TEN CENTS

SOVIET COSMONAUTS who rode Soyuz 11 spaceship and Salyut laboratory in space for 24 days, were found dead in cabin of craft when it soft-landed safely in central Asia early today. Cosmonauts, shown in cabin of craft prior to launch, are Georgy Dobrovolsky, front left; Viktor Patsyev, rear; and Vladislav Volkov. They were found strapped in seats "without signs of life" by rescue crews, news agency Tass said today. (UPI)

Gravity victims?

Salyut crewmen die in landing

MOSCOW (UPI) — The three Soviet cosmonauts who set an endurance record for space flights died mysteriously today on their return to earth, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Soyuz 11 cosmonauts Georgy Dobrovolsky, 43, Vladislav Volkov, 35, and Viktor Patsayev, 38, were found strapped in their seats "without any signs of life" when their spacecraft soft-landed as planned in Soviet Central Asia.

Tass said the causes of the crew's death are being investigated. The men spent 23 days, 17 hours and 40 minutes in orbit, and space scientists have speculated in the past that prolonged weightlessness and the sudden shock of re-entering earth's gravity could cause heart failure.

Why they died was unknown but Soviet journalists close to the space program quoted preliminary unofficial reports as saying:

- The cosmonauts were in a state of repose, as if in sleep. Their faces were tranquil. There were no signs they struggled to survive.
- There was no obvious mechanical damage to the Soyuz 11 spacecraft.
- It may take weeks and months before the exact cause of the disaster is ascertained and then even more time to devise methods of overcoming the dangers.

The Soviet Union plunged into national mourning for the three heroes who were in space six days and 41 minutes longer than any other men. Moscow radio played funeral music and Muscovites expressed shock and horror at the latest of the trouble and tragedy that has plagued the Soyuz manned space program.

The cosmonauts' ashes will be buried in the Kremlin wall with other heroes of the Soviet Union following a state funeral in Red Square.

Messages of condolence poured in from around the world—Pope Paul VI, President Tito of Yugoslavia, western scientists, including the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration which said "the loss of the cosmonauts is a terrible tragedy."

To Americans it recalled the loss of three American astronauts who died on Jan. 27, 1967, when an electrical spark ignited the pure oxygen in their cabin on the ground at Cape Kennedy—Virgil I. Grissom, Edward H. White and Roger B. Chaffee.

That tragedy postponed the American Apollo program for eight months. The tragedy of Soyuz 11 is expected also to postpone the Soviet space program and Russian plans to build "cosmograds" or orbiting cities in the sky.

Col. Francois Violette, head of the French space medical service, said in Paris today the death of the three men could have come from blood circulation problems—that prolonged weightlessness could make the heart and circulatory system lazy and that it could fail with the shock of re-entry.

The cosmonauts were last heard from only minutes before, when they fired their retrorockets slowing the Soyuz-11 ship to re-enter Earth's atmosphere after 23 days, 17 hours and 40 minutes in orbit.

Western space experts said the shock of gravitational forces after so long in a weightless state could have caused their death. Without gravity, man's body grows "lazy" and the heart does not have to pump so hard.

High court rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled against the government today and gave The New York Times and Washington Post full freedom to resume publishing the secret Pentagon study of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam War.

In the momentous freedom-of-the-press decision, the court rejected the Justice Department's request for an injunction to block publication of stories based on the documents. The government argued that jeopardized national security.

The ruling was expected also to lift lower court injunctions curbing the Boston Globe and The St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Petitions ask vote on airport

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Petitions calling for an election in Twin Falls County to create a regional airport authority were filed with County Clerk Harold Lancaster Tuesday.

The petitions carried about 1,500 signatures.

Lancaster, who said he is checking the signatures himself, said only about five per cent of the names are being disqualified by reason of non-registration as county voters, as being non-residents or because the signatures are not legible.

Lancaster said it appears, if this trend continues, the petitions will contain the required number of names of registered voters. By law, the petitions must be signed by five per cent of the electors of the 1970 general election, or about 1,100 names.

In the past few months, Lancaster said, he has had to go through the voter registrations three times in checking for duplication under the new jury selection law. The law requires names be drawn from voter registration as in the past, from utility company records of customers and from driver license lists. To eliminate duplication, these lists have been checked against the registration files.

If sufficient signatures are contained on the petitions, the county commissioners must advise the Idaho Department of Aeronautics of the qualified petitions. The Board of Aeronautics will call an election within 60 days on the question of creating a regional airport authority.

Petitions are being circulated in eight Magic Valley counties and many have already obtained sufficient qualified signatures. Should one county vote negatively in the election, that county can be excluded. On the basis of all eight counties participating, Twin Falls would pay 43 per cent of the total cost of construction and maintenance. If the number of counties is reduced the percentage would increase.

Lancaster said he believes he will have all petitions checked for validity of signatures by the end of the week.

Idaho highway board clears Perrine plan

BOISE — The design and location of the new Perrine Memorial Bridge was approved by the Idaho Highway Department board of directors during a meeting in Boise on Tuesday.

State Engineer Ellis Mathes told the board the bridge has top priority for financing, through federal bridge-replacement funds. The federal funds would provide 75 per cent of the total cost of construction, with the state of Idaho putting up the remaining 25 per cent.

Mathes said the state's contribution, estimated in excess of $2 million, could pose a problem. The total cost of the project, including preparation of the approaches, realignment of the highway and construction of the bridge itself, could top $8.5 million at present estimates.

The Idaho Highway Department would have to find the $2 million for Idaho's portion of the costs in its budget, Mathes said, and this could pose a problem. The federal contribution is still uncertain. One petition, backed up with reams of testimony on the cost and hazard of continuing the present structure operation, told a lot of a technicality in the federal law, when it was revealed that funds would be provided only if the bridge in question had been completely closed to all traffic due to deterioration or structural damage.

Since the Perrine Bridge has been closed only to trucks with gross loads of over 22 tons, the petition failed to qualify.

Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and the highway department are still seeking a route to the U. S. Treasury, according to recent reports.

The new Perrine Bridge will be built a short distance upstream from the present structure. Highway 93, which now travels straight across the bridge, will have to angle to the east to meet the new structure, according to the location specifications approved by the highway board.

The residence on the southern rim of the canyon, just east of the bridge, will have to be removed to allow realignment of the highway. The sizable rock outcropping on the north rim will have to be blasted away, and a hill about 25 feet high will have to be removed.

The bridge is in the design phase at the present time. The Seattle engineering firm of Howard, Needles, Tammer and Bergendorf is working up blueprints, using data provided by a core-drilling project now in progress on the walls of the canyon.

A public hearing in Twin Falls on June 15 presented details of the accepted plan and of several alternatives considered by the highway board.

Gen laws effective Thursday

BOISE (UPI) — Some 30 bills approved by the first session of Idaho's 1971 legislature will become effective July 1, including the new Uniform Consumer Credit Code, the Experimental Agriculture Labor Act, and the compromise version of the teacher negotiations bill.

The Idaho version of the Uniform Consumer Credit Code will provide regulations for transactions involving credit — both goods and services — and will regulate loans by both banks and by small lending institutions.

The agricultural labor measure is effective for only a year, but an interim legislative committee has been formed to study this summer such problems that may arise with hopes of reaching a better solution during the next session of the legislature. The bill outlines provisions for organizing, striking and negotiating.

The new teacher negotiations bill is a compromise between original versions approved by teachers and by school trustees. It provides for both groups to meet and confer on a voluntary basis.

Another bill going into effect Thursday is the new measure allowing retail sales of wines in grocery stores.

Area spans under study

TWIN FALLS — The North Hailey Bridge across the Wood River at Hailey and the Rock Creek Bridge at Twin Falls are among 20 considered for replacement as soon as possible by the Idaho Highway Department.

The highway board of directors submitted a list of 20 bridges which need replacement to the federal government in a request for federal matching funds, listing the Perrine Memorial Bridge as top priority with an "urgent" criterion attached.

The Rock Creek Canyon bridge, known as the "singing bridge" to many Magic Valley motorists, is 13th in priority for replacement, according to Bill Harvey, highway department public relations director. The bridge was built in 1920, and replacement would cost an estimated $1.3 million, Harvey said.

The Wood River Bridge at Hailey is one step higher in priority — listed No. 12 — at a replacement cost of $660,000.

Highway Engineer Ellis Mathes said that the federal government would provide 75

Draft near end

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The draft expires at midnight with Congress powerless to do anything about it because of a dispute over the Vietnam war. It will leave the President without draft authority for the first time since 1949 but defense officials said there was little need for immediate concern.

Both the House and Senate have passed legislation to extend President Nixon's power to draft for another two years. The Senate, however, attached to its version of the legislation an amendment that would declare it the national policy of the United States to be out of Vietnam nine months after the draft law became effective.

But that amendment, contin-gent only on a Communist release of all American war prisoners, was not accepted by the House. And when members of both bodies met in committee to iron out their differences, the end-the-war amendment caused a stalemate. Strong opposition, reportedly originating with the White House, developed against the out-nine-months idea.

It appeared likely the impasse could not be resolved until next week after Congress has had its Independence Day holiday.

In the meantime, Selective Service officials revealed that draft boards across the country stopped sending out induction notices more than a week ago.

House panel may visit Salmon Falls area

by the House of Representatives.

The committee will refer it to its subcommittee, headed by a Democrat, Rep. Harold T. Johnson of California. "Field hearings" are routine on any sizable reclamation project such as the Salmon Falls Project, Hansen said.

Hansen and Rep. James McClure, Idaho's First District Congressman, are co-sponsoring the Salmon Falls legislation as well as the seven-year moratorium on dam construction along the Middle Snake River. This legislation was also passed by the Senate on Monday, by a unanimous vote.

The subcommittee will take testimony on the need for the Salmon Falls project, then will schedule the field hearings as soon as possible, Hansen said.

"I feel confident that when anyone gets a good look at the area, and gets an idea of the need, we'll have no difficulty in getting support for the bill," Hansen said.

Hansen said he has heard no concrete opposition to the Salmon Falls Project legislation, either from fellow Congressmen or from his constituents in Idaho's Second District.

One letter of concern, worry about the potential ecological effects of the project, misunderstood the facts, Hansen said. The writer of the letter thought the project included construction of a dam across the Snake, when in fact no dam is included.

The Salmon Falls Project includes construction of a pumping station at Milner Dam and a complex series of distribution works, Hansen said.

The legislation halting further construction of dams on the Middle Snake will be referred to another House committee, but which one is unclear yet. If the project involves power generation, Hansen said, it "should be referred to the Commerce Committee," but "there is some possibility it will be referred to the Interior Committee."

No field hearings will be needed for the moratorium bill, since no construction is involved, the Idaho Congressman said.

"We are hopeful for action on both measures this session," he added.

In the 1970 Congressional session, the dam-construction moratorium passed the U.S. Senate, but action came late in the session, which ended before the House Commerce Committee could receive the bill. The early approval in this session almost guarantees House action this year, Hansen said.

Birth control for poor draws favor

By MELBA THORNE
Times-News Writer

SHOSHONE — The majority of people who stated an opinion in a recent Wood River Resource Association survey voted in favor of birth control being made mandatory for families on Aid to Dependent Children or welfare benefits. The answer was 62.1 per cent in favor of the control in the Lincoln County vote, while it was 65.7 in favor of the control according to the four-county vote results. Counties represented included Blaine, Lincoln, Gooding and Camas. Those voting showed 22.6 against the control on the four-county basis, with 11.7 per cent stating they had no opinion. Within Lincoln County there were 19.6 per cent of those who voted who had no opinion on this subject. The percentage of participating voters was about as much agreed that "too much emphasis is placed on athletics in high school." On the Lincoln County basis 57.2 per cent said too much emphasis is on athletics, while 34.7 said there was not too much emphasis on sports and 8 stated "no opinion." On the four-county basis, 50.6 per cent felt there is too much emphasis on athletics with 42.2 stating there was not too much emphasis and 7.2 stating "no opinion." There were 40.7 per cent of the voters in the four-county area stating they felt teachers should be required to retire at age 60, 48.5 stating they should not be required to retire at that age, and 10.7 stating no opinion. Lincoln County voters showed 45 voted in favor of the required retirement of teachers at 60, 42.1 against the forced retirement, and 12.9 with no opinion.

