

Pay raises limited to 5 1/2%

Bolt issues rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In decision yet of Phase 2 of the most comprehensive government-imposed wage policy since the Korean War, the Council could announce today that industries will be covered by future wage increases to about 5.5 per cent.

The decision, which came Monday night over strong labor opposition, would bar most workers from collecting wages they lost during the 90-day freeze.

The board also agreed to let most contracts negotiated before or during the freeze take effect unchanged when the controls are lifted at midnight Saturday.

It was the most important ing the AFL-CIO annual convention were getting underway this week.

The five union presidents on the Pay Board did not rule out an eventual walkout, a tactic they used on similar Pay Boards during World War II and the Korean War.

For the present, however, they were expected to attend the next meeting Thursday which will set up rules for enforcing the new wage policy.

The union leaders were also expected to take their case to Congress where the retroactive pay principle overturned by the Pay Board majority has received important endorsement from the House Banking Committee and Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Judge George H. Boldt, chairman of the Pay Board, said his group will "abide by anything Congress provides and we will do that if and when it becomes law."

But Boldt insisted that the settlement was "equitable and fair to all, requiring almost every American to make some sacrifice as any control program must do."

The rules approved by the Pay Board cover these areas:

- New contracts: Wage and fringe benefit increases should approximate 5.5 per cent. This yardstick will be reviewed by the Pay Board and might be scaled down if the economy moves toward President Nixon's goal of cutting inflation in half by the end of next year.
- Existing contracts: Increases negotiated in contracts signed before or during the freeze may take effect after the freeze is lifted provided they are not "unreasonably inconsistent" with the board's inflation-fighting goals. A "party at interest" or five Pay Board members may challenge these increases if they are thought to be out of line.
- Retroactivity: In general, these increases will not be approved. But the board said it might consider awarding retroactive wages if a company raised its prices before the freeze.

Phase II wouldn't be too bad if the farmers also got a 5 1/2 per cent pay raise

House kills prayer plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "We've interred the issue," said Judiciary Committee Chairman Emanuel Celler of Monday's House vote against amending the Constitution to put prayer back in public schools. "But I suspect that in a few years it will be back."

Sponsors of the rejected amendment proposal said the issue would not be dormant that long. They promised to take it to the polls in 1972 where they will seek to defeat members who, as they put it, "voted against prayer in school."

Mrs. Ben Ruhlin, the Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, housewife and mother who spearheaded the long campaign that climaxed in Monday's losing vote, said funds would be raised to buy billboard space in the districts of all 102 members whose "no" votes sent the amendment down the drain.

Although 240 other members voted for it, a two-thirds vote was required, and the proposal lost by 28 votes.

The amendment, as drafted and forced to the floor by Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, was intended to dilute Supreme Court decisions of 1962 and 1963 that barred a state-prescribed prayer in New York, daily Bible reading in Pennsylvania, and a daily recitation of the Lord's Prayer at the opening of schools in Baltimore.

Wendell man dies in crash

HEYBURN — A Wendell man was killed and his daughter injured in a two-truck collision early this morning on Interstate 80N about half a mile east of the Heyburn interchange.

Idaho State Police identified the victim as Richard Harold Hanson, 22, Wendell, driver of one of the trucks. His daughter, Karrie Hanson, 4, is in fair condition today at Cassia Memorial Hospital.

Officers said Hanson was traveling west on the interstate just after midnight when his egg-loaded truck collided with the rear of a tractor-trailer unit which was parked in the outside parking lane of the interstate.

Driver of the parked truck, Ray Leonard Wells, 50, Twin Falls, had stopped to assist a motorist whose car had run out of gas.

After the impact the two trucks slid forward about 25 feet, but did not strike the stalled car, its driver or Wells.

It took officers and a wrecker driver about 45 minutes to pry the dash board of the truck loose to free the Hanson child from the wreckage. Another 30 minutes was spent in freeing the victim's body.

Chinese move into US headquarters

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Communist Chinese set up their first base of operations on U.S. soil in more than 20 years today in three double rooms of a Madison Avenue hotel.

The six Chinese, described as low level administrators, arrived in New York Monday wearing grey-green Mao jackets. Their job was to prepare for the arrival of the Chinese delegation to the United Nations, expected Wednesday.

Huang Hua, Chinese ambassador to Canada who was named Peking's first representative to the U.N. Security Council, was to fly from Ottawa to Paris today to join the rest of the delegation and then fly back with the group to New York.

was recuperating in a hospital from a bleeding ulcer and it was expected the credentials would be sent to him by messenger. Usually, credentials are presented in a formal ceremony.

Mao niece

Peking's delegation, headed by Chiao Kuan-hua, was awarded a seat in the United Nations when the world body voted Oct. 25 to seat them and expel Nationalist China. The last time Communist China had a delegation in the United States was in 1950 when it joined a U.N. debate over the Korean War.

Communist China will become a full member of the United Nations when Secretary General Thant accepts its credentials. Thant, however,

WANG Hai Yang, Chairman Mao's niece, is expected to be among members of Red China's delegation to the UN. She is scheduled to arrive later this week. (UPI)

Lin Piao said dead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Foreign diplomats here report that Lin Piao, who once was groomed as the successor to Mao Tse-tung, has been ousted from power in Communist China and may be dead.

Lin, China's defense minister since 1959, was purged this year when Mao and Premier Chou En-lai rooted out the last vestiges of a military plot to overthrow them, the diplomats said.

They added, however, there were indications that the purge was a post-mortem formality that followed Lin's death in a plane crash in Mongolia.

The report made by the diplomats Monday night coincided in some respects with rumors that surfaced in September in Hong Kong and elsewhere. At that time, the Peking government prohibited all aircraft operations over China. The ban lasted with a few exceptions — for seven weeks.

Explosion ends ride for cons

CANTON, Ga. (UPI) — A prison bus caught fire and exploded near here Monday, critically injuring at least 19 of the 23 prisoners aboard.

Fifteen were reported seriously or critically burned. All were minor offenders from a county work camp, officials said.

One prisoner escaped during the excitement that sent 10 ambulances and three fire trucks to the scene.

A witness said the fire gutted the vehicle, a converted school bus used the prisoners from camp to work details.

A guard, identified as Charley Crow, jumped from the bus when it caught on fire and rushed to an emergency door and helped prisoners out, the witness said.

The Georgia State Highway Patrol reported that the fire apparently started from a can of gasoline being carried in the rear of the bus.

One of the prisoners said the can apparently began leaking and the fire started when a prisoner lit a cigarette.

TF teachers ask bargaining unit

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — A third party will be asked to certify teachers' requests that the Twin Falls Educational Assn. (TFEA) be designated to negotiate for Twin Falls teachers.

The agreement was made following the request by TFEA representatives that the group be designated the bargaining unit for the teachers under a new state law governing teacher negotiations.

The meeting was the first between the TFEA and the Twin Falls trustees to discuss the TFEA's status under the new law.

The teachers' association representatives appeared as an informal group since the TFEA has not yet been accepted by the school board as the bargaining agent for Twin Falls teachers under the Idaho negotiation law.

The new negotiation law took effect last July 1. It requires trustees of a school district to enter into bargaining with any group which is formally recognized by a majority of the teachers employed by the district.

Norman L. Wiseman, president of the Twin Falls Education Assn., the local unit of the Idaho Education Assn., introduced TFEA Vice President Keith Farnsworth, who will automatically become president next year, and the proposed negotiating committee. It is composed of Scott Tingey, John Darrington, Leo Wright, Carolyn Herzinger, Carl Shaner and Reid Pfeifferly.

