Joint jail facilities suggested

TWIN FALLS — Joint city-county law enforcement facilities located adjacent to the existing county judicial building were recommended Tuesday in a feasibility report given city and county officials.

Final phases of the proposed project would utilize the present Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School property.

R. Edmond Peterson of the CTA Architects, Engineers, Planners, Twin Falls, presented the report.

Recommendations call for a two phase program estimated at a cost of $824,000.

The first step, Peterson said, would be complete remodeling of the existing jail facilities on the fourth floor of the courthouse, expected to cost $86,000. Next, recommended as part of the first phase would be a $319,000 administration building adjacent to the judicial building.

It would house the county and city law enforcement offices with the central third of the building providing joint facilities such as conference rooms, clerical offices, restrooms and other facilities.

Peterson said this would save about one-third of the total cost of this building over a plan for separate quarters for the two agencies.

Final phase, probably 10 years or more in the future, would be a new jail facility to house 74 prisoners. It would be located where the O'Leary school now stands. Peterson said by the time the city and county are ready for the second phase of the program he believes the school district will be ready to vacate the already outmoded school site. Peterson estimated this also cost at $90,000. This, he said, is a highly tentative figure.

Peterson said the plan would also require a small jail or detention facility in Buhl. If adapted to the state's current regional jail plan in which prisoners now housed in the state prison would be retained in local regions, Peterson said, other Magic Valley cities would need "branch" jail facilities for those waiting trial or court action.

City Manager Jean Miller suggested those attending the meeting study the recommendations before commission and council members and city and county law enforcement heads meet again soon.

Indian troops open war front

By United Press International
Pakistani military spokesmen said today Indian troops have opened a new front in the Mangpur-Dinapur area of East Pakistan—the same area where heavy fighting was reported earlier in the week.

Indian spokesmen said the drive was an attempt to knock out Pakistani artillery which has been shelling Indian border areas.

Indian Defense Minister Jagjivan Ram said earlier Indian troops had been ordered to move into Pakistani territory if they thought it was necessary to stop Pakistani artillery.

The spokesman said artillery has killed 31 persons and wounded 53 others in Balurghat, a town of 60,000 on the Indo-Pakistan border. Balurghat is about 13 miles south of Hill—the scene of heavy fighting earlier. Only sporadic fighting was reported in the Hill area Tuesday.

Pakistani spokesmen in Rawalpindi said Indians have made "small gains" but their success has been "at a great loss of arms and men."

The spokesman said India is resorting to the use of tanks, artillery and reinforcements after a drubbing by Pakistani soldiers.

The main battle areas have been in the Dinapur and Hill areas in northwest East Pakistan and in the Sylhet area—a mountainous tea-producing area in the northeast. Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi told parliament Tuesday Pakistani troops should withdraw from East Pakistan to prove the West Pakistan-based government is interested in peace.

East Pakistan unilaterally declared itself independent last March.

East and West Pakistan are separated by 1,000 miles of Indian territory. The fighting involving Pakistani troops, Indian forces and rebel guerrilla fighters has been in East Pakistan, which is bordered on three sides by India and the Bay of Bengal on the fourth.

UPI Correspondent Robert

Kaylor quoted Indian spokesmen in New Delhi as saying rebel troops had driven Pakistani soldiers out of Radhanagar, a small town about four miles from the Indian border in the Sylhet area.

Pakistani officials said Indian troops helped the rebels but the Indians denied it. Pakistani spokesmen also said their troops abandoned the small town of Pachaghar in the Hill area under pressure of Indian attack.

Sporadic fighting was reported in the Hill area, where fighting was heavy earlier in the week.

Indian spokesmen in Calcutta said troops also had driven into Pakistan.

China topics broad

WASHINGTON (UPI)

President Nixon's one week visit to China will feature a series of free-wheeling talks with Communist leaders, with no set list of topics and the minimum aim of establishing some basic communication.

The White House offered that appraisal Tuesday along with some more details of Nixon's trip beginning Feb. 21. He will spend about four days in Peking, where most of the diplomatic discussions will take place, then visit to Shanghai and Hangchow. Mrs. Nixon will accompany him.

Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's security affairs adviser, said there were no expectations the visit would produce dramatic results such as U.S. recognition for the Peking government. He admitted that both the Indochina war and the status of Nationalist China would probably come up. But overall, the talks will be "free-wheeling with each side free to raise any subject it considers crucial."

Reds hit flank of Viet forces

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese command today reported an intense North Vietnamese artillery attack against a key government outpost in the central highlands where Saigon government forces are involved in a new campaign against Communist thrusts from nearby Laos and Cambodia.

American B52s joined to help drive back the attacking forces 200 miles northeast of Saigon near the area where Cambodia, Laos and South Vietnam meet. The North Vietnamese also bombarded the rear of a large South Vietnamese drive into Cambodia's rubber plantation area. Field reports said 16 rockets crashed into the 18th Infantry Division base at Tay Ninh just inside South Vietnam on Tuesday. Two South Vietnamese troops were wounded.

The South Vietnamese dry season drive into Cambodia, involving 40,000 men, still was encountering little resistance in its ninth day. South Vietnamese airborne units came under a mortar attack on the northeastern edge of the Chup Rubber Plantation which has served as headquarters of the North Vietnamese 9th Infantry Division. The paratroops were attacked with small arms and machinegun fire and two of their number were killed and six wounded. Five Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed. Military spokesmen said the South Vietnamese captured 114 rocket grenades and 2,800 rounds of machine gun ammunition.

The heaviest action was inside South Vietnam in the central highlands where the Communists shot down three American helicopters last week-end.

Coal price hike cut by panel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Price Commission announced approval today of the first of a string of applications by coal companies for price hikes to help cover recently authorized wage increases for miners. But it cut back the request sharply.

The commission chairman, C. Jackson Grayson, announced approval of increases of 3.78 per cent for Old Ben Coal Co., a subsidiary of Stadar Oil of Ohio. The company asked for a 6.71 per cent increase because of a pay boost of 15 per cent permitted by the Pay Board for coal miners in the first year of a new contract.

Grayson told reporters the Price Commission based its decision on additional labor costs that could be "passed through" as increased prices upon the 5.5 per cent national guideline established by the Pay Board when it set up-in-business in mid-November.

The Old Ben price increase approval also included an allowance for coal miner pensions which brought the total increase permitted by the commission to a level that was said to absorb slightly less than two-thirds of the coal miner wage settlement.

The action on the coal price boost was the first on requests from about 20 mining firms for increases before the commission.

Grayson said the Old Ben action was reached on an individual company basis. But he said the decision to permit no more pass-through for wages than the 5.5 per cent Pay Board target did represent a policy that would be followed in the future.

He said the commission considered a larger pass-through to be inflationary, but he declined to criticize the Pay Board decision to allow the miners the full wage settlement negotiated with the coal operators. He said "we are an independent group" and there "was no formal consultation between the price and pay panels on the coal question."

Grayson also announced that the commission had returned a request for an increase from U.S. Steel to get more information.

Grayson said he has received about 500 telegrams from large companies he asked to express their price increase plans. He said about 60 per cent of the responses said only minimal price increases would be sought and about 20 per cent said no boosts were planned.

The commission approved the last of the big four automakers' price increase applications late Tuesday when it granted the General Motors Corp. authority to boost prices on 1972 model cars, trucks and optional equipment an average of 2 per cent.

Panel picks Rupert judge

BOISE (UPI)— Idaho's Judicial Council has nominated four men for appointment to a vacancy on the Supreme Court. Those selected for consideration by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus are District Judge Sherman J. Bellwood, Rupert; District Judge Watt Prather, Coeur d'Alene; Jerry V. Smith, Lewiston; and Robert E. Bakes, Boise.

Election reform gets nod

WASHINGTON (UPI)—With strong bipartisan support, the House has approved legislation that supporters hope will become the first major campaign reform law in 40 years. The bill sharply curtails election advertising by presidential and congressional candidates.

Devaluation 'considered'

ROME (UPI)—The United States today considered devaluation of the once mighty and now seriously beleaguered dollar as part of a new western monetary system. Karl Schiller, the West German economic and finance minister, agreed with a questioner that American readiness to discuss concrete figures, including the dollar, represented a breakthrough in monetary negotiations.

Judge eyed for Idaho

Clerk nabs suspect

TWIN FALLS — A husky Rupert man was in custody on a robbery charge here today after coming out second best in a struggle with a slightly built grocery store clerk. Police looked Michael H. Uhl, 24, Rupert, on a robbery charge Tuesday night after he was placed under citizen's arrest by Keith Potter, about 20. Potter is a night clerk at the Seven-Eleven store on Flier Avenue East. Capt. Tim Qualls, chief of detectives for the Twin Falls Police Department, said Potter told officers the suspect came into the store about 9:25 p.m. Tuesday and approached the counter. He ordered Potter to open the cash register. Potter asked him where his gun was. Officer's said Potter then jerked open the suspect's jacket, revealing he was not hiding a weapon. Potter then tackled him as he came around the counter and began removing money from the cash register. Qualls said the two apparently struggled in the store for a time before the customer entered. He said Potter in call the police.

Gem nurse homes must change ways

BY RICHARD G. HIGH
Times-News Managing Editor

BOISE — As a result of a federal get-tough policy, about three-fourths of Idaho's nursing homes must make "substantial" improvements in care within the next few years.

In so doing, the state already has met the Feb. 1 deadline set by the HEW for such a declaration, he said.

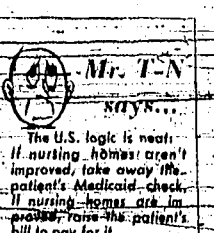

Thomas said the state has not yet surveyed the state's 64 licensed nursing homes to determine which are in violation of the new higher standards.

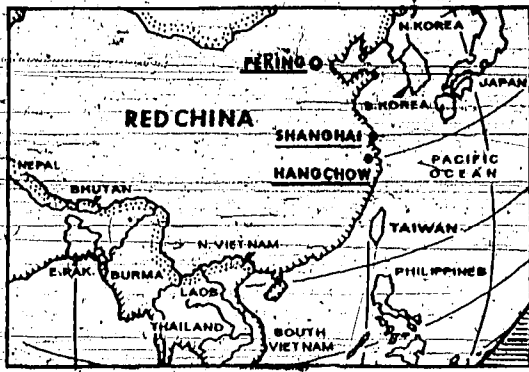

Major changes will include: — Requiring all nursing homes to conform to the provisions of the Life Safety Code of the National Fire Protective Association. The provisions of this code are stricter than current requirements.

— Required improvements in nursing care. Under the new standards, each nursing home would have to hire a full-time director of nursing services in addition to the professional nursing staff.

Nurse pay rise likely

Salaries of Idaho nurses probably may be driven upward as a result of stiffening federal standards for nursing homes. This is the view of Kenneth Thomas, Idaho Department of Public Assistance Bureau of Medical Assistance director.

Officials hinting new POW efforts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the past couple weeks, President Nixon, a member of his Cabinet and a Senate leader have dropped broad hints to newsmen that something is cooking with the Communists on seeking the release of American prisoners of war in Vietnam. They refuse, however, to be pinned down.

On Nov. 1, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said "There has been some movement. Of course, you are aware of the fact that the South Vietnamese have recently made some releases of prisoners. Every avenue is being pursued by the administration, both private and public. I do think it is important that we do not get into a definite discussion on the various avenues that are being pursued."

On Nov. 12, Nixon was asked at a news conference if he had "any reason for encouragement on the release of the prisoners of war from any source."

"No reason for encouragement that I can talk about publicly," he said. "I can say, however, that we are pursuing this subject as I have indicated on several occasions in a number of channels and we have not given up."

On Nov. 16, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott reported that Nixon had discussed the prisoner issue at the regular weekly meeting of congressional leaders.

"He referred to the POWs in the context by saying that if Congress wants to take over the operation of getting POWs back, they would have to assume the responsibility of undertaking to do it, but they are not as informed as he is on the nature of the problem or on the negotiations and their attempt to do it can only delay the release of the prisoners of war."

A reporter then asked: "Ho (Nixon) was suggesting he knew something the rest of us don't?"

"If he doesn't," Scott replied, "he shouldn't be president. I think he knows a lot the rest of us don't know."

CAP marks 30 years' service

TWIN FALLS — The Civil Air Patrol, founded only six days before Pearl Harbor in 1941, will commemorate its 30th anniversary on Wednesday.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has proclaimed the week of Dec. 1-8 as Civil Air Patrol Week in Idaho. The proclamation notes the CAP, "the official civilian auxiliary of the United States Air Force, is devoted to volunteer service to the state, the community and the nation... and the men and women of Idaho's wing of the Civil Air Patrol contribute to the relief of suffering and to the aid of their fellow Americans through the performance of air and ground search and rescue, and by flying humanitarian and mercy missions."

In addition, the governor's proclamation emphasizes that "these same civilian volunteers are promoting an effective national program of aerospace education and training for youth."

During World War II, the CAP, an arm of the war department, flew coastal anti-submarine patrols, towed targets for military aircraft and flew inspection missions over the forests of the nation to watch for fires that might have been set by enemy action.

The CAP was transferred to the U. S. Air Force in 1948, becoming the single civilian auxiliary to the USAF.

Today, the CAP enlists volunteers in both the adult or "senior" ranks and the cadet corps, carrying on an active program of aerospace education and search-and-rescue missions. Cadets meet each Wednesday evening in the Idaho wing headquarters at the Twin Falls City-County Municipal Airport for training sessions, uniform inspections and similar activities. The senior members meet each Monday to plan CAP cadet activities and training.

On Dec. 11, the Twin Falls Cadet Squadron plans a dinner at Robert Stuart Junior High School, with the cadets preparing the meal and handling all details. Other cadet squadrons of the state and several officials are being invited to attend.

The 43rd Air Rescue Squadron (Western Reserve) of the Military Airift Command, Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif., is ultimately responsible for inland search missions in the eight western states, including Idaho. Often used in search for missing aircraft, the CAP is also called on to search out missing vehicles, persons, hunting parties and the like and for other tasks.

The CAP responsibility extends to positive location of a target and to rendering immediate aid as needed to survivors. Further action is the responsibility of the local sheriff or other agencies. The CAP cannot legally make search assignments to civilians, but it does offer support activities, including providing information, communications and area clearances. The CAP has no law enforcement responsibility, but works closely with all law enforcement agencies and with the Idaho Department of Aeronautics.

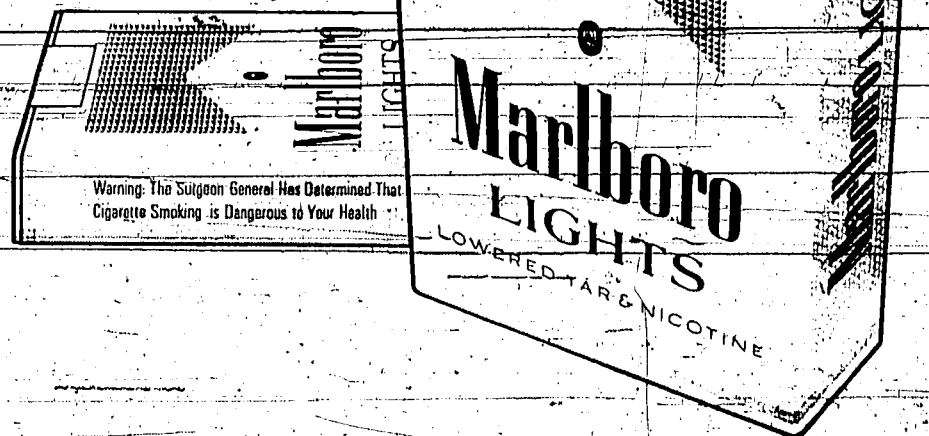

In practice, the Air Force can initiate an aerial search for a missing military aircraft, while the Idaho Department of Aeronautics can launch a search for a civilian plane. Local law enforcement agencies work through the Department of Aeronautics in asking for ground-search efforts, as for missing hunters.

In 1970, the Idaho wing of the CAP flew 248 hours on 118 sorties in support of 13 search-and-rescue missions. This year's effort currently includes 92 hours flown on 43 sorties during 12 missions. Pilots flying CAP missions usually utilize their own aircraft, and must pay their own costs of fuel and maintenance. This has amounted to a total of $2,237.98 so far this year for the aircraft and for communications liaison. The Idaho wing of the CAP is headquartered in Twin Falls, with offices and training facilities at the municipal airport. Col. George Faulkner, Rupert, a CAP member for 17 years and an experienced pilot, is current wing commander.

There are 16 units throughout the state under Col. Faulkner's command, with a total membership of 259 seniors and 101 cadets, including 42 women among the senior members and 34 girls among the cadets. The mission capability includes 36 aircraft, 65 pilots, 40 vehicles, 23 high-frequency radios and numerous mobile radio units.

As the Air Force auxiliary, the CAP members wear modified Air Force uniforms while on duty. Senior membership is open to any U. S. citizen over the age of 18 with an interest in the program, while the cadet corps is open to all young men and women from 13 to 18 years of age.

Consumerism

Consumers today certainly have more advocates, both public and private, waiting to hear their tales of woe than ever before.

That's all very fine because there are abuses in the marketplace, always have been and probably always will.

A Philadelphia television repairman who resents being treated as some sort of a crook by his customers has compiled his own list of complaints.

Or the one who delights in calling in a serviceman to diagnose what is wrong, then decides to fix the problem himself and even objects to a service fee.

Discourtesies and obvious attempts to defraud business firms are not limited to this one field.

Stores are put to added expense and inconvenience by customers who return something they bought for no better reason than they changed their minds or decided they didn't like an article of clothing after wearing it for a day or two.

Consumerism is a snappy cause, but it is a two-way street. The consumer who attempts to cheat the store deserves no better treatment than the storekeeper or serviceman who mislabels his product or artificially inflates his bill.

WASHINGTON — The angry reaction in Israel over Secretary of State William P. Rogers' tenuous refusal to yield to Israel's demands for more U. S. Phantom aircraft came to a boil when Prime Minister Golda Meir reached for her telephone on Nov. 17 and put in a person-to-person call to President Nixon at the White House.

Moreover, Rogers' implication in an interview with U. S. News and World Report last week that Israel holds a clear military advantage over the Arabs, and that the balance of power was not shifting against Israel, had produced an alarming anti-U. S. reaction in Israel.

