UN admits Chinese Reds, ousts Chiang's Formosa

At stake . . .

'China's seat'

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The United Nations voted overwhelmingly Monday night to send Communist China and expel the Nationalists, a move that dealt the United States its worst diplomatic defeat in the 25-year history of the U.N.

nese officials repeated their demands for a world summit conference to discuss disarmament.

The decision stunned Taipei. The government had expected the move but the people were surprised and their first thoughts were of survival of the island nation coveted by the mainland Chinese as a province of China. Some expressed fear of an eventual Communist takeover.

denunciations of "U.S. aggression." Throughout Europe the reaction was about the same—that Peking had at last gained its "rightful place" in the United Nations, the same reaction that came from the Soviet news agency Tass. And there was a general belief that world politics would change and change drastically with China representing 700 million persons. But how, only the future could tell.

Ahmed Salim, wearing a black tunic buttoned to the throat, leaped to his feet and did a victory dance. Across the hall, U.S. Ambassador George Bush sat glumly, the United States' 21-year fight to prevent the seating of Red China at an end.

Beaming . . .

Russia's Malik

. . . and a glare

America's Bush

There were no Nationalist government statements. Taipei was content to rest on the farewell statement of Foreign Minister Chow Shu-kuai who dramatically led the Nationalists out of the assembly before the crushing 76 to 35 vote, with 17 abstentions.

He said the world body which Nationalist China helped found in 1945 had become "a circus." Then he staged a walkout of such dignity that the assembly gave him a spontaneous ovation.

While the United Nations was voting, Communists in Peking were celebrating the 21st anniversary of the entry of more than one million Chinese "volunteers" into North Korea to battle troops of the United Nations command. There was no mention of the United Nations at the banquet given by the North Koreans but only

In the end, it was a group of undecided nations which brought the American diplomatic defeat. Fifteen of them abstained on the vote by which the United States sought to have the expulsion of Nationalist China declared an "important question" which would require a two-thirds vote. That vote lost 55 to 59 and the seating of mainland China became a certainty. Among those abstaining were such allies as Italy, the Netherlands, Laos, Turkey . . .

Kissinger back from China talk

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger returned to the United States today after a six-day visit to the People's Republic of China.

Kissinger landed here for a brief refueling stop en route to Washington, D.C.

The 707 jetliner carrying the Kissinger party took off for Washington at 9:05 a.m. EDT.

Kissinger landed at Elmendorf Air Force Base from Peking where he made arrangements for President Nixon's forthcoming visit to Red China.

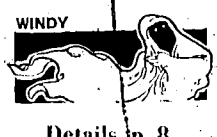

Kissinger, Nixon's national security affairs adviser, was to arrive at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., tonight.

An announcement of the date of Nixon's journey to Communist China was expected soon after Kissinger reported to the President.

Kissinger's plane landed at 8:30 a.m. EDT. He did not leave the plane and no details were given concerning the talks between him and Premier Chou En-lai.

Cuban premier Fidel Castro planned a big welcome for Kosygin's second visit.

A Radio Havana broadcast monitored in Miami said a "mass mobilization" of workers was underway to receive Kosygin, and Castro personally invited a group of peasants from the Sierra Maestra Mountains to join the welcome. Details of Kosygin's stay were not announced.

Key solons ask UN cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Mike Mansfield and Hugh Scott, the Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate, joined today in calling for a cut in U.S. contributions to the United Nations. But both contended expulsion of Taiwan was not the reason.

Some other senators served notice that they would attempt to push through legislation to reduce the American payments to the U.N. because of Monday's ouster of the Nationalist Chinese government.

Mansfield and Scott said they were deeply disappointed by the vote.

Mansfield said, "I have felt for a long time that we were contributing entirely too much to the United Nations. If I did vote to reduce contributions, it would not be on the basis of the action taken by the U.N. last night."

Scott said his support for less U.S. aid to the U.N. also was a long-held position. But he criticized some U.N. members that he did not name for accepting generous U.S. help and then voting against the American effort to keep Taiwan.

He called the action "a classic lack of appreciation."

"This is a very unfortunate thing," Scott told reporters. "I grieve for the damage the U.N. has done itself."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said the vote "ended whatever small usefulness (the U.N.) ever had in the cause of world peace and became an instrument of and a sounding board for international communism."

Voters decide issues

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS—Voters began going to the polls at 8 a.m. today in Twin Falls and Gooding counties and at noon elsewhere in Magic Valley to decide on the question of a regional airport authority.

Because Twin Falls and Gooding counties are also voting on the question of wine sales in retail grocery stores, polls opened at 8 a.m.

Both reported early-morning voting relatively light.

In all eight counties the polls remain open until 8 p.m. Since registration is not required for the airport question, most counties have had no heavy pre-election registration.

In Twin Falls County a number of new registrations—many of them from new voters in the 18 to 21 year old bracket—have registered and an estimated 22,000 persons are on the registration books.

Creation of an eight-county regional airport authority to make preliminary plans for establishing a regional airport north of Snake River in Jerome County has been heavily debated prior to the election while wine sales have brought out little interest.

Other counties voting from noon to 8 p.m. today on the airport question are Blaine, Lincoln, Jerome, Minidoka, Cassia and Camas.

In Twin Falls County voting machines are being used on the two questions with results expected to be available shortly after the polls close at 8 p.m.

Other counties will count ballots which officials say may delay the vote results from those areas. With a simple "yes" and "no" vote to be counted, returns are expected to be available a short time after polls close.

Opposition to the regional airport authority has been voiced by Twin Falls city and county officials who favor continued use of the Twin Falls City and County Airport because of recent investments to upgrade the facility.

Those supporting the facility include a number of individual businessmen, the South Idaho Chamber of Commerce and the Interim Regional Airport Board headed by George Forschler, Burley.

On record opposing the issue are the Gooding Tax Equality Assn., the Twin Falls County Farm Bureau and county and city officials in Twin Falls.

City manager Jean Milar, Twin Falls, has stated by Jan. 1, 1973, the airport in Twin Falls will be able to handle seven times the present freight and passenger load it now meets. He and other city officials say the area has a regional airport in the Twin Falls City-County facility and to abandon it for a new site north of the city would be to throw away a vast expenditure of the Twin Falls taxpayers.

Those supporting the regional facility argue the cost in the long run would be shared by taxpayers of eight counties which would provide a base sufficient to meet expanding needs. They also say the present Twin Falls facility does not have the ability to expand as regional airport needs grow and it cannot meet the needs of future air travel in the eight county area. They say the approval of a regional airport authority at this time is the first step toward long range preparation for construction of the air transportation center which can adequately service air carrier needs.

US businessmen think Chinese trade nearing

NEW YORK (UPI)—Many American businessmen foresee profitable trade with Mainland China within five years but the prestigious Stanford Research Institute says that's highly unlikely.

The Gallagher Presidents' Report queried 150 prominent companies on the subject. It found that 66.6 per cent of them believe trade with Peking will be feasible in five years, 87.5 per cent of the company presidents favor trade with Mainland China and 83.8 per cent think President Nixon's upcoming trip to Peking will start things moving.

nothing to sell us, she hasn't enough money to buy Western manufactured products and the United States and Europe cannot compete with Japan, which has replaced the Soviet Union as China's chief industrial and consumer goods supplier.

But the Stanford economists say Mainland China has little or

All China really wants to buy from the United States is wheat and fertilizer and some advanced technological equipment, the Stanford researchers say.

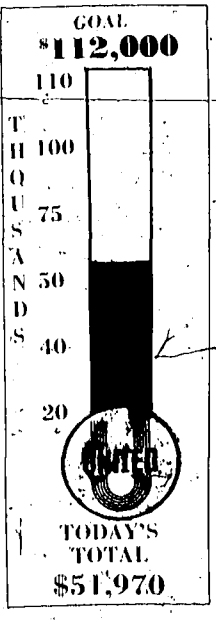

Canada and Australia already have a big jump on the United States in selling wheat to China.

Mainland China's trade with the United States amounted to less than $4 million in 1970. In addition, an undetermined amount of American goods arrived in China from third countries. China's total foreign trade runs well below $5 billion a year with exports narrowly exceeding imports.

China's principal exports are rice, fruits, vegetables, oilseeds, oil nuts, silk, shoes, textiles and some cheap manufactured goods. The United States is not deficient in any of those.

The Stanford researchers say those Western nations that have recognized Peking have found negotiating trade agreements with China tedious and frustrating.

No shellings were reported at the eastern border areas Monday, but India's border security police said Pakistanis fired small arms during the day from the East Pakistan side at the Karimganj border subdivision of India's Assam state.

U.N. Secretary General Thant immediately sent a cablegram to Peking informing the Chinese government it officially was a member of the world body. There was no immediate reaction from China, whose population is estimated at 730 million, but speculation in the United Nations was that Huang Hua, a topflight diplomat assigned to Ottawa by the Peking government earlier this year, might come from Canada to take over the China seat.

The decision was foreshadowed an hour earlier when the General Assembly defeated, 59 to 65 with 15 abstentions, the U.S. resolution requiring a two-thirds vote to expel the Nationalists. It was a last-ditch American effort to save a seat for 14 million Nationalist Chinese governed by Chiang Kai-shek, while admitting there would be no stopping the Communist Chinese from becoming a U.N. member.

When that failed, there was a stampede to the Communist side and the final 76-35 vote.

UPI Foreign News Analyst Phil Newsum writes "It was the worst defeat ever suffered by the United States in the world organization it once dominated. It will upset the power pattern of the United Nations. It will set in motion events among nations, especially among China's neighbors, which will be difficult if not impossible to stop.

It was a low point for U.S. influence in the United Nations where its dominance had been waning for more than 10 years as the balance of voting power swung to the newly-independent and underdeveloped nations."

Bush told a news conference "I hope the U.N. will not relive this moment of infamy. It's not a good thing to kick somebody out. My heavens, anybody with a heart in his chest who saw these decent people thrown out of the U.N. couldn't help but be affected."

He said he did not believe the outcome would affect President Nixon's planned visit to Peking, or that presidential adviser Henry Kissinger's visit to the Chinese capital had any effect in the outcome.

In Washington, administration officials had no immediate comment on the U.N. vote. Privately, however, American officials have said that Nationalist China's membership in the United Nations, while important, was less vital to the Taiwan government than its security agreement with the United States signed in 1955.