Wiseman asked the trustees and administration to recognize the TFEA as bargaining agent for the Twin Falls teachers.

Though Wiseman carried signed agreements from 222 Twin Falls teachers, asking that the TFEA be recognized, he refused a request by Supt. of Schools George Staudaier to let him inspect the request.

Trustees scrutinize possible school plans

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school trustees Monday night began studying possible designs for several new schools.

Boise architect Nat J. Adams and two associates, Joe Ed Conrad and Ernest J. Lombard, discussed school design at length, presenting color slides of schools, particularly the ultra-modern Valley View Elementary School, Boise, designed by Adams and his associates.

School Supt. George Staudaier reviewed the need for new schools in Twin Falls, pointing out that many classrooms are badly overcrowded, and the school district faces the eventual loss of Washington School when North Five Points and the adjoining area is rebuilt by the Idaho Department of Highways.

Adams discussed the "pod" concept utilized in Valley View School, in which octagonal pod-shaped units are clustered to house three classrooms each in the six-grade school located in Boise's outskirts. The school is divided into three classrooms for each of the six grades, with one series of "pods" providing room for the three classrooms.

The school has been built without interior walls or partitions between the classrooms, providing an open-air effect and allowing freedom of arrangement of furniture within the classroom units, Adams said.

Major tax cuts get nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee Monday approved President Nixon's bill to pep up the economy through $16 billion worth of business and individual tax cuts over the next three years.

The measure, identical in its broad outline to what Nixon asked for and what the House approved four weeks ago, was sent to the Senate for debate later this week. The vote was 12-1 with only liberal Democrat Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin dissenting.

The personal exemption is deducted from income by the taxpayer for himself and each of his dependents. Under the bill, it would be $650 for 1971 taxes and $750 in 1972 and future years.

The standard deduction, used by taxpayers who do not itemize expenses in computing taxes, would rise under the bill to 15 per cent with a $2,000 maximum in 1972. Under present law, it is 14 per cent with a $2,000 maximum.

The minimum standard deduction, a device which eliminates taxes for many families living at or near poverty, would go up from the scheduled $1,050 in 1972 to $2,300.

TF medic fined on tax charge

TWIN FALLS — Dr. Willard H. Clark, Twin Falls physician, was fined $2,500 by U. S. District Judge Fred Taylor, Boise, Monday for failing to file a 1967 federal income tax return.

Dr. Clark had pleaded nolo contendere in September and had been awaiting sentencing since then. Information filed by the U. S. attorney in bringing charges against the physician charged he had a gross income of $32,365 in 1967.

When he appeared in Federal District Court in Boise in September, a request was filed by the U. S. attorney for dismissal of a similar charge covering Dr. Clark's 1968 income of $32,674.

The second charge was dropped, according to John Anzures, public information officer for the Internal Revenue Service, Boise, because only one charge was required for court action.

Investigation of Dr. Clark's income was made by an IRS special investigator.

Double-check system used by Idaho

(Editors note: Idaho state government uses a double check system to watch payment of bills. Here, in the second of five dispatches on the state's budget system, is a look at the first step in that process: The control in the state auditor's office.)

By LINDY HIGH

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho state government could spend $125 million from the general fund this fiscal year, but its financial transactions are watched as closely as any homemaker watches a monthly allowance.

To make certain no agency spends, the state has a "double check" system: The state auditor watches the book balances and the state treasurer the bank balances.

For the most part, the allocations given state agencies for a fiscal year are divided into four categories: salaries and wages, travel expense, other current expense and capital outlay.

Using sophisticated computers, State Auditor Joe R. Williams sets up a "paper account" for each agency, showing the amount which can be spent in each category.

Just as a homemaker might limit itself to spending only half a monthly allowance in the first two weeks, state agencies, too, are allowed to spend only so much of an allocation in each half of the fiscal year. A $100 capital outlay budget, for instance, may be divided into $50 for the first six months and $50 for the last six months.

In some ways, a state government budget is not nearly as flexible as a household budget. A housewife might spend less on groceries one month in order to put more money into medical needs. But state agencies cannot spend an allotment in one category for a function of another category — transfer, for example, travel money into other current expense — without permission from the State Board of Examiners. No transfers at all can be made into the salaries and wages categories.

And no state agency can splurge when it wants. All purchases of over $100 must be done through the office of state purchasing agent, who puts the purchase up for bids.

"Interdepartmental billings" or bills between state agencies require only paper transfers:

The amount is simply transferred from one agency's allocation to another. A household with two budgets and one bank account could do the same if the husband took $10 from his entertainment category and added $10 to his wife's clothes category without an actual exchange of cash.

But state agencies wanting to pay outside bills — payments to non-government recipients — must ask the state auditor for a "warrant" for that amount.

Household comes very close to being a check. But a check is considered cash when it is written and a warrant is not.

A warrant does not become cash until it is turned over to the state treasurer, who will then write a check for the amount.

Each time a warrant is sought, Williams must check the amount against the balance of the allotment in each category. Williams does not warn an agency if it is low and will, in fact, write a warrant down to the last penny, leaving the day-to-day budgeting to fiscal officers in each agency.

But if an agency does not have sufficient money in its paper account, Williams will hold the warrant, saving the state embarrassment of having one of its checks bounce.

Unlike households which may have to worry about the number of checks written, state agencies have an unlimited supply of warrants.

On the average, Williams' office writes 3,400 warrants each day, all with no charge to agencies. The largest warrant given was one for $5.7 million, representing the state's portion of Social Security payments; but warrants can also be for as little as 10 cents to balance an account.

Major tax cuts get nod

But many of the bill's provisions benefit businesses. They are intended to increase consumer spending, to spur exports and to increase investment in new machinery.

These business provisions: — Repeal the 7 per cent excise tax on autos and the 10 per cent tax on pickup trucks retroactive to Aug. 15. — Allow exporting firms to defer taxes of $300 million a year in an attempt to induce them to export more by cutting prices. — Permit firms to subtract from their taxes 7 per cent of what they spend on new American-made machinery and equipment.

The bill also would lift into law some — but not all — of the more generous depreciation rules for business-owned equipment and property, which the administration tried to put into effect last January without specific congressional consent. That attempt has been challenged as unconstitutional in a lawsuit filed by consumer and citizen groups.

In a surprise action, the committee adopted a new income tax deduction which allows working taxpayers to deduct up to $4,800 a year for the salary of someone to come into their home to care for children under 14 or disabled dependents.

That provision was not in the House-passed bill.

U.S. B52s bomb Quang Tri area

SAIGON (UPI) — American B52s carried out their first raids in more than a year today in southern Quang Tri Province of South Vietnam where North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces have moved into foothills overlooking a strategic coastal plain.

Two waves of B52s based in Thailand dropped at least 180 tons of bombs on a series of Communist supply bunkers in the foothills of the Annamite Mountains five miles east of Highway 1 and 25 miles below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), the U.S. command said.

The site of the raids was seven miles south of Quang Tri Combat Base and it overlooks the major land connection between Quang Tri, headquarters of the South Vietnamese 1st Division and major supply bases to the south.

Military spokesmen said the targets were "about 10 big supply bunkers ... any time you get a drop that big, something is going on in the area."

Intelligence officers said later the Communists might later try to cut off northern Quang Tri Province and drive the South Vietnamese out.

