Egyptian gives

By United Press International
Israeli military sources said today Egypt so far has not moved men and materiel to back President Anwar Sadat's weekend statements that there is "no alternative" to another war in the Middle East.

Sadat, in two speeches to frontline troops along the Suez Canal, said "every hope we used to have for a peace settlement is finished, and we have no alternative but to fight to regain our land, our honor and our dignity."

The only hope for peace, he said, would be for Israel to withdraw completely from Arab lands—something Israel has steadfastly refused to do. "Sadat said 'I have asked the U.S. representative (in Cairo, Donald C. Bergus) to tell his government there can be no further discussions. All this is finished unless Israel ... accepts complete withdrawal."

"Only then can the dialogue be resumed on the basis of our forces crossing the canal and a cease-fire duration of six months."

Sadat added that "if Israel does not withdraw during this period, our armed forces will do their duty in driving out the enemy."

In Tel Aviv, Israeli military sources said the Egyptians have not made any military moves to back their threats to end the 16-month-old cease-fire along the Suez. They said that according to latest reports from the canal zone there was no extraordinary Egyptian activity on the frontline positions.

Israelis ask troop callups

By United Press International
An Israeli newspaper called today for mobilization of the reserves after the weekend statement by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat that there is "no alternative" to another Middle East war.

The Israeli army scheduled a nationwide air raid warning test for Tuesday.

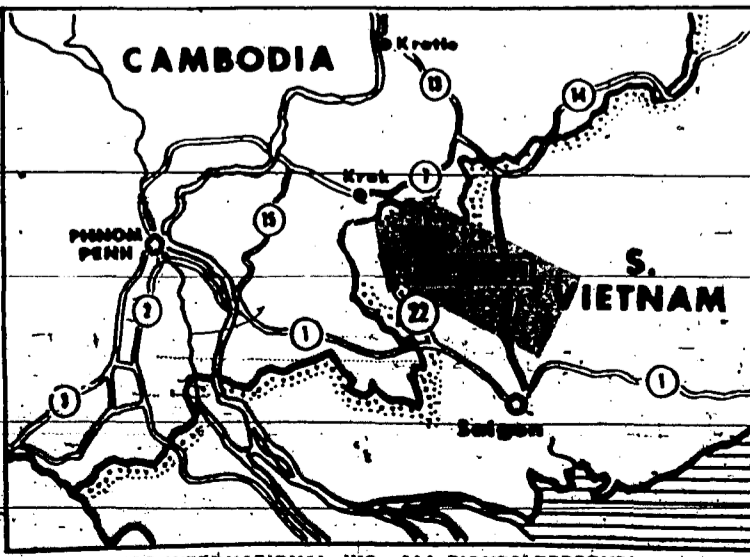

An Israeli military spokesman said that the situation along the Suez Canal was quiet. He added, however, that up to 70,000 Egyptian troops and 2,000 tanks are there and that the fighting could begin without advance warning.

Western intelligence sources in London confirmed the Egyptian buildup along the canal but pointed out that a crossing would be "hazardous in the extreme" as long as Israel retains mastery in the air.

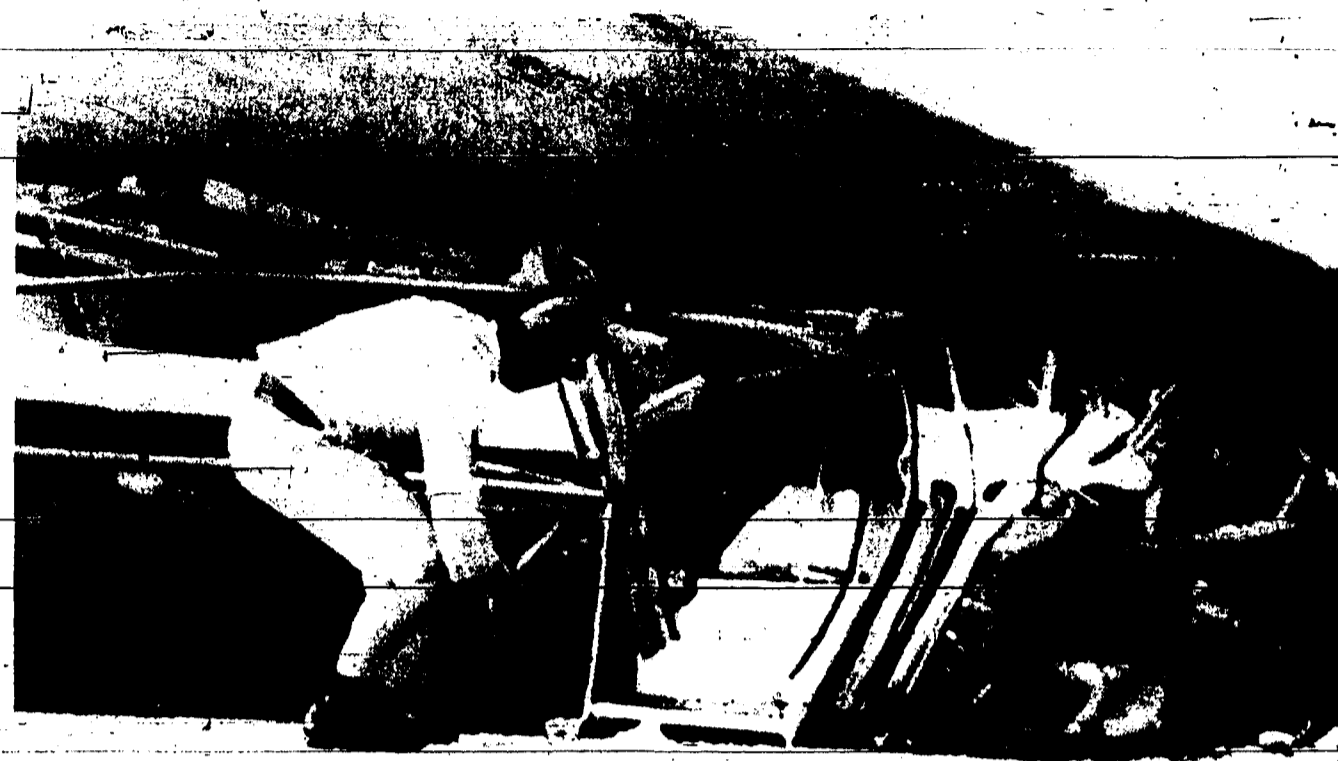

The Tel Aviv newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth said in an editorial that Sadat's statements meant that "it is necessary for a callup" of reserves in Israel. Israeli newspapers generally called on the government and military leadership to make clear to Egypt the dangers of another round of fighting.

An army spokesman said that the nationwide air raid warning network would be tested at 2 p.m. Tuesday (7 a.m. EST), the first test since a commemorative blast on Memorial Day six months ago.

The newspaper Davar said that the developments of the past few days lent "urgency and gravity" to Prime Minister Golda Meir's meeting with President Nixon, scheduled for next month.

200 go down in outrigger

MANILA (UPI) —A boat carrying about 200 passengers, most of them students, sank in rough seas in the central Philippines Sunday night, the coast guard said today. A spokesman said only one survivor has been found. The outrigger boat named Beethoven II was suspected to have been overloaded and operating illegally, according to the spokesman.

Rehnquist OK 'certain'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Prospects for committee approval of William H. Rehnquist's Supreme Court nomination appeared certain today following Rehnquist's fresh and flat denials of ever having harassed black voters during the 1964 election or of ever belonging to a John Birch type organization.

The Senate Judiciary Committee planned to meet Tuesday to vote on the nominations of both Rehnquist and President Nixon's other nominee, Lewis F. Powell Jr. It was virtually certain the committee would approve both nominations and send them to the full Senate for a confirmation vote.

Liberals on the judiciary panel submitted 15 written questions to Rehnquist-Friday and the assistant attorney general answered them, also in writing, during the weekend. In addition the committee requested an FBI investigation of Rehnquist's political background.

In his answers Rehnquist flatly denied the two most prominent charges made against him.

One was that he pulled Negro voters out of line at a polling place in the Bethune Precinct of Phoenix, Ariz., in 1964 and asked them to recite portions of the Constitution in his role as a Republican Party voter challenger.

Campaign rider advances to vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate Democrats beat down a Republican attempt today to delay until 1976 or later a plan to use tax funds rather than private contributions to finance presidential election campaigns.

The vote was 53 to 43.

A showdown vote on the Democratic plan was scheduled for late today—probably not until after nightfall—following action on a dozen more Republican amendments aimed at nullifying it.

A very close final vote was predicted on the plan, which would provide up to $20.4 million to each of the presidential candidates of the two major parties if they agreed to hold their campaign spending within that limit.

In today's first vote, defeated was an amendment by Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., which would have postponed the plan's operations until the federal budget showed a surplus—something that has happened only two or three times since World War II.

Both parties would have been denied federal funding for their campaign in next year's election and not until 1976 at the earliest if the amendment had passed.

The pressures on all senators before the vote were heavy.

"The arms are twisted until they are almost twisted off on both sides," said Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., in advance of the vote.

In a politically charged atmosphere, the Republicans sought to switch a few Southern Democrats. Only a handful of converts would be needed to defeat the plan.

In a test vote on Thursday, 43

Republicans and three Democrats voted against the plan.

Forty-nine Democrats and no Republicans voted for it.

Today's rollcall was to occur some time after 3 p.m. MST.

The Democrats hoped to tie the plan to President Nixon's bill which, as amended by the Senate, would cut business and individual taxes by more than $27 billion during the next three years.

They think Nixon would resist the temptation to veto the bill in view of the business community's strong support for the tax cuts

Slim margin hints Butz battle ahead

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Agriculture Committee approved today by an 8-6 vote the nomination of Earl L. Butz to be new agriculture secretary.

The narrowness of the vote foreshadowed an expected battle on the Senate floor on confirmation of the Purdue University dean, who has been strongly criticized by some senators and farm groups as favoring corporate rather than family farms.

The Agriculture Committee instructed Butz to put his stocks in three agribusiness farms into a blind trust and then to have them sold within 90 days to avoid any appearance of conflict of interest.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., chairman of the Republican National Committee and a member of the Agriculture Committee, predicted after the groups closed session that Butz would be confirmed although he said opponents might muster 25 to 30 votes on the Senate floor.

The Agriculture Committee chairman, Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., voted against Butz in committee, and said he could not predict the outcome on the floor.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said he hoped the nomination might be voted on by the Senate as soon as Wednesday.

Viets cross border

SAIGON (UPI) —Field reports said that six battalions of South Vietnamese airborne troops crossed into Cambodia today and thousands more massed along the border for a new invasion aimed at ending a Communist threat against the Cambodian capital.

The six battalions—about 4,000 men—moved into Cambodia to reinforce South Vietnamese troops who have been operating in the neighboring country since the allied invasion of May, 1970, the reports said.

Despite the initial border crossings today, military sources indicated that the big push has yet to start. They indicated that D-day will be Wednesday, the current strength of the Republic of Vietnam (ARVN) in the adjacent area of Cambodia where guerrilla sanctuaries are located already stands at close to a 13,000-man division.

ARVN Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, commander of Military Region III who is directing the new buildup, spent the day at his rear area headquarters at Bien Hoa, 18 miles northeast of Saigon. Minh was expected to arrive at his forward headquarters at Tay Ninh, 50 miles northwest of Saigon and 27 miles south of the Cambodian border, on Tuesday.

Though vehicles rolled across the border, there was none of the heavy U.S. air activity that always accompanies a major allied push.

However, the Vietnamese themselves staged an air raid Sunday on suspected guerrilla concentrations near Chrum, 40 miles inside Cambodia, and reported killing 40 guerrillas.

U.S. military sources, meanwhile, said the American Expeditionary Force in Vietnam had been cut back below President Nixon's Dec. 1 goal of 184,000 men.

Coal hike Phase II key test

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government's economic control machinery, under attack for endorsing a 15 per cent pay hike for the nation's soft coal miners, today faced the other side of the coin—a request for a jump in the price of coal.

While it was the Pay Board which okayed the pay increase, the price question was up to the Price Commission at its meeting today. There were unconfirmed reports the Bituminous Coal Operators Association was after an 8.5 per cent price hike. The government's official price increase guideline is 2.5 per cent per year. The official pay increase yardstick is 5.5 per cent—a figure exceeded almost three times by the coal miners wage settlement.

George H. Boldt, chairman of the pay panel, came under attack for the board's decision in the miners wage case. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the wage agreement "puts the whole stabilization set up in the gravest possible jeopardy" because of the precedent it set.

Boldt, in an appearance Saturday before a House-Senate Economic Committee, denied Proxmire's allegation, although he said the wage increase probably was excessive. He also defended the board's ban against retroactive payment of wage increases which fell due during the 90-day freeze, saying anything less would be inequitable and unfair.