This carries the U.S. pledge that if Taiwan is subject to an unprovoked attack, the United States will assist.

And the administration feels that the admittance of Peking injects a greater reality into the composition of the world body, by bringing in a growing nuclear power with the largest population on Earth—730 million persons.

After leading his delegation from the Assembly Hall, the Nationalist Chinese foreign minister said he did not believe the action would lead Peking to use force against Taiwan.

"We are not fighting our own people," Chow said. "We are fighting a small percentage of fanatics. There is no possibility of reconciliation as long as such an un-Chinese regime is in power."

"This organization which we helped found is now a circus." The night's sole U.S. victory came shortly after the series of votes began. After the Assembly rejected a Saudi Arabian move to postpone balloting until today.

Abstentions (17): Argentina, Bahrain, Barbados, Colombia, Cyprus, Fiji, Greece, Indonesia, Jamaica, Jordan, Lebanon, Luxembourg, Mauritius, Panama, Qatar, Spain and Thailand.

Court backs Michigan bus order

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court refused today to disturb a massive school busing order in troubled Pontiac, Mich., where white and black parents and their children have clashed over desegregation and the Ku Klux Klan was linked to bus bombings.

In a brief order without comment, the court refused to review a Feb. 17, 1970, ruling of U.S. District Judge Damon J. Keith, which later was upheld by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Although there was no formal segregation policy in the auto-making city, Keith ordered half its 25,000 children bused. He held that the school board "intentionally utilized" its power to perpetuate existing segregation created by housing patterns.

Heretofore, desegregation considered by the high court has been "de jure"—that is, imposed by law.

The other kind is "de facto"—brought about by housing patterns that create all-black schools in ghettos like New York City's Harlem. The court has passed up chances to examine it over several years in cases from Gary, Ind., Cincinnati and Kansas City.

The upshot of these and lower federal court actions is to allow school boards to overcome de facto segregation if they wish but not to force them to do so.

In the Pontiac case, blacks argued that the situation there was "de jure"—an outgrowth of official action. The school board argued it was "de facto"—merely a result of population movements that authorities were trying to counteract.

The 6th Circuit relied on one of its own opinions in a Cincinnati case in coming down on the side of the complainants. The opinion said, "bare statistical imbalance alone is not forbidden—there must also be present a quantum of official discrimination in order to invoke the protection of the 14th amendment."

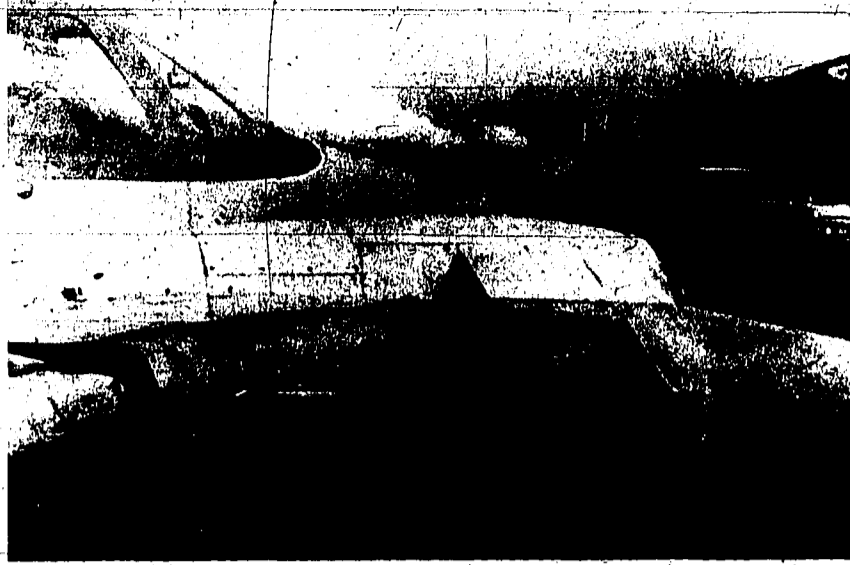

The circuit court agreed with Judge Keith that the Pontiac board of education did a great deal to bring about segregation there and "is now responsible to take action to eliminate the very situation which it caused."

Keith said the Pontiac board "intentionally utilized the power at their disposal to locate new schools and arrange boundaries in such a way as to perpetuate the pattern of segregation within the city ..."

Thus, he said, the board "deliberately, in contradiction of their announced policies of achieving a racial mixture in the schools, prevented integration."

He added, "sins of omission can be as serious as sins of commission."

On Aug. 30, 1971, 10 of the city's 57 buses were destroyed in a fire-bombing. Ten days later, FBI agents arrested six men, including two linked to the Michigan Ku Klux Klan, on federal charges of conspiring to bomb the buses and to violate the 1968 Civil Rights Act.

Tight canning control asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Industry asked the government Monday to impose tighter federal controls on food canneries to prevent a recurrence of last summer's discovery of deadly botulism in canned soup.

Both Dr. Ira I. Somers, research director of the National Canners Association (NCA), and Sam D. Fine, associate commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), said they could recall no previous instances of food processors seeking stricter federal regulation of their own plants.

"We just don't think the canning industry can tolerate any more bad publicity," Somers said in an interview. "From a statistical standpoint our record is good but we want to tighten every screw we can."

The proposed rules also would empower the FDA to bar a suspect canner from shipping food. Somers said the FDA could adopt the regulations under provisions of the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act never before used.

Fanfare marks park opening

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—The world's most extravagant amusement park was dedicated officially with a burst of fanfare Monday and the words of comedian Bob Hope who said, "Ralph Nader would like it."

A 1,076-piece marching band led by "Music Man" Meredith Willson surged into the plastic-trimmed streets of Walt Disney World to the applause of television stars, industrial big shots and thousands of casually clad vacationers.

"How do you write about something like this?" asked newscaster David Brinkley who was among the bystanders.

And Hope, filming a monologue for an NBC special to be aired Oct. 29, said, "Just think—this all started with a gentle mouse, a bad tempered duck and seven mixed up dwarfs."

"For anything man made," he added, "Ralph Nader would like it."

TF cycle rider hurt in collision

TWIN FALLS — An 18-year-old motorcyclist was injured Monday afternoon when his vehicle collided with a car on Kimberly Road.

Twin Falls Police said Steven Lon Rousseau, Twin Falls, was traveling east in the 1800 block of Kimberly Road when the accident occurred about 2:15 p.m.

Officers said the cycle ridden by Rousseau collided with a car driven by Ona E. Yost, 53, Eden. The Yost vehicle, which was traveling west prior to the accident, was attempting to make a left hand turn when the accident occurred.

Rousseau was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

Officers said issuance of a citation is pending.

Prison Reform

In the aftermath of the bloody events at San Quentin and Attica, an experiment conducted at Stanford University last August is said to offer some kind of new insight into the brutalizing effects of prison...

In the experiment, devised by psychology professor Philip Zimbardo with the help of an inmate, 21 healthy, normal and average students volunteered to spend two weeks in a mock prison set up in the basement of the psychology building...

The "prisoners" were "arrested" unexpectedly at their homes, handcuffed and taken blindfolded to the "prison," where they were stripped, deloused and subjected from then on to a number of petty cruelties and indignities...

On the sixth day, as one after another of the "prisoners" began having hysterics, the experiment was called off.

"If we were able to demonstrate that pathological behavior could be produced in so short a time, think what damage is being done in 'real' prisons like Attica and San Quentin," says Zimbardo.

But does this experiment really tell us anything new about "real" prisons?

Anyone who remembers the hazing that fraternity pledges used to have to go through should not be surprised to learn that even nice guys can turn into little tyrants when they are given the opportunity...

inhumanity do exist in prison, and as long as they do we cannot claim to have a truly civilized society. But it is not this so much as it is the simple fact of being in prison with little real hope for the future...

The prison camps of World War II and Korea were not exactly vacation spas. Yet there is no indication that any significant number out of the thousands of men who spent years in them were turned into hardened criminals.

Is it customary for real prison guards to wear sunglasses that hide their eyes? Are real prisoners brought in blindfolded and rousted from their beds every night at 2:30 a.m., as the mock prisoners were?

Perhaps not. And perhaps worse things happen in real prisons. But what the Stanford experiment ultimately founders on is the fact that the students who took part in it were not criminals. They were guilty of no crimes; they had not been sentenced by any court.

This is not to say that men who are guilty of crimes and who are legally sentenced by courts are fair game for any kind of treatment which society, in the form of aging prisons and underpaid, undereducated guards, cares to mete out to them.

In both cases, we already know what causes the disease. What we need to do is to cure it.

Great Wall Or Moon?

It used to be said that the only work of man that would be visible from the moon with the naked eye would be the great wall of China.

So far no Apollo astronauts have reported any such sighting. Possibly they have been too busy for such earth-gazing, or possible cloud or shadow conditions on earth have never been favorable.

In any event, it is still cheaper and more convenient to see it the conventional tourist way, which President Nixon will undoubtedly do when he is in Peking. A section of the wall is near that city.

There is, of course, no connection between the Apollo program and the President's decision to go to Peking. But it is strange to realize that in the seventh decade of the 20th Century, at least until recently, more Americans have been to the moon than to China.

A BIG HEART

Scores of residents of Twin Falls recently proved they had big hearts when they offered food and lodging to members of the Up With People cast performing here on two successive nights.

The citizens who offered a place to stay and to eat to these fine young people are to be complimented. It means they housed the boys and girls for three nights, drove them around here and there, fed them and generally played "parents" to them.

The boys and girls appreciated it. We at the Times-News and also the Associated Students of the College of Southern Idaho appreciated it. So for everyone involved we all say a great, big "thank you."

We want a nice home for two puppies. They are five weeks old, cute but we are not sure just what kind they are. They will be small dogs and both are females. Call 733-9023 or 733-5344.

SUGGESTION

Talked with S. Claud Stewart the other day. He's a resident out at Heritage Manor in the northwestern part of town. He has a complaint. There is no place out that way to mail packages, buy stamps, get money orders or do other things such as would be available in a branch postoffice. He says there is a branch office in Lynwood. Why not one out in the section of town where many old folks now live? Mr. Spectator wonders why it is not possible at some store in that area?

ECONOMIC PROPS

BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — We hear much — and properly so — about the injustices done to some people by our system in the course of criminal law enforcement, trial and imprisonment.

