Wage, pay muddle clears gradually

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The grocery price picture was a bit more clear today, but the question of pay raises for teachers and millions of state and local government workers remained in doubt as President Nixon's new economic roadmap continued to unfold.

The international currency rumblings rolled from Tokyo to Paris, and the comment from politicians and economists ranged from doubt to encouragement; but the questions most Americans were asking still centered on the 90-day halt in price, wage and rent increases. The government said it would have 10 offices opened across the country by noon today to fill in the blanks.

The office of Emergency Preparedness, which is enforcing the freeze and informing the public about its details through the new offices, cleared up some of the confusion about grocery prices.

It issued a statement Tuesday saying food products classified as "raw"—such as fresh fruits and vegetables—will be free to rise or fall as market and seasonal conditions dictate. This would also include corn, wheat, cotton, plants and other commodities sold in the raw or natural state.

Jerome firemen battle gas firm fire

Retaliation ruled out

By THE PRESS INTERNATIONAL — The European Common Market today ruled out the idea of retaliatory measures against the new American economic policies and floating of the U.S. dollar. The dollar's rate of devaluation in unofficial trading ranged from 2 to 10 per cent in Europe to 4.1 per cent in Hong Kong, key Asian financial center.

The Tokyo stock market stentled today and made slight gains after two puny days which sent prices plunging on the basis of the projected U.S. 10 per cent surcharge on certain imports. The frenzied trading of dollars for yen slowed today after the Bank of Japan bought up more than $1.6 billion.

BOISE (UPI) — Lt. Joe Munch, the first prison guard officer to appear at the special committee investigating conditions at the Idaho State Penitentiary, said Wednesday, "The inmates are running the show."

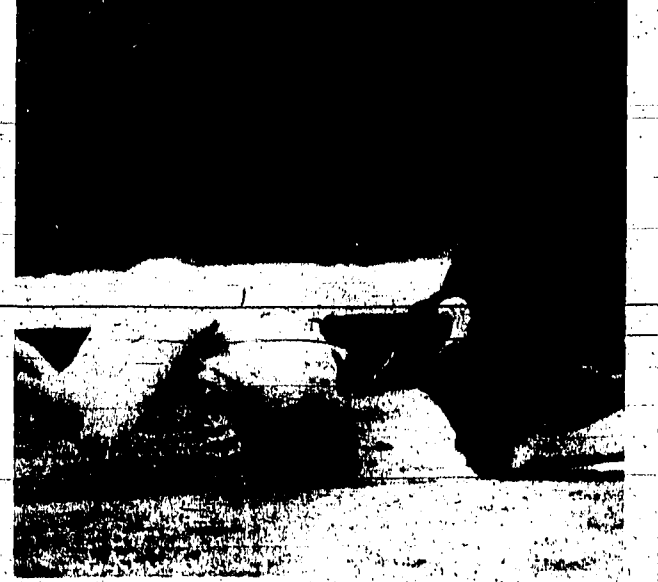

Crowd delays firemen

By CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News Writer JEROME — City and county firemen, severely hampered by a crowd of sightseers, controlled a blaze at the Ida-Cal Gas Co. on West Main in Jerome Tuesday, preventing expansion of the fire to surrounding buildings.

The fire apparently started when a spark jumped from an electric pump on which employees were working to a pool of heavier-than-air propane gas lying along the floor. The scene of the fire kept volunteer firemen from reaching the scene promptly, while a throng of onlookers at the scene hindered the firemen.

The fire caused damage estimated at $2,000. Firemen used a high-pressure hose to roll the propane tank off its foundation and away from the building. It burned itself out without causing further damage.

Bingham said propane tanks are equipped with relief valves to prevent explosion in event of a fire. Bingham credited firemen with controlling the fire promptly to minimize structural damage to the company and keep the fire from spreading.

British fire fells gunman

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—British troops shot and killed a gunman near the Roman Catholic Bogside district of Londonderry today in one of 23 reported shooting incidents in the city, an army spokesman said.

The troops forced the car to halt at a roadblock at the Diamond, in the city center. Rushing the car with Sterling sub-machine guns at the ready, they seized the body and held the four men for questioning. In Belfast, an army source attributed a daring series of daylight robberies to the illegal Irish Republican Army (IRA) because the extremist group probably faced a desperate shortage of money, he said.

Commission continues investigation of riot

Boise (UPI) — Idaho state penitentiary guards testified Tuesday that the conflict over how big a stick to carry at the prison has led to personnel conflicts and "rock bottom" morale.

Edward V. Williams, administrative assistant to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and chairman of the special committee investigating conditions at the ISP, told the guards to speak right out without fear of losing their jobs, and they responded with a recitation of conflicting prison policies, feelings of job insecurity and doubts of their ability to deal with the convicts.

One guard, Michael McGreer, correction officer, revealed that an honor dorm was in fact a haven for caching tools and contraband weapons.

McGreer said the convicts assigned to the honor dorm, placed there in the first place following an "election" by fellow convicts, have now been all transferred to the maximum security cellblock and been labeled agitators.

McGreer said, "It seems the prison is trying to run a reformatory without having the facilities."

He said the guards started to lose control of the inmates when the honor dorm was opened in cellhouse five. McGreer said convicts in the honor dorm were not subject to shake-downs.

McGreer said he felt the selection of inmates to occupy the honor dorm was fixed by the convicts themselves so that they could be together to "plan an escape" with immunity from guard control.

McGreer said the morale among the guard staff is rock bottom because there is constant conflict among the staff over whether the prison is a punitive or rehabilitative facility.

He said the move to the new prison facility would improve the situation but cautioned that there would always be a need to isolate the incorrigibles from the other prisoners.

"Let's face it," McGreer said "There are always going to be inmates that can't be reached."

The committee, who will hear the prison administration testimony Wednesday, heard all the guards who appeared declare they thought the riot had been planned.

Correction Officer Charles March, who said he locked himself in a cellblock for protection during the riot last Tuesday, said talks with some inmates convinced him the riot had been organized — "But by who I don't know."

March also said the prison administration policy is uncertain. "We used to know where we stood," he said, "Now we're fluctuating."

Another guard, Don M. Stevenson, said the prison personnel welcome the investigation by the committee appointed by Gov. Andrus.

Stevenson said there are serious personnel problems at the prison and a drastic turnover rate.

He said the attitude on the part of guard supervisors to the correction officers is, "If you don't like it, then hit the road."

Stevenson said he had witnessed incidents where supervisory personnel would "set up" a guard so he would lose his job if he was in disfavor.

But State Sen. Vernon Brassey, R-Boise, cautioned the committee to investigate more thoroughly charges of employee discontent.

Brassey, who had worked on an ISP study previously, told the body that he "would question whether the administration maliciously separated anyone who shouldn't have been dismissed anyway."

Brassey said the turnover might be explained by the fact that there were a group of incompetent guards at the prison two years ago who shouldn't have been working there.

Dr. Finch wins prison release

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Dr. Bernard Finch will be released from prison Dec. 6 after serving 13 years for the murder of his socialite wife during a torrid love affair with his nurse.

The California Adult Authority, which twice previously had denied Finch parole, approved his release Tuesday after it decided he was sufficiently rehabilitated.

Finch and his voluptuous red-haired nurse, Carole Tregoff, were tried three times—the first two trials ending in hung juries—before they were found guilty of shooting Mrs. Barbara Joan Finch in 1959.

They were both sentenced to life imprisonment, but California law permits parole on such sentences after seven years.

Miss Tregoff, now 34, was paroled in May, 1969 after 10 years in prison. She now works as a clerk under an assumed name in Covina, Calif. and lives in seclusion. She worked as a nurse and receptionist to the wealthy West Coast and surgeon in West Covina, Calif.

Finch, now 55, was described as "very happy and grateful" after being informed of the decision at the California Institution for Men at Chino.

Nixon pledges aid to all parochial schools

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Nixon received a loud ovation from a Roman Catholic audience Tuesday night by pledging his aid to parochial schools.

Cardinal Terence Cooke, archbishop of New York, presiding over the speaker's stand, said despite recent supreme-court decisions a practical means can be found and will be found to assist American Catholic school children.

Nixon, sitting on the dais, applauded the Cardinal's remarks to the 1,600 lay members of the Knights of Columbus at their annual convention. When it was his turn to speak, Nixon, the first President to address the national meeting of the Knights of Columbus, said he wanted "to associate myself with the remarks" of Cooke.

Nixon's stop here was the first leg of a two-day, five-state campaign style swing across the country to the Western White House in California where he has planned an extended stay.

Today he heads for Springfield, Ill., where he will sign a bill designating Abraham Lincoln's home as a National Historic Site. He also will tour the state fair in Springfield after a stop at the old capitol where Lincoln had his law office.

Nixon has been buoyant since his Sunday evening broadcast when he stunned the world by announcing a new economic policy—putting into effect a wage-price-rent freeze and in effect devaluing the dollar.

York disputes freeze

BOISE (UPI) — A spokesman for the Idaho Education Association said Tuesday state teachers should get pay raises despite the 90-day freeze imposed by President Nixon.

Wayne York, executive secretary of the IEA, said "a contract is a contract" and said wages lost during the freeze should be paid to teachers during the rest of the year.

York said the National Education Association is seeking an audience with the White House to try and obtain an exemption for teachers' contracts. York said the IEA will assume public school teacher contracts are exempt from the freeze until he hears different from Treasury Secretary John Connally.

York said "Until his word comes, naturally our position will be that public school teachers are exempt from the freeze."

Three officers killed

SEOUL (UPI) — An American and two Korean marine officers were killed Tuesday in the crash of a South Korean marine helicopter near Kwangwha Island off the west coast, the Korean marine headquarters announced today.

A spokesman said that the aircraft, belonging to the Fifth Marine Brigade, crashed into the sea shortly after it took off the brigade's helipad located 25 miles west of Seoul.

The aircraft was carrying three officers and 12 other personnel. The three officers killed were Capt. James H. Smith, Capt. Robert L. Smith and Capt. Robert L. Smith.

Airline schedules aired at TF meet

TWIN FALLS — Airline schedules leaving Twin Falls in the early morning and returning in the late evening would satisfy a majority of airline users. But Sun Valley would like a later flight out of the Twin Falls City-County Airport which would permit their guests to "sleep in" before departing for Twin Falls and points east and west.

For the most part the early morning and late evening schedules were suggested by the businessmen and shippers who pointed out this would continue good connections east out of Salt Lake City and would also permit early arrivals in Los Angeles and San Francisco. A plane departing west out of Twin Falls would also permit early arrival in the Seattle-Portland area.

Most of the businessmen said they were interested in early-late flights because it would permit them to attend business meetings on the coast, get in a full day of work, and still be home that night.

Discussion of suggested schedules highlighted a meeting at the Rogerson Hotel Tuesday at which Hughes Air West officials listened to the requests and suggestions of area businessmen, travel leaders and others. During the discussion he termed the Twin Falls field "the hottest spot on our system" so far as passenger-freight revenue is concerned.

The second portion of the concert will include "March Winds," Moore; "Where Have All the Flowers Gone," Seeger; "Great Themes from Great Italian Movies," arranged by Casavias; "Cha Cha for Band," Oser; "Fantasticks Overture" Schmidt; "Spirit of Freedom March," Cooper.