Italian military plane crashes, 52 are killed

LEGHORN, Italy (UPI) — A U.S.-built Royal Air Force transport plane, ferrying 46 Italian paratroopers and six British airmen to a joint maneuver in Sardinia, crashed into the Tyrrhenian Sea today. All on board were presumed dead.

It was the worst peacetime air tragedy in Italian military history.

Frogmen and skin divers searched the depths of the Tyrrhenian off this port city for bodies and any possible survivors as well as the "black box" aboard the Hercules C130 which could tell investigators the cause of the accident. A fisherman said it crashed on its side and disappeared into the sea.

Italian military officials said they held little hope any of the 52 persons on board survived. The plane took off shortly before dawn from Pisa to transport the Italian paratroopers and crew of six British airmen to Sardinia for a joint Italo-British maneuver code-named "Operation Coldstream."

WASHINGTON — Sen. Henry Muskie's own backyard signals nomination. M. Jackson's tentative decision to risk the New Hampshire primary in Sen. Edmund Muskie's own backyard signals a bold strategy switch in his long-shot race for the party's leading foreign policy hard liner, to an all-out Democratic Presidential effort in the first big-three primaries — New Hampshire, Florida, Wisconsin — and soon thereafter in Pennsylvania at the expense of such non-primary states as Utah, Wyoming, Idaho and others in the more friendly Far West.

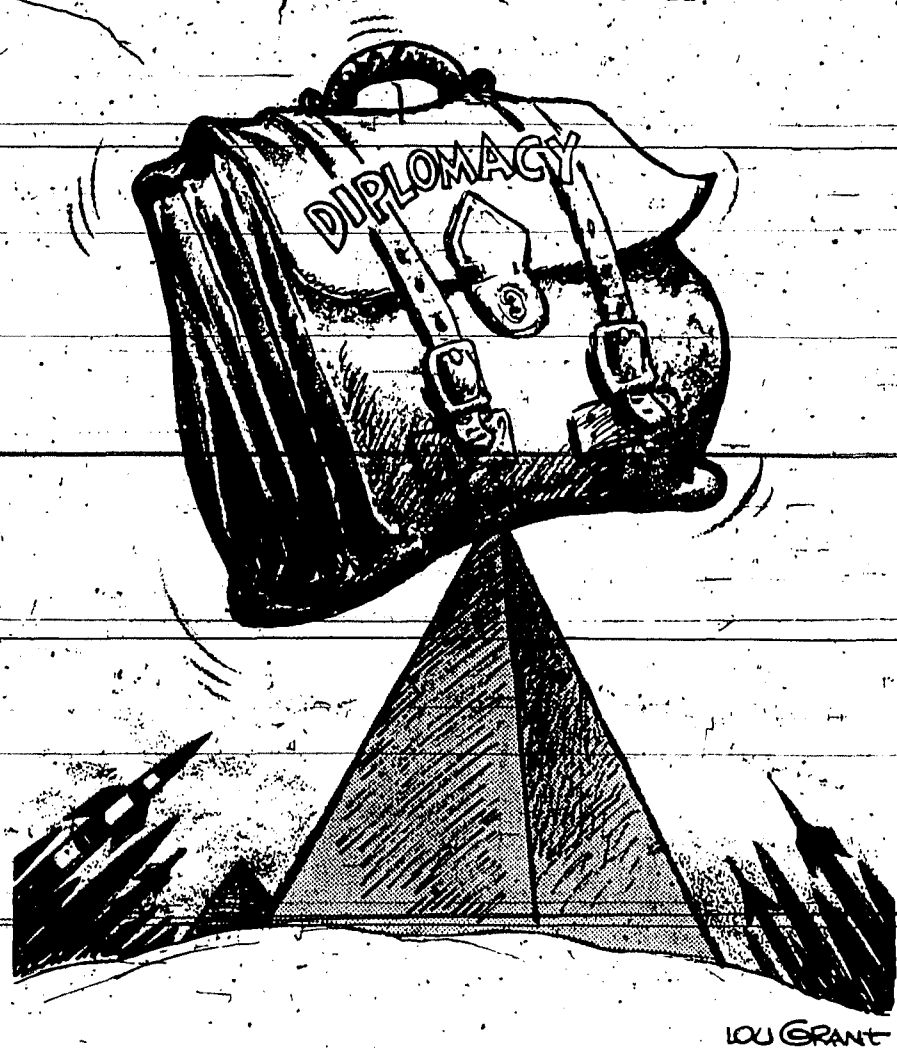

Thus, Jackson is now cutting his schedule in these Western states, which select their delegates in party conventions, to give him time for a minimum of 15 full days in the first-in-the-nation New Hampshire primary on March 7. This stunning decision carries obvious risks, but it rests on the solid logic that if Jackson fails to make dramatic inroads against Muskie in the early primary season it may be too late for him. His New Hampshire backers, working through Rep. Thomas S. Foley of Washington (who spent several days in New Hampshire last week and returns next) have now informed Jackson that he would run surprisingly well among New Hampshire's predominantly moderate and conservative Democratic primary voters.

Although a Jackson challenge in New Hampshire has been a long-cherished goal of such top-rank Jackson advisers as Ben J. Wattenberg the candidate's chief political operative, old pro Hy Raskin, argued that chasing Muskie in his own backyard would be folly. It would also eat into the Jackson schedule for heavy campaigning in the March 14 Florida primary. A Jackson win in Florida was to be the springboard that would catapult Jackson into much-needed national prominence. The more the Jackson team examined Florida, however, the bleaker it began to look as just such a springboard. "It's getting mushier and mushier," in the words of one Jackson aide, "Thus, as Jackson win there might lack the dramatic effect originally hoped for. For example, the probable entry of New York Mayor John V. Lindsay in the Florida primary has Jackson backers worried about the powerful Jewish vote in Miami. They now fear that Miami Mayor David T. Kennedy may actively support Lindsay, possibly costing Jackson a clear-cut Florida triumph."

Something less than a clear-cut Jackson win in Florida, moreover, would leave his candidacy looking ambiguous, possibly all the way to the Oregon primary more than two months later. By then, as Jackson's advisers view it, it might be too late for him to emerge as a credible candidate. Thus, Foley's report of widespread and genuine Jackson sentiment among New Hampshire's middle-road Democrats fits neatly with the importance of Jackson challenging Muskie hard and early to establish himself as a viable Presidential prospect. There was, however, one gnawing problem in the guise of conservative Manchester publisher William Loeb, whose Union Leader is the state's most powerful newspaper. Loeb likes Jackson and Loeb's help could have been extremely valuable for the New Hampshire primary. But Loeb's zest for savage combat against any and all liberals could have unfairly boomeranged against Jackson outside New Hampshire, subjecting him to guilt by association.

That problem ended with the entry of Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, a right-wing Democrat who has already opened up five high-cost campaign headquarters and has Loeb's public blessing.

THE SITUATION IN BRIEF...

On UN Changes

Admission of the People's Republic of China to the United Nations is a major change in the organization and points up the need for further changes if the organization is to function on a sound basis.

The UN is on the verge of bankruptcy and, as Secretary of State Rogers observed, needs to set its financial house in order.

Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., told the House the organization is in questionable status because it is in hock to the tune of $176,699,974. The Soviet Union owes nearly half the total, and the Communist bloc owes a total of nearly $119 million.