Labor's rudeness 'trumped'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —AFL-CIO President George Meany today accused President Nixon of deliberately staging the allegedly rude treatment the chief executive received when he spoke to labor federation's convention here last Friday.

"The accusations of discourtesy are absolutely and completely untrue and unfair," Meany told the closing day's session of the convention. "I think we showed the respect that was due the President. We were courteous and there was no jeering, no booing."

But the 77-year-old Meany said Nixon's address was "pure political propaganda."

Indian invasion claimed

By United Press International
Radio Pakistan charged today that India "has launched an all-out offensive against East Pakistan ... without formal declaration of war."

In New Delhi, a government spokesman denied similar charges of an Indian invasion.

A Radio Pakistan broadcast monitored in London said that the Indian attacks came in the Jessore sector bordering on India's West Bengal state and spoke of dead on both sides.

In New Delhi, government spokesmen said that Indian jet fighters fired on four Pakistani Sabre jets which intruded into Indian territory in the Jessore area, but denied as "absolutely false" Pakistani radio charges that Indian tanks and infantry had entered East Pakistan there.

Tension between the two countries has been building up since Pakistan's government tried to put down the Bengali autonomy movement in East Pakistan by force last March.

CARTOONIST Al Capp is scheduled to appear for a preliminary hearing today on three morals charges filed last spring by an Eau Claire, Wis., married coed. (UPI)

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (UPI) —Cartoonist Al Capp, creator of the cartoon strip "Li'l Abner," was scheduled for a preliminary hearing today on three morals charges filed last spring by a married coed.

The hearing—which was to decide whether Capp stands trial on charges of sodomy, attempted adultery and indecent exposure—was to be held under some of the most stringent courtroom procedures ever laid down by a Wisconsin judge.

Judge Thomas Barland ruled out cameras and tape recorders for the news media, told everyone involved not to talk with the media and reporters not to talk to them, and set up a rigid procedure for seating.

Announces program

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Vena Waggoner, director of the Twin Falls County Historical Society Museum, announces the program for the next meeting of the society.

Members and guests are to bring an historical item and tell the story connected with the item. Anything that has a history that is interesting will be accepted.

The next meeting will be held the latter part of January. About 90 persons attended the last meeting of the society, which featured a slide show of the field trips this past summer.

the Justice Department has surveyed its female staff and found only 243 women out of 41,742 employees earning $15,000 or more. Three of the highest paid women work for FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Miss Helen W. Gandy, now past the mandatory retirement age of 70, is listed as Hoover's executive assistant. She has a grade 17 government rank carrying a pay scale of between $32,546 and $38,000.

Hoover, 78, earns $42,500. His senior staff of 11 assistant directors are grade 18's earning approximately $36,000, the same as most assistant attorneys general.

The only other woman in the department with as high a rank as Miss Gandy is Mrs. Paula A. Tennant, appointed by President Nixon to the eight-member U.S. Board of Parole a year ago.

Miss Gandy's tenure as private secretary to Hoover apparently dates back to his appointment as the head of the FBI May 10, 1924. She is in the same category as Associate Director Clyde A. Tolson, who elected to serve past his 70th birthday May 22, 1970.

Salaries of senior secretaries to the top executives of the nation's largest private industrial corporations range between $15,000 and $20,000, about the same as top government secretaries who have the job classification of "secretary."

Of just seven women in the Justice Department with a grade 16 rank, paying between $28,129 and $35,633, two also work in Hoover's office. Described as "administrative assistants," they are Dorothy Skillman and Edna M. Holmes.

Hoover will not permit women to be FBI agents because of the alleged danger but is currently being sued by a woman to relax that rule.

There also are no women U.S. marshals, but the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs (BNDD) recently swore in its first female narcotics agent.

Texas book depository is reminder of tragedy

DALLAS (UPI).—The seven-story red brick Texas school-book depository is empty, a mute reminder of the tragedy that occurred eight years ago today.

The thousands of people who will circle it today and snap its picture will not be allowed inside. And even if they could climb to that sixth-story window from where Lee Harvey Oswald fired the three shots that killed President John F. Kennedy, they would be disappointed.

Trees planted along the roadside where Kennedy was assassinated have grown and now block the line of sight. Oswald could not have shot Kennedy from the same place today. A tree would have deflected the bullet.

Only a small ceremony was planned to honor the slain president. Mayor Wes Wise will deliver a short speech and a wreath will be placed inside the Kennedy Memorial, two blocks from the spot where Kennedy was killed.

The depository at 411 Elm at the western edge of downtown Dallas still stands although the doors are locked and barred and no trespassing signs are posted all over it.

The building was owned by Texas oilman D. Harold Byrd in 1963. Shortly after the assassination he was offered as much as $1 million for it. But interest in the event has waned and last year Byrd sold the building for $650,000 to Aubrey Mayhew, 43, a recording company executive and a collector of Kennedy memorabilia in Nashville, Tenn.

Mayhew since has hired a Dallas architectural firm to remodel the building and plans to turn it into a museum.

But a state senator and a commission is fighting Mayhew's plans. Sen. Mike McKeel of Dallas wants the state to take over the building to turn it into a museum. He said the building should not be owned by anyone except the people of Texas.

The nine-member commission is more interested in the site of the building than the structure itself. Raymond D. Hatcher of Dallas, the chairman of the commission says the 68-year-old building is not in good shape and should be torn down to construct some other memorial to the slain president.

Fire blazes

ALTAMONT, Utah (UPI).—Flames shot up to 150 feet above a blazing oil well Sunday and officials predicted the fire might last for days.

The fire, already three days old, caused at least $1 million damage, but there were no injuries and the flames were confined to an oil drilling rig.

Jimmy Adair, son of Texas oilfire expert Red Adair, was at the scene helping with preparations for an assault on the massive blaze.

"It's going to take at least one and maybe two days more for preparations before they can actually start a firefighting operation," said John Richards of Shell Oil Co., which operates the well.

An earthen reservoir was built at the site and special high volume pumps were rigged, but before the firefighters could get at the flames, tons of twisted metal had to be pulled out of the way in a delicate and dangerous operation.

"There's no way of predicting when we'll get the fire out," Richards said, recalling that a similar fire at a Shell oil rig four miles away burned for six days in September.

That blaze was raging unchecked when suddenly a clogging in the oil hole caused the flames to subside and the firefighters quickly doused them.

"We can't count on that kind of luck this time," Richards said.

The fire started at midnight Thursday and about eight hours later mushroomed into a giant geyser of flames when an explosion wrecked the derrick over the well.

HUGH U. PHILLIPS Manager Question... The home my husband and I own is mortgaged. Is it true this mortgage will be paid automatically if either of us passes away? Answer... Mortgage redemption insurance is usually carried only upon the life of the husband although the wife may also be insured. Insurance for the purpose of paying off a mortgage is not automatically included in mortgage payments. Some lenders, however, may require coverage upon the life of the husband as a condition for making a loan. Insurance to pay off a mortgage indebtedness may be any type of life insurance. Decreasing term insurance is the most popular form of mortgage insurance and, like all life insurance, is paid to the surviving spouse, not to the mortgage holder. In this aspect, mortgage redemption insurance differs from credit life insurance which is paid directly to the lender. Insurance carried for the purpose of paying a mortgage is not expensive and is one of the basic things a young family buying a home should investigate. 3-day meet held in TF

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News-Writer

TWIN FALLS — School and college halls alike resounded to rhythm and melody for three consecutive days last Thursday through Saturday as Magic Valley high-school-age musicians proved themselves able students of talented instructors.

On Thursday, the Twin Falls High School music department serenaded the season in the annual fall concert in the high school gymnasium. Choir director Richard Smack and instrumental instructor Del Slaughter guided the concert choir, symphony orchestra and band through an enjoyable program that was well received by the relatively small audience.

On Friday and Saturday, the Fourth District music clinic brought several hundred skilled high school musicians to Twin Falls for instruction by three guests — clinicians — including Bert Burda, state music consultant, who worked with the girls' chorus; Dr. James Gabbard, College of Idaho, instructing the mixed chorus, and Melvin Shelton of Boise State College, the band instructor.

A varied program of vocal and instrumental numbers was developed during the two days, culminating in a public concert Saturday evening in the College of Southern Idaho gymnasium. A sizable crowd gave the students and their instructors a rousing standing ovation at the thrilling climax of the concert — and, despite comments to the contrary, this reviewer believes that Magic Valley concert-goers intend a sincere compliment to the performers by a standing ovation.

Where in Europe, notably in Italy, enthralled audiences express their enthusiasm with shouts of "Bravo" and the like, in the Magic Valley we stand to our feet in appreciation.

Thursday's high school concert was thoroughly enjoyable from every aspect. In sporting parlance the students were "up" and ready for the event. Not only were they very much in tune, they seemed as enthusiastic about demonstrating their considerable talent as the audience was in hearing them.

Del Slaughter selected a showy series of numbers for his orchestra, which started the concert with J. S. Bach's "Little Suite" of four movements, and symphony band, which ended the evening's entertainment with the thumping rhythm of the "Sounds of the Carpenters," arranged by John Cacavas.

The percussion section was given ample chance to display its skills in a number of numbers, particularly the "Emperata Overture" by Claude T. Smith, with its magnificent repetitious rhythm of snare drums carrying the theme in the background, and the Coronation scene from "Boris Godunov" by Moussorgsky, which makes ample use of the bass and kettle drums for a thundering restatement of the theme — entry of the regent.

Richard Smack's 70-voice choir was never in better voice. Their many hours of careful practice paid off in the careful diction, the exquisite harmony and the lovely melodies of their six numbers.

The choir's version of the tricky "Soft Rain" by Janet Cox, with a lengthy passage of interwoven, syncopated words, was perfection itself — every word could be clearly heard from each of the 70 voices, even though each was singing in an incredibly fast rhythm. The closing of "Soft Rain," with the choir's voices gradually fading — oh, so gradually fading — into the distance brought the entire audience to complete silence in rapt appreciation.

Yes, this reviewer will admit that this is unquestionably a "rave" review — we find nothing to criticize. In the ghastly background noise of acid rock which afflicts our civilization today, it is very pleasant indeed to find so many students willing — indeed, eager — to "make good music" for all to hear.

Valley students work hard for clinicians

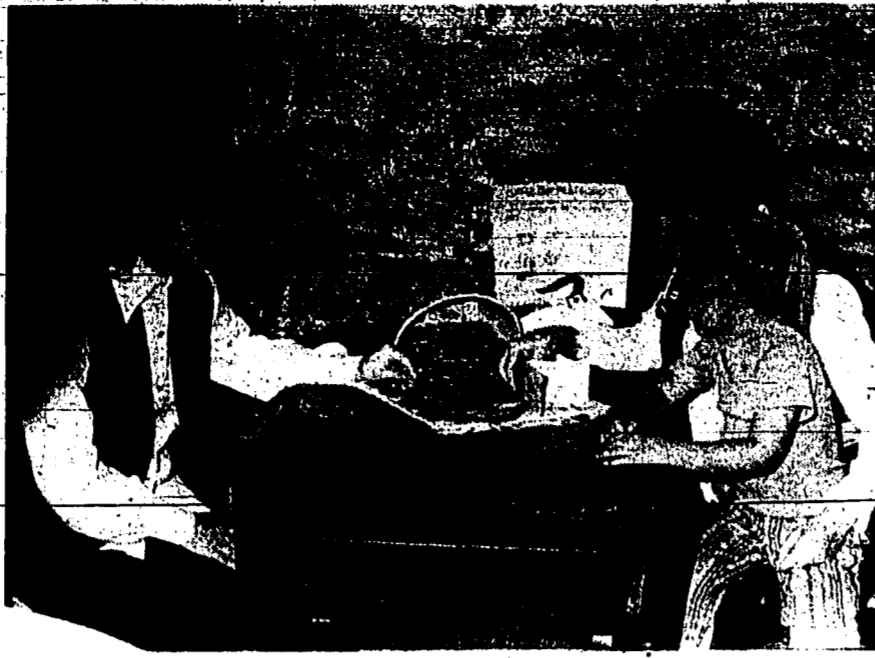

TWIN FALLS — The several hundred Magic Valley high school musicians attending the Fourth District music clinic Friday and Saturday found their work cut out for them.

Their clinicians worked them long and hard, demanding the utmost from them, even though they were selected as the top students in their respective classes. All clinicians are top-ranked instructors in their own right, and quickly gained the respect of the students with their obvious skills.

Dr. James Gabbard, College of Idaho music professor, worked with the mixed chorus of boys and girls in the Vera C. O'Leary Junior High auditorium, exhorting the large group continually to watch their diction, tread lightly on the flats and take note of the rhythm.

