Rogers gives Mideast plan

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers laid down a six-point plan for Middle East peace today, urging a new effort by Israel and the Arabs toward mutual accommodation.

In a policy speech to the General Assembly, Rogers also said the U.S. two-China policy would not divide China further but would give representation in the United Nations to all the Chinese people.

He emphasized that Washington's movement toward better relations with Communist China would not lessen U.S. cooperation with the Soviet Union. He pointed to the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) and the four-power agreement on West Berlin as evidence of this.

Rogers said he saw no need for the world disarmament conference proposed by Moscow, especially with prospects bright for the Peking government to take part in the United Nations, where arms reduction is a continuing issue.

Rogers listed these six points for Middle East peace:

A Suez Canal agreement would be merely a step toward full implementation of peace terms in a final agreement to be worked out under U.N. special peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring.

Maintenance of the cease-fire is in the interest of all concerned and a common understanding on this issue should be found between Israel and the Arabs.

It should be possible to meet the principal concerns of both sides on establishing a zone of withdrawal from the present cease-fire lines.

Both sides must have confidence that the agreement will not be violated and that adequate machinery will be provided for prompt detection of any infractions.

"The reopening and operation of the Suez Canal would require Egyptian personnel east of the canal (the Israeli side). It is understandable, too, that normal activities should be pursued in as much of the zone evacuated as possible. The question of an Egyptian military presence east of the canal is one on which the parties hold opposite views. But here, too, the possibilities of some compromise are not negligible."

"The United States has long held that the canal should be open to passage for all nations without discrimination."

Extra tot help made available to T.F. schools

TWIN FALLS — A state education official said today that the state has made available funds to pay the salary of a fourth kindergarten teacher for Twin Falls, should school trustees accept the funds.

The Twin Falls school trustees will meet at 8 p.m. today to consider adoption of a kindergarten program using federal funds funneled through the state to pay salaries of kindergarten teachers.

Dr. Roy Truby, special assistant to the Idaho superintendent of public instruction, in charge of allocating funds for the kindergarten programs, said today that a fourth slot had become available, giving the Twin Falls School District a chance to use four teachers.

Under the program the teachers' salaries would be paid by the state-distributed funds, leaving the cost of providing rooms, equipment and transportation to the local districts.

Truby said the Twin Falls schools initially had been allocated three slots for kindergarten teachers.

But these slots were reallocated, Truby said today, only after hearing press accounts that the Twin Falls district would not participate, after a show of hands at a District 3 Trustees meeting at which Twin Falls school personnel reportedly indicated they would not participate, and after verbal corroboration from Twin Falls Supt. George Staudaher about Sept. 15 that the district would not participate.

Dr. Truby today released a copy of a letter from Staudaher written on Sept. 16 formally turning down the offer of kindergartens.

The letter of rejection was received in Boise on Sept. 20, at about the same time, Truby said, that Staudaher called Truby, requesting the letter be "held" because the district was then reconsidering the issue.

By that time, Truby said, Twin Falls' kindergarten teacher slots had been reallocated to other districts.

Truby said that he called Staudaher Wednesday, telling him that three slots and possibly a fourth would be available to the Twin Falls Schools.

Today, Truby said the fourth slot was definite.

Strike lull pleases aide

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said today that activity in September declined sharply. He called it a "heartening response" to President Nixon's new economic program.

Hodgson cited Bureau of Labor Statistics data showing a steadily downward trend in strike activity during September.

Hodgson noted, however, that strikes which began last Friday by 80,000 coal miners and 45,000 East and Gulf port longshoremen could reverse this trend.

Japan feels 'Nixon shock'

HONOLULU (UPI)—A Japanese news executive said today that Japan is experiencing "Nixon Shock" as a result of the U.S. President's plan to visit Peking and his economic policy.

In an address prepared for delivery at the 1971 United Press International Conference of Editors and Publishers, Shintaro Fukushima, President of the Kyodo News Service and the Japan Times, said the China issue was the most serious problem for Japan.

Fukushima told the opening working session of the 12th Annual UPI Conference that President Nixon's unannounced visit to Peking and his new dollar policies constituted a "double punch," coming within one month of each other.

"On top of that, the announcement on the new Nixon economic policy was delivered on August 15, Japan's surrender anniversary," he said. "Some Japanese should have wondered, with a rueful smile, whether this was not this American answer to Pearl Harbor."

2 Valley escapees sought

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley law enforcement officers were seeking two escapees from the Idaho state penitentiary Monday after one of the men was reportedly seen in Twin Falls.

Raymond Ray Butler, 21, Twin Falls, and Clarence Lee Bender, 20, Hayburn, escaped from the state prison in Boise Sunday night.

Both were serving sentences for first-degree burglary.

Police Chief Frank Barnett said his department received a report Butler was seen in Twin Falls early Monday morning and had picked up his wife who resides at 631 Blue Lakes Blvd.

Hijack rampage kills 3

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Three persons were shot and killed today in an aborted attempt to hijack a six-passenger charter airplane to the Bahamas, the FBI said.

A would-be hijacker shot and killed the charter plane pilot along with a woman believed to be the hijacker's wife, then shot and killed himself.

Sources said the twin-engine Hawk Commander was on a flight from Nashville to Atlanta with a pilot, copilot and three hijackers aboard when it was ordered to the Bahamas. The six-passenger plane stopped at Jacksonville for refueling.

The third hijacker was taken into custody by the FBI and he said there was a bomb aboard the plane. Agents removed a blue box from the brown and white aircraft owned by Big Brothers Aircraft of Nashville and placed it on a corridor of the runway about 200 yards away.

An agent said the FBI was informed of the hijacking in progress and when the plane landed agents shot out the tires. He said they used a bullhorn to ask that everyone leave the plane and then heard gunshots.

He said the pilot was shot in the back through the seats and the shooting of the woman took place in the rear of the plane. The hijacker then apparently shot himself, was rushed to a hospital, but died in the ambulance.

In Nashville, a spokesman for the Metro police department said the plane had been chartered routinely by the man Sunday. He and his wife showed up at the airport with the third man about 2 a.m. for the flight.

But then, said officer John Hutchison, the wife started screaming that she was being kidnapped, and the husband pulled a gun and ordered the pilot into the plane.

Police said the names of the would-be hijackers were being withheld pending notification of next of kin. The man and his wife reportedly were from Nashville.

Given no choice, Viets back Thieu

SAIGON (UPI)—President Nguyen Van Thieu rolled up a landslide reelection victory today, according to official figures for South Vietnam's uncontested presidential vote, and he called it a national achievement.

"This is really a very good achievement of our nation and our people in the building and implementing of democracy," Thieu said in a statement issued from Independence Palace.

Thieu, 48, noted that there had been a higher recorded turnout of voters—87.7 per cent—for any nationwide election since he first ran for office in 1967. That year 83 per cent turned out at the polls. Meantime, a group of influential backers of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky also issued a statement in which they called the election "a farce."

They demanded that the United States halt direct support of Thieu's government because the election was conducted with the support of Ambassador (Ellsworth) Bunker and in an atmosphere of discontent to the people and government repression.

"We do not recognize the leadership of Mr. Nguyen Van Thieu," the statement said. "We do not recognize all the prefabricated results of the election which Mr. Thieu's police machinery organized and controlled.

The statement was issued by the "People's Force Against Dictatorship," a committee formed last week of influential Ky backers and other opponents of Thieu.

The government Election Information Center published a preliminary nationwide count that showed Thieu got 5,778,074 votes, or 91.51 per cent of the total of 6,311,853 cast.

The center said 353,148 votes were invalid and counted against Thieu. That amounted to 5.5 per cent of the vote. There was some mystery about the remaining 3 per cent. Officials said there were some "missing ballots" and it would be one or two days before all the votes could be accounted for.

Thieu had said he would quit if he didn't get more than 50 per cent of the vote, but the huge plurality of ballots counted gave him an overwhelming vote of confidence.

The results showed the grip the Thieu-appointed province chiefs have on the countryside. All of them are army colonels and all of them were under orders to get out the vote and make sure it went to the president.

Talks on in dock shutdown

By United Press International

Striking longshoremen and shipping association representatives resumed negotiations on the East and West Coasts today in an effort to settle strikes which have shut down most of the nation's seaports.

Also meeting in the East were policy makers of the United Mine Workers Union (UMW) whose members walked off the job in 20 states Friday after their contracts expired.

Leaders of the striking International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILA) and their employer group, the Pacific Maritime Association, met separately Sunday with J. Curtis Counts, head of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

GI units come home

SAIGON (UPI)—With the South Vietnamese presidential election out of the way, the U.S. command today announced one of its biggest American troop cutbacks in two years. U.S. withdrawal had been slowed in anticipation of guerrilla attacks during the election campaign.

Four full battalions and three smaller units ended their combat role today, one day after the election, a move which will reduce U.S. troop strength by 3,215 men. It was the largest troop standdown since the withdrawals began July 1, 1969, under President Nixon's troop withdrawal program, and it was the first withdrawal of ground combat units since Sept. 15.

The command announced that as of the end of September, 212,500 Americans remained in South Vietnam, the lowest number since February 1966, when there were 268,000.

The withdrawal announcement coincided with a victory announcement in military operations along the Cambodian border. Spokesmen reported allied forces reopened vital Highway 22 from Saigon to the Cambodian rubber country on Sunday after rolling back a weeklong North Vietnamese offensive.

U.S. helicopter gunships participating in the rollback detected a North Vietnamese Army force inside the South Vietnamese border and reported killing 28 NVA

Attacks wrong target

SAIGON (UPI)—A U.S. fighter-bomber that apparently zeroed in on the wrong electronic beam killed 11 South Vietnamese soldiers near Krok, Cambodia, early Sunday, allied field officers reported. Twelve South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded.

UPI correspondent Kenneth J. Braddick was told the plane, apparently an F4, was flying in support of the allied counteroffensive along the Cambodian border.

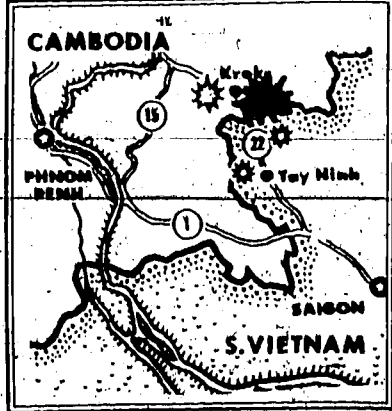

The plane apparently boomed in on an American-built homing device. Just how it was being used was not clear. An investigation was under way.

"The aircraft struck very close to its assigned target," the U.S. Command in Saigon said in an official statement. "However, shortly before delivery an ARVN (South Vietnamese) element moved into the area. An investigation is under way."

U.S. and Vietnamese artillery, fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships softened up the area between Tay Ninh, 85 miles northwest of Saigon, and the Cambodian town of Krok, 35 miles north of Tay Ninh up Highway 22. In Tay Ninh, which has been the staging center for the counteroffensive to the abortive North Vietnamese push that began Sept. 25, Communist rockets hit the allied base camp early Sunday, killing one American soldier and wounding two others.

But there was little fighting and the battle appeared to be waning as the road-clearing sweep began.

Rupert worker killed

RUPERT — Santos Vergara, 26, Rupert, was killed Sunday when an aluminum sprinkler pipe he and his brother Vincent were holding, touched a high voltage power line.

Minidoka County sheriff's deputies said the Vergara brothers saw a rabbit run into the pipe. They lifted it to shake the rabbit out, and the end of the pipe struck the overhead power line.

Santos Vergara was killed while his brother Vincent sustained burns. Vincent was taken to Minidoka Memorial Hospital where he was listed in serious condition today.

Santos Vergara was born Oct. 10, 1944, in Spain, and had been working in the Rupert area for the past two years on a number of sheep ranches. He lived with a brother and his family in Rupert.

Mr. Vergara's parents and several brothers and sisters are living in Spain.

Funeral services will be announced by Walk Mortuary, Rupert.

Keep priests single, Eastern cardinal asks

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—An Eastern patriarch whose church allows married men to serve as priests urged the Third International Synod of Bishops today to keep the Roman Catholic priesthood celibate.

Cardinal Stephanos I Sidarous, the copro-patriarch of Alexandria, Egypt, said: "I don't think it would be wise to abandon celibacy... a celibate priesthood is more valuable than a half-time clergy."

Sidarous church is one of several Eastern rite churches which returned to full communion with Roman Catholics in the 16th and 17th centuries, keeping their own traditions, liturgy and rites, including the right to ordain married men.

"Our church has five married men," Sidarous said. The youngest, he said, was 55.

Sidarous said he demanded his married priests be mature men with exemplary family and professional lives—with a pension or private fortune to support them.

"How can a married priest divide his time between duty and family?" he asked. "Can he visit the sick with the same ease as a celibate? Can he accept a parish far from his family? Can he support his family on a priest's salary? And what would be his attitude to families practicing birth control?"

Pope Paul VI did not attend the session today because, Vatican sources said, he is suffering from a slight cold.

General debate continued among 210 cardinals, bishops and other delegates and neared the stage where they will go into committee to deal with the problems of the priesthood.

Delegates intend to meet in committees set up along language lines—Latin, English, German, French, Spanish and Italian.

At first, authorities believed the tough and complex issue of the priesthood would take only two weeks. Another two weeks were set aside for debate on the subject of justice in the world.

However, a Pakistani bishop implied Saturday that the discussion on priesthood, which includes the potentially explosive question of married priests, might go on longer.

"Even three weeks are not enough to elaborate a proper doctrine on the priesthood," said Archbishop Joseph Cordero of Karachi.

So far, Pope Paul VI, who opened the Synod Thursday and has attended each session, has not commented on the meeting. He ignored the subject Sunday when he appeared in St. Peter's Square to bless tourists and pilgrims.

Instead, the Pope called on people around the world to join him in prayer and fasting Sunday on behalf of East Pakistan refugees, especially an estimated 800,000 sick, homeless and hungry children.

