A good day's work

Apollo 15's astronauts blast from lunar face

Adjusts TV ...

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Apollo 15's two explorers blasted off the moon today with a record harvest of lunar secrets.

Gunning the spacecraft toward an orbital linkup with their mothership, David R. Scott and James B. Irwin, completed man's fourth, and most rewarding exploration of his closest neighbor in the solar system.

They spent almost 67 hours, a record, camped in a northern mountain valley.

The two headed toward a rendezvous and linkup with their partner in orbit, Alfred M. Worden, and then all three planned to spend another two days circling the moon before heading back to Earth.

Scott and Irwin spent four hours, 25 minutes outside their four-legged moonship on their third excursion in an electric car-ried for the first time. The last surface activity brought their total time outside Falcon to about 18 hours and 27 minutes—within 1 hour, 12 minutes of the total logged by the three previous expeditions.

They returned to Falcon almost reluctantly for the last time.

"It's been great—fabulous place up here," the astronauts told ground controllers at Houston as they climbed back into the Falcon to prepare to link up with the command capsule Endeavour, which Worden maneuvered into an adjusted orbit to link up with them.

Almost reluctantly, they climbed aboard Falcon for the last time and sealed the hatch for a 1:11 p.m. EDT blastoff into lunar orbit and a linkup with Alfred M. Worden aboard the mothership, Endeavour.

The moon explorers gave careful attention to pressurizing the cabin, and kept their space suits on just in case anything went wrong. Thirty-three days ago three Soviet spacemen, not wearing their suits, died from a lack of oxygen upon return from a record Earth orbit mission of nearly 24 days.

Before boarding Falcon, Scott parked the astronauts' moon car, Rover 1, and focused the television camera on the rear of the $8 million buggy from televise the lander's liftoff from the moon—never before seen on Earth.

Driving back to the lunar homebase following today's motorized exploration, Scott exulted at the view.

"Look up at those mountains!" Scott exulted as the explorers headed back to the moonship Falcon. "Aren't they beautiful today, all right?"

"Dave, I'm reminded of my favorite Biblical passage from the Psalms (121st)—'I will look unto the hills, from whence cometh my help," Irwin said. "But, of course, we get plenty of help from Houston, too," he added quickly.

Today's trip was cut short more than an hour to give the astronauts enough time to prepare for their 1:11 p.m. EDT launch from the moon.

They were to rendezvous with the third member of the space team, Alfred M. Worden, late today in lunar orbit.

Worden has spent the last three days mapping the moon from the orbiting command ship Endeavour and scientists said he confirmed for the first time the presence of volcanic chiller cones on the moon. They were sighted near the crater Illitrow.

The astronauts drove 1.1 miles to the rim of the canyon called Hadley Rille, sampled a rock-strewn stretch of terrain and then headed back to Falcon, stopping at interesting sites along the way.

Tricky footing ...

Scoop up rock ...

Rocks may be oldest

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—David R. Scott dipped into the thick lunar dust Sunday and scooped up a rock some scientists felt could be the oldest ever touched by man.

"I think we've found what we came for," the Apollo 15 commander excitedly radioed mission control as he examined the large crystals in the rock.

Scott and James B. Irwin were on their second moonwalk when they spotted the rock at Spur Crater, three miles from Falcon, their lunar lander.

As scientists listened intently in the back rooms at mission control, Scott and Irwin described the light-colored rocks as "something close to anorthosite."

That meant the rock would be older than any other moon rock returned and could date back 4.3 billion years or more.

"If they've got a crystalline coarse-grained anorthosite, it probably is a piece of original material," said Dr. Robin Brett, chief space center geochemist.

Anorthosite is rare on earth and scientists have theorized it formed the original lunar crust during the birth of the solar system.

Samples returned on earlier Apollo flights contained bits of anorthosite, but no chunks. Apollo 15 was sent to the base of the ancient Apennine Mountains to find the material.

Scientists, including Dr. Joseph Allen, an astronaut, the capsule communicator when Scott made his discovery, hope anorthosite can provide clues to the early processes that formed planets such as earth, where heavy erosion has erased early geologic records.

After the first rock was safely in a sample bag, Scott and Irwin found other, similar crystalline samples on the rim of Spur Crater. "I'm sure he had found the long-sought treasure."

"I'd put a case of beer on it that he's right," Dr. Gene Simmons, chief space center scientist, said.

National rodeo readied

FILER — More than 400 students had registered for the National High School Rodeo by 11 a.m. today, according to officials at the National High School Rodeo.

Officials had estimated about 500 students would be entered in the rodeo, but an outbreak of Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis was expected to bring the total down by about 50.

There was still an hour left to register before books closed at noon, and students were thronged at the office waiting to register.

Performances of the rodeo begin at 2 and 8 p.m. daily through Saturday. The finals will be at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Tonight, contestants, their families and guests will attend a chuckwagon dinner sponsored by the Filer Kiwanis Club. A dance at which 24 queen contestants and reigning queen Nelda Robinson, Heflin, La., will appear, will follow.

Many of the students are here without their horses because of the horse disease which has caused quarantines to be placed on several states. Many will be riding horses borrowed from Idaho residents.

One National High School Rodeo official said "these kids are here to compete. They're not here to win." She said this typifies the good sportsmanship practiced by the young cowboys and cowgirls.

Burley man dead

BURLEY — Charles Edward (Ted) Kelsey, 52, a prominent Burley resident, died Sunday afternoon following a short illness.

Kelsey had been active in many community activities before his death, including president of the Cassia County fair board for three years and a member of the Cassia County Hospital board, serving since 1955.

