TEN CENTS

Economy troubled

Jobless numbers creep up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate crept upward in July to 5.8 per cent, the Labor Department reported today. But the increase was smaller than many economists had anticipated.

The July figure was 0.2 per cent higher than the 5.6 per cent rate reported for June, but June's level — a sharp, 0.6 per cent decline from May — was widely attributed more to a statistical quirk than to an upsurge in the number of people at work.

The June sampling was taken early in the month, while many students who would normally be looking for work were still in school.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, in today's report on the most sensitive economic figure the government issues, said the number of Americans at work increased by 1.2 million people last month.

Administration analysts took some cheer from the 5.8 per cent joblessness rate in July. Since the rate in June was assumed to be considerably higher than the 5.6 per cent figure reported, July's 5.8 per cent could indicate some real progress, they said.

However, they cautioned that unemployment probably could be expected to show a rise again in August because of the widespread layoffs in the steel industry.

Wholesalers raise prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices of industrial raw materials and manufactured goods registered the sharpest monthly increase in 15 years in June, the government reported Thursday. The White House conceded the report was bad news but said President Nixon has not lost confidence in his economic policies.

The Labor Department said the wholesale prices of industrial commodities increased 0.7 per cent last month, after adjustment for seasonal variations, the sharpest rise since August, 1956.

But the department's report contained some welcome news for hurried food shoppers. The wholesale price of groceries declined by a seasonally adjusted 1.5 per cent last month, the sharpest drop since October, 1962.

Most economists consider industrial commodities prices to be a more accurate barometer of inflation than the consumer food prices which have fluctuated this year from July's 1.5 per cent decline to a 1.7 per cent increase in February.

Wholesale prices of fresh fruits and vegetables, eggs and beef dropped sharply last month. The dip in food prices more than offset rises in the wholesale cost of other consumer goods such as clothing, tires and automobiles.

While House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said administration economic strategists noted the sharp "jump" in industrial commodities prices which he conceded was bad news.

But he said, "We certainly do not say that because this has taken place, that the economy is on a downturn, nor do we lose confidence in the course we have taken." He urged newsmen to focus on more favorable aspects of the wholesale price report.

The overall wholesale price index increased 0.3 per cent in July to 114.6 per cent of the 1967 average. After adjustment for seasonal factors, the increase was 0.2 per cent, equaling the smallest rise this year.

Airborne soldiers leave war

SAIGON (UPI) — Nearly 1,200 American soldiers prepared to depart from Vietnam today under Phase VIII of the troop withdrawal program, including the last battalion of U.S. paratroopers remaining in the country, the U.S. Command said.

Departing units include the 4th Battalion of the 503rd Infantry, 173rd Airborne Brigade; Echo Troop of the 17th Air Cavalry Squadron, which operated with the 173rd; and the 517th Military Intelligence detachment, one of the last units of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Division.

Military spokesmen said the 4th Battalion, 503rd Infantry, was the last remaining paratrooper battalion in Vietnam. The 101st Airborne Division, which remains in the country, is now an air mobile division and no longer is a paratroop unit.

The 173rd Airborne was the first U.S. Army ground combat unit to arrive in Vietnam. It came here May 5, 1965, and has operated in the Saigon area and in the central highlands.

Under Phase VIII of President Nixon's troop withdrawal program, U.S. military strength in Vietnam was scheduled to be reduced by 27,700 men between June 22 and Aug. 31. Departure of the three units will bring the total withdrawn to nearly 20,000 men.

Red trap kills GIs

SAIGON (UPI) — Five American soldiers were killed and two wounded Thursday when an armored personnel carrier rolled over an American-made booby trap over a Communist-held area.

The incident occurred in a jungle stronghold of the Communists located 29 miles southwest of Da Nang.

Infantrymen killed five Communists Thursday in a noon battle 38 miles northeast of Saigon without sustaining any casualties, spokesmen said. The same unit later found a food cache containing eight and one-half tons of flour and a ton of salt, they said.

U.S. B52 bombers struck into Cambodia Thursday against Communist positions in a region where heavy fighting has driven thousands from their homes.

Campaign curbs OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate approved a sweeping election reform bill Thursday — the first in nearly half a century — which would sharply curtail the amount of money presidential candidates can spend on advertising in the 1972 campaign.

The legislation, which would take effect Dec. 31, would revoke the "equal time" provision which has inhibited televised debates between presidential candidates.

It would set a ceiling of 10 cents per voter on the amount a candidate for any federal office can spend on any kind of advertising.

In addition, the bill would require full reporting of campaign contributions and expenditures and creates a six-member, bipartisan committee to oversee the expense system.

A last-minute attempt by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., to raise the spending ceiling to 20 cents per eligible voter was defeated, 50-31.

The bill's floor manager, Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I., said the higher limit "would give a candidate a lot more money than he needs."

"The most effective way to kill this bill is to adopt this amendment," Pastore said.

The threat of a veto by President Nixon hung over the bill, even though a number of features were tailored to the demands of the White House. Last year, Nixon vetoed a bill which would have set a ceiling on the amount a candidate could spend on radio and television commercials. He said it discriminated against broadcasters and plugged only one of many loopholes.

The House is holding hearings on its own version of the campaign spending bill. Any differences with the Senate version would have to be resolved in a joint conference committee.

If the House accepts the Senate version, a candidate could spend a maximum of six cents out of the 10-cent limit on any one kind of advertising. This provision was designed to keep a candidate from pouring all his allowable funds into radio or television commercials.

Assuming that 100 million Americans will be eligible to vote in 1972, each presidential candidate would be limited to spending $13.9 million for all advertising and, in effect, $8.3 million of that on radio and TV.

Spacemen prepare landing

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Apollo 15's astronauts accelerated accurately toward earth today on the last lap of a 12-day moon mission that carved for Project Apollo a new niche in the annals of science and a bundle of records in the registry of spaceflight.

David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin set their sights on a splashdown at 4:46 p.m. EDT Saturday, 318 miles north of the Hawaiian island of Oahu. Recovery forces were ready and the weather appeared satisfactory.

Flight controllers said the spaceship Endeavour already was comfortably within the imaginary corridor leading to a safe entry into earth's atmosphere — a course correction scheduled for today was cancelled but the pilot may refine their trajectory Saturday.

Today was a day of rest for the men who have accomplished more in space than any other Americans.

Their main scientific activity of the day was to photograph the eclipse of the moon this afternoon. The television camera they left behind on the moon was to have viewed earth's shadow passing over the lunar surface, but its transmitter has failed.

The moon eclipse will not be visible in the United States, but it will be seen from Asia, with the best view in India.

The astronauts also scheduled an in-flight news conference for late afternoon, answering questions from newsmen in Houston radioed up by ground communications.

The astronauts are returning home with a record of 170 pounds of rocks and soil collected from the most northern site. American space explorers will visit on the moon this decade. Scientists said the samples and the astronauts' exploration in general — on the surface and from lunar orbit — gave the moon project a new place in science.

They now consider the Apollo project a true scientific endeavor and they say Apollo 15 probably will fulfill preflight hopes that it will tell man more about the moon than the first three lunar landings combined. "It was just a beautiful site and the crew did such a fantastic job of selecting, describing, collecting and returning such a large amount, it lays out our next six to eight months of work for us," said Michael B. Duke, curator of the Lunar Receiving Laboratory.

Space co-op okayed

MOSCOW (UPI) — Three joint Soviet-American space groups have completed five days of meetings in Moscow and adopted a number of unspecified recommendations for Soviet-American space cooperation, the U.S. Embassy announced today.

The working groups represented the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

They met pursuant to an agreement negotiated between NASA and the Soviet Academy last January.

"They developed recommendations for joint projects and exchanges in near-Earth space research, investigation of the moon and the planets, the development of space meteorology and space applications relating to natural environment," an embassy statement said.

The recommendations will be forwarded for approval to President Mstislav M. Keldysh of the Soviet Academy and Dr. George M. Low, deputy administrator of NASA.

Polluter taxation proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration called today for efficient charges on polluters — a form of pollution tax — as an "automatic enforcer" of laws against despoiling the air, water and land of the nation.

In its second annual report to Congress, the White House Council on Environmental Quality, adding up the cost for the first time of cleaning up the environment, put the price tag over the next six years at roughly $105 billion.

That would be an average $25 for every man, woman and child.

The ultimate cost will be even higher if the job is not undertaken, the council said, explaining that the public would pay for the cleanup in a variety of ways — such as higher prices, fewer goods and higher taxes.

