Suspect 'innocent'

TWIN FALLS — Helen E. Wilcox, 64, Twin Falls, entered a plea of innocent by reason of mental disease or defect, when she appeared in Fifth Judicial District Court Thursday afternoon on charges of first degree murder.

She is accused of the death of her mother, Laura Wilcox, 85, last January 2 in the Twin Falls home they shared. The elder Mrs. Wilcox was found dead in her bed of strangulation.

Mrs. Wilcox appeared in court with her attorney James May. Judge Theron Ward approved continuation of the $10,000 bond on which she has been released to the Hazel Del Manor, and said under Idaho law governing insanity pleas, she must now be committed to the care of the Idaho Board of Health for examination at State Hospital South.

May said arrangements have been made for her transportation to the hospital immediately.

Judge Ward said the court will continue action in the case until reports from the state hospital are available.

In April, Mrs. Wilcox was taken to the State Hospital, Blackfoot, for psychiatric evaluation at the request of her attorney and by a court order. She waived preliminary hearing in lower court.

Barry backs journey

DENVER, Colo. (UPI)—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., asked fellow Republicans today to refrain from complaining about President Nixon's visit to China and to await the results.

Goldwater, the 1964 GOP nominee for president, made his comments in a speech prepared for the Republican National Committee.

Both the full committee and its special site committee were expected to approve today the choice of San Diego, Calif., for the 1972 Republican National Convention, late Thursday, reporting that no decision had been made between San Diego and Miami Beach, Fla., and that none would be announced until the report to the full committee.

Goldwater's comment on the administration's China venture came in a speech saying he was frightened by Democratic alternatives to the re-election of Nixon.

He said Nixon was a target of much criticism, including some from GOP conservatives like himself. He said he opposed the administration's welfare program and its deficit financing policy.

The President's announcement, he said, made no immediate changes in U.S. policy and no new commitments about China. Goldwater said the bill is opposed to admitting Peking to the United Nations and to China's "brutal" policies.

"But I do not oppose efforts by the Nixon administration to improve the dialogue and the channels of communication through which some of our ideas can be placed realistically before Peking's rulers," he said.

Wetback roundup cuts farm labor

By RONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — Department of Labor statistics list 169 additional farm jobs in Twin Falls and Cassia counties this week following a one-week roundup of that many illegal aliens.

Some area farmers contend the jobs cannot be filled by unemployed forces in the two county area.

Whether a labor shortage or a surplus of workers exists in the area is being debated today.

In Washington, D. C., U. S. Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, said he had advised the secretary of labor of a farm labor shortage in the state, especially regarding irrigation pipe movers.

Officials of the Immigration Service said they had received reports from unemployed families in both the Burley and Twin Falls areas who were unable to find farm work because farmers were employing the illegal aliens or "wetbacks."

Employment department spokesmen in the area said they have had sufficient labor to fill all demands, but said demands are probably not as great as they might be because of use of the alien workers. Whether or not the persons seeking farm work will move irrigation pipe at the rates being paid is also in question, one official said.

He said the work is hard and not always pleasant because of muddy fields and long hours.

Raymond G. Hoffeller, U. S. Immigration Service district director, Helena, Mont., said the 169 Mexican nationals taken from the area were mostly working on large farms in Cassia County and the Bell Rapids project of Twin Falls County.

The problem, he said, extends throughout southern Idaho, largely in the Snake River Valley. He said similar action has been taken in Blackfoot recently.

Hoffeller said the 169 aliens were collected in a one-week period ending Wednesday. He said this is an unusually high number for one move.

He said more aliens have been brought into the country illegally this year than normal.

Hoffeller said his department has no way of verifying reports from farmers who say they are being deprived of a reliable and much needed source of labor. He said his department is charged with enforcing the law regarding illegal aliens in the area. Whenever reports of such are received, his force must take action, he said.

He said his office and the Boise office of the Immigration Service have received calls, many from women, who say their families are in Idaho labor camps and are unable to find work and being forced to seek public assistance. These calls have indicated farmers are hiring the "wetbacks" for farm jobs normally available in the area at this time of year, leaving local and legal migrant workers without jobs.

Hoffeller said he could not speak for the wages paid "wetbacks" but believes they are willing to work longer hours and on a seven-day-a-week basis if the farmer requires such assistance.

Those found to be in the area illegally are gathered up and transported to El Centro, Calif., where they are processed at a detention center. Hoffeller said those who are first offenders are given a "volunteer departure under safeguard" order. This gives them an opportunity to return to Mexico without facing charges. Others are deported following hearings held in El Centro, he said.

Hoffeller said a bill has been introduced in Congress to make it a misdemeanor for any farmer to hire an illegal alien. This would mean if the workers did not have the blue or green card the farmer would be taking a chance of facing court action for hiring the workers.

Hoffeller said the Immigration Service attempts to permit only enough workers into the country each year to fill labor demands and to protect the workers in agricultural areas who depend on the work for their support. Those approved for entry are issued the cards for a specified period of time.

Manuel Lopez of the Community Action Agency, Burley, said there are many families in the Cassia County area who are forced to seek county relief because of the lack of work.

He said the illegal aliens will work for less money and because they do not want to be seen by Immigration Service workers prefer to remain on the farms. This means they are available 24-hours a day, seven days a week and are probably "more reliable," he said.

Lopez said he feels farmers are obligated to hire local workers first and said the "wetbacks" are depriving many other families of rightful farm job income.

Prices take larger jump

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The cost of living to Americans surged up by 0.6 per cent in June, the sharpest increase in 14 months, the government reported today.

The rise was slightly more than the 0.5 per cent jump recorded in May and the largest since April, 1970.

Because prices usually increase fractionally from May to June, the increase on a seasonally adjusted basis was 0.5 per cent, down slightly from May's adjusted rate of 0.6 per cent.

The Labor Department figures showed that despite the Nixon administration's claim of gradual victory over inflation, rising prices continue to plague the nation.

Taking May and June together, prices rose during the two months at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 0.6 per cent, comparable to the pace in 1969 and early 1970 when the nation was in the grip of the worst inflation in 23 years.

The cost of living rose at an annual rate of 4 per cent in the first half of the year. The pace in January through April was much slower than the rate for May and June. The rate for the full six months was down from the 4.9 per cent pace in the last half of 1970 and 6 per cent in the first half of last year.

The consumer price index in June stood at 121.5 per cent of the 1967 average. That meant it cost $12.15 last month to buy the same goods and services that could have been obtained for $12.06 in May, for $11.83 a year ago and for $10 in 1967.

The June increase was led by a 0.9 per cent advance in prices for groceries. The price for a market basket of food that cost $10 in 1967 was $11.74 in June. That was 11 cents more than March, 23 cents higher than May, and 34 cents more than June, 1970.

Prices for beef, poultry, fruits, vegetables, and dairy products increased in June more than normal for this time of year.

BEIRUT (UPI)—Four rebel army officers were executed by a firing squad today for their role in The Sudan's four-day coup against President Jaafar Numeiry, the official Omdurman radio said.

The four included Maj. Hashem Atta, 36, who led the short-lived coup last Monday.

The broadcast from the Sudanese capital of Khartoum's twin city of Omdurman, said the officers were stripped of their insignia and cashed in from the armed forces before they were shot.

The executions were carried out immediately after the special military court sentenced the officers, the broadcast said. Four special military tribunals were set up Thursday to try those involved in Monday's pro-communist coup.

Numeiry, who was restored to power Thursday after four days in prison, ordered a curfew today and proclaimed a state of emergency.

The four officers executed today were all key figures in the July 19 coup. After the coup, Atta became Vice president of the "Revolutionary Command Council."

The designated president, Lt. Col. Babakr al Nour Osman, was in London at the time of the coup and was seized by Libyan authorities Thursday after his airliner was forced down in Benghazi, Libya, by Libyan jet fighters. The Libyan regime is friendly to President Numeiry.

Apart from Atta, the officers executed today included Col. Abdel Monem Mohammed Ahmed, former commander of the 3rd Armored Regiment, the key unit in Monday's coup; Lt. Col. Osman Hussein, former commander of the presidential guard, which also participated in the coup, and Capt. Muawayah Abdel Hal, a member of the seven-man revolutionary command council.

Radio Omdurman said, "When the trial of the traitors was concluded, the sentence was carried out."

The first indications that people were killed during the countercoup Thursday by Numeiry's loyalist military forces came today when Radio Omdurman broadcast excerpts from the Koran, the Bible of the 1 Moslem religion, "in mourning for the martyrs who died yesterday fighting to destroy the rebel movement."

The sudden political switch for this predominantly Arab nation of 15 million persons, geographically Africa's largest, occurred within hours after a Khartoum-bound British Overseas Airways Corp. (BOAC) twin jetliner was forced by Libyan authorities to land at Benghazi's Benina Airport where leaders of Monday's coup were taken off the plane.

Members of the group said they wanted to use the conference to urge President Nixon to accept a Viet Cong offer to release prisoners in exchange for the withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam by the end of this year.

John Kerry, a former Navy officer who led demonstrations against the war in Washington last spring, represented the antiwar veterans.

Several women standing in the back of the room interrupted the proceedings. Mrs. Arthur S. Mears, Los Angeles, whose husband has been missing since Nov. 11, 1968, said:

"Mr. Kerry, you are using these people for your own callous political ambition."

Kerry, who has been mentioned as a possible congressional candidate in Massachusetts, replied the charge.

"Let those people say whether they think they are being used," he said. "They are perfectly capable of expressing their own opinion."

Kerry said his organization joined with the families because both were seeking the same goal—a prompt withdrawal of U.S. military forces from Vietnam.

Ed Williams, administrative assistant to the governor, returned to Boise after his inspection of hopper-infested areas in Idaho yesterday.

"There isn't any question that people have a dire problem. The grasshopper infestation is as bad as they say it is," he said.

"The most heavily infested areas are in Adams, Washington and parts of Boise counties. Also infested are areas in Twin Falls, Elmore and Ada counties," he said.

Williams added, "Part of the difficulty now stems from reinfestations of areas already sprayed. The chemical used, malathion, has a life of two hours and in some cases the grasshoppers are coming back to those lands where the spraying was carried out," he said.

Williams said the governor had talked with Senator Frank Church, D-Idaho, in Washington, D. C. and received reports that Idaho's congressional delegation in Washington and Adams counties are asking for 100 per cent government funding of a spraying project in Washington and Adams counties.

Congressman Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, appealed today to the U. S. Department of Agriculture to extend emergency aid to farmers in southern Idaho who are in danger of losing their harvest to the ravages of grasshoppers.

The Second District Congressman requested that emergency funds and additional personnel be made available immediately to the plant pest control division of the Agricultural Research Service in Twin Falls, which has authority for insect control on public lands.

According to spokesmen for the landowners, said the project has been well received by the ranchers. "Even those who didn't have any reason to spray have been most helpful and have contributed money," he said.