"I believe that before we authorize one more penny of U.S. taxpayers' money to the UN," said Michel, a member of the Appropriations Committee, "we have the obligation to demand a full accounting, and to demand that the UN collect its dues, or conduct some more voting and expel members who are delinquent in paying those dues."

Expulsion of members might seem too drastic to some, but there is no reason for allowing delinquent members to vote. In fact, Article 19 of the UN Charter provides that members in arrears "shall have no vote in the General Assembly if the amount of the arrears equals or exceeds the amount... due from it for the preceding two full years."

That plain language is offset by a proviso that the General Assembly may permit a delinquent member to vote "if it is satisfied that the failure to pay is due to conditions beyond the control of the member."

There are 76 members, more than two-thirds, who are in arrears and all have continued to vote. Surely the failure of all of them to pay was not due to conditions over which they had no control.

Despite this, the UN is asking the United States which has been bearing more than one-third of the financial burden to contribute $20 million for expansion in the New York headquarters.

Some liberal Senators are strongly opposed to the United States reducing contributions to the UN. But is there any reason why contributions should be increased.

The Old Order

Washington bureaucracy is adjusting nicely to the sudden emergence of the Peking regime as the not-so-bad guys, reports Aviation Week & Space Technology magazine.

State Department reports which used to be headed "Communist China" are now labeled "People's Republic of China," and the picture of a fire-breathing red dragon, which for more than 20 years symbolized the mainland regime on Defense Department briefing charts, is no longer used.

It does not say what the new symbol is, if any. Possibly Peking duck (y)?

As for the Republic of China (not the People's but Chiang Kai-shek's on Taiwan), that would be more appropriate than cooked goose?

MR. SPECTATOR

The Stretch Department

We were just a little amused with the review of the first Community Concert program as written by Douglas Hilton and appearing in the Times-News. We will state our case.

The program featured the Orchestra Michelangelo di Firenze, from Italy, and their program was well received by a packed house out at the College of Southern Idaho fine arts auditorium.

Now down to the "meat" of the review and the part which amuses Mr. Spectator.

"The standing ovation," Hilton wrote, "is becoming a tradition in Twin Falls. This kind of acclaim should be reserved for those performers who truly generate that kind of spontaneous enthusiasm in their audiences. When a standing ovation becomes a social gesture rather than an expression of sincere appreciation, it embarrasses the performers as well as those in the audience with musical sensitivity."

Mr. Spectator objects! He has attended many concerts and many programs where he has sat for time without end and the standing ovation proved an answer to his problems.

So the standing ovation is most welcome. It has, time and again, permitted Mr. Spectator to change position, stretch a little and even adjust his shorts. And speaking for the women who also sit at these things, an opportunity to adjust that girdle must be most welcome.

So what, we ask Mr. Hilton, is really wrong with the standing ovation?

COMPUTERIZED GLOBE

Diminished though the United States trade picture has become of late, there is one important segment of it which is doing better than ever—computers. Last year U. S. exports of electronics and communications parts and equipment reached $2.4 billion, a 33 percent increase for the year.

A large part of this business involves computers and related equipment. Japan, West Germany, Taiwan and other nations also are interested in the field, indicating it also has become competitive.

There are two schools of thought on the growth of computerization in the world:

Surprise that what was once almost exclusively an American tool has become so universal.

And a chuckle that the traditional problem consumers have in trying to communicate with a computer has added the additional barrier of language.

The Russian government has again failed to meet its goal of more consumer goods, but it has been several years since a shortage of potato whisky was reported in the USSR.

WASHINGTON

William H. Rehnquist, nominee for the Supreme Court, I would lose no sleep over the caterwauling of certain professional liberals concerning his 1967 position on integration of public schools in Phoenix, Ariz.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Rehnquist is being put to the rack for a letter to the editor of the Arizona Republic in which, in fact, he made a good and Constitutional point. Wrote Rehnquist, "... we are no more dedicated to an integrated society than we are to a segregated society... we are instead dedicated to a free society, in which each man is accorded the maximum amount of freedom of choice in his individual activities."

This is, indeed, what the Constitution says. It guarantees equal rights, but it nowhere says or even implies that any American—even a defenseless child—may be required by law or by artificial administrative arrangement to work, study, play pinocle or get drunk with any other American. Equal rights does not call for enforced socializing, any more than it demands that the Supreme Court be balanced ethnically and racially.

Moreover, Rehnquist's 1967 letter addresses itself to a situation I have always found appalling. It is the unscrupulous, moist-handed exploitation of children by parents who seek status among the liberal chic. These are the parents who use their children, who force them to assume the role of reformers of our educational system.

That of course is not our children's job. Or, as Rehnquist's letter put it, the schools' job is to educate children; they should not be saddled with a task of fostering change which may well lessen their ability to perform their primary job.

In considering Rehnquist's nomination, the Senate might take cognizance that Rehnquist is not exactly a voice crying in the wilderness.

The latest Gallup Poll shows that his reading of the Constitution is shared by a whopping majority of those polled. To wit, 76 per cent—three in every four persons—are opposed to busing both Negro and white children from one school district to another.

The poll seemed to be reiterating what Rehnquist wrote in 1967—that those who would favor abandoning the neighborhood school concept concern themselves not with the great majority... but with a small minority for whom they claim it has not worked well.

WASHINGTON

They assert a claim for special privileges for this minority, the members of which in many cases may not even want the privileges.

In that connection, it seems not entirely irrelevant to note that in the Gallup Poll, 47 per cent of the Negroes interviewed opposed busing, compared with 45 per cent who favored it. This may not constitute a landslide majority, but it certainly shows a certain ambivalence in black opinion. In any event, every study made so far has shown that Negro parents prefer their own neighborhood schools, asking only that the quality of those schools be improved.

I don't blame the Democrats, especially those in the liberal column, for seeking flaws in Richard Nixon's, high bench nominees. Naturally they don't want a Republican President to create a conservative, strict constructionist Supreme Court. We all should be grateful to them for vetoing Nixon's nomination of G. Harrold Carswell and Clement Haynsworth, and for joining with Republicans in forcing the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas, Democrat.

But the Senate also is charged with the duty of acting responsibly, and some members are reaching too far out in nagging Rehnquist for that 1967 letter. They include New School Liberals who would send their own children to public schools only under court order, and therefore their motives are suspect. But as they badger William H. Rehnquist, they must be haunted by the, unwelcome knowledge that on this particular issue they are backing a Constitutional fact.

RAY CROMLEY

U.S. Market

WASHINGTON (NEA) —The widespread American view that President Nixon's new economic plan proves the U. S. economy is weak and its currency less important is not shared by everyone abroad.

One friend, in a letter received a few days ago from his home in a major industrial nation, writes:

"Mr. Nixon's new economic policy has shown the world how powerful the United States still is; so far from the impression erroneously created by all the talk of a 'weak' dollar. Faced with the dollar let loose from gold and the 10 per cent import surcharge, what can other nations do? Retaliate? But is there anything they can do that will hurt the United States in any significant way."

"Look at my country. The secret of her recent trade expansion has now been bared—the currency we so assiduously tried to keep undervalued."

The consternation abroad—persistent fears of major economic slumps in Germany, Japan, France, Belgium, Italy—prove to businessmen like my friend that their countries are still heavily dependent on sale to the United States. Any threats to an open U. S. market sends European and Japanese business and economic circles into deep gloom.

