Airport forum tonight

TWIN FALLS — Views of proponents and opponents of the Regional Airport Authority question will be presented tonight in a League of Women Voters sponsored forum in the College of Southern Idaho Academic Building.

The meeting, open to the public, will be held at 8 p.m. in Rooms 117 and 118 with four speakers to be featured. Members of the league are conducting the informational meeting as part of their voter education program in connection with the Oct. 26 election to create a Regional Airport Authority. The issue will be voted at the same time in eight Magic Valley counties. Speaking in support of the question will be George Forscher, Burley, chairman of the Interim Regional Airport Board, and Harry LeMoyno, Twin Falls, board member.

Opposing creation of the authority will be Jean Milner, Twin Falls, city manager, and Winston Jones, city council member of Twin Falls.

The public will be given an opportunity to ask questions of any of the speakers following the formal presentation by the four individuals.

Syrians, Israelis in clash

By United Press International A Syrian military spokesman in Damascus said a formation of Israeli warplanes crossed over the Syrian border today and were engaged by Syrian fighter planes.

The report came as Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was consulting in Damascus with Lt. Gen. Hafez Tassad, the Syrian president, on the options of war or peace in the Middle East.

The Syrian spokesman said the Israeli planes came in over the Lebanese borders around 8:58 a.m. (2:58 a.m. edt) and returned to Israel via the same route after encountering Syrian planes.

He did not say whether there were any casualties or how long the formation stayed over Syrian territory.

This was the first Syrian report of an Israeli air violation since the Middle East cease-fire went into effect 14 months ago. Israel has reported several incidents of air violations by Syrian planes.

Only last week two Egyptian MIG23 jets believed flown by Soviet pilots flew what Israeli spokesmen called dangerously close to Tel Aviv. Political spokesmen said Sadat was briefing Assad on the outcome of 10 hours of talks he had in Moscow with Soviet leaders which the semi-official Egyptian Middle East News Agency (MENA) said were "successful."

The consultations, MENA said, were conducted "within the framework of the Federation of Arab Republics," which include Egypt, Syria and Libya. Sadat is federation chairman.

A joint Egyptian-Soviet communique said Russia agreed to increase Egypt's military strength, and Sadat in return agreed to condemn "anti-Communism and anti-Sovietism" in the Middle East.

His condemnation was bound to displease Libya's Col. Muammar Khadafi, a devout Moslem and outspoken critic of Communism, and future ally Sudanese Premier Maj. Gen. Jaufar Numeiry, who last July executed Communist leaders for attempting to overthrow him.

Sudan plans to join the federation early next year. Sadat has said repeatedly that the Arab-Israeli conflict should be resolved this year, whether by war or peace. Egypt claimed the Russians had endorsed Sadat's conviction during the Moscow talks.

CAA offers room for kindergarten

TWIN FALLS — The board of directors of the South-Central Community Action Agency endorsed the state-sponsored public-school kindergarten program Wednesday night.

The CAA board voted to extend a helping hand to Twin Falls School District No. 411 after hearing a discussion of the problems involved from representatives of the League of Women Voters, who have been urging the school district's board of trustees to participate in the program.

Norman McIntosh, Head Start director for the CAA, said five classrooms will be made available in the former St. Edward's Catholic School for the kindergarten program at no cost to the school district. The classrooms, however, will be available only in the afternoons during the school year, but could be used all day during the summer, McIntosh said today.

"We know that the limited aspect of our five classrooms being available only in the afternoons would be less than adequate for the school-sponsored program, but we hope that other facilities could be made available around the community to provide the needed room," McIntosh told the Times-News.

In addition to the classroom space, the Head Start director said pre-school educational equipment used in the Head Start program would be available for use by the school district, also without charge.

Twin Falls School Supt. George Staudaher has said that the cost of renting classroom space for the proposed kindergarten program would be a major problem for the school district.

McIntosh said the YM-YWCA has offered additional rooms to the school district. The offer was confirmed today by Charles Upton, executive secretary of the YMCA, who said Staudaher has been informed of the offer, but has not replied. Upton said the YMCA would charge only a nominal fee for utilities and custodial service required by the kindergarten classes.

The Twin Falls First United Presbyterian Church, which rented classroom space to the Head Start program before the church school was acquired, could consider providing the same facilities to the school district.

Rev. Robert Van Nest,

Presbyterian minister, said today that the school district has not formally inquired about the cost of renting classroom space, though the idea has been discussed informally by telephone.

The Head Start program paid $3,500 to rent classroom space for nine months each year, but their program included serving lunch to more than 100 youngsters. Rental of classroom space to the school district without use of the kitchen could be less than the Head Start rental, the pastor said.

McIntosh said the CAA offer would be for kindergarten classes starting with the second semester of the current school year, since the first half of the year is so far along.

In addition, the recent fire at St. Edward's School, McIntosh said, has halted Head Start classes and other CAA work until next Monday. Teachers and volunteers are working today to clean up debris from the fire and expect to work the remainder of the week.

A decision on the kindergarten program is expected tonight, when the school board meets for a special session, according to Staudaher.

Pickets attacked

Several others joined in the attack swinging melee (below) but the violence ended quickly. There were no arrests made. The bus is to visit 34 cities in the United States, supporting the cause of freedom for Jews in Russia. (UPI)

Kissinger to Peking Saturday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, will leave for Peking Saturday on his mission to negotiate details of President Nixon's trip to China, the White House said today.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, in a statement released simultaneously in Peking, said Kissinger would make stops in Hawaii and Guam, before arriving in Peking next Wednesday.

Kissinger will fly in a presidential jetliner piloted by Nixon's personal pilot, Air Force Col. Ralph Albertazzi.

Kissinger will spend about four days in Peking and will return directly to the United States with a refueling stop in Anchorage, Alaska.

Accompanying Kissinger will be Brig. Gen. James D. Hughes, military assistant to the President.

Nixon lists candidates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has asked the American Bar Association (ABA) to screen for two vacancies on the Supreme Court the names of two women who have taken hard stands against crime and four southern men, three of whom have fought legal or legislative battles against integration.

Although White House sources said the list was not definitive, it was believed that the six names sent by the Justice Department to the ABA Wednesday represented the most likely candidates for the seats.

The names are the first to be sent to the ABA since Rep. Richard H. Poff, R-Va., withdrew from consideration under the threat of pressure from civil rights and labor organizations. Nixon said Tuesday at a news conference that he would submit two nominees next week.

The vacancies were created by the death of Hugo L. Black and the retirement of John M. Harlan, who is suffering from spinal cancer.

The candidates sent to the ABA for investigation are:

—Sylvia A. Bacon, 40, a Republican from Watertown, S.D., who was appointed by Nixon to the District of Columbia Superior Court last year.

—Robert C. Byrd, 53, of West Virginia, the assistant-Democratic leader in the U.S. Senate.

—Charles Clark, 40, of Jackson, Miss., who was appointed to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals by Nixon in 1969.

—Dorochol H. Fridley, 40, a Democrat of Little Rock, Ark., who is considered one of Arkansas' top attorneys.

—Mildred L. Lillie, 56, a Democrat of Los Angeles and Ida Grove, Iowa, who is a justice of the California Court of Appeal.

—Paul H. Honey, 60, a Republican of St. Petersburg, Fla., who succeeded G. Harold Carswell on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and who was an active campaign worker in the 1968 election of Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla.

White House sources said Nixon was seriously considering at least four to six other persons, but their names apparently have not yet been sent to the ABA.

Acquittal ruled in Wilcox case

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Helen Wilcox, Twin Falls, was acquitted of a first degree murder charge Wednesday in Fifth Judicial District Court in Twin Falls.

James May, attorney for the accused, moved for acquittal on grounds of mental disease which excluded responsibility at the time the crime was committed.

Judge Theron Ward, in granting the motion, ordered Mrs. Wilcox committed to the custody of the Idaho Board of Health to be placed in an appropriate institution for custody, care and treatment.

The 64-year-old woman was arrested last Jan. 2, hours after the body of her mother, Mrs. Laura Wilcox, 86, was found in a bedroom at the women's home on Eighth Avenue North. The elderly woman had been strangled.

Prosecuting Attorney Leon Smith said the defendant was examined by three separate psychiatrists who agreed she suffered mental defects at the time the crime was committed, and was unable to understand the wrongfulness of her actions. Smith said it would have been necessary for the state to prove premeditation and intent for a first degree murder conviction. In view of the mental condition, Smith said the state agreed the woman could not have premeditated the crime and he agreed with the motion for acquittal.

Mrs. Wilcox has been free on $10,000 bond for several months, but has been confined, under court order, at a rest home in Twin Falls. She was still in custodial care there this morning, waiting disposition of the state board of health.

Burley man dies of hurts

TWIN FALLS — Layle Talbot, 40, Burley, one of three persons seriously injured in a three-vehicle accident south of Rogerson Saturday night, died late Wednesday at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Investigating officers said Talbot was the driver of a pickup truck which was northbound on U. S. Highway 93 north of Jackpot, Nev., in Idaho. Officers said a southbound vehicle driven by Al Callard, 40, Emmett, passed a third vehicle driven by Margaret Kress, Richland, Wash., clipping the rear of the Washington vehicle. It went out of control, crossed the highway and collided head-on with the approaching Talbot pickup.

Officers said Talbot's truck went over a guard rail and struck a concrete abutment following the collision.

Talbot was alone in the vehicle. Also injured were Callard and Mrs. Arthur Chapel, 38, Bonners Ferry, Mrs. and Mrs. Chapel and Mrs. Callard were passengers in the Callard vehicle. Callard and Mrs. Chapel have been released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

To quit?

SEN. MARK HATFIELD, R-Ore., may retire from politics and turn to a career in business or education, he told a news conference in San Francisco on Wednesday. He said he was weary of the adversary role he has played for so long in politics. (UPI)

Survey result due tonight

TWIN FALLS — Trustees of Twin Falls School District No. 411 will meet tonight at 8 p.m. to review results of the survey on kindergarten participation in Twin Falls.

School Supt. George Staudaher said he believes enough survey forms have been returned to make a final decision on participation of the school district in the state-sponsored kindergarten program.

Survey forms, distributed to all schools last week, have been trickling in to principals and the administration office, and will be tabulated today for presentation to the trustees tonight, Staudaher said. The returns were heaviest on Monday, with fewer returned later this week, and "almost none" coming in today, he said, this morning.

Staudaher declined to reveal the trend of the replies, though he admitted he did have "an idea" of how they were coming in. "We will present the material to the trustees and the public at the same time," he said.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?
Survey show many people don't like their names very well. They feel their names have an unpleasant sound, are easily turned into slang, are difficult to pronounce, or simply "don't fit".

'Band-aid' MD Nobel winner

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The 1971 Nobel prize for medicine was awarded today to Dr. Earl Wilbur Sutherland, an American who discovered a missing link in the biological control mechanisms of the human body.

Sutherland, who will be 56 on Nov. 19, will receive $90,000. He is professor of physiology at Vanderbilt University Medical School in Nashville, Tenn.

Medical sources said his studies have contributed immensely to the field of diagnostic medicine and that his discoveries could eventually lead to therapy of bodily disorders for which there previously was no known treatment.

The medical faculty of the Royal Caroline Institute said Sutherland was awarded the prize for "his discoveries concerning the mechanisms of the action of hormones."

Sutherland, a native of Burlingame, Kan., was awarded the $10,000 Albert Lasker award last year for basic medical research involving hormones.

That award specifically was for his discovery of a new chemical intermediary called cyclic adenylic acid (AMP) and for showing that it participates in a wide range of biochemical and physiological control and regulatory mechanisms.

He showed, for example, that at least 10 of the body's biological events which are triggered by hormones actually work by increasing or decreasing the output of cyclic AMP.

When fear or excitement increases the output of the hormone adrenalin the heart begins to beat harder. Sutherland discovered that adrenalin itself does not do the work but that it activates cyclic AMP which causes a stronger heart beat.

"Every living animal tissue makes cyclic AMP," Sutherland once explained. "It is a sort of a second messenger that does the work for a number of hormones which are the first messengers."

Sutherland, who is married and has two sons and two daughters, received his bachelor of science degree from Washburn College in 1937 and his medical degree from Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, Mo., in 1942.

He served in a number of hospitals and as a medical officer in the U.S. Army before going to Vanderbilt University in 1943.

Sutherland was the first 1971 Nobel prize winner. The awards for economic science, peace, literature and physics and chemistry will be announced in the next few weeks.

Each award is worth 450,000 Swedish kroner which at current market rates is worth $90,000. The money comes from the estate of the late industrialist Alfred Nobel who made his millions on his invention of dynamite. He set up the awards in his will 75 years ago.

"George has agreed to join our team."

Sheriff to file charges

BOISE (UPI) — Ada County Sheriff Paul Bright said Wednesday he has begun an investigation into the Tuesday night fire in the county jail and plans to bring charges against the prisoners involved. The fire, started by prisoners in a tank holding cell, hospitalized 11 for treatment of smoke inhalation. Three remain hospitalized, listed in "slightly improving" condition. The three, Jerry Harris, 25, Boise; Thomas Collins, 25, Boise; Tim Wallace, 21, Sacramento, Calif., were admitted to St. Luke's Hospital Tuesday night in critical condition. The other eight prisoners were treated and returned to the county jail Wednesday. Bright said he would bring charges of destruction of government property against those involved in starting the fire with mattresses. He said county commissioners had inspected the jail and found less damage than anticipated. He estimated it at $1,000. "We will be interrogating the different individuals," Bright said. "Of course, they're pretty closed-mouthed." The heat from the fire had warped the door to the cell and it took Boise firemen using crowbars and picks to pry the door open.

Mountain man dies of attack

LANTZ BAR, Idaho (UPI) — One of Idaho's mountain men died Tuesday of an apparent heart attack at his cabin in the Salmon River Breaks Primitive Area. Frank Lantz, 81, built his home at Lantz Bar in 1925 and lived alone there since 1954 when his wife died. Lantz left his isolated home only once each year. He would go to the tiny town of Salmon, Idaho, during the Lemhi County fair where he played poker for two or three days, but often said he could stand "big city living" only for those few days each year. Lantz first went to the Salmon River in 1916 to live at Cunningham Bar. He moved downriver to Prospect at Lantz Bar in 1925. Some years ago he turned his property over to the Forest Service with the stipulation he be allowed to live there until he died. The Forest Service established an administrative center at Lantz Bar, accessible only down the Salmon River by jet boat. Lantz was ill during the summer and was hospitalized in Hamilton, Mont., several times. He returned from there last week. He had visitors Tuesday morning. He made coffee for his guests, sat down in the chair he had used so many years during the long winter months and died. The body will be flown to Hamilton for services at 2 p.m. Friday. He will be buried at Corvallis, Mont.

Sergeant returns from Communist prison camp

DENVER (UPI) — Army S.Sgt. John C. Sexton Jr., described as in poor condition following two years in a Communist prison camp and a 70-mile walk through jungle to freedom, Wednesday ended a 30-hour flight from Saigon with a kiss for his parents from his stretcher. "From the way he looked, I don't think he'll be in the hospital very long," the elder Sexton said. In Washington, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird ordered a thorough review of all files on missing or captured U.S. soldiers to eliminate another "mistake" such as the one made on a letter written by Sexton to his parents. Laird told a press conference a letter written by Sexton seven days after his capture Aug. 12, 1969, languished in Saigon for two years. As a result his family did not know if he had been killed or captured. "I think a mistake was made in the field and when a mistake is made the best thing to do is admit it," Laird said. Sexton's parents said during a news conference Wednesday they hoped their son's release might signal an exchange of prisoners of war on the Indochina conflict. Army officials would not allow their son out of his hospital bed, but said he would be available for interviews later in the week. Referring to possible negotiations with the Communists, the father said, "I've always felt you could catch more flies with sugar than you can with vinegar." Sexton, the 24th prisoner of war released by the Communists, was set free following a 10-day, 70-mile march through jungle. About 70 miles north of Saigon he made contact with friendly forces and was flown to a hospital for treatment of malaria, old fragment wounds and an injury to his right elbow. The letter, addressed to "Whoever is concerned," was handwritten. But U.S. officials in Saigon made a typewritten copy which they forwarded to Washington, Laird said. Washington officials, unsure who had composed the letter, listed Sexton as missing in action. Not until this summer did they learn the original was handwritten. Sexton then was switched from the missing to the captured category, but the change came only three days before the soldier's release.

Memorial service planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. EDT Friday in the Washington Cathedral for former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, who died Tuesday night of an apparent heart attack at the age of 78.

A private burial service will be held afterwards at Oak Hill Cemetery in Georgetown, the fashionable section of the Capital where Acheson, a Washington lawyer and adviser to presidents after he left the State Department maintained his city home.

Acheson was found slumped over a desk in the study of his country home at Sandy Spring, Md. Former President Harry S. Truman, 87, under whom Acheson served during the height of the Cold War, issued a statement from his home in Independence, Mo., lamenting his "great personal loss."

"No one had a greater knowledge of world affairs and how to deal with them than he while he was secretary of state," Truman said. "Dean Acheson was a friend of all mankind and served his country with honor and distinction." President Nixon praised Acheson as "a man not only of great achievement but also of rare intellect, of rigorous conscience and of profound devotion to his country." He said "The nation, the Western alliance and the world all share in the loss of one of their staunchest champions."

into the fight to end the war, end the freeze, and get jobs for all Americans." Mayor John V. Lindsay told the crowd, "Unless we change now, in 1971 and '72, we will be doing nothing more than passing on to others a country that may not be worth saving." At the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, about 1,500 students and nonstudents marched one mile from the university to City Hall. The size of the crowds at most of the other demonstrations ranged from about 75 persons to about 3,500. Activities at those demonstrations included a seven-mile march in Monticello, N.Y., and a vigil and fast at New Mexico State University in Las Cruces.

Snipers shoot at helicopter

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Snipers today shot at a British army helicopter along the southern border and opened fire on sentries in Belfast and Londonderry. At least one man was reported dead in the new state of violence. The dead man's body was found in a house on the outskirts of Belfast, an army spokesman said. He was the 10th person to die in Northern Ireland's violence this year, and the 120th since the troubles began in August, 1969. Outbreaks today included the hijacking of four buses which were set afire in Belfast, and an exchange of gunfire between snipers and troops trying to blow up a road near Northern Ireland's border with the Irish Republic.

Japanese will open confab

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan told the United States today it would open negotiations Friday on the limitation of Japanese textile shipments to America. Former U.S. Treasury Secretary David Kennedy was told of the plan by Minister of International Trade and Industry Kakuei Tanaka. In a 60-minute talk at the Hotel Okura where President Nixon's special representative for textile negotiations was staying, Tanaka told Kennedy Japan would resume a government-level talk Friday afternoon on limiting shipments of man-made fibers and woolen products to the U.S. market. The Japanese trade minister told newsmen after the meeting the United States' attitude on the control of Japanese textile exports was stiff. # Shah of Iran makes banquet guest list

PERSEPOLIS, Iran (UPI) — The Shah of Iran made public today for the first time the guest list of his "banquet of the century" tonight. One emperor, eight kings, three ruling princes, two crown princes, 13 presidents, 10 sheikhs and two sultans will help him celebrate the 2500th anniversary of the Persian empire. In addition, the 105 guests who will occupy seats at the 100-foot-long table in the great banquet tent of the village of tents erected for his distinguished guests will include assorted vice presidents — among them Spiro T. Agnew and his wife — prime ministers, foreign ministers and one cardinal. Chefs from Maxim's in Paris have been preparing the menu for tonight, decided on after months of discussion. All the food and wines, the gas and electric stoves and the waiters who will serve the meal have been brought here from Paris, Monaco and Switzerland. The menu included: Quails' eggs stuffed with caviar, mousse of crayfish tails, stuffed roast lamb with truffles, then champagne water ice to cleanse the palate. After that 90 peacocks baked and reconstructed with their plumage, nut and truffle salad, creamed figs and raspberries in port wine. This will be eased down with the finest wines of France including a pink champagne especially developed for the occasion. The Shah gave an informal dinner for Wednesday's arrivals in his own big blue and beige striped tent, but many of the royal figures were there. Nikolai V. Podgorny, president of the Soviet Union, was also among those who attended. Others who spent the night in the tents situated in a man-made oasis of trees and flowers only a few yards from the ruined palaces of ancient Persepolis were Mrs. Imelda Marcos, wife of the president of the Philippines; Foreign Minister Rui Patrício of Portugal, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, King Constantine and Queen Ann Marie of Greece, King Hussein and Princess Muna of Jordan, President Tito of Yugoslavia, King Fredrik of Denmark, and Queen Ingrid and King Olav of Norway. Among today's arrivals, according to a preliminary list included Prince Phillip and Princess Anne of Britain and Prince Rainier and Princess

Protest Vietnam action

By United Press International Demonstrators gathered at generally sparsely attended rallies in several cities Wednesday, demanding an end to the war in Southeast Asia and asking, "When are we going to end this insanity in the human family." The demonstrations, held in at least 12 cities from coast to coast, were sponsored by the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ). That antiwar organization said the demonstrations marked the beginning of three weeks of protests which were to culminate Nov. 6 with rallies in 16 major cities. No incidents were reported at any of the rallies. In Washington, traditionally the scene of the largest antiwar demonstrations, about 150 protesters, four dozen policemen and a barking black dog gathered in the Indian Summer sunshine outside the Capitol. "The war is solely an example of using war and destruction to deal with each other," Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., told the applauding group and the dog, which barked at each outburst of applause. "At home we call each other niggers and honkies and chinks and wetbacks," Dellums continued. "Internationally we call each other communists and noncommunists. When are we going to stop this insanity in the human family?" The largest demonstration was in New York, where about 3,000 persons gathered in the garment district at a rally which had the support of several leading local labor figures. David Livingstone, president of District Council 65 of the Distributive Workers, said the rally marked "the beginning of the labor movement getting

Minimum wage bill signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Labor Committee tentatively approved a bill Wednesday that would guarantee about 1.5 million workers who clean, cook and serve in private homes a $1.60 hourly minimum wage Jan. 1. Under the bill, all household workers except those who also live where they work would get the $1.60 minimum in 1972 and go to $2 on Jan. 1, 1973. However, they will remain behind the bulk of the 35 million U.S. workers already under the wage-hour law, who will go from the existing $1.60 minimum to $2 on Jan. 1, 1972. Coverage of domestic workers, one of the largest groups still outside minimum wage coverage, was approved with little opposition after the committee agreed to exempt about 100,000 "live in" maids, cooks, butlers and other household employees who get room, board and other allowances in addition to wages.

