

Rehnquist 'harassed' black voters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sworn affidavits that William H. Rehnquist harassed black voters in the 1964 election sparked new demands today that the Senate Judiciary Committee further investigate his fitness to serve on the Supreme Court.

Rehnquist had denied any such harassment in direct testimony to the committee last week. He said he never served as a challenger — only as an arbiter — in settling election day disputes. And the Justice Department Monday said the renewed charges were false.

The charges that Rehnquist interfered with voting in two predominantly black precincts of Phoenix, Ariz., in 1964 were made by Clarence Mitchell, Washington representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Mitchell told the committee last week he had no documentary proof, because witnesses were reluctant to risk economic retaliation if they came forward.

But Monday he turned over to Sen. Birch D. Bayh, D-Ind., affidavits from a deputized Democratic Party challenger and a precinct committeeman, both Negroes, that they saw Rehnquist harass voters at Bethune School Precinct.

Jordan Harris swore that Rehnquist was a challenger for the Republican Party.

"I met with Rehnquist because I noticed him harassing unnecessarily several people at the polls who were attempting to vote. He was attempting to make them recite portions of the Constitution, and refused to let them vote until they were able to comply with his requests," Harris' affidavit said.

The affidavit listed those harassed as "Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Miller."

"These are very serious accusations," Bayh said in an interview. "I'd like to get to the bottom of them. They are serious enough that we certainly should look into them."

Safety zone set for kids

TWIN FALLS — A 1,000-foot "safety zone" along Harrison Street between Harrison Grade School and Falls Avenue gained reluctant approval of the Twin Falls City Council Monday night.

This was one of several recommendations submitted by the city's advisory Highway and Traffic Safety Commission. The commission suggested a safety zone marking be painted along one side of the street to give grade school pedestrian traffic as much protection as possible.

Mayor Frank Feldtman and Councilman Winston Jones questioned the wisdom of such a zone, indicating it might create a false sense of protection.

Councilman Ostyn said children are forced to walk along the roadway with no protection now and certainly would be no worse off with whatever protection the safety zone would give.

He said new housing developments north of Falls Avenue have resulted in many small children walking to Harrison Elementary School without benefit of sidewalks between Falls Avenue and the school.

It was suggested the Twin Falls Highway District be asked for approval before the walk is marked, since the road is partly outside of the city limits.

Several other recommended cross walk markings at intersections where school children walk were approved by the council. City Manager Jean Milar said the recommendations were based on a request from the Harrison School PTA following a PTA study of the problem at Harrison School.

City Engineer George Michaels said today the Harrison street safety zone would be five-foot wide painted with cross-hatch marks. The zone, on the east side of the street, would stretch over 1,000 feet from the city limit to Caswell.

College tax cut gets nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has voted to give tax relief to the parents of college students — a politically hard-to-resist tax cut which has cleared the Senate in the past only to die at the last step before enactment.

Ironically it adopted that form of tax relief for the middle class by a 66 to 27 vote Monday only a few minutes after — by a 56 to 26 vote — rejecting proposed tax relief for people who live at or below the poverty line.

The rejected proposal would have reimbursed poor people with a check from the Treasury for what they pay in sales taxes on food and for that portion of their rent which represents property tax on their homes.

Both plans were offered by Sen. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina, who is believed to have Democratic vice presidential ambitions for 1972.

The reimbursement plan would have cost the government $1.7 billion in lost tax revenue. The plan to reimburse parents for part of their tuition expenses would cost the government $2.2 billion in revenue.

It would permit parents whose income is up to $25,000 a year to subtract from taxes owed the government $325 for each dependent child they send to college or trade school.

SV to annex new development area

SUN VALLEY — Sun Valley City councilmen Monday voiced approval of the annexation of 400 acres scheduled to become part of a giant recreational development.

The councilmen unanimously voted to support the proposed annexation of the tract and directed City Atty. Thomas Nelson to prepare the annexation ordinance for future consideration.

The 400-acre tract is owned by Elkhorn, Inc., a joint venture development project of subsidiaries of the Johns-Manville Corp. and Sun Valley, Co., Inc.

E. James Murar, president of Recreations Inc. of Newport Beach, Calif., represented Elkhorn and requested the annexation. Earlier, he told the Times-News that the land lay outside the city limits and would have to be annexed to secure utilities and services.

Red China grin becomes tirade

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The honeymoon is over. It lasted four days.

Communist China's smiling deputy foreign minister, Chiao Kuan-hua, took off his glasses, wiped away his grin and leveled a 30-minute attack on the United States and the Soviet Union Monday in his first speech in the United Nations.

Chiao may have a chance to follow through with China's first U.N. vote today. The General Assembly is expected to take up a resolution asking the United States to abandon plans to purchase chrome from Rhodesia.

Congress has approved the plan despite a U.N. embargo against Rhodesia. The embargo was levied when the country unilaterally declared independence from Britain to maintain rule by its white minority.

A Soviet proposal for a world disarmament conference is also expected to come before the Assembly later in the day. Communist China submitted its own proposal before it was voted into the U.N.

Chiao and 45 other members of China's official delegation arrived in New York Thursday to claim the seat they had been seeking for 22 years.

Chiao proclaimed friendship between the people of China and the people of the United States in his official statement delivered through an interpreter at Kennedy international airport.

He later hinted Communist China would take a wait and see position in the U.N. and would not make any immediate major policy moves.

In his 2,600-word acceptance speech, delivered in Chinese, Chiao:

—Criticized U.S. policy that fought not only to admit Communist China to the U.N. but maintain the seat held by Nationalist China;

—Called on the United States to pull out of Indochina, Taiwan and Korea;

—Told developing nations revolution is "the irresistible trend of history ... countries want independence ... nations want liberation and the people want revolution;"

—Took the Arab side in the Mideast crisis;

—Criticized United States and Russian disarmament policies. Chiao also said the United States and Russia should commit themselves not to be the first to use nuclear weapons if they truly want disarmament. "At no time and under no circumstances will China be the first to use nuclear weapons," he said.

He also said Communist China was determined to bring the 14 million people of Nationalist China under its domination.

Jet attacks N. Viet site

SAIGON (UPI) — An American F4 Phantom jet fighter-bomber crossed into North Vietnam today to attack a Communist anti-aircraft battery which had fired at the U.S. plane as it was carrying out a raid on a truck convoy on the Ho Chi Minh Trail in nearby Laos.

As the U.S. command reported the new attack inside North Vietnam, it also said three American GIs were killed and four injured Monday in accidents. Two U.S. troops were killed in stepping on a mine near Hue and the third death and four injuries were in a road accident 40 miles east of Saigon.

Pay board wavers on back pay stand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three months of back pay for the nation's 2.2 million teachers, and perhaps others as well, hung in the balance today as the Pay Board prepared to consider possible revisions of its stand against retroactive wage increases.

The board called an afternoon meeting at which the retroactive pay question was reportedly a major item of business, although its basic position in the matter was not expected to change.

Pay Board chairman George H. Boldt was on record as saying that the board's original ruling against paying raises that would have come had the freeze not been in effect would not be reconsidered. But he said there would be discussion of matters incidental to or connected with the issue — including back raises for school teachers, many of whom were paid at last term's wages during the freeze.

The Cost of Living Council meanwhile reversed an earlier ruling which had granted an exemption for some firms which want to raise prices. The earlier position had been that companies faced with a wage raise between Nov. 14 and Jan. 1 could raise their prices without notifying the government in advance.

But the council changed that stand Monday, saying that any of the nation's 1,300 largest firms in that position now will have to tell the Price Commission of plans to raise their prices. If the commission does not object the price rises will go into effect 72 hours later — still much faster than the 30-day period generally required of all companies with annual sales of $100 million or more who want to raise their prices.

Trucker charged in fatal wreck

RUPERT — An involuntary manslaughter charge has been filed in Minidoka County against a Twin Falls trucker as a result of a fatal traffic accident Nov. 9.

Charged in the complaint filed Monday is Ray Leonard Wells, 50, Twin Falls. State police reported Wells had stopped his tractor-trailer rig on Interstate Highway 80N to assist a motorist whose vehicle had run out of gasoline.

Harold Hanson, 22, Wendell, driving a truck loaded with eggs, died when his truck crashed into the rear of the parked vehicle.

Don Chisholm, Minidoka County prosecuting attorney, said Wells is charged with gross negligence in leaving his vehicle parked in the travel portion of the highway.

He will appear before Magistrate Court Judge LeRoy Blacker, Rupert, to answer to the charge.

Robbers get $200 at motel

JEROME — Police searched today for men who held an elderly woman at knife-point while robbing a motel of about $200 in cash.

C. H. Puntney, Jerome chief of police, said two men entered Towle's Motel about 12:04 a.m. and held a knife at the chest of Mrs. Norma Towle while they took the cash, including a $50 bill. Mrs. Towle, who is in her late 80's, said the men told her not to call the police for 10 minutes or they would return and kill her. She said she followed their instructions.

Roadblocks were set up in the area after Mrs. Towle called officers.

Chief Puntney said one of the robbers was red-haired and the other had long blonde hair. Both were in their 20's, he said, and three men picked up in the roadblock in no way match the descriptions of the robbers.

Burley prostitution license?

By DAVID ESPINO
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — The Burley City Council decided Monday night to investigate city licensing procedures before granting new permits for card tables and taxi cab drivers for 1972.

The decision sparked a brief discussion of alleged prostitution in the city.

The decision, taken in the absence of a formal council motion, came following Police Chief Kenneth Barry's claim that "we ought to do away with the card table license because everyone seems to agree by licensing card tables we are in effect condoning gambling."

Barry added, "we've had a little trouble in one place," which he did not identify by name.

Several councilmen agreed with Barry that the licensing should be reviewed but at the same time drew a distinction between what one called "a friendly game of pinochle," and playing for money.

Mayor Garis Robertson also called for the establishment of minimum standards for licensed taxi cab drivers, saying "the man shouldn't have a record, he shouldn't be an habitual drunkard and he should not be in trouble with federal or state authorities in any way."

The licensing discussion drew fire from Councilman Sylvan Burgi. "What about licensing houses of prostitution," Burgi said. "If you're going to clean house, clean it good. If you can prove you've got gambling," he said, "you can't do it so many times, I'm sick of it."

Robertson responded to Burgi, "I'm all for it, but I can't figure out how to do it. I don't know. I can't prove it," Burgi's reply was, "There's too much smoke not to be fire."

