Russia shuns summit

VIENNA (UPI)—The Kremlin sees no merit in American Congressional suggestions of a summit conference before President Nixon goes to China, Communist sources said today. American Senators including 1968 Democratic Presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey, had suggested that Nixon meet with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin before his Peking trip. There had been suggestions here that the two men could meet if and when the first Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) treaty is signed. But the sources, without ruling out a change of mind, said Soviet leaders were surprised and irritated at the announcement of the China trip and suspicious that Nixon might be carrying on a "two-faced" foreign policy aimed at wooing both Russia and its Communist foe, China.

It was assumed that Soviet diplomats, both in Moscow and Washington, had been fully briefed by the U.S. government since the announcement and assured that Nixon was not courting China at Soviet expense.

But this has not allayed Moscow's suspicion, the sources said, and has led Kosygin to feel that he would only display "weakness" by rushing into a summit meeting with Nixon before the President goes to Peking sometime before May.

The sources warned that this Soviet suspicion could affect progress at the SALT talks, now in progress in Helsinki. But diplomats here noted that the SALT negotiators have succeeded so far in peering outside issues—even the U.S. invasion of Cambodia—out of the talks.

Foreign assist gets OK

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee today approved a bill to authorize $3.4 billion in foreign aid for this fiscal year. The measure would cut off military assistance to Greece and Pakistan but provide an extra $100 million for relief to East Pakistani refugees.

The bill is $102 million less than the Nixon administration requested, but $1.5 billion more than Congress appropriated for the past fiscal year which ended June 30.

The committee voted against President Nixon's request to start a complete overhaul of the nation's foreign aid program. Instead, it voted to extend the existing approach two more years.

The committee voted to terminate all military aid to Greece and not resume it until the ruling military regime permits free elections. Greece receives no economic assistance at present.

The committee also voted to suspend all military and economic aid to Pakistan until the national government ends its military crackdown on the Bengali separatists in East Pakistan. The additional $100 million would go for the relief of East Pakistani refugees who have fled into India.

Pact signed

THE U. S. POSTAL Service and seven unions signed negotiated labor contracts Tuesday covering some 700,000 postal workers. Cost is estimated at $1 billion over two years. At signing are Postmaster General Winton Blount, left; Peter Fosco, president of Laborers International Union of North America, center; and James Rademacher, president of National Association of Letter Carriers. Others are unidentified. (UPI)

Rail shutdown blow 'slight'

TWIN FALLS — While Magic Valley merchants report few serious effects from the United Transportation Union strike against the Union Pacific Railroad, about 2,700 Idaho employees of that line are without jobs. The railroad strike is one of two still continuing against Idaho utilities. The other was called against Western Union May 31. Ed Schafer, public relations director for Union Pacific, Omaha, said employees in maintenance and shop jobs were suspended Monday. Their jobs were discontinued until the rail strike is over. They will be returned to the payroll, as business increases, he said. The suspension affects 88 percent of the road's employees. The other 12 per cent are non-union employees who are still working. They are supervisors, chief clerks, and secretarial and skilled labor.

New-car dealers in Twin Falls called today said they had received all of their 1971 stocks of new cars, or have cars awaiting truck shipment from Salt Lake City, and are not "hurting" for the immediate future.

A Twin Falls lumberyard spokesman said most lumber is brought in by trucks, but some materials, including wall siding and Masonite, is carried by train. He has a stock on hand, but if the strike continues, supplies may be short.

Women's wear shops in the Magic Valley reported no immediate problems. Fall fashions are on order, and in some cases will be delivered by truck. Again, if the rail strike continues, stocks may grow short in some cases.

Fleets of trucks are flocking to the J. R. Simplot plant in Heyburn, which ships out several million pounds of processed potatoes each week, according to Fred Jens, plant manager. As an example of elsewhere on the nation's troubled labor scene, most of 300,000 communications workers returned to their jobs in the Bell telephone system, but a strike against two major railroads continued. Leaders of the Communications Workers of America (CWA) ordered their members to end a week-old strike against the Bell system at midnight Tuesday. An agreement in the dispute reached Monday will give union leaders have described as a 33 per cent boost in wages and benefits over three years.

Strikers register dismay

Disaffection with terms of the reported settlement of the telephone strike by the executive board of the Communications Workers of America was voiced today by George Wallace, Twin Falls, president of CWA Local No. 8110. "I think the majority of the people are ready to go back to work," Wallace told the Times-News today. "There are a lot of things we would have liked to have that we didn't get."

Wallace explained that in negotiating, "You go in with a big bunch (of demands) and you sit there and bargain with these people and when you think you've got as much as they're going to give you, you have to make the decision whether or not to stay out or to go back."

"The decision was made to go back," Wallace said. "Some union locals are 'highly irate,' and have maintained picket lines in other states, Wallace said. United Press International reports said today pickets were still marching in New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming and Arizona.

In deciding whether to honor the request from CWA officials to end the strike, Wallace said that "We've got a lot of women here who are supporting families by themselves, and it's a little difficult to keep these people on the job. It might be another 60 days and it might be just a few days for only a few dollars. You have to make the decision whether to go back or to stay out."

Postal pay hike 'juicy'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Seven unions signed a contract Tuesday with the new Postal Service giving 750,000 workers an average $1,710 pay raise.

Union leaders signed the pact and traded the hefty pay boost, which is expected to cost over $1 billion during its two-year life, for an agreement that will allow long-sought automation in the handling of mail.

Elsewhere on the nation's troubled labor scene, most of 300,000 communications workers returned to their jobs in the Bell telephone system, but a strike against two major railroads continued.

Leaders of the Communications Workers of America (CWA) ordered their members to end a week-old strike against the Bell system at midnight Tuesday. An agreement in the dispute reached Monday will give union leaders have described as a 33 per cent boost in wages and benefits over three years.

Golda defers to Dyan

JERUSALEM (UPI)—The Israeli newspaper Ha'aretz said today Mrs. Golda Meir has decided not to seek re-election as prime minister after the 1973 general elections and has named Defense Minister Moshe Dayan as successor.

The prime minister's office emphatically denied the report. The independent morning newspaper, widely respected in Israel, said Dayan's candidacy was discussed by Mrs. Meir and older statesman David Ben-Gurion during a meeting Friday at Ben-Gurion's retreat in the Negev Desert.

Ha'aretz said Ben-Gurion dismissed the idea of Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Alon and Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir as possible candidates for prime minister. The paper said both he and Mrs. Meir favored Dayan as her successor.

Alon and Sapir are known to be angling for the premiership.

Dayan made an attempt to run for office in 1969 under the banner of the Rafi party—founded by Ben-Gurion in 1965 to oppose Eshkol—but decided against the bid and joined the Labor party instead. He was appointed defense minister by Mrs. Meir.

Dayan, always considered a political maverick, was expelled into the limelight as the hero of the 1967 Middle East War. He had agitated shortly before the war to be appointed defense minister by Eshkol, who reluctantly agreed less than a week before the war broke out June 5.

Lockheed bailout advances

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Banking Committee approved a $2 billion emergency loan fund today to keep Lockheed Aircraft Corp. from falling into bankruptcy and to aid other distressed major corporations.

The bill is identical to a measure under consideration in the Senate. The House group approved the same version of a Senate Banking Committee bill on three votes.

The Senate-type bill was proposed by Rep. Robert Stephens, D-Ga., and adopted by bipartisan votes of 17 to 14 and 16 to 16.

The action apparently eased the way for emergency help for Lockheed, which wants a $250-million loan guarantee to continue building its TriStar "jet bus" and to avoid what it said would be certain bankruptcy without it.

DMZ fighting left to Viets

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command pulled its last infantry battalion out of the northernmost Quang Tri province today amid predictions by allied intelligence officers that South Vietnam would have difficulty holding the area against an estimated 20,000 Communist masses nearby.

The withdrawal of the 1st Battalion of the 11th Infantry meant that for the first time since 1966 when the U.S. Marines marched in there will be no U.S. infantry along the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), spokesmen said.

Military sources said about 5,000 South Vietnamese troops inside Cambodia started a sweep into Communist sanctuaries east of the rubber plantation town of Snuol 85 miles north of Saigon. Both South Vietnamese spokesman Col. Le Trung Hien and U.S. officials denied that any new government troops had crossed the border or that a new operation was underway.

The troops involved reported no contact. U.S. B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese troops, bunkers, antiaircraft emplacements and supply routes at the northern edge of South Vietnam Tuesday night and today, spokesmen said. Military sources said two of the strikes were within a mile of the DMZ along which Communist troops have been engaged in troop buildups.

There are still U.S. units in Quang Tri—an armored cavalry squadron assigned to the 101st Airborne Division and several batteries of big U.S. 175mm and eight-inch guns that are part of the 24th Corps, spokesmen said.

The South Vietnamese Cambodian sweep was begun in an effort to clean out Communist concentrations.

Price fix? US says shopping center pacts ban price cutters

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) filed its first case today against what it said is a widespread practice of price-fixing by big department stores at shopping centers.

An FTC spokesman said the practice costs consumers millions of dollars by eliminating price competition at many shopping centers throughout the nation.

It is done, the spokesman said, by big department stores agreeing to lease shopping center space only in return for the power to approve or disapprove other prospective tenants. The large stores then screen out discount stores, the spokesman said.

"This allows them to maintain higher prices," he added. "The consumer's choice is cut back considerably."

The initial case involved Tysons Corner regional shopping center in the northern Virginia suburbs of Washington, D.C., and three big chain department stores. All four firms were accused of violating the antitrust laws and were given an opportunity to sign consent orders under which the allegedly illegal practices would end.

The chains were May Department Stores Co., Los Angeles, a leading chain with annual sales of more than $1 billion operating in the Washington area as The Hecht Co.; City Stores Co., New York, with annual sales of more than $380 million, operating in Washington as Lansburgh's; and Woodward and Lothrop, Inc., a large local chain with annual sales of more than $128 million.

Although the case involves only three stores at Tysons Corner, the FTC spokesman said the practice is "prevalent throughout the country." He said the FTC was considering similar action involving other stores at other shopping centers.

Flies again

FRANCIS GARY POWERS, U-2 spy plane pilot who spent 21 months in Soviet prison before release in 1962, is back in air gathering intelligence. He is not working for CIA but for Santa Monica, Calif., radio station as traffic spotter, flying over Los Angeles freeway network to report flow of vehicles. Powers was captured in May, 1960, when his plane was forced down in Russia. He was convicted of spying at trial. (UPI)

Sudanese now tense

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Tanks and armored cars guarded key installations and the overthrown rulers of the Sudan today as the seven leaders of the new regime consulted on the formation of a new cabinet to head Africa's largest nation.

The Iraqi News Agency said it was likely the new prime minister would be Maj. Farouk Osman Hamadallah, a member of the seven-man leftist revolutionary council set up Tuesday. Hamadallah and four others on the council are pro-Communists, Arab political sources said.

The two-year-old government of Maj. Gen. Jaafar Numeiry was overthrown by rebel army officers Monday in a bloodless coup which was over in 45 minutes. One of the shortest takeovers on record in the Arab world.

Professor claims radiation hikes Gem infant mortality

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—A 25 per cent increase in infant mortality in three western states, including Idaho, over the past two years was reported today by a University of Pittsburgh professor.

Dr. Ernest J. Sternglass of the school of medicine at the University of Pittsburgh said he based his report on studies conducted by the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in Idaho, Montana and Oregon.

Dr. Sternglass, speaking before the sixth annual Berkeley Symposium of Mathematical Statistics and Probability, said higher radioactivity levels in air, milk and water is bringing about the sharp rise in infant deaths.

His allegations drew angry retorts from some in attendance at the symposium. One questioner called his use of data "distorted," and another, Dr. Theodore Sterling of Washington University, St. Louis, challenged Sternglass' selection of data.

Professor Jerry Weyman, director of the statistical laboratory at the University of California at Berkeley, joined the challengers, saying that the only way to attribute something specific to one pollutant, such as the alleged radioactivity, is to study all of the major known contaminants jointly.

In Seattle, James H. Agee, acting director of the Region 10 office of the EPA, told the Times-News that he knew only that "the radiation program is new to me; it came from the HEW side of our new agency. We know that we do have a study and have been doing surveillance."

Agee said he would ascertain the details of the report and promised to cooperate with news media in releasing the study. Idaho infant mortality averages below the national average, according to the Idaho Bureau of Vital Statistics, averaging from 18.5 per cent in 1968 to a high of 23.7 per cent in 1965.

The national average, according to the World Almanac, quoting the U.S. Division of Vital Statistics, was 21.3 per cent for fiscal 1968 and 20.3 per cent for the following year.

Idaho figures, however, are percentage of infants dying within the first 11 months of life, and listed as the number of deaths per 1,000 live births. Include: 1969, 21.7 per cent, 269 deaths; 1968, 23.7 per cent, 288; 1967, 22.3 per cent, 281; 1966, 22.1 per cent, 283; 1965, 23.0 per cent, 335; 1964, 23.0 per cent, 300; 1963, 23.7 per cent, 311; 1962, 19.2 per cent, 244; 1961, 18.9 per cent, 237; 1960, 18.9 per cent, 242; and 1959, 18.9 per cent, 253.

