Idaho prisoners cool after riot

By LINDY HIGH and KIP RUTTY
BOISE (UPI) — Inmates at the century-old Idaho State Prison were quiet but still officially out of control today following a riot which ended only after the warden conceded to the convicts' demands.
A Burley convict, David Bortz, sentenced for issuing a check with insufficient funds, was stabbed and removed only after guards disputed over whether to open the doors for the wounded man. Bortz was in critical condition at St. Luke's Hospital.
The 215 inmates firebombed four buildings and stabbed two fellow convicts Tuesday night before agreeing to return to cells for a head-count.

Then, with the permission of Director of Corrections Raymond May, they left their cells again to meet in the prison yard, armed with knives removed from the prison kitchen and 24-hours worth of prescription drugs taken from the hospital.
The incident included charges by Ada County Sheriff Paul Bright that May, a 30-year veteran of the federal prison system, cowed to the rioters.
Bright, ordered off the wall by May at the request of prisoners earlier in the evening, confronted the warden at a news conference and alleged that but for May's decisions the riot would have been controlled.

"Captain Howard of the Idaho State Police had this riot under control but you pulled guards off the walls when the prisoners started shouting," Bright said. "Taxpayers dollars are going up in flames because you want to play footsie."
May, who arrived after the riot began, said he felt the shots and the two ministers of terror used in an attempt to quell the disturbance added to, rather than controlled, the incident.
Angered by record hot weather and closure of a 12-foot incomplete tunnel discovered Sunday, the convicts burned the social service building, the dry cleaning plant, the hospital, and a long building housing the laundry, recreation hall, hobby crafts area and shoe repair shop.

The fires started 15 minutes after Charles Rice, Boise, sentenced for lewd conduct, was stabbed while in the television room.
One of the guards who declined to be identified said Rice often served as a "scapegoat" and said Bortz, an inmate hospital technician, was wounded when convicts entered the hospital for the drugs.

Voters oust solons

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Voters in district 30 gave the boot Tuesday night to State Sen. Fisher Ellsworth and Rep. Aden Hyde, marking the first time voters have successfully exercised the recall provisions against state legislators.
The final returns from all 17 precincts show 1,785 persons voted to recall Ellsworth, 1,547 to retain him, and 1,765 voted to recall Hyde and 1,511 to retain him.
A simple majority was all that was required for the two legislators, who voted for the controversial legislative pay increase during the last session of the Idaho legislature.
The recall of the two legislators marks the first time in modern memory that voters in Idaho have exercised the recall provisions successfully to kick a legislator out of office.
Last year, voters in Lewiston ousted six of the seven members of the city council, including the mayor, in a battle which began over annexation of the Lewiston Orchards.
Commenting on the election, Hyde said he was relieved, then added he did not think the people fully realized what they had done.
He said, however, "That is now immaterial as the people have spoken, and that is final."

Lanting flails ouster

By MIKE ROBERTSON
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — "I think the recalling of the legislators from the Idaho Falls area is a new low for state and local government and a gross misuse of the recall provision," William Lanting, R-Twin Falls, told the Times-News today.
He said Rep. Aden Hyde and Sen. Fisher Ellsworth were two prominent and capable legislators and "will be missed" in the legislature.
Lanting said the light recall vote indicates many people didn't vote and goes to show that injustice will prevail when a good number of people do not vote.
The recall provisions were not designed for this kind of use, Lanting said. They were made to recall measures or legislators for reasons of incompetency, not because constituents disagree on the vote on a single issue. He said.
He added that general elections are the way to replace a legislator. If constituents disagree with the voting record of a legislator they should either run themselves or run somebody else whom they think would be better, Lanting said.
Lanting said that the recall provision may pop up anytime now and could even be used to recall any tax.
He added, "It is hard enough to find good people to run for legislative and government positions now because there is no money paid and so much time involved."
Such a recall could happen in Magic Valley, Lanting said.
"I don't believe it will happen here, but it could. We don't have many disgruntled people in the area or vocal minorities such as in Idaho Falls," he said.
Lanting said that the broader the scope of the constituency the less chance there is to recall someone. He said a county commissioner is far more vulnerable than the governor or a legislator.
Sen. John M. Barker, R-Idaho, told the Times-News the election wouldn't set much of a precedent in the state.
He said recall petitions had been used in Boise attempting the recall of county commissioners and the mayor.

New Demo

NEW YORK MAYOR John Lindsay today registered as a Democrat, switching his allegiance from the Republicans. The mayor's action was widely viewed as a prelude to his entering the Democratic Party nomination for President. (UPI)

J. Lindsay joins Demos

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor John V. Lindsay quit the Republican party today and became a Democrat, clearing the way for his possible bid for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.
Lindsay and his wife Mary formally changed their registrations from Republican to Democratic this morning.
Election Board President Maurice O'Rourke and election inspectors went to Grace Mansion where the mayor and his wife filled out the requisite forms to change their registrations.
It had been learned earlier that Lindsay would switch today.
Lindsay had for some time been expected to forsake the party with which he had been affiliated throughout his political career but which turned its back on him in the 1969 mayoral election.
Defeated in the Republican primary that year, Lindsay ran for re-election as a liberal-independent with Democratic reform support, winning with 41 per cent of the vote.
Lindsay became the 103rd mayor of New York in 1965 after serving four terms in Congress representing Manhattan's largely affluent "slit stocking district."
Lindsay has denied presidential aspirations.

British troops storm barricades

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — British forces stormed barricades in Roman Catholic areas of Belfast under heavy sniper fire today. Britain dispatched an additional 600 troops to Ulster to crush street fighting protesting internment without trial.
The toll of dead surpassed the numbers killed in any one year since current Roman Catholic-Protestant violence broke out in 1969. Street clashes claimed 12 lives in 1969 and 17 in 1970.
Soldiers surrounded the bakery, forcing snipers to scurry to rooftops from where they leveled steady fire at advancing troops.
The troops later seized the building. They found the dead gunman inside, an army spokesman said.
As soldiers fanned out hunting snipers they believed escaped from the bakery, an elderly woman, a black lace scarf on her head, waved a white fist and shouted — "Bloody British won't even let me get to mass."
"I know this is an unpopular measure, but we are not paid to take chances," a young British officer said. "We believe some of the gunmen are still in the area and until we know different we shall stay here."
In Britain, more than 600 troops of the first battalion, the Royal Fusiliers — one third of them recalled from leave a week early — moved out from barracks enroute to Ulster.
An army spokesman said about half the soldiers would travel to Northern Ireland by plane and the remainder by boat from Liverpool.
Troops supported by armored cars smashed barricades in the Roman Catholic area of Ballymurphy under fire from snipers and attacked by crowds who threw stones and taunted the troops.
Army spokesmen said two civilians were wounded, a British soldier wounded by a sniper and 35 persons rounded up for questioning in the Ballymurphy fighting.

Death inquiry brings silence

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News Writer
GOODING — A hearing held here Tuesday ended abruptly when two of the witnesses called refused to testify unless subpoenaed.
The informal hearing conducted by Oscar Arstein, Idaho commissioner of agriculture, was held to attempt to determine why 27 head of cattle belonging to Martin Sabala, Gooding rancher, died after being sprayed with a common livestock spray.
Svert Swenson, attorney for Dr. Richard A. Stapp, veterinarian, and Sabala requested that since the hearing could result in criminal prosecution witnesses testifying be granted immunity from prosecution.
Asst. Atty. Gen. Stewart Morris turned down the request and the two then refused to testify.
In an official statement to Arstein, Swenson said his client's were not declining to testify for fear of prosecution, but because civil liability action was possible and they did not want to testify until investigations are complete.
Arstein announced that a formal hearing will be held as soon as possible and witnesses would be subpoenaed. He inter told the Times-News because of lack of cooperation in Gooding he would not come to Gooding again, but the hearing would be held in Boise.

Night raid costs Viet unit 23 men

SAIGON (UPI) — A Viet Cong unit attacking in pre-dawn darkness with rocket-propelled grenades killed 10 South Vietnamese Rangers and wounded 13 others in Mekong Delta marshlands Tuesday, military spokesmen said today.
American B52s kept up their pounding of Communist troop concentrations and storage areas along the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).
In the Mekong Delta fighting, the Communist unit attacked a South Vietnamese 150-man company 45 miles northwest of Saigon before dawn. The Rangers, manning a position unprotected by barbed wire, called in artillery and helicopter gunship support and killed five of the attackers and captured five others. The sources said the attack was repulsed before the position was overrun.
Later in the day the Rangers, along with reinforcements, killed eight Communists and captured five other prisoners.

Cattle killer still mystery

GOODING — The rancher Gooding rancher Martin Sabala's 27 head of cattle died still a mystery.
Initial results of blood tests taken on the five cows who survived the spraying do not show any toxaphene present, Al Miller, Idaho Department of Agriculture pesticide investigator, said here Tuesday afternoon at a hearing on the cattle deaths held at the Gooding County Courthouse.
The spray used on the cattle contained toxaphene and lindane. Miller, telephoned, the pesticide laboratory in Boise minutes before the hearing began to learn the results of the blood tests. He explained that numerous tests "are taken and each result analyzed," so his report at the hearing was only on the very first test.
An unidentified toxic material was present in the initial test, Miller said. Some lindane also may be present but not enough to kill the cattle, since the spray contained only two and one-half per cent lindane, he said.
The early test results seem to rule out the possibility that the cattle died from a combination of hot weather and toxaphene, according to Dr. Willard Neilson, assistant state veterinarian, who also attended the hearing. Toxaphene, normally a mild toxin, can under certain conditions — such as extremely hot weather, become dangerous, he said.
Earlier, tests taken on the dead animals did not show evidence of phosphorus poisoning, the other principal possibility of cause of death.

Cyclist loses his arm

HAILEY — A Halley man, Robert Nicholson, 19, lost his left arm Tuesday evening when the motorcycle he was driving collided head-on with another vehicle south of Hailey.
Sun Valley Hospital officials said Nicholson is in satisfactory condition following the 6 p.m. accident on Broadford Road.
According to Blaine County Deputy Dan Norton, Nicholson was injured when his motorcycle struck an automobile driven by Virginia Logue, 17, also of Hailey.
Miss Logue told officers the cyclist came around the sharp turn on the wrong side of the road.
The investigation is continuing.

Rock musician fights own fire in California mountains

LYTLE CREEK, Calif. (UPI)—For the past six weeks, Phillip J. Kelley has fought fires and cleared brush in the San Bernardino Mountains as a member of a U.S. Forest Service crew.

The backbreaking job was not his choice. It was a condition of a four-month jail term for the 22-year-old rock music guitarist.

Some days, Kelley tramps across desolate, charred mountain ridges—the aftermath of a huge fire last year which he admits was his responsibility.

Called the Meyers fire, that holocaust last summer spread from a spark at Kelley's feet across 33,920 acres. It destroyed watershed valued at $16 million and it cost $1.25 million to put out.

Kelley talked about the fire this week at the Glen Helen Rehabilitation Center where he is serving his sentence. "I feel a lot of remorse to say the least," he said. "It was a nightmare."

Kelley and his rock group had just finished a recording session in Riverside.

"After the recording session, I stayed the night with my parents in Rialto. The next morning I went up to Lytle Creek to check on six marijuana plants I had there."

"I brought along some fireworks I had purchased in Denver when the band played there. I started shooting them off. I was careless. I wasn't thinking how dry it was."

"Suddenly, one caught in a bush close to me. It began to flame up. I tried stepping on it. That was a mistake. All that did was spread it out. In seconds it was too late."

Kelley ran back down the hill, the flames chasing him. His car got stuck on the dirt road. "The fire was coming down on me," he said. "I was terrified. I dug the car out with my hands."

On the way down the mountain in his car, he met a forest service crew on the way to fight the blaze he had started. He parried their questions, denying responsibility for the blaze, and they let him pass.

He was arrested the next night in a Palm Springs nightclub as he prepared to go on stage. He admitted everything to the police that night as the fire spread over the mountains.

"I felt pretty small, helpless. I prayed for rain, but the fire kept spreading. It was so hard to comprehend. I didn't know quite how to feel."

Since Kelley began his jail term, he has fought a 400-acre fire in Apple Valley. He was an assistant swamper, clearing a fire break on the perimeter of the blaze.

He also works in the charred land devastated by the Meyers fire.

Mayor Alioto will seek second term

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, blaming political enemies for a federal bribery indictment and other legal difficulties, announced Tuesday he will seek a second term in office.

