New panels will rein runaway US inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon unveiled the goals of his post-freeze economic policy Thursday, passing along to two new citizens' boards the key decisions on permissible wage and price increases.

Nixon in a national television and radio broadcast, announced creation of a 15-member pay board with representatives of labor, management and the general public, and a seven-member price commission of non-government members to establish the guidelines for the next phase of inflation control policy.

The wage-price freeze, as previously announced, remains in effect until Nov. 13. "The wage-price freeze has been remarkably successful," Nixon said. "The primary credit for the success of this first step in the fight against rising prices belongs to you, it belongs to the American people. It is you who have shown a willingness to cooperate in the campaign against inflation." Officials said Nixon's objective was to reduce the annual rate of increase in the cost of living to between 2 and 3 per cent by the end of next year, about half of the pre-freeze level of 4.7 per cent. No effort would be made to stop all price increases. The officials indicated some prices would be permitted to increase more than 3 per cent while others would be held to less than that amount or even required to decline. Administration sources refused to discuss possible wage guidelines. But they said the yardstick probably would be more complex than the 3.2 per cent rate of increase allowed under the voluntary guidelines of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. Different guidelines may be established for different industries, they said.

Labor charges 'double cross'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Labor officials charged a "double cross" Thursday night after White House officials explained that the administration will hold veto power over wage and price decisions during the post-freeze period of President Nixon's economic controls.

Congressional reaction to Nixon's speech generally was favorable, however, although two senators said the President should have attacked unemployment with the same fervor he showed for holding down wages and prices.

Phase II:

1. Goal: 2-3% inflation
2. How: price board regulation
3. Profits: can rise, but no 'windfalls'
4. New authority to control interest
5. Penalties: stiff

New bill would ban handguns

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Citing what he called an "incredible overkill in our bedrooms and living rooms," Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., introduced a bill today to ban private ownership of handguns.

Hart's measure would go far beyond other handgun legislation by arranging for the government purchase of all handguns and the arrest of anyone possessing one after six months. "Possessing a handgun in the house doesn't increase your security, it diminishes it," Hart told reporters in explaining his bill.

Two other measures are aimed primarily at keeping inexpensive, small handguns termed "Saturday night specials" out of the hands of street criminals.

Some of the strongest opposition to such legislation has been based on the need for the private citizen to have a handgun in his home for protection.

Hart said, however, that if it could be understood that possession is more dangerous than it is helpful, "I think the support would be strong" for his bill.

"We've got an incredible overkill in our bedrooms and living rooms in our own country," he said. Total government purchase of the estimated 25 million handguns in the country would cost more than $500 million, Hart said, adding "I'd vote to appropriate that tonight" if it would get rid of handguns.

His bill would exempt guns for the military, police, antique collectors and target shooting clubs which would store them in secure-club facilities or at a police station.

Reds bombard border bases

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese artillery today renewed its bombardment of allied bases around the Cambodian town of Krok and on the South Vietnamese side of the border despite heavy U.S. air attacks.

Among the bases hit by the Communist guns was a South Vietnamese position in Krok and nearby Camp Alpha, freed only Monday from a 10-day North Vietnamese siege.

Scores of Communist rockets and mortar rounds hit both outposts and other positions nearby took indirect fire attacks six times Thursday night. Casualties were reported as insignificant.

U.S. Fire Base Pace, a mile south of the Cambodian border on Highway 22, was hit by 50 rounds of 82mm mortar fire in 10 separate shellings Thursday night and today. But there were no casualties or damage, the U.S. command said.

American B52 bombers, tactical low level fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships kept up strikes at the guerrillas at the end of a second full week of Communist pressure in the area 85 miles northwest of Saigon.

South Vietnamese armored troops reported killing 50 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and destroying eight Communist antiaircraft sites with help from air strikes and artillery near Krok.

Meany angry

Harvard economist John Kenneth Galbraith, an advisor to President Kennedy, said Nixon's speech was "not bad on the whole." It shows that educational value in economics of responsibility combined with the need to get re-elected.

Economist Milton Friedman said the success of the post-freeze policy will depend on the ability of the government to restrain itself, not upon cooperation of the public. He said the real forces producing inflation "are the fiscal and monetary policies of the federal government."

Meany declined comment following Nixon's speech and aides said a prepared statement was pulled back unexpectedly. Sources said Meany came away from the White House briefing believing the wage-price boards would operate independently of government controls.

Dockmen return to work

By United Press International
The longest dock strike in West Coast history—100 days—appeared to be over today as the 15,000 striking dockworkers heeded union leader Harry Bridges' advice and began returning to work.

The workers had ignored a federal court back-to-work order obtained Wednesday by government lawyers after President Nixon used the Taft-Hartley Act for the first time during his administration.

Bridges' sent telegrams Thursday to locals of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) instructing the men to end the walkout. Twenty-four Pacific ports were affected.

The union leader of 225 striking grain elevator workers in the Chicago area also returned to work today, adhering to a federal court back-to-work order.

The East Coast and Gulf Coast dockworkers strike continued, however, as did the week old strike by 80,000 coal miners. Nixon did not seek a back-to-work court order for the 140,000 East and Gulf Coast dockworkers. White House officials said he is hopeful a high-level mediator can end the dispute. Talks continued in New York between management and dockworkers.

Kosygin lands at Morocco

RABAT, Morocco (UPI)—Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin arrived today from Socialist-led Algeria for a three-day visit to westward-leaning Morocco. He told the Algerians Russia would arm its Arab allies but would seek a peaceful solution of the Middle East conflict.

Kosygin landed in Casablanca and drove immediately to Rabat for his meeting with King Hassan II of Morocco.

Before departing Algiers, Kosygin spoke briefly to newsmen at Dnr el Bekin airfield. With President Houari Boumediene by his side, Kosygin said: "We consider that the return of Arab lands occupied by Israel should be achieved through political means and not through war. We shall do everything possible to achieve this," he said.

Jobless index drops for month

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Unemployment decreased slightly from 6.1 to 6.0 per cent in September, the first full month under President Nixon's new economic policies, the government said today.

During the same period, the total number of persons with jobs increased by 325,000 to an all-time high of 79.5 million after seasonal adjustment for the return to school by students who had joined the work force during the summer.

The report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics was the second in two days showing improved economic conditions for the nation during Nixon's 90-day wage-price freeze.

The actual number of persons with jobs in September declined by more than 1.3 million, the BLS said, but added that this was less than usual for August and September when many students return to school. Therefore, after seasonal adjustment, officials said the number of persons with jobs actually increased by 325,000.

The gain in employment was concentrated among part-time workers and 130,000 of the gain was in manufacturing. This represented the largest monthly gain in factory jobs in more than five years with the exception of two months in which striking automobile workers returned to their jobs.

Officials said average weekly earnings of rank and file workers went down 27 cents in September to $128.76 because of a 0.2 hour decline in the average work week to 36.7 hours—lowest in a year.

Despite the slight statistical decline of 0.1 per cent in joblessness, the BLS termed total unemployment in September as "virtually unchanged" from August.

Key Irish reservoir blasted

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Gunmen today blew up a pumping station at a reservoir, threatening to cut off water supplies to Belfast, a British army spokesman said.

The blast blew a hole in the side of a tank and left the station in a shambles, the spokesman said. The station, he said, was vital to the pumping of water to the city but that it was not known immediately how long supplies would be cut off.

The explosion came amid a water shortage that already has forced rationing in the city. Water is cut off regularly each day for 12 hours and was cut off at the time of today's blast, an official said.

Water experts estimated that four days of torrential rain, providing 42 inches of water, would be necessary before the rationing could be lifted.

Meanwhile, an army source said the 1,500 additional army troops ordered to the province by the British government likely would arrive within two weeks.

Attica said 'race war'

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—A member of a five-man observation team at the uprising at Attica State Prison says the re-inkoover which claimed 42 lives was a "large scale race war."

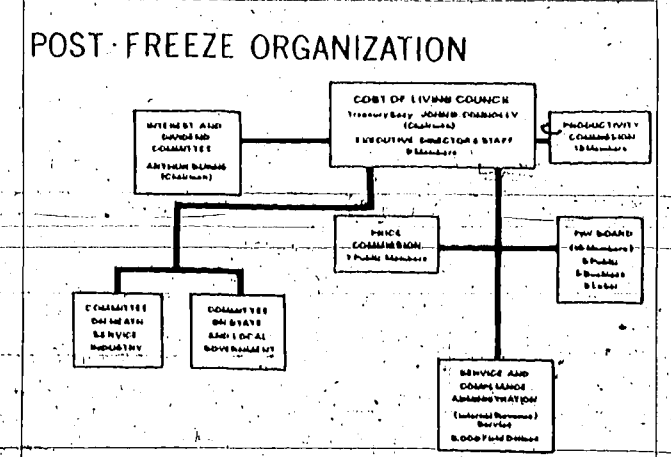

"Only the most naive person would believe the same thing would have happened if the prisoners were all white," Julian Tepper said Thursday at a news conference prior to a speech at Brown University.

"Sixty per cent of the prisoners at Attica were black or brown, probably 75 per cent in Yard D. All the guards, all the state police and all the National Guardsmen were white," he said, and blamed New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for not going to the prison.

Program called slipper, not boot

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon dropped his other economic shoe Thursday, and it turned out to be more of a slipper than a boot.

Unlike the stunning broad Phase I program that resounded throughout the world's economy, Nixon's follow-on program consists not of decrees but of guidelines whose initial impact will be soft and whose long-range effects may be diffuse.

The President laid out the general framework for Phase II of his economic program and the machinery that will run it, but only the general framework.

Left unanswered were many of the questions foremost in the average person's mind: How much will wages, prices and profits be allowed to rise after Nov. 13? Who will be affected? How long will the controls last? What about unemployment? Most of these issues will be thrashed out during the next month by the presidentially appointed Pay Board and Price Commission, the two panels which will carry most of the load in Phase II.

White House officials declined to be specific about economic targets, saying only that they hoped to reduce inflation to an annual rate of 2-3 per cent by the end of 1972. That would be a considerable achievement since no major industrial nation currently has an inflation rate that low. No mention was made of the bleak unemployment picture or what improvement the administration aims for.

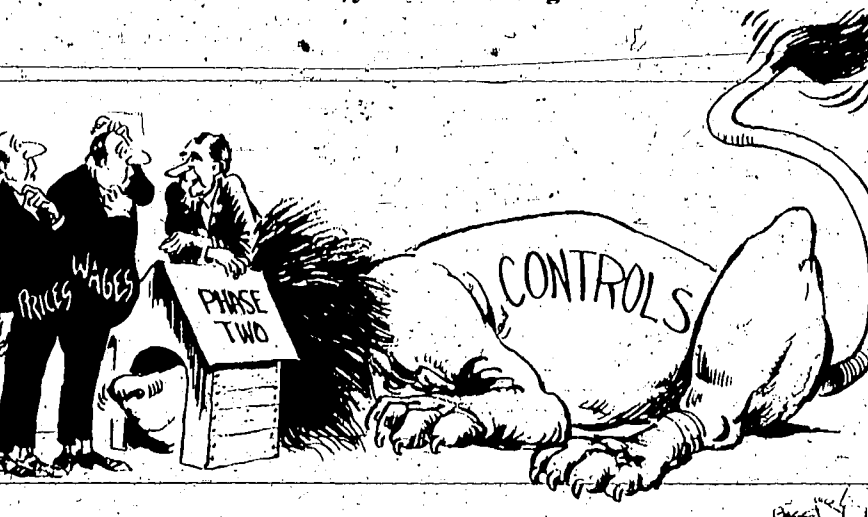

The administration has fashioned an ingenious three-part surveillance system that is hoped will keep the entire economy honest—from factory to hot dog stand—without creating the massive bureaucracy that Nixon recalls with distaste from his days as a World War II price administrator.

Under the plan, only a few large firms and unions, whose wage and price decisions make waves throughout the economy, will have to petition the boards for an increase. While no names were mentioned, they are sure to include such corporate and labor giants as the steel and auto industries and the United Auto Workers union.

The President's plan weaves a fine line between labor demands to be included in the making of post-freeze economic decisions and the willingness of most businessmen to let the administration continue calling the shots.

Organized labor was given five of the 15 seats on the pay board, with the others going to representatives of management and the public. All seven members of the price commission will be "distinguished private citizens," the White House said.

Phase II plans told

Nixon said profits would not be controlled except for "windfall" profits resulting from the economic policy itself. He said the Pay Commission would require businesses to cut prices if they run up "exorbitant" profits because of controls on the wages of their employees, and the cost of their supplies.

The labor-management-public makeup of the Pay Board was a concession to organized labor which demanded such a tripartite body.

But administration officials said the cabinet-level Cost of Living Council—headed by Treasury Secretary John B. Connally—would retain ultimate authority and could veto the guidelines set by either the pay board or price commission. Business representatives wanted the government to retain control of overall policy.

Nixon said the government was prepared to enforce the wage and price guidelines but he said the success of the program would depend upon voluntary cooperation of labor, management and the general public.

Nixon acted under the authority granted to him by the Economic Stabilization Act which expires April 30. He asked Congress to extend the law for a year.

In addition to the pay and prices bodies, Nixon established a Dividend Committee headed by Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns, to supervise interest rates and corporate dividends. Officials said, however, that the committee should have little to do because interest rates have declined recently and almost all corporations have complied with Nixon's request to avoid increases in dividends.

In the address from his Oval Office, Nixon insisted he would not create vast bureaucracy to enforce economic policy.

"Stabilization must be made to work not by an army of bureaucrats, but by an all-volunteers army of patriotic citizens in every walk of life," he said.

But he added, "If there are any who try to take advantage of the patriotic cooperation of their fellow Americans, I can assure you that the government must be prepared to act against them."

The wage-price rules will be policed by 880 legal field offices of the Internal Revenue Service. The IRS has been filling a similar function with regard to the 90-day freeze which began Aug. 15.

Administration officials said for the purpose of post-freeze policy, the economy would be divided into three segments.

The biggest and most economically important firms would be required to seek prior approval of the pay or price boards before increasing wages or prices. The officials declined to give examples of companies or unions in this category but the steel and auto industries,

Pulled out

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command ordered 1,045 American soldiers withdrawn from Vietnam Thursday, lowering U.S. troop strength to 207,500.

