Alaska H-test nears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unless the Supreme Court intervenes, the United States will explode its biggest underground atomic test at 5 p.m. EST Saturday—even though a White House adviser reported the blast may have unknown consequences so far as earthquakes and tidal waves are concerned.

Conservationists opposed to the test under the barren Aleutian Island of Amchitka were left with a Supreme Court appeal as their only recourse after the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals refused Wednesday to halt the test. The opponents claimed the government had not adequately considered the environmental impact of the test, but the court ruled the conservationists had not proved their point.

The blast will unleash a force 250 times as powerful as the bomb that destroyed Hiroshima. Its purpose will be to test the Spartan warhead, part of the nation's Antiballistic Missile System (ABM).

The government, meantime, released a stack of previously secret documents concerning potential effects of the blast, including one written 11 months ago by Russell E. Train, chairman of the White House Council on Environmental Quality. A lower federal court had ordered the documents released on the request of opponents to the blast.

"The population density in the Aleutian area is very low so even a major earthquake would cause little damage and little loss of life as a result of the direct impact of the earthquake itself," Train wrote.

But he added this would not be true if the "generated earthquake were so large as to extend towards mainland Alaska." He said this was improbable since the largest known quakes extend only 600 miles along a fault and Amchitka is 1,200 miles off the Alaska coast.

He said, however, "there are uncertainties with regard to fault lengths associated with earthquakes."

"The real danger from the triggering of a large earthquake by the nuclear explosion," Train said, "is in a tidal wave or 'tsunami'."

G. Hansen joins race for Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Rep. George V. Hansen, R-Idaho, said Wednesday that he is returning to Idaho to run for the Senate seat being vacated by Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho.

Hansen, who resigned a position with the Agriculture Department, said he expected to be in Idaho within a few days.

"I don't plan to run for the Senate," he said when reached at the Agriculture Department, where he said he was cleaning out his desk.

His resignation, Hansen said, was submitted last month to Kenneth E. Fric, administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and took effect Wednesday. Hansen was deputy administrator for state and county operations.

Aid program hammered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The embattled foreign aid program, with only 11 days of life left, still was caught today between demands for cutbacks in Congress and pressure from the administration for a complete revival.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee called a luncheon meeting to attempt a compromise it hoped would be agreeable to all sides. There were widespread indications the committee would decide to continue the program until June 30 at a level of about $2 billion to $2.5 billion a year.

The administration wants it continued at an annual level of $3.4 billion to $3.6 billion a year. Either way, the extension would be accomplished by a continuing resolution—a temporary measure which would permit spending past the Nov. 15 expiration date while Congress hammers out a new bill.

There were some doubts, however, whether the lower money figure being considered by the committee would be acceptable to either the panel or the Senate unless the administration offered additional assurances that the military aid program in Indochina would not take on Vietnam-sized proportions. Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., wants a reduction in or complete end to the $341 million aid program to Cambodia.

POW letters cut

PARIS (UPI) — The United States today accused North Vietnam of refusing to allow American prisoners of war to write to their families and said such conduct could only hurt the North Vietnamese cause.

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter told newsmen before the 135th session of the Vietnam Peace Conference that only 170 letters from prisoners held in North Vietnam had been received during the last six months.

"The general convention minimum requirement—two letters and four cards per month—calls for over 4,000 letters and 8,000 cards for the 339 U.S. prisoners there per half year," Porter said.

"We intend to demand that the North Vietnamese furnish an explanation on this matter," the U.S. diplomat said. "I might add that no letters at all have been received from prisoners held in the south and other places."

2 die — lowest war toll in years

SAIGON (UPI) — Two Americans were killed in action in Vietnam last week, the U.S. command reported today. It was the lowest toll since the United States took on an active combat role here more than six years ago.

Daily war communiqués throughout last week listed a total of five Americans killed. But deaths are not reported until after positive identification of the bodies and notification of the men's families, which can take weeks. Hence the lower total for last week.

The command said the death figure was the lowest since President Lyndon B. Johnson sent the U.S. Marines into Vietnam March 8, 1965.

In addition to two killed, 63 Americans were wounded—the lowest toll of injured in six weeks. The combat death toll has averaged fewer than six a week for the past four weeks. Last week's two war deaths reported by the command was a drop from seven men killed two weeks ago, spokesmen said.

In all, 45,506 American servicemen have died on Indochina battlefields since a mine killed the first U.S. soldier Dec. 23, 1961. Another 32,167 Americans have been wounded since the beginning of 1961, spokesmen said.

The South Vietnamese high command said that 200 government troops were killed in action last week, the lowest death toll since the week of Sept. 25, when 263 died. Another 562 Vietnamese were wounded last week, the high command said.

The deaths pushed the toll of South Vietnamese war dead since the beginning of 1961 to 139,023, spokesmen said. Allies last week estimated 1,050 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed, pushing the Communist toll for the war to 700,619, the U.S. command said.

With all those school trustees in town, do you think anybody will learn anything?

Solons balk at set date

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House-Senate conference committee refused today to approve legislation to set a deadline of next spring for complete U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

The group, working out a compromise in differences between differing versions of military arms bills approved by the House and Senate, eliminated a Senate clause calling for pullout in six months.

This was the so-called Mansfield amendment that stated it was "national policy" for total withdrawal by spring, provided American prisoners of war were released by then. The conferees went along only with the part saying total withdrawal should be "national policy."

The legislation would not be binding on the President. The amendment originally was sponsored by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and was easily approved in the Senate but was turned down in the House.

US wholesale prices lower for month

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices declined slightly in October, the Labor Department said today. It was the second consecutive month of decline in the key economic indicator.

The government's wholesale price index of all commodities dropped 0.1 per cent for October, following a 0.3 per cent decline in September—the only full months that President

Nixon's price freeze has been in effect.

The downward trend followed nine straight months of increases.

Based on a 1967 average of 100, the wholesale index now stands at 114.4, which is 3.1 per cent higher than a year earlier. Labor Department analysts credited the slight decline to the effects of the freeze. Raw agricultural products, which are not subject to price controls, increased 0.7 per cent. Processed foods and feeds, which are subject to price controls, dropped 0.4 per cent for the month.

The key industrial commodities index, the most closely watched component of the wholesale price index, showed no change in October.

Domestic car sales increased 1.6 per cent, with the department said was a less than seasonal rise for October when the introduction of new models generally boosts the commodity index. This conflicted with a report from Detroit Wednesday that October car sales set a record for one month—more than one-million autos.

Price-controlled products generally decreased during the month.

Vocation training stressed 5% wage ceiling

By LEE TREMAINE Times-News Writer. TWIN FALLS — State Rep. Ernest Allen, R-Nampa, chairman of the House Education Committee, called for "better curriculum and more guidance in vocational education" from Idaho school trustees today.

Allen addressed the convention of the Idaho School Trustees Assn. which opened at the College of Southern Idaho. The meetings conclude Saturday.

Allen appeared on a panel discussing what school boards may expect from the 1972 legislature along with Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert. Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, was unable to appear this morning but expected to be present this afternoon.

Allen told the trustees "Many people are clamoring for a change" in the field of vocational education. He urged the trustees to take an active role in solving the problems and "be more than a reactor."

Other problems to come before the legislature in the field of education will include the California Supreme Court ruling denying use of the property tax to support public schools. This case, Allen said, and the one which was recently filed in Idaho, "could create some very interesting and knotty problems in legislation."

Allen, a member of the Capital Education Commission of the States, will attend a group meeting in San Francisco, he said, where the tax ruling will be discussed.

Allen said other problems will include public kindergartens, re-defining the duties of the state department of education, reorganization of school districts, and area vocational high schools and other change in school laws.

"The greatest problem of all will be the financing of our education obligations."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Public members of the Pay Board proposed Wednesday that the wage freeze be extended until January and that subsequent pay and fringe benefit increases be limited to 5 per cent a year, sources close to the board reported.

The five members representing the public also proposed a ban on retroactive payment of wages and benefits denied during the freeze, in direct opposition to a demand outlined Tuesday by the board's labor members and repeated again Wednesday, the sources said.

Management members of the board also proposed a 5 per cent annual limit on pay increases after Jan. 1 and a ban on retroactive raises, but did not join the public members in suggesting an extension of the 90-day freeze expiring Nov. 13.

AFL-CIO President George Meany and other labor members were reported to have told their colleagues on the panel that the two proposals were "not in any way acceptable to organized labor."

One source described Wednesday's meeting as "three hours of frustration" for the labor members, but said neither the public members led by Chairman George Boldt, a semi-retired federal judge, or the business members made their proposals on a "take-it-or-leave-it basis."

Meany and his labor colleagues were said to have been pessimistic about the chances of winning their demand for full payment of all increases provided by contracts in force when the freeze began Aug. 15.

Labor sources have said Meany and the other four union members are likely to quit the board if deferred pay increases are not granted.

Board questions aide on school evaluations

By DAVID ESPO Times-News Writer. TWIN FALLS — Members of the Idaho Board of Education sharply questioned a state accreditation official today on the job his department is doing within the Idaho school system.

Reid Bishop, an accreditation official for high schools, appeared before the board at the opening of its two-day session at the Holiday Inn here.

Dr. John W. Swartley, Boise, a member of the board, expressed concern about what he termed "friends evaluating other friends" in the accreditation process. He also commented on the seeming lack of qualitative information incorporated into accreditation reports.

Bishop replied that accreditation standards have "a quantitative aspect" but also call for "judgmental decisions."

Dr. J. P. Munson, another board member, also was critical of accreditation operations.

He said, "We get quantitative rather than qualitative evaluation. I've never read in any of these reports anything that would indicate the quality of education coming out of these institutions."

Munson also questioned Bishop on the means of evaluating a teacher, asking how a teacher is rated other than on experience and educational background.

Bishop said that long evaluations of teachers would be an expensive proposition, necessitating a major increase in staff workers. He said, "I can't think of a way you can evaluate any English class on a one or two shot visit."

Also on the board's agenda today were a meeting with Harold Farley, of the state education department, to review budget information; a report from State Superintendent D. F. Engelking on kindergartens and comparison of a professional leave program with that of the state youth training center.

On Friday, the board will take up matters of vocational rehabilitation, the Idaho State School for the Deaf and Blind at Gooding, and the youth training center at St. Anthony.

Late this morning, the board was scheduled to meet with a representative of the College of Southern Idaho concerning educational television proposals.

Key bank cuts rate

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Chase Manhattan Bank Thursday announced a quarter point slash in its prime lending rate effective immediately.

The bank announced a cut to 5 1/2 per cent from 5 3/4 per cent.

In making the announcement the bank said "the continued downward trend in money market rates over the past two weeks makes a further reduction in the prime appropriate to keep it in line with short term interest rates generally."

Britons surround Catholics

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — More than 1,000 British troops surrounded a square mile Roman Catholic district of Belfast today and traded gunfire with snipers, including a lumber shooting from churches and a cemetery. Soldiers said they shot and killed at least one gunman and wounded a second in the hours-long battle in the Unity Flats Roman Catholic housing development northwest of central Belfast.

Public officials fail to obey laws

BOISE (UPI) — If you wonder why some of your fellow citizens sometimes are reluctant to obey the law, take a look at the record being compiled by those directed to apply and enforce them.

There seems to be a growing trend among public officials in Idaho to ignore those laws with which they either disagree, find too restrictive or consider invalid.

In some cases their decisions are based on honest questions about the constitutionality or actual practicality of the law.

In others it appears they simply do not care for its provisions.

For instance, Kootenai County Clerk Harold Peterson has refused to carry out provisions of the new Idaho voter re-registration law. He has raised some questions about it and has told the secretary of state he thinks it leads him in circles.

This contention is being contested—in a petition for a writ of mandate brought by Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa—and should lead to court adjudication of the question.

Some other cases in point, however, are not being contested—at least not at this writing—in the courts on legal or similar grounds.

These include a law requiring the Natural Resources Advisory Board to meet every March and October. This board, called into meeting by its chairman, now Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, has not met for the past 19 months.

Andrus is aware of the board and the requirement to meet twice a year. But he says he is reluctant to call a meeting of the board unless he can somehow be assured that such a meeting will be "productive."

To do otherwise, he contends, would be to waste taxpayers' money.

Another law—not as new as the 1967 statute creating the Resources Advisory Board—requires office space to be furnished in the Statehouse for the mines inspector.

This official now is moving out of the Statehouse to other quarters in the Capitol Mall—on orders from the acting director of administrative services, Robert Lenaghan.

When a reporter mentioned the law to Lenaghan this official noted the age of the statute and the need for more Capitol Building office space for elected officials. He added that nobody had brought the law to his attention—officially.

These, of course, are only a few cases in point. Others can be found, including the bending if not breaking of the statutes setting up the merit system under the State Personnel Commission.

To some, these instances are minor matters—petty annoyances. To others, they have various degrees of importance. But they all are indicative of one thing—public officials are not always obeying some of the laws they are sworn to apply and uphold. Perhaps some, if not many, laws now on the books are obsolete. If so, there are two ways to correct the situation—amend or repeal them or have them declared invalid by the courts.

This, so far, is something most officials have not considered—or, at least, tried.

In defense of the failure of some officials in the executive branch to follow the law as written, however, it must be noted they have had good instruction.

Senate requires auto re-design

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Overriding administration objections, the Senate approved legislation to require auto manufacturers to comply by mid-1973 with government standards for car design aimed at reducing the high cost of collision repairs.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., sailed through on an 89-4 roll call vote

Wednesday and was sent to the House, where hearings are to begin Tuesday.

Under the broadly worded legislation, the Transportation Department would set "properly loss reduction standards" for making cars less susceptible to damage in collisions and easier to repair at lower cost. The department opposed the entire bill.

Revenue Publishers request price control exemption

BOISE (UPI) — State Highway Engineer Ellis Mathes says a "substantial increase" will be needed in highway user revenue during the next fiscal year.

Mathes did not say what form of taxes are needed for the increase. But he told the Idaho Highway Users Conference Wednesday $5 million more is needed in state funds for highway construction purposes.

Meantime, Director Ollie Arbelbide of the Idaho Motor Transport Association called for a highway cost allocation study to provide more equitable highway user taxation on a long-range basis.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spokesmen for three associations of newspaper, book and magazine publishers — citing both economic and constitutional grounds — asked Congress Wednesday for an exemption from price controls.

They testified before the Senate Banking Committee, which is considering the administration's bill to extend until April 30, 1973, President Nixon's authority to control wage and prices. The law under which he imposed controls on Aug. 15 expires next April 30. (Assistant Attorney General Patrick J. Gray III on Monday told the Senate committee the administration was considering exempting publishers under the present law.)

Today's witnesses recalled that when Congress authorized price control during World War II and the Korean War it specifically exempted materials furnished for publication by any press association or feature service or books, magazines, motion pictures, periodicals or newspapers.

Eugene Duffield, chairman of the Magazine Publishers Association, said the press' freedom would be threatened if publishers had to appeal to government officials for the right to raise prices enough to remain in business.

"Can any government official be impartial in ruling on any price control appeal that would come before him?" he asked, contending officials' decisions would be colored by their opinion of the publication making the appeal.

Theodore Serrill, executive vice president of the National Newspaper Association, said price controls over the press probably violate the First Amendment's guarantee of freedom of the press.

"Control of prices charged by the press for its product is the first step toward control of the press in this country," he said.

Thomas B. Curtis, speaking for the 260 book-publishing members of the Association of American Publishers, said publishers would have to abandon the practice of reissuing old books if the books had to be priced no higher than when they first appeared.

"Elementary and secondary textbook publishers desperately need early advice," he said.

Alioto refuses offer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph Alioto, fresh from a re-election victory, said Wednesday he turned down as "ludicrous" an offer from Look magazine to settle his $12.5 million libel suit out of court.

Alioto, linked by a Look article to the Mafia, called a news conference to tell reporters he turned down the offer made two weeks ago.

Resolutions vote set

TWIN FALLS — Idaho school trustees have 23 resolutions, many concerning school financing, awaiting their vote during the state convention at the College of Southern Idaho. Trustees have voiced their opposition to ISTA spokesmen in preparation for the convention, with the resolutions drawn up in advance for their consideration. The resolutions call for changes in election dates, ask "accountability" by the public, urge abolition of the traditional teachers' institutes, seek more adequate funding by the state and oppose write-in candidate in trustee elections, among other issues. The election resolution takes note of "a certain degree of apathy" existing toward trustee elections, "as evidenced by the minimal numbers of votes cast in trustee elections held in April and May of each year," and asks that the trustees be elected "at the regular county election in November."

becoming increasingly concerned about the management and productivity of the public schools... and the public is entitled to be informed about these matters." Therefore, asks the resolution, "the Idaho School Trustees Association (should) go on record as supporting the concept of 'accountability' on a voluntary basis rather than on a mandatory, legislated basis." An explanation, the rationale for the "accountability" resolution says: "Education has become more and more costly in the last few years. Patrons and taxpayers are questioning whether or not they are getting full measure for dollars spent. It seems logical that, since it is their children and their money, they have the right of inquiry." "It also seems logical that schools should be willing to make an accounting to the public without it being mandated by law." "The trustees will consider abandoning the present practice of holding two-day teachers' institutes each fall since the scheduling "has become a cumbersome burden for local districts and much time and money is spent in travel." A large number of resolutions are concerned with school funding, including advocating 75 per cent state support of public schools, diversion of sales and income-tax receipts to school support, exemption of school districts from paying "excise, franchise, sales or use taxes" asking provision for periodic review and revising of school-district budgets during the school year, and, in resolutions held over from the 1970 convention, asking the state to "acknowledge responsibility to its students in Idaho and assume a larger portion of the cost of education," and asking that the federal government to "distribute substantial financial assistance to the public schools of the state of Idaho, as well as to the other 49 states for general rather than special educational purposes."

The default rates among student recipients of federally insured higher education loans are running close to four to six percent, the American Association of State College and Universities reports.