The figures have not yet been released for the 1970 per cent. The figures, however, are for the Bureau of Vital Statistics.

Former foreign aides testify

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Stewart Service and John Pafon Davies Jr., two former foreign service officers who fell victim to the McCarthy era hunt for "who lost China," emerged from a quarter-century of obscurity today as witnesses before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Davies and Service were called to testify privately before the committee as the national debate over the shifting U.S. policy toward China continued.

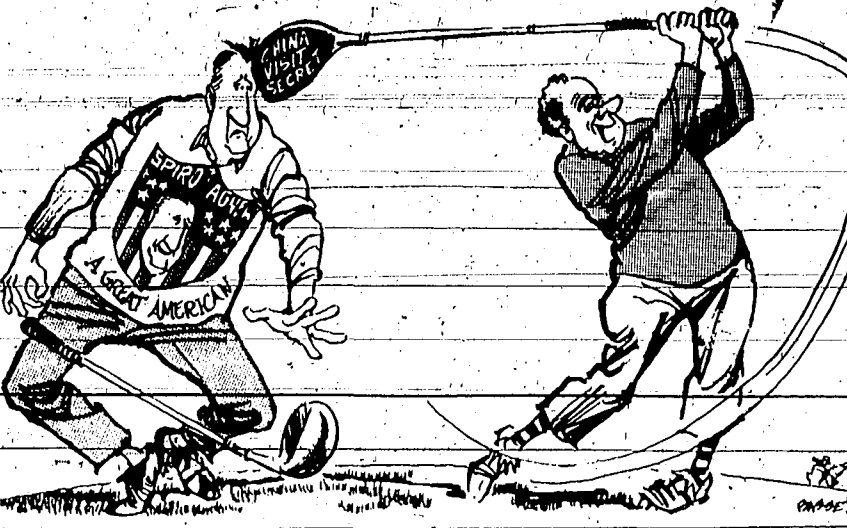

The two men were in China during the critical period of World War II when Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang forces and Mao Tse-tung's Communists struggled for control of the nation. Both were young foreign service officers on Gen. Joseph "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell's staff in 1944 and 1945. Their cables sent to the State Department portrayed Chiang's government as a corrupt, decrepit regime that commanded support of only a fraction of the Chinese people. Service's talks with Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai, in which the two leaders expressed their hope for cooperation with Americans in defeating the Japanese invaders, represent some of the last friendly contacts between China and the United States until White House adviser Henry Kissinger's recent trip to Peking.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, already had decided to call Davies and Service as witnesses before President Nixon's announcement Thursday night that he soon would visit Peking for talks with Mao and Chou. Fulbright believes the mistake in foreign policy that resulted in the Vietnam war was not made by the Johnson and Kennedy administrations but resulted from the postwar decisions in which the United States ignored advice from Service, Davies and other professional "China hands" and threw its lot in with Chiang against the Communists.

Committee sources said Fulbright had discussed having Service and Davies in open session but decided against it for the time being.

Service and Davies were drummed out of the diplomatic corps along with other experienced China experts during the domestic political repercussions that followed the Communist takeover of China in 1949.

Letter report said incorrect

TWIN FALLS. — A part time nurse at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital since 1969 who had written a letter critical of several hospital administration policies said today her report was incorrectly reported in Tuesday's Times-News.

Deloras Slms, R.N., a former college of Southern Idaho instructor who had worked to set up the college's nursing program for five months prior to the arrival of the nursing program's director, said in her letter that directors of nursing service at the hospital had not remained on the job long during recent years. In the newspaper story, no reference was made to the problem existing only in "recent years."

Mrs. Slms had said the rapid turnover was a reflection of the failure by the hospital administration to delegate authority commensurate with the position of director of nursing.

Fruther, Mrs. Slms said, the problems of the hospital — not attempts at their solution — were likened to a submerged iceberg.

Mrs. Slms said a licensed practical nurse had refused to work in the intensive care unit when no registered nurse was on duty to supervise. Mrs. Slms' point was that the hospital had not remained on the job long during recent years. In the newspaper story, no reference was made to the problem existing only in "recent years."

Panel calls alleged mobster for testimony on mail theft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An alleged mobster described as a dangerous man by two former partners in crime was subpoenaed to testify today about his role in a nationwide ring of mail thieves linked to the underworld.

The Senate investigations subcommittee summoned the witness, Gregory Scarpa, after he was named in sworn testimony by imprisoned thieves as a major fence who bought their stolen goods and who had high mob connections in Brooklyn and Staten Island in New York City.

The men who so identified him — Robert F. Cudak last month and James V. Schaefer Tuesday — are serving prison terms for mail theft. Both testified under court-ordered immunity from further prosecution about their criminal past.

Both bluntly described Scarpa as dangerous and said they broke off dealing with him after a short time.

"We were glad to get away from him," Schaefer said. "I didn't want to deal with him any more. I was afraid of him... we might wind up getting killed."

While the Senate subcommittee continued its investigation of organized crime, the House government operations subcommittee was probing another area of the crime problem — the government's effort to beef up local and state police forces.

Tuesday's house hearing produced reports that federal funds intended for police improvement in Alabama wound up in the pockets of political cronies, newsmen, law firms and to pay the college tuition of sons of public safety officials.

The Alabama case was the first examined by the subcommittee as it launched an investigation into what use has been made by the states of the $375 million distributed by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) since Congress created the Justice Department agency to administer the 1968 Safe Streets Act.

The subcommittee got an idea how Alabama used the funds. State Attorney General William Baxley, State Auditor Melba Till Allen and publisher Harold Martin, whose Montgomery Advertiser investigated the program, all testified Tuesday. Most of the alleged irregularities occurred before 1971; the year Baxley came into office and Gov. George Wallace returned to the state house.

A $117,000 program to send qualified cadet state troopers to college was halted after the Advertiser discovered that the 18 "cadets" included the sons of then-Public Safety Director Floyd Mann, Prison Commissioner L. B. Sullivan, a bodyguard to Wallace, and various other high ranking officials in the Department of Public Safety and the Highway Patrol.

A contract for $91,570 to draw up a 1971 law enforcement plan was awarded to Criminal Justice Systems, Inc., a firm with no previous experience in the field and which was incorporated on the same day (June 15, 1970) that the contract was signed. Its principals were Wendell Harris, newscaster for WAPI-TV, Birmingham, and Tom Lanford, editor of the Huntsville News, the Huntsville Times and the Mobile Press-Register which have common ownership. The contract, which was not put up for bids as required, clouded the news organizations' ability to monitor the honesty and effectiveness of the program, Mrs. Allen and Martin contended.

Sears Tower, now general headquarters building of Sears, Roebuck & Co., now under construction in Chicago, will be the world's tallest building, rising 110 stories or 1,450 feet, and containing 4.4 million square feet of floor space. It is to be completed in 1974.

Saigon imposes coverage rules

SAIGON (UPI) — New rules governing news coverage of South Vietnamese army operations will go into effect "very soon," sharply restricting reporting of military actions, a South Vietnamese military spokesman said today.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien told the daily joint allied battle briefing for correspondents: "In the very near future we will give out a set of ground rules (for correspondents). You will be restricted very much," he said.

The U.S. command has operated almost from the onset of American military commitment in Indochina under a set of ground rules which restrict the reporting of future plans and new operations until they are officially announced. The South Vietnamese have had no ground rules for correspondents.

Hien made his announcement in denying a news agency report of a new South Vietnamese operation in Cambodia.

"Recently, you have been told several times, officially or unofficially, that you should not release information about operations in which there has been no contact with the enemy, or about future plans," he said.

Slipe, who was elected chairman during the meeting, said the board action brought to 84 the number of licenses issued to date in 1971.

Question time to continue

TWIN FALLS — City council members will continue their "overtime" volunteer services at least for several additional Saturday mornings. It was announced today by City Manager Jean Milar. Milar said Councilman Tom Nelson will be available at city hall Saturday of this week from 9:30 a.m. to noon to discuss any city government matters with interested citizens of the city. The informal discussions are designed to give residents an opportunity to air problems or obtain special information without having to sit through the semi-monthly city council meetings. This will be the fourth week of the program.

Council adopts T.F. tax levies

TWIN FALLS — City council members have adopted the 1971 tax levy ordinance for ad valorem taxes needed for various departments and special levies. The city, based on an anticipated $19,500,000 assessed valuation for the current tax period, anticipates $974,995 in total tax income compared to $865,645 last year, an increase of 12 per cent. Under new state tax regulations, units such as cities submit their levies to the county auditors in dollar amounts rather than requested levies and the auditors set the levies to bring in this amount of revenue. City Manager Jean Milar said the amounts requested this year are expected to require about a 30 mill levy, the same as calculated by the city last year. He said new annexations which will increase assessed valuation within the city boundaries were taken into consideration in this year's tax levy ordinance. Amounts for various levies compared to anticipated revenue for last year include general current expenses, $180,750 and $349,942; street improvement, sprinkling and flushing, $185,245 and $138,135; library, $97,500 and $82,881; capital improvements, $39,000 and $36,835; airport maintenance and improvement, $39,000 and $38,835; recreation, $58,500 and $55,255, and fire department $175,500 and $162,782.

Concert offers wide selection

TWIN FALLS — A wide variety of music, ranging from marches, waltzes and classical selections to a taste of a Broadway musical, are on tap for music lovers Thursday evening in the weekly series of concerts in the Twin Falls City Park. Director Del Slaughter will direct the Twin Falls Municipal Band in "America the Glorious March" by E. H. Kieffman; excerpts from "Rienzi" by Richard Wagner; waltzes from "Sari" by Emmerich Kalman and, before the intermission, five movements from "Ballet Parisienne" by Offenbach, including the Overture, the Valse, the Galop, Valse and Finale. Following the intermission, the band will present "Amorito Roco" by Jalme Texidor; "Mendocwlands" by L. Knipper; "Kentucky Babe" by Adam Golbel; "La Bolla Roma" by John Cacavas; selections from "Annie Get Your Gun" by Irving Berlin, and "The Phantom Regiment" by LeRoy Anderson. The concert will close with the traditional "Star Spangled Banner." The concert begins at 8:15 p.m. Thursday at the band shell.

Couple charged

TWIN FALLS — James Fetterly, 41, and his wife, Barbara Fetterly, 35, were in Twin Falls county custody today, charged with trespassing. Sheriff's officers apprehended the couple late Tuesday at their camp on Rock Creek south of Hanson. The couple and their nine children were living on property owned or leased by Charlotte Crockett and had been there the past two weeks, officers said. Both were in custody in lieu of $300 bond. Officers said they had been warned on previous occasions of possible trespass charges as they were residing on private property. The couple and their children had been residing along with several dogs, cats and horses, in camping fashion. The children were placed in Harbor House.

Disease sparks waiver studies

TWIN FALLS — Meetings were scheduled today in Twin Falls to discuss a waiver of National High School Rodeo rules which might alleviate some problems being created by an outbreak of Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis in the southwest. Moe Sagers, Gooding, Idaho High School Rodeo president, has talked to directors of several states. He said the disease has spread all over the southwest and Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico are under quarantine. It is his understanding no horses will be able to come to the finals at Filer next month from Louisiana. In Texas, where the first big outbreak of the disease occurred, horses were vaccinated in time for most to be able to come. Sagers said national rules prohibit girls in queen contest, barrel racing, pole bending and cow cutting, and boys in cow cutting, from competing on the same horse. He and Dave Campbell, national president of the National High School Rodeo Association, will meet at 2 p.m. today to discuss a waiver of the rules. Sagers also said he is attempting to find Idaho horses for the teen-agers to use. He said it is no problem finding roping and "dogging horses, but horses for some girls' events are more scarce. Anyone who has a horse which they would allow a contestant to use can telephone Sagers at 934-4572 in Gooding, or call the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce office in Twin Falls.

Sagers said "If we can round up some good horses for these kids to use, it's going to be a good example of our hospitality and it's going to create a good feeling about Idaho." Members of the National High School Rodeo executive committee from Twin Falls are meeting today with Campbell and Cotton Rosser, rodeo producer, to discuss the problem.

Armour Anderson, president of the committee, said he does not know just how seriously the problem will affect the rodeo. Sagers said, however, there will be absolutely no drawback from a spectator standpoint. At a meeting Tuesday Tom Shouse, secretary-manager of the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo, said the fairgrounds will be sprayed prior to the Aug. 3 opening of the rodeo, eliminating any chance of spread of the disease locally. Sagers said the disease is spread strictly by mosquitoes and by eradicating the insects, chance of spreading it will be eliminated.

Sanders outlet starts

TWIN FALLS — Col. Sanders Kentucky Fried Chicken will open in Twin Falls after two years of trying, according to Lyman Sperry, Provo, Utah, owner of the local franchise. He said problems with zoning regulations and finding proper location had hindered the opening of the outlet for two years. Sperry said construction of the fried chicken take home outlet will be finished late in September. Location of the outlet will be in the 1100 block of Blue Lakes Boulevard near North Five Points and Washington School. Sperry said only local personnel will be used in construction and operation of the Twin Falls franchise which is company policy. Al Clawson, Twin Falls, is contractor for the project.