Meir's unusually candid conversation with Mr. Nixon was raising fury in Israel. Rogers was being accused of "going public" with the American interim peace plan (a first-step Israeli withdrawal) a small distance from the east bank of the Suez Canal and the opening of the canal.

Phantoms for Israel was immediately recognized for a fresh look. Finally, Mrs. Meir's dramatic telephone call spelled the final end of Rogers' first-step peace plan, which Egyptian President Anwar Sadat himself had already written off as a failure.

One day after the Meir-Nixon telephone chat, the State Department unexpectedly revealed that new intelligence information had just become available on Soviet shipments of aircraft to Egypt.

Once it was discovered and publicly announced that the Russians were again sending Egypt TU-16 Badgers (medium bomber) armed with air-to-ground missiles, the bitter controversy over more U.

For Israel, the new chapter now opening seems distinctly promising. It, as now looks possible, it results in a downgrading of Rogers' role as Middle East peace-seeker.

It is a well-known fact that the President's political advisers have long been skeptical about the political impact within the American Jewish community of Rogers' Phantom veto on the 1972 Presidential campaign.

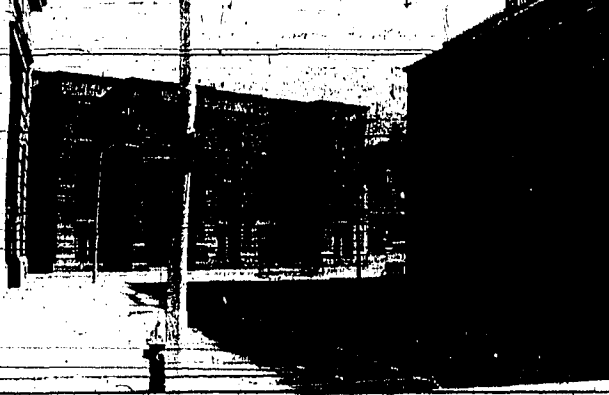

But for Egypt's Sadat, the new chapter is filled with mortal danger. Sadat banked his political prestige at home on achieving at least an interim settlement with the help of the U. S. Having publicly and totally failed to get it, he is viewed here as having little choice but to risk the military option which has his overt and massive Soviet help, has little chance to succeed.

It Really Aint So

If you believe these are a couple of street scenes — one of 45th Street in New York City and the other of the Main Street of an old western town — you are only partially correct.

Put people in the scenes — autos or horses and wagons running around — and you will have something. But as they sit there are only "props" on the great, big lot of Universal Studios down in Universal City near Los Angeles and Hollywood.

The buildings look so real — until you get at the right angle and then you find only the front is there. They are no inlaid! But it was interesting and sometime in the future we'd like to spend a full day on the "lot" and do a real in-depth story on movie making.

Who knows — it might come about.

Meantime, just remember that everything you see isn't really so!

YARD STICK

Dee Ainsworth called to report he had found a yard stick from a firm known as Bemiller and Kinney, which used to be located (according to printing on the stick) at 149-151 Main Avenue North. They sold wallpaper, oil paints and the like. Ainsworth found the rule at 502 Shoshone St. West in a structure which used to be a double garage — the first one in town.

Campaign Sabotage

WASHINGTON — Once again Congress is attempting to pass legislation which would infringe on the rights of people. The Senate passed a bill last week which would permit each taxpayer to donate $1 of his taxes to finance the 1972 presidential campaign.

If any of these bills become law, it means that the might of large corporations and labor unions to buy politicians would be abrogated, and the vested interests in this country would be hard put to finance the campaigns of congressmen, senators and the President.

Terence L. Bloodstone, president of the Washington Order of Loyal Lobbyists, angrily denounced the new plans to finance politicians as a threat to the American political way of life.

"The salvation of this democracy," he told me, at a $3-a-plate political testimonial dinner, "is big business and big labor's financing of political campaigns. For years we have made it possible for every politician in this country to be elected. There isn't one congressman, senator or governor who doesn't owe a debt to us. Now Congress wants to take that away."

"It does seem unfair," I admitted. Bloodstone stabbed his fork into his lobster thermidor.

"We've been buying and selling politicians for years. They trust us, they believe in us, they'll go to bat for us."

"I ignored this remark. Look around at this dinner. Every table of 10 people represents $5,000. Who bought these tables? Corporations, bankers, manufacturers and public-minded millionaires? We don't ask anything for ourselves. We just want the best man elected to the best job. Do you think people who contribute one lousy dollar from their taxes will have any idea who the best man is?"

"I should say not," I replied. "You have to contribute a lot of money to know what is good for the country."

Bloodstone started tearing his duck a lorange apart. "Do you know what is going to happen if these political fund-raising schemes become law? The politicians aren't going to be responsible to anybody.

They're going to figure it's the taxpayers' money so they don't have to answer for their actions.

"It's true," I said. "At least now a politician knows who gave him the money and can react accordingly."

"The Democrats are sore," Bloodstone said, "because they can't get anyone to come to their dinners. But I say if a political party can't sell out a $500-a-plate dinner, it shouldn't be in politics. Just because they don't have an Agnew or a Martha Mitchell is no reason to sabotage all of the campaign fund-raising methods of this country."

Bloodstone was now gulping down his foie gras.

I said, "It seems a pity that after all the seed work the lobbyists have done to get politicians in their pocket, that a group of senators or congressmen would destroy it with some self-serving legislation."

"Don't think the fight is over," Bloodstone said. "The Senate bill has to go to the House and then it has to go to the President. Do you think any Republican President would sign a law that would help the Democrats finance their campaign?"

"I should hope not," I said. The waiter brought our cherries jubilee.

Bloodstone belched. "Besides, we have to think of the economy. What's going to happen to all the hotel banquet rooms if they do away with political fund-raising dinners?"

"What a blow to Conrad Hilton," I said.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Japan's Fears

TOKYO (NEA) — The world's occasionally voiced fears that a new militarism might arise in Japan are well understood by the Japanese. But the weight of evidence against the prospect seems overwhelming.

When I talked with H. E. Naomi Nishimura, director general of the Self-Defense Agency, his convincing sensitivity to these fears was the dominant impression. The realistic Japanese are themselves never without memory of their old World War II image.

There is some feeling here that, even if trained manpower were needed to help an Asian neighbor in a natural disaster, uniformed Japanese could be sent to foreign soil.

Moreover, the pacifist in this country is real, embracing all age segments. Japan's 270,000-man defense force is not admired here at home, and recruiting is difficult.

Popular anger lingered months after a Japanese fighter plane collided with a commercial aircraft, killing more than 100. A formation of fighters was supposed to do a "fly-by" over Tokyo during a recent defense force review. It was called upon to account of "was."

In fact, the skies that day were brilliantly clear. Nishimura offered new assurances that Japan's self-defense posture is to continue, totally nonmilitary.

The country's ground force of 180,000 is frozen at that level. Expansion plans, intended to keep defense expenditures at roughly one per cent of the nation's Gross National Product, involve only the navy and the air force (fairly well stabilized at around 1,000 planes).

Nishimura said in interview that there can be no early change in Japan's established reliance upon the U.S. nuclear umbrella and its Pacific forces stationed in Japan — and Okinawa.

But this dependence, while accepted as necessary by countless practical-minded Japanese, is deeply resented by many. Few in this world like being on the receiving end in a big-protector relationship.

Then, of course, there are the radical students and politically-minded labor unions. The newest street-theater rioting and work stoppages show again how tough it is for Japan to approve the past restoring its control over Okinawa but allowing us to keep bases there.

These resentments, with their obvious political impact, are used by the Japanese to justify saying "no" to American requests that they take on a larger share of defense costs in the Western Pacific.

The anti-Americanism is old stuff, today but of little real concern in this capital. More worrisome is the growth of this feeling among others, especially since the Nixon administration's economic policy and his planned 1972 visit to Peking.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Nearsighted

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 10-year-old daughter is nearsighted and can't see the blackboard well in school. Shall I take her to an optometrist or an ophthalmologist?

A 7-year-old neighborhood boy goes to an ophthalmologist who gave him drops to relax the eye muscles. They are put in each morning and he then wears glasses (bifocals). This is to continue until he reaches his teens. Would you give your opinion of such a drastic process? — Mrs. J. M.

Preferably take her to an ophthalmologist, since he is a doctor of medicine who, on top of that, has specialized in eye care, covering any type of eye problem.

However, I do not mean to discourage optometrists, who are not physicians. Optometrists are trained primarily in fitting glasses to correct visual defects, although they also have considerable training in recognizing medical problems, so they can refer people to ophthalmologists if that is necessary.

If your daughter's sole eye problem is nearsightedness, then an optometrist can do all that is necessary.

As to the boy you mentioned — he obviously has some rather involved eye problem and there is no reason to think that your daughter would be given the same treatment. If her whole problem is nearsightedness, and that's a common condition, she needs glasses, not a complicated treatment program.

THE STORY of the Snake, in full-color photographs and carefully crafted text, is told in an oversized volume presented to the College of Southern Idaho Library by Earl Haroldson, left, on behalf of Idaho Power Co., to CSI President James L. Davis heads cattlemen

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — Gene Davis, of Brumbau, was elected 1972 president of the Idaho State Cattlemen's Association here Tuesday at the conclusion of the association's 58th annual convention.

Malad, was named second vice president. Newly-elected directors included: Carl Stillman, Lewisston; Dick Bass, Murphy; Bill Tindall, Grassmere; Bob Shultz, Burley; Jim Faulkner, Bliss; Rich Orme, Rexburg; and McGee Harris, Silver Springs.

Resolution sponsors said the bill would mean placing an additional 38,000 persons on Idaho welfare rolls.

The cattlemen were told administrative costs of the programs, which would be absorbed by the taxpayers, would run into the tens of billions of dollars in just the first three years of operation.

The cattlemen contended that families of fathers eligible under this program would, in reality, suffer due to the squelching of the initiative on the father's part.

The cattlemen said the bill considers only the feelings, desires and finances of a small minority of Americans.

In another resolution, the cattlemen said they agreed, in principle, with allotment management plans, but needed more congressional funding to carry out the plans to the fullest.

The association asked that the boards of regents for Idaho universities set opening dates no earlier than Labor Day so that adequate harvest time labor forces could be available in the state.

The group also went on record favoring an agricultural labor management act.

The cattlemen also called for additional research work in connection with the juniper invasion in Southern Idaho grazing lands. They asked that Idaho experiment stations begin work to clear for use chemicals that would kill the pest.

Finally, the group asked for a law that would more clearly define the area of responsibility in cases involving collisions of motor vehicles with livestock on Idaho highways where presently no clear cut statute exists.

Under present law, the owner is presumed negligent in most cases, and cattle growers feel this is unfair.

Land use aired by officials

TWIN FALLS — Falls Creek for recreation development. Idaho Power Co. officials — Earl Haroldson and James Johnson, met with the county to discuss cost of installing power lines to the area. They said it would cost an estimated $30,000 with the county required to put up $11,000 in cash to start the project.

William L. (Bill) Chancey, county commission chairman, said the county is anxious to work with the federal agency in developing public land for recreation, wildlife habitat, livestock forage and other uses. Robert Brock and Max Bruce, BLM, Burley, met with the county to present maps showing the present use of public lands under BLM administration and long range plans for future uses which could be developed through joint cooperation.

One of the possibilities discussed Tuesday was the county's plan to purchase about 20 acres of BLM land on Salmon

Other projects discussed included efforts to revise the deer herd management program south of Nat-Soo-Pal and to provide additional game bird refuge in the Berger area. Commissioner Merl E. Leonard said the county includes over 1.7 million acres of which 66,400 acres is under U.S. Forest Service administration, 535,000 acres, BLM administration, 5,000 acres in towns and cities and the remainder in farm or private agricultural and miscellaneous uses.

Injuries received

TWIN FALLS — Two drivers were treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital for minor injuries following an accident at 5:50 p.m. one half mile east of Twin Falls on Addison Avenue.

Enst. Lena Martens, 77, and Clyde B. Landroth, 36, both Eden, were taken to the hospital by Magic Valley Ambulance. They were treated and released.

Sheriff's officers said Mrs. Martens was traveling east on the highway and had slowed down to make a turn into the Bingham Dairy driveway.

Landroth was traveling behind the Martens car and was speeding up as he was leaving the city area. He told officers he did not realize the woman was slowing down until he was too close to avoid a collision. He said other traffic was approaching in the west bound lane.

The Landroth vehicle struck the rear of the Martens auto, officers reported, and knocked it into the borrow pit and onto a concrete irrigation structure in the ditch. Both vehicles received about $1,000 damages, officers estimated.

Cut-rate SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Utah Symphony Orchestra will offer a cut-rate "Silver Dollar Pops Concert" Friday night at the Salt Lake Mormon Tabernacle, featuring George Gerwin's "An American in Paris."

"We hope Friday's concert will give those people who would like to but feel they cannot attend it an opportunity to attend," said Maurice Abravanel.

Damage suit filed

TWIN FALLS — A damage suit requesting more than $800,000 has been filed in Fifth District Court, Twin Falls, by an Eden couple.

Evan Edward Kohtz, 28, who was injured in an Oct. 27 accident east of Twin Falls, and his wife, Alice Kohtz, are seeking damages from Larry Wayne Kuhn, 35, Twin Falls, and Wycoff Co., Inc.

The plaintiffs charge Kuhn was acting and driving his vehicle in the scope of his employment by Wycoff when he was involved in the accident. Kohtz, the information alleges, was standing near his car, which had stalled, when Kuhn's vehicle, traveling west, crossed the center line and struck Kohtz and then hit the stalled car.

Kohtz' leg was subsequently amputated.

Mr. and Mrs. Kohtz seek $50,000 damages because she has been denied her husband's companionship, and $750,000 general damages for pain, suffering and loss of Kohtz' leg. The couple also seeks payment of hospital bills, lost wages and income, future lost wages and income, medical expenses and future medical expenses, in amounts to be submitted prior to trial, and $250 for damages to their automobile.

The plaintiffs request trial by jury.

Death toll

POSTFALLS (UPI) — Idaho's traffic death toll stood at 290 Tuesday with the deaths of four eastern Washington residents on the city limits of this small northern Idaho town early Tuesday. Last year at this time 304 persons had died on the state's highways.

The latest victims were identified as Dennis Markham, 36, Spokane, and John A. Morris, 22, Ricky E. Harris, 22, and Gordon Peraky, 27, all of Fairchild Air Force Base west of Spokane.

Idaho state police said the four were killed instantly about 1:45 a.m. Tuesday when Markham's car crossed the center line of U.S. Highway 10 at the west city limits and collided head-on with the vehicle driven by Morris.

Gem textbook group meets

BOISE (UPI) — An Indian School teacher Tuesday told members of the state Textbook and Improvement of Instruction Committee that it's not necessarily what the history books say about Indians — rather it's a matter of what they don't say.

The committee is meeting this week at the State Department of Education offices to make later recommendations for adoption of school textbooks to the State Board of Education.

Mrs. Frances Palsano, a Lewpa special education teacher and member of the Human Relations Council of the Idaho Education Association, told the committee that textbooks are not at fault in subject matter used. But, she added, they "are at fault in not including material which is important to Indian people."

She pointed out several areas of importance to Indians so far as history is concerned.

"The textbooks should describe the special position of the American Indians in Idaho and the U. S. — socially, economi-

Ray of light

THE RAYS of the sun cast a beam of light through the branches of the silhouetted national Christmas Tree after it was hoisted into place on the Ellipse across from the White House Tuesday. The tree, a Fraser fir from the North Carolina mountains, will be trimmed in preparation for presidential lighting festivities later in month. (UPI)

Nun begins job as deputy attorney general in N.J.

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Sister Mary Ann Burgess sees no conflict between being a nun and being a deputy attorney general for New Jersey. She was sworn in Tuesday morning with several hundred other attorneys here, the first member of the Sisters of Charity to be an attorney.

Tuesday afternoon she was sworn in as a deputy attorney by Attorney General George E. Kugler, Jr.

"About five years ago," she recalled, "I was asked by my community to investigate the possibility of legal services, and I was awarded a scholarship at Seton Hall University."

"I graduated this past May, applied to the attorney general's office, and was accepted," she said.

"As members of the attorney general's staff, we give advice to various state agencies," she said. "I am very interested in civil rights, children's service, or housing and I would be very happy to stay in community affairs which handles so much of this."

She will serve in the civil law division of the attorney general's office, and will not be asked to prosecute criminal cases.

Sister Burgess has taken a vow of poverty. Her pay checks will be sent to her order's headquarters. She will be sent a "living stipend."

The sister does not wear a habit. It has been made optional with the Sisters of Charity, she said. In the attorney general's office, "it might inhibit our work."

Coloring food, drink old practice closely regulated

(WASHINGTON UPI) — For thousands of years the people who sell food and drink have been doctoring their wares with artificial colors.

They still are, according to a report today from the National Research Council's food and nutrition board.

And for more than 500 years governments have been laying down the law against coloring of certain foods or against use of certain substances as food colors.

They still are, as witness various rules and regulations of our own food and drug administration.

It may be, as the old French saying has it, that the more things change the more they stay the same.

"For more than 2,000 years," according to the research council's report, "the main purpose of coloring foods was the disguise of poor quality and, in many cases, obscure adulteration."

Anyway, food coloring is an old practice, started probably in prehistoric times. The Roman writer Pliny noted that wine was colored as far back as 200 or 300 B.C.

In the early 1800's, according to the research council report, London Housewives were conditioned to buy only milk that had been tinted yellow to disguise the fact that it had been skimmed or watered. Finally, in 1925, this coloring was outlawed.

Some of the best of the old coloring substances were deadly.

"One unfortunate 19th Century pickle fancier," the report noted, "died after regularly eating pickles colored green with copper sulfate."

In the early 1800's, a Manchester, England, tea shop did a fine business laced tea leaves. It restored their original color with such chemicals as copper, arsenate, lead chromate, and indigo.

Nowadays only certified dyes can be used to enhance food colors. Certified colors presumably are harmless. Only about 10 per cent of food consumed in the United States is treated with such pigments.

These foods range from candies through ice creams and sherbets to snack foods, salad dressings, gravy, jellies, and jams.

Packaging

BOISE (UPI) — If you don't believe that packaging is everything then you haven't had your garbage stolen lately.

Don Ferney, Boise, a radio and television repair shop employee, made a purchase at a discount store en route to work Tuesday and found he was left with a giant-sized but unwrinkled sack and no way to dispose of it.

