

Stoic soldier

YOUNG BRITISH soldier remains picture of stoicism as women demonstrators besiege his post in Diamond Square of Londonderry, Northern Ireland, scene of some of troubles between Catholics and Protestants. Outbreak there came at start of Protestant celebrations commemorating end of Catholic attack on city by King James II in 1690. (UPI)

Irish rift now chasm

BELEAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Prime Minister Brian Faulkner said today his government would no longer deal with the government of the Irish Republic.

"No further attempt by us to deal with the present Dublin government is possible," Faulkner told a news conference.

Faulkner denounced Irish Prime Minister Jack Lynch for calling for a new government in Northern Ireland and accused him of backing the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) in seeking the downfall of Faulkner's administration.

Northern Ireland has held the IRA largely responsible for five days of street fighting that have killed 25 persons, wounded scores more and left areas of Belfast and other cities a burned-out shambles.

"Indeed, Mr. Lynch now clearly commits himself and his government to support by political means what the IRA seeks to achieve by violent means—the overthrow of the Northern Ireland government," Faulkner said.

Faulkner said the IRA had a "safe haven" in the Irish Republic.

His comments followed a preliminary statement rejecting Lynch's demand that he abolish his government.

Red guns blast Viet DMZ bases

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese gunners firing long-range 130mm artillery for the first time in nearly two months poured heavy rockets and mortars into two South Vietnamese firebases near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) today in the third consecutive day of their renewed assault against the DMZ defense line.

Military sources said 12 South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded at Firebase Alpha 2 near the intersection of Highway 1 and the DMZ's southern boundary but did not cause damage at Alpha 1, a mile south of the DMZ along the coast.

The sources said many of the shells fell outside the fortifications at both bases.

"I think the Communists are planning something big, but I'm not sure what it is," a Vietnamese spokesman said in Saigon. "I don't think they have the capability for a massive offensive against the DMZ. What they might do is concentrate attacks on a few of the bases."

Prisoner releases predicted

DALLAS (UPI) — Hebert R. Rainwater, national commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said today he has "inside information" that some American prisoners of war will be released before Christmas.

Rainwater, of San Bernardino, Calif., said at a news conference at the opening of the VFW's national convention, that the organization had been working for a year on POW release, although he did not attribute what he called the "impending release" to the groups' efforts.

"I think we are going to see some of them back before Christmas, according to inside information I have," he said.

Dollar value droops

LONDON (UPI) — Selling pressure drove the dollar to a new low in West Germany today. Elsewhere in Europe, U.S. currency stayed near its lowest permitted price.

Exchange dealers in London, where the dollar hovered a shade above its official "floor" value, said the whole market was kept unstable by worries of a dollar devaluation (and chances of future changes of the price limits within which the dollar can fluctuate against other nations' currencies).

Frankfurt dealers abandoned early-forward dealings in the dollar, according to London market sources. Forward transactions handle currency sales and purchases for delivery in future months and are used by professionals to cover other trading operations.

The West German mark today climbed to its highest point since May 10, when it was "floated" away from its fixed parity against the dollar to find its own level.

The dollar plunged today to a new low of 3.3735 marks at one stage, compared with the previous day's low of 3.3880 marks — the worst dollar showing against the German currency in 22 years.

Arab countries battle at border

Syria reported a new tank and artillery battle with Jordanian forces along the Jordanian frontier today, and there were hints from Egypt that its unofficial cease-fire agreement with Israel along the Suez Canal might be allowed to expire on Sunday.

Syria broke diplomatic relations with Jordan Thursday after a border tank battle in which Jordan said it destroyed five tanks, apparently those of a Palestine guerrilla group based in Syria.

Reports of new fighting were carried by Egypt's semi-official Middle East News Agency quoting a military spokesman in Damascus.

A Syrian military spokesman said a Jordanian armored patrol penetrated about one and a half miles into Syria Wednesday and attacked a Syrian outpost. It said the Jordanians committed atrocities on a wounded Syrian soldier before withdrawing.

Thursday's tank battle began, a military spokesman in Damascus said, when a number of Jordanian tanks and armored cars opened fire at 6:20 p.m. against a Syrian border outpost with cannons and machineguns. He said Syrian troops "returned the fire, destroying four Jordanian Centurion tanks and setting them ablaze. "Syrian troops suffered no losses," he said.

Relations between Jordan and Syria have been strained for years, plunging to a new low following King Hussein's recent military crackdown on Palestinian Arab guerrillas. Syria closed its border on July 25 after accusing Jordanian troops of firing on Syrian border villages. Iraq also closed its borders with Jordan and barred Jordanian planes from Iraqi airspace.

The new breach in the Arab world came amid indications that the crisis in the Middle East may be reaching a climax

In view of the deadlock between Egypt and Israel over an interim agreement to reopen the Suez Canal.

Mideast deadline bandied

By United Press International Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has set Sunday as a deadline for U.S. efforts to achieve an interim Middle East peace settlement and said Egypt is "determined" to wage all-out war against Israel because "there is no alternative," Cairo's Al-Ahram newspaper said today.

No indication was made that Egypt would start shooting once the deadline lapsed. There has been an unofficial truce at the Suez Canal since the cease-fire of Aug. 7, 1970 technically expired March 7.

Muhammad Hassan al-Helk, editor of Al-Ahram, said Sadat set the deadline in an exchange of messages with President Nixon "because Egypt cannot tolerate a situation of no peace and no war." Sadat repeatedly has said the dispute with Israel would be settled politically or militarily this year.

Helk said Sadat told Nixon Egypt's 15-year "friendship" treaty with the Soviet Union signed last May "does not impose any restrictions on Egypt's movement toward what it wants, which is complete withdrawal from Arab land."

The new warning to Israel came amid further division in the Arab world. Syria broke off diplomatic relations with Jordan, denying it access to the Mediterranean Sea and banned its planes from Syrian airspace Thursday after a tank battle at their border.

Implantee reportedly feels well

DETROIT (UPI) — Haskell Shanks, his heart functioning with the aid of a permanently implanted pump, today was taken off the mechanical respirator that was helping him breathe.

A spokesman for Sinai Hospital, where a team of doctors implanted the partial mechanical heart in the 63-year-old Shanks' body Wednesday, said he is "feeling great" and felt well enough to sit up in bed and eat soft foods.

"He spent a comfortable night, the respirator has been removed and he's sitting up in bed," the spokesman said. "The partial mechanical heart is working very well."

The "patch booster," a six-inch partial mechanical heart made of dacron and silicone, is the first mechanical heart device designed for permanent use within the body. Shanks had been suffering from congestive heart failure, which each year claims about 250,000 lives, and doctors said the device was his last hope for life.

US distributes makework fund

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The newest government effort to fight the highest unemployment in a decade will be reaching the local level in a few days when states and cities begin receiving $120 million for new jobs.

The money is part of a $1 billion emergency unemployment-measure signed into law Monday by President Nixon. The initial funds, Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said Thursday, should put some of the nation's unemployed back to work by Labor Day.

Assistant Labor Secretary Malcolm Lovell said the federal government will not be peering over the shoulders of local officials as they decide what kind of jobs to create.

But he said the emphasis would be on putting people to work as quickly as possible, with special consideration for Vietnam veterans, minority group members and disadvantaged persons.

The money will pay the salaries of people who will be hired for such community service jobs as fire and police protection, teaching, public health and pollution control, to name only a few.

Valley gets no job fund

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three Idaho counties are to receive Emergency Employment Act funds from the Labor Department in the amount of $796,000.

Magie Valley counties will not receive funds from this act. Counties to receive money are Ada, $147,500; Cascade, $380,000; and Yellowstone, $268,500.

President sets Gem stopover

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will visit Idaho Falls Wednesday as part of a five-state trip taking him to the Grand Teton National Park and on to a two-week stay at the Western White House.

Mrs. Nixon, leaving Monday on a separate five-state tour to promote the President's parks program, will join her husband in San Clemente, Calif., for the two-week working vacation at their home overlooking the Pacific. The President is expected to return to Washington about Sept. 3.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon would fly first to New York City to address the supreme council of the Knights of Columbus Tuesday evening at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. He will remain overnight in New York and fly Wednesday to Springfield, Ill., where he will participate in a ceremony establishing the home of Abraham Lincoln as a national historic site.

Stone may prove 'Genesis rock'

And the Space Agency announced Thursday night that geologist-astronaut Harrison H. Schmitt has been assigned to the Apollo 17 crew along with Eugene A. Cernan as commander and Ronald E. Evans as orbital pilot.

Scott and Irwin watched as scientists made the first preliminary examination of the half-pound rock in the lunar receiving laboratory late Thursday.

"They both stood there and gradually a big smile came over their faces," said Dr. William P. Phinney, chief geologist at the Manned Spacecraft Center. They found the rock resting on a stone pedestal at the edge of a mountainside crater Aug. 2.

Scott and Irwin announced to the world they had found what they were looking for, a rock called anorthosite that many scientists believed would represent the original top layer of the moon.

Exactly what the astronauts said it was, Phinney said. It was without doubt, he said, anorthosite—a relatively rare rock on earth made up almost entirely of the aluminum and silicon mineral orthoclase.

The significance of anorthosite is that it is a product of a complex melting and crystallization process that Dr. John A. Wood, of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, Cambridge, Mass., theorized occurred on the moon in its earliest days.

Wood suggested after finding a tiny piece of anorthosite in the soil brought back by Apollo 11's astronauts that the moon was largely molten shortly after forming. As it started to cool, minerals froze in the liquid with heavier ones dropping to the bottom and lighter ones riding to the top.

Plagioclase is the lighter mineral and it floated up forming a crust of the rock anorthosite.

Woman dead in fall

CHICAGO (UPI) — A naked secretary fell 90 stories to her death Thursday from Chicago's tallest skyscraper. Police and managers of the John Hancock Center were investigating today the many unanswered questions surrounding the fall. The death of Mrs. Lorraine Kowalski, a 29-year-old widow, was being investigated as an apparent suicide. Mrs. Kowalski was visiting an apartment occupied by Marshall Berlin, 45, early Thursday when she crashed through the glass and plunged to her death. Frank Heldenreich, engineer of the world's tallest office-apartment building, said the windows should withstand more than 200 pounds of pressure per square foot before breaking. Heldenreich said he did not fear that a person might fall through one of the windows of the 100-story building by accident. Building Superintendent Robert Kinsler doubted Mrs. Kowalski could have broken the glass by herself. He said he did not know how a 125-pound woman could do it. Berlin told detectives Mrs. Kowalski arrived shortly after 3 a.m., sang about something. He said he left her alone in the living room and heard breaking glass. He returned, found the broken window and Mrs. Kowalski gone. A woman who was walking on Michigan Avenue said she saw the body bounce off steel girders three or four times before it hit on the sidewalk. Berlin is vice president of the I.S. Berlin Press, one of the world's largest lithographic companies, and son of its founder. Mrs. Kowalski worked for the RCA Corp.

Executors in jail

SANDPOINT (UPI) — George Alfred Antonson, 34, Sandpoint, remained in the Bonner County Jail here Thursday in lieu of $10,000 bond on charges he embezzled the $2,741 estate of the late Murel Talbot, Sandpoint. Antonson was executor of the estate. In connection with the same estate, two Sandpoint attorneys have been ordered to show cause why they are not in contempt of court. Glenn Bandellin, Mrs. Talbot's legal guardian before her death, and Steve Binstline, who represented the heirs to the estate, had been ordered to take certain action in connection with their clients and discontinue certain other actions. The show cause order, signed by Judge Watt Prather, indicates the attorneys have not complied with the July 1 order to take action which was ordered by visiting Judge James Poles, Wallace. The show cause hearing has been set for Sept. 21.

