Court choices tonight

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has made his choice for two vacancies on the Supreme Court and will announce his selections tonight, the White House announced today.

The names of his appointments for seats vacated by the resignations of Justice Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan will be made in a nationally broadcast radio and television appearance at 7:30 p.m. EDT.

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said the President made his final decisions this morning.

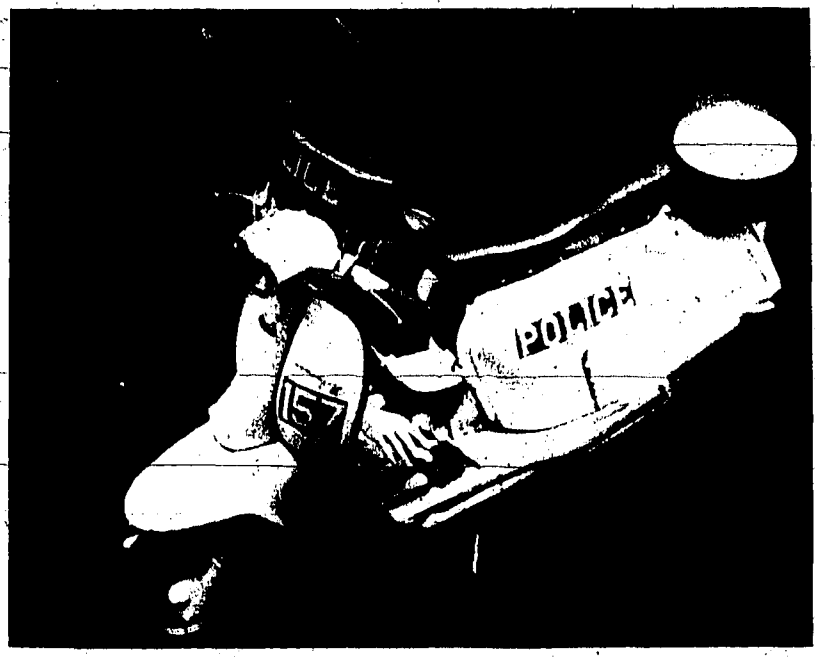

Ziegler declined to provide any hints on the identity of the choices and, in fact, he told reporters, he did not know who they were at the time he made the announcement of the presidential statement tonight.

Ziegler refused to comment on reports that the American Bar Association's judiciary committee had declared unqualified both Mildred L. Lillie of Los Angeles and Herschel H. Friday of Little Rock, Ark.

They had been frequently mentioned as the leading prospects for the two seats.

The Washington Post reported that the ABA group voted 11 to 1 against Mrs. Lillie and 7 to 5 against Friday.

There were among six names submitted to the ABA last week, according to reliable sources. The qualifications of the other four apparently were not immediately scrutinized by the bar group.

Senators tack antiwar riders

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate doves have fired back two more antiwar amendments at a recalcitrant House in a shotgun effort to write a Vietnam disengagement bill.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee attached the two amendments to the House-passed foreign aid bill Wednesday, hoping that at least one of the measures would get through. One of the amendments would cut off funds for any purpose other than the withdrawal of troops; the other would establish a national policy to disengage from Indochina by spring.

The measures represented two more Senate shots across the bow at the administration's policy of continued intervention on behalf of the Saigon government.

But the foreign aid bill itself gave the White House an unexpected victory.

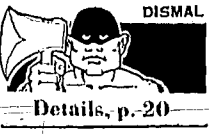

In a surprise move just before the bill cleared the committee late Wednesday afternoon, members replaced half the $724.2 million in cuts the committee had made in the measure in previous weeks.

That left the bill at a level of $3.2 billion—only a moderate reduction from the $3.5 billion the administration wanted for economic and military assistance in the current fiscal year.

A glum Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., attributed the reversal to administration pressure.

"In the last 30 minutes, the committee reversed about everything it did in preceding weeks," he said.

Fulbright said he was "not very excited" about the antiwar amendments, contending they were useful as tools to educate the public on evils of the war but ineffective in changing policy.

Court OKs TV ad ban

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rejecting broadcasters' appeals, a federal court Wednesday upheld as constitutional the law which banned cigarette commercials on radio and television.

The 2 to 1 ruling was handed down by a U.S. district court. Lawyers for the six radio stations which filed the suit said they would consider appealing to the Supreme Court.

The six stations, backed by National Association of Broadcasters, contended the law violated freedom of the press and denied broadcasters equal protection because it permitted continued cigarette advertising in newspapers and magazines.

But Judges Oliver Gasch and June L. Green said broadcasters were still free to air their opinions about the smoking controversy and thus retained their freedom of speech and press.

GI toll dips to 5 dead

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. military command said today five Americans were killed in the Vietnam war last week for the lowest weekly combat toll in more than six years.

It was the second consecutive week in which less than 10 GIs were killed with eight killed the previous week.

It brought to 45,577 the number of Americans killed in fighting in Indochina since Jan. 1, 1961. The toll last week was the lowest since Aug. 7, 1965 when three Americans died in combat.

While the U.S. toll was again low, the South Vietnamese reported 391 killed, the highest casualties in five weeks and more proof that although the American role in the war is receding, the war itself goes on.

The Saigon toll also reflected increased fighting along the Cambodian border northwest of the capital.

Another 84 U.S. servicemen were wounded in action last week.

Chile poet wins Nobel

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Pablo Neruda, Chilean poet, Marxist politician and diplomat, today won the 1971 Nobel literature prize, the Swedish Academy announced.

The 67-year-old poet, who serves as President Salvador Allende's ambassador to Paris, won the prize for "his poetry that—with the action of an elemental force brings alive a continent's destiny and dreams."

Memphis tense after turmoil

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Hundreds of black youths kept police and firemen scurrying Wednesday night with firebombings, vandalism and almost 300 false alarms in the city made tense by accusations of police brutality in the death of a Negro teen-ager.

Three persons, including a policeman, were injured by bricks. Two firemen were cut by flying glass when a rock smashed the windshield on their truck. Other firemen reported being fired on by snipers.

Police Inspector John Burger said 41 persons, mostly young blacks, were arrested, largely on charges of vandalism and assault and a few for attempted arson.

On alert

There was only one person shot and we don't think that shooting had anything to do with the racial stuff," he said.

Arthur Blackwell, 37, black owner of the Playboy Lounge, was wounded in the arm in an alley behind the club.

The violence broke out following the burial of Elton Hayes, 17, who died Friday from head injuries. Police first reported that Hayes was injured fatally in the crash of a pickup truck, fleeing police patrol cars. But an autopsy listed death from "a blow or blows on the head that crushed the skull."

State Attorney General Phil Canale launched an investigation and Police Chief Henry Lux "relieved" 23 policemen from duty during the investigation into Hayes' death.

Twin Falls woman dies on 100th birthday anniversary

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Lulu Severns, Twin Falls, died on her 100th birthday anniversary Wednesday.

A longtime Idaho resident, she taught school in Cottonwood where her husband operated a general store. They came to Twin Falls in 1908 and later purchased a store and farm at Hansen.

Mrs. Severns had lived with her foster-daughter, Elsie M. Lindgren, in Twin Falls for many years. She was active in the Methodist Church at Hansen, Kimberly and Twin Falls, and was past president of the District Federated Clubs. (See obituary page 2)

Health spending aired

BY MARY GOE
Times-News Writer

JEROME — Valley health officials and county commission chairman failed to reach agreement on the level of public health funding at a meeting here Wednesday.

The South Central District Board of Health met with a health budget committee composed of the chairman of the eight Magic Valley county commissions.

By the end of the meeting, no way had been found to reconcile the requirements of a new state law calling for each county to pay an equal per-capita share of health costs with the board of health request for an increased budget.

There is no choice under the new law but to budget on a per capita basis, according to John Van Orman, chairman of Jerome county commissioners and member of the state board of health. He said that the counties in the health district with larger populations had been paying less than their fair share for 20 years.

"People in counties with large populations have been getting some of their services for nothing all this time, while the smaller counties have paid more for less," he said.

Don Glauner, chairman from Gooding, agreed. He said that services always tend to be concentrated in population centers.

However chairmen from the three larger counties of the

Another unit won't patrol

FIRE BASE PACE, Vietnam (UPI)—American GIs ordered to replace other U.S. troops who nearly two weeks ago refused to go on a patrol until barked at going into battle until their commander lectured them on why the mission was necessary, the involved soldiers said today.

The sources said the second consecutive refusal to fight lasted only an hour last week at this artillery support base on the Cambodian border. It involved 20 members of an infantry platoon of Delta Company of the 1st Battalion of the 1st Air Cavalry Division.

Delta Company was sent in to replace Bravo Company, which was pulled out after six of its GIs refused to go on a patrol against the North Vietnamese Oct. 9.

The GIs said they carried out the mission after successive confrontations with their platoon leader, the company commander and finally the base defense commander, Maj. Joseph D. Dye of Beaverton, Ore.

Dye said it is now a "dead issue" and no GIs will be prosecuted.

Members of Delta Company said they had heard of the Bravo Company incident following their arrival at Pace and had made up their minds not to take chances they deemed unnecessary.

"We were told to go on patrol and we said no," Newman said. "It's not that we're scared, but everyone figures the war is going to be over soon and who wants to be the last one to get killed?" said Sgt. Donald K. Triplett, 21, Miami, Fla. "Eight per cent of the guys here feel that way."

The men said the platoon leader, when faced with the refusal, called Capt. Kenneth Smith of Nebraska City, Neb., who demanded that they make the patrol and told them they could be court-martialed if they refused.

Kosygin backs Nixon powwow

OTTAWA (UPI)—Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin Wednesday described President Nixon's planned visit to Moscow as a two-sided affair in which the Soviet Union was as hopeful as the United States "to further peaceful solutions and not increase tensions."

At a wide-ranging 90-minute news conference, Kosygin said he also hoped that Nixon's visit to Communist China would be a supplementary effort toward detente in international relations.

Kosygin and his party wound up their three-day visit to Ottawa today and were leaving for a cross-Canada tour of Montreal, Vancouver, Edmonton and Toronto.

Kosygin told newsmen in Ottawa he hoped the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) would reach an agreement on limiting antiballistic missiles by early next year. He added that the Soviet Union supported NATO proposals for east-west force reductions in Europe, although details remained to be worked out.

On three occasions Wednesday, Kosygin explained the Soviet position on emigration of Jews and detailed for the first time emigration figures of Jews to Israel.

"I must say that there is no Jewish question in the Soviet Union," Kosygin said. He then cited statistics showing Jews were among the most highly educated Soviet citizens and make up a large part of the nation's professionals.

"This question is an artificiality invented one," Kosygin said. "It is true that we are restricting in some cases the departure of some people— notably those who have just completed their education on which a great deal of money has been spent—nor can we supply Israel with soldiers. But we will permit people to go."

In an unusual appearance before a closed session of the House of Commons and senate external affairs committees, Kosygin was quoted as saying problems with Jews and other minority groups in the Soviet Union were caused by "a few malcontents."

Long strike ahead for coal mines

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A strike that has shut down most of the nation's coal production appeared headed for a prolonged stalemate today, with contract talks in a state of collapse and both sides conceding they are deadlocked.

The strike by 80,000 United Mine Workers members at soft coal operations in 20 states was in its 21st day.

Federal Mediator Robert Donahoe said he would try to get the two sides back to the bargaining table, but union and management sources said prospects appeared slim for an early settlement.

UMW President W.A. "Tony" Boyle and officials of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association (BCOA) met for two hours Wednesday, then said they were at an impasse and recessed the talks.

"There's been no agreement on anything, except to recess the talks indefinitely, subject to recall by either side," a management spokesman said.

Although the negotiations opened August, Boyle has made no specific wage and benefit demands on the operators, and management has made no contract offer.

Labor balky on Phase II

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Organized labor expressed more misgivings today about the effect on the working man of President Nixon's plans for controlling the economy.

Referring to rush legislation Nixon requested to keep down inflation and otherwise bolster the economy, after the wage-price freeze ends Nov. 13, a spokesman for the AFL-CIO said: "We don't like the language at all. We're concerned about it."

He was commenting specifically on a section of the legislation which would declare guidelines set up by the Cost of Living Council during the current freeze to be "approved, ratified and confirmed" by Congress.

AFL-CIO President George Meany has objected to a portion of the freeze order which barred retroactive recovery of wages blocked by the moratorium.

In addition to legislation pertaining to continuing presidential authority to establish controls and to create a judicial appeal group on the program, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally partly to blame.

Nixon has laid the groundwork, by executive order, to name a separate price commission and a pay board to make decisions on individual price and wage questions after the freeze.

The membership of both groups is expected to be announced shortly. It was learned that Nixon already has selected the chairman of the price commission—C. Jackson Grayson, dean of the business school of Southern Methodist University. He and the pay board chairman will get $40,000 a year each.

The President's post-freeze proposal ran into a temporary delay in the House, with STATE CONTRIBUTION OF $100,000 is accepted by Jean Millar, Twin Falls City manager, left, from Gov. Cecil Andrus in airport ceremony. The funds represent the first state contribution to jet air carrier airport improvement in Idaho and will help meet obligations now of the new runway completed at the Twin Falls field.

TWIN FALLS — Presentation of a $100,000 check to Twin Falls City Manager Jean Millar Wednesday afternoon was hailed by Gov. Cecil Andrus as a "first in funding assistance for air-carrier airports in Idaho."

Gov. Andrus, accompanied by Warren Barry, member of the Idaho Board of Aeronautics, presented the check in a brief ceremony at the Twin Falls City-County Airport Wednesday afternoon. Darroll Manning, state aeronautics director, was also present. It is the state's contribution to the runway improvement project just completed with federal, local and state funds.

Gov. Andrus said this is the beginning of a new phase of Idaho Department of Aeronautics services to Idaho and visitors to the state.

"The advent of new all-jet air carrier service has strained the ability and budgets of many communities to keep abreast of the physical expansion of airport facilities to accommodate the expanded requirements of this service," the governor said.

He said he is pleased Idaho was able to obtain funds which would permit state participation in such projects.

Barry said the Twin Falls allocation took almost half of the entire year's appropriation in Idaho, but said the state board is pleased to be able to help Twin Falls city and county officials at a critical time when it was necessary to tear up the old runway and replace it to service jet aircraft.

"The Idaho Board of Aeronautics plans to continue this policy of aiding all segments of aviation for the people of Idaho and to cooperate with communities in maintaining and providing aviation facilities," Barry said.

He said in the past state funds have been allocated to small airports and landing strips serving back country. He said this program over the past years has enabled hundreds of out-of-state visitors to enjoy the scenic beauty and outdoor resources of Idaho.

City council members, county commissioners and members of the Twin Falls City-County Airport Commission attended the program.

Coeds patrol campus

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — A group of University of Michigan coeds calling themselves the Mounties said Wednesday they will patrol wooded areas of the campus in groups of two to four to prevent rape. Police have reported that two women were raped in the Arboretum Park area in the past 10 days and a third was reported raped in two blocks away three weeks ago.

Port improvement said flight aids

TWIN FALLS — Airwest officials today credited improvement of the Twin Falls City-County Airport with their expectations that ski passengers in and out of Twin Falls will increase from 10,100 last winter to 31,500 during the coming season.

Don Cooper, Boise, Hughes Airwest sales manager for Idaho, said the special ski season planes will start coming into Twin Falls from California about Dec. 15. Although ski passengers are expected on all flights during the season, the special Saturday jets will carry the bulk of the visitors.

All Airwest jets are met by buses which take northbound passengers to the resort.

