Money marts abuzz

NEW YORK (UPI)—The world money marts have been buzzing this week about a possible devaluation of the U.S. dollar. In fact, devaluation of the dollar, considered by some as the first big surrender of U.S. world power, already has happened, and there is nothing Washington can do about it.

"Independent action by officials of friendly countries since December, 1969, already has devalued the dollar by 3 1/2 percent," said James Cooper, director of economic research at Irving Trust Co. of New York, one of the world's largest. Economists at two other large New York banks, both preferring not to be identified, agreed.

This all being so, the experts are convinced that the American man on the street has nothing—at least at this time—to worry about, whether "devaluation" comes about formally or not.

"What's all the excitement about?" asked the senior vice president and chief economist of a major New York bank. "There could be some long term problems but certainly in the short term it's all for the U.S. good. The floats of the Canadian dollar, the West German mark and the Dutch guilder and the revaluation of the Swiss franc and the Austrian schilling have helped our balance of payments problem. And that's a major factor in our present worry about our dollar-gold position."

"Let's talk about it, but only theoretically," said a vice president of another large New York bank, "because I'll bet our bank vaults that there will be no actual U.S. devaluation of the dollar.

The German mark has been floating (seeking its own value level without monetary agreement restraints) since May 8, and has increased its value in relation to the U.S. dollar by 7.5 per cent. Based on U.S. exports to Germany, that has devalued the U.S. dollar by about 0.9 per cent, according to this banker.

"But it also has decreased our trade imbalance which, like inflation, division over the Vietnam war and ghetto unrest, makes free world currency markets jittery about the country to which they look for leadership," he said.

Toll rises in Belfast

BEELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A British army spokesman expressed guarded optimism today the army was gaining the upper hand in the fourth day of street fighting in Northern Ireland, but new fighting erupted in Belfast and Londonderry, raising the death toll.

The death toll reached 24 today.

An army spokesman said arrest of Irish Republican Army (IRA) leaders had dealt the illegal group "a devil of a knock." The IRA, battling to end British rule over the predominantly Protestant six northern counties of Ireland, insisted its leadership was intact.

In Belfast, the British troops trying to remove street barricades erected by Roman Catholics, ran into more heavy sniper fire from men using rifles and machine guns in Londonderry, where Protestants lighted bonfires to celebrate a 1960 victory over the Catholics, the British battled with nausea gas and rubber bullets to keep Protestant and Catholic groups apart.

A police spokesman said another civilian died in the Royal Victoria Hospital in Belfast, bringing to 24 the number of persons known to have been killed since street fighting broke out Monday after a night of minor disorders. One of today's victims was a "completely and utterly innocent" man killed by snipers who opened fire on British troops, an army spokesman said.

British security sources estimated as high as 70 per cent of the leadership of the IRA had been eliminated in the roundup Monday and intermittent without trial of 230 extremist suspects.

"Between dead, captured and interned, the IRA has taken the devil of a knock in the past three days," the army spokesman said. "If (IRA) must now be trying to regroup its forces."

Man OK after implant

DETROIT (UPI)—Haskell Shanks, 63, being kept alive by an artificial respirator and a six-inch partial mechanical heart device attached to his aorta, remained in satisfactory condition today at Detroit's SINGH hospital.

"He continues to make progress," a hospital spokesman said in the most recent condition report, issued Wednesday evening, 12 1/2 hours after the implant operation was completed. Shanks remained under intensive care.

The next progress report would be released at 10 a.m. today, unless a "drastic change" in the patient's condition occurred before then, the spokesman said.

Shanks, a plant guard, received the first mechanical heart device designed to remain permanently in the body and assume part of the job of pumping blood from a failing heart.

If he survives, Shanks will become the first successful recipient of a permanent mechanical heart device, either whole or partial.

The cigar-shaped device was attached to Shanks' main artery with a tube exiting the body through the lower chest cavity, where it was attached to battery-powered air tanks. It was reported functioning properly.

Called a "patch booster" the device consists of a pumping chamber constructed of silicone rubber and Dacron, acting as an auxiliary heart pump designed to take over about half the work of the left ventricle, the heart's main pumping chamber.

The patch booster is designed to correct the type of heart failure that annually claims an estimated 250,000 lives—one-fourth of the total number of persons who die each year from heart disease.

Dollar value shaken

LONDON (UPI)—Rumors in German newspapers that the mark eventually will be pegged at 3.33 to the dollar sent the dollar reeling to 3.294 against the Deutschmark on the Frankfurt foreign exchange market early today.

In London the pound slipped from the post-devaluation peak it reached Wednesday. But market men said this was really for market technical reasons. There was also a certain amount of the caution in the market before today's trade figures were released. Just after midday the rate was $2.4195 to the pound.

Dealers of two American banks in London said the Dutch guilder took over as the main speculative currency in the market here today.

They reported a small demand on a thin market which strengthened the rate.

Some reports early this afternoon said that the Bank of England was buying dollars but nobody would confirm this.

In the bullion market the price of gold jumped 27.5 cents to $43.225 an ounce. Dealers said turnover was quite good and conditions fairly active but otherwise the market quieted after actively slackened.

Nick-of-time rescue for tot

TWIN FALLS—Little Gerald Fraley, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry O. Fraley, Twin Falls, was pulled out of the Perrine Coulee Wednesday night in the nick of time by Patrolman Jim Milton, Twin Falls Police Department.

Milton said he and a partner were working the Cowboys baseball game when they made a pass around the park. He said he could hear a child's loud howling. He then saw the small boy riding his tricycle along the coulee's bank.

Milton approached the boy to ask him his name. As he leaned over the boy, the child toppled over into the high running water. Milton grabbed him by the foot and pulled him out of the water. When the boy was returned home by the patrolman, the parents hadn't realized he was gone.

According to Milton, the parents said the youngster was capable of disappearing fast when he hopped aboard his tricycle.

Key Reds N. Viets hit DMZ bases

PARIS (UPI)—Hanoi's two top negotiators at the Vietnam peace talks stayed away today in apparent protest against Washington's slowness in replacing chief negotiator David K.E. Bruce, who resigned last month.

Neither Xuan Thuy, chief negotiator of the Hanoi delegation, nor his deputy, Nguyen Minh Vy, showed up for the 125th session of the deadlocked conference where the U.S. delegation was led for the second week by deputy delegation leader Philip C. Habib.

Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong representative, did show up and used the occasion to accuse President Nixon of giving full support to the re-election campaign of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu so Nixon could use him "as an instrument of American policy, Vietnamization of the war and American neo-colonialism."

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops launched a series of coordinated shelling and ground assaults on a string of South Vietnamese bases forming the government's defense line below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) border today, military spokesmen reported.

The fighting was the sharpest in the war zone in seven weeks, but spokesmen said it was too early to say that North Vietnam and Viet Cong forces had launched a new offensive in the far northern quarter.

"We realize that during the past two weeks the level of enemy activity has been very low," said Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, spokesman for the South Vietnamese Command. "It is hard for us to say if this is a new offensive by the enemy."

At least 34 soldiers from both sides were killed and military sources said two American advisers at one of the outposts were wounded in the fighting just south of the buffer zone dividing North and South Vietnam.

Military sources said the flareup in action could indicate the second stage of the Communist's summer campaign and could be aimed at influencing South Vietnam's national assembly election to be held Aug. 29.

No ground activity involving American forces was reported, but the U.S. Command said two Army sirmen were wounded Wednesday when their light observation helicopter was shot down near Kontum, 280 miles north-northeast of Saigon in the rugged Central Highlands.

The recent lull in battlefield activity sent South Vietnamese losses last week to the lowest level in more than two years, government spokesmen said in reporting 170 men killed in the seven days ending Aug. 7.

Communist casualties were reported by the allied commands as 1,008 killed.

U.S. said seeking Mideast summit

By United Press International

The United States has proposed a Big Four summit conference with Israel and the Arab nations in a bid to solve the Middle East conflict, an Israeli newspaper said today. It said France may submit the proposal in the U.N. General Assembly this fall.

Quoting diplomatic sources in Washington, the newspaper said the session between the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union, Israel and the Arabs would be similar to the 1954 Geneva conference during which the Indochina accords were drawn up.

Those accords created North and South Vietnam and guaranteed the neutrality of Laos and Cambodia following the French defeat in Indochina.

In Tel Aviv, Foreign Minister Abba Eban told members of Israel's labor party that it "would be an illusion to think" the current cease-fire would continue unless some progress toward a negotiated settlement is made.

At the same time, he said Egypt must give up demands for an Egyptian troop crossing in any partial settlement on reopening the Suez Canal. He said "it would be like putting a lighted match near an explosive charge" to allow an Egyptian presence on the Israeli-occupied east bank.

Ha'aretz, an independent newspaper, said the suggestion for convening a Geneva-type conference first was voiced by Britain's former U.N. ambassador Lord Caredon. "It is now possible France will back this plan in the next General Assembly," the paper said.

The English-language Jerusalem Post also said France would propose the summit, which it said would include the presence of U.N. Mediator Gunnar V. Jarring, Sweden's ambassador to Moscow who in the past has tried to arbitrate between the Middle East Beligerents.

Ky hints rebellion in Viet

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky charged today President Nguyen Van Thieu used the supreme court to rig the forthcoming presidential elections. He said a rebellion was possible if Thieu runs unopposed.

Ky also charged that his exclusion from the ballot by a court decision was "unlawful and arbitrary." He said he will not appeal the decision but did not say whether he would withdraw his candidacy.

Ky was asked at a news conference if "there is a real possibility of an uprising if Thieu becomes the only candidate" for the presidency. The third contender, Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh, has said he may withdraw from the race.

"Through a rigged election, yes," Ky replied.

"There is a real possibility?"

"Yes, sir," Ky said.

"A coup?" he was asked.

"Mister, I never mentioned about a coup and I will never mention a coup because I see you are not a military man," Ky said. "Once you decide or plan to have a coup you are not going to claim all-over town that you are going to have a coup tomorrow. You see that in the Western movies."

"If the president is elected by a rigged election, he will not get the support of the army and the population. He will be obliged to step down one way or another," Ky said.

Northside fire rages

SHOSHONE—A fire southeast of here has burned 35,000 acres of dry grass and sagebrush and was burning out of control today.

The fire started Wednesday afternoon about four miles south of Shoshone near Highway 93 and is believed to have been man-caused, according to Don Runberg, Bureau of Land Management information officer, Shoshone.

Runberg said the fire has moved so fast it jumped the Milner-Gooding Canal near Notch Butte in a mile high whirlwind.

Since jumping the canal the fire had been treated as two separate fires due to the accessibility to the fire on each side of the canal he said.

Runberg said no damage to livestock was apparent from aerial observation this morning. He said the grass fire had caused the evacuation of some 1,000 head of cattle from the Dietrich and Star Lake grazing units.

It brought to 45,429 the number of Americans killed on South Vietnamese battlefields since Jan. 1, 1961. The command said 21 other GIs died from illness, accidents and other causes last week.

and many farmers and local residents fighting the fire.

BLM officials said six aerial chemical drops have been made in attempts to bring the fire under control. They said the fire west of the canal has been contained and the blaze east of the canal is still out of control.

Fire bosses are Darrell Short west side of the canal and Pete Arrossa on the east side. Runberg said all BLM personnel and equipment from the Shoshone District office have been mobilized.

Fire fighters were dispersed early Wednesday and through the night to fight four other blazes.

One had blackened some 700 acres near Wap, 11 miles east of Minidoka. Livestock had been evacuated from the private land and 22 men and two tankers were used to extinguish the fire.

Two fires near Bliss were brought under control Wednesday.

The blaze has blackened the southeastern end of Lincoln County and has spread as far east as Star Lake and the Owinza Road. This morning there were 10 pumper tank crews, four bulldozers, one shovel crew, one helicopter crew, one fixed-wing aircraft

Russian plane crashes, 97 die

BMOSKOW (UPI) — A Soviet passenger liner crashed and exploded on takeoff from the Siberian airport of Irkutsk, killing all 97 persons aboard, travel officials said Wednesday. It was the worst known Soviet commercial airline disaster.
The twin-turboprop TU104 of Aeroflot, the Soviet national airline, made a scheduled stop at Irkutsk on a flight from Odessa to Vladivostok.
A few seconds after taking off for the Pacific coast city of Vladivostok, the aircraft lost altitude, plunged to the ground and exploded, officials said. The disaster happened within the boundaries of Irkutsk Airport.
The officials were unsure of the exact date of the tragedy but it apparently happened in the past few days. Soviet media seldom report air crashes unless foreign passengers are aboard.

TWIN FALLS — A young grocery-store manager trainee was "initiated" into the mercantile business on his fifth day on the job Wednesday evening at 8:17 when he was held up by an armed bandit.
Tom McRill, 21, employed by the 7-11 Store on Filer Avenue, said the bandit waited in the store until all other shoppers had gone, then brought a few kems to the counter. When McRill started to ring them up, however, he recalled later the bandit told him "Never mind that. Just put them and all the money in the register into the sack." The bandit added that "I'm in a hurry," McRill said.

Mayor ogles apple

NEW YORK (UPI) — "This is it, man — this is the Big Apple," John V. Lindsay once explained when asked why he took on the harrowing and thankless job of mayor of New York.
Wednesday the apple of his eye had grown from big to biggest — and been baked into pie in the sky over the White House. Big John made clear that, as is ever the case with politicians, his eye is on the apple.

He also made clear that he has no idea whether he has a prayer of becoming a candidate for the presidency. But he showed, once again, that in public appearances he is a charmer of first magnitude.

The man who is invariably addressed by associates as John — he is one of the few of that name not called Jack — bantered with reporters throughout the question period following his formal statement of switch from the Republican to the Democratic party.

"Whether this means I will run for president, I do not know," he said near the end, and the news conference exchange was on. Leaning an elbow on his 6-foot-4 frame on the podium, his dark blue suit topped by an outlandish tie of nearly kaleidoscopic red, blue, black, and yellow, John called reporters by their first names in his answers.

He and his wife, Mary, had returned the night before from a vacation in Colorado and Utah, and had enrolled as Democrats not long before the news conference.

"How does it feel to be a Democrat?" he was asked.

"The enrollment I made this morning... well... I'm a little bit sad about it. But I never felt more right about anything."

"Mr. Mayor, when was it you made your decision? Was that when you went up on the mountain and came down from the mountain and..."

Lindsay broke up in howling laughter and then replied: "There were no thunderclaps, Gabe. It has been a very slow process. Mary and I made the final decision in Utah."

History shows three

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Only three men have switched parties, then tried to win the presidency since World War II. Only one man in American history — Abraham Lincoln — has switched and won.