Rites will be conducted by the Burley Masonic Temple and military rites by Mountain Home Air Force Base.

Good news Railroad pact OK'd, steel strike averted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A settlement has been reached in the railroad strike by the United Transportation Union against 10 carriers, management sources said today.

The official announcement was to come at a news conference today.

No details were available of the settlement terms, but the source said it involved agreement both on a basic contract and a back-to-work agreement. It was uncertain when the trains would start rolling again.

The settlement of the strike, which had brought near economic disaster to some parts of the country, came one day after the United Steel Workers reached a contract agreement to prevent a strike against the basic steel industry.

The steel workers got a three-year contract with a 30 per cent pay raise.

The turn toward labor peace came during marathon weekend bargaining sessions, including a summit conference between UTU President Charles Luna and the presidents of three major railroads—W. Graham Claytor Jr. of Southern, Robert Moore of Penn Central and Benjamin Bisognini of Southern Pacific.

Luna and the three presidents spent all night in head-to-head bargaining at the Labor Department with their advisers.

The main holdups in the rail bargaining had been proposed changes in an old work rule requiring either a crew change or extra pay for crews going 100 miles and retroactive pay for men who remained on the job under new work rules on lines that were not struck.

Elsewhere a West Coast dock strike entered its second month with little prospect of agreement.

The United Steel Workers (USW) accepted a three-year contract worth an estimated $1.11 an hour over current minimum wages of $3.45. The representatives of 600 USW locals shouted acceptance Sunday night of the industry-wide 30 per cent settlement only three hours before a midnight strike deadline.

Despite approval, it will take about 10 days for full production to resume.

Church poses legislation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Sunday he and Sen. Lee Metcalf, Montana, will introduce legislation Monday to designate as wilderness the Magruder Corridor on the Idaho-Montana border.

The corridor lies between the existing Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness Area on the north and the Salmon Breaks Primitive Area on the south.

The legislation would place the 240,000-acre Magruder Corridor in the National Wilderness System, thus preserving its ecology from the threat of logging and road building.

It would also protect the headquarters of the Selway River, which flows through this area on its way to the Clearwater. The Selway is one of the original wild rivers, so designated by Congress in 1968.

Under terms of the bill, the Magruder Corridor would be designated as the Upper Selway Wilderness Area.

Church, who was author of the Wild Rivers Act and floor manager of the legislation which created the National Wilderness System eight years ago, explained that the Magruder Corridor was excluded from wilderness status in 1963 when the Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness Area was designated.

In remarks prepared for delivery in the Senate on Monday, Church pointed out that by every criteria, the Magruder Corridor contains some of the finest wilderness yet remaining in the United States.

Metcalf said, "Wilderness values — including recreation, watershed protection and erosion control — make wilderness status for the Magruder Corridor one of the most significant conservation issues in the Northwest."

It is against the threat of logging that Church and Metcalf introduced their bill. Logging and related road building would be allowed under a proposed Forest Service management plan for the area.

Love scene

Library draws record crowd

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, met with over 8,000 persons who streamed through the Johnson Library Sunday at the University of Texas during an autograph session.

Johnson, dressed in a white suit and white shirt, sat beside Mrs. Johnson in the marble-walled reception room on the second floor of the library.

The day broke an attendance record for the library, which has attracted over 150,000 visitors since it was dedicated two months ago. On Sunday 8,772 persons visited the library, more even than on the day of the dedication.

The Johnsons signed books, pictures, library pamphlets and other memorabilia for three hours and 15 minutes, taking only two breaks to get some air and relax their hands.

Johnson said he wanted both himself and his wife to sign every article, and the pair carried out the wish.

When the doors were locked at 5 p.m. Johnson followed the crowd outside.

"I'm so happy you could bring these young people because the future of our country depends on them," he said. "Then he shook some hands and walked back into the building."

Johnson and Lady Bird smiled and talked with everyone as they came through the line which wound around and around the huge reception room.

Briefs asked for 'exposure' case

TWIN FALLS — Magistrate Court Judge Daniel Meehl asked the defense attorney and county prosecutor to file briefs in the case of Roger Lynn Baisch and Mitchell Ray Campbell, former operators of the Crystal Clipper club, charged with indecent exposure of obscene exhibits.

The judge ruled the movies shown at the club April 22 were obscene and asked for briefs on the matter of a pre-seizure hearing sometimes required in such matters. He asked defense attorney Golden Bennet to file briefs within 20 days and prosecuting attorney, Leon Smith, to answer within 10 days.

If the court finds a pre-seizure hearing was needed the movie film will be suppressed as evidence.

Idaho prison becoming model, director says

BOISE (UPI) — The director of corrections at the Idaho State Penitentiary in Boise, Raymond May, said Saturday Idaho's new state prison is on its way to becoming a model penal facility.

May said prisons in the past "have been no more than glorified jails." He added the new Idaho facility is the start of a new and modern penal complex which was designed to supply individual needs.

A main factor in the design of the new prison and its space utilization has been close cooperation with the Mental Health Division of the Idaho Department of Health.

May said construction of housing units with a stratification effect will hopefully decrease exposure of younger inmates to hard core prisoners.

The new prison site includes construction of one building to house maximum custody inmates, a second series of buildings to house medium custody inmates and a farm dormitory to house minimum custody prisoners.

Also scheduled for construction at the 80-acre site is a multi-purpose infirmary and farmhouse, dairy and slaughter house which will replace the present Eagle Island Prison Farm.