In connection with the expanded service which starts after Oct. 31, Cooper said an early morning flight from Twin Falls to Salt Lake City, Las Vegas and Los Angeles, with inter-line connections, will leave at 8:40 a.m. This will be in addition to four other daily flights. Flight total here will go to eight planes each day in December.

Teachers leave for space tour

TWIN FALLS — Eighteen teachers from throughout Magic Valley left this morning for an educational tour of NASA research facilities in California. They are students themselves in the aerospace course at CSI taught by Col. Robert Schreckenberg. He said the group will land at Moffett Naval air station and then tour the Ames research center where NASA has the world's largest wind tunnel. The tour is to help the teachers get a broader view of the world of aerospace, so they can incorporate it in their own teaching, the colonel said.

Students oppose inaction

TWIN FALLS — Youth will not accept apathy and lack of action for today's problems, the Twin Falls Rotary Club was told Wednesday.

Jerry Robinson, Twin Falls, Idaho State University student body president, addressed the weekly Rotarian luncheon.

He said youth are rebelling against war, are concerned for the future of their country. They want clean air and clear water and they want unity between young and old that will build a better America.

They are responsible, concerned, and they have found the only way for change is through constructive means, Robinson said.

The student, who described himself as an older student who has come to understand causes and concerns of youth, said as an example, when seven or eight students tried to disrupt a youth conference in Washington, D. C., they were squelched by their peers. This reflects the new attitudes of students in solving problems through constructive means.

Robinson graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1960. He is a senior at ISU.

He said giving the 18-year-old the right to vote is another step in youths being able to solve problems, citing students running for the city council in Pocatello and Boise.

Discussing Mark Lane, whose address before the Twin Falls club a few weeks ago brought heated controversy, the ISU student said, "We may not go along with his methods but we share his concern."

Next session for the pilots will be Nov. 10, also at the Idaho Power auditorium. Members of the Twin Falls Flyers will host the session which will follow the theme "know your aircraft."

Flight rulings traced

TWIN FALLS — General aviation pilots from this area were briefed on winter weather flying Wednesday evening at a flight clinic featuring four Federal Aviation Administration experts.

The session at the Idaho Power Co. auditorium was sponsored by the Times-News. About 70 pilots attended.

Speakers included John Quinn, United States National Weather Service quality control officer, Salt Lake City; Jack Van Der Riet, accident prevention specialist from Boise; Leon Flink, chief, radar approach control, Hill Air Force Base, and Leon Peirce, chief, flight service station, Burley.

In addition to rules and regulations which concern winter flying, discussions featured safety measures instigated in connection with Air Force helicopter operations in the Salt Lake City area. Motion pictures on flight procedure and on weather with time-lapse photography were shown.

Harry Merrick, manager of the Twin Falls City-County Airport, and Mr. Peirce, assisted in arrangements.

Cleanup time

HOUSEWIVES STYMIED by spots on the carpet would sympathize with Tom Phillips of Clawson Construction Co. Spots on the carpet are one thing — petroleum smears on concrete are another. A high-pressure hose carrying street-patching compound broke while Clawson men were paving Main Avenue while back, spreading petroleum spots over the sidewalk near Second Street East. A crew is working in the area, spreading a bright yellow compound on top of kerosene which is poured on the spots, in an attempt to remove the smears.

Buhl GOP aide hits port move

BUHL — Gov. Coell Andrus today was accused by C.D. (Chic) Lunte, Buhl Republican leader, of accepting "plaudits, which do not belong to him" in the matter of securing $100,000 in state funds for use in the upgrading of the Twin Falls City-County Airport.

The governor, in Twin Falls Wednesday, presented city and county officials with a check in the amount of $100,000 to pay a portion of the cost of constructing a new runway at the facility.

"A flagrant case of demagoguery was witnessed in Twin Falls yesterday when the governor, in all his publicity seeking glory, presented a check to the city and county officials for airport use."

"When the Republican controlled legislature voted to approve a $100,000 grant to aid in the upgrading of the Twin Falls airport, Governor Andrus knew nothing about it. When he was asked to approve such a grant he ignored the request and was surprised to find out, after he had signed the bill (H.B. 354) that authority to grant the money was included."

"The governor said he had not read the bill and didn't know that the grant was in it. Now he comes to Twin Falls with his appointed aeronautics vassal to receive the plaudits that do not belong to him but rather belong to that Republican Legislature. Such acts of demagoguery

Donation optional

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Judge Robert Stephens of Fayette County Fiscal Court said Wednesday he will give an option to motorists pleading guilty to traffic violations—pay a $10 fine or donate a pint of blood to the local blood bank.

No autopsy in wreck

TWIN FALLS — County Coroner Cloyce Edwards said today it has been determined Julius E. Neumann, 71, Murtaugh farmer who was killed in a train and truck accident Tuesday night, died of internal injuries.

He said no autopsy will be held in the death. The crossing where Neumann's truck collided with the eastbound Union Pacific train at about 7 p.m. Tuesday is located almost on the Cassin and Twin Falls county lines. Edwards said Sheriff Paul Corder determined Wednesday the accident occurred in Twin Falls County.

It seems to be the only service the people of Idaho can expect from the governor's office," Lunte said.

Lunte is chairman of the Fifth Region, Idaho Republican Party, an area comprising the Magic Valley.

Welfare Crisis

As with most everything else these days, there are two extreme positions on the "welfare crisis."

upgrading his skills, knowledge and credentials. Corporations and public institutions should assist him over the hurdles out of poverty.

"The recipient demands the right to choose a job with an opportunity to get out of poverty permanently. Since society does not provide this, he exercises his right to welfare."

But if the one view errs in characterizing all welfare beneficiaries as dumb, lazy or dishonest, the other view is in believing that all of them are thirsting for fulltime, open-ended employment and, failing that, are demanding to be maintained permanently in idleness.

"Welfare is a right, not a crime. The real crime is that the welfare explosion is screaming at us that something is radically wrong with the process of individual opportunity in the nation."

By virtue of a revision in state law, New York City has begun putting thousands of its able-bodied unemployed to work at "demeaning, dead-end" jobs, such as raking trash off park lawns (and, incidentally, trimming its welfare rolls by some 20 per cent in those who no longer show up for their checks).

What is wrong, says Gould, is that we live in a technical credentialled, knowledge- and education-oriented time. Large doses of skills, basic and advanced education diplomas and degrees are needed.

The revealing thing has been the reaction of the "forced laborers." A number of them are young men who have not yet found any goal in life. Others are men who long ago lost whatever goals they may have had.

No One Knows

One gains the impression that politicians, even those who say they are looking forward with great anticipation, are scared silly of the 11.4 million newly enfranchised potential voters in the 18-20 age group. The reason, of course, is they have not guessed with any certainty how the new voters are going to cast their ballots. But they are convinced those ballots will be cast en masse.

Rather than being resentful, they seem to be appreciative of the chance to do something useful for society in return for their keep, or so they have told questioning observers.

If they were, the young voters could form perhaps the single most important voting bloc in the nation. But there is absolutely no evidence that such collective activism is the case.

Actually, both extreme views on welfare converge.

Essentially, both boiled down to the belief that nothing is to be expected from the poor and the disadvantaged. Thus one would deny them the rights, the other would deny them the responsibilities, of full citizenship.

It is a toss-up which attitude is the more demeaning.

Trip Coming Up

There's a nice trip coming up on Oct. 24 for history buffs. That date, we are told, will mark near the 26th anniversary of the arrival of the Wilson Price Hunt expedition into Magic Valley — or rather, what is now Magic Valley. The actual date is set four days later.

To the contrary, most of the polls and other evidence thus far available indicate the young voters may be nearly as diverse in their voting loyalties as their parents. And perhaps even more apathetic.

That last point is the surprise element. Few registration records are being broken by the 18-20 year-olds anywhere in the nation. The response in some areas has been negligible. Not to be overlooked is the study begun by the University of Michigan Institute for Social Research in 1966; and continued through late last year, of the social and political opinions of a national sampling of young males.

The party was enroute from St. Louis to the mouth of the Columbia and the members attempted to pass through the Snake River canyon by dugout canoes when one canoe struck a large boulder, upsetting the craft and taking the life of Antoine Clappine. From that area — which they named the Caldron Linn — the party continued by foot to the coast.

Linn, the Cañon Site and the Antoine Clappine rapids. The last stop of the afternoon will be at the Twin Falls-Cassia County line east of Milner Dam where Mr. and Mrs. Max Bruce will discuss the Oregon Trail in that area.

A caution to those who would make the trip — wear good hiking shoes, seasonal clothing. And you must be able to walk because the hike will be at least one mile in length. People who are not physically able to hike that distance should not plan on going.

The field trip is sponsored by the combined Mindoka and Cassia County Historical Societies.

Behind The Trade Deficit

WASHINGTON (NEA) — This country is taking comfort from a half-truth — that Japan and West Germany are outpacing us in some industrial fields because they were bombed flat in World War II and started from scratch with new plant and equipment.

The picture is neat. We beat them in war, then helped them to recover, and now they are taking advantage of us.

No question, starting afresh in late 1945 did give them some big points in industrial competition. And, of course, we did indeed help them. But that is not the whole story. The recent economic history of Japan and West Germany indicates that neither one rested on the oars of recovery. Their development of new plant, their use of innovative techniques has gone on at more frenzied speed in the last decade than in the basic recovery period. They are outdistancing their own first rebuilding efforts in the late 1940s.

As our diminishing improvement in economic productivity shows, we are not matching them. They are reaping the trade rewards of doing things better and better, while we — both in the corporation board rooms and the union halls — sit around and moan about their invasion of our markets with their goods.

It can hardly be true that we are incapable of keeping pace. In painful contrast to our recent performance in industry, consider what America has done in agriculture:

Today we produce twice the quantity of farm products we turned out just 10 years ago, and we do it on one-half the land and with less than half the farm labor necessary in 1961.

William Hazen of California State College at Long Beach says U. S. agriculture is the most efficient and productive industry anywhere in the world today and, consequently, does not have to worry about foreign competition.

Not too many influential people in this country seem to be suggesting that at least part of the way out of our present trade disadvantage is to try to do as well in industry as we do in farming.

The answer from complaining industry and labor has been to propose hurdles if not total barriers to competing imports. President Nixon's 10 per cent surcharge on imports is a clear response to such calls.

One would almost think U.S. industry, before the surcharge, was at the total mercy of foreign competitors flooding us with low-labor-cost goods. The fact is most U.S. imports were already saddled with our tariff charges, higher on industrial goods than those imposed by West European nations. On the basis of value, more than one-fifth of these imports are controlled by either legislated or voluntary quotas, in addition to tariffs.

The wage differentials between this nation and its competitors are narrowing, not growing greater. Even when they were much wider, we managed to export much more than we imported, and hence to build strong trade balances.

Our then superior technology closed the gap. It doesn't now, so in 1971 we may have our first trade deficit since 1893.

ROBERT ALLEN

Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, — Two long-standing grievances are powerfully compounding the widespread Congressional anger at the United Nations over the dire possibility Nationalist China may be booted out.

The openly-voiced bipartisan threat to slash United Nations funds in retaliation is very real. There is a lot of fire behind that smoke. Not only is there extensive sentiment for doing that, but the leaders gratefully mean it and have the legislative clout to do it.

Potently reinforcing this wrathful intention are the two long-standing resentments against the United Nations:

(1) The U. S. puts up the bulk of UN funds. This share amounts to 32.52 percent, according to one basis of reckoning, and more than 50 percent according to another. This year's UN budget totals $192,149,300.

That includes an 8 percent pay hike voted to UN employees that is costing U. S. taxpayers $1.5 million. The total raise was $5,034,000.

(2) Defaults and arrears in UN dues and other payments now exceed $100 million. Many of the countries that supported the pay increase are in debt to the UN — in a number of instances running into millions of dollars.

Foremost among the nations in default (on the basis of latest available official figures) are: Russia, $84,530,882; France, $21,329,682; Ukraine, $10,303,031; Poland, $6,693,692; Czechoslovakia, $5,884,952; Hungary, $2,896,995; Argentina, $2,157,878; South Africa, $1,885,735; Mexico, $1,641,410; Rumania, $1,613,322; Bulgaria, $783,074.

Seven of these 11 leading fund-owing countries are Communist ruled.

All are among the most persistent and rancorous denouncers of the U. S. Secretary General U. Thant, who sometimes has difficulty making his anti-U. S. bias, gets $50,000 salary, tax-free, plus $22,500 so-called "representation allowance" and another $12,000 as "post adjustment allowance." In addition, he is furnished a residence in a fashionable section and a chauffeur-driven limousine.

Before becoming Secretary General, the Burma native never earned more than $7,500 a year. If Nationalist China is expelled from the UN, that is virtually certain to have highly adverse effect on the pending multi-billion dollar foreign aid legislation. This program already is widely unpopular in Congress. In the past several years, its budget narrowly squeaked through the House. It wouldn't take more than a handful of votes to kill it.

Sending Communist Peking while axing Nationalist Taiwan could produce them. Bipartisan feeling is that strong. A key reason for this seething Congressional anger is that the chief beneficiaries of the tens of billions the U. S. has ladled out in foreign aid are the undeveloped countries — in the forefront of the clamor for admitting Peking and unseating Taiwan.

That fateful rollcall will be intently scrutinized on Capitol Hill.

It may well determine not only the future of the United Nations but also the U. S. foreign aid program. It's not generally realized, but Congress has already turned off the spigot on two United Nations multi-million dollar projects this year.

One was a $20 million contribution for the erection of an additional $80 million U. N. building in New York City; the other $7.818 million in dues for the International Labor Organization, a UN agency with headquarters in Geneva.

The State Department vigorously advocated both outlays. But they were killed in the House — chiefly by Rep. John Rooney (D-N.Y.), chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee in charge of the State Department budget. He refused to include money for these purposes, and the House backed him.

RAY CROMLEY

Mao's Aims

WASHINGTON — To answer the question as to what Peking wants out of President Nixon's forthcoming visit, we need only note what Mao Tse-tung's government is telling the Chinese people.

Briefly summarizing material from China received via sources in Hong Kong, it is: Intelligent countries don't let themselves get surrounded by enemies. They pick the most dangerous opponent, then make alliances with the rest to defeat that one. After that danger is past, there is time to deal with others.

In 1940, Japan was the major danger. To defeat Japan, China's Communists worked with the United States and with other capitalist countries. Domestically, Mao worked over with the anti-Japanese big landlords and other "reactionary" groups.

Today, the situation is different. The Soviet Union is the principal enemy. Wisdom, therefore, calls for temporary alliances with the United States, possibly Japan and other capitalist countries.

The idea is to exploit the differing interests of the various hostile forces to one's own advantage, to decide which enemy at any given moment is the major one and then to unite all possible forces to isolate and defeat it.

This information has appeared in the Red Flag and other official publications, the writers using the name of Mao liberally. Given the press control in mainland China, it would be impossible for such ideas to appear so openly if they did not have official approval.

It is not necessary to assume this is Peking's sole purpose in wanting closer relations with the United States and other Western countries, nor that it should be an argument against the Nixon visit.

One starts with the assumption Peking is looking out for its own interests, not ours, that these highly skilled negotiators will be extremely difficult to handle.

One assumes further that differences are so great that whittling away at them will take an inordinate amount of time, and we could fall in the attempt.

With all this, it is necessary to seize this opportunity, but with both eyes open.

If for no other reason, the Peking talks are essential as a channel of communication, bettering our day-to-day knowledge of what is happening in China.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The Syndrome

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Six months ago I had a subtotal gastrectomy, 75 per cent (three quarters of stomach removed). My doctor said I had a "stomach" recovery but the surgery went well, which I'm sure it did.

