Pakistan begins war mobilization

By United Press International
Prime Minister Indira Gandhi denied today that Indian troops have crossed into Pakistan. She said the action was being carried out by East Pakistani rebels who "have freed large parts of their homeland."
Mrs. Gandhi, in a speech to Parliament, blamed Pakistan for the conflict which has been escalating towards a full-scale war. "It was Pakistan which threatened total war," she said. "It has never been our intention to escalate the situation or to start a conflict."
In Pakistan the population was on a war footing, with practice blackouts, slit trenches in the streets in case of air raids, and the radio blaring martial music. A state of national emergency was declared Tuesday by Pakistani President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan.
Radio Pakistan announced that all military reserve officers were being called to active duty and that officers on leave should report back to their duty stations.
But Mrs. Gandhi said India would not go on a state of emergency "unless further aggressive action by Pakistan compels us to do so in the interest of national security."
Pakistan charged that India launched a full-scale invasion at five points in East Pakistan—the eastern wing of a two-section nation separated by 1,000 miles of Indian land.
"This is wholly untrue," Mrs. Gandhi said. She said "the liberation forces of Bangla Desh (Bengal Land—the East Pakistani Independence Movement), with the full support of their entire people, have taken a heavy toll of Pakistan's armed forces and have freed large parts of their homeland." She did not go into detail.
UPI correspondent Ajit K. Das reporting from Bongoran, four miles from the border of Jessore and about 50 miles northeast of Calcutta, an area where the Pakistanis said most of the fighting was centered, quoted officials as saying Indian troops were remaining on the Indian side of the border. However, journalists were not allowed to go to the border area to confirm what was happening there, although the sound of artillery and gunfire could be heard.

Mrs. Gandhi in her speech to Parliament said that "we have instructed our troops not to cross the borders except in self-defense." This was seen as a significant modification of the government's earlier position that Indian troops were under orders not to cross the border under any circumstances.
Pakistan, which Tuesday declared a state of emergency, said that Indian forces had crossed the border into East Pakistan but the Pakistani Army pushed them back in the Jessore and Sylhet areas near Calcutta. Official Radio Pakistan said 25 Indians were killed and about 80 wounded in the Sylhet counteroffensive, while Pakistani troops suffered only four dead.

Jobless rate dips in Gem

BOISE (UPI) — Unemployment across Idaho dropped to its lowest level of the year during October, falling from 4.1 per cent in September to 3.7 per cent last month.
The "Idaho Manpower Review," a publication of the Idaho Department of Employment, said although the drop in the rate of unemployment did not insure a decrease in the number of people unemployed, those unemployed during October did drop to the lowest point of the year at 12,000.

Court nominees get stamp

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee unanimously approved the Supreme Court nomination of Lewis F. Powell Jr. Tuesday, and voted 12 to 4 to recommend Senate confirmation of Assistant Attorney General William H. Rehnquist.
Opposing Rehnquist in the 16-member committee were Democratic Sens. Birch Bayh, Ind.; Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; Philip A. Hart, Mich.; and John V. Tunney, Calif.
Rehnquist's opponents have a week to write their minority views, but Bayh, who led the opposition in defeating the nominations of Clement F. Haynsworth and G. Harrold Carswell, issued a statement immediately after the committee vote explaining his position.
Aides to Rehnquist's Senate foes estimated there were 20 to 25 senators opposed to his nomination. A majority of the 100-member Senate is required for confirmation to the Supreme Court.

Steel price increase triple US guideline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Tuesday approved price increases of more than 7 per cent for tinplated steel by Bethlehem and National Steel companies, boosts intended to cover higher labor costs but denied during the wage-price freeze.
The increases approved by the Price Commission exceeded its general 2.5 per cent guideline for average annual price increases nationwide, but they will have little impact on the two steel manufacturers' income.
The commission ruled four days after the Pay Board cleared a controversial first-year pay raise of about 16 per cent for coal miners, nearly three times higher than its wage increase yardstick. The commission already is trying to decide how it will react to a coal industry request for higher prices—not yet submitted—to cover the wage boost.

President Nixon meanwhile appointed a 14-member board, headed by former Republican Rep. Thomas B. Curtis of Missouri to advise the government on rents and other landlord-tenant matters.
The Cost of Living Council has ruled that rents on existing houses and apartments will continue to be frozen during Nixon's Phase II economic controls, but not rents on new or substantially rehabilitated housing—on commercial, industrial and farm property. Bethlehem's prices will go up 7.6 per cent for tin-plated rolls of steel used by other companies, almost all of it for production of tin cans. National, the fourth largest steel producer, was granted a 7.2 per cent boost for the same product.

The Price Commission said the increase would raise Bethlehem's expected gross revenues by only 0.76 per cent.

The National's by 1.8 per cent. Neither would increase profit margins in violation of the government's Phase II guidelines.
General Motors Corp. meanwhile, announced it had requested a 3 per cent price increase on 1972 model cars and trucks, including an additional one-half per cent boost to cover the cost of required emission controls and bumper improvements.
The Commission, in its first ruling prior to Tuesday's Bethlehem and National decisions, granted a 2.5 per cent increase to American Motors.

says...
A full wage-price freeze would be better than an unenforced Phase II price increase guideline of 2 1/2 per cent.

Senate won't buy European pullout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has drawn back from the brink of confrontation with President Nixon over the continued presence of U.S. Armed Forces in Europe and Asia.
Sustaining Nixon's bipartisan appeal for help on negotiations with the Soviet Union, members voted 54 to 39 to remove an amendment from the Defense Appropriations bill that would have forced a 60,000-man reduction in the American garrison in Europe.
Senate war critics, meantime, inexplicably dropped their plans for a tough Huger to force total withdrawal from Vietnam despite head counts which indicated it would have passed.

"We are now preparing to undertake vitally important new initiatives for peace in two great capitals of the world," he wrote to Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee. "If these initiatives are to gain positive results in the months and years ahead, I must be able to rely on the firm support and substantial and creative contribution of a bipartisan Congress."
Nixon was referring to the final negotiations on the status of Berlin and the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) in Helsinki.
He warned that the cutback in European strength, if ordered by the Senate, would signal to the world "disarray and weakness in the American government."
The vote was the second time this year the Senate has rejected a cut in the European garrison. A 150,000-man reduction was killed 61 to 38 May 19. Several members who opposed the cutback, however, served notice that it may be the last time they can support the President on this issue.

Wreck kills trucker

RUPERT — One man was killed and a man and woman were injured Tuesday in a three-truck collision at a rural intersection near Rupert.
Idaho State Police identified the victim as Robert Leroy Kincaid, 41, Eugene, Ore., driver of an unloaded cattle truck and trailer. Passengers in the truck, Joan Warren, 28, Albany, Ore., and Jerry D. Peck, 26, Burley, were taken by ambulance to Minidoka Memorial Hospital, Rupert, where they are listed in fair condition.
Officers said the cattle truck, traveling east, apparently failed to observe a stop sign six miles northwest of Rupert and collided with a south-bound dump truck owned by Simplot Co. and driven by Charles B. Smith, 44, Burley.
O. J. Brannon, Idaho State Police officer who investigated the collision, said after the two large trucks collided, the unloaded belly dump trailer rolled into a field and came to rest on its top. The cattle truck jackknifed, throwing Kincaid out and pinning him beneath the cab of the truck. It took more than an hour to free his body, officers said.
The trailer of the cattle truck broke free in the collision and skidded across the intersection, striking a pickup truck driven by Doral Christensen, 45, Rupert. The pickup truck, which had been traveling west and was stopped at the stop sign, was pushed backwards and sideways into a borrow pit

Egyptian aide repeats Mideast war promise

By United Press International
The Egyptian armed forces chief of staff said today the Middle East deadlock can be resolved only by military means and accused Israel of trying to form an empire "stretching from the Nile to the Euphrates Rivers."
Maj. Gen. Said Uddin Shazli spoke to a meeting of Arab chiefs of staff in Cairo. He spoke after an African peace mission flew from Cairo to Israel and began talks with Israeli Premier Golda Meir and Foreign Minister Abba Eban in efforts to avert a new Middle East War.
"Because of Israel's stubbornness and those who are behind her, we have nothing in front of us except military force with which to defend our country and fight against the Zionist danger," Shazli said.
He said Israel wants to form a nation "stretching from the Nile to the Euphrates Rivers. They do not want the 1948 borders or even the present cease-fire lines. The coming battle with Israel is a battle of existence and we will either be or not be. The political effort has not produced a basic change in the situation."
A government source said Egypt was confident the peace delegation would back the Egyptian viewpoint in the Arab-Israeli struggle.
In Jerusalem, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told Parliament that indifference on the part of both Egypt and the international community could bring on another explosion in the Middle East.

Low-cost housing push set

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — The Community Improvement Association, a coalition of low-income persons seeking to find housing through group effort, was formally organized Tuesday night.
Sponsored by the South-Central Community Action Agency, the CIA will be headed by Gary Krefl of Twin Falls, named chairman by the members Tuesday during the meeting in the CAA headquarters.
Krefl said the CIA hopes to organize Magic Valley low-income people in an effort to acquire adequate housing at moderate cost. The group will call on professional persons in Twin Falls for counseling in finances, budgeting and other problems encountered by the members.