Other facilities to be constructed include an administration and industrial building, school, kitchen, dining room, vocational, technical building and chapel, May said.

Unity stressed at Chicano conclave

NAMPA (UPI) — Some 200 participants in a Chicano conference at St. Paul's School in Nampa Saturday were told the conference is the first step toward solving problems facing Mexican-Americans.

Speakers during the session stressed the need for unity among Mexican-American people to accomplish better working conditions, wages, and better educational and job training opportunities.

Conference Chairman Pedro Lopez, Welsler, said the immediate goal of Campalnos Unidos is "at least 51 per cent organization" of Treasure Valley Mexican-Americans in the near future.

Another immediate goal is to obtain better wages and working conditions for field workers.

Lopez said, "We want our people to be treated like human beings and not like machines."

He added, "We know the former has a bad situation, but the farm worker has it worse. We want to meet face-to-face with the farmer to talk and work out these problems."

He added that better educational opportunities and job training programs would give Chicano migrant workers skills to find permanent employment and leave the "nomadic way of life."

Lopez said political organization through voter registration will strengthen the position of the Mexican-Americans in Idaho. He added that 1969 surveys showed there were 17,500 Chicanos who were permanent residents of Idaho in Treasure Valley alone.

Scout jamboree opens in Japan

ASAGIRI HEIGHTS, Japan (UPI) — About 20,000 Boy Scouts — some wearing turbans, but most wearing the famed peaked cap — gathered here today in a huge grassy amphitheater at the foot of sacred Mt. Fuji and formally opened the 13th Boy Scout Jamboree.

Hundreds of brightly colored tents sprinkled the grassy foothills of Fuji as the formal opening ceremonies were held at 4:30 p.m. amid the throbs of drums and columns of Boy Scouts marching in drill formations.

The host Japanese Boy Scout organization said that nearly 23,000 scouts from 66 countries were scheduled to arrive for the jamboree, the first in four years.

Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, who was to have represented Japan at the opening ceremony in a grassy hillside amphitheater, canceled his visit due to the emergency arising from a catastrophic airplane crash in northern Japan.

Sato sent Education Minister Saburo Takami to represent him at the ceremony.

Review slated for bid

TWIN FALLS — City Council members will review a bid received for the sale of the old Twin Falls city filter plant Monday night and are expected to authorize a contract for sale of the property.

The council will also consider a resolution of intention to create a local improvement district for the installation of curbs and gutters on Fairways Drive.

Routine business and reports from department heads and approval of applications and permits are also on the Monday night agenda. The Council meets the first and third Mondays at 7:30 p.m. in the city hall.

COMMENT

Unworkable Land Law

Idaho Falls Post Register

Another major reason why the Idaho Constitution should be revised is reflected in a suit pending against the Idaho Land Board.

An attorney informed the board that he plans to sue the state for an unspecified amount of money as compensation for school endowment lands converted to purposes other than education.

The suit will demand payment for lands assigned originally to public school and other endowment funds, by the Constitution, but which are being used for recreational purposes without compensation to the funds.

A strict interpretation of the Constitution would result in either sale of all of the state owned lands or lease of the lands at such a rate that would require an extraordinarily intensive use of the land to comply.

Obviously, the state lands should be used for the benefit of the public at large for both their short term as well as their long term benefit. But that's not really the way the Constitution strictly reads.

Moreover, the state, in its grazing leases, and in the way it sells the lands that it does, is not getting "fullest return."

The State Land Board, over the years, has been forced to take a longer term view of it all, but nevertheless, has made some serious mistakes of selling high recreational-value land to private citizens which it either should have kept for future state park use or for exchange with the federal agencies for other productive land or land of general public use.

The big point to be made in any comment on the promised suit, however, is that state lands should be used for public recreation even though this does not return any money directly to the state. It does represent a great deal of service and satisfaction to citizens of the state and visitors, however.

Money return must be changed to read, "value return," whether direct, as in the case of logging, for example, or indirect as in the case of recreation or even grazing use.

An Idaho Legislative committee is now studying what kind of land and at what location it will seek in obtaining some 37,000 acres of federal land promised to the state at the time of statehood but never delivered.

It is likely, however, that the land selection and exchange will come before the state's planning agency has readied any final plans on a land use blueprint for the entire state.

The legislators and the Governor's office, at least, should be in close consultancies with this office in order that the land selection bears some relationship to this emerging blueprint.

EARMARKED FOR '72?

ROBERT ALLEN

Kennedy To McGovern's Camp

WASHINGTON — Sen. George McGovern, ultra-liberal and militant dove, is THE Kennedy candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

That's the inside word being put out by the South Dakota handlers and promoters.

However, while zealously spreading this report, the McGovernites are noticeably vague about exactly what is implied — whether Sen. Ted Kennedy has privately given assurances he will back McGovern's bid; that a public laying-on-of-hands is contemplated; or what!

Kennedy and McGovern shrug off inquiries; refuse to discuss the matter.

But as striking proof of their claim, McGovern insiders cite the following:

A recent $1,000 contribution from Mrs. Ethel Kennedy, widow of Sen. Robert Kennedy.

Almost within hours after the latter's assassination, McGovern, proclaiming he was "raising aloft the fallen banner," leaped into the Presidential scramble in a belated attempt to capitalize on Kennedy's popularity, especially among blacks, and grief at his death.

Harvard Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith's announcement for McGovern, after a meeting with Ted Kennedy in his Senate office.

The tall, voluble economist and former head of the New Left-controlled Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) has a long Kennedy background.

evidence of Kennedy backing is the claim that McGovern's campaign contributions are coming mainly from what are characterized as "Kennedy people" — middle-class liberals, academic circles, blacks and militant doves.

