War erupts

India wages war against Pakistan

By United Press International
India's armed forces struck at Pakistan by land, sea and air Saturday in an all-out undeclared war, claiming the capture of seven towns in East Pakistan, the destruction of 33 Pakistani warplanes and setting up an air and naval blockade. The U.N. Security Council was called into session to seek a cease-fire.

All India radio said the town of Jamalpur in the Mymensingh district of East Pakistan fell last Saturday and that all 160 Pakistani troops in the town surrendered to the Indian force. Indian Defense Minister Jagjivan Ram earlier had reported the capture of six other towns in East Pakistan Saturday.

Berlin access agreed

BERLIN (UPI) — Refugees from East Germany will get the right to travel overland to West Berlin in the East-West German traffic agreement now nearing completion, West German sources said today.

Jet 'grabs plane, drops it over field

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — An Eastern Airlines DC-9 jet and a small private airplane collided in the air near the Raleigh Durham Airport Saturday, sending the smaller plane into a fiery crash that killed its two occupants.

China supports Pakistan

HONG KONG (UPI) — Communist China Saturday accused the Soviet Union of encouraging India's "armed aggression" against Pakistan and pledged "resolute support" for the Pakistani government and people, the New China News Agency (NCNA) reported.

Cambodian troops reel before Reds

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist troops launched fresh attacks on the shattered remnants of a Cambodian force struggling to regroup north of here Saturday and South Vietnamese units began another new drive into the country, military spokesmen said.

Spokesmen in Saigon said the 2,500-man drive began Wednesday and supplements a 35,000-man offensive which started late last month.

Koreans depart

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI) — The Republic of Korea (ROK) began withdrawing its troops from Vietnam Saturday, shipping out 1,200 Marines of the elite "Blue Dragon" Brigade, the first ROK combat unit to arrive in the war zone six years ago.

South Vietnamese Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of Military Region 1, said his troops were "ready" to assume the role being turned over to them by the departing ROK marines.

Bill OK'd to guard wild horses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House and Senate have agreed to a compromise bill to protect thousands of wild horses that still roam the West and sent it to President Nixon for his signature.

Russ vetoes ceasefire try

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Soviet Union vetoed early Sunday in the U.N. Security Council a U.S. resolution calling for a cease-fire and bilateral troop withdrawal along the war-torn India-Pakistan borders.

The Soviets offered in its place a resolution calling for a "political settlement" in rebellious East Pakistan and urging the Pakistan government to cease "all acts of violence by Pakistani forces in East Pakistan which have led to deterioration of the situation."

Soviet Ambassador Yakov A. Malik, solidly backing India, said he opposed the U.S. resolution because it placed India and Pakistan on the same level.

The vote on the U.S. resolution was 11-2 with two abstentions. Poland joined the Soviet Union in voting against the measure and France and Syria abstained.

Indian Ambassador Samar Sen told the Council India would not accept any solution that would continue the suppression of the people of East Pakistan.

"Seventy-five million people cannot be crushed," Sen said, in reference to the people of East Pakistan.

The U.S. cease-fire resolution, proposed at an emergency session of the council, called for U.N. observers to be stationed along the India-Pakistan frontier after the cease-fire.

"It is time that both countries accept an immediate cease-fire and agree on immediate steps to withdraw their forces from foreign territory," said Bush.

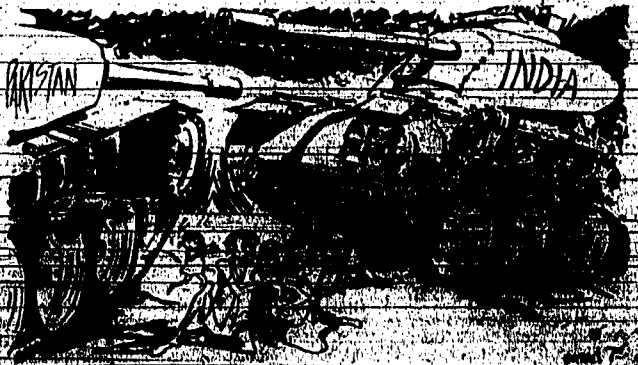

"The time is past when any of us could justifiably expect to see a being about change in a neighboring country that might better suit our national interests as we see them."

The U.S. resolution urged India and Pakistan to accept Secretary General Thant's offer to help in trying to "secure and maintain peace on the subcontinent" and asked all nations to refrain from action that might endanger peace on the subcontinent.

Bush spoke after Pakistan Ambassador Agha Shahi called on the Security Council to make India "desist from its war of aggression" and vowed it would never capitulate to the Indians.

India responded that it would not accept any solution that would "continue the suppression of the people" of East Pakistan where the civil strife led to the outbreak of hostilities between the neighboring Hindu and Moslem nations.

'Tidal waves, starvation, disease... Is there no end?'

Shahi accused India of interference in Pakistan's internal affairs by supporting the Bangla Desh (Bangal Land) independence movement in East Pakistan.

Young GOP board assails Andrus in Court dispute

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Young Republican League executive committee adopted two resolutions criticizing Gov. Cecil D. Andrus during a board meeting Saturday in Twin Falls.

Republican candidates for the U. S. Senate met with the executive committee to discuss their campaigns, including former Gov. Robert E. Smylie, George Hanson, a former U. S. Congressman; Dr. Glen Wegner, a Kendrick physician who resigned a White House post to campaign; F. W. (Bill) Bergeson, Pocatello, and Rep. James McClure, who was represented by an aide.

Kimber Ricks, Rexburg, president of the Young Republican League, said following the day-long session that "We had a good session with the candidates. I believe we will win in the primary and in November with a unified party."

The resolutions adopted by the executive board criticized Andrus for indicating that the selection of four candidates for the Idaho Supreme Court by the Judicial Council was political in nature.

"We feel the Council doing its duty to recommend qualified people regardless of their politics," Ricks said. "The Council was created to take politics out of the business (of selecting court nominees) and now the Governor is trying to put the politics back in."

Gov. Andrus had taken issue with the selection of four candidates, only one being a Democrat and only two, both Republicans, from No. 10 then Idaho.

The board also adopted an "extensive" report, which will be released in detail later this week, analyzing the executive reorganization program as advocated by Andrus. Ricks said the report is "critical" of the governor for his approach to the problem, and disagrees with Andrus on the need for a state constitutional amendment to allow the reorganization.

"We believe in efficient and effective government," Ricks said, "but we feel Andrus is injecting politics into the proposal. We feel also he is trying to work on an emotional approach. The constitutional amendment is unnecessary."

"Gov. Andrus needs to take more executive action. There is much that can be done by executive action and by the legislature. We feel the legislative leadership will make progress."

Ricks added, speaking for the board, "We do not believe in reorganization just for the sake of reorganization. This is not necessary or advisable."

In discussing their campaigns with the committee members, the candidates all expressed optimism both for themselves and for their party.

Times-News, they expressed equal optimism. Hansen, who resigned a high-level post with the government is seeking the seat being vacated by Sen. Len B. Jordan, said he has county backers working for his candidacy in all Idaho counties, and feels his campaign is well under way.

The Idaho economy will be a major campaign issue, all candidates agreed.

Smylie declined comment on a report that he and McClure would have first chance at campaign funds raised by the state Republican Party.

Dr. Wegner, though relatively unknown in the southern reaches of the state, said he will conduct an intensive "people-to-people" campaign throughout the state. The Senate provides a valuable forum for public service, he said; even more valuable than his present position as deputy counsel to President Richard Nixon, which he is in the process of leaving in order to campaign.

"This is a very modern and technically complex world we live in today," Dr. Wegner said, "and I think it requires a multitude of backgrounds to do the job such as the one we are going for. We are very anxious to talk with the people and find out how we can work together to solve Idaho's problems with Idaho people."

Dr. Wegner is both a trained physician and an attorney, completing the requisite training in both fields before joining the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare as deputy assistant secretary for legislation on a Nixon appointment.

In this position, he was in charge of all legislation for the department in health matters.

He then joined the White House staff as deputy counsel to Cixon, covering jurisdiction as broad as that of the Presidency.

Jim Goller, speaking for Rep. James McClure, said the Congressman was attending a mining conference in Spokane on Saturday and could not attend. Goller said McClure has his campaign organization well under way, and is confident of victory.

Goller pointed out that McClure has attracted large votes in his district, including 62 percent or larger margins in Ada County, and a majority in Shoshone County, notably a Democratic stronghold. McClure also drew more votes than President Nixon in the 1970 general elections, Goller said.

E.F. Holmquist

TWIN FALLS — Emmett F. Holmquist, 59, 1420 Seventh Ave. E., died of a long illness Friday night at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

He was born Dec. 2, 1912, in Hughson, Calif., and came to Twin Falls from Turlock, Calif., in 1950.

He was a member of the First Christian Church of Twin Falls and the official board of the church, and served several years as Sunday school treasurer. He was a veteran of World War II, serving in the U.S. Army.

On July 30, 1955, he married Fern Sudderth in Twin Falls. Surviving, besides his widow, are his step-mother, Mrs. Beattie Holmquist, Turlock, Calif.; two brothers, Ray Holmquist, Silver City, N.M., and Glenn Holmquist, Modesto, Calif. and four sisters, Mrs. Erma Underwood, Midland, Tex.; Mrs. Grace Rexin, Hughson, Calif.; Mrs. Agnes Harkness, Carmichael, Calif., and Mrs. Ines Lindbeck, Denair, Calif.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at Reynolds Funeral Chapel by Rev. Raymond B. Jones of the First Christian Church. Final rites will follow at Sunset Memorial Park.

Friends may call at the chapel Monday and until time of services Tuesday.

H.H. Powers

BURLEY — Harrison Henry Powers, 84, lifelong resident of Cassia County, died Thursday at Cassia Memorial Hospital.

He was born Oct. 2, 1887, at Sublett, attended Sublett schools and the Albion normal school and the Boise Business College.

On Nov. 25, 1916, he married Rocha Hall at Albion. She preceded him in death on March 21, 1933, and on April 25, 1937, he married Alice McGraw at Malta.

Mr. Powers ranched in the Sublett area until 1952, when he retired and moved to Burley. He was still active in ranching operations with his son.

He was a member of the Burley Christian Church, a charter member of the Raft River Grange, belonged to the Burley Masonic Lodge and the Idaho Cattlemen's Association. He served for many years as a director for the Raft River Highway District, and served several years as a trustee for the Sublett School District.

Survivors include his wife, Burley; six sons, Ellis Powers, Glen Powers, and Cecil Powers, all Burley; Harrison Powers Jr., Sparks, Nev.; Gordon Powers, Washington, D.C., and Ernest Powers, Reno, Nev.; one sister, Mrs. Margaret Roberts, Gooding; 16 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Monday at the Burley Christian Church by Rev. Warren Seehler. Final rites will follow at the Pleasant View Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Payne Mortuary this afternoon and evening, and on Monday until time of services.

V.E. Gresham

TWIN FALLS — Vernon E. Gresham, 63, Reno, Nev., a former Twin Falls resident, died of a short illness Saturday morning at his home.

He was born May 6, 1903, at Topeka, Kan., coming to Twin Falls from Kansas, and later moving to Pocatello. He had lived in Reno for about 35 years where he was assistant Postmaster until retiring three years ago.

Surviving, besides his widow, Cleo, are three sons, one daughter and several grandchildren; two cousins, Mrs. Charles (Louella) Peterson, and Mrs. J.A. (Jewel) Vonius, both Twin Falls, and an uncle, John Lundin, Twin Falls. A daughter, a sister and his parents preceded him in death.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday in Reno.

Good hunting

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Much of the credit for a good hunting season this year goes to Michigan farmers who during the last year turned about 65,000 acres of their land into wildlife habitat, reports B. Dale Ball, director of the Michigan Agriculture Department.

Max Brimhall

WENDELL — Max Dale Brimhall, 25, son of former Magic Valley residents Mr. and Mrs. Keith M. Brimhall, was killed in a traffic accident near Clearfield, Utah, while returning home after a night shift with the Davis County Sheriff's Office.

He was born Sept. 2, 1946, at Wendell, and attended schools at Murtaugh, Hazelton, and Preston and graduated from Layton, Utah, High School. He attended Weber College, filled an LDS mission to Hawaii and served in the Marine Reserves.

Mr. Brimhall had served as sports director and Explorer Scout leader for the LDS Church for several years in Utah.

He married Colleen Cherrington, Preston, in March, 1970, in the Salt Lake City LDS Temple.

Survivors include his wife, Clearfield, Utah; a son, Benjamin—Max Brimhall, Clearfield; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. N. Brimhall, two sisters, Mrs. Louise Benson, Kearns, Utah, and Mrs. Ann Hansen, Walnut, Calif.; and three brothers, Keith and Rex Brimhall, Layton, Utah, and Pat Ingram, Kayville, Utah.

Funeral services were conducted last week in Clearfield, Utah.

Funeral Services

TWIN FALLS — Funeral services for Gilbert L. (Girt) Winsor will be conducted at 10 p.m. Monday at White Mortuary by Bishop Earl Sorenson. Final rites will follow in Twin Falls Cemetery. Friends may call at White Mortuary today and Monday and until 12:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Federal deficit seen

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon, nursing a cold, worked today on a federal budget which will show a whopping deficit for the third straight year unless there is a dramatic improvement in the economy.

The President, his voice hoarse, was spending the weekend at his villa on Biscayne Bay, going over the spending program he will send to Congress early next year.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the administration is committed to bold spending to blow the sum the present tax system would raise if the economy were at full employment.

For the upcoming fiscal year, full employment revenues will be about $250 billion, Nixon is aiming for a budget of about that amount. It will be a record as usual.

Unless the economy picks up sharply in the new year, however, actual revenues will be far below the full employment mark, plunging the budget once again into red ink. The budget for the fiscal year that ended last June 30 showed a deficit of $23.2 billion.

Defaults costly

DETROIT (UPI) — The vacant and boarded-up homes in rapidly deteriorating sections of Detroit could result in a loss of $200 million to the federal government and foreshadow the fate of other big U.S. cities.

"I'm scared to death by that vacant place next door," a 57-year-old resident of the near east side told two congressmen and an entourage of federal officials visiting her neighborhood.

"It doesn't do much good to keep my property if the risks keep coming over here from that empty house," said Mrs. Mary Hicks. "It's been a hangout for hoodlums and a bro there could destroy my house, too."

That house was one of more than 5,000 homes in Detroit owned by the federal government as a result of defaults on government-insured Federal Housing Administration (FHA) mortgages.

Thursday a House subcommittee heard testimony from the assistant director of the General Accounting Office who said foreclosures in Detroit could reach 23,000. The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) already owns 5,297 homes in Detroit.

If HUD receives and eventually disposes of all the property in default on HUD-insured mortgages, it faces a loss of $200 million in Detroit alone, Baltas E. Birke told the subcommittee. The problem is repeating itself in many other big cities, where HUD is insuring single-family homes in older, declining areas, he said.

Birke said one of HUD's problems was the lack of counseling of prospective homeowners in the lower class neighborhoods where HUD programs hope to give the poor a chance to own their own homes. But many of the poor have no conception of utility costs, insurance, taxes and upkeep.

Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Cooper have been called to Caldwell by the death of his father, Don Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. Mount Wernicke have returned home after being called to Ogden, Utah, by the death of her mother, Mrs. Jane Wall. Mrs. Wall spent two months prior to her death with the Wernicke family in Shoshone.

Approach bargains with wary eye in shopping

NEW YORK (UPI)—Trying to stretch the Christmas shopping dollars, you look for bargains.

Some bargains you'd better approach with a wary eye or you'll wind up being gypped, cautions the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan New York.

In the spirit of 'tis the season to be wary, the bureau suggested watching out for the following:

—Sidewalk sales. Sidewalk vendors won't be around after Christmas day to make exchanges or refunds.

—Sidewalk gypps. Beware of phony pearls, counterfeit watches, fake cashmere sweaters (usually brushed rayon) and phony whistling animal toys (dishonest salesmen are known to carry whistles around in their mouths). The major phony gypp: phony perfumes. Cheap scents are bottled under names bearing remarkable resemblance to those of leading brands. Most have pre-labeled price tags which are then "reduced" to give you the impression you're getting a whole of a bargain.

Solicitations. Ask to see the license of a collector, especially that of a person rattling a tin can for the cause of "needy children." Reserve your donations for the legitimate charities that need them.

Unknown deliveries. Don't accept unknown C.O.D.s for an absent neighbor. Tell the messenger to return when the person is home. You could be paying for an empty box.

Comparative price claims on Christmas merchandise. A Christmas tree selling "regularly" for $19 and reduced to $15 early in the season is suspect. Because of the seasonal nature of the merchandise, a claim of a former price is absurd.

—Wholesale prices. Don't believe retailers who claim they're selling at wholesale prices.

—Low-cost watches. Check the guarantee. It's to your advantage to buy a watch guaranteed by the manufacturer or the seller, rather than an independent repair service.

The Bureau says some Christmas shopping problems stem from the fact that a consumer is a soft touch. Knowing there are such people, especially easy to buffalo in this season, a legendary little old lady made out last Christmas. She went around town selling small handbags that she said she had made herself. The little old lady told prospective buyers she had spent hours and hours working at her loom making the bag and then more hours attaching the delicate beadwork. It was a plausible story. And who in the world can turn down a little old lady when the hand-made bag was priced at just $10?

Well, some of the people who couldn't turn her down saw blue, red, green, purple and several shades of orange when they spied the identical bag, selling in local stores for $31.

Unordered merchandise is delivered at homes with greater frequency during the Yule season, according to the Bureau. Whether sent to raise funds for some unfamiliar cause or as a frankly commercial venture, it remains an objectionable practice that creates no obligation on the part of the recipient, the Bureau says. New York and a number of other states now have laws which declare unordered merchandise to be an unconditional gift to the recipient. In other states, the recipient is under no obligation to acknowledge receipt, pay for the merchandise, or return it unless the sender calls for it within a "reasonable" time.

To avoid being gypped, the Bureau suggests shoppers deal with sellers of known reliability. When dealing with unknown firms check with your local Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce. Other tips:

—Examine all purchases before Christmas. Return defective merchandise.

—Before buying, check into whether the sale is final or if the purchase can be exchanged. If a guarantee is involved, get it in writing.

"Most merchants," the Bureau said, "are honest and are not to be confused with the small percentage practicing deceptive selling methods."

"If a bargain looks too good to be true, check it out. Don't be rushed into buying anything by high-pressure salesmen. Take your time and make up your mind carefully."

And a wary Christmas shopping spree to all!

Martian crater

70-MILE-DIAMETER Martian crater was photographed by Mariner 9 and released by the Jet Propulsion Laboratory. The crater and its immediate surroundings are high ground, emerging island-like from a sea of wind-blown dust. (UPI)

Earth-Mars alike

Martian craters revealed

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Three large Martian craters photographed by Mariner 9 are ringed by broken ridges which scientists suggest may be the strongest clue that Mars underwent the same volcanic pangs as primordial earth.

One member of the scientific team analyzing the satellite's television pictures hinted Friday that such Martian volcanic activity — past or present — might produce an atmosphere chemically related to earth's billions of years ago.

The Mars-volcano hypothesis was amplified at a news conference Friday by Dr. Harold Masursky, a scientist with the U.S. Geological Survey and a member of the photo analysis team.

Dr. Masursky said three areas televised by Mariner 9 through the haze of the Martian dust storm resembled earth's landscape eons ago, but other project scientists politely scoffed or expressed disbelief.

Flier returns home

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pilot Elgen M. Long says he is happy to have accomplished his 20-year dream of flying to the four corners of the world, but the best part of the trip was coming home again.

"This is the highlight," the 44-year-old flier said Friday afternoon after landing his twin-engine craft in a drenching rain at San Francisco International Airport on the last leg of his trip from Honolulu.

"I've completed my dream," Long told a crowd of about 200 persons who greeted him. "I've done just about everything I wanted to do. It's been very worth while."

Long set eight records on his month-long flight, including the first solo flight over the north and south poles and their east and west equivalents on the equator—the four corners of the world.

The gray-haired Flying Tiger, "Always pilot" said the flight was "wonderful," but he added, "I am very tired — it was more grueling than I thought it would be."

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Sunday, Dec. 5, the 339th day of 1971.

The moon is between its new phase and last quarter.

There are no morning stars. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.

American movie maker Walt Disney was born Dec. 5, 1901. On this day in history:

In 1776 the first scholastic fraternity in America, Phi Beta Kappa, was organized at William & Mary College in Virginia.

In 1948 President James Polk confirmed the discovery of gold in California. It led to the famed "Gold Rush" of 1849 and 1850.

In 1933 Prohibition was abolished when Utah became the 30th state to ratify the 21st Amendment.

In 1903 Herbert Lehman, former New York governor and senator, died.

A thought for today: British satirist Jonathan Swift said, "Satire is a sort of class, wherein beholders generally discover everybody's face but their own."

Airman claims starvation used to force his haircut

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. Air Force has been trying to starve a young airman into getting a haircut, his lawyer said today.

The airman, Ned Posey, 29, of Lead, S.D., has been on short rations for more than a month, his lawyer, Edward M. Kopansky, said. He added that Posey is prepared to risk a six-month jail sentence rather than let a barber shear off his collar-length locks.

Posey, however, did not appear to be undernourished. He said his buddies have been smuggling him food.

Posey said his troubles began about the middle of September when the commander of Cam Ranh Bay Air Base, Col. Paul Fitzpatrick, issued a set of formal appearance regulations. Posey said he decided to defy the regulations because he believed they interfered with his personal rights without any justification of military necessity. So he let his hair grow long.

About the middle of October, Posey's commanding officer, Maj. Douglas Eastwood, called him in and ordered him to get his hair trimmed. When Posey refused, Eastwood busted him from sergeant to airman first class and sent him to a psychiatrist.

The psychiatrist recommended that Posey, who had already served 3½ years out of a four-year enlistment and had not been in trouble before, be given an administrative discharge. But Col. Roger Newbold, commander of the 43rd Tactical Air Wing, vetoed the discharge papers and issued orders that Posey should be given another chance to get a haircut.

When Posey refused again, Newbold issued orders barring him from every public facility on the base, including all mess halls, service clubs, base exchanges and anywhere else he could get anything to eat, Posey and Kopansky said.

Clinic scheduled

JEROME — The First Security Bank is sponsoring a special merchant and employee clinic dealing with bad checks, shoplifting and counterfeiting at 8 p.m. Monday in the junior high auditorium.

Ken Newman, vice president and manager of the First Security Bank in Twin Falls, was a guest at the Merchant's Bureau meeting this week and discussed plans for the program.

Newman said that the purpose of the seminar is to help reduce and minimize hazards to merchants during peak Christmas business.

A similar clinic was held recently in Twin Falls.

Jerome Salvation Army begins winter program

JEROME — Mike Sullivan, treasurer of the Jerome Salvation Army Service Unit, announced the start of the army's traditional "Share with Others" Christmas and Winter Relief Program.

Sullivan said a Christmas letter will be mailed this week to all Magic Valley residents asking for their support in the drive.

Last year, the Salvation Army, Oregon and Southern Idaho Division, wished over 42,000 persons a "Merry Christmas" in a very meaningful and tangible way by providing groceries for a home cooked holiday dinner, new shoes and clothing for youngsters, sunshine gifts to shut-ins in real homes and hospitals and to those in prisons.

This monumental "Sharing with Others" is possible only through financial support of those who want to join with the Salvation Army in remembering the elderly, the lonely, the ill and those beset by financial problems or sudden disaster, Sullivan said.

Andrus asks big school fund

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus called Saturday for greater state funding of public schools and said he will ask the legislature to include kindergarten monies in the school finance bill.

Andrus told a delegate assembly of the Idaho Education Association that the people of Idaho have demonstrated clearly their support for education financing that he personally gives the state's highest priority.

But he said the property tax no longer can stand the strain being placed upon it by demands not only from the schools but other services performed by various units of government.

For that reason, he said, more of the funding for education must come from the state level. "The IEA is not out of line in asking for a substantial increase for education," the governor said.

Then he said his budget request to the legislature will include funding for kindergartens in the same bill as financing of public schools through the first 12 grades.

Andrus also called attention to pending litigation over heavy reliance on the property tax in financing of public school education in Idaho.

This, he said, is another reason why the state must take over a larger role in educational finance. Byron Johnson, Boise, chairman of the Legislative Committee for the Task Force on Education, told the delegates assembly his group's No. 1 priority is reorganization of school districts.

He said the task force recognizes the funding problems of education but he feels it is time the state comes to grips with the "hot potato" of school district reorganization.

To date, he said, this problem has been "too hot" for the legislature to touch, too hot for local education groups to touch and too hot for the state board of education to touch.

Therefore, he said, the task force hopes to lead the way by calling for a 12-member commission to establish a tentative statewide plan.

Johnson said the task force also proposes the State Department of Education be established by law, noting it is now operated on an ad hoc basis.

He said the task force also believes Idaho must have state supported kindergartens but recommends they be set up on a voluntary basis, and that approximately $3 million be appropriated for that purpose for the next fiscal year.

Other goals of the task force include non-partisan election of the state superintendent of public instruction and merging of academic and vocational education programs in the public schools. State Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, told the delegates assembly he believes the kindergarten program may be put into a state system in 1972 but on a voluntary basis. Barker, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, said he opposes 100 per cent state support of kindergartens and feels instead they should be put into the school foundation program.

Court Britons search nominees Irish weaponry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration forces predicted Saturday that President Nixon's two latest conservative choices for the Supreme Court would breeze through the Senate, Lewis F. Powell Jr. winning confirmation unanimously and William H. Rehnquist by a 3-1 margin.

The forecasts came from Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott as the Senate opened debate on the uncontested Powell nomination, which was set for a vote at 4 p.m. EST Monday.

Scott told reporters that "not a single senator" was likely to vote against Powell, a 64-year-old Richmond, Va., lawyer nominated to succeed the late Justice Hugo L. Black.

He predicted easy passage for Rehnquist, whom liberals are challenging for his views on individual freedoms and civil rights.

"Their numbers are few; their energy is considerable," Scott said of Rehnquist's foes. "I suppose they'll talk two or three days, to see if they can get any recruits..."

"Then we'll settle down and vote on Mr. Rehnquist, who will receive in excess of 73 votes."

Confirmation requires a simple majority, or 51 votes if all 100 senators are present and voting.

Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, the GOP national chairman, predicted in a speech in Memphis, Tenn., that Rehnquist would be confirmed despite "inconsequential, irrelevant and trumped-up charges" by Senate liberal Democrats.

BEIRFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A major search for arms in the Irish Republic Saturday could produce a significant slowdown in Ulster violence over the Christmas holidays, military sources said.

"If they pick up a lot of stuff, the IRA (Irish Republic Army) will definitely start feeling it around Christmas time," one source said.

The republic launched the sweep — its biggest search for arms in 14 years — at dawn with police swooping down on hundreds of private homes, farms and businesses in border counties and offshore islands.

A government spokesman said the search concentrated in Cavan, Monaghan and Lough counties, but no finds were yet reported.

He described it as the biggest arms quest conducted in the northeastern region of the country since 1967 and said the homes of many suspected members of the IRA were included in the operation.

The sweep coincided with a rash of four new border incidents during the afternoon, a British army spokesman said.

In three of the incidents, he said British troops swapped gunfire with hidden gunmen after they were shot at from across the border, but there were no apparent casualties.

The fourth saw troops dispersing a crowd of about 60 persons with teargas when they were spotted trying to fill the craters on a border road disabled by the army to prevent arms smuggling.

In Belfast gunmen fired eight bullets into an automobile, smashing the front and rear windows, and wounded a woman walking down the street, police said.

Watch hidden costs, panel warned

BOISE (UPI) — A spokesman for Idaho retailers urged a legislative interim committee today to consider possible "hidden overhead costs" before creating central purchasing for all levels of government.

Jim Brennan, Boise, said his association has no objection in principle to a plan which would save taxpayers money through central purchasing.

But he said it would oppose government competition with private enterprise or establishment of a system that in the long run could cost the state government more money to operate.

Under consideration of an interim committee on local government is a plan whereby the state would purchase in bulk a number of items used by other subdivisions of government and sell them to those units at cost.

The idea is to save local governments money through such purchasing methods.

Brennan expressed concern that while the state might be saving local units of government some money it might be spending more itself on warehousing and other overhead costs normally borne by most retailers.

He also expressed doubt that government could operate more efficiently than private enterprise.

Brennan urged the committee to take all of these factors into consideration before putting forth any legislation in the central purchasing direction.

"If retailers really got excited," he said, "they could bug you in the future."

Meanwhile, spokesmen for the Boise City Council and the Ada County Highway District said they could "live with" proposed statutory changes to bring about more coordination between them.

However, Chairman Leon Fairbanks of the road district urged the committee to consider changing the bonding law affecting highway districts.

Dick Erdley, a Boise City Councilman, said the city believed the coordination bill was the best compromise the two units of government could achieve at present to make the new road district work.

He urged the committee to approve it and secure early action from the legislature when it convenes in January.

State Sen. Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, however, indicated he did not believe action should be hasty. He said he felt in his county estimate the costs could run up as high as $200,000 or more next year.

Later, Don Adams, Coeur d'Alene, a Kootenai County commissioner, asked the committee to do something to relieve counties of the financial burdens imposed under the new criminal code. He said judges and others in his county estimate the costs could run up as high as $200,000 or more next year.