Federal grants announced

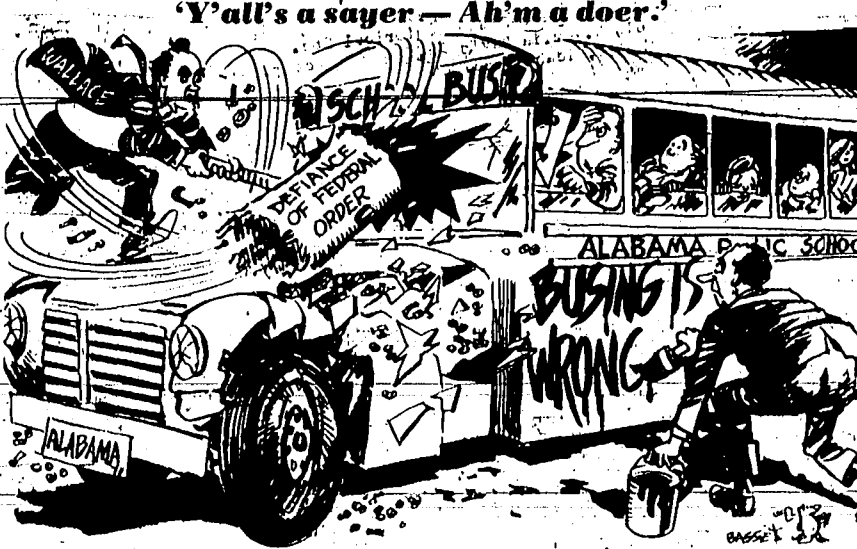

PAYETTE, Idaho (UPI) — Federal grants in amounts of $52,000 and $9,000 have been announced for western Idaho Community Action Programs in Payette, Washington, Adams, Valley and Gem Counties. Ivan Simonsen, senior services director for Payette, said the $52,000 grant is for nutrition and nutritional education programs. It will provide food costs, personnel, supplies and some transportation. The $9,000 grant is earmarked for gasoline, oil and transportation costs of senior citizens participating in the program. The western Idaho area has been a test program, Simonsen said. The new funds will permit it to continue. Supplemental funds for the program are provided by the senior citizens themselves in fund-raising projects.

Potluck scheduled

AMERICAN FALLS — The annual Kansas-Missouri-Nebraska picnic is planned Sunday in City Park at American Falls. Ed Leighton, Pocatello, a member of the planning committee, said former residents of those states now living in Idaho will be welcome to attend. A potluck dinner is planned for 1 p.m., to be followed by entertainment.

New oil crisis

VIENNA (UPI) — The leading oil-exporting nations set the stage today for a new world oil crisis by announcing they will demand a share in the assets, profits and management of western firms drilling on their territories. The firms were expected to refuse. Oil sources predicted long, hard negotiations, with the possible threat of an oil embargo and an almost certain increase in oil prices to western industries and consumers. The Vienna headquarters of the Organization of Petroleum-Exporting Countries (OPEC) announced that OPEC's 11 members will meet in Beirut Sept. 22 to "take immediate steps towards the effective implementation of the principle of participation in the existing oil concessions."

OPEC officials have said that "participation" means that the OPEC member nations should be allowed to buy into the assets on their soil of the foreign oil firms operating there. They have said it also means that citizens of these countries should share in local management and make up a higher percentage of technicians and other upper-level employees. The sources said the Beirut conference will demand at least a 20 per cent share in the companies' local operations — and the right to draw at least 20 per cent of the profits. The OPEC demand came as the oil world was just getting over the last crisis — a price battle between OPEC and the firms last February that ended in victory for OPEC.

Shetland escapes drowning

TWIN FALLS — City police in Twin Falls investigated a report of cruelty to animals Thursday involving a shetland pony owned by H.H. Thompson, 453 Filer Ave. W. Officers said Thompson called to report someone had tied the legs of the pony together and pushed it into an irrigation canal, nearly causing it to drown. Officers found the front legs wrapped together by rope which had then been tied around the animal's neck and around a post and the horse pushed into the water. Investigation was continuing Friday.

Draft pinch looms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army still hasn't felt the pinch of the expired draft — but it will in November and the pain will be inflicted on units in Europe, according to Army officials.

The draft came to a halt June 30 when the conscription law expired and the renewing legislation got caught in a political hassle over an amendment setting a fixed date for withdrawal from Vietnam. That dispute has since been largely resolved but Congress recessed until early September without completing action on the bill.

It is believed the bill cannot now be approved before mid-September — and it may be even later because of a threatened filibuster. Allowing a few days for clerical work and mailings plus the 10-day notice which must be law given all draftees, no inductees could be funneled into the Army until October at the earliest.

The Army is not feeling any pain yet because all new men are sent into training units. It takes about four months until these men emerge for assignment to combat and other active units. Therefore, the pinch would first come in November when units around the world order replacements for men leaving the service and find those replacements just don't exist. Army officials said despite the withdrawal program Vietnam remains their No. 1 priority area. Officers in Vietnam will thus have first pick of the men emerging from training and be able to raid units in Europe for all skills they may need.

Forest caution asked

BOISE (UPI) — Continued hot weather spells increase fire danger for Idaho forests and Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has urged all citizens to use fire precautions while visiting the forests.

Asst. State Land Commissioner Jack Gillette said the fire watch meteorologists indicate a break in the current hot weather pattern in the near future. Gillette noted however, lands protected by the Department of Public Lands have had 125 fires this year, compared to the 332 fires last year.

Drop suit, Ada panel demands

BOISE (UPI) — Ada County commissioners have called for dismissal of a legislative reapportionment suit on grounds the case "falls to make a claim upon which relief can be granted."

Sen. H. Dean Summers, R-Boise, Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, and two private citizens brought the suit against the commissioners, the secretary of state and others.

In their action, filed in U.S. District Court, the plaintiffs contend the state's 1971 reapportionment law is unconstitutional. They allege there is too great a variance in population of the 25 legislative districts and that the remapping favors rural over urban residents.

New title given post

SPOKANE (UPI) — The naval ship research and development center — a test facility at Bayview, Idaho — has a new name and soon will get a new officer in charge, officials said here today.

CWO William G. Greenfield, officer-in-charge, said Thursday the new name is naval ship research and development center — acoustic research development.

Greenfield said he will retire Oct. 31 and with his wife, Helen, and one stepchild, plans to reside in Bayview. He will be succeeded by CWO Richard Rohrbaecher, who now is serving aboard the fleet oiler, Guadalupe, at Long Beach, Calif.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chico State College in California will take part in a program developed by the National Park Service geared to environmental studies from kindergarten through high school.

Convicts aid cleanup of riot-torn prison

BOISE (UPI) — Convicts at Idaho State Prison helped clean up the debris from 24 hours of rioting and protesting Thursday as the warden made good on the first of the promises that ended the trouble.

"The air conditioners arrived but they've still got to be hooked up," a prison official said Thursday night. "They'll be ready by tomorrow."

He said the 12 fans — which cost $1,200 — will pull air in one end of the cellblocks, where temperatures reached 118 degrees during a recent heat wave and push it out the other.

"It is quiet in there now," the official said. "Everything's back to normal. They helped clean up the yard and they're all in their cells tonight."

The 200 convicts returned to their cells Thursday morning after Warden Raymond May promised the coolers and met other demands. The outbreak, which began Tuesday night, left two inmates seriously wounded in stabbing incidents and two buildings burned.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Thursday began selecting a six-member committee to investigate prison conditions that led to the rebellion.

Ada County Sheriff Paul Bright, who was ordered off the prison walls during the height of the riot, announced he will initiate an investigation to determine whether any felony charges should be filed.

The two convicts stabbed remained in critical condition in a Boise hospital following surgery Tuesday night. Charles Rice, 30, and David Bortz, 25, had both received knife wounds from other inmates. May said an investigation of the stabbings would be conducted shortly. Despite granting general amnesty to the convicts, May and Gov. Andrus said those found to have committed criminal acts would be prosecuted.

Policies assailed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Calling President Nixon's economic policies "candy-coated nonsense," Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., today proposed an alternative designed to cut unemployment to 4.5 per cent by the end of 1972.

He proposed his alternative to Nixon's "full employment budget" approach in a campaign-style speech prepared for the Texas AFL-CIO convention in Dallas.

"In short, the administration's full employment budget is actually a budget high on deficits and unemployment and low on jobs," McGovern said.

"It reflects the effect of the recession-inflation combination without including any remedy. That budget makes no contribution whatever to actually bringing about full employment or curbing inflation. It is simply candy-coated nonsense."

McGovern, the only declared candidate for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, predicted the jobless rate could be cut to 4.5 per cent by election time next year — if his plan were followed, but it would be hovering around 5.5 per cent without it.

Grange competition stiff

FILER — Grange members begin early in the season to make preparations for their booths at the Twin Falls County Fair.

Competition runs high each year for first place trophies for exhibits displaying best quality of produce and fruits, best in artistic arrangements, and general appearance of produce, fruit and decorations, and best in original arrangement and general appearance of produce, fruit and decorations.

At this year's fair, Sept. 8-11, the fair board will pay a special $25 award for the booth with the best exhibit emphasizing the theme "Cavalcade of Queens" in its decorations.

Other special prizes include the one from the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co. which will match the premiums paid by the fair for booths having best quality of produce and fruits, and the Southern Idaho Production Credit Association which will match the fair premiums for booths having best in original arrangement and general appearance of produce, fruit, and decorations.

The farm produce department of the fair also features premiums for open class exhibits, according to Cecil Calhoun, Buhl, superintendent. Judges in this department are Anton Horn, Boise; Erling Johannessen, Emmett; Blaine Inford, Twin Falls, and Wayne Cole, Burley.

Entries close at 6 p.m., Sept. 8 and judging will begin at 10 a.m. Sept. 9. All community exhibits must be in place for exhibition Sept. 8 and must remain until 9 a.m., Sept. 12 and be removed by noon. All exhibits in the open class must be properly arranged before 10 a.m., Sept. 7. Exhibitors must make their own arrangements for presenting produce to the judges table.

Entries are limited to Idaho products and must be grown by the exhibitor. There are 51 classes in the vegetable division alone for which three place premiums will be awarded.

There are many classes of field crops and sheep grains and seeds, and the largest specimen class includes ten divisions for which premiums will be paid.

The junior gardeners division for gardeners 18 years and under gives young people a chance to display their vegetables and receive prizes. Exhibits must be grown by the person in whose name they are entered.

The young gardeners will receive premiums on a large class of vegetables and melons, as well as for largest specimen of many.

The Twin Falls County Fair board will pay additional awards for collectors of varieties entered by individual exhibitors in the junior gardeners class.

A Narrow Door?

Just in case officials of the College of Southern Idaho are contemplating a set of unusual admission rules, we might suggest they ponder the action of the New Mexico University branch at Roswell.

The doors of that school are opening just a little wider because an overweight girl was not to be pushed around.

An eighteen-year old girl from Hondo, New Mexico High School, reported her height and weight in applying for admission and, to her surprise, was rejected by the state-supported university on the grounds that she was "too fat."

A letter from the Admissions Office informed her she met all the entrance requirements but should lose 50 of her 155 pounds in order to enter classes this fall.

"Once this is accomplished," said the letter, "there is no other problem of your admission."

Miss Butterball was upset or as nearly so as a tub could be. She wanted to be a dental assistant and to be told she was "too fat" for that kind of work — or even to study for it — was more than she could stomach.

Senator Joseph Montoya was informed and dashed to the rescue of the fat young maiden. He wrote the State's Attorney General, noting "fat people" pay taxes, too.