George Wallace, who was between terms as Democratic governor of Alabama, ran for president in 1968 on the American Independent party ticket. He carried five states, winning 46 electoral votes.

In 1948, both J. Strom Thurmond and Henry A. Wallace bolted the Democratic party to run against Harry S. Truman. Thurmond, who was South Carolina's governor at the time, carried four states and won 39 electoral votes for the Dixiecrats. Wallace, a candidate of the Progressive party, failed to carry a state, but was credited with siphoning off enough New York votes to throw the state to Republican Thomas E. Dewey.

In all American political history only Lincoln has been able to make a successful party switch. But contributing to Lincoln's success was the fact that he was leaving a weak Whig party to become the nominee of the young, growing Republicans in 1860.

Recall vote warning flag to Gem politicians

By RICHARD CHARNOCK-BOISE (UPI) — Recall of two Idaho Falls legislators is a sign of the times that many other politicians in Idaho should find prudent to read.

Some are unwilling to view it this way but it appears to be the manifestation of a growing trend toward action by an electorate frustrated by public servants at all levels.

A year ago, irate voters in the newly-annexed Lewiston-Orchards mounted a recall drive that dumped six of Lewiston's seven city councilmen — including Mayor Paul Wise.

First, they were unhappy about being annexed to Lewiston. Second, they became incensed that the incumbents would not bow out and call a new election so Orchard residents, too, could have a voice in city affairs.

Recall of State Sen. Fisher Ellsworth and State Rep. Aden Hyde, both Republicans, by the voters of District 30 in the Idaho Falls area is part and parcel of that same type of voter disenchantment.

A few years ago the people defeated a constitutional proposal drafted by the legislature which would have permitted lawmakers to set their own salaries — now limited to $10 per day by the constitution.

The legislators responded by increasing their "committee expense" allowance $10 per day while in session, and voting themselves a $200 per month "office allowance" year-round.

Feeling this a bit cheeky, the late Wally C. Burns of Idaho Falls mounted a successful initiative movement to cut back that expense allowance $10 to the sum of $25 per day and to remove the office allowance. Additionally, the initiative proposed restricting payment to 60 days in the first regular session and 30 in the second.

Most legislators and many other observers felt this unrealistic — especially in light of inflationary living costs and the burden of maintaining a "second home" at Boise for part of each year. Nevertheless, the electorate approved the initiative and it became law.

Mouthing such reasons as "the people didn't understand the initiative" and other excuses, the legislature at its last session restored the $10 additional daily expense money during sessions for legislators who live outside Ada County. They also voted themselves a $3.50 per day interim allowance.

This infuriated some voters, who considered it a direct "slap in the face" of those who approved the initiative. This especially was true in the Ellsworth-Hyde district and a recall movement began and those who started it won on Tuesday.

On July 28, another recall movement began in the same area of the state when an initiating recall petition was filed against House Majority Leader Terry Crapo, Idaho Falls, by voters in District 29. After the initial filing, however, this was held in abeyance pending outcome of the Ellsworth-Hyde recall.

With that movement a success, it appears likely the Crapo recall action will go forward.

Some observers contend the legislative pay was an "emotional issue" in Eastern Idaho because of the death of Burns, after the initiative movement succeeded at the polls. That may be. But it also is an issue irritating voters in other parts of the state and now that one district has been successful it could spread to others.

As an indication of a trend, it should be noted that two other recall movements are under way — one against Boise City Mayor Jay S. Arnyx and the other against Ada County Commission Chairman Jack Barney. Both stem from dissatisfaction of tax-conscious voters with the way their money was being spent.

Whether it is right or wrong, Fort Bliss Air Force Base, in El Paso, Tex., is the air defense training center for the Free World.

But the increasing number of recall movements definitely are an indication that a people too often displeased with public servants will find away to get rid of them.

Colorado's Grand Mesa, near Grand Junction, has more than 200 lakes that are two miles above sea level.

Minibikes endanger kids, agency claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government warned parents Wednesday that their children risk death or serious injury if they are permitted to ride minibikes — those small, low-slung bicycles powered by noisy lawnmower engines — on streets and sidewalks.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimated that more than 5 million minibikes will be in operation by the end of the year, most of them ridden by children between the ages of 10 and 14.

"More and more young children are going to be killed unless they and their parents recognize the dangers involved in the use of minibikes," they agency said.

"While off-street riding under parental supervision can be a safe and popular recreation, the minibikes become a high-risk vehicle on sidewalks and roadways," it said. "The agency categorically opposes all use of minibikes on sidewalks or streets."

The two-wheeled minibikes, which have been on the commercial market about three years, usually are powered by one-cylinder engine of five horsepower or less and can reach a maximum speed of 25 to 45 miles per hour, depending on size.

The federal agency said minibikes are "noted for poor handling characteristics because of their short wheel-base and small tires." They lack the acceleration needed for highway driving and are difficult for motorists to see because of their small size. The seats on standard models are only about two feet high.

Many accidents involving minibikes on streets and sidewalks because their lack of headlights and proper braking systems disqualify them for licensing.

The government warned parents that a typical homeowner's public liability insurance policy probably would not cover minibike accidents, and that "family auto insurance policies give no protection at all" for an unlicensed minibike rider.

The Traffic Safety Administration urged minibike riders to wear helmets and urged parents to "form riding clubs to find suitable areas for safe and legal riding" off the streets.

"The problem is a matter of state regulation, but it is the clear responsibility of parents in preventing the inevitable tragedies that may result when minibikes are turned over to drivers as young as 7, 8 or 10 years old," the agency said.

Rancher reports threats

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI) — The sheep rancher named as one of the men who allegedly paid to have golden and bald eagles killed, has received threatening letters and a log of lamb in the mails, it was learned Wednesday.

Rancher Herman Werner turned the log over to the Natrona County Sheriff's office. Werner said he had been receiving crank mail ever since he was named by helicopter pilot James Vogan in testimony before a Senate subcommittee investigating the deaths of eagles in Wyoming.

"I did get a log of lamb in the mail," confirmed Bill Estes, Natrona County sheriff. "We don't know if it is poisoned or not. We have frozen it and anticipate sending it to the University of Wyoming laboratory for analysis."

He said so far it was not known if the log was sent by a friend or an enemy of Werner's.

The long-time sheep rancher has fired Vogan, who worked for him as a pilot after leaving the employ of Buffalo Flying Service. Vogan testified that Werner paid the service "at least" $15,000 to have eagles and other predators killed by gunners flying in Vogan's helicopter.

Loss told

DENVER (UPI) — President A.L. Feldman said today that Frontier Airlines lost $1,284,000 for the second quarter of 1971, which ended June 30.

Feldman said that the deficit followed a write-off of deferred charges.

The loss compared with a net loss of $944,000 during the same period in 1970.

Where's Cecil?

Whatever happened to Cecil Andrus? If we concentrate, we can remember how he looked. We can remember during that period when he was seeking the post of Governor of this state of ours he used to run in and out of the newspaper office quite frequently. He was always pleasant, beaming and ready with the conversation. Then came the election. As we remember it his try for the top job in the state was successful. Since that time we can remember seeing him at a victory banquet in Twin Falls and talked to him briefly when he was speaker at the Three Island Park dedication in Glens Ferry. Other than those two instances we draw a blank. To our knowledge he has not been in the Times-News office since he became Governor.

We can remember we supported and urged the other voters to support Governor Samuelson in that campaign. We can see where this might not have met with the approval of Mr. Andrus. But after the election was all over we came out in an editorial pledging our backing to the new Governor in the interests of making a better state of Idaho. Well, Cecil Andrus has been Governor of Idaho for quite a spell now. He has been down in this area and down to the City of Twin Falls many times but, like we said, we haven't seen him in the Times-News since the campaign. We sort of miss him. We hope he will find the time to visit us in the not too distant future. We never want to reach the point where we would have to ask: "Cecil Andrus? Who's he?"

"ANYBODY SPOT THAT OLD SILVER LINING YET?"

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—By three months) was up in late April or early May of this year. The Nixon strategists had calculated that to control the government it would be necessary to control 300 key positions. But they decided it would be safer to go for 1,200, 600 more than their calculations had shown to be absolutely necessary. Of course, for a variety of reasons, Nixon men were put into other posts as well, sometimes to meet the demands of patronage, sometimes because a special task demanded a man with a Nixon philosophy. If we assume the shake-down period is over, then perhaps the real Nixon presidency is now getting under way. But don't expect rapid moves or quick results even though there are signs Nixon wants desperately to press radically new approaches, as witness the China visit, the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) with the Russians and welfare reform with a guaranteed minimum income. For the careful, step-by-step movement outlined in the paragraphs above is typical Nixon's of approach to the presidency. He is moving into his "radical" innovative concepts by a frustratingly cautious path. For example, look at 2 1/2 years of planning, the giving of signals, the waiting for return signals, the careful analysis and testing of those signals, the refusing to move until he was absolutely certain that preceded the Kissinger trip to Peking. It was not until Nixon received a definite invitation from Premier Chou En-lai himself, sent through the president of a friendly state, that Nixon moved. The President is operating in the same frustratingly cautious and patient manner in the Middle East crisis. Though the possibility of a partial settlement (the opening of the Suez Canal) seems possible, the chances of an end to the Israeli-Arab crisis seem remote indeed. Yet Nixon plods along, working to open the negotiating door a little every time it seems about to slam shut with finality, paying no attention to hard words from either side, sending Secretary Joseph Sisco, then operating through third countries and unofficial representatives, slowly keeping some sort of movement, however inconsequential and however unpromising, in the belief that these slight motions in themselves may prevent the area from erupting until such time as an opportunity for a solution presents itself. Nixon approached the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks with Russia in the same way. Even after Moscow's leadership had made it clear the Kremlin would welcome talks, the President waited, waited and waited until some observers gave up in despair. The Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia gave Nixon a sound reason for waiting, of course. But even had there been no Czech invasion, it is most probable that Nixon would have waited just as long before acting. For it was months before Nixon's disarmament strategists had recalculated again all possible angles of all possible forms of arms control and before U.S. diplomats had explored again every angle of Russian intent, political, military, economic and psychological. Then Nixon moved—but slowly.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

On Cancer

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me the signs of cancer in a woman's breast and cervix. How can I tell, myself, without a doctor's examination? — C. H. There isn't any way you can tell. All you can do is watch for suspicious signs — and report them at once. In the breast, be alert for any lump. The majority of lumps will be benign cysts, but you have no way of knowing which is which. Inversion of a nipple which heretofore has been normal is another suspicious sign. Unusual discharge from a nipple may — or may not — be a danger sign. Have it checked. If you wait for more obvious signs, you are waiting too long. For the cervix, any unusual bleeding should be reported to the doctor at once. But waiting for that is very foolish. A periodic Papanear test every six or twelve months will detect 90-plus percent of cancers of the cervix far earlier than any other method can. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me the signs of cancer in a woman's breast and cervix. How can I tell, myself, without a doctor's examination? — C. H. There isn't any way you can tell. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a man who had been married to one woman for 24 years and was sterile all that time have a baby with another woman? Some say yes, some say no. — W. T. K. If he was really sterile, the answer is no. But the mere fact that he did not father any children does not prove that he was sterile. Perhaps his wife was. Or perhaps — and this sometimes happens — she had a sensitivity to his sperm and could not conceive; yet some other woman might not have such a sensitivity, and therefore could become pregnant. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for peptic ulcers to turn into cancer? — Mrs. B. P. There are two principal kinds of peptic ulcers, those in the duodenum and those in the stomach itself — gastric ulcers. The duodenal ulcers seldom become cancerous; gastric ulcers, however, should be watched more carefully because some of them are malignant from the start. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Several months ago I had an X ray to see if I had a kidney problem. I didn't but the X ray showed three or four gallstones, about a inch. My doctor said they might never cause trouble, but that most people had a gall bladder operation if they were aware of stones, because trouble could flare up at an inconvenient time. He didn't really seem very concerned and just left the decision to me. Since I have no gallstone symptoms, I think I will forget about it with the hope that I may never have trouble. Do you think this is the right decision? — A. E. It's a gamble, and most doctors handle the situation about the way yours did, to avoid giving the impression that they are "pressuring" patients to have surgery. Your decision would depend on your age and general health — plus your willingness to gamble. If you never have any trouble, you win the gamble. But if you have an attack of colic from the stones, or obstruction of the bile duct, or infection or empyema (pus formation) of the gall bladder, then you'll be sorry, because you'll have to have the operation anyway, and you'll have the added misery besides. Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Assistance Needed

The Potomac River is not very important as a navigational tool in the contemporary scheme of things. But it is an historical stream which could be a beautiful addition to the Capitol setting, as well as provide a wholesome recreational opportunity for residents of the District of Columbia. Instead, it is little more than an open sewer. Those were the words used to describe the Potomac in the wake of warnings by health officials against swimming in the river. Now the Potomac, of course, is not the only large polluted stream in the nation. But it is literally in the backyard of the federal officials who have become so concerned about pollution elsewhere. The way the Potomac is going, the states may have to show Washington a thing or two about a cleaner environment.

Fat Rejection

A novel explanation for at least part of the unemployment problem is offered by a University of California faculty member. Dr. Rudolf A. Noble reports that a study of 1,000 overweight people revealed 14 per cent of them could not get jobs because they were too fat. Assuming that education, experience and all other factors among those 1,000 case studies average out with the general population, the professor may have hit upon something. Nor is his thesis necessarily limited to the obese.

Similar studies might also indicate a number of the unemployed are in that unfortunate state because they are too thin, too tall or too short. They might discover, as another survey did, that some people are hired simply on the basis of height or other physical attributes which have nothing to do with the work involved. Perhaps eccentric hiring practices even out for some categories, with equal numbers being hired or rejected on the same irrelevancies. If they do, that is no defense of any system which hires people for the package instead of the contents.

ART BUCHWALD

A Red China?

Many newspapermen will now take credit for it, but Art Buchwald was the first to break the story that the People's Republic of China existed. This was several years ago when most people in the United States thought the world was flat. One of the most astounding discoveries in history was made the other day when a group of American State Department people found a new country named Red China. For years there had been rumors that there was a country in the Far East with a population of 800 million people. Yet no one in the United States would believe it. But an expedition of senators led by Marco Fulbright came across it accidentally while looking for a new route to North Vietnam.