LWV board to examine study view

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Marjorie Stotten, Twin Falls, first vice president of the Idaho League of Women Voters will attend a board meeting Friday and Saturday in Idaho Falls, at which the league position on development of the White Clouds is expected to be a major item. Joy Buersmeyer, Boise, state LWV president, said other items on the agenda include planning a proposed statewide fund drive, creation of member-at-large units and discussion of plans for the 1972 Idaho legislative session.

Elected

BOISE (UPI) — Earl Gunnell, Soda Springs, a member of the Idaho State Park Board for four years, was elected board chairman Tuesday at a special re-organizational meeting.

Other officers chosen were Mrs. Beth Durham, Lewiston, vice chairman, and Kent Gist, Brantland, secretary. The board will hold its next meeting in Salmon July 29-30.

Panel OK's seat sales

TWIN FALLS — The executive committee of National High School Rodeo met Tuesday noon to continue plans for the event scheduled at Filer Aug. 3-8. James Rosenbaum, chairman of box seat sales, said about 90 box seats still are available for the show. The committee approved a suggestion to sell the seats at the gate if they are not sold when the rodeo begins. The box seats, Rosenbaum said, are the only reserved seats available. They are available by calling the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce. Tom Shouse, manager of the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds where the event will be held, said work is progressing there, but that help will be needed in the near future and during the rodeo itself.

Ewil Garrett and JoAnne Chaffin are in charge of housing, said some accommodations in private homes will be needed for the contestants. Anyone interested in providing accommodations for the students can call the chamber of commerce. It also was reported that trade dollars are now in circulation in Twin Falls and surrounding area. They are redeemable until Aug. 31. The dollars carry a picture of Idaho on one side and the National High School Rodeo symbol on the other. The committee also scheduled a meeting at noon today with Cotton Rosser, producer of the rodeo. The committee and Rosser will meet at the airport and then tour the fairgrounds.

2 youths wounded

BOISE (UPI) — An altercation apparently began in Julia Davis Park Tuesday when an unidentified man began to swing a knife-ended with two Boise youths treated for knife wounds and over 100 persons involved. "It was the closest thing I'd ever seen to a riot in Boise," Boise police officer Doug Thomas said. "People were running all over the place." Daryl Horner and Glenn Epperley were treated in the emergency room of St. Luke's Hospital for cuts on the arms and back.

Police said they understood an unidentified man began swinging the knife and injured the two youths. The man then tried to enter a car, but was pulled from the vehicle and the altercation started.

Probation granted

JEROME — Steve L. Gifford, 18, Jerome, was given a suspended sentence and placed on one year probation Tuesday when he appeared before Fifth Judicial District Judge Theon W. Ward. He was charged with unlawfully producing a "controlled substance," identified in the complaint as marijuana plants. He and a companion were arrested by Sheriff James Burns, Chief of Police C.H. Puntney and agents of the Idaho Bureau of Drug Control. The companion was released several weeks ago for lack of evidence, officers said.

Growing Threat Of World Have-Nots

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In the Southwest, a huge new electric power complex is rising in the desert. The pollution-fighters, protective of the desert's clean air, have made it controversial. Something else makes it very interesting project. Nicknamed the "four oners" development, from the fact that it is near the joining point of Utah, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona, it is designed to supply major supplementary power for Los Angeles, Phoenix and some other cities. Its potential capacity is set at 20,000 megawatts (20 billion watts).

What makes this interesting is contrast. The other day a high government official concerned with world matters spotted that megawatt figure. He suddenly realized that it almost perfectly matched the power development which the World Bank had financed over a 25-year period in "developing nations" with a total population of 1.8 billion.

That power growth financed by the bank represents today about one-fifth of the total power resources in the developing countries. To put it most dramatically, what those 1.8 billion people have in the way of power is just five times as great as what is being planned in our southwestern desert to take care of power overloads in Los Angeles and Phoenix.

The official who cited this example offered it to point up the incredible disparity between the affluent countries and the "have-nots." It is not news to say that many officials working to pull up the economies of the poorer lands think the gap is getting wider all the time.

One reason, known to us all, is the galloping rise in population in the world's poverty-stricken nations. There are some judgments that population planning (birth control) is not effective in these areas. By one estimate, the population in the developing lands may climb steadily for another century — to a peak of perhaps 10 billion — before any sort of stability is achieved.

An obvious critical consequence: unemployment spreading like the plague in the teeming cities of the disadvantaged countries. The gap between them and the well-off nations is on the way to becoming a huge, bottomless chasm. Says the high official: "Human beings are not going to tolerate these extremes." Exploding numbers spell joblessness and that means worse and worse malnutrition. The experts today are deeply troubled over scientific findings that early human brain development is crucial and is heavily dependent on an adequate protein diet. By the age of four, 90 per cent of a human's brain growth has occurred.

Serious deprivation of protein foods in the early span stunts the brain. The results are irreversible. Thus, given the deteriorating human condition in the underdeveloped world, hundreds and hundreds of millions of today's children are being doomed right now to inadequate brain development. This is already poverty's cruelest cost.

Even if nutrition were good, the chances to extend the brain through education are so limited in many countries that another dimension is added to the widening cruelty.

The official mentioned Ethiopia, merely as an example which could be duplicated in many places. One whole region has not a single secondary school. Catastrophic is the fact that 87 per cent of that country's primary-school-age children are not in school and likely never will be. What this means, in coldest prospect, is that 50 years from now — in an era when knowledge is advancing with rocket speed — nearly nine of every 10 Ethiopians will not have even the most rudimentary education.

Now, what's all this self-pitying nonsense from some "idealistic" Americans that there's nothing challenging left to do? The challenges are everywhere. Question: Where are the fervent helpers?

CHRONIC COMPLAINT

ANDREW TULLY

Capital Fare

WASHINGTON, July 21 — Privately, Washington's Sen. Henry Jackson and Rep. Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, have agreed to work together to prevent the Democratic Party from nominating "some wild man" for President.

That is the end-all for Mills, whose friends have launched a surprisingly strong boomlet for the veteran Arkansan. But it will be a secondary goal for Scoop Jackson, who will make a serious run for the nomination when he announces in the fall. Jackson, a relative conservative, is convinced he can profit while the more liberal candidates are cutting themselves up — and dividing the votes — in the primaries.

Both Mills and Jackson are running against the party's left wing. They think it would be a disaster if the leftists took over the convention and somehow managed to nominate somebody like South Dakota's Sen. George McGovern, Indiana's Sen. Birch Bayh or Oklahoma's Sen. Fred Harris. It is nothing personal. Mills and Jackson are fond of all three men. But they think President Nixon would clobber any one of them.

Indeed, people in the Jackson camp describe Bayh and Harris as "the nuts' candidates," and are only slightly less respectful towards McGovern, who they say lacks muscle. Harris, who said he would run a reform, populist campaign if he made the race, may very well have decided against running, as this is read, because of massive opposition among the king-makers.

The Jackson-Mills partnership also looks askance at the potential candidacy of Sen. Ted Kennedy. But this is being soft-pedaled for an obvious reason, to wit, Kennedy's popularity with the party's rank-and-file. Every poll so far has shown that Kennedy remains the choice of registered Democratic voters, despite the tragedy of Chappaquiddick.

As one party stalwart put it: "You don't attack a Kennedy, not this early in the game anyway. Even if he doesn't run, he's got a ton of votes to deliver to some lucky guy."

The remark suggests that the battle to be kingmaker next summer could be the vital factor in the maneuverings for the Democratic nomination. The Jackson-Mills partnership would guarantee power in the South, the West and among moderate to - conservative Democrats everywhere. But until contrary evidence is submitted, the Democratic Party still must be regarded as essentially liberal. Probably not Bayh or McGovern or Harris liberal, but a long way from conservative.

Thus Jackson and Mills have an uphill fight ahead. Should Teddy Kennedy throw his support to Sen. Ed Muskie, the man from Maine almost surely would be a shoe-in. Kennedy might be the same for McGovern or Hubert Humphrey, although at this stage a Kennedy-Humphrey romance seems unlikely; there is still too much bad blood from the 1960 Democratic primaries. In any event, Kennedy could have more to say about who gets the nomination than Jackson and Mills. Convention delegates road polls, too.

Meanwhile, some Republican nuts-and-balls men are taking an unhappy look at the Nixon administration's apparent endorsement of Teddy Kennedy as the candidate they men would most like to run against. Veteran Nixon camp followers chortled over the most recent Harris Poll, which showed the President leading Kennedy, 44 percentage points to 36, in a three-way race with Alabama's

Gov. George Wallace. But the glee is not universally shared in Republican quarters. "The hell with that," said a GOP national committee official from the West Coast. "Considering Chappaquiddick, the poll shows Kennedy is too close to comfort. Why build the guy up? He might beat us. I'd rather run against McGovern."

His thinking probably is more realistic than that of those who fought at Nixon's side in 1960, and who relish the idea of a chance to beat a Kennedy. While the Harris Poll showed Nixon with a comfortable margin, it also reflected Teddy's amazing comeback in the past couple of years. It also explains why Jackson and Mills are not going out of their way to bad-mouth the last remaining elective male in what is the country's closest approximation to a political royal family.

PAUL HARVEY

War Alternative?

Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, the astute politician who quarterbacked the campaign which elected President Nixon, wants him re-elected.

And there's a problem. Winding down the war is winding up unemployment.

Atty. Gen. Mitchell says the increase in unemployment is directly proportional to the increasing number of men coming out of the Army.

Is the alternative to war depression? And if it is, for which would you vote?

Atty. Gen. Mitchell says President Nixon inherited "one of the unhellest messes that ever existed in this country; that he has set about putting the government in order.

But in accelerating demoralization of our troops and in reducing expenditures for military hardware, the home front suffers from more job seekers and fewer jobs.

Last month (June 28), the President took this problem to his most trusted political and economic advisers.

They converged on the Camp David mountaintop retreat to consider the budget when he must present to Congress.

Connally and Schultz, McCracken and Ehrlichman and Haldeman and others were advised that the President considers inflation such a threat to our survival as a nation that he will reduce government's contribution to that pressure whatever it may cost him politically.

The consensus of most White House advisers is that there are plenty of home fronts on which returning G's could find work. But for government adequately to finance those fronts — conservation, antipollution, urban renewal, cleanup — will cost much more than has the Indochinese war.

Those billions, however they will recirculate through our own nation's economy, inevitably will contribute to the further erosion of our dollar's buoyability.

Workers demanding more dollars, because dollars are worth less, contribute to making more dollars worth less resulting in more demands . . . for more dollars . . . worth less.

At the end of that is a worthless dollar and chaos.

Historically, leaders in this much trouble have relied on wars to bail themselves out.

People, confronted by a physical threat, close ranks, sacrifice, suffer, uncomplainingly.

President Nixon, however tardily, is phasing out this war — winding down our contribution — bringing home our sons.

The transition cannot be accomplished without displacement, some discomfort, some disfigurement.

Atty. Gen. Mitchell believes that the President should be rewarded, not punished, for sacrificing his own political prospects on the altar of peace. That's not the way it works.

What's eating our cancerous dollar is not really his fault. We, the people — fat from the fruits of our own labor have grown lazy. We don't want to work anymore.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Fibroids Removed?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes fibroid tumors? I have a large one and two small ones in my uterus. Is it possible to have an operation to remove these fibroids. I am 69 and in good health except the fibroids are very sore.

Would you advise an operation, or would the removal of the tumors and uterus cause more tumors to spread to other parts of the body? — Mrs. P. A. G.

The cause of these fibroids is not known, but they are quite common, sometimes small, sometimes large, sometimes single, sometimes multiple.

In many instances they cause no harm or discomfort, so in women of child-bearing age, they are usually left alone, although of course watched periodically, to be on guard in case they do start to cause trouble. And sometimes such fibroids begin to shrink after menopause, but not always.

After menopause, since the uterus no longer is needed for child-bearing, the whole uterus is removed, along with the fibroids. That is, a hysterectomy is performed, the term meaning removal of the uterus.

The operation will not cause the fibroids to spread elsewhere, since the fibroids are peculiar to that type of tissue.

The only danger of spreading would be in the event that one of the fibroids became cancerous. This does not ordinarily happen, but it can sometimes, so the physician must be on guard against that. If a fibroid does become cancerous, then it must be removed, and promptly. Otherwise the cancer (but not the fibroid) can spread. I presume a Pap smear has been done.

Since in your case the fibroids (or one of them anyway) are causing discomfort, I presume that your doctor already has recommended removal, and you just want my opinion as confirmation. Am I right?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Am sending a clipping which appeared in our paper. (Clipping of a dispatch from Santiago, Chile, says that Mrs. Margarita Reyes Munoz, at the age of 61, gave birth to a 19th child.)

I did not know it was possible for a woman to bear at that age. I have read that, though it is unusual, a few women do bear children at the age of 61. Would the fact that it is in another country make a difference? — Mrs. J. B.

I think the greatest authenticated age has been 53 years. "Authenticated" may be the important word. Was Mrs. Munoz really 61, or does she live in the out-country where accurate records are not kept? Exaggeration sometimes accounts for the claims that are made, and investigation shows that the woman isn't as old as people think she is. I'd want some proof before accepting this report as true.

Seaside Vacation?