Thousands upon thousands of perpetrators of serious crimes are roaming the streets and bypaths of this country either uncaught or free of real penalty.

With crime at staggering heights, the government's figures show that in 1970 arrests were made for only 20 per cent of the nation's serious offenses. Four out of five perpetrators were not even apprehended, let alone tried and convicted.

Obviously, not all of those persons arrested for such crimes (murder, rape, aggravated assault, robbery, burglary, larceny, automobile theft) are convicted — or even formally indicted.

Of those who were so indicted in 1970, however, just 11.4 per cent drew convictions of any sort (in some cases, the charge is reduced, or the accused is referred to juvenile court).

As for the 11.3 per cent, no more than half saw the inside of a jail after conviction. The other 50 per cent were given probation.

Scot-Free

general category were ever apprehended. These available figures for serious crimes do not tell all of the story. Every respected study of U. S. crime has concluded there is a substantial amount of totally unreported serious crime.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Don't be misled by talk of "voluntary" cooperation in President Nixon's Phase II on price and wage controls.

The program, as Nixon insiders see it, will be about as voluntary as the income tax. The rules will be quite firm, not vague as erroneously implied in some news reports.

By one body or another, this over-all standard will be translated into wage and price gain average limits. These limits are expected to be calculated industry by industry according to that industry's effects on the economy.

Industry is compared with the rest of business and industry in its past and currently proposed price and wage increases, and by that particular industry's need to attract capital, skilled labor and professionals in order that it flourish, hold steady or decline in the national interest.

burdened police forces, a system of priorities is inevitable. When a rash of murders occurs, investigation of less-serious crime falls off. Worse still, the total load of police work today is so enormous that smaller robberies and a whole host of minor offenses get almost no attention at all.

out for the relationships between wage and price increases. For obviously a company whose workers win approval of a major wage increase, or whose suppliers are granted price increases, is under the strongest sort of pressure to increase its own prices.

These computer calculated maximums for wage and price increase averages set very precise upper limits. These upper limits (or levels) in turn will directly affect each wage and price increase.

As for how the system will operate, major concerns and unions must submit projected price and wage boosts to the boards in advance for approval.

The great middle ground of industry and labor must report all increases, but need not seek prior approval. The bulk of smaller firms will not report but will be subject to spot checks. Now this "voluntary compliance" accompanied by spot checks is a system familiar to every man and woman who fills out federal income tax forms.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Ah! A Worm

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 10, found a worm at least 10 inches long in her stool. When I finally talked to a doctor, it sounded as if he felt it a very common affair; he didn't wish to see her and prescribed medication by phone.

The worm (and eggs) can be present in the intestine for quite some time before a portion of the worm itself is expelled. When I say "a portion of the worm," I mean it, because other portions can remain and grow. (Or there may be eggs, which will grow into worms.)

As your pharmacist suggested, another treatment may be necessary; final clue to success would be checks at weekly intervals to see whether any ova, or eggs, are still found in the stool.

RAY CROMLEY

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Have women had children after having a mastectomy? I am referring to the patient who did not require cobalt treatments. Are there any risks involved in getting pregnant after this operation? — Mrs. J.E.

I presume you mean mastectomy (removal of a breast) that was necessitated because of cancer. Yes, women have become pregnant after mastectomy, with no undue risks.

That is, with no qualification: there is no undue risk if the cancer has been successfully removed. But in instances in which the surgery did not succeed, and there is still an active cancer, then the hormone changes involved in pregnancy could accelerate the rate of growth of the cancer.

Where do they get these worms? Maybe from getting worm eggs in undercooked meat. Maybe from other foods contaminated with the eggs. Or getting eggs in the mouth via dirty hands. One variety of worm can be acquired from a pet cat or dog. If you have such a pet, have it checked by a veterinarian.

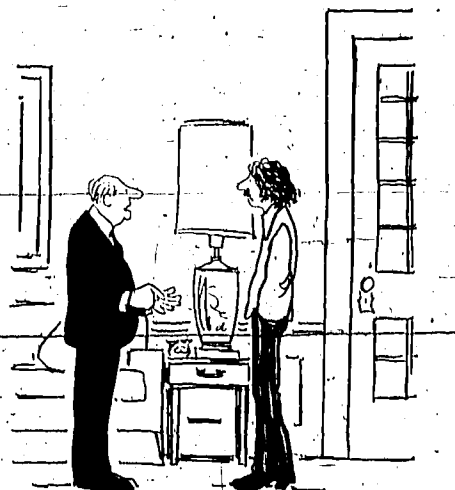

Youngsters can harbor such worms (well, adults can, too) without much in the way of symptoms; maybe abdominal discomfort, ranging from mild to colicky; may be an increase in appetite; no significant change in bowel pattern. You want to get rid of the critters, of course, but no permanent damage done.

These computer calculated maximums for wage and price increase averages set very precise upper limits. These upper limits (or levels) in turn will directly affect each wage and price increase. Because if some increases are allowed above the average as calculated in this fashion, then other increases must be held below that average.

As for how the system will operate, major concerns and unions must submit projected price and wage boosts to the boards in advance for approval.

The great middle ground of industry and labor must report all increases, but need not seek prior approval. The bulk of smaller firms will not report but will be subject to spot checks. Now this "voluntary compliance" accompanied by spot checks is a system familiar to every man and woman who fills out federal income tax forms.

Workers set most fires

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Most people who start forest fires live in small towns, don't have much money and almost half of them "earn their living" where the danger of forest fire is highest — working for private firms on U.S. Forest Service land.

Sociologists John R. Christiansen of Brigham Young University and William S. Folkman of the U.S. Forest Service came up with this cross-section in a study of 165 fire reports filed by forest rangers.

"Contrary to popular opinion, fire-starters are not usually city-raised and city-dwelling people," Christiansen said. "Rather, they usually reside in relatively small towns averaging, in this study, 4,200 people. Only 12 per cent of the fire-starters came from cities having populations of 100,000 or more."

Christiansen and Folkman followed up reports about fire-starters in Utah's Utah County and Butte County in California. They found that 48 per cent of the persons determined to be responsible for the conflagrations that char thousands of acres a year were working at their jobs when they set off the fires.

"Only 23 per cent of the loggers were in the forest for recreational purposes, while the next largest group was made up of property owners who were usually burning garbage or refuse," Christiansen said.

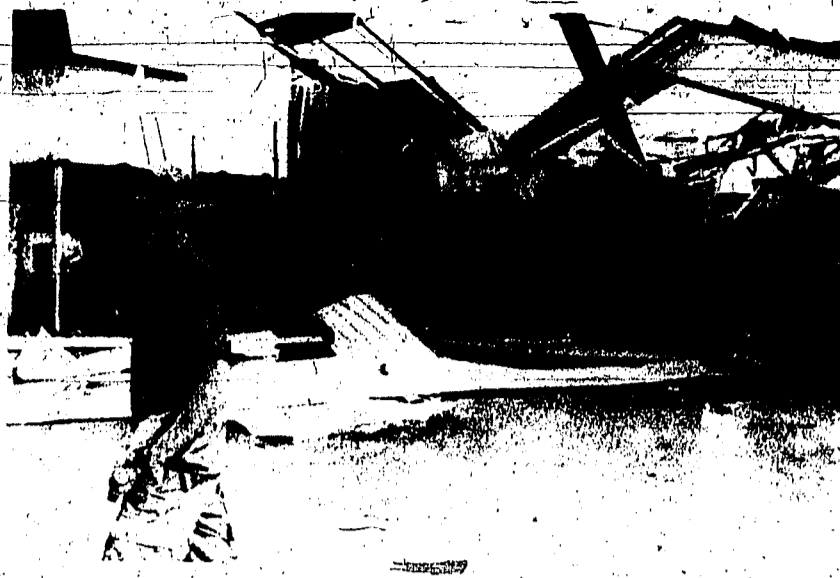

Christiansen said one third of the fires studied were started by faulty equipment — bad wires, loose mufflers, inefficient spark arrestors.

Forest workers such as blasters, loggers, brakemen and truck and tractor drivers made up 40 per cent of the fire-starters when categorized by jobs, he said.

"Findings in both California and Utah show that 80 per cent of those who started forest fires were judged by investigators to have low financial standings," Christiansen said.

Mine cave-in kills Utahn

OPHIR, Utah (UPI) — A buried lead-zinc ore miner, talking with rescuers while they worked feverishly to dig him out, was killed early this morning in a second cave-in at the Ophir Hill Mine.

The miner was identified as Stanley Holtzman, 25, of Ophir, Tooele County. He died shortly after midnight after being trapped in the cave-in since 10:45 p.m. Monday.

A rescue party removed his body from the crumbling mine shaft about 3:30 a.m., nearly 4½ hours after Holtzman's ordeal began.

Cause of the cave-in was not immediately known. Mine officials said the mine's inspector was enroute to the site early this morning to conduct an investigation.

The Ophir Hill Mine is operated by McFarland and Hullinger Mining Co., of Tooele and Ophir.

Tooele Sheriff's Deputy Lauren Dow said Holtzman was core drilling in a secondary shaft with Harold Allen, about 50, when the back of the shaft broke loose and crashed down on the two men.

Allen's leg was trapped by the debris, but Holtzman was completely buried, Dow said. It took Allen nearly 90 minutes to work himself free and get out of the mine to find help in digging Holtzman out.

The deputy said a rescue crew was hampered in their efforts because fresh rubble continued to fall into the shaft while they worked to free the trapped miner.

He said the workers talked to Holtzman during the rescue, but a second large cave-in occurred, and the men didn't hear any further word from the miner.

Allen only suffered a bruised leg and didn't require treatment.

Ex-Idaho governor's widow dies

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Funeral services are planned for 2 p.m. Tuesday at Trinity Methodist Church in Idaho Falls for Ethel Salmon Clark, 87, widow of former Idaho Governor and Idaho Falls Mayor Barzillai W. Clark.

Mrs. Clark, an aunt of Bethune Clark Church, wife of Idaho U.S. Sen. Frank Church, died Sunday morning in Sacred Heart Hospital. She had entered the hospital Sept. 12 and had undergone surgery prior to her death.

A widow since 1942, Mrs. Clark's survivors include a son, Ferris Clark, Idaho Falls; two daughters, Mrs. Ed Springer, and Mrs. Merlin Young, both Boise; 11 grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Mrs. Clark's husband was a brother of Chase Clark, also a former Idaho Falls Mayor and Idaho Governor, and later a U.S. District Judge.

