

Powwow set for Viet war

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser, arrived here today from Paris for what is expected to be a major review of Vietnam policy.

Kissinger was taciturn but smiling when queried about his 12-day, round-the-world trip that took him to Vietnam, Thailand, India and Pakistan.

When asked about the probable departure of the chief American negotiator at the peace talks in Paris, Kissinger smiled and said, "nobody tells me anything."

Kissinger flew by helicopter from nearby El Toro Marine Air Station to the Western White House for conferences with Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

There has been no formal comment on the seven-point peace package offered by the Viet Cong last July 1 by the President, but the White House said it continues to be interested in "serious negotiations."

"We continue to probe the other side to determine their sincerity," Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler told newsmen. While in Paris, Kissinger apparently confined his talks to U.S. peace negotiator David K. E. Bruce and his aides, ignoring Communist overtures to meet him.

Ziegler said all along there were "no plans" for Kissinger to confer with North Vietnam's special advisor, Le Duc Tho.

"Since Le Duc Tho indicated he had an interest in meeting with Kissinger, why hasn't the opportunity been taken," a reporter inquired.

"I won't address that," said Ziegler. "I would only say we have been interested in serious negotiations. We have put a number of proposals on the table."

Donors set mark for replacement

TWIN FALLS — A flood of blood donors offering replacement pints for hospitalized persons brought one of the highest donations on record Monday, with 200 pints recorded, including 138 pledged for replacement.

The replacement pledges were the highest on record for a Twin Falls blood-drawing, according to Robert King, blood chairman for the American Red Cross.

A total of 217 persons signed up to donate blood, but some could not wait as lines lengthened throughout the day. Only five were turned away for medical reasons, King said.

The quota of 150 was topped by a husky 50 pints, the most since a blood-drawing at the College of Southern Idaho brought an equally heartening response last year.

New U.S. spokesmen

WHITE HOUSE sources said U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce, top, may soon be leaving his post as the chief American negotiator at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris and may be replaced by William J. Porter, bottom, currently ambassador to South Korea. (UPI)

Hospital OKs office changes

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital board members took steps Monday night which they hope will correct business office operating deficiencies.

County commissioners attending the public meeting concurred in the action, adopted unanimously by board members present.

Three of four recommendations of the executive committee of the hospital board were approved during the meeting conducted by Bill Wiseman, Hansen, Board Chairman S.H. Graves opened the meeting and excused himself because of out of state guests, turning the meeting over to Wiseman.

One recommendation adopted Monday night calls for immediate procurement of the assistance of a professional system analyst to help revise the hospital accounting system and business office operation to remedy existing business office operating deficiencies.

Another recommendation calls for hiring a trained and experienced hospital controller or business manager. Members asked the administration to work with the assistance of Fred Decker, Twin Falls attorney and accountant to locate the specialist.

A third recommendation was delayed pending progress on the first two. This called for consideration of the hiring of another firm of certified public accountants to conduct the hospital's annual audit for 1972. Ernst and Ernst, Boise, presently conducts the annual audit of the hospital. Discussion was held on awarding the work to a local firm if one could be found with knowledge of hospital accounting procedure.

Also approved was a recommendation to speed up board meetings by sending advanced copies of previous meeting minutes, financial reports and other time consuming material to board members prior to meetings.

Irene Oliver, administrator, was asked to follow this procedure in the future. Recommendations followed a critical letter sent the hospital board last month by the Twin Falls County Commissioners in which the board called for immediate action to correct a deplorable condition that existed in the administration of the business office of the hospital.

County Commission Chairman W. L. (Bill) Chancey and Commissioner Merl E. Leonard both expressed satisfaction with the hospital board action Monday night. They attended the full four-hour meeting. Commissioner Heber Loughmiller was called from the meeting before recommendations were discussed.

Executive committee members including Graves, Joe Savage, Bill Wiseman, Clarence Hofffield and Bob Brackett met June 30 to draft the four recommendations presented to the full board Monday.

County officials called for some action on behalf of the hospital following the alleged embezzlement of $18,000. A former employee, arrested and charged with the embezzlement, is awaiting district court trial.

Representatives of the Burroughs Office Machine Co. met with the board to report on an "in depth" study they are making of the $35,000 computer machine the hospital purchased about three years ago. Board members said the machine is not functioning properly and asked if company representatives feel it is inadequate to meet the demands of the hospital accounting system.

Glenn Anderson, Pocatello, Burroughs official, said when the study is completed in about two weeks, he will be able to answer this question. He also explained the constant change in computer equipment and systems, saying such machines are frequently outmoded within five years because of the rapidly changing field of electronic computing.

Several other hospital problems were aired, including the nursing shortage. Ralph Assendrup, board member, said he had received reports the hospital's intensive care wing was closed and doctors requesting patients to be given treatment in this department were denied the services by the hospital.

Mrs. Oliver said the department is closed and was also closed last summer. "We did not close the department," she said. "It closed 19 days ago when the last patient requiring such services was dismissed."

She also said because of vacation time and the difficulty in obtaining registered nurses, it is the feeling of the administrators who in critical condition hold priority for nursing services. "It is necessary, she said, to take registered or licensed practical nurses from other duty to staff the intensive care unit when it is in operation."

Woody Pierce, board member, suggested the hospital look into adjusting the salary scale for nurses.

Dr. B. N. Carle, chief of the hospital medical staff, said he felt a continuing education program is more important to the hospital and the nursing staff than salary increases. He said many employees have become discouraged and are leaving because they feel they are not keeping up with new developments in their particular fields. He said they also need higher salaries and other workers' benefits but training programs are most vital.

In other business, the board approved Dr. John J. Jesteadt as a member of the medical staff. He is a radiologist. Changes in the medical staff rules on "due process" were also approved. This regulation gives a doctor who faces revocation of hospital privileges a series of hearing opportunities.

TF hospital management questioned

By RICHARD G. HIGH Times-News Managing Editor

TWIN FALLS — The three Twin Falls County commissioners, speaking Monday separately and for quotation, said they have a "lack of confidence" in the overall administration of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Their statements moved far beyond their earlier expressions of displeasure at the operation of the hospital business office in which an $18,000 alleged embezzlement was discovered this year.

Statements of "no confidence" were made by Chairman William Chancey and commissioners Merl Leonard and Heber Loughmiller. No formal board action was taken to reflect their consensus.

The commissioners were reluctant to say who they held responsible. But they made clear that much of their displeasure falls on hospital administrator Irene Oliver.

The commissioners outlined several areas of what they consider poor administration. "First," they said, "is 'misallocation' of hospital space. According to Leonard, too much space has been set aside for 'non-medical' areas such as lounges and conference rooms, while at the same time, some areas of patient care have been short of space.

Leonard said that on Sunday and Monday several persons were denied access to the hospital's intensive care facilities because of inadequate space.

One man had a heart attack, he said, and another person had a severe attack of asthma. The intensive care facility could use space now used for lounges, he said.

Leonard said there is a "problem of communication" within the hospital between the administrator and her staff. He said one result was "lack of harmony" with the result that "Mrs. Oliver is not getting the desired effects from subordinates."

Leonard said the administrator "will try to do it all herself. The operation has outgrown one person's ability. 'Maybe she tried to assume too much of the burden ...' he said.

According to Leonard, Mrs. Oliver has failed both to delegate responsibility and to demand performance. Once responsibility was delegated, each commissioner said his criticisms reflected his desire to improve the hospital and not personal animosity.

Loughmiller said one important problem at the hospital is diversion of too much money into a "stash fund" for capital improvements at the expense of hospital salaries.

"The hospital should pay enough to get qualified people — instead of banking so much money," he said.

Tractor fatality reported

BUHL — County officers were investigating a farm accident death at the Bell Rapids project northwest of here this morning, reportedly involving a child who was run over by a tractor.

Sheriff's officers said they had no information on the victim at 11 a.m. and officers were still at the project. The accident occurred on the May ranch on the new farm development, they said.

Albertson Dickard Funeral Home in Buhl reported they were advised Coroner Clayce Edwards was en route to their funeral home with the child's body. Sheriff Paul Cordor and Deputy Sheriff T. M. Kendrick, and Buhl police were investigating the death.

CBS contempt move readied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers said he would ask the House of Representatives to cite CBS for contempt of Congress today, despite indications the unprecedented move might be headed for defeat.

Staggers was told Monday that advance nose counts indicated the attempt to cite CBS and its president, Frank Stanton, was in danger but he rejected the assessment saying

"we are a good little bit ahead" as far as House support went. He planned to call up the issue shortly after the House convened today.

The white-haired former school teacher, who after 12 terms in the House is one of its most powerful members, contended CBS "altered film and sound ... to deceive the public" in its award-winning documentary "The Selling of the Pentagon."

Phone strike nears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Joseph A. Belrne, president of the Communications Workers of America (CWA), said today it was unlikely a nationwide telephone strike set for 6 a.m. EDT Wednesday could be avoided.

Affected would be 600,000 workers in thousands of communities. The phone company planned to use managers and supervisory personnel to keep phone service going, and even the union conceded the effect of the strike would be minimal at first.

Belrne said the Bell system and the union contract proposals were very close in terms of overall benefits, but "the question is how that money is to be spent."

Blaine's power out

SUN VALLEY — An underground power cable was cut for an undetermined reason this morning, cutting electrical power for the Sun Valley and Ketchum area.

The Idaho Power Co. office in Ketchum said all officials were "on their way north" to check into the difficulty, and details were scanty.

The Sun Valley switchboard diverted incoming calls, saying the lack of power hindered ringing of extensions.

By WARREN GOSSETT Times-News Writer

SUN VALLEY — The controversial revenue-sharing proposal is expected to be a major item of discussion when the nation's lieutenant governors meet in Sun Valley this week.

Idaho Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy, host of the 10th Annual National Conference of Lieutenant Governors, which opens on Wednesday, said Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., will highlight the four-day event with a discussion of revenue sharing as proposed by President Nixon.

Mills will address the conferees Friday morning in the lodge dining room. He may present a major part of the costs of state welfare programs by the federal government, Murphy said.

In Sun Valley today to make final plans for the four-day meeting, Murphy said lieutenant governors will begin arriving Wednesday for a get-acquainted session and informal activities.

Business sessions open at 9 a.m. Thursday in the Sun Valley Lodge following a breakfast meeting of the resolutions committee.

Gov. Warren Hearnes-of-Missouri will speak Thursday on current issues facing the states. He is expected to report on financing and environmental problems, Murphy said.

Later in the day the states number-two administrative officials will meet for a golf tournament on the Sun Valley Golf Course and will end the day with a hayride and barbecue at Trail Creek.

Morocco rebels executed

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — Ten officers arrested as ringleaders of Saturday's unsuccessful coup against King Hassan II were executed today by a firing squad and official sources said some of them shouted, "Long live the King! Long live Hassan," before they died.

It was announced officially that the officers — four generals, five colonels and a major — were executed at 12:15 p.m. (7:15 a.m. EDT).

Official sources said that just before the handcuffed men were led to the execution stakes, their officers' epaulettes were torn from their uniforms.

The sources said that just before the officers were shot, some of them shouted, "Long live the King! Long live Hassan!"

Whether this was to protest their innocence, or proclaim that they were basically loyal to the king despite their attempt to overthrow his government, was not known. Executions frequently have been marked by shouts of loyalty or defiance.

The officers were shot dead on the sun-scorched training field at Camp Moulay-Ismael, where Hassan headed funeral services Monday for 21 loyal officers and noncoms killed during the coup attempt Saturday. They were brought to the camp in dust-covered army trucks.

They were spaced in a single line at 10-yard intervals. Ten platoons of soldiers executed them at the command "fire!"

After they fell, serried ranks of Moroccan army, air force and navy men ran forward and spat in contempt on the corpses hanging limply from the execution posts.

The four generals executed included General Mustapha, director of military schools for the 76,000-man royal army, General Bugrine, commander of the Taza-Fes-East Moroccan military region, General Hamou, commander of the Rabat-Kenitra military region and General Habibi.

Buffalo kills

Yellowstone National Park, Wyo. (UPI) — Yellowstone National Park officials reported today that Marvin Stacey Schradler, 30, Spokane, Wash., was fatally injured Monday evening when he was charged by a buffalo.

The incident occurred at 8:25 p.m. on the Fountain Flats drive approximately six miles north of Old Faithful.

Park officials said Schradler was sightseeing with his wife and three children when they saw the buffalo lying in a meadow.

The family was taking pictures of the lion, and according to park officials, Schradler was standing only a few feet away when the huge animal charged.

Teen vote to benefit

Demos, governors say

JACKSON HOLE, Wyo. (UPI) — Western governors generally agreed Monday the 18- to 20-year-old vote will benefit Democrats, but not in landslide proportions.

President Nixon faces serious difficulty in wooing 18-year-old voters. "The Republicans will lose in droves among the 18-year-olds. There is a revolution against the President's interest among them," McCall told reporters. He added that Rep. Paul M.

McCloskey, R., Calif., would "draw heavily" in an Oregon primary against Nixon. Gov. Calvin L. Hampton, Utah's Democratic chief executive, said, "I'm sure the registration among young people is going two-to-one Democratic and I would think this would have some adverse effect on Nixon's chances for re-election."

Opponent governors of both parties were less certain of a Democratic windfall when 18-year-olds vote next year in a presidential election for the first time. "I don't know how it will affect Nixon," said Democratic Gov. Mike O'Callaghan of Nevada, "but I think overall the youth vote will go more Democratic because our state goes that way."

Reagan-McCall meeting looms

JACKSON HOLE, Wyo. (UPI) — California Gov. Ronald Reagan, backed by the White House in his feud with Gov. Tom McCall, planned to fly here tonight and confront the Oregonian about charges he is holding President Nixon as a political "hostage."