The withdrawals are being carried out in accordance with President Nixon's announced goal of reducing the number of U.S. troops to 184,000 by Dec. 1. The United States had 543,400 men in Vietnam at the peak of its involvement in April, 1969.

The average child born today can expect to live 15 years longer than one born in 1900.

Handgun sale end nearing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Justice Department official told Congress Tuesday that administration hopes to propose legislation soon that would outlaw the sale of "Saturday night special" handguns, but that it was troubled by the technical problem of classifying such weapons.

Donald E. Santarelli, Associate deputy attorney general, testified before the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee, which is holding hearings on a bill sponsored by its chairman, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., to prohibit the sale of the cheap, low-quality guns.

Santarelli said he hoped the administration could produce its own bill "in as little as 45 days from now," but that it was being delayed by the necessity of defining the weapons in terms of caliber, size, safety and the purpose for which they are used.

As a lawyer, Bayh said he could appreciate such technical problems. "But I have the feeling the technology could be worked out in a month's time."

Bayh's bill would amend the 1968 Gun Control Act to, in effect, make it illegal to sell guns that did not meet the standards set forth for imported handguns.

Arrest threat told

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A United Mine Workers local union official has told U.S. District Court he was threatened with arrest and physical violence when he tried to serve as a poll watcher at the UMW's 1969 election.

Ernest Riddle of Cannelton, W.Va., also testified Thursday he saw the ballot box of a West Virginia local emptied five times during the election. Judge William B. Bryant agreed the practice looked irregular.

Riddle said he was treasurer of his local at Cannelton when he served as an election observer at Smithers, W.Va., for Joseph A. (Joek) Yablonski, Yablonski, who lost the race for UMW president to W. A. (Tony) Boyle, was murdered less than a month after the December, 1969, balloting.

The Labor Department, through the federal court trial, is trying to set aside the election on grounds there were violations of the labor laws.

Riddle testified that a Fayette County, W.Va., constable threatened to jail him if he continued to try to write down names of persons voting in the local. He said the local's president threatened to "throw me down the stairs" if he interfered in the election.

Boyle carried the local by a tight 170-171 vote.

Peter Bordenius of New Orleans, who acted as a Yablonski observer while a Cornell University student, said he also was threatened while watching balloting at local 69-2 at Eynon, Pa., near Scranton.

Bordenius said that when he attempted to count the ballots before the voting and inspect the ballot box, he was threatened by Charles Zelno, recording secretary for the local.

Air sniffer may detect narcotics

BOISE (UPI)—The chief of the San Francisco Bureau of Narcotics, Robert Sager, told northwest drug analysts Thursday an "air sniffer" to detect narcotics is being tested.

He said the sniffer would prove to be a major breakthrough for the control of illegal drugs if perfected and added that a number of manufacturers are working on the research.

Idaho reaction differs on plan

BOISE (UPI)—Reaction from two Idaho bankers and a labor union official differed sharply over the announcement by President Nixon of Phase Two of his economy policy to control inflation.

Thomas Frye, president of the Idaho First National Bank, said, "The President continues to think in entirely new patterns to curtail inflation by asking the public to bear with him in solving the problems which are more difficult than first imagined."

Frye said he would "generally support" Nixon's new proposals, but predicted that "we are in for some long-term control over the economy."

But Robert MacFarlane, Idaho state AFL-CIO president, said the President's new proposals in Phase Two were not "unexpected." He said, "Demands have been placed on labor and the wage-people, but there's nothing on the other side except requests to control prices."

MacFarlane said the only way prices could be controlled would be through an excess-profits tax, but "there's nothing said about this."

J. Grant Bickmore, Poentello, president of the Idaho Bank and Trust Co., said he thought "what the President outlined is a pretty good form of control."

Bickmore said he thought if inflation was to be contained, some form of control would be necessary.

Pollution by mining firm hit

BOISE (UPI)—An administrative action was filed before the State Board of Health Thursday against the Bunker Hill Co., Kellogg, for the abatement of alleged heavy metal pollution on the South Fork of the Coeur d'Alene River.

The complaint, filed by State Health Administrator Terrell O. Carver, alleges Bunker Hill is operating an electrolytic zinc plant, a lead smelter and a phosphoric acid plant discharges quantities of zinc, lead, cadmium, mercury and fluoride directly into Government Creek, the south fork of the river, and then into the Spokane River.

The complaint seeks an order requiring a reduction of the discharges following a timetable of levels to be reached by Dec. 31, 1972, by Dec. 31, 1973, and by July 1, 1974.

'Friend,' Mafia link told

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UPI) — Bobo Rebozo, President Nixon's millionaire Florida friend, awarded a $673,839 shopping center construction job financed through a deal with a federal agency to a former

Cleveland-Mafia mobster, it was reported Thursday. In a second of a series of articles entitled "Rebozo and a U.S. Loan: Capitalizing on Friends," the newspaper Newsday quoted Rebozo's partner in the 1968 Miami, Fla., project, realtor C. V. W. Trice Jr., as saying they stopped among "five or six" contractors for the lowest price before awarding the job to Alfonso (Big Al) Polizzi.

But Trice has refused to reveal any of the comparative bid figures," said Newsday, whose reporting team assigned to the series was rebuffed in attempts to interview Rebozo himself.

Polizzi was jailed in Ohio in 1943 on conviction of violation of war price controls and tax evasion. He was a star witness before the Kefauver Committee in 1950, and as late as 1964 the Federal Bureau of Narcotics described him as one of the most influential members of the underworld in the United States. (In Washington, White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said he would not comment on the series.)

Regional airport forum set Oct. 14

TWIN FALLS — Pro and cons of the proposed regional airport for Magic Valley will be discussed at a public forum Oct. 14 sponsored by the Twin Falls League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Stephan Smith, league president, said there will be four speakers, two for and two against the proposal on which residents in eight counties will vote at a special election Oct. 26.

The public forum, scheduled for 8 p.m. Oct. 14 in Room 117-118 of the Academic building at College of Southern Idaho, will give valley residents opportunity to cast a more informed vote, she said.

George Forschler, Burley, president of the Interim

Regional Airport Board, and Harry LeMayne, Twin Falls, board member, will speak in favor of the proposal to establish a regional airport authority.

Speaking against the proposal will be Winston Jones, Twin Falls city councilman, and Jean Miller, Twin Falls city manager, who will give facts on the Twin Falls City-County Airport and its maintenance.

The public will have opportunity to ask questions of the speakers, Mrs. Smith said.

The Oct. 26 election will be held in all precincts in Blaine, Camas, Cassia, Gooding, Jerome, Lincoln, Minidoka and Twin Falls counties. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m.

Kiwanis installs Lassen president

TWIN FALLS — Bert Lassen, an official of Gem Equipment Sales, Inc., was installed as president of the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club Thursday.

Lassen succeeds Dr. James Taylor, president of the College of Southern Idaho.

Other officers installed at the meeting at the Turf Club were Jack Muldoon, manager of Penny Wise Drug, first vice-president; Jerry Meyerhoefer, on the executive staff at CSI, second vice-president; W. W. Prantz, retired postmaster, treasurer; Claude Brown, Jr., of Brown Furniture and Drapery, treasurer.

New board members are John Doorr, Winston Jones; Richard Reed and Paul Reynolds. Holdover directors are Guy Belcher, Jerry Holman, Coley Parrish, Bob Wright and Harold Wycoff. Installing officer was Lawrence Knigge, Filer, Kiwanis lieutenant-governor for District Five.

At Thursday's session, Muldoon, United Fund officer, said 12 members of Kiwanis are leaders in the current campaign. He said they include James Sinclair, chairman; Stephen Bancroft, Noel Brittain, George Driver, Robert Ellis, William Evans, Earl Faulkner, W. W. Prantz, Jerry Molman, Ken Montgomery and Meyerhoefer.

A BACKHOE SCOOP symbolizes the construction work (preceded by destruction of the street) in Twin Falls in the second phase of the downtown revitalization project. Workmen and heavy equipment are trenching the alleys and Shoshone Street to the intersection of Second Avenue West and South for installation of a storm sewer network. Overhead utility lines will be buried in the next step of the work, followed by demolition and reconstruction of parking lots next year.

Crime chiefs linked to coercion attempts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With testimony linking underworld chieftains to a wave of violence against the A&P food chain fresh in their minds, Senate investigators today planned to question officials of Grand Union stores about attempted coercion against their outlets.

San. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said the questioning would center on "the same group" of people named in extensive testimony this week as involved in unsuccessful strong-arm tactics to get A&P to market an inferior detergent in 1965.

Magnuson, whose Commerce Committee is probing alleged organized crime infiltration into legitimate businesses, said today's hearing would disclose more about the "whole pattern" of mob pressures revealed in the A&P case.

Thursday, a trio of New York City police detectives linked high-level members of the underworld "family" of the late Vito Genovese to the problems A&P suffered when it refused to market a detergent made by North American Chemical Corp. of Paterson, N.J., under the chain's label.

Those problems included a rash of fire bombings at stores and warehouses in the New York City area with damage of some $7.5 million, as well as the murder of a store manager in the Bronx.

The detectives, specialists in organized crime, testified under oath that:

Joseph Pecora, secretary-treasurer of Teamster Union local 863 in Newark, N.J., is a "lieutenant" in the Genovese mob, which they said is now run in Gerardo (Gerry) Catena. A&P officials earlier this week named Pecora as one of two union leaders who tried to force the chain into accepting the detergent, judged "the worst" of several tested by A&P chemists.

—Eugene (Gene) Catena, head of Best Sales Co., hired by North American Chemical to push its product, was at the same time a "lieutenant" in his

Paulsen's CSI visit expensive

TWIN FALLS — Pat Paulsen's "lecture" was expensive — for the CSI student body.

Jack Sims, student affairs director for the College of Southern Idaho, said only 500 students and others attended Wednesday's presentation of the comedian, who has appeared repeatedly on nationwide television and ran for "President" in a comic campaign in 1968.

Paulsen was sponsored by the student body's Social Affairs Committee, which had to guarantee his payment of $2,500 for the one-night stand. About $1,200 was collected from ticket sales, leaving the remaining $1,300 to be paid by the college, Sims said.

The loss will not cripple student-body activities for the year, since allocations are made each semester from the college general fund, Sims added. A greater loss, however, could have hampered scheduling of other featured performers, at least for the first semester.

FILER — A survey is being conducted in Filer to determine the number of people interested in low-income housing. According to Rev. Roy Watson, chairman of the committee of the Filer Housing Authority, the survey is being aimed at elderly and low income people. Applications are now available at the Filer City office for those interested in this form of housing. Interested persons are urged to fill them out and return them to the committee for its records. Filling out an application in no way binds the person and the survey will provide information for future planning. A location for building the units has not yet been selected. A representative of the federal housing authority is expected in the area soon to look at a number of different locations available.

Idaho Politics

The Idaho political pot has really started to boil now that George V. Hansen is quoted as making up his mind he will enter the race for the Senate seat being vacated next year by retirement of Senator Jordan.

Hansen, a tireless campaigner, is confident he can win, according to a source close to him in Washington, D.C. where he is now deputy administrator for the agricultural stabilization and conservation service of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Hansen is said to see only spotty support for former Governor Robert Smylie and little support at all for Bill Bergeson, Pocatello, who has announced. He also believes that Cong. James McClure, who is expected to announce, will not be anxious to take the chance of a three-man race and at the same time give up his first district Congressional seat to a Democrat.

In this section of Idaho the campaign to stir up support for Hansen is underway right now. The Times-News found organizations being formed in Twin Falls, Jerome, Cassia and Minidoka counties.

Hansen's ability to get votes is not to be taken lightly. His two terms in Congress came as a result of substantial vote getting. In one instance more than 71 per cent of the voters went his way. He has kept his hand in the political whirl during his present stay in Washington.

We just can't see Hansen, McClure and Smylie all running for the nomination. It will be interesting to see how it will all turn out. Meanwhile Hansen is apparently serious and his formal announcement waits only for the right time and the right place.

About Bumpers

They didn't exactly say it couldn't be done, but there were sounds of great anguish from Detroit a bit back when Washington set federal bumper safety standards and deadlines for compliance.

As spelled out by the National Highway Safety Bureau, the new rules of the roads require that, beginning with 1973 models, front bumpers must be capable of withstanding a 5 m.p.h. barrier crash without damage to any essential element of the vehicle—light, fuel system, exhaust. Rear bumpers need absorb only half the frontal jolt, but the following year crash resistance must be strengthened there too, and other refinements will be required, such as uniform bumper heights to prevent over- and underriding.

Not too much, it might appear to the layman, to ask of an industry that has given us the hydraulic drive and wraparound windshield. But time was too short and the engineering and styling problems too great, motormen said. Until they went to work on the problem.

Now it appears that automakers not only will meet the standards, but in some lines do it ahead of schedule. The biggest of them all, General Motors, is reported to have greatly strengthened bumpers in all divisions and to have passed the 5 m.p.h. test with a 1972 Buick.

Various techniques are being developed in the quest for a better bumper—heavier construction, bumpers within bumpers, hydraulic and spring-mounts and cushions of energy-absorbing materials.

There is, as expected, a price to be paid in styling. Protruding bumpers give the cars a less-svelte appearance, but nothing, it develops, so cumbersome as designers originally feared. And beauty, after all, is in the eye of the beholder. The prospects of lower repair bills and insurance premiums are likely to exert a strong influence on how many-car owners see this development.

As someone once said, what's good for General Motors.

WASHINGTON — I know exactly what the reaction of the super liberal columnists would be if Richard Nixon nominated God to the Supreme Court. They would accuse him of trying to pack the Court against atheists. In the political backing and filling over the appointment of successors to Associate Justices Hugo Black and John Harlan, Nixon has suffered an ironic bombardment by his critics to the left. Beating their pious breasts, they have demanded that he "rise above politics" — meaning that he should appoint men of their political coloration. I say ironic because these critics apparently believe that it is wrong for a President to be swayed by political considerations in such appointments only when his name is Richard Nixon. They operate under a double standard, conveniently forgetting that every President — especially recent Democratic Presidents — seeks to put on the bench men he believes share his political philosophy. Assorted pundits also have proclaimed that a Supreme Court appointee must be a sitting reformer judge. Actually, nothing in the Constitution says that a member of the highest court even be a lawyer, and it might be a good idea if some other profession, some day, were elevated to that bench. But let us not split hairs of that kind. Let us, instead, look at the record. Justice Black, who died recently, and Justice William Douglas, still unfortunately a member of the Court, both were appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Both were politicians — Black as a Senator from Alabama, and Douglas as a former law professor and chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission unwaveringly dedicated to New Deal policies.