Events set for wives

TWIN FALLS — Wives of Idaho school trustees will be entertained at two functions scheduled for their benefit during the convention of the Idaho State Trustees Assn. The wives will tour the Kellwood hosiery mill this afternoon and will be invited to tour the downtown mall and business district. In addition, they are invited to examine the many exhibits on display in the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts building of goods and services of interest to educators.

On Friday, a luncheon is scheduled at the Blue Lakes Country Club at noon, with Mrs. Norval Wildman Burley, whose husband is ISTA president, as hostess.

Twin Falls school trustee Mrs. Ruth Day will serve as toastmistress for the luncheon. Music will be provided by the Twin Falls High School Madrigal Singers, directed by Richard Smack.

Miss Karen Herd, 1971 Miss Idaho and first runner-up in the Miss America Pageant, will discuss her pageant experiences for the women during Friday's luncheon.

This evening's variety show in the CSI Auditorium, featuring musical groups of Magic Valley schools, is also open to the trustees' wives for their enjoyment.

HARRY H. BRADLEY

Bradley talks to Rotary

TWIN FALLS — Doubts about the effectiveness of prison rehabilitation programs were voiced by Harry H. Bradley, director of community development for the University of Nevada, Reno, in a talk before the Twin Falls Rotary Club Wednesday.

Bradley described educational programs he established for the Nevada prison system, including a large auto mechanics setup.

"I doubt very much if we really rehabilitate inmates," Bradley said. He said inmates were given tools and trades in prison, but they will not be rehabilitated until the public accepts them as people and former inmates are given jobs.

Bradley said all unions except sheet metal workers have accepted the Nevada prison trade education program, through which inmates may complete their apprenticeships.

Chamber speaker slated

TWIN FALLS — Chet Huntley, former television newsmen, will be guest speaker in January at the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce annual dinner.

Announcement of Huntley's appearance in Twin Falls was made today by Bob Harvey, chamber president, who said his group is very appreciative of acceptance of their invitation by Huntley.

The annual membership dinner will be at 7 p.m. Jan. 16 at the Holiday Inn.

Huntley, who retired from NBC last year, is now chairman of the board of Big Sky Montana, Inc., Gallatin Gateway, Mont.

He also is author of two books, "Chet Huntley Commentary" and "The Generous Years."

Huntley started his broadcasting career in the northwest. He was with radio in Seattle from 1934 until 1936, then worked in Spokane and Portland until moving to Los Angeles. There he worked for CBS from 1939 until 1950 and ABC from 1950 until 1955. From 1955 until his retirement he was with NBC in Los Angeles and New York City.

At the time of his retirement he was a member of the Huntley-Brinkley news team widely watched by the nation.

Dr. James L. Taylor, president of the College of Southern Idaho, will be master of ceremonies at the dinner.

TF PTSA open house slated

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls High School Parent-Teacher-Student Association (PTSA) will sponsor the traditional open house meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, in which parents will meet their youngsters' teachers in classroom situations.

Following the monthly PTSA meeting in the cafeteria, parents will be asked to follow their youngsters' classroom schedules, meeting in each room in turn for brief classes. Teachers will explain their goals and lesson plans, and be available to answer questions about individual students.

An unusual feature of this year's open house will be the awarding of door prizes, a portable stereo player, to a member of the PTSA during the meeting.

Fighting For Right To Pray

WASHINGTON — A much-decorated Patton veteran organized and is leading the bipartisan drive in Congress to approve a Constitutional amendment permitting non-denominational prayer in public schools.

He is Rep. Chalmers Wylie, R-Ohio, who won five combat decorations with the 30th Infantry Division, one of Gen. Patton's ace fighting outfits. Wylie's decorations are the Silver Star, Bronze Star, Purple Heart and French and Belgian medals.

Repeated efforts in Congress to undo these decrees through a Constitutional amendment were blocked by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), veteran chairman of the House Judiciary Committee. He adamantly refused to permit the legislation to be considered, arbitrarily pigeonholing it in his committee.

Constitutional amendment, he pointedly notes, that the picture in the Senate is highly uncertain and that, even if Congress enacts the proposal, it has to be ratified by the legislatures of 38 states. Says Wylie: "Approval of a resolution to amend the Constitution requires more than a majority of the House and Senate. It requires a two-thirds majority of both branches of Congress. And even then the story isn't over. The measure has to be ratified by 38 states before it can become a part of the fundamental law of the land, the Constitution."

Blood Donations

In light of much recent bad publicity over various aspects of blood donations and transfusion, the American Association of Blood Banks has embarked upon a nationwide public education campaign.

He notes that blood transfusions were actually the first human tissue transplants since blood is actually a living tissue.

"If we continue to allow for the payment for blood, eventually we will have to put price tags on hearts, kidneys and lungs, and permit human bodies to be bartered to the highest bidder."

The AABB estimates that currently only about three per cent of the 100 million medically fit adults in this country give blood each year voluntarily.

Are you one of the three per cent? If not, remember that the nation's blood needs are rising about 12 per cent each year. This year blood banks need seven million pints of human blood. One of your own relatives or friends may be among those in need.

If you would like to give blood truly a gift of life — contact the nonprofit blood collection facility in your locality. It may be a hospital, community blood bank or Red Cross center.

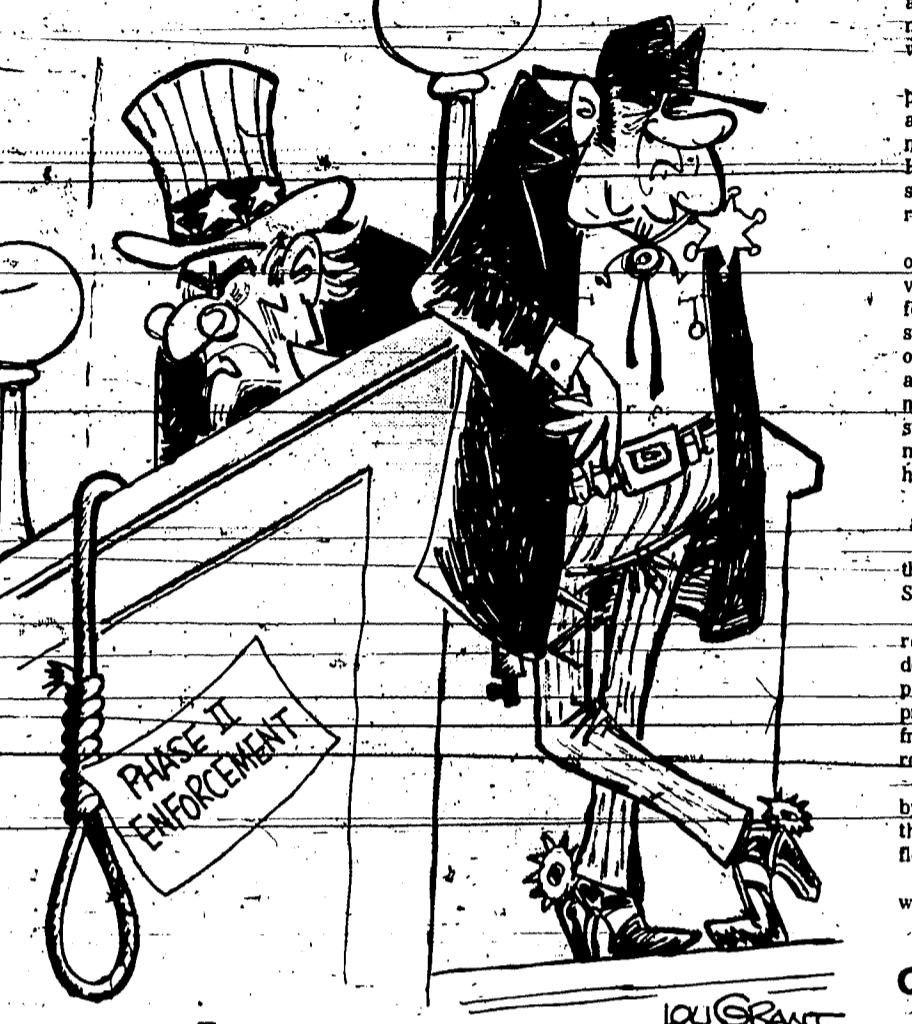

The program aims to recruit more volunteer blood donors and thus eliminate the high risks of hepatitis and other infectious diseases associated with bad blood donation practices.

The AABB is especially upset about clinics that pay blood "donors" to "contribute."

"We must convince people that only they can eradicate bad practices and paid donors through volunteering to give blood. We want to eradicate the paid donor as quickly as possible," Dr. William G. Battaile, AABB president says.

Battaile explains that paying for blood not only increases the likelihood of transmitting hepatitis through transfusions — by attracting a certain lower class of donors — but it discourages voluntary donations as well.

Soviet Crime

In the Soviet Union, crime has apparently reached a stage where authorities feel compelled to reassure the public and to offer explanations why the situation isn't better.

The country's police chief appeared on national television and was questioned by five Soviet reporters. His subject: Law and order, or, the crime situation.

The police chief, Nikolai A. Shelokov, asserted that crime in the Soviet Union was a legacy of the past and will take time and "unrelenting struggle" to eliminate. The significance of the statement surfaces in translation. He conceded the crime situation is bad, but since a socialist state isn't supposed to have crime, he wanted to make sure that the people understood clearly why there are still thefts, robberies and sexual assaults: The bad influence of the bourgeois past.

MR. SPECTATOR

The Voice Is Stilled

As it must to all men, death came to Richard L. Evans earlier this week.

His voice was "The Spoken Word" on LDS choir broadcasts which he joyed way back in 1930.

Although not a member of that church, Mr. Spectator has listened to and admired and appreciated the choir and Mr. Evans down the years since 1933. It was then that Mr. Spectator, a student at the University of Chicago, first turned to the choir broadcast on CBS radio. It was, as Mr. Evans said, "from the crossroads of the West."

Like most students away from home, Mr. Spectator was lonely and blue. Each Sunday morning he looked forward to that voice from a place so near Idaho. It was, in fact, just like a voice from home and the longing to go back swelled within. As soon as he was out of school, Mr. Spectator did head back for Idaho and there is no doubt that the voice from the West—the voice of Mr. Evans—had a lot to do with the decision.

Mr. Evans was known over the world. He was many things to many people and his Sunday morning sermonettes—continuing from radio into television over Channel Five in Salt Lake City—helped thousands and got people to thinking. He had written more than 2,000 of them on various subjects. He was editor of the Church publication, a member of the Twelve Apostles and was very active in community work. At one time he was international president of Rotary.

Born in Salt Lake City in 1906, he was the last of nine children. His father died just 10 weeks after he was born. He was, in fact, a self-made man.

And now at 65 his voice has been stilled. He will speak no more from statement surfaces in translation. He conceded the crime situation is bad, but since a socialist state isn't supposed to have crime, he wanted to make sure that the people understood clearly why there are still thefts, robberies and sexual assaults: The bad influence of the bourgeois past.

He also urged stepped-up efforts against juvenile crime. Again, his reason was not that such crime is rising but that the state must have a feeling of "concern for the well-being of the next generation."

The next generation apparently needs a great deal of "concern."

"The crossroads of the West." Someone will take his place on the regular Sunday television show which comes at 9:35 a.m. Yes, someone will take his place—but his place will not be filled.

In the background Mr. Spectator—and thousands of others—will always hear:

"And so we leave you, within the shadows of the everlasting hills. May peace be with you this day and always."

In memory the voice of Mr. Evans—the spoken word—will come in loud and clear.

DRIFTING BACK

Dear Mr. Spectator: Your interesting comments on the data in the 1940 atlas sent me to my old geography book, Idaho edition, copyright 1907 that I used at Poplar Hill school in 1908-09.

According to the book Idaho had 23 counties, only four of them with populations over 20,000. The four were: Fremont, with 26,000; Nez Perce with 25,000; Latah with 21,500 and Ada with 21,000. These were all, presumably, under the 1900 census.

Boise was the largest city, population not given, but it was mentioned as the center of an important grazing district.

Cassia and Twin Falls were in the list of counties but no population was given. A footnote said that "the counties changed by recent legislation have no authoritative showing on any record."

However, an up to date map in the book shows Cassia and Twin Falls counties and also shows four towns in Twin Falls county—namely Rock Creek, Twin Falls, Pifer and Roseworth.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

The Best Deal

WASHINGTON (NEA) — This town has virtually ignored an important study which casts severe doubt on the loud claims of some U.S. lawmakers that we could save vast sums by bringing home at least half of our troops in Europe.

While the Senate last spring was beating down a troop-cutting proposal advanced by Sen. Mike Mansfield, people like Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota were saying the move would save $7 billion yearly.

Experts at the responsible, thorough Brookings Institution, a private research organization, knocked that figure silly at the time. But even though the Mansfield proposition lost, the emotional sounds from the troop-cutters drowned out the careful rebuttals.

Now Brookings is back, with a well-researched review of the issue of U.S. troops in Europe. It got about as much attention as would a scholarly discussion of wind currents at Tierra del Fuego.

Brookings' man on the financial aspects of the troop issue is Edward R. Fried. In 42 pages, he pretty well demolishes the argument that bringing the boys home will save us billions.

Fried doesn't say it, but it can be said: The troop-cutters' contention is misleading to the point of gross irresponsibility.

What he does say is this: "The only way to effect large budget savings in military expenditure for NATO... is to deactivate troops assigned to NATO or oriented to meet European contingencies." In other words, saving money depends not on reducing force levels in Europe but on reducing the total U.S. force structure.

"The cutters of course, are not saying 'cut the Army,' they simply propose to shift the station of some 120,000 troops from Europe to the United States.

Fried's detailed analysis of all the factors involved suggests to him that such a move "could, in the end, cost more money." He believes that keeping our present 300,000-man force level in Europe may be "by far the best budgetary bargain."

"It costs about the same to maintain a division force in Europe as it does in the United States.

It is, be sure, the 27,000 military dependents in Europe and the 14,000 American civilians serving with U.S.

forces in Europe cost money — but no more than they would at home.

Family allowances are about the same. In fact they might increase, because government-furnished housing for dependents is already in place in Europe, but more would be needed at U.S. bases if the troops were returned."

There would be some savings, since costs associated with rotation of forces and overseas supply would be slashed.

Yet Fried estimates that, even if ALL our NATO forces were brought home (instead of just half), the annual savings would be only $200 million to $300 million.

And, as an offset, he projects what he calls one-time costs (those involved in moving men, placing them back in this country, re-equipping them) at around $370 million for each redeployed division.

ART BUCHWALD

New Fares

WASHINGTON — There are so many heads of state, presidents, vice presidents, premiers, kings, queens, prime ministers and emperors traveling to other countries these days that the airlines have decided to offer special air-fare rates to world leaders.

Freres A. Jacqua, chairman of the special fares division of the International Airline Assn., told me:

"The International Airline Assn. has just completed a study which shows that, as a group, world leaders are traveling more than any other profession. Therefore we have made special discount rates to assure they will go by air."

"That's wonderful," I said. "We are trying to get world leaders to take their wives with them on their trips, so we are now advertising a new rate. If you are the head of your country and you are on an official state visit to another country, you can take your wife for $99 plus tax, providing you don't stay in the country for more than four days."

"It hardly pays for a leader to leave his wife at home at those rates," I said.

"If you can get 10 heads of state to travel together on the same plane, our airlines will offer a 25 per cent discount, and the leaders don't have to stay together once they land at the airport," he added.

"Too bad those fares weren't in effect when the shah of Iran celebrated his country's 2,500th anniversary," I commented.

"We also have other special fares," Mr. Jacqua said. "If you're the vice president of a country and you visit any NATO dictatorship and stay for less than 30 days, you can take your same service men with you at half fare."

"That's better than student rates," I cried. "Do you have any special rates for dictators?"

"Yes, we have a new totalitarian rate. Any dictator may fly at a 40 per cent discount providing he travels in uniform."

"What about heads of state who have been deposed in coups d'etat?"

"Any head of state who has been kicked out by a military coup may travel to any other country for 20 per cent less, providing he does not fly on the weekend."

"I imagine you also have a family plan for deposed leaders?" I inquired.

"We do. They can take one wife or two mistresses and up to 10 children for half price, but there is no discount if they go over their luggage allowance."

"Is there any difference in rates charged leaders of the Communist world and those charged leaders of the Free World?" I wanted to know.

"Every airline has its own policy on that. For example, El Al, the Israeli Airline, will give a discount to Soviet leaders, but only on a standby basis — they have to wait to board, to see if any seats are left."

"We also have arranged charter fares for the United Nations. We plan to fly Peking delegates to New York for $15 and Taipei delegates back to Taiwan for the same price. The reason we can charge so little is that the planes will be filled both ways."

"What about someone like Henry Kissinger, who is not a head of state but is traveling on business for the President?"

Finally Wylie, elected in 1966 and relatively still a junior member, tackled Celler head-on with a discharge petition.

This is an exceptional procedure, is rarely invoked and is even less successful as a majority (218 members) of the House are required to make such a motion operative. Wylie refused to be deterred.

He offered his petition to override Celler and launched a vigorous bipartisan campaign for 218 signatures. To the surprise and cheering acclaim of colleagues, Wylie triumphed and lined up the necessary number to wrest the long-stalled Constitutional amendment out of Celler's obstructive hands.

The measure is now slated for a showdown vote Nov. 9. The outlook is promising — in the House! The situation in the Senate is much less so.

Thus, while the long effort to restore voluntary non-denominational prayer in the public schools has made progress, the struggle is far from won. So far only the first round has been surmounted.

That fact is strongly stressed by Rep. Wylie in preparing for the impending, momentous floor battle in the House.

While firmly confident of winning House approval of the Soft Spots

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son is 18½ months old and as yet his "soft spot" has not completely closed up.

When I asked our pediatrician about it, all he said was that we'll have to watch it. I couldn't get a direct answer from him and this alarms me. Should we be concerned? — Mrs. P.T.

At birth there are four fontanelles, or "soft spots," in a baby's skull. The skull, to begin with, is not a solid piece of bone, but forms in segments which later fuse together. The places where the bones will fuse are the "soft spots."

