Considers money

FINANCE MINISTER of Niger, Mouddour Zakara, in his native dress, wears translation headset as he listens to opening speeches Monday at the annual meeting of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund in Washington, D. C. (UPI)

No post-thaw lid planned for profit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans said today the new policies that follow President Nixon's 90-day wage-price freeze should allow corporate profits to increase. Stans, at a news conference called to answer criticism of the economic program announced by Nixon Aug. 15, said it was important that the "profit making potential of business" be restored after the freeze to allow industry to accumulate more capital. This, in turn, would create more jobs, he said. Some Democrats and labor leaders have attacked the President's plan to give greater tax breaks to industry as a bonanza for business at the expense of the average taxpayer. Stans argued that the most business could gain from the President's proposals was $3.4 billion compared with a $2.2 billion break for individual taxpayers. Urged to cooperate with the United States in its economic readjustment, delegates from 119 International Monetary Fund (IMF) nations began laying the groundwork Monday for replacing the monetary system that supported world trade for nearly three decades. In opening remarks to about 475 delegates and hundreds of official observers, IMF Managing Director Pierre Paul Schweitzer said "countries everywhere have a heavy stake in the success of U.S. authorities in hastening the achievement of price stability and in assuring an appropriate degree of stimulus to the domestic economy." The opening of five days of talks among the IMF and World Bank member nations came just six weeks after President Nixon ended the existing international payments system with his surprise economic policy switch of Aug. 15.

In seeking primarily to turn around the worsening U.S. balance of payments deficit, Nixon said dollars could no longer be traded to the United States for gold, thus killing the Bretton Woods agreement that had governed world currencies since 1944. With this report, it appeared that the United States would suffer its first annual trade deficit since 1893.

Anti-Red prelate ends 15-year saga

ROME (UPI)—Cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty today ended 15 years of self-imposed refuge in the U.S. Embassy in Budapest and fled to Rome, ending a saga that began in 1956 when Soviet tanks crushed the Hungarian rebellion. Mindszenty, now 79, fled to the U.S. Embassy on Nov. 4, 1956, in the last hours of the Hungarian revolt. For the past 15 years his presence within the embassy had thwarted relations between Hungary and the Vatican. His departure from Hungary was announced by Radio Budapest which said the departure was the result of an arrangement between the Communist regime of Hungary and the Vatican. He left Budapest at 8:30 a.m. (2:30 a.m. EDT) but his departure was not announced for nearly eight hours. He was driven to Vienna airport by Vatican representatives and flew direct to Rome where he was met at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport by Vatican Secretary of State Cardinal Jean Villot. He was driven straight to the Vatican. The Vatican has negotiated for years with the Hungarian government for a solution to the diplomatic obstacles placed by Mindszenty's refusal to give up his self-imposed refuge. However, Mindszenty in past years insisted on walking out of the embassy a free man. Mindszenty had been sentenced to life imprisonment in 1949 by the Hungarian regime for alleged high treason and black marketeering, but he was freed briefly by Hungarian freedom fighters before he received asylum in what was then the U.S. legation. Through the years his presence there was a deep embarrassment to the United States, to Hungary and to the Vatican. And in Hungary he became a forgotten man—his name was never used in Hungarian newspapers and there probably were young Hungarians who had never heard of him. But to the Communist regime in Hungary he remained as a vivid reminder of the suppression of the Hungarian revolt. Ironically, it was Mindszenty himself who blocked his own freedom. The stern old man refused to surrender his position as Roman Catholic Primate of Hungary despite Vatican urgings that he give up his asylum and leave for home. And so he remained isolated for 15 years until at the end he relented and decided to leave Hungary. He spent this time in the fourth floor, three-room apartment in the U.S. legation which later became the embassy when U.S.-Hungarian relations improved. He read the newspapers left at his door, he said Mass for the Catholic members of the legation and he took solitary walks in the building's enclosed courtyard.

2 seek council posts

TWIN FALLS — Two new candidates have entered the Nov. 2 Twin Falls city election picture, both new to city politics. Ann Cover, widow of Jerre Cover, took out nominating petitions this morning at city hall. She said she planned to seek one of the four council posts to be filled in November, according to City Clerk Elythe Kooztz.

