Deeper strikes hit Red fields

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. planes struck two North Vietnamese airfields 140 and 150 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) today in the second consecutive day of air strikes against Communist air defenses above the DMZ.

The raids followed the Saigon visit of Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and a warning by Adm. John S. McCain, commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific, that the Communists were building up their air power.

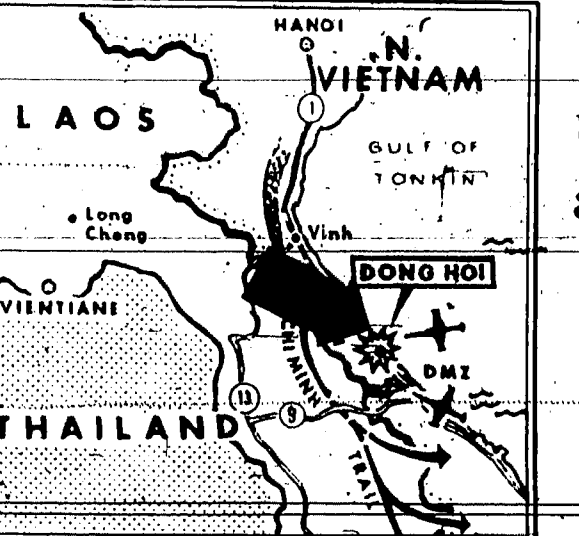

The raids were the farthest north since the abortive effort on Nov. 21, 1970, by U.S. helicopter crews to rescue American prisoners of war from the Son Tay POW Camp 23 miles from Hanoi. Hanoi radio said American planes on that effort dropped bombs which could be heard in Hanoi.

The 1970 Son Tay effort was accompanied by two days of the heaviest bombing of North Vietnam since the end of the American air raids over the north on Nov. 1, 1968. Laird said at the time all of the raids were below the 19th parallel as were today's strikes.

The double-barreled attacks were against an air field at Quang Lang, 150 miles above the DMZ, and against airfield defenses at Vinh, 140 miles above the DMZ, and only 48 miles from Quang Lang. They followed two strikes Sunday that were labeled as "protective reaction" strikes.

Quang Lang is on north-south Highway 7 about 40 miles inland from the Gulf of Tonkin and is about 100 miles south of Hanoi. Vinh, a major North Vietnamese city, has been reported to be the site of a MIG fighter plane base, though no MIGs have been reported in action in months.

U.S. military spokesman said the raids were carried out by F4 Phantom jet fighter-bombers.

US plans to retain airstrikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today that while the American ground combat role was declining in South Vietnam, U.S. air strikes would continue "as long as needed and necessary."

Laird returned early today from a five-day inspection trip in South Vietnam and met with newsmen at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland.

Laird refused to comment on reports from Saigon that U.S. troop withdrawals would be speeded up and that U.S. ground combat missions would end by next summer.

'Enter' world Chinese fly to UN seat

PARIS (UPI) — A delegation of Chinese Communist officials left Paris today en route to New York to make preliminary arrangements for Peking's takeover of the China seat at the United Nations.

Police in New York said the Chinese delegation was due from Paris at 12:15 p.m. EST, aboard an Air France jetliner.

The Chinese, wearing Mao-style suits, landed at Le Bourget airfield from Canton by way of Karachi and Damascus aboard a Pakistani International Airlines jet Sunday night. They had been scheduled to arrive at Orly airport but it was fogged in.

Chinese diplomats met the group and took them into Paris aboard a minibus driven by a chauffeur from the Chinese embassy.

Powell's holdings problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lewis F. Powell Jr. testified today he could not dispose of his major financial holdings without taking a substantial tax loss, but would disqualify himself on the Supreme Court from considering cases involving companies in which he had a financial interest.

Powell told the Senate Judiciary Committee that he realized his stock and bond holdings of almost $1.5 million were "a troublesome problem."

President Nixon's other nominee to the high court, William H. Rehnquist, was questioned by the committee last week. The committee is not expected to take action on the nominations for at least several days.

In response to a question from Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., Powell said that in hearing cases involving companies in which he has stock, he would recognize as the guiding principle a proposed canon of the American Bar Association (ABA) that says a judge should disqualify himself if he has any financial interest in a litigant appearing before him.

Powell said the major portion of his stock holdings was in the Sperry and Hutchinson Company.

Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, chief sponsor of the amendment, worked with House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan on a possible maneuver to substitute the word "voluntary."

Opposition leads Philippine vote

MANILA (UPI) — The opposition Liberal Party took a surprise early lead today over President Ferdinand E. Marcos' Nacionalista candidates as voters cast ballots at the close of the bloodiest election campaign in the Philippine republic 25-year history.

As of 11:16 p.m. (10:16 a.m. EST) the Philippine News Service reported campaign-connected deaths stood at 199 with 207 wounded since the first political killing July 9.

The total included 40 killed and 23 wounded today, surpassing the toll of 99 dead and 99 wounded in the 1967 elections. Filipinos elected senate, provincial and municipal officials in the Philippines fifth national and local elections. The senate race was the key contest and early returns showed the Liberals forging ahead on a wave of sympathy and protest votes.

Early trends from cities throughout the Archipelago gave the Liberals a good chance to win six of the eight senate seats at stake, reversing their losses in the past three elections. And in Manila, two-term Mayor Antonio J. Villegas was trailing Rep. Ramon D. Bagatsing, the united opposition candidate.

The Liberal comeback appeared based in part on their campaign slogan, "Remember Plaza Miranda."

Prayer showdown nearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House members faced one of the year's toughest votes today on a proposed constitutional amendment to put prayer back in the schools.

Backers of the proposal to overturn Supreme Court rulings 1963 and 1963 against state-sponsored prayers approached the test with an easy majority on record for the amendment. But a two-thirds vote was required to pass it and both supporters and opponents issued cautious victory forecasts.

The outcome possibly hinged on whether the amendment's sponsors could agree on a last-minute revision of its wording—to eliminate "nondenominational" and substitute "voluntary" in the definition of prayers which would be authorized in schools and other public buildings.

Members on both sides of the school prayer question reported themselves under the heaviest pressure for and against that they have felt on any recent issue.

Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, chief sponsor of the amendment, worked with House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan on a possible maneuver to substitute the word "voluntary."

H-blast studied

ANCHITKA, Alaska (UPI) — Scientists watched today for the first signs of collapse in the surface at ground zero more than a mile above successful explosion of a five-megaton nuclear warhead on Amchitka Island.

A dish-shaped crater upwards of 500 feet deep and 2,000 feet wide is expected to form when super thermal temperatures cool and pressure recedes in the underground chamber created by the Cannikin test Saturday.

The blast caused the largest earth tremor ever produced by man, rocking the island with a heaving, buckling motion. But fears it would set off disastrous earthquakes and tidal waves proved unfounded.

Dave Jackson, Atomic Energy Commission information officer, said it may take as long as two or three days for the crater to develop because of the depth of the explosion from the surface.

As the earth slides back into the hollow cavity from above, some seismic disturbance will result. But Jackson said it will be "many, many times less" than the level caused by the blast itself.

The explosion was recorded at between 6.75 and 7.4 on the Richter earthquake scale at seismographs around the world.

When the one-megaton Millrow experiment was conducted on the island two years ago, the surface depression did not form until 37 hours after the blast. The Millrow explosion was nearly 2,000 feet closer to the earth's surface than the Cannikin test.

Jackson discounted any possibility of radioactive leakage as the crater develops. "In effect, it will work to seal in the radiation," he said.

Solon witnesses blast

WASHINGTON, D. C. — An Idaho Congressman walked over the cracked surface near ground zero at Amchitka and later declared the nation's largest underground weapons test "successful."

Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said today in a telephone interview that the command post 21 miles away from the five-megaton explosion rocked back and forth for about 15 seconds after the shock wave hit the group of about 200 people nearest ground zero.

Hansen said a homemade device suspended from the ceiling at the command post showed a lateral movement of about six to seven inches in each direction.

Hansen, with the assembled technicians at the point nearest the blast, said he felt no fear, nor witnessed any apprehension among those with him.

He said it took about three seconds for the shock wave to travel the 21 miles from ground zero to the command post.

After Atomic Energy Commission officials had determined that there had been no radiation leakage from the mile-deep explosion, Hansen was flown by helicopter to a point about a half mile from ground zero.

There, he said, there were cracks in the surface up to an inch and a half wide and about 20 feet long.

Man kills 5 members of family

GRASS VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — A mother and her four children were shot to death and police arrested her estranged husband Sunday in the fourth of a series of mass slayings which have taken 35 lives in the Sierra Nevada foothills.

"There wasn't much of a way for them to go. They were there or less trapped," Nevada County Sheriff Wayne Brown said of the victims, whose bodies were found dressed in nightclothes in bedrooms of a shingled cottage in a quiet, wooded area.

Police arrested Alexander (John) Massimo Vichi, 41, as he sat in his car in Healdsburg, 105 miles west of the death scene. He was taken under heavy guard to Sonoma County Jail and booked on five counts of murder.

She 'found love' recording own death

DENVER (UPI) — Lyn Helton, 20, a housewife who learned about love through death, died Saturday in Children's Hospital of a rare bone cancer that doctors could not cure.

Lyn never wanted to die and she readily admitted it. But she came to grips with the thought of death and finally accepted it. "I think death is sort of beautiful," she once said. "I've learned to love people. I'm not afraid to say, 'Hey, I love you.'"

She did her work quietly and without publicity until a thief stole the recorder. Then her story became nationally known and scores of persons offered new tape recorders to replace the one that was stolen.

"It's sort of an autobiography to get across how it feels to be dying and raising children at the same time," Lyn had read "lots of articles about people who have had cancer and lived. But readers get a false impression from this. I've never read an article by someone who is dying."

She did her work quietly and without publicity until a thief stole the recorder. Then her story became nationally known and scores of persons offered new tape recorders to replace the one that was stolen.

"Maybe the readers will try to read something into what I've said and learned, and they can make something of it themselves if they're faced with the same situation."

However, she eventually ordered a halt to radiation treatments and some of the drugs because of the effect it was having on her.

"I would rather die in a shorter length of time with a happy state of mind, than take the drugs and be unhappy and mentally deficient," she said. "Being this close to death, I realize how important it is to love everything I can."

and I learned a lot about myself in the process," she said. "People don't realize that death is a part of life. They are too afraid of it."

Survivors include her 20-month-old daughter, Jennifer, and her husband, Tom, a professional musician and photographer. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

U.S. relations with Israel said worsening

By United Press International
 Israel's ambassador to Washington, Yitzhak Rabin, will return home this week for "urgent consultations" on a possible "major confrontation" with the United States, the Jerusalem Post said today.

"Relations between Israel and the U.S. are believed moving toward a major confrontation," the Post said. "Reports have reached Jerusalem that the administration in Washington has decided not to resume the supply of Phantom (jet) aircraft to Israel for the time being."

The report was not confirmed officially.

"Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin is expected to come to Jerusalem this week for urgent consultations on the situation," the newspaper said.

Cairo's semi-official newspaper, Al-Ahram, said today President Anwar Sadat told four African leaders on a Middle East peace mission that Egypt seeks an over-all settlement of the conflict pegged only on Israel's withdrawal from all occupied Arab territories.

Egypt insists on implementation of all clauses of the U.N. Security Council resolution of Nov. 22, 1967. Sadat reportedly said, making it clear that Israel can either have peace or have the occupied Arab lands—but not both.

The Africans—Presidents Leopold Senghor of Senegal and Ahmadu Ahidjo of Cameroon, Gen. Yakubu Gowon of Nigeria and Gen. Joseph Mobutu of Zaire (Congo)—ended their weeklong visit to Israel and Egypt today.

They were delegated by the Organization of African Unity (OAU) to visit the Middle East and help Egypt and Israel reach a settlement based on the Security Council resolution. They return to Israel for more talks Nov. 16 and to Cairo two days later.

Storm's aftermath

WRECKAGE of boats lies aground in Jambu, India, following cyclonic storm and tidal wave which struck the Indian coastline in Orissa state 10 days ago. Officials estimate 10,000 people died in the storm. New storm lashed Assam state near same place last Friday and Saturday but no deaths have been reported. (UPI)

Second cyclone strikes the Indian coastline

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI said Sunday the world synod of Roman Catholic bishops will have "great influence" on the future of the church and the world. But he specifically declined to comment on what it did.

Speaking to pilgrims and tourists in St. Peter's Square, the Pope reviewed briefly the two themes covered by the recently concluded synod—the priesthood and peace and justice in the world. He also called on Christians to renew and deepen their faith in Christ.

"Yesterday, as you know, the synod of bishops ended," the Pope said. "It was a very important event, certainly destined to have a great influence on the life of the church and also the world."

"But we will not now make any comment on it," he said.

The Pope added that justice in the world had been the second theme of the synod and that "also in this regard what a greatness of ideas" is presented to the church. He did not elaborate.

The Pope told his listeners that "one thing is clear—we must renew and deepen our faith, faith in Christ, faith in His word, faith in His conception of life."

Pope says synod great

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The second cyclone spawned in the Bay of Bengal within eight days spent itself over India's Assam state Sunday after causing widespread damage in southern coastal areas of East Pakistan.

Pakistani government officials said the storm apparently caused no deaths.

Radio Pakistan, in a broadcast monitored here, said the cyclone was considerably less intense than the one that struck India's eastern coast Orissa state Oct. 20, killing an estimated 10,000 persons.

The radio said the latest storm had diminished to a tropical depression but was causing widespread rains in northern East Pakistan and over the jungles of India's southern Assam state.

The storm struck East Pakistan's southern port of Cox's Bazaar and four neighboring islands Friday, causing heavy damage to property. The cyclone swept up the delta, uprooting trees and destroying communications lines, Radio Pakistan said.

A Pakistani news agency dispatch said winds at some places Saturday reached 100 miles per hour but said, unlike the storm that hit India's coastline, there was no accompanying tidal wave.

USSR marks 54 years of communism

MOSCOW (UPI)—Born in revolution, the Soviet Union Sunday marked 54 years of Communism in keeping with its recent foreign policy which downplays military confrontation and stresses European détente.

As a soft snow dusted Red Square, there were no surprising new weapons and no harsh words for the United States or Communist China.

In the days of Josef Stalin, the bludgeons of war tracked across the cobblestones of the famous square for most of the day. Sunday's military hardware display lasted 10 minutes.

Western military experts said they found nothing new in the array of rockets, tanks and artillery.

Defense Minister Andrei A. Grechko avoided the rocket-rattling language of earlier years in his mildest Nov. 7 speech in recent memory.

The biggest weapon in the parade was the SS9 ICBM, a 120-foot gray-green behemoth capable of carrying a five-ton nuclear warhead to New York City. The SS9 was first shown in 1967, the last year the Russians revealed any military surprises in Red Square.

Speaking from a podium atop the Lenin Mausoleum, Grechko denounced the "criminal war in Indochina" but did not mention the United States by name as the main aggressive force of the world—a basic element of previous anniversary speeches. He did not mention China.

The economic and defense might of the Soviet Union is steadily growing stronger," Grechko said.

"Raising the defense capacity of the USSR, the increasing of the combat power of the Soviet armed forces, of their vigilance and constant preparedness for the defense of the great gains of Socialism, are one of the most important tasks."