The Attorney General handed down an opinion that a state-supported school could not bar a student because, to some myopic official, she might be "too fat, too skinny, too tall, too short, too light, too dark, too ugly, too pretty, etc."

His opinion received wide publicity in the freedom-loving press, ever quick to espouse the cause of underdogs or obese objects of academic narrow-mindedness. Still, the university failed to act to open its door wide enough for Miss Overweight.

However, Senator Montoya wasn't about to let a constituent lose sleep, if not weight, over the problem. He dashed off a letter to the university, with a copy of the Attorney General's opinion, and a terse reminder that federal aid might be withheld if the girl were not admitted. That did the trick.

The young woman now is preparing to enter the university this fall. She also is doing her best to lose some weight. It's a bigger problem than she had realized.

The Middle Snake

By Craig James McClure (EDITOR'S NOTE — Congressman James A. McClure (R-Idaho) recently held a press conference in Boise where he discussed issues and proposals concerning the Middle Snake River. At that time he announced that he would prepare several columns giving his views on this subject. This is the first of four such releases.)

CALIFORNIA REVEALS PLAN TO DIVERT IDAHO WATER! — DIVERSION OF SNAKE RIVER VIEWED AS REAL "THREAT!!" SENATOR ACCUSED OF GIVING IDAHO WATER AWAY!! — These were the headlines that screamed out to us just a few short years ago. The public responded — meetings were held — legislators were contacted — bills were proposed. The byword became USE IT OR LOSE IT. The Idaho Legislature passed, and the public approved, an amendment to the Idaho Constitution, creating the Idaho Water Resources Board, charged with the responsibility of studying our water needs and resources. The Board is to inventory our water resources and our land, and to make plans for maximum utilization.

The Idaho Congressional Delegation became involved. A major issue in an eastern Idaho Congressman's campaign was his failure to obtain authorization of a dam on the Snake River. He was defeated. Reclamationists had for years been working on various plans to develop southwestern Idaho. These plans were consolidated and introduced in Congress as the Southwest Idaho Water Development Project. The resulting bill has had the unanimous support of the entire Idaho Delegation since its introduction. To head off the threat of diversion of Idaho water to California and Arizona, Senator Len Jordan was successful in amending legislation to include a provision that prohibited anyone from even studying such diversion for 10 years.

Today it appears that the coin has turned. Headlines now decry the proposal of any reclamation project. The bywords are preservation and wilderness. The same Idaho Congressman who was criticized for his failure to successfully obtain a dam for eastern Idaho would today be under attack if he had obtained the dam.

Teton Dam in eastern Idaho is now ready for bids after many years of work by every member of the Idaho Congressional delegation, regardless of political affiliation. There are groups now trying to stop its construction.

I bring these things up, not because they are wholly right or wrong, but to illustrate that often we tend to overcompensate. I have been disturbed for sometime that this tendency for us to rush from crisis to crisis has brought about irrational decisions that will have an adverse long-range effect. This is particularly true when we are talking about the proper utilization of our natural resources.

We are in an ecological crisis today because we did not properly plan our actions years ago. Let us not make the same mistake again. While we are dealing with environmental problems, let us be careful for fear we will create other problems down the road that will be even more difficult for us to solve in the future. I believe Idaho's future will be used to agriculture and our natural resource industries for some time to come. I know the present economy is therefore any decisions made that effect these basic industries should be carefully evaluated and made with full knowledge and discussion.

It now appears that some type of decision may soon be made on the Middle Snake River. Because this portion of the river cannot be separated or considered apart from the rest of the river, it is vital that the people of Idaho fully understand all the implications of the potential decisions.

I recently mailed to every household in the First Congressional District of Idaho a questionnaire on issues that are upcoming on this part of the Snake River. The early returns are interesting and helpful to me. One thing is clear above all else from comments being returned with the completed questionnaires: the people of Idaho do not have full understanding of the basic questions involved.

It is my intention, the editor of this paper willing, that I will write two more such columns dealing with the importance of the decisions affecting the Snake River, and particularly the action known as the Middle Snake. I would hope that this will stimulate some thought and discussion by a wide variety of groups and individuals. I will then issue a fourth column stating my position on pending legislation before the Congress. I am convinced that the decisions we make on the Snake River in the next few months will affect Idaho for the next century and beyond. The people of Idaho have the right to know the facts and be heard before that decision is made. I hope these columns will help them exercise this right.

Good Reasons

WASHINGTON — There are two good reasons to accept as gospel the assertion by Herb Klein, director of communications in the Nixon administration, that Vice President Spiro Agnew will be the President's running mate in 1972.

First, Klein informed some friendly reporters (not including this one) that Nixon himself was the source of his intelligence on Agnew's political future.

Second, since the No. 1 issue next year will be the state of the economy, dropping Agnew would be a feeble tactic. Agnew's critics attack him on a wide front, but none so far has charged that the Vice President is to blame for our galloping inflation, plus unemployment and a semi-recession.

Or, as another White House aide put it anonymously, "The economy is the President's problem. If he solves it, and I think he will, it won't matter who's on the ticket with him. Agnew is safe, unless he joins Women's Lib."

To the neutral observer, all this makes solid, pragmatic political sense. In any election, the No. 2 man's job is to attract a certain bloc of voters. Agnew did this in 1968, and there has been no hard evidence offered to support the argument that he cannot do it again in 1972. After all, as too many Democrats are prone to forget, Richard Nixon was not elected President by the country's liberals, but by a coalition of conservatives and plain citizens of the conservative coalition of rightist ideologues and Main Street.

A sizeable chunk of these votes is in the South, where there has been no sign of an erosion of Agnew's strength. Since Nixon's running mate must be acceptable to Dixie, why should he look for an alternative to a proven quantity? Indeed, Agnew's strength in the South is reflected in the Democratic consensus that the party's Presidential nominee must pick a Vice Presidential candidate from that neighborhood.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The Switch

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to switch from insulin to pills for diabetes? I am 67 and considered a mild diabetic, but since surgery for gall stones 10 years ago I have been on insulin.

My physician expects to take me off insulin, and I am wondering whether there is any possible cause for alarm. — D.B.L.

In your case no cause for alarm. There are patients with severe diabetes who have to stay on insulin. For them, pills just will not control the sugar, so there is no choice.

But at your age, and with diabetes that is mild, I would see no reason why the attempt could not be made. One consideration is the amount of insulin you require. Conversion is more successful when the amount is small — say under 20 to 30 units a day.

Your doctor will, I am certain, want to watch you closely over the first two or three months, keeping close tab on whether sugar begins appearing in the urine and also making appropriate blood sugar tests.

If your sugar is not well controlled, you can go back to insulin and there will be no harm done. But if the pills do control your sugar, that's fine.

A word of warning: you will have to be especially careful with your diet when you make the switch.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any medication or cure for tinnitus? I consulted an ear doctor — who recommends surgery of the stapes bones, but with no guarantee. — J.P.

There's no medication to stop tinnitus (meaning miscellaneous noises in the ears), except that, when high blood pressure is the cause, medications to control the pressure may help. Since some other medications also cause tinnitus, stopping such medications can be helpful.

Sometimes defects in the ears may play a part, and if you need the stapes operation to improve your hearing, that's sensible. But just in the hope of stopping tinnitus? I wouldn't guarantee it, either.

Why don't you send 15 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my booklet, "Ear Noises: Their Causes and Cures?"

Because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, Dr. Thosteson regrets that he cannot answer individual letters, but whenever possible he uses readers' questions in his column.

MR. SPECTATOR

Sometimes We Wonder

Sometimes Mr. Spectator wonders if it is worth while settling a dispute between labor and management.

We have in mind the recent settlement in the Western Union argument. And here is why we wonder!

Last Friday a telegram was dispatched from the Washington office of Senator Jordan to the Times-News. It concerned action on the proposed replacement of the Ferrine Bridge. That same afternoon we received a call from the Senator's office on the same project. At that time we found the telegram had, indeed, been dispatched but had never been received by the newspaper.

The Perrine Bridge story was written after the telephone conversation and appeared in Sunday's Times-News.

Then Monday morning the office receptionist handed us a memo she had written after having dictated over the telephone from the local Western Union office. It was that telegram sent by Senator Jordan's office the previous Friday.

In other words a telegram sent from Washington on Friday apparently was not received in Twin Falls until Monday and then was dictated over the telephone rather than being delivered.

Anyone for sending telegrams?

Russia policy cited

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Soviet Union already has established a precedent for the dual representation policy invoked by the United States to support membership of both the People's Republic of China and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese regime on Taiwan, U.S. Ambassador George Bush said.

"No one talks of a three-Russia policy," Bush said, but two Republics of the Soviet Union—the Ukraine and Byelorussia (White Russia)—are themselves charter members of the world organization. Bush made the point on the three Soviet members of the U.N. in drawing a parallel to the Nixon administration's new two-China policy, which he said is more accurately stated as "a policy of dual representation."

"Our government is deadly serious about this policy," Bush said in a meeting Thursday with members of the United Press International editorial board. Bush denied reports the United States was not vigorously trying to save the seat of Nationalist China in the United Nations, as Secretary of State William P. Rogers said it would do when he announced U.S. support for Communist China's U.N. membership last month. "What we are trying to do is accommodate two realities," he said, "to affirm the right to representation of the People's Republic of Communist China and to affirm the right of continued representation to the Republic of Nationalist China. We want to see the Republic of China remain in the United Nations. We think there is a dangerous precedent in kicking out somebody."

Scientist wins A-17 trip spot

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The U.S. space agency late Thursday picked geologist-astronaut Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt to be the first scientist to set foot on the moon as a crewman next year aboard Apollo 17. Schmitt and veteran spaceman Eugene A. Cernan will make America's final manned lunar exploration in the ambitious, decade-long Apollo program, space center spokesman John McDaniel said. The third member of the crew, who will orbit the moon while his two companions land for three days of exploration, will be space rookie Ronald E. Evans.

Appointment of Schmitt to the moonflight crew fulfilled a long-standing—and at times doubtful—dream of the world scientific community to have one of its members make on-the-spot investigations of the lunar landscape they have in the past seen only through the eyes of test pilot astronauts with secondary training as geologic observers.

Even Schmitt himself expressed doubt as recently as last week that he would get the chance to go to the moon. Schmitt, 36, was born in Santa Rita, N.M., and received a doctorate in geology from Harvard in 1964.

Atlantic plane fare war looms

MONTREAL (UPI)—Several of the world's major airlines said Thursday they were prepared to go ahead with new low-cost trans-Atlantic fares following the initial failure by the airline industry to reach agreement on a new pattern of prices.

There was a possibility the price slashes could take effect immediately instead of waiting until next spring at the expiration of the current price structure.

Air Canada and British Overseas Airways Corp. (BOAC) were the first to announce they would go ahead with low-cost fares, and Luftansa, the West German airline, which scuttled the proposed new agreement, said in a statement it was prepared to offer reduced fares on the North Atlantic run.

Yves Pratte, board chairman and chief executive of Air Canada, one of the world's largest scheduled carriers, said he was disappointed by the results of the International Air Transport Association (IATA's) North Atlantic Traffic Conference, which ended without agreement late Wednesday.

Pratte said if there was no industry agreement by Sept. 1, Air Canada would "file fare rates in accordance with our proposals," which he said would be less than $200 in some cases.

Marine noncom discharged

QUANTICO, Va. (UPI)—Marine Sgt. Jon M. Sweeney, cleared of charges of desertion and communicating with the enemy in Vietnam, was given an honorable discharge Thursday with a medical disability.

The addition of the medical disability upset his family, who felt it could mean difficulty for Sweeney in getting a job later on. His father said it was the Marines' way of "extracting the last pound of flesh."

Sweeney's military attorney, Capt. William O'Connell, recommended to him that he appeal the classification to the Board of Corrections of Naval Records.

