers Andy Kuljis. "They died—he snapped his fingers—that fast. You take a lung full of hot air and you're dead before your brain knows it."

Only one man in the drilling crew 250 feet beneath the surface survived the inferno of blazing gases or the suffocating smoke that followed Thursday's blast.

The tunnel, 15 miles from downtown Los Angeles, is in an area laced with earthquake faults. Officials blamed the faults for the seepage of natural gas.

Nearly 24 hours after the blast and subsequent 14-hour long inferno, only 10 bodies had been recovered from the five-mile long bore being constructed for the Metropolitan Water District.

It was the third disaster to strike a portion of the multibillion dollar California water project, the most complex water work ever attempted, and the second explosion in the San Fernando Valley tunnel in two days.

Three five-man crews burdened with gas masks and heavy oxygen tanks repeatedly went down into the tunnel in hourly cycles through a gaping air shaft two miles from the entrance portal. The work was extremely hazardous because of the "zero visibility" of the smoke and accumulation of unburned methane gas. Two firemen were stricken when they took their gas masks off deep in the shaft. They later were reported in good condition.

The sole survivor, a brakeman on the narrow-gauge railroad through the 21-foot high tunnel, was trapped for several hours in the rubble.

He lived

SURVIVOR, RALPH Brisette, 33, rescued some nine hours after a blast ripped the San Fernando tunnel, is able to smile from a hospital bed where he is listed in fair condition. The tunnel is part of the new California aqueduct system to distribute water. (UPI)

Urban Renewal work prepared

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — Work should begin by Aug. 1 on the half-million dollar second phase of the Twin Falls Urban Renewal and downtown improvement project, Evan Robertson, Urban Renewal Agency director said today.

In reviewing plans for 1971, he said the project has received $340,000 in federal funds partly through expanding the project boundaries to include work already completed in a two-block area of the downtown core. This gives local matching credit on this locally financed work of last year and increased the federal participation.

With this windfall, he said, the project will be able to complete the surfacing of parking lots, installing wheel guards and meter posts to about double present downtown parking. The major phase of the project, however, Robertson said, is the reconstruction of alleys. This, he said, should give the city residents and merchants a new traffic pattern for pedestrians and will probably result in the individual merchants concentrating on rear entrance improvements.

He said no vehicle exits will be provided from parking lots to alleys which should reserve alleys for pedestrians walking from the lots to the stores and for delivery vehicles.

All utility lines will be placed underground during the reconstruction project and alleys will then be paved and landscaped. Work will follow the general landscaping theme of the street improvement finished last year, he said.

Robertson said there are still a few sub-standard buildings in the downtown area's main blocks of Main Avenue and some will probably be leveled at a later date.

Johnson had plans

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UPI)—Former President Johnson acknowledged in still unpublished memoirs that he was preparing for large-scale military involvement in Vietnam in 1964 before the depth of the U.S. commitment became public, according to a story published in today's edition of Newsday, a Long Island newspaper.

Newsday said the information about the memoirs, to be published in November under the title "The Vantage Point: Perspectives of the Presidency," were obtained from a publishing industry source.

Newsday said Johnson also said in his memoirs: "He first decided to follow President Kennedy's policy of defending South Vietnam while flying back to Washington following Kennedy's assassination in Dallas in 1963."

Robert F. Kennedy volunteered during the 1964 presidential campaign to go to South Vietnam as U.S. ambassador.

Johnson's statement during the same campaign that he would not send U.S. troops to "do the fighting that Asian boys should do for themselves" meant America should not "take charge" of the war or provoke a conflict with China.

He said, "I did not mean that we were not going to do any fighting for we had already lost many good men in Vietnam."

Newsday did not elaborate on these sections of the memoirs. Johnson depicted himself as being hesitant for several months over approving military recommendations for bombing raids on North Vietnam. When he finally authorized a troop increase, "I was convinced that our retreat from this challenge would open the path to World War III."

Johnson met with former President Eisenhower on Feb. 17, 1965, and was urged by the late five-star general to mount a "campaign of pressure" against the north.

Newsday said the memoirs support many of the statements made in a secret Pentagon study printed recently by several newspapers.

Cassia leader passes

BURLEY — Horace Osborn Hall, 78, a former chairman of the Cassia County commission, chairman of the Burley school board and chairman of the Office of Price Administration (OPA) during World War II; died Wednesday at Cassia Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Hall was a pioneer Burley resident, moving to the area in 1918, where he had resided since.

He served the LDS Church in many positions, including several years as bishop of the Burley Second Ward. He also served the Burley Stake and the LDS High Council in a number of positions.

He was a member of the American Legion, the Burley Rotary Club and the chamber of commerce. He had served on the Burley school board for many years and had been elected chairman of the board. He also served on the county commission, serving as board chairman.

He married Leona Pickett in the Salt Lake City LDS Temple on May 1919. She survives him.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Burley Fifth-Seventh Ward Church. (Obituary, Page 2)

Gem law ruled invalid

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Supreme Court today upheld decisions ruling unconstitutional a 1970 Idaho law making jail sentences mandatory in drunken driving cases.

A majority opinion of the high court, announced today by Justice Clay V. Spear, supports the ruling of Fifth District Judge Theron W. Ward. Ward ruled in August the new law was unconstitutional.

Twin Falls County Probate Judge Eugene McCoy on June 24, 1970, sentenced Ernesto Medina to 30 days in jail and fined him $175, suspending the jail sentence and $125 of the fine and placing the man on six months probation. Medina had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of drunken driving.

Prosecuting Attorney Robert Galley submitted a petition to district court for a mandate asking the probate court be directed to sentence Medina to at least 10 days in jail as required by the new Idaho statute.

The district court issued an alternative writ ordering the probate Judge to either sentence Medina to the 10 days minimum or show cause why the sentence should not be ordered.

Following a subsequent hearing, Judge Ward quashed the alternative writ and ruled the statute unconstitutional on several grounds, including it constituted an infringement by the legislative branch of government on the power and authority rightfully belonging to the judicial branch.

Clean getaway reported

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Colleen Stradley told Twin Falls police late Thursday she returned with her children from a birthday party and found two men in the bathroom of her home.

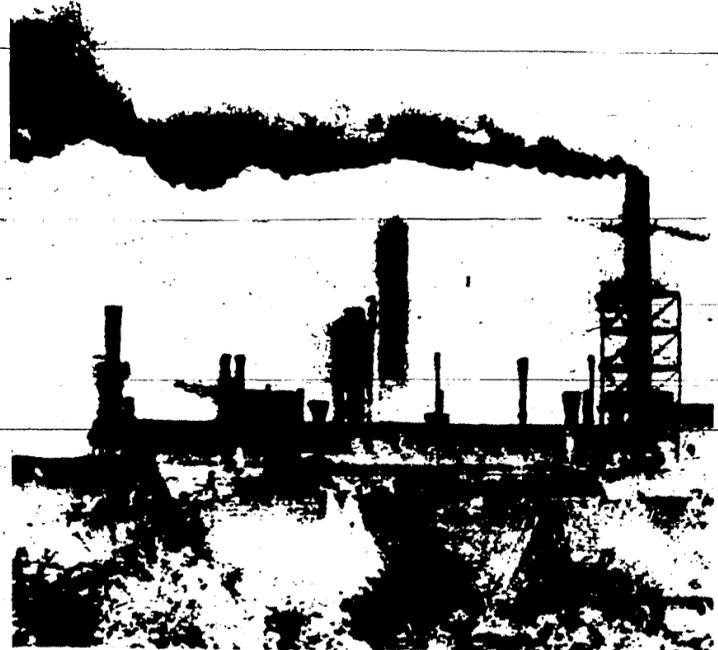

She said when she entered she found an overturned coffee pot in the kitchen and a loaf of bread on the floor. She sent her daughter into the bathroom for a mop and the girl returned to report two men were hiding in the room.

Mrs. Stradley said she and the children ran from the home and neighbors called the police. By the time police arrived the pair fled from the rear entrance. A number of food items were found in the wash basin in the bathroom, officers reported, apparently discarded in flight.

Capt. Medina loses plea

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (UPI)—A military judge refused today to dismiss murder charges against Capt. Ernest L. Medina, accused of presiding over the My Lai massacre, and ordered jury selection to begin July 19.

Col. Kenneth A. Howard, the judge, denied a motion by Medina's civilian attorney, F. Lee Bailey, to dismiss the charges on the ground that command influence played a role in bringing the 34-year-old Medina to trial.

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said today he and Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon have asked the Federal Power Commission to refuse to grant a license for additional dams in the middle reach of the Snake River.

Andrus told a news conference McCall would sign the letter at his own news conference today in Salem, Ore. He said space was left for the signature of Gov. Dan Evans of Washington, who is now out of the county.

However, Andrus said, "I hope he (Evans) will support it," adding it was the first regional agreement on the Snake River that he knew of. Andrus was asked about a bill supported by Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., which would ban any dam construction the Hells Canyon stretch of the Snake, but said he could not give his endorsement to the measure since it "hasn't really been studied."

Instead, he said, the bill backed by Idaho Sens. Len Jordan and Frank Church which would impose a seven-year moratorium on any dam construction would give the state the time to study future water needs.

Meantime, he said, the letter to the FPC would "for stall any licensing of any other endeavor on that river" and said since the governors had agreed to the contents "it wouldn't appear the Federal Power Commission would view it lightly."

The letter to FPC Chairman John N. Nassikas said the governors felt the construction of additional dams on Hells Canyon "is not in the best interest of the people of the Northwest nor in the best interest of the nation."

Andrus said he hoped the letter would mean FPC review of the decision of FPC Examiners William Levy, who recommended licensing of the proposed dams but with the provision construction be delayed for five years to give study time.

The letter noted the proposed Hells Canyon dams would provide for less than a year of needed growth of energy in the area and added if all the dams proposed on the Snake River were built "they would not make a significant dent in the impending power shortage. They would merely postpone that inevitable day of reckoning when we must meet our power needs by other than hydroelectric methods," the letter said. Andrus mentioned at the news conference development of nuclear power facilities and also said Idaho is presently studying new uses of waste materials in an effort to both reduce pollution problems and acquire another source of energy.

The letter also said additional dams in Hells Canyon would eliminate "any hope" of saving the steelhead and salmon runs in the Snake River due to over-saturation of nitrogen.

Up, down repair season

SCHOOL DISTRICT maintenance crews have their "ups and downs" this summer — repairing the roof of Twin Falls High School, on left, and recasting parking lots, on right, where a crew is applying a liquefied gilsonite ore product supplied by Eco-Logic, Inc., of Twin Falls to the Robert Stuart Junior High School lot. The gilsonite blends with the asphalt of the parking lot, providing a new surface at less expense than a complete repaving job. At the high school, workmen for the Rutledge Brothers Co. of Boise, recasting roofs of the high school and Vera C. O'Leary Junior High, found badly decayed wood which must be replaced. The job should be completed by mid-July, however, according to Jeff T. Anderson, school district clerk.

Fun rules 'Fink day'

FINK, Tex. (UPI)—Some fink in Sioux City, Iowa, called Mayor Pat Albright and wished her a happy Fink Day. Another one called from Tampa, Fla., and still another from Morgan City, La. Then there was that fink out in Hollywood.

He called Mayor Albright and told her he was a genuine movie scout and he was coming to Fink to check out the possibility of making National Fink Day into a movie.

Mrs. Albright is a grandmother and said Wednesday during this year's National Fink Day celebration she is too old to think some movie producer would try to lead her down the primrose path. She is eagerly waiting his arrival.

But the fun and gaiety of Fink Day is over for another year. The city swelled to five or six times its normal population Thursday as finks from all over the United States celebrated the closest thing to a cacchanal to be found between Pottsboro and the Oklahoma border.

There was Mayor Albright, her husband Willard and Deputy Mayor Lucy Clement dishing out the free barbecue and serving the free soda to the Finks, the Finkes and the Funks who showed up for the holiday. The mayor had to keep ducking into the backroom of the general store to answer the telephone calls from New York, Chicago, Milwaukee, Indianapolis, Nashville, San Francisco, Tampa, Morgan City and Sioux City.

Poet Laureate L. L. Fink of nearby Denison declined to write a poem for the occasion this year but a group of Dallas welfare workers took up a collection and sent $1.50 along with a poignant verse to Mayor Albright.

"There was once a town named Fink,
"That raised up an awful stink,
"Cause the people did flee
"And left only three who didn't know what to think.
"So now we are going to see
"If we can drum up more citizenry,

"Before the town of Fink
"Becomes extinct,
"And loses its number three."
The poem is steeped in Finklore. It is based on a tale of recession and the closing of nearby Perrin Air Force Base which forced two families to move from Fink and reduce the population from 12 to 3.

Refunds ordered

NEW YORK (UPI)—The State Supreme Court Thursday ordered the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel to refund more than $100,000 in "sundry" charges added to the bills of guests who stayed at the hotel between December, 1969 and May, 1970.

At the same time the court permanently enjoined the hotel from reverting to its former practice of adding the 2 per cent charge, ostensibly for internal message and telephone service.

Attorneys for the hotel said they would appeal the decision. Justice Harold Baer ruled that "the charge for message services delineated as sundries was fraudulent and unconscionable."

Under the court's decision, some 64,300 guests are entitled to refunds of at least $113,202. In addition, the hotel, by court order, must pay $2,000 to the office of State Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz.

Lefkowitz brought the charges against the hotel, claiming the 2 per cent "sundries" charge was fraudulent and in violation of the general business law.

Lefkowitz had sought treble damages but Baer ruled that the law only permitted him to compel the hotel to refund the overcharges.

Personnel confined to bases

CAN THO, Vietnam (UPI)—All U.S. military personnel in the Mekong Delta area have been confined to their bases for three days in the largest narcotics crackdown of the Indochina War, military sources disclosed today.

All cities, towns and villages will remain off limits for military personnel for an indefinite period, sources said.

"The drive is not aimed at making arrests for narcotics violations, but at giving soldiers every opportunity to take advantage of the amnesty program," a military source said.

In conjunction with the drive, South Vietnamese police have begun a series of raids of bars and other establishments normally frequented by off duty U.S. soldiers in search of narcotics.

All persons entering and leaving U.S. military installations have been searched since 5:30 a.m. Tuesday, when the drive began, sources said.

Senate draft bill outlined

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Major provisions of the draft bill as passed by the Senate: Extension: The draft would be extended for two more years until June 30, 1973. Conscription expires Wednesday unless the bill is enacted.

Indochina: A "national policy" would be established for total withdrawal from Indochina nine months from enactment if all prisoners of war held by the enemy are released.

Pay: Military pay and allowances would be raised by $2.7 billion a year, with 75 per cent going to first and second-year men, in an effort to produce an all-volunteer army. The average recruit's basic pay and allowances for quarters and subsistence, would increase from $2,750 a year to $5,328, counting other pay hikes already granted by Congress.

Deferments: The President would be authorized to end student deferments—but would be barred from withdrawing deferments from freshmen who entered college in the 1970-71 academic year. Divinity students would be deferred but would be eligible if they fail to pursue a career in the ministry after college. High school students would be deferred until 20.

Rights: Draft registrants would be guaranteed the right to bring a lawyer and witnesses when they appear before local or appeals boards to request exemption.

Doctors: Physicians would be exempt from duty if they agree to practice at least four years in urban ghettos or other areas with a shortage of doctors.

Prosecution: Persons who register for the draft can be prosecuted up to age 31, instead of age 23.

Enforcement required

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Public Utilities commission said Thursday it will enforce intersection restrictions on Burlington-Northern, Inc., in Sandpoint.

The PUC has instructed the railroad not to permit its trains to block public crossings in Sandpoint when the trains will be stopped for more than ten minutes.

The commission order came after citizen's complaints had been made to the office of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

Sport fish funds due

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Idaho will receive $97,262 for sport fish restoration work in the coming fiscal year from the Department of the Interior.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, made the announcement Thursday and said the funds come from the 10 per cent excise tax on fishing rods, reels, creels, and artificial baits, lures and flies levied by the federal government.

Glacier Bay National Monument is an area of almost 3,600 square miles containing more than 20 major glaciers. A special guided eight-hour boat tour is conducted by the National Park Service in the summer months.

Horace Hall

BURLEY — Horace Osburn Hall, 78, a pioneer Burley resident and civic leader, died Wednesday at Cassia Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Hall was born Dec. 25, 1892, at Hyrum, Utah, and came to Burley in 1916.

He married Leona Pickett on May 22, 1919, in the Salt Lake City LDS Temple. They celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in 1969.

He was a veteran of World War I.

An active member of the LDS Church, Mr. Hall served many positions, including 13 years in the stake presidency. At the age of 22, he went to England for a two-year mission from 1914 to 1916. On his return, he continued in the church work, serving as bishop of the Burley Second Ward for several years, serving in the Burley Stake MIA, served on the High Council, and as high priest group leader.

In serving his community, Mr. Hall was a member of the American Legion, the Burley Rotary Club and the chamber of commerce. He was elected to the old Burley School District board of trustees and had served as chairman of the board.

During World War II, Mr. Hall served as chairman of the Burley unit of the Federal Office of Price Administration (OPA).

He also served on the Cassia County commission for many years, and had been named chairman of the board.

Survivors include his wife, Burley; two sons, Dr. Rex P. Hall, Twin Falls, and Forrest O. Hall, Burley; one daughter, Mrs. Malcolm (Barbara) Allred, Logan, Utah; 14 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Burley Fifth-Seven Ward Chapel by Bishop Walter R. Peterson. Final rites will follow in Pleasant View Cemetery. Friends may call at Payne Mortuary this evening and Saturday until time of services.

The family suggests contributions to the Heart Fund or the Primary Children's Hospital, Salt Lake City.

Waste study made

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — A county-wide comprehensive solid waste study has been authorized by Twin Falls County Commissioners in the hope of improving dump grounds, Merl E. Leonard, commissioner, said today.

Dr. Robert Fasolino, Pocatello, planning expert, is working with the county zoning administrator, Ed Woods, in a program authorized earlier this month by the board of commissioners.

Woods said the study will cover such aspects as solid waste disposal needs, locations and numbers of sites and will take into consideration new state regulations on burning and other disposal standards adopted by the past session of the Idaho Legislature and becoming effective July 1.

There are presently about 14 dump sites in the county, many of which are not suitably located and are difficult to maintain, Leonard said.

He said the commission office Friday received a report of a number of dead animals including everything from cats and dogs to pigs and cows at the Lilly Grade and Balanced Rock area dumps. He said the Buhl Highway District agreed to cover the animals in these specific cases.

Disposal of dead animals in public dump grounds is illegal, Leonard said, and residents found to be disposing of dead animals in this nature will be prosecuted. Twin Falls Hide and Tallow will remove dead animals or they may be properly buried by the owners.