Dr. Gabbard is a lively instructor to say the least. He thumps his feet, waves his arms and at times crouches in a football stance — he had hoped to go into coaching, but a back injury changed his plans and he turned to music. He still reminds one of a coach in the last minutes of a tight game.

He loves his kids, though; there is no doubt of that. And "his kids" love him, despite his

Coffee day nets $327

TWIN FALLS — The fourth annual fund-raising coffee day, sponsored by the Jay-C-Ettes in Twin Falls, raised over $327 for the Idaho State School and Hospital at Nampa.

Ette president, said 26 restaurants and cafes participated in the one-day campaign, in which free coffee was served, with patrons asked to donate to the Nampa school.

This year's effort marked the largest total of donations and the greatest number of participating restaurants, Mrs. Becker said. In addition a "coffee" open house at the Child Development Center on Harrison Street brought in $4.05 to the fund.

As of Saturday, the amount received totaled $327.09, with three restaurants yet to report, Mrs. Becker said.

Mrs. Bertha Buchanan, Twin Falls, served as chairman of the drive.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Idaho geologists are being asked to register under new regulation of their profession ordered by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

The Boise office of the Idaho Board of Registration for professional geologists is providing application forms.

Dr. John G. Bond, professor of geology at the University of Idaho, is secretary of the organization.

He said any geologist consulting in Idaho or anticipating practicing geology in the state where public interests are involved should apply for membership.

demanding nature. When he dismissed the group of 200-plus musicians Friday afternoon, they rewarded him with prolonged applause — enthusiastic applause that gave one the feeling they were not just glad to have some time off, but were sincerely appreciative of his efforts on their behalf.

Bert Burda, music consultant for the Idaho Department of Education, worked with the girls' chorus in the First Christian Church, across the street from O'Leary. Though a smaller group, the chorus worked equally as hard for the demanding Mr. Burda. They also appreciated his work to develop their skills, rewarding him and a large audience Saturday night with a perfect performance during the public concert in the CSI gym.

Melvin Shelton, a Boise State College music instructor, worked with the clinic band Friday and Saturday in the CSI gym, putting together a showy series of pieces that blended intricate harmony with thundering percussion for a most pleasant combination.

Shelton, also, is a wood instructor, exhorting his windwinds and brasses to ever greater efforts and reminding the percussionists that "the whole piece depends on your work."

He reminded the hard-working woodwinds, who had been struggling with an intricate passage, that "Your lips will heal during the lunch break," and kept up a pleasant patter of comment that won the students' utmost loyalty and respect.

Prayer Partisans

WASHINGTON — The fight is far from over to win Congressional approval for the narrowly defeated Constitutional amendment permitting non-denominational prayer in public schools.

Preparations already are underway to vigorously renew this effort next year — depending on developments.

If lower Federal courts and school officials interpret the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in such a manner as to bar voluntary prayer in schools, then the sponsor of the Constitutional amendment bluntly warns, "We will be back."

Introducing down this gauntlet, Rep. Chalmers Wylie (R.-Ohio), decorated Patton veteran who organized and led the bipartisan drive for the amendment, stressed that actually it chalked up a 78 majority in the House — 240 for, 162 against.

As Constitutional amendments require a two-thirds majority, Wylie's measure lost by 28 votes.

"The horse is still saddled and in the barn," says Wylie. "He is not dead. If the lower courts and school officials take a page from the Congressional Record, and permit voluntary prayer in public schools as many opponents of my prayer resolution said is now permissible, then the problem will have been resolved."

On the other hand, if the courts and school administrators continue in the direction they have taken since the ENGEL case, then we will be back. We will be back because the American people will demand another effort to restore a practice which was Constitutional for 171 years.

Since the close House defeat of Wylie's amendment, he has received messages from all over the country urging him to continue his fight. He vigorously affirms his determination to do so if necessary.

The Ohio legislator, who won five combat decorations with the 30th Infantry Division, one of General Patton's crack fighting outfits, indicates that may have to be done. He cites a disturbing restrictive trend by lower courts and school authorities.

"The ludicrous extreme to which the courts have arrived," says Wylie, "is exemplified by the Neffong case which said students could not meet in a gymnasium before school to read the chaplain's prayer from the Congressional Record. Suddenly, we have opponents 'who object to changing of the Bill of Rights.'

"That is utterly ridiculous because the Bill of Rights was changed or modified with respect to religious freedom by the Supreme Court in 1962. How can something be Constitutional for 171 years and suddenly be unconstitutional?"

"The school prayer issue did not die with the vote in the House. After all, 78 more members voted for the resolution than against it. It will never die until the privilege of praying in a public school setting is restored."

Rep. Robert Drinan of Massachusetts, New Left Democrat, militant dove and the first Catholic priest elected to Congress, found himself in an embarrassing spot during the tense House debate over the Constitutional amendment to permit non-denominational prayer in public schools.

The ultra-liberal priest, who on occasion characterizes himself as the "mad monk," opposed the measure — much to the surprise of many of his colleagues. One of them said to him:

"Father, I am surprised at your stand. Here you are, a man of the cloth and opposing prayer and the teaching of prayer to children. How do you explain that?"

"I am following the counsel and policy laid down by the U.S. Catholic Conference," replied Drinan tartly. "I am abiding by their wisdom. That's the whole explanation."

(U.S. Catholic Conference, formerly U.S. Council of Catholic Bishops, consists of all Catholic bishops in the country.)

"Well, that's interesting and also quite curious," retorted the colleague, "because you completely disregarded the counsel and policy of the Catholic Conference when you ran for Congress after they told you not to."

Drinan glared at the colleague, and then with an angry snort stalked off. The colleague chuckled derisively.

PAUL HARVEY

Our Flag

Tom Jolley, a conscientious objector to war, renounced his citizenship, fled to Canada.

When he returned to the United States he was determined an alien. The courts gave him 90 days to find a country which would accept him. Meanwhile Tom Jolley is a man without a country.

What are the prospects for the tens of thousands of other young Americans who fled elsewhere? To get a passport you have to swear allegiance to the United States. If you are a Quaker or an Adventist, you may "affirm" instead of swear, but you are expected to be loyal to your homeland.

A faction tried to force the State Department to drop this oath of allegiance.

On the outspoken insistence of Frances Knight of the passport division, the Department of Justice decreed that the oath remains.

But now the faction opposed is appealing through the courts. Why, do you suppose?

Those opposed are not necessarily Communists. Some one-worlders are conscientious and sincere in their conviction that nationalism must be broken down, diluted, destroyed, if mankind is to live in peace.

Also, it can be argued that swearing allegiance is no more meaningful or binding than the integrity of the swearer.

Yet, since the un-Civil War, the passport application has included an oath of allegiance: A passport is an official document by which our government certifies the identity and citizenship of the bearer, requesting all foreign governments to lend said bearer all lawful aid and protection.

The bearer is wrapped in the protection of our Flag wherever he is.

Is a person — unwilling to pledge allegiance — entitled to that protection?

Under pressure, in 1966, the oath was made optional; including it in the passport application became a formality, nothing more.

It was when the American Civil Liberties Union lawyers tried to delete the pledge altogether that our Department of Justice decided to re-enforce it.

Now those opposed consider the issue of sufficient importance to tie up ACLU lawyers in a court test which will likely go all the way.

An observer of contemporary history sees an interesting and perhaps ominous transition taking place. While United States of Americans are diluting their patriotism, most other people of the world's nations are reaffirming theirs.

While we are tending to lean more heavily on a United Nations, others are disuniting under separate banners, ultra-nationalistic or regional in nature.

It would be a cruel paradox if elsewhere Reds and blacks and browns segregate, consolidate and grow strong.

While the red, white and blue becomes a faded rag not worth saluting any more.

In which case, tomorrow's historians might have to record that we survived the attack and succumbed to the whittlers.

NEW YORK — The severe problems faced by Mayor John V. Lindsay's campaign for President in his own city were laid bare the evening of Oct. 29 in a private meeting held here in Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's suite at the Plaza Hotel.

Flanking Muskie were John F. English, Democratic National Committeeman from New York and a national Muskie political operative, and Washington lawyer Lester Hyman, Muskie's out-of-state coordinator for New York. The guest was city councilman Matthew Troy, weaver of the regular Democratic organization in the borough of Queens.

Troy long ago endorsed Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota for President and has been paraded around the country since then as a rare specimen of a machine politician backing super-liberal McGovern. But at the Plaza, Troy confessed he could not get and would not try to get his district leaders in the Queens organization to back McGovern delegates in the June 20 New York primary.

What's more, Troy confided to Muskie serious doubts that McGovern would still be an active candidate by the time New York's primary rolled around. So, Troy informed Muskie and his delighted lieutenants, come right into Queens and make yourself welcome?

This scarcely makes Matty Troy a covert Muskie agent. As anybody with the vaguest knowledge of New York politics knows, his heart still belongs with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. What Troy was making clear to the Muskie camp was his determination to beat the Lindsay forces in Queens next June 20 whether the alternative be Muskie, Kennedy or somebody else.

The Queens situation is not isolated. Lindsay's attempts to woo the regular Democratic organization through selective use of patronage have proved a failure. The Bronx regulars are as hostile to Lindsay as the Queens organization. Regular leader Meade Esposito of Brooklyn has cooperated closely with Lindsay on patronage questions but would not dare attempt to elect Lindsay delegates in that most unfriendly borough.

Nobody is more aware of these power realities than Lindsay's crafty political manager, Richard Auelio. Rather, he believes that the city Democratic organization is so dilapidated that Lindsay's precinct organization can outperform it at the polls next June, giving the Mayor a respectable bag of delegates from his own city.

Accordingly, the preliminary outlook for the primary takes on the typically parochial political coloration of the nation's largest city. With the Democratic Presidential nomination at stake, the New York primary becomes a test for control of the state party between neophyte Democrat Lindsay and old-line regulars.

The talkative Troy now talks privately of working out some accommodation with the Muskie forces, agreeing on a slate of delegates to oppose Lindsay in Queens. Troy naturally hopes Muskie might be so bruised in the primaries by that time that this slate will wind up backing Kennedy. But Muskie men are not hostile to such an accommodation.

The Muskie camp, however, does not want to jump on the anti-Lindsay bandwagon. Figuring Lindsay may be around New York Democratic politics for some time to come and could be the party's nominee for governor in 1974, Muskie strategists keep carefully cordial relations with city hall.

Indeed, the biggest impediment to a real Muskie groundswell among New York politicians is not Lindsay but persistent Kennedy talk. More than other parts of the country, New York regulars and reformers alike maintain steadfast allegiance to Kennedy and insist that the taint of Chappaquiddick won't hurt here.

They also note that Kennedy, for all his protestations that he is not a candidate, acts very much like one. When Kennedy darted into New York Tuesday night for two more highly publicized speaking engagements, they assumed again — perhaps quite incorrectly — that positive actions are far more decisive than negative words.

Kennedy's persistence on the Manhattan banquet circuit is most annoying to some Muskie supporters here who view him as a threat. But in fact, the party regulars feel either Muskie or Kennedy would run well here in both the primary and the general election. Which one they support in their blood feud against John V. Lindsay depends on primary elections held elsewhere long before the balloting in New York.

In a recent column we erred in naming Flint instead of Pontiac, Mich., as a recent trouble spot in school busing.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Hemorrhoids

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send me your booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids," for which I enclose 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I have been bothered by itching in the anal and rectal area for years and have tried many salves and preparations. Nothing seems to relieve it. Do you think a skin specialist could help me? Other doctors have recommended salves.

I have frequent bowel movements and a sort of leakage from the anus. Could it be a dietary problem?—R.A.

Sometimes this sort of complaint is overtreated with salves, and a better solution can be to keep the area dry. Leaving a little wad of cotton at the anus, to absorb moisture, can be helpful, and well worth trying.

Your mention of frequent movements and leakage may be a valuable clue. These indicate a need for meticulous cleanliness. Wash the area, and dry it, before applying the cotton. With frequent movements, small particles of material can catch in the skin folds around the anus, and cause very annoying itching.

The seepage also suggest the possibility of the presence of a fissure or of hemorrhoids—both conditions are covered in the booklet.

I would, therefore, suggest that examination by a rectal specialist would be more likely to bring you relief—permanent relief rather than perhaps temporary.

As to diet, excessive use of beer can cause itching, although I must admit the amount that is excessive varies from person to person. If you are a regular beer drinker, try getting along without it for a few days and see if there's a difference.

The possibility of food allergy cannot be overlooked, because certain foods will bother some people, but rectal disease by far the more common cause of such itching.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter has a baby now eight months old. For protection for a while she was fitted with an IUD but it didn't work and she got pregnant right away.