The council proposed coupling strict enforcement of tougher antipollution laws with effluent charges — a system under which a factory would pay for its waste discharges much like it pays for gas and electricity. The less it pollutes, the less it would pay.

President eyes stump

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon scheduled a two-hour, 25-minute foray today into New Hampshire, the site of the first presidential primary election in 1972.

Nixon planned an airport stop at Manchester and a visit to a model nursing home for the aged at Nashua before helicoptering to an island off the coast of Maine for the weekend.

The President has not announced he will seek reelection next year, but his aides said it was fairly certain his name would be on the ballot of the March 7, 1972, New Hampshire presidential primary.

Ceiling falls at courthouse

TWIN FALLS — Custodians at the Twin Falls County courthouse were checking for possible signs of additional weakening of plaster in the 60-year old building today after a section of ceiling five by eight feet gave way at 10:30 p.m. Thursday.

The plaster, measuring one and one half inches thick crashed to the floor in front of the sheriff's office and near the north entrance to the building. County Commissioner W. L. (Bill) Chancey said he has urged for some time a review of the old building be made, inside and outside, and the collapse of plaster illustrates further need for this.

Deaf 'poke takes lead

By RUTH MILLER
Times-News Writer

FILER — John King, Sheridan, Wyo., last year's National High School Rodeo all-around cowboy, took the lead Thursday night in saddle bronc riding during the first performance of the second go-around of the National High School Rodeo.

King, who is deaf, has a combined score of 113 in the two go-arounds, 28 points above the nearest contender, Dan Fillippini, Battle Mountain, Nev. They are the only two bronc riders to make two qualified rides.

Unable to hear the whistle blow time, King counts backwards to himself, allowing a couple extra seconds before getting off his animal.

The crowd at Thursday night's show was the best so far, with over 4,000 spectators. The main grandstand had only a few vacant seats and smaller stands to the north of the announcer's booth were full.

Other leaders after Thursday night's performance are: Bull riding — Don Gay Mesquite, Tex., first; Bill

Patterson, Richfield (Idaho's all-around cowboy), second, and Pace Merrill, Baraboo, Wis., third.

Barrel racing — Ron Lynch, Lawrence, Kan., first; Dode Givens, Arapahoe, Wyo., second and Jimmy Gibson, Tolleason, Ariz., third.

Call roping: Paul Hughes, Olney Springs, Colo., first; Bob Watkins, Kim, Colo., and Dudley Little, Chandler, Ariz., tied.

Steer wrestling: Gene Melton, Keithville, Iowa, first; Ricky Taylor, Franktown, Colo., second; Larry Chandler, Paxton, Neb., third.

Boy's cow cutting: Craig Rittenhouse, Woodward, Okla., first; Lonnie Ashley, Ada, Okla., second, and Mar-Kenn Bern, Idaho, third.

Girl's cow cutting: Jan Barrett, Herrington, Ore., first; Jan Edwards, Alsworth, Neb., second, and Alice Vickers, Pascaqua, Miss., third.

Barrel racing: Janice Curcio, Walla Walla, Wash., first; Helen Parke, Malta, second, and Lorré Davis, St. Anthony, Iowa, third.

FCC proposes regulating CATV

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Conceding it was bowing to the White House and Congress, the Federal Communications Commission Thursday proposed regulations for community antenna television (CATV) systems that would not take effect until next March.

Chairman Dean Burch acknowledged that the action, which he refused to term a "delay," was an unprecedented way for the seven-member regulatory agency to handle a major issue.

Romanian leader visits pig farm

VIENNA (UPI) — At Tulcea, five miles from the Soviet frontier, Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu paid a "working visit" to a pig farm.

Although Ceausescu runs a hard-line Communist regime at home, he has earned the Kremlin's ire this summer by improving his relations with the United States and by making a much-publicized trip to China.

Valley comments

FILER — The National High School Rodeo at Filer has drawn spectators and contestants from all over the United States to Maglo Valley and Idaho. These people, interviewed at the fairgrounds by Times-News Writer Ruth Miller, were asked how they liked the rodeo and Idaho.

ARTHUR WHORTON, Spriggdale, Ark., "likes it all." He has a boy, Rickett, who is entered in calf roping. He likes Idaho and has been here before. He has a sister who lives in Castleford. He "really likes the grand entry" and plans to have a color picture taken of it. "I like all rodeos," he said, "but this one is outstanding."

MRS. DUANE HOWARD, Woodward, Okla., "thinks it's great. I like the state and am having a good time." She has a boy, Jeff, who is 16 and is entered in the cow-tying and roping.

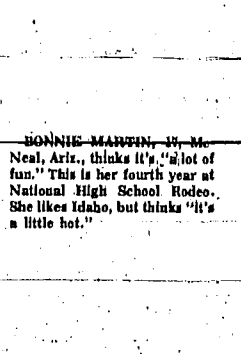

JEFF BRECHEISEN, 9, Wellsville, Kan., said of the rodeo, "I don't mind it." He said he is having fun and thinks there is a lot to do. He has a sister, Diane, who is a contestant in the rodeo.

LORRI DAVIS, 17, St. Anthony, Iowa, says the rodeo is "just fine. It's really good. The grounds are a lot better than we're used to. One reason we wanted to come to Idaho was because my Dad hunts here and it's so pretty."

RICKY PRINCE, Sulphur, La., new student president of National High School Rodeo, also "thinks it's great. The people here are being so nice to help us out, because of our horses being quarantined. They've been so good to find us horses."

BONNIE MARTIN, W. M. Neal, Ariz., thinks it's "a lot of fun." This is her fourth year at National High School Rodeo. She likes Idaho, but thinks "it's a little hot."

Road aide defends program

By O.A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Editor

TWIN FALLS — Ellis L. Mathes, state highway engineer, Idaho Department of Highways, Thursday defended programs of the department, dismissed as entirely out of context much of a recent article critical of talks he gave in Twin Falls and in Pocatello, and said anyone in public service "these days is beset with criticism and counter-suggestions."

Mathes spoke to members of the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club meeting at the Turf Club.

Much of the criticism which officials face today, Mathes said, comes "from that vocal minority who always believe they have the instant and simple answer to all of life's complex situations and that they have been ordained with that superior wisdom which everyone in public service sorely lacks."

The article critical of the talks given in Twin Falls and Pocatello in June was titled, he said, "Hubris or Symbolism." He said Webster defines hubris as a Greek word for passionate stubbornness, arrogance or the unyielding egotism of proprietorship and symbiosis as "the word biologists use to describe advantages and advantageous cooperation between unlike organisms." Among other things he said the circulated article accused him of touring the state in an attack on both the diversion of road tax money to the cities and the intrusion of ecological questions into highway location. The truth was that the "tour" which the article suggests was simply the talk in Twin Falls and the one in Pocatello, he said.

The state official said "highways and streets are important in our highly mobile way of life. Yet those of us charged with the responsibility of providing safe, convenient and adequate highway transportation are constantly being charged as unresponsive to the environmental, ecological, sociological or archeological needs of our time."

"It is my position that this is not true and that these highway transportation facilities are being provided with a much wider concept of the environment and the ecology than many people realize," he said.

He answered several complaints listed nationally, among them the one that many of the highways being built are not really needed and people and goods don't need to move as much as they do.

"With few exceptions all urban areas of this country are almost entirely dependent on highway transportation," he said. "In large urban areas, 88 per cent of all personal trips are by highway vehicles. In smaller urban areas the proportion of trips by highway or street is even larger."

"In travel between cities it is estimated 88 per cent of all person miles are by automobile and 2 per cent by bus, for a total of 88 per cent by highway. Air travel is second with about 10 per cent of the total."

With the need for additional revenue for road and street purposes clearly recognized he said recent studies have shown the state highway system is really in the poorest position of any unit.

"Thus, funding is a major problem facing the highway board in its attempts to keep pace with the ever increasing need for improvement of the state highway system. A second factor which has become very costly, both in time and money, relates to the 'red tape' encountered at both the state and federal level and especially at the federal level."

The speaker said it is his opinion that the department has a trained, dedicated professional staff equal to any task.

"Major elements needing attention at this point, I believe, are citizen understanding, participation and support," he said.

Mathes said the next time a public hearing for a highway project is held "in your area, make your wishes and desires known because those who may be opposed to the proposal will be there expressing themselves. Testimony from the 'too silent majority' who support such proposals would also be most welcome."