There is one on each side of the head, one in back, and the largest one in front.

Those on the sides and back of the head close by about the second month, but the one in front, to which I am sure you refer, may not close until the 20th month.

So, no, I don't see any reason for you to be alarmed at this stage of the game.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When a person has leg cramps and has to get out of bed several times each night to walk them out, does it indicate faulty circulation? If so can something be done to improve the circulation and should that provide at least some relief? — L. W. M.

IT MAY indicate faulty circulation — and may not. Lack of calcium in the diet is another possibility. Faulty foot structure is another. Also excessive use of the muscles by exercise.

When poor circulation is the essential cause, medication often helps. So can exercises that stimulate circulation in the legs. In a few specialized cases, surgery sometimes is possible. Sometimes a combination of exercises and medication is the best answer.

I suggest that for fuller details you send 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope for my booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps."

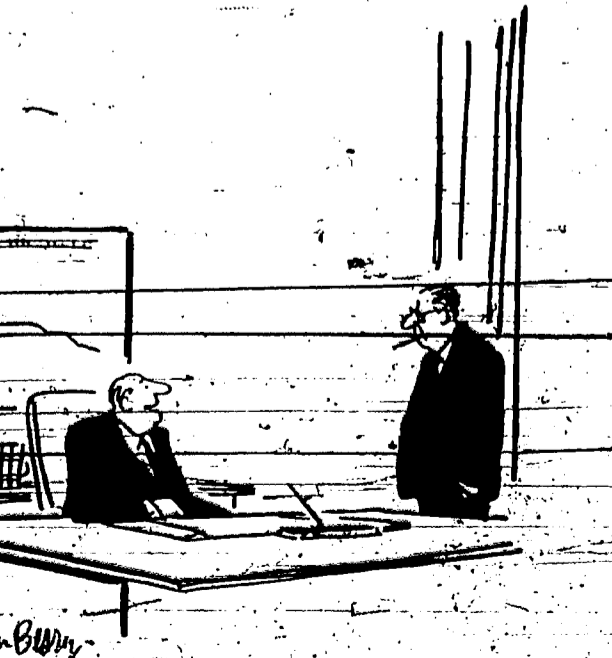

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Over a year ago I had a wrist. The surgeon said there was probably a 50 per cent chance of its coming back in a year or so. It did, and I've had it removed again by another surgeon who said there was a 75 per cent chance of return, and I should not have the operation again unless it was very necessary.

I would very much like to play tennis for another 20 years, but it seems this ganglion bit will interfere. Is there anything that can be done to prevent continuing growth? G. B. F.

They told you the truth: there's a strong chance of a ganglion's recurring. A ganglion is a cyst or herniation in a tendon sheath.

There is no way of preventing recurrence, but usually a ganglion is not large, and I'm not clear as to why you feel it would prevent tennis.

Andrus raps highway plan

BOISE (UPI) — A proposal to share federal road funds with state and local agencies does not meet criteria for a balanced transportation system, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Wednesday.

Andrus told the Idaho Highway Users Conference that it is possible a revenue-sharing concept could result in substantial improvement to the present complex social programs of welfare and urban rehabilitation.

"In its proposed form, however, it does not meet the criteria for a balanced transportation system," Andrus said.

He said that with the exception of the interstate, all existing federal-aid highway systems would be abolished.

"This could well lead to a construction program comprised of isolated projects with no consideration given to development of integrated systems," Andrus said.

He added there is much concern as well as to possible impact of the current revenue-sharing proposal on existing highway programs.

"It seems inevitable that in the current proposal any potential fund increase would accrue to the benefit of the more urbanized states — especially to a few lying along the eastern seaboard of our country," he said.

"This is definitely inherent in the proposed distribution formula which provides that 35 percent of total funds be allocated on the basis of urban population."

Andrus said he believes the current level of federal-aid funding for the primary, secondary and urban highways systems almost certainly would be reduced under the system as proposed.

"Within the individual states, particularly those with high levels of urban population, the

Amendment reaction only cool

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said Wednesday those responding to a poll in the Second District gave only cool endorsement to the 26th Amendment lowering the voting age to 18 in all elections.

Hansen said 48 per cent of those responding indicated approval of the amendment, 47 per cent disapproved and five per cent had no opinion.

Hansen said, however, acceptance of the 18-year-old vote had increased sharply since his questionnaire a year ago when only 34 per cent favored the measure, or per cent opposed it and five per cent gave no response.

Hansen said many of those responding qualified the approval of the amendment with the opinion that only 18-year-olds in the military service should be allowed to vote.

Helicopter picks up lost hunters Highway clearing sought

CHALLIS, Idaho (UPI) — Two California hunters missing in the mountainous area north of here since Sunday were picked up by helicopter Wednesday shortly after searchers spotted the wreckage of their Cessna 182.

The plane, and Ron Sanders, Los Angeles, were taken to a Challis motel after they said they wanted to sleep.

Manning said Zeller and Sanders stamped out an "SOS" in the snow and lined the letters with tree branches to aid the air-borne searchers.

Zeller and Sanders were part of a party of four that planned to hunt in the area. Zeller's brother, Norm Zeller, Sacramento, remained in Challis while the first passenger was dropped and reported the missing aircraft when it failed to return to Challis.

It was a difficult search area. Zeller and Sanders stayed with the airplane for four days, using equipment aboard to make a shelter.

Donnelly gets funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A $53,000 loan and a $28,500 grant to Donnelly has been approved by the Farmer's Home Administration, according to the office of Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho.

The funds will enable the city to construct a rural community sewer system for its 60 rural families, including collection and treatment facilities.

Bodies of plane victims found

KEMMERER, Wyo. (UPI) — The bodies of three Cody men killed in a light plane crash, discovered Tuesday by a Diamondville, Wyo., man hunting stray sheep, were taken to Kemmerer Wednesday for return to Cody.

Killed in the crash were pilot David Craig and two of his employees, Mike Wilder and Gene LaRue.

The crumpled wreckage of the single-engine Cessna 172, missing since Friday on a flight from Thermopoli, to Blanding, Utah, was discovered by Alec Carlisle, 20, Lincoln County Sheriff Max

Braegger and deputies drove to the crash site and returned the bodies to Kemmerer.

Federal Aviation Administration officials will investigate the crash which apparently occurred during a blizzard which hit the state last week.

Carlisle explained he was on a snowmobile hunting sheep that might have strayed after the storm when he spotted something unusual in the pasture.

"On Monday, my dad and I were within 500 yards of it on snowmobiles and never saw it," Carlisle said.

Manning said there was "substantial damage" to the plane, adding it was "pretty much destroyed, I'd guess."

The aeronautics director said one of the causes of the accident was the lack of sufficient navigation aides in the Salmon-Challis area. He said the State Aeronautics Board is currently trying to get the Federal Aviation Administration to install a VHF-Omnirange in the vicinity of Challis in "very very tough, heavily timbered country."

En encroachment by land owners and renters on highway right of way in the rural areas is continuing to create problems for the Twin Falls Highway District crews. Highway District Engineer Keith Andersen said today the district will be forced to take legal steps to enforce right of way clearance if property owners do not remove obstructions.

He said many farmers use the right of way in front of their homes or along the property to dump sugar beet trucks filled with dirt which has fallen from newly harvested beets, to park machinery and vehicles and to build fences and plant shrubs or to dump trash.

Anderson said this makes it difficult for the crews to maintain right of way with mowers and other equipment, and it blocks natural drainage resulting in damage to roadways and other right of way. In addition, it creates an unsightly condition in the rural area, he said.

Reorganization of health unit urged

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Mental Health Association asked state health board chairman Fred Humphreys to reconsider the plan for reorganization of the State Health Department, now under study by the board.

Association President Dale Higer of Boise, in a letter, Wednesday to Humphreys, urged that all non-environmental services be grouped in two bureaus instead of one as proposed in the new reorganization.

The association recommended that mental health, mental retardation and child development and youth rehabilitation be included in the "Social Services Bureau" while the other be put in a "Personal Health Services Bureau."

In support for its recommendations for the personal health services and social services bureaus, the association said the health board would be more likely to find bureau directors who would be trained and well qualified in the programs.

Lawsuit set against sheriff

BOISE (UPI) — One of nine persons arrested last August following a demonstration at the Rodeway Inn here said Wednesday he intends to bring a lawsuit against Ada County Sheriff Paul Bright.

Thomas F. Derrick said he will ask for $1,000 for compensatory damages and $25,000 for punitive damages, claiming he was assaulted.

Charges against the nine were dropped after Ada County Prosecutor James E. Risch said a trial would be turned into a forum for political beliefs.

Prisoners throttle guard and escape

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Three Utah State Prison inmates throttled a guard with their leg chains and handcuffs and escaped Wednesday while they were being driven from the Salt Lake County Jail to Point of the Mountain.

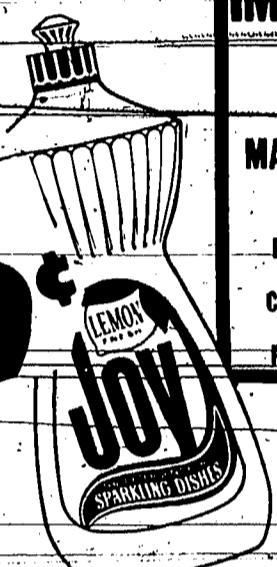

Ted Gee, deputy warden at the prison, said the break for freedom came on Interstate 15 near 90th South when one of the trio hooked his chains around the neck of guard Jack Waldron and ordered his partner, Thomas Bona, to leave the freeway.

The inmates freed themselves with keys they took from the guard's pockets.

Jerome spurs drive for love at Christmas to Vietnam

JEROME — Jerome area residents are being asked to help show "love at Christmas to Vietnam."

Mrs. Jason L. Hurd, Jerome, whose husband is a chief warrant officer in the U. S. Army, is spearheading efforts. Her husband helps an orphanage in Saigon in addition to his military duties.

His wife said to date almost 400 pounds of children's clothing have been sent to the orphanage, through the help of the HOPE (Help Other People Everywhere) center in Jerome. She, where her husband has thanked all Jerome residents who can extend a helping hand to others. He is chairman of the orphanage program and writes there are between 35 and 50 children at this particular institution, ranging in ages from 1 to 18.

In addition, HOPE is assisting Mrs. Hurd in supplying items difficult to obtain in the Vietnam war area for servicemen as well.

Mrs. Julia Sloat, director of HOPE, said that the following items are needed for servicemen: stationery, pens, pencils, shower shoes, paperback books, bars of soap, combs, toothpaste, toothbrushes, items of personal comfort, hard candy, powdered drinks and shaving lotion in plastic containers.

For the orphans: children's clothing, lightweight, clean and in good repair; soap, needles, thread, blunt-end scissors, toys, crayons, color books, pencils, notebooks, small picture books, decks of cards and simple games.

Mrs. Hurd explained that postage is a very important factor in getting these items delivered to Vietnam before Christmas. She reminds residents that HOPE is tax deductible and all contributions for postage to HOPE in care of Mrs. James E. Sloat, Jerome. She said that all Jerome school children will be given notices to take home this week and many of these items may be returned to the school. Teachers will place them in the general collection box in the principal's office at each school.

These items will be collected regularly by volunteers and packed for shipment. The deadline for contributions will be Nov. 16, but she urges promptness in sending and filling the boxes that will be at the following locations: Jerome High School, Junior high school, Jefferson School, Lincoln School, Washington School, Safeway Store, Paul's Market, Hamilton Drug, McCleery Drugs, Kings and HOPE.

Mrs. Hurd said that arrangements have been made with the officials at the College of Southern Idaho for a box to be placed in the administration office for Twin Falls residents and college students who wish to contribute. Ted Klaas, Jerome, student at CSI, will take care of the items for HOPE.

Items needed

WORKING ON BOXES that were placed in different areas around Jerome to collect items to be sent to Vietnam for Christmas are, from left, Mrs. Jason L. Hurd, Donna Ostler and Jo Barrett. Others who assisted were Dianne Adams, Kay Davidson, Kay Schollosky, Barbara Johnson, Joy Shropshire and Julia Sloat.

State supreme court sets Monday opening

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court will hear eight cases at its November term beginning Monday in Boise, including one test of the condemnation of property for urban renewal projects.

The case is an appeal from a Fourth District Court decision which upheld as constitutional the part of the Idaho Urban Renewal Law of 1965 which allowed condemnation of Boise proerty owned by the Yick Kong Corp. of Washington. The property was condemned as part of Boise's urban renewal program under which all property within a deteriorated area will be cleared and replaced by public facilities including off-street parking. The program was to be financed by the issuance of revenue bonds in the name of Boise Redevelopment Agency. Other cases to be heard include ones: Testing whether the Idaho Water Resource Board statutes violate provisions of the Idaho and the federal constitution; To determine whether a waiver of jurisdiction under the Youth Rehabilitation Act would constitute double jeopardy for the defendant who would have to face felony charges if tried as an adult.

2 TF men rescued from hills

TWIN FALLS — Two young Twin Falls men were thanking their citizens band radio equipment and several Twin Falls amateur radio operators today for rescuing them from the snow covered South Hills Monday morning.

Craig Fisher, 25, and George Galvan, 24, both Twin Falls, went into the South Hills Sunday afternoon, via the Indian Springs Road to "try out a new four-wheel drive vehicle."

Apparently the trial was not a 100 per cent success as the vehicle became stuck in about 18 inches of snow. Fisher said the vehicle slid into a small canyon and they were unable to dig, push or winch it out.

They carried a small citizens band radio transmitter and receiver unit in their vehicle and began sending out calls for help. By about 10:30 p.m. Sunday, Jim Smith, amateur operator, picked up their distress call but was unable to make out the full message.

He contacted Olive Morrison who could hear their transmissions but had difficulty getting through to them. The two radio operators maintained telephone communication and the stranded men could hear Smith, but he could not hear them. Mrs. Morrison could hear them but they could not hear her, so a circle communication system was set up with radio, and telephone units.

The CBR operators contacted the stranded men's families and then went to Buhl for a second four-wheel drive and additional operators. The group located Fisher and Galvan about 6:30 a.m. by use of radio equipment and firing of gunshots.

Fisher said because they were stranded in a small canyon, it was difficult to get a radio signal out and he felt fortunate they were picked up by Smith. He said they were in the McMullin basin area about 30 miles from Kimberly. Both men suffered minor frost bite of the feet and hands while attempting to keep warm during the night around a small campfire.

Jerome chorus sets toy drive

JEROME — The Jerome Senior High School Chorus on behalf of HOPE will start a drive next week to collect toys to be donated to the needy in the Jerome area, according to Mrs. Julia Sloat, director of HOPE.

Mrs. Sloat said the chorus members will be going door to door in the Jerome area asking for toys that are in good condition to be taken to her home where they will be sorted and given to the Elks Lodge to help fill the baskets given each year at Christmas time to the needy in this area.

For their help Mrs. Sloat said HOPE will donate $100 to the chorus. This money will also be given for the help the members gave HOPE last month in removing the ceiling and cleaning out the debris at the new location of HOPE.

Mrs. Sloat said the money had been originally intended to be given to the chorus members for their assistance in moving HOPE to its new location, but due to Homecoming activities that week the singers were unable to help with the move.

Carson Wong, director of the chorus, said the drive will be under the direction of Dale Baughman, president of the Jerome Senior High Chorus. It is hoped that all Jerome residents will help to make the drive successful, he said.

North Side dinner set by Republicans

WENDELL — The Gooding County Republican Central Committee will sponsor a no-host dinner for Gooding, Camas, and Jerome County Republicans at 7 p.m. Nov. 11 at the Lincoln Inn, Gooding.

Mrs. Orriette Sinclair, Republican national committee woman from Idaho, and Earl Greenwalt, Jerome, state representative from Jerome County, will be featured speakers. They will discuss national and state situations which should be of vital interest to all Republicans.

Although tickets may be purchased at the door, commitments should be made to county committee chairman not later than Monday, said Mrs. C. E. Spencer, Wendell, precinct committee woman.

Training jamboree set for Kimberly

KIMBERLY — A training jamboree for all Boy Scout leaders of the Snake River Area Council will be held Saturday at the Kimberly High School.

Registration starts at 9:30 a.m., said Jim Archibald, Wendell, north side training chairman and general chairman for the event.

He said the day will include

'showando' trail skills, cookout demonstrations and other skills and crafts. Fun events also will be included and the day will end with a camp fire session and free supper.

He said anyone associated with scouting, including parents of Boy Scouts, is invited. The jamboree will end about 9 p.m.

Buhl awards well contract

BUHL — Buhl City council awarded a contract to Andrew Well Drilling Co. Tuesday night for a new well to augment the city water supply.

The contract is for $32,075 and the well will be dug on one acre of land located on Truck Lane where the city purchased from Ted Diehl. Only other business acted on by councilmen on the election night was passage of an ordinance providing for wine sales in the city. The license fee will be $25 and it will be prorated, city officials said.

Burns won't bow

DR. ARTHUR F. BURNS, right, chairman of Federal Reserve Board, tells Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, that he will resign his role in helping enforce President Nixon's new economic policy rather than bow to White House dictation on economic advice he gives to Congress. Burns appeared at hearing before Senate Banking committee on proposed one-year extension of presidential price control powers. (UPI)

New route into use

TWIN FALLS — Heavy harvest vehicles and other traffic is moving over the new road into the Bell Rapids project west of Hagerman, Kelth Andersen, engineer for the Twin Falls Highway District, said today.

The road was constructed by the highway district in a new location to give residents and operators of farms on the new project a more direct route and a better road from U.S. 30 near Hagerman.

The road has been built and topped with gravel for all-weather use, Andersen said. It covers about 3.5 miles of new construction and follows a ridge generally believed to have been utilized by covered wagons on the Old Oregon Trail.

In addition, about six to seven miles of road construction and improvement has been accomplished on the project this year, largely through a self-imposed assessment by land owners on the project.

Andersen said in about two weeks the district will have preliminary reports from consulting engineers working on a long range transportation study and plan for the entire new land development in the area including the Bell Rapids and Black Mesa projects.