Now the doctor tells her if he removed the IUD (she is two months pregnant) she would hemorrhage and have a miscarriage. If she leaves it in she may stand a chance of having a deformed child.

I am not familiar with these things and would like your opinion.—Mrs. C. B.

The doctor advised the accepted practice in such cases. Removal of the IUD can cause death of the fetus. Its presence may cause a miscarriage anyway, but if it does not, it will be expelled at the time of delivery. Deformity of the baby is not likely.

How does VD start? Why are teen-agers among its most frequent victims? Will it cure itself? Dr. Thosteson has the answers in his convenient, layman's language booklet, "Venereal Disease: How to Avoid It; How to Cure It." For a copy write him in care of this newspaper, enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed (US zip code) envelope.

Official City and County Newspaper Pursuant to Section 60-108 Idaho Code, Thursday is hereby designated as the day of the week on which legal notices will be published. Published daily and Sunday, except Saturday, at 132 Third Street West, Twin Falls, Idaho, 83301, by Magic Valley Newspapers, Inc. Entered as second class mail matter April 8, 1918, at the post office in Twin Falls, Idaho, 83301, under the act of March 8, 1879.

COMMENT

Schools Face Mission

IDAHO FALLS POST-REGISTER

School populations in Idaho are not static. Neither is the steady erosion of inflation. But even without inflation and even without increasing school student numbers, the burden of moving to a more meaningful student-serving program will always be upon the state's citizens.

What, for example, needs to be applied eventually in our school system — psychiatric and social worker trained elementary as well as junior and senior high school counselors and a complete child evaluation and rehabilitation plan every grade of the way — will require money. However, money will be saved in the long run with the rescue of people who would otherwise be a burden on the citizenry from either a misfired vocation or a life of crime.

More immediately, however, Idaho was shaken this week with the announcement by the state Board of Education that no more new driver-training courses would be started this year. While one may argue that there is question whether the school district or the law enforcement arm should conduct this program, the least we can say is that it is eminently valuable and that some agency should provide the training.

The root of the cause can be traced to the Idaho Legislature and the ever-present money problems facing most sessions of the Legislature. It is always a sweaty and belabored choice of priorities. The Idaho Legislature did not provide all the money which the schools needed to do everything that the same Legislature and the citizens over the state has asked of them.

Another of the things being asked of the school system is public-supported kindergartens. If one accepts that the pre-school age is the most fertile for channeling a child into his capacities, then one has to say that kindergartens are a must. When delegates to the Idaho School Trustees association voted to reject kindergartens in their priorities, it must be assumed they have also rejected this scientific presumption on behalf of kindergartens. The trustees — as the Idaho Falls school trustees advancing the kindergarten resolution, indicated — made their decision without proper lack of information. Not only lack of information on the demonstrated values of kindergartens but on how it can be applied as well. What the trustees were trying to say apparently, is that in the hierarchy of priorities, the trustees did not place kindergartens ahead of what they felt were more basic needs. But, again, this is a constrained exercise in cost-juggling, not values juggling.

As Dr. William Morton, incoming president of the Idaho School Trustees organization, said:

"Kindergartens, properly established and administered, would pay a good share of their cost in terms of dollars because of the savings that could be effected in marked reduction in remedial study groups which nearly every district has had to provide"

School districts have long neglected remedial programs in fact — making necessary such separate institutions as the Child Development Center in Idaho Falls for retarded children. Schools have also failed to face up to remedial work for physically handicapped, but especially for those undetected mental-abberation problems, temporary or long-lived.

What those clamoring about the costs of school also do not realize is that they end up paying for the so called "extra programs" whether they are provided by the schools or elsewhere — because they represent a genuine need.

There is a program on dropouts in the Idaho Falls system under a special grant, but the dropout-rescuing mission is traditionally a sideline with the schools, and not a very successful one, experience has shown.

While the school cost problem may not be simplified it may be made more uniform in a court case now pending in Idaho. The Caldwell and Pocatello school districts have challenged the present local property tax platform for supporting schools in Idaho. Idaho's Constitution appears to demand equal treatment for a child attending school, wherever the student resides. This is true of most state constitutions, and of course, reflects the equal opportunities philosophy of our national Constitution.

But the dollars are not equal because of the disparity in local property tax base and the method of assessment from county to county. Not only that, Idaho is still distributing state tax money to local school districts on the basis of things, from cows to utilities. The law which distributes sales tax money to replace phased out inventory taxes further contributes to the inequity. The Idaho Legislature wrestled with a proposal to revise the school aid formula, which tries but fails at righting the inequity, but could not reach agreement. This would result in not only a fair formula but the state would assume at least 75 per cent of the cost. The state now assumes about 50 per cent, making at least 50 per cent of the school support as uniform as possible.

In view of the court case, all but certain local building development costs may be placed on the state — and even these eventually. The state's support would bypass this county by county disparity and could put dollars behind student numbers as they are. The state itself would have to apply a property tax, but could apply it and collect it more efficiently and uniformly. The property tax itself has become less reflective of wealth, anyhow, but it will have to be sustained in some form, even if some of its previous load is shifted to other tax sources.

The Idaho Education Association has indicated the need to raise taxes. And this may be so, although the last quarterly report shows general taxes up nearly 6 per cent and the sales tax collections up 11 per cent. The elimination of the federal tax credit on the state income tax form may be the best method if a tax increase is judged necessary finally. Raising of the sales tax would not likely have acceptance in Idaho — and for good reason, at least at this time. Some elimination of sales tax exemptions may be worthy of analysis although farm production equipment should remain exempt, as should the cost of drugs for the elderly.

When school costs are examined, as one educator noted, a citizen must stand back and evaluate not only the costs but the importance of education to an individual — the right education. And the right education in the years ahead will be opening up and rescuing young minds as we never have done before. The potential is in the wings now.

Report given on hot line at Burley

BURLEY — A Burley High School senior outlined plans for a city "hot line" in an address to the Soroptimist Club.

Stephanie Martin told the group the information center would operate from 8 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. each night, with persons manning the phones to deal with emergencies, handle situations of "distress" or simply discuss personal problems with callers.

The headquarters will be set up in the Community Action Center, with the corner of Albion Ave., and 16th Street, across from Safeways. The office space has been donated by the center.

"Persons in distress can call the headquarters in complete confidence that their names and situations will not be revealed," said Miss Martin.

"Help from doctors, police, ambulance, ministers or others will be available when needed," she added.

"We hope to man the Hot Line with adults as well as high school students. If you can listen you can work on the Hot Line crew," according to Miss Martin. There will be one major training session before the hot line opens about Jan. 1 and monthly meetings are planned for workers to discuss problems and suggest improvements.

The phone number for the Hot Line will be prominently posted, Miss Martin said, in restrooms, phone booths, on radio, in the newspapers and in the next issue of the phone directory.

A file is presently being compiled listing information which the Hot Line operators will refer to in answering questions, she added.

Ann Schorzman, girl of the month for the Burley Soroptimist Club, was a guest at the meeting.

Miss Schorzman reported on her school activities. She serves as the Burley High School mascot, has been a member of the Bel Canto Choir for three years; a member of French Club and Ski Club for two years and this year is treasurer of the Ski Club, a member of B-Teens, attended Tri-State, is a member of Quill and Scroll and was a delegate to Girls State.

She said she plans to attend an Idaho College.

She is interested in sociology and theology. Also she is an active member of the Presbyterian Church and is an elder.

Mrs. Arthur Schorzman, her mother, was also a guest at the luncheon.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Edith Raustadt, vice president. The opening exercises were conducted by Mrs. Helene Coffey and the thought for the day was given by Mrs. Fred Sherrod. Members answered a slogan roll call.

Members voted to hold a silent auction Dec. 15 which is also a change in dates for the regular business meeting. Each member is asked to furnish at least three items for the silent auction, according to Mrs. Joe Hinz, ways and means chairman.

The first meeting of the club in December will be 7:30 p.m. Dec. 8 and will be the annual Christmas social, with a gift exchange. Each member is asked to furnish a white elephant, according to Mrs. Retta Payne, hospitality committee chairman.

Others assisting with the planning of the Christmas social are Mrs. Coffey, Mrs. Ferral Weeks, Mrs. Harlow Cheney, Mrs. Rodney Murphy, and Mrs. Gerald Bryan. The program for the evening will be directed by Mrs. Raustadt, club program chairman.

Thanks rites

TWIN FALLS — The First Church of Christ, Scientist congregation will hold Thanksgiving Day Services Thursday at 11 a.m. at 160 Ninth Ave. East.

The service will be conducted by Art Williams, first reader and Mrs. Alta Day, second reader. Mrs. Joyce Kelley will sing a hymn solo, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Joyce Robertson.

A distinctive aspect of the annual Thanksgiving Service is the individual expression of gratitude by members of the congregation. No collections are taken.

Two T.F. burglaries probed

TWIN FALLS — Two burglaries were reported to Twin Falls police early Saturday and officers said they were not able to determine how entries were made in either case.

K. E. Otto, owner of Otto's News Agency, said someone entered his building and took approximately $50 including a cash box with $35 in change, and money from a soft drink machine. The day's receipts were also taken from the office area, officers said.

Gordon Crockett, Magic Valley Realty, told police when he arrived in his office Saturday morning he discovered the desk in his office had been forced open and a small change box was missing. He said the box contained some coins he had been saving, such as silver dollars, and some small change totaling about $22. He said nothing else in the building had been disturbed.

Officers also reported the theft of two guns from a pickup truck parked at 244 Quincey St. Saturday night. Clyde B. Tiffany, Lakeside, Calif., who is visiting in Twin Falls, told officers someone entered his parked vehicle and took a Winchester rifle, caliber 270 and a Browning automatic shotgun. He set value at $450 for the two guns.

Early detection of forest fires will be made possible by the earth resources technology satellites.

Yule holiday starts early

NEW YORK (UPI)—Taking a taxicab back from the theater last week, Jean Gunther saw workmen putting up Christmas decorations in front of a store. "They're starting early this year, aren't they?" she remarked.

In San Francisco, Roos-Atkins clothing store put up its Christmas decorations the day after Halloween. They did the same thing at many stores in Little Tokyo in Los Angeles. In Atlanta, a few stores have begun assembling their displays, but in Chicago they are waiting for Monday's traditional State Street lighting ceremony.

"We expect better business than in the past few years," was one explanation Lloyd A. Pfluger, president of the San Francisco Retail Merchants Association, gave for early sales campaigns.

But a New York merchant, who did not want to be identified, explained that many stores may be trying to extend the season to sell out stock left over from last year when they anticipated more of a boom than materialized.

Many retailers miss the Armistice Day promotional period since the holiday has been changed to October, according to G. M. Valenti, managing director of the National Association of Display Industries.

Macy's in San Francisco ran into a problem this year. The artificial green trees it ordered were held up because of the Pacific coast dock strike. But Santa Claus arrived Nov. 13 despite the tree delay.

Los Angeles merchants have stayed with the traditional display schedule but the story is different in the suburban areas. Santa Monica merchants put up trees two weeks ago and Santa will arrive Nov. 26 to pass out candy canes and coloring books.

Most of the stores in Chicago plan to begin expanded shopping hours Nov. 26, but a few will start this procedure earlier.

Some displays are up in Dallas, but Neiman-Marcus put out its unusual Christmas gift catalogue for the man who has everything about the same time it has for years.

Spokesmen at Davison's in Atlanta noted customers have begun inquiring about Christmas merchandise earlier and specialty items sell better now. "But Santa Claus will not appear until after Thanksgiving."

J.C. Penney stores throughout the nation began putting out their decorations last week. "It's just the same as last year," said a Penney spokesman.

Most merchants interviewed said the big Christmas sales push will begin after Thursday, when millions will view Santa Claus on television in the big "Thanksgiving Day" parades in New York, Detroit and Philadelphia.

SHOSHONE — Word has been received by friends in Shoshone that former resident, Dr. Frederick R. Oyer, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Oyer, has been accepted at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, N.Y. to serve his residency in surgery.

Dr. Oyer is presently in the Air Force, stationed at Tucson, Ariz., and will begin his residency in October, 1972. He will spend four years in his specialty which is surgery.

Almanac

By United Press International Today is Monday, Nov. 22, the 326th day of 1971.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning star is Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Sagittarius.

On this day in history: In 1852 the 2nd French Empire gained recognition when more than seven million persons voted to back the regime of Emperor Napoleon III.

In 1950 a train wreck just outside New York City killed 79 persons.

In 1960 the U.S. Navy launched the "Ethan Allen" at the time its most powerful nuclear submarine.

A, thought for today: American Gen. William Sherman said, "I am tired and sick of war. Its glory is all moonshine. It is only those who neither fired a shot nor heard the shrieks and groans of the wounded who cry aloud for blood, more vengeance, more desolation. War is hell."