To the foreign businessmen with whom this reporter has been in contact, the situation is pretty clear cut. Despite rapid increases in wages in their countries, no nation has developed a mass market the size of that in the United States. In no other society are there so many families with so high a standard of living and such large amounts of money to spend on essentials and luxuries.

The small domestic market in some countries is a result of low wages or unequal distribution of income among the population. In a number of nations the potential mass market has been crippled because rapid wage gains in industry have not been matched by comparable increases in farm income.

The United States has led the world in the growth of efficiency and income on the farms. No other country has been able, through intensive mechanization, to shift so many of its citizens from farming to full- or part-time work in industry, the services and profession where average incomes are still higher.

What is clear, of course, is that the United States have become the world's prize market.

Despite those who claim the opposite, the spread of wealth in the United States down from the top has been very great indeed. The average income of the bottom 50 per cent of the U. S. population is closer to the average income of the top 50 per cent in any other country in the world.

The strength of the U. S. economy lies in the fact we have moved farther than any other country toward giving every man and woman a fair return for a day's work.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Rubella

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently I read an article advising all women who wanted to have a child to have a test to determine immunity to rubella, or German measles.

I had the test the next day, and it was so simple and inexpensive (free at the Health Department) that I wonder why doctors don't advise all female patients to have the test.

Also if the test shows no immunity and I have had the vaccine, how long should I wait before becoming pregnant? — Mrs. J.D.

For female patients who may become mothers, yes, the test is fine. But it would be wasteful to test women past child-bearing age. Rubella is a pretty mild disease except in one situation: pregnancy. When a woman gets it in early pregnancy, especially the first three months, it is tremendously dangerous to the fetus, the child she is carrying.

In the epidemic of the mid-1960s, there were 50,000 stillbirths, deaths in infancy, or babies with defects in the United States alone.

Now that we possess an effective vaccination against the disease, the aim is to vaccinate so many children—all, if we can—that further epidemics cannot occur.

Until that time comes, any woman who has not already had German measles, or been immunized, risks having a defective baby, or losing the baby altogether.

It is very good advice for women who may have babies to have the test to see whether they are immune to German measles—many don't know for sure whether they've had it. There are, in fact, four methods of testing for this, but the simplest is used most often, the H-I (hemagglutination-inhibition) test. This is being produced in kit form by several pharmaceutical firms, and the test gives results overnight.

Four out of five women already are immune, but the other 20 per cent represents a lot of women.

One likely suggestion is to make the rubella test part of the physical examination required for a marriage license. Weak point is that in some places such examinations are not required, or are very sketchy.

Another "blind spot" that needs attention is that the mass vaccination programs are being carried on through the schools, which leaves the pre-schoolers without the vaccination.

Drugs and crime

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — More than half the persons convicted of narcotics violations in the year 1969-70 had been convicted for other crimes, a recent state advocate's office report says.

Of those convicted 84 per cent were using narcotics. Half of those convicted used marijuana. The researchers found a strong connection between use of marijuana and of "hard" narcotics.

Hospital aides set

TWIN FALLS — Five persons have been appointed to serve three year terms on the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital board.

Among the group is a new appointee, former Twin Falls Mayor Egon Kroll.

County Commission Chairman L. W. (Bill) Chancey announced the appointments which were unanimously approved Monday by the commissioners.

Kroll will succeed Sid Graves who resigned earlier this year. Graves was chairman of the hospital board at the time of his resignation and has been succeeded in that position by William Wiseman, Hansen.

Those reappointed to serve three year terms are Robert Brackett, Twin Falls; R. W. Pierce, Pier; Mrs. L. James Koutnik Twin Falls, and Lyle Schmitker, Hollister.

Nevada pageant

TWO MAGIC valley men left Sunday morning for the Miss Rodeo America pageant in Las Vegas. Tom Shouse, foreground, Idaho member at large for Rodeo Management International and manager of the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo, and Gene Hull, one of a panel of judges at the pageant, will spend a week in Las Vegas. There they will meet Lana Brackenbury, Jerome, reigning Miss Rodeo America, and Ruth Campbell, Caldwell, Miss Rodeo Idaho.

Trustees study plans

Carpeting throughout the entire building, coupled with acoustical tile on all ceilings, has reduced noise to a minimum. Visitors to the classrooms do not disrupt the classes as they do with a conventional school building.

Each three-classroom unit has its own heating and refrigerated air conditioning, Adams said. Windows are kept to a minimum, with a narrow window in each classroom.

Surprisingly, perhaps, most teachers keep even their windows covered with colored paper as a part of the classroom decorations.

Each pod of three classrooms has three exterior doors, allowing the youngsters to leave the area during recess and after school with a minimum of interference between classes or grades.

The total cost of this type of construction varied between $14.50 and $16 per square foot, with the variation due in part to a difference in plumbing in the lower-priced area, which has less interior plumbing, and in part to an $18,000 error by the contractor, Adams said.

Staudaher said the figure of $16 per square foot appears most attractive, since he has been told by local architects that school construction can run as high as $23 per square foot, or higher.

"One architect said we'd be lucky to get by with a cost of $23 per square foot," the superintendent told the board.

The Valley View school cost in the neighborhood of $746,000 overall, Adams said, answering a question from the board.

Later in the meeting, trustees discussed the advisability of asking public approval of a bond issue to build the new schools. Trustee John Wolfe objected, pointing out that "We have to know what we need and how much it will cost before we can ask for a bond issue."

The trustees agreed that the public needs to be informed and to be consulted on any proposed bond issue, but agreed also with Staudaher that a number of varied plans can be considered, including adding additional

Teachers pay still confused

TWIN FALLS — The salary situation in the Twin Falls school district is still confused, Supt. George Staudaher told the board of trustees Monday.

Under the price-wage freeze, Staudaher said, he was told the district could increase the pay of any teacher obtaining an additional degree, but could not increase the pay of teachers earning additional credits without earning a degree, even though the salary schedule calls for additional pay with completion of 15 hours of collegiate credit beyond existing degrees.

Now, Staudaher said, he has been told by the Internal Revenue Service in Boise that a new ruling will allow pay for credits. However, the state Department of Education denies this, holding to the previous decision.

Staudaher said he consulted with state personnel in Twin Falls during last week's trustees' convention, and was again told that the pay could not be increased.

"I was told by the Internal Revenue Service that we would have definite word by or before Nov. 13," Staudaher said. "We haven't heard anything yet."

To complicate the situation, Staudaher said, a Boise attorney who has been retained to study the legal aspects is out of town for the week.

200th birthday

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — The Kentucky Historical Events Celebration Commission is preparing a $17.6 million bicentennial for 1974-1976. The occasion marks the founding of Ft. Harrod, the state's first permanent settlement, 200 years ago.

Wronged consumers discussed by aide

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's attorney general told the sales marketing executives and purchasing agents organization Monday that the 1970's have "clearly heralded the coming of the age of the consumer."

W. Anthony Park said the Idaho legislature passed both the 1971 Consumer Protection Act and the New Uniform Consumer Credit Code.

He noted his office had been given responsibility for the consumer protection area and added he welcomed it.

Park stated the protection act permits wronged consumers to sue the person or company involved and recover a minimum amount of cash plus reasonable attorney fees.

He added that the UCCC is "comprehensive new legislation" which has "several significant consumer protection features."

The attorney general noted that the policy approach in his office is to "drive out the fly-by-night and the shady operators" — not to harass or unduly interfere with legitimate operators.

Travel fair slated

TWIN FALLS — A travel fair presented by Magic Carpet Travels of Twin Falls will be held Wednesday in Twin Falls and Friday in Burley.

