Japanese Emperor, Nixon affirm ties

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — In an historic meeting in an Air Force hangar, President Nixon and Emperor Hirohito of Japan exchanged warm greetings Sunday night to herald a new era in diplomatic relations strained by America's new economic and China policies. In the first visit by a reigning Japanese emperor to a foreign land in the 2,631-year history of the monarchy, Hirohito spent two hours and four minutes on U.S. soil. With the Northern Lights ablaze in the night sky, the emperor, left for Denmark on his 18-day tour of Europe at 11:51 p.m. Alaskan time Sunday night (4:51 a.m. Monday EDT). "Our visit this evening also symbolizes the friendship between Japan and the United States," Nixon told some 5,000 persons and scores of newsmen jammed in the four-story high, gaily-decorated hangar at Elmendorf Air Force Base. Hirohito said, "I am deeply moved by your presence here with Mrs. Nixon." The two leaders, after the public appearance, traveled in a motorcade through downtown Anchorage to the home of the commander of the Alaska military command, where they held a 20-minute private talk. Before going behind closed doors and in the presence of newsmen and photographers, Nixon recalled that he had met Hirohito 18 years ago when he traveled to the Orient as a vice president. The emperor gave the President an 8-by-10 framed photograph of himself and the empress. Nixon responded by presenting a framed photo of himself and the First Lady. White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said after the conference that major issues were not discussed because "this was not the occasion for substantive talks." Ziegler also said Nixon expressed the hope that Hirohito would be able to visit him again sometime in the future and he would be able to receive him—perhaps in Washington.

Outbreaks protest Viet vote TF Council petitions vacant seats?

SAIGON (UPI)—Demonstrations against the one-man re-election race of President Nguyen van Thieu broke out today in five of South Vietnam's biggest cities. The demonstrations took an anti-American tone in the Mekong Delta city of Can Tho where three U.S. vehicles were firebombed. Thieu forces organized their own pro-government demonstration in Saigon but only about 25 veterans turned up. Thieu asked his countrymen tonight to endorse his one-man race based on the country's progress under four years of his leadership. It was the fourth national broadcast in three days by the 48-year-old president. Thieu began his speech by declaring, "I am not a warmonger, I am seeking peace—but if we agree to a coalition with the Communists, or neutrality... then we are selling the country to the Communists." A leading opposition senator told the government today to stop blaming its mistakes on the Communists, and criticized police for using excessive force in putting down anti-government demonstrations. In Da Nang, the country's second largest city, police confronted disabled veterans and high school students who tried to march on a main street carrying anti-Thieu banners and pictures of the president with a cross drawn across his face. Police fired tear gas to break up the demonstration and the students responded by tossing firebombs and at least two fragmentation grenades, only one of which went off. One policeman was slightly wounded. A third grenade was thrown and five more persons were slightly wounded, but there was no gunfire and the protest broke up at mid-afternoon.

TF Council petitions returned for signature

TWIN FALLS — With only one week left to file nominating petitions for four vacancies on the Twin Falls City Council, no valid petitions have yet been filed. Edythe Koontz, city clerk, said petitions filed by Ray Crandal and Lynn Goodman both have been returned because of a lack of valid signatures. Crandal said this morning that of 48 signatures on his nominating petition, only 19 were by registered voters. He said he plans to recirculate his petition to obtain his required 40 valid signatures. Crandal, a Twin Falls accountant, and Goodman, a Twin Falls barber, both had announced they are seeking election on an anti-city manager form of government platform. They feel the city manager system should again be placed on ballot before the voters. Winston Jones, presently serving an uncompleted term under appointment, also has taken out a petition, but has not filed it as yet. Goodman, Jones and Crandal are thus far the only Twin Falls residents who have taken out petitions for the four council posts. Mayor Frank Feldman and Frank Cook, both holding terms which expire, have not announced plans. Eugene Stacey, who holds the other unexpired term, has said he is not a candidate for reelection. Deadline for filing petitions is 5 p.m. Oct. 4, with the present situation indicating a wide open field for would-be councilmen. City manager Jean Millar said Friday he understands a group of interested Twin Falls businessmen is working on a slate of candidates to assure contests in the election and give voters a choice of candidates.

Affirm ties

Israel to keep sector

By United Press International Israel's cabinet unanimously defied the U.N. Security Council Sunday and decided to retain the status of the former Jordanian sector of Jerusalem it has occupied since the 1967 Middle East War, a government spokesman said. In a decision made within hours after the council voted 14-0 Saturday night calling on Israel to cease all action altering the status of Jerusalem and to rescind acts in that direction, the cabinet said that "the policy of Israel regarding Jerusalem will remain unchanged."

"It (Israel) will continue to persevere in the development of the city for the benefit of all its inhabitants, in respecting the religious rights of all communities and in scrupulously safeguarding the holy sites of all faiths and the freedom of access to them," the spokesman said. In the Arab-Israeli crisis, Britain apparently began taking a more active role in seeking an interim Middle East settlement with a meeting in Cairo between the British ambassador to Egypt, Richard Beumont, and Egyptian State Minister for Foreign Affairs Murad Ghalib. The semiofficial Middle East News Agency said the two discussed "the current important stage of the Middle East crisis." The talks followed the recent three-day visit to Cairo of British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

Minister quits in protest

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A Northern Ireland cabinet minister, protesting internment of suspected rebels without trial, resigned Sunday, hours before the start of crucial British and Irish meetings aimed at allaying the threat of civil war in Ulster. David Bleakley, minister of community relations and considered a moderate by Irish politicians, said he was quitting because he disagreed with the internment of suspects members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA). Bleakley acted just before Premier Brian Faulkner flew to London for two days of talks with British Prime Minister Edward Heath and Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic. British government sources said the talks at Heath's official country residence, Chequers, might be the last chance to avoid civil war on both sides of the border between Ulster and the Republic. In Londonderry Sunday, rioters hurled rocks and gasoline bombs at British troops and sniper fire smashed the radio of an army Land Rover patrol on checkpoint duty on Belfast's western outskirts, the army said.

Irish youth shot

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—British soldiers shot a bomb-throwing youth today but his friends spirited him away in a car, an army spokesman said. Four soldiers were wounded in the affray. The army spokesman said a military landrover came under a nail bomb attack by two youths when the vehicle was trapped in the debris of a barricade on the New Lodge Road area. The youths threw three nail bombs and then began throwing gasoline bombs, the spokesman said. Soldiers in the truck fired at the youths and one of them fell wounded.

New appraisal for S.V. land

BOISE (UPI) — The State Land Board Monday ordered a professional outside and independent appraisal of 620 acres of state land proposed for sale near Sun Valley. Board members took the unanimous action after Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa successfully called for reconsideration of the proposed sale during a special meeting, at which applicants for the land and others received a hearing. In calling for the appraisal, the board took cognizance of the land department's tight budget and directed that the successful purchaser of the land, when it is sold, be required to pay for the appraisal. The board also directed the land department — at the request of Attorney General W. Anthony Park — to include an environmental study of the land and its general area in its recommendations to the board at a future meeting. During the meeting, state Sen. H. Dean Summers, R-Boise, a long-time critic of land board actions, said he hoped the board will ask for outside appraisals on all state lands proposed for sale. He said such a bill will be put before the next legislative session, to require such appraisals. Summers also chided the board for its management of 1,250,000 acres of other state land and said the fact the valuable land in question brought only $92 per year from a grazing lease was "typical mis-management of state lands." He blamed agricultural interests for this. Cenarrusa took issue with Summers and said agricultural interests alone cannot be blamed. "It isn't mis-management," Cenarrusa said. "It is lack of management because of inadequate funds to do the job." He said the legislature historically has failed to provide sufficient appropriations to the land department. Before the land board called for an appraisal of the property — on which the land department earlier put an arbitrary value of $575 per acre or $356,000 for the two tracts involved — a school superintendent urged the acreage be sold for development. Ray Jefferson, Hailey, said School District 61 felt it is very important the land be sold, developed and put on the tax rolls as soon as possible. He said that while some persons feel the land should be subdivided for home sites he felt a plan by Johns-Manville-Idaho and Sun Valley Co., Inc., to create an Elk Horn Valley in the area was the best way to develop the acreage.

