Yank planes hit DMZ posts

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command today acknowledged that American warplanes attacked Communist anti-aircraft sites in the northern part of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) Wednesday but said the raids were carried out in "protective" reaction only after the U.S. aircraft were fired on. Military sources had originally said the raids into the DMZ by 14 U.S. F4 Phantom fighters and a group of five armed O1 and O2 spotter planes appeared to have been unauthorized strikes and that it was feared the raid might have had repercussions in Washington.

American spokesmen said today the spotter planes were fired on as they directed Air Force and Navy jet bombers toward Communist troop concentrations in the southern sector of the DMZ.

"As a defensive measure, the forward air controllers diverted strike aircraft to engage the hostile gun positions," military spokesmen said. "There was no damage to any friendly aircraft. Protective reaction is an inherent right of self-defense."

The command said the U.S. Phantom jets knocked out a 37mm anti-aircraft gun and that seven North Vietnamese troops were killed and that 10 secondary explosions were sighted, indicating ammunition stores were touched off.

Military sources had previously said a spotter plane sighted North Vietnamese troops in the open in the northern half of the DMZ and had requested artillery fire on the site, suspected of being the assembly and storage point for 122mm rockets.

The informants said the artillerymen refused to fire and the spotter plane radioed his forward air controller who was Another spotter plane nearby and he reportedly called in the 14 F4 Phantom fighter-bombers.

It was the first such air strike into the six-mile-wide DMZ, separating North and South Vietnam since March 30. Although the target area was in the supposedly demilitarized zone, it is technically a part of North Vietnam.

Petitions said valid

TWIN FALLS — Signatures on petitions calling for a Regional Airport Authority election in Twin Falls County have been checked and Harold Lancaster, county clerk, said about 200 more than the required amount are valid.

The petitions, filed Tuesday, carried about 1,500 signatures. Of those, 1,314 have been declared valid, he said. A total of five per cent of the voters of the 170 general election, 1,123 were needed to call the election, Lancaster said.

Lancaster, who has spent most of this week checking the signatures, said he will present the petitions, with his certification, to the board of county commissioners on Tuesday. The commissioners must approve the petitions before they can be turned over to the Board of Aeronautics, Lancaster said. The board must call for an election within 60 days after receiving the petitions, he said.

Only Canyon County of the eight counties involved in the regional airport concept has yet to file petitions, according to George Forscher, Ruyler, chairman of the Interregional Airport Commission. Petitions were received by Minidoka County on Thursday, and are being checked for validity.

Less than five per cent of the signatures on the Twin Falls petitions were found to be invalid. Names were disqualified by reason of non-registration as county voters, non-residency of the county or for being ineligible.

Jerome mishap fatal

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Writer

JEROME — Charles E. Broughton, 72, Jerome resident, was killed in a one-car accident seven miles north and two miles east of Jerome about 5 p.m. Thursday.

Idaho State Police officers, who investigated the accident, said it appeared Broughton was traveling west toward Jerome when his car apparently veered off the road on the right-hand side. Officers said he tried to return to the road, but crossed the highway. The car overturned and landed in a field.

Broughton was thrown out of the vehicle and from the nature of his injuries, the car rolled over him once, officers said.

An ambulance was called from Jerome, but Broughton was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident by Dr. L. M. Neher, Jerome County coroner. A passing motorist notified police of the accident.

ONE-CAR accident northeast of Jerome Thursday afternoon claimed the life of Charles E. Broughton, 72, Jerome, who was returning home from fishing, according to family members. The car overturned and landed in a field.

Legislators Demo target

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Election of Democratic legislators must be a major area-level goal for 1972, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told party members and leaders from the Magic Valley Thursday evening.

The governor addressed the first of several district meetings planned to "bolster party activities in Idaho in preparation for the 1972 elections. More than 150 persons attended the meeting at the Holiday Inn.

Gov. Andrus told party delegates the administration closed the fiscal year with $3.5 million in savings.

"This is a saving, not a surplus," the governor said, "but it is the exact amount we had to save if we are to make it through the coming year within our financial limits."

In his appeal for more Democratic legislators from Magic Valley counties, the governor said the administration can do only so much without support from the legislature. If education is to have proper funding there must be legislators in Boise who are concerned about "people problems," he said.

The governor said the property taxpayer at the local level should not have to meet such emergencies as an influx of new students from closing parochial schools in a single year. The state legislature denied necessary educational funds to Idaho schools passed a bill for an increased Idaho ad valorem tax, he said.

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho has received confirmation of full accreditation for a three-year period, with a major full-scale evaluation scheduled during 1974, according to Dr. Terry Smith, dean of the college.

Dr. Smith said two evaluators from the Northwest Accreditation Association, inspected CSI in May for a "simple" evaluation.

CSI was first accredited in 1968 by the Northwest Accreditation Association.

'Doves' pushing for pullout day

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The new Communist proposal for peace in Vietnam already has triggered fresh pressure on President Nixon from congressional doves to set a deadline for total U.S. withdrawal from Indo-China.

It appeared the President, while still seeking a negotiated settlement and release of the war prisoners, may find the latest proposal far more acceptable.

Sens. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., and Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., said Thursday they may make a new attempt to push legislation setting Dec. 15 as the pullout date from Vietnam. McGovern and Hatfield had the same tactic little more than two weeks ago but the Senate defeated it 53 to 42.

McGovern said the new Viet Cong offer made at Paris Thursday led to a single obvious conclusion: not one further American death can now be justified in the name of the release of U.S. prisoners of war because the other side has made it clear they will start releasing U.S. prisoners of war as soon as we set a definite withdrawal date.

Son, Frank Church, D-Idaho, said he and Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., would propose a new measure in and the war within the next few weeks. Cooper and Church collaborated last year on a measure to end the Cambodian invasion.

The State Department and the White House, not wanting to appear pessimistic, said there were positive aspects to the latest proposal, which called for release of the POWs simultaneously with U.S. troop withdrawals under a fixed deadline.

But State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray added there were other elements "clearly unacceptable" to the administration.

Tour views Filer farm

FILER — New irrigation practices were featured during a tour of the Eugene and John Thomas farms near Filer Thursday during the Idaho Grassman Day.

Two hundred fifty persons attended the event, which was directed by E.D. Novacek, Filer, chairman of the Twin Falls County Grassman Committee.

Lectures on soil conditions and grazing suggestions were also offered during the day, which included a luncheon at the county fairgrounds.

Speakers were given their choice of attending any or all of three lectures by specialists in the fields. Dorrell Larsen, University of Idaho, spoke on improvements in irrigation methods to grounds assembled in the dairy barn at the fairgrounds.

Harold Harris, plant materials specialist from the Soil Conservation Service, Aberdeen, told farmers who to make better use of their pasture land in feeding programs. His group was in the Tom Parks Pavilion. The third lecture station was the 4-H stock arena where Wayne Thissen, extension soil specialist, Twin Falls, was in charge.

Bus and school buses transported groups out to the Thomas farm on Highways 93 and 30 where they were met by members of the Thomas families and were then led on a walking tour of their rotation-type pastures and also shown some of the Hereford cattle they raise.

Allen Humphries, Kimberly, agricultural research service official, demonstrated the new irrigating system which is being used on the farms. It is a flood-type system which is completely automatic, with timers which turn the water off and on at designated times.

Soviets inter 3 cosmonauts

MOSCOW (UPI)—An anguished J. Brezhnev and other Kremlin leaders today carried to Moscow in the Kremlin Wall the ashes of the three Soviet cosmonauts who died mysteriously on their return to earth from a mission that was to have taught man how to live in space.

American astronaut Thomas Stafford, commander of the Apollo 10 moon mission, arrived today as the personal representative of President Nixon and joined the 10 surviving Soviet spacemen in the final accolade to the three cosmonauts.

Tens of thousands of Russians crowded into Red Square as the urns carrying the ashes were borne on gun carriages pulled by armored cars across the cobblestones to the tomb of V. I. Lenin. The Soviet leaders then carried them to the Kremlin Wall, the pantheon of Soviet heroes.

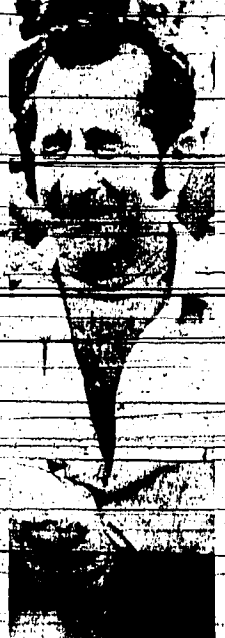

Guns of mourning crashed under the azure sky in the 81-degree temperature as the urns were placed in the Kremlin Wall. The ceremony was televised to the mourning nation which had been favored sons of Georgi Dobrovolsky, Vladimir Volkoy and Viktor Patsayev.

Brezhnev, the Communist party general secretary, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorniy helped bear the urns on their shoulders in a slow, precise procession from Lenin's tomb to the great brick wall.

Brezhnev, anguish etched on his face, fought back tears during the eulogies. A few tickled down his cheek as they did Thursday when he visited the men who were lying in state on a triple catafalque in the red-bannered Central House of the Soviet army. He did not speak.

Stafford commanded the Apollo 10 moon mission which tested the lunar module before the moon landing of Apollo 11. The cosmonauts died Wednesday from mysterious causes during what seemed a flawless return from man's longest spaceflight, 24 days. They established the first manned orbital space station.

Results of the autopsies on the three men have not been published. Theories as to the cause of their death have ranged from possible asphyxiation due to failure of their oxygen life support systems to heart failure and failure of their circulatory systems.

Unemployment down in June

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Unemployment dropped in June to 5.6 per cent of the nation's work force even though 1.1 million more persons were out of work than in May, the government reported today.

The Labor Department cautioned that the dip might have been caused by a statistical quirk.

A total of 6.5 million Americans was listed as looking for work in June compared to 4.4 million in May. But because unemployment usually rises even more sharply from May to June, the level of unemployment went after seasonal adjustment.

The 0.8 decline in joblessness was the sharpest for one month since November, 1961. Total employment rose 200,000 to 70.8 million in June, but that increase, like the rise in joblessness, was less than usual for this time of year.

Remains 'critical'

BUN VALLEY — Michelle Twin Falls driver of the auto, Hmelavski, 16, Twin Falls, is James Couch, 18, Twin Falls, still listed in critical condition was treated and released at the Sun Valley Hospital following the accident. According to a June 27 car crash report to state police, the near Stanley that injured three Couch's auto went off the road other youths.

Listed in satisfactory condition were Leona Wright, 16, out Filer, and John Jensen, 11.

Custody of data revoked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird Friday ordered all classified information withdrawn from the custody of the Rand Corp. on the ground that the research firm allowed the leak of the Pentagon papers on the Vietnam War.

Laird's action, announced while he was flying toward Tokyo, signaled a crackdown specifically on security practices at Rand's offices in Washington and Santa Monica, Calif. But Pentagon officials said it probably would result in tighter safeguarding of classified information and tougher security checks at all non-government locations where classified material is held.

Grocers optimistic on wine sales

By WARREN GOSSETT
Times-News Writer
KETCHUM — If initial wine sales in grocery stores of this resort area are any indication, and store operators feel they are, an underlying cultural desire is being met.