Krefl emphasized that the group does not seek "just a handout from a governmental agency or from anybody. We want to help ourselves and we hope to find ways to help ourselves by ourselves."
Sharon Francis, Twin Falls, was named co-chairman. She was also elected secretary of the Statewide Housing Coalition during the Governor's Housing Conference in Boise last weekend. Mrs. Francis reported on the conference and the formation of the Housing Coalition, which seeks to organize a statewide low-income housing program, similar to the Twin Falls effort.

The first effort of the CIA will be to find a common meeting ground between the low-income people and a middle-class group which voiced an objection to the CIA program Tuesday night, Krefl said.
Mrs. Judy Holland told the group she and "a group of friends" objected to the idea of low-income families obtaining "new houses" at low interest. A governmental program subsidizes mortgage interest for low-income families, allowing the buyer to pay only one per cent interest, Mrs. Holland said.

"Why should the low-income people have new housing when the rest of us have to work hard to get older homes at higher interest?" she asked.
Krefl asked her to bring her friends to a later meeting of the CIA to discuss their differences and to seek to find a meeting ground. Mrs. Holland told the Times-News today, however, that she contacted "one of my friends," and her friend indicated little interest in pursuing the matter further.
The group also formed the "Illegal Migrant Study Group" to consider ways of alleviating a situation in which so-called "illegal migrants" coming into the Magic Valley "take jobs away from citizens of the area," Krefl said.

"People tell us 'Get a job,' but all too often the jobs are held down by illegal migrants. We've got to find a way to solve this problem," Krefl said.
The CIA will also contact professional people and businessmen in Twin Falls, asking counseling on problems of living, including financial, homemaking and others.

'It's not you I'm after, just your neck'

1974 Exposition in U.S. Seen...

PARIS (UPI)—The International Bureau of Expositions (BIE) voted its approval today of the Spokane, Wash. exposition for 1974 on Man and his Environment.

Representatives of the 32 nations who belong to the BIE unanimously voted at their regular bi-annual meeting that only Spokane can stage an international exposition in 1974 and that no other nation can use the environment theme then or before.

The BIE approval means that President Nixon now can extend official invitations to foreign nations to participate in the Spokane exposition by building national pavilions as opposed to commercial pavilions of private firms.

Congress now is permitted to consider approving construction of a U.S. Pavilion at the Spokane fair.

"After all the work we've done we felt we needed this approval and we're happy to get it," said Roderick A. Lindsay, chairman of the board of Expo 74, which is the Spokane fair organizer.

King Cole, president of Expo 74, said, "We have received excellent cooperation from the BIE and we are extremely happy."

Cole presented Spokane's bid to the BIE. He showed colored slides illustrating the natural beauties of the Pacific Northwest and drawings of the proposed exposition site and some of the planned pavilions.

While representatives of member nations, listened through interpreters' earphones, Cole, speaking in English, told them how "Spokane has grown from a typical Western frontier town to a thriving metropolitan city with a trade area of more than one million persons."

Cole said that Spokane was the ideal spot for an exposition entitled "Progress Without Pollution."

County men, legislators will meet

TWIN FALLS — Department heads of Twin Falls County government will meet Dec. 7 with legislators from the county to discuss problems the county officials face as a result of changing laws.

County Commission Chairman William L. (Bill) Chancey said the meeting has been arranged to give legislators an idea of some of the problems county officials face when a new law becomes effective in the middle of a year or at the end of a year.

It will also give county officials a chance to suggest some changes in present state regulations which could make county administration of state adopted programs more easily handled.

The meeting will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. in the county judicial building, Chancey said.

Last year changes in election laws, voter registration and jury laws caught many counties short of funds since budgets had already been prepared and approved and county clerks were called on to find a means of paying for the new programs. Other county offices face similar problems, commissioners said.

Recalls Fords

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. said Tuesday it is asking 28,459 owners of certain 1972 Fords, Thunderbirds, Pintos and pickup trucks to return the vehicles to dealers for replacement of seat and shoulder belt anchor bolts.

Some of the bolts could contain minute fractures that could make the seat belt or shoulder harness ineffective, a Ford spokesman said.

Milar speaks at meet

TWIN FALLS — City Manager Jean Milar, who spoke on budgeting at the meeting of the Association of Idaho Cities in Pocatello earlier this week, said delegates of 26 cities met for an exchange of ideas.

He said the meeting was especially beneficial for newly elected City Council members because of information presented on proper procedure in conducting city business. Each new council member attending, he said, received a thick manual on city government. "The Handbook for Elected City Officials" is published by the municipal organization to help council members understand their responsibilities and help them meet questions from their constituents.

Unfortunately, he said, none of the new Twin Falls council members was in attendance. Milar said the conference was arranged for the benefit of newly elected officials who take over new duties on city councils in Idaho after the first of the year and he was disappointed none of the Twin Falls council members could attend.

Shoplifting clinic held

Special devices displayed

TOOLS OF THE TRADE, of shoplifting were displayed during a clinic in Twin Falls, Tuesday for store owners and employees. Here Vic Goertzen, SBA; Boise, left, and Tim Qualls, Twin Falls City detective, explain some of the devices a shoplifter uses to collect items to M. J. Burke, at right.

TWIN FALLS — Shoplifting, counterfeiting and bad checks come out of the small business man's profit and can even mean the difference between success and failure. Vic Goertzen, Boise, Small Business Administration, said here Tuesday.

Goertzen directed two clinics for Twin Falls merchants and their employees. The workshops covered means of detecting and combatting those three crimes.

Statistics quoted by Goertzen revealed many stores lose 5 cents out of every dollar in shoplifting. "When you go to the bank with $1,000, this means there should be another $50 in the deposit," he told the group attending the Tuesday morning meeting.

Films were shown on shoplifting, counterfeiting and check writing methods used by the more professional criminals. Several devices such as packages wrapped for gifts or mailing with holes in the bottom of the boxes which shoplifters often carry were displayed.

Goertzen said the merchant has three ways of coping with losses he suffers through theft and bad checks. He can raise prices, close his business, or increase security.

Sponsored by the SBA and four Twin Falls banks, the clinic sessions were designed to make store owners and employees aware of the situation and then be alert to patterns of shoplifting and check writing.

Capt. Tim Qualls, chief of detectives for the Twin Falls Police Department, outlined problems the department faces in apprehending and convicting shoplifters, counterfeitters and check artists. He told store employees they often must apprehend the shoplifter if they are sure he or she has taken an article. Once they leave the store, he said, they are lost.

Leon Smith, prosecuting attorney, said after the first of the year the check artist will have an even greater advantage. The new criminal code adopted in Idaho will make all check charges misdemeanors while some are now felonies. He said this may increase the check writing problems businessmen will encounter.

Speakers during the clinic pointed to the increasing trend in use of checks and credit cards rather than cash payments. Goertzen said the SBA suggests the store owner or manager adopt a policy on checks that they be no more than $10 above the amount of the actual purchase. This will tend to discourage the check artist. He said proper identification should be obtained on each check and warned it is now easy to forge or alter identifications.

Most check writers, he said, try to do their work late in the day or during the rush hours when workers will be tired or too busy to give extra attention to them. He urged workers take time to make certain all checks are proper regardless of how many customers are waiting.

Samples of counterfeit money were displayed and Qualls said while this is not a big problem in this area it is increasing.

Budget details for city asked

TWIN FALLS — City department heads have been asked to submit preliminary budget requests by Dec. 3 so work can begin on the 1972 city budget, City Manager Jean Milar said today.

Many have already listed their proposals for salaries, although these are handled on an over-all basis rather than department by department. They have also been asked to list equipment which must be replaced or should be purchased for the best possible operations of departments, and to list maintenance and operation costs of each department.

Based on these preliminary ideas, Milar said, plans will begin for the 1972 city budget after the first week in December.

Milar said one meeting has been held and another is planned with the negotiating committee and the Twin Falls Fire Fighters labor organization.

Fire fighters are negotiating for wage increases, longevity credit and proposals for accident leave as compared to sick leave. Milar said he will recommend to the City Council all pay schedules adopted for any department be held at the same level as those in other departments.

Youth convene in annual meet

TWIN FALLS — Youth delegates from Assembly of God churches throughout southern Idaho will meet in Twin Falls Thursday night for their annual Thanksgiving Holiday convention.

The meeting opens at 7:45 p.m. in the First Assembly of God Church, Locust Street North and Shoup Avenue East with Rev. L. L. LaMance, pastor, in charge.

Speaker will be Rev. C. L. Mooney, pastor of the church in Lewiston, who formerly pastored in Washington, D. C. Rev. John Anderson, Wilder, will be in charge of the program and will discuss the theme, "Live the Word — Give the Word." He has been named Assemblies of God District Youth Director.

The convention will emphasize youth involvement in witnessing, with stress on getting the message of Jesus Christ onto high school and college campuses through the personal testimony of young people," Rev. LaMance said. Several hundred young people are expected to attend. Conference sessions are open to the public.

Condition said good

TWIN FALLS — One of four children injured Saturday when a shotgun discharged into a floor at a Twin Falls residence remain hospitalized at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

E'lon Cutts, 4, is reported in good condition. Kyle Wynia, 8, who also was hospitalized after the accident, was released Monday. Two other children, Ricky Puschel, 9, and Larry Giero, 10, were treated and released Saturday.