The celibacy issue has figured prominently in many of the Synod speeches, with a majority of cardinals and bishops supporting the Pope's upholding the 700-year-old law barring married men from the priesthood.

Justices convene for term

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court opens its new term today with two of its nine seats vacant and no sign of whom or when President Nixon will choose to fill them.

Action on the appeal of the legality of the death penalty and other major constitutional issues has been postponed until the court is at full strength.

Today's session was purely ceremonial, with Chief Justice Warren E. Burger welcoming new attorneys to practice before the justices retired to their private conference room for a week-long discussion of the hundreds of new appeals that have come in since the court adjourned in June.

The results will be announced Oct. 12, the court's first business day, and could include cases challenging the Vietnam War's legality, the right of government employees to strike and more public school desegregation.

For the first time in 34 years, Hugo L. Black was not in his big chair to hear the marshal intone "Oyez, Oyez... the court is now sitting." The soft-spoken justice from Alabama died at 85 on Sept. 25, only eight days after stepping down from the bench.

Also missing was Justice John M. Harlan, 72, who resigned Sept. 23 after 16 years on the nation's highest tribunal. He is being treated for spinal cancer at George Washington University Hospital here. Neither the hospital nor his office would comment on his condition.

She was an active member of the LDS Church and worked for many years in the relief society. She was well-known in the area for her rose garden.

Survivors include her husband, Lynton Predmore, Mesa, Ariz.; four brothers, Bill Bennett, Heyburn; Pat Bennett, Gooding; Casper Bennett, McGill, Nev.; and Horace Bennett, Roy, Utah, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be announced by the Walk Mortuary, Rupert.

Viets vote for Thieu

The overwhelming majority in his favor appeared to be a surprise even to Thieu since he had indicated before the election he expected to get about 60 per cent of the votes.

A Thieu's new four-year term begins Oct. 31. Going into power with him will be Tran Huong, who replaces Ky as vice president, and Prime Minister Khern.

One member of the opposition, National Assembly Deputy Ly-Qui-Chung, said "the election of Mr. Thieu is a humiliation for our people."

The U.S. Embassy has no comment on the outcome, although Ambassador Ellsworth C. Bunker had carried out a series of pre-election meetings in an attempt to turn the election back into a contested race rather than a one-man referendum.

The official election center in Saigon reported complete returns from the city of Dan Nang by 9 p.m. Sunday showing that Thieu received 74.4 per cent of the vote there.

However, UPI correspondent Stewart Kellerman reported from Da Nang at 11 p.m. that officials at City Hall there had not even finished tabulating the number of persons who voted and counting of the ballots would not begin until Monday.

Envoy betrayed 24, Arab account says

By United Press International
An Arab language newspaper in Beirut said Sunday the U.S. Ambassador to Libya first encouraged and then betrayed about 100 young army officers who allegedly conspired to overthrow Premier Col. Muammar el-Khaddafi.

The report published in the usually well-informed An Nahar newsletter could not be confirmed by other sources. But it followed other Arab reports of an attempt to assassinate Khadafi.

Libyan newspapers have denied any attempt against the life of Khadafi and have said he will go to Cairo this week for the meeting of the Arab Federation of Egypt, Libya and Syria.

The presidents of the three Arab states are scheduled to begin talks Monday on military, diplomatic and political strategy in the conflict with Israel. The federation's chiefs of staff met in Cairo on Sunday.

In Jerusalem, the Iarnell cabinet discussed the latest developments on the Middle East amid reports that Israel faced a showdown with the United States over its stand of a possible interim agreement with Egypt on reopening the Suez Canal.

An Nahar, which publishes a daily newspaper, carried the report of the "alleged" U.S. double-dealing in a special news letter which reviews political developments in the Arab world weekly.

in some areas, including Da Nang and Saigon, large wastebaskets in which voters who wished to oppose Thieu had to discard their ballots were placed in sight of election officials and police who were on guard duty at the polling places.

4 persons still wait in old town

MURPHY (UPI) — The four remaining persons in Silver City, Idaho, are not really stranded, Owyhee County Sheriff Tim Nettleton said Sunday.

Nettleton said the road into the semi-ghost town was still blocked by snow drifts after Wednesday's snow storm, and a tractor apparently failed to get it open. Crews also worked Saturday without success to open the road.

He said horseback riders were able to enter the town Saturday and found all four part-time residents well supplied with food—and quite content to stay where they were. They were waiting for Jim Perky, Molba, to arrive for the beginning of his winter watchman's duties in the area.

Nettleton said the four would not leave the area until they were certain the watchman could take over to guard the town during the winter months.

The four are Walt Adams, his wife, Mildredta, Dudley Williams and James Spencer.

Pollution meet set

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI) — Representatives from eight states will meet Oct. 11-14 to talk about mutual air pollution control problems in the west.

The session was called by Lane W. Kirkpatrick, technical secretary to the Colorado Air Pollution Control Commission.

Kirkpatrick said the top policy officials from Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming have been invited to participate.

Question...

My deceased husband was a veteran. I am employed and not eligible for a widow's pension. Do my children have any entitlement to a veteran's pension?

Answer...

If you are ineligible to receive a pension because you have an annual income in excess of that allowed by the Veterans' Administration; this will have no bearing upon any entitlement your children may have to a pension. Any child of your deceased husband who has an income less than $1800 per year may receive a monthly pension until he reaches age 18 if he does not attend college, or until 23 if enrolled in an approved college course. The total income of the children from wages or self employment is not included in computing the $1800 amount.

One child who is eligible for a pension receives $40 per month. Each additional eligible child receives $16. The total amount payable to all of the children is equally divided among them.

Virtuous living fulfillment key

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — President Joseph Fielding Smith, concluding a three-day Mormon world conference Sunday, promised the faithful that all righteous desires could be fulfilled through virtuous living.

Leaving his blessing upon 8,000 members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints from around the world, the 95-year-old Mormon prophet called for unity in following church teachings, many of which had been explained in sermons during the 141st semi-annual conference.

Smith's brief remarks came at the close of the fourth conference since his appointment in January 1970 as president and prophet to three million Mormons. Named an apostle in 1910 at the age of 33, he has spent his life in full-time church service.

"I have sought all my days to keep the commandments," he said. "As I stand now, in what I might call the twilight of life, with the realization that in a not far distant day I shall be called upon to give an account of my mortal stewardship, I bear testimony again of the truth and divinity of this great work."

Church members filling the historic Tabernacle to capacity listened quietly as Smith thanked his co-workers in the hierarchy for their cooperation and support.

President Lee, he said, "is a spiritual giant, with faith like that of Enoch. He has the spirit of revelation and magnifies his calling as a prophet, seer, and revelator."

President N. Eldon Tanner is also one of the noble and great ones," Smith continued. "He is a man of surpassing ability and integrity."

Calling for unity among leaders at all levels, the white-haired churchman said he wanted to bless faithful members. "Just as surely as they continue to walk in paths of truth and virtue," he said, "they shall have the desires of their hearts in righteousness and shall go on to eternal reward in our Father's kingdom in due course."

President Tanner warned the Sunday morning congregation "that if we are to enjoy life to the full there are things we must do, and things which we must not do."

"We are all like Adam," he continued, "in that when we partake of the forbidden fruit or do the things we are commanded not to do, we are ashamed, and we draw away from the church and from God."

Tanner said most of the world's contention, strife and unhappiness was caused by persons refusing to accept and live the Lord's commandments.

Among the speakers preceding President Smith at the concluding session of the traditional meet, were Elders Joseph Anderson and Bruce R. McConkie.

Anderson, an assistant to the Twelve, said that progress in scientific research, education, transportation, communication and medicine had failed to bring order to religious confusion in the world.

"The cure for the ills that beset the world today," Anderson said, "is true religion. We need the humility of prayer, and a determination to learn God's will and keep his commandments."

Collection about done

TWIN FALLS — Collections of real property taxes in Twin Falls County for 1970 payments are 98.8 per cent complete, one of the highest percentages in recent years, County Treasurer Ruth K. Jones said Friday.

She said this is about 5 per cent ahead of collections at this time in 1970 and means a total of $5,326,235.04 has been paid on the 1970 bill. Total collectable taxes for 1970 amounted to $5,387,997.22 which means only about $61,761 is still outstanding.

Delinquent taxes for 1969 and 1968 are continuing to come in, she said. The 1969 outstanding figure is now at $22,700 and the 1968 taxes collected except for $6,070.44, she said.

Mrs. Jones said the books for the county are balanced and disbursements to various taxing districts have been made. She said the county books are open for payment of all delinquent taxes with a 2 per cent penalty and 6 per cent interest required by state law on such payments.

Personal property taxes are also collected by county treasurers under new state law. Mrs. Jones said personal property tax payers have also made a good showing this year with only $2,864.71 of the total tax bill of $433,025.09 to be collected at this time.

Satirist heads busy CSI slate

TWIN FALLS — Famed comedian Pat Paulsen will appear at the College of Southern Idaho at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Fine Arts Auditorium to highlight a busy weeklong agenda of activities for CSI students, according to Jack Sims, student activities chairman.

Paulsen is appearing under the sponsorship of the Social Activities Committee as a major performer in a year-long series of public concerts and similar events. Tickets may be obtained at CSI in advance or at the door on Wednesday evening.

Paulsen's "lecture" is titled "For Decades to Come Centuries Will Pass," giving some idea of the zany nature of his satire.

In other activities this week at CSI, cheerleaders will try out at 4 p.m. Monday in the gymnasium, and the Publications Committee will meet at 1 p.m. in Room 48, Commons Building, in a session open to the student body.

A voter-registration drive is scheduled today and Tuesday this week in the Commons Building, with the Twin Falls League of Women Voters cooperating with the student leadership in urging all eligible students to register and vote.

Intramural football is scheduled at 4 p.m. Tuesday; the Social Committee will meet at noon Wednesday, and the student Senate will convene a two-hour session at 1 p.m. Thursday in the student conference room of the Commons.

The Circle K-Girls Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the conference room, and all students are invited to attend the movie "The Great Bank Robbery," to be shown at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Fine Arts Auditorium.

The student traffic court has scheduled its weekly meeting for noon Friday.

A men's singles pool tournament is scheduled to begin Oct. 20. Competitors are urged to sign up in Sims' office in the Commons.

Crash hurts Boisean

TWIN FALLS — Richard Pendleton, Boise, suffered a severe scalp laceration Friday night in a traffic accident three and one-half miles east of Twin Falls on Addison Avenue East.

Sheriff's officers said Pendleton's car crashed into the rear of an alfalfa products truck which had pulled onto the highway from a driveway and was still traveling slowly. The truck was driven by Terry Lee Thelme, 42, Twin Falls. He was not injured.

Officers said the collision forced the sedan under the rear of the truck, crushing the top. Damage was estimated at $1,500 to the Pendleton vehicle and at $50 to the truck. Pendleton was treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and released.

Fluorides said under allowable

TWIN FALLS — Tests taken in September by the Idaho Department of Health show the fluoride level in the Twin Falls city water system to be below the recommended amounts.

Department officials advised Twin Falls City Manager Jean Milar, the reading on Sept. 17 was .42 part per million, compared to one part per million recommended by the Health department.

Twin Falls approved a fluoridation program in 1965, and the health department suggested the city take steps to bring the amount up to standard. Milar said he plans to present the information to the city council members Monday night for their consideration. If fluoride is to be added, it would be placed in the water at two locations along with present chlorination, he said.

"Each of us is either a part of the problem or a part of the answer," Vandenberg said.

Rehabilitation aide takes post

J.R. PEREZ

5 escape

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — Five East Germans fled across the mine-infested demarcation line to West Germany during the weekend, West German police said today.

TWIN FALLS — J.R. Perez, Wilder, is Idaho Vocational Rehabilitation Services representative working with Mexican-American and other farm workers in Southwest Idaho. Ray W. Turner, agency director, Boise, announced. He reported for duty today.

Perez is at the Twin Falls Vocational Rehabilitation Service office, 1039 Blue Lakes Blvd. Designated a rehabilitation agent, he will travel to area communities to discuss the program and to interview applicants.

Farm workers and their dependents suffering physical or mental impairments, professionally diagnosed, are eligible for Vocational Rehabilitation services. An estimated 10,000 Mexican-Americans, including seasonal workers, are in Southwest Idaho.

Perez moved from Texas to Wilder in 1958, engaging in agricultural employment. For four and one-half years, 1965-69, he was job counselor and area director in the Woodburn, Oregon Office of Economic Opportunity.

Applicants meeting physical or mental eligibility requirements are eligible for a variety of services designed to return them to employment or to qualify them for employment.

Special assistance is being provided Mexican-Americans and other farm workers under a federal vocational rehabilitation grant. Perez will visit labor camps, make personal calls and take references from various community agencies in the process of implementing the program.

Lindsay Is A Candidate

WASHINGTON — Although he probably will continue to issue coy denials up and down the corridors of the New Politics, New York's Mayor John Lindsay already is a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination — and has privately admitted it.

To get specific, he has confided his decision to former Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, a longtime Republican patron of the Lindsay career, and to what knowledgeable sources describe as two high officials of the New York State Democratic Committee. From the highest levels of the Democratic National Committee comes the succinct, if not particularly enthusiastic, word: "Lindsay is in the race."

Meanwhile, Lindsay is described by an important diplomat at the Canadian Embassy as "working like hell" to get a visa for a visit to Communist China. His sponsor in this project is a man of considerable international influence — Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau. Lindsay would like to precede President Nixon to Peking, but will have to settle for a later visit. The Chinese have made it clear to Trudeau that they are not about to insult Richard Nixon.

However, Trudeau has all but assured Lindsay that he'll be admitted to Peking before the Democratic national convention next summer.

In going after the Democratic nomination, Lindsay must take the obvious — indeed, the only — course. He will run in assorted Presidential primaries next year, particularly including California's. His campaign will be directed against Maine's Sen. Ed Muskie, not only because Muskie is the front runner but because Lindsay strategists are not impressed with the other announced and unannounced candidates.