Atkinson's Market in Glacobbil Square and the downtown Golden Rule Store opened their doors Thursday morning to display their newest wares — a long and impressive list of fine table wines from California domestic to the most delicate of imports.

Operators say that their stocks far exceed those of local state liquor dispensaries, and promise to maintain those wines most preferred by their customers.

Don Atkinson, co-owner and manager of Atkinson's Market, was openly optimistic about wine sales.

Shortly after opening Thursday morning, checkers had sold nearly a dozen bottles of assorted wines and Atkinson said "We're going to do well and we're going to fill a definite gap" in wine demands.

"In an area like this, a tourist-oriented area where we're surrounded by some 16 states that do have wine sales, we've got to give the people what they want," he said.

"We are going to carry a good selection of wines," he said, with an empty rack reserved for the arrival of fine imported wines. He said his store will do what it can to fill demands for wine that it may not be carrying at present.

Jim Glem, owner of the Golden Rule, said his store also had a number of wine sales early in the day and said "I think we're doing quite well with the wine sales."

"We've received quite a few comments and the people are interested," he said. "It's the new luxury of obtaining their favorite table wine of the same place they buy the steak that will go with the wine."

As far as his stock goes, he says he will "play it by ear" in regard to what the customer wants and what he can obtain.

Both stores had on display Thursday morning the following wines, with a variety of wines being available:

Redundant champagnes, chablis, vin rose's, chautais, Rhine garden sautern, Rhine wines, tokays and muscatels.

Under approval of the Halley

City Council recently, Halley stores are also planning wine stocks.

Dick Stephens of the Merc said his store will definitely carry a good selection of table wines, although stock has not been received yet.

The Triple S Market in Halley has also ordered a variety of table wines, with stock being awaited.

Paper reveals secret bombing

United Press International said the Johnson administration participated in or backed a series of military actions against North Vietnam during the 1964 presidential election year that were kept secret at the time, the Pentagon study of the origins of the war showed today.

Portions of the study furnished UPI said the "unpublished" actions were taken "primarily as low-key indications to the efficacy of the U.S. willingness and capability to employ increased force if necessary."

But the writers of the report said part of the reason for keeping the steps secret at the time was the fact President Lyndon Johnson was engaged in a re-election campaign against Republican Barry Goldwater.

"The fact that these actions were not publicized — although most of them eventually became public knowledge — stemmed in part from a desire to communicate an implicit threat of 'more to come' for Hanoi's benefit, without arousing undue anxieties domestically in the United States in a presidential election year in which escalation of the war became a significant campaign issue," the report said.

Democrats contended during the campaign that Goldwater would escalate the war. The year following his election, President Johnson committed the first American ground combat troops to Vietnam.

The report listed these unpublished actions taken by the United States during 1964:

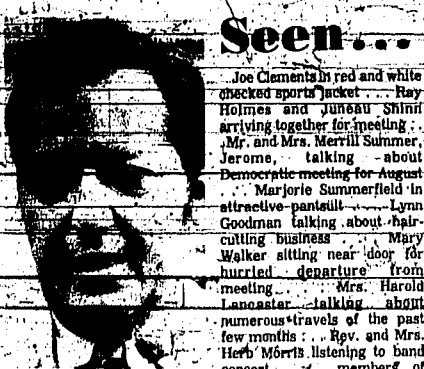

— DeSoto patrols in which American destroyers probed deep into the Gulf of Tonkin along the coast of North Vietnam, both as a show of strength and an intelligence gathering device.

— Air strikes in Laos and limited border-crossing operations in which South Vietnamese forces struck at Viet Cong infiltration routes in Laos.

— South Vietnamese raids by sea and other harassing actions against North Vietnam.

— A "Vamke Tom" program which used low-level air reconnaissance missions over Laos. The flights were made by U.S. jets which were accompanied by fighters whose pilots had orders to retaliate against enemy ground fire.

At the very end of 1964, the report said, the United States

Apportionment suit studied

BOISE (UPI) — Attorney General W. Anthony Park said Thursday he is studying a suit over legislative district apportionment filed June 24. "Kind of taking stock from a legal standpoint to see what we are going to do."

Park said he and his chief deputy, Clarence D. Sutter, would be "working closely" on the suit, filed by four persons against several state officials and Ada and Bonneville County commissioners and clerks testing the legislative apportionment plan approved by the special session of the 1971 legislature.

He said he would probably represent the state officials and said county prosecutors would probably represent the Ada and Bonneville officials named, although he said they would be "working together."

He said he had two more weeks in which to reply to the suits. In the meantime, Park said, he and Sutter are "assessing the allegations in the complaint, examining the statute with a view towards preparing responsive pleadings."

State rests in Hill murder case

THUMBOLDT, Tenn. (UPI) — The state rested its murder case against novelist Jesse Hill Ford Thursday after sifting a defense attempt to link town resentment against Ford with the slaying of a black soldier.

Ford, 42, author of the best-seller "The Liberation of Lord Byron Jones," was to testify today as the first defense witness.

Fourteen witnesses testified for the prosecution about the night of Nov. 16, 1970, when Pvt. George Henry Dooks Jr., 21, was killed by a rifle shot as he sat in a parked car in Ford's driveway with his second cousin and a little girl for whom she was babysitting.

The cousin, Alvin V. Andrews, 16, was the principal state witness to the shooting which Ford contends was motivated by "fear and anxiety." Ford told a preliminary hearing his family had been threatened and harassed since his novel about racial bigotry was published and filmed, and he thought the car parked in the driveway of his rural estate was a possible threat to his family.

Ford's attorney, former Judge John Kiser, attempted to show the shooting was caused at least partially by community resentment against the book which concerns an affair between a white policeman and the wife of a black undertaker.

"Isn't it true," Kiser asked Miss Andrews, "that you are a second cousin of Dorothy Claybrook, the wife of an undertaker found dead in Crockett County?"

"Yes," the witness said.

Sale of painting rapped

LONDON (UPI) — A member of parliament charged today that the $4,000,000 sale of a painting, "Death of Acteon" to a U.S. dealer, conflicted with British law.

Labor Party member Maurice Edelman said he has asked the government what steps are planned to prosecute the persons responsible.

Edelman said he had presented a question for answer in the House of Commons next Thursday by Trade and Industry Secretary John Davis.

Edelman said the question asks, "in view of the fact that the circumstances of the sale of the 'Death of Acteon' are contrary to the Auctions (Bidding Agreements) Act, what steps the minister intends to take in prosecuting those responsible and concerning the sale."

Edelman gave no details of the grounds on which he based the charge concerning the auction of the masterpiece which was later resold to the Paul Getty Museum in Malibu, Calif.

Why The Delay?

We are at a loss to understand the apparent lack of concern shown by hospital administrators and members of the hospital board relative to charges of poor business practices and accounting procedures which have been going on in the business office of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

It was some time ago Twin Falls County Commission members asked that "immediate steps" be taken to correct a deplorable condition that has existed in the administration of business affairs for the hospital.

Smith told the commissioners an investigation revealed poor business practices and accounting procedures existed and that auditors and outside advisors had recommended to the hospital administration for several years that certain procedural and business safeguards be employed.

So far as we know the hospital administration or members of the board have taken no official action to answer the charges or to take steps to correct if they are true. This delay is unfortunate. The charges are not something to be shunted aside.

The public has a right to know just what goes on at the hospital. The public's right to know extends to the operation of all departments. Operation of a county hospital should not be along the lines of a secret society with the public being in the dark.

The prosecuting attorney and the county commissioners have said all is not well at Magic Valley Memorial. The commissioners have asked for immediate action in the matter.

We are concerned with the delay hospital officials have shown in answering. We see no good reason for it. We see no good being accomplished following such a course.

Therefore, we call for an early and thorough investigation into the charges and if it develops that they are correct and have been ignored by the hospital administration and officials, then those in responsible positions who have followed this course should be replaced.

High Price

A jovial Premier Chou En-lai entertained three American newsmen and their wives and made propaganda capital out of the first such meeting in 25 years by setting his price for diplomatic relations with the United States. His price is excessive - removal of all American forces from Taiwan and the Taiwan Straits and recognition of the Communist Mainland regime as the only Chinese government.

"If Taiwan returns to the motherland, then its people will be making a contribution to the motherland for which we will reward them," he said.

Chou punctured the "two China policy" of the United States. "There can be only one China," he told representatives of the New York Times, Wall Street Journal and Newsweek. "There can be no possibility of two Chinas or one China and one Taiwan." Chou's conditions are impossible to meet, since the United States has a defense treaty with Chiang Kai-shek's nationalist government which it is obliged to honor.

President Nixon has steadily sought to improve relations with the Maoist regime in recognition of the fact that one-quarter of the world's population must be included in global peace efforts. But, China must do its part.

The question of admission of Red China to the UN will come up again this fall, although no application has been made and precious little evidence shown that Mao's China is a "peace-loving nation." Both are requirements under the UN charter.

Taiwan has a long record of useful, loyal and honorable membership in the UN. There is no moral way the UN can expell Taiwan regardless of whether the majority votes Red China a membership.

It is America's duty to disabuse Peking of a dangerous idea that Peking has a right to resolve its "internal" affairs by overrunning Taiwan.

We Are Ticked

Scores of telephone calls and notes have been received by the Times-News from people going out of their way to compliment members of the staff for the special Progress '71 Edition published last Sunday.

All of us on the Times-News do appreciate these pats on the back. To be perfectly honest, we felt all along that the edition was tops - now we are sure of it because of the favorable comments coming our way.

We are glad you enjoyed it. And next year we will do even better!

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Not surprisingly, prize-winning historian James MacGregor Burns sees the New York Times' publication of major Vietnam war documents as providing important benefits for the American people and their children. But he also has some big reservations about the effect of this particular undertaking.

Said Burns in a telephone interview: "I'd rather have partial disclosure than none at all. He considers it an unforgivable failure of government that the major materials of history are, by common practice, generally kept bottled up for a generation or more. The State Department is only now releasing the full documentation of events which transpired in 1945-46. Mountains of priceless evidence contained in presidential papers from Harry Truman through Lyndon Johnson are still screened from all but very special viewing.

Burns thinks the State Department's 25-year embargo on release is absurdly long. There have been suggestions the limit ought to be no more than 10 years, just a bit beyond a sitting president's possible two terms. But Sen. Edmund Muskie is proposing that an independent board survey classified matter and turn much of it loose after two years.

Having made his point on the "historian's right to know," Burns contends, however, that the Times' use of the so-called Pentagon papers has an effect which is "terribly distorting and may do great injustice to some people." For one thing, the 7,000-page war study is based wholly on the Pentagon's files. It does not draw upon former President Johnson's papers, nor upon the still-imposed State Department materials. Any of these found in the study are there by the accident of being in Pentagon files. That means the study's "inside history" of the Vietnam war is necessarily grossly incomplete.

For instance, it is estimated that in LBJ's newly christened library in Austin, there are some 3.1 million separate classified documents. Inevitably, a sizable proportion must deal with the war. No historian and no journalist yet has had access to this gold mine.

Burns views as valid the complaint of some that a good part of the published documentation in the Pentagon papers represents not presidential decision, not set policy, but contingency planning.

He makes another point heard in many quarters - that many memos, position papers and the like can only be understood in their full context. In the study, no principal in the Johnson administration could be interviewed. Was a paper ordered by a superior to present one side of a case? Was the writer giving his true views or playing devil's advocate? Is the document the whole story or were there verbal exchanges (unrecorded) on the issue?