McGovern insiders aver his contributions average around $400 a day. Also that the South Dakota is a vigorous and constant direct-mail money promoter; that everywhere he goes, members of his staff have the specific job of collecting names and addresses which are later circled with appeals for contributions.

ART BUCHWALD "Scotty" Reston

WASHINGTON — My good friend, James "Scotty" Reston of the New York Times has just had his appendix taken out at the anti-imperialist hospital in Peking.

Fortunately, the Chinese had the solution. Due to excellent scientific achievements, the People's Republic anti-imperialist laboratories have perfected a tiny new battery which works on monosodium glutamate.

Suppose, and I must admit I have no basis for it except a wicked imagination, the Chinese sowed a tiny radio transmitter in Scotty's intestines, so that no matter where he went in the world, they could hear everything someone is saying to him.

Everyone knows that Scotty talks to the most important people in the world. The Chinese also have to assume that as soon as he comes back to the United States, he will see President Nixon. What better listening post would the People's Republic of China have in the White House than James Reston's stomach?

Knowing how the Chinese work, all they would have to do is have one of their agents stationed within a mile of Scotty with a receiver and they would be able to record everything that goes on in the highest branches of government.

In fairness to the People's Republic of China, they probably didn't plan to sew a bug in Scotty.

remarkable percentage of returns — individually modest but in total substantial.

Since McGovern's announced candidacy, it's claimed he has netted some $500,000 in this way. In addition, Kinelman reportedly has produced $150,000 from well-heeled sources.

Also now being vigorously promoted is the establishment of "McGovern Clubs."

Currently, their main function is money raising. In states with Presidential primaries, these clubs, starting in the fall, will be used as the basis for setting up statewide campaign organizations.

take a beating in Scotty's innards, but would also have enough power to survive for any period of time.

While this in itself could make Scotty a walking security risk, some people here in Washington fear that the Chinese may have gone even further and inserted not only a listening transmitter, but the X104 Mao Tse-tung mini-speaker. If they did this, a Red Chinese agent, by twisting a dial, could make Scotty spout Mao Tse-tung's thoughts at the most inopportune time.

If, for example, he was asked in front of a Senate committee why the New York Times printed the Pentagon Papers, Reston might jet up and yell: "Because all reactionaries are paper tigers, and the feudal landlord class and slave-owning bourgeoisie must be alerted to the people's struggle to overthrow the chains and impotent thinking of the misguided intellectuals and lackey court-revolutionary followers of our corrupt leaders."

Now this sort of thing could be embarrassing, not only to Reston, but also to the New York Times.

I wish to restate that I have no evidence that anything was done to Scotty at the anti-imperialist hospital in Peking other than to remove his appendix. But I don't think we should take any chances. What I'm trying to say to you, Scotty, wherever you are, is that for the nation's security, we're going to have to cut you open again as soon as you come home.

Calculating political dividends at some future time, the Soviet ambassador has been lurching regularly, on cozy terms, with most of the ex-parliamentary leaders for the past four years, particularly those left of center.

When that happens, the Russians will have useful contacts with the junta-hating underground world of politics.

Perhaps this fact of Greek politics is now coming home to Washington. Tascas, a tidy, unimaginative diplomat who obeys the letter of Washington's law, has until recently shunned contacts with top leaders of the two major parties now outlawed: the conservative Radical-Union and the moderate-left Center-Union (irrationally regarded by zealous American military men as quasi-Communist).

Moreover, Tascas has been on so short a leash that he can say nothing out loud about the Embassy's genuine efforts with Papadopoulos on behalf of jailed politicians or civil libertarians, now buried in the dust below the Acropolis. It would offend the junta.

Several weeks ago, Tascas held his first meetings with top rank ex-political leaders, after leaving them in cold storage for 15 months. Then he journeyed to Porto Leone, north of Rome, in King Constantine, loathed by the junta, for the first time.

None of these encounters would have occurred without an order from Washington, whose policy has treated Greece as a chunk of geography vital to U.S. security, not as the home of 10 million Greeks.

Whether Tascas' burst of diplomacy marks a genuine turning-point is still questionable as this is written: Top figures in the junta, along with cynics among the old-pro politicians, believe his new orders suited only one purpose: to appease U.S. Congressmen angry over the smugly-bunny relationship between the U.S. and the dictatorship.

Neither of these is yet at the crisis stage. Papadopoulos' truculent self-confidence, in fact, has reached such a point that on July 16 he virtually dared President Nixon to stop military aid (resumed last fall with much false fanfare about an imminent return to parliamentary government). He hinted that such a radical shift in U.S. policy would rally the country around him, making him the hero of anti-U.S. chauvinists.

Thus, the chickens hatched by the grievous error of arms resumption last year have now come home to roost and Papadopoulos finds himself in position to make thinly-veiled blackmail maneuvers against the U.S. which, if successful, guarantee the continuation of both arms aid and dictatorship.

Perhaps the best test of all is to ask this: when something comes along that really interests you, do you forget about being tired?

If so, you have a clue to the way your mind is making you tired. You need to get involved in things, take on more responsibilities, be more active. And take a vacation periodically. That can be more important than you know.

Note to C. T.: A recent report on X ray treatment of patients with early Hodgkin's disease is that more than 90 percent of them are alive, without signs of the disease after five years. It's a heartening advance over the situation not so many years ago.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Sometimes I wish we could just get away from all the talk about Vietnam. You know—take a trip to Saigon!"