When the existence of Red China was reported, a meeting of all the top policy people in the State Department was called. "If this is true," said one of the assistant secretaries, "that means the world is round." "Hogwash," said another secretary. "We all know there is a country called China already, so how could there be another China? Look at our maps. China is right here in the Formosa Strait." "That's right," a secretary said. "And our maps are all up to date." "What's that large land mass across the water from it?" someone asked. "It's marked 'unexplored.'" "Perhaps that's where Red China is." "I'm an old China hand, and I say there is no place called Red China. The only China is located on the island of Formosa." "What proof do we have that there really is a country with 800 million people in it, except for the word of a few disgruntled senators?" an undersecretary demanded. "They're only trying to discredit our foreign policy." "There is no proof," a Far East expert said. "Except the West Germans have announced they plan to build a $150 million steel mill here. I don't think they'd put in that kind of money if the country didn't exist." The secretary of state spoke up. "That is a point. The only thing I can't understand is how we could have missed it all these years." "Perhaps there is a cloud cover over it all the time," someone suggested. "Does the CIA have anything on it?" "No, Sir. They're as much in

PAUL HARVEY

Young People

"Who wants to die for President Nixon?" That and similar rallying cries tore our campuses apart during the Sixties, stained some with blood. But the angry young of the Sixties are less young and less angry now. As a recently graduated coed said, "It was quite a party, a real binger; it left quite a hangover. Now the time has come to straighten up and do the dishes." In the audiences of Billy Graham's recent stateside crusades young people are more in evidence than ever before. The most recent, the Oakland, Calif., crusade, attracted a record percentage of young people. Bussloads from the Berkeley campus included some who admittedly went with intent to disrupt but remained to pledge allegiance to Christ. Symptomatic of the significant transition is the new peace on that Berkeley campus where the revolt of the Sixties was born. The number one troublemaker of 1964, fiery agitator Mario Savio, now a husband and father of two, is out of politics, quietly seeking a graduate degree in biology, a steady job. The powerful 30-member student senate now includes 14 professing Christians. Radical leadership has been diluted by drugs and disillusion, while religion becomes an increasingly dynamic and effective force. Attorney William Kunstler, who defended many of the antiwar activists, says there is an "unmistakable mood of moderation" among young people. Yale's president, Kingman Brewster, calls it "a mood of erie tranquility." U.S. News and World Report says young people "having sampled the bitter fruits of drugs, sexual freedom" and "doing your own thing" are now "turning on to old-fashioned religion." The "Jesus people" accept scriptural salvation with less equivocation than did many of their elders. Some of us tried to make a religion of John 3:16 which says, "Whoever believeth in me shall have everlasting life." While denying John 13:14 which says, "If you love Me, keep My commandments." The new morality is a strict morality. The peace leaders of the Sixties were shattered by combat fatigue, by gunfire in Ohio and a bomb blast in Wisconsin which killed, by commune murders, by venereal disease, deaths from overdose and when the "peace and love" grass pushers began to carry guns. "Another thing: Mass communications had fanned the radical revolt, publishers and novelty industries had profited from it, rock musicians became vulgar fiends — and freedom-seeking school-agers began to realize that they were not the victors but the victims.

MR. SPECTATOR

A Beautiful World

In our running here and there we sometimes forget the thoughts of those who came before us. Now and then, though, they do come to light and we do pause to read them. For your edification along this line we have in mind a few thoughts recently printed in The Trumpet, a publication of the First Presbyterian Church in Twin Falls. The author is unknown. The thoughts were found in Old Saint Paul's Church in Baltimore and they were dated 1692. The suggestions — the thoughts — are something to mull over in your mind. So read on: Gopacidity amidst the noise and the haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible without surrender be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story. Avoid loud and aggressive persons. They are vexations to the spirit. If you compare yourself with others, you may become vain and bitter, for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself. Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans. Keep interested in your own career, however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time. Exercise caution in your business affairs, for the world is full of trickery. But let this not blind you to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals and everywhere life is full of heroism. Be yourself. Especially do not feign affection. Neither be cynical about love; for in the face of all aridity and disenchantment it is as perennial as the grass. Take kindly the counsel of the years, gracefully surrendering the things of youth. Nurture the strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness. Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. You are a child of the universe no less than the trees and the stars. You have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should. Therefore be at peace with God, whatever you conceive Him to be, and whatever your labors and aspirations, in the noisy confusion of life keep peace with your soul. With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world. Be careful. Strive to be happy.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Watching the pros on television has really done a lot for my putting. Wait'll you see me emit when I sink a just miss one."

Fish protein project may aid malnourished

ABERDEEN, Wash. (UPI)—It may not match the miracle of the loaves and fishes for sheer drama, but a fish protein project here could prove equally miraculous for the world's malnourished millions.

The goal of the federal government-backed program is to learn the best method of making fish protein concentrate (FPC) and of using it in everyday foodstuffs.

It's estimated that for less than $3 a person could buy a one-year supply of commercially produced FPC containing all the minimal protein needed to prevent malnutrition.

If all goes as expected, FPC would be available in bread, potato chips, pretzels, porridge, beverages and other staples in U.S. supermarkets in the late 1970s. The concentrate also could be used in foreign and domestic poverty programs.

An experimental plant here being run by Ocean Harvesters, Inc. of Los Angeles recently began producing federally approved FPC from hake, a lean fish which is plentiful in the Pacific Ocean.

Researchers hope, further, to convert the facility within the next year so it can process fatty fishes, such as ocean herring, menhaden, alewives and ocean pout.

If the conversion works, it would mean FPC plans could be started in almost any location near water in the world since fatty fish are the most common types.

"Plans are to provide about one-half of the plant's product without cost to the State Department's Agency for International Development (AID)," said John Dassow, an assistant director of the National Marine Fisheries Service, which is lending its scientific knowhow to the project.

"Initially, AID will use FPC in its international, experimental feeding programs in countries that not only have the need but also the expertise to make studies and produce reports."

"The other half will be made available to the U.S. food industry for research," Dassow said.

The plant currently is producing about six tons per day of the tasteless and odorless FPC powder from about 50 tons of hake. Within the next few months the FPC will be given to aid and sold to commercial interests solely for experimental purposes.

Alpine Marine Industries, a commercial firm based in New Bedford, Mass., already has started selling small packets of FPC. However, the Alpine FPC is not made by the same process as that of the Aberdeen plant and it is not being used for the experimental feeding and marketing programs which should lead to widespread use of FPC.

GARRY BORTZ

JA meet delegate chosen

TWIN FALLS—Garry Bortz, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bortz, Jr., Twin Falls, is among five Idaho delegates to attend the National Junior Achievement Conference Aug. 15-20 at Indiana State University, Bloomington, Ind.

Junior Achievers from 50 states and 5 foreign countries will meet to pool ideas for better organization and service by the group during the coming year. Delegates will participate in workshops, general meetings and national elections and competitions.

Delegates to the conference are chosen according to ability and sincerity based on past records and work done. The delegates to the conference have all expenses paid by the Junior Achievement Association.

Hearings planned

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI)—Field hearings will be held before any decision is made on legislation concerning parks and recreation development on the Middle Snake River, according to Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho.

McClure made the statement after he and other congressmen toured the canyon area by air and boat Tuesday.

Rep. Roy A. Taylor, D-N.C., chairman of the House Parks and Recreation subcommittee, said hearings probably will be held in Washington, D.C., early next year on bills pertaining to development of recreation areas prior to setting of any field hearings.

Gem unit proffers budget

BOISE — The Idaho Historical Society's general fund budget request for 1972-73, authorized by the board of trustees earlier, must be presented to the state budget bureau on Friday.

The trustees approved an overall fund budget request for 1972-73 fiscal year beginning July 1 of $134,747 for salaries; $37,870 for other current expenses; $5,000 travel expense, and a capital outlay of $7,500.

The board met in Boise for the first time since it was expanded from three to five. Members elected Dr. John Caylor, Boise, as chairman and Mrs. Vona Waggoner, Twin Falls, was selected vice chairman.

Promotion of ranger reported

BOULDER — Bert F. Webster, Buhl, who has served as ranger on the Jarbridge Ranger District for the past five years, has been promoted to the regional office of the U.S. Forest Service in Ogden.

Gem unit selected in study

BOISE — A statewide task force including five persons from central Idaho has been selected to study the controversial issue of "certificate of need" legislation, according to Alvin Joslyn, Glenn Ferry, chairman of the Health Facilities Committee of the Governor's Advisory Council on Comprehensive Health Planning.

The group will try to determine if there is support for controls regulating construction of new health facilities, Joslyn said. Such legislation would give the state power to prevent overbuilding of medical facilities, including hospitals, nursing homes and rehabilitation centers.

The five area members of the group are Harold Drake, Dr. Elmer M. Wright and Dr. Joseph Marshall, all Twin Falls; Lee Baron, Fairfield, and Dr. Charles Terhune, Burley.

The first meeting of the approximately 40 member task force is set for Aug. 18 in Boise. The meeting is open to the public.

Canyon use by tourists said heavy

BOISE — Idaho Power Co. reported today that a survey now being made indicates more tourists use the T. E. Roach Hells Canyon development's three reservoirs and recreation facilities than the free-flowing Snake River downstream.

Wendell Smith, the utility's environmental affairs director, said the survey is scheduled to be finished after the hunting season next November. It consists of interviews with tourists on the Snake between Farewell Bend and the mouth of the Salmon River.

Smith said Idaho Power undertook the study to determine how reservoir use compares with use of the river downstream where access is more difficult. He said the preliminary analysis also indicates that tourists using the Hells Canyon development's reservoirs and parks are "predominantly families and retired couples."

Off limits

HONOLULU (UPI)—Wilbur and Kahoolawe, two of the eight major Hawaiian islands, are off limits to visitors.

Niihau, which has a population of about 200, is privately owned. Even Hawaii's governor needs special permission to visit it. Kahoolawe, which some Hawaiians call "Forbidden Island," is used as a target range by U.S. Navy gunships and planes.

Fewer smut gripes reported

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, citing vigorous prosecution of smut dealers, said Wednesday complaints about obscene mail dropped 41 percent in the fiscal year ended June 30.

A spokesman for the U.S. Postal Service, meanwhile, estimated that the number of "major and persistent pornographic dealers" had been reduced from about three dozen to about one dozen.

In the 12 months ended June 30, Blount said, 168,400 persons complained to the Postal Service about receiving unsolicited, obscene materials, a 41 percent drop from the 284,000 complaints received in the previous fiscal year.

Blount called this "an encouraging statistic, attributable in part to the large number of obscense dealers prosecuted."

Other officials said that 110,000 persons so far had taken advantage of a new law and added their names to a computerized list stating their objection to receiving "sexually oriented" advertisements.

This law took effect Feb. 1 and prohibits anyone from mailing obscene materials to a person on the list. It carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine, but there have been no prosecutions under it.

Blount said 54 dealers were indicted and 23 convicted under other federal obscenity laws during the last fiscal year for sending smut through the mails. Fifteen of the convictions, he said, were obtained against major dealers with large volume mailings.

Blount reported that convictions for all types of postal law violations reached an all-time high of 14,406 during the year ended June 30.

Young wife learns to love people as death approaches

DENVER (UPI)—Lyn Helton's brown eyes started a smile that spread down her face and her words were soft and happy: "I've learned how to love people. I'm not afraid to say, 'Hey, I love you.'"

She is a teen-aged wife and mother of an 18-month-old daughter. She also is dying.

Lyn Helton, 19, almost 20, has a rare bone cancer that will kill her, perhaps within months, according to doctors. But she said she is happy.

"Being this close to death, I realize how important it is to love everything I can. I think death is sort of beautiful," she said, talking slowly at the kitchen table of the three-room, $37-a-month apartment she shares with her husband Tom, a photographer and musician, and her daughter Jennifer.

"My whole outlook has changed because of this. I've just matured a lot faster than I would have normally. I realize things that probably would have taken years to realize—things like caring for and respecting people."

She is writing a book—"a kind of autobiography"—in which she will describe her thoughts of death. "I'm trying to get across how it feels to be dying and raising children at the same time," she said.

Last month, a boy, perhaps 9 or 10, broke into her apartment and stole the tape recorder and tapes she used for dictating her thoughts on death. She pleaded publicly for the thief to return them, but he never did. So a new recorder was donated and again she is working on her book.

"I've read lots of articles about people who have had cancer and live. But readers get a false impression from this," she said. "I've never read an article by someone who is dying."

"I think if I'd seen something like that it would have helped me get through a lot of emotional pain."

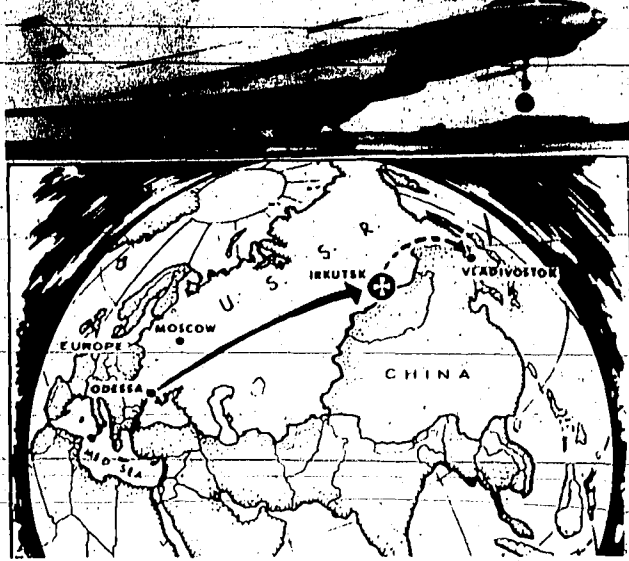

Mrs. Helton said her husband has learned to face her death just as she has. "He's really mellow. His philosophy is take it as it comes. He's accepted it very well."

But her daughter is another matter.

"Jennifer knows there is something wrong with me. Sometimes—I don't know why, it's very strange—she'll cry when she sees my crutches," the young mother said.

Mrs. Helton first learned she had osteosarcoma shortly after her child was born. She already has lost the use of one leg and must walk on crutches. She said the treatments were more difficult to face than the disease. So she stopped receiving them.

"For me, mentally, the drugs were worse than having the disease," she said. "I would rather die in a shorter length of time with a happy state of mind than take the drugs than be unhappy—and mentally deficient."

Lindsay one more Democrat

By RAYMOND M. LAHIT
UPI Political Writer
WASHINGTON (UPI)

Democrats viewed Mayor John V. Lindsay as just one more potential but untested presidential candidate today in an already over-crowded field—and as one who must make a spectacular showing outside New York to deserve attention for the nomination.

They believe he would appeal to newly enfranchised young voters and to urban-oriented, antiwar liberal Democrats disgusted with the Democratic performance in the 1968 presidential campaign.

And Lindsay has glamor in a field of likely candidates where it is conspicuously missing, particularly if Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts stays locked in his position that he will not seek the nomination.

But it was clear that Democrats felt that the New York mayor could become a serious candidate for the nomination only by following the route of other Democratic aspirants. This would require a strong showing in the state presidential primaries.