Rex Ulrich, Twin Falls businessman, took out petitions late Friday afternoon. Mrs. Cover has been active in community affairs for a number of years and is a former member of the Twin Falls League of Women Voters and has worked with the American Field Service foreign student exchange program. She was not available for comment this morning. Ulrich, who heads the Rex Ulrich and Associates investment brokerage firm, has been a resident of Twin Falls since 1947 and in business for himself since that time. He said he will seek office on a basis of continuing the present city administration and programs. Ulrich said he feels the city of Twin Falls has an aggressive and sound operation and is currently engaged in a number of good programs which should be continued. He said he believes the city should be operated on a businesslike basis which will make every dollar count. Ulrich said he plans to file his petition late today or early Wednesday. Earlier candidates who have announced they will seek election include Winston Jones, incumbent, serving his first term under appointment, and two other new candidates Ray Crandal and Lynn Goodman. All three have taken out petitions and those of Crandal and Goodman have been returned for additional necessary signatures of registered voters. Mrs. Kooztz said candidates should plan to obtain additional signatures on their petitions since many persons fail to realize they are dropped from the city registration books if they have missed one election. Last city election, two years ago, brought out a relatively light vote and those who failed to go to the polls at that time are not currently registered voters and not eligible to sign nominating petitions, she said. Deadline for filing nominating petitions is Oct. 4 at 5 p.m.

Field adds new system

TWIN FALLS — City and county officials today had accepted an offer of the Federal Aviation Administration which calls for installation of an instrument landing system (ILS) at the Twin Falls City-County Airport. The decision was reached at a special meeting of county commissioners, city councilmen and airport commission members Monday noon at Holiday Inn. Request that the offer be accepted was made by Armour Anderson, airport commission member, and rapid approval followed adoption by the airport commissioners. City and county commissioners concurred.

Three men were named to a special committee to negotiate land purchase and easement rights with those owning ground needed for the landing approach. Committee members are Jean Millar, city manager; Heber Loughmiller, county commissioner, and O.A. (Gus) Kelker, airport board chairman. Twin Falls is the last major airport in the state to take steps toward installation of the ILS system. It is now in use at Pocatello, Idaho Falls and Boise and installation is scheduled for Lewiston. Completion of the project — probably by mid 1972 — will give the Twin Falls field the same instrument flight capability of the Salt Lake City field. It will permit jet landings with a minimum ceiling of 200 feet and ahead visibility of one-quarter of a mile. Part of the land needed for ILS installation is now owned by the airport. An additional 40 acres will have to be acquired. This will include purchase and easement property. The federal government will pay for the intricate ILS equipment, install and maintain it and will also pay up to 82 percent of the land acquisition costs. Officials said this will make actual cost to the city-county in the neighborhood of $50,000. The federal expenditure will come to an estimated $350,000. City, county and airport officials conferred with FAA officials from Seattle last Wednesday. At that time the landing system was termed a "must" from the safety standpoint. The local field will re-open to large commercial craft Friday morning following a construction project which replaced the old main runway with a 7,200 foot runway. The work required the runway to be closed for more than two months and represented a combined local-state-federal expenditure of about $556,000.

No class set for Blaine tots

By TERRY CAMPBELL, Times-News Writer HAILEY — Blaine County School District Monday night voted against holding kindergarten classes this year. Board Chairman W. B. Mallory said "We aren't doing justice to the children in school now. It will cost us money eventually," he said. "There is no need of doing it if we can't do it right." Supt. Charles L. Clark said the state would fund the salaries of two certified teachers if the parents would provide the facilities and transportation. He said a survey showed that 15 children in Carey, 13 in Ketchum and 30 in Hailey-Belleuve would enroll in a kindergarten program. The board was concerned that enough privately owned facilities would be available. Trustee Ronda Hundt said, "If we were ready, if we had the right kind of facilities, then it would be different." And the board said the voluntary nature of the program could cause problems. Hunt said "It would be hard for the teacher to plan a program when she would not know if she would have one student or 22 on a certain day."

Ire talks eye peace

LONDON (UPI) — The prime ministers of Great Britain, Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic today neared the end of two days of talks. There was total secrecy about any progress they might have made on solving the Ulster crisis. They met for more than seven hours Monday at Chequers, British Prime Minister Edward Heath's official country residence. Prime Ministers Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic and Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland drove back separately to London for the night. Officials said only they agreed to say nothing about their first day of talks. They were resuming discussions. It was the first time the heads of the three governments had met jointly since Ireland was partitioned 50 years ago.