Campaign would be undercut by third party

ATLANTA (UPI)—Several delegates to the Southern Governors' Conference warned Sunday that the South's influence on the 1972 presidential campaign could be undercut by a third party candidacy in the region.

Both Govs. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, a Democrat, and Linwood Holton of Virginia, a Republican, said they felt Dixie's impact on the election would be "diluted" by the possible candidacies of Gov. George Wallace of Alabama or Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia.

Carter said he hoped Wallace would run in the presidential preferential primaries as a Democrat rather than a third party candidate.

Asked if he knew whether Maddox would make a run for the presidency, Carter replied: "For the last six years I have been trying to predict what Mr. Maddox will do, and I have never been successful yet."

If Maddox should run, Carter was asked, would he "in any way represent the South as a candidate?"

"No," replied Carter.

Carter, Holton and Gov. John Bell Williams of Mississippi, chairman of the conference, were asked to name presidential candidates they consider acceptable to the South.

Williams named Wallace, Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash.

Reservoir fish contain highest mercury levels

BOISE (UPI)—Officials at the Idaho Fish and Game Department report compilation of data collected during 1971 on mercury residues in fish has been completed and shows a wide variance of mercury levels between species from the same body of water.

Analysis of 160 fish was initially made in 1970 from 18 areas in Idaho. During 1971, an additional 936 fish, three samples of aquatic organisms, 60 water samples and 17 sediment samples were collected by fish and game personnel from 75 areas.

Mercury analysis was done by atomic absorption at the Idaho Department of Health, Laboratories Division, in Boise.

Summarization of the 1970 and 1971 data for 26 species of fish shows a wide variance of mercury levels between species from the same body of water.

Now you know Patient shoots burglar

BOSTON (UPI)—One of three razor-brandishing youths who broke into a nursing home and terrorized two women was shot to death Sunday by a bedridden patient.

Police said John Clark, 64, opened fire with a .38 caliber pistol when James McIver, 19, entered his room, apparently to attack him. McIver staggered from the room, clutching his stomach. His two companions dragged him outside where they dropped him to the sidewalk and fled.

The youths had roughed up a nurse and Clark's mother, Mrs. Opie Gamble, 85, police said, and McIver was running down the corridor carrying Mrs. Gamble's cane when Clark saw him. Clark fired two shots toward the corridor, police said, as a warning.

McIver then entered Clark's room and was advancing toward the bed when Clark shot him in the stomach, police said. McIver was dead on arrival at the Carney Hospital.

Buying plans on rise

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Consumer plans to buy new cars and other durables increased in October after falling in July, according to the latest quarterly Survey of Consumer Buying Expectations conducted by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce.

The index of expected new car purchases rose from 94.8 in the first week of July to 103.4 in the first week of October.

In April, the index had stood at 104.7. The index measures the level of household new car buying plans relative to the base period of January-April 1967.

The rise in car buying plans was matched by similar increases in expected purchases of appliances, furniture, and carpets. The number of major appliances reported likely to be purchased within 12 months rose from 24.1 per 100 households expecting to make major expenditures on furniture and carpets increased from 24.4 to 26.1 over the same period. The comparable April figures were 26.1 for appliances and 28.4 for furniture and carpets.

The proportion of households reporting that their income had risen during the previous twelve months fell from 37.8 in July to 34.9 in October, and the proportion reporting income declines rose from 12.5 to 13.7.

The October survey was conducted in the middle of the ninety-day "freeze" on wages and prices, but the impact of the "freeze" on income expectations appeared to be minimal. In October, the proportion of households expecting their income to increase during the next 12 months was 15.7, only slightly lower than July's 17.0.

A table showing indexes of expected purchases as well as actual and anticipated income changes is on the reverse side of this sheet.

Nearly half Montana farms top 1,000 acres

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Almost 50 percent of Montana's 24,953 farms were larger than 1,000 acres in 1969 and nearly a third of them had 2,000 or more acres, according to a report on the 1969 Census of Agriculture released today by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census.

There were 4,700 in the 1,000- to -1,999 acre category, while 7,596 had 2,000 or more acres.

The number of farms in the State in 1969 was down 2,067 from the 1964 total of 27,020.

During the same five-year period, the average size increased from 2,436 to 2,521 acres and the average value per acre climbed from $42.30 to $59.57. The amount of land in farms declined almost three million acres from the 1964 total of 65.8 million acres.

Montana farmers sold $76 million worth of agricultural products in 1969, an increase of $186 million over 1964 sales.

Of the 1969 total, live-stock, poultry and their products accounted for $385 million, more than $168 million above the 1964 sales in that classification. Sales of crops, including nursery products and hay, exceeded $189 million in 1969, almost $18 million over 1964 sales.

Classified by sales volume, the largest groups of farms, 5,762, reported sales of $10,000 to $19,999, followed by 5,304 farms with sales of $20,000 to $39,999. Sales of $40,000 and over were reported by 3,095.

Of those farms with sales of $2,500 or more, 17,226 were operated by individuals or families. Partnerships operated 2,483, and 743 were operated by corporations.

Farmers to hear McClure

JEROME — Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, will be the featured speaker Friday, Nov. 12 at 8 p.m. at the junior high auditorium in Jerome at a public meeting jointly sponsored by the Jerome and Gooding Farm-Bureaus.

McClure will speak on the water moratorium and will answer questions from the audience, according to Dan Suhr, Jerome county Farm Bureau president.

All interested persons are invited to attend, Suhr said. McClure is now serving his third consecutive term in Congress from Idaho's First Congressional district.

Born in Payette in 1924, he graduated from the University of Idaho College of Law in 1950 and for 16 years prior to his election to Congress, practiced law in Payette with his father.

In 1965-66 he was the assistant majority leader in the Idaho Senate.

He is past president of the Payette Chamber of Commerce and the Payette Kiwanis club and is also a member of the Masons, Elks, American Legion and the Idaho Bar association. He served in the Navy Air Force during World War II.

McClure serves on the Interior and Insular Affairs committee in the U.S. House of Representatives.

His subcommittees are Parks and Recreation, Irrigation and Reclamation, Mines and Mining and Environment.

He is the ranking Republican member of Mines and Mining, also serves on the Post Office and Civil Service committee and is a member of the Joint Commission on the Coinage.

McClure is chairman of the House Republican Task Force on Energy and Resources.

Threats heard

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Officials at some Wyoming and Utah refineries increased security precautions this weekend because of reported threats against all western oil facilities.

Jerome choral concert set for Tuesday night

JEROME — The Jerome Junior High fall choral concert will be held Tuesday night, Nov. 9 at 8 p.m. at the new junior high auditorium in Jerome, according to Carson Wong, music director.

Wong said the public is invited to attend the concert, which he will direct with Mrs. B.J. Premog.

Selection by the mixed chorus will include: "America" by Luigi Aninelli; "Something Told the Wild Geese" by Margaret S. Vauce; "Five Hundred Miles" by West Rathliffe; "They Call the Wind Maria" by Loewe-Larner; "Cherish" by Kirkman-Arnold;

"Freedom Isn't Free" by Colwell-Hayward.

Pianists will include Becky Leininger, LeAnn Alftin and Joan Merkley.

The Girls chorus will sing: "More" by O'Folow-Oliviero-Lebousky; "I Gave My Love a Pretty Little Ring" by Katherine Davis; "There's a Kind of Hush" by Miller-Williams-Yount-Simon.

Boys chorus will present: "The Drunken Sailor" by Peter Stone; "Blow the Man Down" by Elliot Hadley; "Honey" by Russell-Coleman; "The House of the Rising Sun" by Price-Arnold.

Combined chorus will sing

"This Land Is Your Land" by Guthrie, Lewis and Platt.

All North Side Music club members and friends are urged to attend the concert.

A BRIEF BUSINESS MEETING WILL BE HELD FOR ALL Music club members at 7:15 p.m. prior to the concert, in a room adjacent to the auditorium.

The North Side Music Club, affiliated with the National Federation of Music clubs, has, as one of its several objectives, pledged support to the fine music department and this concert will constitute the program for November.

Politocos may ponder 2-party system health

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After the post mortem findings are in on the black vote, the youth vote and the nationalities vote in last week's elections, the political party managers can start wondering again about the future of the two-party system.

For example, in Virginia, in an election of little interest outside the state, the system was shaken again.

A Democratic state legislator, Henry E. Howell Jr., something of a far out liberal by Virginia standards, was selected as an independent to the vacant office of lieutenant governor, which is often the last step before the governorship.

Byrd Jr., was re-elected as an independent from Virginia and Sen. James A. Buckley was elected in New York as the candidate of the Conservative party.

The possibility of candidates running as independents or as nominees of third and fourth parties already is clouding the outlook for the 1972 presidential election year.

There have been rumbles of new conservative parties trying the Buckley approach against Sens. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., and Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., next year.

For the presidential race, Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama already is regarded as a probable contender. In 1968 as the candidate of the American Independent party, he polled 13.5 per cent of the national vote and carried five Southern states.

A potential threat to the Democrats comes from the possibility of a fourth party built by left wing defectors angered by the results of the party's national convention.

Similar events in the past century have failed to cause any permanent damage to the two-party system. But findings of polltakers indicate further recent slippage in party loyalties.

The GOP sees only about a fourth of the voters classing themselves as Republicans.

About Results

Christian Science Monitor

Of all the comings and goings by the three top Kremlin leaders in recent weeks, Leonid Brezhnev's visit to France is in some ways the most significant.

This is the first time Mr. Brezhnev has traveled outside the Communist bloc to visit a Western country since he became Communist Party chief in 1964.

Some sources say that the three leaders — Mr. Brezhnev, President Podgorny, and Premier Kosygin — have been assigned different areas in the diplomatic field, and that Mr. Brezhnev has assumed responsibility for relations with the United States and Western Europe.

Clearly the Soviet Union set great store on Mr. Brezhnev's visit to Paris. But the results seem to have fallen short of Soviet expectations.

Apparently the Russians had been hoping to conclude a friendship pact with France, broadly similar to those it reached earlier this year with Egypt and India.

A Soviet-French friendship pact would in fact have breached the Western alliance. But President Pompidou has made it clear that France intends to remain a member of the Atlantic Alliance even if it still clings to the Gaullist doctrine of non-cooperation with NATO's integrated military structure.

The Russians' current diplomatic offensive in Western Europe is spurred in part by the desire to ensure the status quo on their western front owing to their far greater preoccupations with developments in Asia and on their border with China.

But this is not all the story. The Russians also would like to thwart the movement toward greater cohesiveness in Western Europe through British entry into the Common Market.

European security. The most he would agree to in response to Mr. Brezhnev's overtures was the signature of a joint declaration of principles which is binding on neither side.

On the French side it is hoped that the main result of the Brezhnev visit will be increased commercial and industrial cooperation with the Soviet Union. So far results of the trade and cooperation agreements concluded under de Gaulle have been disappointing, and France is behind West Germany, Japan, Britain, and Italy in its trade exchanges with the Russians.

In the Gaullist period it was the general who did the wooing of the Russians. With the Brezhnev visit it was the Russians who appeared to do most of the wooing. But the Communist Party chief has gone home from his first Western sortie with a bagful of inconclusive results.

Now that the odd-year elections have been held, giving 18-20-year-olds their first opportunity to vote in most states, what do we find:

A babel of commentators explaining the national significance of what were local elections with little such significance. The under-21 voters did not go to the polls in overwhelming numbers.

What they see depends on the oracle, as these behind-the-scenes probers seldom can agree between themselves.

Low prospects depress achievement. Nowhere is this truer than in the school performance of inner-city youngsters, and most notably in reading skills.

There should be great interest therefore in a study by the Council for Basic Education, called "Inner-City Children Can Be Taught to Read: Four Successful Schools." At the schools — two in Manhattan, the others in Kansas City and Los Angeles — nearly half the lower-grade youngsters are reading at least a year ahead of their own grade level, while the percentage of nonreaders is but a fourth that of typical inner-city schools.

It is beyond the scope of this editorial to discuss what the four schools are doing right to break the general pattern of low performance. But it can at least be said that better learning for culturally deprived youngsters need not wholly await court orders for bussing or shifts in educational spending. After all, even should such changes occur, there will be inner-city schools and someone will have to attend them. It would be well to get on with the job of making them work — as the council's study shows can be done.

The Chicago Board of Education, following its own rule but the window, has directed that a 15-year-old girl may not engage in interscholastic competition with her Von Steuben high school team. Football? No, her game is chess.

Susan Solomon was dropped from the chess team because of the rule against girls mixing it up with the boys in competitive play. That may be a good rule as it applied to football, basketball, and other contact sports, where brawn is an asset. But someone should inform the Board of Education that chess is at best an intellectual competition and at worst a parlor game, eminently suitable for dignified young ladies to play. Susan is taking her case to court, where better judgment of what is proper for young ladies is her expectation. Women's lib? No. Fair play? Yes.

"YOU HAVE THIS FEELING OF NOT BEING WANTED..."

ART BUCHWALD

That Contract

WASHINGTON — The chief steward of the "Christina," Aristotle Onassis' yacht, has just written a book in which he says that Mr. Onassis and his wife, the former Jacqueline Kennedy, signed a marriage contract with 170 clauses in it. According to the steward, Christian Kafarakis, the contract stipulates separate bedrooms for the couple, lays down the rules as to how much time the couple must spend together and spells out financial arrangements. These include a $600,000 yearly allowance for Mrs. Onassis in addition to any gifts Mr. Onassis might give her, as well as a provision that if Mr. Onassis ever leaves his wife, Mrs. Onassis will receive the sum of $9.6 million for every year of their marriage.

If Mrs. Onassis were to leave Mr. Onassis, she would receive a lump sum of $18 million under the terms of the alleged contract. Mr. Onassis also is said to have provided $100 million in his will — for Mrs. Onassis. A spokeswoman for Mrs. Onassis categorically and unequivocally denied that such a marriage contract exists and called the story nonsense.

I have no knowledge of whether such a contract does exist and shall leave Mr. Onassis and his ex-steward to fight that one out. But I do know that marriage contracts, particularly in Europe, are not uncommon, and as a matter of fact since both my wife and I were living in Paris when we wanted to get married, we signed one. Our marriage contract, which has 169 clauses in it, was thrashed out over a period of months before the wedding was agreed to.

It provides for the following, among other things: — I have to spend half the year with my wife (she tried to hold out for seven months). This time can be broken up any way I want it. I am permitted to go on lectures, attend openings of Hilton Hotels, go to pro football games and attend homecoming weekends. For every day less than six months that I don't spend with her, I have to give her $2.50 or its equivalent in trading stamps. — I am committed under the terms of the contract to give my wife $600 a year for her pleasure, safety, clothes, hairdresser, cosmetics and the care of the house. The $600 does not include gasoline for the car, providing she uses it on family business. — If I want to leave my wife, I must give her the sum of $50 for every year we have been married. — If she wants to leave me, she will receive a flat settlement of $185.50. — As long as we are living together, I must provide my wife with detergents, mops, plastic garbage bags and a lawnmower. — I also am obligated to pay for the veterinarian in case we have a dog. — While we are married, my wife has custody of the children all day and most evenings. For this she is given the extra sum of $10 a week. — If we have a fight, I must be the one to sleep on the couch in the living room. — I must also give her the sum of $5 if I pay too much attention to another girl at a party. These are more or less the financial details of our marriage contract, and the only reason I'm revealing them at this time is that our cleaning woman just quit, and I understand she's going to sell the terms to the National Enquirer. It would embarrass my wife something terrible if the marriage agreement ever became public.