Soviets angry at spy ouster

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union has threatened to retaliate if Britain goes ahead with expulsion orders against 105 Soviets accused of spying. The British government said its order "still stands." A protest delivered to Britain Sunday threatened "reciprocal measures" if the expulsions were not rescinded, and it accused British intelligence of activities contrary to Soviet security. However, the Kremlin took no immediate action against any of the 78 diplomats in the British Embassy in Moscow. (In London, a Foreign Office official said "certainly the expulsion order still stands." He added that Britain was "ready to meet any retaliation" by the Soviets. He did not elaborate.) The Soviet press opened a propaganda attack that accused Britain of reviving the cold war and wrecking Soviet peacemaking efforts in Europe. National newspaper, radio and television produced angrily worded commentaries denouncing the British government in general and Prime Minister Edward Heath in particular. "This conservative government is the most reactionary one since the turn of the century," a Moscow television commentator said. "Mr. Heath hurls himself against the relaxation of tension in Europe."

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the British press was causing "anti-Soviet hysteria" with its editorials on the expulsions. "One must ask, who is served by this campaign?" Tass said. "The answer is clear: it serves those very circles who want to prevent the process of detente in Europe, the creation of a strong system of European security." The Soviets delivered their protest at 10 a.m. Sunday to the British ambassador, Sir John Killick. British officials said the ambassador spent 20 minutes in a "calm but rather chilly" meeting with Deputy Foreign Minister Semyon P. Kozyrev. The note urged Britain to call off the expulsion order. "If the British side leaves these measures in force, the Soviet side will have no other course but to take corresponding reciprocal measures," it said. In the past, the Soviets have applied their rule of reciprocity with precision.

Airport runway to open

TWIN FALLS — Main runway at the Twin Falls City-County Airport will be open to all traffic Friday, and Hughes Air West jets will resume Twin Falls stops on that date. In a joint announcement Jean Millar, city manager, and O. A. (Gus) Kelker, chairman of the airport commission, said reconstruction work on the main east-west runway was completed last Friday with exception of the painted centerline and installation of a few boundary lights. These two projects will be completed by mid-week and on Wednesday an inspection team from the FAA regional office at Seattle will arrive. The final inspection is a routine matter because daily inspections have been followed during the entire rebuilding program, the officials said. Paul Shoaff, Air West station manager, said the first DC-9 jet to use the new runway will arrive Friday at 10:40 a.m. Four daily flights will be operated until Oct. 31. On that date a fifth flight will be added, an early morning flight to Los Angeles by way of Salt Lake City. On Dec. 15 total flights will increase to seven or more. Post Office officials said airmail which has been trucked to Boise will leave from the local field starting Friday. Completion of the project provides the field with a half-mile runway more than 7,200 feet in length, capable of handling any jet now serving Idaho on any major airline, Kelker said.

TF man could head FBI

TWIN FALLS — A native of Twin Falls prominently mentioned nationwide as the picked successor to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said Saturday "speculation as to a possible successor to the director is premature." W. Mark Felt said in a letter "there is no more to the story than has already been printed. It is very simple." "I have a new assignment with more responsibility and I will try to meet the challenge to the best of my ability," Felt wrote. "Speculation as to a possible successor to the Director is premature. I am in frequent contact with Mr. Hoover and I can assure you that he is in excellent health and extremely alert and sharp. He is effectively running the Bureau and maintains tight administrative control. I hope he stays on for a long time." Felt, whose new position is deputy associate director, was born in Twin Falls on Aug. 17, 1913. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Earl Felt. The new deputy director's wife is the former Audrey Robinson of Gooding. Her brother, Dr. E. S. Robinson, still lives in Gooding.

After graduating from the Twin Falls High School Felt attended the University of Idaho and graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1935. He was subsequently employed in Washington as administrative assistant to the late Senator D. Worth Clark and at that time also continued his education at the George Washington University Law School, receiving a Juris Doctor degree. Upon admission to the District of Columbia bar in 1941 he secured employment as an attorney for the Federal Trade Commission. He has (Continued on P. 2)

Decision set on ILS

TWIN FALLS — A decision on installation of an instrument landing system at the Twin Falls City - County Airport is expected to be reached today in a meeting of city council and airport commission members with county commissioners.

City Manager Jean Milar announced the meeting will be held at noon in the Holiday Inn to review information presented Wednesday afternoon in a meeting with Federal Aviation Administration officials.

Milar said he believes the city and county officials will act to accept the $205,000 equipment which will be provided by the FAA. The only cost to the county and city will be the acquiring of about 40 acres of land for extension of the runway approach for special lighting and installation in connection with the instrument landing system. The land can be leased back to the present owner or someone else so long as proper clearances are maintained, he said.

Milar said FAA officials have indicated Oct. 5 is their deadline for allocation of the current ILS funding program and said the Twin Falls officials must advise the agency of intentions prior to that time if they plan to participate or the equipment will be allocated elsewhere.

Such a system is largely a safety precaution for landing the jet passenger planes and in the light of increased safety has been given a top priority by the FAA for the Twin Falls airport. It would also enable some flights which might otherwise bypass Twin Falls during poor weather conditions, to land at the field, FAA officials said.

Milar said he feels the key to the situation is the FAA priority on the safety equipment. They have indicated, he said, if Twin Falls turns down the ILS at this time, no further projects at the local field would be granted FAA financial assistance until such time as the ILS system is installed.

This would mean Twin Falls would probably be unable to go ahead with additional taxiways and parking ramps needed at the field until such time as ILS allocations were again available and the priority system installed.

BOISE (UPI) — Registration is scheduled to continue this week in Boise for children for the public school kindergarten program to begin Nov. 1.

A member of the elementary directorate, Curt Schmitt, said the local district would make a survey of the number of children who were attending private kindergartens by the end of next week.

In related action, private kindergarten teachers meeting last week charged that the Boise school kindergarten program may be discriminatory for the few that will be accepted.

Supt. Stephenson Youngerman replied to the charge with, "it is erroneous to say we can't start a public kindergarten program until we can serve 100 per cent of the eligible children."

He added the district had the opportunity through the Emergency Employment Act grant which he said made a very good starting place for the program.

McClure's seeking Senate 'logical'

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Editor.
SUN VALLEY — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said Sunday he had "the very strong impression" that Rep. James McClure R-Idaho would be a candidate for the United States Senate seat to be vacated next year by the retirement of Sen. Len Jordan.

In an exclusive interview, Hansen, who said he had discussed the Senate situation many times with the First District representative, added "his candidacy would seem rather logical."

Although Cong. McClure has made no formal announcement, the fact he told this Times-News writer in a telephone conversation from Washington that he would make up his mind "in about two weeks" and the fact Cong. Hansen did not sidestep the "will he run" question when it was put to him Sunday, leaves little doubt McClure will give up his House seat in quest of the Senate post.

Cong. Hansen did say that he thought Cong. McClure might not have made a "final, firm decision" right now, but he then added his "strong impression" observation. He also said that "I know he (McClure) is getting a good deal of encouragement. He has name identity. His candidacy would seem rather logical. So I am assuming that there is a good chance he will decide to become a candidate and, in due course, whenever it appears to him to be an appropriate time, he will make a public announcement."

Mentioning that the election is a year away, and a lot of things could happen between then and now, Cong. Hansen said he, personally, was not "closing the door" to the Senate seat but quickly added that he "finds great satisfaction in service in the House."

"I might say there seems to be the assumption on the part of many that a Congressman just naturally and automatically aspires to go to the Senate. This has never been true with me. I now, have some seniority and committee assignments that I believe are of great value to Idaho. I've never really thought there is compulsion in running for the Senate. I don't close the door but I am not campaigning for it," Hansen said.

Hansen was in Sun Valley to attend a two-day symposium on outdoor trails which he sponsored. He flew back to Washington Sunday evening but returns to Idaho Friday and expects to visit in Twin Falls.