Arthur Schlesinger Jr., once said of his White House years that much present top-level history runs through telephone wires - but no farther. Later recollections, put down in "oral histories," are often fuzzy. The consequence of these limitations is distortion. Averell Harriman, foreign affairs aide to many presidents, says, for example, that the Pentagon study makes former Assistant Defense Secretary John McNaughton look like a "warlike fellow," but that, in fact, he was always "dovish." Do the documents support Johnson's judgement that the then Defense Secretary Robert McNamara and then CIA head John McCone were the "most docile" of his advisers?

Burns, immensely happy at having some of the raw stuff of the war years on the open record, nevertheless is appalled at the reaction of some public figures which puts a "web of duplicity" label on that record. "I don't envy anyone trying to put these papers in sober perspective," says Burns. "On top of everything, I'm afraid the overreaction to publication means Vietnam will be lost to reason from any point of view." The lifting of the curtain part way must be halted. But a full, balanced view of Vietnam may now be more than half a century off.

Eardrums

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a ruptured eardrum impair hearing? My son had a ruptured drum at 1 very early age (he is now 12). He is a problem at school as he will not listen and pay attention.

He seems to hear perfectly well, but I was just wondering. Also his ears are full of draining yellow ear wax which I clean out every morning. - Mrs. J.H. I can answer part but not all of your questions.

The rupture of an eardrum usually results from infection and pressure building up in the middle ear, inside the eardrum. If this is detected soon enough, the drum can have an incision made in it, drainage (and Sometimes hemorrhoids can be kept under passable control by injections, and by measures to prevent constipation. Salves may make the problem more tolerable. But the only honest advice I can give when hemorrhoids reach a certain stage is to have them removed. Anything else is just extending the annoyance and putting off the treatment that will give lasting relief.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would be your opinion of taking two teaspoons of lecithin daily for arthritis in the shoulders and fingers? Would this have any adverse effects? - Mrs. P.L.

I know of no evidence that it will help arthritis - nor that it will "unharden" anyone's arteries; or that it's something you "ought" to take for general health.

There's research in progress to see when or whether it will be helpful in various specific conditions. It's going to take time for that work to be completed and evaluated.

However, in answer to any number of readers who have asked about lecithin - I don't know of any way it can hurt you, but I don't know any good reason why it should be taken "just because." It's very popular these days. Well, so was sulphur and molasses once upon a time, and I don't know that it hurt anybody or helped most of the young ones who were forced to swallow it as a "spring tonic."

Some "health fads" can be harmful; some are wasteful; some pretty silly. As to lecithin, I'm certainly not going to recommend it as generally useful, but I don't regard it as harmful, and therefore I'm not going to campaign against it, either.

To locate the major categories of prostate trouble - symptoms, treatment, how to speed recovery - write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for his booklet, "The Peaky Prostate," enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed (zip code), stamped envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son suffers from hemorrhoids. Please tell me how they can be cured without surgery. Please send me your booklet. Enclosed is 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. -N.N.

PAUL HARVEY

Property Taxes

Whether you own your home or rent your home you pay property taxes. About 25 per cent of your total expenditure for housing is property taxes.

And if you think this is bad, wait until 1980. Next July 15, Chicago's 750,000 property owners will pay their property taxes - and 0 1/2 per cent more than last year. The new rate will cost Chicagoans about 7 per cent of the assessed valuation of their property every year.

It's worse in the suburbs, where you pay $1,000 a year taxes on your $25,000 house and that tax is already scheduled to double.

Nationwide, local property taxes have soared 500 per cent in 20 years.

You are paying five times the property taxes you paid in 1950. What's it all about? Schools are a major factor in the spiraling cost of city and county government. In Chicago, for example it takes all the property tax on your $60,000 house just to educate one child.

And most houses are worth less, pay less, yet each of these houses may have two or three or four school-age children.

As is, city and county governments lean on property taxes for 85 per cent of their locally raised revenue.

Unless we are to be taxed out of all private property and thus suffer revolution by evolution, other tax sources must be sought. And brace yourself because there is no way anybody can prescribe any tax increase that's painless.

The free riders will have to be taxed their fair share. Larson and Lowell recently studied 14 major cities and discovered that one-third of all real estate in the United States is now escaping paying any taxes. If this tax-exempt property were to start paying taxes, it would save each taxpayer in our nation $300 a year. Of that tax exempt property, 70 per cent belongs to government, but much of the other 30 per cent is owned by churches and colleges.

A house of worship should not have to pay taxes. I think that lets Caesar's foot in the door and he might want the key.

But when colleges and churches engage in profitable businesses and real-estate holdings unrelated to their primary function - they should pay.

Your key of areas in which for as long as you can see in all directions the property is owned by schools or churches or foundations representing and or the other.

These are secular, financial, profitable interests - allowed to sit there and appreciate while eroding the tax base out from under a struggling community. Billions of dollars worth of property is now tax exempt on that basis.

Offhand, I can't name any politicians with the courage to suggest taxing church-owned property. It would take only one chairman of prominence to break this too jinx.

RAY CROMLEY

A Weakness

WASHINGTON (NEA) - A most worrisome aspect of the Pentagon Vietnam papers is their evidence on how frequently high officials of the government have ignored facts presented by their own professional subordinates, whether those professionals were in the Pentagon, the State Department or Central Intelligence Agency.

Sometimes the unpleasant or "nonconforming" data was screened out by White House assistants, sometimes by the President.

The Vietnam papers, of course, don't tell the whole story. One reasonably high official with access to President Johnson and with some considerable technical skill at analyzing military action reports told me that in a face-to-face session, he warned the President that the messages from the officers involved in the Tonkin Gulf attack on U.S. destroyers were too vague and inconclusive, and that they should be treated with extreme caution.

Johnson looked up and said sharply: "When your advice is wanted you will be asked for it. Good day."

Shortly after the official was transferred to a post out of the direct line of action.

Those who said what pleased Johnson were moved in closer to his ear. There are other examples from one administration and another.

The evidence of the technicians was largely ignored in the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion. They were, in the main, overruled by men in the new Kennedy administration with little or no experience in this type of operation.

The technical evidence of the Defense Department's own top experts in guerrilla strategy and tactics was largely passed over in planning and fighting the Vietnam war. Search-and-destroy sweeps, aerial bombings of the type routinely ordered, the use of large numbers of conventional troops - all were anathema to those high officials and officers most experienced in guerrilla operations.

"OK! Who's the wise guy with the stickers?"

Dana Stover, John Hansen exchange nuptial promise

HAZELTON—Dana Stover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mercer Stover, became the bride of John L. Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Hansen, all-Hazleton, in an afternoon service June 19 at the Hazelton Ward LDS Church.

Bishop John Okleberry performed the double ring ceremony before background decorations of pale pink gladioli and lavender Spider chrysanthemums. Jim Christopherson, uncle of the bridegroom, gave the opening prayer, and Roy Coulson gave the closing prayer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of polyester organza and Chantilly lace embroidered with tiny pearls over bridal satin. The dress made by the bride's mother was designed with a modified empire waistline and full lace sleeves gathered to wide cuffs. The sheer overskirt was trimmed with pearl embroidered appliques of Chantilly lace. Her elbow-length veil of nylon tulle was held by a headband of satin stephanotis blossoms and clusters of tiny petals. She carried a cascade bouquet of pale pink gladioli flowers, surrounded by lavender and white chrysanthemums, with accents of baby's breath, greenery and long satin streamers. Her only jewelry was a cultured pearl pendant necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

Zella Morrill was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Susan Ellis, Jennifer Sellers and Carla Wilding. Flower girls were Lorrie Patterson, niece of the bridegroom; and Leslie and Jody Stover, sisters of the bride. Michael Patterson, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

Carl Gundelfinger served as best man. Ushers were Arlyn Bodilly and Bill Patterson, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Calvin Currence.

Marca Stephens was soloist.

with Donna Lance as accompanist. Miss Lance also served as organist and played background music before the ceremony and the traditional wedding music.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the recreation hall of the church, which was decorated with large baskets of pink, white and lavender summer garden flowers, provided by Mrs. George Mendenhall.

The bride's table was covered with a floor-length white lace cloth over lavender. Matching arrangements of pink carnations, lavender and white chrysanthemums and baby's breath flanked the three-tiered wedding cake, which was decorated in the same colors and topped with white satin wedding balls edged with pearls.

Mrs. Larry Sellers and Mrs. Ronald Sellers cut and served the cake. Mrs. Roy Coulson poured punch. Mrs. Bill Paterson, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the gifts, assisted by Jamie Southworth, Shanna Christopherson, Judi Anne Hagan and Mrs. Larry Stamps. Guests were registered by Mrs. Arlyn Bodilly, sister of the bridegroom.

Also assisting with the reception were Mrs. Jim Christopherson, Mrs. Doris Crumrine and Mrs. C. R. Morrill.

Out-of-state guests attended from Virginia, Washington, California and Utah.

After a wedding trip through the Sawtooth Valley, the couple will reside on a farm northwest of Hazelton.

The bride was honored at a pre-nuptial shower given by Mrs. Ronald Sellers and Mrs. Larry Sellers, and a lingerie shower hosted by Susan Ellis and Zella Morrill.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at the Valley Cafe in Hazelton.

DEAR ABBY: I am only in the 5th grade but I have some strong feelings about life and death. Today while walking down the main street in our town I found a bird's nest that had fallen out of a tree. There were some baby birds in the nest that looked like they were just born and couldn't fly yet.

I asked some people who were walking by what I should do with the birds, and one man said, "Shove them down the sewer." Another man said, "Step on their heads." And someone else said, "Either feed them to a cat or get a B. B. gun and when the mother comes, use it on all of them."

Please tell me, Abby, what is the matter with people? What would you have done?

DEAR FIFTH: Some people think it's smart to talk a cruel game, but they wouldn't actually because that way, I would have borrowed a ladder and with the help of an adult put the nest and the birds back in the tree. Or called the humane society.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think a 22-year-old girl should be expected to keep a kosher kitchen for her husband?

DEAR ROSALIE: Only if he's Jewish.

DEAR ABBY: A lonely widow of 57 wrote to you for advice on how to bring some excitement into her life and you told her to get involved with volunteer work for some charitable organization, political group, or service club.

Abby, what have you against these organizations that you would wish a woman like that on them? If a woman hasn't become involved with her community by the time she's reached her early forties, she is a "taker," not a "giver," and she'd become the kind of deadwood these organizations get bogged down with.

I like the song, "People who need people are the luckiest people in the world." They are also the busiest. Sign me...

DEAR BUSY: Some "givers" have been so busy giving to their families they haven't had the leisure to get involved elsewhere until they're widowed. Widows are people. There are all kinds.

DEAR ABBY: I have a terrible problem. My son, who is 33 and is taking his master's degree in psychology, came home last week and told me he intends to marry the girl he has been going with for a year. She is a registered nurse, intelligent and refined, and seemed like a very nice person, but in the course of the conversation I learned that she is 30 years old.

How can I keep my son from marrying this old woman who is no doubt trying desperately to get married to a man regardless of his age?