Discussing projects in the Twin Falls area, he said first priority has been given to replacement funding for the Perrine Memorial Bridge with federal participation. The federal level could provide some $6 million of the anticipated $8 million cost. He said no projects are anticipated for Highway 93 in the next five years but that several others involving this area are now in progress or contemplated with a planned expenditure of millions.

"I believe that operations of the department under policies established by the highway board are efficient and that user funds provided are widely used. The board, and the department, will be most pleased to construct and maintain any and all highway facilities the people of Idaho are willing to pay for," he said.

The speaker was introduced by Art Schrank, Kiwanis member and engineer. Two new members were inducted into the club. They were Rev. Robert VanNest, new pastor of the First-Presbyterian Church, Twin Falls; and Eugene McNea, general manager of Young's Dairy, also in Twin Falls.

Because members, wives and other guests will attend the annual fish fry sponsored by the Buhl Kiwanis Club at the Clear Lakes Country Club on Thursday, Aug. 12, there will be no noon luncheon session here on that date.

Warning about shoddy home repairs issued

TWIN FALLS — Reed Coulam, Twin Falls building inspector, today warned citizens to be aware of transients offering home repairs after two Twin Falls residents fell victim to professional con men and lost about $400 to them.

Coulam said people should avoid transient groups seeking to perform home repairs such as pest control, siding installation and painting for their own safety and well-being.

"People should deal with established firms. They should check credentials and be certain materials meet building codes. If they have questions, they should check with the building inspector. This is the best way to avoid public fraud," Coulam said.

He said these repairs are often dangerous as well as being costly and poorly done. "If metal siding is installed without proper grounding, for one example, and the siding contacts an electrical wire, the whole house could be electrified and possibly electrocute someone," he said.

The residents who lost money to suspected "con men" declined to be identified. They said their roofs were supposed to have been repaired by individuals. After the work was completed, they found their roofs covered with silver paint and they were minus almost $400.

Detective Capt. Tim Qualls said Twin Falls Police Department has received complaints but said no fraud or criminal offense was involved.

Mrs. Helen Morton, Better Business Bureau, Boise, said the reports on the incidents in Twin Falls sounds like a gypsy gang known as the "Williamson Gang" which travels across the nation all the time.

She said the gang does yard work, tree pruning, and hedge trimming in the spring, fix roofs in the summer and repair furnaces in the fall. "Apparently the group does quite well as they drive big cars and new pickups," she added.

Mrs. Morton said the clan always buys a car license for every state they work in, so having the appearance of local workers. When working roofs, they often claim to represent area firms and offer to sell or apply extra roofing material they just happen to have at a reduced price, she said.

Mrs. Morton said they almost always pick on widows.

Crash kills Oregonians

VALE, Ore. (UPI) — Two prominent Malheur County residents have died in the head-on collision of two motor vehicles on Highway 20 about one mile east of Vale.

Sheriff Robert Ingram identified the victims as Mrs. Fern Cramer, 46, Ontario, Ore., Malheur County migrant health nurse and wife of Ontario High School Vice Principal John Cramer, and Lawrence Dean Powers, 43, manager of the Vale consumers co-op.

Court date postponed

BOISE (UPI) — Magistrate Alan M. Schwartzman has extended until Aug. 12 the next appearance for three prison inmates facing multiple charges as the result of an escape attempt July 28.

After giving them another week to "consult" the public defender, Schwartzman ordered Ralph Poindexter, 30, John Jessie Ramero, 19, and Phillip Mendy, 31, returned to state prison quarters.

Trustees at the time, the three allegedly walked away from the prison dining room the night of July 28 and grabbed a Boise man, Dale Adams, 46, as a hostage. They were arrested the next day in eastern Idaho after Adams was released by his captors.

"They are charged" with escape, robbery, grand larceny, and second-degree kidnaping.

Ellsberg ordered to trial

BOSTON (UPI) — Dr. Daniel Ellsberg, who admits leaking the top secret Pentagon papers to the press, was ordered by a federal judge Thursday to appear for trial in California on charges of illegal possession and distribution of the 47-volume study of the Vietnam war.

At a removal hearing, U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. set Aug. 16 as the arraignment date for Ellsberg in Los Angeles. Garrity expressed disappointment Ellsberg was not in court, but accepted the pledge of chief defense attorney Leonard B. Boudin that Ellsberg would report to the California court.

With the consent of government attorneys, Garrity continued to allow Ellsberg free in $50,000 bail.

Viet Bloc Wants Open Vote

WASHINGTON (NEA) — After the Oct. 3 presidential elections in South Vietnam, a strong bloc of very influential (anti-Communist) Vietnamese officials plans to launch a drive to amend the constitution of the republic to make it possible for members of the Viet Cong and other Communists to run for office.

It is believed that these men will attempt to extract a pledge of support from President Thieu for this plan as a part of the price for their support for his reelection.

These men, including some of the most powerful figures in the Saigon government, believe that giving Communists the right to run for office is the only way to end the war and bring peace to their troubled country.

They are much less confident of the results if the Viet Cong should systematically run Communists parading as non-Red liberals or as conservatives.

They expect that their group will gain a great deal of additional strength in the August and October voting. This will add considerably to their leverage with Thieu, assuming that he is re-elected, as seems likely at this time.

Proxy Santas

WASHINGTON — Progress being what it is in the toy-making business, I expect the nation's proxy Santa Claus have something real big in store for the kiddies come next Christmas.

so much to our sagging economy. You've got to keep men working. Besides, apparently there was some question as to the accuracy of the body count, and no doubt it was considered too gruesome to pile all the corpses in a football stadium for benefit of the TV cameras.

treating and testing the sleepwear would be expensive, and added that the standards were not "technologically practical."

Almost invariably allergy is at the root of asthma in children. Other things may contribute, but allergy is the basis. The problem is to find out what allergies are involved.

In general, yes to everything. The booklet will make it clearer to you, but briefly, hay fever is a seasonal thing, allergy related to pollen that appears in the late summer and fall.

Flight Danger

The intensive heavy helicopter training program now underway in the Salt Lake City airport terminal area is causing concern among many Magic Valley pilots who have reason to fly into and out of that section of Utah.

the Hill Air Force Base, the Ogden and the Salt Lake Terminal Areas showing routes to be taken by civilian planes on instruments and on visual flight rules into and out of the area.

While we can see the necessity for these flights — to train student pilots and to practice aerial refueling — we fail to see why the practice area has to be located at a point where it causes a potentially dangerous situation to civilian aircraft, both personal and commercial.

There is no doubt about it that all safety measures possible are being taken to eliminate the chance of an aerial tragedy involving a commercial plane or a light plane and a helicopter.

The Federal Aviation Administration has issued a warning to all light plane pilots that the "downwash and rotor vortice (of the heavy helicopters) could prove disastrous for light aircraft flying below or behind them."

But we believe the training area should never have been established so close to the busy Salt Lake City International Airport or the Ogden Airport. A few more miles in one of several directions would have eliminated the potential danger.

Selection of this training site is wrong. We do not know what can be done to remove the danger to civilian flying it causes but we do know the danger exists.

Civilian pilots are not happy with it. We suspect the military pilots have like feelings.

Pension Review

It is depressing for a worker who has spent a number of years with one employer to learn upon retirement that pension rights he thought he was accumulating either had evaporated or were less extensive than he thought they would be.

estimated 34,000 different pension plans which now exist. These plans cover 30 million Americans and contain assets of $130 billion.

A number of legislative proposals have been made to correct pension abuses. However, Congress could fall into a number of pitfalls in this unfamiliar area which could hamper instead of help the private pension field.

The pension field has grown rapidly in recent years and has become a major influence in the changing American economy. It is not surprising that such rapid growth should bring errors and abuses which ought to be corrected.

It will be difficult to fashion safeguard legislation which could accommodate itself to the Corrections, however, must be brought about with care and insight if the future of pension programs is not to be jeopardized by overly restrictive federal compulsion. These pension plans must be permitted to continue to operate in the free enterprise manner.

Signs Of The Times

A friend walked into the newspaper office the other day and handed us a note. At the head of it were the words — "did you see this one?" Well, we couldn't remember whether we had seen it or not but in reading it we thought it was interesting enough to pass on to you folks.

Dean Goodwin, chairman of the Fire Truck Fund at Delta Junction, Alaska. You will remember that we carried a small story to the effect the folks up that way were asking for Betty Crocker coupons for a badly needed fire truck. They required 5 million of them.