Ferney decided to use it as a garbage sack and he stapled it shut "so it looked important" and left it behind the store.

He planned to take it home for disposal after work.

But somebody stole it.

Building services need more funds

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's Division of Building Services, facing a deficit of approximately $30,000 in the current fiscal year, will have to ask the 1972 Legislature for a supplemental appropriation.

Robert Lennaghan, acting director of administrative services of which building services is a division — said the division received $46,000 less from the legislature for fiscal 1972 than was requested in the executive budget.

"We made a conscious decision to go ahead and operate with a deficit," Lennaghan said, adding the division would seek the supplemental money.

D. Ed "Skip" Chibberg, acting budget director, said despite the lack of funds the division attempted to save money by laying off some employees, not hiring more to take care of extra responsibilities picked up

Man, 85, starts life outside of prison

FOLOM, Calif. (UPI) — For 45 years, home for "Old Pitt" has been a 7-by-9 cell in California's Folsom State Prison.

But that will soon change for Charles J. Fitzgerald as he embarks on a new life on the outside — one he can make it at age 85.

Fitzgerald, who has served two prison terms for murder, received a parole from the California Adult Authority Monday after 38 years of trying. But it is conditional.

His freedom hinges on approval by the state department of corrections of a program for the veteran convict's re-entry into civilian life.

"All I want to do is get out of here and live my own life in peace," Fitzgerald recently told an interviewer.

"Other people make it — why can't I. I don't gamble and I'm not going to be a boozier."

"Fit" as his prison friends call him, has spent most of his life behind bars, beginning in 1908 when he began a three-year sentence in San Quentin for burglary.

Shortly after his release in 1911 he was arrested again and sentenced to 100 years in the Montana State Prison for killing a deputy sheriff. That prison stint ended with a parole 11 years later.

Following his Montana parole, he returned to his home town of Los Angeles. On May 28, 1926, he entered Folsom Prison on a life term for the slaying of a law officer in San Gabriel, Calif.

Fitzgerald, who has served the longest stretch in Folsom's history, said the only relative he knew of was a niece he could not locate. He said he had few visitors at Folsom and infrequent letters.

Plan called versatile

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The administrator of the Space Agency says the proposed space shuttle orbital transport could be the most versatile vehicle man has conceived since he invented the wheel.

"I foresee great things for the shuttle," said Dr. James C. Fletcher. "Now all we have to do is get it off the ground—or out of the planning stage and into serious development so that the first orbital missions can be flown by 1978."

The shuttle has run into serious financing restrictions which have forced the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) to lower its sights and devise a less sophisticated rocket plane that will not cost as much to develop.

The shuttle is expected to be more or less reusable and replace all but the smallest rockets in the nation's civilian and military space launching inventory. It will carry men and satellites in and out of orbit and, Fletcher said, it also will serve as an orbiting laboratory, a space rescue ship, an earth and star observatory, an industrial workshop and a satellite repair station.

The shuttle will have two sections—an orbiter that will return to airport landings and a booster that will propel the orbiter through most of earth's atmosphere.

Fletcher said the agency's thinking is reasonably firm on the orbiter section. It will have an external propellant tank that will be dropped after orbit is achieved.

The orbiter probably will use an improved version of a saturn hydrogen rocket engine instead of more powerful new engines and it will use a heat protection system that must be replaced after each flight.

Four booster concepts are under study. One would use saturn 5 first stage rocket engines and be mated and fly back to a horizontal landing after taking off vertically.

Two other booster concepts would be unmanned rockets that would parachute into the ocean for recovery after launch. The fourth idea would use two solid propellant rockets that would be discarded into the sea.

Fletcher said he hopes the current studies will be completed earlier than expected and that NASA will receive the go-ahead from the president to move toward full development in February or March.

Misunderstanding causes 7 deaths

TEHRAN (UPI) — Iranian armed forces took over three disputed Persian Gulf islands in a prearranged maneuver Tuesday, but seven persons died because of a misunderstanding, Iranian officials said.

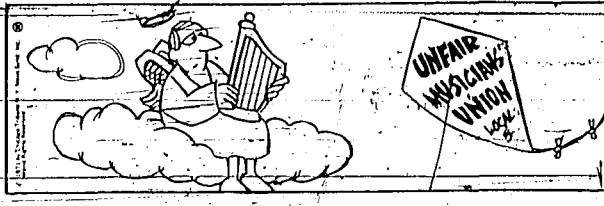

Troops landed on the islands of Abu Musa and the Greater and Lesser Tumb Islands and hoisted the Iranian flag. Police on Greater Tumb Island opened fire. Iranian authorities said the police had received no instructions to permit the Iranian forces to land although the takeover had been arranged previously with the government.

Four police and three Iranian officers were killed, the authorities said. Six other persons were injured.

Iranian Premier Amr Hoveida announced the takeover in Parliament and said the action marked the end of colonialism in the area of the Persian Gulf. He said Iran in the future would cooperate more closely with states in the region.

Britain for several years had special treaty relationships with the islands but they were due to end Wednesday. (The British government requested more details on the takeover, especially concerning the loss of life, but no other action was considered, government sources said.)

(Britain plans to withdraw its troops from the Persian Gulf area at the end of the year. Arab sources in Beirut said the Iranian move simplified the British pullout.)

Christmas gift

OLATHE, Kan. (UPI) — Eight GIs from Olathe serving in Vietnam will be flown home for Christmas with money raised by the town.

The "Home for Christmas Committee" announced Tuesday it has raised the $8,000 necessary to pay for round-trip air fares of the local servicemen. They are scheduled to arrive in this Kansas City suburb Dec. 22.

The Olathe Red Cross notified the eight servicemen by telegram Tuesday night. The town brought seven local servicemen home from Indochina for Easter, and flew eight home last Christmas.

3-month-old Henderson trial nears completion

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI) — The defense rested its case Tuesday in the three-month old trial of Col. Oran K. Henderson on charges he tried to cover up the 1968 massacre of South Vietnamese civilians at My Lai.

Henderson's civilian attorney, Henry B. Rothblatt, concluded the defense by reading and presenting to the jury sworn statements from 10 general officers and eight other military associates of the Colonel attesting to Henderson's good character and reputation for honesty as a military man.

The defense presented 41 witnesses, including the 51-year old former brigade commander who completed his testimony Tuesday following 24 days of cross-examination.

There was no immediate indication of when the prosecution would rest its case, but it appeared this would not come before Wednesday.

Once both sides have rested, there will be arguments on Judge Peter S. Wondolowski's instructions to the jury of two generals and five colonels.

The judge said he anticipated the case would go to the jury no later than Dec. 10 and possibly earlier than that, after both sides have made their closing arguments to the jury.

The prospect of further delay was laid out in the day, however, when the jury, after conferring in private, asked that three new witnesses be called. Fred Blinkey of Chicago, clerk and driver for the commander of the My Lai task force; former Army Chaplain Carl Creswell, who served in Vietnam at the time of My Lai; and Lt. Col. Henry L. Lowder, a staff member in the American division at the time.

US, Cuba clash on Puerto Rico

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United States and Cuba clashed bitterly in the United Nations General Assembly committee Tuesday over the status of Puerto Rico, Cuba charged that it is a U.S. colony.

Ambassador Eduardo Delgado Bermudez of the Cuban Foreign Office brought up the Puerto Rican question in the assembly's 131-nation trusteeship committee.

He immediately was challenged by Ernest Grigg III of the United States who said the question of Puerto Rico was not before the committee and attempted to put an item concerning the Caribbean island at the assembly agenda had failed.

"Puerto Rico is a Latin American nation with its own history, culture, customs and traditions—all of which are alien to the United States," Delgado Bermudez said.

The secession of Puerto Rico to the United States by Spain in 1898 was a "typical act of colonial plunder and the people had no say in the matter," the Cuban said.

"Since that time, the United States has tried to break the will of the Puerto Rican people to struggle for independence. The U.S. control, and the U.S. Congress adopts laws which are forcibly enforced there," Delgado Bermudez said.

Grigg interrupted Delgado Bermudez five times on points of order, contending that since Puerto Rico was not up for discussion by the committee, the chairman should rule the Cuban out of order.

The chairman, Keith Johnson of Jamaica, said he disliked to make such a ruling—but reminded Delgado Bermudez that Puerto Rico, indeed, was not on the agenda.

First Kent defendant interfered, jury says

RAVENNA, Ohio (UPI) — Jerry Rupe, 23, first of 25 persons to be tried in the Kent State University disorders climaxed by the death of four students, was convicted Tuesday of interfering with a fireman at the scene of a campus fire.

Rupe, who never attended Kent State, was found guilty by a jury of eight men and four women of the single charge. The panel said it could not reach agreement on the other charges against Rupe—first degree riot, assault on a fireman, and setting fire to the campus ROTC building.

The jury deliberated 8 hours and 15 minutes before finding Rupe guilty on the one count. Prosecutor James Primus said a decision would be made later on whether Rupe should be retried on the other three charges.

Rupe could receive a fine of $50 to $500 or 30 days to six months in jail, or a combination of both, on the charge of interfering with a fireman.

Defense Attorney James Hogie Jr. said he looked on the Portage County jury's decision "as a tremendous victory." The jury began deliberating the case at 11 a.m. Monday after hearing a 46-minute charge by Judge Edwin Jones.

Rupe, a self-styled sandal maker, testified in his own behalf and admitted joining a crowd on May 2, 1970, in dragging a firehose from the burning ROTC building. He denied the other three charges.

Two days later the four Kent State students were shot to death by Ohio National Guardsmen during a campus anti-war demonstration.

Charges against a second defendant, Peter C. Blik, 23, of Rochester, N.Y., were dropped after four prosecution witnesses testified they could not positively identify him as one of those who had started the fire in the ROTC building, which eventually burned down.

Blik was tried in the adjoining courtroom of Judge Albert L. Carls on charges of first degree riot and arson. Judge Carls ordered Blik, a former Kent student, set free after the prosecution asked that the charges against him be dropped.

Bank opens with alarm

GARY, Ind. (UPI) — Dignitaries snipped the ribbon opening the 13th branch of the Gary National Bank Tuesday, then repaired to a nearby coffee shop for unofficial consultations.

From the distance, the sound of sirens was heard—growing louder.

Police ranged up to the new bank branch. They said alarms in police headquarters sounded a robbery.

Started employees said no holdup was in progress in fact—they were surprised to learn the alarms sounded only in the police station.

Police with guns drawn searched the bank. They finally concluded the alarm system was triggered accidentally.

They left, allowing the bank employees to wait for the first customers and the dignitaries to finish their coffee.

Extremists escape

ISTANBUL (UPI) — Five Turkish extremists, including three charged with the kidnap murder of Israeli Consul General Ephraim Elrom in May, escaped from one of Turkey's tightest security prisons late Monday, martial law officials said.

The officials said the five were believed to have escaped through sewer passages at Maltepe Prison, about five miles east of Istanbul.

The prison, one of the best guarded in Turkey, stands beneath two rocky hills nearly two miles inside the Garrison headquarters of the second armored brigade of the Turkish army.

New rules given on coverage

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam instituted stiff new ground rules for news coverage of military operations Tuesday and threatened to expel correspondents from the country if they violated the rules.

The new regulations are similar to but stiffer than those imposed by the U.S. military at the start of the Vietnam buildup more than six years ago in that they bar the reporting of movements smaller than division size or the exact locations of Vietnamese troops.

Such information can be reported only after it is released by high level commanders, their spokesmen or by the Vietnamese High Command, under the new rules.

High Command spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien explained the ruling meant that information obtained from regimental commanders could be considered released, but from lesser commanders it would have to be checked with official spokesmen.

Other elements of the rules prohibit giving details of future operations, logistical movements, activities of intelligence units and air strikes before they occur.

Ground rules were instituted here to avoid the need for military censorship of news dispatches. Vietnam is the only major war of recent times in which there has been no prior censorship of dispatches.

Gang grabs huge haul

NEW YORK (UPI)—A gang of ski-masked holdupmen, armed with a shotgun and a semiautomatic rifle that may have been stolen less than 24 hours earlier from a state armory, wounded nine persons Tuesday in a $16,000 robbery at the Harlem Savings Bank. The first police at the scene reported the robbers had fired "indiscriminately" with four machine guns but authorities said later only the rifle and shotgun were used. They said at least three and as many as six men were involved in the bank robbery.

The robbers fled in a green Pontiac which they abandoned several blocks west of the bank. Police said they apparently ran through Riverside park to a waiting blue Cadillac.

Police emergency squad units, two helicopters and a motor launch converged on the area overlooking the Hudson River.

The robbers, wearing black ski masks, entered the bank at about 9:45 a.m., police said, fired two bursts from the rifle before ordering everyone to lie on the floor while they emptied the tellers' cages.

"They walked right in the bank and started to shoot at everybody," no questions asked, no words spoken," Police Sgt. Ed Sullivan said. "They jumped behind the tellers' cages and took $16,000."

A bank guard, another man and two women were wounded by gunfire and three men were struck on the head by gun bullets during the holdup.

Police Sgt. James Upton was shot by the fleeing robbers as he stepped from his squad car outside the bank. Upton's partner, patrolman Thomas O'Neill, said the gunmen killed the police car before speeding away in their car.

O'Neill, who was not hit, said he and Upton emptied their revolvers at the car as it drove off.

Upton, at first reported critically injured, was taken to Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center where he later was listed in good condition.

Treated at the same hospital were Elva Siablos, 70, shot in the shoulder; Caesar Abri, 23, shot in the leg; bank guard Walter Cusick, also shot in the leg; Cella Jones, 66, believed to have been hit in the back by shotgun pellets; Roman Gonzales, 22, David Cianaro and Thelma Novarta, 19, all struck on the head with gun-bullets, and Louise Toomey, 62, whose injuries were not immediately determined.

Police and FBI agents said they were investigating the possibility that the rifle may have been among the weapons stolen Monday from the New York State armory in nearby Yonkers by four gunmen in military uniforms.

Federal pay hike OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defying the White House, the Senate has voted to give the nation's military its third pay increase in 1971 and to raise the pay of all government civilian employees.

President Nixon had sought to postpone the 5.5 per cent across-the-board pay increase for six months, making it effective July 1 instead of Jan. 1.

But by a 77 to 19 vote with only Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., objecting, the Senate after an hour's debate went against Nixon Monday. If the House goes along, the increase would add $1 billion to the government's projected $28 billion deficit for the current fiscal year—the fourth largest deficit in American history. The other three financed World War II.

Virtually all 1.6 million civilian government workers, except those who work for the U.S. Postal Service and negotiate their own contracts, would share in the raise. For the military, the 5.5 per cent increase would come on top of a raise last Jan. 1 and another last month which averaged 15 per cent and cost $2.8 billion a year, the largest military pay boost in history. It about doubled the pay of raw recruits as a step in the direction of an all-volunteer army.

TV dinner nutrition requirement announced

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) announced voluntary nutritional guidelines for frozen dinners Tuesday and said they were prepared by the similar standards were being prepared for meat, imitations made from soybeans.

The frozen dinner guidelines, outlined in a speech by Deputy FDA Commissioner James D. Grant, marked the first step in an FDA drive to upgrade the nutritional quality of processed foods and to list calorie and nutrient content on food labels. The frozen dinner guidelines would be formally issued soon. They were prepared by the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council under a $70,000 FDA contract.

Under the same contract, FDA spokesmen said, similar standards are being prepared for other food products including meat imitations, breakfast cereals, snack foods and prepared entrees such as canned stew and frozen macaroni with cheese.

Grant said the FDA also hopes to make initial decisions early next year on a parallel program providing ground rules for nutritional labeling of all packaged foods. The labels would disclose the number of calories and the amount of protein, vitamins and other nutrients.

New corps head named

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon Tuesday selected Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman Jr., now deputy director of the CIA, to be commandant of the Marine Corps.

Cushman will succeed Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr., who is retiring Dec. 31.

Cushman, 56, will serve a four-year term as the head of the corps. He now lives in McLean, Va.

Prior to his appointment as CIA deputy in 1969, Cushman was commanding general of the 3rd Marine Amphibious Force in Vietnam. He had been a Marine since his graduation from Annapolis in 1935.

Improve Russ-U.S. trade, aide asks

MOSCOW (UPI)—U.S. Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans said Tuesday the "time is right" for improving Soviet-American trade but both superpowers must achieve a better understanding of each other's business styles.

Stans told newsmen at the end of his 11-day exploratory mission in the Soviet Union that "both sides feel the time is right for precise and definite consideration of opportunities."

His mission "fully accomplished" its objective of exploring trade possibilities without negotiating anything, Stans said, adding that talks will resume in Washington next month.

"We explored thoroughly the potential for import-export increases, joint ventures and tourism," Stans said.

Stans, the first Nixon cabinet official to visit the Soviet Union, said his conversations with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Trade Minister Nikolai S. Patolichev and others were "very cordial, frank and businesslike."

They were also fattening. "We gained five pounds as a result of Soviet hospitality," Stans said. Soviet conference tables, unlike most in America, are regularly laden with food and drink.

"American businessmen will have to adjust their style to the ways of the Soviet Union, to learn how business is done here," Stans said. The Soviet Union in turn must do considerable market research to determine how to compete in the American commercial arena, he said.

Watts explained that "Many of our teachers are experts in fields entirely foreign to the academic classroom. The interest areas of the classes offered are varied enough to give everyone a good selection. I am certain all our students will find this to be a highly enlightening and entertaining day."

The mini-courses will include model railroad, chess, hand-loading rifle and pistol shells, embroidery, antiquing of furniture, use of the trampoline, knitting, folk dancing, fishing, rod repair and wrapping, makeup for girls, shorthand, plastic bag wreaths, modeling, hair-styling for men, weaving, candy-making, leisure-time reading, photography, making Christmas gifts, horsemanship (using a wooden stand—no horses available), golf, beginning archery. "What's that gooshy stuff between your ears?" (a study of emotions and beginning psychology) and care and use of riding equipment.

"Students may select which four classes they wish to attend, changing classes during the brief recess periods."

Mini-courses set for Stuart pupils

TWIN FALLS — "What's that gooshy stuff between your ears?"

With that unusual question, one may expect an unusual answer. The means of providing the answer involves the most unusual series of "classes" ever planned for a Twin Falls school — one-day "mini-courses" in everything from horsemanship and use of riding equipment to model railroad and chess.