Fire boxes out

HOLLAND, Mich. (UPI) — Fire alarm boxes are on their way out in this Michigan community because there are plenty of phones around to turn in alarms, says City Manager Will Bopf.

Bopf also said that of 28 alarms last year, 25 were false, two had already been turned in by telephone and only one resulted in dispatching firemen to fight a blaze.

A debunking

CHICAGO (UPI) — The preparation of "erotic" food has played a large role in the sexual history of man — but without scientific foundation.

Of the various foods to which aphrodisiac powers are traditionally attributed, fish, vegetables and spices have been the most popular through the centuries, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

But none contains any chemical agent that could effect a direct physiological reaction upon the genitourinary track.

District's finances improve

EDEN — HAZELTON. — Valley School District cash balances have shown a steady increase over the past ten years, Dr. Thomas Utterback, school superintendent, said this week.

Dr. Utterback said the annual audit report for fiscal 1970 showed the district cash balance at $101,731.22 for the general fund and $27,880.04 for the bond interest and redemption fund. The total balance is $135,182.61. The financial audit was prepared by Thomas P. Mahan, Jerome, C.P.A.

According to the audit, the total expenditures budgeted for the year amounted to $473,702, with only $465,571.96 actually spent. The balance for the year was $8,130.04, according to Dr. Utterback.

group has luncheon

TWIN FALLS — About 50 members of the National Retired Teachers Association, District Four held a luncheon meeting Friday at the Rogerson Hotel, Twin Falls.

President Edith Nancolas, Jerome, presented a report of the Area VIII Conference held in Salt Lake City in October. Mrs. Hazel Lawton, Wendell, lectured the group on her hobby, painting, and presented several examples of her work before the luncheon.

The Insurance Program meeting, originally scheduled for January, has been rescheduled for March. In its place will be a legislative meeting, with Bess Bays, Boise, special guest.

The White House Conference on Aging will be held in Washington, D. C. beginning November 28, it was announced.

Firm completes section of road

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — Morrison-Knudsen Co., Boise, has completed the second section of the relocation of the Whitebird Hill route between Poe Saddle and the Salmon River, it was announced Saturday.

The State Highway Department said M-K finished all major construction items by Nov. 1 or well ahead of schedule.

The $2,219,818 contract called for construction of the roadway to subgrade only drainage structures, fencing and relocation of about 700 feet of old U.S. 95 at the lower end of the village of Whitebird.

The relocation was necessary to make room for the fill about the north abutment to the connecting high bridge which will span White Bird Creek.

Motorists, however, will not be able to use the new highway section until the crushed gravel base and final paving of the new project is completed and $1 million bridge is built over White Bird Creek.

Meantime, A & R Construction Co., Lewiston, completed construction of a bridge across Skookumchuck Creek, five miles south of White Bird along U.S. 95.

Only minor cleanup and final paving remain to be done there but that will not be finished until next spring. The new structure is open to traffic, however.

Work on the $972,710 forest highway project on State Highway 14 near Fall Creek has closed for the winter.

14 valley youths in ISU choir

Major weekend fires kill 19

By United Press International
At least 19 persons, including 15 children, were killed Sunday in major fires in Alaska, Michigan and California. Arson was suspected in one fire that killed seven persons.

Fire officials in Pontiac, Mich., said they have no motives behind the blaze that claimed the lives of Mrs. Freddie May Colsey, four of her children and two other persons visiting in the home. Investigators said they found a two-gallon can filled with gasoline just inside the front door of the house. The door appeared to have been kicked in.

Killed in the blaze along with Mrs. Colsey were her children: Melica, 3, Rosalie, 9, Cindy, 6, and Dorothy, 16. Albert Henderson, 26 and John Brown, 20, were also killed in the blaze.

Six children and a young mother died when fire destroyed a trailer home near the International Airport in Fairbanks, Alaska.

Authorities said preliminary examination indicated that a defective heater caused the fire. The temperature at the time was 5 degrees.

The dead were identified as Patricia Ann Galvan, 26, her children, Chris, 5, Wesley, 2, and Cheryl, 1, and three children of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Duane Brewer Sr., Dorothy Elizabeth, 9, Peggy Louise, 8, and Dale Jr., 7.

Mrs. Galvan was baby sitting with three of her own children and the Brewer children, who lived in an adjoining trailer.

Five children, ranging in age from three to 13, burned to death when fire destroyed their ranch home in a rural farming area southwest of Blyth, Calif. The identities of those killed were not immediately learned.

Authorities said the 10 persons were sleeping in the house when the blaze broke out. The father led two children to safety and ran one-eighth of a mile to a neighbor's home to call for help. When fire officials arrived, the house was totally enveloped in flames and the roof was caving in.

The father became hysterical when he realized the five children were trapped in the house and had to be held back by fire officials. His wife and an aunt were able to escape the blaze.

Humphrey says provoke for gain

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey charged Sunday night that President Nixon had deliberately tried to provoke union leaders into an ugly confrontation for his own political gain.

Referring to Nixon's blunt address last Friday to the AFL-CIO convention here, Humphrey said "an opportunity for bringing Americans together was cast aside in the interest of personal political gain. He went to the point of seeking to provoke this audience."

The Minnesota Democrat made his charges in a press release outlining his view to AFL-CIO President George Meany and later in an interview with UPI.

Humphrey also joined labor officials in charging there is a "deliberate attempt to make the labor move look as if it was rude to the President, that it had a lack of respect for the office, which is not true. They did not jeer, boo or hiss."

"The fact that they didn't break out in tumultuous applause is because they don't happen to agree with the President's policies," Humphrey said.

An AFL-CIO spokesman earlier had charged the White House was trying to "falsely trump up" the impression that labor leaders gave Nixon an insulting reception when he spoke to the convention and told delegates he would press ahead with his wage and price controls with or without their cooperation.

Nixon's remarks were in answer to Meany's comment the day before that organized labor would not cooperate with decisions of the Pay Board and "If the President of the United States doesn't want our membership on the Pay Board on our terms, he knows what he can do."

AFL-CIO officials said they gave Nixon a "respectful and dignified, but distant" reception — "exactly the dignity that's due the office of President of the United States, but not the type of friendly personal receptions we gave two previous presidents (Kennedy and Johnson) we considered warm friends."

Coal miners return to work

By United Press International
The majority of the 15,000 soft coal miners who stayed on strike all last week returned to work today, apparently pleased by the Pay Board's approval of the first year round of wage increases.

A few dissident groups held out. One Virginia mine union leader claimed the United Mine Workers (UMW) union got its members nothing but "a clothing allowance."

The vast majority of the 80,000 soft coal miners under the UMW contract returned peacefully to work last week, following the signing of a three year contract between the UMW and the Association of Coal Operators.

Most of the resistance centered in the soft coal fields of northern West Virginia and southwestern Pennsylvania, centers of rebel movements against the UMW.

In southwestern Pennsylvania, miners voted to return to work at a half dozen of the big steel company owned mines where the strike had picketing continued all last week.

Consolidation Coal Co., which employs about one-quarter of the 40,000 soft coal miners in West Virginia, expressed confident hope that full coal production could resume.

Andrus plan hit by GOP

BOISE (UPI) — The chairman of the Idaho Young Republican League says it appeared Gov. Cecil D. Andrus had no well-thought-out plan for government reorganization.

Kimber Ricks, Rexburg, said in a statement released in Boise. "If Gov. Andrus has a specific plan in mind, he ought not fear laying it on the table for all the people to see."

He said the governor had made the statement that reorganization cannot be achieved by a legislature which is controlled by Republicans. Ricks alleged this indicated "an admitted weakness in his administrative abilities."

He noted that it was doubtful any Republican legislator would turn down a plan if the plan has a demonstrated capacity to benefit Idaho," said "Republicans would welcome a proposal of reorganization that would trim unnecessary fat and duplication from the state's budget while at the same time enabling the necessary agencies to operate more effectively for the people of Idaho."

Ricks said it "would not be in the best interests of good government to accept the blind proposal as Gov. Andrus is recommending."

Seek revision

BOISE (UPI) — The 300 delegates to the governor's housing conference, voted Saturday to form a statewide housing coalition that will seek revision of housing legislation.

The coalition, headed by a steering committee including migrants and tenants, will seek statewide grass roots support to effect changes in the tenant-landlord laws.

The coalition will also seek the creation of a state housing authority and revision of housing and building codes and their enforcement.

Protest march held against Y

BOISE (UPI) — A protest march was staged in front of the Boise YMCA Saturday night against alleged discrimination at the facility.

Almost 60 marchers, including men, women and children, paraded with signs carrying slogans charging racial discrimination, and several demonstrators said they knew of cases of discrimination concerning black youths and the YMCA.

Corps members. But the Teen Center in question, "Back Door" was restricted to dues-paying Boise youth, he said.

Emery said there's no discrimination as far as black youth are concerned and there are blacks on the governing board of the teen center.

A meeting has been scheduled for Dec. 8 between Corps representatives and the board.

St. Genevieve is the patron saint of Paris, France.

Ronnie Benton, Job Corps Center president, said, "when two black corpsmen and a white corpsman tried to get into a dance there the white corpsman was let in but the blacks got thrown out."

Very Emery, executive director of the YMCA, said most facilities were open to Job

In other activities, beef promotion and education programs will be detailed by Idaho Beef Council members.

About 500 cattlemen are expected to attend the meetings, according to chairman of the convention committee, Robert Bandy, Priest River.

Coffee house burns at Mountain Home

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — A fire of undetermined origin Sunday destroyed the "Covered Wagon," a peace movement coffee house sponsored by author Mark Lane as a headquarters for anti-war organizing activity at Mountain Home Air Force Base.

A restaurant and an auto parts storeroom, housed in the same building as the "Covered Wagon" were also burnt out.

The small southwestern Idaho town's volunteer fire department and firefighting units from the air base battled the flames, which broke out around 7:30 p.m. and were quenched by midnight.

Future

COEUR d'ALENE (UPI) — The Idaho Cattlemen's Association Nov. 28-30 will take a look into the future of cattle and producers.

ICA president Jack Pierce, Malta, said the head of the University of Idaho Animal Industries Department, Dr. Auttis M. Mullins, will preside at the special "future" symposium.

Lewiston man gets state bid

BOISE (UPI) — Lewiston Morning Tribune publisher A.L. "Butch" Alford will be asked to take the place of State Board of Education member John J. Peacock, who has resigned, a newspaper reported.

The Idaho Statesman said it learned of the impending action Saturday. Peacock has served on the board since 1956 and was vice president at the time of his resignation. His current term would have expired in 1973.

In accepting Peacock's resignation, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said, "He has done a good job for education. I consider him as one of the stronger members of the board."

Peacock said in his letter of resignation he had been considering leaving the post for some time. He explained that when a number of board vacancies occurred in rapid succession, members who were not reappointed and those remaining thought he "should stay and provide what continuity I could."

Less cash, more carry.

Consider the virtues of the Jim Beam half gallon:

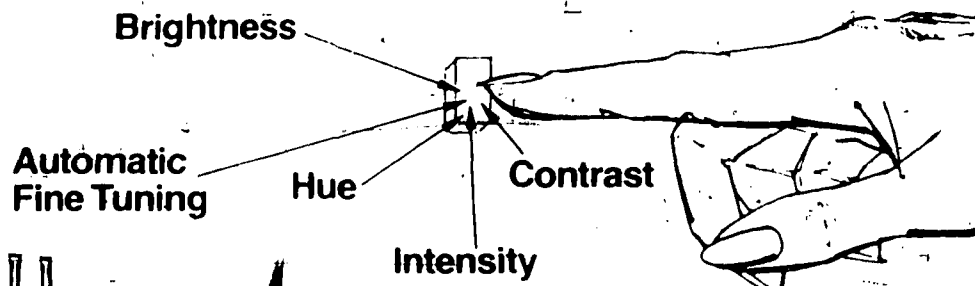

- (1) The World's Finest Bourbon Since 1795 costs you less per drink.
- (2) There's a handle on it. Easy to carry, easy to pour.
- (3) There's less chance of running out at the wrong time; less need to run out for more. Altogether a sensible way to enjoy the Bourbon that's been a family art since 1795.

Grangers to meet Tuesday

RICHFIELD — A change in plans for Richfield Grange is announced by Mrs. Eugene Alexander, master. A special meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Geicochea. Officers will be installed including the master, Ray Hubsmith. December scheduling of meetings, including an out-of-town trip is to be considered.