Paul man succumbs after car mishap

PAUL — Dirk Peterman, 16, Paul, died Monday evening of injuries received in a one-car accident Saturday on 850 West near Rupert. Idaho State Policeman O. J. Brannan, who investigated the accident, said Peterman had been thrown out of a car which went out of control on the road about 10 miles southwest of Rupert. Driver of the car, Dennis M. Widmier, 16, Rupert, and another passenger, Wade Short, 17, Paul, both escaped with minor injuries. Peterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Peterman and a student at Minico High School, was taken by ambulance to Cassia Memorial Hospital in Burley and was flown later Saturday night to Holy Cross Hospital, Salt Lake City, where he died Monday. Officer Brannan said the vehicle was traveling north when the accident occurred about 4:30 p.m. Saturday. The vehicle went out of control, rolled onto its top and came to rest in a southeasterly direction in a borrow pit. The officer said the accident is still under investigation. The Idaho traffic toll for 1971 stands at 233, compared to 249 a year ago this date.

'Preserve Box Canyon'

By PEGGY CHU, Times-News Writer GOODING — Of about 60 people attending a Bureau of Land Management public hearing Monday into the Box Canyon Springs water diversion question, only a handful, including one of the petitioners, spoke in favor of the proposed diversion. Most of those attending favored a national monument concept for the area on the Snake River in Gooding County, while a few voiced approval of a state park concept. One petitioner, Richard Caster, Hagerman, was at the hearing with his attorney, John Rosholt, Twin Falls, to speak in favor of his application. Caster has applied with the Bureau of Land Management for 850 cubic feet per second of water which would be diverted into a pipeline and brought to the edge of the Snake River and piped under the river to Caster's property for use in a fish hatchery. Caster also has made joint application with Earl Hardy, Hagerman, for use of water on the same side as Box Canyon Springs. Other applicants, Lemmon-Standal and Hines, have applied for 800 second feet into a canal which would be piped under the Snake River to their property, also for use in a fish hatchery. These applicants either were not at the hearing or remained silent during proceedings. The State Parks Department has proposed to buy the Box Canyon area from the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) to facilitate a 50-unit campground, boat ramp and parking lot. Conducting the hearing was Don Rumberg, realty specialist from the Shoshone office of the BLM. He said the BLM has four choices in the matter: To allow rights of way for the various diversions requested; to designate a common diversion point at the lowest possible point in the canyon for use by all applicants; denial of all applications which would force all diversions to be made on higher, privately owned land, or obtaining congressional approval to purchase the private land and deny any development in the canyon. SAIGON (UPI)—Allied positions along the Cambodian border came under intense North Vietnamese and Viet Cong rocket and mortar bombardment Monday night and today in a third day of a pre-emptive Communist campaign against bases guarding infiltration routes to Saigon. Military spokesmen said the Communist attacks appeared to be subsidizing somewhat but that more than 200 rounds of rocket and mortar rounds were fired into South Vietnamese and American outposts overnight. South Vietnamese spokesmen said at least 230 Communist troops had been killed in the three days since the Communist offensive began with government losses of 28 dead and 178 wounded. At least five Americans were wounded in three mortar attacks Monday night and today against Fire Base Pace 78 miles northwest of Saigon and one mile from Cambodia. An American spotter plane sighted the bodies of 110 Communist troops Monday in an area two miles northeast of the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Krek, eight miles across the border and 85 miles north of Saigon. The South Vietnamese command included the 110 in its official report of Communist troops killed.

PW's brother says data lack may bring embarrassing acts

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The son of the U.S. commander in the Pacific, whose brother is a prisoner of war, warned government officials Monday that the families of POWs may try to embarrass the administration unless they get more information about efforts to win the men's release.

Joe McCain, son of Adm. John S. McCain and brother of Lt. Cmdr. John S. McCain Jr., drew applause when he made the statement during a government briefing for the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia.

The briefing by the State and Defense Departments came before the organization voted on whether to revise its bylaws so that it could go beyond its goal of humane treatment for POWs and, in effect, join the movement advocating a deadline for U.S. withdrawal for Vietnam as a means of freeing the American servicemen held by the Communists.

McCain, from San Diego, told spokesmen from the Defense and State Departments that unless the families of the prisoners and missing men are given some answers soon about what is being done to secure their release, "These people (families) may go to measures that may even embarrass the administration until we can find out."

His remark was applauded by about 400 wives, parents and relatives of the 1,600 Americans either held prisoner or missing in Indochina.

"I hope it will also embarrass the North Vietnamese—they have got the prisoners," said State Department spokesman Frank Sieverts. His reply was also applauded.

McCain did not elaborate on his warning, but told reporters later he was opposed to withdrawing U.S. troops before the POWs were released. His brother's A4 Navy jet was shot down early in 1967 and has been identified as a prisoner in North Vietnam.