Jack Watts, principal of Robert Stuart Junior High School, said his faculty members will demonstrate their wide range of non-academic skills in presenting the mini-classes on Dec. 17.

All regular classes will be dismissed on Dec. 17 for Robert Stuart's three grades, to allow instruction in the short courses. Each student will attend four separate courses in 70-minute classes, interspersed with 15-minute recess periods and the noon lunch hour.

Watts said the courses will allow the teachers to "open doors of interest to some worthwhile leisure-time activities. Students will be provided with information and skills will be presented."

Wage cuts to create jobs OK'd

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—The Frigidair Division of General Motors and an electrical workers union Tuesday signed an agreement under which 5,000 workers have agreed to salary cuts in order that 1,060 fellow workers can be rehired.

The "historical agreement" between the company and the International Union of Electrical Workers, will cost the 5,000 employees still working $18 a week, the amount they would have received in pay raises and a cost-of-living increase under a previous wage agreement.

Company officials said the 1,060 workers were laid off during the past year because of depressed sales and rising labor costs. Frigidair said 200 workers would be recalled next week and the other 860 would return by February.

"This agreement is an important first step in the accomplishment of parity in labor wage and benefit levels between Frigidair and its competitors," said Harold W. Campbell, vice president of GM.

Mysterious reaction called death cause

DETROIT (UPI)—An operation is completed and the patient is taken to a recovery room where he appears to be in good condition. Suddenly his temperature rises to the deadly level of 110 degrees, muscles stiffen almost like rigor mortis, the body trembles and the patient dies.

Death may be attributed to "allergic reaction," "postoperative shock" or "complications of surgery. Four investigators in the University of Michigan Departments of Hematology and Anesthesiology believe that in many of these cases, death is caused by malignant hyperpyrexia, a mysterious fatal reaction to anesthesia.

To those susceptible, general anesthetics used in most operating rooms—ether, halothane and nitrous oxide—can be a deadly poison. Except in the case of very young patients, physicians are nearly always helpless to halt the fatal sequence once it starts.

Only about 170 deaths from the condition have been reported officially in the past 30 years. But members of the UM research team have located several families in the Ann Arbor area who exhibit the probable cause—abnormally high levels in blood and muscle of a common enzyme known as creatine phosphokinase (CPK). Persons subject to hyperpyrexia may have a CPK blood level 10 times normal, the researchers found.

Two families tested have more than 30 relatives who possibly could have died had they undergone surgery with a general, rather than local, anesthetic. Twelve members already had died after surgery, apparently from hyperpyrexia.

While there is no way to lower the body's CPK level, death can be prevented by using local anesthetic injections or spinal blocks for surgery rather than a general anesthetic, Duboff says.

Through their research, the team has linked the susceptibility to hyperpyrexia to genetic muscle disorders. A warning was issued to anesthesiologists and surgeons, through professional publications, that a CPK blood test should be a mandatory procedure for patients who have suspected family history of muscle or nerve disorders, even if the patient himself seems to have normal muscle function.

The sudden and unexplained death of a patient in a surgical recovery room, the researchers say, need not occur if the simple blood test is conducted before a general anesthetic is used.

Experts survive ordeal

A RUGGED SURVIVAL test took eight men into the Rocky Mountain high country west of Fort Collins, Colo., in November. Dropped by helicopter 52 miles into the wilderness for a three-night, four-day trek through the wilds, the group's troubles began as soon as they landed. The helicopter returned to drop a load of survival gear, only to have all compasses smashed when the cargo dropped on a frozen lake. In photos taken by members of the group, Lt. Col. Jack Wilhite, right, waits patiently but fruitlessly beside a hole in the ice he cut in an attempt to catch a fish. At lower right, the group makes a wintry camp in a snowstorm. A hunter named Hunter, J. Hunter Holloway, takes aim at a squirrel, but misses, while Joe Vogler, a conservation specialist with the Wyoming Game and Fish Department, far right, has better luck, cleaning one of only two squirrels shot by the group. The meat was split eight ways. At lower right, Bob Whitmore, the expedition organizer, holds a flare to guide a Colorado Game and Fish Department helicopter in dropping a second load of survival gear — containing compasses, (UPI)

Inmate work urged

JEROME — Raymond W. May, state corrections director, told the Jerome Rotary Club Tuesday that he would like to see a trend toward placing more inmates on work farms and in similar situations.

May said the cost for keeping prisoners in institutions full time is high. He quoted a figure of about $5,000 per year. He said that with a change to having the prisoners work during the day and spend their nights at the penitentiary, costs would drop considerably.

May also said parole and rehabilitation are important factors in the penal system. He said that each area should be looked into and upgraded to provide the most benefits for prison inmates.

State meet asks hike in frozen food prices

By DAVID ESPO Times-News Writer

BURLEY — The Potato Growers of Idaho want a price increase in frozen potato products.

Delegates to the two-day convention here adopted several resolutions Tuesday including one to encourage local and national advertising of their products.

In separate resolutions, members gave support to legislation to increase the advertising and promotion assessment, endorsed further advertising, urged support for a planned national potato promotion, and urged the Idaho Potato Commission to cooperate with Oregon and Washington growers to develop foreign markets for potatoes.

The resolution supporting a price increase for frozen potato products reads in part: "The potato growers vigorously support an increase in the price of frozen food products and recommends that the Federal Economic Stabilization Board allow the frozen potato processing industry to advance the selling price of its frozen potato products."

Convention delegates also gave support to pending congressional legislation which would ban futures trading in Irish potatoes on the national mercantile commodity exchanges.

The action came in the wake of a presentation earlier Tuesday by Chipman Bull, Maine potato executive, who told the group potatoes are used "like chips in a poker game" on the exchanges.

He said Maine organizations have been instrumental in presenting to legislators two bills, one in the Senate and another in the House, which would outlaw the procedures.

Other resolutions adopted include support for permanent extension of House Bill 241 and a call for continuing research to develop "an acceptable and workable potato branding program."

TF resource group meets

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Resource Planning Committee for Public Education conducted its second meeting Tuesday splitting into four subcommittees to study different phases of education in the county.

According to Dr. Ernest Ragland, committee chairman, 21 educators, school board members and interested citizens from throughout the county have participated in the first two meetings.

They include George Sandaber, Twin Falls school superintendent; Ruth Day, Twin Falls school board; Dick Fuchler, Twin Falls county agent's office; Ted Smith, Rogerson Hotel; Ed Woods, county zoning commission; Carl Snow, O'Leary Jr., High School; Orval Bradley, College of Southern Idaho vocational school; Dean Moore, Hansen school district; Robert Ray Jones, Twin Falls Ministerial Association and Brian Humphries, Buhl school teacher.

Others on the new committee are Brian Clark, state department of employment; N. B. McIntosh, Community Action Agency; Kenneth Poe, Pomona grange; Cecil Stanger, Hansen school board; Cliff Bugg, Kimberly school superintendent; Holly Houfburg, Kimberly school board; Ted Crockett, Hansen school board; Bob Pottygrove, Hansen school board; Don Cramer, Castelford school district; Floyd Bowers, Castelford school superintendent; and Tom Turner, Filer school superintendent.

Dr. Ragland said others are expected to be included in the committee in the future and planning is set for inclusion of CSI.

Ragland said the four subcommittees were formed to better examine the educational processes and programs in the county. The first group is the School Trustees and Superintendent Responsibilities Committee headed by Crockett. A Plants and Physical Facilities Committee is headed

Nursing facilities squeezed

According to Thomas, the state receives about $12 million each year under the Medicaid program with about $3 million going for nursing home care.

He said that all of the $12 million can be lost if the state does not proceed to enforce the upgraded federal standards.

He said the Medicaid program pays about 70 per cent of the total nursing care bill for the typical patient.

Because of the state's early compliance, Thomas said, the state is in no danger of losing federal funds as far as he knows.

He said that he anticipates further federal compliance deadlines, but that these have not been announced.

Miss Herd talks at conclave

BURLEY — The Potato Growers of Idaho convention ended Tuesday night with the appearance of Miss Idaho, Karen Herd.

Miss Herd spoke briefly on her experiences in the Miss America pageant and played several organ solos, including numbers which won her the top talent award at the pageant.

Special awards were also presented to retiring president, Dal Raybould, and to L. A. Gillette for special farm bargaining efforts over several years.

The 1972 convention will be in Boise.

Governor speaks

Andrus asks plan support

By DAVID ESPO Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told the Potato Growers of Idaho Tuesday the first year of his administration has seen a "vastly" State Department of Agriculture.

He offered a strong endorsement for the job done by Oscar Arstain, agriculture commissioner, and said the department was now "responsive and concerned."

Andrus coupled his statement with a plea for support for his recently announced state reorganization plan. It would reduce the number of state agencies, commissions and offices from about 260 to about 200, he said. "It's not difficult to pass the buck when you've got 260 places to pass it," he said.

The governor also called upon the convention to consider the implications of currently pending national legislation which would extend workman's compensation to agricultural workers. The governor said it was "much better" to have control of compensation benefits at the state level rather than at the federal level. The question, he said, is "whether you want Uncle Sam doing it from the Potomac" or if necessary controls should originate within the state.

Andrus also called upon the convention to await a forthcoming report from an interim 10-man legislative committee on potato legislation before drawing "battle lines." The committee was formed early this year in response to a controversy over farm bills which would have included marketing control provisions.

National spud meet opening

BURLEY — Oscar Arstain, commissioner of agriculture, welcomed delegates to the 22nd annual meeting of the National Potato Council today.

Arstain briefly sketched the history of potato production in Idaho, for delegates from nearly 25 states convening for the three-day session.

Also addressing the group were Jack Allred of the Idaho Potato Commission; Don Raybould, immediate past president of the Potato Growers of Idaho; and Jay Connolly of the Potato Processors of Idaho.

The delegates were scheduled to hear a luncheon by Charles E. Gill of Los Angeles. The keynote speaker for the event will be William Galbraith, deputy undersecretary of agriculture for Congressional relations.

Ketchum to set firm's rate hike

BY TERRY CAMPBELL Times-News Writer

KETCHUM — The Ketchum City Council must determine what is a fair increase in rate for Wood River Cable Vision, according to Mayor Kenneth Ritchey.

Ritchey's comments came at the close of a public hearing Tuesday evening on a request for a 50 per cent increase in rates, made by David G. Wolford, company manager.

The mayor said a city accountant will meet with the accountant for the cable system to assess the company's financial standing. The council will announce its decision at a future council meeting.

Under the proposed rate structure, customers currently paying $5 a month would pay $7.50. Original customers, paying $4, would pay $6.50.

William Benjamin, attorney for the system, said during the hearing the company is having "financial difficulties," prompted by the rise in the cost of living and because of "extensive" installation of new equipment.

Lee Renfro, accountant for the company, said $55,000 was spent in capital improvements of the system between March, 1969, when the company purchased the system, and Nov. 11. He said the company anticipates spending $20,000 more before the end of the year.

He said even with the new rate structure, the company will show "far from a profit."

Area hospital gets transplant kit

RUPERT — The Rupert and Hoyburn Lions Club Monday presented Minidoka County Hospital officials with a corneal transplant kit enabling the hospital to join in a nationwide effort to offer corneal transplants for the blind.

Leo Moore and Clyde Linry, Hoyburn, and Clifford Nutting and Leon Craven, Rupert, presented hospital administrator Ed Richardson with surgical equipment for corneal removal and special mailing packages to transport the eyes to a hospital where transplant staff are available. The cost of the kit was set at $75.

Richardson praised the gift saying, "I think this is a real nice project. The Lions do a lot for sight conservation." He said he would brief his hospital staff on procedures involved.

Linry told Richardson "Enucleation" had only been recently become legal in Idaho, with donation of any part of the human body to science forbidden by law until two years ago.

He also presented the hospital child executive with forms to be signed by people willing to donate their corneas upon their death. The corneas can be removed up to four hours after the donor has died, he said, and still be effective in a transplant.

Still declining

TUTTLE (UPI) — State Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, D-Tuttle, said his primary interest still is in running for the Democratic senatorial nomination next year although he has not ruled out Congress.

"I am taking a look at both races but I want to remind you that I have declined to run for Congress at least once," Ravenscroft said.

Ravenscroft ran for the party's nomination for governor in 1970 but lost to now-Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

SV airline quits Montana route

BOISE (UPI) — Sun Valley Air, announced Tuesday the cessation of its scheduled flights between Missoula and Great Falls, Mont., because traffic between the two was not sufficient to justify staying in that market.

Rolland Smith, president of the Idaho-based airline, said, "We initiated this schedule in order to evaluate its traffic potential. What we have been encouraged by the response to our Boise-Missoula flights, but unfortunately, the traffic between Missoula and Great Falls was not of sufficient quantity to justify our staying in that market."

Smith said they would continue scheduled flights between Boise and Missoula, however.

He added the airline would continue to evaluate other possible routes within Montana and between Idaho and Montana with an eye toward further expansion of service.

Jerome farm housing zone okay

By CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News Writer

JEROME — Residential zoning of 20 acres west of Hazelton for a farm housing complex was approved by the Jerome County Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday night.

The area is presently zoned for agricultural use.

Albert Lockwood, chairman of the Hazelton Housing Authority, presented the request. He told the commission the authority has submitted its request to the Jerome office of the Farmer's Home Administration for an 80 per cent grant, with a 20 per cent loan, to construct the farm housing complex.

Lockwood said, however, no construction will begin until approval is received from FHA.

The request for rezoning must now be submitted to the Jerome County commissioners for approval.

Also during the zoning meeting, Clarence Saunders, Hazelton, requested the rezoning of 11 acres between the Hazelton City limits and the site designated for the farm housing complex.

He requested the agriculture ground be rezoned residential, but told the commission he did not wish to be annexed to Hazelton at this time because of the city taxes. He said he would rather wait until the farm housing development asks to be annexed. Saunders told the commission he presently has requests for eight building lots for home construction on the 11 acres.

Saunders' request was denied, Walter Shouse, chairman, said before the board could act on the request, Saunders would have to submit a formal written request for rezoning and a completed plat for construction in the area.

In other business, Lee Anderson, Jerome, presented preliminary sketches of an 80 acre housing development to be located four miles south and three miles east of Jerome in the Barrymore District.

The land, recently purchased by Anderson, is the former Reuben Stoller farm.

In presenting the plans to the commissioners, Anderson explained he wanted their feelings about the rezoning before he spent a lot of money. A former California contractor, Anderson said the area is not prime agricultural land and would best be used as a residential area. Lots would be about 1.5 acres in size, and strict building codes would be enforced. The homes will be exclusively executive type, Anderson said.

Shouse said the board will have to handle Anderson's request in the same manner as anyone else's. A formal request and a plat must be submitted before the board will make any recommendations to the county commissioners.

Because of the nature of the planned development, Shouse noted some consideration will have to be given surrounding area farmers who may wish to put in hog pens. A petition that must be presented by Anderson to Shouse.

Long range survey set

BURLEY — Burley Chamber of Commerce members are planning a survey of long-range problems in the community.

Wildman, chairman of the program work committee, told members at the weekly luncheon Monday at Bryan's Cafe, the committee is compiling a questionnaire which lists 44 areas in which the chamber could help improve the community.

The questionnaire will be mailed in January with a postage paid return envelope. The committee is asking that the questionnaire be answered as promptly as possible for the items listed.

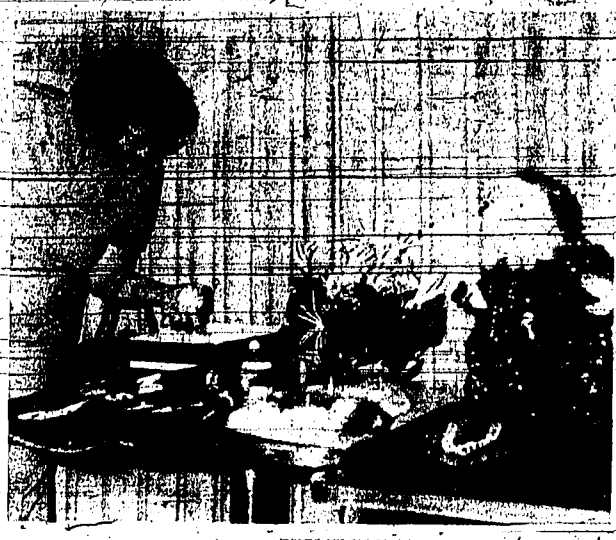

Some of the topics which will be covered in the questionnaire include aging persons, aviation, beautification, community education, drug abuse, education, employment, medical costs, interstate signs, law enforcement, legislative matters, local government, the mental health, industry, parking meters, off street parking, recreation, handicapped persons, schools, sidewalks, tourists, truck route, vocational education and zoning.

The topics are all for long range planning, according to Wildman.

Following the presentation of the proposed questions a discussion was held and suggestions were made for change on some of the questions and for adding additional questions.

It was announced that chamber members and their wives are invited to the social hour and banquet sponsored by the Potato Growers of Idaho at Ponderosa Inn, and the noon luncheon at which time Gov. Cecil Andrus will be the guest speaker.

It was reported that Wednesday the National Potato Council will start its annual meeting at the Ponderosa Inn. This is the first time the National Potato Council has ever met in Idaho.

Santa popular

DISPLAY OF Christmas ornaments at Cassia County Extension Homemakers Council holiday tea was highlighted by this Santa made of red and white plastic. Persons attending sampled the many holiday foods and recipes were available.

Cassia homemakers unit has annual holiday fair

BURLEY — The annual Holiday Fair sponsored by the Cassia County Extension Homemakers Council was held Monday at the Burley Elks Lodge.

Persons who registered sampled the many party and holiday foods which included candy, cookies, fruit cakes, breads and cakes. Recipes for all the foods displayed for sampling were available.

A display of items made by the homemakers to be used as decorations for the home during the Christmas holiday was of great interest. Items viewed included a Santa made of red and white plastic, a large ornament of foil of many colors, door decorations accented with bells and owls; Christmas tree ornaments made from styrofoam balls and many other items.

Mrs. Joan Parr, county extension home agent, was the narrator for the fashion show. Styles featured were items created and made by the homemakers in the county for themselves or their children. Models were Carlene

Clayville, Melissa Brown, Carolyn Endow, Doris Johnson, Mary Hondo, Sally Nelson, Wilma Freestone, Karen Bartz, Janine Bartz, Charlotte Wickel, RaeAnn Wickel, Colleen Wood, Nancy Karchner, Jono Endow, Wally Blacker, Linda Blacker and Janice Bunn.