Hansen, responding to a question by this writer, said he and McClure had reached "no agreement" on the matter. He said each of them "of course" would make their own decisions. He said they had discussed the situation many times in Washington "in my office, at delegation meetings and with the two Senators on matters of concern to Idaho."

"Frequently the matter of the Senatorial election in Idaho came into the discussion," he said.

Congressmen would not seek the Senate post, Hansen said: "There has never been any agreement to that effect, but I think common sense also would suggest that there is a great deal more to be lost to the state of Idaho if both of us decided to give up our Congressional seats and take the gamble on the Senatorial race."

Planning units formed in TF

TWIN FALLS — A dozen committees are now in the making in Twin Falls County as part of a unified effort in resource planning.

Assignments have been announced by Ed Woods, resource planning committee member, who said each chairman will select his own committee and direct planning called for under the particular assignment.

In a meeting of interested agencies and individuals to determine committees needed to carry out the planning program, William L. (Bill) Chancey, county commission chairman, said the Twin Falls County Resource Planning Commission has been established to carry on a long range planning program to inventory and utilize resources and to eliminate duplication and bring about improvement in the total environment.

Committees will conduct studies and collect information necessary for initiating recommendations that can be used in the county to improve environment and best utilize the natural resources in the fields of conservation, recreation and related activities.

Chancey said the planning program will utilize federal, state, county and community agencies and contributions of knowledge and services from interested local citizens.

Committees called for by the resource group and the men asked to act as chairmen include: Health, Dr. Ben Katz, Twin Falls; education, Dr. Ernest Ragland, Twin Falls; land use, Don Kramer, Castelford; water resources, Al Peters, Twin Falls; recreation, Paul Ostyn, Twin Falls; legal, Wes Dobbs, Twin Falls; transportation, Keith Anderson, Twin Falls; industry, Harold Hove, Kimberly; pollution control, Joe Fehrenbacher, Buhl; housing, Jim Sinclair, Twin Falls; communications, Dick Shotwell, Twin Falls, and information Jennings Pierce, Castelford.

Pay for election workers decided

TWIN FALLS — Election workers assisting with the Oct. 26 regional airport and retail wine sales votes in Twin Falls County will be paid $1.50 per hour, Harold Lancaster, county clerk, said today.

He said the salary was approved by the board of county commissioners during the past week to comply with new election laws. The laws stipulate election boards are to receive the current minimum hourly wage which county officials have determined to be $1.50. Under old election laws, pay was $11 per day on elections running from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. with a $1 per hour wage for time after that up to a maximum of $17. Lancaster said he does not expect election workers to put in much time beyond the 8 p.m. poll closing as it takes only a few minutes to clear and tabulate the voting machine returns.

He said because the two questions are being balloted on at the same time and voters may have some questions about the first "Yes" and "no" votes "to be held with voting machines, he plans to have four election workers at each voting precinct."

The county's 90 voting machines have been programmed for the two questions and Lancaster said persons may vote both, one or the other of the issues.

Black aides plot action

CHICAGO (UPI)—A group of black leaders spent most of the weekend meeting behind closed doors in what they said was the first of a series of sessions to formulate strategies for achieving the political interests of black people in 1972.

The meetings, carried on for hours under tight security at a suburban Northlake, Ill., hotel, wound up late Saturday night with a statement that proposals considered at the meeting and decisions made by the participants would not be made public until other meetings have been held.

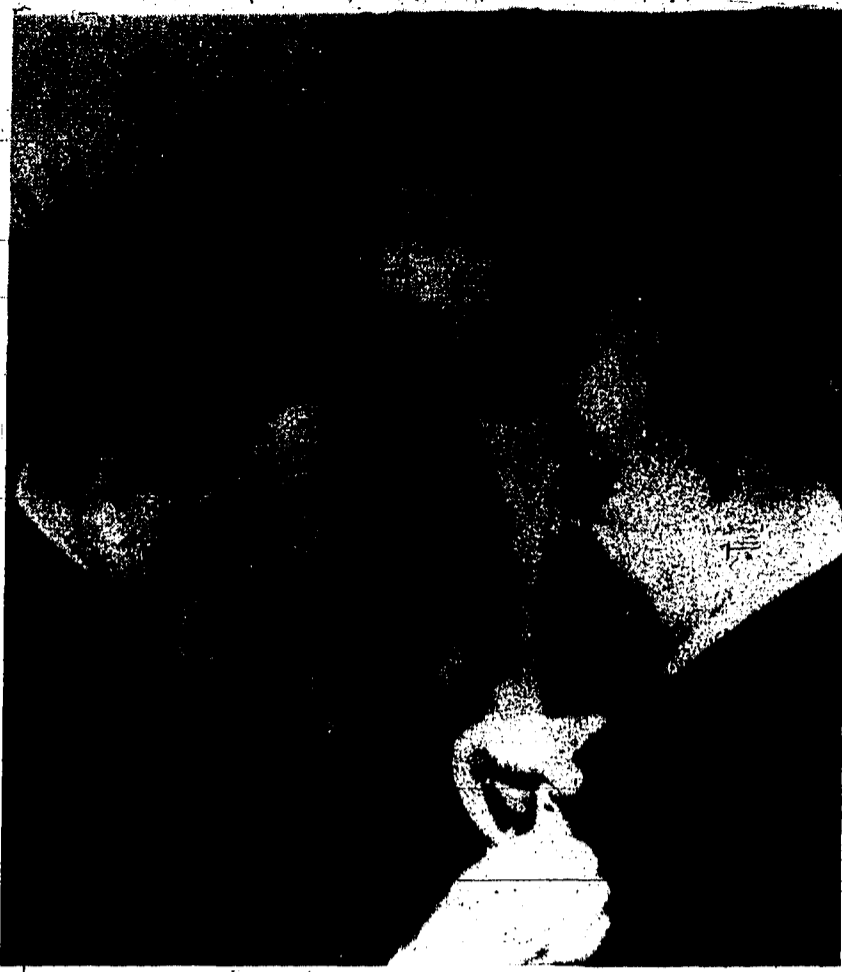

"The Northlake meeting was an off-the-record gathering of black political leaders and activists from across the country, focusing on mutual concerns and strategies for achieving the best, political interests of black people through 1972 and afterward. Further consultations will proceed in every section of the country, involving these and other blacks," the statement said.

The gathering was organized by several politicians including Georgia state Rep. Julian Bond.

Negro leaders attending the Northlake meeting included Gary, Ind., Mayor Richard Hatcher, Manhattan Borough President Percy Sutton, Congress of Racial Equality Director Roy Innis, Operation Breadbasket Director Jesse Jackson, Mayor William S. Hart of East Orange, N.J., and Maryland state Sen. Clarence Mitchell.

Secrecy surrounding the meeting was thorough. Bodyguards prevented newsmen from even approaching the room where the sessions were held. Participants took their meals in their meeting rooms and uniformly refused comment when they left Saturday's windup session. The hotel desk refused to even acknowledge that the meeting was under way.

Lindsay tells Demos to fight for changes

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—New York Mayor John V. Lindsay said Sunday the Democrats must be "willing to fight for changes" if they hope to recapture national leadership next year.

Lindsay, a Republican-turned-Democrat and considered a dark horse possibility for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, told the Democratic State Convention that the party's goals should include:

- Enactment and enforcement of effective anti-pollution laws.
- Some kind of work program for Vietnam veterans, slum dwellers and other unemployed.
- Laws to plug tax loopholes.
- A pledge that there will be no more Vietnamis.

"This means a risk," he said. "It means, perhaps, alienating people and institutions with money and power. But that is a risk we must take. Because if we go into next year unwilling to fight for changes then what is the point of changing national leadership in the first place?"

Phoenix was Lindsay's first stop on a barnstorming tour of the West during which he is expected to continue the exploration of his presidential prospects he began in New Hampshire last weekend.

He is expected to get down to dead-earnest presidential politicking Monday in Los Angeles, where he will address a meeting of local officials and confer with such state leaders as Democratic Chairman Charles Manott.