The study is conducted by Riedesel and Straubhaar, consulting engineers, Twin Falls, a division of JUB Engineers.

Andersen said it was made in December, 1970, as a joint project between the Bell Rapids Irrigation District, Twin Falls Highway District and the Buhl, Hagerman and Bliss districts.

He said Twin Falls Highway District provided half of the cost of the study with the irrigation company one fourth and the remaining fourth shared by the smaller highway districts.

TF fair leaders to rodeo contest

TWIN FALLS — Gene Hull, member of the Twin Falls County fair board and Tom Shouse, fair manager, will leave Sunday for Las Vegas, Nev., and the Miss Rodeo America contest where Hull will serve as one of the judges.

Hull has been chairman of the Miss Rodeo Idaho contest conducted in conjunction with the Twin Falls County Fair the past several years, and will judge personality and appearance in the national competition. Shouse said the Idaho competition has drawn national attention as an outstanding event and in some cases has been used as a pattern for the national contest.

Lana Brackenburg, Jerome, current Miss Rodeo America, will also attend the week-long program in Las Vegas and will turn her crown and title over to the 1974 winner at the close of the event.

Music group seeks needy organization

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Magic Valley Country Music Assn. are looking for an organization which could use $1,000 or more for a worthy purpose.

Association members will hold their annual Country Music Festival Feb. 14, 15 and 16, and their only worry is what to do with the proceeds of the popular event since the association is a non-profit group.

For the past three years they have given funds to Harbor House to help with the permanent building program. They have contributed several thousand dollars to this project and another similar event to the Easter Seal Center of Twin Falls in previous years. On another occasion, proceeds were donated to the VMVWCA to help establish the building program.

Several hundred country music artists contribute their time and talent to the annual program resulting in one of the largest contributions to the community in financial donations each year.

The members are inviting organizations with a pet project to write to the Country Music Assn., Mrs. Jack Cox, Falls Avenue East. Groups should outline the projects they have in mind and the need, giving some background and evidence of community wide benefit. Mrs. Cox said.

Oil lease

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Interior Department is ready to adopt requests on oil shale leases covering 5,120 acres in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming.

Mrs. Ruhfer gives program

TWIN FALLS — The Mary Davis Art Club met this past week at the home of Mrs. Marvin Ruhfer.

Mrs. Ruhfer presented a program on new ideas for care of textile-painting tools. She described the method of taking old hardened tips from paint tubes and cleaning them in a special paint thinner.

Each tube must be protected by a new tip as the old one is cleaned. Care must be taken not to spill the cleaner on plastic. She also showed a new stylus for painting and shading small areas of designs.

Secretary shouldn't censor boss' mail

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a secretary and one of my duties is to open my boss's mail. The past few months he has been getting some photographic advertisements. I didn't examine this material very closely, I just destroyed it. On a few occasions he has asked me if that was "all" the mail there was; and I have said yes.

I'm wondering if I should continue to destroy this disgusting material, or should I get my courage up and give it to him?

You may want to use this in your column since other secretaries must run into the same problem, but if you do, please sign me "WONDERING IF" without disclosing my name or town because if my boss sees this, I won't have to wonder anymore.

DEAR WONDERING: ALL mail addressed to your boss should be handed over to him. For you to act as a self-appointed censor is both presumptuous and illegal. And if he's been anticipating some of the mail you destroyed, and finds out that you intercepted it, you could be IN trouble and OUT of a job.

DEAR ABBY: I am a lonely widow. Several years ago, when I was teaching school in another city, I met a handsome, retired military officer. He was a wonderful dancer, good company, and always a perfect gentleman.

On our third date I said, "I make a good salary as a teacher. How much do you get in the way of retirement pay?"

He never asked me for another date. What did I do wrong? ETHEL IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR ETHEL: You asked him a question with a "ring" in it, for which he was not ready.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend called me up last night and it turned out to be a rather lengthy conversation as I was in a rather talkative mood. Well, since the calls between us are toll calls, he said, "Let's hang up, and you call me back so you'll pay for the rest of the call."

After I thought it over I became very angry because I thought he was being cheap. Isn't the expense of toll calls part of the cost of courting? Besides, I've ironed and mended his clothes on occasion, and have had him over for meals, so I think I've reciprocated. I told him that a gentleman should not even mention the cost of phone calls to a lady.

Anyway, that incident has come between us. I said I had never heard of such a thing. He said it's being done by other people. What do you think of a boy asking a girl to call him back to save on the toll charge? JUST ASKING

DEAR JUST: It depends upon how much money each party has, and the relationship between them.

DEAR ABBY: My husband ties so much he actually believes his own lies! It is so embarrassing to me and the children.

I told him he needed to see a head doctor, but he thinks everyone should see one but him. Is there any hope for him? He's only 49. Maybe you can reach him. I've given LIARS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: One who confuses facts with fantasies is out of touch with reality, which is a condition, not a moral delinquency.

There is indeed hope for your "49'er" if he admits he needs help and is willing to seek it.

Official visit made

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Laura Mue White, Clarkston, president of the Department Auxiliary Patriarch Militant of Idaho, made her official visit to Colfax No. 13 and Wood River Valley No. 22 Tuesday night at the Odd Fellows Temple. Twin Falls.

A potluck dinner was held prior to the meeting. Tables were decorated with the president's selected flowers, red and white roses. Mrs. Dale Bowman conducted the business meeting.

Distinguished guests introduced besides Mrs. White included Mrs. Vane Harrison, Fairfield, past president of the Department Association; Mrs. Anna Leth, Buhl, past-president of the DA; Mrs. Boyd Harrison, Fairfield, color sergeant of DA; Mrs. Carl Ridgeway, Kimberly, DA musician; Mrs. Arthur Childers, Filer, DA honor guard; Mrs. Robert Bryan, Gooding, aide to chaplain of the DA; Robert Bryan, Gooding, brigadier general of Department Council of Idaho; Leland Hudson, Buhl, department judge advocate; LeRoy Fenton, Rupert, colonel of first regiment, and Mrs. Omar Shook, Shoshone, member of the youth committee.

Mrs. White, in her keynote address, stressed the publicity contest. Gifts were presented to her by both auxiliaries.

A Lovelier You

WOMAN, UP IN ARMS

By Mary Sue Miller

A lovely asks: "Could you tell me what the upper arms should measure? I know I need to reduce the area. But I do not know how much, much less how?"

The Answer: The size of the ideal upper arm varies according to your height and bone structure. To calculate your own measurement, refer to the chart.

Height	Upper Arm
4' - 4 1/2"	8 1/2"
4 1/2' - 5'	9"
5' - 5 1/2"	9 1/2"
5 1/2' - 5 7/8"	10"

Locate your height on the chart and note the arm measurement alongside. It is ideal for you if your frame is average in size. If, however, you are small-boned, subtract one inch, add an inch for a sturdy build. (Measurement given is for the largest circumference.)

Methods for reducing excessive roundness of spot exercise on both arms is a good routine. Stand tall, arms extended forward at shoulder level, slowly tense upper arm muscles and hold. Relax and repeat 10 times. Then bend elbows, touch thumbs to chest and again tense, hold, relax—10 counts. Now bring arms to sides, and quickly twisting palms up, tense and hold—10 counts. Repeat entire routine twice.

TRIMMERS AND SLIMMERS

Let me help you with the problem of a too-fleshy arm, chest or upper back by sending you my leaflet, TRIMMERS AND SLIMMERS. It contains a set of coordinated spot reducing exercises—easy to do, quick to get results. Just write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin.

Beeswax

prevents thread knots

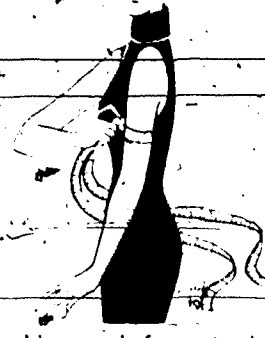

SHOSHONE — Beeswax prevents knots in thread when hand sewing. Mrs. Jeanene Ahnest, home economist, announces.

"As thread comes from the spool, it has some natural twist that may continue as it is sewn. Beeswax covers the thread fibers and keeps them from twisting," the home economist noted.

Beeswax is sold in small round cakes in a plastic container at notion counters or sewing centers. It should be used on the thread by pulling the thread several times through the grooves in the beeswax.

Using short lengths of thread, from 18 to 24 inches long, will also prevent knotting.

Another help is to use a double strand (when sewing on buttons) and knot each end separately.

Book Review

By LUCILE WOLFE
Twin Falls Public Library

TWIN FALLS — This is a book about the history of wine and wine-making in California. "Wine with a Merry Heart" by Iris Bentley. She took her title from the words of the preacher, Ecclesiastes: "Go thy way; eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with a merry heart."

Hernando Cortez started the planting of vineyards when he came to Mexico and used cuttings brought from vines grown in Spain. The wine industry spread from Mexico up into Lower California. The Jesuit Fathers brought Spanish colonization along the California coast and as each mission was established the vineyards were planted. Later the Franciscan monks and Father Junipero Serra built a chain of 21 missions and increased the varieties of grapes grown.

At that time wine was produced only for mealtime beverage and religious purposes. The first commercial grower was Joseph Chapman followed by a Frenchman named Jean Louis Vignes and the records of 1833 show that his were the best wines and brandies in California at that time. After the discovery of gold many families came, including many from wine districts of Europe, and when the gold rush proved unsuccessful they planted vineyards. Cuttings were imported from all over Europe and many varieties of grapes were started in the soil of California which is well suited to their growth.

From 1847-1879 tragedy came with disease and many vineyards were destroyed until science showed that vines could be saved by grafting European stock on to American roots. Then in 1920 prohibition dealt a blow to winegrowers and many closed down. By law, production of wine was permitted for medicinal, sacramental and culinary uses and home winemaking allowed 200 gallons per family per year so grapes were grown on a small scale.

When prohibition was repealed in 1933, planting and production resumed in a short time. Today more than 140 million gallons of wine are consumed annually in the United States of America and over 84 per cent of this total comes from the California vineyards.

There are two important terms generally used in naming California wines. "One is generic, which means the type of wine, such as Champagne, Chablis, Sauterne, Port, Sherry, Burgundy, etc. The other is varietal, which indicates the variety of grape used in making the wine, such as, Ainfandel, Riesling, Pinot Noir, Traminer, Sauvignon, etc.

There are many famous vineyards in California, Italian-Swiss Colony, Berlinger Brothers, Christian Brothers, Gallo, etc. The well-known Charles Krug winery was used for scenes in the film, "This Earth is Mine," based on the novel, "The Cup and the Sword" by Alice Tisdale Hobart, which we have in the Twin Falls Public Library.

RICHFIELD — A safety film for the housewife was shown to members of the Burmah Club when they met Thursday at the home of Mrs. J. E. Freeman. Twin Falls Mrs. Helen Walker, Idaho Power Home extensionist, presented the program.

Clubguests were Mrs. Gladys Huntley, Twin Falls; Mrs. Stanton Ross, Bellflower, Calif. and Mrs. Jack Haley, Santa Monica, Calif. Mrs. Roy Peck received the hottest gift. The annual bazaar and no-hostess luncheon will be Nov. 12 at the home of Mrs. Glen Ross.

Thousands of people, from presidents to peasants, heard Lister. He furnished music for all the Sun Valley ice shows until 1966, and organized and directed the famous Sun Valley Christmas Eve programs. He is probably best remembered for the many parties and barbecues he played, including many celebrities' private parties, at Trail Creek Cabin, the colorful Sun Valley rendezvous two miles away from Sun Valley Lodge, which is usually reached by hayrack or sleigh.

During those years, he played for notable and nobility from all over the world, from the Shah of Iran to Lucille Ball, from Harry Truman to Leonard Bernstein from the Kennedy clan to Ernest Hemingway. Johnny and his St. Bernard, Chris, also added Sun Valley atmosphere to national TV shows like the Today show and the Eddie Fisher show.

Then, came astrology. An initial disbeliever, he picked up his interest in the subject from his wife. Before the subject became as popular as it is now, Lister became Idaho's first professional astrologer.

In addition to individual readings, he spoke extensively about the suddenly popular art-science. Lister used his years of entertainment expertise to lend an unusually theatrical and uniquely fun quality to his lectures and programs, and astrology started pushing music out of the forefront of his life.

Talking to schools and colleges, to conventions and meetings, ranging from church groups to Kiwanis and Rotary and Lions, he also became a

Questions and answers about canned foods

HEROME — Sharon F. LaFray, extension home economist, Jerome County, gives some questions and answers concerning canned foods.

No. 1. Where should I store canned goods? The best storage for canned foods is in a dry place at moderately cool, but not freezing temperatures. Avoid storage near steam pipes, radiators, furnaces and kitchen ranges.

No. 2. How long will canned foods keep? This will depend upon a number of factors such as the type of food canned, the processing it has received, how it has been handled, and the conditions under which it has been stored. Generally speaking, if the can itself is normal in appearance, the food inside should still be wholesome. However, a regular turnover about once a year is suggested.

No. 3. What effect does freezing have on canned foods? A slight breakdown of texture may occur in a few products, but otherwise a single freezing and thawing does not affect canned foods adversely. Some creamy foods may curdle or separate upon freezing but heating usually restores the original consistency.

During freezing, the contents of a can expand, put a strain on the can seams and cause the ends to bulge. Check the container carefully after thawing to be sure that the ends return to their normal flat appearance. If they do not, air has gotten into the can and the contents will not keep.

No. 4. Is it safe to leave unused portions of canned foods in the can after opening? Yes, it is safe to leave food in the open can. It is important, however, to place the can in the refrigerator, just as you would any other cooked food.

Acid foods, such as grapefruit juice, may dissolve a little iron from the can if they stand in the refrigerator for a long time. This metal is not harmful or dangerous to health, but may cause a metallic taste in the food. If you are not going to eat such an acid product within a short time, empty the contents into a glass jar or other container.

No. 5. Does damage to the outside of the can mean the food is unsuitable for use? Not necessarily. Rust or dents do not affect the contents of the can as long as the can does not leak. However, if the can is leaking, or if the ends are bulged, or if the contents have an abnormal odor or appearance, discard the can without tasting the contents. In such cases, spoilage may have taken place.

No. 6. What about the position of cans themselves? I sometimes notice discoloration in the food or in the liner of the can. The Food Additives Amendment of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act prohibits the use of food containers which would transfer a poisonous or harmful substance to the food in the can. Consumers may be confident of the safety of the cans found in the marketplace.

However, a harmless discoloration sometimes mars the appearance of the inside of the can. This is due to the liberation of sulfur by certain foods during the processing, which causes an unsightly brown, white or black mottling. The stains are not harmful to the contents.

An "etched" effect sometimes appears on the inside of cans, especially those which contain fruit juices. This does not indicate that the contents have been harmed.

No. 7. Are metal fragments in canned foods harmful? Investigations by government agencies and industry scientists have shown that metal slivers which get into food cans when they are opened by can openers are not injurious to health.

However, metal fragments are undesirable, and you should make every effort to keep them out of foods. Keep can openers sharp, clean, and in good working order.

No. 8. Can opened canned food be kept safely under refrigeration? Yes. Opened canned food should be refrigerated as you would any other cooked food. However, if the opened food is to be kept for a substantial period of time, it may be lightly covered, frozen and held frozen until use. Transfer to plastic freezer bags of appropriate size before freezing will assist in excluding oxygen and minimize drying. However, there may be some softening of texture.

No. 9. Why don't canned foods have a code on the label? The law behind the label does not require that the manufacturer date or code his particular product. However, most packers of canned foods use a code which identifies the product with a particular packing date and lot. These codes provide valuable information to the packer for quality and quantity controls. The markings vary with each manufacturer and cannot ordinarily be interpreted by the consumer or by other packers. You may find this code at the bottom or top of canned food. Should the food be in violation of the FDA laws it is important that you know where this marking is and include it in your reporting.

Johnny Lister program set

THREE MEMBERS of Ballet West dancing the "Trepak" from "The Nutcracker" which will be presented Dec. 1 at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center Auditorium. Ballet West is being sponsored by District No. 5 Junior Music Clubs.

Christmas ballet . . .

Excerpts from 'The Nutcracker' scheduled by Ballet West

TWIN FALLS — The Nutcracker is a Christmas ballet and one of dancing's most beautiful gifts, not only for children, but for all those who appreciate magic in the theater. Unfortunately Ballet West will not be able to present the Nutcracker in its entirety but they will dance excerpts from it when they perform at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium on Wednesday, Dec. 1.

The music of this fantasy is familiar to everyone. Who could ever forget the tinkling, sweet gaiety of the Sugarplum Fairy and the piquant, sharp and delicate dance done by her in a spun candy pink tutu or the lovely pas de deux she performs with her prince. William F. Christensen first choreographed "The Nutcracker" in 1955 for the University Theatre Ballet, a predecessor to Ballet West. It has been presented every Christmas since then.

They will also perform "Bravura" choreographed by Christensen for the 1968-69 season. The ballet is to music by Emmanuel Chabrier. It is a light, dancery ballet designed to display the virtuosity of the leading members of the company. It is in the neo-classical style in three movements, and has no story line.

Ballet is being sponsored by District No. 5 Junior Music Clubs, member of the National Federation of Music Clubs, with the help of the Idaho Arts and Humanities Commission and the Federation of Rocky Mountain States. Tickets are on sale at Garth's Music, Warner Music Store, Rice Music Co. and Sullivan's Music, in the public schools, and all Junior Music Club counselors.

TWIN FALLS — Johnny Lister, Sun Valley's horoscope delineator, columnist, lecturer, teacher and entertainer, will present a program in Twin Falls Monday, Nov. 15. Sponsored by the Junior Music Clubs, the program is set for 4 p.m. at Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School. Admission is 25 cents and all are welcome to attend.