Featured in both shows will be a movie of east and west Africa at 7 p.m.; a slide review of the recent Magic of Scandinavia tour by Joe Salsbury at 7:30 p.m., and the West Indies at 8:30 p.m. The Magic of Scandinavia tour will feature views of Finland, Sweden, Norway and Denmark.

The Twin Falls showing will begin at 7 p.m. at the College of Southern Idaho, Shields Academic Building, room 118. The Burley showing will begin at 7 p.m. at the Ponderosa Inn.

Coalition gains members from Belgian's election

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Premier Gaston Eyskens' coalition government of Social Christian and Socialist parties resigned Monday, a move that was only formal because the parties strengthened their considerable majority in Belgium's parliament in elections Sunday.

The coalition boosted its membership in the 212-seat parliament by one, to 128. Significant changes in strength occurred, however, among the smaller opposition groups — the parties representing French-speakers gaining and the Liberals and Communists losing.

Eyskens handed his government's resignation to King Baudouin, who accepted it and asked Eyskens to stay on in a caretaker capacity until a new government is formed.

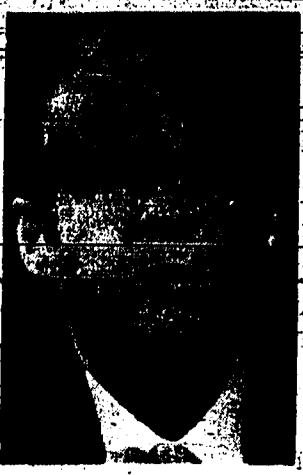

In a significant breakthrough in political strength, the Rassemblement Wallon (RW) in the French-speaking part of Belgium and the French Democratic Front (FDF) in Brussels made a major leap forward in parliamentary strength.

Interior Ministry calculations based on complete returns, gave the French allied parties a combined strength of 24 seats in parliament, a gain of 11.

This makes them even stronger than the Flemish Federalist party, the Volksunie, which went up from 20 to 22 seats.

Main losers were the Liberals, who lost 13 of their 47 seats. The Communists lost one of their five seats.

The two government parties increased their combined majority by one seat. The Social

Explorer despairs over oil

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ocean explorer Thor Heyerdahl reported in tones of despair Monday that he sailed through floating globs of oil for 43 of the 57 days it took to cross the Atlantic in his papyrus boat Ra II last year. Such pollution was not seen in his first famous voyage aboard Kon-Tiki in 1947.

Some of the asphalt-like oil globs were the size of a sandwich, he said, and some were finger-shaped. Some had been afloat so long that barnacles had attached to them.

At some points in the ocean, he said, "A bucket could not be filled without some floating clots being caught at the same time."

From this evidence, he said, he concluded that man is killing the oceans—and endangering himself—just as he has killed Lake Erie.

"We are not talking about esthetics," he said. "We are talking about human survival."

"We run the risk of harming ourselves dearly unless we abandon this Medieval concept of the endless sea and accept the fact that the ocean itself is nothing more than a big, salt lake, limited in extent and vulnerable as all the smaller bodies of water," he said.

Last month, underwater explorer Jacques Cousteau said if pollution of the sea does not stop "maybe 30, 40 or 50 years would be the end of everything."

Dr. warns about TV stimuli

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Harvard pediatrician testified Monday that television bombardments children with exhausting stimuli akin to the sounds, fears and tensions that have gradually killed prisoners in concentration camps.

Dr. T. Berry Brazelton, told the Federal Trade Commission that the result is emotional instability that, he suggested, might be the forerunner of the disillusionment of modern-day youth — the first television generation.

"One needs only to watch a toddler sitting in front of a television set, the drained, face, motionless body, the startle that breaks through ... to realize the physiological and psychological depletion," said Brazelton.

"The screaming, thrashing, disorganized, hyperactivity which ensues after a period of television watching in most children is evidence of the cost of such a period," he said.

Testifying before an FTC hearing on modern advertising practices, Brazelton said children passively absorb the "overwhelming" action on television "with no real outlet and no expression" for feelings aroused by shows and commercials.

"Advertisements directed toward children may seriously interfere with family life by creating conflicts between children and parents, by teaching children to be materialistic and by disrupting the attempt to teach the child responsibility," Condy said.

Wallace still has some voter appeal

ATLANTA (UPI) — Several "new breed" Southern governors disclaim any identity with Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama but concede he still has great voter impact in the South.

Govs. Jimmy Carter of Georgia and Reubin Askew of Florida took exception Monday to Wallace's statement at the 37th annual Southern Governors' conference that he was no different from Dixie's moderate, new governors.

The difference, said Carter, is that the moderates have "bypassed racism in the South as an issue."

Askew said Wallace "reflects the old mood of the South ... the mood of yesteryear. But it would be foolish to underestimate his impact in the South."

Wallace grabbed the headlines at the conference Monday by announcing that he may enter five presidential primaries in 1972.

Wallace, jubilant over a poll which showed him growing in political strength, told an overflow news conference that he was considering primaries in Florida, North Carolina, Tennessee, Maryland and Indiana.

Wallace said that if he runs it will be as a Democrat in each of those states except in Tennessee, where he may enter three primaries—Democratic, Republican and American, the latter the third-party presidential candidacy in 1968.

Wallace said he was encouraged by results of a new Gallup Poll published Sunday which showed that his political strength had increased in the last few months.

At least three Southern governors, Linwood Holton of Virginia, Carter and Askew, said they hoped if Wallace seeks the presidency he will run as a Democrat and not as an independent.

Schools closed

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI) — Residents voted today for the third time on whether to raise taxes to reopen public schools which have been closed for lack of money, thereby keeping 17,000 students out of class.

The 25 public schools in the hometown of former President Harry S. Truman shut down a week ago. Voters twice have defeated a 95-cent school tax increase.

But the day after the schools were closed, voters approved by a 3-1 margin construction of a new $2 million police building. Residents defeated that issue three times before they approved it.

Common Market defends plans

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The European Common Market defended its plans for trade agreements with non-member countries Monday and rejected U.S. fears they would lead to discrimination contrary to international trading regulations.

The United States, in a verbal note to the Common Market members Friday, warned them against negotiating discriminatory agreements with nations not wishing to become members.

In Vienna, Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky offered to take the initiative in persuading the U. S. to cooperate.

"It is necessary to convince the United States the neutral countries are also a part of Europe and should not be discriminated against," he told a news conference.

The foreign ministers of the six Common Market nations — France, West Germany, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg — met in Brussels Monday to work out the scope of future negotiations with the non-members.

The European Free Trade Association (EFTA) nations seeking agreements with the market — without becoming members — are Austria, Switzerland, Portugal, Sweden, Iceland and Finland. Three other EFTA members — Britain, Denmark and Norway — are seeking market membership.

Malfatti said he believes the agreements between the European community and the EFTA countries will not result in discrimination against third countries because they will conform with GATT regulations. "GATT regulations are those of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade in which the United States was a participant.

The EFTA members want the trading agreements to protect existing trade when Britain, Norway and Denmark join the Common Market.

EFTA was an organization set up on the initiative of Britain as a counterbalance to the Common Market. Britain announced last week it would leave the organization Dec. 31, 1972, the day before it is scheduled to join the market.

Mamie's health said good

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Former First Lady Mamie Eisenhower left Brooke Army Hospital Monday night after a two-week stay. Her health was described as good.