On a county basis 47.7 per cent voted in favor of law enforcement consolidation; 37 per cent voted against it and 17.4 expressed no opinion. By the same token, the vote to support a bond election for such consolidation showed only 28.6 per cent in favor of that while 48.6 were against support of such an election and 22.8 had no opinion. There were 52.4 per cent of the voters in the four-county area who voted in favor of law enforcement consolidation, 31.9 against it, 15.7 with no opinion; 38.1 per cent in favor of supporting a bond issue for the consolidation, 41.6 against support of the bond issue and 20.2 with no opinion. Only 51.4 per cent of the people in Lincoln county voted for enforcement of state law requiring capping of drilled holes for sewage, while on the four-county basis the vote was 73.2 per cent in favor.

Comedy, workshop set

CLAYTON — The Fourth of July weekend entertainment at Robinson Bar Guest Ranch will include the first show of the season "on the road" by the Antique Festival Theatre, and a ceramic workshop by Jan Van Leeuwen, a Dutch artist. "Box and Cox and Other Acts," a replica of the kind of show which toured the mining camps and lumber towns in Idaho's early days, will be previewed by the theater group for ranch guests, campers and residents of Clayton July 3 and 4, reports Pat Young, manager of the ranch. H. Paul Kliss, Aldrich Bowler and his wife, Di, will perform the lead play, a comedy written in 1847 and later put into musical form by Gilbert and Sullivan and used as a curtain raiser for longer entertainments. An orchestra made up of company members will provide background and mood music written and directed by Jim Cockey, Boise. The second part of the program is made up of recitations, songs and dialogues, done in style of the times, and varying with each performance. Some of the old favorites include "Casey at the Bat," "With Her Head Tucked Underneath Her Arm," "I Belong to Glasgow" and the famous pantomime "The Lighthouse Keeper's Daughter." Leeuwen, the Dutch artist who will be a guest at the ranch, will conduct a workshop and do a demonstration. He returns to Idaho this trip, having been here during the year 1968-69 when he was artist-in-residence for a time at the College of Idaho, I.S.U., and the University of Idaho. He has been widely exhibited in his own country and is considered one of Holland's most outstanding non-traditional artists. Other ranch activities for the weekend include swimming, hiking, and riding. Homemade ice cream will be served for dinner.

Appointed
FORMER SPRINGDALE resident, Kelly T. Ellis, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Ellis, Provo, Utah, has been awarded an appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy. Here he is receiving his official notice from Lt. Cmdr. (ret.) Richard H. Lowe, representing the academy in the Provo area.

College leader sets meet

REXBURG — A press conference for the new president of Ricks College, Dr. Henry B. Eyring, will be held at 3 p.m. July 14 in Room 387 of the Manwaring Center on the college campus. Dr. Eyring is the 10th president of the two-year college, owned and operated by the LDS Church. He came to Ricks from Stanford University where he was associate professor, graduate school of business. He obtained his B.S. degree in physics in 1955 from the University of Utah and his master's and doctor's degrees in business administration from Harvard University in 1958 and 1963 respectively. Since 1962, he has been assistant professor and associate professor at Stanford. He was on leave in 1964-65 as an Alfred P. Sloan Visiting Faculty Fellow at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

New telephone service offered

TWIN FALLS — A new telephone service at the Twin Falls Social Security office can handle "most social security business" without requiring personal visits to the office by the public, according to John K. Carlton, social security district manager in Twin Falls. "We call it teleservice," Carlton said. "With teleservice, a great deal of paperwork can be handled by phone that involves such social security matters as application for benefits, change of address on your checks, stop or start work notices, and general questions about the social security programs, including Medicare." With teleservice, social security personnel can in many instances fill out an application by telephone and then mail the form to the beneficiary for his signature. The social security teleservice phone number for this area is 733-6050. Call this number before you make the trip to the office, the trip may not be necessary. People in other counties of Magic Valley may telephone collect to file claims or ask questions about claims.

Ricks has summer session

REXBURG — Thirty-two states and five foreign countries are represented at the Ricks College Summer school, the first five-week session which ends July 9. The second session begins July 12 with registration. Final enrollment figures show 393 students registered for the first session, nine more than the first five weeks a year ago. Idaho sent 270 students, Utah 20 and California 17, with nine Canadians, two from Mexico, two from Finland and one each from Italy and Norway.

Camas Pioneers set picnic soon

FAIRFIELD — The annual Camas Prairie Pioneer Association picnic is planned for 1 p.m. July 18 at the Pioneer Campground on Soldier Creek across from the ski lift. Those attending are asked to bring a picnic lunch. The association will furnish ice cream, coffee, punch and table service. Each year the picnic is held on the third Sunday in July. At this time pioneers, their families and descendants, and friends from near and far gather to re-live the early days on Camas Prairie and to renew acquaintances. Many interesting stories are told of events, experiences, good times and hardships that are remembered of the days gone by. Also some tall tales add a bit of spice to the program. Mrs. Nellie Abbott, Mrs. Charles Packham and Mrs. Lonzo Baldwin are arranging a program honoring the late John Ryan, who left a sum of money to the Pioneer Association in his will. Charles Packham is president of the association; Lonzo Baldwin, first vice president; Nellie Abbott, second vice president; Mrs. Carol Vanshike, secretary, and Loyd Bundy, treasurer. Officers will be elected during the afternoon.

Elected
POCATELLO — Dr. E. V. Simison, dean of the college of medical arts at Idaho State University, has been elected to membership in the Intermountain Regional Medical Program, for his second term of three years. Regional medical programs are designed to encourage and assist in establishing cooperative arrangements among medical schools, research institutes, hospitals and other medical groups.

Housing drive results listed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) says its Operation Breakthrough experiment to encourage volume production of housing already has produced results even though the first family has not yet moved in. Secretary George Romney said the project has brought some new producers into the housing field and has changed the public attitude toward industrialized housing.

When it is complete some time next year, Operation Breakthrough will have produced experimental homes ranging from single-family houses to high-rise apartments on nine sites throughout the nation. The two-year-old program reached a milestone in May when the first units of industrialized housing—three two-story townhouses complete with wiring, plumbing and carpeting—were installed in Kalamazoo, Mich.

The Kalamazoo units are scheduled to be occupied by late summer. Ground has been broken at the other eight sites as well. The object of the project is to move housing beyond the traditional hammer-and-saw on-site building techniques. Harold B. Finger, HUD assistant secretary for research and technology, listed these objectives for the project: —To increase the total supply of housing to help provide a decent home for every American.

—To modernize zoning regulations and overcome restrictions imposed by local building codes which often make mass-production of housing impossible or prohibitively expensive. —To encourage cooperative agreements between labor unions. —To stimulate the use of new techniques and materials in home building. —To seek innovative methods of financing the construction and the sale of homes. Romney said 13 states have passed laws aimed at clearing the way for industrialized housing. He said 22 others are considering similar legislation. HUD officials envision assembly-line housing as an alternative to traditionally built homes. They say there is plenty of room for both types in a nation which still is in the grip of a shortage of decent homes.

Afghan claims melon honors

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Texans like to brag. They stake claim on the biggest of everything in the world. They make no secret about it.

Afghanistan, not often heard to claim the biggest of anything, does have one brag, according to Noor Mohammed Samimy, an Afghan and also an undergraduate majoring in soil science at Texas Tech University. "The watermelons we grow in my country average 60 pounds or better," he tells his classmates.

Samimy is attending Texas Tech sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Agency for International Development. He has spent the last 12 years working for the Afghanistan Helmand Valley Authority—the equivalent of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. "In my country," he said, "we have one main agricultural research station in the city of Lashkargah. From this station I am in charge of a number of minor substations throughout the country."

Samimy attended the University of Kabul in Afghanistan. During his education in the United States he has attended the University of Texas and Utah State University, and taken a number of agricultural engineering courses at Fort Belvoir, Va.

"My educational program here in the United States is set up by AID," Samimy said. "Texas Tech was recommended to me by that organization."

Samimy also had on-the-job training at an agricultural research farm in Yuma, Ariz. He spent three months in training learning American agricultural methods. The Afghanistan climate, according to Samimy, is similar to that of the West Texas area. He said the two areas, however, differ agriculturally. "Because of the readily available water supply from the large Helmand River, at home we can grow a greater variety of crops," Samimy said. "My research station conducts experiments with wheat, corn, cotton, rice, barley, peanuts, cabbage—and watermelons. "We are also involved with irrigation tests, forage tests, seeding tests, plant population tests and fertilizer tests."

After the fall semester at Texas Tech, Samimy said he hopes to visit agricultural research farms in Southern California for two to three months before returning to his country.

Arms salesmen forbid 'anger'

SAINT TROMB, Belgium (UPI)—Brialmont and Company will sell light or heavy artillery to all comers, no questions asked.

There are only two conditions: buyers must agree to cast iron as basic material and accept that the cannons cannot be fired in anger.

But even within these limits, Brialmont is doing brisk business with the East as well as the West and customers include Romania, Yugoslavia, Canada, Mexico, Morocco, Turkey and Iran.

The range of cannons includes about 30 different types, but given the right specifications, the plant can produce most pieces customers may request.

Emile Brialmont, a native of Verriers, set up the foundry in this little town in the Belgian province of Limburg, when he became tired of being foreman in somebody else's plant, 50 years ago.

Although St. Tromb—present population 25,000—is situated in the heart of a fruitgrowing region, sometimes called the orchard of Belgium, the enterprise prospered. Begun as a three-man operation for the casting of simple machinery pieces, the foundry grew into a highly qualified plant, turning out parts of up to ten tons.

The founder's two sons, Gerard and Albert, now do business with all parts of the world and cast parts, notably for electric power plants, sugar refineries, coal-mining machinery and cracking columns for the oil industry.

To keep personnel at work in slack periods, the plant manufactured wood and coal-burning stoves until the spread of oil-stoked central heating began shrinking traditional markets.

"We needed something else," said Gerard Brialmont "and a drive along a country road in 1967 brought the inspiration.

"On the lawn in front of a lovely house I saw the remains of a magnificent old wagon—two enormous wheels connected by a wooden axle.

"Not bad, I said to my brother. 'Yes,' he replied, 'with an old cannon nearby it would look still better.' ... And that provided the spark."

After studying antique cannons in encyclopedias and museums, three models were chosen: the standard mounted artillery cannon, the fortress cannon and the naval cannon, dating from the sailing ship times—the latter two mounted on oak bases.

Since then, the foundry has added around 30 models from the 16th, 17th and 18th Centuries, including Napoleonic field artillery and Austrian and Spanish cannons.

It took some time before the pieces found their way to the markets, but an order for 300, destined for the restoration of four ancient fortresses near the St. Lawrence River in Canada, set the ball rolling. Demand now is steady.

Clients include museums and institutions that frequently submit specific designs for reproduction.

NEW YORK (UPI)—America is enjoying a new era of nostalgia but it is not reserved exclusively for those who like to reminisce about the Big Apple, flagpole sitting and goldfishing.

Nostalgia can be a very real thing to young men and women who will be voting for the first time in the next elections.

They have shown a warm affection for Buffalo Bob Smith, who has been touring the college circuit with Howdy Doody. Howdy evokes fond memories from them of those preschool days when only mapmakers, newspaper correspondents and the State Department had ever heard of Vietnam and "pot" had other meanings.

An original recording of "It's Howdy Doody Time!" (RCA Victor LSP-4546) is now available for those who have missed Smith's shows and still have a yen for the marionette TV star of the late 1940's and early 1950's.

Bruce, the subject of a 1971 movie, has been defended by his admirers as a man far ahead of his time. They note that his scalding humor of the early 1960's was lukewarm compared with the erotica and pornography of the 1970's.

"The Midnight Concert" (United Artists UAS 6794) is a playback of a monologue Bruce delivered at Carnegie Hall in 1961. It is not recommended to a general audience because Bruce's remarks about organized religion may offend devout people. But it is an interesting item for thick-skinned observers who may regard Lenny Bruce as a legitimate character in the passing scene.

Cuba 'lift' reaffirmed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Continuation of the U.S. airlift of refugees from Cuba to this country was assured Tuesday when a Senate move to stop the flights was dropped at least for the time being.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, withdrew the committee-approved proposal on the Senate floor.

Teens top foes

A STREET LIGHT POLE gets a patriotic coat of red, white and blue paint from neighborhood teen-agers in Sacramento, Calif., in honor of a returning serviceman and the Fourth of July. The youths painted the pole three times with Old Glory's colors only to have the city repaint it drab green twice. Finally the city adopted a more patriotic attitude and decided to leave the colorful monument to teen-age determination until after the holiday. (UPI)

Venezuela may control fuel

CARACAS (UPI)—Venezuela, in a drive to bring the foreign-owned oil industry under state control, is about to take over all the country's natural gas reserves.

A government-proposed bill giving Venezuela the right to draw natural gas from concession areas now held by U.S. and other foreign oil companies under 40-year agreements is scheduled to go before the Venezuelan Congress shortly and could be passed next month.