Navy solicits recruits

TWIN FALLS — The Navy has more opportunities for recruits in all fields of training now than in several years, according to CPO Harold F. Smith, Twin Falls recruiter. The Navy is seeking applicants for all of its more than 72 fields of specialized training, Smith said Saturday. Young men may qualify for the training while fulfilling their military obligations and thus get a head start on a secure future following their discharge, or they may remain in the Navy for a career. Magic Valley men interested in the opportunities offered by the Navy may call the recruiters' office at 733-5323, or visit the recruiters at 130 2nd St. E., across from the bus depot. Recruits must be from 17 to 30 years of age and must be able to meet the physical requirements. With the recent pay increase authorized by Congress, especially for the lower ranks, Navy pay is becoming increasingly competitive with civilian industry, Smith said.

Personality may change after death in family

DETROIT (UPI) — The death of a loved one often affects a family so drastically that individual members assume the physical and personality traits of the deceased person. Prof. Albert C. Cain and Irene Fast contend that researchers often think of these "identification changes" as an individual occurrence when they are actually the result of the family members affecting each other. Their findings will soon be published in a book entitled, "The Psychology of Bereavement." Bereaved parents, they say, may impose personality traits of a deceased child on another, even to the point of conceiving or adopting a baby specifically to "replace" him.

Demos speculate on deadlock over presidential nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It never seems too early to speculate about the chance of a deadlock over the nomination of a presidential candidate at the national convention of the out-party. The Democrats are still haunted by the nightmare of their 1924 convention, though not so vividly as the uproar which disrupted their 1968 convention. An old rule was still in effect in 1924 whereby a two-thirds vote was required at the Democratic convention to nominate a presidential candidate. That year, it took 103 ballots before John W. Davis was selected to run against Calvin Coolidge. First-ballot nominations have been common since then, especially since the Democrats abolished the two-thirds rule in 1936. The November issue of the Ripon Forum, published by liberal young Republicans of the Ripon Society, speculates about the possibility of a Democratic deadlock in 1972. It concludes that a real stalemate is unlikely but that a number of ballots may be needed to nominate a candidate. "Although some possibilities are certainly much stronger than others, the odds are against everybody, even though someone must win." The Ripon scenario under the by-line of Clifford W. Brown of the faculty of the State University of New York at Albany, goes like this: Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine will reach the convention in front with about 1,000 votes, 500 short of a majority. If he misses by the third ballot, he probably will fade. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, who has said he will not run, could then move in front, with another three ballots to build a majority. If Kennedy falls, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota would have an excellent chance and Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington a fairly good one. Brown also asks: "What about a genuine dark horse?" and he suggests Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III of Illinois, whose nomination might be viewed as vindication for Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago, who caught the blame for the disorders during the 1968 convention. Stevenson would be a fresh face with a famous name and a man who had gathered none of the enemies in the pre-convention struggles for the nomination. President Grover Cleveland was born March 18, 1837 in Caldwell, N.J.

New Harbor House nears completion

TWIN FALLS — Harbor House residents may be moving soon into an all-new home located at the end of Fillmore Street on land donated by Our Savior Lutheran Church.

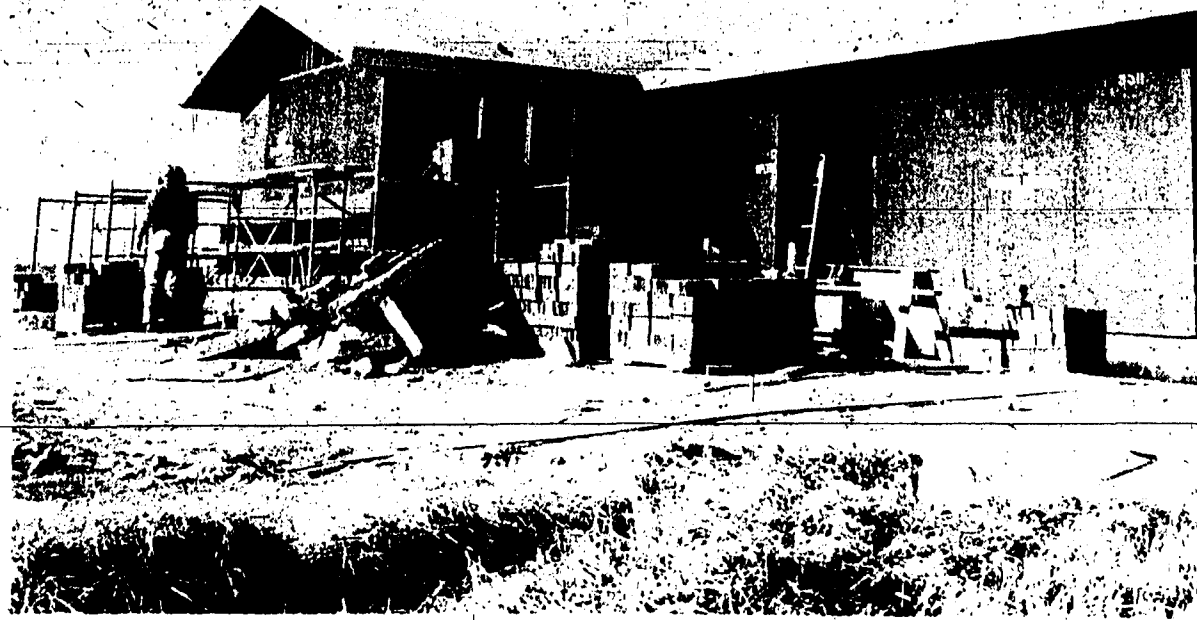

Wills Inc., a builder, will be moving into the final stages of the exterior walls within a short time and will then be able to work on the interior of the building during cold weather.

E. E. Jellison, acting chairman for the recent meeting of Harbor House board members, said final federal funds have been received and it appears the project can be completed without waiting for additional appropriations at a later date. The board had planned to do as much work as available money would cover and apply for later funding to complete the project. Jellison said he understands enough money has been allocated the project to complete work with local matching funds.

Harbor House opened two years ago on Shoshone Street North in an old home converted for foster home use by the help of many community donations. Local matching funds for the new building came largely from community contributions from such groups as the Magic Valley Country Music Association, Junior Club and others.

Harbor House board members will meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday to discuss progress of the new building and a possible completion date.

Building progresses

EXTERIOR BRICK walls are beginning to take shape on the new permanent Harbor House of Magic Valley. Located at the end of Fillmore Street, the new building is being constructed with help from community donations and federal matching money. It is expected to be ready for occupancy shortly after the first of the year.

He said information pertaining to the appointment of Earl Butz as secretary of agriculture will be discussed. Hicks said local stands and policies will be formulated to be presented at the state convention.

The convention in Burley will convene Thursday with meeting open only to NFO members.

At 2 p.m. Friday a presentation preview by the Green and White Trucking Co. of a new truck will be given. NFO members have banded together to buy trucks for the company to transport commodities to different markets, according to Hicks. One of the new trucks will be on exhibit.

Potato commodities meetings and beef growers' meetings will start at 4 p.m. Friday. Dairy and grain commodities members will meet at 7:30 p.m.

Saturday all farmers and interested citizens are invited to attend the meetings. Registration will begin at 8 a.m. and the convention session will begin at 9 a.m.

Oscar Arstein, Idaho Commissioner of Agriculture, and DeVon Woodland, Idaho National NFO director, will be two of the main speakers.

The featured speaker Saturday will be Glenn Utley, NFO director from Indiana. Hicks said the convention discussion will center around the organization's policy and its opposition to Butz being nominated as secretary of agriculture.

Can't favor men

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court unanimously ruled on an Idaho case today that states may not favor men over women to administer an estate when they are otherwise equally qualified.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, writing for the seven-member court, said the Constitution's guarantee of "equal protection of the laws" denies to states the power to establish different classes of persons "on the basis of criteria wholly unrelated to the objective."

The "equal protection clause" is the part of the 14th Amendment under which blacks have won many court decisions, including school desegregation. The Idaho Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the law on Feb. 11, 1970, in a case involving Mrs. Sally M. Reed of Ada County.

In 1971 the state legislature repealed the law but today's ruling would apply to any other situations parallel to the Reed case or to other state laws of the same kind.

The county probate court named Mrs. Reed's husband, Cecil, administrator of the estate of their dead 16-year-old adopted son. The couple had been divorced in 1968.

Reed's attorney told the Supreme Court the boy was in his mother's custody at first; then placed in a home and finally awarded to the father. He was in his father's custody at the time of his death March 29, 1967.

3 employes burned at Utah resort

ALTA, Utah (UPI) — Three young employes of Snowbird Ski Resort were seriously burned Sunday afternoon when a leaking propane gas line exploded in the basement of the lodge.

The three were rushed to Salt Lake City's Cottonwood Hospital where they were being treated for first and second degree burns of the face, hands and feet.

Salt Lake County Sheriff's deputies identified the three as Charles Alden, 20, Hudson, Wis.; Nan Rogers, 18, Ledanan, N. H.; and Madeleine Anderson, 20, no hometown listed.

Juveniles arrested

BELLEVUE — Four juveniles have been arrested on charges stemming from the theft early Saturday morning of 20 cases of beer from the Silver Dollar Bar and Cafe, Bellevue.

Bellevue City Marshal Duane Dudley said three Hailey youths were arrested Saturday evening and a Bellevue juvenile was arrested Sunday afternoon. All four were charged with alleged possession of stolen goods and breaking and entering.

Marshal Dudley, aided by a Blaine County sheriff's deputy, recovered about 19 cases of beer.

TF Junior Achievement makes glasses from beverage bottles

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Junior Achievement members are manufacturing and distributing drinking glasses made from glass beer bottles.

The 21 members are doing the work under the company name of BOTTCO. Moyle Wilson, JA and company president, said the company is working in conjunction with Western Beverage Co.

The beverage company supplies half of the bottles needed by the JA firm and BOTTCO buys the other half for a penny apiece.

To make the glasses, the bottles are cut about a third of the way down from the top. The top part is then glued to the bottom with mouth to the round bottom. In the finishing process, the edges must be ground smooth and the bottles cleaned.

Wilson said they then wholesale part of the bottles to be sold as glasses. The JA members do their own distribution. The company also subcontracts finished glasses to a novelty company.

The novelty does additional work on the glasses and turns them into candle holders, Wilson said.

Profit from the sales pays the rent and wages as well as to buy more bottles and to pay for other expenses.

So far JA members have turned out over 230 finished products and are averaging about 50 finished glasses a week. Wilson said the company seems to be running smoothly but they do need a $75 grinder to turn out the finished product better.

International Business Machines, sponsors the Junior Achievement program. IBM advisers for the Twin Falls chapter are Ken Hoyt and Al Rohweder.

Jerome band to present pop concert on Tuesday

JEROME — The Jerome High School varsity band will present a special concert of "pop" music at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the new Jerome Junior High Auditorium.

Proceeds will help finance the spring tour being planned by the band.

The junior high band and Jerome Choralliers will be guest groups at the concert. Original arrangements by Brian Daw, band student, will be performed as well as currently popular pieces by Bart Bacharach, the Carpenters and others.

The band has unique instrumentation, featuring a guitar, an electric bass guitar, an electronic organ and an electric piano.

According to Director Larry Standley the concert is designed to be entertaining to everyone.

"Usually concerts by school groups are thought to be of interest mostly to parents. This is definitely not the case for Tuesday's concert. We feel that we have a unique and beautiful program to which we wish to invite everyone," Standley said.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks were lower in slow turnover as trading rounded mid-season Monday.

Treasury Secretary John Connally said in Washington the pay raise of a 15 per cent pay hike for soft coal miners was very disappointing and voiced hope it would not set a precedent for other wage decisions.

Nevertheless, Connally defended the administration's new economic strategy and said it already was getting the economy back on its feet again. He said the "smart people" have already "discounted" the stock market reaction to the new economic program and have confidence that Phase Two will work.

On the New York Stock Exchange, the day's most active issues were mostly lower, as were leading market averages.

The Dow Jones industrial average showed a loss of 0.87 at 809.80, and Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was off 0.16 at 91.45. Declines led advances by around 300 issues.

A three-hour volume of 6,550,000 shares was below the 7,860,000 shares traded at a comparable period last Friday.

Skylark Corp. by far the day's most active stock, fell 2 1/2 on more than 200,000 shares. American Telephone, trading ex-dividend, lost 1/4 on around 100,000 shares.

Motors and steels surrendered fractions, as did most rails. Chemicals pointed in both directions.

Ball tickets

TICKETS AND MONEY change hands often at the Twin Falls Police Department, but this scene is something a little different than posting a parking meter fine. New City Councilman, Mike Gray, who takes office in January, purchases tickets to the Policemen's Ball from police officer Gary Andreason. The dance which will provide funds for the Twin Falls Police Department Benefit Association, gets under way at 9 p.m. Wednesday at the Elks Lodge Ball Room. Frank Hodge and the Rhythm Rangers will play for the event. Tickets may be obtained at the Twin Falls Police Department or from any Twin Falls Police officer.