Dean Moore, chairman for the group, said the group has received almost 100 per cent cooperation from landowners in the Butte area.

He said he regrets that they have received no commitment from the state for funding but added that the farmers will continue the project even without state support. Financing of the program will be two-thirds by the farmers with the federal government paying the remaining third.

Peter Link, a spokesman for the landowners, said the project has been well received by the ranchers. "Even those who didn't have any reason to spray have been most helpful and have contributed money," he said.

POW kin split

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Relatives of American prisoners of war charged each other Thursday with being used politically by opponents and supporters of administration Vietnam policy.

The confrontation came when six relatives of prisoners and a spokesman for Vietnam veterans against the war assembled for a news conference at the Capitol.

Members of the group said they wanted to use the conference to urge President Nixon to accept a Viet Cong offer to release prisoners in exchange for the withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam by the end of this year.

John Kerry, a former Navy officer who led demonstrations against the war in Washington last spring, represented the antiwar veterans.

Townwide 'Crazy Daze' sale begins today

Viet deadline thought price for new draft

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate negotiators are quietly optimistic the Nixon administration will accept a legislated date for ending the Vietnam War as the price for reviving the draft.

A knowledgeable Democratic source, with contacts at the White House, said he felt certain President Nixon and House conferees will accept some sort of a timetable—perhaps even the nine-month schedule for withdrawal adopted by the Senate. The major question, he said, was when the bill would be swallowed. The guessing is that Nixon will wait at least until after next month's legislative elections in South Vietnam, and perhaps after the presidential election there in October.

For the time being, administration representatives are being pointedly calm and collected about the deadline which since July 1 has left Nixon without authority to draft men into the Armed Services. Defense Secretary Melvin R.

Laird told newsmen Thursday the Armed Forces would begin experiencing serious personnel shortages unless the draft resumes by September.

But he quickly added that the shortfall would affect only military units stationed in the United States, that the personnel shortages would not begin showing up until well into 1972 and that the U.S. effort in Vietnam would not be affected in any way. He made no mention of any potential manpower crisis or harm to the national security—the points that draft advocates drove home in their six-week struggle to win Senate approval of a two-year extension of the draft law.

The Senate version of the bill contains a provision written by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield settling a national policy for withdrawal from Vietnam within nine months of enactment, providing prisoners of war held by the Communists are released simultaneously with the pullout. The House draft bill contains no such language.

Senate and House conferees have been meeting off and on for four weeks to resolve the deadlock. Another session is scheduled for Monday, with no sign of agreement. Some senators are discussing a possible move to send the Mansfield amendment back to the two Houses in disagreement—a process that would force a straight up or down vote on the measure in the House.

But others feel that would accomplish nothing and push the issue back into the headlines at a time when the administration feels it could hurt negotiating efforts and interfere with coming elections in South Vietnam.

In a related development, Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr sent letters to all the nation's local draft boards today asking them to make a maximum effort to inform young men that they must still register and report for physical examinations. The only Selective Service activity which has been suspended because of the legislative tie-up is the actual induction of men.

He urged the boards to spread the message through local press releases and notices to registrants.

New unit sets SV meeting

CALDWELL (UPI)—Caldwell optometrist Dr. G. W. Graves announced Thursday he and a Blackfoot colleague Dr. J.O. Young have organized a new association known as Affiliated Idaho Optometrists.

The association, with Young serving as president and Graves as vice president, will be comprised of registered Idaho optometrists.

The new group lists its objectives as individuality, freedom of choice, nondiscrimination and equal opportunity.

Graves said the group would try to get every registered Idaho optometrist to have a choice in state board election; to restrict the monopoly of the profession by any one group; and to give every registered Idaho optometrist equal representation whether a member of any professional group or not.

A final objective is to include non-resident registered Idaho optometrists when the issue arises.

The first meeting of the new group is scheduled for Sept. 4 at the 4th annual contact lens seminar at Sun Valley, Graves said.

Scared boy still hides

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI)—Some where in the hills and canyons of the rugged Casper Mountain area is a lost 9-year-old boy, mentally retarded, epileptic and very scared.

The rescue attempts, conducted by his parents, helicopters, trained dogs and more than 2,000 volunteers, were called off Thursday night in the hope that by the time they resume Saturday, young Kevin Dye will have calmed down.

The youth, who has been missing since walking away from his family's picnic Sunday, is hyperactive and normally takes about nine tranquilizers a day.

Without the influence of the tranquilizers he apparently has become afraid of people and has run away from attempts to rescue him.

Kevin is said to have the mentality of a three or four year old. But rescuers agree he had shown great cunning in eluding what he feels is danger, working through the dense underbrush to escape time and again.

His mother, Mrs. Phillip Dye, appealed to her son through a bullhorn Thursday, yelling to him hidden somewhere in the mountain.

"Kevin, please come out. This is Mommy. Kevin—please come out where the helicopter can see you."

Kevin has been spotted several times by the two Air Force helicopters on the scene. But he scurries away before ground personnel can reach him.

"He can run like a deer," one searcher said.

To prevent Kevin from starving to death, searchers have left food at random spots in the area.

"We know where he is, but we just can't find him," Natrona County Sheriff Bill Estes said.

Estes said he hoped the hall in the search would calm the boy down. Gov. Stan Hathaway has ordered National Guard troops to enter the search when it is scheduled to resume Saturday morning.

Actor Heflin, 60, dies

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Van Heflin, who made a career of character roles in movies and television, died today at the age of 60.

Heflin, whose sparse red hair and intense delivery before the camera were his trademarks, won an Oscar as best supporting actor in "Johnny Eager" in 1942.

He was stricken last June 6 by a heart attack while swimming in a pool at an apartment house. He was taken to Cedars of Lebanon hospital where doctors said the actor's heart had stopped beating.

Hospital authorities placed him in the intensive care unit. He was in a coma most of the time since. Death came at 6:43 a.m. today.

At the time his most recent picture, "Airport," was breaking boxoffice records. Heflin played the role of a crazed bomber aboard a passenger plane in the film which starred Burt Lancaster and Dean Martin.

Company inks union pacts

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Kennecott Copper Corp. announced today it had signed agreements with 11 of the 19 union locals in its Utah Division, a key development in a three-week strike that has idled 39,000 workers in seven states.

Kennecott spokesman Kenneth Kefauver said the agreements, still to be ratified in union voting, cover about 75 per cent of the union-represented employees at Utah copper stations.

Kefauver said the four large Utah Steelworkers production and maintenance locals were among the 11 reaching apparent accord with management following 10 days of talks here.

Other states affected by the strike are Nevada, Montana, New Mexico, Arizona, New Jersey and Maryland.

Workers at Arizona's Magna Copper Co. negotiated an agreement last Sunday, calling for a 92-cent-an-hour wage increase.

A 500-member Nonferrous Metals Conference was scheduled here Saturday to ratify or reject the tentative Arizona pact.

If the conference approves the Arizona agreement, 3,000 workers would immediately return to their jobs at Magna.

Kefauver said the union conference also would take up any other agreements, including those reached in Utah.

Elsewhere on the strike scene, the Anaconda Co. was believed to be near a settlement at Helena, Mont.; Phelps Dodge was "holding talks" at its Arizona operations.

Horse protection hints offered

BOISE (UPI)—A veterinarian with the State of Idaho said Thursday his department has received information for the protection of horses to reduce the chance of them being exposed to mosquitoes carrying sleeping sickness.

Dr. A.P. Schneider of Boise said some owners may be able to provide individual screened stalls, which would be helpful against the night biting mosquito, which carries Venezuelan equine encephalitis.

He added stable areas and stalls can be sprayed with area-type insecticides.

The individual animal can further be protected by using those insecticides recommended for animal applications. Some of those are clotrin, the pyrethrin aerosols, and wipe-on insecticides, he said.

Schneider said those insecticides can be obtained from commercial agricultural insecticide suppliers and manufacturer's recommendations of use should be closely followed.

BOISE (UPI)—More than 1,000 persons attended the funeral Thursday for Harry W. Morrison, co-founder of Morrison Knudsen Construction Co., who died Monday in Boise at the age of 86.

Company inks union pacts

Workers at Arizona's Magna Copper Co. negotiated an agreement last Sunday, calling for a 92-cent-an-hour wage increase.

A 500-member Nonferrous Metals Conference was scheduled here Saturday to ratify or reject the tentative Arizona pact.

If the conference approves the Arizona agreement, 3,000 workers would immediately return to their jobs at Magna.

Kefauver said the union conference also would take up any other agreements, including those reached in Utah.

Elsewhere on the strike scene, the Anaconda Co. was believed to be near a settlement at Helena, Mont.; Phelps Dodge was "holding talks" at its Arizona operations.

Aussie employment

CANBERRA (UPI)—Nearly 81 per cent of all Australians 15 years old and over were in the work force in February, 1971, a recent statistical report says. The Australian work force was put at 5.5 million.

Nab trio in drug arrests

TWIN FALLS — Two 20-year-old Twin Falls men face charges today of illegal possession of a controlled substance as a result of their arrests by city police.

Scheduled to appear in magistrate court today were Steve Birpee, 20, and Ron Behagen, 20, who were taken into custody by officers Wednesday night. They were released on $300 bond each pending arraignment in court.

Taken into custody at the same time was Jamie Illsha Allred, 19, who was released on her own recognizance.

Police Chief Frank Barnett said the trio was taken into custody at 1790 Maplewood Drive Wednesday night. Investigation in the matter is continuing, he said.

The pig has a heart and circulatory system similar to man's.

Rites Sunday

CASTLEFORD — County and state officials, including Gov. Cecil Andrus, will gather here Sunday at 4 p.m. for the official dedication of the Balanced Rock Park.

The event also marks the official designation of the park area as an Idaho State Park. It has been in the development stage for several years with members of the Castleford Men's Club first beginning plans for a park in the vicinity of the unique balanced rock.

Their work several years ago has been expanded by the Twin Falls County Parks and Recreation Board and by utilization of federal funding.

In addition to Gov. Andrus, who will give the dedicatory address, state parks board chairman, Harold Brown, Filer, will also speak.

A picnic dinner featuring Idaho trout, Idaho French fried potatoes, salad, ice cream, coffee and lemonade will be served at 4 p.m., prior to the official dedication. Gale Conner, president of the Castleford Men's Club will be master of ceremonies.

Antique Festival Theatre will give a special performance. A fish derby will be held for children and other special entertainment is planned. The public is invited to attend. A nominal charge will be made for adults attending the picnic and program.

WASHINGTON — When the history books of this decade are written, they will be referring to Henry Kissinger's trip to China as "The Tummy Ache Round the World."

Using the excuse of an upset stomach, Mr. Kissinger managed to elude everyone and high-tail it off to Peking to have sweet-and-sour pork with Chou En-Lai.

While it was a great ploy, Mr. Kissinger's "diplomatic illness" could backfire on him. Suppose he really gets a stomachache at some future time. Who is going to believe him?