Won't Protect Snake

Lewiston Morning Tribune

Idaho First District Congressman James A. McClure has repeated his opposition to the bill that would declare a seven-year moratorium on Middle Snake River dam construction. He says he wants to avoid "a commitment now to either preservation or development," but he is taking what is essentially a pro-dam position on the Middle Snake.

His stand is against temporary protection for the stream. That means the Middle Snake will remain threatened by dams if McClure has his way.

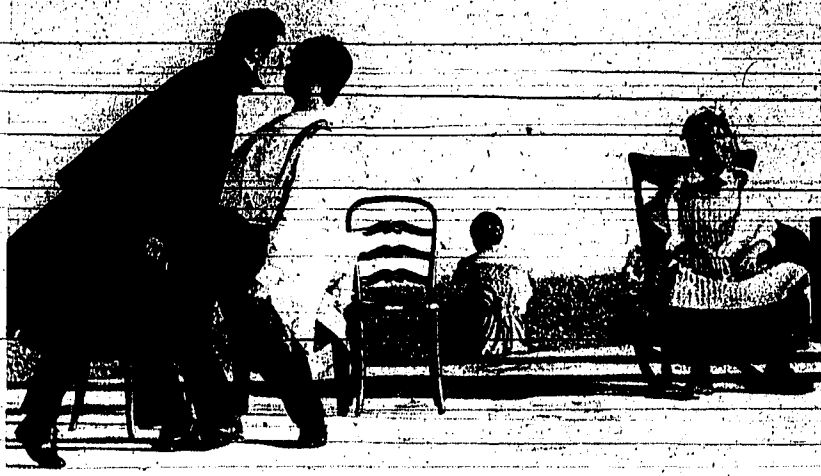

The moratorium bill is jointly offered by Idaho Republican Sen. Len B. Jordan and Idaho Democratic Sen. Frank Church. It is a deliberate legal stall, with only two prime courses in mind: Jordan believes the time bought with the moratorium may show that the ultimate best use of the Middle Snake is a reclamation dam rather than proposed hydro-electric dams. Church is virtually certain the time bought with the bill will show that the most responsible use of the stream is its present one — recreation, hunting, fishing and scenic appreciation.

McClure's opposition to the Jordan-Church bill is at odds with his own stated reason for opposing the bill. When a congressman says he doesn't want a dam now and, in the same breath, opposes the legislation that would prevent a dam now, one must assume that he is being less than candid.

In that circumstance, the recreationists and reclamationists of Idaho have no course but to judge the congressman on what he does, not on what he says. And what he is doing is refusing to help Jordan and Church prevent the construction of a dam now.

McClure is by his own inaction calling in the cement trucks and kissing the canyon goodbye.

Licensed for public street golf cart

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD HONOLULU (UPI) — The tiny, blue-eyed blonde who maneuvers a golf cart through traffic is enough of an eye-catcher also to stop it.

But Anne White, the object of whistles and smiles, is a courageous woman who is not about to be left out of the fun of life because she is crippled. Miss White, the victim of a birth defect, shows that the will to lead a rich and useful life does not have to collapse because one has to live on crutches.

The ambitious young woman, started a public relations firm six years ago with an investment of $3,000. Today it is doing more than $100,000 a year in business.

"I do what I can to lead a full life," Miss White said. "When I was little, children used to look at me because I had crutches. Now I want people to look at me because of what I am."

Miss White attributes much of her success to the emotional support she was given by understanding parents and to the example set by her father, Irwin T. White, who was a polio victim as a child. He now is vice president of a heavy equipment firm in Cleveland.

Miss White is the only person in Hawaii licensed to operate a golf cart on public streets. The cart rolls along at a top speed of 15 miles per hour and each night Miss White plugs a cord from the battery into a regular electrical outlet to recharge it.

When the businessman is not directing the activities of her six-man staff in their post quarters or gliding around town in her golf cart, she is encouraging businessmen to hire the handicapped and giving the handicapped suggestions on how to make themselves more employable.

For four years, Miss White served as executive secretary for Gov. John Burns' Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. From her experiences, she concludes that employer discrimination just because a person is handicapped is one of the biggest obstacles to overcome.

Canning kitchen opens extra day

TWIN FALLS — Activities at the Twin Falls Canning Kitchen have reached the point where it is now necessary to keep the kitchen open three days each week instead of two, Faye Sharp, kitchen manager, said.

Beginning this week, the kitchen will be open Monday, Wednesday and Friday instead of Monday and Friday only, Mrs. Sharp said.

Outstanding fruit and vegetable crops have kept the kitchen busy since it opened and in the past few weeks the kitchen has been processing about 2,000 cans daily, she said.

Women using the kitchen are now engaged in canning green beans, apricots and apricot jam in addition to the season long canning of chili, pork and beans and fish.

Mrs. Sharp said this year the kitchen processed more sweet cherries than in any other year.

Clean, subtle neutrals— all for fall

By United Press International Colors for the new fall suits and coats break down into three major groups: the clear and vibrant, the subtle and the neutrals. In the clear group, you'll find hot yellows, hot pinks, hot greens showing as solids or woven-in bold tweed combinations and patterns. The subtles include smoky hues of mauve, yellow, dusty pink, dusty blue, bottle and moss green, burgundy and plum. The neutrals are beige, greige (grayed beige), chamois, luggage, gray and heather tones. And watch for a big comeback for black, says the International Ladies Garment Workers Union (ILGWU) forecast for fall.