Final band concert Thursday

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Municipal Band will present its final concert at the city park band shell Thursday at 8:15 p.m. Thursday.

Director Del Slaughter said the concert will open with "Salutation March" by Seitz. Other numbers include "Slavonic Dances," "Dvorak;" "A Mayfair Cinderella," Kotelbey; "Rhythm of the Winds," Erickson; and "La Mascarada," Walters.

by the city council to proclaim the election, name election and registration officials and designate the 10 polling places.

City Clerk Edythe Koontz said an appeal is being made to the new 18 year olds who can vote this year for the first time. She said those between the ages of 18 and 21 or any other new college age voter should register now before leaving for college in order to be eligible to vote in the Nov. 2 election.

The census shows 21,914 residents of the city and the registration of 18-, 19-, 20- and 21-year olds reaching voter age this year could increase registration by more than 50 per cent, Mrs. Koontz noted.

There will be four council members — elected this November to four-year terms. Those whose terms expire include Mayor Frank Feldman, Eugene Stacey, Frank Cook and Winston Jones who is serving the uncompleted term of the late George Bennett.

According to Mrs. John Stevens, TORCH adviser, the group is trying to raise enough money to purchase a small used school bus for transportation for TORCH activities.

TF city raises frozen

TWIN FALLS — Several Twin Falls city employees who were scheduled to get regular salary step increases in September, October and November will have to forego the increases due to the presidential order on wage and price freezes.

City Manager Jean Millar said it has been determined the city cannot grant the regular raises although they were budgeted for several months ago. He said the question that will have to be answered is whether or not the employees will get retro-active increases when the freeze is lifted if it is at the end of the 90-day period.

Employees, he said, attain new steps in the salary scale on the anniversary of their employment with the city rather than at the start of a calendar year.

Those Changes In Texas

DALLAS — As Democratic Presidential contenders poured into Dallas for the Texas AFL-CIO convention, they encountered two remarkable political developments in this critical state: the precipitous decline in President Nixon's prospects and a withering away of Minnesota Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's strength inside the Democratic party.

Texas, once the Nixon bright spot among high-population states, is now a nightmare—thanks mainly to public outrage over the federal government's ambivalence on school busing. Less explicitly, Humphrey's strong base among Texas Democrats, previously his best in any major state, has quietly eroded.

The gainers: front-running Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and fast-charging Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, now the leading contenders for the fat Texas bag of delegates.

Mr. Nixon's summer slump here for weeks has concerned Texas Republican leaders, who compare this dark reality with the euphoria of White House political aides. Accordingly, these leaders recently passed a harsh message to the Nixon high command: the President's standpat economic policy has cost him dearly in the Texas business community and, far worse, school busing decisions are costing him votes throughout Texas.

Democrats are confident a non-radical nominee can carry the state. But the early consensus that Humphrey was that non-radical has now given way to broad-based acceptance of Muskie. On his way to Dallas last week, Muskie even fluffed out some Texas money during a secret meeting with Houston fat cats.

Certainly Muskie is the clear choice of state AFL-CIO leaders, once staunchly pro-Humphrey but lately disillusioned (particularly after Humphrey's vote for the Lockheed loan). Although Muskie's speech to the last week's labor convention was the longest, dullest and most poorly delivered address of the six Presidential contenders visiting here, his ovation was sustained and enthusiastic.

What is clearly at work is the handwagon phenomenon. State Sen. Oscar Mauzy, a Dallas labor lawyer and no-nonsense liberal, favors Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana for President. But Mauzy has told friends he is disappointed with Bayh's lack of progress and, quite likely, will end up with Muskie.

In contrast, Jackson's speech to the Texas labor convention attacking the left fringe of the Democratic party was widely reprinted by Texas labor delegates. Considering themselves on left fringe of their state party, some walked out. Among the 1,300 delegates, Jackson's support was invaluable.

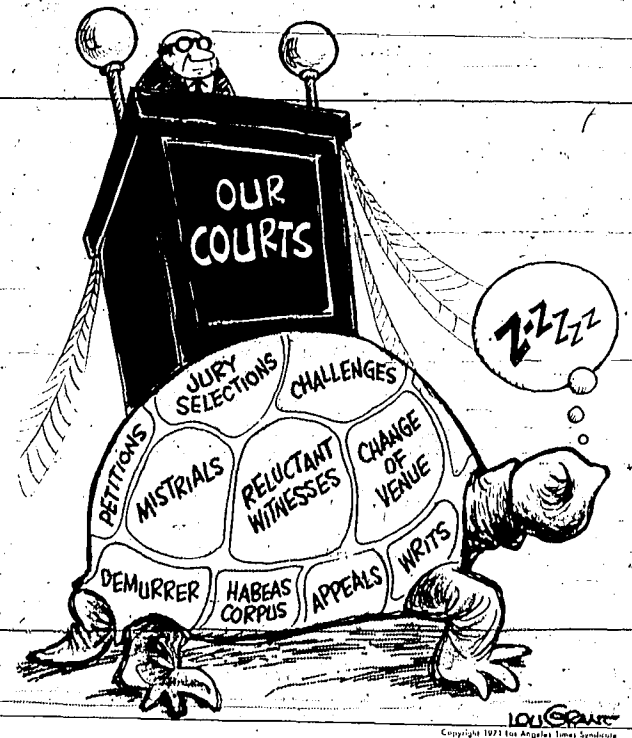

Since that message, Mr. Nixon's credibility here has been so much damaged by the combination of anti-busing statements and pro-busing actions that key Republicans privately—and unsuccessfully—advised him to cancel his visit to Dallas this week to address the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Thus, Mr. Nixon's position in Texas has changed radically the past half-year. Whereas six months ago, Texas Republican leaders were furious over the appointment as Secretary of the Treasury of their old Texas Democratic foe, John B. Connally, they now pray that Connally will be Mr. Nixon's Vice Presidential running-mate to save the state.

Whereas six months ago, these leaders thought Republican Sen. John Tower's best chance for reelection next year was to grab Mr. Nixon's coattails, they now applaud his disengagement from the President on busing and China policy.

Chinese Puzzle

President Nixon probably has had some experience with a Chinese puzzle of the kind that baffles small boys and their parents at Christmas, but the puzzle he is working on now is infinitely more complicated and difficult — how to renew friendly relations with the world's most populous country.

At the very outset, Premier Chou En-lai had stated China's position in positive terms:

There can be only one China. Taiwan is a province of China and a purely internal problem. The United States must withdraw its military and naval strength from the Taiwan Straits. Our defense treaty with Taiwan is null and void. China will not join the United Nations if Taiwan continues a member.

That array of non-negotiable demands would seem to slam the Chinese door in President Nixon's face long before his visit to Peking.

Our position appears only slightly less uncompromising. President Nixon has assured the government of Chiang Kai-shek that the United States will not desert Taiwan.

Secretary of State Bill Rogers recently said the U.S. still supports seating Red China in the U. N., but will oppose ousting Taiwan. The only hope for making our current "One China, One Taiwan" policy work is that the People's Republic of China, after being seated, would not walk out if Taiwan kept a place in the General Assembly.

Even if this occurs despite Chou's warning that China's stand will not change, there is another facet to the Chinese puzzle. Nationalist China might walk out to save "face," so important in the Oriental world.

Relations between the U.S. and China over nearly two centuries have been generally friendly, but not always. China declared war on Japan immediately after Pearl Harbor. At the end of World War II, civil war erupted in mainland China and we backed Chiang against the Communists to no avail. Subsequently, President Eisenhower sent the Seventh Fleet to prevent any invasion of Taiwan, where Chiang had fled from the mainland and claimed to be the legitimate government of China. We supported his claim, from the habit of supporting him and opposing the Communists.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Celiac Disease

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our daughter, now 3, has celiac disease, discovered at 18 months. As long as she stays on a gluten-free and dairy-free diet, she has few attacks. If she has learned to live with it, is there any medical way of helping her? — Mrs. R.J.B.

Dear Doctor: I recently found that my son, 4, has a celiac condition. He has had repeated bouts of diarrhea.

I have always prided myself on giving my children a balanced diet, so you can imagine my surprise and shock when I was told that the circles under his eyes and his slight pot belly were due to malnutrition. My pediatrician says it is a lifelong condition and he'll never be able to eat wheat or rye. My children's books says it will last only a few years. Which is correct?

Will I always have to worry about another bout whenever my family or friends sneak "the poor kid" a cookie or cake? — Mrs. C. R.

Celiac disease isn't as uncommon as some people think, and it can vary in degree — severe or not-so-severe. It is, indeed, a form of malnutrition. Or shouldn't we give it a more accurate name — malabsorption? — It is caused because these youngsters do not tolerate two types of protein, gluten and gliadin, which are prevalent in wheat and rye.

The problem is atrophy of the lining of the jejunum (the second section of small intestine). The cause is not known, but the result is that these two forms of cereal protein are not absorbed.

The result is slow weight gain, a pot belly, and loose stools which are bulky and pale because of a large content of undigested fat. (Diagnosis can be made by a biopsy of the jejunum, accomplished by passing a tube into the bowel. Not a serious procedure, by the way.)

There isn't any medication that will solve the problem. However, relief is prompt once the child avoids wheat and rye — complicated at times because wheat can be hidden as a filler in many prepared foods.

For cereals, rice and corn can be used. Ripe bananas are well tolerated, hence much used in such cases. Iron and vitamin B supplements are usually necessary.

The condition is a chronic one, but the jejunal membrane tends to improve on a gluten-free diet after many months. Then an occasional — very occasional — treat of cake or a cookie can be tolerated without touching off more diarrhea. But you can't expect this very often without trouble. And friends and relatives, unfortunately, too often don't understand, and cause trouble by trying to be kind and sneaking what they think will be a "treat."

The Long Chance

To the surprise of no one, Mayor John Lindsay has made it official. He is a Democrat now, no longer a nominal Republican, and he is available if the Democrats should happen to want him as their candidate for president or vice president.

That seems unlikely but almost anything is possible in the bizarre campaign shaping up for 1972. Lindsay's sorry record as Mayor of New York hardly recommends him as a candidate. And, renegades generally are given a polite reception but seldom are called to leadership of their new allies.

Republicans bore up under the equivocal loss of Lindsay with aplomb.

As for the Democrats, they already have a smorgasbord of choices among liberals and doves of a great variety, and even of a third party, headed by Governor George Wallace of Alabama, or a fourth, with Eugene McCarthy as its champion.

Senators Edward Muskie, Hubert Humphrey, Birch Bayh, Fred Harris, and Honry M. Jackson are busy with their as-yet-announced campaigns. There is also a willing darkhorse from Arkansas, Representative Wilbur Mills, whose authorship of federal tax measures and denial both of Nixon's efforts to cut federal expenditures or to increase federal revenues, have brought him some partisan support.

The deficit for the last fiscal year and the one expected next year will be known as Nixon's but the credit should be shared with Mills.

In any event, a lot of Democrats are willing to take the long chance of winning the nomination, a year away, and the long chance of defeating President Nixon, whether or not there are more than two candidates.