Gem education board adopts conflict rule

BOISE (UPI) — The State Board of Education adopted today a general policy statement regarding possible conflict-of-interest between University of Idaho employees and businesses.

Later it was announced the conflict of interest policy would be a general one for all the institutions of higher education, although the statement may be revised at a later date.

Dr. Donald Kline, director of the Office of Higher Education, told the board there was "some urgency" in passage of the resolution, but when asked to explain his statement to the news media replied "No, I'm sorry, I can't."

Dr. Serman Carter, financial vice president of the University of Idaho, said the policy statement is generally meant to avoid any conflict between personal interests of university staff members and the interests of the university in dealing with suppliers, customers or other organizations seeking to do business with the school.

The statement would make it a conflict of interest for any employee to serve as an officer or director of another company if that company is seeking to do business with the school.

Exceptions may be made with permission of the president of the institution or the State Board of Education.

News media representatives questioned whether a part of the statement regarding release of information would, when considered broadly, eliminate news sources.

But Carter said he felt the policy statement is specific enough to deal only with business relationships.

Earlier, in a session with the Office of Higher Education, the board decided to reduce the credit hour load for student body officers. Student body presidents with three semester hours and vice presidents and senators with six semester hours will be considered full-time students when paying full-time student fees.

The Board of Education also adopted a form affidavit of common law marriage which will be included in the board policy manual.

The board agreed that students who object to physical examinations because of religious tenets will be excused from completing a physical examination form as has been required.

Russian territory opens up

MOSCOW (UPI) — Western businessmen Friday roamed a vast new sales territory—the Soviet Union — and pursued potential deals on items ranging from cosmetics to machinery.

A total of 108 executives from 70 western firms completed five days of conferences with Soviet economic managers Thursday.

Spokesmen said many headed out on business trips, convinced the Soviets want action now.

"Lots of them are doing business right now," said Orville Freeman, the former U.S. agriculture secretary who now runs the counseling firm that arranged the economic conferences.

"It was expressed again and again by the Soviet leaders (during the talks) that they are ready, willing and anxious to do business with the western world," Freeman told a news conference.

"... A lot of these executives came here to find out if there was a possibility of doing business with the Soviet Union and whether they should take it seriously," he added.

The executives represented such firms as Pepsi Cola, Wausonhouse, Quaker Oats, IBM, Borg-Warner and Otis Elevator. Freeman said many of the businessmen were scattered over the Soviet Union inspecting plants and talking specifics with their Soviet opposite numbers.

"We anticipate a lot more business," he said, although he added the start might be slow and unpredictable.

Freeman and other spokesmen for Business International, the counseling firm that arranged the "round-table talks," said the Soviets showed sharp interest in deals involving U.S. consumer goods as well as industrial trade and investment.

"One area of consumer goods that was discussed at considerable length was toiletries and cosmetics and women's ... I don't know how you describe it," Freeman said.

Singer tops pageant

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—Mary Colleen Fitzpatrick of Lancaster, Ohio, took a giant step toward her wish to be a professional singer Friday night with selection as Miss Teen-Age America of 1972.

Miss Fitzpatrick, 16, a 5-7, blue-eyed brunette, was selected during the nationally televised pageant at the Tarrant County convention center.

First runner-up was Mary Ann Grabavoy, 17, of Joliet, Ill. The next finalists in order were Valerie Renee Brewster, 17, of Memphis, Tenn., and Barbara Joy Mills of Dallas.

Miss Teen-Age America of 1971, Rowa Walsh of Anaheim, Calif., presented Miss Fitzpatrick with a bouquet of flowers and a medallion. For more substantial rewards, Miss Fitzpatrick will receive a $10,000 four-year scholarship to the college of her choice, 50 shares of stock in two sponsoring companies and a guarantee of $5,000 to be made in personal appearances next year.

Miss Fitzpatrick sang "Wouldn't It Be Lovely" from the musical "My Fair Lady" for her talent segment. She said her ambition is to be an actress and singer.

Feelings revealed

House speaker hits Phase II

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House Speaker Carl Albert, stepping up Democratic attacks on President Nixon's economic policies, charged Saturday the administration program is isolationist and loaded in favor of business.

The Oklahoma Democrat said Nixon waited too long to put into effect wage and price controls, despite the fact he was given the authority by Congress early in 1971.

"I think the President has a certain inferiority complex about what he is going to do," Albert said. "He talks awfully big and then reverses himself."

Earlier in the year Nixon said he would not use the authority. Albert made his remarks on the television public affairs program "Ask Congress," which is hosted by Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., and distributed independently to television stations around the country. Albert said the Nixon economic program discriminated against working people to the benefit of business and through its foreign trade provisions threatened to isolate the United States.

Albert also faulted administration policies for failing to match government efforts at dampening inflation with corresponding steps to bring down unemployment.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in a speech Friday night to the National Association of Manufacturers in New York defended administration policies, describing the Democrats as "ritual doomsayers," and asserting the economy is beginning to boom.

Agnew said real output of the economy rose from the second to third quarter this year at a

Gem unit asks no hair ousters

BOISE (UPI)—The Human Rights Commission has asked two Idaho Falls school districts to readmit 21 male students pending possible hearings on their suspension for violating school codes against long hair.

Deputy Attorney General Don Knickrehm made the request for the commission, adding the commission probably will conduct hearings in Idaho Falls in the near future on complaints it has received against the districts.

Twenty-six students originally were suspended from Idaho Falls School District 91 for refusing to cut their hair. Thirteen were suspended by Bonneville School District 93.

Twenty-one of those suspended in District 91 and four of those suspended in District 93 still are out of school.

Crash kills chief

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI)—56, Ahsahka, about 7 p.m. The accident occurred in Nez Perce County.

William J. Philpott, 61, chief of police at Orofino, died Friday evening in a two-car accident 1 1/2 miles west of Lenore on U.S. 12.

State police said a car driven by Philpott was sideswiped by one driven by John F. Gnelting, Officers said Philpott, who had run the Orofino Police Department since 1943, was en route to Lewiston in a private vehicle at the time of the accident. He was off duty.

All die in Viet 'copter

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command confirmed tonight that the wreckage of a troop transport Chinook helicopter has been found with "no survivors" among the 23 American soldiers and five crewmen who were aboard.

American and South Vietnamese ground troops, who spent two days slashing through thick jungle to reach the wreckage on a mountaintop, reported in a brief radio message tonight the debris was that of a CH47 chopper which crashed last Sunday.

"No survivors have been found," the report said.

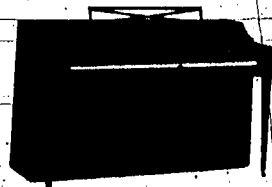

The twin-rotor helicopter crashed while on a flight from the northern port city of Da Nang to Phu Bai, after the pilot sent an emergency message during rough weather.

No further trace of the helicopter was found until last Thursday when a search aircraft briefly spotted wreckage 12 miles southeast of Phu Bai.

School equipment needs replacing

By LEETREMAINE
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Many student desks in several Twin Falls schools have been in use for over 60 years and need replacing with new equipment, according to Supt. George Staudaer.

Staudaer conducted a tour of several school buildings Wednesday morning, pointing out features of a projected building program which would allow replacement of outdated and worn-out furniture and equipment in 19 classrooms, build a new elementary school, add four classrooms at two other elementary schools and solve other problems the district faces.

Many of the outdated desks in Lincoln and Bickel Schools are badly worn, carved with students' names and cannot be made to fit today's students, Staudaer said.

The "most critical need" is additional classroom space, particularly since Washington School must be replaced eventually. Located at North Five Points, Washington will be cut back severely when the Idaho Department of Highways completes plans to rebuild the intersection.

Plans call for widening Blue Lakes Boulevard North to six lanes north of the intersection. This would cut into the northern wing of the L-shaped school, while widening of Addison Avenue would move a fence beside Washington School to within two feet of the side door.

"I can tell you now — you put a fence within two feet of the door and the fire inspector will close down the whole school," Staudaer said.

In addition to highway department plans, the school administration is fearful for the children's safety with the school at its present location, Staudaer said. All 560 Washington students have to walk to school, most of them along heavily traveled Addison and Blue Lakes. There is no bus service to Washington School, since all students live within the mile-and-a-half limit prescribed by the Idaho Department of Education.

Elimination of Washington School would require replacement of 20 teaching stations, Staudaer said. Construction of a school of similar size elsewhere would not reduce presently overcrowded classrooms in Lincoln, Bickel and other elementary schools.

To reduce the crowded classroom load, Staudaer has proposed adding four teaching stations at Harrison School and four at Morningglade. Students could be bused from overcrowded schools to the new rooms to equalize the teaching load in all schools.

The Happy Day School for handicapped children, located along Addison Avenue in back of Lincoln School, must also be replaced, Staudaer said. Idaho Highway Department proposals to revamp West Five Points, similar to the North Five Points reconstruction, would widen Addison Avenue past the school, trimming the property so facilities should be replaced.

The Happy Day facilities are also in need of replacement due to age and advanced stage of deterioration. The structure was built over a quarter of a century ago, Staudaer pointed out.

The school presently enrolls nine students with limited intelligence, instructing them in the rudiments of social training, mental hygiene, simple safety precautions and others which they are able to grasp. These children will have to remain in a sheltered environment the rest of their lives due to their handicap, according to the instructor, Mrs. Gladys Coxen.

They need a home-style learning environment now to allow Mrs. Coxen and her aides to teach personal care, bathing and similar skills needed in the home. Staudaer said his proposal calls for establishment of the Happy Day facilities in a home leased by the district and modified as needed for the class.

Other facets of his building program include replacement of window casements in Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School, provision of vocational training facilities at Twin Falls High School, addition of three classrooms to the special-education wing at Robert Stuart Junior High School and enlargement of the gymnasium at the same school.

Staudaer has asked for construction of a new elementary school on half of a 20-acre plot of land which the school district owns north of the high school stadium along Stadium Boulevard. He would place the new grade school on the east 10 acres, bordered by Madrona and Stadium, allowing room for parking and bus loading and unloading.

The superintendent has also asked for construction of office facilities for the hot-lunch supervisor and her staff and for other office and shop facilities. This could be placed on another 10-acre plot of land owned by the district either adjacent to Robert Stuart or directly across Caswell Street from the school.

Staudaer has warm praise for the foresight of his predecessor, Dr. Ernest H. Ragland, who acquired the parcels of land several years ago.

"If there's one wonderful thing Dr. Ragland did for our school district — and there are a great many — it was buying that land when it was available," Staudaer said. As a result, the district will not have to budget land-acquisition costs in a building program.

The next step in presenting the program to the public, according to Staudaer, is to form a citizens' committee of taxpayers to determine the feelings of the district's patrons, and their ideas of needs which could be filled with the bond issue.

Staudaer said no major repairs are needed or contemplated at O'Leary, despite its advanced age, other than replacement of the windows. The school was pronounced "as sound, structurally, as any building in the district, or as any downtown business," the superintendent said.

Despite reports that O'Leary may be acquired by Twin Falls County for a courthouse-expansion project, Staudaer said the district has no plans to replace the school in the foreseeable future.

A STACK OF BOOKS eases the situation somewhat for a youngster at Lincoln School, using a desk that needs replacement, according to Twin Falls School Supt. George Staudaer. Some of the desks date back to 1906, when Lincoln School was built.

Canada, U.S. sign extradition treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Canada signed a new extradition treaty Friday featuring tough action against air hijackers. But it would not apply to draft dodgers or military deserters.

The treaty, signed by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Canadian Minister for Foreign Affairs Mitchell Sharp, is subject to Senate ratification. Officials said that they expected to present the treaty to the Senate in about a month and hoped for prompt approval.

The treaty replaces an existing, 62-year-old extradition convention and would come into force when both sides exchange ratifications by their legislatures.

The pact, which lists 30 specific extraditable offenses, carries the usual provision that a person may not be extradited for an offense of a political character.

But at the same time, the treaty makes clear that aircraft hijacking is an extraditable offense and that an aircraft hijacker would not be able to claim that he had committed a political offense and thus avoid extradition.

Successful Investing method

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — We have 1,200 shares of Wayne-Gossard preferred on which some changes are to be made after January, 1972. What are the changes and will the dividend be continued? We need income and would like advice on whether to hold, sell or convert.

A — Beginning Feb. 1, 1972, Wayne has the right to redeem the preferred shares at $30 per share on 30 days notice. There are 346,999 preferred shares currently outstanding, redemption of which would cost $10.4 million. Redemption would be economically unrealistic since borrowing costs on this amount would undoubtedly exceed the $555,000 annual dividend expense on these shares. While the preferred shares remain outstanding, the dividend is a corporate obligation and cumulative if omitted.

Third quarter earnings recovered 28 per cent year-to-year on a 3 per cent drop in sales. Continued improvement in profit margins could push full year earnings to the 90 cent level. Because the preferred is selling at a 14 per cent premium over conversion value, exchange for the common would involve loss of capital. Wayne-Gossard preferred should be retained for the above-average return.

Q — I am a widow and would like to invest $4,000 to supplement my $4,200 annual income. I have been told that GAC 5-year 7 per cent promissory notes are quite safe. Would this be a wise choice for me? — J. W. A — Although I am unable to find this particular debt offering, GAC and its subsidiaries have long-term debt of $567 million bearing interest of between 4 1/2 per cent and 12 per cent and ratings of BBB and CCC. The last reported figure for interest charges earned was in 1968, 1.16x when net was $2.64 a share. As of the first 9 months of the current year GAC Corp. reported a net loss of $11.1 million.

A more suitable debt issue for you would be Beneficial Corp. 9 1/2% of 1978. Rated A by Standard & Poor's, this debenture is trading at a premium to yield 8.5 per cent currently or 7.5 per cent when held to maturity. Dry peel method helpful

SPOKANE — The first commercial utilization of a new "dry" method of peeling potatoes that offers significant pollution control advantages was reported in a paper presented to the Pacific Northwest Pollution Control Assn. James L. Ontes, environmental control manager for the J. R. Simplot Co., described the process at a session on food processing and agriculture.

The Simplot company has completed conversion of all four of its Idaho processing plants in Caldwell, Burley and Heyburn to the dry peeling method. It is the first company in the world to utilize the process commercially.

The completion of this $2.4 million phase of the company's water quality control program enables approximately 70 per cent of the potential organic waste load to be collected "dry" from the peeling operations, thereby reducing significantly the amount of process water requiring treatment, Ontes said.

The process accomplishes peeling by short-time caustic immersion, heating, dry scrubbing and brush washing.

What do I want?

Glamorous yacht floating school

MIAMI (UPI)—One of the world's most glamorous sailing yachts is putting out to sea again, this time as a floating high school.

The 318-foot, steel-hulled motor sailor was built in Kiel, Germany, 40 years ago. Called by turns Hussar, Sea Cloud, Angelita and Patria, she has known days of luxury, nights of pleasure, months of military duty and years of neglect.

Her name is Antares now, after the star Antares, brightest in the constellation Scorpio. Tied up at a Miami dock for two years, she is scheduled to get a final refitting at a New Orleans shipyard before starting an eight-month world cruise with 60 high school students aboard.

"We'll go through the Panama Canal, around South America and up to West Africa for a stop on the Ivory Coast," said Nevar Makofka, a former math teacher from Alberta, Sask., who is acting director of the school. "Then we'll tour the Mediterranean and head for home via the Cape Verde Islands."

"We're running behind schedule right now, because of all the work involved in getting her ready to sail," he said in an interview. "The engines were flooded and it's taken weeks of work just to get them operating again."

The Antares carries 34,000 square feet of canvas. Her engines produce 5,600 horsepower. The cruise will be made mainly under sail. The school is operated by Oceanics, Inc., of New York, which has loaned the vessel from the Panama-based owner, Operation Sea Cruise.

"This will be my junior year of high school. It's really fantastic," said one of the "crewmen," Phil Giudice, 16, of Greenwich, Conn.

The 50 boys and 10 girls aboard will act as crew under a staff of professional officers. Regular high school subjects will be supplemented by courses on oceanography and classes related to the countries visited. Tuition is $7,000, but Makofka said many students have scholarships covering at least half the amount.

The latest cruise should be tame compared to past adventures of the ship that was built for more than $1.2 million in 1931 for Mrs. Marjorie Merriweather Post, the breakfast food heiress of Palm Beach and Washington.

A crew of 72 was on hand to operate the yacht and serve Mrs. Post's guests at elegant society affairs amid plush surroundings. She spent an additional $267,000 on furnishings.

In 1936, Mrs. Post sent the yacht to Leningrad, where she and her new husband, Joseph E. Davies, used it as home and office for almost two years while he was U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union. The name Hussar was changed diplomatically to Sea Cloud.

The Sea Cloud's peaceful voyaging was interrupted in 1942, when she was leased by the U.S. Navy, which equipped her with deck guns and put her on convoy duty.

Mrs. Post spent more than $3 million refurbishing and operating the yacht after its wartime service. When the government ruled these expenses were not tax-deductible, she was forced to sell the Sea Cloud in 1951 to a Jacksonville, Fla., shipbuilder for $500,000.

In 1955, Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo, dictator of the Dominican Republic, bought the yacht and renamed it after his daughter, Angelita.

The vessel was dubbed a floating boudoir when Trujillo's playboy son, Rafael Jr., docked it at San Pedro, Calif., in 1958. The younger Trujillo, known as "Ramfis," was attending a U.S. Army officers school in the Midwest, between parties.

When congressmen angrily inquired whether the dictator's son was using U.S. aid funds for his entertainment expenses, Ramfis withdrew from the Army School. He pointed aboard the Angelita, where he could host his Hollywood friends, who included actresses Kim Novak and Zsa Zsa Gabor.

The Angelita's weirdest adventure was a sea-going hearse following the elder Trujillo's assassination in 1961.

Italy needs economic game plan like Nixon's

ROME (UPI)—Premier Emilio Colombo, like President Nixon, needs an economic game plan.

Things are getting rocky for the Italian economy and financial experts are diagnosing "stagflation"—that is, stagnating industrial production coinciding with rising consumer prices.

Industrial production is running about seven per cent lower than last year and prices about seven per cent higher. Some economists say Italy is headed for its worst recession since World War II.

Unemployment now exceeds one million in a country which traditionally solves this problem by exporting its jobless. A record 1971 budget deficit in the legislative mill, Italians are not buying as much and overseas customers are cutting back on orders.

President Nixon's economic game plan, especially the 10 per cent import surcharge, hurt Italian businessmen who sold the United States a record $46 billion ($1.35 billion) worth of goods last year. But it was a blow softened by rebates and tax credits by the Italian government.

The villains are at home, not in Washington.

Economists agree a lack of direction by Colombo's always fragile three-party coalition of Christian Democrats, Socialists and Social Democrats is shaking the faith of businessmen.

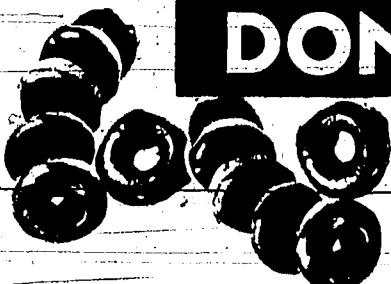

Only 13 of 100 businessmen expressed confidence things will get better in 1972 when asked their opinion recently by a professional economist survey.

Economists also agree the nation's three big labor unions knocked the economy out of whack when they won sizable pay increases after an almost nonstop strike wave which shut down much of Italian industry in 1969.

The bad news came from every front. Treasury Minister Mario Ferrari-Aggradi reported a record deficit of 3.2 trillion lire ($5.1 billion) in the 1972 budget, up one third from 1970.

Sulfur dioxide levels in Salt Lake Valley higher

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A University of Utah chemical engineering professor Thursday charged sulfur dioxide levels over the Salt Lake Valley are four times higher than those shown by state-conducted tests.

Dr. Billings Brown made the statement during a public hearing here on proposed air conservation regulations recommended by the Utah Air Conservation Committee.

He said his figures on the emission levels, caused primarily by Kennecott Copper Corp. smelting operations near Magna, Utah, were based on tests conducted by Dr. Clyde Hill of the University of Utah. Dr. Hill's tests, said Dr. Brown, were conducted at about the same time the state conducted its tests with similar equipment.

Prior to his testimony, Brown told a newsman that he doesn't believe the state measurements, and he said there may be possible "collusion" between Kennecott and the state.

"There is a monstrous conspiracy to talk away the problem," Brown told the press. He added that the $16 million to $20 million Kennecott pays in state taxes each year is "a pretty good reason for conspiracy."

In his testimony before the committee and 250 interested persons, Brown said the committee's plan for implementation of air quality standards by 1975 were inadequate in certain aspects, "namely the failure of the group to refer to controls of existing sources of sulfur dioxide contamination."

"New installations are the only ones mentioned as having possible controls," he said. "There is no reference in any way to existing facilities at Kennecott."

Kennecott spokesman Dean Kerr later testified that KCC wants the state to bring its plan into conformity with federal laws.

He said the company is shooting toward bringing its sulfur dioxide emission rates in line with established federal standards for annual averages.

But, he said the state proposal also sets up regulation of daily emission standards, and this is not in line with federal policy. According to state tests, Kennecott was well above federal limitations in daily emissions as well as annual standards.

"The daily standard shouldn't be a binding requirement," Kerr told the committee, "but should be considered as a non-enforceable guideline."

Nearly a dozen persons testified during the day-long hearing. Representatives from environmentalist groups from throughout the state presented their views on the proposed regulations, with some favoring stringent controls on individual automobile emissions and others calling for strict regulations on power plant construction in the Beehive State.

One of the session's highlights was the testimony of 9-year-old Steven Giddings of Salt Lake City, who told committee members he is concerned about the environment because his generation will have to live longest in it.

His father, chemistry professor Calvin Giddings of the University of Utah, followed the youngster's remarks with a plea that the committee set standards calling for 100 per cent control of pollution.

Present plans call for 80 per cent reduction in air pollutants by 1980.

No accord yet on joint space plans

MOSCOW (UPI) — Official U.S. embassy spokesmen Friday denied reports that the United States and the Soviet Union are about to sign an accord on joint manned space flights.

Press Officer Roger Lyndon and science counsellor Jack Tech, the man cited in the reports as the source of the information, said the news item had apparently arisen from a misunderstanding of a routine progress report on U.S.-Soviet space discussions.

A five-man team of U.S. scientists is now in Moscow for the third round of talks with the Soviets on compatible space docking collars and possible joint manned test missions.

"At this point, no one knows what the results will be," Tech said. He denied he had told newsmen an agreement to conduct a joint manned mission would come out of this round of talks.

Tech and Lyndon said a three-sentence progress report on the current talks had been given a newsman upon his request, and with the approval of the U.S. negotiators.

Tech said the first two sentences restated the subjects under discussion and announced the current round would end Monday.

"The third sentence said a confirmation of the results of this round's talks would be signed by each nation in about two months time," Tech said.

"But this just confirms the results of this session. At this point no one knows what they might be. They could simply lead to a fourth round of talks."

point no one knows what they might be. They could simply lead to a fourth round of talks."

Calling system initiated

JEROME — The Jerome Senior Citizens office has initiated daily telephone calls to elderly area residents living alone.

Mrs. Marlene Butler, spokesman for the center, said that the "daily reassurance service" for persons living alone in homes or apartments is "of vital importance in case of illness or some other personal need." She said it is particularly important during the winter months when persons are kept indoors for long periods of time by bad weather.

She said area residents are invited to list their phone numbers with the senior citizens' office by calling 324-5642. Volunteer workers at the center make the telephone calls.

Mrs. Butler asked neighbors of persons living alone to notify her office in order that a complete listing of all persons living alone may be compiled.

LYNN MIKELS

Sales aide named for TV station

TWIN FALLS — Western Broadcasting Co., Missoula, Mont., announces the appointment of Lynn Mikels as sales manager of KMYT television, Twin Falls.

Mikels, 31, is a business administration graduate of Oklahoma State University and replaces Harold Hirtle, who has become station manager.

Mikels is a former district sales manager of the Montana offices of Simmons Mattress Co. He and his wife, Diane, and two children are awaiting completion of their home in Twin Falls.

Photog charged

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ronald Galella, who has built a career photographing Mrs. Aristotle Onassis, was under court order Friday to stay at least 50 yards away from her pending a contempt of court action.

An attorney for the former First Lady had filed an affidavit in federal court Thursday charging that "the freelance photographer's activities caused her to live in 'dread fear' so that she was an 'absolute prisoner' in her Fifth Avenue apartment.

Judge Ben Cooper ordered Galella to show cause by Dec. 15 why he should not be held in contempt for flouting a previous restraining order and forced to pay Mrs. Onassis $10,000 damages. He also was ordered not to come within 50 yards of Mrs. Onassis and to stay at least 100 yards away from the apartment.

The last in a series of moves by Mrs. Onassis against Galella was prompted by his behavior at the St. James Theater Wednesday night when Mrs. Onassis attended the premiere of "Two Gentlemen of Verona." Her affidavit said Galella "came rushing down the aisle and began taking flash pictures right there."

"A general uproar ensued and ultimately Galella and his friends were thrown out of the theater," Mrs. Onassis said. "I was humiliated."

"I implore this court to bar Galella from making my life miserable," Mrs. Onassis said. "He has no right to do that. No one has."

Legislative luncheon set by league on Wednesday

TWIN FALLS — Legislative matters expected to come before the Idaho law makers in the coming session will be discussed Wednesday by Magic Valley legislators and the Twin Falls League of Women Voters.

The league will hold the annual legislative luncheon at noon in the Turf Club to discuss items of interest to the area legislators and league members. In addition to Twin Falls County legislators, Sen. Richard High, Sen. John Barker, and Representatives William Roberts, William Lanting, J. D. Claborn and Ray Lincoln, other counties will also be represented.

Ella Nelson, league publicity director, said Sen. Don Frederickson, Gooding; Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, Tuffin, and Rep. Earl Greenawald, Jerome, have indicated they will attend the luncheon.

Each legislator will be given an opportunity to address remarks to the group and a question and answer session will follow.

From K. L. A., Twin Falls: If possible, could you tell me the value of two Danish coins?

1—III Marck, Danak, 1660-Domina Provident-F3 (center monogram).

2—Christian VIII—DD20 Januar—FII. VII-1848—1 Species. Thank you very much. Answer:—Your first coin, issued under Frederick III who ruled from 1648 to 1670, is valued at $9. If it is in extremely fine condition.

The second coin, struck for Christian VIII, who ruled from 1839 to 1848, is valued at $12, if in extremely fine condition. The coins would be worth about 40 per cent more if uncirculated and less if below the extremely fine condition (showing wear).

From L. A., Twin Falls: I have a copper coin, larger than our nickel. On one side is a shield, with a lion at the top. The letters K.S., on the left side, and S.M., on the right side. The other side has "2 Pennige, 1859." It is not badly worn. Is this coin valuable? What can you tell me about it?

Answer: your coin is from Saxony — one of the German States before the Republic was formed. It was minted for Johann, who ruled from 1854 until 1873. Collector value is about 15 cents, if the coin is in very fine condition.

Most of the minor coinage (copper or brass) of Europe has little value, even for the older coins, since much of it still exists and it is easily obtainable.

From D. D., Halley: What is a "Barber Head" dime? I saw these advertised but do not know what they are. I would appreciate your telling me.

Answer: Charles E. Barber was a chief engraver at the Mint. When it was decided to drop the "Liberty Seated" design on the dime, quarter and half-dollar, Barber designed the Liberty Head which was used on these pieces. The first of his design for the dime was struck in 1892 and discontinued in 1916.

All of the "Barber" coins are beautiful examples of the coin's art, especially in un-circulated condition. His initial "B" is found below the neck of the woman's head on the coin.

The "Morgan" dollar is sometimes ascribed to Barber, since the design of our silver dollars from 1878 until 1921 is similar to the Barber coins. George T. Morgan, however, designed this coin and his initials is on it.

From A.R., Twin Falls: What is a double eagle? I ran across this term in a story—I was reading, and I know it was money they were talking about. Can you tell me about it? Have you heard this expression used?

Answer: One of the first coins struck by the U. S. Mint was the "Eagle"—which is what our forefathers called a $10 gold piece, probably from the design of the eagle on the reverse. A "double eagle" then, was a $20 gold piece. For some reason unknown, the term "double eagle" came to be used universally, but "eagle" was not used. Ten-dollar gold pieces were generally called by the "10" designation, but the $20 was a "double eagle". It has a ring to it and is easy to say—maybe that was the reason.

The last $20 gold pieces were struck in 1933, but none of them got into circulation, since the Gold Act stopped production of all gold coins at that time.

This column is still searching for merchant tokens. We would like to have such tokens from any state, and especially from Alaska, where many of them were used. Also, tokens from military posts. If you know of any, or have any, drop us a card in care of the newspaper.

T.F. will elect 1

TWIN FALLS — Qualified electors of the Twin Falls Highway District which includes the city of Twin Falls, will go to the polls Monday to vote for one highway district board member.

Candidates for the post are incumbent board member Ora W. Jones, farmer and rancher of the Hollister area, and Dwight Shaw, a rural mail carrier. Shaw is a resident of the Berger area.

League of Women Voters members have asked residents of the area to vote in the election and show an interest in the highway program of the area.

They explain residents need not be registered for the election but will sign a voter's oath. They need not be property owners but must be qualified electors as for city and county elections. This means a minimum of 18 years of age and residency of at least 30 days in the county and six months in the state.