US shale firm called harmful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government corporation approach to getting oil from shale would "short-circuit" private enterprise and "fragment" the search for new energy, an assistant secretary of interior said Monday.

Washington, D.C., said the "The Moss" bill would tend to short-circuit the development by private enterprise, Dole said. "It would put primary responsibility on the federal government. It ... would further fragment efforts to develop adequate amounts of new energy supplies and would be incompatible with the philosophy of the President's proposed reorganization of the federal government."

Chamber honors Senator Jordan

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Chamber of Commerce honored retiring Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, Monday as its "Distinguished Citizen of Idaho" at the close of its 45th All-Idaho Congress here.

Andrus said the former publisher praises efforts by industry to clean up the environment, and "calls on industry to start fighting back...to face the enemy and recognize that the time for surrender and accommodation is past."

That program has the following schedule: evaluated suggested drilling sites from January to April 1972; hold hearings April - July; file environmental reports until August; complete resource evaluation until December, and then begin sale of lease.

Employees charge state

BOISE (UPI) — Twenty-five personnel at the State Youth Training Center have brought a complaint against the state which could cost the taxpayers more than $400,000 if the complainants win their case.

"Should the petitioners prevail in their demands, the contingent costs to the state of Idaho could exceed $400,000," Legislative Auditor James A. Deffenbach advised the Budget and Fiscal Committee.

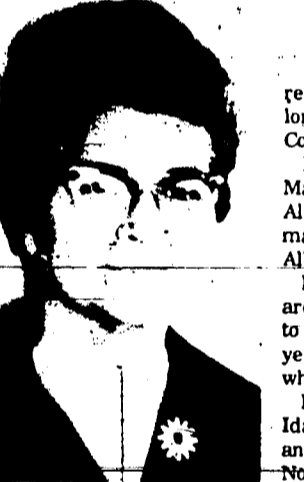

Assistant Attorney General James Hargis said the action still is pending before the Personnel Commission.

Power plant mercury said insignificant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., said Monday mercury spewed into the air from the Four Corners, N.M., power plant is in "significant quantities," but not an immediate danger to human health.

Anderson said the EPA report said: "About 96 per cent of the mercury that enters the plant—near the Four Corners area where New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona and Utah join—is emitted as mercury vapor from the stacks. The coal the plant uses contains mercury."

Student impact stressed

TWIN FALLS — American students, ages 18 through 21, can have a significant impact upon state and national government "if they realize the tremendous power given them, according to Atty. Gen. Anthony Park.

Park told delegates to the Idaho Association of Student Councils convention in Twin Falls Monday that students must be able to "act meaningfully" on the political power they have with granting of the right to vote.

By acting together, by working "in concert," Park said, they can succeed. "As a politician, let me assure you that those who act in concert are those who achieve results," the state's chief legal officer said.

Park also told about 150 delegates to the convention that many courts are beginning to "take a long, hard look" at the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution — the "amendment which guarantees to all citizens of the states the same rights and privileges which the Bill of Rights affords."

Many courts are shying in effect that schools operated under state funding and state control must afford their students the privileges of the 14th Amendment, including right of assembly, right of free speech and others.

However, Park cautioned, the courts are placing an important limitation on this — the school's educational goals and purposes must come first. If a regulation imposed by a school on its students can bear a "meaningful correlation" to the educational principles of the school, then the regulation will withstand a court test. However, if the regulation, be it dress code, conduct code or other rule, lacks the "meaningful correlation to the educational process," Park said, then it is unconstitutional and cannot be enforced.

"The classic case is the hair case in Pocatello," Park said, in which a student challenged the school's right to control hair length. On appeal to the Idaho Supreme Court, it was found that the school's dress code had no real relationship to the "educational process," and the precedent-setting decision overturning all school dress codes was issued.

However, Park said, "there are no universal holdings by all courts." Some courts are still holding that "students have no rights under the law." Thus, each case would have to be decided on its own merits and with the mood of a specific court.

Students should have a role in determining a school-imposed code of conduct, however, Park said.

"If we agree, and I think we all do, that a student code of conduct is a good idea, then I think we have to agree that the students should have a meaningful role in its formulation," the attorney general said. "I don't think that a code of conduct for any group — be it student or any other element of our society — should be passed arbitrarily without some input from the people who are going to be governed under its provisions."

Students questioned Park at length following his presentation on various points of school law, including whether school districts have the right to ban married students from school activities, whether school authorities have the right to search students' lockers without permission and if a school district can halt all athletic activities for a school year as punishment of several students.

Park referred the question on banning students from activities because of marital status to his earlier comment that if a court test were brought, the court would most probably determine whether the regulation in question bore a clear relationship to the educational process of the school. If the marital status of the students interfered with the educational process, then a regulation could be enforced; if there were no interference or no direct relationship, then a question of enforcement could arise.

As to whether school authorities can legally search students' lockers without a search warrant or other legal justification, Park said the question arises frequently when he is conferring with students.

Though the Constitution forbids "arbitrary searches and seizures," a school setting provides a different picture, Park said, in that people are thrown together in a closer setting than in society in general.

The reason for a search would be important, Park said. If the purpose of the search were to "seize contraband, for example marijuana or drugs or to obtain evidence in a criminal proceeding against the student," and no search warrant had been issued or the officer, whether police or school official, did not have "reasonable cause" to search a locker, then the search could be "clearly unconstitutional," Park said. "That locker could be construed to be the private property of that student."

However, if the search could be clearly related to "some educational goal of the institution," then it must be allowed. Again, Park emphasized, each case would be an individual case with specifics that could change the picture.

City Council adopts new airport ordinance

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES, Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — An ordinance setting speed limits and regulating parking at the Twin Falls City-County Airport was adopted by the City Council Monday evening.

Provisions of the ordinance call for placing meters on some public parking spaces.

Voting under suspension of the rules, the council passed the ordinance on one reading. Only Councilman Eugene Stacey voted against the regulation. City Manager Jean Milar presented the proposal, which he said has been under study by the Twin Falls Airport Commission for nearly three years. It has been presented to county commissioners for review.

It is designed to better utilize parking facilities and control traffic through speed limits and routing, he said. Traffic will travel at a speed limit of 15 miles per hour inside the airport area and 35 miles per hour on entrance and exit routes.

Parking meters, which the city has on hand, will be installed on the spaces nearest the terminal building. Special areas are designated for employe and leasee parking.

Council members discussed and tabled for a later vote, the proposed new mobile home court ordinance. Ross Ward, represented by Lloyd Webb, attorney, met with the council to discuss the proposed regulations. Ward plans a new mobile home park on his property on Martin Street and Filer Avenue West. It is partly inside and partly outside the city.

He said he feels most of the regulations are good, but objected to a 25 foot setback for all boundaries of the proposed park plus a screening fence or hedge.

Ward said he proposed the 25-foot setback on the street sides of the property but felt 10 feet would be adequate on the inside boundaries. The 25 feet would waste considerable land and would pose a maintenance problem for the park, he said.

Storage requirements of 200 feet of space which could be locked were also questioned. Ward said he contemplated car port type enclosures for such items as boats or extra vehicles for tenants with smaller enclosed building storage.

Council members indicated they may vote on the proposed ordinance at the first meeting in December.

Mayor Frank Feldtman named Councilman Winston Jones temporary chairman of a committee to meet with members of the Twin Falls Fire Fighters Assn. to negotiate wage and working condition matters for 1972. Other members of the committee are Councilman Paul Ostyn and Councilman-elect Michael Gray.

The committee will meet in a few days to plan for a negotiation session, Mayor Feldtman said.

In other action, the council voted to change the name of

All Street, which connects with Falls Avenue. It will be named Russett Street. Although listed on the city agenda as Russett Street, the council voted to use the conventional spelling.

An ordinance was adopted governing pick up and storage of impounded vehicles. Fees for redeeming such vehicles will be minimum of $3 plus $1 per day storage time.

W. W. Frantz was reappointed to the Twin Falls Housing Board Authority. He has completed the unexpired term of Bill Grange.

Approval was voted the Golden View Subdivision No. 3 in the northwest part of the city, contingent upon its meeting all requirements of city regulations. Bible Week will be observed in Twin Falls beginning Nov. 21.

Vehicle purchase receives vote

TWIN FALLS — City Council members voted to purchase five vehicles, negotiate for the purchase of two others and reject the bid for "another Monday night."

The action followed review of the Friday bid opening for automobiles for several city departments and for a television camera and monitor unit for the police department. Three bids were received for the television equipment with the low bid of $2,132 from Schwendman Distributing Co., Idaho Falls, accepted by the council.

The council also purchased a half-ton pickup truck for the homicide officer for $2,172.26 from Bob Reese Motors, Twin Falls; a half-ton pickup for the water department from Bob Reese Motors, $2,528.21; a half-ton pickup for the parks department from Bill Workman Ford, Twin Falls, $2,510; a half-ton pickup for the golf course, Bob Reese, $2,292, and a half-ton pickup for the airport manager from Bill Workman Ford, $2,670.

A bid for a sedan for the fire department was rejected. The low bid was $2,671 from Bill Workman Ford, but the city has budgeted only $2,000. All bids included trade-in vehicles. City Manager Jean Milar said.

Chief of Police Frank Barnett was authorized to negotiate for the purchase of two new police sedans. No bids were received on these vehicles.

Another bid for a 10 cubic yard capacity dump truck, submitted on a lease-purchase basis, was approved in a split vote. The unit will be purchased from United Oil, low of three bidding firms. A five-year lease would amount to $18,775, with cash purchase as of Jan. 1 at $21,775 and a contract for purchase at the end of any year with the cash amount reduced accordingly. Councilman Paul Ostyn said he questioned whether the city needs a dump truck of this size if at some future date policy is changed on city construction of new streets. Milar said it can haul twice the amount of gravel of present vehicles and with gravel supplies moving further away from the city, it will pay for itself in a few years.

Milar said a maintenance program would have to continue even though new street work was placed under contract in all instances. Maintenance, he said, includes seal-coating and patching with sizable amounts of gravel required.

First year lease costs would be $4,000, Milar said, and the city has $6,000 in the budget for this item. Ostyn voted against the purchase.

CSI trustees mull addition of staff executive assistant

By LEE TREMAINE, Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — Is the College of Southern Idaho large enough to add an executive assistant or vice president to the administrative staff?