"I do not believe that if we got out (of Vietnam) tomorrow, we would ever hear from these men again," McCain said.

"You can't trust the North Vietnamese," he said, nor assume that anyone in the United States would make the POWs' interests paramount.

"You have no friends," he told the families: "The only persons who care are yourselves."

Richfield sets meet

RICHFIELD — The City of Richfield will hold a second public meeting regarding the proposed sewer system before the Nov. 2 city election.

Mayor C. W. Ward said this week the meeting will be held to help all residents fully understand the need for a sewer system and not feel that they were being high pressured.

The mayor said he is seeking re-election to the city board, hoping to guide the city through the phases of installing the sewer system. The special bond election will be held in conjunction with the city trustee election. All qualified voters living within the city are eligible to vote. This includes 18 to 20 year old persons who will be able to vote for the first time in this election.

The revenue bond election is asking for the sum of $151,000 to pay part of the cost of the sewer system. Total cost of the sewer system is set at $245,800. Federal grants for the project are expected to make up the balance.

Ordinance No. 122 was passed at the September meetings to permit the bond election. Groundwork on a sewer system began as early as last year with the first public meeting held April 20 at the high school. Support for the project was indicated by most of the 160 persons attending.

Mayor Elwood Werry, Shoshone, reported at the meeting on the "double cost" to his city due to delay in passing the sewer bond election there when first proposed.

Lincoln County Planning Board approved the proposed Richfield sewer system last spring. City officials worked towards an Aug. 1 deadline for a city election, but legal questions delayed the passing of an ordinance before this month.

Rep. Orval Hanson, R-Idaho, told Mayor Ward early last summer of the approval of an FHA loan for the city and an unexpected federal grant in the amount of $23,500.

Idaho termed U. S. pattern

CALDWELL (UPI) — Idaho's governor told a College of Idaho audience Monday night that Idaho could become the "blueprint for the entire nation's environmental problems."

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, speaking at the opening of the governor's lecture series on the quality of life in Idaho at the school, said the Gem State could be developed in such a way as to improve it and "bring hope to other states and other nations."

He said, "If, indeed, Idaho becomes and maintains itself as a symbol of excellence for the environment, the spirit of that excellence will permeate throughout the nation. And, that spirit will be remembered as the beginnings of the greatest war on resource abuse ever known to man."

He noted that just as watersheds and air do not recognize state or local boundaries, a part of the solution would have to be genuine regional cooperation.

Suit seeks Teton dam, plant halt

BOISE (UPI) — Environmental groups filed suit in Federal District Court Monday to enjoin any further construction activities on the Teton Dam Reservoir and power plant in South-eastern Idaho.

Those filing the suit alleged the project cannot be justified economically and further alleged the environmental impact of the project on the ecology of the canyon of the Teton River has not been properly considered or evaluated as required by the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

The suit also claimed a thorough survey of the fish and wildlife present in the canyon has not been performed and alleged several important species which reside in the canyon area have not been mentioned in the surveys which have been conducted.

The suit also contends construction of the dam will violate a 1903 Idaho statute which indicates that any dam which impedes the migration of fish is unlawful.

The suit named as defendants Rogers C.B. Morton, secretary of the Department of Interior; Ellis L. Armstrong, chairman of the Bureau of Reclamation; and other reclamation bureau officials with administrative or supervisory authority over the project.

Plaintiffs include both the National Trout Unlimited and its Treasure Valley chapter; the Sierra Club; the Idaho Environmental Council; the Natural Resources Defense Council; Teton Expeditions, Inc.; Kenneth K. Cameron, Boise; Idaho vice president of the Northwest Steelheaders Council of Trout Unlimited; and Christopher Colt, Boise, president of the Treasure Valley Chapter of Trout Unlimited.

The suit claimed that Bureau of Reclamation project materials indicating benefits from the project for irrigation, flood control, power and recreation were exaggerated and that actual costs of the project have been intentionally underestimated.

Further, the plaintiffs contend the project will inundate a 17-mile-long wild and scenic canyon and "thus destroy one of the best cutthroat trout fisheries in the United States."

Checkups planned in Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — The Boise office of the Internal Revenue Service said Monday IRS personnel will make a spot check of Idaho business to insure local businessmen and landlords are complying with the letter and spirit of the wage, price and rent freeze.