Lister, although he resides in Boise now, has been a highly visible part of the famous Sun Valley resort community since 1947. Born in Missoula, Mont., in 1922 of a pioneer Montana family, Lister is an affable, balding Libra, says Lister, "which means creative, artistic and musical," he got his first exposure to the Idaho resort when he was stationed there as an entertainer, while Sun Valley was a World War II convalescent hospital. At the end of his mountain-bound Navy career, he attended the University of Chicago and Chicago Musical College, studying with famed pianist Rudolph Ganz, but returned to Sun Valley in 1947 as musical director.

Thousands of people, from presidents to peasants, heard Lister. He furnished music for all the Sun Valley ice shows until 1966, and organized and directed the famous Sun Valley Christmas Eve programs. He is probably best remembered for the many parties and barbecues he played, including many celebrities' private parties, at Trill Creek Cabin, the colorful Sun Valley rendezvous two miles away from Sun Valley Lodge, which is usually reached by hayrack or sleigh.

During those years he played for notable and nobility from all over the world, from the Shah of Iran to Lucille Ball, from Harry Truman to Leonard Bernstein, from the Kennedy clan to Ernest Hemingway. Johnny and his St. Bernard, Chris, also added Sun Valley atmosphere to national TV shows like the "Today show" and the Eddie Fisher show.

Then came astrology. An initial disbeliever, he picked up his interest in the subject from his wife. Before the subject became as popular as it is now, Lister became Idaho's first professional astrologer.

In addition to individual readings, he spoke extensively about the suddenly popular art-science. Lister used his years of entertainment expertise to lend an unusually theatrical and uniquely fun quality to his lectures and programs, and astrology started pushing music out of the forefront of his life.

Talking to schools and colleges, to conventions and meetings, ranging from church groups to Kiwanis and Rotary and Lions, he also became a much-sought-after personality on Idaho, Montana and Utah radio and TV shows. Working as the only professional astrologer in the Seattle area, teaching astrology classes in Boise, and writing an answer-you-letter-by-astrology column for Idaho's largest newspaper, music became the part-time avocation and astrology became the full-time vocation. His Yellow Pages astrology ad, he was informed by the Denver Yellow Pages headquarters, was the first astrology ad in the entire Intermountain area.

In addition to his column, Lister, a journalism major at the University of Montana before he joined the Navy, is writing an astrology book. "It's designed to give a light and entertaining, but highly informative, summary of what astrology is, what it can do, and how it works. It's the new astrology," he emphasizes, "which presents astrology as a fantastically helpful tool to self-understanding, a non-predictive sister to psychology and psychiatry, not to mention a barrel of fun."

Lister, the father of a 16-year-old daughter and a 13-year-old son, is presently living in Boise during the fall, winter, and spring with his son, but returns to Sun Valley to present programs and to spend his summers.

"I'm lucky," he explained. "I go for those great Sun Valley summers! Besides, my son's a Gemini, meaning he likes things in twos. This gives him two homes, not just one. How's that for an affable, balding but thoughtful father?"

Secretary shouldn't censor boss' mail

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a secretary and one of my duties is to open my boss's mail. The past few months he has been getting some pornographic advertisements. I didn't examine this material very closely. I just destroyed it. On a few occasions he has asked me if that was "all" the mail there was, and I have said yes.

I'm wondering if I should continue to destroy this disgusting material, or should I get my courage up and give it to him?

You may want to use this in your column since other secretaries must run into the same problem, but if you do, please sign me "WONDERING IF" without disclosing my name or town because if my boss sees this, I won't have to wonder anymore.

DEAR WONDERING: All mail addressed to your boss should be handed over to him. For you to act as a self-appointed censor is both presumptuous and illegal. And if he's been complaining some of the mail you destroyed, and finds out that you intercepted it, you could be in trouble and out of a job.

DEAR ABBY: I am a lonely widow. Several years ago, when I was teaching school in another city, I met a handsome, retired military officer. He was a wonderful dancer, good company, and always a perfect gentleman.

On our third date I said, "I make a good salary as a teacher. How much do you get in the way of retirement pay?"

He never asked me for another date. What did I do wrong?

DEAR ETHEL: You asked him a question with a "ring" in it, for which he was not ready.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend called me up last night and it turned out to be a rather lengthy conversation as I was in a rather talkative mood. Well, since the calls between us are toll calls, he said, "Let's hang up, and you call me back so you'll pay for the rest of the call."

After I thought it over I became very angry because I thought he was being cheap. Isn't the expense of toll calls part of the cost of courting? Besides, I've ironed and mended his clothes on occasion, and have had him over for meals, so I think I've reciprocated. I told him that a gentleman should not even mention the cost of phone calls to a lady.

Anyway, that incident has come between us. I said I had never heard of such a thing. He said it's being done by other people. What do you think of a boy asking a girl to call him back to save on the toll charge?

JUST ASKING

DEAR JUST: It depends upon how much money each party has, and the relationship between them.

DEAR ABBY: My husband lies so much he actually believes his own lies. It is so embarrassing to me and the children.

I told him he needed to see a head doctor, but he thinks everyone should see one but him. Is there any hope for him? He's only 49. Maybe you can reach him. I've given up.

LIAR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: One who confuses facts with fantasies is out of touch with reality, which is a condition, not a moral deficiency.

There is indeed hope for your "49er" if he admits he needs help and is willing to seek it.

Official visit made

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Laura Mae White, Clarkston, president of the Department Association of the Ladies Auxiliary, Past President of the Idaho Middle School District, and Mrs. Omar Shook, Shoshone, member of the youth committee, were on an official visit to Colfax, No. 13 and Wood River Valley, No. 22 Tuesday night at the Odd Fellows Temple, Twin Falls.

A potluck dinner was held prior to the meeting. Tables were decorated with the president's selected flowers, red and white roses. Mrs. Dale Bowman conducted the business meeting.

Distinguished guests introduced besides Mrs. White included Mrs. Zane Harrison, Fairfield, past president of the Department Association; Mrs. Anna Leth, Buhl, past president of the DA; Mrs. Boyd Harrison, Fairfield, color sergeant of DA; Mrs. Carl Ridgeway, Kimberly, DA musician; Mrs. Arthur Childers, Filer, DA honor guard; Mrs. Robert Bryan, Gooding, aide to chaplain of the DA; Robert Bryan, Gooding, brigadier general of Department Council of Idaho; Leland Hudson, Buhl, department judge advocate; LeRoy Fenton, Rupert, colonel of first regiment, and Mrs. Omar Shook, Shoshone, member of the youth committee.

Mrs. White, in her keynote address, stressed the publicity contest. Gifts were presented to her by both auxiliaries.

Beeswax prevents thread knots

SHOSHONE — Beeswax prevents knots in thread when hand sewing, Mrs. Jeanene Annett, home economist, announces.

"As thread comes from the spool, it has some natural twist that may continue as it is sewn. Beeswax covers the thread fibers and keeps them from twisting," the home economist noted.

Beeswax is sold in small, round cakes in a plastic container at million counters or sewing centers. It should be used on the thread by pulling the thread several times through the grooves in the beeswax.

Using short lengths of thread, from 18 to 24 inches long, will also prevent knotting.

Another help is to use a double strand (when sewing on buttons) and knot each end separately.

Book Review

By LUCILE WOLFE

Twin Falls Public Library

"Wine with a Merry Heart" by Iris Bentley. She took her title from the words of the preacher, Ecclesiastes: "Go thy way; eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with a merry heart."

Hernando Cortez started the planting of vineyards when he came to Mexico and used cuttings brought from vines grown in Spain. The wine industry spread from Mexico up into Lower California. The Jesuit Fathers brought Spanish colonization along the California coast and as each mission was established the vineyards were planted. Later the Franciscan monks and Father Junipero Serra built a chain of 21 missions and increased the varieties of grapes grown.

At that time wine was produced only for mealtime beverage and religious purposes.

The first commercial grower was Joseph Chapman followed by a Frenchman named Jean Louis Vignes and the records of 1833 show that his were the best wines and brandies in California at that time. After the discovery of gold many families came, including many from wine districts of Europe, and when the gold rush proved unsuccessful they planted vineyards. Cuttings were imported from all over Europe and many varieties of grapes were started in the soil of California which is well suited to their growth.

From 1847-1879 tragedy came with disease and many vineyards were destroyed until science showed that vines could be saved by grafting European stock on to American roots.

Then in 1920 prohibition dealt a blow to winegrowers and many closed down. By law, production of wine was permitted for medicinal, sacramental and culinary uses and home winemaking allowed 200 gallons per family per year so grapes were grown on a small scale.

When prohibition was repealed in 1933, planting and production resumed in a short time. Today more than 140 million gallons of wine are consumed annually in the United States of America and over 84 per cent of this total comes from the California vineyards.

There are two important terms generally used in naming California wines. One is generic, which means the type of wine, such as Champagne, Chablis, Sauterne, Port, Sherry, Burgundy, etc. The other is varietal, which indicates the variety of grape used in making the wine, such as, Ainfandel, Riesling, Pinot Noir, Traminer, Sauvignon, etc.

There are many famous vineyards in California, Italian-Swiss Colony, Beringer Brothers, Christian Brothers, Gallo, etc. The well-known Charles Krug winery was used for scenes in the film, "This Earth is Mine," based on the novel, "The Cup and the Sword" by Alice Tisdale Hobart, which we have in the Twin Falls Public Library.

Club guests were Mrs. Gladys Huntley, Twin Falls; Mrs. Stanton Ross, Bellflower, Calif. and Mrs. Jack Haley, Santa Monica, Calif. Mrs. Roy Peak received the hostess gift.

The annual banquet and no-hostess luncheon will be Nov. 12 at the home of Mrs. Glen Ross.

A Lovelier You

WOMAN, UP IN ARMS

By Mary Sue Miller

A Lovelier asks: Could you tell me what the upper arms should measure? I know I need to reduce the area. But I do not know how much, much less how.

The Answer: The size of the ideal upper arm varies according to your height and bone structure. To calculate your own measurement, refer to the chart.

Height	Upper Arm
5' - 5'3"	8 1/2"
5'3" - 5'6"	9"
5'6" - 5'8"	9 1/2"
over 5'8"	10"

Locate your height on the chart and note the arm measurement alongside. It is ideal for you if your frame is average in size. If, however, you are small-boned, subtract one inch.

add an inch for a sturdy build. (Measurement given is for the largest circumference.)

Methods for reducing revolve around massage or spot exercise, or both. Here's a good routine: Stand tall, arms extended forward at shoulder level; slowly tense upper arm muscles and hold; Relax and repeat 10 times. Then bend elbows, touch thumbs to chest and again tense, hold, relax—10 counts. Now fling arms to sides, and quickly twisting palms up, tense and hold—10 counts. Repeat entire routine twice.

TRIMMERS AND SLIMMERS

Let me help you with the problem of a too-fleshy arm, chest or upper back by sending you my leaflet, TRIMMERS AND SLIMMERS. It contains a set of coordinated spot reducing exercises—easy to do, quick to get results. Just write: Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin.

Questions and answers about canned foods

JEROME — Sharon E. LaPray, extension home economist, Jerome County, gives some questions and answers concerning canned foods.

No. 1. Where should I store canned goods? The best storage for canned foods is in a dry place at moderately cool, but not freezing temperatures. Avoid storage near steam pipes, radiators, furnaces and kitchen ranges.

No. 2. How long will canned foods keep? This will depend upon a number of factors such as the type of food canned, the processing it has received, how it has been handled, and the conditions under which it has been stored. Generally speaking, if the can itself is normal in appearance, the food inside should still be wholesome. However, a regular turnover about once a year is suggested.

No. 3. What effect does freezing have on canned foods? A slight breakdown of texture may occur in a few products, but otherwise a single freezing and thawing does not affect canned foods adversely. Some creamy foods may curdle or separate upon freezing but heating usually restores the original consistency.

During freezing, the contents of a can expand, put a strain on the can seams and cause the ends to bulge. Check the container carefully after thawing to be sure that the ends return to their normal flat appearance. If they do not, air has gotten into the can and the contents will not keep.

No. 4. Is it safe to leave unused portions of canned foods in the can after opening? Yes, it is safe to leave food in the open can. It is important, however, to place the can in the refrigerator, just as you would any other cooked food.

Acid foods, such as grapefruit juice, may dissolve a little iron from the can if they stand in the refrigerator for a long time. This metal is not harmful or dangerous to health, but may cause a metallic taste in the food, if you are not going to eat such an acid product within a short time, empty the contents into a glass jar or other container.

No. 5. Does damage to the outside of the can mean the food is unsuitable for use? Not necessarily. Rust or dents do not affect the contents of the can as long as the can does not leak. However, if the can is leaking, or if the ends are bulged, or if the contents have an abnormal odor or appearance, discard the can without tasting the contents. In such cases, spillage may have taken place.

No. 6. What about the position of cans themselves? I sometimes notice discoloration in the food or in the liner of the can. The Food Additives Amendment of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act prohibits the use of food containers which would transfer a poisonous or harmful substance to the food in the can. Consumers may be confident of the safety of the cans found in the marketplace.

However, a harmless discoloration sometimes mars the appearance of the inside of the can. This is due to the liberation of sulfur by certain foods during the processing, which causes an unsightly brown, blue or black mottling. The stains are not harmful to the contents.

An "etched" effect sometimes appears on the inside of cans, especially those which contain fruit juices. This does not indicate that the contents have been harmed.

No. 7. Are metal fragments in canned foods harmful? Investigations by government agencies and industry scientists have shown that metal shivers which get into food cans when they are opened by can openers are not injurious to health.

However, metal fragments are undesirable, and you should make every effort to keep them out of foods. Keep can openers sharp, clean, and in good working order.

No. 8. Can opened canned food be kept safely under refrigeration? Yes. Opened canned food should be refrigerated as you would any other cooked food. However, if the opened food is to be kept for a substantial period of time, it may be tightly covered, frozen and held frozen until use. Transfer to plastic freezer bags of appropriate size before freezing will assist in excluding oxygen and minimize drying. However, there may be some softening of texture.

No. 9. Why don't canned foods have a code on the label? The law behind the label does not require that the manufacturer date of code his particular product. However, most packers of canned foods use a code which identifies the product with a particular packing date and lot. These codes provide valuable information to the packer for quality and quantity controls. The markings vary with each manufacturer and cannot ordinarily be interpreted by the consumer or by other packers. You may find this code at the bottom or top of canned food. Should the food be in violation of the FDA laws it is important that you know where this marking is and include it in your reporting.

No. 10. What about the position of cans themselves? I

Shoshone okays funds

SHOSHONE — The first payment for construction of Shoshone's sewer system, $89,844.81, was approved by the city council Tuesday.

The council also passed an ordinance annexing the Klisler Addition in the northwest section of the city and canvassed votes cast earlier in the day at the municipal election.

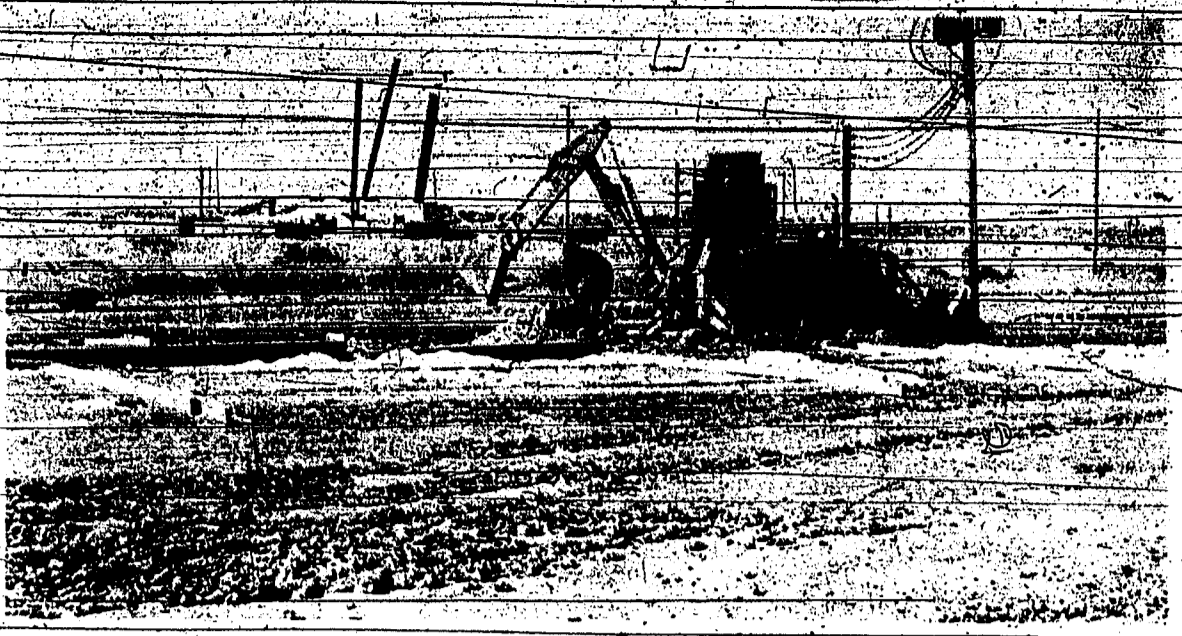

The first payment for the sewer construction was made to Hartwell Excavating Co., the contractor. Work started more than a month ago, with several blocks of lines completed. Crews will continue to work as long as weather permits.

The vote canvass confirmed election of two councilmen Wilson Churchman, with 204 votes and of Howard Hill with 192. They will take office in January. Perry Hadlock received 80 write-in votes.

Building permits were approved for R. W. Grove and Glen Croft, for building carports, and for Dennie Everett for interior remodeling in his residence.

Approval was given by the council for purchases for the volunteer fire department by J. Boyd Alexander, fire chief. These include two new uniforms for firemen, an electric re-wind reel for the fire truck and replacement of the hose.

The Klisler addition is an area adjoining the Shoshone City limits on which several new homes have been built. It covers two acres, city officials said.

Work on schedule

WEATHER has hampered work at the Turpeware construction site south of Jerome, Don Sharp, construction foreman, said today, but the project is still on schedule. Fifty men are employed at the site. Footings are nearly complete and erection of steel is expected to start in about three weeks, Sharp said.