Book Review

By LUCILLE WOLFE
Twin Falls Public Library

TWIN FALLS — The book, "Blackthink, My Life as Black Man and White Man," by Jesse Owens, is dedicated to "a young man whose color I do not know." This is the life story of a great athlete who knows discrimination and hate the same as many others — Jews, Poles and Crooks and just Americans in general.

His lessons began when he was born the son of an Alabama farm tenant in 1913 and have continued ever since. He has never considered himself a brown Frank Merriwell and he realizes that it was through the help of many others, and especially Charles Riley, that he became the great athlete he was. Riley asked him to go out for track when he was in the fifth grade in spite of the fact he looked like a maintenance case. Owens had jobs every spare minute out of school but Riley had him come to school early and worked with him on the sidelines. He taught him to become a man as well as an athlete. Owens broke his first record six years later.

When it became time for Owens to go to college, (there were no scholarships for athletes in 1930) he decided he could not go because his father had no job and he could not let his family starve. So Riley made arrangements for a job for his father and arranged for Owens to go to Ohio State University.

During the 1936 Olympics, Owens astounded the world by winning four gold medals, which he did in spite of Hitler. He came back to no job so it was several years later before he could return to college. Today, a young Negro like Harry Edwards can climb out of the ghetto and go to a tuition-free university, become an articulate leader, and then use his articulation against those who taught him the works.

Jesse Owens feels both moderates and militants make the mistake of not going behind the symptoms of the crisis to its real root. We must realize there are two kinds of violence, he says. The serious and involved student who is rightfully boycotting a restaurant and pushing back when someone wrongfully pushes him, for example, is a world apart from the loaded-for-bear militant who is there mainly to make sure someone gets pushed. Peaceful marchers should be protected while those who use any kind of violence should be dealt with as criminals.

His book is serious, often shockingly frank, yet sometimes humorous and while he can never forget the struggle he had, he does not condone "blackthink" — "pro-Negro, anti-white bigotry" any more than "pro-white, anti-Negro bigotry."

SKIRTING THE KNIT NEWS

By Mary Sue Miller

The skirt of a dress or suit, the skirt on its own is the knit news. Not the length of a skirt, mind you. All lengths are represented, especially just above the knee, just below it and ankle-skimming.

What's important is how knit skirts move. There's action aplenty — flow, pleats and gores, from bias and circular flares hung to hip yokes.

Separate skirts take to classic shirts with widened shoulders, shrinks, cardigans and vests. Pull-ons, undiminished in popularity, feature raglan sleeves, tall turtlenecks and newsy square necklines. They are more often color-matched to skirts than in some time. Very together, that look!

In knit suits, blazers are a favored topper; also double-breasted full-lengths with wide lapels. Very sporty!

The knitted dress comes on strong, and not a season too soon. Fitted and flared with wide belllines, wider shoulders and importantly shaped sleeves, dresses are terrific. A dress with a jacket — right on!

Knits with surface interest of all kinds add to the excitement. Clear rich shades and black are beautiful. For the late summer traveler, for making a smooth transition into fall, a knit is it. Only pick the weight that suits your figure and your climate — the range is limitless — you've got a perfect fall opener.

Money Box

By FRANK R. SCHELL

From T. J. R. Burley: I have a shiny, real light-weight coin a little larger than a fifty-cent piece. On one side is a railroad engine, and the words Union Pacific, and underneath the engine "Lucky Piece."

On the other side it says "A sample of the aluminum in the new Union Pacific Train built by Pullman Car and Mfg. Corp." There is a shield with the word "Alcoa" above it and underneath Aluminum Co. of America and the words "Greenback, Chi." Can you tell me anything about this coin? Answer: It is not a coin — it is a token, or more properly, a medal. There are three different varieties of this token — all issued by the Union Pacific Railroad in 1934. That year the first of the streamlined Diesel Engines was built, and also, Cecil B. DeMille produced a motion picture entitled, "Union Pacific."

I believe the star was Joel McCrea, and the motion picture premiered at Omaha, Nebraska, which was the headquarters of the UP and where the train started west to meet the Southern Pacific.

The first streamliner, "The City of Denver" was quite a sight. The three varieties of the token: One like yours, another just like it except that it is dated "1934."

The third variety has a depiction of an old woodburning locomotive on it and advertises the motion picture. The reverse shows the UP shield and has wording which indicates the aluminum it is made from is the same as used in the new (then) streamliner.

The words "Greenback, Chi." indicate the Greenback Company, of Chicago — who struck a great many medals and trade tokens. The last mentioned medal does not have this name on but was probably made by the same company.

A great many of these medals were given away in Sun Valley — hence there are still quite a few around here. As far as I know, these medals have never been in demand and there is no market for them.

From Mrs. G. H., Twin Falls: Could you please give me the value of the coins I have listed below? Will be watching your

Honor Kirke

FERRYLAND, N.M. (UPI)—A monument to English colonizer Sir David Kirke, first governor of Newfoundland, was dedicated here by representatives of the federal and provincial governments. Newfoundland's coat of arms is the one granted Kirke in 1637 when he legally supplanted the claim held by the descendants of Lord Baltimore, former proprietor of the colony of Avalon. The first governor later took up residence in Lord Baltimore's former house at Ferryland, about 50 miles south of St. John's.

States spend at higher rate

Total revenue of all State governments in the 1970 fiscal year was $88.9 billion, 15 per cent more than in 1969 and an increase of 171 per cent over the past 10 years, the U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census reported today.

The figures are contained in a publication issued today and based on the Bureau's annual survey of state government finances.