Douglas was never a judge and, indeed, practiced law only briefly. Black was a magistrate back home in Alabama before coming to Congress. He lived down the fact he once belonged to the Ku Klux Klan to become one of the Court's greatest legal minds. Harry Truman named to the bench Tom Clark and Sherman Minton. Clark got his start on the rough-and-tough political stage of Texas. He was U. S. Attorney General at the time of his appointment to the Supreme Court, but had never been a judge. Minton, a U.S. Senator from Indiana and a Truman Fair Dealer, served on the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit.

politicians, but never judges. Byron (Whizzer) White, still on the bench, is a former All-American football player from Colorado, whose only association with the judiciary was a one-year term as clerk to the Chief Justice. He ran Kennedy's campaign in Colorado. Goldberg was special counsel of the politically muscular AFL-CIO at the time of his appointment; his background was almost entirely that of a labor lawyer. Lyndon Johnson's appointments also were purely political. One was Justice Thurgood Marshall, the first Negro ever to sit on the Court. Enough said. But Marshall had served with distinction as U.S. Solicitor General and a member of the U. S. Second Circuit Court of Appeals. Fortas was merely an old crony of and adviser to LBJ. He resigned under fire of charges that he had been a touch greedy in his moonlighting activities.

"Somebody Should Clean This Mirror!"

Both of John F. Kennedy's appointments to the Court were me, if not Richard Nixon's liberal critics, that this is a dream. Whether we like it or not, politics is the name of the governmental game, which includes such juicy patronage as appointments to John Jay's old shop. The thought that a President would ignore this political fact-of-life and death in filling Supreme Court vacancies has nothing going for it but its nobility.

Both of John F. Kennedy's appointments to the Court were

Shingles

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I understand that the cause of shingles is similar to the virus of chickenpox. Is there great danger of getting shingles by being where a child is coming down with chickenpox although there is no physical contact with the child?

There must be frequent instances of children mingling with the public in restaurants, etc., just before coming down; so may we assume that this fact alone could account for many cases of shingles? How long a time intervenes between the time the virus invades the system and any sign of shingles manifests itself?

These are good questions—as we always say when the answers aren't going to be easy. The viruses of shingles and chickenpox are evidently very similar. They may not be identical.

It is thought that shingles is a "response of the host"—that is, shingles is the way some people react to the virus. It isn't the same in older people as it is with most children. (Very occasionally a child gets shingles, but that's pretty rare.)

When a child gets chickenpox, it is a response of the total body. You have chickenpox all over. When an adult gets shingles, it affects a nerve root, and the miseries (blebs, itching, pain) affect the part of the body served by that nerve. You don't get shingles all over.

Whereas chickenpox is spread by direct contact—one child gets the virus from another—it is thought that with shingles the virus may remain dormant in the body for a lifetime. In that event, the "response," or having shingles break out, occurs when some change in the human system allows the virus to become active.

Some oldsters do develop shingles after contact with a child with chickenpox; others (most) give no history of any such contact.

I doubt, therefore, that being in the presence of a child coming down with chickenpox, or even in a restaurant, theater, or even home, has much relation to shingles. The contact must be close. And the important thing is whether a person's system is in a condition receptive to shingles. It is, after all, eminently clear that an invalid or person in feeble health suffers more and longer from shingles than does a person in otherwise robust health.

The incubation period for chickenpox—the time between contact and appearance of the disease—is 14 days, more or less. It is quite predictable with children, but not predictable with adults.

Here's an example from my own family: a young domestic developed chickenpox. Two weeks later one of my sons broke out. Two weeks after that, his twin brother broke out.

But their father, who had had chickenpox as a child, didn't. He came down with a mild case of shingles a quarter of century later. Young adults, if healthy, seldom get shingles.

My advice to older folks is to avoid intimate contact with a child who has chickenpox, but not to unduly alarm about the risk of happening to be in the same room with a child who is about to break out.

The Rest And Sam

Suddenly Russia and Red China are more afraid of one another than either is of us. What's that all about? Russia's Red Army newspaper Red Star says Red China "is preparing for war with the Soviet Union."

At the same time, Red China's leading theoretical journal, Red Flag, fingers Russia as "The new enemy."

For two decades those governments have held their people together in fear of us — the United States. Now each identifies the other as its enemy number one.

If President Nixon meant his overture to Red China to fuel this fire, it has.

Since Peking agreed to a summit meeting with President Nixon, every issue of Red Flag has fumed its wrath, fear and suspicion toward Moscow. Similarly, almost every day since the July 17 announcement, Red Star has attacked Mao Tse-tung and his "ruthless military rule."

"Ruthless military rule" — genocidal slaughter — characterized the establishment of communism in Russia under Stalin. So Russia knows what Red China is going through. The story of Peking's 22 years of iron rule has blood on every page.

And where Red China has enough real estate, Mao would like to surround himself with nations "friendly to Maoist communism" even as Russia has sought to surround herself with Hungary, Poland, East Germany.

Both have sought through indigenous organizations to subvert or "convert," as they see it, as many other nations as possible, including ours. And by whatever means.

Communism has not captured a following in the United States, and supporting worldwide espionage and sabotage is astronomically expensive.

Recently, instead, Russia has been tending to smile our way. Russia has sought to establish a dialogue with the United States on such vital subjects as nuclear arms limitation, easing Berlin tensions, so forth.

While Moscow moves more and more Russian troops to her long, long border with Red China.

Similarly, Red China has parted the bamboo curtain enough to allow American visitors, increasing trade with us, has agreed to a summit meeting with our President.

But Red China is no less red, the Peking regime no less militaristic. Of the 25 members and candidate members of the ruling Politburo, 15 are military officers. Of the 279-member Central Committee of the Chinese Communist Party, 145 are military men.

Of the 29 provincial revolutionary committees 24 are headed by military men.

President Nixon is not deluded about the nature of either of these world powers. He does not imagine that either the paranoid bear or the fire-breathing dragon is suddenly broken to harness.

But each needs an external enemy for its own internal cohesiveness; they need one another right now.

Today's diplomats cannot think in terms of victory or defeat. Each year that the world does not make an ash of itself is a victory of sorts for us all.

ROBERT ALLEN

Mme. Chiang

WASHINGTON — There is a chance Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the long-time head of Nationalist China, may come to the U.S. to participate in the intensifying opposition to President Nixon's new policy of rapprochement with Red China.

Such a visit is being strongly urged by leaders of the organizations and forces challenging the President's course.

Both Mme. Chiang and her 84-year-old husband, reportedly favor the idea.

But there is one critical reservation — her health.

Mme. Chiang is 75 and in delicate health. When she last visited the U. S., in 1966, the announced purpose was for treatment of a "skin ailment." She stayed 14 months, and traveled throughout the country giving a number of talks.

The question of Mme. Chiang's stamina is understood to have been raised with American friends who proposed her coming here.

It was pointed out to them that such a trip, involving extensive traveling and numerous appearances, is certain to be very strenuous and far too much for her strength and endurance. Her husband, the Generalissimo, particularly stressed this factor.

However, the plan is still deemed "under advisement." For Mme. Chiang, visiting the U. S. would be an old experience. She has been here many times and in various roles.

During World War II, when the Nationalist Chinese were allies of the U. S. in fighting Japan, Mme. Chiang was a guest of the White House. She addressed a joint session of Congress and was warmly acclaimed.

She spent seven months in this country in 1952-53, traveling widely and vigorously advocating the Nationalist cause. The Communist rulers in Peking were then loudly threatening to attack Taiwan, and were actively bombarding Quemoy and Matsu, two Nationalist strongholds near the mainland.

Five years later, Mme. Chiang again returned to the U. S. for a 13-month stay between 1958-59. The Eisenhower administration was then in office and more friendly to the Nationalists than the previous Truman regime. Secretary of State Dulles was particularly cordial, and enunciated a policy of active U.S. support of Taiwan.

Throughout this period, the Taiwan government received more than $1 billion in economic and military aid. Strong U.S. air and naval forces are still stationed there.

Several months ago, this column disclosed that inner White House circles were increasingly concerned over growing strains and stresses with Nationalist China as a result of the new Red China policy.

One plan under consideration, as a possible placatory measure was a trip to Taiwan by Secretary of State Rogers. He had been there in 1960, and conferred with top Nationalist officials.

A return visit is still a possibility. A high authoritative source told this column, "The matter is on a back burner for the present, but still simmering." It was explained further developments depend on what happens at the United Nations on the Administration's so-called "two-China policy" — the admission of Red China and the Nationalists retaining membership.

MR. SPECTATOR

Several Suggestions

Mr. Spectator received a note from Kristi Rushing, Route Two, Jerome, who offered a few suggestions anent Twin Falls' downtown mall. The note said "I keep reading complaints about the new downtown mall."

The note continues: "I would like to offer two ideas, though. One would be to close Main street to traffic—motor traffic, that is—and let it be for pedestrians only. Improve the parking in back of the stores and let the store owners improve their rear entrances so people won't feel they're sneaking in the back door. (Mr. Spectator's note: the parking areas are being improved and enlarged and the back of the stores are also, or have been, improved at the present time).

"Have you ever visited Fresno, Calif.? They have a beautiful shopping mall, closed to motor traffic, and with lots of adjacent parking space. Fresno is a large mall, and they also provide little open bus-trains for shoppers' convenience.

"I have seen this Fresno mall myself and the concept of no cars would be a good idea for Twin Falls. You might check this in back issues of the Readers Digest as Fresno was featured in that publication several years back.

"One other suggestion for the center district of Twin Falls is this. It's hard enough to find your way around all those diagonal streets without having all the names sound alike. Rather than Second Street and Second Avenue, why not change one set to alphabetical names? I feel people would have an easier time finding places if they could know numbered streets go in one direction and alphabetical streets opposite. A number of times I've ended up on the wrong side of town because I got Streets and Avenues mixed up."

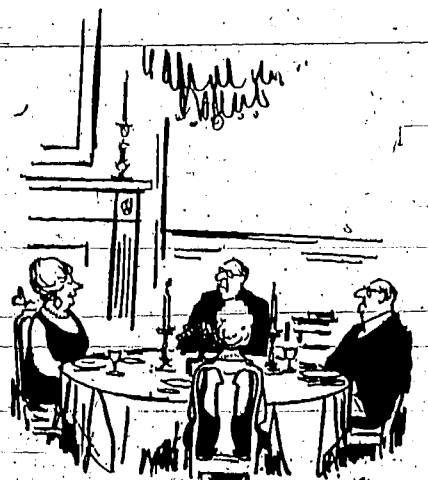

So there you have it—or them. Suggestions from a Jerome citizen.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I've got news for you, Frederick. I don't WANT to know how to understand the 'gold crisis'."

Johnson's ripples spread quickly

By RICHARD CHARNOCK

BOISE (UPI) — A man joined the Idaho League of Women Voters this week and his participation has created an ever-widening circle of ripples.

Over at Ashton, B.N. Harry Humberfinger asked his wife for and got part of his pay check. Next week, he said, he's going to demand the right to spend it.

In Sandpoint, Lloyd P. Logworthy demanded that his lady friend not only open the door for him but assist him in sitting down to dinner and then pick up the tab afterward.

At Grangeville, Roger J. Rockjaw told his boss he will complain to the Human Rights Commission unless he is given the same, 15-minute morning and afternoon coffee breaks women workers now get by law.

And, at Parma, District Judge George L. Gavelhard awarded a man custody of his children in a divorce case. He still has under advisement, however, the question of whether the mother should pay child support.

Whether all this can be ascribed to the derring-do of Byron Johnson, the Boise lawyer who joined the League of Women Voters, is difficult to say.

But, Dr. Victor Valingory of Bliss, the eminent professor of male chauvinism at Copout U, believes Johnson's daring action has encouraged men throughout the state to assert themselves.

"Just because women control 90 per cent of the money in this country and have a whole book of special legislation to give them preferential rights is no reason men should consider themselves second-class citizens," Valingory said, in an interview.

"Supporting a family, maintaining a home and helping a wife to make decisions also is an important role in society and men should not be ashamed just because more and more women are wearing pants.

"Step outside with me — my wife doesn't like me to smoke in the house — and I'll tell you what I mean," he said.

We walked around the garage and surreptitiously lit his pipe. He looked in both directions and then took a contented puff.

"Men have put women — especially mothers — on such a high pedestal they no longer can reach them and therefore they naturally feel inferior and unsure of themselves," he said.

"That's where Johnson has given them a chance to be men again — he's shown how they can almost achieve equality with women by being nearly accepted by a women's organization."

"Nearly accepted?" I asked.

"Oh," he said, "didn't you know? Johnson is only an 'associate' member. That means he can pay dues and help the women with their activities. But he can't vote. The women still will make the decisions.

"But, of course, that's not what's really important — voting, I mean. What is important is that a man had the courage to invade the women's world and ask for a nearly equal role."

"Who knows?" he asked, a smile of contemplation on his face. "Some day they may let us vote."

Dam bids delayed

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — The Bureau of Reclamation has postponed for at least one month the opening of bids for the controversial Teton Dam Project.

Some 200 contractors jammed the Teton Room of the Westbank Motel Thursday but minutes before the opening scheduled for 10 a.m. project engineer Robert Robison, St. Anthony, received a telegram from W.H.

Keating, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation.

Keating's telegram indicated there would be at least a one-month delay in the opening of bids in order to give the Department of Interior additional time to analyze the project.

The prime contract for the power plant and pumping station was expected to be near $30-million. Some contractors indicated they may file a protest with the government over the delay.

Environmental groups have filed in court to seek postponement of the project on grounds the Bureau of Reclamation has not fully considered the environmental impact of the project.

The suit, seeking a preliminary injunction, also asked that the project be halted on grounds it cannot be justified economically.

British beef forces

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Another 1,500 British troops are expected to arrive in Northern Ireland within the next few days to bolster the 12,100 soldiers already on duty there.