Our scene opens in the medical room at the White House. Henry staggers in clutching his stomach and says, "Doctor, I have this pain right here."

The White House doctor laughs. "Good old Henry. Where are you off to this time — the Suez Canal?"

"I'm not joking, Doc. It hurts terribly."

"I know," the doctor says. "The President is sending you to talk to Castro."

Henry is now writhing on the floor. "Believe me, it hurts. Right in the gut. You see, I had dinner with Gloria Steinem and Bella Abzug, and they served me Bon Vivant Vichyssoise. Since I was out of the country at the time, I didn't know you weren't supposed to eat it."

"You can't really put on an act, Henry. I wouldn't be surprised if you'd turned up in Albania next week."

Henry crawls out of the doctor's office on his hands and knees.

Ron Zeligler, the President's press secretary, sees him crawling down the hall.

"Hello, Mr. Kissinger," Ron says. "Can I help you?"

"Get me to a hospital."

Ron takes out his notebook. "That's a good cover story. I'll announce you were taken to a hospital this morning. I won't tell them which hospital."

"No, Ron, I don't want you to announce I was taken to a hospital. I want you to get me to a hospital."

Ron winks at him. "Is it East Berlin or Yalta?"

"Please, Ron. I'm sick. I'm going to die."

"I doubt if the press corps would buy that, Mr. Kissinger. If we announce that you've died, and then you pop up at San Clemente a week later, the newspaper guys will get awfully indignant. Let me announce you're having your tonsils out. I have to go to my press briefing now. I'll see you later."

Henry is rolling on the floor as Secretary of State William Rogers comes by.

"Hello, Henry. You going to the Cabinet meeting?"

"Mr. Secretary, my stomach. I have a pain in my stomach. It's killing me."

Secretary Rogers says angrily, "Well no one has informed me about it. What are you up to this time?"

"I'm not up to anything, Mr. Secretary. Could you call an ambulance?"

"Hanoi," Rogers says. "You're cooking up something in Hanoi. I'll probably be the last one to know about it."

"I'm not going to Hanoi. I'm really sick."

"No kidding? Well, I'm sorry to hear that, Henry." And Rogers smiles and walks away.

With his last ounce of strength, Henry staggers into the Oval Room and falls down in front of the President.

"Henry," the President says. "You don't have to prostrate yourself in front of me. I know you're loyal."

Henry is in such agony he can't speak.

"What is it, Henry?" the President says. "Would you like to go to Morocco?"

Henry shakes his head.

"The Vatican? You want to see the Pope?"

Henry groans.

The President gets up. "I don't have time to play games, Henry. Write me a memo telling me what you want. By the way, Mrs. Nixon said she would like you for dinner tonight. We're having meat loaf."

Henry screams and passes out, as the curtain falls.

Uncertainty in Hanoi

WASHINGTON — Unprecedented criticism of Communist China by the North Vietnamese, intense though indirect, reveals not only how worried Hanoi is about possible U.S.-Chinese detente but also how vigorously it will resist any dovish influence from Peking.

The lead editorial in Monday's issue of Nhan Dan, the top North Vietnamese daily, constituted the first North Vietnamese attack of any kind against official Chinese policy. Hanoi was serving notice on the Chinese that it simply will not stand for settlement of the Vietnam war brokered by Washington and Peking.

Only if the Hanoi politburo members were deeply disturbed by the implications of the stunning July 15 announcement by President Nixon (made jointly in Peking) would they have dared chiding their big brothers to the north. But their daring shows that a mere wave of the finger from Peking will not turn the lions of Hanoi into pussycats.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Sciatica Problem

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I've had sciatica more than a year. The doctor says it's a nerve problem and happens after some traumatic experience. I did lose my husband through cancer, and it was after his death that this condition occurred. Can you tell me more about this condition? I found only a small paragraph in our local library.

on the sciatic nerve at the point at which it emanates from the spinal column. That's just a "cr instance," but it is an example of how pressure of irritation of that nerve could come about. Treating sciatica depends on ascertaining by inference or sometimes by specific tests, where the pressure or irritation is, and what is causing it — shifting of bones slightly, infection, diabetes, gout, or whatever.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send Booklet on "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You." I enclose 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

What causes could there be for bleeding from the rectum when I had an examination and there were no piles? — Mrs. A. B.

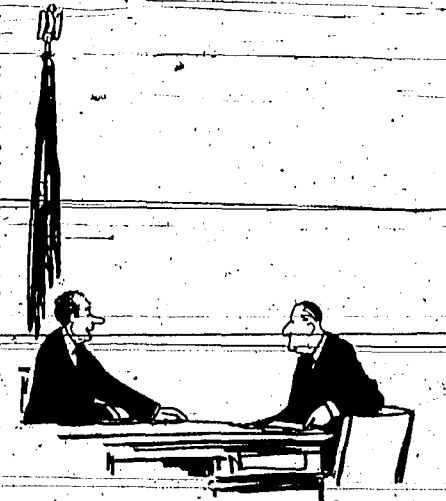

When your doctor says it may happen after a traumatic experience, he's right — but it can be physical trauma, in the sense of a physical injury, or trauma of some other sort.

Quite a few — fissures (although a rectal examination should have disclosed that); ulceration of one sort or another; diverticula which can cause bleeding; and various disorders of the colon. And, of course, we must always be on guard against cancer. Some of these cancers are higher in the bowel than is reached by a short nascope. They are detected by a proctosigmoidoscope or by X ray.

Such tension reflects itself in physical ways: muscular tension is one. And suppose there were already some arthritic changes in bones of the spine. The combination could quite possibly result in the spinal bones exerting pressure

Yet many thoughtful historians, psychologists and social anthropologists — and a lot of common-sense grandparents — believe today's discontent to be much deeper, more widespread, more far ranging than any heretofore. Some parents believe old-fashioned religion will rescue our sons and daughters. And this is, indeed, the most truth-seeking generation of young people with respect to spiritual matters that we have known in this century. And they prefer old-fashioned emotional religious orthodoxy, Pentecostalism is the fastest growing wing of American Protestantism; many young people, including college students, are part of that growth.

BERRY'S WORLD

"How would you like to go on another ego trip?"

Peace Tour

The stated purpose of President Nixon's scheduled visit to Red China sometime before next May (next to seeking "a normalization of relations between the two countries") is "to exchange views on questions of concern to the two sides."

any time by a tinder of six million Bengali refugees inside India's borders. If so, it will be apparent also to Red China, which may then be forced to reassess its policy in the subcontinent.

Perhaps THE question of concern to the two sides, certainly the one that has been the subject of most speculation, is Vietnam and the possibility that the President's China visit will be the prelude to an international peace conference designed to arrive at more or less permanent political stability in all of Southeast Asia.

Another obvious question of concern to the two sides is the admission of Red China to the United Nations. But here again, events may not wait — may even move more swiftly, thanks to the boost given China's prestige by the president's announcement. A vote could come in the U. N. next fall, though whether Peking would accept membership without the ouster of Nationalist China is another matter.

But peace in Vietnam — if by peace is meant the end of active U. S. military involvement in the war — can't wait that long.

In other words, the dramatic changes in international affairs which everyone seems to expect from the president's visit to China might well begin to happen long before that visit.

Even now the administration is having all it can do to complete pull-out of American troops by the end of the year. By next spring, the first presidential election primaries will have been held.

What is left to speculate on then is the picture of Richard M. Nixon, who achieved his first fame as a tough anti-Communist junior senator, standing in Tien An Men Square in Peking, where is practiced the world's most fundamentalist brand of communism, raising his arms to accept the cheers of the multitude.

Another question of concern to the two sides, though one much less commented upon, is the situation in West Pakistan, where the East Pakistani army continues its brutal suppression.

And perhaps one other question: Have 750 million Chinese been so automated that they will welcome an arch capitalist-imperialist of the kind they have been taught to hate for two decades?

Red China's support of East Pakistan, juxtaposed against Russia's support of India and U.S. attempts to keep the favor of both, make this area of the world even more dangerous than Indochina.

The answer seems to be that they have and they will.

But long before next spring, East Pakistan will either have stamped its will on rebellious West Pakistan or it will be apparent that it faces a protracted guerrilla war, one that could be ignited into general war at

Actually, Hanoi gets the news of war from the Soviet Union; food, petroleum, trucks, rockets, communications equipment. But it still is supplied the basics for waging an infantry war — small arms and their ammunition — from Peking (such aid being confirmed in a new agreement signed July 4).

The politburo members in Hanoi are probably wondering now whether they could, if need be, turn in Moscow for infantry supplies now coming from China. But nobody can begin to predict exactly how far Peking would go to pressure a softer line from North Vietnam.

Certainly, Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam, running for President on a dovish platform is in correct in judging that Peking's orders are responsible for the construe "federal money" as a substitute for genuine social concern. They lack their parents' confidence in "money" as a cure-all. They don't see any solution to the problems of pollution, racial conflict, urban decay and war — and they don't think their elders do, either.

Women come away weeping. Men come away wondering what the boy's rich dad did wrong.

Some parents insist that "young people have always opposed their elders" and "this, too, will pass."

The visible target, of course, was Richard M. Nixon. He was excoriated for "dividing the Socialist countries" and "trying to achieve a compromise" in Vietnam by forcing "smaller countries (to) bow to the arrangement" of the big powers.

And this is, indeed, the most truth-seeking generation of young people with respect to spiritual matters that we have known in this century. And they prefer old-fashioned emotional religious orthodoxy, Pentecostalism is the fastest growing wing of American Protestantism; many young people, including college students, are part of that growth.

For three days after the announcement of July 15, Hanoi was silent. The North Vietnamese people were not told the first word about what was happening. Then, on July 10, came the Nhan Dan editorial, broadcast on Radio Hanoi.

They are seeking a divine element in life and a way to relate themselves to it. Dr. Bolling believes for all their vaunted, covert wickedness, today's young generation is profoundly concerned about ethical and moral issues.

The implicit criticism: Peking is letting itself be used as a handmaiden in such nefarious imperialist plots. What makes Hanoi's concern so real is that North Vietnam has played Peking's bellicose Communism off against Moscow's softer brand for years.

Once they have shocked and shamed us for the hypocrisy which has characterized us, and when they have learned about the inherent weaknesses and attitude of all human beings, including themselves, probably we and they will meet again somewhere near the middle of the bridge.

Whenever the Soviets seemed to be getting too friendly to the West, Hanoi would indirectly attack Moscow and seemingly open its arms to Peking. Most recently, Hanoi sharply criticized attempts at detente between the Soviet Union and West Germany. Earlier, there was North Vietnamese sniping at Soviet participation in the Mideast cease-fire. But if Peking also is softening toward the West, Hanoi may become apprehensive about the absolutely essential military aid from the two Communist Superpowers.

Dr. Bolling finds long hair, boards and rock music are as disconcerting to the Communist establishment in Moscow as they are to our establishment in Boston.