The women were seated at tables covered with various colored cloths and each table was centered with a Santa made from a baby food jar.

Arrangements at the hall were under the direction of cheerful Doers; serving was directed by Easy Does It and clean up was by Pella N. Jetties.

Coffee was served by Mrs. Jim Rodgers and punch was poured by Mrs. Norman Smyer, general chairman of the event.

Proceeds will be used by the council for various projects during the year.

Hardship cases in Cassia draw study

BURLEY — Cassia County Commissioners expressed concern at their last meeting about charity and hardship cases in which the county is financially involved.

The cases involve furnishing of gasoline, car repairs, clothing, food or lodging for people from county funds. J. Weldon Beck, commissioner from Burley, said "There is getting to be more and more of this type of case. It seems to be a way of life for many individuals or families moving from one county to another. This type of person makes it a tough job for the commissioners of my county," he said.

In the meeting Monday conducted by John Clark, Oakley, commission chairman, commissioners discussed negotiation for two sites for landfills to handle garbage and waste from the Burley area.

The landfill for the city of Burley is rapidly filling and according to law the county must provide a landfill by the first of the year. It is hoped, commissioners report, that the sites now being negotiated for will be available by the first of the year.

New county commission offices in the courthouse are being remodeled. The new office is in space formerly occupied by the justice of the peace and the Selective Service. Space now being occupied by the county commissioners will be used by the county auditor and recorder.

The commissioners will meet again Monday.

Minidoka states Yuletide event

RUPERT — The Minidoka County Extension Homemakers Council will hold its Holiday Fair, salad bar and fashion show at 12:30 p.m. Friday, at the Rupert Elks Lodge.

The public is invited and a small fee will be charged for registration.

Each club member is asked to bring cookies, candy or cake, three holiday centerpieces for table decorations, and one white elephant for prizes.

Each person attending is asked to bring a salad and table service.

The fashion show will present the latest in winter fashions from Hirsch Value Center, Mode O Day, J. C. Penney Co., Jane's and Roper's Clothing, all Rupert.

Modeling will be directed by the Paul Planners, Happy Homemakers, Jolly Neighbors and Willing Hands. The fashion show will be narrated and music furnished by the '57 Desert Dozen Club.

The Nicolettes will handle registration, cashier and door prizes; the Yachon Club will arrange for coffee and punch and the County Homemakers Council will furnish the crackers.

Demonstrations of interest to homemakers are being planned, according to Mrs. Venice Pedersen, president of the council.

Court of honor held at Rupert

RUPERT — A court of honor was held for Boy Scouts of Troop No. 46 at the United Methodist Church in Fellowship Hall.

A covered dish dinner preceded the awards presentation.

During a candlelight Tenderfoot Investiture, Danny Johnson, Steve Gulbranson and Steve Viorra were awarded pins and scarves. Each candle in the ceremony represented a portion of the Scout Law which was read by Richard Honsinger as John Joosten, assistant Scoutmaster, lighted them from a taper representing the Scout spirit.

Huckskin things were presented to Danny Johnson, Steve Gulbranson, Steve Viorra, Tim Gulbranson, Charles Anderson, Jim Maxson and Kelly Ferrin, for the last campout the youths attended.

A merit badge in wood working was presented to Richard Honsinger.

Jim Maxson received merit badges for cycling, life saving, rowing and canoeing and a special award for Scout Life Guard. He also received a Star rank badge.

Alfred Maxson, Scoutmaster, Joosten, Charles Klingenberg, awards chairman, and Rev. Sydney Galther, pastor of the local church, presented the awards.

The next Court of Honor will be held in February.

Contractors to hold convention

BOISE — The Idaho branch of the Associated General Contractors of America will open a two-day annual convention Thursday in Boise with a "hard-hat" breakfast and a business session.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus will address the first business session of the 37th annual convention. Other speakers will include Robert G. Arnold, president and general manager of the Arnold Machinery Co., Salt Lake City; Robert V. Burggraf, Idaho Falls, AGC president; John P. Mollitor, Boise, executive secretary; Bartlett R. Brown, Idaho Commissioner of Labor; Richard L. Daloy, Boise, chairman of the Idaho branch Accident Prevention Committee; A. R. Wooley, Boise, manager of the Idaho division, National Electrical Manufacturers Association; and John E. Healey II, Wilmington, Del., president of the national AGC.

On Friday, speakers will include Dr. John K. Langum, president of Business Economics, Inc., Chicago, and Harold J. McKeever, editor in chief of "Roads and Streets" magazine, who will report on a survey he made of more than 30,000 family-owned construction firms throughout the nation.

Contractors from the Magic Valley and their representatives are expected to attend the Boise convention.

Selected as winners

NAMED as Region 3 winners in Farm Family of Year contest are, left to right, Jill Butler, 17; Mr. and Mrs. Doran Butler; Barbara Butler, 28, and top, Arthur Butler, 15.

Butlers named farm family of the year

BLISS — The Doran V. Butler family of Bliss has been named District III winner in the second annual Farmers Home Administration's "Farm Family of the Year" program.

In announcing the winners, Donald L. Winder, state FFA director, said the Butlers had been chosen as having made better progress in their farming operation through FFA financing than any other nominees from the 10 counties in south central Idaho comprising District III.

The Butlers, which operates a 1000 acre ranch six miles northwest of Bliss, first availed themselves of FFA financial assistance in 1965 when they received a loan to purchase additional land to augment the Spring Cove Ranch, on which Butler was born and reared. With use of FFA assistance through farm ownership, operating, and eventually a rural housing loan in 1970. The Butlers have increased their net worth 2.5 times in the past six years.

The Butlers are good money managers," Winder said. "They have used borrowing power wisely, cooperating with Federal Land Bank, Production Credit Association, and Farmers Home Administration. Capital purchases have been carefully made and open accounts are kept to a minimum." Since assuming total management of the family farmstead, the Butlers have made major improvements including remodeling of their dwelling, building a new milking parlor, machine shed, corrals, and watering systems. The land has been improved by leveling 25 acres, ditch and field reorganization, two additional pipelines, and fencing of the entire unit. Other improvement practices carried out by the Butlers include syphon irrigation, fertilization, rotation grazing, artificial breeding, and improved feeding and culling.

The farm produces a variety of seed grains and alfalfa hay to support 110 beef cows and 28 dairy cows producing an average of 12,500 pounds per year.

Posse members invited

GOODING — Members of the Idaho State Sheriff's Mounted Posse Association will meet in Gooding Saturday at 8 p.m. for their annual meeting and banquet.

Richard Maestas, Gooding state association president, said the business meeting will include a discussion where the 1972 state posse meet will be held. The contests were held in Jerome last summer.

A social hour will be held at 8:30 p.m., followed by the banquet in the Lincoln Inn, Gooding, Maestas said. In addition to the state president, Gooding is also represented in the organization by Severi Swenson, a director for the district which includes Twin Falls, Jerome, and Gooding.

All posse members and their wives are invited to attend the meeting and dinner.

Recommends savings bonds for Christmas

DENVER — Citing higher interest rates and shorter than ever E Bond maturity periods, H. Westerman Whillock, Idaho State chairman of the treasury's savings bonds program, recommended bonds for Christmas gifts.

He said there are many reasons for buying bonds for gifts at any time.

Whillock also reported that Idaho residents invested $7,706,424 in United States Series E-H Bonds during the first ten months of 1971. The figure is an increase of almost $1,500,000 over the same period last year.

October and ten month sales announced for eight Magic Valley counties are Blaine, $3,387,432,785; Camas, $1,065,310,065; Cassia, $6,154,481,410; Gooding, $7,017,884,338; Jerome, $5,652,468,102; Lincoln, $3,071,410,488; Mindoka, $15,564,499,951; Twin Falls, $42,386,440,653.

Gooding district will hold election

GOODING — The Gooding Fire Farm Protection District will elect three commissioners Dec. 8.

Running for election will be Bill Henry for subdistrict 1 and Ed Morris, commissioner, from subdistrict 2. Both are four-year terms.

Running for commissioner from subdistrict 3 is Roy Boyer, seeking a two-year term.

Polling places will be the Gooding City Hall and the polls will be open from noon until 5 p.m.

Any qualified elector residing within the boundaries of the fire protection district and outside the Gooding City limits is eligible to vote.

Other district winners named simultaneously were: the Ethel V. Mattoon family of Lewiston, District I; the Paul A. Schwartz family of New Plymouth, District II; and the Verlin W. Moon family of Malad, District IV.

County winners, named earlier this fall, and the district winners have been presented

CSI routs Walla Walla; TVCC moves in tonight

College of Southern Idaho's Golden Eagles boomed into a 16-point lead in the first five minutes and played 19-point Tuesday night as they opened the home season with a 95-72 rout of the Walla Walla, Wash., Community College Warriors.

Wednesday night by entertaining the Treasure Valley Community College Chukars. Game time is 8 p.m. It wasn't much of a test for CSI as it turned on a stout defense from the opening tip and except for a brief 2-3 lead, was never threatened. Willie Williams, 6-5 frosh from Chicago, and Rick Sobers, 6-3 frosh from New York, did most of the damage as the Eagles whirled abruptly into an 18-2 advantage. Coach Jerry Hale then went to his bench for the remainder of the half with the second unit playing the final 10 minutes.

Angels obtain Cardenas from Twins, put Fregosi on block

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—The Minnesota Twins, who figure they lost "25 or 30" games this year in the last two innings, gave up 33-year-old shortstop Leo Cardenas Tuesday to the Angels immediately announced the acquisition of Cardenas makes six-time all-star Jim Fregosi available for trade during the winter baseball meetings in progress here.

That was interesting news to a number of clubs, among them the New York Yankees, New York Mets, Milwaukee Brewers and San Francisco Giants all of whom are interested in Fregosi either for shortstop or third base.

World baseball classic announced

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—A "World Baseball Classic" next September among the champions of three U.S. minor league baseball leagues and "probably" the champion of the Mexican League and the champion of the Japanese League was announced Tuesday.

Cardenas was the first player to be acquired by the Angels' new general manager, Harry Dalton, the man who had so much to do with building the Baltimore Orioles into one of the top powers in the American League. It was not a move designed to start any "youth movement" but to provide the Angels with a stable, solid infield for the next two years while the youth program gets under way.

Plans were announced by a special committee of minor league officials during the annual winter baseball meetings here, and the committee said the "classic" will replace the annual Junior World Series between the champions of the International League and the American Association. The U.S. league champions involved in the new competition will be from those two leagues, plus the Pacific Coast League. The committee said the "classic" will be played at one of four sites—Honolulu, Mexico City, Seattle, or Washington, D.C. Final selection of the site and other details of the "classic" will be made at another meeting.

George Slater Jr., president of the International League and also a member of the committee, commented, "This will enable the best talent in triple-A baseball to assemble for one week." Other committee members are Bill McKechnie, president of the PCL; Jack Quinn, general manager of the Hawaii team of the PCL; Joe Ryan, president of the American Association; and Dick King, president and general manager of the Oklahoma City team of the American Association.

A coordinating committee to manage the "classic" also will be named at the next meeting. Dalton listed as his primary trading targets "a catcher, an outfielder, and a relief pitcher—now, since we have had to give up LaRoche, a left-handed relief pitcher." However, the Angels' GM stressed that his needs are so many that he is simply interested in "the best players—I can acquire now regardless of position."

Lions and Sooners seek point crown

NEW YORK (UPI)—Penn State and Oklahoma, two of the most explosive teams in the country, will shoot for the national scoring title this Saturday in the final regular season game for both clubs. Third-ranked Oklahoma is currently No. 2 in scoring, averaging 43.6 points per game, a shade lower than Penn State, which is scoring at a 44.3 point per game clip. But fifth-ranked Penn State

Warriors nip Bucks by 106-103

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Cazzie Russell sank a free throw with 10 seconds left and Jim Barnett dropped a long jumper to give the Golden State Warriors a 106-103 National Basketball Association victory over the Milwaukee Bucks Tuesday night. The Bucks and Warriors each played without a super star. Oscar Robertson was out of the Milwaukee lineup with the flu and Nate Thurmond was recovering from an injured hand and did not suit up for Golden State. Golden State came out running in the third quarter after a 53-53 halftime tie and built an 88-79 lead.

Stars stave off Florida

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The Utah Stars fought back a concerted Floridian drive in the third quarter to extend their winning streak to seven straight and take a 127-114 American Basketball Association inter-divisional victory Tuesday night.

Maravich plans on playing

ATLANTA (UPI)—Pistol Pete Maravich Tuesday denied an Atlanta newspaper report that he was so weak from a two-month battle with mononucleosis that he might not be able to continue playing professional basketball this season. "This Atlanta Journal... in a story from Chicago where the Atlanta Hawks were to play the Bulls Tuesday night," quoted Maravich as saying, "I'm just so weak after a game, I don't know what to do—I can't seem to go on."

Dallas bows to Denver

DENVER (UPI)—Dallas, the American Basketball Association leader in team defense yielded slightly more points than usual, but its offense was woeful Tuesday night as the Denver Rockets posted a 106-81 win. The Rockets took a slim lead in the first quarter, 24-22 and then turned on its second period, outscoring Dallas 26-14. In the last half Denver kept the pressure on behind Dave Robisch who had an outstanding evening, scoring 21 points. He also put down the game high of 14 rebounds.

Sonics nip N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Spencer Haywood's short jump shot with 40 seconds left to play brought Seattle back from a 75-point deficit Tuesday night as the Sonics defeated New York, 110-106.

Dallas bows to Denver Houston rolls over Buffalo

DENVER (UPI)—Dallas, the American Basketball Association leader in team defense yielded slightly more points than usual, but its offense was woeful Tuesday night as the Denver Rockets posted a 106-81 win. The Rockets took a slim lead in the first quarter, 24-22 and then turned on its second period, outscoring Dallas 26-14. # Royals win Bulls tip Hawks

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Nate Williams scored a season-high 29 points and Nate Archibald added 28 more as the Cincinnati Royals beat Baltimore, 118-103. Tuesday night and moved to within a half game of the first place Bulls in the Central Division of the NBA.

Vince gets the rebound

CSI FROSH Vince Volmut turns to clear a rebound out to teammate Rick Sobers (10) during action against Walla Walla, Wash., Tuesday night. In foreground is CSI's Steve Swanson (51) and Zenny King (45) represents Walla Walla. CSI won 95-72 and hosts Treasure Valley tonight.

UPI pre-season poll predicts UCLA repeat in NCAA tourney

NEW YORK (UPI)—Defending champion UCLA has been selected by the United Press International Board of Coaches as the pre-season choice for the 1971-72 national collegiate basketball title. The top-ranked Bruins were runaway winners in the pre-season balloting, receiving 16 first place votes from the 31 coaches participating. UCLA's point total was 283 while second place Marquette had 180.

Four NCAA titles still on line

NEW YORK (UPI)—Four different NCAA individual championships will be decided Saturday when the major college regular season closes with five games. Scoring leader Lydell Mitchell of Penn State who already leads in points with 168, needs to score 13 against Tennessee to top Ed Marinaro's average of 16.4 points a game in nine games. Mitchell is playing 11 games.

Marinaro of Cornell has the rushing crown wrapped up with 1881 yards and a 200.0 average. Mitchell would need 818 yards to catch him and the single game record is only 350. Don Strock of Virginia Tech is leading in passing but Brian Sipe of San Diego St., now in fourth place, needs 30 completions against North Texas St. to catch him. The other contenders are finished.

Pass receiving leader Tom Reynolds of San Diego St. needs only one catch to beat out Brian Balma of Citadel for the crown. Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska is third in punt returns and only has an outside chance of catching Brigham Young's Golden Richards. Rodgers would need a 64-yarder or two for 43 yards or even three for 101.

Twin Falls hosts Burley tonight to open Magic Valley cage season

Arkansas loses jersey battle

New Twin Falls high school basketball coach Doug Haynes has a personal history of never losing an opening basketball game. That boast will get a severe test tonight when the Bruins host the tall Burley Bobcats to set in motion another wild season of basketball in Magic Valley.

By the end of the week almost all the teams will have been on the court at least once and there will be games Thursday, Friday and Saturday. But the spotlight has to fall on Twin Falls, mostly due to Burley, which is trying to pull out of a two-year basketball lull spin. The Bobcats will have their tallest lineup ever in 6-10 Lon Frazier, a transfer from Valley High, and 6-7 junior Tracy Nielsen. Then there's the team's leading scorer—rebounder from last year—three-year starter Corey Kidd who is one of four 6-4 lads Coach Ivan Davis can call on.

Burley's key question will be at the guard line. For the past two years pressure has negated any height advantages. The Bobcats have had Coach Haynes considers pressure as his basic form of defense. Three games are on tap Thursday night with the Jerome Tigers, bolstered by a 6-4 transfer, moving to Minico which is bolstered by the return of four starters—but none of them close to 6-4. Coach Billy Emerson lost some scoring punch to graduation and doesn't feel he has a man capable of replacing the touch of Roger Campbell. But he feels that this year's club will have better balance and a much better idea of what he is trying to get them to do on the floor.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—The Liberty Bowl put its foot down in the great jersey debate Tuesday. It's electric orange for Tennessee and blue white for Arkansas. "Why, if we had made Arkansas the home team, the Tennessee folks would have run us out of town on a rail," said Liberty Bowl Executive Director A. P. (Bud) Dudley after giving his decision to Arkansas over the telephone. "Tennessee is the home team here," said Dudley, "and they accepted the bid of (officially first because Arkansas had to be on stipulation). We're sorry this whole thing came about but Arkansas has agreed to wear white." The Razorbacks (6-2-1) had demanded the right to wear their dark red home jerseys for the nationally televised Dec. 20 game, the first clash between the southern powerhouses since 1907. In fact, that 1907 victory by Tennessee (14-2) was the only meeting ever between the two football teams and expectations are already at a fever pitch on both sides of the muddy Mississippi.