If Teddy Kennedy decides to run, it will be a whole new ball game, but Lindsay people regard this eventuality as remote.

Lindsay is not expected to announce before late December or early January. Meanwhile, he will continue to traipse around the country, exhorting Democrats to fight for changes in the system.

As a brand new convert to the party, Lindsay will claim that only by nominating him can the Democrats offer the electorate a genuine hope that there will be changes.

The mayor of course has been made well aware that other contenders for the nomination have no intention of handing him the nomination by default. All have welcomed him to the party, but added that they see his role as that of a worker in the vineyard. More recently, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, who probably will run, is reported to have remarked wryly that "John can't go and hide from his record as mayor."

Neither has Lindsay's candidacy produced scenes of wild glee in the Teddy Kennedy camp. Kennedy people fervently hope the primaries will produce a blood-letting slugfest match; and they're looking toward an eleventh-hour chance to draft their tiger. With the Kennedy-like Lindsay in the scrap, this strategy almost surely would come unstuck.

Humphrey has sounded the keynote of the campaign other Democratic candidates will wage against Lindsay. Indeed, they would be derelict in their duty to themselves if they failed to make Lindsay's record in City Hall the No. 1 primary issue. Lindsay's cosmetic credentials are impeccable, but his maladministration of poor New York City makes the Muskies, Humphreys, McGovern look like latter-day Winston Churchills. Eash has his weaknesses, but none has been so unflinchingly unsuccessful as an administrator, at enormous cost to the taxpayers, as Mr. Profile.

This blunk and even frightening prospect of having to defend his public stewardship is unlikely to deter John Lindsay, however. Perhaps because so much else in politics is ugly, a handsome face is still an asset on the hustings. To a lot of voters glued to the TV tube, Lindsay will look good, like a candidate should.

I also have a suspicion that more politicians would whisper more state secrets in my ear if I were appointed with a splash of Naughty Nights cologne, and my well-nourished frame accoutred in Nile green slacks, purple jacket, and a chemise purchased from my friendly neighborhood awning maker.

My unense is nowhere more acute than when I repair to a sweaty spa entitled the Watergate Health Club. The garments displayed by the more with-it members constitute a veritable rainbow of haberdashery. With the exception of a few raffish journalists, these are all solid men of distinction, and I ask myself — if they can adorn themselves in such a riot of color and style, should I not at least buy a red, yellow, purple and green-cello necktie?

Admittedly, I might be at a physical disadvantage to Chief Justice Burger in donning something akin to his purple hound's tooth sports jacket and yellow slacks. Justice Burger played college football out in Minnesota and he still looks capable of scumpering 80 yards through the entire Vikings team for the winning touchdown. Vitiligo

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a skin disease known as vitiligo. In other words, I have white spots on my body. Is there anything I can do about it? Is it harmful? What causes it? — M.T.

There probably isn't much, if anything, you can do about it. It isn't harmful. The cause is not known.

There is no indication that injury to the skin, such as severe sunburn and blistering, can be followed by such white areas in the skin, but vitiligo (vittle-EYE-go) has also occurred when there is no record of any such damage to the skin.

Pernicious anemia has been reported to be more common in patients with vitiligo than others — but in other instances there is no connection between the two ailments.

information, you can correctly draw the conclusion that we just don't know very much about vitiligo. In some skin areas, pigment (coloring matter) simply doesn't accumulate, so you have white spots.

These are more obvious in blacks or people with normally dark skin, but the trouble can afflict light-skinned folks, too.

There is no indication that the condition is harmful in any way, except to one's appearance. The light patches may spread, or may stay the same, or may even go away spontaneously — but since we don't know the cause, we don't know why these reactions occur.

There are drugs that can be taken by mouth, in conjunction with very careful exposure to the sun or ultra-violet light, but it is a tedious and unreliable process.

COMMENT Stick And Carrot

Christian Science Monitor

The corporate community has long been thought of as populated by the manors of robber barons. More in some periods than in others. And with varying degrees of fairness.

So it should come as no surprise that the corporate community today is under attack — worryingly so for some corporate leaders, who view the antibusiness bias of intellectual youths with particular unease.

The chief charge against business today is not that it hoards profits to itself, but that it lacks social conscience.

One clear sign of business mistrust was the setting up of a Clearinghouse for Professional Responsibility by the Ralph Nader group. The clearinghouse was intended to provide engineers, lawyers, and scientists in industry (and government) a way to "blow the whistle" on practices of their employers that worked against the public interest. A survey last March by Product Engineering, the McGraw-Hill publication, showed that many engineers thought yes, they would turn to the Nader clearinghouse if the company persisted in making an unsafe product or refused to adopt cost-cutting advances that could save money for the consumer.

The Nader clearinghouse poses tough ethical issues about company-public loyalty which most workers, and certainly their employers, would rather avoid. For one thing, would the system be proof against a malcontented worker with an imagined grievance against the company? And would workers want to risk exposure, despite the clearinghouse's avowals of anonymity?

A second major sign of concern over the corporate conscience image recently surfaced — this time within industry itself. Xerox Corporation has just announced a half-million-dollar program granting social-service leave to employees. The company would sponsor up to a year's leave, at full pay, for employees who want to work in such fields as prison reform or drug-abuse education.

Without doubt, the Xerox program is a gesture of social goodwill. There are questions about its effectiveness, to be sure. One could argue that Xerox's primary contribution to society will always be its product, and that it should not let itself be diverted from concentrating on the cost and effectiveness of its photocopying and related equipment. Or that Xerox is confusing the role of a corporation with that of a foundation.

Nonetheless, the Xerox public service internship program should have a healthy effect within the company's own ranks as well as the corporate community at large, as a sign of willingness to commit talent and resources to social issues outside the boundaries of normal corporate concern.

The Last Parade

Portland Oregonian

Twenty-four major parades held in 1969 cost the city of New York about $1,000,000, according to a report by Major John Lindsay's Council on the Environment. The money went for extra police and the labor required to erect bleachers and review stands, reseed grass and collect litter. Suggestions are now under consideration to require parade sponsors to post a bond which would be used for the expenses of policing and maintaining the route, and to collect $1 a head from every participant.

Meanwhile, the city park department says it can no longer afford to set up bleachers for spectators and warns that unless some solution is worked out, parades may have to be ended altogether. The disappearance of parades may not be a scientific gauge of what is in store for urban America. But when a city like New York can no longer afford to have a parade, the message has a potential impact. This is a nation which loves its parades, and maybe, just maybe, their disappearance may do more to arouse public concern than the warnings of an army of social scientists.

Chamber Of What?

Everybody knows the public image of the Chamber of Commerce in most communities. The Chamber is seen as a grasping group whose primary interest is in finding new payrolls and making more money.

THE IMAGE JUST doesn't jibe with the results of a survey taken by the Pocatello Chamber of its members.

"What really concerns you about the Pocatello area?" the questionnaire asked. Leading all responses was consolidation of local government functions, probably the same thing that most concerns all of us as taxpayers.

What other leading concerns bothered Chamber members? In second place was drug abuse, and third was city beautification — neither subject offering much possibility of profit for the average merchant. Down in fourth place in the results of the survey was new industry, followed by law enforcement, cooperation with ISU, welfare, downtown deterioration, zoning and education.

Most of the concerns expressed by Chamber members clearly reflect an interest in the welfare of the community at large, rather than that of businessmen alone. Most importantly, the Chamber leadership will use the results of the survey to help plan solutions to many of the community problems.

IT'S FINE TO promote Pocatello as a good place to shop and do business in, but we can use more organizations who are willing to wage in and tackle some of the problems we all encounter in living here. The Chamber will continue to have few scoffers and detractors, we suppose, but show us another organization doing as much on behalf of the community as for its own members.

Here's Balance Of Regional Airport Law

Officers of the Twin Falls County Farm Bureau today asked the Times-News to print the non-amended sections of the original Regional Airport bill as a public service. The officers said that when the newspaper printed HB-459 (the bill governing establishment and operation of a regional airport), the non-amended portions were not included, inasmuch as these non-amended portions are still a part of the law as it stands, the Times-News regrets they were not printed and will accept the suggestion of the Farm Bureau officers. The printing of HB-459 was carried on the editorial pages of the Times-News Sept. 26. It is suggested that the non-amended portions printed today be attached to the bill as printed on Sept. 26 in order that a complete picture of the Regional Airport law can be obtained. The following sections of Chapter 8, Regional Airports, Idaho Code, are the non-amended sections of the original bill:

21-801. Purpose — development of regional airports — The purpose of this act is to provide for the development of regional airports in the State of Idaho, with the financial participation of the individual counties to be based on benefits received therefrom. In determining benefits received, it is the expressed intention of the legislature that the following factors be considered: distance from regional airport; population of county; and tax base of county.

regions, consisting of the following counties, to-wit: the northern region shall consist of Benewah, Bonner, Boundary, Kootenai and Shoshone counties; the north-central region shall consist of Clearwater, Idaho, Latah, Lewis and Nez Perce counties; the south-western region shall consist of Ada, Adams, Boise, Canyon, Elmore, Gem, Owyhee, Payette, Valley and Washington counties; the south-central region shall consist of Blaine, Camas, Cassia, Gooding, Jerome, Lincoln, Minidoka and Twin Falls counties; and the eastern region shall consist of Bannock, Bear Lake, Blingham, Bonneville, Butte, Caribou, Clark, Custer, Franklin, Fremont, Jefferson, Lonihi, Madison, Oneida, Power and Teton counties. (Editor's note: The Magic Valley region is the only one considering establishment of a regional field at this time).

21-803. Appointment of boards of trustees. The state department of aeronautics shall, upon the effective date of this act, appoint for each of the five (5) air regions described in section 21-802, an interim board of trustees to consist of one (1) appointee from each legislative district in the region. Members of such boards shall serve without pay until such time as the regional airport authority is established and tax levying authority granted; after which such boards shall be reimbursed for actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of official duties. At the first meeting of each such board, a chairman shall be selected from the membership of the respective board. Such interim boards shall serve in such capacity until their successors are elected and qualified as provided in section 21-806, and such boards shall exercise all powers and duties granted to the permanent board of trustees under section 21-807.

21-804. Degree of financial participation by counties. Each interim board of trustees shall, with the advice and assistance of the department of aeronautics, establish a formula for the degree of financial participation in a regional airport authority by each such county in the region based upon the benefits each county would receive therefrom. In establishing the formula, the interim board of trustees shall consider the distance of each county seat from the proposed regional airport, the tax base of each county and the population of each county. Before any election may be held to establish a regional airport authority, the interim board of trustees shall have established, on a percentage basis, the degree of financial participation expected of each county in the region. The board shall, in addition, determine the location of the proposed regional airport.

21-810. Records, Audits, Bonds — The board shall provide for the proper and safekeeping of its permanent records and for the recording of the action of the authority. It shall keep a true and accurate account of its receipts and an annual audit shall be made of its books, records and accounts. All officers and employees authorized to receive or retain the custody of money or to sign vouchers, checks, warrants or evidence of indebtedness binding upon the authority shall furnish surety bond for the faithful performance of their duties and the faithful accounting for all moneys that may come into their hands in an amount to be fixed and in a form to be approved by the board.

21-811. Purpose — exemption from taxation. It is hereby found, determined, and declared that the creation of a regional airport authority is in all respects for the benefit of the people of the state of Idaho, for the improvement of their welfare and prosperity, and for the promotion of their transportation, and is a public purpose and a matter of statewide concern and that projects operated by authorities are essential parts of the public transportation system, and that such authorities will be performing essential governmental functions in the exercise of the powers conferred upon them by this act. The state of Idaho declared that authorities shall be required to pay no taxes or assessments upon any property acquired by them or under their respective jurisdictions, control, possession or supervision, or upon the activities of authorities in the operation and maintenance of projects, or upon any charges, fees, revenues or other income received by authorities except motor vehicle fuel and aviation fuel taxes, and that the bonds and notes of authorities and the income therefrom shall at all times be exempt from taxation,

Season schedule expanded for 'Hollywood Theatre' series

Snake slips grip

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The non-commercial television network's "Hollywood Television Theatre," which has produced such notable works as "The Andersonville Trial" and "U.S.A.," next week begins a deservedly expanded 1971-72 schedule. And viewers can catch some choice plays.

In addition to its usual full-length productions, which have become highlights of the public broadcasting service network, the "Hollywood Television Theatre" this season will offer 15 one-hour presentations, beginning next Thursday with Murray Schisgal's "The Typists," starring Eli Wallach and Anne Jackson. They created the roles-off-Broadway-in-1963.

As the summary notes, the play "takes place in a typical office where Miss Jackson, a longtime employee of a company offering typing services, breaks in a new typist played by Wallach. Through their random conversation, these two strangers in just one day are able to learn more about themselves and each other."

Other one-hour productions in this series include:

Oct. 14, "The Police," by Stanislaw Mrozek, a Polish playwright whose televised play is described as "a black comedy satire about a fictitious country where the police have finally reached a state of absolute law and order. There is only one revolutionary left in the prison and the play begins when he decides that is wrong. He plans the confession and then everything gets out of control as the police desperately try to justify their existence." The cast includes Bob Dishy, Fred Gwynne, Murray Hamilton, John McGiver and Neva Patterson.

—On Oct. 21, "Lemonade," by James Prideaux, with Martha Scott and Eileen Herlie as "two matronly ladies in suburban America on a hot Memorial Day who separately take it into their heads to go out and sell lemonade at the side of a highway for two cents a glass. Through their conversation with each other, the viewer gets an incisive insight into their lives."

—On Oct. 28, "Birdbath," by Leonard Maltz, a psychological drama about "a struggling young writer working in a New York restaurant-as-a-ouncer and a girl who works in the same restaurant as a waitress." James Farentino and Patty Duke are the stars.

—"Beginning To End: An Anthology of the Works of Samuel Beckett," with Irish actor Jack MacGowan in a condensed version of his recent prizewinning one-man show featuring selections from Beckett writings.