Editorial charges bureaucracy destroys individual freedoms

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Newspaper publisher Eugene C. Pulliam has charged in an editorial that federal bureaucrats "are forcing the United States, step by step, to accept a system of government that will destroy free enterprise."

Pulliam's editorial covered the entire front page of the Sunday edition of the Indianapolis Star. It also appeared Sunday in the Indianapolis News, the Arizona Republic in Phoenix, and Muncie and Vincennes newspapers in Indiana, also published by Pulliam.

The editorial was entitled "Will the Federal Bureaucracy Destroy Individual Freedom in America?"

powerless to fulfill the terms of a treaty with the Navajo Indians, and that Robert Finch "was literally driven out of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare because the career bureaucrats in HEW just weren't about to let anyone else run that department."

The editorial roundly criticized so-called consumer advocate Ralph Nader as "a man without any official authority or credentials of any kind . . . bullying his way toward being the supreme dictator of all industrial production." It said Nader "never would have gotten to first base with his crusades if he had not had the help of bureaucrats."

"The bureaucrats are forcing the United States, step by step, to accept a system of government that will destroy free enterprise, local control of our educational system and, most important of all, the right of free expression, the fundamental right of liberty," Pulliam wrote. "If the bureaucrats succeed, freedom as we know it in America will be lost — maybe forever."

Elmore man accused in death

MOUNTAIN HOME (UPI) — Elmore County Sheriff Earl Winter today held Wallace Rhodes, 22, Mountain Home, on a first-degree murder charge in the gunshot death of Larry W. Jewett.

Jewett, 34, Bruneau, was found dead Friday evening in a ditch along the old Glenns Ferry road about two miles east of Mountain Home.

Winter said an autopsy Sunday showed Jewett died from a single bullet wound in his chest.

Rhodes, who said he previously lived in Las Vegas, Nev., has worked in a local sawmill since last July.

Hospitals needed, not bombs

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — The nation should turn its money and energy not into bombs, but "into hospitals and schools and jobs," New York Mayor John V. Lindsay told Florida City officials Monday.

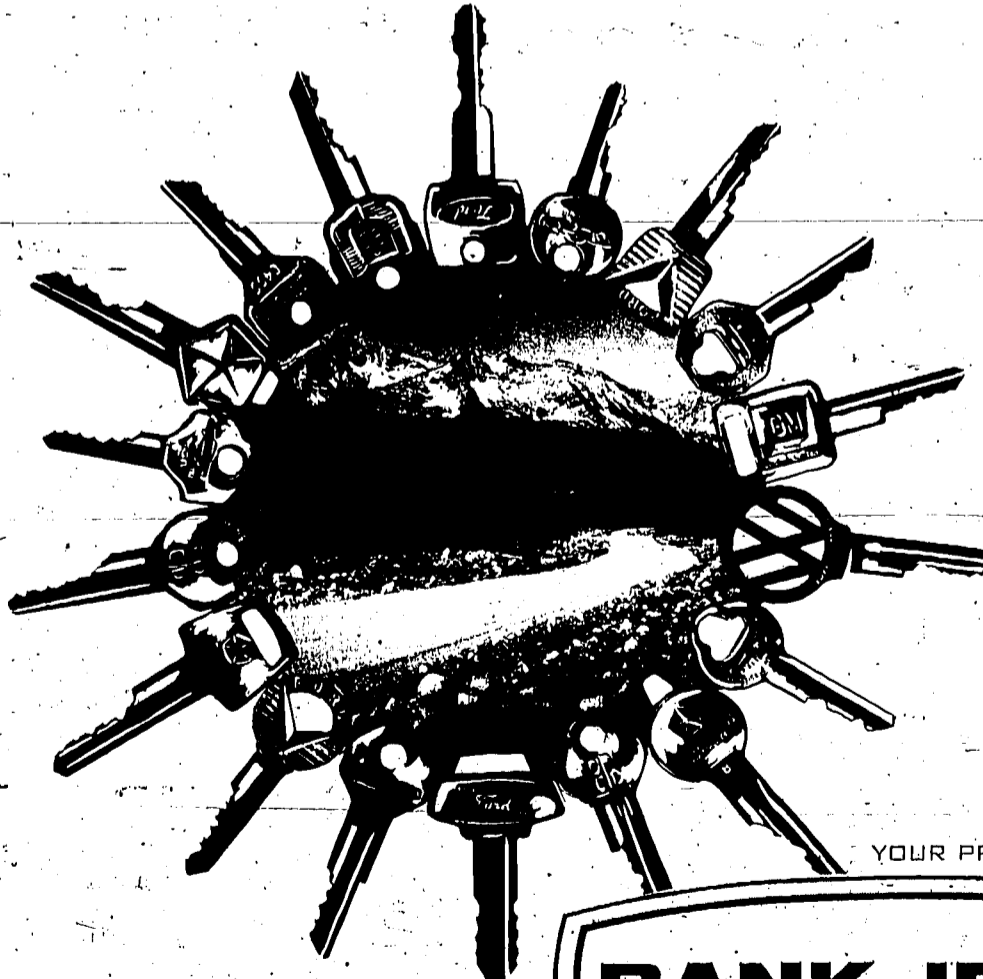

"When will we finally have an escalation of concern for our cities here at home?" Lindsay asked the Florida League of Cities. "How long will it be before the money and energy now building the bombs is turned into hospitals and schools and jobs where we live?"

Lindsay swept through Tallahassee, Miami and St. Petersburg Monday after a weekend visit to Mississippi.

Rain washes out protest

WASHINGTON (UPI)—As the Pentagon took 2,000 troops off standby alert, pouring rain Monday washed out an opening antiwar protest, but its organizers still vowed to conduct a year-long campaign against President Nixon's re-election next year.

About 400 persons showed up at the Washington Monument for a rally and nearly all of them, including the leaders of the sponsoring "Peoples' Coalition for Peace and Justice," sought cover when the gray skies opened up with a torrent.

John Frones, a Chicago Seven defendant and a leader in the antiwar movement, said Monday's events would be rescheduled for Tuesday, including a telephone call from Dr. Benjamin Spock to a member of the North Vietnamese delegation at the Paris peace talks.

'One true ally'

Moscow police arrest 92 Jews

MOSCOW (UPI)—Police arrested 92 Jews from six Soviet cities Monday in connection with an attempt to deliver protest petitions to the Communist party headquarters in Moscow, Jewish sources said.

The Jews were held for six hours at a confinement area normally used for drunks, and then most were released, the sources said.

It was the largest mass arrest of Jewish dissidents since they began their militant campaign to obtain permission to emigrate to Israel.

The sources said most of those arrested were taken at the party headquarters near the Kremlin after they had gone inside to deliver four protest petitions. Ten others were arrested in the Lithuanian city of Kaunas when they boarded a train to come to Moscow to deliver a protest, and one man was arrested boarding a train in Leningrad for the same purpose.

Several persons were arrested on Moscow streets as they headed toward the party headquarters, sources said.

Those arrested in Moscow were taken to a "sobering-up station" in the center of the city and held for six hours, the sources said. Each was questioned by officers, and then all those except about 30 persons from the Baltic cities of Vilnius and Riga were released.

The sources said the arrests in Moscow took place outside the green and white party headquarters. Police surrounded the group, ordered them into waiting buses and cars and took them away.

Jews and Westerners alike were surprised that Soviet authorities would stage such a spectacular roundup on a very day that Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Communist party general secretary, began his official visit to France.

The Soviets have exhibited sensitivity to Western criticism of the treatment of Jews in the Soviet Union, sensitivity that was heightened by Jewish demonstrations during Premier Alexei N. Kosygin's visit to Canada and threats of such demonstrations in France during Brezhnev's visit.

Leonid arrives

SOVIET COMMUNIST Party leader Leonid Brezhnev waves from open car Monday as he and French President Georges Pompidou ride from Paris' Orly Airport to Elysee Palace. Brezhnev arrived for five day state visit, his first official tour of western nation. He received lukewarm public welcome. (UPI)

Brezhnev plays role of tourist

PARIS (UPI)—Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev played the role of an official tourist in Paris today on a visit which he said marks a turning point for Europe away from the cold war.

A few hours before Brezhnev was to be taken to the Arch of Triumph to place a bouquet of flowers at the tomb of France's unknown soldier, police released some 24 persons detained after demonstrating against the arrival of the Soviet Communist Party Secretary General.

The demonstrators were among members of a right-wing group who set a Soviet flag ablaze while chanting anti-Soviet slogans on the Champs Elysees, police said.

In other protests, Jewish groups held scattered demonstrations around Paris, occupied the Franco-Soviet Friendship Society offices and staged a minor hunger strike at a World War II memorial. Police termed the demonstrations "minor."

Brezhnev's remarks on European security and the cold war came during a roast lamb and champagne dinner Monday with French President Georges Pompidou at the ornate Grand Trianon Palace in Versailles, 10 miles from the capital.

"We meet at a time when Europe finds itself at a turning point in history," Brezhnev said.

"On this continent we have seen the elements of detente, security, and a better future for the European people, grow and take force," he said.

"This progress has evolved through the recognition of the inviolability of borders, the respect of principles of nonviolence, the equality of rights and the principle of noninterference in the internal affairs of other countries," Brezhnev added.

He also called for an end to the era of "politico-military blocs" in Europe.

Brezhnev made his remarks after Pompidou had said the road was clear to prepare a European Security Conference, now that the Big Four powers have reached agreement on the status of West Berlin. The Soviets have sought such a conference, French government officials said.

Brezhnev reaffirmed the Soviet Union had no objections to inclusion of the United States and Canada as members of the conference, which would in effect recognize the post World War II map, including the Communist regimes of Eastern Europe.

War dead lauded at Arlington cemetery

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A few hundred persons dotted Arlington National Cemetery in rainy weather Monday to honor America's veterans, including those of the Vietnam War who Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said have "paid a higher price than usual."

From the hilltop where Audie Murphy, America's most decorated soldier of World War II, was buried last summer, 21 cannon boomed in salute to the 1,076,000 Americans who have died in battle since 1776 and the 40 million others who have come home from those wars.