Officers seek provokable dog

TWIN FALLS — Humane Officer Keith Saville and other members of the Twin Falls Police Department are searching for a missing black Labrador dog which they say could be of danger to anyone who might have taken it or attempt to adopt it.

The dog, "Sammy" is owned by Michael Peterman, 231 Washington St. N. It is completely safe when with the owners, but has been trained to attack under certain situations, officers say. The owner told city police he is concerned the dog might injure a child or someone else who might unknowingly provoke it.

The police department is asking anyone knowing the whereabouts of such a dog to notify them at 733-3112 or to call the owner at 733-5079 or 734-2406.

T.F. fair said 'now in black'

TWIN FALLS — For the first time since the grandstand fire of 1969, the Twin Falls County Fair is out of the red and board members are planning some future improvements.

This was the report of Harold O. Hove, fair board chairman, and secretary Tom Shouse, Tuesday to the Twin Falls County Commissioners.

Hove said fair board members were pleased with the public reception for the 1971 fair.

The revenue was up in some areas and down slightly in others, with an overall slight increase, Hove said.

Attendance was about 300 persons above last year.

The National Registry of Merit Show, which brought some of the nation's best Hereford cattle to Twin Falls County, is still bringing in letters of praise from throughout the country, Shouse said.

The Cavalcade of Queens also brought much favorable comment, he said, and provided something different in celebrities for the fair. As usual, Hove said, the Miss Rodeo Idaho Pageant was outstanding with Ruth Campbell, Gooding, winning the crown. The Miss Rodeo Idaho contest has been part of the Twin Falls County Fair since 1966, he said. With a better financial outlook, Shouse said, the fairgrounds will be improved. This year the showers and restrooms under the stands were completed and next year, Shouse said, it is hoped further lighting and removal of hazards in the cattle barns can be accomplished.

"We intend to move cautiously," Hove said, "because we are aware of the heavy burden the taxpayer has and we hope to use as little tax revenue as possible and still meet growing needs of our fair and rodeo."

General painting and maintenance are planned for the coming months, Shouse said.

This was the second year for the new grandstands, Hove said they were filled almost every night.

Students eat

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—College and university students are assets rather than liabilities in the communities where they are located as shown by the fact that the 40,000 students at Michigan State University are expected to spend $10 million on food in the coming school year. That accounts for 8 per cent of area food store sales.

In all, MSU students will spend approximately $132 million during the current fiscal year over and above tuition, on campus room and board and other fees. In that figure is $1 million in liquor and party stores, an average of about $30 per student.

MR. SPECTATOR

Tomorrow's The Night

All ready to hike out to CSI and see and hear the Up With People program? Well, it starts Friday night and shows again Saturday night. Both performances start at 8 p.m. and both are in the CSI gymnasium.

A NOTE Mr. Spectator received a note from Mrs. James Sparks, 462 Third Avenue East in Twin Falls. She was disturbed - so we pass her observations on to you: "If the parties in the car that parked at my side door on Fourth Avenue East the night-of the Youree Motor Co. fire are the thieving outcasts who stole my frogs, I have your license number. Also you missed a toad stool."

WASHINGTON - Now that Ray Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., is running for the Presidential nomination as the self-appointed representative of both blacks and women, the situation in the Democratic party is normal. In barracks language, it is all fouled up.

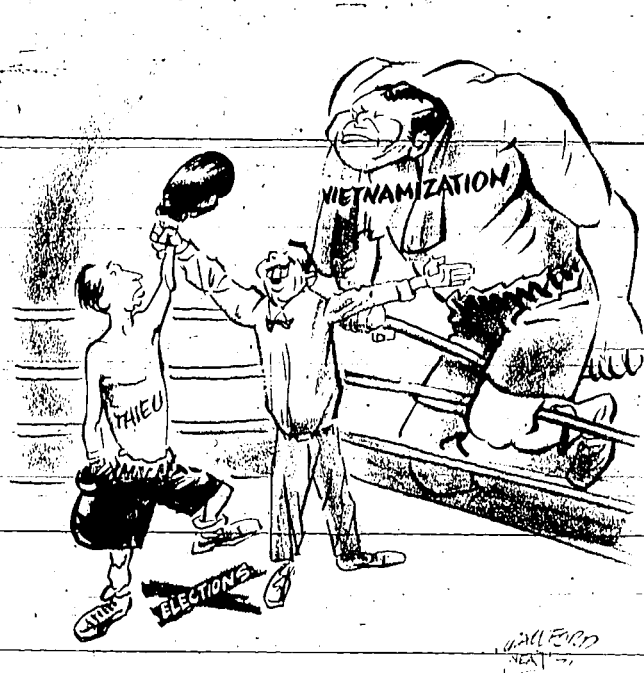

make their tigers fight for the same" - obviously chauvinistic - "feeling about women in politics..." Mrs. Chisholm is not a wicked woman and, thank God, she is not one of those yowling, untidy women's lib types, but she seems to be bucking for a footnote in history as the Democrat who made the splintering of the party complete.

Mr. Chisholm's aims are perfectly respectable. She seeks to be a power broker - to collect enough delegates so the party bosses and candidates will be forced to consult her and her friends about the Presidential and Vice Presidential nominations, Cabinet choices and platform planks affecting blacks and women.

her candidacy will so split the liberals that the convention could wind up nominating the most conservative candidate on the list. This would be Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, whose conservatism actually is only relative, since he has always voted liberal on domestic issues.

I expect this development is one of the reasons Maine's Ed Muskie has been almost frantically attempting to stake out a middle-of-the-road course that would appeal to the moderate majority in the party. With Mrs. Chisholm in the race, Muskie may have decided that Scoop Jackson is the man to beat.

And Your Next Opponent

Letdown By U.S.

WASHINGTON (NEA) - This is the story of the disillusionment of a man we shall call Nguyen Thuy Nam, so devoted to his country that he closed his business for months to work full time without pay for the reelection of President Thieu.

Washington has not been willing to put the same technical and financial investment into helping Vietnamese organize political parties. U.S. advisers have said this is an internal problem; Nam says that in helping the administration in power to the exclusion of all else, the United States confirms that government in power and makes a democratic contest for the presidency impossible.

without democratic political experience and training and without funds go about forming political parties without outside technical help and advice? Americans seem to think this comes about by some emotional inspiration, that all you have to do is set out ballot boxes and candidates will appear and parties form. You do not expect this innate ability in the military, or government or in economics. How then for political parties?

ROBERT ALLEN

The Pressure

WASHINGTON - There is a very personal reason behind Secretary William Rogers' latest frantic effort to produce some kind of a detente in the war-threatened Middle East. It doesn't, this tortuous and explosive problem will be taken out of his hands. It's the only priority international jurisdiction still being handled by the State Department. All others, notably Vietnam and China, are now directly under the White House - with President Nixon and his special foreign affairs adviser, Henry Kissinger, making the decisions.

significant Presidential contender, sponsored a proposal to grant $500 million in credits to Israel to buy more weapons, with $250 million specifically earmarked for long-sought F-4 supersonic fighter-bombers. Jackson has long been in the forefront in pressing legislation to arm Israel. Last year he put such a bill through Congress, and there is every likelihood he will do so again this year. He is in a strategic position to do so. In addition to being a ranking member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, the Washington state Democrat is chairman of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, which swings a lot of political weight. Graphically illustrative of Jackson's influence is that his Israel armaments proposal last year was approved by an overwhelming bipartisan majority of 87 to 7. Meanwhile, with Secretary Rogers still making no evident headway in bringing the Israeli and Arabs together, the Defense Department has quietly taken steps to ensure a continuing supply of A-4 Skyhawk jets to Israel. Israel wants to buy another 100 of these light and maneuverable attack planes, as well as some 60 more powerful F-4 supersonic fighter-bombers. Pentagon authorities strongly favor providing Israel with these combat planes, as well as missiles of various kinds and other major weapons. The U. S. military, in direct contrast to the covert hostility of the State Department, is markedly friendly to Israel.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Suffocation

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Two women in my family, not related by blood, suffer periodic hard chest pains, feelings of suffocation and faintness, with great lassitude afterward. They live in different areas have different doctors. Both are in their early 50s and commonly quite energetic. Neither is overweight. Each has had several cardiograms and physical examinations. In each case the doctor will not commit himself to a diagnosis but has them enerry-nitroglycerin-pills. Just in case?

though you are contradicting yourself a bit, aren't you? You ask, "Why does the medical profession depend on this device?" Yet you say that the two doctors in the cases you cite have given the patients nitroglycerin - a standard remedy for angina. Sounds to me as though neither of them are "depending" on the ECG, but after hearing the symptoms think there's evidence of angina anyway. One very important thing you haven't mentioned at all. Do the nitroglycerin tablets help when there is an attack? If so, it would be strong evidence that it is angina. If not, then it's time to start looking elsewhere for the causes of the attacks. I dare say I'm typical of most physicians; I want patients to trust me to do my level best to read all the signs I can detect, but I want them to realize, too, that the human organism is such a complicated one that some answers don't come easily or instantly.

My question: Why does the medical profession depend on this device when it is known to be inadequate and in many cases completely wrong? - Mrs. D. W.P. Women, like anyone else, can have angina pectoris and coronary heart disease in the 50s. No special reason why there couldn't be two cases in one family. It is widely known that the standard electrocardiogram tracing may appear normal in cases of angina; if the tracing is taken after a prescribed amount of exercise (such as the Master step-test) it may then show abnormality. Or sometimes may not. Now I can't agree with your last statement. Most diagnostic procedures have certain limitations. It is true that an ECG (cardiogram) doesn't tell everything about a heart. Neither does the stethoscope, nor X-ray. Nor does a general physical examination tell it all, either. But they tell something, and the ECG tells many things that other tests cannot. Are you suggesting we throw it away entirely because it has limitations? Further, it sounds to me as Dear Dr. Thosteson: The pupils of my son's eyes dilate unequally. He is 7 and his health is good. An ophthalmologist said this is not normal and is a sign of other things, not an eye problem. Our family doctor said, "We do not open the head and go picking around. Go home and forget it." I am worried he may have a cerebral hemorrhage. - Mrs. S. S. This condition can be harmless; in other instances it can be due to neurological disorders. Your family doctor obviously sees no other indication of trouble. The only thing I can suggest is to get a neurologist's opinion. Cerebral hemorrhage is most unlikely at age 7 unless there had been a severe head injury.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Really, Grandpa, your memory's not going. NO ONE can expect to remember ALL the names of Democratic contenders for the White House in '71!"

TWIN FALLS — Strong endorsement of the regional airport concept for air transportation in the Magic Valley was voiced by a South Idaho Chamber of Commerce spokesman Wednesday in an address before the Twin Falls Rotary Club.

Clayton Stewart, Sun Valley, who headed the regional airport committee of the chamber group during feasibility studies, said that organization has not faltered one degree from the favorable position it held at that time.

Stewart said many misleading statements have been made by those opposing a Regional Airport Authority. For example, he said, a Times-News article stated the present airport in Twin Falls can accommodate any jet aircraft now flying in Idaho.

"This is not incorrect," he said, "but not completely true." Stewart said, for example, United Airlines flies a 727 three engine jet into Boise. It can carry 123 passengers and some of the planes carry up to 151 passengers.

This aircraft, the speaker said, could safely land and take off from the Twin Falls airport, providing all conditions were absolutely perfect and providing it reduced its passenger load to 80 persons.

Stewart also said larger aircraft, a Boeing 707 or a DC-8 will begin operating next year from Boise.

CLAYTON STEWART

HARRY LEMOYNE

"We are fooling ourselves and not looking toward the future if we believe we will not be in the same situation again we were in a few years ago at the Twin Falls airport site. As soon as it is no longer economical to operate the aircraft carrying fewer passengers airlines will begin using the larger planes for greater profit per flight," he said.

Stewart said the Sun Valley resort area is extremely anxious for better airline services in the area in order to compete with other resort communities. He said travel agents, arranging group recreation tours, are inclined to encourage the groups to go where larger numbers can participate in one flight and thus reduce costs.

Stewart said he doubts the Twin Falls airport in its present location could ever become self sustaining.

Guide conditions in the area make it impossible to build a north-south runway at that location which prevents landing during certain cross wind conditions, and also requires the airport to close when repairs or improvements are necessary. This airport is not located near any major highways and is not ideal in terms of accessibility for residents of other valley towns, he said.

Stewart urged Rotarians to support the Regional Airport Authority vote Oct. 20 in the eight-county area.

Harry LeMoyno, Twin Falls, member of the Interim Regional Airport Committee also addressed the Rotary members, outlining the history of regional airport planning since 1965 when the city and county of Twin Falls called for an engineering study.

Engineers recommended a regional airport located north of the Snake River east of the junction of Highway 83 and Interstate 80, he said. This is the site proposed in the recent regional airport proposal.

LeMoyno told the club the airport needs a larger tax base than Twin Falls County and city alone. He said air passenger travel in Twin Falls County has not kept pace with that in communities of similar size.

LeMoyno also emphasized the need for a more suitable location for regional airport status, and said the Interim Regional Airport Committee feels the site north of the Snake River provides the necessary answers. He said it is all public land and can be obtained without condemnation or costly purchase, and provides unlimited expansion space. George Forscher, Burley, chairman of the Interim Regional Airport Committee, introduced the speakers and also urged support of the regional authority on Oct. 26.

BLACKFOOT (UPI) — A member of the Blingham County road crew was killed, but an 11 year boy with him was uninjured Wednesday when the gravel truck in which they were riding rolled on Minor Creek hill and plunged down an embankment.

The body of Ronald Beck, 23, Goshen, was found about 20 feet down the hill where he had been thrown when the truck rolled.

Blingham County Sheriff Arch Hess said Beck and Bret Draper, son of road supervisor Jack Draper, were riding in the cab of the gravel truck when the brakes apparently failed.

Girl, 17, missing

TWIN FALLS — An appeal for anyone knowing the whereabouts of a missing 17-year-old Twin Falls girl to contact the Twin Falls Police Department has been made by Mrs. Phyllis L. Christy, mother of the girl.

She said her daughter, who will be using the name of Sandra Lee Christy or Esther Christy, left home Oct. 2 at about 4 p.m. and has not been seen since. She believes the girl, who took a tiny toy size black and white dog with her, will possibly be wearing a long green "granny" dress or a blue coat. She was known to have told acquaintances she was en route to Kansas but took very little money, Mrs. Christy said.

Recovery suit filed

TWIN FALLS — Edwin L. and Elizabeth A. McVey are seeking $4,520 on grounds of a breach of contract and $1,600 living expenses from Ace Realty in a civil suit filed in Fifth Judicial District Court.

They charge the firm agreed by contract to build a home for them but did not complete the project according to contract terms. They agreed on an original price of $19,500 and both parties approved an additional $972, the complaint says.

Mr. and Mrs. McVey said when the contractor did not complete the building, he sold it to a third party. They say the value of the home at the time of the sale was $23,000 and that it been completed the reasonable value would have been $25,000.

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's Public Utilities Commission has ordered Cherokee Water Company, Inc., in Bannock County to assess each customer $12 this year to pay the firm's 1968 ad valorem taxes.

The PUC directed the water company to put the surcharge on its December, 1971, billings to each customer.

Appeals board reverses 10 items of order, upholds 3

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls Board of Appeals serving under the dangerous building code, have reversed 10 items of an order from the city building inspector and upheld three others involving the Wadsworth Building.

The building located at the corner of Shoshone Street East and Second Avenue East, is one of 17 inspected under the dangerous building code adopted by the Twin Falls City Council a year ago.

City Manager Jean Millar said the purpose of the code is to upgrade old buildings in the commercial part of the city to meet fire and other safety standards and maintain them in a condition safe to the public. Of the 17 inspections and resulting orders, four appeals were filed, Millar said. One hearing has been held and three are pending. About 35 additional buildings are scheduled for inspection and eventually the entire commercial area of the city will be covered.

The hearing on the Wadsworth Building was conducted earlier this month by the board of appeals and a decision and order have been announced. Fred Decker, chairman of the board of appeals, said the board reversed the order of the city building inspector on the first 10 items and upheld the remaining three.

Those the board held were not valid, following testimony from building owners and witnesses on their behalf, city fire department inspectors and Building Inspector Reed Coulam, included one calling for a one hour fire resistant protection ceiling in the rear of the basement.

Others included enclosed space under a rear stairway with fire resistant construction; installing 1 1/2 inch solid core doors equipped with self closing devices on both basement stairway doors; installing a similar door on the elevator opening, provide one hour fire resistant protection for steel columns with fire resistant paint or equivalent method; provide first floor ceiling with one hour fire resistant protection; reduce mezzanine floor space to one third of the area of any room and provide proper exits from mezzanine areas and fire resistive separations; provide a front stairway from the mezzanine to the first floor; provide an enclosed corridor from the main second floor corridor to the rear stairway and divide attic space into maximum sections of 2,500 square feet.

Provisions reversed by the board also called for openings in the partitions of the attic to be of the same fire resistant material.

Orders upheld by the board included repair of cracked concrete window sills; repair masonry chimney; repair parapet walls and coping on front, side and rear walls; repair parapet wall adjacent to existing building and replace existing coping with reinforced concrete coping.

As an alternative the building inspector had stipulated installation of an automatic sprinkling system would substitute for six of the 13 items.

Other members of the board of appeals besides chairman Becker are Richard Brizee, Richard Shotwell, Richard Heindel and C. E. Brockway.

Robert Alexander represented the building owners in the hearing and William Langley the city.

Board members held the city had failed to adduce sufficient evidence to support the conclusion any of the 10 conditions constituted a danger to public health and safety. The board also held all human activities and property conditions involve some risk; the building conditions do not constitute a nuisance in fact, and the building has not been judged by the fire marshal to be a fire hazard.

The first 10 items were ordered quashed and overruled without prejudice and gave the appellants 105 days to meet the requirements upheld.

Millar said what the board's decision and order will mean in the future as the city attempts to bring all commercial buildings up to standards of the code is not known at this time.

Sentence pronounced

TWIN FALLS — Douglas Eugene Cunningham, Twin Falls, was sentenced by Fifth Judicial District Judge James M. Cunningham Wednesday to 10 years in the state penitentiary for perjury.

Cunningham entered a plea of guilty to the felony on Oct. 8. He was charged with perjury in connection with his testimony during a preliminary hearing for Lee E. Claymor, held on a check charge.

He was ordered to serve the sentence concurrently with time he is presently serving on another charge. Golden Bennett represented Cunningham.

Army clubs lose slots

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Army Secretary Robert F. Froehke announced Wednesday he has ordered slot machines removed by next July from all U.S. Army service clubs around the world to end what he called a "corruptive influence" in military life.

Aqueduct creates big lake

LANCASTER, Calif. (UPI)—An "instant lake" eight miles long and a mile wide was created in the desert, early Wednesday when an aqueduct of the giant California water project ruptured and spilled 100 million gallons of water into the Antelope Valley.

The floodwaters, four feet deep at some places, quickly ran off but before roads were coated with mud, alfalfa fields inundated and several of the widely scattered homes had water coming under the doors.

Deputy Sheriff Donald Alford said no major damage had been done to any of the 12 to 15 farm homes; most of which were built on high ground because the area is subject to flash floods.

William R. Glanelli, director of the state Department of Water Resources, visited the scene about 11 miles west of Lancaster early in the day as engineers sought to determine cause of the leak in the open aqueduct which is 30 to 35 feet wide and 16 feet deep.

Gov. Ronald Reagan only last Thursday had given the signal at a ceremony to start the pumps to lift water coming from north of San Francisco over the Tehachapi Mountains to Los Angeles and more than 120 other towns in Southern California.

The 444-mile aqueduct, backbone of the $2.8 billion project, is not yet completed and the water was standing in the segment near Lancaster for a test of the system which is scheduled to go into operation in the Los Angeles area next summer.

The break occurred about 10 p.m. Tuesday and engineers quickly shut off control gates but not before some 300 acre feet had been spilled. An acre foot contains 325,900 gallons.

Fund councils ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government issued new regulations Wednesday requiring creation of parent-dominated advisory councils on how federal funds are spent for needy school children, and offering the first hazard pay for teachers in slum schools.

The rules, effective Thursday for the current school year, were signed by Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of the Health, Education and Welfare Department to govern spending of $1.5 billion under Title I of the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Title I, the largest of all federal educational aid programs, is intended to help provide special services, primarily reading and mathematics instruction, in the 1,600 local school districts with heavy enrollment of children from poor families.

Another regulation, to be effective in the 1973-74 school year, would prohibit use of Title I federal funds to bring basic services in needy schools up to the level of other schools.

An HEW spokesman said Congress intended this expense to be borne by state and local governments, with Title I funds to be used for "special" services for poor children.

The main reason, he said, is an over-abundant supply of teachers looking for jobs and presumably willing to teach even in slum schools without added financial incentives.

3 jailed in fire

PRICE, Utah (UPI)—Carson County law officers arrested three Salt Lake City men Wednesday in connection with the burning of a car at the Plateau Mining Ltd. mine earlier this week.

The car burning incident. Arrested and accused of setting fire to a car owned by mine owner Wayne Baker were Bob Wallace, Dennis Kinder and Henry G. Piep. No names were available on the men, and all three were listed as being from Salt Lake City.

Also, deputies were scouring the county late Wednesday and early today to serve 500 complaints on persons listed in a lawsuit filed in Seventh District Court as part of continuing labor problems between striking coal miners and non-union workers at the Plateau facility.