Jerome's cost for CSI down

JEROME — Jerome County's support for the College of Southern Idaho was $18,000 less this year than last, Dr. James L. Taylor, CSI president, said here Wednesday.

Addressing the Jerome Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting, the president said Jerome County has 372 fulltime students in the college, with another 150 taking specialized programs through the School.

He said the valuation of the land and buildings on the Twin Falls campus is between $8 and $8.5 million.

It costs students who live in the college district $82.50 per semester, Dr. Taylor said, in comparison to $150 per semester for students living outside of the district. And the county pays an additional $312 per semester for each student outside the district.

Dr. Taylor said there are about 2,800 students enrolled at CSI with 24 of Idaho's 44 counties and seven states represented.

Nixon greets top Indian official

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon welcomed India's prime minister, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, at a chilly summit White House ceremony today with both leaders somberly citing problems of conflict and disaster which afflict her country.

Noting the toll taken by tidal waves and drought in India, Nixon commented, "I know as you arrive here your heart is heavy because of your many problems. I can assure you when a tragedy develops in India, the hearts of millions of Americans go out to her."

He did not mention the problem of nine million Pakistani refugees or the increasing strife in Bengal but Mrs. Gandhi did in her response to the welcoming.

"I'm haunted by the faces in our refugee camps," she said in a soft voice, in perfect English. "I come here, looking for a deeper understanding."

Across the street from the White House, a group of about 50 Pakistani students demonstrated against India's refusal to permit U.N. observers to inspect the refugee camps.

But it went almost unnoticed at the ceremonial on the White House lawn which included a 19-gun salute and an inspection of the military honor guard by the Indian leader.

After the ceremony, Mrs. Gandhi and the President began talks in his office. Diplomatic sources said Mrs. Gandhi was expected to urge Nixon to use his influence on Pakistan's president, Muhammad Yahya Khan, to prevent war between the two nations.

Aide suggests Twin Falls hire own health force

TWIN FALLS — Dr. Wayne Carte, director of the South Central District Health Department, suggested today that perhaps the city of Twin Falls could hire its own health service force as a means of solving a financial dilemma.

Presently, Twin Falls contracts with the health department for life services.

The financial dilemma developed after the district's finance committee set a $1.66 per capita level of support from the eight counties in a split, 5 to 3, vote during a meeting at Jerome Tuesday.

The finance committee is made up of representatives from the eight participating counties.

The city of Twin Falls contracts with the Idaho Health Department for a lump-sum payment each year to provide health services as required by city ordinances, Dr. Carte explained. The per-capita payment requirement is not imposed on the city. Whatever level of financial contribution the city provides determines the level of health services provided.

Dr. Carte suggested that the city of Twin Falls could "hire their own people" to provide the health services, such as restaurant inspection and similar services. The practice has been, however, to contract with the health department to do the work at a saving to the city.

"We're able to provide the services as long as they give us the contract money... period," Dr. Carte explained. "We're going to do it on that basis, as with any other outside contract we enter into."

Dr. Carte said the health district won't know the final amount of the Twin Falls County contribution until the 1972 budget hearing early next year. "By law, whatever the majority of the budget committee votes, then this is binding upon all counties," he added.

William L. (Bill) Chancey, chairman of both the Twin Falls County commission and the health department's district board, said he "vehemently opposed" the $1.66 per-capita figure as being "far too high" for his county.

"Dr. Carte said today in clarification that Chancey said during the meeting that Twin Falls County has "just so much money to budget," and that the $1.66 figure would be impossible to provide. He mentioned the figure of $51,000, averaging about $1.22 per person, as the highest that could be allowed in the 1972 budget.

"He (Chancey) said that the county would hold to the figure and that if necessary an attorney general's opinion would be requested," Dr. Carte said today. "I did not make the statement that I would seek an appeal."

Carte also said any decision to shift the district headquarters out of Twin Falls "would be up to the board. I can't make that decision." He indicated that the level of health services to be provided Twin Falls County would depend largely on the financial contribution from the county commission.

"I said that if Twin Falls County didn't participate, then they wouldn't want the office," Dr. Carte said. "But if they're participating at approximately whatever the percentage is of $1.22 over $1.66, I think the only answer is that they would get that much service."

Dr. Carte also denied he plans to appeal the $1.66 per capita levy decision to the attorney general's office.

It had been reported that Dr. Carte made the comment following a meeting on Tuesday in Jerome, in which representatives of the eight county commissions whose counties comprise the health district agreed on a compromise figure of $1.66 per person as support for the district.

Hansen seeks senator's post

In his letter of resignation, Hansen said his service in the department had been "one of the most rewarding experiences of my life" but that he was resigning because of a "personal opportunity" that he could not let pass by.

The letter made no mention of his political ambitions, but Hansen told a reporter that he planned to run for the Senate even though he had not yet made a formal announcement.

Other Republicans seeking the GOP nomination include former Gov. Don Samuelson, Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, also has indicated interest in running.

"I guess it makes it all the more interesting when you get a horse race," Hansen said of the potential competition.

Jordan announced his intention not to run earlier in the year, saying he wished to give others more time to prepare their campaigns.

Paul clerk quits post

PAUL — The Paul City Council Wednesday night accepted the resignation of City Clerk Elmer M. Fetzer.

In a letter dated Nov. 1, Fetzer said his duties with the postal service and "added responsibilities of the West End Fire Department" make it impossible for him to continue as city clerk and devote the time and effort required.

In other business, the council agreed in principle to amend City Ordinance 248, dealing with payments by Cable View television to the city.

Double trouble for Boise man

BOISE (UPI) — Trouble is an ever-widening circle for Jack Lee Brown, 24, Boise.

Brown was jailed for 10 days last summer on a drunk charge. On Aug. 8 he walked away from custody while serving as a city jail trusty.

He was given an additional 60 days in jail for escaping.

Then, on Aug. 25, he escaped from jail — working his way through a one-foot vent in the jail roof.

Recaptured in a motel room at Star on Aug. 27 he was charged with felony escape because damage was done to city property in his bid for freedom.

Tuesday night, a Fourth District Court jury convicted Brown of the felony escape charge. Judge Marion J. Callister has ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Brown could go to prison this time.

Brown's troubles also have spread to some of his friends.

Steve Eythchison, 24, is accused of harboring a fugitive as a result of Brown's second escape attempt. Sheriff's officers said the motel room in which Brown was recaptured was rented to Eythchison.

Three other persons are charged with attempting to obstruct officers while they were arresting Brown originally on Aug. 6. They are Le Roy Ernest Brown, 28, Lester Henson, and Joan Henson, both 27. All are from Boise.

The obstruction charge against the three is an indictable misdemeanor and is punishable by up to one year in jail. The three have been bound over to district court on the charges.

Funeral services held today for Elder Richard L. Evans

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Described as a "pillar of strength" for use "among the righteous dead," Elder Richard L. Evans of the Council of the Twelve was laid to rest today following funeral services in the Salt Lake Tabernacle.

Elder Evans, moderator for more than 40 years of "Music and the Spoken Word" for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), died early Monday morning in LDS Hospital of neurological complications of influenza. He was 65.

Keynoting his funeral service was church President Joseph Fielding Smith, 95, who told mourners packed into the tabernacle from where Evans conducted his world-wide broadcasts, that the church on earth has lost the services "of one of its most able and competent leaders...."

"But the same church, which has an even more perfect and effective organization among the righteous dead, has gained another pillar of strength to use in the great labors that are performed there."

Smith continued, "His influence in this life extended to the ends of the earth, and we shall miss his voice, his counsel and his wisdom as it was heard and felt among us."

The grey-haired president's words were followed by remarks from Elders Mark E. Petersen and Marion G. Romney, both from the Council of the Twelve. Also speaking was Elder Marion D. Hanks, assistant to the Twelve.

Elder Evans, who was buried in Salt Lake City Cemetery following the ceremonies on Temple Square, was honored in music by the Salt Lake Tabernacle Choir, which had provided the musical portion of "Music and the Spoken Word" since Evans began narrating the program in the 1930s.

The broadcasts originated from Temple Square every Sunday and was carried nationwide over the CBS Radio Network.

The prolific Evans authored 12 books on religious subjects, was a feature writer for a national news syndicate.

Car-truck collision near TF injures two

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls men were injured about 7:05 a.m. today when their car collided with a large truck on U. S. Highway 93 just south of the 93-30 intersection.

Idaho State Police said the car, driven by Junior Baker, was traveling east on county road 3800 and had stopped for a stop sign before pulling onto the highway into the path of the truck.

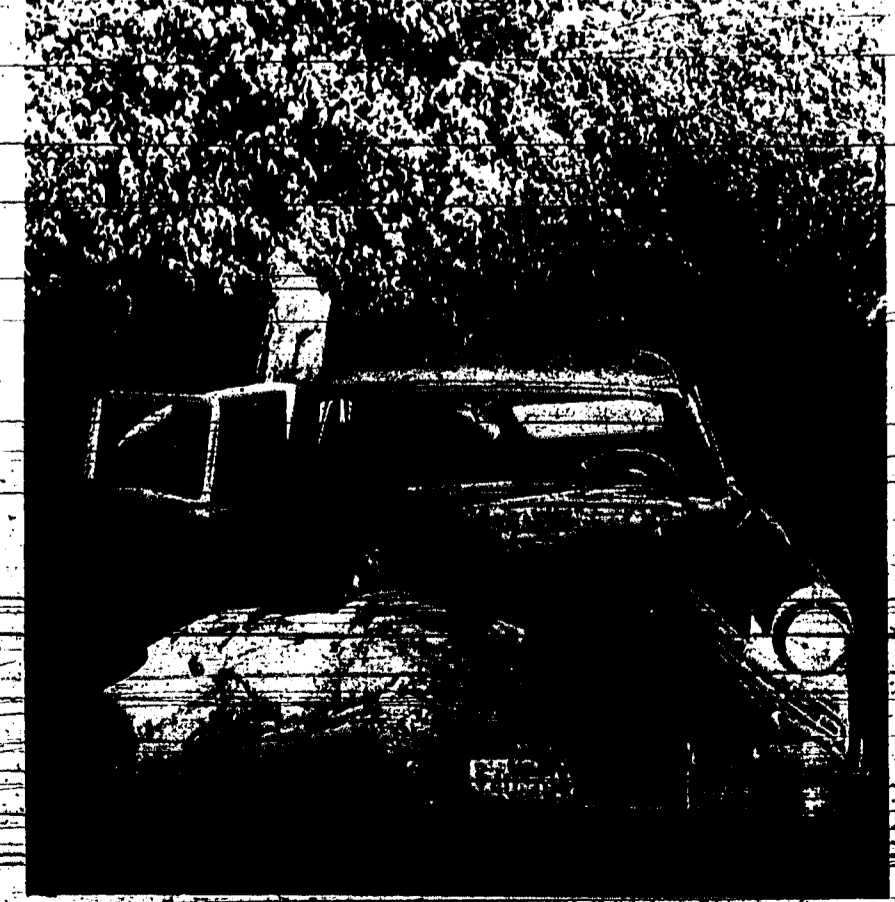

The truck, loaded with four wing fuel tanks for F-111 jet fighters, was bound for Mountain Home Air Force Base.

Driver of the truck was Donald F. Kenney, 38, Joplin, Mo., a driver for Tri-State Truckline. Neither Kenney nor his passenger, Lyle W. Fisher, 36, Neosho, Mo., was injured.

Passenger in the Baker vehicle, Nyrum J. Baker, 37, was reported in fair condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Junior Baker, who was charged with obstructing a police officer and driving while under the influence, was reported in good condition.

The Baker vehicle was demolished and about $5,000 damage resulted to the truck. Both vehicles landed off the roadway, the car in the west borrow pit and the truck in the east borrow pit. The aircraft fuel tanks were not damaged.

Auto demolished

TWO MEN were injured when this car collided with a large truck this morning on U. S. Highway 93 south of Twin Falls. Two men in the truck, which was headed with jet fighter fuel tanks and bound for Mountain Home Air Force Base, were not injured.

Bingham Canyon to end its existence

BINGHAM CANYON (UPI) — James Xanthos, city councilman for the defunct town of Bingham Canyon, Wednesday denounced a move to have a Kennecott Copper representative declared executor for the town's estate.

"I wish I could appoint a relative or friend of mine to sell me all the properties I was interested in buying," Xanthos said.

The Bingham Canyon electorate voted 11 to two Tuesday to disincorporate and put an end to the town's 125-year-old existence.

"Now that they feel the city is dead they are trying to appoint their own man to negotiate sale of the properties," he said.

Xanthos said he, the mayor and the town's attorney want the present government appointed to sell off the town's streets and other property.

He said $200,000 would be a fair price for what is left of the once-booming mining town that has been steadily gobbled up by Kennecott's gigantic open-pit mine.

GOP meet

JEROME — Jerome County Republican Central Committee meets at 8 p.m. today at Wood Cafe, Clair Ricketts, county chairman, said.

Nominations will be sought for registrar positions in next year's general election and recommendations will be submitted to the county commission. The 1972 campaign year will be discussed, both as to potential candidates and finances.

Elected officials and interested persons are invited to attend.

Air pollution index 298

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District at the Twin Falls City Hall this morning as expressed in the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period.

Federal pollution regulations say pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms over any 24-hour period and should not be permitted to rise above 260 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Forecast

Today: Excellent

Tonight: Good

Tomorrow: Excellent

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution. Burning as permitted by law should be continued when the air is poorly able to disperse air pollutants.

Market manager says wine sale was mistake

TWIN FALLS — Shelby Wood said Wednesday night that the store had sold wine by mistake on Tuesday and Wednesday, but that store workers had since been told that sales were illegal until the store obtained necessary licenses.

Wood said the Twin Falls store employees had mistakenly sold the wine following the receipt of the state wine sales license, believing that sales could proceed even though the license from city and county had not yet been obtained.

He said the store's policy is to not sell wine until properly licensed.

Twin Falls City Manager Jean Miller said Wednesday he had asked Police Chief Frank Harned to notify the store that it could not sell wine until licenses had been obtained.

The Twin Falls City Council had approved licenses for two stores at its Monday meeting, but those licenses cannot be issued until after the wine license ordinance is advertised in today's Times-News.

The city council is expected to meet Friday to consider application of other stores, including Shelby's for licenses to sell wine.

BURLEY — The Pink Ladies of Cassia Memorial Hospital held their annual awards tea Tuesday in the auditorium of the hospital.

Robert Barton, hospital administrator, spoke to the group on the hospital expansion.

Paul Wilcox, interior decorator, has been retained to handle the interior design, Barton said.

Plans are to coordinate colors and decor, tying the new addition together with the existing building. Carpeting will be used in the halls and new rooms including eight rooms being added to the extended care wing. Carpeting for the geriatrics rooms will cost about $200 per room, Barton said.

The building is about half completed and the brick work is now under way. Presently construction is about one month ahead of schedule. Air conditioning is being added to the existing building and the new additions.

Dr. Kircher praised the women for their volunteer service to the hospital, and cautioned them to use discretion about the information they may learn through their contact with patients and the medical staff.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Krieger, president. Mrs. Cranney gave the opening prayer.

Reports were given by the various committee chairmen.

The tea tables were covered with white cloths and pastel pink and green, center stripes, accented with miniature china dolls whose skirts were surrounded by rosebuds.

Tea arrangements were directed by Mrs. Stackler, Mrs. William MacKnight, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Warr.

Many hands help

Neighbors help harvest sugar beets for widow

By GEORGIA LAYTON Times-News Writer

MILNER — The pioneer tradition of banding together to give a helping hand when trouble strikes a neighbor is still alive in this rural community.

The helping hand was extended here Tuesday when 21 men, seven sugar beet harvesters, 14 trucks and beet toppers pulled into two fields of sugar beet fields on the farm of the late Julius Neumann.

For the past several days Mrs. William McCoy and Mrs. Richard George have been making phone calls to neighbors lining up equipment and man power to harvest the sugar beets for Mrs. Neumann. The date of Nov. 2 was set several days ago.

On Monday, most of the sugar beet dumps in the area were closed by the sugar company. A phone call to the Amalgamated Sugar Co. resulted in the Milner Sugar Beet dump being open Tuesday to receive the sugar beets being harvested by the neighbors for the Neumann family.

Mr. Neumann was killed in a beet truck and train accident recently at Milner.

Men who donated their time and equipment Tuesday were William McCoy Sr., Jim Sargent, George Sargent, Robert Kloer, Harold Kloer, N. Moncur, Joe Braiser, Danny Kloer, Dale Peterson, Mike Kleinkopf, Billy Bradshaw, Vernon Bradshaw, Howard Conrad, Edwin Brune, Farnam Warr, Truman Simpson, I. W. Peterson, William McCoy, Jr., Richard George, Ted Kirk and Lynn Mitchell.

Mrs. Farnam Warr, Mrs. Neumann, Mrs. Ed Brune, and Mrs. Billy Bradshaw prepared and served dinner at Mrs. Warr's home for the crews working.

The neighbors expected to harvest about 40 acres of sugar beets today for it was about 10 a.m. before they could start harvesting the crop.

Arrives

SAIGON (UPI) — The USS Constellation, whose departure from San Diego for the war zone was delayed by antiwar protesters, arrived off the Vietnam coast today and started sending its 85 planes on raids against the Ho Chi Minh trail. U. S. Navy sources said the $1,000-ton ship, largest of the conventionally-powered Forrestal class carriers, went on station with seven of the protesting sailors still in its brig.

Satellites run into trouble

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The Air Force reported two big military communications satellites ran into trouble high above earth today on a mission designed to start replacing 22 snail relay stations that soon will be silenced by automatic timers.

The twin satellites were launched Tuesday night and a spokesman said they apparently came close to the planned stationary orbit 22,300 miles above the Pacific Ocean at 4:37 a.m. EST.

But the Air Force said trouble then developed with the spacecraft radio systems that are designed to beam back a steady stream of engineering condition reports. This telemetry trouble occurred when the satellites were to separate from the top stage of the launch rocket.

