Man charged with murder

BUHL — A first degree murder charge was filed Thursday afternoon against a 41-year-old man whose common-law wife's body was found Wednesday evening at the couple's apartment in Buhl.

Dick Frazier, Buhl chief of police, signed the complaint against Everett Bond who was arraigned on the charge about 5:30 p.m. in Twin Falls Magistrate Court before Judge Daniel Meehl.

An autopsy was performed on the body of Mrs. Mary Jane Chase Bond, 32, Thursday morning. Cloyce Edwards, Twin Falls County Coroner, said death was caused by contusions and injuries to the head of the victim.

Edwards said Judge Meehl granted a defense motion by Rudy Barchas of the public defender firm of Rayborn, Rayborn, Webb and Pike, to put an indefinite hold on the victim's body. Edwards said the defense may want to have another post mortem examination done in Boise. The coroner said he is limited in the amount of time the body can be held and then it will be released for services and burial.

Bond, who was transferred to the Twin Falls County jail Thursday, also was arraigned on a drunk driving charge Thursday. Judge Meehl said Bond was arrested Aug. 28 on that charge and bond of $250 had been posted, but Bond had not appeared on the charge. Bond pleaded guilty to the drunk driving charge and was sentenced to six months in the county jail.

Bond, who was working as a truck driver in the Buhl area, reportedly is originally from Jefferson City, Mo. The victim, originally from Oregon, was working at a produce plant in Buhl.

Her body is at Albertson-Dickard Funeral Home in Buhl.

Planes hit Red posts

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. planes struck Communist positions in North and South Vietnam today and in Laos and Cambodia, bringing a threat from the Viet Cong to retaliate 5 to 20 fold in South Vietnam.

A 12-day gray alert went in effect tonight for the 215,000 American GIs in Vietnam and they were confined to their bases in expectation the Communists may try to disrupt the forthcoming presidential elections.

F4 Phantom jet fighter-bombers struck 35 miles into North Vietnam today and hit anti-aircraft positions menacing U.S. air strikes against the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos. B52s struck targets inside the Demilitarized Zone and jets hit Communist positions in Laos and Cambodia.

Justice Black critical

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hugo L. Black, 85, remained on the critical list today at Bethesda Naval Hospital with doctors, saying the recently retired Supreme Court Justice's chances of recovery from a stroke were "poor."

Black suffered a serious "cerebral vascular accident" Sunday night and his condition grew progressively worse until he was placed on the critical list Thursday.

"Justice Black's condition has remained unchanged since the issue of the 10:30 a.m. and subsequent reports," the hospital reported at 11:45 p.m. Thursday. The next report was expected about midmorning.

A hospital spokesman said earlier, "the prognosis is considered poor."

Black entered Bethesda Aug. 28. His office said Sept. 15 that he was undergoing treatment for "maintenance of a proper blood sugar balance during steroid treatment of an inflammatory condition of the blood vessels."

Britain ejects Russians

LONDON (UPI)—The British government announced today it has expelled 90 Soviet officials from Britain and has asked them to leave the country within two weeks.

A foreign office statement said all of them "have been confirmed in intelligence activities."

The statement said 15 additional Soviet officials who are not at present in Britain but are holding re-entry visas will not be permitted to return to Britain.

The foreign office said the scale and nature of Soviet espionage in Britain has been provided by a Soviet official who recently defected to Britain.

"This man, an officer of the KGB (the Soviet secret police), brought with him certain information and documents including plans for infiltration of agents for the purpose of sabotage," the statement said.

British officials said the Soviet Union has a total of 550 officials attached to diplomatic, trade and other missions in Britain.

Harris runs for president

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Calling 1972 a crucial year, Oklahoma's Sen. Fred R. Harris announced today he will seek the Democratic presidential nomination and "try to turn this country around before it's too late."

"I believe that a president can call this country back to the greatness that is in it," Harris said. "I mean to try." The 40-year old, self-styled modern-day populist said his campaign would take him to the elderly, to Vietnam veterans in hospitals, to the prisons, and to the streets.

"A campaign itself can give power to the powerless," he said. "I mean to do that."

Harris joined Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota as an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination. McGovern announced last spring.

Over the past two and a half months, Harris has sought to put together a coalition of senior citizens, disenfranchised youth, blacks, Mexican-Americans, Indians, farmers, and blue collar workers.

He said his extensive travels this summer left him with two impressions:

"A lot of people can't believe America has ever been to the moon. That's because they doubt the credibility of the government and because it seems so illogical to them that our nation could spend so much money on space when so many of our people here on earth can't buy medical care."

"Most people don't believe that it makes much difference what politician is elected."

Conservative justice quits

WASHINGTON (UPI)—John M. Harlan, 72, is retiring as a Supreme Court associate justice, the White House announced. His resignation followed by only six days that of the court's senior member, Hugo L. Black.

Harlan's retirement means President Nixon will have an opportunity to appoint a third and fourth justice to the court.

The court's new term opens one week from next Monday.

Like Black, Harlan has been hospitalized more than a month with an apparent back ailment. Black, 85, submitted his resignation last Friday and has since suffered a stroke that left him in critical condition.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who announced the retirement, quoted Nixon as saying, "Mister Justice John Harlan is one of the great legal scholars in the history of the court and will be regarded by history as one of the towering figures of the court."

Harlan has been on the court 16 years—one of five appointees that President Eisenhower made to the high bench.

GOP Congressman Richard E. Poff of Virginia appeared in line today for appointment to one of two U.S. Supreme Court vacancies. President Nixon's aides hinted that the other spot might be filled by the first woman justice.

President Nixon hinted strongly Thursday night at Poff's appointment.

At a question and answer session at the Detroit Economic Club, Nixon said his choice need not be a judge, as his previous appointments have been, but could be "a legislator with experience in the Judiciary Committee of the House or Senate."

"That gives you an idea of where I am leaning," Nixon said.

Poff, 48, is the second ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee and is considered an able constitutional lawyer. He has been mentioned frequently as a possible appointee.

But already some opposition had risen to Poff. The Americans for Democratic Action charged Poff has a record of opposition to civil rights legislation.

The ADA's national director, Leon Shull, said Poff was a signatory of the Southern Manifesto in 1956 and would "become the first justice in more than 20 years to have declared that segregation is constitutional." In Congress, Shull said, Poff had voted "against every civil rights bill to come before him."

Talks reach 'common ground'

HELSINKI (UPI)—The United States and the Soviet Union today said they had found "certain areas of common ground" and achieved "a clearer understanding" of the problems of curbing nuclear weapons during the fifth round of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT), which ended today.

A joint communique said the next round of SALT will resume in Vienna Nov. 15.

The communique said U.S. chief negotiator Gerard C. Smith and his Soviet counterpart, Vladimir S. Semenov, "have engaged in detailed consideration" of a limitation of Defensive Nuclear Systems (ABMs) and "have given consideration" to certain measures with respect to limitation of offensive weapons.

This was the outline agreed on by Washington and Moscow last May 20 in a joint U.S.-Soviet announcement.

Observers said this may be a reference to a reported but unconfirmed agreement designed to prevent nuclear war by accident.

The communique gave no details of the top secret talks. The operative part of the document contained only two brief paragraphs.

No observers had expected anything else. After 22 months of negotiations, a comprehensive treaty, covering ABMs and some aspects of offensive weapons, is still in existence only on the drawing board, conference sources said.

Speaking to newsmen at the airport prior to his departure, Smith said, "I believe the prospect of reaching an agreement on limiting defensive arms in Vienna is not bad... as you know, the final communique of this Helsinki session demonstrates that our work has been fruitful."

Smith read a prepared statement, answered one question and flew off to Washington with his delegation in a U.S. Air Force jetliner to report to President Nixon. The Soviet delegation goes home by train Sunday.

The communique said, "certain areas of common with respect to such limitations have been developed during this phase of the negotiations, and a clearer understanding was achieved concerning issues to be resolved.

The two powers faced each other 92 times in plenary session and their massive delegations of experts—brain tanks, including top military men as well as highly qualified nuclear physicists—have held many more meetings on the side.

But the two negotiators have been unable to hammer out any agreement covering the "central issues" of limiting defensive and offensive nuclear weapons.

Nixon may curb interest levels

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon says he may curb interest rates in the next phase of his economic policy if lenders boost the cost of money in the next two months.

In a question and answer session with a business-dominated panel Thursday night in Detroit, Nixon also said the controls that will follow the 90-day wage-price freeze will last until inflation is checked and will cover the entire economy.

The President said interest rates were excluded from the current freeze because he feared that if rates were controlled, bankers might refuse to lend.

But he said no decision has been made yet concerning interest rates in the period after the freeze expires Nov. 14.

The President said he would base his action on "what happens to interest rates for the balance of Phase I (the freeze), whether they continue to, shall we say, stay where they are or go down."

Nixon was questioned by 10 members of the Detroit Economic Club while an audience of about 5,000 of the city's top business leaders looked on.

Pickets, estimated by police at between 3,500 and 4,000, paced in front of Cobo Hall to protest Nixon's economic, civil rights and Southeast Asia policies. The President was whisked in and out of a side door and did not see the protesters.

The President appeared to change the impression he left last week when he told a news conference the post-freeze controls would affect only major industries.

"It will cover the whole economy," he said. "It will have to concentrate primarily on those areas of the economy, major industries for example, where there is greatest possibility of inflationary tendencies... but all of the economy will be covered."

He also said the post-freeze controls would have no announced termination date.

"We are not going to set a limit on it because we believe its duration should depend upon how effectively it deals with the problem," he said. "Until we can deal with the problem of inflation... we believe that it is necessary to have controls."

School hit in first wage suit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In its first legal action brought to enforce President Nixon's freeze on prices and wages, the Justice Department Thursday filed suit against a Louisiana school board.

In a case filed in U.S. District Court at New Orleans, the Justice Department asked the court to issue preliminary and permanent injunctions against pay raises for 2,800 Jefferson Parish, La., teachers.

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said the suit also asked the court to deduct from future paychecks any payments already made. The school board earlier announced plans to raise teachers' pay $400 a year, making the first payment today.

The court scheduled a hearing Oct. 7 on the request for preliminary injunction. Government lawyers contended the proposed salary increase would violate Nixon's Executive Order of Aug. 15 which put the freeze into effect.

U.S. waits in debate

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The United States will hold off an all-out effort to save a U.N. seat for Nationalist China until next month's debate in the General Assembly, diplomatic sources said today.

The American effort already has suffered a setback with the recommendation of the U.N. Steering Committee Wednesday that the U.S. proposal to retain the Nationalist seat be considered along with a pro-Communist proposal by Albania.

Welfare cost skyrockets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — National welfare costs skyrocketed 27 per cent last year and relief rolls increased 17 per cent. The increases were the largest in history.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) said welfare costs for the fiscal year ended June 30 totaled $16.3 billion. Relief rolls climbed to 14.3 million persons.

The HEW report Thursday said welfare costs for the year ending in June, 1968, were $8.9 billion. They went up to $10.6 billion in 1969 and $12.9 billion in 1970.

The average monthly payments to welfare clients rose from $47.20 in June, 1970, to $49.30 in June, 1971. During the same period, welfare rolls added 2.1 million persons.

John D. Twinn, administrator of HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service, said the annual increase for the past fiscal year was partially offset by a decline for three consecutive months in welfare spending and a two-month reduction of welfare rolls.

"It is too early to call these decreases a trend," Twinn said. "But there is an obvious tightening up in the states."

Eleven states have cut the level of welfare aid recently in fiscal belt tightening moves, Twinn said, reducing the number of persons eligible for aid.

The states are Alabama, Arizona, Delaware, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York and Washington.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A new Mormon church under construction this gambling resort is being picketed by the Building Trades Council.

Jim Arnold, secretary treasurer of the council, said Thursday that a Salt Lake City firm was building the church and was using non-union workers.

The company involved is Bowers Building Co., he said.

Arnold said the picket line was for informational purposes. He said pickets would remain on the site until it was understood that the firm had no collective bargaining agreement.

The building trades council is composed of 18 construction trade unions.

The new church on Sun Valley drive will cost an estimated $360,000 to build and includes more than 16,300 square feet of floor space.

SAIGON (UPI) — The 215,000 American GIs in Vietnam were confined to their bases tonight in a special 12-day "grey alert" in case the Communists try to disrupt the forthcoming South Vietnamese presidential election.