Home economist gives tips on buying, using apples

SHOSHONE—Tips on buying and using apples are given by home economist, Mrs. Jeanene Annett, Shoshone.

"Choose firm, crisp, well colored apples," she said, as flavor depends on the stage of maturity when picked. Immature apples lack color and are usually ill-flavored. Shriveled appearing apples may have been stored too long.

Apples that are cut or bruised or soft should be avoided. A scald, or irregularly shaped brownish area "doesn't much affect eating quality."

All-purpose apples are Stayman, Jonathan and Winesap. Delicious, McIntosh and Golden Delicious are best eating as fresh apples.

Tart or slightly acid varieties are used mostly for pies and applesauce, such as Bellflower, Gravenstein, Grimes Golden, Newtown or Winter Banana. Firmer fleshed apples such as Rome Beauty are best for baking.

Only perfect apples should be stored. Those with bruises should be used rather soon.

Slightly under-ripe apples can be ripened by storing at 69 to 70 degrees for not more than two weeks.

Ripe apples will refrigerate about a week in the humidifier compartment or a moisture-resistant container or bag. Storage bags should have half-inch holes for ventilation.

Hints given for leftovers

SHOSHONE—Hints on care and use of leftover turkey and dressing are given by home economics agent, Mrs. Jeanene Annett, Shoshone.

The meat should be sliced off the bones, placed in plastic bags or wrapped and refrigerated as soon as possible to preserve the flavor. For longer than about two days storage, it should be frozen.

Actual cooking time for a turkey is about 20 minutes per pound of birds less than 12 pounds. For larger birds, the time can be decreased to 15 minutes per pound. If the drumstick moves easily, the turkey is generally done.

Mrs. Annett said "Don't prepare the stuffing a day ahead, nor stuff the turkey a day ahead."

She said don't stuff turkey and cook at low temperatures overnight. Low temperatures are not high enough to keep bacteria from growing.

Turkey should not be thawed out at room temperature, but rather in the refrigerator or in cold water to keep outside of the turkey from decaying before the center is thawed.

The turkey should be cooked at an internal temperature of 185 degrees, leftovers should be cooled quickly and frozen if not used within two to three days.

Marriage is not obsolete

NEW YORK (UPI)—Marriage is not obsolete, although many of today's young people live together without benefit of legal or religious blessing.

Marriage is not obsolete, although communal living is part of the 1970s life style. "These are not 'immoral' times, although some of the older generation state sadly. "The trouble is, nobody believes in anything any more."

Marriage, though, is changing and must change in the 1970s, one professional student of family life observes. She says that in "the midst of chaos and confusion of social change, there is every evidence of the emergence of some very positive human goals and values."

Mrs. Eda J. Leshan, a family life educator and author of several books for parents, outlines these goals and values thusly:

—Men and women should be equal partners in their search for love and personal fulfillment.

—With candor and honesty, we must re-examine and reshape our social institutions so that they speak to the human needs.

—Life is sacred; every human being has unique qualities and we need a climate of life in which these thrive.

—The fullest growth of each person is irrevocably tied to his capacity for allowing, encouraging, enhancing, the growth of others.

—We must search for new and better ways of revealing our innermost selves to each other; to be human is to be beautiful, and there is no room for shame in our nakedness—physical or spiritual.

—In the context of these values, marriage is not obsolete—but it must change," Mrs. Leshan writes. "In whatever forms it may appear, it would seem destined to speak ever more clearly to the fundamental need for caring, for living, for mutual trust and companionship."

One indication, she says, that older forms of morality are giving way to new is the fact that while many young people seem to be turning away from ritualized, institutionalized marriage ceremonies, they are still expressing a need for some form of sacrament ... many are writing their own marriage vows. Some ... are pledging not only to be faithful to each other but to work together for peace, justice and brotherhood."

Mrs. Leshan examines changing relationships in today's society in a new publication from the non-profit Educational Public Affairs Committee, headquartered at 381 Park Avenue South, N.Y. The publication is titled "Mates and Roommates; New Styles in Young Marriages."

A Lovelier You

PLEASURE OF HER COMPANY

By Mary Sue Miller

Do you know this character? She fusses with her hair, fiddles with her eyeglasses, plays with the tableware, shuffles the papers on her desk or lets her gaze wander around the room.

Her manner is unsettling. Isn't it? What you want is her attention. You have her talk to you or to listen. What you get is her jitters. She has a bad case and it's highly catching.

All of us would benefit from restful company in these frenetic times. As the holiday season approaches, a poised—serene—approach is more than ever valued. It can be cultivated, as all the charm qualities must be. It increases miraculously when you train yourself to appear poised.

The first step could be to root out flaws in your appearance that cause secret dissatisfactions. A woman, knowing that she looks presentable, has no need to fidget on that score. She is free to sit still, concentrate on a companion and to listen.

Involving more efforts, the next move is increasing your range of interests so as to touch on the interests of others. That way you are never at a loss for words that contribute to conversation. To have something to say and to say it well is a most important building block in the confidence structure.

As one's assurance grows and brings balm to others, those old, distracting mannerisms wilt on the vine.

news about the people you know

Valley Living

DEAR ABBY: I recently wrote a short note to a woman I know slightly, asking for some information on her solicitations for symphony subscriptions.

A few days later, I received a two paged "analysis" of my handwriting, and I have been fuming ever since!

In the first place, I don't know whether this woman has had any special training, or if she's an amateur who analyzes handwriting for a hobby, but some of her "observations" were downright insulting!

Example: "Your love life leaves much to be desired, but it could be greatly improved if you would get over some of your old-fashioned, puritanical ideas."

Also, "You are much too timid. Stand up to your husband when you think he is wrong. He will respect you for it."

Abby, if you have any suggestions on how to handle this, I would appreciate it. I want nothing more to do with this woman. STILL FUMING

DEAR FUMING: TYPE a note to her and tell her that YOU have "analyzed" HER handwriting, and have concluded that she would have more friends if she'd quit "analyzing" handwriting.

DEAR ABBY: All my life I've been afraid of dogs. Not just big dogs. I am afraid of the smallest dog. I can't help it. Dogs have always terrified me.

My sister and her husband invited my husband and me to visit them for a weekend, and since they know how much I fear dogs, I thought surely they would lock up their dog, but they didn't.

When we got there and I saw their dog roaming around the house I became hysterical and caused a terrible scene. I screamed and carried on, and ran upstairs and locked myself in the bathroom.

My husband came up shortly afterwards and said, "We will go home now." And we did.

Abby, I feel so terrible over this. When my sister and her husband have visited us, they always led their dog to a pole outside or locked him in the basement to keep him away from me.

Please tell me if I should write and apologize for the way I acted. I am 66 years old. HEARTSICK

DEAR HEARTSICK: If it will make you feel any better, write and apologize. But in my view, they owe YOU an apology for having exposed you to their dog knowing how you fear dogs.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have boys, 15 months and three months. We were overwhelmed with joy when our first child was born. We had prayed for a boy, and we got one.

Before I knew it, I was carrying our second child. The problem is the second boy is completely opposite from our first. He cries all the time for no apparent reason, and we can't keep him on any kind of schedule.

I sometimes find myself regretting we ever had him. We both desperately wanted a little girl, and I don't seem able to love him as I do the older boy.

I keep thinking the most horrible thoughts, like secretly wishing something would happen to him, so we wouldn't be bothered with him anymore. Yet, I know if something were to happen to him I'd never be able to forgive myself because of my secret thoughts.

My husband doesn't know how I feel. Nobody does. Do you think I ought to see a doctor?

CONFUSED AND FEELING GUILTY

DEAR CONFUSED: I certainly do. And I urge you to see him quickly.

CONFIDENTIAL TO L. L.: The proof of the pudding is not always in the eating. It's whether the diner, comes back for seconds. A lot of mediocre pudding has been consumed because there was nothing else on the menu.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 6706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90068. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Rams intercept passes, defeat 49'ers 17-6

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—John Brodie had four passes intercepted and the Los Angeles Rams turned two of them into touchdowns Sunday to whip the San Francisco Forty Niners 17-6 and moved into first place in the National Football Conference Western Division. A partisan crowd of 80,050 at the Coliseum howled in glee as Gene Howard intercepted three Brodie passes and Jim Nettles picked off another and ran it 29 yards to a touchdown just before halftime.

The Rams improved their record to 6-3-1 to knock the Forty Niners out of first place and gain a half-game edge with four contests left in the regular season. The Forty Niners now are 6-4-0.

The Forty Niners got a 3-0 lead in the first quarter at 13:56 on Bruce Gossett's 20-yard field goal. They ate up almost half of the period on an 18-play march that bogged down on the Ram 12.

Early in the second period Brodie moved the Forty Niners into scoring territory again but Howard intercepted a long pass in the Rams' end zone and ran the ball out to the 32. Five plays later Roman Gabriel hit Jack Snow with a 13-yard scoring pass at 3:31 of the second quarter. David Ray converted to make it 7-3 for the Rams and they were never headed after that.

Kansas City bombs Denver

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Len Dawson rifled three touchdown passes, two in the first quarter, Sunday, giving the Kansas City Chiefs early control en route to a 28-10 victory over the Denver Broncos and ruining the head coaching debut of Jerry Smith. The Chiefs, raising their record to 7-2-1, scored on consecutive possessions in the first quarter when tight end Morris Stroud and rookie wide receiver Elmo Wright hauled in 39 and 69-yard touchdown passes.

The first drive covered 55 yards, Dawson finding Stroud roaming alone on a third down play. The 6-10, 255-pound tight end barreled into the end zone over two defensive backs.

Meeting

TWIN FALLS — The second organizational meeting for adult basketball in Twin Falls will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the city hall auditorium. All managers and players or those interested in managing teams or playing during the winter schedule are urged to attend. Chad Browning, city recreation director, said 13 teams have been organized and it is hoped several more will be added after the Tuesday night meeting.

Eagles win over Cards

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Philadelphia took advantage of four St. Louis fumbles and four interceptions Sunday as Tom Dempsey kicked three field goals to lead the Eagles to a 37-20 win over the Cardinals.

The Cardinals, playing without five regular defensive starters, changed places with the Eagles to take over the basement of the Eastern Division of the National Football Conference.

The Eagles jumped to a 17-0 lead by early in the second quarter, but the Cardinals tied the score at 17-17 by halftime.

Viking offense scores 23 in victory over New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Vikings quarterback Bob Lee sprinted four yards around his right end in the third period Sunday to score Minnesota's first touchdown in 11 quarters and cement an 23-10 victory over the New Orleans Saints.

The Minnesota win, plus the Detroit Lion's win over the Chicago Bears earlier in the day, gave the Vikings a game and a half lead over Detroit in the Central Division of the National Football Conference.

Clint Jones scored another Viking touchdown from four yards out in the fourth quarter. Placekicker Fred Cox, running his scoring streak to 122 consecutive games, converted both extra points and booted field goals of 33, 47 and 32 yards.

New Orleans tied the game 3-3 in the second quarter on Charlie Durkee's 19-yard field goal but the Purple Gang held the Saints' offense in check until the final period when rookie quarterback Archie Manning connected with Dave Parks on a four-yard touchdown pass with two minutes left.

Cox put the Vikings ahead 3-0 late in the first period and, after Durkee tied the score, sent Minnesota ahead to stay with his 47-yarder just before halftime.

Safety Charlie West set up the first Viking touchdown by returning a 53-yard field goal attempt to the New Orleans 31. Four plays later, Lee sprinted around right end for the first touchdown the Vikings had scored in their last 11 quarters of play.

West also helped stifle the Saints with a pair of interceptions, one of which he returned 54 yards to set up Cox's first field goal.

Jones put the game out of reach for the Saints with a four-yard dash early in the fourth period.

Griese leads Dolphins past Baltimore 17-14

MIAMI (UPI)—Bob Griese directed Miami to two touchdowns within two minutes in the third quarter and Garo

Yepremian booted a 20-yard, tie-breaking field goal with 6:30 left Sunday, to give the Dolphins a 17-14 win over the Baltimore Colts.

The win gave the Dolphins a one and one-half game lead over the Colts in the AFC Eastern Division.

Jim Kickor scored from one-yard out to give the Dolphins a 7-7 tie with 9:40 left in the third period.

After a pass interception by linebacker Doug Swift on the first play after the kickoff, Griese hit Marv Fleming all alone in the end zone giving the Dolphins a 14-7 lead. But the Colts stormed back on a 13-play, 76-yard drive capped by a four-yard scoring lunge over right guard by Norm Bulach to tie it again at 14-all.

Yepremian's field goal came after a Miami drive stalled on the Baltimore 13.