He would carry the handicap in those primaries of a man who was unable to win renomination for mayor in his own party when he was a Republican. He won re-election for two years ago running as the Liberal party nominee and as an independent.

He will have appeal to voters in both parties and to independents at a time when party lines appear to be crumbling. But he also will be viewed as an intruder competing for the Democratic party's biggest prize against Democrats who have given it a lifetime of service.

Although Lindsay has what the politicians now call charisma, he also is mayor of New York, the nation's largest city and a symbol to many voters of what is wrong with the country—too much crime, overburdened welfare rolls and racial strife.

Nationally, he has received much bad publicity as a result of strikes by garbage collectors and teachers.

Lindsay's switch in parties should result in at least a temporary spurt in his standing in the polls for Democratic presidential hopefuls.

In an Aug. 1 Gallup poll, Lindsay was the choice of only 3 per cent of the Democrats. He trailed far behind Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine (22 per cent), Kennedy (22), Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota (18). But he was only three points behind former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota and two behind Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota.

In the same poll, Lindsay led Sens. Birch Bayh of Indiana and Henry M. Jackson of Washington.

Political success in New York—and Lindsay is no hero upstate—no longer carries the weight it once did in national politics. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who won four presidential elections, was the last New Yorker elected to the White House. Thomas E. Dewey won the Republican presidential nomination in 1948 but lost the election, in part, perhaps, because he was too much of a New Yorker.

W. Averill Harriman failed to win the Democratic nomination in 1956 and Nelson A. Rockefeller tried and failed to get the GOP nomination in 1964 and 1968.

Board foes primed to oppose revival

By CHARLOTTE MOULTON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's revival of the Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB) still faces opposition in both Congress and the courts.

When Congress returns in September on its summer recess, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., intends to resume his efforts to keep the board in its former state of virtual inactivity.

Further, American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) attorneys are working up a lawsuit which they hope to file in Federal District court here in a few days.

Both Ervin and the ACLU argue that the SACB's duties are laid down in the Internal Security Act of 1950. Therefore, they contend, enlargement of these duties through Nixon's July 2 executive order is an infringement on Congress' power to legislate. They also say that the new responsibilities deny all Americans freedom of association.

Ervin and 27 colleagues of both parties were angry that Nixon did not issue his order until after the House passed the SACB appropriation. The order was not published until two days after the Senate hearings.

Loan funds OK'd

BOISE — Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, said Wednesday the College of Southern Idaho will receive $47,700 for National Defense Loans to 143 students.

Sen. Jordan said allocations approved for eight Idaho colleges and universities amount to $857,169 for loans to 2,221 students.

David Perkins, CSI dean of students, said the amount allocated to the college is the sum requested. He said the loan program is designed to help students through school with long term loans payable after graduation.

The loans begin accumulating interest of 3 per cent after schooling is complete with no interest accumulated until that time. Perkins added that CSI institutional funds contribute an additional 10 per cent to the amount available for the loans. He estimated $45,000 may be available.

'Wives' ranked superb TV fare

By ROBERT MUSEL
NEW YORK (UPI)—"The Six Wives of Henry VIII" represents some of the finest acting ever seen on American television, so it is one of the sadder facts of small screen life that the network credited with bringing this magnificent sequence of dramas to viewers is losing money on the deal.

This is one of the instances where viewers are ahead of possible sponsors frightened away by the dread words "culture" and "historical" for the ratings are healthy enough to have warranted better support from advertisers. It is worth noting that CBS-TV went ahead with the project though it knew it probably would not recoup even the modest—in TV terms—$800,000 it paid for the six 90-minute dramas.

The real benefactor of this action of enterprise by Robert B. Wood, president of the CBS Network, will be the Public Broadcasting Service which transmits the series starting Jan. 2. By then word of mouth, as it is already doing, will have reached anyone with an interest in superior television, anyone with an interest in acting at heights rarely attained in works specifically recorded for TV, as this was done by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

If you missed the first two wives of King Henry and especially the poignant portrayal of hapless Anne Boloyin by Dorothy Tutin last week, the third of the plays, "Jane Seymour," next Sunday is an excellent place to start. This segment of the series won the 1970 Italian Prize for Drama at the Florence Television Festival—one of the real prestige awards of the medium.

The title role of the young queen, who bore Henry his only son, the short-lived King Edward VI, is played by Anne Stallybrass, a new name to this country. But then Miss Tutin was not all that well known here and a few moments after Henry had her beheaded, by way of divorce, last Sunday the phone rang and a show business friend asked me to tell him I could about her—since I spend most of the year in Britain and Europe.

I told him that like Miss Stallybrass she is a product of what must be the finest system of producing stage talent in the world—the drama academies of London as a prelude to years of working in the repertory companies that still function in many small towns in Britain. Hence the fantastic reservoir of character actors whose work adorns the series.

If you can tear your eyes away from Keith Michell, the aging Henry frantic for a mate, and Miss Stallybrass, take special note of Patrick Troughton as the duke of Norfolk, Sheila Burrell as Lady Rochford, Wolfe Morris as Thomas Cromwell, Bernard Hepton as Archbishop Cranmer and Basil Dignam as Bishop Gardiner. In hands such as these a craft becomes an art.

Quits job

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sander Vanocur, veteran television newscaster, is leaving the NBC news department sometime early in September.

Vanocur, currently the anchorman for the 6 p.m. news on WNBC-TV in New York, said he was leaving to devote his time to writing, including a book on politics and the news media.

Errors in judgment cause most traffic accidents, says the Light House Police, and driving too fast for conditions is one of the most common errors.

Sugar beets growing well

IDAHO FALLS — Excellent growing weather this summer is greatly benefiting eastern Idaho's sugar beet crop to be harvested in the fall, according to Ford T. Scalley, district manager for Utah-Idaho Sugar Company.

"At the present time it appears the crop may produce slightly above average tonnage per acre compared with the past five years," Scalley said. Despite a "backward" spring, he said, the crop has moved ahead in good shape.

The continued spread of mechanization and modernization in spring work connected with the crop is impressive, he said. For instance, approximately 30 per cent of the 40,500 acres planted to sugar beets in the area this year was machine thinned, mostly with electronic equipment and chemical weed control was utilized on about 79 per cent of the acreage. Many of the modern practices likely will become universal in the next few years, Scalley commented.

Abandonment of acreage due to weather conditions was only about 2.8 per cent this year, he added, considerably less than many years of the fairly recent past.

Modernization of spring work meant that less field labor was used in beets this year than during any previous year in the history of beet growing in the area, he said.

The big sugar factory at Idaho Falls recently completed its annual "juice" campaign during which sugar that has been stored in juice form since the fall and winter beef-icing campaign is granulated into refined, crystalline form. The use of juice storage allows double utilization of dry bulk storage facilities at the factory complex.

The "juice" campaign started about mid-June. Many of the temporary workers needed for the operation are recent high school graduates or college students, providing useful summer jobs.

Caldwell studies housing

BOISE (UPI) — Housing conditions for migrant workers will be discussed during a public meeting Aug. 29 in the Caldwell City Park.

The chairman of the migrant housing subcommittee of the Governor's Advisory Council on Comprehensive Health Planning, Anna Plancencia, Nampa, made the announcement Tuesday.

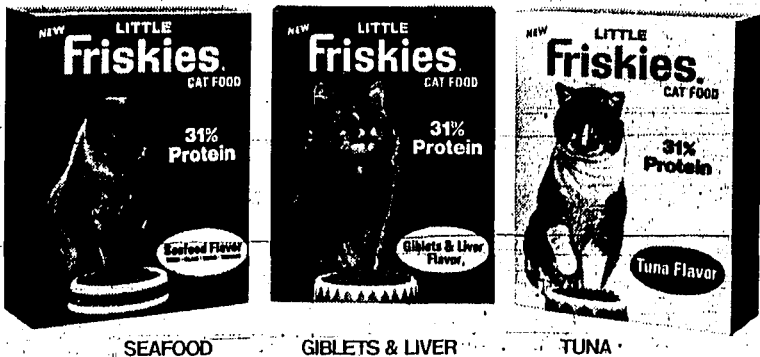

In calling the public hearing the group hopes to obtain suggestions from migrants and other persons directly involved in farm labor housing problems.

A bill on housing standards is to be drawn up by members of the subcommittee for introduction at the next legislative session, Mrs. Plancencia said.

Hospital closure proposed

BOISE (UPI) — After reviewing several proposals concerning the mental hospital program, the executive committee of the Idaho Mental Health Association has recommended closure of State Hospital North.

Committee members said a preliminary review indicates the hospital traditionally was used for a variety of social problems which could be resolved more appropriately in the community.

But while the committee recommended closure of Hospital North at Orofino it spoke out against closure of both state mental hospitals at this time.

The committee said that long term mental patients cannot be given the rehabilitative services of motivation and re-socialization with a general hospital program.

Irony in Lindsay troubles

By United Press International
In 1965, when he ran for mayor of New York, John Vliet Lindsay pictured himself as "Fred" while everyone else was "Fred."

Four years later, campaigning for re-election, his slogan had become, "It's the second toughest job in America." Much had happened in between.
In the 5 1/2 years he has occupied City Hall, Lindsay has faced a succession of crises. And it is the mayor who generally gets blamed for anything that goes wrong.
But for John Lindsay, there is irony in New York's troubles. While he is far from the most popular man among city residents, he has emerged nationally as a spokesman for the cities.

The crisis of urban America today is such that there is clearly a need for reorientation of priorities in the country," Lindsay has said. "The most serious domestic issue is therefore possibly the most serious international issue that faces the country, is the deterioration of the American cities."

Lindsay has seen it all. On Jan. 1, 1966, the day he officially became mayor, the city's subway and bus workers struck.

Since then, the sanitation workers have walked off the job, with Lindsay branded a strikebreaker for asking Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to call out the National Guard (he was rebuffed); teachers struck for more than a month in what developed into a racial confrontation over the administration of ghetto schools with Lindsay accused by some whites of siding with the blacks; firemen staged a job action and refused to fight a fire; fuel deliveries struck in the middle of winter; and last June drawbridges were left open and sewage and incinerator plants unattended over a pension dispute.

Meanwhile, crime and narcotics addiction rose, welfare rolls got larger, housing became more expensive and in short supply, the subway system has been called a nightmare and people have been asked to "save a watt" because electricity is in short supply.

But Lindsay has also been praised for his actions at times in the face of disaster.

When inmates at the overcrowded Manhattan House of Detention held guards hostage, he took a calculated risk by demanding in a dramatic radio address that the prisoners free the hostages in a half-hour. They did.

When Harlem erupted with the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr., Lindsay walked its streets at night. The image of the tall, 6-foot 4-inch, handsome mayor, tie askew and jacket over his shoulder, walking the streets of the slums to cool things is a familiar one.

Lindsay's administration has been relatively scandal-free, with the exception of the jailing of his water commissioner, James Marcus, in a kickback case.

Through it all, Lindsay has insisted the city is governable. He has tried to run it with a fusion government, new managerial techniques and a dispersion of power.

To much of the country, he represents the glimmer of New York. A patron of the arts and frequent first-nighter at Broadway shows, the mayor once did off-stage narration for the play "A Raisin in the Sun" and portrayed a congressman on television in a production with Lee Remick and Peter Lawford.

The blond, athletic-looking Lindsay, whose trimmed beard is his 40 years, also hosts his own weekly television show.

Lindsay and his wife, Mary, a Vassar graduate, have four children. Mrs. Katharine Schaffer, 26; Maxwell, 18; Anne, 15, and John Jr., 10.
The son of a Manhattan investment broker, Lindsay pursued the path followed by many a member of the so-called modern Republican establishment.

After graduating from Yale Law School, he entered private practice in New York and became a member of the GOP politics. He became president of the New York Young Republican Club and in 1952 headed Youth for Eisenhower.

Black to run in '72

DETROIT (UPI)—Rep. John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., says a black presidential candidate may be entered in six of next year's primary races—with the possibility of a white female as his vice presidential running mate.

"I think that the predicament this country is in, and want to come out ahead, will join us," Conyers, a black, told UPI in an interview. "Then possibly a white woman will be nominated to run for vice president."

Conyers made his predictions here en route to New Orleans, where he planned to meet in separate caucuses with other black leaders attending the annual convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), which opened Tuesday.

"A black candidate would automatically register and vote," Conyers said. "Voter registration drives, many already going on, would be heavily stepped up."

Conyers said the presence of a black candidate in the presidential race would have a profound effect upon the political community and particularly on the Democratic Convention at Miami Beach next summer.

"We ought to be able to negotiate at the top levels of power at the convention. These strategy meetings are giving notice to the entire country that we are no longer satisfied being black leaders but have resolved to take our place as national leaders."

He said it would force Democrats seeking the Party's presidential nomination to broaden their voter base. "They cannot ignore the power of a strong national black coalition behind a black presidential candidate," Conyers said.

"The white input is the second part of the black strategy. We plan to hook in the 25 million youth who have come into the majority in terms of voting. Women, of course, will play a leading role," he said.

Conyers said Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., has played a lead role in the terms of support of the black congressional caucus and women's lib, as well as three other ethnic minority groups we are establishing a coalition with."

He said it was "absurd" that anyone would misinterpret his previous statement to mean the black candidate would only address himself to blacks.

"Obviously, the president would address himself to all people. What I mean by a black political strategy for '72 is we need a political plan. It is ridiculous to just talk and do nothing about this."

"These problems of housing, poverty, education, racism and the like, are American problems which are incidentally, in the black situation is aggravated. We welcome and encourage all type coalitions."

Bear Lake pollution examined

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—A public hearing on the pollution and future development of Bear Lake was planned today with three members of Congress presiding.

Rep. Sherman P. Lloyd, R-Utah, Rep. K. Gunn McKay, D-Utah and Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, will conduct the hearings beginning at 8 a.m. in the Garden City LDS Ward Chapel.

"A basin-wide sewage collection and disposal system may be the only way to maintain water quality at Bear Lake," Lloyd said Tuesday.

"Because preliminary studies show an increase in the bacteria count in the lake, the present system of private septic tanks and drainage fields is outmoded and apparently poses a considerable health hazard," he said.

"A sewage collection and treatment facility would be costly but it may be the only way to protect the lake," the congressman said.
Lloyd said permits expected to testify as to whether the commission from Bear Lake County in Idaho and Rich County in Utah, Bear Lake property owners, federal officials, a planning commission and representatives of the Sierra Club.