The alert was ordered by the U.S. command "in anticipation of possible enemy activity" before, during and after the Oct. 3 balloting.

The alert took effect at 5 p.m. (5 a.m. EDT) today and will run at least until 5 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 6 (5 a.m. EDT). American troops are forbidden to enter populated areas "except on essential official business or travel between billets and place of duty."

On battlefronts, the military command reported that two American F4 Phantom fighter-bombers swept into North Vietnam again Thursday to bomb antiaircraft guns in the third consecutive day of cross-border strikes.

As the Phantoms struck north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) U.S. B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese bunkers inside the DMZ.

Near the northern city of Hue, five 122mm Communist rockets hit the U.S. 101st Airborne Division Headquarters at Camp Eagle Thursday night but caused no casualties.

The South Vietnamese command reported government infantrymen Thursday seized a Communist base camp near Tay Ninh City, 50 miles northwest of Saigon after it had been hit by allied air strikes. The troops found the bodies of 15 Viet Cong and captured 800 pounds of rice, 100 pounds of salt and 200 pounds of C4 plastic explosives.

Military spokesmen said helicopter gunships of the Americal Division killed 35 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese Thursday within 38 miles of the division's base at Chu Lai south of Da Nang.

The two Phantom jets were bombing Communist truck convoys on the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos Thursday when fired on by antiaircraft guns from nearby North Vietnam, military spokesmen said.

The jets turned east into North Vietnam and dove-bombed the gun battery 37 miles north of the DMZ. Results of the attack were unknown and the planes were not damaged.

German leader slapped

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — A young German slapped Chancellor Willy Brandt in the face today as he walked to his car on a downtown Munich street.

Brandt, 57, was in Munich to preside over a meeting of the advisory council of the organizing committee for the 1972 Munich Olympic games.

Police refused to give details of the incident. But witnesses said the assailant told Brandt, "Take that for your ostpolitik" — a reference to Brandt's policy of reconciliation with the Communist states of east Europe.

The remark made it appear the assailant might have been a refugee from former German territories of eastern Europe. Organizations representing these refugees accuse Brandt of abandoning their homelands through his frontier agreements with the Soviet Union and Poland.

Robbery charges dismissed in TF

TWIN FALLS — Robbery charges against Lawrence Lang, 30, Twin Falls, were dismissed for a second time Thursday afternoon during a preliminary hearing.

The hearing was conducted before Jerome's Magistrate Court Judge Russell Shaud. Lang was charged, along with Terry Hartley, 24, Twin Falls, with the robbery Aug. 20, 1970, of the Safeway store in the Lynwood Shopping Center. Hartley is currently waiting trial in district court.

City officers filed new action against Lang in March after the first charge was dismissed. Judge Shaud ruled the state did not have sufficient new evidence to warrant a new charge on the same robbery. The Idaho Attorney General's office is representing the state in the case.

Capt. Tim Qualls, chief of detectives, Twin Falls police department, was called home from an FBI school he is attending in Washington D.C. to testify in the preliminary hearing which opened Thursday. He had just boarded the plane in Chicago for the last leg of the flight when charges were dismissed. He is scheduled to fly back to Washington immediately.

Stereo taken

TWIN FALLS — Phillips Dobbs, Jackpot, Nev., told Twin Falls city police someone broke into his locked automobile while he was attending a movie at the Cinema Thursday night and stole a stereo player and tapes.

Joan of Arc's heart was found intact amid the ashes by the executor who burned her at the stake, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Suspension of missile asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Calling for an end to the international "drama of incorrect assessments and lust for superiority," Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., asked the Senate today to suspend deployment of the nation's newest missile system.

Humphrey called up his amendment to place funds for the Multiple, Independently Targetable Re-entry Vehicle (MIRV) into reserve to await the reaction from Moscow.

Humphrey's amendment was introduced to a $21 billion military procurement authorization bill—the annual Pentagon weapons measure.

Humphrey acknowledged that the step would be unilateral but he said the United States must display "sophistication" if the world is ever to end the nuclear arms race.

On the eve of the vote, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew sharply criticized Humphrey and other potential Democratic presidential contenders for advocating what he called "an inferior state of readiness." Agnew said Humphrey was guilty of "reckless and appalling" talk in urging a cut in the defense budget and warned the Democrats they "should be held accountable if they disastrously tamper with the national security."

Under Humphrey's amendment, funds earmarked for MIRV could not be spent for one year or until Congress and the President determine that the Soviet Union is deploying a MIRV system of its own, is building a large scale Antiballistic Missile System (ABM) or taking other actions that require a further U.S. nuclear buildup.

The MIRV is a cluster of nuclear warheads placed in the nose cone of a single ballistic missile. It is being deployed at sea on submarines with 12 warheads atop each missile, and on land, with three warheads carried by each Minuteman missile.

The system was developed during the Johnson administration when Humphrey was vice president.

But Humphrey, long an advocate of arms control, said the system must be suspended while the United States and the Soviet Union seek to negotiate a treaty limiting nuclear arms. He said the two countries now are working on an agreement to stop the ABM. Since the MIRV originally was designed to penetrate an ABM defense by raining more missiles on an enemy than could be knocked down, Humphrey said there would be no reason for MIRV if an agreement is reached.

Storm returns to its birthplace

MIAMI (UPI) — Meandering Hurricane Ginger, a massive storm the size of Florida, returned to its birthplace today and aimed its 75 mile-an-hour winds westward toward the southeastern United States.

The spaceport at Cape Kennedy was alerted for winds of 58 mph or higher within the next 72 hours, assuming the storm remains on its present course. Officials said it was too soon to say whether Ginger would affect Monday's launch of a $28-million orbiting solar observatory.

After buffeting Bermuda Thursday, Ginger began absorbing most of the circulation of smaller tropical storm, Janice, some 1,500 miles to the south.

"Ginger is a large, but not terribly powerful storm," Hurricane forecaster Gil Clark said. "Her gale winds cover a 75,000 square mile area, which is about the size of the state of Florida."

After buffeting Bermuda Thursday, Ginger began absorbing most of the circulation of smaller tropical storm, Janice, some 1,500 miles to the south.

Rock festivals cost state $4,000

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's two rock festivals this past summer cost the governor's emergency fund more than $4,000, a check with state records disclosed Thursday.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus estimated the recent Labor Day rock festival at Bellevue cost approximately $3,000 in emergency fund money to underwrite subsistence and salaries of national guardsmen.

William Shields, supervisor of reporting services, said expenses from the emergency fund for state assistance in the church "picnic" and rock festival at Farragut State Park over the Independence Day weekend cost $1,001.65.

"Probably some of the other expenses would have been paid by agencies who would have been in that area anyway such as the Parks Department."

Andrus noted the money spent at Bellevue was "expended in support of local units of government at their request."

Calling the expenditures "normal expenses of government," he said that "when you say you will support local government you can't do it with just your jawbone."

Three helicopters, among other equipment, were used by Guardsmen at Bellevue. Andrus said he had to pay the personnel costs out of his emergency fund but did not have to pay for the helicopters from that fund. The copter expenses will come from the Guard operating budget.

"They might as well have been flying out there as, out over the Desert on training," Andrus said.

Harlan quits high court

The opening salvo against Poff called to mind Nixon's two earlier, and unsuccessful attempts to win confirmation of a Southerner to the Supreme Court. Two years ago the Senate rejected Nixon's Southern nominee, Clement Haynesworth and G. Harold Carswell.

The Washington Post said today Attorney General John N. Mitchell told the newspaper in an interview Nixon was "very seriously" considering nominating a woman to the court.

Mitchell also told the Post he thought Poff was "an outstanding individual" and would "be great in any job."

The appointments gave Nixon an opportunity to continue tailoring the court to his strict constructionist philosophy. It was considered likely he would act quickly on the appointments. The court convenes for its fall session Oct. 4.

In accepting Harlan's resignation, Nixon said history would regard the jurist as "one of the court's towering figures."

Harlan had been a leader of the court's conservative minority.

Harlan contended restrictions on police questioning of criminal suspects represented "poor constitutional law." He said the forced reapportionment of state legislatures put the "basic aspects of state political systems under the pervasive overlordship of the federal judiciary."

Byron Johnson of Boise, chairman of the task force, said if adopted, the proposals would "provide a new foundation for public schools in Idaho."

Theatre travels north

Sue Galligan, Hailey, rejoins the Antique Festival Theatre's winter group which travels to Grangeville for a Saturday night performance to benefit that town's hospital, building program.

Mrs. Galligan performs in Chekov's "Marriage Proposal" which will be played as a double bill with another old one-act "Box and Cox."

H. Paul Kliss and the Bowlers will also be traveling north for the benefit.

According to Mrs. Alan Pierce, Castleford, chairman of the A.F.T. board of trustees, the non-profit corporation's annual meeting is set for Oct. 5 in Buhl. At that time the membership will elect a new trustee, hear the financial and production report, and enjoy some live entertainment!

Action slated

BOISE (UPI) — Mark Lane and four defendants who had their war protest case dismissed Thursday in district court said they intend to take legal action against Ada County law enforcement officers who allegedly made false arrests.

Lane, 44, who now makes his home in Mountain Home, declared at the news conference that "the right to speak out publicly in Ada County against the war has been reaffirmed."

But the justice joined the court's majority in the 1954 decision ordering desegregation of schools.

2 boys approached by 'object'

TWIN FALLS — If you ask David Wickham and Bruce Kirkham, both Jerome, if the Magic Valley area is being invaded by aliens in a flying saucer they would emphatically tell you it's true.

The two boys were hunting Wednesday night around the Bell Rapids project when they noticed an orange glow off in the distance. They said it appeared to be a fire and they started towards it to investigate.

The object then began to approach them at a downward angle. Wickham said the object looked like a long band of lights.

He said they gave off an orange hazy light. When the object came within about 150 feet of the car it turned and seemed to disappear. The boys said it circled them like this for about 45 minutes.

Wickham said there was a red flashing light below the brighter ones. He said the light from the object would increase when the red light flashed and decrease between flashes.

Kirkham said that the object finally disappeared to the southeast. He said it appeared to be on a hill covering the stars below and slightly above it.

When the object disappeared, however, there was no hill around.

Both boys said the object strangely affected rabbits and coyotes in the area. Kirkham said rabbits started running around in all directions like they didn't know where they were going. He added that the coyotes began yelping more than usual when the object was around.

The two boys reported the incident to the Twin Falls County Sheriff's office about 3 a.m. Thursday.

Nixon may curb interest rates

In answer to a question, Nixon said that recent reports of possible political exchanges in Communist China would have no effect on his announced plan to visit that country before May.

"I would not expect the current developments to change our travel plans," the President said. Although he did not elaborate on the "developments," it was the first official recognition by the administration of reports of a possible internal "crisis" situation on the mainland.

Nixon hinted strongly that he would fill one of two vacancies on the Supreme Court with Rep. Richard Poff, a Virginia Republican who 17 years ago signed the "Southern Manifesto" condemning the high court's school desegregation decision.

The President said that in naming replacements for retiring Justices Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan, he would seek persons with a judicial philosophy similar to his first two appointees, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Henry Blackmun. But he said he would not limit his consideration to judges.

"So teachers, legislators, for example, with great experience in the Judiciary Committees of the House or Senate, they are always good possibilities," he said. "That gives you an idea of where I am turning."

Motivations of lawyer questioned

BOISE (UPI) — A Baltimore, Md., lawyer who chided the attorney general and governor for not supporting him in an ecological lawsuit may be motivated by more than ecology, Attorney General W. Anthony Park said today.

Park said attorney Leonard J. Kerpelman, Baltimore, general counsel for the Pennsylvania-based Society for Environmental Litigation, asked the state to pay him $2,000 to write a legal brief for it.

Kerpelman recently wrote the attorney general claiming Park and Gov. Cecil D. Andrus left him "flat" in his attempts to challenge constitutionality of the 1872 Mining Law. Kerpelman said he wanted to invalidate the law to block American Smelting Refining Co. from mining the White Clouds.

Employee observes 30 years

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Power Co. announced today that Roy L. Morse, an operator at the Twin Falls generating plant, is observing 30 years of service with the utility.

The veteran employee, a native of Glens Ferry, has received a distinctive award recognizing his long association with the company.