Polls will open from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. in nine precincts in the district and patrons may vote in any one precinct, not necessarily the one in which they live. Polling places include the Twin Falls County Courthouse; Twin Falls City Hall; highway district office; Rogerson post office; Salmon River Canal Co. office, Hollister; Community Club building, Berger; Kimberly village clerk's office; City offices in Hansen, and Pleasant Valley Grange Hall, Rock Creek.

Jones has served two four-year terms on the highway board, a three man committee which includes Ralph Olmstead, chairman, and Kenneth Poe. Their terms will continue for another two years.

Jones has lived in the local area all of his life and said he is interested in the welfare of the taxpayers and highway users of the district. He said there is a continuing need for cooperative programs with the city and communities in the district.

Jones said the present highway district levy is 70.11 cents per $100 assessed valuation with the maximum allowed $1. He said the present board has attempted to hold the line in view of rising costs to taxpayers, explaining this year's levy was reduced from 87.12 cents levied the previous year.

Jones said the district does a large amount of contract work through secondary and joint federal programs. He said it is felt by the board money can be saved by using district men and equipment on some of the projects.

"I have appreciated working with the other board members and serving taxpayers in the district and hope to be able to continue in this capacity," he said.

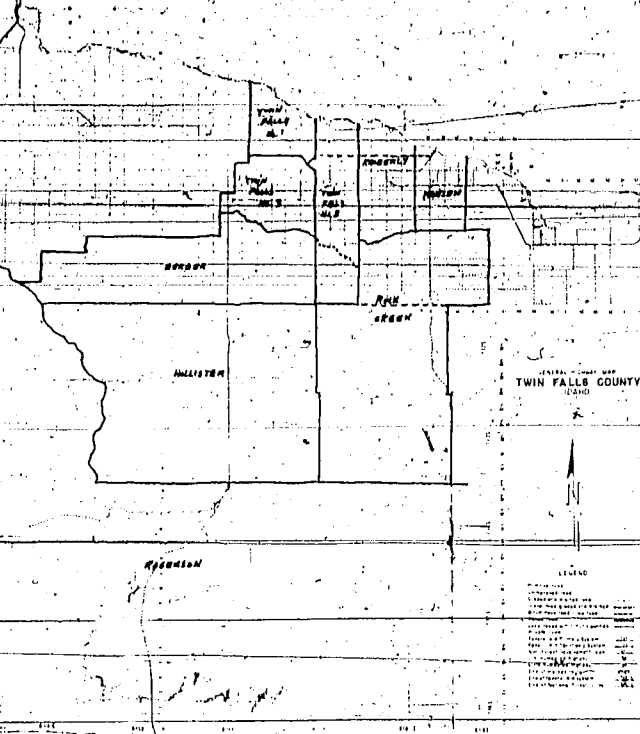

Shaw, who said he may be the number one critic of the district, said his job keeps him on the rural roads much of the time. As a result, he said, there are some things he feels could be improved.

He favors good service on recreation roads but does not mean to imply such service is not presently being provided. Shaw said he would like to look into the matter of tying up roads for a year or so while district crews and equipment do the work which a contractor could probably do more quickly and possibly at no greater cost.

"I don't know the answers to these questions, but would like an opportunity to work as a district board member to explore them and possibly introduce some improvements," he said.

Shaw said he feels the district's snow-removal program should be reversed. After a snow storm, he said, crews spend the first day or so scraping snow from roads which are close to town and at least passable, leaving some of the outlying roads blocked by drifts and impassable during that time. He said he would also recommend truck routes to keep heavily loaded trucks from using county roads, not suited to this type of traffic, as connecting short cut links from one highway to another.

Shaw has lived his entire life in Twin Falls County, he said, except while away for military duty.

Rate boost at Ketchum

KETCHUM — Planned rate increases for the Wood River Cable-Vision, Inc., will be disclosed in a press conference early this week, according to system manager David G. Wolford.

The Ketchum City Council Thursday turned down the company's request for a 50 percent rate increase and made its own proposal.

The council counter-proposal, if adopted by the system, would mean a rate hike for the majority of the company's customers.

Wolford had requested that customers currently paying $5 per month be charged $7.50. Customers paying $4 would pay $6.50. A public hearing on the proposed increases was conducted Tuesday.

The council's decision was disclosed in a letter from Ketchum Mayor Kenneth Richey to Willis Bonjamin, attorney for the system.

"The council seriously questions the 50 percent increase in subscribers' charges," Richey said. But he said under the city franchise the company could charge up to $8 per month for subscribers who did not originally pay a $150 hookup fee. Included in this category are subscribers who originally paid a $25 hookup fee and have been paying $5 per month. And the proposal will also affect owners of condominiums, apartments and motels, who paid $25 for the initial hookup and $8 per month for the first outlet and $2 for each additional outlet.

Wolford said in earlier discussions on the rate increases about 80 of the present 350 customers in the system did pay a $150 hookup fee. Those customers are currently paying $4 per month, and would continue at that rate until the franchise expires in 1974.

T.F. Legion invites Viet vets

TWIN FALLS — A special invitation is being issued veterans of Vietnam to attend an American Legion meeting in Twin Falls at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Pearl Harbor Day.

Frank Mogensen, commander of Post 7, said two department officials will be on hand to discuss Legion programs as part of the nationwide effort to recruit more younger veterans into the American Legion.

A free lunch and beer will be served. State Commander Elton Ashton, Malad, and state adjutant, Bob Riley, Boise, will be on hand to discuss Legion programs and answer questions. District Commander Darrell Wolfe, Filer, will also attend.

Many youth programs are conducted by the American Legion, the two main ones being Junior Baseball and Boys State, Mogensen said. Last year the local post sent two boys to Boys State and two of these also went to Washington, D.C.

Mogensen said there is a need for new and young ideas in the organization and the Legion is anxious to represent all veterans. Twin Falls is one of the posts in Idaho with no Vietnam veterans in the membership.

Recruiting offices and CIO officials are cooperating in the membership drive, the post commander said.

Certificate to be given in T.F.

TWIN FALLS — Earl O. Fullmer, superintendent of the Twin Falls Sewage Treatment Plant, will receive his Sewage Works Operators' certificate during the Twin Falls city council meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Fullmer, by examination, has qualified as a grade two operator in conjunction with the Certification Program for Sewage Works Operators as jointly administered by the Association of Idaho Cities, the Idaho State Department of Health, the University of Idaho, and the Pacific Northwest Pollution Control Association.

Also during the Monday meeting, the council will consider a resolution in connection with the West Five Points State Department of Highways project.

A proposed ordinance providing parking regulations at the Twin Falls city-county airport will be considered.

At 7:45 p.m. the council will conduct a public hearing on application of R & K Land Co., to rezone from commercial to residential general, lot four of Eoff Tract in the city.

At 8 p.m. a public hearing on the proposed new zoning ordinance to replace existing zoning ordinance, Article 1, of Chapter V, City of Twin Falls, will be conducted.

Ordinance No. 1827, providing regulations for operation and construction of mobile home parks, will be read and considered, and Ordinance No. 1530, providing for payment to the city for towing and storage of motor vehicles, will be placed on second reading.

Faulkner seeks post at Gooding

GOODING — Ralph Faulkner is seeking re-election to District No. 3, Gooding County Highway District, in an election set Monday.

A story carried in Friday's Times-News incorrectly reported that Faulkner had moved from the district and would not run.

He is opposed by Richard Strickland, Gooding. Polls will be open from 1 to 7 p.m. at the Gooding Odd Fellows Hall.

County officials set meet with legislators

TWIN FALLS — State legislators from Twin Falls County will meet Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the judicial building in Twin Falls with the heads of county departments to discuss problems of current state laws.

The afternoon meeting has been arranged by county commissioners to acquaint the lawmakers with some of the problems in setting up and operating such new programs as court reform, election laws,

Environmental ethic requested

BURLEY — Eldon Edmondson, speaking for the Federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), called on federal agencies for a "change in philosophy and a commitment toward an environmental ethic" during a two-day natural resource conference in Burley.

Edmondson, a member of the EPA's Environmental Impact Division, was a panelist Friday with Gene Davis, a Bureau of Reclamation, and attorneys Herman McDevitt, Pocatello, and John Rosholt, Twin Falls.

The conference was sponsored jointly by the Idaho Wildlife Society, the Society of American Foresters and the Society for Range Management.

An appeal for "overpass" construction to allow deer herds to cross Interstate 80 in the Sublett area was presented by Dale Turnipsap, Jerome, regional game biologist for the Fish and Game Department, as one of a large number of speakers during the conference.

Other speakers discussed the created wheatgrass program, the unique scheme of balloon logging developed by Boise-Cascade Co., the problems of the Greater Sand Hill Crane and rehabilitation of fire-scorched land in the Shoshone Basin.

The controversial technique of "clear-cutting" land in timber management was discussed by Martin Galbraith of the Forest Service; the use of brush chain to remove sagebrush was discussed by Bill McIlvian of the Bureau of Land Management, and Alan Atkinson, representing the Department of Public Lands, outlined the specifics of conducting a timber sale.

Turnipsap, pointing out that a deer herd estimated at 3,500 head, faces a major obstacle in migrating between summer and winter ranges in the Sublett-Black Pine area, said the construction of the Interstate presents a major hazard to the game.

Already, since construction of the highway bisecting the migration route, a noticeable diminution of numbers has been noticed, Turnipsap said.

He added that underpasses have been built to channel game beneath a highway in Colorado with remarkable success. The underpasses have dirt floors and are well-lighted, attracting the deer during night migrations.

The speaker said the Idaho Department of Highways "was aware of the problem" when planning the Interstate route, but refused to take the necessary action.

An overpass to allow deer to cross over the Interstate would cost about $70,000, Turnipsap said. Underpass construction would run slightly less.

Edmondson, speaking on the "philosophy" of federal agencies, said "relatively narrow" interpretations of two legislative acts, the River and Harbors Act of 1888, and the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, have detracted from their theoretical ability to deal stringently with pollution of natural resources.

"The implications of these laws could be very broad," Edmondson said, covering many actions which are not being covered. However, the area of enforcement by the federal agencies appears to be Following his talk, he admitted in an interview that "more teeth" should be put into impact statement evaluations.

"It's possible to write a great impact statement about a poor proposal, leaving the EPA with litter recourse other than to approve the project," he explained.

Edmondson also urged local groups to take an active interest in the efforts to control pollution. "Local levels are where a lot of bad environmental actions can be stopped," he concluded.

ELDON EDMUNDSON

Shoshone pick-up changed

SHOSHONE — Rules for garbage pick-up in the alleys in the northside of the city of Shoshone have been altered because of the alley conditions caused by sewer construction, according to Mayor Elihood R. Werry.

Citizens are asked to place garbage containers at the curb in front of their homes on days the garbage collection is to be made.

Collection on the northside of town is on Tuesdays and Fridays, while on the southside it is on Mondays and Thursdays.

Mayor Werry suggested residents remove garbage receptacles following each pickup to maintain a neat appearance city.

Lincoln man gets award

SHOSHONE — Clair Daniels, North Shoshone, was named Idaho Pork-All-American for 1972 at the annual convention of Idaho Swine Producers held Thursday and Friday at Grangeville.

The announcement was made by Bill Loughmiller, Hollister, who held the same title for 1971.

Nominees from four districts were considered. Mrs. Daniels was honored with her husband and the two will attend the National Swine Producers Convention as representatives of the state of Idaho. The national convention will be held in Kansas, Mo., in March.

Daniels and his wife will continue at that rate until the franchise expires in 1974.

Bellevue water system studied

BELLEVUE — A proposal for an additional water transmission line that will increase the water pressure in north Bellevue is currently before the City Council.

The new line, which would cost about $44,000, was proposed by Bellevue contractor Mike Ivie. The council discussed the line briefly during its Thursday evening meeting and tabled the matter for further research and discussion.

Mayor Claude Ballard said after the meeting the new line would essentially turn the present water system into a circulator system. An eight-inch line, he said, would be laid from the present water collection house in Muldoon Canyon, across the north end of town, west to Ted Devine's house.

The mayor said the city would not be able to obtain a bond to finance the new line without an engineer's study. Ivie had proposed if the issue is raised in a local election, Bellevue residents may be able to form their own bonding company.

Councilman James Pigg said during the meeting, "This is the best plan we have yet. We have the water," he said, "it's just a matter of getting it into the city."

Ballard said presently water is carried from the collection house through an eight-inch line that runs the length of the Muldoon Canyon 'road.'

Petition filed at Grazing board Wendell

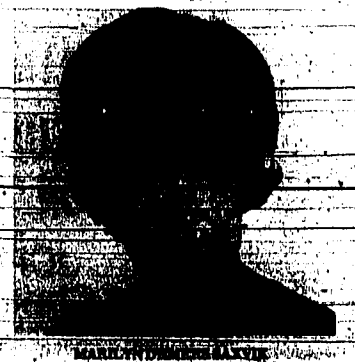

WENDELL — Kirby Hill has filed a petition to run for election for commissioner of sub-district No. 3 at the election Monday of the Wendell Highway District according to Mrs. Gwen Collett, secretary of the district.

The polls will be open at the city hall from 1 to 7 p.m. Monday. Mrs. Jack Smith, Mrs. Nelson King and Mrs. Melvin Gibson will serve as clerks for the election.

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone Grazing District Advisory Board will meet at 10 a.m. December 14 and 15 at the conference room of the Shoshone District Office building.

This is an amended time and date from the original announcement, Eldon C. Beus, acting district manager of the BLM, Shoshone, said today.

Burley resident is Idaho's "Outstanding Young Woman"

BURLEY — Marilyn DeMers Saxvik, wife of state Senator Robert William Saxvik, has been named Idaho's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year for 1971.

Mrs. Saxvik was chosen from all Idaho women included in the 1971 awards volume of Outstanding Young Women of America. She was nominated for the honor by the Idaho Beta Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

The Outstanding Young Women of America program is designed to honor women between the ages of 18 and 35 who give their time and efforts for the betterment of community, country and profession.

Since 1961, Mrs. Saxvik, the mother of two children, has served as office manager and on-the-air personality for radio station KBAR, Burley. In 1970 she was named Triangler of the Month by Air Play magazine, a trade publication.

Mrs. Saxvik won the 1965 Idaho Women's Singles Bowling Championship and holds the all-time state record in scratch singles. In 1964, she placed fifth in the state Women's Amateur Golf Match.

She serves her city as president-elect of the Cassia Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, as vice-president of the Scorpions Club, and as publicity chairman of the American Cancer Society.

She also is state committee member for the Cassia County Democratic Central Committee, Beta Sigma Phi, with which she is affiliated, and served in 1964 with the Girl Scouts as an award.

The Outstanding Young Women of America program is sponsored annually by the women's organization.

Why is it that some Christmas trees are a real fire hazard while others aren't?

The answer lies in the tree's moisture content. A fresh Christmas tree is a safe one, as far as a fire hazard is concerned.

A tree with a moisture content of 85 to 90 per cent or more can replace the water lost by evaporation from the foliage.

Too thick mulch on these may even promote the accumulation of chemicals that are toxic to the roots of these plants.

The snow mold fungi (there are different ones that work together to cause large dead patches) work under snow or an accumulation of wet leaves.

The University of Illinois recommends the "12-hour test" for freshness. As soon as you bring the tree home, cut off 1 or 1 1/4 inch from the butt and promptly stand the tree in a pail of fresh water.

Make sure the container of manufactured tree stands hold enough water. Water needs to be added every 12 to 24 hours.

Use a 5-12 gallon pail, filled with stones or sand. Add about six inches of water to the pail, immerse the butt and wedge it to the center of the pail with stones.

Decorate the pail with florists pot wrap and you'll have a Christmas tree stand that's attractive as well as safe.

DON'T OVER-MULCH PLANTS: A winter mulch around the base of plants is a fine thing, but keep in mind that some shallow-rooted plants can't take too much mulching.

These items include dogwood, andromeda, azaleas, mountain laurel and rhododendron.

Accumulate on the grass. The diseases called snow mold doesn't come to life until the temperature drops to the 40's.

The snow mold fungi (there are different ones that work together to cause large dead patches) work under snow or an accumulation of wet leaves.

Some varieties are more susceptible to cracking than others. For example, Valiant, the one you grew, is highly susceptible to cracking.

B. F. of Holbrook: "We have what a florist has called 'painted fingernail' plant and it is most unusual. The leaves are green and strap like. On the tip of the green leaves you see a bright rose red tip, just like a fingernail. Please tell me if this plant is rare and what care does it need?"

You have a bromeliad (member of the pineapple family) known as Neoregelia or so-called painted fingernail plant. This item likes a bright, semishady room, with temperature around 70 degrees in day.

Start new plants from suckers originating from the base of plant. A close member of this plant is the so-called "living vase" plant, so called because the leaves will catch and hold water.

NOTE: do not use shoots of the current season's growth. Use twig growth at least two years old. Oddly the older the stem the better the clematis will root. Clematis are exceptional in this respect.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: F. R. of Twin Falls: "This year we had a lot of tomatoes go to waste. Vines were heavy with fruit but the part near the stem developed star-shaped cracks which filled with a black mold. Then the fruits rotted around the cracks. We tried to use some of the tomatoes by cutting off the bad tops, but they were so bitter (like gall).

Would a nearby pine tree or black walnut have anything to do with this? We don't want another season as bad as the one we just had. Is there anything that can be done in 1972 for better tomatoes? By the way, our variety was one called Valiant."

Your tomatoes had a condition known as growth crack. Actually, there are three types of tomato cracking: radial, concentric and skin-cracking. Cracking often occurs after heavy rains or heavy watering. Probably humidity has more to do with it than anything.

When you have a rain with the humidity high for a few days, cracking is more likely to occur than if the humidity drops right after the rain and there are some clear, dry days following it.

Some varieties are more susceptible to cracking than others. For example, Valiant, the one you grew, is highly susceptible to cracking.

Signs of the times

Mind Your Money

By PETER WEAVER Most of us give money to charity in dribs and drabs with the vague hope that, somehow, it will get to those who need it most.

All too frequently our hopes are frustrated by institutions that either have outdated programs or ineffective management. As much as 80 cents out of each donated dollar can be wasted by an institution that is more involved in perpetuating its own bureaucracy than giving help to the needy.

Contractors meet

SPOKANE, (UPI) — An address by former Idaho Gov. Don Samuelson is one of the highlights of the convention of the Inland Empire chapter of the Associated General Contractors scheduled here Dec. 10.

Robert C. Carlson, chapter president, said Samuelson will discuss various transportation problems in the Pacific Northwest, including mass transit and rail transportation.

Samuelson currently is the secretarial representative for the Northwest region of the U. S. Department of Transportation.

Carlson said the meeting agenda will also include reports from the Idaho and Washington Highway Department engineers and a discussion of planned projects of the Army Corps of Engineers by corps representatives.

The Merry Pet

Question: Our dog has it in for our mailman. He's the spirit of loving-kindness to everyone else but he really seems to hate this one man. He growls and snaps at him and we're afraid he may even bite him someday. How serious do you think this is?

Answer: Depends on how seriously you take having your mail delivered. The U. S. Post Office takes the stand that no mailman needs to risk life or limb getting your mail past an overzealous fido. If the carrier is truly worried, he will refuse to deliver the mail until the dog is properly restrained by the mailbox is put outside the fence or radius of the dog's chain.

You probably know that all carriers are now equipped with a spray to use in case they are attacked. This spray is not mace, but rather an ammonia based substance which slows a dog down for about five minutes by blurring his vision. It doesn't do any permanent damage to the dog but it can prevent a lot of damage to mailman.

Most mailmen are nice people who like dogs and know how to handle them. They don't want to antagonize you or your animal. But if your dog does bite the carrier you will have to pay all medical bills and face a possible suit by the postal employe.

So, I'd advise you either to move the mailbox or see that the dog is inside when the mailman is expected.

and "greens" I place in their cage. How can I persuade them to eat it?

Answer: No way. You've got to remember that birds select their food by its appearance (rather than smell), and by habits which Mama instilled while they were nestlings. Birds are often suspicious of new objects placed in their cage and some never accept any change.

Be certain that your budgerigars are kept on a vitamin supplement. Provide different small cups and try putting a variety of foods in them. Some goodie parakeets may like: bread and butter, potatoes, meat, eggs, dandelions, spinach, lettuce, celery, parsley, bananas, corn, carrots, tomatoes, cottage cheese; apples, oranges, and grapes.

If they still turn down your gourmet diet, you'll have to chalk it up to poor nest training and rely on supplementation and the foods they will eat.

If you have a question about your pet, send it to The Merry Pet column, care of the Times-News.

Then start checking into the various charitable organizations that work in the area you've selected. United Fund or Community Fund officials can give information on the effectiveness of a good number of charities. Some state and local governments have agencies that screen charitable organizations' activities and financial reports.

Any reputable charity should give you an audited financial report upon request. In addition, the National Council on Philanthropy gives these warning signals:

Never give when solicited by mail that includes unordered gadgets or merchandise. The cost of this type of fund raising frequently drains more than 80 cents out of each donated dollar. Never give to a telephone appeal from a stranger. Say "no," ask for an audited financial report and then check with local, civic or government agencies.

Don't put money in canisters unless you know that the organization and the person with the canister are legitimate. Once you've lined up charities you wish to support, make sure you get all benefits due under the tax laws.

For example, by giving shares of stock which have appreciated in value and have been held more than six months, your charitable donation can actually cost you considerably less than its face value.

Let's say you bought shares of stock for $250 and after a couple of years' time, the same stock was worth $500. By giving the stock instead of the cash after you sold it, you would not have to pay capital gains tax. You would also get a deduction of $500 instead of the $250 original cost of the stock.

With regular contributions it's better to give a check which can serve as proof of your tax deduction. If you give cash in church or to such door-to-door solicitors as the scouts, keep a record. Note the amount given, the date and the organization.

If you give $25 or more cash

Red meat production down

BOISE — Idaho red meat production by commercial slaughter plants during October was 7 per cent lower than a year earlier, according to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

This was the first month since last January that output was below the level of the previous year. Total production of red meat (beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton) during the month totaled 22.2 million pounds, down from 23.8 million pounds in September, output and 23.8 million production during October a year ago.

Primarily responsible for this decrease was 8 per cent fewer cattle slaughtered and 2 per cent fewer hogs. Partially offsetting the lower kill was higher average liveweight for cattle and hogs. The number of sheep slaughtered was 10 per cent greater.

The cumulative January-October red meat production totaled 222 million pounds — 7 per cent greater than the comparable period in 1970.

Commercial production of red meat in the 48 states totaled 3,129 million pounds in October, five per cent below a year earlier. Commercial meat production includes slaughter in federally inspected and other slaughter plants, but excludes animals slaughtered on farms.

Beef production in October was 1,624 million pounds, five per cent below the 1,913 million pounds in October 1970. Cattle kill totaled 3,009,700 head, down four per cent from a year earlier. Live weight per head was 1,019 pounds, five pounds less than last year but 11 pounds above last month.

There were 43 million pounds of veal produced during October, down 12 per cent from 1970. The 307,600 calves slaughtered were 13 per cent below the number of a year earlier. Average liveweight was 250 compared with 248 pounds in October 1970.

Pork production totaled 1,214 million pounds, 5 per cent below a year ago. Hog kill totaled 7,787,200 head, down 7 per cent from October 1970. Liveweight per head was 238, one pound less than last year. Lard rendered per 100 pounds of liveweight was 8 pounds, compared with 9.3 in October 1970.

There were 44 million pounds of lamb and mutton produced in October, unchanged from last year but 2 per cent above last month. Sheep and lamb slaughter totaled 669,300 head, 1 per cent less than last year. Average liveweight was 103 pounds, also the same as last year.

Kuna youth faces trial

SHOSHONE — Michael Keith Shipley, 19, Kuna, was bound over to district court during a preliminary hearing before Magistrate C. M. Wilson Tuesday.

Bond was set at $1,000 and he is still in sheriff's custody. He is charged with first degree burglary in the Nov. 8 breakin at the Ford Garage and Dillo Barber and Watch repair shop here.

Witnesses called to testify were M. J. Dille and Fred McCrea, Phillip Becker, public defender, — represented the defendant, and Pros. Atty. Howard Adkins represented the state.

Plans to complete hall made by Magic Grange

SHOSHONE — Plans for work necessary to complete the new grange hall were made by members of Magic Grange at their regular meeting this week. Paneling that is being done inside the building by a contractor will be completed in the next few weeks.

Mrs. Oscar Kerner was thanked for having cleaned and polished all the windows to the building and women of the grange recently held a workday at the hall varnishing cupboards, tables and doors.

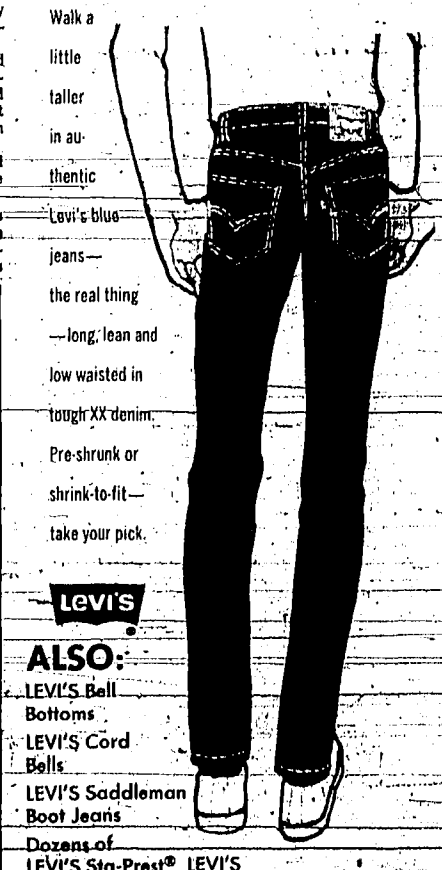

Mrs. Louis Couch reported having sent a number of get-well and sympathy cards, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bancroft reported on state convention held at Burley.

The building committee will announce a date for painting the ceiling of the hall.

Mrs. Jean Annett, home economist, provided a film on Winter Olympics in Switzerland. Lawrence Tews operated the projector.

Japanese teens will visit area

GOODING — Idaho families can stay right at home and participate in a new student exchange program which begins next summer.

Approximately 180 Japanese teen-agers will visit Idaho and Washington during July and August, according to Gooding County Agent Ed Koester. They will stay with host families, attend 4-H camp and tour the northwest.

"Farm families who have teen-agers between the ages of 14 and 17 are wanted as host families," Koester said. "They will be hosts to Japanese teen-agers for a little over two weeks during August. Sometimes during the stay, or right after, the visitors will attend area 4-H camps. "We hope many of the teen-agers in the host families will be 4-H members who will also be attending camp," he said.

Town families can also participate in this program, Koester said, by serving as hosts for the adults who will be traveling with the young people. Families interested in this program should call Koester. Host families will be matched and matched Japanese teen-agers or with adult leaders by the middle of December.

During the summer of 1973, 4-H members from Idaho and Washington will have a chance to go to Japan for a similar program.

This exchange is sponsored by the Idaho and Washington State 4-H officers and the TEC Corp. for Language and Educational Research, Tokyo, Japan.

Butz confirmation termed farmer blow

BUHL — The confirmation of Earl Butz as secretary of agriculture was termed a "blow to agriculture" in a statement issued Thursday by E. B. Hicks, Buhl, county chairman of the National Farmers Organization (NFO).

"Although the confirmation of Earl Butz came as no big surprise, I feel the appointment will be another big blow to the independent family farmer, as well as to all small businessmen in rural areas," Hicks said.

"Members of the National Farmers Organization cannot understand how some farm organization leaders can speak for their membership in supporting a man whose listing in the Wall Street Journal of a third of a million dollars worth of stock includes Ralston-Purina, Stokely-Van Camp and also large mineral and chemical concerns.

"To my knowledge, none of his holdings are in land. Maybe a man who was on the board of directors of two of these corporations can suddenly switch his allegiance to corporation from policies of vertical integration into farming. I, for one, cannot see how this can happen, but I am surely hopeful that Mr. Butz will work for the farmers of this nation.

"We can get a little consolation from the fact that the NFO is dedicated to equality for the independent farmer, and will strive to see fairness in prices for commodities," Hicks concluded.

Census lists fewer farms in rural Jerome County

JEROME — Jerome County showed a total of 864 farms in the 1969 Census of Agriculture, according to figures released last week by the U. S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census.

In the last previous census of agriculture in 1964 the number of farms reported in the county was 981.

Of the county's total farms in 1969, 776 are reported as selling $2,500 or more of agricultural products in the year, as compared with 646 in 1964.

The report also shows average farm size in the county was 240.4 acres, and average value of these farms which includes land and buildings was $77,169.

Other figures from the report include the following:

Value of all farm products sold in 1969, $28,768,069; in 1964, $21,802,500.

Value of crops sold in 1969, $11,889,226 as compared to $11,236,186 in 1964.

Value of all livestock, poultry and their products sold in 1969, $16,878,843; in 1964 $10,566,396. Reported for the first time in an agricultural census is information on the extent to which the corporate structure is being used by operators of farms from which agricultural products totaling $2,500 and over were sold.

including family farms using this type of business structure, 13 of the county's $2,500 and over farms are incorporated.