The lawsuit was instigated by Plateau Mine officials who are asking punitive damages or exemplary damages of $1,000 from each of the 500 defendants. The suit charges that no-labor dispute exists between Plateau and its employees. The majority of the defendants named were picketers from adjoining union miners who have been picketing the Plateau facility.

Gem GOP primary race may become hot battle

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — If Bill Bergeson means what he says — and friends say he does — Idaho's Republican primary election may be a pretty hairy affair next year.

Speculation of political writers and other curbsmen notwithstanding, Bergeson insists he's in the U.S. senatorial race to stay.

A Pocatello advertising man and a former state legislator, Bergeson bears the conservative stamp. Last year, he handled the campaign advertising of former Gov. Don W. Samuelson.

He's had his eye on the Senate for some time, associates in eastern Idaho say, and began contacting potential backers even before Sen. Len B. Jordan announced his retirement plans. Bergeson even had a campaign prospectus prepared for them to study.

One friend said Bergeson has so planned his personal finances that he and his wife can devote full energies to the camaign trail in a year-long "go for broke" try for the Senate. Another said he has lined up backers of former Congressman George V. Hansen in several areas — tying them up so tight that Hansen won't get them unless Bergeson bows out of the race. And that, this source said, Bergeson has no intention of doing.

Some observers believe the virtually certain entry of Congressman James A. McClure in the senatorial sweepstakes will freeze out not only Bergeson but Hansen and several other possible candidates. This, they believe, will pit McClure against former Gov. Robert E. Smylie, an already-announced candidate, in a two-man primary.

Others disagree. They say not only is Bergeson determined to stay in the race but they say Hansen, despite a high-paid federal job in Washington, D.C., also is insistent on making the effort.

And some think this is bound to help Smylie. They argue that

Analysis

Hansen and Bergeson — with their conservative backgrounds — will split up the right wing vote and shoo Smylie with his moderate bloc into the nomination.

McClure's backers disagree. They maintain he can appeal to the mainstream businessman, the middle-landers and others and actually take votes from Smylie as well as Hansen and Bergeson.

While the Republicans are jockeying for position the Democrats also have a potentially interesting race in the offing.

Attorney General W. Anthony Park still is sounding out possible support but looks more and more like a candidate. State Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, D-Tuttle, is practically at the starting post.

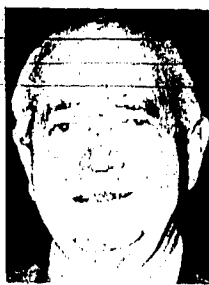

Former Rep. Edward V. Williams, now administrative assistant to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, is looking at this race as well as the First District congressional race.

Byron Johnson, a Boise lawyer and active young Democrat, is reported considering the race if one of the senior partners of his firm, Carl P. Burke, doesn't run.

And some Democrats — with perhaps more hope than substance will sustain — are trying to find a way to entice President William E. Davis of Idaho State University to enter the contest.

Honor due Idaho Senator

Jordan

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Chamber of Commerce has chosen Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, as its Distinguished Citizen of Idaho for 1971, according to President Ralph J. Comstock Jr.

Jordan will receive his award during the 45th All-Idaho Congress banquet at the Downtown in Boise Nov. 15. The banquet will be the concluding event in the one-day annual meeting of the Idaho State Chamber.

Comstock said the Idaho State Chamber is "highly honored to recognize an Idahoan who has built such an enviable record of accomplishments in both private and public life." The award, presented in recognition of "achievement in the highest traditions of individual enterprise, devotion to principle and service to his people and his state" was originated in 1963, with the late Harry W. Morrison the first recipient. Jordan was the principal speaker on that occasion.

Jordan has been an Idaho state representative, governor, U.S. Chairman of the International Joint Commission, member of the International Development Advisory Board and a U.S. senator.

Gem poll endorses dam ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said Wednesday a poll of the Second District shows overwhelming support for a moratorium on Snake River dam building.

Hansen also said the poll showed strong opposition to any plan that would deprive Idaho of the right to future upstream water development.

Hansen said the majority of those responding to the poll wanted assurances of adequate timing to consider the alternatives and to develop a permanent management plan for the area that will protect Idaho's right to future upstream use of the Snake River water.

Of those responding, he said, 80 per cent voiced support for legislation Hansen and Sens. Frank Church and Len Jordan sponsored to impose a seven-year moratorium on issuance by the Federal Power Commission to build a dam in the Middle Snake River. He said 11 per cent opposed the legislation and nine per cent expressed no opinion.

He said 84 per cent of the respondents opposed creation of a Hells Canyon — Snake National River if the effect would be to deprive Idaho of the right to future upstream water development. He said the proposal was favored by eight per cent and eight per cent gave no opinion.

Space needs may push auditor out of capitol

BOISE (UPI) — Another constitutional officer may move out of the Statehouse in the near future.

First, the superintendent of public instruction, D.F. Engelking, moved out so that his entire department could be quartered as a unit in the new State Office Building back of the Capitol.

Next, the Supreme Court cramped for years on two floors of the old main section of the Statehouse — moved to its own, new, $2 million edifice in the Capitol Mall.

Now, it appears that space requirements may force Auditor Joe R. Williams out of the Capitol.

"I'm going to ask the permanent building fund for an allotment of my money so I can remodel," Williams said Wednesday, in an interview.

"I'm looking for some way to locate my office in the State Capitol Building," he said. "But it may be necessary to move a major part of it to the State Office Building."

When Williams was assigned additional data processing chores and custody of more computers last July 1 his staff jumped in number to 55 from 27. Because the present corner he occupies on the ground floor of the Statehouse was too small to accommodate that number of personnel and because a basement room of the State Office Building already was designed for computers he put all but 18 employees across the street in the State Office Building.

He has discovered since July 1, however, that trying to operate from two different buildings has its drawbacks.

"In order to make a distribution of the payroll it requires two separate trips from this building to that plus several trips up and down the stairs in both buildings," Williams said.

Not only does this waste time of his employees — some of them the more highly paid ones — but it increases the danger of losing official documents in transit.

While the new office building was designed in part to accommodate computers, he said, it was not built "with an office the nature of mine in mind."

Unless he can find some way to remodel his old quarters in the Statehouse to handle the bulk of his personnel, he said, he may have to move all or at least a major part of the personnel — including his own private office — to the State Office Building.

It would be the first time in Idaho history, he said, that his office was located outside the Capitol.

"The people are entitled to efficient government," Williams said. "But (because of problems created by his present office arrangements) they're not getting it."

"The other day we spent three hours of top employees time looking for a document we thought was lost in transit," Williams said. "It turned out it wasn't delivered to this office but we couldn't tell that until we made a complete search."

Williams, who already had made two trips to the State Office Building himself by mid-morning Wednesday, said even he has had problems with losing things in transit.

One day, he said, he was returning to the Capitol from the office building when he saw a familiar-looking letter lying on the sidewalk. When he picked it up he discovered it looked so familiar: It was one he had been carrying to the office building earlier and apparently had dropped.

In years past, Williams has resisted efforts to remodel his office on grounds the principal purpose would be decoration and not efficiency. Today, he said, it is time to use some of the $90,000 appropriated to his agency for remodeling.

Not only must he improve efficiency, he said, but perhaps it would be wise to bring his decor up to the aesthetic standards adopted by other constitutional officers — including the governor, secretary of state and attorney general.

Karen back in hospital

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Karen Prestwich will be admitted to Shriners Hospital here Thursday for further evaluation and treatment.

The second grader, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Prestwich, North Fork, Idaho, has spent most of the past year in hospitals. She was shot in the hip last Nov. 6 by a California hunter who mistook her for a deer.

Karen, who was waiting for a school bus near North Fork on U.S. Highway 93 when the accident occurred, still wears a body cast.

Doctors at the hospital said she has been "doing fine but still is receiving orthopedic treatment."

Karen missed most of the first grade last year.

New trucks called back

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. today asked owners of 1,600 light trucks built early in the 1972 model year to return them to dealers for inspection and possible adjustment of a spring shackles stop.

The recall involved 1,300 Chevrolet and 300 GMC truck and coach division four-wheel-drive vehicles.

The company also said if it is asking Chevrolet, Buick and Pontiac dealers to locate some 475 early production 1972 model three-seat station wagons to replace lap belts in the third seat. The belts are considered to be too short to fit a larger than average person.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said Wednesday most wage increases already agreed upon in signed contracts likely would be allowed to go into effect when the wage-price freeze ends next month.

Hodgson also said labor's right to strike would be unaffected by any post-freeze controls.

Assured on those crucial points, organized labor opened an attack on another aspect of President Nixon's "Phase II" program—the House-passed bill to cut taxes by $15.4 billion over the next three years.

Andrew J. Blomiller, chief lobbyist for the AFL-CIO, told the Senate Finance Committee that the bill represents "a giant raid on the treasury that would transfer billions of dollars of badly needed public funds into the private treasuries of big business."

Blomiller asked the Senate committee to reject the investment tax credit which would reduce business taxes an estimated $45 billion between now and 1980 by allowing firms to deduct 7 per cent of the cost of new equipment from taxes.

He also said that instead of enacting legislation that would cut corporate taxes by about 15 per cent starting next year, Congress should pass an excess profits tax such as the Korean War tax which raised $7 billion over three and a half years, retaining it as long as economic controls remain in effect.

Despite labor's opposition, the committee is generally expected to approve Nixon's tax package—including repeal of the auto excise tax and a new tax break for firms which export — without substantial change.

Hodgson's reassurances that few union members would face the possibility of a rollback of already-won wage increases cleared up a point that had troubled organized labor ever since the freeze began.

The labor secretary's comments continued the conciliatory tone set by the administration toward labor.

Labor leaders agreed Tuesday to cooperate with the Nixon economic plan following personal assurances from Nixon that the administration would not overrule wage decisions of the 15-man pay board, set up to oversee wage increases during Phase II, which would have five union members.

Hodgson was interviewed on the NBC-TV Today show.

Hodgson said the "new" pay board would have the responsibility of deciding which previously negotiated union contracts, if any, contained wage increases larger than administration policy would allow.

But he added that "only in relatively small number of cases" was there the possibility of a rollback.

He said most of the contracts already negotiated contain smaller wage increases in their second and third years than in the first year, and therefore many unions already received a major portion of their wage increases before the wage-price freeze went into effect Aug. 15.

Although no guidelines have been issued on the size of wage increases, the most frequently mentioned yearly limit is 5 per cent.

Legislation will be sent to Congress soon, perhaps today, according to congressional sources, and will include a provision for a panel of three federal judges to hear appeals from wage earners and businessmen dissatisfied with decisions from the forthcoming pay and price control panels.

Nixon's phase II plan cleared a tough hurdle Tuesday when officials of the AFL-CIO and the two biggest independent unions—the Teamsters and the United Auto Workers—agreed to "help try to make the President's mechanisms to control the cost of living work."

Together the federation and the two independent unions represent almost every union worker in America. They granted their endorsement after receiving a hand-drafted note from the President promising that the administration would not overrule the decisions made by the pay board and the price commission which Nixon plans to create.

The Douglas fir, Washington's State's most popular conifer, was named after David Douglas, English botanist.

Mineral probing advised

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI). — Rep. Walter Baring, D - Nev., urged the mining industry Tuesday to explore wilderness areas for minerals before all mining activity is halted in 1983.

He made the recommendation to the American Mining Congress which attracted some 12,000 delegates to its annual convention.

Baring, a member of the House Interior Committee, said there had been a "lack of general interest" by the mining industry in exploring areas set aside for preservation in their natural state under the Wilderness Act of 1964.

While the 1964 law says wilderness should be kept "untrammeled by man" and prohibits logging, motor vehicles and other commercial exploration. It permits mineral prospecting and mining to continue until until Dec. 31, 1983.

Baring said the exemption for mining was written into the law because of the industry's demands.

"Now since 1964 a curious thing has apparently happened. So far as I know, there has been very little interest in prospecting or mineral exploration within wilderness areas by the industry."

He said only a few companies had persisted in seeking minerals in the areas despite "overly restrictive regulations" by the Forest Service and the protests of "radical preservationist groups."

"My question is whether the mining industry can afford to lose this opportunity to test the mineral potential of some 9 million acres of public land. Losing by default is still losing."

Sen. Paul Fannin, R - Ariz., said anti-pollution regulations should not be carried too far in the mining industry.

He said it could cost a lot of people their jobs and result in increased taxes.

Fannin said the copper industry in several states was seriously threatened by anti-pollution overkill.

"The environmental movement that started out so nobly has often been perverted by environmental-extremists into a mindless attack on our economic system," Fannin said.

He pointed out the copper industry in Arizona employed more than 20,000 persons, provided an annual payroll of $177 million, and paid about 12 percent of the state's taxes.

He questioned whether Arizona residents would be willing to assume an additional 12 percent tax burden to eliminate copper mining and copper smelting.

The Arizona Republican said he stood four square for clean air, clean water and natural beauty.

"But I also stand for square for people and the lives they are entitled to live," he said.

Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., said Congress would adopt controls on strip mining and that the only question remaining was exactly what those controls would require.

He said more than 20 bills were in the hopper to impose controls on strip mining of coal, but many were similar.

"Many of these bills propose an absolute and almost immediate halt to all strip mining of coal," Aspinall said.

"I don't believe we can afford outright prohibition of strip mining, as many propose. But

Thursday, October 14, 1971 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 9

I am also convinced that we can not permit the continuation of uncontrolled and unregulated mining that results in taking much of our best land out of useful production," said the Colorado congressman.

Zoned for agriculture

Landowners, company debate on gravel pit

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News Writer

HAILLEY — The Blaine County Planning and Building Board of Appeals Wednesday night heard debate on a petition by Gordon Paving Inc. to establish a gravel pit four miles south of Bellevue.

Testimony of the backers and opponents differed sharply. The appeals board will announce a decision within 10 days according to board chairman Lee Schellender, Ketchum.

Twin Falls Attorney Lloyd Walker representing Gordon Paving asked for a conditional use permit to set up an excavation, rock crusher, aggregate stock piles and trailer facilities for personnel at the 40-acre site.

The area is zoned for agricultural use, which permits operation of a gravel pit under a conditional use permit.

Gordon Paving's request for the permit had been denied by the Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission on June 10. However, the plant was operated from June till August 1980. He testified that the operation "did not interfere" with his farming. And Gochnour said, "what I grew on my farm I fed to my own animals — it did not affect the animals."

An employee of Gordon Paving, Ken Hansen, said four other gravel pits are located in the immediate area near the proposed site. He said the excavation will be cut in "neat lines" and that when finished, the pit area would be planted with crested wheat grass.

He said the county as a growing area needs "rational and reasonable" planning. Walker said Blaine County zoning on city and county levels "has been to a large degree personal and by whim."

James Eakin spoke out against the gravel pit proposal on behalf of adjacent landowners. Eakin, the Blaine County Extension Agent, said he was not acting in an official capacity but as a landowner.

He said that the "wind blow the dust across my field one fourth mile away" when the gravel crusher was in operation.

Eakin said, "while the dust was not toxic, it was a very antagonistic material."

He said he had three cases of pneumonia in his cattle since the gravel plant began operation.

"The road surface," he said, "has been chewed off" by the gravel plant trucks. "It has been a mess," he said. "If the company can establish a road surface it would help."

"Sales are a little better than a year ago," according to James Hanzel of Hanzel Motor Co., Burley, "because people realize prices are going up in three or four weeks."

Hanzel said "business was a little flat" prior to the President's Aug. 15 announcement, but the freeze has "added a little impetus."

"According to Buster Goode, owner of Goode Motor Inc., in Rupert, business was good before the President's economic announcements of mid-August, and "now it's very good." He credited the freeze with "stimulating the sales," but said in some cases manufacturer's shipments were slow in arriving in the showroom.

Because a automobile manufacturers aren't allowed to raise their costs, he said, they are trying to cut down on their expenses, and aren't granting overtime hours to assembly line workers. The result is a relative "shortage of cars" at a time when it was expected that sales would reach a record peak for this year.

A partner in Workman Bros. Pontiac Co., Rupert, Donald R. Workman said his company is having trouble getting new cars into his premises. At the present time, he said, he has only two 1972 models on display, but, he said, he could probably sell more if he had them.

Thus far, he said, "there's not much difference in sales" because of the freeze. "The excise tax is going to be the big thing," he said, referring to Nixon's request that Congress repeal the present 10 per cent tax on all American-made cars.

"The harvest season makes it bad for both new and used cars," Workman said. "September is usually a poor month, anyway."

Workman said he expects sales to increase in the next several weeks, when the harvest season draws to a close and the tax is finally repealed.

Edward Fronk, owner of Fronk Motor Co., Burley, agrees with Workman's assessment. "I don't see any difference in sales in the people here," he said, "the price freeze comes at harvest time and people aren't worrying about cars."

Freeze assists new car buyers

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — The present nationwide 90-day price freeze has meant good business for Mini-Cassia new car dealers, although anticipated increased sales have been offset by the interruption of the freeze period with the local harvest.

This picture emerges from a survey of car dealership owners in Burley and Rupert, with President Nixon's three month freeze two-thirds complete.

"Sales are a little better than a year ago," according to James Hanzel of Hanzel Motor Co., Burley, "because people realize prices are going up in three or four weeks."

Department sets guide

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — The top official of the Idaho Department of health, water control section said Wednesday the state agency would have to act on its own in implementing a statewide waste discharge permit system in the absence of any clear standards set down by federal authorities.

Dr. Lee Stokes, making his remarks before the state Water Pollution Control Advisory Council, said the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has not yet established procedures for the state to follow.

As a result of the delay, he told the council, he expects it to take two years for the permit system to be implemented fully.

Stokes said the department of health was starting its efforts on the smaller Idaho municipalities and would take the major industries one at a time.

The statewide permit system is an effort on the part of the agency to reduce discharge of wastes into waterways to a level that can be handled safely by the natural bacteriological processes of the lakes, streams and rivers.

Stokes said he hopes the program can be coordinated, with work by the EPA, and Army Corps of Engineers, but the state is no longer waiting for federal guidelines.

Stokes also told the council "the state is out of the business of looking at septic tanks." In the future, he said local district health departments will grant approval for new plat plans for new homes, under recently adopted guidelines for sub-surface disposal systems.

The local health districts will oversee all private home sewage systems, lakefront cabins and recreation areas.

The state official also told the advisory council a hearing is tentatively scheduled for Nov. 11 to bring the Bunker-Hill Mining Co., Kellogg, into compliance with state pollution controls.

At the present time, he said, the company is responsible for 90 per cent of the pollution problem in the Cour d'Alene River System. Stokes said the mining company is "the largest single industry in the state without an abatement schedule and we thought they needed one."

Under the terms proposed by the health department, 80 per cent of all the metal waste presently being dumped into the river by Bunker Hill would have to be eliminated by Dec. 1972. An additional 10 per cent of all metal-waste except lead would have to be stopped a year later, with other restrictions on lead effluents being imposed by July 1974.

If the requirements were complied with, Stokes said, the amount of metal waste still being turned into the river would be "within a range tolerated by the aquatic organisms."

Stokes' decision to seek the hearing was the target of some criticism by two advisory council members, George Deschler and Lynn Sirrine. They said development of a permit system should have been sufficient, and would have eliminated what one called "adverse publicity."

Ecological consultant says gravel dust will help cattle

By RICHARD G. HIGH
Times-News Managing Editor

HAILLEY — A consultant hired by a firm hoping to develop a gravel pit near Bellevue testified Wednesday night that dust from proposed pit would help — not harm — the alfalfa and beef production on nearby farms.

Mrs. Edith S. Kinucan, Bellevue, who described herself as a professional ecologist employed by Environment West of Sun Valley, told the Blaine County Planning and Building Board of Appeals that the proposed gravel pit would be "beneficial in dust form as a fertilizer" because it contains calcium.

In addition, she said, the alien sand that might be eaten by neighboring cattle could increase their weight gain. Mrs. Kinucan said she had been hired by Gordon Paving Inc., the firm seeking the gravel pit development, with the understanding that her findings might not be favorable to the firm.

However, her findings did support the proposed pit.

She said the gravel pit is not adjacent to homesites or a major highway and is located on land with only limited agricultural potential.

The site, four miles south of Bellevue, she said, is bounded on the north and east by desert and on the south and west by alfalfa fields irrigated by sprinkler systems.

She said any dust that fell on the alfalfa would be rinsed off by the sprinklers.

She said the gravel formation is not only "free from elements toxic to plant and animal organisms, but also contains calcium which would be beneficial in dust form as a fertilizer."

The benefits of dust calcium, she said, were reported to her by Dr. R. J. Vogt, an ecologist at California State College in Los Angeles.

She cited studies by R. C. Conley and W. Burroughs of Iowa State University that she said showed silica sand added to high concentrate beef cattle rations resulted in a five per cent improvement in live weight gains.

She said researchers "have not determined why sand helps, but their experimentation definitely indicates that it does."

She cited a report by Dr. Clarence Gordon, plant pathologist of the University of Montana that he knows of no recorded evidence of damage done to livestock nor adverse effect on milk production caused by dust.

She said that in extreme dust conditions damage has been reported to the teeth of cattle because of the grinding effect.

Mrs. Kinucan said "there is no evidence that the proposed gravel pit would produce a detrimental impact upon the surrounding environment if certain criteria were met by the company.

The conditions she listed are — roads should be maintained to reduce dust.

— proper maintenance of the site including any structures "so that the area blends into surrounding environment so as to be aesthetically appealing as possible."

— the company should guarantee rehabilitation of the area after gravel has been removed.

Burley dance planned

BURLEY — The Burley Police Department will underwrite a Halloween eve dance for Burley teen-agers as part of its campaign to make the annual holiday a safe one.

Police Chief Kenneth Barry, meeting with a planning group of city officials, businessmen and educators, agreed the police department would provide $300 to guarantee the appearance of two rock groups from Pocatello and Portland at the Oct. 30 dance.

Two Burley High School students, meeting with the planning group, presented their plans for the event and appealed for a sponsor. They expected to turn a profit on the venture, with admission open to all high school age people in the area.