On Tuesday, he will meet bay area leaders and address the California League of Cities during a brief stay in San Francisco.

Get on with prisoner goal, groups urge

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two leaders of the nation's largest organization dedicated to the release of U.S. prisoners of war, said Sunday they felt the United States had done its duty to South Vietnam and that its only remaining goal should be to win the release of all American POWs.

Their views brought them into conflict with the administration, which until now has enjoyed at least the implicit support of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia.

On Monday the league opens a national convention in Washington at which attempts will be made to revise the organization's bylaws to allow members to actively pressure the administration to set a deadline for withdrawal of all U.S. military forces from Vietnam.

The administration is understood to be apprehensive about the possible effects an emotional meeting, might have on public support for its Vietnam policy.

The league's two top officials, Board Chairman Carole North and National Coordinator Joan Vinson questioned the administration's policies in a UPI Washington Window interview.

Mrs. North said she felt that waiting for Saigon to grow strong enough to defend itself could work against the interest of the POWs.

"The biggest question in my mind is how long is it going to take for Saigon to have a reasonable chance to survive?" she said.

Both women answered "yes" to a question of whether they felt the United States had fulfilled its obligation to South Vietnam and that POW release should be the only goal remaining, regardless of whether South Vietnam could make it without U.S. troop support.

Soviet chief arrives in Bulgaria for talks

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI)—The Soviet Union's Leonid I. Brezhnev arrived Sunday from Hungary on the second stage of his flying tour through Eastern Europe to brief Warsaw Pact leaders on his talks with Yugoslav President Tito.

Brezhnev, the general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party, was met at Sofia Airport by Bulgarian party chief Todor Zhivkov and other party and government leaders.

His arrival came before the Hungarian news agency MTI had announced his departure from Budapest. This underlined Hungary's obvious tendency to keep news about the Brezhnev visit in Budapest to a minimum.

In Bulgaria, on the other hand, authorities had arranged large scale welcome celebrations which were carried nationwide in a live television cast.

The Soviet party boss Saturday concluded a three-day visit to Yugoslavia where he reaffirmed Moscow's guarantee of Yugoslavia's right to control its own internal affairs.

Instead of going home to Moscow after the visit, he flew first to Hungary and then to Bulgaria to tell his allies why he endorsed Tito's liberalized brand of communism.

The Bulgarian Communist party central committee said Brezhnev came at their invitation for a "friendly" visit. The announcement did not elaborate on his expected length of stay nor his next stop on his way home.

In Budapest, the Hungarian news agency said Brezhnev had an "exchange of views in a cordial atmosphere" with Hungarian party leader Janos Kadar during his short stay.

At a special ceremony, Brezhnev decorated Zhivkov with the Lenin Order given to him in honor of his 60th birthday Sept. 7.

The Soviet guest was entertained at an official dinner given by the Bulgarian party before he drove to the "Vrana," the former king's palace, where he was to spend the night.

Dinner to honor Mamie

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former First Lady Mamie Eisenhower, radiant as ever, will be honored tonight by many of her admirers with a "Diamond Jubilee" dinner and establishment of a scholarship fund in her name.

President and Mrs. Nixon were expected to return from their trip through the Pacific Northwest in time to put in a late appearance at the $100-a-plate affair.

Proceeds from the benefit will go into the scholarship fund to help students at Eisenhower College, Seneca Falls, N.Y. Mrs. Eisenhower long has been active efforts to aid the school, which was named after her husband, President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Pope Paul urges loyalty to church

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI Sunday said the Roman Catholic Church is threatened by "internal" controversies and defections" and issued a call to Catholics everywhere to "love the church as Christ loved it."

The Pope struck a theme of love in his last weekly blessing before the opening of the Roman Catholic Synod of

Bishops coupling a plea for greater love and prayer for the church with a warning that it was "an important hour for the church."

The Pope's remarks came on his 74th birthday. However, the pontiff made no mention that Sunday was his birthday and, as is his custom, planned no celebration.

SINGER'S SON KILLED

TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI)—A speeding motorcycle crashed into a pickup truck early Saturday, killing the 18-year-old son of country and western singer Billy Mize. The California Highway Patrol said Billy Mize Jr., was riding at "excessive speed" and was unable to stop the cycle when the truck made a left turn into his path. The driver of the truck, Douglas Roeder, 49, of Norwalk, was arrested on a drunken driving charge, the highway patrol said.

Uranium mine cleanup costly

By United Press International
The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) Friday released its report on the feasibility of removing uranium mill tailings from around buildings on the Western Slope of the Rocky Mountains, showing the cost could range from $43 to $15,000.

In other developments, two Colorado lawmakers have asked for a congressional inquiry on radiation dangers in Grand Junction, Colo., and the director of the state health department says he thinks the AEC is "entirely responsible" for problems caused by the use of mill tailings as land fill.

The AEC report, prepared by the engineering consultant firm of Nelson, Haley, Patterson, and Quick, Inc., studied 240 homes in Grand Junction.

"Methods of radiation control other than removal of tailings are under investigation by Colorado State University under an Environmental Protection Agency grant," the report said. "One or more of these other methods may prove more desirable than removal."

The problem comes from radon gas emitted by the tailings, giving off radiation.

"The tailings are what remain after ore processing for uranium extraction," the report said. "They were stored in large piles on the mill property by Climax Uranium Co. of Grand Junction."

"During the period from 1952 to mid-1966, a quantity of tailings estimated at between 150,000 and 200,000 tons was removed from the piles by construction companies, materials supply contractors and individuals, and used for various purposes in and around buildings and construction projects in the Grand Junction area," the report said.

Politico claims Nixon to campaign on record

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The Nixon administration believes it will attract the nation's vote in 1972 by simply laying its record on the line, a Republican Party official said today.

This approach will be used to gain the support of the new teen-age voters as well as older citizens, said Anne Armstrong, co-chairman of the Republican National Committee.

"I don't think we're kidding ourselves that this President has any great emotional appeal for young people, but then the Democratic candidates don't either," she told a news conference prior to addressing the Utah Federation of Republican Women.

"President Nixon will run on the issues, the record... on credibility in government," Mrs. Armstrong said.

She said young people may not agree with some of Nixon's programs but would have to agree with some of Nixon's programs but would have to agree he has not gone back on his promises, such as a pledge to end the war in Vietnam.

"I'm convinced the President will have the war ended well before the next election," Mrs. Armstrong said.

"And he is the first President to put out and partly implement a comprehensive program for environmental reform."

Mrs. Armstrong said she believes the controversy over the so-called Pentagon papers will benefit the Nixon administration because it "refreshed memories of what the Democrats started."

Another plus for the administration is "the fact that this has been the quietest summer since 1965," Mrs. Armstrong said, noting a decline in race riots and other domestic outbreaks.

"Critics cite the repeal of the seven per cent excise tax on automobiles, the 10 per cent surcharge on imported goods and exceptions for the prices of stocks, bonds and interest rates as putting money in the pockets of wealthy businessmen at the expense of the working man," she said.

The most frequently used keys on a typewriter are on the left and it is termed the "only left-handed machine in general use"

Israel aide says Egypt may 'goad'

By United Press International
A leading Israeli military expert said Saturday Egypt may launch more missile attacks across the Suez Canal in an attempt to goad Israel into massive retaliation for propaganda purposes.

Haim Herzog, former Israeli army chief of intelligence, spoke on Israeli radio only hours after Lt. Gen. Haim Barlev, chief of staff, warned Israel would strike back if Egypt carried out any further breaches of the cease-fire.

In Cairo, the semi-official Egyptian Middle East News Agency (MENA) said the U.N. General Assembly may impose sanctions on Israel for its "rejection of implementation of the U.N. and Security Council resolutions on the Middle East and Jerusalem."

Ruling never banned religion from school

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As everyone knows, the Supreme Court has ruled that teaching about religion is forbidden in the public schools, right?

Wrong. While the furor over restoring prayer to the public schools continues and the whole area of government aid to parochial schools is shaping up as a campaign issue for 1972, it generally is forgotten that the Supreme Court has never ruled that objective teaching about religion should be banned from the schools.