The British government Thursday night announced the plan to send three more battalions to Ulster. They did not say when they would arrive, but an army source said it mostly likely would be in a few days.

The new troops will bring the British army strength in Northern Ireland to its highest level since soldiers first were sent in August, 1969, to quell violence between the Protestant majority and Roman Catholic minority.

Street in London, the official residence of Prime Minister Edward Heath. It followed seven hours of talks between Heath and Premier Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland.

"This is one of the most satisfactory meetings with the British government that I have ever had," said Faulkner. "And I have had quite a few."

The announcement said the extra forces would be placed at the "tactical disposal" of Lt. Gen. Sir Harryazio, commander of troops in the province, but it indicated they likely would be used along the southern border with the Irish Republic.

Northern Ireland's home affairs minister, John Taylor, told the province's parliament Thursday the government was considering blowing up secondary roads leading across the border to the Irish republic to stop infiltration of explosives.

He said nearly all of the 1,780 pounds of explosives found by security forces since April had been traced to the Irish Republic.

'Dozer drivers killed by fire

SUMMERLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Four men operating bulldozers in the fight against a 3,400-acre brush fire burned to death Thursday. Two other firefighters were seriously injured when flames closed in on them from two sides.

The dead were reported trapped in their vehicles. The two injured men suffered second-degree burns but were reported in good condition.

"They were working on the line when an ember from the flareup blew behind them. It started a second fire which went up the slope and got them," a U.S. Forest Service spokesman said.

The victims were among 1,000 men battling the blaze which broke out Wednesday, leveled seven expensive homes one mile north of this seaside community, threatened dozens of others and forced 300 families to evacuate.

The spokesman said, the victims were working on one of the last lines to control the fire which was believed touched off by an arsonist. About 14 other members of the victim's crew were in the immediate area but the flames bypassed them.

Firemen, aided by eight air tankers and more than 50 trucks, got the upper hand on the blaze Thursday evening when mild sea breezes pushed the flames away from homes into rugged uninhabited canyons.

It was 70 per cent contained early today. A fire spokesman said the blaze started just off a road and was under investigation. The spokesman said it looked like the work of an arsonist.

Crackdown planned

FAVETTE (UPI) — A city ordinance is being drafted to crack down on city councilmen who play hooky.

Councilmen authorized City Attorney Steve Pitt to draft an ordinance requiring councilmen to attend all council meetings.

They asked for it because of an excessive number of absences by some of the council members.

Aide loses vote

MOSCOW (UPI) — The executive director of the State Board of Education was reduced from a voting to a non-voting member in a unanimous vote of board members here Thursday.

Dr. Donald F. Kline, the man affected by the action, "strongly endorsed the move, which was taken on the recommendation of the Public School Legislative Task Force.

In other action, the board authorized Kline to arrange interviews with the three final candidates for the office of director of medical education, a new position authorized last spring by the state board.

The board delayed a decision on whether or not to apply for a television construction permit now being held in Twin Falls by the manager of a Boise television station. Members said a decision will be made before the board adjourns Saturday afternoon for the Idaho-Idaho State University football game here.

Missourians back Muskie Demo bid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an unusually early endorsement, Missouri's governor and two senators announced their support Thursday for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's still unannounced campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Speaking for Sens. Thomas F. Engleton and Stuart Symington, Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said "an early endorsement means a lot more than one the night before the convention."

Muskie considered the announcement, made at a capitol news conference, so important that he interrupted a day of private political meetings in New York to return to Washington and confer with the three Missouri Democrats.

Although their announcement was considered early, it was not the first. Gov. Kenneth Curtis of Muskie's home state of Maine, Utah Gov. Calvin Rampton and Gov. Bob Scott of North Carolina previously had announced their support for Muskie.

Engleton said he would begin his campaign for Muskie Monday with a speech at Belleville, Ill., even though Muskie is not expected to formally announce his candidacy until late this year or early in 1972.

In a joint statement, the three Missourians said, the Democrats had many qualified presidential possibilities, but that they believed Muskie was the most qualified.

C5 fleet grounded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon said Thursday 29 of its fleet of 41 C5A cargo planes had been grounded after an engine broke off one of them and tumbled onto the runway during a taxi run.

"This poses a big problem for MAC (Military Airlift Command)," and Air Force source said. "The only other plane we had to carry outside cargo was the C133 and all of those have been sent to the bone yard."

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim, denying charges that the Defense Department withheld news of the malfunction until after the $21 billion military procurement bill passed the Senate, said 22 C5As had been grounded in addition to the seven grounded shortly after the Sept. 29 accident at

Altus Air Force Base, Okla.

The malfunction occurred when one of the C5As was taxiing onto the runway. As full power was applied, one of its four engines ripped off and crashed onto the concrete.

Friedheim said the 29 jumbo planes were grounded until the engine mountings could be checked.

Friedheim noted that the defense appropriations bill still must have final congressional approval — and that the $472 million for C5As in the weapons procurement legislation cannot be spent until the appropriations bill is passed.

"If we decided not to say something because one of our bills was pending in Congress, we'd never say anything," Friedheim said.

Wreckage removed

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Union Pacific railroad crews began removing wreckage Thursday from the 30-car derailment the day before that claimed the life of the train's fireman.

C. R. Rockwell, Salt Lake City, director of public relations, said crews completed a by-pass line early Thursday morning to take rail traffic around the site of the accident nine miles north of Idaho Falls.

He said, however, he could not estimate the time it will take to remove the six diesel units and 24 freight cars from the tracks and restore the line.

The accident occurred when the train struck a semi-tractor trailer, separating the cab from the rear of the truck and tearing the cab from its chassis.

The accident killed L.W. Bird, Pocatello, a fireman riding in the front locomotive. The driver of the truck, Terry H. Tucker, 23, Rexburg, was listed in fair condition at LDS Hospital in Idaho Falls, where he had been taken for surgery following the accident.

'Dozer drivers killed by fire

SUMMERLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Four men operating bulldozers in the fight against a 3,400-acre brush fire burned to death Thursday. Two other firefighters were seriously injured when flames closed in on them from two sides.

The dead were reported trapped in their vehicles. The two injured men suffered second-degree burns but were reported in good condition.

"They were working on the line when an ember from the flareup blew behind them. It started a second fire which went up the slope and got them," a U.S. Forest Service spokesman said.

The victims were among 1,000 men battling the blaze which broke out Wednesday, leveled seven expensive homes one mile north of this seaside community, threatened dozens of others and forced 300 families to evacuate.

The spokesman said, the victims were working on one of the last lines to control the fire which was believed touched off by an arsonist. About 14 other members of the victim's crew were in the immediate area but the flames bypassed them.

Firemen, aided by eight air tankers and more than 50 trucks, got the upper hand on the blaze Thursday evening when mild sea breezes pushed the flames away from homes into rugged uninhabited canyons.

It was 70 per cent contained early today. A fire spokesman said the blaze started just off a road and was under investigation. The spokesman said it looked like the work of an arsonist.

Crackdown planned

FAVETTE (UPI) — A city ordinance is being drafted to crack down on city councilmen who play hooky.

Councilmen authorized City Attorney Steve Pitt to draft an ordinance requiring councilmen to attend all council meetings.

They asked for it because of an excessive number of absences by some of the council members.

Aide loses vote

MOSCOW (UPI) — The executive director of the State Board of Education was reduced from a voting to a non-voting member in a unanimous vote of board members here Thursday.

Dr. Donald F. Kline, the man affected by the action, "strongly endorsed the move, which was taken on the recommendation of the Public School Legislative Task Force.

In other action, the board authorized Kline to arrange interviews with the three final candidates for the office of director of medical education, a new position authorized last spring by the state board.

The board delayed a decision on whether or not to apply for a television construction permit now being held in Twin Falls by the manager of a Boise television station. Members said a decision will be made before the board adjourns Saturday afternoon for the Idaho-Idaho State University football game here.

British beef forces

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Another 1,500 British troops are expected to arrive in Northern Ireland within the next few days to bolster the 12,100 soldiers already on duty there.

The British government Thursday night announced the plan to send three more battalions to Ulster. They did not say when they would arrive, but an army source said it mostly likely would be in a few days.

The new troops will bring the British army strength in Northern Ireland to its highest level since soldiers first were sent in August, 1969, to quell violence between the Protestant majority and Roman Catholic minority.

Street in London, the official residence of Prime Minister Edward Heath. It followed seven hours of talks between Heath and Premier Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland.

"This is one of the most satisfactory meetings with the British government that I have ever had," said Faulkner. "And I have had quite a few."

The announcement said the extra forces would be placed at the "tactical disposal" of Lt. Gen. Sir Harryazio, commander of troops in the province, but it indicated they likely would be used along the southern border with the Irish Republic.

Missourians back Muskie Demo bid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an unusually early endorsement, Missouri's governor and two senators announced their support Thursday for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's still unannounced campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Speaking for Sens. Thomas F. Engleton and Stuart Symington, Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said "an early endorsement means a lot more than one the night before the convention."

Muskie considered the announcement, made at a capitol news conference, so important that he interrupted a day of private political meetings in New York to return to Washington and confer with the three Missouri Democrats.

Although their announcement was considered early, it was not the first. Gov. Kenneth Curtis of Muskie's home state of Maine, Utah Gov. Calvin Rampton and Gov. Bob Scott of North Carolina previously had announced their support for Muskie.

Engleton said he would begin his campaign for Muskie Monday with a speech at Belleville, Ill., even though Muskie is not expected to formally announce his candidacy until late this year or early in 1972.

In a joint statement, the three Missourians said, the Democrats had many qualified presidential possibilities, but that they believed Muskie was the most qualified.

C5 fleet grounded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon said Thursday 29 of its fleet of 41 C5A cargo planes had been grounded after an engine broke off one of them and tumbled onto the runway during a taxi run.

"This poses a big problem for MAC (Military Airlift Command)," and Air Force source said. "The only other plane we had to carry outside cargo was the C133 and all of those have been sent to the bone yard."

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim, denying charges that the Defense Department withheld news of the malfunction until after the $21 billion military procurement bill passed the Senate, said 22 C5As had been grounded in addition to the seven grounded shortly after the Sept. 29 accident at

Altus Air Force Base, Okla.

The malfunction occurred when one of the C5As was taxiing onto the runway. As full power was applied, one of its four engines ripped off and crashed onto the concrete.

Friedheim said the 29 jumbo planes were grounded until the engine mountings could be checked.

Friedheim noted that the defense appropriations bill still must have final congressional approval — and that the $472 million for C5As in the weapons procurement legislation cannot be spent until the appropriations bill is passed.

"If we decided not to say something because one of our bills was pending in Congress, we'd never say anything," Friedheim said.

Big Wisconsin fire killed hundreds

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The Great Chicago fire of Oct. 8, 1871 is written in the history books. But it wasn't the worst disaster on that date, as the people in a small Wisconsin town well know.

On the same night of the Chicago fire, a series of fires raged in northern Wisconsin and they would later be called the worst that ever occurred in North America.

The windswept flames blacked the northeast corner of the state and parts of upper Michigan, killing approximately 1,500 persons, burning millions of dollars in timber and destroying the small lumber community of Peshtigo 50 miles north of Green Bay.

News of the disaster didn't even reach Green Bay until two days later and elsewhere in the state the story was almost an anticlimax to the Chicago fire. It was weeks before the extent of the holocaust was known.

Several observances have been held in Peshtigo this summer, but the main commemoration will be this weekend according to Mayor Henry Drees. The highlight will be the lighting of an eternal flame Friday night at a mass grave which contains the bodies of 350 victims of the fire.

The town has a population of about 3,000 today and its main industry still centers around forest products.

Drees, said, however, he didn't think a similar fire could occur today because of better communications, more roads and improved fire fighting equipment.

"Things are more open now," he said. "The people just couldn't get away from the fire back then. The forest was a lot closer to the town."

It was a night of horror for Peshtigo, those several hours a century ago during which some residents thought the world was ending.

The town had been carved out of the wilderness only a few years before and named after the Peshtigo River, known by the Indians as the "river of the wild goose."

The community was booming—the 1870 census listed 1,750 residents—and business was dominated by the Peshtigo Co. and its huge sawmill. Peshtigo already was regarded as the northern peninsula's leading center for lumber trade.

Rain had been almost nonexistent that late summer of 1871, drying the thick pine forests to tinder-like consistency.

There had been a number of forest fires and the swamps burned almost continuously, causing smoke so thick it Peshtigo one townsman remembered it was hard to recognize the features of another person across the street.

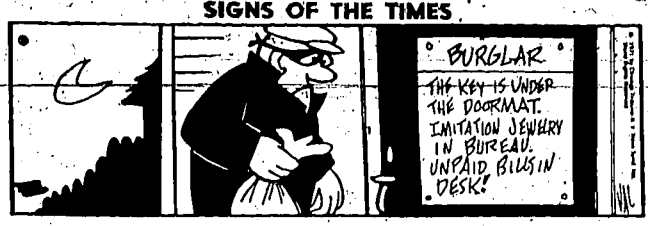

There had been some preparations for a serious fire. People had placed barrels of water on each street corner and dry grass and leaves had been burned off from open areas around the community.

The afternoon of Oct. 8, 1871, a Sunday, one of the residents remembered seeing more smoke than usual to the west, where the swamp fires were burning. A line of squalls was beginning to develop west of a farming area known as the Sugarbush.

Shortly before 10 p.m., those still awake noticed a red glow south of the town, then a southwest breeze which suddenly turned hot and a low roaring sound that grew louder and louder. Within minutes, the sky glowed red.

West of Peshtigo, a fire, fed by the tinder-dry pine and started by the numerous swamp fires, was being whipped into huge swirls of flame. It roared into the Sugarbush and gobbled up the clearings with their log and slab houses. In the Sugarbush area, only eight of 300 farmhouses were spared.

All Peshtigo was awakened, crawling into the streets as families sought safety and a few tried to carry off prized possessions. Pushed by the tornado-like winds of the storm, the fire could be seen rolling through the forest towards the town, raining down glowing coals on the area.

Time test completed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two tired physicists returned today from the first of two round-the-world flights to test Einsteinian theory that time varies according to the motions of the clocks recording it.

They compared readings of four atomic clocks which made the flight with a master atomic clock at the U.S. Naval Observatory. It will take considerable mathematical analysis to determine the exact differences.