Total expenditures by state governments, according to the report, amounted to $85.1 billion, an increase of 15 per cent over a year earlier and a 10-year increase of 169 per cent. Taxes provided $48.0 billion in revenue to the states (up 14.4 per cent), with taxes on sales or gross receipts accounting for $27.3 billion (up 13.3 per cent), the report shows.

Motor fuel taxes brought in $6.3 billion and personal income taxes, imposed by 42 states, $9.2 billion. Intergovernmental revenue, predominantly federal grants added $20.2 billion to State revenues in fiscal 1970.

The states' largest expenditure was for education, totaling $30.9 billion, 14 per cent more than in 1969. Of the total, $17.1 billion went to local public schools and $11.0 billion supported state colleges and universities.

Single copies of the report, "State Government Finances in 1970," Series CF-70-No. 3 may be obtained for 60 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, or from Commerce field offices in major cities of the U.S.

Rock performance

E. Pakistan refugees benefit

By STEVE KNOWLTON
NEW YORK (UPI) — George Harrison, Ringo Starr and Bob Dylan played for nearly 26,000 fans in Madison Square Garden Sunday in a benefit concert for refugees from East Pakistan.

Camera flashbulbs created a strobe-like effect in the cavernous arena, while outside dozens of fugue concertgoers produced estimated $200,000 for the benefit. An evening concert was expected to equal another $200,000.

It was the first time the two ex-Beatles played a live concert together in more than four years. It was rumored Beatle John Lennon would attend, but he did not show up for the 2:30 p.m. EDT concert. The fourth Beatle, Paul McCartney, was believed to be in New York but did not appear.

Bob Dylan proved to be the most popular performer. The frizzle-haired folk-rock singer, who has not been seen on stage for two years, played songs he had written in the early 1960s, such as "Blowing in the Wind," "Just Like a Woman" and "Love Minus Zero-No Limit." Dylan was joined by Harrison and Starr for most of his songs.

Tickets for the benefit concert were sold out two hours before the box office officially was to open last week. Hundreds of fans camped outside Madison Square Garden overnight Saturday, and by noon Sunday ticket scalpers were getting $50 for seats that sold for $10.

The 2 1/2-hour concert opened with 45 minutes of classical Indian music performed by Ravi Shankar and three other Indian musicians. Shankar told the audience his forefathers had come from Bengal, which is now ravaged by civil war and has set more than six million refugees pouring into India.

"We do not want to be political," Shankar told the audience. "We are entertainers. But we wanted to do anything we could to help the refugees." Harrison then came on with Starr and an ensemble of 17 other guitarists, singers, trumpeters and saxophone players. They played such songs as "Here Comes the Sun," "While My Guitar Gently Weeps," and "Don't Come Easy."

The overflow crowd was enthusiastic but orderly. The appearance of Harrison and Starr brought dozens of amateur cameramen and women rushing to the stage, but ushers quickly herded them back to their seats. There were no reports of gate crashing, although one middle-aged entrepreneur offered admission for $25 or for a ring or watch. He said he had "greased the hand of a certain usher."

Tourists stranded abroad

LONDON (UPI) — Some borrowed the money and others dug deeper into their pockets but by late Sunday 100 of about 150 American tourists, stranded since Friday when a non-sched airlines refused to accept their charter flight tickets, managed to book other passage home.

The others were still trying to work something out, with help from the U.S. Embassy.

Airport officials said most of those who had to pay an extra $240 each for seats on a scheduled airlines flight to New York managed to arrange credit while the others were forced to dip into savings.

The group has shuttled back and forth between London's three airports since Friday trying to find transportation to New York.

Barbara Wittner, a nurse from New York City, said their problems began when the group arrived at Gatwick Airport, 20 miles southeast of London, on Friday to board a Universal Airways jet plane home.

"We were told the flight had left the day before," she said, "and we would have to go to Stansted Airport to catch another." Stansted is 35 miles northeast of London.

At Stansted they were told Universal, a U.S. supplementary airline, would not accept their tickets "because we were not actual members of the club chartering the flights," she said.

Police were called in when the group began chanting, "We want to go home."

Rail strike will cause price hike, grocery officials warn

By United Press International
Grocery officials warned Sunday produce prices will quickly rise this week if the national strike against 10 railroads is not settled.

But negotiators in Washington, after an all-night session, said a settlement was not imminent in the 17-day-old walkout that has cost $50 billion in lost goods and service.

The rail shutdown—which lited 41 per cent of the rail trackage in the country—came at the peak of the harvest season, leaving California fruit growers with only one railroad to carry fruit and produce to eastern markets.

Farmers in the Midwest have been stockpiling their wheat since the first walkout on July 15.

The grain problem in the Southeast grew worse: The Georgia state agriculture commissioner predicted many poultry growers would lose their stock to starvation.

"We managed to hold down produce prices last week," a Milwaukee, Wis., grocery official said, "but the prices will quickly rise this week."

Truckers normally charge $1,300 to $1,400 to bring a load of produce from California to the Midwest. A Milwaukee grocer said some truckers are now asking $1,700 to $2,000. The Motor Carriers Association denied the charge.

California agriculture industry representatives estimated farmers were losing up to $5 million daily and losses in related industries were even higher.

Ford Motor Co. said the first of 8,600 employees would be laid off Monday. General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. said they expected to announce layoffs if the strike is not settled soon.

More than 22,000 miners in Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky were out of work because of the strike. At least 25,000 others were awaiting the word.

In Nash Fork, Ariz., Santa Fe supervisory personnel hauled in 12 tanker loads of water. The town of 500 in northern Arizona depends on the "strike" bound railroad for its water supply.