A rip current is a strong current flowing out to sea perpendicular to the shore and carrying back to sea the water brought in by waves and longshore currents.

It can travel at speeds up to three miles an hour and change its position from day to day and even during the same day. The same beach may have several rip currents operating at one time, and then go for weeks with none at all.

It can also be deadly, and is to many seaside vacationers every year.

"The killer current may occur at any ocean beach," says the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA). "It is an insidious, powerful ocean action that can exhaust the strongest of swimmers."

"Suddenly and unexpectedly, the swimmer realizes that he is being swept out to sea. Knowing that he can swim well, he strikes out hard against the current from shore. But after a few minutes he finds that he is not making any headway, that the water around him is over his head, that he is almost out to the surf zone.

"He calls for help, but no one hears him above the surf's roar. Panic takes over, then exhaustion. Soon he is dead by drowning."

Such deaths can be prevented by learning how to recognize a rip current and how to swim out of one, says NOAA.

Rip currents are usually easy to spot, once you know what to look for. In general, the pattern of the sea surface between the beach and the area where the waves are breaking offshore is one of long lines that run parallel to the beach.

A rip current makes a break in this pattern by providing a cross-pattern line running perpendicular to the beach.

Sometimes, small choppy waves form a line out to the surf zone, indicating a rip current. At other times, when there is suspended sediment in the water, a rip current may be marked by a long, brownish band of darker water.

Fortunately, a swimmer can tell when he is in one.

The first indication, if his feet touch bottom occasionally, will be a feeling that the bottom is moving fast toward shore. When his feet aren't touching bottom, he will notice that he is much farther out to sea than he expected to be, or moving out faster than other swimmers near him, or that the area where the waves are breaking seems to be approaching fast.

This is the point where most swimmers who lose their lives make a fatal mistake. They start swimming their hardest toward the beach.

Since a rip current is seldom more than 10 or 20 feet wide, the prime rule when caught in one is to swim PARALLEL to the beach, and you can very soon be free of it.

The Human Animal

Editors call them "column-closers." But sometimes those little bits of stories used to fill out the ends of newspaper columns open up whole realms of speculation about the human animal.

For example, a recent UPI twiner reported that one Madelena Rosa Cavacante of Brazil had predicted that the world would end on Friday and that, coincidentally, she would ascend to heaven in a flaming chariot while all this was going on. A crowd gathered outside her home in the town of Vila Rosali to await the events.

"Police had to rescue her from angry neighbors when neither came true," said the dispatch.

It's probable that nothing much ever happens in Vila Rosali. To be all geared up to expect something different like the end of the world and then have everything just go on in the same old way — well, that would irritate anyone.

Anyway, we expect a substantial crowd will witness something more material when Evel Knievel attempts to jump the Snake River Canyon in his flaming jet-powered motorcycle — sometime next summer.

Innocent, Corona says

MARYSVILLE, Calif. (UPI)—Juan V. Corona, the Mexican-born labor contractor accused of the Yuba City mass murders, says he is innocent of the charges of killing 25 men.

Corona said he has not lost faith in the United States because of the charges. "I like this country very much," Corona said in a lengthy interview with three newsmen at the Yuba County Jail Sunday night, which was published Tuesday. "I want my kids to go to school, you know, learn English, you know, everything."

Asked if he were guilty of the charges of murdering 25 transient farm workers and burying their bodies along the banks of the Feather River north of here, Corona said: "No, sir, it is not true."

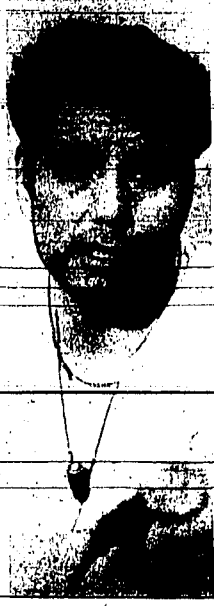

The interview with the Sacramento Union, Los Angeles Times and Sacramento Television Station KCRA was arranged through Corona's attorney Richard Hawk, who said he wanted the public "to see Juan as a human being."

Corona, who speaks broken English and cannot read it, said when sheriff's officers arrested him on the night of May 26 he at first did not know what they wanted.

"When these officers came to my house in the middle of the night, and they gave me a bunch of papers to read, you know, and they wanted me to read, I don't know, I don't know how to read, you know," he said.

"I was accused of something, I don't know. The bunch of papers, you know, this big. They say please call someone to read to me. Then they take me to jail."

Corona was arraigned Monday at Yuba City but did not enter an immediate plea.

Physicals today

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Apollo 15's three moon pilots sought medical clearance today for launch Monday on the longest and most demanding American spaceflight in 34 years.

David R. Scott, 39, Alfred M. Worden, 39, and James B. Irwin, 41, have been living under semiquarantine conditions here for the past 16 days and were expected to pass their last major prelaunch physical examinations without difficulty.

Besides looking for any possible illnesses that might hamper the astronauts during their 12-day, 7-hour flight, the morning-long physical included taking measurements and biological samples for comparison with identical tests after splashdown Aug. 7.

Similar comparisons with the Apollo 14 astronauts earlier this year showed surprising results. Doctors said Stuart A. Roosa, who stayed in lunar orbit, lost 10 pounds during the flight and returned to Earth considerably weaker than his moonwalking colleagues, Alan B. Shepard and Edgar D. Mitchell. Dr. Charles A. Berry, the astronauts' chief physician, said the Apollo 15 medical measurements are expected to help specialists better understand how the weightlessness of spaceflight affects the human body, and the role exercise has in reducing such effects.

The longest U.S. space flight so far was the 14-day earth orbital mission on Gemini 7 in December, 1965. Russia's two Soyuz 10 cosmonauts spent 18 days in orbit and had difficulty adjusting to the gravity of earth on their return. The Soyuz 11 cosmonauts died because of a spacecraft pressure problem after spending 24 days in space.

Gas force sets plans

DENVER (UPI)—The Defense Department announced Tuesday the Army would probably begin destroying 3,071 tons of mustard gas next month at a cost of $7.8 million.

"Safety and security have been emphasized over cost and time," said Lt. Col. Sampson H. Bass Jr., head of the task force which will destroy the gas.

Bass said small quantities of mustard gas are now being destroyed at the Rocky Mountain Arsenal just outside Denver, and if the test proves successful full scale destruction of the gas will begin in late August.

College budgets set up

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho State Legislature will be asked for a total of $36,202,453 at their next session from the four schools of higher education in the state for 1972-73 budgets. The State Board of Education made final decisions Tuesday on general operating budgets and special programs.

The original request to be divided up four ways was $31,482,659—but it was increased by 10 per cent to account for inflationary costs.

The breakdown for the state institutions, how much of the operating budget they were allotted, new programs and the cost of those new programs are:

- University of Idaho: $15,214,827; $23,940 for a Native American History program; for a total of $15,238,767.
- Idaho State University: $10,507,143; $61,800 for a doctoral program in art; for a total of $10,568,943.
- Boise State College: $8,879,831; $44,100 for a masters course in nursing; for a total of $8,923,931.
- Lewiston State College: $1,459,812; $11,000 for a new computer; for a total of $1,470,812.

Packard future clouded

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A cloud hangs over the governmental future of Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard, a former businessman who has made clear his displeasure with Nixon administration efforts to shore up ailing firms such as Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

There were rumors around the Pentagon today Packard might resign. Testimony he had prepared for a House committee was withdrawn and censored Monday because of comments criticizing a bill to guarantee loans to failing companies.

Packard was brought into the administration in 1969 as No. 2 man at the Pentagon because of his recognized talents as a manager. He is not the type to brawl in public over policy disputes, but he does have very strong opinions about how to manage large organizations such as the Defense Department and big military contractors.

Packard threatened to resign several months ago when the administration was preparing the budget for the current year. George Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), tried to cut out funds for the B1, a controversial supersonic bomber the Air Force is developing.

Packard backed the Air Force to the hilt, even though it meant clashing with Shultz, one of the President's most trusted and powerful aides. Packard won.

Cofounder of Hewlett-Packard Co., a California manufacturer of electronic equipment, he had parlayed his investment into $300 million when he got a bid to join the Nixon administration at $42,500 a year.

While Defense Secretary Melvin Laird is out front in press conferences, speeches and congressional testimony trying to mollify a public no longer so trusting of the Pentagon, Packard is back at the shop overseeing the day-to-day running of affairs and trying to tighten management to avoid cost overruns and other embarrassing bumbles with public funds.

He rarely appears in public. But last month he went before the Senate Banking Committee and made it clear he didn't think much of Nixon's plan to prop up the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. by guaranteeing $250 million in loans.

Exhausted

MARYSVILLE, Calif. (UPI)—The mother of accused mass slayer Juan V. Corona has been hospitalized for exhaustion. It was reported Tuesday night.

Dr. Thomas Leavenworth, medical director at Sutter County General Hospital, told newsmen that Mrs. Candida Corona, 63, was admitted to his facility earlier in the day and would remain there two or three days.

Gem crash takes life of girl, 18

LEWISTON (UPI)—Margaret Mary Baker, 18, Enumclaw, Wash., became Idaho's 151st traffic fatality Tuesday after she died in a one-car accident 13 miles east of Lewiston on U.S. 12.

The Idaho State Police said the accident occurred at 3:15 p.m. They said the car the girl was driving apparently came around a curve too fast, and she lost control, skidding into a bridge abutment.

She was reportedly the only person in the car at the time of the accident.

The Idaho traffic fatality toll on this date one year ago was 163.

Angela's trial starts

Attorneys hit 'racism'

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI)—The Angela Davis case made its first real progress Tuesday but the black militant and her chief attorney staged a "sit-out" in protest of alleged racism by the prosecution.

With hysterical defendant Russell Munge absent for the first time following the separation of their cases, the attention of all participants was focused on "pretrial motions" by Miss Davis' lawyers.

They argued that the grand jury which indicted her for murder, kidnaping and conspiracy in the Aug. 7, 1970, Marin County shootout was improperly composed and acted in unseemly haste.

Miss Davis, 27, and attorney Howard W. Moore Jr., left the court and listened to proceedings from an adjoining holding cell during the prosecution's rebuttal. Moore termed the arguments "racism."

Dennis Roberts, another of Miss Davis' lawyers, had argued that the grand jury took only 18 minutes to return the indictment in October. He also said the method of its selection tended domination by white, male, older citizens.

Having grand juries selected by judges is "inherently unfair," Roberts said, and discriminates "against blacks and young people."

Assistant Attorney General Clifford Thompson argued the selection of grand juries by judges neither is unfair nor unconstitutional, but proper under the constitutional separation of powers.

At this point, Moore asked to be excused because "I don't want to listen to this racism."

Superior Court Judge Richard Aronson said he could leave if Miss Davis agreed. The defendant, an avowed Communist and former UCLA instructor, said he wanted to leave too.

The grand jury indictment accused Miss Davis of providing the guns and helping plot the attempt by three San Quentin convicts to escape from the courthouse by kidnaping a judge, prosecutor and three jurors. The judge, two of the convicts and their outside accomplice were killed in an ensuing gun battle.

MANILA (UPI)—President Ferdinand E. Marcos ended a two-year moratorium on capital punishment in the Philippines Tuesday. It was expected to result in execution of the 56 convicts on death row.

The general reprieve has contributed to the desecration of order in our penitentiaries especially among those sentenced to life because they know they cannot suffer any higher penalty regardless of the number of killings they commit," said Justice Secretary Vicente Abad Santos, on whose advice Marcos acted.

Guerrilla backers pull raid

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI)—Palestinian guerrilla sympathizers forced their way into the Egyptian, Tunisian and Saudi Arabian embassies today and stayed for up to two hours to protest "oppression of the Palestinian Liberation Movement" in the Middle East.

The protesters left the Tunisian and Saudi embassies voluntarily at noon, less than two hours after they had entered.

That, however, police removed them forcibly from the Egyptian embassy at the request of Ambassador Zakaria el-Adly Imam.

Two protesters were arrested at the Egyptian embassy and when 20 others scuffled with police in an attempt to stop the arrests, five more were arrested.

The Tunisians and Saudis did not call the police. "We are talking to them and we do not want to harm them as they are our brothers," a spokesman at the Tunisian embassy said.

Lunar secrets flight goal

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—It has been two years since man first set foot on the moon and he has learned enough in that time to know that a clear picture of the moon's tumultuous birth and childhood is still a few years away.

But some of the most basic issues already have been settled and scientists know what the remaining problems are. The launching of Apollo 15 next Monday toward the moon is a scientific endeavor of giant proportions to unlock more lunar secrets.

From what scientists have seen of 215 pounds of rock and dirt brought back from the lunar surface, they wonder how some questions about the moon before the landing of Apollo 11 could have been so naive.