Twin Falls Police said the children were apparently playing with the gun when it discharged, spraying them with pellets.

Time listed

TWIN FALLS — The Benedictine Monks at St. Benedictine's Student Center and Priory will hold a special Thanksgiving Day service beginning at 9 a.m.

A story in Tuesday's Times-News stated the service would begin at 9:30 a.m.

The mass will be celebrated in the Priory Chapel.

Kramer questions Gov. Andrus' plan

TWIN FALLS — Republicans should be cautious about approving Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' government reorganization plan, Doug Kramer, Twin Falls County Republican Central Committee chairman, said Tuesday.

Addressing a meeting of the county executive committee, Kramer said he agreed that certain changes in state government will be advantageous.

"But," he said, "the creation of state agencies in the constitution would make these agencies constitutional bodies and in effect a fourth branch of government. We now have the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of government and agencies generally come under the executive branch where they are subject to the control of the executive.

"When an agency is created by the constitution, its existence is not dependent upon the three branches of government but is dependent on the constitution," he said.

Kramer said many Idaho agencies have been created by executive order and can be disposed of by executive order.

"If the governor's motive is to limit government, more power to him," Kramer said. "If his motive, however, is to create 20 new agencies with dozens of subcommittees, all to be appointed by the governor, in an attempt to create a political machine, then the average Idahoan has lost another inning of the ball game."

Those New Hampshire Worries

WASHINGTON — A secret poll of New Hampshire Republicans was ordered by the White House last week after Presidential aides received disturbing reports that deep-rooted apathy among party regulars there is helping the primary election challenge to President Nixon by anti-war Rep. Paul N. (Pete) McCloskey, Jr., of California. Beyond that, the President's political command is worried that former Gov. Lane Dwinell, 68, a long-time Nixon stalwart who is chairman of his campaign in New Hampshire, is taking too much for granted. No Republican politician in or out of the White House doubts Mr. Nixon will defeat McCloskey in the March 7 Presidential primary.

Nevertheless, they worry that McCloskey's increasingly frequent campaign trips to New Hampshire could give him a vote-sizable enough to bludgeon Mr. Nixon's political image. Results of the poll will determine how much campaign the President himself makes in New Hampshire. One Nixon visit there is certain before March 7. But if the poll confirms fears that apathy among party regulars could hurt Mr. Nixon, the President will trudge through the snows of New Hampshire more than just once.

A major reason for the supreme decision by Mayor David Kennedy of Miami to back Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey for President lies in the person of Stephen P. Ross, a controversial and important south Florida political operative who is an intimate of the mayor's. At Kennedy's urging, Humphrey agreed to give Ross top consideration for a major post in his Presidential campaign: coordinator of Democratic convention delegates from all the primary states. A final decision, expected to be affirmative, was to be made this weekend in Miami. Humphrey's agreement to consider Ross for a top spot in his campaign went beyond anything Sen. Edmund Muskie was willing to offer Mayor Kennedy. Even so, after Kennedy slipped into Washington to see Muskie two weeks ago, Muskie's staff was convinced the mayor would end up backing him. Originally committed to Sen. Birch Bayh (now dropped out of the Presidential race), Kennedy also toyed with supporting New York Mayor John V. Lindsay. Humphrey's concession on Ross sealed the deal. Though regarded as a wheeler-dealer with an arrogant streak, Ross is one of south Florida's shrewdest politicians with a current record of backing 21 straight winners in Dade County (Miami).

Reforms Needed

The United Nations is the second attempt of the world family to find a way to lasting peace and it, too, as did the League of Nations before it, has failed to prevent war.

Its great weakness is its inability to adjudicate international disputes with effective enforcement of its decisions. This weakness will continue because the great powers will not surrender sovereignty to the UN and an international court.

There is little chance of any change until the organization and its member nations are dedicated to the ideals of peace, justice and fair dealing with some sacrifice of sovereign self-interest.

What course of action under these circumstances is best for the United States and for the UN? Some, like Senator Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., see no useful purpose in maintaining the UN, which Vice President Agnew sees as a leftist propaganda forum. Some, like William Buckley Jr., the conservative observer, hold the United States should continue to participate in the UN in every way except to vote, to show its disapproval of the present system of voting as a travesty of equity. Other approaches stop short of dismantling the organization or boycotting its ballots.

Perhaps the course of wisdom for the U.S. would be to make the best of the chief international forum available, while pressing for fundamental reforms and making the fullest possible use of its real potential for marshalling world opinion on the side of justice and peace.

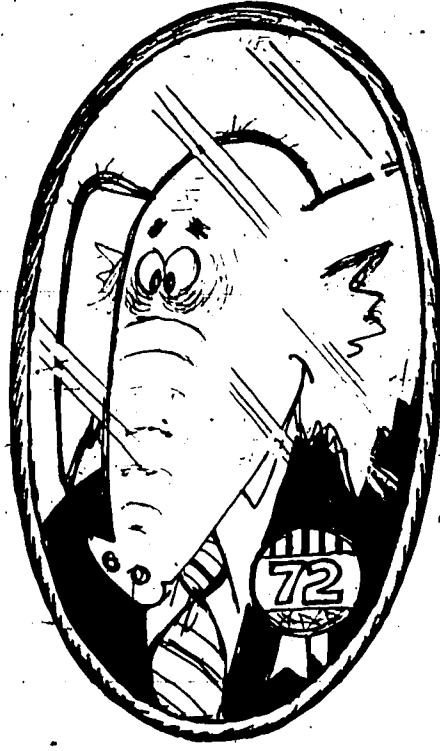

That potential may have been lessened by the expulsion of Nationalist China because the majority ignored the UN charter provision for a two-thirds vote on expulsion of a member.

The People's Republic of China can play a constructive role in needed reforms of the UN but it quite likely will add to the preponderance of weight against the U.S. It is possible, however, that China will prefer to act as a balance wheel between the free world and Russia which it mistrusts.

However, reforms in voting and in financing must come for the UN to continue even its present puny role.

ART BUCHWALD

Employment Agency

WASHINGTON — The news that the FBI has been investigating CBS correspondent Daniel Schorr caused some trepidation among Washington journalists early last week.

But then the White House explained it all. Mr. Schorr was being investigated, a spokesman said, because he was being considered for a high government job, and the White House wanted to run a check on him before they offered him the position.

Well, all of us relaxed when we heard the explanation, not only because it made sense, but also because it showed that the Administration harbored no ill feelings. Mr. Schorr has been a consistent critic of Administration policies and if he was being considered for a high government job, that meant any of us could be tapped for public service.

A group of correspondents were sitting in the White House press room the otherday, chuckling over the latest White House press release, when Clyde Mohlballer of the Kinzu Telegram Ledger was called to the phone.

He came back white-faced and said: "That was my mother. The FBI was just at her house and wanted to know what library books I borrowed when I was a kid."

"Congratulations, Mohlballer," the AP man said, "that means you're up for an important government job."

"I don't know," Clyde said. "The Administration got awfully mad at me about my articles on the Supreme Court appointments. As a matter of fact someone from the White House called my editor and suggested I be sent to Moscow where I understood the government better."

"Don't be silly, Mohlballer," the Boston Globe man said, "the Administration doesn't hold grudges. I wouldn't be surprised if they made you secretary of the treasury."

"You would think they would ask me if I wanted a job first," Mohlballer said.

"They wanted to surprise you," the Washington Post correspondent assured him. "To think, one of our boys will be in the Cabinet!"

"The FBI man didn't say anything to my mother about a Cabinet appointment. But he did want to know if I ever played with Daniel Ellsberg as a kid," Mohlballer said.

"It's just a smokescreen, Clyde," the Los Angeles Times man said. "They always ask that when they're considering somebody for secretary of defense."

"My mother said they also went around to the neighbors and asked them if I had ever had any strong feelings about Cuba."

"That means you're being put up for head of the CIA," a UPI photographer said. "With Dick Helms being moved upstairs, they're probably looking for a new chief of operations."

"It's possible," Mohlballer said, "but my mother said she caught two of the FBI men going through her trash basket last night."

"That means you're up for an environment job," the NBC man shouted.

"I wish I could be as optimistic as you guys," Mohlballer said.

RAY CROMLEY

Red Spies

Washington — What came out clearly in the British expulsion of 105 Soviet spies is the extent to which Moscow is engaged in industrial espionage.

Among the ousted men reportedly were 50 specialists or specialist groups, boring in on separate industries, particularly computer software, air frames and electronics systems.

In these highly technical fields, of course, the line between military and industrial use is thin.

A radar can be used for commercial airports or for monitoring enemy missile shots. Electronic systems are as useful in tanks as in industrial production processes.

But the evidence is that Soviet industry (along with the military) is lagging badly in current expansion programs because of grave weaknesses in sophisticated computer, electronic and petrochemical development.

Studies made here with National Science Foundation support detail how very far behind Russian industry is in these areas.

Soviet industrial espionage is not new.

Back in the 1930s the Russians made strong efforts in Germany and in Sweden to spy out new developments in metallurgy, especially in furnace design for the production of ferrous metals.

Soviet agents have been caught from time to time since while attempting to ferret out baller said. "Suppose the FBI was asking questions to intimidate me?"