Whatever they turn out to be, they are so slight—that the billions of a second—that "we now know that clock travel in this direction (east to west) has very little effect on a clock's performance," an observatory spokesman said.

He said the scientists got "very good data." They did have one bit of trouble at the end of their trip. Their car's fan belt broke on the drive from the airport to the observatory, delaying their arrival by about an hour.

The physicists and their clocks will repeat the experiment with a west to east flight starting a week from today.

In the first half of their experiment they flew eastward from Dulles International Airport and back.

Both trips are necessary to test the "clock paradox" of Albert Einstein's theory of relativity, which says time stretches or contracts aboard any moving object according to its speed and position relative to other objects in the universe.

The physicists are Joseph C. Hafele of Washington University, St. Louis, and Richard E. Keating of the U.S. Naval Observatory, which is financing the experiments.

HURRY-UP BREAD

1 Level tablespoon dry yeast
1 level tablespoon sugar
1/4 cup dried milk solids
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons soft shortening
1 1/4 cups warm water
3 cups flour

Measure first four ingredients into a mixing bowl. Add warm water and shortening. Stir until dissolved. Add one-half of the flour and beat until smooth. Add the remaining flour and knead until smooth and elastic. Let rest 10 minutes. Form into a loaf and put into a large bread pan. Keep dough warm (not hot) at all times. Let raise until double in size about 20 minutes. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 45 minutes.

DEAR ABBY: You probably will think I am putting you on, but I swear this is true. My wife can predict the weather better than any weather forecaster you ever heard of. No matter what the weatherman says, Dolly will say, "Well, we are going to have rain tomorrow," and sure enough, we have rain!

Dolly not only predicts rain, but she can tell you if there is going to be a change in the weather 24 hours in advance. She says when her collarbone aches (it was broken once) it means we are going to have a change of weather, and when her corns start to hurt it means we will have rain or snow.

The guys who forecast the weather on the television are wrong every once in a while, but my Dolly's predictions are never wrong. Tell me, Abby, is she just a good guesser, or am I married to some kind of witch? DOLLY'S MAN

DEAR MAN: Neither. Dolly's no witch. Lots of people can predict the weather accurately by their aches and pains.

DEAR ABBY: We sent our children to a Christian camp about 70 miles from home. They were there for one week, but here is the problem: While they were there, their uncle went to the camp and took them out for an evening without asking us first. Well, I told him that I thought he had a lot of nerve to take our children out of camp without our permission and now his whole family (except my husband) are up in arms because I rebuffed this uncle. Was I wrong or was this uncle? MAD IN MAINE

Good guesser or perhaps a witch?

DEAR MAD: Unless you disapprove of this uncle, or have good reasons to believe that your children would have been better off in camp, I think you are needlessly over exercised.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 years old and am so lonely for company I could die. I know I am no raving beauty, but lots of girls who aren't as nice-looking as I am seem to have boy friends. I have nice clothes, money in the bank and a new car with only one more payment to make, but there must be more to life than what I have.

I am 5 feet 2 and never go beyond 100 pounds. I have long hair, blonde, which I keep clean and curled. My complexion has cleared up and I don't use too much make-up. I am told I have a pleasant personality and I am not shy, not that am I forward, so what is wrong with me?

I really don't come into contact with many young people. I work in an isolated office with no one anywhere near my age. I've tried to get transferred to where the action is but there haven't been any openings. I feel like I am doomed to die alone. Please help me. Thanks for listening. It has helped to write this. I guess maybe I will just have to help myself. 22 AND LONELY

DEAR "22": Don't waste too much more time in an "isolated" office. Even if you have to work for less, get to where the action is.

Have you looked into young adult groups? Evening classes in art, religion (church groups?), politics or where ever your interests lie? How about volunteer work?

I never met a person, young or old, who didn't get more than he gave when he volunteered to help the helpless.

Sure, she would. Nobody's mother wants to pay five times more than she has to for something.

It's like this: a person-to-person, coast-to-coast phone call costs $3.55 for three minutes. That very same call, when you dial it yourself during the cheapest calling period (see chart) costs just 70¢. Most calls of shorter distances cost even less.

Now, can't you just hear her saying, "I need that money more than the phone company does!"?

It's just like a mother:

	Direct-Dialed Calls	Operator-Handled Calls	Person-to-Person Calls
Weekends 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Sat. and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sun.	70¢ first 3 mins.	91.40 first 3 mins.
Evenings 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. Sun. through Fri.	86¢ first 3 mins.	91.40 first 3 mins.	$3.55 first 3 mins. All times
Nights 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. daily	36¢ first minute (minimum call)	91.40 first 3 mins. (minimum call)
Weekdays 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon. through Fri.	91.35 first 3 mins.	91.85 first 3 mins.

Rates (plus tax) are maximum on calls made coast-to-coast. Rates are even less on most out-of-state calls of lesser distances. Where direct dialing facilities are not available, direct dialed rates apply on operator handled, station-to-station out of state calls within the continental U.S., except Alaska.

Would your mother stick good old Mountain Bell for $2.85 on a long distance phone call?

Rupert sets stake meet

RUPERT — Elder Howard W. Hunter, member of the Council of Twelve of the LDS church, will speak at the Minidoka stake conference Saturday and Sunday in Rupert. Conference sessions will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday in the stake center, on the corner of Eighth and G streets. Stake president Rodney A. Hansen, said visitors are welcome. Elder Hunter was a prominent southern California lawyer and businessman before his call to the apostleship Oct. 10, 1959. A lifetime member of the LDS church, he was born in Boise where he was graduated from high school.

In June, 1931, Elder Hunter married Clara May Jeffs in the Salt Lake City temple. During the depression years, with a wife and two small sons, he felt need for more education and earned a law degree from Southwestern University in Los Angeles cum laude.

He was admitted to the California state bar and became a leading corporation lawyer in that area. He has served on the board of several large industrial and land-holding corporations.

The official is an Eagle Scout and for many years has been connected with scouting. In 1940 he became bishop of the El Sereno ward in Los Angeles. In 1947-48 he served as president of the High Priests Quorum in the Pasadena stake and the next two years was on the High Stake Council. He served as president of the Pasadena stake from February, 1950, to November, 1959. During this time he was chairman of the Southern California welfare region.

He serves as church historian and recorder, president of the Genealogical society, president of the Polynesian Cultural Center in Hawaii and has supervision of missions in South America.

His hobbies include a private library containing many rare books and pamphlets and family history and genealogy.

New papal hall

CARDINALS and bishops stream out of the new Papal Audience hall at Vatican city which was designed by Italian architect Pier Luigi Nervi. The building also houses a special chamber for the International Synod of Bishops meeting at Vatican City. (UPI)

Vatican neglects top issues, delegates say

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The official U.S. delegation to the third International Synod of Roman Catholic Bishops Thursday criticized a Vatican report on church problems on the ground that it neglected such issues as race, war, religious oppression and a crisis of faith in the west.

The criticism was the most outspoken yet against a report—or panorama, as the Vatican called it—summarizing the problems of the church for 210 delegates to the synod.

"We should like to point out four areas which we think require more serious attention and earnest consideration than the panorama gives them," said the U.S. delegates.

They included Cardinals John F. Dearden of Detroit, John J. Krol of Philadelphia, and John J. Carberry of St. Louis and Archbishop Leo C. Byrne of St. Paul-Minneapolis. All were elected by the American National Bishops' Conference to represent U.S. Catholics at the synod.

The four men said the report, prepared and read at the start of the synod seven days ago by Italian Bishop Enrico Bartoletti, neglected or failed to pay enough attention to racial discrimination, war and the arms race, the crisis of the faith in the western world and religious oppression.

On race, the prelates said: "By this, we mean a hatred, a suspicion, a mistrust of someone simply because of origin from different human stock. Such attitudes lead to unjust repression of rights to sustenance, housing, education, fair employment..."

The existence of war, fear of nuclear war and the arms race, the four Americans said, causes a sense of frustration and futility which appears now to be spreading from the young to the middle aged.

They also said there were a growing number of Catholics who find the meaning of their beliefs difficult to explain to themselves "and more so to others..."

The criticism came one day after forces favoring doctrinal reform or the end of the church law on celibacy had their hopes dashed by Pope Paul VI and his bishops.

Favor celibacy

ITALY'S MSGR. Enrico Bartoletti tells news conference in Vatican City that the majority of speakers at the third World Synod of Bishops of the Catholic church favored "unconditional" maintenance of the church's centuries-old celibacy law. Only possible change in the law, he said, might be admission of already married men into the priesthood, adding, "I would not like to predict anything. It would be too risky." (UPI)

Laymen can help with handicapped

TWIN FALLS — A great need has been found in the Magic Valley, and particularly in the Twin Falls area for supportive services to enable state and local agencies to serve handicapped persons according to Chief Bartlett, Twin Falls Child Development Center.

Among these needed services are:

Housing - Boarding homes, nursing homes, and foster homes willing to take in handicapped young adults. In order for local agencies to evaluate an individual - provide training - work experience or any other service a place must be found for a client to be housed. Many of these people can not provide their own transportation and have to live in the Twin Falls area during the week.

Work Experience Stations - A variety of work situations are needed where employers would be willing to give a client a two to four week exposure to a work situation. Most of these could be part-time. Many clients have a history of work failure and need the opportunity for short-term work placement in a variety of settings to determine their best area of potential. Sheltered Workshop - An opportunity for clients to work full time under production pressures but under specialized supervision. Local business and industry could help by reviewing their business operation and noting those operations which could be done as well or better by handicapped persons in a Sheltered Workshop. Many clients need several years of sheltered employment before they can successfully take outside employment. Some may never progress beyond such employment.

Activity Program - Throughout the Magic Valley several activity programs are needed to serve lower functioning handicapped persons. Programs that will give a client something to do at his level of ability, an opportunity to be with other similarly handicapped persons and at the same time relieve the parents for anywhere from a few hours to five days a week.

Volunteer services - Hundreds of persons are needed who can give two hours or more per week in supporting rehabilitation efforts in our area. Most of these would need to be in the large cities of our eight county region but every community has someone needing services. No skill is required - only the desire and interest in helping.

The above items represent the major supportive services - there are many, many more. The question is can our community rise to the challenge? Can we, with good conscience, say that we are doing all we should for these persons who have in many cases been treated as second-class citizens all their life?

Based on national averages we could safely say there are 3,000 to 5,000 persons who are past, present, or potential rehabilitation clients in Magic Valley, Bartlett said. Our state institutions alone have at least 100 persons who need not be there. If we could provide the supportive services needed, he said.

Churches need to become aware of this community need and hopefully want to help plan for the future. For more information contact Chief Bartlett at 734-3610 or 733-6090.

Classes set at priory

TWIN FALLS — St. Benedict's Student center and priory in Twin Falls will offer religious and adult education courses, beginning next week.

Father Simeon said the courses are designed to aid Catholic students and adults to meet challenges of the times. Salvation themes of Old Testament will begin at 8 p.m. Tuesday, and the Thursday night course, "Issues and answers about Catholic teaching and practice," begins at 8 p.m. Oct. 14.

The courses will run for about 10 weeks.

Missionary talks tonight

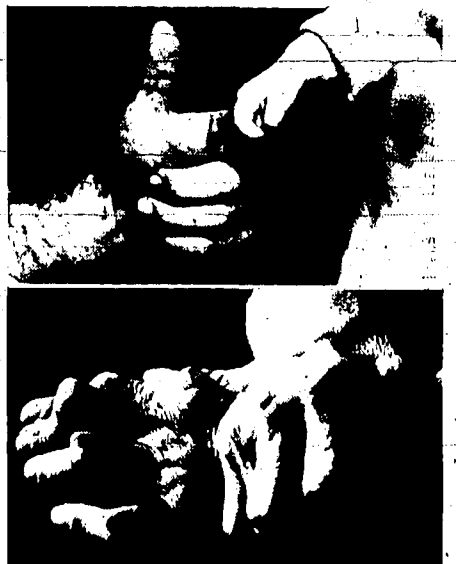

JEROME — Rev. Jerry Wilson, missionary from Peru, will speak at the Jerome Church of the Nazarene at 8 p.m. today, according to Rev. Floyd Young, pastor.

Rev. and Mrs. Wilson are on furlough at their home in Nampa. They spent a year in Mexico City where Rev. Wilson studied the language. Since August, 1967, they have been at Chiclayo, Peru, at the Nazarene Bible school.

They will have a slide presentation with tape narration and display native articles.

Some hands reach out to touch and help, others are clenched in pain and despair. We all ask "Why?" to the cruel contrasts of our life. Why poverty in a land of plenty? Why loneliness in a world that would join hands? Why war when the impulse of the heart is to love? The aching chasm between the real and the ideal everywhere provokes the question...

WHY?

In a world looking for answers maybe God is the place to start. God is hope. God is now.

Mindszenty case shows red's greatest failure

Foreign News Commentary By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst The case of Cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty demonstrates not only one man's loyalty to his religion but also Soviet-style Communism's greatest failure. Within the East European Communist bloc, most of its citizens have spent their entire lives under Communist rule and its persecution of all forms of religion except the worship of atheistic Communism itself.

Yet despite unceasing attempts to remove religion from the lives of the people, it remains strong.

In Mindszenty's Hungary the bloody 1956 uprising forced the state into making concessions and to Party Leader Janos Kadar's now-famous declaration that "if you are not against us, you are for us."

Except for Mindszenty, it included the Catholic church so long as it stayed out of politics. Within the church, Mindszenty won praise for his single-mindedness of purpose. But for his stubborn refusal to accept freedom on any but his own terms he also won a portion of the blame for the stumbling blocks encountered by Rome in its attempts to re-establish contact with the "church of silence."

At any rate, in Hungary today, Easter is as much a religious holiday as it is in the United States.

In Communist Romania this correspondent has witnessed the christening of babies and was a guest at a religious wedding.

In Communist Poland it is estimated that 90 per cent of Poland's more than 30 million people are practicing members of the church.

Poland's "bread and freedom" riots of 1956 forced that regime also to make important concessions and relations between church and state since have proved a reliable measure of how secure the Communist regime feels itself to be.

Former Party Leader Wladis-

law Gomulka came to power on the heels of the 1956 riots and restored a large measure of church freedoms, including catechism in the schools and freedom of seminarians from the draft. As he gained confidence in his power these gradually were taken away.