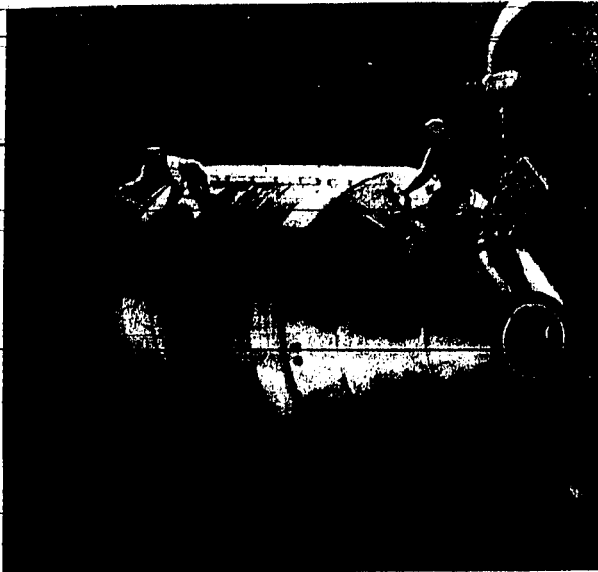

It is clear from the samples and instruments left behind that the moon's complex evolution defies simple explanations. And the old argument about a hot or cold moon is outdated. The question is when was it hot and when was it cold, and where—inside or outside.

Manned exploration of the moon so far has been restricted by the ability of the men to get out and explore the lunar surface. Conclusive results have been limited by the time it takes some of the world's best lunar scientists to digest and comprehend the collected data.

In the two years since the July 20, 1969, landing of Apollo 11, six astronauts have spent only 19 1/2 hours exploring the moon.

The Apollo 15 astronauts plan to spend 20 hours on the lunar surface. And they will use a new moon car to cover up to 22 miles of terrain—far more than the total distance hiked by their six predecessors.

The flights during the past two years marked the first chapter in the scientific payoff of project Apollo. Science was a loser in the abortive flight of Apollo 13, but it was a dividend that increased in yield successively with Apollo 11, 12 and 14.

RETRIEVING film cassettes containing photos of lunar surface is Astronaut Al Warden, left, as Astronaut James Irwin pays out umbilical tether in artist's concept by North American Rockwell Space Division. Recovery of films is one job on homeward leg of Apollo 15 mission and is scheduled to be televised to earth. Apollo command and service modules are traveling about 2,500 miles an hour and are about 200,000 miles from earth. (UPI)

Picture pickup

Commercials pay actors well

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Why do actors and actresses sometimes forsake the limelight for a little of their dignity and reputation by appearing in television commercials?

And why do many young performers often try harder to get jobs in video advertisements than in other film work? The answer to both questions is as simple as dollars and cents. Consider, for instance, the following breakdown of actors' gross earnings in 1970, as accounted for by a major union, the Screen Actors Guild.

The union listed four categories in its breakdown of types of earnings. These categories are: "theatrical motion pictures, television motion pictures, television commercials and industrial & educational" work, and the total amount earned in the four areas was $114,348,221.

Of this total, the earnings in theatrical motion pictures were listed at $17,853,147—or 15.6 per cent of the entire amount. "Television motion pictures, meanwhile, brought earnings of $34,444,336—or 30.2 per cent of the total.

Industrial & educational employment accounted for $59,012,058—or 5 per cent of the overall figure. Which meant that television commercials were far and away the greatest source of almost every day of the Nixon income for performers in the Guild. According to the Guild figures, these commercials brought in $61,457,826—or 53.7 per cent of the total earnings.

There's actors' gold in those television advertisements that bring so much distress to viewers. The networks already are preparing to give all-out coverage to President Nixon's planned trip to Red China.

Rouven Frank, boss of NBC News, announced in New York that his organization plans to present special video programs away the greatest source of almost every day of the Nixon trip. And, he added, similar figures are being made in case of European and other allied capitals preceding the Chinese trip.

NBC-TV already has a title for the series of programs—"Journeying For Peace." And Edwin Newman will be the chief correspondent and editor for the broadcasts. The network has offered Red Chinese authorities technical equipment, including a portable satellite ground station.

Scientist says lava carved lunar canyon

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The deep, twisting moon canyon that will be explored by Apollo 15's astronauts next week may have been carved by a river of lava that gashed from a fissure at the base of the Apennine Mountains.

That's the conclusion reached by Ronald Greeley, a space agency scientist at the Ames Research Center, Mountain View, Calif., after studying photographs of the gorge and comparing them to lava channels on earth.

Apollo 15 astronauts David R. Scott and James B. Irwin are scheduled to land between the canyon, which is called Hadley Rille, and the foot of the Apennine Mountains on Friday, July 30, and explore both features with the aid of a four-wheeled electric moon buggy.

Hadley Rille winds along the base of the Apennines for about 85 miles, averages 4,000 feet in width and is 1,000 to 1,200 feet deep. Scott and Irwin will talk to its rim, collect surface samples and photograph the opposite wall to try and clear up the mystery as to what caused it.

There have been a number of theories for the origin of moon canyons like Hadley Rille. Several scientists have suggested over the years that they were formed by water; with the water existing on the surface around the time the moon formed, or with water coming from subsurface ice melted by volcanism or meteorite impact.

These theories have been largely discounted because studies of rock samples returned by earlier astronauts show the moon has always been dry. "Most investigators agree that fluid flow is involved," Greeley said in a recent issue of Science Magazine. "Consequently, it is to the type of fluid—ash, water, gases, or lava."

The Apennines ring the southeastern corner of the Sea of Rains and geologists believe the great circular basin was gouged out by the explosive impact of an asteroid about four million years ago. The basin was later filled by lava. Greeley suggested that the lava poured from faults and fissures at the base of the Apennines. One such volcanic vent, he said, appears to be an elongate cleft at the head of Hadley Rille.

Malathion shipment due Idaho

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. James McClure, R-Idaho, said Tuesday he received assurance from the Department of Agriculture that a sufficient quantity of malathion is available to meet Idaho's grasshopper emergency.

"The Department authorized 33 1/2-gallon drums to be shipped to Cambridge, and it is expected to be in the air Tuesday." He was told that 17 more drums are to be delivered shortly and will be used in the Boise area.

"Agriculture authorities expect this to be sufficient to meet the present threat," McClure said. A temporary shortage of the chemical led to the rumor that all malathion scheduled for Idaho had been diverted to Texas where the Agriculture Department is combating the spread of sleeping sickness in horses.

Delay defeated

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate refused Tuesday to force a delay in U.S. underground nuclear explosion this fall in the Aleutian Islands, which the Defense Department acknowledged for the first time was intended to test a key element in the Safeguard antiballistic missile system.

By a roll call vote of 57 to 37, the Senate rejected a proposal by members from Alaska and Hawaii that would have forced postponement of the scheduled test from early October until May 31, unless President Nixon ruled an earlier date essential to national security.

The amendment's sponsors, Sens. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, and Republican Hiram Fong and Democrat Daniel Inouye of Hawaii, cited fears of earthquakes and devastating tidal waves, dangers which the government has discounted.

Otten receives refresher study

WENDELL — Ed Otten returned this week from Madison, Wis., where he received a refresher course in ECCP, the study of the interaction between man and a technological world.

Otten said the course, ECCP, is designed to be taught to the average student and can be used for career exploration into computer learning. It is oriented more toward a technical world and its problems rather than math or physical science, he said.

He said Wendell High School is the only school in the state that offers the course, which was initiated at the University of Colorado in the summer of 1967.

He graduated from the University of Idaho, Moscow, with a bachelor of science degree in education, majoring in physical science, with a minor in math.

During summer sessions he has earned his master's degree in natural science, majoring in physics and a minor in chemistry.

He has also received his administrator's certificate.

ED OTTEN

When the course began three years ago, subjects were studied a chapter at a time and sent to a national center for grading. The next year it was offered in three parts and the text books were paper books. This year's course will be taught from a hard back book. The subject matter will learn more toward the problems created by a technological world and techniques to conquer problems such as pollution.

Otten has taught in the Wendell school system for the past 10 years. He teaches math and science and has served as assistant basketball and football coach in both junior high and high school. He has been head basketball coach of the high school for the past three years.

Bruised counselor rescued

RED LODGE, Mont. (UPI) A 24-year-old Girl Scout counselor who was dramatically rescued from a 12,610-foot Montana mountain, said from her hospital bed today that she feels "rotten about it all."

Gayle Zachary, Boise, Idaho, was sunburned, bruised and nursing a broken leg, but was in generally good condition after her 79-hour ordeal on treacherous Silver Run Peak.

"I feel rotten about it all and lucky to be alive," she said Monday.

Miss Zachary and another counselor, Leslie Appino, 18, of Hillsborough, Calif., set out Thursday morning for what they thought would be a four-hour hike.

The hike ultimately took four days and cost $5,000 in rescue expenses.

The two women, wearing only shorts, short sleeved shirts and carrying no food or water, went farther and farther up the mountain until they suddenly discovered they could no longer go down by the same route.

"I don't know why we didn't use common sense," Gayle said Monday. She said the time went faster than they thought and the distances fooled them.

The women went all the way to the summit of the towering mountain and then started down, sliding through chutes of loose rocks.

"I was starting to get tired," Gayle said. "I was going down a ravine when I lost my grip on the rock I was hanging on to and fell, landing on my back."

She said her back and leg hurt a lot. By then it was 6:30 p.m. and "we knew we couldn't go on."

Leslie built a rock wind screen which Gayle crawled behind—and then the younger girl covered her injured companion with moss to help ward off the near-freezing nighttime temperatures. She used her camera case to carry water to Gayle from a small snow stream.

Governor's confab set on libraries

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Library Board has set Sept. 24 as the date for the 1971 governor's conference on libraries to be held at the Rowdeway Inn in Boise.

In addition, the board, meeting in a two-day session Monday and Tuesday, set tentative dates of Oct. 20-22 and Oct. 27-29 for follow-up conferences in the six library regions.

During its meeting, the board approved transfer of $604 in federal construction funds from the Madison County remodeling project to the Lost River community library project at Arco and approved the application of the Emmett public library for $73,500 in federal construction funds for assistance in building a new library.

The board gave tentative approval, pending receipt of funds from the Idaho Commission on Arts and Humanities, for a puppet show presentation by the Merry Mothers Puppets of Idaho Falls at public libraries in southeastern Idaho.

The board granted $410 to the Twin Falls public library for service to the migrant labor camp, and inaugurated two programs, one a $15,000 project of matching grants for children's books and the other a $5,000 program of matching grants for large print books.

Allocations of federal monies approved included $2,000 for the State School for the Deaf and Blind, Gooding; $2,000 to the State Youth Training Center in St. Anthony; $2,000 to State Hospital South; $4,000 to the Idaho State School and Hospital in Nampa.

Chemicals loaded

FARM CHEMICALS are transferred from railroad box cars onto trucks by Joe Sellers, manager of Farm Service in Wendell. Farm Service is providing dry and liquid fertilizer and other agricultural chemicals to farmers around the area. The chemicals are being spread on farm crops through the sprinkling systems. About 100 tons of chemicals have been dispensed weekly.

Delegation to present park plan

WENDELL — A delegation of citizens is expected to attend the city council meeting Thursday night to present a plan for the proposed McGinnis City Park, according to Mayor Eugene Soares.

The group is asking the city to be sponsoring agent in the proposed project.

Soares said he thinks the proposal should be put on the ballot in the November election for a number of reasons. He listed as the major reason unknown factors that can develop, such as maintenance, in a project of this kind.

He expressed concern about the need of and the utilization of the present sewer system. He said the projected cost could reach $80,000. He added the cost would make it necessary for city voters to pass a bond issue to finance the project.

He said that a park at this time could endanger the other project. Soares added that since terms of three of the four councilmen expire this fall, they should not approve the park program.

A public hearing has been scheduled for July 29 at 8 p.m. in the city offices.

Brochure features new art

WENDELL — The Wendell Chamber of Commerce and City Council are co-sponsoring a new poster art brochure expressing all of the advantages of living near Wendell.

John Wert, president of the chamber of commerce, said that as far as he and the brochure committee know, the new type brochure is the only one of its kind.

The front of the brochure is printed in four colors using a new poster art technique of expression. The back side is printed in two colors giving a 10 picture story of the items featured on the front.

Wert said committee members think the brochure will be used by tourists as a souvenir of a visit to the Wendell area.

An example of the brochure was on display to the public during the chamber meeting today.

The committee planning the project included Charles Irelon, John Wert, Mrs. Earl Schrenk, and Doug Schrank, Rev. John Steppert of the First Presbyterian Church, Kelso Washington and Sherrill Grounds, arts and crafts teacher, Coeur d'Alene helped with the planning and design.

HHH flays failures

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., accused the Nixon administration today of juggling figures and redefining words to cover up failure in its economic policies.

Humphrey followed much of the same theme in an address to the International Longshoremen's Association convention as Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., did in Monday address to the I.L.A. Both are considered in the running for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Aides due

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' by executive order issued Tuesday authorized the commissioner of law enforcement to appoint necessary deputies to man all ports of entry or checking stations.

The governor's order said the deputies or special deputies will be under the immediate supervision of the commissioner of law enforcement and will be able to exercise all powers, duties and authority of any sheriff or county peace officer in the state.

Endowment land suit threatened

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise attorney served notice to the State Land Board Tuesday that a suit will be filed asking the legislature to pay for endowment lands transferred over the years to the State Park Board.

Richard B. Kading Jr., Boise, told the board the suit — which will be filed by one citizen representing the Idaho Congress of Parents and Teachers — is "principally for the purpose of bringing this to the attention of the people of Idaho, as well as to the legislature."