—"Neighbors," by Arkady Leokum, concerning "the encounter between a white couple in an affluent neighborhood who are selling their home to a black couple." The stars are Andrew Duggan, Jane Wyatt, Raymond St. Jacques and Cicely Tyson.

—"Enemies," also by Arkady Leokum, and described as "a comedy about a customer who has come to the same restaurant for five years to eat dinner and to make the waiter's life miserable. The play is about the worm turning." Sam Jaffe portrays the waiter and Ned Glass the customer.

—"The Picture," by Eugenio Ionesco, "a wild farce about a rich man who wants to make life beautiful by buying art from a young, poor painter."

The full-length productions of the "Hollywood Television Theatre" will begin in January with a two-hour offering of the 1910 Percy Mackaye play "The Scarecrow," regarded by some as an American classic, and starring Gene Wilder as "a scarecrow miraculously brought to life as an instrument of revenge but who instead learns the values of love and the importance of being alive." The cast also includes Elisha Cook, Will Geer, Nina Foch, Pete Duel, Ann Doran and Peter Kasiner.

Satchmo's trials with pot related in letter to writer

LONDON (UPI) — It might have been the credo of any one of the current crop of rock superstars.

"We always looked at pot as a sort of medicine, a cheap drunk and with much better thoughts than one that's full of liquor. But with the penalties that came, I for one had to put it down though the respect for it ... will stay with me forever."

"I have every reason to say these words and am proud to say them. From experience."

That experience was not this year or even last, but 40 years ago, the writer, no rock star but

Louis Armstrong.

For four decades, as he moved from the relatively narrow celebrity of the jazz world into wider acceptance in show business, Louis kept about 1001, his encounters with "gags," as musicians called it then — and with the law.

But early this year, only months before his death at 71, he told the full story in a letter to British author-critic Max Jones, a personal friend.

It forms a sort of centerpiece to "Louise," a biographical study of Armstrong published by Studio Vista and scheduled for U.S. publication by Little, Brown in November.

Louis was in Los Angeles, appearing at Frank Sebastian's Cotton Club with the Les Elite Orchestra. As many jazzmen of the period, Armstrong had no objection to occasional smoking of "muggles" or "gags."

One night he and drummer Vic Berton, a star in his own right for his work with Red Nichols' Five Pennies, were sharing a "joint" in the club's parking lot between shows.

"Just then two big healthy dicks came from behind a car — nonchalantly — and said to us, we'll take the pouch (cigarette) boys," Armstrong recalled. "So one dick stayed with me until I went into the club and did my last show. He enjoyed it too. Because when he and I were on our way down to the police station we had a heart-to-heart talk."

Medicare costs up $8

WASHINGTON (UPI) — a cost of $800 for an average 12 days of treatment. Starting Jan. 1, 20.5 million Medicare patients will have to pay a larger share of their hospital bills.

Elliot L. Richardson, secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) ordered the step Friday. He blamed rising hospital costs, which he said climbed 13 percent in the Medicare program in 1970.

Starting next year, Medicare patients will have to pay the first $68 of their hospital bills — an increase of $8.

The increase was denounced by William R. Hutton, executive director of the 3-million-member National Council of Senior Citizens, who described it as a "cruel blow to poor elderly people living on Social Security and welfare."

"If the President was really a compassionate man and he cared about old people he would freeze the Medicare (Hospital) deductibles and introduce legislation to remove them altogether," Hutton said.

Richardson said his order emphasized "the urgency of action to put a brake on hospital costs escalation."

The secretary said steps to curb rising hospital costs would be part of Phase II of President Nixon's economic stabilization program, which will follow the current 90-day wage-price freeze.

Richardson noted that about one-fifth of the more than 20 million persons enrolled in the Medicare Program were hospitalized during the past year, at

Einstein's time theory due scientific test on flight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Did Albert Einstein know what he was talking about when he said that time varies according to the motion of the clocks which measure it?

Two physicists will test the theory in a two-day, east-to-west flight around the world starting today.

Dr. Joseph C. Hafele of Washington University, St. Louis, and Dr. Richard E. Keating of the U.S. Naval Observatory in Washington, will carry atomic clocks capable of extremely precise time measurements.

They will travel by commercial jet, changing planes only twice, and when they get back to Washington they will compare the clocks' readings with a master atomic clock at the observatory.

Einstein's theory of relativity will have been proved right if the traveling clocks are running about 100 billionths of a second behind the master clock.

But if they aren't, it may indicate Einstein was wrong or that the experiment was not good enough to tell one way or the other.

The experience might have some bearing on deep space flights, if they ever come about.

For if time behaves as Einstein thought, a round trip lasting 32 earth years at close to the speed of light would age the astronauts only 23 years, while those they left behind of earth would be 88 years older. Einstein's theories have been supported thus far by experiments with radioactive particles conducted in laboratories. However, it was not possible to test his theory precisely outside the laboratory until the development of atomic clocks and jet aircraft.

According to Einstein, time is relative, not absolute.

He noted that a clock on earth is constantly moving with the spinning planet. Thus, a hypothetical observer at the edge of the universe would note that earth time is different from star time.

If this is true, then a clock flying eastward at jet-speed, about 600 miles per hour, added to the earth's spin speed should record less time than a clock on the ground.

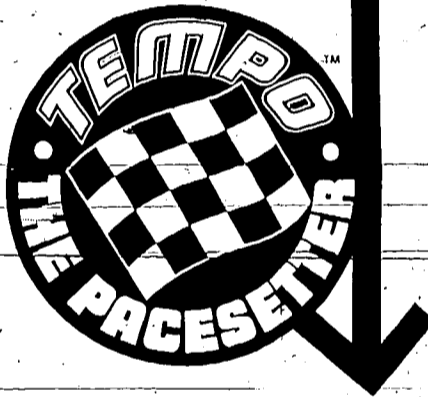

Keating and Hafele will test Einstein's "clock paradox" by leaving Puller International Airport at 7:30 p.m. EDT Monday. They will make stops in London, Frankfurt, Istanbul, Beirut, Tehran, New Delhi, Bangkok, Hong Kong, Tokyo, Honolulu and Los Angeles before returning to Washington early on the morning of Oct. 7.

I-China approach gaining

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Canadian External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said today the "one-China" policy gaining the Peking government in the United Nations and ousting the Chinese Nationalists is gaining strength.

Canada was a staunch backer of the move to give China's U.N. seat to the Peking government, with which it has had diplomatic relations for more than a year. Ottawa is one of the few western capitals with a top-flight diplomatic representation from Peking.

The drive to seat the mainland Chinese in both the General Assembly and the Security Council and expel Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists from all U.N. bodies is headed by Albania with 20 co-sponsors.

The United States, in opposition, is willing to accept Peking's seating but is seeking to require a two-thirds assembly vote if the Nationalists are to be expelled.

Sharp, who told newsmen he had conferred with more than 20 delegations during a week here, said, "I said when I came here there was a good chance for the one-China policy. I think now there is a better chance. The strong impression I've gained in my interviews here is that there is growing strength for the one-China policy. The impression is that we are gaining more and more support. I think our chances are improving steadily."

Vote sign-up set for CSI

TWIN FALLS — A voter registration drive is scheduled Tuesday and Wednesday at the College of Southern Idaho, with the help of the League of Women Voters, according to CSI student-body President Larry Stamps.

Stamps said League "personnel and student representatives will register all students and other 18 years old and above under the new state voting law which allows students attending CSI to list Twin Falls as their residence for the purpose of registering and voting.

The registrars will be available in the Commons Building from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Tuesday and from 2 to 6 p.m. next Wednesday, Stamps said.

JOHN ROBERTS, assistant sales director for Sierra Life Insurance Co., Twin Falls, has been awarded the Chartered Life Underwriters designation from the American College of Life Underwriters. The award is reserved for those dealing in insuring human life who are able to pass examinations in insurance laws, and meet high professional standards. Roberts has been with Sierra since 1961.

Church opposes individual fee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, outlined his opposition Friday to a Nixon administration proposal to institute $4 individual licenses for admission to federal outdoor recreation areas.

Church told the senate interior parks and recreation subcommittee he wanted retention of the present $10 Golden Eagle family passport which allows admission for all occupants of an automobile to federal recreation areas.

Further, Church said, federal administrative agencies such as the Forest Service and National Park Service should standardize supplementary fees for use of recreational facilities.

Church said when the administration first proposed the $4 individual fee last May every member of the subcommittee present indicated opposition.

"It is indicative of the indifference of this administration toward Congress that it should now come back four months later with the same proposal and expect serious consideration," Church said.

The $4 fee would be supplemented by special use and other fees, but Church said the administration "has yet to specify precisely what this license will cover and how many special use fees will be added."

Exams slated on state positions

BOISE — The Idaho Personnel Commission has announced open examinations for state Police troopers-in-training and for several positions in the Fish and Game Department.

The State Police positions carry a salary range of $478 to $581 per month, ranging upward to $527 to $641 after Jan. 1, 1972. After one year of training, the employe will be reclassified to a salary range of $581 to $706.

Applications must be post-marked no later than Nov. 1 to be accepted.

The Fish and Game Department positions, including wildlife assistant and fish culturist, close May 15, 1972. The assistant's position carries a current salary range of $413 to $502, increasing to $450 to $553 after next January 1.

Ex-Buhl resident graduates

BOISE — Paul L. Ellis, a former Buhl resident now residing in Potomato, has graduated from a training session at the School of Transmission Engineering conducted by the Dodge Manufacturing Division of Reliance Electric Co. in Mishawaka, Ind.

The advanced course in technical theory, application and operation of mechanical power-transmission equipment is offered to qualified sales and service personnel of authorized Dodge distributors to improve their understanding of modern equipment, according to a news release.

Ellis is a salesperson for the Paul Roberts Co. of Potomato.

Deputy named Defensive driving classes start Tuesday

TWIN FALLS — Appointment of a new deputy on the Twin Falls County sheriff's staff was announced Friday by Sheriff Paul Corder.

He said Buddy DeWeese, 535 Madison St., has joined the staff as of Friday. He replaces Gary Kirkwood who resigned to accept a position with the Twin Falls Police Department.

DeWeese has resided in Twin Falls the two years and has been employed in the parts department of Bill Workman Ford Co.

Although he has not previously been engaged in law enforcement work, DeWeese said he was engaged in private investigator work in Texas before coming to Twin Falls. He is married and the father of three children.

TWIN FALLS — A new series of Defensive Driving classes is scheduled to start at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Room 120 of Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School, according to instructor Gordon Smith.

The class is offered periodically at a charge of $5 per registrant to enable all interested drivers to sharpen their driving skills, with an emphasis on defensive driving to prevent accidents. The course is approved by the State of Idaho, which will erase up to three violation points for drivers completing the course who have accumulated points for moving-traffic violations, Smith said.

The Defensive Driving course was drawn up by the National Safety Council as part of a nationwide effort to reduce traffic accidents. Many industrial and commercial firms with fleets of vehicles have found the course of value for their drivers, and the Twin Falls Police Department is putting its patrolmen through the course as they have time.

The Defensive Driving course is taught on four consecutive Tuesday and Thursday evenings, encompassing 10 hours of instruction in all.

State prints voter pamphlet

BOISE (UPI) — The office of Secretary of State Pete T. Cennrusa has had printed 5,000 copies of a pamphlet containing new registration, voting and election information for Idahoans.

Dryden Miller, deputy secretary of state, said the pamphlets would be distributed across the state.

To qualify for voting, according to the pamphlet, one must be a citizen of the United States, 18 years of age or older, resident of the state for six months and the county 30 days preceding the day of election, and be registered within the time period provided by law.

Under the new registration system now in effect in Idaho, registration is permanent and re-registration unnecessary unless an elector fails to vote at least one time in the preceding eight years, an elector changes residence, or an elector's name is changed by marriage or by court order.

Cennrusa is now conducting a massive statewide campaign for voter re-registration.

Explosive issues delayed for Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court opens its fall term today with a number of explosive constitutional issues—the death penalty and immunity from prosecution among them—postponed—until—two—vacant seats are filled.

President Nixon has passed the word he is eager to name successors as soon as possible to the late Justice Hugo L. Black and retired Justice John M. Harlan hospitalized for treatment of spinal cancer.

The departure of the two men who led opposing schools of judicial philosophy for many years leaves the Supreme Court weakened immeasurably. While Rep. Richard H. Poff, R-Va., is known to be a leading candidate for nomination, Nixon is under increasing pressure to name the first woman justice in court history.

Although the court can operate with a quorum of six—one fewer than the seven remaining justices—it postponed hearings on some of its most important cases until Nixon's new appointees are submitted to the Senate and confirmed.

Even after the two new justices are seated, they will need a few weeks' deliberation before they tackle such weighty issues as capital punishment or what kind of "no prosecution" guarantee the government should be required to give reluctant witnesses in exchange for compulsory testimony. More than 650 death row inmates are awaiting a court decision whether their sentence is "cruel and unusual punishment" in violation of the Constitution.

Arguments on these test cases and others scheduled for the two weeks starting Oct. 12 were scratched without explanation after the Black and Harlan resignations were announced.

Other important issues the court has agreed to consider include the rights of newsmen called to testify before grand juries, uninited government wiretapping, state residency requirements for voting, and racial discrimination by publicly chartered private clubs.

The last time the court found itself in its present predicament was at the start of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger's first term in October, 1969, when a vacancy existed because of Justice Abe Fortas' resignation in connection with off-bench activities.

Successive Senate battles over Nixon's unsuccessful nominations of federal judges Clement F. Haynsworth and G. Harold Carswell left the court one member short for almost the entire term, until the arrival of Justice Harry A. Blackmun on June 9, 1970.

With Blackmun's help, Burger succeeded last term in breaking the liberal direction taken by the court under his predecessor, Chief Justice Earl Warren. He now has only three unrelenting philosophical opponents in civil liberties cases: Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall.