"They have given him an honorable discharge with a medical disability instead of one noting end of enlistment," O'Connell said.

Sweeney had received psychiatric care while in the Marines after his release as a North Vietnamese prisoner of war for 18 months.

A military judge found the slim, pale Marine innocent Wednesday on charges of running away in the face of the enemy and "communicating with the enemy."

Children thank Red wall guard

BERLIN (UPI)—Communist teachers led kindergarten tots and primary school children down to the Berlin Wall today to thank East German soldiers who are under orders to shoot to kill anyone trying to scramble across it.

The delegations of children queued on the eastern side of Brandenburg Gate until their turn came to make a rehearsed speech thanking the soldiers for "protecting peace and socialism" at the wall, which was 10 years old today.

Soldiers slung the straps of Russia-made automatic rifles over their shoulders so both hands were free to accept the children's offer of long-stemmed lilies and bouquets of carnations.

"In East Berlin and East Germany, they are celebrating the wall," West Berlin Mayor Klaus Schuetz said as he laid a wreath on his side of the wall to honor the 65 men and women killed while trying to escape across it since it was built.

"For human beings, that simply is a mockery. We will not celebrate it."

Gross, Hall watch House maneuvers

BY DANIEL RAPOPORT, WASHINGTON (UPI)—Textbooks and politicians say the United States operates under a two-party system. A look at the House of Representatives suggests otherwise.

Besides the Democrats and the Republicans, there are the Regular Republicans, the Wednesday Group, the Democratic Study Group, the Black Caucus, the Unofficial Textile Committee, and an organization known simply as "The Group."

Finally, there is a contingent of two congressmen who are more visible and noisy than all the others put together: Reps. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, and Durward Hall, R-Mo., have taken it upon themselves to see that neither party gets away with anything.

Either Gross or Hall, or both, is always on the floor during business hours with Gross demanding direct answers to blunt questions on how much every bill will cost the taxpayer and Hall making sure that the House does not take any shortcuts around its parliamentary rules.

The existence of all these various groups illustrates a fact of American political life: the two major parties are ideologically too broad to satisfy all of their members at all times. In the House, this means that congressmen of the same party must informally get together and work towards specific goals, sometime against the leaders of their party.

Here is a listing of some of the political subdivisions operating in the House:

The Regular Republicans—They see themselves as old-line, GOP Loyalists. Their purpose: to keep the party, and now the White House, from being derailed by Republican liberals.

The Wednesday Group—Started in early 1960s by eastern Liberal Republicans. The name comes from weekly Wednesday meetings. One of its founders was former Rep. John V. Lindsay, the just-retired Democratic mayor of New York.

Democratic Study Group—This is the most organized and active of all the subgroups. It was begun in the middle 1940s as a balancing force against southern-conservatives.

The Black Caucus—Born this year, it includes all 12 black House members and Walter Fauntroy, the nonvoting delegate from the District of Columbia. It was established to promote the interests of American Negroes.

The Unofficial Textile Committee—This is composed of about 85 southern House members whose common tie is an interest in protecting the largely southern-based textile industry from what they consider unfair foreign competition.

The Group—Started by a handful of early doves during the first days of American escalation in Vietnam. Initially the war was their central concern but over the years the members have broadened its scope to take in any issue that interests them.

Mine cuts staff
KELOGG (UPI)—Bunker Hill Mining Co. announced Wednesday it is reducing its salaried employees, meaning salaried staff by 20 per cent. The company has about 400 employees, about 80 will be terminated.

Dworshak work bid

call out
WALLA WALLA, Wash. (UPI)—The Army Corps of engineers announced Wednesday it will call for bids later this month on two projects for the Dworshak Dam and reservoir on the north fork of the Clearwater River in Northern Idaho.

The Corps said the larger of the two would be for providing and installation of multi-level power intake gates, holts, and trashracks at the dam. Bids will be called for the project, estimated to cost between $1-$5 million, about Aug. 24 with bid opening Sept. 28.

The other project, on which bids will be called for about Aug. 27, is the Big Eddy launch ramp.

Fast growing religion gets new lease on life

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Scientology, one of America's fastest growing religions, has received a new lease on life.

Earlier this month a federal district judge in the District of Columbia ordered the Food and Drug Administration to return to the church its controversial E-meter, the most important of the church's religious artifacts.

On Jan. 4, 1963, the FDA raided the premises of the then-fledgling Church of Scientology in Washington, D.C., and seized the church's E-meters—skin galvanometer-like mechanisms—and large quantities of religious literature.

At the time of the raid—and in eight years of subsequent court cases—the FDA has maintained that the E-meter is a "device" and that it has been misbranded and advertised in such a way as to promise it could bring about healing of mental and physical illnesses.

While ruling the E-meters should be returned to the church and that they could be used for bona fide religious purposes, Judge Gerhard Gesell generally upheld the FDA's contentions.

Gesell noted that Scientology's founder, one-time science fiction writer L. Ron Hubbard, "first advanced the extravagant claims that various physical and mental illnesses could be cured by auditing."

Auditing is a counseling technique in which a Scientology minister reads indicators from the E-meter's needle while the person being interviewed holds two tin cans attached to the meter and answers questions.

Scientists say the meter can affect healing, but Gesell found that beginning in the 1950s numerous Scientology books and pamphlets were written explaining how various illnesses can and had been cured through auditing.

"Hubbard, who wrote much of the material, is a facile, prolific author and his teachings flourished throughout the United States and in various parts of the world," the judge said.

Gesell was harsh on the government for not stopping the new religion before the church was founded in 1955. If it had, he said, the eight years of litigation in the courts might have been avoided.

Religious Rights

Gesell's dilemma, however, was that Scientology did become organized as a religion and therefore brought First Amendment rights into play in the seizure case.

"The court has attempted to resolve this difficulty," Gesell said, "By refusing to consider the truth or falsity of any claims which, in the understanding of the average reader, could be construed as resting on religious faith."

He decided that the E-meter had been misbranded.

But at the same time, Gesell was fearful of trampling any constitutionally protected religious rights of the church and thus ordered the E-meter returned for use if it is properly labeled.

The issue seems to have ended as one of those judicial cases where everyone won but no one is completely satisfied.

The FDA won its condemnation of the meters but the church has its meters and can continue to use them for religious purposes—all it wants them for anyway, its spokesmen say.

HOMES TO BE viewed on the Ketchum-Sun Valley Community Library home tour from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday include those of Mr. and Mrs. Russ Stewart, Chicago, top, and Glen Cooper, below. Proceeds from the tour are the main support of the library which is one of the few self-supporting libraries in the U. S., according to Mrs. James Hogg, publicity chairman. Tickets can be purchased at Sallys and L'Herrens in Twin Falls and Carroll's in Ketchum. Persons will be given a brochure containing a map of the location of the homes when they purchase tickets.

Hansen studies goals of WSCS

HANSEN — Goals for Women's Society of Christian Service members were read by Mrs. Ralph Simmons at the Hansen Circle WSCS meeting at the home of Mrs. Thomas Steelsmith.

They include Weekly Prayer Time, One Approved Mission Study, involvement in a Social Concern.

The group now has a weekly prayer group and is planning to have four recommended mission studies throughout the year. Members have contributed to the Day Care Center in Twin Falls, to the migrant packets, and sponsor a monthly Fellowship hour at the church, a mystery — mother — daughter project, Blue Birds and have contributed to the church building fund, and Youth Ranch and helped purchase furniture for the fireplace room at the church.

They are presently sponsoring the Browse and Buy store each Friday and Saturday afternoons at the former Idaho Power Co., building in Kimberly.

It was announced that the first fall Fellowship Dinner will be held at 7 p.m. Sept. 19 at the church, under sponsorship of the Hansen Circle WSCS members. Mrs. Kenneth Naylor was appointed chairman for decorations and serving and Mrs. Bryan Harris, Sr., will write special invitations. Mrs. Ralph Simmons and Mrs. Hugh Sanderson will have the program.

Mrs. W. C. Klutz, program chairman, gave devotions from the Upper Room, and a little meditation on "Releasing a Hidden Angel," stated by Michael Angelo, when sculpturing from stone.

For the lesson, Mrs. Klutz reviewed several Response magazines which gave advance stories and reports on the recommended mission studies for the coming year.

A Blue Bird magazine was shown to members. The next regular WSCS meeting will be held Aug. 18.

Tour set Saturday

Churches

Rupert slates classes

RUPERT — The Church of the Nazarene, 714 J St., Rupert, will hold its annual vacation Bible School Aug. 16-20 at the church.

Classes will begin at 9 a.m. and will conclude at 1:30 p.m. daily. There will be Bible study, music, crafts and supervised recreation for all children ages 2 through eighth grade.

Each child is asked to bring a sack lunch and refreshments will be served during a morning break.

A parade is planned around the Rupert Square at 10:30 a.m. Saturday and the public is invited.

A free-will offering will be taken each day with a special offering Aug. 10 for missions.

The demonstration program will be at 10 a.m. Aug. 22 at which time all the children's crafts and projects will be on display.

Arizonan to speak in T.F.

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Lois Gribling, Phoenix, Ariz., will be the guest speaker at the Twin Falls First Assembly of God church, North Locust Street and Shoup Avenue East, at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Gribling is the Women's Missionary Council president of the Arizona district of the Assemblies of God. She and her husband have been home mission pastors and workers on the Arizona Indian reservations for many years.

Her visit to Idaho is in conjunction with a speaking engagement at a retreat at Bellevue, conducted by the Idaho Assemblies of God churches. Rev. L. I. Manance, Twin Falls pastor, said the public is invited to hear Mrs. Gribling Sunday.

C. W. (ABE) LINCOLN, evangelist from Lubbock, Texas, will conduct an eight-day gospel meeting in the Church of Christ, 2002 Filer Ave. E., in Twin Falls. He has served in South Africa and several parts of the U.S. and presently is an instructor at the Sunset School of Preaching, Lubbock, Texas. Benny Whitehead, minister, said services will be held at 7:30 p.m. nightly Sunday through Aug. 22, but the Sunday the service begins at 6:30 p.m.

Women plan booth at Elmore fair

KING HILL — The United Presbyterian Women will operate a dinner booth at the Elmore County Fair, Aug. 26-29. The group discussed plans for the booth at their August meeting.

The topic of a "councillor church" was discussed by Mrs. Frank Jones and a resume of "Believer Under the Law" was given by Mrs. Nathan Miller, president. A communication about Mildred Brown, who is on furlough after 19 years of missionary service in Japan, was read by Mrs. Karl Carnahan.

Mrs. E. B. Larson, sewing chairman, announced that unbleached muslin was available for making bandages and that material for baby gowns was ready for sewing.

Korea was the topic for the group's Ecumenical Prayer Cycle presented by Mrs. Jack Craig and New York and North Dakota were topics for the national prayer cycle. Mrs. K. Carnahan presented "Withered Branches" for the ceremony of the "Least Coin" from Saroj Debnath of East Pakistan.

The national mission report on "Being a Good Neighbor" was given by Mrs. Lawson and Literature chairman, Mrs. Arthur Greer, discussed a new book with the group. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Carnahan.

Vacation school slated

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Church of God, 511 Second Ave. E., will hold Vacation Bible school Monday through Aug. 20.

Sessions will be held from 8 to 8 p.m. and all ages are invited, according to Rev. Michael Brantley, pastor.

Television dog has 99 lives

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A cat including Felix—may have 9 lives but it is becoming increasingly clear that a certain television dog may have 99 lives.

It all began with the book "Lassie Come Home." The book became a movie starring a collie and Elizabeth Taylor. The film led to a series of movies. When the boxoffice ran dry Lassie became a television star. The dog survived the loss of three feminine owners: Jan Clayton, June Lockhart and Gloria Leachman.