Justice William J. Brennan, in his opinion in the key 1963 case which ruled school-sponsored prayer was unconstitutional, observed that "the holding of the court ... plainly does not foreclose teaching about the holy scriptures or about the differences between religious sects in classes in literature or history."

The key word, of course, is "about."

As the Supreme Court has interpreted the Constitution, teaching of religion is prohibited but teaching about religion is permitted.

Unfortunately, according to Miss Ella Harlee, most teachers and schools systems are unprepared to handle religion or religious themes in their secular courses.

Miss Harlee is president of Educational Communications Association (ECA), a non-profit, non-sectarian, organization headquartered in Washington which is concerned with the relationship between education and mass communication.

According to Miss Harlee there is a great deal of misunderstanding about the court decision, especially about what can and cannot be done.

In wrestling with the problem, Miss Harlee said, "we also found that, unfortunately, even when it is known what can be done most teachers are not prepared to creatively make use of the world's religious heritage."

"Student, parents, and educators are demonstrating an increasing interest" in the subject of religion, she said. "But who will teach the teachers?"

As at least a partial answer, ECA has developed a two part course especially for high school teachers that emphasizes the role of the Bible in literature.

The course utilizes videotape and is available both for television and direct projection in 13 half-hour programs. "Teachers are asking for training and objective teaching and resource material for classroom use," Miss Harlee said. ECA's course is divided into two parts, the first stressing an understanding of the Bible itself as a literary document, while the second stresses the influence of the Bible on literature, focusing on such authors as Shakespeare and Milton. All of the half-hour programs are conducted by academic authorities.

Vietnam assessment ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the American program of disengagement from Vietnam entering a critical phase the White House has sent a special team of experts to that country to make an on-the-spot assessment of military and political conditions.

Administration officials said today that President Nixon, mindful that his predecessors sometimes were misled by overly optimistic predictions from the field, authorized

National Security Adviser Henry A. Kissinger to dispatch about a dozen experts from his staff to double-check reports received through regular channels.

The group is headed by Brig. Gen. Alexander M. Haig, Kissinger's deputy. He met Thursday with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth C. Bunker.

Others in the group are fanning out across the war-torn nation to review the progress of the "vietnamization" program — the plan under which South Vietnamese forces are taking over all ground combat functions from the departing Americans.

The survey team also is reassessing field intelligence reports on North Vietnamese and Viet Cong military strength, troop deployment and possible intentions in the field. The President is understood to be anxious to have the most up-to-date information before deciding in mid-November on further troop withdrawals. American ground forces are scheduled to total 184,000 by Dec. 1.

Officials said the situation had become particularly difficult to evaluate because of the political dissatisfaction that has spread after events that left Thieu unopposed on the ballot in the Oct. 3 presidential election. The political turmoil, coming at a time when further troops withdrawals will have increasing psychological impact, add up to a situation which requires the greatest caution in determining the next moves, officials said.

While Ky is said to be trying to enlist Minh in protesting the election, Minh has appeared reluctant to become an active participant in any organized agitation.

Pentagon critics lose vote series

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Critics of Pentagon programs and spending still looked for their first victory today in their fight to trim a $21 billion military procurement bill in the Senate.

This week saw them lose a series of votes. The latest defeat came Friday on an amendment by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., to stop deployment of the nation's newest strategic weapon — the Multiple, Independently Targeted Re-entry Vehicle (MIRV). The MIRV is a cluster of nuclear warheads, placed on a single Minuteman or Poseidon missile, which separate before impact and are guided to widely separated targets.

Humphrey asked the Senate to hold an estimated $2 billion in appropriations for MIRV in reserve for one year to see if Russia will respond in kind. But the Senate rejected his amendment, 39 to 12.

The vote ended a frustrating week for the Senate's bipartisan bloc seeking reductions in the defense budget. Rejected by overwhelming margins were amendments to stop development of the B1 strategic bomber and prevent possible environmental damage from an underground Navy antenna planned for Wisconsin.

Gem prison chief raps conditions

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's top correctional officer says the state's county jails are "dungeons" and "undergraduate schools for crime" and that the old state prison is a "graduate school for crime."

Raymond W. May, state director of corrections and warden of the penitentiary, told a Boise civic club Friday that 20 per cent of the criminals who need close security are mixed in with the 80 per cent who do not at the old prison site.

May said the correctional officers cannot get away from that fact, either, because, "they are all in one box."

Seventy per cent of the youthful first offenders sentenced to prison return for a second sentence, May said, because they are mixed with hardened criminals at the onset.

Soccer field raises skepticism

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Fears of a new missile crisis arose a year ago after U.S. intelligence officials detected a newly built field for soccer—a sport of the Russians—in baseball-loving Cuba, according to congressional testimony made public Saturday.

Had a baseball diamond been laid out, Pentagon analysts indicated, to a House subcommittee, they might not have worried that the Soviets were building a submarine base in violation of the 1962 agreement with the United States.

As it was, members of the House Inter-American Affairs subcommittee voiced deep skepticism of what they termed the September 1970 "mini-crisis."

In a press release accompanying publication of secret testimony given last fall Rep. Dante B. Fascell, D-Fla., the subcommittee chairman, noted that witnesses from the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) testified that construction of Soviet naval and ground facilities in Cuba appeared intended to provide increased capability to support submarine and other naval operations.

Later in the hearing, Fascell said, the same witnesses "seemed to backtrack" by suggesting that the construction may have been designed as a rest and recreational facility for Soviet sailors whose ships visit Cuba. This would not have violated the agreement, worked out by President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev after the 1962 missile crisis, which barred the Russians from establishing an offensive base in Cuba.

Fascell also took the administration to task for telling the press more about what was going on in September of 1970 than his congressional subcommittee.

Events began on Sept. 25, 1970, when the defense department announced "some new naval facilities" had been built at Cienfuegos, that it did not know whether they intended to comprise a submarine support base.

On the same day a White House official—who refused to be quoted by name—told newsmen that the United States would view the establishment of a Soviet naval base in Cuba with the utmost seriousness. Similarly grave comments were made during the next few days by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

The "crisis" ended Oct. 12 when the Soviet news agency Tass carried a Russian government statement declaring that the Soviet union had not and was not building any sort of a base in Cuba that would violate the 1962 agreement.

The long delay in releasing the rest of the testimony was attributed to a long censoring process by the pentagon.

Students applaud McGovern

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—State College students burst into applause Friday when Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said he would grant amnesty to "tens of thousands" of draft dodgers if elected president and when the Vietnam War concludes.

"What this nation needs," McGovern said, is "the spirit of love" for the Americans who have fled into Canada and elsewhere to avoid the draft.

He said amnesty is the sort of forgiveness which would "heal the wounds" of an unpopular war.

The Democratic presidential candidate, on an 11-day swing through California, the midwest and Florida, said he anticipated adverse reaction to his remarks from wives and parents of men conscripted into the service.

"I know very well the anguish of families who have boys in the service and who have lost boys in the service," he said.

But he said that during a recent Vietnam tour he didn't converse with one GI who wasn't overwhelmingly opposed to the war and its continuance.

The senator said he felt certain the servicemen would support his views on amnesty.

Woodworking firm pays workers $20,000 yearly

NEW YORK (UPI)—How is it possible for a little company in a prosaic business—woodworking—to pay 40 per cent of its 300 workers $20,000 a year each?

Irwin Ziegelheim, president of Pilot Woodworking Co., Carlstadt, N.J., has the answer. Ziegelheim went to work for Pilot 10 years ago as a draftsman when the firm had a dozen workers in Brooklyn, owed $400,000 and was doing less than $250,000 a year in sales.

When the creditors moved in, the young ex-Marine, who had joined Pilot because he couldn't find a job with an architectural firm, asked them to let him take over the company. "What have you got to lose by it?" he demanded.

It took him only 22 months to pay off the $400,000 debt. Today, Pilot has a modern plant with the most advanced woodworking machinery known.

"Hardly anybody in our company makes under $10,000," he told United Press International. "Twice, our workers have refused to go out when their union called strikes in the trade."