Wisconsin professor to be featured here followed by Graf on milk pricing. The 48th annual business meeting of the Idaho Dairyman's Association, Inc., will begin at 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

TWIN FALLS — Truman Graf, professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, will be a featured speaker at the two-day convention of the Idaho Dairyman's Association Dec. 8-9 in Twin Falls.

The convention will open with registration at 8 a.m. Dec. 8 in the Holiday Inn lobby.

Graf will address dairymen's wives at a meeting beginning at 9 a.m. the following day, Dec. 9, on "Consumer Acceptance of Dairy Products," and will speak again at a luncheon the same day on "Milk-Pricing Systems."

Eight affiliated organizations will also conduct separate group meetings during the Dairyman's Association convention.

Feldman Hall of Fame awards will be presented by Foyd Edwards.

At 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, the affiliated organizations will continue their meetings, with the wives to meet at 2 p.m. to form an organization of dairy wives, followed by a tour at 4 p.m.

A social hour at 6 p.m. for all members, courtesy of Intermountain dairy suppliers, will be followed by a dinner at 7:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn.

During the Wednesday evening dinner, Ray Rostron, manager of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, will serve as master of ceremonies, and the Magichords of Twin Falls will entertain.

On Thursday, dairy wives meet at 9 a.m. to hear Graf's discussion of consumer acceptance, and to discuss their 1972 program. The meeting room will be announced.

Also at 9 a.m., the association will meet for a general program, featuring a panel discussion with the overall topic of "Producing Quality Milk." Panelists will introduce sub-topics of their own, including Richard N. Eide, farm advisor in Fresno, Calif., on "Developing a Quality Milk Program that works;" Oscar Flower, a Meridian dairymen, on "How to Produce Quality Milk," Frederick Tumm, Fresno, Calif., regional manager of Burge Products, on "What Dairy Equipment is Planned for the Future," and Keith Harvey of the Idaho Department of Health, discussing "Is the Quality of Milk Improving?"

A question-and-answer period at 11:15 a.m. will be followed by the noon luncheon at 11:30 a.m., with Joe Fritz, Fruitland, vice president of the Dairyman's Association, as master of ceremonies.

Dr. Aulis Mullins, head of the Animal Industries Department at the University of Idaho, will speak during the luncheon.

Murtaugh resident selected as nominee

WASHINGTON D. C. — Mark Edgar Moorman, Murtaugh, has been selected as one of the nominees for the 11th (Spokane) District Farm Credit Board appointment. Also running for the same appointment are Melvin A. Enstley, Colfax, Wash., and E. Riddell Lage, Hood River, Ore.

The men will be considered by President Richard Nixon for appointment to a six-year term on the board which serves as supervisory agency for the cooperative Farm Credit system. The board is composed of 13 members, 12 of whom are appointed from the 12 districts for six-year terms on a staggered basis and one appointed by the secretary of agriculture and serving as his representative.

Producers set meet

BOISE (UPI) — The annual meeting of the Food Producers of Idaho, Inc., is scheduled Monday at the Holiday Inn in Boise, according to Frank C. Mercer, food producer secretary.

The meeting will convene at 10 a.m. Oscar Arstoin, Idaho commissioner of agriculture, will be luncheon speaker.

Mercer said items on the agenda include reports from various committees and the election of a board of directors for 1972.

They include the Idaho Milk Processors Association, of which Pat Tate, Boise, is president; the Idaho Purebred Dairy Cattle Association, Floyd Edwards, Nampa, president; the Idaho Avshiro Breeders Association, Robert Knmbach, Caldwell, president; the Idaho Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Association, Alan Johnson, New Plymouth, president; the Idaho Guernsey Breeders' Association, Dale LaCrone, New Plymouth, president; the Idaho State Holstein Association, Inc., with Riley Mickelson, Grace, president; the Idaho Jersey Club, with J. Irvin Hart, Nampa, president, and the Idaho Milking Short-horn Society, with Oris G. Reed, Grace, as president.

The affiliated organizations will meet in various assigned rooms at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, with the luncheon following their meetings.

Darrell Korby, president of the association, will preside over the luncheon on Wednesday, with a welcome to be extended by Twin Falls Mayor Frank

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — I have 1,000 shares of Airlift International purchased for $5,000. It has been delisted and it is my understanding that the company is in bankruptcy. Can you give me information as to what is going on? — C. R.

A — Shares, which were delisted by the American Stock Exchange, are currently trading over-the-counter at about 50 cents. Company will request stockholder approval at the Dec. 15 annual meeting of an increase in the corporate equity structure. If approval is granted it will clear the way for a proposed exchange of the now outstanding 8 1/2 per cent and 5 1/2 per cent debentures into two new classes of convertible preferred stocks. Some 90 per cent of bondholders would have to approve the exchange.

Airlift issued unaudited operating statistics for the first fiscal quarter of the year to end next September. Net income was equal to 2 cents a share. Auditors questioned whether Airlift should have used accounting methods usually reserved for a going concern. Interest arrearages on the two debenture issues amount to about $1.4 million.

Q — I have a large loss in Anaconda. Can the company make it without their Chilean mines or compensation for them? J. W. Q — Would you advise selling Anaconda? I need income. — A. J.

A — Chile's increasing participation in Anaconda's mines was apparent in revenues beginning in 1970. In 1970 these properties still accounted for 42 per cent of $1.31 of earnings. As of July this year expropriation was complete and compensation appears highly problematic.

North American mines produced 282,415 tons of copper, Chilean capacity was 500,000 tons annually. A sizeable amount of silver, gold, uranium, lead and aluminum are also produced by Anaconda.

Militating against the company has been a prolonged strike and the reduced world-wide copper price. Although a settlement has been reached with labor, the increased costs — about $1.30 an hour — will put an additional squeeze on profit margins. Increasing emphasis and expanded capacity in other metals "should gradually replace Chilean losses.

SO YOU ARE GOING TO BUY CARPET?

So you are going to buy carpet? ... And if you are the average person, you know very little about it. What to buy, where to buy, looms ahead of you, so you decide to shop around.

Everyplace you go tells you something different and you become so confused, you are just about ready to give up the whole idea.

In order to eliminate some of the confusion, here are a few tips: Think about color, you might as well eliminate the colors that won't go for one reason or another. Never buy a color you don't like simply because it's the end of the day. After all, you have to live with it for several years, long after its popularity is gone.

Decide on what texture and patterns are right for your particular decor. Have a general idea of the key areas to be carpeted. In addition to these facts, it is helpful to take along samples of colors and swatches of fabric being used.

Last, but not most important, as in all purchases you make for your home, you want to do business with a reliable firm. One with a good reputation for satisfied customers will likely stand behind the products they sell.

We have earned that reputation, and we invite you to discuss your carpet needs with us.

Four Shoshone people set trip

SHOSHONE — Four Shoshone residents will take the jet air trip to Dayton, Ohio, on Dec. 17 and 18, in conjunction with the Aerospace class they have been taking at the College of Southern Idaho, Twin Falls.

Those to take the trip are Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hatmaker, Paul Brammer and Mrs. Cleova Peterson. Hatmaker is city overseer in Shoshone and the other three are Lincoln School elementary teachers.

They are completing the course this week, having demonstrated the "shooting of their own rockets" to children at the Lincoln School last week under direction of Col. Schreckenberg, Twin Falls Civil Air Patrol.

Two capsules containing eggs were dropped from the roof of the school building, also a part of the "finals" for Brammer and Mrs. Peterson. They were termed a success, as neither egg broke. They had been encased in sufficient container-type inventions by the teachers to keep them from breaking.

The course has been offered to acquaint teachers with the latest developments in air planes and aerospace.

Mrs. Hatmaker has taught a unit to her fifth grade students on the subject while taking the course.

Other Shoshone teachers who have been taking the course are Mrs. Glon Croft, Mrs. Frank Finlayson and Mrs. Ernest Eldredge. Some of them took an earlier air trip with the class to California.

Zealots attack Israeli doctors

TEL AVIV (UPI)—Yitzhak Levi woke up one morning to read his own death notice, black bordered, in the newspaper. Alfred Behr came out of his house to find his car smeared with paint.

Colleagues of the two professors have had their homes defaced, received death threats, had their families threatened, been awakened at night by crank callers and seen their own pictures on "wanted posters" around town.

What brought Levi, Behr and the others under harassment is the fact they are pathologists performing autopsies in hospitals in this Jewish state.

The harassers are religious Zealots who hold to the ancient belief that bodies must be buried intact, so that when the Messiah comes they will be able to rise from the dead and join him.

The campaign against them has both worried and angered the doctors, so much so that for one day this month 70 of them went on strike in a demonstration demanding better police protection and action against the Zealots. This followed an earlier two-hour sympathy strike by all the nation's doctors.

Four youths were arrested recently at a telephone booth on suspicion of placing harassing calls to pathologists, but no charges were placed against them. Police said they were investigating.

"All the police do is investigate," said Dr. Raphael Reis, an Israel Medical Association spokesman. "No one has ever been apprehended, charged in a court or tried despite the fact this terror campaign has been going on for years."

The situation provides yet another illustration of the problems of a modern religious state encumbered by centuries old religious laws.

"If the autopsies are to be prohibited in Israel through hooliganism," pathologists, the Zealots will attain the same goal as the anti-Semitic government of Poland," one doctor wrote in the Jerusalem Post.

"I'm very sorry that the government has not been tougher in handling attacks by religious hooligans on pathologists," the dean of the Hadassah Medical School, Prof. Aharon Bentor, said. "We get the impression that not all is being done that could be done."

The situation places Prime Minister Golda Meir in a quandary. If she speaks out against the Zealots she risks offending the three national religious party members of her cabinet, who back her foreign policy in exchange for favors on the domestic scene.

"A pathologist is not a man running around with a knife cutting people up—the impression being given in some quarters," a Hadassah Hospital spokesman said.

Gooding building way up

GOODING—Construction for Gooding in October amounted to $71,200 according to a report issued by First Security Bank of Idaho.

The report said that construction included $34,000 in new residences, plus $17,200 in alterations and additions.

Figures for the same period a year ago show $24,000 in construction with only $5,000 for new homes.

New construction in Jerome during October was valued at $63,300, compared to $88,848 for the same month a year ago.

Although the information for October shows a diminishing of activity, the 10-month cumulative total for 1971 was $448,313, compared to only $424,467 for the same period a year ago.

In Jerome for the first 10 months of 1970, there were 14 dwelling units and 94 permits compared to 30 dwellings units and 124 permits for the same period this year.

Personnel positions are open

BOISE — Open-competitive examinations for the positions of assistant administrator, Environmental Improvement Agency and assistant administrator, Personal Health Services Agency have been announced by the Idaho Personnel Commission. Both agencies are a part of the Idaho Department of Health.

Applications are available from Idaho Departments of Employment and the Idaho Personnel Commission.

Applications must be post-marked no later than midnight Jan. 14, 1972, to be eligible for consideration.

New course opens at college

TWIN FALLS.—The next high school government course designed to qualify those taking G.E.D. tests for high school equivalency diplomas will begin at 7 p.m. Monday, Jan. 12, in Room 107, Shields Academic Building, College of Southern Idaho.

The class will meet Monday and Wednesday nights from 7-10 for 8 weeks.

Registration will be taken the night of the first class. Stephen Carter will be the instructor of the non-credit class.

Anyone desiring further information may call Marvin Glasscock, 733-9554, Ext. 221.

Purchase of corn planned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Moving quickly to quell farm belt unrest over low grain prices, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz Friday announced the government "will soon begin purchasing corn in the open market."

Butz, who promised during the fight over his confirmation to take action to bolster grain prices sagging under record harvests, acted less than 24 hours after his swearing-in.

The Agriculture Department said the specific amount of corn to be bought at market prices was left open. First bids will be received Dec. 10 for acceptance Dec. 13.

"The purchase operation will firm up farm prices and will provide reserve stocks to meet domestic requirements during periods of short supply," a department statement said. Butz was administered the oath of office at the White House late Thursday, just hours after his confirmation by the Senate on a 51-44 vote.

The sharp confirmation battle appeared to be the opening gun in farm belt presidential campaigning for 1972.

Time for living

"To a wise man, all the world's his soil..." wrote Ben Jonson.

Whether we pack our bags for a holiday weekend excursion or an around-the-world voyage, traveling brings the thrill of new surroundings and new-found friends. I can't think of a more enjoyable way to grow, learn, experience.

Free of family and work responsibilities in retirement, we're now able to roam when and where we like at our own pace. And many of us can take advantage of off-season travel during the Holidays and throughout the winter.

Three sisters, Mrs. George Carnes, 65, Mrs. Leo King, 71, and Mrs. Leonard McIntosh, 68, have always enjoyed traveling but, like most of us, found that two-week vacations barely satisfied their wanderlust.

"We were always pressured by lack of time," Mrs. Carnes recalls, "and always wishing we could stay a little longer and go down another unexplored road."

By September, 1968, all three sisters had retired and formed a travel team. Since then they've covered over 70,000 miles visiting every state except Hawaii. On their exciting record; earthquakes in Los Angeles, diamond-hunting in Arkansas, and gazing at January's space shot at Cape Kennedy.

They motor around in a three-year-old station wagon that's now on its second battery and third set of tires. They've become experts on how to stretch social security incomes, and masters at the art of trip-planning, apartment-hunting, packing and loading a station wagon.

Their cardinal rule: wherever they go they must live — not merely travel through. Usually they remain in one place for one or two months. Of course there are overnight stops in motels, but once the sisters reach their destination, they rent a furnished apartment or stay in a private home while the owners are away.

As soon as they arrive, they subscribe to a local newspaper. "Reading the newspaper gives you the area's social and political climate," Mrs. Carnes explains. "It also tells you the events and happenings going on."

"And we love church suppers," says Mrs. King, "because they're a great way to meet people."

A pair of retirees, Mr. and Mrs. Joop Wouters, also have a favorite way to meet people when they travel—they hitchhike. The couple (both in their sixties) recently completed the fifth in a series of hitchhiking adventures which have taken them some 70,000 miles in the U.S., Canada and Europe.

"We've met so many wonderful people — young and old, all races and occupations — the whole world is on the highway," says Mrs. Wouters.

"You learn a lot about a country and its people that you'd never find out if you traveled in your own car. Many of the drivers we meet invite us into their homes and we still correspond with many of them."

Typical of their experiences: At the Grand Canyon, a state trooper gave them a ride. He also played host on a day-long guided tour, invited them to dinner at his home, and returned them to the highway the next morning.

They've never had serious trouble while hitchhiking. "The few bad experiences we had were with drunken drivers," Mr. Wouter said. "But you soon develop a sixth sense about which cars not to get into."

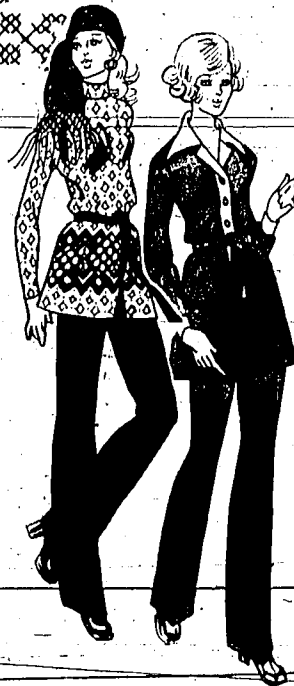

Both of them stress the importance of being physically fit before undertaking hitchhiking. They've often had to hike as far as 15 miles while waiting for rides — or waited all day in vain. Each carries only a musette bag with change of clothes, extra underwear and socks, toilet articles, maps and souvenirs.

The Wouters' philosophy sums up perfectly why travel lures so many of us.

"A tragedy can come any time and take all your possessions. But when you travel, everything you see and experience remains in your mind. No one can steal this and you can't lose it!"

THE IDAHO DEPARTMENT STORE — ON THE MALL — DOWNTOWN — TWIN FALLS

Chamber hears of county projects

RUPERT — Expenses involved with several needed improvements in Minidoka County were outlined for the Chamber of Commerce Thursday by the Minidoka County commissioners.

Only two years ago left to update county landfills and put them in operation under the direction of the county commission, according to Alex Roemer, commissioner. Roemer said the health department officials recently met with the county officials and said when the two years have passed, there will be no burning and the landfills must be covered each day.

"The County may have to charge the 'old' toll" dumping because the two mills we can buy will not cover the cost," he said. "In the town in the county there is a bonding ordinance and the waste and garbage have doubled from that town," he added.

Another large expense anticipated in the near future, Roemer said, will be the cost of a nursing home. Roemer said the only nursing home in the county that is credited is the wing of geriatrics in the Minidoka Memorial Hospital.

Officials from Nebraska met with the county commission and hospital officials recently to discuss plans which the firm is using in construction of nursing homes in several states. Cost of construction will be $23 per square foot complete.

Roemer said there is room on the existing hospital grounds for a 35-40 room nursing home addition at a total cost of about $250,000.

Zoning in rural areas is another problem facing the commission, according to Elmer Ketterling, another commissioner. Farmers juggling up petitions to stop subdivisions in areas which they feel should remain farms have produced good results he said. The zoning board is also doing a good job, he said, encouraging subdivisions only close to a town where they can hook up to the city water and sewer systems.

Ketterling noted that in the Hayden area, however, the subdivisions are creating problems. These taxes are higher than the people were told they would be.

Ketterling also said the fair board has been progressing with limited finances and plans this year to build rest rooms and chutes at the fair grounds.

Wayne Hollenbeck, chairman of the commission, said only about 14 per cent of the tax base in the county is controlled by the county commissioners, the remainder controlled by laws of the state or federal government.

"The county just certified the levies from the various taxing districts. It costs more each year to operate," he added.

"Minidoka county is in the Health District V as set by the last legislature. Funding is 35 per cent state and 65 per cent county for the district. I believe the county should have the right to fire and hire personnel and to set wages. It is wrong for the state officials to have the say so as to who works at what wage in the health district," Hollenbeck stated.

County taxpayers will soon assume the new tax burden of Mental Health District II which is presently being formed, Hollenbeck added. The cost to the county will be $1.66 per capita of 1.315 mill.

The courthouse has also been undergoing upgrading, and the top floor, which includes the district court, magistrate court, and assessor's office, is completed at a cost of $8,000 to the county taxpayers. Plans are to also upgrade the treasurer's office and the lobby.

Hollenbeck noted there is also a need for a better jail, as there is no place to put juveniles or women.

Another expense of the coming year is the $10,000 for elections, Hollenbeck concluded.

Also during the discussion, William Strasser, chamber president who has also served on the mental health board, said he has held-out for the past three years for state and federal participation in funding. The state legislation created mental health districts but provided no funding.

He also reminded the chamber members the Minicassia Child Development Center is holding the fund drive from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday in both counties to raise the goal of $10,000. Federal funds have been received to staff the center, and the old armory building in Rupert will be used.

Guest at the chamber luncheon was Steve Antone, Minidoka county representative.

FAMILY MEMBERS look on as dad, on his knees, decides how he is going to cut the Christmas tree. This scene will be repeated next weekend five miles south of Almo during the annual tree cutting at the Bureau of Land Management site.

Christmas tree cutting scheduled at Almo soon

ALMO — The annual Christmas tree cutting will be Dec. 11-12 five miles south of Almo, Bureau of Land Management, Burley District officials said.

The event is looked forward to by many families each year for it is an outing in which all members of the family can participate no matter what age.

Many families bring their lunch and make a day of it selecting their Christmas tree, having a picnic and returning home with that tree that is just right for their home for the holidays.

The roads leading to the cutting area will be signed to direct people to the right area. The tree permits will be sold at the cutting area both days from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at $1 and only one permit will be sold per family. Persons purchasing the permit must be 21 years old or older, or the head of a household.

The roads into the cutting area should be in good shape but people are advised to equip their cars or pickups for muddy or snow covered roads.

Anyone planning on going to the area should go prepared to do some hiking as the trees will be scattered and some distance from the parking area, areas. A good sharp ax or saw is also needed to cut the Christmas trees advised the BLM officials.

Intermountain split party-line

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Intermountain senators split primarily down party lines Thursday in the Senate 51-44 confirmation vote of Earl L. Butz, appointed as the new Agriculture secretary.

Sen. Len Jordan, R-Idaho, joined with 32 fellow Republicans and 14 Democrats in approving President Nixon's nomination of Butz.

Democratic Sens. Frank E. Moss of Utah and Frank Church of Idaho voted with 38 fellow Democrats and only four defectors from the GOP ranks in an unsuccessful effort to halt the confirmation.

The Purdue University dean will succeed Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, who is leaving the cabinet to take an executive post with the Ruston-Purina Corp.

While opponents of Butz charged that he was against the family farmer, Republican leaders accused Democrats of trying to whip up resentment against Nixon's agricultural program for the 1972 election.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., was the lone intermountain Democrat supporting Butz. Republican senators voting "aye" included Barry Goldwater and Paul J. Fannin of Arizona, Clifford Hansen of Wyoming and Colorado's Gordon Allott.

Montana Senators Lee Metcalf and Mike Mansfield, Wyoming's Gale McGee, Howard W. Cannon of Nevada and Joseph M. Montoya of New Mexico were among Democrats lining up against Butz.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, was hospitalized in Bethesda Naval Hospital and not able to vote.

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., and Sen. Inouye of Hawaii paired on the vote and were absent. Dominick favored Butz appointment.

Opponents of the 62-year-old Butz also included all of the actual or potential contenders for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Date changed

SHOSHONE — The Wood River Fire Control District election, originally set for Dec. 1, has been reset for Monday.

R.B. Kelley, board member, said the polls will be open from noon until 7 p.m. at the Wood River Center Grange hall.

Only person to have filed for the one vacancy is incumbent Kenneth Coulter. The holdover director is Oscar Kermer.

Location sought by 1st national bank

BURLEY — The search for a location for a branch of the Idaho First National Bank here is continuing.

James Burum, Boise, vice president of the bank, said Thursday that plans for opening a branch in Burley will be announced after a suitable location is found. Burum has been looking for a site to purchase or rent for the past four months.

An application for a Burley branch was approved in July by federal banking officials. The branch, when opened, will bring to six the number of Idaho First's Magic Valley offices.

Stuart's program Monday

TWIN FALLS — Robert Stuart Junior High School will have its annual Christmas program Monday.

There will be a short PTA meeting at 7:30 p.m., followed by the program by the school music department. Plans for 1972 will be discussed and refreshments will be served.

The ninth grade band and orchestra will perform and the seventh, eighth and ninth grade choruses will sing.

Smith wins in Pepsi opener

PARIS (UPI) — Californian Stan Smith, hoping to cap an already successful season, turned on his powerful serve and volley game Saturday to win his first match in the $50,000 Pepsi Masters Tennis Tournament.

Smith defeated Yugoslav Jan Kodeš 6-4, 6-4 in the first of six matches among the seven top independent pros in the indoor round robin tournament at the Coubertin Stadium.

Smith's alternative power and delicacy against Franulovic was in startling contrast to Nastase's staccato game of arguments, gestures, and chatter which eventually disconcerted Richey enough for the Rumanian to win.

Nastase and Richey provided the day's greatest entertainment.

Hurdling to touchdown

TENNESSEE'S Bobby Majors (44) steps over his own man on the way to a 44-yard punt return and touchdown in helping the Vols upset previously undefeated Penn State 31-11 Friday. (UPI telephoto)

Majors family leaves final gift for Vols — upset over Penn State

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Tennessee's All-American safety Bobby Majors wrote a sensational last chapter Saturday to the college playing careers of a fantastic football family — the five sons of Coach Shirley Majors of the little south Tennessee town of Huntland.

1956. Saturday, Bobby ran, punted and bedeviled the Penn State attack in a stunning 31-11 upset by the 12th-ranked Tennessee Vols over the fifth-ranked Nittany Lions.

Majors ran kickoff back 54 and 59 yards, punted the Lions into the hole at their own seven-yard score on a 44-yard punt return, and churned out 195 yards on returns during the afternoon. He was the third son of Shirley Majors, a high school and small college coach all his working life, to star at Tennessee.

with a punt to give Tennessee, 0-2 and Liberty Bowl bound, 21-3 halftime lead.

George Hunt put the Vols out front 24-3 with 14:17 left to play with a 21-yard field goal. He missed two other tries from 45 and 53 yards during the game.

All American linebacker Jackie Walker got into the scoring act when he intercepted a Hufnagel pass and ran it back 43 yards for the touchdown with 8:33 left to play. Walker's four touchdown interceptions for a career set a new Southeastern Conference record, breaking the old record Jake Scott of Georgia set in 1967-68.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Statistics of the Penn State Tennessee football game:	Tenn.	Penn State
First downs	23	14
Rushing yardage	507	41
Passing yardage	200	102
Return yardage	2	248
Time of possession	19:27	8:32
Fumbles	19	40
Points lost	7	15
Yards penalized	35	15

Eighteen years ago, the first of those sons — now head coach Johnny Majors of Iowa State — came to Tennessee and became an All-American single-wing runner, kicker and defensive back, winning the United-Press "player-of-the-year" award in Defensive back Conrad Graham started it all for Tennessee when he grabbed a flying fumble by Lion quarterback John Hufnagel and ran it back 76 yards with a key block by end Conrad Simonot to put the Vols out front 7-0 as time ran out in the first quarter. Penn State got three points on a 27-yard field goal by Alberto Vitello with 8:29 left in the second period. And it wasn't until the game had only 1:31 to go that Hufnagel hit halfback Lydell Mitchell on a 14-yard touchdown pass. End Chuck Herd ran a two-point conversion around the right side.

The Vols captured two Lion fumbles and intercepted four passes in stopping Penn State's running and passing attack which had scored 443 points in 10 wins this season.

The Lions came to Knoxville, with a Cotton Bowl appearance against Texas still to come, determined to prove that Eastern football ranked with the best anywhere. They blew it.

Indiana tops Miami 65-50

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Indiana's 6-8 junior center, Steve Downing, led the Hoosiers to a 65-50 victory over Miami of Ohio Saturday although he left the game with more than eight minutes to play with an injured knee.

Miami led until midway through the first half when Indiana began a series of offensive spurts and pulled ahead by 12 points. Miami came back to trail just 32-24 at intermission.

Downing led scoring with 16 points, followed by Frank Wilson and John Ritter with 14 each.

Less than a minute after Vitello's field goal, cornerback David Allen intercepted a Hufnagel pass and ran it 15 yards to the Penn State 15. Fullback Bill Rudder carried for nine, then for four, and dived in from the one for the score.

Then with 3:21 left in the half, Majors scampered 44 yards hobby, whose number 44 will be a permanent display at UT, was the last — and, some say, the finest all-around athlete of the family.

Hufnagel one ambition this season, making All-American in the footsteps of his older brother, John Majors, now head coach at Iowa State.

Big Ten sets gate record

CHICAGO (UPI) — Attendance at Big Ten football games in 1971 reached a record 3,713,291, and Ohio State, Michigan and Wisconsin were the three national leaders in home attendance, the conference announced Saturday.

Ohio State averaged 84,460 for its six games, Michigan averaged 80,825, and Wisconsin 68,148.

The Michigan-Ohio State game set a college single game record with 104,016, and four schools set single game records: Michigan, Michigan State with 80,063 for the Michigan game; Wisconsin with 78,535 for the LSU game; and Purdue with 69,765 for the Notre Dame game.

Attendance at home games only also set a record with 3,184,344, while attendance at conference games was 2,312,418, another mark.

Indians explode in last quarter to edge Pilots

BUHL — the Buhl Indians broke away from a see-saw battle midway through the fourth period Friday night to drop the Glens Ferry Pilots 61-49.

The Indians had it easy after taking the lead at 48-47 with 5:05 left in the game. From that point until 10 seconds remained, Glens Ferry failed to score. In the meantime, everyone Buhl Coach Bill Ingram had on the floor hit at least two points.

Glens Ferry scored well in the first and third quarter with the other two being considerably less. The Pilots stayed in the game in the first half when Paul Shrum hit two field goals in the final 11 seconds to account for half of his team's points in that period.

Glens Ferry took the lead but Buhl came back on the scoring of Meler and Heaps for a 15-12 margin and the Indians stayed there. Their biggest margin came at 28-18 before Rob Black got a field goal and Shrum wound it up with two field goals.

Hansen took over early in the second half and guided the Pilots into a 31-31 tie. Over the next nine minutes it was a horse race. The lead changed hands eight times and was tied four times until Meler, with 5:26 left in the game, tied it again at 48-48. Kruse put Buhl ahead 48-46 on a fast break. Kruse and Hansen narrowed it to one when he hit the second of a two-shot free throw situation. That marked the end of Glens

Shoshone edges Declo at buzzer

DECLO — Shoshone's Thompson scored as the buzzer sounded Friday night to let the Indians nip the Declo Hornets 60-58 in an overtime contest.

After the conclusion of regulation play, goal tending was called on Declo's Keith Shrink on a field goal attempt by Kinney of Shoshone to put the 56-56 tie into overtime. Both teams missed several foul shots in the overtime period and were plagued by turnovers.

Declo dominated the first half and controlled the backboards throughout the game. In the second half Shoshone started hitting well from the field and employed a man-to-man press which hurt Declo.

Shoshone was lead in scoring by Kinney with 15 points. Craig Spahnauer scored 17 to pace Declo with teammate Keith Shrink totalling 14.

Shoshone won the preliminary 52-46.