Cost of the study is expected to be several thousand dollars, depending on whether or not the local county study eventually ties in with the multi-county planning program.

Leonard said the commissioners expect the study to be complete within about 30 days giving them some recommendations on which to work late this summer.

Some of the county's dump grounds are located too close to farm and residential properties, but suitable sites must be found before they can be moved.

It looks brown, but grass will grow

'Gunk' new mulch for fresh campus grass

TWIN FALLS — The brown "gunk" on the new grass around the College of Southern Idaho Commons Building and new dormitory is supposed to be there — and the grass will grow, despite appearances, according to grounds superintendent Robert McManaman.

The brown, papery stuff is a new type of mulch that protects growing grass and provides nourishment through built-in fertilizer. As the grass grows through it, the mulch will eventually mix with the soil and disappear, McManaman said.

Landscaping of the new buildings at CSI is proceeding at a rapid rate, along with installation of a sprinkler system in fringe areas formerly watered by large pipe which had to be carried by hand to the desired area.

"Landscaping" inside the Commons Building, principally made up of large, attractive green plants in equally sizable pots, has suffered somewhat from student "interest" and some abuse. Many students, passing a green plant, are compelled to touch it to see if it's real, McManaman said.

"We have suffered some end damage from handling of the plants. In addition, several have apparently been pulled up by the roots for some reason or other," McManaman added.

Some plants in the Commons Building appear deceptively to have died, or be in the last stages of dying, when actually they are going through their "summer slump." The plants will "lie down," drooping their leaves and in some extreme cases appear completely dead. Then, as temperature and humidity change they will perk up.

Five plants out of 28 have been lost so far, but they will be replaced, McMannan added.

City question meet Saturday

TWIN FALLS — Residents of Twin Falls who may have questions about city governmental matters, street programs, irrigation water, summer recreation, law enforcement or any other facet of city operation are invited to meet Saturday morning from 9:30 a.m. to noon with Paul Ostyn, city council member.

This is the first of a proposed series of meetings each Saturday morning in the city council chambers for informal question and answer sessions designed to help provide better communications between the council and residents of the city.

Ostyn said each Saturday a different council member will conduct the session and if they are unable to answer the questions immediately, will make every effort to obtain an answer and contact the inquiring resident.

Board OK's instructors

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls musician Jay Hill will instruct a new vocational piano class encompassing 20 hours of classwork this fall at the College of Southern Idaho.

Hill and eight other new instructors and professors were approved by the CSI board of trustees on recommendation of CSI President, Dr. James L. Taylor at the June board meeting.

Hill's class is designed to teach anyone interested in piano, with the emphasis on public playing such as in churches and assemblies, according to Orval Bradley, director of the CSI Vocational School.

Karl Black, former owner and operator of the Twin Falls Business College, will join the vocational school faculty as professor of business in a new "cluster-course" series of classes. The instruction will cover a variety of office skills akin to those taught by the business college.

Dr. Taylor told the trustees in recommending Black's appointment that the college has wanted to initiate the business-cluster concept for several years, but hesitated while the business college was in operation, since the classes are so similar.

Lucille Pimentel, former director of nursing at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, will join the vocational school faculty to teach an in-service class for nurses' aides and hospital orderlies. All persons enrolling in the class must be employed either as a nurses' aide or an orderly, Bradley said.

The class is designed strictly to upgrade the work of persons working in the field of nursing care, and is not a preparatory course, Bradley emphasized. The local class is part of a statewide series of instructional courses which have gained the approval of the Idaho Board of Education, the Board of Vocational Education and the Idaho Practical Nurses Association.

Nearly 40 students have enrolled in Mrs. Pimentel's class already, Bradley said Thursday.

Gigi Erdolsa was hired as an instructor in the new LPN nursing program at the CSI Vocational School, and the academic RN nursing class was given three new instructors.

Peggy Stanfield will teach nutrition in the RN program, and Marilyn Adkison and Jane Graf will teach the elements of nursing.

Dr. Calvin Butler was appointed associate professor of mathematics and Tom Breske was named professor of music in the final faculty appointments. Breske will join the music department as a new professor.

Washington man winner

WEISER (UPI) — Alvin Sanderson, 75, Seattle, Wash., captured the seniors championship at the National Oldtime Fiddlers Convention Thursday night in Weiser.

Tonight the national ladies champion will be decided as well as the semi-finalists in the grand champion division.

High country camps, recreation sites open

TWIN FALLS — Higher elevation roads are continuing to improve and additional camping facilities and recreational sites are opening to the public, Sawtooth National Forest Service officials said today.

Of the coming weekend the report by districts shows the Hailey district's entire campground network open. Main roads are all open but rough in spots and streams are still high.

In the Ketchum district, Wood River Campground still has some construction but six new units are complete and open. Main roads are open in good condition but side roads are still muddy. Dollar Hide Summit is still closed and Trail Creek road is narrow and rough. Some of the high trails leading to lakes are still under snow. There is no hiking permitted above 8,500 feet elevation.

Sawtooth Valley reports all campgrounds and picnic areas open at Red Fish Lake except the North Shore picnic area which is still closed. No reservations are being made this year.

Smokely Bear and North Shore areas are open at Alturas Lake but Inlet Campground at Alturas is closed because of extremely high water. Some roads are still muddy but drying in the higher elevations, up to 9,000 feet. Water is crossing the Fourth of July Creek road and some high trails are still snow bound.

Farley Lake, Hell Roaring, Champion and Bench Lakes are all accessible. Alpine Lake is thawing but still with some snow. Streams are extremely high and mosquitoes are bad around standing water.

All campgrounds are open in the Fairfield area and main roads are good. The Big Smokey road is rough and lower trails are open although the river is high.

All campgrounds are open in the Shake Creek area and the pool is filled at Baumgartner Campground. The road is graded from Featherville to Big Smokey but side roads are only in fair condition although open. Trails are poor. Anderson Reservoir is full and some debris is floating on the water but fishing is good. The South Fork of the Boise River is high.

In the Twin Falls district, south hills campgrounds are all open and side roads are drying out. The Oakley to Rogerson road is closed from Porcupine Springs to Oakley and the Third Fork trail is open.

In the Burley district, only the Bennett Springs campground is open in Howell Canyon. Bostetter and the Father and Sons campgrounds are open in the Bostetter area. Lake Cleveland is still inaccessible. The only route open to the City of Rocks is through Almo and roads there are still rough. Trails are inaccessible and streams are high.

All campgrounds are open in the Malta area but roads are extremely rutted. Trails are open and fishing is good.

All designated campgrounds and picnic areas are open under the fee system with the Golden Eagle badge covering use or a fee of $1 per carload per day collected on a noon to noon basis.

Columbia dam hopes declining

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — An Army Corps of Engineers official told the state Interim Committee on Fisheries Game and Game Fish here Thursday that "environmentally speaking, chances to place more dams on the Columbia or Snake Rivers are near zero."

Gordon H. Fernald, chief corps engineers in the northwest, added in response to a question that further sources of power must come from thermal nuclear sources rather than hydro-electric sources.

The meeting was called to gather information concerning the problem of nitro supersaturation of fish in the Lower Columbia and Snake River system.

Boulevard of broken dreams.

It's sad. When you think of all the shiny, late model cars that find their way to lots like these. What's worse are some of the price tags you find in the windows. But when somebody's in the business of buying and selling used cars, he goes by the book. The NADA Official Used-Car Guide. And the Guide will tell you that most cars lose just about half of their original value during the first three years. But then, most cars aren't Volkswagens.

According to the Guide, the same Volkswagen Beetle that sold for about $500 less than the average economy car three years ago, now sells for about $200 more. That's because we spent 23 years making a Volkswagen work better, instead of just making it look different. So before you invest your hard-earned cash in a new car, think about the resale value of a VW. And while you're at it, think about the money you don't have to spend to own and operate one. Pleasant dreams.

Bad plugs aid air pollution

TWIN FALLS — More than two thirds of the cars on the road are out of tune and pollute beyond legal limits, according to Charles Crawford, regional field engineer for Champion Spark Plugs who spoke Thursday to College of Southern Idaho vocational students.

His demonstration at the college's vocational school suggested a definite relation between spark plug condition and exhaust emission control.

Carl Englebrecht, automotive instructor at CSI, said spark plug failure often results from improper servicing. As spark plugs deteriorate, he said, the car will pollute.

He said that even pollution-conscious people don't realize the need for frequent tune-ups. Big engines often smother effects of deteriorated parts and misfiring by still giving a smooth performance, according to Englebrecht.

He said that another common cause of pollution from cars is a clogged air cleaner. He added that this condition is complicated by rich fuel mixtures.

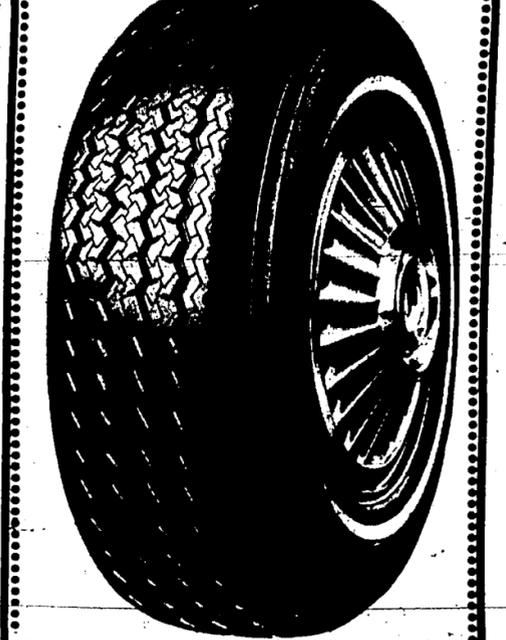

Crawford said an average of one third of all cars operating today have incorrect timing for their fuel types.

They said that new federal pollution regulations have caused a 20 per cent loss of horsepower on unleaded fuels. He said that under these conditions 15 per cent more fuel is required for the same performance.

Students asked whether a return to horses would solve the pollution problem. Crawford said replacement of only the 17 million cars in the Los Angeles area would require at least 34 million horses to provide two horses for each carriage.

He said problems of hay storage and waste from horses would make this return to nature infeasible.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some insiders in the Nixon administration are more troubled than they will say publicly over what the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation case tells them about the unhappy and heavy interdependence of one important group of U.S. companies and the Defense Department.

Involved in the overall picture, though little mentioned in the public discussions, are assorted subcontracts involving many smaller firms.

For the sad thing is that the Lockheed situation is not unique. For the past 20 years of Republican and Democratic administrations, the Pentagon has been actively engaged in bailing out companies, large and small, because to let them go down the drain would have endangered the national security, national economic stability or an administration's employment policies.

These past increases in funds for companies in trouble have not attracted the wide attention of the Lockheed case. But they have, in the aggregate, cost much more in government dollars.

Sometimes the problem has been solved by "price adjustments." Sometimes advance payments have been stepped up. Sometimes additional work has been thrown the way of the company. Sometimes loans have been managed through implied government guarantees. There are a multitude of ways to supply private firms with more federal funds.

So far as can be discovered, the decisions have been made by government men, largely civilians, operating in what they believe to be public interest.

It could turn out that a government-guaranteed loan to Lockheed is essential and in the best interests of the United States. But what has developed is deeply disturbing all the same.

If this were a simple matter of corruption, it would be easily correctable. Each new administration could sweep out evil men and public prosecutors indict businessmen involved. What has happened is more worrisome.

Over the years a select group of companies has grown used to Pentagon ways. They have acquired the know-how required to deal effectively within the Pentagon maze.

Working with the Pentagon side, from which you know is more comfortable. Old shoes feel better.

There is a learning curve that companies go through in meeting government specifications and in following government procurement procedures and work practices. It is a complicated jungle that many companies run from and others go broke at.

Many firms prefer to stay away from the roller-coaster ups and downs of defense business but those which are successful spend much of their effort in mastering the techniques. Often they do alter their organization and business practices that they may lose their ability to compete in the non-government world.

All of these factors tend to keep some companies regularly tied to the defense business. They also operate to discourage new entries. Gradually the field gets smaller—at least in major areas.

The process is intensified by what might be called the Pentagon speed syndrome. The Pentagon is always in hurry. Sometimes this is because Congress has waited so long to vote appropriations that the Defense Department must run to catch up with its program.

An official in a hurry favors a man he has dealt with before because he knows what that man can do, and what he can't.

A company used to dealing with a particular type of weapon or equipment often can do the job more rapidly and with fewer misunderstandings and mistakes.

Thus, the Pentagon has over the years tended to concentrate its major contracts within a fairly tight circle.

Only A Part

Statistics cannot begin to tell the story of destruction brought by the growth of drug addiction, but they do provide a measure of the task which lies ahead to destroy this scourge.

Five years ago, in 1966, the U.S. Customs arrested 2,522 persons and made 1,206 seizures for illicit narcotics. By fiscal 1970, this activity had increased to 4,500 arrests and 3,900 seizures. For the first nine months of the current fiscal year, 5,700 persons have been arrested and 7,000 shipments of narcotics like heroin and cocaine have been confiscated.

Part of this statistical growth can be attributed to greater diligence on the part of customs inspectors. But the sad fact is illicit narcotics are still pouring into the United States from abroad and usage is expanding, as each new study indicates.

Customs officials are doing as much as they can to stop and influx, but theirs is a foreboding task. The borders of this land are immense, the routes in, around and over are circuitous. And the market, for the suppliers, is rich and waiting.

Despite the best of efforts to stop narcotics at the border, the real challenge remains in the community. The home, school and courts all have a part to play. Until the community accepts the challenge with a real determination, addicts and addiction will continue to multiply.

Typical Family

Recognize this family? It has a husband, wife and two teenage children. The husband is nearly 45 and the wife is approaching her 42nd birthday. They live in a suburb of a metropolitan area and the husband drives to his industrial job in the family car.

The family has an income of $9,870 and, despite inflation, lives about twice as well as the preceding generation. They own their own five-room home, valued at $17,000, and have a mortgage on it.

They have a clothes washing machine, a television set, a radio and a telephone and they subscribe to their local daily newspaper. They are, according to the Census Bureau, the average American family.

Now in Magic Valley this average might not hold up because averages just don't work that way. But in almost every measurable way, the average family of today has progressed from the average of 1950.

For Magic Valley area residents that's a comforting thought — on the average, that is.

Utopian Conditions

Getting tired of working? Do you think you are abused because you have to work 35 hours a week? Looking forward to the 30-hour week?

Well, let's reflect a moment on how far workmen have progressed in the last 120 years or so. Our source? A set of rules having to do with working conditions and such for clerical help in an office in the year 1852 were found when an old ghetto building was recently torn down. This is the real McCoy — not a dreamed up set of rules.

So, while you are resting in your easy chair this evening, read on:

1—Godliness, Cleanliness and Punctuality are necessities of a good business.

2—This firm has reduced the hours of work. The clerical staff will now have to be present only between the hours of 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. on weekdays.

3—Daily prayers will be held each morning in the main office. Members of the clerical staff will present.

4—Clothing must be of a sober nature. The clerical staff will not disport themselves in raiment of bright colors, nor will they wear unrepaired hose.

5—Overshoes and topcoats may not be worn in the office, but neck scarves and head wear may be worn in inclement weather.

6—A stove is provided for the benefit of the clerical staff. Coal and wood must be kept in the locker. It is recommended that each member of the clerical staff bring four pounds of coal each day during cold weather.

7—No member of the clerical staff may leave the room without permission from Mr. Rogers. The calls of nature are permitted. The clerical staff may use the garden below the second gate. This area must be kept in good order.

8—No talking is allowed during business hours.

9—The craving for tobacco, wines or spirits is a human weakness and, as such, is forbidden to all members of the clerical staff.

10—Now that the hours of business have been drastically reduced, the partaking of food is allowed between 11:30 a.m. and noon, but work will not, on any account, cease.

11—Members of the clerical staff will provide their own pens. A new sharpener is available from Mr. Rogers.

12—Mr. Rogers will nominate a senior clerk to be responsible for the cleanliness of the main office and the private office, and all boys and juniors will report to him 40 minutes before prayers and remain after closing hours for similar work. Brushes, brooms, scrubbers and soap are provided by the owners.

13—The new increased weekly wages are as hereunder detailed:

Junior boys (to 11 years) 15 cents

Boys (to 14 years), 25 cents

Junior clerks $1.05

Senior clerks (15 years seniority) $2.50

14—The owners recognize the generosity of the new labor laws but expect a great rise in output to compensate for these near-Utopian conditions.

That Campaign

WASHINGTON — The most significant development in the current premature but very real Presidential campaign was hammered out by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley in a recent two-hour meeting with Sen. Teddy Kennedy.

At the end of the long session, according to reliable sources, Kennedy finally assured Daley — perhaps the Midwest's most influential power broker — that he would accept the Democratic nomination if drafted by the convention. Kennedy would not accede to Daley's demand that he enter "at least a couple" of primaries.

Daley assured Kennedy time and again that Democratic leaders across the country wanted him as the party nominee. The Democrats want to win, said Daley — it is as simple as that. However, he also told Kennedy that both Sen. Ed Muskie and Sen. Hubert Humphrey were acceptable to the leadership and that therefore Kennedy should "get out and work hard in the boondocks" between now and convention time to polish his image.

The Chicago mayor lectured Kennedy about spending too much time with his "fancy friends," and urged that the young senator move toward the political center. "I never read about you attending a cop's funeral," Daley said. He was critical of Kennedy's public utterances endorsing mass protests against the Vietnam War, and added he'd like to "see you saying something nice about a cop once in awhile."

Daley used his own recent reelection as a point in advising Kennedy to shift to the middle ground. "I wasn't elected by a bunch of demonstrators," said Daley. The mayor also cautioned the senator against assuming that 18-year-olds would vote liberal in 1972. There is, said the mayor, a "silent majority" of centrists within the youth bloc.

Daley takes his own polls, and they agree with the public surveys that show Kennedy is gaining strength around the country. More importantly, perhaps, Daley's polls are taken of Democratic leaders down to the precinct level, and some of them, show Kennedy now leading Muskie. It is these leaders, of course, who will cast votes at the Democratic convention.

Meanwhile, there is evidence that Daley and other party wheelers and dealers are impressed by the findings of public polls. The most recent of these, by Louis Harris, showed Kennedy trailing Muskie by only one percentage point as the choice of Democratic and Independent voters for the Presidential nomination.

Moreover, Muskie's 22 per cent of the vote was an eight-point loss since March. Kennedy's 21 per cent was an eight-point gain. This is the stuff that can be decisive in changing the minds of politicians leaning to other candidates. As Daley pointed out, the Democrats want to win.