The conservative California governor, who unsuccessfully contested Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination in 1968, emphasized "I'm pledged to the renomination and the re-election of the President. I think he should be President for a second term."

Idaho warrant names suspects

FARMINGTON, Utah (UPI) — Two men accused of killing a Davis County sheriff's deputy have been charged with armed robbery and assault with intent to commit murder in California and Idaho warrants.

The suspects, Daniel Ray Weddle, 27, and Ronald Allan May 21, are being held in the Davis County Jail in connection with the shooting death May 14 of Donald P. Jensen, Yuba City, Calif., who has charged the pair with the May 12 robbery of a market in which $180 was taken. The pair allegedly assaulted a woman clerk and shot the store owner before fleeing.

Strike cleared

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Court of Appeals today refused to block a strike by the United Transportation Union against the Chicago & North Western Railroad, threatened for Friday.

The C&NW is one of three railroads the UTU has served notice to strike as part of the union's campaign to get a national settlement with the railroads on the work rules issue. The others are the Southern Railway system and the Union Pacific.

The Supreme Court in effect upheld last month a federal court ruling that the union could strike individual railroads as long as such action was part of efforts to obtain a national agreement.

Underwriter cuts off school fire insurance

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls School District No. 411 has been "dumped" by its underwriter, Continental Insurance, which is apparently cancelling all school coverage in the state, trustees were told Monday during the July board meeting.

Continental cancelled all fire insurance on all buildings in the district at the end of the fiscal year, Supt. George Staudaher said. Insurance has been obtained through a binder with Fireman's Fund, but the district will have to pay at least $3,000 to $5,000 per year more for the insurance, according to J.T. Anderson, board clerk.

School insurance is becoming increasingly hard to obtain due to the rising rate of school fires, not only from accidental causes but also from repeated cases of arson and rioting throughout the nation, Anderson said. Four schools have burned in Idaho over the past few years, raising the risk to the insurers beyond their actuarial limits.

Financial problems plagued the trustees throughout their meeting, as costs of supplies, including coal; repairs, including paving, and personnel, including faculty salaries continue to climb beyond predictions.

Only one bid was received in each of two bid calls. McCoy Coal and Transfer of Twin Falls was the sole bidder to provide 1,500 tons of stoker coal for heating school buildings at $19 per ton. The price represents an increase of $2.80 per ton over the 1970 offer, Anderson said.

McCoy Coal told him the increase includes a boost of $1.75 to the company from the mine, 75 cents in freight and a 20 percent increase in yard charges.

McCoy's bid also adds the "customary" 25-cent-per-load weighing charge, which is the usual charge, Anderson said.

Boyer Paving of Twin Falls was the only bidder for a repaving and pavement repairing project at Morningstar and Harrison elementary schools and Twin Falls High School, at a total price of $9,595.50.

Trustees approved both bids, feeling that a readvertisement would only delay completion of the work.

Boyer will be given 30 days for completion of the work, according to the contract.

Dale Riedesel of the engineering firm of Riedesel and Straubhar discussed the problem of repairing the badly broken access road at the east end of the high school, and an earlier suggestion that the city might extend Madrona Street through from Filer, to Stadium Boulevard northeast of the school.

The extension could cost as much as $24,000, Riedesel said, if the work were completed by the district or private contractors. If the city were to do the work with city crews, the cost could be reduced "by 10 or 20 percent."

Riedesel outlined several repair projects for the access road, including total replacement, removal of the broken sections and repaving of the road, or repaving without removal of the bad areas. The latter would only be a temporary repair, however, as the ground water would damage the new paving, Riedesel said.

In other business, Staudaher said the Idaho Highway Department has requested a resolution of endorsement from the trustees for a project to reconstruct Addison Avenue near West Five Points. The project would widen the street, taking a slice out of the Lincoln School athletic field, according to a highway department architect's drawing.

Construction of the project is several years in the future, however, and no action is required on the part of the school district at the present time, Staudaher said, though the highway department plans to begin acquiring right of way a year from now.

Trustees declined an offer from Barnes Realty to sell 10 acres of land northeast of the school to the district for $35,000. Staudaher said the district already owns 80 acres of land and has no need for more at the present time.

Commenting on the offering, price, Staudaher said the district paid $80,000, or $1,000 per acre, for the 60 acres they now own, whereas the new offer pegs the price at $3,500 per acre.

Additional faculty salaries will pose a problem by the end of the summer, Staudaher pointed out. Several teachers have already qualified for additional pay on the salary schedule by earning additional credits. This is the first time that staff members have qualified so early in the summer, the superintendent said.

Usually, by the end of summer-school sessions in the various colleges in the northwest, a number of faculty members "move across the scale," by qualifying for specific upgrading of pay, such as bachelor's degree plus 15 credit hours, completion of a master's degree, or completion of credits beyond the master's degree. The combination of the "early qualifiers" plus the expected flood of summer-school graduates will add a load to the district's finances, Staudaher said.

Further financial outlay will be required this fall with purchase of textbooks and other educational materials required by the influx of former St. Edward's School students, Staudaher told the trustees. Normally the district reserves about $4,000 to purchase educational materials each fall. This reserve is nearly gone already, providing for anticipated growth. Further moneys may have to be allocated, the superintendent said.

The trustees approved hiring of a number of new faculty members, and discussed the upcoming state convention of the Idaho State Trustees Association in November with Allen Smith, executive secretary of the ISTA.

Smith said he has received confirmation that the College of Southern Idaho gymnasium will be available from CSI President James L. Taylor. The convention is scheduled Nov. 3-8.

No recordings, trustees order

TWIN FALLS — Electronic "reporters" have been ordered kept out of board meetings by trustees of Twin Falls School District No. 411.

The trustees unanimously reaffirmed a "long-standing" policy banning any form of electronic recording of board meetings, including tape recordings, Monday night.

Reporters of all news media are welcome, but hand-written notes are the only form of recording to be allowed, according to board chairman Elmer Sommer.

Allen Smith, Boise, executive secretary of the Idaho School Trustees Association, visiting the meeting Monday night, told a newsmen after the meeting that all Idaho trustees feel much the same way.

"We would shy away from any form of recording meetings," Smith said.

School Superintendent George Staudaher said he and the trustees feel that use of tape recordings offers a threat of "edited tape."

"This happened at a PTA meeting a number of years ago," Staudaher said. He explained that a tape expert could cut a tape-recorded conversation, eliminating strategic words to change the entire meaning of the conversation.

TWIN FALLS — William Roden, Boise, former state senator, will address the Twin Falls Rotary Club at noon Wednesday at the Turf Club, Matt Smith, program chairman, said today.

Roden, who was instrumental in passage of the Idaho wine sale legislation during the past session of the Idaho Legislature, will discuss laws passed during that session and pending legislation for 1972.

Runway job in progress

TWIN FALLS — Work that will result in replacing more than 5,000 feet of the main runway at the Twin Falls County Airport, providing a full jet facility, started today, O. A. (Gus) Kelker, chairman of the airport board, announced.

Kelker said he had been informed by Dale Riedesel of Riedesel and Straubhar, consulting engineers that blasting operations at the quarry near Nat-Soo-Pah began this morning. He said equipment is being moved onto the airport proper and that before the end of this week the first 1,000 feet at the west end of the main runway will be closed to all traffic.

This section will be completed first and will permit Hughes Air West DC-9 jets to use the local field until work starts on the remaining 4,000 feet of the runway about Aug. 1.

The field will be closed to jets and other heavy planes from Aug. 1 until about Oct. 1 when the runway work is done and the lighting system is in. During construction the short cross runway will be open and in use by light planes including those of Trans Magic Airlines.

Jordan hits loan policies

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, charged today that the direct home loan program of the Veterans Administration is being conducted in a manner perpetrating a great injustice to American veterans.

The statement was made at a hearing Tuesday before the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee.

Jordan said he is concerned because "the program, as it is presently being conducted, is preventing veterans from receiving loans and causing them to lose faith in the VA program."

In Idaho, he said, 41 of 44 counties and parts of two others are eligible for direct loans. He said he has received many appeals from veterans unable to secure an approved direct loan from the VA.

Theft told

TWIN FALLS — Lawrence Clemens Brown, Twin Falls, told Twin Falls County officers his small automobile was broken into and about $219 worth of items taken from it at the parking lot of the Cinema Theater Sunday.

Officers said Brown and his wife had gone to the theater and when they returned they found the car had been entered. Missing were a phonograph and several other items. Investigation is continuing, officers said.

Teen register for voting open

TWIN FALLS — Because of the impending special election in Twin Falls County on a regional airport proposal, Harold Lancaster, county clerk, said he will begin immediately to register 18-year-old voters.

County registration books would normally not officially open until 1972 because of 1971 being an off-year for elections, Lancaster said. He said normally county officials would wait until pre-election registration to order supplies and register new voters.

Because of petitions filed Monday with the county commissioners requesting a special election on establishing a regional airport authority, Lancaster said many 18-year-old voters will be inquiring about registration and he has decided to register such voters as soon as proper supplies can be obtained.

Persons voting in the special election will be asked to sign a voters oath indicating they are registered qualified voters of the county, he said.

Lancaster said he does not know of any registration requests received as yet by his office from the new 18-year-old voting group.

Police probing burglary wave

TWIN FALLS — Several burglaries are under investigation today by Twin Falls City police, including one at Ford Transfer and Storage sometime Monday night and another at the United Methodist Church, Monday.

City officers said a window was forced open at the Ford Transfer and Storage, and only missing items included a case of soft drinks and about $3 to $4 in small change taken from a desk.

Several desks and a filing cabinet were ransacked but nothing else was reported missing.

At the Methodist Church, Shoshone Street and Fourth avenue East, officers said a door casing had been pried open and several windows were found open but dust on the window sills was not disturbed. Nothing was reported missing.

Officers are also investigating several other burglary reports, automobile break-ins, in which loss was listed as negligible.

Official City and County Newspaper Pursuant to Section 60-106 Idaho Code, Thursday, July 13, 1971, is hereby designated as the day of the week on which legal notices will be published. Published daily and Sunday, except Saturday, at 132 Third Street West, Twin Falls, Idaho, 83301. Magic Valley Newspaper, Inc. Entered as second class mail matter April 8, 1918, at the post office in Twin Falls, Idaho, 83301, under the act of March 3, 1879.

Cheers Could Be Premature

WASHINGTON — Certain high-placed newspaper executives may be in for a jarring surprise. Their jubilant "victory" hurrahs over the Supreme Court's ruling (examples: "complete joy and delight"; "extremely gratified") could prove to be unhappily premature. It's very possible the press heads may find themselves up against basically the same kind of criminal charges facing Daniel Ellsberg, who boasts of leaking the world-reverberating top-secret Pentagon documents. The Justice Department criminal lawyers are intensely examining the practicability and likely legal bases for prosecuting newspaper publishers on the ground of deliberately violating criminal statutes prohibiting the disclosure of classified material. That's the real significance of Attorney General Mitchell's cryptic statement: "There will be prosecution of ALL those who violated federal criminal laws and 'review of the Supreme Court's opinions indicates there is nothing in them to affect this situation.'" Such a potentially far-reaching crackdown centers largely around the Espionage Act, passed in 1917 to deal with spies, and four federal criminal statutes — Section 18 of the United States Code 641; Section 18 of the United States Code 2371; Section 18 of the United States Code 371; and Section 18 of the United States Code 793. Penalties are jail sentences up to 10 years and fines to $10,000.

The Supreme Court's edict allowing newspapers to publish the stolen Pentagon papers is predicated entirely on the First Amendment — proclaiming the constitutional right of freedom of press. Tip-off on action against the publishers will be the empanelling of a grand jury in either Washington or New York. Ellsberg was indicted by a federal grand jury in Los Angeles, which is still hearing testimony. Whether a second grand jury is convened has yet to be definitely determined. An investigation being made by the FBI is still underway and will require additional time. Nothing will be done until it is completed.

Since the Supreme Court's eventful ruling, media and other authorities have been intensely studying it and have reached some disconcerting conclusions — that have not been fanfared and are little known to the general public. This unpublished analysis of the "fine print" of just what the Nine Old Men did has produced the following — profoundly significant findings:

(1) The 6 to 3 decision is basically narrow and shallow. It is limited entirely to the First Amendment. It consists of a brief three-paragraph pronouncement, known in legal terminology as a "per curiam" opinion. It was unsigned and merely stated a majority judgment. Major and historic precedents are not handed down in such a cursory manner. Example: The 1954 school desegregation verdict was signed by all the justices, and explained now and why it was reached.

(2) There were nine separate opinions, one by each of the nine justices. As the supreme tribunal, the Court said absolutely nothing about the value of a free press or an informed public to a democratic society. Summary, it said nothing about presidential power, or the ever-prevailing struggle between rights and powers.

(3) While the Court held 6 to 3 that under the First Amendment the New York Times and Washington Post could resume publishing the stolen secret documents, five of the nine justices (a majority) declared (1) there is nothing in the Constitution to prevent criminal prosecution for publishing the papers, and (2) Congress has the power to enact a law authorizing the President to censor newspapers.

Crackdown

The military crackdown on drug traffic in the Mekong Delta of Vietnam is apparently proving highly effective in reducing availability of heroin to American soldiers and in enrolling addicts in the program designed to cure them without punishing them.

A dramatic increase occurred in the number of soldiers signing up for treatment under the amnesty program. Many of them lauded the program.

Major General John H. Cushman, commander of the 8,000 American soldiers in the Delta region, promised to do "everything I can to keep my men from being exposed to narcotics."

His action is timely, if belated, and should be emulated by other commanders. The only question is why the crackdown was so long in coming. Apparently, the whole world knew about the problem before the military took stern measures to combat it.