Ferry's hopes. Heaps hit the next time down the court but it was another minute before Meler added two more Buhl points. Kruse shoved the Indians ahead 54-47 with 2:44 left and the Pilots still had

Bunn-led BSC tops Cal State

BOISE (UPI) — Boise State College overcame opening game jitters with a hot shooting second half to win its first second game 90-71 over Cal State Stanislaus Friday night.

Greg Bunn, Burlay, led the Broncos with 22 points. Another Boise front court man, Steve Wallace, added 10.

Boise State broke open a tight game midway through the second half with six straight points that gave them a 68-56 lead. Bill Cottrell started the burst with a 10-foot jumper from the base line.

Wallace then added two short jumpers as Boise opened up its biggest lead of the game.

The Broncos put on another burst with five minutes left in the game that gave them a 20-point edge.

time but couldn't get anything down. Sanders, Haps and Faycett jumped the Indians ahead 60-47 over the next minute to ice it.

Richfield is winner over Hansen

HANSEN — The Richfield Tigers jumped to an early lead Friday night and went on to down Hansen 64-35.

In the first quarter Richfield got a quick 7-0 margin and led throughout the first half. The closest Hansen came was a 17-17 tie with 2:10 remaining in the half. Hansen was fighting cold shooting and turnovers in the early going with Richfield controlling the backboards.

In the second half Richfield went to a 48-23 margin by use of the third quarter and controlled the game the rest of the second half. Allen Paulson was high point man for Richfield with 19 points with Steve Bowers tallying 15. Sam Davis led Hansen scorers with 13.

Hansen defeated Richfold 33-20 in the junior varsity game.

Wyoming topples ISU 90-79

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — The University of Wyoming rode the high scoring of sophomore forward Bruno Konopka to a 90-79 victory over Idaho State Friday night.

The 6-6 Konopka, a Denver high school standout, threw in 30 points on jumpers and followups to take game high honors.

Idaho State opened the game with two straight baskets followed by a 10-point spurge by the Cowboys. But instead of playing dead, the Bengals, led by Edison Hicks who scored 20 points to lead the losers, pulled ahead again midway through the first half.

Franklin Irving, a 6-3 Wyoming forward, then got hot, and helped the Pokes increase the lead to the final margin.

Wyoming shot a hefty 59 percent from the floor to the Bengals 46 percent.

The Cowboys came off an 8-63 opening night loss Wednesday against Nebraska.

Oakley has 73-60 win over Grace

GRACE — Ray Sovero got Oakley started with 11 first-quarter points and Glenn Stanger stopped plans for fourth-quarter rallies with solid free throw shooting to lift the Oakley Hornets past Grace 73-60 Friday night.

Sovero's early blitz paced the Hornets to a 21-15 first-quarter lead, and early in the second period Oakley moved ahead by 10 points. The Hornets ran into a four-minute cold spell, managing only two free throws, as Grace closed in and from then on stayed well within contention.

Declo beats Valley in wrestling

VALLEY — The Declo Hornets defeated the Valley Vikings 36-30 Friday night in a dual wrestling match.

Kerry Osterhout of Declo pinned Kurtz in the heavyweight match and in the 155-pound class, Chuck Osterhout pinned Baker.

Results of the matches, Valley men listed first, include: 98 pounds, McClain was pinned by Bowen; 105 pounds, Sellers pinned Kidd; 110 pounds, L. Sellers was pinned by Barrow; 112 pounds, Bloxham pinned West; 128 pounds, Miller was decloined by Darrington; 132 pounds, Black pinned Arquilla; 138 pounds, Sorenson was pinned by Matthews; 145 pounds, Grant was pinned by Kidd; 155 pounds, Baker was pinned by Chuck Osterhout; 168 pounds, Call pinned Gaylen Osterhout; 185 pounds, Black pinned Keith Osterhout, and heavyweight, Kurtz was pinned by Kerry Osterhout.

Champ used drugs in title bout

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—A major doping scandal hung over the boxing world Saturday, after it was proven that Emilio Salavarrin, the flyweight champion of the World Boxing Council (WBC), took a prohibited drug.

Jose Sulaiman, WBC Secretary General, said Salavarrin, of the Philippines, was dragged during his recent title bout in Maracibo, Venezuela, and should be stripped of the title.

Sulaiman said he will recommend to the WBC's executive committee that the decision of Maracibo Boxing Commissioner Heberto Gonzalez be confirmed. The commissioner disqualified Salavarrin although he had retained his title on a tie, and declared Venezuelan challenger Betulio Gonzalez the winner.

If the WBC goes along with Sulaiman's report at a meeting Dec. 14 in Los Angeles, Gonzalez would be the WBC's new flyweight champion. The rival World Boxing Association (WBA) recognizes Japan's Masao Ohba as the champion.

Sulaiman, who was the WBC's official delegate at the Nov. 20 Salavarrin-Gonzalez bout, said he based his recommendations on a report received on the contents of a controversial bottle from which Salavarrin drank during the fight.

Sulaiman said he had brought a portion of the contents with him to Mexico, where it was analyzed by the chemical control laboratory, which did anti-doping tests during the 1968 Olympics in Mexico.

Trojans rally past Hagerman

WENDLE — The Wendell Trojans turned in a five-point play with 90 seconds left Friday night to come from behind and nip the Hagerman Pirates 67-60.

Wendell, trailing from four to 10 points, just about the whole contest, pulled to within one point with a minute and a half left. Al Stevenson was fouled on a one-and-one situation and Hagerman was handed a technical foul for protesting the call. Stevenson hit all three free throws to host Wendell ahead by two points and the Trojans added two more on the resulting possession.

From then on Wendell put the ball into a deliberate game and Hagerman had to foul in the hope the Trojans would miss the free throws. The strategy didn't work as the Trojans continued to hit well from the line and pull into the final margin.

Wendell displayed a well-timed scoring attack with Stevenson getting 15 points and teammate Kirk Webb, Kip Dennis and Bennett getting 14 each.

Dallas returns opening kickoff for TD, romps over New York by 52-10

IRVING, Tex. (UPI)—Rookie Ike Thomas ran the opening kickoff back 101 yards, Calvin Hill caught two touchdown passes and ran for another and Duane Thomas scored a pair Saturday as the Dallas Cowboys froliced to a 52-10 victory over the New York Jets.

Ignited by Thomas' second consecutive game-opening touchdown runback, the Cowboys exploded to a 28-point first quarter, smothered Joe Namath's first starting assignment in 20 regular season games and breezed to a 9-3 record that put them a game in front of Washington in the National Football Conference East.

Roger Staubach, the NFC's top passer, completed 10 of 15 passes for 168 yards, including a pair of 27-yard scoring tosses to Hill and an 18-yarder to Duane Thomas, before he retired in favor of Craig Morton with four minutes left in the third quarter. Namath, who got his first taste of action last Sunday by throwing for 258 yards and three touchdowns in a losing cause against San Francisco, never got unbound against the tremendous Dallas defense.

He retired with three minutes left in the first quarter with the score 28-0 and after having completed only one of five attempts and suffering an interception. He came back in the final period after Bob Davis re-injured an ankle but still was ineffective.

Hill ran nine yards for his third touchdown and Duane Thomas, lunged three yards for one, and Mike Clark kicked a 45-yard field goal to give Dallas a 38-3 halftime lead. Duane Thomas' 18-yard flip from Staubach and Morton's 20-yard pass to Lance Alworth in the final period completed the rout.

A 35-yard Bobby Howfield field goal in the second quarter and a one-yard pass from Davis to George Nock in the third quarter got the Jets their only points. Davis' two scrambling runs of 11 and 24 yards set up the touchdown.

The first of Herb Adderley's two interceptions set up Staubach's second scoring pass to Hill after the Cowboys had driven from their own 14-yard line to open the gate for the first one.

Claxton Welch's recovery of Chris Fargasopoulos' fumbled kickoff at the Jets' 15-yard line to set up Thomas' first touchdown.

Duane Thomas, running at fullback in place of injured Walt Garrison so he and Hill could both get into the same backfield, rushed for 712 yards on 14 carries, while Hill picked up 62 yards in 11 carries and caught four passes for 80 yards.

Paraje wins Display handicap

NEW YORK (UPI)—Argentine-bred Paraje turned back a stretch bid Saturday at Aqueduct to win the 17th running of the $55,400 Display Handicap before a crowd of 37,417.

Chompton, the 124-pound high-weight, finished second as he did last year in the Display, a half-length back of the winner. Hitchcock, stablemate of Paraje, and seeking a consecutive double in the Display, was six lengths farther back in third place.

Laffit Pincay, Jr. rode the winner, who in scoring his first stakes victory in this country, earned $33,840. The winner carried 116 pounds and completed the 2 1/4 miles in 3:52. Never worse than second at any stage of the race, Paraje moved into the lead just before going a mile. Chompton, making the final start of his career, moved from third on the backstretch to get within a head of the leader at the head of the stretch. Paraje, under right and left-handed whipping from his rider through the stretch, held Chompton safe to the wire while drifting out.

Bethany collects Mineral water bowl

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. (UPI)—A 24-yard field goal by Ken Pabst with six seconds remaining broke a 14-14 tie Saturday and lead Bethany College of Lindsborg, Kan., to a 17-14 victory over Missouri Valley in the 23rd annual Mineral Water Bowl.

The game ending drive that ended in the field goal started at the Bethany 30 with 2:11 to play. A pass and five running plays brought the ball to the Missouri Valley 14, where it was snapped to Pabst for the successful kick.

The field goal was the only second half scoring. Bethany took the initial lead in the second quarter on a five yard run by Al Hehre. Pabst kicked the first of two successful points after.

Missouri Valley then scored on a 34 yard pass from Bruce Ayers to Jim Roskelley. The kick failed. Bethany picked up seven more points with an eight yard pass from Hehre to Bruce Nelson and Pabst's kick.

With 14 seconds left in the half, Ayers passed 20 yards to Dan Kratzer for a touchdown and then connected with Roskelley on a two point conversion. The locker room scored was 14-14, opening the way for Pabst's final seconds victory kick.

Coach fines everyone after loss to Bucks

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Cincinnati Royals Coach Bob Cousy fined every member of the team, including himself, following the Royals' humiliating 120-82 loss to the Bucks in Milwaukee Friday night.

Cousy would say only that the amount of the fine was "substantial" but it was believed to be $200 a man. "I fined them," Cousy said of the squad, "starting with the coach. When a team plays like that it's usually the coach's responsibility."

"It's the worst we've played in the three years I've coached, and as soundly as we've been beaten," he said disgustedly. "It's the first time this year that we didn't go out to play at all."

Cousy was especially upset because the Bucks easily overwhelmed the Royals without the assistance of Kareem Jabbar, who was out of the lineup with the flu.

"We came out thing that we didn't have to play without Jabbar," Cousy commented. "It happens rather frequently in the league but not quite so decisively."

Cousy said he personally didn't believe in fining players, but added he felt the team was using the injuries of Tom Van Arsdale and Hookie Ken Durrett as an excuse and deserved the penalty.

"We're all getting paid to do the job," he said. "I continue to do the job this way, I'll expect to get my meagerance at the end of the year."

"I would think we would have enough pride not to let this happen," he added dejectedly.

Maryland fires head grid coach

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI)—Roy Lester was fired as head football coach at the University of Maryland Saturday, after guiding the Terps through three losing seasons. No replacement was named immediately.

Lester, who took over the Terps in March, 1969, led Maryland to successive records of 3-7, 2-9 and 2-9. The last two seasons reflected the worst record in the Atlantic Coast Conference for two straight years.

The announcement came as no surprise to Lester who predicted before the end of the season that he would be fired. That feeling was compounded with a 29-27 loss to Virginia in the Terps final game.

Lester was the fourth head coach in six years at the school with an undegraduate enrollment of 35,000.

Athletic Director Jim Kehoe, said the decision was based on Maryland's goal to be a winning team of national ranking.

Michigan rips West Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Junior Henry Wilmore scored 19 points in each half Saturday afternoon to pace Michigan to a 90-49 smothering of freeway rival Western Michigan.

Wilmore's par first half helped Michigan to a 49-29 lead which left little doubt about who was going to win the game.

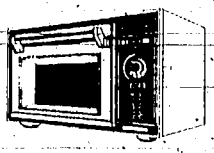

The most excitement in the contest was generated with 10:04 left in the first half when a little sandy mongrel dog went down the court with the Western Michigan players and halted the game temporarily.

The Broncos received 25 points from Chuck Washington in evening their record at 1-1 while sophomore center Mike Steele added 11 for the underdog Western Michigan team.

Ernie Johnson helped Michigan win its second without a loss by hitting 17 points while Wayne Grabiec and John Lockard each contributed 11.

Nicklaus draws into tie with Dill in Disney

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus, threatening to topple Lee Trevino as golf's top money winner this year, fired a 68 Saturday to share the lead with Terry Dill at nine-under-par after two rounds of the soggy $150,000 Walt Disney World Open golf tournament.

The "Golden Bear" complained about the morning chill and some bad iron shots but hit five birdies against a single bogey to catch up with the lanky Texan, who had shot a record 65 on opening day and a 70 Saturday. Nicklaus shot a 67 in the first round.

Dill, who's been troubled with a sore back, bogeyed two holes and collected five birdies. "It was kind of sloppy all day," said Nicklaus, who is $15,000 behind Trevino in the money race.

Bert Yancey, whose best performance have been a couple of second-place finishes, shot a pair of 68s on his first two tours of the $6,024-yard Magnolia course to wind up one stroke behind the leaders at eight under.

Crowd favorite Arnold Palmer, third on the money list and still in contention for the title, hit six birdie putts for a 66 which moved him into the third-place pack at 138, seven under par. Also in at seven under were England's Peter Butler, Jim Ferriell, Dwight Fovell and Frank Beard.

Dave Eichelberger, who had sole possession of second place at the end of the first round with a 66, shot a 72 Saturday to join a group knotted in fourth place with 138 totals.

Also in at 138 were Dale Douglans, Julius Baros, Jim Wiechers, Lanny Wadkins, Grier Jones and Hugh Royer. Trevino, who's been complaining he's "mentally worn out" after his most spectacular season ever, is 70-73-143 for the tournament, far behind the leaders. He said Saturday he hasn't made up his mind whether he will enter next week's Bahamas National Open, which could decide the coveted money-won title.

Nicklaus, finishing strong in the waning days of the tour, went immediately to the practice green after finishing his 18 holes to work on his iron shots. "My iron shots were no good again," said Nicklaus. "I experimented with a lot of shots today."

Dill, a 6-foot-3, 200-pounder, said he "didn't play as well as the first day. I missed some putts and my drives were slipping a little."

Palmer, who had shot an uninspired 71 the first day, blamed it on a virus. "I feel a lot better today," said Palmer. "I had a sore throat and a bad night Thursday night and yesterday (when the tournament was rained out) was a blessing in disguise. I got a chance to rest up."

Nicklaus, with his eye on the $30,000 first place Disney prize, said his game has improved on the last leg of the PGA tour. "I wish I had been playing this well in June," he said.

A total of 87 players made the cut with 144 scores or less as the field was trimmed for the final two rounds which conclude Monday.

Mildren, Oklahoma rout Oklahoma Staters 58-14

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI)—Quarterback Jack Mildren ran for two touchdowns and passed for another and scabbard Greg Pruitt darted for two more scores to pace No. 3 Oklahoma's 58-14 rout of Oklahoma State Saturday.

The Sooners, looking ahead to a Sugar Bowl encounter with Auburn and still reeling from their 35-13 loss to No. 1 Nebraska Thanksgiving Day, scored on nine of their 13 possessions.

The scoring stampede opened with a 22-yard field goal by John Carroll three minutes into the game. He added seven conversion points and fell just one point short of the NCAA season kick scoring record. He owns that title in the conference.

Split end Jon Harrison blazed 77 yards on a reverse with 27 seconds left in the first quarter to put Oklahoma ahead 17-0.

Mildren's touchdowns runs, of 5 and 1 yards, came late in the first quarter and early in the second period. He threw an 18-yard scoring pass to tight end Albert Chandler with four seconds left in the half, giving the Sooners a 37-7 margin.

Pruitt scored on a 1-yard lunge late in the second quarter and on a 7-yard scamper deep in the third period.

Halfback Roy Bell ran four yards to score and reserve halfback Steve Dodd had a 5-yard touchdown run in the final quarter to complete the Sooner attack.

Oklahoma State quarterback Tony Pounds completed a pass to flanker Dick Graham for 17 yards, and Graham lateraled to tight end Eddie Garrett who churned for 38 yards and the Cowboys' first touchdown.

Graham scored the only other time OSU made it into the end zone on a 7-yard pass from Pounds.

The Sooners picked up 696 yards total offense in the game to give them a 562.2 average for the season, setting a new NCAA mark. The old record was 562.0 set by Houston in 1968.

Five conference one-season records were set by Oklahoma Saturday, including number of five-downs—(279), individual rushing yardage (Pruitt, 1,685), extra points kicked (Carroll, 53), kick scoring points (Carroll, 80) and total scoring (494).

Pruitt led all rushers, piling up 189 yards on 18 carries. Mildren had 137 yards total offense, 42 rushing and 95 on four completions of nine pass attempts.

UPI selects Marinaro player of year

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ed Marinaro of Cornell, the disappointed runner-up in the voting for the Heisman Trophy, smiled again today when he learned United Press International had chosen him both the 1971 Player of the Year and Back of the Year in college football.

Marinaro, who became the National Collegiate Athletic Association's all-time rushing leader this season in leading his school to its first Ivy League title ever, was slated when reached by telephone and informed that sportswriters and sportscasters had overwhelmingly voted him the two awards over Heisman Trophy winner Pat Sullivan of Auburn.

Marinaro's reaction was a far cry from a week ago when he sat dejected in his living room and watched on television as Sullivan was announced as the winner of the Heisman, considered college football's most coveted prize.

"I was very disappointed about not winning the Heisman," said Marinaro, "but when UPI named me Player of the Year in the East I look away a lot of pain. And now this honor. It's simply unbelievable in light of everything else. I'm so pleased that I can't really believe it yet. This is really a great honor."

Marinaro polled 77 votes in the voting for the Player of the Year balloting while Sullivan had to settle for second time with 52 votes. Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma was third with 25 votes while Johnny Musso of Alabama was fourth with 10 and Lydell Mitchell of Penn State and Chuck Ealey of Toledo tied for fifth with seven votes. Walt Patulaki of Notre Dame and Jack Mildren of Oklahoma finished with five votes each.

Marinaro was even a more convincing winner in the Back of the Year balloting. He received 79 votes compared to Sullivan's 38. Pruitt was third with 36, Musso fourth with 14, Mitchell fifth with 10, Billy Taylor of Michigan sixth with seven and Ealey and Mildren tied for seventh with five votes apiece.

The 21-year-old Marinaro from New Milford, N.J., was a great athlete at Cornell, running for 4,715 yards in his three varsity seasons to establish an NCAA mark.

Other records that Marinaro set this year are: Most rushes career (918), most carries rushing per game for season (39.5), most carries per game career (34.0), rushing yards gained for season (1,881), most yards gained per game for season (209.0), most yards gained per game for career (174.6).

The list of Marinaro's achievements goes on and on. He rushed for 200 yards or more in five games this past season and 10 times in his career. He has had 23, 100-yard games while playing in 27 games at Cornell.

He became only the second man in college football history to rush for over 1,000 yards for three successive seasons. Chris Gilbert of Texas was the other. He has a career scoring average of 11.8 points per game and has averaged 1.0 touch-

Syracuse blanks Miami in 14-0 win

MIAMI (UPI)—Running back Roger Praetorius bulldozed for steady gains, including a 10-yard touchdown, Saturday night to give Syracuse a 14-0 win over Miami and save Coach Ben Schwartzwalder from his first losing season since 1940.

Praetorius crashed around left end in the second quarter, carrying two Miami Hurricanes with him for a 7-0 lead, and Ron Page clinched it, scoring from seven yards out in the third period. The Hurricanes, outwelled and outmanned, never threatened to take the lead.

The win gave Syracuse a 5-5-1 final season record. Schwartzwalder's only losing year was his first for the Orangemen in 1940 when they stumbled to a 4-5 mark. Miami wound up its season with a disappointing 4-7 record.

Page's clinching touchdown came at the end of a crunching nine-play, 84-yard drive. The big plays came when quarterback Bob Woodruff hit wide receiver Brian Hambleton on consecutive passes of 15 and 29 yards. Fullback Marty Januszkiewicz got the march going with a 19-yard burst up the middle.

Page's score came on a sweep around left end and he glided into the end zone untouched. Syracuse dominated throughout most of the game, but mistakes plagued them in the first half until Praetorius rambled for his second-quarter score. The touchdown was set up by defensive back Tom Myers, who took a Miami punt on the Hurricane 45 and twisted down the right sideline 27 yards to the 18.

Januszkiewicz and Praetorius matched four-yard bursts up the middle to the 10 where Praetorius took the wide pitchout from quarterback Bob Woodruff and bulldozed over.

The previous time Syracuse had the ball the Orangemen moved from their own 39 to the Miami three before Woodruff muffed a snap from center and Miami's tackle Dan Johnson fell on it, stopping the drive. The big plays on the march were passes of 12 and 10 yards from Woodruff to tight end Rick Steiner.

The first time Syracuse got the ball they established dominance, moving steadily from their own 24 to the Miami 25 where the drive stalled and Erle Baugher missed a 42-yard field goal.

Syracuse threatened to cash in on a third touchdown in the fourth quarter when it drove from its own 38 to the Miami two. But a fourth-down lunge up the middle by Praetorius fell a foot short and Miami took over.

The march was a study in ball control, conservative football, with the biggest gain an 11-yarder by Januszkiewicz.

More than 5,200 persons watched a closely fought battle until the waning minutes of the game when the Tarheels pulled ahead. North Carolina led 76-09 with five minutes remaining in the game and led 39-37 at the half.

Help? he works at it

BY LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Sports Editor

The man gazing out at you from the unflattering picture on this page right now is one of the key men in College of Southern Idaho basketball. He is the man behind the scenes known to many connected with basketball from high school players to professional team owners.

At 23 years of age he is not a legend in the game. But his chances become better almost every day.

He is Lewis Schaffel. A former New York City asphalt basketball player, now a lawyer in his home town. His total existence revolves around the game of basketball and the game is better for it.

A lot of it is happenstance. Schaffel was recruited off the playgrounds of New York after a successful prep career at Erasmus Ward High School. He played his college ball in Kansas and played it well enough to be drafted by the NBA. However, a back injury precluded his trying. That very probably was the most fortunate injury in history for a great many New York basketball players and the game of basketball.

While Lew continued his graduate work in law, his abiding interest in basketball took him to cents:

Schaffel does all his scouting at his own expense and more than one coach that has offered to pay for his services has had not only the dressing down of his life but separated himself from any chance of getting Lew's aid thereafter.

Lew is best known among college coaches. At the national tournament in Hutchinson, Kan. at the Casper tournament last week, at any junior college tournament — which attracts four-year college coaches by the score — Schaffel is immediately surrounded. Coaches that don't know him personally make it a point to introduce themselves if necessary once his name is applied to the face.

Every school, every coach is under constant scrutiny by Schaffel. He may direct boys to one school for three or four years, then something will happen that investigation proves isn't the player's fault. That school or coach goes on the void list. Players who complain of something which investigation proves wrong draw Lew's disciplinary attention — but he never gives up on a boy. Any divorce of that nature is the athlete's choice.

He is constantly screening. For although one high school and college gymnasiums. Gymnasiums that don't see a white face from one year to the next. It became apparent to Lew that something was drastically wrong. Never more than 50 per cent of the top prospects in "the city" ever received a scholarship offer from colleges. The thought turned his life into a completely new and satisfactory direction.

"If they can't get out, they have no chance"

He set out to help the "city" players; almost all blacks, but that took time. He invaded unfriendly camps for the most part and vividly remembers his first visit to Boys High in New York.

"I rode the subway down and then I think I walked about seven blocks to get to the gym," he recalls. "The area is all black. When I started up the gymnasium steps, a police officer stopped me and asked me just where I thought I was going. I told him to see the game. He said 'I can't let you get out of here but it would be a favor to me and you and everyone if you just turned around and went back to where you came from.'"

Schaffel stayed — with a policeman posted on each side of him. In the first quarter, one of his body guards turned to him and said, "you realize if something happens, we'll be of no help to you."

Nothing happened. The gym was filled with 4,000 black spectators who wondered at the novelty of the honky in their midst. Later Schaffel was told he was the first white, no-cop-to-see Boys High play at home for four years.

This type story is amply illustrated by a scene this writer witnessed at Hutchinson, Kans., two years ago at the national junior college tournament. We were walking out of the arena at halftime with Schaffel when a coach from a Big Eight Conference school walked up to Lew, introduced himself and asked if he could talk to him. Schaffel agreed.

The coach asked "is this Homer Jones (fictitious name) at Boys High as great a prospect as I've heard." Schaffel replied he felt the boy would someday play professional basketball.

"That's what I heard," the coach replied. "I wish I had guts enough to see him play!"

Schaffel made the acquaintance of some of the boys with the talent to play major college ball. To get them interested in college was no problem, but to win their confidence was something else. The next step was to find arenas, coaches and schools who would give the boys a chance to rise or fall on their own merits. If winning the confidence of the players wasn't hard enough, the first lesson as to the second part was a stunner.

Lew won the confidence of one of the top five boys in the city and placed him in a junior college which was coached by an ex-teenammie from Kansas and a mini Lew. Lew felt he knew quite well. This was his first effort.

"This man (the player) left his house with everything he owned on his back or else carried in a brown paper bag tied with string. I said 'hey, first impressions, man. You're going to college. Wear your Sunday best,'" Schaffel recalls. "He answered 'this is Mr. Schaffel.' I almost cried." Lew continued, "I borrowed $100 from my mother and got him some clothes, a sports coat, slacks, underwear, socks, the regular stuff." The player almost broke down, Lew remembers.

A couple of months later, Schaffel cried. The last of many for the junior college, injured his knee, ligament and tendon trouble, just before the season started. Schaffel's teammate and now ex-friend sent the boy home. "Fortunately," Lew says, "this kid was tougher than most. He got enough part time jobs to get the knee operated on and kept going to school. He got his degree. But I found out then I had to know the coaches well or better than the boy."

Now don't confuse Schaffel with the bird-dog, a man that scours the gymnasiums and playgrounds of all major cities lining up talent. Bird dogs do it for money. A coach calls him says he needs a guard and two forwards and the bird dog provides them for $100 per head. The bird dog cares not whether the school or coach will have the boy's interests at heart nor whether the boy is a citizen risk. It's strictly dollars and

BURLEY — Mike Sagers and Tracy Nielsen pumped through 14 points over the last five minutes Friday night to pull the Burley Bobcats away from a rallying Boise Braves and into a averaging 143.31 miles per hour in a Dodge Charger.

Allison wins Texas Permatex

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., celebrating his 34th birthday one day late, won the $10,000 Texas Permatex 200 at Texas World Speedway Saturday

This was the first race of a weekend triple-header which reopened the $3 million, two-mile speedway after two years of inactivity. The $25,000 Alamo 200 for Grand Touring and Grand American cars was scheduled Saturday night, and the $80,000 Texas 500 for Grand National cars will be run Sunday.

Allison, winning his 29th national sportsman's event of the year, had a three-lap margin over Jack Ingram of Asheville, N.C., in a 1968 Ford. James Hyllton of Inman, S.C., slipped to third place less than a lap behind Ingram when Hyllton's 1968 Mercury ran out of gas on the last lap with less than a half mile to go to the finish line. He coasted to the pits, refueled and finished the race.

Allison, the third fastest qualifier in his 1968 Charger, took the lead from Hyllton on the 50th lap when Hyllton made his first pit stop and killed the engine as he tried to accelerate back onto the track. His crew was pushing the Mercury through the pit area to restart it when Allison's crew joined in to help start the car even though the two drivers were battling for first place.

Allison made his pit stop a lap later, but Hyllton also had to go into the pits and Allison beat him out by 1-2 seconds.

Allison extended his lead to a full lap when Hyllton was forced to pit a third time, this time for two right tires.

Darrell Waltrip of Franklin, Tenn., the fastest qualifier at 163.668, led the first 24 laps in his 1966 Chevrolet.

Packers will start Starr

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Veteran quarterback Bart Starr, who had a less than sensational return to pro football last weekend, has been given the nod to start Sunday's game here against the St. Louis Cardinals, the Packers announced Saturday night.

Starr feels his arm is getting stronger and Sunday's game here will give his arm another test and the pack a chance to improve on a dismal 3-7-1 record this season.

Lew told me he didn't believe Steve would get a square shake with the coach there and said I should tell Hegens he should come to CSI with me," Bassett said. "I tried all one day to call Steve and couldn't get him. The next day I just stayed home and called him every 10 or 15 minutes. Finally I got him about 5 (p.m.). I told him what Lew had said and that he should come to Idaho with me. Hegens said 'okny.'"

All the while Hegens was nodding his head. "How does it feel to have that kind of power? One unhappy lad could ruin all of Schaffel's prestige."

"No. Not at all," Schaffel says. "All these kids want is a chance. They have a lot of adjusting to do and it can be very bewildering to them. But as long as they aren't lured to, as long as they feel they are getting a square shake, they know the rest is up to them. Whether they like a place or a coach or not becomes a matter of personal choice."