Johnny Unitas, starting his first game of the season, directed Baltimore on a flawless 78-yard scoring drive in the first quarter, a drive capped by a four-yard blast by stubby Don Nottingham.

Unitas hit nine of 16 passes for 78 yards and one interception in the 1971 debut for the 38-year-old quarterback, but he was shaken up attempting to block early in Baltimore's second touchdown drive and Earl Morrall took over the rest of the way.

Detroit defeats Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bill Munson came in for an ailing Greg Landry and, capitalizing on a raft of Chicago mistakes, led an opportunistic band of Detroit Lions to a 28-3 humbling of the Bears Sunday.

The victory boosted Detroit past the Bears to second place in the Central Division of the National Football Conference with six victories against three defeats and a tie.

Chicago, which had taken three of its last four games, is now 6 and 4.

Landry hardly seemed a sick man when, on the first series of plays, he swept right end on runs of 52 and 14 yards to set up the first of Steve Owens' two touchdowns—this one on a two-yard plunge.

But after that display, Landry complained of what doctors diagnosed as a touch of flu, and Munson, the 8-year veteran who has been reduced to backup status, took over.

The Bears made his task easy, practically presenting the Lions with their other three touchdowns.

Once, as Altie Taylor attempted an end run from the Bear 19, he seemed to be trapped for a loss on the sidelines and the Bears, apparently believing the play was over, backed away. It wasn't and Taylor skipped into the end zone.

Then Xike Lucci picked off a woefully off-target Bobby Douglass pass and toted it 27 yards for a touchdown. Another Lucci interception—the Detroit middle linebacker had three for the day—plus an interception call on the Bears' Ron Smith on the two, set up a one-yard touchdown burst by Owens.

The Stanley Cup is awarded in the sport of ice hockey.

Bengals beat Oilers

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Rookie Fred Willis of Boston College punched across two touchdowns and veteran Virgil Carter passed for two more Sunday in leading the resurgent Cincinnati Bengals to a 28-13 revenge triumph over the Houston Oilers.

The Bengals, still hopeful of winning the Central Division championship in the National Football Conference despite seven defeats, scored touchdowns three of the first four times they had the ball to avenge an earlier 10-6 loss to the Oilers.

Pittsburgh drops NY

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—John Rouser returned an interception 70 yards for a touchdown and Preston Pearson ran back the second half kickoff 77 yards to set up another TD, giving the Pittsburgh Steelers a 17-13 victory over the New York Giants.

The victory evened the Steelers' record at 5-5 and kept alive their bid for the first divisional championship in their 39-year history.

Pittsburgh was unable to generate much offense in the game, but the Steelers did not make the mistakes the Giants did which made the difference.

New York turned the ball over on two interceptions and a fumble, had another drive thwarted by an ineligible receiver downfield penalty and saw their last bid go down the drain when L. C. Greenwood dumped Fran Tarkenton for a key 10-yard loss with five minutes to go.

New York led 13-10 at half-time on Pete Gogolak's 29-yard field goal on the final play of the second quarter, but Pearson, taking the second-half kickoff a yard deep in the end zone, returned it 77 yards to the Giant 24-yard line.

Bills take 15th loss

BUFFALO (UPI)—Bob Davis threw for two touchdowns and the New York Jets intercepted four Dennis Shaw passes in the first half Sunday to deal the Buffalo Bills their 15th straight National Football League loss, 20-7.

The Bills took a 7-0 lead after 6:42 of the first period on Shaw's 42-yard pass to Marlin Briscoe that capped a 74-yard drive which took eight plays.

But the Jets pecked 17 points into the second quarter as Davis hit Don Maynard with a 33-yard touchdown pass after 34 seconds, Bobby howfield added a 37-yard field goal at 12:13 and Davis fired a 19-yarder to George Nock after 14:05.

Al Atkinson set up Howfield's kick by intercepting Shaw's pass on the Buffalo 33-yard line. Gus Holloman picked off another pass on the next series to set up the Davis-Nock touchdown pass.

Takes playoff

WILMINGTON, N. C. (UPI)—George Johnson of Atlanta sank a 15-foot putt Sunday to win a sudden-death playoff with Ralph Johnston and capture the Azalea Open golf tournament.

The two finished regulation play with identical 72-hole scores of 274, 10 under par, in the $35,000 tournament at Cape Fear Country Club.

On the first hole of the sudden-death playoff, Johnson fired in his long putt for a birdie, while Johnston took a par four on the hole.

Johnson went into Sunday's final round tied with Jim Culbreth with 54-hole scores of 207 and a four-shot cushion over Johnston.

Johnson, however, came in with a fine 66 despite the chilling winds that plagued golfers throughout the last two rounds, while Johnston teared the course with a one-under-par 70.

SPORTS

Pass interception enables Oakland to nip San Diego

OAKLAND (UPI)—George Blanda's 39-yard field goal in the fourth quarter provided the winning points Sunday but it was middle linebacker Dan Conners' pass interception at the goal line with 1:11 left that enabled the Oakland Raiders to score a 34-33 victory over the San Diego Chargers.

The Raiders, who held onto first place in the AFC West, scored three touchdowns and, with the help of Blanda's field goal, erased a 24-10 halftime deficit and seemingly had the game won when John Hadl rallied the 14-point underdog Chargers in the final five minutes.

Hadl took San Diego 85 yards in 10 plays plus a penalty to close the gap to just three points with 3:09 left by throwing 15 yards to Walker Gillet.

The Chargers went for an inside kick and Chris Fletcher recovered the ball for them at the Oakland 31. Five plays and an Oakland clipping penalty advanced the ball to the four and then Hadl, throwing on the run, was intercepted by Conners, who then ran it out to the seven.

The Raiders were unable to move and Jerry DePoyster smartly held onto the ball in the end zone on a bad snap from center in a punting situation to provide San Diego with two meaningless points on the final play of the game.

Dallas, Staubach blank Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Elusive Roger Staubach scrambled for a 29-yard touchdown and reactivated Mike Clark kicked two field goals Sunday as the Dallas Cowboys shut out the Washington Redskins, 13-0, and vaulted into the eastern division lead of the national football conference.

In addition, the Cowboy defense turned in a foolproof performance to help nail down the victory that gave Dallas a half-game edge in the division with four games to go.

In a game featuring trench warfare between the opposing lines, the Cowboys marched 86 yards to a touchdown the first time they had the ball. The drive was climaxed when Staubach, on a third down passing situation, broke out of the pocket and streaked 29 yards for the score.

In the third period, Clark—a last-minute roster addition for injured Tom Fritsch—kicked a 26-yard field goal to stretch the Dallas lead to 10-0.

The game of polo takes its name from the Tibetan language. It stems from the Tibetan word "pulu," meaning "ball."

Parents attend classes

RICHFIELD — Richfield parents visited school rooms and met with teachers at the PTA back-to-school night last week. Colors were presented by Evan Gardner and Brett Dixon to open the meeting.

Fund raising projects were discussed with plans made for two boys to be given a way at the community Christmas program Dec. 27. The prizes will be purchased with trading stamp donations. A garage sale is planned for a Spring project.

In other action the unit voted to donate 10 cents per child to support the PTA fight against endowment lands sold or traded by State Land board, causing a loss of revenue for the school districts.

Mrs. S. C. Peterson, PTA president, requested one dollar donations to pay for cleaning 200 chickens purchased for the hot lunch program.

The president announced plans for sacking 420 Christmas treats for community children. Those desiring to help will meet at the school at 1 p.m. Dec. 16. Pop corn balls are donated by seven community organizations and all the oranges furnished by the Richfield Lions Club. The PTA purchases candy and nuts. The treats are given away at the community Christmas program at the school.

The fourth grade and senior class had the highest parent representation at the meeting to win the November attendance prizes. Refreshments were served by the sixth and seventh grade parents with Mrs. LaRae Brown, Mrs. Carl Paulson and Mrs. Carl Robinson on the serving committee.

A proposed electrical or other type football field score board was discussed. Richfield has a $125 fund for purchase of a scoreboard donated by the family of the late Fred Powell, a high school student who was killed in 1969. Contributions from other community and school organizations are being requested to raise the needed amount of money.

No December PTA meeting will be held.

Rodeo group formed

RICHFIELD — Organization of a Rodeo Club at Richfield is announced by Supt. Neil Anderson, one of the adult sponsors. The group aims to promote rodeo activities at the high school level.

Officers were elected Thursday at a meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Johnson. Ronadi G. Goicoechea is president; Luann Edwards, vice president; Kelly Pridmore, secretary-treasurer, and Gaylen Edwards, sergeant-at-arms.

Brush-in slated at Richfield

SHOSHONE — A dental "brush-in" will be held for grades school children from grades one to five Wednesday. Principal Jack Bowlin said today.

Idaho Department of Health personnel will show the children in the grades the proper way to brush their teeth. The children participating will receive a tooth-brushing kit.

Ruthie travels

"RUTHIE REFERENCE," a vocal reference book indeed, tells youngsters in several Twin Falls schools how to find needed information quickly in the library. "Ruthie" is a member of Mrs. Lillie Brown's fourth grade class at Lincoln School, which traveled to several schools on Friday during Library Week in the schools to present a brief play on how to use the library.

MARK WILLIAMS, a young library helper at Washington School, carries a slogan as the "clown" in a Storybook Parade planned at the school on Friday to commemorate Library Week in Twin Falls Schools. Mrs. Carol Edwards, the library aide at Washington School, had her young helpers choose favorite storybook characters, dress up as the characters, then put on a show for their fellow students who were allowed to guess what characters they represented.

Nationalist Chinese diplomats need jobs

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Glut on Market:

The Nationalist Chinese Foreign Ministry may have a hard time finding work for the more than 100 diplomats who have lost their posts abroad since Taiwan's ouster from the United Nations and the switch of recognition to Peking by former allies. The ministry has just moved into a sprawling new building and has plenty of desk space. The jobless diplomats are expected to stay on the payroll indefinitely but finding something for them to do is something else.

Rhodesian Agreement:

Reports reaching London from the Rhodesian capital of Salisbury talk of growing optimism that a settlement is in sight for the six-year-old quarrel with Britain over independence. Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas Home first would have to return to London to get cabinet approval. This is regarded as a formality and would be followed by signature of a treaty by which Britain would recognize Rhodesian independence. Whatever the terms, political observers in London predict angry cries of "sellout" from the opposition Labor party and African delegates at the United Nations. The British government is said to be confident it can ride out any such storm.

Analysis

Serious Russians:

One clue to the seriousness with which the Russians take the SALT talks is the bill they have run up so far at the Park Hotel in suburban-Baden, where they have stayed during every SLAT session in Vienna. The two Vienna rounds so far have cost the Kremlin $160,000 and every day of the current round adds $860 to the current tab — all payable in hard-to-get Western currency. Soviet accountants have suggested cutting costs by alternating sessions between Washington and Moscow. The idea has few takers thus far.

Czech Elections: Czechoslovakia's parliamentary elections Nov. 26-27 will give Communist candidates on the one-party slate an endorsement of some 98 or 99 per cent. The Czech press will hail this as proof of the final defeat of the "right wingers" who led the "Prague Spring" of 1968, and the overwhelming popular support for the regime's hard, pro-Soviet line. More independent observers agree with purged reformer Josef Smrkovsky that only 10 per cent of all Czechs back the current regime.

Switzerland becomes anti-foreign

LUGANO, Switzerland — The Swiss, hitherto very tolerant in admitting foreign nationals who want to live and work in Switzerland, appear to be heading toward a much more restrictive policy.

One pointer to this trend came in the results of the general election held in Switzerland at the end of October. In this election, eleven of those elected to the Swiss lower house were known to have "anti-foreigner" views.

In the previous parliament, only one man represented this viewpoint — James Schwarzenbach, deputy from Zurich.

Now Schwarzenbach has 10 companions, six of them belonging to his own Republican party, and the other four from a splinter party known as National Action. Combined, they will have considerable nuisance value in the new house.

Their success at the polls also will tend to embarrass the Swiss authorities in negotiations with the foreign countries from which their alien residents originate, and notably with the government of Italy. Some 600,000 Italians, most of them imported to offset the shortage of labor in Switzerland, make up more than one-half of the nearly one million foreigners who currently have permission to reside in the country.

Problems connected with their presence — such as whether they should enjoy the same social and economic rights as national citizens — already have caused friction between the two countries. This is especially so since the Swiss, in response to an apparent rise of xenophobic sentiment, have adopted a policy of gradually reducing the number of foreign workers in the country, at the rate of about 40,000 a year.

The average tire rotates more than 30 million times during its lifetime, says Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Promptly Relieved

In many cases Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itching and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients showed this to be true in many cases. In fact, many doctors, themselves, use Preparation H or recommend it for their families. Preparation H ointment or suppositories.