PAUL HARVEY Revolt Near

Japan's doctors, after 50 years of more-or-less socialized medicine, "on-strike," refusing to treat government patients. In Italy, where they have so-called "assistant hospital doctors," they are refusing to work overtime.

How close are we United States of Americans to a revolt by our doctors? You're not going to like this but Russia has proportionately more doctors than we have. We have more of almost everything else, but the physicians-to-people ratio is better in Russia than in the United States. We have 5,000 towns with no doctor at all. In some cities, we have but one doctor per 10,000 slum-dwellers. For 10 years our medical schools' enrollment has increased faster. Dr. Roger Egeberg says our nation desperately needs 30,000 additional doctors and we need them yesterday! And we won't have that many tomorrow, either. There are fewer than 50,000 students in all our med schools, and one in five of those will get, with his diploma, a draft notice. The inevitable, eventual end of the war will alleviate the home-front doctor shortage but will not solve it. Michigan's health council director, John Doherty, estimates we'll need twice as many new doctors, as are presently in training. Money would help. The AMA says there are twice as many qualified would-be doctors wanting into med schools who can't afford to go. Med schools cost more to run, more to get into, than ever before. A Senate subcommittee, surveying the shortage, says we'd have to subsidize medical education with $1.2 billion every year for 15 years to create a supply of doctors adequate to meet the ever-increasing demand. But Vietnam and inflation and Medicare and Medicaid and sputtering post-Sputnik enthusiasm have turned you off and the politicians you elected to spend your money have moved medicine way down the list of priorities. Some students have been getting doctorless towns to finance parts of their education in return for a promise to practice there. Others are soliciting scholarships on the condition that they will practice in doctorless areas. More "government medicine" inevitably overloads the available supply of medical men with unproductive hours of paperwork. Also, as Italy and Japan have discovered, government cannot force doctors to overwork. Even if it could, you would not want to be doctored by an overworked doctor. The cure for what ails us is more doctors. Pending that panacea, more of those scholarships would help ease the pain.

never imagined, that business expectations could fall so low as they have in the past few weeks. Outside the Administration, however, there is far more candor among economic analysts, most of whom are now sharply cutting earlier estimates of a $100 billion increase in the gross national product (GNP) during 1972. Thus, both liberal economist Walter Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers, and conservative economist Alan Greenspan, occasional adviser to Richard Nixon, have now discarded earlier estimates of a spectacular economic growth for 1972.

Greenspan is now revising his estimate downward by a tentative $10 billion or so, he told us. Heller is also "reexamining the growth of the economy in light of the fact that the Nixon program has not been as invigorating as I had expected." His earlier $100 billion estimate, he thinks, was at least $5 billion too high.

That seemingly small downward revision carries grave risks for President Nixon's attack on unemployment, and unemployment is Mr. Nixon's gravest political reelection problem. Merely to prevent the present unemployment rate from going higher than today's 6 per cent, overall economic growth next year must be around $80 billion. The President's hope, in addition to reducing inflation to between 2 and 3 per cent, is to cut unemployment below 5 per cent.

Accordingly, with 1972 economic expectations already being scaled down from the euphoric peaks built up by the President's dramatic wage-price freeze, there is not much safety margin left. And yet, the failure of the Pay Board or the Price Commission to provide answers for the vast numbers of complex questions that businessmen are now fruitlessly asking about the future is stifling business confidence even further.

For example, builders of large-scale family-unit apartments are now holding up construction. Lacking guidelines on the rent they can charge, they can't estimate income and hence profit margins.

Likewise, unpublished surveys of business plans to expand and modernize plant and equipment are highly disappointing.

This is true despite the fact that Congressional approval of the President's investment tax credit is taken absolutely for granted.

On Strokes

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In a person about 67 years old: 1 — Can a stroke come on gradually, with just mild confusion in thought patterns, and finally develop into an almost total speech loss and partial paralysis of the right side, all within about a month and a half, resulting in death? 2 — Is a stroke a blood clot of the brain, and how can you tell where it is? 3 — What are the usual tests or treatment given to a stroke patient in the hospital? 4 — Is it hard to diagnose a stroke? — Mrs. F.A.S.

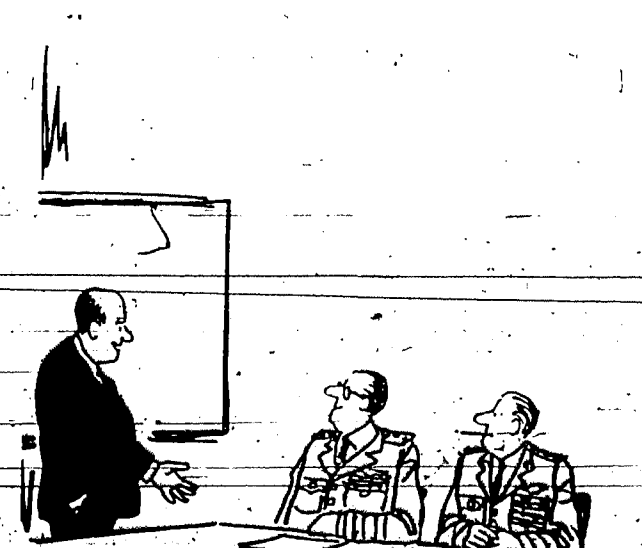

Answers: 1 — Yes, the onset of a stroke can be insidious, until some blood vessel in or leading to the brain becomes totally occluded. It CAN happen — but that doesn't mean that mild mental confusion will necessarily lead to the disastrous pattern you have described. 2 — A stroke is not always a clot. Hardening of the arteries can bring progressing narrowing of an artery or arteries, thus interfering with circulation. A clot may lodge at a narrowed point — or it may not. Cerebral hemorrhage, a leading or rupture of a blood vessel in the brain, also can cause a stroke, but in that case it comes on suddenly. 3 — Various tests may be used, according to need, but the commonest are neurological examination to determine loss of function — the location of paralysis is a valuable guide to the part of the brain that is affected; spinal puncture to determine if there is bleeding; electroencephalogram ("Brain wave test"); carotid arteriogram (an X-ray procedure to localize obstruction of an important artery in the neck).

4 — Ordinarily it is not difficult to diagnose a stroke. The patient's medical history, mode of onset, and the findings, both physical and in laboratory tests, all point the way. Very slight strokes are the hardest to recognize. In severe ones, there is usually little doubt even without laboratory findings.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the danger of using shoe polish on the skin? I have a friend who is using it to cover the bald spot on his head. — E.H. You're not kidding, are you? Writing this column, though, I run into so many curious things that I'm convinced that anything can happen, and probably has. Yes, I think shoe polish could be dangerous. It contains various acids, terpenes, and dyes. Some of these are oil-soluble, meaning they could be dissolved by the oily secretions of the scalp. I wouldn't want to predict just what type of scalp irritation could develop, but I'll be surprised if your friend doesn't have something worse than a bald spot if he continues this.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In regard to glaucoma, I have been told that drinking more than 48 ounces of fluid a day is bad — that is, water, juices, beer, etc. Is this so? If so why? — B.D. It can be harmful. Essentially glaucoma involves excessive pressure inside the eyeball. Too much fluid in the body tissues can contribute to this. In fact, a water loading test (having the patient drink considerable water before testing eyeball pressure) is used at times in testing for glaucoma.

Broadway musical numbers set for TE Parade of Harmony

TWIN FALLS — Broadway musical numbers sung in barbershop style will be featured in the sixth annual Parade of Harmony to be held Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the College of Southern Idaho Auditorium. Burt Huish said the program is sponsored annually by Magic Valley Barbershop groups and features more than two hours of harmony singing. Funds from the annual program are used to support the Institute of Logopedics in Kansas where multi-handicapped children are treated and given an opportunity to lead more normal lives. The institute is supported nationally by barbershop organizations. Huish said at least one child from the local district is treated at the center at all times. Groups performing this year will include several Idaho and

Fighter planes collide

NELLIS AFB Nev. (UPI) — Two Air Force fighters collided in flight Sunday while participating in war games at the Nellis bombing and gunnery range.

The two planes, an F4 Phantom fighter used in Vietnam and an F106 Delta Dart fighter-interceptor, were destroyed when they nosed into the Nevada desert. All three crewmen ejected safely and were returned here by helicopter.

The Phantom had a two-man crew aboard stationed at Holloman AFB, N.M. The interceptor was stationed at Hamilton AFB, Calif., and carried one pilot.

The Phantom fighter crashed about 35 miles southeast of Caliente, Nev. The F106 pilot attempted to fly the interceptor back to Nellis but was forced to eject 80 miles southeast of here.

The in-flight collision will be investigated by a board of officers.

The F106 pilot was Maj. Clifford L. Lowry and the two crewmen aboard the Phantom were Maj. Henry J. Viccellio and Maj. James A. Robertson.

Rev. Robert Schreckenberg, pastor of the Twin Falls church, said revival services will begin at 7:30 p.m. each night concluding Nov. 17.

Rev. Jenkins has been a pastor for the past 18 years, with 14 years at the Asheville church.

In the service Nov. 15, Rev. Jenkins will be giving a slide presentation of his recent Holy Land tour.

19 table wine licenses given

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners have approved 19 licenses for sale of table wine in the county since adopting an ordinance and setting license fees shortly after the Oct. 26 election which authorized winesales.

Harold Lancaster, county clerk, said the establishments licensed are representative of the entire county with about a dozen in Twin Falls city, several in Buhl, and at least one in Filer, Hansen, Kimberly and Murtaugh. License fees are $25 for the remainder of 1971 and new license applications will have to be made at the first of the year for licensing in 1972.

Trustees hear reports on funding priorities

TWIN FALLS — Idaho school trustees heard reports on funding priorities and negotiating legislation during the closing sessions of the state Idaho School Trustees Assn. convention Friday and Saturday at the College of Southern Idaho.

Dr. William Morton, a Sandpoint trustee and incoming ISTA president, said the executive committee of the association had set increase of state funding as its top legislative priority for the 1972 legislative session. Dr. Morton said the ISTA had adopted a resolution asking increased use of sales and income-tax revenue for the schools, and would press the issue in consulting Idaho legislators.

Dr. Morton also urged trustees to involve their students and teachers in the decision-making process.

The ISTA Executive Committee settled on the funding priority after debating a state-supported insurance program as the most important issue. On a motion from Kuna trustee Norman Law, the committee voted unanimously to switch the priorities, in order to stay consistent with other educational groups and "show a united front" in the field of school funding.

Other priorities adopted by the committee for legislative consideration included, in order:

— Exemption of school districts from payment of sales, use and franchise taxes.

Officer reports his retirement

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (UPI)—Lt. Col. Anthony Herbert, who charged two of his superior officers of ignoring atrocities committed in Vietnam, announced Sunday he is retiring from the Army.

In a statement released by the American Civil Liberties Union, Herbert said "Actions taken by certain members of the Army at both the local and Pentagon level have convinced me that to continue seeking correction within the military would be useless."

Herbert's retirement came less than a week after President Nixon approved Herbert's permanent promotion from captain to major, a promotion which prevented the necessity of Herbert's retirement next February. He previously had been passed over twice for promotion and under Army regulations would have been forced to retire had he not been promoted.

Herbert said the stresses placed on his family during the past week have "proven intolerable" and he will inform the Army Monday of his intention to retire on Feb. 29, 1972.

Herbert formally charged two officers, Maj. Gen. John W. Barnes and Col. J. Ross Franklin, of ignoring war crimes.

After the charges were filed an efficiency report was

Lawsuit predicted by Mills

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills said Sunday the Pay Board should allow all wage increases that were negotiated before the current freeze, and predicted that if the board doesn't, labor may go to court and perhaps strike to get them.

"You can control contracts in the future," said the Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. "But I doubt that anyone has the power to retroactively abrogate a contract."

Mills said labor's support was essential to Phase II of President Nixon's economic program and that it would be "disastrous" if it withdrew its support over failure to get retroactive wage increases that came due during the freeze.

Mills thus threw his support behind the House Banking Committee, which last week voted to direct the Pay Board to allow retroactive payment of frozen pay raises under contract negotiated before the freeze began Aug. 15.

Nixon protested that the committee action could seriously damage his economic recovery plans.

If retroactive increases are not allowed, Mills said, "my guess is that labor will go into court and there is a real possibility that labor would go on strike."

The Pay Board, composed of 5 management, 5 labor and 5 public members, failed to reach expected agreement Saturday on the knotty issue of deferred wages.

Mills was interviewed on television (Issues and Answers—ABC).

Inmates helped to get work

BOISE (UPI)—Inmates at the Idaho State Penitentiary heard an administrative assistant to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Saturday night say the governor is working to get employers to guarantee jobs for them.

Roy Haney described the plan at the annual dinner of the Table Rock Jaycees at the prison. Haney said the plan was to get major employers to guarantee a certain number of jobs for inmates annually.

In other areas, Haney noted that volunteers would be sought to work with parolees under a federal grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

Officials must fill more jobs

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI)—President Nixon Sunday urged the nation's governors, mayors and county officials to move at once to provide federally financed public service jobs for 70,000 unemployed workers.

In a letter to about 14,000 state and local government officials, Nixon said only about 31,000 of the more than 100,000 job slots provided by the four-month-old emergency employment act have been filled.

The letter was dated last Wednesday but it was made public Sunday as Nixon sunned and swam at his bayside villa on Key Biscayne.

"I urge you to move with speed and vigor to fill the job vacancies now funded in your jurisdiction," Nixon wrote.

Eight held after art gallery raid

MADRID (UPI)—Eight persons suspected of destroying 24 engravings of Pablo Picasso in a raid on a Madrid art gallery were placed under jurisdiction of the public order court dealing with political offenses, justice sources said Sunday.

The raiders broke into the Theo Gallery Friday and poured red paint and acid over works by Picasso, which were exhibited in honor of his recent 90th birthday. They held an attendant and visitor at knifepoint.

Police rounded up the eight within 24 hours and said a stiletto knife, a duplicating machine and leaflets like those that littered the wrecked gallery were found in their possession.

The authorities gave no reason why the suspects were placed under the jurisdiction of the political court, but a lawyer representing the owners of the gallery filed a complaint charging them with sedition, terrorism, public disturbance, threats, acts against printing laws, distribution of illegal leaflets and theft.

The raiders identified themselves in the leaflets as members of "The Commandos of the anti-Marxist Struggle."

Lecture tonight on pollution

CALDWELL (UPI)—Three speakers were scheduled to be on hand Monday night for the seventh session of the governor's lecture series on the quality of life in Idaho—with emphasis on pollution problems.

The speakers scheduled and their topics are Al Eiguren, director of the Idaho Air Pollution Commission, on administration of air pollution control; Mrs. Pat Carr, executive director of the Idaho Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, on environmental health problems related to air quality; and William Platts, aquatic biologist with the zone office of the U.S. Forest Service on pollution in the aquatic environment.

The meeting was to be at 7 p.m. in the Boone-Science Hall on the C of I campus.

Women have babies at earlier age

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Because American women now appear to be having children at an earlier age, the Census Bureau predicted Sunday that the U.S. population would range between 271 million and 322 million by the year 2000, a slight increase over earlier projections.