DEAR CONFIDENTIAL: There is nothing you can do, or should do. Any interference on your part might permanently damage the relationship between you and your son. Perhaps your suspicions are wrong. They could be perfect for each other.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 6948, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Beauty hint

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Beautiful hands have been lauded by poets and great men throughout the centuries. A famous beauty fashion authority Max Factor points out; however, that when most women have "both jobs" to contend with—both in the home and in the business world—hands need extra special attention to retain their loveliness.

The biggest danger, of course, is the use of water and detergents which remove natural oils and moisture from the skin and encourage an unflattering roughness, dryness and redness. To combat these effects, use a rich lotion. Apply it first thing in the morning and it will act as a semi-barrier against dirt becoming embedded in the skin. Then re-apply a little cream each time after washing your hands.

Make sure the hands are thoroughly dry in order to discourage roughness and chapping. In the evening before retiring, massage the cream generously into your hands, working it into the skin as though pulling on gloves. Massage firmly down each finger from top to base, then down over the back and palm of the hands to the wrist.

A Traveller You GET IN THE SWIM, GET THIN

By Mary Sue Miller

One of the best ways to a trim figure is swimming. Regular swims encourage a graceful, proportioned, firm body. What's more, if you have an unwanted curve or two, it can be pared down with "under-water" routines.

Those below are divided into two groups. The first trims hips and legs; the second—toning waist and arms. To pre-ferm, you really need not be a swimmer. Just hold onto the side of the pool or a rubber raft for support in water up to your neck.

Group 1. Pregs book of shoulders to support, with arms stretched along top edge. Slowly swing right leg up until toes appear above water, then forcefully lower leg until toes point straight downward. Work with left leg and, alternating, continue for one minute. Now turn on stomach, hold on to support, hinder close, and let legs float to surface; quickly fling legs far apart and bring together—50 counts.

Group 2. Still on stomach, legs afloat—push away from support to full extension of arms; by bending elbows pull back until head touches hands. Twenty counts. Then take first position—shoulders to support, arms outstretched, legs down. From waist, swing legs like a pendulum for one minute.

So easy, such fun, and yet so effective.

July 4 tagged 'Honor America Day' again

By LOUIS CASSELL, UPI Senior Editor
 This year, as last, the Fourth of July will be celebrated in many cities as "Honor America Day."
 Citizens who are concerned about the chauvinistic connotations of this observance might be reassured if the sponsors would make clear, not merely America is to honor, not merely a "particular country," but an ideal.

The validity of this ideal is not impeached by the fact that it has never been fully achieved. Ideals play the same role in the affairs of mankind that stars play in the navigation of a ship. They may remain forever beyond reach, but they are necessary points of reference for plotting a true course.

prayerful thought. It cannot be answered by shouting patriotic slogans or by lifting as though it were reasonable to find fault with any aspect of the current state of affairs in this nation. Unfortunately, there was a lot of this sort of strident nationalism—much is a very different and vastly less worthy thing than true patriotism—in last year's Honor America Day ceremonies.

So the question we should ask ourselves—on our national birthday is whether we are still moving toward the ideal of a free and equal society envisioned by the founding fathers, or whether we have lost sight of our stars and drifted off course.

That is a question each citizen must answer for himself. It deserves sober and

Briton's life double

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Each work day, in an elegant Beverly Hills clothing shop called Carroll & Co., Mr. Mark Harris, British-born and a model of urbanity, leads half of his double life. Impeccably dressed, mustachioed and an exuberant teller of tall stories, he has become an "inside" favorite of top Hollywood figures by the dashing and enthusiastic way he has combined his careers as an actor and a clothing salesman par excellence.

has done James Harebent in "The Amorous Flea" and in Dolittle in "My Fair Lady"; also appeared in Connecticut Summer theater in "The Merry Orchard" and "The Man Who Came to Dinner"; and, in England, played Dolittle in "Pygmalion."

Missionary to talk on Spain

TWIN FALLS — The Rev. J.C. Gholdston, director and teacher of the Bible Institute in Madrid, Spain, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sturday and Sunday at Eastside Southern Baptist Church, 2064 Elizabeth Blvd., Twin Falls.

Rev. Gholdston was the first American Team missionary to enter Spain in 1954, and in addition to his work in the Bible Institute in Madrid, founded in 1962 to train Spanish young people, he pastors a church he founded and conducts evangelistic meetings in nearby churches.

In November, 1964, the Gholdstons started a Bible study group in their home. This has since grown into the church Rev. Gholdston pastors. He also conducts a youth club to attract teen-agers to the church, travels to other churches to conduct special evangelistic services and teaches two home Bible study groups in the Madrid area.

Rev. Nibley will also be teaching some of the music classes.

Presbyterians upset over case

By LOUIS CASSELL, UPI Senior Editor

Members of the United Presbyterian Church are embroiled in a hassle over the propriety of a $10,000 grant by the church to the Angela Davis defense fund.

More than 4,000 Unitarian Presbyterians have million dollars of protest to national headquarters. Uncounted other thousands have quit the church. Some local governing bodies (sessions) have served notice they'll send no more money to the parent denomination until assured it won't be put to such uses.

Concerned by the extent and volume of the reaction, national church officials are trying to mollify critics by emphasizing that the church is not endorsing Angela Davis' activities but is only trying to insure that she gets a fair trial.

Conceding that Miss Davis, an avowed Communist, holds "political views at sharp variance with those of the church," the Rev. Editor G. Hawkins, a former moderator of the denomination and current chairman of its committee on church and race, explains the grant in these terms: "The defense of Miss Davis' views is not our cause; the strong defense of her right to justice and a just trial is involved with the basic beliefs of Christian faith."

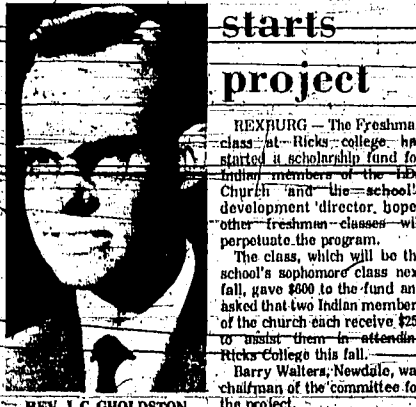

Miss Davis awaits trial in California on murder and kidnaping charges growing out of last summer's Marin County courtroom shooting in which a judge and three other persons were killed.

Ricks starts project

Barry Walters, Newdale, is chairman of the committee for the project.

Audience hall built for Pope

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI inaugurated a new, $10 million audience hall Wednesday in the Vatican on the spot where 2,000 years ago Romans watched Christians being tortured in Nero's circus.

The pope said the cost of the hall exceeded the estimate made when he ordered its construction seven years ago. He said the expense "has rendered more acute in our hearts the awareness of human needs, both near and far, which require our contribution."

But he declared its construction necessary to provide a comfortable and dignified reception for the increasing numbers of pilgrims and tourists at the weekly papal audiences.

"We built it for you," he told the crowd that filled every one of the 6,300 seats. "Do you like it?"

The crowd roared its approval.

The sweeping, arched, structure, in the modern style, still retains some finishing touches and will not be ready for regular use until autumn. Until then, the papal audiences will continue in St. Peter's Basilica.

4 share Canadian open lead

MONTREAL (UPI) — Phil Rodgers, Rod Funchell, Lou Graham and Rolf Deming shot five-under-par 65 on Richelieu Valley's wind-swept Rouville course Thursday for a share of the first-round lead in the $150,000 Canadian Open golf championship.

The Canada Day holiday crowd was an estimated 12,000, an opening-day record for the tournament going back to 1964.

Rod Curf and Canada's George Knudson were a stroke off the pace. Arnold Palmer was in a group another two strokes back, and Gary Player and two-time U.S. Open champ Lee Trevino both carded 73s.

The 67s by the four co-leaders tied the course record set by host pro Jack Bissinger who turned in a first-round 76.

Rodgers, from La Jolla, Calif., and a non-winner on the tour since the 1968 Buick Open, and Deming, from Menominee, Mich., still looking for his initial victory, both topped the 6,895-yard layout, needing only 26 putts.

"Don't tell Palmer," said Rodgers. Deming, onetime math teacher at the University of Minnesota, noted his proficiency on the greens was a sharp contrast to his performance earlier on the circuit.

Funchell, a 26-year-old who plays out of San Jose, Calif., said that if conditions are constant, "I still think we might see some 63s or 64s around here before it's all over."

Graham, from Nashville, Tenn., said because of the wind he was concentrating on a slow backswing and meeting the ball solidly.

"If you don't make solid contact the wind exaggerates your mistakes," he said. Grouped at 69 were Don Kern of Toronto, Don Hiles of Seattle, Herb Hooper of Richmond, Va., Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La., Leo Gahan of Houston, Tex., and Tom Weir of Houston, Tex.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers Thursday sent rookie Rick Abarbach who had been their regular shortstop most of the season, down to their Evansville farm club in the American Association, subject to a 24-hour recall.

Abarbach, 21, played in 59 games and hit .194 but had not seen much action since Ted Kubik was switched from second base to shortstop two weeks ago. Brewer officials had to make room on their roster for infielder Bob Heise, who returned from active duty in the reserves.

Smith tops Gorman to reach finals against Newcombe at Wimbledon

That is what Tom Gorman, 25-year-old female player who captured the hearts of Wimbledon fans in earlier play, said before he went out on center court Thursday and lost, 6-3, 6-2 in his maiden opponent — a blond — Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif.

Smith's victory placed him into Saturday's final against defending champion John Newcombe, who toyed with an exhausted Ken Rosewall, 6-1, 6-1, 3-3 in an all-Australian semifinal.

Atlanta spoils Expo celebration

MONTREAL (UPI) — Mike Lum's double capped a four-run ninth inning rally Thursday that carried the Atlanta Braves to a 7-3 victory over the Montreal Expos and spoiled Canada Day celebrations. Gerry Jackson led off the ninth-inning with a walk off reliever Mike Marshall and went to second on Zolo Versalles' sacrifice. Hal King grounded out, but Jackson went to third and scored on Felix Millan's short single to center field to break a 3-3 tie.

U.S. confident on eve of meet with Russians

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — From coach Dave Maggard on down to a pair of 20 kilo walkers the United States team brimmed with confidence Thursday on the eve of its two-day struggle against Russia and World track and field stars at Edwards Stadium.

Intermediate hurdler Ralph Mann, sprinter John Smith and hammer thrower George Frenn turned down bids to compete against the Russians. It was said that the United States didn't rate much of a chance. "I think the defections have worked just the other way," said Maggard, the University of California head coach who is leading the American team. "The guys who did accept bids to compete here feel the country's pride and honor is at stake and they don't mean to let anyone down. They are full of confidence and we might just pull it off."

The loss of the four can't be minimized all that easily, though, because they were sure to pick up solid points for the American cause. But as Maggard insists, enthusiasm counts for something.

Shortstop, first base only NL positions still in doubt

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National League All-Star team has practically been decided, although there are still four days remaining before the official starting team will be announced.

The NL team will be announced next Wednesday but virtually every position has been locked up. The only two positions which could conceivably change are shortstop and first base.

Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants leads the first baseman with 309,002, but McCovey has been on the disabled list the past two weeks and Orlando Cepeda of the Atlanta Braves has closed the gap. Cepeda has received 334,718 votes and could possibly overhaul McCovey before the final results.