Curiously, President Nixon and his political aides also are pleasantly impressed by Kennedy's recent surge. Although they'd never admit it publicly, they'd rather run against Kennedy than against Ed Muskie. The reason is that in their view Muskie has no serious, visible liabilities. They see the man from Maine coming through as a straightforward, just-folks Middle American, in contrast to Kennedy's "Beautiful People" image, burdened by the incident at Chappaquiddick.

And then there is Hubert Humphrey. Every word he has uttered lately indicates he's eager to get into the Democratic race. If Humphrey decides to run, he'll pick up most of his strength at Muskie's expense. And with Sen. George McGovern also running hard, the stage would be set for a deadlock at the convention — and a Daley-led movement to draft Teddy Kennedy.

The Panthers

Here I have the most recent audit, roll call and prospects of the Black Panthers. They've had their teeth pulled if they ever had any.

It was in 1966 that Huey Newton and Bobby Seale in Oakland, Calif., proclaimed themselves Black Panthers.

The name, for obvious reasons, caught on. They financed their earliest activities by buying copies of Mao Tse-tung's little red book of quotations for 30 cents and selling them to radical students for a dollar. They used the profits to buy guns.

Now let's face it, the sight of a black man with a gun is enough to arouse irrational fear. And this white man's hanger or hangup or whatever it is commanded for a pitiful handful of black punks nationwide prominence.

Never have the Panthers numbered more than a few thousand, yet they shoved multimillion-dollar member organizations off the front pages.

Early Panthers paraded around in berets and combat boots, printed a newsletter, staged rallies.

Then they started following Oakland police around with lawbooks as well as guns, to make sure they said that black suspects were not abused.

And J. Edgar Hoover, no less, labeled the few dozen Black Panthers of 1968 "the greatest threat to the internal security of the United States."

Perhaps we who are home-based in Chicago panic less readily.

Panthers and 11 policemen have been killed. Though in no case has a Panther been convicted of murder.

However we do and should deplore these killings of 15 Panthers and 11 police.

During just the first nine months of last year and just in Chicago, other street gangs waged warfare in which 64 blacks and 12 police were killed.

So Chicagoans never did get around to chewing fingernails over the paper Panthers.

Now, what's left of the disintegrated organization demonstrates that it never did deserve the press prominence it got.

Yet two more books have been written about them: "A Special Rage" and "Panthermania." One author is a black man, the other is a white woman.

And these histories of the Panther movement converge on this conclusion: The Black Panthers proclaim the same rage which most all blacks feel, but which others, for one cop-out or another, do not show. The masses of black people are too busy surviving to concern themselves with ideology. Yet to them the Panthers are, however, secretly, admired as black men who are not afraid, who cannot be quieted by money or threats, who are not whispering subservient little things the way black men used to do. These are saying it out loud — in courthouses, outside courthouses, in prisons, at Yale and on TV. It was mostly bluster. Yet maybe a lot of black frustration, thus vented, is now less volatile.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

At My Age

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had an operation, my womb and one tube removed. The doctor didn't explain what changes would take place, and I was embarrassed to ask at my age, 38. I should know.

Will I notice any difference when I go through the change of life? Will I have any discharge, or menstruate? Is there any chance whatsoever of my getting pregnant? — N. X.

I don't know why you "should" know just because you're 38. The best way to find out things you don't know is to ask — and don't be embarrassed. Nobody knows everything.

You had the womb, or uterus, removed. (That's hysterectomy.) And a tube removed (salpingectomy). But evidently did not have an ovary removed. (That would be oophorectomy.)

With the uterus gone, you cannot get pregnant, and will not menstruate. There will be a discharge only if some infection of the vagina develops, which is usually due to a parasite (trichomonas) or yeast invasion. Such infections can, of course, develop whether you do or do not have a uterus.

There will be no change in sexual function unless you create it psychologically, and believe some of the unfounded reports that are still being circulated about such operations "ending your sex life." They don't.

With your ovaries intact, you can expect to experience menopause, or "change of life" at the same time you would have done so without the operation, probably somewhere in your 40s, possibly as late as early 50s.

Symptoms of menopause can be highly variable, but this is not because of your operation. The operation will have nothing to do with it. (But had both ovaries been removed, then you would have experienced "surgical menopause" immediately.)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Sometimes I get cramps in my toes so bad while asleep that it wakes me up. My doctor prescribes pills, but when I complain all I get is more pills that do not help. — Mrs. E. C.

Sometimes it takes more than pills — so cooperation on your part, in the way of proper diet and some very simple exercises, may make the difference. I suggest that you send 25 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy of my booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Send request to me in care of Times-News.

BERRY'S WORLD

"The thing I enjoy most about class reunions is that I make everybody feel so good!"

Project approach questioned

BOISE (UPI) — The attorney for the Idaho Water Resource Board said Thursday he felt both the state and Idaho Power Company are viewing the proposed Grandview-Guffey Project to find "what's best for the proposed Grandview — including the company."

Phillip Peterson told the interim legislative water resources committee, however, the direction of the board in its plans has been toward state ownership — rather than joint ownership of the Snake River Project as proposed by Idaho Power — because that appeared to be the direction backed by the Senate Resources Committee.

"If the attitude of the committee changes, we'd certainly like to know about it," he said.

But Logan Lanham, customer relations representative for the utility, told the committee the power company was "willing to evaluate" the proposal but so far had made no commitment.

Any final commitments, he said, are "way down the road, as far as I can see."

Peterson told committee members the timetable outlined earlier in the year for contract negotiations by September is "optimistic." When asked, however, if the committee members would have sufficient information when the legislature next convenes to make a recommendation to their fellow lawmakers, Peterson said the board and its staff would do its "level best" to make information available.

Sen. Richard High, R - Twin Falls, said the joint venture as originally outlined had "certain benefits to both the state and the utility, but added under state ownership the power company would lose nothing and there would be "substantial extra benefits" to the state, including tax exemptions on property and a lower interest rate.

Earlier in the day, Dr. Robert R. Lee, director of the water board, said Idaho Power had agreed to help finance costs of required studies and the application for a license before the federal power commission on the basis the company would be reimbursed if total

Dissension hits Israel

By United Press International
Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban today criticized Defense Minister Moshe Dayan for saying an outbreak of a new war in the Middle East is inevitable and berated former Air Force Chief Ezer Weizman for saying Israel should occupy Cairo if a new war breaks out. Signs of other dissension came from Premier Golda Meir who told Bar Ilan University students today Israel faced a greater threat from internal division and strife than from its belligerent Arab neighbors. She apparently referred to a recent rash of strikes and a threat by the National Religious party to withdraw from the coalition government.

Eban set forth his views in an interview with the Tel Aviv evening newspaper Yedioth Aharonoth.

He said Israel should pursue efforts to reopen the Suez Canal under an interim agreement with Cairo but admitted chances for such an accord were slim. He also called for a concentrated effort to highlight Soviet efforts to disrupt the international equilibrium through Russia's pact with Egypt.

Then he turned to Dayan's recent statement that a new outbreak of war appeared inevitable and said:

"I do not join public predictions the resumption of war in the Middle East is inevitable, because of two main reasons. First of all, I think this evaluation is factually incorrect because it does not take into account the weight of the deterrent factors at work on both sides. Secondly, I think such predictions don't do us any good."

Corona due cell return

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Mass murder suspect Juan V. Corona is well enough to return to his jail cell today, one week after he was hospitalized with chest pains, doctors have decided.

Physicians said Corona, 37, who has lost 25 pounds since his arrest as suspect in the killing of 25 itinerant farm workers, had suffered no heart damage although tests "suggested there was a disturbance."

"Our feeling is that the chest pains were probably the result of tension," said Dr. Thomas Leavenworth, chief of staff at Sutter County General Hospital. "He is experiencing no pain now and seems more settled now."

Then he turned to Weizman's statement that Israel should capture Cairo to force Egypt to sign a peace treaty and said:

"This is a theory divorced of every political and military reality. This is a dream, a night-dream, a nightmare, to be more exact. Such an adventure will yield unnecessary losses because no political objectives will thus be achieved."

Mrs. Meir spoke at ceremonies at the university in Tel Aviv where she was awarded an honorary doctor of philosophy degree.

Arab toll set at 8 in clashes

By United Press International
The Israeli command said today its soldiers have killed eight Arab guerrillas in two clashes in the occupied Golan Heights section of Syria this week. No Israeli casualties were reported.

Both clashes took place a few days apart in the Khushliyah sector of the Israeli-Syrian cease-fire line, it said. The command did not give further details.

In Cairo, the editor of the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram, Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, said in his weekly column published today that 1971 was a year of decision in the Middle East. Egypt, he added, could have to take two major judgments: "The first is that it is no longer possible ... to reach a peaceful settlement with Israel. The second is that we must adopt a policy toward the United States to paralyze its role in support of Israel." He did not go into detail.

Ship burns

ORE CARRIER Roger Blough, largest ship built on Great Lakes, was damaged Thursday by fire believed to have started from explosion. Here, firemen lay hoses to battle blaze at Lorain, Ohio. Ship has 45,000 ton capacity, is 858 feet long, and was scheduled for trial voyage July 2. (UPI)

Crisis seizes Penn

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A 3.5 per cent income tax which lifted Pennsylvania out of bankruptcy three months ago has backfired, and today the state is in a worse fiscal crisis than before.

In a ruling which one state official termed nothing short of "catastrophic," the Pennsylvania Supreme Court declared Thursday that the graduated state income tax is unconstitutional.

The decision meant the nation's third largest state will have to bail itself out of bankruptcy for the second time this year, and in addition, must figure out what to do with $135 million in income tax revenue that already has been collected and spent.

Gov. Milton J. Shapp, being frankly pessimistic about chances the court will reconsider the case, summoned leaders of the State House and Senate to the Harrisburg Capitol — on Sunday to discuss stopgap law and Pennsylvania's fiscal problems appeared solved.

The Democratic governor was in office less than three months when the state treasury ran dry and government spending was more than the revenue coming in. Within three days, he enacted the tax into

Plan set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reps. James A. McClure and Orval Hansen, both R-Idaho, announced Thursday a federal program to aid the rural poor of Idaho in securing jobs.

The program is "Operation Hitchhike," sponsored by the Department of Labor. Idaho will receive $112,901 to provide job counseling and training services in the counties of Boundary, Bear Lake, Caribou, Oneida and Franklin.

Exotic foods

FIRST COMMERCIAL shipment from People's Republic of China to be received in United States in 20 years is checked by Customs Inspector Harin Wong, right, and recipient, Bruce Jang, center. Jang's son, Calvert, left, holds crate containing long tailed anchovies, part of exotic foods received by Jang's firm. White rabbit rolls, red date soup and other canned goods were included in shipment which was brought to San Francisco from Vancouver, B. C. (UPI)

Court ponders expose

The Sun-Times in a copyrighted story in today's editions said President Eisenhower secretly established a national policy designed to eliminate Communist control of North Vietnam and reunite the two Vietnams under a pro-American government.

The story also said a month after the Johnson administration stepped up bombing to break the will of the North Vietnamese, top U.S. officials concluded that the bombing would not accomplish that purpose.

It was the third successive day the Sun-Times ran stories it said were taken from the Pentagon report and other "top secret" documents.

The Knight papers, including the Miami Herald, the Detroit

Free Press and the Philadelphia Inquirer, published parts of the report in their Thursday editions but said they had no further plans to print any more.

In other developments Thursday:

—Representatives of Britain and Nationalist China stressed to the United States their concern that diplomatic exchanges might not remain confidential as a result of leaks to the press.

—The Boston Globe was granted permission to print news service stories on the controversial papers although the paper itself could not publish the report.

—Representatives of the newspaper and broadcasting industry were called to testify before the House "freedom of information" subcommittee to tell its side of the controversy.

The government has argued that publication of the report, which was ordered by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in 1967, could damage national security and foreign policy. The newspapers argued it would not and the public had the right to know.

The Times, in its brief to the Supreme Court, said the appeals court ruling would restrain it until July 3 from publishing the material which it said was timely and needed to be printed now. It said other newspapers were printing the material. U.S. Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold said the Times would not be injured by the delay.

"The material contained in these documents will be just as 'current' a week from now as it is today," Griswold said. "The only truly current aspect of this news story is the developing course of judicial decision."

In the Post case, Griswold used a similar argument, saying a delay would not "diminish its (the report's) significance if it ultimately were published." He said publication would damage foreign relations "beyond repair" and would hurt the government's case against the Times.

Hoffa resigns last job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James R. Hoffa has resigned from his last remaining post with the Teamsters union, possibly to enhance his chances for parole from the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary where he is serving a 15-year sentence for mail fraud and jury tampering.

Hoffa resigned as international president last Monday, but Nixon administration officials said then his ties to the union were still too strong to improve the likelihood of parole.

The U.S. Parole Board denied, without comment, his petition March 3. Government officials, however, said Hoffa's refusal to resign from the union presidency, although he had been in prison since March, 1967 hurt his appeal.

Hoffa's lawyers have until June 30 to ask the parole board for reconsideration.

Hoffa announced Thursday his resignation as president of Detroit Local 299, which he used as a springboard to the top of the 2 million member international union. He also announced resignations as chairman and director of the Central Conference of Teamsters, president of Detroit Joint Council 44 and president of the Michigan Conference of Teamsters.

Alcoholism said top U.S. health problem

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A powerful documentary on alcoholism was presented by ABC-TV Wednesday night, with the one-hour broadcast noting that a government agency has judged the disease the nation's No. 1 health problem.

"Alcoholism: Out of the Shadows" was the title of the engrossing study produced and written by James Benjamin, and the agency cited was the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The correspondent for the hour, Frank Reynolds, pointedly described alcohol as a "drug," and, in a searing beginning to the program, an ex-nurse told young students in their classroom about her experiences as an alcohol and narcotics addict before she found help.

Chief focus of the broadcast was on the fact that the social stigma of alcoholism is fading somewhat after a long stone-age approach to the disease by the public and many so-called authorities, including some in the medical profession.

As testimony to this point, the program presented numerous now-sober alcoholics who told openly of their experiences, facing the cameras directly rather than appearing in shadow or protecting their privacy with the often-used video technique of "back-of-the-head" shots.

Another guest, and an eloquent and impressive one, was Iowa Sen. Harold Hughes, a reformed alcoholic who, during his public career, has not hidden the problem he once had.

Hughes, chairman of the Senate special subcommittee on alcoholism and narcotics, said it is a severe error to try to cover up for anyone suffering from the illness of excessive drinking.

Much of the program concentrated on several couples who got together in a home to relate their cases as former alcoholics, and these were intensely human stories.

Carelessness said major fire cause

BOISE (UPI) — Lack of rain, warm temperatures, and an abundance of fuel, but most of all public carelessness, are responsible for the present fire danger in southwestern Idaho, according to a Bureau of Land Management spokesman.

This year, some 19 man-caused fires have consumed nearly 5,300 acres of public land. By this time last year seven fires had burned only 306 acres.

John M. Sherod, chief fire investigator for the Boise district, said "it's not so much the lack of rain as it is the lack of brains."

Noting the poor record, he said the "brunt of the fire sea-

Korean war erupted 21 years ago

By JAMES KIM

SEOUL (UPI)—Twenty-one year ago today the tiny Korean peninsula went up into flames of war, forcing the United States into a full-scale armed confrontation with militant communism for the first time in the Far East.

The hostilities lasted three years and were finally brought to a halt by an armistice agreement in the summer of 1953. No formal peace treaty ever has been signed and an uncompleted state of war still remains in Korea.

In the pre-dawn hours of June 24, 1950, North Korean army divisions pushed across the 38th Parallel in an all-out invasion of South Korea—touching off the Korean conflict.

The Communist invaders quickly overran South Korean border defenses and dashed on to capture the South Korean capital of Seoul in three days.

The initial Communist blows crushed the main force of the 100,000-man South Korean army and it was obvious that South Korea could not hold itself before the might Communist onslaught.

The U.S. hurriedly called a United Nations Security Council meeting which adopted a resolution calling on North-Korea to pull its troops back to the border.

The demand went unheeded, and the council decided to ask U.N. member nations to come to the aid of South Korea.

On June 30, President Harry S. Truman ordered U.S. forces into the Korean theater. Gen Douglas MacArthur was appointed commander-in-chief of all United Nations forces.

The first American ground force from the 24th Infantry Division landed at Osan, South Korea, on July 2. It joined South Korean army troops to stall the pace of the invaders.

The North Koreans, however, captured most of South Korea by July 31.

The U.S. and South Korean forces were now pushed into a small perimeter around the southern port of Pusan. They held on to the perimeter and drove back repeated North Korean attacks.

On Sept. 15, the defending forces moved to turn the tide of the war. The U.S. 1st Marine Division and a South Korean unit landed 150 miles behind enemy lines at Inchon, located 25 miles west of Seoul. Two days later, the 7th U.S. Infantry Division followed the Marines. The Marine force, marched toward Seoul, while the 7th headed south to hit North Korean troops from behind. The North Korean invader forces crumbled on all fronts.

Seoul was re-captured on Sept. 25, U.N. forces which included South Korean troops regained all South Korean territory by Sept. 30, and then marched north across the old border.

On Oct. 19, the North Korean capital of Pyongyang fell into the hands of U.N. forces. On Nov. 21, a unit from the 7th U.S. Infantry Division reached the Yalu River between North Korea and the Communist Chinese territory of Manchuria. The war seemed near an end.

A historic change in the complexion of the war followed. As Gen. Douglas MacArthur's U.N. troops approached the Manchurian border, Communist China sent 600,000 troops in a massive offensive. MacArthur's forces were forced to withdraw and regroup roughly along the 38th parallel.

The Chinese forces controlled all of North Korea by the end of the year in what was viewed by MacArthur as a humiliating defeat for the United States. He blamed orders not to have U.S. aircraft gather intelligence beyond the Yalu for the surprise attacks by the Chinese.

Before the battlefield became relatively static, another Chinese push captured Seoul Jan. 4, but it was retaken again March 15. The opposing sides then settled along the old border between the Koreans.

MacArthur, seeking to regain American prestige, in March—without permission from Washington—called on the Chinese Communists in Korea to surrender, hinting possible air attacks against China if the war was continued. For these and other actions, President Truman felt MacArthur was defying the government's decisions and authority. As commander-in-chief, he removed MacArthur from command.

On June 24 that year Jacob Malik, Russian delegate to the U.N., proposed cease-fire talks to end the Korean hostilities.

On July 10, the first truce talks began at the North Korean town of Kaesung.

The negotiations lasted off-and-on for nearly two years during which forces of the two sides pushed up and down, jockeying for positions to aid their negotiators. Shooting stopped at 10 a.m. July 27 with the signing of an armistice agreement.

Other U.N. nations had 3,143 killed and 11,358 wounded or missing.

The South Korean armed forces saw 225,784 slain and 717,083 wounded, according to an official tabulation.