Most dads believe the end of the Vietnam war and the draft will quiet the kids. Yet the young are demonstrating, rioting in nations not at all involved in the Indochinese war.

Some parents believe more money for education, housing and care of the poor will eliminate discontent. Dr. Bolling says students

Young skater to take spotlight Saturday in Sun Valley ice show

SUN VALLEY — An outstanding young skater will take the spotlight at this Saturday's ice show at Sun Valley. He is 13-year-old David Santee of Park Ridge, Ill., who earlier this year became the youngest skater to win the National Junior Men's Championship.

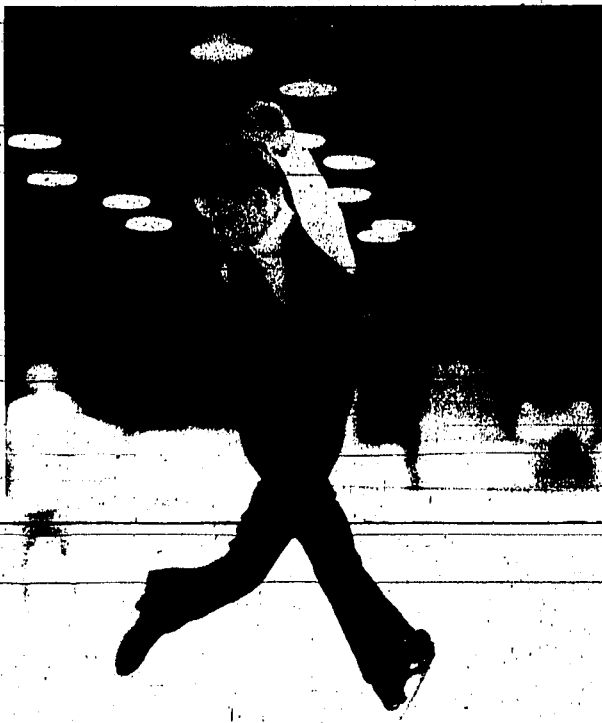

Ellen Horween, president of the Sun Valley Figure Skating Club, said, "We are delighted to be able to include David in our show. He is a beautiful and very balanced skater. He was first both in figures and freestyle during the 1971 nationals, a highly unusual feat."

Mrs. Horween also said Santee has been invited to represent the United States in an international competition in August at St. Gervais, France. He also just passed the gold figure test that qualifies him for competition in the senior level of skating.

A group of 34 other skaters will supply the remainder of Saturday night's show. The entertainment will include sales, pairs, dance and group numbers.

Ice revues are scheduled each Saturday night at Sun Valley, sponsored by the Sun Valley Figure Skating Club and sanctioned by the United States Figure Skating Association. Reserved tickets are on sale at the skating club office in Sun Valley Lodge. General admission tickets go on sale at rinkside at 8 p.m. each Saturday. The shows begin at 9:45 p.m. and usually last about an hour and a half.

"The enthusiastic reception of this year's shows," Mrs. Horween said, "seems to indicate the 1971 ice revue is the best show in years."

Strout, National City, Calif., is visiting in Gooding with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Parish, while her husband, Keith Strout, is on a U.S. Navy tour of duty in the area of Japan. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Strout, Gooding.

GOODING — Mrs. Alena

DEAR ABBY: A reader reported to you that a new neighbor invited her and some other neighbors over for coffee for "an hour." She stated that she was "flabbergasted" when an alarm clock went off in the hostess' kitchen in exactly an hour, at which time the hostess announced that the visit had terminated. She then led the guests to the door.

May I submit my personal experience which I think tops hers? I have twice been a guest speaker at a church in Brook, Ind., where it is the custom to terminate the sermon hour with the ringing of chimes. It is done mechanically, I suspect, without regard to whether the speaker has finished. The speaker is not advised of this beforehand. He just suddenly finds himself interrupted by a loud introduction of music from the belfry chimes. Sign me

"ALSO THROWN OUT"

DEAR ALSO: I think it's a great idea. But the speaker should be told of this custom in advance. Since you were not, I can understand how you could have been "thrown out" once. But twice? (P. S. I'll wager that church in Brook, Ind., has a full house every Sunday.)

DEAR ABBY: This letter is in reply to the letter signed "HIS OTHER MOTHER": (She had an adopted son, whom she said she was going to raise to "love" his natural mother even she had given him up for adoption.)

I am a 14-year-old girl and I am adopted. I don't feel that I have "another" mother. These are the people who brought me up and gave me all the love I have ever known.

I can't picture myself going to another woman and saying, "Mother I love you." And I don't see how that woman can expect her son to think that he has two mothers. A mother is a woman who gives you love, not just the woman who bears you. Thank you, Abby, for hearing me out.

ADOPTED

DEAR ADOPTED: Thank you for your very intelligent letter. Now I can see your side of it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 75 years old. My husband recently passed away and according to his wishes, I had his remains cremated. They were returned to me in a small urn.

My husband never said what he wished done with his ashes. I have a lovely garden behind my house and I wanted to bury the urn in the garden and perhaps plant a lovely plant over it. I do not have an automobile and could not get out to the cemetery often, so I thought this would be an appropriate solution. My husband loved the garden and spent many happy hours in it. My friends think this would be just awful and unchristian and I should not do it. Please tell me what you think of my idea?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I feel as you do. But will your attorney check the laws of your state. Strange as it may seem, what one buries in his own garden is not always one's own personal business.

DEAR ABBY: Please advise that lady who hesitated to marry an alien because she suspected that he only wanted to marry her in order to become an American citizen that a foreigner no longer automatically becomes an American citizen by simply marrying an American. UTICA READER

A Lovelier You THOUGHTS ON ACNE CARE

By Mary Sue Miller

When acne overtakes a girl, her doctor or a dermatologist is of course the first line of defense. Advancements have been made in treatment areas, although an absolute cure has not yet been developed. Treatment helps to keep the problem under control and hasten skin clarity.

Self-dosing is taboo. However, self-care approved cure at home is an absolute necessity. Cleanliness forms the basis and calls for a wash at least three times daily, usually with an antiseptic pH-hexachlorophene liquid. A freshly laundered towel in the order of every wash.

After cleansing, the time is right to apply any medically prescribed treatment lotion. The use of cosmetic cover-ups requires medical approval.

In addition, a girl's life-style plays a vital role in her progress. Evidence piles up that a sensible diet, regular exercise, eight hours sleep or more nightly, fresh air and good posture have a bearing on skin as well as general health.

Lastly "positive thinking" gains recognition as a control. And it may be the most difficult of all the steps in the procedure. A girl can't let her skin get the best of her. She has to put down tension over the situation as it arises. The idea is to keep going and to keep cool. A recent survey of one doctor's patients showed that a cheery attitude brings improvement more quickly.

Chess ace primed to meet Russians

DENVER (UPI)—Robert J. "Bobby" Fischer, the U.S. chess ace who has advanced into the final of the current world championship competition, is eager for the next round.

He's eager to take on the Russians, because he wants to take the title away from them.

On Tuesday, Fischer won his sixth straight game from Danish grandmaster Bent Larsen to take a world semifinal match played in Denver.

The victory ran his string of wins to 19 games in international competition. It was the U.S. player's second 6-0 shutout in the current series, the first being a victory over Soviet Mark Talmanov in the quarterfinals.

Fischer will play the winner of a match underway in Moscow between former world champion Tigran Petrosian and Victor Korchnoi, who have agreed to draws in their first eight games.

Fischer said the long string of draws was "expected," because both players were cautious and "prearranged."

"I'm not surprised if their match was prearranged. I'm not saying it is, but it could be," said the outspoken player.

Larsen disapproved, however, saying he "never thought they (the Russians) have done these things."

The Russian players are "too individual" to allow prearranged matches, he said.

But Fischer, who has said he "has this thing about the Russians," wants to take the world title from the current champion Boris Spassky. The winner of Fischer's final match will play a 24-game world championship match with Spassky in 1972.

Assessing the match at a reception Wednesday, Fischer called Denver "one of the best" cities he has ever played at. Larsen, on the other hand, said he experienced discomfort over the hot weather and dryness of Colorado.

"I think it was a mistake to accept a match in Denver," Larsen said. "It was too hot here."

Temperatures in Denver frequently rose to the high 90s, and several times hit 100 degrees or more. Larsen said he preferred coastal cities for chess matches or tournaments.

Larsen also experienced a recurring problem in extreme climate changes—high blood pressure—which caused postponement of the fifth game of the semifinal match.

The Danish player said his ill health was a contributing factor in his shutout loss to Fischer. Larsen lives in Copenhagen and the switch from nearly sea level to an altitude of 5,280 feet did affect him, he said.

While Larsen relaxed between matches to rest up, Fischer played tennis frequently and listened to music to ease the tension created by the competition.

Fischer stressed his eagerness to take the world chess title away from the Russians, who have dominated the game for about the last 20 years.

He termed Russian players "well honed, razor sharp and well prepared."

Larsen had more concrete opinions, saying Fischer will have an easier time if Korchnoi wins the current match in Moscow.

"He (Fischer) makes slight inaccuracies," said Larsen. "With Korchnoi it doesn't matter. With Petrosian it does."

Either way, the final match leading to the challenge of Spassky, will be a good one.

"I think I'll win," Fischer, who claims to be the best chess player in the past 10 years, says confidently.

On Tuesday, Fischer won his sixth straight game from Danish grandmaster Bent Larsen to take a world semifinal match played in Denver.

The victory ran his string of wins to 19 games in international competition. It was the U.S. player's second 6-0 shutout in the current series, the first being a victory over Soviet Mark Talmanov in the quarterfinals.

Skylab comes up after Apollo ends

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—After the last Apollo goes to the moon in December of next year, the United States will turn its attention to space closer to home and see how man in orbit can help man on planet earth.

Americans won't go to the moon again for at least a decade.

"We can't do everything at once," said Dr. James C. Fletcher, the new administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). "The mood of the country now is to do things that are useful, directly, now—solving the problems of people on earth."

"The Apollo has tremendous advantage for the long haul, the long term, and we can't abandon the moon for a long period of time. But also, we can do things like the (space) shuttle and some of the other applications programs that we have in mind and continue to have a major program on the moon."

The space shuttle, in the eyes of NASA and the Defense Department, is the key to American manned spaceflight operations for the decade to come. It is envisioned as a reusable rocket plane that will greatly reduce the cost of getting men and satellites to and from orbit.

Its planners think the shuttle will make spaceflight so attractive economically that enough jobs will develop for it to keep a small fleet of transports flying into orbit every two or three weeks in the 1980s.

Allocation disapproved

BUHL — The session or official board of the Buhl Presbyterian Church has gone on record as opposing a recent action of a committee of the denomination.

The Council on Church and Race has allocated $10,000 from its legal defense fund to Miss Angela Davis.