With the election less than three months away, the Democratic attorney rates as a heavy favorite to win another four years as mayor of this city of 710,000.

"I've never ducked a fight and I don't intend to duck it now," Alioto told a luncheon gathering of his backers. "I want you to know that you've done such a great job that I wouldn't desert you at this hour."

Alioto, 55, the son of a Sicilian fisherman, took office three and one-half years ago after a whirlwind campaign. He quickly became a potential candidate for governor of California and even was talked of as a possible Democratic vice presidential nominee.

But a Look Magazine article linking him with Mafia figures, and disclosure of a fee-splitting arrangement in a Washington State anti-trust suit before his election, forced Alioto to rule out aspirations for higher office in 1968.

He filed a $12.5 million libel suit against Look, which ended with a hung jury. A second trial is scheduled next year.

A federal grand jury in Seattle this year indicted Alioto and two former Washington State officials on bribery and conspiracy charges for the fee-splitting arrangement.

Forester says study complete

OGDEN, Utah (UPI)—Regional Forester Vern Humre announced Tuesday a study of the Teton National Forest corridor area between Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks has been completed.

Humre said his result of the study the Forest Service is recommending and supporting transfer of some 23,000 acres for National Park Service Administration.

He said the transfer would enable the Forest Service to establish a national memorial parkway and develop recreational facilities.

Marine tried for running Accused

QUANTICO, Va. (UPI)—Marine Sgt. John M. Sweeney was dismissed Monday by the trial judge, Navy Capt. B. Raymond Perkins, who said the government had failed to prove Sweeney "quit his organization."

A slender, pallid youth with dark cropped hair, Sweeney is accused of violating the Uniform Code of Military Justice by "running away in the presence of the enemy" in February, 1969—and later "communicating with the enemy" by making statements disloyal to the government. He could receive life imprisonment on the latter charge, stemming from broadcasts he is alleged to have made urging American servicemen in Vietnam to desert the war and to desert if possible.

A third charge, of desertion, was dismissed Monday by the trial judge, Navy Capt. B. Raymond Perkins, who said the government had failed to prove Sweeney "quit his organization."

Key testimony Tuesday came from psychiatrists and concerned the West Babylon, N.Y., Marine's ability to "adhere to the right" during the period he is accused of the violations.

Dr. Felix Shatan of New York City testified that, in his opinion, Sweeney was unable to stand up to threats made by his captors. Shatan said when the captors held a gun to Sweeney's head and told him to make a statement, he was "absolutely" unable to do otherwise.

Shatan was one of three psychiatrists who testified on behalf of Sweeney Tuesday. The others were Dr. Peter Bourne of Atlanta and Capt. Kenneth R. Locke of Ft. Belvoir, Va.

All concurred Sweeney was unable to "adhere to the right," or do the correct thing, just before and during his captivity because he was suffering from severe emotional stress.

Bourne, who has treated many Vietnam veterans and who spent a year in the war zone as an Army psychiatrist, said he believed Sweeney was unable to form a plan to intentionally run away from the enemy.

Locke said he believed Sweeney "was convinced he was right" when he allegedly made statements urging American servicemen to desert.

changes his plea

SANDPOINT, Idaho (UPI)—Eugene Ross Hedlund, 35, Priest River, Idaho, Tuesday changed his plea from innocent to guilty on charges of kidnapping and rape.

District Judge Dar Cogswell ordered a pre-sentence investigation and set sentencing for Sept. 7.

Hedlund is accused of kidnapping Spirit Lake, Idaho, housewife March 27.

He escaped June 3 from State Hospital South, Blackfoot, where he had been sent for psychiatric examination. Hedlund made his escape shortly after being judged mentally competent to stand trial.

He was captured last month at Detroit and was returned here where he has been held under maximum security in the Bonner County Jail.

Judge Cogswell remanded Hedlund to the custody of Sheriff Robert Wilcox until sentencing.

Official offers comments

BOISE (UPI)—Comments on a recent decision concerning the rules and regulations dealing with waste discharge permits and subsurface sewage disposal systems were offered Tuesday by a state health official.

In response to inquiries of Vaughn Anderson, director of the Environmental Improvement Division of the Health Department, said that some citizens and industries were not aware that the board of health had taken action on rules and regulations designed to help clean up Idaho's rivers and streams and to prevent the spread of disease in water.

Airport fund aid bid to Congress

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners will ask members of Idaho's congressional delegation to support legislation to provide more than 80 per cent of the funds which would be required for purchase of crash, fire and rescue equipment at the Twin Falls City-County Airport.

The equipment, estimated by Fire Chief Bobby Bopp to cost above $100,000 for initial purchase, would be required under a proposed airport certification program being established nationwide.

Commission Chairman W. L. (Bill) Chaney said he had been informed the current proposed legislation under Public Law 91-

258 would call for federal aid in the program, up to 50 per cent. He said the congressional delegation will be asked to support amendments which would, among other things, provide federal aid for such airport upgrading in the amount of 82 per cent. The proposed legislation would also allow reimbursement for safety equipment purchased since May 21, 1970.

The law would affect all airports having scheduled airline stops. It is to go into effect May 21, 1972, and at that time the backers have indicated airports not being able to provide the necessary crash, fire and rescue equipment would lose airline service.

The commissioners decided to seek congressional aid after a meeting with O. A. (Gus) Kelker, chairman of the airport commission. Kelker told the commissioners the proposals have met stiff opposition nationwide and that scores of airports have reported they would be unable to raise the necessary money to purchase and maintain the equipment.

The commissioners said they felt the Twin Falls operation would end up "in the same boat" because "we just don't have that kind of money available." They expressed doubts the city of Twin Falls would be able to put up the necessary amount.

Kelker told the commissioners the 82 per cent federal backing would come from an aviation fund already established and contributed to by many facets of aviation. This is under the airport and airway development act.

Kelker said he had been informed that H.R. 7072 and Senate 1437, both having to do with the amendatory legislation concerning airports, have been reported out of committee and the full House and Senate are expected to consider them after the present recess. The provision to provide federal funds for such equipment will be contained in amendments to these two bills. The amendments will be introduced when the original bills go to the floor for a vote.

"We will ask our senators and representatives to support these two bills and also the amendments," Chaney said. He added he understood a move was also underway to put off effective date of the certification legislation until May, 1973 to give cities and counties more time to study the requirements.

At the present time the main runway at the local field is being replaced. Next year the taxiways and ramps will be replaced. The county is participating with the city, state and federal government in these projects through a two-mill levy in an airport fund. This levy will be in effect one more year and will then drop to the previous one mill.

"We promised the taxpayers that the levy would be at two mills only until these projects were completed and would then revert to the one mill," Chaney said. "We intend to keep that promise and such an expensive project as envisioned by proposed legislation would make it impossible for the county's one-mill levy to do much good in providing airport facilities."

Kelker said Commissioners Merl Leonard and Heber Loughmiller joined in the request for federal funds "which have already been paid by aviation in the form of taxes and which were originally earmarked, and should certainly go, for airport purposes."

First enrollment set Aug. 16-17

TWIN FALLS — Children who will be 6 years old on or before Oct. 15, or otherwise entering the Twin Falls elementary schools for the first time this year, are asked to register at the grade school nearest their home Aug. 16 or 17 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

School Supt. George Staudaher said enrollment may be by telephone or in person but he asked all new students to grade schools make certain to enroll during the two day period. He said this applies to persons moving to the district from other areas who will have children in elementary schools, or those coming into the district from the St. Edward's School. Based on this enrollment, the district will make arrangements for classroom space and teachers, Staudaher said, which makes it important the total enrollment be known at that time.

Classes will begin Aug. 30, he said. Other enrollment information will be announced later. About 300 pupils will be added to the system this year from St. Edward's, which has closed. Total enrollment of the district is estimated at 5,400.

Jerome alarms frequent

JEROME — Four alarms kept the Jerome Rural Fire Department on the run Tuesday.

The first call was received about 11:15 a.m. A swather was reported burning two miles west of Jerome. That fire was out when equipment reached the scene.

A stubble field five miles southwest of Jerome was reported burning about 3:50 p.m. That fire was extinguished thirty minutes later, a fire in a shed and woods across the road from the Appleton School was reported. Firemen put out that blaze.

Firemen said no major damage resulted from those fires.

Minor damage resulted to an air conditioner atop Sullivan's Music Center in Jerome, which caught fire about 6:45 p.m. Firemen said that blaze was in wiring to the machine. The fire was reported by Jerome Police Officer Ivan Altman.

Center opening planned Sunday

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Rehabilitation Center will open Sunday in the former Catholic convent, 130 Seventh Ave. E.

The newly organized alcoholic center will treat people from all walks of life, according to Ed Talbot, former Twin Falls resident, who heads a similar operation in Oxnard, Calif. There the centers are called 12-Step Homes.

John Glendon, Filer, who has been associated with Talbot in the homes in Oxnard, will be manager of the Magic Valley Rehabilitation Center. A cook and night man are still to be hired. All employees will be persons who have had alcoholic problems and understand what the patients are going through, Glendon said.

Bruce Glendon, chairman of the advisory board, said the public is invited to inspect the former convent between 1 and 7 p.m. Sunday. The house was left completely furnished after the teaching nuns at St. Edward's school left in June when the school closed.

All that is needed at the center are cooking utensils and food. Glendon said donations of canned goods and staples will be welcome and clothing also can be used. The house will be open from Saturday-noon-on-for anyone wishing to bring donations.

Advisory board members toured the former convent Tuesday night. The house has seven bedrooms, kitchen, dining room and reception area as well as a recreation room and laundry room in the basement. The room used as a sick room, Talbot said.

All patients coming to the home for alcoholic treatment are expected to pay for their room and board, Talbot said in eight years experience, about 75 per cent of those treated pay in full.

Retired chairman thanked

TWIN FALLS — A vote of thanks was issued today by the board of Twin Falls County Commissioners to retiring Magic Valley Memorial Hospital board chairman S.H. (Sid) Graves.

Commission Chairman W.L. (Bill) Chaney said the county is indebted to Graves for his eight years of volunteer service as a hospital board member and four years as chairman.

"In addition," he said, "the other commissioners join me in expressing our appreciation, to Sid Graves for his many other contributions to the community."

Death cause uncertain

TWIN FALLS — Coroner Cloyce Edwards said today he has been unable to establish a cause of death for Sherman L. Bellwood, 27, who was found dead Monday in his Twin Falls apartment.

He said all examinations and tests made in Twin Falls revealed no cause and tissue specimens are being sent to Denver for further tests.

Bellwood, son of District Judge Sherman J. Bellwood, Rupert, had been in a wheel chair since 1966 when he suffered injuries in an automobile accident.

Second World?

The spectacular success of the Apollo 15 moon mission has sent writers digging into the word barrel to try to find any superlatives that might have been overlooked in describing the spectacular successes of its predecessors, Apollos 11, 12 and 14.

But this is a good thing, for their use would only tend to obscure what was probably the most telling comment on the mission, one which, indirectly but appropriately, came from the mouths of children.

According to Mrs. David R. Scott, wife of the Apollo 15 command module pilot, their two children — Tracy, 10, and Doug, 7 — showed "very little emotion" as they watched their father roam about on the moon.

"They really don't think it as being out of the ordinary," she said. "Men have been flying in spacecraft as long as they have been alive."

Old-timers who can remember when men definitely did not fly in spacecraft, when there weren't even such things as artificial satellites that went "beep, beep," are brought up short by this kind of statement.

Yet the Apollo series, and the Gemini series and Mercury series before it, have worked subtle changes in all of us, whatever our ages and however much we might profess disinterest in or opposition to the whole idea of exploring space.

Even the New York Times, never wildly enthusiastic about manned space flight, has gone so far as to suggest that Apollo 15 has opened the door to the colonization of the moon.

came across 240,000 miles of space was that of "a friendly moon," it says, a place where men could walk and ride and work with ease.

"The moon now emerges as a potentially habitable new world with new resources. As such, it provides badly needed hope that the growing pressures on this overcrowded, overpolluted earth may yet be eased by technical progress that will make men at home on two worlds, not just one."

This would seem to be some little time in the future, however. The cost of sending men to the moon, maintaining them there and returning them to earth is still far, far in excess of the value of whatever new resources or growing room might be available there for the world's teeming billions.

There are other obstacles. The moon's lower gravity is both an advantage and a hindrance. Men grown accustomed to it, especially moon children who might be born and grow up in domed moon cities, could find themselves forever cut off from mother earth.