Except for a short period spent as a groundman with line maintenance construction crews, Morse has been engaged for his entire career in generating plant work.

Starting as a utilityman at the Swan Falls plant, he subsequently served there as an older and operator.

Morse moved to his present position at the Twin Falls plant in 1946.

The popular lindy hop of 1929 was inspired by the transatlantic flight of Charles Lindbergh in 1927, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Final drafts approved

BOISE (UPI) — The Public School Legislative Task Force approved final drafts of legislative proposals Thursday, including one to reorganize school districts.

Other proposals to be submitted at the next session of the state legislature include placing the office of state superintendent of public instruction on a nonpartisan basis and establishing public school kindergartens.

Byron Johnson of Boise, chairman of the task force, said if adopted, the proposals would "provide a new foundation for public schools in Idaho."

Defense First

The nation's first responsibility is to maintain adequate defenses to insure its survival against any attack. This, President Nixon has promised to do. But, he must have support from Congress if he is to be able to keep that pledge.

Seemingly oblivious of Russia's energetic buildup of military and naval forces, some members of Congress continue to assail the military budget, hold down the Navy's building program, and are against the Draft Bill.

Senator Barry Goldwater, Republican-Arizona, recently warned, "We are no longer in a position of parity with the Soviets," and "the United States is well on the way to becoming a second-rate power incapable of assuring the future security of its people."

Ominous as Goldwater's words are, they are supported by the latest statistics on comparative strength. Russia now has some 355 submarines in operation, compared to our 142, and about 100 are nuclear compared to our 92.

Admiral Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., chief of Naval Operations, cautioned that if the United States continues to reduce its forces and the Soviets continue to increase theirs, it is inevitable that the day will come when a showdown would go against the United States.

This is a drastic assessment, made more striking by the fact that Russia is basically a land power while the United States is basically a maritime power, as President Nixon observed a year ago.

During the Jordanian crisis of a year ago, Nixon reinforced the Sixth Fleet and said its power and mobility "was absolutely indispensable in keeping peace in the Mediterranean."

Russia is adding to its strength there and in the Indian Ocean and its recent 15-year pact with Egypt bolsters its position.

Arms Limitations Talks continue but so does the Russian buildup, which was re-doubled after the Cuban missile crisis.

Defense Secretary Laird has warned Congress that the defense budget for the next fiscal year may hit $80 billion dollars, with inflation accounting for the increase, not greater preparedness.

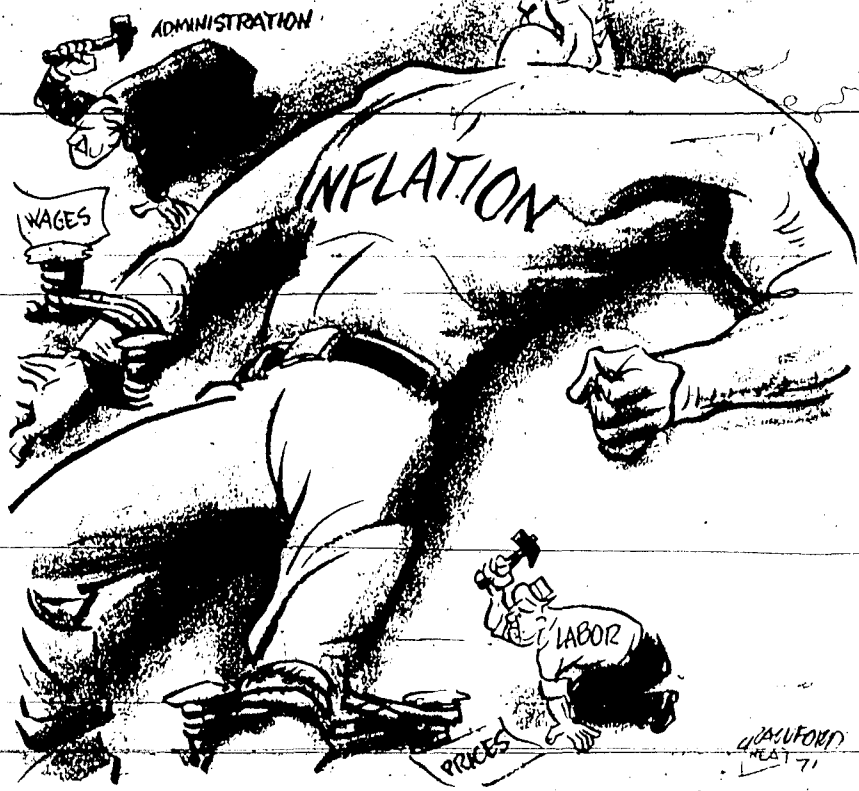

All Americans who give serious thought to national priorities and who keep their eyes open must insist that the Democratic majority in Congress does not cripple our defense forces. There may not be a second chance.

Those who really hate war will not invite it by making the United States a sitting duck. We can have a generation of peace only if we are strong. We can negotiate with the Russians so long as we are no less powerful.

Otherwise, as Senator Goldwater said: "The time may come when this country will have to watch every little thing it does to make sure it doesn't annoy the leaders of the Kremlin."

Yet, Senator Alan Cranston, Democrat-California, plans to continue his filibuster against the draft despite Secretary Laird's warning that a dire manpower shortage will ensue. Cranston maintains, "the Pentagon clearly has adequate manpower to meet our legitimate defense needs, especially if our military leaders make greater use of civilians in non-combat assignments and to cut back the size of our forces in places where fewer men are needed, or where they are not needed at all — places like Southeast Asia, NATO and countless other costly and provocative outposts around the world."

If Cranston has his way, God forbid, no one will be happier than Peking and Moscow.

ANDREW TULLY

Is It Relevant?

WASHINGTON — Concerning the massacre at Attica, first a thought in the form of a question: Is it really relevant that the nine hostages died of bullet wounds, presumably inflicted by their police rescuers?

No. It is merely unfortunate. The point is that if there had been no rebellion of prisoners no one would have been murdered. However the hostages and the prisoners died, they died because the rebels had taken over an entire cell block. Despite the laments of the career libertarians, the cops did not launch their attack just for the hell of it.

Now, what is urgently relevant is the generally belated recognition that our prisons are gradually filling up with a new kind of inmates. They call themselves "political prisoners," believing they are victims of a racist society. They hold that they were arrested, on assorted criminal charges, and shipped off to jail as part of society's determination to repress their political beliefs. They seek to win their freedom by violence, not through the appellate process.

New York's State Commissioner of Corrections Russell G. Oswald says, "What we have to do is to find ways to reach these people."

It is a tall order. Since the prisoners are in prison for law breaking and not for, say, disagreeing with Atty. Gen. John Mitchell's policies, prison administrators and guards naturally treat them — as lawbreakers. There is no regulation that orders special treatment for a white rapist who happens to be a Baptist or a Republican, or for a murderer who happens to be a Black Panther or a Black Muslim.

Put another way: When a man enters prison he encounters, often for the first time, the ideal of full equality. Theoretically, everybody is miserable, although perhaps in varying degrees.

That, after all, is what jails are all about. Rehabilitation, sure, and more of it than we have now. But a prison sentence remains, and properly so, a punishment. The family of the taxpayer who was shot dead by a street mugger demands that the offender be detained in a real prison, not in a luxury hotel with overtones of Berkeley.

Thus I find it difficult to become indignant over some of the Attica prisoners' complaints. In particular, I find less than tragic the fact that Black Panther inmates were outraged by a ban on Panther meetings within the prison and by censorship of reading matter sent in to them. Politically, the Panthers may be revolutionaries, but in the cold view of their wardens they are prisoners who could start trouble. Attica's administration simply took normal precautions in confiscating articles it felt might increase tension.

The complaint of the Black Muslims that officials were insensitive to their scruples against eating pork is more reasonable because it involves a religious matter. But, again, a prison is not a hotel. Moreover, state legislatures do not lavish large appropriations on our hoosegows. Individual menus are not within the budgetary reach of most of these institutions. At any rate, a fundamental of our detention system is that prisoners forfeit many rights.

Unless we are to have more Atticas, the people in charge of things around the country have got to constantly remind themselves that one of the rights prisoners forfeit is the right to incite riot and revolution within the walls. One of the inmate's own lawyers, William Crain of New York, has submitted testimony that they were doing just that.

Crain told reporters about an underground prison newsletter, "The Iced Pig," which in August urged a resort to violence in protest against the death of George Jackson, slain in San Quentin prison.

"You are beautiful brothers," the newsletter said about its allies outside. "On the day of Jackson's funeral, the Weatherpeople bombed three offices of the California Corrections Department. Unfortunately, no one was hurt. Get it together, Weatherfolk."

These are men who will be placated by more visits from clergymen and a little more fruit in their daily diet?

BRUCE BLOSSAT

The Dawdle

SAN JUAN, (NEA) — Of the Democrats' two glamor boy candidates, Sen. Edward Kennedy and New York Mayor John Lindsay, Ted can afford to wait until convention time in 1972 and the mayor can't wait at all to make a run for the presidency.

A canvassing of governors here at the National Governors' Conference and of Democratic state chairmen at their Florida meeting makes it clear Kennedy's name will be alive until someone else is nominated. He comes up again and again, from Connecticut to California and into the Deep South.

That California poll which showed him beating Sen. Edmund Muskie, 37 to 19, in the state was a stunner for a lot of party professionals.

Yet you can't find a Democratic politician of stature who thinks Ted is going to move in the 1972 race in any way. One western governor told me he believes Kennedy would not even like to be drafted at Miami Beach next July.

This doesn't mean that some people in the Kennedy camp are not itchy. Seasoned in other Kennedy races, they feel that the presently active campaigners are rather generally inept, and that they could do it better. But they are locked into a holding pattern.

It's different for Lindsay, the Democratic newcomer. He is known to be playing with the option of plunging into the race early, instead of late as first indicated. Several governors and state chairmen say privately, however, that he doesn't really have an option, that he has to move quickly.

The reasoning is that the mayor can only be sold as a plausible candidate if he is willing to expose himself to the risks and rigors of a full race — which means running in primaries from March on.

To hang back and hope for other candidates to falter before jumping in is seen by one sympathetic professional as "too cute" to make broad impact in the party.

A Plains state governor here expresses it this way: "People in this country are tired of an image. They want to see the person. That's the way. Most of these new Democratic governors got elected."

Should Lindsay signal an early entry, his course will be difficult. As previously reported, he is a long way from getting even a toe hold in primary states like Wisconsin and Massachusetts, with sizable liberal elements. A fresh run-through of Democratic governors at this conference turns up virtually nothing for Lindsay, in hand or in sight, in such states as Alaska, Georgia, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Idaho, Utah. This limited roster evidently is pretty representative of the whole list.

MR. SPECTATOR

Immature Judgment

Trying to convince some immature drivers that a car is not a toy is one of the most difficult tasks of highway safety promotions. And Mr. Spectator must say that goes double for many operators of motorcycles, minibikes and other forms of fuel-propelled transportation.

Nor does driver education appear to be making great strides in tempering driving habits. The National Transportation Safety Board reported recently that after 37 years of public high school driver education it could find no proof that such programs contribute to highway safety. The youngsters are taught to drive — and that is apparently all there is to it in many cases.

What is evident is the preponderance of young drivers in highway accident statistics. Although drivers under 25 comprise only 21 per cent of the driving population, they are involved in 34 per cent of the fatal accidents in the United States.

A number of reasons are suggested for the high rate of accident involvement among youths by the safety board, including increasing use of drugs and alcohol and "possibly changes in respect for law and order."

What it boils down to is immature judgment at the controls of a lethal machine. To encourage responsible driving, the board proposes a two-year probationary period for all drivers under 21. A trial period, it says, "would facilitate suspension or revocation for cause and placement of mildly errant drivers into improvement programs before poor behavior attitudes become habitual."

Correcting poor driving attitudes before they become entrenched habits is a goal drivers of all ages ought to encourage. That "other fellow" coming toward you at reckless speed could be one of those statistics about to happen.

AT LONG LAST

Well, Mr. Spectator mailed out the last of those "tranquil" rocks from the ocean the other day. We were most flattered that a total of 154 people wrote in and asked for one of these special rocks which Mr. and Mrs. Spectator picked up on a Washington state beach last summer then tumbled and polished before giving them away. We hope all you folks liked what you received.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

A Book

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A Mrs. E. R. wrote to you recommending a book called "Out of Silence" by Mary Sorrell, written by a woman journalist who was left speechless by a cerebral hemorrhage. Mrs. E. R. said she had received a "small pocket edition" for Christmas.