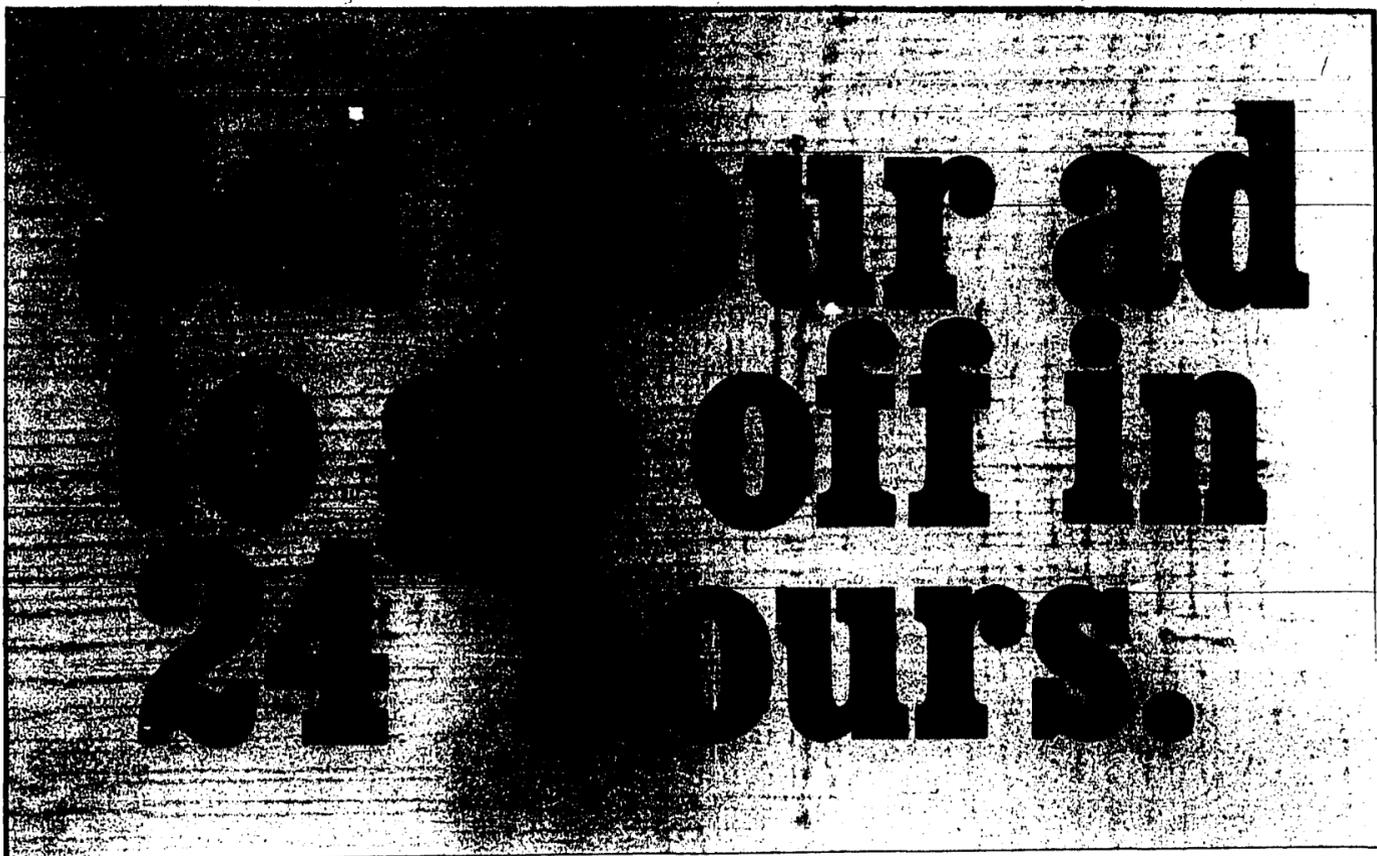

Communist military casualties included 300,000 North Koreans and 200,000 Chinese killed and 220,000 North Koreans and 700,000 Chinese wounded, according to estimates by the U.S. Defense Department.

Network head defies probers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—CBS President Frank Stanton refused Thursday to turn over to a House subcommittee subpoenaed film material from the documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon", and was warned he may face contempt of Congress proceedings.

Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, told the network president: "In my opinion, you are now in contempt of Congress."

"We are going to take under serious consideration the matter of your refusal to produce the records and materials we have requested."

The investigating subcommittee headed by Staggers can recommend contempt action which must be voted on by the House. It is then up to the Justice Department to determine whether to prosecute Stanton.

Stanton conceded in a series of "yes" and "no" answers to Staggers' questions that he had the authority to turn over the materials and that he was aware that his refusal might result in a contempt action.

"I order you to turn over to the subcommittee the materials sought in the subpoena," Staggers demanded.

"I respectfully decline," Stanton replied.

He also declined on grounds of freedom of the press to answer questions by a House subcommittee, which issued the subpoena, about specific editing on the documentary critical of the Defense Department and similar productions.

Stanton did agree to answer questions "which do not seek to probe so deeply into the news process as to reach specific journalistic practices or the editing of particular broadcasts."

Stanton told the subcommittee that the objective of the inquiry was "to determine whether this or any other CBS news report meets government standards of truth" and whether the network in refusing the subcommittee's request was acting within the rights guaranteed by the First Amendment.

Gem Demos clear delegate formulas

BOISE (UPI)—Plans for a one-man, one-Democrat selection of delegates to national presidential nominating conventions and a formula for broader-based participation in the state assembly have been approved by the Idaho Democratic Party's executive committee.

The proposals will be presented in July to the party's rules committee and in September to the State Central Committee in Coeur d'Alene, according to state Chairman Joe McCarter.

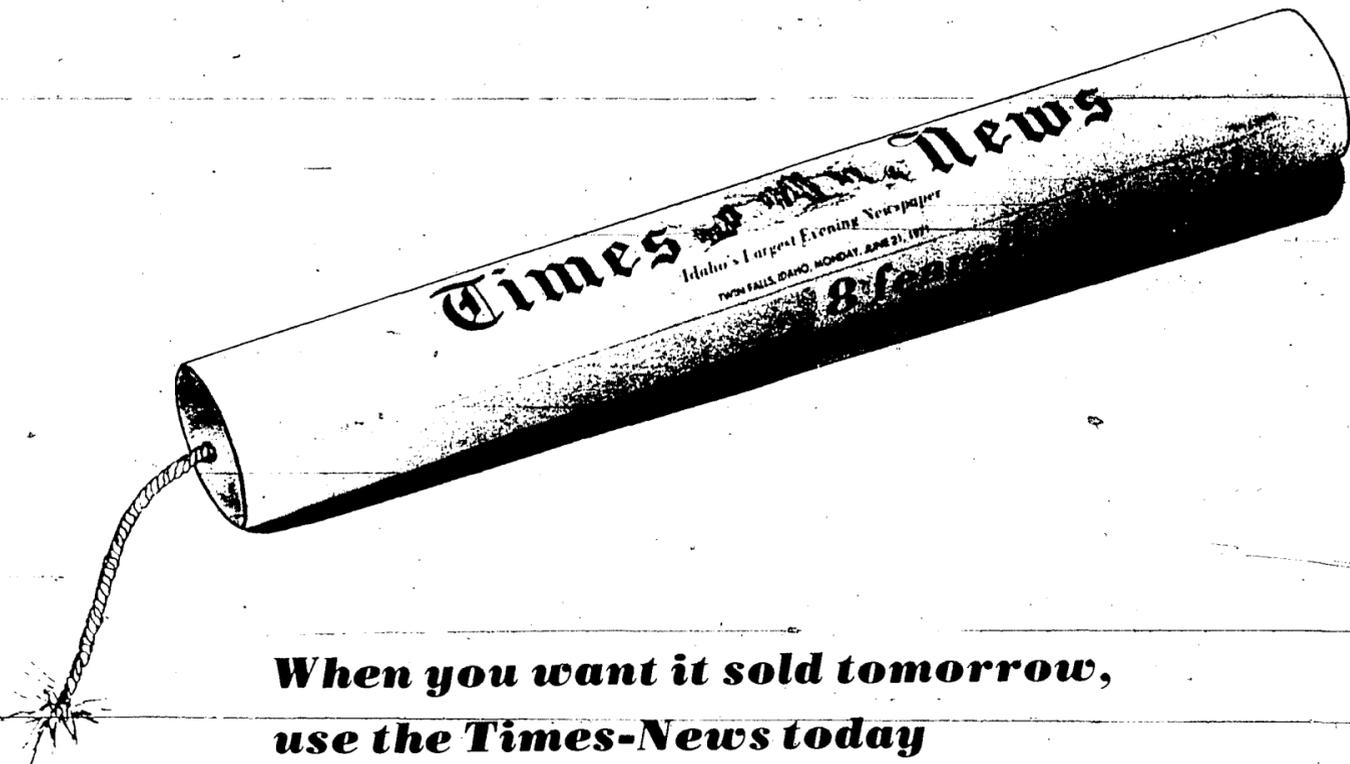

McCarter said the plans would provide for a 350 delegate state convention in April of presidential election years to select delegates to the national convention and an 875-member group to meet in state assemblies to be held in June of each election year.

Noting Utah sends more than 1,000 delegates to party assemblies, McCarter said he thought the broader participation "would be of great advantage to the Democratic party in Idaho."

McCarter said he had proposed new makeup of the State Central Committee and the Biennial state assembly.

Currently the committee is comprised of the state committeeman, committeewoman and chairman of each county and chairman of each legislative district.

The new plan would have five delegates from each legislative district, with the legislative district chairmen and county chairmen to be automatic delegates. Idaho's Democrats have been allowed 17 delegates and 17 alternates to the 1972 national convention.

Tour of Thomas farm set July 1

FILER — Fat grass and fat beef will be recognized July 1 when the Idaho Grassman committee conducts a public tour of the Eugene and John Thomas farms. The event will begin at 9 a.m. at the Filer Fairgrounds and continue through the early afternoon.

The Thomas operations—a father-son combination—won the Grassman-of-the-Year title last fall in competition with candidates from about 30 counties throughout the state. They raise Herefords on 80 acres near Filer and 120 acres near Buhl.

Hugh Hough, Boise, chairman, said farmers, ranchers, and businessmen from many areas are expected for the tour and no-host lunch. The Twin Falls County grassman committee that sponsored the Thomas entry is coordinating the program. E. D. Novacek, Buhl, is chairman of the county committee.

Later orchardgrass and Ranger alfalfa provide pasture and hay that produces more than 1000 pounds of beef per acre. Forage yield of improved varieties has increased to about six tons per acre, compared with four when the new management program was begun.

Several former Idaho Grassman winners are expected, including J. R. Cornell, Jr., of Mountain Home whose beef ranch topped the field in 1969. A number of candidates for the 1971 title are also expected. This year's winner will be determined in November.

Use of fungicide may be feasible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farmers may find it economically practical in some cases to protect their corn crops against Southern corn leaf blight with fungicide sprays, an Agriculture Department scientist said today.

This view represents a change from the stand taken by most experts earlier, Paul J. Fitzgerald said in an interview. Fitzgerald stressed that the Agriculture Department has no formal recommendation on whether farmers should use sprays to prevent development of blight. But he said state experiment station authorities in Illinois are expected to recommend sprays soon and officials in Indiana are expected to begin providing information on sprays "to give farmers an option."

As recently as March, H. R. Thomas of the Agriculture Department's research service had told a House subcommittee fungicide sprays could be used effectively on high-value fields such as sweet corn, but would be too costly on ordinary field corn grown for livestock feed.

"But we're in a completely different situation now," Fitzgerald said today. He said prices for ordinary field corn this fall are expected to be substantially higher than in past years.

Fitzgerald said a good deal of doubt remains on how effective blight sprays may be, particularly if warm, wet weather favors rapid development of the fungus which causes the blight disease.

But, he said, some state authorities believe three to five applications of fungicide can keep yields up to 80 or 90 percent of normal at costs ranging down to $4 an acre per application. The state experts feel this would at least protect the investment farmers already have in the crop and perhaps return a profit at expected price levels, Fitzgerald said.

The government scientists said the final judgment in all cases must be made by individual farmers, considering their own economic picture and the potential blight threat to their crop.

"But personally I cannot take a position to advise against spraying in all cases," Fitzgerald added, "because we may have no other resort."

One key factor in the economics of using sprays to help protect against blight, experts pointed out, is the number of sprays which may be needed. Fitzgerald said the treatments, which some farmers hope to stretch to 10-day intervals, may be needed for at least six weeks. Depending on weather conditions, another expert said, there is a possibility sprays could be needed every five to seven days.

Fitzgerald added that some farmers have already begun using fungicides on corn in Indiana, and others are expected to follow in Illinois within a few days.

Filer youth gets state post

FILER — Trace Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Johnson, was elected to the office of state 4-H vice president at a recent 4-H congress held at Moscow.

Last year he served as state 4-H historian and was in charge of displaying records of the statewide 4-H activities at this year's congress.

Other newly-elected officers for Idaho are Kent Brooten, Coeur d'Alene, president; Connie Hasbrouck, Cascade, secretary; Doris Yasuda, Wilder, historian; Kathy Gillette, Boise, reporter; Brenda Evans, Emmett, sergeant-at-arms, and Doug Sprague, Emmett, song leader.

In the 4-H congress at the University of Idaho 4-H delegates attend classes and workshops very similar to actual college classes. This type of work associates the 4-H members with college and campus life.

California to enforce pesticide regulations

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill giving the State Department of Public Health authority to enforce farm safety regulations for use of pesticides was approved Wednesday by the Senate Health and Welfare Committee.

The measure by Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, was sent to the finance committee on a voice vote despite opposition from the California Farm Bureau Federation and the State Department of Agriculture.

"The highest incidence of industrial accidents, if you want to call it that, happens among farm workers," Petris told the committee.

He blamed environmental pollution problems on "tunnel vision" which causes businesses to pursue their own interests without regard to outside consequences.

Petris argued that while the State Department of Agriculture is concerned primarily with aiding farmers, the Department of Public Health concentrates on health problems and would be better suited to protecting the health of farm workers.

The Farm Bureau opposed the measure on the grounds that the Agriculture Department possesses expertise in the area of pesticide use.

The bill also requires hand-washing facilities and warning signs on farms using pesticides.

QUOTATIONS ARE provided as a service to both farmers and buyers. Quotations are given the Times-News daily by each buyer. The newspaper, in addition, re-checks each firm twice-weekly. Responsibility for the price listed is solely the buyer's. NQ indicates the buyer does not wish to quote a price.

Soroptimist Club installs at banquet

TWIN FALLS — Thirty-two members of the Soroptimist Club attended the installation banquet this week at the Roundup Room at the Rogerson Hotel.

President Ruth Guyer introduced three guests from the Burley Club, Peggy Bailey, Alice Konrad and Jeanette Chamberlain. They extended an invitation to Twin Falls to attend their annual picnic and silent auction at the home of Beth Jones July 14. Mrs. Guyer reminded the group that the annual cake and ice cream party for the Golden Age Club will be at the DAV Hall on Friday, June 25. Homemade cakes will be provided by the club along with the ice cream.

To introduce the program for the evening, Joyce Guyer sang three numbers with Mrs. Dalene Parker as accompanist. Mrs. Helen Henderson, first runner up National Mother of the Year, gave an account of her experiences from the time of her appointment as Idaho Mother of the Year to her return from New York as a winner. Mrs. Henderson had nothing but praise for the 52 women who represented the United States, as well as Puerto Rico and British Columbia. "Not only were they outstanding mothers, community leaders and, in many instances successful business women, but they were deeply interested in the spiritual values," she said.

Communion Services were planned at their Jewish, Catholic and Protestant designated places of worship. Mrs. Henderson was enthusiastic about the exchange of ideas, many of which could be incorporated in her work as juvenile counselor of the Idaho State Rehabilitation Agency. She already has plans to promote the formation of Young Mothers' Councils in Idaho cities. Mrs. Henderson is a former member of the Soroptimist Club of Burley.

Gov. Edythe Koontz of the Rocky Mountain Region spoke concerning her recent trip to the governors' meeting in Philadelphia. Plans have been completed for the Golden Jubilee Celebration of Soroptimist International in October of this year and the local Club, having gained distinction as a Jubilee Club, was congratulated by the Governor.

One of the requirements for a Jubilee Club was a 25 per cent increase in membership, which the Twin Falls Club attained. Mrs. Nedra Greene, regional chairman of the membership and classification committee, inducted six of the eight new members, presenting each a long-stemmed rose. They include Mrs. Judy Robertson, Mrs. Delsa Anderson, Mrs. Mary Jo Robinson, Mrs. Louise Marsh, Mrs. Flora Malone and Mrs. Marty Mead. Mrs. Beth Wickham and Mrs. Miriam Breckenridge will be inducted later.

Mrs. Helen Cannon installed the new officers to whom corsages were given. Mrs. Louise Bush is president; Mrs. Dollie Louder, vice president; Mrs. Clara Van Houten, secretary; Mrs. Shirley Easton, corresponding and financial secretary; Mrs. Mary Jo Robinson, treasurer; Helen Brown, director for two years and Mrs. Greene and Mrs. Guyer, directors. Mrs. Bush received the president's pin from Mrs. Guyer who, in turn, was presented the past president's pin by Mrs. Bush. The club will resume regular meetings in September.

Soroptimist leaders

Lodge members honored

HANSEN — Members with birthdays during this quarter were honored at the quarterly birthday dinner at the Royal Neighbor meeting this week at Woodman Hall.

Honorees included Mrs. Earl Tridde, Mrs. Ruby Hill, Yakima, Wash., Mrs. Betty Pollard, Mrs. Herman Ripley, Mrs. Wayne Smith, Mrs. W. I. McFarland, Mrs. Madge Panting, Mrs. Lewis Reed and Mrs. Almeda Sloan, who was unable to attend the last one so was honored also at this one.

Other guests were Mrs. Jewell Hamby, Mrs. Lloyd LeClair, her daughter, Marie LeClair and Lisa Gerber, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Thomas Steelsmith.

The tables decorated with lighted candles and bouquets of roses and peonies were arranged by Mrs. Hugh Sanderson and Mrs. Ruth Wright. Decorated heart-shaped cakes were served as dessert. One was decorated in the Royal Neighbor colors, purple and white, the other in orange and white.

Marle LeClair and Lisa Gerber presented two dance routines, one a soft shoe number, and the other a tap number.

Mrs. Bertha Maxwell, Twin Falls, was introduced by Mrs. Ethel McDonald. She spoke on the American Association of Retired Persons. She spoke on the rapid growth of the organization, nearly two million by now, and how it became organized after the National Retired Teachers Organization. She outlined the many benefits derived from membership in the organization, which includes ages 55 on. She spoke of the forward-looking aspect of the people belonging rather than the defeated do-nothing attitude of other retired people. There are benefits derived from a group insurance.