Calvin E. Wright, district director of Internal Revenue for Idaho, said as part of their regular duties revenue field personnel will make reviews of wage-payment agreements, leases and price lists to make sure that businessmen not only understand the regulations but are also implementing them.

Wright said as of Sept. 24, his office had received only 60 complaints.

"I think these statistics speak for themselves, but we want to make sure that each person who sells a product or service or who rents housing or equipment not only understands the President's program but is also doing his part to make it work," Wright said.

"As a result, our people will not only help provide information about the program but will also keep an eye out for real and potential violators."

Rites held for justice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Funeral services were scheduled today at the huge Washington Cathedral for former Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black, 85, who died Saturday.

The cathedral, a massive gothic structure on the outskirts of Washington, was selected because it will accommodate the large number of persons expected to attend last rites for the Supreme Court's greatest exponent of free speech.

Burial was planned at Arlington National Cemetery, just inside Memorial Gate, the entrance visible across the Potomac River from the Lincoln Memorial. The site is about 10 minutes walk from the grave of President John F. Kennedy.

Panther pair fly to China

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Black Panther cofounder Huey Newton has flown to Hong Kong and may be enroute to Red China, the Oakland Tribune reported Monday.

The newspaper said Newton and Elaine Brown, Panther information officer, and Robert Leonard Bay, a bodyguard, arrived in Vancouver, B.C., Sunday from Ottawa, Ont., and left a short time later for Hong Kong aboard a Canadian Pacific airliner.

Panther officers at party headquarters here were unavailable for comment on the Tribune's report.

An officer for the Chinese Embassy in Ottawa refused to say whether the three Panthers had been issued visas to visit China.

Newton will be tried here Oct. 12 on charges resulting from the slaying of Oakland Policeman John Frey in 1968 in a shootout. It will be his third trial in the case.

He was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in September 1968 but the verdict was thrown out by an appellate court in July 1970. A second trial ended in a hung jury last month. Newton was freed on $50,000 bail.

Soviets' spying said less

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A State Department spokesman said Monday there was no evidence that Soviet espionage in the United States had attained anywhere near the proportions that it had in Britain, where the government has ousted 105 Russian officials.

The spokesman, Robert J. McCloskey, discounted the probability that the London disclosure the 105 Russians were involved in espionage would be followed by any similar revelations in Washington requiring mass expulsion of Soviet officials.

"We have had our own troubles in the past" with occasional cases of Soviet officials engaged in espionage, McCloskey said, "but I know of no present possibility here that is comparable to London."

Hijack report admitted hoax

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — A student pilot stranded aloft and talked to a safe landing at the Oklahoma City Airport, admitted to police and FBI officials today his story of being kidnapped and forced to fly to Mexico was not true.

The pilot, Leroy Savage, 27, of Greenwood, Ark., a suburb of Fort Smith, Ark., had said a man kidnapped him at the Fort Smith Airport Monday night but parachuted from the plane an hour later.

"Savage has admitted to Oklahoma City police that he concocted the story because he was drunk," said John W. Burns, special FBI agent in charge. "He got the plane up in the air and then realized he didn't have sufficient training to get the thing down."

Draft study set

BOISE (UPI) — Two groups of Need Legislation plan to work toward passage of legislation during the 1972 session that would require proof that a health care facility is needed before construction could begin.

Joslyn said the preliminary draft prepared for discussion Wednesday points up the fact that duplication of expensive medical care equipment and facilities greatly increases the cost of services to the patient.

Patman blasts Fed spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wright Patman, the chairman of the House Banking Committee, charged Monday that the Federal Reserve System spent $588,200 in Treasury money on Playboy clubs, baby-sitters, parking fines, bingo prizes and other "questionable" activities. The Texas Democrat told Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns at a committee hearing that the Fed should be audited independently as any other government body.

Burns maintained that the central bank's internal audit "is one of the most exacting in the corporate, or government world." But he promised to investigate Patman's charges. "As for the Playboy Club, I didn't know there was that much imagination on the part of my colleagues," Burns replied to laughter.

Patman reported that his staff examined federal reserve spending for 1969 including $932,600 for expenditures lumped under "all other" categories.

"About $588,200 were expended by the federal reserve banks for purposes which were either questionable or not considered allowable under government regulations," Patman said.

A committee staff assistant said that "information had come to the committee" that money was spent on Playboy clubs—but he would not go into further detail.