Is there any way we might find out the cost of this pocket edition? — M. D. D.

This letter is from the secretary of a Hearing and Speech Center, interested in getting one or several copies. I have had enough similar inquiries, from people who just wanted to know where to get the book, to warrant giving such further information as I have.

Many said book dealers couldn't find a record of the book. The reason for that may be because the publishers are in England — Hodder & Stoughton, St. Paul's House, Warwick Lane, London E. C. 4.

Doubtless some of the larger book dealers, such as Brentano's, would have no difficulty finding the book, but for the smaller dealers, the information that the publishers are English should be helpful.

As to price, I have no information, but airmail letters can get to England in a day or two, and those interested can get an answer more quickly than I could get and publish it. I would suggest asking the publishers whether they know of dealers handling the book this side of the Atlantic.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It," for which I enclose 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Does such a hernia, if small, ever heal itself by proper diet, etc.? — M. N.

A hiatal hernia does not "heal itself," and that is true with most hernias. A small one can be detected by X-ray examination at one time and not another, but this does not mean that it has disappeared.

However weight control and other methods more often than not can keep a hiatal hernia under control so it does not bother the patient — and that's what your goal is.

There are cases in which surgery is required, but in the majority of cases it is not.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Several years ago, during a previous marriage, my husband had a vasectomy. Now we have been married a year and would very much like to have a child. We have heard that a vasectomy can possibly be reversed through surgery. Would appreciate any information. — Mrs. D. C.

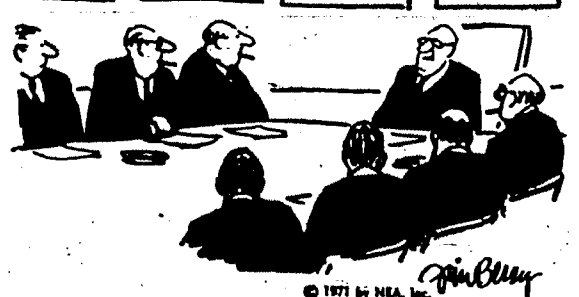

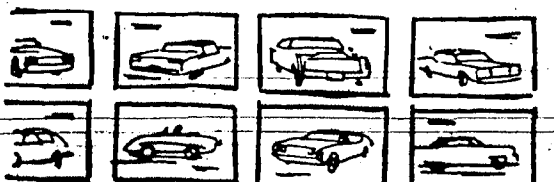

Sometimes it can; sometimes it can't. It depends in part on how the operation was done in the first place, but "reversing" a vasectomy is subject to some speculation in any event.

Only way to find out is to have your husband go to a urologist and try.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: The practice of taking lemon juice straight or slightly diluted is to be discouraged. I have seen cases where the dental enamel has been dissolved by continued use of lemon or lemon juice. — R. A. F. (D.D.S.).

I've warned that it could harm the teeth, but since you are a doctor of dental surgery, probably people will pay more attention to hearing it from you.

Children allowed to attend school

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — The chief organization of white mothers opposed to busing to desegregated schools relented Thursday and agreed to allow their children to go to classes for the first time since school began Sept. 7.

The National Action Group (NAG), in a surprising about-face, called off its boycott of Pontiac's schools and, at the same time, canceled a statewide boycott planned for Oct. 1.

"We feel the boycott has been most successful and very effective in demonstrating the unity and depth of the feeling of the community in its total opposition to the busing program," said Mrs. Irene McCabe, NAG president.

But, she said, "any further boycott of the schools would only injure the children whom we are all interested in helping."

Oct. 1 is when the state department of education takes a head count to determine each school district's base share of state aid. Pontiac would have lost $205 for each child being withheld from classes in the busing protest.

NAG previously had announced that one of the goals of the boycott was to "bankrupt" the Pontiac schools by denying them the aid.

Mrs. McCabe said Thursday NAG had not "chickened out" but only reassessed its position.

"A boycott beyond Oct. 1 would only cause the school district to make cutbacks in areas that could hurt our children and would not in any way hurt the busing program itself," she said.

While absenteeism has decreased gradually from a high of about 40 per cent when classes began Sept. 7, the rate leveled off to about 15 per cent this week. On Tuesday, the last day official records were available, there were 3,253 students not enrolled out of a projected total of 23,567.

Mrs. McCabe said that rather than a statewide boycott to protest busing, NAG will at "some later date hold a statewide day of protest not necessarily involving the use of our children."

Firm accused

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) Thursday accused the makers of Ecolo-G, a leading nonphosphate detergent, of falsely advertising that the product is safe.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) ordered Ecolo-G seized from shelves last March on grounds it could poison children who might eat it and was harmful to the skin and eyes. Resumed marketing was permitted only with a strict warning label.

The FTC action followed by eight days the government's recommendation that housewives go back to using phosphate detergents because it said phosphate substitutes were hazardous. The FTC said there was no connection between the two actions.

Since Ecolo-G went back on the market, the FTC said, advertisements in 48 newspapers promoted the product as safe, saying:

"Ecolo-G label unconditionally approved throughout the USA."

The ad failed to mention health hazards, the FTC said, and the Ecolo-G box was pictured without showing the warning label.

Under FTC procedures, the manufacturer, North American Chemical Corp., Paterson, N.J., can agree to a proposed consent order without admitting deception, or contest the case.

Nicotine levels hiked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More cigarette brands increased tar and nicotine levels during the past 10 months than decreased them, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) said today.

Reporting on August tests of 121 brands and types of cigarettes, the FTC said 39 showed increases in tar content and 35 in nicotine content compared with the previous test in October.

Sixteen varieties decreased tar content and 20 reduced nicotine content, the FTC said. Tar and nicotine content was unchanged in 57 varieties, the report said, and comparisons were not possible for 27.

Army hopes to switch to quarterly system

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army officials hope to end the decades-old practice of monthly draft calls with the end draft announcement expected next week. They expect to switch to quarterly calls.

In the wake of passage of the new draft law Tuesday, Pentagon officials are working up new calls for the rest of the year. Total calls for October, November and December will be no more than 19,500, officials indicated.

Army officials want to switch to a quarterly call system because they feel it is simpler to administer. Their plans, however, must be approved by civilians in the office of the secretary of defense and by the Selective Service System.

The monthly draft calls have been a fixture of American life for more than two decades. Inductions for the World War II period came to an end in October, 1946, and the draft then went into mothballs except for three months during the 1948-49 Berlin Blockade.

But the month calls were resumed in September, 1950, shortly after the Korean War began. From then until this year there was a call every month but two—May and June, 1961.

With the decline in the use of the draft in the decrease in hostilities in Vietnam, Army officials began this spring to feel it would be simpler to use a longer period for calls than one month.

Kitchen to cost $97,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new stainless steel, white tile kitchen, costing $97,000, has been installed on the ground floor of the White House to replace antiquated equipment, it was learned Thursday.

A new fire protection system also is being installed throughout the executive mansion by National Park Service electricians.

The renovation of the kitchen—without any public announcement—was done during the first three weeks of August while the First Family was away most of the time.

Elmer Atkins, White House liaison man with the Capital Parks Agency, said the last time the Kitchen was redone was in the Truman renovation of 1949 when the interior of the White House was virtually rebuilt.

He said the kitchen has been a "hodge podge of bits and pieces" and most of the equipment was obsolete.

Among the items replaced were two ranges and a food warmer dating back to 1935 when extensive remodeling was done by the Park Service during the Franklin D. Roosevelt era.

Atkins said the project also was undertaken because of the need to make more efficient use of the limited space, the desire to eliminate foot traffic through the food preparation area, to eliminate cooking odors and to improve the fire prevention system.

The project cost the federal government $84,000 and equipment valued at nearly $13,000 was donated by various firms, including a ventilator, a refrigerator, a hand sink and engineering services.

Delay on pay hike queried

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, today challenged the White House plan to postpone a $2.4 billion military pay raise until after the 90-day wage-price freeze ends Nov. 13.

I know of no legal basis for a postponement," Hebert told a reporter.

The White House said Wednesday the raise, scheduled to go into effect Oct. 1 as a part of the law extending the draft, would be delayed. Gerald Warren, deputy presidential press secretary, gave no indication, however, whether the White House favored allowing the full raise to go into effect immediately after the freeze.

"It is our intention that the increase not be applicable during the period of the freeze," Warren said, adding that the White House was exploring legal means to carry out the delay.

But Hebert maintained that the congressional action on the pay raise takes precedence over the wage-price freeze because it came after President Nixon instituted the economic hold.

Scientists warn of ice melt

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — An international panel of scientists warns that man's growing demand for energy could cause the Arctic Sea ice to melt within a century—possibly unleashing drastic changes in the world's climate.

The 30 atmospheric scientists from 14 countries said in a report released Wednesday that too little is known about the "complex systems that determine climate" and urged an international program of research and measurement.

Until these systems are understood, they recommended that an international agreement be made, preventing any large-scale experiment in climate modification, such as a Soviet proposal to reverse the course of four rivers flowing through Central Asia.

New shows offer diversion

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Accepting the fact that there is no really exceptional new series in the fledgling network television season, we can still look for those that offer harmless diversion, and there are a few.

Most of the reviews I have seen of Shirley MacLaine's new half-hour ABC series, "Shirley's World," in which she plays a globetrotting photojournalist, have been negative. I accept the view that the show isn't great and I never expected much, but I find Miss MacLaine very attractive and pleasantly earthy for a series performer, and so I will tune her in every so often.

I also like William Conrad, who plays the fat private eye in CBS's "Cannon" series, and even though the show is strictly routine, I will probably give him an occasional look too. I was also surprised at finding Anthony Quinn easy to take as a mayor in the ABC series "The Man and the City," and, once again, though the show is not at all exceptional, I will probably peek at it to see how he's doing.

James Garner knows what television is all about—low key in its best approaches to the audience—and so he's at his old stand on video as a hero who doesn't really care to be one. The show is NBC's "Nichols," he plays a sheriff, and it's okay for a desperate night.

Since I don't care much for Don Adams' brand of humor, despite his unquestionable professionalism; I can't seem to warm up to his new NBC comedy series, "The Partners," about a couple of fumbling detectives, one white, the other black. But I won't deny that the opener had some funny sight gags, and if the dialogue can reach a civilized level of humor, it may well be worth a look.

CBS has a definite star in Sandy Duncan of the "Funny Face" show, but the opening episode, which cast her as an unwilling dupe in used car television commercials, had a shoddy setting for a new headliner, and the material will have to improve.

I'd like to enjoy NBC's new Jimmy Stewart Show, in which he plays a professor, but the opener was overly soft in establishing this character. Glenn Ford is pleasant as a sheriff in "Cade's County," but the CBS show is ordinary fare. Material is the key to the new Dick Van Dyke series on CBS, which started with a so-so episode about him falling back into the "smoking" habit. And, with some decent scripts, Tony Curtis and Roger Moore might be diverting as the adventurers they portray in ABC's "The Persuaders." Scripts are naturally the key, as well, for the new "Movie of the Weekend," 90-minute teleplays on ABC.

As light entertainment, I liked Peter Falk as a disheveled but shrewd police detective in "Columbo," a periodic show on the new "NBC Mystery Movie."

The most enjoyable show I saw in the premiere week was NBC's "Once Upon A Dead Man," a lighthearted adventure tale which kicked off another periodic series, "McMillan & Wife," with Rock Hudson as San Francisco Police commissioner and Susan Saint James as his mate.

This show had a nice, low key, rambling quality to it, with a lush look. (Hollywood's fixed view of San Francisco, stemming from an incurable inferiority complex), and Hudson and Miss Saint James were just delightful together. There was also a terrific bicycle chase down San Francisco's steep streets. As I say, nothing to write home about, but diverting enough for light television entertainment.

Hearings near end on higher rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The new postal rate commission said today it was nearing the end of its long hearings on higher mail rates which already are in effect on a temporary basis.

The commission, created under the 1970 Postal Reorganization Act to act on postal rates sought by the semi-independent U.S. Postal Service, has been holding hearings since May 17, the day after the $1.45 billion in higher rates were put into effect.

The rate group had proposed changes in the rate scales to the postal service's board of governors which will make the final decision.