Achievement awards were also picked up by president, Mrs. Lee (Virginia) Bitzenburg, for her club for increasing membership beyond the goal set by the regional membership chairman and walked away with the 30 membership award. This is the third club in the region to attain this status which includes many larger cities, Salt Lake City, Ogden, Boise, Spokane, etc.

This is the first time since the club was chartered in Dec. 5, 1951, that 30 women have joined for the purpose of self-development and self-improvement. All types and ages from 19 to 82 are members, farmer's wives who work as

Recipients named

TWIN FALLS — Two Magic Valley students have been selected as recipients of the Laura Moore Cunningham Scholarships.

The recipients are Eric Christenson, Eden, and Carol Wewers, Twin Falls. Each student will receive $750 to attend the College of Southern Idaho during the 1971-72 academic year, according to David Perkins, Director of Student Personnel Services at C.S.I.

Christenson was graduated from Valley High School and will be entering CSI as a freshman. He is majoring in earth sciences.

Miss Wewers was graduated from Twin Falls High School and will be a sophomore at CSI. She is majoring in elementary education.

Area couple weds in LDS ceremony

MURTAUGH — The Murtaugh Ward LDS Church was the setting for the June 11 wedding of Jane Alice Petersen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen O. Petersen, Murtaugh; and Steven R. Gines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Evan Gines, Jerome.

Bishop Roger S. Tolman performed the double ring ceremony. The chapel was enhanced with large bouquets of blue, gold and peach-colored iris embedded in bouquets of syringa.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown, fashioned of polyester crepe featuring an empire waistline and Juliet-style sleeves. The high neckline and the empire waistline were accented with dainty, tatted and seed pearls. Her floor-length veil was held by a lace band accented with her Grandmother Golay's pearls.

She carried a bouquet of six American Beauty roses embedded in pink honeysuckle and white syringa. The bride also wore her mother's engagement ring and carried a handkerchief made by her Grandmother Petersen.

Maid of honor was Faye Petersen, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Janie Egbert, Murtaugh, and Sally Petersen, sister of the bride.

Brent Gines, Hollister, served as best man. Ushers were Christopher Petersen, brother of the bride, and Billy Benkula, Twin Falls; cousin of the bridegroom.

Mark Golay, Twin Falls, and Peggy Uhlig, Murtaugh, were soloists, also singing a duet, accompanied by Mrs. Earl Watts, who also played the traditional wedding music.

Marilyn Nitro presided at the gift table, with Gwen Johnson, both friends of the bride from ISU. Mrs. Bill Bates, Jerome, and Mrs. Donna Benkula, Twin Falls, assisted. Jannese Bates, Leeta Bates and Connie Benkula received the gifts.

A reception was held in the LDS Cultural Hall immediately after the ceremony. The cake table was decorated with white ruffled nylon over blue with a lace cloth. The serving tables were covered with white clothes and centered with bowls of blue and gold iris and syringa.

The three-tiered wedding cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Devon Anderson, Murtaugh.

Baskets of blue, gold and peach-colored iris with syringa completed the floral arrangements. Janie Goodman and Deanna Egbert, friends of the bride, presided at the refreshment table, assisted by Mrs. Clyde Goodman, Mrs. Clarence Egbert and Mrs. Don Coon. Janette Anderson, Louise Hranac and Karla Tolman, friends of the bride, and Mrs. Jim Tarter, cousin of the bride, served as hostesses throughout the evening. Blenda Golay, cousin of the bride, was in charge of corsages.

Peggy Uhlig, friend of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to Sun Valley. They will reside at 2932 Porter, Ogden, Utah. The bridegroom is an Airman in the U.S. Air Force, stationed at Hill Air Force Base, where he will be furthering his career as a medic.

Guests attended from Magic Valley towns as well as Pocatello.

The bride was honored at showers given by her associates in her nursing class at ISU; Janie Goodman, Deanna and Janie Egbert gave a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Clyde Goodman, Murtaugh; Peggy Uhlig and her mother, Mrs. Ed Uhlig, gave a shower at their home. The rehearsal dinner was held at the bride's home.

Janice Damon weds Ronald Silvers

TWIN FALLS — The First Church of the Nazarene was the setting for the June 11 wedding which united in marriage Janice Damon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Damon, Rupert, and Ronald Silvers, Kimberly, son of Burton Silvers, Eureka, Mont.

Rev. Jack Weller, pastor of the Caldwell Nazarene Church and formerly of Filer, officiated at the double ring rites before a background of tiered candelabra centered by a gold archway entwined with pink and orchid carnations and matching side arrangements of pink and orchid.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white organza over satin. It featured a Chantilly lace bodice with lace trimming on the high neckline and long full sleeves which ended in lily points. The train of the gown was enhanced with lace medallions and beaded pearlwork. The gown was made by Mrs. John McClure, Rupert.

The bride's shoulder-length veil of illusion was held by a beaded headband of lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and pink roses on a white Bible, a gift from her

Couple recites VOWS

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls YM-YWCA Center was the setting for the June 6 wedding of Margaret Jean Snow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Snow, and Bruce Wayne Stephens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garth D. Stephens, all Twin Falls.

The double ring ceremony was especially written for the bride's parents by the bride's great-grandfather, and repeated for the couple by Rev. Raymond Paul Jones of the Twin Falls First Christian Church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length empire-styled gown of lace, fashioned with a train and a tiered ballerina-length veil of illusion net, made by her mother. She carried a cascade of yellow and white net, made by herself and her sisters.

Maid of honor was Evelyn Snow, sister of the bride, and Kathy Whitehead, friend of the bride, served as bridesmaid. Dale Stephens, Travis Air Force Base, Calif., was best man and groomsmen was Rodney Stephens, both brothers of the bridegroom. Ushers were Gary Snow, brother of the bride, and Jim Garner, future brother-in-law of the bride.

Organist was Marty Wright, Murtaugh, friend of the bride, and soloist was Joyce Guyer, friend of the bride, Twin Falls. A reception was held at the YMCA after the ceremony. Mrs. Charles Robinson, Twin Falls, made the three-tiered heart-shaped wedding cake and decorated the bride's table. Serving were Mrs. Lloyd Lent, Mrs. Don Lent, Mrs. John Connolly, Mrs. Wayne Whitehead, all of Twin Falls, and Mrs. Joe Stastny and Mrs. Earl Wright, Murtaugh.

Rhonda Snow registered the guests and gifts were opened and arranged by Kerrie Turner and Charlotte Brake. Assisting in carrying gifts were Nancy and Amy Stephens and Mark and Monty Turner.

The couple took a short honeymoon trip to Sun Valley and reside in Twin Falls. Guests attended from Idaho, California and Washington.

TAWNA WHITE

September date set by area couple

ROGERSON — Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hawker, Rogerson, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Tawna White, to Robert G. Wells, son of Mrs. Barbara Wemple, Buhl.

A Sept. 14 wedding is planned in Twin Falls. Miss White was graduated from Filer High School in 1971. Wells is a 1966 graduate of Ramona High School, Riverside, Calif. He is self-employed in Buhl.

Club program presented

Mrs. Henry Jones, program chairman, introduced her granddaughters, Lauri, Susan and Kristi McFarland, who presented the program for the Russell Lane Harmony Club this week at the home of Mrs. Dan Rogerson.

The girls played several selections on their violins. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Don McFarland.

Guests were Mrs. Ethel Rogerson, Kimberly, and Mrs. J. R. Douglas, Twin Falls. Mrs. Calvin Jones, president, was in charge of the business meeting, with roll call being answered with "Most Mispronounced Word."

The July meeting will be a salad bar luncheon at 12:30 p.m. July 14 at the home of Mrs. Milford Jones, south of Jerome.

Gail Adams weds Stephen R. Sass

TWIN FALLS — An evening candlelight ceremony June 11 united in marriage Gail Irene Adams, daughter of Mrs. William L. Adams and the late William L. Adams, and Stephen Robert Sass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sass, all Twin Falls.

Father Patrick performed the double ring ceremony at the St. Benedict's Priory before an altar holding an arrangement of white chrysanthemums. To the side were two-tiered candelabra holding blue tapers trimmed with ribbon.

Escorted by her brother-in-law, Gene Bolton, Hailey, the bride wore a floor-length gown of slipper satin featuring a high lace-trimmed neckline. The sleeveless gown was covered with a long-sleeved Chantilly lace overdress. Her shoulder-length veil of bridal illusion was held by a crown of lace and flowers.

She carried a cascading bouquet of white chrysanthemums adorned with two orchids. Matron of honor was Liz Bolton, sister of the bride, Hailey, and bridesmaids were Debbie Sass, sister of the bridegroom, and Sandy Carr, both Twin Falls.

Larry Sass, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and groomsmen were Greg Hackett and Dave Billman.

Sister Margaret Mary, sister of the bridegroom, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Robert Fries. Guests were registered by Yvonne Reinke.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the Cultural Hall of the First Ward LDS Church.

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth centered with a four-tiered wedding cake designed and decorated by Mrs. Alden Arrington, Odgen, aunt of the bride.

Adorned with miniature lights, the cake featured hand-made icing musicians carrying various instruments, with doves on top to symbolize love and peace. Blue flower arrangements flanked the cake. Four pillars separated the middle two layers and the traditional wedding bells adorned the second layer.

The bridal party greeted guests under an archway of white chrysanthemums. The setting flanked by large columns holding roped ivy and arrangements of white chrysanthemums.

Serving the cake and punch were Jane Arrington, Louise Arrington, Gilda Garrison and Elsie Egbert, aunts of the bride, and Rita Hamilton, Mike Sass, brother of the bridegroom, and William Adams Jr., brother of the bride, carried gifts, which were arranged by Wanda Adams, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Wayne Vance. Mrs. Reinke registered guests for the reception.

Assisting in the kitchen were Lillian Tyler, Mrs. Garrison, Sheila Garrison, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Egbert, Loa Egbert, cousin of the bride, Louise Arrington, Mrs. Hamilton and Kim Hamilton.

Lewis Arrington, uncle of the bride, served as emcee for the program.

Guests attended from Utah, Washington, Oregon, Hailey, Filer, Cottonwood, Buhl, Hazelton and Murtaugh.

After a honeymoon to San Francisco, the couple will reside in Twin Falls. The bridegroom is employed with Farm Service at Kimberly and the bride for Mountain Bell.

The bride was feted at pre-nuptial showers, a miscellaneous shower hosted by Mrs. Vance and Mrs. S. R. McKinney, and a kitchen shower hosted by Miss Carr and Mrs. Bolton.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at Kay's Supper Club.

"Company Call" held by Antique Festival Theatre

HAGERMAN — "Company Call" is a meeting of members of a theater group and the first such gathering of any season is an exciting experience for all concerned.

This meeting for the Antique

Festival Theatre, which makes up a new company each June, adding to the resident members a group of college theater majors chosen from all parts of the country, was held recently.

Many of the young actors have never worked in a theater which functions without a place of its own, a theater building. The bright tour bus, which has been embellished by two volunteer artists, is visible proof that this theater, which some of the students have traveled all the way across a continent to join, is really a viable organization. Rehearsal quarters for the group is the Hagerman American Legion Hall, where a cooperative kitchen can be worked and the company members can share lunch and dinner during the rush of rehearsal.

Local OES Chapter 29 convenes

TWIN FALLS — Presiding at a regular meeting of Order of Eastern Star Chapter No. 29 this week were Worthy Matron Lorene Nelson and Worthy Patron Jim Clark.

A special introduction was given Grace Johnson, past worthy matron of Idaho, Order of Eastern Star Conductress Mable Clark presented for introduction grand committee members Hazel Louchs, appeals and grievance committee, and Louisa Montgomery, finance committee. Also introduced was Edith Joines, grand representative of the grand jurisdiction of Illinois in Idaho. Worthy Patron Carl Kobel, Magic Chapter No. 82, and Worthy Patron Ira Kistler, Cosmopolitan Chapter No. 36, Gooding, were introduced.

A committee was appointed to study the possibility of purchasing an organ to be placed in the temple.

A Father's Day program was presented with honors given to Vance Naylor who represented all fathers present.

The table was decorated by Adeline Graybert, who acted as chairman. She was assisted by Alma Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Graybeal, Ruby Hopkins and Maud House.

Old faithful company members from Buhl, Ruth Perkins, with her sewing machine, and Wayne Kimball, the business manager, met the students for the first time during the "Company Call." Marge Chupa, Twin Falls, theater wardrobe mistress, and Lauri Wright, were on hand to assist with costumes, and Brad Hickerson, production director, came to start another season's work.

Music auditions and the reading for the first time of "Roister Doister," completed the first company meeting. H. Paul Kliss will head the cast of the old English farce and Robert Hansen, 1963 graduate of Jerome High School now attending the College of Marin, will play Merry Greek. Other scholarship actors from Massachusetts, Wisconsin and California will join Idaho performers to tour the length and breadth of this state during July and August.

Vicki Smith named club president

TWIN FALLS — Vicki Smith has been named president of the Twin Falls TORCH Organization for Retarded Children, club members announced today.

Other new officers are Susan Greenup, vice president; Lori Bean, secretary; Jan Carey, treasurer, and Linda Hosier and Maggie Wilson, steering committee members.

John Stevens and Linda Garrett conducted installation of new officers Saturday night and presented slides of the Special Olympics held in Pocatello earlier this month.

Library hours listed

HAGERMAN — Sunday hours have been added to the library schedule according to board members. The library will be open on Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. The library is also open from 3:30 to 5 p.m., Wednesday and from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. Rella Finch has been hired as librarian to fill the vacancy left when the former librarian, Linda Phillips, moved from the area.

The latest edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica has been purchased. This edition will be available for use in the library only. Several "best sellers" have been received for the ten-cent-a-week shelf.

DEAR ABBY: When I see a woman in pants I wonder what's wrong with her legs. I cannot for the life of me understand why a woman with good-looking legs would wear pants. And another thing, men love long hair on their women. I don't know one man who likes to see a woman in a mannish haircut. Give us men long hair and short skirts!

LOVES THE LADIES

DEAR LOVES: Some women wear pants for convenience, but if a woman wants to please a man, she will indeed let her locks grow and her legs show.

DEAR ABBY: I own a really good horse and I am going to enter him in the horse show soon. My girl friend asked me if she could ride him in the horse show, and I told her she could. Here is the problem. If my horse wins a ribbon, who should get it, she or I? I will leave it up to you.

GIRL HORSE OWNER: KENLY, N. C.

DEAR HORSE OWNER: If your horse should win a ribbon, the ribbon goes to you. (I got this straight from the horse's mouth.)

DEAR ABBY: My 13-year-old daughter Sandra (made up name) has a big problem I am very anxious to help her with. Sandra is a quiet, shy girl who has always stayed in the background. She has a girl friend I'll call Janice. Janice is pushy and loud and has a big mouth. Whenever my Sandra makes friends with another girl, this loud-mouthed Janice takes this friend away from her. If Sandra were aggressive and pushy like Janice she would fight to keep her friends, but she just can't do it. She is too nice. How can I help Sandra so Janice won't take any more friends away from her?

SANDRA'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Sandra will have to cultivate and maintain her own friendships. No one can "take" a friend away as if she were a sack of flour. Mothers who try to ruin interference for their children in such matters tend to weaken, not strengthen them.

DEAR ABBY: My sister's husband died eight years ago, leaving her with sons, ages 4 and 5. Sis seemed so alone and helpless, so Ralph and I encouraged her to come over often. Ralph and I had a good marriage and a nine-year-old daughter.

It all happened so gradually I never knew it was taking place, but you guessed it. Sis was so much like me, only six years younger, and she soon replaced me.

Ralph is now Sis' husband. He's adopted her two sons, and I am now the extra woman.

How I wish I had told my sister not to come so often. It may have been effective to say Ralph didn't like it.

NOT JEALOUS ENOUGH

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Most documents not dangerous

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A retired Pentagon security expert asserted today the government has 20 million secret documents, and 99 1/2 per cent of them could safely be made public.

William G. Florence, who retired May 1 after 43 years in the government, testified that

Hospital lays off 15

BLACKFOOT (UPI) — Some 15 staff members are to lose their jobs at State Hospital South in Blackfoot effective July 7, according to hospital Superintendent Dr. Lida Brown.

She said "There is no money to meet the payroll and cuts had to be made."

The hospital now has a total of 232 employes and a patient load that fluctuates from 185 to 195. This will be increased by another 34 next week with the transfer of patients from State Hospital North in Orofino.

Of the 15 to be let out at State Hospital South, four are staff physicians, Dr. Brown said.

classification of documents had become so widespread that the system "is literally clogged with material bearing classification markings."

Florence made the statements before the House-Freedom of Information subcommittee, which is looking into the methods used by government in classifying secret material.

The hearing was prompted by the publication in several newspapers, beginning with The New York Times, of accounts of a secret study of the origins of the Vietnam War.

Although he did not mention the controversial Vietnam study in his prepared testimony, Florence was reported to have told the subcommittee privately that the report should never have been according anything more than a "confidential" classification in 1967 when it was written.

Confidential is the lowest level among three gradings of sensitive material in the classification process. Florence said the report should not be classified at all now.

Florence said the present policy permits too many employes to engage in the classification process.

Utility to help finance studies

BOISE (UPI) — The director of the Idaho Water Resource Board said today Idaho Power Company had agreed to help finance costs of required studies and license application for the proposed Grandview - Guffey Project on the Snake River.

But Dr. Robert R. Lee told members of a Legislative Water Resources Committee the state would have to reimburse the utility for its costs if the decision was for total state ownership rather than for joint ownership of the project between the state and the power company.

Lee told the committee, organized by the legislature to oversee negotiations on the project, the license application before the Federal Power Commission for the dams would be a new one, although Idaho Power now has a license pending before the FPC for its existing dam at Swan Falls close to the project.

In addition, Lee said, the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation had agreed to a two-year re-evaluation of the area south of Nampa — the Mountain Home desert area — which under the proposal would receive irrigation as well as power benefits from the project. He said reclamation's study would examine both state and joint development of the dams. Originally, Lee said, reclamation estimated cost for irrigation in the area would be over $28 million.

He said in the next few years the state would try to get total federal financing of the Mountain Home Irrigation Project from the federal government so returns from the project could be used for other water development projects.

He pointed out the state had "nothing to lose" by trying for the federal monies and said members of Idaho's congressional delegation agreed "this was the way to proceed." Lee said most of the exhibits to be presented to the FPC — including those for archeology, recreation, ecology, and engineering — would be prepared regardless of eventual ownership.