They further pledged to patrol the inside of the dance hall effectively, without police assistance, with the city's regular force to maintain calm outside the high school, site of the concert.

The decision to hold the concert was the latest in the series of alternatives formulated by the planning group for the night before Halloween.

Heyburn records said in good financial shape

HEYBURN — The Heyburn City Council was told Wednesday night the city's financial records were "in real good shape."

Neil King, public accountant, appeared before the council following the annual audit of the city's record books. "Overall, the city has done really well," King said.

The council also issued a strong warning to city residents that it will start to enforce codes involving trash cans.

Mayor Harold R. Hurst notified residents their garbage cans must be covered and constructed by the chamber of commerce.

— agreed to seek bids for "new city tractor."

— agreed to seek further improvements in the recent construction work on 21st street (Alfred Road) before emitting a balance payment of $6,000 to Gordon Paving Co.

— certified Mrs. Blanche Wilcox, Mrs. Alice Hamilton and Mrs. Jeannette Armstrong as judges and clerks for the Nov. 2 municipal election.

— agreed to provide electric lighting for new city signs to be constructed by the chamber of commerce.

Mayor asks vote effort

HEYBURN — Mayor Harold R. Hurst appealed last night to all city residents to register and vote in the upcoming Nov. 2 municipal election.

He said the registration for city election is distinct from federal and statewide contests and urged citizens to check with the city clerk's office to assure they are properly registered before the 9 p.m. deadline on Saturday, Oct. 30.

Castleford Farmers' school has dinner planned

WENDELL — Plans for the annual Farmers Night dinner were discussed by the Wendell Chamber of Commerce Wednesday.

Clyde Peterson, general chairman for the event, appointed other committee heads including Mark Koll, tickets; Joe Leeper, door prizes; Marshall Howden, seating arrangements; Charles Ireton, entertainment; and Jim Freeman, invitations.

No date for the event has been set, Ireton said.

Other business included a discussion by Peterson of purchasing a license for the chamber sign at the north entrance into the city.

Peterson said that a committee is to be appointed to greet and welcome new businesses in the community. He reported in the past month that there has been a number of new businesses established in the city. They include Dr. Fred Priests, optometrist; Frank Raine, new and used furniture; Ellis Thomason, manager of Hub City Builders; Jim Jurcham, surveyor, and a new cafe.

Castleford school has bomb scare

CASTLEFORD — Afternoon classes were dismissed at Castleford High School Wednesday afternoon after a telephoned bomb threat was received at the school.

Twin Falls County Sheriff Paul Corder said the building was thoroughly searched by deputies and other law enforcement personnel, but no bomb was found.

Floyd Bowers, superintendent and principal at the high school, said a female caller made the threat just prior to noon.

The sheriff said his department recommended that "just in case" there was a bomb in the building, classes be dismissed for the remainder of the day.

This was the second bomb threat at Castleford High School this school term. Bowers said the first occurred on Labor Day, just prior to closing of classes for the day.

One-house

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Backers of a one-house legislature for Michigan hope to have 450,000 signatures by next Jan. 1 to get the question on the ballot for the following November.

Write-in effort brings Filer race

FILER — A race is shaping up for two Filer City Council seats with a write-in candidate, Mrs. Alice W. Blake, announcing her candidacy.

There were only two petitions filed by nominating deadline. They were filed by Charles Crawford Jr. and Russell Sheridan Jr.

Max Henry and Ralph Eaton, incumbents, are not seeking reelection.

Mrs. Blake said her reasons for running were "that she is concerned about better city government and also did not like to see an uncontested race. She said she would be willing to give time to city affairs. She is a 26-year resident and taxpayer of Filer and was born and attended schools in Kansas and has owned and operated an apartment house in Filer for 26 years.

She is the mother of three children educated in Filer schools and is married to Seth Blake. Both are members of the Filer Methodist Church.

Air pollution 351 index

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central District of the Environmental Protection Agency at the Twin Falls, Idaho, station. The reading was expressed in the number of micrograms of particulate matter per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period.

Forecast

Today: Excellent
Tonight: Excellent
Tomorrow: Excellent

The forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution. Burning tax present, but by law should be controlled when the air is partly able to disperse pollutants.

Cheesey pizza on national menu

TWIN FALLS — This is National School Lunch week and Wednesday students in Twin Falls joined with over a million youngsters from across the nation in enjoying "school pizza."

The menu in Twin Falls included apple sauce, tossed green salad, green beans, chocolate brownies, milk and a hot roll and butter. The pizza was of beef and cheese, in Twin Falls, while elsewhere in the United States pizzas of other types, but always with lots of cheese, were served.

Other schools in Idaho served beef, cheese and bean pizza and the Idaho Bean Commission recommended the following recipe:

Crust: Use a packaged mix or a packaged yeast dough to cut down on time and effort. Roll into a round about one fourth inch thick and about 13 inches in diameter. Place in liberally buttered pan, pressing dough out toward rim.

Filling: Two cups of cooked beans, some mashed, some left whole. Add bean liquid so beans have consistency of mashed potatoes. Stir about one half cup thinly sliced Provolone or shredded cheddar cheese into bean mixture. Cool and spread over dough to a thickness of about one half inch.

Topping: Top with canned pizza sauce or sauce from packaged pizza mix or tomato sauce. Sprinkle with shredded Mozzarella cheese. The topping garnishment can give a little vent to the imagination. Use thinly sliced pepperoni, salami, prosciutto ham, cooked pork sausage or ground beef, anchovies, green pepper strips, mushrooms, or ripe olives. Sprinkle with salad oil which has a cut garlic clove resting in it. Add sprinklings of grated Parmesan cheese or a mixture of Parmesan and Romano. If tomato sauce is used, dust sauce generously with oregano.

Bake in 425 degree oven for about 20 minutes or until crust is browned. Hint: This pizza may be made days or weeks in advance and frozen for use when a quick meal is needed.

PIZZA WAS on the menu in school lunch rooms all over the nation Wednesday as National School Lunch Week was observed. This pizza, featuring several types of tangy cheese, also utilizes Idaho beans in the filling.

Make this weekend better with cheddar.

Ten great cheddar cheese appetizers to serve your guests.

1. CHEDDARY STALKS

Shred 8 ounces Cheddar cheese to measure 2 cups. Allow to come to room temperature. In a mixing bowl beat together cheese, 1/4 cup light cream or half and half, 1 tablespoon chopped onion or chives, 1 tablespoon catsup, 1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 1/4 teaspoon salt and dash of cayenne pepper until fluffy. Pipe or spread into celery stalks. Yield: 2 cups spread.

2. CHEDDAR SOUFFLÉ APPETIZERS

Cut double thickness of heavy duty aluminum foil to measure 12 x 16 inches; place on baking sheet. Trim crusts from 1 1/2 lb. loaf unsliced sandwich bread; cut loaf into 4 lengthwise slices. Place slices side by side on foil. Toast both sides of bread under broiler; butter. Sprinkle 4 cups (1 lb.) shredded Monterey Jack or Cheddar cheese over all. Bread will be cut into 8 equal crosswise sections to give a total of 32 slices. Arrange garnish of either shrimp or rolled anchovy fillet to be in center of each appetizer. Broil 1-2 minutes or until cheese is melted. Cut and serve. Yield: 32.

3. CHEDDAR-CHEESE LOG

Shred 10 ounces Cheddar cheese to measure 2 1/2 cups. Allow to come to room temperature. In a small mixing bowl beat cheese, gradually add 2 tablespoons milk. On a piece of waxed paper, roll cheese mixture into log form. Roll in 1/2 cup finely chopped nuts. Chill. Before serving, allow to come to room temperature. Use as a spread on crackers. Yield: approx. 1 1/2 cups.

4. CHEDDAR TARTLETS

Prepare one 10-ounce package pie crust mix. On lightly floured board, roll out and cut in rounds using a 1-inch cookie cutter. Fit rounds into miniature tart pans, 2 inches in diameter, 1/2-inch deep. Prick with a fork, and bake in a preheated 450° oven, 7-8 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove tart shells from pans; cool on wire racks. Mix 1 1/2 cups shredded Monterey Jack or Cheddar cheese and 1 1/2 cups dairy sour cream. Just before serving fill 30 tart shells with cheese mixture. Top with sprinkling of Monterey Jack or Cheddar cheese. Cut pimiento into fancy shapes and use as garnish. Place tarts on baking sheet; broil 1-2 minutes to melt cheese and glaze sour cream. Serve immediately. Yield: 30. Note: Tart shells can be prepared and frozen in advance. Fillings can be mixed and refrigerated.

5. PARTY CHEDDAR ROUNDS

Place 12 slices partly rye bread on baking sheet; toast under broiler on one side. Combine 1 tablespoon softened butter, 2 teaspoons chopped chives and 1/2 teaspoon leaf oregano, crushed; spread on untoasted side of bread. Return to broiler for 1-2 minutes or until lightly browned. With a 1 1/2 to 2-inch diameter scalloped cutter cut slices of Monterey Jack or Cheddar cheese into 12 rounds. Place a cheese round on each slice of bread. Cut 6 cherry tomatoes in half crosswise; place one half, cut side up, in center of cheese. Broil until cheese is slightly melted. Yield: 12.

6. CHEDDAR-BOLOGNA TIDBITS

Shred 2 ounces Cheddar cheese to make 1/2 cup. In a small bowl blend together Cheddar and 2 tablespoons cream cheese. Spread about 1 tablespoon mixture on each of five bologna slices; stack and top with additional slices. Chill. At serving time, cut into 12 wedges; garnish each wedge with pimiento-stuffed olive secured with wooden pick. Yield: 12.

7. HOT CHEDDAR DIP

In heavy saucepan place one 8-ounce package cream cheese, 2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Monterey Jack or Cheddar cheese, 1/2 cup milk, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon onion salt and 3 drops Tabasco sauce. Heat over low heat, stirring occasionally, until cheese melts and mixture is hot. Dip may be served in warmer and garnished with a bacon curl. It will hold well for several hours if stirred occasionally. If mixture becomes too thick, stir in additional milk. Use carrot, green pepper, and celery sticks for dippers. Yield: 2 cups.

8. MUSHROOM CANAPÉS

Select mushrooms about 2 inches in diameter. Pull stem from each mushroom. Dip mushroom cap in lemon juice, then brush with melted butter. Mix 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese with 1 cup packaged bread crumbs. Spoon into cavity. Top filled mushrooms with shredded Cheddar cheese and a very small square of bacon. Place on baking sheet. Bake in a preheated 400° oven 10-12 minutes, until bacon is crisp. Yield: 20-25 mushrooms.

9. CHEDDAR CHEESE BALLS

Cut 1 pound Monterey Jack or Cheddar cheese into small pieces. Allow to come to room temperature. In a mixing bowl beat cheese until smooth and creamy; add 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 1/2 teaspoon paprika and continue to beat until thoroughly blended. Shape into balls, 1-inch in diameter. Roll half the balls in chopped, smoked, sliced beef and remaining half in chopped parsley. Refrigerate. Just before serving, spear with wooden picks. Use an apple as a holder. Yield: approx. 70 cheese balls.

10. CHEDDAR CHEESE SPREAD

Shred 8 ounces Cheddar cheese to measure 2 cups. Allow to come to room temperature. In a small mixing bowl beat together cheese, 1/2 cup dairy sour cream, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 teaspoon celery salt, and 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt until smooth. Cover and chill to blend flavors. Yield: approx. 1 1/2 cups.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: We work in a large office with a young woman who has a tremendously large bosom. Because of this she is terribly self-conscious and she always wears a coat. Even in 55-degree weather.

Can you suggest some way we can help her get rid of this complex?

HER BOSOM BUDDIES

DEAR BUDDIES: If she is top-heavy to the point of being friskily out of proportion, perhaps she should be told plastic surgeons can correct that condition. It may be easier for her to reduce the size of her bosom than to get rid of her complex.

DEAR ABBY: My sister, a widow for the past year and the mother of an 11-year-old son, has developed some rather strange habits lately.

I visited her last week (she has a three bedroom home in Staten Island) and I found her plying her son a bath. Not only that but she was clad in a skimpy pair of panties and a loose fitting bra.

The next day I noticed the only bed that had been slept in the night before was her twin bed. She said her son had been sleeping in her bedroom since her husband's death because she was "lonely," and because Staten Island is almost a "rural area" she is afraid to sleep in her bedroom alone. That may be, but why two of them in one twin bed?

I told her it was unnatural, and she denied anything unnatural was going on between her and her son.

I knew my sister always had some kooky ideas, but this is the kookiest. Shouldn't something be done about this? I am afraid she has gone completely off her rocker.

WORRIED SISTER

DEAR WORRIED: She is more than "kooky." She is disturbed. Tell her doctor what you've written to me. Her son needs to be rescued, and fast.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for six years. We've both worked and saved in order to furnish a house the way we want it. We have no children and aren't planning on having any for at least two years.

We just put in wall-to-wall carpeting, and want to keep it nice for as long as possible. So we ask our friends and relatives to please leave their shoes outside the door. Almost everyone has gone along with our request, and the few who haven't didn't upset us much.

My husband is quite artistic and he wants to make a decorative sign to place beside our doorbell. It will read, "PLEASE LEAVE YOUR SHOES OUTSIDE."

Is this in poor taste? Would you do it? We live in Colorado, and if you've ever been there in the winter you know what the weather is like.

RAND K

DEAR RAND K: It's questionable taste. I wouldn't do it. I've been in Colorado in the winter and I still wouldn't do it.

DEAR ABBY: It's not surprising the waitress in Cypress takes home only $1 an hour.

She complained about having to write separate checks for a party of 12. No more work is involved in writing separate checks than in writing one big one. In fact it's easier.

The same amount of writing is required, and adding two or three items on each check is easier than adding 20 or 30 items on one.

An efficient waitress organizes the checks to correspond to the seating arrangement of the party, and pays the same way.

Can you imagine a party of 12 yelling back and forth for worse yet, grabbing the check to see how much each one owes? And invariably each one wants to pay his or her share with a $20 bill. This takes much more time than separate checks. Sign me

Christmas Seals to arrive this week

POCATELLO — Christmas comes early this year, according to Mrs. Ithie Fletcher, Pocatello, 1971 honorary Christmas Seal chairman for the Idaho Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

Christmas Seal letters will answer them promptly and generously. We never can get the Christmas spirit too soon, can we?" she said.

"Christmas seals should be arriving in Idaho homes this week," Mrs. Fletcher said. "The seals are being mailed early at the request of the postal service to avoid the Christmas mailing rush."

Mrs. Fletcher said that 93 percent of contributions in Idaho remain in the state. One of the main objectives of the association is to educate the public, believing that a well informed populace can better take care of itself. "Working through public schools and universities, the Idaho Tuberculosis Association stresses education in environmental pollution, smoking and health and eradication of tuberculosis," Mrs. Fletcher said.

Idaho health statistics indicate that while the rate of tuberculosis has declined, emphysema has more than doubled in the last five years. The association, after a detailed survey, found there were no pulmonary specialists in the state. However, through their efforts, a diagnostic treatment clinic has been established at Caldwell Memorial Hospital with two registered therapists on the staff. Additionally, over $7,000 were contributed to the diagnostic treatment center at Sacred Heart Hospital, Idaho Falls.

"Other services of the Idaho Christmas Seal organization include scholarships to nursing students majoring in respiratory diseases and assistance with tuberculosis patients at Barnock Memorial Hospital, Pocatello," Mrs. Fletcher said.

"We are hopeful that Idaho residents, receiving their

8 receive certificates

MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — It was a proud moment for eight Expanded Nutrition Program members when they received their certificates for completion of the course at a tea at the YWCA building.

It also was a proud day for Mrs. Jean McGuire, program aide and teacher for the group, and Mrs. Clinton Dougherty, ENP coordinator, as the ceremony was the first of its kind to be held in the state.

The ENP is a comparatively new project, under the sponsorship of the Home Extension Council, which offers lessons and assistance to low-income families in the county. Young people enrolled in the program are taking a number of classes and exhibited some of their work at the recent Twin Falls County Fair. The first graduating group of adults are all from Twin Falls but similar units are in progress in all the towns in the county with approximately 200 home-makers enrolled in the program.

The eight were Balvina Rodriguez, Nel Gelams, Janice McMillan, Janice Osborn, Wanda Macklin, Bonnie Irmann, Barbara Powers and Marion Carter. Mrs. Carter was in a group taught by Valma Egbert but was graduated with this class.

Nevis Beath assisted with the arrangements for the tea, and Ruby Hensley served as babysitter for the small children who accompanied their mothers.

The certificates testify the group has completed the series of 12 lessons in which they were taught the basic foods, sewing, child care, budget making and buying, menu planning, sanitation, cleaning and laundry, painting and interior decorating, cooking meats, fruits and vegetables, breads and cereals, and using milk.

Many also attended extra demonstrations where they were taught how to bone fish, make over garments, cut roux to make a number of meals, and foreign cooking.

The 12-lesson series was taught individually by trained instructors who visited the homes of members to give them detailed personal attention. Film strips and recipes from the University of Idaho, Department of Agriculture, proved helpful in many of the lessons.

The instructors devote approximately 30 hours a week in the teaching instructions with a maximum of 120 hours a month and a minimum of 80 hours designated by the council. Those who have finished the course will still be able to attend group lessons or demonstrations if they wish, where more advanced lessons will be introduced.

One of the most popular of the 12 lessons was the art of making over clothes or altering them to fit. Clothing for this is needed and anyone having any to donate can leave it at the old hospital building. It should be earmarked for the Expanded Nutrition Program. Specially headed at this time is winter clothing for children.

Graduates honored

A Lovelier You

KNOBBY KNEES ARE PROBLEMS

By Mary Sue Miller

A Lovelier writes: I'm really interested about a knobby-knee problem. My legs are stielts and the knees are knobby. What can I do?

The Answer: When legs are thin and knees bony, the change is that you need more weight. An increase comes from a balanced diet, totaling about 3200 calories per day.

But whether or not you are underweight, your legs require a special build-up treatment. This takes the form of spot exercises that develop muscle power and attract shapely cover for the bones. The following routines bring results, if you work daily exactly as instructed:

1. Lie back down, on floor with legs straight and together; cradle head in hands. Place sole of right foot against side of left knee. Slowly swing right leg along floor, as far as possible; hold position for 5 counts and slowly swing back to starting position. Repeat 10 times and then perform with left leg. Throughout, work to increase length of swing and play in knee joints.

2. Stand and perform above routine, holding on to chair for balance.

3. Stand with feet 1' apart and knees flexed. By rolling kneecaps outward, try to make calves touch; hold, relax and repeat.

Always work slowly, or you'll defeat your purpose.

YOUR GAIN

Are you too thin? And you never can gain an ounce? Send for my leaflet, YOUR GAIN. It shows you how to gain a pound a week by eating the right foods, working with spot increasing routines and having fun. Plus tips on your most flattering clothes. Civic Club Memorial Library, Jerome, for "the month of October."

Mrs. Lader has been interested in art all of her life and has been painting actively and showing her work for the past seven years. She has taken instruction from Mrs. N. A. Mrs. Pinkston began painting three years ago and has received instruction from Michael Green of CSI, and from Parkinson.

Both women have shown their work at the YM-YWCA building in Twin Falls, the CSI Fine Arts Auditorium, the Child Development Center and at the Twin Falls County Fair. Mrs. Lader also has shown at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and Mrs. Pinkston has several paintings hanging at Chris' Beauty Salon, 230 5th Ave. East, Twin Falls.

Trick, Treat Party Guests

IN THE spirit of ghosts, goblins, tricks and treats, treat your youngsters to a party where the tables of eating are turned... and trick them with a most unusual party set-up.

Schedule your party for a late afternoon or early evening after trick-or-treating so that young guests arrive in their costumes—and in the spirit. Let the fun begin at the front door, with a sign over the doorbell directing them to another entrance (in basement window would be perfect) and instruct them to knock three times before entering. Have a friend help them in, blindfold them, and lead them in a round-about way to the witches' den or party room.

During the winding walk, en-

Establish a spooky atmosphere with a series of fine strings animating cobwebs hanging from the ceiling. Then, have a few more party helpers add eerie calls in the background. A hand shake along the way with the witches' bony hand in a munt (five sticks in a glove seem to do the best job here.)

Once in the dimly lit witches' den, where jack-o-lanterns are flickering smiles, the mood is set and blindfolds can be removed.

When the party is assembled, bring on the witches' brew... a delightfully rich pot of smooth, milk chocolate fondue, kept warm in an electric fondue pot, into which guests may dip a variety of delectables—bite-size pieces of angel food or pound cake and fresh fruit. And, instead of dunking for apples, dunk apples into chocolate, a unique treat for many a young goblin.

Mrs. Sherman Hansen, Boise, daughter of Mrs. Von Nebeker; Kelvin and Tammy Hansen, and Mrs. H.E. Banning, Jerome, were guests. Mrs. Banning is a former member. It was decided to have the annual Thanksgiving dinner honoring members' husbands Nov. 18 at the Senior Citizens Hall, Twin Falls.

Gifts were received by Mrs. Hansen, Mrs. Banning and Mrs. Charles Renfrow. Mrs. L. C. McFarland read an article on dangers of toxoplasmosis. Contest game prizes were received by Mrs. Raymond Butler and Mrs. Banning.

The Oct. 21 meeting is at the home of Mrs. McFarland, with Mrs. Ralph Scott as program chairman.

Poem given for opening exercise

HANSEN — A poem, "Thoughts of Home," was given as the opening exercise by Mrs. H. H. Thleme at the Excelsior Social Club meeting this week at the home of Mrs. Don Kilborn. An amusing incident was related by each member present.

21-year-old rookies let Pirates square series

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Bruce Kison and Milt May, precocious 21-year-old rookies, carried the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night with brilliant clutch performances that left the World Series deadlocked at two games apiece. Kison, the pitching hero of the Pirates' pennant-clinching victory a week earlier, came into the game after the Orioles had grabbed a 3-0 lead in the first and shut them out on one hit for 6 1-3 innings—just long enough for the Pirates to tie it up.