This question, involving a possible assistant to President James L. Taylor, occupied the CSI board of trustees at length during the regular monthly board meeting Monday.

No solution was reached, but trustees told Dr. Taylor he should continue to investigate the possibility of adding an assistant.

Board members voiced concern over the fate of the CSI educational program if accident or illness should deprive the college of the leadership of Dr. Taylor, admittedly the driving force behind the rapid growth of the six-year-old junior college.

To the question "Who is in charge when you're out of town?" Dr. Taylor explained that each department head is nominally in charge of his own department at all times, and this will continue. He said the CSI academic dean, Dr. Terry Smith, would be senior in rank among department heads; but admitted no single person could take over as president of the college.

Trustees also debated what specific tasks an executive assistant could take over from Dr. Taylor without depriving the CSI president of his close control of college affairs. No decision could be reached at the time, and the board agreed to continue studying the proposal.

In other CSI-board business, the resignation of college electrician Gus Flowers was accepted. Flowers has taken a position with the new Tupperware plant near Jerome at a substantial advance in salary, Dr. Taylor said.

Dr. Taylor told the board that the Idaho Permanent Building Fund Advisory Council, which recommends construction projects to be completed under the Permanent Building Fund of the State of Idaho, has failed to include any of the CSI building program in its fiscal year 1973 recommendations.

The advisory council has released a list of $4.5 million in construction for the year, most in the Boise area, ranging from $1.5 million in new construction at the new Idaho Penitentiary to $80,000 for paved parking lots at 18 National Guard armories throughout the state.

Dr. Taylor said he felt that he and the CSI trustees should meet with Magic Valley legislators to explain the needs of the college and gain approval of funds to complete vocational and other building projects. He said he had conferred with the Idaho Board of Education in July, asking for 50 per cent state funding, but has received no assurance this would be done.

"This needs to be written into the law," Dr. Taylor commented.

Dr. Taylor also noted that a recent report that CSI was included in a list of state building priorities was erroneous. A secretary in preparing a report jumped all state-supported educational institutions into one list and others, including CSI, which receive a lesser amount of state support, into a second list. The publication of the list made it appear that CSI came just below the state institutions in priorities, when in fact no such ruling has been made, Dr. Taylor said.

The trustees agreed to sponsor a banquet for legislators from the eight Magic Valley counties, authorizing Dr. Taylor to extend the invitations and select the time and place. Several locations were suggested, including a Jerome restaurant, suggested by board chairman Dr. John N. Garrabrandt; and a meeting site in Cassia or Minidoka County, suggested as a more central location for legislators of that area.

In his report to the trustees, Dr. Taylor said the new vote-tee building is now about 68 per cent complete in 62 per cent of the contract time.

Students adopt bill of rights

TWIN FALLS — The "new role for youth" has crystallized into a unique bill of rights for students, in a resolution adopted Monday by delegates to the Idaho Association of Student Councils convention in Twin Falls.

Larrey Anderson, IASC president and Twin Falls High School student body president, drafted the resolution. He said the delegates will seek a general outline of the rights and responsibilities of students in Idaho secondary schools.

Anderson said the bill of rights should be "unbiased," based on a number of relevant sources, including Supreme Court interpretations, voter registration, draft laws, attendance and truancy regulations and similar "adult" rulings.

The students heard several speakers Monday morning, including Idaho Atty. Gen. Anthony Park, outline the impact of the 18-year-old voting law and recent court decisions on the responsibilities and the rights of those under 21 years of age.

The students questioned Park closely on state interpretations of youth rights, asking why those under 18 are not allowed jury trials as adults, when a judge can decide to try a youth as an adult and similar questions.

Park pointed out that jury trials are not allowed children because the adversary nature of a jury trial would not be suitable for children. In effect, the law holds that a child cannot, because of his age, commit a felony, Park said.

Monday afternoon, Anderson in introducing the resolution, said the document would be written in such a way as to allow local interpretations by local administrators, in order to meet specific conditions in each area.

Still hospitalized

TWIN FALLS — A Utah motorist and his wife remain hospitalized at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, after suffering injuries in an accident Saturday night just west of the U. S. 93 interchange on Interstate 80.

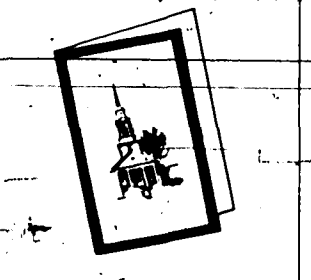

State Patrolman Everett Waddell said the 1967 pickup truck driven by Jack Towt, 52, Ephraim, Utah, was traveling east on the interstate when it went out of control and rolled into the median as the driver attempted to avoid colliding with a camper trailer being towed just ahead of him. The driver's wife, Twyla Towt, 44, suffered chest injuries and is listed in good condition.

Towt was treated for cuts and bruises and is listed in good condition.

Officer Waddell said the camper trailer, which had no lights, was being towed by a vehicle driven by Lareen Schofield, 16, Burley, and was in the process of turning from the interstate onto an emergency cross-over to head back into the west bound lane.

The Bottle (Neck)

Six or eight or 10 communities across the nation have adopted ordinances banning no-deposit, no-return containers.

Comes now none other than the head of the federal Environmental Protection Agency saying that this isn't the way to go.

All that restrictions on disposable containers will accomplish, warns William D. Ruckelshaus, is to make the problem worse.

returnable and nonreturnable alike.

And since returnable bottles have to be made of heavier glass to stand up to repeated usage, "You're just adding a heavier package to the environment," he says.

Why not set the deposit high enough to make it too expensive to throw away containers?

That's another problem, says Ruckelshaus.

In a test in California in which a deposit of 11 cents was placed on bottles, counterfeiters began making their own bottles and turning them in for a profit at collection centers.

Good Diet

The medical affliction responsible for the most deaths in the United States today is coronary heart disease.

Experts say that heart disease is epidemic in our country, and they link it closely with another problem of epidemic proportion — obesity.

If these preliminary studies are borne out by further studies it will be another in what may someday prove to be a long series of links between the nation's two top killers.

Other associations between causes of cancer and heart disease have already received a lot of publicity.

Cigarette smoking has been statistically tied to both lung cancer and coronary heart disease.

Emotional stress, long thought to be a factor in heart disease, has also been mentioned, by some scientists, as a possible factor in certain forms of cancer in some patients.

There has been much research into the relationship of obesity, fat intake and other nutritional factors to heart disease. Experts in the field generally agree there is an optimal state of nutritional health to most successfully avoid coronary heart disease.

Now the possible relationship between nutrition and cancer is receiving a great deal of attention by scientists.

At the recent annual meeting of the American College of Surgeons in Atlantic City, Dr. Robert Good, a University of Minnesota physician-researcher, said that he had been able to induce resistance to certain blood and breast cancers in rodents

"by just reducing the amounts of protein in the diet."

Good warned strongly, however, that too drastic a protein reduction can have just the opposite effect — an increased susceptibility to cancer in the laboratory animals.

Proteins, responsible for rebuilding destroyed and damaged cells and tissues in the body, are needed in greater quantity by individuals who are not yet physically mature.

Earlier this year Good reported in Nature, a British science journal, that malnourished rodents had an easier time destroying cancer cells in their bodies than did normally fed animals.

Similar research by Dr. Roy Walford at the University of California School of Medicine showed that rodents fed a diet of one-third the normal number of calories lived longer and developed 10 to 60 per cent fewer cancers than the better fed animals.

Walford suggested, based upon his work, that man should eat considerably less than he does now, provided that he maintained the proper intake of vitamins and minerals.

Such studies point up the importance of increasing nutrition study for medical students — it is now scanty or nonexistent — as well as the funding of ongoing research programs.

The notion that man must eat right to keep healthy is not a new one. But it seems that around every new corner the public is finding out how little science really knows about what man should eat.

The Dump

Auctioneers long ago discovered that one man's junk is another person's treasure. Other people have been making the same discovery, as witness the growth in popularity of neighborhood garage sales. Popularity in Magic Valley is no exception.

These sales, for the benefit of those who have not yet been involved, are little more than gatherings of neighbors who each contribute unwanted possessions. They place nominal price tags on the items and invite the rest of the neighborhood over for browsing and refreshments.

The results frequently are nothing short of amazing. Items which cluttered one householder's basement for years become prime, decorative objects in another home.

Everything — regardless of how battered, old or obsolete — has a use, it seems, and there is no better place than a sale of this kind to bring out the imaginative genius of the participants.

Which brings us to a suggestion which is made facetiously, but may be closer to the truth than we realize. Why not hold a community-wide garage sale once a year, or perhaps twice, as at least a partial solution to the growing disposal problem?

Instead of unwanted items eventually going into the trash for disposal in overcrowded landfills, giving others a chance to pick through them will keep most of the items out of the dump for at least a while longer. Some of the objects actually may be returned to some point of usefulness.

Recirculating rubbish may only postpone the day of reckoning, but at least some of it will be elevated to the status of permanent junk. Some people have been known to furnish complete apartments from such discards. They even claim there is a certain aesthetic detachment to the whole effect.

TOKYO (NEA) — Japan's concern over the economic leaders may be angry over the plight we are in. "Nixon shocks," but they know they need a solid, healthy United States. And some officials show an almost fatherly American people collapsing. It makes us very sad." He quickly added he has great faith a serious, enduring economic collapse will not occur — that America has too much basic strength and capability.

The view that America is still unshakably strong has an unhappy side, however, in the minds of some influential Japanese.