Upon his fall and the rise of the current regime led by Edward Gierok, a new phase set in.

Among concessions granted to the church were title to some 7,000 churches, chapels, monasteries and land in prewar German territories taken over by Poland.

Hansen asks market aid

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, today joined a bipartisan group in the House in launching a drive to improve the position of the American farmer in the international market.

Hansen is sponsoring a resolution which directs the President to enter into negotiations with the European Economic Community (Common Market) to lower tariff barriers which bar American agriculture products from European markets.

Hansen said the opening of foreign markets to American farm products is "an important step towards achieving a decent level of farm income in the United States."

Hansen said these countries represent the largest market for U.S. agricultural exports, but said "American farmers will possibly lose a billion dollars in foreign agricultural sales this year as a direct result of Common Market agricultural policy." The situation will worsen, he added, when Great Britain enters the Common Market as expected.

Hansen explained that the European tariff cuts deeply into our farm exports to Europe, while at the same time European farm exports receive government subsidies that allow them to export into markets in other parts of the world.

"If the protected and subsidized European competition can be forced to compete on equal terms with American farm products, the clear superiority of our efficient farm production will become apparent," he emphasized.

Hansen said Idaho has an important stake in the approximately $1.9 billion worth of key U.S. agricultural exports to the European Community and four applicant countries, particularly in wheat and fruits and vegetables.

Idaho ranks sixth in U.S. exports of fruits and vegetables and fifth in wheat exports to all destinations.

Vitamin research planned

MOSCOW (UPI) — The University of Idaho announced Wednesday the mechanism by which vitamin B-12 works in the body will be the subject of a research project by a University of Idaho chemist under a grant from the Petroleum Research Fund of the American Chemical Society.

Although research on B-12 is not new, Dr. Dennis G. Brown, assistant professor of chemistry, said he feels more basic information is needed on how the vitamin works in a living system.

Brown said even at present scientists are not close to being able to cure pernicious anemia, a disease caused by an inadequate supply of B-12 in the body.

The University of Idaho scientist said he hopes that, by designing a non-biological system which contains B-12, to be able to make the vitamin act as though it were present within a living organism and study its action.

Wheat shipments drop

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — An agricultural official said today a drop of as much as 100 million bushels in the export of U.S. wheat may be expected this year.

Carroll G. Brunthaver, associate administrator of the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, cited many factors — including the dock strike, bumper wheat and grain crops in Europe and competition from wheat growing countries such as Canada and Australia.

He said in an interview that "we expect a total of 650 million bushels of wheat to be exported by the U.S. this year as opposed to 740-million bushels shipped abroad in 1970."

U.S. markets abroad have been "badly crippled" by dock strikes, and we've already lost some of our markets due to that situation," he said.

"The dock strikes are causing huge losses and it is doubtful that we'll be able to recover soon — if at all."

The strikes, he said, have given other countries such as Canada and Australia — both of which have big surpluses — "a big advantage when bidding for foreign business."

Livestock feed price in Idaho holds steady

BOISE — Prices paid by Idaho farmers for a selected group of livestock feeds in mid-September were generally steady with prices a month ago. Bran, laying feed, and cottonseed meal increased in price while 14 per cent dairy feed, middlings, and chick starter went down. Soybean meal and 16 per cent dairy feed remained the same.

For the entire United States, the selected group of feeds were mostly down on Sept. 15 when compared with the Aug. 15 prices. Bran, middlings, laying feed, 16 per cent dairy feed, cottonseed meal soybean meal and chick starter were lower. The index of prices received by farmers declined two points (two per cent) during the month ended Sept. 15 to 111 percent of its 1967 average. Contributing most to the decline were lower prices for hogs, corn, oranges, tomatoes, and soybeans. Seasonally higher prices for milk were only partially offsetting. The index was one per cent above a year earlier. The Sept. 15 Index of Prices paid for commodities and services, including interest, taxes, and farm wage rates went to 121 after remaining steady at 120 for the 4 previous months. Compared with a year earlier, the Sept. index was up five per cent.

Idaho Falls livestock

IDAHO FALLS — The Idaho Livestock Auction received an estimated 7,300 sheep with all classes steady. Prices were: range feeder lambs, 25.00-25.80; range fat lambs, 24.00-25.00; ranch feeder lambs, 23.00-24.50; odd feeder lambs, 23.00 and down; light fat ewes, 5.00-5.50; canner ewes and bucks, 3.00-5.00; young ewes up to 25.00; and good mouth ewes, 10.00-12.00. An estimated 174 hogs were received with extreme top bringing 10.25-bulk 180-220 lbs. 10.75-10.25; 220-240 lbs. 10.25-10.75; 240-260 lbs. 17.75-18.25; 260-280 lbs. 15.75-17.75; 280-300 lbs. 15.00-15.75; sows under 300 lbs. 12.00; 300-330 lbs. 12.00-12.60; 330-400 lbs. 14.00-12.00; over 450 lbs. 10.00-11.00; stags

Pen burns

RICHFIELD — Fire destroyed part of a calf pen and a large quantity of feed at the LeRoy Parker ranch Tuesday afternoon. The fire burned 150 tons of hay, 300 bales of straw, 40 feet of mangers and several posts on calf pens. The Richfield fire department arrived to save the mangers and calf pens. Kent Davis, a neighbor, saw the fire first and notified Parker of the fire. Parker said the loss was covered by insurance.

Grangers schedule sessions

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The West Virginia State Grange, headed by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hall of Weirton, will be host to the annual session of the National Grange, Nov. 8-16 in Charleston. This is the first time in the 105 year history of the Grange that it will meet in the Mountaineer state. Edgar Hall, master of the West Virginia State Grange, issued the invitation to the National Grange five years ago to hold its annual meeting in West Virginia in 1971. The delegate body accepted his invitation and plans were begun immediately to select a city with enough facilities to house the national rural organization. Charleston was selected and the Daniel Boone Hotel was designated the headquarters hotel. Over 1,000 Grange members throughout West Virginia have been involved in the Session plans.

Wins job

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Rep. Orval Hansen said Thursday that Gooding Seed Co. of Gooding has been awarded a $10,335 Bureau of Land Management contract. Hansen said the contract is for purchase of grass and miscellaneous seed for BLM districts in Boise and Shoshone.

Bellevue studies annexation

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News Writer

BELLEVUE — The Bellevue City Council was asked Thursday night to consider re-annexing part of a planned 100-unit mobile home park to be located northeast of Bellevue. Richard Strickland representing the Strickland-Painter Real Estate Co., Bellevue, said his company would install water pipes, septic tanks and roads which would then be donated to the city. He said he wants to have city water and police protection for the development. The site of the mobile home park was within the city limits until about 1929. The developer said the park would have 70-by-100 foot lots with five to six trailers per acre. Some of the units will be rented and others will be for sale. Strickland said the park will also include a swimming pool and a playground. Strickland said 10 units will be built initially, and as they fill, 10 more will be built. He said he wants the area to be annexed piece by piece for tax purposes. Councilman Mark Patterson, who was acting as mayor in Claude Ballard's absence, said the council would like to give the reannexation "favorable consideration", but many factors need to be studied. He said the city is "going to have to look for a greater water supply." He requested Strickland submit a plot showing trailer space organization and projected streets. In other action Richard Jones, Bellevue, requested the city build an access road on the east side of his four-unit trailer court in the south part of the city. He said the city has a right of way but several railroad telegraph poles would have to be moved. Council members agreed to contact Western Union and determine the users of an irrigation ditch which runs across the right of way.

Motor firm in TF sold

TWIN FALLS — Youree Motor Co. of Twin Falls, destroyed in an after-hours fire a week ago, has been sold. Robert Youree, president of the corporation, sold all interests in the Volkswagen dealership and service facility to Riviera Motors, Beaverton, Ore. A new and enlarged dealership with full service facilities will be built "within four to five months," according to M.E. Anderson, Portland, an official of Riviera Motors. He is in Twin Falls to complete arrangements.

The new firm will be built at a new site for which arrangements are being completed, Anderson said. He could not say where the new site will be until the land is acquired.

Anderson said all employees of Youree Motors have been notified to explain the new arrangements, and will be retained by the new corporation. The name of the new dealership "is being formulated," and will be announced shortly, Anderson said, though it will not be the same as the parent corporation.

A new Idaho corporation is being formed to operate the new Twin Falls firm and other interests in the state, Anderson explained.

The Twin Falls sale involved an investment of $300,000 to $400,000, including construction of the new facilities, Anderson told the Times-News today. David M. Hogan, district sales manager for Riviera Motors, will act as manager of the new dealership until a permanent office staff can be selected.

Youree said the fire, which caused damage estimated at $350,000, was the principal reason for the sale. The investment required to level the present structure and rebuild would be prohibitive at the present time, he said.

Youree will retain his used-car sales outlet at 664 Main Ave. S., concentrating on sales of used cars. He may expand his facilities in the near future, he said.

Riviera Motors is the Volkswagen distributor for Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Montana and Alaska. It has headquarters in the Portland suburb of Beaverton, Ore.

Work to start on addition

BOISE (UPI) — Work is expected to get under way Saturday on construction of a $2 million addition to the University of Idaho Ag-Science building, according to Public Works Commissioner Max Boesiger.

Boesiger said final contract signatures have been completed for the structure with Ridding Construction Co., Spokane. He said the contract calls for completion of the work in 18 months.

Meantime, Boesiger said Matfers Construction Co., Boise has been given notice to proceed immediately with a $84,923 remodeling project at the employment security building in Boise.

Located in the building's basement, the 100 per cent, federally-funded project will include a new data processing center for equipment recently acquired by the Department of Employment.

Pilgrimage

SPOKANE (UPI) — Three hundred Gonzaga University students and some members of the Jesuit faculty will make the third annual pilgrimage to the Cataldo, Idaho, mission this weekend, discussing along the way the theme, "What It Means To Be A Christian."

The students will leave the campus by bus at 7:30 a.m. Saturday for a point in the Coeur d'Alene National Forest to begin the 30 mile hike at a pace of 15 miles a day.

The group will camp out at Bumblebee Campsite and finish the journey.

Season termed 'one of worst'

SHOSHONE — "The 1971 fire season has been one of the worst on record for the Shoshone District Bureau of Land Management", Wallace Fixsen, fire control officer, said today. There were 125 fires which required action, Fixsen said, and 187,500 acres were burned in the district. This acreage is over double the normal number of fires and five times the normal burned acreage. Fixsen said 60 per cent of the fires were man caused. "The recent rain and snow together with lengthening nights has reduced the fire danger somewhat and it has been necessary to terminate the seasonal fire crew and remove the lookouts," Fixsen said. Hunters and residents, however, are cautioned by the fire control official that fire danger can still be quite high during the afternoons and they should be very careful with all fire. The permanent staff and emergency help with the Bureau will be available for fires that may occur yet this fall.

Guidance meet attracts 400

BURLEY — Over 400 Idaho guidance and counseling personnel heard a visiting lecturer urge "limitless faith in the people you are working with," at the opening session of the Idaho Personnel and Guidance Association convention in Burley Thursday.

Dr. Steven R. Homel, psychiatrist of Adelance and member of the faculty at the Jefferson College of Medicine at Philadelphia, Pa., told the counselors "Just because a kid asks whether you've got a minute doesn't mean he wants your advice."

Homel appealed to the professionals not to impose problems on the students. Often he said "the kids don't have the problems. They've been told they have problems and they have memorized them. If you don't have faith in the kids, you shouldn't be with them." Homel, who is involved in work in the field of health education behavior, describes his approach as "preventive guidance," which involves showing patients their self concepts.

"The purpose of advice," he told the counselors, "is to help people reach goals, not to avoid pitfalls in life." The conference, at the Ponderosa Inn, will continue through Friday.

Victim recovering

SHOSHONE — William McKay, Shoshone, is listed in fairly good condition today in St. Benedict's Hospital in Jerome following a railroad accident near Bliss Wednesday.

McKay, a Union Pacific Railroad employe, was loading a flat car with sections of railroad track. He was struck in the chest by one of the lengths of track and pinned against the car, family members said.

McKay sustained extensive injuries to his left arm, neck and shoulders. The blow also broke several ribs on both sides.

Hospital officials said he is being kept under observation for more possible internal injuries.

Air pollution 197 index

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District of the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air in the 24 hour period ending at 8 a.m. today.

Federal pollution regulator says air pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms over any 24 hour period and should not be permitted to rise above 700 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Forecast
Today: Good
Tonight: Very poor
Tomorrow: Good

The forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to dissipate pollution burning as permitted by law should be considered when the atmospheric ability to dissipate pollutants.

Airport site set, aide says

BURLEY — Assurance that no attempt will be made to change the site of the regional airport without filing a new petition has been given by George Forschler, chairman of the Interim Regional Airport Board. Forschler gave the assurance in a statement issued today. The major concern was that once the permanent board was chosen, if the Regional Airport Authority received an affirmative vote Oct. 26, the board could change the site. The site had been stipulated and described on the petition circulated through out the eight county area.

According to Forschler, John Magel, Idaho deputy attorney general, ruled on the question. The answer came from Section 21-0805 of Idaho Code which "requires the petition to specify the proposed location of the regional airport."

Magel said the validity of any action ultimately based on the petition, such as the election, would depend on conformance to the petition's terms.

According to the Idaho code, said Magel, it "does not provide for change of location, the absence of language dealing with a change of site, leaves the matter in substantial doubt." The board could alter a site description from that contained on the petition itself, he said.

Hunters warned on fires

TWIN FALLS — Deer hunters going into mountain regions were reminded today by Sawtooth National Forest officials of the rapidly increasing fire danger as a result of the past few days of warm dry weather.

Darrell Smith, fire dispatcher, Twin Falls, said the hills to the south are now back in the high danger index and those to the north are rapidly approaching high danger conditions.

He said most of the snow which fell a week ago, has melted except on north slopes and high elevations and soils are beginning to dry. Forest officials, Smith said, have been burning slash the past few days and find conditions are getting dry rapidly.

Hunting areas to the north are already open and the Cassin deer hunt will open Oct. 16. Smith said hunters are urged to clear a large area before starting camp fires and to make certain they are out before leaving camp. He urged hunting parties to use designated and improved campgrounds where possible.