When asked why the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation could not begin its irrigation feasibility studies immediately, Lee said Reclamation would have to wait until the question of state or joint ownership is determined and for issuance of the license before it can begin. If the project were to proceed on schedule, Lee said, the power license should be granted by September of 1972, but added that was a "very optimistic" schedule because of the huge backlog facing the FPC.

Drizzle is produced in rainy weather by the friction of air with the ground, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

He said under the water board's original schedule construction of the power facilities would begin in October of 1973 and be completed by October of 1975, but said completion could take until 1977.

LOU PROHUT FAMILY

LOU PROHUT started a career in show business with his first music lesson at age five. Since then his entire life has been devoted to the musical presentation of the act which you see today. Private tutoring by the leading teachers of the day helped to produce the "Prohut technique" on his instrument which is recognized by leading teachers and professionals the world over. At age 16 he went on his first professional tour as a featured performer of the WLS National Barn Dance show. Two years later he got his first job in radio at WMAX, Yankton, So. Dakota, where Lawrence Walk's career began. During this time Lou practiced HEIDI and his network Youth Opportunity Show. After winning ten successive shows LOU enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps where after boot camp and several months on Marine Corps Camp and TV shows, was chosen to go on a world-wide tour as a representative of the Marine Corps.

Upon completion of his Marine Corps duties, LOU arrived in Chicago as a featured performer on Radio Station WLS during which time Lou furthered his career in arranging. Then, on to Television where for five years Lou became writer, arranger, and performer for the ABC-TV network "POLKA GO ROUND SHOW." This led to eight record albums for ABC-Paramount Records.

LOU's association with ABC led to his first appearance on the famous DON MACNEILL'S BREAKFAST CLUB show which Lou appeared for nine years as a regular guest until the termination of the show which ran for 36 years. During his tenure with the Breakfast Club, Lou was able to do many personal appearances with such notables as VICTOR BORGE, LAWRENCE WALK, ARLENE DAHL, PATTI PAGE, and others too numerous to mention.

Then, in the spring of 1967 an event happened which was to change Lou's great act ENTER — LOU PROHUT FAMILY!!!!!!

During the winter of '67 the PROHUT KIDS, all six, decided to work up a little dance routine under the direction of the oldest daughter, MARY BETH, and do an appearance with DAD in South Dakota near the home of LOU's lovely wife, LOU ELLA. This was the beginning on one of the most unique acts to come out of the Midwest — LOU PROHUT and the PROHUT FAMILY combining Lou's accordion artistry with the most amazing talents of his singing and dancing children.

After only two years LOU and his six children have appeared with such names as WAYNE NEWTON, VICTOR BORGE, DENNIS DAY as well as many other notables. The children demonstrate a very professional ability for stage presence and a true sense of enjoyment in performing their specialized dances. Their variety of dancing ranges from folk dancing, which includes the polka, waltz, schottische, and the Russian type kotzky to the modern rock and roll of today. Special material vocal dance medleys are added to round out an exciting program. The combination of colorful costuming, importing from Europe adds visual sparkle to their performance.

August start slated

JEROME — Ted Diehl, manager of Northside Canal, Jerome, said he has been informed by Zorab Vosganian, New York, consultant engineer for Tupperware, that site preparation is scheduled for completion August 15th with construction of the $5 million plant to begin in the latter part of August.

Diehl said Vosganian told him that contracts will be issued sometime this week for construction of the plant. The plant is expected to be completed by late spring of next year.

The Tupperware plant is to be located south of Jerome on land formerly owned by Dr. Charles Parker and Dr. Weley Rose, Jerome optometrists.

The plant is to employ 450 people at first with plans to expand to 900 employees. Tupperware's labor survey conducted in Magic Valley resulted in 851 job applications. Of the 851 applications, 457 were Jerome county residents.

Jet boat to probe Salmon

SALMON — The Idaho Fish and Game Department will provide a white water jet boat in a continuing search for a former Twin Falls student, Gary McGuire, 26, who was apparently drowned in the fast-moving Salmon River last Saturday.

A pleasant weekend outing by Mr. McGuire, his wife, Suzanne, and a family friend, Bill Maxwell, 26, of Salmon, turned in tragedy when their boat struck a bridge pier four miles south of Salmon where Highway 93 crosses the river.

The three boaters were thrown into the water, the survivors told Lemhi County Sheriff William Baker. All came to the surface and started swimming.

Mrs. McGuire and Maxwell struggled to the bank a mile on down the river and survived unscathed. Mr. McGuire, however, was never seen again.

Baker said of the accident, considering the state of the snow-swollen Salmon, "It was a miracle anybody got out alive."

The river had risen half a foot by Thursday, Maxwell said. The Salmon gauge indicated a level of 6.5 feet on Saturday, rising to 7.1 feet by Thursday morning. However, the level was predicted to drop somewhat by Friday, when the search will resume.

Baker said he and a game agent will ride the jet boat down the river in a continuing search. He didn't want any company, however.

"Unless they know this river and how to handle it, anybody else had better stay out. We don't want any more people drowned up here," he told the Times-News.

Mr. McGuire graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1963. He was airman in the Air Force, stationed at Mountain Home Air Base along with Maxwell, also an airman.

Tax meet scheduled

JEROME — Mrs. Ella McVey, Jerome County clerk and recorder, said today that beginning Monday the Jerome County Commissioners will start their annual two week meetings at Jerome County Courthouse.

The meeting will be for equalization of taxes and consideration of applications for exemptions from taxes. She said the exemptions were primarily for widows, blind persons, and veterans.

Charges dropped

JEROME — Charges of unlawfully growing marijuana plants filed against Danny Allen Bradford were dismissed by Magistrate Russell Shaud on the grounds of lack of evidence, when Bradford appeared in court on Thursday.

Steve S. Gifford, Jerome, was bound over to District Court on the same charge after he waived his right to a preliminary hearing. He was released on his own recognizance, to appear on July 6.

Hat of victim found

OAKLEY — The missing hat believed to belong to one of the six drowning victims in last Sunday's boating tragedy has been found, according to Cassia County Sheriff Ray Mitchell.

Mitchell said the hat, belonging to James Sheppard, one of the victims, was taken home by Mary Elquist. She was one of several people at Lower Goose Creek Reservoir last Sunday when the mishap occurred.

The continuing search for the victims remains fruitless, however, according to Mitchell. Airplanes piloted by Nathan Tanner of Oakley and employees of the Anderson Brothers company, employers of the victims, are continuing to fly over the reservoir in morning and evening hours when the air is calm.

Mitchell is maintaining two boats at the reservoir from dawn to dusk in the event something may turn up. He said today that the "something" that was seen Wednesday morning near the confluence of Trapper Creek and Goose Creek turned out to be a log.

Sheriff Mitchell himself became the first casualty of the lengthy search Thursday afternoon. He was severely bruised and lacerated about the face when he fell into an aluminum boat owned by Theo Wickel of Burley.

Wickel, owner of a silver trailer seen Sunday on the bank of the reservoir, left his boat for the sheriff and his men to use on Thursday. Mitchell said that as he stepped out of his car to enter the boat, he stumbled into a hole on the bank and fell face-down into the water.

He was able to continue the search after treatment for bruises and lacerations, he said. Wickel, who had been sought as a possible witness to Sunday's incident, said he had been at the reservoir earlier in the day. He saw the powerboat with eight people put into the water, but then left the area, he told Mitchell.

Mountain manager resigns

SUN VALLEY — Sun Valley's mountain manager, Les Outz, Jr., has resigned his position to assist in the development of a new ski resort near Banff, Alberta, Canada.

Outz has been mountain manager here since 1964 when the resort was purchased by the Janss Corp. from Union Pacific Railroad Co. Prior to this he was employed as assistant ski director, helping Sigi Engels at the Sun Valley ski school.

A native of Halley, Outz was a ski instructor here when he was 19. Later he spent two years in the Navy serving in the South Pacific. In 1952 he took the assistant ski director's job, which he held until moving to Los Angeles in 1958. He worked with the Desilu Productions there as a stage hand and stage manager.

He said the mountain environment had had an "overwhelming influence" on his life, so in the winter of 1961 he returned to Sun Valley and again assisted in the ski school until becoming mountain manager.

Outz, his wife and daughter will move to Canada.

Baseball campaign near end

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley youngsters have less than a week to earn a free pass to all home games of the Magic Valley Cowboys by selling season ticket books, according to the Jaycees, sponsors of the ticket promotion.

The Jaycees, in an attempt to support the Cowboys as the home team of the Pioneer League, will award a season pass to all home games to any youngster selling a minimum of two coupon books. Each coupon book contains 13 tickets good for one grandstand admission each to any home game of the Cowboys. The books sell for $10 each, representing a saving of $3 from the gate price.

Young salesmen should contact Robby Robinson at 733-6788 or Dennis Volmer at 733-6811 for details and ticket books. The offer will be held open only until next Wednesday, June 30.

Panel views Wood levee

HAILEY — Members of the Hailey Flood Control district today are inspecting the Big Wood River Upstream from the Deer Creek Bridge, north of Hailey, where water reportedly is eroding the bank.

Woodrow Watts, watermaster for the Upper Big Wood River Canal Co., said the men will determine whether or not it is necessary to call the Army Corps of Engineers to assist.

Recent temperatures in the 80's have brought the Big Wood River to crest Tuesday, Woodrow said, with a depth of 5.6 feet recorded at the Hailey gauge.

The river has now dropped about .3 of a foot from the peak reading, Watts said.

It is expected the water will continue to drop as a lot of the snow in the higher elevations has now melted. The river crested later this year than usual, because of the unusually cold spring.

Buhl sets antique, hobby show

BUHL — Something new has been added to the 1971 Sagebrush Days Celebration, July 24. A buy-sell-and-trade show of antiques, hobby and handcraft items will be held, according to Mrs. Stan Kern, chairman.

The show will be at the former J. C. Penney building from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. July 2 and 3, and noon to 4 p.m. July 4. There will be no admission for the show and refreshments will be sold by Job's Daughters.

Persons wishing to show, sell or trade items are asked to notify the chamber of commerce office June 30 to reserve space.

Handicraft items made by residents of Lincoln Courts will be on display as well as an exhibit by the Buhl Art Guild and a special exhibit by the Community Action Agency.

Merger proposal dropped

BOISE — A planned merger between Pacific Empire Life Insurance and Gem State Securities Corporation of Boise had been suspended by action of the board of directors of Pacific Empire Life.

Two Twin Falls men Ivan Skinner and Joseph McCollum, chairman of the Idaho Board of Education, are members of the board of directors of Pacific Empire. McCollum is also a member of the executive board and holds the position of secretary of the insurance firm. Raymond L. Bolland, president of the insurance firm, said that the merger discussions were halted due to "lack of progress in resolving differences regarding values of the respective companies."

Gem State Securities was organized in 1959 as a holding company for the primary purpose of financing and operating a life insurance company, according to Bolland. The major asset in the holding company is the American Reserve Life Insurance Co., organized in 1960, which at the end of 1970 had assets of $1.67 million, insurance force totaling $21.5 million and total income of $333,571.

Pacific Empire Life was organized in Lewiston in 1937. At the end of 1970, assets totaled $3.5 million.

Road open

TWIN FALLS — Work on oil treating the road into Dierke's Lake will be completed today and the road will be open to the public Saturday, City Manager Jean Miller reports.

He said the recreational area will be available to the public via the roadway this weekend. A Times-News story Thursday stated the road would open Monday.

Tax refund scheduled in Minidoka

By GEORGIA LAYTON Times-News Writer
RUPERT — Minidoka County commissioners in a special meeting Wednesday afternoon decided to refund to Rupert City residents all tax money collected from a 1.9 mill levy for Minidoka County landfill.

The tax charge mix-up came to light in February when it was learned that Rupert residents were being charged on their property taxes to help support the county landfill, but were not allowed to dump refuse there because the county could not handle the load.

Residents of the city also are charged for support of the Rupert City sanitary landfill, thus paying a double tax, according to City Councilman Bill Whitton, who discovered the double tax and had requested the money be refunded to city property owners.

Last week Whitton suggested that if the money collected on the levy by the county could not be refunded to property owners it should be given to the city for garbage service or credited to the taxes for the coming year. Then the commissioners announced that anyone wanting a tax rebate would have to apply in person.

Nox the tax money collected by the county is being computed and will be returned to taxpayers by mail.

August-Bethke, county clerk, said today the taxes will be returned to taxpayers who already had paid their taxes in full. If a part of the taxes remain to be paid the tax will be deducted from the amount still due. All the tax money is expected to be refunded on the 1.9 mill levy within 30 days.

Whitton today praised the county commissioners for their quick action to return the money by mail.

Park funds bid slated

WENDELL — Mrs. Dale Bunn was authorized to attend a meeting of the Idaho State Parks Board in July to secure matching federal funds for the McGinnis City Park at the Thursday night meeting of the Wendell City Council.

Mrs. Gwen Collett, city clerk said the first reading of the ordinance to create a park commission was heard. The final passage will be subject to the approval of Wendell Smith, city engineer.

Mayor Eugene Soares will appoint a park commission to plan and supervise the building of the park. They will also supervise the maintenance and operation of the facility after completion.

Mrs. Collett said the Wendell Recreation Commission was given permission to go ahead with park plans for the seven and a half acres east of the city which was donated for the recreation area by Neil Ambrose.

Councilmen also: — Suspended the rules of the three readings of an ordinance regarding mobile homes in the city that states that all mobile homes in the city limits must be placed on a concrete pad on concrete or cinder block piers and each home is to install approved skirting.

— Tabled a request from Dr. M. E. Scheel requesting the installation of street lights on Bliss Street and Ave. G.

100 pint quota set for Hailey

HAILEY — Officials have set a goal of 100 pints of blood when the Red Cross Bloodmobile visits Hailey Monday at the Wood River High School from 2 to 6 p.m.

Mrs. John Fox, co-chairman of the bloodmobile, said she hopes for a large turnout to make up a deficit resulting from open heart surgery on three Blaine County residents and an unusually heavy draw on the bloodbank.

The Blaine County Hospital Auxiliary will assist in the drawing, as will Mrs. Stan Atkinson, chairman of the county blood program. Wood River Grange members will be in charge of the canteen.

District due funds

HAILEY — Congressman Orval Hansen announced today that Blaine School District No. 61, Hailey, will receive immediate payment of $6,930.00 in impact aid funds from the U.S. Office of Education.

Hansen said that is the initial allotment from the federal entitlement for the current fiscal year under Title I of Public Law 874 which provides assistance to schools attended by children of federal employees.

The amount awarded today is earmarked for maintenance and general operating costs.

Honored

TWIN FALLS — Elizabeth Reilly, Twin Falls, was honored by the American Red Cross chapter members here Wednesday night for 30 years of volunteer service through the organization.

School meet speakers set

SUN VALLEY — Joy Reese Shaw, Miami, Fla., president-elect, National School Public Relations Association, will be among guest speakers at the Annual Conference for School Administrators and Trustees Aug. 4-6 at Sun Valley.

D. F. Engelking, state superintendent of public instruction, said theme of this year's conference is "Is Anybody Listening?" and will revolve around school-community relations.

Mrs. Shaw also is director of public information for the Dade County Public Schools. Her address is titled "Are You Communication Lines Open?"

Another featured speaker will be William McLaughlin, Seattle, Regional Commissioner, U. S. Office of Education, whose topic is

"What You've Always Wanted to Know about Innovation But Were Afraid to Ask."

A symposium on "What Makes Legislative Wheels Turn" will feature Sen. John M. Barker, R-Twin Falls, chairman of the Senate Education Committee; Rep. Ernest Allen, R-Nampa, chairman of the House Education Committee; Rep. Larry G. Looney, D-Post Falls, an elementary school principal, and Rep. Patricia McDermott, a Pocatello attorney.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus will address the conference on the second day's program.

Chairman Don Carpenter, department consultant, said some 300 educators are expected to attend the three-day affair.

Searching from air

PLANE SEARCHES for signs of floating material on the surface of Lower Goose Creek Reservoir near Oakley as searchers continued looking for the bodies of six victims of a boating accident last Sunday.

BLM aides help in Alaska fires

SHOSHONE — No new fires were reported today by the Shoshone District office of the Bureau of Land Management, and two BLM officials have gone to Alaska to help direct fire fighting crews there.

Louis Logosz, assisting area manager, will be fire boss for about three weeks in Alaska. He left Wednesday and Dean Durfee, Dietrich, area manager, left Tuesday.

Two tankers and one hand crew were called north of Bliss Wednesday afternoon to put out a fire which burned 450 acres of range land between the railroad and a hydro electric plant along the Snake River Canyon.

The blaze was caused by the railroad, BLM officials said, probably from a spark from a hot brake.

Two tankers, one from Shoshone and one from Burley, also were dispatched to a man-caused blaze north of Minidoka Dam in which 40 acres were charred. All crews were back home by evening.

Air pollution index

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District at the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period.

ending at 8 a.m. today. Federal pollution regulations say pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms over any 24-hour period, and should not be permitted to rise above 260 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Forecast

Today: Excellent
Tonight: Good
Tomorrow: Excellent

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution. Burning as permitted by law should be curtailed when the air is poorly able to disperse air pollutants.

Rupert sets gala events

By GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Writer

RUPERT — A progress report on the July 4th Celebration was given during the Thursday luncheon meeting of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce at Elks Lodge Hall.

John Trevino, general chairman of the celebration, reported this year the celebration will be bigger than in past years since additional entertainment has been added. The Inland Empire Carnival will open June 29 and operate through July 5. June 30 has been set as family night, he said, and there will be new rides.

The annual Chuck Wagon Jamboree will begin at 6 p.m. Saturday with serving to last until 8:30 p.m. in the Rupert Civic Auditorium. The menu will include barbecued beef, beans, apple pie, coffee and punch.

Each ticket to the jamboree entitles the purchaser to cast a vote for rodeo queen contestant. The queen and attendants will be announced July 4, the final night of the rodeo.

Holly Houfburg, Twin Falls, will be the master of ceremonies and dance music will be furnished by Kenneth Johnston and his group, Twin Falls. The dance will begin at 9 p.m. and tickets to the dance only will be available at the door.

Ralph Walquist was scheduled to do his snake dance, but his snake has died so he will perform his hoop dance, Trevino said.

Rhonda Sedgwick will play organ music each night at the rodeo. A special attraction will be the EhCapa bareback riders each night during the rodeo which will begin at 8:30 p.m. nightly, July 2-4 at county fairgrounds.

Del Haslam, Ovid, Idaho, will be the rodeo producer and Bob Chambers, Pendleton, Ore., will be the rodeo announcer. Clowns will be Bob Fellers, Everton, Tex., and Jerry McMann, Phoenix, Ariz.

Pari-Mutuel horse racing will begin at 1 p.m. July 25 with 10 races planned each day.

A special award will be given to the voted best jockey and trainer the final afternoon.