The bill is aimed at giving the government the gas needed to carry out a $1 billion project for exporting 1.3 billion cubic feet of liquefied natural gas to U.S. markets by 1975.

Under Venezuelan law, the state is the sole owner of the subsoil and its mineral wealth. Despite the indications of major natural gas reserves in non-concession areas, the government has apparently decided to take a short-cut to getting the gas it needs by tapping concessions with proven reserves.

The Caldera administration has already outlined a program for investing $1 billion for collecting, transmission, processing and transport of the gas to U.S. ports. Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) is approximately the same kind of gas used in homes and industry for cooking and heating purposes.

It is liquefied by bringing it down to extremely low temperatures which reduces its volume and facilitates its transport on special refrigerated tankers. It is converted back into gas when it reaches its destination.

Today's aluminum industry production is more than 10 billion pounds a year. This is almost 13 times the rate of about 20 years ago.

The companies' opposition to the bill is not only due to the proposed takeover of their natural gas, but also to anger over government rejection of company offers to jointly exploit natural gas for export. At least one major company had invested large amounts here to lay the groundwork for a natural gas export program. The government is apparently unwilling to accept foreign equity capital in its gas exports plans.

JARBIDGE, NEV., will boom again July 2-4 as townspeople put on their annual Fourth of July celebration. A barbecue will be served at 1 p.m. Sunday, with proceeds going to the Jarbidge Water Fund. This old-time photograph shows Jarbidge as it appeared in its boom days.

Looked like this

Gala holiday planned

JARBIDGE, Nev. — This old mining town, scene of one of the most gala Fourth of July celebrations in this section of the country, is again preparing for an influx of tourists and celebrants. Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Smith, who are preparing a barbecue which will be served starting at 1 p.m. Sunday, the Fourth, said all proceeds from the meal will go to the Jarbidge Water Fund. The celebration starts July 2 and goes strong until the night of the Fourth or whenever everybody feels like quitting, Smith said.

Ben Lozier's band will play for a dance all three nights at the Hunters Lodge and fun and entertainment also are available at the Outdoor Inn.

Smith said about 500 people were fed at last year's barbecue and he promises the same good home cooking this year. There will be beef and pork and "we might even throw in a lamb or two." There also will be baked beans, salad and homemade sourdough bread.

Emcee keeps his aplomb

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — There's not much you can do about the periodic gushing that is part of the big televised beauty pageant. But for some years now, Bob Barker, as host of the commercial ventures known as the Miss U.S.A. and Miss Universe contests, has managed to carry them off with considerable aplomb—not going any more overboard than a paid but self-respecting emcee has to.

over cocktails at a Beverly Hills restaurant, "come out just fine and handle themselves very well. These girls are surprisingly intelligent. The first time I went there, I expected to find some pretty faces and spoiled kids, but I found this wasn't so."

"There's nothing sadder than a 45-year-old woman talking about being Miss Something-Or-Other." Barker has some advice for girls who go home after these contests: "They should return to their normal way of life and think of their good experience, but not as something that's made a lasting impression on them or their friends."

On the other hand, says Barker, there are times when the winners of beauty contests, if not careful, can turn out to be the losers. He has seen some personality changes that were not entirely favorable. "I know of girls who have won pageant competition and tried for modeling and acting careers for which they were not suited," he said.

He also has some other advice: "For girls planning to enter beauty contests: 'Don't be a prima donna.' And for those girls who think they can make points with very special attention to persons of influence at the goings-on: 'Forget it. Not in our pageants. If a girl had that in mind, it would be a hopeless situation for her. As for other contests, I don't know about them.'"

Okinawa defense question rises

TOKYO (UPI)—Who will defend Okinawa after the Americans leave? Well, the Americans aren't leaving, even though they expect to return the Western Pacific fortress island to Japanese rule next year. U.S. officials say they expect little if any reduction in the American troop strength of some 50,000 men when the U.S. military rule of Okinawa ends and it becomes a Japanese island once again. But Japan's home guard self defense force will be required to assume major responsibility for the defense of Okinawa against any air, ground or sea attack. "We are still in the final stages of working out arrangements for Japanese assumption of the defense of Okinawa," a U.S. official said. "Transfer of the defense responsibility to Japan will be fairly rapid, from six months in some instances to 12 months in other instances." Japanese government sources say Japan expects to send 3,200 troops to Okinawa within six months after the United States releases the island. The total number of Japanese troops on Okinawa will be increased to about 6,800 men within a year after Japan resumes rule, these sources report. When Japanese air, ground and sea units land on Okinawa, they will become the first Japanese troops to return to the island in force since the United States captured the bastion in 1945 in the last battle of World War II. The United States has held Okinawa under military occupation for 26 years. It was the last Japanese territory to be administered by U.S. officials. But Japan and the United States signed a treaty June 17 bringing the occupation to an end with a 1972 target date for resumption of Japanese rule. But the United States continues to maintain its major air and Marine bases on Okinawa, strategically located between Japan and Nationalist China's Taiwan on the rim of the East China Sea. Okinawa is America's most forward position in Northeast Asia and is situated within easy jet range of Communist China, North Korea and Soviet Siberia. The U.S.-Japan Okinawa revision agreement provides that the United States will keep 88 of its 134 military facilities on Okinawa after the Rising Sun flag is rehoisted. In theory, the American bases in Okinawa, as well as present U.S. military posts in Japan proper, exist for the regional defense of Northeast Asia. But Japan volunteered self-defense of the Japanese islands, which will include Okinawa, after the United States withdraws its military high commissioner.

Benefits offered

BOISE — Many widows of Idaho veterans may not know they can receive Veterans Administration benefits after their remarriage if the remarriage has been terminated by death or divorce. Loryn E. Kopan, director of the Boise VA Center, said qualified widows were eligible for VA-guaranteed home loans, educational benefits, death pension, and dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC).

Previously, the widow of a veteran was declared permanently ineligible for these benefits if she remarried, but a recently passed law has amended that provision to again make the widow eligible if her remarriage is terminated. Kopan said widows of veterans with questions about their eligibility status should write or call the VA Office at Sixth and Fort Streets, Boise, or their local service organization representative.

LATE MODEL automobile rests in a sugar beet field after the driver lost control and struck a power pole on U. S. Highway 30 west of Twin Falls Tuesday night. Ron Wyatt, deputy sheriff inspects damaged vehicle. Two accidents resulted in power interruptions in the same area Tuesday night.

Vehicles down electric lines

TWIN FALLS — It was a bad night Tuesday for power users west of Twin Falls. Two vehicles, in separate accidents, caused power service interruptions when they crashed into power poles on U.S. Highway 30 west of Twin Falls. Sheriff Paul Corder said a vehicle driven by Ronald Henderson Price, 38, Twin Falls, went out of control at 9:30 p.m. two and one half miles west of Twin Falls on U.S. 30. It went off the north side of the highway, crashed through a power pole, and came to rest in a sugar beet field after crossing a small ditch and the corner of a hay field. The driver was charged with driving while intoxicated. At 12:30 a.m. state police investigated an accident one half mile west on Highway 30 after a pickup truck crashed into another power pole. There were no injuries in either accident.

Balanced rock unit honored

TWIN FALLS — The Balanced Rock Soil and Water Conservation district of Twin Falls County has been named first place winner in the statewide conservation awards contest sponsored by the Goodyear Company. The winning district was selected by a committee of conservation leaders on the basis of planning, leadership and accomplishments in resource development last year. Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. officials said this is the 25th year of the contest to recognize conservation efforts through the cooperation of the National Association of Conservation Districts.

Alan T. Pierce, Castleford, who was named the district's outstanding landowner-cooperator, and Donald R. Kramer, Castleford, a member of the district's board of directors, will be guests of the sponsoring company in December for a four-day visit to the 10,000 acre Goodyear Farms and The Wigwam, a desert resort, at Litchfield Park, Ariz. The two men will join representatives of other first place districts from all participating states for the vacation study tour. Second place district in Idaho this year was the Oneida Soil Conservation district with L. C. Adler and Sons, Malad, outstanding cooperator of that district.

House faces desalt plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House yesterday had before it a Senate-backed bill to push the government's water desalting efforts in new directions. Senate approval sends the bill to the House. The bill passed Monday by the Senate gives basic authority to the secretary of Interior to direct desalting research for five years. The money authorization, for $27,025,000, is for one year, fiscal 1972. The language of the Senate committee report on the bill explained its urgency toward getting a large-scale water desalting plant developed. The bill directs the secretary to use the knowledge of agencies aside from the office of saline water to plan the plant. A plan for such a plant on Bolsa Island, Calif., fell apart, largely "from system management and power marketing considerations," the report said. Other elements of the re-directing of government effort, embodied in the bill, included: — Authority for research on "other chemically contaminated water," so that desalting technology can be turned to remove other impurities. — Research and development authority extended to waste treatment. — Research authority extended to purposes other than water treatment: "For example, reverse osmosis technologies are used in food processing and in kidney machines." — Authorization for the secretary to fit desalting technology into overall water resource planning.

Rodeo official in T.F. for planning

TWIN FALLS — Dave Campbell, New Meadows, president of the National High School Rodeo executive committee, was in Twin Falls Tuesday to meet with the planning board. Campbell went to the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds at Filer, site of the 1971 national finals, to inspect work in progress there. Others making reports during the meeting at the Holiday Inn included Robert Fort, of C and R Printing, Filer, who will be making the day sheet programs for insertion in the souvenir program. Douglas Vollmer, chairman of the patron sponsorship sales campaign by the Twin Falls Jaycees, reported about $1,500 to $1,600 collected thus far. He said new plans have been formulated for selling the $25, $50 and $75 patron sponsorships and he "is confident" of reaching somewhere near the goal. The sales will contribute a large share to the rodeo's budget. Bill Babcock, chairman of the souvenir trade dollar committee, said the 10,000 coins received this week are getting into circulation rapidly. Armour Anderson, chairman of the Twin Falls committee, suggested that each contestant be given a trade dollar at registration time. The board approved the suggestion.

Accident injures 3 persons

TWIN FALLS — An accident last Wednesday at the intersection of the Shoshone Falls road and Falls Avenue resulted in minor injuries to three persons. It was originally reported all eight persons involved in the accident were treated for minor injuries at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and released. Investigating officers said Lona Bates, 14, Minnie Bates, 12 and Lauri Bates, 11, escaped injury. They were riding in a pickup truck driven by their grandfather, George Rudolph, 74, Twin Falls. Officers said his vehicle stopped at a stop sign and then pulled into the path of a vehicle driven by Terry Robinette, 16, Twin Falls. The mother of the Bates children said they were not thrown from the vehicle. They were riding in the rear of the pickup truck.

Concert slated Thursday

TWIN FALLS — A concert will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, July 1, at the band shell of the City Park by the Twin Falls Municipal band. This is a special Independence Day Program and will be directed by Del Slaughter. A variety of patriotic numbers will be played, including American "Folk Rhapsody" by Clare Grundman; "American Patrol," by F.W. Meacham; "The Gallant men" by John Cacavas; "New England Chronicle" by Philip Gordon; "Anchors Aweigh" by Charles A. Zimmermann; "America The Beautiful," by Samuel Ward; "Marine Hymn" arranged by Sammy Nestico; "The Stars and Stripes Forever" by John Philip Sousa; "America," arranged by John Cacavas; "God Bless America" by Irving Berlin and "The Star Spangled Banner." The public is invited.

T.F. canning kitchen opening planned July 9; new hours set

TWIN FALLS — Opening of the Twin Falls Canning Kitchen has been announced for July 9; with a new operating schedule to be in effect this season. Mrs. J.H. Sharp, manager, said this year the kitchen will be open regularly on Mondays and Fridays. When fruit and vegetables are in peak supplies, it will also be open on Wednesdays. Last year the kitchen operated on Tuesdays and Fridays but Mrs. Sharp said with the midweek opening, this made it difficult for the kitchen staff to keep up with canning operations with two consecutive days of operation. Under the new schedule it will operate Monday, be closed on Tuesday, and during peak demands will open on Wednesday, close on Thursday and be open on Fridays. She said the kitchen staff is looking forward to a record breaking season this year because of the abundance of fruit anticipated this season. Cherries are now ready in some orchards, she said, and many homemakers will be canning these during the first few weeks of the kitchen's 1971 season. With other fruit to follow shortly, Mrs. Sharp said, women should make plans to complete their chili, pork and beans and ham and beans in July. Reservations for chili must be made in advance and those planning to can chili should call Mrs. Sharp at 733-3497. Continuing increases in the cost of cans to the kitchen will result in a one cent general increase on all sizes. Membership necessary to use the kitchen facility is still $1 per season per homemaker. Last year persons using the kitchen processed 72,000 cans of produce and Mrs. Sharp said the kitchen directors and staff are planning for an output of about 100,000 cans this year because of the record fruit crops. Telephone service will be available at the kitchen by the time it is in operation and a clean-up day has been scheduled for July 7 to put the kitchen equipment and facilities in shape for canners.