However, a wider acceptance of birth control and abortions is acting to hold down population growth, the bureau said.

The U.S. population now stands at 204.6 million, compared to 180.7 million in 1960. Contributing to the increase in the next 30 years will be a slight gain in the average life span of Americans and a net addition of 400,000 persons each year through immigration.

The leading factor in the nation's population growth is the large number of young women born during the postwar "baby boom" who are reaching their child-bearing years.

If these women have an average of 3.1 children, based on one set of statistical assumptions, population will jump to 322.3 million by the year 2000, a 57 per cent increase over present population.

But if families choose to have one fewer child, meaning a fertility rate of 2.1, the population in year 2000 would be 271.1 million, an increase of 32 per cent. If the 2.1 fertility rate were maintained for 70 years, the country would achieve zero population growth, the bureau said.

The fertility rate peaked in 1957 at 3.8 and has been falling steadily ever since, with the exception of a slight upturn last year. It is now estimated at 2.3 children per family.

The government based its figures on an average child-bearing age for women of 25.8 years, younger than in earlier reports.

Historically, women have tended to have children at an older age in times of economic uncertainty such as the depression and World War II. But mothers are now getting younger, which traditionally means larger families.

Working against larger families, however, are "changing attitudes toward contraception, abortion and the role of women in general," the bureau said.

The bureau disclosed last week that the number of unmarried men and women under age 35 had increased sharply since 1960—now 56 per cent of American men and 45 per cent of the women in this age bracket.

Belgians elect new parliament in BRUSSELS (UPI)—Belgians braved chilly weather Sunday to elect a new parliament after the first post-war election campaign not dominated by language issues.

About 6.2 million Belgians, obliged to vote by law, cast their ballots for a new 212-seat lower house and 106 seats of the senate.

Final results will not be available until Monday.

Politicians said the quiet electoral campaign was expected to result in a continuation of the same coalition government, perhaps with different leadership.

Previous elections in bilingual Belgium have revolved around the Flemish-French language dispute. Recent amendments to the constitution have largely defused the issue.

The outgoing government of Premier Gaston Eyskens pushed through parliament a series of measures to give Flemish-speakers an equality that was denied them by years of French-dominated administrations.

New parks

OTTAWA (UPI)—Five new national parks have been added to Canada's tourist attractions—Gros Morne in Newfoundland, Kouchibouguac in New Brunswick, Forillon and La Mauricie in Quebec, and Pacific Rim in British Columbia.

Canada now has 25 national parks, with a total area of more than 30,000 square miles.

Boston, Mass. was incorporated as a city in 1830.

Appeals rejected

Now Many Wear FALSE TEETH With Little Worry

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Louisiana voters Saturday apparently rejected law and order and segregationist appeals by putting three-time congressman Edwin Edwards and State Sen. Bennett Johnson, both political moderates, in the Democratic runoff for governor.

Edwards, a French-speaking Catholic from South Louisiana, actively sought the Negro vote through the state prior to Saturday's balloting. Johnson, as well as Edwards, went after the youth vote and was the leader in most campus polls.

With more than two thirds of the ballots counted, Edwards had 22.39 per cent of the vote, Johnston had 19.11 per cent and third-running Gillis Long, another political moderate, had 15 per cent.

Edwards and Johnson will meet in a Dec. 8 runoff. The winner of that race will face David Treen, who won handily in the Republican gubernatorial and segregationist appeals by primary, in the general election Feb. 1, 1972.

An extra-heavy turnout of Louisiana's 1.6 million registered voters was considered sign of trouble for incumbents and familiar faces in state government—and so it was.

Jimmie Davis, the country music crooner who has twice served as governor, ran a poor fourth in the 17-man Democratic field. He had campaigned on a platform that opposed school busing and favored stronger law enforcement.

"It's been a hard year on incumbents," Edwards, 44, said of the election when it became obvious he and Johnson would be in the runoff. "First, it reflects the general trend toward young candidates. Second, it reflects a desire of voters for change and reform and a new system of government."

Johnston, 39, also credited voter rejection of old-style politics for his success.

U.S. troop strength drops to 6-year low of 191,100

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. troop strength dropped to a six-year low of 191,100 men last week in a withdrawal program that is expected to shrink the American force in Vietnam to a largely advisory and supply operation by next summer.

On the war front, four U.S. Phantom jets bombed the edge of a major airfield inside North Vietnam Sunday in the 71st of what American military spokesmen call "protective reaction" raids on the North this year, the U.S. command said today.

The command said that American military manpower fell by 5,600 last week, the biggest one-week drop since the week ended last May 6 when 6,300 men left for home.

The 191,100 men remaining were the fewest since December, 1965, when 184,300 U.S. servicemen were in the war zone during the greatest buildup period. President Nixon has set a goal of no more than 184,000 men left in Vietnam by Dec. 7.

turned loose U. S. Army S.Sgt. John Sexton of Warren, Mich., in what was apparently an effort to free two high-ranking prisoners they believed were in the hands of the allies.

Buyers pay for safety standards

DETROIT (UPI)—The faster the automobile industry complies with governmental safety and pollution control standards, the more costly it will be for car buyers, Ford Motor Co. Board Chairman Henry Ford II said Sunday.

By 1975 and 1976, when the auto industry has implemented the various safety and emission control standards set by the government, a car will be $600 to $1,000 more expensive, Ford said.

Officials here say, however, that it was believed Nixon would further cut the U.S. commitment to no more than a 50,000-man, noncombat force by next June, only seven months from now.

U.S. spokesmen said the four supersonic F4 Phantoms carrying an unarmed, camera equipped RF4 Phantom spy jet retaliated against Communist gunners "in the vicinity of the Dong Hoi Airfield," 40 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) when the spy plane was fired upon.

In a rare television appearance, Ford said improvements in bumpers alone will cost his company $100 million in each of the next two years and "add considerably to the cost of the car. We're thinking about $100 or $108."

"Is the cleaning up of the air that quickly that important to every individual?" Ford asked.

The U.S. command said, the four escort jets swooped in and bombed the site within seconds after the antiaircraft guns opened fire, and then returned safely to their base without assessing damage.

In the South, the 1st Infantry Division of the South Vietnamese Army (ARVN) killed 25 Communists in a ground battle Sunday, 2 1/2 miles southwest of the imperial capital of Hue, captured by Communist troops during the 1968 Tet offensive.

Belfast ripped by explosion

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—An explosion ripped through a suburban shopping center today, ending what a British Army spokesman termed "an unusually quiet night for Belfast."

"I know it's very important to have clean air," Ford said, "but I don't know how dirty the air is."

The South Vietnamese command reported Sunday that 39 Viet Cong were killed in light and scattered fighting north and south of Saigon, Saturday.

The spokesman said the blast caused extensive damage to the Carryduff Shopping Center, but no injuries were reported.

But Ford, in a 56-minute interview on the Lou Gordon program, conceded that the auto industry needed prodding to act on emission pollution.

Another seven Communists were killed when Air Cavalry troops supported by helicopter rocket fire and machine guns, battled an enemy force at the southern edge of the so-called "Jolly Trail," a major infiltration route from Cambodia used for years by Viet Cong and the last remaining Communist sanctuary in central South Vietnam.

Earlier, army sources said commanders were likely to place new, tighter restrictions on the 14,000 soldiers on Northern Ireland duty because of increasing attacks.

Ford reiterated his feelings on the air bag, a device designed for the protection of motorists and their passengers in a car crash, saying the proposed safety feature "will kill as many people as it will save."

The South Vietnamese command reported Sunday that 39 Viet Cong were killed in light and scattered fighting north and south of Saigon, Saturday.

The latest victims were two unarmed off-duty soldiers, wearing civilian clothes, shot Sunday as they were walking in Lurgan, 20 miles southwest of Belfast. One man was killed and the other wounded.

Police said several of the demonstrators threw eggs at the party as they drove off. A spokesman for Muskie said several eggs splattered the car, but nobody was hit. The spokesman said the eggs were directed at Alatorre and not Muskie.

The new figures, supplied by Congress' General Accounting Office, compare with $28.2 billion in excessive costs for the same programs a year ago.

Signalman Paul S. Genge, 18, died instantly. His companion, Signalman David R. Grant, 23, was reported resting comfortably in a hospital.

La Raza Unida is a militant Chicano organization which has criticized Alatorre as the Mexican-American equivalent of an "Uncle Tom."

Proxmire said analysis of the figures showed that $15.5 billion of the overruns involve nine weapons systems—the B1 bomber, the F111 fighter, the Minuteman III, the Safeguard antiballistic system, the Sam-D missile, the M67-70 main battle tank, the M-60 tank and the TOW missile program.

Figures show no letup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., charged Sunday that 45 major military weapons systems will cost the government $35.2 million more than original estimates, indicating that the cost overrun problem is getting worse.

The new figures, supplied by Congress' General Accounting Office, compare with $28.2 billion in excessive costs for the same programs a year ago.

"Thus in one year, the overruns themselves have increased by $7 billion, or 25 per cent," Proxmire said in a statement.

"The latest figures show absolutely no letup in the spiraling costs of weapons systems. The problem of cost overruns appears to be growing worse."

Reception car pelted with eggs

ALHAMBRA, Calif. (UPI)—The car carrying Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, and a California assembly candidate from a reception in their honor Sunday was pelted with eggs thrown from a group of demonstrators.

Muskie, Democratic assembly candidate Richard Alatorre and members of their party were confronted by about 30 demonstrators from La Raza Unida when they left the reception hosted by the Robert F. Kennedy Democratic Club.

Police said several of the demonstrators threw eggs at the party as they drove off. A spokesman for Muskie said several eggs splattered the car, but nobody was hit. The spokesman said the eggs were directed at Alatorre and not Muskie.

State bureaus must watch tight budget

(Editors Note: Idaho State Government is tied to a strict Budget, set each year by the legislature. This is the first of five dispatches examining some of the problems involved. Today: Living on a budget.)

By LINDY HIGH
BOISE (UPI) — It's a multi-million dollar business, but Idaho state government, like the taxpayers who support it, must watch spending down to the last penny.

The 1971 legislature gave the state a $125.3 million general (state) fund budget. That's more, of course, than the taxpayer has to work with, but according to acting budget Director D. E. "Skip" Chilberg a difference of even one percent in the cost of living reflects a change of $1 million in the state coffers.

Like households, state agencies must stick to their budgets but unlike households the state agencies are governed by statute: They are prohibited by law from ending any fiscal period in the red.

When money gets tight, the state has two ways to pick up needed cash. One way, according to State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth-Moon is to 'register warrants.' A homeowner could do the same thing by writing a check for hard work but asking that the check be held until a deposit is made in the bank.

The more common way is to issue tax-anticipation notes on the basis of income due but not yet collected. A homeowner again could do the same thing by going to a finance company for a short-term loan to tide him over.

Just as household budgets might include categories for groceries, vacation, medical needs and utility payments, the state agencies have budgets which include salaries and wages, travel expense and capital outlay.

Some agencies are supported only by the general fund, the state money made up of such things as sales, corporate and income taxes. Others draw from more than one source, including "dedicated" funds established specifically to support an agency, revolving funds and receipts to appropriation.

The "receipts to appropriation" is income due to an agency for collecting payments for the services it renders. The State Health Department charges for blood sample work done at the state laboratory, for birth and death certificates, and income from those sources is called "receipts to appropriation."

have trouble forecasting the exact amount of money he will make mowing yards in the summer, so some state agencies have trouble estimating their receipts to appropriation.

With fiscal year 1972 less than half over, the State Health Department has already notified the Legislative Fiscal-Budget Committee it considers $545,516 of its anticipated receipts to be uncollectable.

Jerome student gets grant

JEROME — Greg Otto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Otto, Jerome, has received a grant from the U.S. Office of Education for special study with the emotionally disturbed child.

The grant was written by Idaho State University special education staff and is presently administered by Dr. A. Marshlain.

The stipend provides for living allowance and tuition totaling $4,960 for the 1971-72 school year.

The program consists of courses on the emotionally disturbed child and practical experience with the emotionally disturbed child in the Pocatello schools.

To receive the grant, Otto agreed to remain in Idaho and work under the program for at least three years.

The purpose of the program is to educate individuals who have been employed in Idaho to work with the emotionally disturbed child in the schools.

Otto, who is studying for his master's degree at ISU, said he plans to return to this area and work with the school districts to help them spot emotionally disturbed children so they may be helped. He noted that sometimes a child will be failing in school due to an emotional problem rather than his inability to learn. "Sometimes only a trained person can see the difference," Otto said.

Otto graduated from Jerome high school in 1963 and the University of Idaho in 1968. He taught special education in Corcoran, Calif., for one year and worked with the vocational rehabilitation program in Twin Falls for two years.

Policeman's assailant draws term

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — Michael Dean Loesch, 20, convicted of shooting a Cheyenne police officer, received a sentence Friday of 12 to 12 1/2 years in prison. Sentence was passed by Laramie County District Judge John Raper.

Loesch pleaded guilty to the Oct. 5 shooting of officer Charles Svec. Svec was shot once in the stomach after he stopped a car on a routine traffic matter.

Loesch was arrested Oct. 7 in an all-night cafe near Boise, Idaho, by officers who thought they were arresting a car thief. He pleaded guilty to assault charges here Oct. 14, after waiving a preliminary hearing.

Loesch escaped from a San Mateo, Calif., County jail with five other inmates in August.

Loesch was driving the night of the shooting, and was stopped by Svec for a minor traffic violation when he shot at the officer, hitting him once. Svec has been released from a Cheyenne hospital where he had his spleen removed.

Loesch said nothing as Raper pronounced sentence.

"The crime is shocking," Raper said. "The officer was innocent of provoking the act. It was senseless and inexcusable."

Speaking directly to Loesch, the judge said "You should be grateful that Svec didn't die. That could have resulted in a sentence of death."

Raper said Loesch "had never done any useful work," had been involved in a bicycle theft, auto theft and a robbery, and had been "working up to a crime of violence" over a period of time.

"The only thing in your favor," Raper said, "is your age."

K-9 patrolman finds allergy

EASTON, Pa. (UPI) — Patrolman Edward J. Budd has had to give up his job as head of the police K-9 Corps.

Budd took over the newly created K-9 Corps recently and began developing chest colds, shortness of breath and nasal congestion.

A doctor confirmed Budd is allergic to dogs.

Cheese champ

Synagogue said service station

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The synagogue is peripheral to the lives of most of its members and serves as little more than a religious "service station," according to a study conducted by the Union of American Hebrew Congregations (UAHC). Prof. Leonard J. Fein of Brandeis University said his study shows the synagogue "has failed to provide a sense of Jewish community, despite the fact that it shows a desperate longing for such community on the part of those interviewed."

The study suggests the synagogue fails to provide a coherent system of religious beliefs, and values to live by and is regarded primarily as a source of counseling, religious education for children and "occasional fulfillment of spiritual needs."

The preliminary results of the study, sponsored by the UAHC long-range planning committee, were presented to 3,000 delegates at the reform group's biennial convention in Los Angeles, Calif. There are 700 reform synagogues in the United States and Canada serving more than a million members.

Alan V. Iselin, Albany, N.Y., chairman of the UAHC committee, said the study indicated "the synagogue serves primarily as a service station and does not represent a necessary value system to the reform Jew."