The votes of Justices Byron R. White and Potter Stewart are more difficult to predict, but they incline towards conservatism.

After a brief ceremonial opening session Monday, the seven justices will retire to their private conference room for a week of discussions on appeals that have piled up during the summer recess. Whether consideration of any of these will be postponed is an open question.

An ostrich may measure up to eight feet to the crown of its head.

THESE executives are spending half their time for a month working on the United Fund drive in Twin Falls. Their time is donated by their employers which include Twin Falls Bank and Trust, Kellwood, Idaho Power, CSI, Idaho First National Bank and Intermountain Gas. The Sears executive is not yet named. Meyerhoeffer is in charge of the group.

Classes starting

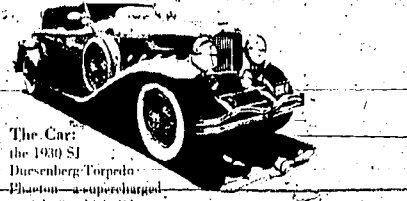

TWIN FALLS—Women interested in learning to bowl are invited to enroll in the Twin Falls City Recreation Department and Brunswick Bowling Center sponsored instruction program beginning Wednesday.

The course requires a $1 registration fee and begins Wednesday with the first class at 10 a.m. and a second at 1:30 p.m. at the Brunswick Bowling Center, 220 Eastland Drive.

Those registering will receive free bowling instruction, free use of bowling shoes, nursery services for the children and refreshments.

Chad Browning, recreation director, said classes will be held one per week for a five-week period.

Perrine bridge said major step

TWIN FALLS — Completion of the new Perrine Memorial Bridge north of Twin Falls, anticipated several years in the future, is the first major step in reconstruction of the entire route from the Twin Falls business district to the interchange with Interstate 80 into a four-lane route, according to the Idaho Department of Highways.

A legal notice to be published in the Times-News on Oct. 7 carries the notation to this effect, saying in official terminology that "the approach roadway north of the structure would ultimately transition from the structure to divided roadways with 100 feet between centerlines. Construction under this project would provide a transition from the bridge to the existing roadway while keeping the alignment of the ultimate roadway in mind."

Translated, this means the bridge must be built with two objects in the plans — to line up with the present Highway 93, yet placed so as to be in line with the reconstructed highway when it is enlarged to four lanes, according to Bill Harvey, public relations director for the highway department.

The approaches to the bridge will be rebuilt at both the north and south ends when the bridge is built; as it is to be constructed a short distance east of the present structure. This will require the highway to take a new approach toward the bridge at both ends, according to plans approved earlier this year by the Board of Directors of the Highway Department.

The legal notice to be published Oct. 7 is required by state law; to inform the public of the progress of planning for the new bridge, Harvey said. Though plans are in the works, no progress has been reported toward obtaining the necessary federal funds.

The federal Highway Administration, an agency of the Department of Transportation, has accepted the Perrine Bridge project as essential, and has given it priority in funding when funds are made available by Congress.

The plans are being drafted by the Seattle engineering firm of Howard, Needles Tammen and Bergdorff, based on core-drilling of the foundation which was completed last summer.

Up they go

THE WALLS go up at the site of the new Ace Hansen Chevrolet dealership now under construction in the far reaches of Blue Lakes Boulevard North, just south of the Perrine Bridge. Paving of the parking lot around the sizeable building is continuing at a rapid rate, depending on the weather, and construction of the buildings by Clawson Construction Co. is proceeding on schedule.

Faye Emerson among yesterdays headliners

PALMA, MALLORCA, Spain (UPI)—In 1944 a pretty blonde actress traded her career for marriage to the son of a president of the United States.

Faye Emerson had met Elliott Roosevelt at a Los Angeles cocktail party and they married shortly after the meeting. Less than two months after the wedding she attended the fourth inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt as "a member of the White House family."

Throughout their turbulent marriage she accompanied her husband on journeys around the world, and caused a stir in diplomatic circles when she had her dog shipped with a priority Army air transport plane. The marriage failed and the couple divorced in 1949.

Faye resumed her career, forsaking motion pictures, where she had achieved a comfortable, although not outstanding, success, for television. On more than one TV appearance, her plunging necklines created much-publicized controversy, and they became a sort of trademark for the blonde actress.

Late in 1950, Faye married band leader Skitch Henderson but that marriage also ended in divorce seven years later because "we had problems of personality and career."

She continued to gain prominence on television and was in wide demand as a panelist on talk and game shows. She won awards such as "Best Dressed in TV" and "Most Charming Woman in Television."

Where is Faye Emerson now? Now 54, and heavier than in her days as an actress, she has "had it with the rat race" and left the United States to settle in a village in Palma, on Spain's island of Mallorca, where she lives quietly.

Industry chiefs tell plans for water use

By PAULINE DAY Times-News Writer

RUII — Representatives of the industries interested in developing Box Canyon water issued a statement following a Bureau of Land Management public hearing in Gooding last week, on the application of Richard Kaster and Earl Hardy to obtain a 400 foot right-of-way to divert water across government owned property.

Kaster told the Times-News that water permits have been approved by the Idaho Department of Water Administration to divert 600 cubic feet of water from Box Canyon for the purpose of establishing two new fish hatcheries in the area.

If the right-of-way application is not approved, water from the canyon will be diverted from a point located on the Hardy and Kaster property. The majority of Box Canyon is privately owned.

The Box Canyon Trout Co., Inc. owned by Hardy, will be located in Gooding county and will receive 300 c.f.s. The Hagerman Valley Trout Co., Inc. owned by Kaster and located in Twin Falls county, will also receive 300 c.f.s. of water from Box Canyon. Water from the Hagerman Valley hatchery will be piped across the Snake River. Both hatcheries will have fish processing plants.

The new processing plants will meet all the requirements on pollution control as the most modern devices will be installed as the facilities are constructed. It is estimated some 6 million pounds of trout will be raised annually between the two hatcheries. The two plants will provide employment for 400 persons.

In addition to the hatcheries the Mountain View Irrigation Co. plans to divert 200 c.f.s. of water to be siphoned and pumped to the desert southwest of Hagerman for irrigation purposes. The water will bring some 32,000 acres of land into use for farming, according to Henry Crown, manager of Mountain View Irrigation.

A reservoir would also be constructed in the desert some 25 miles west of Buhl and would rival other reservoirs in the area for recreational facilities. The clear, clean spring water in the reservoir would make excellent fishing, boating and camping for persons in the area. Expenditures on the irrigation project will exceed $10 million.

Kaster said the land developed by Box Canyon water and the fish hatcheries would be taxable, bringing additional revenue to the state, rather than being tax exempt parks. He said if Idaho water is not developed in Idaho, it will be diverted out of state — "It's a matter of use it or lose it," he said.

Appointed

BOISE (UPI) — The office of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus confirmed Friday the reappointment of Fred Humphreys — Boise — to a five-year term on the State Board of Health which will run until Sept. 13, 1976.

Dinner slated in Shoshone

SHOSHONE — Mrs. Evelyn Barnes, who will speak at the annual Farm Bureau dinner which will be held Oct. 26, will tell of her experiences at the Head Start Leadership Development training session held at the University of Kansas, Lawrence.

The event will be at 7:30 p.m. at the Manhattan Cafe.

Tickets are available from Earl Vinsant, Shoshone; Glenn L. Sorenson, Dietrich; Grant Stevens and Hoyt Pugh, Richfield, and Mrs. Ervin Braun, North Shoshone.

Grant OK'd by society

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Park Service has approved a $19,900 grant to the Idaho Historical Society in Boise, according to Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

Church said the funds are for continuation of a survey of historic Idaho sites, including objects for identification, evaluation and possible nomination to the National Register of Historic Places.

Shoshone pool fund discussed

SHOSHONE — A total of $5,143.80 is now in the city's municipal swimming pool fund, Wilson Churchman, city councilman, told the Chamber of Commerce members.

Earlier in September, members of the Chamber expressed concern over the fund reverting to the city's General Fund if not used by a certain time. Churchman said this will not take place until 1976.

Persons interested in a municipal swimming pool are hoping to promote a pool installation before that time. There is no city pool now.

Chamber members have invited a representative of the State Highway Department to attend their next meeting, Oct. 12, to explain the new regulations on road signs. This is prompted by a visit from Russel Robinson, owner of the Shoshone Ice Caves, and business men of the city who have commercial signs and want explanation on ruling of their installation.

After 62 years, McCook unit of GAR women ends activity

TWIN FALLS — An organization that began in Twin Falls county in 1909 and has been active continuously since that time has decided to take things a bit easier in the future. The Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, DMR McCook Chapter, has disbanded. In doing so, they donated their remaining treasury to Harbor House.

The organization's membership has dwindled over the past years to only a few. Most members have reached an age where they no longer find it convenient to attend regular meetings. Members who are still active have decided it will be best to discontinue the official chapter and in the future when they meet they will be known as the Dan McCook Circle No. 3 Club.

Time for living

A friend in our neighborhood has been a widower for about three months. Frankly, he and his wife Emma never got along too well. And although her death was a shock to us, most of us felt that possibly Wilson was relieved to be free at last of her nagging and scolding.

Last night Wilson came to our house for dinner. Instead of looking his usual epic-and-span self, he wore a rumpled shirt and suit, and a sooty tie.

My wife said lightly, "Good; I see you didn't dress for dinner." "But I did," he said in a curious empty voice. Sitting at the table later, he tried to explain his present condition. I got the feeling he was trying to explain things to himself as well as to us. "I don't know how Emma managed everything so well," he opened. "Meals were always on time, I never had to think of laundry, food, cleaning the house, sheets on the bed. I never had to think of clean clothes, either. Emma took care of everything... I've never felt so helpless in my life," he ended.

Then he admitted that now his only "good" meals come when someone invites him over.

Are we men so lost when we lose our mate? Is Wilson the typical helpless widower?

I have another longtime male friend who's quite the opposite. Ray's mother died when he was young, and he began taking care of his invalid father. Perhaps this marks the point at which Ray started to develop household skills that seem so natural to women. Now in his early seventies, Ray still runs an impeccable home complete with fine china, silver, beautiful table linen, rugs, paintings — guests gladly show up for the choice gourmet meals he himself prepares in his handsome kitchen... Yes, he, too, is a widower.

Statistics tell us that widowers are most likely to remarry within the first two years of their bereavement. These are apparently the trying years when they're most

Major powers back interim efforts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Renewed efforts by Secretary of State William P. Rogers to work out an interim Middle East peace settlement have received the general backing of the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

Officials from the U.S. delegation to the United Nations said today Rogers received varying degrees of encouragement during his meetings this week with the three foreign ministers — Andrei A. Gromyko of the Soviet Union, Sir Alec Douglas-Home of Britain and Maurice Schumann of France.

Although the Soviet Union has been skeptical of U.S. efforts to act as an intermediary between Israel and the Arab countries, officials said Gromyko in his meetings with Rogers gave tacit approval of the U.S. mediation attempts.

Rogers, in New York for the U.N. General Assembly meeting, started the latest round of discussions on the Middle East Wednesday by meeting with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad in Washington.

He will talk with Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban on Monday.

The current proposals center around six main points, according to authoritative U.S. sources:

—Any "interim settlement" should be considered as a first step toward a comprehensive, negotiated middle east peace settlement.

—The Middle East cease-fire should be extended for a definite period of at least six months under any interim settlement.

—Egypt should clear and reopen the Suez Canal. Israeli transit rights through the canal, which would be administered by the Egyptians, would be a matter of further negotiation.

—Israel forces should withdraw from the east bank of the Suez Canal to a point some 15 to 25 miles back from the canal.

—Egypt would be allowed a "presence" on the east bank of the canal, but it would not be military although some police might be permitted.

'Disarmament meet' puts end to Georgia machine-gun war

ATLANTA (UPI) — The threat of a machine gun war in tiny Hancock County eased with the negotiation of a disarmament agreement, Gov. Jimmy Carter announced Friday night.

"The county commissioners have given up their purchase order for 30 machine guns and the city of Sparta has given the 10 machine guns they had to the state patrol," Carter said. "I think this is probably the first successful disarmament conference held anywhere," he added.

Hancock County, about 90 miles east of Atlanta, has a population of 8,759 and is predominantly black. Blacks control the county commission. Sparta, the county seat, has a population of 478 and is mostly made up of whites who control the city council and the police force.

The arms race started last week when it was disclosed that the city had bought 10 submachine guns from donations made by white citizens.

Blacks countered when the county commissioner ordered 30 submachine guns. Shortly afterwards, Blacks announced the formation of a hunting club called "The Sporting Runners." Carter said leaflets advertising the club urged Blacks to buy ".45 and .30-30 rifles, 44 caliber pistols" and other weapons. The club promised to provide free target practice and to finance the purchase of weapons for those unable to afford them.

Sparta Mayor T.M. "Buck" Patterson explained that the guns bought by the city were for the use of police in case of emergency.

Carter said Patterson kept the guns at his home "which, incidentally, is a funeral home."

Carter called a special news conference Friday night to announce the conclusion of a successful disarmament conference between white and black leaders at Sparta that had lasted for several hours. The governor said the terms of the settlement included the disbandment of the hunting club and the end of a boycott of white merchants by blacks.

Suicide action withheld

BOISE (UPI) — The attorney for the Idaho Commission on Human Rights said today there is "virtually no chance" for successful prosecution of a case involving a suicide in the Bannock County Jail.

The case, referred to the attorney general's office by the Department of Interior, involved the death of Naomi Deviney, a member of the Shoshone-Bannock tribe.

The commission agreed, however, to issue a "strong statement" to be made public deploring the conduct of the jail staff at the time, but to outline also the reasons for its inability to prosecute the case.

Glenn Selander, Boise, commission president, said the statement would express the fact the commission is "concerned... that state law does not allow us to move in this area."

Assistant attorney general Don Knickrehm, said the woman apparently tried to kill herself three times and each time items of clothing were removed until she was stripped.