Then, in the bottom of the seventh, May, whose father played for the Philadelphia Phillies, singled home the winning run as a pinch-hitter for Kison.

The Pittsburgh victory assured the Series of returning to Baltimore. Ironically, it may have also thrown a crimp into the wedding plans of Kison, who is scheduled to be married in Pittsburgh Sunday when a seventh game, if needed, would be played in Baltimore.

Dave McNally, who pitched a three-hitter to win the first game for Baltimore, 5-3, will oppose Nelson Briles in the fifth game here Thursday at 1 p.m. EDT. After a day off Friday for travel, the sixth game will be played Saturday at Baltimore.

Pittsburgh, which hopes to become only the fifth team ever to win a seven-game Series after losing the first two, survived the first round of the Series to score its victory.

With the Orioles ahead, 3-2, in the bottom of the third inning and Richie Hebner, who had singled, on first, Roberto Clemente hit a sharp liner down the rightfield line that appeared headed for the foul pole and a go-ahead home run. When John Rice, the rightfield foul line umpire, called the ball foul, both first base coach Don Leppert and most of the Pittsburgh bullpen howled in protest.

But, after a heated debate for several minutes among Rice, Leppert, and Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh, the call stood and the game resumed.

Clemente then lined the next pitch into right for a single and, one out later, Al Oliver lined a ... right to score Hebner and tie the game 3-3.

That's the way it remained until the seventh.

Question about nerves only thing that bothers Kison

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Baby-faced Bruce Kison doesn't let many things bother him. Not the world champion Baltimore Orioles. Not a wedding date only four days away.

About the only thing that seems to visibly upset the Pirate righthander are reporters' questions about his nerves.

"I don't know why this question always comes out," he said following his World Series victory over the Orioles Wednesday night. "Everybody brings it up. Nerves, nerves, nerves."

"I wouldn't say I was nervous. I just knew I had to come in and throw strikes."

Kison, a lanky 21-year-old about to get married next Sunday, replaced starting pitcher Luke Walker in the first inning with Baltimore leading 3-0 and allowed only one hit in 6 1-3 innings of relief as the Pirates went on to win 4-3.

Kison finally was taken out of the game for a pinchhitter in the seventh inning. And the pinchhitter, Milt May, drove across the winning run with a single that scored Bob Robertson from third base.

May, a 21-year-old backup catcher, is Kison's closest friend on the team. Both rookies joined the Pirate organization in the June 1968 draft.

Unlike Kison, he admitted being a bit nervous when he came up to bat with two out and two men on base. He drove a single into right field off Baltimore reliever Ed Watt.

"I was psyched up and keyed-up when I got in the batters box," May said. "But I tried to concentrate on swinging."

"When you pinch hit, you don't get up there taking. You swing and hope to get a good pitch."

May, whose father, Merrill May, once was a teammate of Pirate manager Danny Murtaugh in the major leagues, said the pitch by reliever Eddie Watt that he stroked for the game-winning hit was "a fast ball a little bit up."

"Now you're seeing the real Pirates," said Murtaugh. "Throughout the season we have scored runs in bunches."

Murtaugh said he had planned to have May bat for Kison even if Vic Davalillo, who pinch hit for Jackie Hernandez just ahead of Kison, had driven in a go-ahead run.

"I was playing for a big inning, and I had Dave Gusti ready in the bullpen to relieve Kison," Murtaugh explained.

Murtaugh said he could not see from the dugout whether the third-inning drive by Roberto Clemente that was called foul, leading to a big dispute, was fair or foul. He said he ran out on the field because first base coach Don Leppert was howling in protest and "I wanted to keep my coach in the game."

Murtaugh said most of the Pirate bullpen men who were close to the play thought "it might have crossed the fence fair although it struck the wall foul." There is a 28-inch gap at the foul line between the fence and the stadium wall on which the foul screen is fixed.

Murtaugh plans to start Nelson Briles on the mound in Thursday's fifth Series game.

Bullets nab Driscoll

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Baltimore Bullets Wednesday night claimed second year forward Terry Driscoll on waivers from the Detroit Pistons.

but would not announce his pitching choices beyond then. He said, however, that Kison would be kept in the bullpen for possible relief roles.

Murtaugh said he was not deeply disturbed over the fact his team left 13 men on base in the game.

"As long as our club kept hitting, I knew we could win if we kept them from scoring," he said.

As for the outcome of the Series, the Pirate manager said: "I don't believe in momentum. I think both teams are professionals who know they have to win two more games."

Vols will decide

'Bama's greatness

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Alabama Coach Bear Bryant believes he will find out "awfully soon" whether his unbeaten 1971 Crimson Tide is equal to or better than his national championship squads of the 1960s.

In fact, Bryant expects to decide Saturday when the traditional rivalry between Alabama and Tennessee is renewed before an expected 70,000 persons at Legion Field.

"We know Tennessee has a great team and we might have," the Alabama coach said. "We'll find out about that awfully soon."

The series, which began in 1901, has been continuous since 1946 with each team winning 23 games along the way. Seven contests have ended in ties.

But Tennessee has won the last four years and Alabama wants to change that.

The Tide has not beaten Tennessee since 1966 when a game on a rain-soaked field at Knoxville ended 11-10 in Alabama's favor on the strength of a last-gasp field goal.

Since then Tennessee has won two games here and two at Knoxville. In 1969 and last year the Vols scored a total of 5 points to 14 for Alabama.

"Tennessee's defense we know is outstanding," Bryant said.

"The latest weekly summary of Southeastern Conference statistics agrees, assigning the Vols the No. 1 spot in defending against the rush. Tennessee has allowed opponents a scant 80.3 yards per game on the ground."

On offense they have a great runner in Curt Watson as well as good balance and the usual good Tom Lee line, Bryant said.

Bill Battle, the young Tennessee coach and a product of Bryant coaching at Alabama, is aware of Alabama's good running game—the best in the conference with an average of 364.8 yards.

"The Alabama team is great all over, so it's impossible to single out any one element as the major problem of the weekend for the Vols," Battle said.

"I was looking at some film of Texas and Alabama runs the option better than Texas," he said.

A win would give Bryant's team a 6-0 mark and go a long way toward giving it an unbeaten season even though Alabama still must face 12th-ranked LSU and 7th-ranked Auburn.

All Oilers must share fans' blame

HOUSTON (UPI)—Coach Ed Hughes refused Wednesday to exempt any member of his offensive lineup or blame any particular individual because of the Houston Oilers' ineptness in moving the ball this year.

The Oilers are 24th in total offense among the 26 pro teams and they're 25th in rushing. They've averaged only 224 yards total offense and 53.6 running in going 0-3-1 their first four games.

"There's a breakdown on the part of a lineman or a back or the running back himself on almost every play," Hughes said. "They either miss the block, block the wrong way or the running back goes through the wrong hole."

He said no one was to blame more than anyone else and he planned no changes in the offensive line or the running backs against Detroit Sunday.

NCAA boss defends TV policy

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—If Walter Byers is slightly defensive about the National Collegiate Athletic Association's television plan, it's understandable.

The NCAA and its executive director received a torrent of criticism last week when Tulsa was denied the privilege of televising the Oklahoma-Texas football game in Dallas.

But the NCAA was working within its established rules and received an injunction and contempt of court citation from district court Judge Robert Simms of Tulsa for its efforts.

Byers said Wednesday he would not comment directly on the controversy stirred up in Oklahoma last week, but admitted, "Anybody who has a real good idea and who takes into account the equities involved, both of the large and small schools, we'd be delighted to hear his proposal."

Judge Simms has continued the contempt citation until Oct. 10, 1972, four days prior to the next Oklahoma-Texas game.

Orioles' skipper calls loss good game for spectators

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Baltimore manager Earl Weaver philosophized that television writers "couldn't have written a better script" than Pittsburgh's Wednesday night 4-3 finish that evened the World Series at two games apiece.

Insisting that the Orioles were still "going to win," Weaver shrugged off suggestions of a Baltimore collapse and said he "would have loved" to have been in the nationwide television audience watching Wednesday night's game.

"Damn, what a game!" said Weaver. "I've got nothing else to say other than just that we're going to win, that's all."

Other Orioles were just as optimistic, but they shuffled silently into their dressing room after watching Pittsburgh rally from two games down to even the Series.

Relief pitcher Ed Watt sipped casually on a beer as he answered questions about the run-producing, seventh-inning single by pinchhitter Milt May that gave the Pirates the victory.

"May wasn't supposed to get a strike to hit," said Weaver, "and he didn't. He hit a ball."

"He (May) hit it on the end of his bat," said Baltimore catcher Andy Etchebarren. "I wish he would have hit it better because (rightfielder Frank) Robinson would have caught it."

Nor had centerfielder Paul Blair any excuses about missing a fly by pinchhitter Vic Davalillo that moved Robertson into scoring position at third.

"I just overran it," said Blair.

"I had to run a long way and I got there quicker than I thought," said Blair.

No one seemed surprised May swung at a bad pitch, particularly Etchebarren.

"I ain't surprised at anything these guys (the Pirates) swing at," said the Oriole catcher. "They're swinging at everything, both balls and strikes."

If any of the Orioles had a villain, it had to be Pittsburgh reliever Bruce Kison, the 21-year-old righthander who shut out Baltimore for 6 2-3 innings.

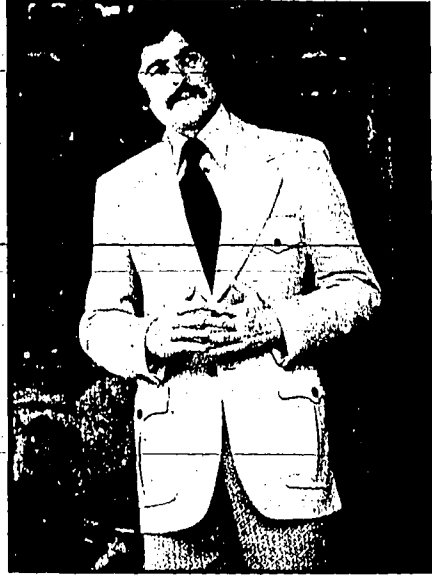

"Kison had good stuff tonight," said Weaver. "I thought he'd be a little wild, but he wasn't wild enough."

True, Kison hit three Oriole batters—a Series record—but Weaver said "as long as they didn't get hurt, I'm glad they got on."

"A 2-2 tie is just like a 0-0 tie. The only important thing now is that we win the last game that we play this year."

Pilot-Shoshone, Declo-Raft River games carry championship bearing

A possibility of two championships hangs in the balance when the Glenns Ferry Pilots invade Shoshone Friday night and Declo and Raft River will be playing for the Magic Valley Conference title as the championship pilots thicken in just about all area football conferences.

Undefeated Camas County can clinch a share of the Snake River eight-man title.

But when it comes to "crucial games," no league is going to get past the Big Six. Only Filer, with three losses, is out of that one. The other five teams all have one loss.

The Glenns Ferry-Shoshone affair will settle one of those teams and another will go when Gooding travels to Wood River. Glenns Ferry and Shoshone are also fighting in the Little Five alignment with undefeated records.

Shoshone hasn't taken a football championship since Ted Burgess and the boys romped through the Big Eight in 1957 with Paul Ostry as coach. The Indians just came close in 1962 when Valley upset them 7-0 in the season finale and handed the title to Gooding, although Shoshone topped the Senators that year.

Glenns Ferry has won a few titles over the past 17 years but this could be one of the sweetest surprises in the school's history of the 1971 edition comes through. The Pilots were expected to have much this year, losing some outstanding lads from last fall. Summing up his season prior to the first game, Coach Cecil Watson said "we're little and slow." Well, Glenns Ferry has won few titles over the past 17 years but this could be one of the sweetest surprises in the school's history of the 1971 edition comes through. The Pilots were expected to have much this year, losing some outstanding lads from last fall. Summing up his season prior to the first game, Coach Cecil Watson said "we're little and slow." Well, the Pilots aren't very big overall but Coach Watson missed on the slow thing. He has no great speedster but the entire club moves well. And Paul Strum has become perhaps the longest-legged swivel-hipper in the history of fourth district football. Strum is a bonafide triple threat out of the shotgun.

The Pilots use a swarming defense and generate great blocking power out of Coach Watson's multiple offense.

The two find things a little crowded also in the Little Five conference where defending champion Wendell is only one game behind. Wendell will play host to Kimberly and is favored to remain right behind whoever the Little Five leader is Saturday morning.

Gooding has two conference hopes riding on the Wood River battle with the Wolverines acting as spoilers in the SCIC with three losses but very much in contention in that Big Six log jam.

Wood River, meanwhile, has dropped out of the SCIC at 1-3 was uninspired in bowling to Buhl.

It will be size and power against quickness and guile when Declo meets Raft River at Malta. Declo can win it all—this being its last conference game in Coach Mike Mathew's first year—as Raft River has a tie against its record.

Declo is used to its largest-in-the-conference defense setting up all kinds of scoring opportunities. The defense has done so in two other anticipated big tests against Murtaugh and Oakley.

Raft River has good overall team speed and likes to throw with the Paakott to Del Hutchison providing a come-from-behind win over Murtaugh. The Trojans give a defense a lot of things to think about and Hutchison's ability on kick runbacks offers even more.

Buhl tries to stay on the heels of Jerome and set up a championship showdown in the season finale when the Indians entertain Mountain Home Friday night. This is another double counter, the Indians being one-half game behind the Tigers in the SCIC and one and one-half games ahead in the Cross State. Burley comes home to entertain Bonneville in an Eastern Idaho Conference duel. The Bees have shown some power, beating Idaho Falls and staying within one touchdown of Skyline.

Jerome takes its undefeated boast to Filer where the Wildcats are finding wins hard to come by. The Magic Valley conference has two games sidelighting the Raft River-Declo battle. Castleford, running third and enjoying one of its better seasons in recent years, will be at Hansen where the Huskies are still young and hoping to have some injuries healed after a week off. Murtaugh will entertain undefeated Hagerman in the other contest.

In eight-man action, Itchfield will be at Camas County. Carey draws a chore in traveling to Rimrock, needing the victory to stay within a game of the Mushers and then pulloff a big upset in the finale next week against Camas County. Rimrock has found a new quarterback and gave Camas County a lot of trouble through three quarters. Bliss and Dietrich meet at Dietrich.

T.F. hosts Idaho Falls, Minico invades Pocatello

In a sudden shift to offense and with the help of an upset, the Twin Falls Bruins come back to their home park Friday night to host Idaho Falls and a "second chance" in the Southern Idaho Conference championship chase. Meanwhile, conference mate Minico will travel to Pocatello to test one of the stronger offenses in the league in a 7:30 p.m. game at the Minidome.

Appearing dead in the water two weeks ago after bowing to Capital, the Bruins now have a chance to again help themselves in a quest for their first title in 20 years. However, they must remain undefeated and win a possible showdown match with Skyline, which topped Capital last week, and some one will have to defeat Meridian, too. What it boils down to is this: the Bruins by going undefeated the rest of the year could anticipate a share of the crown. And then let the powers that be decide which gets the championship plum, a trip to Honolulu.

T.F. golf meet set

Election of officers and a $400 prize list in a two-man best ball tournament will ring down the Twin Falls Men's Golf Association's season Sunday at the municipal course.

Torre gets player of year award

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The Sporting News announced Wednesday that St. Louis Cardinal third baseman Joe Torre has been named as the Major League Player of the Year.

Torre won the major league batting crown this season with a .363 average and his 137 runs batted in led the major leagues.

Torre hit 24 homers to go with eight triples and 34 doubles. Torre's lifetime batting average is now .305—from .297 last year—and he has a .326 mark in his three seasons with the Cardinals. He hit 22 game-winning rbis to lead the Cardinals to a second-place finish in the National League East. The Cardinal captain missed only two of the 163 games played. Torre was the No. 2 hitter in the National League last year with a .325 average. Torre, who slumped down from 228 pounds in spring camp in 1970 to 203 this season, said he relies on his strength rather than speed. "I just try to hit the ball somewhere hard," he said. "I'm a line-drive hitter, not a home-run hitter. I try to hit everything back hard through the middle. I know I'm not going to get many leg hits." Torre, 31, went hitless in only 28 games. He got one hit in 67 games, two hits in 42 games, three hits in 21 games and four hits in three games. He also had one five-hit game to bring the total to 230. The husky righthanded swinger batted .363 against righties and .363 against lefties.

usually get up for us very well and score a lot of points," Coach Thomas says. "Ideally, we'd like to be able to jump out on Idaho Falls, stay ahead and use everyone to reduce the chances of injuries. I doubt that Idaho Falls will really want to cooperate, though."

In the past two games, Twin Falls has exploded offensively. Bob Bodine, thanks to a 77-yard run against Boise, now is No. 1 in the conference on average per rushing carry at 8.3. He ranks fourth in total yardage but has had fewer carries. Kevin Nelson has bounced up into the top 10 in rushing and quarterback Jerry Barbour has bounced from nowhere to fourth in total offense and from 11th to sixth in passing. During that time Twin Falls put 80 points on the scoreboard.

Opponents, however, have been averaging three touchdowns per game against the defense which is more than expected prior to the season. Minico is coming away from playing the two best defensive teams in the SIC and the Spartans, with almost a totally new backfield from the first one, were blanked.

Against Pocatello they face an explosive team that can strike quickly from anywhere. Halfback Les Levels has climbed to third in total yardage in rushing and quarterback Dave Comstock, who also can run the ball, is first in passing. Halfback Greg Calahan, a diminutive scrapper, is a real threat on kick returns or any type situation that puts him in a broken field.

The Spartans have two men ranked well up in conference stats. Ron Jones is running sixth in pass receptions with nine and Bruce Pagg is averaging 38.1 in punts and ranks third in that category. Kicking in the no-air-current minidome shouldn't hurt his average this week.

The key, however, will be Minico's offense. Pocatello runs more varied defenses than anyone in the league and these raises particular problem with offensive blocking assignments.

Twin Falls, locked in a one-point duel through the first half, finally beat the Indians with the option and Minico could well have been scouting that.

BSC, Weber JVs set game at Buhl

BUHL.—The Boise State College Jayvees will meet the Weber underclassmen in a Veterans' day football battle at Buhl, Bill Nungester announced Wednesday night. It will begin at 2 p.m. and be the only holiday football game in the area.

Nungester said the game, sponsored by the Buhl Recreation Association, will feature basically the freshmen from both schools. But since neither has sufficient scholarships to field a full 33-man frosh team, sophomore squadmen from the varsities will round out the rosters.

The Boise squad will include several ex-Magic Valley players.

Schayes fired after first game

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—The Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association surprisingly fired Coach Dolph Schayes Wednesday night, one day after the 1971-72 season opened.

Braves' owner Paul Snyder named head scout Johnny McCarthy to succeed Schayes as coach of the second-year team. McCarthy immediately began directing the team's workout at the Memorial Auditorium. Schayes, a former star with the old Syracuse Nats and a member of the NBA's all-time team, could not be reached for comment. "We weren't happy with the team's performance," Snyder said after the announcement. "We felt we can have a better team with the talent we have." He said he considered firing Schayes after last year's cellar finish by the Braves in the NBA Eastern Conference, and that Tuesday night's 123-90 loss to Seattle in the season-opener "certainly added to it." "The owner said he made the decision after a meeting with general manager Ed Donovan. He declined to reveal McCarthy's new salary. Despite the poor debut last year, Snyder expressed optimism for this year with draft choices including 7-foot-one center Elmore Smith of Kentucky State, and guard Fred Hillon of Grambling. The Braves also acquired former UCLA All-American Walt Hazzard from Atlanta. McCarthy was head scout last year. A former hoop star with Buffalo's Canisius College, he played pro ball for the old Rochester Royals and the St. Louis Hawks.

Cleveland seeking new boss

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The Cleveland Indians, coming off their second worst season in history, announced Wednesday night interim manager Johnny Ligon will not be rehired. The club lost 10 games and finished in the cellar of the American League East.

The announcement was made by a club spokesman and Ligon confirmed that he will not be coming back.

"I just hope whoever gets in there (as manager) can provide a winner," Ligon said. "The people in Cleveland have been good to the players and the ball club even with the bad year we had."

"They deserve a winner, but I didn't get the chance to provide it for them," he said. Ligon said that Indians' owner Gabe Paul called him and informed him he wouldn't be rehired. He said Paul offered him a job in the Indians' organization.

"I'm going to sleep on it for a few days," he said. "I'm not sure whether I'll accept the job (Gabe offered me), but I'll let him know what I decide."

Utah thumps Denver 135-121

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Utah outscored Denver 45-32 over the final 10 minutes Wednesday night to open defense of its American Basketball Association Title with a 135-121 victory.

It also marked a successful debut for new Stars coach Ladel Anderson, former Utah State head basketball coach. The Rockets, led by the 36-point scoring of Ralph Simpson, chased the Stars through two and a half periods, but Utah launched a late third period drive and ran away with the game early in the fourth period.

Utah was paced by the 26-point scoring performance of veteran guard Glen Combs and Zelmo Beatty's 25 points. Denver took a 33-27 lead in the first period but, dropped behind 67-64 at the half. Denver came back to tie the score, 74-74, with 9:02 left in the third quarter on a basket by Byron Beck.

DEER HUNT took a surprise turn for Jack Keithlow, Halley, left, and he returned with this trophy, a 400 pound black bear. Ken Kincaid, Bellevue taxidermist, above, assisted in preparing the skin for a rug and will also mount the head for trophy purposes.

Olympic trials set in Eugene

NEW YORK (UPI)—The final Olympic trials in track and field have been awarded to Eugene, Ore., it was announced Wednesday by the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The trials will be conducted over a 10-day period starting no earlier than June 29 and not later than July 1, 1972.

The U.S. Olympic Committee's Board of Directors approved the recommendation of the men's track and field committee to conduct the trials under the auspices of the State of Oregon, the City of Eugene, the University of Oregon and the Oregon Track Club.