Shopworn Clique

Editor, Times-News: I would like to take exception to the remarks attributed to Rep. William Lanting in a recent issue of the Times-News.

In defending his position Mr. Lanting uses the shopworn cliché that it will be impossible to get good and qualified men to accept state office should they be faced with the possibility of being called to account for their actions. He also cites the equally worn and tattered argument that serving in the Legislature is a charitable undertaking and again good men cannot be induced to serve at such low pay.

In making such statements Mr. Lanting tends to degrade himself and his colleagues from this area. In my nearly 40 years of voting in Idaho elections I have never been forced to vote for what I considered a "poor" candidate. Call the roll of those who have served Magic Valley and you find that the vast majority were good and honorable men. Our present legislator is no exception.

I do not approve of use of the recall legislation except in cases of extreme provocation or necessity. But the law giving the people the right to recall cannot but have a salutary effect on those who would place their own desires above the well-being of their people. It has its place and it will not deter good men and women from offering their services to the state.

If these Legislators who have been subjected to recall are good and capable men they will be returned to office. Meanwhile I suggest that we in Twin Falls county let Bonneville county handle their problems. It would seem that it is not in good taste for our representatives to either endorse or discredit legislators from another district.

About Andrus

Editor, Times-News:

Your editorial of August 12, entitled "Where's Cecil?" prompts me to help you answer your question. You stated that Governor Andrus was in your office quite frequently before election but had not been there since, even though he had been in the City of Twin Falls many times. I think in all fairness to the governor, you are being rather harsh.

Please keep in mind that the governor was, first, very busy trying to get the Republican legislature to appropriate more money than the state had, to fulfill his campaign promises. Second, we must not forget that Universal Life Church in Farragut State Park, and those guests made such a mess of things that the state is still cleaning up.

Cecil's latest problems have been riots in the penitentiary and that has kept him quite busy pacifying the prisoners and promising them better accommodations.

I am sure that, just because you endorsed Governor Samuelson for re-election, has nothing to do with Governor Andrus' absence from your office. After all, he was elected governor of all the people, and you must agree, this becomes more obvious every time he fires a Republican and replaces him with a Democrat.

MR. SPECTATOR

Out Of The Past

Some of you readers will remember Carl B. Hoag, a pioneer resident of Twin Falls who came into this place in 1906. We received a note from him, saying he wanted a copy of the Progress 1971 edition. A friend in Prescott, Arizona, had written him telling him about it.

The edition has been sent to him—but we thought you would like to read some parts of his note: "My father, W. B. Hoag, my mother, sister and myself arrived in Twin Falls via a four-horse wagon from Shoshone in 1906. I graduated in one of the first grammar classes in Twin Falls and have my diploma of graduation dated April 10, 1907. It is signed by Edna DeBow, county superintendent, and by Nerrie Durple, teacher. I don't suppose there are many of those diplomas around.

"I am also the last known living member of the "Wonder Football Team of 1909" in Twin Falls. A story regarding the team appeared in the January, 1970 issue of Incredible Idaho. It was written by my son, Bob, and all persons and incidents mentioned were true, having been verified by Lem Chapin. I talked with Lem at his LaJolla home just three days before he died.

"On April 11 I celebrated my 80th birthday and two sisters, now widows and living in Long Beach six miles from Leisure World, attended my birthday party. They were in the Twin Falls grammar school class of April 1907."

To which Mr. Spectator adds, it was nice to get the note from Mr. Hoag. We hope that, after reading the Progress '71 edition, he writes again to let us know what he thinks of it. Any of you folks who know him can write him at 1280 Weeburn 31-B-3, Seal Beach, California, 90740.

PAUL HARVEY

Shear, Don't Skin

Congress will return to be greeted by a White House council recommendation for a "tax on polluters."

It sounds logical that those who pollute most should be taxed most but watch it; industries don't, we do.

Instant experts demanding a quick and simple solution to complicated ecological problems may retard a cleanup. Industry is their primary target but industry is not our primary polluter. Manufacturing activities contribute less than 20 per cent of total air pollution, a minute fraction of total water pollution.

Most water pollution comes from municipal, recreational, agricultural and natural sources — most of which are unregulated, erosion, and siltation. On balance, industry is doing more than its share of cleanup, is spending $2.6 billion this year on new pollution control facilities. This industry is imposing a substantial "tax" on itself.

Part of the misplaced news emphasis results from the fact that smoke is more conspicuous than the absence of it.

American industries already have allocated $18 billion to be spent over the next five years to help clean up their 20 per cent of the problem. What are the rest of us doing about our 80 per cent?

The simplistic industry indictment may be booming. We may zero in on industrial pollution with mandatory deadlines while ignoring pollution by municipalities, agriculture and the public — to discover that our problem five years from now is worse than ever.

"smoke plume" was more likely a cirrus cloud.

Actually, the unjustly indicted facility is spending $38.5 million to meet or exceed state emission standards.

This is not an effort to whitewash industry. I hope Washington and the states and an aroused citizenry keep the pressure on.

But laws against detergent phosphates, for example, might lead too many to relax in the assurance that our streams will be potable in no time. The fact is that nutrients, including phosphates, continue to flow into our rivers and lakes from agricultural and natural sources, some of which cannot be controlled.

And further, some of those hurry-up phosphate substitutes may prove even more harmful. A long-range cleanup calls for long-range planning, starting with the worst first. It will be tedious, it will be expensive and it will not be expedited by overrunning our headlights.

Jerome fair opens soon

JEROME — John Stelle, Jerome County Fair Board chairman, said Tuesday plans for the Jerome County Fair and Rodeo to be held Aug. 25 to 28, are just about complete.

Stelle said that the board had invited Gov. Cecil Andrus to attend this year's program.

"The office of Gov. Andrus told the Times-News that he will be unable to attend this year because of previous engagements but that the governor will attend the Twin Falls County Fair.

The events will start with a parade in downtown Jerome Aug. 25 at 4:30 p.m. This year's theme is "Hospitality, Western Style."

Leroy Weigle, in charge of this year's parade, said participants will assemble at West Eighth Avenue and North Lincoln and the route will be the usual one, past St. Benedict's hospital, turning east at East First Avenue, then south at the park, west on Main Street and ending at the fairgrounds.

Weigle said prize money will be awarded first, second and third place winners as follows: theme, $50, $25, and $15; riding groups, $15, $10 and $5; novelty, $15, $10 and $5.

He noted that entries include drill teams from the area, antique cars, floats, visiting queen royalty, Jerome Sheriff and Junior posies, Appaloosa Queen Sue Billington and Jerome Queen, Deanne Rickotts.

Lanu Brackenbury, Miss

Rodeo America, will also be present.

A Jamboree is scheduled for Aug. 28, with performances at 2 and 8 p.m. and will pit the Jerome County Jamboree team and the Wood River Riding Association in a scramble for top prizes, Stelle said.

He said a small charge will have to be made for the event as the fair board will furnish the trophies to be awarded.

"We don't hope to make any money on this event, just break even if we can," Stelle said.

He said afternoon attractions include cow cutting, calf roping, ribbon pull, one eighth mile race, half-mile race, a walk-trot-lead-run event.

Also included is a quarter-mile race, turn back race, relay race, working stock horse, saddle horse race and wild cow milking.

The program during the evening consists of seven barrel, figure eight, spud, baton, scurry, keyhole, cloverleaf, water, flag arena, rescue and trailer races.

Western garb asked

JEROME — John Stelle Jr., chairman of the Jerome county fair board, reminded residents this week to don western wear during fair week. At least three articles of western duds are acceptable.

The county's 38th annual fair formally gets underway Aug. 25 with a parade through the downtown area at 4:30 p.m.

Rodeo Cowboy Association (RCA) events will be held Aug. 25-26, starting at 8:30 p.m.

A Jamboree is scheduled for Aug. 28 at 1 and 8 p.m. On Aug. 27 at 8 p.m. a Country Western Music and Comedy Program will be held featuring Archie Campbell, Hank Thompson and the Brazo Valley Boys along with Mary Taylor.

Although the parade signifies the formal start of the fair, some portions of the program will take place prior to parade time.

Community exhibits in the produce building and the farm produce will be judged Aug. 26; Women's department in the Art and Women's building, Aug. 25; and flowers and commercial exhibit in the produce building and others in the Armory, Aug. 2; Arts, art and women's building, Aug. 26; Ceramics in the produce building, Aug. 26; Hobbies, produce building, Aug.

Junior Horse show, Aug. 23, 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.; Jerome County, 4-H Clubs and Future Farmers of America, judging home economics exhibits, Aug. 24; Aug. 26, 9 a.m. livestock judging; 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., horse and dairy fitting and showing and quality judging; Aug. 27, 10 a.m. grand champion fitting and showing, and awards assembly.

The annual 4-H style revue will be held Aug. 25 at 8 p.m. On Aug. 28 there will be 4-H tractor driving contest and a tree identification contest.

What is considered by many to be the big audience attraction prior to the parade will be the 14th annual amateur Western horse show.

The show is being sponsored by the Jerome Junior Posse, scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Aug. 23. Mrs. Sannich Sonnichsen, superintendent of the event said

Actor Sakata's derby turns into world-wide trademark

NEW YORK (UPI)—There obviously were two ways of looking at Harold Sakata. He saw himself as a gentle, good-humored chap, strolling along Fifth Avenue in the summer sunshine hat in hand and smiling benignly on the rest of humanity enjoying with him the warmth of a perfect August day.

But the crowds, parting hastily to let him pass, saw a bull-necked Oriental of somewhat ferocious mien swinging a strange derby whose rim was backed by a shining layer of sharp steel. What's more he appeared to be grimacing at them. New Yorkers as nervous enough without that sort of apparition in their midst.

Of course there were some who recognized the derby as the trademark and weapon of "Odd Job," the mute killer in the James Bond movie, "Goldfinger" in which Sakata made such impact he found his half-earned professional wrestling pseudonym, "The Great Toshi Togo," taking second place to a steel hat.

"Once I even used the derby to get into France," he said. "I mislaid my passport but customs took one look at the hat and waved me on. And when I was caught in Lebanon during the Six Day War in the Middle East in 1967 it helped me get out among the first travelers. Now I carry it with me always on all my professional wrestling tours."

Sakata is busy getting used to new name and role, Kenji

Takichi, the Buddhist cook, companion and bodyguard of sorts to George Kennedy in the upcoming NBC-TV series, "Sarge." Kennedy plays a Catholic parish priest who used to be a cop. Sakata's Takichi used to be a smuggler with a talent for making sushi yaki.

"I'm in 10 of the first 13 of the series," Sakata said. "I think I prefer making television films to feature films. It keeps you busier. There isn't so much time on your hands." Sakata's hands, one should mention, can break bricks and splinter two-by-fours.

Sakata was born in Hawaii. "I was," he says sounding something like the before-and-after advertisements, "puny at birth and I weighed only 105 pounds when I was 16. Then I discovered weight lifting and it took me to the Olympics (silver medal in 1948), to professional heavyweight wrestling (as a 225-pounder), movies and now television. I make a beautiful living."

He is impressed with George Kennedy not only for his superlative acting ability but because of his huge size and physique.