My problem now is dumping syndrome and diarrhea. I have tried six medications and am now on three others, but my symptoms are getting worse. Can you help me?—M.L.S.

Perhaps, I hope so. And I'll help most by outlining some pretty important facts. "Dumping" can follow stomach surgery, and the more extensive the surgery, the more likely dumping will develop.

Keep in mind that normally the digestive process is an orderly one. Different parts of the digestive tract absorb different types of nutrition, and at different rates.

When a substantial part of the stomach has been removed, the stomach, being smaller, cannot hold as much food for as long a time as it used to. Food and fluids therefore are passed along—"dumped"—into the small intestine faster than used to be the case.

Within half an hour after eating, the patient can have a variety of symptoms—flushing, sweating, dizziness, headache, nausea, diarrhea, or some combination of them. Because of the disturbed rate at which food moves through the digestive system, there is an alteration in sugar level, first—high level, then decline to a low level. Folks with episodes of low blood sugar are familiar with this.

Your letter told how many medicines you have used, but medicine alone isn't too likely to solve the problem. Diet and eating habits are very important. Perhaps this has been suggested to you, but you didn't realize the significance.

My recommendation is that you eat a diet high in fat and protein, and low in starches and sugars. In addition, and this is important, too, eat frequent, small meals. This is a nuisance, perhaps, but your anatomy has been changed by the surgery, and what used to be the proper pattern of eating for you now is not.

I deleted from your letter your mention of having the Bilroth II operation. Sometimes conversion to what is known as the Bilroth I procedure corrects the situation.

—But before considering that possibility, by all means try the eating pattern I have suggested to you, and see whether that doesn't make a substantial improvement in the way you feel.

I'm not suggesting you stop using medication, but get all the benefit you can from changing your diet habits as well.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I bruise and bleed very easily. I can barely touch myself with something and either seem to bleed underneath the skin, or if I break the skin I bleed a lot. I find myself bleeding or bruised when I haven't even realized that I hurt myself. Can you tell me what causes this, or what I can do for it? I am 51.—Mrs. H.F.

Too-easy bruising quite often is attributed to lack of enough calcium or vitamin C, but when it happens to the extent you describe, I would suspect a problem involving the basic clotting mechanism of the blood.

I would, therefore, recommend that you have your doctor arrange for some very thorough testing of the quality of your blood, proper treatment may still off more serious difficulty later.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter's ears "go shut" every so often and stay that way for weeks. What would you advise for this? She doesn't want to go to a doctor. She is 30.—Mrs. E. S.

If she doesn't want to go to an ear specialist and find out what is wrong, I can't suggest anything. If it were my hearing involved, I'd certainly want some expert advice. She probably has some plugging of the Eustachian tube.

Labor camp bill clears

BOISE (UPI) — The migrant labor housing standards subcommittee gave its approval Wednesday to proposed legislation to give the State Board of Health broad authority to set and enforce standards for labor camps.

The subcommittee will now forward the draft to the health economics committee of the Governor's Advisory Council on Comprehensive Health Planning for further action.

The housing proposal requires labor camps to obtain each year operating permits from the State Board of Health, permits which will be granted only after the Health Department determines the camps have met minimum safety and sanitary standards.

The proposed legislation also includes provisions for revocation of permits, inspection by the Department of Health and action for damages up to $1,000 against violators of the regulations.

Rick Poplack, Caldwell, acting chairman, said one of the objections to the original draft was the lack of provisions for landlords to sue tenants for any damages.

But, he said, under "any common law" landlords are allowed to take legal action and said the provision for tenants to sue was included because in some instances the "threat at least of maintaining action" might force compliance with standards.

Don Winder, Boise, state FIA director, told the subcommittee part of the problem may be that farmers in the state are now award money is available to construct or upgrade migrant housing.

He said there would be "enough money in the pot" even if every labor housing facility now operating under standard conditions were to apply to a housing authority for aid.

Indian schools bill out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Wednesday he is cosponsoring a comprehensive Indian education bill designed to overhaul federal education of Indian children and adults.

Further, Church said, the bill would return the control of the education largely to Indians themselves and said sponsors intend to ask Indian leaders for recommendations for improvements or modifications before the legislation is finally considered by the senate interior committee.

Church said the legislation would establish an 11-member national board of regents for Indian education within the Department of Interior.

The board would take over operation of Indian schools from the Bureau of Indian Affairs and establish local boards which would have maximum control of schools currently under bureau jurisdiction.

Church said the legislation also includes provisions for funding for construction of public schools on or near reservations, special programs to be operated by the U. S. Office of Education to assist public schools which have Indian enrollment, and establishment of programs to educate Indians to become administrators, teachers, school nurses and librarians to serve in the schools with substantial Indian enrollment.

Conviction in murder case OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court upheld Wednesday the conviction of two men for second degree murder in the 1969 shooting death of Parma policeman John C. Combs.

Larry Drapenu, of Nampa and Bruce Williams of the Nampa-Caldwell area, were arrested at the scene of a wrecked police car stolen by Combs' assailants. Lawrence Thomas, Nampa-Caldwell area, was found in a shed close to the accident scene.

Williams died of natural causes prior to the trial, but Thomas and Drapenu appealed their third district court conviction to the Idaho Supreme Court, alleging various denials of substantive and procedural rights.

Gem court backs board

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court Wednesday affirmed an industrial accident board ruling that a security guard who was injured while leaving work was not entitled to workmen's compensation.

The high court ruled that security guard Lester V. Harris' accident did not fall within the bounds of the workmen's compensation act since it did not occur during the course of his employment.

On July 27, 1967, Harris, employed as a guard at a dam construction project by the Morrison-Knudsen Co., of the Burns Detective Agency, tripped on a path leading from the guardhouse and suffered injuries.

The high court concurred with the industrial accident board that the accident did not fall within the compensation rule act nor within the "peculiar risk" exception to the rule.

'Outrage' cited in venue change bid

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI) — Angela Davis' attorneys said Wednesday it would be impossible for her to get a fair trial in Marin County because of its resident's shock and outrage at the killing of a "popular, well-respected" judge.

The trial of the 27-year-old black militant and former UCLA philosophy instructor may take as long as a year and be so costly a county-wide tax increase may be necessary to pay for it, they said.

Chief defense attorney Howard Moore Jr. presented a 42-point "offer of proof" to back up his contentions that the trial scheduled to start Nov. 1 should be moved from San Rafael, site of the Aug. 1970, Marin County shootout, to San Francisco.

Miss Davis is not accused of taking part in the actual shootout but charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy for allegedly helping plan it and supplying the guns. Defense and prosecution attorneys spent all morning Wednesday discussing the statement of proof with Judge Richard E. Arnason in chambers before resuming a hearing on the motion to transfer the trial.

After another conference in the afternoon, Arnason put over further arguments until Thursday. It was considered doubtful he would rule on the motion to move the trial by Thursday, indicating the scheduled Nov. 1 trial date probably would be postponed again.

Early mail asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Facing its first Christmas rush, the newly independent U.S. Postal Service asked patrons Wednesday to mail early as usual if they want to insure delivery of cards and parcels by Dec. 25. It has adopted the same recommended mailing dates used by the old Post Office Department to cope with the Christmas mail, which that annually totals about 10 billion cards, letters and packages.

Parcels to distant states should be mailed by Dec. 1 and cards by Dec. 10, the service said. The deadline for local and nearby areas is Dec. 10 for parcels and Dec. 15 for cards while airmail parcels should be sent by Dec. 15 and cards by Dec. 22.

Surface mail parcels to Alaska and Hawaii should be sent by Nov. 30 and cards by Dec. 5. Airmail to those states should all be sent by Dec. 15.

The deadline for armed forces overseas mail is Nov. 5 for parcels and Nov. 15 for cards sent by surface mail; Nov. 10 for cards and parcels sent by space available mail and Nov. 25 for parcel airmail. The airmail deadline for parcels and cards is Dec. 10.

Richfield opposes rate hike

RICHFIELD — The city of Richfield will protest the Gem State Utilities Corp. request for an increase in Richfield telephone rates, Mayor C. W. Ward said today.

Hearing on the proposed rate increase is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Nov. 11 at the Richfield American Legion Hall. The public is welcome to attend and protests will be heard. John Doerr, Twin Falls attorney and legal adviser for Richfield, will present the city's protest, the mayor said.

Many organizations and residents are expected to protest the increase which would double the rate for some types of service, he said.

Richfield residents were notified of the telephone company plans in letters mailed Aug. 4. Lack of consistent service in the Richfield area for the past four years is a chief complaint of residents. Long distance dialing or metered service is costly to many, and others are against a raise of any kind without these services.

The proposed rates call for an increase of business telephones from the present $7.50 to $13 for one party lines; $12 from $6.75 for two party lines; and $9.50 from $6 for suburban business phones plus 50 cents for each additional two miles or portion thereof over the six-mile radius from the central office in Richfield.

Seven residential telephones would be raised from $4.75 to $7.60 for one-party lines; $6.40 from $4.25 for two-party lines; and $5.25 from $3.75 for four-party lines.

Suburban phones would raise to $5.50 from $4 for the first six miles plus additional cost of .50 cents for each two mile distance or fraction thereof.

The telephone company contends this is the first raise in 13 years. Richfield contends that the service offered Richfield is non-existent until a serviceman arrives from Grandview after being notified by a recorder.

No serviceman employed by the company resides in Richfield. Residents state that when one did live in Richfield he was continually called away to work for the company in the Grand View and Nevada areas. The company said it was "temporarily servicing Richfield out of Grand View," the mayor said.

A PUC hearing at Grand View, for the Brunau-Grand View exchange, will be held Nov. 10 at Grand View. The Gem State Utilities Corp. has telephone lines in Elmore, Coylee, Blaine, Carnas, and Lincoln counties.

Mind Your Money

BY PETER WEAVER
Q — Please tell me what spray to use on the enclosed (dead but, fell from the letter). This is just a sample of what is running around our enclosed porch. — Mrs. E. A. Narberth, Pa.

A — At long distance, it's impossible to prescribe the right remedy. Your county agriculture extension service agent should have the answer. Take him a sample specimen to view so he can fit the poison to the pest.

County agents are most helpful with this kind of problem. They also are excellent sources for advice on lawns, trees and vegetable gardens. Their offices contain a wealth of pamphlets on a variety of gardening and home economics subjects. Agents can be found under "county government" in your phone book.

Q — Would you please tell me where I can get a copy of the Department of Agriculture's book "Composition of Foods"? You explain some of the contents in your column on health foods. — Mrs. H.L.G., Miami, Fla.

A — You can get a copy by sending $7 to Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402. Ask for "Composition of Foods, Agriculture Handbook Number 9" and make check or money order payable to Superintendent of Documents. It's a fascinating book with nutrition details on everything from abalone to zwieback. It also has tables listing cholesterol and fatty-acid contents of various foods.

Q — Regarding your column of 47 Superstudies in ceramic kitchenware, may I point out that lead oxide and cadmium are chemicals that burn out at temperatures over 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Any pottery fired at this temperature has a safer product than some well-known factories. — F. M., Redondo Beach, Calif.

A — The United States Pottery Assn. says most hobby glazes are not made for firing at that high temperature. Also, most hobby kilns rarely go over 1,800 degrees.

Unfortunately, the average consumer can't tell which piece of pottery has been fired at 2,000 degrees and which piece has not. With handcrafted products you should ask the potter what firing temperature was used. If the information isn't available, it's not a good idea to cook or store any kind of acid food in handcrafted vessels. Even some factory products aren't safe for cooking or storing.

Q — What can be done about a local auto dealer who advertises a fantastic buy on a car in a local newspaper but never has the car when you want to see it? — J.B.A., Whittier, Calif.

A — This kind of "bait and switch" fraudulent advertising should be barred from print. Send your complaint with a copy of the ad to your newspaper editor. Send another copy to your Better Business Bureau. A number of BBAs around the country are cracking down on this kind of phony advertising. Some even require dealers to include a special advertising number for each car so it can be traced to determine who (if anybody) ever bought it.

TAKE NOTE — "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em," says the old adage. You might consider "joining 'em" after reading the free booklet, "Your Career as an Appliance Service Technician." It tells you what requirements you need to set up your own business. You can get a copy by writing: Assn. of Home Appliance Manufacturers, 20 North Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60606.

New Gibson's outlet opens today to serve valley area

TWIN FALLS — Gibson's Discount Center located on Filer Avenue between Fillmore and Polk streets, one of the newest retail outlets in the Magic Valley, celebrates its "grand opening" today.

Gibson's is a franchise operation with more than 600 outlets throughout the nation, according to Ray Phillips, formerly of Missoula, Mont., the manager of the Twin Falls firm. The owners of the Twin Falls franchise also operate the Missoula outlet, according to Phillips, who served as manager in the Montana town before moving to Twin Falls about six weeks ago.

Phillips brought his family, including his wife and three sons with him. His sons are in the first, fifth and sixth grades in school.

The Missoula owners of the franchise selected Twin Falls as their first entry into Idaho, and the first Gibson's franchise in the state, because they think it is the most promising area to do business, Phillips said.

"We think we'll enjoy doing business in Twin Falls," Phillips told the Times-News. "It's a nice place to live and has a growing economy."

Gibson's features self-service and a wide variety of merchandise lines, ranging from auto accessories to clothing and laundry supplies to tape recorders and sporting goods. Prices are discounted in many instances.

The firm employs 20 people, including a couple of part-time students, to keep the shelves stocked and serve customers, Phillips said.

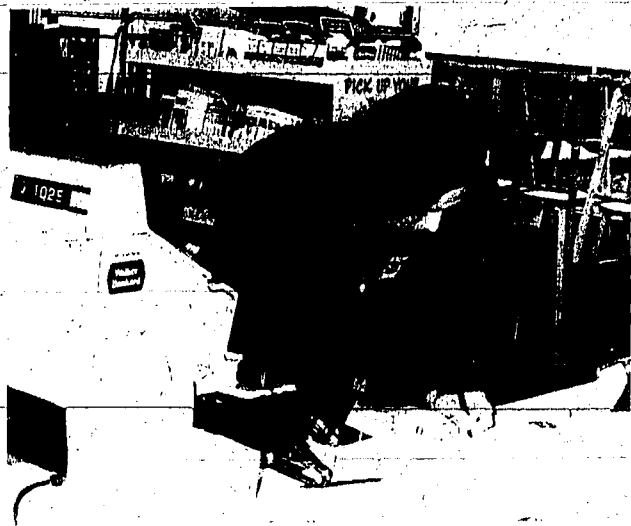

Gibson's of Twin Falls will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. on Sundays.

Seek land

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials said today Soviet officials have notified the State Department that they are negotiating with private owners for the possible purchase of a 28-acre tract on the Potomac River near Mount Vernon.

The land would be used as a "recreational area" for Soviet embassy officers and employees.

What the Russians want, officials said, is something similar to the estate they have had for many years at Glen Cove, Long Island, N.Y., for their United Nations staff.

Strikes too late

LONDON (UPI)—Week after week, John O'Grady, 21, contributed to the seven-man betting syndicate at the warehouse where he worked.

Then he got fired.

Saturday, four days after O'Grady lost his job, the syndicate hit it big—$251,490.

"There's no luck for the Irish," O'Grady said.

Educators pick slate delegates

TWIN FALLS — Delegates to the December and spring assemblies of the Idaho Education Assn. in Boise were named and organization goals established Tuesday by the Twin Falls Education Assn.

Norman W. Wiseman, association president, said 10 goals were set for the organization, including increasing membership to 200 persons.