It was not known if this crucial separation occurred, and the nature and severity of the problem were not immediately determined. An Air Force spokesman said ground controllers at the Sunnyvale, Calif., Control Center are checking.

The new spacecraft were scheduled to be joined by two more next year to give the Defense Department a globe-girdling network of high capacity that would link the Pentagon with U.S. forces around the world.

Agency receives advance money

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Law Enforcement Planning Commission has received $67,500 fiscal year 1972 advance part E correctional monies and $572,400 in fiscal 1972 advance action funds, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Tuesday.

Andrus expressed his pleasure with the state and local regional law enforcement planning commissions who supported his request for additional monies needed to expand Idaho's Bureau of Drug Control.

He said that three regional offices will be opened and an additional 15 to 18 agents will be employed.

The governor said $229,934 was authorized by the Idaho Law Enforcement Planning Commission, subject to local regional planning board approval. Under the Omnibus Crime Control Act 75 per cent of the federal monies must be made available to local law enforcement, he said.

"The waiver of this requirement, regarding the monies awarded to Bureau of Drug Control, reflects the coordinated effort and successful partnership between our state, city and county officials to arrest and prosecute those who push drugs within our boundaries," Andrus said.

The governor also noted this is only one example of efforts being made to overcome the chronic fragmentation of services and the dissipation of resources within and among layers of government.

Auditor asks no delay in payrolls

BOISE (UPI) — Problems with his two-building office arrangement have led state auditor Joe R. Williams to decide to ask state agencies not to delay in sending preliminary pay rolls to his office.

Williams said Tuesday the preliminary payrolls are due in his office on the 22nd of each month and payrolls are distributed on the first of each month.

He said the 22nd has been the deadline since 1969, when payroll preparation was switched to data processing, and said it has worked well until recently when part of his operations were spread to the state office building.

fusion we have carting everything back and forth between the statehouse and the state office building he is asking state agencies not to delay in sending the preliminary payrolls. He said he will not change the deadline but will urge that state agencies not wait until that date if payrolls are ready earlier.

"Sometimes they just sit on a desk and they might as well be sent to me," he said.

In the United States, per capita consumption of frozen vegetables has more than tripled since 1954 reflecting advances in modern growing and food processing techniques.

Hansen hails credit act

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Rep. Orval Hansen (R-Idaho) today hailed the Farm Credit Act of 1971 as "a vital modernization of the cooperative farm credit system to enable it to do its share in filling the changing credit needs of agriculture and rural America."

Hansen, one of the original co-sponsors of the measure which passed the House this week, said he was particularly gratified that the bill was approved before the end of the current session.

He added he hopes that House amendments to this legislation will be accepted by the Senate without delay.

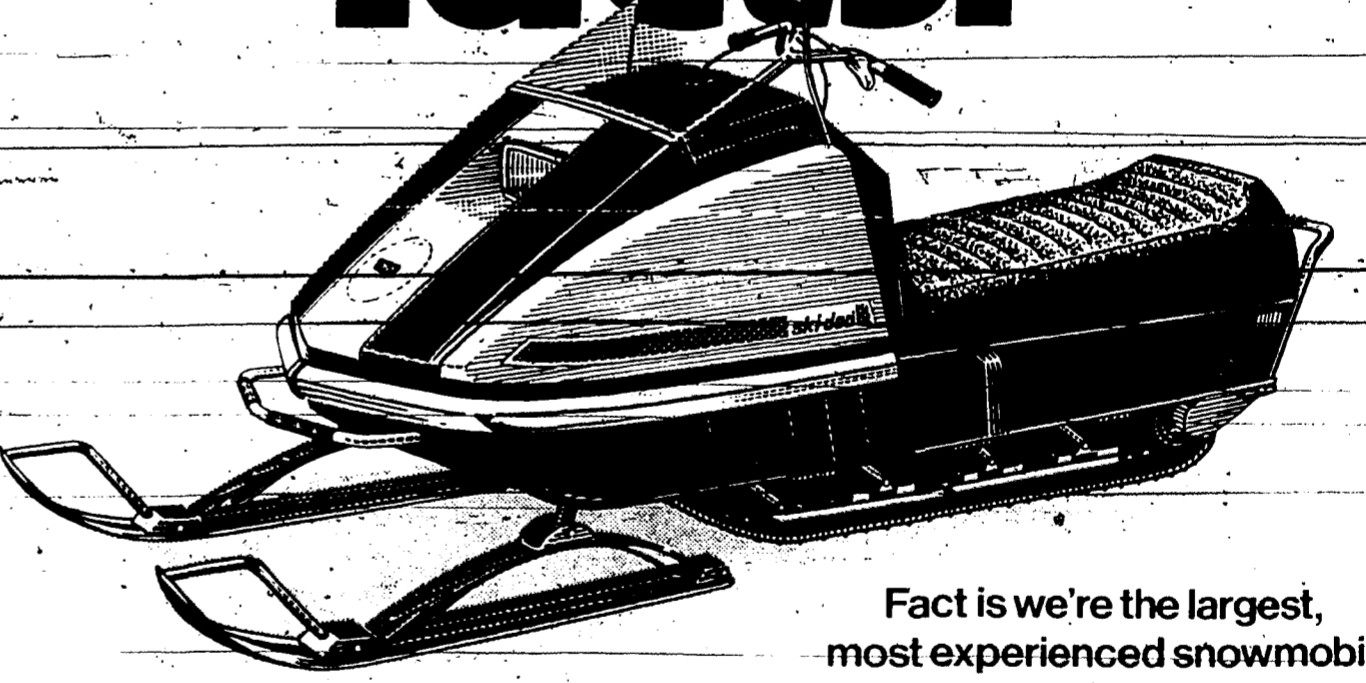

"The Farm Credit Act unifies the farmer-owned cooperative farm credit system which makes credit available to farmers, ranchers, rural residents, and to associations and others upon which farming operations are dependent. Its objective is to provide a modernized system to meet current and future rural credit needs."

"Congress has recognized that a prosperous, productive agriculture is essential to a free Nation," Hansen said.

"It is the purpose of the farmer-owned cooperative farm credit system to improve the income and well-being of American farmers and ranchers by furnishing adequate credit and other services to them, their cooperatives and selected farm-related businesses necessary to efficient farm operations," he said.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—A sharp, early stock market rise leveled off as trading rounded the halfway mark Thursday.

The Dow Jones industrial average showed a gain of around 4 points at 848.82, and twice as many issues advanced as declined. At 11 a.m., the Dow had been ahead nearly 7 1/2 points.

Initial strength was characterized as an extension of Wednesday's huge advance, with the Dow Jones blue chip barometer scoring its biggest rise since mid-August when President Nixon unveiled his sweeping new economic program.

A also helping spur demand for stocks was a quarter-point cut in the prime interest rate by several major banks. The banking industry move was expected to benefit corporations seeking to invest in such things as new buildings and equipment.

As part of his late summer plan, Nixon had urged the nation's banks to reduce interest rates in order to help pave the way for economic recovery.

Polaroid and Westinghouse posted gains of a point or better, while motors followed an irregular pattern. U.S. car makers reported record high October car sales.

Oils and chemicals traded in both directions, as did the day's most active stocks.

Leas-Siegler and First National City were heavily traded and fractionally lower, but active International Nickel took on a firmer price tone.

Packing agreements proposed

TWIN FALLS — Jack Allred and Jim Henry, Idaho Potato Commissioners from Murtaugh and Kimberly, announced the commission recommended the in-state packing agreements be studied by the Certification, Container and Identification committee or possible revisions to be made.

This in-state agreement authorizes the use of the Potato Commission's Idaho seal and use of word Idaho registration marks on fresh potato containers.

Reports on progress were made on branding or stamping of Idaho potatoes as four companies with various identification methods were heard from. Allred and Henry stated, Identity Brands, Inc., Aberdeen, stated they have five "Hot Brand" machines sold and are eager to proceed.

Scheller and Associates, are installing an "electrostatic" method in Buhl and should be ready to show their method in seven to ten days. FMC representatives stated their "ink injection" method coupled with their own singulator was installed in Ucon, Idaho and is operational.

Wescor Co., Ogden, Utah, stated work is being conducted with the Ahlberg type machine and they expect approval in the near future on use of their ink method.

Commissioners Allred and Henry also informed us, Oscar Arstein, Idaho Commissioner of Agriculture, appeared before the Potato Commission and reported on the study and progress on bulk potato regulations.

The Commissions Advertising agencies reported on the progress of the "fall" Idaho Baked Potato Stems campaign and all new radio schedule to start November 11, Allred and Henry said. This fall's radio programming is a major departure from prior years advertising strategy and appears to be very effective. One item of importance is radio commercials will be heard in Idaho for the first time to give our own people some idea how we promote Idaho potatoes throughout the rest of the U.S.

Commissioners Allred and Henry stated the next regular meeting of the Idaho Potato Commission will be in Moscow, Nov. 19.

Veterinarian attends session

TWIN FALLS — Dr. Charles I. Manners, Twin Falls veterinarian, has returned from a special training session on handling disease and illness among sheep.

The session was sponsored by the Veterinarian Research Laboratory, University of Idaho.

Don Bailey, president of the American Association of Sheep and Goat Practitioners discussed sheep practice methods with emphasis on post mortem diagnostic procedure. A prominent Roseburg, Ore. sheep specialist, he offered several tips on sheep treatment. Dr. Floyd Frank, University of Idaho, spoke on internal parasite problems and clostridial disease.

Dr. Richard Hall, Idaho Extension veterinarian discussed EAE enzootic ovine abortion, and vibriosis with emphasis on techniques of diagnosis, treatment and vaccination. Dr. Robert Simmons gave a six hour seminar regarding sheep health problems in Idaho. He recommended a disease control treatment program be adopted for the Idaho sheep industry.

Feeder cattle up since 1970

SHOSHONE — Idaho Cattle feeders had 194,000 head of cattle in feedlots Oct. 1, Ivan Hopkins, Lincoln County Extension Agent, said the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes. This was 5 per cent more than Oct. 1, 1970.

Marketing during the same period was five per cent fewer than the 1970 marketing during the same quarter.

Feeders report they expect to market 93,000 head during the October-December quarter which would be three per cent less than they marketed last year.

Hopkins also reports today that Congress has reviewed the GI direct home loan program. This program was established because veterans residing in small towns and rural areas often could not obtain conventional GI home loans. A veteran desiring to apply for a direct home loan must request an application from the Veterans Administration over his signature stating the purpose of the loan.

Seven unbeaten major college teams headed for key confrontations

By BOB DI PIETRO
UPI Sports Writer

For sheer perfection, it's been a long while since the United Press International's top 10-football ratings has listed such an impressive array.

The first seven teams in the poll have an aggregate won-lost record of 53-0!

This state of affairs will be short-lived, however.

Many of the unbeaten are heading towards direct confrontation in the coming weeks, a situation sure to shake up the ratings.

Top-ranked Nebraska (8-0) figures to ramble over Iowa State Saturday and Kansas State next week enroute to its Thanksgiving Day showdown with No. 2 Oklahoma (7-0). The Sooners, who have blitzkrieged the opposition for 1,464 yards and 118 points in their last two games, face Missouri and Kansas in the next couple of weeks.

No. 5 Auburn (7-0) travels to Georgia on Nov. 13 for a crucial game with the sixth-ranked Bulldogs (8-0) and then has Southeastern Conference leader Alabama (8-0) to look forward to on Nov. 27. Alabama is the nation's No. 4 team.

Penn State, which has romped over its first seven opponents to attain the No. 7 ranking, has the easiest remaining schedule of any of the unbeaten: The Nittany Lions, the only remaining unbeaten team among the nation's major independents, meet Maryland on Saturday and follow with games against North Carolina State and Pittsburgh before closing out the season with 15th-ranked Tennessee.

Hunt inks net pact with NBC

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lamar Hunt believes he has achieved the first major breakthrough for professional tennis on television.

The Texas millionaire announced an agreement with the National Broadcasting Company Wednesday for a TV package of eight of Hunt's World Championship Tennis tournament finals live next spring.

On eight Sundays starting on Feb. 20 and winding up on May 14 — NBC will show the pro tourney finals in competition with pro basketball on ABC and hockey on CBS.

Carl Lindemann, Jr., vice president of the National Broadcasting Company, who worked closely with Hunt when an NBC contract helped spur the success of the American Football League, said the TV contract was a major breakthrough for tennis. He said he thought tennis would compete in the ratings with basketball and hockey.

In the past, basketball has beaten hockey by a wide margin in TV ratings.

Colonels nip Floridians

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Dan Issel poured in 33 points and the Kentucky Colonels rallied to defeat the Floridians 118-111 Wednesday night, snapping the Floridians' three-game winning streak.

The Colonels exploded for seven straight points after the Floridians led briefly 108-107 with 1:20 to play. Two free throws by Cincy Powell put the Colonels on top to stay.

Colonels nipped Johnny Musso — injured his right arm and shoulder in last week's 41-10 conquest of Mississippi State and Coach Bear Bryant is not sure his star runner will play.

The Bengals have been beaten twice by 11th-rated Colorado in the season opener and by Mississippi in last week's 24-22 stunner. But they're a team that averages 35 points a game. Besides, the squad is healthy, and was probably looking ahead to Saturday's game when tripped by the Rebels.

Quarterback Bert Jones and his cousin, Andy Hamilton, the top pass catcher in LSU history, spearhead a "walking 1" offense that has averaged over 400 yards a game.

Alabama rates a seven-point favorite.

In other games involving the top 10, Nebraska is an overwhelming 32-point choice

Suns rally past Braves

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Four points by Dick Van Arsdale in the closing 24 seconds gave the Phoenix Suns a 100-98 NBA victory Wednesday night over the Buffalo Braves.

With the score tied at 96-96, Van Arsdale scored a bucket on a goal-tending call against Elmore Smith with 24 seconds left. He added two free throws with eight seconds remaining to boost the Suns' lead to four points.

Quartermaster Bert Jones and his cousin, Andy Hamilton, the top pass catcher in LSU history, spearhead a "walking 1" offense that has averaged over 400 yards a game.

Alabama rates a seven-point favorite.

N.Y. drills Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Walt Frazier scored 31 points and Jerry Lucas hit his first seven shots and finished with 21 points to lead the New York Knicks past the Houston Rockets 117-98 in the Astrodome Wednesday night.

Six Knicks hit in double figures in the sloppy NBA contest which saw both teams combine to turn the ball over 44 times.

Royals snap 6-game drouth

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Tom Van Arsdale and veteran Johnny Green combined for 60 points Wednesday night as the Cincinnati Royals broke a six-game losing streak by walloping the Philadelphia 76ers, 124-100.

Van Arsdale led all scorers with 32 points. Green added 28, with many of his baskets coming on assists from Matt Guokas, who set a career high with 14 scoring feeds.

The Royals, who outmuscled Philadelphia under the boards to take 60-39 rebound edge, jumped to an easy 27-17 first quarter lead and led 60-39 at the halftime as Green tallied 18 points.

Former Royal Fred Foster led the 76ers with 29 points and Hal Greer netted 16 for Philadelphia.

Young award wasn't Jenkins' prime goal

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Cy Young trophy wasn't among the goals set in the pre-season by Chicago Cubs pitcher Ferguson Arthur Jenkins.

"I haven't considered it that important," he said at a hastily called news conference after the 24-game winner was announced as the winner of the trophy voted by the Baseball Writers' Association to the National League's best pitcher.

"I'd like to have been in the World Series," he added. "But any athlete likes to get awards, and the Cy Young is awarded to the best pitcher.

"There's a lot of good pitchers, and it's too bad you have to single out one individual. Don't misunderstand me, though; I'm glad I won it."

to pitching, concentrate on the mound, make the batter hit my pitch and go out there and work every fourth day.

"We said if I worked hard, I'd get a lot of benefits. He took my windup away, and gave me a shorter windup. And if he shouted at you, you knew you were doing wrong, and if he smiled, you knew you were going great."

This season, Jenkins said, another Cubs' pitcher, Bill Hands, made a Jenkins mistake in watching film of his work, the only change he made during the year. "I was dragging my leg and throwing across my body," he said. "That was when I was after my 22nd win and hadn't done it two or three times."

He revealed also that a pitching friend, Don Wilson of Houston, and he compared notes during the season. "He helped me find out how to get the batters out with Atlanta and Montreal and I helped him with Philadelphia and San Francisco."

Becker's promise, on the basis of Jenkins' contract last year, might be coming true, too. About the million dollars, that is.

"I was knocking on the door of $100,000 last year," Jenkins said, "and I've got two attorneys negotiating for me now. I never said I wanted $150,000 for next year."

Short tries to scrape up money

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The creditors of Bob Short, owner of the Washington baseball club that moved to Arlington, Tex., have given him a few more days to scrape up the Texas money with which he hopes to clear the old loans.

Three major creditors hold notes totalling some $8 million, spokesmen for the trio said Wednesday.

Short borrowed $2.2 million from the estate of the late James M. Johnston, who used to own the Senators. The debt to the American Security and Trust Co. is $2 million, plus interest for two years. And Short owes James H. Lemon Sr. $1.1 million plus one year's interest, spokesmen said.

The interest is at the annual rate of 7 per cent.

The creditors said Short was to come through with "a substantial loan" of Texas money by early this week. But Short, the Texas banks who are in on the arrangement, and their lawyers asked for more time.

Carter sure Bengals will start winning

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Cincinnati quarterback Virgil Carter said Wednesday the Bengals have "been snakebitten since the start of the year" and Sunday against the Atlanta Falcons here would be the perfect time to turn the season around — just like he did last year.

The Bengals were favored to win the Central Division of the American Football Conference but after a 37-14 win over Philadelphia in the opener they fell on hard times and now have lost six in a row.

Carter and his substitute Kenny Anderson have both been injured and Carter hasn't seen action at quarterback since the third game of the season. But Sunday the doctors have given him a go-ahead on his shoulder separation and he will start against the Falcons.

"I'm not going to worry about my shoulder," said Carter. "I'm not going to be afraid to run. All I'm going to think about is a win. And if it means diving through a couple of guys, we'll do it."