But in-depth interviews showed, he said, that "once the impersonal barrier of synagogue life had been broken down and congregants in these probing sessions exposed their profoundest Jewish aspirations, we discovered that we have a constituency of support yearning for intensive Jewish experiences."

The study recommended breaking down large congregations into smaller groups with common interests, following a trend among younger Jews toward communal living and worship experiences.

Man sleeps one-third of his life.

Jerome aide asks early mail

JEROME — Dale Vining, Jerome postmaster, this week reminded residents that it is important to mail early to make sure letters and parcels are delivered in time for Christmas.

Vining listed deadlines for mail to armed forces overseas as follows: Surface Mail parcels by Nov. 5 and cards by Nov. 15, Space Available Mail (SAM) parcels by Nov. 19 and cards by Nov. 15, Parcel Airlift (PAL) parcels by Nov. 26 and cards by Nov. 15, and Airmail parcels by Dec. 10 and cards by Dec. 10.

Domestic mail deadlines with the exception of Alaska and Hawaii is as follows: Distant States parcels by Dec. 1 and cards by Dec. 10, local and nearby Areas parcels by Dec. 10 and cards by Dec. 15, and Airmail parcels by Dec. 15 and cards by Dec. 22.

For Alaska and Hawaii surface mail is Nov. 30 and for parcels and Dec. 5 for cards. For airmail, it is Dec. 15 for parcels and cards.

Information on international mail deadlines is available at the post office, Vining said.

Head Start slots open at Jerome

JEROME — Mrs. Rose Swann, head teacher for the day care center in Jerome said this week openings still remain in the Head Start Day center at the United Methodist church.

Mrs. Swann said that the children must be pre-schoolers, 2½ to 5 years of age.

Further information can be obtained at the church at 324-5881, Mrs. Swann said.

She noted that the center is also in need of indoor toys suitable for pre-schoolers, such as puzzles. "If you have this type of toy that you are about to discard, call the center and we will pick it up," Mrs. Swann said.

Mansfield in no rush to restore aid program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday that there was "no rush" to a House proposal to keep the foreign aid program alive. He said there was plenty of money around to keep foreign aid from lapsing a week from Monday.

Mansfield said at his weekly news conference that if the House passes a "continuing resolution" to fund the aid program through the end of the year at existing levels, "I don't see how we can get to it before the 15th."

He said he would give precedence to other important legislation, including a treaty to return Okinawa to Japan and President Nixon's controversial economic program.

Mansfield indicated he would schedule the resolution for quick action next week only if the foreign aid funds are removed from it. The resolution also contains spending authority for other agencies, including the Defense Department, whose regular appropriations bills have not been enacted.

Mansfield said the $4.7 billion in unspent funds could be used to pay salaries and keep the State Department's Agency for International Development (AID) in business. The administration contends that the entire foreign aid structure will collapse Nov. 15 unless the continuing resolution passes.

The United States has distributed about $143 billion in foreign aid around the globe since the end of World War II. The bill that was defeated contained about half of all the $7 billion in this year's U.S. aid to other countries.

Mansfield, meanwhile, scheduled for Senate action Tuesday or Wednesday the foreign aid authorizing legislation that was revamped after the Senate rejected it Oct. 29, 41 to 27.

In an effort to revive the program, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee divided the legislation into separate economic and military bills totaling $2.3 billion—40 per cent less than under the administration's $3.6 billion request.

The administration is not supporting these proposals, contending the cuts are so big that its Vietnam troop withdrawal plans would be jeopardized. The administration is planning to seek increases on the floor after a move to consolidate the bills into one. Mansfield warned that if they are successful, the Senate may reject the foreign aid bill again.

Mansfield said that despite a week of dire warnings from the administration about the effect of ending the aid program, "I've found no sense of shock in the Senate." He said a majority still wants the aid program to end but "there is no give on the part of the administration. They seem to want the whole thing as it was."

Cashiered worker now has 'right' to know why

NEW YORK (UPI)—High management officials in growing numbers support the right of an employee to be told why he is being fired and to defend himself against the charges, the Harvard Business Review reported Saturday.

A survey of 3,453 corporate executives also indicated sympathy for an employee fired for refusing to perform an unethical task.

One survey question indicated that defense and space industry executives are the least sympathetic of any industry group to an employee who would make public the fact his organization changed the results of a research report. Most sympathetic were managers in education and social services.

Most executives who responded to the survey said that:

—Management no longer has an unlimited prerogative to arbitrarily transfer employees, even in those companies where there are no restrictions imposed by union contracts or custom.

—An employee who is about to be fired is entitled to learn of the allegations made against him and to defend himself.

—Bosses feel a kind of "territorial imperative" where discipline of their assistants is concerned.

The survey indicated that managers in the mountain states and the far west tend to favor employee voting more than did respondents as a whole; managers in the north-west and the mid-Atlantic states favor employee "rights" more than the average; and managers in the midwest tend to be very close to the national average on questions both of employee participation and of employee "rights."

Results of the survey, conducted by Dr. David W. Ewing, associate senior editor, were

Last Seabees to come home

SAIGON (UPI)—The last Seabee construction battalion in Vietnam and an engineer battalion assigned to the Americal Division are going home, military spokesmen said Saturday.

South Korean President Park Chung Hee also said the first group of his country's 50,000-man force in Indochina will be leaving Vietnam Dec. 1.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, told a news conference before returning to the United States President Nixon would beat the Dec. 1 goal of 184,000 men left in Vietnam and more would be coming home before Christmas.

The Seabee construction battalion, MCB-5, and the engineer battalion total 1,175 men.

Income taxes are what hold the document together.

GAIL WRIGHT, Buhl farmer, had to cut a new door in the top side of his large red-barn with a ramp leading from it in order to get down one of his horses which climbed up into the hayloft but refused to come down. The animal did not explain its action.

Horse in Filer hayloft poses problem to farmer

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News Writer

BUHL — Gail Wright, Buhl, woke up Sunday morning with a problem.

Just how was he to remove a horse from the hayloft of his large two-story barn?

Wright, who farms east of Buhl, took the mare and her colt from the corral and put them in the barn Saturday evening because he planned to use the corrals to work out cattle the following day.

He put two other horses in box stalls in the barn so they would be ready for the cutting work, but left the mare and her colt loose in the barn as he had often done before.

Sunday morning, he noticed the colt standing alone, and heard a clomping in the hayloft overhead.

Wright climbed the stairs and found the mare walking around in the hayloft.

The steps to the loft are narrow and steep, with a sharp turn at the top, which doesn't look large enough for a horse to get through.

Wright was at a loss to explain why the horse wanted up in the loft in the first place, but getting the animal down presented a problem, as it very stubbornly refused to come down the same way it went up, via the stairs.

The farmer stated he received all kinds of helpful suggestions from onlookers and neighbors, including "burning the barn down," "tranquilizing the horse and leading it down the stairs," and even "shooting the blasted critter." However, the solution he finally found proved effective, although time-consuming.

With the help of Clifford Montgomery, a brother-in-law, he built a ramp on the low side of the barn, cut a hole in the barn side large enough for the horse to walk through, and after putting a halter on the horse, led it down the ramp into a truck bed, and then to the ground.

Former savant, 86, dies

MOSCOW — Dean C. W. Hungerford, 86, died last week in Moscow of a short illness. He served as head of the Department of Plant Pathology until 1955.

He came to the University of Idaho in 1919 and also served as vice director of the university's experiment station from 1927 to 1947. He was assistant dean of the College of Agriculture from 1921-31 and dean of the University of Idaho graduate school from 1931 to 1951.

Dr. Hungerford was well known for his work in the bean breeding program in southern Idaho.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday in Moscow.

Castro to visit Chile Wednesday

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba will arrive in Chile on Wednesday on his first trip outside Cuba in more than seven years, the Chilean government announced today.

Castro will arrive a year after the election of President Salvador Allende as the hemisphere's first elected Marxist president and his reestablishment of diplomatic relations with Castro's Cuba. The anniversary of Allende's election was last week and relations were reestablished a year ago this coming Friday.

Foreign Minister Clodomiro Almeyda announced the long-awaited Castro visit. The Cuban leader will arrive at 5 p.m. on Wednesday accompanied by two ministers, the army chief of staff and Cuba's leading Communist theoretician.

Almeyda said that Castro's itinerary and the length of his visit have not been finally decided. Foreign Ministry sources said that the Cuban leader will stay here between a week and 10 days. His last trip outside Cuba was a trip to Moscow in 1964.

The visit has been planned for at least three months and, in the last week, at least two plane loads of Cuban security agents have arrived in Chile to prepare for it.

Those accompanying Castro will be Minister of Mines Pedro Mirret Prieto, Minister of Education Belarmino Castilla Mas, Army Chief of Staff Arnaldo Ochoa Sanchez and Communist Party theoretician Armandez Hart Davalos.

Cuba has been excluded from the Organization of American States (OAS) since 1962. Chile broke relations with the Castro government in 1964 until Allende was elected president last year. Mexico is the only other Latin American country to have relations with Cuba.

7 arrested in raid wait action

MOUNTAIN HOME (UPI) — Arraignments have been continued for seven men and women arrested in a raid on a house trailer west of Mountain Home.

Four were charged with illegal delivery of a controlled substance and three with illegal possession, according to the Elmore County Sheriff's Office.

Held in lieu of $5,000 each on the delivery charges were Donald Barnes, 23, Marion P. Rose, 21, and Daniel I. McMillan, 22, all of Mountain Home Air Force Base, and Ralph Palmeri, 22, Boise.

Bond was set at $500 each for Ronald J. Gilmore, 19, Mountain Home AFB, Daisy Lish, 20, Mountain Home, and Renee Johnson, 19, Boise.

Loans available

BOISE (UPI) — Of the $500,000 originally appropriated to the Idaho Water Resource Board Revolving Development Fund, a total of $360,208 was outstanding as of Sept. 30.

The board's second annual report on the fund, which will be submitted to the governor and the legislature during the next legislative session, said $145,036 is available for loans, including more than $5,000 in interest already repaid to the fund.

Requests for the funds currently total nearly $600,000 and money presently available is expected to be committed by the end of this year.

The Idaho Water Resource Board has included in its budget request $1 million for additional appropriations for fiscal year 1973 to permit continuation of the program.

McClure asked to keep post

JEROME — The Jerome County Republican Central Committee went on record Thursday night urging Cong. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, to remain in his present position and not seek election to the Senate.

Clair Ricketts, chairman of the committee, said the committee feels that if McClure were to seek election to the Senate, the Republican Party would lose an effective member in the Congress, and that some legislation that would affect Jerome might be lost.

The committee did not make recommendations to be submitted to the county commissioners for next year's general election registrar positions.

Ricketts said the committee will take the matter under advisement and may submit nominations at its next meeting.

Wilderness areas get protection

BOISE (UPI) — The board of directors of the Idaho Environmental Council Saturday passed a resolution to initiate an executive order to protect wilderness areas not legally declared as such in the country.

The board, meeting at Boise State College, was headed by president Jerry Jayne, Idaho Falls, who said members favored Executive Order because Idaho has almost three million acres of de facto wilderness.

Jerome plans blood drawing

JEROME — The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Moose Hall from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday, according to Mrs. Charles Parker, chairman for the bloodmobile.

Mrs. Parker said Jerome County's quota is 150 pints. She noted that at the last drawing the quota was missed and she urges county residents to help achieve this year's goal.

Mrs. Parker said that area hospitals have a list of 39 people who need blood replacements in the near future.

The Catholic Women are preparing lunch for the staff and calling previous donors. Letters to organizations, businesses, lodges, church and civic groups have been mailed by the county chapter of the American Red Cross.

Women of the First Christian Church will furnish cokes. Mrs. S. P. Richter is in charge of the canteen. Mrs. Kay McGill will be at the juice table, Mrs. Parker said.

Key Club will assist with loading and unloading equipment.

Mrs. Bob Nancolas is in charge of the typists, Mrs. Dick Watson will be in charge of the nurses-aides and is also co-chairman with Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Carter Luther.

Acquitted

BURLEY — A Fifth District Court jury deliberated nearly ten hours before acquitting Earnest L. Nielson, Burley, on a rape charge stemming from an alleged incident last April.

Following the jury's verdict Friday, Fifth District Judge Sherman Bellwood ordered Nielson released and his bond returned to him.

Cassia County Prosecuting Attorney Gordon Nielson called six witnesses to testify during the trial, while defense counsel Tom Church called eight witnesses to the stand.

The statutory rape charge was brought against Nielson after an alleged incident April 3, 1971, involving a 15-year-old girl.

Orval Hansen says polluters should pay

WASHINGTON — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said today the burden of financing pollution abatement programs should be placed on the polluters themselves, according to those responding to a poll he recently conducted in the Second District.

Hansen said he offered several approaches to fighting pollution and asked constituents

Frost damage heavier than first reported

TWIN FALLS — More acres of Idaho potatoes are left unharvested than earlier appraisals indicated, according to results of a comprehensive telephone survey made last week.

Max Huntsman, executive secretary of Potato Growers of Idaho, Inc., said there is a possibility that three to four per cent of Idaho's acreage was hit with severe frost, followed by snow and continued cold conditions.

There is little chance, he said, of any salvage in central or eastern Idaho. Some large acreages remain in the ground in the west area of Jefferson County, parts of Bingham County and a few small lots in Power County.

South Central Idaho growers report up to 3,000 acres still out with the majority being in the Cassia County area. There also are about 1,800 acres in the Black Mesa-Bell Rapids area, Mountain Home and western Idaho report about 3,000 acres yet to harvest and damage there will run from 30 per cent to a complete loss.

Figuring up to 10,000 acres left unharvested and little chance to salvage any sizable portion of the storm bound crop, it would reduce Idaho's total marketable production by over 2 million hundred weight.

Total Idaho shipments to date this year is now 3,700 truck and rail combined, up nearly 900 carlots from last year.

Demand is good and market is reported slightly stronger. U.S. No. 1 A size is up slightly at $3.40 to $3.65; 6 to 14 ounce packs up 20 cents at $4.50 and 80 to 100 count boxes at $5.50 to $6.00, mostly $5.60 to $5.80.

An orderly marketing program will be needed to avert temporary gluts of the market to avoid depressing the price, Huntsman said. Any efforts to hold back shipments in an effort to increase prices only tends to build a larger pile to be moved in a shorter period, he said.

Buhl man draws 10-year term

TWIN FALLS — A Buhl man accused of the death of his common-law wife pleaded guilty Friday afternoon to voluntary manslaughter.

He was sentenced to a maximum of 10 years in the state prison.

time before sentencing and right to a pre-sentence investigation. He is presently in the Twin Falls County jail awaiting transportation to the Idaho State Penitentiary.

Leon Smith, Twin Falls County prosecuting attorney, said Friday that development of the facts indicated there was no malice aforethought or premeditation. He (Bond), apparently in a fit of rage or heat of passion, bludgeoned his girl friend to death.

The prosecutor said this follows under the voluntary manslaughter statute.

Bond and the victim reportedly had moved to Buhl from Oregon several months before the murder. He was employed as a truck driver and she was working at the Green Giant Co.

Wine sales at Jerome delayed

JEROME — Paul's Market in Jerome expects to be granted a license to sell wine shortly, but in the meantime its wine shelves stand empty.