Cambodian port stilled by war

KOMPONG SOM, Cambodia (UPI)—War has left Kompong Som a seaport virtually without ships, a railroad without trains, a highway junction without traffic, a resort without tourists.

The fine concrete streets—washed in Asia—are blackening with the mold of disease. The docks of the deepwater port—built 15 years ago by the French—are empty. The excellent highway 4 to Phnom Penh is open only to truck convoys under heavily armed escort and hazardous even for them.

Railroad service to the capital has been closed for more than a year and the tracks in the marshalling yard adjoining the deepwater port are coated with rust.

Kompong Som's showplace night-story Independence Hotel sits idle, its dining rooms closed, its swimming pool drained of all but a foot of rainwater left by the monsoons, its children's playground overgrown by weeds. Would-be guests stroll through vacant lobbies, lounges and conference rooms in search of a desk clerk, only to be told: "Hardly anyone stays here anymore."

The government is offering to lease the hotel, sources say, but has found no takers.

A 100-unit seaside motel built by the government tourist agency remains open but rarely is more than four rooms rented. The lovely sandy beach is deserted; weeds peep through the cracks in the surface of its tennis courts.

A line of hilltop bars overlooking the central market, where French rubber planters once paused at sidewalk tables for an aperitif and a whiff of sea breeze, are shattered and locked. The few bars and restaurants remaining open shut down daily at 6 p.m., three hours before curfew.

Kompong Som's only thriving establishments are the seaside gambling casino and its one movie theater. Two shows daily at the movie tend to feature old—late TV type—films. Audiences run to mostly children and soldiers.

The gambling casino, which features roulette, is usually crowded but the manager complains, "They are the same faces every day." Asked how the same people, mostly Chinese, can afford to spend the daylight hours gambling each day (the casino also closes at 6 p.m.), the manager shrugs.

Store shelves are half empty and owners complaining that the people cannot afford to buy the little that remains. Many stores have closed. Only two of the 15 pork butchers in the central market are still operating, and at least 20 of the market's vegetable stands have closed for lack of vegetables. The few vegetables available are flown to the city in the cargo planes which carry Kompong Som's daily fishing catch to the capital.

The only stores still well stocked are hardware and jewelry stores. No one buys jewelry anymore and the hardware stores had an overstock when the war began 18 months ago to meet a construction boom which then immediately collapsed.

Idle dock workers complain that they had a daily ship to unload before the war began but now there are scarcely six ships a month and most of them come only for a supply of fresh water and discharge no cargo. Cambodia's exports of rubber and rice have been cut off by the conflict, even if there was a way to get them to isolated Kompong Som.

Kompong Som's government-owned Teli Khmer oil refinery is shut down, still unrepaired from the damage it sustained last March 3 when a Communist force attacked the area five miles north of the city.

If and when the refinery is repaired, sources said, its production will be loaded aboard small tankers for the sea journey around South Vietnam and then up the Mekong River. Too many fuel trucks have been ambushed along Highway 1.

Still, said Lt. Col. Yem Mornrath, the municipal governor, things might be much worse. Due to army enlistments, there is little unemployment. Although the price of pork and chicken has risen by one-third, the government has succeeded in holding down the price of rice. Vegetables aren't plentiful as they once were, but there are still plenty of fish and no one is going hungry.

Burley women observe BPW 50th anniversary

BURLEY — About 75 business women from seven Magic Valley communities attended the fall business session of the South-Central District, Business and Professional Women of America, on Sunday at the Ramada Inn.

The Burley BPW club is celebrating its 50th year this year with the themes "Era of Responsibility" on the national level and "Progress Through Work and Harmony" at the state level, according to Mrs. Ann Wilson, Wallace, state BPW president.

The Burley BPW club was founded and chartered on April 19, 1921 with 22 members. Mrs. Delta Mae Livingston, Burley

Aviation advances cited for fliers

SUN VALLEY (UPI) — The National Pilots Association convention wound up in Sun Valley Saturday as pilots from Texas, California, Kansas and other states prepared to leave the Idaho resort.

At a convention banquet Saturday night Federal Aviation Administrator John L. Baker, Washington, D. C., told the pilots that general aviation aircraft carried as many people last year as the airlines — 170 million.

Baker, who was named to the post of assistant administrator for general aviation last January, contended that general aviation has done a poor job of educating the public to its contribution.

He said that 92 per cent of airports in the nation serve only general aviation and the commerce generated through this transportation.

General aviation aircraft are the airplanes that are not commercial airlines or military craft. They are sport and business craft.

Baker said one of his goals was to smooth the way for general aviation's expanding fleet in the nation's air traffic control system, heretofore geared to the commercial air carrier.

Girl hurt in crash

TWIN FALLS — Stefanie Rae Lickley, 20, Route 3, Jerome, escaped with minor cuts and bruises after her vehicle went out of control at the corner of Eastland Drive and Kimberly road and crashed into the Perrine Coulee.

City police said the driver was traveling on Eastland and turned left onto Kimberly. He accelerated too fast and crashed into a coffered abutment, then struck a traffic sign, metal post and careened into the coulee, police said.

Damage was estimated at $250 to the vehicle. A passenger, Peggy Barnes, 20, Twin Falls, was uninjured.

Meet set

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone City Council will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the City hall.

Air pollution 124 index

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District at the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate matter per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period.

Reading of 124 on today.

Excess pollution tonight may raise pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms over any 24-hour period and should not be permitted to rise above 240 micrograms for seven or eight periods of time.

Forecast

Today: Good
Tonight: Poor
Tomorrow: Good

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution during a period when low winds should be maintained when the air is fairly able to disperse air pollutants.

Audit called smear

BOISE (UPI) — The president of the Idaho Archaeological Society, who has leveled charges at a legislative audit on Boise State College, said Sunday a news conference this week will substantiate his claims.

J. Keith Johnson, Boise, said the society will produce witnesses and materials to back up what they believe in regard to the audit report. The conference is set for noon Wednesday at the Hodelway Inn.

In a news release Saturday, Johnson charged the audit — which was critical of BSC operations — was motivated by "the desire to destroy BSC as an emerging state university."

He said the audit, released Friday by Legislative Auditor James A. Defenbach, was an "attack on President John B. Barnes of Boise State College," and that it was "the consequence of a carefully planned conspiracy among bureaucrats primarily within the state office of higher education."

Defenbach said Sunday, "I don't understand what he (Johnson) means. Until I find out, I won't be able to make a comment. All I know is what I read in the paper."

Dr. Donald L. Kline, executive director of the Office of Higher Education, was unavailable for comment.

The audit noted there was a breakdown in the pre-audit function of the college's business office which allowed student fees to be spent on clothes for student officers and general funds on country club dues and bar bills for its president.

Johnson, head of the 2,000-member, one-year-old society, said persons concerned with the preservation and development of Idaho's archaeological, geologic and environmental resources should be alarmed by the attack.

Enlistment rate gains slightly

TWIN FALLS — With many a chance facing Twin Falls youths for the past three months, they have continued to exercise their choice in slightly larger numbers.

In spite of a three-month hiatus in nationwide draft calls, Army recruitment is keeping pace with previous figures, according to Capt. Larry Earnest, chief operations officer in Salt Lake City.

Earnest credits a recent multi-million dollar advertising campaign on the part of the military (featuring the slogan "a choice, not a chance") the promise of sizeable salary increases in the near future and new army career options with maintaining the pace of enlistments in the area.

National officials, from Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird to Sen. John Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, had maintained that Congress' failure to pass an extension of the Military Manpower Training Bill would impede efforts to build an all-volunteer army.

But in Twin Falls, that hasn't been the case. "We've maintained our production during the last three months," Earnest said. "An average of six to eight men sign up a month," he said.

But to encourage enlistment, Earnest said, Army recruiters "have to work a heck of a lot harder." As part of that effort, the recruiting staff in Twin Falls has been increased to two men.

"We've had nine men enlist in the past month," said SFC Hal Kreps, the recruiter. "It's hard to tell whether the stopping of the draft had any effect."

The Army lost its authority to draft young men when the old draft bill expired at the end of June, and only regained the authority this past week.

Earnest said he looks for a greater number of enlistments now that the Army will begin drafting men again. "Things will pick up because of the draft," he said. "We'll continue to march forward with our mission."

Shirley seeking office

CHICAGO (UPI) — Without seeking anybody's endorsement, Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., said Sunday she is in the race for the presidency and warned "my black brothers and black politicians to get off my back."

"Without seeking anybody's endorsement, yes, it's true that I dare to have the nerve; the courage to say I will consider running for the presidency," Mrs. Chisholm told a women's day in politics workshop at the third annual Black Expo.

Mrs. Chisholm said she was asked by several groups about six months ago to consider running for the presidency "so nobody will no longer take black folks for granted."

"The momentum has developed," she said. "There are over 21 organizations in 21 states and over 40 groups here and abroad working to give me the money to go into the primaries."

"I didn't start the movement," she said. "I don't know where it will land ... but only two things will stop me, Almighty God and my conscience."

The fiery New Yorker, frequently described as 100 pounds soaking wet, announced last weekend she would enter presidential primaries in Wisconsin, California, Oregon and North Carolina.

Sunday she warned "my black brothers and black politicians to get off my back. Stop misunderstanding Shirley Chisholm. All I'm about is bringing something to the struggle ... brothers, please get off my back ... stop criticizing me. Before you criticize me please ask me."

UP's chief hopes for labor quiet

BOISE (UPI) — Now that most unions connected with Union Pacific Railroad have signed three-year contracts, UP president J. C. Kenefick says the railroad "hopes to see some peace" from strikes.

In addition, Kenefick, Omaha, Neb., told a UP Old Timers convention in Boise Saturday that he doubted the rail line would ever again be in the passenger service business.

He explained that the territory they serve with long hauls was susceptible to travel by jets and cars.

He added the stoppage of passenger service had little effect, however, on company business since revenue from that service accounted for only six per cent of the firm's income. Kenefick said the railroad had already made up that percentage loss.

Foot disorders

NEW YORK (UPI) — How are your children's feet? Abnormal foot posture, orthopedic disorders of the feet, or both, were found in 37 per cent of nearly 9,000 children given a foot check. In the proportion of abnormal conditions, there was no appreciable difference in boys or girls.

Someone broke into his vehicle while it was parked in the lot beside the lounge. Taken were a pair of spurs, a nylon rope, hat and leather gloves valued at $37.57, he said.

Another automobile, owned by Frank John Mattes, 2874 Sixth St. W., was entered Saturday night and a stereo and several tapes taken. Mattes estimated his loss at $72 and said the vehicle was parked on 3rd Ave. W. beside his apartment when it was entered.

3 autos entered

TWIN FALLS — Three automobile burglaries were under investigation by Twin Falls City Police today.

Ron Cogswell, 631 Third Ave. W., told officers his vehicle was entered while it was parked behind 310 Main Ave. E. He said a citizens band radio valued at $160 was taken from the station wagon.

John Callahan, 669 Grant Ave., who is employed at the Brand Lounge, told officers

Deadline to file arrives

Enlistment rate gains slightly

TWIN FALLS — Candidates hoping to be elected to city council positions in Idaho during municipal elections in November must have their petitions filed by 5 p.m. today.

City clerks throughout the Magic Valley will be checking the nominating petitions to determine if each contains the required 40 signatures of registered voters.

Several of those filed early in Twin Falls failed to have the required number of registered voters among signers although many persons were registering in order to make their signatures valid prior to the time the petitions were filed.

Ethel Koontz, Twin Falls city clerk, said about 100 persons have been registering each day in Twin Falls during the past week. Ten candidates have qualified for nomination in Twin Falls for the four council vacancies. Mrs. Koontz said 17 nominating petitions were issued but some may have been duplicates and some may have decided not to run.

Those who qualified in Twin Falls as of Monday morning include the one incumbent council member, Winston Jones, and three fellow candidates all running on the Citizens Committee for Good Government ticket. They are Michael Gray, Stephen Lincoln and Stephen Bancroft.

Other candidates include Lynn Goodman and Raymond Cranford, seeking election on a platform which among other things calls for another election on the question of city manager form of government for Twin Falls.

Independent candidates qualifying include Rex Ulrich; Ann Cover, Stephen Carter and David Killen.

Hunting accident kills man

ELK CITY, Idaho (UPI) — Samuel R. McCulloch, 45, Los Altos, Calif., died instantly Sunday when he was shot in apparent hunting accident in northern Idaho.

McCulloch was killed when shot in the head with a 30-06 rifle bullet fired by Harold Maghny, Peck, Idaho, officers said.

Idaho County sheriff's deputies said the shooting occurred when two groups of hunters were hunting about 100 yards apart in brush about 17 miles north of here.

Deputies said Maghny apparently mistook McCulloch who was wearing a red hat and green checkered jacket and a red and black checkered shirt, for a game animal and fired.

Deputies said the investigation is continuing into the shooting and an inquest possibly will be held.

Council to pick officials

TWIN FALLS — City Council members are scheduled to appoint election judges and clerks for the Nov. 2 municipal election tonight during the regular meeting.

Other items on the lengthy agenda include the appointment of new members to the city's youth advisory board. The youth advisory board is made up of students from junior and senior high school classes. They meet on a regular basis and make recommendations to the city council on matters in which young citizens of the community are interested. The council does not meet during summer months and new members are named each fall.

Council members are also expected to ratify the preliminary directions issued to proceed with an instrument landing system at the City-County Airport.

Three proposed ordinance changes will also be presented for initial discussion by the council. Members of the Planning and Zoning Commission have just completed drafting and approving an all-new zoning ordinance, a new mobile home park regulation and a revised sign ordinance for the commercial area of the city.

Several other routine business items are on the agenda. The meeting, which is open to the public, is set for 7:30 p.m. at City Hall.

Gem board sets 'rap' sessions

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's Board of Education will conduct a general "rap session" or informal discussion on Friday with student leaders from four state institutions of higher education.

Joseph D. McCullom, Twin Falls, board president, said the discussion at the board's two-day meeting in Moscow will follow a joint session of all institutions of higher learning and the Idaho Student Government Association agenda.