Although Kading said the figures represented a "guess", the suit places the approximate value of the endowment lands currently being used for recreational purposes and under the administration and control of the State Park Board at $20 million.

The suit will further allege there was an estimated loss of $4 million in interest to the endowment fund because of the transfer, and a loss of approximately $8 million for failure to compensate other endowment land beneficiary institutions for the loss of the lands.

Kading said he appeared before the board just to place it on notice that a suit would be filed, possibly within the next two weeks.

The suit, which will be filed against the State Board of Land Commissioners, the State Park Board and the Department of Parks and possibly the legislators of Idaho will ask the court to decide the transfer of the endowment lands was unconstitutional, and in violation of the Idaho Admission Act and in violation of the state constitution.

Kading said the lawsuit will seek a determination of the full fair market value of the lands by the State Land Board or the Park Board and will ask for a full accounting of all income and interest on the lands since the transfer.

He said it will seek a court order requiring the legislature to compensate the Idaho State School Endowment Fund for the value of the lands plus interest lost since the lands were transferred.

The suit notes some of the lands were dedicated as parks and recreational areas in 1967 and were transferred to the control of the State Parks Board in 1965.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus noted that "doesn't necessarily mean that this Land Board with its present make-up was the one involved."

The endowment lands are lands set aside when the territory became a state for the purpose of supporting public schools and certain other institutions. Under control of the State Land Board, the lands are sold or leased, with the income going to the School Endowment Fund.

Because of statutory provisions for management of the endowment lands, the suit alleges the legislature "has no power or authority" to take from the Land Board Control or disposition of the lands "without compensation to the school endowment fund or to other designated endowment land beneficiaries."

Further, the suit notes approximately 400 acres of endowment lands worth approximately $40,000 are leased at $12 each year, a figure the suit alleges is in violation of the constitutional requirement that the rental on all endowment lands secures the "maximum possible amount."

The lands involved are those in Deep Creek Park, Priest Lake Park, Indian Creek campground, Mosquito Bay, Dickenschel campgrounds, Little Round Lake Park, Mary Minerva McCroskey Memorial State Park, Land Board Park, Ponderosa Park, Bogus Basin recreational area, City of Rocks, Henry's Lake, Hagerman fossil horse quarry, and Farragut State Park.

Full economic controls asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Economist John Kenneth Galbraith called Tuesday for a controlled American economy under which the government would make most wage and price decisions.

Abandoning the Keynesian theories which have been standard liberal economic dogma for the past 40 years, Galbraith said only permanent government controls can crack the power of big labor and big business to impose inflation and its resulting unemployment on the economy.

His proposal drew fire from conservative Rep. Ben B. Blackburn, R-Ga., who said America's free economy — despite occasional "lumps and headaches" — has provided a prosperity unequalled in the controlled economies of other nations.

Galbraith, a liberal Democrat from Harvard who formerly headed the Americans for Democratic Action, outlined a plan before the House-Senate Economic Committee under which the government would regulate the prices of the nation's 1,000 or 2,000 largest firms and the wages paid the members of the largest labor unions.

He said the controls would have to be preceded by a six-month wage-price freeze on the entire economy "to break the structure of inflationary expectations on which all collective bargaining now proceeds."

Galbraith said the theories of John Maynard Keynes no longer apply to the U.S. economy because of the enormous power of labor and industry to impose inflationary decisions on the economy.

Keynes held that governments could stabilize prices and unemployment rates by manipulating the money supply and the rate at which money is pumped into the economy through government spending. He advocated deficits during slumps and surpluses when excessive spending would ignite inflation.

John Magle said he would meet with the Beauty Bay Development Co. to discuss their solution to the land fill and driving of piles in the lake.

He said, however, that to dig out the fill would be expensive and would cause "great turbidity in the lake which will not subside for some time."

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus asked that Magle only listen to the offer from the firm, adding the land board would not be in any position to decide how to handle the problem until hearing any offers.

Lake fill problem talk set

BOISE (UPI) — A deputy attorney general was authorized by the State Land Board Tuesday to travel to Coeur d'Alene for discussions over possible solutions to a fill problem in Lake Coeur d'Alene.

John Magle said he would meet with the Beauty Bay Development Co. to discuss their solution to the land fill and driving of piles in the lake.

He said, however, that to dig out the fill would be expensive and would cause "great turbidity in the lake which will not subside for some time."

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus asked that Magle only listen to the offer from the firm, adding the land board would not be in any position to decide how to handle the problem until hearing any offers.

Marine noncom relieved

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (UPI) — A Marine drill instructor has been fined $100 and relieved of all recruit training duties as a result of an investigation into alleged exercise periods that hospitalized 39 Marine recruits.

Two other drill instructors were returned to their recruit training duties as a result of the investigation, the Marine Corps reported today.

A Marine spokesman said 38 of the 39 trainees have been released from nearby Beaufort Naval Hospital and are now participating in a specialty controlled program of physical training at the Parris Island Marine training base.

One trainee remains hospitalized with a virus contracted while in the hospital.

Thir-30 recruits were hospitalized July 3 after they claimed to have been forced to take part in exercise sessions estimated at up to six times longer than permitted by Marine regulations.

The spokesman said Staff Sgt. W.L. Sutton was fined $100 and relieved of all recruit training duties as a result of a three-week investigation into the incident. Sutton was transferred to another duty station.

Airline reports traffic marks

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — Hughes Air West passenger and cargo traffic set new records for performance across the board during the first six months of 1971, according to Martin F. Schafer, director of marketing.

Cargo traffic increased nearly 25 per cent, while passenger traffic, figured as the average number of passengers flying one mile, rose by nearly 15 per cent.

Nearly 1.4 million fare-paying passengers boarded Air West flights at the 72 airports served by the regional carrier during the January-through-June period, indicating an increase of 1.8 per cent above the 1.37 million boardings in 1970 over the same period.

These passengers flew 10.3 per cent more miles than last year — 462.6 million miles this year, against 419.4 million miles in 1970.

The average load factor — percentage of seats filled — rose to 46 per cent from the 1970

Treaty backing pledged

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — The Nationalist Chinese foreign ministry said today President Nixon has sent a personal letter to President Chiang Kai-shek assuring Taiwan the United States will continue to honor its defense treaty commitments despite Nixon's planned visit to mainland China.

The foreign ministry said the letter was sent after Nixon announced his intention to visit Peking but it did not say exactly when.

The ministry said, "The letter conveys assurances of the United States to honor its defense treaty commitments to the Republic of China and to maintain the continuing friendship with her."

The Nationalist government, which claims to be the only legitimate government of China, was driven by the Communist armies from the Chinese mainland to the island of Taiwan, 100 miles offshore, in 1949.

As a longtime U.S. ally, the Nationalists lodged a strong protest to the United States last week after Nixon announced he will visit Peking.

On Monday, the Yuan (legislature) adopted a resolution to "advise President Nixon to rein his horse to a halt before the cliff, and suspend his decision to visit the Chinese mainland."

Packard opposition censored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard has revealed that the Nixon administration overrode and censored his opposition to legislation that would help Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and other financially troubled firms.

Packard believes the government should guarantee repayment for $250 million in bank loans Lockheed is seeking; but he opposes a measure, now nearing a Senate vote, under which any company in trouble could ask the government for similar loan backing.

The administration would accept either approach, but Packard, when he went before the House Banking Committee Monday, had planned to attack the blanket corporate rescue plan.

When it came time for him to testify, however, he refused to read his prepared statement because, he said, the administration had "corrected" his remarks shortly before he came. He declined to say who it was that ordered three parts of his testimony deleted.

In the remarks he was not allowed to deliver Packard had planned to say that letting the government stand behind up to $2 billion in loans for troubled firms — as a Senate proposal before the House committee would do — would only encourage defense contracting corporations to take risks of the type which led to Lockheed's current financial straits.

U.S., Israel engage in Phantom diplomacy

PHANTOM (UPI) — Phantom diplomacy, yes. But phantom diplomacy, no. That is what's going on now between Israel and the United States.

The impending visit to Israel of Assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco next week is seen by political sources as part of a last-gasp U.S. effort to salvage its attempt at mediating a peace settlement which would prevent a possible new round of Middle East war.

"The diplomatic maneuvering centers around Israel's month-long request for more U.S. Phantom fighter-bombers. It has not been granted. Instead, according to the Israeli sources, it is being used as a bargaining pawn in the U.S. effort to convince Israel to pull back from the Suez Canal under a partial peace with Egypt.

In other words, withdraw so many miles and make some other concessions and we will send some Phantoms. But Israel has turned the tables, saying, in effect, guarantee us a steady supply of Phantoms and we will consider it.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan went as far as saying the United States was blocking a peace negotiation by yielding to Egyptian pressure to withhold warplanes from Israel.

Then there were reports Israel was not outnumbered five or six to one in supersonic aircraft.

"We consider the matter urgent," Foreign Minister Abba Eban said. "The increase in our neighbor's strength is going ahead not slowly but at a very rapid pace."

Eban said he thought the United States had decided in principle to send more Phantoms, but the question now was when and how many.

Israel is seeking a definite commitment from the United States to send Phantoms on what political sources describe as an "ongoing" basis instead of piecemeal.

Washington's thinking, according to diplomatic sources, is that Israel still enjoys aerial superiority by virtue of its pilots and does not need more Phantoms so urgently.

If fighting breaks out, then more Phantoms could be in Israel within hours. To deliver Phantoms to Israel, this thinking goes, would be to sabotage the delicate U.S.-Egyptian negotiations.

Regional plan unit created

TWIN FALLS — Creation of a new regional planning office in the U. S. Forest Service regional headquarters in Ogden has been announced with Don Nebeker appointed area planner.

Until being appointed with the new department, he served in the Division of Range Management in Ogden.

The new department will direct program planning and evaluation of multiple use management coordination in the Intermountain Region, Regional Forester Vern Hamre, reports.

Wood River levy passes

By WARREN GOSSETT
Times-News Writer

HAILEY — A new Wood River High School was made possible Tuesday by an election here which gave overwhelming approval to a 10 mill plant facilities levy.

The proposed $1.2 million levy received a total of 913 affirmative ballots and 314 ballots cast against the proposal.

A two thirds majority was required.

Votes by polling station were: Yes, 113 no, Blainville; 30 yes, 15 no, Carey; 281 yes, 119 no, Halley; 551 yes, 52 no, Ketchum; and 24 yes, 15 no, Picabo.

The levy, which takes effect Sept. 1, will provide the school district with funds for initial construction on a new high school. The levy will collect the $1.2 million over a period of five years.

Existing facilities at the high school were termed "totally inadequate" to meet projected student body growth over the next five years.

School officials reported overcrowding occurred in many classrooms during 1970-71 school year, with 357 students enrolled. The 1975-76 student population project is 395 students.

The mill levy was chosen over a bond election because officials felt the levy would save taxpayers money. The bond election would require high interest rates, with the mill levy acquiring accumulated funds on a "pay as you go" basis.

Park request sent to panel

JEROME — The Jerome City Council Tuesday night referred a request from Mr. Ed Heltzman, Jerome, for a new mobile home park to the city zoning commission for their recommendation.

At the July 6 council meeting, Heltzman presented a preliminary plan for the new mobile home park to the city council. Before the council can take action the zoning commission must meet and present their recommendations to the council.

In the near future the city council will meet with the Jerome County Highway Commission on a proposal submitted to the council by the highway commission to have the city annex certain county roads to the city. The reason for annexing the roads to the city is due to the increasing amounts of businesses and residences being built on the city's edge. The roads are being torn up to install utilities. The city limit only goes to the inner edge of the road. The county highways commission wants the city to annex the entire road.

In other matters the council has turned over a claim for $5,000 to their insurance company. William H. Vinyard, Jerome, claims that he was falsely arrested on the night of May 10, 1971, and was assaulted and his wife put in fear.

Two ordinances were passed by the council. Ordinances 465 and 466 pertaining to the annexation and zoning of the property where the Kerri Subdivision would be built were approved. The council voted to suspend the rules and regulations on reading the ordinances these three and adopted both ordinances.

Also city clerk Marilyn Bragg gave notice of a public hearing to be held Tuesday Aug. 3, at 8 p.m. in the council chambers on the new irrigation assessments.

Ketchum studies plans for signs

KETCHUM — Lloyd Curtis, president of the Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce, presented plans for new tourist directional signs during the regular Monday night meeting of the Ketchum City Council.

The signs would be small, functional signs with international symbols for foreign visitors and would replace conventional signs which many claim merely clutter the landscape.

Curtis explained where the signs would be set up in various sections of the city.

The city council told Curtis that if he could obtain a list of the various businesses that presently have advertising signs, and if he could get them to approve of the smaller signs the council would give serious consideration to placing them throughout the city.

The larger and more unsightly signs would then be removed.

Several complaints were brought before the council by Jewell Gottlandia of Ketchum. She inquired whether Lewalt Enterprises, who is planning to build an office building next to Norge Laundry which Mrs. Gottlandia operates, will have enough parking spaces.

She was told that the council had been instructed there would be sufficient parking for the purposes of the building.

Mrs. Gottlandia also asked the council if a culvert could be placed in front of her home as water running along a gutter has been a problem for several years, the council said the city would approve such a culvert.