The general assembly, national governing body, of the Presbyterian Church then expressed its approval of the decision.

The session of the Buhl church is sending letters to the clerk of the general assembly and to the Council on Church and Race expressing its disapproval.

According to David Turnmire, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church in Buhl, the reasons given for this disapproval included the lack of evidence that funds really were needed. He added that to aid advocates of violence is to add to that violence.

He also said that to take such action gives credence and support to the belief that full justice is not possible for persons of minority groups.

The letter sent by the session also urges more caution as to state matters.

Sacred music slated

TWIN FALLS — Youth groups from Twin Falls and Seattle will present concerts of sacred music at the Grace Baptist Church, Twin Falls, on Sunday.

The Grace Baptist Choralaires, the youth gospel team of the church, will present their concert at 8 p.m. The Rev. Robert J. Seaman, pastor, said. At 11 a.m. Sunday, the 34 voice youth choir of the Gatewood Baptist Church, Seattle, Wash., will appear in concert.

Rev. Seaman is director of the Grace Baptist Choralaires, which is made up of high school students. The team will leave July 13 for a tour of northern California, where they will sing in 18 performances during two weeks.

A girls trio and a brass trio are featured performers. Mrs. Frank McMullin is pianist for the group, which presents the gospel in both word and song, Rev. Seaman said.

The Gatewood church youth choir is directed by Mr. and Mrs. Alan Stoker, who are directors of Christian education, music and youth. The choir is currently on a tour covering 5,000 miles in seven states.

There will be no admission charge for either concert.

Sacred music

A SEVEN-VOICED, mixed ensemble, the Choralaires from Faith Baptist Bible College of Ankeny, Iowa, will present a program of sacred music July 28 at 8 p.m. The program will include many old-time favorite hymns and gospel songs.

Workman dies in plunge

GRANDVIEW, Idaho (UPI) — A workman at the old Grandview Air Force Titan missile site fell 47 feet to his death Thursday down a ventilating shaft, according to the Owyhee County sheriff's office.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Freeman, Murphy, said Calvin Carothers, 44, Grandview, was helping to put a safety screen over the ventilating shaft as part of dismantling operations at the site for more than one year. Carothers had been employed for two months by Desert Salvage Co., Caldwell, which had been working on dismantling the site for more than one year. The Titan missile site was constructed in the late 1950s and shut down in 1965, Freeman said.

Murphy said Carothers was attempting to put a safety screen over the shaft when he slipped. The edge of the screen caught on the other side of the shaft, and the workman fell 47 feet into a pile of scrap metal.

The sheriff's office said a call was received about 9 a.m. concerning the accident, and officials worked about two hours to free the victim's body which was taken to the Smith and Bey Funeralhome in Mountain Home.

A thought for today: Christian Science founder Mary Baker Eddy said, "Divine love always has met and always will meet every human need."

Silent groups asked to speak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Evangelicals, long noted for their silence on social issues which galvanized their more liberal brethren, are being urged to bring their brand of the faith into the social arena.

The call comes in the wake of a major study which suggests that the more conservative—and therefore more evangelical—a denomination is, the more likely its clergymen are to remain silent on controversial social issues.

That report, done by four social scientists for the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, surveyed nine major Protestant denominations and concluded there is a "silent majority" of Protestant clergy that devotes little time to preaching on the social problems that face America.

At least two prominent evangelicals, however, have recently urged that conservative Christians end their silence and be heard—on the streets, if necessary—within the context of the Biblically based faith.

Dr. Gilbert James of Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., acknowledged the criticism often leveled against evangelicals when he told a meeting of conservative Methodists that evangelicals often prefer "knife-and-fork clubs" to groups seeking social change.

"As a Christian you will keep yourself on the pressing issues that relate to justice and the quality of life in the world," James said. And he warned that—as so many liberals have found—taking a position against "vested interests" may earn evangelicals "the wrath and disdain of the best people you know."

Perhaps the most urgent pleadings, however, come from the dean of evangelicals, Dr. Carl F. H. Henry, the founding editor of Christianity Today and professor-at-large at East Baptist Theological Seminary.

Henry warned his fellow evangelicals that "continuing neglect of the evangelical social witness will be a tragic and costly mistake."

"If the misimpression thrives that Christian commitment has significance only for internal and private life," Henry said.

Jerome girl home from youth jaunt

JEROME — Mary Burkhalter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Burkhalter, Jerome, returned July 21 from an ecumenical youth caravan to Ecuador, South America, according to Rev. William Barrett of the Jerome United Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Barrett said Miss Burkhalter was chosen from the United Presbyterian Synods of Idaho and Oregon with eight other young people. Rev. and Mrs. William Kelly, Ketchum, also were in the group.

Students making the trip were from 16 to 25 years of age and were recommended by churches of the area on the basis of their Christian understanding of the basic purpose of the project, their degree of interest and their ability to be a part of a group experience.

Prior to departure in early July, the students became familiar with a prepared course of study then held a three-day meeting in Boise as the final orientation—of Ecuadorian history and culture and American foreign policy with Latin America and Ecuador.

The object of the caravan was for students to experience a partnership in the work of missions as young people, to engage in a dialogue with Christians in Ecuador involving contemporary understandings of relationships between people and nations of North and South America, and to relate this experience—to people and churches at home.

Helping to build a church and "talk singing" were utilized as tools to create opportunities for dialogue with young people of the Quito area, churches and schools; and other segments of the community. There was some traveling including a stay at the resort of Esmeraldas on the Pacific Ocean, and mountain climbing for those interested. The trip offered the group opportunities to see various facets of life in the capital city of Quito, including North American missionary work.

Machine controls shifted

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus issued two executive orders Thursday, both placing control over reproducing or duplicating machines in the Department of Administrative Services.

One of the orders said the Department of Administrative Services has established a central print shop, a central copy center and a central photo-copy facility for use of state departments. Agencies will be billed monthly for work done.

Andrus' order said the state wanted "to provide the best possible printing, duplicating and copying services at a minimum cost to the taxpayers."

Because of that, state agencies must submit reports on use and cost of existing offset printing, duplicating and copying machines to the Department of Administrative Services and before entering into any agreement for use of such services must receive approval from the Department of Administrative Services.

The governor said all transactions involving such machines and approved by the director of administrative services must be competitively bid through the state purchasing office.

Aussie seaman rescued

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An 18-year-old seaman who disappeared from an Australian ship 300 miles off the California coast three weeks ago has been found alive in a rubber raft, the Australian embassy said today.

The embassy said the sailor, John Thomas Clough, was found by the USS Toloa at sea. He had been discovered missing from the HMAS Australian during a roll call July 3.

The liferaft, capable of holding 20 men, had been discovered missing also. There were no other details as to how or why Clough left the ship.

The Australian embassy said the American ship reported Clough "dizzy and undorfed" and complaining of a pain in his throat. He told his American rescuers he had been drinking sea water. He was reported recovering aboard the ship.

The Australian ship had launched an air search for Clough as soon as his absence was discovered, but was unable to find a trace of him. The raft, in which Clough drifted three weeks normally carried three days' rations for each man, enough to last one man 80 days.

News Of Servicemen

TWIN FALLS — Yeoman 3C William J. Tilson, son of Mrs. Norma J. Tilson of Twin Falls, has been assigned to a unique fire fighting team as a volunteer while serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk.

Tilson, assigned to the engineering department aboard the carrier, is a phone talker for the 33-man fire-fighting team, maintaining constant contact with another talker at the scene of the blaze and relaying information to the commanding officer. If the fire is serious enough to warrant a call to general quarters, the commanding officer must rely on the information relayed by Tilson to make his decision.

The Navy's special fire-fighting team includes 33 highly trained volunteers who work at routine tasks in all departments of the Kitty Hawk. When a fire breaks out, the team is alerted and has a standing order to control or quench the fire within six minutes.

With a heavy load of aircraft and thousands of gallons of high-test aviation gas aboard, the Kitty Hawk is virtually a floating bomb, which could be ignited by nearly any blaze. The fire-fighting team has one of the most crucial jobs in any military force, as the lives of all men aboard the Kitty Hawk are literally in their hands during a fire.

Tilson enlisted in the Navy on June 24, 1969, after graduating from Twin Falls High School. He is married to the former Carol L. Troxell of Twin Falls.

GOODING — Airman William D. Pariah, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Pariah, Gooding, has been named.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Gov. Calvin L. Rampton today appointed A. Alton Hoffman, a Smithfield dairy farmer, to the Utah House of Representatives to succeed Dale Workman, who resigned.

Countdown clicks along

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The countdown clicked along without a hitch today, the astronauts scheduled one more moonflying rehearsal and authorities braced for a record throng of tourists for Monday's launch of Apollo 15 to the moon.

State officials estimated as many as 1.5 million persons would watch David R. Scott, Aldred M. Worden and James B. Irwin take off on their 12-day expedition.

"We are expecting a severe traffic problem," said Lt. Len Brady, district commander for the Florida Highway Patrol. "It's going to be like trying to pour two gallons of milk into a one gallon container."

The first half of the 104-hour, 30-minute series of preparations for the flight has been one of the smoothest ever. Launch pad activity picked up today and the most ticklish work is still ahead.

Scott, Worden and Irwin wound up their regularly scheduled training Thursday, but decided to spend much of today in spacecraft trainers polishing up on the highlights of the flight.

Astronaut Chief Donald K. Slayton said today's exercise was "a final refresher for what we expect to be a normal mission." Most of the astronauts' time in recent weeks was devoted to rehearsals of emergency procedures.

The Space Agency expected 25,000 guests to watch the launching from special viewing grounds at the Kennedy Space Center. More than 3,600 VIPs already have accepted invitations.

Among those expected are Edward E. Davis, President

Stamp plan broadened

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration announced a sweeping revision of the food stamp program Thursday that will give increased benefits to the "poorest of the poor" but cut off most college students and members of hippie communes.

The administration also dropped a highly-criticized plan to pare 275,000 welfare recipients from the food stamp program. These persons, as well as other "upper-income poor" persons, will still qualify for food stamps, but at a reduced level.

On the other hand, about 1.7 million new persons will be eligible for food stamps and, for the first time, about 600,000 of the nation's poorest families will receive their stamps at no cost.

The new rules, expected to take effect early next year, were a revised version of changes proposed last April as required by the 1970 Food Stamp Reform Act. States must now change their own food stamp laws to reflect the new regulations.

About 10.5 million Americans now buy food stamps—coupons which may be redeemed for groceries worth more than the price of the stamps. The government makes up the difference to the grocer.

Under the new rules, a four-person household at the top of the income eligibility scale would pay $99 cash for $108 worth of stamps, a bonus of $9. The bonus under the old rules was $24.

The situation is reversed for the poorest households. A family of four making less than $30 a month now pays $2 for $108 worth of stamps. In the future, it will get $108 in stamps per month at no cost.

Lodge retains color barrier

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, saying exclusion of blacks is a constitutional right, voted in national convention Thursday to keep its whites-only membership requirement.