Gem harvest progressing

BOISE (UPI) — A U.S. Department of Agriculture statistical report for the week ending Aug. 8 said the grain harvest in the state is well under way and the hay harvest is also excellent. The report said hot weather in Idaho has increased the need for irrigation water and has put the pressure on farmers to keep their fields watered. The report estimates that about 10 per cent of the winter wheat, 25 per cent of the winter barley and 10 per cent of the peas have been harvested in northern Idaho. In the southern half of the state, about 50 per cent of the winter grains have been combined and in eastern Idaho about 10 per cent of the winter wheat has been harvested.

Production of milk increases

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho milk production during June increased two per cent from the 1970 output for the same month, if federal-state report said Wednesday. Production totaled 146 million pounds compared with 143 million a year ago.

American cheese production, at 3.9 million pounds, was about equal to that of last year but higher than 1969. Creamery butter production was higher but ice cream production was down. Idaho dairymen received an average of $1.42 per pound of milkfat in milk used for American cheese during June — eight cents more than a year earlier. For June milk going into butter they got $1.38 per pound of milkfat compared with $1.21 a year ago.

Move to eliminate DDT now in final stages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's drawn-out move to eliminate all but "essential" uses of DDT from the American scene is finally grinding into its final stages. It may be complete, officials now say, by March of 1972. Spokesmen for the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) announced here last week that a public hearing on cancellation of registrations for all remaining uses of DDT will begin Aug. 17 in Arlington, Va. Officials said today some 123 witnesses are already scheduled to appear at the hearings, which may take about four months to complete. With testimony running nearly to the end of the year, EPA aides believe it will be March of next year before they can review the vast mass of material and prepare final rulings on all the DDT uses. Even then, there is at least a possibility of further delay in imposing bans on remaining DDT uses. Any manufacturer who disagrees with EPA's ruling on his product will have the right to appeal to the federal courts. DDT, the first of the modern generation of synthetic organic pest killers, had been introduced in the United States during World War II. For years, until environmentalists began campaigning against its use because of residue buildups in wildlife and man, it ranked as one of the most effective, versatile and cheapest tools ever developed to fight insect pests. Over the past decade, however, DDT use began dropping. Farmers and other users began turning to newer chemicals as some insect species developed resistance to DDT; later, the government began cancelling permits for a number of specific uses on environmental grounds. The government moves — first by the Agriculture Department and later by the EPA which took over pesticide regulatory powers last year — have proceeded too slowly to suit many environmentalists. A series of court suits was brought to prod officials into faster action, but courts have declined to issue flat demands for orders which would suspend all DDT use before manufacturers' appeals are heard. As far back as November, 1969, the Agriculture Department had announced its intent to cancel all DDT uses except for cases "where DDT was needed for prevention or control of human disease, and other essential uses for which no alternative means of pest control were available." Cane sugar was known to the ancient Egyptians.

Windmill draws attention

By MARJORIE LIERMAN Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Passers-by on the road three miles west of town slow up to get a better look at a quaint Dutch windmill which has been erected on the front lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Ostrand.

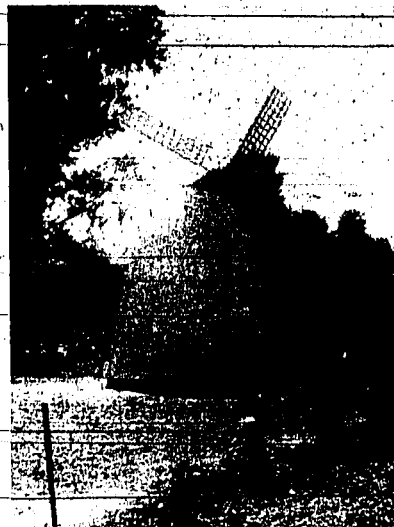

This attractive blue and white lawn accessory turns in the breeze and looks over everything but utilitarian but actually it was built to camouflage the well house underneath.

Van Ostrand states he had to place the wellhouse in the front yard in order to get it 100-feet away from the seep stream. So he hit upon the idea of building it in the form of a windmill and says his neighbors were quite perplexed when he began his wellhouse, to see it go up in a tapered cone shape.

Most of the work was done on weekends — and evenings, — the owner said, who added they had always thought they would settle in Boise but chose Twin Falls instead. Their neat mobile home sits in the back of the spacious lawn.

Van Ostrand has painted his windmill blue and white and it is completed except for some simulated windows which he plans to add toward the top.

Managua, capital of Nicaragua, was almost totally destroyed by an earthquake in 1931.

Dual purpose . . .

THIS EYE-CATCHING windmill on the front lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Ostrand, southwest of Twin Falls, serves a dual purpose, as it is both an attractive lawn ornament and also camouflages the wellhouse which had to be placed there.

Electronics association meeting held

ALBION — Members and guests of the Electronics Association of Magic Valley spent the weekend at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl (Hap) Reynolds at Thompson Flat near Pomerelle Ski area.

El Long, Twin Falls, president of the association, conducted a round table discussion on matters pertinent to television technicians.

Mel Quale, association secretary, who had just returned from the national convention at Portland, presented information he derived while representing Idaho. He will continue his presentation at the next regular meeting.

Recreation during the weekend including trail cycling, fishing, hiking, pitching horse shoes and relaxing.

The association was organized in Burley in May following pre-planning meetings. Most of the television technicians in the area are members.

A dinner meeting is held once a month and a monthly meeting at which items of technical interest is presented by speakers and instructors, also is held.

Valley Briefs

REV. AND MRS. JAMES J. FLEMING

60th anniversary celebration set

JEROME — Rev. and Mrs. James J. Fleming will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday at Wilder. The Fleming children are holding an open house for the couple from 2 to 6 p.m. at the Wilder United Methodist church.

James J. Fleming and Tressie M. Monroe were married Aug. 9, 1911, in the Grace Episcopal Cathedral, in Chicago. Performing the ceremony was Rev. Herbert S. Webster.

Miss Monroe was attended by her sister, Charlotte Monroe, and Fleming's best man was Hazen Lindorf. The wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Robert Jones in Gary, Ind. The Flemings came west in 1912 and to Idaho in 1922. Three of their six children are living and include Mrs. Marshall (Marvel D.) Everheart, Jerome; Vance C. Fleming, Boise, and Jerri Cook, South Pasadena, Calif. The couple has six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Fleming also raised six other children besides their own.

Mural unveiling to take place at fair

JEROME — Jerome Art Guild members will be unveiling a large mural during this year's Jerome County Fair Aug. 25. The art work is a donation to the citizens of the county and will hang outside of the arts and women's building at the fairgrounds.

Parade time is 4:30 p.m. and John Stelle Jr., fair board chairman, said the unveiling will be held immediately afterward.

4-H club meeting is held

HOLLISTER — The Happy-Hollister 4-H Club met Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Chadwick.

Members discussed judging and observed swine projects of Kurt and Bryce Gines. They also observed beef projects of Lila, David, Chris, Marcia, Lynn, Tim and Jane Chadwick and Bruce and Mike Gines. Club members judged cattle, assisted by Tom Callen, Bill Clark, Bill Swan and Dick Noh. A potluck meal followed judging.

Special guests were members of the Sage-Cities 4-H Club of Three Creek and their parents, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Callen, Rogerson.

The mural consists of two panels, each four feet by eight feet, and is the first part of a project which involves similar decorative work at other fairground buildings. They will be permanent additions to the buildings and will be cared for by Ernie Peterson, grounds keeper.

The two panels represent two separate themes. One is a canyon and Shoshone Falls depicting scenes of Idaho. This design was created by Mrs. Carl Walters, who took pictures of the falls and created a pattern from them. Mrs. Walters was assisted by Mrs. Rannald Shropshire who helped with the initial sketch.

The painting of the first panel was done by Mrs. Ed Larson, Ms. Marie Dalry, Mrs. Marygrace Cox, Mrs. Walters, Mrs. Shropshire, Mrs. Phoebe Thomason, Mrs. Doris Auslin, Mrs. Vern Coulson and Mrs. Albert Davis.

The second panel of the mural is of people coming to the fair. It was painted under the direction of Mrs. Davis with the help of youth members of the guild, Ray Elquist, Scot Jackson, Buddy Callen, Jerry Ostler, Robert Kolb, Sonny and Laura Snoderly and Jeff Bragg. Also helping was Mrs. Emma Bradshaw.

Magic Valley Favorites

TOSCA KAKA

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1-3 cup cream or milk
1 cup flour

1½ tablespoons baking powder

2 ounces butter

Melt the butter. Let it cool. Beat eggs and sugar. Add butter. Blend the flour and baking powder and add that together with the milk. Pour the batter into a buttered baking dish. Bake for 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

TOPPING

2 ounces almonds, sliced or silvered
2 ounces butter
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon milk

Blend all the ingredients in a pan. Warm mixture until everything is mixed, but do not boil. Spread this over the cake. Bake the cake for 10 to 15 minutes more.

(Note: Kris Annis noted this is an authentic Swedish recipe, given to her family by 4-H exchange student, Birgith Elovson, from Sweden who lived with them for awhile this summer.)

The Times-News will pay $5 each week for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page Editor. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.

Pre-nuptial showers held

HAGERMAN — Susan Waite was feted at a pre-nuptial shower at the home of Cheryl Sandy. Peggy Hendrickson was co-hostess.

Games were directed by Miss Hendrickson. Prizes went to Debbi Larson, Marla Waite, Janaye Waite, Barbara Laen, and the honoree.

Miss Waite will become the bride of Fredrick (Rick) Bondorf Saturday evening at the Hagerman LDS Church. Ruth Chick was the guest of honor at a pre-nuptial shower given at her home this week. The shower was given by Kristi Choules and Kathy Chick, Pocatello.

Games were directed by Kathy Chick. The bride-elect modeled a paper wedding dress fashioned for her by the guests.

Miss Chick will become the bride of Keith Bebe on Sept. 4.

King family has reunion

RICHFIELD — Members of the Ralph King family held an annual reunion at Camp Manipu above Ketchum with 84 persons attending the two-day event.

Tim Benedict, Provo, was in charge of sports events Saturday. Ralph King, Rupert, conducted the Sunday program with each family presenting a program number.

Saturday evening Marilyn King, Garland, two-year chairman of the officer class, showed films of past reunions. Roland King, Jerome, brought films showing pictures of his late father, Lt. Roland King, oldest son of Ralph King, who died in 1944. Relatives attended from California, Utah, and Idaho.

Church rites unite couple

TWIN FALLS — Carla Marie Hodkins and Gary Wayne Rumpfelt were married in rites July 23 at the Twin Falls First Christian Church. Rev. Ray Jones performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hodkins, Twin Falls. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Rumpfelt, Jackpot, Nev.

The bride wore a full-length gown. Fine cotton venise lace accented the bodice and encircled the wide satin peau de sole hem of her organza imported cage gown that swept into a chapel train. A bandeau of venise lace flowers held her elbow-length veil of English silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations and white glads. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Bridesmaids were Pam Bell and Gaye Westcott, friends of the bride. Maid of honor was Donna Brownfield, friend of the bride. Flower girl was Monique Beeler cousin of the bride. Ring bearer was Douglas Hymas friend of the bride.

John Conrad served as best man. Ushers were Billy Hodkins, brother of the bride, and Doug Denmark, friend of the bridegroom.

The bride's table was covered with satin with net overlay and centered with a four-tiered wedding cake of white and yellow carnation. The cake was designed and made by Mrs. Marvin Sheridan.

Presiding at the cake and punch table were Mrs. Bonnie Gailoy, Mrs. Jenn Staley, and Mrs. Zel Staley, aunts of the bride. Karen Gove attended the guest book. Daronna Hodkins, sister-in-law of the bride, Karen Hamilton and Judy Drown, friends of the bride, and Janet Rumpfelt, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, were in charge of the gift table.

Ron Braun was soloist. Guests attended the wedding from California, Nevada, Rogerson, Gooding, Filer, Jerome, and Shoshone.

Gifts were carried by Jan Steinmetz, cousin of the bride, and Julie Huch, friend of the bridegroom.

The reception was held in the basement of the church.

news about the people you know Valley Living

DEAR ABBY: I am ready to go out of my mind! I have a 12-year-old boy who still wets the bed. Not occasionally, but every night. I have punished him, offered him bribes, shamed him and taken him to doctors. A pediatrician, a urologist and even a psychiatrist all told me there is nothing wrong with him! I even took him to a hypnotist and that didn't work.

I've used every home remedy I've ever heard of and sent for contraptions I've seen advertised in magazines, but nothing has helped. Can this continue until he is married?

My poor child has never been able to stay overnight with a friend or go to camp, and I won't even mention the laundry I have to do every day. Please, Abby, any suggestions you or anyone else has will be a Godsend if it works. Just sign me — MISSOURI MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Bed wetting is caused by either a physical or emotional disturbance. If you have investigated the possibilities of both and apparently you have, you have done all you can do. Don't scold, shame, punish or bribe the boy any more. Simply wash the sheets and say no more about it. No man ever went on a honeymoon in a diaper.

DEAR ABBY:—I was an unwed mother, but for the past six years I have been happily married to a wonderful man who married me and adopted my son when he was only a few months old. We have since had another son and a daughter.

Do you think we should tell my first son that the man he calls "Father" is not his real father? I think we should, but my husband is dead set against telling him now, but says maybe we will tell him when he's older.

I am concerned about this because I am afraid the boy will find out before we tell him and he will be hurt. This possibility exists as there are a few people who know about it. My husband says if we do tell the boy the truth he doesn't want the other children to know about it. I would like your opinion. —TO TELL OR NOT TO TELL

DEAR TO TELL: The truth may "hurt," but in this case, a lie could hurt much more. Try to persuade your husband to tell it like it is, and the sooner the better. And if you do tell the boy, I doubt if you can keep it from his brother and sister.

DEAR ABBY: We are two married couples who are living together in a spacious three bedroom, two bath apartment.

The reaction of our friends to this arrangement has been strange. The first thing they say is: "I didn't know you were swingers and swappers."

We aren't. We just like each other and find it economically beneficial to share one large apartment.