So here it is — as handed to us by our friend who signed his name "Over Thirty" and didn't really want his real name to appear — not because of the content of the item but because (we guess) that "Over Thirty" signature just had to be true.

Several Twin Falls residents contributed, apparently, yet the total received on the appeal now total only 1,700,000. The writer expressed her heartfelt appreciation and thanks from the community of Delta Junction. The contract with General Mills expires in January, 1972. So the folks need more help and will appreciate it. They can also use S and H Green Stamps and Top Value Stamps.

"I heard a good one the other day and would like to share it with you. A hippie couple were walking down the street. They both had long hair and were dressed in typical hippie attire — complete with beads, sandals and Indian headbands.

If you want to help then just send the stamps and coupons to Mrs. Goodwin.

The fellow said to the girl: "I'm going over and pick up my unemployment check. Then I'll drop in at the university to see what's holding up my check for my federal education grant. After that I'll pick up our food stamps. Meanwhile, you go over to the free clinic and check your tests, pick up my new glasses at the health center, then go to the welfare department and apply for another increase on our eligibility limit.

GIVEAWAY DEPT: I have been invaded by kittens lately. Would like to find homes for one white male, one yellow and white female and one grey and white male and one black female. You can pick them up at 605 West Avenue B in Jerome or can call 324-4497 and ask for Geraldine Tanner.

"Then I'll meet you at 5 o'clock at the Federal Building for the mass demonstration against the rotten establishment."

We have four puppies to give away. The mother is part "Peke" and Cocker. Two natural bob tailed males and two females. Call 829-5157 at Hazelton.

STAMPS NEEDED We were handed a note from Cheryl Stewart, assistant to Mrs.

Two dogs to give away. Both German Shepherd-Collie mixture. Are medium size dogs and are about two years old. Quite well trained. They are on Route One, Twin Falls, but call 734-2317 for directions.

Asthma

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My three-year-old granddaughter has been bothered with asthma. The doctor told her mother she had an allergy to some things, but he didn't mention cats.

be thoroughly cleaned to get rid of cat hair and dander; vacuum the rugs and go over bare floors with an oil mop.

She has this large cat, which goes out and eats rats that come up from the sewer, leaving only the tail. The cat comes in the house and she kisses it on the mouth. The little girl's mouth is full of sores and she cries when she eats.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm enclosing 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope for your booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." Will the booklet help distinguish between hay fever and sinus trouble? Can a layman tell the difference? Or should I see a doctor? — Mrs. G.S.

I don't think the mother told the doctor she had an old ally cat that eats sick rats. — Mrs. E.S.

In general, yes to everything. The booklet will make it clearer to you, but briefly, hay fever is a seasonal thing, allergy related to pollen that appears in the late summer and fall.

Animal danders are so prominent among allergens that I would not have an animal or bird of any kind in a household in which a child is struggling against asthma.

"The sinuses may very likely be involved during the hay fever season — a sort of "temporary sinus trouble" in that case.

In this case the cat could well be part (no, I don't mean all) of the trouble, and I would be particularly suspicious of the youngster's sore mouth. The offending factor could be in the cat's saliva. This can be on the cat's fur or skin, and if the youngster kisses the critter, traces of the saliva can be picked up. It doesn't take much. I recall an instance when a playful puppy ran across the street and licked the face of a little girl. The allergic reaction was so swift and severe that the child needed an injection of adrenalin to overcome it.

Sinus disease can, of course, come from allergies of quite other varieties, as well as from other causes. Infection, injuries to the nose, polyps. To diagnose such matters, you'll need your doctor's help. It's not wise or profitable to make the mistake of oversimplifying "sinus trouble," and that sometimes may apply to hay fever, too. A layman may not be aware that his problem is allergy.

I cannot say that the tramp cat is responsible for the troubles of the little girl in today's letter, but the doctor certainly should be told about it. Meantime I would get rid of the cat — in a way that least disturbs the youngster's feelings. Then the home should

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have read that a serum could be made from the patient's sputum to fight infections due to bronchial asthma, when everything else fails. Is there a doctor in my area who would do that? — N.H.

It is not a serum, it is a vaccine that is made from the patient's sputum. Most clinical laboratories will prepare such vaccine according to a physician's specification if he thinks the treatment is suitable for the case. It's not an inexpensive procedure, usually.

New Tension

WASHINGTON — There is increasing concern in Inner White House circles over intensifying strains and stresses with Nationalist China arising from the spectacular visit-to-Peking plan.

suggested that, in addition to a special good-will mission by Rogers, President Chiang Kai-shek be invited to come to Washington. However, doubt has been raised regarding his physical ability to make such a trip — even on President Nixon's personal plane which would be dispatched to transport him.

Urgent steps are being pondered to ease tensions and frayed relations.

The Generalissimo is 84 and enfeebled.

Foremost under consideration is a special mission to Taiwan by Secretary of State William Rogers to do two things: (1) Explain in detail President Nixon's policy and aims in going to Red China; (2) give President Chiang Kai-shek personal assurances there is absolutely no change in this country's commitments to defend Nationalist China, and the U.S. will strenuously resist any attempt to oust the Taiwan government from the United Nations — as is demanded by Peking.

One particular reason being advanced for the advisability of Secretary Rogers going to Taiwan is to forcefully underscore the Administration's unswerving commitment to existing treaties to militarily defend Nationalist China.

Apparently, the FDA was out to lunch. Anyway, a year later Swartz was able to order the same tunnel at the annual trade fair of the Toy Manufacturers of America.

This is felt especially important because of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's recent, unanimous approval of a proposal repealing the 1955 Congressional resolution empowering the President to employ U.S. forces to defend both Taiwan and a group of small islands held by the Nationalists off the Chinese mainland. At that time, these islands were under heavy Red bombardment and loud threats of assault.

A month later, the FDA banned the tunnels, but left it up to the manufacturers to so inform distributors and retailers. It is not reported the toy makers broke all records for swift communication in breaking the bad news.

While the repeal measure, sponsored by Sens. Charles Mathias, R-Md., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, both militant doves, will be passed by the full Senate, its prospects in the House are very different. Its chances of enactment there are dim.

Draft bill passage prospects better

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Prospects for quick passage of the draft bill when the Senate returns in September from a month's vacation have improved despite threats of an interminable filibuster by opponents.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, although angered by the removal of his amendment setting a nine-month timetable for withdrawal from Vietnam, said he favored a quick vote on the measure when the Senate takes it up again Sept. 13. Congress started a summer recess at the end of business today.

Some had thought the majority leader would try to hold the draft bill hostage indefinitely until President Nixon sets a date for withdrawal of remaining forces from Indochina. But Mansfield—although keeping his options open—evidently has shunned that plan.

Managers of the bill, despite a personal plea for action from President Nixon, failed to win the required unanimous consent from the Senate Thursday to put a strict time limitation on the measure so it could be passed before the recess began.

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, an outspoken opponent of conscription, objected to every request for a time limit. Gravel has vowed to be in his seat when the Senate returns and block the bill by any parliamentary means available.

However, the Senate stopped a Gravel anti-draft filibuster last June. And without Mansfield's backing, cloture probably will be imposed again even though a two-thirds vote must be mustered.

The draft automatically expired July 1 and President Nixon cannot conscript men into the Army until Congress sends a new bill to his desk.

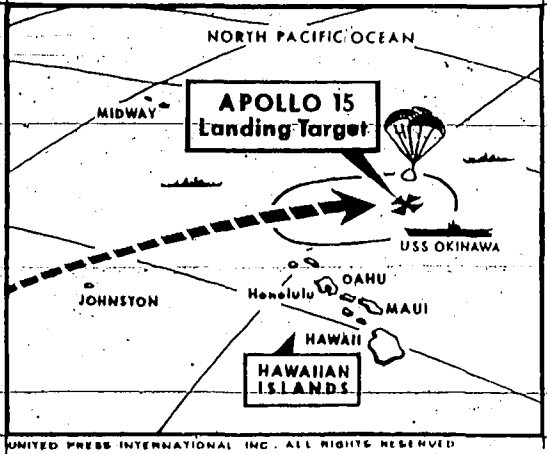

The Selective Service System went ahead with its annual lottery Thursday to choose which 19-year-olds go first on the assumption that the Senate blockade will be lifted eventually.