Those eligible to compete in the trials include all U.S. athletes who have met the qualifying standards adopted for a nation entering more than one person in an event at the Olympic Games. There will be no other trials other than the ones conducted at Eugene, according to Robert Giegenhack, chairman of the track and field committee.

The first three finishers in each event of the finals will be named to the U.S. Olympic track and field team. The maximum number of participants for the U.S. team is 70, which includes four extra men for the two relay races.

It's not deer, not Angus — it's a bear

HAILEY — Because of a surprise turn of events during a deer hunt north of here Oct. 2, Jack Keithlow, Halley, will soon have a large bear rug for his home.

Ken Kincaid, taxidermist, is presently preparing the skin of a 400 pound black male bear Keithlow shot. Keithlow said he saw what he thought was a large black Angus steer about 250 yards away while hunting deer. Suddenly the "Angus" stood up on its rear legs and he realized he was facing a large bear.

The hunter said he fired a .30.06 rifle twice but missed. The bear began running and Keithlow said he whistled and it stopped. He fired again hitting the animal in the shoulder. He said the bear ran about 300 yards into the timber and when he ventured in after it, about an hour later, the animal was dead but had packed the shoulder wound with pine needles to stop the bleeding.

Keithlow said he dressed the bear and hung it in the barn to keep it cool until Kincaid could skin it and remove the head.

Home again

REUNITED WITH their long lost pet, Boots, Eugene Wallace, 9, and Martha Wallace, 7, wonder what her adventures may have been during the past four months while she lived alone in the South Hills. Last June 6, she lived under "survival" conditions until last weekend.

Lost cat home after four-month adventure

TWIN FALLS — Wilderness survival treks have been undertaken in recent summers by many outdoor groups but Boots, a Siamese cat who owns the George Wallace family, 407 Locust St., probably holds this year's record.

She is back home with her family after four months of wilderness survival alone in the South Hills.

On the weekend following Memorial Day, the family went camping and while Boots had been on previous camping trips she "took to the woods" one night after a group of motorcyclists moved into the adjacent camp and frightened her.

Although the family searched until well after dark they had to return home without Boots.

Several search and rescue attempts were made on ensuing weekends, but to no avail.

Since that time she had hidden out, living by her own abilities at capturing wild food. Several weeks ago she was seen by summer residents of the Rock Creek Ranger Station but stayed too far away to be lured to capture.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Store Extension Cords in Tin Can

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Quite a while ago I put some posters on the wall in my room and when I removed them sticky spots from the tape were left. They are quite noticeable, so I hope someone can tell me how to remove them.—F. N. S.

DEAR POLLY—I sympathize with Mrs. G. G. B. who had a Pet Peeve concerning Sunday sales as in my area there are often one-day sales on Saturday and I would like to take advantage of them, but I attend church on Saturday and do no shopping on that day. Please, let's not have a dictatorship on what day to rest and to close stores.—BARBARA

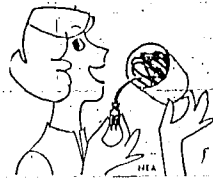

DEAR BARBARA and others—Please forgive us for any thoughtlessness concerning religions that do not observe Sunday as their day of rest and worship. I am sure Mrs. G. G. B. was, like so many of us, thinking of her own personal problem. We should never forget and always respect the beliefs of others.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Mrs. A. E. T. that extension cords can be stored and look neat when placed in a tin can with both ends cut out. Cover the can with bright adhesive-backed paper and hang on a hook if you like.

I also have a Pointer for mothers of several children. Our neighborhood is strong on boys and dogs and naturally they all run together and make a great deal of noise. This makes it very hard for a mother's voice to be heard when she calls her offspring. I solved this wearing a little whistle on a cord around my neck. I blow it and all three of my boys come running. They know I mean business when they hear the whistle and that they will be punished if they do not answer. My throat never felt better!—SALLY

DEAR POLLY—When making deviled eggs, use your potato ricer to mash the yolks and this little job will be a breeze. No more mashing with a fork and is easier on the hands, too.—MRS. F. K.

A week ago she was sighted walking through about 10 inches of snow just below the Maggie Mountain ski lodge. Daily offerings of food left near the ski lodge began disappearing and Sunday night Boots decided it was time to rejoin civilization. She arrived at the ski lodge for an evening meal and enticed by an offering of hamburger was caught and the following day returned to her family.

Goodwill's role told

NEW YORK (UPI)—To one, perhaps you, goodwill signifies a blue and yellow deposit box. In goes last summer's sweater jacket or a batch of outmoded mini dresses. To another, goodwill means a shop where all sorts of things are on sale—from a 19 cent blouse to shoes for 25 cents on some sale days.

The third image of goodwill is one that isn't as well known, according to Robert E. Watkins, national executive director of Goodwill Industrial of America (GIA) in Washington, D.C.

It is Goodwill's role as a supplier of skilled manpower which just happens to be handicapped. Watkins said: In an interview that a growing number of American corporations are looking to Goodwill as a source of such manpower—found almost peerless when it comes to handling jobs that require painstaking detail.

The corporations frequently work with Goodwill on a contract basis.

In seven decades the Goodwill, as a result of all its functions, has grown from an idea to a largely self-supporting organization with 102 member units—including new units in Africa, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, India, Korea and Peru, all organized last year.

Watkins said such an immense operation would have seemed inconceivable to Goodwill's founder, Edgar J. Helms, a young Boston pastor in the depression year of 1932.

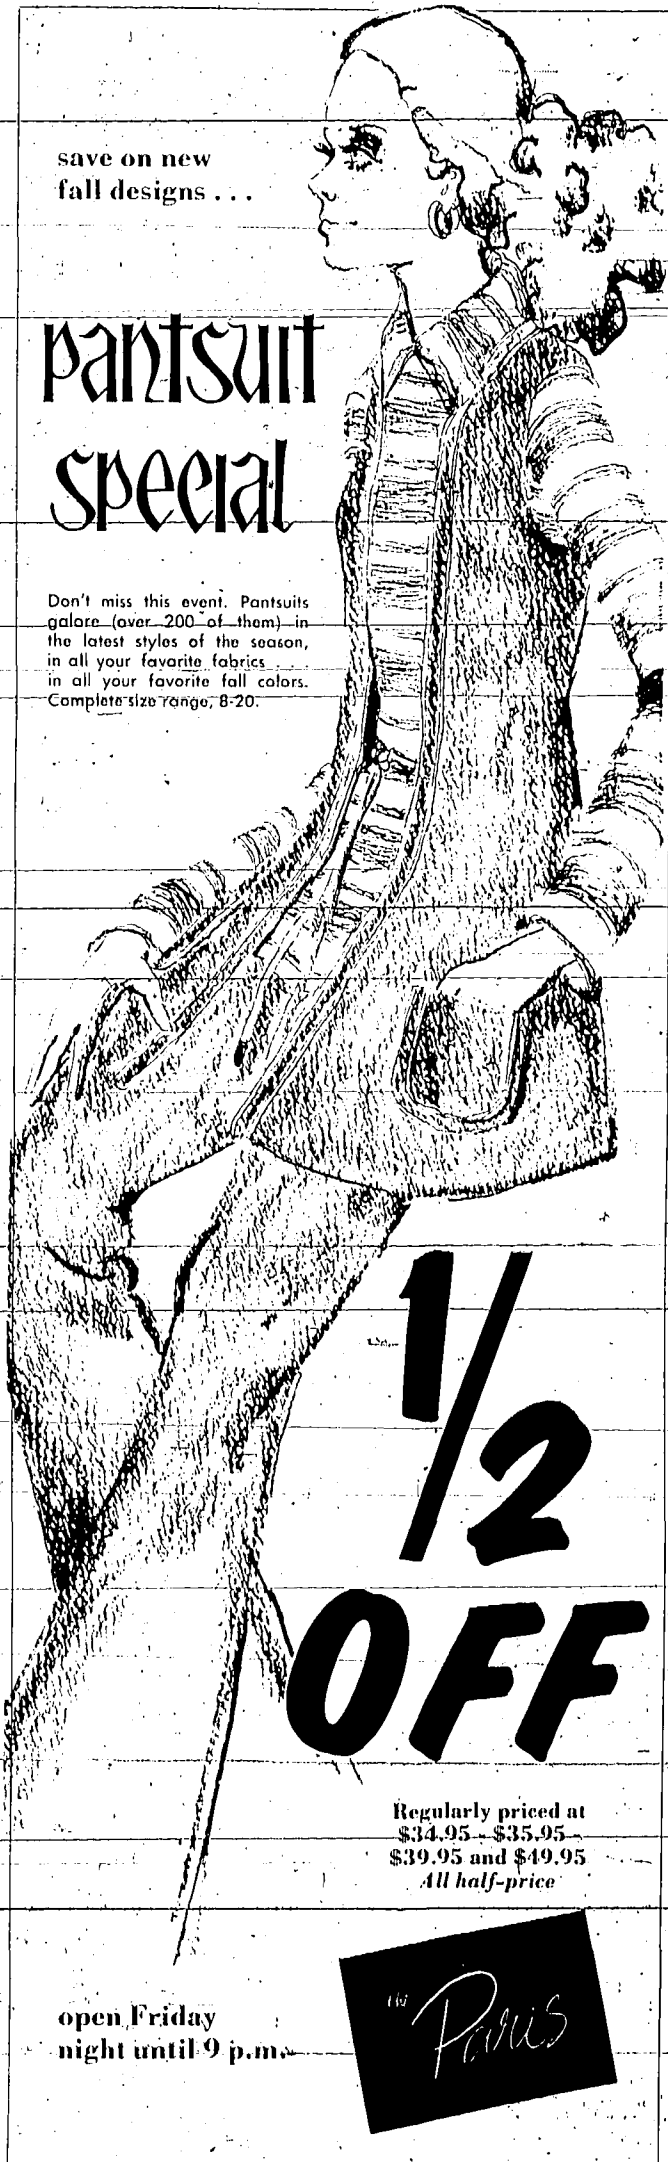

His idea was to go to upper-class homes in Boston and ask for discarded clothing and household goods to give to the poor.

The preacher brought in the goods but discovered that the poor didn't want charity so much as jobs. That's when Goodwill's recycling concept originated. Goods collected were repaired and made salable again by the needy.

Mini-Cassia concert tonight

BURLEY—The first concert of the season sponsored by the Mini-Cassia Community Concert Association will be the "Ballet West" at 8 p.m. tonight at Burley High School Auditorium. All persons holding membership cards in the association will be admitted. No tickets are available at the door, announced Robert Hamblen, local association president. The "Ballet West", composed of some 40 dancers directed by William Christensen, has its genesis in the dance department of the University of Utah, where Christensen formed a ballet curriculum in 1951, and out of which he formed the Utah Civic Ballet. Part of the many dancers will be presenting the concert here. This company was recipient of a Ford Foundation grant and six years later was incorporated as a professional company named "Ballet West." Although resident in Salt Lake City "Ballet West" is more than a Utah ballet; it is the ballet of the federation of the Rocky Mountain states: Utah, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona. In the last year the company has given more than 200 performances over a 20,000 mile tour of the United States. This summer the group launched its first international tour under the auspices of impresario Paul Szillard. They performed in Athens, then traveled to Yugoslavia, Italy, Switzerland, France and Spain in six weeks. The repertory for their performance in Burley will include William Christensen's "Coppella," "Swan Lake" and

"Paquita" pas de deux; Low Christensen's "Con Amore," Balanchine's "Serenade," "Symphony in C" and "Tschalkovsky Pas de Deux," d'Amboise's "Irish Fantasy"; and "Mobile," choreographed by Rood.

Board declares dividend

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — A regular fourth quarter income dividend of 9 1/2 cents per share has been declared by the board of directors of Investors Mutual, Inc., payable Sept. 29 to shareholders of record Sept. 28. The board also declared two capital gains distributions — 2 1/2 cents short-term and 15 cents long-term — payable Sept. 28 to shareholders of record Sept. 29.

The income dividend is the 124th consecutive quarterly dividend declared by Investors Mutual, the world's largest mutual fund. Total dollar amount of the 1971 fourth quarter dividend is approximately $28.4 million.

The 1971 fourth quarter income dividend was 10 1/2 cents per share and the corresponding dollar amount paid out was $29.3 million.

The 1971 year-end capital gains distributions amount to approximately $46.6 million, compared to $65 million distributed at 1970 year-end, based then on a long-term capital gains distribution of 2 1/2 cents per share.

The firm's capital gains, or net realized security profits, are derived from the sale of portfolio holdings during the fiscal year.

Total income dividends for the fiscal 1971, derived exclusively from interest and dividend income and excluding the capital gains were 39 1/2 cents per share, compared to 40 1/2 cents per share for fiscal 1970. The corresponding dollar amount paid out in fiscal 1971 was $109.6 million compared to $122 million in fiscal 1970, according to I. T. Dolphin, local representative.

Lincoln programs reviewed

SHERIDAN, Wyo. — Lincoln County commissioners met with several Lincoln County residents Tuesday to discuss the property tax re-evaluation program.

A source of the citizens were in support of the present program and supported its continuation.

Others presented a petition containing several sheets of signatures supporting Lincoln County Assessor Sanford Connel. His proposal asked that the county's re-evaluation program be withheld from the tax rolls until the entire county has been re-evaluated.

The commissioners explained the method of appraising property and discussed the program with those present. They took no action on the request stated in the petition to halt the re-evaluation program.

In other business, commissioners designated a man to fill a vacant position in the Regional Airport Authority and a joint election with the sale of wine in grocery stores. Voting precinct will be the voting places and election judges and clerks currently in office will serve.

Mrs. Luella Kinsey reported $1,500.96 was collected from her office in recording fees and from the magistrate court in fines and fees for the month of September.

Sheriff Thomas Conner reported $71.29 collected in fees the past quarter. Mrs. Kinsey announced that Mrs. Jay McClure, who has been deputy assessor will assume duties as deputy auditor and clerk filling the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Duane Beckley, who is moving from the county. Mrs. Randy McGowan, Jerome, who is moving back to Dietrich, will be the new deputy assessor.

Connel also announced Wednesday morning that Mrs. Fay Chatfield, Richfield, wife of one of the Lincoln County assessors, is working in his office on the appraisal program.

Mexico's dogs

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — More than a million stray dogs roam the streets of Mexico City, presenting a serious danger to human health, according to a leading veterinarian.

Dr. Javier Gonzalez Vega said that these ownerless dogs transmit rabies and other diseases to humans. He said the government should undertake the systematic extermination of these dogs.

Dr. Gonzalez said there are an estimated 11 million dogs without masters in Mexico.

Gaint planes idled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force ordered its entire fleet of C-5A jumbo jet transports grounded Tuesday because of possible cracks in the mountings that hold the engines on the wings of the huge planes.

The order, issued by Military Airlift Command headquarters at Scott Air Force Base, Ill., left the Air Force without any way to transport overseas loads. The C-5A had been in operation flying cargo to both Southeast Asia and Europe.

All but 12 of the 41 plane fleet were grounded last week after an engine tore free from one of them just before takeoff.

The remaining 12 were left in service initially because they were newer and less likely to be suffering metal fatigue in their engine mountings.

But these 12 also were ordered to stop flying after cracks were discovered Monday in the left outboard engine mounting of one of the 12 planes initially grounded, the Air Force said.

An Air Force spokesman said investigators still have not gathered full information about the engine mount problem. He termed the grounding a "precautionary... temporary stand-down."

Some of the grounded planes had been involved in a major North Atlantic Treaty Organization military maneuver called Reforger III, now being conducted in West Germany.

The Air Force had no immediate comment on how either this maneuver or overall military-airlift operations would be affected by the grounding of all C-5As.

The engine mount problem cropped up Sept. 29 when a C-5A taxied out on a runway at Altus Air Force Base, Okla., and ran its engines up to full thrust in a pre-flight checkout. The outside engine on the left wing tore free from its mounting and plowed several hundred feet down the runway.

The Air Force said in addition to its operational fleet, it also had grounded six test C-5As assigned to the Air Force System Command and to Lockheed.

Remains of eagle examined

LAKEWOOD, Colo. (UPI) — Chemical tests are being performed on the remains of a golden eagle which was found last week by hunters in Wyoming, a federal wildlife official said Tuesday.

Dr. Bob Finley, the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife at the Denver Federal Center said his office received the bird Oct. 6.

Two Wyoming hunters said they spotted the bird on the ground Oct. 4 five miles south of Jackson, Wyo. They returned the following day and retrieved the bird and turned it over to the Wyoming Game and Fish Department.

The bird was found in an area where more than a dozen eagles were found dead this past spring. The other birds met death as the result of poison set out for predators.

Robert K. Turner, Rocky Mountain regional representative for the National Audubon Society, said there were "no visible wounds on the eagle."

"It looked like it was a poison, but as to type of poison, it is hard to say," Turner said. "It takes a lot of research to find out if it was a poison and, in fact, what kind it was."

"We are hoping this is an isolated case and not a recurrence of new poisonings in the area."

Eagle deaths have been a source of controversy in Wyoming since last spring when bodies of the birds were first found. Some died of poisons set out by ranchers to control coyotes. Officials said as many as 70 eagles may have been gunned to death in the area by airborne hunters.

In Casper, Dr. Oliver Scott, president of the local Murie Audubon Society, said the latest eagle, which died less than 24 hours after arriving at the Denver facility, was not located near water.

In earlier cases of deaths by thallium salt poisoning, all the dead birds were found in or near water. The poison thallium sulfate creates an intense thirst.

This was the wrong percentage play, but it was correct this time.

If Mordred had just played the five a trifle slower, Lancelot would have finessed again and been set several tricks.

TIP OF THE TONGUE is said to be the most sensitive part of the human body. It can detect textures even the fingertips can't feel. Nothing remarkable about that. What's remarkable, in light of it, is that part of the human body that can stand the highest temperatures - up to 170 degrees F. - is the tip of the tongue.

CONTRARY to what you might think, a man is more apt to dream about men than about women. Or so a study of 7,000 dreams reveals. But women, it shows, tend to dream equally about men and women. . . . SOCIAL SCIENTISTS in West Germany claim positive knowledge that every fourth husband is unfaithful, every eighth wife likewise. . . . THAT FINE FRENCH essayist Montaigne did not endeavor himself to the perfume-makers when he proclaimed, "The best way for a woman to smell is not at all."

ASK YOUR DOCTOR what would happen to your tarsal cartilage, if you fell out of a second-storey window, but landed on your feet. Grade him 100, if the old boy says, "Nothing, probably." That tarsal cartilage is an eyelid.

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "Doesn't actor Paul Newman bite his fingernails?" A. Wouldn't report this if Mr. Newman gave a tinker's, but yes, young lady, to the quick. . . . Q. "Who said, 'God is always on the side with the best coach'?" A. That was Heywood Brown. He also said: "The ability to make love frivolously is the chief characteristic which distinguishes human beings from the beasts."

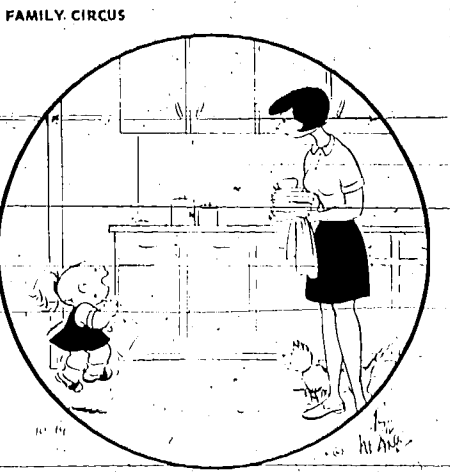

AM ASKED IF the majority of those marriages between U.S. military men and the war brides of World War II turned out successfully. A major, yes. Recent polls indicate nine out of 10 of those young ladies surveyed claim to be happy here. Incidentally, it's frequently reported most of them came from Germany. That's wrong. The British Isles supplied 34,894, Germany only 13,315.

AMAZING what you can do in a single minute, really. Like speak maybe 150 words clearly. Or write 40 words. Or breathe 410 cubic inches of air. Or circulate 14 pounds 10 ounces of blood. Or run 482 yards. Or swim 103 yards. Or for that matter, be knocked unconscious six consecutive times.

THAT SEARCHII goes on to find the world's best knock-knock joke. "Knock knock." "Who's there?" "Panther." "Panther who?" "Panther no panth, I'm going thwimming." A Seattle client nominates that one. But there's no second. Next?

SOMETIMES I get an unreasonable fix on a fact and hum it over and over again in my head almost as though it were a tricky tune. The number of illiterates in this world is getting bigger, not smaller every day. That's such a fact. Keeps cropping up. In a most compelling manner.

Salute to a young Achiever.

Your newspaperboy rates high marks on every count. Tell him so.

Your newspaperboy has a business of his own—his newspaper route.

He delivers, he collects, he keeps books, he sells.

He puts to practical use the lessons he learns in the classroom.

So he is a high achiever.

And he learns other important lessons. How to get along with people, the value of promptness and courtesy, how to earn money and use it wisely.

No other part-time enterprise we know of offers a boy such an opportunity for personal achievement.

And the experience he gains in managing his route will continue to be valuable to him through life.

Whatever field he enters, he will find management looking for achievers. Like him.

And, a message for parents: A newspaper route could help your boy in classroom and business achievement. Suggest that he telephone our circulation department and make an appointment to come in and talk with us.

Nixon practices summit diplomat

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's trip to Moscow in May will be an attempt to ease the type of friction between the United States and the Soviet Union that was once epitomized by his "kitchen debate" with Nikita Khrushchev.

The trip to Russia, following closely on the heels of his precedent-shattering visit to Red China, may establish Nixon as the most avid practitioner of summit diplomacy in U.S. history.

The Moscow visit, announced Tuesday, appeared to be intended to further the "era of negotiations," Nixon proposed three years ago and to reassure Soviet leaders that his effort to improve relations with China was not a veiled attack on the Soviet Union.

"Neither trip is being taken for the purpose of exploiting what differences may exist between the two nations," the President said.