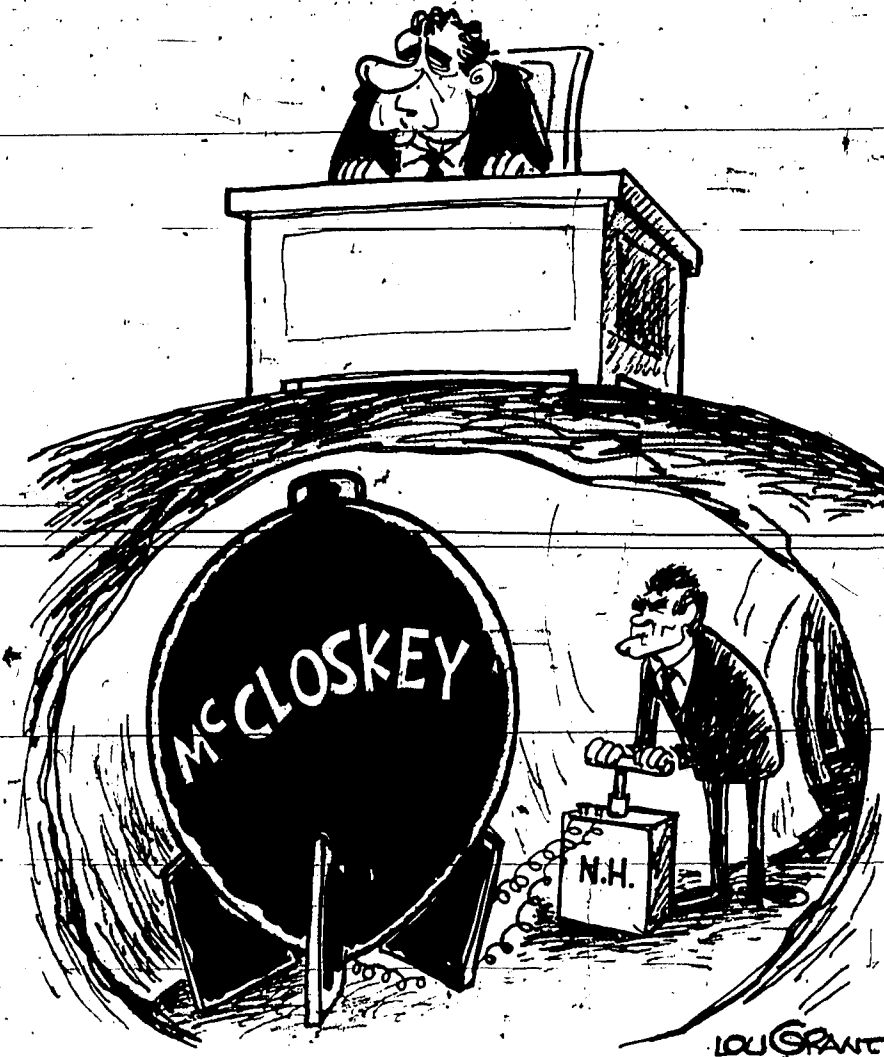

An economic editor thinks we have opened up a yawning credibility gap — that our moanings and groanings of distress just don't ring true.

Practically no one in Japan believes the U.S. textile industry is as bad off as suggested by the tough textile-import agreement the Japanese feel Nixon crammed down their throats. They feel he acted on that issue to honor a political pledge, and nothing more.

The Japanese leaders recognize that, in considerable measure, they are the victims of their own success. Their spectacular vaulting to third biggest industrial power in the world suggests an overall condition of economic wealth and health they say faulty they do not have. The great burst has been in production of goods, leaving badly behind the development of housing, roads, sanitation, the conquest of pollution. In these fields, they see themselves reaching by maybe 1980 the levels we attained in 1968.

They indulge in much self-criticism, as my reports will show. But they think we do not — that instead we whine amid our wealth.

"I ADMIT, CERTAIN TESTS MAY BE HARMFUL TO THE ENVIRONMENT... MINE"

ART BUCHWALD

Worth Millions

WASHINGTON — The story concerning Aristotle Onassis' 170-clause marriage contract with the former Jacqueline Kennedy, as described by Onassis' chief steward, and denied by Mrs. Onassis' secretary, points up the hazard that only the rich must deal with. And that is:

"How does one find a faithful butler who has no desire to write his memoirs?"

By accident, I happened to be in the office of a literary agent the other day, and his phone didn't stop ringing. This is some of what I heard.

"Hello, yes, July, I was going to call you this morning. No, I couldn't find any one else on the Onassis yacht who had anything to add to the chief steward's memoirs, but would you be interested in a book written by Elizabeth Taylor's former hairdresser. It's got some very juicy chapters in it. He was present when Liz cut Richard Burton's ear lobe with her diamond ring. Right, I'll send you over the manuscript."

The agent hung up and the phone rang again. "Doubleday?" George, thanks for returning my call. Remember the gardener I told you about who worked for Frank Sinatra? Yeh, the guy who was fired when they found him in a tree at midnight looking into Sinatra's bedroom. Well, he's just written a book titled 'A Tree Grows at Midnight.' It's told from the viewpoint of an outsider looking in on a world people rarely get to see. We're asking $100,000 advance. Okay, but give me your answer in 24 hours."

After the agent hung up he turned to me. "I've got one of Rockefeller's ex-upstairs maids writing a book on what went on in Rockefeller's basement when Happy was in Albany. And I have a ghostwriter working with Henry Ford's ex-chauffeur on a book titled 'What Christmas Ford Did to Henry Ford When He Got a Better Idea.'"

"That should sell. You seem to have a market for the ex-employees of very rich people," I said.

"We have a saying in the publishing business: 'In every ex-butler there's a memoir screaming to get out.'"

The phone rang again. "Hello, ah yes, Mr. McMurry at the Souffle Chef Employment Agency told me you would call. You worked for Ethel Kennedy as a cook? How long? Three weeks? That's marvelous. What have you got? She served red wine with fish at a dinner she gave for Andy Williams? How soon can you get over here? Good, and don't talk to anybody about this."

"I guess there's a lot of money in being a servant these days," I said.

"If you, work for the right person at the right time, there is a fortune to be made. I just sold Putnam the biography of the man who used to clean Bebe Rebozo's swimming pool. It's titled 'Backwash at Key Biscayne.'"

"I'd buy that."

"I also have a deal cooking with one of ex-President Johnson's ranch hands who kept a diary of what happened during the opening of the Johnson Library in Austin."

"Juicy?"

"It's going to shake up a lot of librarians."

The phone rang again. "Hello... yeh... yeh. You were? Can you prove it?... And you're willing to talk about it?... You bet I'm interested. I'll see you at five."

"Who was that?" I asked.

"It's the gal who used to work for Martha Mitchell's answering service."

PAUL HARVEY

Mod Gods

April, 1966, in blood-red letters Time magazine's cover made a promise of the premise that "God is dead."

Dispirited young Americans gobbled it up. After a generation of barren education they were ripe to turn rotten.

But life with a "dead God" was not nearly so much fun as some had figured it would be. Slipping the harness of religious restraint had promised unfettered freedom; now everybody could do his own thing — sex, swear, dope, revolt or "Burn, Baby, Burn!"

The smash hit of that period of uninhibited permissiveness was "I Did It My Way!" But all the substitute gods failed to keep their promises. Neither secular science nor Communist ideology nor revolutionary anarchy produced the expected millennium.

Instead, the fruits of freedom were soured by disease, depravity and despair: 1966 was not the first time men had tried unsuccessfully to bury God. Roman soldiers tried on Calvary. Nietzsche tried a hundred years ago.

Fifty years ago eminent psychiatrist, Dr. Carl Jung said, "The psychological disorders of the whole world derive from the lack of inner spiritual resources."

But then the now generation heard T.S. Elliot call us "this hollow men," heard Walter Lippmann say, "The unregenerate man will only muddle into muddle."

It was not their purpose nor is it mine to preach. But an historian cannot but conclude that man without God is an unguided missile destined to self-destruct.

self-destruct.

Today's young have relearned the age-old lesson for themselves. They had to go outside the formal church, the secular school and the hypocritical home, many of them, to discover for themselves that God is indeed alive and well and living wherever He is welcome.

Today's young pay homage to "Jesus Christ Superstar." They evangelize with missionary zeal, sharing their living God. They modified that theme song of the Sixties with the ingenuity characteristic of youth, now to sing, "I'll Do It THY Way!"

Dr. Norman Pittenger calls this "the end of the fad of reckless negation, the end of preoccupation with what God isn't and the beginning of a new excitement about what God is."

Today's young, more than any in recent history, represent these eager, impetuous, imperfect, opinionated, zealous and loving men whom Jesus called to be His first Disciples."

The schools might have spared us the agonizing reappraisal.

But remember how the dewey-eyed generation of academicians protested that the student in a religion-related school is overly "sheltered" from the world he must learn to live in?

Since then we have learned that it's the student in a public school who is overprotected. He is, in fact, sheltered from the FACTS OF LIFE.

He is sheltered from an understanding of and an appreciation for basic moral law, without which man is an unguided missile destined inevitably to self-destruct.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

A Boy Chews

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our son, 5, chews on everything — clothing, furniture, toys, metal, anything he can get into his mouth or his mouth around.

I have tried countless ways of breaking what I thought was a habit, but after reading your article on pica, I have doubts.

He has frightened me many times as to the small things I have removed from his mouth, tabs from beer and pop cans, bottle tops, marbles, buttons, once he even tried to eat miniature Christmas tree lights.

Is there something that can be done? I have never mentioned it to our family doctor as I never thought of it as a sickness. — Mrs. P. R.

Pica is the eating of unusual things — not food. Of course, small children will put the most outlandish things in their mouths, and the biggest, but not the only, danger is swallowing something dangerous, such as open safety pins, or choking on beads, coins or other small objects that can get into the trachea or even the lung, being swallowed when playing, running, crying or laughing.

This phase should end by age 5 — at least to the degree that you describe.

Pica, however, is usually related to dietary deficiency, particularly an iron deficiency causing anemia. This may not be a very severe anemia, but the person, sensing that something is lacking but not knowing what, eats odd things.

So by all means, tell your doctor about the boy's chewing habits. A blood count will show whether there is any anemia. You didn't mention his eating habits — at the dinner table, I mean. Meat and vegetables will get iron into his system, but he may need a medicinal supplement.

I don't guarantee this to be the answer, but it is a possibility worth investigating. Aside from all else, there's the risk that he may chew something potentially poisonous. There was fairly recent warning that lead can be absorbed from chewing a painted pencil. Lead or other poisons could be swallowed, even in small amounts, from some of the other things he gnaws.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a fibroid of the uterus prevent one from becoming pregnant? I am 46 and the doctor said I have not started menopause yet. Does a fibroid cause periods to be irregular? I skip a month once in a while, or sometimes have two periods in the same month. — Mrs. J. M.

First question: there are fibroids and fibroids. There are three layers of tissue in the wall of the uterus, and a fibroid tumor can occur in any one of them. Fibroids may not prevent pregnancy — but when a fibroid encroaches on the inner layer, it can prevent pregnancy and also can cause irregular bleeding. Therefore, no single answer can fit your question.

The skipping and irregularity at age 46 would lead me to suspect pre-menopausal influence. I presume that you have had a recent Pap test.