"I know he won the Academy Award," Sakata said, "but I can't help thinking what a great weight lifter he could have been."

Sakata won't come right out and say it but somewhere along the line he feels George Kennedy got his priorities wrong.

Gem crops developing

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho crop development was near normal Aug. 1 because of adequate moisture conditions during July and above normal temperatures the last half of the month.

That was the report Tuesday from the Idaho Crop and Livestock Harvesting Service which said harvesting of small grains was well advanced in the southwest and under way elsewhere in the state.

"Yield and quality of small grains are reported as excellent," the report said.

But the report noted that grasshoppers have plagued some crops and ranges—particularly in the southeast.

Too many strays

CAGES AT the Twin Falls city animal shelter are bulging according to Keith Saville, city humane official. There were 23 pets in the shelter Monday, evidence of the need for more space than the allowed 10 cages provide. Three little dogs share this center cage, while in the larger cages in the bottom, a large German shepherd still finds conditions crowded.

Population explosion hits TF animal shelter

By MELBA THORNE Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — The city animal shelter is over-crowded this week, Keith Saville, city humane official said.

There were 23 stray pets at the shelter Monday and it just amounts to having "more animals than facilities will adequately handle," Saville said.

He also warns people to be sure their pets have proper tags or identification or they may stand a good chance of losing them permanently.

There are 10 cages designated for care of the stray pets at the city animal shelter, at the Blue Lakes Veterinary Clinic, Monday many of the cages had as many as three to five animals in them. The larger dogs were given space of one large cage. They range in variety from German shepherds to little terriers.

City ordinance rules that the strays should be kept for 72 hours; however this time may be waived under certain circumstances, Saville said. If an animal shows "any signs of illness, he likely will not be kept very long. The over-crowded conditions also tend to cause more turnover in the cages. "There just isn't room to handle the crowd at times."

Two dogs were redeemed Monday, one a black terrier and the other a German shepherd.

"Though complaints of a dog in heat brought more pickup of the dogs Monday than usual, it isn't unusual to have as many as 243 animals in the pound during a given month."

Saville said about 75 per cent of the dogs picked up are eventually destroyed while about 90 per cent of the cats are never re-leased.

Only a few other type pets are usually picked up. These include porcupines, skunks and ravens.

The animals in the cages are fed once in the early morning, given water and put on the ramp at least once a day. Whether or not they receive more attention depends on the work load at the clinic.

The caged animals react with yipping and howling. They appear frightened, or is it "hungry" or just calling for help. A few, like the five little kittens there Monday, were cuddled together in docile sleep.

Saville asks that pet owners try to keep track of their animals and urges more support from the city in providing adequate facilities.

Little gain due on food prices

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Average retail food prices probably will not be greatly affected by President Nixon's price freeze order, government economists have speculated.

One source pointed out the freeze came near the summer seasonal high in food prices. He said prices, following a seasonal cycle, normally could be expected to decline over the next few months.

"This may have been an opportune time as could have been selected to impose a ceiling," the economist said. "There shouldn't be a lot of problems."

Earlier Agriculture Department economists had said the normal seasonal decline might be forestalled this fall by strong consumer demand and tighter supplies of some foods. But they said no increase in average prices had been expected.

Some experts saw potential headaches for the administration if the price freeze continues beyond the 90-day period announced by President Nixon Sunday.

Over an extended period, they said, adjustments probably would have to be made to cope with seasonal changes in farm prices or unusual changes in supply-demand patterns.

One economist said the administration would face "a lot of flak" if it froze the prices of foods, like lettuce, which can vary sharply in price, depending on the time of year and the supply situation.

Retail food prices were directly affected by the order banning price increases beyond the highest level charged during the month ending Aug. 14.

The order exempted raw farm products from the order, leaving items like wheat, soybeans, milk and cattle free to fluctuate, while products like bread, margarine, butter and beef were frozen at both wholesale and retail levels.

One source said he believed it possible that the seasonal peak for many food products may already have been reached. But he said it was unlikely the seasonal decline in prices would be great, partly because of prospects meat supplies may be tighter than last year.

Economists doubted bumper grain crops this year would have much impact on consumer food prices in the next few months. They said the price-depressing effects of the grain crop would not show up in retail prices until middle to late 1972.

Tuition hikes remain despite price freeze

By United Press International School tuition increases which have been announced for this fall will be allowed to go into effect despite President Nixon's 90-day price-wage freeze, a Treasury spokesman said today.

It still was unclear, however, whether teachers will be able to collect previously negotiated salary increases, the spokesman said. "He said many teachers are paid by state and local governments and that raises a 'hazy legal jurisdiction'."

The salary issue will be referred to the administration's cost of living council for a decision, the spokesman said.

Tuition increases will be allowed, the spokesman said, because in many cases students already have applied for admission under the higher rates and many already have made their deposits.

"Those (tuitions) announced will be allowed to go into effect this September."

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally had said under questioning at his Monday news conference that he did not know at that point what effect the freeze would have on college tuitions.

Some school administrators, uncertain what to do, promptly asked the government for guidelines on the issue.

"We simply don't know what effects the President's announcement will have," a spokesman for Harvard said. "Our legal counsel is pursuing the question." Harvard and its slater school, Radcliffe College, had announced a $200 increase in tuition to $2,800 effective with the start of the fall school term.

Ron Schmitt, administrative assistant to Oregon Gov. Tom McCall said, "due to President Nixon's price and wage controls, tuition in the state system of higher education cannot be raised over last year's level at this time."

West Virginia Board of Regents Chancellor Dr. Prince Woodward said across-the-board tuition increases at 12 state colleges would still go into effect when school opens in two weeks.

"I don't think there's any question that they will apply because they were announced in June," Woodward said.

A Lovelier You

GEE, MA, I CAN'T SEW

By Mary Sue Miller

The feminine set is into handiwork. Not since grandma's day has there been so much knitting, embroidering and sewing. Still, girls are heard to lament, "I'm all thumbs when it comes to needlework."

Well, here's an out-for-the-untandy. It should prove great fun for skilled fingers, too.

First you locate a plain-finish pattern for a vest and shoulder purse. These abound in pattern books no farther than the local variety store. Next you select the fabrics — felt for the vest and purse, a package of Bondex-iron-on fabrics for the trimmings, and designs to trace onto the iron-on.

Just to get you started, we'll say that you select a fashion-y russet felt for vest and purse; you decide on yellow and dark brown for the trims in butterfly and star designs.

When all is ready, cut the vest and purse according to instructions on the patterns. The vest should require no stitching. A little goes into the purse. Next you trace the butterflies and stars onto the iron-on fabrics. Make the butterfly wings of brown, the feelers and body of yellow. Mix the star colors. Then cut out the designs with scissors. A warm iron does the rest—reilly bonds the designs to the felt. Presto, you have inexpensive, easy, original accessories to start the fall season.

Gee, Doll, you can "sew!"

Student to study in Italy

TWIN FALLS — Janet Dougherty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Dougherty, Twin Falls, an undergraduate student at Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., has been selected to join the Experiment's Independent Study Program group to Italy during the first semester of 1971.

She will enroll in an intensive course in oral Italian just prior to beginning the program. Miss Dougherty will live with an Italian family for one month and during the second and third month she will participate in area studies and a cross-cultural course and will pursue independent study projects relating to her host country.

During this year the experiment's academic programs will extend into 13 countries in Africa, Asia, Europe and the Middle East.

DEAR ABBY: Let's set the record straight. Someone asked you who said, "Nice guys finish last," and you replied, "Leo Durocher said it."

Durocher wittingly, or unwittingly lifted this quote from the late Damon Runyon, and it's high time someone made that correction publicly. It is amazing how many news people attribute this quote to Durocher.—M. C.

DEAR M. C.: I am unable to find proof that either Runyon or Durocher said it, but I would appreciate knowing. [Where are you, George Selzer?] In any case, Damon Runyon may have said, "Nice guys finish last," FIRST, but Durocher said it LAST!

DEAR ABBY: Please don't laugh at me, but I am a grown woman and I am absolutely scared of death of mice!

Yesterday, a little mouse ran out from under the stove to the refrigerator and I became hysterical, started to scream for help and jumped up on the kitchen table. My two children, ages 7 and 9 also became hysterical and my poor husband had a terrible time quieting us down.

I felt foolish frightening the children that way, but I couldn't help it. My husband was so mad at me he refused to set the trap. How can I overcome this childish fear of mice?—PETRIFIED

DEAR PET: Go to a pet shop and look at the mice for a while. Then BUY [you heard me] a pair. [The white ones are adorable and they make great pets.] Get instructions on how to care for them properly, and keep them in a cage. Soon you and your children will lose your fears of the furry creatures. [P. S. Be sure you get either two males or two females—unless you want to go into the breeding business.]

DEAR ABBY: A woman signed Eating Alone complained because her husband refused to eat out because he couldn't be sure how clean their kitchens were. This went for the homes of relatives and close friends as well as restaurants.

Well, I have a similar problem, only mine is worse. My husband refuses to make love to me anywhere but at home. A hotel would be fine but when we go on vacations we always stay with friends or relatives, and I'm lucky if I get a quick good night kiss because my idiot husband is so afraid that someone will "hear" us!

I think this is ridiculous, but I can't get him to see it my way. I don't suppose you can help me, but I just wanted "EATING IN" to know she's not the only one with a nutty husband.—LOVELESS VACATIONS

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HOT PANTS" IN DETROIT: Next time get it in writing. [Then you'll at least be sure he can write.]

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69766, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69766, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

PTA leadership sessions set

SHOSHONE — Mrs. Floyd Kialleg, Dietrich, president of the Idaho PTA, announces a series of leadership training sessions will be held throughout the state during the last two weeks of August.

She will be accompanied by Mrs. Carolyn Hendrick, field staff member of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Three of the 14 scheduled meetings will be held in this area.

On Aug. 23, an afternoon meeting beginning at 1:30 p.m. will be held at the Ponderosa Inn at Burley. Lee Childs, district 4 president, Rupert, will be host for the session.

That same evening a meeting will be held at the O'Leary Junior High School in Twin Falls at 7:30 p.m. The group will be hosted by Mrs. Sherman Day, PTA Council president as well as a member of the board of managers of the Idaho PTA.

On Aug. 24 is the district all-day workshop sessions held in the junior high school in Halley. Childs and Mrs. Paul Kriley, Bellevue, will be in charge of the meetings.

The PTA Action Program, policies, procedures and PTA structure will be discussed. Means of improving relations between the home, school and community also are on the agenda, Mrs. Kialleg said.

National and Idaho PTA projects such as RISE (Reading Improvement Services Everywhere) and the formation of PTSA units are also on the agenda. The inclusion of the older students in the traditional PTA units is proving to be a popular and successful innovation. The purpose is to provide an opportunity for parents and teachers to work with students as well as for youth, she said.

Report will be given on the suit filed by the Idaho PTA against the Idaho Land and Parks Boards and Legislature, the state president said. The legal action seeks to recover the revenues derived from the interest on the sale and/or use of the state endowment lands. These moneys were designated by the U.S. and Idaho Constitutions to be used to provide income for public schools in Idaho.