DAUGHTERS OF APOLLO 15 astronaut Alfred M. Worden take different views of father's spacewalk Thursday. Alison, 11 above right, couldn't stifle yawn but Merrill, 13, was absorbed in event. Scott, Irwin to join in rock check Monday

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Scientists will begin sifting through the rocks from Hadley Rille Monday and they expect David R. Scott and James B. Irwin to be right there with them.

Scott and Irwin collected between 170 and 180 pounds of moon rocks near the soaring Apennine Mountains of the moon.

"We expect the last shipment of rocks in by Sunday and will begin processing on Monday morning," said Michael B. Duke, curator of the Lunar Receiving Laboratory at the Manned Spacecraft Center.

The astronauts splash down Saturday in the Pacific Ocean and will skip the postflight quarantine that was dropped after Apollo 14 in February.

"We expect to have the crew highly involved with the preliminary analysis stage," Duke said. "I think the general feeling of the scientific community is that Scott and Irwin are scientists and it will be difficult to keep them out of the laboratory."

Scientists particularly were interested in a rock Scott found near Spur Crater. He said it was "something close to anorthosite, a rock they think might have been a building block of the moon's crust 4.5 billion years ago."

"If they have returned a fairly large piece of uniform crystalline rock, I think there will be a lot of very happy people," Duke said.

The astronauts also drilled an 8-foot hole in the moon and brought back the core. Moon samples are inspected in glass chambers filled with nitrogen gas which does not react with lunar material.

Early analysis at the Space Center facility will take about 45 days before samples go out to the 265 scientists selected to study the Apollo 15 rocks.

Duke said Apollo 15 probably would tell scientists more about a wider range of lunar history than any other mission.

"Apollo 11 was an exciting in a sense because it was the first," he said. "However, the variety of rocks available at the Hadley site was staggering."

Detailed study of the Apollo 15 lunar samples will be supplemented by Alfred Worden's orbital photography and the chemical analysis of 16 percent of the lunar surface made by Endeavour's instrument package.

PW return tale brings denials

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—A newspaper report that North Vietnam would release 183 POWs to be flown home to the United States next week brought a chorus of denials Thursday from the government and airline involved but left questions unanswered about what actually happened.

The newspaper, Dagens Nyheter, the largest morning newspaper in Scandinavia, refused to back down and reiterated the story was correct. Boorje Dahlqvist, general news editor, said the information had been carefully checked before it appeared in print.

A spokesman for Scandinavian Airlines System (SAS) first confirmed the report but later Thursday the company said that was a mistake.

The later official SAS statement said only a "private person" had asked about the possibility of flying 187 persons from Laos to Rome but later cancelled the request. Unanswered was the question of who the private person was.

Knut Hagrup, SAS president, said the public relations man was erroneously confirmed the newspaper report lacked the background to handle "this sensitive thing in the middle of the night and no one regrets this incorrect statement more than he does."

Hagrup said the private person contacted the SAS representative in Frankfurt, West Germany. He said SAS did not take the request "too seriously and considered it a routine matter."

Another SAS spokesman, John Herbert, assistant public relations director, said Thursday night the person who contacted the company first wanted a plane to leave from Hanoi, North Vietnam, but then settled for one from Vientiane, Laos.

Pueblo aide says court denied data

NEW YORK (UPI)—The second in command of the USS Pueblo said Thursday many men withheld information from a Naval Court of Inquiry investigating the ship's capture by North Korea for fear of receiving bad fitness reports from the captain, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher.

Former Lt. Edward R. Murphy Jr., of El Cajon, Calif., who is appealing a "highly unfavorable" report Bucher gave him, said the captain was in a large part to blame for the "oversights, blunders and confused thinking" which led to the ship's capture.

Murphy's comments appeared in a book entitled "Second in Command" which he wrote with Curt Gentry after he resigned from the Navy. The book will be published Aug. 9 by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc.

Murphy said he told his story to the Naval court shortly after it announced its findings to White House aides who said President Nixon was "not satisfied that the whole truth had come out."

He said other officers and crewmen were not as open for fear of Bucher's reaction. "I do feel ... strongly that more than any other person ... Lloyd M. Bucher must bear the major portion of responsibility for the series of oversights, blunders and just plain confused thinking which ... closed off one after another of the alternatives that should have been available to us until we were finally, hopelessly trapped."

Cambodian asks peace

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Acting Prime Minister Sihanouk Sirik Matak left today on the first leg of a trip to the United States "to bring peace" to Cambodia.

When he left, Prime Minister Lon Nol took over the day to day running of the government and Defense Department for the first time since last Feb. 10, when he suffered a severe stroke.

Sirik Matak is scheduled to arrive in Los Angeles late today or early Saturday on a commercial jet from Bangkok. He will meet President Nixon at the White House Tuesday.

He is expected to ask for a guarantee of continued economic and military aid and American air support for the Cambodian army.

"The only aim of my mission is to bring peace to our country in order that we can live as a free country, with territorial integrity," Sirik Matak told an airport crowd of diplomats and Cambodian officials before leaving.

Moon camera 'had it'

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—An attempt to televise a solar eclipse from a moon-positioned camera has been abandoned but the homeward bound Apollo 15 crew was attempting today to shoot a lunar eclipse.

"That camera has had it," said Chief Flight Director Gerald P. Griffin at a Space Center briefing Thursday.

The $115,000 camera attached to the abandoned moon buggy quit suddenly Wednesday after beaming color views of Hadley Rille's barren basin back to earth for 12 minutes. Subsequent efforts to revive it failed.

Glancing behind them, the astronauts today will see the lunar eclipse much the same way as if they were standing on earth. Only, since they are closer, they will get a bigger picture.

Dr. Thornton Page, an astronomer at the Houston Space Center, said the astronauts would attempt to televise the eclipse this afternoon to replace the abandoned moon camera effort.

"The boys will be able to see a thin crescent earth and see a moon eclipse," Page said.

The moon eclipse will last from 2:46 p.m. EDT until 5:06

p.m. and will not be visible in the United States.

The shadow of the earth passing across the moon's face will be visible best from India and also can be seen from space.

Griffin said the "best analysis" of the camera problem indicated a transmitter failure caused the blackout.

The moon television would have perished following the moon eclipse. The 295-degree below zero readings that came when the sun sets on the moon would have finished the camera.

A-15 crew tidies up as splashdown nears

By JOSEPH I. MYLER, UPI Senior Editor

This was splashdown day minus one for the Apollo 15 astronauts as they plunged toward earth with a scientific fortune in new information about the moon and solar system.

Their command ship, bearing a treasure of moon rocks and photographs, was scheduled to drop into the Pacific at 4:46 p.m. EDT Saturday, about 316 miles north of Hawaii. The U.S. helicopter carrier Okinawa was standing by to pick them up.

For astronauts David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden, and James B. Irwin, splashdown will end a 12-day, $445 million expedition which happy moon scientists already are ranking among the great explorations of all time.

This was get-ready-for-homecoming day, tidying up, seeing everything was accurately stowed, checking instruments and supplies, and sacking out for nine hours in preparation for Saturday's re-entry rigors.

While the astronauts thus kept busy, scientists on earth started an inventory of Apollo 15's scientific achievements that will take years to complete.

Command pilot Worden Thursday made a 20-minute spacewalk—the first in deep space—to retrieve more than a mile of film from two cameras that had photographed a vast area of the moon in the six days he flew solo in lunar orbit.

Also aboard the command ship were the closeup pictures taken by Scott and Irwin during their three days of surface roving at the Apennine Mountain landing site beside the chasm of Hadley Rille.

The pictures taken by Worden in the most extensive photographic mapping ever made of the moon's front and back sides were in their magazines Thursday in a little instrument bay 18 feet from the command module's hatch.

Since this is part of the command-service module combination which will be jettisoned to burn up when the astronauts make their fiery return into the earth's dense atmosphere, Worden had to go out and get them. This he did Thursday morning at a moment when Apollo 15 was diving at 2,000 miles per hour toward the earth 196,000 miles below.

Using external handrails and footrests, he struggled 18 feet to the camera bay and returned with one of the magazines; he went back and returned with the second magazine; and then made a third trip.

Berlin good barometer of European tensions

By PHIL NEWSON
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Ever since Josef Stalin tried and failed to starve out West Berliners with his blockade in 1948, the divided city—110 miles inside East Germany—has been a fair barometer of European tensions.

It also has been a reflection of varying Soviet tactics not only as they affected Europe but also such other divergent subjects as Soviet relations with Communist China.