Ziegelheim claims he runs Pilot much the way General Motors is run—by the most advanced financial and administrative techniques as well as with skilled craftsmen and up-to-date machinery.

"The machinery is no substitute for craftsmanship in woodworking," he said. "It just increases productivity and reduces costs. The human skills are just as necessary to run the machines as they are to the hand cabinet maker. Most of our craftsmen were bred to woodworking in Europe."

Pilot makes no stock products. "We are custom woodworkers to the architectural and structural industries and manufacturers who need superb woodwork such as the makers of better hi-fi music systems," explained Ziegelheim.

"We make our own plywoods for the most part and we buy rare decorative woods from all over the world as well as the finer common woods like walnut, mahogany and other domestic hardwoods."

One of the more interesting of activities of Pilot is restoring and re-finishing antique woodwork.

For the New York headquarters of the Bank of London and South America in the Wall Street district, Pilot bought fine old 18th century exotic pine paneling from Georgian mansions in London and recut and refinished it for the New York banking rooms.

Muskie criticizes social security

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, criticized the nation's Social Security System Friday for taking too much from workers least able to pay and giving top little to retired Americans.

Addressing about 650 Iowans Friday night at a Democratic fund raising dinner, the unannounced contender for the presidential nomination said the Nixon administration has failed to come to grips with the defects of the Social Security System.

Muskie said all Social Security benefits provide for 60 per cent of the nation's elderly is subsistence living and "frustrating years of social insecurity."

In addition, he said the Social Security tax is regressive, rather than progressive. "The wealthier you are, the less you pay," Muskie said.

Muskie said he and Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., will co-sponsor legislation to remove the inequities from the Social Security System.

Muskie hinted that the new legislation would reduce Social Security taxes for 63 million wage earners and increase taxation for 8 million.

"Every family of four with an income under $14,500 would save money and so would every single person with an annual wage of lower than $12,000," Muskie said.

"And while Social Security taxes would go down for most of our people," he said, "we would have a better chance to raise benefits for our retired Americans. No longer would a decent income for the elderly depend on an indecent increase in the tax burden of 63 million workers."

Demo governors challenge rules

By George J. MARDER WASHINGTON (UPI)—"Larry," says the man on the phone, "I just can't abide by the reform rules. I want to but it's just impossible."

The caller to Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien is the Democratic governor of an Eastern state — concerned about the new rules that will govern next year's presidential nominating convention.

The governor fears that his state's delegation to the convention, to be selected under new democratic reform procedures, will not conform to the rule of being representative of the state's voting population on race, sex and age. He's worried that the delegation's credentials will be challenged at Miami Beach when the party decides on a platform and candidates for president and vice-president.

Moreover, word has reached O'Brien of a reported plot by some young Democrats in one state to use challenges as a way to get to the national convention through the back door.

Involved are two major reform objectives of the committee on party structure and delegate selection — the so-called McGovern Commission — to install more democracy (small 'd' kind of democracy) in the Democratic party's procedures for selection of a nominee for president.

One reform calls for the democratic selection of all delegates to the convention with states insuring that the process is open to all Democrats. Another reform calls for the makeup of the delegation to reflect true democracy and be representative of a state's population on the basis of race, age and sex.

The two reforms are supposed to work in tandem. But they could work at cross purposes.

Chairman O'Brien takes the position that the matter of good faith will prevail in any challenges. He advises the governors that installing democratic procedures in the selection of delegates is a must — a guideline which will be required by the next convention.

Harriman to marry

NEW YORK (UPI)—Averell Harriman, former U.S. ambassador to the Paris peace talks, and Pamela Digby Churchill Hayward, the late Sir Winston Churchill's daughter-in-law, were granted a marriage license Friday.

The couple said they will not marry until Winston Churchill, 83-year-old grandson of Britain's wartime prime minister, arrives from the Middle East.

Mamie works at husband's goals

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mamie Doud Eisenhower, soon-to-celebrate her 75th birthday, has a magnificent obsession in widowhood—to work for the ideals espoused by her famous husband.

Of the many goals he had in retirement, among the most urgent for President Dwight D. Eisenhower was to promote American education and Eisenhower College, in Seneca Falls, N.Y., stands as a living memorial in his name.

On Monday, friends and admirers will salute the former First Lady's efforts in this field with a diamond jubilee dinner and formal establishment of a Mamie Doud Eisenhower Scholarship Fund. President and Mrs. Nixon, Frank Sinatra and Clare Boothe Luce head the list of guests planning to attend the $100-a-plate affair.

But for Mrs. Eisenhower, whose birthday falls on Nov. 14, the occasion will be a tribute to her late husband as well.

"Everything she does today is motivated by what she believes Ike wanted her to do," a close friend said. "She really wants to carry on the interests of Ike. Ever since his death, she has worked for the college."

Although the mainspring of her life is now gone, Mrs. Eisenhower still maintains a busy pace and dedicated devotion to her special projects.

A few weeks ago, for example, she made a surprise visit to the Eisenhower College. After slipping in secretly, she chatted with the students, marveled at the classrooms and surveyed the plans for the Mamie Doud Eisenhower Hall.

A lot slimmer now than she was during the eight years she lived in the White House, Mrs. Eisenhower exudes the same warm friendliness, vivacity and dignity that has won her the title of "most admired woman in the world" for the past two years.

She wears her crown likely. Her blue eyes twinkle with enthusiasm and her bangs still are her trademark.

Since her husband's death in late March, 1969, she always has worn a jeweled American flag pin "because Ike always wished that people would display the American flag more frequently."

Former TF man has unconventional job

TWIN FALLS — A former Twin Falls man has a most "unconventional" job—even the job title held by Lt. Col. Knox C. Lake says so.

Col. Lake, the son of Mrs. Malvina M. Lake of Twin Falls, is the Assistant Unconventional Warfare Plans Officer assigned to the Subsidiary Activity Plans office, Atlantic Command, Norfolk, Va.

Col. Lake is married to the former Fairlye (cq) Randall of Houston, Texas.

Not only does Col. Lake concern himself with "unconventional plans," but he must work with all branches of the U.S. Armed Forces. The Atlantic Command, one of seven unified commands within the structure of the U.S. Department of Defense, has responsibility for joint military operations in the North and South Atlantic, the Gulf of Mexico, the waters and islands of the Caribbean and a large portion of the Indian Ocean.

Altogether, the Atlantic Command's field of activity covers more than 52 million square miles of ocean, encompassing about 40 per cent of the world's ocean area.

Implant problems manifold

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ten months after a dying young woman was restored to health with a transplanted kidney she became pregnant. Doctors took a blood sample, from her apparently healthy baby one day after its birth and in the blood found broken chromosomes.

That is the culmination so far of science's growing suspicion that recipients of transplanted organs face more risks than the risk of losing them by "rejection." Another risk may be enhanced susceptibility to cancer. A third may be the reproducing of a faulty offspring.

Chromosomes carry the genes which are the recipe for a new individual. If they're messed up, the new individual will be effective in one or many ways and may not even make it through gestation.

To transplant an organ successfully medical scientists must suppress the recipient's defensive chemistry. If unchecked it will attack and kill this "foreign" tissue. That is rejection. One of the most effective suppressing drugs is azathioprine.

In experimental animals it reacts on the unborn, by killing, by stunting growth, by deforming. It could be it is breaking up chromosomes. But understandably, relatively little is known about its effects in human reproduction.

Drs. Daniel E. Lab of the University of Pittsburgh and Bernard Weisskopf and Bob S. Kanovitz of the University of Louisville reported the instance of the young woman to the American Medical Association. Through her pregnancy she was given azathioprine regularly, to maintain the suppression of her defensive chemistry. When the newborn's blood revealed broken chromosomes the assumption had to be that the drug had crossed the placental barrier, from mother to fetus.

Especially when the mother's blood, in sample taken a day after the infant was tested, showed broken chromosomes. Yet in both mother and baby, the chromosome abnormalities disappeared with time. The infant still appears both normal and healthy.