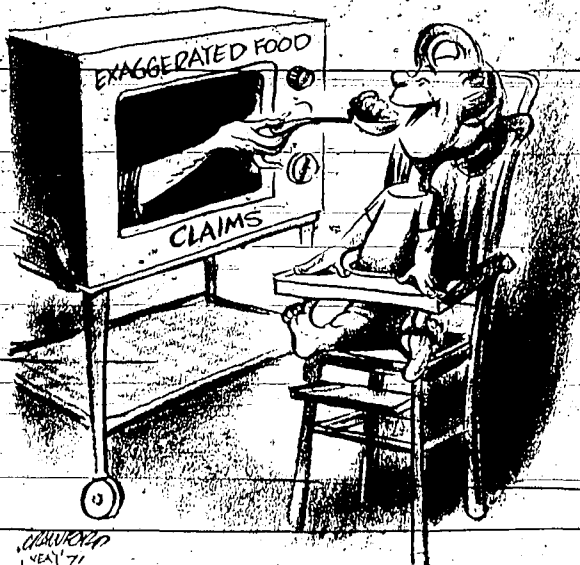

Cushman's drive was the first of its kind in Vietnam. Originally scheduled for three days, it was extended. While the intensive efforts to stop the flow of drugs has lost its element of surprise, there must be a continuing drive and screening of soldiers contact with sources of supply, including Vietnamese civilians.

Growing awareness of the need for fresh approaches to drug addiction and treatment among the civilian population within the United States also is evident. Ex-addicts have been active in setting up centers in a number of cities to help users who want to kick the habit.

Anyone using dope has a standing invitation from New Mexico authorities to receive treatment without publicity and without cost, provided that the appeal for help is made before the user is "busted." That is, arrested on a drug charge.

Independent global action now will give a giant boost to the fight against drug abuse, our number one public enemy.

Hangovers

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Drinking alcohol invariably results in a hangover manifested by a burning diarrhea. Is there any way I can reduce this distress or avoid it completely without completely abandoning my friends and social obligations? — J. A. R.

If you mean exactly what you say in your letter, yes, there's a way to avoid these hangovers entirely without abandoning your friends and social obligations. Abandon the alcohol but not your friends.

But if you mean you want me to offer you a handy-dandy way to get a snootful, without a hangover, go rattle somebody else's cage. A hangover means you've had more booze than you can handle. So learn how much you can safely imbibe, and stop. Even if it means none.

If you are entertaining at home, drink ginger ale or cola or something, with — if you feel it necessary for your friends' peace of mind — a slug of cold tea in it instead of whisky.

If in somebody else's home, have one drink, and then ask for plain ginger ale. Or learn to nurse a drink, and be sociable with a glass in your hand.

Or ask for a martini on the rocks, and every time you go to the bluff, fill it up with water. Who's going to know?

Or tell your friends your doctor has forbidden alcohol because of your pruritus. If you mumble it, nobody will be sure whether you said pruritus or neuritis.

I note that you are from San Francisco. That's a very cosmopolitan city, so ask a bartender if there aren't a few euphemisms you can use when asking for a drink with no alcohol in it, such as a Bloody Mary without vodka.

Finally, if you can't abide your friends without getting plastered, get some new friends. As I said, San Francisco is a cosmopolitan city with all kinds of people in it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter-in-law has me alarmed. She told me she has been passing mucus from the rectum, sometimes in long strings. It is clear and no blood. I have never heard of such a thing before. She is a very nervous person. — M. I.

It is called mucus colitis, and I could almost have guessed before you told me that she is a nervous person. It's an annoying condition, and not usually corrected in a hurry, but she should get after it. She will find my booklet helpful, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints." Available in return for 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Send requests to Dr. Thosteson, care of Times-News.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 15 and have not menstruated for three months. I am supposed to be regular about now. I also have a slight discharge. Could you tell me what it might be? I am very worried. — M. S.

You aren't necessarily "supposed" to be regular at your age. Such lapses are not at all unusual. If you haven't been "taking any chances" with a boy friend, I'd stop worrying and just wait a bit.

Another question is how slight the "slight" discharge is. If it is truly slight, again I'd wait and see, but if it increases, it can be one or another of several forms of infection, and it would be wise to see your doctor or, if possible, a gynecologist.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A man 76 years old, in perfect health. Could he be operated for a gall bladder? — M. N.

Perfect health — except a diseased gall bladder, eh? Age alone would not prohibit such surgery. It's been done before. So his physician or surgeon would be the best judge of whether your condition, and the condition of the gall bladder, warrants an operation.

BERRY'S WORLD

"So you're a member of the 'oppressed sex.' May I ask which one?"

On The Wane?

The reign of the long mane may be on the wane, at least on one major campus.

The suggestion comes from a man in a position to know, the manager of the University of Chicago barber shop.

Carl Alkire, who has been shearing academic locks at the university since 1935, notes that more and more students are having their hair "cut moderately long, but neater and more often."

This is especially true of younger students, but graduate students are also wearing shorter and neater hair. Even more indicative, faculty members, who know an ideological bandwagon when they see one, are having their hair cut more often and to slightly shorter lengths.

"People seem to be taking greater pride in their appearance," says Alkire. "Men get their beards trimmed now instead of letting them grow wild."

This is only one school, and it is far too early to tell if the scruffy era is really ending. For thousands of depressed barbers around the country, it must sound too good to be true.

PAUL HARVEY

Young And Nixon

Look at this new Harris Survey: "Nixon popularity declines." Young people "don't trust him."

An American President can dispense us on one value-judgment and we turn against him.

We don't agree with sweetheart or spouse 100 per cent on everything, yet you don't renounce her.

American voters on the other hand have a spillover petulance where politics is concerned. We don't evaluate administrations by comparing debits and credits. On one issue many young people have turned against Richard Nixon. Or is there something else?

Starting now, 11 million additional young Americans over 18 will vote. Democrats and Republicans are wooing them but most, disenchanted with both, say they will register "independent."

You find little enthusiasm for President Nixon among today's school-agers. Why?

Vietnam is number one, though more and more the Pentagon documents are confirming that he is not the maker of that mess; however tardily he is getting us out of it.

Unemployment is a factor, though increasing youth unemployment is inescapably related to demobilization.

Otherwise, Mr. Nixon represents many of the personal qualities young people admire. They like idealism; he is immensely idealistic.

They like courage; Mr. Nixon has demonstrated great courage standing almost alone between us and the inflation fire which threatens to turn our money to ashes, our country to chaos.

President Nixon's administration has been more scandal-free than any in my memory. He is dignified, decent and proper.

Yet his best qualities are distorted by some of his unwelcome, politicianlike public declarations.

MR. SPECTATOR

Living Harmoniously

For most people water is like air, an element that is natural and abundant, until there is a drought and taps trickle and lawn sprinklers are forbidden.

The rain that falls on the hillside and on the distant forest feeds the wells in the valleys and on the plains. It is often necessary to dig a well far deeper to find water than the pioneers did.

On a watershed where 24 inches of rainfall reaches the soil, a plot only 10 feet square receives and disposes of 6.25 tons of water a year. An acre receives 2,718 tons.

This is an astonishing volume of water, yet in many cities there are shortages. Reservoirs and tanks run dry. Forests have been ravaged.

An understanding of water conservation forms but a part of a deeper understanding of natural laws. Unlike the animals, man is the enemy of his environment. He is intelligent, but he plunders without thought.

The law of nature is delicate, simple and subtle. It exacts its own punishment for each offense. The greatest task that faces the human being is to learn to live harmoniously with nature, not to ravage it. To find this attunement in a society of growing industrialization is a severe challenge. Yet it must be met and won if future generations are to have a world to live in.

Much that man uses and casts away is irreplaceable. Future generations must have pure water to drink, food to eat, the shade of trees and the song of birds.

MYSTIFYING EXCHANGE

If the average layman has difficulty understanding the plight of the dollar in international currencies exchanges, he can at least take heart in the company he keeps. After all, if the financial geniuses in charge really were all that smart, could the dollar have reached its present sad state?

What is wrong is that money has a way of finding its own levels, despite the best manipulative efforts of the experts. That law even applied, history tells us, when the medium of exchange was trinkets and beads.

Public works job bill signed

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon moved against one of his most pressing problems—unemployment—by signing into law Monday a $2 billion measure that would create more than 150,000 jobs over the next two years.

He said it would be particularly helpful in areas of high unemployment such as California.

Governors back pair

JACKSON HOLE, Wyo. (UPI)—While President Nixon and California Gov. Ronald Reagan denied there was any rift between them, Western Republican governors Monday gingerly tried to line up in support of both of them.

Most Republicans at the Western Governors Conference here disagreed with Oregon-GOP Chief Executive Tom McCall that Reagan is trying to hold the President "hostage" by sniping at his domestic programs.

At the California Capitol at Sacramento, Reagan, who is to arrive at the governors conference Tuesday night, said he would be happy to accept Nixon's assessment of whether "I'm giving him any trouble."

At the Western White House at San Clemente, Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said "we consider the relationship between Gov. Reagan and President Nixon very, very good."

Reagan also said he wanted to assure the world that Nixon is "a guest in California, not a hostage" during his current stay at San Clemente and "is free to leave or return as he pleases."

McCall told newsmen at the opening of the conference

Sunday that Reagan had been overly critical of Nixon's proposed welfare reform program and could damage him worse politically than Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, the California Republican dove who is challenging the President for renomination next year.

"The President needs all sorts of support rather than sniping and criticism," said Gov. John A. Love of Colorado.

"But I would remind Gov. McCall that Gov. Reagan has gone out of his way to support President Nixon. Maybe there has been some differences on welfare, but let's wait and see what Reagan has to say."

Gov. Dan Evans of Washington said he did not think any GOP governor should be criticizing the President "but I'll have to wait until Wednesday and find out whether Reagan really is."

Republican Gov. Stanley K. Hathaway of Wyoming said "I wouldn't think that the President and Gov. Ronald Reagan are diametrically opposed."

GOP Gov. Jack Williams of Arizona sympathized with Reagan, noting that, like California, his state has been sued by the Nixon administration for welfare practices out of conformity with federal standards.

In brief ceremonies in his office at the Western White House, Nixon said he had assurances Congress would act swiftly to appropriate the initial $1 billion for the program and this would have an immediate impact on the 3.5 million Americans out of work.

The program attacked the jobless problem by creating permanent public works jobs which the President said would lead to "a dead-end unemployment in permanent public subsidy."

"A very important feature of the act... is that the jobs will be transitional," Nixon said. "This means that they will lead people into permanent jobs and not be a substitute for them."

The measure gives preferential treatment to Veterans who have served in Korea or Vietnam since 1964. The jobless rate among returning servicemen is substantially higher than the 5.6 per cent national average, with approximately 350,000 now looking for work.

Brother of Ike succumbs

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI)—Edgar Eisenhower, an older brother of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower, died in a coma Monday night, he was 82.

Eisenhower had rallied after suffering a stroke last Friday, but his condition deteriorated rapidly Monday afternoon and his family was alerted. Eisenhower entered the hospital after suffering his first stroke July 3.

A spokesman for the Mountain View Funeral Home said the burial date was "undefinite."

Edgar Eisenhower, the second-oldest of five brothers, was a Tacoma resident for 57 years. He began to practice law in the city in 1914, immediately following his graduation from the University of Michigan.

Edgar was also well-known on the golf course, having won the Washington State Senior's Title four times in five years. He was a better golfer than his famous brother, and had appeared with him on the Palm Springs, Calif., course with comedian Bob Hope.

The elder Eisenhower gained his brother's presidency with conservative criticism of administration policies.

But when Edgar criticized the President, he was surprised. In fact, he quipped to reporters: "Edgar has been criticizing me since I was five years old."

However, Edgar was resistant to newsmen's attempts to get his reaction to the President's views: "If a newsmen could find him, the Tacoma lawyer refused to get 'mixed up in my brother's affairs.'"

Edgar was a partner of the firm of Eisenhower, Hunter and Ramsdall. He served on federal commissions and was named to the board of directors of several Northwest firms.

Eisenhower was divorced from his third wife, Lucille, when he was 78. They were married in 1950.

He was survived by a married daughter, Mrs. William Causin of Tacoma. His only son, Jack, died last year.

Tax on pollution said cleanup key

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Conservationists testified Monday the environment will worsen until industries are made to pay a tax on pollution set so high that it is more expensive to foul the air and water than it is to install often-costly abatement devices.

They told the House-Senate subcommittee on economy in government that the standard approach to the problem—outlawing pollution above a specified level—will not work because enforcement is difficult and because it is cheaper for a polluter to fight regulation through the courts or pay small fines than to install antipollution equipment.

Four groups—the National Wildlife Federation, the Sierra Club, Friends of the Earth and the Audubon Society—called for special taxes at rates fixed so the firm which pays the tax and continues to pollute would have to sell its products at higher prices than the firm which installs abatement devices and thus avoids the tax.

Michael McCloskey, executive director of the Sierra Club, said Congress' action in 1969, offering tax writeoffs to firms which install pollution-curling devices, has been ineffective because the tax savings cover only part of the costs.

Areas with an unemployment rate of six per cent also would get special treatment with $250,000 earmarked specifically for them.

The President had hoped to substitute his $2 billion manpower revenue sharing proposal for the Democratic-sponsored measure but the House turned down this move.

Nixon urged through congressional study of the manpower plan which would eliminate the need for any matching local funds as a successor to the two year program inaugurated today.

Panther released in error

DETROIT (UPI)—A member of the Black Panther, who was mistakenly released from the Wayne County Jail upon completion of a 30-day contempt-of-court sentence just two days before his scheduled transfer to Southern Michigan Prison on an arson conviction.