The rate commission's chairman, William J. Crowley, said in a speech to the fifth annual National Postal Forum that even after the hearings are completed, a "monumental task" remains to analyze the 11,000-page record and prepare a recommendation to the service's governors.

Another speaker at the forum, W. J. Usery Jr., praised both leaders of the postal service and representatives of workers' unions for "some of the noblest leadership" he had encountered during negotiations for their first contract.

Usery is an assistant labor secretary and the chief labor troubleshooter in the government. He played a major role in the talks earlier this year which culminated in a postal workers' contract without a strike, which some groups had threatened.

Filer reunion

Pastors hold retreat in TF

By MARJORIE LIERMAN Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — "Theology is the conversation of the church," stated Rev. Dr. William Ellington, Bethel, Wash., as he addressed United Methodist ministers and their wives at the three-day Snake River District Retreat held in the Twin Falls United Methodist Church.

The retreat, which began Tuesday and ended Thursday noon, served a double purpose of "strengthening the inner person and enlivening ties with brother parsons," according to Rev. Herb Morris, pastor of the host church, who said the retreat's theme stressed that "There is no real human dialogue unless it is doubled by an inner dialogue with God."

Rev. Keith Mills, district superintendent of the Snake River District which is a part of the Oregon-Idaho Conference, was in charge of the meetings which were attended by ministers from all of Southern Idaho.

Rev. Allen Reesor, pastor of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Idaho Falls, served as toastmaster the first day of the retreat and Rev. Morris was toastmaster for Wednesday's dinner. Rev. Elam Anderson of the Filer United Methodist Church served as pianist and assisted Betty Jenkins, song leader.

Rev. Ellington spoke on "Transference of Life through Worship," "The Spirit Age," "Church Renewal and Church Administration," and "Dedication and Mission" during the sessions. George Trobough led the rites for the Lord's Supper which was celebrated at the close of the conclave.

Small group sharing and involvements were features of the meetings and each day provided several hours for song sessions, outdoor games and social hours.

David Smith and David Aasen served as worship resource leaders. Small group resource leaders included Delbert Remaley, James Airey, William Lineberry, James Jenkins and Mervyn Shay.

A reunion of former Filer United Methodist pastor was held Tuesday when a number of them attended the United Methodist Men's prayer breakfast in the Filer United Methodist Church.

Attending were Rev. Mervyn Shay, pastor of the South Side Boulevard Church, Nampa and Kuna, who had served as Filer pastor from 1959 - 1961; Rev. Allen Reesor, pastor of the St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Idaho Falls, who was pastor of the Filer Church from 1961 - 1967, and Rev. Ralph Cairns, pastor of the Vale, Ore., Methodist Church, who served the Filer pastorate from 1968 - 1971. Rev. Elam Anderson is the present pastor. A special guest was Rev. Loren Dake of Potter Valley, Calif., a former Filer man and son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Drake, Filer.

Eastern Byzantine rite slated on Sunday at Catholic priory

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Catholics will have an unusual opportunity to participate in the rare Byzantine Rite of the Eastern Catholics on Sunday, when the Divine Liturgy of St. John Chrysostom will be celebrated in English at St. Benedict's Student Center and Priory at 9 a.m.

Rev. Austin Mohrbacher of the St. John XXIII Center for Eastern Christian Studies, located on the campus of Fordham University, New York City, will be the celebrant.

The monks of St. Benedict's have extended an invitation to all Catholics of Twin Falls and the surrounding area to attend and participate in the celebration of the mass.

Attendance at this liturgical rite, the Eastern Catholic Mass, will satisfy completely the Catholic obligation to attend Mass on Sunday, according to Fr. Simeon Vandevort of St. Benedict's Priory.

The Byzantine Liturgy of St. John Chrysostom is about 200 years older than the Latin Rite, having had its present form substantially from the beginning of the fifth century. The Rite is now celebrated by about 90 per cent of Middle Eastern Catholics and Eastern Orthodox members.

The Twin Falls celebration of the Liturgy will permit most Latin Rite Catholics to enjoy their first experience in the spiritual enrichment of their Eastern brethren, according to Fr. Simeon.

In the Byzantine Liturgy, there is no such thing as a low Mass. The Liturgy is always sung and incense is always used. The Gospel Book is carried in solemn procession, and then that portion is sung. The Bread and Wine which have been prepared in the first part of the Liturgy are then carried in solemn procession to the altar, where the consecration takes place. Communicants receive the Sacrament of the Eucharist under both species of Body and Blood in a way which is unique to the Eastern Liturgical form.

Rare rite

A BYZANTINE RITE PRIEST administers Holy Communion with a small flat gold spoon to the communicant, who stands instead of kneels before him. The Eucharist is given in both species; a communion cloth held between the chalice and the communicant's chin takes the place of the paten of the Latin Rite.

Education Sunday planned

FILER — Christian Education Sunday will be observed next Sunday by the United Methodist Church during which time Bibles will be presented to all new fourth graders in the church school and also to any older enrolled children who have not previously received them, according to Rev. Elam Anderson, pastor.

Guest pastor for the day will be Rev. Loren Drake of the United Methodist Church, Potter Valley, Calif. The church school teachers will be consecrated to their tasks for the coming year. A special offering will be designated for the conference programs in support of training local church workers in Christian education.

A coffee hour following the services will honor the children and their parents, Rev. Drake, and also the Vernon Olson family which will be moving soon to St. Maries.

Terrell directs choir

FILER — Russell Terrell, who is music director of the Filer High School, has accepted the position of choir director for the First Baptist Church, according to Rev. Roy Watson, pastor.

The new director urges all those who like to sing to join the choir.

Mrs. Gordon Larson has accepted the position of youth choir director in the church. Rehearsals will be held at 8 p.m. each Wednesday in the youth recreation room. All young people are invited to come.

No service

SHOSHONE — There will be no Sunday School at the Shoshone LDS Church Sunday morning due to stake conference at Richfield. Sacramento services will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. On Oct. 3 there will be no morning services at the church, because of General Conference in Salt Lake City.

Lutheran church sets 25th anniversary fete

TWIN FALLS — Immanuel Lutheran Church of Twin Falls will celebrate its 25th anniversary of its Christian Day School with two memorial services on Sunday morning at 8 and 11 a.m.

Immanuel Lutheran School, known until last year as Memorial Lutheran School in honor of the men of the congregation who served in the armed forces during World War II, was established by the congregation in September, 1946, in the basement of the former church building on Second Avenue East.

The school operates a full-range program of Christian instruction from kindergarten through eighth grade, enrolling 165 children under the guidance of seven full-time staff members. The school's kindergarten program has registered 50 students in two sessions this fall, according to Lawrence Brose, principal of the school.

Members of the teaching staff at Immanuel Lutheran include Mrs. Herbert Kiesner, kindergarten; Carol Steiner, Mrs. Edwin Holtzen, Mrs. Leland Huebner, Mrs. C. V. Hovey and Leland Huebner, teachers, and Brose, principal.

Rev. Harold I. Iben is pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church, and Brose serves also as Director of Christian Education.

Sunday's memorial services will include addresses by Rev. Emil Jaech, Portland, Ore., president of the Northwest District, Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

An anniversary banquet will be served Sunday evening at the school, located at the corner of Shoup and Blake Streets.

Christian search retreat slated

RUPERT — A "first" for the Magic Valley is the "Search for Christian Maturity" to be held in Rupert, Oct. 8 - 10.

The Search program is a nationally acclaimed week-end retreat especially geared to the needs and wants of high school age students. The program is built around talks and discussions given by a team of priests, Sisters, college, and high school students and young married couples.

All Catholic students in their junior or senior year are invited to participate. Applications can be obtained from any pastor in the Valley.

Nazarene slate events

FILER — Church events at the Filer Nazarene Church are announced by Rev. Gernie W. Iwersen, pastor.

VEE threat may not be finished

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas may not have seen the last of horse sleeping sickness, which spread northward out of Mexico last summer and killed 2,000 horses in Texas, is spread by mosquitos.

It can cause a flu-like infection in humans but is rarely fatal.

Sibley said the state should establish a regulatory program to control VEE.

"The regulatory program is just in the thinking stage," he said. "But we need to do something to protect the people and I believe it should require vac-

T.F. spud expert to assist Jordan

TWIN FALLS — Richard E. Ohms, potato specialist of the University of Idaho extension service at Twin Falls, will assist the Kingdom of Jordan in establishing a potato seed industry.

He will go to Amman late in October to spend several weeks on a feasibility study. The program is sponsored by Thomas Miner and Associates of Chicago, an agricultural research contractor for the Association of International Development. The assignment was announced today by the cooperating agencies.

Ohms will accompany Cecil Harrington of Twin Falls and an economist from Nebraska. Harrington has been an agronomist in Jordan and will be returning for further work on the potato project.

Some groundwork for the study Ohms will make was done in August by Marshall LeBaron, superintendent of the Twin Falls branch experiment station. During his stay in Jordan, he studied soils. Ohms also will follow up on potato work started in Jordan more than 10 years ago by the late Eugene Whitman, former Idaho extension agronomist and potato specialist, who served on several AID foreign assignments.

Ohms said his study will be concerned with potential for producing potato seed. Factors will include soil suitability, plant disease, insects, crop production, and harvesting and storing methods.

Cotton, grain feed programs studied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — National advisory committees have completed two days of conferences on cotton and feed grain programs for 1972.

The general philosophy seemed to be that present programs of no individual acreage crop controls should be continued, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Clarence D. Palmby reported. Growers now are free to plant what they want if they follow the required set-asides.

Palmby said the 34 members of the cotton group felt there should be a decrease in their set-asides — a specific amount of land which must be withdrawn from production if the grower is to qualify for government loans. Prices are substantially above the loan level, Palmby said, and cotton growers were disappointed that their crop was not bigger.

According to Palmby, the 26 members of the feed grains advisory committee generally agreed these crops should be reduced, and there was discussion of how this should be done. The government favors crops that will be smaller than anticipated demand so that growing stockpiles can be partially consumed.

"We're going to do everything we can to develop a program aimed at a smaller crop in 1972 than in 1970 and '71," Palmby said.

Demand for soybeans outstripped supplies this year, and it was felt that this crop should be increased.

Palmby said the department hopes to announce cotton and feed grains programs in mid-October.

Larger crop

BOISE (UPI) — Onion growers in Idaho and eastern Oregon expect to harvest 4,230,000 hundredweight of onions this year, according to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The report said the expected harvest is three per cent larger than last year's production of 4,093,000 hundredweight.

A total of 9,000 acres are expected to be harvested this year for the combined area, the same as last year.

Range feed OK despite damage

BOISE (UPI) — Range feed in Idaho on Sept. 1 was in good condition despite above normal temperatures and below average precipitation, according to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Range feed in parts of the southcentral and southwestern sections of the state has been damaged by the above normal population of grasshoppers, which has caused some ranchers to sell or contract their calves a little ahead of normal. The report said the condition of winter range feed is good.

NFO head asks 5-point program

PAUL — The NFO office at Paul has been notified that Oren Lee Staley president of the NFO has urged President Richard Nixon to put a five-point economic program into effect immediately after his wage-price freeze expires.

The NFO president's recommendations were made at a conference with farm leaders. They were invited to the White House to suggest steps to be taken by the government after the 90-day freeze is to end.

Staley said, "Mr. Nixon was extremely attentive during the conference, gave the participants all the time they needed to present their views, and took notes as they made their statements."

The steps Staley proposed to the President are: "Bring down interest rates, which are highly inflationary and discourage investment in production capacity. This would have an immediate and direct effect on costs and prices.

"Increase taxes on excessive corporate profits and in well-to-do tax brackets to take the fire out of the inflationary part of the economy, to provide support for essential government programs, and to avoid deficits.

"Launch a massive trust-busting drive to end monopolistically fixed and administered prices and restore competition to an economy once heralded as a competitive free enterprise system."

"Cooperate with other nations in establishing floor or minimum price levels for major agricultural commodities traded in world markets. This would increase income from agricultural exports and allow U. S. farm price support levels to be raised.

"Raise U. S. Farm price support levels to remove an inequity in the economy that drains rural areas, not only of farm families but of small businesses and jobs as well, and leads and beats the recession. Correcting this imbalance is an absolute necessity for curing the nation's economic ills."