This they couldn't explain, the scientists said.

Separate Indian unit asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., said today Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton is "out of touch with the concerns of the Indian people" and asked President Nixon to remove the Bureau of Indian Affairs from his control.

In a letter to Nixon, Fraser said the bureau should be given independent status under the office of the President.

Fraser said he has come to share the view voiced by several Indian leaders that the BIA should be taken out of the Interior Department.

"Secretary Morton appears to be out of touch with the concerns of the Indian people," Fraser said. "But a lack of leadership at the highest levels of the Interior Department is only part of the reason for the Indian bureau's problems."

He said efforts to reform the bureau "have ground to a halt" since Morton succeeded Walter J. Hickel.

"As long as the BIA remains buried as a subagency in a large and unsympathetic bureaucracy," it will never be free to deal successfully with the unique needs of this country's 800,000 American Indians," Fraser said.

The Minnesota Democrat said he was originally encouraged by efforts of a group of "young turks" in the BIA to implement Nixon's landmark message on Indian Affairs in July, 1970.

But he said that in the last year, virtually all of the "young turks" have been dismissed or stripped of their authority.

"The power to run the bureau now resides with a group of conservatives, old-line bureaucrats who have succeeded in gaining Secretary Morton's ear," Fraser said. "Commissioner (Louis R.) Bruce is now nothing more than a figurehead."

Heart may use A-power

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The old science fiction thriller about a man with a "radioactive brain" may be closer to reality than anybody dreamed possible a few years ago.

Only the organ involved won't be the brain, but the heart, and the radioactivity will be tightly encased in a small, portable and long-lasting energy source implanted in a human chest.

A University of Utah team, headed by the man who developed the first artificial kidney, has been awarded a 13-month grant for research on a tiny nuclear engine to power an artificial heart.

Dr. Willem Kolff, director of the university's Institute of Biomedical Engineering, says one of the major obstacles to the development of the organ in the past has been the energy source.

"The device must faithfully deliver the necessary power in varying peaks to continually drive the mechanical heart for up to 10 years and it must be able to handle all of the patient's activities," Kolff said.

"At the same time it must be economical and safe, free from any chance of radiation damage to the patient or release of radioactive materials into the environment."

The Atomic Energy Commission, the sponsor of the $85,000 grant, is investigating one nuclear driving system, according to Kolff, but needs to know the specific power requirements.

Dr. Francis M. Donovan, an assistant research professor in both mechanical engineering and surgery, has joined Kolff's team to give the AEC the answers.

The scientists hope to pinpoint "power profiles" during experiments in Kolff's Salt Lake City laboratory in which

VICE PRESIDENT Spiro T. Agnew said the Soviet Union is already using in Egypt a jet fighter better than any U.S. aircraft. Agnew's statement on the MIG 23 Foxbat was the first U.S. acknowledgment that the plane was being used against Israel. Here it is compared with other craft in the Mideast. (UPI) artificial hearts will be implanted in calves.

University researchers, who believe they have a world survival record of 11 days for a calf kept alive with an artificial heart powered by compressed air, are confident they can fill the commission's bill.

Donovan believes that the energy unit will be operational in not less than one decade "but certainly in two."

So, while in the next 20-30 years the creature with the radioactive brain can remain consigned to fiction, the man with the uranium-powered heart could turn out to be a neighbor, a friend, or even you.

Main inflation test to come after freeze

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A New York congressman Friday maintained that President Nixon's wage-price freeze has shown "statistical progress," but emphasized the true test of the program will come after the freeze ends Nov. 15.

Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr., told a news conference that tangible progress in the freeze "has been slow. There has been statistical progress, but progress which the American people can see is still under the surface."

Conable a Republican, was in Salt Lake City for a dinner meeting of the congressional committee for Rep. Sherman Lloyd, R-Utah.

The New Yorker told newsmen that people "like results of controls, but they generally don't like the process." He said the President is wise not to put a ceiling on his controls for Phase II of the plan.

"It's better to leave an air of uncertainty" about the limits of price controls, said Conable. "What is meant to be a ceiling usually ends up as the floor."

"People tend to get what they can," the chairman of the House Republican research committee added. Conable also is a member of the House Ways and Means Committee and the Joint Economic Committee.

"The freeze is merely a pause in the upper (inflationary) cycle," Conable said, "and this must be followed up" with Phase II because the pause is only temporary.

"What happens after the freeze is the most significant part of the program."

The congressman said he couldn't yet elaborate on what businesses will be affected by post-freeze controls but, in answer to a newsman's question, said he felt there was no evidence the President has made any concessions to organized labor.

"Labor is a big segment of this country's economy, just as business is, and the President has met with the leaders of that segment," Conable stressed. "But I have seen no evidence he has made any concessions to them."

During his dinner speech Friday evening, Conable discussed the proposal of the Ways and Means Committee which runs parallel to President Nixon's economic plan.

TWIN FALLS — "Right On With Charm" is the slogan for the 1971 Charm and Modeling School sponsored by the Junior Club and scheduled to begin Oct. 2 at the Holiday Inn. The school, designed for girls in grades nine through twelve, consists of a series of workshops running for five consecutive Saturdays, from 10:30 a.m. to noon, and concluding on Nov. 6 with a brunch and fashion show for the girls and their mothers.

Enrollment will be held at 10:15 a.m. during the opening session and the nominal registration fee may be paid at that time. Each workshop will be conducted on an informal basis, with emphasis on group discussion and participation. The sessions have been planned to help the teen-ager make the most of what she already has. Individual help will be given those girls who have questions concerning skin or hair care or the correct clothing style, within the current trends, for their particular figure types.

Leather hot pants and other styles appealing to teen-agers will be featured during the style show on Nov. 6, sponsored by the Top of the Stairs. A monetary door prize will be presented by the Top of the Stairs at one workshop, and gift subscriptions from various magazines will also be given as special prizes.

The sessions, under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Ronald Lichti, includes Oct. 2-Modeling and Boyd Carriage, Mrs. Wesley Startin, chairman; Oct. 9-Clothing and Accessories, Mrs. Robert Donnelly, chairman; Oct. 16-skin Care, Mrs. Gerald Wignall, chairman; Oct. 23-Hair Care, Mrs. Bill Morrison, chairman; Oct. 30-Dating manners and etiquette, Mrs. Dan Slavin, chairman, and Nov. 6-Brunch and Fashion Show, Mrs. Greg Kadlec and Mrs. Elbert Davis, chairmen.

Valley Living

Current Cues

By HELEN WALKER
TWIN FALLS — Good lighting is planned with the kind, amount and distribution of light for each eye task carefully considered. So take inventory of your family and the types of activities they have which involve the use of the eyes. It costs much less to provide good light than the cost of eye strain resulting from poor lighting. Eye strain is caused by: insufficient light, glare and contrast of light and dark. Eye strain can cause: headaches, scowling, irritability, fatigue and other types of body discomfort.

Good light is soft, well diffused and creates a visual environment that does not contain uncomfortable glare or light and dark contrasts. Check your home for these common enemies of good seeing and note the suggestions for avoiding them:

Glare — raw, irritating light direct from unshaded bulbs or from improperly placed lighting equipment; reflected glare from glossy paper in books or magazines.

Avoid glare by being sure no bare bulbs or fluorescent tubes are visible. Have lamps and fixtures properly shaded.

Contrast — differences between lighted and unlighted areas in the room.

Avoid too much contrast by using lamps and fixtures that send light upward as well as downward over a wide area. Do not confine your lighting to one spot leaving the rest of the room in semi-darkness.

Shadows — cast from poorly placed lamps and fixtures.

Avoid shadows cast by the hand on writing, sewing or drawing by lighting from the left for right-handed people — and lighting from the right for left-handed people. In brief, avoid shadows on your seeing tasks.

Not Enough Light — Because of too few lamps or fixtures, the bulbs are too small, the room colors are too dark.

Make sure you have properly placed lamps and fixtures where you need them; and be sure that the light bulbs, fluorescent tubes, are the proper size to light the seeing task.