"The right of private assembly and the people with whom we associate is largely a matter of personal choice," said Eugene Fournace of Canton, Ohio, the now grand exalted ruler of the fraternal organization.

The Madison, Wis., Elks Lodge brought the issue to a vote, asking that the word "white" be removed from the membership requirements.

But the 3,000 delegates voted by a show of hands, and outgoing ruler Glenn L. Miller said there was not a necessary two-thirds vote.

Earlier the Elks passed a rule apparently designed as a loophole if the federal government should take them to court to close segregated meetings on federal property.

"Practically no blacks apply to our organization," Fournace said. "They have a totally separate order in many cities where we have lodges."

He said the move to do away with racial restrictions on membership grew out of agitation by civil rights groups and moves by some state and local governments to cancel licenses for Elks to sell liquor at lodges that were segregated.

Punishment 'no help'

MCCALL (UPI)—Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told the Idaho Correctional and Juvenile Officers' Association Thursday punitive measures alone are probably the least effective means of rehabilitating prisoners.

Andrus told the members of the association the solution to prisoner reform must be availability of employment for those released from correctional institutions.

"It will do no good to push an inmate out the gate, say 'Good Luck, Charlie' and expect to have helped him," the governor said.

Andrus told the group he had met with industrial leaders to generate interest for employing persons with prison records. He said he hoped to establish prisoner employment programs through the major industries in the state.

THE REV. Richard Wurmbbrand, who spent 14 years as Communist prisoner in Romania, told crowd in downtown St. Louis Thursday he has written to President Nixon about coming Red China visit. He said he told Nixon to ask to go to church on Sunday while in China. "It would be embarrassing to Mao and Chou—all the churches are boarded up," he said. Wurmbbrand spoke at Captive Nations Week observance. (UPI)

Advices Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has accused his Democratic colleagues of letting big business call the shots in the Senate, which he said is about to "propagate a travesty" and come to the aid of the Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

But while Church was saying that Lockheed was bound to win, other critics of the administration-backed bill to underwrite a $250 million loan to the ailing defense and aviation giant were less willing to concede defeat.

They claimed they had the votes to bent back an attempt to silence them and force the issue to a vote of the Senate after an additional 100 hours of debate—one hour per senator. Even Lockheed's supporters admitted they lacked the required two-thirds majority to impose closure, limiting debate, but they said they would win in a second attempt Wednesday or a third attempt on Thursday.

Church, in a speech he distributed to reporters but failed to deliver on the Senate floor, said "Big business is firmly seated in the saddle."

"So let the word go out: a Republican Administration and a Democratic Congress are about to propagate a travesty. Henceforth, public credit will be available to any business big enough to pry open the doors of the federal treasury..."

"Who would ever have thought that all the pious talk about changing priorities would turn out to mean socialism for the rich, free enterprise for the poor."

But Sens. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, and William Brock, R-Texas, argued they were far more concerned with the economy's well-being than with Lockheed's survival. They said the nation could not easily withstand the shock of the failure of the no. 1 defense contractor and 33rd largest corporation.

Time was a key factor in the debate. Lockheed must receive help by Aug. 6 or the British will pull out of their promise to furnish Rolls-Royce engines for its Tristar jetliner, in which $1.4 billion has been invested. If the Tristar is abandoned, Lockheed will go bankrupt.

Accused in deaths

SON OF ONE of victims in multiple murder at Sheboygan, Wis., Douglas George Dean, 19, is escorted to court Thursday to face charges of murdering his mother and four other persons. District Atty. Lance Jones called killing "wholesale slaughter." Killings occurred early this week. (UPI)

Slim boy charged in multiple deaths

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. (UPI)—A tall, slim 19-year-old youth was charged with five counts of first degree murder Thursday shortly before his widowed mother, one of five victims, was buried.

Douglas George Dean was removed from his hospital room a few minutes before 10 a.m. and taken into custody by police.

He was accused of shooting to death his mother, Mrs. Hildagard Dean, 50; Mrs. Naomi Rammer, 45, the widowed mother of his girl friend, and three Rammer sons, John, 18, Paul, 11, and Thomas, 10.

Services for Mrs. Dean began at 10 a.m.

Police Chief Oakley O. Frank said that, to his knowledge, Dean had not requested permission to attend the funeral and was not there. He was held at police headquarters for arraignment scheduled later Thursday.

District Attorney Lance B. Jones, who filed the charges against Dean, said the victims had all been shot with a .22-caliber Ruger rifle.

Jones said about 20 spent 22

The loophole rule gives the group's leader power to remove the whites-only restriction for any lodges located on federal property. But an Elks spokesman said the only lodges on government property are in the Panama Canal Zone.

Fournace said he did not recall when a black last tried to join the Elks. He said Negroes have their own Elks Club—the Improved-Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the World—which has no racial membership restrictions.

"Practically no blacks apply to our organization," Fournace said. "They have a totally separate order in many cities where we have lodges."

He said the move to do away with racial restrictions on membership grew out of agitation by civil rights groups and moves by some state and local governments to cancel licenses for Elks to sell liquor at lodges that were segregated.

Full truth demanded

BOISE (UPI)—The Republican-State-Chairman, Roland Wilber said Thursday Gov. Cecil D. Andrus should tell the "whole truth" about the July 4th picnic at Farragut State Park.

Wilber said the governor had vetoed a bill giving local authorities the means to prevent such a gathering.

Wilber said, "Governor Andrus continues to amaze and confound the people of Idaho with his policy of allowing drug sales and immorality to run rampant under the guise of a so-called 'church picnic' at Farragut State Park."

Pick-due

BOISE (UPI)—Gov. Cecil D. Andrus will announce the results of Department of Health investigation along with his color for director of the Department of Public Assistance at his news conference Monday.

The management analysis study was ordered by Andrus May 7 with the provision that it be "pointed and aggressive" with recommendations for action included in the findings.

The study is under the direction of Dr. Al Klotz and Dr. Fred O. Graber, both of Boise.

Little gain seen in Blaine meet

HAILEY — The general feeling among adults in the Wood River area interviewed today was that "little, if anything, was accomplished at a meeting Wednesday aimed at making a "better Wood River" area.

Members of "Citizens for a Better Wood River" who did not wish to be identified, felt the meeting, attended by about 400 people, was a " flop." They blamed what they called the "hippie element" for the lack of productivity at the meeting because the young people "tried to shout down everything that was said."

Some of the committee members feel that if the meetings are to succeed they will have to be closed to the "long haired types."

The committee was formed several weeks ago in an attempt to combat the alleged increase in crime and drug abuse in Blaine County by "hard core hippies."

The committee previously took law enforcement officers and Magistrate William Grant to task for failure to perform as the committee thought they should.

Law officers interviewed today said they also felt nothing was accomplished at the meeting and there will have to be other avenues of communication opened before anything can be done about the situation. The law enforcers did not wish to be quoted by name.

A petition circulated prior to the Wednesday night meeting demanded the presence of law enforcement officials at the meeting to answer questions regarding law violations and alleged light punishment handed out by Judge Grant.

Also attending were large numbers of young people, many speaking in defense of the adopted principles of their generation. Some also spoke in favor of drug use, placing it on the same basis as alcohol and pointed to its use by the older generation.

Although the public officials were called to answer a list of questions gathered during the last meeting of the group, the meeting began with officials asked to "explain their problems."

Blaine County Sheriff Orville Drexler said he could "talk on and on about my problems but I'm interested in your problems" and the reasons behind the meeting.

Lloyd Curtis, president of the Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce, who acted as a moderator, said the group was concerned how the valley could promote stronger law enforcement and sentencing of law violators.

He cited an alleged steady rise in the crime rate within Ketchum. He pointed to what he termed hard-core drug users coming into the area in increasing numbers and "hooking our kids" on drugs.

Sheriff Drexler said his department faced certain limitations in how much it could do to enforce laws with the county. His department only has three full-time men and are on call on a 24-hour-a-day basis.

"I'll tell you what my problem is," the sheriff said. "My big problem is that I get tired. We would like to be able to do more. The crime rate is on the increase and we are running as hard as we can just to keep up with it."

The sheriff said a major source of help for his department could come from those present. He stressed an involvement by the community and the younger people, and placed special emphasis on parents being interested in their children.

"We've got to get with our younger people and not be so wrapped up in our own world," he told the group.

John Fox, chairman of the county commission, said a new jail facility has been proposed to handle the law violators. The new facility would allow segregation of inmates as to criminal offense, sex and age, and would house 38 persons.

A question from the audience asked how officials could keep these persons from going to jail in the first place.

Judge Grant was asked to explain the penalties for drug violators.

He said that possession of drugs had been made a misdemeanor by the legislature, where it once was a felony.

First-time offenders are often placed on probation and if they serve a faithful probation the offense is dismissed.

He stressed the need for a county probation officer to conduct follow-up investigation of probationers and presentence investigations of those coming into his court on drug counts.

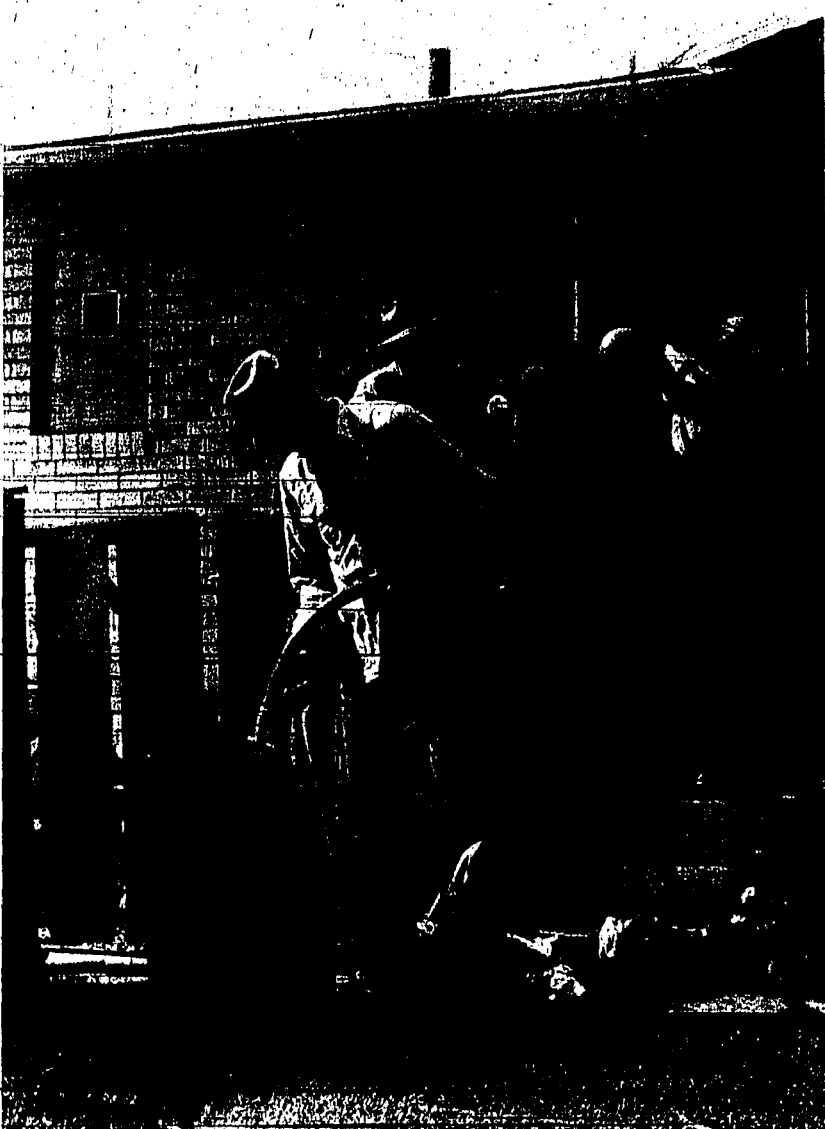

Dennis Haynes, Ketchum police chief, asked for cooperation of those present with law enforcement officials, whether they wore long hair or short. "What we need is your help," he said.