The Chicago Sun-Times man was shocked. "Bite your tongue, Mohlballer," he cried, "the Nixon Administration would never stoop to a trick like that, even if they disagreed with every word you wrote."

"He's correct, Clyde," the Newsweek correspondent said. "Atty. Gen. Mitchell would resign before he'd allow the White House to intimidate a newspaperman."

"J. Edgar Hoover wouldn't stand for it," the New York Post man put in.

"I guess you're right," Mohlballer nodded. "I'd better call my mother back and reassure her. She just doesn't understand how Nixon's people operate."

Cradle Cap

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me about cradle cap and how to get rid of it. I had it as a baby and it went away, but now I have it again at the age of 13. People are starting to tell me that I have a bad case of dandruff! — J.W.

Cradle cap is a form of seborrheic dermatitis, or, in simpler terms, a skin condition related to the tiny skin glands which produce sebum, the oily material that lubricates the skin and keeps it soft and pliable.

Too much of this oily sebum, however, forms crusts, which we call cradle cap.

With babies, frequent shampoos with a good lather, and if necessary the use of some material to soften the crusts, gets rid of the trouble in a few weeks or a few months.

There is no reason, of course, that such a crusty condition cannot occur later on — as you've found out. At your age, you are beginning to mature, your glands are in a state of vigorous activity, and that could well explain your crusty scalp.

I rather take it for granted that you've been through the shampoo routine — and I dare say that you're going to have to keep it up for a time, too. But when thorough shampooing doesn't solve the trouble, you need some type of medication to soften the crust.

Rather than using a home remedy, the fact is that you'll be best off — and save time, trouble and probably money, too — by seeing your doctor, or preferably a dermatologist (skin specialist) for a prescription medication. Frequent shampooing will continue to be essential besides.

Troubled with gout? To learn of new treatment for this cruel and painful disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of his booklet, "Gout—The Modern Way To Stop It." Please enclose a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

MR. SPECTATOR

Cute Little Feller

This cute little feller, sitting up and taking notice of his surroundings, may be kinda mushy but he's all heart-potato, that is. Actually he grew up in the mud field belonging to Fred Montgomery, who lives south of Twin Falls, and was "adopted" by G.A. Hooper, also of Twin Falls. Mr. Hooper explained to Mr. Spectator that he was "all by his lonesome" after the digger went by.

Mr. Hooper dressed him up with a couple of button-eyes and now he's ready for that night on the town.

In fact he might just be ready for tomorrow—which is Thanksgiving and which means that a lot of his relatives will be consumed during the day.

But our little friend will not be et.

THE COLD MYTH

Medical myths die hard, even when researchers do their best to find a corollary between fact and legend and fail. That appears to be the case with efforts to associate chills and a cold environment as a cause or contributing factor of the common cold.

Studies on animals have shown definite effects on the disease by environment, which may have perpetuated the long-held belief as far as humans are concerned.

But if changes in the environment have any relationship to the common cold in man, some experiments have strongly suggested they do so in combination with other factors which have not been determined. And Mr. Spectator asks you to chew on that one awhile!

Snake reservoirs reach winter operating levels

RUPERT — Most reservoirs in the Upper Snake River Storage System will be passing inflow with storage remaining static by mid-December, according to Glenn H. Simmons, Minidoka Project superintendent.

Simmons said this situation would prevail until precipitation data from the watershed indicates a change should be made in operation, sometime in early 1972.

All reservoirs in the system are at or very near the planned winter operating levels. Island Park and American Falls Reservoirs will continue to be lowered for a few days until the desired winter operating water surface elevations are reached.

With the record amount of storage in the reservoirs and with the storage system passing inflow, a steady river flow of 7,000 cubic feet per second or more will be passing Milner the rest of this year. Flow past Milner since the end of the 1971 irrigation season has averaged 12,000 cubic feet per second (cfs) as American Falls Reservoir and Lake Walcott were being lowered to winter operating levels.

The storage system data follows:
Island Park, storage, 79,800 acre feet, discharge, 1,050 cfs; Grassy Lake, storage, 13,000 acre feet, no discharge; Jackson Lake, storage, 602,000 acre feet, discharge, 450 cfs; Palisades, storage, 888,500 acre feet, discharge, 3,000 cfs; American Falls, storage, 1,312,340 acre feet, discharge, 11,400 cfs; Lake Walcott, storage, 59,100 acre feet, discharge, 11,000 cfs.

Water Supply outlook for the 1972 irrigating season is considered excellent.

In other information released by the Department of Interior, the Snake River Water report as of Monday follows:

Jackson Lake, gage height, 59.07; discharge or content, 602,100 acre feet, year ago, 557,900 acre feet; Moran, gage height, 2.88 cfs; discharge or content, 428 cfs, year ago, 404 cfs; Palisades Reservoir (usable); gage height, 99.21 cfs; discharge or content, 888,500 acre feet, year ago, 945,800 acre feet; Island Park Reservoir, gage height, 95.04 cfs; discharge or content, 79,800 acre feet, year ago, 81,000; Helge, no gage height listed; discharge or content, 3,080 cfs, year ago, 3,050 cfs; Shelley, gage height, 6.86 cfs; discharge or content, 5,890 cfs, year ago, 3,810 cfs; American Falls Reservoir, gage height, 47.04 cfs; discharge or content, 1,307,000 acre feet, year ago, 1,067,000 acre feet; Neeley, gage height, 6.31 cfs; discharge or content, 11,200 cfs, year ago, 3,470 cfs; Lake Walcott, gage height, 41.80 cfs; discharge or content, 59,100 acre feet, year ago, 55,260 acre feet; Snake River near Minidoka, gage height, 8.12 cfs; discharge or content, 11,500 cfs; year ago, 4,410 cfs; Milner Lake, gage height, 8.25 cfs; no discharge or content listed, year ago, 6.60 cfs; Milner S. S. Canal, gage height, 3.30 cfs; discharge or content, 448 cfs, year ago, 425 cfs; Gooding Project, gage height, 1.82 cfs; discharge or content, 199 cfs, year ago, 0 cfs; N. S. in Gooding, gage height, 2.35-2.20 cfs; discharge or content, 634 cfs, year ago, 620 cfs; Snake River at Milner, gage height, 14.35 cfs; discharge or content, 11,300 cfs, year ago, 3,800 cfs.

Arthur L. Larson, engineer in charge of the U. S. Geological Survey and Snake River Water Master, also reports the Committee of Nine will meet at 10 a.m. Dec. 16 at the Ponderosa Inn in Burley. The Power Loss Committee will meet at 9 a.m. Dec. 16 at the Bureau of Reclamation offices.

Opponents don't want farm post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Milton R. Young, R-N.D., don't think the Senate should confirm Earl L. Butz as secretary of agriculture.

But neither man apparently would want the job himself.

In fact, when the possibility was suggested during a Senate Agriculture Committee hearing on Butz this past week, both senators reacted—in a joking tone—with something akin to dismay.

The suggestion that Humphrey, a potential candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, might become secretary came up in a light vein break during an attack on Butz by Tony T. Dechant, president of the National Farmers Union.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., noting Dechant's objections to Butz, asked the farmers union leader who Dechant thought should be chosen to run the controversy-filled farm program.

Dechant had no immediate proposal, but Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, suggested the Farmers Union leader might back Humphrey. Dechant, perhaps recalling that Humphrey ran against President Nixon in the 1968 Presidential election, allocated it would be the "height of speculation" to think that Nixon might bring his opponent into the cabinet.

Humphrey also found little enchantment in the idea.

"I thought Jack Miller liked me better than to recommend that I be secretary of agriculture," he said jokingly.

Sen. Young's name came up later when H. Carl Anderson, a retired Republican Congressman and former farm bloc leader from Minnesota, testified in opposition to Butz.

Anderson, now 75, was a leading figure during the 1950s, along with Young, in GOP opposition to the low-support policies of former Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft-Benson.

"Let's get a good man in," Anderson urged after appealing for rejection of the Butz nomination. "Let's get Milton Young."

Young, the only Republican Senator who had joined Humphrey and other Democrats in announcing opposition to Butz, grinned but didn't agree.

"I thought you were my friend," he told Anderson.

Loan forms ready

TWIN FALLS — Union Pacific Scholarship application forms available to 4-H youths must be completed and returned before Jan. 7, 1972, to the County Agent's office according to Dick Fuehrer, extension agricultural agent.

He said the deadline for some scholarships available to 4-H members is already past, but there is still time to apply for the Union Pacific Scholarships.

Union Pacific awards $400 college scholarships in each of the 44 Idaho counties, Fuehrer said.

The recipient must be a senior in high school, have at least a 2.5 grade point average for the last two years, and plan to major in home economics, agriculture, forestry, or related fields at a western land grant University.

The applicant must have completed three years of 4-H and must be a current 4-H member.

Air pollution workshop held

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Air Pollution Control Staff told a public workshop Tuesday its air pollution implementation plan calls for attaining federal air standards by 1975.

The summary was presented to a public workshop on air pollution control sponsored by the Idaho Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association. Those attending the meeting indicated they will seek assurance the agency has the necessary statutory authority and financing to carry out the program outlined at the meeting.

Jerry Brown, Boise, program director, said those at the workshop also asked that a specific non-degradation policy be written into the state plan so areas having better air quality than the national standards require will not be allowed to deteriorate to the national standards level.