"What we need is to get a win, to get more confidence

Lloyd hired as coach of Pistons

DETROIT (UPI) — Earl Lloyd, former Detroit player and assistant coach and currently television color man, was hired Wednesday to coach the Pistons for the remainder of the National Basketball Association season.

Lloyd, 42, whom many felt was a top candidate to become the first black coach in the game several years ago, thus finally gets the chance to coach a pro team he had sought for a long time. He was signed to a two-year contract for an undisclosed amount of money.

Forward Terry Dischinger will coach Detroit, 6-4 in the NBA's Central Division, the next two games at Boston and Milwaukee until Lloyd frees himself of his current job, dealer relations with a Detroit auto company.

Detroit had planned to fill the vacancy created by Bill van Breda Kolff's abrupt quitting Monday with first Dischinger and then Dave Bing, recovering from surgery to repair a partially detached retina in his right eye.

Utah's 50-yard punt average has pro grid scouts drooling

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pro scouts have been drooling over Marv Bateman for three years now and they can't wait to get at him in the January pro football draft.

Bateman, a senior at Utah, doesn't see much action but makes the most of it when he does. He sports an even 50.0 yard-per-kick punting average to lead the nation in that category, according to official figures released today by National Collegiate Sports Services. The 50.0 average, is, in fact, better than any of the National Football League's punters.

Bateman is a rarity in that he can both punt and place kick — another factor which makes him desirable to the pros. Should he maintain his 50-yard average, he would be the first collegian ever to top that mark for a season. He showed little indication of letting up last Saturday as he averaged 54.1

yards per punt and connected on a 45-yard field goal.

Tommy Reynolds of San Diego State held his punting receiving lead with a 6.6 per game reception average and Brigham Young's Golden Richards clung to the punt return leadership with a 2.84 average. Paul Loughran of Temple is the kickoff return leader at 37.0 yards per return.

Dave Atkinson of Brigham Young tied Villanova's Frank Polito for the interception lead with 1.1 per game and Oklahoma's John Carroll leads in kick scoring with 7.9 points a game.

Jerome and Buhl fight out for two titles, Declo and Raft River go for some inter-conference prestige and a rare opportunity to play football, inside and Twin Falls and Minico continue in the Southern Idaho Conference this weekend as the Magic Valley football season continues to wind down. Twin Falls, now fighting to beat a mediocre season, and Burley both will travel into Eastern Idaho. The Bruins will be at Skyline at 8 p.m. Friday while Burley is at Rigby at 1:30 p.m. Burley already has its Eastern Idaho Conference championship clinched. Minico entertains Highland at 8 p.m., Buhl and Jerome open at Gooding will be at Filer at 2 p.m. Raft River meets fifth district runner-up Westside at 5 p.m. Friday in the mindome with champions Declo, and Grace colliding at 8 p.m.

Jerome is seeking the end of a perfect 10-year in hosting Buhl and is favored to get it. The victory would give the Tigers the Cross State Conference and South Central Idaho Conference titles and advance them into a playoff against the Snake River Valley A-league champions.

Emry eyes 2,000-yard rush mark

Capital's Ron Emry, already the outstanding rusher in the history of the Southern Idaho Conference, could well become the first man to gain 2,000 yards running in the top.

According to statistics released today by conference coaches, Emry already has broken the record he established last year and has two games in which to push that upward. The smooth Eagle senior now has 1,691 yards, picking up 665 in his last two outings, and will try for 2,000 against Caldwell and Meridian. His 322 last week eclipsed the season mark of 1,507 he established last year when he carried only three times in his team's first three games and played defensive halfback the remainder. However, his conference mark of 1,318 is still behind the 1,439 he established as the standard as a junior.

Those statistics also have him atop loop's total offense standings. Emry also is threatening the scoring records of 160 for the year by Borah's Mike Wiscombe and 112 by Dennis Olson of Idaho Falls. Emry has 145 overall and 103 in league.

Dave Comstock of Pocatello regained the pass lead from Twin Falls' Jerry Barbour with 887 yards against 877.

Bulls thump Hawks 113-100

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Chicago Bulls, taking advantage of 13 free throws in the third quarter, blew open a close game and beat Atlanta 113-100.

The thirteen fouls called on the Hawks in that quarter set a new club record. It also offset early Chicago foul trouble. Early in the second half four of the Chicago starters had four fouls.

In the end, however, it was Chicago at the foul line that made the difference. The Bulls had 59 free throws to Atlanta's 38. Bobby Weiss led the Bulls with 27 points and Chet Walker had 21. Lou Hudson led the Hawks with 32 points.

The Bulls are now 7-3 for the NBA season and the Hawks 3-7.

City loop sets meeting

Organizational meeting of the Twin Falls recreation department basketball league will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at city hall. Reports recreation director Chad Browning. Managers and players from interested teams should attend as Browning said he hopes to have the best games during the first week of December.

Kimberly, T.F. gain meet final

EDEN HAZELTON, Twin Falls and Kimberly advanced to the finals of the district girls volleyball team Wednesday night and will meet for the championship at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Valley High School gymnasium.

Twin Falls dropped Kimberly 15-6 and 15-2 to become the only undefeated team in the tournament and Kimberly will have to win two three-set games to claim the title.

The tightest battle Wednesday waged between Castleford and Buhl with Castleford finally winning it in the rubber match in overtime. Castleford won the first game 15-13, lost the second 14-16 and claimed the third 16-14.

Buhl, Castleford, Valley and Jerome were eliminated in the other games.

Cowboys end two quarterback system, hand job to Staubach

DALLAS (UPI)—Tom Landry has pitched the ball to Roger Staubach and told him, in effect, to "move it and the job (No. 1 quarterback of the Dallas Cowboys) is yours."

Landry Wednesday announced abandonment of his controversial two-quarterback system by picking third-year man Staubach—a man who "makes things happen"—over seven-year veteran Craig Morton, starting next Sunday in St. Louis against the Cardinals.

Landry made it clear he was not going to explain the "whys and hows" of his decision and refused to be pinned down hard on the future. But he explained that this way:

"When you make a choice, you feel he's the one to do it ... but he has to do it. Who knows what will happen?"

"I feel we had reached the point to make a choice and we're going to go with Staubach. I think it is Roger's time to make a move. I feel he can do it."

"I have very much confidence in both quarterbacks ... they are the best part of our team ... and Craig will be ready to play if he's needed."

"If I didn't think we could win this way, I wouldn't have made the decision."

"Roger is going to be learning every time he steps on the field. He has great confidence in himself. He makes things happen. "I'm convinced this is the way to go. I was convinced the two-quarterback system was too. But, it just didn't work out because we didn't do too well in other places."

Landry was referring, he said, to "our one great weakness—the kicking game," fumbles, penalties, allowing long runbacks and failure to get and-or keep field position.

The coach said the Cowboys now were starting and ending each practice with kicking drills, said that changes were being made in the personnel of these teams and added that more were anticipated.

He said he activated Austrian soccer-style kicker Toni Fritsch and taxed regular kicker Mike

Clark—who missed three field goals in last Sunday's 23-10 loss to Chicago—because "I felt it necessary at this point."

Landry said he didn't think his decision to go with Staubach was "comparable" to 1965 when he designated Don Meredith over rookies Morton and Jerry Rhome. "The situation was different, then," he said.

"I think a change is necessary ... I didn't feel that last year, but I do now. It's a big decision, not a small one."

Lender risks losses

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
It has been truly said that the best way to lose a friend is to lend him money. On that basis the United States has been losing friends since 1947 when, under the "Truman doctrine," it began distributing foreign aid which today totals $43 billion. "Human nature being what it is," the United States would be naive indeed to expect any overflowing demonstrations of gratitude from the recipients of its generosity.
But, by the same token, it should not be surprised by some U.S. irritation when they reward generosity with an obvious show of anti-Americanism.

A case in point is Tanzania whose delegate performed a jig of joy on the floor of the United Nations General Assembly after the defeat of the U.S. attempt to save a U.N. seat for Nationalist China.

Tanzania has been declared by the U.N. to be one of 25 countries with an especially low level of per capita income, a high rate of illiteracy, a lack of natural resources and a bad climate, all of which, it is supposed, make it a special candidate for aid.

As such it has received a $30 million loan from the U.S.-supported World Bank for an electric power project and additional $10 million from the International Development Association, the bank's easy-loan affiliate.

It also is the recipient of Red China's largest "foreign" aid project, a $40 million interest-free loan to Tanzania and Zambia for a railroad between the two countries.

All of this ties in closely with efforts of the Nixon administration to repair the shambles left by the U.S. Senate vote killing the American foreign aid program. The Senate action killed the administration's $3.3 billion foreign aid authorization bill which in actual fact represented less than half of all U.S. aid channeled through various economic and military programs.

The overall actual total annually has been closer to $10 billion than to $1 billion. Over the years the U.S. aid program probably comes to more than 10 times the amount spent similarly by the Soviet Union. Red Chinese aid scarcely can be compared. Both the Soviet Union and Red China have tended to be more selective.

The Soviet's scuff at the possibility the U.S. aid program is coming to an end, has accused the U.S. of seeking to build "coastal, colonial markets" for U.S. manufactured goods and say the aid program will continue under other guises.

The Red Chinese have attempted to probe weak spots left by both the Soviet Union and the United States. Most Red Chinese aid has gone to Africa—Algeria, the former French Congo, Guinea, Mauritania and Tanzania. Since the 1950s it has totaled about $250 million.

Mind Your Money

BY PETER WEAVER
Q — I see where two more chemical poisons have been discovered in our food. One is called PCB and the other is a red coloring. Why aren't they outlawed? — Ms. A. H., McLean, Va.
A — The immediate danger of these chemicals in food was overblown and they are being removed from the food supply. PCB is a chemical used in many industrial processes and can be toxic if you take in enough of it. The traces of PCB found in food that had the chemical in its packages were just that — traces — not near enough to cause immediate harm. According to Packscope, an authoritative industry newsletter, PCBs were found in paperboard packaging that had come from recycled paper. The newsletter said food manufacturers have stopped using recycled paperboard for packaging and the incidence of PCBs in food, according to a spot check, is almost nil. PCBs could present a long-term health hazard if they keep building up in our food supply. Like DDT, they stick around for a long time. Their use by industry in any process that even comes close to food will soon be restricted.
As for the coloring, Red Number 2, it's widely used in such things as soft drinks and packaged desserts to give strawberry, cherry and orange hues. Russian scientists discovered that heavy amounts of Red Number 2 in animal food impaired the production process. Females couldn't produce eggs. Again, the amount of Red Number 2 in our food is not immediately harmful to health but the Food and Drug Administration is expected to severely limit the use of this coloring by the first of next year. Other safe colors will be used to avoid possible long-term, dangerous effects.

Q — I'd like the lowdown on Amway's SA-8 washing compound. — Mrs. J. W., Wenatchee, Wash.
A — A private chemical laboratory says Amway SA-8 contains approximately: 60 per cent soda ash, 20 per cent metacrylate, 15 per cent organics and 2 per cent brighteners. Soda ash and metacrylate are alkaline substitutes for phosphates. The more alkaline a detergent becomes, according to the chemist, the less effective it is as a long-term cleanser. After four to six washings, clothes tend to retain some dirt and look dull. Also alkaline chemicals are caustic and should be kept away from small children who might drink them accidentally. Many detergent manufacturers turned to these chemicals to cut down on phosphates which are said to contribute to the killing of fish in some areas.

Q — Is it legal to charge a sales tax on top of financial service (interest) charges? — Mrs. A.J.M., Astec, New Mexico
A — The Federal Trade Commission, which polices the Truth in Lending Law, says it isn't legal. The tax is only supposed to be charged on the goods or services you purchased. Ifing this fact to the store's attention. If you have any trouble, report it to the nearest Federal Trade Commission office (found under Federal Government in the nearest major city phonebook).

Q — My TV broke down and I called a serviceman to fix it. He said the set had been previously repaired at the place where I bought it and I ought to buy a new set from his store. He showed me tubes that came from another manufacturer as proof that it had been tampered with before it was sold. What should I do? — M.M.P., Brookfield, Mass.
A — Keep the set. Dealers often have to replace tubes when new TV's come in. Using other manufacturers tubes is a common practice — they're interchangeable. (Peter Weaver welcomes questions from readers for possible use in his column. Please send letter to him in care of this newspaper.)

It's constitutional to ask for voters' age

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's legislature has the constitutional authority to require voters to list their age and Social Security number, an assistant attorney general ruled Wednesday.

In an opinion for Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa, Assistant Attorney General John Croner said the requirements of the new law are mandatory unless the legislature decides to change them.

Cenarrusa asked for the opinion after receiving a number of calls and letters from angry constituents who viewed the new requirements under the registration law as unwarranted and unconstitutional invasion of privacy.

But Croner said, after researching the U. S. Constitution and the laws that he did not feel the Supreme Court would construe the secrecy of one's age or Social Security number among fundamental rights protected under the Ninth Amendment.

"Thus, if any right of privacy is at stake the test which a high court would require the state to meet, in my opinion, is whether it can show a rational basis for the required disclosure," Croner said.

"If it can, then the Ninth Amendment guarantee of right to privacy as interpreted by the U.S. Supreme Court has been satisfied."

He said the basis on which the state can justify disclosure of a voter's age is that the state is interested in statistics with regard to who votes in a given age group, that the state has an interest in insuring that only legal age voters are registered to vote and exclusion of another with the same name.

"The latter reason is the sole justification which the state could advance for the disclosure of one's Social Security number," he added.

"It is my opinion that these reasons would constitute a rational basis for the state's incidental impingement upon the privacy of those who deem themselves injured by the necessity of such disclosure in order to vote."

Therefore, Croner said, the new law may be read as mandatory and "leaving no discretion with the prospective registrant as to what he will or will not disclose."

Therefore, Croner said, the new law may be read as mandatory and "leaving no discretion with the prospective registrant as to what he will or will not disclose."

While the attorney general's office says that voters must disclose their ages and Social Security numbers in order to vote, the secretary of state's office said the angry cards and letters keep coming in. Jerry Hill, chief elections clerk, said the secretary of state has received at least 50 calls and letters of complaint from the public.

Typical of the anger expressed was one from Elizabeth A. Hagman, Nordman, and signed in concurrence by 25 other persons from Nordman and Priest River.

This letter questioned first of all the reason for the legislature's

"Several of my neighbors are also puzzled about this," the writer said. "Because we live in a time when state and federal governmental bodies are usurping many of our rights and liberties as individuals we thought it best to write to you for an explanation."

Firms asked to hold rates down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Corporations will be asked to hold dividend increases to 4 per cent during 1972, the new committee on interest and dividends said Tuesday.

The committee made its announcement as the five labor members told the Pay Board's first meeting that they would insist that all deferred wage and benefit increases negotiated prior to the wage-price freeze be allowed to go into effect when the long term controls take effect Nov. 13.

Sources who told UPI of labor's demand to the Pay Board said they issued no ultimatum and the five business members did not outline their position on the deferred increases.

As for dividends next year, the committee headed by Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns, said the "general principle" would be "to limit any increase in total dividends per share paid in 1972 to an amount not exceeding 4 per cent."

The interest-dividend group said, "The base to which this increase will be applied is the total amount per share—adjusted for stock dividends and splits—paid in any of a corporation's fiscal years ending during 1969, 1970 or 1971."

For the final quarter of 1971, the committee said, companies should abide by President Nixon's request not to raise dividends to a higher level than paid in the quarter immediately before the wage-price freeze was imposed on Aug. 15.

As for the Pay Board meeting, Chairman George Boldt, a semi-retired federal judge from Seattle, would only say that "substantive issues" were discussed during the five hour meeting.

But the sources said that the labor members led by AFL-CIO President George Meany made it "unequivocally clear" that deferred wages would be one of the union men's main goals.

The 15-member Pay Board—the final five members come from the public at large—began their discussion with a document drafted by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) on what would happen to the economy if the blocked wage increases were allowed to take effect.

The BLS estimated earlier that wage increases negotiated in major union contracts but not allowed to take effect during the freeze averaged about 6.1 per cent. The estimate did not include the effect of escalator clauses which are planned to fluctuate in the Cost of Living Index.

The seven-member Price Commission is scheduled to resume deliberations Wednesday while the committee on interest rates and dividends also met Tuesday.

New post

OTTAWA (UPI)—Huang Hua, the ambassador of the People's Republic of China to Canada, will leave Ottawa on Nov. 9 to take up his new post as second in command of China's delegation at the United Nations, officials in the Department of External Affairs said Wednesday.

He said if any of the requested information is not supplied but is available to the registrant "the registering official could properly refuse registration upon the ground that an incomplete registration application was presented to him and that such was required by law."

Trial of brothers begins

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The trial of the two surviving "Soleidad Brothers" accused of killing a prison guard opened Wednesday under some of the tightest security ever seen in an American courtroom.

As jury selection began, John Clutchette, 26, and Fleeta Drumgo, 28, were allowed to appear in civilian clothes rather than prison denim for the first time.

But other security precautions were unprecedented. A bullet-proof glass screen separated the spectators from the judge, defendants and lawyers. The jury panel was sworn in on the sixth floor of the San Francisco Hall of Justice, three floors above the jury room, and only those veniremen actually being questioned were allowed in the courtroom.

The others watched the proceedings over closed-circuit television.

Another closed-circuit television camera was trained on the spectators, a procedure protested by the defense as "a blatant violation of the constitutional rights of the spectators and of the defendants."

The courtroom was being guarded by 10 sheriff's deputies as well as members of the police department's tactical squad.

Spectators were admitted only when carrying identification cards and then only after being searched.

Drumgo and Clutchette were charged with killing a guard in racially troubled Soleidad State Prison in 1970.

George Jackson, the other "Soleidad Brother," was killed during an unsuccessful escape attempt which took the lives of five others at San Quentin prison last Aug. 21.

The trial was moved here because superior court at Salinas, Calif., ruled the defendants could not get a fair trial in Monterey County, site of Soleidad.