Space could work absolute physical changes as well as psychological ones in human beings.

Nevertheless, all this will come to pass someday. No matter what difficult times might face the space program in the immediate years ahead, the long-range future is one of continuing exploration, discovery and utilization. Having crossed the threshold of space, we can never completely return from it again.

And after all, men have always been flying in spacecraft, haven't they?

WASHINGTON — Tiny but crucially strategic Panama, with a long history of turbulence and military power seizures, appears headed for the unenviable role of being the next country to witness a coup attempt.

General Omar Torrijos, bombastic dictator since 1968, is in serious trouble. Deep festering economic, political and social grievances, and discontent are widespread among the 1.5 million Panamanians, and menacing rumbles of revolt and violence are rampant.

It's a toss-up how long Torrijos' Communist-tinged strong-man rule can weather the seething storm of mismanagement — corruption and iron-handed suppression of personal and other rights. Elections had been promised for 1970, but there isn't the slightest evidence they will ever be held.

Torrijos' increasingly precarious predicament explains the frequency and violence of his anti-U.S. fulminations and diatribes. His latest hostile yelp was a bald blackmail threat — to recognize Fidel Castro if the U.S. does not bow to various grandstanding demands, foremost among them giving Panama complete sovereignty over the Canal Zone and the famed waterway.

Washington has ignored this dire-sounding play. It's letting the tough-talking strutter stew in his own grease.

In 1903, Panama granted the U.S. unreserved occupation and control of the Canal Zone and the U.S.-built waterway. In 1967, after extended negotiations, the U.S. agreed to a new treaty settling up a joint U.S.-Panama authority to govern and operate the canal; also to construct an additional waterway, and to provide military security for both.

In 1970, this pact was truculently junked by Torrijos as "unacceptable" — to divert public outrage over his flagrant ditching of the pledge to hold elections.

Slightly yowling "Yankee, go home" is a time-worn demagogic dodge in Panama — and many other countries.

Torrijos has blatantly resorted to it for all it's worth. He's still trying to use this gimmick to save both his dictatorship and his neck.

It got no public notice, but the U.S. Congress has been bluntly warned about the ominous situation in the Panama Canal area.

This highly significant alarm was sounded by Congress's leading authority on this vital strategic water — Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., chairman of a House Appropriations Subcommittee.

In a special report which should have been widely publicized but wasn't, Flood called attention to the "hate-infected campaign now being waged by the military dictatorship of Panama against the U.S." and starkly charged "everything that government does seems to be aimed at advancing Soviet designs to gain control of the Panama Canal."

Going even further, Flood, whose exceptional sources of information regarding Panama are widely recognized as reliable and extensive, flatly charged Torrijos is planning anti-U.S. riots and disorders.

"From mounting evidence it is clear," declared Flood, "that preparations are being made for the perpetration of violence of the magnitude of that of Jan. 9-12, 1964, when Red-led Panamanian mobs attacked the Canal Zone and overwhelmed the zone police, requiring canal officials to call upon the U.S. Army to protect the lives of our citizens and the canal itself."

"I cannot too strongly stress that the position of the United States is in the gravest jeopardy, and our authorities must be fully alert to what is transpiring. Panamanian radicals, many of them outright Red revolutionaries, are planning widespread upheavals and sabotage. It is extremely urgent that our government take a proper stand in defense of our justly acquired, treaty-based rights, power and authority over the Canal Zone and the Panama Canal."

For that purpose, Flood vigorously urged prompt House enactment of the Panama Canal sovereignty resolutions sponsored by around 100 Congressmen and pending in the Foreign Affairs Committee.

"Approval of these resolutions is of supreme importance," held Flood. "If we don't act, we will profoundly regret it."

Torrijos seized power in October 1968 — eleven days after Dr. Arnulfo Arias was inaugurated as President. He had been elected in May after an uproarious campaign in which both sides charged widespread fraud and corruption. Arias was openly a leftist, and Torrijos, then a lieutenant colonel in the Panama National Guard, the country's armed force, staged a coup to "restore constitutional rights and democracy."

Since then, he has ruled as an iron-fisted dictator, and Panamanian conditions have steadily deteriorated.

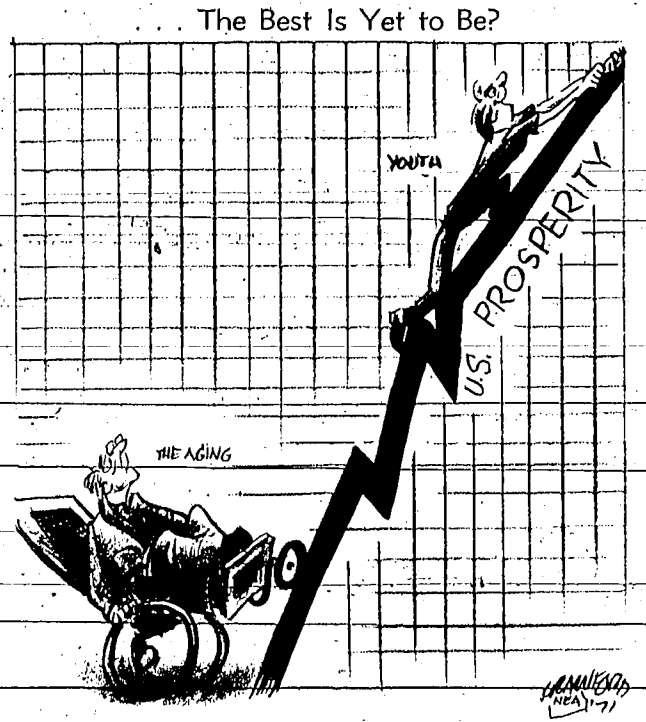

Sen. Robert Dole, Kansas, Republican National Chairman, is being advised by other Republican members of Congress to disregard carping gripes from GOP governors.

That's the burden of a letter sent Dole by a group of Republican congressmen headed by Rep. William Schorle, R-Iowa, a leading conservative and forceful Administration supporter. It was Schorle's idea to slap back at the criticizing GOP governors, and he drafted the letter to Dole and circulated it among House colleagues.

The joint letter counsels Dole to ignore the squawks and to "keep up the good work that both you and MONDAY (Republican weekly newsletter) are doing." Other highlights are:

"We are behind you 100 percent. Your efforts, as well as those of MONDAY, on behalf of the Administration and the Republican party, have been most effective. Never in the history of American politics has a partisan publication received the publicity or had the impact of MONDAY."

"Sure, your publication hits hard. But at the same time, when both our President and the party are under attack from a multiplicity of Presidential candidates in the Democratic party, anything less than hard-hitting would be inadequate to meet the challenge. We are heartily behind you, and keep on socking them."

Times-News Public Forum On Criticism

A Challenge

After years of going only one way, traffic fatalities in the United States last year dropped by 1,100. That achievement was significant, but when it was accomplished while there was a net gain of 5 million vehicles, on the nation's highways, 3 million more drivers and 55 billion more vehicle-miles driven, it was phenomenal.

It was not a victory which will be repeated in this or succeeding years without hard work and determination. With the cooperation of all, it may not be possible to meet Transportation Secretary John Volpe's goal of cutting in half the 55,000 annual fatalities by 1980.

But the toll can be reduced further, though the number of vehicles, drivers and miles driven continue to multiply. The way it will be done is to concentrate on the same factors which were credited with last year's decline; safer vehicles, increased law enforcement, improved highways and concentration on the drinking driver.

That would seem like the sure fire approach. Magic Valley and Idaho drivers can take note.

MR. SPECTATOR

Coming—More Things?

Mr. Spectator heard via the grapevine the other day that what could amount to an entire new community, sports area, business setup and such is going to be built behind Dollar Mountain in the general area of the present Sun Valley.

From what we are told, it will compete against Sun Valley's setup. Several thousand acres have been purchased for this project (we were told) and in about six years it should be all done and ready. It will be much larger and much more complete and planned than is the present Sun Valley. The cost will be in the millions. Among other things, the grapevine reports plans for an airstrip capable of handling business jets and larger planes — in direct competition to the present Hailey field.

Well — that's what we heard. So we pass it on so you can chew on that one for awhile!

Dear Mr. Spectator: In your progress edition of the Times-News there was an article on Page A-33 "Ketchum is born as a tent goes up."

At the bottom of the first column is a paragraph about Broadford, stating there were two or three cabins and half a dozen men who had wintered there.

I thought you might like to know that one of these men was John Loving, my father. His father (my grandfather), Joseph Loving and his family homesteaded on what is now called "Loving Creek."

formation for the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation. Agriculture is Idaho's most important asset and I am happy to have a part in

On Mark Lane

Editor, Times-News: The appearance of Mark Lane at the Mountain Home Air Force Base, trouble-making, condemning U. S. practices, and arranging a "protest march," has been noted with interest. A UPI article from Boise, appearing in the Twin Falls TIMES-NEWS on August 1st, introduces Mr. Lane merely as author of RUSH TO JUDGMENT.

Perhaps Idaho citizens will be interested in some background material on this gentleman, who was given some prominence during the Kennedy Assassination period, representing the mother of Oswald. In the January 8, 1964 issue of TOCSIN, published in Oakland, California, Mr. Lane's activities are recorded. Of course, he has been just as busy since 1964. Says TOCSIN:

"A Communist newspaper devoted half its Dec. 19 issue to denying the guilt of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

A five-page NATIONAL GUARDIAN article defending the avowed pro-Castro Marxist is presented in the form of a report to the Warren Commission investigating the slaying of President Kennedy. Purportedly offered to the commission only in the public interest, the report is authored by New York attorney Mark Lane. Lane was among signers of a petition to President Kennedy in 1961 asking clemency for identified Communists Carl Braden and Frank Wilkinson, then in prison for contempt of Congress.

Severely critical of the FBI, Lane's report praises Justice Earl Warren as a "fair and great American."

Lane has been active in the Communist-led campaign to abolish the House Committee on Un-American Activities, was a scheduled speaker for a New York "ad hoc" group protesting the 1962 Los Angeles HQUA hearings and was among signers of an anti-HQUA ad in the New York Times, Feb. 22, 1962.

A former New York State assemblyman, Lane introduced a resolution to support a statute of limitations on deportations. This is a position long favored by the Communist American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born, which pledged its support to Lane in the action.

Lane was also the leader of opposition to New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller's civil defense shelter program. In 1962 he was one of the featured speakers at an Easter "peace" demonstration which rated the lead spot in the April 24 COMMUNIST WORKER for that year.

Along with Communist Russell Nixon, general manager of the NATIONAL GUARDIAN, Lane was an invited speaker at a demonstration May 28, 1962, to prevent another Korea in Southeast Asia.

The WORKER further listed Lane as a speaker at a Hiroshima Day rally in August, 1962. During the Cuba missile crisis Lane took part in a Washington "no war over Cuba" picket line.

He delivered a lecture at New York City College last March opposing the McCarran Internal Security Act, which requires Communists and Communist organizations to identify themselves.

Mr. Lane does manage to get around. Does he finance his own excursions?

Family Farms

helping to preserve this industry.

The family-type farm is vital to Idaho's economy. All Idahoans, whether directly involved with the production of agricultural commodities or not, must be concerned with the plight of the small farmer in Idaho. These small individual farm set ups are what promote the small cities and towns in our Gem State. In fact, the smaller farms play an important part in Idaho's larger cities too.

All of Idaho will prosper as the producer of agricultural commodities prosper. The dollars the farmers and ranchers take to town are circulated many times over in the economy. It is imperative that we, all of us, take inventory of the agricultural picture in our individual communities. We must wake up and help to preserve the family farm before it is too late. Just as the magnificent eagles are fast disappearing, so will the farmer and rancher unless we join hands and pull agriculture up to parity.

I will continue to tell the story of agriculture on behalf of the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation. It would be my desire that each of you will do your "thing" to help agriculture prosper in this state of unlimited opportunities.

FUNNY BUSINESS

Editor, Times-News:

The editorial in the Times-News — Sunday, August 1, "Russia Bonks Power," criticizes Admiral Gorchov for his Soviet Naval Day address. Accusing the admiral of boastfulness is like criticizing the president of General Motors for reading a favorable report at the annual stockholders meeting.

"Too, the writer of the editorial is anxious about the prospect of the U.S. being "outnumbered and outgunned," in the Mediterranean. Despite the intended "statistical" support (140 to 60 Soviet Ships) and "about 40 U.S. vessels" it is more realistic to state, as does Time Magazine (June 28, 1971), "Today the two forces are very nearly equal." Parity?