He said the primary national standards were drawn up to protect public health, adding, "We do not see any reason why the state cannot protect its air resources as they currently exist if they are better than a health standards."

The implementation plan presented by the staff included detailed emissions inventories for the state abatement schedules for major sources of air pollution; sulfur content limitations in fuels such as coal and heating oil and new standards for categories of pollutants such as doors and fugitive dust.

McGovern would grant amnesty

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said Tuesday night if elected president he will grant amnesty to the "thousands of young men" who have "chosen exile or jail rather than military service."

McGovern, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, also indicated he would remove FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover from office if he is elected.

The South Dakota Democrat addressed a University of Utah student group Tuesday night in an abbreviated visit to the Beehive State. He originally had scheduled a noon speech at Brigham Young University too but it was cancelled by the Senate debate on the Cooper-Church amendment to end further funding of the Vietnam war.

"The next president ought not only end the war," McGovern told the students, "but he should grant a general amnesty to the thousands of young men who choose jail or exile rather than violate their conscience by fighting a war they didn't believe in."

There is ample evidence for granting amnesty, McGovern said.

He said President Lincoln granted amnesty at the end of the Civil War not only to those who refused to fight but to those of the confederate army.

And, he said, both Presidents Coolidge and Truman granted amnesties at the end of the two world wars.

McGovern made only one reference to the FBI director but he drew his biggest response when he declared:

"It is time to replace an FBI director who is more interested in investigating campus activities than investigating the underworld."

Catwalk slated

BOISE (UPI) — Western Steel Manufacturing Co., Boise, was apparent low bidder Tuesday for a Department of Public Works project at the new penitentiary site.

The firm bid $12,675 to construct catwalks in the heating plant at the new site.

The Department of Public Works has taken both apparent low bids under advisement.

'Stinger' snuffs 5-day oil fire

ALTAMONT, Utah (UPI) — Oil well firefighters from Dallas used a rig that looks like a Texas-size scorpion to ram a "stinger" into a well head Tuesday afternoon and snuff a five-day oil fire.

A big tractor equipped with a long boom carrying the stinger—a threefoot long cone-shaped valve—had to strike twice in order to kill the blaze, which consumed thousands of barrels of petroleum.

"It's a very tricky job," said Shell Oil Co. spokesman John Richards. "The Caterpillar operator had to hit a 4½-inch pipe in the middle of the fire to get the stinger in place."

The stinger was set in the pipe briefly about 12:30 p.m. But intense pressure squeezed oil past the cone and before long the fire had started again.

The stinger was swung into the flames a second time about 3:15 p.m. and held fast. Drilling fluid was pumped into the shaft to contain the oil and natural gas.

Representatives of the Red Adair Co. did the job. It was the second fire in the Uintah Basin oil field in three months that the Texans have put out.

Almanac

By United Press International Today is Wednesday, November 24, the 328th day of 1971. The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning star is Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. Those born on this day are under the sign of Sagittarius. President Zachary Taylor was born Nov. 24, 1784. On this day in history: In 1869 women in 21 states met in Cleveland to draw up plans for the organization of the American Women Suffrage Association. In 1944 Super-Fortresses of the American Air Force took off from Saipan for the first World War II raids on Tokyo. In 1961 the U.N. Security Council gave Secretary General Thant authorization to use force to settle the Belgian Congo crisis. In 1963 Lee Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy, was shot to death by Jack Ruby in a Dallas jail. The shooting was witnessed by millions on television. A thought for today: Scottish poet Robert Gilfillan said, "There's a hope for every woe and a balm for every pain, but the first joys of our heart never come back again."

Budget group to discuss changes

BOISE (UPI) — When the Legislative Budget-Fiscal Committee meets Dec. 3-4 in Boise it may be discussing some changes in the Standard Appropriations Act of 1945.

The co-chairmen of the committee, Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, and Rep. Jenkin Palmer, R-Malad, met Tuesday with Myran Scheichte, director of the Legislative Council, to discuss possible changes in the law.

Others at the meeting included legislative auditor James Defenbach, legislative fiscal officer John Andreason, and acting budget Director D. C. "Skip" Chilberg.

Scheichte presented the group with three possible alternatives: changes based on a model appropriations act, changes based on the Hawaii program which involves a comprehensive information system and proposals drafted by the Legislative Council using suggestions from several states.

Palmer said one of the areas needing to be cleared up is that of "legislative intent" for use of appropriated money.

Now, he said, the committee is not certain whether to write the legislative intent into the bill or write the intent into a concurrent resolution.

High said another problem is that there is no way of knowing now exactly what obligations a state agency may have when it seeks another appropriation.

"There are a lot of places that could be improved," High said.

More oxen

MEKORYUK, Alaska (UPI) — The musk oxen herd on Nunivak Island was 54 head larger this fall than last autumn. Officials said 69 calves were born last spring to the herd's 109 adult females. This was an unusually high production rate compared with previous years. The herd began the winter season with a population of 535.

Comedy slated

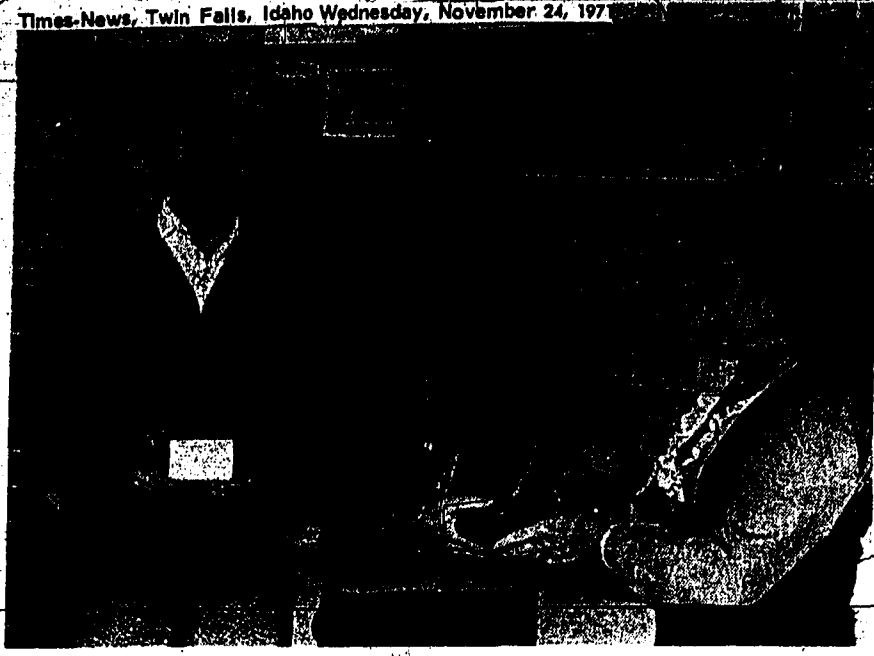

TWIN FALLS — "Arms and the Man," Bernard Shaw's enduringly funny comedy that pricks the bubble of military glory, will be given by the College of Southern Idaho Drama Department beginning Dec. 2 in the Arena Room at the Fine Arts Center.

This is the satirical romp that first established Shaw as an outstanding playwright in 1894 and has continued to be produced frequently ever since. The fun of the light-hearted tale begins when a runaway military officer, fleeing a defeat in battle, tries to hide himself in a house back of the lines and finds himself in the bedroom of the lovely daughter of the enemy general. Because he is a plodding, methodical fellow and the girl, who hides him is given to romantic fantasies and dreams of a hero who is all gallantry and reckless bravery, the clash of their temperaments gives off sparks that have delighted audiences for 70 years.

Area students in the cast, directed by H. Paul Kilss, include Marcia Lickley, Jim Langley, Patrick Cunningham, John Bailey, Pat Woodbury, Terry Kilmes, Bob Haynes and Doug Garland.

Performances will be given Thursday through Saturday evenings and a Sunday matinee the first weekend in December.

Marriage announced

RICHFIELD — The marriage of Carla Anne Robinson and Jack L. Riley is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Robinson.

Riley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald (Cotton) Riley. All are residents of Richfield.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Justice Edwin Greensford Nov. 12 at Elko, Nev.

The bride wore a white lace dress with lavender accessories for the afternoon wedding.

Attendants were Cathie Robinson, sister of the bride, Boise State College, and Victor Robinson, their uncle, Richfield. A dinner party at Stockman's Cafe followed the wedding.

The newlyweds will be feted at a reception Friday evening at the Richfield American Legion Hall.

DEAR ABBY: About a year ago I got involved with a married man. The relationship was really quite beautiful. The next thing I knew, I was pregnant. He led me to believe he would divorce his wife and marry me, so I let things go until it was too late to do anything. Then I had the baby, and gave it up for adoption.

I kept my mouth shut about who the baby's father was because I didn't want to hurt him or his family. He promised to pay half my expenses for the baby. This happened five months ago, and so far all he has given me is $20. (He said his wife handles all the money and he doesn't want her to get suspicious.) Abby, I know he could have done better than that. He is an executive with his company.

After the baby was born we kept on seeing each other because he said he loved me and I still loved him. Now I am getting disgusted with him. I want to move away, and find another job, but he doesn't want me to. (We work at the same place and I see him every day.)