Big Sky presidents set limits on athletic aid

BOISE (UPI)—The council of presidents of the Big Sky Athletic Conference Tuesday recommended that the future classification of NCAA schools be based on financial aid limitations. The members of the conferences' president colleges and universities made the recommendation for consideration during their meeting of the NCAA. In effect, it would mean schools would be classified by divisions on the basis of the number of grant-in-aid scholarships received rather than on the basis of which schools are played. In order to maintain its level of competition in starting the 1972-73 season, the Big Sky Conference presidents recommended the following recommendations: That not more than 65 football players receive financial grant-in-aid awards, thus not to exceed 65 full grant-in-aid equivalents. The presidents said they felt this would place a premium on recruiting. That not more than 14 basketball players receive financial aid, thus not to exceed the 18 full grant-in-aid equivalents. And that not more than 20 full grant-in-aid equivalents be used for the following sports: baseball, 5, wrestling, 3, track, 6, golf, 1, and skiing, 1. The institutions have the prerogative to shift—but not more than two full grant-in-aid equivalents in any of these later, minor sports. One issue on appeal to the conference commissioner's office is that concerning football and basketball players who are already receiving support from non-athletic sources, such as academic or economic opportunity grants. A recommendation asks that, if possible, not more than a total of five, altogether, football or basketball players on non-athletic scholarships be allowed to play in addition to the 65 football players receiving financial aid and the 18 basketball players receiving aid.

Hagerman returns with 2 home games

BUHL—The Buhl Indians, with five lettermen returning, open their season Friday and Saturday by hosting the Glenns Ferry Pilots and the Wendell Trojans. The Indians will not be as tall as last season but Coach Bill Ingram still has 6-5 center Kendall Moler. Moler was one of the leading scorers in the district last year. Craig Saunders adds a tough to run forward spot and the other three veterans are guards. They include Robert Meyer, 5-9, Greg Owens, 5-11 and Kim Dunlap, 5-0.

HAGERMAN—The Hagerman Pirates will advance to the A-3 classification in basketball this year but before going into that district tournament will be battling in the Magic Valley Conference with several veterans and a new coach. The new coach is Joe James who enjoyed good success at Neta for three years, taking two district championships there. The team he inherits ran up a solid 17-3 regular season and 23-7 overall record and, through a playoff, advanced to the state A-4 tournament. The returning veterans are Doug Butler, 6-3 senior who has started two years now and still possesses a hard, soft jumper off the baseline from eight to 12 feet. On the other side is Doug Glauner, grown up a little to 6-1. Glauner has a fair deep-corner shot but can be very strong on the offensive backboards. The quarterback, Craig Laughlin is back at 6 feet, and at times he didn't take a back seat to my guard in the conference. He is capable of getting very hot on outside jumpers going either way. This will be Laughlin's third varsity season. Joining that trio in the two-year varsity category, is 5-11 guard Tony Hendrickson who saw considerable action last year. Adding height will be 6-3 center forward Jeff Wilkin, a senior; Matt Carlston, 6-2 junior; Randy Hill, 6-0 junior; Mike Owsley, 5-9, and Mike Brown, also 5-9, are senior guards. Up from the jayvee squad are Matt Dalton, 5-10; Todd Bennett, 4-9 and 6-0 Gilbert Hafer.

Promoter seeks rematch

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—World Boxing Council (WBC) president Ramon G. Velazquez of Mexico said Tuesday a Los Angeles promoter wanted to stage a rematch for the vacant world lightweight title, WBC version. Velazquez said Greek-American promoter George Parnas said had offered the contenders for the title, Mando Ramos of Los Angeles and Pedro Carrasco of Spain, $85,000 each for another 15-round bout. In their last encounter in Madrid, Ramos was disqualified for a low blow by a Nigerian referee despite having floored Carrasco four times. The WBC has so far failed to confirm Carrasco as its new world lightweight champion. The WBC declared the lightweight vacant after stripping Scotland's Ken Buchanan of the crown for fighting Panama's Immael Laguna instead of Carrasco. Buchanan is still recognized by the rival World Boxing Association (WBA).

Dogs work with platoon in Viet

FREEDOM HILL, Vietnam (UPI)—Ray Adams is top sergeant in a platoon of country boys and their dogs. They specialize in walking dangerous ground and hunting hidden Communists.

There's only one problem with Luke here," Adams said a few days ago, scratching the cocked left ear of his $2,200 shadow black Labrador retriever. "He likes Charlie just as much as he does you. If he found a Viet Cong, Luke would probably jump up and lick him in the face if you didn't stop him."

Chances are Luke would find them. He's done it before. But what happens then—usually is measured in gunfire rather than tail-wagging by one of the 10 dogs of the 53rd combat trackers of the 19th Infantry Brigade.

Luke and his canine buddies can hunt down a fleeing enemy, sniff out a booby trap and find sunken tunnels. The dogs and 31 men of the platoon take tasks both dangerous and unwanted in these days of lessening American field activity.

"Most GIs don't want to make contact these days," said 1st Lt. Charles Wittick of Amarillo, Tex. "That's why our activity has dropped and the dog units in Vietnam have been reduced 50 per cent."

When one of the unit's three tracker dogs are called in after battle, contact has been made and then broken off, they are likely to be more contact when the five-man tracker team finishes its job.

"The dogs can smell 40 times better than humans and hear 10 times better. Which would you rather have out front?" asked Spec. 4 Gordon Wolf of Houston, Tex.

The tracker, mine and tunnel dogs teams were a British idea. Indeed, the first U.S. handlers were volunteers from "elite" American combat units who went through a British jungle warfare school in Malaysia in late 1966.

Later the teams were set-up in Vietnam after buying several Labrador Retrievers like Luke. The teams are now trained in U.S. Army camps.

Spec. 4 Donald W. Sutton of Elizabeth City, N.C., pointed out his dog, Sabre, walked up to a trap, slowly sniffing the ground. All signals are given by hand.

"Sure, it's dangerous work. But it's better than being a grunt," he said. "If the dog stops on the wire, you know you're going to get killed anyway."

No problem, however. Sabre quickly found the buried ordnance and trip wires and look the required one step back and set down while Sutton disconnected the traps.

Their handlers love them and the dogs return the affection. But when the men go home, regulations usually prevent the battle-tested dogs from being just get a new handler, or are destroyed.

Minister lauds new agreement

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

The new Rhodesian agreement with Britain, Prime Minister Ian Smith told Parliament, will permit Rhodesia to continue as a "haven of peace and stability in a world which is becoming notorious for its wars, its riots, its hunger, its starvation, rebellion, massacre and general anarchy."

Nor did there seem any doubt that he firmly was convinced of every word.

The Rhodesian people, he declared, now could dedicate themselves to the ideals of economic advancement and human dignity.

It scarcely seemed possible that this could be the same agreement denounced by the Organisation for African Unity as an "outright sellout" of 10 million Africans to 245,000 white Rhodesians.

In Zambia's newspaper, the Times of Zambia, denounced it as "the Great Betrayal."

In the British House of Commons, Laborite opposition members met Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home's announcement of the agreement with cries of shame and self-loathing.

tion accused Sir Alex of attempting to "whitewash a sordid sellout to racialism."

If it was not the Ugrian described by Ian Smith, the Rhodesian prime minister, nor the sellout charged by its opponents, it was at least a surrender to what today is called realism.

Six years ago the white-supremacist government of Rhodesia had declared unilateral its independence from Britain.

Subsequently, at the urging of Britain the United Nations declared an economic and diplomatic boycott of Rhodesia in which most nations of the world joined. Notable exceptions were South Africa and Portugal.

The agreement with Britain was designed as a first step toward a return to normalcy.

Even Sir Alex described it as a lesser of evils—without it to see Rhodesia go the whole way with separation of the races as it is practiced in South Africa.

The new agreement offers new legal rights and economic possibilities to the black majority.

Valley educators set Reno session

RENO, Nev. — A number of Magic Valley and Idaho educators will participate in the 58th annual meeting of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools in Reno, Nev., Dec. 5-8.

The association incorporates three "cooperating" subsidiary groups, including the Northwest Association of Junior Colleges, of which College of Southern Idaho President James L. Taylor is president; the Commission on Higher Schools; and the Commission on Secondary Schools.

The Commission on Secondary Schools will meet on Sunday and Monday, Dec. 5 and 6, at Harrah's Hotel in Reno. Idaho members of the association's Approved Schools Committee include Leo Miller, principal of Mountain Home High School, vice chairman, and, as sub-chairmen, John Campbell, Jerome school superintendent; Jerry Plisk, Jerome High School principal; John A. Lawrence, Twin Falls High School principal; Glenn Menlon, Idaho Falls High School principal; and Darrel Relsch, Homedale High School principal.

The committee works as a pre-accréditation survey group, evaluating annual reports submitted by each member school on all phases of its operations, from the number of secretaries to the professional preparation of all faculty members.

Each sub-chairman works with a group of assigned reviewers to review a group of school reports. Through a careful scrutiny of these reports, weaknesses in school programs can be detected in advance of the final accreditation survey.

The Approved Schools Committee works with reports of schools which have obtained their accreditation from year to year. Other committees include the Advised Schools Committee, in which schools have been advised that they are weak in some aspect of their educational program, and the Warned Schools Committee, dealing with schools which are in danger of losing their accreditation.

Magic Valley educators serving as reviewers for the Approved Schools Committee include W. L. Sade, Gooding; Arlyn Bodily, Eden; C. W. Hines, Oakley; Lawrence LaRue, Wendell; Edwin Marshall, Filer; and Glen Maughan, Rupert.

Sessions slated

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho President James L. Taylor faces a busy schedule in his multiple roles as college president, education spokesman and accrediting commission member in the next week.

On Wednesday and Thursday, Dr. Taylor will appear before the Idaho Board of Education to discuss the upcoming legislative session and a uniform system of accounting for colleges. He will also meet with the statewide college presidents' council, of which he is current president, in Boise this week.

On Friday, Dr. Taylor will travel to Reno, Nev., for two meetings. As a member of the higher commission of the Northwest Regional Accrediting Association, he will consider colleague petitions for accreditation during an accreditation meeting.

On Sunday, Dec. 5, as president of the Northwest Association of Junior Colleges, Dr. Taylor will preside over a meeting of the association, scheduled in conjunction with the 58th annual convention of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools. The junior college association is a cooperating subsidiary member of the parent organization.

Farmers hurt by one-man, one-vote ruling

SPOKANE (UPI) — Farmers are being hurt by the one-man, one-vote rules and increasing environmental controls, according to Washington State University political science Professor Dr. Patricia G. Cunneen.

Cunneen made the statement in an address to the Washington Association of Wheat Growers convention here Monday during a session on politics.

She said the number of farms has dropped 28 percent in the United States since 1960 and the size of farms has increased by 28 percent.

The professor said, "Fewer persons are farming bigger chunks of real estate" and said this was hurting the farmers politically because they are losing the voting power they once had.

She said farmers should work through coalitions to change the public image as polluters which has come about through a concern about the use of pesticides.

State Rep. Stewart Bledsoe, R-Ellettsburg, a cattleman, told the wheat growers they must do their own lobbying and handle their own politics if they hope to get support in the legislature.

"There are only 18 farmers of the 148 members of the state legislature," he said, "so you can't depend on your friends to do the job for you."

Bledsoe said, "The city dweller tends to look at the farmer as a comic strip character and he doesn't relate the food on his table and clothes on his back to the fact that the farmer who produced them must do so at a profit."

During action late Monday night Linda Sue Janson, 17, Latah, was named as Washington Wheat Queen. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Janson, Latah.

The convention, attended by about 400 wheat growers from throughout the state, runs through today.

Action Tuesday centered around a series of seminars relating to subjects ranging from international cooperation to the longshoremen's strike.

Nevada's land-use laws need change, BLM planner says

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A legislative subcommittee was told today there is a need to revamp Nevada's laws governing land use in order to provide orderly development in the fast-growing state.

Richard Allen, chairman of the Regional Planning Commission of Reno-Sparks-Washoe County, and Ken Reinert, planner for the Bureau of Land Management, said there is a need for coordinated planning to make sure development will be in the best interests of the public.

Allen suggested present subdivision laws be updated to eliminate conflicts and provide for more orderly procedures in dealing with zoning and other matters.

Reinert said there are many agencies with authority in land planning, but few of them are coordinated. He said plans for subdivisions away from the cities face special problems, since they generally are surrounded by public domain. He suggested an agency of state government be given authority, funds and personnel to assist all levels of government in coordinating land use plans. He also suggested setting up land use districts within which local governments and agencies may plan and zone.

He said it should be tougher to change action by planning commissions. He said a two-thirds vote by local commissions should be required in order to protect the public interest before changes are permitted in regional planning agency decisions which are adopted by two-thirds vote.

"The general public needs a break," he said. "There are so many requests for land use changes the public can't get involved except when persons are directly affected."

Sen. Cliff Young, R-Reno, is chairman of the seven-man subcommittee which will recommend changes in present land use laws. He said the group will conduct hearings in Las Vegas, and may also conduct one in Elko.

38 million acres of wheat helps surplus

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Government agriculture planners hope to remove 38 million acres from wheat production next year to help offset surpluses from the current year, U.S. Department of Agriculture officials said Monday.

Victor Senechal, chief of the production adjustment branch of a commodity programs division of USDA, told the Oregon Wheat Growers League the 1972 set aside program will permit even more flexibility than the 1971 program.

Senechal said "In order to help offset this 1971 record production for feed grains and wheat we are aiming to take at least 38 million acres out of production under the wheat program." He said that compares with 31.5 million acres under the wheat and feed grain programs combined in 1971.

"The 1971 program permitted farmers maximum freedom in selecting wheat crops they could plant and the acreage of each," Senechal said. "The 1972 program for these commodities will continue this concept and in much of the nation will allow an even greater degree of flexibility than in 1971."

John Welbes, Pendleton, executive secretary of the league, told members, "There's every indication that the wheat farmer is in trouble and that he needs a hard road ahead." He said Northwest farmers could have a surplus of 70 million bushels this year, depending largely on what happens if the West Coast dock strike resumes.

Youth wins 4-H trip

GOODING — Rory Scanlon, a Gooding 4-H youth attending the national 4-H Congress in Chicago this week, won the expense-paid trip for his skill in an automotive project.

A report given the Times-News by the National 4-H Service Committee, Chicago, indicated that young Scanlon competed in tractor driving. His 4-H leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Eicholberg, Gooding, noted the error and requested a correction.

Wendell boy wins grant

WENDELL — Douglas L. Schrenk, 19, Wendell, has received a $1,600 scholarship from Homelite, a Division of Textron Inc., to apply toward his study of forestry at the University of Idaho, Moscow.

DOUGLAS SCHRENK

Schrenk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Schrenk, is a freshman at the university where he plans to major in forest management. He was one of four winners of forestry scholarships announced at the 50th annual National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 28-Dec. 2.

"Ever since I was a little boy I have been interested in forests and trees and I have often wondered what is going to become of them," the scholarship winner said. "When I was old enough to enter 4-H, I took all the forestry and conservation projects I could to help me better understand the importance of our forests and ranges."

"I also understood the ecological problems better. The more conservation and forestry projects I completed, the more interested I became," Schrenk explained.

In addition to forestry and conservation, Schrenk completed a number of wood, rock, science, health and junior leadership projects during his eight years in 4-H. Gooding County Planning Commission, led county 4-H tree identification contests and assisted in county judging.

In high school he participated in football, basketball, baseball and track and served on community beautification committees.

In college Schrenk is a member of the Associated Foresters and participates in intramural sports.

Filer clinic is set

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Cattlemen's Association will sponsor a beef calf clinic day Saturday at the Twin Falls County Fair grounds, Filer.

The program will begin at 11 a.m. and run until 4 p.m., according to Richard Nor, Rogerson, president of the Association.

According to L. W. Lickley, secretary-treasurer, the educational program in selection, feeding and management of the beef calf projects will be offered as assistance to 4-H and FFA members and their parents in southern Idaho.

Area ranchers and club members will bring in more than 50 crossbred and purebred steer calves to the event for visual observation and discussion. In methods of selecting project calves. Additional calves may be brought in at the desire of the individual club member.

Included in other activities on the program will be a panel discussion of ideal weights and type, feeding and management of the beef calf prior to shows. Bill Swan, Rogerson, will be panel moderator.

Panel members include Willard Wolf, field representative of the American Hereford Association, Spokane, Wash.; Bob Scott, Hazelton; Bob Howard, Murtaugh; Ike Muir, Producers Marketing Ass'n, Jerome; John Newburn, American Polled Hereford Ass'n, Ponderosa, Ore.; and Herschel Boynton, College of Southern Idaho, Twin Falls.

MVCA supports and encourages youth of the area by presenting trophies to outstanding 4-H and FFA beef project owners at County and District fairs. Proposed activities for this association for 1972 include a practical veterinarian clinic for cattlemen and a hoof-trimming and showmanship clinic for junior cattlemen.

MVCA recognizes club members as great promoters of Idaho beef. Area club members have recently shown Idaho raised steers to Grand Champion honors at the Cow Palace in San Francisco; the Pacific International at Portland, and the Golden Spikes show at Ogden.

Beet hearings to be held

SALT LAKE CITY — Sugar beet producers, processors and workers may testify at the public hearings on sugar beet wage rates and prices for the 1972 crop Dec. 17 in Salt Lake City.

The hearings will be at the Federal Building, 125 South State St., beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The program is one of a series of public hearings set by the U.S. Department of Agriculture on sugar beet wages and prices, between Dec. 5 and Dec. 17 in the major sugar beet producing and labor supply regions of the United States according to Forest J. Severe, Idaho executive director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The series of meetings will be considered as one hearing, and testimony at each place will be part of an overall record. The U.S.D.A. has asked that all interested persons appear at one of the hearings to express their views and present appropriate data, according to Severe.

The hearings are scheduled in order to conform with law which requires the secretary of agriculture to determine fair and reasonable sugar beet wage rates and prices after public hearing and investigation. Severe said.

To be eligible for payments under the law, producers must pay wage rates not less than those determined to be fair and reasonable. Producers who are also processors must pay not less than the prices determined fair and reasonable for sugar beets purchased from other producers in order to be eligible for payments on their own sugar beet production.

Other hearings in the series are scheduled for San Francisco, Dec. 6; Moorhead, Minn., Dec. 8; San Benito, Tex. Dec. 15 and Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 10.

First indoor horse show is scheduled

ELKO, Nev. — The first indoor horse show in Elko County is scheduled Sunday at Beowawe, about 50 miles west of Elko, under the joint sponsorship of the Horseteet and NSHA Region 8.

The show will be "jackpot" style, except for the junior classes, which will be awarded ribbons.