Chances are Cepeda will start in the All-Star game anyhow as McCovey will still be sidelined with a knee injury. If McCovey should win the voting and not play it would be up to the NL manager, Sparky Anderson of the Cincinnati Reds, to choose the starting first baseman. Anderson will likely choose from Cepeda or his own Lee May, who is third in the voting.

Canonero recovering from leg infection

NEW YORK (UPI) — Canonero II, surprise winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness and surprise loser of the Belmont, is recovering from a severe leg infection and may return to the races early next winter, probably in California. The sensational 3-year-old colt, bred and sold in Kentucky for $1,200 but raced mostly in Venezuela until this spring, is expected to go into light training within a month in preparation for his first start for his new owner.

"I don't think he'll be ready for the fall meeting at Belmont," said W.J. "Buddy" Hirsch, trainer for the King Ranch of Hoboken, N.J., who bought Canonero II recently for a sum in excess of $1 million. "But he ought to be ready for early winter. We are in California, so I suppose that's where he'll be going," Hirsch declared.

Allison wins pole position for Daytona Firecracker 400

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Defending champion Donnie Allison shoved his 1969 Mercury to an average speed of 183.228 miles per hour Thursday to earn the pole position for Sunday's Firecracker 400.

Allison recorded his fastest speed on his final qualifying lap in his maroon-and-white Wood Brothers' Mercury to edge Buddy Baker for the pole. Baker, driving a Petty Enterprises' 1971 Dodge, earned the outside front row spot with a speed of 183.304 mph over the high-banked, 2.5-mile Daytona International tri-oval.

Charlie Glotzbach, a crowd favorite in his 1971 Chevrolet Monte Carlo, posted the third fastest speed at 182.248 mph. He will share the second row with Plymouth ace Richard Petty, who hit 180.400 mph.

Bobby Allison, Donnie's brother, earned the No. 5 spot with a 180.299 mph clocking. Bobby will be looking for a record sixth consecutive major race win in Sunday's $40,205 event.

Dallas in trouble with six veterans

DALLAS (UPI) — Six top Dallas Cowboy veterans and four of the club's top five rookie draftees remained unsigned Thursday just eight days before the opening of the National Football Conference champion's preseason training camp.

While a club spokesman admitted the number was "a bit higher than usual," he said none of the dealings was in a critical stage and that all were expected to be settled amicably in contrast to a year ago when the club and Bob Hayes failed to agree and the wide receiver took a pay cut and played out his option.

Hayes, however, was not one of the half dozen unsigned this time. He recently signed a new five-year pact with the club. Those veterans still in the negotiating stage are quarterback Craig Morton, running back Walt Garrison, linebacker Chuck Howley, cornerback Mel Renfro, defensive tackle Jahrrhugh and offensive guard John Niland.

Chargers sign No. 1 draft pick

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The National Football League San Diego Chargers signed their top draft choice, fullback Leon Burns of Long Beach State, Thursday.

Terms of the pact were not revealed by General Manager Harland Svare, but he said, "our negotiations were long but amicable." Burns said he was "very happy" with the terms worked out by attorney Don Dyer.

The 6-foot-1, 228-pound Burns led the nation in rushing as a junior in 1969 with 1,659 yards and 27 touchdowns. Last year he rushed for 1,033 yards and scored 20 touchdowns despite missing four games with an ankle injury.

Suppression of narcotics urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church said Thursday that suppression of the flow of illegal narcotics into the United States must become "a major objective of American foreign policy today."

Church made the comment as he opened hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the legislation which would force an end to foreign aid to countries which refuse to suppress production of opium, from which heroin is made.

Church said he welcomed the announcement of the Turkish government that it would outlaw the planting of opium poppies after next year. He added this is an indication that the Turkish government recognizes U.S. congressional concern over heroin addiction.

But the Idaho Democrat also said the problem remains with other governments, notably those in Southeast Asia.

He said, "The availability of heroin in South Vietnam has been well documented by any number of sources."

"In Thailand, opium is converted into heroin and shipped to Hong Kong, now identified as a major source of narcotic drugs entering the United States."

Church said that in the face of such production, Congress should take action which would encourage a coordinated, widespread attack on the drug abuse problem, including measures to stop foreign aid to countries that do not cooperate with the United States.

Timothy Leary arrested abroad

BERN, Switzerland (UPI) — Police arrested Dr. Timothy Leary, the "American" drug advocate, in an Alpine resort Wednesday and are holding him in a Lausanne jail pending extradition to the United States, federal police said today.

Police said Leary was arrested in Villars-sur-Ollon near the French border at the request of the United States. There are no known charges against Leary locally.

A former Harvard associate professor who urged young people to "turn on" with drugs, Leary is wanted in California to finish serving a six-month-to-16-year prison sentence for the possession of marijuana.

He escaped from the minimum security California Men's Colony at Chino Sept. 12, 1970, and fled to Algeria, where he was linked with a group of American Black Panthers living in exile.

Police said Leary now is in the Holo-Mercet Prison in Lausanne under "provisional extradition arrest," which means that American officials must demand his extradition within 60 days.

The circumstances leading to his arrest are still unclear, but police said Leary had been in Switzerland since June 21.

Embassy officials said they did not know whether Leary's wife Rosemary was with him or whether she had also been arrested.

PECOS, N.M. (UPI) — The weather helped firefighters contain a fire in the Santa Fe National Forest Thursday but whipped a blaze in eastern Arizona out of control.

State board hears student proposal

BOISE (UPI) — The state board of education heard Thursday from members of the Idaho Student Government Association on a motion to abandon extracurricular activities funded by student government on the basis of a lack of student interest.

Jerry Robertson, associated student body president at Idaho State University, Pocatello, led the discussion saying that if student government decided to drop student-supported activities such as band and cheerleading, the administration would pick up funding of them.

Robertson said if that program occurred, the student body budget could be reduced accordingly. No action was taken on the matter, but students of the state's colleges and universities expressed a need to clarify the matter.

A motion proposed by board member John Swartley of Boise at the board's last meeting was held for further action Thursday.

The motion asked that any student holding an official position in student government at the state's institutions of higher learning would have to carry a full academic load.

Student government representatives told the board the idea would be had if it were set as a policy.

The student government association also requested the presidents of the four state institutions to provide the ISGA with an advance agenda of each of their meetings.

Dr. John B. Barnes, president of Boise State College, recommended that the president prepare an advance agenda and furnish it to the student government leaders.

They said duties of student government officials were increasing, they worked with bigger budgets, and they spent a great deal of time serving their constituents.

There was some discussion that credits be given to student government officers in the field of political science for their work.

BOISE (UPI) — A major air pollution abatement program of a new low-emission coating, $10 million will be undertaken over the next 18 months by Potlatch Forests, Inc. of Lewiston, according to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

The planned installations are in response to rules and regulations adopted by the pollution control commission.

Briefing given to Agnew

SEOUL (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew canceled a planned helicopter visit to American and South Korean troops near the Demilitarized Zone between North and South Korea today and instead received an extended top-level briefing on the military situation in the area.

The detailed, hour-long briefing was conducted by Adm. John S. McCain, commander-in-chief of U.S. Pacific Forces, and Gen. J.H. Michaelis, commander of the United Nations forces in Korea and the U.S. Eighth Army.

The briefing originally was scheduled to last only 20 or 30 minutes but instead was extended to an hour because Agnew's visit to troops was canceled. After the briefing, the vice president toured the underground combat operations compound, nerve center of the U.N. command.

The original schedule had called for Agnew to review honor guards at the U.N. command and take a flight aboard a helicopter to a South Korean artillery battalion, and then to Camp Casey, about 20 miles north of Seoul, to 2nd U.S. Infantry Division headquarters.

Cause of deaths guessed

DURANGO, Colo. (UPI) — U.S. astronaut Stuart Roosa, command module pilot on the Apollo 14 lunar flight, said Thursday a spacecraft problem probably caused the deaths of the three Soviet cosmonauts.

"I would rule out totally and completely a physiological aspect of any kind relating to the fact that they had been weightless for almost 24 days and then returned to the earth," Roosa said.

The Russian spacemen were discovered dead in their spacecraft Wednesday after returning to earth from an orbiting space laboratory. The causes of their deaths have not yet been revealed.

"I would say that it's probably a spacecraft problem," Roosa said.

"There are two possibilities. One is that they lost cabin pressure. This could result in the accident they had if they lost it suddenly after they started their re-entry."

Roosa said the second possibility was "some sort of contamination and complete loss of their oxygen supply."

Lay plans

Legislature '72 target

The governor said it was a promise of the legislature at the time of sales tax passage that no such property taxes at the state level would be imposed. "I remember that promise, and for that reason the bill was vetoed," the governor said. He told fellow party members he believes the first Democratic state administration in more than 24 years is now getting the response of the people.

Gov. Andrus said in answer to a question about repeal of House Bill 304 and its limit of a per cent increase in tax revenue, that he had pledged support to the repeal before his election. The governor said the state has no right to toll local taxing agencies how much or how little they need in revenue for local programs while there is no limit on state spending. Such regulation must come from the home town and county, he said, and is the responsibility of the elected officials of the local level.

Jerome chosen survey target

JEROME — Jerome has been chosen as one of 18 Idaho towns in which a survey team from the Government Research Institute at Idaho State University will conduct interviews during the week of July 4-10, according to university officials. The team is expected to interview several local officials and leaders to identify major problems in the community. The project is being directed by Dr. Victor S. Hjelm. The purpose of the survey is to learn what local leaders regard as the most serious problems in their communities. The information developed through the survey will be used in a number of workshops which will be held during the winter and spring of 1971-72 at the university, Dr. Hjelm said. Dr. Hjelm said the workshops hope to achieve the following objectives: to assist par-

Waters, Two range fires out

The Thomas family is among the first to use the rotation-type feeding plan which they said was first developed by a Burley farmer. They have fenced off their pastures in half acre strips and each strip will feed 90 head of cattle for 24 hours, at which time the cattle are moved to the next strip. As soon as a herd leaves one of the half-acre strips, commercial nitrogen is applied to the pasture after which it is irrigated and left to grow for 30 days after which time the cattle are again put on it for feeding. Phosphate is applied in the spring but needs only one application per year, whereas nitrogen is applied every 30 days. Making use of grassland and pastures this way is a saving on feed, said Dave Thomas, who noted the cattle do not trample down any of the feed in that short time and they eat off all the new growth. Moving the cattle before they can eat too close to the root system also makes a much better stand of grass. "If you take off more than 50 per cent of the plant at grazing time, you will stop the root growth," said Harris, who is a plant specialist. He displayed samples of root systems of plants which had been allowed to be grazed too heavily. They were short and spindly, compared to the long and healthy root systems of plants which had more than half of the top growth left. Eugene and John Thomas, Idaho's Grassman of the Year, were introduced by Novacek during the noon lunch program at the fairgrounds. Special guest speaker was Hugh Hough, Boise, chairman of the Idaho Grassman program. Arranging Novacek with arrangements for the field day were Don Young, county agent; Paul West, vice chairman of the grassman committee; Clarence Hedrick, Dick Stafford, Doug Blahop and Robert Vanauclen.