Jail officials discovered the foul-up Monday in the processing of prisoners being transferred.

"This is a complex or mysterious," said Jail Supervisor Frank Wilkerson. "Somebody goofed. Somebody made a mistake."

Wilkerson said Jerome Lee, 18, of Detroit, who was sentenced to a four-to-10-year term at the Jackson, Mich., facility, was released Saturday by a sheriff's deputy who "obviously didn't check (the records) close enough."

Wilkerson said authorities have asked Lee's parents and attorneys to try and convince him to turn himself in. If they contact Lee and he fails to turn himself in, he will then be considered a fugitive from law, Wilkerson said.

Lee was among 15 members of the Black Panther Party arrested last October in the fatal shooting of a Detroit policeman in a confrontation at the Panthers' west side headquarters.

Nixon, entering the second week of a fortnight visit to the Western White House, will meet Monday with Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, his national security advisor, and Secretary of State William P. Rogers to discuss the recent Viet Cong proposals for negotiating an end to the Vietnam War.

Kissinger, currently in Paris for a first-hand assessment of the situation, is scheduled to arrive here early Tuesday.

Furness resigns office

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Betty Furness, disenchanted with the state legislature, resigned her post as chairman of the State Consumer Protection Board Monday, saying she could do more for consumers as a private citizen than in her $31,000-a-year job.

"The state legislature doesn't believe in protecting the consumer," she said. "There is no use going on, they aren't going to change—they're just too conservative."

Miss Furness, a Hollywood actress who became well known in the early days of television as "the girl who opened refrigerator doors on the commercials, served as special assistant for consumer affairs under President Lyndon B. Johnson from 1967 to 1969.

She took the state post a year ago when Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller created the State Consumer Protection Agency and named her its first chairman.

In an interview at her home, Miss Furness said she was not optimistic about the future of the state agency. She said consumer agencies had to be politically independent and this one wasn't.

"As for me, I think that under the circumstances under which I was working that I can do better outside," she said. "I think I can and will do better on behalf of all consumers."

"I think there is a great deal to be said for the Ralph Nader approach—stand outside and holler at everybody. I look on him as our leader. But I think there are things I can do independently of Ralph. The more working in the arena, the better."

Safe mine plan asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Bureau of Mines awarded a $5.0 million contract Monday to the P.M.C. Corp., of San Jose, Calif., to develop coal mining systems that could reduce major underground safety hazards.

Under terms of the contract, the firm will work for three years to find ways to eliminate numerous dangers, especially those near the mine "face" where coal is cut and where falling rock and coal are constant threats.

The project, which will end with a year-long test of the systems proposed, does not cover health hazards or risks posed by explosive gas and coal dust. The bureau said solutions to these problems are being sought under other research programs.

TWO-MAN cement and fiberglass submarine "Scavenger" is launched at Beverly, Mass., Marine Basin. Built by Michael Cushman, Beverly, 21 foot long, 6 ton craft is planned for use in salvaging Andrea Doria, Italian luxury liner which sank off Nantucket 15 years ago after collision. Salvage operations are scheduled next spring following tests. (UPI)

Apollo 15 dress rehearsal ends

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The launch team put Apollo 15th through the final hours of a dress rehearsal countdown Monday to clear the way for the real launch to the moon in 13 days.

The towering rocket was being fueled with nearly 1 million gallons of propellants and virtually every other countdown operation was included in the drill except for the actual ignition of the five engines on the Saturn 5 booster rocket.

Apollo 15 astronauts David B. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin skipped the exercise today because of the hazards involved with a fueled

Soldiers fire back at crowds

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—An army patrol, attacked with a nail bomb, shot and wounded a civilian today in the city's Roman Catholic White Rock Road area, an army spokesman said. No soldiers were injured.

In Londonderry, an army unit fired three shots into a crowd to rescue a soldier being beaten by a mob. Later a civilian was admitted to a hospital with gunshot wounds, the spokesman said.

In Belfast's City Center, a midnight explosion extensively damaged the British home stores on Castle Place.

It was the second night in a row the downtown section had been the target of bombers. Two large department stores were damaged early Monday and nine persons slightly hurt. Monday night police said three men and a woman had been charged in connection with the earlier blasts.

The incidents followed the killing of a soldier by a sniper Monday evening in Belfast's Catholic Lower Falls Road area.

rocket. They will run through their part of the countdown Wednesday when the Saturn is drained.

The countdown—rehearsal marks the last major pre-launch test in a long series that started as soon as the 363-foot rocket was moved to the ocean-side launch pad two months ago. Before that, spacecraft and rocket sections were checked individually.

The purpose of the exercise was to check the Saturn and its complicated system of ground support equipment under realistic countdown conditions to turn up any problems that might disrupt the planned July 28 launching.

The trial countdown started last Wednesday. The only problem reported up today was a leaky fuel plug in the Saturn first stage. The part was replaced without delaying the test.

The 104 ton mobile service structure was moved away from the Saturn Monday afternoon and the rocket stood exposed on the ocean-side launch pad. It was illuminated by floodlights during the night.

After the astronauts run through the last 34 hours of their countdown Wednesday, wearing space suits as they will on launch day, engineers will dismantle testing equipment and start preparations to start the actual countdown next week.

Apollo 15 is the nation's longest moon expedition. It is scheduled to last 12 days and seven hours with nearly half of that time spent on or around the moon.

Claim data asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission today ordered the big four U.S. auto makers and three foreign car makers to submit documents to back up their advertising claims.

The FTC plans to summarize the documents when it gets them from General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp., and American Motors. In addition, the FTC announced it was seeking documentation of advertising claims of Volkswagen of America Inc., Toyota Motor Co., Ltd., and Nissan Motor Corp. in U.S.A.

The order was in line of a recently announced ruling by the FTC that it was going to require advertisers to furnish the agency documentation of claims.

In the case of the auto companies, the FTC said, it was seeking within 60 days support of advertising claims regarding safety, performance, quality and comparative prices of products.

Consumer groups have long demanded that advertisers back up their advertising claims.

Spiro on safari

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew went on his first safari today, an overnight jaunt into the bush that presents no danger to either the animals or Agnew.

By bus and Land Rover, the vice president made the trek to "treelots" about three hours from Nairobi for a night among cape buffalo, baboons, elephants and rhinos.

"Treelots" was where Princess Elizabeth of England in 1952 received word of her father's death and returned to Britain to queen. It is a luxurious resort where tourists watch wild game frolic at a water hole while being dined in big city fashion high above.

The excursion poses no threat for the vice president although the safari takes him into wild game country. The accommodations are built into trees above the animals and the approach is safeguarded by seasoned professional hunters.

Nor is there any danger for the animals. "Treelots" is in a game reserve where hunting is forbidden.

The trek into the bush by the Agnew party followed the vice president's only major official function during a three-day stay in Kenya—a meeting with President Jomo Kenyatta, the George Washington of the young nation.

Voting troubles said murder key

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Disident United Mine Workers leaders charged today that the failure of the Labor Department to prosecute union election violations vigorously was a contributing factor in the murder of Joseph A. Yablonski after he had challenged President W. A. (Tony) Boyle.

KENNETH YABLONSKI

One of the two witnesses at a Senate subcommittee hearing making the charges was Kenneth J. Yablonski, son of the slain man.

In the 1969 election, Boyle defeated Yablonski.

Yablonski, his wife and daughter were killed at their Clarksville, Pa., home less than a month after the election. The son told the Senate Labor subcommittee that the disidents who formed a group called Miners For Democracy (MFD) following the elder Yablonski's death, had hoped changes would be made in the Labor Department policies.

"We thought the department would reform after its practices and policies, which I believed led to the death of my father, mother and sister, had been subjected to public scrutiny."

Malad protected

MALAD (UPI)—The city of Malad will once again have police protection following an agreement with Oneida County for the county to take over the city's police equipment and furnish the personnel.

Sheriff Kenneth Wharton will head the law enforcement operation and the protection will cost Malad City $4,700 per year.

The county took over the city police equipment with the understanding should Malad decide to have its own department again, the equipment would revert to the city or be replaced by the county.

Sandy Duncan believable in planned new comedy series

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The word, inexplicably, is out that Sandy Duncan will be the biggest new star in television when her series makes its debut in the fall.

Inexplicably because Sandy is a slender, buck-toothed girl with a large nose, sprinkling of freckles and quavering voice. She is also adorable.

Sandy is a waltz, a gamine, a pixie. Almost everyone is inspired to help, advise and protect her. She may need it. The pre-show build-up is a disservice to Sandy who is compelled to fulfill expectations.

"It's ridiculous how all these rumors about me got started," Sandy said, her large blue eyes apprehensive. "All these predictions of success put me in a hard position."

"I'd much prefer to have viewers be surprised if I'm good on the show. Now they'll be saying, 'She'd better be terrific!'"

Rosy Future Predicted
Sandy's rosy future has been predicted by critics, CBS network brass and everyday viewers who have seen her in a series of commercials for a California bank.

In the commercials Sandy portrays an inept bank teller who cannot cope with a variety of difficult customers. She is, at once, nervous and appealing.

In person her traits are those she projects on the tube.

Additionally, she stars in "$1,000,000 Dollar Duck" and "Star Spangled Girl," and this season neither movie.

"I never broke my nose," she said candidly, "but it looks a little crooked. I think I inherited it from my father who has a huge nose because he is one-fourth Cherokee Indian. I got my teeth from my mother."

She was interrupted by television game show emcee Peter Marshall who, when introduced, said, "I see we share the same kind of overbite."

Everyone Notices Teeth
Sandy laughed nervously. "Everyone notices my teeth," she said.

Yablonski said. "But we were wrong."

"While it's true, none of our candidates were murdered, there were threats of murder," he said.

A key complaint from the disidents in the 1969 election was that the Labor Department refused to take action until after the election and killings, although it was requested to do so earlier.

In the more recent District 5 election in the Pittsburgh area, MFD candidates were defeated again in an attempt to unseat Boyle forces.

Yablonski charged that the Labor Department had investigated that election and were prepared to set it aside "but at the 11th hour its representatives secretly entered into the unwritten arrangement of the general council of UMW's international." He said this assured that the Boyle man would remain in office longer, and delayed prosecution of the election case.

"With respect to the Department of Labor, and the MLRDA (Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act) there is no law enforcement, and therefore, there can be no orderly resolution of legitimate claims," he said.

"Till there is justice in the coal fields, we do not think there will be peace or order."

Accused

FORMER chief of staff for the Laotian Army, Gen. Ouano Rethkhone, was accused Sunday by Rep. Robert Steele, R-Conn., of being one of chief drug traffickers in southeast Asia. Rethkhone retired this past week after 20 years of service. Steele said U.S. efforts to stop sale of drugs in Asia is hampered by Laotian government. (UPI)

BOISE (UPI)—The legislative interim study committee on automobile liability insurance and workman's compensation will meet this week in Boise.

The study committee on automobile insurance will meet Wednesday to resume exploration of a state "no-fault" insurance program. The workman's compensation committee will meet Thursday.

Major-Asian decisions loom

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon soon must face up to two major decisions on Asia which could make or break his administration on the foreign policy front.

One concerns the position the United States will take on admitting mainland China to the United Nations.

The other involves how to deal with the cleverly drawn new Viet-Cong peace proposal which the President will find difficult to reject out of hand but, at the same time, cannot accept as it stands.

Administration officials believe the decision on these two overwhelmingly important issues will come some time during the course of the President's consultations this week at the Western White House with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and others.

The deadline on the China-U.N. decision was self-imposed. Nixon said at his June 3 press conference that he thought a decision could be reached "in approximately six weeks."

On the Vietnam issue, the Communists forced the President to struggle with the issue by putting forth a new seven-point plan which they obviously feel will appeal so strongly to the war weary American public that Nixon will be forced to accept it in order to free American prisoners of war.

Hanoi and the Viet Cong, who have appeared convinced for some time that the pressure of public frustration would ultimately drive Nixon to accepting almost any kind of a settlement, apparently believe that the release of the "Pentagon papers" had brought matters to a point where they could take advantage of the situation.

In effect, but without intending it, the administration invited the sort of a booby-trapped proposal such as the Communists presented on July 1 by intense concentration on the question of a broader settlement on the political front in South Vietnam.

The Viet Cong plan calls for the release of prisoners as the United States withdraws its troops, with the last prisoners being released as the last troops are withdrawn. It would forbid any further American military assistance to Saigon.

The political proposals call for creation of a coalition government of "national concord" in the South, heavily loaded in favor of an eventual Communist takeover.

On Communist China all indications are that the President is moving toward a position which has always been described as the "two-China" strategy. The administration is believed ready to allow the United Nations to vote Peking into the organization by a simple majority, not insisting as it has before that a two-thirds majority is required under the "important question" section of the U.N. regulations.

However, the administration would insist upon a two-thirds vote being required to oust the Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa, which has held the in an attempt to gain support for two resolutions which would split the question and make it possible to admit Peking, but tough to throw out Formosa.

Couple recites vows

BUHL — Miriam Elizabeth Conover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Conover, Buhl, became the bride of Lt. Stephen Edward Llewellyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Llewellyn, Spokane, Wash., in rites June 28 at St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Ketchum.

Rev. W.D. Ellway performed the double ring ceremony before an altar flanked by tall brass candelabra with white tapers and baskets of all white flowers, including chrysanthemums, roses, daisies and baby's breath. All the pews were decorated with white satin bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white organza trimmed with Chantilly lace around the oval neckline, down the front and up the back of the A-line skirt, was caught at the sides with satin bows that matched the bow on the empire bodice. The long full, sheer organza sleeves were fashioned with light lace cuffs and trimmed at the elbows with beaded lace. Her veil, a full length mantilla of illusion trimmed with matching Chantilly lace, cascaded under a blusher gathered together by pearls. Applied to the blusher was a circle of hand-made lace brought to the bride from Vienna, Austria, by her late paternal grandmother, Mrs. John K. Conant. She carried a colonial bouquet of all white sweetheart roses, gardenias, daisies and stephanotis.