In March, 1970 the four occupying powers undertook their first serious attempt in 11 years to find a solution to the Berlin problem, particularly as it dealt with freedom of access.

In keeping with the city's barometric role, the snail-like progress of the talks has provided a reasonably accurate reading of the political atmosphere.
Last November a five-and-a-half hour meeting among the ambassadors of the Soviet Union, Britain, France and the United States produced a disappointing result.

In January, representatives of East and West Berlin agreed to a resumption of telephone service between the two sectors. But in March the Western Big Three cancelled a meeting with the Russians in retaliation for new East German obstruction of access roads to the city.

After a year the talks were at a standstill.

Then suddenly in a meeting on May 26 and another on June 7 hopes for agreement revived. The Soviets agreed to accept responsibility for guaranteed access of people and goods traveling between West Berlin and West Germany, instead of insisting as previously that such responsibility lay wholly within the rights of East Germany.
In return, the Western allies and West Germany agreed that West Germany would reduce its political presence in West Berlin while retaining its economic and cultural ties.
What it meant was that West German lawmakers no longer would meet in West Berlin to name a new West German president and that members of the Bundestag would refrain from various acts particularly

Unclaimed

TWIN FALLS—A beautiful German Shepherd is still unclaimed at the Twin Falls Dog Pound.

The female dog, obviously someone's well-trained and groomed pet, was picked up Wednesday morning in the vicinity of the Echo Motel, Kimberly Road. It is black and tan and wears a black collar, studded with silver-colored trim.

If it is not claimed by Monday, anyone interested can ask for her or she will be destroyed.

A LONG WAY FROM HOME, two visitors to Twin Falls pause in the city park, including Warren Gaddas, left, and Sophia da Alicia Wong, both of Hong Kong. They are part of a 15-member group of Civil Air Patrol cadets and escorts visiting southern Idaho as part of a nationwide program which brought people of 17 nations to the United States this summer. Gaddas, an American native born in New York City, is in the investment business in Hong Kong. He and Miss Wong are escorting a number of Hong Kong cadets on the tour.

No member earned the special weekly awards for losing two pounds or more in any one week, so the contest is continuing.

Mrs. Nelson Fredrickson, unit chairman, reported Mrs. George (Goldi) Young, Shoshone, is a patient at the Sun Valley Hospital and will later go to Houston, Tex., for back surgery.

Weekly meetings will continue at the home of Mrs. Dayley.

A Lovelier You HOW TO DIET AND LIKE IT

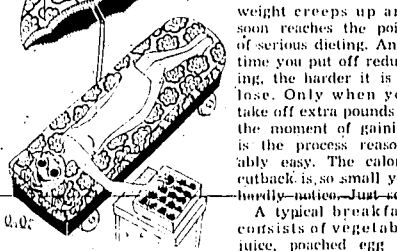

Along about now you hear women say, "I've gained weight but I refuse to worry until fall. I'm going to enjoy the rest of the summer."

Of course you and I know that tick is folly. What's to enjoy about 10 excess pounds around the middle?

Left unchecked, weight creeps up and soon reaches the point of serious dieting. Anytime you put off reducing, the harder it is to lose. Only when you take off extra pounds at the moment of gaining is the process reasonably easy. The calorie cutback is so small you hardly notice. Just eat a typical breakfast consists of vegetable juice, poached egg on lightly buttered toast, coffee. Menus can be varied by substituting cereal for toast, two slices of broiled bacon for an egg. The invariable is using any available sugar substitute and skim milk.

The main course at luncheon offers delectable salad - tomato stuffed with mixed vegetable or chicken and cucumber in aspic. The must here is dieter's dressing. In addition to salad, the menu may include cold clear soup, melba toast and fresh fruit.

At dinner you have carte blanche so long as you are sparing of mayonnaise, sauces, butter and sweets. Why not try the plan? You'll love yourself in the fall!

LEANER, LIGHTER AND LOVELIER

Here's a painless way for teens and adults to reduce! Just send for my leaflet, LEANER, LIGHTER AND LOVELIER. It includes menus for delicious meals and snacks; calorie counter and nutrition chart; diet shortcuts; spot reducers. For your copy write to Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: What does a single, normal, 24-year-old girl do when she looks masculine? I am 5 feet, 11 inches tall, but I am on the slim side—probably because I'm very athletic. I've always worn my hair short because I haven't the patience to handle a fussy haircut, and short hair is more convenient for swimming, sailing and tennis. I wear practically no makeup and prefer tailored clothes.

I am friendly and have always been popular with boys and girls. I'm fairly intelligent (college graduate), I love fun, but I am seldom asked for a date, so I do what other dateless girls do—spend my time with the girls. I've been told no men ask me out because they think I am "for girls." A nothing could be further from the truth, but a girl can't wear a sign to that effect. So, tell me, Dear Abby, how do I solve my problem?

TALL, DARK AND LONESOME

DEAR TALL: Change your image. Get some expert advice on restyling your hair, how to apply makeup artistically, and go in for more feminine attire. Come up with some tickets or an invitation somewhere and invite a man to be your escort. It won't solve your problem overnight, but it's a good beginning. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: I just read that letter from "VITO IN NAPOLI" who reads your column in the Rome Daily American. Vito says he is of Italian royal blood and would like to meet an American lady who owns a late model automobile. Then he requests all interested ladies send a photograph of the automobile! Love that neapolitan sense of humor.

It just so happens I, too, have Italian royalty in my background. (Province of Roma.) I am 5 feet 5 inches tall and am a well-proportioned 130 pounds, have long, golden brown hair, light skin and dark Italian eyes. Vito says he is 32. I prefer my gentlemen about 10 years older. (Does he have a brother?)

Any eligible Italian bachelor or widower with honorable intentions who would like to meet a Binghamton N. Y. lady may send me his photograph together with his letter of introduction—written in Italian if he so wishes. I please!

CARA CLARA

DEAR ABBY: Four months ago I double-dated with a very good friend of mine. I'll call her "Joan." She had been going steady with this fellow for over a year so I wasn't surprised when she told me he had proposed to her that night. She said she was sort of expecting it but she didn't know when and naturally she was thrilled and excited and she said something about wanting me to be one of her bridesmaids.

Nothing more was said about it. The next thing I knew, two of my friends said they were going downtown to help Joan pick out the patterns for the bridesmaids' dresses. Now it turns out Joan is having six bridesmaids and I am not one of them.

Do you suppose she forgot she asked me? Should I remind her?

LEFT OUT

DEAR LEFT: No. She was probably carried away in the excitement of the moment, and when she came off Cloud Nine she either forgot she had asked you, or she changed her mind.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope!

Gem labor act said invalid

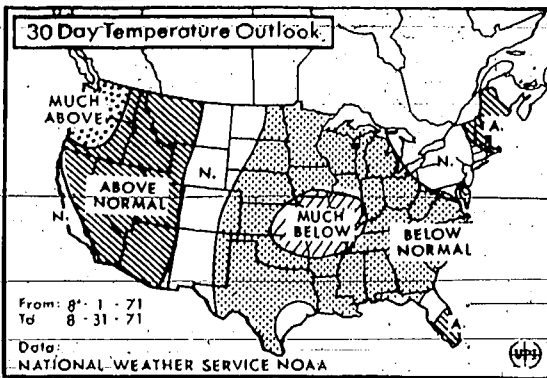

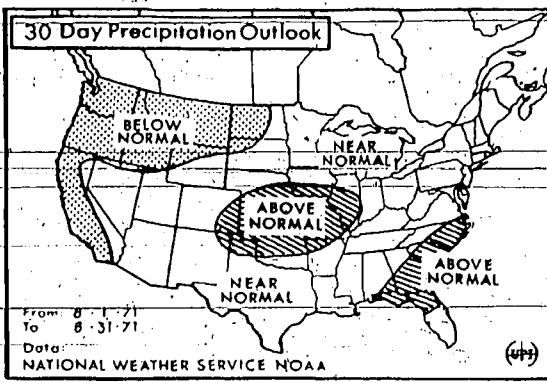

BOISE (UPI) — An attorney general's opinion said Thursday that Idaho's Agricultural Labor Act appears on its face to be unconstitutional. In an opinion for Jose Estrada, Caldwell, a member of the Farm Labor Board, Deputy Attorney General Warren Felton said there is "little or no likelihood that the Idaho Agricultural Labor Law will be held valid in the event of litigation."