Nixon will be the first U.S. president to visit the Soviet Union while in office since Franklin D. Roosevelt attended the wartime Yalta Conference, and he will be the first president ever to visit Moscow.

It will be Nixon's third trip to Moscow. He visited as a private citizen in 1967 and in July, 1959 as vice president. It was during the 1959 trip that Nixon engaged in his famed kitchen debate with Khrushchev, then Communist party chairman and premier, when the two met in a model kitchen at a trade exhibition.

Analysis

Nixon said the journeys to China and the Soviet Union were announced far in advance to give adequate time for thorough preparations at lower diplomatic levels. The Peking trip is scheduled for some time before May, with the exact date to be worked out later.

Nixon has been critical in the past of "instant-summits" in which world leaders met without adequate preparations.

"I do not believe in having summit meetings simply for the purpose of having a meeting," Nixon said. "I think that tends to create euphoria. It raises high hopes that are then dashed, as was the case with Glassboro. We are not making that mistake."

That comment was a dig at former President Lyndon B. Johnson who met with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin at Glassboro, N.J., in the summer of 1967. The "Spirit of Glassboro" faded after several months.

Nixon has been careful to avoid discussions of his summit meetings in terms of domestic politics. But White House political strategists clearly expect the trips to boost the President's standing with the voters.

In purely political terms, if a "Spirit of Moscow" lasts for six months, that would carry through the November election when Nixon is expected to seek a second term.

Nixon said the Moscow trip was scheduled for May, instead of June or July when the Russian weather would be better, to avoid interfering with the U.S. election campaign.

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Police Chief Lewis W. Coffey exchanges his badge for a blackboard next month after a 33-year career in law enforcement. He says he wants to teach elementary school to prevent "some of these kids from getting on the wrong track."

Coffey enters his new career after attending night school for 11 years to earn a teaching degree.

Coffey, 80, will retire Nov. 8. He long has dreamed of teaching, a dream put off several times because of a series of promotions in the Cleveland Police Department.

"One of the main things I have acquired in my years of experience in the police department is a concept for the need for good citizenship," Coffey said Tuesday.

"I think I will be able to impart some of this to the children in my classes. I feel I have something to offer to instill good citizenship aside from teaching the necessary courses."

"I might be able to do something about preventing some of these kids from getting on the wrong track. In this business the only children you see are the ones after they have been in trouble."

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The president of the Omaha World-Herald, Harold W. Andersen, today dismissed as "hogwash" charges that the administration is trying to intimidate the news media.

"Most of us know that if we are to dish it out, we should also be prepared to take it," Andersen said in testimony to a Senate Judiciary subcommittee studying freedom of the press. He criticized "thin skinned newsmen" who attack administration statements on the news media.

"Let me say I reject the conspiracy theory—you know, the allegation that the Nixon administration is trying to intimidate the news media by a calculated campaign of criticism and thinly veiled threats. Hogwash."

"Let me say I feel that some of Vice President Agnew's criticisms of the media have been justified. I fail to understand the almost hysterical reaction to those criticisms in some quarters."

Muscovites happy

MOSCOW (UPI)—Ask a Muscovite for his first reaction to the news of President Nixon's visit and you'll get a little smile that tends to split into a grin.

You also get a similar opinion right down the line: "It's a good thing, so long as he comes here as a friend."

Street corner interviews with Muscovites of all ages about an hour after Moscow radio's 7 p.m. announcement showed that the Nixon news had spread fast, fast, but not lightning-fast.

"I think that will be very pleasant—and that Moscow's people will greet him with courtesy," said 14-year-old Tatiana Pashkova, grinning and giggling throughout.

"I don't have too much hope of seeing the President in person," said her companion, 15-year-old Marina Kurikova. "But I bet I'll see him on television."

Mr. and Mrs. Vasily Siderova, a middle-aged couple, were of two minds about talking to a Western reporter. Mr. Siderova said he had not heard the news and tried to walk on, but Mrs. Siderova hooked his arm in hers and stood firm.

"I think it's a good thing for our relations," she said. Mr. Siderova nodded. Then she moved her smiling face closer to the interviewer and added: "Provided he comes here as a friend."

T.F. contractor shows own home

TWIN FALLS — The "ranchette" style home of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Haye and family of Twin Falls will be on display during the annual Parade of Homes by the Magic Valley Home Builders Association.

Haye, owner of Haye and Co., Twin Falls building contractors, and his family have lived in the house for about one year.

The house, on Blue Lakes Boulevard South in the Arrington Subdivision, features an eye-catching exterior of white Spokane Brick and white rock roof divided by brown stained siding.

The all-electric home has five bedrooms, three bathrooms and a den. Its two fireplaces, one of Burley brick in the basement, and one of white brick with black slate hearth in the living room.

The fireplace coordinates with the entryway of the home which features white walls and black slate floor.

The kitchen has built-in appliances including a garbage disposal and a dishwasher.

Haye said the home, which has a double garage and attached enclosed patio is the kind of house "which you could visualize on a ranch."

He said the house is an overall eye catcher because of coordinated lighting, design and decor. His wife has decorated the home.

Haye's firm deals in house and apartment construction only.

Ranch-style

STAN HAYE'S "RANCHETTE" Home, south of Twin Falls, is one of the more unusual homes on display in the 1971 Parade of Homes. # Facts homebuyers should know

NEW YORK (UPI)—To the uninitiated the intricacies of financing what may be the biggest purchase of a lifetime may seem almost reason enough not to buy a house.

Nearly two out of three American families own their homes, however, and the vast majority financed their purchases with a mortgage so there's really no mystery to the whole process.

Lewis S. Eaton, president of the United States Savings & Loan League, Chicago, has put together some key facts to help explain the why and where-fors for first-time home buyers.

The League is a trade group for the country's savings and loan associations which make more single-family home mortgage loans than any other type of financial institution.

Eaton explains: There are two kinds of mortgages: the government-backed kind, in which the lender's stake is insured or guaranteed by a government agency—such as the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) or the Veterans Administration (VA), and the so-called "conventional" mortgage in which the lender assumes the risks.

Down payments—the amount of cash you must put up—usually begin at 20 per cent of the purchase price of the house for conventional loans although some loans are made with as little as 10 per cent down. (There are private mortgage insurers who will guarantee a portion of some conventional loans.) Government-backed loans require smaller cash down payments.

It is wise, however, to put down as much as you are able, still allowing a cash reserve the expenses that come with a new house and for emergencies. The smaller the mortgage loan—and the shorter the term of the loan—the smaller your monthly payment and the total amount of interest you will pay over the life of the loan.

A general rule is that your monthly payments for loan principal and interest, real estate taxes and hazard insurance should total no more than your weekly gross pay, Eaton said.

He explained that savings and loan institutions favor "conventional" mortgages because loan approval and processing usually are speedier than under government-aided programs. Which ever kind you get, however, the most important features of the mortgage process are:

—Your application. This identifies the property and gives basic facts about you, which may be verified by a credit check. After your application is approved, you'll be given a loan commitment. This spells out the amount and terms of the loan you'll get after other steps in the process are completed.

Incidentally, Eaton said, at most savings associations today you don't have to be a saver to get a mortgage. That idea, he said, is a holdover from the 19th century when savings institutions were small and all borrowers had to be savers too.

—The property appraisal. Before granting a loan, the lender must appraise the property that will be the loan's security. Regulations demand that the appraisal be made on the lender's behalf, but it works to the buyer's advantage also.

The lender, Eaton explained, cannot disclose the dollar amount of the appraisal, but if the loan officer suggests afterward that you make a higher than normal down payment, you'll know the appraisal showed the property overvalued, Eaton said.

—The property survey. As the buyer, custom demands you pay for the survey of the property's measurements and boundaries. During the years you own the property, this survey will be your reference document in determining your property rights.

—The title search. When buying a home you also must take out an abstract of title or buy a title insurance policy, depending on the laws of the state where you live.

This protects the lender in (Continued on P. 9)

Garages for many functions.

More than just car shelter, a carport should be designed also to provide storage and activity areas and enhance the looks of house and yard.

The new structure should relate to the house in style and color, although the materials may differ. For instance a well-planned carport of western wood will complement a brick house.

If the garage has been converted into new living space, or if the carport is to shelter a second car, it can be placed in front of the garage. This utilizes the existing driveway.

The carport can be placed directly in front of the house, but careful styling, landscaping and construction are vital to overall appearance.

Sofa, wall decor featured in home.

THIS ATTRACTIVE wall-decoration, to be found in Wills' "Futura," demonstrates how to put a blank wall to good use. The Futura, so named for its up-to-date style, has been beautifully furnished by its new owners, who have graciously agreed to open their home for the 1971 Parade of Homes this weekend. The Futura makes the most of the floor space yet contains enough room to allow a variety of uses. An unfinished basement offers many more opportunities for charming decorating or for building recreation rooms for a growing family.

'Mars' comes to Earth

THE "STARCRAFT" modular home on Madronn Street, built in a factory and trucked to the buyer's lot, is one of a growing number of styles in the new concept of building homes to order. The home, dubbed "Mars I" to typify its ultra-modern design, features forced-air electric heating in an all-electric home.

Ceiling area used

OVERHEAD CABINETS, utilizing the seldom-used ceiling area, are an unusual feature of StarCraft's "Mars I." A large, airy kitchen with a passthrough into a dining area allows a family to entertain with ease, while a sliding glass door allows entry and exit from a backyard patio if desired.

Inflation hits land price

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The evils of inflation may be most obvious in the supermarket but rising prices have had the biggest impact on the value of land.

In the past 20 years, while most consumer prices have risen about 60 per cent, the price of land in developing areas has soared between 400 and 500 per cent.

This has occurred, says urban consultant Sylvan Kamm, because Americans have been trained to think land is valuable as a commodity and are now afraid it is being swallowed up by a burgeoning population.

A federal tax structure that encourages land speculation and a tendency for communities to sprawl into low-density housing patterns also have contributed to running up land prices, Kamm says.

Writing in Urban Land, a publication of the Urban Land Institute, Kamm argues that there is no reason why Americans should accept this "grossly disproportionate" rise in land prices. By altering the way citizens think about the land and strengthening government's role, the trend could be reversed, he says.

The United States is actually a vast, undeveloped land, Kamm says. Citing the report of a White House commission on urban growth, he notes: "If all Americans were to move to Texas and Oklahoma, the population densities of these states would then be comparable to the United Kingdom or West Germany."

To encourage citizens to think about the advantages of high-density living, Kamm suggests tax relief and other inducements for high rise apartments and other structures that have lower land cost per resident than single family dwellings.

The government's FHA and VA programs, although only involved in about 30 per cent of all new housing starts, have contributed to the problem because they encourage low-density housing patterns and accept high land prices, Kamm says.

"Congressional action could change the direction of the FHA and VA programs by establishing incentives for higher densities and placing ceilings on land values acceptable for mortgage purposes," Kamm says.

Congress also could have an immediate effect on land price inflation by revising the federal income tax as it relates to undeveloped land. Admitting the recommendation is a "drastic one and may involve serious inequities," Kamm suggests that profits from trading in undeveloped land be treated as ordinary income and that no deductions be allowed for local property taxes and interest on loans secured on undeveloped land.

Kamm recommends a new look at an old idea — land banking — where government buys up land and parcels it out later under controlled conditions. He also favors abandoning urban renewal "projects" in favor of separate demolition and relocation programs that are less subject to red tape, delay and bureaucratic coordination.

Briefs

If the carport is to be part of a sundeck, patio, pool or other activity area, keep in mind the direction of the sun's rays, prevailing winds and view angles or privacy.

A carport provides a wealth of storage possibilities, built-in along one or several walls, above the rafters, or as covered parking for bicycles and outdoor equipment.

Electricity plays big role

What role does electricity play in the solution of our social and environmental problems?

A very big role, according to Fremont Pélis, an international authority on the relationship between standard of living and the use of electric energy.

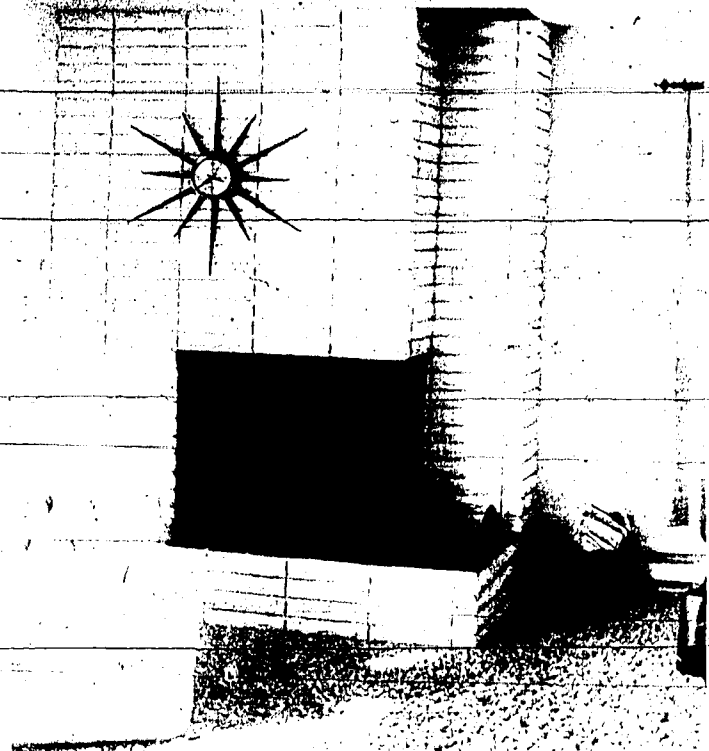

As a result of his studies in the U.S. and other nations, Mr. Pélis concludes: "Because of its unique adaptability to a wide range of needs, increased use of electricity is an exceptionally effective tool for improving the over-all quality of life."

"It will," he says, "continue to be a most powerful resource in the future in our drive for human and social improvement."

Conversion of raw fuels into clean electric energy has long been an important part of the nation's growth. It has made possible the development of entirely new industries, countless job opportunities, economic growth and an environment of higher quality than would have been possible with the continued multiplication of air-polluting factory boilers and steam engines.

Each of the over 14 million workers in U.S. manufacturing industries, for example, requires more than 37,000 kilowatt hours of electricity to do his job, according to W. Donham Crawford, President of Edison Electric Institute.

Winter warmth

THIS FIREPLACE in the living room of the "Ranchette," one of the nine homes on display in the 1971 Parade of Homes, speaks volumes about the comfort built into his home by contractor Stan Hays. The cozy carpet on the floor, the fireplace in the corner, and the large windows facing the South Hills for light and visibility, all testify to the careful planning in Hays's design.

Cozy

A LIGHT, AIRY nursery in Bob Wills' "Futura" home on Alta Vista Drive is a highlight of this well-designed dwelling. The new owners have converted a front bedroom into a nursery for their youngster, demonstrating the variety of uses the home possesses.

Attractive inside and out

THE 'FUTURA,' by Bob Wills, one of the nine entries in the 1971 Parade of Homes, an annual production of the Magic Valley Home Builders Association, presents a wealth of living ideas in an attractive package at a moderate price. Located on Alta Vista Drive, the Futura contains room for five bedrooms, or for fewer bedrooms and a den or recreation room or two. The home is presently occupied, as it was sold almost as soon as the floor was laid, but will be open for the inspection of the public this weekend.

'Futura': Room for living

The "Futura," by Bob (Bob the Builder) Wills, one of the nine entries in the 1971 Parade of Homes, sponsored by the Magic Valley Homebuilders Association, offers new ideas in up-to-date living in a comfortable manner.

The home is located in a quiet residential neighborhood at 2147 Alta Vista Drive, off Eastland Drive a short distance south of Addison Avenue. Though presently occupied by its new owners, the Futura will be opened for inspection during the Parade of Homes Friday through Sunday.

Wills' Futura provides room for two bedrooms on the main floor, plus a den or smaller sewing room, as it is presently being utilized. The extra room could also be used as a guest room or additional small bedroom.

A full basement, though presently unfinished, contains room for two or more extra bedrooms plus a recreation room and a family room. Washing facilities are also located in the basement, which is entered via a staircase just inside the back door.

The kitchen is bright and airy, with plenty of cupboard space along three walls. The back door opens off one corner, allowing family members to trek into the basement without cluttering up the kitchen or the house proper.

The living room, presently attractively furnished by the buyers, has a large picture window facing the front yard, and can be arranged in a variety of ways for easy living. A single-car carport attached to the dwelling adds storage space in the traditional utility closet and overhead storage area.

Ancient homes give secrets

CAIRO (UPI)—Out of a Cairo rubbish dump an American-financed archeological team has dug secrets of the ancient past that may require some rewriting of the world's encyclopedias.

Digging through more than 21 feet of refuse accumulated over the centuries, the team has unearthed the original center of Cairo and opened new vistas in the study of Islamic social and cultural development.

The site, financed primarily by the Smithsonian Institution, lies on the outskirts of Cairo, within sight of the city's skyline.

leader George Scanlon, a Philadelphian who teaches at England's Oxford University between digs, confirm that Cairo flourished as a great world trading center while Europe still foundered in the ignorance of the Dark Ages.

He said the houses of Fustat—the name given Cairo between the 7th and 12th centuries—were interlocked with what appeared to have been a running water system and an elaborate sewage complex employing covered drains regularly scoured with water and sand.

All that remains today of Fustat are the broken foundations of multi-storied houses, the broken brick and other debris of what once were courtyards, streets and bustling markets. They have been hidden for five centuries by accumulated dust, trash and garbage.

One of Scanlon's most important finds at the site, he said, was a glazed goblet which proved that glazing was first developed and reached its peak in Egypt and not in Persia as previously believed. After finding the goblet, he later unearthed what he said were the remains of the glass factory that made ingots used in the glazing process.

Home in factory concept

BOISE — Cascade's Burlington, a four-bedroom, two-bath home, features the unusual concept of building a home in a factory, placing it on a huge truck and driving it to the buyer's lot.

Kernell Anderson of Barnes Realty, sole agent for Boise-Cascade in Twin Falls, said the Burlington offers one of 22 different home designs available on order from the Idaho-based construction conglomerate. All-electric in design, with electric heat, the Burlington features three bedrooms and a large den on a one-floor design with two baths providing convenience for the whole family.

Fully carpeted throughout, the Burlington also features a unique "ceiling of light" in the kitchen, with recessed fluorescent lights guaranteeing plenty of light for the cook of the family, and eliminating any shadowed corners.

The Burlington is Spanish in style, with the previously prepared lot including patios both front and back and arches over the patios to match the home design, Anderson said.

Prices of Boise-Cascade homes range from about $10,000 up to $20,000, plus lot and site preparation. The Burlington, one of the higher-priced designs, carries a price tag of about $28,000, including lot, foundation and other on-site preparation.

Boise-Cascade homes can be delivered in about 35 days after orders are placed, Anderson said.

'Home on wheels'?

SEVERAL MODELS in the 1971 Parade of Homes are modular in design — built in sections on an assembly line, then trucked to the buyer's lot for placing on the foundation. Boise-Cascade's Burlington, however, is the only factory-built home in the Parade of Homes that is trucked intact, in one section, across the state. This home, built at Boise-Cascade's Meridian plant, traveled over 150 miles to Twin Falls without incident, despite its 28-foot width. Two attractive housewives, already standing in line for a later arrival, inspect the new home belonging to CSI drama instructor Phil Rayher, now in place on Hillcrest Drive.

Kitchen designer creates

By AILEEN SNODDY

A couple who survived a recent remodeling of their kitchen likened the experience to becoming foster parents or sending a youth to college. It's expensive, the rewards are many and it is pleasant once the job is done and the trauma is seen in a humorous vein.

One kitchen designer who says his hobby is cooking, created an antique look to hide a totally efficient kitchen. Bill Hopkins says his own cooking experiences make him see kitchens from a housewife's point of view. For this reason he follows a formula using three ingredients: plentiful counter space, automatic everything and carpet for comfort underfoot. However, his kitchen with butcher block counters included a workable coal stove, too, which set the tone. Hanging usable copper pots on the wall and herbs drying from ceiling beams completed the feeling.

Shadow-chasers galore

ATTRACTIVE LIGHTING fixtures in many of the 1971 Parade of Homes entries, including the wall-mounted candle-style lamp, top, and the chandelier-style ceiling fixture, at bottom above, typify the efforts of today's homebuilders to utilize spare wall and ceiling space to the best advantage. Indirect lighting is the key to ease of sight in many up-to-date homes.

Wall-to-wall

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Wall-to-wall carpet unifies space. Especially in these days of L-shaped dining areas, or entrance halls separated from living rooms by a screen or divider, a single carpet throughout will coordinate all the furnishings.

What about the cost of wall-to-wall carpet? It can be expensive! Durable carpet in wool, or man-made fibers usually sells from six dollars and up per square yard, plus the cost of installation and separate padding.

However, there are new carpet products which keep costs in line. Many of the most attractive carpets have a built-in high density latex foam backing. This foam rubber backing eliminates the need for separate padding, and allows do-it-yourself installation, saving upwards of two or three dollars per square yard of carpet.

MAKE A

Sidewalks may need pre-winter repairs

By MR. FIX

Sidewalks are not indestructible. They crack. They break. They sink below the level of surrounding slabs.

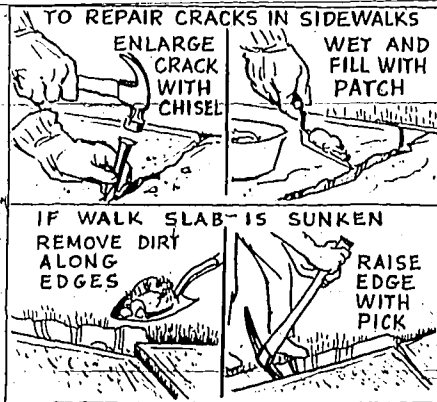

The result makes for awkward walking at best; unsafe walking at worst. Especially bad is a section of sidewalk that has sunk about an inch or so. Sidewalks like that trip walkers and bring on lawsuits.