"What we want is to bring the people together, to work together, to solve this problem," Chief Haynes said.

Several possible areas that may be beneficial to the younger people living in the area, the teen-agers, were mentioned, including coordinated athletic events and drug education for the parents, but no action was taken.

Running throughout the meeting were verbal debates between both factions, with little give or take outside of the officials extending possible solutions.

Little was solved in the session and the meeting ended on a note of discord. It was mentioned that another meeting may take place in the future.

FIRE STRUCK a Burley residence Thursday afternoon while the owners were away from the house. Firemen are shown coming from the Albert Klunk Jr. home at 1534 Oriental Ave., while another worker hoses down a smoking clothes hamper. Farr selected Ketchum ranger KETCHUM — Gilbert L. (Tom) Farr will be the new Ketchum district ranger, according to Sawtooth National Forest Supervisor Edwin A. Fournier.

Farr is serving as district ranger on the Pocatello District of the Caribou National Forest. He will replace John C. Combs, who is being promoted and transferred to the Targhee National Forest, St. Anthony.

Farr was born and raised in Iowa and served five years as an aircraft mechanic and pilot with the U.S. Army Air Corps. He received a B.S. degree from Grinnell College in Iowa and did graduate study in wildlife management at the University of Wyoming.

He taught mathematics and science in the secondary education system in Salmon for six years, and also in Forks, Wash. for one year. His forest service experience began with four summers work before he was appointed to a full-time position on the Salmon National Forest in 1957.

Farr was appointed district ranger on the Cobalt District of the Salmon-National Forest in 1961. In 1966, he was transferred to the Caribou National Forest as district ranger of the Pocatello District where he is currently serving.

Farr and his wife, Jan, will move to Ketchum and the new assignment in August.

Magic flow reduced

SHOSHONE — In an attempt to locate the body of a man who drowned in Magic Reservoir last week, reservoir gates will be turned down for 15 minutes to half an hour, according to Leon Grieve, manager of the Big Wood Canal Company.

Leonard Collins, 40, was drowned when he fell from a boat in which he was riding while on a fishing trip last Sunday.

Grieve said the reservoir contains 180,500 acre feet of water, compared to 184,100 acre feet a year ago on this date. When full, the reservoir has a 191,500-acre feet content.

Magic water users started on storage water July 15. "There was some hope the reservoir might remain full as late as it did in 1966, when storage started on July 22, but the July 15 date had to be established this year," Grieve said.

American Falls reservoir was nearly full this week, also, at 1,678,000 acre feet of water. Since Magic has quit overflowing, it has been necessary to cut down on all extra water being delivered to the regular 115 per cent of allowed delivery. This is to keep water in the lower part of the system.

News Of Saxvik 2 fires flare

MURTAUGH — Ronnie L. Anderson, Murtaugh, a former Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps cadet at Utah State University, received his commission as second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force. Lieutenant Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. DeVon Anderson, Murtaugh, also received his B.S. degree in business. He is a 1967 graduate of Murtaugh High School. His wife, Terri, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Florin Hulst, Murtaugh.

The funds would accrue to the Potato and Onion Commission by releasing $230,000 presently provided by the commission for potato research studies. The commission derives approximately $1 million each year in money raised on potato sales by growers.

The proposed bill would simply take the research fund from the general fund of the state, freeing this amount from the commission for the merchandising program.

"The state appropriates for numerous research studies, and potatoes have a great importance to the state since they are the largest cash income crop and the state's economy is based on agriculture," said the Senator.

Saxvik is a member of the Legislative Interim Committee which is currently studying the potato price problem. The interim study was ordered because of great controversy over a bill presented in the last legislature to create a potato marketing order.

Gov. Cecil Andrus appointed legislators, growers and shippers to the committee to study the price problems of potatoes.

Guests at the luncheon were Owen Bensley, Pocatello; Cy Luther, and Leo Albion, both Los Angeles, and W.C. Withers, Burley.

SHOSHONE — A lightning bolt at 3:15 p.m. Thursday caused a fire which burned 250 tons of hay and most corrals, hay bunks and loading chutes at the Gilbert Kerner ranch north of Shoshone.

Strike hits Idaho firms

TWIN FALLS — Crews were still working on two fires in the Sawtooth National Forest today although both were described as small and expected to be out within a short time.

Darrell Smith, fire control officer, said one of the fires was located in the upper end of Bear Gulch in Shoshone Basin. It was reported late Thursday afternoon and a district crew and ground tanker were sent to the scene. Smith said no report had been received Friday morning on the status of the fire.

Another was reported on Skeleton Creek in the vicinity of Featherhills. A heliport crew of one helicopter and two men went to the scene early Friday and status of this fire was undetermined Friday morning but it was also believed to be small.

Two other smoke reports were received, both in the area of Land Management land and one located near Mormon Reservoir and another in the vicinity of Johnson's Hill, near Fairfield.

Smith said the fire condition on all forest lands has reached a moderately high status. He said persons going into forests should be extremely cautious with campfires and should use their auto ash trays.

UP FORCE LAID OFF — Three railroad employees at Richfield have been laid off the job by the rail strike. The crew maintains the railroad line for this area that goes to Ketchum or the Fairfield-Hill City route.

Bolt fires hay — Damage was estimated by Kerner as at least $500. Kerner, his son, Dale, and William Parsons and a daughter were counting hales in the stack at the time the lightning struck. They smelled smoke while they were making the hale count. By the time the blaze was spotted it had whipped around the stack beyond the point of control. Neighbors came to assist in fighting the fire. By United Press International Besides the estimated $1 million in wages lost to striking railroad workers in Idaho during the past week, Gem State businesses are beginning to feel the lack of railroad transportation.

Results of the strike by the United Transportation Union against Union Pacific Railroad include the shut down of Hoff Lumber Co. and Hoff Forest Products of Horseshoe Bend, closure of a Boise Cascade Corp. particle board mill at Baum, Ore., closure of the Idaho stud mill at St. Anthony, and fears of possible shut downs at phosphate and fertilizer plants in southeastern Idaho.

Further, the administrator of the Idaho Transportation Council, Robert Henry, Boise, warned the grain harvest will get underway next week and said he anticipated "terrible problems" in a week or two if the strike continues.

Ald, the shutdown of Southern Pacific Railroad facilities scheduled for Saturday by the union could mean closure of a paper mill and lumber company and plywood mills in northern California and western Oregon, according to a Boise Cascade official.

Sam Grayson, a Union Pacific railroad official, predicted the state would have "very severe economic damage" in the next day or two as the number of layoffs begin to mount.

He said the railroad employees on strike are losing about $130,000 per day in wages.

Ted Hoff Jr., president of Hoff lumber co., said at the time of his closure Tuesday his railroad sidings were plugged with some 70 railroad cars. The closure affected about 200 employees with a daily payroll of approximately $3,500.

The head of the transportation division of Boise Cascade Corp., Frank Sigloh, warned the Idaho Mills could not operate much longer without rail service. He said the firm would have to begin closing Idaho Mills and laying off employees "in a short time."

Phosphate and fertilizer plants operated by FMC Corp., and J. R. Simplot Co. in Pocatello and Monsanto in Soda Springs are gearring for shut downs as stocks on hand begin to run dry.

Norm Towne of the J. R. Simplot Co., Boise, said the firm's Pocatello plant can operate about one more week with materials on hand, but said 20 employees have already been laid off at the company's Gay mine near Pocatello.

SHOSHONE — Three new highway projects are being advertised and will be let within the next three weeks, reports Howard Johnson, district highway engineer at Shoshone.

On July 27 the bids will be opened for letting a project for constructing the roadway, drainage structures, plant mix pavement on 0.6797 mile of temporary connection to Interstate Highway 80N, King Hill interchange in Elmore County.

On State Highway 27 from Oakley to Burley, in Cassia County, 20.22 miles will receive a road mix pavement and seal coat. Bids will be opened Aug. 3.

Aug. 3 is the date for opening bids for work of seal coating about 6.78 miles of roadway at the SALT Lake Interchange on South on I-80N, and 11.18 miles of SH 26, Declo to Rupert, in Cassia and Mindoka counties.

RUPERT — Leo VanEvery, an official with the ASCS office, was the guest speaker during this week's noon luncheon meeting of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

VanEvery reported that in 1969 there were 154,000 acres of irrigated land in Mindoka County valued at $300 million. "Agriculture is a great success story with 18 per cent of the agricultural income spent for food; we are the best fed people on earth, but we still have farm problems," VanEvery said.

"In 1947 there were 1,700 farm operators in Mindoka County, then 700 new operators of farms moved into the county with the development of new land, however, many are leaving the farm and presently there are about 1,400 farm operators in the county," stated VanEvery.

"Government farm programs have been around for years in history. The programs are still with us today to assist the farmer," he said.

"In 1970 over $2 million was paid to 1,192 farm operators using the many government farm programs. This is about 80 per cent of the farmers using the programs, VanEvery reported. "The farmers who receive the assistance, earn their right for help. The programs are a farmer-government partnership designed to preserve soil and water for future generations," said VanEvery.

"The sharing costs range from 30 to 50 per cent depending on the type of program and last year $69,000 in government funds and $140,000 sharing costs was spent in Mindoka County," he said.

"In 1971 the programs have been continued with some name changes and an expanded program for pollution. All programs are on a voluntary basis for the farmer who has to apply for the cost sharing programs," VanEvery reported. "Programs include wheat, feed grain, sugar beets and wool that are being used by Mindoka County farmers and all are important to the farmer and the businessman downtown," he said.

"We need to keep the farmer on the farm for the economy of the community," VanEvery said.