Pat Malone, son of the market's owner, said Saturday that due to "confusion" with the state no license has been issued. Although the market already has a stock of wine waiting to go on the shelves, it cannot yet begin to sell it, he said.

Malone said his father went to Boise last week to determine the reason for the delay. He said the market already had received approval from the city and county to sell the wine, and the county commissioners had written to state licensing officials recommending that the license be granted.

Malone expressed hope that the license would arrive by Monday, and the shelves would be stocked.

Safeway Foods manager James Keith said his firm has experienced the same delay.

Eight valley men attend water meet

TWIN FALLS — Eight Magic Valley men have returned from Dallas, Tex., where they attended the 40th annual convention of the National Water Resources Assn.

The week-long meeting ended Friday. Those from this area who attended were John A. Rosholt, Idaho reclamation director; Tom Olmstead and Al Peters of the Twin Falls Canal Co.; Merl E. Leonard of the American Falls Reservoir District, and Victor Nelson, William Patrick, Morris Hoffman and Lloyd Webb of the Salmon River Canal Co.

Those attending the convention voted to work for legislation which would promote the objectives of the association — to protect water rights, promote development, control, conservation, preservation and utilization of the nation's water resources for economic and environmental well being.

Hansen views site of nuclear tests

Hansen said that the surface of Amchitka "bounced up about 25 feet right at ground zero." A tv camera at ground zero immediately went out of focus, but a second camera more distant from the blast showed "dust and some activity."

Hansen said he had gone to Alaska to observe the test "primarily to demonstrate my confidence in the safety of the test."

He said the test was necessary to test the Spartan anti-missile warhead.

"I thought it was proper to test," he said. "I was confident that damage to the environment would be minimal."

He termed risks of serious damage from the test "extremely remote."

"There has never been a case where an underground explosion has triggered any kind of shock greater than the explosion itself," he said.

Air pollution 205 index

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District at the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24 hour period.

ending of 8 a.m. today. Federal pollution regulations say pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms per any 24 hour period and should not be permitted to rise above 260 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Forecast

Today:	Good
Tonight:	Good
Tomorrow:	Good

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution. Burning as permitted by law should be curtailed when the air is poorly able to disperse air pollutants.

Laundry products highly caustic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Chicago medical researcher today disclosed test results alleging that nonphosphate detergents are far deadlier than drain cleaners if swallowed, and could lead to catastrophic results if widely used in American homes. Dr. George E. Block, a professor of surgery at the University of Chicago, said new laundry products developed to replace environmentally suspect phosphate detergents are so highly caustic they could kill or maim, those who swallow them—particularly children. He suggested they should be banned. Block was called to testify before a Senate environment subcommittee on his recent research into stomach and throat injuries caused by caustic substances. A copy of a paper detailing his findings was made available to UPI. The study, made on cats, showed that more than 80 per cent of the animals given a single small dose of nonphosphate detergents suffered severe or fatal injuries. By contrast, no cats were harmed by the phosphate blends, which are banned in many communities as pollutants. "Laws which prevent the use of phosphate detergents and necessitate the substitution of highly alkaline nonphosphate detergents should be reviewed," Block's paper said. "The introduction of these caustics into millions of American homes will inevitably lead to catastrophic accidental ingestions." Elsewhere in his paper, Block said laws banning phosphate laundry products as water pollutants "should be repealed." New phosphate-free laundry products are high in sodium carbonate, some of which Block said "are nearly as caustic as lye." He and his associates fed a lye drain cleaner—Drano—to two cats in their experiment. Both survived the 72-hour test period, although both suffered severe throat and stomach injuries. Three other cats were given a phosphate detergent—Tide—and were unharmed. So were three others given tap water.

A Lovelier You

DO YOU PLAY THE "HEAVY"?

By Mary Sue Miller

Many fashion designers direct their talents to dressing plump half-sizes. Stores devote a section to the size range. Yet you hear women say: "I've given up trying to find smart clothes. There's nothing with any style for the short, heavy figure."

Well, try again. This winter, clothes adroitly unite flattery and the newest fashions. These are the details to look for: • Skirts eased via gores or unpressed pleats. • Cardigan jackets, hip-bone length, with roomy armholes. • Dresses featuring V-necklines, lightly-fitted long sleeves, narrow belts that sit easy at the natural waistline, and skirts with "walking" room. Always avoid a tight fit, lest it accentuate curves. • Coats — moderate fullness, hanging from a neat shoulderline. • Fabrics — light in weight, but with some body. Never clinging. • Color — black, with touches of light, if desired; navy, rich browns, fir green, the deeper shades of plum and grape; medium-sized, scattered prints. Combined, those details add to height and subtract from girth. And in a very fashion-y way. So why play the fashion heavy, when you can win notices in an attractive role?

DAR good citizenship award given

TWIN FALLS — Judy Van Engelen has been selected for the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizenship award, Mrs. Jack Watts, high school counselor, said. Aim of this annual selection is to stress the qualities of good citizenship among senior high school girls. Senior class members vote for three girls who possess dependability, service, leadership and patriotism and the faculty selects the winner from these three.

Miss Van Engelen's entry will be sent to the state for competition for the state award. All state winners compete for the national award, which is a $1,000 scholarship to the college of her choice.

Three new chairmen named

JEROME — Three new chairmen have been named to help with activities of the Idaho Heart Association in Jerome County. Mrs. Dora Hurd, 408 E. Man will assume the responsibilities of Heart Sunday chairman for Jerome in the nationwide Heart Fund Campaign Feb. 27 when millions of families will receive information on "How to Beat the Big One — Heart Attack." Mrs. John Miller, 216 1/2 E.

Ave. C, has accepted the position of Public Education chairman.

Mrs. Miller will have speakers, films and pamphlets available for clubs, schools and other organizations to help all residents of Jerome County reduce the risk of heart attack and other circulatory diseases. Organizations which would like to have this service can notify Mrs. Miller about two weeks in advance.

Mrs. Joe Duffek, Route 3-Box 191, has been named memorial gifts chairman.

In accepting this position, Mrs. Duffek said "It is encouraging to know that funds given for memorials earmarked for research, education and community service, are a lasting way of expressing sympathy while combatting the fight against cardiovascular diseases."

Memorial gifts may be made to the heart association by mail, telephone, or in person to Mrs. Duffek.

She noted that when she received notification of a memorial, an acknowledgment card is sent immediately to the family of the deceased in accordance with the instruction of the donor.

Speech, debate students compete

TWIN FALLS — Speech and debate students from the College of Southern Idaho were among those from 13 colleges who competed recently at Mesa College, Grand Junction, Colo. Rena Perfect of CSI won second place in the women's persuasive event and Ann Harding, CSI, received third in women's informative. Others attending were Mike Thompson and Judy Hagan, debate; Ron Speirs, interpretive reading; Jim Osterkamp, men's informative speaking. Mrs. Fran Tanner, speech coach, and Gene Hull, debate coach, accompanied the students. Over 200 contestants from Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Arizona and Idaho attended. The national debate subject this year is: "Resolved, that greater controls should be imposed upon government agencies gathering and utilizing information about United States citizens."

FTC charges false advertising

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission charged Wednesday that Listerine antiseptic, the biggest-selling mouthwash in the country, is falsely advertised as effective in treating and preventing colds and sore throats. In a proposed consent order against Warner-Lambert Co., the manufacturer, the FTC not only would prohibit such claims but would require that all Listerine ads in the next year admit that past claims were false.

Even if Listerine "kills germs by millions on contact," as its ads claim, it has no "medical significance in the prevention, cure or treatment of colds and sore throats," the FTC said.

It was the FTC's second action against Warner-Lambert, whose honorary chairman, Elmer Bobst, is a close friend of President Nixon. The other case is a still-pending antitrust suit challenging the merger of Warner-Lambert and the Parke Davis drug firm. The FTC said the two cases were not connected.

Warner-Lambert, indicating it would fight the advertising case, said, "there is absolutely no foundation for the FTC's action in light of the availability of extensive scientific data regarding the effectiveness of Listerine antiseptic," which has been on the market for more than 80 years.

"Warner-Lambert is confident that any new proceedings will again substantiate the validity of Listerine antiseptic's advertising claims," it said.

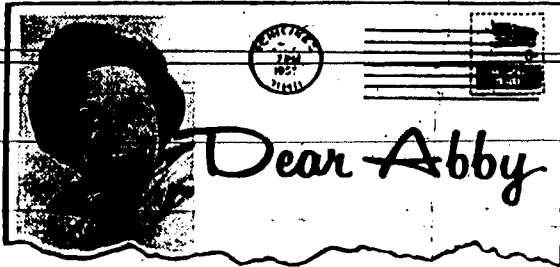

The FTC said Listerine is "far and away the leading mouthwash," with 48 per cent of a $200 million-a-year market.

The Food and Drug Administration last year ruled out similar claims by other mouthwashes, but Listerine was exempted. The law under which the FDA acted covered only products introduced since 1938.

Business fraternity

DEAR ABBY: My husband insists upon sleeping in the raw. I personally have no objection to this, but he is also a sleepwalker. We have four children, including a teen-aged daughter, and George has been known to roam all over the house in his sleep. He has also walked outside on both front porch and back in this unclothed state.

When I notice that George is gone from our bed, I go and find him and gently lead him back. Is there some way I can talk him into wearing pajamas to bed? He says they aren't "comfortable." But under the circumstances I think he should try to get used to them, don't you?

GEORGE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes. If you can't talk George into pajamas, compromise, and try to talk him into the bottoms. [But settle for shorts.]

DEAR ABBY: Our 19-year-old son has been dating a girl for four months. She is six months pregnant by someone else. She has told our son who the father is, and he is married.

In spite of her pregnancy, her parents allow her, to date. We have talked to our son about what kind of girl she must be, told him he is ruining his reputation in this small town, but he says he doesn't care and will continue to see her.

We are a middle-class, respectable family, fairly religious. We've tried to raise our children right.

He lives at home, goes to college, and has a part-time job. We are paying for his education and clothes and he spends the money he earns as he pleases.

How can we get thru to him? GENERATION GAP

DEAR GAP: If his reputation suffers because of his actions, it's his reputation. You refer to the "kind" of girl she is. All kinds of girls have found themselves in that predicament. [She may be a wonderful girl.] Why don't you get to know her? That would be the first step in closing the generation gap.

DEAR ABBY: I've been wanting to write to you for years, but being quite happily married and with no major problems with my four kids, I haven't had to until now.

You goofed! You told a woman whose son accidentally broke her neighbor's window she should have had the window repaired and paid for it.

Abby, almost everyone who owns a home and resides in it has "homeowner's insurance," which means, if any member of one's household accidentally causes damage to someone else's property, the damage is paid for by the insurance company.

Example: My son knocks a ball thru someone's window. I hit a golfball into a passing automobile. While hunting, I accidentally shoot a farmer's cow. While shopping, my wife knocks a lamp off the shelf in a store. Also, if a child under 12 damages someone's property on purpose [kids sometimes do this], this insurance policy covers it.

You should have told that woman to report the broken window to her insurance company. If it turns out she doesn't have a homeowner's policy, then she can start paying.

And by the way, don't ever advise anyone to pay and then notify the insurance company. Insurance companies, because of their volume, can get work done cheaper than individuals can. Sign me

San Francisco scores on pass in last 3:11 to top Minnesota 13-9

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Gene Washington made a diving catch of a John Brodie pass at 3:11 of the fourth quarter to give the San Francisco 49ers a 13-9 victory over the Minnesota Vikings Sunday.

Gallardo's birdie on last hole wins

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Angel Gallardo of Spain sank a 12-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole for a 70 Sunday to edge veteran Billy Maxwell by a stroke and win the Mexican Open golf championship with a 13-under-par 275.

Gallardo and Maxwell reached the final hole in a deadlock. The Spaniard, concentrating heavily on the "do or die" putt, canned it for a birdie three while Maxwell's shot missed the cup by inches.

The 41-year-old Maxwell, of Odessa, Tex., who plays out of Jacksonville, Fla., gave it all he could playing against the younger Gallardo, a Barcelona pro. Maxwell was down by two strokes to Gallardo after the first nine holes but regained the strokes on the back nine to tie the spaniard coming on to the 18th hole.

The one-stroke victory was worth $5,600 to Gallardo. Maxwell earned $3,640.

Pre-tournament favorite Lee "Super Mex" Trevino fired a final round of 69 on the par-72 Club de Golf Mexico course, tying Mexican victor Gegalado and Juan Neri for third place at 280.

Trevino, as he had announced prior to the tournament, donated his $2,333 purse to the "Our Little Brothers and Sisters" Catholic orphanage of Father William Wasson in Cuernavaca, 59 miles south of Mexico City.

"Father, I tried to win," Trevino said to the clergyman after turning in his score. "It must have been a cloudy day and the good Lord wasn't looking on me."

Golden State trips Sonics

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Nate Thurmond sank four consecutive hook shots and controlled the backboards in the second period to put Golden State in front Sunday night and the Warriors then clamped an air-tight defense on Seattle to register a 109-102 victory.

After an early 27-18 Seattle lead, red-hot Jeff Mullins bagged the last 10 points in the first quarter for Golden State while the Sonics could score only three, shrinking the Seattle lead to 30-28 at the end of the period.

Behind Thurmond, Golden State surged into a 58-46 lead at half.

Lakers edge N.Y. 103-96

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Jerry West capped a 29-point performance with four clutch free throws in the last 1:33 of the play Sunday night to pace the Los Angeles Lakers to a 103-96 victory over the New York Knicks.

After trailing most of the way, the Knicks, playing their fifth straight game without center Willis Reed, went ahead briefly at 93-92 on a shot by Dave Debusschere with three minutes to play.

But second year man Jim McMillian put Los Angeles ahead for good with 1:59 to go on a shot from the corner after a cross court pass from West.

Bullets win first road tilt

HOUSTON (UPI)—Jack Marin scored 42 points to lead the Baltimore Bullets to a 109-106 victory over the Houston Rockets Sunday night, the Bullets' first road triumph of the season.

Marin, the Bullet's leading scorer with a 23.4 average this season, hit nine of 14 field goals in the second half, including six of nine the last quarter during the Rockets final surge.

Trevino expressed disappointment at not winning his fourth national Open this year. He previously won the U.S. Canadian and British Opens on his way to becoming the leading money winner on the pro golf circuit.

"Yes, you can say I'm disappointed," he said. "I wanted to win this one very bad. But I think I'll be back next year to try again."

Trevino said he hoped the Mexican Open could increase its purse to between $50,000 and $80,000. The current tournament had a total purse of only $30,000.

"I didn't realize there was this much interest in golf in Mexico," Trevino said, referring to the turnout of approximately 5,999 fans on the final two days.

He predicted that the number of golf courses in Mexico would triple in the next four years and he added, "I think golf is changing from a rich man's game to one the middle class could play."

Lion's late rally nips Denver

DENVER (UPI)—Detroit quarterback Greg Landry followed a 36-yard scoring run by Althe Taylor with touchdown throws of 75 yards, to Earl McCullouch, and five yards to Charlie Sanders, to give Detroit a 24-20 come-from-behind win over Denver Sunday which evened an old score.

It was the first regular season meeting of the two teams. But in a 1967 exhibition match, Denver defeated Detroit 13-7 to become the first team from the then-American Football League to beat an NFL club.