About 40 entries have been signed for the July 5 parade through the downtown streets of Rupert. Entered are some 25 floats, four mounted riding groups and six drill teams.

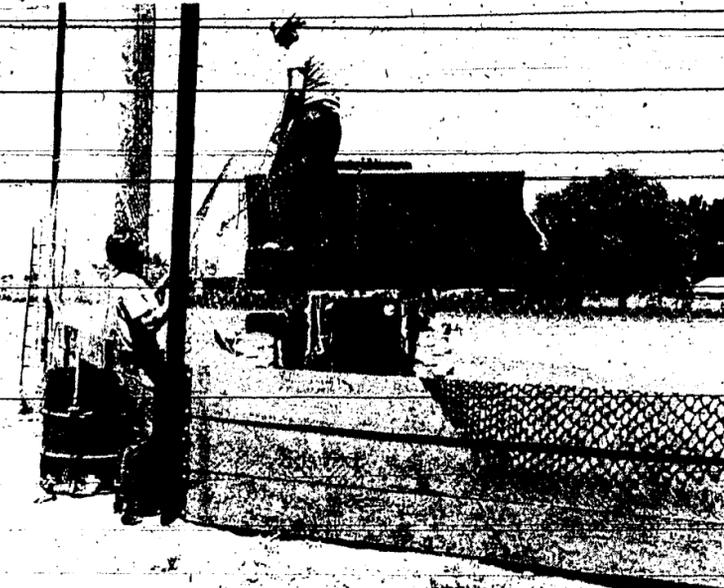

Special attraction for the parade this year is the 25th Idaho National Guard Band, Caldwell. The band will also play a concert at 3 p.m. in the City Park Square.

Other interesting entries are the Idaho Rangers, Burley, 1800 hears (which the club members have built) and the "Old Time Car Club.

Theme for the parade is "Happiness Is." A grand prize will be awarded for overall best entry and prizes for first and second place in the five classes. The judges for the parade will be from out of town.

The parade route will travel Sixth Street to the square, around the square, then to courthouse around it, down Fremont to Eighth Street and then to Minidoka Memorial Hospital. The parade will start when the church chimes are sounded.

A free spectacular aerial fireworks display will be at dusk July 5 at the Minidoka County Fairgrounds. The fireworks have been purchased for $600 by the Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

Equipment installed

NEW BACKSTOP is being installed at the Heyburn baseball field. Councilman Fred Dayley, in charge of the recreation department, is in the scoop on the tractor, and Tim Kay, Heyburn recreation director, is helping from the ground level. Rex Flavel, city employe, operates the tractor.

200 children enjoying Heyburn's fun program

HEYBURN — About 200 children are participating in Heyburn's recreation baseball program.

Tim Kay, Heyburn's recreational program director, said there are about 120 boys and about 80 girls participating in the program.

There are three leagues for the boys. The Pee Wee league includes all the 6, 7 and 8 year-old boys; Midget League, boys 9 and 10 and the M Minor League for boys 11, 12 and 13.

Kay said the 13-year-olds were included this year because of lack of interest in an American Legion-Tern. They can play in all but league competition games, he said.

For the girls there are two divisions in the slow pitch softball program. The divisions are — girls 7, 8 and 9; and older girls, 10 to 15, in another league.

Heyburn's program is worked in conjunction with Paul's and the boys and girls in each city's recreation program compete against each other.

A volleyball and special events program will be organized for girls by the middle of July, he said.

All of the girls events are under the supervision of Karma Anderson, girls general supervisor, Kay said.

"The girls she has helping her in this program have volunteered their help at no cost to

Camp Fire Girls Water slate picnic problem studied

BURLEY — The annual Father-Daughter picnic of the Cassia Camp Fire Girls will be held at 7 p.m. today at the Golf Course Park near Snake River. Each girl is asked to bring a covered dish. Coffee, punch, rolls, butter and table service will be furnished. Following the picnic supper there will be free boat rides for all the girls and their fathers with Mrs. Margaret Beason in charge.

Park games including horseshoes will be played under the direction of Mrs. Arlene Burton. A marshmallow roast and movie at dark will conclude the evening.

BURLEY — Burley Mayor Garis Robertson said negotiations are under way with the Minidoka Irrigation district to allow the city to assume all water rights in the Green Acre subdivision in Burley.

The city would pay maintenance on an acreage basis of about $6.58 per year per acre. With six lots to the acre, this would run about $1 per lot instead of the $11 per lot presently charged, the mayor said.

Residents in the area now are charged $14 per lot by the Minidoka Irrigation District for water they cannot get to their property because of highways built through the subdivision.

Support asked on dam moratorium

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the Legislative Interim Water resource committee were urged to support the dam moratorium on the Snake River, as individuals.

The action followed a discussion of the ban-the-dams legislation to be introduced in congress by Sen. Robert Packwood, D-Ore., next week.

The alternative proposed by Idaho Sens. Frank Church and Len Jordan — already approved by the Senate Interior Committee — would provide a seven-year moratorium on dam construction on the middle fork of the Snake River.

Dr. Robert R. Lee, director of the Idaho Resource Board, said the Packwood legislation was "fraught" with pitfalls.

Lee said even if the Packwood legislation were passed, it should allow for future upstream development.

Sen. David Bivens, R-Payette, said the passage of Packwood's bill would be "a give-away of the water we're talking about putting out there" on the Grandview - Guffey project.

Reluctant to exceed their legislative authority by supporting the moratorium as a group, some members of the commit-

Gem audit hits personnel panel

BOISE (UPI) — A legislative audit released today criticized the six-year-old Idaho Personnel Commission for failure to meet the "intent of the legislature and the requirements of the existing statutes."

But the report given to the Budget and Fiscal Committee by Legislative Auditor James Deffenbach laid part of the blame on insufficient statutory authority, lack of jurisdiction over a large number of state employees and inadequate funding.

While the audit did not recommend abolishing the agency — "for we know of no better alternative" — it suggested re-evaluation at the end of a two-year period.

"If, at that time, in spite of adequate funding and statutory authority, the agency has not substantially met statutory and legislative intent, then we feel that the legislature should consider other alternatives," the report said.

Noting 56 percent of the state employees and agency heads responding to a questionnaire were not completely satisfied with services provided by the commission, the audit was highly critical of the agency's failure to maintain a comprehensive classification and compensation plan.

As reasons for the failure, the audit cited "certain contradictions" in statutes governing the commission, lack of statutory authority for the commission to enforce its programs, and the fact that some 36 percent of the state employees are exempt from the provisions of the Personnel Commission. The report said such a situation "significantly weakens the authority and the effectiveness" of the commission.

The audit said there was particular concern over the low salary levels in state government, adding "in our opinion, the inequitable and low salaries are in violation of the Idaho code.

It said the low salaries appear to be the "largest single problem" faced by the Personnel Commission in its recruitment effort and in addition contributed to high employee turnover.

In addition, the audit said, the five-step compensation plan used by the state of Idaho means at the end of three years an employee is at the top of his pay scale with no future salary increases possible unless his position is reclassified.

Because of this, the audit said, an employee cannot anticipate salary increases even though his job performance may be outstanding and the system encourages position reclassifications "purely to increase employees' salaries and reduce turnover, when such reclassifications are not justified on the basis of the job duties and responsibilities."

To correct the problem, the audit recommended the legislature amend the Idaho code to provide the State Personnel Commission with authority to develop and adopt a state-wide comprehensive classification and compensation plan along with statutory authority to enforce the plan.

Other legislative recommendations — and the reasons for them — included:

— Amendment of the Idaho code to delineate the positions or classes of employees which may be exempt from commission jurisdiction, which should substantially reduce that group and in turn give the commission a stronger position.

— An end to the current system of allowing individual agencies to develop their own classification plans, which the audit indicated created confusion and competition among agencies.

— A statutory requirement that the commission coordinate and implement a state-wide employee performance evaluation system.

— And a statutory change to require all provisional appointments must have prior approval of the commission before the appointments are made since at this time the provisional appointment often causes dissatisfaction when the appointee is required to take examinations.

The term United Kingdom includes Northern Ireland while the term Great Britain does not.

Radio missionary meet set in T.F.

TWIN FALLS — A nine-hour radio missionary convention will be held by Rev. Vernon McLellan on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on the KTFI radio station with about 20 Magic Valley pastors participating.

DR. O. J. SMITH

During the program listeners will hear missionary statesman, an actual Christian witness of local pastors and there will also be musical interludes.

During the past 10 days Rev. McLellan has been a guest of churches in the valley that participate in the World Literature Crusade which is headquartered in Studio City, Calif. Crusade members supply translations of Biblical literature to countries overseas without charge.

At a luncheon at the Turf Club about 20 pastors and their wives discussed ways they have used the literature and how the literature that the group sends overseas ties in with the local parish.

During the nine hour marathon Saturday, a number of local pastors will be interviewed by Rev. McLellan. Those listed are Rev. Robert Cooper, First Baptist Church, Twin Falls; Rev. Walter Darby, Filer Missionary Church; Rev. Eugene Tjarks, Our Savior Lutheran Church, Twin Falls; Rev. Sheldon Stigel, Assembly of God Church, Jerome, and Rev. John N. Garbrandt, United Methodist Church, Jerome.

Dr. Oswald J. Smith, recognized as a leading missionary statesman of today, founder and minister of missions of Peoples Church, Toronto, Canada, and the Rev. Yohann Lee, internationally known Korean cleric, said to be "a Korean the Communists couldn't kill," are to be featured on tapes during the convention. Dr. Jack McAlister, founder-president of World Literature Crusade, a California-based organization now in its 25 year in radio ministry and literature evangelism and sponsors of the "aired" program, will describe the work and ministry of the Every Home Crusade distribution program abroad as he has experienced it. He will also highlight his personal testimony from the new book, "I Survived A Communist Slaughter."

Other heard by tape said Rev. McLellan will be Dr. Wilbur Smith, Dr. Billy Graham, Frank Laubach and Dr. Cameron Townsend.

During the musical interludes tapes by featured religious vocalists such as George Beverly Shea, member of Billy Graham's team; Redd Harper, the Blackwood Brothers quartet, the White Sisters and many others.

Rev. McLellan said the musical segment of the convention has been planned so that anyone may take part if he wishes.

If anyone wants to be interviewed and have his Christian witness broadcast he should call that station.

Also anyone wishing to help with the World Literature Crusade may do so by either calling the station or writing to Rev. McLellan at the Travelodge Motel, room 211, Twin Falls.

Drive-in rites speaker slated

TWIN FALLS — The speaker for the Drive-In Church service this Sunday will be Rev. James Keefe, minister of the Kimberly Christian Church.

He will speak on the topic "Christian Living in a Non-Christian World." Special music will be presented by Mrs. Keefe.

The service is set for 8 a.m. at the Motor-Vu Drive In Theatre on Eastland Drive. Free refreshments are served at the close of each service. The services are planned so that persons attending may come in informal dress and worship in their car, said Rev. Ray Jones of The First Christian Church, Twin Falls.

"If you have not shared in the unique experience of the great-out-of-doors, why not bring a friend or a shut-in this Sunday?" he said.

Graduation rally planned tonight

TWIN FALLS — The Neighborhood Bible Time Crusade will conduct its graduation and award rally at 8 p.m. today at Grace Baptist Church, 211 Fourth Ave. E., Rev. Robert Seaman, pastor, announces.

The week's activities will be reviewed and a special musical program is planned. Awards will be presented to honor students in each grade. The Bible drill grand champions will be honored.

Rev. Seaman said the regular transportation service will not be extended to tonight's program, but it can be supplied to those who request it by calling 733-1452 or 733-5376.

The pastor said everyone is welcome to come and see the neighborhood children perform. Each adult will receive a souvenir gift.

Pope wants to help N. Vietnam

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI appealed today for an opening that would enable the Roman Catholic Church to distribute aid in North Vietnam.

The 73-year-old pontiff expressed apparent impatience at the slowness of attempts to end the Vietnam conflict and said he himself had failed in conciliation attempts.

The Pope, in a state of the church address to Cardinals and prelates of the church administration, also urged renewed efforts for the relief of suffering in East Pakistan and India and in the Middle East.

"Vietnam: when will peace come?" the Pope asked. He added he was "outside the conflict and the discussions which are intended to end it."

He said he had made "some discreet but sincere attempts to achieve reconciliation and the end of the war."

He said he had failed, but added he would seize every occasion to promote "peace, liberty, concord and the new prosperity to those tormented regions which are so dear to us."

"We have done everything in our power, as have the Catholic charity institutions of various nations, to bring some aid (to North Vietnam)," the Pope said.

"But it has not yet been possible—though we hope that it will be in the near future—to reach the north," he said.

Nazarenes list aides at Filer

FILER — New positions in the Filer Nazarene Church have been announced by the church board, according to Rev. Gernie Iwersen, pastor.

Warren Fraley is head usher, and Duane Rathbun, Larry Jasper and Roger Kalbfleisch are assistant ushers. Ida Triplett is pianist, Carol Kalbfleisch, organist; Sherry Iwersen, assistant organist; Russ Sheridan, song leader; Mildred Jones, greeter; Sandy Heaps, special music chairman, and Duane Rathbun and Virgil Triplett, weekly finance committee.

A fulltime nursery attendant had been added to the church staff. Patty Hopkins will be on duty for all services, including Sunday School and the NYPS hour.

Pastoral changes announced

FILER — There have been several pastoral changes in Magic Valley Nazarene Churches, according to Rev. Gernie W. Iwersen, pastor of the Filer Church.

Rev. Larry Coen is coming to the Rupert Church from McClouth, Kan.; Rev. Ed Garrison to Buhl from California; Rev. Floyd Young to Jerome from California, and Rev. Lyle Higgins to Kuna from Jerome.

Communion set

HAZELTON — A Communion service is scheduled at 11 a.m. Sunday at the Valley Presbyterian Church of Hazelton, said Pastor Lyman W. Winkle.

Union services slated at Buhl this summer

BUHL — A new type of summer union services is being planned this year by the Buhl Ministerial Association.

Instead of the traditional Sunday Evening service of the past, the association this year will sponsor a service of worship on Thursday evenings, at 8 p.m.

This series of Thursday evening worship will begin July 1, and continue each Thursday evening through Aug. 12. All services will be held at the First Christian Church in Buhl.

Two ministers will be participating in the service each week. One will deliver the sermon, the other will conduct the service, according to his own normal Sunday morning worship procedure.

One of the advantages of holding the union services on Thursday evening, instead of Sunday, is that it will give those people who plan to be away over the weekend an opportunity to worship before they go. It is hoped that these people, as well as many others, will take advantage of this service of worship.

An offering will be received each evening.

Money may be designated for a particular church if the giver so desires. All funds not specifically designated will be placed in the general fund of the Ministerial Association for its work.

The Rev. Harrie S. Young, pastor of the First Christian Church, will conduct the first service on July 1. Special music will be given by the church choir. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Floyd Austin, pastor of the Buhl First Baptist Church.

Christianity finally recognizing Judaism

By LOUIS CASSELS UPI Senior Editor

For centuries, Christians have treated Judaism as a fossil religion—one that no longer serves as a living vehicle of divine revelation.

They have acknowledged that Judaism has historical importance, as the matrix from which Christianity sprang. But it rarely has occurred to them that there might be lessons to be learned and insights to be gained, from contemporary Judaism.

This attitude is offensive to Jews. It also is in clear conflict with the teaching of the Bible and the facts of history.

The Old Testament, which is the portion of the Bible containing the Jewish scriptures, has as its central theme the ever-reiterated conviction that God had entered into a permanent pact, or covenant, with the Jews, whereby they were to serve him in the high and difficult role of light-bearers to mankind.

The New Testament, which contains the Christian scriptures, teaches that the coming of Christ affected an amendment of the covenant, whereby all who follow the way of Christ are included in the special relationship which God established with Israel.

But the Apostle Paul, who ardently championed the idea that the Christian community is "the new Israel," reminded Gentile converts that they were "wild branches" grafted onto the richly nourished root of Judaism. Paul said that even though God established a new covenant with mankind through Christ, He has not and never will abrogate His ancient covenant with the descendants of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

The history of the past 2,000 years vindicates Paul's view that Judaism is destined to live alongside rather than be swallowed up or replaced by its daughter-religion Christianity.

For the Jews have survived—survived more than any people in history have ever had to endure—and retain to this day a cohesive awareness of a special identity and a special mission.

It is good news that these truths finally are being recognized by some Christians. The Vatican council's historic statement on the Jews says, in the present tense, that "God holds them most dear." The major Protestant and Orthodox communions, united in the World Council of Churches also have gone a long way toward accepting Judaism as a living reality rather than an archaeological exhibit.

Booklet urging many offspring revised

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Vatican officials said Thursday a papal booklet advising newlyweds to produce large families for "the fatherland" is being revised.

Pope Paul VI gives about 10,000 copies a year of the booklet along with rosaries and medals to Italian couples who attend his weekly general audience. The booklet says a large population is a nation's "greatest treasure" and prevents it from having to seek "humiliating alliances" to defend its frontiers.

The custom of giving a booklet of advice on Roman Catholic family living dates from the 1930s, under the dictatorship of Benito Mussolini was in full swing. Prelates said no proper revision of the 125-page booklet, entitled "The Christian Family," has been undertaken since then.

In tones reminiscent of Mussolini's slogan, "Numbers Are Power," the booklet says: "Fecundity is a gift to the nation. A numerous people is the greatest treasure. And if the country is in danger, it does not need to go begging humiliating alliances with other people to defend its frontiers."

The officials said the booklet is being revised to include Vatican Ecumenical Council teachings and recent documents of Pope Paul which hold that conjugal love is at least as important, if not more so, than the bearing and rearing of children. In the old theology, the transmission of life was considered the prime function of marriage to which everything else was subordinated.

Officers retained by WSCS

RICHFIELD — "Christian at Ease" was the devotional message at the WSCS meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. C. M. Pridmore.

Mrs. Max Behr was in charge with Mrs. James Thomas and Mrs. Roy Young assisting. New co-operation for world development was the program theme with Mrs. Behr assisted by Mrs. Pridmore, Mrs. Joe Seward, Mrs. Myrtle Riley, and Mrs. Thomas.

Officers were unanimously re-elected with Mrs. Riley continuing as president, Mrs. Eugene Alexander, vice president, Mrs. Seward, secretary, and Mrs. Pridmore, treasurer.

Speaker set

WENDELL — Rev. David Turnmire, First Presbyterian Church pastor, Buhl, will be guest speaker at the Presbyterian Church in Wendell at 11 a.m. Sunday, according to Irene Miller, chairman of worship of the session.

Rev. William Barrett, pastor of the Jerome First Presbyterian Church, will fill the pulpit in the Wendell church during July.