Stop order asked for power plant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal court was asked Thursday to stop plans for further construction of a power plant planned in the Four Corners area until more is known about what effect the work will have on the environment. The injunction was made in U.S. District Court here by the National Wildlife Federation and the Environmental Defense Fund. The suit asked for keeping the status quo until a court has decided a related case filed a month ago which alleges the federal government violated its trust to the people in the form of its permits for the Four Corners complex. The Four Corners power project plans seven power plants, generating electricity through coal burning, in the general area of the junction of the state lines of Utah, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona. The suit filed in U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia would withhold any federal permit required for any new step in the plans for the seven plants. One is already in operation — the Four Corners Plant near Farmington, N.M., and several others are in various stages of operation. The biggest is in the early stages of planning. The power complex is to be mostly on Indian reservation land or land nearby. Many Indians are employed in the project and Indians sell coal for its operation. But opponents of the present plans contend despite the benefits, the complex is tearing the earth by gouging up coal, is fouling the air with its emissions of fly ash, and is using up water supplies. These critics want the plant emissions cleaned up and some reclamation effort done on mining work related to the plant operation. They contend the plant near Farmington spews out 300 tons of fly ash daily, or more than Los Angeles and New York City combined.

Gem code covers most firms

(Editors note: This is the last of four dispatches outlining Idaho's new Uniform Consumer Credit Code, which became effective July 1. Today: The problems of enforcement.)
By JIMMY HIGH
BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's new Uniform Consumer Credit Code is lengthy and complex and one of the biggest problems facing acting Commissioner of Finance Tom McEldowney is "getting those little merchants in who don't think they're in the credit business." Already some 1,700 letters have been mailed to Idaho merchants and supervised lending institutions, outlining briefly certain aspects of the UCC. The letter to merchants notes those who are covered by the UCC — and who must register with the Department of Finance — are those who "regularly" engage as a seller of consumer goods or services or an installment basis or make a credit charge for goods or services whether the contract is held by the merchant or assigned to a financial institution. The mailing list includes automobile dealers, implement dealers, doctors and dentists as well as many other professions. In an attempt to explain the code to financial institutions, the Department of Finance, and the attorney general's office sent representatives to a number of public information seminars. Meetings have been held in Twin Falls, Pocatello, Idaho Falls, Coeur d'Alene, Lewiston and Boise. J. Tim Brennan, executive director of the Idaho Retailers Association, is also planning a series of meetings around the state after July 1 to discuss the import of the legislation for retailers. McEldowney points out the Idaho law itself makes provisions for an "education" program, but the legislature which approved the code did not appropriate money for such a program. Banks and small loan companies will probably present little problem to McEldowney. Most have their attorneys to outline the code and its provisions. But the merchant who has to pay a $25 fee when he registers $12.50 for the first six months of the year — may not be aware he comes under the code July 1. The only ones exempt from Idaho's UCC — and who do not have to register — are those who accept "orders" or bank credit cards and do not extend their own credit, those who use only the traditional 30-day charge account and those who do not in the normal course of business extend credit but may do so under extraordinary circumstances. Failure to comply with the code's provisions concerning notification and payments of fees is a misdemeanor under Idaho's UCC. McEldowney said the lawmakers who debated the measure wanted Idaho's code to be self-supporting and thus included provision for a fee up to $50 for those who must register. But, he said, it was decided to start at $25 per year with the hope that in a year or so most covered merchants would be registered, thus enabling the department to reduce its registration fee on a yearly basis. Meantime, McEldowney will try to get along with his current staff for enforcement of the UCC, with hopes of adding up to two more persons within the next six months. Copies of the code may be purchased and inquiries may be directed to the Department of Finance, Room 107 of the Idaho Statehouse, Boise, 83725.

City treasurer quits at Burley

BURLEY — Mrs. Lillian Dawson, Burley city treasurer, retires from the post today. She has served as the city treasurer for the past seven years. She was appointed in April, 1964, by Mayor Mack Crouch and was re-appointed under Mayors Joe Peters and Garis Robertson.

She assumed the office in 1964 after Mrs. Gertrude Redfield retired after holding the post for five and one-half years. With the exception of the late Orpha Coleman, who served as city treasurer for 19 years, Mrs. Dawson has held the post longer than any other individual.

It was learned this month that Mrs. Dawson will be named in the coming seventh edition of "Who's Who of American Women." This selection was based on her past 30-year career in business as well as her achievements in public service.

Born in Shoshone, she attended school there, and attended the Boise Junior College. Writing poetry during her school days led her to compose a song in a national fraternal contest. She won first place in this event and received a trip to the national convention of Supreme Woodmen—Forest Circle, Omaha, Neb.

As a young woman she was personal bookkeeper for C. Ben Ross, Idaho's only four-term governor. Her career also included several years in the state auditor's office, Boise, and an assignment with the Internal Revenue Department.

"I have enjoyed serving as city treasurer and appreciate the opportunity extended to me through the three different city administrations," stated Mrs. Dawson.

Her future plans call for "taking things a little easier and assisting my husband, A.W. (Al) Dawson, with historical research which will aid him in his writing of history," she added.

Dawson is president of the newly formed Cassia County Historical Society and recently retired as advertising official of the South Idaho Press. He is doing considerable research into early day history.

U. of I. begins intern program

MOSCOW (UPI) — An intern program to provide competent legal assistance to inmates of three Idaho penal institutions and provide experience for law students has been initiated at the University of Idaho.

By means of a $28,950 grant for a one year pilot program, approximately 12 students will visit inmates at three penal institutions during the school year to discuss their legal situations.

The law students will then return to the campus to research the cases and confer with law professors. If the case merits a hearing in court, the student will prepare the brief and go to court with a practicing attorney who by law must argue the case.

The idea for the program was sparked after several carloads of law students visited the Idaho state penitentiary at Boise "on a very informal, experimental basis," said Albert Menard Jr., dean of the college of law.

As a result of those visits, the law school applied for and received a grant to establish the pilot program.

He said the students will not be replacing other lawyers but rather providing badly needed legal services, both on criminal and civil matters.

The intern program is part of a new concern for the broad scope of criminal law which has been developing over the past five years, according to Menard.

Benefits boosted

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said the Independence Day holiday this year marks a scheduled boost to $65 maximum weekly benefit payments under Idaho's employment security law.

Andrus said the problem facing the state is to keep the economy stabilized at a time when living costs and salaries are rising, but unemployment is rising in the face of an economic decline.

He said two factors influencing the increase from $59 to $65 maximum weekly benefit allowance were an increase in maximum benefits under unemployment compensation law from 52.5 per cent to 55 per cent of the average weekly wage by the Idaho Legislature and an increase in Idaho's average weekly wage.

The new benefit rate will start applying for benefit years beginning on and after July 4.

To parade in area Burley Idaho Rangers construct new hearse

By GEORGIA LAYTON, Times-News Writer

BURLEY — A group of young men in Burley, known as the Idaho Rangers, (a quick draw gun club) have a busy schedule ahead of them this summer.

They and their "deadwagon," a horse-drawn hearse which they have built from the "ground up" will appear at many public gatherings.

It will be entered parade at Rupert Monday, the Saga of the Silent City of Rocks, July 19 near Aljona, the Snake River Stampede at Nampa, the parade in honor of the National High School Rodeo in August and Cassia County Fair and Rodeo parade.

Also planned by the Idaho Rangers is a shoot-out between the Idaho Rangers and the Twin Falls Jayvets Vigilantes in honor of the National High School Rodeo event.

A shoot-out also will be held during the Cassia County Fair and Rodeo.

The Idaho Rangers group was formed last fall following the public response to the shoot-out in downtown Burley during fall week. The historic episode of the "good guys" running the "bad guys" of town was used in the staging that shoot-out.

Officers of the Idaho Rangers are Dave Nelson, president; Don Whittle, vice president; Jim Schneider, secretary; Jim Lawson, treasurer, and Lex Kunau, member of the board of directors.

Members include Dean Bolt, Joe Lopez, Jake Pickering, Mike Fikstad, Jim Mabey, Jack Bettas, Lamont (Derby) Dudley, Jerry Kriehl, Terry Hales, Larry Daubs, Jay Morgan, and Roy Seaman, plus the officers.

The idea of a horse-drawn hearse was presented to the group by Don Whittle. A hearse cutting back into the 1800's cost about $2,500 if one could be found, so members decided to build one.

A search was begun several months ago for wheels and undercarriage. A visit was made to the Lewis Otley Ranch, Elba, and E. A. Otley, brother of Lewis, donated the wheels and undercarriage to the Idaho Rangers to construct their hearse upon.

The undercarriage was hauled to Burley on a flatbed trailer and was installed at the Whittle home.

Work began with the group spending evenings and weekends in the garage of the Whittle home and the hearse began to take shape. A picture of an early day hearse was all that was used for plans. Five weeks later the hearse was built. In pioneer days a hearse was built in three months.

Next came the problem of decorating the hearse. Public interest had grown and Frank Hamm made the glass rear doors, the Burley Chamber of Commerce contributed the material for the curtains, Mrs. Terry Hale made the curtains, Don Walstrom donated the gold carpet, Don Hansen donated the gold rope tassel for the curtains and Jerry Kriehl made the elaborate upholstered seat.

The "deadwagon" was then painted black and trimmed in gold. At last it was ready to roll through the streets in parades.

Next on the "needed" list was a set of doubletrees which was donated by E. A. Otley.

It takes horses to pull the hearse and J. H. (Henry) Callahan, Oakley, has offered his pair of matched bays for some of the appearances. Other horses have been made available from E. A. Otley, who has a pair of matched white horses, and J. A. Martin, Paul, a matched team of black mares.

The Idaho Rangers have issued a life-membership to Otley, Ken Barry, Burley chief of police, is the security consultant and Ralph Marsh, Burley policeman is an honorary member.

Funds are raised by the Idaho Rangers by serving as security officers at various gatherings in the county. Last fall they were the security officers at the Barn Sale sponsored by the local merchants at the fairgrounds. They kept a keen eye on the parking lot during the KBAR radio station grand opening and the parking lot at the Oakley Rodeo.

Cassia grassman tour views four operations

By GEORGIA LAYTON, Times-News Writer

BURLEY — The Cassia Grassman Committee and local residents toured the four candidates' ranches and farms Thursday.

Judges were Bill Berry, agricultural engineer with Idaho Power; Lamont Smith, Minidoka County agent and Vern Hacking, director of the Minidoka County ASCS.

The winner will be notified by mail and Cassia County Grassman of the Year will be announced the middle of next week, according to the Grassman committee officers.

A group of some 15 persons left the Cassia courthouse at 9 a.m. and made their first stop at the Jim Rodgers ranch, east of Declo. Rodgers told the group his operation of 104 acres. His irrigated pasture is divided into several units so cattle can eat off the pasture in the one unit. This year he does not have cattle on his pasture, but two years ago pastured 410 head of cattle with an average of 2.5 pounds per day gain.

The next stop was at the Cassia Grazing Association, southeast of Strevell. The association started out with 13 owners in 1965 and today has nine, including Robert Williams, Earl Patterson, Glen Jensen and Orvil Morrill, all directors; George Johnson, Robert Frances, Clyde Wardle, Burk Scholer and Jay Garrett. There is a total of 6,000 acres with 1,000 acres in Idaho and the rest in Utah.

The owners have put in 27 miles of fence, 13 different pastures, installed water pipe and water tanks, run about 600 head of cattle, cow calf operation and average about seven months of grazing.