Hopper battle slated in Hansen butte area

HANSEN — Ranchers in the Hansen Butte area have organized a funding committee to fight the grasshoppers on their land.

About a dozen farmers, according to Twin Falls County Extension Agent Donald Youtz, have organized and are forming a fund to pay for an agreement with the United States Department of Agriculture Plant Protection Division. The landowners met Monday night and agreed on this project to combat the large grasshopper problem in the Hansen Butte area.

The project involves the spraying of only private rangeland, Youtz said. However, farmers owning cropland adjacent to the ranges are helping to pay the cost of spraying even though their land will not be sprayed, he added.

The Hansen Butte area is the only local group organized against the hoppers and will involve approximately 7,000 acres, according to Youtz. He said next Tuesday is the anticipated starting date for spraying by the USDA Plant Protection Division.

Youtz said the hoppers have just started laying their eggs. "The ranchers have done an

Burlap bill stirs furor

By JERRY HERGMANN
Times-News Writer

RUPERT — Tempers flared Tuesday night in Rupert as city council members met to complete their previous meeting which had been recessed and to conduct the Tuesday night regular business session.

Councilmen argued over the payment of bills in the city's recreation department which were presented in the previous regular council meeting.

Mayor Wendell Johnson began the recessed meeting Tuesday night by voting to pay the $10.70 bill for burlap.

The reasons, Mayor Johnson gave for voting to pay the bill was it had been made by a department head and was due.

After this vote was taken, the procedure of voting on the bills was questioned by Councilman Grover Newman. He asked for a roll call vote on each bill he contested. William Goodman, City attorney, informed him this would require a motion to be passed by the council.

Newman contested this but finally agreed to vote on the payment of the bills as a whole on a roll call vote.

Goodman told him by doing this he could vote for the payment of the bills and list any exceptions or bills he would not vote for and his reasons. The council again split over the approval of paying the remaining bills for the parks and recreation department.

Councilman Chuck Dalry and George MacDonald voted to pay all bills. Councilman Newman voted to pay all bills except the one for the carpet installed in the recreation department's office. Councilman Bill Whitton voted "no" to all bills due to economy reasons. He also said the carpeting was unnecessary. "Other department offices need it worse or just as badly and they haven't seen the need to do it. Also with the swim lessons being down I have trouble sanctioning this project," he said.

Mayor Johnson said Terry Duffin, parks and recreation director, had contacted the councilmen in charge of this department and other council members on the matter and it had been sanctioned.

The mayor then voted yes to break the tie and have all bills paid which were all from the parks and recreation department.

When it came time to vote on paying of the bills in the regular meeting Tuesday night, tempers flared anew. Councilman Whitton objected to two bills in the parks and recreation department saying the items could have been purchased locally.

Councilman MacDonald pointed out baseball shirts in question have not been purchased in Rupert over the years due to local merchants not wanting the business.

This failed to change Whitton's stand. He then moved all but two bills — those for the baseball shirts, 12 baseballs and a baseball glove and other miscellaneous supplies be paid.

This motion passed unanimously. Councilman MacDonald then moved the other two bills be paid. This motion again split the council with Councilman Dalry and MacDonald supporting it and Whitton and Newman voting "no" pending further investigation of the bill.

Air pollution 145 index

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District of the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today.

Federal pollution regulations say pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms per cubic meter. Readings should not be permitted to rise above 260 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Forecast
Today: Excellent
Tonight: Poor
Tomorrow: Good

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution. Burning as permitted by law should be curtailed when the air is poorly able to disperse air pollution.

Swine fever presents new threat to stock

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas officials busy vaccinating horses and killing mosquitoes to beat back a spreading sleeping sickness were warned today of a new danger to livestock — an outbreak of swine fever in Latin America.

"It is the most devastating animal disease there is," said Dr. Fred Maurer of the Texas A&M college of veterinary medicine.

Gem solons seek meet on disease

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Seven U.S. Senators urged the Secretary of Agriculture Tuesday to schedule a meeting on information on the spread of sleeping sickness affecting horses in the southwest.

"Our effort was to contain this in Mexico," said Ned D. Bayley, USDA director of science and education. "There was a risk in this decision, but there was a risk on the other hand that was just as real — that is, the possibility that the vaccine itself might spread the disease."

He said once it was sure the epidemic of Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis would enter the United States from Mexico, Church and Jordan said they felt it was essential that veterinarian officers in other states be given as much information as possible to help combat the spread of the disease, often fatal to horses.

The letter to Hardin said, "We think it is particularly important that our state officials be given the opportunity to develop, in conjunction with the department, a multi-state contingency plan in the event that this present epidemic should reach the horse herds of the northwestern United States."

"There is no vaccine against it," he said. "Mexico is buying hams from Cuba now. If it gets into Mexico, the chances are exceedingly good that it will get here."

Maurer urged the United States and Mexico to meet immediately and take steps to keep African swine fever out of the two countries.

Meanwhile, 700,000 doses of vaccine against the horse sleeping sickness that has already killed at least 875 horses in Texas were distributed throughout a six-state area of the Southwest. Air Force planes sprayed mosquito-killing malathion over coastal areas of Texas and Louisiana.

In Washington, a Department of Agriculture official admitted the epidemic of sleeping sickness might have been stopped by quick use of the experimental vaccine — but he said officials feared the vaccine itself might have spread the disease.

"At present, use of the vaccine is strictly controlled by the government."

Air Force and private airplanes have saturated thousands of acres along the coasts of Texas and Louisiana with malathion. Sid Moore of the USDA said the goal is to spray 6.6 million acres.

Doses of the controversial vaccine were headed for Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas and New Mexico.

In late June, the vaccine was used. Bayley predicted the end of the epidemic is in sight.

"We should be able to make it or break it in a couple of weeks," he said.

Texas Gov. Preston Smith and Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., both appealed to the government Tuesday to lift the experimental tag on the vaccine and release it for commercial production.

Commercial licensing is overwhelmingly indicated by widespread safe usage and has been urged by top veterinary officials in the state," Gov. Smith said in a letter to Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin.

Tower said the vaccine has proved itself safe since it has been used for three weeks in Texas.

"Surely, as a result of the large numbers of horses vaccinated in Texas, health officials can now approve the vaccine for public use," he said.

Wallace asks 'break'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, sounding much like a presidential candidate again, asked the Supreme Court Tuesday to give "middle America" a break by ordering many private foundations to pay sharply increased federal income taxes.

Provisions of current law, he said, saddle the average taxpayer with unconstitutional financial burdens because exemptions are permitted for "superficially charitable, religious, educational or scientific" organizations that "in actuality merely provide a tax shelter for the wealthy few."

Wallace, who sought permission to file a complaint directly with the high court, contended that the justices either should outlaw exemptions for such organizations or order federal tax collections halted in Alabama and—in effect—all other states.

The Supreme Court is in adjournment until October.

Rosecrans transferred to Emmett

OAKLEY — Kenneth W. Rosecrans, Oakley district manager for Idaho Power Co., will be transferred to Emmett at the end of this month. He will be succeeded here by Cecil V. Macaw as acting manager.

The announcement was made today by Earl E. Haroldsen, Twin Falls, division manager for the utility.

Macaw is a veteran of 45 years with the company, Haroldsen said. He served as manager of two other districts in the southern division before joining the Oakley force. He joined the company as a groundman on line construction and maintenance in Filer in 1923 and was manager of the Filer district for 18 years and manager in the Kimberly district for eight years.

Rosecrans will succeed another former Magic Valley resident in the district manager post in Emmett. He replaces Harry K. Putzler who is retiring after 45 years service, 19 of which were spent as manager in Emmett. He began working for Idaho Power Co. 45 years ago in Wendell and also served as Halley district manager before transferring to Wendell.

Traffic control needed

BURLEY — Gordon Gelger, representing the East Sixteenth Street Burley residents, reported to the Burley City Council of the need for traffic control on that street.

His report was referred to the Traffic Action Committee, according to Mrs. Dorothy Graff, deputy clerk.

She said the council discussed having new bicycle ordinances. Points brought up during the discussion included reviewing other town policies, one time licensing of bikes and enforcement of proper lighting on them, she said.

Albion campus bought for $1

ALBION — The city of Albion has purchased the property of the old Southern Idaho College of Education for $1 from the state land board.

The action was finalized Tuesday by the board.

The transfer will include the campus, buildings and a downtown apartment building. Two vacant lots that were part of the school property will be retained by the state.

Ace Hansen
Owner

Ace won his trip to Hong Kong, and Ben won his trip to Nassau
 Ace Hansen would like to thank all the people of Magic Valley for making his new business such a complete success. Our contest we just completed ran from May 1st to July 20th. In order to win we had to sell 308 new cars and trucks and used cars and trucks. Here are the people who have made Ace Hansen Chevrolet what it is today.

BUHL — Eileen Kathie Zurek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Zurek, became the bride of Richard William Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ross, all Buhl, July 5, at the Buhl Moose Home.

Bishop D. Monte Davis officiated at the double ring ceremony before an archway of greenery and yellow pompons enhanced by two cupid silhouettes at the top. Large baskets of yellow chrysanthemums, carnations, pompons and greenery and candelabra entwined with greenery and yellow chrysanthemums, holding yellow tapers flanked the archway.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose to wear her sister's wedding gown which was made by the bride's mother. The floor-length gown of delustered satin and Chantilly lace was designed with a scalloped neckline, lily point sleeves and a lace empire bodice. A long train of scalloped lace enhanced with sequins fell from her shoulders. Her shoulder-length veil of silk illusion fell from a diamond tiara. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and carnations arranged on a white Bible, a gift from her parents. The bride wore a pin which is over a hundred years old and belonged to her great-great-grandmother.

Mrs. Jack Jardine, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Terry Todd was bridesmaid and Cindy Jardine, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Vernon Rodig, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Mike Lapray and Kim Rodig, both Buhl, and Scott Hyder, Jerome, all cousins of the bridegroom. Jeff Jardine, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Jack Hyder, Jerome, uncle of the bridegroom, and Clyde Cox, Buhl, were soloists. Mrs. Clyde Cox played the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloists.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the Moose Home for 135 guests. Vicki Ross, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth over yellow which was made by the bride's mother. Centering the table was the wedding cake decorated with green leaves, yellow roses and bells, white hearts with yellow roses in the center of the lattice work and white butterflies. The cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom under an archway. The cake was baked by Mrs. Leonard Walcott, Buhl. Crystal candelabra with white and green tapers and doves on a foundation of greenery and yellow chrysanthemums flanked the cake.

Mrs. Adam Schmidt, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Jack Hyder, aunt of the bridegroom, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Paul Dana poured the punch and Mrs. Vernon Rodig poured coffee. Womon of the Moose were in charge of the reception. Karen Poppewell, Chris Bohrn and Kathie Vecera were in charge of the gifts. The couple will reside in Buhl, where the bridegroom is employed by Andy and Bob's while continuing his education at CSI. The bride is employed at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

The bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower by Terry Todd.

Special guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hyder and Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Bolton, grandparents of the bridegroom; Mrs. Jack Jardine and family, Waynesboro, Va.; Richard Zurek, Boulder, Colo., brother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Arlen Schmidt, Boise; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hyder and family, Jerome; Ruby Jardine, Twin Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Schmidt and Mark.

TWIN FALLS — One hundred family members and guests met at the LeRoy Arrington home on the Shoshone Falls road for the annual Arrington family reunion this week.

Lunch was served on the patio at noon. Lewis Arrington, president of the family organization, presided at the business meeting. It was voted the reunion be an annual rather than a bi-annual gathering. Mrs. Gene Bolton, Halley, compiled and distributed the annual news letter containing activities and addresses of various family members of the LeRoy Medicine Arrington family throughout the United States. Glenn and Susan Arrington entertained with songs, accompanying themselves on guitars.

Others assisting chairman Susan Arrington with arrangements for the event were Richard, Colleen, Steven, Dan, Glenn and Lydia Arrington, Wanda Adams, Myrna Frey and Francis Egbert Jr. Guests attended from Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Halley, Ogden, Salt Lake City and Orem, Utah, and Simi, Calif.

Talent contest

Beauty Hint

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — With makeup, as with most things in life, there is a right way of doing things. If you are a beginning makeup user, famed beauty-fashion authority Max Factor suggests that the time to learn to apply it correctly is now.

First, choose the makeup which is best suited for your complexion. Most likely, if you are just starting to wear makeup, you may have sensitive skin. Select one of the makeupings which are hypoallergenic and dermatologist-tested to help protect against skin sensitivity. If you choose liquid makeup, pour a little of it into the palm of your hand and then transfer it to the fingertips.

Smooth it on swiftly with delicate strokes so that it forms a light, even veil of color over your entire face and blends well away under the jawline. To be really professional, apply it with a moistened cosmetic sponge, picking up enough makeup to go over the face and jawline in one application.

Finish by using the clean side of the sponge to blend to even perfection. Foundation should be applied with a thoroughly damp sponge. Work it well over enough to cover the entire face and jawline in one application. Wring out the sponge and, with the clean side, go lightly over the skin again to insure a beautifully even finish. To apply pressed powder, use a patting, rolling movement of the puff, starting just below the ear and extending it all around the face in a decreasing circle, ending with the nose.