It will be the first time the board has tried a "rap session" with the students.

Multi-disease vaccine ready

CHICAGO (UPI) — A combination vaccine for measles, mumps and rubella has been developed, according to an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The vaccine, which researchers claim is safe, simple and effective, was tested on 715 children. The children, aged seven months to seven years, had never had measles, mumps or rubella.

Overall, 96 per cent of them developed immunity to measles, 95 per cent to mumps and 94 per cent to rubella, the article said.

Measles and mumps are currently on the rise. Experts at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta predict the total number of measles cases may reach 80,000 this year — almost twice as many as in 1970.

The triple-purpose vaccine may serve to combat this rise, especially where it is used on children who might be difficult to reach on more than one occasion, the study said.

Authors of the article are Dr. Joseph Stokes and Dr. Robert E. Wobal of the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine; Dr. Victor M. Villarejos and Dr. Jorge A. Arguedas of the Louisiana State University International Center for Medical Research and Training in San Jose, Costa Rica; and Dr. Eugene G. Buynak and Dr. Maurice R. Hilleman of the Merck Institute for Therapeutic Research, West Point, Pa.

Pair file for seats at Ketchum

KETCHUM — Two candidates for election to the Ketchum City Council in the Nov. 2 general election filed their petitions this morning, bringing to three the number running for the two posts to be vacated.

Ketchum residents Glen Brannen, a former councilman, and Joe Clements entered the race with filing of their petitions. Incumbent Carl Mullins had filed his petition last week, according to City Clerk Betty Coles.

Today is the last day to file petitions of candidacy throughout Idaho.

Man held following collision

TWIN FALLS — One man was in custody today charged with driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident and resisting arrest, following investigation of an accident Saturday night on Main Avenue East.

City police said a call was received about 8:30 p.m. stating several parked automobiles had been hit by a driver who did not stop. Officers said damage to four vehicles was estimated at $585.

Three parked automobiles in front of 110 Main Avenue East were struck. One was forced into a parking motor by the impact, police said.

Officers later sighted a vehicle fitting the description furnished by witnesses and arrested the driver, Max Eugene Rosenkrantz, 41, Seattle, on charges of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident. While the arrest was being made, officer said, the man allegedly struck a city officer in the back of the head with his fist.

TWO OF FOUR damaged automobiles involved in an accident Saturday night on Main Avenue East are shown pushed together by the impact. Witnesses told city police a vehicle traveling down Main Avenue clipped the rear of a parked auto and continued on, striking two others.

Fall fashions have new look

SHOSHONE — Fashions for fall have a new look, Mrs. Jeaneene Annett, home demonstration agent for Lincoln-Blaine and Camas counties, said Saturday.

In noting French fashion, the home economist said there is a trend to elegance, with accessories as part of the total look. Pearls, all sizes and lengths, cuff links of enamel, wood or ivory, gloves and shoes in suede are "in."

Shoes will have higher, thinner heels with slimmer toes and boots are practically out of the picture. Hats are important, especially berets and tiny bonnets. Veiling will be worn, day and night. Stockings will be flesh-toned, and may have a back seam. Opaque and textured knit stockings are still

The scarf is less important than last season, and will be used as a finishing touch, looking almost like part of the dress or blouse.

Shoulder bags continue, but envelope, flatter, and small handbags that tuck under the arm are the newest-looking daytime bags.

New leather tanning process also brings to the fashion world a leather that retains softness and prevents shrinking after washing. Besides hot pants, washable leather is being made into other casual wear such as shorts, skirts and golf gloves. The economist warns buyers to check labels for washability and washing instructions. The leather must be washed in cold water.

Toastmistress speeches taped

FILER — Taping their table topics and playing them back for the members to hear was a special feature of the Friday morning meeting of the Twin Falls Toastmistress Club at the Colonial House, Twin Falls.

Hearing their own voices and speeches gave the members a chance to evaluate their tone quality and enunciation according to Mrs. Dale Ghan who was in charge of the table topics. Mrs. James Sinclair received the red pencil. The recording took the place of the speeches for the day.

Theme for the meeting was "Family Affair". Mrs. Sinclair, president, gave the welcome and closing thought and presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Leo Biltzburg offered the invocation.

Mrs. Ellis Fuller was in charge of the educational discussion on "Working Committees", and Mrs. Robert Ullman served as lexicologist. The traveling trophy was shared by Mrs. Ullman and Mrs. DeVern Fuller, who tied for the honor. Mrs. DeVern Fuller was toastmistress for the day.

Two guests attended the meeting, an 12 members were present.

Book Review

By ROBERT BRUCE
Twin Falls Public Library
TWIN FALLS — There have been many books about Isadora Duncan, most of them by obviously shallow people who claimed to have been "her most intimate friends." Victor Seroff, who is in his late 80's, knew Isadora well and also knew her purported biographers. He does not hesitate to name names and to demolish Isadora's supposed friends who sponged upon her during her life and capitalized on her fame after her death. "The Real Isadora" is by far the best book about the greatest figure that America has ever contributed to the arts. A self-taught pioneer in her chosen art of modern dance, she exerted tremendous influence on all the other arts. She was an epic figure, a tragic epic, and a legend in her own lifetime. And she was the most colossal fool in her personal life (it was never private) that can possibly be imagined. The legend continues and grows. Recently there was a silly movie that paid no attention to Duncan's greatness as an artist. There has been no actress since the great Duse (Isadora's close friend) who could convey the woman's tremendous personality.

magnetism, and beauty... A third-rate English movie performer was in complete harmony with another attempt to profit by the tragic legend of a great artist. Isadora did not believe in marriage as an institution, but her children were the center of her life. Their tragic deaths were the greatest of the many sorrows she endured. She was obsessively maternal. Her last lover and only husband, the Russian poet Essentine, left her because he believed that he was only a substitute for her dead children. Her idea fixe, as Seroff calls it, was to establish a school where she could teach "thousands" of children to dance according to her theories and to fully appreciate the beauty of life. She pursued this idea to lengths that would seem ridiculous were the results not so tragic. Isadora was more than swayed by her emotions, she lived by them. She had no practical sense whatsoever. She earned great amounts of money over a period of many years, and threw the money away. She was recklessly generous towards the crowd of sycophants that followed her everywhere. She was a loyal friend to her true friends. She was an absolute idiot as far as politics were concerned. She was not stupid, but her emotions ruled. Her mother deserted her in a time of need. Her sister stole a school that Isadora succeeded in founding in Germany. Her favorite pupil undermined Isadora's almost successful attempt to found a school in Russia. Isadora Duncan's life was a steady crescendo of tragedy, and her death was the culminating tragedy. The Greek definition of tragedy as the inevitable result of a fatal flaw in a heroic personality was perfectly embodied in one of the greatest artists and influences of the last hundred years.

Seroff's book does not go overboard in gushing praise. He acknowledges the flaws in the woman while doing justice to the artist. Not much more can be expected of a biographer.

Mrs. Knox was named to the national board of directors of the professional group in 1970 during a convention at Sun Valley, of which she was co-hostess. She is also a member of the national organization, and holds a franchise for the nationwide answering service "Answer America." Robert R. Stripp, Hobbs, N.M., who has visited Mrs. Knox's office in Twin Falls several times, will meet with the board, including Mrs. Knox, to plan the 1972 convention. A bid will be put in for Idaho to host the event, Mrs. Knox said. Mrs. Knox has served the Magic Valley for over 17 years, answering tens of thousands of calls a year for many customers. Following the convention Mrs. Knox will spend a month traveling in the south and east, visiting her daughters Mrs. Hernan (Cannille), Ghanayem, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Don (Donna) Hobson, Meadsville, Pa. Donny's husband, Dr. Don Hobson, is a former Buhl resident, while Mr. Ghanayem is a native of Israel, Mrs. Knox said. While Mrs. Knox is away, the Twin Falls Answering Service will be operated by Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Knox.

5 homecoming finalists to be named

POCATELLO (UPI) — Students at Idaho State University will pick five finalists from 11 candidates for ISU homecoming queen during elections Oct. 4-5. Students will again vote Oct. 18-19 to pick the queen, with the choice to be announced Oct. 20 at 7 p.m. Candidates for the queen are Elizabeth A. Nesbitt and Dale Ellen Baun, both Twin Falls; Ann Ybarquen, Gooding; Chris Wing, Puyette; Kathy Kimball, Pierce; Margaret Gabardi, Buhl; Becky Fredrickson and Angelo G. Morgan, both Pocatello; Bonnie Annis, Rupert; Susan Diane Graham, Anahaim, Calif.; and Nancy Dow, Wrangell, Alaska. ISU Bengals will meet Montana State Oct. 23 for the traditional football game.

Observance slated

PTA STATE president, Mrs. Arlyne Kifling, Dietrich, center, and Mrs. Verna Fuller, Boise, vice president, not only signed up Gov. Cecil D. Andrus as a member, but had him sign a proclamation designating Oct. 4 through 10 as National PTA Week. Andrus commended the PTA as an action group working for the public interest, adding, "and there is no more important public interest than the children and youth of Idaho and the nation."

PARTY IDEAS

New Ideas for Tailgate Party

FALL MEANS football, and traditionally, football means tailgate parties and friends. For an interesting kick-off to the new season, host the first tailgate party of the year with a "New-faces, New-fans" theme. Most of us have a regular group of friends we see at each game, but they are old classmates or friends from the "opposition." This year, get the season off to a roaring start by inviting 2 or 4 couples from your regular circle of friends, asking each to bring another couple they think you might like to meet. The informal setting is perfect for meeting new and interesting people. While guests are nibbling on egg rolls, kept warm in an insulated serving dish, have the coals warming in a hibachi for the luncheon entrée unique to many a tailgateer — shish-kabob, Oriental-style. Preparation is easy when the skewers are filled at home with pieces of chicken, green pepper, tomato, water chestnuts and pineapple. Just set them on the grill and cover with your favorite marinade sauce. Individual pieces of meat and vegetable on the skewers are small enough so knives are not a necessity. Bring along plenty of hot coffee in an insulated party perk that keeps beverages at serving temperature for hours, without electricity.

Miss Stephens, Carroll wed

TWIN FALLS — Judith Ardell Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garth Stephens, became the bride of Wayne Ross Carroll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Carroll, all Twin Falls, in a double-ring ceremony Sept. 17 at the Carlton. Rev. Ray P. Jones performed the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father. The bride wore an empire-styled gown of crepe satin with lace flowers around the waistline and hemline. The gown was made by Mrs. Dale Snow. A forward cluster of pearlized petals and flowers held her three-tiered elbow-length veil. She carried a bouquet of pink and white pompons accented with pink streamers. Karen Ford, friend of the bride, was matron of honor. Best man was Craig Carroll, brother of the bridegroom, with Keith Carroll and Bruce Stephens, brothers of the bride and bridegroom, as ushers. Organist Carol Kalbfleisch, Filer, played the traditional wedding music. Guests were registered by Kathy Carroll, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. The table was decorated with pink and white pompons. Judy Ford and Roxanne Buckendorf, Twin Falls, arranged gifts, assisted by Nancy Stephens, sister of the bride. The three-tiered white wedding cake, decorated with pink and topped with the traditional miniature bride and bridegroom, centered the bride's table. Cake and punch were served by Wilma Sligar and Vicki Bickford, Twin Falls, friends of the bride. A rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents. A pre-nuptial shower was hosted for the bride by Nelda Dean, Janice Kelly and Wilma Sligar.

A Lovelier You

PARTING OF THE WAYS
By Mary Sue Miller

Parts are back, and even wigs have them. It's all to the good. A part can make you prettier. That idea was pushed aside for some years, owing to the fact that the roots of tinted hair could not withstand the light of day. Likewise the caps of wigs. Improvements in hair coloring methods and wig constructions now encourage the parted hair-do's.

To achieve a flattering part, though, a bit of beauty lore is wanted. It's learned by following these principles:

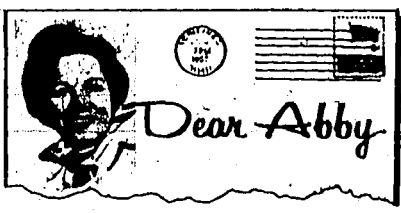

- A part is most becoming when it cuts across the least desirable feature. Let's see how that works out. You would use a diagonal part — one drawn from above the center of the left eye, for example, to the left side — center of the scalp — if you wished to minimize a long nose or pointed chin.
- Straight, low parts soften prominent cheekbones and a jutting jaw. The combing starts at any point between the center and the far end of the eyebrow. It must be very straight and extend no farther, back than the ear.
- A center part is risky unless the features are ideally proportioned.

A part also helps to modulate the shape of a face, in addition to individual features. The same rules hold. Work on the diagonal to cut length, on the vertical to lessen width.

Dear Abby

DEAR READERS: Read the next paragraph because it may come in handy if you're ever on a quiz show:
Q—When was the Chicago fire?
A—Oct. 9, 1871.

But that was 100 years ago. Shall we get more current? Last year more than half a million fires occurred in the United States. Over 12,500 lives were lost. Even more tragically, a large percentage of deaths were children, elderly persons and invalids who had been left alone for just a few minutes.

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were: (1) Smoking (2) Electrical wiring (3) Heating and cooking equipment (4) Children playing with matches (5) Open flames and sparks (6) Flammable liquids (7) Suspicion of arson (8) Chimneys and flues (9) Lightning (10) Spontaneous ignition.

The total fire loss in 1970 was an estimated $2,600,000,000. (No misprint—that's two billion, eight hundred million dollars.)

- Now for some tips that could save your life:
- Be sure your cigaret is out. Matches too. And never leave matches or lighters within the reach of children.
 - Don't overload electrical outlets with too many appliances. Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. And replace a cord if it is frayed.
 - Never leave small children alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes.
 - Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.
 - Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.
 - Never use flammable liquids for dry cleaning indoors.
 - Never smoke in bed.
 - Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire.