I don't want to cause trouble, but I feel like he took advantage of me. If you were my mother, how would you advise me? I am 19.

DEAR ALONE: I would advise you to see a lawyer and let him handle it, to have nothing further to do with this man, and to move away and find another job.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think about tight pants? I mean skin tight! Print this. I want to show it to somebody.

DEAR JUST: The only good thing I can say about tight pants is, it makes one careful not to drop anything.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. My wife's cat. I do not care to have animals in the house and my wife knows it.

The stench of the cat's box on that first trip to the bathroom in the morning fills me with such nausea that it ruins my breakfast, and starts my day off wrong.

If that's not enough, then there's the constant threat of torn and scratched furniture, and little messes from "accidents" here and there, etc.

My beef is this: Why would my wife, knowing of my intense dislike for cats, so arbitrarily refuse to get rid of hers? When I complain, she says if she had to make a choice between me and the cat, she'd choose the cat!

We've been married for seven months. It's the second time around for both of us, so you'd think we'd have the common sense to find a solution before things go from bad to worse. What do you think?

DEAR DEAD: What your wife doesn't know about cats would fill a cat care manual. (Give her one.) Cat boxes do not have to smell! And cats, properly trained are not destructive. But your problem is bigger than a cat! It's time you and your bride leveled with each other. Find out why she's using an innocent little animal to punish you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GRANDMA G.: I know you mean well, but I send advice only to those who ask for it. Advice, regardless of how much it is needed, is useless unless it is sought. And those who need it most, usually want it least.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 6976, Los Angeles, Cal. 90060. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

CHOCOLATE SWEDISH TEARING

Dough:

- 1 package active dry yeast
- 1/2 cup warm water
- 1/2 cup soft shortening
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg, unbeaten
- 1/2 cup lukewarm milk
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

FILLING

- 2 tablespoons soft butter
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 3/4 cup instant cocoa mix
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts

GLAZE

- 1 cup sifted confectioner's sugar
- 4 tablespoons chocolate flavored syrup
- 2 tablespoons chopped nuts

Add syrup to sugar gradually. Mix thoroughly. Additional syrup may be added if desired.

Dissolve the yeast in warm water in a mixer bowl. Add the shortening, salt, sugar, egg, milk and one and a half cups of the flour. Beat two minutes on medium speed. Scrape sides and bottom of bowl occasionally. Stir in remaining flour. Scrape bowl again. Turn dough onto lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic, about four minutes.

Place dough in greased bowl. Grease top of dough, cover with damp cloth. Let rise until double in bulk, about one and a half hours. Punch down, let rise again until almost double, about one hour.

Roll the dough on a lightly floured board into an oblong 12 by 18 inches. Spread the soft butter over the surface. Mix the cinnamon and instant cocoa mix together and sprinkle over the dough. Roll dough lengthwise as for jelly roll and seal edge. Place the roll, sealed edge down on a greased baking sheet. Moisten ends of roll slightly and join ends to form a ring. Make deep cuts with scissors at three quarter inch intervals half way through ring. Turn each piece on its side. Cover and let rise until double in bulk, about forty minutes.

Bake in a 375 degree oven about 20-25 minutes. While hot, spread with chocolate glaze and sprinkle nuts on top. Makes one tea ring.

Area circle study topic presented

WENDELL — "The Mideast Crisis in Biblical Perspective" was the topic of a study presented by Mrs. Earl Schrenk at the meeting this past week of the Mary Martha Circle of the United Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Mattie Lorrain presented the worship service using materials from the book of the "Fellowship of the Least Coin." Her theme was "Christ Is All."

Mrs. Roy Bishop, fellowship reported $81,000 have been collected nationally in the "least coin" donations.

These moneys are used for service projects in various parts of the world.

Mrs. Irene Miller reported the United Presbyterian Church, Wendell, is sponsoring a clothing drive which will terminate in mid-December. The clothing collected will be sent to Pakistan. She said special emphasis is being put on work clothes. People who have clothing are asked to donate 10 cents per pound to help with postage.

Ladies of the church were reminded to bring cookies to the association meeting Dec. 9 for the annual "cookies for the manor" project.

The group voted to recommend that the association donate $25 to Kendall Presbytery to be used for its benevolence fund.

Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Louise Houfburg were hostesses.

Valuable treasure

THIS DELUXE Riverside model No. 35 parlor stove was manufactured by the Rock Island Stove Co., Rock Island, Ill., in the middle 1800's. It was brought from Nebraska recently by the Leonard Vitak family, Buhl. It is made of cast iron embellished with nickel plated trim and weighs about 600 pounds.

Vitak family brings parlor stove to Buhl from Nebraska

By PAULINE DAY
Times-News Writer
BUHL — Antique collecting is a fascinating hobby which provides a direct link with the past as well as an exciting way to learn about old manners and customs.

During the 1800's American families gathered around the parlor stove for an evening of song, a game of checkers or quiet reading. A part of that nostalgic scene can be found in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Vitak, Buhl, who recently brought a parlor stove from Nebraska.

The stove has been in the Vitak family since 1916 when it was purchased by his mother, Mrs. Frank Vitak, for $50. The stove was purchased from Otto Odvarka of Clarkston, Neb., who bought it in 1896. It is not known if the stove was new or used when purchased by Odvarka.

The stove is a deluxe Riverside model No. 35 manufactured by the Rock Island Stove Co., Rock Island, Ill., in the middle 1800's. It is made of cast iron embellished with nickel plated trim and weighs about 600 pounds.

The trim features a pair of dragons at the front and an ornate gold design on the top. All of the trim can be lifted off the stove revealing a black "pot belly" coal burner. The entire stove can be dismantled in an hour with a screw driver and a pair of pliers, Vitak said.

Instructions on the stove say to burn "chestnut size hard coal" only, as it is designed to burn without a flame. The stove has five air dampers and three automatic breathers for heat control. The fire will never go out as long as there is coal in the stove. At the back of the stove is space for heating water or to hold a coffee pot.

Although the stove was in constant use until 1961 the grates and burners are in excellent condition. Since many of the small windows were broken out the Vitaks replaced them with plastic. The windows were originally made of mica.

The stove has great sentimental value as well as monetary value, said Vitak, and isn't for sale at any price.

Mrs. Bossard observes 91 years

TWIN FALLS — Goldie Bossard celebrated her birthday recalling 91 years of experiences Sunday.

Three of five children were able to attend a party in her honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edd Bossard, Twin Falls.

Mrs. Bossard was born Nov. 21, 1880, at Clarinda, Iowa, and spent her childhood days herding cattle for her father on the prairies of Iowa and Nebraska.

She recalls going to school in a sod school house, and also remembers how the Indians helped her on two occasions while herding cattle, once when the cattle stampeded and again when her pony ran away from her.

She recalled traveling by covered wagon from Iowa to Nebraska trailing the cattle behind the wagon train. When she and her family arrived in Nebraska, she helped her parents build a sod house for their home. While building the house, they lived in a makeshift dugout.

Mrs. Bossard married Ernes Bossard in Nebraska and in 1937, along with two children, moved to Twin Falls where she has resided since.

Life is still active for Goldie Bossard. She crochets for her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She's also known as grandma to all the children in the neighborhood. Mrs. Bossard is making plans already to celebrate her 92nd birthday anniversary.

SV driver cited after area crash

HAILEY — A Sun Valley man has been cited for inattentive driving after a one-car, non-injury accident Monday night on U. S. Highway 93 two miles north of Hailey.

Blaine County Sheriff's officers said Claus Wagner, 27, Sun Valley, was driving south along in a late model foreign vehicle about 10:30 p.m. Officers said Wagner was putting a sack in the back seat of the car and failed to negotiate a turn. The vehicle traveled about 400 feet in the borrow pit off the right side of the road, tore through a barbed wire fence, went 200 more feet across a field, jumped a log and came to rest against a tree.

Wagner was uninjured but the car received about $800 damage, officers said.

prevention.

If the grant is approved, five or six persons would attend a two-week training session. On returning to Blaine County, trustees said that group would develop a program tailored to the community's needs.

Supt. Charles Clark said about $18,000 would be available for training the community team but not for conducting the program.

Jerome forms rural council

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Writer

JEROME — Thomas P. Mahan, Jerome accountant, was announced Wednesday as the first chairman of a new organization, the Jerome County Rural Development Council.

Interested residents of the county met to form the council dedicated to guide planned growth, development and revitalization of all of Jerome County's resources.

Working with Mahan will be a steering committee made up of Carl Montgomery, Walter Shouse, Gary Towle, Mrs. Don Rawalt, Alvin Chojnacky and John VanOrman. Two other members will be named at a later date. Mahan, who drafted the bylaws of the new council said the purpose of the organization is to influence and coordinate matters related to rural development to maintain a high quality of life in the county, now and for future generations.

He explained "rural" in the organization's title pertains to the incorporated and unincorporated areas of the county.

He explained the council has no legal power and the real value will be an informed advisory capacity. Mahan said the council will also be independent of both the Idaho State Planning and Community Affairs Agency as well as the South Idaho Resource Planning and Development Committee, presently made up of Twin Falls, Cassia, Minidoka and Jerome counties.