The canine heroine (really a male transvestite) also lived on after little masters Tommy Rettig and Jon Provost grow out of their roles.

All in Hollywood who knew and loved this four-footed John Wayne feared the end had come earlier this year when CBS announced it was dropping the show.

Alas, Lassie had run out of lives.

But hold! Jack Wrather, who owns the property, to the rescue.

Lassie will hope back to the tube next season without missing a show, via the syndication route. Thus far the series has been sold to 150 stations.

No less a personage than Mrs. Jack Wrather, former actress Bonita Granville, is producer of the show.

"For many years Lassie always had a family," the trim, blue-eyed blonde said. "But for seven years Lassie was adopted by the Forest Service. She spent five years with Bobby Bray, then two seasons with Jed Allen and Jack Demave."

"Last year Lassie was on her own visiting various homes and enjoying independent adventures."

That would appear to make Lassie a stray.

"We don't use that term in connection with Lassie," she said. "Anyway, things will be different this year. Lassie finds a new home with a widower and his son who take in abandoned boys."

The deepest that man has been known to dive is 420 feet.

Nixon concerned over S. Vietnamese vote

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon is deeply concerned that the forthcoming presidential election in South Vietnam produce something approaching a consensus among the people of that tragic country.

As a consequence, he is putting considerable diplomatic pressure on President Nguyen Van Thieu to hold a fair election.

This may, in the view of some, be an unreasonable effort to impose an alien ethic on the South Vietnamese, who are not accustomed to honesty among their leaders.

But the President really has little choice in the matter, because it is essential to his plan for ending the American involvement in Vietnam that he be able to point to the October elections as an example of the South Vietnamese people determining their own destiny.

Futures market changes listed

POCATELLO - The president of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange met with potato growers, shippers and processors in Pocatello Tuesday to discuss changes made in the Idaho potato futures market. Everett B. Harris said the Exchange had approved changes, including: - Revised delivery points, calling for delivery of carlots on track at Pocatello or Nampa instead of Kansas City or Chicago, intended to prevent overloading of terminal markets with unsold potatoes. - Extended delivery period. An increase of about 10 days during the delivery month has been approved to give the hedger additional time to complete delivery. - Milt Everhard, Blackfoot, voiced concern that heavy deliveries were a potential depressant of fresh prices generally.

More corn, prices off

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Agriculture Department's monthly crop report says the corn harvest will go to a record-breaking price-depressing 5.345 billion bushels on the basis of Aug. 1 conditions. A top administration farm official said, however, the crop "is not yet in the crib" and could be cut by blight. The report said total production of all crops appeared headed for a record, 11 per cent above last year, with record-breaking prospects for crops including corn, wheat, soybeans and grain sorghums. Most attention in the report issued late Wednesday, however, centered on corn. Last year, blight disease slashed corn output sharply and led to fears of possible animal feed shortages. "If this year's crop should be crippled by the fungus ailment, the report bore out private forecasts that up through at least Aug. 1 a combination of increased acreage and sharply improved per-acre yields had laid the foundation for a harvest up 30 per cent from last year and 12 per cent above the previous record.

But Don Panrberg, the Agriculture Department's chief economist, told newsmen the Aug. 1 report may be revised down as the season wears on. Pointing out that in 1970, most corn blight damage occurred after Aug. 1, Panrberg said blight "has shown some increase in recent weeks and the threat of widespread damage remains." In a separate report, meanwhile, the Agriculture Department's corn blight information center said blight conditions worsened by slight to substantial margins in many farm areas during the past week. If the crop remains in the 5.3 billion bushel range, Panrberg conceded corn market prices might rest down around the government support level of $1.05 a bushel - a sharp disappointment to farmers who had seen much higher prices over the last season. But he said the "hazard" of a bumper crop is less disturbing to farmers than the alternate hazard they had faced earlier - the fear that ravaging blight might produce a crop failure in 1971.

POCATELLO - The Idaho Food Products released the weekly agriculture job report Tuesday for the week ending Aug. 3, and of 933 migrant workers housed in eight centers, 300 were not employed on the closing day of the report. Mercer reported that all labor centers were full except for the Weiser, which had 15 vacancies and Payette, two vacancies, as of the closing day of the report. He said the fall harvest activity would get under way next week, with early green onion picking and picking of early hops.

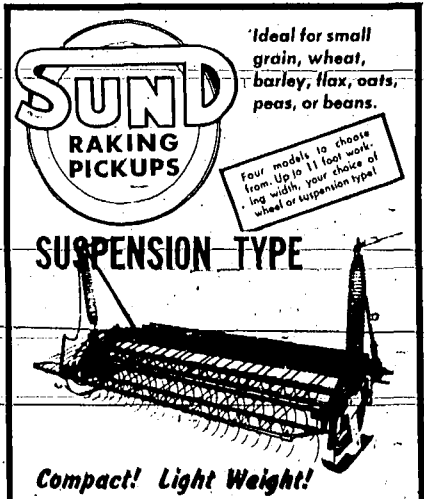

Attorney says Gem law OK

BOISE (UPI) - A Boise attorney told members of the Idaho Food Producers, Inc., Wednesday he disagrees with the attorney-general's contention that the new farm labor act is unconstitutional. Deputy Attorney General Warren Felton wrote last week he thought the act was invalid because he said it in effect denied basic rights to strike and picket and therefore interfered with freedom of speech. Eli Weston, a Boise lawyer, defended wording of the act and said he did not believe picketing was comparable to free speech. Weston said it was important to consider the intent of the measure and the reasons why picketing is carried out - whether it serves as a tool to help settle a legitimate labor problem or to deliberately hurt. He also said he did not feel the requirement to work 14 days before being eligible to vote on a bargaining agency was unreasonable. Weston also stuck up for the six-day minimum employment period before a farm worker is permitted to picket.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my husband. We have been married for 10 years and have three children, ages 4 thru 9. My husband will not discipline the children. It is all left up to me. The only time he will do any correcting is if I am not at home. I work in a factory, eight hours a day, five days a week, and I am tired when I get home. When the kids fight among themselves, I yell at them, then my husband gets mad at me for yelling at the kids, but if they are fighting and I ask him to make them stop he says, "Leave me alone."

Now he tells me he can't stand my yelling at the kids all the time, and if I don't quit it, he is going to move out of the house.

I love him and want him to be happy, but I'm being pulled between knowing the kids need to be yelled at, and trying to keep my husband home. Please help me.

—PULLED BETWEEN—

DEAR PULLED: Your method of disciplining the kids isn't working or you wouldn't be yelling all the time. Try another technique. When they fight, separate them until they get good and lonesome for each other. [Don't worry, they will.] And keep them apart until they learn to get along better. Time is in your favor. The older they get, the smarter they get.

DEAR ABBY: How do you feel about asking for a "doggie bag" in a high class restaurant? It is an acceptable practice in many places, but we have quite a debate going on at home about this.

GLENDALE

DEAR GLENDALE: If I'm unable to do justice to the meal in a restaurant, I ask for a doggie bag, and I have no qualms. [I also have no dog, and the leftovers are delicious!]

DEAR ABBY: Below is a letter I have just received from my daughter in law, who is old enough to know better.

Dear Mother:

I am writing to thank you for the belated birthday gift you sent your only grandchild, Andrew. It was very nice of you to have sent such a generous gift, but I wish to express my feelings about your tardiness in sending gifts. I can understand a slip-up in the mails occasionally, but even that is no excuse for you, as you have nothing in the world to do but amuse yourself, and you are constantly shopping for yourself, so buying a gift well in advance of a special occasion should be no big chore.

I notice that when you send your son [my husband] a gift, it always arrives on time, but all gifts to ME and Andrew trail in late, which makes a birthday gift rather pointless when it arrives after the birthday. I think it is better to convey my true feelings to you than to feel this way and remain silent.

Love,
Linda

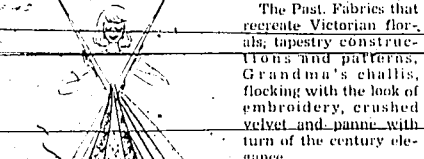

Well, Abby, there it is. I am still in shock. What would you do about such a letter?
HER MOTHER-IN-LAW

DEAR MOTHER-IN-LAW: I would ignore it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CONNIE: The biggest problem in the world could have been solved when it was small. What are you waiting for?

A Lovelier You
FABRICS FOR ALL SEASONS
By Mary Sue Miller

Fabrics, Fall '71, seem senseless. There's more to color than autumn leaves. Weights start with north woods blanket coatings and reduce to gossamer "nothings." Rigid categories simply do not exist, except within time's widest framework.

The Past: Fabrics that relegate Victorian florals, tapestry constructions and patterns. Grandma's challis, flocking with the look of embroidery, crushed velvet and panne with turn of the century elegance.

The Present: Environmental fabrics, take-offs on nature, like knit-back and quilted furs, like long-haired furs and Sherpa. Plus rustic sweater weaves, real and fake suedes, and such menswear classics as flannel, herringbone and tweed.

The Future: Designs that appear computer punched, double-woven reversible acrylics; metallic printed vinyl and urethane fake leathers; no-wale corduroy.

The Timeless: Celestial yardages out of a fantasy cowboy georgette, shimmering chiffon, sheerest wools, supplest jersey and crepe.

As for color, a full spectrum is at hand. Each shade can stand alone or blend with others. The color rundown goes—winter white, winter navy, black, gray, flame, saffron, evergreen, russet, henna, amber, copper, curry, bark brown, plum and grape, teal, electric blue, indigo.

Such happiness! It lets you suit your looks and your life. Style. Don't miss the opportunity.

Miss Wyllie marries Lee in double ring ceremony

TWIN FALLS — The First United Methodist Church of Twin Falls was the setting for the July 24 wedding of Cathryn Pearl-Wyllie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll G. Wyllie, Twin Falls, and Gary A. Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arliss Lee, Murtaugh.

Rev. Herbert Morris performed the double ring ceremony before a background of lighted brass candelabra, yellow gladiolus, baby's breath, fern and yellow tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length wedding gown created by her mother. The gown was fashioned of frosted organza over peau de soie. It featured an empire waist and long cuffed sleeves.

The bride wore her great-grandmother's pearl necklace and her sister's wedding veil. She carried a nosegay of yellow and blue pompons, baby's breath and cascading blue and yellow ribbons. Her hair piece was of yellow and blue pompons and baby's breath, accented by silver leaves.

Rings were carried by Jimmie Cornell Jr., and Arni Cornell scattered rose petals. They are the niece and nephew of the bride.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Carolyn Wyllie Cornell, Silverton, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Mary Larsen Hodge, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Diane Erb Griffiths, Nampa. Jackson Allred, Murtaugh, cousin of the bride, and Louis Anderson, Murtaugh, served as candle lighters.

Jerry Lee, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Merril Ohmsted, Douglas, Wyo., and Leon Wright, Pocatello. Guests were ushered to their seats by Jody Hillegas and Jackson Allred, cousins of the bride, and Louis Anderson. Mrs. Leon Wright presided at the registration book.

Joyce Guyer was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Dorothy Gibson, who also played wedding music.

A reception at the Holiday Inn followed the ceremony. Guests were greeted before a back drop of white Austrian puff with a blue and yellow swag drape.

A white floor-length flounce over blue covered the bride's table and serving table. Two yellow candelabra with yellow candles decorated with blue flowers adorned each table. Serving punch, sandwiches and other refreshments were Mrs. Jack Allred, Murtaugh; Mrs. Jody Hillegas, Kimberly; Mrs. Ray McVey, Layton, Utah, and Mrs. Roy Rice, mums of the bride, and Mrs. Robert Allred, Murtaugh.