"What most people fail to realize is that the adjusting for a black man in a community like Twin Falls as opposed to his home in New York is much more difficult than the adjusting of the one of Twin Falls to see blacks in their college and on their basketball team. These boys see things every day that would be totally unheard of at home. Things that you accept out here without ever thinking about. They'll see a hundred things foreign to them in the first couple-three weeks out here and they have to try to find the logic in it. Things like just regular fans inviting them into their homes for a barbecue of something like that. They are in a totally foreign environment, totally different from anything they've seen or heard about whites. It takes a lot of maturity for them to accept it. Once they've seen it, they have an idea of how life can be. They'll work as hard as anyone to have that," Schaffel says.

"As Schaffel bobbed along in his life of getting an education and helping black athletes to

Jabbar-led Bucks top Bulls 108-105

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Kareem Jabbar climbed out of his sick bed Saturday afternoon and led the Milwaukee Bucks to an eyelash thin 108-105 win over the Chicago Bulls in a National Basketball Association game here.

Jabbar, who was in bed with the flu and missed the Bucks' game against Cincinnati Friday night, was a doubtful starter before the game. But he came out and was more than ready to play as he scored 41 points to lead the Bucks to the win.

The game started as a typical Milwaukee-Chicago clash. The Bulls led 25-25 at the end of the first period and 51-51 at the half. The lead changed hands 16 times during the first half alone.

The Bucks led 78-77 at the end of the third quarter but Chicago came back to take a 103-98 lead with 2:29 left in the game.

But two baskets by Lucius Allen and two by Jabbar combined with Clifford Ray's only bucket of the game gave Milwaukee a 106-105 lead with 23 seconds left. The Bulls had the ball and Jerry Sloan missed a shot with four seconds left and Jabbar came up with the rebound, was fouled by Bob Love, and made two free throws with one second left for the win.

Krahn leads Gooding to 63-31 win over Knights

GOODING — Gooding, last year's A-2 state champions, dumped Bishop Kelly 63-31 Saturday night.

Frank Krahn opened a 2-0 lead for Gooding with Bishop Kelly plagued by fouls and turnovers in the first quarter. Gooding dominated play in the first half and took a 32-17 margin into intermission. Both teams started all seniors in their lineups.

The Knights from Boise came out cold in the second half with Gooding scoring 16 points to 3 for Bishop Kelly in the third quarter.

Both teams substituted freely in the fourth period as Krahn went further behind the tough Gooding Senators. High scorer for coach Jim

Minnesota kicks Warmath upstairs

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Paul Glie, twin cities radio broadcaster, has been named Minnesota's new athletic director, and Murray Warmath, football coach, will become assistant athletic director for special projects, University President Malcolm Moores announced Saturday.

Moores also announced the university has received a $15,000 grant from Educational Facilities Laboratory in New York to conduct a study to determine the feasibility of putting a dome over Memorial Stadium.

met with Moos Friday night. He will replace Marsh Hyman, who announced his resignation as athletic director earlier in the day and asked that he be relieved of his intercollegiate duties June 30.

Saturday's announcements ended weeks of speculation about a shakeup in the department because of the deficit projected to be $400,000 by next summer. During the last three years, all losing seasons, average attendance at Gopher games dropped by about 15,000.

During his 18 years of coaching Warmath compiled a 97-84-10 record and coached three teams to Big Ten championships.

Moores said Warmath, 58, has not resigned or been fired and will continue recruiting football players until a new coach is named. Much of Warmath's new responsibilities will involve work with the dome study, Moos said.

Shrum-led Pilots nip Kimberly

GLENN'S FERRY — Bill Shrum tanked 27 points Friday night to help the Glenn's Ferry Pilots outlast the scrappy Kimberly Bulldogs in a Little Five Conference battle.

It was a rough and tumble contest with Kimberly going into a press that resulted in a lot of action — and 30 fouls.

After a deadlock in the first quarter, Shrum started hitting while Kimberly went cold and the Pilots piled up a 20-18 intermission edge.

The Pilots appeared in command through most of the third period but in the waning minutes, Kimberly, behind the eight-point effort of Burman, cut to within four points.

It stayed tight until the final 2:30 when Kimberly drew to within two. But the Pilots started cashing in from the foul line as Kimberly's press grew more frantic.

Kimberly won the preliminary.

Terrible Tiger wins handicap

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mrs. William G. Christmas' Terrible Tiger ran away from his opposition Saturday in winning the $28,265 Gettysburg handicap by 10-1/4 lengths over Ralph Woodson's Intensive at Liberty Bell Race Track.

Hobeau Farm's Peace Corps, who returned $80,000 to his owners last summer by winning the inaugural running of the $100,000 Hobson Handicap at Liberty Bell, was another length and a quarter back. Time for the one-mile Gettysburg over a fast track was 1:36.

Jockey Mike Miceli followed instructions perfectly in picking up the winners share of $17,175 for Terrible Tiger's owner, Trainer William G. Christmas told Miceli before the race to go to the front if he could.

Terrible Tiger returned $12.80, 6.40 and 4.00 to his backers in the crowd of 17,089, who wagered a total of $1,929,711 for the day.

"He ran real easy," said Miceli, who was riding Terrible Tiger for the first time. "I just had to tap him with the whip a couple of times."

Marquette has second victory

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The Marquette Warriors shook off a stubborn Bowling Green team midway in the second half Saturday night and went on to post their second consecutive win this season, 84-64.

The Warriors committed several turnovers in the first half and led by only four points, 42-38, at the half. But Marquette came out with a perfect defense in the second half and scored the first eight points to open up a 50-38 lead.

Bowling Green, behind the shooting of Ballynn Badenhop who had 24 points, narrowed that margin to 65-57.

But the Warriors forced the Falcons to turn the ball over time after time and won going away.

Bob Lacey led Marquette scoring with 24 points; Marcus Washington had 20 and Jim Chones 17 for the Warriors. The win was the 58th consecutive victory for the Warriors at the Milwaukee arena.

Indians hit late, drop Castleford

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone Indians turned to the free throw line and the rebounding of Ed Chess in the fourth quarter Saturday to pull away from the Castleford Wolves 48-34.

The game was tight over the first three quarters, the Wolves ahead 15-11 at the end of the first period and Shoshone up 21-19 and 33-28 at the next two periods. But early in the fourth period Shoshone started pulling away and moved to a deliberate game. Castleford had to come out pressing defensively and the Indians made good at the foul line.

Castleford won the preliminary.

Behagen hits 25 in Gopher win

AMES, Iowa (UPI) — The tall Minnesota Gophers Saturday night overpowered the Iowa State Cyclones with their rebounding and came from behind to defeat the Cyclones 72-58.

Minnesota, which started four players 6-8 or taller, out-rebounded the Cyclones 48 to 27.

Although the Cyclones, now 1-1 on the season, held a 33-31 edge at the half, they hit a 20-minute cold shooting spell in the second period in which the Gophers outscored them 14-1.

A junior college transfer, 6-9 Ron Behagen, led the Minnesota attack with 25 points and also brought down 13 rebounds. Also in double figures for the gophers were Clyde Turner with 16 points, Jim Brewer with 14 and Bob Nix with 12.

Kentucky ends Kansas' skein

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — Defensive-minded Kentucky, sparked by 6-11 Jim Andrews' 26 points, held Kansas to two points during five of the last six minutes Saturday night, dealing the Jayhawks a 79-69 defeat and breaking Kansas' 26-game homecourt winning streak.

Kansas pulled to within three at 64-61 with 5:55 to go before Andrews took command with consecutive baskets. The Wildcats, ranked 12th nationally, outscored Kansas, 18-4, before Tom Kivisto broke the drought with a pair of free throws 24 seconds from the end.

But Stallworth led Kansas with 26 points, while Dave Taylor had 13 and Kivisto 12. Tom Parker added 18 for the Wildcats, while Stan Key had 13 and Ronnie Lyons 12.

The victory was Kentucky's second without a loss, while Kansas evened its records at 1-1.

Castleford defeats Dietrich

DIETRICH — The Castleford Wolves blew away in the second quarter and fought off a rally midway through the fourth period to drop the Dietrich Blue Devils 65-60 Friday night.

Castleford solved the Dietrich press in the second quarter and went to work with a steady patterned offense that picked up a lot of good shots. That sent the Wolves ahead 37-20 by halftime.

Castleford upped that to 50-30 in the third quarter but Dietrich roared in the opening minutes of the fourth and reduced the margin to 50-40. Then fouls started taking their toll, four Devils going to the sidelines, and Russ McCowan had to leave with a sprained ankle. Castleford romped in from there.

Castleford won the preliminary.

Devils top Valley as Flynn stars

MURTAUGH — Big John Flynn and young Rob Wright took control of the boards and provided 30 points Saturday night in leading the Murtaugh Red Devils to a 58-42 decision over the Valley Vikings.

Flynn, although shorter than two Valley men, was nearly unstoppable underneath as he tanked 29 points while Wright got eight in addition to his numerous rebounds.

Murtaugh flew the game open in the second quarter when it pushed a 17-12 first-quarter margin to 37-24 by intermission. The Devils went largely to Flynn during that period and he fashioned the big bulge.

Valley won the preliminary.

Knicks smash Braves 130-90

NEW YORK — The New York Knicks caught Buffalo with its defenses down as they routed the Braves, 130-90, Saturday night behind the 25-point shooting of Walt Frazier.

Dick Barnett set the tone of the game with an 11-point first period helped more New York to a 32-18 lead. Jerry Lucas picked up the tempo with some good field shooting in the second quarter that produced a 62-40 halftime lead for the Knicks.

Two baskets by Lucas, a pair by Dave DeBusschere and a foul shot by Frazier gave New York a 25-point bulge at 71-46 with five minutes gone in the third period.

New York squandered that type of lead in losing to Seattle last Tuesday. This time the Knicks kept hammering away at a weak Buffalo defense as Barnett hit for 18 points, DeBusschere tallied 16 and Lucas netted 15.

Jerry Chambers and Randy Smith led Buffalo with 13 points apiece. New York clicked on 69.1 per cent of its shots in the first half and made 10 of 11 free throws. The Braves could only connect on 38.6 per cent of their first half shots as they hit on 17 of 44 attempts.

Wildcats drop Ohio

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — Northwestern pulled away in the second half of a sloppily played game Saturday night to post a 76-65 basketball victory over Ohio University.

Northwestern was paced by center Barry Hentz who scored 22 points but played little more than half the game and led 31-28 at the half. Mark Sibley added 20 and Rick Sund got 18 for the Wildcats. Bob Howell led Ohio with 16.

But Northwestern could score only one field goal in seven attempts in the first nine minutes of the game and made 18 turnovers in the first half and seven more after intermission. Ohio committed 19 turnovers in the game and hit on only 33 per cent of its shots from the field in the first half.

Heaps and Buhl drop Wendell

BUHL — Mark Heaps broke open a tight game with three steals and cripples in the third quarter Saturday night as the Buhl Indians won their second game of the weekend by downing the Wendell Trojans 75-60.

The teams were almost equal through the first half with Wendell managing a tight 33-31 margin at intermission. But Heaps started collecting easy points in the third period and Kendal Meier, Buhl's 8-6 center, picked up some more under the boards as Buhl rushed into a 56-44 lead in the third period.

Wendell managed to cut into the margin behind a press in the fourth period but Buhl then solved it, picked up a couple easy ones on the back and coasted in.

Buhl won it on the boards, out-rebounding Wendell 63-28.

Buhl won the preliminary.

Sonics drop Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Barry Clemens hit a jump shot with 13 seconds left and added two insurance free throws Saturday night as the Seattle SuperSonics edged the Cincinnati Royals, 100-98.

The Royals tied the score at 98 with 42 seconds remaining on a stiff shot by Johnny Green, but Clemens' clutch points put the game out of Cincinnati's reach despite a layup at the final buzzer by the Royals' Nate Archibald.

The Royals, trailing 61-47 at halftime, took the lead for the first time in the game midway through the third period at 67-66 on a jumper by Archibald. Archibald led all scorers with 27 points.

Behagen hits 25 in Gopher win

AMES, Iowa (UPI) — The tall Minnesota Gophers Saturday night overpowered the Iowa State Cyclones with their rebounding and came from behind to defeat the Cyclones 72-58.

Minnesota, which started four players 6-8 or taller, out-rebounded the Cyclones 48 to 27.

Although the Cyclones, now 1-1 on the season, held a 33-31 edge at the half, they hit a 20-minute cold shooting spell in the second period in which the Gophers outscored them 14-1.

A junior college transfer, 6-9 Ron Behagen, led the Minnesota attack with 25 points and also brought down 13 rebounds. Also in double figures for the gophers were Clyde Turner with 16 points, Jim Brewer with 14 and Bob Nix with 12.

Valley won the preliminary.

Ohio State shells Oregon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Center Luke Wille scored 21 points as fifth-ranked Ohio State overcame Oregon's ball control tactics Saturday night for a 68-57 victory.

Wille's 10 h first half points paced the Buckeyes to a 30-10 intermission lead as the smaller Ducks, working for the good percentage shots, counted only six field goals in the opening 20 minutes.

Oregon, led by the outside shooting of foot-foot Rusty Blair and Doug Little, narrowed the margin to 37-31 with a little over 14 minutes remaining in the second half, by outscoring the Buckeyes by 15-7. Bob Stegmann, O's "Buckeyes" as-cond leading scorer with 14 points, then came off the bench and rallied Ohio State to a 54-39 lead with six minutes to play.

Changes tire

PREPARING to change a tire is Shirley Wasko, Buhl, during the powder puff mechanics class at the College of Southern Idaho. The class was conducted by Paul Hoppe.

Checks plugs

DR. ADELE THOMPSON checks a spark plug as Paul Hoppe, instructor, looks on. Dr. Thompson was one of 15 women in Magic Valley to participate in the powder puff mechanics class.

Tire problems

JACKING UP a car as she prepares to put on the spare tire is Sharla Martinsen. The eight-week class just concluded at CSI, with some of the women wanting to enroll in more advanced mechanics classes.

Certificate presented

RECEIVING her certificate of completion is Mrs. Betty Bever from her instructor, Paul Hoppe. The powder puff course dealt mostly with theory and diagnosis, with some practical experience in the shop.

All photos by Dan Johnson

Helping hands

PAUL HOPPE gives Nona Varano a helping hand as she removes a spark plug. A powder puff advanced class is anticipated in the near future.

Practical experience

IN THE PROCESS of changing the fan belt is Ann Livingston, Twin Falls, as her classmates watch. Practical experience was one phase of the class.

Book Review

By ALLEN BENZ
Twin Falls Public Library

TWIN FALLS — This week's review is on "Aliens in the Skies," the scientific rebuttal to the Condon Committee report edited by John G. Fuller.

This is the story of six men — six scientists — who were invited by Congress to come to Washington and give testimony concerning one of this century's most controversial and persistent enigmas — unidentified flying objects.

Those testifying included Dr. J. Allen Hynek, chief scientific consultant to the Air Force Project Bluebook and chairman of the Department of Astronomy, Northwestern University; the late James E. McDonald, then senior scientist at the Institute of Atmospheric Physics, University of Arizona; Dr. Carl Sagan of the center for radioastronomy and space research, Cornell University; Dr. Robert L. Hall, chairman of the department of sociology, University of Illinois; Dr. James A. Hardor, associate professor of engineering, University of California-Berkeley, and D. Robert M. L. Baker, Jr., senior scientist, Computer Sciences Corporation.

The consensus of these men testifying before the House Committee on Science and Astronautics held that UFO's are still unexplained and need urgent further study.

Fuller, in his commentary, delves into the ill-named Scientific Study of Unidentified Flying Objects — the formal name of the Condon Committee report — and the inner workings of the committee itself.

He shows that before the project ever started the attitude and approach to the subject was biased toward a negative conclusion. To support this, Fuller cites a statement that Condon made to a reporter from the Elmira (N.Y.) Star Gazette soon after the project started: "My attitude right now is that there is nothing to it (UFO's) ... but I'm not supposed to reach that conclusion for another year." Condon never denied the statement.

BPW plans dinner meet for Monday

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls BPW Club is holding a no-host dinner and business meeting at the Big Boy Conference Room at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

The meeting was originally scheduled at the Colonial House. A program will be given. Plans will be completed for the Christmas party Dec. 19 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the American Legion Hall.

Donations for a basket for a needy family will be accepted. Chairman for the Christmas party is DeAnna Vollmer, with Edith Stephens, Vera Rauch, Greta Smith, DeEtta Campbell, Aida Strong, Arlene Patterson and Shirley Kendrick as hostesses. All BPW members are welcome.

A board meeting will be held directly after the meeting.

MR. AND MRS. LARRY C. HUNTER

Couple weds in temple ceremony

TWIN FALLS — Iris Taylor and Larry C. Hunter were united in marriage in rites Nov. 18 in the Idaho Falls LDS Temple.

President George Christensen presided. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Taylor, Idaho Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hunter, Twin Falls.

The bride wore an empire-styled gown accented with a lace bodice and a full-length crepe skirt. Her full-length veil of illusion was edged with a matching lace medallion. She carried a bouquet of pink and white roses.

Alice Joy Nelson, Spokane, Wash., was matron of honor for her sister, and Margaret Blackham, Pocatello, Utah, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Shelly Taylor, Anita Taylor and Nola Rae Gnetling, Idaho Falls, and Pam Hunter, Twin Falls.

Gene Thompson, Provo, Utah, served as best man. Ushers were Bill Taylor, Kent Taylor and Carl Taylor, Idaho Falls.

The wedding reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony.

The bridegroom's parents were hosts for the wedding dinner at the Garden Room of Walkers Cafe, Rigby.

Out-of-town guests for the ceremony included Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Heslop, Ogden, Utah, grandparents of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nelson, Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. and Mrs. Gene Thompson, Margaret Blackham, Nola Rae Gnetling, and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Patterson, all Provo.

The couple resides in Oakland, Calif. The bridegroom is employed by the Bank of America, San Francisco, and the bride is a social worker.

Special programs slated

SHOSHONE — There will be two special Christmas programs for students at the Lincoln Elementary School, Principal Jack Bowlin announces.

The students themselves will present a program at 9 a.m. on Dec. 23 which will feature songs, a musical play, dramatization, dance numbers and the band. Mrs. Cleova Peterson and Ronald Jenkins, music teacher, will be in charge of that.

At 9 a.m. on Dec. 16, Brigham Young University will be presenting "Santa's Workshop," a musical play for the local students, Bowlin said. A Christmas party is also planned for teachers and their partners at the school, Bowlin said. Committee members in charge of arrangements include Mrs. Glen Croft, Mrs. Wilson Churchman and Mr. Bowlin.

School will be dismissed for the holidays on Dec. 22 and will resume on Jan. 3.

Ann King, Allen plan winter date

TWIN FALLS — An announcement of the engagement of Ann Elizabeth King to Richard S. Allen was made at a family dinner recently in Los Altos, Calif., at the home of Allen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allen.

Miss King is the daughter of Mrs. William J. King and the late William J. King, Twin Falls. She was graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1964 and the University of Utah in 1968. She is now teaching in Fremont, Calif. Allen is a 1963 graduate of Los Altos High School and in 1968 graduate of the University of California, Davis. He is now an electrical engineer for Pacific Gas and Electric Co., Sausalito, Calif.

A Jan. 22 wedding is planned in Los Altos.

Open house

AN OPEN HOUSE will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 11, at the First Methodist Church Fellowship Hall in observance of the 60th Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Newby.

60th anniversary open house set

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Newby will observe their 60th Wedding Anniversary during an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 11, at the First Methodist Church Fellowship Hall.

The couple's children, Mr. and Mrs. Truman C. Newby and Dr. B. C. Newby, will be with them to welcome all relatives and friends to the 20th Century Club program scheduled

TWIN FALLS — Richard Snack, music director of the Twin Falls High School, will direct the Madrigals and their "Variety of Music" for the Twentieth-Century Club's Christmas party at 1 p.m. Tuesday at the Turf Club.

Snack is a native of Twin Falls and has been teaching at the high school for three years. He is married with four children.

reception. Mr. and Mrs. Newby were married Dec. 6, 1911, in Pendleton, Ore., and have resided most of their married life in Twin Falls. Newby came to Twin Falls in 1933 to work for the Twin Falls Canal Co. in putting water on the land and is the only known living surveyor who worked on the project.

Program chairman for the party is Mrs. D. A. Jackson. Members take canned goods to this meeting for the club's annual Christmas donation to the Children's Home, Boise. The candy sale will be held during the Tuesday meeting. Proceeds from the sale will be used to assist the development of the Rock Creek Park project.

Don't remove the rind from the ham before roasting—it's easier to take off when the meat is hot.

Keep dairy products clean, cold

SHOSHONE — "The key to continued freshness and good taste of dairy products is to keep them cold, clean and covered," says Jean Arnest, cooperative extension home economics agent.

"Cold means the coldest part (40 degrees) of the refrigerator. Immediate refrigeration is important. As a safety measure, check the refrigerator temperature occasionally with a home thermometer as temperature changes hinder the keeping qualities," the economist said.

"To keep your dairy foods clean, leave them in their original containers. Cover dairy foods. Loss of riboflavin is caused by long exposure to sunlight.

"Special requirements vary with the dairy product. For example, special butter compartments keep butter only for immediate use. Well-wrapped butter will keep a couple of months in the refrigerator or at least six months in the freezer at zero degrees or below.

"Keep the milk container out of the refrigerator just long enough to pour what you plan to use," Mrs. Arnest adds.

"Use cottage cheese within a few days after purchase to maintain fresh flavor. If the curd appears dried out add milk or half-and-half. The dryness means the cream is merely absorbed in the curd and not necessarily that the product is stale or bad," she said.

"Ice cream is best stored at zero. Keep the carton lightly closed with a protective wrap on the surface of the ice cream. Softening and partial melting, then refrigerating tends to develop a coarse texture.

"Sour cream should be stored in the original container in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Yogurt should be stored in the refrigerator, not allowed to freeze," she concluded.

Don't remove the rind from the ham before roasting—it's easier to take off when the meat is hot.

JANET CALLEN

Miss Callen, Dennis plan May rites

WENDELL — Mr. and Mrs. Guy Callen announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Janet, to A. Kelly Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlin Dennis, all Wendell.

Miss Callen is a 1971 graduate of Wendell High School and is currently attending the College of Southern Idaho.

Dennis was graduated from Wendell High School in 1967 and will be graduated from Boise State College next spring with a bachelor's degree in business education.

A May wedding is planned. The couple will reside in Boise, where the bride will continue her education.

Meeting set

TWIN FALLS — The Niv on Pix TOPS Club meets at 1:30 p.m. each Tuesday at the Twin Falls City Hall.

Joymae Stone was the best loser this past week with 8 pounds lost. Dottie Busby was the biggest gainer.

The annual Christmas party is planned for Dec. 14. Gainers will provide a program for the party. Secret sisters will be revealed at the party.

The fruit basket was won by Herie Lapray.

Movie Review

By DAVID WOODHEAD

SWIFTS— "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich" is a whole panoply of powerful performances, synchronized expressions and timely ideas. It is an extraordinary depiction of the ordinary trauma in a Siberian forced-labor camp. But it soars far beyond merely representing the camp. If considered on a scale transcending the surface impressions, "One Day" rises to become a total review of the entire human tragedy. This film is a superbly adapted version of Alexander Solzhenitsyn's dramatic novel. Filmed in Norway, under the direction of Casper Wrede, it has exceeded even the most hopeful of expectations. The film presents an artistic passage in the life of one man wrongly placed into a horrible situation. And let us dispense with pointing fingers at the Russians for this atrocity we vaguely call Siberia. It is man's inhumanity we should condemn. That this picture unfolds within the Russian borders is only incidental. The importance of "One Day" concerns every man.

The film is genuinely involved in portraying neither the right nor the wrong of the circumstance in question. It is rather a pictorial display of the spark of hope within the light of acceptance that continues to glow in even the darkest of places. "One Day" is an important motion picture containing a startling comment on the dehumanization of men. But it is more than this. It is a phenomenal forum for some of the most amazing expressions the cinema has produced. Certainly Tom Courtenay deserves much praise for his portrayal of Denisovich. He plays the part as pitiful man respected for his well-being in the face of his condition. His simplest actions have meaning. In fact, his mere presence in the film is the point of the whole story. That he is compelled by forces outside his control to exist according to specified stipulations is a premise unmistakably synonymous with mankind's plight. But the harshness of those stipulations in the film adds to its horrorfulness. Denisovich's ability to "get on" in spite of the many obstacles confronting him definitely establishes him in the position reserved for that ideal conception of acceptance and purpose. Denisovich lives for the most meager of pleasures: a little tobacco, his rations, the satisfaction of getting through another day. He has no provision. And perhaps he has survived the torture of becoming a non-entity. "One Day" seems almost textured with patterned sequences. Its subtlety is revealed by the notion implied when the film ends in much the same manner that it began. The mechanization of the camp workers is exemplified by mechanical music. It is as though the actors were performing to the music. The sound track begins to reach a certain tempo. It builds to a climax, and then slowly and quietly, it recedes and levels to a peaceful rhythm. And always the action coincides with the sound. One watches a truck-load of bricks dumped with the music nearly exactly picturing the act. It would be a blatant understatement to call "One Day" anything but amazing. But the film must be identified with extreme care. Comparisons would only ruin its impact.

New cars bought in the United States during 1969 totaled 8.3 million, reports the National Automobile Club.

DEAR ABBY: After 14 years of what I thought was a good marriage, my husband (I'll call him "John") asked me for a divorce. (We have three children.) He said he had fallen in love with a woman he works with and wanted to be free to marry her.

I went to pieces. I had no idea John had ever looked at another woman. (He isn't the type.)

I told him I wouldn't stand in his way. He moved out, but I couldn't bring myself to go to a lawyer about a divorce. The next two weeks I hardly ate or slept. (I lost 12 pounds.) Then all of a sudden John came home!

He said he couldn't go thru with it, he still loved me, and if I could forgive and forget he would spend the rest of his life trying to make it up to me.

Now, my problem: Even tho all the time John was gone I kept hoping and praying he would come back, when he finally did, I was so hurt inside I couldn't turn off the bitterness and hate, and turn on my love.

How can I forgive and forget? I really love him.

TURNED OFF.

DEAR TURNED OFF: If you want to get over your hurt, you can. Don't dwell on the past. What's done is done. God heard your prayers. Now, pray for the strength to really forgive and forget. Time and a forgiving attitude will do wonders for you. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I am a college student (female) who is tired of hearing about all the bright, well-educated young women who are stuck in dull, low-paying jobs because they are women. I don't believe it.

For example, you seem to have made a successful career for yourself in the field of journalism, which has more men than women. Have you encountered much sex-prejudice thruout your career? I mean, do you think, being a woman, you had to work harder to get to the top?

AMBITIOUS

DEAR AMBITIOUS: I encountered no sex-prejudice at all. In fact, I think being a woman gave me a natural advantage. And doesn't the role of "Mother Confessor" more naturally belong to a woman?

DEAR ABBEY: My boy friend (I'll call him "Victor") is 21. Same age as myself. My problem is his hang-up about eating in front of my family!

I know it sounds crazy, but he says he gets nervous and feels funny when he eats at my house because everybody watches him. (They do not. It's just his imagination.)

Last Thanksgiving I invited Victor to my house for a one o'clock dinner. We were having lots of relatives, and I wanted them to meet Victor. He declined the invitation, but said he would come AFTER dinner.

He came at 3 p. m. and had to leave at 5 p. m. because he was "hungry."

We are planning to get married, and I would like to know when he is going to get rid of this ridiculous hang-up? Or will he have it all his life?

When we eat out, he is just fine. What could be the matter with him?

NEW JERSEY GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Victor is probably self-conscious because he's unsure of his table manners. Ask him to level with you, and if that's the case, offer to teach him. And if it isn't, don't marry Victor until he has overcome his hang-up. (It would be hard to explain the groom's absence from the bridal dinner.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO VICKI: To some girls the no-brn lock is one big bust. To others it's a flop.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 67100, Los Angeles, Cal. 90066. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Camera Corner

By MIKE ROBERTSON
Times-News Photographer
TWIN FALLS — Does your best photo work end up in the drawer, or stuck away in an album, never to be found again — much less seen.

Most amateur photographers shoot volumes of film and then spend a lot of money to have the photos processed, but utilize the results very poorly at most.

Many people do keep their photo albums up to date, but don't always have them handy when they want to show off their latest travel, Christmas, birthday or party photos. And they think slides are too troublesome to set up the equipment to show.

There is a way to show these events inexpensively. With an imaginative photo display in your living room or family room, your best photos can always be shown to friends and relatives easily.

Your photo recorded activities have great decorative potential when properly displayed this way. With a little imagination, you can create a picture display for your family and guests to enjoy full time.

The first step in making a display is to compile your photos in one place and catalogue them subject by subject. Do a thorough job of editing. Study the photos of the subject you plan to display, including cropping out parts of a print or transparency. Remember, color slides are not limited to use with a projector and screen. They can be used to make color prints.

Decide where the photos will look best and will be easy for the family and friends to see. The larger the print, the better the display. Eight by 10 inch or 7 by 5-inch photos are more expensive to have printed but are well worth it in a good display.

Pictures used in a group look better if they are all the same size and are framed or mounted in the same way. There are no limits to what you can do with individual shots — from blowing them up for posters to making extra large color prints.

Photo arrangements on bulletin boards of different types are the easiest to create and many times are the most effective.