Patman put into the hearing record a list of expenditures he called questionable. They included $35 in parking fine and towing violations—a $5 parking ticket for the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, and a $50 towing charge and parking fine for the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

Probe leader cites warning

FT. MEADE, Mo. (UPI)—Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, who was chief Pentagon investigator of the My Lai massacre, testified Monday that Col. Oran K. Henderson was warned repeatedly during the inquiry that he was suspected of wrongdoing.

At Henderson's court martial on coverup charges, Peers testified he told the colonel during five of six appearances before the special investigating panel that he was suspected of failing to investigate and report alleged war crimes and of making false statements about the March 16, 1968, operation.

Reading from a transcript of Henderson's questioning by the Peers panel, the general recounted to the seven-officer jury that Henderson declined the aid of counsel during the first four sessions in which he was warned, but on the fifth occasion said, "I desire to have counsel appointed."

Henderson's defense attorneys contended in hearings leading up to the court martial that Henderson was under suspicion prior to his appearance before the inquiry and was inadequately informed of his rights and of the crimes of which he was suspected.

Going into the sixth week of the court martial, Peers testified that on Feb. 13, 1970, Henderson was told that he specifically was suspected of failing to obey orders to investigate "apparent war crimes"; dereliction of duty by failing to "take affirmative action" on reports of civilians being killed, and of withholding information and giving "false evidence" under oath to the panel.

The general said he did not recall anyone on the panel suspecting Henderson following his first testimony Dec. 2, 1969. But at following sessions, he said, the colonel was told that his testimony was at "considerable variance in several significant respects" with that of intervening witnesses.

Peers said that at one later session, Henderson was told that he was suspected of failing to follow orders regarding "reporting and investigating alleged mistreatment, wounding or killing of civilians—that is to say, war crimes."

He also was told, Peers said: "You may either have suppressed or contributed to suppression of information pertaining to the possible unlawful killing of civilians at My Lai."

Peers, scheduled to take over as deputy commander of the 8th Army in Korea Oct. 3, will return to the witness stand Tuesday for possible further questioning by the prosecution and then cross examination by the defense.

Trespass problems hamper Port board head not discouraged

BOISE (UPI) — Resolving trespass problems is one of the major factors complicating an inventory and reclassification of Idaho's 2,590,000 acres of state lands, a Land Department spokesman said Tuesday.

Ralph Samson, assistant land commissioner for land, minerals and grazing, said his personnel are finding a number of things on the land for which there is no record and no authority from the state.

"These transgressions include roads, power lines, homes, reservoirs, TV transmitters and even airfields," Samson said, in an interview.

"It slows us down. The minute we find these things we try to get them legal. We encourage them (the trespassers) to get easements and to compensate the state.

"I don't want people to think it's just cowboys running over there," he said, adding there are a number of other trespassers on state lands.

"This is not a sudden thing. It's been going on for many, many years.

"(But) it's one of the major, time-consuming factors in completing inventory and classification," he said.

Both the State Land Board, which is charged with policy making, and the Land Department have come in for considerable criticism over delays in the inventory and reclassification of state lands.

State Sen. H. Dean Summers, R-Boise, chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee, leveled the most recent criticism during a special Land Board meeting Monday.

At the time, Land Commissioner Gordon C. Trombley and others again pointed out that the department's budget is not large enough to undertake many of the things asked of the department's personnel.

Samson said that with more money and more personnel "we could make a measurable increase in accelerating the program."

But even with more money and more staff, he said, there still are problems — including those of trespass.

At present, Samson's field workers are making their studies on property as the leases come up for renewal.

"We inventory its inherent characteristics and then classify it for its highest and best use," he said.

Now under way for about two years, the survey is about one-sixth completed, Samson estimated. He said the department has set a target date of five years for completion.

"I don't think it could be done in a year or two even if you had an unlimited supply of money," Samson said, pointing out the personnel used in the surveys must be specially trained for their work.

"At present, there are permanent personnel working only in southern Idaho especially on the inventory and reclassification program, he said. These include three in the eastern end and three in the western end. These personnel also have other duties, Samson added.

And while the trespass problems have complicated their work, he said, "we're finding enough things (on which the state should be compensated) to more than pay the cost of doing it.

"Returns from these transgressions more than offset the costs of the people doing the inventory," he said.

BURLEY — The president of the Interim Regional Airport Board of Trustees told the Burley Chamber of Commerce Monday he was "not discouraged" in his efforts to establish a new eight-county airport despite what he termed the attempt of Twin Falls officials to portray the board as "coming in through front doors, back doors and bottom doors."

"Twin Falls has just about shot its wad," George Forschler told the businessmen at the luncheon meeting, "and we haven't opened any doors yet."