25th year marked by Lutheran school in TF

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — The Immanuel Lutheran School will be 25 years old on Sunday. Its principal, Lawrence Brose, paused a moment today and talked about the role of a small church-related school in an era when many parochial schools are going out of business.

Immanuel Lutheran, formerly called Memorial

Lutheran, has proven of value, he said, not only to its supporting congregation but to the community as a whole. Brose, who has been school principal and director of Christian education at the school for the past two years, is a graduate of Concordia Teachers College. He believes in the value and need of church-supported education for the pre-high-school student.

The most essential factor, Brose said, is the religious education that can be brought to every educational subject. While meeting state educational standards, church-sponsored schools can and do make religion the center and core of life, teaching the "God concept" as a matter of course, Brose said.

Memorial Lutheran School was founded in 1946, just after World War II, and named in honor of the members of the congregation who had given their lives during the war. The name was changed to Immanuel Lutheran last year to reflect the doctrine and teachings of the church. With a staff of six teachers, Immanuel Lutheran lists a registration of 165 students, including 50 students — one-third of the entire student body is in the pre-school level — in a comfortable, well-run kindergarten taught by Mrs. Esther Diesner.

The kindergarten students utilize small desks built to fit, and work in a classroom environment, giving them a realistic taste of school years to come. More than half of the 50 students, taught in two half-day sessions of 25 boys and girls each, come from the community outside the church congregation.

A total of 38 families are willing to pay tuition to give their preschoolers the kindergarten training offered at Immanuel Lutheran, and many more are waiting to get in, Brose said. "We may have to expand our kindergarten in the very near future to meet the demand," he said.

Church members pay no tuition at Immanuel Lutheran; the school is supported entirely by offerings through the church from its 1,200-member congregation.

The school's faculty includes two veterans — Mrs. C. V. Hovey, elementary teacher for 21 years, who teaches fifth and sixth grade, and Mrs. Martha Holtzen, second and third-grade teacher with 14 years of experience at the school.

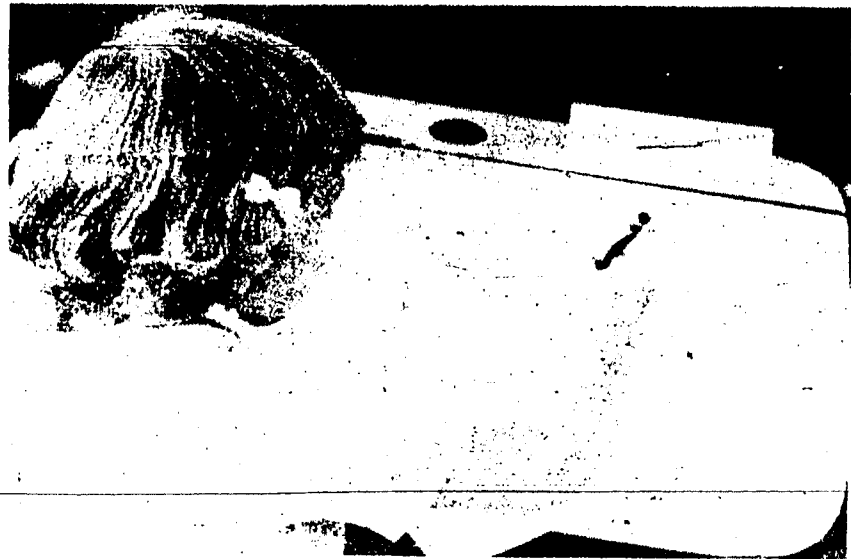

Other faculty members are relatively new, all arriving during the summer of 1970, including Brose. They include Mrs. Esther Diesner, kindergarten; Miss Carol Steiner, first grade; Mrs. Barbara Heubner, third and fourth, and her husband, Leland Heubner, seventh and eighth grades.

The true test of a parochial school's teaching excellence is the reaction of the students when they enter public schools. Immanuel Lutheran's eighth-grade graduates, moving on to the ninth grade in Twin Falls public schools, have had little trouble adjusting to the different pace of classwork and the "secular" students, according to Brose.

"Our students generally have little trouble adjusting to the public schools," Brose said. "Much of their adjustment, of course, depends on their individual personalities — if they have trouble in our school, they'll have trouble in the public schools — if they can adjust here, they'll get along elsewhere."

All in all, the principal, backed up by Immanuel Lutheran Pastor, Harold Iben, feels that "the school, indeed any parochial school, provides a healthy spirit of competition with the public schools. The schools are challenged to keep up with our standards, and we are challenged to keep up with their educational standards."

The word "parochial," however, grates a bit on Brose's nerves, he admitted. "The term sounds somewhat unpleasant, meaning a provincial, narrow outlook. Actually, we are as forward-looking as any school. As the only sizeable church-sponsored school in Twin Falls, now that St. Edward's is closed, we have to be modern and forward-looking."

United Fund sets goal of $112,000 for needs

TWIN FALLS — The 1971 United Fund goal of $112,000 set this morning by the UF board of directors is the highest in the history of the annual fund-raising drive, according to Executive Director Darl Glead.

For the first time, the goal represents the full requests of all member agencies. In previous campaigns, only a percentage of each agency's request could be budgeted, he said.

"This represents our hope that the community will support the United Fund campaign this year to the full," Glead said. "We're going all-out to reach a pinnacle never before attempted, and we're confident we can climb this peak if everybody contributes to the fullest."

The annual United Fund campaign gets under way at noon next Tuesday, as campaign volunteers, directors and officials meet at the Turf Club for the yearly kickoff luncheon.

More than $80,000 has been collected to date in the previous campaign against a $95,000 goal, Glead said.

James Sinclair is campaign chairman this year, with Fred Frazier volunteering to head the Blue Chips Division and Earl Faulkner and Ivan Skinner as co-chairmen of Special Gifts. Frazier said his division, composed of United Fund division directors, has set a goal of raising one-third of the total United Fund goal. He is using a unique challenge, "paying" his division heads $1 each for two minutes of each man's time. The volunteer is given half of a $1 bill, while the other half is posted on a board with his name.

When each volunteer has completed his assigned tasks, Frazier will remit the second half of the $1 bill, removing it from the board as an indication that the assignment has been completed.

An appeal letter, with a cartoon showing Sinclair "holding up" a frightened Frazier, warns that "Jim Sinclair is getting very difficult about this whole thing . . . (he says your half dollar and my skin will sure look odd being the only things left on that board at the finish of the meeting."

Bellevue OK's new park plan

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News Writer

BELLEVUE — A plan for the new city park which would include a multi-purpose court for sports, a playground and a barbecue-picnic area was approved Thursday night during a special meeting of the Bellevue City Council.

Mrs. Dixie Ivie, an interested citizen, drew the plans for the park which would be on the old school grounds. The park also would have eight-foot walkways, roller skating and a central pool.

The old high school and grade school buildings were demolished after consolidation several years ago. The old school property is about one city block.

Councilman Tom Barratt and James Pigg were appointed to a committee to work with Mrs. Ivie. Two more interested citizens are needed to complete the committee.

Mrs. Ivie will present the plans to the State Department of Parks in Boise, Oct. 4 or 5 and seek matching funds for the project.

Cost of the project has not been determined.

In other action, the council approved a land exchange with Gary McStay, who wants to construct a laundromat, fronting on U.S. Highway 93 in south Bellevue. The city will trade the land on a foot-for-foot basis by a survey measurement at McStay's expense.

Two-way radio equipment which would allow city marshal Duane Dudley to communicate with the Blaine County Sheriff's Department, was discussed. The unit will cost about $1,000; government funds may provide about 75 per cent of the cost.

A description of two low-cost home lots in southeast Bellevue was changed from 50 by 120 feet to 60 by 108 feet at the request of developer Lloyd Watson. The change would increase the distance between the two homes from the presently planned five feet to 10 feet.

Church raps plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Thursday the failure of the Nixon administration to seek repeal of the excise tax on small trucks discriminates against a small state like Idaho.

Church urged the Senate to extend the proposed repeal of the seven per cent automobile excise tax to small trucks as well as passenger cars.

Robbery case to conclude

By GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — The jury trial of Billy Duane Mitchell, 24, charged with robbery of a Burley store Dec. 31, 1970, is expected to go to the jury today.

Mitchell, whose trial started Thursday in Fifth District Court before Judge Sherman Bellwood, is charged in connection with a robbery at the Quik-Pik market.

All evidence was presented Thursday by the state and the defense and arguments were to be heard this morning when court reconvened.

Jurors hearing the case are Donna T. Allen, Beverly Neiwart, Glenn Clark, Larry Lee Larson, Ramona Christensen, G.K. Spiers, H.L. Page, Sharon Anderson, Darold Galbraith, Relice Paskett, Norma Coombs, and Frank Langer.

Gorden Neilson, county prosecuting attorney, is representing the state and Herman Bedke, public defender, is representing Mitchell.

Witnesses included Sandra Arbogast, store clerk; Pete Rodriguez, detective on the Burley City Police Force; Jim Kistler, Twin Falls city detective; Raymond J. Mabey, truck driver — and Robert Higley worker at Ore-Ida Foods.

Kistler arrested Mitchell in Twin Falls July 28th, 1971. Mitchell was then returned to Cassia County and has been in Cassia County jail since.

Rodriguez identified Mitchell from pictures and took six pictures to Miss Arbogast of which Mitchell's pictures was one of the six. Miss Arbogast was working at the store the night it was robbed.

Mabey and Higley both testified they knew Mitchell while working at Ore-Ida Foods and Higley saw Mitchell the night of Dec. 31st at the Ramada Inn.

'Glasphalt'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A block-long section of 15th street in downtown Omaha, Neb. has been repaved with material made in part from 300,000 crushed glass jars and bottles.

The used jars and bottles — collected, delivered, sorted and cleaned by citizen-volunteers of all ages during an environmental action drive — were used to make crushed aggregate for "glasphalt," an experimental new blacktop material developed by the University of Missouri in cooperation with the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, Inc.

Scouts launch fall roundup

TWIN FALLS — The fall membership drive by 250 Boy Scout units in the Snake River Area Council, Boy Scouts of America will open the door to scouting for some 500 new scouts, according to Garth Eames, council Commissioner.

He said boys who want to be Scouts will find the opportunities in their own neighborhoods during the 1971 Golden Anniversary Roundup, beginning this month.

"We know that boys want to be Scouts, and we know the educational values of Scouting for boys," Eames said. "As part of our council's 'Boypower '76' plan to expand Scouting, we want to make Scout units available wherever boys live." "Every Cub pack and Scout troop will be ready to welcome boys to a year-round program of activities," Eames said. "It's easy for a boy to become a Scout, and parents today are vitally interested in the training their sons get."

"These parents find behind the regular activities of Scouting a program that provides character development, citizenship training, and physical and mental fitness."

The Golden Anniversary Roundup is being held in conjunction with the Boy Scout council's fiftieth anniversary being celebrated during 1971.

The Snake River Area Council was first organized during February of 1921 and has continued service to thousands of Magic Valley scouts since that time.

Hearings set for drug cases

HAILEY — Preliminary hearings were set for six of the eight persons arrested on drug charges during the recent Wood River Festival when they appeared Thursday before Magistrate Court Judge Bill Grant of Blaine County.

Oct. 5 preliminary hearings were set for Leonard Kirk, 22, and Dennis Lance, 23, both Salt Lake City.

Preliminary hearings, scheduled for Oct. 12, were set for William Hon, 21, and Nancy Pat Smith, 20, both Boise, and Parker Lyle, 22, Monterey, Calif.

Frederick Hamill, 20, Norfolk, Va., pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor charge of possession of a controlled substance. He was sentenced to 20 days in the county jail.

A seventh person arrested on drug charges during the festival, Dennis Burgess, 22, Moscow, had earlier asked to be bound over to district court. Information was filed in district court Thursday.

Douglas Brock, 25, Hailey, a resident of the house searched by police chief Roy Evans Sept. 19, was arraigned Thursday on the felony charge of manufacture of a controlled substance. Preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 8.

Air pollution index 134

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District at the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today. Federal pollution regulations say pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms over any 24-hour period, and should not be permitted to rise above 760 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Forecast

Today: Good
Tonight: Poor
Tomorrow: Good

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution. Burning as permitted by law should be curtailed when the air is poorly able to disperse air pollutants.