According to bylaws approved by the group, the council's membership is composed of those citizens of Jerome County who are sufficiently interested in the aims and purposes of the council to attend meetings and participate in activities. Key to the council's effectiveness will be information and help provided by local state and federal resource agencies, Mahan said. The council voted to designate land use planning as the first and most important priority of the new group.

Mahan told the group new social economic trends are becoming apparent in Jerome County as the out migration from California gets underway.

Advisory unit named

HAILEY — Six persons have been named to an advisory committee to aid in constructing a new high school for Blaine County.

The committee will work with the Blaine County School trustees in selecting a site and preparing architectural plans, according to Supt. Charles L. Clark.

Named to the panel were George Loomis Sr., Mrs. Gerald Sidwell and Richard Welch, all Ketchum; Mrs. Jack Gray, Sun Valley, and Richard Stephens and William House, both Hailey. Four other members and several alternates will be chosen, Clark said.

Directors named by potato growers

BURLEY — Directors of districts 5 and 6 Potato Growers of Idaho, were elected this week at a meeting in Burley.

New district 5 directors are Jack Hirai, Malta; Robert Allred, Murtaugh, and Art Jones, Hagerman. The district is composed of Cassia and Twin Falls counties.

District 6, Minidoka, Jerome and Gooding counties, elected Dr. Ben Humphrey, Rupert, to a three-year term as director. Others elected, all for one-year terms, were Leland Sabin, Paul; Ed Topliff, Hazelton; Bill Barnes, Jerome, and Walt Mackay and Blair Spaulding, both Rupert. L. A. Gillette, Paul, was re-elected chairman and Topliff was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Harold Sealey, Gillette and Mel West will be voting delegates for the coming convention.

District 5 directors will appoint voting delegates for the Potato Growers of Idaho state convention Monday and Tuesday in Burley. Gov. Cecil Andrus is scheduled to speak and Karen Herd, Miss Idaho, will provide entertainment.

At the joint meeting of districts 5 and 6 in Burley Monday, Jack Allred, Mur-laugh, chairman of the Idaho Potato Commission, reported that $1.25 million has been earmarked by the commission for advertising to "keep the Idaho potato famous."

The advertising promotion will include radio advertisements tied in with the retailer and magazine advertisements. "Ads with the retailer and the Idaho Potato Commission brings the information to the consumer and the retailer must have on hand the product (Idaho potatoes) to sell," Allred said.

The magazine advertisements will cost about $37,000, Allred said. The first appeared in the November issues of about 15 top-rated magazines and will continue to run throughout the year.

"Other funds from the commission budget will be used for research and education, plant disease, developing new varieties of potatoes and paying salaries for four area potato specialists in the state," Allred said.

Another $50,000 has been set aside, he said, for branding machines which are expected to be in the field by spring.

Branding potatoes with the "Idaho Potato" seal is a promotion the commission has been working on for several years, Allred said.

Hit and run accident probed

JEROME — Law enforcement officers in Jerome were looking for a 1964 or '65 red pickup truck today in connection with a hit and run accident Tuesday night in which Mrs. Glenn Crowell, 55, Jerome, was injured.

Mrs. Crowell is listed in good condition in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, Twin Falls, with multiple injuries. She was treated at St. Benedict's Hospital here and transferred to Magic Valley Memorial.

Chief of Police C. H. Puntney said the woman was walking beside the roadway on 10th Avenue East about 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. Witnesses reported the pickup truck swerved, apparently to avoid hitting her, and they saw her fall and the vehicle continue down the street without stopping. Officers said they believed the vehicle driver saw the woman minutes before the impact, swerved to miss her but struck her with the side mirror.

She suffered head injuries, cuts and bruises.

Witnesses were unable to say if Mrs. Crowell was walking in the same or opposite direction of the vehicle. There are no sidewalks in the area and the woman was reportedly walking at the side of the street in the right of way.

Overpass site

MILD WEATHER has allowed construction crews to move ahead rapidly with grading and bridge construction on Interstate 84 between Wendell and Tuttle. Here a power shovel excavates at the site of an overpass about three miles northwest of Wendell along Highway 25.

Work proceeds

CONSTRUCTION work along the new Interstate 84N route between Wendell and Tuttle is proceeding rapidly and in full view of passing motorists. Here a heavy crane and drilling units are at work on an embankment for an overpass several miles north of Wendell. Mild weather has enabled crews to continue working on many autumn days.

Cong attack US Cambodia raids

PARIS (UPI)—The Viet Cong accused the United States Tuesday of bombarding the Cambodian civilian population and said President Nixon was lying when he said American troops would cease their offensive combat role in Indochina.

Vietnam's drive into Cambodia to root out Communist sanctuaries there. "These new military adventures of the Nixon administration are evidence of the lying character of the American President, according to whom American forces have ceased their offensive combat role and will never directly intervene in Cambodia."

The Viet Cong statement said American warplanes were invading Cambodia along with the South Vietnamese army, in order "to pillage and kill the civilian Cambodian population."

"American aviation is even bombarding the outskirts of Phnom Penh," the Viet Cong said. The Viet Cong statement came shortly after South Vietnam's peace negotiating team in Paris criticized Premier Pham Van Dong of North Vietnam for his statement in Peking that Hanoi will fight against the allies "until complete victory."

In a press statement the Saigon delegation said President Nguyen Van Thieu's regime has always sought direct talks with the North with a view of finding a solution to the conflict on the basis of the South Vietnamese people's self-determination.

"The Hanoi and Peking leaders speak all the time about pursuing the war until a total victory, unless the South Vietnamese, Laotian and Cambodian people purely and simply capitulate. The least one may say is that this is not the language of those wishing sincerely to seek a negotiated solution to the conflict."

The statement was referring to statements made by the Hanoi premier and his host, Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, in Peking where Dong is currently paying an official visit.

5 top officers face charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Five top American Division officers have been told to defend themselves against possible disciplinary action for failing to prepare a proper defense at a fire base in Vietnam where 33 GIs died in a Communist attack, it was learned Tuesday.

Army sources said that Maj. Gen. James L. Baldwin, 50, a native of Omaha, Neb., and former commander of the division, faces only a possible reprimand, but the other four, all majors and colonels, could be demoted in the Army's followup to the heavy losses at Fire Base Mary Ann on March 28.

Letters outlining the Army's proposed disciplinary actions were sent to the five officers Nov. 8 over the signature of Maj. Gen. Verne L. Bowers, the army's adjutant general. The men have up to 60 days in which to defend themselves before Army Secretary Robert F. Froehke, who will make the final decision on disciplinary action. Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim confirmed that letters had been sent in the case, but refused to say how many or who received them. Baldwin, the sources said, is accused of not being aware of Mary Ann's poor defensive posture and of failing, in violation of his own directives, to use his staff properly to obtain information on the fire base's defenses.

The other men facing possible reprimands and demotions are: Col. Alphas R. Clark, a native of Baker, Ore., the division's former chief of staff now stationed at Ft. Jackson, S.C.; Col. William Hathaway, of Portsmouth, Va., former commander of the 196th Infantry Brigade now stationed at Ft. Campbell, Ky.; Lt. Col. William P. Doyle, of Pittsburgh, Pa., formerly a battalion commander in the 196th Brigade and now stationed in Hawaii, and Maj. Stanley J. Wisniewski, of Sugar Notch, Pa., formerly Doyle's operations officer and the only one of the group remaining in Vietnam.

The proposed actions against the five do not involve court-martial.

Chou declares defeat certain

HONG KONG (UPI)—Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai declared Tuesday an allied defeat in Indochina was inevitable and "no force on earth can alter" a Communist victory, the New China News Agency (NCNA) said.

Speaking at a Peking rally in honor of visiting North Vietnamese officials including Premier Pham Van Dong, Chou recalled how the United States armed 5 million Chinese Nationalists two decades ago, "provoking the all-round civil war" with the Communists.

"This is also the tactic the U.S. aggressors used in South Vietnam in the beginning, which they called 'special warfare,' and it very soon flopped in face of the valiant war of resistance of the Vietnamese people," Chou said. An eventual Communist victory, he said, "is a law of history which no force on earth can alter."

The Chinese premier said the recent admission of the Peking government to the United Nations "marks the bankruptcy of the U.S. government's 22-year-old policy (of) isolating and blockading the Chinese people regarding the desire of the people of the world."

He called the admission of China to the U.N. "a victory for Chairman Mao Tse-tung's revolutionary line in foreign affairs and a common victory for people all over the world."

Shooting victim succumbs

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A 24-year-old waitress from the Irish Republic who was shot last week in a border battle between British troops and gunmen died in a Londonderry hospital Tuesday.

Bridget Carr was shot in the head Friday when gunmen opened fire from across the border at troops manning a roadblock at Strabane in County Tyrone, the army said. Tuesday a sniper shot and wounded a British soldier at a sandbagged sentry post in Belfast's Catholic Falls Road area, an army spokesman said. The soldier was standing guard at an abandoned textile mill that serves as an army barracks.

Elsewhere in Belfast, a woman halted a post office robbery by attacking a gunman with her shopping bag, gunmen bombed an automobile showroom and British troops fired rubber bullets and CS nausea gas to drive off youths who attacked with bombs and rocks during roundups of at least 20 IRA suspects in Roman Catholic neighborhoods, the army said.