Marilyn L. Conover, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Margaret A. Romero, Colorado Springs, Colo.; Lauren Llewellyn,

LT. AND MRS. STEPHEN LLEWELLYN

Spokane, sister of the bridegroom; Cathy A. Monnin, Portland, Ore., and Joan R. Malcolm, Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich.

Curtis L. Hlsaw, Spokane, served as best man. Ushers were Bruce A. McEachran, Spokane; Richard J. Llewellyn, Missoula, Mont.; and John R. Carr and Richard T. Williams, both Colorado Springs.

Mrs. Gerald Jensen, Buhl, served as organist.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the Redwood Room at the Sun Valley Lodge in Sun Valley. The bride's table was enhanced with multi-colored flowers on cupid candelabra.

The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a multi-colored floral arrangement.

Reception assistants were Ann Rangan and Deborah Rangan, both Buhl; Karen Masters, Boise, and Jeanne Frazier, Boise.

The couple took a wedding trip to Jackson, Wyo., and Aspen, Colo. The couple will reside in Colorado Springs.

Special out-of-state guests included Mrs. Carl Edward Larson, Spokane, grandmother of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Haakon Bang, Spokane; Mr. and Mrs. Keith W. Holmes and sons, Wilmington, Del.; Col. Clifford A. Dougherty, USAF ret., Arlington, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Avery and daughters, Salt Lake City, and Mr. and Mrs. Ardell Dally, Tieton, Wash.

Jacob Irwin, class president, now of Palo Alto, Calif., and Georgina Mc Masters Evans, Kimberly, class secretary, were present for the reunion.

DEAR ABBY: May I use your column to offer some advice:

Girls, never accompany your husband to his class reunion unless you went to the same school and know some of the same people. I just returned from attending my husband's 25th high school reunion and I've never had a lousier time. Ralph was (and still is) a handsome fellow, and he was popular in high school, so when we walked in everyone fell on his neck. He introduced me around and I never saw him again until it was time to go home. I didn't know a soul, so while Ralph was laughing and talking with his old school chums I sat alone in a corner like a bump on a log, bored to tears. Everyone was showing pictures of their children and grandchildren and talking about "old times."

I'm not faulting Ralph. I know he hadn't seen these people for 25 years and they had a lot of catching up to do, so I couldn't expect him to see that I was entertained.

So, girls, stay home and let your husbands go to their class reunions alone, unless you enjoy sitting in a corner, talking to yourselves.

BEEN THERE

DEAR BEEN: Your letter makes a lot of sense. But some wives would rather go and sit like bumps on a log than send their husbands to such affairs alone.

DEAR ABBY: I am 82 years young and I live in a rest home for ladies. I was in "show biz" most of my life and I love a good laugh and have gotten many from your column which I read faithfully every day. I would like to share something with you (and your readers) if you want to use this:

Last evening at dinner, a lady who is 80 said to me, "I had a priest visit me today and he told me that the Catholic faith did not require confession anymore."

I replied, "I know why. They're all writing to Dear Abby."

God bless you and keep you well.

LILLIAN IN WILLIMANTIC, CONN.

DEAR LILLIAN: And God bless you, too. Your letter made my day!

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from "Mule's Wife," who said her husband refused to wear a tuxedo to their son's wedding, but if you, Dear Abby, would say the word, he'd rent one and wear it. [You said the word, so I assume he wore one.]

Well, last week my granddaughter was married at a formal wedding. Everyone in the wedding party wore tuxedos—except the groom's father. He wore a dark business suit. Nobody cared, and few even noticed it. All eyes were on the bride and groom.

Isn't it better for the father of the groom to feel comfortable in a business suit than to put on a tux and feel like a monkey?

"Mule's Wife" shouldn't let a little thing like that upset her. She should thank God she still has her "mule." Mine passed away 12 years ago, and the tears I shed at my granddaughter's wedding were because my "mule" couldn't be with me to witness his only granddaughter's wedding.

GRANDMA NOVAK

DEAR GRANDMA: I agree with you, but if I hadn't said "the word," the other "mule" wouldn't have worn a tuxedo to his son's wedding, which probably would have spoiled the occasion for his wife. I try to prevent trouble, when possible.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CAN'T TAKE WEIGHT": Heed these magic words of Danny Kaye: "Eat only to satisfy your hunger—not your appetite."

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it all your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Swinging footwear

AS IN HELMETS and hot pants, this is the year of the individual's taste in footwear, too, says the American Footwear Institute, with boots of all types more plentiful than ever before, strapped, harnessed and wrapped around to the knees. But just about the "most" in boots comes from designer David Evins who is featuring boots in supple suede with gold-studded cuffs at the tops or shown bare. The gimmick: remove the cuffs if you like; hitch them together and you've got a swinging belt. (UPI)

Former residents observe 50th wedding anniversary

UNION, Ore. — Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Fisher, Union, Ore., former Magic Valley residents, observed their Golden Wedding Anniversary Sunday with an open house at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher were married in a civil ceremony June 11, 1921, but because the entire family could not get together in June, the observance wasn't held until Sunday. On June 15, 1921, their marriage was solemnized at the LDS Temple.

They began their married life on a rented farm at Wendell. Here their first child, Zelma, was born. Their next move found them on a farm at Heyburn, and while there, their daughter died.

Fisher was called to fulfill a two-year mission for the church, and Mrs. Fisher then went to Oregon to reside with her mother until the mission was finished. After the mission and two-years separation, they were reunited and returned to Heyburn. While at Heyburn, Vera, Glen, Vernon, Lloyd and Ronald were born.

In 1944, the Fishers moved to Wendell where they farmed until 1955. They then bought a trailer house and set out, intent upon going to the Columbia Basin in Washington where they hoped to farm again. Due to circumstances, however, the family got "stranded" in Union, Ore. They bought property, Fisher built a home and the family members became city dwellers.

Their son, Ronald, was killed in an auto accident in 1968.

A Lovelier You

SEASONAL BEAUTY PROBLEMS

By Mary Sue Miller

A Lovely writes: My skin is sensitive to the sun. For that reason I use an extra protective suntan lotion and am careful about exposures. Eventually, I acquire some color and it looks fine. But meanwhile, my nose gets red and peels. My lips peel too, and feel sore. From sunglasses, the areas under my eyes are pale as a ghost. Your advice, please.

A three-part answer to a three-part problem: The nose, being the forward feature, becomes the sun's first target. Extra protection is in order. It takes the form of a special nose "hood" — invisible and non-greasy. Make a habit of using one, and say goodbye to the red nose, dear.

For the lips, there are various brands of medicated "sunsticks" that aim at protection; that also supply moisture and healing agents. Lips are lacking in oil glands, so are quick to suffer damage. Incidentally, some sticks are lightly tinted or develop a color on the lips that looks great in the great outdoors.

The usual remedy for white, untanned rings under the eyes calls for a few minutes of deliberate exposure each day. First, with glasses removed, you apply the merest film of your suntan lotion, starting a half-inch below the lashes. Then the eyelids are covered with wedges of water-dampened absorbent cotton.

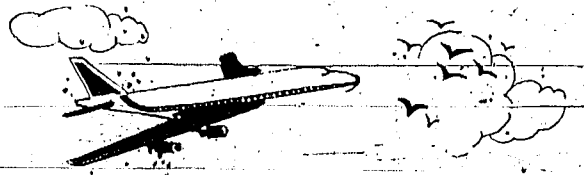

However, you must give up the procedure if the skin in this area develops the slightest tenderness. Saddle for a bit of camouflage via powder base. Old Sol has power you just can't defy.

Minister shaped thought line

Editor's Note: This is the second of five articles tracing the life of Angela Davis who stands accused as an accomplice in the murder of Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley in a school at the San Rafael, Calif., courthouse on August, 1970.

By JACK V. FOX
United Press International
On a steamy late August day in 1959, Angela Davis and her younger brother, Ben, arrived in New York's Pennsylvania Station after a train trip from Birmingham, Ala., and were met by a white Episcopalian minister and his wife.

The minister was the Rev. William Howard Melish, then 49. With the exception of Prof. Herbert Marcuse, Melish probably had more to do with shaping Angela's thinking and direction than any adult outside her family.

Mary Jane Melish recalls that Angela greeted her with a kiss on the cheek. "She was a well brought up girl, nice, quiet, pleasant," Mrs. Melish says. "She was quite tall, a well-built youngster. Quite attractive. She was soft-spoken, a little timid. Here she was, a black youngster from the south coming to live in New York in a white neighborhood."

Angela was 15 at the time. She had been awarded a scholarship by the Southern Negro Student Committee of the American Friends Service Committee to attend Elizabeth Irwin High School, a "progressive" experimental school in New York's Greenwich Village. Ben, a year younger, was en route to a similar scholarship year at a school in New Jersey.

Angela lived with the Melish family for two years. They had a large home at 905 St. Marks Ave., in Brooklyn on the edge of the Bedford-Stuyvesant Negro ghetto.

Melish had been a highly controversial figure in New York because of his pro-Soviet views and had been invited to view one of some members of the congregation who wanted to remove him as associate rector at Holy Trinity Church in Brooklyn where his father was rector.

During World War II he helped organize Russian war relief chapters in the New York area and gave lectures on Soviet-American relations. In 1943, he was one of the founders of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship and in 1946 he became national chairman of the organization.

In 1947, then Attorney General Tom Clark issued the first of his lists of "subversive" organizations and on it was the National Council. A short time later, Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, head of the wartime Office of Strategic Services, accused Melish on a radio program of being a Communist.

"I have never been a member of the Communist party. I am sympathetic with the socialist viewpoint."

Angela had an A average in high school in Birmingham but for the first time in her life she ran into scholastic troubles at Elizabeth Irwin.

"She was a very lovely eager beaver student when she came up," recalls Melish. "But she had pretty rough going at E-I. The standards were much tougher than she had been accustomed to in Birmingham at Parker High. She'd get a B minus or C plus for the same work."

Melish said she was "crazy about the drama and the theater."

A girl in Angela's class at E-I who took part in all the drama activities could not recall Angela being very active in anything.

Amy Saltz, production director of the off-Broadway production "Hair," and the assistant production of "Hair," had trouble recalling much at all about Angela.

"She was a total nebbish (yiddish slang for nondescript) she never said anything, she never did anything," says Miss Saltz.

There were 35 to 40 students in Angela's class. There was one other Negro girl, and maybe one black boy, according to Miss Saltz. She said their history teacher then was a Marxist and that a class in Existentialism was offered as one of the Angela took.

Elizabeth Irwin at the time agrees that Angela was anything but outstanding.

Marcuse

"I remember something about nearly every student I have had—an essay, a report, something—but I don't remember a thing about Angela," the teacher says.

During the spring of 1960 Angela began the community work required as part of her social studies. Each student had to put in a few hours in community service each week and Angela chose to work with a teen center in Brooklyn where Mrs. Melish was the director.

The teen center began as the Trinity Club, a series of weekly dances at Holy Trinity Church that would draw 400 of weekly dancers at Holy Trinity Church.

Melish

"She showed a remarkable capacity from the start to sit down and talk to these youngsters and they would talk to her—They would fan for hours. Here was demonstrated for the first time her remarkable ability to communicate—quite an amazing thing."

Time finally brought thoughts of college. Angela applied to five or six schools, all of them in the north, and entered Brandeis University, near Boston.

It was at Brandeis that Angela first met Herbert Marcuse and had her life turned onto an entirely new course.

Melish feels the experience brought to light for the first time one of Angela's strong points.

Slum children learning fast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Children from a Milwaukee slum literally are being lifted from their cradles and taken to school with astonishing results that indicate mental retardation may be preventable among some children of the poor.

Researchers in this unusual government-financed study are so cautious they have just now publicized their work, five years into the project, and then only in a professional journal unlikely to be seen by parents.

"But they can't ignore the dramatic gains in I.Q. (intelligence quotient) among these children—poor, often illiterate parents—black children who were 'virtually certain to show characteristics of mental retardation as they grew older.'"

"They chose the children most likely to fail. The children with all the strikes against them. The children from the city's worst slum, with the lowest I.Q. and mothers with the least mental stimulation in their homes."

And they took them to school when they were only three or four months old.

"We have seen a capacity for learning, on the part of extremely young children that previously I would not have believed possible," said project director Rick Haber, professor of education and child psychology at the University of Wisconsin.

"While the results are by no means final, they are encouraging."

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho President James Taylor will be out of town all week on vocational school business, according to his office.

means fully conclusive and must continue to be tested, the least that I am willing to say is that it is difficult to conceive of the children in the experimental program ever falling back to the level of their age peers in the lagging control group."

By "The lagging control group" he meant all children from the same intellectual-cultural squalor who are used for comparative purposes in the study but are not given the special daily training.

The results of the Milwaukee project are described in the July issue of American Education, published 10 times a year by the U.S. Office of Education.

Training program planned

SEATTLE — Allocation of $171,850 for an Operation Mainstream manpower training program in Idaho was announced today by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Jess O. Tompaker, Seattle, the Labor Department's Northwest Regional Manpower Administrator, said the statewide project sponsored by the Idaho Department of Special Services will provide training and work experience for 80 of Idaho's unemployed.

Reemployment will be accomplished through the Idaho State Department of Employment. Those enrolled in Operation Mainstream must be at least 22 years of age and come from families with annual incomes below the poverty level.

Designed to concentrate on towns, projects rural areas and low income areas where the projects are located.