The revenue cited in two instances of past misuse amounts to approximately 20 million dollars, the state president said.

Attendance at the PTA leadership meetings is limited to PTA members, she said.

Guideline asked

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy said Tuesday a comprehensive analysis prepared two and a half years ago should be used to provide guidelines for improving conditions at the Idaho State Penitentiary.

Murphy had headed a three-man investigation team appointed by former Gov. Don Samuelson to delve into the prison operation.

Murphy said the report pointed out deficiencies in security and administrative functions at the penitentiary.

Murphy, and the other members of the team, State Sen. Vern Brassey, R-Ada, and Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, Tuttle, recommended that the full-time board of corrections be replaced with a part-time board and that a professional penologist be hired as director of correction.

But Murphy said, "The one remaining major recommendation which hasn't been activated is the completion of the new prison complex south of Boise."

Murphy said despite financial difficulties the inmates may be transferred to the new site sooner than anticipated. He said the award of $300,000 construction money for law enforcement facilities "will be of prime assistance."

Plan has some risks

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, told a news conference Tuesday that President Nixon's new economic measures were necessary but were an admission of failure of previous administration policy.

Church said he agreed it is a "crisis situation" but said the 90-day freeze "contains some risks — notably a decline of international trade — that must be taken."

Church also announced he would team with Sen. John Cooper, D-Ky., to introduce into the Senate in September a measure that would declare a U.S. intent for all troop removal from Southeast Asia.

Church said the future of the Middle Snake is a question of whether it will remain in its free-flowing state or "be developed into one long reservoir."

Aide expects no warfare

By United Press International
Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban predicted today the Middle East conflict would be confined to the political arena, and would not erupt into hostilities despite threats by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat of renewed warfare before the end of the year.

Referring to reports Sadat's deadline for U.S. efforts to achieve an interim Middle East peace expired Sunday, Eban told a Jerusalem news conference Egypt had set similar deadlines since the June 1967 war.

"Israel has not trembled and fire has not been opened. The main reason was the Egyptians would not be able to succeed in a military initiative and Soviet policy does not want fighting resumed, although it does not want peace. Also, I presume a year of cease-fire is a powerful influence on public opinion in Egypt," Eban said.

Sadat arrived in Damascus today for an Arab summit conference with Syria and Libya designed primarily to discuss the tense situation along the Syrian-Jordanian border. The three nations are set to become the Federation of Arab Republics Sept. 1.

Sadat was greeted at Damascus Airport by Syrian President Hafez Assad and Libyan Premier Muammar Khadafy.

Egypt has been involved in diplomatic efforts to cool the friction and the border has been quiet since Friday.

Libyan premier Muammar Khadafy of Libya arrived Tuesday and immediately began preliminary meetings with President Hafez Assad of Syria. President Anwar Sadat of Egypt was arriving today. It was the first visit by an Egyptian president to Syria since Syria broke away from the two-nation United Arab Republic in 1961.

State denies requests

BOISE (UPI) — The State of Idaho Department of Finance announced Tuesday the denial of three pending applications for state chartered banks in Idaho Falls.

They include Idaho Bank and Trust of Pocatello, Bank of Idaho of Boise and Idaho Bank of Commerce of Rexburg.

Investigations conducted by the finance department indicated that the residents of Idaho Falls were being served by the convenience of nine banking outlets.

"In addition to the nine banking offices in Idaho Falls there are currently three Savings and Loan Associations, 13 small loan companies and 12 credit unions. Bank deposits for the Idaho Falls area have shown a substantial increase of 142.9 per cent for the 1960-70 period.

Market advance causes optimistic prediction

NEW YORK (UPI) — Another big stock market advance Tuesday had some jubilant Wall Street brokers predicting that the Dow Jones industrial average would break through the "magic 1,000" point plateau this year.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange, paced by frantic buying of auto stocks, hit 26,700,000 shares, the largest in history. The Dow Jones Industrial, which includes General Motors and Chrysler among its 30 selected stocks, advanced 10.95 to close at 895.90. On Feb. 9, 1966, that index reached 995.15, the closest it ever came to the elusive 1,000 mark.

"There's a good chance it might break 1,000," said Monte Gordon, senior vice president at Bache & Co.

"Chances are better than ever the market will hit a new high before the end of the year," said Lucien Hooper, senior analyst for W. E. Hutton.

Notes of caution also were sounded.

Gordon of Bache noted that the Dow Jones advance Tuesday was down substantially from the 32.93 surge on Monday. Volume, while very heavy, also dipped almost 5 million shares despite frantic shopping for auto stocks. General Motors, Ford and American Motors, which didn't trade Monday because of the rush of buy orders, and Chrysler accounted for 2,201,000 shares of the Tuesday volume.

Walter P. Stern, research director at Burdham & Co., thought certain parts of the administration's new economic game plan left room for some caution. He termed the wage-price freeze and the 10 per cent import surcharge examples of short term solutions for long range and nagging problems.

While investors obviously had new confidence, and the momentum still was riding with an "up market," some analysts noted that Tuesday's trading actually represented some leveling off toward normalcy.

Produce exempt on freeze

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) has explained all raw food products such as fresh fruits and vegetables are exempt from the government's 90-day freeze on prices.

The raw food products are exempt at both the farm and retail levels, OEP spokesmen said Tuesday.

Other administration officials said they still were uncertain about whether many individual products would be placed under the freeze. They said classifications would have to be made on a case-by-case basis by the new cost of living council that President Nixon created to make police for his economic program.

Nixon, in his executive order imposing the freeze, said "unprocessed agricultural commodities" would be exempt.

The OEP in a memorandum sent to its 10 regional offices has provided a series of guidelines which state exemptions definitely will be granted for fresh fruit and vegetables, corn, wheat, cotton, plants and other commodities sold "in the raw or natural state."

The memo also cited examples of processed commodities that would be subject to the freeze. They included pasteurized milk, frozen foods, bread, butter and beefsteak.

Wallace flays judge in speech to VFW meet

DALLAS (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace, who had one of his orders involving desegregation overturned in a federal court, said Tuesday the judge involved "doesn't have the brains to try a chicken thief."

Wallace made his remark to the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign War (VFW) which is holding its 72nd annual convention here.

The Alabama governor told his audience he would continue his challenge of federal desegregation orders by issuing an executive order today designed to reopen two schools in a predominantly black town.

He said his new order would prevent the federal government from "destroying two fine schools in Alabama." The order will reopen grades four through 12 in Hobson City, Ala.

He said his new order would prevent the federal government from "destroying two fine schools in Alabama." The order will reopen grades four through 12 in Hobson City, Ala.

Wallace was here to accept a $10,000 award from the Ladies Auxiliary to be used toward establishment of a $70 million Lurleen B. Wallace Cancer Research Center in Birmingham.

Mrs. Wallace died of cancer in November, 1968. She succeeded her husband as Governor of Alabama because he was ineligible to run for another consecutive term.

Wallace, in his earlier order, directed school officials in Jefferson County, Ala., to reassign Pamela Davis, 15, to a school near her home so she would not be bused as ordered by a court's desegregation plan. But U.S. District Court Judge Sam C. Pointer ruled Monday school officials should ignore Wallace's order.

"He is just another narrow, legal judge who doesn't have the brains to try a chicken thief," Wallace said of Pointer.

Flameproof boom looms

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four thousand Americans, mostly infants and elderly people die in their cribs and nursing homes each year because their nightwear, bed sheets and carpets go up in flames. Another 250,000 are injured in fires fed by flammable fabrics.

The government acted July 28 to stem this human holocaust by setting flameproofing standards for children's sleepwear, an action which could turn the stagnant nonflammable fabrics business into an annual half billion dollar bonanza. After July 30, 1973, said the Commerce Department, all children's sleepwear must meet stiffer flameproofing standards or get off the market. As much as 25 per cent of all U.S. broadwoven fabrics could be affected. And some economists predict the new regulation will mean a 30 per cent annual growth rate for the companies involved in flame retardant materials.

DuPont, leader in this field, estimates the children's sleepwear market alone will generate $200 million in sales. Carborundum, Owens-Corning, American Viscose and Monsanto also have vested interests and, like DuPont, are pushing now uses for nonflammable fabrics.

The best known is DuPont's Nomex, a flame resistant member of the nylon family. Racing driver Wally Dallenback was engulfed by flames during the 1970 running of the Trenton (N.J.) 300 and walked away with just a blister on one hand because he wore a Nomex suit. "If it weren't for that (suit) I wouldn't look too good today," he said.

Nomex is difficult to burn even at 800 degrees Fahrenheit. It doesn't drip or melt; just chars. It also resists stain and soiling, chemicals and acids, won't shrink, dries quickly, insulates against heat and cold and lasts six to 15 times longer than cotton garments treated with flame retardants.

Up until now, because of the cost factor, such inflammable materials were used largely in esoteric areas such as space, racing and fire jumping suits. DuPont, for instance, sold 140,000 square yards of Nomex for car racing in 1970, about 25 per cent more than the year before.

Now that the government has opened up the children's sleepwear market, producers are suggesting wider uses for nonflammable fabrics.

They range all over the marketing lot: industrial uniforms, sportswear (the material is soft), thermal gloves and underwear, upholstery (some commercial jets already have it), mattress pads, blankets,

Gooding school progresses

Completion nears CAA unit retains 2 aides

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News Writer

GOODING — The new high school gymnasium here will be ready for use at the Jan. 8 basketball game, James Muscat, superintendent of schools, told Gooding Chamber of Commerce members Tuesday.

Muscat said the school is applying for the District A-2 basketball playoff in the new gymnasium.

In other details regarding the new building, Muscat said the sewer bid for the building went to Pace & Morgan, Twin Falls, and work will be completed within 30 days.

He said the blacktop will be laid, beginning today.

A floorplan of the new building was shown to members of the chamber present.

There will be the new audio-visual room, with eventual installation of color TV, a special projects lab, with controlled light and heat for special biology projects, and a home economics department in three sections to allow more than one class to be held at one time. The building will be carpeted in green except for the multipurpose room where carpet is red with black trim.

In the library there will be individual study rooms. The lockers are to be painted different colors and walls for seven feet up are an off-white with the ceiling different colors. The 10-year students will have to be taken to the old school for classes, until the new steel building is constructed adjacent to the new high school building.

General science will be dropped from the curriculum, and replaced with an earth science course. Added will be mechanical drawing, northwest history, social problems and office practice and business machines.

The school will be air-conditioned.

Completion date for the building is April 10, 1972, but officials expect it to be finished before that as work is more than half done at this time, Muscat said.

TWIN FALLS — The South-Central Idaho Community Action Agency (CAA) board of directors approved an agreement to retain two technicians in housing and economic development during Tuesday night's board meeting.

The technicians, both bringing extensive experience in working with low-income people with them, are under contract with the Idaho State Department of Special Services. The CAA in turn contracts with the department for their services, according to Dennis Pratt, CAA director.

The contracts will involve no cost to the CAA or the three counties in which the CAA operates, Slotten said.