Repairing small cracks early can help you avoid major repair work later on. Water seeping into and through a crack will loosen the earth underneath. Subsequent freezing and thawing will cause the concrete slab to heave.

To repair a crack, first enlarge it with a hammer and cold chisel. Make the opening larger at the bottom than at the surface. Remove all loose material. Wet thoroughly and fill with fresh concrete. Use a ready-mix concrete patch to which you add water. Make the patch slightly higher than surrounding surfaces, then level it off.

A sidewalk can be perfectly sound yet sink because of earth settling below it. Or subsoil may have washed away. You can make repairs if you work on only one section at a time.

Do not try to raise an entire slab, particularly if you are working alone or with minimum help. If the slab has not cracked along one of the cross lines already, use a cold chisel and break the walk along the score line.

Keep working until you have broken all the way through.

Before you raise the section of walk, measure the depth to which it has sunk and you will get some idea how much material you will need to fill. If adjoining sections are sloping, figure on raising them as well, one at a time.

Loosen the soil around the edges of the walk and remove a strip of dirt several inches wide and as deep as the sunken walk. Use a pick or crowbar to raise the edges all around. Don't lift, just free the slab.

With a crowbar lift one edge. Work blocks under it. When you get it high enough prop it with a length of two by four. Get it up about a foot so you have room to work.

Shovel gravel or cinders under the slab. Spread the fill with a rake. Never reach under the slab. Spread evenly and don't leave any chunks.

Lower this part of the sidewalk, move to another edge and repeat. Shoving scrap lumber under a two-by-four will give you the leverage you need once you have loosened the slab.

With the slab level, repair the crack between the slabs and refill the excavated area around it.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Labor saving

Each year, Americans add more labor-saving electrical appliances to their shopping lists and too frequently, after purchase, are confronted with limitations of their home's wiring system. Over-burdened home wiring has become amplified in recent years, by the steady addition of new appliances — until in many homes, the "point of no return" has been reached.

Sure signs of an over-taxed electrical system are the frequent blowing of fuses or tripping of circuit breakers; appliances really laboring to perform — their work and a shrinking TV picture. Another annoyance is the necessity of resorting to "octopus outlets" and extension cords for lack of enough convenience outlets.

The only remedy to the problem, which increases in tempo as more appliances are added, is a complete home wiring modernization job.

Unique room arrangement

ONE OF A TRIO of homes by Wills, the "Driftwood," located on Richmond Drive in the new housing area off of Falls Avenue East, contains room for three bedrooms with an unusual arrangement designed to create a "zone of quiet" away from the often-noisy livingroom and kitchen. The kitchen and family room have been combined into a living area, with sliding glass doors at the rear allowing both a view and an exit into the outdoors.

Unique room design

Bob Wills' Driftwood at 1509 Richmond Drive, a block north of Falls Avenue East off of Locust Street, in the new Wills subdivision, is a compact dwelling modest in size, yet spacious enough for family living.

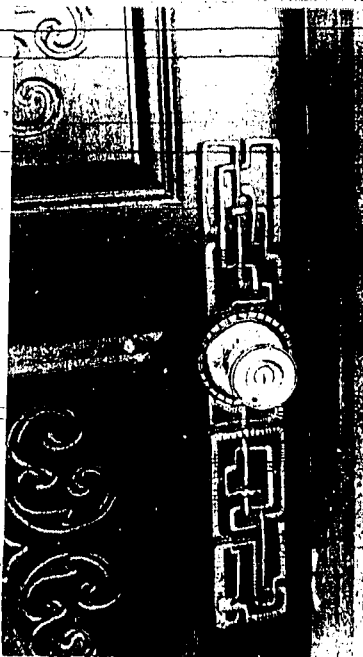

The home features three bedrooms arranged functionally in a successful attempt to create a "zone of quiet" about the living room, which has only one doorway. The single doorway saves ample wall space for a variety of furniture arrangements and for placing pictures and other wall decorations to give an air of luxurious living.

The kitchen and family room have been combined into a comfortable living zone, while sliding glass doors open onto a rear patio, giving the family a chance to escape outdoors easily, or, in effect, to bring the "outdoors" inside through the sizeable glass area.

A large hobby and laundry room is located at the rear of the spacious garage.

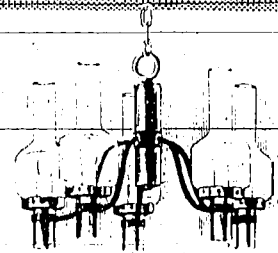

The living quarters feature three comfortable bedrooms with a full bath for the whole family and a three-quarters bath opening off the master bedroom.

The Driftwood is priced modestly by today's standards, in the $28,000 range, according to Wills.

Inviting design

THE DESIGN OF A HOME starts at the front door, and today's builders are more and more taking this into account. This unusual door design, found in Stan Haye's "Ranchette," home, features an intricately carved design around the door handle, inviting the guest to "enter and be refreshed," as the saying goes.

“Medalist” features variety

The “Medalist” dwellings built by Regal Homes of Kimberly, located in the 400 block of Pierce Street, feature a variety of interior features designed to attract the middle-income homebuyer.

The two “Model 1024” homes which feature full basements carry sale prices of $19,500, according to Regal’s president, Lyle Frazier. The third, built under the federal “235” subsidy program, sells for $17,800, with subsidized interest payments.

Regal’s modular-housing concept utilizes standard frames which can be blended in various configurations to suit each individual buyer. The “end model” of Regal’s Parade of Homes entries emphasizes the variability of Regal’s plans.

Though Regal’s sectional homes are usually assembled “side by side” to comprise a 24-foot-wide home, the end model places the units end-to-end for a longer, more varied design.

New developments cut cost corners

Real savings in home construction are possible from two recent developments involving lumber framing, reports the Western Wood Products Association, Portland, Or.

Spacing of wood studs in load-bearing walls at 24-inch centers instead of the long-customary 16 inches is permissible now in most parts of the country, WWPA states.

The four major model code groups and the Federal Housing Administration—all accept the wider spacing. Despite a resulting reduction in lumber needed per unit, WWPA is promoting the idea with builders and architects as the “Mod 24” system.

The second cost-cutting change is span increases allowed now for joists and rafters under the new National Lumber Standard PS 20-70, which recognizes greater strength and stamina values in these repetitive systems.

Builders report savings in materials and labor of as much as $300 per unit. WWPA suggests that home buyers ask their builders about adopting the “Mod 24” system.

Modern design

REGAL HOMES’ MEDALIST, at 416 Pierce St., features three bedrooms, one bath, and a full unfinished but plumbed basement, ready for future installation of bathroom facilities. The home is all-electric, with electric heat and ample insulation for year-round comfort. The living room and bedrooms are carpeted with cozy shag carpeting to keep feet warm in the winter and happy in the summer.

‘Phony’ grass use grows

MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI) — An estimated $1.2 billion will be spent in the United States during the next five to 10 years for installing artificial turf and rubber-like sporting surfaces, predicts the Stanford Research Institute.

Principal uses of the grass range from stadiums, playing fields, golf courses to street and highway medians, service stations and motels and hotels.

Rubber-like playing surfaces are being used increasingly for running tracks, field houses, gyms, field event tracks, tennis courts and horse tracks.

“A number of companies are already active in this field although none to date has attempted to offer a broad product line embracing all types of installations,” said John Strickland, director of SRI’s chemical information services.

Small but comfortable

THE MEDALIST 1024 by Regal, featured in the 1971 Parade of Homes, is located at 407 Pierce Street, a block south of Filer and three blocks west of Blue Lakes Boulevard North. Featuring modular design which can be varied to suit the needs of the owner, the Medalist offers 1,024 square feet of floor space, including three bedrooms, one bath, a cozy living room and kitchen-dining area.

'Mars' has electric heating

StarCraft Homes, represented in Twin Falls by Jasper Smith, offers modular homes with plenty of room at a moderate price, and a design that makes the most of the 1,200 square feet of floor space.

StarCraft's "Mars I," at 768 Madrona St., one of the nine entries in the 1971 Parade of Homes, provides many features of luxurious living at a price of about $19,500, Smith said. The price includes the lot and foundation.

The homes are factory-built, trucked to the site and carefully placed on the previously prepared foundation. The two sections of the dwelling, separated in construction for ease of building and transportation, are sealed together in a joining that is then covered with interior finishing so as to be permanently invisible.

Star Craft's Parade entry features an unusual heating source—an electric forced-air furnace that is easily adaptable to air conditioning at minimum cost. The small furnace and blower, located in a closet just off the living room, heats the air and blows it throughout the home much as a gas or oil furnace. The Air-conditioning unit can be placed atop the furnace, with the compressor located outside, with no further ductwork needed at a cost of about $500, Smith said.

The home includes two large bedrooms, one with a three-quarter bath, a 22.5-by-12-foot living room with windows on two sides and a large, convenient kitchen featuring a pass-through into a dining area. Sliding glass doors in the dining room open onto the patio or back yard, as the owner desires when the home is purchased.

The Star Craft home in the Parade of Homes may be located on Madrona Street from Stadium Boulevard or Falls Avenue, a short distance east of Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

An adjoining home, also by Star Craft, will be open for the interest of the viewing public.

Similar in size, Smith's second home includes an unusual front door, of wood bonded to a metal exterior with heavy insulation between, keeping out the cold of winter and heat of summer better than any other door yet designed, Smith said.

'Medalist' featured

Regal Homes' "Medalist" models in the 400 block of Pierce Street offer modular housing at moderate prices.

Regal builds the dwelling units to order in their assembly-line factory near Kimberly, then trucks the units to the owners' lots to be placed on the previously prepared foundation.

Two of Regal's "Model No. 1024" homes on Pierce Street in the 1971 Parade of Homes feature full unfinished basements plumbed for later installation of bathroom facilities.

The third, an "end model," features a different floor design running back into the lot instead of across the front of the land, and does not have a basement. Built under the federally sponsored "235 program," the "end model," selling for the FHA appraisal price of $17,800, qualifies for a low-income subsidy.

All three homes also include one-car-size attached carports with storage facilities both in the utility closet and in an overhead section.

'Parade' lists nine new homes

For the convenience of home "browsers" in the 1971 Parade of Homes, here are the nine homes on display and their builders.

All are members of the sponsoring Magic Valley Homebuilders Association, a cooperative venture of contractors who join hands every year to display their newest homebuilding skills.

The homes:

—"The Futura," at 2147 Alta Vista Dr., built by "Bob the Builder" Wills. Alta Vista Drive is located off of Eastland Drive a short distance south of Addison Avenue East on a circular residential drive.

The Futura, though presently occupied by its new owners, will be made available to all during this weekend's Parade of Homes. The dwelling features many design aspects for comfortable living at moderate cost.

—"The Newport," by Wills, another of the three Wills models on display, is located on Richmond Drive, which runs off of Locust Street just north of Falls Avenue East. The Newport offers a three-bedroom home with ample space for a variety of arrangements to meet the needs of a growing family.

—"The Driftwood," also by Wills, at 1513 Falls Ave. E., is the only duplex offered this year. Each apartment has three bedrooms, features air conditioning and offers a panoramic view of the North Hills through rear-facing picture windows.

—"Mars I," by StarCraft, represented in Twin Falls by Jasper Smith, is a modular structure at 768 Madrona St. It may be reached on Madrona from either Falls Avenue East or Stadium Boulevard, which runs in back of Twin Falls High School.

The StarCraft model, built in two sections and trucked to the owner's lot, features ample room for gracious living at a moderate cost of only about $19,500. An unusual feature is a forced-air electric furnace which is easily adaptable to air conditioning at minimum cost.

—Boise-Cascade's modular home, the "Burlington," may be found at 2174 Hillcrest Drive, which runs between Eastland and Sunrise Boulevard north of Addison Avenue. The 64-by-28-foot home features an unusual Spanish-style design in a fashionable neighborhood. Kernell Anderson of Barnes Realty is the Twin Falls representative for Boise-Cascade homes.

—"The Ranchette," located on Blue Lakes Boulevard South about 2 1/2 miles south of East Five Points, has been built by contractor Stanley Hays as his new home, and is being put on display as an example of the fine homes offered by Hays and Co. contractors.

Hays' home includes an unusual feature in a 24-foot-square fully insulated heated garage which will prove a hobbyist's dream and will please motorists weary of scraping ice and snow from frozen windshields.

The attractive home, decorated by Mrs. Hays, exemplifies truly luxurious living at its best.

—"Regal" Homes has three "medalist" homes on display on Pierce Street, located about a block south of Filer Avenue and three blocks west of Blue Lakes North. Lyle Frazier, president and general manager of Regal, is the Magic Valley representative.

Regal's homes feature comfortable living at modest cost, with a wide variety of floor plans available to suit any family.

'Ranchette' has heated garage

Stan Hays' "Ranchette" home, 2 1/2 miles south of East Five Points on Blue Lakes Boulevard South, exemplifies comfort, convenience and an easy pace of living in one package.

Hays, owner of Hays and Co. homebuilders, is living in his demonstration home with his family, including four children. He is entering his home in the 1971 Parade of Homes as an example of the style he favors.

With five bedrooms in a two-level home, including full basement, three baths and a sizeable recreation room, Hays' home is ready for come-what-may. The children may have their own bedrooms upstairs or down, the recreation room offers a plentiful variety of activities, and the large back yard beckons to one and all to come and play.

Two larger bedrooms on the main floor may be used strictly for the family, or may be utilized as a master bedroom and guest room. The master bedroom features a three-quarter bath for convenience, while the main bathroom is close at hand for guests or family. The 24-foot-square garage has room for two cars and several workbenches, and is fully insulated and electrically heated to take the chill off those winter going-to-work mornings, and keep the ice from the cars' windows. Numerous electrical outlets scattered around the garage will supply any hobby or worktime equipment.

Hays said he has not put a price

The home, also, is electrically heated with baseboard panels, and is all-electric in all other features.

An enclosed patio, with walls and roof keeping off the snow, is also well-insulated. With large wall openings which could be covered or glassed in in the winter, the patio expands the home's living space to give an "outdoorsy" appearance — and gives the kids a place to "get out of the house" on rainy spring days or snowy, bleak winter holidays.

Hays said he has not yet placed a selling price on this particular model, but it would range in the higher average of the homes in the 1971 Parade.

THIS LIGHTED STAIRWAY in Stan Hays' "Ranchette" home, south of Twin Falls on Blue Lakes Boulevard, accented by a wrought iron railing, is one of many features in the comfortable, ultra-modern home in which Hays and his family, four children, are now making their home. The light-colored walls and overhead lights provide ample lighting for the carpeted stairway at all times.

Caution asked to save lives

NEW YORK (UPI) — New state and federal legislation is constantly being enacted to prevent accidental injury or death to homeowners, their families and guests.

But no safety regulations, or even safer products, can prevent tragic accidents in the home if they are not actively enforced and supported both by industry and by the personal care and attentiveness of homeowners themselves.

Typical of new safety laws is the recently enacted federal Hazard Prevention Act, under which the U. S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare may compel child-resistant packaging for such potentially poisonous products as cleaning agents, cosmetics, insecticides, medicines and fuels.

Another precautionary law now passed in many states and pending in a number of others, requires installation of approved safety glazing materials in high traffic areas of homes and public buildings.

This would include a requirement that storm door windows, sliding doors and bath and shower enclosures be made of materials such as Plexiglass acrylic sheet — which have greater breaker resistance than glass.

When such materials shatter, they break into large, relatively dull-edged pieces, as opposed to razor sharp shivers of ordinary glass.

Many other products and devices now are available to the homeowner to safeguard his home and to prevent accidents.

They include improved electrical wiring, fabrics treated with flame retardants, rubber bath mats and appliques to prevent injuries from slips and falls and caps to cover unused electrical outlets.

Complete, simple details on how to buy and install lumber paneling of handsome western wood are told in a 12-page booklet available by sending ten cents in coin to Western Wood Products, Dept. 512-P, Yeon Bldg., Portland, Ore. 97204.

Light for living

Regal homes featured

Modular housing, in which dwelling units are assembled factory-style on an assembly line, then trucked to the owner's lot to be placed on, the previously prepared foundation, is attractively displayed in three houses by Regal Homes of Kimberly in the 1971 Parade of Homes.

Regal's trio has been grouped in the 400 block of Pierce Street, an older residential area a block south of Piler Avenue and three blocks west of Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

Known as the "Medalist Model 1024" for the 1,024 square feet of floor space in each, two of the homes feature full unfinished basements plumbed for later addition of bathroom facilities, while the third has no basement but includes an expanded design for variety.

All dwellings feature attached carports with storage facilities, including utility closets and overhead storage.

The two homes with the basements also feature shag carpeting in the living rooms and bedrooms.

Sewing unit can save time, money

An efficient home sewing center involves more than just an unused corner in which to set up the sewing machine. The idea is to group activities and eliminate much time-wasting shuttling of clothing and equipment around the house.

One suggestion is to combine sewing and laundry facilities in one area so that ironing equipment always is handy to both, and clothes folding space also can be used for cutting out patterns. Mending also can be done handily before putting away laundered clothes.

Cabinets and shelves can be built-in, using western pine or fir, and utilized both for laundry materials and storage of fabrics, patterns and sewing equipment.

'Driftwood' offers variety with duplex apartments

TWIN FALLS — The Driftwood home by Bob Wills is one of the most unusual homes to be shown in the annual Twin Falls Parade of Homes.

The Driftwood is a duplex structure located at 1613 Falls Ave. E., in the new subdivision being developed by Wills for comfortable living at today's accelerated search for comfort and convenience. With newly paved streets and all gutters installed, Falls Avenue East is growing into one of the most up-to-date residential areas in the city.

Bob Wills' Driftwood features gas, heat and central air conditioning in each apartment, with the entire dwelling fully insulated to make the most of the year-round climate control.

Each apartment is supplied with the air-conditioning facilities as well as a built-in dishwasher, range and refrigerator, located in a compact kitchen which overlooks the North Side and has a clear sweep of the mighty Sawtooths, when the air is clear.

Though the Driftwood has no basement, a spacious garage for each apartment allows additional storage space as well as a place to get the family car out of the weather.

Each apartment features two bedrooms, a single bath between the bedrooms for convenience, and a combined dining area-kitchen for ease of serving.

The Driftwood offers investors an ideal source of income, either by living in one apartment and renting the other, or by renting both apartments. Other families will find the Driftwood an ideal home for a family with an older relative or relatives who want their own place to live, yet want to be close to "the kids," Wills pointed out.

The price of the Driftwood ranges about $31,000, which is about the higher average for the new Wills subdivision.

Home-financing plans designed to help many

Several home-financing programs available today allow families of limited means to join the growing ranks of homeowners, just as to middle-income and upper-level families.

The most widely used is the conventional financing through savings and loan institutions, which will loan 80 to 90 per cent of the sale price of a home to a qualified buyer. Interest rates currently are running about eight per cent per year.

Federal financing is also widely used, in which the Federal Housing Administration (FHA), in their "203" program, will guarantee repayment of a loan made through a loaning agency, should the buyer default. The FHA, in effect, assigns the loan for the borrower, insuring the best collateral available.

The FHA 203 program applies only to new construction which is built under close scrutiny of FIAA building inspectors. The home must meet a comprehensive set of standards designed to insure safety for the occupants and sturdy construction for the buyer.

The FHA will guarantee 97 per cent of the first $15,000 of a home loan, reducing the guarantee to 90 per cent of the loan between $15,000 and $20,000, and 80 per cent of the loan up to $35,000.

An example given by the FHA shows that the down payment on a home costing $14,000 would be $450, rising to $650 for a $19,000 home.

In addition to the down payment, the contract carries closing costs averaging about 2.5 per cent interest, plus one-half of one per cent mortgage insurance, for a total loan cost of eight-per-cent-per-year.

However, a problem has arisen recently, in that many loaning institutions do not write loans for only seven per cent interest, asking higher than the FHA will allow. A "discount" of several percentage points is tacked onto the contract, and is then passed along to the seller of the property.

The FHA has recently devised the "tandem plan," in which the mortgage is actually purchased by the FHA, then resold, with the government absorbing any loss. The tandem plan currently costs 4.5 per cent, and is applicable only to new construction.

Another type of financing gaining popularity is the "235" program for low-income purchasers and renters. Basically, the 235 program provides an interest subsidy with the government paying part of the interest on the monthly home payment. Families must meet income limitations and qualify otherwise to participate in the 235 program.

Affluence proves a mixed blessing today

NEW YORK (UPI) — Today's homeowners have more valuable possessions than ever before, but it's a mixed blessing.

Affluence brought a 286 per cent increase in daytime burglaries and 108 per cent in burglaries by night during the decade from 1959 to 1969, says a spokesman for a leading company in the electric protection industry.

"Today there is more to steal in the average home," says Raymond B. Carey Jr., president of American District Telegraph Company. "Color television sets, expensive cameras, tape recorders, valuable works of art, and jewelry all have a ready resale market and can quickly be converted into cash by burglars."

Adding to the problem is the fact that the construction of many of today's homes offers a host of entryways to intruders, Carey said. "Increasingly, homes are being built with more windows, more sliding doors and more accessways than formerly," he said. Thus, he said, many newer homes are not only convenient and pleasant, "but also easy targets for burglars."

Another factor adding to the vulnerability of many homes and apartments, he said, is the increase in the number of working women.

"As a result, a growing number of homes and apartments are left vacant for as many as eight or more hours a day," Carey said.

"Then, too, there is more leisure time which can be spent away from home. Many homes are left vacant two or more weeks during the summer while the occupants are vacationing. Similarly, more families are spending summer weekends away from their homes, providing a good opportunity for illegal intruders."

Carey said there is a distinct difference between the terms "burglary" and "robbery". While both burglary and robbery are personal crimes, burglary involves breaking into a building with the intent to steal. In the vast majority of cases the building is unoccupied at the time of the crime.

Quoting from the Uniform Crime Reports of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Carey said that during the period of 1960 through 1969, the likelihood of crime against property became three times greater than the chances of violent crime, such as murder, assault or robbery, or crimes against persons generally.