The fashion industry talks about the "civilized" or "well-bred" look for fall. One way to carry it through is with accessories properly done. Try one big dramatic pin or pendant as the jewel accent for your coat or suit. Follow through with the new transparent cosmetics for a natural look as opposed to the "made up" look.

SHOSHONE — Kathleen Coltrin and Kathy Wayment, both Burley, have been named winners in the senior division of the District No. 3 Farm Bureau Talent contest. Mrs. Ervin Braun, Shoshone, district women's chairman, said today. Miss Coltrin played a piano selection, and Miss Wayment was featured as a vocal soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Ira Coltrin, Burley.

Parents of the two are Mr. and Mrs. Ira Coltrin and Mr. and Mrs. Alma Wayment, respectively. Mark Walters, Jerome, was selected as alternate for the senior division. He played a violin selection, accompanied by his brothers, Riley and Douglas.

The winners will compete at the state convention in November in Burley. Winners in the four other districts in the state will also participate. Tami Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Anderson, Burley, won the junior division with an acrobatic dance and will compete in the junior contest at the state convention. The contest at the convention in the junior division terminates the event for the year but a senior winner will receive an expense paid trip to the national convention in December.

Judges for the district contest were Mrs. Don Hite, Twin Falls; Mrs. Herman Stammjorn, Jerome, and Mrs. Clyde Vanauddeln, Filer. Timekeeper was Mrs. Ernest Thaele, Buhl. Winners were given trophies.

A Lovelier You

PETITES ARE IN FASHION

By Mary Sue Miller

The average height of American girls seems to increase with each generation. But not all Lovelies keep pace and sometimes feel left out. A letter from one petite reads: "I am only five feet tall, and very slight. I am too tiny for junior clothes and adult fashions swallow me. How can I dress properly for my size?"

Well, a petite woman is certainly not lost to fashion. Many designers and many shops cater to petites. This is pretty well advertised; watch the ads. These are the designing features to look for:

- Skirts — easy to fullish.
• Blouses — vertical detailing, such as centered buttons.
• Dresses — incorporating above points.
• Coats — fairly narrow, impeccably cut, one inch above hip joint.
• Necklines — round or small V.
• Sleeves — none, very short, or wrist length and moderately full.
• Belts — narrow and matching.
• Fabrics — crisp, solids and small prints.
• Colors — light to medium shades.
• Details — one touch of the outrageously feminine, a rose, or a ruche.

MORE CURVE FOR THE LEGLINE If your leglines problem is thin, chapeaux legs, send for my leaflet, MORE CURVE FOR THE LEGLINE. It shows how to build up contours with spot-increasing exercise. The leaflet also includes your ideal leg measurements, and lists on a graceful stance as well as flattering footwear. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper. Enclosing 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

State Legion, auxiliary meeting set

Commander Cliff Noxon and Paul McKinnon, Ketchum, are convention chairmen. Rhea Smith, Rigby, department president, and Dan McClintock, commander, will be the presiding officers.

Besides the business sessions, a Trail Creek barbecue, a natural buckaroo breakfast, ski lift rides and bus tours are planned.

Four area women named "outstanding"

TWIN FALLS — Four area women have been selected Outstanding Young Women of America for 1971, the director of the National awards program has announced.

They are Shawna Ryan, Linda Ann Duffin, both Twin Falls; Sharon Elizabeth LaFray, Jerome, and Nancy Halo Adams, Gooding.

These women are now being considered for state Outstanding Young Woman of the Year Award, presented annually in all 50 states and the District of Columbia by the Outstanding Young Women of America Program. Now in its seventh year, the program was conceived — and is today guided — by leaders of the nation's major women's organizations. The program's board of advisers, composed of national presidents of women's clubs, is headed by Mrs. Dexter Old Arnold, honorary president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The purpose of the Outstanding Young Women of America Program is to recognize young women between the ages of 21 and 35 for their exceptional contributions to the betterment of their communities, professions, and country. Nominations for this national awards program are made by women's organizations, churches, alumni associations and universities. A complete biographical sketch of each nominee is included in the annual awards volume "Outstanding Young Women of America," which is distributed nationally as a reference publication. The 1971 edition will be published in November.

Announcement of this year's Outstanding Young Women was made on behalf of the board of advisers by Anita Capp, program director.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is being married soon. She will have a formal church wedding followed by a reception. Toward the end of the reception she plans to change into her going away clothes, for which she has selected a HotPants outfit. Abby, I have nothing against HotPants, but don't you think she could have selected something a little more appropriate?
MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Possibly not.

DEAR ABBY: That anecdote you printed about the hippie couple taking advantage of government services and then protesting the establishment made a good point, but was somewhat inaccurate. I hope you give equal time to the other side.

In 10 weeks I'll receive a Master of Science degree, and I never could have made it without free clinics, government loans, a grant, and food stamps. I am grateful to the government for these services but cannot condone all the government does. That same government allows the right to free speech, assembly, and the right to dress the way I choose. Some people think anyone who wears Indian love beads and sandals is against the country. It just isn't so!

The youth movement has a violent minority (who, of course, are the ones we hear about on the news) that I can't agree with, just as the establishment has some narrow-minded "citizens" who would like to see all long-haired, bearded youths in jail or worse.

The real issues at stake involve so much more. I've never seen a demonstration against the establishment; but lots for peace, women's rights, ecology.

If only the young could benefit from the mistakes of their elders, and the old could listen to the fresh ideas of the young! How can we ever work together for peace, the environment, etc., when people like you pit one side against the other by printing that story?

"UNDER 25" IN LOMÁ LINDA

DEAR "UNDER 25": It is not my intention to "pit" one side against the other, but the same freedom of speech which made it possible for "Over 30" to be heard, now makes it possible for you to be heard. Fair enough?

DEAR ABBY: Thank you from the bottom of my heart for recommending "A Doctor Speaks Out on Sexual Expression in Marriage" by Donald W. Hastings. Only by the grace of God did my wife and I manage to remain faithful to each other for 30 years. Our most intimate moments were marred because of my extreme insensitivity, and my beloved wife's shyness. In short, we were both extremely ignorant about sexual expression in marriage. Thanks to this excellent little book, we are finding life more beautiful every day.

HELPED AND GRATEFUL

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

5,000 lack Idaho jobs

BOISE (UPI) — Analdo to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Monday it was difficult to count the number of unemployed farm workers in Idaho, but said the 5,000 estimate was a "pretty close figure." Roy Haney, state federal aid coordinator for the governor's office, said state agencies had gone door-to-door to try to estimate the number of unemployed, mostly Mexican-Americans.

Farmer image change asked

SOUTH SIOUX CITY, Neb. (UPI) — Midwest governors have advised that some city dwellers think farmers have a "Candillac behind every corncrib" and its time to change that image. "There is a lot this country can do if it only realized that the farmer has been subsidizing this nation for the last 29 years instead of vice versa," North Dakota Gov. William Guy said Monday.

Gov. advised 13 other state chief executives attending the 10th annual Midwest Governors' Conference that residents of rural communities know more of life in large cities than their urban counterparts know of life on the farm. He said current government policy is one reason farm prices have not moved with the economy the past 25 years. South Dakota Gov. Richard Kneip said a method must be found for farmers to tell their problems and proposed solutions to the public and Congress.

Midwestern governors study farm problems

SOUTH SIOUX CITY, Neb. (UPI) — Fifteen Midwestern governors, shunning outside expertise, met here Monday in a private brainstorming session dealing with agriculture, urban opportunities, education, welfare and finance problems. While there seemed an endless variety of problems on the agenda at the 10th annual Midwest Governors Conference, Iowa Gov. Robert D. Ray probably pinpointed the chief item — "the fiscal crunch facing all state governments." Departing from traditional conference formats, the governors were to discuss no outside experts but were to present their own ideas and approaches on a non-partisan basis during three four-hour business sessions Monday through Wednesday.

"This promises to be an especially useful conference to the governors," said Ray, co-host with Gov. J. J. Exon of Nebraska. "At no time in our history has it been more true that the chief executives of the states are the people on the front. As this air is drawn into a mine for ventilation, it becomes warmer and absorbs moisture which has kept the dust damp and down. The dust thus is ready for sparking into violence. Weedfall suggests that in fall and winter seasons when cold fronts are common increased volumes of air should be drawn into a mine to keep it from leaking out. At the same time its humidity should be increased artificially to avert the other peril from dried out coal dust."

Connection shown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Appalachian folklore says weather conditions can cause coal mine explosions. According to Prof. Robert O. Woodfall of West Virginia University there seems to be something to this notion. Woodfall says the weather isn't solely to blame for explosions. But scientific evidence indicates a connection. "The culpable weather conditions are cold fronts. They are characterized," according to Woodfall, "by cold dry air and low atmospheric pressures."

Labor housing grants offered

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho director of the Farmers Home Administration said today under new authority given by Congress FHA can grant up to 90 percent of the total cost of new housing for farm labor. Don Winder told the migrant housing subcommittee of the Governor's Advisory Council on Comprehensive Health Planning that the remaining 10 percent could be obtained by a loan at 1 percent interest. Winder said the loans could include all necessary basic furnishings for the units as well.

Onion standard listed

SAN FRANCISCO — The United States Department of Agriculture has announced minimum quality requirements for onion grown under the Idaho-Eastern Oregon federal marketing order. Shipments of all yellow and white varieties grown in the area must be at least "moderately cured" effective July 17 through Aug. 31, 1971. Imports of these varieties must meet the same requirements beginning July 20.

QUINCY, Wash. (UPI) — The pilot of a spray plane walked away from a crash north of here today but the power lines he ran into weren't so lucky. Richard L. Fullerton, 25, Quincy, was uninjured when his Piper PA22 spray plane crashed into the 115 kilovolt Bonneville Power Administration Quincy-Burke power line and a Grant County feeder line at about 8:30 a.m. today and burned. Both lines were knocked out and persons in the area between Quincy and Royal Slope in central Washington were without power for one hour.

BLACKFOOT (UPI) — The Idaho Department of Health has asked Blackfoot city authorities to post warning signs on the beach at Airport Lake warning of schistosoma dermatitis or "swimmer's itch." "The 'water rash' is associated with all natural waters and is carried by larval trematode works of birds and mammals which penetrate snails on muddy lake bottoms. The larvae, called cercariae, are released into the water from the snails and can penetrate the skin of swimmers and waders. Under the skin of a human host, the cercariae are soon destroyed but the bodies remain under the skin a few days, causing an inflammation known as 'swimmer's itch.' Richard Salverson, Bingham County sanitarian, said great numbers of snails are hatched around July 4 and hot water is the danger period for getting schistosoma dermatitis. He said he expected the problem to abate in a few weeks.

PASS IT ON
by L.M. Boyd

THAT SINGLE GIRL who regularly wears a wig declares to her gentleman friends, "Touch me not." So contends a young lady in California. "After wearing wigs daily for six years, with not so much as a goodnight kiss, let alone a matrimonial proposal," she writes, "I stuffed them all in the bottom drawer, and three months later I was married. A wig makes a man nervous. He can't grab you in front of the kitchen sink, impulsively spin you into his arms, and kiss you. It's not fair to inhibit a boyfriend with hair that comes off in his hands."

ON THIS PARTICULAR little earth, just about four-fifths of everything alive is in the sea, it's said. IN REPLY to a query, must mention only a fourth of a frozen beef pie has to be beef, that's all. AND REMEMBER Ethel Mumford's advice, too: "Don't take the will for the deed; get the deed."

IT'S A PUB in Newton Verdon, England, called the Georgian Dragon. Wives thereabouts like it a lot. What happened was the builder erected it over an old coal-mine which sank some. So the pub sits in a most peculiar manner. A husband without a drink under his belt can manage all right. But after several of the usual, it's said, he no longer can make it to the bar.

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "Can a farmer just look at a ripe corn field and tell you how many bushels it will turn out?" A. So it's said. An Iowa farmer, especially. And in Kentucky, I'm told, some can tell you how many gallons. Q. "How old does a car have to be before you call it antique?" A. Would have to be built before 1924; the experts say. Q. "Are there any vegetarian snakes?" A. Not a one.

A CANADIAN ASTRONOMER contends his close scrutiny of moon photographs convinces him that shape we used to call the man in the moon is actually a voluptuous girl approximately 860 miles tall. That's a lot of voluptuous girl, is it not? INCIDENTALLY, initials of the first three men on the moon—Armstrong, Cooper and Aldrich. So? Never mind.

ALL HE DOES, this thief, is open the car door, and suddenly a voice yells, "Help! I'm a sky-blue Ford! Somebody is stealing me. My license number is... Call the police! Quick!" It's a jape recording. Can be heard a block away. Creator of this alarming device says it will put an inordinate amount of egg on the faces of car strippers. The Detroit boys are considering it. Hang-up is its practical-joke potential. Too whimsical. Anybody with access can record anything on that tape deck. A honeymooner's car, for instance, might stream: "The chivasee will be at the Midtown Hotel, gang!" Or an errant husband's car could blare out, "This woman is not Brown's wife. She's Smith's wife. They sneak out like this every Wednesday afternoon, the rascals!"

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 17076, Fort Worth, Texas 76102.