Denver opened the scoring with a 17-yard Don Horn pass to Bobby Anderson which capped an 80-yard drive. In the second quarter, Denver's Billy Thompson intercepted a Landry pass to set up a 21-yard Jim Turner field goal.

Trailing 10-0 as the third quarter began, the Lions abandoned their ground game. They promptly drove 80 yards in four plays, ending with Taylor's 36-yard touchdown. Four plays later, Detroit had the ball again. On a third and 18 situation, Landry threw his 75-yard strike to McCullouch to put Detroit ahead with only 5:55 elapsed.

Turner kicked a 40-yard field goal to bring Denver back within one point but the Lions matched that with a 10-yard Errol Mann three-pointer.

In the fourth quarter, Denver, sparked by a 43-yard punt return, by Floyd Little from the Bronco end zone, drove 57 yards in 11 plays, taking the lead 20-17 on a five-yard Anderson plunge.

But with 2:19 left, the Lions went ahead for good, scoring on a bench-called five yard Landry to Sanders pass.

Cavaliers top Blazers

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Bobby Smith and John Johnson combined for 50 points and Rick Roberson grabbed 23 rebounds Sunday night to pace the Cleveland Cavaliers to a 120-99 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers.

It was the third victory against nine losses for the Cavs who did not win their third game last year until their 40th game of the season.

The Cavs trailed 30-25 after the first quarter, but Roberson, who set a club rebounding mark, netted 11 points and Charlie Davis scored eight in the second quarter as the Cavs moved out to a 56-47 halftime lead.

Roosevelt Taylor intercepted a Norm Snead pass at the three-yard line with just over a minute left to halt a final Viking threat.

After several of their drives were stymied by Minnesota interceptions and fumbles, the 49ers finally moved to the Viking 45 late in the third quarter.

The Eagles came up with four interceptions and three fumble recoveries to run their record under new coach Ed Khayat to two victories and a tie.

The contest ended with Philadelphia on Washington's 26 on a 36-yard pass from Pete Liske to Harold Jackson but time ran out before the Eagles could try for a game-winning field goal.

Ron Porter's recovery of Larry Brown's second fumble of the game on the Redskins' 17 on the first running play of the second half set up the Eagle score. Three plays later, Liske pitched a 12-yard touchdown pass to Ron Bull.

Substitute quarterback Snead, who relieved Gary Cuozzo for the Vikings in the first half, couldn't move the team, and the Vikings had to settle for a 16-yard field goal by Fred Cox. Charlie West had recovered a Vic Washington fumble and returned it to the 45. Running back Clint Jones took the ball to the 16, and the Vikings were stopped one inch short of a first down.

But two plays later Page recovered Kent Willard's fumble to set up the field goal. Snead drove the Vikings deep into San Francisco territory on the next series of plays.

Boosters meet

Twin Falls Bruin Boosters will meet at 7 a.m. Tuesday at the Depot Grill, reminds Dr. John McKain, club president. The group will see film of the Skyline-Twin Falls game and discuss the season finale with Minico here Friday afternoon.

Hamilton wins semi-finals

HAMILTON, Ont. (UPI)—Quarterback Wally Gabler made a triumphant return to the Hamilton Tiger-Cats Sunday as he threw two touchdown passes in a 23-4 victory over the Ottawa Rough Riders in the Canadian Eastern Football Conference semi-finals.

The Tiger-Cats will now meet the league-leading Toronto Argonauts in a two game total points final that opens in Hamilton next Sunday.

Gabler, cut by the Tiger-Cats five weeks ago, was reactivated after Joe Zuger was injured in the final league game at Toronto a week ago.

The Eagles came up with four interceptions and three fumble recoveries to run their record under new coach Ed Khayat to two victories and a tie.

The contest ended with Philadelphia on Washington's 26 on a 36-yard pass from Pete Liske to Harold Jackson but time ran out before the Eagles could try for a game-winning field goal.

Ron Porter's recovery of Larry Brown's second fumble of the game on the Redskins' 17 on the first running play of the second half set up the Eagle score. Three plays later, Liske pitched a 12-yard touchdown pass to Ron Bull.

Substitute quarterback Snead, who relieved Gary Cuozzo for the Vikings in the first half, couldn't move the team, and the Vikings had to settle for a 16-yard field goal by Fred Cox. Charlie West had recovered a Vic Washington fumble and returned it to the 45. Running back Clint Jones took the ball to the 16, and the Vikings were stopped one inch short of a first down.

But two plays later Page recovered Kent Willard's fumble to set up the field goal. Snead drove the Vikings deep into San Francisco territory on the next series of plays.

Injury-riddled Jets stun Chiefs 13-10

NEW YORK (UPI)—The injury-ravaged New York Jets, getting a sparkling effort from a patch-work defensive unit, scored a stunning 13-10 upset

Kansas City's scores came on a six-yard touchdown pass from Len Dawson to Mike Adamle in the first quarter and a 19-yard field goal by Jan Stenerud in the second period.

The Jets got a break in the first three minutes of the game when Kansas City's Jerrel Wilson bobbed the snap from center on a fourth down punting situation and was tackled by safety Phil Wise on the Chiefs' 29.

victory over the powerful Kansas City Chiefs Sunday on Bob Howfield's 39-yard field goal early in the fourth period.

The Jets, playing with six defensive regulars sidelined with injuries, entered the game a 14-point underdog but never trailed and the defensive unit took away the Chiefs' highly-touted long passing game and held them scoreless in the second half.

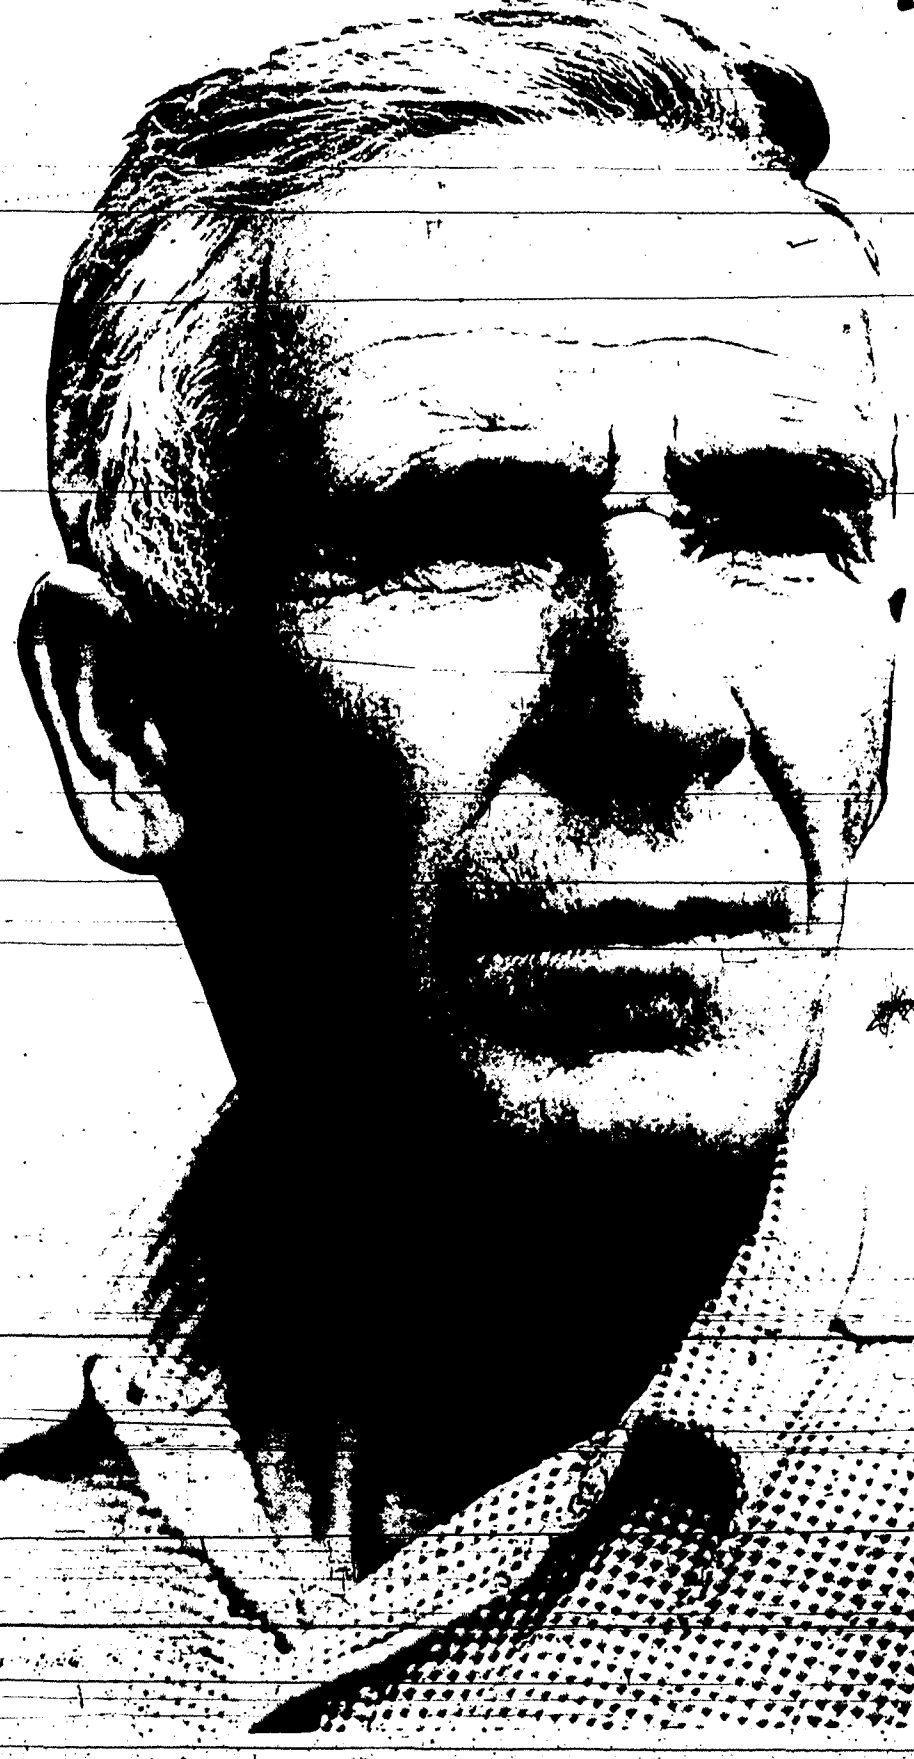

Howfield's game-winning field goal — his longest as a Jet — came at 1:13 of the final quarter and was set up when Chief cornerback Jim Marsalis was hit with a 15-yard personal foul penalty that gave the Jets a first down on the Kansas City 30.

Howfield also booted a 30-yard field goal in the second period and New York got a one-yard touchdown pass by Emerson Boozer for his other score.

Late field goal lets Green Bay nip Bears in final 59 seconds

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dave Hampton's 62-yard kickoff return and Lou Michaels' 22-yard field goal with 59 seconds left pulled Green Bay from what seemed an almost certain tie to a 17-14 victory over the Chicago Bears Sunday. The Bears appeared to have assured themselves of a certain standoff when they scored two touchdowns within two minutes and 40 seconds of the last six minutes of a wild and woolly fourth quarter.

Bear Quarterback Bobby Douglass hit George Farmer with a 30-yard touchdown pass with five minutes and 58 seconds to go. Then Dick Butkus stripped the ball from Hampton's arms and recovered on the 11. Four plays later Douglass dove over from the one and Mac Percival's conversion appeared to have the game locked up.

Williams' reception, while double-covered deep in the end zone was his first touchdown pass of the season.

St. Louis picked up 31 yards in five plays before Bakken's field goal on the second play of the second quarter. The big gainer was 14 yards on a pass-interference call on Isaac Thomas on a pass intended for Gilliam.

Staubach set up the first Dallas score, Fritsch's first field goal, on passes of 13 yards to Alworth, 15 yards to Gloster Richardson, 18 yards to Walt Garrison and eight yards to Billy Truax.

Williams with a 37-yard pass to set up Bakken's field goal.

The Cowboys had taken a 13-10 lead on the previous series when Roger Staubach tossed a four-yard touchdown pass to Mike Ditka. Dan Reeves, handling the snap for Fritsch's extra point attempt, took a bad pass and ran for the extra point.

Staubach gained 199 yards in passes during the game.

The Cardinals had taken a 10-3 halftime lead on Hart's 11-yard scoring pass to Williams and Bakken's 41-yard field goal. Before the touchdown Hart hit John Gilliam with a 51-yard pass to move the ball to the Dallas 29. Two plays later MacArthur Lane bulled his way one yard on a third-and-one situation to convert the Cardinals' first third down of the game.

But then Hampton took Percival's kickoff one yard behind the goal line and slashed through the Chicago field until he finally stepped out of bounds on the Bear 39.

John Brockington, the Packers' pounding rookie who gained 140 yards for his finest day as a pro, lugged the ball to the Bear 15 on six successive carries and, with time running out, Michaels came in to do the execution act on the Bears.

The loss stopped a Bear winning streak of two games, and left their record in the National Football Conference at 5-3. Green Bay, still hoping for a comeback in the Central Division, improved their rating to 3-4-1.

Until those last six minutes it appeared that Brockington and another rookie, quarterback Scott Hunter, had combined to lock up a 14-0 whoshow. The touchdown drives the second quarter.

Hunter, who passed for 133 yards overall, capped the first drive with a 31-yard touchdown pass to veteran Carroll Dale. Then Brockington scored for Bay's other touchdown on a seven-yard jaunt.

Ali spars 16 rounds in drills

HOUSTON (UPI)—Muhammad Ali, answering back at his critics who say he is out of shape and taking his Nov. 17 fight with Buster Mathis lightly, worked the equivalent of 16 rounds in a gym here Sunday.

Ali, the No. 1 heavyweight contender, returned Saturday from Argentina where he boxed a series of exhibitions. The champion flew here from Miami to begin serious training for his 12-round with Mathis in the Astrodome.

All worked five rounds on the rope, five more on the light bag, and boxed six rounds, three each with Bo Bo Renfro, a 269-pound sparring partner from Washington, D.C., and Joe Bugner of England. Ali, whose weight is up to 235 pounds, expects to come in at around 225. He will work out daily at the Astro Hall.

Pittsburgh tops Browns 26-9 to claim share of loop lead

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Quarterback Terry Bradshaw sneaked for a touchdown, and Roy Gerela kicked four field goals following Cleveland turnovers, to give Pittsburgh a 26-9 victory over the Browns Sunday, tying the two teams for first place in the Central Division of the American Football Conference.

Bradshaw directed the Steelers to a 16-0 half time lead before he was forced out of the game with a sprained ankle and the Browns were on the verge of a comeback until L. C. Greenwood blocked a punt to set up Gerela's fourth field goal with 8:16 to play.

Although Bradshaw's sprain was not believed serious he was sent to a hospital for X-rays and returned to the sidelines in the fourth quarter on crutches and with his left ankle heavily taped.

The loss, third straight for Cleveland, gave both teams 4-4 records with six games to play.