Elected to represent the association during the assembly sessions are Wiseman, Keith Farnsworth, Mrs. Ruth Gates, Mrs. Ora Leo Wiseman, Milton Barrus, Scott Tingey, Mrs. Mary Nelson, Mrs. Carolyn Herzinger, Gordon Armstrong and Dick Chilcote.

Members met at Washington School. Goals for the 1971-72 school year listed by the president included membership of 200; developing an agreement contract with the board of education; improving the educator image in Twin Falls.

TF high plans homecoming day

TWIN FALLS — Homecoming activities for Twin Falls High School will climax Friday with the crowning of a homecoming queen, track meet, parade, assembly and football game with the Caldwell team.

In addition to the homecoming queen, students will select a princess from each of the senior, junior and sophomore classes.

Finalists announced today include Ellen Tolson, Ellen Morgan and Jackie Hovey, for queen; Cheri Christiansen, Laurie Wright and Pam Call, senior princess; Dea Bartlett, Ann Pratt, Carol LaJeunesse, junior princess and Cindy Koford, Sherri Bartlett and Cherie Anderson, sophomore princess.

Key Club members are sponsoring the queen and princess contests. The queen and class princesses will be selected by class votes and the winners will be crowned during halftime at the football game in Bruh Stadium Friday night.

The special assembly will be held sixth period and royalty will be introduced. A parade will follow, moving down Main Avenue with flag and color guard, marching band, drill teams homecoming royalty, class floats, pep club and the large Bruh float. The parade will form at 3:55 p.m. at Thelton Motors.

Classes will compete for awards in their float preparation and winners will be announced at halftime during the game. Business men of Twin Falls will judge the floats.

Game time is 8 p.m. in Bruh Stadium Friday with halftime

Idaho jobless need right skills, attitude, flexibility

an attempt to train people for skills which are in demand.

BOISE (UPI) — If you are unemployed in Idaho, you need the right education, the right skills, the right attitude and a little flexibility to hope for easy job placement.

The unemployment rate in the Gem State has been dropping for the past two months. In August, Idaho's unemployment rate was 3.6 per cent and last month 4.1 per cent, compared to a national unemployment average of 6.1 per cent.

That may be one reason out-of-staters—particularly persons skilled in aerospace industries from Washington and California—are looking for jobs in Idaho. They are not having luck.

Further, out-of-staters may think Idaho would be a better place to live.

"They want to be in God's country, in Idaho," said Henry McNeal, one of the owners of Executive Personnel of Idaho. "Many times people would like to relocate here, even though they have to take a tremendous drop in salary...to have what they consider the ideal ecological environment to raise their children."

H. Fred Garrett, director of the Idaho Department of Employment, added, "We're a little different than the industrial areas. It's a better place to live and people are finding this out."

But it's that lack of heavy industry which is causing some of the problem. Charles B. Eells, owner-manager of Eells Personnel Service said there is a flood of technically skilled persons coming into the state and "it's just impossible to interest people right now."

Eells said some jobs are easy to fill, but others difficult, for instance, if the employer wanted a "mangler in business to start at only $15,000 per year."

Eells is more optimistic than some. He believes the current job market is part of a fluctuation which may mean in a few years plenty of opportunities for those electronics experts and aerospace workers who are now pounding the streets.

"I presume this is a temporary lull," he said. "Right now, all of a sudden, we have also overproduced teachers in this country and the teaching field is flooded. Maybe two years from now it will be the reverse."

It's difficult, since needs do change, to pinpoint what field would be lucrative for a college student. As a matter of fact, a degree may be a handicap in some instances.

"Let's face it," McNeal said. "Degrees are a dime a dozen today. Everybody wants to be an executive today instead of working at the grassroots level."

"Our largest problem in placing people in job positions in Idaho is overqualification," he said. "They're too qualified for what employers want here."

The kind of degree could be important, according to Karen Moore, Boise, manager consultant for Acme Personnel Service. "The college graduate that we see in here a lot of times has his bachelor's in physics or sociology or something like that and we have a need for it," she said. "If he has a bachelor's in accounting or business we seem to be able to do more with it."

Garrett said the Department of Employment is working with manpower training programs in

Chance Harding, Hansen may try for Gem Senate seat

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — There's an outside chance that two former congressmen may run against each other next year for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by the retirement of Republican Len B. Jordan.

Neither man has announced as yet. But both are sending out feelers and both have "committees" working in their behalf.

Both have bid for the Senate in the past and both have lost general elections. One also lost a party primary for the Senate. They have just about everything in common, in fact, but their political parties.

One is Republican George V. Hansen, 41, and the other is Democrat Ralph R. Harding, 42. And even their birth dates are close — Harding being born Sept. 9, 1929 and Hansen Sept. 14, 1930.

Hansen now is a high-paid official in the U.S. Agriculture Department at Washington, D.C. Harding, Idaho's Democratic National committeeman, runs a cattle feeding operation in Blackfoot.

Both men are active in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Both are from eastern Idaho. Both ran for the Senate against popular incumbents — against the advice of some within their parties — and both lost, Harding to Jordan in 1968 and Hansen to Frank Church in 1968.

Harding, a one-term representative in the state house of Representatives from Oneida County, defeated incumbent Hamer Budge in 1960 to win the first of two terms in congress from Idaho's Second District.

Hansen, a former mayor of Alameda who made an unsuccessful try for the GOP senatorial nomination in 1962, wrested the congressional post from Harding in 1964. He held it two terms and then ran for the Senate against Church and lost.

In order to get onto the general election ballot against each other, both men would have to win contested primaries against what appears at this point to be strong opposition. But both men are hard campaigners who won't take "no" for an answer when they want something.

Hansen, for instance, just barely got enough Republican state convention votes in 1964 to get on the party's primary election ballot. But he won that primary with a hard, grass roots campaign and then went on to win the general election.

Harding, whose style is not unlike Hansen's, won his first term in Congress by knocking over a 10-year congressional veteran and a member of the powerful House Rules Committee.

Whether both or either will run for the Senate when the time for filling actually arrives remains to be seen. But entry of one or both could add even more spice to the already bubbling campaign, not to mention some "chills" to the spines of their political enemies.

Echoes, from the Statehouse: The State Land Board finally may be coming to grips with one of the many unanswered policy questions confronting it. The board asked Attorney General W. Anthony Park, at his suggestion, to prepare a legal memorandum on the best way to dispose of vacant cottage site leases. To get the most for the land and the endowment funds it supports they should put it up for public auction.

But that would freeze out the "little man" who cannot afford to pay a big rental fee to the state.

PEO Sisterhood speaker slated

TWIN FALLS — Anne Simpson, field representative for Cottey College, Nev., Mo., will be in Magic Valley Saturday, Sunday and Monday speaking before groups of the PEO Sisterhood.

ANNE SIMPSON

Miss Simpson, a 1968 graduate of Cottey College, will meet with prospective students and Cottey alumnae in the area. She earned her bachelors degree at the University of Wyoming where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority. She is a member of PEO Chapter O, Colorado.

During her visit to Magic Valley she will visit high schools in Jerome, Wendell and Gooding and will have counselor meetings in Filer, Buhl, Twin Falls, Kimberly, Burley and Halley.

At 20 a.m. Saturday she will speak at a PEO Sisterhood workshop at 1737 Maplewood Drive, Twin Falls. Girls or their parents interested in appointments with Miss Simpson may call Mrs. George T. Davis at 733-1700 in Twin Falls.

Fondue cookery demonstrated

SPRINGDALE — Mrs. M. H. Manning was hostess to the Springdale Happy Homemakers club this week when Cassia County extension agent, Mrs. John Parr, assisted by Mrs. Wayne Woodland, demonstrated fondue cookery. All members sampled the bread squares in cheese dip as the first course, followed by meat balls, shrimps and wieners with several kinds of sauce dip.

Articles made from wool and cotton material were displayed by Mrs. Irwin Craythorn, Mrs. Ivy Manning, Mrs. Tulare Lambros and Mrs. Gladys Manning. Mrs. Craythorn received a gift from her secret pal.

The hostess served refreshments. The date of the November meeting will be announced.

HANSEN — "Three square meals makes one round" was the thought brought by the leader, Mrs. George Golay, at the Slim and Trim TOPS club meeting this week at the home of Mrs. Thomas Steelsmith. She also gave some pointers on saluting the flag.

Mrs. Halona Garrett, Quincy, Wash., was a guest.

Mrs. Paul Bowman was best loser for the week and received a gift.

The penalty march was given and winners read their penalties and reported on their last week's penalties.

Lena Bohm was given an excused leave of absence because of illness in her family. Thank-yous were expressed by Mrs. Roy Dopsan and Mrs. V. L. Wilson.

Mrs. Fred Howard's team won the slimmer silhouettes contest. Each received gifts.

Mrs. Reed Lyons was best loser for Mrs. Howard's team, and Mrs. Bowman for Mrs. Dopsan's team. Each received gifts.

Mrs. Bryson Vinyard is contest chairman.

A Halloween costume party is planned for next week. Mrs. Kimber Glenn will be hostess; open, the sweater coats go it was decided to purchase round the clock.

more cups for coffee or diet beverages.

An article from Today's Health was read by Mrs. Wilson. "Sugar Is More Fattening Than Starches." An article from "Listen" on eating fruit for breakfast rather than a sweet roll for better nutrition, stressed eating a hearty breakfast that stays with a person without a lull before lunch. The article was read by Mrs. Golay.

Mrs. Lewis Morris reported on an article from the recent TOPS magazine, stressing that overweight people should begin liking themselves and having more respect for themselves, which may help them to lose weight.

Mrs. Bowman was hostess and project chairman. At a word contest game, Mrs. Steelsmith was the winner.

Coat yourself with a sweater — or sweater yourself with a coat. Either way to be fashionable, the important thing is to do a sweater coat. Or coat sweater, depending on what you want to call it.

Boughton up, washed, belted or Kimmer Glenn will be hostess; open, the sweater coats go it was decided to purchase round the clock.

JEROME — As a community service, St. Benedict's Hospital is sponsoring a program on drug abuse as it relates to Jerome on Nov. 4 at 8 p.m. in the dining room of the Long Term Care Unit. The program is open to the public and all adults and young people are invited to attend. Featured speaker will be Dr.

Jon Wilmoth who through his work with drug abuse cases has become concerned about the problem. Dr. Wilmoth will show exhibits of legal and illegal drugs and present information about the subject. Hospital officials stress that interested persons are invited to attend.

Mrs. Shaw named leader

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Dwight Shaw was elected and installed president of the Countryside Flower Club during a meeting Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Lanting.

Other new officers include Mrs. Elgin Wilson, vice president; Mrs. Lyle Schutker, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Pato Thornton, reporter.

Mrs. Richard Noh demonstrated how to make a topiary tree and showed antique pictures.

Children's Halloween party set

JEROME — Jerome Jay-Cettes are sponsoring a Halloween party for children in the area, according to Mrs. Roger Rue, chairman of the event.

Mrs. Rue said the party is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 23, from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Elks Lodge Hall.

Prizes will be given for outstanding costumes.

She noted there will be no admission charge but a nominal charge will be made for Halloween games which include bobbing for apples, cake walk and others.

Mrs. Rue said refreshments will be served.

Don't discard old radios, televisions

JEROME — Larry Berg, instructor of electronics at the Jerome High School, has requested that Jerome residents not throw out their old televisions or radios as they can be used by students in his class.

Berg said parts from television and radio receivers are used by students for various class projects.

He said there are 24 pupils enrolled in the program representing 10th, 11th and 12th grades.

Residents wanting to donate old sets can telephone Berg at 324-5616 during the day or at 324-2015 at night. Arrangements will be made to pick up the items.

Participate in nutrition program

BOISE — Sixteen-hundred Idaho families are taking part in the expanded nutrition program of the University of Idaho extension service, Mrs. Lucie Wilson, program leader, said today in a summary of activities.

The educational effort to help people in buying and preparation of adequate meals is conducted in 18 counties. About 70 part-time aides are employed in cooperation with federal agencies.

Mrs. Wilson said the number of families visited by aides is increasing and that in several counties more families are attending group meetings for exchange of ideas on menu planning and household management.

Louisiana produces 2.5 million barrels of oil a day.

Area choral group officers

GOODING — Mrs. Lalene Meyer, vocal director for Gooding School District No. 231, announces officers for the choral groups in the junior and senior high schools.

Kirk Hall was named president for the seventh grade boys chorus; Rob Robbins, vice president; Ross Borden, secretary, and Clay Zlatnik, treasurer.

Seventh grade girls chorus, Mickey La Furgey, president; Deanna Watson, vice president; Susan Sabel, secretary, and Kelly Watts, treasurer.

President for the seventh grade mixed chorus is Ross Borden with Susan Sabala, vice president; Linda Murphy, secretary, and Debbie Brock, treasurer.

Officers for the eighth grade boys chorus are Clark Muscat, president; Rick Simms, vice president, and Ted Carrico, secretary-treasurer.

Eighty grade girls chorus includes president, Lori Nelson; vice president, Dollie Willard; secretary, Stephanie Miller, and treasurer, Joan Hart.

High school chorus presidents Fred Cheslik, with vice president, David Cheslik; secretary, Lorraine Shaver, and treasurer, Mark Cheslik. Scheduled musical programs for the coming year, compiled by Mrs. Meyer and band director, Lanny Gunther, include a combined junior and senior high choral concert; Nov. 2 at 8 p.m. in Frahm Junior High School gym; December 16, junior high band and choral concert at 8 p.m. at Frahm Junior High School; Dec. 20, senior high band and choral concert at 8 p.m. at Frahm Junior High School; April 4, pre-festival senior high concert at 8 p.m. at Frahm Junior High School; April 7-8, high school festival, Glenns Ferry; April 22, senior high cabaret; May 11, junior high pre-festival concert, and May 12-13, junior high festival.

Gunther noted the 53-member marching band will compete in the district marching festival in Boise, Oct. 28. Gooding will compete against Treasure Valley. He stated Gooding was the only Magic Valley school to enter the marching festival.

Metzger said the pageant will be held at Frahm Junior High School with Craig Muchow as master of ceremonies.

Brent Brocksome and Gilbert Schmidt, co-chairmen for the Junior Miss Pageant, said letters of invitation will be sent to young ladies within the county inviting their participation in the pageant.

Jaycees are in need of a choreographer to assist in preparing the show.

Any resident with ability in this field is urged to contact either the co-chairman or Metzger.

In other activities planned by the Jaycees, Metzger said a pheasant hunt for members is set for Oct. 24, with Craig Muchow as chairman for the event.

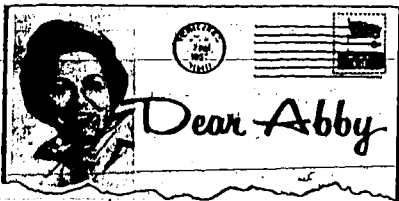

A joint dinner meeting with the Jay-C-Fites will be held at the Lincoln Inn Nov. 6.

DEAR ABBY: I'm married to a beautiful gal who's crazy about pants. She wears pants everywhere. Sometimes we go to a party and my wife is the only lady there in pants. She has pants for every occasion and she tells me they're in style and acceptable everywhere.

We've been married for two years and I can't remember the last time I saw her in a dress. She has pretty legs and no reason to hide them.

She has a nice figure and she looks good in pants, but I would like to see her in a dress again for a change. Any suggestions?
ROGER

DEAR ROGER: Yes. Tell her you'd like to see her in a dress. Then you'll see who really wears the pants in your family.

DEAR ABBY: I have a four-year-old daughter I'll call Ann. Ann has many very expensive outdoor playthings. My problem is the neighbor girl I'll call Jane. Jane is seven years old and weighs over 100 pounds. Ann and Jane play nicely together, but Jane has broken the seat on Ann's tricycle, bent her swing set all out of shape, and insists on jumping on the picnic table like Ann does.