But one of the largest veterans groups refused to participate in the ceremony. Joseph I. Vicites, of Uniontown, Pa., commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said last week that "it would be hypocritical for the 1.7 million member organization to participate in a program presumed to honor all veterans in a national cemetery in which most veterans cannot be buried."

Arlington is nearing capacity and now accepts only the bodies of retired career military men, those who have died in the service and certain veterans who have gained prominence in government.

Agnew laid a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and then addressed a crowd that filled about one quarter of Arlington's open amphitheater.

"The nearly 5.5 million Americans who have served in our armed forces during the Vietnam War have, in my opinion, paid a higher price than usual," Agnew said. "For fighting in an unpopular war, they have had to bear the brunt of its unpopularity."

"In no other war have we had so many Medal of Honor winners and so few recognized heroes."

"In no other war has the uniform been so disparaged or has the returning veteran received less citizen assistance in obtaining employment and finding his rightful place in society."

"This was the first time the Veterans Day celebration was held on the fourth Monday in October instead of the usual Nov. 11, which many other nations celebrate as the anniversary of the Armistice ending World War I."

Second hijacking

MIAMI (UPI)—The presence of three sky marshals and an off-duty FBI agent among the 221 passengers was not enough to prevent the second hijacking of a Boeing 747 "Jumbo Jet" to Cuba Monday night.

The giant plane was hijacked on American Airlines Flight No. 98 from New York to Puerto Rico by an armed man who took a stewardess' hostage about an hour after the plane left New York's Kennedy International Airport.

A Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) spokesman in New York said the pilot, O. R. Selmola, notified American Airlines and the FAA "by pre-arranged signal, not voice communications," when the plane was over North Carolina.

In Washington, FAA spokesman David Gelfan said "we are informed by the Customs Office in New York that there are three sky marshals on board." He said "there are no military personnel or VIP's on board, but there is one FBI man who is not on official business."

The plane landed safely at Havana at 9:58 p.m. EDT Monday, a little more than three hours after takeoff from New York.

Havana Radio reported this morning the passengers and crew were "healthy and waiting for the renewal of their flight."

DEAR ABBY: Forty-two years ago, a man caught my eye and I caught his, but we were both married at the time so there was nothing we could do about it. I moved away but I never forgot Mac. And he never forgot me, and when he came to see me the other day I just about fell over dead!

My husband had died only three months before. Mac said he had kept track of me all these years, that his wife had died four years ago and he was just waiting for me to be free.

Here's the catch. Mac wants me to come live with him. No marriage. He has plenty of money and I could sure use an easy life because mine has been hard, but I am not going to live in sin with anybody no matter how much money he has.

Mac is 73 and has grown children and grandchildren. I am 69 and am in the same situation. He suggested we go away for a trial weekend, but sin is sin. How can I get him to offer marriage?

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a 15-year-old girl. I would like to ask her out but I'm afraid of what her parents might think because I am 25, and used to date her older sister. (I am also a good friend of her brother.) The older sister went away to college and I find the younger one extremely attractive and remarkably mature for her age.

I've been tempted to call this girl but have hesitated because I don't want to upset her parents by courting a daughter whom they might think is too young for me. I would appreciate your thinking. IN LOVE BUT "TOO OLD"

DEAR "IN": "In love" with a girl you've never even dated? Wouldn't it be more appropriate to say you are "very much attracted" to her? I suspect you miss her older sister and think the younger girl would make a handy substitute, but I think you ought to find someone nearer your own vintage.

DEAR ABBY: A member of my husband's social club was invited to our home for dinner. Later in the evening he discovered a large snag in his suit coat, and expressed much concern over it, but could produce no evidence as to what he had caught it on. He did make a point of saying, "I didn't have it when I first got here."

This man insists that we are obligated to have it repaired or replace the coat since it happened in our house. Are we?

If he is running for re-election, find out all you can about his voting record. How "absent" was he; and how did he vote when he voted. Finally, VOTE!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69760, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

JEROME — Sam Daniels, Jerome, has received a first place win for one of his violins in the International Violin Makers Show, held in Globe, Ariz.

The prize winning violin was entered in the steel-string division and is owned by Mamie Shaw, Corral.

Another violin made by Daniels and owned by Shaw achieved a third place certificate in the same division.

Eighteen violins from the United States and Canada were entered in the division.

Violins entered in the contest are judged on tone, workmanship and varnish.

Daniels noted that his violin was judged for tone against a Stradivarius, valued at $75,000 and received the same rating as the well-known instrument.

Daniels has been making violins since 1936 and has completed 34.

Shaw said his violins are made completely from native Idaho wood, exclusive of the ebony fittings.

Back, side, neck and scroll are from a maple tree found in Hagerman, the top is from two different spruce trees acquired at Galena Summit.

Members worked on lap robes to be given to a local nursing home. Now yearbooks were distributed, made by a committee, Mrs. Olivia Westbrooks, Rhoda Yall and Nonna Van Houten.

Emotional problems are fewer with exercises

JEROME — The woman who exercises is apt to have fewer emotional problems, according to Loretta Daw, extension health specialist at the University of Vermont.

"Women generally know it's important to be physically active but few want to do boring exercises," she reports. She offers these ideas to help women not only improve muscle tone but also laugh a bit during the day.

Every time you pass a mirror, make a face at yourself and then relax your face muscles. While sitting — raise your legs and hold them for a few seconds. Lower them slowly.

Walk around the house with a super-exaggerated wiggle. It slims your waist and makes you laugh. Laughing is good exercise.

Let your head go limp and then roll it in circles. Pull in your abdomen whenever the telephone rings — don't hold your breath. Breathe naturally.

Use good body mechanics when you lift something heavy. Bend your knees to pick up a child from the floor.

When tense, stretch as hard as you can for a few seconds, and make a loud noise. Then if nobody is around, make lots of loud noises. It makes you feel better.

Always stand when dressing and undressing. Walk to the store on a sunny day — don't ride.

A wise man said, "Nature is generous. When you begin to sit around, she provides more cushions."

Looking thin

Can't stick to that diet? Then wear clothes that make you look thinner. Take advantage of optical illusions in creating a slimmer line. Try A-line dresses, side slits, add trimming along long side seams and long sleeves. Always stay with the vertical lines. Styles with up and down lines always have a thinning effect.

A tray of assorted cheese and a bowl of fresh fruits make a dessert pretty enough for a party. Serve apples and plums with Campambert; apples, grapes and melon with aged Cheddar; dried figs with Gruyere; try pears, apples or oranges with Blue cheese; banana with Provolone; tangerines and pears with cream cheese; apples and pears with Colby; melon with Muenster; your choice of fruits with Edam or Gouda.

Annual meeting

AMONG THOSE participating in the Gem State Writers' Guild annual meeting in Twin Falls were, from left, Mrs. Virginia Lining, Pocatello, who received the Author of the Year award; Mrs. Deanna Vollmer, Twin Falls, News Letter publisher, and Mrs. Alda Strong, Twin Falls, president of the guild. The meeting was held at the Rogerson Hotel Roundup Room.

Anti-litter drive set this week

TWIN FALLS — Ninth graders at Robert Stuart Junior High School are having an anti-litter campaign this week.

The campaign includes a publication, "What About Tomorrow," which will be distributed to students and parents. Editorials, articles, poems, cartoons, interviews and a school survey are included in the booklet done entirely by the students. The book will be distributed Thursday.

The students will be cleaning the halls of the school and will be decorating the waste cans at Robert Stuart.

Reason for the "unlitter" campaign is to get the people of Twin Falls and surrounding areas interested in pollution and litter and to be concerned enough to help combat the problems.

The publication and "unlitter" campaign are the culmination of a three-week study on natural resources, human resources and the environment which has taken place in the ninth grade social studies class. Mrs. Jim Teater is teacher and Mrs. Steve Smith is student teacher.

Clean-up campaign

STUDENTS FROM Robert Stuart Junior High School ninth grade social studies class are conducting a clean-up campaign this week. # Reinstate workers, Buhl firm told

HULL — An order from the National Labor Relations Board has been issued to owners of Cascade Commodities Inc., rendering plant, requiring "affirmative action" on stipulations settling an unfair labor practice strike at the plant over a year ago.

Among stipulations of the order is one requiring all striking employees be reinstated upon proper application, and that employees hired to replace them be dismissed if necessary.

Gordon Carter, manager of the plant, said Carter Packing Co. where the strike began Sept. 4, 1970, is no longer in operation and the successor company, Cascade Commodities Inc., is closed.

He termed the NLRB order a "pathetic example of the government's waste of taxpayer money."

Carter said he believes the "upon proper application" phrase in the order would cover the situation since it is doubtful work applications could be made or accepted for a non-operating business. Reinstating the employees at this time would be completely unreasonable, he said.

The strike became an "unfair labor practices strike" about Jan. 1, 1971, when the plant was leased to Cascade Commodities Inc., and converted from a packing concern to a rendering operation. This operation was closed in April of this year by court order after residents of the area won an injunction on grounds of unbearable odors from the rendering operation. About 22 employees were working at the packing company when the strike began, largely over a wage contract for the coming three year period. The strike continued and the matter was taken before the National Labor Relations Board after the first of the year. Cascade, Carter, the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and the Butcher Workmen Union Local 368 and general counsel for the NLRB entered into a settlement stipulation for board order and consent decree on Sept. 17. The board continued review of the case in Washington, D. C., and the order has been issued from there.

The order stipulates the firm, in addition to reinstating employees on proper application, must dismiss any employees hired to replace them after Jan. 1.

It also orders Cascade Commodities to cease and desist from refusing to bargain collectively as to wages and hours with Union Local 368; discouraging membership in the union or other organization or discharging employees for organization activities, and restraining employees from their right to form labor organizations.

NLRB members also declared the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen Union as the statutory representative of employees of the firm.

Facelift project at Hailey gets attention

By TERRY CAMPBELL, Times-News Writer

HAILEY — The Hailey Facelift Project — the chapter of commerce sponsored program to give uniform business firms — and ways to implement the project were discussed Monday at the Hailey Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Ann Dunn, co-owner of the Sage Shop which will be refaced in a western theme, said, "The people who want to do western should just do it." She said the western theme was the best method of getting a uniform look.

"It's a total shambles, a total disgrace," she said, "the way the town looks now."

President Jerry Osborn said, "I don't know how the two main business blocks could be refaced except western."