Americal leader relieved

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command said today Maj. Gen. James L. Baldwin has been relieved of command of the Americal Division whose troops manned an artillery base in which Communists last March killed 33 Americans last March and wounded 76.

Baldwin has completed one year of a Vietnam tour which usually is at least 18 months for commanding generals. He handed over command last Friday to Maj. Gen. Frederick J. Kroesen Jr., former assistant chief of staff for operations of the military command in Saigon, spokesman said.

The command declined further comment on the change of command except to say that Baldwin "will be reassigned by the Department of Army."

Baldwin was commander of the Americal, formally designated the 23rd Infantry Division, when sappers raced through the wire of Fire Base Mary Anne behind a curtain of mortar shells on March 28.

The command reported 33 Americans killed and 76 wounded on the base, 25 miles west of the division's headquarters at Chu Lai. Records show it was probably the worst casualty toll in a single incident for the U.S. Expeditionary Force in Vietnam.

The bodies of 12 Communists were found on the base, which has since been turned over to the South Vietnamese.

Field reports at the time said the base was poorly defended, with gaping holes in the perimeter wire through which American soldiers strolled after patrolling surrounding jungles.

Kroesen, 48, was commander of the Americal's 196th Brigade in 1960-69 and was assigned to Washington as the Army's director of manpower before returning to the war zone.

Wine sale asked

GOODING — Gooding County commissioners are delaying action on a request of four county grocers for licenses to sell wine until the matter can be put to a vote of county residents.

Harold Simerly and Bill Parr, both Wendell, and Clark Williamson and George Nelson, Gooding, met with commissioners Monday to request that the wine sales be okayed.

Ben Glauner, commission chairman, said it costs between $1,400 and $1,500 to hold a special election, so the commission decided to wait until the regional airport issue comes to a vote and put the wine sales question on the same ballot instead of holding a separate election.

Glauner said he has not heard any objection to the sale of wine, but he feels the matter should be referred to the people.

In the event the airport election does not materialize, Simerly said a petition to force the election is planned "if the matter drags out over a year."

Vivian Burden, Gooding County clerk, said more than 5 per cent of the voters already have signed a petition calling for a regional airport election.

HAPPY DAY SCHOOL for retarded children will be affected by a plan of the Idaho Department of Highways to reconstruct Addison Avenue and the West Five Points area. The school property, adjoining Lincoln School, will be trimmed as the right of way is widened along Addison Avenue West of Fourth Avenue North.

TWIN FALLS — The days of the "Happy Day School" for trainable retarded children are numbered.

The school, located adjacent to the Lincoln School property, facing on Addison Avenue, must be relocated or rebuilt within the next two years, according to School Superintendent George Staudaher.

The Idaho Department of Highways plans a major reconstruction of West Five Points, involving widening of Addison Avenue along the Lincoln-School property. The street right of way will be extended 13 feet into the school property, trustees were told during their meeting Monday night.

The highway department has requested a resolution of agreement from the trustees, who agreed to sell the needed right of way "if the price is right." Trustees voted to negotiate with the highway department over the price.

The Happy Day School was originally built to train cerebral palsied children, but with increased problems and other complications over the years, Staudaher said, it has become a school for the trainable retarded child.

The school facilities have been unsuitable for some time, housed in a converted surplus-housing unit dating back to World War II, trustees have said in past meetings. No decision has been reached on relocating the school, pending an agreement with the state on the right of way along Addison Avenue.

The board also approved more changes to the district policy manual. Contracts were signed for the following teachers who had been approved for hiring at the last school board meeting: Sheila M. Belliston, third grade; Patricia B. Brandley, first grade; Richard E. Belliston, ninth grade science; Sandra K. Night, secondary physical education; Lynda L. Reid, ninth grade English, and Koel K. Ruhter, high school U. S. history.

The board also approved the hiring of six new teachers: Kay E. Mayer, Burley, with a B.S. in education from the University of Idaho who will teach sixth grade; Sherry G. Pridmore, Richfield, B. S. in education from the University of Idaho who will teach first grade; Martha Lee Wallace, Twin Falls, B. S. from the College of Idaho and a degree from the University of Washington who will teach third grade; and William A. McIntyre, Jerome, B.S. from Mankato, State College, Mankato, Minn., and degrees from Colorado State and the University of Idaho, eighth grade; Dale Mourer, B. S. and M. S. in education from University of Idaho, Columbia, Pa., who will teach seventh and eighth grade science, and Jennifer Scott, LaGrande, Ore., College of Southern Idaho and Eastern Oregon College with a B. A. in science and education who will teach high school Spanish.

He said the firm drew the plans for the College of Southern Idaho and Gooding High School.

In other action by the board, John Campbell, superintendent, read a letter from D. F. Engkeling, state superintendent of schools, saying that all teachers in the district must be certified by Aug. 30 for the 1972-73 school year.

Campbell told the board that all the teachers in the district have had certification certificates with the exception of three who are presently going to school and barring any trouble will have them by Aug. 30.

Campbell noted that he was planning to hire a student teacher for the year who would qualify for certification by the state the second semester and then could assume full classroom teaching if the district would need her.

It was pointed out at the board meeting that all the teachers must be certified so the district will be eligible for state funding. It was also noted that the district will have no trouble getting certified teachers if they need one at the last minute.

Campbell said he is receiving on the average of one letter a day asking for employment for teaching in the district.

The board also approved the hiring of six new teachers: Kay E. Mayer, Burley, with a B.S. in education from the University of Idaho who will teach sixth grade; Sherry G. Pridmore, Richfield, B. He said the firm drew the plans for the College of Southern Idaho and Gooding High School.

In other action by the board, John Campbell, superintendent, read a letter from D. F. Engkeling, state superintendent of schools, saying that all teachers in the district must be certified by Aug. 30 for the 1972-73 school year.

Campbell told the board that all the teachers in the district have had certification certificates with the exception of three who are presently going to school and barring any trouble will have them by Aug. 30.

Campbell noted that he was planning to hire a student teacher for the year who would qualify for certification by the state the second semester and then could assume full classroom teaching if the district would need her.

It was pointed out at the board meeting that all the teachers must be certified so the district will be eligible for state funding. It was also noted that the district will have no trouble getting certified teachers if they need one at the last minute.

Campbell said he is receiving on the average of one letter a day asking for employment for teaching in the district.

The board also approved the hiring of six new teachers: Kay E. Mayer, Burley, with a B.S. in education from the University of Idaho who will teach sixth grade; Sherry G. Pridmore, Richfield, B. S. in education from the University of Idaho who will teach first grade; Martha Lee Wallace, Twin Falls, B. Architect firm hired JEROME — Jerome school trustees will retain the C.T.A. Architect, Engineer and Planning Firm, Twin Falls and Billings, Mont., to assess the school district building needs and to do the preliminary work necessary before a bond election can be held, should the district decide to hold one.

The decision was reached at the monthly meeting of the board Monday night. According to Gordon Hofffield, vice chairman of the board, the firm will survey Jerome School District and present alternatives on building of the new school to the school board for its consideration.

He said the firm drew the plans for the College of Southern Idaho and Gooding High School.

Man charged with assault

HAILEY — Roy F. Wheeler, 46, Ketchum, pleaded innocent in magistrate court here Monday to charges of assault with a deadly weapon, leaving the scene of an accident in which there were injuries and drunk driving.

Wheeler allegedly swerved his car to avoid a truck on Highway 93 north of Hailey Friday evening.

Wheeler's attorney said he had stopped another motorist for speeding and was standing in front of his police car talking to the driver, when a woman motorist stopped and told him a "drunk driver was coming this way."

Just as he was getting in his police car, Evans said Wheeler approached. Evans said he recognized the man as the same person he had cited about an hour earlier for being drunk in public.

Evans said he stepped from his car to flag Wheeler down and the driver swerved his car toward him. The officer said he dove into his car as Wheeler's auto slammed into the door of the police car.

The left front fender of Wheeler's car hit the marshal's heel, dislodging it, Evans said. The officer was not hospitalized.

He said Wheeler then continued on Highway 93 at a high rate of speed and several miles north of the site, he was stopped by two private citizens who held him there.

Marshal Evans radioed for help and Blaine County Deputy Sheriff Dan Norton arrested Wheeler.

No date has been set for Wheeler's trial. He has been released on his own recognizance.

Minidoka studies new levy voting

RUPERT — Minidoka County School District may try once again to get the district's voters to approve a special five-mill levy.

At the district's school board meeting Monday night the board members were told by Dr. Darrell Hatfield, district superintendent, he feels the district must try for the five mill levy again. However, board members were not sure if the proposal would have a chance of passage in a second election.

The district's first request in May for a five-mill migrant levy was turned down by a 74-vote margin. Board member Leo Moore said, "I don't know what the people in our district really think about an additional five-mill levy and we feel we need to know their feelings before we make a decision."

It also was pointed out that residents of the district will have to be informed as to what the better financial condition of the district is and where this money would be spent if the levy is approved.

Dr. Hatfield said the district needs to lay out procedures and guidelines to correct the situation the district finds itself in. It must be done over a few years and not over just one year, he said.

Also, Dr. Hatfield said he feels if the district grows enough to qualify it for the three per cent emergency levy, it should be levied. If the district doesn't, it will continue to get further behind, he said.

The board feels it does not know what the voters want in this instance, so postponed action until a meeting at 8 p.m. next Monday when the board will review the district's financial condition.

The board hopes residents of the district will let it know what their feelings are on the five-mill levy before next Monday.

The levy would provide additional operating funds needed because of heavier class loads caused primarily by migrant students.

RUPERT — The boundaries for the elementary attendance areas in the Minidoka County School District may be changed this summer.

Dr. Darrell Hatfield, district superintendent, informed the district's school board at its meeting Monday night he has been reviewing class loads in elementary schools. He said the average class load in the district for the first six grades are, first grade, 24.1; second grade, 23.3; third grade, 25.2; fourth grade, 29.2; fifth grade, 29.8, and sixth grade, 30.

The class load average for the first three grades is reasonable, Dr. Hatfield said, and he hopes to keep them at that level. However, he feels the class loads for the fourth to sixth grades need to be lowered. Acequia has the lowest class loads in the district now, with Heyburn schools carrying the highest in these grades, he said.

Youth ranch director moves into new home

RUPERT — As the result of a decision made over three years ago, Lee Childs, executive director of the Idaho Youth Ranch and his family live in a new home today.

This new home, located at 358 Linda Drive, Hoyburn, was provided for the executive director of the youth ranch by the corporation.

About three and one-half years ago when the corporation's board of directors went looking for a new executive director it decided that no amount live away from the youth ranch.

The board decided the duties of the executive director require he be freed to travel extensively throughout the state, keep in close contact with public officials and the business community.

This enables him, Childs said, to give direction to the youth ranch's operation and let those in charge at the youth ranch carry out the daily supervision.

The location of the executive director's residence was chosen due to its being the center of the Burley, Paoli and Rupert area, he said.

The lot was purchased after it was offered to the corporation at a low price by Oscar Egbert. Childs then contacted the Boise-Cascade Corp. as to the price of a house. As a result the Kingsberry Homes Division of Boise Cascade made a prefabricated home available to the corporation at 10 per cent less its cost.

Also, the Boise-Cascade Foundation made a grant of $2,000 to the corporation toward the building of the executive director's residence.

After the house was purchased, the lot which slopes downward from front to back was excavated for a basement by Klepper Concrete of Paul. The company also put in the foundation and the basement walls.

The concrete for the basement floor and garage walls was donated by Hoffbaur Ready Mix of Burley.

Magie Valley Sand and Gravel, Burley, donated the concrete for the garage floor, driveway and the steps.

The majority of the rest of the concrete used in the construction of the house was donated by the Idaho-Portland Cement Company.

Adolph Korb, Burley, contractor, donated his time to lay most of the bricks on the outside walls of the house.

The fireplace in the living room was put in free of charge by Dud Hamilton of Idaho Falls.

Dimensions of the house are 38 feet by 28 feet. It has three bedrooms, living room, kitchen, dining room, washroom, one and-a-half baths and an unfinished basement.

The basement, when finished, will have a family room, office, storeroom, bathroom and bedroom for guests.

Childs said he hopes to have the landscaping around the house done by this fall.

The Twin Falls Pump and Equipment Co. will provide the sprinkler system and the Kimberly Nursery plans to help put in the grass, he said.

Childs and his family have lived in the house since the last part of March. He said, "The family appreciates the new home. I haven't had time to really enjoy it yet."

Childs, his wife Mary, their adopted children, Lisa, 6, and Todd, 2; look forward to enjoying living in their new home for a long time to come.

Lack of qualified help plagues T. F. hospital

He said lack of qualified people had plagued the hospital's business department.

For example, he said, the hospital purchased a $35,000 bookkeeping machine on the recommendation of its auditors; but inability to operate it properly resulted in the machine "never working to the satisfaction of the accountant's recommendation."

Loughmiller charged problems with the machinery were being used by the hospital administration "as a crutch" to cover more serious problems in the department, such as lack of internal checks which might have quickly revealed fund shortages.

During the two-hour interview with the Times-News each of the commissioners referred to complaints from the public; hospital personnel and area doctors. The complaints were primarily directed against the administration.

Chancey said that the number of complaints has remained fairly level over a number of years. He termed the frequency of the complaints "occasional."

Chancey said a delegation of six Twin Falls doctors recently met with the commissioners to urge hospital administrative practices revamped.

The doctors, according to Chancey, encouraged both an overhaul of the 16-man hospital board and looked forward to next year's retirement of Mrs. Oliver when she reaches the mandatory age of retirement at 70.

The doctors argued that the best course for the county commission would be to permit the administrator to exit gracefully, and then move to redirect the administration.

According to Chancey, the doctors also urged that "some (hospital) board members not be reinstated," and that greater care be given to selection of hospital trustees in the future.