The four-tiered lemon cake, iced in white, was decorated with a square forming the base. It was decorated with blue leaves and yellow flowers and was topped with yellow gladiolus. The cake was circled by yellow decorated flowers, white lace and fern.

Quintet tables for guests were covered with white lace over blue satin and were centered with yellow lanterns holding yellow-angelica decorated with blue flowers.

Mrs. R. L. Tansley the bride's music teacher, played background music for the reception. Mrs. Bill Peters made the mints for the serving table.

The couple took a honeymoon to Jackson Hole and will live in Pocatello where both will continue studies at Idaho State University.

Out of town guests attended from Idaho Falls, Aberdeen, Wyoming, Texas, Utah, California and Hong Kong.

A rehearsal dinner was held with the bride's parents as host and hostess.

A shower was given for the bride by Mrs. Mary Hodge and Mrs. Maxine Larsen.

2nd Shoshone fire said out

SHOSHONE — While a 45,569-acre sagebrush and range grass fire was being contained eight miles south of Shoshone Thursday, another man-caused blaze appeared adjacent to it. Wallace Fixsen, fire control officer for the Shoshone District of the Bureau of Land Management, said officials had not pulled men off the first fire but had it under control at 1 p.m. Thursday when another fire started from a ditch area nearby.

Fidel turns 45 today

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro turned 45 years old today, but no public celebration was expected in Cuba.

Castro was one of the world's youngest leaders when he came to power in Cuba in 1959 at the age of 32.

His regime, declared Marxist-Leninist in December, 1961, has lasted more than 12 years.

The second fire burned into the blackened area of the old fire, creating a total of 51,569 acres — of federal, state and private rangeland destroyed in the three day blaze which started Wednesday.

Winds up to 20 miles per hour were reportedly helping to spread the man-caused blaze officials said.

Fixsen reported that only one other fire this season was as large. On July 16, near Kimama also in Lincoln County, 69,000 acres were burned.

There have been 70 actual fires plus 19 false alarms so far this season which is exactly double the number of last year at this time, Fixsen added.

Don Runberg, BLM information officer at Shoshone, said that five relief tanker crews from Boise had been brought in to help seven other tanker crews transferred from the other fire. Additional manpower included extra bulldozer operators and a tanker crew from Burley.

The Burley BLM reported this morning that the 2,000 acre fire which was on private and BLM land southwest of Burley in the Golden Valley, was out and fire crews had returned to Burley.

Utility studies rapped

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Power Company was "careless" in its study of recreational uses of the Snake River, according to the president of the Idaho Wildlife Federation.

In a statement released in Boise Thursday, Robert Thomas, Coeur d'Alene, said the study illustrates "how far the dam proponents will go to justify their insatiable desire for exploitation."

The study in question indicates a greater number of tourists use the T.E. Roach Hells Canyon Development's three reservoirs and recreation facilities than the Snake River downstream.

Thomas said that "to compare family recreation in an easily accessible reservoir with the same type of recreation in a remote, wild and scenic area, such as the Middle Snake River, is pointless."

"It's like comparing power dams with airplanes," Thomas said.

Ketchum seeks police aides

KETCHUM — The Ketchum Police Department is seeking new members for its recently organized police auxiliary, Police Chief Dennis Haynes said Thursday.

The auxiliary established three months ago presently has 14 members enrolled. Haynes said he would like to increase membership to about 20.

The auxiliary serves an important role, Chief Haynes said, with members assisting regular officers with their duties along with providing a source of public relations for the department.

Auxiliary officers have been working on an active basis on weekends, Haynes said, with volunteers riding with regular officers in patrol cars.

No previous experience is required, as volunteers will be given training in such courses as first aid, along with preliminary instruction in police methods.

Volunteers will be provided uniform shirts and badges. The group will begin meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays in the City Hall. Applicants must be male and 21 years of age or older.

Chief Haynes also said his office will be placing permanent bicycle licenses on bicycles Saturday, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the police department.

Fee for the licenses will be 50 cents and will include engraved numbers, town name, and, if desired, the name of the bike owner.

Haynes said his department will also engrave numbers on car stereos to guard against theft.

Clover signup slated

FILER — The Clover Trinity Lutheran School will begin its fall term Aug. 30 and registrations will be held Aug. 16, 17 and 18, according to William Ruprecht, principal.

Kindergarten will begin Oct. 4 and close April 28. The school will observe Fair Day on Sept. 10. Other holidays include teacher conferences, Oct. 13-15; parent-teacher conference, Nov. 12; Thanksgiving, Nov. 25-26; Christmas, Dec. 24-Jan. 2; teacher conference, Feb. 18; Concordia tournaments, Feb. 25-26; Easter, March 31 to April 3, and will close on May 28.

Haynes said his department will also engrave numbers on car stereos to guard against theft.

Meet set Tuesday on moving wheat

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A meeting between grain elevator operators and officials of the longshoremen's union will be held Tuesday in hopes of reaching agreement on moving wheat into Pacific Northwest elevators.

The announcement of the possible agreement came Thursday regarding movement of eight million bushels of wheat into Portland and Astoria, Ore., and Vancouver, Longview, Tacoma and Seattle, Wash., terminals. The elevators were closed when the longshoremen's contract with elevators expired concurrently with the dock strike against the Pacific Maritime Association on July 1.

Dick Wise, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union Local 8 here, said talks were never broken off with the grain operators and the two sides were not far from agreement. However, railroad men concede there might not be enough rail cars to bring the crop to the ports since many railroads reassigned much rolling stock to other regions after the dock strike began.

John Parks, ILWU regional director, in announcing the Tuesday meeting said that the longshoremen "are not on strike against the wheat farmers."

Cash taken at Hansen

HANSEN — Sheriff's officers investigated the theft of about $120 from a Hansen home today.

Officers said Mrs. R. H. Rambo who lives one block south of the office said she had cashed several checks and still had the money in her purse. She left the purse in her living room while out in her yard and found the money had been removed when she returned a few minutes later.

County officials said several other homes in that area have been entered and money taken.

Activity fees said unchanged

RUPERT — Dr. Darrel Hatfield, superintendent of the Mindoka County School District, said today the school trustees have retained the same fees for student activity fees.

He said the $9.50 price will provide funds for student functions and programs.

Extensive discussion on a proposal that would change bus routes in the district resulted in an additional meeting of the board again on Aug. 18. Dr. Hatfield said a 2-1 board tie was broken when the chairman cast a second vote, as permitted by law. The measure was approved.

Dr. Hatfield said the school has the right to search any locker. However, if any material found during a search is to be used as evidence against a student in legal matters, the school must first have the student's permission to search, he added.

Lowder, assistant superintendent, recommended the bus re-routing because of the money it would save the district.

The right to search student lockers is not being investigated, according to Dr. Hatfield. He said questions about this issue had been raised and the school board had asked its attorney for an opinion.

Gas theft trial set

JEROME — Magistrate Russell Shaud has scheduled a jury trial at 9:30 a.m. Aug. 27 for Mel Morris, former city public works director charged with embezzlement.

He is accused of taking 23 gallons of gasoline from the city pumps for his own use. Morris pleaded innocent to the charge and then resigned his post.

Fugitive evasive

SALMON — A rattler is at large on the city streets of Salmon, but the fugitive so far has evaded police.

Police Chief Joe Sharp said two families notified police about the appearance of the rattlesnake in a residential area on First street, but minutes later when Sharp arrived, the snake had disappeared.

The intruder reportedly was a small snake.

Variance for plant approved

TWIN FALLS — Approval of a zoning variance to permit manufacture of microwave intrusion detection equipment in the old Twin Falls City filter plant was announced today by the Twin Falls County Commissioners.

W. L. (Bill) Chancey, commission chairman, said the commissioners approved the variance to allow light industry in the agriculture zone on recommendation of the Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission.

Harold Humphreys, Sunnyside, Calif., purchased the old filter plant and 15 acres of land on which it stands July 30 at public auction. He plans to move his burglar alarm manufacturing concern from California to Twin Falls and operate it from the renovated plant south of Twin Falls.

But Mary Ruth Man, in letters to committee members, charged that Crow's approach to the problem was "not a positive approach for useful facts, but a witch hunt for hearsay, accusation and condemnation."

HE NEVER FIRED a shot, but Lawiston merchant McGraeden, played by Scott Kambrick, lies "dead" on a Burley sidewalk after being attacked by the notorious Henry Plummer Gang as part of the pre-fair events advertising the Cassia County Fair Aug. 18-21. Members of the gang, Dave Nelson, wearing black vest, right, and LaMont Dudley, left, took the merchant's gun out of his holster and placed it in the dead man's hands proving again the cold-blooded methods used by the Plummer Gang which terrorized part of Montana in the early days.

VD cases on rise in Valley

TWIN FALLS — The number of reported cases of venereal disease has risen above that for a corresponding period last year, according to Dr. Wayne Carle, medical director of the South Central Idaho Health District.

Last year 106 cases of the disease had been reported in the district. "Already in the first six months of 1971 there have been 69 new cases," Dr. Carle said.

"If the trend continues I estimate that 150 cases will have been reported to the district health office before the end of the year," he said. Dr. Carle pointed out that he has been seeing more cases since the district health office has started operating a venereal disease diagnosis clinic. The clinic is open every Monday from 1-5 p.m. at the health office.

He added that the clinic operates on a confidential basis and all persons over the age of 14 can obtain treatment without parental permission.

Of the cases of venereal disease treated in the south central district, Dr. Carle reports that only about 5 per cent of the cases treated are syphilis. He said this is the most serious type because of its longevity and destructive nature.

"Gonorrhea, probably second in severity, amounts to 20 cases for every one of any other type of VD we treat," Dr. Carle said. He added that some cases of lympho granuloma venereum (LGV) have been appearing.

The Idaho Department of Health also reported that 47 new cases of venereal disease in Idaho brings the 1971 total to 907. Last year of this time 778 cases had been reported.

The health department also recorded two new cases of syphilis, for a yearly total of eight, compared to the one case reported at this time last year.

Art Boyle, director of the venereal disease program for Idaho, said the only way to curb the epidemic is to have suspected persons arrange for diagnosis and treatment. Boyle noted that the figures do not include military personnel stationed in Idaho.

Also there are many cases treated by private physicians and not reported to the department of health, he added.

Perrine design pushed

TWIN FALLS — Speed up in the design of the proposed new Perrine Bridge over the Snake River Canyon north of Twin Falls ordered by the Idaho Highway Board, should result in completion of the plans by spring, Dean Tisdale, deputy state highway engineer, said today.

He said design work began in July, 1970, by a consulting engineering firm, Tammen, Needles and Bergendoff, Seattle, nationally known bridge design specialists. Drilling for footings, a contract let in connection with the design has been completed, Tisdale said.

The $8 million structure will be a four lane bridge with a median divider between opposing traffic lanes, he said. It will be constructed immediately east of the present structure and the department of highways will remove the old bridge.

Tisdale said when the design is completed, it must be reviewed by federal highway officials. After a call for bids in the fall of 1972 is possible, he said.

The engineer said federal funds, amounting to 75 per cent of the cost and including engineering costs already in a detour around the crossing when loaded, many using the Hansen Bridge.

He said the Idaho Department of Highways will submit a budget for next year covering the state participation of about $2 million and hope the legislature will support the request.

He said the federal participation, announced this past week by Idaho Congressional delegates in Washington, D. C., has been confirmed by letter to the department of highways. It will be available in the 1973 fiscal year, which begins July 1, 1972.

The 40-year old steel and concrete structure now serving the area has been declared unsafe for heavy loads. Trucks and other large vehicles must detour around the crossing when loaded, many using the Hansen Bridge.