The technicians are Jim Hopper, a housing technician who has worked throughout the United States in similar projects, and Al Fathergill, a specialist in economic development who has worked in Alaska, Hawaii and the Appalachian poverty district. They will advise the CAA board on needs of the communities in Jerome, Twin Falls and Cassia counties and propose solutions of the problems of low-income people.

The contract will be written later this month, Pratt said.

Lincoln taxpayers want moratorium on tax plan

By MELBA THORNE
Times-News Writer

SHOSHONE — More than 150 Lincoln County taxpayers voted unanimously Tuesday night for a resolution to withhold putting Lincoln County property on the tax rolls under the present revaluation program until the entire county has been revaluated.

Before the meeting at the courthouse ended at 11:30 p.m. several irate taxpayers strongly criticized not only the revaluation program but also the "deaf ear" given them by Lincoln County Assessor

Sanford Connell, his appraiser and county commissioners.

The citizens said unfair evaluations have been placed on some property in the county and in some cases the appraisal was made without the appraiser "having stepped on the property or talked to the owner."

The meeting was the third such public gathering in the past few weeks at which taxpayers have voiced strong opposition to the reappraisal program.

Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, Tuttle, explained the concept of the revaluation program, saying, "We must have some kind of uniformity of taxation in the state."

Don Loveland, Burley, chairman of the Idaho Tax Commission, explained appeal measures open to taxpayers.

"Since certified assessments on the reappraised property in Lincoln County have been sent to the state tax commission, a ruling in favor of the taxpayers will be necessary in order for them to receive a refund," he said.

The ruling could be forthcoming from the county commissioners on appeal, and if the taxpayer is not satisfied with the county ruling, he may appeal to the state board of appeals, Loveland said. If that board does not rule to the taxpayer's satisfaction, he then has the right to appeal to district court.

Loveland, under questioning, said in his opinion, the assessor can withhold placing property on the tax rolls under the reappraisal program until the entire county has been reappraised. And taxpayers assessed in 1970 under the new program could receive a refund until the entire county has been revaluated.

County commissioners present, when asked if they would abide by the resolution approved at the meeting, said they would "take the matter under advisement."

Assessor Connell said under questioning that he did not feel qualified to do the reappraisal work himself since he has not had special training.

Floyd Silva, chairman of the Lincoln County Taxpayers Association, then asked Connell, "If you do not feel qualified to actually do the reappraisal, how can you judge whether or not your appraiser is doing the work properly?"

Silva and several other persons suggested the reappraisal program be suspended to allow Connell to attend a three-month training program and then return to do the work himself.

Loveland said Idaho statute 63-221 does not actually require the county assessors to do the work themselves and they may have someone else do the actual physical work in determining the basis for assessment.

However, the assessor alone has the responsibility of assessing property within his county, he said.

Land rezoned at Jerome

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Writer

JEROME — The Jerome City Council approved two ordinances under suspension of the rules Tuesday night annexing 848 acres of land and rezoning the area to allow business usage.

The council adopted the 1971 tax levy which will return $133,012. Mayor Jack Russell admitted the income is "more than sufficient" to meet the 1971 city budget, but allows for unexpected expenses.

The council also adopted an ordinance annexing several county roads bordering the city which have been jointly maintained by both the city and Jerome County. Problems have arisen over repairing of the roads following installation of utility lines, which would be solved by the annexation into the city road system, Russell said.

The property, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heitzman of Jerome, located southwest of the city along the Cemetery Road, is the site of a 61-unit mobile-home court currently under construction.

Heitzman's request for a flat rate on water for the court was denied when Councilman S.N. Weeks said the request was prohibited by city ordinance. Heitzman agreed to install the necessary water meters.

A request by Herb Walters for a sewer hookup and installation of a sewer line to his property on Buchanan Street was discussed by council members, who said an earlier proposal to install a sewer line along Buchanan was prevented by lack of funds.

Walters could, however, pay for installation of a sewer line from his property about 200 feet to a new line presently under construction along Ash Street, the council said. The city would dig the ditch, while Walters would pay for the labor of installation, cost of the pipe and expansion of the pipe and following installation.

In addition, Walters would have to pay for any unexpected costs of digging the ditch, such as blasting of rock, according to Councilman Marshall Everheart.

The council authorized the mayor to contact the Twin Falls firm of Hiedesel and Straubhar to determine their fee structure and report back to the council.

The council scheduled the fall general election for Nov. 2, with the terms of Councilmen Weeks and Everheart scheduled to expire this year.

In other action, the council approved a motion to investigate costs of repairing the city hall roof and heating system. The city hall houses all city offices and the police and fire departments.

Levy downed in Minidoka

RUPERT — The Minidoka School District, five mill levy for maintenance and operation was defeated Tuesday in a special election with residents voting 585 no and 418 yes.

Returns from each precinct include: Alton Haslam resident, west end of county, 15 yes, 13 no; Paul School, 81 yes, 138 no; Minico High School, 44 yes, 63 no; Lincoln School, 161 yes, 218 no; Heyburn School, 39 yes, 85 no; Acequia School, 56 yes, 56 no; the W. C. Paul resident-Jackson area, 12 yes, and 16 no.

Dr. Darrell Hatfield, superintendent, said that he has set an executive board meeting for 8 p.m. Monday to discuss ideas on how to take care of the situation created. Ideas from the executive meeting will be presented at the next regular board meeting.

The levy would have been applied to maintenance and operation and the district's deficit.

It would have meant a three mill increase to voters since the two mill bond indebtedness has been paid off.

was officially called at 10:30 p.m. Sunday when the local members voted against by the contract proposal by the Simplot firm.

The Heyburn plant does not reopen for potato processing until Sept. 1. Presently installation of new equipment and preparation for full operation is underway with managers and supervisors doing the work.

Man pleads guilty to burglary

JEROME — Thomas Gene Dye, 27, Kimberly, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of first-degree burglary before Fifth District Judge Theron Ward during an appearance in Jerome on Tuesday.

Dye was charged following his apprehension inside the Valley Cafe, Hazelton, on Aug. 11 by two area citizens on watch in the food store. Area businessmen formed a "Citizens' Watch" committee to maintain surveillance of their firms following a rash of burglaries over the past two months.

Dye was released on $1,000 bond, pending a pre-sentence investigation on order of Judge Ward.

Fairgrounds work finished

JEROME — John Stella Jr., Jerome County Fair Board chairman, said Tuesday improvement work at the fairgrounds will be finished before the Jerome County Fair and Rodeo, Aug. 25 to 28.

Stella said that the grounds have been cleaned. Work started as soon as the fairground area was roped and bulldozing chute area.

Peterson explained that as part of the project, chute gates have been placed on rollers, replacing the antiquated and inadequate system previously in operation.

Another improvement has been the installation of sprinkler heads in the arena area to keep down the dust.

A drinking fountain which was installed last year was replaced with a more attractive fixture and spill water was piped to avoid mud, Stella said.

Peterson said that two south side bleachers and the dairy barn have been given a coat of paint as well as the interior of the produce building. Restrooms have also been painted.

Other projects include seal coating of the main fairground parking lot.

Arrangements have been made to park cars in the oval grass area of the race track, Stella said.

Meet set on strike at plant

HEYBURN — Settlements still haven't been made in the wage and working conditions dispute between the American Federation of Grain Millers Union and the J. R. Simplot Co. after Tuesday afternoon meetings in Caldwell and Burley.

Negotiations were held at the request of the federal mediation, conciliation service between the grain millers and Simplots Tuesday.

As a result of the talks a special meeting for Local 296 of the Grain Millers Union was called for Thursday at 4 p.m. in Burley at the Ponderosa Inn.

According to Lloyd Oul, international representative for the grain millers, the pickets will remain at the Heyburn plant site pending results of that meeting.

The pickets were on the line for the third day after the strike was officially called at 10:30 p.m. Sunday when the local members voted against by the contract proposal by the Simplot firm.

The Heyburn plant does not reopen for potato processing until Sept. 1. Presently installation of new equipment and preparation for full operation is underway with managers and supervisors doing the work.

Administration hints action to stop strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the administration's relations with organized labor already at the lowest point since President Nixon took office, the government is now hinting it may resort to court orders and fines to end current strikes and stop new ones during the 90-day economic freeze.

The possibility was raised Tuesday by J. Curtis Counts, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, a few hours after the administration criticized AFL-CIO President George Meany in the strongest language yet directed at him.

Counts called on the nation's unions to call off all current strikes and to avoid any new ones during the three-month freeze in wages, prices and rents. He said labor peace would aid economic stability and besides "there appears to be little reason for stoppages to be in effect when it is not possible for wage and benefit increases to be given."

Counts noted that the presidential orders do not rule out labor negotiations and he pleaded with labor to return to the bargaining table and end the estimated 363 current strikes involving 150,000 workers.

Counts said his request was not accompanied by a club, but he added that if compliance does not come voluntarily there is action the government could take. He noted that the Economic Stabilization Act under which Nixon proceeded provides fines of up to $5,000 and court injunctions for strikes by unions or lockouts by managements.

A few hours before that, Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson attacked Meany for criticizing Nixon's plans. Meany had called Nixon's moves a "tax bonanza to America corporations ... at the expense of American workers."

Hodgson replied: "George Meany's comments on the President's historic initiatives are saddening. Mr. Meany appears to be sadly out of step with the needs and desires of America's working men and women."

There were three classes in the contest. Mrs. Hill's entry was a black and white coordinated polyester ensemble with a white Trovira overblouse.

Mrs. Hill was presented a Singer Touch and Sew portable sewing machine by Bill Tullos, Idaho Falls, local sales representative of the North American Singer Division.

Awaiting flagpole

TED SCHIERMEIER, Sawtooth City business man, displays an American Flag which was flown over the Capitol in Washington, D. C. and will soon fly over the "reborn" Sawtooth City over Galena Summit.

New Idaho community carries on old name

SAWTOOTH CITY — A United States Flag which flew over the Capitol at Washington, D. C. will soon fly from a new flagpole at this newest of Idaho communities bearing one of the state's oldest names.

The flag was secured by Cong. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, from George M. White, architect of the Capitol and was delivered to Ted Schiermeier, Twin Falls and Sawtooth City business man. He said "Old Glory will fly over the reborn Sawtooth City as soon as we can get the pole up."

The community is located over Galena Summit north of Ketchum. Originally, Sawtooth City was a mining town on Beaver Creek but now only a few old cabins and a cemetery are to be found in that area. The town went "down the hill" when mining ceased in the Sawtooth Valley and Stanley Basin area. At one time Sawtooth City citizens numbered more than 1,000.

Through the efforts of Schiermeier, Dr. George Brown, Twin Falls physician who has a summer home in the area, and Trigger Jim, a Sawtooth Valley resident, and others, the name was adopted by what was formerly known as the Smiley Creek section.

Today Sawtooth City includes the area from the Beaver Creek Store to the Smiley Creek Lodge along Highway 93. It also includes the Smiley Creek landing strip.

Although signs at both ends of the section herald "Sawtooth City, unincorporated," residents point out that even though there is no post office, letters addressed to Sawtooth City, Idaho, reach there without delay.

"It was just too historic a name to let die," Schiermeier said, "so it was born again a few miles down on the flat from where it was originally located."