Mrs. Sinclair backed for state GOP office

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. James (Orriette) Sinclair of Twin Falls has been endorsed by the Fifth District, Idaho Republican Party, as successor to Gwen Barnett, Boise, Idaho national GOP committeewoman. The Republican State Central Committee will meet in Coeur d'Alene on July 17 to select a successor to Mrs. Barnett, who has resigned the position effective Thursday because she is leaving the state. Mrs. Sinclair was endorsed by Magic Valley Republicans at a Fifth District meeting in Gooding Monday, according to Merle Owsley, Gooding County GOP chairman. The veteran Twin Falls GOP spokesman has been active in the party "since I got out of high school," she told the Times-News today. She is presently vice chairman of the Idaho State Republican Party, state committeewoman in Twin Falls County and a precinct committeewoman. She will attend the July 17 Central Committee meeting, as well as Douglas Kramer, Twin Falls County GOP chairman, David Mead, Ted Ahlm and others, Mrs. Sinclair said.

Other Magic Valley GOP workers mentioned as possible successors to Mrs. Barnett include Mrs. George (Jane) Kneeland, Ketchum, and Mrs. John (Luella) Peavey, Rupert. Both, however, have declined the nomination. Mrs. Wayne (Delores) Crow, Nampa, is an announced candidate to fill Mrs. Barnett's position. Some of the least explored sections of the world are in the jungles of Peru.

Ex-councilman visits in T.F.

TWIN FALLS — James Norfleet, former Twin Falls City Council member and local businessman, visiting friends in Twin Falls praised the city's new downtown look after an initial inspection of the completed portion of the program. Norfleet said plans for improving the main business center began while he was still active in community affairs and it is gratifying to return and see the accomplishments. He and Mrs. Norfleet, now residents of Sun City, Ariz., arrived Monday for a visit with friends. Norfleet served on the city council from 1953 through 1961 and retired as manager of the local Woolworth store in 1964, moving to Arizona in 1967.

He was a member of the original mall planning committee, a charter member of the off-street parking association and worked with the council at the time of the city's water system planning. After leaving Twin Falls the couple plans to visit Mrs. Norfleet's relatives in Denver. They also visited a nephew in Gooding and will visit their daughters now residing in Salt Lake City, Utah, and Las Vegas, Nev.

2 trailers entered in South Hills

TWIN FALLS — Owners of two small trailer houses told Twin Falls sheriff's officers the trailers were entered Tuesday while they were parked in the South Hills. Officers were continuing their investigations. One of the trailers was in Rock Creek Canyon below the Idaho Fish and Game Department building and the other on the East Fork of Shoshone Creek.

Meet set
TWIN FALLS — Next regular business of the Twin Falls City Council will be transacted on July 6 at 7:30 p.m. In an adjourned meeting Monday afternoon, council members voted to again adjourn until the July 6 date because their next regular meeting would fall on Monday, July 5, which this year is an official July 4th holiday.

Wendell reports major projects

WENDELL — Mayor Eugene Soares reports that during the past year several major projects have been completed in the city. Since last summer a new pump house complete with two new pumps, and automatic control panels has been built at a cost of $45,000.

Soares said work is being done on the second phase of the project which includes a 55,000-gallon water tank. The facility will be completed sometime next year with the installation of new water lines running east and west in the city. He said presently the old water lines all run north and south.

Business grads want big wages

NEW YORK (UPI)—We'd know a lot about the future of American business if we could creep inside the minds of the men and women who will be running it the next 40 years.

In effect, that's what Pioneer Western Corp., a national financial services organization, did in a survey of May and June graduates with new masters' of business administration (MBA) degrees.

Big business may not be overjoyed with some attitudes unearthed in the survey. For one thing, many of the new MBA's, or at least this sampling, aren't sure they want to work for a big corporation.

Some 46 per cent of those surveyed planned to go into marketing. Seventy eight per cent of the women surveyed chose marketing because they thought it gave them the best chance to get ahead.

'Company' now in second year

NEW YORK (UPI)—That excellent musical, "Company," is swinging along nicely in its second year with a troupe that includes few of the originals.

Principal replacement has been Hollywood's Jane Russell in the pivotal role created by Elaine Stritch in this sophisticated and unusual Stephen Sondheim-George Furth work dealing with modern marriage and associated problems of the day.

The biggest casting news of the moment is that Peter Falk and Lee Grant will have the top roles in Neil Simon's new comedy, "The Prisoner of Second Avenue."

The play goes into rehearsal Sept. 14, bows in New Haven Oct. 12-16 and plays Washington, D.C., Oct. 18-Nov. 6. The New York premiere date is Nov. 11 at the Eugene O'Neill Theater which, incidentally, Simon owns.

The cast recording of the fine revival of Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey into Night," a success at the Promenade Theater, is now available through Caedmon Records. The players are

New activities added to 4-H camp

WENDELL — Several new programs are being planned for the annual Gooding County 4-H Camp which will be held July 14-17. The camp is near the Russian John Ranger Station north of Ketchum, said Mrs. Dorothy Grieve, extension home economist.

The camp theme will be western. The Gooding group will be camping with 4-H'ers from Elmore County again this year.

All campers should bring at least one change of shoes, play clothes, extra socks, a heavy, warm coat, swim suit, sleeping bag, toothbrush, soap, towel, washcloth and treasure for the treasure hunt.

Connally named chief spokesman

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon designated Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr. Tuesday as his "chief economic spokesman," and the only Democrat in the cabinet immediately proclaimed that the economy was on the right path back to prosperity.

announcement would tend to undercut the prestige of Dr. Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, and George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget.

more specific. The Treasury reported Monday that the deficit through the first 11 months of the fiscal year already had surpassed $25 billion. But tax revenue usually is higher in June, thus reducing the final figures.

At a White House news conference following a meeting by Nixon with his cabinet on the economy, Connally backed away from the administration's five-month old goal of cutting unemployment—now at a nine-year high of 6.2 per cent—down to 4.5 per cent by the middle of next year.

Connally, at his meeting with reporters, disclosed that Nixon had decided to veto a $5.5 billion public works appropriations bill which called for spending $2 billion for public works jobs such as sewer and hospital construction.

Connally said the budget deficit, probably the second largest since World War II, coupled with recent increases in the money supply meant that government policy was stimulating the economy.

Malaria

NEW-YORK (UPI)—If DDT production were to stop, many large-scale epidemics would result, the World Health Organization (WHO) reports.

WHO said events in Ceylon illustrate this. By 1963 endemic malaria had virtually disappeared but when, for a variety of reasons, insecticide spraying with DDT came to a halt, there was a malaria flareup. During 1968-69 there were more than 2 million cases.

Water production deemed important forest issue

SHOSHONE — Production of water is considered the first most important in a questionnaire regarding use of three million acres of national forest land within the Wood River Resource Association. People of the four-county area where the survey was made had a choice of six areas of "rankings of importance" in regard to the land. They designated these by the rating, one through six. Counties involved in the survey include Lincoln, Blaine,

Camas and Gooding. Lincoln County voters agreed with the four-county vote, placing water in first place, and followed with

Holiday toll usually hits 3 in Idaho

BOISE — The Idaho Traffic Safety Commission said today that past statistics indicate that during the past four years an average of three persons in Idaho have lost their lives due to traffic accidents over the Fourth of July holiday period. It is expected that heavy traffic this year will dictate similar holiday statistics. The Fourth of July weekend begins at 6:00 p.m. on Friday, July 2 and ends at midnight Monday, July 5th.

agreement to the four-county vote on three other of the six points. Overall quality of environment was listed second most important, while wildlife and fish habitat came third. The local county and four-county results were the same for sixth place, also, listing outdoor recreation (skiing, hunting, fishing, hiking, etc.) in sixth place of importance of use of the land.

However, they reversed opinions as to the livestock grazing and production of timber importance. The four-county survey showed more people putting "livestock grazing" in fourth place, while Lincoln County placed it in fifth position. Production of timber was listed fifth most important use of the land on the four-county survey while in Lincoln County, it was placed number four.

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodia has delivered a strong protest to the South Vietnamese government, charging that its soldiers have slain, tortured and robbed Cambodian citizens. The note, sent to South Vietnamese Ambassador Tran Van Phuoc in Phnom Penh last week and made public Tuesday, said similar protests had been made in the past and "receipt of these notes has not even been acknowledged."

The note asked the South Vietnamese to punish the guilty soldiers, repay the victims and prevent similar incidents in the future. Since the South Vietnamese troops began operations in Cambodia last year, there has been continual friction between the two traditional enemies. Sources said South Vietnam has made at least one protest to the Cambodian government about harassment of soldiers operating in Cambodia.

Board of nursing protects health

BOISE — Protecting the health and welfare of Idaho citizens is the uppermost responsibility of the Idaho Board of Nursing, an agency of the Department of Law Enforcement.

The five-member board and the three members who serve on the Advisory Council of Licensed Practical Nurses are appointed by the governor from a list of qualified persons recommended by the Idaho State Nurses Association and the Licensed Practical Nurses of Idaho, Inc.

Presently the board and the Idaho State Board of Medicine are cooperating in establishing rules and regulations governing the expanded service registered nurses may provide as approved by the last session of the Idaho Legislature. Public hearing will be held later this summer.

The board of nursing, explains Marjorie Schlotterbeck, Boise, the board's executive director and education consultant, has three major functions. Namely:

Licensure of practitioners of nursing, educational leadership and enforcement of educational standards established by law and by board policies which are consistent with the law and discipline of violators of the law.

A major responsibility of the board is in the educational field where an average of 600 students annually are taking training to become registered nurses.

It follows that the examination and licensing of the graduates of schools of nursing, professional and practical, is another major duty. Each year the board and its staff arrange for the exams and test grading of some 150 college graduates. Graduate nurses are issued temporary permits allowing them to work until examination grades are received.

Presently the board oversees professional nursing programs at six colleges and universities, with the newest associate degree program having started at the College of Southern Idaho, this summer.

A four-year course, leading to a baccalaureate degree, is offered at Idaho State University, Pocatello. Two-year associate degree programs are offered by North Idaho Junior College, Coeur d'Alene; Lewis and Clark State College, Lewiston; Boise State College, Boise, and Ricks College, Rexburg.

Graduates of both courses are eligible to take registered nurse examinations.

The board also is involved in the one-year practical nurse programs offered in 14 communities in cooperation with educational and hospital institutions and conducts and grades examinations of the graduates.

Idaho operates satellite programs at Boise State and Lewis and Clark where students may pursue their third or junior year.

Practical nurse programs are offered at Blackfoot, Boise, Burley, Caldwell, Coeur d'Alene, Emmett, Idaho Falls, Jerome, Lewiston, Moscow, Nampa, Pocatello, Soda Springs and Twin Falls. Miss Schlotterbeck said several of the communities have more than one program going at the same time.

Practical nurse programs in Idaho are operated under the State Board for Vocational Education, Trade, Industrial and Technical Division, Health Occupations, Education through local educational agencies or colleges.

Hospitals used for clinical experience are approved annually by the board of nursing.

Miss Schlotterbeck pointed out the number of professional and practical nurses employed in nursing homes has increased considerably since rules, regulations and minimum standards for nursing homes were adopted by the Idaho State Board of Health in 1960.

The state board works closely with the law enforcement commissioner, who issues licenses and temporary permits to those certified by the board as well as license renewals. He also has the authority to suspend, revoke or not reinstate licenses upon recommendation by the board.

Grounds for disciplinary proceedings by the board include fraud or deception in procuring or attempting to procure a license to practice nursing. Practicing nursing under a false or assumed name, conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude, gross incompetence, habitual intemperance in the use of ardent spirits, narcotics or stimulants, mental incompetence and immoral, unprofessional or dishonorable conduct.

Miss Schlotterbeck said the number of men entering the nursing profession is increasing but there is a need for more.

"Any man entering the nursing profession," she said, "may find this to be the stepping stone to higher responsibilities and the opportunity to additionally serve the public."

Members of the state board include Sister Mary Agnes Reichlin, Jerome, president; Mrs. Betty Evenson, Pocatello, vice president; Mrs. Michiko Kondp, Sandpoint, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Doris Kelley, Boise, and Miss Barbara Quirls, Rexburg.