One photo display board can be made by covering a large piece of hardboard with one of the new stick-to-it self fabrics. Glue a small piece of the fabric on the back of each photo, mounted or plain, and you can hang them on the board or rearrange them easily.

A corkboard section of the wall can also be effectively used for an informal display. Tack up photos with colored push pins. This display method is flexible and allows frequent photo subject changes.

A large white or colored posterboard can be used to make a photo montage. If they are travel photos, lay out the pictures which best represent your vacation activities with souvenirs or on portions of a map. The pictures can be cut up and the objects moved around to achieve unusual effects, or laid out in chronological order.

Horizontal photo racks can be mounted on the wall to display your photos. To make the rack, fasten two equal lengths of molding, rabbeted on the back side to the wall, the width of the pictures. Slide the photos in the rack in the desired order.

If you don't mind putting sticky picture hangers on the wall, mounted photos can be displayed this way. The only drawback is the inability to move them about freely.

To keep the cost down, you can make your own "frames" by mounting travel photos on hardboard. The best way to mount your photos to a mounting board is with a special mounting tissue available at most camera stores. The cost is under $2 for 100, 8 by 10-inch sheets.

To mount a photo, place a sheet of mounting tissue, slightly smaller than the photo, on the back of the picture. Touch each of the corners with a warm iron to get the tissue to stick where you want it. Then place the photo down on the mounting board. Put a towel over the face of the photo and then iron over it. The heat will adhere the photo and the mounting board together. It is now ready to be displayed.

Photo displays utilize your best photos effectively and give you a chance to use your own creativity. And when one display gets "old" a new one can be made to change the whole atmosphere of the room. And, your photos won't be gathering dust in a forgotten photo album.

AN UNUSUAL Christmas wreath is this one of the Reuben Lierman home. It is made of red chili peppers strung on a coat hanger wire and bent into the form of a wreath.

Wreath of chili peppers

FILER — Probably one of the most unusual Christmas wreaths in Magic Valley is this one made of red chili peppers.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Lierman brought the wreath from New Mexico when they drove through the state several months ago. The chili harvest was just in operation at the time, and most of the growers had long strings of the chills hanging outside their adobe houses to dry. The Liermans relate, who added that some of the houses were almost covered with the colorful garlands.

Appreciative crowds attend Ballet West

By BEVERLY HACKNEY

TWIN FALLS — Ballet West performed at CSI Fine Arts Auditorium to capacity crowds.

The matinee for students was received most enthusiastically by young Magic Valley balletomanes. From the first ballet presented to the last, the young people were spellbound. Equally as appreciated was the evening audience who, as the evening progressed, grew more exuberant in their applause. The finale brought the audience to their feet with wild applause as calls of "bravo" filled the auditorium.

The program opened with "Bravura" to music by Chabrier. "Bravura" displayed the technique ability of the leading members of the company. It bounds back and forth from the purely classical to a more exuberant free style. Vicki Morgan and John Hiatt executed a highly satisfying pas de deux.

Janice James and Tom Rudd were outstanding in the "Paquita Pas De Deux" to music by Minkus. Miss James is just the right combination of fiery eloquence and flirtatiousness. Rudd is breathtaking in the male force, he displayed clarity of form in his batteries and pirouettes and fantastic elevation in his grand jetés.

The second act of "The Nutcracker" closed the program. As the corps whirled on to the stage in their exquisite pink tutus to the lovely "Waltz of the Flowers," they did indeed resemble a bouquet. The petite Patricia Rozou, partnered by Christopher Fair executed every pirouette and arabesque as effortlessly as a rose petal gently tossed by the wind. Her beautifully arched feet barely touched the floor.

The Spanish was nicely performed by both the matinee and evening performers, as was the Arabian with its element of Magic.

The Russian and Chinese dances were the obvious favorites of the younger audience. Charles Fuller, a former gymnast before joining Ballet West, amazed and delighted the audience with strides four feet off the ground and flips over the outstretched arms of his two partners in the Russian Trepak. Phillip Fuller, for four years on the University of Michigan gymnastic team, also executed leaps and jumps almost beyond belief in the Chinese.

"The Nutcracker" closed with the "Grand Pas De Deux" performed beautifully in the afternoon by Vicki Morgan and John Hiatt. Performing in the evening were the lovely Peggy Scott and former Twin Falls resident, John Nelson. Nelson and Miss Scott performed a flawless "Pas De Deux" and Miss Scott was a vision of gracefulness in the "Sugarplum Fairy" variation. Unfortunately, Nelson injured his foot in the middle of his exciting and, up to then, beautifully done variation, and was replaced by Tom Rudd for the finale.

All in all, William Christensen, artistic director of Ballet West, has a strong company of soloists backed by a well-trained corps de ballet. Come back soon Ballet West.

Director attends conference

JEROME — Mrs. Delores Hansen, inservice director for St. Benedict's Hospital, returned this past week from attending a regional conference for inservice educators sponsored by the American Hospital Association at Salt Lake City.

Mrs. Hansen said this is a comparatively new department in the hospital whose function is to maintain the education of all personnel in the hospital and instigate new trends of medicine development.

It is also to develop and maintain a disaster plan and the emergency phases such as cardio-pulmonary resuscitation.

She said that St. Benedict's is one of the first hospitals in the area to develop a hospital-wide education program.

It is under the inservice educators department that the hospital hopes to develop the public education plan, such as the recent drug abuse programs that have been held at the hospital, Mrs. Hansen said.

Student revolt cradle peaceful once again

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—They're selling avocado sandwiches and hot tamales these days at the very spot where U.S. student revolt began.

Ponce pervades the University of California campus. Freshmen are signing up for science instead of sociology. The student newspaper—refers to such topics as Vietnam and revolution as "The Old Nostalgia Game."

Is the calm deceptive? Perhaps. But some of the changes at the campus, which was the cradle for a decade of student dissent, seem fundamental.

The most popular subjects for example, have dramatically shifted from hard theory to hard sciences.

Chemistry 1A, for example, has 1,500 Freshmen this fall, twice as many as two years ago. Many laboratory sections must be held at night.

In the same period, registration for Biology 1 was up two-thirds, and 146 qualified students were turned away.

Seven years ago, the nation's student rebellion began at the Telegraph Avenue entrance of the university when administrators banned political tables on the campus edge of the sidewalk.

The free speech movement was born. Students won that fight and went on to demonstration after demonstration that left Telegraph Avenue littered with broken glass and shook the state—and the nation.

Now food vendors compete with saffron-gowned Hare Krishna chanters for attention at the Telegraph entrance. And on-campus are numerous political tables, including those registering 18-year-olds as voters—probably a major reason for an apparent decline in student activism.

David Templeton, dean of chemistry, believes the shift in student interest to science indicates a commitment to the environment.

"Some students want training in science so they can join the establishment, and some other students want training in science so they can fight the establishment, but if you want to do anything about pollution then you immediately get involved in chemistry," he said.

British use electronic gadgets for TV traps

LONDON (UPI)—Nigel Bennett said the only crime he ever committed was to watch television in his own living room.

"I don't drive, so I've never had a traffic offense. I don't steal. But I'm damned if I'm going to pay for that television license," the 27-year-old factory laborer said, slamming his pint of beer down on the pub bar. Bennett is not his real name. "Let them catch me."

"Them" is Britain's Ministry of Posts and Telecommunications. Using a combination of electronic equipment that would warm the heart of a dedicated James Bond fan, ministry investigators are in hot pursuit of Bennett and the more than a million other Britons who balk at paying government license fees for purchased or rented television sets.

The license costs seven pounds ($17.50) a year for a black and white set, and 12 pounds ($30) for color.

Non-payment of the fees last year totaled more than $225.5 million.

The money from the licenses goes to run the radio and television services of the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC). With a budget already strapped by increasing competition from commercial stations, the BBC looks less than kindly at evaders.

"Of course it hurts losing that much," a BBC spokesman snapped. "The more we get, the more we can do. We don't want to lose a single penny because someone won't buy their license."

The ministry, therefore, has launched an all-out campaign to recoup the losses.

People go to incredible lengths to avoid paying, according to Walter Garrett, manager of the television licensing section of the ministry. But they are having trouble fooling the ministry's Secret weapon—a fleet of 30 vans jammed with electronic equipment that can pinpoint a television set in a 10-story apartment building.

"One man swore he had no set even though we had a strong signal on one of the vans and showed him a picture of it," Garrett said.

"He invited us in. We looked around, but there was no sign of it."

Garrett shook his head. "Usually it's easy to tell. Many people furnish their rooms around a set. Other times there'll be a ring of dust on a table. This time—nothing."

"Then the silly fool let us out through the back door just in time for us to catch his wife coming in, set in hand," he smiled. "Ho pald."

Another inspector ended up with a split lip when he interrupted one viewer watching the football cup final, Britain's equivalent of the final game of the World Series.

More than one viewer who found an inspector at his door hurled his set out the window in an attempt to avoid fines for license evasion that have recently ranged up to 50 pounds ($125).

"Oh, yes, and we've had a number of women come to the door in negligees offering to pay in kind," Garrett said. They were wasting their time, he added. "We always go in pairs."

Most calls are paid at night during peak viewing time.

"You can't beat a filthy wet winter night in this business," one ministry worker said.

Refusing to open the door won't help either.

"My boys are very, very patient," said Chris Taylor, who runs the detector vans operating in the London area.

"They'll keep coming back. At one house one of our lads returned 15 times. He finally got so fed up he sat on the doorstep till he caught the bloke at 3 am."

The Post Office issues the more than 16 million licenses for sets already on the books from lists of purchasers and renters that TV dealers are now required to provide. This rule was introduced with the advent of color. Black and white sets did not have to be reported by dealers before then.

The ministry gets regular computer printouts listing who has sets without licenses and those due for renewal. Letters go out advising those persons to get the licenses.

If nothing happens after three weeks, the Post Office calls. If that fails, the detector vans go into action. "We had a tip-off about unlicensed sets in private rooms at the Inns of Court (where many lawyers and judges live or work or both)," Chris Taylor said. "We went around and bagged half a dozen. Very embarrassed the justices were."

Skiers are warming up to warm-up pants, also known as snow pants or weather pants. They're known in Head-Ski Wear circles as thermo threads. This year they are more shaped and tailored.

Tamed Russian jaywalker goal

MOSCOW (UPI)—A criminal stalks the streets of Moscow—a walking Kamikaze, a hard-drinking madman who seems as bent on mass suicide as the lemmings which drown themselves in the sea.

He is the average Moscow pedestrian, a jaywalker and a dangerous character. The Soviet authorities have launched a crash campaign to tame him.

"We have the world's most undisciplined pedestrians," a Soviet newspaper recently lamented.

It detailed statistics that showed 60 per cent of all traffic accidents are the fault of pedestrians. The rate of death and injury soars on the heavy drinking days, Saturday, Sunday and holidays, when drunks are more likely to meander in front of a truck.

The situation also worsens on cold days when the ear flaps of Russian shapkas (fur hats) go down, making wearers deaf to traffic noises.

The solution, the newspaper said, lies in education and in punishment. Muscovites are getting more of both.

A recent government decree established a 10-ruble ($11) spot fine for jaywalkers. If their jaywalking contributes to an accident, they are liable to a term in prison.

However, much of the cause is ignorance, Soviet experts agree. There are relatively few Russians who own or drive a car, and non-drivers have little idea of the rules and dangers of traffic.

Judicial council member denies report of vote

By LEE TREMAINE

Times-News Writer
BUHL — A member of the Idaho Judicial Council denied a report today that the four candidates for nomination to the Idaho Supreme Court were selected by a four-to-three vote of the council.

Charles Lunte, Buhl, one of only two Republicans on the Judicial Council, also refuted reports that the council considered the politics of the four candidates they selected.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus reportedly complained that only one of the four candidates is a Democrat, and he is from southern Idaho. Gov. Andrus told a Boise newsmen that northern Idaho should have been represented by his party.

Lunte said today that "There were no qualified Democrats from north Idaho from which to choose, that's all."

Under Idaho law, when a vacancy occurs on the supreme court, the judicial council accepts applications from jurists throughout the state, screens the candidates and brings the list to four from which Gov. Andrus must select the final nominee.

"We considered only the qualifications of the applicants, not their politics," Lunte said. "The governor should consider that the board includes four Democrats and two Republicans, in addition to the chief justice, who is non-partisan."

If the vote had been split — and Lunte would not indicate how the council voted on any candidate — the split would have been along party lines, four to two, with the four Democrats voting together.

"If the governor can't control his own people, that's his problem, not ours," Lunte said.

Members of the judicial council are Chief Justice Henry F. McQuade; Robert C. Huntley, Jr., Pocatello; Thomas A. Miller, Boise; Darwin D. Cogswell, Sandpoint; Pat Woodworth, American Falls; C. L. House, Boise, and Lunte.

The vote of the council on each candidate is strictly confidential, Lunte said. A report that the four candidates were selected by split four-to-three votes is "entirely wrong." "These four men who were chosen the most highly qualified of the 21 applicants," Lunte explained. "We did consider geography to some extent, because we felt that north Idaho should have someone from up there to represent that area on the supreme court."

Two of the four candidates — District Judge Watt Frather, Coeur d'Alene, and Jerry V.

Smith of Lewiston — are north Idahoans. The others, Judge Sherman V. Bellwood of Rupert and Robert E. Bakes, Boise, are from southern Idaho. Bakes is the only Democrat named by the council.

"We spent many, many hours considering each applicant, and we interviewed each applicant personally," Lunte said today. "We discussed this thing thoroughly, the council did, and

In my opinion we came up with the most highly qualified people for the court.

"When the governor injects politics into this thing, this is something else," Lunte charged.

Concerning the alleged four-to-three vote, Lunte said the governor "must remember that there are four Democrats and two Republicans on the council. When he starts talking about geography, he must remember that two of the Democrats are his own appointees — and they're both from southern Idaho."

Bellevue's '72 budget studied

BELLEVUE — Bellevue City Council conducted preliminary discussions Thursday evening on the 1972 city budget.

Councilman Mark Patterson said the city is facing a projected $3,000 deficit in 1972. The council decided to make a rough draft of a budget and discuss it at future council meetings. Patterson recommended five budget categories be established and said funds should be set aside yearly to cover future water system and street improvements.

"We would have to raise the rates a little bit and probably have to raise water rates," he said.

He proposed that $5,000, earmarked for street repairs, be placed in a savings account yearly for a period of eight years. "We are not wealthy people, we can't afford to go out on a bond," he said.

And he recommended that budget categories be made including the administration, streets, water system, law enforcement and library.

Mayor Claude Ballard said earlier Bellevue has never needed a budget. But, he said, "Now that the city is growing rapidly, it may be necessary to establish a budget so we can have a way to account for funds."

doubtful indeed. Still there was some chance left. Twelve tricks were there in top cards. If spades broke evenly she would be home easily. If spades broke badly there was a possible squeeze. Phyllis cashed her ace of diamonds, ruffed her low diamond and ran off all her trumps.

This brought everyone America's top experts explain their tournament-winning techniques in a new 128-page book on JACOBY MODERN. For your copy sent $1 with your name, address and zip code to: "Win at Bridge," c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

He couldn't hold four spades and the king of hearts and no matter what he discarded Phyllis was sure of her grand slam.

THE HEAT

One sultry night in a mid-west hotel, what got on the nerves-of-old-Mark Twain more than anything else, he said, was the terrible heat. He lay on the bed there in the altogether, yawning and reawakening. Finally in that dismal dark, he groped around for a shoe and flung it toward the window. Glass crashed, and fresh air flowed over him, and he slept. Next morning, he found the windows were unbroken, but the bureau mirror was smashed. "Obviously," he said, "I just let the hot air out of my head." Bright fellow, Twain.

Seven clubs is a very good contract and there are any number of bidding sequences to get there. The one shown in the box was that used by Stan and Phyllis Smith in the Detroit Regionals.

Without a heart lead Phyllis would have no trouble making all 13 tricks. She would ruff her eight of diamonds; draw trumps and go after spades. They would break 4-2 and she would discard one heart on the spade queen and the other on the last spade.

Unfortunately for Phyllis, West opened the eight of hearts. She decided against trying a finesse at trick one and rose with dummy's ace. Then she thought a while and decided that she could afford one trump lead. She led dummy's king. East showed out and the nice grand slam became very AM ASKED what proportion of all women admit that if they could be born again, they'd prefer to be men. Survey results on this matter differ. But it's generally understood between a fifth and a third of the grownup girls at least occasionally wish they were males. No such high percentage of men would rather be women, that's certain.

Shirley really wants Presidency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When people ask Rep. Shirley Chisholm "the real reason" she is seeking the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, she is incredulous. "People don't understand that I really want to be President of the United States," she said. "I really want to run this country."

"You have Golda Meir of Israel and Indira Gandhi of India, why not a woman President?"

Mrs. Chisholm also makes clear she means to reform the Democratic Party.

"By God they are going to have to reckon with me in Miami," the New York lawmaker told UPI. "The Democratic Party will never be the same again."

Mrs. Chisholm plans to enter party primaries in North Carolina, Wisconsin, Florida and California. Her formal declaration of candidacy is expected in January.

Meanwhile, the 47-year-old Brooklyn-born woman is devoting her weekends to addressing women's groups, welfare organizations, religious clubs, campus youth groups, and poor minorities. A coalition of these groups, she claims, will win her the nomination.

She seldom speaks before regular party groups, maintaining that "it doesn't pay to go before the establishment Democrats. That's not my bag. I have to establish my own constituency."

Claiming the support of "those organizations" in more than 29 states, Mrs. Chisholm describes her campaign as a grassroots effort. She declines to say who is putting up the $300,000 she estimates she will need.

Her 1968 campaign for Congress, she said, cost $12,000, relatively low as such things go. "You don't need to be a millionaire to be President," she said. "You have to be creative, have charisma. And I'm told I have it. And you have to have brains!"

Much of Mrs. Chisholm's strategy for next year's primaries is based on the belief that other Democratic candidates will divide the regular party vote, leaving her a coalition women, minorities, the young, the poor.

"The vote is going to be so fragmented, it's going to work to my advantage," she said. "I'm going to do so well in California I can taste it."

Mrs. Chisholm pretty much ignores the other contenders with the notable exception of front-runner Edmund S. Muskie, who has said a national ticket with a black vice presidential running mate cannot be elected.

She recalls campaigning with Muskie during his 1968 vice presidential race and introducing the Maine Democrat to black political leaders in Brooklyn.

"I never said then that the time was not right for a Polish vice president," she remarked bitterly.

"Everyone is saying that at least Muskie was Frank. There are people in this Congress who have been Frank for years. But where has it gotten us?"

The congresswoman sometimes uses humor to make her point. Once asked by Rep. Edward I. Koch, D-N.Y., if she would consider him as a running mate, Mrs. Chisholm cracked: "Sorry, Ed. I don't think the country is ready for a Jewish vice president."

But if her bid for her party's top nomination demonstrates anything at all about Shirley Chisholm, it is the way she feels her House seat should be used.

She is harshly critical of Congress as an institution incapable of change and says she doesn't "depend on it for the satisfaction of helping America. You can't change this body of being here."

Terming Congress' seniority system "the senility system," she contends that many of its leaders are mainly concerned "with personal gain and the perpetuation of their power."

"I've got to go outside Congress if I want to bring about change," she said.

Mrs. Chisholm has made speeches in 43 states and visited 60 college campuses during her three years in the House.

Speaking fluent Spanish, she finds it as easy to address Chicanos in New Mexico as she does Puerto Ricans and blacks in New York.

"I am moving about the country, moving, moving," she said. "Women's groups have gone wild over my candidacy."

A thin, attractive woman, who speaks rapidly, never using a text, she says she charges anywhere from "free to $3,000" for a speech, earmarking the money for her campaigning.

"I could make $250,000 annually, easy," she said.

Still, she is bothered because many people "don't take me seriously. A woman just doesn't run for President. A black woman particularly doesn't run for President. But a white doesn't always have to be President."

"Several years ago as an aggressive worker within Brooklyn Democratic politics, a local party official told her if she worked hard within the party, "one day you'll be a leader of the black community here."

"I never forget that," she said. "As if that was as far as they expected me to go... I vowed then that if I ever had the opportunity to move out onto the national scene, this country was going to know that Shirley Chisholm passed this way."

Mrs. Chisholm

SHOSHONE — North Side Communities, Inc., will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Manhattan Cafe for its November-December meeting.

Roads in the area will be discussed during the meeting, with district highway engineer, Howard Johnson, Shoshone; representatives of the Idaho Fish and Game Department from Lincoln, Blaine and Camas counties to be invited as special guests to discuss the topic.

Roads specifically under question are the interstate exchange near Wendell, the improvement of the Dietrich-Kimama-Rupert road and west Magic Reservoir access road.

Spotsmen of the area have been particularly interested in improvements of the Kimama road and west Magic Reservoir section. By oiling the Kimama area road through to Rupert, this route would save considerable distance in travel for sportsmen and people traveling from there to the Sun Valley area. Currently the alled road of U.S. Highway 93 is preferred due to road conditions, but at a considerable greater distance.

Extreme rough condition of the west Magic Reservoir road over the years has come under criticism by sportsmen and property owners in that area. The 30-mile section lies within the three-county area, Lincoln,

Truth kept alive

MACLEODGANJ, India (UPI) — The gleam of autumn snow on the high peaks of the Himalayas provided a soaring backdrop this month to the horizontal lines of the modern concrete temple where His Holiness the Dalai Lama of Tibet was teaching his ancient faith.

Over 400 Tibetan monks gathered from refugee camps and settlements all over India for the Dalai Lama's annual month-long series of seminars on the Tantric Dharma, the way of truth according to the rites and beliefs of Tibetan Buddhism.

For the last three years, the Dalai Lama has held such gatherings in an attempt to pass on the wisdom of his ancestors to his scattered subjects and to a whole new generation of young monks growing up in India with only the dimmest childhood memories of Tibet.

Most of the shaven-headed monks in their maroon and saffron robes who attended this year came from the two Tantric colleges for the training of young monks at Dhulshoo, not far from the Dalai Lama's residence in exile at Macleodganj.

It is too difficult and expensive for many to come from further afield, from the refugee settlements of South India, from Sikkim, Bhutan and Nepal, much less from the Tibetan colonies in Switzerland and Canada.

The policy of the Indian government has been to set up refugee settlements for the 55,000 Tibetans in India in widely separated areas, never too many in one place to avoid any embarrassing concerted political agitation or communal friction. This has presented the Tibetan community with grave problems in their attempts to maintain a government and people in exile.

Tibetans are farming 4,000 acres, growing corn and rice. Other settlements, also agricultural, are situated in Assam, West Bengal, Madhya Pradesh and Himachal Pradesh states. But an estimated 16,000 refugees are still unsettled, wandering bands earning a miserable living as road workers.

This year permission finally was granted by the Indian government to establish the first small settlement in the Ladhk area of Kashmir for some of those Tibetans who fled Tibet following the Communist Chinese takeover 12 years ago. Even though Ladhk provides a climate and conditions similar to those of Tibet, for political reasons India has been unwilling to allow any Tibetans to settle there.

The Indians have made every effort to isolate the Tibetans from the Ladhkis. Tibetans are not allowed even to visit Ladhki, despite the fact that the Ladhakis are of Tibetan stock, follow the same way of life, live at similar elevations, profess the same form of Buddhism and speak a similar language.

Only the Dalai Lama has been permitted to visit Ladhki, which is a restricted area for all foreigners, and permission to visit the region is difficult to obtain. India is making an effort to develop the area and convince the Ladhakis that they are Indians, not Tibetan Buddhists.

"They are Indians, and they practice Indian Buddhism," one official said.

Kashmir is an integral part of India, and Ladhki is an integral part of Kashmir. Therefore the Ladhakis are Indians — so runs the argument.

The Indians are conscious of their Tibetan problem, and contradictions in their own policies. The Indian government recognizes the right of Peking to Tibet, and at the same time it has given asylum to the Dalai Lama and allowed him to set up a government in exile, though neither India, nor any other country, recognizes Indian hopes of improving relations with the Chinese depend upon their keeping the Tibetans quiet—hence the scattered settlements and the refusal to permit the Tibetans to establish contact with their 100,000 Ladhaki cousins.

Despite the restrictions placed upon them, the Tibetans are grateful to the Indian government for allowing them to settle in India. In return they have maintained a low profile politically. They have representatives abroad only in Switzerland, where several hundred refugees have found a home, and in New York they have an observer at the United Nations.

Most of the 3,000 Tibetans at Macleodganj live by farming on the steep slopes, making handicrafts, or selling souvenirs to tourists, mostly hippies, who make the pilgrimage to Little Tibet. About 1,000, however, are still provided rations of rice, beans, sugar and potatoes by the Indian government.

Macleodganj lies at 6,000 feet on the slopes of the Himalayas. The tiny township consists of a few shops, a school, a carpet factory and a Buddhist stupa with prayer cylinders which the faithful twist in passing. Half a mile along a winding path through the pines stands the Namogyal Temple and the Dalai Lama's house, guarded day and night by Indian police.

During the annual teach-in the temple is the scene of much chanting and activity. Every afternoon for four hours the Dalai Lama, a smile upon his lips, leads his monks in the chants and teaches them from the deep store of his secret knowledge. The 400 monks sit cross-legged on the floor before him, side by side, spilling out of the doors. At the rear sit those laymen with sufficient grounding in Tantric philosophy to be able to follow the teaching.

Around the temple walk the simple faithful, around and around in a clockwise direction, prostrating themselves full length as they come opposite their god-king.

Jerusalem still quiet

By JERRY MORTON
Special to the Times-News

JERUSALEM — Posters in store window say "Welcome to Jerusalem: City of Peace."
Despite what they have read in newspapers, tourists have little reason to doubt the message. The ancient city is calm. The days are warm, the nights cool. For Christians, it is an appropriate season to visit the holy sites.
"There is more tension outside Israel than inside," said a student at the Hebrew University. "If you never read anything, you would never think about war."
The Jewish and Arab populations in Jerusalem appear more concerned with the intentions of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat than with each other.
Sadat has mixed moderate statements with promises that "We will fight."
A tourist who has visited Cairo draws a special reaction from Israelis.
They wonder what Cairo (a city with more than 1.5 times the population of Israel) is like. There is concern whether Sadat is really prepared to fight.
His talk, some Israelis say, is for political purposes or to arouse the emotions of a population which, according to recent figures, is 78 per cent illiterate.

"When you tell me you have been to Cairo, you might as well say you have been to the Moon," the wife of a Jewish executive said.
But if Cairo appears distant from Jerusalem, the life style of the city should not.
The old city, predominantly Arab, is a miniature version of life in Cairo.
The streets and shops are colorful but dirty, the men smoke water pipes in the market places, and life is apparently viewed on a day-to-day basis.
Card games, coffee houses and a movie theater (now showing "Lawrence of Arabia") provide entertainment.
"It looks very quiet here," said a young Moslem, "but it is not quite good."
He said the Arabs must regain the portion of Jordan lost in the Six-Day War of 1967.
"It is like a book," he said. "A book must be complete. You cannot be satisfied if a few pages are missing."
In a shopping area popular with tourists, an Arab woman, a Baptist, owns a store featuring handwork of Arab refugees.
"I must do even a little to help my people," she said.

"Many Jewish people, too, are my friends. I lived with them 10 years. After the war, they came to see me."
"It is the politicians who are making it all wrong."
Lawmakers are elected to the Knesset, a 120-member unicameral body whose membership includes six Arabs.
The Knesset met recently to discuss Sadat's threats. The members filed to the podium to give their views ranging from withdrawn from occupied lands to an offensive against Egypt.
The speeches, and bantering among delegates, drew applause, groans and even some laughter from the visitors in the gallery.
The Jewish community in Jerusalem, comprising 75 per cent of the population, resides, for the most part, in the new city.
Part of modern Jerusalem resembles a Western city with its office buildings, stores, and cultural institutions.
The outskirts include the new Knesset building, a series of museums, the expanding Hebrew University, and hills with newly-planted forests.

"Something may happen, but we have confidence," a graduate student at the Hebrew University said.
"Much of the talent and brainpower in this country is directed toward the army."
Another student warned visitors against riding an Arab bus to Bethlehem.
"They will think you are backing Israel, and you will not be welcome," he said.
The visitors rode the bus without incident, being joined by a Jew at a stop along the way.
The uncertainty of the situation also was reflected by a Jewish woman with three small children who lives just outside Jerusalem.
"I have read and listened," she said. "The things Sadat says are not good."
"I have seen war in Europe and war here. With the future of my children to consider, all words must be taken seriously."

Badger basketball coach likes towering twins

TWIN FALLS — Two young men who got their start in Twin Falls, are gaining basketball fame with the University of Wisconsin Badgers this year.
They are Kim and Kerry Hughes, identical twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hughes, formerly of Twin Falls. They are the grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz Jensen, Twin Falls.
Identical twins, they have attracted attention of many during their high school careers and this year will be written up in Sports Illustrated's basketball edition on the nation's top ten college teams.
The 19-year-old twins have another feature which has attracted them to basketball coaches. Each is 6 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 220 pounds.