The reaction of our friends doesn't bother us, but we were surprised by it, and are interested in yours. We are not Bob, Carol, Ted and Alice! We are —JOHN, MARY, DICK AND JANE

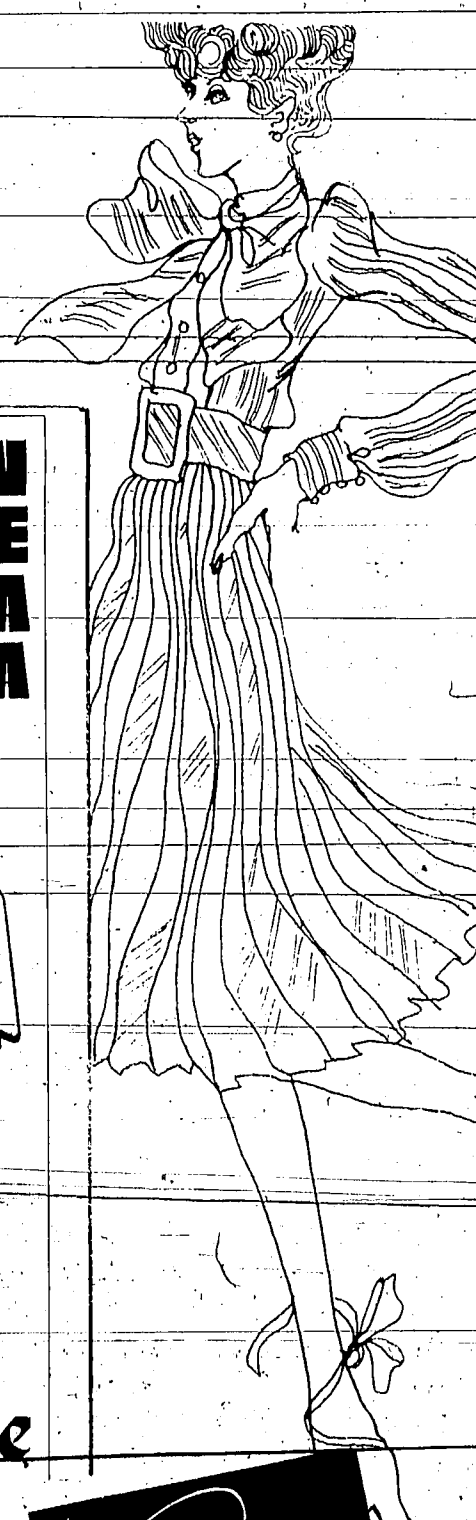

DEAR J., M., D. AND J.: Would you believe it would not have occurred to me to question your sleeping arrangements?

CONFIDENTIAL TO N. Y. POST EMPLOYEE: Quit calling him at all hours of the night to see if he's "all right!" He may get the idea that you just want to see if he's home.

Jerome economist receives 'woman of America' honor

JEROME — Sharon LaFray, extension-home-economist for Jerome county, has been named an Outstanding Young Woman of America.

Miss LaFray is now being considered for Idaho's Outstanding Young Women of the Year award, presented annually by the Outstanding Young Women of America program.

Now in its seventh year, the U.S. program was established and guided by leaders of the nation's major women's organizations.

The program's board of advisers, composed of national presidents of women's clubs, is headed by Mrs. Dexter O. Arnold, honorary president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

SHARON LaFRAY

Purpose of the Outstanding Young Women of America program is to recognize young women between the ages of 21 and 35 for their exceptional contributions to the betterment of their communities, professions and country.

Nominations for the national awards program are made by women's groups, churches, alumni associations and universities.

A biographical sketch of Miss LaFray will be included in the annual awards volume "Outstanding Young Women of America" which is distributed as a reference publication.

Miss LaFray has been extension-home-economist since Jan. 1970.

She received a bachelor of arts in home economics education from Idaho State University.

Miss LaFray was born in Everett, Wash. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. LaFray Jr., Ketchikan, Alaska.

Miss LaFray is adviser to both the Jerome County 4-H program and the county's home demonstration club.

Wedding plans revealed

JEROME — Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Patterson announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Jaynie, to Jeff Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bell, all Jerome.

An Oct. 16 wedding at the First United Methodist Church of Jerome is planned.

Miss Patterson was graduated from Jerome High School in 1971. Bell was graduated from Jerome High School in 1970 and is employed by the Idaho State Highway Department.

MR. AND MRS. NELS PEDERSON

Couple marries in July church rites

CASTLEFORD — Cindy Herzinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Herzinger, Castleford, was married to Nels Pederson, Portland, Ore., son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Pederson, Bandon, Utah, July 31 at the Castleford United Methodist Church.

The marriage was performed before an altar decorated with orange candles in gold candleabra, greenery and orange carnations and beauty baskets filled with orange gladiol and yellow chrysanthemums.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Roy Fedje, minister of the United Methodist Church of Rochester, N.Y.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of peau de sole and Venice lace, styled with a wedding ring neckline edged with tiny bands of lace. The gown had an empire waistline, sleeves with deep cuffs and a slightly full skirt with medallions of lace applique on the bodice and skirt. It had a chapel length train.

The bride's long veil of illusion was held by a cap of Venice lace topped with a bow. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow carnations and orange gladiol.

Mrs. Ransie Herzinger, Boise, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor and Pat Kido, Parma; Debbie Snuffer, Mountain Home, and Kathy Lincoln, Twin Falls, all sorority sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids.

Michelle Wahl, Twin Falls, was flower girl, and Chad Wahl, Twin Falls, was ring bearer. Rose Matannah and Tammy Keller were taper lighters.

Ron Valliere, Portland, served as best man, and ushers were Louie Bahles, Portland; Ransie Herzinger, Boise, and Kim Herzinger, brothers of the bride. Garland Kyles, cousin of the bride, was in charge of programs.

Mrs. Dean Kohntopp, organist, played wedding music and Mrs. Ray Fedje sang "Oh Perfect Love" and "A Wedding Benediction." Dr. and Mrs. Fedje sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Ell Martin, Buhl.

A reception at the church fellowship hall followed the ceremony.

The bride's table was covered with apricot satin and circled by a skirt of apricot nylon. Greenery and orange gladiol held the satin at the corners of the table.

The table was centered with a four, tiered wedding cake accented by yellow-wedding-bells and orange roses. It was topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom. The base of the cake was circled by greenery and orange carnations and was flanked by arrangements of orange roses and carnations.

The refreshment table was covered with white lace and featured a chorus vase of orange roses and carnations and orange candles in silver candle holders. Quartet tables were covered with white lace over orange and featured orange center pieces.

Mrs. Bob Kyles and Mrs. Vernon Herzinger cut and served the cake. Mrs. Art Reese presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Earl Heidel poured coffee. Mrs. Louie Bowles was in charge of the guest book and Jeannette Reese and Jill Quigley took care of gifts.

Diane Senften played background music during the reception. Reception assistants were Mrs. Jake Stahlacker, Mrs. Clinton Quigley, Mrs. Lawrence Sill, Mrs. George Hesselholt, Mrs. George Bluck, Mrs. Guy Kinyon, Mrs. Fred Ringert and Mrs. Alan Pierce. Mrs. Leonard Walcott, Buhl, baked and decorated the cake. The couple took a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe and San Francisco. They are living at 9050 S.W. Scholls Ferry Road, Portland.

Hostesses for a pre-nuptial shower at the Castleford Methodist Church were Mrs. Jake Prudek, Mrs. Fred Ringert, Mrs. Guy Kinyon, Mrs. Bob Kinyon, Mrs. Art Reese, Mrs. Bob Becker, Mrs. Chester McClain, Mrs. B.P. Johnson, Mrs. Jake Stahlacker, Mrs. Sidney Wiggins, Mrs. Tony Potucek, Mrs. Joe Baringna, Mrs. Joe Wasko and Mrs. Rolly Senften.

Guests attended the wedding from Rochester, N.Y.; Portland and Bandon, Ore.; Boise, Mountain Home, Parma, Hansen, Twin Falls, Buhl and Castleford.

Picnic is postponed Open house to honor anniversary

TWIN FALLS — The juvenile picnic of the Twin Falls Camp of Royal Neighbors of America which had been scheduled for Aug. 24 has been postponed to a later date.

During a recent meeting Lena Bohrn, Hansen, district deputy, was an honored guest. She spoke on matters pertaining to lodge work.

Lillian Arrega conducted the meeting and Grace Sariples served as chancellor pro tem.

Plans were made for the flower booth at the Twin Falls County Fair and also for a picnic to be held Aug. 19 at the Twin Falls City Park.

An invitation to the Halley camp's picnic was read. It will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday at the Joe Wurdt Ranch.

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chapin, Twin Falls, will be honored at an open house on their 40th wedding anniversary.

The reception will be from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at their home, 348 Tyler St., Twin Falls.

They were married Aug. 19, 1931, in Boise. The couple has seven children, Mrs. Pauline Eldredge, Hally; Martin Chapin, Idaho Falls; Harry Chapin, Twin Falls; Mrs. Sam Middleton, Buhl; James Chapin, Twin Falls; Charles Chapin, Twin Falls; and Mrs. Ron McFarland, Maple Plain, Minn. The couple has lived in Twin Falls most of their married life.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Of all teen appearance problems, the universal one is how to lose weight. Dieting is such a drag, or so most teens believe. But it need not be. Not if you get your head straight on the subject. There's where a doctor's advice would be helpful, particularly for a girl who has to lose upwards of 20 pounds.

Otherwise, try these ideas on for size — a smaller size:

1. Eat three regular meals daily. Eat hearty of meat, fish, poultry, eggs, skim milk, lentils, green vegetables and raw fruit. Be strong, go easy on all sweets, starchy foods, fats and fries. The plan is healthful and restful. Your calorie total runs about 2,200 daily. With that count you don't starve, you do lose.

2. As snacking is the greatest threat to weight losses, cultivate low-cal types—unsweetened fruit juices, no-cal soft drinks, fresh fruit, cheese-tidbits, thin pretzel sticks. Right here you can take off one pound per week.

3. Use these appetite failers: Never skip breakfast; sip a glass of water or a low-cal drink before dinner; eat very slowly. In such ways you will want for less food. Honestly!

4. Get all outdoor exercise possible. To trim heavy spots, take to spot exercise. Activity burns fat calories and smoothes bulges. Also make a point of good posture. It's natural exercise. Get with it!

SECRETS OF A LOVELY FIGURE

What's your figure problem? To achieve total attractiveness send for my booklet, SECRETS OF A LOVELY FIGURE. It contains easy ways to reduce weight and proportions; to overcome grooming problems, such as furz, freckles and blemishes; to move with grace and poise. THE 18-YEAR-OLD VOTE

Where the New Voters Are

More than 11 million new voters are added to the rolls with ratification of the 26th Amendment to the Constitution establishing 18 as the minimum voting age throughout the nation. The total eligible voting population is now estimated at 139,563,000. Greatest number of new voters is in the most populous state, California. None has been added in Georgia and Kentucky, which previously permitted 18-year-olds to vote. In Alaska, the minimum age was 19 and in Hawaii, 20.

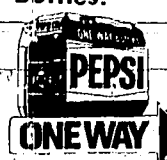

Congressman attacks recall

By United Press International
 Recall of two Idaho legislators who voted for a legislative pay increase drew fire today from a Congressman, a state senator and a former legislator now serving the executive branch.
 U.S. Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said in Salmon that the use of the recall to remove legislators over a single issue "can seriously weaken our representative system as well as state government itself."
 "When someone is elected to the legislature there is an implied agreement he will have the right to serve his two-year term after which his entire record can be subjected to the will of the voters," said Hansen, a state legislator before he was elected to Congress.
 "The recall should be limited to cases of gross wrongdoing such as conviction for a serious crime or misconduct in office and not be directed at a legislator who is acting openly and on record and in a way that reflects his own honest convictions on a particular issue."
 Tuesday, voters in Legislative District 39 recalled Sen. W. Fisher Ellsworth and Rep. Aden Hyde, both Republicans. Ellsworth has declined comment. Hyde said simply, "The people have spoken and that's it."
 "I guess that ends our political careers and everything else," Hyde added.
 State Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, Senate majority leader, said the purpose of the recall is not to be used against officials "who stand up and cast their votes on a single issue."
 But he said that as a result of the recall the legislature next year probably will consider a bill to cut back legislative pay.
 Edward V. Williams, House minority leader when the legislature voted to increase legislative pay and now administrative assistant to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, called the voters' action "a moral and civil abuse of recall," albeit a legal one.
 "A legislator votes on a myriad of bills and from now on each vote a legislator casts will have a shadow and threat of a recall if he offends a segment of his constituency," Williams said.

GM hikes auto price $928

DETROIT (UPI)—One of the most popular cars sold by General Motors Corp. carries a tentative base price on the 1972 models $928 higher than it did three years ago.
 A detailed list of tentative 1972 sticker prices released by GM Tuesday showed the eight-cylinder, two-door Chevrolet Impala hardtop is listed at $3,944. A comparison made Wednesday with 1969 model prices showed that, when those models were released, the car carried a sticker price of $3,016.
 The comparison of five models showed the price increases between 1969 and 1972 models included a $436 boost for the eight-cylinder Malibu coupe—the best-selling individual model—and a $1,004 increase for the top-of-the-line car, the Cadillac Fleetwood 60 Special Brougham.
 In percentages, the increases ranged from about 14 per cent on the Cadillac to almost 31 per cent on the Chevrolet Impala. The Impala line is GM's, and the auto industry's, most popular, and the car in question is the most popular in that line, although for individual models the Malibu outsold the Impala.
 A spokesman for GM said that $524 of the $928 difference between the Impala's price in 1969 models and 1972 models was attributable to optional equipment being made standard in the latest models. The three major factors were automatic transmission, power steering and power disc brakes, he said.
 In addition, safety items, improved emission controls, inflation and higher materials and labor costs also added to the price increase, he said, though a figure could not be attached to those items.
 On Aug. 10, 1968, an assembler on a GM line made $3.82 per hour, compared with the Malibu's $4.30 on the same date in 1971, when the tentative prices for 1972 models were released, the United Auto Workers said. That was a wage increase of 19 per cent.

Fee increase backed

JACKSON, Wyo. (UPI)—Despite threatened lawsuits, the Jackson mayor and town council stuck to their guns Wednesday and refused to reconsider the recently enacted $100-licensing fee for out-of-town businesses making deliveries in Jackson.

Bill Brooks, manager of the Idaho Falls, Idaho, Chamber of Commerce, addressed a meeting of the Jackson Chamber of Commerce directors Wednesday and pleaded with them to support revocation of the fee.

But the board voted 4-3 in favor of the mayor and council's plan. Mayor Lester May and the councilmen, who were at the meeting, said they had no plans of changing the fee requirement.

Brooks said 33 Idaho Falls businesses received notices requiring them to pay the $100, or face the possibility of having their trucks impounded. Many denied the threats.

"I am sure no one has received any threat of any kind from our office," he said, "and I feel we are perfectly in our rights in asking for a business license."

Minidome described at Filer

FILER — Mike King, manager of the Minidome at Idaho State University, Pocatello, addressed the Filer Kiwanis Club Tuesday.

Introduced by Carl Grinstead, program chairman, King showed slides of the Minidome and told of activities centered there. He is a former student body president of the university.

Filer club members will join Buhl Kiwanis Club members for a fish fry at 8 p.m. today at Clear Lakes. The annual event is sponsored by the Buhl club and will include golfing and fishing before the fish dinner.

There will be no noon meeting of the Filer club next week as the annual family potluck picnic is at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 17 at Nat-Soo-Pah.