Forschler pledged the interim board would release information to the public soon, pinning down the actual cost of the proposed site, including information on possible state and federal funding.

A Twin Falls County Commissioner said two weeks ago the airport would cost up to $12 million. Other estimates in the public debate over the airport have ranged as low as $7 million, with federal funds bearing up to 55 per cent of the cost.

Forschler said Monday the figure of $10 million to $12 million was too high, even after taking into account inflationary factors since 1966 when a cost estimate was first drawn up by an engineering firm.

The president said he would begin to make personal appearances in the eight-county region to answer questions about the airport, with his first visit set to the Jerome Chamber of Commerce this Wednesday. He said he had plans to video tape statements for broadcast in Magic Valley as well as appearances on "open mike" radio programs.

Forschler said the interim board would make no attempt to certify a one mill levy on local tax payers to finance the airport until its members were chosen in county elections.

The present board, appointed by the governor, enjoys all the powers to be granted the permanent board including taxation authority. Forschler said the board would decline to use the taxing power granted it, however, since its members were not elected representatives of local taxpayers.

A referendum to decide the question of whether to establish a regional airport authority is set for Oct. 26. If voters approve the measure, a special election will be called to coincide with the Aug., 1972, primary elections to choose permanent representatives to the board.

SHOSHONE — The overnight mail service available to Shoshone area residents will include Pocatello, Magic Valley, Idaho Falls, Boise, Ogden and Salt Lake City, according to Postmaster William Haux.

However, in order to meet the next-day delivery, mail must be deposited by 5 p.m. on weekdays in business areas or at collection points.

This is the new service recently announced by Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, for first class mail.

Luncheon launches UF drive

TWIN FALLS — United Fund volunteers launched their largest fund campaign ever today with a noon luncheon meeting at the Turf Club in which chairman James Sinclair discussed plans for the $112,000 drive.

Division chairmen, team captains, United Fund officers and volunteer workers began their first collection efforts this afternoon following the kickoff luncheon.

Darl Gleed, executive director, said about 300 workers will be participating in this year's campaign.

Jack Muldoon, past president of United Fund, served as master of ceremonies today with Sinclair explaining drive procedure to the volunteers.

An 18-minute film on United Fund activities was also presented and Mayor Frank Feldtman issued a proclamation designating October as United Fund Month in Twin Falls.

Two divisions of the drive have already been launched. These include the special gifts section chairmanship by Ivan Skinner and the Blue Chips division under the direction of Fred Razler. Each division plans to collect a sizeable percentage of the total $112,000.

New Jerome park on river opens

By CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News Writer

JEROME — A ribbon cutting ceremony Monday noon officially opened the unnamed recreational area in the Snake River Canyon below the Jerome Golf Course south of Jerome.

Lou Moldenhauer, Twin Falls, past division lieutenant governor for Kiwanis International, and Charles Blake, Idaho Fish and Game Dept. representative, cut the ribbon across the road leading to the site.

Visitors on hand for the ceremonies were the Jerome County Commissioners, Jerome Mayor Jack Russell, Howard Johnson from the Idaho Department of Highways Shoshone office, Mike Green, Bureau of Land Management; Neil McNeely and Gary Hall of the Jerome Rod and Gun Club, and members of the Jerome Key Club, the Jerome Kiwanis Club and four members of the Burley Kiwanis Club.

Following ceremonies, lunch was served at the park site in the canyon and Marshall Everheart, who has been working on the project for 11 years, told those at the dedication that there are no definite plans for the development of the 40 acres, but that landscape architects and the Bureau of Land Management are working on site development.

The project, 11 years in the making, has been complicated by such things as rights of way for property and construction of the road which was heavily damaged during spring run-off this year. Through the efforts of the Kiwanis Club, the State Highway Department repaired the road this summer and the cooperation of the Idaho Fish and Game Dept. was gained for maintenance of the road.

Everheart asked the help of the Jerome Key Club members in developing of the area. The Kiwanis Club plans to build a trail along the river for horses and trail bikes that will join the Scott property purchased by the Idaho Fish and Game Dept. five years ago and is located two miles downstream.

Don Allen, past president of the Jerome Kiwanis Club, said he hopes the area will be ready by Easter.

Also at the gathering Allen officially turned over the presidency of the Jerome Kiwanis Club to Nile Darling.

Councilmen view Boise race track

GOODING — Mayor Harley Crippen and members of the Gooding City Council attended races at Firebird Raceway near Boise Saturday to explore the possibility of using the Gooding Airport for racing.