NOW, in case of fire:
• Most fires occur between midnight and 6 a. m. So always sleep with your bedroom door closed. If you suspect fire, feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape thru the window. But first alert the rest of the household.

• If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket and sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.
• The phone number of your fire department should be typed on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to call them. Call from a neighbor's house.
• If you live in an apartment building, use the stairway. Don't take a chance on the elevator. If it falls, you're trapped.
• Once out, stay out. No treasure—not even the family pet, is worth risking a human life.
It took only a short time to read this column. Was it worth it? I hope so. God bless.

Pirates' Robertson hits 3 homers to beat Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Bob Robertson wasn't kidding when he said he likes to hit in off-criticized Candlestick Park. He proved it Sunday in Pittsburgh's 9-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants in the National League playoffs.

Only 24 hours earlier, the strapping first baseman scoffed at reports that he and his teammates didn't like the wind gusts that play havoc with balls hit in the air. All Robertson did in tying the best-of-five playoff series at one game apiece was club three home runs and drive in five runs.

Robertson, who wound up the campaign with 26 home runs but had not hit one during the last six weeks of the Eastern Division race, also chipped in with a double to wind up with four hits—and 14 total bases. He revealed after the game that his homer drought was the result of "messed up timing," stemming from his knee problems.

entire campaign because of a kidney ailment. "I had two cortisone shots 2-3 weeks ago and they've really helped. "They must have today, because things like this don't happen every day."

Dejected Blue believes perfection required against Oriole lineup

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Dejected, young Vida Blue slumped on a chair in the Oakland A's locker room and simply said, "I had the lead and I let it get away. I blew it."

Blue, who had a three-hitter going into the seventh inning when he was tagged for four runs in Oakland's 5-3 loss to the Baltimore Orioles, said, "Against that club you've got to be perfect."

Blue, who refused to talk to reporters before the game, said he was silent because, "I wanted to concentrate on the game."

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—John Brodie threw three touchdown passes, two to Ted Kwalick and one to Vic Washington, to lead the 49ers to a 31-9 victory Sunday over the Philadelphia Eagles.

Steelers stop Chargers three times inside 6 for 21-17 win

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Terry Bradshaw ran five yards for a fourth quarter touchdown and the Pittsburgh Steelers stopped San Diego three times inside the six yard line in the final 4:47 to beat the Chargers 21-17 Sunday.

The Steelers, whose offense was able to sustain only one drive all day, were not assured of the victory, until Mel Blount broke up a pass to Gary Garrison in the end zone on a fourth down play with only 11 seconds to go.

yard drive, following an interception by Lee Calland, with a one yard scoring play. Aside from their only legitimate touchdown drive, the Steelers crossed midfield just once, on a drive that ended when Roy Gerela missed a 25-yard field goal. The Chargers scored on a 10-yard pass from Hudl to rookie Billy Parks, a four yard run by Mike Garrett and a 21-yard field goal by Dennis Parice.

The first blow went down the rightfield line and cleared the eight-foot high barrier after popping out of the glove of Dave Kingman.

Williams said. Blue thought "I hid as good a stuff as I had in my last three starts. I had good rhythm, my control was on and off, though. I would get it and lose it."

Blue said if the series goes to a fourth game, he's willing to come back Wednesday with two days rest.

Pack rips Bengals to keep record

GREEN BAY (UPI)—The Green Bay Packers, sparked by the 120 rushing yards of rookie John Brockington and a fourth down Cincinnati gamble that failed, continued their perfect regular season record against the old American Football League teams Sunday by beating the Bengals 20-17.

The Packers led rolled to a 10-0 halftime lead on the running of Brockington, Donny Anderson and Dave Hampton and then had to shake off their own mistakes—an interception that resulted in a Cincinnati touchdown and a fumble deep in their own territory—to pick up a second successive victory after an opening game loss.

Green Bay's first-half lead came on a 15 yard field goal by Lou Michaels after Dave Hampton had returned the opening kickoff 80 yards and a four yard run by Anderson early in the second quarter.

The Bengals came back to tie things in the third on a 26 yard kick by Horst Muhlmann and Lemar Parrish's 65-yard return of a Scott Hunter pass.

Miller took over for a struggling Dock Ellis in the sixth, and set down the Giants on no hits until the ninth when he gave up two runs and was replaced by Dave Giusti.

Williams said, "I haven't made any plans yet" as far ahead as Tuesday or Wednesday.

Although Motton's hit tied the game and Blair's won it, both Blue and Williams said Mark Belanger's single that gave Baltimore its second run was "the key hit of the game."

Chiefs top Denver on fumble run

DENVER (UPI)—Kansas City defensive end Aaron Brown grabbed the ball in the air after Denver quarterback Don Horn was hit attempting to pass Sunday and ran 68 yards to lead the Chiefs to a 16-3 American Football Conference win over the Broncos.

The Chiefs' defense proved the best offense in the contest—four times Horn was intercepted and three times the Chiefs cashed in the opportunity.

Miller did a helluva job for three innings, Murtaugh said. "He has been off and on with us most of the time but I thought he was really outstanding today—particularly on a two-strike bunt attempt."

Little Gene Clines, who hit four homers all year, also got into the Pittsburgh long-ball show by putting a "high fast ball which I was looking for" into the leftfield seats.

Blue said he thought he threw only two bad pitches—the one that Hoag Powell hit for a single in the fourth after he was driven out of the box by a swarm of bees and the one Curt Motton tagged for a game-tying double in the seventh on a 3-1 pitch.

Detroit outlasts Atlanta

DETROIT (UPI)—Errol Mann's seemingly innocuous 13-yard field goal with 4:35 left in the game proved to be the difference Sunday for the Detroit Lions when the Atlanta Falcons last-ditch rally fell short, 41-38.

Denver's Jim Turner kicked a 37-yard field goal with 2:14 gone in the first period for Denver's only score. The play was set up when Kansas City quarterback Len Dawson fumbled the first offensive snap of the game.

IT HAS BEEN scientifically determined that a certain small number of husbands invariably get toothaches when their wives are expecting... SOME OF THOSE swinging singles apartment houses are said to pick up about a fourth as much money on the damage deposits as they make on the rents... THIS is peculiar, I think. A German study reveals that individual who is apt to talk most about death is the 4-year-old child.

THREE on a match is unlucky, that's widely believed. Also widely believed is the notion this superstition got started during World War I in the trenches where soldiers felt an enemy sniper would find time to take aim and shoot if a match were kept afire long enough to light the amokes of three men. That's wrong, however. That fancy financial fellow Ivar Kreuger, known as the Match King of Sweden, dreamed up the tricky superstition and promoted it around the world simply to sell more matches.

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "What's the age of the oldest father of a newborn baby?" A. Nobody knows. Oldest I ever heard of was a 92-year-old Iowa physician who delivered his own wife of an 11-pound boy several years ago. But there aren't any truly authenticated records of elderly papas. Documented medical reports frequently attest to maternity, but paternity is rare proved by unimpeachable eyewitness accounts... Q. "How long does it take to age half a beef properly? At what temperature?" A. Maybe four to six weeks. At about 35 degrees F.

OPEN QUESTION: What's the toughest golf-course in the United States?

THINK how many place names were misspelled. Cleveland was named after a man called Cleveland. Australia was supposed to be Australia. Seattle should have been Seattle or Seatl, whichever And Waco started out as Huaco. Never mind, the list gets too long... DO MALE Irish setters particularly go for redheads? Such is the whimsical query of a client. No, they don't, and it's sad. That little lady Irish setter is not a jaying red-haired beauty to another dog. She looks gray.

WHAT'S your stand on that Halloween practice called Trick or Treat? Am opposed, personally. Look, I know my outlook is stuffy. Still, there's something wrong in letting the kids go knock on a neighbor's door to say, in effect, "If you don't give me something free, I'll do you wrong." That's extortion. The youngsters ought to just go ahead and play the trick, which is only vandalism, a lesser offense. Watch this space for further moral guidance.

RARE is the First Aid expert who's aware of this, although many are the biblical scholars who know it. First man of record to practice mouth-to-mouth resuscitation was Elisha.

MAJOR HOOPLE

WHAT'S THE MATTER, WALDO? ANOTHER BATTLE WITH YOUR MATEY YOU HAVEN'T LOOKED THIS GLOOMY SINCE THAT NEW YEARS PARTY WHEN YOU MISSED THE FREE BEER!

I'M AS FLAT AS A 30-CENT PIZZA AND MY WIFE'S ANNIVERSARY IS COMING UP!

ESAD WALDO, THAT'S A MONUMENTAL CRISIS! IN MOMENTS OF GREAT STRESS YOUR WIFE DOES HAVE A TENDENCY TO BECOME A BIT TIGER... ER... AH... DISTRAUGHT!

Disgusted spy quits CIA

OAKTON, Va. (UPI)—Victor Marchetti embarked 16 years ago on a career that was all any aspiring young spy could ask.

But two years ago, after reaching the highest levels of the Central Intelligence Agency, he became disenchanted with what he perceived to be amorality, overwhelming military influence, waste and duplicity in the spy business. He quit.

Fearing today that the CIA may already have begun "going against the enemy with" the United States as they may conceive it—that is, dissident student groups and civil rights organizations—Marchetti, 41, has launched a campaign for more presidential and congressional control over the entire U.S. intelligence community.

"The cold war is fading. So is the war in Southeast Asia, except for Laos. At the same time, we're getting a lot of domestic problems. And there are people in the CIA who—if they aren't right now actually already running domestic operations against student groups, black movements and the like—are certainly considering it."

Great Temptation
"There'll be a great temptation for these people to suggest operations and for a president to approve them or to kind of look the other way. You have the danger of intelligence turning against the nation itself, going against the enemy within."

At Pennsylvania State University Marchetti deliberately prepared himself for an intelligence career, graduating in 1955 with a degree in Russian studies and history.

Through a professor secretly on the CIA payroll as a talent scout, Marchetti netted the prize all would-be spies dream of—an immediate job offer from the CIA.

Marchetti spent one year as a CIA agent in the field and 10 more as an analyst of intelligence relating to the Soviet Union, rising through the ranks until he was helping prepare—the national intelligence estimates for the White House.

During this period, Marchetti says, "I was a hawk. I believed in what we were doing."

Then he was promoted to the executive staff of the CIA, moving to an office on the top floor of the agency's headquarters across the Potomac River from Washington.

The Whole Bit
"I could see how intelligence analysis was done, and how it fitted into the scheme of clandestine operations. It also gave me an opportunity to get a good view of the intelligence community, too—the National Security Agency, the DIA (Defense Intelligence Agency), the National Reconnaissance Organization. The whole bit."

"And I started to see the politics within the community and the politics between the community and the outside. This change of perspective during those three years had a profound effect on me, because I began to see things I didn't like."

With many of his lifelong views about the world shattered, Marchetti decided to abandon his chosen career. One of the last things he did at the CIA was to explain to Director Richard Helms why he was leaving.

"I told him I thought the intelligence community and the intelligence agency were too big and too costly, that I thought there was too much military influence on intelligence—and very bad effects from that—and that I felt the need for more control and more direction."

"We parted friends. I cried all the way home."

Now a Dove
Although now a dove, particularly on Vietnam which he calls an unwinnable war to "support a crooked, corrupt regime that can not even run an election that looks honest," Marchetti says he still believes strongly in the need for intelligence collection.

"It's a fact of life," he said. "For your own protection, you need to know what other people are thinking."

"But intelligence is now a $8 billion a year business, and that is just too big. It can be done for a lot less, and perhaps done better when you count out the waste."

The thing that troubles Marchetti most about the CIA is its penchant for the dark arts of clandestine paramilitary operations, an area made doubly attractive to the agency because the military scarcely can operate in this field.

Vietnam War Explained
"One of the things the CIA clandestine people can do is start up wars," he said. "They can start up a private war in a country, clandestinely, and make it look like it's just something that the local yokels have decided to do themselves."

This, according to Marchetti, is how the United States first began active fighting in Vietnam. It is the type of activity now going on in Cambodia and Laos, where recent congressional testimony revealed the CIA is running a $450 million a year operation, he said.

With the lack of control that exists now over the agency, Marchetti said, an extremely reactionary president could perhaps order the CIA's embedine activities to go beyond mere infiltration.

"I don't think the likelihood of this is very great," Marchetti said. "But one of the ways to prevent this is to let a little sunshine in, to have some more controls by the Congress."

ANTI-POLLUTION STRATEGY
NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Howard Cromwell, of Lafayette, Ind., representing the League of Women Voters, told the annual meeting of the American Home Economics Association about the best anti-pollution action by individuals.

She said it would be to "be aware of community and neighborhood solutions to environmental problems, become the catalyst to do something about them, and then zero in on one specific issue."

Kootenai county eating more spuds

COBUR D'ALENE (UPI)—According to a recent government report, consumption of meat and potatoes has increased in Kootenai County during the past decade.

According to the report by the Department of Agriculture, county residents are consuming meat at the annual rate of 187 pounds per person, an increase of nearly 26 pounds over the figures for 1960. The report also said consumption of potatoes is up nine pounds per person from the 1960 figure of 107 pounds.

Grumbles come uninvited.
Steam Clean gives 'em the business!
Grumbles are the deep down dirt in your carpet. They move in with the first muddy shoe and keep building up in layer after layer of cookie crumbs, cat fur, conopos and peanut butter. Grumbles are stubborn! Surface scrubbing drives them in deeper. Chances are they'll reappear just as your mother-in-law walks through the door. There's only one way to really clean a carpet. Steam clean! Steam clean! It loosens, softens and gets the Grumbles out!
Mechanical scrubbing agitation and foam can't get the dirt from deep in the carpet pile.
Steam clean injects wet steam with a cleaning additive and instantly vacuums out the loosened dirt.
Your carpets are not only clean but sanitary clean. Impacted areas are lifted, removed, the pile loosened and lifted.
STEAM CARPET CLEANERS.