Guests included Larry Knuffman and Tom Fort.

Gambling dragnet nabs 30 persons

CHICAGO (UPI)—FBI agents Wednesday arrested 25 persons in nine states in what FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover called a "major crackdown" against organized interstate gambling.

Five other persons were sought in connection with the alleged activities, which Hoover described as a multimillion dollar business.

Hoover and Attorney General John M. Mitchell, in statements released here and in Washington, said arrests were made in Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Rhode Island, Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi, California and Oklahoma.

Government officials said the arrests resulted from indictments returned in Chicago Tuesday by a special federal grand jury.

Hoover said the FBI and the Justice Department's organized crime strike force in Chicago cooperated in an extensive investigation that led to the grand jury action.

Two indictments charged the 30 persons with violating federal laws that prohibit the operation of an illegal gambling business and/or the use of interstate telephone facilities for bookmaking purposes.

The penalty for violation of the statutes ranges up to five years in prison and a $20,000 fine.

Magichords join concert tonight

TWIN FALLS — The Magichords, directed by Burt Huish, will present International Entertainment during tonight's summer park concert by the Twin Falls Municipal Band.

The concert will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the City Park. Band Shell. Director Del Staughter said the program will include "Hall of Fame Concert March" by J. Olivadotti; "Die Meistersinger" excerpts by Richard Wagner; "The Last Pages" by Enrique Granados; "Short Classics for Band," arranged by James Gillette including "Trumpet Tune" by Purcell; "Gavotte" by Bach and "Aria" by Telemann; "On Parade" by E. F. Goldman.

The second half of the concert consists of "El Capote Paso Doble" by Antonio Parera; "Deep River Suite" by Frank Erickson, with "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot"; "Deep River" and "Joshua Fought the Battle of Jericho"; "Mary Poppins Highlights" by Richard and Robert Sherman and "The Dam Busters March" by Eric Coates. The National Anthem will close the program.

Soggy Scouts home from jamboree

By MIKE ROBERTSON
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Nineteen worn and weatherbeaten Boy Scouts and three equally tired scoutmasters arrived in Twin Falls Tuesday after a typhoon-drenched 13th World Boy Scout Jamboree in Japan.

The young men and their leaders returned after a rainy six-day stay in Kamakura (camp) number five on Asagiri Heights Japan, site of the Jamboree.

Ben Beckham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Beckham, Burley, related some of his and the other scout's experiences during their rainy stay.

He said it was raining some when the scouts arrived at camp Aug. 4. Beckham said that all activities eventually had to be stopped after 2 1/2 inches of rain had fallen and the typhoon was still in full swing with high rates of wind.

He and three other members of his troop, John Mead, Twin Falls; John Holmes, Jerome, and Earl Rea, Gooding, climbed Mt. Fuji before the big rains came.

"On the way up the mountain we couldn't see more than 20 feet, through the rain and fog," Beckham said.

As the four boys went up the mountain, the rain became freezing cold and blown down by a driving wind. He said as the group descended the steady rain became warmer. They returned to camp at about 10 p.m. with the torrent still coming down.

Beckham said that once all activities stopped, the scouts just stayed in their tents.

"Nobody would even go for breakfast and we didn't get up until 10 in the morning," he said. "We just sat around in the tents and ate crackers."

Earl Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Reed, Gooding, said it had been useless putting on dry clothes because they wouldn't stay dry.

He said by this time everyone was sleeping in wet sleeping bags. "Everything was wet," he said.

The Boy Scout troops were evacuated to a school house Saturday evening outside the camp. They stayed at the school until the rains subsided.

Beckham said by Sunday everyone had nicknamed the jamboree "13 Swamperee" because the camp was a literal swampground.

The boys finally loaded up and left from Tokyo Wednesday at 11 a.m. Tokyo time and arrived in Twin Falls at 11 p.m. local time.

Tom Bennett, Hagerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett, said the trip was good even though there was lots of rain. When asked if he would do it again he said "sure, I think so, rain and all."

"It's nice to have them back. We can quit worrying about them now," said Darl Gled, Council scout executive.

The 19 boys from the Snake River Area Council were part of a large delegation from the United States at the jamboree. In all there were about 87 different nations represented.

Those attending from the Snake River Area Council were Clay Asher, Michael Beus, Terry Boyd, James Clawson, Rodney Finlayson, Kent Katz, John Mead, David Shorthouse, and Jon Taylor, all Twin Falls; Ben Beckham and Paul Brown, both Burley; Donald Fisher, Douglas Hansen and Roger Hansen, all Rupert; Dirk Clarkson and John Holmes, both Jerome; Earl W. Rea, Gooding; Thomas Bennett, Hagerman, and Dan Phillips, Declo.

Scouts arrive home

NINETEEN TIRED Boy Scouts arrived home Wednesday after a long flight from Tokyo to Boise and busride to Twin Falls. The scouts unloaded their gear from the bus and then presented a miniature Japanese pagoda to Darl Gled, area scout executive, as a memento of the trip. Scoutmaster Keith Egbert, Kimberly, presented the pagoda for the scouts. The scouts then made a final check of their gear. Below, Doug Hansen secures his camera for the final log of his trip home to Rupert. (Times-News photos by Mike Robertson)

Melody Brown was last year's junior princess. Outgoing queen is Sue Billington, 17, Billington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Billington.

Lawyer questions water testimony

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News Writer

GOODING — Another round in the long-standing controversy between environmentalists and fish hatchery owners over use of water in the Box Canyon area of Hagerman Valley was recorded at the Gooding County Courthouse Wednesday.

The hearing, specifically over a change in the point of diversion of water already granted to Richard Casper, Hagerman, was conducted by Keith Higginson, Boise, director of the Department of Water Administration.

The environmentalists, represented by the Gooding Coney Planning Commission, Idaho Parks Department, Idaho Fish and Game Department, and Aldrich Bowler, Bliss, were heard. The validity of their testimony was questioned by Casper's lawyer, John Rasholt, Twin Falls.

He said protests filed by these groups should not be considered because they are not water right holders. Higginson said he would confer with the attorney general about the validity of the protests.

During the hearing, Norman Standall, Hagerman, who also owns a fish hatchery in Hagerman Valley, and previously had protested the proposed change in diversion, agreed to work out a written agreement with Casper after Casper offered to help pay additional costs Standall said he would incur.

When this written agreement is recorded with the Department of Water Administration within 30 days, it would indicate that Standall, who is associated with George Lemon in business, had withdrawn the protest, Higginson said.

Standall said if the proposed diversion was granted, which is one-quarter mile upstream from where the original point of diversion was granted, it would affect the amount of water going to his hatchery and mean higher costs for him.

John LeMoyno, Gooding planning commission member, said his group objects to granting use of the water, because it will adversely affect the ecology of the area. The commission wanted additional time to have a study made of Box Canyon, but even though they were not granted the extra time, they are still protesting, LeMoyno said.

The Box Canyon area, fed by numerous springs, constitutes the 11th largest spring in the U.S., Bowler said. He said the state agency should decide on the principal use for the area, which, he said, is "worthy of national monument status."

Water coming from the springs in the Box Canyon feed into the Snake River forming an unusual clear pool in the river known as the Blue Springs, he said.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department was represented by Robert Bell, Jerome, fisheries biologist. He said Box Canyon is the only area in scenic Hagerman Valley left undisturbed.

Before the hearing Wednesday afternoon, an agreement was reached on diversion further up the canyon to divert the spring water out through hatchery raceways and across the river. Provisions of this agreement were entered into the record, but were not made public.

"Wednesday's hearing was not termed a public hearing since the only issue under consideration was the change in point of diversion, but the persons representing the public interest were heard, Higginson said.

Bellevue reaches accord

BELLEVUE — Arrangement over the use of excess Bellevue city water was achieved during a special meeting of the city council Tuesday night.

Earlier a group of residents had protested use of city overflow water by Worley Head. They said they had an agreement with the city dating back several years for use of the water and Head had not been included.

At that time, Mayor Claude Ballard denied use of the water to all concerned until an agreement could be made by the two parties.

At the Tuesday meeting, the council was told that an agreement had been reached with the water being used by all on a rotating system.

The group will present a written agreement to the council at the beginning of the next irrigation season.

The council also approved a plot plan presented by Leonard Hurst for subdivision of his property south of Bellevue into two and three acre lots of land.

Burglary suspects in court

JEROME — Richard Lobusch, 26, Rupert, and Thomas Jean Dye, 27, Kimberly, appeared Wednesday before Magistrate Russell C. Shand on charges of first degree burglary.

The two men were apprehended at the Valley Cafe in Hazelton about 2 a.m. Wednesday by two citizens who had the cafe under surveillance. According to Eugene Fredericksen, Jerome County prosecuting attorney, Fredericksen said several robberies occurred in the Hazelton-Eden area in the past month and citizens had formed surveillance teams posted inside several stores during the night.

FRED PLANKEY, Twin Falls attorney, questions his client, Norman Standall, Hagerman hatchery owner, during a hearing Wednesday afternoon at Gooding over a change in point of diversion of water already granted to Richard Casper, another hatchery operator in the Hagerman area. Aldrich Bowler, Bliss, speaking for the public cause of the environmentalists, is at the end of the table.

Air pollution index 113

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District of the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today.

Federal pollution regulators say pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms over any 24-hour period, and the reading is considered in the above 750 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Forecast

Today: Good
Tonight: Poor
Tomorrow: Good

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution. Burning or permitted by law should be curtailed when the air is poorly able to disperse air pollution.

Prison probe starts

BOISE (UPI) — Normal operations resumed today at the Idaho State Prison and Gov. Cecil D. Andrus began an investigation of the institution and conditions which led to a riot that began Tuesday night.

Convicts returned to their cells at 5:30 a.m., the time an inmate advisory committee promised Director of Correction Raymond May and other officials they would do so if demands were met.

Glen Jeffes, associate superintendent of programs at the penitentiary, said prison officials expected to "resume a normal workday today."

May cleared the way for ending the riot by taking steps to cool off sweltering cellblocks and correct other alleged inequities at the century-old institution. He ordered electric fans shipped air express from the Midwest to reduce temperatures in the cellblocks.

Apparently convinced the director, who also acts as warden, meant business, the inmates agreed to call off the riot in which two convicts were stabbed and $25,000 damage occurred.

Andrus conferred privately with May and Chairman William J. Dee of the state board of correction Wednesday and then told a news conference he plans an investigation.

The governor said the probe will include conditions leading up to the riot Tuesday night but indicated it may be considerably broader than that. He declined to go into detail about it, saying only that it will be conducted by his office.

During the riot, officials reported fires in four buildings. The figure was revised Wednesday. May said there was a serious fire principally in one building—the social services building—and a smaller blaze in one and possibly two others.

Andrus said damage was estimated at $25,000 and was insured so it will "not be out of the taxpayers' pockets."

Prison officials Tuesday night said it appeared the convicts started the fires. Wednesday, May said it was possible that a short circuit started the blaze in the Social Service Center and that inmates may be innocent of any arson.

Andrus said any prisoners found to have violated the law will be prosecuted. Presumably this will include whoever stabbed two convicts during the riot—Charles Rice and David Brum. Both men remained critical in a Boise hospital.

Rioters asked for amnesty and May indicated he probably will go along with that request where possible. However, he indicated to one newsmen amnesty would not be granted in the stabbing case if the guilty parties are found.

Ada County Sheriff Paul Bright criticized May's handling of the riot, saying the governor should have taken more decisive action.

8 girls compete for queen title

BURLEY — Eight girls are vying for the title of Cassia County Fair Queen who will be crowned the final night of the rodeo Aug. 21. Two attendants and a Miss Congeniality also will be selected by vote of all the candidates.

Hoisting queen is Jill Alfred, who holds the title of Miss Rodeo Idaho. The candidates include Jacki Ray, Marsha Hairston, Rosetta Ward, Mary Ellen VanKomen, Betty Jo Durfee, Wendy Jacobs, Debbie Mabey and Sherrie Helms.

Miss Ray, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Douthit, Declo, is sponsored by the Burley Jaycees. A graduate of the Declo High School, she attended Cabrillo College. During the fair she will ride a Quarter Horse named Red.

Miss Hairston, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hairston, Malta, is sponsored by the Burley Elks Lodge No. 1,384. A 1968 graduate of Minico High School, she will ride a Quarter Horse named Hasty Tinks. She belongs to the Minidoka Wranglers and has ridden in several parades.

Miss Ward, 18, graduated from Raitt River High School and plans to attend Brigham Young University, majoring in Spanish. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy D. Ward, Malta, she will ride a sorrel named Brown. Her sponsor is the Burley Rotary Club.

Miss Van Komen, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Van Komen, Malta, is sponsored by the Malta Lions Club. A Raitt River High School graduate, she plans to attend Ricks College and major in law. She will ride a Quarter Horse named Spanish Bounce. She has ridden in high school rodeo competition and at the Oakley Pioneer Days celebration.

Miss Durfee, 18, is sponsored by the Burley Lions Club. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Durfee, Malta, she was graduated from Raitt River High School and plans to attend Idaho State University. Her mount will be a Quarter Horse named Rimbarr. She has ridden in rodeos at Stone, Malad, Jerome, Plymouth, Gooding and Yost, Utah.

Miss Jacobs, 19, a graduate of Declo High School, attended the University of Idaho last year. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Don Jacobs, Declo, and she is sponsored by the Declo Lions Club. An American Saddle named WhirlAnna, will be her mount. She has entered rodeos at Oakley Pioneer Days, Pocatello, Rupert and with the Minidoka Wranglers.

Miss Mabey, 19, is sponsored by the Burley Kiwanis Club. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Mabey, Oakley, she was graduated from Oakley High School and attended Ricks College last year. This fall she plans to enroll at Utah Valley Hospital. She will ride a registered Quarter Horse named Sear. She reigned as Oakley Pioneer Days rodeo queen in 1970 and also has ridden in rodeos at Burley and Rupert.

Miss Helms, 18, is the reigning Oakley Pioneer Day rodeo queen and is sponsored by the Oakley Vigilantes. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Helms, Oakley. She will be a senior this fall at Oakley High School.

The public is invited to the queens breakfast at 6 a.m. Monday at the Ponderosa Inn. During the event the candidates will be judged on personality and public appearance.

Officer urges drug education

BURLEY (UPI) — A Madison County deputy sheriff said Wednesday that enforcing drug abuse laws is not merely a matter of "cops against the longhairs" and called for more drug education to solve the problem.

Deo Davis, Roxburg, told some 75 delegates attending the two-week drug education conference sponsored by the Idaho Department of Education that he feels that "law enforcement officers need more drug education. We need better understanding of the problems involved."