Third, from the writer's circumlocution dictionary comes the statement: "The U.S. must rejoin and retain a clearly superior strategic superiority." Even the Vice President's task force on semantics would have to bow before the potency of a statement which declares that the U.S. is no longer concerned with "strategic superiority" but must now insist on "superior strategic superiority."

Addressing himself to this very topic, Henry Kissinger — once a fashionable if less powerful figure — wrote, "the stability of an international system depends on the degree to which it combines the need for security with the obligation of self-restraint." And, "for absolute security for one country must mean absolute insecurity for all others." (Kissinger, The Necessity for Choice, p. 153) Let the U. S. seek its security without (again) Henry, "reducing all other states to impotence (which) is the road to empire."

Curtis Eaton, Jr. Twin Falls

A Poor Headline

Editor, Times-News: Because of the delay in the mail and whatnot, I just read your newspaper of July 19th. And to say the least, I couldn't believe my eyes when I read the title of one of the articles.

This article was titled "Webbacks" Flood Region.

I have always thought of the Times-News as being one of the most impartial and cleanest newspapers that I have ever read until this. The farmers around Twin Falls are very happy to have the Mexican people come in and weed their crops every year, and I think most of the Mexican people like the Twin Falls area. But be that they were pretty surprised when they saw this in the paper. Truly, the article is about the heavy influx of illegal Mexican labor and the nomenclature "Webback" is directed at these people, but when this unfortunate nickname is used, you might as well be calling a Negro a nigger, or an Italian a wop.

I doubt if many people know that the term "Webback" is used to describe an illegal Mexican alien — they just naturally assume you mean a Mexican. I am stationed in San Diego, and if you were to go across the Mexican border to Tijuana and call one of the Mexicans who live there a "Webback," he would most likely be after you with a knife.

In short, I think that your choice of words was rather poor. I grew up in the Twin Falls area, and have received your newspaper almost the entire time I have been in the Navy, and have always thought that it was one of the best papers around, but gentlemen, I am beginning to wonder.

Israel offers canal bank pullback

By United Press International. An Israeli newspaper said today Israel has offered a two-stage withdrawal of its troops from the occupied east bank of the Suez Canal as part of its terms for reopening the waterway to achieve an interim Middle-East peace settlement. Egyptian troops would not be permitted to cross the canal, as Egypt has demanded, the newspaper Ma'Ariv said. The paper said the proposal was outlined to Assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco during his recent nine-day mission to Jerusalem to seek an interim accord. It did not mention a time span for the withdrawal, Ma'Ariv said. Israel proposed a "very minimal" pullback during the first stage, during which Egyptian engineers would be permitted to dredge and operate the canal and restore civilian life to the west bank cities. The second stage withdrawal would be a "few miles farther back," Ma'Ariv said. The paper did not specify the depth of withdrawal but hinted it would be much less than the Egyptian demands for nearly complete evacuation of the Sinai Peninsula. The Canal was blocked by Egypt during the 1967 Middle East War, trapping 15 ships of various nations within its 102 miles—most of them in the Great Bitter Lake. They are still there, manned by skeleton crews. Sisco returned to Washington last Friday. His trip to Israel had been called a failure by virtually all Israeli newspapers which said he had been unable to bridge the gap between Israeli and Egyptian demands.

Judge turns down juror quiz move

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI)—Judge Richard E. Arnason Tuesday rejected an unprecedented request by attorneys for Angela Davis that the grand jury members who indicted her on murder and kidnap charges be brought into court for questioning. Arnason, who had recessed pre-trial proceedings for two days to consider the request, denied it with the simple statement that he did not find it "meritorious."

He denied another defense motion also aimed at attacking the makeup of the grand jury, and then recessed the Davis pre-trial hearings until Sept. 7. Miss Davis, the black militant, Communist and former UCLA philosophy instructor, was indicted by a Marin County grand jury last September and is accused of buying the guns for the Aug. 7, 1970, courthouse shoot-out in which four persons including a judge were killed.

The defense team wanted to question the grand jury members about their racial and economic backgrounds. The attorneys contend the selection process was unfair and the grand jury did not represent a cross section of the community. Judge Arnason also denied a motion requiring the county to send out a questionnaire to all persons who have served on grand juries during the past nine years.

The judge said, however, that if the defense lawyers wanted to send out such a questionnaire themselves they could do so. The questionnaires, dealing with age, sex, race and economic background, would be sent to about 300 persons who have been on grand jury panels in the past nine years. But there would be no court order requiring the recipients to cooperate.

Suspect refuses extradition

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—Clarence Ollis Smith, 43, charged with California's "sick-kill" murders, refused Tuesday to waive extradition from Texas. Smith's attorney said, however, if Smith were indicted by a grand jury in California, he would advise Smith to return to California voluntarily. Smith, who was turned over to the FBI last Saturday by Mexican officials, is charged with hacking two campers to death last month in the foothills of California's Sierra Nevada Mountains. A grand jury in California is considering whether an indictment should be returned in the case. Harry D. Lewis, court-appointed counsel for Smith, said he had advised his client against waiving extradition at this time.

Among those listed as sponsors were President Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers, Executive Director Roy Wilkins of the NAACP, entertainer Arthur Godfrey and Methodist Bishop John Wesley Lord. At a news conference, Tydings and Eisenhower stressed the new lobbying group favored no particular approach to population control—only establishment of a national policy to achieve it through voluntary means.

"I'm very strongly opposed to any immediate steps that would be coercive," said Tydings, the father of four. Tydings served 22 months in prison before an appellate court overturned the verdict on grounds of judicial error. The second trial ended last Sunday when the jury deadlocked after six days of deliberations. One juror said the vote stood at 11-1 for conviction with a white woman panel member holding out for acquittal. Garry asked for a continuance of the trial date because of other court commitments and the need to prepare a defense, Hayes refused. "You are an officer of this court," the judge told Garry. "You have made your point for the record. You are transferred to Department One for trial Oct. 12."

Child limit asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A nationwide campaign to persuade American couples to produce no more than two children so their grandchildren may be spared the crushing problems of overpopulation was announced Tuesday by civic, labor, business and religious leaders. Calling themselves the Coalition for a National Population Policy, the new group said it would begin lobbying immediately for enactment of legislation to bring the nation's population growth rate—now in excess of 10 per cent a year—down to zero. Unless this is done, the coalition leaders said, the U.S. population will soar from the current 208 million to at least 300 million by the end of the century and to 1 billion within 100 years. "The conclusion to be drawn from these demographic projections is stark and ineluctable," said former Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., coalition co-chairman. "Either we must act now to develop rational, voluntary policies and programs to stabilize U.S. population size, or face the possibility of a drastic deterioration in the quality of national life and the collapse of many of our cherished institutions under the sheer weight of human numbers." The co-chairman of the coalition is Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, brother of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and acting president of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore. The group's 15-member board was composed of representatives of such groups as Zero Population Growth, Planned Parenthood, the Sierra Club and the Audubon Society.

3rd trial ordered

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Rejecting the objections of Huey P. Newton's lawyer, a judge Tuesday ordered the Black Panther leader to stand trial for a third time on charges of killing an Oakland policeman. Superior Court Judge William J. Hayes set the voluntary manslaughter trial for Oct. 12. Defense Attorney Charles R. Garry, who objected to the setting of a date, said he would go to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary in an attempt to get the whole case thrown out of court. The attorney contends the charge should be dismissed because a key piece of evidence has been lost. Newton, 29, was convicted of manslaughter at a 1968 trial for the shooting death of the previous year of officer John Frey. He served 22 months in prison before an appellate court overturned the verdict on grounds of judicial error. The second trial ended last Sunday when the jury deadlocked after six days of deliberations. One juror said the vote stood at 11-1 for conviction with a white woman panel member holding out for acquittal. Garry asked for a continuance of the trial date because of other court commitments and the need to prepare a defense, Hayes refused. "You are an officer of this court," the judge told Garry. # American influence declines

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

As United States troop strength declines in South Vietnam, U.S. influence declines similarly, both militarily and politically.

Militarily an example may be drawn from last February's incursion into Laos, primarily a South Vietnamese operation. The United States believed that with reinforcements the South Vietnamese could have stayed longer and the operation yielded more profitable results. It was South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu who decided that political losses would be greater than the political gains and pulled his troops back.

Politically, Thieu is the United States' choice to succeed himself as president as a means of furthering South Vietnamese stability. It does not, however, want his victory to be so overwhelming as to invite charges of election rigging. Thieu suffers from no such scruples. In 1967, Thieu won office against a field of 10 other candidates with only 35 per cent of the vote. He has no intention of being a minority president again.

This spring, by means his critics have called questionable, he pushed through parliament an election law requiring that presidential candidates obtain signatures either of 100 city or provincial councilmen or 40 from national legislators. Obviously, the law was intended to prevent an overabundance of presidential candidates.

But its effect has been to ban from the ballot Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

Briton rated supersalesman

NEW YORK (UPI)—One of the first signs of life in the streets as dawn breaks in London is black limousine pulling up at the entrance to "TV house"—the headquarters of the remarkable Sir Lew Grade, the television supersalesman of all time.

A few moments later Sir Lew is behind the desk in his commodious office pouring coffee from a large silver urn and distributing cookies to interviewers who know that the best time to see him is while the city still sleeps.

Long before the telephones begin ringing, Sir Lew is well into the day's business—the business of renting, producing and selling television series and documentaries all over the world and especially to the U.S., which alone has bought more than $150 million worth of his product.

One morning not long ago Sir

Law lit the first of the dozen foot-long cigars which are his trademark and talked about American television and why he thinks it is not as successful as it could be in satisfying the diverse wants of its vast audience.

He is an enormously likeable fellow—medium height, bald, well-padded and cheerful and looking not at all like the champion Charleston dancer he was in a different age. He is one of three remarkable brothers. Brother Bernard Belfont is a theatrical and film tycoon, brother Leslie an agent on a major scale. And Sir Lew is knighted for his services to television and exports—is head of Associated Television (ATV), one of the key British program producing groups.

This summer Sir Lew was represented on American TV by the Des O'Connor Show (NBC) and the Val Doonican Show (ABC). Coming up is "Shirley's World" with Shirley MacLaine which premieres Sept. 15th and "The Persuaders" with Tony Curtis and Roger Moore which makes its bow Sept. 18th, both on ABC-TV. "The Marty Feldman Comedy Machine," with Barbara Feldon, late of "Get Smart" is down for a January debut on ABC-TV. In the meantime Sir Lew has sold a half hour adventure series, "The Protectors," with Robert Vaughan of "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." and Nyree Dawn Porter of the Forsythe Saga) directly to a sponsor (Pnberg). "It's a new concept," Sir Lew said. "It's going tremendously well."

CSI sets business courses

TWIN FALLS—New courses offered this fall at the College of Southern Idaho include several designed to prepare the student for business office positions. Dr. James Taylor, president, said today.

Dr. Taylor said several office skills and occupations will be covered in the new courses. At the same time he announced the appointment of Karl Black, former administrator of the Twin Falls Business College, as program coordinator for the business office program.

In addition to present business courses, new training will enable the student to have a complete vocationally oriented course in such fields as receptionist, clerk, secretary, office manager and others. Courses range in length from nine months to two years. The new courses also offer an opportunity for several hours training in specific machine operation.

Additional information is available from Gerald Meyerhoeffer, CSI registrar.

Migrant program said successful

VALLEY SCHOOLS — The summer migrant education program has an enrollment of 80 students this summer and was termed very successful according to Dr. Tom Utterback, superintendent of the Valley School District.

The children were divided into groups according to their needs. The kindergarten students and the non-reading Spanish children were offered a readiness program in reading, writing, math and oral language.

Older children were given a special reading, math, and oral language program starting with their needs and building upon that, Dr. Utterback said.

He said considerable time was spent on experience charts, letting the children write their own stories and then reading them.

"By using tape recorders it was possible to write stories about each individual. They, in turn, read stories about themselves."

"Using pattern drills the smaller children were taught to speak in full sentences. They learned to use correct English in good sentence structure," Dr. Utterback said.

"Time was spent developing good reading habits. Students were shown films, had stories read to them, used the library and had free time to enjoy books. They were taught to observe and be aware of plants, animals, air and all things of nature," he said.

A physical education program was integrated as part of their training using a parachute, jump ropes, bamboo sticks, bowling and badminton, dances and various games.