To get some idea of what is necessary for seeing tasks, let us use some comparisons. The following local lighting recommendations assume the presence of general lighting.

No. 1. Five 25 watt bulbs above a dining room table would provide about 10 foot-candles or less. This is satisfactory for casual seeing, for playing games and similar eye work but not enough for reading, studying or writing.

No. 2. A lamp or fixture using a three-way 50-100-150 watt bulb will provide about 10 to 20 footcandles. This is enough light for moderate seeing tasks like reading good print on white paper; easy sewing on light fabrics; coarse knitting; the play of little children; washing or ironing or working at the sink.

No. 3. A 100-200-300 watt bulb will provide about 20 to 50 footcandles and this is what is needed for rather prolonged and intense eye use; such as reading newspapers, sewing at the machine, fine mending, childrens' homework, hobbies, drawing and other crafts. You should also have this amount of light for shaving and make-up.

No. 4. To get 50 to 100 foot-candles for severe prolonged and detailed tasks such as reading very fine print, sewing with dark thread on drak fabric; or other difficult tasks you need, besides the lamp with 100-200-300 watt bulb, a 75 watt spot light.

Some suggestions which will improve light in your home:

No. 1. Shade all bulbs.
No. 2. Keep fixtures clean.
No. 3. Do not use colored bulbs for any close work. Colored bulbs are for effect and are for general lighting only. Colored glass swags and pole lamps fall in this category, too.
No. 4. Keep bulbs clean and replace bulbs when they become dark. Use the darkened bulbs in areas where less light is needed as in halls or closets.

National Exchange Club representative is speaker

BURLEY — L.P. Swaggert, a staff representative of the National Exchange Club, spoke before the Burley Chapter Thursday and urged its members to become involved in community affairs.

Swaggert, who is on a regional speaking tour, devoted most of his talk to National Exchange Club programs which he reports have been widely adopted by other service organizations in the country. The staff representative also spoke of the need to increase memberships in various local chapters. Currently, Swaggert said, the National Exchange organization is the only group of its kind in the country to show an increase in membership during each of the past four years.

A total of 66 new chapters were opened in the past 12 months, with an average membership of 35 men, he said.

The meeting also was addressed by Robert Mavity, president of the Southwest PTA, who defended a suit recently filed against the state of Idaho and several state agencies and officials to reclaim money from lands originally set aside for public education. The suit charges the State Board of Education had failed to receive adequate compensation for the removal of lands from its portfolio and asked for $32 million in land value and lost interest.

Dr. Walter Judd to speak in Burley

BURLEY — Dr. Walter H. Judd, one of America's most forthright speakers, a former Congressman from Minnesota and former medical missionary in China, will be the speaker at the Burley-Rupert Knife and Fork Club dinner meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 29, at the Ponderosa Inn.

This is the first club program for the season, announces Mack Crouch, secretary of the Burley-Rupert Knife and Fork Club.

The forceful former Congressman, who served 10 terms from the fifth district, is one of the most fluent and vigorous speakers in the United States. For many years he has been a prime favorite with dinner club audiences but his lectures have been limited by his Congressional duties.

"Though he is a Republican," Crouch said, he is as welcome in the Democratic deep south as he is in Minneapolis. This is because he has no personal or political axes to grind and speaks frankly and courageously on the issues of the day and says what he has to say without fear or favor."

Dr. Judd was one of the first to believe that our national salvation lay in intelligent and unselfish co-operation with other allied powers. He long favored armed intervention against the Japanese and later against Germany, as he believed, and still believes, "that it is impossible for us to live in peace in splendid isolationism with a sly Soviet Russia and a belligerent Red China on the move."

Elastic fiber

Baggy knees and sagging elbows are characteristic of some knit garments that have been worn for some time. But this may be a thing of the past with the introduction of a new elastic fiber. The new stretch fiber can be used in any way that existing spandex yarns are used but has an excellent recovery factor that eliminates the sag and bag commonly associated with stretch fabrics.

Browns hang 14-13 defeat on Baltimore

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Leroy Kelly scored on two short plunges Sunday and the Cleveland Browns held the Baltimore Colts to only two field goals until late in the fourth period to score a 14-13 upset.

Linebacker Dale Lindsey set up the first Cleveland touchdown late in the first half when he intercepted an Earl Morrall pass and returned it 21 yards to the Col's six. Kelly swept left end two plays later for the score. Kelly scored again early in the final period. Dave Jones returned a punt 11 yards to the Colt 38. Aided by a facemasking penalty, the Browns scored four plays later on a one-yard Kelly sweep around left end. Cleveland's Don Cockroft missed field goals from 44 and 35 yards out in the first quarter, but Baltimore was unable to get past its 45 in the opening period.

Jim O'Brien capped a 60-yard march early in the second period with a 27-yard field goal to give Baltimore a 3-0 lead but Lindsey's interception set up Kelly's TD that put the Browns ahead.

The Colts moved 56 yards through a third quarter downpour and O'Brien added his second field goal, this time from 32 yards out, to pull the Colts within one point.

After Kelly's TD, the Browns' defense stiffened until linebacker Ted Hundricks blocked a Cockroft punt on the 22, late in the game and Don Nottingham scooped it up on the 25 and went in for the final Baltimore score.

John Unitas came off the bench to try to engineer the winning touchdown drive late in the game, but Clarence Scott intercepted a fourth down pass to end the drive.

touchdown to top a 77-yard, 12-play march engineered by quarterback Bob Berry.

The Rams jumped out to a 10-0 first quarter lead. After Travis Williams ran back the opening kickoff 49 yards, the Rams got into position for a 45-yard field goal by Ray at 3:26 of the first period.

With nine seconds left in the first quarter, the Rams were on the Falcon one with fourth down. They went into a field goal formation but Jerry Rhome, the holder, took the ball and threw to Bob Klein in the end zone.

The Falcons fought back and Berry moved them down to the Rams' 25 when he connected on a 41-yard pass to Jim Mitchell. After the offense bogged down, Bill Bell kicked a field goal from the 25.

Bell added a 30-yard field goal at 8:07 in the second quarter and then Berry hit Jim Butler on a 27-yard touchdown pass that gave the Falcons a 13-10 halftime lead.

The Rams took advantage in the third quarter of a 21-yard punt by Bell and moved the ball to the 50. From that point, Willie Ellison skirted left end with good blocking and sprinted down the north sideline to a touchdown that gave the Rams a 17-13 lead after Ray's conversion.

McVea's TD, late goal line stand let Chiefs stun Oilers

HOUSTON (UPI)—Warren McVea, a 5-foot-8, 182-pound squirm, ran four yards for the winning touchdown with 5:21 to go and his Kansas City Chiefs teammates stopped the Houston Oilers at the 8 with 1-2 minutes to go to give the Chiefs a 20-16 victory Sunday.

Wendell Hayes plunged one yard for a touchdown and Jan Stenerud kicked field goals of 43 and 15 yards for the other Kansas City points.

Safety Ken Houston ran 68 yards with a first half fumble for one Oiler touchdown and Dan Pastorini, who engineered a near-miss comeback for Houston in the second half, threw 12 yards to split end Charlie Joiner for the other.

Braden Beck kicked a 15-yard field goal and one of two extra points.

The difference in the game was the passing of the Chiefs' Len Dawson. He hit 7 of 10 for 105 yards in the first half and, after being stymied most of the second half, hit four of seven passes for 68 yards in the winning touchdown drive.

McVea made the other 12 yards on two straight carries, turning a third-down-and-four situation on the 12 into a first down at the four and then sliding in for the touchdown. Dawson hit a big third-down of 18 yards to wide receiver Otis Taylor to keep the drive going and put the ball on the Oiler 18.

Pastorini, the rookie quarterback playing his first pro game, started the second half for Houston and more than matched Dawson, but he couldn't make up Houston's 10-7 halftime deficit.

Pastorini completed 8 of 17 for 129 yards, the second half.

But he couldn't connect with the winning pass in the final minutes after guiding the Oilers from Kansas City 31 to the 8 after a Dawson fumble was covered by defensive end Allen Aldridge.