Jane is very high strung and has a nasty temper, which is why no other mother on the block will let her children play with her. She has no friends her age because of her temper and the way she breaks everything. And when the other kids tease Jane about her size, she really explodes. Her mother works all day and Jane hasn't had proper discipline. I feel sorry for the child and hate to expel her from our yard, but it's hard for me to tell her she can't play with Ann's things when all the other kids can.

Jane has been put on diets, but she cheats. Ann is her only friend but I don't know how much longer I can put up with the repair bills. Can you help me?
ANN'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If a child ever desperately needed a friend, Jane does, so please don't reject her. It would be a tremendous kindness if you could speak with her mother about seeking professional help for Jane. The repair bills may seem burdensome to you, but thank God you're repairing only a broken tricycle. It's far more difficult to try to repair a child's broken heart.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to say a few words to Russell's Mother, who wrote, "People who work with their hands are not smart enough to work with their minds."

Look lady, who do you think fixes your car? A mechanic. Who built your home? Construction workers, carpenters, electricians, masons, painters. Who put in your plumbing? Plumbers. Who keeps your telephone working? Repairmen.

All these people work with their hands, right? And they aren't stupid.

My father is a mechanic and I am proud of him. He is raising a family of three daughters and he's doing a terrific job. He is the smartest man I know. Thank you.
JOSIE RANDAZZO, WARREN, MICH.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Health funding at impasse

 Chancy is also chairman of the district board of health, but did not vote for the $2.25 per person budget request.

In the current district budget which averages $1.28 per person, Twin Falls County's per capita contribution is 80 cents. If the 1972 budget request of the board of health were approved, Twin Falls' appropriation would be raised from $33,528 to $44,066.

Cassia County's contribution would rise from the current $19,943 to $38,288 and Mindoku's from $20,467 to $35,395 should the budget request be approved, according to figures supplied by Dr. Wayne B. Carlo, medical director of the district health department.

Increases for the remaining counties, Blaine, Camas, Gooding, Jerome and Lincoln, would be less startling as all appropriated appreciably more than the district per capita average in the current budget. Speaking in favor of a "modest increase" in the budget to preserve gains made in public health programs over the last 20 years, C.F. Chalfield, chairman of Lincoln County commissioners, urged that relief during the period of transition to the new system be sought from the legislature.

Lincoln County has the highest per capita contribution ($2.19) to the current health budget of the eight counties in the district.

Dr. B.L. Kreilkamp, member of the board of health from Blaine County, reminded the county officials that they were going to have to arrive at one per capita figure for all counties and suggested that they consider what health services they want residents of their counties to do without.

"If the per capita rate set is below $2 we are going to have to cut back the health program in all counties," he said. "In this case, the board of health would want your advice as to what you want to give up, such as school health services or restaurant inspections or immunizations; for example." According to the law, according to Dr. Carlo, the agreement reached by a majority of the county chairmen as to a per capita appropriation will be binding upon all counties in the district.

This decision must be made before the end of December, he said.

Another meeting, to include all commissioners from member counties, was set for Tuesday, Nov. 2 at the Jerome County Courthouse.

ISU queen

Coed from Buhl selected queen

BUHL — Margaret Gabardi, Buhl, was crowned Idaho State University Homecoming queen Wednesday night.

Miss Gabardi, a junior in elementary education, is the 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Gabardi, Buhl.

She will reign over the homecoming activities this weekend at ISU beginning with the parade at 11 a.m. Saturday. She will be presented as homecoming queen at halftime of the ISU-Montana State football game Saturday night. According to her mother, Miss Gabardi has never participated in such a contest before. She entered only after the girls of her dorm, Turner Hall, persuaded her to do so.

Miss Gabardi told her mother Wednesday night after the crowning that she "really was surprised." She said girls in the dorm did all the work and everyone had helped.

Mrs. Gabardi said when her daughter called "Margaret couldn't say too much she was so surprised."

Her goal is to work with children and she is majoring in Spanish with a minor in social work.

She was named as Intercollegiate Knight princess last year.

Jerome accord gained

JEROME — Andy Anderson, representing the American Pacific Corp., met with the Jerome City Council Tuesday night to complete plans for laying of a sewer line to the Carey Subdivision on East "I" Street.

The question of connecting with the city sewer system has been a delaying factor in completing the subdivision.

After lengthy discussion, the council agreed to let Anderson's contractor install the line at $3 per foot, with the city to repair the street.

The water line to the subdivision has been completed. The two model homes are nearly ready for occupancy, Anderson said.

The city of Jerome is advertising for bids for a new boiler at the city swimming pool, to be opened at the November council meeting.

Mayor Jack Russell began a report on the survey he completed in Burley, Rupert and Twin Falls on local enforcement of curfew laws, but was interrupted by a telephone call before he finished. He did say, however, that he favored Burley's enforcement routine. A whistle at 9:50 p.m. each weeknight alerts youngsters under 18 to be off the streets by 10 p.m. Parents are notified by police if their youngsters violate the curfew, and can be liable for fines.

Councilman Elwin Tinker said he thought the council is "too concerned about kids under 18," emphasizing that "the kids over 18" are "causing most of our problems."

A representative from the Idaho Health Department, visiting the council meeting, said that Jerome County reported four cases of a communicable disease last month involving youngsters under 18.

Man dies in crash

SALMON, Idaho (UPI) — Irwin T. Stoddard, 53, Blackfoot, died Wednesday evening when his car slammed head-on into one driven by Merle McNabb, 30, Salmon.

State police said the accident occurred about 3 1/2 miles south of Lemhi on State Highway 28 about 9:55 p.m. Officers said Stoddard applied his brakes, crossed over the center line and into the path of McNabb's car. Stoddard's death raised Idaho's traffic toll for the year to 254, compared with 270 at this time a year ago.

I-80 work done except sealing

SHOSHONE — Interstate Highway 80N between Wendell and Jerome is complete except for seal coating which will be done next year, according to Howard Johnson, district highway engineer.

Work is progressing on the roadway of 180N, two miles east of Tuttle to the Wendell interchange. The eastbound lane roadbed is being constructed, pipe is being installed and concrete is being placed at the two concrete machine pass locations. The contractor's work operations during the winter months will depend on the weather conditions. Controlled traffic can be expected throughout the project during borrow hauling and rock excavation operations, Johnson said.

Work on structures on 180N east of Tuttle will not begin until November, Johnson said.

Drilling, blasting and hauling rock is being done on US 26 between Shoshone and Gooding, with minor traffic interferences at various times when the blasting for the new road is near the old roadway.

In Twin Falls County, work is progressing on US 30-Filler-West. Plant mix surfacing is being placed and miscellaneous cleanup work is underway. The plant mix surfacing should be complete by the end of this month. However, seal coating will not be done until next year. There is no traffic interference.

A new project being advertised at this time is for construction of a 101 foot concrete bridge, grading and drainage for the roadway approaches over the Big Wood River on .019 miles of the Halley streets, Bullion Street Bridge in Blaine County.

Bids will be opened Oct. 25 for this project, Johnson said.

Fire controlled

SALMON (UPI) — About 50 men will stay on today as a mop-up crew to watch the remains of a fire that burned 225 acres in the Salmon National Forest on Cramer Creek near the mouth of the Middle Fork of the Salmon.

The fire, believed to be man-caused, was controlled Wednesday night when it rained in the area, assisting the 156 fire fighters called in from other areas. The fire also burned into snow-covered higher elevations.

The fire was the 64th of the season in the forest. Some 50 fires caused by lightning burned 58 acres, while another 14 fires believed to have been man-caused burned another 585 acres.

Most of the man-caused fires have occurred in the past two weeks since hunting season opened.

Child aid

MANILA (UPI) — A round-the-clock social welfare center has been opened in nearby Quezon City to extend services to children below 21 years old. Officials of the center announced it will provide "protection and service to neglected, abused, exploited, maltreated, stranded, emotionally disturbed and morally endangered children who in their moments of crisis have nowhere to go."

Restriped

TWIN FALLS — City crews restriped sections of Main Avenue in the mall area today, City Manager Jean Millar said. He said that some traffic disruption resulted because the street was blocked to allow the paint to dry. Center lines and parking stalls were repainted on portions of the street which were repaved earlier this year.

Valley comment

School consolidation

QUESTION: Do you approve of a consolidated high school for students from Burley, Declo and Oakley?

Mrs. R.H. Seymour, Burley, teacher:

"We need it. It's something we've needed for a long time. What we have now is not good economics. It will create problems but it will solve more problems than it will create. But I'm a teacher and I'm prejudiced."

Max Gorringer, Oakley, employe of housing firm: "I think it's all right only I figure it would be better to have two high schools. It would be better for one for Oakley and one for Declo and Burley."

Dennis Irish, Burley, baker: "I think it would be fine if it would cut our taxes down. They should have enough taxes for what they put up."

Maureen Talle, housewife, Burley: "I like that better than my kids going to Oakley. That's what they should do. I'm all for it."

Orval Thompson, Albion farmer and stockman: "I don't know. I think it would be all right to consolidate. It should help out to consolidate."

Jim Halley, Declo truck driver: "I don't like it. I don't think it ought to be. We ought to leave the students in the towns where they started. Let the school office send out teachers to the different areas."

Air pollution index 108

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District at the site on 10th St. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period.

ending at 8 a.m. today. Federal pollution regulations say pollution levels should be kept below 25 micrograms over any 24-hour period and should not be permitted to rise above 200 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Forecast

Today: Excellent
 Tonight: Poor
 Tomorrow: Excellent

The forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution burning as predicted by low should be contained when the air is partly able to disperse air pollutants.

Autumn shadows longer

SHADOWS cast by trees along the banks of the Big Wood River cast a pattern of light and dark across the rippling waters of that stream as autumn's pale sunlight creates bright patches. As the fall season moves steadily on toward winter, aspen leaves which have turned to gold will drop silently to the ground, leaving the white trunks and branches bare.

WILLIAM F. (Bill) Whitton and Mrs. Ruth Simpson confer on plans for the Red Cross fund raising drive, scheduled to begin next week in Minidoka county. Whitton is chapter president and Mrs. Simpson heads the drive.

Drive starts in Minidoka

REPORT—The Minidoka County Chapter of the American Red Cross held an organizational meeting Tuesday in preparation for its fund raising drive set for next week.

William F. Whitton, chairman of the local chapter, said the group had set a "temporary goal" of $1,500 for the drive, an increase of $500 over last year's total collection.

"We're organizing our drive in conjunction with the one in Cassia County," Whitton said, "because we feel that with the people in the two areas so close we could reach them."

The money raised during the door-to-door program, the chairman said, will help defray national dues owed by the local chapter to the national organization, as well as pay for several community service programs the local chapter sponsors during the year.

"I especially want to maintain the blood program in the county so we can be assured of a ready supply of whole blood and gamma globulin," both Whitton said.

Among the other programs he listed as Red Cross-sponsored were area water safety program, home nursing, first aid programs and service to military families in the county.

Mrs. Ruth Simpson is serving as coordinator of the fund raising drive. Whitton urged all persons interested in aiding in the solicitations to contact her. Contributions are tax deductible, he said.

BURLEY—Mrs. William Morrison has been elected president of the Burley DOES Lodge No. 2043.

Mrs. Wayne Rogers, immediate past president, installed officers at the Monday night meeting at the Burley Elks lodge. Others elected to complete terms of office were Mrs. Charles Shaddock, first counselor and Mrs. Esther Sprague, senior counselor. Mrs. Rogers was assisted in the installation ceremony by Mrs. Rodney Murphy, deputy conductor; Mrs. Wilbur Roberts, Mrs. George Korbs, Mrs. Darrell Butcher and Mrs. James Fox, all flagbearers. Members are donating green or gold strike stamp books for the purchase of a clothes hamper. The hamper will be filled with household items, Mrs. Morrison said. The hamper and an afghan will be used as the ways and means project with proceeds to be used for the lodge's Christmas charity project. Donations to the project will be accepted by officers and members, Mrs. Morrison said. The hamper and afghan will be awarded the Dec. 8 meeting. Mrs. Donna Arbogast received the membership award at this week's meeting. It was reported officers for the coming year will be nominated from the floor at the Nov. 1 meeting. New members will be inducted during a special ceremony Nov. 15. Mrs. Victoria Hubbard, conductor, announced a drill practice is scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday at the lodge hall. All officers are urged to attend and interested members are welcome. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Jim Skiles and Mrs. Roberts.

Rotary official to visit Burley

BURLEY—Charles Stratford, Salt Lake City, Rotary district governor, will make his official visit to the Burley club Tuesday.

Wives will be special guests at the noon luncheon at the Ponderosa Inn. A meeting of Burley mayor Garis Robertson and city councilmen with Stratford is scheduled for 11 a.m. Tuesday, said Dick Hutzinger, president of the Burley club.

Club officers will meet with the district governor at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Ponderosa Inn conference room. George Forschler, chairman of the interim regional airport board, spoke on efforts to promote the regional airport proposal which will be voted upon in eight Magic Valley counties next Tuesday.

He said all interim board members are speaking before community groups this week to urge acceptance of the regional airport authority. Fact sheets are being distributed to all news media within the Magic Valley containing information as to the background of efforts to obtain a regional facility.

The professional study made in 1966 revealed the Twin Falls City-County airport is in the wrong location and cross winds create problems, Forschler said.

DC-9 planes are landing at the Twin Falls airport with passenger and freight loads of about 92,000 pounds, and the base of the runway is only 10 to 18 inches, Forschler said.

If the planes would carry their full potential which would weigh up to 100,000 pounds the runways would not be able to stand up under the extra weight, he said.

Twin Falls airport officials are expecting to increase traffic at the port seven times, but ramps and runways are not strong enough to land, taxi and takeoff with additional loads, he said.

"We need to go to an A-1 site in Jerome county for a regional airport," the official said, "for there just isn't a better base for a runway than lava bed."

He said a regional airport could assist farmers in bringing a major market closer to home, by use of air freight. Vegetables now are shipped fresh from the Kennedy Airport to Germany and milk is shipped by air from Washington to Alaska. Air freight is going to be the future way of shipping, he said.

Presently most of the Cassia and Minidoka county residents who travel by air have to drive to Pocatello, Salt Lake City or Boise because of poor flight connections from the Twin Falls airport," Forschler said. "If we had a regional airport with good connections, people from this area could use it and save much driving time."

Miss Idaho will attend conclave

BURLEY—Karen Herd, Miss Idaho and first runner-up to Miss America, will be a special guest at the Shako River Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, first semi-annual Explorer Planning Conference.

The conference for officers and adult leaders in all Explorer posts in the eight-county council will be Oct. 30 at the Ponderosa Inn in Burley. Purposes of the conference are to assist the Explorer posts in year-round program planning, selection and organization of one or two council-wide Explorer high adventures, and training of leaders on both the both the young men and adult levels.

The Explorer program is for high school age boys and girls. There are about 900 Explorer members in 65 Explorer posts in Magic Valley. Activities include high adventure hiking and river floating programs, cross country sight seeing trips, specialty activities such as fish and game management, auto mechanics, engineering and boat and canoe building.

Miss Herd, who is from Idaho Falls, will speak at the luncheon session of the conference and will serve on a special panel discussing dating etiquette, grooming and conduct of young people.

Rate cut said unjustified

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — There is "no economic justification" for lowering interest rates now, the incoming president of the American Bankers Assn. said Wednesday.

He made his comment after Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. cut its prime interest rate from 6 per cent to 5 1/2 per cent.