Chairman of the facelift committee, Alan Bixby, said he consulted the Small Business Administration in Helena, Mont. about financing for the project. He said the best route was the local development corporation.

Under the SBA program, he said, a minimum of 25 investors are needed to set up the corporation. The corporation would own 10 per cent of the funds required for the entire facelift project. The SBA would provide 80 per cent of the funds through a 10 or 20 year loan with 5.5 per cent interest, Bixby said.

Bixby said the refacing project needs to be re-evaluated to see whether 25 residents are willing to invest in the corporation.

"There are too many people," he said, "sitting around waiting for something to be done or refusing to believe that anything can be done." He said there are about five new liquor stores who are planning a mansard style roof — an overhanging shingle roof — for the structure. He said the state liquor control board wants an ultra-modern interior for the store.

"I don't know how to coordinate a western front with an ultra-modern interior," Stavros said. But he said the contractor said the building could be given a western face at the same cost as its planned face.

Stavros said, "I think we are about five years too late." He said there are about five new liquor stores who are planning a mansard style roof — an overhanging shingle roof — for the structure. He said the state liquor control board wants an ultra-modern interior for the store.

New highway

NEARLY READY to be opened for use is this link of U. S. Highway 30 between Filer and Cedar Crossing, which has been built over the past year. While construction crews still have some guard rail to emplace and other minor jobs to complete, some auto and truck traffic is bypassing barricades at either end and using the route.

Gem personal income up 7 per cent in 1971

BOISE — Total personal income in Idaho in 1971 is estimated to be $2.477 billion, an increase of $167 million or seven per cent over 1970, according to the Department of Commerce.

This forecast is based on data available for the first nine months of the year and estimates for the last three months. After correction for decreased purchasing power of the dollar, real income should be three per cent above that of 1970. Expected in the last quarter are not significant increases in average monthly wages and salaries from those prevailing in August and relatively stable levels of income from other sources.

Personal income through July is estimated at 7.4 per cent above a year ago and slightly above the national average of 6.8 per cent increase. Income for July, however was somewhat handicapped by strikes against copper producers and the Union Pacific Railroad which slowed down production and employment because many goods could not be shipped.

Net farm income is estimated at approximately $245 million, almost the same as in each of the past two years. Other proprietors' income at about $185 million, will have increased by about $2 million, while property income is up about $22 million.

Also higher are Social Security payments, but offsetting this in part are contributions to social insurance. Employment in Idaho in August was reported at 306,900 for an increase of 5,000 or 1.7 per cent over a year ago. This is about the average increase for the first nine months over the corresponding period in 1970, officials said.

Employment in agriculture had declined in Idaho as it had nationally. Non-agricultural employment at 255,300 had increased by 5,400 from a year earlier with self-employed and domestics increasing by 100. Manufacturing employment was at 40,900 or down by 200.

Unemployment in August totaled 18,400, for an increase in 3,400 from a year earlier.

Man's hand injured at creamery

JEROME — A Filer man had his left hand severely injured Monday morning when a ring on his hand caught in an auger pushing cheese into canisters at Ida-Gem Dairy.

The injured man, Ray Rutherford, who has worked with the company for 20 years, put his hand into the auger equipment while it was moving, according to Nile Casten, assistant to the general manager at the plant.

Casten said above the equipment was a large sign reading, "Do not put hands near this equipment while it is moving." He said Rutherford was warned shortly beforehand not to put his hands near the auger. The equipment has been in the plant for about a year.

Rutherford will lose one finger and the rest of his hand will be mostly scar tissue to the palm, according to Casten. He said the hand will be permanently damaged.

Casten said the plant had recently been safety inspected. It was given a "clean bill of health," he said.

He said warning and safety signs are posted on all of the machinery throughout the plant.

"I don't know why these things happen," he said. "They just do."

Rutherford was taken to St. Benedict's Hospital for treatment after the accident.

Trustees to hear 3 solons

TWIN FALLS — Three state legislators are scheduled to participate in opening sessions of the Idaho State Trustee Assn. convention next month in Twin Falls.

Norval Wildman, Burley, president, said the three-day meeting will be Nov. 4-6 at the College of Southern Idaho.

Featured on a panel about what school boards can expect from the next session of the legislature will be Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, D-Tuttle; Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert, and Rep. Ernest Allen, R-Nampa.

Other speakers will include Ed Williams, administrative assistant to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, and Mel Richardson, Idaho Falls television personality.

A panel on schools and news media relationship will be led by Craig Kohlman, Idaho Falls, news director for KID-TV; Alice Dieter, Boise, KBOI-TV and Intermountain Observer, and Terry Schick, editor of the Coeur d'Alene Press.

Alan Smith, Bancroft, executive secretary, said several other educators and lay persons will speak and participate in various clinics dealing with pertinent educational issues facing Idaho.

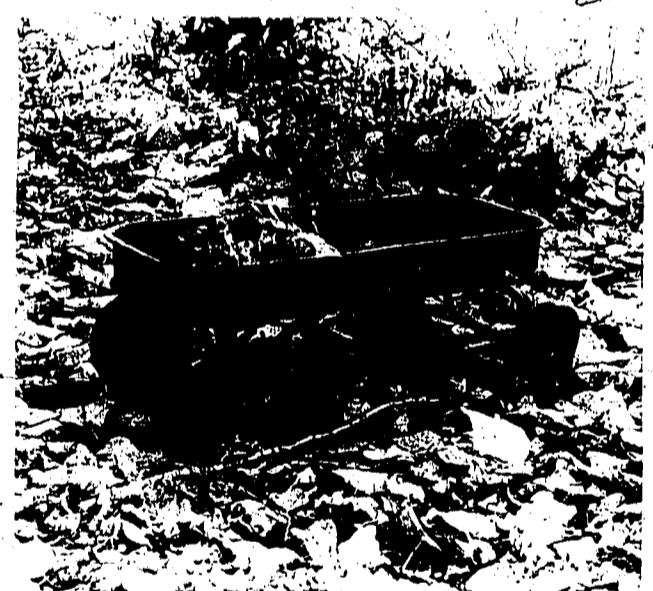

Preceding the trustee convention the Idaho Department of Education will conduct a seminar on the Title II program and members of the Idaho Superintendents Assn. will meet briefly.

Castleford sets sewer cost meet

CASTLEFORD — A public meeting to outline cost estimates and proposals for a sewer system in Castleford is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Castleford Baptist Church basement.

Mrs. Amos Williams, city clerk, announced plans for the meeting and urged all property owners to attend. Milton J. Weath of the Tudor Engineering Co., Boise, will present a preliminary plan for the project and will answer questions from property owners.

About 75 properties would be served by the system which would be the first sewer system in Castleford. Homes in the area are now served by septic tanks which city officials are anxious to eliminate.

Leaves for confab

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus leaves by plane today for St. Louis, Mo., and a hastily-called meeting of the National Governor's Conference executive committee.

Press Secretary John D. Hough said Andrus learned of the meeting after accepting an invitation to address the State Grange convention today at Burley.

State Agriculture Commissioner Oscar Arstein planned to address the Grange in Andrus' place.

Andrus returns from St. Louis at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Hough said, and leaves for northern Idaho on his annual elk hunting trip at the North Fork of the Clearwater River. Andrus will return to his statehouse desk Nov. 2, Hough said.

Idaho jobless ranks reported diminishing

TWIN FALLS — Unemployment in the state dropped to below five per cent for September, which despite the trend in seasonal job demands, gives an over all improved outlook, officials of the Idaho Department of Labor report.

The September unemployment rate dropped from five per cent to 4.2 per cent which is only slightly higher than the September of a year ago, the department statistics show.

In September there were 307,000 persons employed, or an increase of 4,300 over the total figure for last year. The majority of the expansion resulted from increases by nonmanufacturing industries over 1070 as in total these industries increased by 4,000 workers.

There was a decrease of 1,000 agricultural workers over figures for August.

In south-central Idaho, major crop harvests began in September with potato and sugar beet work calling many additional seasonal workers. Sugar factories also began operating around the state, increasing worker demands.

In Twin Falls new industrial employment opportunities listed in September included the manufacture of microwave detectors planned in the old city filter plant. About 30 to 50 total workers will be needed under full operation. In the Magic Valley, corn processing and some potato processing plants were nearing full production.

Air pollution 101 index

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District at the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particles per cubic meter of air for the 24 hour period ending at 11 a.m. today.

Federal pollution regulations say pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms over any 24 hour period and should not be permitted to rise above 260 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Forecast

Today: Good
Tonight: Excellent
Tomorrow: Excellent

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution burning its product by law should be confined when the air is partly able to disperse its pollution.

House panel charges SCS lakes bar public

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House committee charged Monday the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) allows private land developers to bar public recreational use of lakes created with federal funds.

The report by the government operations committee said the SCS permits private developers to make improvements or additions to the lakes and then allows them to control access to the entire lake, in violation of federal law.

It said some 4,000 lakes had been created under SCS projects, but less than 10 per cent provide public access, despite a 1962 law that requires the SCS to maintain public access to reservoirs built for flood control or irrigation and which offer boating, swimming or fishing.

Under the program, the SCS contracts with local public agencies, such as soil and water conservation districts, to build the reservoirs. But the agency's policies, the report said, "center upon a few individuals (a tax-created windfall of exclusive and private access as well as increased property values.)"

"SCS defends its anti-public access policies on two principal grounds," the report said, "that the watershed projects are mainly local and nonfederal and hence SCS should defer to the desires of the sponsoring local organization, and to require the sponsoring local organization to provide for public access at the project lakes would increase the costs of land acquisition."

MOUNTAIN HOME (UPI) — James T. Gregory, 28, Aurora, Colo., was killed early today in a single vehicle accident 14 miles east of Mountain Home on U. S. Highway 30.

Patterson named year's grassman

PAUL — Lloyd Patterson, Paul, will be honored as Minidoka County Grassman of the Year during a banquet Nov. 4 at Paris Hall, Rupert.

Besides receiving the county award Patterson was selected as one of four district winners in the state last Wednesday, in Boise.

On the local level Patterson was sponsored by the Rupert Rotary Club. Patterson describes his farming operation as a "family farm" because all members of the family take part.

The family is assisted by a full time hired man, who has worked for the Pattersons for 17 years. Additional laborers are hired for sugar beet thinning in the spring.