Members of the Advisory Council of Licensed Practical Nurses include Mrs. Grayce Painter, Lewiston; Mrs. Grace Holton, Caldwell, and Mrs. Anne Peterson, Bonners Ferry.

Tells of veto

A GRIM VISAGE is that of Secretary of the Treasury John Connally, who announced to newsmen on Tuesday that President Nixon has decided to veto the $5.5 billion accelerated public works bill backed by the Democrats. Connally, the only Democrat in a Republican-dominated Cabinet, has been designated as the President's "chief economic spokesman." (UPI)

Patients travel

OROFINO (UPI) — Thirty State Hospital North patients left Orofino Tuesday for a day-long trip to their new home at State Hospital South in Blackfoot. The transfer to the Blackfoot institution came as a result of a decision made June 16 by the State Board of Health to reduce State Hospital North to a 60-bed intensive treatment center. The patients, accompanied by hospital Superintendent Dr. William Van Duyn and six other employees, had beds awaiting them at the southern institution.

Water flow increase noted

IDAHO — Though snow levels at Moran, Island Park and Palisades fell below the average for June, water flow at most stations along the Snake River was higher in the June 28 report of the Geological Survey of the U. S. Department of the Interior. The weekly water report showed Moran with a quarter-inch of snow falling during the week ending June 28, for a total from June 1 to 27 of 1.17 inches, against an average for the month of 1.77 inches. Island Park listed 1.18 inches of snow, a total for the period of June 1-27 of 2.51 inches, and an average of 2.86; Palisades, .17 inch, 1.79 for the month, and an average of 2.28. The Lewis Lake snow pillow, as a contrast, measured 10.3 inches, against no snow at the same time last year. Water inflow into the Snake River above Heise peaked at 48,500 cubic feet per second

(CFS) on June 24, which may be the peak for the year, according to Glenn H. Simmons, superintendent of the Minidoka Project. As the inflow above Heise peaked, the maximum controlled flow at Heise was 24,000 CFS. Flood-control operations reduced the flow considerably, with nearly half of the runoff stored in Jackson Lake and Palisades Reservoir. Rivers at Palisades and in the Burley area will continue high into July, as the snow-melt runoff gradually declines and the reservoirs fill and spill. At Burley, the Snake will continue at a high level as the water passes downstream. The river discharge at Milner may reach another short-term peak of about 15,000 CFS, making the Shoshone Falls a continuing tourist attraction. The falls, however, will be greatly reduced by early July, and may be dry by the 15th of July. The operation of the Snake River will change from flood-control to water-demand for irrigation early next month, Simmons said. Storage carryover in the reservoirs will be substantial at the end of the 1971 irrigation season, assuring a very good supply of water for the 1972 season. The June 28 report of the Snake River stations, including, in order, the measurements this year in acre feet (AF), for reservoirs, or cubic feet per second, (CFS) for river flow, with this year's figure contrasted with the level a year ago: Jackson Lake, 799,600 AF; 846,000 AF; Moran, 462 CFS; 4,320 CFS; Palisades, 1.15 million AF; 1.18 million AF; Grassy Lake, as of June 23, 15,400 AF; 14,900 AF; Henry's Lake, 89,600 AF; 90,100 AF; Island Park Reservoir, 138,500 CFS; 137,300 CFS; Henry's

Riders to perform at Rupert

EhCapa riders will ride in Rupert's celebration

By GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Writer
RUPERT — A special attraction of the July 2-5 Celebration at Rupert will be the EhCapa Bareback Riders which include 40 boys and girls, ages 7 to 17. The group will perform each night of the rodeo and ride in the parade Monday morning.

The youths ride bareback and use no bridle. They ride drill patterns and jump their horses over poles which are several feet high.

The name EhCapa is Apache spelled backwards. The Eh-Capa Bareback Riders, headquartered at Boise, were organized in 1956 and have been active since.

The young boys and girls spend three days a week in practice sessions. The majority of the youths own their horses and they do their own training of the horses. They all wear Indian costumes.

Wayne Stear, Boise, is the group's supervisor. Each year the riders select a queen from among their members on a competitive point system. This year Chris Donerty, 16, Boise, is the reigning queen.

This year besides the Rupert Celebration they will be riding at the Snake River Stampede, Nampa; Caribou County Fair and Rodeo, Grace, and the Pacific International Livestock Exposition, Portland, Ore.

Other attractions during the parade will be the 25th Idaho National Guard Band. The band will present a free concert at 3 p.m. Monday in the City Park Square.

The new rodeo queen and her two attendants will be named the final night of the rodeo.

Pari-mutuel horse racing will be July 2-5 with races starting at 1 p.m. each day, with 10 races per day.

The free spectacular aerial fireworks will be shown at dark, Monday at Minidoka County Fairgrounds. The chamber of commerce is sponsoring the fireworks which will be set off by Rupert city firemen.

Mrs. Harkness given degree at lodge meet

BURLEY — Mrs. Alice Harkness received the Rebekah Degree during a ceremony of Ruth Rebekah Lodge No. 107 at IOOF Hall, it was announced today.

Conducting the degree ceremony was Staff Captain Francis Fenstermaker and Nancy Johnson, junior past noble grand.

Assisting in the ceremony were Margaret McLean at the piano; Mrs. Renee Sherley, lodge deputy, soloist, and Frances Leslie vice grand.

During the business meeting it was reported that Mrs. Verda Anderson, Mrs. Lucile Anderson, Mrs. Faye Gummow, Mrs. Hazel Osterhout and Mrs. Hazel Schwaegler visited Marguerite Rebekah Lodge No. 98, Gooding. Mrs. McLean reported on the recent garage sale held at the home of William Belfield.

Mrs. Birdie Kennedy, noble grand, announced the Rebekah quilt will be awarded and the birthday march will be held Thursday. Members are invited to wear sport or vacation clothes.

Mrs. Kennedy listed her projects of the year as donations to the Idaho Youth Ranch, assisting the Theta Rho Girls Club and helping with the interior decorating project of the Odd Fellows.

Mrs. Nina King announced the program which included Theta Rho members Bonnie Stanley, Jan Bennett, Susan Bowers and Joyce Fedrizzi who presented a flag drill and Nina Joy King served as the reader with Lula Rae Davis at the piano.

Larry Wolf played the guitar and sang four selections. He is home on a 30-day leave from Annapolis Academy Preparatory School, Baltimore, Md.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lucile Anderson, Mrs. Alleyenne Lottridge and Mrs. Emma Glenn.

Painting display planned

BURLEY — Artists throughout Magic Valley are invited to display their paintings on the Albion Campus and paintings are to be hung July 1 in the College Administration Building.

The Desert Art Guild, Burley-Rupert, is sponsoring the art display in conjunction with the Oregon Trail Festival of Arts which will present the play "Fanny Girl" Friday and Saturday on the Albion campus.

Also scheduled for July 3 will be the Homecoming on the campus for alumni of Albion State Normal and Southern Idaho College of Education.

There is no limit to the number of pictures an artist may hang for display, according to Mrs. Louise Zagrosny, Burley, chairman of the display.

Hearing set July 8

NAMPA (UPI) — Alvie E. Johnson, 57, Nampa, is scheduled to appear for a preliminary hearing July 8 in connection with the shooting death Friday night of Ronald L. Horner, 33, Caldwell.

Johnson was arraigned in connection with the death Saturday in magistrate's court in Nampa.

Panel held on water use from Box canyon

By MYRTLE SCHRENK
Times-News Writer
GOODING — A panel discussion on use of water from Box Canyon was held at a meeting of the Magic Valley Recreation Council Monday night at the Gooding County courthouse.

New filing permits and conflict over use of the water from the canyon, located southwest of Wendell, were given by Bob Erkins, Buhl, president of the council, as reasons for the discussion. Box Canyon is among the 11 largest springs in the world, he said, and the canyon still is untouched by development.

It has historical significance as well as being the site of mythical treasure in the early days in Idaho.

New filings for water permits by Lemon and Standel, Hagerman; Richard Kaster, Buhl, and Earl Hardy, Boise, for the propagation of fish could be a test of the legality of House Bill 69 which was co-sponsored by Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, D-Tuttle, and Rep. Earl Greenawalt, R-Jerome.

The bill states that all unappropriated water in the spring complex of Malad Gorge, Niagara Springs, Blue Heart Springs, Box Canyon and Banbury Springs be set aside by the Idaho State Parks Board for future recreational sites.

Ravenscroft said the board was to present a plan to members of the legislature during July.

He reported the bill entails four basic questions. They were listed as whether or not the tributaries of the Snake River are navigable streams, provides regulations that a state agency can authorize a diversion that will not detract from the public interest, a state agency can acquire water rights for future development and if usages other than diversion can be termed beneficial.

Ravenscroft told council members that the state parks board should, by using procedures accepted by the law of the country, make application for water permits designated in House Bill 69 to Keith Higgenson, Boise, Idaho Department of Water. After the application is made it is possible the questions presented in the bill will be judged by the Idaho Supreme Court, said Ravenscroft.

Panel members were John LeMoynes, Hagerman, moderator; Ravenscroft, Bob Bolte, Gooding, planning commission; Di Bowler, Bliss; Don Runburg, Shoshone, BLM; Wendell Smith, Idaho Power; George Lemon, Hagerman, owner-operator of a fish hatchery, and Robert Erkins, Buhl, fish biologist.

During the business meeting Marshal Everheart, Jerome; Aldrich Bowler, Bliss; John LeMoynes, Hagerman; Mike Fennen, Buhl and Vernon Ravenscroft, Tuttle, were elected to serve as a board of directors for the MVRC. They will appoint a slate of officers for the council soon.

Mini-Cassia

Dairy group to hear speakers

BURLEY — A special program has been arranged by the Mini-Cassia Dairy Association at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, at Ramada Inn, Burley.

Speakers will be Bill Forrester who will discuss management and marketing and Frank Jones, an agricultural engineer, will discuss automation and new types of equipment.

Jones assisted with the designing of the round milk parlor and has worked on many other features of automation in dairy equipment.

Dr. G.R. Fairbrother, Burley veterinarian, will discuss management and health problems.

Refreshments will be served.

Thrifty Thrivers hear wildlife talk

DEULO — The Thrifty Thrivers Extension Homemakers Club held its annual dinner meeting with husbands as guests at Price's Cafe, it was announced today.

Guest speaker was Lanny Wilson, Burley, wildlife biologist of the Bureau of Land Management.

Mrs. James Rodgers, president, introduced the guests.

Wilson showed slides and narrated his research on the Desert Big Horn Sheep in southeastern Utah, also known as the four corners area, where Colorado, New Mexico, Idaho and Utah join.

He told of the development and increase of the big horn sheep, diseases, transplanting animals to other areas, habits of the sheep and of the area in general.

"The big horn sheep are North America's rarest big game animal," Wilson said. "Just knowing there are big horns in the area make it very special," he added.

The banquet was arranged under the direction of Mrs. Dale Kidd and Mrs. Don Whipple. Tables were covered with red cloths, decorated with roses in bud vases and sailboat nut cups which also served as placecards.

Sailboat prizes were awarded to Jay Kidd and Wilson. The white elephant gifts were presented to James Rodgers and Kidd.

Mrs. Toni Wickel received a gift from her secret sister.

Norton gets streets post

BURLEY — J.R. Norton, 56, has been promoted superintendent of streets and sanitation department, Mayor Garis Robertson said today.

Norton replaces Billy Nielson who left city employment and is working for Gordon Paving Co. A resident of Burley for the past 40 years, Norton has worked for the Burley street department since 1958 and served as street foreman for past six years.

He worked for 12 years prior to joining the street department as a cement contractor for the Long Sand and Gravel Co. Prior to that he worked as a miner in Hailey for eight years.

He and his wife, Velma, are the parents of two sons, Roger who teaches Spanish at University of Idaho, and Randy who is in the U.S. Air Force stationed at Clarksdale, Ind.

Named to post

BURLEY — Gary Asson, Burley, was elected District 4 vice president of the Idaho Automobile Dealers Association at the 37th annual meeting of the association at Sun Valley.

Other district directors are Buster Goode, Rupert; Thomas Northcott, Hailey, and Abbie Urigen, Twin Falls.

Henry L. Willis, Twin Falls, was presented with the Time Magazine Quality Dealer Award at the annual ladies and men's luncheon during the convention. He was honored by the magazine for "outstanding performance, both as good automobile dealer and as a valued citizen of his community." A release and picture of Willis will appear in this week's Time Magazine.