At least one California bank immediately followed suit. Stults told newsmen a bank may have "individual justification" for reducing rates if it has benefited from a few favorable aspects of banking during the past year, such as overseas operations or retail bond dealings.

He said he expects the "wait, look and see" period before other banks decide to follow the Morgan Guaranty move "will perhaps go on longer than it has before." But he said even his own bank "will have to follow" if the prime rate cut becomes widespread.

While denying there was any economic justification for reducing rates, Stults said "The political justification we all see clearly."

He said he expects pressure, presumably from the government, for banks to follow the rate cut. Those banks which don't go along "will get some cuts," he said. Stults, taking office as head of the 18,500-member association, said he agrees with President Nixon's proposed stand-by authority to control interest rates. But he added that he sees no need to use such controls. "When you control interest rates you are actually allocating credit without assessing the need for credit," he said. "To fool around with interest rates is a very dangerous thing and should be a last resort."

Connally likes prime rate cut

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said Wednesday he was "very delighted" to see banks reduce their prime interest rate.

"I think the circumstances in the country called for this,"

Connally told newsmen at the American Bankers Assn. convention.

He said the voluntary decision by the banks to reduce interest rates proved the wisdom of the administration's decision not to freeze interest rates when prices and wages were frozen. A maximum under a freeze "would have become a floor," he said.

Connally said the banking industry "is entitled to a great deal of credit for what it has done," noting that rates on some types of loans have gone down 13 per cent in the past 90 days.

He said "a great deal of the increases in interest rates during the past few years have contributed to the psychology of inflation." Now he hopes the opposite will happen and that a reduction of "not just the prime rate but all interest rates" will help "purge" this psychology.

Connally told newsmen the government is "not having any great difficulty" in finding people to serve on its price-freeze panels. He said he is not worried about the stock market and does "not anticipate having to confront the question" of being a vice presidential candidate.

No hearing scheduled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Treasury Department said Wednesday it would not order public hearings on a request by two U.S. copper companies for advice on the tax treatment of assets expropriated by the government of Chile.

It was the second time the department had turned down a demand by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., that the request for a tax ruling by the Revenue and Anaconda Copper Companies be held in open hearings.

In a letter to Proxmire, Treasury General Counsel Samuel R. Pierce said the request was one of about 25,000 individual queries seeking advice on filing tax returns received each year by the Internal Revenue Service.

No Idaho changes in prime rate due

BOISE (UPI) — Spokesmen for at least two of Idaho's three largest banking institutions said Wednesday they do not contemplate any immediate change in their prime interest rates for commercial loans.

President Joe Bianco of the Bank of Idaho said his institution does not "anticipate any change at this time" even though Morgan Guaranty Trust Company of New York cut its rate 5 1/2 from 6 per cent. "But," Bianco added, "I'm sure there's a trend in this direction more than anything else." Wallace Sorensen, senior vice president in charge of credit at the Idaho First National Bank said if the proper time comes "we will."

"Go for the western banks haven't announced any change at this time," Sorensen said. "We will wait until we get more movement — especially in the West Coast banks." Spokesman for the First Security Bank of Idaho did not have any immediate comment on the Morgan Guaranty Trust action.

Price panel head Texan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The dean of the business school at Southern Methodist University, D.R. C. Jackson Grayson, has been chosen by President Nixon to head the price commission that will be part of post-freeze economic controls, it was reported today.

A spokesman at SMU in Dallas said Grayson had accepted the post and had been granted an indefinite leave of absence from the institution to come to Washington for full-time work in the $40,000-a-year job.

LBJ's view

This is the fifth in a series of 12 articles excerpted from "The Vantage Point," by former President Lyndon B. Johnson in which he recalls his five years in the White House. In this installment Johnson offers some views on the 1964 Presidential campaign.

By Lyndon Baines Johnson

In the early months of 1964, whenever I was asked about my intentions to campaign for a full term in the White House, I replied that I had not yet made firm plans.

While I had not ruled out the possibility of running for the Presidency, I was beset with many doubts and reservations about the wisdom of doing so—doubts I had long felt; doubts that were not dispelled by holding the office.

I had decidedly mixed feelings about whether I wanted to seek a four-year term in my own right. On the one hand, I had a zest for the job, some very clear ideas about what should be accomplished, and confidence in my ability to work with the Congress in getting it done. On the other hand, I experienced a reluctance which must be viewed in the perspective of those days.

I had come to the White House in the cruelest way possible, as the result of a murderer's bullet. I had taken my oath of office in a climate of national anguish. I knew clearly enough, in those early months in the White House, that the Presidency of the United States was a prize with a heavy price.

Scathing attacks had begun almost immediately, not only on me but on members of my family. I knew that unfounded rumors, crass speculations, remorseless criticism, and even insult would intensify in a political campaign.

There was, in addition, the constant uncertainty as to whether my health would stand up through a full four-year term.

The strain of work in the Senate had helped to bring on my severe heart attack when I was only forty-six. Now I was nine years older. All these considerations made retirement look exceedingly welcome.

I felt a strong inclination to go back to Texas while there will be time—time to enjoy life with my wife and my daughters, to work in earnest at being a rancher on the land I loved, to slow down, to reflect, to live. I had spent three decades of my life in public service, and I had given the best I had to every position of public trust I ever held, including the Presidency itself for the brief time I occupied it. I believed I could retire in good conscience.

This period was, to be sure, a time of many great achievements. Our efforts to get a solid program through Congress were bearing fruit. The tax bill, the civil rights bill, the farm bill, and the antipoverty bill, were all put on the books during these active and exciting months. But with all the triumphs there were troubles too.

In July, scarcely two weeks after the landmark Civil Rights Act of 1964 was passed, Negro rioters went on the rampage in Harlem and Brooklyn. In the days that followed other black riots broke out in Rochester, New York, and in Jersey City, Elizabeth, and Paterson, New Jersey. And early in August U.S. Navy ships were attacked in the Gulf of Tonkin.

No one could then predict the scope of the problems that the riots or the Tonkin Gulf incident represented, but it was clear, from the viewpoint of the Presidency at least, that both events foreshadowed dark days of trial ahead. I believed that the nation could successfully weather the ordeals it faced only if the people were united.

The burden of national unity rested heaviest on one man, the President. And I did not believe, any more than I ever had, that the nation would unite indefinitely behind any Southerner. One reason the country could not rally behind a Southern President, I was convinced, was that the metropolitan press of the Eastern seaboard would never permit it. My experience in office had confirmed this reaction. I was not thinking

Memories

A man's vision reflects his memories. As I looked out on the nation from the President's Oval Office, my reflections included images burned deep in my mind for over half a century. I remembered my father's concern for the tenant farmer and for the workers' need for collective bargaining.

I remembered my mother's deep faith in the value of education. I remembered the pinched and hopeless look of poverty I saw on the faces of the Mexican-American children I had taught. I remembered the army of jobless and ragged men who rode grimy boxcars across our country during the depression.

These and a hundred other separate recollections of struggle and hope were all part of my heritage. They formed a portion of the background against which I developed the programs I felt America wanted and needed.

—From "The Vantage Point," by Lyndon B. Johnson

The crowds were eager in 1964

Just of the derisive articles about my style, my clothes, my manner, my accent, and my family — although I admit I received enough of that kind of treatment in my first few months as President to last a lifetime.

I was also thinking of a more deep-seated and far-reaching attitude — a disdain for the South that seems to be woven into the fabric of Northern experience.

This is a subject that deserves a more profound exploration than I can give it here — a subject that has never been sufficiently examined. Perhaps it all stems from the deep-rooted bitterness engendered by civil strife over a hundred years ago, for emotional clichés outlast all others and the Southern cliché is perhaps the most emotional of all. Perhaps someday new understanding will cause this bias to disappear from our national life. I hope so, but it is with us still. To my mind, these attitudes represent an automatic reflex, unconscious or deliberate, on the part of opinion molders of the North and East in the press and television.

So throughout the spring and summer months of about the statement — if, how, and when it should be released.

Later that day I received a note from my wife responding to my request for her reaction to the proposed statement I had written out.

In a few words she hit me on two most sensitive and compelling points, telling me that what I planned to do would be wrong for my country and that it would show a lack of courage on my part. The message I read most clearly in her note to me was that my announcement to the 1964 convention that I would not run would be taking the easy way out. I decided finally that afternoon, after reversing my position of the morning and with a reluctance known to very few people, that I would accept my party's nomination.

Throughout this period, because I was keeping all my options open, I had to consider the question of the Vice Presidential candidate. Speculating on the Democratic ticket for 1964, the press was not dogmatic about its choice of the Vice Presidential nominee. Fully a dozen candidates were freely discussed every day.

I told reporters at one news conference that I was gratified to see so much renewed interest in the Vice Presidency and the qualifications of the man who might occupy the office. Only a short time ago, I observed, so many people were asking, "Whatever happened to Lyndon Johnson?"

In the end, I concluded that Hubert Humphrey was the best choice in the light of all the circumstances.

Barry Goldwater and I, both coming from the Southwest, had been friends in the Senate. After I had accepted the Vice Presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket in 1960, I received a letter from Goldwater confessing to a "numb feeling of despair."

He wrote that he found it "incredible to try to understand how you are going to try to embrace the socialist platform of your party . . . You were intended for great things, but I don't think you are going to achieve them now . . ."

I replied that "all of us have to decide for ourselves what represents a 'socialist platform.' . . . It was unlikely that Goldwater and I would ever agree on social issues. Our separate experiences had shaped political philosophies in substantial opposition to each other.

This was the nature of the political difference — Goldwater was entirely correct when he called his candidacy a "choice," not just an "echo" — that the campaign of 1964 offered to the voters of America. Our differences came to light most clearly on the two overriding questions of peace and domestic reform.

Goldwater brought the peace issue into focus early in the campaign with a series of statements implying that he would more than willingly threaten to use, or even use, nuclear weapons to gain American ends. Statements such as "I want to lob one into the men's room of the Kremlin and made sure I hit it" created the image of an impulsive man who shoots from the hip, who talks and acts first and thinks afterward.

From a political point of view, I did not believe that Goldwater's rash statements needed any comment from me. He was clearly isolating himself from the majority of voters. I decided that the most important thing I could do to hold the country together was not to attack political foes but to build programs.

I thought the best answer to Goldwater's repeated suggestions that we consider using "tactical" nuclear weapons on the battlefield was my relentless search for a detente with the Soviet Union and my insistence on restraint in Vietnam.

The debate on domestic issues got off to an equally dramatic start when Goldwater went to Knoxville, Tennessee, the home of TVA, and attacked public power; then he proceeded to the heart of Appalachia and criticized the poverty program; and then he traveled to Florida, the retirement home of millions of Americans, and denigrated Medicare.

I decided early in the campaign to separate the Goldwater challenge from the traditional Republican party. This separation was at the heart of our "frontlash" strategy, an attempt to practice a politics of consensus that would make it as easy as possible for lifelong Republicans to switch their votes in November to the Democratic column.

Suddenly all the old nit-picking arguments that separated our parties had been swept aside. We were now engaged in a colossal debate over the very principles of our system of government. Would we cast aside thirty years of progress and reform and return to the days of Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover, or would we strengthen and build on the programs of Franklin Roosevelt, Harry Truman, and John Kennedy? Goldwater allowed no middle ground, and I accepted that challenge.

The Great Society was described with different words at different times. In substance, I saw it as a program of action to clear up an agenda of social reform almost as old as this century and to begin the urgent work of preparing the agenda for tomorrow.

The program we submitted to the voters during the 1964 campaign would commit the nation to press on with the War on Poverty, to provide greater educational opportunities for all American children, to offer medical care to the elderly, to conserve our water and air and natural resources, and to tackle the country's long-standing housing shortage.

The people responded to that program with an enthusiasm that made its mark on American history. Not only did the voters give the Democratic ticket the most extensive plurality in history but they also sent to the Congress the largest Democratic majority since 1936.

"I was also thinking of a more deep-seated and far-reaching attitude—a disdain for the South that seems to be woven into the fabric of the Northern experience."

"Do run..."

1964, while it was widely and positively and authoritatively assumed that I would be the Democratic nominee, I privately wrestled with grave doubts. There were days, of course, when the road seemed clear and I accepted the inevitability of my running. But there were other days when the outcome of the debate going on in my mind was, to me, exceedingly questionable.

I did not decide, fully and finally, until three o'clock on the afternoon of August 25, the day after the Democratic convention opened in Atlantic City. All the doubts that had been plaguing me for so long came to a head that morning. I knew all too well that time was running out and that an irrevocable decision would soon have to be made. I sat at my desk in the Oval Office and wrote out the following statement on a yellow pad:

"44 months ago I was selected to be the Democratic Vice President. Because I felt I could best serve my country and my party, I left the Majority Leadership of the Senate to seek the Vice Presidential post, believing I could help unify the country and thus better serve it.

"In the time given me, I did my best. On that fateful day last year I accepted the responsibilities of the Presidency, asking God's guidance and the help of all of the people. For nine months I've carried on as effectively as I could.

Our country faces grave dangers. These dangers must be faced and met by a united people under a leader they do not doubt.

After 33 years in political life most men acquire enemies, as ships accumulate barnacles. The times require leadership about which there is no doubt and a voice that men of all parties, sections and color can follow. I have learned after trying very hard that I am not that voice or that leader.

"Therefore, I shall carry forward with your help until the new President is sworn in next January and then go back home as I've wanted to since the day I took this job."

As soon as I had finished writing, I read the statement over the phone to George Reedy, my press secretary. His reaction was swift. Reedy said my decision had come too late and that my refusal to run would "just give the country to Goldwater."

I replied that I would trust the democratic processes under which the country had been operating for two hundred years. I told him I would decide by three o'clock that afternoon

"Goldwater's . . . statements . . . created the image of an impulsive man who shoots from the hip . . ."

TWIN FALLS — The agricultural outlook in Idaho predicts above 1970 production in most crops, with only hay and red clover seed falling below the 1970 figures.

Figures furnished by the United States Department of Agriculture show Idaho farmers topping the 1970 crop in potatoes, dry beans, grain corn and wheat.

No report was issued on the 1971 sugar beet crop which is in its early weeks of harvest.

Idaho potato production in 1971 is forecast at about 1.5 million hundredweight more than in 1970, while nation-wide forecasts list a one per cent reduction.

Idaho's crop is expected to reach 76.155 million hundredweight compared with 74.660 million hundredweight last year. This is just under one third of the national crop forecast of 249.289 million hundredweight in 1971 and 252.774 hundredweight in 1970.

The 10 southwestern counties of the state are expected to yield 10.23 million hundredweight, and increase over last year's 10.2 million hundredweight.

Yield this year also is expected to average about 310 sacks per acre, compared with 300 sacks per acre last year in the 10-county area.

Commercial dry beans are expected to total 1.08 million hundredweight, up slightly from last year's production and 10 per cent higher than 1969.

The Idaho bean crop was about 90 per cent harvested by Oct. 1. Nationally, bean production is at 16.41 million hundredweight, 6 per cent below 1970 and 13 per cent below 1969.

The Idaho corn for grain crop is estimated at 2,952 million bushels, compared with 2.43 million bushels last year. Yield is placed at 82 bushels per acre. Nationally, corn production is at a record high of 5.4 billion bushels, 31 per cent more than in 1970.

The spring wheat crop in Idaho is estimated at 14,822 million bushels, compared to 9,476 million bushels last year and 10,092 in 1969. Total Idaho wheat production (spring and winter) is estimated at more than 50 million bushels, up 18 per cent from 1970. Yield per acre is placed at 52 bushels in 1971, up six bushels per acre over 1970 and four bushels above 1969 yields.