"The presumption of constitutionality that attaches to a law which it has been passed accordingly has a special emphasis for this office," Felton said. "It is only in the rarest cases that the attorney general may take the contrary view and advise that a law is invalid."

Application of the law, Felton said, would almost certainly force the exercise of freedom of speech to farm laborers. It also may interfere with the rights of freedom of assembly and may deny equal protection of the laws.

As written, Felton said, the act effectively denies to farm workers the right to picket a right he said has been held to be "inherent and basic." While the act states that laborers may engage in "lawful strikes," Felton said that as a practical matter no picketing or strikes are legal under definitions of the act.

Mideast cease-fire divides Israel where Arab arms fail

TEL AVIV (UPI)—Little did the Arab world know a year ago that a Middle East cease-fire would serve to tear Israel asunder more than its armies ever had been able to do. The so-called war of attrition along the Suez Canal had united Israel. There was a common cause — survival. Few complained of paying the world's highest taxes, of living in poverty, of the inequities of the society. The truce that began one year ago — last Aug. 8 — has had the opposite effect. Now the Israeli government is under fire from many quarters and Jew is fighting Jew, sometimes in the streets. "The danger of internal division is sharper than the enemies who surround us,"

Prime Minister Golda Meir said recently. Protests are rising against a tax structure that eats up nearly half of a worker's paycheck, triples the price of a car and requires an Israeli to pay the equivalent of $170 in travel tax before leaving the country. The consumers price index is up to 1717 points from its base of 100 set in 1969. A one-pound beef roast costs $2, a chicken $1.30, a gallon of gasoline $1.30. Parents are complaining about a school tuition increase requiring them to pay $429 — the average workman's monthly salary — for a child to attend high school next year. Telephone operators, customs men, electricians and even doctors and hospital workers go on strike for more pay. Airport workers walk out in demand of a $7 monthly allowance for laundering their uniforms. The number of families officially estimated to be living in poverty has risen to 65,000 — or 2 percent of Israel's population of three million — and apartment blocks thrown up to alleviate the problem quickly become overcrowded.

Young married couples seize apartments meant for new immigrants, claiming there is a lack of low-cost housing for newlyweds. Soviet immigrants stage sit-down strikes on arrival because their assigned homes are not near relatives. Jews coming from oriental nations protest that they are discriminated against professionally, economically and socially by western Jews because of their origin. The oriental Jews comprise about half the population. Some have formed a Black Panther organization after the U.S. version to demonstrate against the alleged inequities and poverty. Police sprayed them with green paint in one of Jerusalem's biggest street riots.

The national religious party threatens to withdraw from the coalition government — unless religious schools are improved.

RODEO CLOWNS Ray Moser, shown here, and Tim Oylar, have been in many a tight fix during the National High School Rodeo rescuing the youthful cowboys from the bulls. So far, they have done their job well and none of the cowboys have been hurt, although Oylar took a high ride through the air when he was hit by a bull. Here Moser grabs the bull rope while keeping a hand out if the bull turns.

Idaho CAP due planes

TWIN FALLS — CIVIL Air Patrols, including the Idaho Wing, will be utilizing 248 light single engine aircraft declared excess by the U.S. Army recently.
Capt. Ray Crandal, director of information, Idaho Wing, said here today, Idaho's CAP forces will be supplemented by three light aircraft for expansion of the air search capabilities sometime this year.
The planes, Cessna O-1A Bird Dogs, are similar to those flying forward air control missions in Vietnam. Some CAP wings will also receive DeHavilland built U-6A Beavers, designed to carry a crew of two and eight passengers.

Class start set

FAIRFIELD — Camas County schools will open on Aug. 25 according to Supt. Harold Stroud.
High school registration is planned from 1 to 4 p.m. Aug. 23. He said the bus runs will be similar to last year.
Federal funds have purchased a new dishwasher for the hot lunch program. Mrs. Zahner Edwards will be cook with Mrs. Dora Lee assisting.
Bus drivers this year will be Mrs. Jack Lee, Wayne Cox, Dee Edwards and Charles Packham.
An addition is being built onto the vocational-agricultural shop at a cost of about $3,500. The labor is being donated by students and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Conates have donated $1,000 toward the cost of the building, Stroud said.
Eugene Sullivan, who comes here from Iowa, will be the only new member of the faculty and will replace Victor Gormley who has resigned to further his education.

Burning limits studied

PAUL — Regulations on burning probably will soon be in effect in Paul, after the second reading of an open burning ordinance at the Paul City Council meeting Wednesday night.
The ordinance allows fires for use in preparation of food, campfires and recreation purposes, but all must be controlled by responsible persons, according to Mayor Harold Wilson.
Readily combustible rubbish produced by a household may be burned on the property where it was produced if no pickup of the rubbish is available, Mayor Wilson added.
To do any open burning a permit must be obtained and must be constantly attended. Junked autos are not to be burned on Saturdays and Sundays and must be burned at a location designated by the council.
Councilmen approved a plat for the Ralph Desel Meadow Brook Sub-division located on west edge of Paul on Highway 25. This sub-division eventually will be annexed by the city of Paul, the Mayor said. All subdivisions within one mile of the city limits must be approved by the council, he said.
Mayor Wilson received a certificate of appreciation from the Association of Idaho Cities for serving as chairman of the get acquainted barbecue June 17 during the Association of Idaho Cities Convention.
It was announced Mayor Wilson had been appointed as Association of Idaho Cities liaison official to serve on the water and sewerage plant operators certification board for a term of one year, commencing last June 22.

Demonstrations, performance and showmanship will conclude with a fat stock sale at 2 p.m. Saturday.

SHOSHONE — The Magic Valley 1971 fair season opened today with the Lincoln County Fair, which usually is the first in the series of county fairs held throughout August and early September.
A parade and tractor driving contest kicked off events in Shoshone, with sports and foot races scheduled for early afternoon. At 2 p.m. today the fitting and showing and quality judging for dairy, beef, sheep and swine was held.
A musical jamboree is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today. Saturday's events begin at 9 a.m. with the livestock judging contest. The fitting and showing and quality for horses is set for 10 a.m.

There are not as many 4-H projects entered in the fair this year, according to Mrs. Jeanne Annett, Lincoln County home economist.

500 acres burn in Minidoka
SHOSHONE — Three new fires were reported Thursday to the Shoshone district office of the Bureau of Land Management, according to Wallace Fixsen, fire control officer.
The largest of the fires burned 500 acres of RLM land in Minidoka County. The other two were on the south edge of Shoshone. All were man caused, Fixsen said.
He said there were some lightning strikes during the night, but no report of new fires had been received this morning at the Shoshone office.
Four range fires charred 603 acres Wednesday in the district. The largest blaze, eight miles north of Jerome, burned 600 acres. One load of aerial retardant was dropped by plane on the fire, he said. This one and two other fires were man caused. The other fires occurred north of Shoshone Falls in the Devil's Corral area and by King Hill.

Water debate rages
BELLEVEUE — City council members will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday to settle debates over who has a right to use excess water from the Bellevue system. Mayor Claude Ballard said today.
At the council meeting Thursday night, several residents protested use of the overflow water by Worley Head. The group said an agreement dating back to 1965 gives a group of landowners the right to utilize overflow water from the Bellevue system. Head is not among those involved in the agreement, the protesters said.
Mayor Ballard ordered there be no use of the excess city water until after the Tuesday night meeting when some form of contract can be drawn up. He ordered the city's overflow water to run unrestricted until after that time.
Another water matter discussed Thursday involves an initial step toward a bond issue for expansion of the city's water system. Council members authorized JUB Engineers, Boise, to draw a contract for preliminary studies of new lines to handle the overflow water. Bellevue uses a spring for water. The present system uses only part of the spring's supply.
Mayor Ballard said the city hopes to have an engineering study completed for a bond issue to city voters sometime next year to finance expanding the water system.
In other business, the city discussed zoning regulations and asked the city attorney to prepare a zoning ordinance. In the meantime, building permits must be approved by the city council for all new construction. Permits will be issued at a fee of $3.50 each, pending adoption of a city zoning regulation.

Gem permit need told
TWIN FALLS — All organizations, individuals or groups planning on operating food booths or concessions at the county fairs in south-central Idaho must have Idaho Health Department permits before opening, according to Dr. Wayne B. Carte, medical director, South Central District Health Department.
Dr. Carte said the state law requires an application for, and the issuing of a permit, before opening for business.
Applications can be obtained for Blaine, Lincoln, Shoshone and Gooding counties at the Jerome County courthouse; Cassia and Minidoka counties at the Cassia County courthouse; and for Twin Falls County at the Twin Falls City Hall Building.