Patterson was born in Minidoka County just a half mile from his present home. He attended Lincoln School, Pioneer School and Rupert High School. Farming has always been in Patterson's blood. He rented his aunt's farm at the age of 13 and started on his farming ventures.

His wife, the former Charlene Boyd Twin Falls, and Patterson have four children, Ken, 18, a student at University of Idaho; Russell, 16, a delegate to Boys' State this year and a student at Minico High School; Mike, 14, and Kelli, 13, both students at West Minico Junior High School.

The family operates 600 acres, some rented by his mother, Mrs. Hazel Patterson.

The family operates 600 acres, some rented by his mother, Mrs. Hazel Patterson. This year 205 acres were in sugar beets; 52 acres in potatoes; 45 acres in sweet corn; 100 acres in grain; 100 acres in hay and 60 acres in permanent pasture seeded with University Mix. Most of the wheat and barley is used for livestock feed on the farm.

A crop rotation plan is used by Patterson. Water for the land is from the Minidoka Irrigation District, three deep wells and a small portion from an A & B Irrigation District drain ditch. Five relief pumps are used to supply pressure for the sprinkler system, which includes solid set and wheel lines.

The livestock on the farm includes about 1,100 Columbia, Panama, and Rambouillet ewes which are bred to Suffolk and Suffolk Hamp bucks. The ewes are pastured on the farm about eight months and are fed in dry lots the other four months.

The lambs also are fed in dry lots for about four months. Lambing starts in January and in April shipping of the fat lambs begins. Some are sold through the lamb pool and others are sold privately. All wool is shipped through the wool pool.

Patterson is a member of the Wool and Lamb Pool, Pioneer Grange, Idaho Potato Growers, Sugar Beet Growers Association, Rupert Elks Lodge, Paul PTA, of which he is a past president and has been a Cub Scout leader.

The family attends the Paul United Methodist Church.

Lindsay campaigns for Evers

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Mayor John Lindsay of New York campaigned in Mississippi for black gubernatorial candidate Charles Evers Sunday as part of "a fight to bring black and white America together."

Lindsay received a generally friendly welcome during the start of a two-day swing through the Deep South and an estimated 2,000 persons attended a rally in the Jackson Civic Auditorium.

Lindsay flew to Florida Sunday night for a round of public appearances apparently aimed at testing political sentiment in Dixie.

Lindsay said he hoped his brief Mississippi visit would be helpful to the campaign of Evers, the mayor of Fayette, Miss., who meets Democratic gubernatorial candidate Gov. George Wallace in the general election.

"This is a fight to open the political system to everyone," the dapper New Yorker said. "It is a fight for this country's future."

Following the Jackson rally, Lindsay and Evers flew to Laurel for another rally scheduled at the Civic Auditorium. However, the site of the rally was changed when police received two bomb threats at the auditorium. No bombs were found.

Cassia Red Cross fund drive is now underway

BURLEY — The Cassia County Red Cross Fund Drive is now under way and will end Saturday, according to Mrs. Charles Terhune, fund drive chairman.

There are several divisions in the county where funds donated to the Red Cross are used, reported Palmer Saterstrom, county chapter chairman.

One of the big obligations the County Red Cross funds are used for is Service to Military Families. Mrs. H. E. King is chairman of Service to Military Families in Cassia County. She is assisted by Mrs. Gary Hubamith and Rev. Earl Hunter. The three volunteer their time to this part of the Red Cross. According to records since Jan., 1971, over 60 long distance phone calls and overseas phone calls have been made from Cassia County assisting in getting messages to servicemen. Five of these calls were happy calls reporting a child had been born; 26 of the calls reported death in family or serious illness, and others were in regard to money problems of servicemen.

A few weeks ago Rev. Hunter was phoned at 2 a.m. by a serviceman who was in Burley, enroute to a new assignment, and had experienced car trouble with a new car, used his money for repairs on the car and was out of money to purchase gas to go on to his newly assigned base. Rev. Hunter met the serviceman, checked his travel papers, and in a few minutes, gas was purchased and the serviceman was on his way to his base.

Another time since the first of the year a family in the county notified Mrs. King that a father of a serviceman had died and phone calls were made. Within one and one-half hours the son was on his way home.

BSC jayvees rally on 28-point last period to edge Weber 40-35

BOISE — The Boise State jayvees rallied for 28 points in the final quarter — the decisive six on a 69-yard punt return by Greg Frederick with 59 seconds remaining — to overhaul the Weber Jayvees 40-35 Monday afternoon.

The Boise turn-around came after a third quarter in which Weber had dominated and piled up a 35-12 lead. But the young Broncos then stopped Weber on the 11 and came firing back on the throwing of ex-Vallivue quarterback Jim McMillan for the victory.

During the final period McMillan hit nine key passes, one good for a 31-yard bomb to Mike Erickson, and the other eight settling up touchdown runs of 1 and 11 yards by Chester Gray. But the last one came with 1:38 remaining in the game and, although with the two-point conversion it cut the Weber margin to 35-34, it appeared too late. But the Bronco defense forced the punt in four plays and Frederick, breaking two tackles on his side of the 50-yard line, picked up a cordon of blockers and breezed in.

The game started as wildly as it began with Weber taking a 13-6 lead in the first three minutes and two seconds. Blaine Palmer broke loose for 60 yards on Weber's second play after taking the kickoff. BSC nullified that two plays later on a 47 yard pass to Rollie Woolsey. On the first play after that kickoff, Ken Johnson took a pitchout 43 yards to the Boise State 18 and three plays later cracked in from the two. Kevin Jensen booted Weber's extra point.

The teams exchanged drives through the rest of the period and midway through the second Weber picked up a safety when a pass from center sailed over the BSC punter's head and through the end zone. Immediately after taking the BSC kick, Weber rolled 48 yards in five plays with the payoff coming on an 11-year pitchout to Johnson.

Boise came back on a drive to the Weber five but was thrown back, then got a fumble recovery by Paul Nilipall at the eight on the next play. McMillan threw to Ted Gargas for the touchdown just before halftime. Weber controlled the ball in the third period. It stopped a BSC gamble at the 41 early and six plays later Palmer scored from the 19. After a punt exchange, Gil Anderson ripped off 48 yards to give Weber another chance and three plays later he swept end from the five. Dean Corbridge rolled out for the two-pointer to give Weber its crest at 35-12.

Weber marched to the 11 to set the stage for McMillan's fourth-quarter show. He hit three passes to Gray and Gargas, then turned to Erickson for the final 31 yards of the 89-yard march. He threw to Gargas for the two-pointer.

Weber rebounded to the BSC 15 before running out of downs and McMillan went back to work, hitting Gargas three times and Frederick once to put the ball on the Weber 11. Gray went in from there but the conversion pass failed.

Seconds later Bob Jamison recovered a fumble at midfield; Gray ripped for 28 and Dave Nickley for 12. Three plays later Gray slimmed in from the one and Frederick rolled out for the two-pointer.

Run The Gantlet wins International

LAUREL, Md. (UPI)—Run The Gantlet, winner of the Washington D.C. International at Laurel Monday over a deep and tiring race track that proved, too exacting for his eight rivals, started a two month vacation today.

"He'll get a well deserved rest for the next two months at least," said trainer Elliott Burch who now has won the global classic three times.

He also won with Fort Marcy in 1967 and 1970 and now with Run The Gantlet. Paul Mellon owns both horses.

Run The Gantlet beat Irish Ball of France by six lengths in the mile and one-half grass event that was run in a heavy rain and over a deep, turf course that wore out the field.

Colonial Farms' Champion, invited to compete at the last minute when the treat of rain made the withdrawal of Cougar II almost certain, finished third but he was nine lengths behind Irish Ball. Then came Minsky of Canada, Tingitana of Italy, Oris of Italy, Hill Circus of England and Soudard of Belgium with Quiludi of France last, 84 lengths behind Run the Gantlet.

Actually the jockeys of the tail-enders stopped riding their horses long before the finish as Run the Gantlet and Irish Ball, his only challenger in the stretch, drew away from them in the rain.

Bobby Woodhouse, who now has ridden Run The Gantlet to five straight victories, didn't think the track was so bad even though Run The Gantlet was timed in 2:50 3-5, the slowest clocking in the 20 year history of the race.

The losing riders had different views.

Yves Saint Martin, who rode last place Quiludi and who won the International in 1962 with Match II, said he never had ridden over ground like it before. Duncann Keith, who finished sixth aboard Oris, claimed the race would have been called off under similar conditions in England. The others said their mounts just couldn't handle the heavy track. Run the Gantlet's victory completed a very successful year for owner Mellon. His Mill Reef was the European champion of 1971 and in Run The Gantlet he probably has America's turf champion.

Woodhouse had Run The Gantlet near the front all the time and said he could have taken the lead any time he wanted to and that Run The Gantlet still had some reserve left at the finish.

"It wasn't rough going. He ran easily," the young jockey claimed.

Burch said Run The Gantlet is as good as Fort Marcy was at this stage of his career and pointed out that Fort Marcy beat Horse of the Year Damascus when he won in 1967. He does not plan to run the horse again until February in Florida and will let the little colt take things easy for at least two months before he starts his training again.

"And I am going to leave him on grass unless the weights get prohibitive," the trainer said.

The foreign horses also will get a rest before they are returned to their homelands. They cannot be shipped out of the United States until Nov. 1 under quarantine restrictions necessitated by the outbreak of equine sleeping sickness earlier this year in the country.

It will take them at least that long to recover from the ordeal of chasing Run The Gantlet in the International.

Dolphin duo likes to run

NEW YORK (UPI)—Larry Csonka and Jim Kilek like to come off as a couple of fun-loving guys just out for an afternoon's fun before stopping off for a couple of beers.

But opponents are starting to regard them as the deadliest one-two punch to hit pro football since the Green Bay glory days of Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor.

The two pile-drivers are the big reason why the Miami Dolphins are making a serious threat in the American Football Conference Eastern Division. And they're having a ball doing it.

"We're two of a kind," says Kilek, the "little guy" at 5-foot-11 and 215 pounds. "We enjoy contact. We enjoy running over people. We like to hit."

"Larry really runs over people. I feel sorry for those defensive backs who have to stop him. He absolutely destroys them. I can't really run over that many people at my size, but Larry, he just blows them out."