Chancey said the doctor's primary objections concerned the improper allocation of hospital space for non-medical activities and general "policy administration."

Chancey would not name the doctors.

Under state law, medical professionals such as physicians and nurses are barred from serving on the hospital's board.

The hospital administrator is appointed by the hospital's board, whose members in turn are appointed by the county commission.

The county commissioners have no direct control over the hospital's operations, but wield much clout through control of county funds funneled to the hospital — and through appointment of the hospital trustees.

Loughmiller said the commissioners had met recently with the executive committee of the hospital board to recommend broad administrative changes at the hospital. The recommendation reportedly went far beyond changes in the business offices, as earlier reported.

"It all comes right back to top management," Leonard said.

Firm found in court contempt

BOISE (UPI) — Tri-West Construction Co., Boise, was found in contempt of court Monday on two violations of a temporary injunction against its use of unfair promotional gimmicks.

The firm was issued a preliminary injunction last July 30 by Judge Marion J. Callister. Last week the company was charged with violation of four counts of the injunction.

Deputy attorney general Stewart Morris and Richard Greener appeared at the hearing to determine if Tri-West should be held in contempt of court.

Witnesses who testified indicated they had been offered residential metal siding at a reduced rate if they would agree their homes could be used as "model" homes for the company.

Greener told the court one point of the injunction was that Tri-West not use the model home promotional device.

An attorney for Tri-West moved to quash the contempt proceedings on grounds the testimony failed to show violation of the preliminary injunction and that the state could not show injury to itself.

Judge Callister found Monday that representations were made to a purchaser which were false and misleading statements concerning price reductions.

The court also found that Tri-West violated one other provision of the injunction which enjoined them from "causing likelihood of confusion or misunderstanding as to the affiliation, connection and association with another by representing prospective purchasers that certain of their salesmen were employees or representatives or affiliated with the United States Steel Corp., or some other nationally-known firm."

The court decision stated that in all cases there were at least insinuations of U.S. Steel involvement or authority in order to induce the sale.

Tri-West was fined a total of $1,000 for the two counts of contempt of court on the injunction.

Scheduled for Oct. 2 is a trial over whether the firm should be permanently enjoined from certain practices.

Judicial conclave opens in N. Idaho

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — About 130 judges from five northwestern states registered here Monday for a judicial conference with the avowed purpose "to give the people a better brand of justice."

"We hope to make better judges of our participants," Col. James Johnson, associate dean of the National College of Trial Judges, said, "to enable them to render more impartial decisions."

The weeklong regional judicial conference opened with remarks by Johnson, Chief Justice Henry S. McQuade of the Idaho Supreme Court and a plea for help from Lawrence Schneider, chief counsel of the National Highway Safety Administration, Washington D. C.

Last year, Schneider said, was the first time there were fewer accidents than the previous year. He said the accident rate dropped 22 per cent in 1969.

Schneider called for dramatic changes on three levels for increased highway safety — the vehicle, the driver and the roads.

"But in the area of state and county courts, the most efforts are going to be directed toward the alcohol countermeasure program," said Schneider.

If you're under 30 and 'on-the-way'... why get up-tight about life insurance?

Who needs it? It seems so plastic and static. You say, "By making it today, I'll assure my own tomorrows." O.K. That's beautiful. But have you talked to any of the with-it money-makers lately? They're really creative — and they know how to use life insurance creatively. It's simply this: life insurance can be made to be a now-idea, a way of underwriting your life-style. That's what being creative with life insurance is all about. Because we can't spell it out more in this little ad, how about talking to us and pinning us down to more specifics?

Cassia gets new home agent

BURLEY — Cassia County now has a new home extension agent. She is Mrs. Joan Parr, 24, Rupert.

Mrs. Parr fills the position vacated when Carolyn Barnes, former Cassia County home extension agent, accepted the position of area 4-H coordinator based out of the district office in Twin Falls.

A native of San Mateo, Calif., she attended schools in the Redwood City area and graduated from the Woodside High School in 1964.

During her school years Mrs. Parr was active in the 4-H program for nine years, the maximum length a person could be in it there.

After graduating from high school Mrs. Parr attended California Polytechnic College, San Luis Obispo, Calif. She graduated from Cal Poly in 1968 with a bachelor of science degree in home economics.

She then taught home economics and art in a high school in San Luis Obispo, Calif., for four months. During this time she was also working toward her masters degree in home economics from Cal Poly.

After her teaching stint at a high school Mrs. Parr taught a foods class in the Home Economics Department at Cal Poly for six months.

Work on her masters ended when she and her husband moved to this area. Mrs. Parr's husband farms in the Malta area on the Parr Brothers, Inc. operation.

Due to the lack of housing in the Burley area the Parrs moved into a house in Rupert. The Parrs will move to Burley as soon as they can find suitable housing.

During the past year Mrs. Parr has served as a substitute teacher in the Minidoka County School District.

Mrs. Parr said she likes this area of Idaho and finds it is very easy to meet people here.

"Also, the people here appear willing to help a person," she said.

Mrs. Parr said she is looking forward to working with the residents of Cassia County.

In her spare time Mrs. Parr enjoys sewing, cooking, especially foreign and gourmet foods and horseback riding.

Walkout stops work at project

GROFTINO, Idaho (UPI) — An unauthorized walkout by Laborers Union workers shut down construction at Dworshak Dam and powerhouse on the north fork of the Clearwater River near here Monday.

Laborers reportedly unhappy because of the Inland Empire chapter of the Associated General Contractors has refused to make an offer to their union, set up the picket lines at 8 a.m. and members of other unions refused to cross the lines. The AGC has been in negotiation with several area unions since June 1.

A total of 800 persons — 820 on the dam and 270 at the powerhouse — are affected by the stoppage.

Union officials requested the men return to work Tuesday morning at the giant dam and powerhouse complex which is scheduled for completion next summer.

Action begun to remove mine aides

BOISE (UPI) — A civil action seeking removal of officers of Sunshine Mining Co., Kellogg, is scheduled to go to trial Sept. 14 in U.S. District Court in Boise.

Walter E. Schott, Cincinnati, Ohio, who brought the action, contends the directors misappropriated $188,600 in company funds to take control of Underwriters Bank and Trust Co., New York.

Directors, however, contend their own personal funds were used to acquire underwriters stock.

Working moms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of children with mothers in the labor force increased sharply during the decade ending in 1970, reports the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Nearly 28 million children under 18 had mothers who were working or looking for work in March 1970, according to a bureau survey. Almost 8 million of these were under six years of age.

Copper strike talks resume

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Aug. 6. The lawmakers do not plan to return until Sept. 8. Should administration supporters mount enough strength to finally shut off the talkback by the middle of September and enact the law, it would take the Selective Service about two weeks to crank up the machinery, unused since June 30, and again begin inducting men. By then it would be October.

The impasse, however, will not affect Selective Service plans for another draft lottery — to assign numbers for draftees who would be called up during 1972. It was learned the lottery will probably be held Aug. 5. Before Laird left on his trip he had indicated it would be run during July.

The conferees adjourned until July 20, the day after Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird returns from a Far East trip. Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., head of the Senate bargaining team, said he wanted to talk with Laird before making his next move.

Most of the conferees on both sides agree with the Nixon administration that the Senate amendment — sponsored by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield — should not be enacted in its present form. As written, the amendment would declare it national policy to be completely pulled out of Vietnam nine months after the draft extension law is enacted.

Senate doves, however, have promised a filibuster if the conferees draw up a compromise that does not include a specific deadline for the withdrawal of U.S. troops.

Even if the conferees decided to accept the challenge, it is unlikely that a filibuster could be broken before Congress begins its scheduled recess.

Ellis, Blue named as all-star hurlers

DETROIT (UPI)—Dock Ellis, who didn't think he'd get the job, was set today as the streaking National League's starting pitcher against the incredible Vida Blue of the American League in baseball's annual mid-season fiesta, the All-Star Game.

The Nationals seeking their ninth straight victory in the diamond's glum game, were listed as 7-5 favorites over the smarting American League, for the contest which will draw a capacity 53,089 fans to Tiger Stadium by the 8:15 p.m. EDT game time.

But this year the A. L. has Blue, the 21-year-old rookie left-hander who a year ago was on the minor leagues watching the game on a TV set in Des Moines, Iowa.

Blue, who has won an astounding 17 games and lost only three at mid-season, got the nod as starting pitcher from A.L. skipper Earl Weaver, though preferring to save Vida's fastball for the closing innings, knew that was the way most fans want it.

It's the first time in the 41-game history of the classic that both starting pitchers will be black, and that's one reason why Ellis was sure N.L. skipper Sparky Anderson wouldn't pick him.

Kentucky's Plain will bring run, gun action to Utags' basketball

LOGAN, Utah (UPI)—T.L. Plain's "bluegrass" sense of humor and his affinity for running basketball should make him comfortable in the "big country" around Utah State University where the 43-year-old Kentucky assistant was named head coach.

Plain said, "and the same holds true for Utah."

Vasquez avenges only loss

NEW YORK (UPI)—Davey Vasquez knocked down Ricardo Delgado of Mexico twice Monday night to avenge his only defeat with a unanimous 12-round decision at Madison Square Garden in their bantamweight match.

"I don't know either coach personally," he noted, "but I do know them by reputation. I hope I can sell them on the idea of remaining with this program they helped build."

A new man asked Plain if he thought he would like to go after Rupp's job at Kentucky when the veteran coach retires in the next few years, and the new Aggie coach said he was definitely out of contention for the post.

Sharman's first assignment as Laker's new coach will be teaching Chamberlain how to shoot free throws respectably

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Bill Sharman, new head coach of the Los Angeles Lakers, is optimistic today about winning a National Basketball Association championship and as part of his job he's committed to teach Bill Chamberlain how to be a better foul shooter.

Sharman is the all-time NBA champ on free throws and when he was publicly designated as Laker coach Monday he was asked about the chances of helping someone like Chamberlain, a poor man at the free throw line.

"I think any player who wants to improve himself, especially on the free throw line can do it," he said. "It's just a matter of judging the distance and the direction from the free throw line, I think any player who wants to learn ... I can help him."

Sharman, 45, a University of Southern California product, was signed to a five-year contract by the Lakers at undisclosed terms. There were reports that Sharman's pact called for $70,000 a year. He seemed unbothered by a lawsuit to prevent him leaving the American Basketball Association team and going to the Lakers.

Sharman is the first Laker coach to have a fulltime assistant. He is K. C. Jones, 39, former University of San Francisco star on the Bill Russell team of the mid-1950s and a teammate of Sharman's with the Boston Celtics.

Anderson pointed out that Ellis had been scheduled to pitch for the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday against Atlanta, but the game was rained out. If Ellis had pitched Sunday, Anderson said, then the N.L. starter would have been either left-hander Steve Carlton of the St. Louis Cardinals or right-hander Jim Maloney of the San Francisco Giants.

Anderson, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, said he will follow up Ellis with Carlton, but isn't sure who his third pitcher will be. Unless the game goes extra innings, each All-Star pitcher is limited to three innings.

Anderson had been at Utah State for 10 seasons and was a key mover in building the independent Aggies into what Plain termed "a prestige team."

Utah Stars still planning action

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The Utah Stars apparently will go ahead with their $5 million suit against Bill Sharman, who signed a five-year contract Monday with the Los Angeles Lakers of the rival National Basketball Association.

Vince Boryla, president and general manager of the American Basketball Association Stars, had only a terse "No comment" when he was informed by telephone that his former coach had signed with the Lakers.

Boryla is vacationing in Hawaii. But the suit is still on, filed against Sharman and neither Boryla nor Stars owner Bill Daniels was considered likely to back off.

Daniels also has threatened legal action against the Lakers should they sign Sharman, who coached the Stars to the ABA championship in their first year in Utah last season.

Delgado, the 1968 Olympic flyweight champion, was dumped in the opening moments of the fifth and sixth rounds and stunned again by Vasquez in a ninth round flurry.

Vasquez, who lost a decision to Delgado last year, weighed 115 1/2 pounds compared to the Mexican's 114 1/2. The victory gave Vasquez a 10-1 record compared to 3-1 for Delgado.

Referee Harold Valan scored the fight 8-4 while judges Bill Reith had it 7-5 and Tony Castellano made it 7-3-2.

Brazil puts hopes on Koch

Jack Kent Cooke, principal Laker owner, and general manager Fred Schmitz, fielded a question about the possibility of trading Will Chamberlain. There's no thought of such a trade at present, both said.

Sharman succeeds Joe Mullaney who was fired June 3 after two years at the helm. The Lakers got to the playoffs under Mullaney but could not win the NBA title. Schaas was coach before Mullaney and he was in the same boat.

As we said, nothing is concrete on the matter as yet but it shows definitely that CSI is building a nationwide basketball reputation.

Koch recognizes that there is always that clash, between what I like to do, how I like to live and what society prescribes. But I don't think constantly of what others think of me.

Sharman inherits a team that is led by athletic standards. Chamberlain, who sometimes gives a coach a bad time because he wants his own way, will be 35 in August. Elgin Baylor will be 37 in September and Jerry West is 33.

Anderson pointed out that Ellis had been scheduled to pitch for the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday against Atlanta, but the game was rained out. If Ellis had pitched Sunday, Anderson said, then the N.L. starter would have been either left-hander Steve Carlton of the St. Louis Cardinals or right-hander Jim Maloney of the San Francisco Giants.

Anderson, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, said he will follow up Ellis with Carlton, but isn't sure who his third pitcher will be. Unless the game goes extra innings, each All-Star pitcher is limited to three innings.