Air pollution index 134

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District at the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today.

Federal pollution regulations say pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms over any 24-hour period, and should not be permitted to rise above 260 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Forecast

Today: Good
Tonight: Poor
Tomorrow: Good

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution. Burning as permitted by law should be curtailed when the air is poorly able to disperse air pollutants.

'Picnic' probe panel blasted

BOISE (UPI) — At a meeting — never officially called to order — the aims, leadership, and even the name of a citizens fact-finding committee on Farragut State Park came under fire Thursday night.

Mrs. Ernest Harting, Moscow, accused acting chairman Stanley Crow, Boise, a founder of the committee, of "ramrodding" members into making decisions.

She charged that committee members did not have enough knowledge of the purpose of the group at a Coeur d'Alene meeting and that there was insufficient time for discussion. "You really didn't want citizen input," she contended.

The committee ostensibly was formed to look into the July 4 weekend "picnic" of the Universal Life Church at Farragut State Park in northern Idaho.

But Mary Ruth Man, in letters to committee members, charged that Crow's approach to the problem was "not a positive approach for useful facts, but a witch hunt for hearsay, accusation and condemnation."

District PTA meet planned at Hailey school Aug. 24

RUPERT — Lee Childs, Rupert, president of District 4 PTA, announced a one day district meeting will be held Aug. 24 at Hailey Junior High School. Registration will begin at 9:45 a.m. and the opening session will be at 10 a.m. conducted by Childs. Workshops will begin at 10:20 a.m. and will conclude at noon.

The presidents workshop will be conducted by Childs. Other workshop topics and instructors include: program, Mrs. Jack Rice, Gooding; secretaries, Mrs. Wendell Dean, Acequia; treasurer and budget, Mrs. Ted Crockett, Hansen; magazine and publications, Mrs. Dale Klidd, Declo; membership, Mrs. Kay Peterson, Rupert; hospitality and room mothers, Mrs. Glen Frazier, Eden; and publicity, Mrs. George Anderson, Heyburn.

A luncheon will be served at the school at noon with the district session to continue in the afternoon with discussion on legislative programs and parliamentary procedures.

Guest speaker during the afternoon will be Carolyn Hendrick, national field service work representative from the National PTA office.

On Aug. 23 Mrs. Hendrick will be at the Ponderosa Inn from 1:30 to 3 p.m. and that evening she will be at the Holiday Inn, Twin Falls.

Mrs. Arlene Kistling, Dietrich, state PTA president, will address the group.

Riders coming to Burley Eh Capa riders to ride in Cassia fair parade

BURLEY — The Eh Capa Bareback Riders, Boise, will be featured in the Cassia County Fair Parade, at 10 a.m. Aug. 10. Gary Hubsmith, parade chairman said today.

Eh Capa (Apache spelled backward) bareback riders are both boys and girls ranging in age from 7 to 17 years old. The youths use no saddle and no bridle. They wear Indian costumes which are made by the mothers of the children. They train their own horses and spend at least three evenings a week practicing.

The 40 some Eh Capa riders will also be performing the three nights of the rodeo, Aug. 19-21 and will ride drills and jump their horses over poles. Presently there are 40 entries in the various divisions of the parade according to Hubsmith. Bands that have registered for the parade include the Sun Valley Bell-Tones, Twin Falls; Burley High School and Shriners Oriental band.

Old cars seem to be an item of interest and 12 old cars have been entered in the division. Drill teams entered include Declo High School, Oakley High School, Burley High School and Minico High School. This year's theme is "Pioneer Trails."

Divisions of the parade include club or organization, commercial, animal drawn, old cars, antiques, churches and schools, bands and drill teams. Judging will begin at 8:30 a.m. across from the Overland Shopping Center where the parade will be organized. Judging will be based on general appearance, originality and the entry's ability to depict the parade theme, said Hubsmith.

Awards will include an overall sweepstakes winner selected from all eight divisions. Trophies will be presented in first place in each division and rosettes in second, third and fourth place winners in the eight divisions.

Persons throughout the Valley who are interested in entering the parade should contact Gary Hubsmith Box 370, Burley, 83318, listing the type of entry and the name of the person responsible for preparing the entry.

Air board seeks improvement funds

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Board of Aeronautics approved their fiscal 1972-73 budget Thursday with one exception, and voted to ask the legislature for $200,000 from the general fund to be used for requests for upgrading Idaho's five major airports. The total budget request of $342,200 includes provision for the operating budget for state-owned airports, and other funds for airport grants to be divided up at a later time.

The one exception was for an additional $25,000 to upgrade the purchasing of state airplanes, to buy planes at either one-year or five-year intervals.

The $200,000 general fund request for anticipated requests from municipal airports in Boise, Idaho Falls, Twin Falls, Pocatello and Lewiston.

A proposed federal regulation now asks that airports provide fire equipment and empower to safeguard airplane passengers while in the boundaries of state airports.

The regulation has not yet been adopted, according to the director of the Idaho Department of Aeronautics — Darrell Manning, of Boise.

Manning said in other comments that studies show Idaho is in need of more than $90 million to upgrade state-owned airports to comply with Federal Aviation Administration requirements.

In other activities the board tentatively approved a bid to place a VHF omni navigation system on a mountain west of Salmon to provide navigation facilities for aircraft.

The board also considered the north Idaho system study which is to be conducted by the departments of Aeronautics of Idaho and Washington of aviation needs in North Central Idaho and Southeastern Washington.

The two-state effort is to be financed by the federal and state governments.

Pomona picnic planned

RUPERT — The annual potluck picnic of Lincoln-Blairstown Pomona Grange will be held beginning at noon Sunday. It will be at the Rupert house picnic grounds at Triumph. All members of granges in the valley are invited to attend.

Growers meet set for T.F.

TWIN FALLS — A special meeting for all bean growers in southern Idaho has been set for 8:30 p.m. Monday at the Roundup Room, Rogerson Hotel, announced Barney House, NFO official, Paul NFO official.

Jim Miller, special commodity department, Corning, Iowa, will speak. All bean growers are invited to attend.

Salmon air aid cleared

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Aeronautics Board tentatively approved Thursday a bid to provide navigation facilities for aircraft.

Darrell Manning, Boise, director of the Idaho Department of Aeronautics, said the board considered a contract offered by the Wilcox Corporation, and tentatively accepted their bid for the system.

The board considered several other sites for the facilities, but determined that the spot west of Salmon was the most critically in need of navigation stations at the present time.

In other business, the board considered the operating budget for state-owned airports in Idaho for fiscal 1972-73, within the $342,200 total budget request. That total also includes airport grants to be divided up at a later time, Manning said.

The budget funds are provided by the 2 1/2 per cent aviation fuel tax, plus pilot and plane registration fees collected in the state.

The board also considered the north Idaho system study which is to be conducted by the departments of aeronautics of Idaho and Washington of aviation needs in north central Idaho and southeastern Washington.

Studies of wood use set

CODEN, Utah (UPI) — The Intermountain Region Forest Service has entered into a cooperative study on uses for normally discarded wood fiber left in the region's forests after timber harvesting.

Regional Forester Vern Hurre said the study is aimed at finding practical and environmentally sound methods for complete tree utilization of over-mature lodgepole pine forests.

Hurre said Forest Service scientists and managers of the Intermountain Forest and Range Experiment Station, the Forest Products Laboratory, and the Intermountain Region are joining with officials of the U.S. Plywood-Champion Papers, Inc., in this field study.

BURLEY — The Burley Toastmasters Club hosted the annual summer picnic at the Burley Golf Course, near the Snake River, it was announced today.

Attending were members of the Rupert Toastmasters Club, Minico Toastmasters Club, Burley Toastmasters Club and Burley Toastmasters Club and their partners.

Lawn games were played and the group took rides on the pontoon boat and drive by T. Wayne Woodland. Mrs. Woodland, general chairman, said this is the second year the Toastmasters and Toastmasters Clubs of the Mini-Cassia area have held a joint summer picnic.

Aging problems eyed at Burley

BURLEY — Problems of the aging were discussed during a meeting Thursday at Ponderosa Inn, directed by the Idaho Office on Aging.

Will E. Overgaard, division coordinator, reported the group went over the responsibilities and the Senior Citizens programs and at the same time ideas were exchanged between project directors, managers, chairmen or representatives of the various projects.

People seem to be fully aware of situations of the aging in local areas, state and the local reported Overgaard.

Topics discussed included income of the aging, transportation, health and nutrition, housing, and spiritual wellbeing of man.

Idaho has only been active in the aging programs for the past three years and the programs are in about 32 locations in the state. "It is our hope to get programs for the aging in each community and to reach all senior citizens in the state," stated Overgaard.

The session was aimed as a training session for persons who are now or who will in the near future be working with the senior citizens in various programs.

Cowboys open four-game set with Ogden tonight

The Magic Valley Cowboys have 10 home games left this season and only 21 left to do something about the seven-game deficit in the Pioneer League.

will open a four-game, three-day stand against Ogden at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Also could prove decisive in whether the co-general managers of the club, Kip Horsburgh and Carl Fazio, reach their pre-season goal of 30,000. A crowd of 2,623 Thursday night pushed the Cowboys past last year's attendance of 17,600 and left them about 8,400 short of the 30,000 mark.

Schlee surprise leader in Massachusetts meet

By DICK DEW
UPI Sports Writer
SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — Fringe player John Schlee, who was so nervous he "kept looking for snakes to reach up and grab me" shot a six under par 68 Thursday for a one stroke lead in the $185,000

Massachusetts Classic golf tournament. Schlee, a Dallas resident who has never won a major tournament in six years on the tour, had a 34-36-66, one over the competitive course record, for a one stroke lead on the veteran Tom Welkopf after a wind-whipped first round at Pleasant Valley country club. Schlee 32, admittedly surprised himself after being "very nervous all day. Everytime I teed up, I wish I could explain it." He denied he would take "nervous pills" before Friday's second round.

Schlee's late run into first place overtook Welkopf, who spent most of the day holding a "clubhouse lead" on a five under 34-33-67 and a one stroke bulge on Dewitt Weaver who had 35-33-68. Nearly a third of the 150 man field matched or broke par 72 in the opening round before a gallery of 17,115 and despite gusty breezes that troubled some of the entries. Six players were hunched at three under including Rod Funchess and Ray Floyd, both with 34-36-69, Joe Goldstrand with 34-35-69, Lou Graham with 36-33-69 and Bobby Michell and Bert Weaver with identical scores of 35-34-69. Oddly, the entry who commanded the most attention and the largest individual gallery, estimated at over 2,000 fans during most of the round, was not one of the flock who bettered par. Former baseball slugger Ken Harrelston, playing tournament golf for the first time in the area where he won fame with the Boston Red Sox had a 35-38-73.

Soviet miss sets world discus mark

HELSINKI (UPI)—Russia's Faina Melnik set a new world record for the women's discus throw Thursday as athletes from the East continued their domination of the 10th European Track and Field Championships.

Miss Melnik, who had only two good throws in her six trials, unleashed a toss of 210 feet, 8-1/2 inches with her sixth effort to snatch away the gold medal and the world mark from West Germany's Cherry Liesel Westermann.

The Russian broke the old record of 209-10 which Miss Westermann achieved Sept. 27, 1969 at Hamburg, She, too, only had two valid efforts and her 202-1 1/2 was good enough for second place.

The Frenchman Jean-Claude Nallet stopped the East's run on the gold medals by winning the 400 meter hurdles in 49.2 seconds after leading from start to finish from lane four.

Other winners at the third day of the six-day championship were: Russia's Evgeni Arzhanov in the 800 meters in a championship best of 1:45.6, Holga Soldner of East Germany with a time of 52.1 seconds for the women's 400 meters and Vera Nikolic of Yugoslavia, who clocked 2:00.0 to take the women's 800 meters.