Csonka, the 6-2, 237-pound All-American from Syracuse, does, indeed, blow them out. He and Kilek ranked 3-4 in the AFC in rushing prior to Sunday's game against the New York Jets. And with Csonka crashing for 137 yards and Kilek 121, their standing figures to improve.

"I think we can run on anybody in the league," says Kilek. "Our line is just tremendous. I really don't have great speed, I'm the first to admit it, but I follow my blocking well. That's the secret to successful running. I stay as close as I can to my guards. My theory is to keep running, keep my legs moving and the yards will come."

"Jim and I are of the same mold," says Csonka. "We're a couple of old beer drinkers who like to have a good time together. Statistics come second to us. I like to play and so does Jim, and I get an extra kick out of playing on real grass for a change. You don't feel like you've played with the Poly-Turf stuff we have in Miami. I want to get dirty, feel the taste of grass in my mouth, kick up some dirt."

"The 'freeze' saved me money on my new car."

"Not only that ... I got one of those low cost auto loans at Idaho First."

There's no question that this is the moment to buy a new car. Upon action of the Congress, every U.S. model will enjoy a substantial price cut due to the proposed elimination of the 7% excise tax on American made autos. Government officials have stated that the consumer will realize an average savings of $200 per car as a result. Some firms have already announced the price cut.

- So, now is the time to buy!
- Buy while the cost is kept down. Buy while money is available. Buy on a low cost bank auto loan — either through your dealer or direct from Idaho First.
- Then pocket the savings.

Clark back but not Monroe

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Baltimore Bullets regained Archie Clark today, but still were uncertain about Earl Monroe's plans for returning to the club.

Clark, who came to the Bullets from Philadelphia in a trade for Fred Carter and Kevin Loughery, was suspended with Monroe last Friday for failing to show up for a game with New York.

Clark apologized to Bullet fans Monday night for going AWOL and promised them he would do what he could to bring them "an exciting season of NBA ball."

Hughes died of heart attack

DETROIT (UPI)—An autopsy disclosed Monday that wide receiver Chuck Hughes of the Detroit Lions died of a heart attack suffered on a National Football League playing field. A doctor said "it could have happened at any time."

"The findings were that Chuck had suffered an attack of arteriosclerosis—an acute coronary thrombosis," said Dr. Richard A. Thompson, who issued the medical report jointly with the Lions' other team physician, Dr. Edwin R. Guise.

"It could have happened at any time," Dr. Thompson said. "It was something that was bound to happen. It could have happened yesterday, the day before or tomorrow."

4 Idaho films to be shown

Four University of Idaho football victories will be shown via films at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Roundup Room of the Rogerson-Goffeshop, reports Vandal Booster President Hank Woodall.

Woodall said due to bus-line schedule changes and work at the city airport, the regular weekly showings have been withheld. But Wednesday the films of Idaho against UOP, Idaho State, Montana and Colorado State will be shown. "Two projectors, continuous showing, no waiting," advertised Woodall. The showing is open to all interested.

The bidding of today's hand is just about as simple and straight forward as bidding can be. North has a sound opening-club bid and South, a normal spade response. North's raise to two spades is straight from any book as is South's pump to four.

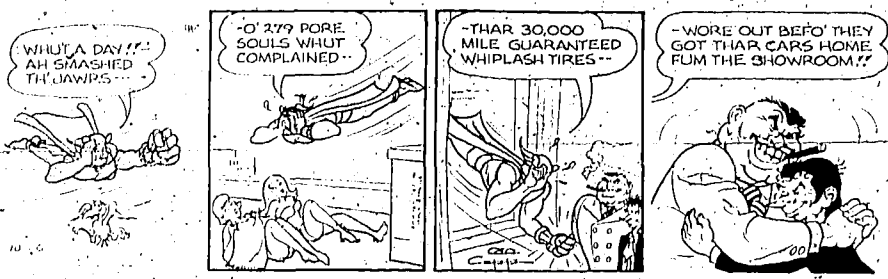

The opening lead of the king of diamonds is just about as automatic a lead as can be imagined and East should find the defense to get his side four tricks before the unfortunate declarer can gain the lead.

Aces are made to take opponent's kings, but this time East must use his diamond

ALL RIGHT, I'd like to talk about sleeping with pigs, so could I have your attention, please? It's a matter of historical record that lots of tribal societies have used pigs as bed warmers. Particularly in old China. However, the Chinese tradition called for shaving said pigs before bedding them down—that wasn't required elsewhere. Authorities cite this fact as one more indication that the early Chinese civilization was somewhat advanced.

AS TO WHO invented the paper milk bottle, am told it was one Henry R. Heyl, a Philadelphian. In 1918. Unfortunately, Mr. Heyl could not convince dairies then to use same, so he profited not much. That was the same Mr. Heyl, incidentally, who in 1870 invented a device called the "phasmatrope" to project moving pictures upon a screen. But again, unfortunately, he could not convince the show business people then to use that, either. Poor Mr. Heyl.

Monetary confab ends in same old confusion

LONDON (UPI)—At the old Parisian chateau the bankers gathered up their briefcases and filed silently from the former den of debauchery where Louis XV gambled with admirers of his mistress, the Countess du Barry.

Behind them in the Chateau de la Muette, the representatives of the West's 10 wealthiest nations left their own unflashed poker game. The United States still hold the upper hand in the world monetary crisis.

They emerged into the 18th century chateau's cobbled courtyard as muted as the hooded hunting falcons Charles IX once stabled there, leaving the world still wondering what can be done to resolve the crisis triggered two months ago by President Nixon's save-the-dollar campaign.

When they ended their three-day meeting last Wednesday, delegates of the group of 10 (the United States, Canada, Japan, Britain, Sweden and the five wealthiest European Common Market countries) confronted a Europe frustrated by the uncertainty of it all, angered by a proposed new U.S. trade barrier and increasingly fearful of a world trade war.

"I'm going to tell you as little as possible," the conference's chairman, Rinaldo Ossola of Italy, said to reporters.

Paul A. Volcker, the chief U.S. delegate, said the meeting ended in much the same "great deal of confusion" that has surrounded other major monetary conferences since Nixon announced his decision Aug. 15 to "float" the dollar free from fixed exchange rates.

In Europe no country has formally increased the value of its currency against the dollar by the substantial margin the President hoped for in order to make U.S. goods cheaper abroad and ease America's huge deficit in its balance of payments.

The major European currencies have been allowed to float upwards in value against the dollar but only by marginal amounts.

There has been no noticeable improvement in America's trade with Western Europe. The value of U.S. exports to Britain actually declined by 0 per cent in the three months ending Sept. 30, compared with the previous three-month period, while British exports to North America increased by 18 per cent.

What still rankles Europeans, a British banker said, is that "Nixon is asking other people to put America's interests ahead of their own" by substantially reviving their currencies and making their own exports more costly.

Anthony Barber, British chancellor of the exchequer, said Thursday Britain would accept no revaluation of the British pound which would "profoundly" hurt its country's competitive position abroad.

The 10 per cent surcharge Nixon has levied on exports to the United States to force major revaluations of other currencies has placed America, according to a West German banker, in the position of a "world power riding a couch and horses through a solemn international agreement (the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—GATT)."

But European government officials, bankers and business-

Kosygin's Cuban visit tied to Nixon's trip

By United Press International

Diplomats in Moscow consider Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin's forthcoming visit to Cuba a direct consequence of the announcement that President Nixon will visit Moscow. They say Cuba, which stands directly in the middle of U.S.-Soviet relations, is bound to be a topic of Nixon's Kremlin talks and that Kosygin must first coordinate the Soviet position with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro. In addition to assuring Cubans that the Kremlin will not sacrifice their interests in exchange for U.S. concessions in other areas, diplomats say, Kosygin also may have to soothe some Cuban feelings ruffled simply by the announcement of Nixon's trip to Moscow.

Analysis

Nations within the next month, the meeting Nov. 25 in Malaysia of foreign ministers of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations could be the most significant meeting of Asian leaders in many years. Malaysia proposed a year ago that the association's member nations make a joint approach to China, the United States and the Soviet Union to guarantee the neutrality of Southeast Asia. The proposal has been considered impractical, partly because China is not a member of the United Nations.

British to make historical step

LONDON (UPI)—The British Parliament will take a fateful and historic decision Oct. 28 that could be the most crucial for Britain since she declared war on Nazi Germany in September, 1939.

The decision is whether or not she is to join the booming six-nation European Economic Community (EEC) or Common Market.

Its present members are France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg. Besides Britain, three other countries—the Irish Republic, Denmark and Norway—also have applied to join.

For this island nation, which throughout its history traditionally has looked outward across the oceans, joining the market would mean linking itself irrevocably with the continent of Europe.

It would mean creating a new 10-nation economic and political giant of 255 million people, stretching from the North Cape to Sicily and from the Atlantic Ocean to the River Elbe in Central Europe.

Its leaders hope to promote closer political unity and a common defense policy in an era when the United States is bent increasingly on cutting back its defense commitments overseas.

A decision not to join would mean that Britain—a country plagued by economic problems, and no longer an imperial power—would have to "go it alone" in a world jungle of increasingly tough competition for markets and prosperity.

Boards to have limited power

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon will give only limited independence to his new economic boards because he wants to make sure they take full account of the political imperative of producing results before the 1972 election.

The Pay Board and Price Commission will be autonomous only as long as they adopt policies consistent with Nixon's election-year goal of cutting in half the rate of inflation by the end of 1972.

Administration officials say if either panel deviates from the President's goals, action will be taken. The action is not spelled out but it could range from persuasion to dismissal of the offending board members.

As a concession to organized labor, Nixon said the governmental Cost-of-Living Council would not have a veto over decisions of the Pay Board or Price Commission.

But the goals which the panels will be shooting for will be set by the administration. And the administration will keep an eye on the situation to make sure the goals are met.

There is little chance that the new four-power agreement on the status of West Berlin will go into effect this year. The draft agreement was signed Sept. 3 by Britain, France, the United States and the Soviet Union, but the details being worked out by the Germans themselves have hit snags such as the East German argument that West Germans have no authority to negotiate on behalf of West Berlin. Another snag is that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko recently hinted that the Soviet Union will not sign the final protocol activating the Berlin agreement until the West German government has ratified its nonaggression treaties with Moscow and Warsaw. This certainly will not take place before 1972.

If Communist China becomes a member of the United