The students received an excellent program in music and band, learning rhythms and songs, Dr. Utterback said.

To further their experiences they were taken on many field trips. Plans were made, then evaluated and discussed both before and after the trips.

The students were taken to a fire station, police department, milk plant, bakery, library, potato processing plant, pottery factory and a fish hatchery.

A Spanish potluck dinner and a graduation program were held at the close of summer school, with approximately 250 parents and interested people attending.

Board Carrier given award

TWIN FALLS — Recommendations from the Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Board to change two pieces of property on State Highway 74 south of Twin Falls from A-1, agricultural, to R-3, residential zoning has been approved by the county commissioners.

W. L. (Bill) Chancey, commission chairman, said the changes were approved to make zoning in that area uniform and the landowners have no special development planned at the present time. The two properties involved are owned by Bill Sommer and Harold Armstrong. Both are located near the city water tank.

Members should call for rooms

HAZELTON — Wallace Bragg, Hazelton, rural mail carrier for Route 2, received a certificate of award for 20 years safe driving.

During the 20 year period Bragg drove a total of 355,000 route miles of accident free driving.

He was the former carrier of route 1, but changed to his present route when its establishment was necessitated to offer mail service to those families on the new farms being taken off the desert area east of Hazelton. His route has since been lengthened to 73 miles.

TWIN FALLS — Members and guests of the Twin Falls County Historical Society who will need overnight accommodations on the next tour may call the Deluxe Motel at Salmon, 756-2231. The rates are reasonable, according to Mrs. Vena Wagoner, director of the society's museum.

The tour will be an overnight trip to Salmon and Leesburg.

Forest Service against dams

BOISE (UPI) — The U.S. Forest Service added its voice Monday to those speaking out against further dam building on the Middle Snake River.

In a position report to Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, the federal agency also said it felt the flow of the stream below Idaho Power's Hells Canyon Dam should be increased to a minimum of 10,000 second feet.

At present, the power company's license for its Brownlee, Oregon and Teton Canyon Dam provides for a minimum flow of 5,000 second feet below Hells Canyon Dam.

Army engineers have recommended a minimum flow of 9,500 second feet.

Andrus wrote the regional forester at Missoula, Mont., June 4 asking the agency to "initiate vigorous efforts to identify the Middle Snake River as an addition to the wild and scenic rivers system in Idaho."

In its reply the Forest Service said the Snake River below Hells Canyon meets the test of "Possessing outstanding, remarkable scenic, recreational, geological or other similar values" as defined by Congress.

"It is hard to imagine any other river reach in the United States aside from the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River that more closely fits this prescription," the agency said.

Moore's Service adds to store

JEROME — Moore's Service, owned by Cecil and Dennis Moore, who began the business two years ago, will add a 60 by 25 foot addition at the rear of the present store.

Interior remodeling and a new front also are planned, Dennis Moore said. Building permit for an estimated $19,363 project has been approved by the city council.

Moore said the additional space will allow the firm to enter the large and small appliance field, including television sets, as well as expansion of Gibson lines.

Pennsylvania's anthracite coal field covers almost 484 square miles.

Action on Sawtooth plan eyed

BOISE (UPI) — Action on a proposed Sawtooth National Recreation Area may be taken as early as October, according to the chairman of a congressional subcommittee.

Rep. Roy A. Taylor, D-N.C., said he hopes his House parks and recreation subcommittee can work out its version of the bill and put it before the House for consideration by that time. Taylor and three other congressmen stopped overnight in Boise Monday. Today they left on a one-day tour of the Middle Snake River.

While Taylor said he could not be certain at this point what will come of amendments to the bill but he said the committee will "pay a good deal of attention" to what Idaho Congressmen Orval Hanson and James McClure have to say about it.

Servicemen

JEROME — Navy Petty Officer Second Class James B. Elliot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garrell M. Elliott, Jerome, has reported for duty to the Naval Air Station at Brunswick, Me.

Servicemen in good condition

RICHFIELD — Sp. 4 Rodney Riley left Tuesday to report to the military hospital, Ft. Douglas, Utah, after which he expects to return to Richfield for convalescent leave. The serviceman had been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Riley, Jr. after completing special training in Alabama.

While here he suffered a broken knee cap while acting as pick-up man at the Richfield rodeo arena. His previous orders called for his return to Ft. Lewis, Wash., for departure to Korea service this month.

He received his promotion to Specialist 4 after returning to Richfield after special training as a crew chief and door gunner for helicopter service.

FILER — Navy Fireman Apprentice William J. Jilison, husband of the former Miss Carol L. Powell, Filer, has returned to his home port of San Diego aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk after an eight month deployment to the Western Pacific.

TWIN FALLS — Navy Lt. Com. William E. Ostrander, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ostrander, Twin Falls, has returned to his home port of San Diego aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk after an eight month deployment to the Western Pacific. He is a 1953 graduate of Twin Falls High School, and a 1957 graduate of the University of Idaho, Moscow.

Unions said deceived over boycott support

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Farm Workers Union asserts that AFL-CIO president George Meany was deceived into withdrawing support from a boycott, Meany replied that he was ready to listen to particulars.

That was the upshot of news conferences held Monday by Meany and by Miss Dolores Huerta, vice president of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee.

Miss Huerta accuses Heublein, Inc. of both "deceiving and defrauding" Meany into withdrawing national AFL-CIO support from a boycott the farm union called against Heublein in attempt to win a union contract.

She also said the union was filing a $42.5 million suit in Fresno against Heublein and Allied Grape Growers, an association of 1,700 vineyard firms in California. The suit will accuse Heublein officials of giving false information to Meany, she declared.

Heublein, a firm that produces drink mixes, wine, vodka, beer and fried chicken, has contracts with other AFL-CIO unions and Meany declared that "under our rules we cannot boycott an employer unless all the affected unions are consulted."

"If they (the farm union) think I've been deceived, I'd be delighted if they'd come in and see me and let me know," Meany added.

Miss Huerta's statements came as she announced a strike and boycott against Heublein and the grape growers' association.

Meany was in San Francisco for a meeting of the AFL-CIO executive council and he took the occasion to declare the nation was in an "economic mess."

"More than five million workers are unemployed," he said. "Several million more are working less than full time because of production cutbacks."

He urged President Nixon to release $12 billion in funds appropriated by Congress to meet public needs, to fund government programs for housing, community facilities, education, health care and pollution, and to increase the federal minimum wage to $2 an hour. The minimum is now $1.60.

Concern not needed over VEE

BOISE There is no need to be "overly concerned" about vaccinating Idaho horses against Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis, (vee), Idaho Agriculture Commissioner, Oscar Arestein said Monday.

He said the position concerning the disease followed meetings in Billings, Mont., and Idaho Falls over the weekend, attended by members of the Idaho Veterinary Medical Association and federal and state animal health officials.

Arestein said they felt they should not introduce the vaccine into Idaho at the present time.

He said the decision was reached based on facts presented, one of which was that the disease had been contained more than 1,300 miles from the Idaho border.

One-fourth of Holland's area is below sea level.

Queen bee import warning issued

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you've been thinking about smuggling a queen bee into the country, the Agriculture Department says — "Don't."

The department today appealed to both amateur and professional apiculturists (beekeepers), urging them to "guard against the illegal importation of queen bees" because of dangers from a deadly foreign bee disease and a vicious aggressive strain of African bees.

Under a 1962 law, adult bees cannot legally be brought into the U.S. from any country, but Canada. A spokesman said one reason for issuing the warning about imports at this time was as a reminder to beekeepers who may be planning to attend an international apiculture meeting in Europe later this summer.

"The African bee could upset the entire American honey bee industry. Although it is a honey producer, the African bee's vicious swarming and stinging habits could make beekeeping a dangerous occupation," the department said.

Officials said the African strain became established in Brazil some years ago, but now is feared to be moving northward through South America.

Also, spokesmen said, they are concerned about possible introduction from abroad of nevirine disease, an ailment which infests the bee's respiratory organs and can kill entire colonies.

TWIN FALLS — City dwellers owning horses should report them to the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Idaho, according to Richard F. Hall, extension veterinarian.

The federal government is asking for accurate census of the number of horses, mules, donkeys and other related animals in the state of Idaho. However, the Cooperative Extension Service has not been sending survey forms to city dwellers.

Those owning horses are asked to mail the number of horses they have to the local county agent's office. This survey is to provide an accurate census of horses allowing prompt action to combat any possible outbreak of Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis. This information should be provided immediately, before any possible emergency develops in this state.

Around clock

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Tennessee's Welcome Centers for travelers are operated around the clock, seven days a week, says Bill Vaughan, Director of Tourist Information and Promotion.

"In view of the fact that many tourists prefer to travel during the night hours, we feel it is important to keep our Welcome Centers open on a 24-hour basis," Vaughan said. During the day the centers are staffed with a manager and a hostess who greet travelers who stop for information, to picnic or rest. At night a male attendant is on duty.

DEAR ABBY: I am 41 and Viva, my wife, is 36. After 12 years of marriage, Viva had an affair with a guy at work. (I'll call him Roy.) It wasn't her first affair, and I don't think it will be her last. I couldn't take it anymore, so I divorced her and got our three kids. Meanwhile, Roy's wife wouldn't give him a divorce because she said she wasn't going to deprive their four kids of a father. Viva begged me to go with her and try to talk Roy's wife (I'll call her Minnie) into giving Roy a divorce so he could marry my ex-wife.

I went, and the minute I saw Minnie and she saw me, we know we were meant for each other. We've been seeing each other, and she says she loves me, but she won't give Roy a divorce. I am going crazy!

So what do I do? Stop seeing Minnie? I can't love her. Or do I drive my car off a cliff? —GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: Don't look for any cliffs. In time, Minnie will realize that the kind of father she doesn't want to deprive her children of is not worth hanging onto. And if you and Minnie were indeed meant for each other, love will find a way.

DEAR ABBY: We live in a very nice apartment building, and our problem is the couple directly above us. They are "show people" and they don't come alive until 1 a. m. Abby, we know show people have to live, too, but we have to get our sleep between midnight and 7 a. m., and that's the time they do their house cleaning and listen to stereo and TV. And when they have company it's really impossible to sleep!

I have hinted a few times. "Boy, that must have been some party you had last night!", but that hasn't helped. We don't want to get nasty about it, but we were here first, and since our hours are more normal than theirs, we think they should be the ones to either move, or hold down the noise. So how do we get this across to them without making enemies? They are really very nice people otherwise. —UP NIGHTS

DEAR UP: Quit hinting and let them know that they are disturbing you. But don't expect instant silence. It's practically impossible to hold down the noise of normal living.

DEAR ABBY: I want to know if there is any way I can get either a legal separation or a divorce without having to spend a fortune. I could pay a few hundred dollars, but no more. I do not qualify for legal aid because my husband makes too much money. Of course what HE makes is not doing me any good because he refuses to give me any money, and I have none of my own. We have three children at home and I am extremely unhappy with my husband and want him out of my life, legally.

Please answer at once because I just can't take it any more. Thank you. —WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: I don't know where you live, but I suggest that you make an appointment with one of the most reputable lawyers in your community. Tell HIM your problem. You may get a pleasant surprise.

SHADES OF CLEOPATRA

By Mary Sue Miller

A Lovelier asks: What exactly is henna? I read somewhere that European hairdressers use it to tint hair and that it is very gentle.

The Answer: Henna is the name given to a shrub or small tree that grows in Asia and the Near East. A hair tint has been made from its leaves since Cleopatra's time and before. Perhaps it now has come to light again with the emphasis on natural, organic foods and products.

Properly applied, henna gives an attractive reddish cast to brown hair. It works best on dark brown shades. It cannot be used, must not be used, on blond or gray hair. Not unless a bright orange color is the aim. Heaven forbid!

Experts, experienced in henna application, claim that therein are very good hair conditioners. Henna does not change the molecular structure of the hair as do chemical dyes. Henna is said to coat the hair shafts in a way that adds body and sheen.

After research, we discovered that ladies in this country tinted with henna around the turn of the century. And not often with acceptable results. Then, during long periods, henna was practically unobtainable. Modern methods arrived on the scene. And, in our view, they are less hazardous. It is impossible to use henna at home. The process is that complicated.

Question answered? When in doubt use a reliable wash-out coloring.

Oil shale lands seen in variety of roles

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—It's an investor's dream, an oil man's long-range necessity, an environmentalist's battle cry and the U.S. Interior Department's nightmare.