Archer, Nevil fire 67s for lead in Robinson

ROBINSON, Ill. (UPI) — Rookie Dwight Nevil and veteran George Archer carded 67s Thursday for the first round lead in the $100,000 Robinson

Open Golf Classic while the colorful Lee Trevino, saying he "cut it like an idiot," wound up with a one over par 72. But Trevino, who missed a chance to play the course Wednesday in the pro-amateur round because his mother is critically ill in a Dallas hospital said "I think I'll do better tomorrow."

He said "even Einstein" could not have read the course without playing it, but added it was "in good shape." A first or second-place finish would boost Trevino into the top money-winning spot this year.

Nevil, 27, San Antonio, Texas, is in his first year on the tour. He carded a 33 on the front nine with two birdies, and came back with two more birds on the back nine for a 34.

'Rebuilding' Buckeyes test Colorado, Huskers meet A-M

By GREG GALLO, UPI Sports Writer Ohio State, fifth-ranked in the nation, continues its "rebuilding" year Saturday against 10th-ranked Colorado at Columbus.

The Buckeyes, who lost three All-Americans and several other star players to graduation, had not been expected to field another powerhouse this season. But off their first game, a 52-21 romp over Iowa, Ohio State may once again be the team to beat in the Big Ten and return to the Rose Bowl on Jan. 1.

Ohio State had a week off since its destruction of Iowa and will be playing before 80,000 home town fans against the Buffaloes from the Big Eight, who have won their first two games: Ohio State is a 6-1-2 point favorite.

Don Lamka, a defensive player with the Buckeyes last year who asked coach Woody Hayes during spring practice if he could try his hand at quarterback, scored four touchdowns against Iowa and ran for 100 yards. Both of last year's quarterbacks—Rex Kern and Ron Maciejowski—are gone this season along with All-Americans John Brockington, Jack Tatum and Mike Sensibaugh. Other top players lost were Leo Hayden, Jan White, Bruce Jankowski and Larry Zelina.

Colorado upset Louisiana State in its opener and then defeated Wyoming last week. Eddie Crowder's crew is headed by quarterback Joe Duenas.

Ohio State's main opposition in the Big Ten should come from fourth-ranked Michigan, which will entertain UCLA on Saturday. The powerful Wolverines from Ann Arbor are a 14-point favorite over the Bruins. No. 1 Nebraska goes against overmatched Texas A&M and is 28-point favorites to rack up its third straight victory.

Second-ranked Notre Dame, coming off a 50-7 trouncing of Northwestern, is a prohibitive favorite over Purdue while No. 3 Texas is a 17-point pick over Texas Tech.

Sixth-ranked Alabama is an 11-point favorite over disappointing Florida while No. 7 Auburn and No. 8 Tennessee tangle in Knoxville in a game that may well decide the Southeast Conference championship. The game is rated a toss-up.

In other games No. 9 Arkansas is a heavy favorite to defeat Tulsa, Oklahoma is a 12-point pick over Pittsburgh.

Authority exercises authority PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Stadium Authority, claiming its free seats to baseball games played at Three Rivers Stadium are "property rights of the authority" and not favors to be dispensed by the Pittsburgh Pirates, Thursday mailed its free tickets to the National League Baseball playoffs back to the team.

The Authority said it would issue its members "stadium identification cards" to identify those persons entitled to enter the stadium and occupy the Stadium Authority reserve box and an additional area. It said it would inform the Pirates which seats it was claiming as its property rights, so the Pirates would not sell them to others.

A team spokesman said the Pirates, who have clinched the National League East title, would have no comment until the tickets and the accompanying letter were received. The Pirates recently gave the stadium authority $1,719 worth of free tickets to the playoffs and the World Series.

Last year, members of the Three Rivers Stadium Authority paid for their own tickets to the two playoff games the Pirates lost here to the Cincinnati Reds. In the intervening 12 months, the board has had a turnover of all but one member and it is now composed almost entirely of appointees of Mayor Peter P. Flaherty.

Harder-led T.F. sophs trip I.F. The Twin Falls sophomores, sluggish, lethargic and trailing through the first half, capped a come-from-behind effort inspired by fullback Mel Harder to top the Idaho Falls sophomores 27-20 Thursday night.

The young Bruins, run through and passed over through the half, trailed 14-0 at intermission. But 90 seconds into the second half Curt Ward, whose final tackle took away Idaho Falls' last hope for a tie, stole the ball and went seven yards for a score. Jess Hernandez kicked the extra point. After taking a Tiger punt, the Bruins boomed 60 yards in five plays—Harder getting much of it on a screen pass—before Landy Hayne went in from the two. But the point-after kick was wide.

Royals drub Cavaliers KENT, Ohio (UPI) — The Cincinnati Royals, trailing 37-38 early in the second quarter, reeled off 15 consecutive points for a decisive margin and rolled on to a 122-96 National Basketball Association exhibition victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers Thursday night.

Heading the Royals were Tom Van Arsdale with 18 points and Nate Williams with 17. High for the Cavs was Dave Sorenson with 16 points.

However, Idaho Falls came back immediately with a 68-yard kickoff return to stretch back ahead 20-13. Harder got another Twin Falls score just 9:30 from the end of the period, going in from the three, after romping 37 yards on another screen.

But after that Twin Falls sputtered on offense on incomplete passes and fumbles. A fumble exchange set up the deciding score with 2:10 remaining. Harder, took a screen pass and rambled 65 yards to score. Mike Olsen then swept end for the points-after.

Pirates shut out Cards 5-0

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Willie Stargell hit a two-run homer Thursday night to back the six-hit pitching of Nelson Briles and lead the playoff-bound Pittsburgh Pirates to a 5-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Stargell's homer in the fifth drove in Vic Davallo, who led off the inning with a walk. Milt May then singled, advanced on a single by Jose Pagan and scored on a single by Gene Alley.

The Pirates, who clinched the National League Eastern Division title Wednesday night, finished the season series against the second place Cardinals with 11 wins and seven losses.

Briles, a former Cardinal, won his first decision against his former teammates. His season record is now 8-4. Reggie Cleveland allowed all five Pittsburgh runs and took his 12th loss in 24 decisions.

Idaho State expects rugged battle against L.A. State

POCATELLO — They say you can't win all your football games unless you win the first one. Well Idaho State did that, 10-6 over South Dakota in cliff-hanging style, but Ed Cavanaugh and Company will encounter difficulty in stretching that win streak to two in a row.

ISU hosts tough Los Angeles State Saturday night at 7:30 in the Minidome. It will be the Bengals' 1971 home opener and the second straight road game for the Diablos, who lost their opener to strong U.S. International University of San Diego 20-7.

Coach Ed Cavanaugh also was pleased with the throwing of Tom Lee and an all-around good show by wide receiver Tom Hofmann. Lee hit 15 passes including ISU's only score. That aerial was to Hofmann, who caught seven, all in the first half. The Coyotes had two men on him in the second half and he acted as decoy. Hofmann also covered punts spectacularly.

LA State Coach Foster Anderson was unhappy with his team's performance last week. "We're a better team than that," he said. One thing Anderson did find pleasing was the pass catching of tight end Bill Sanders' passes for 116 yards, several of the catches of a spectacular variety.

Sander, who was a JC All-American in 1969 at Harbor College and redshirted last year, completed 14 of 24 passes for 144 yards. Biggest Diablos running threat was 210-lb Auzie Houchins (pronounced Huchins), who gained 62 yards for an average of 3.8. However Anderson declared he was dissatisfied with his running game.

LA State has been hit by injuries. All-Coast linebacker Jack Loos is out with a broken collarbone, and the two top offensive tackles missed the season opener with assorted injuries.

LA State was 1-9 last year but Anderson has rounded up some of the finest JC players in the state over the last several

The brash rookie from Alabama, who many feel is the eventual successor to Bart Starr, was named Thursday to start for Green Bay and he'll be coming up against the man he replaced with the Packers—Don Horn, now of the Denver Broncos.

The Packers have been installed as 2 1/2-point favorites over the Broncos in the game at Milwaukee County Stadium, but Coach Dan Devine could have reason to question those odds.

In addition to Hunter the Packers will have another rookie, John Brockington of Ohio State, in the starting offensive backfield.

Nansemond spoils Albatross' dreams

DELAWARE, Ohio (UPI)—Nansemond, driven by Herve Filion, won a three-horse raceoff Thursday to capture the 26th annual Little Brown Jug and ruin heavily-favored Albatross' bid for pacing's triple crown.

Nansemond stormed from two lengths behind at the stretch to win the third heat and force the raceoff, after H. T. Luca had taken the first heat and Albatross the second in a two-division race.

Albatross, driven by Stanley Dancer and so heavy a favorite he was barred from pari-mutuel wagering, appeared to have the Hug sewed up as he took a half length lead into the stretch in the third heat, but Filion brought his Tar Heel colt charging down the stretch and won by a length going away.

Filion had also finished fourth with Gamely in the first heat and chose to drive Nansemond in the third heat with Joe O'Brien reining Gamely.

"It would not have made any difference if I had pulled him sooner," Dancer said. "He simply outrushed me. I got a little jump on him at the turn but he outpaced me in the stretch. I can't complain about my horse's performance."

H. T. Luca won the first heat in 1:58 3-5, Albatross the second one in 1:58 1-5, and Nansemond the third in 1:57 2-5 and the fourth in 2:04 2-5.

Nansemond, owned by Farmer Perry, Suffolk, Va.,

William Camp Jr., Franklin, Va., and Capital Hill Farms, Reg. of Montreal, Que., Canada, picked up $31,892.01 to increase his 1971 earnings to $130,915.

Albatross, starting on the outside No. 7 post position, was hard pressed to win the second heat, being involved in a photo finish for the first time.

Dancer, fourth at the halfway mark, made his move and caught Nansemond with a quarter of a mile to go. The two horses went head to head from there to the finish with "The Big Bird" winning by a nose.

H. T. Luca, driven by Dell Insko and owned by Ruby's Sterling Farm Stables of Morgantown, W. Va., led from the halfway mark in winning the day's first heat, nipping oncoming El Patron, driven by Buddy Gilmour, by a head.

Albatross, a meadow skipper colt, owned by Albatross Stable of Pittsburgh, Pa., had won 17 of 18 starts and $374,329 going into the Jug, including the Cane Futurity and Messenger Stakes, the first two jewels of three-year-old pacing's triple crown.

Albatross picked up $21,622.61 for his second place finish while H. T. Luca got $16,988.19 for third. El Patron, with a second and third place finish in its two heats received $12,355.78.

The final day of Grand Circuit racing was attended by 43,609 fans who wagered a total of $348,096.

Vandals bolster offense in preparing for Colorado State

MOSCOW — "We are two-thirds home in our game of football at Idaho, as we played our defensive game well, our kicking game was fine, but our offense was just horrible," says Don Robbins, Idaho head football coach.

"The defense played a whale of a game against one of the finest offensive lines in the county at Iowa State. Bill Cady, senior tackle from St. Maries, was outstanding and Rick Simmons, junior from Spokane, Wash., had one of his better games. The defensive secondary was a 200 per cent improvement over last week and the youngsters played as well as any secondary effort I have seen since I have been at Idaho," Robbins added.

Coach Robbins started four new defensive backs against the Iowa State Cyclones and the efforts of Kelly Courage and Randy Hall at corner-back and Steve Hunter and Ross Nelson at safety were praised by the Idaho staff.

Nelson, a 6'2" sophomore from Boise, and Steve Hunter, 6'1" junior from Prosser, Wash., were named as co-winners of the Vandal Award. Nelson had a total of six tackles and two pass interceptions, while Hunter had 10 tackles, one interception and also punted 10 times for a 38.3 yard average. Cady took the defensive award for his outstanding play and Andy Kupp, senior from Sunnyside, Wash., was named the offensive player of the week.

The Vandals now point to the "home" game in Spokane on Saturday when they meet the Colorado State Rams. Colorado State, which also went down to defeat Saturday, will bring one of the finest runners in the WAC conference to town in Larry McCutcheon, 210-pound half-back. The Rams also have a highly touted passing attack with Scott Simmons and Jim Erickson at quarterback. Greg Sternrick, a 6-foot sophomore, also will be tough to cover as he had an outstanding game last week at split-end.

Robbins said that this week will see much pressure put on the offensive side of the game. "We haven't run the ball as well as some high school teams so far this year and we have the running backs who could be playing for most any team in the country. We are going to make some changes in our front line and see if we can come up with the right combination to break the runners loose. If we can make our running game come through it certainly will improve our passing attack," Robbins said.