William Strasser, chamber president, read a letter from Ruth Garrard, who expressed thanks to the chamber for the financial assistance for her to attend Girls' State. Russell Patterson, Steve Whittaker, Seven McCandless, Mike Tuttle and Scott Pierce all attended Boys State and their letter of thanks to the chamber was read.

Del Hollinger, chairman of the merchant's building at the county fairgrounds, announced booth space is being rented. Merchants interested in a booth are urged to call Hollinger.

It was announced Aug. 7 will be Rupert Night at the National High School Rodeo, Filer. The Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the national event which has an $80,000 budget. Special milled coins advertising the National High School Rodeo are $1 each and are available at the Rupert Chamber of Commerce office.

Banker promoted at Buhl — The promotion of Bruce L. Brown to the position of loan officer in the Buhl office of the Idaho First National Bank has been announced by Thomas C. Frye, president.

A graduate of Filer High School in the class of 1964, Brown attended the University of Idaho and was graduated in the class of 1968.

He later pursued advanced studies in the University of Idaho, school of law, and the American Institute of Banking. Brown joined the staff of the Idaho First National Bank at the bank's Buhl office in 1969 as an executive trainee.

Brown is treasurer of the Castleford School District, a director of the South Central Chapter of the American Institute of Banking, and a director of the Buhl Kiwanis Club. He is also a member of the Buhl Jaycees and a commissioner of the Little League Football program. He and his wife, Sue, reside in Buhl.

A thought for today: British novelist Somerset Maugham said, "The tragedy of life is not that it ends, but that it begins."

Air pollution 149 index

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District at the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period.

Federal pollution regulations say pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms over any 24-hour period, and should not be permitted to rise above 260 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Idaho plan for drug control recommended

BOISE (UPI)—A group named to study the status of drug programs in Idaho included in its tentative recommendations Thursday formation of a state-wide plan for drug prevention treatment and control.

The subcommittee of the Interdepartmental Committee for Children and Youth said any successful drug prevention program in the state "will depend largely on the cooperation of various agencies at the state and local level."

The committee was asked to make the study. The tentative recommendations will be turned over to the interdepartmental committee at its Aug. 1 meeting, which in turn will make recommendations to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

Andrus requested the drug programs study in July, but the report presented Thursday was only tentative—partly because only about half of the 57 questionnaires sent to state agencies had been returned.

The tentative recommendations discussed by the subcommittee in what it described as a "work session" included ones to:

- Seek gubernatorial appointment of an interagency council on drug abuse.
- Seek appropriation of monies for state grants to match federal funds for such programs.
- Employ a full-time consultant for drug abuse education in the Department of Education to coordinate programs in the schools.
- Train counselors employed by the Department of Public Assistance and community action program agencies to deal more effectively with drug con-rol programs.

- Include drug treatment programs in all regional mental health centers, along with establishment of treatment facilities and halfway houses. The report recommended persons receiving treatment could be employed by the state in jobs such as fire fighting and building trails.
- Allow minors to receive treatment without parental consent if necessary.
- Treat alcoholism along with drug abuse problems.
- And train law enforcement agencies to handle drug abuse cases, establish a legislative committee for an in-depth study of current statutes and expand facilities for quick laboratory analysis of substances.

Fred Kennedy, a deputy attorney general, told the group part of the problem is that "drugs" are just not those listed in the Controlled Substances Act.

He said he had a list of 200 over-the-counter preparations which would give the same effect as controlled substances, adding, "You can walk into a drug store down here and for $1 buy enough to get you high four times."

Larry Burman, Department of Health, noted society appeared to be oriented toward "using chemicals," adding, "television is probably the greatest pusher in our country."

Toy Truby, administrative assistant, Department of Education, agreed, noting "Every night you're told you don't have to tolerate anxiety, or pain or sleeplessness."

Although committee members noted law enforcement officers opposed the recent bill passed by the Idaho Legislature making possession of drugs a misdemeanor, Kennedy argued against any recommendations for change at this time.

Nothing the act only went into effect May 1, Kennedy said the attorney general's office was preparing statistics on the bill, adding, "At this early stage any recommendations wouldn't hold much water."

The committee also discussed at length the recommendation that minors could be able to receive treatment without parental consent if necessary.

Jim Adams, state youth coordinator, office of the governor, said often young persons wanted to seek help "but they won't because they know their parents must be informed and this complicates the situation."

"In drugs, you're often dealing with a crisis situation and the parents aren't available... or you have a poor family situation—and the parents don't care."

Adams said the survey also indicated some hospitals in the state are reluctant to admit patients suffering from an "overdose" situation because of the legal complications surrounding parental consent.

Trucks annoying citizens

TWIN FALLS — Regular summertime complaints about truck traffic and other noisy vehicles have begun arriving at City Hall. City Manager Jean Milar said today in urging truck drivers and owners to use recommended truck routes.

He said with the Perrine Bridge closed to loaded trucks more are coming into the city on U. S. Highway 30 and complaints have been heavy this year from residents on Second Avenues East and North, the one-way street for west bound traffic and on Second Avenues South and West, for U. S. 30 eastbound traffic.

Milar said about 99 per cent of the truck traffic in Twin Falls has a destination here rather than being through traffic. It is not possible for the city to enforce truck route use to the extent trucks can be prohibited from using federal or state highways through the city.

Truck routes, for all practical purposes, are suggestions and the city is appealing to truck drivers and owners for cooperation in using them, Milar said. Milar said plans are being made to improve truck route signing to make drivers more aware of the proposed routing and he said all truck traffic is being urged to cooperate by following suggested truck routes.

Both east and west bound truck traffic is routed generally into the industrial area via Mindoka Avenue and Sixth Ave. West, Milar said, but many trucks traveling U. S. Highway 30 find it easier to follow the one-way Second Avenue routings.

Milar said during summer months when residents have doors and windows open, traffic noises are more annoying.

Earnings increase

BOISE (UPI) — Increases in both sales and earnings for the quarter ended July 3, 1971, were announced today by Albertson's, Inc., western states supermarket chain headquartered in Boise.

J. L. Scott, president, reported sales for the 13-week quarter totaled $133,189,776, an increase of 16 per cent over last year's $114,665,420. Earnings for the quarter of $1,544,129, or 27 cents per share, were up three per cent over the $1,493,842 or 26 cents per share, earned during the same period a year ago.

This is the first quarter of the company's fiscal year.

Director appointed

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — Richard A. Fitzgerald, 30-year veteran of the air transportation industry, has been named senior director of route development for Hughes Air West, according to Irving T. Tague, general manager.

Fitzgerald will be based at the carrier's corporate office at San Mateo, Calif.

Promoted

BOISE (UPI) — Dan B. Pilkington, 37, a former assistant purchasing agent at the University of Idaho, was named Friday as state purchasing agent by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

Pilkington succeeds Ted Kramer, who is retiring.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) — Elmer S. Johnson Jr., 29, a popcorn wagon operator, has been fined $25 and placed on one year's probation for selling dynamite.

South found one. He put dummy's last trump to work. He started by cashing dummy's queen of clubs. East had to follow. This led the last small club from dummy and East had a Hobson's choice.

He could ruff, but in that case he would be ruffing a small club since that is what declarer would play.

East decided a spade discard would be better. Now South was able to use dummy's last trump. He led his last club and ruffed in dummy. East could overruff or discard again, but South's club loser had been taken care of and the defense held been held to one trump trick.

South looked over dummy and was pleased by what he saw. His slim certainly appeared to be safe. He let the club lead come to his king and cashed the king of hearts. Next came the lead of a heart to dummy's queen.

West showed out and all of a sudden South had a problem staving him in the face. There was a sure trump loser in his own hand. Dummy's ace and king of spades would take care of two of them. What about the third? Maybe clubs would divide 3-3 — maybe some sort of squeeze would develop. Was there a better play?

Minh to run reluctantly

SAIGON (UPI)—Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh said today he really does not want to be president of South Vietnam, but he feels it is important to enter the race to stem criticism that the reelection of President Nguyen Van Thieu is a foregone conclusion.

"Frankly, I don't want to be president," Minh told UPI. "You get criticized from everywhere. My wife doesn't want to live in the palace, either. But, we have to show the people that we can have honest elections."

Minh said that if he does not believe the elections will be honest he will drop out at any time up to election day, Oct. 3.

Asked if he thought he could win, Minh shrugged.

"The question is not whether to win or lose, but what I can do for my country," he replied.

Minh, hero of the 1963 coup that ousted Ngo Dinh Diem, is considered to be the strongest choice to oppose Thieu. Thieu is favored to win, however, over Minh and the only other announced candidate, Nguyen Cao Ky, Thieu's vice president.

Minh said he thinks he has enough support to qualify for the ballot, "but Ky is still in trouble. We are trying to help Ky get enough support."

There is speculation that Minh and Ky will join forces, if necessary, to defeat Thieu.

Under a recently enacted election law, presidential candidates need the endorsement of 40 senators or assemblymen or 100 provincial councillors to get on the ballot. Deadline for filing is Aug. 4. The campaign begins Sept. 2.

Minh was critical of the Thieu government for frequent confiscation of newspapers and a tentative decision to keep at least four opposition candidates off the ballot for the National Assembly election Aug. 29.

"There is too much evidence at this time," Minh said, "that the elections are slumping up unfairly."

The cases of the four deputies presently are under appeal before a government elections committee, but the men originally were disqualified "for being pro-Communist." One of them is Deputy Ngo Cong Due, publisher of the leading government opposition newspaper, Tin Sang (Morning News).

Idaho endowment gains reported

BOISE (UPI)—S.M. Melke, chairman of the Idaho Investment Board, announced today that since its formation on March 25, 1969, endowment funds invested by the board have a not realized gain of $103,376.

He said this is the result of selling of corporate bonds and corporate convertible bonds at a profit. Prior to the formation of the investment board, the endowment funds were held in U.S. Treasury Bonds and Idaho municipal bonds.

A portion of these bonds were sold at a loss due to the low rate of interest at which they were issued. The loss has been recovered and a gain realized from the investment.

If the entire portfolio had been sold at market prices of June 30, 1971, there would have been an additional gain of $1,300,786 from the investments.

In addition to the gain realized, the income which has been transmitted to the individual agencies has had a marked increase. The income from the past fiscal year is an increase of 27.77 per cent over the yearly average income generated by funds in the five-year period of July 1, 1964 to June 30, 1969, prior to the establishment of the Idaho Investment Board.

The income generated in the past fiscal year is an increase of 38.32 per cent over the average income earned by the funds during the six-year period from July 1, 1964 through June 30, 1970.

As of June 30, the board has invested $2,679,868.39 in the guaranteed portion of Small Business Administration loans purchased for the endowment fund from banks in Idaho.

This money is invested in the economy of Idaho with 100 per cent guarantee by the U.S. government.

The board currently has an addition $1 million outstanding commitments for the purchase of SBA loans.

Also the investment board is purchasing from Idaho banks federally insured student loans in lots of $25,000 or larger.