A middle-aged woman who refused to be identified flailed with her shopping bag on the head of a gunman rifling the safe of the Cavehill Road Post Office in North Belfast, post office clerk Kathleen Strong said.

"He got fed up and fired his gun twice in the air but she still carried on thumping," Miss Strong said. "When he began running out of the shop, I joined in and jumped on his back. He dropped bags of coins and some of the notes he had scooped up. It was terrifying while it lasted but once this lady started hitting him it was very quickly over."

The gunman and a partner who kept watch outside got away with less than $500, she said.

U.S. raps Common Market

LONDON (UPI)—The United States accused the European Common Market countries Tuesday of trade discrimination. It called for wide-ranging negotiations aimed at solving the present money and trade crisis and creating a new world economic system.

It said Washington regards lifting of barriers against American farm exports an essential part of any such package.

"However started, on whatever basis, the need for starting a continuous process of negotiation is increasingly evident," William D. Eberle, President Nixon's special representative for trade, told a dinner meeting of the Trade Policy Research Center here. Eberle said Common Market trade policies are "not globally oriented—instead, they favor some over others."

Eberle said Common Market farm policies have hurt the United States, forced up industrial prices in Europe and are likely to do the same in Britain when it joins.

Eberle said the Common Market, by planning special preferential arrangements for other Western European countries, is "undercutting" the spirit of the 1948 General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

"The creation of a preferential bloc covering 40 or 50 percent of free world trade has enormous political consequences," he said.

China gives decision on Middle East talks

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—China has notified the Big Four powers that it has no desire to enter their talks seeking a formula for peace in the Middle East.

Chinese diplomats Saturday called on French Ambassador Jacques Kosciuszko-Morizet, current chairman of the Big Four group, and informed him of their decision.

Diplomatic sources said Kosciuszko-Morizet as a courtesy had inquired whether the Peking delegation wanted to join the talks which have gone on intermittently for three years.

One apparent reason for China's decision, diplomatic sources said, was that the Peking government has refused to accept Resolution 242—the basic action of Nov. 22, 1967, in which the Security Council spelled out broad peace terms for the Arabs and Israel.

Attorney asks for testimony

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)—The attorney for accused mass slayer Juan V. Corona requested Tuesday that part of the testimony taken by the Sutter County Grand Jury which indicted the labor contractor be made public.

Richard E. Hawk filed a motion in Superior Court asking that five pages of testimony given by Roy DeLong, 53, an itinerant farm laborer who died last week of a heart attack, be released.

In a two-page declaration in support of the motion, Hawk labeled as "false information" reports in the press that DeLong saw one of the Yuba City mass murder victims get into a van owned by Corona.

A hearing on Hawk's motion was set for Friday.

of the Arabs and Israel.

The Big Four meetings were suggested by France. The group was set up not as a U.N. Committee, but the U.N. ambassadors of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France went into the talks as a matter of geographical convenience.

What prompted France to invite Peking still is puzzling her allies. Diplomatic sources said Britain was neither consulted nor informed, although French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann discussed the Middle East with British leaders in London 10 days ago.

Peking has made it known that its policy is for a continued struggle by the Palestinians and other Arabs, as opposed to the line taken by the West and Russia in favor of a political settlement.

Col. Henderson gives testimony

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI)—Col. Oran K. Henderson testified Tuesday he could not remember any superior officer ever telling him to investigate reports of a massacre at My Lai. He said he never even heard reports of wholesale civilian deaths there until the Army began an investigation.

Wearing a chest full of medals won in combat in three wars, Henderson testified on his own behalf as the 41st and final defense witness in the court martial that began Aug. 23. Henderson is charged with failing to investigate the incident and report to his superior officers, but he told a jury of two generals and five colonels Tuesday that nobody ever asked him to make an investigation.

Furthermore, he said, he did not learn of allegations of mass murder of civilians until months after the March 16, 1968, incident when the Pentagon began investigating. In the days following the March 16, 1968, incident, Henderson testified he was unable to find any evidence of misconduct at My Lai and that he passed this information on to his superiors.

Then in late March or early April, he testified, he was told that his division commander, Maj. Gen. Samuel Koster,

"wanted me to reduce my oral report to writing."

Henderson said he submitted a report of five or six pages, passing along statements by men he had questioned and making recommendations for future operations of the My Lai type.

Several months later when the Pentagon began its investigation, Henderson said he tried to locate his written report to division headquarters, but was unable to find it.

He opened his testimony Tuesday by declaring that he was never asked to investigate civilian slaughter.

Decision nears

SALISBURY (UPI)—Rhodesia and Britain appeared within reach of a settlement Tuesday night of their six-year dispute over Rhodesia's independence declaration of independence. There was one last round of bargaining to face before a final decision.

"Further progress" was made today in two plenary sessions of negotiators, a British spokesman said. "We are getting on, but I cannot say if there will be an agreement."

Another plenary session, which conference sources said they expected to be the last, was scheduled for 11 a.m. Wednesday.

CALGARY, Alta. (UPI)—A 27-year-old truck driver accused of hijacking an Air Canada DC8 Nov. 12 was remanded Tuesday for 30 days observation at a provincial mental hospital.

The expert and the beginner both use a standard no-trump with 4-3-3-2 or 5-3-3-2 distribution and a 16-18 range in high cards. Some experts prefer a 15-17 point range and they all cheat a little so that any one of them will treat 15 points plus three or four 10 spots as a 16-point hand. They do use the no-trump as a precise picture bid and they also use very powerful methods of slam bidding in response to a no-trump opening.

One expert weapon is well within the reach of any player. It is the Gerber convention. The simplest way to use this convention is to provide that after a no-trump opening a jump to four no-trump is a strong raise in no-trump while a jump to four clubs is an artificial bid that asks for aces.

The basic replies to a Gerber four clubs are four diamonds to show no aces or all four aces; four hearts to show one ace; four spades to show two aces and four no-trump to show three.

If a Gerber bidder wants to ask for kings he follows up with five clubs; a four no-trump follow-up asks to stop right there.

Today's hand shows Gerber in operation. North wants to play in seven if his partner has the other three aces; in six if he has two of them and at just game in case South has just one ace. If South has no aces, North will quit at four no-trump.

South shows three aces and North bids seven no-trump. He knows that his partner will hold at least two diamonds so that if the king is held against him it will be a singleton.

Helen Rowland said, "A man snatches the first kiss, pleads for the second, demands the third, takes the fourth, accepts the fifth—and endures all the rest." Actually, this dye is mostly for the costumes of soldiers. To camouflage.

Idaho's penitentiary budget is short of needs

BOISE (UPI) — Unforeseen medical and mechanical expenses — many directly related to last summer's prison riot — have left the Idaho State Penitentiary budget about $150,000 short of anticipated needs.

Raymond May, director of corrections, said the penitentiary will ask the legislature for a supplemental appropriation to get the prison through June 30, the end of the current fiscal year.

"We went into this year with full knowledge it was going to be rough under normal circumstances," May said.

But the "normal circumstances" did not include the Aug. 10 riot at the prison, a murder there Aug. 14, and the need for activating the heating plant at the new prison site.

Riot-related expenses included medical costs for two stabbing victims the night of the riot, overtime for staff members, moving about 18 convicts to the new prison site during an investigation and extra help to guard hospitalized inmates.

Other unforeseen expenses, according to May, included the need to heat completed buildings at the new site which are not yet occupied. He said locking devices in the new buildings react to expansion and contraction when temperatures change and heat must be maintained to allow for the tolerance of the equipment.

The garage section of the new site's heating plant also had to be heated for a manpower development training act course being conducted there.

May said activating the heating plant at the new site was a "sizeable cost" because it needs staffing 24 hours a day.

May said some 80 inmates were placed in maximum security at the new site and heating was required for that building. Those included prisoners who may have been involved in a murder, prisoners awaiting trial and "those who were somewhat more involved than others in the looting and arson that went on" the night of Aug. 10.

Following the riot, May said, all days off and annual leave were cancelled and most staffmembers worked overtime, another added expense.

Court decision has long effect

BOISE (UPI) — A U.S. Supreme Court decision involving an Idaho case could have "far-reaching effects," according to the attorney who successfully argued against favoring men over women to administer an estate when they are otherwise equally qualified.

The Boise attorney for Sally M. Reed, Allen R. Derr, said Monday the high court decision overturning the Idaho supreme court ruling will make a difference to his client, and "the principle established by the case could have far-reaching effects beyond the immediate effect on Mrs. Reed."

The court held that choosing a man over a woman automatically when they are both otherwise equally qualified is a violation of the equal protection of the laws.

The Idaho Legislature has since repealed the law giving preference to men since the case began. It will not, however, go into effect until next July.

Department collects water data

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Department of Water Administration has announced the completion of a quality and quantity investigation of the Boise River winter drainage.

The investigation, accomplished through a cooperative water investigation program between federal, state and local agencies, produced a collection of hydrologic data.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers shut off the flow from the Lucky Peak Reservoir Saturday so the agencies could make necessary inspections of water control structure.

Park grant approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Monday the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation has approved a $30,000 grant to Paris, Idaho, to help finance development of a new five-acre park.

The funds, which will be matched locally, come from the Land and Water Conservation Fund, created by Congress to help states and local communities finance new parks and other outdoor recreational facilities.