Farm chief lauds Nixon

POCATELLO (UPI) — The Idaho Farm Bureau Federation Tuesday learned in a telephone conversation that President William J. Kufuss of the American Farm Bureau Federation praised President Nixon's new economic proposal.

Kufuss said that the proposal, including cuts in government spending, restoration of investment tax credits, repeal of the excise tax on automobiles, earlier application of income tax cuts and efforts to safeguard the U. S. dollar were all praiseworthy.

Farm bureau officials said Tuesday that potentially the most effective anti-inflationary measure in President Nixon's economic proposal was the announcement that $4.7 billion would be topped off the budget for the fiscal year that began July 1.

Officials said that excess government spending is a root cause of inflation, and that Congress should join with the President in resisting new spending measures at this time.

The farm officials also said the wage rates had exceeded gains in productivity which had meant a serious blow to agriculture.

Officials said that unless something is done to deal with the root causes of inflation, farmers can expect a recurrence of the inflationary pressures which have prompted the current emergency action.

C. W. (ABE) LINCOLN, evangelist from Lubbock, Tex., will conduct an eight-day gospel meeting in the Church of Christ, 202 Piler Ave. E., in Twin Falls. He has served in South Africa and several parts of the U.S. and presently is an instructor at the Sunset School of Preaching, Lubbock. Heavy Whitehead, minister, said services will be held at 7:30 p.m. nightly Sunday, August 15 through August 22.

A WORLD WAR I Machine gun cart is used as one of the display sections at the new Bowl & Board business owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hutchinson. The Hutchinsons show some of the merchandise on display in their new store located on Main Avenue North, Twin Falls.

New York shop sparked plans for new Twin Falls business

TWIN FALLS — The Bowl and Board, said to be the only shop of its kind between Denver and San Francisco, officially opened Monday at 221 Main Ave. W., Twin Falls.

Owners Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hutchinson, said though the business is primarily a wood shop, they also have furs, paintings and many other novelty type merchandise.

A visit to a similar shop in New York City sparked their interest in opening such a business. The Twin Falls store is a franchise store from the big city pattern.

It took the couple, assisted by their 12-year-old son, Mike, and Tenny Forrest, 17, Paul, just 30 days to prepare the building for the new business. The location formerly housed the Salvation Army Thrift Store.

Most of the "old barn" type wood on the walls came from the Richfield Outlaw Days rodeo arena. Hutchinsons said they replaced the wood at the arena; in as much as the variety there so perfectly fit their desires for interior decorating in the business. Under walls were prepared, the wood panels put up to the exact height for effect, with the extra space above and the ceiling painted white. Colorful decorating of the counters and merchandise arrangement add in the effect of Old West quality.

The brick on the floor came from Burley Brick Co., purchased as new brick, then laid and antiqued to fit the decorating motif. The rough effect of the in-lay was left for a purpose of design, though a sealer on top gave the overall finish to resist wear and cleaning. Mrs. Hutchinson's paintings are a highlight of decoration in the 35 by 45-foot room. Wagon wheels, wagons and old-fashioned cook stoves add to the atmosphere. A World War I machine gun cart with the date of 1917 engraved on the end is used for one of the fur display areas.

Mrs. Hutchinson, who is from New York City, spent six years in Los Angeles working in the art field. She has designed kitchens for American Kitchens and Home Town Kitchens, has been a fashion designer and illustrator. She has designed fabric, owned an art gallery in New York City and designed brochures and magazine illustrations.

She has sold her own paintings in acrylics and oils in California and New York and is receiving favorable reaction in Idaho.

Hutchinson was born in Logan, Utah, was reared in Declo and Halley areas. He spent six years in California where he was in the missile industry as an X-ray technician in electronics and tests. He did "moonlighting" in show business for six years, appearing in movies, TV and recording fields. He writes, plays and sings his own songs.

While in California, he said he had a construction company operation as a side-line, which he describes as a story in itself.

The Hutchinsons came back to Idaho about three years ago, going into ranching in Lincoln County, then decided to go into the wood shop business this spring. They plan to move to Twin Falls in the near future.

The new store is open from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. except on Mondays and Fridays, when it opens from noon until 9 p.m. and from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. respectively. The shop will close about noon on Saturdays, Hutchinson said.

Dock strike running roughshod on farmers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin charged in a bluntly-worded statement Monday that the West Coast dock strike is "running roughshod over farmers" by shutting off export sales.

"Foreign buyers are turning to other sources and it will be hard for us to win them back

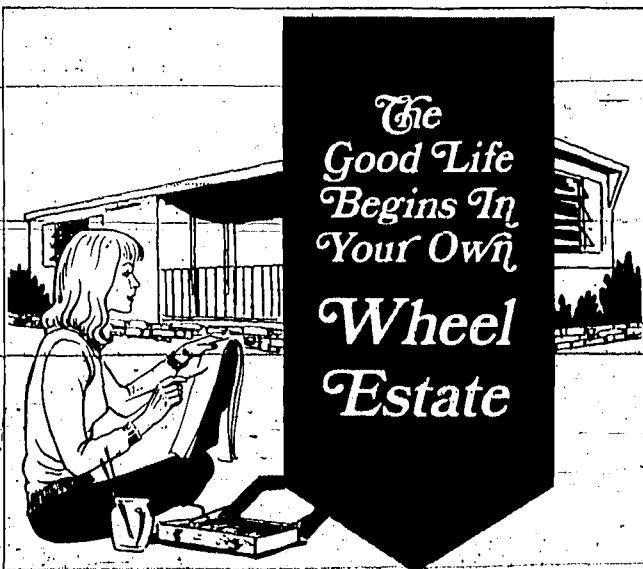

... It is high time that the principal parties in this strike think about farmers for a change ... Hardin said.

Seattle eyed for possible club transfer

SEATTLE (UPI)—Two former baseball officials are attempting to stake out the Seattle area for a National League franchise, the Seattle Times said Tuesday.

The Times said Bill Dewitt and Rudie Schaffer have already made inquiries about the availability of Sicks Stadium for an interim minor league team.

"Right now we would go with whatever classification of baseball available," Schaffer told the newspaper. "But obviously our only interest is to hold the territory for major league baseball."

Dewitt is a former owner of the St. Louis Browns and the Cincinnati Reds. Schaffer was associated with Dewitt on the Browns and later was an official of the Chicago White Sox.

Seattle was the home for only a year of the financially plagued Pilots of the American League but the team moved to Milwaukee last season.

"Regardless of what happened with the Pilots, baseball still considers Seattle a prime spot if a new stadium is built," Schaffer said.

According to baseball law, a territory becomes open when it remains unused for two seasons. That will happen here on Sept. 1.

Schaffer said one possible move would be a shift of the Eugene club of the Pacific Coast League to Seattle.

Stopping the play

CINCINNATI'S Hal McRae takes out shortstop Dal Maxvill of St. Louis after a double play attempt at first failed. First baseman Matty Alou missed a wild throw by Maxvill after Pete Rose, right, was forced by McRae's grounder to second baseman Ted Sizemore. The Reds won 5-3. (UPI telephoto)

Perry hurls Giants past Phillies 5-1

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Gaylord Perry pitched his third consecutive complete game victory Tuesday night, stopping Philadelphia on seven hits to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 5-1 triumph over the Phillies.

The victory was San Francisco's fourth straight and kept the Giants 6-12 games in front in the National League West.

The Phils scored their only run in the second inning and it was unearned. A double by Don Money and a throwing error by Giants first baseman Dave Kingman produced the tally.

swarmed on the field. Several minor scraps ensued.

Oilers waive Jerry Rhome

KERRVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—The Houston Oilers, with two talented rookie quarterbacks to back up veteran Charley Johnson, Tuesday placed Jerry Rhome on waivers.

McAnally, now 5-9, picked up his third win in a row as he stopped the Padres on four hits while the Expos worked over Steve Arlin and two relievers for 12 safeties, including a bases-loaded triple by Bob Bailey in the fifth.

Reds 5, Cards 3

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Johnny Bench's two-out, two-run homer in the ninth inning, his 23rd of the season, gave the Cincinnati Reds a 5-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday night.

In addition to his triple, Bailey also hit a single to raise his 10-year major league hit total to 990.

Atlanta Braves 5, Cubs 4

ATLANTA (UPI)—Pinch-hitter Zolo Versalles led off the bottom of the ninth with his fifth home run of the season Tuesday night to give the Atlanta Braves a 5-4 win over the Chicago Cubs.

The brawl started after Hunt, who holds the modern major league record for being hit by pitches, was struck on the left shoulder by an Arlin pitch. The Expos' second baseman, who now has been nicked 34 times in 111 games, had been hit on the left arm in the third inning.

DETROIT (UPI)—Quarterback Jim Ward, acquired only the day before from New Orleans, flunked his physical with the Detroit Lions Tuesday and again became the property of the Saints.

Bob Barton, San Diego catcher and a teammate of Hunt when the two were at San Francisco, exchanged words with Hunt at the plate. Hunt swung at Barton and landed a right on the chin. The two wrestled to the ground and members of both clubs

DETROIT (UPI)—Quarterback Jim Ward, acquired only the day before from New Orleans, flunked his physical with the Detroit Lions Tuesday and again became the property of the Saints.

The two National Football Conference teams were undecided on what the outcome of the trade would be, a Lions spokesman said. Ward came to the Lions in exchange for linebacker Carl Cunningham.

A knee injury and surgery in 1968 hasn't responded properly and Ward, 27, was declared unfit by the Lions' physicians.

Wage-freezing Nixon terms Blue underpaid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's No. 1 baseball fan welcomed the division leading Oakland Athletics to the White House Tuesday and termed the pitching star Vida Blue the most underpaid baseball player in the country.

"It was a little embarrassing to me but I have to agree," remarked Oakland owner Charles O. Finley as he and the team emerged from a 20-minute meeting with President Nixon.

Finley said he asked the President if the recently ordered wage freeze applied to baseball players.

"I was in hopes he would say, yes... He didn't answer—the question but did say he didn't want to be the person negotiating the contract with Vida for next year," Finley said.

The President took time out from the day's busy series of meetings on the economy to greet the Oakland team here for a series with the Washington Senators.

He presented each of the players with a autographed golf ball and received a baseball cap and a "soul handshake" from Blue.

"That's the way we do it," Blue remarked as he grabbed the President's left hand.

An avid baseball fan, Nixon was officially recognized by organized baseball last year as the nation's No. 1 fan and he impressed his guests with his knowledge of the game.

"He sure knew a lot about us," remarked Oakland manager, Dick Williams.

Nixon recalled, for instance, that Jim "Catfish" Hunter had pitched a perfect game in 1968 and he asked John "Blue Moon" Odom how he got his name.

"I've had it since I was a kid," Odom was quoted as saying.

Vandals to greet 65 candidates

MOSCOW (UPI)—Don Robbins, University of Idaho football coach, said today he expects 65 players out for the opening of varsity practice Thursday.

Robbins said the team would hold its first meeting Wednesday evening, draw equipment and take physical examinations Thursday, and begin two-a-day workouts Friday.

"The Vandals have scheduled their annual news media picture day Sunday and open their season Sept. 11 against Boise State College in the state capital."