Soroptimists to grant fellowship

TWIN FALLS — Announcement of a $2,000 fellowship to be granted by the Rocky Mountain Region of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas, Inc., has been sent to all accredited colleges and universities in the region, according to Louis Bush president of the Twin Falls club.

The Fellowship Fund was established in 1948 and awards have been made each biennium, beginning in 1950. It is available to any woman resident or graduate from an accredited college or nursing school in the states of Colorado, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming and that portion of western Nebraska included in the Rocky Mountain region. This fellowship is for the purpose of encouraging qualified and worthy women to continue their graduate study in accepted academic fields in which there is need for leadership. She must be registered or accepted for graduate study in any accredited institution where a high standard of advanced study is offered in her chosen field.

The fellowship committee will rate the applications which will then be submitted to the regional board for confirmation of the winner and the alternate.

Applications and credentials must be in the hands of the chairman of the fellowship committee by Feb. 1, 1972. The award will be presented to the winner at the Rocky Mountain Regional Conference to be held in Denver, Colo., in April, 1972.

Area Jobs initiated

SHOSHONE — Carol Bryant and Christy Jones were initiated into the Job's Daughters here at the regular meeting, Mrs. Paul Setser, guardian, said today.

There were several members of Bethel No. 30, Hailey, present and they presented each of the Area couple will observe 50th Wedding Anniversary

JEROME — Mr. and Mrs. William R. Haslam, Jerome, will observe their 50th Wedding Anniversary during an open house at their home from 5 to 9 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 20.

The event will be hosted by their son, daughter-in-law and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haslam, Sheree and Michelle, Jerome. All friends, relatives and neighbors are invited to greet them and the couple requests no gifts.

Haslam was born in Wellsville, Utah, and raised in Naf. He served a two-year mission to the central states for the LDS Church. Mrs. Haslam was born in Boone, Iowa, and moved to Naf with her parents in 1908. The couple was married Nov. 23, 1921, at Logan, Utah, at the Logan LDS Temple.

They have two sons, Robert William, Jerome, and Howard Miller, Polson, Mont.; one daughter, Mrs. (Melva) Stephen Hanning, San Jose, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Haslam also have seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

For 23 years they have resided in Jerome. They owned and operated the Penguin Ice Cream Shop for three years. Haslam also did general carpenter work the remainder of the time until his retirement six years ago.

Past matrons, patrons feted by OES unit

HOLLISTER — The past matrons and past patrons of Hollister Chapter No. 47, Order of the Eastern Star, were honored by Mrs. Ruby Dean, worthy matron, and Homer Roberts, worthy patron, Thursday night at the regular meeting.

Mrs. Dean read a verse and presented each a red carnation. Mrs. Norma Miller was appointed a reporter to the youth committee.

Mrs. Dean and Mrs. Maxine Clark reported for the sick and visiting committee. Ray Clark announced that Hollister Lodge No. 71 was giving a dinner Nov. 19 at 7 p.m. for the Hollister Order of Eastern Star members and their families.

Mrs. Dean and Roberts thanked the chapter for the Halloween party that was given in their honor at the Ray Clark Home. The next meeting is Dec. 9 and the initiation ceremony will be given.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM R. HASLAM

Bazaar set Thursday

TWIN FALLS — The Village Square will be the theme of the annual bazaar sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service at the Twin Falls First United Church Fellowship hall Thursday.

Small shops encircling the square will feature gift items of all kinds, holiday decorations, home fashions, handmade articles, baked goods, candies, produce and canned food and a money tree for those wishing to contribute to the women's work. The bazaar will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and lunch will be served from 11:30 a.m. through 2 p.m. The public is invited.

Jay-C-Ettes project outlined

KING HILL — The Hammett Head Start and Day Care Center children will be treated to a special morning by the Glenns Ferry Jay-C-Ettes Thursday, according to project chairman, Judy Carlson.

The special program, which will consist of helping the children make Thanksgiving cookies, will launch the long-range project of "adopting" the facility by the civic group.

Candles, wind chimes and Christmas plaques have been ordered to be sold during December, with proceeds to be used for the state project, the child development centers.

The Glenns Ferry group will participate in Coffee Days in November, as a means to supply the Nampa State School and Hospital with special therapeutic recreational equipment. Chairman Mary Lou Irving explained that local restaurant owners and other businesses will be asked to serve free coffee to their patrons and the patrons will be urged to donate to the program.

A silver coffee hour will be held with Selma Pagac, co-chairman, in charge of activities, to give the business leaders a chance to learn about the project.

Couple observes 25th anniversary

FILER — Mr. and Mrs. James Webster, Filer, were honored this past week at a 25th Wedding Anniversary dinner party in Twin Falls. The party was given by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Webster, Buhl; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Strolberg, Hansen; David Webster and Joe Webster, Filer. Another son, Staff Sgt. Robert Webster is in the Air Force, stationed in North Carolina.

Open house was held for the couple Sunday afternoon at their home.

The refreshment table was covered with a hand-crocheted lace cloth made for Mrs. Webster by her mother, the late Mrs. C. L. Russell.

The three-tiered pink and white cake was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Allen Webster. The centerpiece was yellow and bronze chrysanthemums, compliments of David Webster. The china used was a gift from Sgt. Webster.

Linda Webster and Cheryl Strolberg cut and served the cake. Punch was poured by Amelea Wright, Jerome, and Eldora Walker, Hansen, poured coffee.

The couple received a five-piece bridge set and an engraved silver dish from their children.

Mrs. Webster's brothers and sisters presented them a lace tablecloth.

Guests attended from Filer, Buhl, Hansen, Jerome, Twin Falls and Battle Mountain, Nev.

Eden Legion, auxiliary have dinner

EDEN — The Eden American Legion and Auxiliary dinner this past week was well attended. This is an annual Thanksgiving meeting for the membership drive. Mrs. Leroy Reinhart was chairman.

During the auxiliary meeting after the dinner, it was decided the group would order 1,000 poppies to be sold this year. It was voted to send $15 by Nov. 20 to the Veterans Hospital gift table which is open in December in Boise. It was announced the auxiliary unit had reached membership goal with 76 members.

Mrs. Rex McClain was endorsed for vice president of the department auxiliary for the year of 1972-1973 to be elected next July.

Toastmistress Club meets

TWIN FALLS — The regular meeting of the Magic Toastmistress Club was held this past week at Colonial House with Mary Sharp, president, in charge of activities.

Mrs. Alda Strong fed the pledge to the flag and gave the inspiration.

Guests were Kay Jestadt and Mary Lee Pfeifferle.

Table topics, with the theme, travel, were led by Ethel Martin. Each member was to use her first and last initial to name something to take on a trip. The traveling table topics trophy was awarded to Nettie Magel.

The education lesson, explaining the purpose of the different parts of a Toastmistress meeting, was given by Mrs. Sharp.

DEAR ABBY: Am I some kind of nut? My husband says we should ignore the news that our 18-year-old son (I'll call him "Bud") and his girl friend, who has just turned 17, are about to become parents.

Bud doesn't want to marry the girl, but she is going to keep the baby anyway.

Bud is working, but is making poor wages. However, he said he paid some of her doctor bills, but he hasn't contributed lately because the girl refuses to see him. She is from a very poor family and is motherless, and I feel certain she needs help.

What do responsible parents do? I can't believe we should just sit back and ignore the whole thing. We can well afford to help her financially. Can you advise us?

BUD'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: First, consult a lawyer and learn what your son's legal obligations are to the girl and her child. And aside from that, any moral and financial support you can give the girl should be a generosity on your part. (P.S. In the meantime, try to make a man of your son. Your husband seems lacking in manhood himself so you can't depend on him.)

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I recently visited a marriage counselor for advice on saving our marriage.

During the course of the counseling, we learned that the counselor had been married twice, and is presently in the process of getting his third divorce.

Now my wife wonders just how good a marriage counselor is who can't solve his own marital problems. What is your thinking on the subject?

CONFUSED IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR CONFUSED: One should not assume that in order for a doctor to practice good medicine, he himself must exemplify good health. However, in matters of counseling, one would naturally have more confidence in a winner, so I think your wife's skepticism is understandable.

DEAR ABBY: You told "CRIES A LOT" to take her doctor's advice. He said, "So everyone knows you're a crier. Don't let it bother you. Look at it this way: you will never have an ulcer or a nervous breakdown because you can express your emotions."

I think you're both wrong. I was the same way. Only I let it go longer than I should have, which caused severe depression. I went to a general practitioner and he didn't do a thing for me. I finally went to a psychiatrist and one visit to that wonderful doctor was all it took. He told me I had a hormone deficiency and he gave me some medicine. After a couple of months, I felt better than I had ever felt in my life.

Now I am enjoying great success in a business I would never have dreamed of entering six months ago.

HAPPY IN SAN ANGELO, TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: I can sympathize with "Cries a lot." I'm emotional too, and had the same problem. I went to my obstetrician-gynecologist and he gave me a gigantic dose of estrogen, which really put me back on my feet in one visit.

I'm still very emotional, however. Beautiful music really gets to me. And when I see others cry, I join them. I have a remedy which often helps. I pull out my keys and run my fingers along the grooves and try to memorize the dips and rises. It seems to take the edge off my emotionalism. Once I didn't have a key, so I counted the holes in the insulation. That worked too.

I used to love to cry. I went to see Mrs. Miniver and tried all the way thru it.

Nixon predicts control success

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said Monday economic controls had only been mildly successful in the past, but predicted his post-freeze wage-price guidelines would succeed "by setting reasonable goals that can be achieved."

Opening a meeting of the Council of Living Council, Nixon noted his reluctance to adopt wage and price restraints when he ordered the 90-day freeze Aug. 13.

"To set wage-price guidelines in a free economy is something that is enormously difficult and has had very mild success in the past," the President told the council.

But he said the Phase II controls include "enough control to control the inflation and not so much to destroy freedom." They would, he said, succeed by "setting reasonable goals that can be achieved."

Nixon met with the council as it prepared to decide on a Price Commission request that the nation's 1,300 largest businesses should notify the commission in advance before raising prices.

The council had exempted companies of that prior notification provision until Jan. 1 because the machinery to examine and rule on price increase requests had not fully been established. But the commission promised it would decide within 72 hours if the council would cancel its exemption.