Pittsburgh, which never has won a divisional title, scored the first three times it had the ball and four of the first five times. Linebacker Jack Ham recovered a fumble by Cleveland quarterback Bill Nelsen to set up Gerela's first field goal, a 45-yarder and then Bradshaw

MIAMI (UPI)—Quarterback Bob Griese threw two short touchdown passes and speedy Mercury Morris ran 45 yards for another Sunday to power the Miami Dolphins to a 34-0 victory over the winless Buffalo Bills.

Morris, replacing the injured Jim Kijck, gained a total of 115 yards. Larry Csonka rushed for 90 yards and scored a 12-yard touchdown on the Dolphins first offensive series.

The was the first time in the history of the Dolphins that the defense has shut out a team during the regular season. The Bills, led by quarterback Jim Harris, moved the ball well against the Dolphins, but had two scoring drives stopped inside the 15—once on a fumble and another time on a pass interception.

The win was the fifth straight for the Dolphins and keeps them in first place in the AFC's Eastern Division with a 6-1-1 record.

Saints, Oakland draw 21-21

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Dave Parks took a 10-yard scoring pass from Edd Hargett with eight seconds left and Charley Durkee booted the extra point to give the New Orleans Saints a 21-21 tie with the Oakland Raiders Sunday.

The Saints game-tying drive in the closing seconds went 77 yards in 10 plays.

Oakland built what appeared to be a comfortable lead on Daryle Lamonica's touchdown passes of 42 and 20 yards to Fred Biletnikoff and Pete Banaszak's four-yard run for a score.

The tie gave Oakland a 6-1-2 record and the Saints a 2-5-2 season mark.

Oakland downed a 7-0 half-time edge on Lamonica's 42-yard bomb to Biletnikoff in the second quarter and they moved ahead 14-0 with 9:04 left in the third period on Banaszak's burst up the middle.

The Saints scored first late in the third period on Jim Strong's 10-yard run.

Biletnikoff opened the final period by taking a 20-yard scoring pass from Lamonica, but with 3:09 left in the game, Saing Bob Gresham plunged over from the two to make it 21-14.

On the following kickoff, Oakland fumbled and the Saints took over on the Raider 25, but four passes fell incomplete. The Raiders were forced to punt and the Saints took over again on their own 23 with 1:34 remaining.

Hargett, who replaced the shaken-up Archie Manning in the second period, moved the Saints on passes to Parks and Virgil Robinson to the Raider 10 with 13 seconds left.

Giants end drouth, nip San Diego

NEW YORK (UPI)—The rejuvenated New York Giants, sparked by the clutch play of two escapees from the taxi squad, Charlie Evans and Coleman Zeno, snapped a four-game losing streak Sunday with a 35-17 victory over the San Diego Chargers.

EVANS, a 14th round draft choice from Southern California, who spent the first four games on the taxi squad, scored three touchdowns and combined with Ron Johnson to give the Giants a solid ground game while Zeno, a 17th round choice from Grambling who was activated from the taxi squad for the first time, made four key catches for 90 yards.

The Giants jumped into a 21-0 lead in the second period on touchdown runs by Johnson one-yard and Evans, nine yards and Fran Tarkenton's 43-yard touchdown pass to Dick Kotite.

whereupon South made the rest of the tricks for a top score.

Oswald: "I assume that East and West were most unhappy."

Jim: "They sure were. East suggested that West should have shifted to a club either before or after taking his nine of spades. West felt that East should have played a club instead of the 10 of spades."

Oswald: "East's contention is really valid. West should have known that South held the spade eight. As for West's contention, East might well have tried a low club when he got in. In either case their joint errors gave South a top instead of what would probably have been a bottom score."

Project gives ice to Eskimos

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—It might appear to be superfluous, but University of Washington scientists are providing ice for Eskimos and refrigeration for the Arctic.

Actually the scientists are involved in research that prove to be an important key to solving some of the oil production and construction problems in Alaska.

Under the direction of Prof. Albert L. Babb, the research group has developed improvements on a heat transfer device so that Arctic permafrost can be kept frozen the year around and cold storage can be provided in remote areas that do not have electric power.

Permafrost is Arctic soil with high moisture content. When it thaws, it becomes mushy and undermines the foundations of structures built upon it.

Permafrost also would become unstable under the intense heat of oil well drilling or from the flow of hot oil through pipelines.

Dr. Babb said his team had developed a system for stabilizing permafrost by adapting a cold storage concept to the thermo-tube, a commercial heat transfer instrument. The thermo-tube operates without an outside power source by a process known as natural convection when the soil is warmer than the outside air.

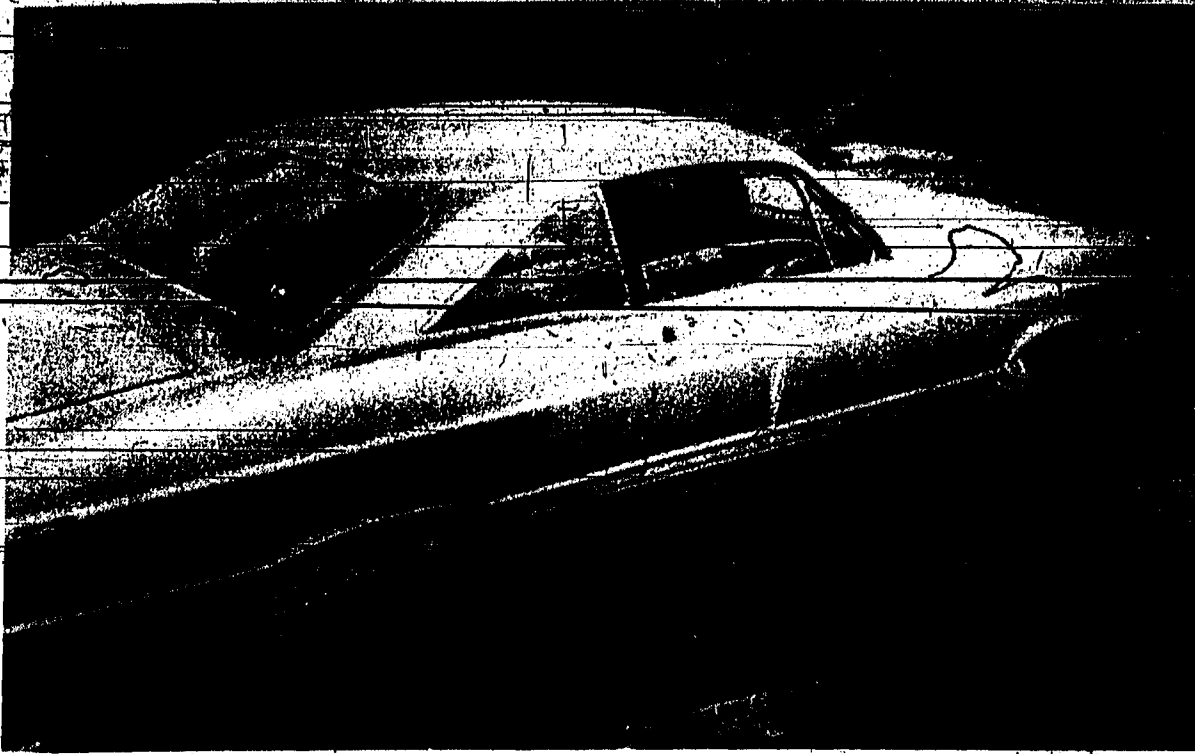

In this process, a fluid within the sealed tube becomes warm and rises, transferring heat from the soil to the cooler upper air, where it dissipates, thus cooling the ground. The fluid then drops to the bottom of the tube again.

The cold storage system, in conjunction with thermo-tubes, stores cold in the form of ice during the winter months. By using this stored cold, it is possible to keep moisture in the soil frozen more effectively during the summer months or when the soil is heated from other sources, such as oil drills and pipelines.

One practical application of this cold storage principle is now in use at Savoonga, on St. Lawrence Island, where natives are able to keep walrus meat frozen during the warm summer months.

Other potential applications are for use as supporting foundations for bridges, towers, pipelines and anchors with various loads. In addition, it could be used for supporting buildings in which short spans are required, as well as multibay buildings or as an integral truss system for long spans.

Angkor ruins shelter refugees

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—A market and war refugees' hovels flank the 12th century Angkor Wat ruins in northwestern Cambodia.

Under Communist control since June of last year, the temple ruins and surrounding park have not been seen or entered by government troops or officials in 17 months. But for peasants fleeing bombing by allied planes, Angkor has become a precarious refuge. It is off limits to bombing.

A peasant who came to Phnom Penh from a village in the surrounding countryside, recently told of life in the shadow of Angkor, 180 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

When last June the advancing Communists came close to capturing the nearby provincial town of Siem Reap, which once served as an airport for tourists visiting the ruins, thousands of villagers streamed into the park to avoid the fighting, the peasant said.

Both sides in the fighting were apparently under the orders that the government army is still under — not to fire on the monuments for fear of damaging them. Communist Vietnamese defectors say they too are still under strict orders not to harm the ruins.

The peasant confirmed that a column of Angkor Wat had been damaged early this year but said no other damage to the temples could be seen.

Chinese merchants were quick to follow the refugees into Angkor, setting up 30 to 40 small shops selling everyday necessities such as fish and salt around Angkor Thom, the largest of the ruins.

Every morning peasants from the surrounding countryside visit the market. Also flourishing are the park's two Buddhist pagodas. At dawn the saffron-clad monks make their way through the populated areas with begging bowls, giving the villagers a chance to gain merit for future incarnations.

Bird haven

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—The Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel, which spans the mouth of the bay near the Atlantic Ocean, is a favorite route for bird watchers. Last fall, spotters counted two peregrines, 30 pigeon hawks, 487 sparrow hawks and 540 kingbirds in the kiptopeke area near the bridge-tunnel's northern end.

Court eyes milk rebate

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Each Sunday after church services a suburban Pittsburgh family stops at a United Dairy Farmers Cooperative store and buys a gallon of milk.

The husband pays $1.21 for the milk, about nine cents cheaper than elsewhere. He also saves the receipts, totals them once a month and gets a "dividend."

One Sunday his wife chided him.

"John," she said "we just heard a sermon about obeying civil laws as well as church rules. Yet here we are, not 20 minutes later, patronizing a lawbreaker."

"Let the courts decide if the law is broken," said the husband. "I'm interested in saving money."

E. N. Hayes is president of the UDFFCA which has 34 retail outlets in the Pittsburgh area and plans to open four more within two months. The Pennsylvania Milk Commission regards Hayes as a lawbreaker because he sells milk at less than price control rates. The federal government also looks askance at the co-op.

"We're not breaking the law," Hayes insists. "We're chartered under Pennsylvania law. The commission is interfering with free enterprise and restricting trade. Some surrounding states have declared price controls on milk unconstitutional—Ohio, New Jersey, New York and West Virginia."

Contending it was legal to sell milk cheaper and to offer rebates, the co-op appealed to the federal government. But a three-judge panel in Philadelphia ruled against the organization. It held that retail milk price fixing was a "permissible exercise" of the state.

The co-op now has appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Hayes noted that the other states sell milk cheaper. Many residents in Pennsylvania border towns cross into Ohio where they can buy milk from $1.05 to $1.11 per gallon.

Hayes, who operates a dairy farm as his father did, said the co-op has improved the lot of dairy farmers.

"Before this," he said, "the dairy farmer needed help from his family to survive. Naturally, the family worked without pay. Today, many of our farmers can afford outside help."

Hayes said many dairy farmers were forced to seek employment in mills, shops, factories and mines. He estimated that 25,000 dairy farmers fell into this category.

"The milk commission failed to keep up with the times," he said.

Bridge winners

JEROME — North-south winners in Saturday's Jerome duplicate bridge competition include Mrs. H. C. Hall and Mrs. Art Solomon, first place; Mrs. R. E. Reece and Mrs. Max Hogg, second place; and Mrs. W. C. Keys and Mrs. L. S. Bruce, third place.

East-west winners included Mrs. H. G. Munyon and Mrs. A. D. Williams, first place; Mrs. A. L. Johnson and Mrs. R. R. Williams, second place; and Mrs. John Woolly and Mrs. Jim Tilley, third place.

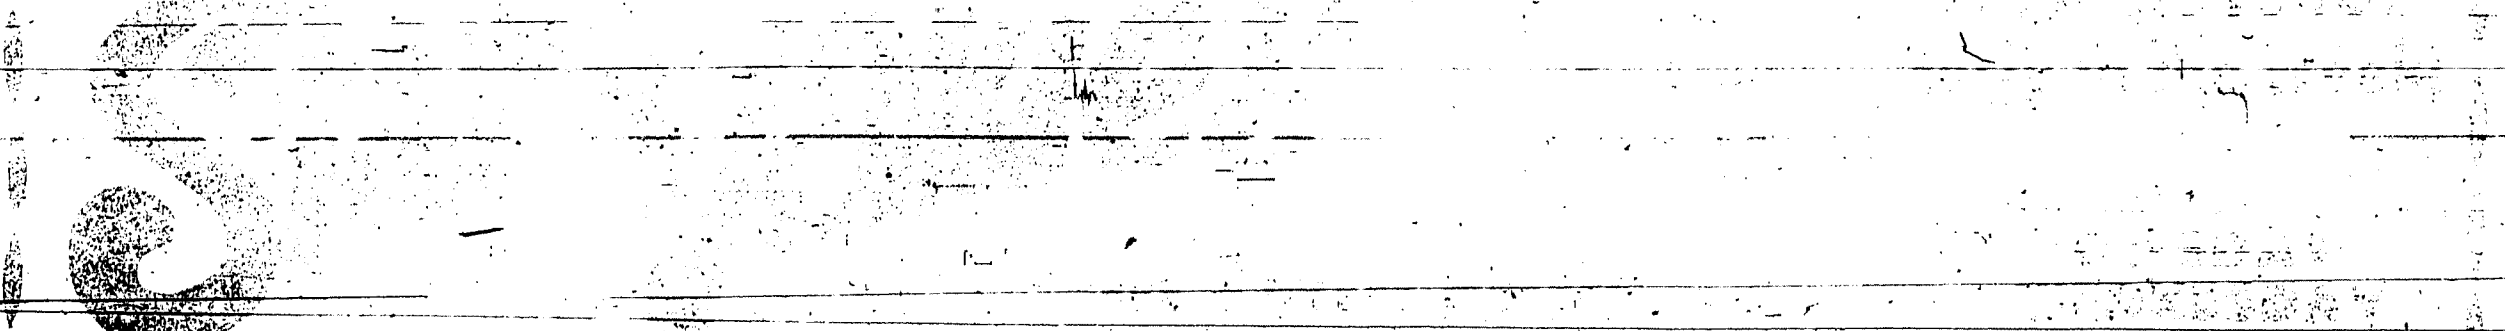

Advanced periodontal or gum disease frequently leads to a loss of jaw bone supporting the teeth, dental authorities report.

Executives eye growth

BOISE (UPI)—Four leading business executives will discuss prospects for growth in the Idaho economy during the 45th all Idaho congress, the annual meeting of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce.

Ralph J. Comstock Jr., president, said the meeting will be held at the Downtowner in Boise Nov. 15.

Panel members include William C. Janss, chairman of the board, Sun Valley Co., Inc.; L.J. Randall, chairman of the board, Hecla Mining Co.; R.V. Hansberger, president, Boise Cascade Corp.; and Albert Carl- sen, president, Idaho Power Company.