TF jurors selected
TWIN FALLS — Names of the first 100 jurors who will serve under the new Idaho jury selection system in Twin Falls County have been drawn and qualified for duty, clerk of the district court, Harold Lancaster said today.
The selection of 50 to 55 jurors for initial trials in the Fifth Judicial District Courts of Judge Theron W. Ward and Judge James M. Cunningham have been selected from the 310 qualified jurors who have been drawn and verified for service. Lancaster said the 310 names were drawn from the qualified jurors wheel and questionnaires sent to all. There was only one duplication, he said, and two others were excused, one because of blindness and another who lives 25 miles from Twin Falls and does not drive a automobile.
Lancaster said he feels the new selection method is a good one although it involved several months of hard work to put the method into operation. He said most of the names of new prospective jurors coming to the attention of the district court staff in the future will probably come from the drivers' license bureau as new individuals are licensed.
The list for the July, 1971, term in the fifth district includes residents from all parts of the county, some living as much as 25 miles from Twin Falls and others living within one mile. Those serving on jury duty will be paid 10 cents per mile for driving to and from the courthouse on official duty.
Lancaster said the jurors selected for Judge Ward's division of the court include Kathryn A. Anderson, William T. Armstrong, Janet M. Barbour, Louis L. Basso, Alwyn William Bubb, Edna H. Church, Alfreda M. Dickinson, Wanda M. Fajon, Eldon E. Flto, Marie L. Fuller, Earl O. Fullmer, L. Gillespie, Richard V. Graves, Richard S. Gregory, Lawrence M. Hall, Glenna B. Havenner, Isabel B. Richards, Willis D. Smith, Earl R. Sorenson, Mrs. B. F. Vice, Charlene Vollmer, Edna Wadsworth and Ruby Joe Woods, all Twin Falls.
Others selected for Judge Ward's court include Joseph W. Beard, Fred E. Fender, Judy A. Kadlec, Sandra Reinhardt, Cleo P. Thompson, Bert Redd, and Kaye A. Wall, all Kimberly; Irmgard Cato, Mary L. Compton, Edwin A. Dalos, Vera Easterday, Mary Ellen Nelson, Fred Paul Schaar, Gary L. Whiteley and Ivan H. Winn, all Buhl; Henry Gandiaga, Castelford; Louis Victor Hranac, Murtaugh; Ralph W. Air pollution index 108

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District of the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period ending at 9 a.m. today.
Federal pollution regulations say pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms over any 24-hour period, and should not be permitted to rise above 240 micrograms for even a short period of time.
This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution. Burning as permitted by law should be curtailed when the air is poorly able to disperse pollutants.

Marshal appointed

FAIRFIELD — Fred Marloff, new Fairfield city employee, wears several hats. He is not only city marshal and night watchman, but also is in charge of maintenance of the water department, streets and park in the community.
For good measure, he also acts as dog catcher. Marloff, who drove truck for Intermountain Freightlines out of Twin Falls the past two years, replaces Zahner Edwards who held the position for more than 30 years.
The new city employee was a maintenance and repair man for Sears for four years. He and his wife and their five children have moved into a house in Fairfield owned by Camas County.
The city council has purchased a pickup truck to be used by Marloff instead of paying him mileage for use of his own vehicle.
Harold Stroud, council member, said the city received 23 applications for the job.

Air route sought

TWIN FALLS — Hughes Air West will make application for a route change which would, if approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board, provide year-around direct non-stop jet flights from San Francisco to Twin Falls and return.
At the same time Air West officials are also protesting an application by Western Airlines for a once-a-week winter flight from San Francisco to Twin Falls for the ski season. This application is also being protested by United Airlines, it was learned in Twin Falls today. Along with the protest against Western's application, Air West also requested permission to initiate a similar weekly winter flight.
The plans which call for Air West to ask for permanent service from San Francisco direct to Twin Falls on a year-around basis will be discussed in Twin Falls Monday at a special session at the Holiday Inn. Speaking will be Don Cooper, Idaho sales manager for Air West. Attending will be members of the Twin Falls City Council, the county commission and the city-county airport commission.
Cooper, at that time, will ask official backing from the local officials relative to Air West's plans and applications. City Manager Jean Miller will preside at the special Monday noon meeting.

Decision said no real shock

BOISE (UPI) — The chairman of the Food Producers of Idaho said Thursday the opinion from a deputy attorney general that the Idaho Agricultural Labor Act appeared to be unconstitutional, came as "no real shock."

tion said there was "little or no likelihood that the Idaho Agricultural Labor Law will be held valid in the event of litigation."

Jim Treverbaugh, director of Hotline, said an attorney general's opinion which said youths under 21 could not be admitted to hospitals without parental consent had caused "unfolding grief and agony."

"We felt that the act could be rewritten later if it became necessary," he added.

He added, "It is only in the rarest cases that the attorney general may take one contrary view and advise that a law is invalid."

The winning player should pay attention to the bidding in deciding what to do.

If today's hand were to be played in the final round of the blue ribbon pairs, the chances are that every South player would play and make four spades by finessing against East's queen.

The reason why all these experts would play for the 3-1 spade break is that they would assume that the vulnerable two-heart overall showed a six-card suit. Therefore, East would have three more cards outside the heart suit than West would and the odds would favor a 3-1 trump break.

What do you do now?

A-Bid four diamonds. If you want to take full control, bid four no-trump, but four diamonds is better. In any event, you are on your way to a slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION

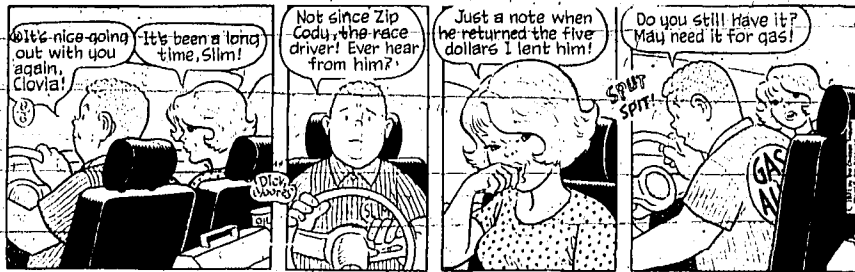

You bid four diamonds. Your partner bids four no-trump. You bid five hearts to show your ace and he bid five no-trump. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

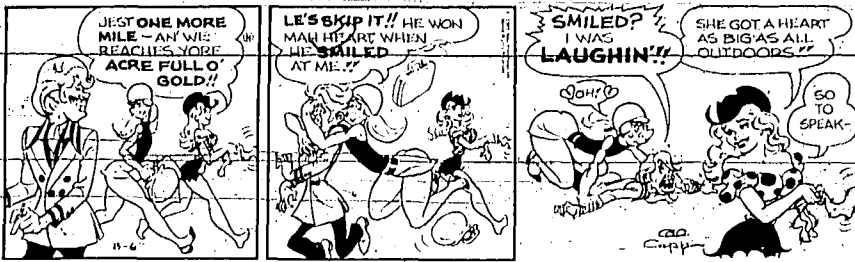

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There is an old rhyme that dates back to the days of bridge. It goes: "Eight ever, nine never." This means with a combined holding of eight cards in a suit, you should always finess for the queen while with nine, you should play for the drop. That was a pretty good rule in bridge, since you would have little information about the division of the other suits. It is also a very good rule in contract when you have obtained little or no information from the bidding or the early play. The "ever" part is generally correct when you hold eight but the "never" part when you hold nine is not too much of a good thing

Airman's death probe continues

GOODING — Investigation is continuing into the death of an airman who died March 21 when his car plunged 320 feet into the Malad River Gorge near Tuttle, according to Gooding County Sheriff Earl Brown.

S. Sgt. Charles S. Booker died when his car rolled 18 feet from a parking area over the canyon edge. His wife, Nancy, was out of the car at the time.

A coroner's inquest determined that Booker's death was caused by a "possible accident."

Brown said Mountain Home Air Force Base investigators are interviewing people who knew Sergeant and Mrs. Booker, and that insurance company investigators are conducting their own investigation.

According to Brown, Booker was stationed in Thailand at the time his wife insured him for double indemnity. Booker's accident occurred about a week after he returned to Mountain Home, he said. His office is waiting for the reports from the insurance company and the Air Force, the sheriff said.