Spot checks by UPI around the nation showed no great immediate upsurge in prices at the end of the freeze. Most

Medina testifies

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI)—"I think he helped me," said Col. Oran K. Henderson, more stiffly erect than usual because of a neck brace. He stood up and frankly told the truth.

Henderson, the 51-year-old former Army brigade commander accused of covering up the 1968 My Lai massacre, made that comment Monday about testimony on his behalf from former Capt. Ernest L. Medina, who commanded an infantry company involved in the operation and who was later court-martialed for his part in it.

Earlier in the day, Medina testified he kept from Henderson the fact that ground troops under his command reported the killing of unarmed civilians in and around the hamlet—as many as 106 of them.

Henderson's defense attorneys, going into the fifth day of their presentation today, called a half dozen more witnesses in efforts to prove Henderson innocent of failing to investigate the My Lai massacre, hiding facts from superiors and later lying to special investigators.

businessmen said they too confused at this time to know whether to go up or not. But spokesmen for some large firms promised they would raise prices at all unless they were forced to do so by increasing costs.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department reported that the United States suffered its worst balance of payments deficit in history in the third quarter of this year, confirming Nixon's apprehensions about the dollar when he announced his new economic policy in mid-August. The deficit—the difference between the inflow and outflow of dollars and foreign monies—grew by $8.4 billion between July and September to bring the

House approves large NCI bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Monday approved a $1.6 billion authorization bill to fight one of man's biggest killers by expanding the National Cancer Institute (NCI). The action may lead to a clash with the Senate, which has voted to create a new Conquest of Cancer Agency.

Adopted by an overwhelming 350 to 5 vote, the measure is destined for a House-Senate conference committee which will try to compromise differences that have divided the medical community.

Backers of the House bill argued the search for a cancer breakthrough could be speeded up if NCI remained within the National Institutes of Health.

Under the Senate bill, the new agency would be largely independent of NIH with its director reporting to the President.

Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., charged the House bill was "in effect just a reorganization of NIH" that denied President Nixon the authority he requested for direct control of the cancer program.

SALT's 6th round

VIENNA (UPI)—U.S. and Soviet negotiators went into the sixth round of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) today with their strongest political backing so far from the White House and the Kremlin.

The two superpowers were opening the round with a business session at the Soviet Embassy.

The announcement that President Nixon would visit Moscow in May put SALT negotiators under added pressure to produce an agreement by then.

Both Soviet and American leaders were believed anxious to celebrate that visit with a treaty.

At a news conference in Washington last week, Nixon said that "I believe we are going to reach an agreement. I believe we will make considerable progress toward reaching that agreement before the end of the year."

Nixon said, however, that any agreement before the end of the year was "highly improbable."

total for the year to a record $12.1 billion.

At the same time, the Government II 4 per cent limit of dividend increases will apply to about 10,000 of the nation's largest businesses, which account for a small portion of the annual dividends paid stockholders. The estimate was made by the Committee on Interest and Dividends, headed by Chairman Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally told the council the wage-price freeze was "a resounding success... made possible largely by the unstinting support of the American people."

Johnson warns on isolationism

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson warned the nation Monday against rising isolationist sentiment which might prevent the United States from fulfilling its responsibilities as a world leader.

Speaking at the New York University's Graduate School of Business Administration, Johnson said he was deeply disturbed by what appears to be the formation of "a new coalition of isolationists which could be mistaken for the majority opinion."

"It is made up of conservatives and liberals who seek to diminish America's role in the world—for entirely different reasons," he said.

"Some are angry because what we have done for the world hasn't made other nations automatically do what we say. Some just don't like foreigners. Some think we should spend everything on ourselves instead of trying to help avoid chaos elsewhere. Others just don't like spending money—period. Others just don't want to get involved."

"Dangerously shortsighted," he said they could cause irreparable damage to world order which the United States has done much to build since World War II.

Johnson said the nation's economic problems will not be solved "through narrow economic nationalism or protectionism"—a course followed by the Western nations in the 1930s and resulting in World War II. He said there must be international cooperation on the basis that all nations have common problems to solve and a common interest in the outcome.

Pakistani soldiers repulsed

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Defense Ministry officials said Monday Indian troops repulsed four battalions of Pakistani soldiers, killing about 135, in the biggest clash reported so far along the Indo-Pakistan frontier.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, in an opening session report to parliament said that during her recent tour of Western nations she found "a growing sense of urgency in seeking a solution" to the crisis.

Defense Production Minister Vidya Charan Shukla told members of parliament's upper house that 359 Indians were killed and 865 wounded along the East Pakistan civil war and Nov. 1.

Defense Ministry spokesmen said the most severe clash was Friday when about 2,800 Pakistani troops attacked the border security force (BSF) post at Shikarpur. They were repulsed in a day of fighting when Indian army units reinforced the BSF troops, spokesmen said.

The spokesmen said Indian casualties were "very many less" than the estimated 135 Pakistanis killed and that about six Indian troops were missing.

Mrs. Gandhi, in reports to political leaders before the opening of parliament, said talks with leaders in the United States and Western Europe convinced her world opinion is turning against Pakistan and its action during the march civil war which resulted in 9.5 million East Pakistani refugees fleeing to India.

She said she was assured no military supplies were being sent to Pakistan from the United States, Britain, France or West Germany.

A series of opposition members in parliament criticized Mrs. Gandhi for not getting the 9.5 million East Pakistani refugees out of India fast enough.

Martian surface hot spot found

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Instruments aboard the Mariner 9 Mars satellite looked through the planet's dust clouds and discovered a surprising hot spot on the Martian surface, a project scientist reported Monday.

Other scientists reported that radiation tescers aboard the orbiting spacecraft found no evidence that the global dust fog was clearing, and that powder to sand-sized particles of silicate rocks might be making up the dust in the thin, carbon dioxide atmosphere.

The findings from the probe's remote sensors came after two loops of Mars and scientists said the results were very preliminary. Mariner 9 is expected to work for at least 180 orbits.

The dust clouds have blocked the view of the Martian surface to Mariner 9's twin television cameras and the satellite's first closeup looks at Mars since Sunday have been almost all a monotonous series of featureless gray images.

The craft's other instruments, however, were able to look into the haze.

Dr. Ellis D. Miner, a Mariner scientist from the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here, said an infrared radiation sensor, which measures surface temperatures as the satellite passes overhead, found an unexpected temperature rise in one spot on the planet.

Miner said the average temperature increase in an area 15 miles square was 12 degrees Fahrenheit above the normal 55 to 60 degree below zero average of surrounding areas.

If the source of heat were small in size, Miner said its temperature "could easily be something very much hotter than that."

"We expected to see nothing of this magnitude," he said at a news conference.

The hot spot was located at 10 degrees south latitude and 120 degrees south longitude, Miner said.

Miner said it was too soon to say what caused the temperature rise. He said such a phenomenon could be caused by internal heating, such as volcanism, or external heating such as solar radiation.

Dr. Arthur L. Lane, also from JPL, said studies of Mars in ultraviolet radiation showed the planet's atmosphere is thick with dust. He said the spacecraft saw no evidence in the ultraviolet light of areas of clearing.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks were irregularly lower in slow trading at the halfway mark Tuesday.

Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, the day's softest spot, was battered down more than 11 points in the wake of Monday's announcement it was omitting the quarterly dividend normally paid at this time.

Steels surrendered fractions, and motors followed a mixed pattern. Domestic car makers sold more than twice as many new cars during the first 10 days of November than they did in the comparable period a year ago.

Electronic and oil stocks pointed in both directions. Leading market indicators posted small gains near 1:15 p.m., but declines led advances by around 200 issues.

A three-hour volume of 6,520,000 shares was up from 5,940,000 shares traded at a like period Monday.

Among the day's most active stocks were American Television off 1/4 on 160,800 shares, Pan American World Airways off 1/4 on 155,100 shares, International Nickel up 1/4 (ex-dividend) on 118,900 shares, Marathon Oil down 3/4 on 104,100 shares, Ford off 1/4 on 91,700 shares, and Penn Cent unchanged on 76,700 shares.

Less active Chrysler and General Motors showed fractional gains.

Texas Instruments moved up 1/4, and IBM 2 Sperry Rand, RCA and Westinghouse backed off.

'Proper funding' need for Gem ecology agency

BOISE (UPI) — The chairman of the State Health Board told a legislative committee Monday he would favor a separate department of ecology if it were given proper funding and exposure.

But Fred Humphreys, Boise, told the interim committee if the funding level stopped or was turned back "then I would go the other way."

He gave this testimony in response to a question from Sen. Charles Bilyeu, R-Pocatello, as to what he would do if he had the authority to make a one-man decision on the matter.

Earlier, Humphreys told the committee about health board reorganization plans to set up a sub-agency on environmental improvement within the Health Department and headed by an assistant administrator reporting directly to the board.

"Would you keep this as a section of the Health Department or as a separate entity or agency of state government?"

Bilyeu asked.

Humphreys countered with a question about whether Bilyeu believed a separate agency could get more exposure and more funding from the legislature.

"Yes," Bilyeu said. "Then I would go along with it," Humphreys said.

Meantime, Humphreys said the health board will not have specific legislation for the next session of the legislature to strengthen its department of environmental improvement. He pointed out the reorganization has been eight months in the making and that the new agency is "a little late starting off."

He did say a key problem confronting the department right now is how to force municipalities to cooperate with board efforts to clean up pollution. He called this "more important than the industrial waste problem right now."

Humphreys said that heretofore the Health Department has attempted to clean up pollution in a "quiet manner" rather than by forcing action through litigation.

"Now we are down to the hard case area and our line of attack is going to have to be stronger," Humphreys said.

He called the department's "track record" in combating pollution "quite good" to date and noted that expenditures for environmental improvement are growing considerably.

Humphreys and State Health Administrator T.O. Carver showed the interim committee figures indicating spending in this regard has jumped from a total $336,742 in fiscal year 1970 to an estimated $615,346 for fiscal 1972.

They said the department is asking for $1,076,788 for fiscal 1973 — of which $911,249 would come from the general fund.

In response to a question, Humphreys said he would favor a separate budget for ecology rather than inclusion of this matter in the board's lump-sum appropriation. He said he felt the visibility of the function would be increased in that manner.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House approved a bill Monday to name Veterans' Administration hospital in San Antonio after the late war hero and actor Audie L. Murphy.

Hoover revamps staff

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has quietly revamped almost half his top staff in the past few months, centering around the ouster of his onetime heir apparent.