All hay production in the state is estimated at 3,813 million tons, down four per cent from 1970, but up one per cent from 1969. Yield is forecast at 2.65 tons per acre, compared with 2.83 tons in 1970 and 2.81 tons in 1969. In states bordering Idaho, hay production also is below last year in Montana and Oregon, while all others show a higher yield.

The national picture on hay shows an increase this year of about 2.5 per cent over the 1970 and 1969 totals.

Production of red clover seed in Idaho is expected to be about 10 per cent below 1970, in keeping with a national forecast of a 10 per cent reduction in the seed crop. The only other years less of the crop was produced in Idaho were in 1968 and 1969. Growers this year expect to harvest 2.17 million pounds, down from 2.59 million pound total in 1970.

Nationally, wheat production

Grazing district vote set Nov. 8

SHOSHONE — The Bureau of Land Management announces an advisory board election for Idaho Grazing District Number 5, will be held at 1 p.m. Nov. 8 at the Lincoln County Courthouse, Shoshone.

William T. Mubbutt, district manager for the Shoshone office, said terms will expire for cattle representatives, Donald B. Sandy, Shoshone, precinct two, and L. Garth Cook, Carey, precinct three, as well as for Ralph Faulkner, Gooding, precinct one, sheep representative.

A meeting will be held at 1 p.m. on the election date with candidates nominated, judges selected and current matters of interest to those present discussed.

Polls will be open from 2 to 3 p.m., or until all present have voted.

Nominations must be by qualified licensees who are permitted in the same precinct with the same class of livestock as the member whose term is expiring. Voting is on a district-wide basis. Each qualified licensee will be permitted to cast a ballot for a candidate from each precinct who represents the class of livestock in which the voter predominates.

examination for a new state brand inspector to replace James Benham who resigned effective Oct. 15 following four years as inspector.

E. D. Winslow has been named acting brand inspector. The announcement said applicants for the job, which pays between $10,296 and $21,504, would be interviewed by a special board appointed by the Idaho Personnel Commission in Boise Nov. 15.

The top six names will be certified to the Idaho State Brand Board Nov. 16 and the board will then appoint its choice from one of the finalists.

The job is not in the classified service and does not carry civil service status.

HOW MUCH TOO MUCH did you pay out last winter? You won't know for sure until you do something about inadequate insulation. It's a good bet, however, that if your home is in it's teens, you can save up to 1/2 or more on fuel bills by installing famously efficient JOHN'S-MANVILLE Fiberglass, foil-backed insulation.

IT'S NOT REALLY a major project, either... you don't have to tear the walls down or strip off the roof! Call us... give us a few details and we'll give you the facts!

Time For Living

BY ROGERS FRANKLIN

It goes to show how pressure and a little publicity can lead to more power for seniors.

You may recall that earlier this year, Rep. David H. Pryor (D-Ark.) set up two "Government in Exile" trailers to house his unofficial House Committee on the Aging.

Rep. Pryor did this because the House leadership denied him office space for his committee. He staffed the trailers with 12 college volunteers and three older people. Records were piled in old orange crates; furniture was borrowed from local churches.

These unofficial offices — parked conspicuously one block from the Rayburn Office Building — caused a stir and received a lot of publicity. As a result, the House of Representatives assigned its Special Studies Subcommittee on the Committee on Government Operations to "recommend measures that will help our growing population of the aged to find greater comfort and enjoyment in the later years."

Rep. William J. Randall (D-Mo.) is Chairman of the Subcommittee. Others members are Reps. Edward A. Garmatz (D-Md.), Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.), Cornelius E. Gallagher (D-N.J.), George W. Collins (D-Ill.), Belli S. Abzug (D-N.Y.), John W. Wydler (D-N.Y.), Garry Brown (D-Mich.), Barry M. Goldwater, Jr. (R. Calif.), and J. Kenneth Robinson (R-Va.).

The subcommittee's interest, which is limited to efficiency and economy of the federal government, will look into the problems of nursing homes, housing, transportation, and insurance; the efficacy and

DURING tonight showers are forecast for the Pacific northwest, the northern Rockies, the Great Lakes area and for portions of the mid and southern Atlantic states. Clear to partly cloudy elsewhere. (UPI)

Wall Street Chatter

Most Wall Street professionals still insist that because the economy is recovering, stock prices will soar, T.J. Holt & Co., says. What they refuse to recognize, the firm says, is that even if business does improve in 1972, the market still cannot go up as long as private investors remain skeptical. And, the firm says, it is becoming evident the public now regards any prospective economic improvement as nothing more than the temporary result of election-year gimmickry.

Investor malaise to a certain degree stems from concern over the extent to which the structure of our free market economy may be altered in the long run by President Nixon's economic policies, according to Standard & Poor's Corp. For this and a number of other reasons, the market once again is undergoing a critical test, the outcome of which is likely to determine its course over the shorter term, the firm says.

E.F. Hutton still does not feel a large decline is in the cards for the market. But the firm admits, the market did suffer some technical damage in recent sessions and still is not out of the woods. The firm says it believes the 880 level on the Dow Jones Industrial Average will be a key resistance zone for a rebound.

Family criteria for TV choices

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—One of the most influential men in your living room is a man you've never seen and probably never will, but his judgment determines 12 hours of prime time viewing and some 30 movies per year on your video tube.

His name is Sid Sheinberg. His title is President, Universal Television.

Sheinberg is 35 years old. He was born in Corpus Christi, Tex. He is a graduate of Columbia University Law School.

The man is bright, tough and responsible for "Ironside," "Night Gallery," "The Man and the City," "The Bold Ones," "Marcus Welby, M.D.," "Sarge" and a flock of other new series.

What about this man who makes these shows which are watched by uncounted millions? How does he handle his responsibility? "I share the responsibility with the networks and the creative people who work on the shows," Sheinberg said. "I hope viewers will enjoy, learn or be inspired by our shows."

"I'm an idealist about television. Not a cynic. I believe a man has to live with himself before he can live with others."

It may sound like Pollyanna, but Sheinberg is sincere.

How, then, does he measure the value and worth of his television shows and their contents?

"I consider whether my mother would like the shows and if she would be proud that I had something to do with them. You see, I don't live with the millions of viewers, but with my wife and children. That is the criterion."

Sheinberg is an exponent of the "long form" shows—the hour, 90-minute and two-hour formats for series and movies-for-television.

This year his organization produces only a single situation comedy, "Partners," starring Don Adams.

"There is no formula for success in TV programs," he said. "Whatever success Universal has had (compared to other major studios) starts at the top of the company. We've always had the support of Lew Wasserman and other executives."

Tree rhubarb

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI)—A controversy exists over who planted the first Washington sweet orange tree in the state of California. Some say Luther Tibbets planted the tree in March, 1874, but other claim it was his wife, Eliza, who planted it and fed it daily with a dose of dirty dishwasher.

Population up, mercury content down; Pheasants legal Saturday

By STU MURRELL
Regional Conservation
Educator, Idaho Fish and Game Department

southeastern portion of the state has different regulations with a shorter season, ending Nov. 28 and only certain counties have a hen allowed in the daily bag. The daily bag of four cocks is the same at the beginning of the season. Be sure and check your regulations for your favorite area.

The mercury problem appears to be minimal this year so hunters can take their birds without fear of contamination.

One factor appeared to benefit the birds this spring. The wet weather curtailed the usual early cutting of alfalfa in June. Department studies have shown that the peak of the pheasant hatch normally occurs during the peak of the hay cutting thereby causing a higher loss of nest. This year, the pheasants had a chance to bring off more of their broods before the hay cutting.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department is carrying on an active landholder-sportsman program, particularly in the Minidoka area. Enforcement will be increased in problem areas. Personnel will be operating a checking station to contact Utah hunters coming in on the Interstate at the Cotterel Port of Entry on Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. The non-residents will be informed of the problems of landholder-sportsman relations in Idaho and advised to be on their good behavior.

Some of these are littering, blocking roads into fields, driving on crops, shooting near buildings or livestock and most importantly ask permission before hunting. It is hoped the resident hunters will also observe these common sense rules on private property.

Cotterel station was run last year and 680 non-residents checked through the station. Results of several questions asked the Utah hunters showed that 55 per cent of them had friends or relatives they were going to hunt with, 31 per cent were headed for the Burley area, 21 per cent Rupert, Paul 10 per cent, Minidoka 11 per cent, Twin Falls seven per cent and Jerome three per cent. The landowners in these areas felt this effort helped their problems considerably.

Another way the sportsman can help is by joining "Operation Respect." The hunter can purchase an "Operation Respect" patch, available for $1.00 at the Jerome Fish and Game Office; and several representatives of sportsman clubs are selling them in this area.

Two factors are expected to put a great many more hunters into the field this year than last. Hunting pressure was down about 30 per cent in the opening weekend, most of that attributable to the "mercury threat" in Magic Valley birds. But in addition, the non-resident hunting license was increased by $10 to $35 last year and this also contributed to the less-than-usual turnout.

With the mercury thing phased out and the non-residents having a year to get used to the $35 idea, the army of hunters should at least match the 1970 turnout and could easily be more.

Those two things, along with the wet June, also has provided more birds. The winter carry-over was one of the best and by and large nesting was successful. However, biologists were hardly prepared to predict an opening comparable to the banner 1959 season.

T.F. meets Caldwell in statistical dead heat; Minico will test Borah

Twin Falls, its title hopes riding in the balance, enters Caldwell in what is probably the best statistical matchup in the Southern Idaho Conference at 8 p.m. Friday at Bruin Stadium while the Minico Spartans draw the home assignment of trying to stop the once-defeated Borah Lions.

The Bruins, still in contention with a 3-1 record, face a strong Cougar team that Coach Charles Alvaro thought had a chance of winning it all when the season began.

Statistically the teams have run 236 rushing plays each with Twin Falls holding a 1210 to 1140 yard edge. In the air, Caldwell has 688 yards rushing against 682 for Twin Falls. Defensively, Caldwell has slightly the best of it.

Individually, the match up remains good. Charles Grant is the second-leading rusher in the loop with 720 yards while Bob Bodine and Kevin Nelson, Twin Falls, have 554 and 512 respectively. Caldwell's John Morgan has thrown for 681 yards and Bruin Jerry Barbours for 619.

weeks but both have been giving up points, too," he said. "We can't afford to let Caldwell score any cheap touchdowns," says defensive Coach Steve Burrato.

Caldwell likes to go to Grant who has carried the ball 65 times in its last two games, including 44 against Caldwell. "They give you a lot of sets to look at," Coach Thomas reports. "They use the I, the T, slot backs, wide receivers to the same side, split and close in, and have run just about everything but the shotgun."

"I'd say their best play was a power play off tackle with Grant carrying," he continued. "John Morgan is a good passer, particularly when he takes time to set up. They throw a lot of short stuff and like a lot of action in the backfield before passing."

Coach Thomas said most of the Bruins will be back for this one with junior backs Gary Scott and Bill Woodson still limping with leg injuries. Linebacker Dennis Blackwood and guard Steve Cover, who missed last week's game, will be available.

Minico's work is the tougher of the two. The word is that loss to Capital earlier in the year put the buzz back in the Borah football game.

times and particularly in the fourth quarter against Pocatello last week. The reason was moving big (255 pounds) Kelly Fell from tackle to fullback and banging him into the line for short but almost monotonous yardage. Coach Corky Hill is still wanting for his Spartans to come up with an effort similar to the one that earned a win over Nampa. "We showed pretty well at times (against Pocatello), especially in the last half. But we're still running into that two or three minutes let down and the games are getting away from us."

Chicago was winning its second game in three starts.

Bulls spoil Texas opener

WACO, Tex. (UPI)—Bob Love scored 31 points and paced a fourth-quarter rush Wednesday night that led the Chicago Bulls to a 125-110 victory over the Houston Rockets in the first professional basketball game ever played in this Texas city.

The Rockets were still within eight points as the final period began, but the Bulls blitzed Houston in the final 12 minutes to hand the Rockets their fourth straight loss.

Chicago was winning its second game in three starts.

Burley to test Jerome's undefeated, title hopes

The Jerome Tigers put their undefeated boasts and the hopes for one conference title on the line against the once-defeated, once-tied Burley Bobcats Friday night in the feature of Magic Valley football action. But earlier in the day, the undefeated Camas County Panthers will host the Carey Panthers in the Snake River eight-man conference title showdown.

In all 14 games will be played and only Murtaugh is leaving, the Red Devils traveling to Wells, Nev.

But the spotlight returns to Burley where the Bobcats and Tigers will be fighting for the Cross State Conference title. The conference isn't a big one, only four members, but a title is a title. Jerome 1-0 in the Cross State while Burley has a tie, administered by the Buhl Indians early on.

It should be the biggest test for Jerome thus far and perhaps for the season. Coach Ed Peterson's Tigers have run through seven straight wins and they should be physically well for this one. Coach Peterson held out Rich Watson and Dale Boughman from last week's Filer game to give nuisance injuries a chance to heal. He also gave frosh Norm Cochran a test of offense, giving the 200-pound youngster a shot at fullback. He responded with 80 yards and two touchdowns, all in the second half.

Jerome has considerable credentials behind it. Jeff Weigle is averaging seven yards per carry and had 731 for the year. Junior Bill Childers had thrown for 521 yards. Defensively, Jerome is limiting foes to two and one-half yards per rush.

But the Tigers haven't seen the quickness of the Bobcats as yet. Brent Lussen, Larry Bell and Kerry Karlson are all-time threats on each play. But they also will be probably the smallest backfield Burley has played, too.

Camas County battered Carey in their first meeting and is heavily favored in this finale of the regular season. However, Coach Blaine Tingey says "we've got a couple-three things we've been working on that I hope will work against them."

Camas County is in great position as it's "winner or the" for the title. The champ advances next week to an inter-district playoff, meeting the Long Pin Conference champ. Right now that appears to be Council.

In other action, the Gooding Senators will try to stay within a game of Jerome in the South Central Idaho Conference when they entertain the Mountain Home Tigers. Mountain Home gave Buhl fits last week. But Gooding shutout Buhl in probably its best defensive game of the year.

Wendell takes his Big Six hopes to Wood River where the Wolverines are out of the running but still rank a likely spoiler. That one starts at 1 p.m. Buhl moves across the river to play the Valley Vikings. The Indians are big favorites.

Filer, still having trouble finding points, goes to Glenns Ferry which has been tough to score on. Glenns Ferry needs the win to stay in the Big Six "jam" at the top.

In Magic Valley Conference play, the Raft River Trojans travel to Castleford in a battle that will settle second place. Raft River, knocked from the undefeated ranks and out of the title picture by Declo last week, has a one-game edge on the Wolves, and on that tie hinges the second representative into the playoff against the fifth district runner-up.

Onkley brings its throwing game to Hansen where the Huskies have been getting a little better each outing—but still rely a lot on sophomores. Hagerman, seeking its first win, steps out of loop play to host the Shoshone Pirates.

In the only other eight-man game, the Richfield Tigers will entertain the winless Bliss Bears.

ANAHEIM—(UPI)—To the surprise of no one, the California Angels have fired general manager Dick Walsh and seek his replacement Harry Dalton, director of player personnel for the Baltimore Orioles.

If Dalton is lured from the American League champion Orioles, it was indicated he will have a large role in selection of a field manager.

Harold "Lefty" Phillips was fired Oct. 7 after holding the manager's job for almost three full seasons. He replaced Bill Rigney May 27, 1969.

Walsh, 45, has four years remaining on a seven-year contract as general manager and will be paid in full, according to board chairman Gene Awrey and president Bob Reynolds who announced his dismissal.

French ready to boycott

GRENOBLE, France (UPI)—Jean Berninger, France's Olympic alpine ski team manager, said Wednesday his whole squad would drop out of the Winter Olympics if a single member was banned for not being an "amateur."