Classes for the first show to begin at 10 a.m. on Sunday include open pole-bending and barrel racing, mini, beginning, intermediate, open and junior jumpers; snaffle, hackamore, and bridle horses with cattle, 17 and under with cattle, Western and English pleasure riding, $250, $500 and open cutting classes.

Each participant will be judged by every other contestant in that class, with an average of the scores taken to determine the winners.

Entry fees are $3 for junior classes and $5 for senior and open classes except for the $500 and open cutting, which will require entry fees of $8 for each class. An office fee of $1 will be retained and the remainder will be split among the contestants on a 50-50-20 basis.

Entries will be taken on the grounds. No entries will be accepted after a class begins competition.

Monthly horse shows are planned throughout the winter in the Elko area. This will allow competitors to keep their horses in condition and ready for the spring season.

Idaho-Oregon banks rank among top 100

BOISE (UPI) — The American Banker, a daily banking newspaper, has ranked eight Idaho and eastern Oregon banks as among the top 100 institutions in the nation making agricultural loans.

The newspaper said, according to an annual survey, that total loans for agriculture by the country's 100 largest commercial banks in the field rose more than 6 per cent in fiscal 1971.

Ranked ninth in the nation in total loans made for agriculture was the TRIMB TRIFIN National Bank, with $69,027,212 in lending during the fiscal year.

Ranked 15th with loans of $33,019,269 was First Security bank of Idaho. Idaho Bank of Commerce, Rexburg, was 52nd with $12,821,708; and Idaho Bank and Trust Co., was 60th with $11,887,052. Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co. was 81st with $9,963,464.

The two Oregon banks with branches in the eastern section of the state were First National Bank of Oregon, Parkersburg, with $72,465,814; and United States National Bank of Oregon, 12th with $51,648,356.

Computer assigns uniforms

HANOVER, N.H. (UPI) — The Springfield, Mass., school system used to have problems assigning uniforms to its band members. No longer. Computers now take care of it.

Such school service accounts for 75 per cent of the business generated by Time Share Corp. of Hanover since it was formed in 1966. "TSC has refined computer time sharing to the point that it is within financial reach of smaller colleges and high schools," according to an executive vice President Charles Morrissey. The company now has more than 100 Northeast Educational Institutions on its system.

If a school makes normal use of the computer system, the cost, as Morrissey figures it, comes out to about $2 per hour. This figure is based on the assumption a school will use the computer facility on a normal eight hour school day. Schools pay a flat fee which averages out to about $500 per month, although the rate is negotiable.

Schools are not limited in their use of the facilities when on the dedicated line service. If they are able to use it 10, 20 or 24 hours a day, seven days a week, they do not pay more.

Morrissey said some schools, particularly private schools, have students using it from 6 a.m. to midnight.

Larger universities always could afford their own computers, but that wasn't true of colleges or high schools with less than 5,000 students and limited financial resources. Getting the cost down was the breakthrough.

"The concept is to maintain a central computer facility, designed so that when people wanted to use the computer they could use it on demand," Morrissey said. Institutions with computers for administrative purposes can't be so flexible, thus precluding academic use.

Under time-sharing, when students or teachers at a school use the computer via a terminal, "it looks like they're the only persons using it," Morrissey said. "We can handle as many as 90 simultaneous users at once, and any of them feels he's the only one on the system."

The time-share concept primarily began as a support to the math teaching area, according to Morrissey. It since has grown to cover all the disciplines, particularly chemistry, physics, math, business and science courses.

The market is expanding, Morrissey said, because many teachers are developing new tasks for the computers.

To see that these ideas get distributed, Time Share has initiated a newsletter to which the teachers contribute their thoughts.

DECEMBER — 2 — 3 — 4, 1971

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—The Mariner 9 television probe Monday transmitted the closest photograph ever taken of Phobos, one of Mars' two tiny moons and the darkest object yet discovered in the solar system.

The picture, in which the moon mottled with dark surface markings appeared the size of a half dollar, was received unexpectedly at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory center here.

A spokesman said that Mariner 9, now in its 32nd orbit of Mars, failed to acknowledge the receipt of the several hundred commands sent from earth earlier in the day to guide the robot in the operation.

Deep hatred causing war

By PHIL NEWSOM
 UPI Foreign News Analyst

Hatred between Moslem and Hindu inhabitants of the Indian subcontinent has flared into two India-Pakistan wars since independence in 1947 and seems on the verge of a third.

And, partly because this hatred goes so deep that it permeates both governments as well as the populace, efforts toward a peaceful settlement so far have been exercises in futility.

Despite repeated warnings from Secretary General Thant, the United Nations has done nothing, presumably because neither India nor Pakistan is sure of what support they might be able to muster, because neither the United States nor Russia has adopted any specific attitude beyond a warning of caution to both sides and because China remains a new and relatively untested influence in the U.N.

Officially, Pakistan's President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan is attempting to put a secessionist movement and thus preserve the integrity of Pakistan.

Officially, India regards settlement as an internal matter and says her troops have crossed into East Pakistan only as a matter of self defense.

Neither side lets foreign news correspondents go for a close-up look and thus all news comes from officially-inspired sources.

Actually, neither would appear to have totally clean hands.

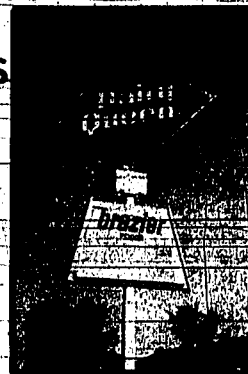

Khan's harsh suppression of a democratically expressed desire for autonomy in East Pakistan.

Nixon meetings seen fence-mending efforts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is undertaking a major exercise in international fence-mending as a prelude to his visits early next year to Peking and Moscow.

White House sources say that the President's individual meetings with leaders of five major allied nations during the next six weeks are designed primarily to reassure them that the United States will make no agreements behind their backs during the summit conferences in the capitals of the two Communist nations.

They acknowledge privately, however, that Nixon's conferences with the leaders of France, Britain, West Germany, Japan and Canada have a significance far beyond that purpose.

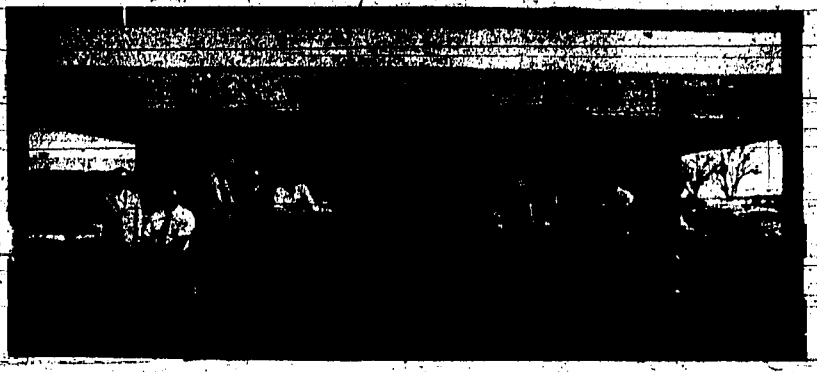

The President hopes to eliminate some of the stresses and strains between Washington and its friends which developed as a result of the new leaders who feel in any need of reassurance that the United States will not make deals with Russia or China at their expense. West Germany always is concerned that Washington, in its efforts to reach broad new understandings with the Kremlin, may make concessions adverse to Bonn's diplomatic and security policies.

Japan, after being caught by surprise by Nixon's announcement of his visit to Peking while Tokyo was still holding the line against the Chinese Communist, naturally causes SATO and his advisers some concern over what may develop during

Fuel firm head defends policy

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The president of Mountain Fuel Supply Co. Monday defended the firm's spending $1,675,298 in 1971 for sales promotion and advertising as educational but admitted there is competition with suppliers of electrical power.

"Much of our advertising is devoted to safety," said M. M. Fidler said. "Advertising is not just to create new firm (residential and commercial) users, it also serves an educational purpose."

Fidler testified at a Public Service Commission hearing on the utility's request for a $875,000 increase in revenue from large industrial users.

Asked about competing with electricity, Fidler said, "Rather, I would say they compete with us, since we have the vast majority of that market. We are fighting to keep it, because heating is the backbone of the gas market."

LDS rites planned by area couple

TWIN FALLS—Mr. and Mrs. Jim L. Mikezell announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, JoAnn, to Charles E. Morrill, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Morrill, Hazelton.

Miss Mikezell is a 1970 graduate of Twin Falls High School, and Morrill is a 1970 graduate of Valley High School. Both are employed by Kellwood, Twin Falls.

A Jan. 15 wedding is planned at the LDS Church.

JO-ANN MIKESELL

TWIN FALLS—The manuscript for a modern day western "The Winds of Montana," written by Donald Bressette, Twin Falls, has been accepted for publication by Vantage Press in New York.

Bressette said the book will go to press in late November or the first part of December and will be on the shelves of book stores in the near future.

He said the story is taken from true ranching experiences. The story setting is in Montana's Bitterroot Valley. Bressette said the story is about a couple ranching in the valley and a drifter who work for the couple on the ranch.

He said most of the information is factual from real ranch stories.

Vantage Press has a comprehensive sales and promotion program including advertising in selected newspapers and magazines. He said direct mail advertising will be used from a publisher's and author's personal mailing list. Autograph parties are also suggested with coordinated special promotion in bookstores and other store advertising and window displays.

Bressette said the publicity "Trade List Annual," and program includes a possibility of subsidiary sales, pocketbook reprints and book clubs.

The book will be listed in "The Book will be hardbound in size 5 1/2-inches by 8 1/2-inches with an illustrated jacket.

Print," "Publisher's Weekly," "Wilson's Cumulative Book Index."

Bonanza's Little Joe is versatile

Tank waits

A HEAVILY camouflaged Pakistani tank stands near the village of Dangsapers. Pakistani military spokesmen said that at least 1,450 Indians have been killed since fighting erupted on the East Pakistan-India border last week. (UPI)

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Page Cartwright may be the wisest man of the Ponderosa and Hoop the strongest, but Little Joe is far and away the most versatile.

Off-screen Little Joe is Michael Landon who has written 19 scripts for "Bonanza" and directed a dozen episodes in the series' 13-year history.

Landon is a handsome, poised man who has become a millionaire as a result of the show. Before he joined the NBC horse opera he was just another actor.

But he has seized the opportunity to branch out within the show.

As an actor Mike earns in the neighborhood of a quarter million dollars a year, an extremely conservative estimate. Some would put his salary down as in excess of a half million annually.

As a writer his best scripts bring about $3,500. As a director Mike collects roughly $3,200 per show.

It doesn't take Rockefeller to figure out that acting is the most attractive economic course.

But when "Bonanza" is dry-gulched, as soon or late it must, Big Ben Cartwright and Hoop head room on the other side of the job — although they, too, are independently rich.

On the other hand, Landon can turn to writing and directing as alternatives should the active field be overcrowded — which it invariably is.

Of his multi-talents Landon says: "I think the writing is the most important. A director can help the material somewhat. So can the actors. But it helps everybody. If you have a good premise that doesn't require a lot of padding with dialogue."

"My scripts are short as far as the number of pages go. People in real life don't communicate as fast as they do on most television shows. So I slow it down. And I don't put in a lot of directorial notes. After all, I direct the shows. I write these days."

"After writing I think directing is the next most important job in turning out a well-done television show."

"It's sort of ironic that the actors, who are least vital in the make-up of a show, are paid the most. But that's the way the game is played. And I have no complaints."

Landon is as fast as he is prolific. It takes him only two or three days to write a script in

"I give Little Joe minor roles in the scripts I write so I can concentrate on directing," Mike said. "And working with Lorne Greene and Dan Blocker is a great experience."

"I can't for the life of me understand how the Emmy people have overlooked Dan for an award all these years. Lorne, too. None of us has ever been nominated for the award."

Let the Emmy go to a suffering method actor. The Bonanza bunch has reaped a more powerful emblem: the mighty dollar sign.

Chinese women's dress may become colorful

TOKYO (UPI)—Is Communist China embarking on a new kind of cultural revolution by dressing women in feminine clothes?

The suggestion that Chinese women may be shedding the drab slacks that have been their hallmark since the 1949 revolution came in two news pictures from China received in Tokyo.

Both showed Chinese women dressed for festive occasions in skirts and blouses—the first pictures of the type seen in Japan in several years.

One of the two photographs was printed in Jimin Hoashi (Peoples Star), newspaper of a new Communist party sponsored in Japan by the Chinese, a party at odds with the regular Japanese Communist party.

The picture accompanied a story about a visit by Masayoshi Fukuda, head of the Chinese-backed splinter party, to an oil refinery complex near Peking.

The real eyecatchers, however, were the women employees of the refinery who were sent out to greet him. All wore bright colored print skirts and white blouses. The skirts were full and didn't do much for the figures of the wearers, and most of them had hemlines well below the knees.

Most of the women wore flat, Western type shoes with a single strap over the instep. They had white anklets rather than Western stockings. The majority wore their hair in twin braids.

The Communists have played down the feminine mystique in China, except for the lavishly dressed women who appear in some old Chinese operas.

Japanese travelers in Peking usually report seeing women exclusively in slacks, with no cosmetics. Public spooning by lovers is out, and even those on benches in public parks seem to sit at least a foot apart.

Tokyo got one of its few looks at Chinese women after the revolution in 1963 when a small number accompanied a Chinese delegation to Communist Japan's leading ban-the-bomb organization. They were dressed in skirts with the hem about halfway between the knee and the ankle. The skirts had slits a few inches long extending up from the hems.

A large delegation of women ping-pong players came to Japan from Peking this spring for the World Table Tennis Championships in Nagoya.

However, it was not certain what they wore when they weren't playing table tennis.

In public, they always appeared in gym suits.

Peninsula now vacation land

ATHENS (UPI)—It was once a remote area known only to those intimate with ancient Greek history or to admirers of Christian monastic life.

Today, the Greek government sees it as Europe's Number One Vacationland, and under its present five-year plan Halkidiki peninsula in northern Greece will be developed as one of four major tourist zones.

Halkidiki is in central Macedonia, protruding into the Aegean Sea like a hand with only three fingers. Until two years ago, because of lack of public services, it was recommended for visits only during the summer.

One of the "fingers," or sub-peninsulas, bears the ridge of Mount Athos, where Byzantine monasteries dating back to the 9th century perch atop mountains; where, according to the Law of Averton (trespassing), "Women, beardless youths and any kind of female animals" are not allowed on the territory to observe the remaining monks' Spartan way of life.

The rest of the area boasts a few agricultural communities growing figs, oranges, and looking after their olive and pine trees.

In antiquity, Halkidiki was the home of the first democratic federation of states, destroyed during the 4th Century B.C. by the first strongman to unite Greeks, Philip of Macedonia.

Despite the passing of time, Halkidiki kept its agelessness.

solitude and natural brown, blue and green color contrasts, all of which are still part of its magnetism.

For these reasons, plus the area's ideal weather conditions, including a very temperate winter climate, the government is in the process of opening up the peninsula to thousands of holidaymakers all the year round.

Already it has spent $20 million building a 600-mile highway network, where a couple of years ago only dirt tracks existed.

Electrification of the area, which was barely serviced in 1967, will be complete by the end of this year, and bulldozers and cranes have begun laying foundations for holiday playgrounds.

Officials of the National Tourist Organization (EOT) draw attention to the advantage that Halkidiki is practically next door to Greece's second largest city, Salonika, which has major airport facilities and which will eventually be expanded to take the jumbo jet.

A chartered plane will fly in from Germany next April with the first tourists for the first modern holiday complex to open in Halkidiki—Kangalou grouping of 560 beds offering a sand beach, sea sports, mini-golf and ball sports during the day, and plenty of music and dancing in the evening.

Hungary's symbol of legitimate government secreted in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Traditions have a way of being lost in a rapidly changing world but one that is very much alive involves the Holy Crown of St. Stephen, a symbol of governmental legitimacy in Hungary for nearly 1,000 years.

The crown, hidden away in the United States for 25 years, has become the center of a controversy. Rep. William Scherle (R-Iowa) is afraid the crown will be sent back to Hungary in return for the recent release of Cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty, who spent 15 years in refuge in the U.S. embassy in Budapest.

Scherle contends such a move would lend authenticity to the Communist regime in Budapest and have an immense psychological impact by giving credence to the Hungarian government. Calling the crown the "most treasured symbol of the Hungarian people," Scherle said that he and other House members would go to great lengths to block any such action.

Beginning in the year 1000 A.D. under the reign of King Stephen I, when Hungary first became a kingdom sanctioned by the Roman Catholic Church, the crown has been worn by every duly recognized regent in Hungary.

Legend has it that the bowl-shaped crown, along with a jeweled cross, was sent to King Stephen by Pope Sylvester II as a symbol of the religious conversion of the Hungarian people. Laden with miniature inserts depicting religious scenes, the crown became an essential part of the coronation of successive Hungarian regents.

In the 19th century, the Hungarian jurist Ferenczy wrote that the political being of Hungary rested in the Holy Crown. This concept provided that if the regent became indisposed or unfit to rule, the Primate of Hungary, the Archbishop of Esztergom (the first archdiocese created by Stephen) would serve as "interim regent" until a successor could be chosen.

This made the church a potent element in Hungary's power structure, a situation without parallel in any other country, and it prevailed until World War II when the Nazis removed Admiral Miklos Horthy, who had reigned as regent for two decades, ending Hungary's 94-year old monarchy. The next year the Russians took over, and in 1949, a Soviet-type constitution was adopted, ending all hope of reviving the monarchy.

The United States thereafter became involved in a succession of tense diplomatic disputes with Hungary over the secreted crown, which had been hidden in this country since American troops found it in a Hungarian salt mine in 1945. The Communist government demanded its return.

In 1951, during negotiations for the release of Robert A. Vogel, an American I.T.&T. official imprisoned by Hungary on spy charges, the Communists insisted on return of the crown, plus $70 million worth of Hungarian assets seized in this country during World War II.

The United States met all of the demands except one: The crown stayed in America, hidden as it is today at an unspecified location.

In 1956, the Communists accused the United States of transferring the crown to West Germany in preparation for a coup to install Prince Otto of Austria on the throne of Hungary. Finally, the New York Times reported on April 14, 1970, that the United States was willing to consider returning the crown to Hungary, a move still adamantly opposed by Catholics and Hungarian Nationalists the world over.

Rep. Scherle, who is of Hungarian descent and an honorary Hungarian Freedom Fighter, maintains that giving the Communists the crown would show "complete authenticity" that they were the rightful rulers of Hungary.