"We have several fine football players returning," Robbins said, who are great players.

However, he said, "again we face the problem of depth, which has been an Idaho problem for years."

Robbins said he hoped several incoming sophomores and junior college transfers should aid the depth problem, particularly the three latest transfers.

Weiss hurls Cowboys to 8-5 win over Great Falls

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (UPI) — Magic Valley Pitcher Mike Weiss took his seventh win of the season Tuesday night downing the Great Falls Glants 8-5.

The loss put the Great Falls club only one-and-a-half games ahead of the second-place Billings Mustangs who swept a doubleheader from Idaho Falls in Billings.

White Sox use homeruns to sweep twin bill from Detroit

CHICAGO (UPI) — Steve Hunt hit a three-run homer in the opener and Walt Williams and Mike Andrews accounted for three runs with homers in the nightcap-Tuesday night to spark the Chicago White Sox to a 6-5, 4-1, doubleheader sweep of the Detroit Tigers.

The Magic Valley club came from behind a two-run deficit in the top of the third and scored three runs. They tallied Hunt won the opener with his three-run blast in the eighth inning off Mickey Lolich and prevented the Tiger lefty from winning his 20th game. Andrews locked up the nightcap with a two-run shot in the eighth inning.

Yanks 2-B, Royals 5-0
NEW YORK (UPI) — Felipe Alou's pinch hit home run up a man aboard and Bobby Muncie's three-run blast highlighted a five-run seventh inning that gave the New York Yankees a 8-5 nightcap victory, and a sweep of their doubleheader with the Kansas City Royals Tuesday.

Chicago starter Joe Horlen was credited with his seventh win-of-the-year in the second game, but was replaced in the eighth after giving up a homer to Aurelio Rodriguez, his 13th of the year.

Friz Peterson five-hit Kansas City for his second straight shutout, 2-0, in the opener. Lance Clemons, rookie left-hander, had a 4-1 lead and a two-hitter going when the Yankees exploded in the bottom of the seventh. Clemons, a former outfielder, may have run himself out of the game when he tripled and scored a run in the top of the inning.

Williams broke up a scoreless game when he hit his sixth home run of the year over the 375-foot mark off loser Les Cain in the fourth. Cain has now lost seven straight games and has a season record of 5-8.

Pinson's 385-foot drive into the right field stands came off starter and loser Bert Blyleven and gave the win to Mike Paul. Paul allowed eight hits and struck out five in going the distance to record his second win of the season against three losses.

Dallas coach can't settle on starters at three positions

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — A two-run home run by Boog Powell in the eighth and Ellie Hendricks' leadoff homer in the ninth Tuesday night carried the Baltimore Orioles over behind to 3-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

DALLAS (UPI) — Coach Tom Landry steadfastly refuses to issue any rankings on the various positions where the Dallas Cowboys have two or more players battling for survival or starting jobs—mainly at quarterback, free safety and backup wide receivers.

Walters and Harris are doing a great job," Landry said, adding that both of them will get to start this week — Walters on the left side and Harris on the right. "There's no choice between 'em."

Richardson, he said, would lineup on Hayes' side, where Adkins has been impressive in practice and against New Orleans last week.

Cepeda expected to return to baseball action with San Francisco next year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every man does his own thing. When they put out the lights at the hospital, Joe Namath, with his carved up knee still throbbing a little, fiddles around in bed hoping he can find a football game on TV.

Rojas gets big court settlement
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The suffering and injuries incurred by former California Angels' pitcher Minnie Rojas in an accident which left him paralyzed were appraised at $1 million by a Superior Court arbitrator Tuesday.

With Orlando Cepeda it's different. His knee also aches occasionally where it was sliced a few days ago, but when they put out the lights at St. Vincent's Hospital where he is, the Atlanta first baseman simply claps a pair of ear phones over his head so as not to disturb the other patients and keeps listening to his cassette player which is right near his bed and which he's more careful with than he is with his money.

Persons interested in these antelope or deer controlled hunts should send their application in by August 30th. The second drawing will take place on Sept. 15. They should not wait for return of their money if they applied on the first drawing, but send in a new money order or cashier's check with their second application.

Orlando Cepeda, who loves to listen to music so much they call him "Cha-Cha," has spent most of the past few nights catching the Latin rhythms of Ray Barretto, Mongo Santamaria and Tito Puente.

Although the arbitrator fixed damages at $1 million, the loss payable by State Farm Auto Insurance Co. under its policy against the insured, the driver of the other vehicle in the accident, was $30,000.

Not at St. Vincent's Hospital anymore he can't. Orlando Cepeda is being discharged today.

He's going back home to Puerto Rico for eight days and then he'll come back here for three-four weeks of physiotherapy," says Dr. Anthony Pisan, the New York football Giants' orthopedic surgeon who did the operation.

"All good people," he says. "I can't listen to 'em all day and all night."

He's going back home to Puerto Rico for eight days and then he'll come back here for three-four weeks of physiotherapy," says Dr. Anthony Pisan, the New York football Giants' orthopedic surgeon who did the operation.

"That other one was worse," says the Braves' slugger. "But I don't believe in age. How do I feel about coming back? In life you have to be ready for bad things. You gotta hope for the best and be prepared for the worst. I like to go in between. I'm not afraid of anything. Why worry about things? I think I can come back, but if I don't, I don't. It's only one life. I played professional baseball 17 years and made a good living. I can't complain."

Orlando Cepeda talks like that sometimes, and although he also talks about the Pro-Star clothes line he's in with jockeys Angel Cordero and Eddie Belmonte and his attorney, Walter Lubrin, saying how he wouldn't starve no matter what, you can tell baseball still comes first with him and he's pretty sure he can play again next year.

Cepeda's latest trouble came about after he twisted his knee going after a ground ball in Philadelphia in April. Despite the injury he played 71 games for the Braves and had 44 RBIs, 14 homers, and a .276 average.

king of clubs. South ruffed and had to get out with the ace of just one trump trick. He might have played the spades to be 2-2 but—after more thought, he decided that West was acting like a man with two potential trump tricks.

South entered dummy with a diamond and led a spade to his queen. West took his ace and led a second heart. South went up with dummy's ace, returned to his hand with the ace of diamonds, finessed against the jack of spades, picked up the last trump and finally discarded his last heart on the long diamond.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is another hand from Jeremy Flint's "Tiger Bridge" that illustrates how an expert deduces inferences.

West's comment on the bidding, except to point out the contract is a trifle optimistic. A rather logical heart opening would lead to a sure set.

West did open the ace of clubs. He shifted to the three of hearts after East played the discouraging deuce.

South started to draw some inferences before playing to this trick. He first decided that East surely held the heart king. Otherwise he would have played a high club. Then he concluded that East also held the king and lead the king if he had held ace-king. He would not have led the suit at all if he held ace-queen. Therefore, South played a low heart from dummy.

He lived mostly in a midtown apartment, kept his family in a magnificent Connecticut home, and vacationed in his own cabin in New Hampshire. A Negro in Hollywood. Swiss, Soviet tried in plot

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Swiss schoolteacher and a Russian physicist to whom he allegedly gave his passport so the Russian could flee the Soviet Union went on trial in Moscow Tuesday.

The Russian, Dmitry F. Mikheyev, 28, was charged with treason and anti-soviet agitation, dissident sources said. He could face the death penalty if found guilty.

Specific charges against the Swiss, Francois de Perregaux, 31, were unknown. The Swiss Embassy declined to discuss the case, and Soviet officials made no public disclosure of charges against either defendant.

Dissident sources said Mikheyev was arrested Oct. 2 as he boarded a flight to Vienna at Moscow's Sheremetyevo airport. Perregaux was arrested later the same day, the sources said.

Western newsmen were barred from the trial in Moscow's city court. A well-dressed, elderly man who spoke French and German and identified himself as Perregaux's father told newsmen waiting in the corridor: "My son does not want any publicity."

Diplomatic sources said the Swiss Embassy counselor, Henri Rossi, was present at the trial. The proceedings were expected to last one or two days, dissident sources said.

Unofficial Swiss sources said Perregaux, a secondary school teacher, came to the Soviet Union as a tourist. These sources said the Soviets charged Perregaux with giving Mikheyev his passport and a plane ticket after being asked to do so by another Swiss who had been a student in Moscow. They said Mikheyev speaks fluent English.

According to the unofficial Swiss sources, Perregaux is accused of having done this and then telling the Swiss Embassy he had lost his passport.

Interest lack vexes advisers

QUANG TRI CITY, Vietnam (UPI)—At night, lying on a bumpy mattress and sipping a lukewarm beer, Harry Barnes sometimes feels like a 20th century Don Quixote back from a day of doing battle with windmills.

He asks himself what it's all about, wonders whether it's worth it and finally falls asleep to wake up the next morning and take on the windmills once again.

Inst. Barnes, 24, of Lexington, Ky., is one of America's Vietnam advisers, the first U.S. soldiers to arrive in Indochina back in 1954 and likely the last to leave.

"You don't know how frustrating this job is," Harry said. "I'd like to believe I'm accomplishing something and maybe I am. Sometimes I feel I'm doing some good, but other times I wonder whether I'm risking my neck for nothing."

Most U.S. advisers, especially the younger ones, have similar doubts about their work. They've got one of the most trying jobs in Vietnam and it's getting increasingly tougher as more American combat troops pull out of the war zone.

They're supposed to train the South Vietnamese to be able to fight by themselves when the Americans are gone. But the advisers can only suggest, not order, and the more the United States withdraws troops the less the Vietnamese listen.

"Why should we listen to you?" South Vietnamese officers can be heard saying now. "You can't boss us around. You and all your soldiers didn't do so well while you were here. Why should we take your advice now that you're going?"

U.S. advisers work out of one of two American agencies—MACV (Military Assistance Command Vietnam) and CORDS (Civil Operations Rural Development Support).

MACV advisers, almost all military men, are attached to South Vietnamese army, navy, air force and marine units. CORDS advisers, about 85 per cent military, are assigned to the national police, militia units, paramilitary forces and "pacification" teams.

Both agencies have been forced to cut back their operations as the total number of U.S. advisers has dropped from 23,500 in 1969 to 15,000 last month.

Harry was at the Quang Tri military advisers' compound for a few days between assignments. He had been in Vietnam for nine months, mostly as an adviser to ragamuffin members of the Paramilitary Peoples Self Defense Forces (PSPF) in northern Quang Tri Province.

"Our job is almost impossible at times," he said. "You try to sit down and explain to them the flaws and what they could do to solve their problems. But they just tell you they don't have to take orders from us. What can we do? Well, it's their war. If they don't want our advice and suggestions, sorry about that."

There's hardly a U.S. adviser from the delta down south to the demilitarized zone (DMZ) up north, without a similar story.

Promoted

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — Promotion of G. Wesley Carlson, supervisor of Idaho's Challis National Forest, to watershed, impact survey specialist in Washington, D.C., was announced Tuesday.

Carlson has supervised the Challis Forest for the past six years. Regional Forester Vern Hamre said Carlson provided "excellent leadership" in managing the 2.5 million acres of scenic lands.

Hamre said Carlson's appointment is effective Sept. 10.