Beranger's tough stand over the amateur status rule came in the wake of the latest flare-up between Avery Brundage, head of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and the International Ski Federation (FIS).

Brundage has written to the FIS making clear that any skier who does not conform to the IOC's strict rules governing amateur status will not be allowed to take part in the games at Sapporo, Japan, FIS sources said.

Lakers belt Hawks 126-104

ATLANTA (UPI)—Wilt Chamberlain scored 13 of the last 15 of the Los Angeles Lakers' points Wednesday—all but one on dunks—to lead the Lakers to a stunning 126-104 victory over the Atlanta Hawks.

Chamberlain had scored only five points up until four minutes were left in what had been a close game.

Miami sues over slick fake turf

MIAMI (UPI)—Miami Beach attorney Ellis Rubin filed suit in Circuit Court Wednesday to force the manufacturer of Poly-Turf to either repair the Orange Bowl's slippery surface or replace it with real grass.

Rubin, joined in his suit by Mrs. Brownell Harrell, said the Poly-Turf, manufactured by American Biltrite, is in a "poor disintegrating matted down, slippery and worn out condition."

A study of the films of the last two Miami Dolphins football games showed that players slipped 55 times in Sunday's game with the New England Patriots and 50 times two weeks ago against the New York Jets.

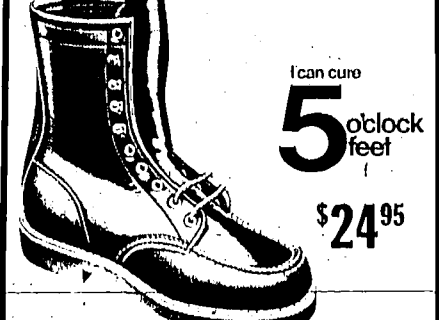

The suit asks that if American Biltrite does not take action, the city be told to stop making its $4,750 monthly payments on the surface.

It said the slippery conditions could cost the Miami Dolphins a chance at a divisional championship and could cost the city the 1973 Super Bowl.

American Biltrite had four representatives in Miami Wednesday, trying to repair the surface and talking with city officials.

Trevino shoots for money Southern Idaho league establishes title in Kaiser tourney system for tie-breaking playoffs

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — Lee Trevino, shooting for the money title, and Billy Casper, trying for his first victory of the year, top a field of 156 chasing a winner's prize of $30,000 Thursday in the Kaiser International Open.

The PGA tour resumes after a two-week layoff because of the baseball playoffs and World Series at Silverado Country Club in the middle of the famous wine-growing Napa Valley.

Rain fell in the valley Wednesday morning, dampening the two courses the pros will use in the $150,000 Kaiser Open but the forecast for Thursday's opening round calls for plenty of sunshine and a temperature reading in the mid-70s.

Trevino, who always plays well in the Kaiser although he has yet to win a title, goes into this year's tourney about $5,000 behind Jack Nicklaus in the chase for the 1971 money winning title.

Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player are the only "name" players missing from the Kaiser field. Player never has competed in a Kaiser tourney while Jack and Arnie have been regulars.

Trevino has been the hottest player on the tour this year, winning three titles within a period of 21 days. But he also has been sidelined because of an appendectomy and has missed quite a few tour stops.

"I'm in good shape, though," Trevino quipped Wednesday while taking part in the pro-am prelude to the Kaiser. "If I don't win another cent this year it's still been a great year. I'd like to win the Kaiser just so that I can say I won it.

Clemente honored at luncheon

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor Peter F. Haherty of Pittsburgh set the tone of the luncheon Wednesday when Roberto Clemente received the automobile for being the most valuable player in the World Series.

"When Roberto looks at himself in the mirror in the morning, he knows he's the greatest player in the game," Haherty said as he spoke at the gathering honoring the Pittsburgh Pirates' veteran rightfielder.

"I used to watch him from the rightfield stands in old Forbes Field but now that I'm the mayor, I get to see him closer. That's one of the best parts of the job. I see in him that fierce pride, that pride in his Puerto Rican heritage and in himself," Haherty continued.

The Pittsburgh mayor was one of several speakers including Pirate owner John Galbreth who heaped praise on the veteran player who has often been overlooked in the past but is now getting his chance in the limelight.

"In 1960, he had a great Series, too, but he didn't get the recognition," Haherty said.

Honestly, the money is incidental, but who can't use more money."

Casper is going the other way. For the first time since he turned pro in 1959 the "quiet man with the smooth putter" hasn't won a single tourney title.

"I can't explain it," Casper said. I simply haven't played well and I don't know what's wrong. Not playing the way I can rather than not winning a title bothers me more. However, I'll plug along and hope things turn around."

Casper has won about $75,000 this year, a long way from the $200,000 he won in 1969 when he joined Palmer as the only golfer in history to top $2 million in earnings.

Ken Still is the Kaiser defending champion and he's back to see if he can make it two in a row. Still won the title last year by curling in a three-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole of the playoff with Trevino and Bert Vancey. The 1969 Kaiser also ended in a playoff with Nicklaus emerging the winner on the second extra hole.

George Archer, fifth on the money winning list, Bobby Lunn and Jerry Heard, all Californians who have played a lot of rounds at Silverado, are considered favorites along with Trevino and Still.

Also in the field are former Kaiser champs Korrat Zarley and Miller Barber. Zarley won the first Kaiser in 1968 and Miller took the second in 1969. That event was called off after three straight days of rain and the playoff was made for 36 holes.

For the first two rounds the big field will go off from both the North and South courses at Silverado.

Snell must decide on his career

NEW YORK (UPI) — Matt Snell knows the time is rapidly approaching when he must make a decision on his future as a professional football player.

The last two years have not been good ones for the 30-year-old fullback of the New York Jets. His magnificent body, which has rushed for 4,285 yards and dealt an infinite number of punishing blocks in seven seasons, has begun to let him down.

Last year Snell missed virtually the entire season with a ruptured Achilles tendon. This year, determined to make a comeback, he was off to a fine start in training camp when he was whacked in the knee by Willie Lanier's helmet during a pre-season game with Kansas City. The injury caused a separation of two bones resulting in shin splints and an inflammation of the knee joint.

It was at first thought Snell would miss only three weeks, or four at the most, but it has now been seven and he has yet to play a regular season game.

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Sports Editor
RUPERT — Principals of 12 Southern Idaho Conference schools set up machinery for selecting this year's league representative for a post-season playoff game in Hawaii.

The principals, meeting at Minico high school Wednesday, established four guidelines to be used in event of a playoff. Each must be considered under two criteria: (1) such playoffs would establish a representative to the Hawaii affair, not a league champion and (2) all situations must be considered in terms of total conference record, not divisional standings.

at conclusion of the regular season, that team will be the representative.

2. In cases of ties within divisions, the playoff participant would be determined on basis of the winner of the mutual game played between the two during the regular season. If more than two teams are tied in a division and the cannot be resolved by the guidelines or in a one-game playoff, there will be no playoff.

3. If the conference co-leaders are from the same division, they shall be called co-champions but a one-game playoff could be allowed for the purpose of selecting the Hawaii representative.

4. In the event of a tie score in a playoff game, the representative will be decided on basis of total yardage.

The principals placed heavy emphasis on the representative and noted this was a situation peculiar only to this year.

The guidelines as applicable to the SIC-Hawaii situation appear workable with the exception of possibilities associated with the second one.

However, the one thing most dominant in the principals' decision was a consistent return to "one-game playoff." The refrain clearly indicates that under no circumstances would the SIC allow two or more hit going further, it raised the fear first expressed last year that the conference would provide no leadership in helping set up state football playoffs. In fact, by more than innuendo, the principals have indicated that the expected inter-division championship game at year's end would not be an annual thing.

It seemed the majority opinion that a "championship playoff" would be allowed only if a clear cut champion hadn't been established by year's end. The principals largely agreed that if the co-leaders' overall were from the same division, they would be called co-champions. If the leaders of the two divisions had met and had anything but a tie during the regular season, this also would preclude the post-game playoff although the two teams would be called co-champions.

tricks and it was up to Hamlet to make three discards. It was also up to him to plan the defense in case there might be one and he instantly noted that his seven of clubs might be a key card. He decided that he could spare two clubs but could spare to keep that seven over dummy's six. His other discard was a spade. Goldenstern cashed the three top spades and Ophelia was in mild trouble. She finally discarded the nine of clubs to hold protection for her jack of diamonds. Now Hamlet could count the ace, king and queen of clubs was going to be good for the setting trick.

There was nothing Goldenstern could do. Ophelia had a sure diamond stopper. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

NOTE THIS, please. In his Last Will and Testament, a well-to-do Texan set aside a sizable sum of money with odd instructions to his attorney. "Use this bequest," he decreed, "to sue my doctor for malpractice." He reportedly submitted a copy of this particular paragraph to his physician. And that professional gentleman, it's said, now goes on doing his excellent best to keep the old boy alive and well in Dallas. No, I didn't make this up. The aforementioned attorney swears it's true.

A HUNTER of wild game contends the only big cat alive that cannot be lured into a trap is the cheetah... THAT WIDESPREAD belief that plaid cloth was created by the Scots is erroneous. Egyptians originated plaid... SORRY! STILL can't track down any one-syllable word longer than "straight" or "strength"... HEIT'S a pedantic fellow who insists it's the colicky baby who's most apt to turn into a clever competitive character... LATEST SURVEYS among coeds turns up one out of every five who says she still would refuse to date a boy with a beard.

EVER NOTICE the most beautiful women oftentimes have voices like the tearing of tin. It's that way with birds, too. Peacocks scream, macaws screech, birds of paradise blurt out only four nasty tones, and the gorgeous Quetzal bird sounds as though it just stepped on a nail.

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "How many wives in this country earn more money than their husbands?" A. "Couple million..." Q. "WHERE DOES the morning sun first fall upon the United States?" A. "Top Mt. Cadillac in Maine, Acadia National Park..." Q. "HOW LONG would it take to count a million $1 bills?" A. "At one second in eight-hour shifts in a five-day workweek, you can figure almost seven weeks."

A UNIVERSITY SCHOLAR with nothing better to do says he has kept a rough record over the last four years of the physical types in his various classes. In the really tough technical courses, he claims, there's always a preponderance of tall, skinny bony men. But in the easy uncomplicated studies, he says, the great majority are short and stocky. He says he can't explain why. Neither can I.

HOW MANY YARDS is a cow's moo? Hold on, no whimsy intended. Distance in some parts of India for hundreds may thousands of years was measured by how far the citizenry there could hear the moo of a cow. So that became in the languages a unit of linear measure. Somebody might say, the rajah's palace is only five cow's moos up the river, or whatever.

Egypt ready for big war

By United Press International
 Egyptian Vice President Hussein Shafiq said Wednesday that 800,000 Egyptian troops stand ready to embark on a "battle of destiny" by the end of the year to liberate Arab territories occupied by Israel.

"I cannot disclose our military plans, but I can say that Egypt is today fundamentally different from Egypt of 1967," Shafiq said in an interview published by the Tehran newspaper Keyhan. "Israel was a clear winner in the 1967 war. Our military budget has increased five-fold and our anti-aircraft defense system makes sure that the Nile Delta can no longer be attacked by the enemy with impunity," he said.

Shafiq's remarks echoed repeated statements by President Anwar Sadat that 1971 is the "decisive year" when the Middle East conflict will be settled by peace or war.

Meanwhile, Israel sat tight today waiting for the next U.S. move in Washington's attempt to break the negotiating impasse on achieving a partial Middle East settlement.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban returned to Israel Wednesday from talks in New York with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who has proposed a six-point "interim settlement" plan centered around the reopening of the Suez Canal.

"I understand from Mr. Rogers that after the talks at the ministerial level in New York, the United States government would let us know how it intends to proceed in this matter," Eban told newsmen at Lod International Airport.

Critical

SEN. HENRY M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Wednesday at news conference in Washington D. C. that Democrats will gain if party dissidents quit to form their own third party. Jackson said that when they leave "they will only take away half a vote." (UPI)

Prayer amendment foes encouraged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Opponents of a proposed constitutional amendment to put prayer back in the schools, beaten on their first test in the House and for a time about to surrender, now believe they have a fair chance to beat it.

"We are encouraged," said Rep. Fred Schwengel, R-Iowa, a devout Baptist who joins many of his denomination's top leaders in opposing the amendment. "People are beginning to have second thoughts. I can see now 100 votes against the amendment. We want 150."

After a long campaign by pro-prayer forces, 218 members — a majority of the House membership—recently signed a petition discharging the amendment from the Judiciary Committee and forcing it to the floor of the House. It comes up for a vote Nov. 8.

The amendment, sponsored by Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, is designed to upset Supreme Court rulings banning organized prayer in public school as a violation of the First Amendment's guarantee of religious freedom.

The amendment would read: "Nothing contained in this constitution shall abridge the right of persons lawfully assembled in any public building which is supported in whole or in part by the expenditure of public funds, to participate in nondenominational prayer."

Wylie conceded the opposition is mounting but told a reporter, "I'm still optimistic." In reference to recent statements by some top church officials opposing the amendment, Wylie said, "Some of the ministers are giving me a little bit of a problem."

Although only a majority of the House was required to get the amendment onto the floor, a two-thirds vote is needed to pass it. With all 430 sitting house members present, 144 "nay" votes would block its passage.

Red office target

NEW YORK (UPI)—Four shots were fired through a window of the Soviet Mission to the United Nations Wednesday night. The bullets slammed into the wall of a room where four children reportedly were sleeping.

Police said the shots were fired from a 14th floor parapet at Hunter College, 700 feet from the 11th floor window at the mission building on East 67th Street. They recovered a high-powered rifle from a 15th floor apartment in the college building. Four spent shells were found on the parapet and a black cello case also was found in the college building. Police said the cello case apparently had been used to smuggle the rifle into the building, where a music class was in progress at the time the shots were fired.

About five hours after the shooting, an anonymous caller who sounded like a young man recited a four-line "poem" to UPI over the telephone. The first two lines were:

"Four shots were fired, More could have been done." The third line sounded like, "Free Soviet Zionists," and the fourth line was, "And never again."

Soviets testing killer satellites

LONDON (UPI)—Soviet scientists for more than three years have been testing an earth satellite which stalks other spacecraft and destroys them. "Jane's All the World's Aircraft" said today.

In its latest edition, the authoritative manual on world aircraft listed a series of launchings of Soviet spacecraft and satellites, calling some of the flights "orbital intercept tests."

John W.R. Taylor, Jane's editor, said early launches in the interceptor program included Cosmos 240 and 252 in mid-1968.

He said other interceptors were Cosmos 374 and 375. Cosmos 397, launched Feb. 25 this year, passed near Cosmos 394 launched 10 days earlier and "was subsequently destroyed," Taylor said.

Cosmos 400, launched March 19, was "intercepted" by Cosmos 404 on April 3, the day it was launched, the editor said.

Taylor also said the Soviets used Cosmos designations for military "spy in the sky" reconnaissance satellites and test vehicles for their Fractional Orbital Bombardment System (FOBS), orbiting nuclear bombs which could be sent plunging earthward.

A16 passes test

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Apollo 16's astronauts put their command ship through a successful test Wednesday in an airless chamber simulating the vacuum of space.

John W. Young, Thomas K. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke spent 7½ hours in the command module's first manned test in the large stainless steel chamber. A space agency spokesman said the test was completed without difficulty.

Apollo 16 is scheduled for launch to the moon-March 17 and the lunar module that will ferry Young and Duke to the moon's surface passed two tests in another vacuum chamber last week. The command ship will be tested once more this week.