The widow of Dwight D. Eisenhower entered the hospital Oct. 25 for a check-up and developed a bronchial inflammation while she was there.

Tom Matthews, a public affairs officer at Brooke, said Mrs. Eisenhower left the hospital after dark Monday and he believed she would remain in San Antonio at least overnight.

"Her general health is described as good," Matthews said. "The bronchial problem is all cleared up."

Mrs. Eisenhower interrupted a cross-country trip for the examination. She will be 75 next Sunday.

Nixon dissatisfied with water bill

KEY BISCAZYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon is dissatisfied with part of a tough water pollution control bill passed unanimously by the Senate and will urge the House to consider changes in it, the traveling White House said Monday.

"We think there should be public hearings in the House," Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen. "We are not satisfied with all aspects of the Senate bill."

But Ziegler dismissed as a "partisan charge" the suggestion the administration was less enthusiastic about cleaning up the environment than Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, the chief author of the Senate bill and the current frontrunner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Ziegler talked to newsmen as Nixon was winding up a relaxing weekend at his bayside villa on Key Biscayne. He planned to return to Washington later Monday.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, showing little change from morning levels, held slightly higher past mid-session Tuesday.

Traders generally appeared to be waiting for more details to be released concerning the mechanics of Phase Two of President Nixon's economic program. The Pay Board voted Monday to hold future pay increases to about 5.5 per cent and bar increases lost during the 90-day freeze which expires Nov. 13.

Other units—the Cost of Living Council and the Price Commission—are expected to announce their standards by the end of the week.

The Dow Jones industrial average was ahead about 3 points at 440.76, while Standard & Poor's 500 stock index added 0.39 to 94.78. Advances topped declines, 782 to 478, among the 4,572 issues on the tape.

Turnover at 1 p.m. amounted to 7,610,000 shares, up from 4,900,000 shares traded at a comparable period the previous session.

Among the day's most active stocks were Royal Dutch Petroleum up 1/4 on 191,200 shares, Computer Sciences also 1/4 higher on 147,300 shares, FMC Corp. down 1/4 on 104,600 shares, Boise Cascade up 1/4 on 95,500 shares, and General Motors off 1/4 on 86,300 shares.

DEAR ABBY: My sister is attractive, intelligent, has a good teaching job, but she's tired of the single life. She would like to find a good guy, get married and raise a family.

She's dated a lot since college, but still believes that sex is for married couples, and she's fed up with guys who expect her to hop in the hay after the second date. And she's also fed up with people asking her, "How come a nice girl like you isn't married?"

She loved one guy, but finally gave up because after three years, he couldn't decide whether he was ready for marriage or not.

Now there's someone else, but he's also playing it real cool. I've told my sister that if a guy really loves her it shouldn't take him a year and a half to know it, and she should tell him to either "shape up or ship out, as time's a wastin'."

Do you agree, Abby? BUCKEYE BROTHER

DEAR BROTHER: Not necessarily. If you want to help your sister, quit second-guessing the men in her life, and introduce her to some new prospects.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is in the service and we are stationed in Texas.

Yesterday we received a letter from my mother in law saying that her daughter, Terry, who has been engaged for some time has decided on a December wedding.

She also said that Terry had tried on MY wedding dress, which my mother in law had been keeping for me. The dress fit Terry perfectly, and she would like to wear it!

Abby, in the first place, what right did Terry have to try on my dress? Besides, I always thought a wedding dress should be kept for a daughter when she gets older, if she wants to wear it.

I've been married only one year and the same people who came to my wedding will be coming to Terry's. I don't want any hurt feelings, but I am against it. What do you think? MARRIED A YEAR

DEAR MARRIED: A wedding dress can be worn many times. So what if those attending Terry's wedding do recognize it as yours?

I think you don't care much for Terry, and, therefore, don't want her to wear your dress, which is your right. But I also think your selfishness is showing.

DEAR ABBY: When my daughter was married recently, I remembered your words of wisdom about Saturday afternoon weddings in churches where janitors were not able to clean up the rice and confetti before Sunday morning services. So, per your suggestion, I provided the guests with large packages of birdseed to throw at the newlyweds as they left the church.

My daughter and her husband drove to Canada for their honeymoon. They entered the country without incident. However, when they were coming back thru customs, the officer on duty noticed the birdseed on the floor of their car, and thinking it was marijuana, he made them remove everything from the car, and he searched them and their luggage thoroughly. Meanwhile, the honeymooners were delayed until the birdseed could be positively identified as birdseed.

Needless to say, the bride and groom were scared to death, detained and inconvenienced. Something to tell their grandchildren, maybe, but a harrowing experience at the time.

So, perhaps rice is better than birdseed if international boundaries are involved. T. E. IN WENATCHEE

DEAR T. E.: Thanks for the tip. And a 21-gun salute for the officer on duty for taking no chances.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90060. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

A Lovelier You

NO SUCH PANACEA FOR SKIN

There is no such thing as a panacea for troubled skin. Still we girls hopscotch from one remedy to another, trying to guess which one is suitable and then not using any product long enough to evaluate its effectiveness. And that's not all.

The young, in particular, fail to keep their skins pristine clean. Deep cleanliness, of course, is the first requisite of a lovely complexion. When cleansing does take place, methods are apt to be either slapdash or harsh. The face gets a perfunctory splash or a rough scouring. Either way, more harm than good is done. Not at all blameless, the mature contingent errs in making hit-or-miss appropriations of treatment products. A night-care cream, for instance, is used tonight and left on the shelf for a week. Small wonder it is rated poor. A true rating comes only with consistent application.

Almost all of us are apt to choose a product on the recommendation of a friend, instead of getting the advice of an expert. The needs of your skin and your friend's may be poles apart. Panacea, indeed!

Where your skin is concerned, you have to find out what's good and right for it. Then you must make faithful application. Four weeks is a reasonable testing period.

Andrus suggests several changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus suggested several changes Monday in proposed land and water use legislation, but said both are "significant pieces of legislation which could have immense effects upon future land planning use throughout the United States."

Andrus, appearing before the subcommittee on environment of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, said, "The time has come when the federal government must establish a set of minimum standards concerning land use with which all states must comply."

He said for many years the concept of land usage has been one of "taking maximum advantage of our land resources while failing to be concerned over the possible effect of negligence in attaining this maximum usage."

"The result has been that while we have made rapid advancements in developing our nation's land, we have sadly neglected to consider the effects this development might have on the use of these same resources by future generations."

Andrus testified on the Land and Water Resources Planning Act and the National Land Use Policy Act of 1971 as Idaho's governor, as a representative of the National Governor's Conference and as a representative of the Federation of Rocky Mountain States, Inc.

Speaking as governor, Andrus objected to the proposed requirement of river basin commissions as the regional area planning organizations.

"In a state such as Idaho which finds itself located in portions of two different river basins, planning on a statewide basis becomes doubly complicated and difficult to institute," Andrus said.

He also asked for provisions to allow the states — rather than local or county levels — to enforce and control the land use programs.

He asked that states be given authority to set individual state standards at a higher level than those imposed by the federal government.

Andrus also asked for an avenue of appeal from decisions made by the secretary of interior. And suggested that provisions be made for holding public hearings in the affected area of each state, noting that too often hearings are held in large population centers.

He told the committee he is opposed to any potential regulation which would require a state to negotiate with another state which might have potential projects which could be detrimental to the better interests of the original state involved.