It's the 17,000 square miles of oil shale deposit in the central Rocky Mountain region of the United States thought to be the world's largest hydrocarbon accumulation.

The total reserve is estimated to be more than 2 trillion barrels of shale oil, of which 500 billion barrels or more may be recoverable. That is more than the world's proven reserves of petroleum and therein lies the paradox.

The world is running out of familiar forms on energy-producing fuels such as oil, natural gas and coal. To avoid the stranglehold predicament, the energy industry and the U.S. government are looking at a process which withdraws oil from rock formations by subjecting it to intense heat. The process is known as "retorting."

Three years ago the government tried to lease shale lands in the Piceance Basin of Colorado. The prospective "bidders" bid too low so the government backed out. There was no great need to look elsewhere—the industry thought—for its energy resources.

Now, however, the industry is taking another look and the government is giving it another chance. Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton recently announced a tentative, limited and cautious program to develop oil shale resources in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming. Of the approximately 11 million acres estimated to contain oil shale in commercial quantities, only about 30,000 acres are involved in Morton's leasing program. It will take at least two years of study before the Interior Department decides if it will okay more ambitious leasing.

Concern over the environment has been a stumbling block. Morton emphasized he would avoid any "headlong rush" into oil shale development at the expense of risking damage to the environment.

The oil industry is exhibiting as much concern over pouring billions of dollars into what has not been proven profitable as Morton is over ecology. Most industry executives will, not even comment on possibilities of interior's decision to go ahead with shale lease. It will take many dollars to get a productive recovery operation in the shale areas, and the industry isn't in any hurry to scare off would-be investors with the pessimism many of them voice privately.

Underground mining techniques have been demonstrated in four mines, and surface mining is under study with due consideration to environmental effects, Cameron said. Three retorting processes have been tested in large pilot plants and each has distinctive advantages and disadvantages.

Environmentally, in place retorting is considered the ideal recovery technique, but the industry and the U.S. Bureau of Mines has yet to overcome several problems, including how to fracture the zones successfully to create passages for the flow of the liquid. The rock is dense and impervious in most oil shale zones, Cameron said, with very little natural porosity or permeability.

"The ecological problems that could be created by an oil shale industry, concentrated in a relatively small area of the arid west, is a subject of wide concern," Russell J. Cameron a BOISE (UPI)—Logs worth more than $10.7 million were harvested by Boise Cascade Corporation from national, state and private forest lands in 1970, a company report said Monday.

Boise Cascade said it made payments—to government agencies for trees harvested on state and federal lands in the state amounting to approximately $10.7 million during the year.

Shoshone Hunt for body registry unsuccessful date set

SHOSHONE—Shoshone High School students will register for the new school year Aug. 24 and 25 from 9 a.m. to noon according to Supt. Kenneth Crothers.

Juniors and seniors will register Aug. 24 and freshmen and sophomores will register Aug. 25.

He said that all other students will register on the opening day of school, Aug. 30, which will be a full day. He said the school lunch program will start on the first day of school.

Fees for the high school students include $5 for an activity ticket, $6.15 for the annual year book and $3 for athletic insurance. There are no fees for students in other grades.

Crothers said that all teachers have been rehired.

In business by the school board Monday night, fuel bids for the first grade building were accepted and American Oil Co. was awarded the contract for the oil. Natural gas is used to heat the two large school buildings.

In other business the board voted to renew the Title I project, a remedial reading program, carried out through government funding.

Mrs. Mary Flavel was rehired as reading teacher and new instructional material will be purchased for the class.

SALMON—Another search effort to locate the body of Lt. Gary McGuire, 26, Mountain Home Air Force Base, was without success.

James J. Porter, of the base's underwater search and recovery team, and Howard Carroll, conservation officer with the Idaho Fish and Game Department at North Fork, ran the Salmon River by boat from the Carmen Bridge to the Deadwater below North Fork. Two other Air Force Base personnel flow the section of river.

Carroll said the alrmen also used wetsuits to search through the islands and piles of brush in Deadwater.

McGuire disappeared into the river when the rubber raft he was riding on collided with the Salmon River Bridge at Carmen June 19.

The bodies of four other persons who drowned in recent years in the Salmon area have never been found. Gene Teague, 58, Stlayton, Ore., was lost in the Middle Fork June 25, 1970, when his wooden boat upset.

Emiliano Guerrero, 26, Winnemucca, Nev., went into the Salmon River near Ellis May 11, 1970, when his auto plunged over the bank.

Shurman Watehitt, 47, Salmon, went into the Salmon River April 13, 1969, 13 miles north of Salmon. He was driving an auto.

Henry High, 64, Salmon, went into the river in a truck near Indianola June 30, 1967.

Albion fire quelled

ALBION — A fire near, here blackened 800 acres of dry grass and sagebrush before being controlled early today.

Fire crews from the Sawtooth National Forest at Twin Falls and from the Bureau of Land Management at Burley battled the blaze, which broke out Tuesday. It began on BLM lands southwest of Albion and burned to within a short distance of the forest boundary.

off the blaze near Bruneau. today after it was controlled Tuesday night, officials at Boise said. The fire covered 23,900 acres along Highway 15 south of Bruneau.

Water tour Friday

JEROME — The Bell Rapids irrigation project will be among the Magic Valley points visited during a field tour Friday arranged by the Idaho State Reclamation Association.

The group will leave Hagerman at 8:30 a.m. Ted Doh, manager of the North Side Canal Co., said other stops will be made at commercial fish hatcheries, irrigated pastures, solid set sprinkler systems, and the site for the proposed diversion of water from the Snake River for the Salmon Falls project.

Crews from both agencies brought the fire under control during the night, aided by ranchers and area fire wardens.

Sawtooth Forest crews also fought several other fires. Forest service officials said one B-26 from Twin Falls and two C-119's from Boise dropped retardant on the fire. Ground crews from the BLM worked with bulldozers and tankers.

A small one-acre fire in the forest area around Pine, north of Anderson Ranch Dam, was contained Tuesday afternoon after two retardant drops were made by a B-26. Fire Control Officer Darrell Smith of the Sawtooth Forest said the fire was in rugged terrain and was difficult to control.

Also due to be released were National Guardsmen called out to provide food and transportation for the fire fighters. About 50 men are to remain for mop-up and as reserve. The fire originally was estimated to cover 30,000 to 50,000 acres.

The Shoshone BLM district office reported three acres burned Tuesday near Magic Dam.

2 injured as truck overturns

JEROME — Cecil Piland, 60, Portland, is listed in fairly good condition at St. Benedict's today with injuries received when the pickup truck in which he was riding overturned in the construction area on Interstate 80 between Wendell and Jerome.

Harry Hildenbrand, 48, Missouri, driver of the truck, was treated for head lacerations and released. He said he was driving from Bliss to Burley and took to the ditch to avoid a collision with an oncoming car which was passing another vehicle.

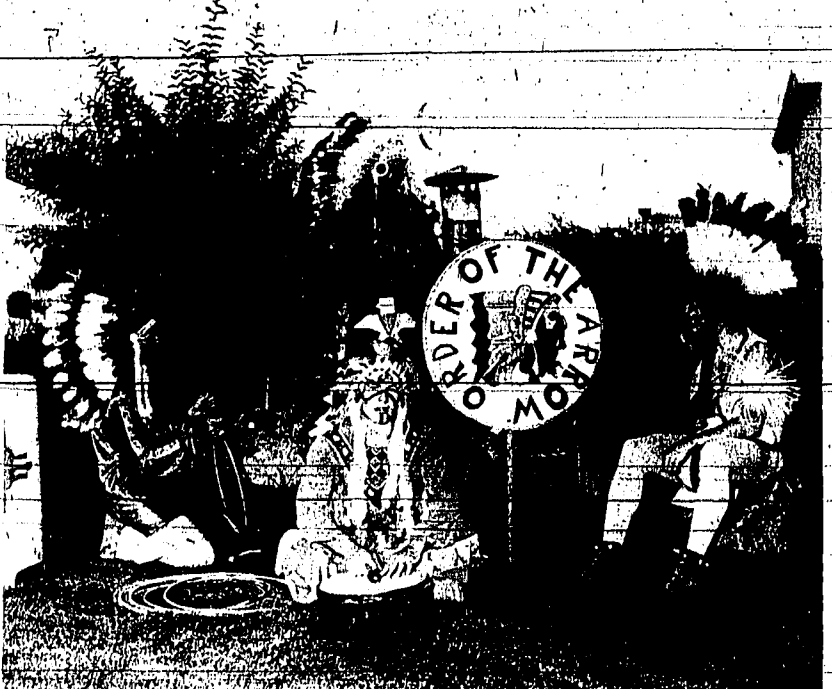

He said his truck was demolished. No other vehicle was involved and the other drivers did not stop when the truck overturned.

Several men and units of equipment are being used to battle blazes in the Challis National Forest and in the Bruneau area. Intercity crews returned to Boise at 10 p.m. from a Shoshone BLM fire then left at 2 a.m. for Challis, Deo Hanson, fire dispatch officer for the BLM, said.

Hansen said a B-26 will be out of service in Twin Falls for several days after an engine caught fire Monday. The plane was en route to a fire near the Gooding City of Rocks.

The plane made a forced landing at the Twin Falls airport safely. The engine will have to be replaced, Hansen said.

BLM crews were to be pulled

Dancers perform

50th year recognized

By GEORGIA LAVTON Times-News Correspondent BURLEY — The Eighth Annual Cabaret-International honored the 50th Anniversary of the Snake River Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America Tuesday evening at the Ponderosa Inn.

Danny O'Neil, singer and television star, returned to the Cabaret for his sixth engagement. He served as master of ceremonies and sang a few selections accompanied by Johnny Lisler, Sun Valley. Reed Starley, Burley, gave the invocation and George Forschler, cabaret general chairman, welcomed the group and introduced O'Neil. Spring and summer fashions were modeled at the fashion show preceding the dinner.

Rubert Saxvik served as chairman of the golf tournament held during the afternoon. Saxvik announced the winners, O'Neil with 27, first; and Mrs. Laree Hodges, Rupert, with 29, second. Handicap winners were Mez McMurray, Burley, with a 23 and Mrs. Tracy Hoskins, Twin Falls, with 21 1/2.

Mrs. Hoskins was also the golf player that shot the closest to the hole. She was about nine feet from the hole on No. 9.

O'Neil returned his gift certificate with the funds to be donated to the Snake River Council. The certificate was his prize for winning the golf match. There were 25 men and women entered in the tournament.

James S. Kinney, Twin Falls, expressed his thanks in behalf of the 5,600 Boy Scouts in this council.

"We believe the principle of scouting must be made available to more boys in our area and this is our goal," said Kinney.

"You will be hearing about Operation Reach in the near future which is a program dealing with drug education and as scouts we plan to meet the drug problem head-on with this education," he said.

Kinney presented reprint copies of the original Scout Handbook to Forschler and Dr. Ben Katz, Twin Falls, as thanks to the two men for helping make the cabaret a success.

Then Kinney presented W.W. Frantz, Twin Falls, his 50 year scout pin, an engraved plaque and a letter of appreciation. Frantz recently compiled a 50-year history of the Snake River Area Council.

The D's (Dick Davis and Duane Hlatt) presented a musical comedy variety show which included stories, events of history, hymns, western tunes and modern day events, in song and music. Both played guitars and Davis played the banjo.

The D's received a standing ovation at the close of their one and a half hour presentation.

Prior to the Cabaret dinner, scouts who were members of the Order of the Arrow presented Indian dances on the lawn. The dancers included Wayne Johnson, Larry Bell, Michael Bench and Bruce Bowcut, all Burley.

Housing repair jobs awarded

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Housing Authority has awarded three contracts to complete Phase Two of the modernization program for Washington Courts and Pioneer Square, Lawrence B. Harper, executive director for the housing authority, said today.

Contracts for Phase Two, which should be completed in three or four months, will involve general repairs, electrical work and painting. The general repair work was awarded to Willis, Inc., on a bid of $32,287.71. The electrical work was awarded to Smith Electric with the bid of $11,571. The painting contract was awarded to Stuart Brothers with a bid of $6,266. All three firms are from Twin Falls.

The Washington Courts and Pioneer Square projects were built in 1942 and received extensive renewal in the $300,000 Phase One. Repairs then included, reroofing, new floors, windows and cabinets, Harper said.

The Twin Falls Housing Authority maintains 196 units in Jerome and Twin Falls and is a federal and local government effort to provide low cost housing, according to Harper. He said TFC Courts were recently completed and provide 32 units for Twin Falls residents.