Davis said he "can honestly say not all longhairs are bad" and added that he hoped young people would tell their friends that "cops are not all bad and not just out to bust you."

Suit filed for Gatorade profit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government, claiming ownership of the "Gatorade" formula, filed suit Wednesday to obtain all profits earned by Stokely Van-Camp Inc. through sales of the drink.

In a U.S. District Court suit here, the Justice Department said the formula for Gatorade was the property of the government because it was developed at the University of Florida under grants from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The suit said Stokely Van-Camp, owners of the soft drink, "is believed to have made substantial profits" from Gatorade sales and asked that all of them be turned over to the U.S. Treasury.

It was a truce period during the siege of Troy. Some of the rival leaders were playing bridge.

Achilles sat North, the wily Ulisses South, King Priam sat East and Prince Hector, the best bridge player as well as the greatest hero in Troy, sat West.

Hector thought about sacrificing at five hearts, but he did not have too much faith in his father's overcalls. Anyway, he had what looked like considerable defense, so he put the queen of hearts on the table.

The wily Ulisses studied for a moment and then played dummy's troy. Priam looked surprised, but pro-

REMARKABLE how many common sayings come from the South Pacific. "Once in a blue moon," for instance. A volcano kicked ash into the sky over Java back in 1883. And the moon, shining through it, looked blue. A rare sight, rare enough. When the blue-moon saying "White elephant" came from down that way, too. The King of Siam gave white elephants as gifts—to various notables. His secret enemies, mostly. On the surface, it looked like a goodwill gesture. Actually, these citizens couldn't insult the king by getting rid of the animals. So they were stuck with the feed bills. Which bankrupted not just a few. Foxy fellow, the King.

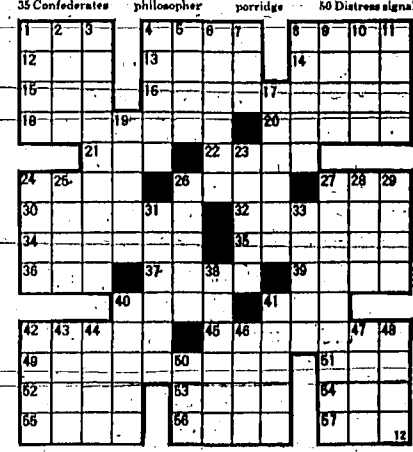

"BEWARE the fury of a patient man," said Dryden. Suspect that's even more apt of a patient woman. Covered a story once about a quiet lady who for 24 years watched her husband brush his teeth every morning in the kitchen sink and spit the toothpaste out the window. She finally shot him.

Setbacks snarl Sato future

Refugees fear Viet atrocities

TOKYO (UPI)—Bisaku Sato is an embattled prime minister. Within the past six months Sato, Japan's longest reigning prime minister—has suffered one setback after another. The end is nowhere in sight. Opposition parties are moving in with increasing vehemence on the 70-year-old prime minister. In session after a session of the diet (parliament), Sato is the object of critical questions and probes. There are also signs of discontent within Sato's own ruling Liberal Democratic party (LDP). When President Nixon last month announced his forthcoming visit to the Chinese Mainland, one could hear grumblings in the ranks. Even more ominous for Sato, there are indications that big business in Japan, one of the two major political forces in the country, is also dissatisfied with Sato's performance in recent months. Several prominent business leaders have publicly stated it is time for a change in Japan's leadership. The criticism began at the beginning of the year when the prime minister failed to resolve the U.S.-Japan textile dispute. Bilateral government talks broke down and Sato, whose reputation is built on his ability to get along with the Americans, had to accept a plan for voluntary quotas on the part of the Japanese textile industry. Then local elections were held throughout the country in March, and they were more trouble for Sato. The election which carried the most interest was the one for the governorship of Tokyo, held by leftist Ryokichi Minobe. Minobe has been a thorn in Sato's side for several years and thus the prime minister threw his full weight behind Minobe's opponent, a relatively obscure former Tokyo police chief. Despite an extensive—and costly—public relations campaign, Sato's candidate lost by over a million votes. And leftists won not only the Tokyo governorship but also those in Osaka and Kyoto, Japan's other major cities. The elections for the upper house in the diet reinforced the trend. The LDP kept its majority, but the Socialists increased their number of seats in rural areas, long considered the power base for the LDP's popularity. The biggest blow to Sato's prestige, however, came on July 16, the day Nixon announced his trip to China. (The United States gave Japan about two hours notice of Nixon's announcement.)

KOMPONG TRABEK, Cambodia (UPI)—The Cambodian civilians had walked for eight days and nights to reach their own government's soldiers. They were exhausted more by the war fought by Vietnamese in their country than by their trek. "I will not go back to my village as long as there are Vietnamese there," said Hin Ouk, 52. "I do not like and I am afraid of the Viet Cong," said an old woman. "But they never hurt us. The South Vietnamese steal all our things, then beat us." More than 5,000 refugees now live at this once small, peaceful market town on Highway 1, about 60 miles southeast of Phnom Penh. They do not consider themselves refugees from the war, but rather as refugees from the tactics of the South Vietnamese army which last month launched three separate operations inside Cambodia. Local government officials and visitors to Kompong Trabek are surrounded by groups of displaced villagers, each eager to tell his personal story of mistreatment at the hands of the South Vietnamese. Literally, they yell "Shut up!" at one another in their impatience to tell of alleged atrocities. To the villagers, one point is clear. They do not oppose a war in their area.

'Euphoria' danger told

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., today warned the administration to keep its eyes open in dealing with Peking, and he released a study estimating Chinese communism has taken at least 34 million lives.

Eastland, chairman of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, which commissioned the study, said:

"As our experience after World War II demonstrated so tragically, history exacts a high price of nations that indulge in euphoria over arrangements of convenience ...

"Above all, let us not close our eyes to the unpleasant fact" of the "fundamental hostility of Red China to the United States," Eastland said.

The study estimated Chinese communism, starting with the "first civil war" of 1927-30, has claimed at least 34.3 million lives—possibly as many as 63.7 million—through military action, purges and terroristic slaughter.

The study was drafted for the subcommittee by Dr. Richard L. Walker, director of the Institute of International Studies at the University of South Carolina. Eastland described Walker as one of the foremost China scholars.

Walker's estimate of communism's death toll in China exceeded estimates of Russia's communism toll made for the subcommittee earlier by Robert Conquest, a British "sovietologist." Conquest's estimate of Soviet deaths was 21.5 million to 32.2 million.

Walker cautioned against accepting a pledge Chou En-lai gave American correspondents in Peking June 21 that no vengeance would be exacted against mainland Chinese refugees on Taiwan if the United States removes its "protective shield" from the "nationalist Chinese.

Chou was quoted as assuring the correspondents, "Far from exacting revenge on them (the Chinese on Taiwan) we will reward them," Walker said.

Walker added: "But these were just the terms which Chou En-lai and Mao Tse-tung promised to the former Nationalist and third-party intellectuals who joined the Communists on their accession to power in 1949."

"Yet," Walker said, "they were among the first victims who are now statistics in the sobering tale of casualties ..."

At least three former top cabinet ministers, freed earlier by McMahon, rallied to Gorton's defense and argued Gorton had every right to answer criticism leveled against him in a newly published book by political journalist Alan Reid, "The Gorton Experiment."

Others accused Gorton of "irresponsibility," trading classified information while he still held a top government post.

Defense minister ousted

CANBERRA (UPI)—Australian Prime Minister William McMahon fired Defense Minister John Gorton today after a week of political infighting which split McMahon's Liberal party.

The dismissal represents another step down for Gorton, who lost the prime minister's post to McMahon only five months ago.

McMahon met with Gorton for 12 minutes in the prime minister's office at Parliament House in Canberra.

Afterwards, McMahon issued a statement saying he had informed Gorton that "his action breached basic principles of cabinet solidarity and unity and reflected on the integrity of some ministers."

McMahon then called for Gorton's resignation.

Gorton also issued a statement, in which he said McMahon had told him he was "disturbed" at the first of his series of articles on his "memoirs" which appeared in the Sunday Australian.

Gorton's memoirs, "I did it my way," accused some of his present cabinet colleagues of "leaking" government information. The first controversial article triggered angry reaction from politicians and the news media.

At least three former top cabinet ministers, freed earlier by McMahon, rallied to Gorton's defense and argued Gorton had every right to answer criticism leveled against him in a newly published book by political journalist Alan Reid, "The Gorton Experiment."

Others accused Gorton of "irresponsibility," trading classified information while he still held a top government post.

Acquitted

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (UPI)—Seven Papuan natives accused of killing, cutting up and eating a man last May were acquitted Wednesday of a charge of cannibalism.

The supreme court said there is no specific charge of cannibalism in the law of the territory and cannibalism was not improper or indecent in the (accused) men's community.

Nixon inks farm, HEW, labor bills

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon signed six bills Wednesday appropriating $62.1 billion for government expenditures ranging from farm subsidies to the Subversive Activities Control Board.

The money bills were passed in a flurry of last-minute congressional activity before the House and Senate recessed Friday for a month-long vacation.

A measure appropriating $20.9 billion to finance the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare for the current fiscal year was $81 million over the President's request.

Thomas Jefferson was born April 13, 1743, at Shadwell, Va.

Tusk dug up

SCIENTIST stands beside mastodon tusk unearthed near Warsaw, Mo., during excavation by party sponsored by University of Arizona and Illinois State Museum. Group started work about a month ago, following theory that men lived in area along with mastodons, which became extinct about 10,000 years ago. Searches in area have been carried out since 1806. Hunger strikers to new prison

DANBURY, Conn. (UPI)—Antiwar priest Philip Berrigan and 10 other inmates involved in a hunger strike at the Danbury federal prison were moved Wednesday night to a medical center for federal prisoners at Springfield, Mo.

"Because of the limited hospital space available at Danbury, the decision was made to move them," Warden John J. Sardin said in announcing the transfer. "In accordance with the Bureau of Prisons policy, they were placed under medical observation."

Five other prisoners involved in the hunger strike protesting the nation's parole system also may be moved to the Springfield facility, a spokesman for the Bureau of Prisons said in Washington. The transfers have been authorized, he said, but facilities to carry out the order were not immediately available.

Berrigan and his brother Daniel, also a Roman Catholic priest, are serving time for destroying draft records in Catoonsville, Md., in 1968. The hunger strike began Friday after five inmates distributed leaflets denouncing the denial of parole for the pair two weeks ago and demanding the immediate release of Daniel, whose health they said was deteriorating.

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. (UPI)—A bomb scare turned into a drug haul Wednesday when FBI agents and sheriff's investigators searched a Delta Air Lines flight bound for Chicago from Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood Airport.

The FBI received an anonymous phone tip that someone would smuggle a bomb aboard the Delta flight in an orange shopping bag.

Two men carrying an orange shopping bag were detained as they prepared to board the flight.

Inside the bag was a gift-wrapped package, which was treated with extreme caution until explosives experts could open it. They discovered it contained more than five pounds of high-grade heroin, which police estimated would bring $1 million to $1.5 million in street sales after dilution.

Abraham Migdall, 45, of Miami and Anthony Legato, 41, who gave various Illinois addresses, were arrested on a charge of possession of heroin and booked into Broward County Jail under $150,000 bond each.

Marine sergeant acquitted

WUANTICO, Va. (UPI)—Marine Sgt. John M. Sweeney was acquitted by a military judge Wednesday on charges of running away in presence of an enemy and communicating with the enemy in Vietnam.

The military judge, B. Raymond Perkins, earlier had thrown out a charge of desertion brought by the government against the 21-year-old Marine.

Sweeney could have been sentenced to life imprisonment if convicted on the communication and running away charges.

Sweeney took the stand Wednesday in his own behalf and admitted he signed anti-American statements while a prisoner in Vietnam because his captors were "going to put a nice big hole in my head." The crew cut, 21-year-old Sweeney said when he was first told to sign statements urging American combat men to resist the war "I told him to go to hell. I wasn't going to do it."

But Sweeney said a man held a .45-cal. pistol to his head and I knew he was going to kill me, right then and there. His finger was on the trigger and I knew he was going to squeeze it and put a nice big hole in my head.

"I thought—I know—that man was going to kill me. I know he would have no qualms about it."

The West Babylon, N.Y., Marine was captured Feb. 19, 1969, after he failed to keep up with his unit. He wandered off a jungle trail after falling out of ranks and was picked up by the enemy.

When he returned to this country in August, 1970, the Marines charged him with fleeing in the face of the enemy and making dishonest statements for his captors.

In morning-long testimony, the receding, pallid man said he was "having trouble breathing" the day before his capture and couldn't keep up with his comrades. He said his company commander, Capt. Thomas

Hinkel, called him "a maggot—a poor excuse for a Marine"—and fired several shots at him from a distance of three feet. He said the day he was captured "I kept falling out. I couldn't breathe."

Payments delayed

BOISE (UPI)—Conversion to a new computer system is causing some problems in handling of some travel and other vouchers and state employees' paychecks, the auditor's office said Wednesday.

Auditor Joe R. Williams said a few errors were brought to his attention as the result of the switchover and that his staff was "running them down."

Williams said some problems should be expected in the changeover of 150 programs from the old Univac 494 computer and 250 programs from his smaller IBM.

But he contended that the changeover still was relatively smooth and that he was pleased with the way it was going.

"It's a problem that comes with the change of equipment and that will have to be ironed out," Williams said. Among problems reported by some agencies was too great a deduction for social security from some employees' Aug. 1 pay warrants. Part of this stemmed from the fact the computer failed to take notice of those employees who paid in the maximum social security charges for the year and kept on charging them.

Support busing, or else

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has advised federal officials to order busing to integrate schools only if it's last resort or else their jobs.

"Busing will not be used as the primary element in development of a plan for the purpose of eliminating a dual school system," White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Wednesday.

Ziegler also said, "Those not responsive to the President's policies will find themselves quite possibly not in assignments in the government."

The President opposes busing because "he doesn't think school children should be placed in buses and driven 40 minutes away from their homes," Ziegler said.

The press secretary said Nixon, in writing and verbally, emphasized his position to appropriate agencies within the past month.

Nixon sets trip west

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon will leave next Tuesday on a three-day travel swing to New York, Springfield, Ill., and Dallas, winding up at his San Clemente, Calif., vacation home for an extended stay.

The Springfield stop, added to the schedule Wednesday, will be for a bill-signing ceremony on legislation that will turn the only home Abraham Lincoln ever owned in to a national historic site. Nixon also will visit the Illinois state fair.

In New York he will address the supreme council of the Knights of Columbus and in Dallas he is to appear before the Veterans of Foreign Wars on Thursday. The White House indicated other stops may be added to the schedule.