Nallet, a 24-year-old who trained with this one race in mind, had a thrilling duel right down to the wire with Christian Rudolph of East Germany. The Frenchman, who stands a little over 6-foot-1-1/2 and weighs 184 pounds, approached each barrier just ahead of the German, and with Rudolph outside him in lane six, he held his fire until the run-in. The German was clocked in 49.3 seconds.

Brodie to be in wings as 49ers meet Miami

MIAMI (UPI)—"Old" John Brodie will be ready if the Forty-Niners need a couple of quick touchdowns, but former Florida star Steve Spurrier is expected to start for San Francisco in Friday night's Orange Bowl clash with the Miami Dolphins.

Spurrier, the University of Florida's first Heisman Trophy winner, earns most of his fat salary with the Forty-Niners during the exhibition season. During the regular season, he punts and sits on the bench wondering where "Old" John Brodie found the fountain of youth.

135 yards and touchdowns of 45 and 50 yards to speedy Gene Washington before turning the game over to Spurrier. Spurrier — they called him "Super Steve" in his heyday at Florida — will be sharing the spotlight with Miami's Bob Griese, a highly regarded thrower who finished second in the Heisman balloting the year Spurrier won the trophy. Griese has been a starter with Miami since his rookie year.

Both the Dolphins and Forty-Niners have been touted as possible Super Bowl participants. But while San Francisco was whipping Cleveland 38-24 last week, Miami lost to the Cincinnati Bengals 27-10.

The Dolphins were humpered last week against Cleveland and threw just six passes. He completed four of them for

Tarkenton signs on club's terms to end brief holdout

BROOKVILLE, N. Y. (UPI) — Quarterback Fran Tarkenton quit his brief holdout Thursday night and signed his contract with the New York Giants "on the club's terms."

The one-year contract signed by the 31-year-old Georgian was the same one he rejected on Sunday. He refused to play in a game against Houston Monday night because he said the Giants' terms were unacceptable.

Phils nip Dodgers 3-1 in 13 innings

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Don Money bounced a double off third baseman Maury Wills' glove in the thirteenth inning Thursday night to score Terry Harmon and Larry Bowa with the runs that gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-1 win, their first of the year at Dodger Stadium, over Los Angeles.

Harmon led-off the thirteenth with a single to left and took second when Bowa also hit safely to left. The runners advanced on Tim McCurver's sacrifice. Pala Mikkelson, the third Dodger pitcher, got Denny Doyle on a grounder but Money then hit a hard bouncer down the third base line. Wills, who came into the game as a pinch-hitter in the third inning, deflected the ball but it went for a double as the two runners scored.

Despite agreeing to the club's terms after a two-hour meeting with Giants owner Wellington Mara, Tarkenton will be subject to a stiff fine for missing the Houston game, which the Giants lost 35-6 with substitute quarterback Dick Shiner in charge. "Both Wellington and I are very happy with the signing," Tarkenton said. "I'm sorry for what I did on Sunday. I think it was a nasty move on my part. Now my only desire is to play with the Giants. I've been happier here than any place I've ever been."

Harmon hit 4-1-1, Russell 2-0-0, Bowa 1-1-1, Doyle 1-1-0, Wills 1-0-0, McCurver 5-0-0, Davis 1-1-0, Johnson 1-0-0, Alton 1-0-0, Doyle 2-0-0, Parker 4-0-1, Money 1-0-2, Garvey 3-0-0, Montaner 3-1-1, Wills 3-0-0, Fred 1-0-0, Ferguson 3-0-1, Gamble 1-0-0, Osteen 2-0-1, Wolkoff 2-0-0, Crawford 1-0-0, Wilson 1-0-0, Tucker 1-0-0, Brandon 1-0-0, Mikkelson 1-0-0, Stoltz 1-0-0, Pfeil 2-0-0.

Defeated, idle Chicago now trails Pittsburgh by 6 1/2 games and St. Louis moved to within 7 lengths of the lead.

He will report to practice on Friday morning and said he hopes to play against the New England Patriots on Sunday. He originally was reported to have demanded a "six-figure loan," but on the show with Gavett, he said, "I'm willing to budge, and talk to Wellington."

Braves 10, Astros 5
ATLANTA (UPI)—Rookie catcher Earl Williams had two home runs, two singles and four runs batted in Thursday night to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 10-5 victory over the Houston Astros.

Williams hit his 20th homer of the season with a man on in the fourth inning and came back the very next inning to hit number 21. Williams came up to the Braves this season as a reserve infielder but was made the regular catcher at the end of June although he had never caught before. Atlanta has won 27 of its last 40 games since he has taken over at that position.

"It has occurred to me I might not play, and I really hate to think about it," he added. "I really love football. The more I play the more I appreciate playing."

Padres 3, Mets 0
SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Steve Arlin registered his fourth shutout of the year Thursday night, a six-hitter that saw San Diego score all its runs in the first inning as the Padres trimmed the New York Mets 3-0.

Arlin, now 7-14, extended the Mets' scoreless string to 22-1/3 consecutive innings. He allowed only one runner to get as far as third and another to reach second base.

He said he was not interested in playing out his option because it would be "bad for the team and bad for the player."

The Mets had at least one man on base in every inning except the first and last, but the Padres turned in a pair of double plays in addition to coming up with several fielding gems.

Arlin pitched for 7 1/3 innings, scattered 7 hits, 1 run, 1 earned run, 1 walk and 5 strikeouts.

Cards 3, Bucs 2
PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Ted Sizemore keyed St. Louis' three-run third inning with a double and Steve Carlton pitched his 16th victory Thursday night as the Cardinals downed Pittsburgh 3-2.

Howard wins first U.S. cycling medal
CALIF—Colombia (UPI)—John Howard, a 23-year-old soldier from Springfield, Mo., gained the first cycling gold medal in Pan-American history for the United States Thursday and the Americans' last of the current games with a surprise triumph in the 100 kilometer (132-mile) road bicycle race.

Howard outsprinted a Brazilian star in the closing mile to capture the 105th gold medal won by the United States. One final chance for another gold went glimmering when the U.S. women's basketball team finished in second place.

The U.S. girls would have won their event if Cuba had beaten Brazil in the final game, but Brazil scored a 66-62 triumph to win first place. Cuba had led at halftime, 35-34.

Howard beat Luis Carlos Flores of Brazil by about two bike lengths at the end of the long race, which took the field on roads up and down the Cauca River Valley here 3,000 feet high in the Andes Mountains. The two men were side-by-side as they neared the finish line but Howard put on one final burst to capture the gold medal.

He was timed in four hours, 40 minutes, 55 seconds. There is no record for the race as courses vary.

Another quick spurt in the first four minutes of the second half opened the U.S. advantage to 33-17 and the American girls lightened their defense after that to protect the lead.

Adolfo sent to Salt Lake
MONTREAL (UPI)—The Montreal Expos Thursday ordered the contract of outfielder Adolfo Phillips to the Salt Lake City Angels of the Pacific Coast League, Expos' general manager Jim Fanning announced Thursday.
Phillips sent most of the current baseball season with the Winnipeg Whips, the Expo's Class AAA International League farm club. He was optioned to the Whips prior to the start of the 1971 season. He left Winnipeg at the end of July after refusing an assignment to the Syracuse Chiefs, the New York Yankees' club in the I.L.
Phillips, 28, joined the Expos in June, 1969, coming to Montreal from Chicago in a three-way deal amongst the Expos, Cubs and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

take time to utter the cliché about 'aces taking kings'. Then he led a club back. East held the trick with the eight and led a trump. South played on but wound up losing four tricks.

South would have made his contract if he had simply played dummy's six of clubs at trick one. If West shifted to a trump South would draw trumps, take his king of hearts, enter dummy with that ace of clubs and discard one loser on the ace of hearts. If West led a second club, South would wind up with an overtrick since he would be able to ruff a club and also discard a diamond on the ace of hearts.

 A—Bid six spades. At worst your partner will have a finesse for this contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION
 Instead of bidding five spades your partner has jumped to six spades over your five hearts. What do you do now?

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The grievance committee of the Playing Card Club was in session to hear complaints against players. The ace of spades, who is President and ex-officio head of all committees, recognized his young brother, the ace of clubs.

The ace of clubs cleared his throat and remarked, "I have a very severe complaint against South. Not only did he fail to make proper use of me but he also used that horrible cliché 'aces are made to take kings' as he wasted my talents."

"We will leave it to you to decide if the vote of censure passed by the committee was justified."

South plunked that ace of clubs on the king, without any thought although he did

Panel hits Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Civil Rights Commission charged Thursday that President Nixon's opposition to busing to achieve racial balance would undermine efforts to desegregate public schools.

In a statement signed by all seven members, the commission also criticized Nixon's request that Congress prohibit use of special federal desegregation money to finance any public school transportation.

The White House Wednesday reiterated Nixon's opposition to busing and said any government official who ordered busing, except as a last resort to eliminate a dual school system, might be fired.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Zogler said the administration would enforce court-ordered busing but would not seek legislation to override it.

Supreme Court ruling that busing was a legitimate way to achieve desegregated classrooms.

Shortly after the commission, headed by the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, made its stand, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace ordered the Jefferson County board of education to reassign a girl to a school closer to her home.

"I am only trying to help President Nixon carry out his pledge against busing," Wallace said.

Denouncing Nixon's stand against busing, the commission said what the nation needed "was a call to duty and responsibility for the immediate elimination of the dual school system and for support of all those school officials who are forthrightly carrying out their legal obligations."

"Unfortunately," the commission said, "the President's statement almost certainly will have the opposite effect, the effect of undermining the desegregation effort. It will almost certainly confuse the American public and erode the position of those school officials who have put themselves on the line to implement the law of the land."

"The President does not offer an alternative to implement the desegregation of the nation's schools. Had he presented an effective alternative, the statement would have found acceptance among those who have waited 17 years after the Supreme Court decision to see the law of the land implemented."

The commission, an independent advisory agency whose members are appointed by the President, was created by Congress in 1957.

Reassign pupil, Alabaman orders

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — George C. Wallace invoked his police powers as governor of Alabama Thursday and ordered the Jefferson County (Birmingham) board of education to ignore a federal school desegregation order and reassign a girl to a school closer to her home.

The potential 1972 presidential candidate said he would have additional orders along the same line, and indicated they would involve entire schools, rather than a single child.

"I am only trying to help President Nixon carry out his pledge against busing," Wallace explained.

"If the President is against busing, as he says he is, I expect Attorney General John Mitchell and HEW Secretary Elliot Richardson to join me in this matter."

Wallace told the school board that he wanted Pamela Davis, of the community of Mulga, reassigned to a school four miles from her home, rather than being bused to another school 20 miles away—as the federal order provided.

"I am upholding my sworn duty as governor to protect the welfare of children of this state, and as governor, this order transcends this court order," Wallace said.

At the same time, Wallace denied the Davis case would be a "test case." He said there did not seem to be anything to test if Nixon followed through on his 1968 presidential campaign promise to oppose the busing of students.

Wallace delivered his directive to J. Revis Hall, superintendent, and the Jefferson County Board of Education by letter.

New rules in school at Wallace

WALLACE (UPI) — when students in the Wallace Consolidated School District return to classes Sept. 1 for the 1971-72 school year, they are going to find themselves faced with a new student handbook.

The handbook, according to school officials, will specify "appropriate, safe, clean, neat and decent" as the dress code.

The new handbook was approved by district trustees Wednesday night.

The handbook says if a student refuses to correct his appearance after being told about it by the principal, the principal may suspend the student and refer the matter to the superintendent and the school board.