Rupert volunteer receives citation

RUPERT — Ronald J. Gerleman, Rupert, was presented a certificate of appreciation for meritorious service for accomplishments in volunteer probationary work, by Floyd Higen, state probation and parole officer, Burley.

The award was the first of its kind made in Idaho since the state began a "volunteer" program over a year ago, in an effort to better achieve rehabilitation goals within the state and relieve some of the load from heavily burdened parole officers throughout the state. The certificate read in part: "For time and effort spent in voluntary service to the Idaho State Probation and Parole Department, through counseling, supervision, and services so generously given in dedication toward rehabilitation and assistance for those in need of such services and the professional attitude expressed through the actions Gerleman has displayed, are indigenous to the high ideals maintained by the community, society and the individuals for which such services were performed."

Fifth District Judge Sherman Bellwood also was present during the presentation to Gerleman.

1972 returns up 6 per cent

BOISE (UPI) — Tax returns thus far in fiscal 1972 have increased about 6 per cent over the same period in fiscal 1971, but Idaho's state budget director said Monday it is still too early to make any long-range projections.

C. E. "Skip" Chilberg said it is still too soon to tell what effect the federal economic policies will have on returns to the state's coffers.

In the first four months of the current fiscal year — July through October — all taxes collected total $55.2 million, or about 6 per cent more than the $47.4 million in the first four months of fiscal year 1971 once adjustments have been made for variations in the withholding tax.

The return to the state's General Fund thus far has been $32.8 million. Chilberg noted the state's present General Fund budget is based on an income of $125.3 million to the fund, but said it will be May or June — after April income taxes are received — before it will be known for certain whether the income will meet the

Bright charged in suit

BOISE (UPI) — One of nine persons arrested at the Rodeway Inn here Aug. 20 filed suit in Fourth District Court Monday asking for $1,000 compensatory damages and $25,000 punitive damages from Ada County Sheriff Paul Bright.

Thomas F. Derrick, Boise, filed the suit against Bright and his surety company, Western Surety Co., a South Dakota corporation, after putting up $5,000 bond required under the Idaho Code as a condition precedent to filing a lawsuit.

Acting under another section of the Idaho Code, Ada County Coroner E. D. Paris was required to serve Bright with the papers. The suit seeks compensatory damages, punitive damages, costs incurred and reasonable attorney fees.

The suit alleges that on Aug. 20 in the general area of the parking lot at the Rodeway Inn Sheriff Bright "did then and there commit an intentional violent, malicious, unlawful and brutal assault and battery" upon Derrick by "striking and beating plaintiff's face with his fist, which blow was struck without warning."

The suit alleged Derrick was knocked unconscious, fell to the pavement, suffered an aggravation of a previous whiplash injury and suffered bruises on his face where the blow was struck.

anticipated total.

He said, however, a five-man revenue projection committee, chosen for expertise in economic forecasting, should report by December on the outlook for the state.

If necessary, he said, spending allotments for state agencies could be cut back if it appears the state will not collect anticipated income, but said it will be at least next January before any decision are made.

The figures released by the State Tax commission included: — A $119,367 increase in individual income tax collections in the first four months of the current fiscal year; — About a 12.5 per cent increase in withholding tax gross collections, an amount adjusted to reflect an earlier deadline for payment this year;

— A decrease of $909,865 in the corporate income tax gross collections which Chilberg said was not significant;

— An 11.5 per cent increase in sales tax collections from $12.2 million to $12.7 million, but down slightly from the earlier increases of around 12 per cent. Chilberg said there was a "leveling off" possibly due to uncertainty over economic policies;

— Increases in the cigarette, beer and inheritance taxes, with a brand new collection of $151,847 on the retail wines;

— And, an increase of 6.1 per cent in motor fuel tax collections.

Searchers find young hunter

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Searchers found a youthful Idaho hunter late Monday morning who became lost Saturday afternoon in the Salmon National Forest near Indian Peak.

Gary Jorgensen, 15, Idaho Falls, was located on Butcher Knife Ridge about six miles from the place on Indian Peak Road where he was supposed to have met his hunting companions Saturday.

Jorgensen was reported to be in good condition. He had built fires during the two nights he was missing. He was found by Idaho Fish and Game Warden Harold Carrol of the district near Salmon.

Carrol reportedly located Jorgensen's position by firing gunshots in the air. Jorgensen answered with his own gunshots. Some 30 persons including Fish and Game personnel, Forest Service employees and volunteers from Idaho Falls were involved in the search which began Sunday.

It was thought that Jorgensen might wander into Montana, but he was finally located in Idaho.

Two Idaho women beaten

NOTUS, Idaho (UPI) — Two Notus women, a mother and daughter, were beaten in their home Monday afternoon allegedly by a New Plymouth man who was arrested by Cahoon County authorities.

Canyon County Sheriff Dale Haile said the victims were identified as Mrs. Hattie Sanders, 69, and Mrs. Estellene Hardcastle, 40.

The older woman was reported in fair condition at Caldwell Memorial Hospital with multiple lacerations of the head and hands. Mrs. Hardcastle was treated for lacerations and released from the hospital.

Sheriff Haile said his office received a call shortly after noon from a neighbor who lived near Mrs. Hardcastle's home. Mrs. Sanders lived there with her daughter, and son-in-law, who was away at work at the time of the incident.

He said from details related by the two women that Mrs. Hardcastle was asleep in a back bedroom when her mother was attacked with a blunt instrument allegedly leveled by Gary Adamson, about 20, of New Plymouth.

Haile signed a complaint before third District Court Judge Milton Birnbaum charging Adamson with aggravated assault and battery.

He said the young man would appear Tuesday before a magistrate where bond would be set along with a date for a preliminary hearing.

Haile, who said he believed Adamson was an acquaintance of the Hardcastle family, noted the incident was "unexplainable." He said an investigation would continue into the case.

four no-trump would surely be above average. South wasn't interested. He wanted a top and decided to lead the jack of spades right back.

He did just that. West took his ace and South had some anxious moments while West huddled over his next play. Finally, West led a third spade. This gave South an extra trick in spades and he promptly ran off his seven clubs and dummy's two hearts for his top score.

Was it well deserved? No, but who are we to quarrel with success. West might have plunked down his king of diamonds because when both sides play the same suit one is wrong.

SOMETIME after twin beds were invented by that fellow named Sheraton in England, a London crusade against the double bed broke out. Chief spokesman for same was one Dr. James Graham. His standard bitter speech on the matter started out like this: "Gentlemen, there is not, in my opinion, anything in nature which has more immediately calculated to subvert health, strength, love, esteem and indeed everything that is desirable in a married state than that odious, most indelicate, most hurtful custom of man and wife continually pigging together in one and the same bed." Dr. Graham's following was not notable for its size.

BEAR IN MIND, Ohio also was the birthplace of the door-to-door survey relied upon so heavily now by the politicians to predict the outcomes of elections. Originally, however, it was called "the straw vote," a phrase coined almost 100 years ago by that governor most colorfully called Calico Charlie Foster.

Overtricks mean little in rubber bridge. Twenty or 30 points don't amount to much compared to the value of game or slam.

In duplicate an overtrick may be just as valuable as the contract trick and is always worth a match-point or two.

In today's hand South found himself in a comfortable three no trump contract. East played his queen of spades at trick one and South was in with the king. He could cash out seven clubs and two hearts for one overtrick if he so desired. Everyone was not going to arrive at three no trump and the score for making