They have chanced 800 acres and sprayed 800 acres and all has been re-seeded making about 4,500 acres in seeded grassland and 500 acres of wheat. A buffet luncheon was served courtesy of Federal Land Bank and Production Credit Association, both Burley, at the Arclic Circle Cafe, Oakley.

The third candidate's place the group visited was the Merrill Warr ranch, southwest of Oakley. Warr has a base on 5,000 acres of Bureau of Land Management land and 3,000 acres have been seeded to grass.

He has 150 cow-calf operation and owns 350 acres which is also seeded to grass. Four months of each year the cattle must be kept on Warr's privately owned property, according to rules of the BLM.

The last candidate's place to be visited was Robert Robinson, north of Oakley; Robinson has 210 acres of irrigated pasture and 600 cows. He also has several acres of row crops. During the summer months the cows and calves are moved to the forest reserve range in the mountains. A sprinkler irrigation system is used on the pasture. The cattle were being moved to the mountain Thursday.

The Cassia County Grassman Committee includes Ken Rosencranz, Oakley, chairman; Glen Jensen, Burley, vice chairman and J. Wayne Cole, Burley, secretary. The grassman winner is selected on a point system, according to the officers of the committee.

Trade rises

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Trade with Japan handled by the ports of the San Francisco Customs District continues to rise, according to a statistical report by the United States Japan Trade Council.

In 1970, exports to Japan expressed in San Francisco totaled $701.9 million, up 3 per cent over 1969. Imports from Japan were $428 million, up 9 per cent over the year before.

School

TWIN FALLS — Bible school will be held at the Community Grange Hall south of Twin Falls Monday through July 16, sponsored by the Pitter Menonite church.

CAP program told to Rupert meet

RUPERT — George Falkner, Idaho Wing Commander of the Civil Air Patrol, was in charge of the program at the Thursday luncheon of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

Special guests were Maj. Ken Conder and Sgt. Tom Jarrett. Maj. Conder told of the office at the Twin Falls airport which the CAP maintains. He also reported the personnel in the Twin Falls office assists the national commander and acts as advisers to the Idaho CAP Wing.

He stressed the CAP is a volunteer group and its main goals are search and rescue, civil defense, training program and cadet program.

Sgt. Jarrett narrated a slide presentation which gave the history of the Civil Air Patrol. The CAP is an auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force. It was founded Dec. 1, 1941, and was called upon after Pearl Harbor to assist in civil defense and some 24 million miles were flown.

When the CAP is called into a search and rescue they are reimbursed for the fuel expense, Sgt. Jarrett said.

Boys and girls ages 13 through 18 may enter the cadet program. Headquarters are located at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

Idaho is in the Rocky Mountain Region of the CAP and 70 per cent of all missions are directed from Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif.

The CAP has radio communications that can cover the state of Idaho. In any state emergency the CAP, if notified, can help with state and national communications, for they have a contract with the Air Force and state-wide CAP. The radios owned by the CAP are portable and can be moved to where they are needed.

Aerospace education included workshops at the colleges and universities and special agency classes in high schools. Presently there are 13 high schools in the state offering the class.

In the Burley-Rupert area there are some 60 boys and girls taking part in cadet training which includes leadership training, physical fitness, orientation and summer encampments. A summer encampment just recently completed at Mountain Home had some 40 cadets from throughout Idaho attending.

There is a scholarship fund to assist in finances for the cadets.

The CAP sponsors an Air Cadet Exchange and 29 countries take part in this program. This month 16 exchange cadets from eastern Asia will be arriving in the Rocky Mountain Region.

Senior CAP members also have a continuing program of training and they serve as adult escorts for the youth.

Funds come from the dues of the members; there are no federal funds, and Idaho has no funds for the program. However, Alaska and Colorado both have state funds which assist the CAP program.

The chamber members voted to discontinue their luncheons for the first two weeks in August, and then resume regular meetings.

Cassia man to provide sound

NAMPA — A new sound distribution system has been installed for the 66th Annual Snake River Stampede in Nampa July 12-17, according to Bob Brown, chairman of the sound and lighting committee.

Al Gardner, Burley, who has supplied the sound system for the Stampede for a number of years, has installed a "180 degree" system, placing the latest speaker equipment at strategic points completely around the arena and spectator area. In the past, the sound for the rodeo was through a battery of "horns" located above the backing chute and announcer's stand.

Unless the sound was undisturbed perfectly, some spectators had a hard time hearing the announcer and entertainment. With the new system, the entire arena will be provided with adequate sound, according to Brown.

He said, "The announcer, providing the necessary commentary for full enjoyment of any rodeo event, will be Cy Tallon. The veteran of hundreds of rodeos, including the National Finals for several years in a row, Tallon will rattle off a mountain of information about each cowboy who took to the competing with and standings in national competition without the use of script or "canned" background information.

"With the combination of Gardner and Tallon, Stampede spectators will be well informed through the five nights of the Stampede, July 12-17."

Crestview stitchers have demonstration

PAUL — The Crestview Mini-Stitchers are meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert Webster.

The group included a business meeting and a sewing demonstration. It was announced today.

The members have been working on a skirt and Mrs. Webster demonstrated to the members the proper way to hem their skirt. The members are finishing hemming their skirts and are to have them completed by the next meeting.

Mrs. Webster showed the girls how to put the elastic in the band of the skirt.

Each of the members gave a short talk and demonstration on their skirt.

The group will meet at 1:30 p.m. July 13 at home of Mrs. Webster.

Workers meet with governor

BOISE (UPI) — A group of Canyon County farmworkers called "Campesinos Unidos... Not with Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Thursday to outline its opposition to a law that outlaws the farmworkers' right to picket.

Jim Sanchez, spokesman for the group, said the farmworkers believe the law is "doubtful constitutionally" and said the group will "picket" later this month in an effort to produce a court test of the law.

Gov. Andrus outlined what the state is doing to improve the lot of the farmworker after having invited the group into his office for an unscheduled meeting.

Campesinos Unidos said they had first intended to picket a farm near Nampa today but decided instead to bring their views before the governor.

The group had spent two hours on stachouse lawns before being invited into the governor's office.

Sanchez said they also hope to persuade Oregon Gov. Tom McCall from signing into law a bill similar to the Idaho one enacted by the last session of the legislature.

The group contends the Idaho law restrains the right of farmworkers to engage in picketing for better working conditions and contains provisions that constitute unfair hiring and labor practices by employers.

Law enforcement won't be pushed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal officials said they have decided not to strictly enforce for the time being a new regulation governing the amount of exposure that miners can receive while working in uranium mines.

The new regulation, which went into effect Thursday, cuts the acceptable radiation level in uranium mines to a third of what it previously had been.

A number of mine operators warned that the new restrictions could lead to the shutdown of their businesses. In Colorado, some officials said they doubted whether any of the mines could meet the strict new requirements.

Colorado is the third leading state in the nation in terms of uranium production.

The regulations, which Colorado Bureau of Mines officials said only a few mine operators can reach, were set by the Environmental Protection Agency and will be enforced by the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

In Colorado, under an agreement, the state agency will enforce the rules.

The exposure limit they set is expressed in "working level months" (WLM), a complicated unit involving the level of radon in a mine and the amount of time a person works there.

Radon is a radioactive byproduct of uranium.

The present safety level is 12 WLM measured over a year-long period. The new regulation is 4 WLM.

William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the EPA, said the new rule is needed because an "abnormally high" rate of lung cancer deaths among uranium miners had been blamed on inhalation of radon and radon "daughters" or variations produced by decaying radon.

Tom High, a State Bureau of Mines Inspector in Grand Junction, Colo., said he thought only a few of the 95 uranium mines in Colorado would meet the standard.

WORKMEN using scoop shovels try to salvage this 25,000 bushels of wheat spilled when the side of the Plevaa, Kap., Co-op elevator burst under the weight of the newly harvested grain. ## Hay, fruit harvest delayed

BOISE (UPI) — A government report released Wednesday said hay and fruit harvesting in Idaho were disrupted late last week as rains fell in the northern and southwestern portions of the State. The U.S. Department of Commerce and U.S. Department of Agriculture reported that about 90 per cent of the first cutting of alfalfa has been completed in the Treasure and Magic Valleys, while in other parts of the state about 15 per cent of the crop had been harvested. The report said most crops responded well to warm weather early in the week and the weekend rains were generally beneficial to forage and most field crops. But the report said those with sweet cherry crops had expressed concern over rain damage, which in some instances caused splitting of the fruit.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market was lower in light turnover around mid-session Friday.

Many traders and investors made an early get away from the city to beat the holiday crush expected later in the day, and apparently missed the government report of a drop in the June unemployment rate which was released before the opening of trading on Wall Street.

The government reported that unemployment dropped in June to 6.9 per cent, the lowest in 15 months, from 6.9 per cent in May. However, the Labor Department cautioned the decline may have stemmed from seasonal adjustment procedures.

Labor Secretary James Hodgson said the unemployment report "obviously reflects an improvement." He noted "month to month variations will not doubt occur—but we believe a continuation of the downward trend can be anticipated over the coming year."

Among the stocks on the most-active list were RCA Down's Reynolds Metals of 45 Chase Manhattan up 1/4, and FMC Corp. unchanged. Steels and motors generally lost fractions. Among the polished losers were Polaroid down 2%, and Bausch & Lomb 1. Superior Oil, however, gained 2.

Draft renewal now uncertain

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Now that the draft law has expired, the prospects of Congress renewing it are highly uncertain, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said Thursday.

Before President Nixon's authority to induct new into the service can be renewed, Stennis added, there will have to be compromise on all sides—including the White House—in the end-of-war dispute which caused the draft extension stalemate.

The draft expired at 12:01 a.m. EDT Thursday, even though both Houses of Congress had passed legislation to renew it for two years. Negotiations were unable to reach agreement on a Senate-passed amendment calling for a national policy that would get the United States out of Indochina nine months after the law became effective, provided that Hanoi released its American prisoners.

"The executive branch has made it clear that it is totally opposed to any such withdrawal, and the result is a triple-headed deadlock on the amendment," Stennis said Thursday.

"I am convinced, as I have often stated, that the draft law must be continued, but it is evident that there will have to be some give on all sides," he added.

I have high hopes that the deadlock can be resolved when the conference committee resumes its sessions.

"A realistic appraisal suggests, however, that the future of the draft is uncertain," Stennis said.

Failure to renew the President's draft authority would force the administration to begin moving faster than planned toward an all-volunteer army. The Pentagon has said no plan would be felt for several weeks, provided volunteer enlistments remained at high levels.

The stalled draft-extension legislation contains substantial pay raises designed to attract more volunteers and gradually eliminate the need for a draft over the next two years.

Draft boards across the country meanwhile have halted all inductions but are continuing their other preinduction functions.

"This will include, but be limited to, registration, classification and pre-induction physical examinations," said Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr.

"The data for the lottery to determine the priority of call for those registrants available in 1972 will be announced following passage of legislation to extend induction authority."

Contempt vote 2 weeks away

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., says it probably will be 10 days to two weeks before the House votes on his Commerce Committee's recommendation that CBS President Frank Stanton and the network be cited for contempt of Congress.