Bill New, owner of the Boise track, has proposed that the north-south and diagonal runways at the Gooding airport be used for racing. Crippen said he thought the proposal "has possibilities."

New will meet with the council in Gooding during the winter. No action will be taken until approval of the Federal Aviation Administration is received.

diversion

Aldrich Bowler, Bliss, said most of the springs in the Hagerman Valley already are used in fish hatchery development. He said "this is one canyon which has not been destroyed" and that the U. S. Department of Parks is under pressure to provide places for people to go. As a national monument the Box Canyon area would provide enjoyment for people for years to come, Bowler said.

Speaking in favor of the national monument concept, John Merriam, Pocatello, said a national park would preserve the area for benefit of the entire public instead of for a "short term gain" for a few. Karl Holte, Idaho State University biology professor, said a hatchery would further pollute the Snake River and that it is "not patriotic to ruin another 'gem in the Gem State.'"

Archie Teater, Hagerman Valley artist, said he has been watching the beauty of the area go downhill year by year and said that he, too, is in favor of a national park.

Robert Erkins, president of the Magic Valley Recreational Council and a fish hatchery operator, read telegrams from Idaho's congressional delegation, including Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who said, "I certainly join in urging that no permits be issued until it can be determined whether the Thousand Springs area can be designated as a national monument. I strongly support this concept for future management of the area."

State Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, D-Tuttle, appeared at the hearing and explained House Bill 69, which if found to be constitutional, would allow for state preservation of the area. Ravenscroft, who spoke in favor of a state park, said the bill would allow the state the right to retain water for its own or public use.

Robert Bell, regional fisheries biologist for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, read a statement which said, "The department would like the applicants to list economic benefits the public would derive from their respective projects.

Geothermal project outlined

BURLEY — Edwin C. Schlander, manager of the Raft River Electric Co-op, told the Burley Chamber of Commerce Monday that the United States faces an "energy crisis in the next 10 years," and outlined tentative plans for a geothermal electric power plant near Bridge to help meet the anticipated demands.

The Raft River Electric firm recently filed with the Idaho Water Administration Department for 50 second feet of water for planning purposes in the Raft River Valley at two separate sites about two miles west of Bridge near the Raft River Narrows. Plans call for as many as 32 separate wells to be dug into areas surrounding two natural hot springs.

The electric firm became interested in geothermal plant a year ago, Schlander said, at the site of the two hot springs. The two water sources have been active for 25 years, he said, with no reduction in pressure.

Schlander said one of the benefits of this type of plant is the relative lack of environmental destruction.

A geothermal plant in the area would take the steam from the springs and use it to power turbines to drive electrical generators. Schlander likened the project to "taking Old Faithful in Yellowstone and keeping the water under pressure."

Geologists who have surveyed the site, the electrical official said, have given "top priority for prospecting." Still, he said, several problems remain before the plant can progress beyond the planning stage.

A great amount of "risk capital" is needed, according to Schlander, to probe the area around the hot springs. He held out some hope, however, for federal funding assistance.

Another problem he noted is legal classification of the rights to the hot springs. Under present law, if the sites are designated as water, the state owns the rights to them, Schlander said, while if they are specified to be minerals, the federal government exercises control.

Schlander said he hoped the sites would fall into a third unnamed classification since "it's heat we are after."

Another problem with the proposed site would be its uncompetitive cost as compared with other existing power facilities. Because of this and the other problems involved it is unlikely that the geothermal plant could be in operation before 1976 or 1977.

The proposed project, only the second of its kind in the country, would produce an estimated 250 megawatts of power for the immediate area, making it the third largest plant in Idaho.

Air pollution 48 index

The pollution reading taken by the staff of the South Central Health District at the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today.

Federal pollution regulation says pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms over any 24-hour period and should not be permitted to rise above 200 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Forecast

Today: Excellent
Tonight: Good
Tomorrow: Excellent

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution. Burning as permitted by law should be curtailed when the air is poorly able to disperse pollutants.

WHEN a husband and wife fight, then make up, it's far more likely the husband will admit he was wrong. A study by the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan shows that, definitely. No matter who was really at fault, the husband tends to say, okay, I goofed, let's forget it. The wife tends to say, never mind, you were wrong, but I forgive you. However, on those rare occasions when a wife does apologize, our Love and War man says she is more apt to be sincere. When a husband apologizes, it's likely he is merely, in the words of old Ambrose Bierce, "laying the foundation for a future offense."