None of the promotions, demotions or retirements — voluntary or otherwise — were announced. They were only noted in the FBI recreation association magazine, The Investigator.

The FBI declined comment on the changes.

William C. Sullivan, 56, who was considered by most observers to be Hoover's handpicked successor — at least for a brief period, was ousted as the bureau's No. 3 man after a long apparently bitter and almost public fight.

Observers believed that Sullivan was pushing for changes in the FBI opposed by the 76-year-old Hoover who forced his resignation.

The Washington Post reported that Sullivan had been locked out of his office, and three days later, on Oct. 2, the FBI simply announced that Sullivan had retired. Sullivan declined all comment himself.

The current addition of The Investigator, notes the appointment of Alex Rosen, 66, to succeed Sullivan as assistant to the director in charge of investigative operations. The only mention of Sullivan was a small picture included in a group of 20 employees who have retired.

The handwriting appeared on the wall weeks earlier when Hoover promoted W. Mark Felt to the new position of assistant director-deputy associate director, sliding him in above Sullivan, who, along with John P. Mohr was one of two men with the title assistant to the director.

In the FBI hierarchy, which can be difficult to untangle, Felt thus became No. 3, ranking immediately after Hoover and his first deputy, associate director Clyde A. Tolson, 71.

The change apparently occurred in July. It was disclosed in the September edition of the Employees' magazine along with the promotion of Joseph K. Ponder, a special agent in charge of one of the FBI offices in New York City, to succeed Felt as one of the 11 assistant directors.

These and subsequent changes meant that Hoover, exclusive of himself and Tolson, had BOISE (UPI) — Effective Jan. 1, allotments to state agencies will be cut back one per cent in an effort to make almost $1 million available for emergencies, including requests for supplemental appropriations.

Acting Budget Director D. E. (Skip) Chilberg said Monday Gov. Cecil D. Andrus reached the decision Friday. Chilberg said the cut will be in the allotment to state agencies for the last six months of the current fiscal year.

reduce the tax revenue to the State of Idaho.

Chilberg said the money to be picked up will probably be needed to meet requests from state agencies for supplemental appropriations to get them through the remainder of the fiscal year.

One of the more important ones, he said, will be from the Idaho State Penitentiary, which has incurred unforeseen costs "in excess of $25,000" resulting from the August riot at the prison.

The figures released last week by the State Tax Commission showed about $32 million has been collected thus far in the current fiscal year for the general fund, with the goal of $125.3 million to be reached by June 30 if appropriations are to match income.

Chilberg said if the present trend continues the state will "still be in the ball park on the basis of existing policies," but added with the uncertainty surrounding the effect of the federal economic policies it is "not likely this will improve but more likely it will not."

The announcement to stage agencies said increases in agency allotments after Jan. 1 will be authorized "only in emergency situations after a thorough justification to the budget division."

Chilberg said if revenues do hold up to meet the total appropriated by the legislature the additional one per cent will be appropriated to the state agencies.

Shooting findings burned

RAVENNA, Ohio (UPI) — A special grand jury report on the May 4, 1970 disturbance at Kent State University in which four students were shot to death by National Guardsmen was ceremoniously destroyed by fire Monday.

Acting on a federal court order, Mrs. Luch De Leone, Portage County clerk of courts, put the report and a copy in a wastepaper basket and struck a match to them in the courthouse parking lot.

The report, issued by a Portage County grand jury, accused 25 persons of "deliberate, criminal action" in disorders preceding the deaths of the four students. The same grand jury indicted the 25 on rioting charges.

About 25 persons, but none of the defendants, watched the burning of the two 18 page documents.

Mrs. Luise A. Schroeder, whose son, Wilham, was one of the four students killed, said in a telephone interview she was "very glad the report was destroyed to the extent that there will eventually be justice in this case. It might be one step toward release of the truth of what happened."

Last spring almost $2.5 million was withheld from state agency appropriations, but those cuts were made on an individual basis. Chilberg said this cut will be across the board and will exempt only the legislative and judicial branches, elected officials, and the appropriation for public education.

Chilberg said the decision to withhold the money was made on the basis of tax revenue figures released this week on the basis of the latest announcements concerning phase II of the economic policy.

Those announcements, he said, were the "primary considerations" because there was "still much uncertainty about how it will ultimately affect the economy and the state tax revenues."

Chilberg said Andrus wants to "cooperate in any way possible with the president's program to cut inflation. In doing so we have to anticipate this could

Car sales decline

NEW YORK (UPI) — Passenger car sales by the four major U.S. automobile companies dropped sharply in the first third of November, the last full sales period before the end of the price-wage freeze and the imposition of price hikes.

General Motors, Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp. and American Motors reported sales for the Nov. 1-10 period of 290,761 cars, down about 16.3 per cent from the 347,085 cars sold in the final third of October, a record sales month.

In the corresponding period of November, 1970, when GM's operations were affected by a strike, the four sold 132,381 cars.

The October spurt in new car sales generally developed from the promised repeal of the federal excise tax on cars and the deferral of price increases on new models during the freeze period of the government's new economic policies. However, the sales drive apparently ran out of steam two weeks before termination of the freeze period and the advent of car price hikes.

Iran prison term looms

TEHRAN (UPI) — Sharon La Bere, an American who admitted participating in anti-Iranian demonstrations in the United States, was sentenced to three years in prison Sunday for acting against the nation's security.

Miss La Bere, 29, of Oakland, Calif., denied the charges and appealed the sentence. She is being held in a woman's prison pending her appeal.

The military tribunal which handed down the sentence against Miss La Bere also exonerated her on espionage charges.

The government said she was sent to Iran in September with funds from Iranian students in the United States to be used in contacting guerrilla elements.

Miss La Bere said she took part in anti-Iranian demonstrations in the United States because she sympathized with the political views of her Iranian fiancé, Ali Akbar Vahedian.

Burley speaker tells chamber of ladder of failure pitfall

BURLEY — A Department of Public Assistance official called upon the Burley Chamber of Commerce Monday to be aware of the "ladder of failures" that is part of the past of women receiving aid for dependent children.

Theo Murdock, who heads the Cassia County DPA office, told the chamber members "I don't think we realize the little things we do for our children that make up a ladder of successes. The people we work with don't have this. They have a ladder of failures."

Murdock said a mother receiving public assistance for her children often comes from a poor family background where she felt it was better to leave her home at an early age and often has had five to seven children by her 20th birthday. Often their husbands come from a similar background and find they "can't take it any longer" trying to support such a large family on $250-$300 a month.

"It's no surprise to me at all that these fellows leave," Murdock said. He also said a woman's reaction to her husband's desertion is often to seek employment but "they haven't built up the proper work habits," he said. "They go from place to place to place and find failure, failure, failure — no work."

While acknowledging that aid to dependent children was the DPA program that drew most criticism, Murdock denied the funds encouraged women to bear more children to receive a large monthly check. The difference in payments for a woman with two children and one with three is only $26 a month, he said. "Not much incentive to have another kid."

Murdock also outlined several other types of assistance programs his office administers including aid to the blind, aid to the permanently and totally disabled and aid to the aged, as well as food stamps and foster homes.

The DPA official told chamber members there are 54 Cassia County residents receiving an average of $70 a month in old age funds. To qualify for the money, he said, the person must be over 65 years of age and have an income "below his needs" that is less than $166 for one person living alone and less than $204 for a couple living together.

The 42 persons receiving public assistance for disability draw an average of $91.69 per month, the director said, and must furnish medical proof their handicap is both permanent and total in order to qualify.

At present, Murdock said, there is only one county resident receiving assistance funds for the legally blind, at a rate of $148 per month.

Youths hear savant

TWIN FALLS — Regardless of the needs and ability of any student, "there is a college somewhere in the United States which will meet those needs," Dr. Don R. Stephenson of the CSI faculty told high-school student council delegates Monday night.

Speaking during an evening meeting, Dr. Stephenson outlined the wide diversity of American institutions of higher education, pointing out that selectivity in colleges ranges from the extremely selective, where about one high school graduate out of every 10,000 will qualify for admission, down to the less-particular state colleges and the local two-year junior colleges that will admit almost anyone.

More students are completing college today than a few years ago, when on the average, half of all the students entering a college failed to complete requirements for a degree, Dr. Stephenson said.

Today, nearly 70 per cent of all students entering a college complete their studies and graduate with a bachelor's degree. However, only 16 per cent of the graduates finish in four years — 84 per cent take a longer time.

Dr. Stephenson said San Jose State College, where he served as a counselor before joining the CSI staff, published a survey indicating that the average time required to earn a bachelor's degree was 6.8 years.

Most students change their majors — the average three times — before finally graduating with their final degree, Dr. Stephenson said. This lengthens their college career, with additional classes required to make up lost time with the new major field of study.

Dr. Stephenson urged the students to avoid this "confusion" in selecting a college field of study. They should consult with the college counselors and instructors carefully before settling on a college major, the speaker said.

Dr. Stephenson cited his own experiences as an example of indecisiveness. He decided in the third grade that he was going to become a lawyer, and carried the objective into his second year of college.

"Then I got a little confused about it, though maybe it wasn't what I wanted, so I went in to see a counselor. While I was there, he asked me what kind of a job I thought I'd like and I looked at him and said 'I think I'd like your job.'

"So I changed courses right in midstream and became a college counselor," Dr. Stephenson recalled.

Water plan suspended

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News Writer

KETCHUM — A proposed $2.25 million water system has been tabled.

The Ketchum City Council voted unanimously Monday evening to drop an ordinance calling for a revenue bond election planned in February to finance the project.

But Councilman Carl Mullins, who moved to kill the ordinance, said after the meeting more time is needed to study the need for a water system for Warm Springs residents.

"I don't think we completely abandoned the system," Mullins said.

Councilman Gerald Sidwell also said after the meeting that in several public hearings residents expressed only opposition to the system. "If the public wanted it, they would be here telling us," he said.

He said residents felt they did not want to pay the high cost of a water system they don't need now.

The proposal would include purchasing a privately-owned water system serving 43 blocks, extension of the system to serve the Warm Springs area, acquiring several existing water wells, and building two water storage reservoirs.

The council also adopted a resolution establishing a park and recreation advisory commission.

The seven-member panel will advise city officials on park acquisition and will set up a city financed recreation commission.

2 school districts join suit

BOISE (UPI) — School districts in Meridian and Blackfoot plan to join in a lawsuit challenging constitutionality of the Idaho school financial system.