F. A. Portfors, Orofino, was named president of the association, succeeding Norman C. Lodge, Jr., Caldwell.

The first message by telegraph was sent May 24, 1844.

New postal unit ready

WASHINGTON (UPI)—All is ready for the official debut of the U.S. Postal Service Thursday—modernistic new eagles on mailboxes to the eight-cent stamp—but don't hold your breath waiting for dramatic improvements in postal service.

Building and machinery improvements will be much easier now that the Postal Service can issue bonds, without worrying about appropriations from Congress, but transportation is a major problem beyond Blount's control.

The airlines recently eliminated more than 700 flights, most of them late-night runs preferred for mail shipments, and the new government-operated rail passenger system—Amtrak—has abandoned 180 trains formerly used for mail service.

Still, Blount has promised that airmail posted in special boxes before 4 p.m. will be delivered the next day in principal cities within 60 miles, and the second day beyond that distance. So far, officials report an 87 per cent success record.

Yet to come will be similar delivery goals for first class mail. And Blount is not ruling out future increases in postal rates to pay for improved service and rising costs, although "I'm not predicting any increases at this point."

Theory offers new hope

LONDON (UPI)—A Soviet professor has advanced a theory of aging which offers the hope of a healthier and longer life for humans.

Prof. V. M. Dilman of the N. N. Petrov Research Institute of Leningrad suggests that while death is inevitable, the undignified decline into disease and senility that often precedes it is not.

The medical weekly, The Lancet, gave Dilman's hypothesis seven closely-argued pages. His theory is basically that most of the maladies and conditions associated with aging are due to an increasing instability in the systems regulating the body.

The two major systems are the endocrine and nervous systems and the most important organ in ensuring their coordination is the hypothalamus in the brain.

Dilman said the "gradual disorders" of aging such as increased bodyweight, higher level of blood cholesterol, lower tolerance of carbohydrates and the climacteric (change of life) arise from increased activity in the systems and not—as is generally postulated—a decrease.

At some point the hypothalamus finds itself unable to maintain the "internal integrity" of the body against the mounting changes and pressures of living and the final decline is under way.

What is ideally needed, Dilman said, is some way of restoring the normal rhythmic activity of the systems and reestablishing the control of the hypothalamus. While "means of this sort are not yet available, we may anticipate that pharmacological agents possessing these properties will eventually be found," he said.

In the meantime, Dilman suggested research on a pleural solution which would involve an attack on all the different stages of the aging process.

Ellsberg, who publicly admitted "leaking" the Pentagon papers to the news media, was charged with unauthorized possession and converting the documents to his own use in September or October, 1969, while he was on the staff of the Rand Corp. in Santa Monica, Calif.

Cambodia drug 'way station'

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Since its inclusion in the Indochina War 15 months ago, Cambodia has become a small but growing "way station" for hard drugs bound for American servicemen in Vietnam.

Much of the heroin and opium carried through Cambodia finds its way into South Vietnam, according to U.S. military aircraft, diplomatic sources said.

The sources said that Phnom Penh is not yet "a major supply point," but there is a constant flow of drugs from Bangkok and Vientiane—bound for Vietnam—passing through Cambodian airports.

Emory Swank has protested heroin movement through Phnom Penh's Pochentong Airport to Cambodian police and immigration officials, the sources said, and was assured of Cambodian cooperation in combating the traffic.

Swank made the protest shortly after returning from a recent meeting of American ambassadors to Southeast Asian countries.

Last week Swank called in William T. Wanzek, regional director of the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, from his Bangkok base to investigate the trafficking.

Wanzek spent two days interviewing Cambodian civil servants and police. He said they were cooperative.

Despite the Cambodian promises of aid, however, no visible progress in the fight against drug traffic has been made, diplomatic sources said.

On the contrary, the small amount of drug transference in Cambodia has picked up steadily.

According to officials interviewed in Phnom Penh, the trafficking is simple, and requires little aid from high ranking customs officials, as in other capitals.

The drugs are carried into Pochentong Airport on military or civilian flights, and passed through a normally lax Cambodian customs check.

From there, they are passed to a second military flight headed for South Vietnam.

Vietnamese air force C119 flying boxcars or C123 providers, which fly military cargo to Cambodia, return to Saigon empty, except for the drug shipments, the sources claim.

Shale leases set

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said Tuesday the government was prepared to lease federally-owned oil shale fields in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah to private developers by late 1972.

It was the first move by the Nixon administration toward opening up what is potentially the richest oil deposit in the world.

Experts have estimated that as much as four trillion barrels of crude oil could be squeezed from the underground shale in the Rocky Mountain states. This is about 10 times the world's present crude oil supply.

Recovering the oil, however, is technically difficult and economically risky. And Morton laid down a series of environmental protection measures which companies going after the oil would have to meet.

But Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., said the move could mean 30,000 new jobs and $3 billion boost to the economy of the three states by 1985.

At the time of the commercial development of oil shale in the West is becoming a reality," he said.

Oil is extracted from shale rock through a heat process known as "retorting." Experts say at least 30 gallons must be recovered from a ton of rock for the process to be economically attractive.

Pond bids date set

IDAHO FALLS—Bids on a contract to construct two ponds at the north end of the National Reactor Testing Station will be opened at 3 p.m. July 9, at the Atomic Energy Commission's Idaho Operations Office, 500 Second St., Idaho Falls.

Estimated cost of the work is $45,000 and calls for constructing an earth dike and enlarging an existing gravel borrow pit to form ponds at Test Area North.

Time allowed for completion is 90 days. Bidders may take a pre-bid inspection tour to visit the work sites.

Thomas and Case spark Magic Valley to 3-2 verdict over Billings

Rich Thomas bounced a dribbler through an in-drawn infield to score Terry Nelson with the decisive run in the seventh inning and reliever Rich Case came on to snuff out a budding rally in the top of the ninth as the Magic Valley Cowboys toppled previously undefeated Billings 3-2 Tuesday night.

Thomas, who drove in all three Cowboy runs, saw his bouncer gloved by a diving second baseman, Steve Staggs, but he easily beat the play out for the hit as Nelson scored from third base. Nelson had opened the seventh with a double and moved up on a passed ball.

Billings threatened in the top of the ninth when lead-off man Rocky Craig walked and stole second. Manager Art Mazmanian then brought Case in to relieve Jim Kelly and Case, throwing his curve for strikes, fanned three straight to nail down the victory.

The Cowboys pitchers, Bill Taft and Kelly, kept themselves in trouble almost all night with walks but the Cowboy infield, which is the strength of the club, came up with three double plays. Billings managed only two hits but had base runners in every inning.

Ali takes break for exhibition

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI)—Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali interrupts his training routine Wednesday to fight a six round exhibition bout for the benefit of South Carolina amateur boxing.

Backers of the event scrambled Tuesday to repair a ring to be used in the bout. Vandalism entered a YMCA building during the night and slashed ropes and sawed several boards on the floor of the ring.

Promoter Reggie Barrett estimated damage at $300. Ali has been in Chicago preparing for his July 26 fight against Jimmy Ellis in the Houston Astrodome in hopes of an eventual rematch with Joe Frazier.

Ali will fight three rounds each with Jeff Merritt of New York and Scotty Mack of Santa Rosa, Calif. Supporting the Ali bout is a program of 10 amateur fights with some of the top names in South Carolina amateur boxing.

Saints seek fill in for Manning

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The New Orleans Saints, still without a first string quarterback for the coming season, said Tuesday they have signed veteran signal caller Jim Ward from the Washington Redskins.

Ward, 6-foot-2, 200-pounds, will join Edd Hargett and rookie Bobby Scott as an alternate quarterback while negotiations continue to reach an agreement with number one draft choice Archie Manning.

Kentucky eyes new grid park

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI)—The state of Kentucky took the first step Tuesday in planning for a new football stadium at the University of Kentucky to replace the 37,500-seat Stoll Field in Lexington.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn asked the state Property and Buildings Commission, which oversees state construction and sale of bonds, to consider a $10 million to $12 million stadium for the South-eastern Conference school.

Otero KOs Perez in eighth

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Frankie Otero, the sixth-ranked junior lightweight, knocked out last-minute entry Albert Perez Wednesday night in 2:50 of the eighth round of their scheduled 10-round fight.

Otero, defending his North American junior lightweight crown, was knocked down himself in the second round by Perez with a right to the chest. It was only the second time Otero had ever been on the canvas.

In the eighth the Cuban refugee finished off Perez, an unranked boxer from Mexico City, with a combination and a powerful right to the head. Perez got up bleeding from a cut below the left eye after he was counted out.

Tennis ace withdraws from doubles

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., upset conqueror of Rod Laver in the singles on Monday, withdrew from the mixed doubles of the Wimbledon tennis championships Tuesday so that he can rest a back strain.

Gorman had back trouble in the third set of his quarter-final against Laver and decided he needed a complete rest to be strong for Thursday's semifinal against Stan Smith.

Nancy Gunter of San Angelo, Tex., withdrew from the women's doubles because of a pulled stomach muscle. She was down to partner Kerry Melville of Australia in a fourth rounder against Pat Curtis of St. Louis, Mo., and Valerie Ziegenfuss of San Diego, Calif.

Another man to withdraw from the mixed doubles competition was Manuel Orantes of Spain. He said he has received call-up papers for the Spanish Army.

Thompson, a 26-year-old veteran from the University of Washington, has been hampered by injuries during his three years in the NFL and when he moved recently with his family to Eugene, Ore., he hinted that he might retire to spend more time with them.

The Jets already have been hurt on the defensive line with the loss of right end Verlon Biggs, who signed with Washington after playing out his contract.

Weghorn nips Polich for shortstop, Vitus leads vote-getters for all-time Magic Valley Cowboys

John Weghorn, the would-be football all-American from Cincinnati, edged Joe Polich by nine votes for the shortstop position in the tightest position race for the all-time Magic Valley all-star baseball team.

The team, selected by Magic Valley fans, covers 1946 through 1970 and was conducted by the Times-News to commemorate 25 years of professional baseball in the post-war era. Those voters requesting them, received free tickets to Thursday night's game at Jaycee Park when the Cowboys meet the Billings Mustangs.

Polich, whose shortstopping was rather eclipsed because another all-timer, Gil McDougald was playing second base that same year, garnered 112.

However, Lou (dubbed "Vital" by Joe Clements, ex-voice of the Cowboys) Vitus was the top overall-point getter. He made a shambles of the third base race with 193 votes.

Second top vote man, rather surprisingly, was Alex Johnson who played here in 1963. Johnson, currently under suspension by the California Angels for failing to give his "best efforts" received 167 votes, just four more than Gus Triandos, the 1948 Cowboy catcher who went on to major league stardom.

Weghorn, who often second-guessed himself for selecting a pro baseball contract over many college football scholarships, received 121 votes for his play in the 1961 season.

Weghorn, who often second-guessed himself for selecting a pro baseball contract over many college football scholarships, received 121 votes for his play in the 1961 season.

He played leftfield here. Bill Renna was second with 153 votes and Adolfo Phillips nailed down the third spot with 123.

That left all-time Cowboy homerun king, Bobby Sanders, who hit 40 in 1961, in fourth place with 64 votes and Lou Jackson, who spent some time with the White Sox, was fifth with 51.

Cubs edge G.F. for first win

CALDWELL (UPI)—Steven Haug singled home the winning run in the sixth inning Tuesday night as the Caldwell Cubs edged Great Falls 3-2 for their first break into the win column.

A walk and a single by Lee Gray preceded Haug's winning blow.

Right hander Gary Junge pitched 6 and 2-3 innings with a four hitter to get the victory and reliever Gary McKenna allowed one hit for the Cubs the rest of the way.

I.F. uses walks to beat Ogden

IDAHO FALLS (UPI)—The Idaho Falls Angels got only seven hits but used 13 walks and downed the Ogden Dodgers for the fourth consecutive night Tuesday in a 13-2 rout.

What started out as a pitchers' duel between Tom Urban of Ogden and Steven Miller of the Angels soon turned into a walk-away as Idaho Falls scored four runs in the fifth inning, one in the sixth, three in the seventh and five in the eighth.

Stars, Bears set scrimmage

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Bears and the 1971 College All Star football team will hold a controlled scrimmage at the Bears' Rensselaer, Ind. training camp July 23 for the Brian Piccolo fund, the Bears announced Wednesday.

Tickets will be priced at $10 with all proceeds turned over to Brian's widow, Mrs. Joy Piccolo. Mrs. Piccolo said part of the receipts would go into an educational fund for the children of former Bears player Mike Rabold.

McDougald took second base with 132 votes while Richie Allen, now known as a third baseman-outfielder, was second with 41, three ahead of Jack Radtke.