Church gets land title back

WARSAW (UPI)—Parliament gave unanimous approval Wednesday to the government's first concrete step in improving relations with the Roman Catholic Church, a bill to give the church title to its lands.

Communist Party deputy Jerzy Sztachelski described it as "a practical step on the way to normalization of relations between church and state." A spokesman for the Polish episcopate said more cautiously, "one of the causes of dissatisfaction among the people has been removed."

The government's announcement in January that it was unilaterally going ahead with the bill was one of the opening moves in the campaign which has led to four months of talks between church and state authorities.

The bill hands over title to 4,700 churches and 2,200 other buildings to the Catholic Church and in a few cases to other denominations. All are in the northern and western territories Poland took from Germany at the end of World War II.

Bible school to aid projects

RICHFIELD — Richfield Vacation Bible school offering of $40 will be donated to three missionary projects: to support an orphan in Ceylon for two months, the Nicky Cruz Outreach, and for Michael and Judy Heath, agricultural missionaries for the Methodist Church in Sarawak.

The 35 students enrolled in the two week school gave the money in their daily offerings.

Mrs. C. M. Pridmore, supervisor of the school, conducted the final program meeting for parents and friends at the Methodist Church. Songs and Bible verses made up the program presented by the children. Awards were given out by Bible school teachers and assistants.

Mrs. Pridmore noted that of the 35 enrolled 24 had perfect attendance. The Bible school was financed by two cooked food sales making $70.31, donations of $30.23, and $41.00 registration, she announced.

Rev. Hardy Thompson, Methodist pastor, gave the invocation and benediction. The achievement program concluded with the group viewing handwork of the students and refreshments with Mrs. Myrtle Riley in charge.

Witnesses given life imprisonment

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—The judge who dismissed murder and kidnap conspiracy charges against Black Panther chairman Bobby G. Seale has sentenced the state's star witnesses in the case to life in prison.

Judge Harold M. Mulvey passed the sentence Wednesday on George Sams Jr., 25, and Warren Kimbro, 36, in separate superior court hearings.

Both had pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the water torture and slaying May 21, 1969 of New York panther Alex Rackley, for alleged informer activities.

Sams, an inmate of New York and Connecticut corrections institutions since a teenager, had testified it was Seale who gave the order to kill Rackley. Kimbro provided the prosecution with background evidence in the slaying.

Camp dates scheduled by church

FILER — Young people of the Filer Nazarene Church will be attending youth camps in McCall next month, according to Rev. Gernie Iwersen, pastor.

The Girls' Camp has been set for July 5-10; Junior High Camp, July 12-17; Senior High Camp, July 19-24, and Boys' Camp, July 26-31.

The Filer Nazarene Church will hold a Vacation Bible School August 16-20.

Power

TWIN FALLS — The healing power of the Christ will be explored Sunday at the First Church of Christ, Scientist at 160-9th Ave. East with services beginning at 11 a.m. The lesson-sermon will be entitled "Christian Science."

Colleges compromised as NBA waives 4-year rule

BOSTON (UPI)—The National Basketball Association modified its so-called "four year rule" Thursday and said it will sign college players to professional contracts before their graduation date provided they meet a "hardship" qualification.

The NBA, basing its decision to reach into college ranks as deeply as the freshman class, said its decision was based at least in part on two recent court rulings.

Fighting court rulings in Los Angeles and in the case of Spencer Haywood, the league admitted that the rule change gave it equal footing with the current practices of the rival American Basketball Association which has been signing players prior to the completion of their college eligibility.

In a carefully phrased two-page release prepared by its legal counsel, the league said a college star could be eligible for the draft "if he files a written application with the commissioner" by Dec. 1 and if the league finds the college player to be a "hardship case."

Houston has team; now all it needs is home court, office

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Houston Rockets are without a launching pad. The National Basketball Association's newest franchise doesn't have a home court, an office or even a phone number.

There was a time three years ago when more than 52,000 fans showed up to see Hayes and another man play in a college game in the Astrodome.

Hayes led Houston to a 71-69 victory over UCLA. The other guy, Lew Alcindor, now makes his living leading the Milwaukee Bucks to world championships.

The three men who went into partnership to move the club from San Diego to Houston don't plan to let minor details get in the way, however.

The move, termed "one of the fastest and least publicized in the history of professional sports," has left attorney Billy Goldberg and real estate developer Wayne Duddelston fielding questions about the franchise that have them puzzled too.

Hayes led Houston to a 71-69 victory over UCLA. The other guy, Lew Alcindor, now makes his living leading the Milwaukee Bucks to world championships.

NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy, in making the surprise announcement, said Wednesday the club would play most of its home games in the new 11,500-seat Hofheinz Pavilion at the University of Houston and a "few" games in the Astrodome.

He may, have been at least partially right. The Rockets may play a few games.

Harry Fouke, athletic director at the University of Houston, said Thursday the school has no commitment with the Rockets.

"We don't have a commitment," admitted one of the club's owners.

The Astrodome is not available in February because of the Houston Rodeo and can't be used in March or April until the National League baseball schedule is finalized.

"We wouldn't want to play more than a few games in the Astrodome anyhow," the owners state. "Probably only four or five."

That leaves the Sam Houston Coliseum, former home of the defunct Houston Mavericks, the early version of the Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association.

"It's a good stadium, but we don't have anything definite on it. But you could put up a couple of hoops in a backyard, add a few seats and the people here in Houston would flock to see Elvin Hayes again," the

Sikes paces birdie charge to take first-round lead in Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Dan Sikes led a charge of birdie shooters on the Beechmont Country Club Course Thursday with a seven-under-par 64 to take the first round lead in the $150,000 Cleveland Open golf tournament.

Sikes, a late starter on the 6,618-yard, par-71 Beechmont Country Club Course, stormed by a group of eight players who had finished at five-under-par 66.

Sikes, who won the Cleveland Open in 1965, was two-under at the turn as he played the back nine first, but tore into the front nine with five birdies for a 30 and "had a nice chance for a 29."

"I've had 29s before," the resident of Jacksonville, Fla., said, "but not in a tournament. I had about an eight-or nine-footer on nine, but missed."

Only Ryun, Silvester missing from star-studded AAU field

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—Jim Ryun and Jay Silvester are missing but all the other stars of American track and field are on hand for the National AAU Championships which open here Friday.

Ryun, still suffering from hay fever and in a quandary about what to do next, scratched from the AAU Championships while Silvester is in Europe for the summer traveling and competing in selective meets.

With Ryun among the missing, Mary Liquori, the world's top miler in action now, and Steve Prefontaine, one of the best at three miles, are the ones to watch.

Liquori, who won his third NCAA title at Seattle last week, was toying with the idea of competing in the AAU three-mile "because it looks like one of the best fields ever."

However, he'll go in the mile instead because he wants to be sure of winning a berth for the Pan American games at Cali, Columbia in late July.

"It would have been a great challenge to run against Prefontaine and all the others in the three-mile," said Liquori. "But I don't want to blow my chances for the Pan American Games."

Liquori won't have much competition in the mile and should win it easily, Prefontaine, the University of Oregon star, may have a tougher time in the three-mile, which includes the nation's best. The only man missing is George Young, the Casa Grande, Ariz., school teacher who is taking things easy this summer.

Frank Shorter and Jack Batchelor, teammates at the Florida Track Club, shared the three-mile title last year, electing to finish side by side after they had outstripped the field, at Bakersfield, Calif. Both are back along with American record holder Gerry Lindgren, Rick Riley and Steve Stageberg. The three-mile is one of seven finals on Friday's program. Twelve more titles will be decided on Saturday.

At stake are berths for the meet July 23 with Russia and the Panam Games. The first two in each event here win automatic spots.

If any athlete finishing 1-2 declines, then the next man in line will move up.

Liquori is one who already has told AAU officials he will pass up the Russian meet. A number of other athletes plan to pass as well, electing instead to make a European trip which lists meets in Germany, Finland and Italy.

The stirrings by the athletes, many of whom are members of the loosely knit United Amateur Athletes group, have AAU officials in an agitated frame of mind.

Scott would direct movie about Lombardi

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Actor George C. Scott said Thursday when the life of Vince Lombardi is put on film he'd like to be in there directing it.

Scott, Academy award winner for his role in "Patton," also had some specific ideas on how the story should be told and who should play the title role.

Scott's remarks were appropriate for the occasion that brought him here, the first annual Vince Lombardi Memorial Classic golf benefit for cancer.

Asked how the much-talked-of life of Lombardi film should be told, Scott felt that to concentrate on only the public life that brought the former Green Bay Packer coach and general manager so much fame would do an injustice to his total character.

"From what I know," said Scott, a great admirer of Lombardi but one who never knew him personally, "you would have to go back and start from the beginning."

"You'd have to include everything that colored, formed and shaped him."

Scott pegged Ernest Borgnine as having so many others—for the title role of the inevitable movie, "because he has the physical resemblance, something that wouldn't have to be stretched," to make it more true to life.

"Ernie is a very good actor," Scott said, emphasizing that Borgnine also has all the acting ability to go with his physical features to make the movie a truly great one.

But, before the question could even be asked, the tanned and bearded Scott interjected, "and I would like to direct the film."

Scott was at the North Hills Country Club to play with other sports and entertainment figures Friday in the golf benefit sanctioned by Mrs. Lombardi, who will present awards in the form of plaques at a dinner afterwards.

Lombardi, who coached the Washington Redskins after leaving the Packers to the greatest decade any team has ever had in pro football, died of cancer in Washington last fall. Officials of the tournament, underwritten by the Miller Brewing Co., are confident they will reach a goal of $20,000 in proceeds which will go for cancer research in Washington and Wisconsin.

However, it teams choose players in the supplementary draft, they will lose the equivalent position in the next regular session. Thus, a club picking players in the first three rounds of the September draft would be giving up their first three picks in the March draft.

In the opinion of the owners, this legislation provides an orderly procedure and has sufficient teeth in it so there won't be abuses," Kennedy said. "At least we have an orderly procedure," he added.

Kennedy said however that he would not make public the names of players seeking or receiving hardship status so they would apparently retain their college eligibility until the draft is announced.

The 27-year-old Ashe agreed. "It's five years since I lost to Marty. Last time out, I finished him off in 40 minutes. We train together and are good friends, but for some reason I was nervous. I served badly, too."

The second biggest surprise of the day in the men's singles came late in the afternoon when Australian Colin Dibley came from behind with a startling 3-6, 8-9, 6-3, 6-0, 10-8 victory over Davis Cup coach Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield Calif.

In other matches involving American men, Jeff Borowiak, a 21-year-old student at UCLA, defeated 43-year-old Aussie Frank Sedgman, the 1952 titleholder, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, and Roy Emerson of Australia, champion here in 1964 and 1965, dispatched Bob Lutz of Los Angeles, 8-9, 6-3, 9-8, 9-8.

Ashe, from Gum Spring, Va., became the third seeded player to fall in this most prestigious of tennis tournaments, joining South African Cliff Drysdale and Romanian Ilie Nastase.

"I must admit I hadn't looked much farther than today," admitted Riessen. "I always seem to get a tough draw here and, after all, Arthur has beaten me every time we've met during the last few years."

Mills holds lead in NCAA meet

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Houston's John Mills fired a three-under par 69 Thursday to hold onto his lead in the NCAA Golf Championships after 36 holes, but Wake Forest passed up the defending champion Cougars in the race for the team crown.

Mills, who shot an opening round 65, has a two-day total of 134, 10-under par for the Tucson National Golf Club Course.

Mills' closest challengers were Bill Powell of North Texas State and Ben Crenshaw of Texas, both at 136. Powell shot Thursday's hottest round, a 66 to go with his opening 70. Crenshaw had 69, coming in with a fine 32 over the last nine.

Oregon's Dave Glenz improved on his opening round with a five-under-par 67 for 137, seven shots off the pace. Eddie Pearce of Wake Forest and Tom Watson, Stanford, have 138. Jack Spradlin of San Diego State was next at 67-72-139.

In team play, Wake Forest had a two-round total of 562, four strokes ahead of Houston. The Deacons made up eight strokes on Houston, the first round leader. Florida made a strong move, jumping into third place at 567.

Sixteen teams survived the cut. Host Arizona and strong Florida State were among those missing, both by one stroke.

Pastorini okays pact with Oilers

HOUSTON (UPI)—Dan Pastorini has become the first of the top three college quarterbacks to sign a pro contract, the last rookie to sign with the Houston Oilers and the highest paid Oiler since the common draft began.

"Dan is a rare commodity these days," coach Ed Hughes said about the team's top draft choice. "He is a gifted athlete with all the physical qualifications. He lacks nothing. He has size, speed, desire and the mentality to become a great quarterback."

Pastorini's parents attended ceremonies Thursday during which the Santa Clara star signed the largest Oiler contract since the days of the bidding wars between the NFL and the old AFL. Although Oilers owner Bud Adams would not disclose the terms of the contract.

Briethard was in Boston for the NBA meetings, but attorney Tom Hamilton, a minority owner, said the move was spurred by receipt of a tax bill of $141,000 from the county.

Briethard's corporation had until June 30 to pay or be evicted from the Sports Arena. The city was considering a takeover of the arena but no action was expected until July 1.

Briethard also owns the San Diego Gulls Western Hockey League team. No indication has been made as to its future.

Briethard threatened several months ago to move his team to Omaha, but the Houston sale came as a surprise.

When the sale was announced during the San Diego Padres-Houston Astros baseball game Wednesday night there were more cheers than boos.

Briethard was in Boston for the NBA meetings, but attorney Tom Hamilton, a minority owner, said the move was spurred by receipt of a tax bill of $141,000 from the county.

Briethard's corporation had until June 30 to pay or be evicted from the Sports Arena. The city was considering a takeover of the arena but no action was expected until July 1.

Briethard also owns the San Diego Gulls Western Hockey League team. No indication has been made as to its future.

Briethard's corporation had until June 30 to pay or be evicted from the Sports Arena. The city was considering a takeover of the arena but no action was expected until July 1.

Freight warehouse vanishes from scene

Rail warehouse comes down

TWIN FALLS — The Union Pacific Railroad freight warehouse is being demolished after more than half a century of service. Railroad officials said the building is being razed because it hasn't been used for over a year. According to a Union Pacific spokesman, the Twin Falls railroad yard hasn't handled small freight for many years. They said most of the incoming freight is in carload lots and too large for the warehouse. The structure is located along Minidoka Avenue, about two blocks east of the Union Pacific depot for Twin Falls. The building has been sold to Howard Kinsfather, Hollister.

Kinsfather said that he and his family are razing the building for salvage. They intend to build "a place" north of Stanley using the lumber. He says that the warehouse has been in Twin Falls for over 60 years. He has found dates scratched on the walls that go back to 1912 and a poster dated 1923. Other items he has found include several cases of old wine and liquor bottles. Kinsfather said people must have used the liquor for "medicine" because there were so many bottles. He also found a case of old whiskey bottles with the corks still in them.

Kimberly station expands

KIMBERLY — The Agricultural Experiment Station at Kimberly, operated by the University of Idaho as one of its services to agriculture, will expand its facilities to consolidate research and experiment station activities at several locations in Twin Falls, according to Marshall LeBaron, experiment station superintendent. The Idaho Permanent Building Fund Council approved selection of a Coeur d'Alene architect, James Bellamy, for the Twin Falls project during the council meeting in Boise Wednesday, signaling formal approval of the first phase of the project. LeBaron said the council allocated $98,000 to the project earlier this year. The expansion will involve construction of additional facilities to house the university's agricultural work in both research and experimental phases, drawing together personnel now stationed in widely separated locations. The expansion may also allow additional agricultural research, LeBaron said.

Charged

BRIG. GEN. John W. Donaldson, accused of slaying six Vietnamese civilians, arrives for closed hearing at Ft. Meade, Md., at which specifications of charges were read to him. Hearing is equivalent of grand jury investigation. He is highest ranking officer to be accused of murdering civilians in Indochina. (UPI)

Udall endorses Snake dam ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, saying he had changed his views since leaving office, called today for preservation of the Snake River in its natural state. Udall backed legislation by Sen. Robert W. Packwood, R-Ore., calling for a permanent ban on dams on the middle Snake between Oregon and Idaho. He said a proposal for a seven-year moratorium on dams would merely postpone a decision. "The issues are clear," he said. "We need to move beyond the half-step moratorium approach to decisive action that will give national river status and protection to this magnificent gorge now." Udall, who served under both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, said his views had "shifted drastically" since he advocated a federal dam in the area. "I am one of the many who has altered his value system as a result of the environmental crisis." Packwood plans to offer his ban-the-dams bill as a substitute for the moratorium plan intended to permit further study of the river. Robert Louis Stevenson was called Tusitala (teller of tales) by Samoan natives.

Most Mackay district roads reported open

MACKAY — District Ranger Garth Baxter said today all roads on the Mackay Ranger District are now open and free of snow with the exception of Antelope Pass. It is not expected that this pass will be open until near the middle of July. The roads in the Copper Basin area have been graded, he said. However, there are a few soft spots remaining.

Beginning around the middle of July road graders will cover all the other main traveled roads on the district. A two mile stretch of road construction was completed this spring in the vicinity of the West Fork of the Big Lost River. The bridge crossing West Fork was unsafe and it was necessary to construct a new bridge. This new bridge and about two miles of access road to it was constructed in a location where a better road is planned to Copper. The bridge and road were built to the standard planned for the entire new road. Later this summer some cushion material will be laid on top of the new road construction to give it a better riding surface.

Containers due paint

TWIN FALLS — Boy Scouts from Troop 59, sponsored by the First and Third Wards of the LDS Church, have started a community improvement and ecology project. The group will meet at 7 a.m. Saturday in the Twin Falls City shop building to prevent littering of the streets. Roy Lewis, scoutmaster, said the group will work several hours to spruce up the large receptacles.

News Of Servicemen

TWIN FALLS — Five Magic Valley men have enlisted in the Army and are now receiving basic training at Ft. Lewis, Wash., according to recruiting officers here. They are Bruce A. Walburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Walburn, Twin Falls; Daniel D. Draper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald K. Draper, Jerome; Larry M. Sebold, son of Mrs. Erma M. Talkington, Hansen; William S. Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. William I. Rogers, Hazelton, and Dennis H. Ragains, husband of the former Cindy D. Snow, Filer.

Nursing students selected

TWIN FALLS — The Licensed Practical Nurse Advisory Committee has selected 12 students for the 1971-72 class. These include Dora Brewer, Cecilia Hernandez, Donna Gay Holcomb, Betty Royce, all Twin Falls; Judy Grosshans, Filer; Betty-Jones, Kimberly; Dale Klatke, and Rosemarie Lockwood, both Hansen; Karen Sonius, Jerome; Norma Van-Derwalker, Buhl; Marcia Williams, Bellevue, and Cheryl Zollinger, Wendell.