The committee, in a pre-draft meeting July 1 to 13 Thursday, asked the House to press contempt charges because of Stanton's refusal to turn over to Congress film used to produce a CBS news documentary on the Pentagon's public relations activities.

"It was the first time in history the Commerce Committee has voted a contempt citation for a television network, and House historians say they cannot find a case at least in modern times in which the House has held a newsman in contempt.

"In approved by the House, the Justice Department could prosecute Stanton and CBS. Conviction would result in a fine up to $1,000 and one year in jail.

At a news conference following the vote, Staggers held open the possibility he would drop the charges if CBS would provide the unused film called while labor productivity rose outtakes—from which CBS produced "The Selling of the Pentagon."

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

My sister and I, both senior citizens, would like to increase our income. Would you review our enclosed portfolio? Since our stock was inherited we do not know the original cost on shares and if we sell how will we know if it is a capital gain? What do you think of mortgage loans? — C.L.

The cost basis of your inherited shares is the value they were reported at by the estate for federal estate tax purposes or state inheritance taxes if no federal return was required.

Among your 18 holdings are five which return a total $350 annually on a capital value of $17,600, for a 2 per cent yield. Therefore, I suggest selling Celanese, Cudahy, International Telephone, RCA and Sun Oil.

Although the investment trust group is relatively new — the two oldest companies being formed in 1901 — many mortgage trusts are affiliated with well-known banks and insurance companies. Trusts invest in long-term mortgages and short-term construction loans, profiting from the spread between their costs for capital and the interest they charge for loans. If the trust invests heavily in short-term construction and development loans the interest return as well as the risk is greater. However, this type of portfolio coupled with a large portion of capitalization in the form of low cost convertible debt can produce a spread of 4 points or more between costs and return. The group has expanded from the original two companies to about 100 at present, which has sharply increased competition for desirable investments. Recently the traditional sources of mortgage money, banks and insurance companies, have returned to the field in force and compounded the competition problem.

In your situation the more conservative long-term trusts, such as Connecticut General Mortgage and Realty of MONTY Mortgage would be advisable. A 100-share commitment in each with the remaining cash invested in IAM Pacific Gas & Electric Co. of 2003 should return about $1,290 per annum or more than 7 per cent.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some investors decided to sell when the market fell through the 900 level on the Dow Jones Industrial average and their pessimism increased with the announcement mutual fund redemptions rose over purchases in May, Wall Street Co., Inc. believes. The company argues, however, that "one month's wiggle in the figures does not necessarily create a trend." Wall Street remains optimistic and feels "sometime this summer there will be excellent buying opportunities."

"There is little to suggest a sharp acceleration in the rate of inflation over the near term," Argus Research Corp. says. The company predicts a significant fall-off in bond offerings during the summer and that the Federal Reserve will work to slow money stock growth—but not enough to jeopardize the economic recovery. "Thus the odds for a bond rally look reasonably good," Argus says.

The bull market has entered a second phase, E.F. Hutton & Co. believes. The company says it will not be as steep or as broad as the first stage and will be characterized by diverse group action. "The picture is one of a still continuing bull market."

simple matter for George to play ace and another diamond to ruff high. Then a club to the king and another diamond ruff. But it's diamond's last three diamonds. Two more trump leads. George and West's trumps and George was able to discard three of his hearts. He had to give West the last trick but he scored game and rubber.

George had been about as generous as a man giving too to an Eskimo in mid-winter. If he had won the first trick, he would have had no way to keep East from getting in with a diamond. Then it had had had a heart, his partner would cash two heart tricks and save the rubber.

Oh, yes, George's play has a name. It's called an avoidance play. It avoids letting the dangerous hand get the lead.

First Gen wine sales steady

By United Press International—Retail sales of bottled wine ranged from brisk to slow but steady today, the first day such sales are allowed by Idaho state law.

Only 23 of Idaho's 44 counties authorized the sales, approved by the regular session of the 1971 legislature on the "local option basis."

In Boise, checks with a Safeway and a Grand Central store reported sales were moving steadily.

A spokesman at a Safeway store said most of the purchasers of the first legal bottles were very quiet about the matter, adding, "They just take it and leave."

A spokesman for a Grand Central store said within a few hours of opening 60 bottles had been sold, with heavy sales anticipated for the day. The store stocked about 120 different kinds of wine.

In Caldwell, one store—Beem's food center—may have been the only store in the state making the sales without a city license.

Tom Spado, assistant manager at the Sandpoint IGA Market, said he bought the first two bottles and his brother in law the next two "so sales are moving right along."

In Lewiston, one Safeway manager said the sales were "nothing spectacular, there was no waiting line when we opened," while in Orofino stores reported fairly slow sales.

Minners pulled in Northern Idaho indicated there were two reasons they felt there would be increased sales in retail outlets for the wines.

The first cited was that the state's liquor stores do not open until noon each day, and the second was the requirement that purchasers in liquor stores have to sign for their purchases, indicating the requirement from inconvenience.

Stores in Nampa indicated there was no rush at the counters, although people seemed to be looking at the wines as an item of interest.

Police oust squatters

CHICAGO (UPI) — Riot-equipped Chicago policemen and Chicago Park District employees routed a group of Indians Thursday from an abandoned Nike missile site along the shores of Lake Michigan.

Before the 90-minute battle ended, three policemen and one park employee were injured. Twelve Indians, including one woman, were arrested and 100 others left.

The Indians had taken over the abandoned site June 14, vowing to die rather than give up the land. A fire destroyed their previous home, an abandoned three-story apartment building.

The incident began when Park District personnel, accompanied by police, tried to remove fencing from around the base. As they reached for the barbed wire and cyclone fence, Indians threw them out with clubs and baseball bats.

Additional police were called. About 100 police, a fire department pumper and other equipment, including two helicopters and canine squads, responded.

The Indians, meanwhile, had gathered rocks, bottles, debris and several Molotov cocktails in preparation for the defense of the site.

More than 20 efforts to cut the fence by park officials were beaten back by the Indians, who threw rocks and bottles and tossed buckets of water on the torches used by park officials.

Several fire bombs thrown by the Indians started a number of small fires. A boat in the harbor adjoining the site was destroyed. It was valued at $10,000.

Thomas Barry, superintendent of the Park District, said the dawn operation was one of several scheduled for Thursday at various missile sites now vacant. "This is a preliminary step to taking over the land. You have to do it one way or another," he said.

Barry said authorization to begin ripping down the fences came from the federal government on Wednesday.

After the incident, the Indians marched back miles to the Fourth Presbyterian Church on Michigan Avenue near downtown where they set up headquarters.

"They took us completely by surprise," Michael Chosa, the group's leader said.

Chosa charged that police beat Indians with clubs and "stomped" one Indian girl.

Moss attacks bureau action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, has charged the department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) with "bureaucratic mismanagement and non-management" in handling of the Poison Prevention Packaging Act and the Toy Safety Act.

Moss, chairman of the Senate Consumer Subcommittee, said in a Senate statement, unless HEW changes its priorities he will seek to strip the department of authority over the two acts at hearings July 10 on legislation to create a consumer product safety agency.

Moss, who sponsored both acts, said the bills were passed six months ago and both houses agreed to language requiring special packaging for certain types of household substances which would be dangerous in the hands of small children.

He said it took HEW five months to appoint the Technical Advisory Committee called for in the legislation.

The Advisory Committee met once on May 13, when they decided on standards for liquid drain cleaner packages.

Gem rate hearing booked

BOISE (UPI) — A prehearing conference will be conducted Aug. 4, on a Utah Power and Light Co. application requesting increase its rates and charges for service in Idaho.

The Idaho Public Utilities Commission said the prehearing conference will be to set hearing dates for the cross examination of Utah Power and Light Company witnesses, hearing dates for presentation of evidence by intervenors and cross-examination of intervenors' witnesses.

The PUC added the hearings will be held in the geographical areas of the state of Idaho that will be affected by the proposed increases in rates so parties in those areas have an opportunity to present their views and comments to the commission.

Parties desiring to formally intervene in the matter should file with the PUC a petition to intervene on or before July 19, 1971, and serve a copy on the attorneys of record for Utah Power and Light Co.

Ice skate champions open revue

SUN VALLEY (UPI) — Skating champions Judy Schwomeyer and Jim Sladky will be guest stars at the opening of the 1971 Ice Revue at Sun Valley which will begin after a fireworks display Saturday evening.

The Saturday show will be the first of a weekly series that will continue through Aug. 21 under the sponsorship of the Sun Valley Figure Skating Club.

Miss Schwomeyer, 20, and Sladky, 24, have been competing as a team in figure skating since 1968. They have held the U. S. Ice dance championship for the past four years and this year added the North American title and a world bronze medal to their honors.

Experts think craft failed

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Two bio-space experts at the University of Colorado think the three Soviet cosmonauts who died on their return to earth Wednesday probably were victims of a mechanical failure in their spacecraft.

The cosmonauts, who spent nearly 24 days in flight, were discovered dead after their spacecraft soft-landed in Soviet Central Asia.

Dr. Igor Gannow and Dr. Adolf Busemann said there probably was a failure in the spacecraft's life support system.

"If one or two men had died, then you might suspect that it (the flight's duration) did it," Busemann said Wednesday. "But not all three."

"We can only speculate—and indeed the Russians may never tell us what happened. But they could have lost pressure or oxygen. Otherwise, I don't think death would have been simultaneous for all three."

Gannow agreed that the effects of weightlessness were not likely to be fatal.

"It has to be an uneducated opinion on my part, but I doubt it," Gannow said. "Lack of oxygen or increased heat would do it. But I would be terribly surprised if anyone thought the weightlessness did it."

"My guess would be a failure in the life support system. The whole craft was automated—it landed properly with three dead occupants. The craft has to be horrendously complex and one little failure anywhere along the life support system, would do it."

Gannow said the accident emphasized the need for the United States and the Soviet Union to exchange space information.

"The earth is too small to have everyone thinking their own thing," he said.

CAROL LEIGH Featured with "BIG" TINY LITTLE

"FAT POWER" and "BIG TINY LITTLE"

Born in Worthington, Minn., Tiny was quite young when he began touring with his father, Tiny Little (Sr.). Thus known by his real name, Dudley Little, he accompanied his father's territorial dance band throughout the midwest and Canada. When he was seven he was taking piano lessons. By the time the upcoming musician had graduated from high school he had a choice of four scholarships in music and one in football at North Texas State, but chose to attend Midwestern University in Wichita Falls, Texas to continue his music career. In 1950 Tiny returned to Worthington to attend Worthington College. He then enlisted in the Air Force including a hitch overseas. In his off hours, Tiny and his assembled band played at Pigeon's Clubs and while in Japan organized an all-Japanese jazz band, one of the first there. They played concert matter extra appearances and were quite a success in the Far East. Tiny was discharged on February 13, 1954.

In 1967 after taking his degree from the Lawrence Welk TV show, Tiny got his first major club booking at Harrah's Tahoos, with a musical quintet and girl vocalist. Tiny was playing one morning and the room was quiet. Nat Cole came in by himself and listened to Tiny for 45 minutes. When Tiny finished his set, Nat came over and highly complimented Tiny and then the pair talked for over an hour. Nat gave Tiny some hard earned professional tips and it resulted in a tremendous boost for Tiny who, to this day, credits much of his nightclub know-how to that friendly visit by Cole — along with his invaluable experience with the Welk band.