Other units in Twin Falls are Sunnyview and DuVall, making five housing projects providing 146 housing units. Washington Courts is for family groups and all others are for elderly residents. Jerome has 50 housing units.

Manor damaged by fire

TWIN FALLS — Two windows were broken by heat and an exterior wall was scorched at Lynwood Manor, 343 Blue Lakes Blvd. N., this morning when a tar pot being used in reroofing the building caught fire.

Capt Francis Horejs of the Twin Falls Fire Department said smoke damage also resulted in several apartments of the building. Roofers from the Hamilton Roofing Co. were working on the rear of the roof of the southwest wing of the building when a tar pot on the ground caught fire.

The building is owned by B.K. Terry, Boise, and managed by Louis Siffman. The manager said about six apartments were smoke damaged and no estimate was available following the fire until insurance adjusters arrived.

Because of the burning tar in the tar pot, firemen said heavy black smoke spread over the area, giving the appearance the building was burning.

"There were no injuries," firemen said.

Kimberly youth hurt

TWIN FALLS — Fred Walter Tewes, 16, Kimberly was listed in fairly good condition today in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital where he is being treated for injuries suffered Sunday in a car-train accident.

The youth was driving a vehicle which collided with a train at the Main Street crossing in Hansen. State police said his passenger, Gene Schaeffer, 15, Hansen, escaped injury. Hospital attendants said the driver suffered head injuries and has regained consciousness.

GOP opens fund drive

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Republicans, miffed at slender fund raising efforts by the party at the state level, launched a county-wide campaign fund drive to raise $50,000 for national, state and local candidates.

Harold D. Cook, Twin Falls County GOP chairman, said today the local fund drive is intended to stimulate similar drives elsewhere in the state to make up for lack of state financial support.

He said the GOP at the state level under the direction of state chairman Roland Wilbur and former National Committeewoman Gwen Barnett, had failed to contribute significantly to candidates at either the national or local level. He said most candidates were forced to raise their own campaign chests.

The Twin Falls GOP hopes to raise $20,000 for the presidential campaign; $10,000 for U.S. senator; $5,000 for U.S. representative; $1,700 for the county's two state senators; $3,400 for the county's four state representatives; $5,000 for other county officers and $5,000 for local party use.

In addition, $10,000 would be raised for use by the state GOP operations.

The decision to launch the fund drive was taken to a meeting of the Twin Falls County GOP executive committee Tuesday night.

Cook said the size of the campaign goal reflects the anticipated serious Democratic Party drive to gain offices both locally and on the state level.

Air pollution 107 index

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District of the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period.

ending at 8 a.m. today.

Federal pollution regulations say pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms over any 24-hour period, and should not be permitted to rise above 200 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Forecast

Today:	Good
Tonight:	Poor
Tomorrow:	Good

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution. Burning as permitted by law should be curtailed when the air is poorly able to disperse air pollutants.

Hearing silent

Walter Higgins, manager of the county weed office, who sold the spray to Sabala, testified early in the Tuesday hearing and answered questions from Morris and state pesticide investigators pertaining to sale of the spray.

He said he drew the spray from a labeled drum and put it into an unlabeled container marked "Stock spray." The container had been used for some time to sell spray to other farmers who returned it to the weed office.

When asked by Arstein if it was his practice to sell pesticide in this manner, Higgins said he only sold stock spray this way.

Higgins also said this was the first time he ever had any trouble with the spray which he has sold for 17 years.

Charles Roseberry, pesticide investigator, said no one he talked to who has used the spray was aware of any warning against use in hot weather. He said Sabala had no other pesticide stores on his property and to Sabala's knowledge no one else had used the sprayer prior to the death of the cows.

Little said

Convicts roam prison

Another inmate, Charles Sharp, was treated for tear gas injuries and another prisoner Frank Grooms, was removed after his recent coronal transplant was injured in the melee.

After he met with the six-member inmates' council, May told newsmen the demands made by the prisoners appeared to be justified. He blamed the heat wave, the antiquated institution founded in 1868, and inadequate funding.

Specifically, he said, the rioters demanded amnesty for all involved, which he said would probably be granted since it would be difficult to pinpoint the instigators.

He said they also wanted better food, a daily rather than weekly change of clothing, weekly visiting privileges instead of the current twice-monthly visits, improvements in the water and cooling systems, and a higher spending level in the prison store.

May and two key prison officials met with the convicts inside the prison yard to discuss the demands and May later told newsmen he agreed to settlement of the issues.

He said temperatures in the upper tier cells were running between 110 and 118 degrees and said food is "always a problem." He said the weekly change of clothes was instituted six months ago after laundry equipment began failing and agreed the water system was "rather ancient."

"Our budget is not quite as large as it probably should be," May said. "In the interests of economy you just don't have the wealth."

But Correctional Lt. Joe Munch said part of the problem is that prison guards themselves do not always follow May's orders.

"It's how his orders are carried out," Munch said. "May wants an excellent job. But if he wants it painted blue, someone else is going to do it green."

The state is presently building a new prison across the city near Gowen Field and some 75 convicts are now housed at the still incomplete site. There are 247 convicts in the old complex, but 33 of them were playing baseball in a downtown park when the riot began and were taken to the new site when the game ended.

Guitar players will perform

BURLEY — Buddy Alan, a regular guitar player on the Buck Owens Ranch Show and a frequent guest star on the Hee Haw TV show, will be one of the entertainers on the Country Western Jamboree featuring Buck Owens at 8 p.m. Aug. 18 at Cassia County Fairgrounds.

The jamboree is sponsored by the Burley Exchange Club.

Alan was born in Tempe, Ariz., and is already a veteran in the competitive world of country music. Still in his early 20's he has been playing guitar and piano since the age of 16, and is both an accomplished solo performer and a popular session guitarist.

As a teen-ager, he appeared in the Bakersfield, Calif., benefit show Toys for Tots and is now a regular on the syndicated Buck Owens Ranch Show and a frequent guest star on the CBS-TV's Hee Haw. This frequent exposure, combined with highly successful playdates at the Bonanza in Las Vegas, Nev., the Lamplighter in British Columbia, and JD's in Phoenix, Ariz., has given Alan a wide and appreciative audience.

personality of his own. Young as he is, he has already established himself as a professional, and he is now signed as a writer with Blue Book Music, Owens' publishing company.

Other guests appearing on the Buck Owens Show besides Owens and Buddy Alan are Susan Raye, Don Rich and the Buckaroos and the Bakersfield Brass.

BUDDY ALAN

He spent a year and a half in Phoenix as a disc-jockey and music director on KTUF-AM and KNIX-FM. Now living in Bakersfield he is too busy to host a regular radio show. When not touring with Buck Owens' All American Show, he is filling his own club dates across the nation.

In addition to his many personal appearances, he spends a great deal of time in the Capitol recording studios. His first release, "Let The World Keep on A-Turnin'," a duet with Buck Owens, was number one on the national charts, and his next two singles, "You Can't Make Nothing Out of That But Love" and "When I Turn Twenty-One," put him on the charts again. Then came "Lodi," another big hit.

Alan's styling is greatly influenced by both Buck Owens and Merle Haggard, but he projects a distinctive per-

Show slated Drug education team holds area workshop

SUN VALLEY — A one-man show of modernistic art in vivid colors is being held at Sun Valley through Sunday. The artist is a young Austrian, Adele Zierler, who makes her home in Sun Valley and San Francisco. Miss Zierler has about 20 paintings on display in the Sage Room of the Sun Valley Lodge. The show will be open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. There is no admission charge.

The paintings are done in oils, acrylics and sometimes a combination of the two. Miss Zierler uses a lot of white in her work because of what she describes as her "love of purity."

"People are surprised when they see my work," she says, "because my paintings are bold yet delicate, dainty—I am intrigued by color."

Miss Zierler's paintings are distinctly modern and demonstrate both an unusual style and technique. Squares and stripes dominate the canvases.

"Geometry has always been my bag," she says with a smile. "I guess it shows."

Miss Zierler is a native of Vienna, where she received her education. She was a photographer's and an artist's model. While posing for portraits for Andreas Patzelt, a professor at the Academy der Bildenden Kuenste, she affected an exchange of services — art lessons for modeling. She studied with Patzelt for a year, then attended the School of Modern Art in Vienna and worked under Mateka-Felden. A year later she went to Paris and painted with Henry Alexander-Mallus.

In 1964, Miss Zierler left her native Austria and moved to San Francisco, then began painting full-time in 1967. She is represented in San Francisco by the Knott Gallery.

Low bidder

HEYBURN — Holmes Construction Co., Heyburn, is the apparent low bidder for paving on State Highway 27 between Oakley and Burley, the Idaho Highway Department said Tuesday.

The firm bid $233,735 for placing a roadmix pavement and sealcoating on 20.22 miles of Highway 27.

Car thieves

OMANILA (UPI)—Civil aviation authorities are planning to install a closed-circuit television system around the Manila International Airport parking lot to check an increasing number of car thefts in the area.

BURLEY (UPI) — Idaho has "crossed the threshold" toward a comprehensive statewide drug abuse education program, Stan Olson, Idaho Department of Education consultant, said Tuesday.

Olson and eight other members of the Idaho Drug Education Team, in operation this past year under combined federal grants, are conducting a two-week drug education workshop for persons from throughout Idaho at the Ponchaux Inn in Burley.

"The purpose is to orient and train teams from various districts of Idaho to return home and organize the state drug education effort in every community.

Attending the conference are educational representatives, Elks, Lions, youth, law enforcement officials and other state representatives.

"We feel with the experience we have gained from sponsoring regional drug education workshops, plus the interest and dedication being shown by participants that we are definitely on the right track to an effective program," Olson said.

"We have crossed the threshold to a cohesive program involving people of all ages and backgrounds," he said.

Two young participants agreed, one an ex-user, and the other a "straight."

Labor Department statistics show that large numbers of women drop out of the labor force at age 25, begin to go back to work at 35, then reach their greatest peak of return to employment at ages 45 to 54.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market added to its early morning advance as trading passed the halfway mark Wednesday. Turnover was light.

Analysts called the gain a technical recovery, although Wall Street also appeared encouraged by the easing of pressure on the dollar in world money markets.

Shortly before 1:15 p.m., the Dow Jones industrial average was ahead about 5 1/2 points at 845.06. Advances topped declines by more than a two-to-one margin.

A three-hour turnover of 6,000,000 shares compared with 6,140,000 shares traded at a like period Tuesday.

Among the stocks on the most active list were Vornado unchanged on 66,200 shares, American Metal Climax higher (ex-dividend) on 62,200 shares, Tennessee down 1/4 on 56,600 shares, International Telephone up 1/4 on 53,400 shares, and American Telephone unchanged on 53,400 shares.

Less active and firm were IBM up 3/4, Burroughs 2 1/2, Memorex 1, Polaroid 2 3/4, Xerox 1 1/4, Loews Corp. 1, Corning Glass 4 1/4, Wall-Disney 1, Bausch & Lomb 4 1/4, Jersey Standard 1, Getty Oil 2 1/4, Natoms 2 1/4, Atlantic Richfield 2 1/4, Superior Oil 1, Trans-Worship Airlines 1 1/4, KLM Royal Dutch Airlines 1 1/4, and McDonnell Douglas 1 1/4.

Gold mining stocks, in high gear early in the week, turned lower. Weakness in this group was attributed to profit taking. Campbell Red Lake Mines and Dome Mines were down more than a point apiece.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock prices are likely to go down "a whole lot more" before the market turns around, says T. J. Holt & Co. Chances are 50-50 that the Dow Jones industrial average will plunge another 200 points this year. Against this background, the best course to follow is to liquidate holdings, taking small losses if necessary now, rather than large losses later, the firm says.

Over the past few years the market has tended to move to extremes, both up and down, probably reflecting a change in the composition of the market-place from a market composed of many small investors to one dominated by institutional investors, E. F. Hutton says. Emphasis on performance has also been a factor, leading institutions to buy some issues over-enthusiastically and sell others at a loss rather than weather the storm. The current extreme reactive phase may well be no more than another exaggerated correction in a long-term bull market.

Hopkin-Watson believes 1971 will turn out to be a banner year for investors. Many of the political and economic uncertainties will be resolved by then, the firm feels.