The crown also is a key to why Cardinal Mindszenty chose to live so long in exile. As Archbishop of Esztergom, Mindszenty could have become the interim regent of Hungary. If the Communists ever had lost power.

Women athletes famous

MADRID (UPI)—Ever heard of Frida Garbo, Claudia Gravy and Isabel Titulova?

Plenty of Madrilenos have. Especially those with a passion for soccer and girl watching.

The three young ladies—one a blond, the other brunette and the third a redhead—are among the stars of the first movie ever made about a girls' soccer team. The flick is packing them in at a downtown Madrid cinema.

Women's football is the latest craze in Spain.

First, there was bicycling. Then, soccer football took over as the number one spectator sport. Now, the senores have discovered girls' football which combines action with legs. Small wonder that bigtime sports promoters got into the act and organized a nationwide girls' soccer league which started playing off for championship honors this autumn.

So it was also natural that two Spanish movie writers, Pedro Maso and Antonio Vich, came up with the million-peas idea of putting it all on film and having some of Spain's prettier models in the ball game. They called the film "La Ibericas, F.C." after the fictional name of the team.

Liberals asked to remain

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., called on liberal Republicans Monday to remain in the party in the face of growing conservative influence as they could take part in the "great battle underway for the political soul of Richard Nixon."

Javits, a leading party liberal, Javits told the New York Metropolitan Republican Club that liberals must play the vital role of protagonists within the party even if they are not in the majority in the state and national levels.

"The majority middle-of-the-roads—the moderates—will have to choose among progressive and conservative alternatives in seeking solution to the nation's ills," he said.

"President Nixon, I am convinced, seeks to represent that moderate majority. And therein lies the vital role of the progressives in the Republican party."

"There is a great battle underway for the political soul of Richard Nixon."

Javits said, "I don't think that to be a liberal you have to leave the Republican party. In fact, one of the messages I hope to leave with you is the absolute necessity for the sake of the party and for the sake of the nation, that progressive Republicans remain loyal Republicans regardless of how tough may be the fight—and how discouraging may sometimes seem the prospects."

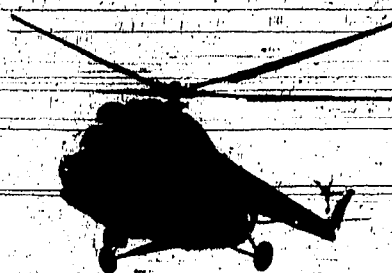

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City, a liberal by most accounts, recently resigned from the Republican party and became a Democrat. Other New York Republicans have complained that Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has turned toward the right in the face of increasing conservative strength which was evident in the election of New York Sen. Javits Monday on the Conservative party line in Nov., 1970.

American wins prize

Hubby needed to keep family intact

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—An 18-year-old girl advertised Monday for a "man-with-means and good character" to become her husband so she would be able to keep her family together.

The girl, identified only by a telephone number in the classified section of a newspaper, said her father was dead and her mother has been hospitalized for two months, forcing her to care for four sisters, ages two, four, 13 and 16.

She said an attorney advised her that, because she was under 21, marriage was the only way she could legally keep the family together.

A few hours after her story appeared, the girl said she had had "about 20 or 25 different calls and I have four or five that I have to meet. Actually, I've had more than that—I've had some crank calls, too."

She advertised she was looking for a "man with means and good character, no drunkards, for immediate marriage to a girl of 18, brown hair, brown eyes, 140 lbs., 5 feet, 7 inches, 38-28-36, nonsmoker and nondrinker."

Taft suggests labor law revamp

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hinting that a West Coast dock strike, crisis might force Congress to spend Christmas at the capitol, Sen. Robert A. Taft Jr., R-Ohio, Monday proposed a major revamping of labor law pioneered by his father nearly 25 years ago.

Taft, son of the chief author of the 1947 Taft-Hartley Act, urged that Congress revise the law immediately to give the government stronger tools to cope with major strikes, whether national or regional in scope.

He proposed his plan as an amendment to legislation that would extend President Nixon's emergency powers to control the economy. An hour of debate and a vote on the Taft amendment were scheduled for Tuesday.

Taft said the 90-day cooling-off period ordered by a federal judge in the West Coast dock dispute runs out Christmas day. If no contract settlement is reached by then, Longshoremen would be free to go back on strike unless Congress passed emergency legislation to keep them on the job while

Ceasefire sought

HONG KONG (UPI)—Communist China called for a ceasefire on the troubled India-Pakistan border and urged the two countries to begin "peaceful consultations," the official New China News Agency (NCNA) said Tuesday.

"We maintain that dispute between states should be settled by the two parties concerned through peaceful consultations and absolutely not by resorting to force," Li Hsien-Nien, China's ranking vice premier said in a Monday night speech.

Li spoke at a reception given by the Albanian ambassador in Peking in celebration of Albania's 27th national day.

He accused India of carrying out subversive activities and military provocations against East Pakistan "with the support and encouragement of the Soviet Union."

Li said it was "impermissible for a country, under any pretext, to employ large numbers of armed troops to willfully cross its own border and invade and occupy another country's territory," implying that this was what India had done.

There are at least 10 million victims of hay fever in the United States, says National Geographic.

negotiations continue. "If for one don't look forward to coming back to a special session to deal with this problem," Taft said in a brief floor speech explaining his plan. If enacted, his amendment would give the government these new options in dealing with major labor disputes. It could seek an additional 30-day cooling-off period through federal courts, require partial operation of the affected industry—such as handling of perishable fruits and vegetables in the dock dispute—or force a settlement by empowering a special panel to choose between the final offers of labor and management.

Documentary about Kennedy expanded

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A major NBC-TV documentary about the late President Kennedy and the Vietnam War has been expanded from one to two hours and will be seen as a two-part prime time presentation on successive nights, Dec. 21 and 22.

Formerly, the program was titled "The Death of Diem: An NBC News White Paper on John F. Kennedy and the Vietnam War." In a network announcement Monday, NBC News Chief Reuben Frank said: "To emphasize the point that we are not seeking to find villains and assess blame, if there is blame there is enough for everybody, the title was changed to 'An NBC News White Paper: Vietnam Insight.'"

In an earlier announcement, the network described the upcoming report as "television's first attempt to document the decision-making process that led to the nation's deepening involvement in the Vietnam War during the Kennedy administration." The broadcast, the announcement said, would cover the period from 1961 to 1963.

With the documentary expanded, the first part has been subtitled "How It Began," and will be seen at 8:30 p.m. EST on Tuesday, Dec. 21. The second part, presented the following night at 10 p.m. EST, is subtitled "The Death of Diem." Regarding the expansion, Frank said:

"As the material developed not only in volume but in scope, those of us who watched it come in were struck by its importance and powerful narrative thrust. New material was coming out about a time of unique significance in recent American history, and new insights about information eight, nine and 10 years old which was ignored or at least underestimated at the time."

He added: "Perhaps the most interesting insight which developed was that after President Diem and his brother died in the coup, Vietnam and all the related problems were in the forefront of American attention, but up until then such problems as Berlin, the Cuban missile crisis and even Laos were considered more important. So the country searches in its memory and experience for the 'lessons' of Vietnam."

In its previous announcement, NBC-TV offered a partial list of those who have been filmed for the broadcast. The list included Gen. Maxwell Taylor, military adviser to Kennedy and later Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Gen. Tet That Dinh, who commanded the Saigon area troops at the time of the Diem coup; and Rufus Phillips, who directed the strategic hamlets program in the delta area of Vietnam and ran U.S. aid missions.

Also, Frederick Nolting, ambassador to the Saigon government who was replaced in August, 1963 by Henry Cabot Lodge; George Ball, who, as acting secretary of state, sent the Aug. 24 cable to Ambassador Lodge concerning a coup,

Poor story

BOISE (UPI) — City police refused to buy a robbery story Monday and charged a sergeant with embezzlement and a friend of the employe with helping him.

Jerry Palmer told officers Sunday night that a wall of a storage room and then broke out to make it appear as if a holdup had occurred.

point and then locked him and a companion, David Haskell, in a storage cage.

Detective Capt. Jack Beery, however, alleged the two young men locked themselves in the storage room and then broke out to make it appear as if a holdup had occurred.

Wyoming student denied apartment

CHEYENNE (UPI) — A black University of Wyoming student says he was humiliated and angered after being denied an apartment in Laramie last spring.

Mel Hamilton, a member of the "Black 13" at the university, testified in U.S. District Court Monday in his lawsuit against the former operator of the Laramie apartment complex.

The former athlete, dismissed from Wyoming's football team with 13 black teammates in a 1969 protest, filed a civil rights housing suit against apartment owners Mr. and Mrs. Emery Miller.

Prior to U.S. District Judge Edwin Kerr taking the case under advisement, Hamilton testified the Millers told him last May they had no vacancies, although a white friend of his was told an apartment was available.

Miller, testifying in the afternoon session, denied the apartment was refused to Hamilton solely on account of race. He said "I've never had this thought at all."

The white student, Larry Clapp, testified he went to the Miller apartments after talking with Hamilton. Clapp is a UW law student and student senate executive assistant for housing.

Miller testified he had not reached a final agreement with Clapp about the apartment, and said he had another potential renter for the apartment.

Defense attorney John Stanfield said Hamilton did not show he was capable of renting the apartment—which cost $90 a month at a time he was earning about $350 monthly and was $1,000 in debt—and that he did not show refusal was based solely on race.

Stanfield also said no proof was offered that Hamilton suffered damages, although he seeks $2,250 damages.

"A black person has no greater or lesser rights than a white person," Stanfield said. "I can't force someone to rent to me. I didn't feel they had to take me as a tenant. He didn't go there with the intention of negotiating for an apartment. He went there with a cause ... he feels if people don't like him it is only because he's black and no other reason."

Hamilton's attorney, state Rep. David Hitchcock of Laramie, said Hamilton used standard sources for finding an available apartment. He said Hamilton was civil, polite and businesslike and did nothing to irritate the treatment he received.

"Testimony shows he was humiliated, angry and most upset," he said.

New agency won't solve problems

BOISE (UPI) — State Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, said Monday Idaho's potential and actual environmental problems will not be solved "by creating another state agency bureaucracy to study the problem."

Kidwell told the Boise Kiwanis Club ways must be found to encourage polluting industries to devote their talents to researching possible alternatives.

He said the Federal Environmental Protection Agency was well intentioned, but said after two years on the job the agency is still organizing itself.

"This well-intentioned spinning of the wheels will not prove to be the answer," Kidwell said.

Fire rages at biblical site of Moses and bush

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Fire raged today through St. Catherine's Monastery at the foot of Mt. Sinai near the site where the Bible says, God commanded Moses from a burning bush to receive the Ten Commandments.

"A big fire is raging in the monastery," Israeli military sources said. "We have no idea yet how it started or the extent of the damage."

The monastery is located 50 miles northwest of Sharm El Sheikh, the fortress guarding the entrance to the Straits of Tiran which Israel captured, along with the rest of Sinai, in the 1967 Middle East War.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and Israel's military commander, Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev, flew to the site by helicopter.

Military sources said army firefighting teams, aided by helicopters which flew in chemical firefighting equipment and water to the arid region, got the flames under control three hours after the fire broke out.

They said first reports from the monastery and its priceless collection of books, mosaics and icons was not severe.

St. Catherine's, built in 527 A.D., is believed one of the oldest monasteries still in use in the world. It was dedicated to an Egyptian Christian woman, martyred by the Romans in Alexandria in the 4th century.

Legend has it that angels carried her bones from Egypt to the foot of Mt. Sinai, atop which, the Bible says, God gave Moses the tablets of stone three hours after the fire broke out.

The Byzantine emperor, Justinian, erected the monastery in homage to her at the beginning of the 6th century, according to Greek and Arabic inscriptions carved above its entrance.

It is inhabited about one dozen Greek-Orthodox monks, who safeguard its priceless library and collection of icons. In recent months Israel opened a small airstrip near the monastery to make it more accessible to tourists.

Project would yield gas

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Equity Oil Co. said Monday success of the proposed Rio Blanco nuclear detonation project could yield 3.5 to 4.2 trillion cubic feet of recoverable natural gas.

Project Rio Blanco, which requires final government approval, proposes to stimulate the production of natural gas from low-permeability reservoirs by setting off three 30-kiloton nuclear devices simultaneously in the empty hole in Rio Blanco County, Colo. It is a joint undertaking of Equity Oil and CER Geonuclear Corp. of Las Vegas.

Fred H. Evans, president of Equity Oil, said natural gas underlying the 93,000 Rio Blanco tract is estimated at 10 to 12 trillion cubic feet of which about 35 per cent is recoverable through nuclear stimulation by low-radiation detonations. The estimate is based on 25 years production from a well-spacing pattern of one well per 40 acres.

The nuclear detonation, scheduled for next spring following government approval could lead to several dozen detonations spread over the next several years, Evans said.

THE NEW LANGES ARE HERE

When you spend as much time on research as we do, you're bound to learn things.

A ski flexes, for example, as it moves over uneven terrain.

With the old style sole, a boot stayed rigid against the ski. So what you had was a ski that flexed and a foot that didn't. Thus your body had to absorb the shock.

Now, after some minor surgery on our boots they take the shock for you. And allow your skis to flex with the terrain.

Thus, more edge on the snow. And better control.

We won't leave well enough alone.

home with the bacon. Why do we say that South's play of the king was correct? It worked this time, but wouldn't it have been better from a strictly mathematical standpoint to let the 10 ride?

The answer to this is that with unlimited entries to dummy the correct play is to let the 10 ride, but South did not have those unlimited entries. Hence South assumed that East would have gone up with the ace. He held ace-queen small and the play of his king would score for him—against the actual combination of cards or against a singleton queen in the West hand.

North's jump to three hearts was a trick, weak even for a limit raise by a passed hand. On the other hand, two hearts would be a "light" invitation and he did not feel like trying two clubs.

South's continuation to game was "conventional." He had a minimum hand but a good 5-4-3-1 distribution. No one had told him that his partner's strength was concentrated in the club suit.

West got off to the best possible lead for his side. South's ace of diamonds had to be used immediately.

He cashed dummy's top clubs to get one diamond discard and it was then up to him to attack trumps. He led the 10 from dummy. East played low and South made the correct play of the king. When it held a second trump brought down the ace and queen together and while South still had to lose a spade and a diamond he was

He Fishes With A Toy Balloon

Master, I marvel how the fishes live in the sea. Why, at men do b-land: The great ones eat up the little ones."

First, he catches one little old salt water trout, this fisherman. Say he's on a Gulf Coast bay near Corpus Christi through the base of the top fin of said fish he pushes a small hook attached to a few feet of leader on the end of which is an inflated toy balloon. Then he turns the fish loose in the water. And proceeds thereafter to cast his line under the bobbing scrambling balloon. Either the caught fish swim to the other fish or they swim to it. One. This fisherman's name is K. E. Strange of Waco, Texas. Last time he employed this trick, he reports, he caught 27 fish in a matter of minutes.

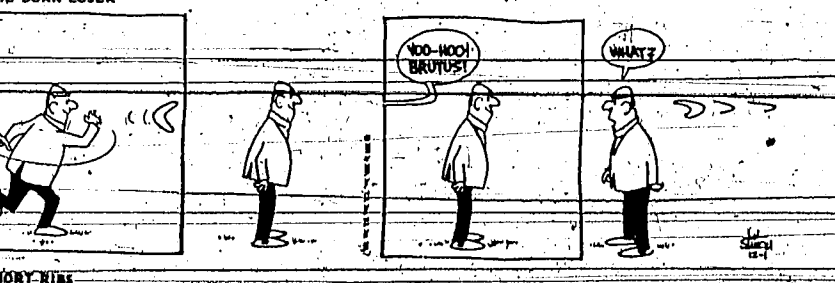

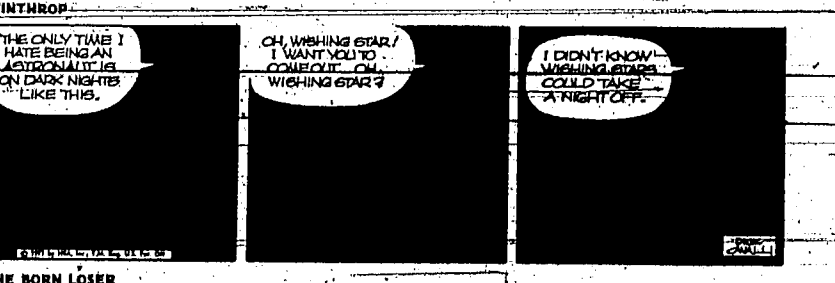

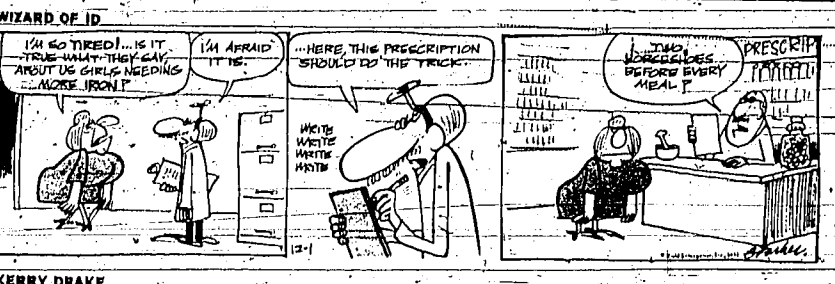

Does so for his money is a rarity. Two other motives are more apt to prompt these girls to commit such indiscretions. Jealousy is one. Infatuation with a different man is the other. Of course a criminologist who has made a study of wives who have deserted their matrimonial mates.

RETIREMENT
Mister, at what age would you prefer to retire? The surveyors say 50 men out of every 100 would like to retire between the ages of 58 and 62. Just about two out of 100 want to retire under the age of 48. Nearly six out of 100 want to retire until after the age of 73.

IF YOU BUY—is a can, better look at the label. Ingredients are supposed to be listed in descending order—according to their weight—in other words, if the spuds are listed before the beans, you're going to wind up with more potatoes than meat.

AM ASKED how many drivers it actually took back in the cattle drive years to push one of those herds of 3,000 head from Texas to Kansas. Maybe 50 men could do it. The TV westerns aren't so outlandish, at that. When 50 thirsty men hit a town, they could mess it up to a fare-the-well.