Serious fires in California have not required crews from the Intermountain Region, he said, although this area along with other western states are on an alerted basis.

Effluent needs no bad odor

MOSCOW (UPI) — Liquid effluents from wood pulp processing mills in the Northwest need not look and smell as bad as they do, University of Idaho Professor Robert R. Furgason, said today.

Furgason, with the help of a $5,000 grant from the Idaho Water Resources Research Institute, is studying the feasibility of using ozone treatment as an alternative to chemical coagulation.

He is also studying activated carbon absorption, demineralization and other techniques for color and odor removal and biological oxygen demand and chemical oxygen demand reduction in liquid effluents.

The ultimate objective of the entire treatment process will be to produce an effluent, a major portion of which could be reused as processed water.

Demand up

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — The nation's increasing population will require six times present plant capacity for electricity by the year 2,000, Washington State University's combined second annual thermal power conference and eighth biennial hydroelectric conference was told here.

Dr. Eugene W. Greenfield, director of the WSU college of engineering research, said, "It is a verifiable fact that the more energy employed by a given culture, the greater its desire for additional energy."

Study of Gem land launched

TWIN FALLS — A comprehensive study of state-owned lands in Idaho was launched Thursday at the meeting of the State Board of the Idaho League of Women Voters.

Joy Byersmeyer, Boise, state president, said that the initial focus of the new study will be directed toward lands under the control of the State Board of Land Commissioners.

League members adopted the study at their convention in Coeur d'Alene in May, Dorothy Mandiloff, Idaho Falls, study chairman, outlined study questions that will be discussed by members in the eight Idaho Leagues.

In other action the state board agreed to continue working for changes in school funding that would provide equal educational opportunity for each child in Idaho.

Continuing the League's education study, Frances Heard of Hayden Lake, education chairman, presented material for the upcoming vocational education study.

In order to implement the League's national welfare reform support position, board members decided to concentrate on increased state funding participation in the Aid to Dependent Children category of public assistance and methods of strengthening the Idaho Human Rights Commission. Ida Hawkins of Coeur d'Alene heads this study item.

Members of the Twin Falls League entertained State Board members Wednesday night at a social gathering. The meeting will conclude Friday afternoon.

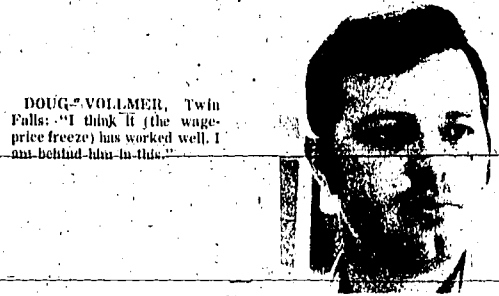

Vehicle sale set

SHOSHONE — The Idaho Department of Highways will auction a large variety of vehicles, office and shop equipment at 1 p.m. Oct. 14 at the headquarters yard here.

District Engineer Howard Johnson said a complete list and description of all items to be auctioned is available at the district office. The equipment may be inspected on the morning of the auction.

Valley comment

TWIN FALLS — Judging from the response to a Times-News reporter's questions this morning, President Nixon's address to the nation on Phase II of the price-wage freeze Thursday evening went largely unnoticed. Many people said the time of the President's talk, 5:30 p.m. Thursday, kept them from hearing it. Others said they were otherwise occupied. But the address drew these reactions:

DOUG VOLLMER, Twin Falls: "I think it (the wage-price freeze) has worked well. I am behind him in this."

HILL MADLAND JR., Twin Falls: "President Nixon is placing a lot of faith and trust in the American people to help to control inflation. I think it will work if people respond as he has asked them."

DICK SHAFFER, Twin Falls: "It will work if the President controls both ends of the situation — Profit and wages, together. It certainly won't work if the cost of living has been going backwards, with our wages barely keeping up with rising prices before this freeze was put into effect. We have to control the whole situation for it to work."

BOB ULLMAN, Twin Falls: "I think it will work if the people want it to work. It all depends on the people."

TOM DURLAND, Twin Falls: "I think the President is on the right track, but it's hard to say if it will work. I think he is trying to do the right thing."

GENE STURGILL, Twin Falls: "His speech was the usual — nothing. But the panel discussions that followed were very informative. Throughout history, price controls have failed because of the black market, and others who avoid the controls. We just end up with higher prices regardless. Of course, we have apparently seen a drop in the cost of living index — what was it? Four tenths of one per cent? But how can you hold down inflation by governmental controls when historically it can't work?"

Orioles name McNally as starting pitcher against Pittsburgh

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Manager Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles named left-hander Dave McNally Thursday as his opening pitcher for the World Series Saturday and said his reasons for starting McNally will make sense "if we win."

Cal fires Phillips and coaching staff

ANAHEIM (UPI)—Tobacco-chewing Lefty Phillips, the second manager of the troubled California Angels, was fired Thursday but the American League baseball club remained mum on the future of its general manager, Dick Walsh.

Smith and Nastase to open play

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI)—American Stan Smith and Romanian Ilie Nastase were paired Thursday for the first singles match in the 1971 Davis Cup challenge round.

Smith and Nastase, the best each team has to offer, will face each other in the opening round on the clay court of Julian J. Clark Stadium at 1 p.m. Friday.

Frank Froehling and Ion Tiriac were paired in the second singles event in the drawing held at Quail Hollow Country Club.

In singles matches Sunday, Smith will play Tiriac and Froehling will face Nastase for the final match in the best of five event.

The players for Saturday's doubles match were not announced, but there was little doubt Nastase and Tiriac would be paired against Smith and Eric Van Dillen.

Robert S. Malaga, executive director of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, said the doubles pairings would be announced Friday.

"I'm just tickled to death with the draw," said non-playing U.S. team captain Ed Turville. "I mean they (Smith and Nastase) have to meet and they might as well meet and get it over with."

Nastase has met Smith five times, winning four and losing once in match point.

Houston hopes for 1-year pact

HOUSTON (UPI)—University of Houston football coach Bill Yeoman believes the end of the four year athletic scholarship is imminent and he plans to work for a one year grant at the NCAA convention in January.

"We've got along on 40-45 (scholarships) for several years and found that to be sufficient," Yeoman said, "and I don't think the one year would affect the caliber of play."

The NCAA now provides a four-year education for student athletes who give up sports as early as their freshman year through lack of interest or coaches decisions to drop them from their teams.

"If a youngster is going to have four years, the minute he leaves the team his scholarship should be taken up," Yeoman said. "He must assume some responsibility to the university for his education. A youngster shouldn't get something for nothing."

"We spent about $25,000 last year for football players who were no longer on the team. I'm not against education but that's a little strong."

"You know that if you keep writing bad stories, they call you into the editor's office. Or if the first trumpet keeps giving out wrong notes, they get somebody else in the chair."

"In some ways we've been our worst enemy. Some schools have 20 assistants to cover the country in recruiting. If you cover the United States, you're going to want to bring them in from all over."

Neis cut Ogden

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI)—The New York Nets reduced their roster to 14 players Thursday when they cut former Santa Clara forward, Bud Ogden.

Ogden played the last two seasons with the Philadelphia 76ers but was released this year before being picked up by the Nets.

SPORTS

National standings put old emphasis in Sooner-Texas tilt

DALLAS (UPI)—The Texas Longhorns and Oklahoma Sooners, who have been despising each other on the football field since 1900, do it again Saturday and thank goodness we all have a year to recover.

Texas and Oklahoma only have a week.

This one is just not an average mid-season game. This one is special.

Nobody's laughing at Washington now

By BILL MADDEN
UPI Sports Writer

They all laughed when George Allen began trading off all his draft choices for aging veterans last spring when George became the new coach of the Washington Redskins.

And, they all laughed when Allen said "the future is now." There were jokes about "old George" up to his old tricks trading away all his draft choices in a mad scramble to re-habilitate the hapless Redskins. The experts laughed and said the only way to win in the National Football League is to draft wisely and build with youth.

But after three weeks of play, the Redskins stand alone as the only unbent team in the NFL, and guess who's having the last laugh? Allen will take his rebuilt "Skins after victory No. 4 Sunday in a home encounter with the Houston Oilers (0-2-1). Only a mental letdown after last week's stunning win over the Cowboys in Dallas could prevent Washington from winning its opening four games for the first time since 1943.

In other National Conference games, Detroit is a 10-point favorite over Green Bay, San Francisco nine over Los Angeles, Atlanta six over St. Louis, Minnesota 17 over Philadelphia, Chicago seven over New Orleans, and Dallas 14 over the New York Giants on Monday night.

In the AFC, the New York Jets are seven over New England, Baltimore 10 over Buffalo, Oakland eight over Denver, Kansas City nine over San Diego, Cleveland six over the hubbub, who are going to be curious as to what is going to happen in the Cotton Bowl.

That's because Texas is No. 3 in the country and Oklahoma is No. 7 and the game has not been so big since 1963 when Oklahoma was No. 1 and Texas was No. 2. The Longhorns won that one—28-7—and went on to the national championship.

The Sooners are three feet off the ground waiting for a chance at the Longhorns, and Texas Coach Darrell Royal knows it. "I sincerely believe this Oklahoma team is the equal of any team in the nation," he said. "They can play with anybody. They've got it going for them right now. The last three games they've been going like high water over level ground—maybe downhill ground."

But although the game is huge to both clubs—it is not the entire world.

Just seven days from Saturday Oklahoma must turn around and open its conference season against Colorado, which is merely tied with the Sooners for seventh place in the national rankings. And Texas must say howdy to the University of Arkansas, which is still mad about getting beaten by Tulsa two weeks ago and is madder than mad about being beaten out of the Southwest Conference title by Texas for the past two years.

But there is no doubt Texas-Oklahoma is big, and it's here now.

Both clubs will line up in Darrell Royal's invention—the Wishbone-T—and thanks to the stunning recovery of Longhorn quarterback Eddie Phillips both backfields will be at full strength. It's just a question of who can stop who.

"We are probably a great deal alike," said Oklahoma Coach Chuck Fairbanks. "We might have a couple of little old plays where we differ."

"But we got our stuff from Darrell and his staff. The plays you have to execute to win with—the belly series, the counter option and the triple option, are the same."

Just two or three different plays won't make much difference.

Washington also boasts one of the best 1-2 running attacks in the NFL with Larry Brown and Charley Taylor. Last week against Dallas (which had previously allowed only 98 yards in two games), Haraway and Brown combined for 192 yards rushing.

The Oilers, who also are operating under a new coach in Ed Hughes, have gotten off slowly after being tabbed in pre-season as one of the most improved teams in the American Conference.

Houston's offense has had trouble getting untracked behind quarterback Charley Johnson. Johnson is ranked 12th among AFC passers while the Oilers' top receiver in pre-season, Charley Joiner, is unranked altogether. In the rushing department, neither Woody Campbell or Joe Dawkins have been able to crack the leaders.

It's still early and as the season draws on, Allen's veterans may begin to tire and fade. But right now Washington sits atop the NFC east and even the experts are hard-pressed to dispel the fact that "the future is now."

Nicklaus wins, Palmer loses in Piccadilly

WENTWORTH, England (UPI)—Defending champion and tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus held off a fighting comeback by Liang Huan Lu of Taiwan Thursday to squeeze into the second round of the Piccadilly World Match Play Championship.

Big Jack, topping the betting list at 5-2 against the 25-1 offered "Mr. Lu's" backers, was taken to the 35th hole before closing out the 36-hole match 2 and 1, despite holding a four-up lead after the first six holes.

But if Nicklaus had a fright he at least survived, which was more than Arnold Palmer managed against Bob Charles, the New Zealand lefty, who edged Palmer with a birdie four at the 37th hole after Arnie had forced a sudden-death playoff with a 20-foot birdie putt.

Other matches in the $40,000 three-day tournament saw three-time winner Gary Player slum local idol Tony Jacklin 4 and 3, and Britain's Neil Coles crush U.S. Masters champion Charles Coody 5 and 4.

Coles, who was six-up on Coody, and Charles, who held a one-hole edge on Palmer, were the only leaders at the 18-hole stage.

Friday Nicklaus comes up against Cole, a course specialist who had the best figures for a completed round with a four-under 70 over the 6,997 yards "Burma Road" course in the morning, and Charles meets Player.

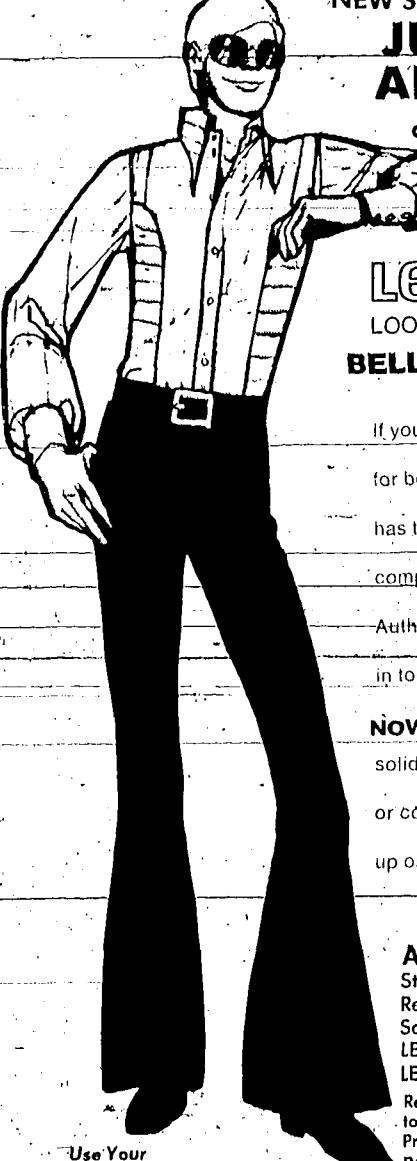

Nicklaus shot 37-37—74 in the morning, clipped four strokes off par for the front nine in the afternoon and wound up four under for 35 holes. Coles went 37-33—70, added a 38 and was five-under for his 32 completed holes.

Charles shot 35-37—72 and then 34-38—72.

BSC hosts Montana in Big Sky contest

BOISE, Idaho — The Boise State Broncos face another tough and crucial Big Sky game this Saturday when they face the University of Montana Grizzlies at 8 p.m. in Bronco Stadium.