Rich Kushlan, senior guard, received a concussion in the Iowa State game and will be out for at least two weeks. Robert Lee Williams, starting fullback, also picked up a hip-pointer and sat out most of the Cyclone game. Williams is expected to be back for Saturday's contest.

Phils rally past Expos in ninth

MONTREAL (UPI) — Greg Luzinski's two-run single highlighted a four-run ninth inning rally Thursday that carried the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-4 victory over the Montreal Expos.

The Expos were leading 4-2 entering the ninth when losing pitcher Ernie McNally walked Larry Bowa. Mike Anderson singled and Willie Montanez drew a walk to load the bases. McNally walked Deron Johnson to force in a run and Luzinski followed with his single to drive in Anderson and Montanez with the tying and go-ahead runs.

Atlanta is coming off a solid 20-17 upset of San Francisco and will be gunning for its first victory ever over Los Angeles. The Falcons showed an alert defense against the Forty Niners with four interceptions and three fumble recoveries; but they'll be up against a club that is more determined than ever after losing in the final second of play to New Orleans last week. The Rams are favored by 2 1-2.

Bills cut Mini-Max

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Bills, overstocked with talented running backs, Thursday released popular Max "Mini-Max" Anderson to make way for rookie Jim Braxton on the roster.

The Bills said the pint-sized Anderson, who stands 5-8 and weighs only 170 pounds, was not claimed on waivers and has refused to join Buffalo's taxi squad.

Anderson, a fourth year veteran from Arizona State, led Buffalo in rushing with 525 yards in his rookie season, 1968. He also recorded a 100 yard kickoff return and led the club in punt returns that year.

Blazers' star to undergo surgery

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Geoff Petrie, co-rookie of the year in the National Basketball Association last season and a key figure in the Portland Trail Blazers plans for the coming season, will undergo knee surgery Friday, the Blazers announced Thursday.

Greer inks two-year 76er pact

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Holdout Hal Greer of the Philadelphia 76ers signed a two-year contract Thursday which will make him first assistant to Coach Jack Ramsay as well as an active player. Terms were not disclosed.

Greer's old three-year contract at $100,000 per annum expired at the end of last season. He then balked at new terms until the announcement of his new pact by 76ers general manager Don DeJardin.

The 35-year-old Greer, his wife, Mamie, at his side, beamed as DeJardin announced the contract signing at a news conference.

Greer, with 13 National Basketball Association seasons behind him, said he had been keeping in shape despite his holdout by working out daily with Jim Washington and Wally Jones, two teammates still holding out.

Greer said he and DeJardin would fly later Thursday to Florida where the club opens its pre-season schedule Thursday night in West Palm Beach.

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The New England Patriots will get a (very high) draft choice from Kansas City next year in exchange for returning Mo Moorman, the Chiefs injured first string offensive guard, Patriots General Manager Upton Bell said Thursday.

Bell negotiated with the Chiefs after the Patriots claimed Moorman from the waived injured list. The Chiefs could not have brought Moorman back, since the recall time had passed.

hearts. North's two-spade rebid is easy to make as is South's call of three hearts. At this point, North might take very aggressive action but a bid of four hearts should be enough to get South to try a Blackwood four no-trump followed by five no-trump. This five no-trump call guarantees that North and South hold all the aces and North can afford to bid seven hearts on the strength of his holding of both red queens. He can count six hearts, one spade, one club and five diamonds with South's king of spades turns out to be an insurance card. In a match-point game North might proceed to seven no-trump but in a Swiss team match he should be content with hearts as trump.

Woman, chamber head make bids for Rupert city posts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, urged the Senate Thursday to extend the proposed repeal of the seven per cent automobile excise tax to small trucks as well as passenger cars.

Church said the failure of the Nixon Administration to seek repeal of the excise tax on small trucks "discriminates against an agricultural state like Idaho."

He said he had received inquiries from Idahoans expressing their concern.

"I can see no reason to deny people who must buy a pick-up the tax benefit given those who can afford to buy a Cadillac," Church said. "I can see no reason why farmers and ranchers should not have the same tax treatment as other automobile owners."

William Strasser who gave his nomination papers to city officials Wednesday night was narrowly defeated in his bid to become mayor in 1969. Strasser said "we're living in inflationary times, of course, and you have to advance with the times. I don't go along with the pennywise and pound poor idea."

Strasser is a member of the Minidoka County hospital board and is active in other health organizations in addition to his position as head of the chamber.

The terms of councilmen Charles Dalry and Grover Newman expire in November. Dalry said he will not seek another term. Newman has not as yet indicated his plans for November.

Idaho gets federal water grant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Orval Hansen, R - Idaho, said Thursday a $43,900 state water quality program grant has been awarded to the Idaho Department of Health by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Hansen said the grant would provide financial assistance for establishing and maintaining adequate measures for prevention and control of water pollution.

Heart patient Heart surgery teaches value of blood program

BURLEY — Mrs. Owen Weedop is one of many local residents who know the value of the Red Cross Bloodmobile, because she had heart surgery eight years ago.

"For about 12 years, I was weary, tired and had discomfort," said Mrs. Weedop. "At that time the doctor kept putting me off because open heart surgery was not perfected then," she said.

"In the spring of 1963 I suffered a serious coronary. The doctor then decided to go ahead with the open heart surgery," she said. "On Sept. 19, 1963, the open heart surgery was performed in Salt Lake City, and the doctors replaced the A artery valve because no blood was going through this valve to supply blood to other parts of my body," said Mrs. Weedop, "also they repaired another valve."

"With a rapid recovery, by Christmas I could do almost anything except lift items with my arms," she said. "The greatest change was hopping out of bed in the mornings with great enthusiasm. I felt wonderful."

"The valve which the doctors replaced in my heart is a stainless steel valve in a cage about two inches high with a teflon ball inside the valve about the size of a 50 cent piece," she said.

"I can hear the ball as it moves each time my heart beats," she said.

"I'm so grateful to be alive, I don't know why I was spared, but if I had to make the same decision again to have heart surgery, I would say yes, go ahead, if it has to be done, it must be," said Mrs. Weedop.

"There is nothing that I can't do now within reason, and I'm so thankful for life," she said.

"You know a dream come true was when we adopted a baby boy six years ago, he is now in the first grade and is truly a joy in my life," she said. "We have three other children but we wanted another child."

This summer Mrs. Weedop has canned vegetables, fruits, made juice, jams and jellies and chili sauce for her family's use this winter.

She even does her own housework with the assistance of a hired girl one day a week and also she helps with the yard work.

"The Red Cross Blood program was a help to me when I needed blood and I am thankful I can tell others about the program," she said.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Burley from 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesday, at Burley Elks Lodge Hall. The quota is 150 pints, reports Mrs. Bob Halouska, county blood chairman.

Persons needing blood replaced are asked to phone Mrs. Halouska at 678-8759 or Mrs. S. H. Kunau, 678-7350, giving the name of person who needs the blood and how many pints.

Presently persons needing replacement are the late Ray Doerflinger, 10 pints; Viola Bell, six pints; Susan Worth, five pints, and Herbert Kerbs, four pints.

Senator urges extension

RUPERT — The first woman in recent history and the president of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce Thursday filed nomination papers with the city clerk for position on the city council.

The election is scheduled for Nov. 2 with Oct. 4 the final date for the filing of papers.

Mrs. Ilene Denward, a housewife and mother of four children, ranging in age from five to 19, brought her nominating petition to the city office early Thursday morning.

Her nominating petition was certified after checking of signatures.

Mrs. Denward said her chances for election were "good. I'm very interested in the city," she said, "and I think I can do a good job."

Mini-Cassia

France, Great Britain, Nationalist China, Russia and the United States are the five permanent members of the Security Council of the United Nations.

U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations, has only one name, as do most Burmese. U, a title of respect, has a meaning similar to "mister."

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have a grown daughter whom I shall call "The Princess." She works full-time and lives at home. We both love her very much, but here's the problem.

The Princess never misses a meal at home, gets free room and board, her own TV, and my wife even buys her toothpaste and shampoo, besides doing her laundry.

In turn, The Princess monopolizes the bathroom, keeps a sloppy room and leaves her cosmetics and clothing scattered all over the place from h— to breakfast.

I maintain she should contribute to her food expense. My wife thinks I am "Cruel." She says the girl is insecure, and it's all MY fault. Is it? —DADDY

DEAR DADDY: I don't know, but if she is insecure, what difference does it make whose fault it is? One way to reduce her insecurity is by helping her to build her self-respect. Start by insisting that The Princess contribute something, if only her cooperation, around the "castle."

DEAR ABBY: There are some Europeans who think that garlic and onions are "healthy." I have a friend who even rubs raw onions and raw garlic on heating equipment such as stoves, ovens, ductwork and anything that heats up because he honestly believes that the smell of onions and garlic kills germs. Does it? —NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: No. But it could test a lot of friendships.

DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column from a woman who had been married for 18 years to a man who still flirts. Well, I have her beat. I've been married for 55 years to a man who still flirts. He is over 80, and I don't see any signs of him slowing up.

You once compared an old man who chases women to a dog that chases cars. How did that one go anyway? —CHASER'S WIFE: HAGERSTOWN, MD.

DEAR WIFE: I said: "An old man who chases women is like a dog that chases cars. If he ever caught one he wouldn't know what to do with it."

DEAR ABBY: I don't write to columnists as a rule, but after reading all the comments about wedding gifts, I decided to send this on to you:

With the invitation to a wedding of a young California couple came this note: "There are millions of the poor who are cold and hungry. There is still war and ever-increasing ravages of war. This makes us aware of our riches and makes us want to find meaning for ourselves and for our marriage in somehow changing things. Therefore, if you had planned to give us a gift, we would especially appreciate a contribution to the Fellowship of Reconciliation, the American Friends Service Committee, the Committee to Aid Hungry Americans or some other cause, so that because of our marriage life for others may be a little better."

After I read the above, I guess it made my day a little better. I am divorced, but should I ever marry again, I think I will follow in the footsteps of these beautiful young people. Maybe if you print this, others will, too. —"TOUCHED" IN MICHIGAN

DEAR TOUCHED: I, too, am touched. Thank you for sharing a truly noble attitude in a generally selfish and materialistic world.

Magic Valley Favorites

MRS. P. FISHER
246 4th Ave. East, Twin Falls

BEST EVER CUSTARD
1 pint milk
3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon (heaping) cornstarch
2 eggs (whites and yolks separated)
Vanilla or nutmeg or both for flavoring
Mix as follows: Put one tablespoon of sugar in a small stew pan and add milk and place on stove (sugar helps to keep the milk from scorching). Mix in a bowl the cornstarch and remaining sugar (dry). Beat in the egg yolks and add a little of the hot milk to get it thin enough to pour easily. Add to milk when ready to boil. Then set pan on lid or where it won't be hot enough to scorch as it thickens. When it is thickened nicely, beat the whites of eggs until very stiff and stir them in lightly to the hot custard. Flavor to suit your taste.

Leon Smith speaks at AAUW meeting

TWIN FALLS — The Uniform Consumers Protective Act is very comprehensive and highly protects the consumer but it can be abused, according to the Prosecuting Attorney of Twin Falls County, Leon Smith, at a meeting of the American Association of University Women, this week at the Idaho Power Auditorium.

Smith explained that this law was passed by the last legislature and went into effect March 1, 1971, and repealed the old law. The act was designed to dove-tail with the Federal Trade Commission Act. The State Attorney General enforces it. It covers goods, services, sale or lease contracts, false advertising, etc., against unfair practices to the consumer.

From a consumer's standpoint Smith discussed the 12 provisions of the Act under which a consumer can file a complaint. The object of the bill is to cover very aggravated cases and to stop sale and lease contract abuses rather than isolated incidences of a minor nature.

If a consumer does want to file a complaint against a retailer he can contact the Prosecuting Attorney's Office, the State Attorney General's Office, or he can work through a lawyer.

Smith also outlined the steps that the State Attorney General can take to resolve the matter which include investigation, warnings and working through the courts, the retailer can be fined. This Act does not apply to utilities, insurance, and the communications media and complaints against these should be made to authorities other than the State Attorney General's Office.

Smith's discussion was inclusive and he answered many questions from the members.