Kemper beats Marty Liquori

COLOGNE, Germany (UPI)—Franz-Josef Kemper, European 800 and 1,000-meter record holder, edged out U.S. star Marty Liquori Tuesday night over 1,000 meters at an international track and field meet.

Kemper, of West Germany had a time of 2:18.9 minutes, four-tenths of a second better than the American. Kemper's record for the distance which is rarely run — is 2:16.2.

Okinawa battles GI narcotics

KOZA, Okinawa (UPI) — When American GI's fly into this western Pacific island from Vietnam, they are shepherded into a specially constructed room and searched. Trained dogs sniff their luggage.

The objective: drugs. U.S. authorities here say there is a "significant" drug problem on Okinawa which is mounting despite efforts to curtail it. Even more ominous, they say, is that the use of heroin is on the increase while the use of so-called soft drugs like marijuana is declining.

In the six-month period from July to December in 1969, heroin only accounted for .04 per cent of the narcotics cases investigated by military authorities. In March of this year that figure jumped to 20.6 per cent. The average number of narcotics cases in a month rose from 60 to 64.

Col. Hugh Riddle, provost marshal of the army forces on Okinawa, said the drug problem first began to surface in 1968 when soldiers flying in from Vietnam started bringing in marijuana. Of the GI's, Riddle said in an interview, was caught trying to bring in a duffel bag filled with nothing but marijuana.

The bag was confiscated but military authorities were unable to prosecute the soldier because they seized the abnormally light duffel bag without any prior knowledge of a violation—a legal requirement.

Enforcement authorities have just recently instituted the searches on all flights from Indochina, but they have had to do so under a statute giving commanders the right to hold inspections. Results so far have shown that only small amounts of hard drugs are being brought here by incoming soldiers.

The main sources of drugs, according to Riddle, is a group of about 25 young American civilians who live here and make frequent trips to Hong Kong and Thailand.

"These are former servicemen who have been here before," Riddle said. "We know them all."

Riddle said one of them was caught by local authorities just a few weeks ago as he tried to fly onto the island with $75,000 worth of heroin. The American youth is now in a local jail, he added.

Fowler said. "We handle them as outpatients. If the user has a psychiatric problem or if he is heavily addicted and appears to be in for a violent withdrawal, we send him to the hospital."

military environment is not one which is conducive to recovery from addiction. He said "Recovery from a hard case of addiction could take as long as two years" in a military environment.

"Our approach is to treat the individual while he is in the military environment. About half the men benefit, but this is hard to approximate because follow-up statistics are extremely difficult to come by."

'We try to help them to realize they don't need drugs... We handle them as outpatients.'

Control of narcotics is only one approach to the problem being taken here. There are also serious efforts being made at rehabilitating drug users.

Maj. Frank Fowler, a young Air Force doctor, has opened a rehabilitation center on Kadena Air Force Base here called the Drug Impact Center.

Addicts are encouraged to voluntarily come into the center where "we try to help them to realize they don't need drugs."

If the user gets back on drugs and then asks the center for more help, Fowler himself determines whether the subject should get it.

"He generally has two chances," Fowler said. "Then we recommend dismissal from the service and rehabilitation in a Veterans Administration hospital."

Fowler, who used to specialize in internal medicine at the Mayo Clinic, maintains that the

Hospital council to study funding

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Advisory Council for Hospital Construction will meet July 13-14 in McCall to allocate over $1 million of federal Hill-Burton monies from requests of $5.5 million.

Huey Reed, chief of the health facilities construction section of the Department of Health, said the council will allocate $1,047,000 along with $1,188,500 in interest subsidy and direct loan funds.

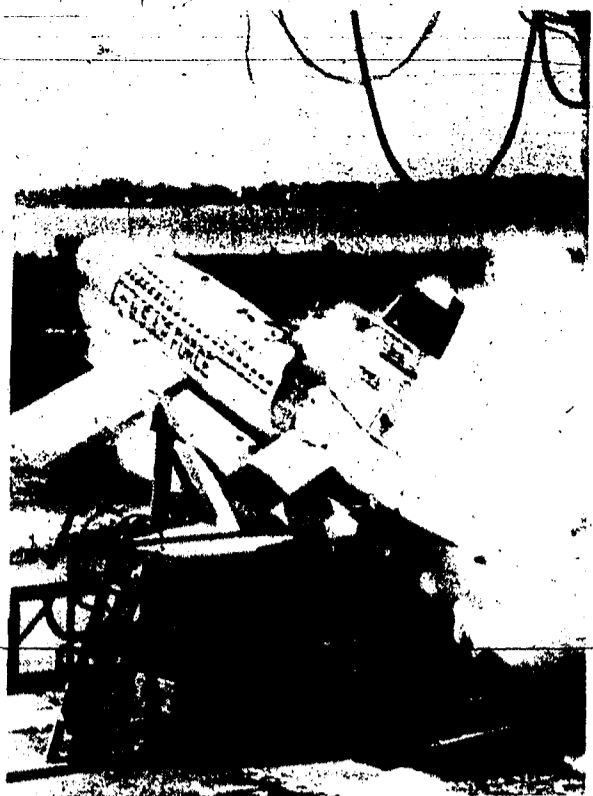

Among the larger requests are those from St. Joseph's Hospital, Lewiston, $3,666,267; Bonner General Hospital, Sandpoint, $934,000; and Gritman Memorial Hospital, Moscow, $626,131.

Other applications are Franklin County, Cassia Memorial and St. Alphonsus Hospitals; Elmore County Nursing Home; Elks Rehabilitation Center in Boise; and the Panhandle Health Center, Coeur d'Alene.

Mind Your Money

By PETER WEAVER

Q — Several years ago I opened a certificate of deposit account with a downtown bank. I decided to close the account as soon as I received my next dividend.

One of the officials told me the amount I thought I was going to get did not agree with the bank's ledger. I had to wait at the bank from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. to finally get the amount shown on my passbook. Is this ethical? — S. L., Washington, D. C.

A — I don't know. The banking laws are labyrinthine. In the past when I told readers to try sending complaints into the various banking regulatory agencies — nothing happened. Apparently these agencies have no effective system of handling consumer complaints.

Help may be on the way. The National Commission on Consumer Finance is investigating consumer protection procedures (or lack of them) among regulatory agencies for banks and other lending institutions. Consumer comments about problems with money lenders are invited for the record. Send them to: National Commission on Consumer Finance; 1016 16th St. N. W.; Washington, D. C. 20036.

Q — Thanks for your help. After six months of writing futile letters to the Postal Inspector and Better Business Bureau, I received a full refund for a $12.95 magazine rack I ordered through the mail but did not receive. — Mrs. W. A. T., Dover, N. J.

A — Thank the Direct Mail Advertising Assn.; 921 National Press Bldg., Wash., D. C. 20004. I passed your complaint on to them and they pushed the right button somewhere along the mail-order line.

Q — I purchased a Dynatone Facial Exerciser and, after using it, found that one side of my face began to feel funny. I discontinued its use, mailed it to the manufacturer and asked for a refund. In six months, I've received no answer. I'm out $70. What can I do? — Mrs. J. S. M., Los Angeles, Calif.

A — The Eynatone company was hit with a seizure action by the Food and Drug Administration and the latest information has it that the company is filing for bankruptcy. Not much chance of getting any money back.

Both the Federal Trade Commission and the FDA have found these electronic muscle stimulator devices ineffective for their intended purpose of removing wrinkles and firming up sagging muscles. Other electronic impulse gadgets advertised to tone up the body have been found to be potentially dangerous.

Q — How safe are these so-called "harmless" fireworks for children? — Mrs. C. J., Riverdale, N. Y.

A — The U. S. Public Health Service estimates that at least 15,000 persons are injured every year by fireworks. Most of them are small boys. The National Fire Protection Assn. says the so-called "safe and sane" sparklers and Roman candles have severely injured many a child.

Sparklers, for example, burn at 1650 degrees Fahrenheit and can sear a small hand to the bone. Supervise fireworks closely, or stay away from them.

Take Note — The Better Business Bureau of Winston-Salem, N. C., canceled the membership of Food Fair, a supermarket chain, because of repeated use of "underselling claims in advertising." Underselling claims are those which say "lowest prices in town." According to BBB officials, they are deceptive because there's no way to make effective price comparisons.

U.S. CIA chief talks in Israel

By United Press International
The director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) is in Israel for a round of talks with top government officials, diplomatic sources in Tel Aviv said today.

The visit by CIA chief Richard C. Helms came at a crucial juncture in Middle East diplomacy, with a possible Israeli-Soviet detente in the cards, Israel upset over a "phantom" peace plan and Jerusalem and Washington in apparent disagreement over the Soviet involvement in the Arab world.

In Washington, administration officials said the United States is prepared to present Israel and Egypt some specific suggestions on negotiating an agreement to reopen the Suez Canal, closed since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. Although the possibility of taking a more positive approach has been under consideration for some time, the officials admitted it had been hastened by the furor over the "phantom memorandum."

The memo was given to the Egyptian foreign ministry in May by the U.S. representative in Cairo, Donald Burgus. The State Department said it was "personal and unofficial" and had not been cleared in Washington.
The Israeli foreign ministry and the U.S. embassy in Jerusalem refused comment on Helms' visit. Diplomatic sources said he was meeting with Israeli leaders at the highest level, but exactly who was taking part in the conferences and where they were being held was not disclosed.

U.S. ignored appeals, Pentagon papers say

BOSTON (UPI)—The United States ignored eight direct appeals for aid from Ho Chi Minh in the winter of 1945-46, the Christian Science Monitor said today in a story based on the secret Pentagon papers on the Vietnam War.

The messages from Ho, sent between October, 1945 and February, 1946 after guerrilla fighting broke out with returning French troops in the south following the close of World War II, asked for formal American intervention against the restoration of French colonial rule in Indochina, the Monitor reported.

One of the documents, it said, was a report from an American diplomat in Hanoi dated Feb. 27, 1946, in which Ho asked for autonomous status for Vietnam with American protection—similar to the Philippines after 1934. The United States was given the Philippines after the Spanish-American war of 1898, but gradually made the island self-governing and gave them complete independence in 1946.

When Ho received no answers from the United States to his appeals, which were also addressed to Britain, China and Russia, he agreed in March, 1946 to a return of the French

Court rules board can decide on landscaping

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Supreme Court ruled Tuesday the Idaho Board of Highway Directors had the discretion to decide on the type of landscaping to be used in a dispute between the board and the city of Boise.

The suit stemmed from Boise's move seeking a declaratory judgment that the state was obligated to landscape the Interstate 80 interchanges adjacent to the city in a "natural pleasing appearance appropriate to its environment."

But Fourth District Court ruled the board of directors was entitled to a judgment in its favor as a matter of law.

The Supreme Court, upholding the decision of the trial court, reasoned the city was asking the court to assume a legislative function and decree that only one particular type of landscaping is required.

The court concluded, however, the legislature had left such decisions up to the Idaho Board of Highway Directors.

In another case, the high court affirmed a Fourth District decision which stated Mrs. Maurine L. Meyer, Boise, did not adequately prove her contention a 1969 fall was caused by the dirty condition of the floor at Hillcrest Lanes.

The Fourth District Court

granted the Hillcrest Lane's for dismissal on grounds the woman did not adequately prove her claims.

In still another case, the Supreme Court reversed a Fourth District Court decision in a case stemming from a 1969 collision in Boise between cars driven by Lynn Haakonstad and Lavar Hoff.

Haakonstad sued Hoff for damages to his car allegedly resulting from the negligence of Hoff and while the high court ruled Hoff failed to yield the right of way his failure to do so was excused by the fact that the roads were extremely icy at the time.

But Haakonstad appealed to the Supreme Court, claiming, among other things, that the icy conditions should not have excused Hoff from failing to yield the right of way.

The court ruled in favor of Haakonstad on the point, but also ruled there should have been a finding as to any possible contributory negligence on the part of Haakonstad.

Band together, news media told

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI)—A news service executive called on the news media Tuesday night to protect their fundamental rights by banding together.

Robert Eunsen, assistant general manager of the Associated Press, spoke at a concluding banquet of the Idaho State Broadcasters Convention summer convention.

"Let's protect our fundamental right to tell it like it is by banding together," Eunsen said. "Whether our means of telling it be electric or ink, let's not adjust our hallows (sic) and say 'he did it' when another medium comes under attack," he said.

"Newspapers shouldn't desert broadcasters and neither should radio leave television standing alone when some irate public official takes it upon himself to become a sanctimonious judge of one particular group of newsmen."