The Broncos are coming off a 20-7 defeat at the hands of the Weber State Wildcats while the Grizzlies were upset last Saturday afternoon by the Idaho Vandals 21-12.

The Broncos are 3-1 for the season and 1-1 for the year while Montana has a 3-1 season mark and are 0-1 in the conference ratings. Boise State's sole conference win was a 42-14 decision over Idaho in the season opener.

This will be the second straight week that the Boise State defenders will be striving to stop the Wishbone T offense. The Wildcats from Weber used the running offense and the Montana Grizzlies run their attack from the same offensive formation.

"This is another week and another challenge," Bronco head coach Tony Knap commented.

"I like this squad because they're ready to play every week. All of us are concerned about getting ready for a multi-talented Montana team and we are looking for improved performance on offense and on defense."

The Bronco head man said that at Ogden the Broncos played hard but didn't play consistently well.

"The experience at Weber, bitter though it was, has to be utilized as a boost toward better performance. I've often said that a team that plays together as a unit with each man doing his job first will never be defeated badly," Knap said.

"When we face that wounded Grizzly this weekend you can be sure that we had better be sound and spirited—they could blow us off the field," coach Knap added.

The Grizzlies have two very talented running backs. Right halfback Casey Reilly has carried the ball 54 times for 337 yards, an average of 6.7 yards per carry.

His running mate, left halfback Steve Caputo, has 89

carries for 565 yards and an average of 6.6 yards per tote. Montana has ground-out 1400 yards in four games on the ground to just 339 yards in those same games via the airline. The Grizzlies have completed just six of the 33 passing attempts.

Munn, hit by stroke, 'critical'

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Athletic Director Clarence "Biggie" Munn of Michigan State University suffered a stroke Thursday and was hospitalized in critical condition.

The stroke came just two days before the game Munn wanted to win above all others when he coached the Spartans during their rise to national prominence—the annual Michigan-Idaho clash.

The condition of the 63-year-old "has not stabilized," attending physician Dr. Theodore Bauer said late Thursday night. Munn was placed in the intensive care unit as soon as he was rushed to the hospital.

Munn was discovered sitting in his car in a parking lot outside Jensen Fieldhouse on the campus, where the Michigan State athletic offices are located, about 2:30 p.m. by his personal secretary, Dorothy Miller.

Miss Miller said she could tell from his answers to several questions "something was wrong" and she drove him immediately to Sparrow Hospital, a short distance from the campus. Aides said Munn had been working under an intensive schedule as the Spartan-Wolverine game approached and had made trips to both Detroit and Grand Rapids on Wednesday for pre-game meetings of journalists and fans.

Vandals end 'good week'

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Idaho Vandals finished Thursday what Coach Don Robbins described as a "real good week" of practice in preparation for their home opener against Idaho State Saturday.

Robbins promised to have a "couple of new offensive wrinkles" ready for the Bengals.

Former starting lineman Rich Kushlan returned to drills Thursday after suffering a head injury three weeks ago. Robbins said Kushlan would probably see limited action in the Idaho State game and be ready to go full strength next week.

Dyers thank fans for help

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Ken and Pam Dyer say thanks. Ken is the Cincinnati defensive back who suffered a contusion on his spinal cord at the neck last Sunday on the third play of the Green Bay Packers-Bengals game while tackling Paeker fullback John Brockington.

He is still partially paralyzed and may never play again.

Ken and his wife put a note in the Green Bay Press-Gazette Thursday thanking the local citizens for their kindness.

"All of your calls, cards, flowers, prayers and friendliness made us feel at home at a time when we needed it. Thank you," they said.

Mrs. Dyer has been at her husband's side at St. Mary's Hospital since Sunday night.

guard Tony Fragomeni, already hurtling with a hyperextended elbow, suffered a knee injury and will be gone at least a month.

Coach Ed Cavanaugh went to Bannock Memorial Hospital at 10 p.m. Sunday evening with chest pains and shortness of breath. The preliminary report indicates no heart trouble and tests were to be conducted this week to determine probable cause of the illness. In any case Cavanaugh's presence in Moscow with the ISU team Saturday is unlikely.

The Bengals' opponent Saturday, Idaho, comes off its biggest win in years, 21-12 over Montana, two-time BSC champ. The Vandals knocked the Grizzlies out of a 233-game winning streak and evened their season record at 2-2. Coach Don Robbins has seen his team turn completely around in 1971.

The Vandals lost their first two 42-14 to Boise and 24-7 to Iowa State. Then the vaunted "Wild Bunch" and rookie QB Rick Seefred went to work. The "Wild Bunch" shut out Colorado State 10-0 and Seefred directed UI past Montana with 13 of 22 passes completed for 112 yards and a 64-yard TD dash on the quarterback option.

The Vandals move mainly on the ground. Running backs Frank Doer and Fred Riley each gained over 100 yards against CSU. For the season Riley has 150 yards and a 3.0 average, and Doer has 100 yards and a 4.0-per-carry average. Doer has moved past some highly regarded JC transfers to take over as starting running back. He was a tight end at the start of the season and a running back, second or third string, for two years before that.

Seefred was third-string QB to start the season behind highly-regarded redshirt Bruce Cole and letterman Tom Panciano, who started against ISU last year.

ISU is forced to make adjustments because of the injury situation, starting at the top. Randy Tyson, Defensive Coordinator, will take over as Head Coach until Cavanaugh returns. And ISU's offensive backfield picture was somewhat muddled by Havinear's injury. Mike Davis is back after seeing limited action last week with a hip pointer. However Wayne Cagle had a fine game with 42 yards on 11 carries and the two are both in the picture to start.

At tailback will probably be James Jackson, who played one of his better all-around games Saturday. Jackson broke loose several times on crucial runs for first downs and blocked well for the passer.

The quarterback picture has cleared up with the emergence of Dan Halt as a top-flight long-range thrower. Halt completed nine of 17 passes for 222 yards in the last 17 minutes to bring ISU to within a punt.

Idaho dogs show well in Montana

PAUL — Lenn Garner, Paul, has returned home from field trials at Deer Lodge, Mont., where dogs he trained received several awards.

Joe, owned by Rulon Everton, Twin Falls, won first place on open shooting dog stake. Rural Rubo, owned by Elaine Potty, Issaquah, Wash., placed first in open all-age stake. Both dogs were trained and handled by Garner.

Dixie, owned by Arnold Carter, Burley, won the Region No. 9 amateur shooting dog championship. Carter trains his own dog.

Rubbe's Tug, also trained by Gardner, and owned by Ed Purves, Twin Falls, placed second in open all-age, second in open derby and received the top dog award of the Montana trials.

N.Y., Detroit collect wins

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dave Stallworth scored 14 of his game-high 23 points in the fourth quarter Thursday night as the New York Knicks defeated the Los Angeles Lakers 126-114 for their eighth victory in nine NBA exhibition games.

Vagabond Vandals make first home appearance in 2 1/2 years

MOSCOW — Returning home to their own football field for the first time in 2 1/2 years, the Idaho Vandals will meet the Idaho State Bengals in a "real" homecoming game on Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

The Vandals, fresh from a 21-12 victory over the previously undefeated Montana team, worked hard this week in making preparations to play before a home crowd after a two and one-half year schedule on the road.

With an expected crowd of 12,000 fans in the new Idaho Stadium, the Vandals will be facing the pass-minded Bengals in what should be one of the highlight games of the year.

Coach Don Robbins said that Jim Wilund, senior tight-end from Coeur d'Alene, would be the only player missing from the regular starting lineup. Wilund injured his knee against Montana and underwent surgery this week.

Rick Seefred, sophomore quarterback from Spokane, will lead a backfield including Fred Riley and Frank Doer at running backs and Jerry Hall at flanker. This combination has shown great improvement in the past two games and their efforts produced two wins for the Vandals. The defensive "Wild Bunch" is intact with Co-Capt. Ron Linehan, senior from Sunnyside, Wash., calling the defensive sets.

Robbins said that Darrell Burchfield, junior from Boise, would get the call at tight-end to replace Wilund and that Tom Douc would move from defensive end to offense to back up Jim Welch and Burchfield.

Gomez rehired Don Zimmer, a coach for SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Manager Preston Gomez was rehired Thursday by the San Diego Padres for the 1972 season. Gomez was rehired as a coach National League's Western Division all of his three years with Gomez as manager.

South went back to clubs. Maybe East did not hold the king.

East did. He took that and his jack of diamonds. Then he led a heart and South was down two.

South did not look long enough at trick two. He would have found an extra line of play by leading a low diamond from dummy and playing the eight if East played low. This would have worked and South would have made his ninth trick in diamonds.

Suppose East held both jack and 10 of diamonds. South would take the three top and would still have the club suit to fall back on.

Fish spawn losses told

RUPERT — The minister of the United Methodist Church of Rupert told "fish stories" to Thursday's gathering of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

An avid fisherman for several decades, the Rev. Sidney Galther, who came to Rupert in June, presented slides and gave a brief talk on his experiences in fishing the waters of Idaho, Alaska and along the West Coast.

He prefaced his remarks by warning the members that unless steps are taken to halt the damage done to fish spawning areas, catches will continue to diminish.

Galther said splash dams and the logging industry, waste from pulp mills, and industrial pollution along lakes and streams contribute to damage to spawning areas in the past several years.

The minister, a native of Colorado, has served congregations in Oregon and Missouri before coming to Rupert this past summer.

In other business, Forrest Blake, representing the South Idaho Chamber of Commerce asked support for the Oct. 28 regional airport authority election. Blake said George Forscher, president of the Interim Board of Airport Trustees, will address the chamber next week.

The members also sent a letter of appreciation to Mrs. Clara B. Caldwell, a long time Rupert resident who recently moved to Tulsa, Okla., following her retirement as an accountant with the First Security Bank. Mrs. Caldwell was a founding member of the chamber of commerce.

Burley speakers group sets event

BURLEY — Coming events were announced at the Burley Toastmistress Club meeting in the conference room of the Unity Light and Power Co. Oct. 16 at Turf Club, Twin Falls.

The Toastmistress Council Seven will begin at 11:30 a.m. Oct. 16 at Turf Club, Twin Falls. Toastmistress Week is the last week of October.

Mrs. Freda Manning told of her trip this summer to Puerto Rico, including history of the land, people, customs, and places visited.

General theme for the evening was "Vacation Highlights." Mrs. Spencer Black directed the table topics. Each member spoke on "Where they would vacation if they had all the time and money in the world." Mrs. Harlow Cheney was selected as the table topic winner.

Mrs. Ray Guiles was toast-mistress. Mrs. Blaine Jensen conducted the opening ceremony. Mrs. T. Wayne Woodland served as timer.

Mrs. Walter Povlsen, president, conducted the business meeting. Guests were Mrs. Virginia McCloskey and Mrs. Lola Clayton.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Jensen and Mrs. Woodland.

Golf course expansion plan OK'd

BURLEY — Preliminary plans for construction of nine holes on the present course. Stanley said no figure can be established on the amount of matching funds since plans are approved by the Idaho Parks and Recreation Board.

According to Rex Stanley, Burley city councilman, federal funds for the project are a matching fund and are administered by the state.

The city of Burley owns the property for the proposed additional nine holes. It adjoins the present course. Stanley said no figure can be established on the amount of matching funds since plans are approved by the Idaho Parks and Recreation Board.

The matching fund is somewhat misleading, according to Stanley, for the city can handle a share of its part of the matching funds with labor. The next step is to select an architect, and secure definite cost figures, Stanley said.

Thrivers discuss plans for fair

DECILO — Issues concerning the Cassia County Fair were discussed by the members of the Thrifty Thrivers Extension Homemakers Club during their meeting Tuesday at home of Mrs. Jim Rodgers.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Rodgers, president, the group discussed improvement in the club's participation.

The members voted to make a contribution to the "Pennies for Friendship" fund.

For entertainment, each member told of the first meal they ever prepared for their husbands and some of the problems they encountered while learning to cook.

Secret pin gifts were received by Mrs. Dorothy Kidd, Mrs. Kaylene Preston, Mrs. Karen Bortz, Mrs. Norma Lou Whipple, Mrs. Sharon Hatch and Mrs. Mary Lou Kelsey, and the white elephant gift was presented to Mrs. Whipple.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lawrence Thompson, Mrs. Frank Gillotto assisted by Mrs. Rodgers.

Officers selected by club

BURLEY — Mrs. Marion Walker is the new president of the Burley Credit Women International.

Other new officers elected at a luncheon Wednesday are Mrs. Joyce Rucker, first vice president; Mrs. Ruth Warr, second vice president; Mrs. Ruby Edmons, secretary; and Mrs. Norma Lou Whipple, treasurer.

An installation dinner is planned for 8 p.m. Oct. 21 at the Ponderosa Inn.

Taxes don't help ranking, says York

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — A spokesman for the Idaho Education Association said Thursday Idaho's sales tax had not improved its rankings in public school expenditures.

Wayne York, IEA executive secretary, told the north Idaho teachers convention Idahoans approved the sales tax in 1968 believing it would be used to aid education and reduce the property tax.

The IEA, York said, feels neither of the objectives had been met.

"The association believes the Idaho Legislature should appropriate additional money at the state level and from state taxes instead of compelling the people to support their schools at higher levels locally."

York said in 1965, the year the sales tax was approved, Idaho ranked 38th among the states in teacher salaries and 39th in expenditures per pupil.

Today, he said, the rankings are 46th in both categories.

A report on the distasteful meeting was presented by members attending.

The cardinal is the state bird of Kentucky, according to Encyclopedia Britannica.

Some $4 million worth of $10,000 bills were in circulation in the United States in 1967.

Ex-worker guns down 3 in office

MONTREAL (UPI) — A disgruntled former employee of the Du Pont Company of Canada walked into the company's downtown office complex today with a sawed-off shotgun, killed three of his former employers, police said.

The suspect, identified as Vincent Moloch, 28, was taken into custody about 45 minutes after the shooting after calling police and offering to give himself up.

Police said one of the fatally wounded victims was taken to Royal Victoria Hospital, the other was rushed to Montreal General Hospital. The third victim was taken to Montreal Neurological Hospital where he died.

John D. Welsh, public relations director of Du Pont, said the man "was discharged yesterday."