SHOULDERS and thunderstorms are expected over most of the Atlantic Coast states and from Arizona through western Texas. It will be cooler in the upper and middle Mississippi Valley, the Great Lakes area and in the Ohio Valley. (UPI)

Readings in the 100s occurred in the lower Malheur Valley and along western border areas of Idaho. To the north Lewiston reported a high of 104 and Pocatello, Ore. 105.

Haying and the harvest of small grains should continue to make excellent progress, although the digging of early potatoes will be limited to early morning operations to avoid sun scald. All crops will have a greater demand for water since evaporation rates have increased and range between .35 and .46 of an inch.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock prices are likely to go down "a whole lot more" before the market turns around, says T. J. Holt & Co. Chances are 50-50 that the Dow Jones industrial average will plunge another 200 points this year. Against this background, the best course to follow is to liquidate holdings, taking small losses if necessary now, rather than large losses later, the firm says.

Over the past few years the market has tended to move to extremes, both up and down, probably reflecting a change in the composition of the market-place from a market composed of many small investors to one dominated by institutional investors, E. F. Hutton says. Emphasis on performance has also been a factor, leading institutions to buy some issues over-enthusiastically and sell others at a loss rather than weather the storm. The current extreme reactive phase may well be no more than another exaggerated correction in a long-term bull market.

Hopkin-Watson believes 1971 will turn out to be a banner year for investors. Many of the political and economic uncertainties will be resolved by then, the firm feels.

Andrus asks fair rates

BOISE (UPI)—Gov. Cecil D. Andrus urged the Idaho Public Utilities Commission Tuesday to give consideration to Idaho shippers in view of an intrastate railroad freight increase application.

In testimony before the commission called to review an application by Idaho rail carriers for authority to increase intrastate freight rates and charges, Andrus said he sought the status as an intervenor in opposition to the increase.

He said Idaho railroads were entitled to rates which produce sufficient funds to meet necessary maintenance and operating expense.

But, he said, "the succinct resume of carrier rights is accompanied with an obligation on those carriers to levy rates which are just and equitable." He continued, "This is a time of troubled economics in Idaho and in the nation. The impact of inflation, and spinoff from inflation, is easily marked in all phases of our life. It is evident in carrier cost of service and the charge assessed for that service."

Andrus added that the Gem State is a transportation-cost-sensitive state, and an export state. "As an economic unit it originates a huge volume of agricultural, forest and mineral products."

"Shipped to all points in the nation these products enter extremely competitive markets and are sold on a basis where cost of transportation is an extremely important factor in the makeup of laid down price," the governor said.

He said the carriers seek the commission's approval of an increase in rates charged for local Idaho traffic movements, the commission must determine whether the granting of that increase protects the rights of the carriers or impinges on the rights of the public.

The governor said that in the past handling of increased rail rates applications the major line of proof of revenue need by the carriers demonstrated "system costs" and "regional revenue position" which did not relate to "cost of railroad operation on Idaho traffic" or the adequacy or inadequacy of Idaho intrastate rates in relation to "cost of service in Idaho."

Andrus said previous showing of regional or system costs were not an adequate basis for evaluating Idaho rates, and asked the PUC to require added information from the carriers. He noted the changing carrier service patterns and elimination of passenger service as evidence.

"I strongly urge the members of the commission to give serious consideration to the improved economic status of the railroads which has come about with the elimination of passenger service and facilities within our state," he said.

He also urged the commission to consider the economic impact that a freight rate increase would have on shippers in the state.

Visitors decline

YELLOWSTONE NAT'L PARK, Wyo. — Numbers of visitors to Yellowstone National Park this year have declined, Verne Hennessy, assistant superintendent, said today. For the period from July 1 through July 15, visitor traffic is 17 per cent below the same period a year ago, Hennessy said.

Captains in class

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls Fire Department captains left today for Pocatello for the annual Idaho Fire Command School, Fire Chief Bobby Bopp announced.

Capt. Ward Freeman and Capt. James Poulton will enroll in the training school opening today and continuing through Friday, Bopp said.

They are two of the department's members who work primarily with management factors involving fire control, fire fighting and training programs.

Chief Bopp said the training in this year's command school will emphasize management, fire fighting procedure and fire prevention.

Yield low

KELLOGG (UPI) — Gulf Resources and Chemical Corp. experienced the poorest first half performance of its base and precious metal operations since 1960 this year, Robert H. Allen, president, said Monday.

Bunker Hill operations suffered severely from various problems, including a 10-week strike by craft unions, Allen said. Bunker Hill is a subsidiary of Gulf Resources.

He said these factors resulted in abnormally low production of lead, zinc and silver, further complicated by efforts to comply with environmental control regulations and policies of the state and federal governments.

U.S. sweeps all 4 gold medals in Pan-Am Games

CAI, Colombia (UPI)—The United States swept all four gold medals at stake in swimming, three of them with games records, and burly Jeffrey Lynn Smith of Norwalk, Calif., won the super-heavyweight wrestling championship in the Pan-American Games.

The spurge of gold—five out of the only seven available—boosted the American total to 96 gold medals with two days of competition left, and a grand total of 202 medals of all kinds.

Killebrew reaches 500-homer plateau but Minnesota loses

BLOOMINGTON (UPI)—Merv Rettenmund led off the 10th inning with a home run to give the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins Tuesday night and offset the 50th and 501st homers of Harmon Killebrew's career.

Rettenmund's hit, which travelled 402 feet, came off Ray Corbin and gave Mike Cuellar his 14th victory of the season and first since July 8. Cuellar had dropped his last four decisions.

Killebrew's two blasts made him the 10th man in baseball history to hit more than 500 career home runs. He trails Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs and Mel Ott, formerly of the New York Giants, who are tied for eighth and ninth place with 511 homers.

Bahnsen for the second time in 11 decisions. While Bahnsen was losing to the Angels for the first time since May 7, 1969, left-hander Clyde Wright staggered in his second victory in nine decisions with the Yankees. His other victory came on May 8 last year.

Killebrew's first homer, No. 500, came with the bases empty on a 1-0 count in the first inning off Cuellar. The hit travelled 385 feet into the left field stands and produced a long ovation from a crowd of 15,881.

Washington's Gail Hopkins hit a three-run homer in the first inning of the opener and Lou Piniella singled in the seventh inning of the nightcap Tuesday night as the Kansas City Royals swept the Washington Senators, 9-2 and 3-1.

The home runs were Killebrew's 13th and 14th of the season and broke the drought dating back to his last homer on July 25 off Boston's Luis Tiant at Metropolitan Stadium.

Hopkins' three-run homer paved the way for a romp in which every Royal starter got at least one hit. Piniella had three singles while Paul Schoof and Dennis Paepke each drove in two runs.

The Royals broke a 1-1 tie in the seventh inning of the second game when Cookie Rojas walked and stole second ahead of Piniella's fourth hit.

Only matter of time until Tarkenton, Giants make up

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fran Tarkenton will be back with the New York Giants soon.

Howard Cosell, the sportscaster, went on the air and said the Giants became disenchanted with Tarkenton when he was so vocal in behalf of the players during their brief strike against the owners a year ago.

mean. I think Wellington-Mara already has. I also think that's what has Fran Tarkenton so upset.

The 31-year-old quarterback, now home in Atlanta, figures to rejoin the Giants following that inevitable interval which has become a familiar shirt-tail to all deadlocks these days, namely, a reasonable cooling off period by both parties.

The plain truth of the matter is the Giants would like to have Fran Tarkenton back and he'd like to be back with them.

The report has that good ring of truth about it despite the fact that Tarkenton discounts it as having anything to do with the present situation.

Here is the classic case of what happens in any number of divorces. Both parties wind up unhappy then they were before.

The fact there were no recriminations when Tarkenton and the Giants split has to make the reconciliation that much easier. Nobody will have to walk the cat back.

What the really seems to be now between Tarkenton and Mara is a language barrier.

Wollington Mara has left the door open for Tarkenton's return and Tarkenton likewise did not slam the door behind him when he walked up to the Giants' President in the Houston Astrodome Sunday and told him he could no longer continue playing football under the existing conditions.

Mara says he took that to mean Tarkenton was retiring, presumably because the Giants had said no to a request for a loan of more than $200,000.

Tarkenton insists his request for a loan had nothing to do with the basic issue of his not wishing to keep playing without a signed contract.

Tarkenton says no, it's not that at all. It's only the terms of the contract.

Somehow along the line both these fellows should get together on exactly what they

Frank Heckl of Corritos, Calif., won his fourth gold medal of the games, to go with one silver, by edging teammate Jerry Heidreich of Dallas, Tex., in the men's 100 meter butterfly in 58.0 seconds, seven-tenths of a second slower than the games record.

Canada won the gold medal in equestrian dressage with 97.0 points with Chile second and Colombia third.

There was a short period in contract history when the grand-slam bonus was 1,500 points not vulnerable and 2,250 vulnerable. These enormous bonuses were exciting, but they proved unpopular. At the next change in the laws, it went back to 1,000 and 1,500.

They did have one effect on bidding. Prior to their introduction, the experts didn't bother much with grand slams. But they went to work on them with the super-noses. The methods they learned then have had a great effect on modern bidding.

eventual diamond problem. Of course, when he finally played the second diamond, the queen showed up and it was all over.

Jacoby has refused to say what he would have done if East had played the eight instead of the queen, but Morris Ellis, who sat South at the other table, said, "If the eight had appeared, I was going to toss a coin and see if you could outguess it."

Today's hand is taken from the last quarter of the 1937 Spingold finale.

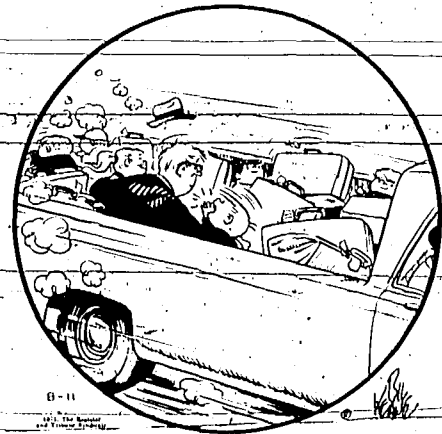

Oswald-Jacoby's team had a 3,000-point lead when he picked up the South hand.

It didn't take him long to reach seven-spades and, when he saw the dummy, two things became apparent: The first was that the same

PASS IT ON

by L.M. Boyd

MISTER, if you're 61 years old, you can expect to live at least another 15 years. If you're 56, expect another 18. If you're 51, expect 22 more. If you're 46, expect an additional 26. And if you're 41, count on still another 30 years. So report the insurance statisticians.

YOU'VE BOBBED for apples, I take it. At a Halloween party maybe. A civilized game. But it's an outgrowth of an uncivilized game. The villagers in old England, years ago played what they called Mumble-Sparrow. They clipped a sparrow's wings and put it in a hat. Then a circle of benevolent contestants with their hands behind their backs bumped foreheads to see who could bite the sparrow's head off. Oh, you are a sport, Cynthia!

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "Where did Russia get its name?" A. From a band of Vikings called the Rus... Q. "Where was the world's worst railroad wreck?" A. In Madane, France--On-Dec-12, 1917--A passenger train derailed, killing 543 persons... Q. "What does the name Raymond mean--what did it mean originally?" A. Wise protection. Our whimsical Name Game man suggests soldiers called Raymond do just dandy on guard duty... Q. "How much would a million $1 bills weigh?" A. Just 2,340 pounds, I'm told... Q. "How long does it take the average tonsillectomy patient to recover?" A. 10.3 days.

IS IT SAFE to feed beer to a baby? requires a feminine subscriber. Can't say, that's a medical matter. Wouldn't do it personally, though safe it probably be. It's a fact that when the Nazis confiscated most of the milk from a dairy section of France during World War II, the French mothers thereabouts kept their babies alive on beer.

IF YOU STACK all the women in the country in one pile and all the men in another, the stack of women will weigh 85 per cent as much as the stack of men... IT WAS NONE OTHER than the Duke of Windsor who said, "The thing that impresses me most about America is the way the parents obey their children"

IN THOSE TESTS to determine the masculinity and femininity of individuals, nurses tend to rank high in male characteristics--while doctors ordinarily rank fairly high in female traits. Such is widely known. In this connection, what's noteworthy is male nurses rarely show signs of femininity and lady physicians appear to be exceptionally devoid of masculinity--How do you account for this oddity?

WHAT'S THE TOWN nearest you with a population of 80,000 residents? Whatever its name, it's about the size of Knossos on the Mediterranean island of Crete more than 3,000 years ago--that was the biggest city in the world right up to the time of Christ