Layoffs also occurred in the iron ore and taconite facilities in Minnesota and the plywood industry in the Pacific Northwest.

The name muskellunge is an Ojibway Indian word meaning "great pike."

Chicago (UPI) — The Union Stock Yard became a lonely place this weekend. For the first time in 105 years the pens were empty, and the yard fell silent.

The yard, where more than a billion hogs, cattle and sheep have awaited the butcher's knife, was officially closed, and Monday a new and much smaller facility opens near Joliet to help take on the burden of the world's largest once shrouded alone.

At its peak, the yards provided 40,000 jobs in the pens and in affiliated industries. But at the end there were 150 on the payroll and slightly more at the remaining nearby industries.

Chancellor predicts Berlin settlement soon

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt Sunday predicted a Berlin settlement this fall and the realization of a European security conference by 1972.

"There are good chances for a Berlin settlement this fall," Brandt said.

(But in West Berlin, Mayor Klaus Schuetz was more pessimistic. Schuetz told the newspaper-Bild-Am-Sonntag—"reckon on a long period of time" before an agreement is reached.)

The chancellor who is also leader of the West German Social Democratic party made the statement at a news conference held at Swedish Premier Olof Palme's official country residence, Hagsrud, 76 miles south of Stockholm.

European Socialist leaders met here during the weekend for informal talks.

Participants were Austria's Chancellor Bruno Kreisky; Norway's Premier Trygve Bratteli and Foreign Minister Andreas Cappelen; Finland's Social Democratic Secretary Kalevi Sorsa, and Denmark's former Premier Jens Otto Krag and former Foreign Minister Per Haekkerup in addition to Brandt.

British Labor opposition leader Harold Wilson was invited but the intense debate on Britain's future relations with the European Common Market prevented him from coming, Palme said.

Palme, who was host for the first time for the traditional Socialist gathering, said the session dealt at length with East-West relations and the role of the Social Democratic parties in the European development.

College degree said overrated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Higher education's staunchest congressional friend said Sunday parents and students have been misled into believing that a college degree is "the only road to success and happiness."

Rep. Edith Green of Oregon, second-ranking Democrat on the House Education and Labor Committee and chairman of its higher education subcommittee, said educational emphasis must switch from college to vocational and technical training for many young people.

"We really have led a generation of parents and a generation of students to believe that the only road to success and happiness is by the acquisition of that degree from a four-year institution all tied up in blue ribbon," Mrs. Green said in a UPI Washington Window interview.

"It seems to me that we must get back to the place where the worthwhileness in any job is in how well that job is done, the dignity that it brings to the individual. We must place, in my judgment, a far greater emphasis on vocational and technical training," she said.

"I think there are lots of youngsters in college today who really would be better off if they were in a technical school," the Oregon congresswoman said.

Mrs. Green, the author of major college and student aid programs since the early-1960s, said a mistake was made by giving draft deferments to college students but not to youngsters attending technical and vocational institutions.

Oswald: "Your mother wants us to write some articles on how to count hands."

Jim: "She's been the family boss for 39 years. We had better do as she asks. Here's a good example in a no-trump grand slam. South must concentrate on clubs. There are 13 cards in each suit and he needs 13 tricks."

Oswald: "He had best make them. North has 22 high-card points opposite a 16-18 no-trump and will want to know what went wrong if South winds up one short."

IT'S COMMON KNOWLEDGE that Alaska always has been a particularly fertile hunting ground for the young single girl in search of a matrimonial mate: But she's not the woman whose chances of finding a gentleman friend there are greatest. The retired widow is. Among Alaskans over the age of 65, the men outnumber the ladies by 200.7 to 100. In the 40-to-44 group, the men only outnumber the ladies by 133.1 to 100. Or so show the statistics.

If she paints her lips in a bright-red rectangle, she conveys the impression she would prefer to play softball.

"WHERE IS the world's largest mental hospital?" inquires a client. Checked this out with a western medical man and the rasal said, "In New York, of course. Where else? And the world's largest maternity hospital is not in Southern California, as you might expect, but in Singapore."

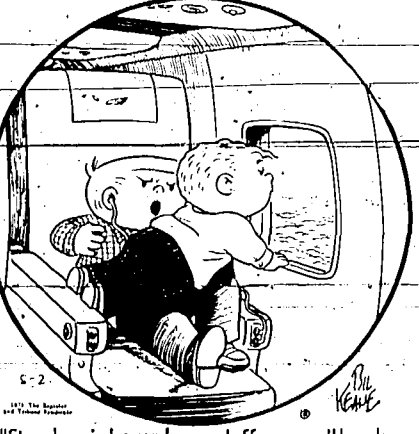

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q: "Says here women get far fewer eye infections than men. Why?" A: Because tears are antiseptic, and women are capable of producing far more tears than men. Come on, you know that. Q: "Hasn't The Pill cut back the number of unwed mothers?" A: Evidently not. Understand the Salvation Army took care of about 10,000 last year, more than ever before. Q: "Till me, sir, how do you manage to amass all these bits of fact, fantasy and fiction?" A: Like a small boy picks blueberries, madam. One at a time.

AVERAGE SCORE among league bowlers at last report was 154. How does that stack up against your usual pin count, mister? Study of the records shows not one such bowler in 100 averages as high as 190. But just about five in 100 average under 125.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Promptly Relieved

In many cases Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itching and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients showed this to be true in many cases. In fact, many doctors, themselves, use Preparation H or recommend it for their families. Preparation H ointment or suppositories.