Cowboys thump Dodgers 5-1, hike streak to 5

Ali shrugs off being decked by spar mate, worries about two extra inches

OGDEN (UPI) — Magic Valley used three Ogden errors and a two-run homer by a reliever Monday night for a 5-1 victory and a sweep of its four-game Pioneer League series.

The Cowboys now venture into Montana for the first time this year, playing at Great Falls Tuesday night. They will not return home until July 20 when they will entertain the Idaho Falls Angels.

The Cowboys scored two unearned runs in the sixth inning with the aid of two Dodger errors and added another in the third with another Ogden miscue.

Pete Bonfills, who came on in the seventh, stopped the first pitch from Dodger pitcher Pat Paulson over the left field fence with one man on in the ninth to round out the scoring.

HOUSTON (UPI)—Muhammad Ali has changed so much now he says he doesn't even like to talk.

But Ali, known for his showboat style during his training sessions four or five years ago, didn't quip with the crowd once this time.

"It don't give me much pleasure to talk anymore," Ali said. "I'm looking to much more to defeat poverty, slavery and injustice, not just another man."

getting in shape and getting mentally ready." But he has no plans to start ranting like he has before other fights.

Quarterback dilemma features kibbitzing at Steelers' camp

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Terry Hanratty and Terry Bradshaw will pick up where they left off last December — battling for the starting quarterback job — when the Pittsburgh Steelers open pre-season training camp Wednesday.

Bradshaw, who sat out the final game in 1970 as Hanratty went all the way, is the favorite again to win the position in his second year as a pro.

But Hanratty, going into his third season, has the edge on experience and showed considerably more poise last year than he did as a rookie.

Babe Parilli, hired to the new job of quarterback coach, will have direct charge of Hanratty and Bradshaw, as well as Bob Leahy, a taxi squad holdover, and free agent rookie Joe Spagnola when the first players report to St. Vincent College in Latrobe, Pa.

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Heavyweight Jimmy Ellis, said to be in danger of over-training for his fight against Muhammad Ali July 26, closed down his Florida camp Monday with a light workout at the Fifth St. gym.

TWIN FALLS — The first state junior Wightman Cup tennis tournament in many years is scheduled in Twin Falls Friday and Saturday, according to Jan-Mittelder, tennis instructor at the College of Southern Idaho.

Packers optimistic on Starr's progress

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Green Bay "Packer" Coach and General Manager Dan Devine was noncommittal Monday on whether Bart Starr would be his starting quarterback this fall but he had high hopes the veteran signal caller would again be at Green Bay's helm.

minimum or maximum number of wins in mind. He pointed out the Packers were last in the Central Division in points scored and in points given up last season.

"It's my aim to improve those statistics," Devine said. "The Packers have been having particular trouble in the place kicking department in recent years and Devine was asked what he'd be willing to give up to get a first-rate kicker."

He said, for example, he wouldn't trade Doug Hart, Mike McCoy or Carroll Dale for anybody.

Rubin to stay after blackouts that hearts is the desired unusual lead. Besides, maybe the hand can't make on any lead.

If West opens a spade or a diamond, South will make his slam. He will be able to discard his heart on one of dummy's top diamonds and either trump his two losing spades in dummy or ruff one and set up a heart for the discard of the other.

This hand was played in the 1960 World's championship. Dr. Pierre Jais of France, who sat West, decided his partner could not be void of diamonds nor want a diamond lead, so he opened the heart.

France had stopped at five clubs at the other table, so the French use of the 17th winner double helped them win the 1960 World's championship.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner continues to bluff. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

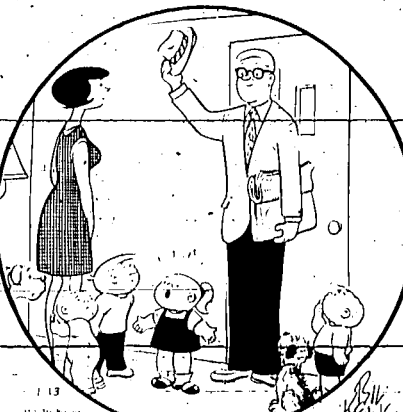

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand shows a dangerous Lighter slam double. North has bid diamonds and then hearts and East has bid spades. East is pretty sure South has trapped himself by his Blackwood call and both his aces will be winners against the six-club contract. He is afraid the wrong lead may give South a chance to get rid of a heart-loser. In any event, East is sure he does not want a spade lead. He doubles on the theory he is not going to be redoubled. Maybe his partner will recall he did not double five diamonds. Or maybe his partner will be looking at a lot of hearts and will figure

WHAT FEW young ladies realize is the average pay of secretaries is considerably higher than the average pay of fashion models... WHEN IRRITATED, the llama will stick its tongue out at you, then even spit at you with awful accuracy. The llama is naughty... THE FIVE ESSENTIALS of happiness, it's generally conceded, are: health, liberty, economic security, congenial work and reciprocated love. Are you all right in these categories, sir?

IT'S A MOST unwise husband who mentions to his wife the color of his secretary's eyes. Our Love and War mah cautions the thoughtless husband about this. He says wives hold the impression a woman tends to remember the colors of everybody's eyes. But they believe a man only recalls the color of his girlfriend's eyes. This feminine belief is not altogether erroneous.

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q... "How many RPMs can a lion develop in a charge?" A. Maybe 50 mph... Q. "How much does Elvis Presley get?" A. How much what? Money? About $5 million a year was the last report... Q. "Hasn't it been proven men have a better sense of humor than women?" A. It only has been proven men laugh louder and longer, that's all.

"YOUR LANGUAGE MAN,ers," writes Bill Totten. "The word 'blimp' came from the British Air Service official designation of the craft that was 'Type B-blimp' as opposed to the rigid airframe type. Furthermore, a blimp does not go 'blimp' when you flick it with your finger. It goes 'thunk.' Can you imagine anyone saying, 'Look, there's a 'thunk flying around up there?'"

IN EVERY home economics class, it's said, there's at least one student who's far superior to her teacher in cooking... EVEN AS YOU read these words, there are about 1,800 thunderstorms going snap, crackle, pop somewhere... AND THE AIR you breathe daily weighs about seven times as much as the food you eat, remember that.

AM FREQUENTLY asked where I got all this profoundly significant data. From specialists. Did you know there are specialists in everything? Take birds' nests. A small but devoted scatter of scholars study nothing but. They call themselves ornithologists. Or how about the dactylographists? They study finger rings.

THAT YEAR in which a boy most swiftly ages through his shoes, it's said, is age 11. His pajamas, age 4. His dungarees, age 13. His underwear, age 19. In the case of the underwear, researchers say, it's not necessarily worn out, but sometimes lost. His sweaters, age 17.

RAPID REPLY: No, sir, although the Bible talks about the skies and the heavens in more than 400 different instances, it apparently never describes them as blue.

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 17076, Fort Worth, Texas 76102.

Many special events are planned. A rodeo will be held in the Salt Palace arena. Performance will be July 21 through July 24 at 8 p.m., with matinees on July 23 and July 24 at 3:30 p.m.

Write Salt Palace for tickets or phone 801-363-7681 for ticket information. Admission prices will be $2.50, $3.50 and $4.50 and children under 14 will be half-price except July 23 and 24.

Swanee Kirby with his Bar T Rodeo Stock will be the producer. Special features will include the Dick Griffith Trick Riding Troupe from Lancaster, Calif., nationally famous clowns, Chuck Hensen and Ray Moser, and Rhonda Sedwick, organist and former Miss Rodeo America of 1960. Clem McSpadden will be the announcer.

Three parades will be featured. The Youth Parade will include approximately 5,000 participants. It will be held July 20 at 9 a.m.

The annual All Horse Parade will be held July 21, at 6 p.m. This event will feature over 100 entries.

Modern track Red Cross unit adds new movie equipment

TWIN FALLS — First aid classes under the direction of the Twin Falls Chapter, American Red Cross, may be more modern in their approach in the future, thanks to a new 16-millimeter projector and films purchased by the chapter.

Byron Hacking, first aid chairman for the chapter, received the new equipment this week. It was purchased with the more than $900 the Red Cross Chapter received from the Idaho Old Time Fiddlers Association benefit last winter at Filer.

Hazel Wilder, benefit chairman, said the fiddlers donated their time and talent in the jumboree and dance and have indicated they will support a similar event this year.

She said this year's program will be "limited" to prevent anyone having to stand or wait for the show with a concert and dance held simultaneously in the Filer High School auditorium and gymnasium. No date has been set for the year's benefit.

Hacking said the projector and two permanent films for first aid instruction have been purchased and will be available in first aid classes to illustrate such things as latest techniques in "artificial respiration" and other life saving measures.

Hacking received a special award from the American Red Cross national office this year for five years of voluntary service in the field of first aid. The award requires at least 200 hours minimum per year for five years and Hacking has donated about 900 hours per year for the past three years and more than 200 hours during the two years prior to that time.

Mrs. Wilder and Hacking also received "enger beaver" awards this year for outstanding volunteer services on behalf of the Twin Falls Red Cross Chapter.

Economic policies attacked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany today described the nation's economy as "just plain lousy."

House Speaker Carl Albert called it "sick."

Both men criticized Nixon administration economic policies as the labor organization opened a two-day conference on job opportunities. Meany was especially critical of Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

"He (Connally) is a proven expert at Texas politics and knows quite a bit about the oil companies and their needs and the banks and the insurance companies and what they want. I'm not sure he knows much about the national economy and I am certain he doesn't understand the problems of American workers."

Albert, addressing the labor leaders, said "there is no prospect of improvement for the foreseeable future" in unemployment and inflation.

"We have 5.5 million unemployed Americans as the price of these administration policies without benefit to the rest of us, and have bartered gainful employment for a sick economy," Albert said. "Yet the President seems incapable of viewing inflation as a broad-based phenomenon and continues to point the finger at labor alone."

"In times as complex as these, we have to jettison the worthless ballast of outdated economic theory. Government as the employer of last resort in an emergency situation is clearly the fairest and most efficient answer."

Albert said President Nixon's veto of legislation to provide more public service jobs was "inexplicable."

Meany said Connally showed a shocking lack of faith in the American people by suggesting unemployment always will be high, except in wartime.

Fewer tourists but more trash

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI) — The tourists aren't flocking to Yellowstone National Park in growing numbers this year, but the ones that are visiting the Wyoming wilderness are just as "trashy" as ever.

Richard Heigel, a park visitor-use specialist from Mammoth, Wyo., said Sunday there has been a decrease on the whole season in visitors of six per cent.

But he said the tourists who were visiting the park weren't any more ecology minded than the visitors in the past as far as problems as in the past as far as garbage and littering go, he said.

Heigel said he was not sure what was causing the tourists to cut their visits to Yellowstone down and didn't "know for sure" if incidents with the bears had anything to do with it.

Yellowstone has had problems with bear-human confrontations in the past, with nearly 40 persons injured by bears last year. But the rangers have implemented several new programs this year and incidents are down to only two so far.

"There may be numerous factors involved," he said. "We haven't conducted any study."

Cuba Red official killed by grenade

MIAMI (UPI) — A Communist party official was killed by a hand grenade as he helped battle two hijackers who tried to take over a Cubana Airlines flight inside Cuba, Havana radio reported today.

The two hijackers and another passenger who fought them also were injured, the radio report said, but the plane landed safely at Rancho Byeros Airport in Havana.

The radio report, quoting a communiqué from the Cuban Interior Ministry, did not identify the type of airplane, say how many passengers it carried, or where the hijackers wanted to go.

According to Havana radio, the folded hijacking occurred Sunday aboard Cubana's Flight 740 from Havana to Cienfuegos about 25 minutes after the plane left Havana.

Two men armed with hand grenades made the hijack attempt, the radio said, one of them grabbing stewardess Tanya Valdes.

"She fought back bravely, throwing a tray she was carrying at them," the radio said.

Two other passengers identified as Lt. Jose Fernandez Santos and "comrade" Reynaldo Naranjo Leiva, a designation indicating a Communist party member, jumped up and overpowered the hijackers, but one of the hand grenades carried by the hijackers exploded, according to Havana radio.

The report said Naranjo Leiva was killed.

Sales rise

OAKLAND (UPI) — Safeway stores Monday reported increases both in sales and earnings for the first 24 weeks of 1971.

Sales were $2.4 billion, an increase of 14 per cent over the comparable period of 1970. Net income was $32.7 million, or $1.28 per share, an increase of 11 per cent. During the first 24 weeks, Safeway opened 41 new stores and 21,683 sq.

Airborne fire watch takes off

MISSOULA Mont. (UPI) — The U.S. Forest Service will initiate a new airborne infrared fire detection system to provide forest fire surveillance for 0.200 square miles along the Montana-Idaho line beginning next week.

The area, approximately the size of Massachusetts, is in five national forests between here and the Salmon River in the rugged mountains of western Montana and northern Idaho.

"Infrared fire scanning as used on a limited, experimental basis in the past," William R. Moore, chief of fire control for the northern region said. "But this is the first operational use of infrared systems for use in detecting small fires."

Moore said the equipment can detect fires as small as one foot square at night and 10 square feet in daytime.

Heat-sensing infrared equipment and cameras will be flown on routine patrols in a Beechcraft B90 aircraft each day, depending on the fire danger and lightning storm occurrence through the middle of September.

The new aerial patrol will permit the Forest Service to close 23 lookout towers in the region, but the towers will not be torn down in the event the aerial patrol cannot provide the necessary coverage of the area.

Law data calls set

SEATTLE — Establishment of a telephone answering service in Idaho to provide needed information about the Williams-Stelger Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 was announced today by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Chain Robbins, regional administrator of the Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration said the service will enable the regional and area staffs of the agency to give prompt attention to queries about the new federal law.

Robbins said his team is planning a series of public engagements in Idaho to provide employers and employees with information about the law and its requirements.