Attorney Jack Hawley of Boise said Joint School District No. 2 of Meridian and Blackfoot School District No. 55 plan to become plaintiffs in the suit in the next few days.

He added that at least two other districts have shown interest in becoming parties to the suit.

Filed Oct. 29, the suit is similar to a recent California court case in which it was ruled the school funding burden should be on the state.

Truck upsets

GLENN'S FERRY — Everett Fisher West, 35, Pleasant Grove, Utah, who was injured early Sunday when the truck he was driving overturned on U.S. Highway 30 near Glenn's Ferry, remains in serious condition at St. Alphonsus Hospital, Boise.

West was alone when the accident occurred about 2:40 a.m. The highway was blocked for about two hours until it could be opened up to one-way traffic.

Conclave opens for Farm Bureau

BURLEY — About 300 representatives of the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation will register late this afternoon for the state start of their three-day convention to be held at the Ponderosa Inn.

State Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, D-Tuttle, is scheduled to address the group tomorrow. Other speakers include Roger Fleming, a National Farm Bureau Federation official; Warren Newberry, a local federation coordinator; Burley Mayor Garis Robertson, and state Sen. Robert Saxvik, D-Burley.

The 300 representatives are drawn from local Farm Bureau Federation units throughout the state, according to a federation spokesman.

Council sets public hearing for annex

GOODING — The Gooding City Council approved a motion Tuesday night to draw up an ordinance to annex the five to six acres of property of the new high school into the city.

A public hearing was set for the next regular council meeting on the annexation ordinance.

Ray Hendrix, Gooding, inquired of the council about city plans to install a sidewalk at the new high school. Hendrix, who lives across town from the high school, said his concern was for the students. He said he did not want his children walking in the street around the school area.

BOISE (UPI) — A little snow or ice was reported on some mountain roads in Idaho today but elsewhere in the state most major highways were in good shape for travel.

By road, this was the report from the state departments of highways and law enforcement: U.S. 12 — Lolo Pass, icy spots. State Highway 55 — Banks Canyon to Cascade, icy spots. U.S. 93 — Galena to Stanley, broken snow floor; Lost Trail Pass, snow floor, snowing.

Report ready

TWIN FALLS — Information collected over the past six months in a county-wide solid waste study will be presented at 7:30 p.m. tonight in a public meeting in the County Judicial Building.

County Commission Chairman William L. (Bill) Chancy said the meeting is open to the public.

Commissioners employed R. W. Fasolino, Pocatello, to head the study of county waste disposal problems. Chancy said it covers present dump-grounds and the possibility of consolidating landfill operations with Twin Falls City and other towns in the county. All phases of the study and recommendations of the consultant will be presented tonight, Chancy said.

Serious

WENDELL — Melvin Howard, 22, Pocatello, who was injured Oct. 28 in an accident near Wendell, is reported in serious condition at St. Alphonsus Hospital, Boise.

Howard was injured when the vehicle he was driving collided with a truck at the State Highway 25-Wendell-Hagerman Road intersection. He was taken by helicopter to the Boise hospital.

Rich harvest

Sugar firm sends first payment

TWIN FALLS — Amalgamated Sugar Co. sent a first payment Monday of $15.4 million to Magic Valley sugar beet growers for beets delivered through October.

The payment — approximately nine per cent higher than in 1970, according to district managers E. R. Blauer, R. B. Day and R. H. Hughes of the Mini-Cassia, Twin Falls and Elwyhe growing districts. Under the contract between sugarbeet growers and Amalgamated, growers receive about two-thirds share of the income from sugar sales. Blauer said beet harvest in the Mini-Cassia area was 97 per cent complete Monday. In the Twin Falls area, Day reported harvest 98 per cent complete, but Hughes said Elmore and Owyhee counties were only 81 per cent complete with their harvest. The managers said they expected harvest to be complete in all areas by this weekend, if favorable weather conditions continue. The districts reported minimal harvest losses despite difficult conditions caused by unseasonably early snows and frost.

Another payment will be made Dec. 1 for beets delivered from Nov. 1 to Nov. 15 and another payment will be made two weeks later for beets delivered after Nov. 15.

Licensing proposal at Burley draws discussion

In other business at the three and a half hour meeting, the council:

- Reached no decision in its continuing deliberations about hiring an independent contractor for trash pickups.
- Heard the police chief say "We've got dog pound troubles," with Robertson responding that it was unlikely a new pound could be constructed before spring.
- Directed attorney William

Parsons to write a cable television company that the council would be available to renegotiate the contract in December.

- Confirmed the appointment of one new patrolman and the promotion of two city employees.
- Approved building permits for five new homes, four of them on Hansen Avenue, at a construction cost of nearly $70,000.
- The cable television company had written to the city and requested a 15-year extension of its contract. The original eight-year contract expires at the end of 1971. The council determined the company's request did not amount to exercising a contract renewal option.

Kendall D. Warr was confirmed as a patrolman for the city, replacing Dale E. Nebeker, who resigned several weeks ago. David Medina was named foreman of the city shop, with Jerry Davis promoted to mechanic.

Air pollution index 107

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District at the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period.

Reading at 8 a.m. today.

Federal pollution regulations on city pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms per cubic meter (over any 24-hour period) and should not be permitted to rise above 260 micrograms for even a short period, of time.

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution burning as permitted by law should be curtailed when the air is poorly able to disperse air pollutants.

State council regrets fund lack

BOISE — The Idaho Permanent Building Fund Advisory Council, in recommending construction totaling $4.5 million to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, expressed its regrets that all requests, totaling $22 million, could not be met.

The council had received requests from the various state agencies for $22 million in projects, an explanation said, "but was able to recommend only a $4.5 million program including a reserve for construction contingencies and program supervision in order to stay within the fiscal year 1973 anticipated revenue income to the Permanent Building Fund."

The major source of income to the building fund is the annual $10 "permanent building fund tax (the so-called Head Tax) on the state income tax return," the council explained. "This is a dedicated fund which can only be used for state buildings and facilities."

"The major financial problem facing the Idaho Department of Public Works and the Permanent Building Fund Council is that revenue accruing to the fund has not kept pace with the building needs of the state. Thus, many really essential projects cannot be funded simply because of lack of money in the fund."

The $4.5 million fiscal 1973 program recommended by the council includes:

- $1.47 million for construction of multi-purpose building, clinic and perimeter
- $552,979 for general science building, North Idaho College, Coeur d'Alene.
- $450,000, youth detention and diagnostic facility in Boise area.
- $340,200, patient residential cottages, Idaho State School and Hospital at Nampa.
- $250,000, vocational-technical building, Boise State College.
- $250,000, industrial arts building and upholstery shop, State Youth Training Center, St. Anthony.
- $150,450, public lands office and related facilities at five locations including Idaho Falls and four north Idaho sites.
- $138,500, development,

There are all sorts of coups. The encyclopedia of bridge defines a simple coup as a maneuver by declarer to shorten his own trump holding to fit into a situation where he can't lead trumps.

West helped South develop a coup with today's hand. His bid of two no-trump was the "unusual no-trump" to show both minor suits so South knew that West would be short in both hearts and spades.

West opened the ace of diamonds. South ruffed to get rid of one trump. Then he led a trump to dummy's king, discarded a spade on

SHORT RIBS

I'M ON A NEW DIET.

YOU'RE ALWAYS ON A NEW DIET!

I KNOW...

...BUT THIS ONE... REALLY WORKS...

REX MORGAN

THE FACT THAT YOUR SON BROUGHT SEVERAL STUDENTS INTO THIS DISPENSARY FROM OVERDOSE DOESN'T MEAN THAT JUSTIN'S INVOLVED WITH DRUGS.

I HOPE YOU'RE RIGHT DOCTOR...

I'VE SPECIFICALLY ASKED JUSTIN WHETHER HE'S TAKING DRUGS... AND HE JUST LOOKED AT ME, WOULD'N'T YOU CONCLUDE AT ME, WOULD'N'T YOU COME TO THE CONCLUSION IF YOU WERE HIS FATHER?

MEANWHILE...

DID YOU GET THE MESSAGE THAT YOUR FATHER IS EXPECTING YOU TO MEET HIM FOR DINNER, JUSTIN?

YES, MR. CORWIN... BUT I CAN'T MAKE IT! IF HE CALLS, TELL HIM I'M SORRY THAT I HAD TO GO OUT!

The Waitress Glides Along

"Give me charity and self-restraint, but not yet!"

Saint Augustine

FELLOW I know claims he can identify a highly experienced professional waitress on any crowded street just by the way she walks among the bodies. She glides, he says. Other women, particularly American women, take short-hoppy steps. But the long-time waitress slips over the sidewalk like spilled cream and O. J. Simpson. He also confirms the oft-reported claim that waitresses almost invariably are good dancers.

AMONG the most happily married citizens one matrimonial study shows, and the mathematics teachers:

WHEN you refer to "bags in England, mister you're talking about ladies' slacks."

A MEDICAL MAN who specializes in circulatory ailments insists: "The world's best cure for swollen feet is a rocking chair."

ANT HILL: His golf ball landed on an ant hill. He swung must have bashed 1,000 ants but missed the ball. Swung again and there sailed another 1,000 ants. But the ball stayed put. This went on. Finally one of the dozen remaining ants "looked" at the rest and said: "Listen you guys if we want to survive we'd better get on the ball." Sir I don't ordinarily much go in for talking insect stories, but thought you might be able to use this one at the next board meeting.

I AM ASKED the usual approximate weight of the head of a 165-pound man. Ah—the answer a fellow has to do to satisfy "the customer" All right that head weighs 13 pounds.

FASCINATING, the notations some doctors write on death certificates: "The Missouri Board of Health recently turned up these 1. Death in

MAJOR HOOPLE

MY STUDIES PROVE THAT BOARDING HOUSES ARE IN SHORT SUPPLY! WITHOUT ACTUALLY RAISING RENTS YOU CAN BETTER YOUR FINANCES BY PRACTICING CERTAIN ECONOMIES—LIKE METERING THE HOT WATER AND MAKING THE TOWELS LAST LONGER!

THE SHOWERS SO COLD ALREADY THAT A PENGUIN WOULD FREEZE BEFORE HE GOT LATHERED UP!

I'VE SEEN SANDWICH WRAPPERS WITH MORE NAP THAN THE HOUSE TOWELS!