Eunsen also reviewed the clash between the Nixon Administration and the New York Times over the Pentagon papers—a matter now before the nation's highest court.

Earlier, the broadcaster urged President Nixon to reappoint Thomas J. Houser to a full term on the Federal Communications Commission.

Fire goes to easier terrain

PECOS, N.M. (UPI)—A forest service spokesman says firefighters should have an easier time today battling a 12,000-acre fire in the Santa Fe National Forest because the fire has swept into less rugged terrain that does not contain as much vegetation.

"The country is now less rough and we should be able to advance with our equipment," Wendell Gore said. "We should be in pretty good shape."

The fire, much larger than the 7,000-acre estimate made earlier in the week, threatened several tiny New Mexico communities and has thrown an intense smoke screen around the area of Las Vegas, N.M. The fire was created by the merger of two smaller fires Tuesday.

Gore said he was not able to confirm a residence was destroyed by the fire. But he said the fire had moved east of the national forest and was burning near some buildings.

Change of venue to be asked

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI)—Angela Davis probably will try to have her murder trial moved out of Marin County because the victims were well known there and the suburban area has few black residents, a defense attorney said Tuesday.

Sheldon Otis, one of the five lawyers representing Miss Davis, said a final decision on asking for a change of venue had not been made, but it was "very probable" the defense would seek to have the trial moved.

Miss Davis, 27, a black militant, and former UCLA instructor, and Ruchell Magee, 32, a San Quentin convict, were charged with murder, kidnaping and conspiracy in the Aug. 7, 1970, shootout at Marin County courthouse in which a judge and three others were killed.

Data released on poison use

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Acting upon the complaint of Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the Department of Interior has reversed the refusal of a government agency in Boise to release information on Federal use of predator poisons in Idaho.

Tuesday, Church described the decision as "clearing away some governmental red tape which has prevented the people from securing factual information on the use of potentially harmful poisons to control wildlife."

The case grew out of the Idaho Environmental Council's attempt to secure information from the interior department's division of wildlife services in Boise on the extent of federal use of the predator poison "1080" in Idaho.

The division in Boise, as federal regional officials in Portland, refused to disclose the information on grounds that the matter of predator control is now a subject of litigation.

After the council's predator control committee complained about the refusal to disclose the information, Church wrote to Spencer H. Smith, director of the bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife, to urge that the data be made available.

Charging that the official excuse for refusing to release the information was "unsubstantiated" Church said that the work of the division of wildlife services in Idaho should either stand on its merits or be changed.

In either case, Church said, the public has a right to "ready access to information" on the division's work.

Tuesday, the interior department fish and wildlife service advised Church that the information requested by the environmental council will be made available.

Agnew visits Korean leader

SEOUL (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew paid a 50-minute courtesy call today on President Park Chung Hee and said afterward he expected no "hard negotiations" on a number of sensitive issues during his six-day visit to South Korea.

Agnew wore a silk top hat and a cutaway coat as he arrived in a drizzling rain at the Blue House presidential palace. The visit had been scheduled for 20 minutes but it stretched into almost an hour.

Agnew arrived in the South Korean capital Tuesday on the first leg of his 10-nation, around-the-world tour as a special envoy of President Nixon. He goes on to Singapore Sunday.

The vice president along with leaders of a number of Asian nations, will attend Park's third term inauguration Thursday. Park was re-elected in April.

Despite the longer-than-scheduled session also attended by U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter Agnew said Park had said beforehand there would be no discussions on substantive issues.

"I came here on a ceremonial visit," Agnew said. "I did not come here to raise any issues."

quired to look dismayed when things go wrong. West believed South's cheerfulness and led his 10 of hearts, whereupon South cashed out four no-trump.

East was very annoyed with his partner. He felt that West should have played his ace of spades and given himself a chance. East pointed out that his three of hearts could not have been read as an encouraging discard.

East was right about that but East also was the villain of the piece. East knew his partner had led fourth best. The only spades higher than the six-spot that East couldn't account for were the ace, 10 and seven. West was marked with all three and, therefore, East could have made things easy for his partner by simply discarding the queen of spades.

ARE YOU ACQUAINTED with anybody named Greg Smith? The computer boys say that's the commonest combination of first and last names among men over 30 in the United States. The No. 2 combination is said to be Charles Johnson. No. 3, Harry Brown. No. 4, William Jones. No. 5, Robert Wilson. No. 6, John Anderson.

THE MAJORITY of men who seek divorce, despite what they say in court, do so because they're bored. Or such is the contention of the experts. The majority of women who go for divorce, they claim, do so because they think their pride has been injured beyond healing.

AM ASKED WHY so many theatrical plays are tried out in Boston before they are opened on Broadway. Don't know, maybe because it's a crime to hiss an actor in Boston. It is. That's a fact. ... A DENTIST SAYS the teeth of an airplane pilot require special attention. Changes in air pressure can be particularly painful to said pilot, evidently, if his dental cavities are not filled precisely.

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "How big is the kitchen sink in a railroad dining car?" A. A little less than two feet square. Incidentally, the dishwasher on one of those diners scrubs up more than 900 dishes a day in that sink. ... Q. "What proportion of the brides are already expecting when they step to the altar?" A. One out of six, it's said. ... Q. "Ask your Language man where we got the word 'makeup'?" A. He reports it was that famous fellow Max Factor who coined the word in 1928.

NOW IT HAS come to pass that one out of every 13 teenage girls drives her own car. That's bad. ... AND THE SURVEYTAKERS conclude after extensive research that half the laws in the country are mowed by women. That's good. ... JUST ABOUT 44 Christmas cards per family every year is what the poor postmen pack. That's bad. AVERAGE PRICE of regular gasoline has dropped by about 2 cents all over the country. That's good. ... AND THE THING you and I call the one-armed bandit is known in England as the Fruit Machine. That just flatout doesn't matter, does it?

CLIENT ASKS IF a camel gives as much milk as a cow. No, sir, not even half as much. Average dairy cow turns out 12 quarts a day. A camel produces three or four or five quarts maybe. Incidentally, neither camels nor cows give milk, actually. An old farmer made it clear to me years ago. Every single morning at about 4 o'clock, as we headed through the crackly cold toward the barn, he always said the same thing: "Cows don't give milk, kid, you've got to take it away from them." That used to be mildly irritating, but I've seasoned some over the years, so look back on the experience now with real loathing.

South put his king of spades on East's jack and noted that he had eight top tricks with three possible extras in diamonds. So he led a diamond to dummy's king at trick two and returned the suit toward his own hand. East discarded the three of hearts.

South had a good opportunity to be a man his tough luck, cash out his eight top tricks and settle for down one. That would be a loser's play, but this South was decidedly not a loser. He simply played a low diamond with the nonchalant manner of a man who had no worries about the hand.

There is nothing unethical about this. No man is re-

Miss Van Casteren, Behler wed in Buhl nuptial mass

BUHL — Jacqueline Van Casteren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank VanCasteren, Castletford, became the bride of Kenneth Behler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Behler, Lewiston, in rites June 19 at the Catholic Church in Buhl, with Father Malachy McNiell performing the Nuptial Mass.

Jim Van Casteren, brother of the bride, and John Behler, brother of the bridegroom, served the mass, with Dr. Tom Tappen as reader.

The altar was adorned with two arrangements of pink pompons and lavender chrysanthemums, baby's breath and maidenhair fern with lavender bows. Flanking the altar were two large baskets of the same flowers with lavender streamers.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of sata peau over peau de soie featuring a scooped-neck bodice of lace and seed pearls, long bouffant sleeves with wrist and neck bands of lace and pearls. Her shoulder-length veil of bridal illusion featured scattered lace flowers centered with a pearl. It was held by a wide band of lace and pearls made into petals. The bride's gown and veil were made by her mother. She carried a colonial cluster of gardenias, stephanotis, roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Doug Bybee was matron of honor and Mrs. Jerry VanCasteren, sister-in-law of the bride, and Jo Rae Behler, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Jennifer Nye was flower girl and David Ensunsa was ringbearer.

Bob Behler, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Jerry VanCasteren, brother of the bride, and Tom Hasenoehrl, cousin of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Ralph Assendrup was organist and accompanied the trio, Mrs. Wayne Iverson, Mrs. Frank Karel and Teresa Karel. After the double ring ceremony, a reception was held in the Parish Hall, with Janice Van Casteren, sister of the bride, in charge of the guest book.

The bride's table was covered with white lace over lavender. The table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with multi-color roses in lavender, pink, yellow, blue and orange, carrying out the colors in the bridesmaids dresses. Topping the cake was a miniature bride and bridegroom under an arch of tiny forget-me-nots and a wedding bell. Separator sections had tiny nosegays of forget-me-nots and bells. Crystal candleholders with lavender candles and flower swags flanked each side of the cake. The cake, baked and decorated by the bride's mother, was cut and served by Sue Bostrom, and Mrs. Larry Calene.

The refreshment table was covered with white lace over lavender and centered with an arrangement of lavender candles and a potpourri of lavender flowers in a stemmed crystal bowl. Mrs. Bill Chronister and Mrs. Emil VanCasteren, grandmothers of the bride, served the coffee and punch. Helen Carotta and Peggy Dresser were in charge of the gifts.

Out-of-town guests attended from San Diego, Tustin, Garden Grove, Upland and Healdsburg, Calif.; Spokane, Yakima and Garfield, Wash., and Lewiston, Idaho Falls, Rupert, Boise and Cottonwood.

Pre-nuptial showers were given for the bride by Mrs. John Darrow, Mrs. Doug Bybee, Mrs. Robert Thornborrow, Mrs. Joe Wasko and Mrs. Jim Wiggins at the Parish Hall; Mrs. Larry Calene and Jo Rae Behler at Lewiston, and Sue Bostrom at Moscow. A coffee hour was given in honor of the bride at the home of Mrs. Doug Bybee.

The couple will reside in Lewiston, where the bridegroom is employed until fall when they will move to Moscow to resume their education at the University of Idaho. The bride is majoring in elementary education and the bridegroom is majoring in engineering.

On the evening after the wedding reception, Mr. and Mrs. VanCasteren gave a steak barbecue in honor of their son Jerry's June 12 marriage to Kathy Krieh and their daughter Jacqueline's marriage to Kenneth Behler.

Couple recites vows

BUHL — Belinda Margaret Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, became the bride of Curtis Lynn Powers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Powers, all Buhl, in rites June 12 at the First Christian Church in Buhl with Rev. Harrie Young officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of silk organza and alencon lace in an empire-style, featuring a sabrina neckline and French sleeves and accented by mother-of-pearl iridescents on the bodice. Her shoulder-length veil of bridal illusion was held by white orange blossoms. She carried a colonial bouquet of white gladioli, white carnations and blue pom pons accented with satin streamers.

Melva Johnson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Polly Powers, sister of the bridegroom was bridesmaid.

Zae Powers, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man and Kenneth Powers, Pleasant, Calif., was usher.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the church ahl. Guests were registered by Linda Sue Swaner, Hailey.

MR. AND MRS. CURTIS LYNN POWERS

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth over blue and was centered with a three-tiered cake which featured blue bells, tiny rosebuds and white scrolls and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. The cake was flanked by blue tapers and arrangements of white pom pons and blue carnations. Mrs.

Leonard Walcott baked and decorated the cake.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Don Flinn, Filer, aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Walcott. Mrs. Edward Cameron, Bellevue, aunt of the bride, and Delores Berrey, Bellevue, cousin of the bride poured coffee. Mrs. Hoyte Miller, Buhl, served punch.

Miss VanHook reveals date

PICABO — Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Van Hook, Picabo, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Mela, to Jack A. Barton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Barton, Carey.

Miss Van Hook is a 1971 graduate of Carey High School. She plans to attend Juan's College of Hair Design this fall.

Barton is a 1969 graduate of Carey High School and attended Boise State College.

An Aug. 20 wedding is planned at the Carey LDS Church.

MELA VANHOOK

Alice and Mary Flinn, Filer, cousins of the bridegroom, were in charge of the gifts.

Special guests were Mrs. Dick Johnson, grandmother of the bride, from Bellevue, and Mrs. Nina Foulke, Jewell, Kan., grandmother of the bridegroom. Other guests were present from California, Nebraska, Kansas, Bliss, Filer, Bellevue, Hailey, Wendell, Gannett, Twin Falls and Hagerman.

The bridegroom's parents held a rehearsal dinner June 11 at the Hagerman Hotel.

After a trip to Jarbidge and other points of interest in northern Nevada, the couple resides in Filer. The bridegroom is employed by Butler Brothers, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Powers will attend CSI this fall.