The Hughes family lives in Freeport, Ill., and until last year, the tall twins were drawing attention as high school basketball players and dominated the conference play there with their size and height.
They were named All-Big Eight League team members and since enrolling at the University of Wisconsin last year Kerry and Kim have gained 31 and 28 pounds respectively. Their coach, John Powless, says they performed well as freshmen and he is looking for them to lead the Badgers.
The two have been playing basketball together all of their lives—and decided they would continue by going to college together rather than selecting different schools. Their father, who is "only" 6 feet 2 inches tall, is a former basketball player. While in Twin Falls, he was employed by an automobile agency.
Their mother, Lyla Jensen Hughes, is a former Twin Falls school teacher. She taught in both Lincoln and Washington elementary schools. The couple has another son and daughter. During their high school careers, the two never played against anyone larger than themselves, but in college competition, they are meeting some other big players, their parents say.

Today, clothes are freaky, far out and fun. And so are the stores that sell them. But no matter how far out the store, you'll find a sign in the window that says, "With First Security BankAmericard, you already have a charge account."

Polly's POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—During the wintertime when the car windshield gets dirty and the windshield washer is frozen, my mother picks up a handful of snow and wipes it around on the windshield. She turns the wipers on and the window is soon clean.—DIANE

DEAR POLLY—I made myself a formal and then discovered I could see through it, but did not have a long slip. Since they are quite expensive, I sewed a piece of a sheet all the way around the bottom of one of my old slips and had a long one in no time.—LORRAINE

DEAR POLLY—When tidying my lingerie drawer I noticed the sachets were no longer usable so I folded a facial tissue into a square, sprayed perfume on it. This works well, and is long-lasting.—BETH

DEAR POLLY—As a newlywed, I would like to share a meaningful experience with others about to be married. A cassette or some other tape recorder placed under a kneeling bench or somewhere close but out of sight provides the best memory of that special event. We had an usher turn ours on as he escorted the groom's mother to her seat. Everything was recorded, both music and vows.—MRS. L. D. S.

DEAR POLLY—Each week I go through the closets, gather the empty coat hangers and put them by my dryer so that the permanently pressed clothes can be quickly put on hangers when they are removed from the dryer. This has helped eliminate the need for touching-up many items.—KAREN

DEAR POLLY—I do a lot of dressmaking, and have learned that using a fabric finish on many materials when they are pressed before cutting-out makes handling easier.—MRS. L. L.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

Knit Set

The popular Star Design of quilt-making has been adapted to a knit rug and pillow set. Pattern No. 5361 has complete knit directions and charts.

TO ORDER Send 60c with name, address, pattern number and size to NEEDLEWORK (c/o this newspaper), Box 4388, Middletown Station, New York, N.Y. 10018.

DEAR POLLY—I am only 12, but I have discovered that when girls have long, thin hair the ring cut off the end of an old balloon works better than a rubber band for holding the hair back.—KATHY

DEAR POLLY—If you are always losing safety pins, keep them on a shower curtain ring. It is inexpensive, easy to find, and compact for easy storage in drawer or sewing box.—MARY D.

DEAR POLLY—I'm only 11, but think I have a good pointer. My bicycle looked so dingy and dull, even though I washed it once a week. My allowance would not stretch enough to buy car wax, so I spread a thin coat of neutral boot polish all over the bike, and then buffed it to a shine. I now have the brightest bicycle on the block. The finish stands up against the salt, and there's polish left over for the family shoes.—SHERRI

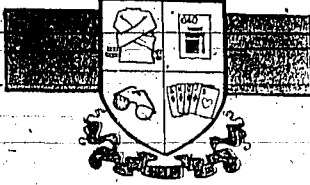

DEAR POLLY—Toes from old socks make great panties for dolls. Cut the toe-off and then cut two holes for the doll's legs to go through.—JUDY

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR WILLIAM A. MOYERS, author
Before you were Presidential press secretary to Lyndon B. Johnson, you had a journalism background. Would you advise a President to pick a professional journalist as a press secretary?—Mrs. Kathleen Mooney, Elmsere, N.Y.

● I'd recommend to any President in the future that he do not put professional journalists in that job. As press secretary you never lie to the press—but you do hedge. The press is a persistent posse, so you never let them catch you in a lie. Your face generally reveals the pain, anyway. So the best thing to do is run, hedge, duck or light a cigar and look out the window. Some Presidents deliberately keep their press secretaries in the dark so the secretaries can remain honest with the press. In the interest of diplomacy, it's frequently necessary to keep one's tongue or remain silent. But there's no question that for a journalist it creates a private conflict of interest.

FOR SEN. HENRY M. JACKSON of Washington

Do you agree with Senator Muskie's opinion that the presence of a Negro on a Presidential ticket would hurt the ticket?—Mr. Walter E. Dillon, Washington, D.C.

● No. After all, Sen. Edward Brooke was elected in Massachusetts, a state with a two percent black population at the time. I would consider all races when choosing my running mate.

FOR ELIZABETH MONTGOMERY, star of "Bewitched"

I heard that your father gave you some fine advice on how to handle the heady feeling applause brings. What was it he said?—Mrs. Barbara House, Franklin, Mass.

● He said, "If you achieve success you will get applause, and if you get applause you will hear it. My advice to you concerning applause is this: enjoy it—but never quite believe it!"

TO JOANNA BARNES, actress and author of "The Deceivers"
You have been in many movies and television plays and written several successful books. Which gives you more pleasure—acting or writing?—K. Eugene, Utica, N.Y.

● Both—because they balance each other. Writing is very lonely. Acting is very social. In writing, you succeed or fail solo. In acting, if you succeed, you really have to share that with the writer, director, cast and crew. And, if you fail, theoretically you have other people with whom to share the blame.

FOR PETE ROZELLE, Commissioner National Football League

Can we expect to see further expansion of the league in the next decade?—Al Wood, Detroit, Mich.

● I would think that within the next decade we will probably go to 32 teams. When one considers that in a little over 10 years, professional football has gone from 12 to 20 teams, it takes little imagination to envision six more being added. But it will not be in the immediate future.

FOR GUY LOMBARDO, band leader

What do you think is the reason for the renewed interest in the music of the 40's and 50's among the young and the old?—M. Arrowsmith, Alameda, Calif.

● People, especially the young, are tired of being loners. They're looking for togetherness. They want to talk with each other again, dance with each other again. Hard rock is on the way out, and the appreciation for pretty melodies and arrangements as played by the big bands is on the way in. Like everything else, music has its cycles.

FOR DINA MERRILL, actress

Most actresses today seem to have to make the decision at some time as to whether or not they'll pose in the nude. How do you feel about that?—Mrs. J. Hamilton, Birmingham, Ala.

● I would never appear nude. I want my children to be able to see anything in which I appear. No, I certainly would not. It would only upset them.

FOR DAVY JONES, singer, formerly with The Monkees

What has happened to your group? Are you still performing?—Susie Smith, Chicago, Ill.

● I recently completed a tour of England and the United States and had a hit with my first solo recording, "Rainy Jane," on Bell Records. Micky Dolenz is continuing his career as an actor. Peter Tork is a record producer and Mike Nesmith tours with his own band.

FOR REP. WILBUR D. MILLS, Arkansas

Your friends are continually urging you to become a nominee for President in 1972. How do you feel about this?—D. S. Stoddard, Hot Springs, Ark.

● No one could help but be honored and flattered. But the Committee on Ways and Means on which I have the honor to serve as Chairman has kept me and the other members so occupied this year that we have had little opportunity to think about political matters.

FOR HOWARD COSELL, sportscaster

You seem to be appearing in nonsports movies and TV shows. If you could make it big away from sports, would you leave the sports world?—A. Adams, Atlantic City, N.J.

● I'm doing all this because of the reaction to "Bananas," the Woody Allen movie. When Woody asked me to do a walk-on in his film, I thought it would be great. I'm a frustrated actor, anyway. I've played some summer stock. Too, I thought the public was ready to accept the fact that a man can be in sports and do other things. If I could swing out of sports and maintain my income, I'd consider it.

Can Her Second 40 Years Be a

More and more women are joining with Gina Lollobrigida, who, two years ago, when she turned 40, said: "I have become more beautiful. If this is what age does to me, let's have more of it!"

By Sondra Gorney

Despite our "youth-oriented" society, it is more and more apparent that talent and beauty—and even romance—no longer belong exclusively to the young. As beneficiaries of a longer life, post-menopausal women are proving everywhere that they can make the "bonus years" fruitful ones. They are functioning effectively as clerks or executives, as actresses or public servants. And they are learning and participating in home as well as in community life with a spirit that belies age.

What are some of the factors that help bring about this metamorphosis? For one thing, women's awareness that they have longer lives ahead of them. Metropolitan Life Insurance data show that in 1850 only half the newborn babies could look forward to reaching a 45th birthday. Now one-half of all newborns can expect to live 74 years. At age 40, a woman still has one-third of her lifetime ahead of her. She is literally entering the "second forty" period of her life.

Today millions of women are waging an uphill battle against stereotyped concepts of their place in society. Previous assumptions were that women were exclusively child-bearing, home-making animals; that they had no interests outside the home and children; and that once their children were gone, their usefulness was ended. Middle-aged and older women were marked as sexless creatures. They were told that menopause marked the end of their femininity and a loss of sexual desire.

Today's woman has literally hurdled the frontier of middle age and entered her "second life" with determination and vivacity. This does not mean that her first life as wife and mother has to be abandoned. It means she has developed on a new plane and continues her former roles with greater understanding—and even more femininity.

The physiological change that represented the toughest barrier to many women of mature years was the fear of menopause. They entered their middle years burdened by old wives' tales associated with the Victorian era. But new scientific understanding of the menopause in the last 30 years, and new medical methods of softening some of the effects of the aging process, has given women a new lease on their "second lives."

Only three centuries ago, the menopause occurred when women were in their late 30's or very early 40's. Often they didn't live many years beyond it. Today the average age for onset of menopause is 49 or 50. Through skillful replacement of diminished estrogen, the most aggravating symptoms are often moderated, and some are avoided altogether.

The result of all this is a heightened sense of well-being and comfort as well as increased confidence in a woman's ability to deal with the world around her. No longer is she the dowdy housewife-stay-at-home. Instead, she has started to prepare herself for a job or career. (Today about 12 million women over 45, most of them married, are employed full time and earn 90 billion dollars each year.)

What is the secret of coping with age? A few tips are imparted by the women on these pages. But basically the proof of the pudding is in the individual woman's attitude toward age. And today more and more women are joining with Gina Lollobrigida, who, two years ago, when she turned 40, said: "I have become more beautiful. If this is what age does to me, let's have more of it!"

LETTIA BALDRIDGE

Letitia Baldrige, author and public-relations expert, was social secretary to a number of prominent people: Jacqueline Kennedy, Clare Boothe Luce and Ambassador and Mrs. David Bruce in Paris. She thinks that mature women are the most interesting ones she knows.

"I think it's sad," says "Tish" Baldrige, who's in her 40's, "to see women bank their whole lives on just physical beauty. When they do age—and they feel if they're not great beauties any more, their lives are over. Actually life just begins. The main thing is to keep interested in what's going on in the world."

Despite having a husband, two children and a full-time executive job as director of consumer affairs for Burlington Industries, Tish still finds time to read a great deal and participate in urban affairs as a volunteer. And to look beautiful and elegant at all times.

WHAT OTHERS SAY:

LUCILLE BALL (58): "I don't abuse anybody; scream at people, break laws or cheat. Maybe that's part of staying young and feeling vital. I just try to be good!"

ANN MILLER

Ann Miller, who danced and sang in films now seen on the Late, Late Show, made her Broadway return last year as "Mame." She says Mame should be an inspiration to all mature women. "She's dressed immaculately and has the spirit of the pioneer. She never grows up—she's young at heart."

Ann, who is around 50, thinks it's time the movies brought back the woman of "undefinable age, but undeniable fascination," like the Norma Shearers and the Greer Garsons. "There's definitely a place for real glamor—and a real glamor woman must be in her late 30's or early 40's because the young ones haven't the foggiest idea what it's all about." Ann looks younger and more glamorous than ever. Her beauty secret? "I believe in kicking every morning, swinging my legs back and forth madly, touching my toes and rotating my neck." But mostly, she adds, "Beauty comes from within. Proper nutrition and happy thoughts and plenty of rest. That's the nicest thing you can do for your body!"

SHERRY WINTERS (47): "I think youth is a state of mind rather than a powder puff or eye-lashes. I was so afraid of the 30th birthday, and I found so many perks of staying young and feeling rewards, that my life, since then has really been more exciting."

MARYA MANNES

Marya Mannes, author, critic and TV commentator, is an ardent believer in the rights of all mature people, but especially those of women. She thinks youth has been overrated, but advises the mature woman that "she should try and keep as well and as vital and as pleasing to herself, as well as to others, as long as she can."

"There is nothing so aging as idleness," says Miss Mannes. "The more a woman is involved with work of whatever kind she chooses—whether it's professional interests or volunteering—the longer will be her real vitality, life span and attraction."

Miss Mannes emphasizes that age is not important. "There are days when I feel 35, there are days when I feel 45 and there are days when I feel even older. But inside is the same person that's always lived. Knowing more, I trust and am still passionately involved in the process of living and learning."

DAME MARGOT FONTEYN (58): "Exercise is good for the whole system. It circulates the blood, cleans out all the poisons, gives you a marvelous complexion."

Woman's Best?

LAUREN BACALL

Lauren Bacall, who made a big comeback starring in "Applause" on Broadway, is about 45 but moves and dances like a 20-year-old. She takes great pride in herself and visits a gym twice a week.

"The most marvelous thing is feeling in command of my body," she says.

During her long run as star of "Applause," Miss Bacall said: "I feel the cycle of life changing. It's like a second chance, as if my life is beginning again. My eyes are open, my ears are open. All my senses are at work." An interviewer, watching her, wrote: "Her beauty seemed all the more intense for being weathered, as if it consisted of character and poise as well as the things the eye can detect."

Says Lauren Bacall, "I stick with my isometric exercises because they keep my body supple and taut, and they force me to be conscious of my posture and my walk. I can walk for miles and dance all night and give eight performances a week. You don't think I'd ever let that change, do you?"

LORETTA YOUNG (56): "I was taught to do the best I can with what I've got and don't overdo it."

MARIETTA TREE

Marietta Tree was the first woman U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations. As an executive now working in city planning and a prominent socialite, she makes many public appearances during which she must look her best. How does she do it? "I have always exercised every single day since I was 30," she explains. "If I couldn't swim or play tennis, I exercised at home, generally in the evening before changing for dinner. I also make it a point to sleep at least eight hours every night."

Mrs. Tree has thought about the philosophy of aging and has studied the people that she thought aged well. "The woman who keeps on going," she has concluded, "is the person who does not take herself too seriously, who makes it a point to learn about something new, is excited about a variety of things and sensations and is curious about people. That's the person who stays young forever."

HILDEGARDE (65): "If antiques get more valuable when they're older, why shouldn't I be more valuable when I get older? And isn't old brandy better than young brandy and an old Hildegarde better than a young Hildegarde?"

Season's Greetings... From Your Kitchen

CHOCOLATE POUND CAKE LOAF

- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup cocoa, sifted
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup lard
- 1 tablespoon vanilla extract
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- 3 cups sugar
- 1 cup eggs (5 or 6)
- ¼ cups milk

1. Lightly grease (bottom only) two 9x5x3-in. loaf pans. Line bottoms with waxed paper; grease paper. Set aside.

2. Sift the flour, baking powder, salt, and cocoa together and blend thoroughly. Set aside.

3. Cream butter or margarine and lard with extracts in a large mixer bowl. Gradually add sugar, creaming thoroughly after each addition. Add eggs, one at a time, beating until fluffy after each addition.

4. Beat only until blended after each addition, alternately add dry ingredients in fourths and milk in thirds to creamed mixture.

5. Turn equal amounts of batter into prepared loaf pans. Using a rubber scraper, gently spread batter evenly from center to corners and edge of pans. (Top of baked cakes may have a slight crack down center.) Place pans on center of oven rack so that top of batter will be at center of oven. Bake at 325°F. about 65 min., or until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean.

7. Cool cakes in pans 15 min. on wire racks. Loosen sides with a spatula and turn onto rack. Peel off paper, turn right side up, and cool completely. The cooled cakes may be wrapped in aluminum foil and stored until ready to serve or decorate. Before serving or wrapping as a gift, the cakes may be sprinkled lightly with vanilla confectioners' sugar rather than frosted and decorated.

Two loaf cakes

DUTCH COCOA LOAF CAKE

Follow directions for Chocolate Pound Cake Loaf except substitute ¾ cup Dutch-process cocoa for the ¼ cup-cocoa. Increase butter or margarine to 1½ cups; omit lard.

FOR A GIFT: Set each cake on an attractive bread board slightly larger than cake. Spread top surface with a butter cream frosting (canned ready-to-spread or prepared from a favorite recipe). Swirl frosting attractively using the back of a spoon. Using cut-out pieces of citron for holly and pieces of quartered red cherries for berries, arrange holly decoration around edge or over surface of frosting. Or decorate with small salted pecans, candied cherry halves, and angelica in an attractive design. Set bread board with cake onto a large piece of clear moisture-vaporproof material. Gather corners together and twist well above frosted cake; tie with a colorful holiday bow.

PEAR-FILLED WREATH BREAD

- 2 cups chopped pared fresh Anjou, Bosc or Comice pears sliced 1/4 in.
- ¾ cup diced candied fruit or glacé cherries
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 4 to 4½ cups all-purpose flour
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 2 pkgs. active dry yeast
- ¼ cup milk
- ¼ cup water
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 2 eggs

Glaze (see recipe)

1. Toss pears with candied fruit, 1 tablespoon flour, and 2 tablespoons sugar in a bowl. (If desired, drizzle a little rum over fruit.) Set aside.

2. Mix 1¼ cups of the flour, ¼ cup sugar, salt, and undissolved yeast thoroughly in a larger mixer bowl.

3. Put milk, water, and butter or margarine into a small saucepan. Heat just until warm. Add to the dry ingredients, and beat 2 min. at medium speed of electric mixer. Add eggs and ¼ cup flour; beat 2 min. at high speed. Mix in enough additional flour to make a soft dough.

4. Turn out on a lightly floured pastry canvas. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 min. Place in a greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover and let rise in a warm place 1 hr., or until doubled.

5. Divide dough in half. Roll one half into an 18x9-in. rectangle. Cut a 1-in. strip of dough from 18-in. side and set aside.

6. Spread rectangle with one-half of the fruit, filling to within ½ in. of edges. Loosely roll, starting with long side; pinch seams to seal. Place on a baking sheet to form a wreath shape. (See photo.) Using a sharp knife, slash edges of wreath at 1-in. intervals, cutting about halfway through.

7. Shape reserved strip of dough into a bow, and place on wreath where ends join. Repeat for second wreath, using remainder of dough and filling. (If desired, follow directions for making wreath, but do not slash edges.)

8. Let rise again 30 min., or until doubled.

9. Bake at 350°F. 20 to 30 min., or until golden brown. While still warm, drizzle with Glaze.

Engelbert Humperdinck

"Photographs don't capture him. With his jet hair and green eyes, he gives the impression of having been created in Technicolor in a black and white world."

It is—after midnight. We stand on the balcony 25 stories above New York. The man beside me writes poetry, and he shares it with me now, reciting softly.

I am impressed by its depth and beauty, just as I have been by its author—Engelbert Humperdinck. I would like the poetry for publication. He shakes his head, softening the refusal with his breath-taking smile. "It's too personal," he tells me. "I can't expose myself like that."

This was not my first surprise, nor my last, in an evening which began at one of Engelbert's opening nights.

Initially, the most startling thing about Engelbert is his appearance. No television camera or photograph has ever captured it. He is tall, dark and incredibly handsome. He has green eyes, truly green, no hint of blue or hazel. With his tanned skin, jet hair and luminous smile, he gives the impression of having been created in Technicolor in a black and white world.

work. But I don't think it's made me conceited." He pauses a moment, evaluating himself. "No, I don't think so."

The question he resents most is the one everyone feels compelled to ask. I didn't. But he brought it up himself: "They always ask it—'Whatever made you choose that name? Your knowledge of your talent was enough without using a name like that! But they're wrong! Sometimes you need a little push, I know because I had about seven wasted years during which I did nothing." He smiled. "But this thing with the name will wear off."

There was no display of anger or temperament; it's not the subject that annoys him so much as the attitude towards it. This may explain his absence from many television talk shows.

"I did a Carson show when I first came to this country. There was a substitute host who was somewhat sarcastic. He used my name as a laugh—used me to make himself a big man. So now I stay away from most of those shows. I'm not talking about all of them. I've done Mike Douglas' show—he truly is a gentleman."

Engelbert's charm seems so genuine, his manner so courteous that to be in his presence is to feel important.

It was no surprise, therefore, when he listed the things that make him angry. "Ignorance. Bad manners. People who are uncouth. Lack of common sense as well—that makes me mad. Everyone should have some!"

"I'm better equipped for success now," he told me. "Years ago, I think I would have been too young and inexperienced. But if I had my life over, maybe I'd go to another country and try there because no one wanted to know me in England."

Things are vastly different now. He has the world's largest fan club, with 40 chapters and more than 65,000 members in the United States alone. His ballad singing, starting with "Release Me," has earned him the title of the "World's Most Romantic Singer." "I'm a contemporary singer," he says. "It depends how you phrase a song. Some ballad singers are terribly square—I'm far from being square. I do all kinds of music, including rock. But "country" is my style." (Maybe "sophisticated country" would be a more apt description.)

"I didn't expect to be what I am today, not as big. It was like an injection of life, that's all I can say. It's a love, a dedication, a religion. There is nothing like the reward of a great applause after a performance. I'm pressured to an extent; but it's comforting to know I'm in such demand. Thank God I am at the top."

"Success has made me more confident, in myself and my work. But I don't think it's made me conceited." He pauses a moment, evaluating himself. "No, I don't think so."

"You have to be a genuine person because you cannot fool the public at all these days. Show-business people are getting better—they used to be terribly false. But there are still some I wouldn't walk around the car for!"

The serious side of Engelbert is lightened with an impish sense of humor. He frequently interrupted to tease me. Quick-witted, he pounced on double meanings with a throaty chuckle and sat back to observe my reactions.

"Fate took me off the air," he told me when I asked about his TV show. "But I'll be back, and next time it will be better. I want my own ideas. I wasn't happy with the show. I enjoy perfection—I must have perfection." His thoughts switched back to the show he did that night. "Tonight, I was a little disappointed. The sound wasn't right. Now, tomorrow, that will be rectified." His tone allowed no doubt that the problem would be solved.

I heard a similar tone when I mentioned reports that an enthusiastic lady had broken his little finger.

"Feller! Man!" he declared firmly. "It was a jealous man who got on stage. Let's get that story straight. No lady can break my finger! By the time security got on stage, I'd already pushed him off."

... You know," he added, "I played four games of golf before I realized it was broken!"

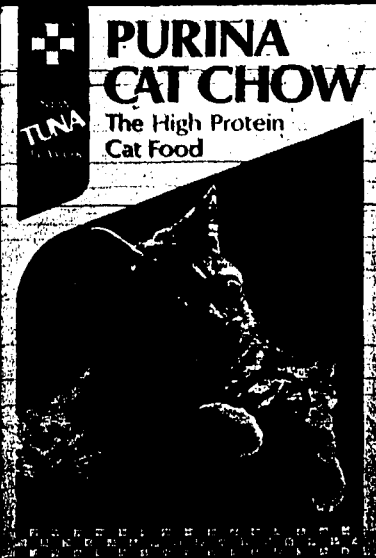

Engelbert enjoys playing golf but says, "It's very hard for me to relax because my mind is always active. I'm always thinking of maybe tomorrow or home."

There is a touch of melancholy in his voice, and I ask if he is happy.

"I'm an artist, and an artist isn't always a happy person. I get very, very sad at Christmas time. And at New Year's, when I hear 'Auld Lang Syne,' I go hide. It's the only time I could cry. I don't know why. Maybe it's because it's a New Year, and I'm alive and well. Maybe it's a feeling of 'Thank God—I don't know how to explain it.'"

I was prepared for Engelbert's poise; I expected him to be suave. But there was more. I found a rare man who combines poetry with manliness, melancholy with humor, pride with chivalry—and all wrapped up in a larger-than-life, Technicolor package! □

Can What You Eat Affect Your Height?

According to a study at the University of North Carolina, capsaicin—the pungent substance found in hot red peppers so popular in the diet of the peoples of Mexico and parts of South America—may be responsible for the shortness of stature so frequently encountered in the populations of those countries. In the study, the findings of which were recently reported at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, young rats were fed normal diets with and without capsaicin for 56 days. At the end of this period, the rats whose diet included the hot red pepper ingredient were found to be of significantly smaller size. Scientist Waylin Nopantaya, in summarizing the results of the research, concludes that the growth retardation may be due to malnutrition caused by the capsaicin's effect on the absorptive ability of the cells of the small intestine.

Try a "Spritzer"

You're dieting but want to live festively by having wine with your main course when you're visiting or out to dinner with friends. A good solution is a spritzer, which is a popular dinner drink in middle Europe. A spritzer is usually served in a six-ounce glass and is made by pouring equal amounts of club soda and wine over ice cubes. Club soda has no calories, and three ounces of dry wine, red or white, is about 75 calories. You can also regulate your own proportions of wine to soda by asking for only club soda and ice and "tinting" your drink with an ounce or two from the wine bottle. In effect, you actually select your wine calorie intake, making it as low as a 20-calorie drink or less if you want to, yet still being festive. But keep in mind that most sweet wines have almost twice the calorie content of dry wines, and order accordingly.

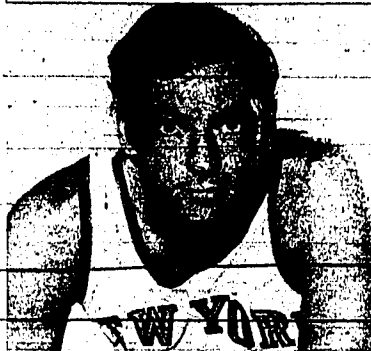

TRENTIPS

- Tie Tip: Polka dots and circular patterns are most flattering to the long, thin face.
- Carry pencils in your shirt pocket. Keep points down instead of up. Surprisingly, there's less tearing and the shirts stay neater.
- If you have access to blueprints about to be discarded by a design or architectural firm, store them. They make unique gift-wrapping paper.

SPORTS MINI-PROFILE:

Bill Bradley

The Rhodes Scholar Who Got "Lonely for Basketball"

Bill Bradley of the New York Knickerbockers is the only Rhodes scholar and Ivy League honor student to succeed in the grueling sport of pro basketball. His scholastic record and his handsome, six-foot-five-inch appearance have caused teammates and fans to nickname him "Mr. President," in the belief that when he quits the sport, he will enter national politics. . . . A native of Crystal City, Mo., and the son of a banker, Bill received over a hundred offers to attend college on an athletic scholarship. He turned them all down for Princeton, where he was obliged to pay full tuition. He became the most spectacular college player of his generation. He also starred on the U.S. team in the Tokyo Olympics. . . . Upon graduation, Bradley received a lucrative offer from the Knicks, but he rejected it to accept a Rhodes scholarship at Oxford. He studied there for two years, then decided to return. "My love for basketball overwhelmed me," he says. "I'd go down to the gym at Oxford and play all alone. I would pretend to be both teams as well as the crowd and the officials. After a time, I became so lonesome for the sport, I decided to come back." . . . Bradley is a painstaking performer who devotes long hours to practice, but he finds time during the team's trips around the country to devour weighty books on Asian history, economic theory and international relations.

Husbands: It's Worse the "Second Time Around"

If a man can't control family decisions as much as he wishes with his first wife, chances are he will have even less success with a second wife. According to a U.C.L.A. study of husband-wife relationships, husbands possess their greatest family power if both he and his wife are in their first marriage. For reasons that are not yet clear, a man loses family influence when he remarries. A woman's second marriage, however, does not seem to significantly affect the husband-wife power distribution if it's the man's first marriage. Where both the man and his new wife have been married before, the husband's power over family matters will be at its lowest.

Dog Houses Are Great in Winter, If . . .

Now that winter's here, see to it that Bowser's doghouse is snug for cold weather. It should be raised off the ground so that moisture can't seep in. It should be big enough for him to lie down comfortably, but small enough so his body warmth will not be dissipated. It must be out of the wind, and the doorway should be covered with a baffle or canvas flap. Both interior and exterior should be waterproof. Cinder blocks on a concrete slab, with wooden flooring elevated four inches from the slab, make an excellent doghouse for all climates. For easy cleaning, the roof can be lifted off. Don't forget a warm blanket these cold months. And wash it often.

HOUSEHINTS

By Lee Pottes

- When the children come home for lunch with wet caps, mittens and scarfs, pop gear into dryer—it will be dry and warm before the meal is over.
- Save those string or fiber onion bags. Fill with suet or drippings you've hardened in the freezer or refrigerator and hang on a limb to befriend the birds.
- For difficult windows where privacy is important but light is, too, install window shades to pull from bottom up. Simple hardware for this is available wherever shades are sold. Works well for to-the-floor windows, skylights.

Introducing two new balanced dinners Lassie is coming home to these days.

There's new Recipe Beef & Egg Dinner. And our new Roast Turkey Dinner.

Two new ways to make sure your dog is getting a good balanced diet like Lassie enjoys. Both are more than meat.

We've added five selected vegetables to each. And two vitamin and mineral-fortified chew biscuits.

That way your dog gets the nutrition that meat alone couldn't provide.

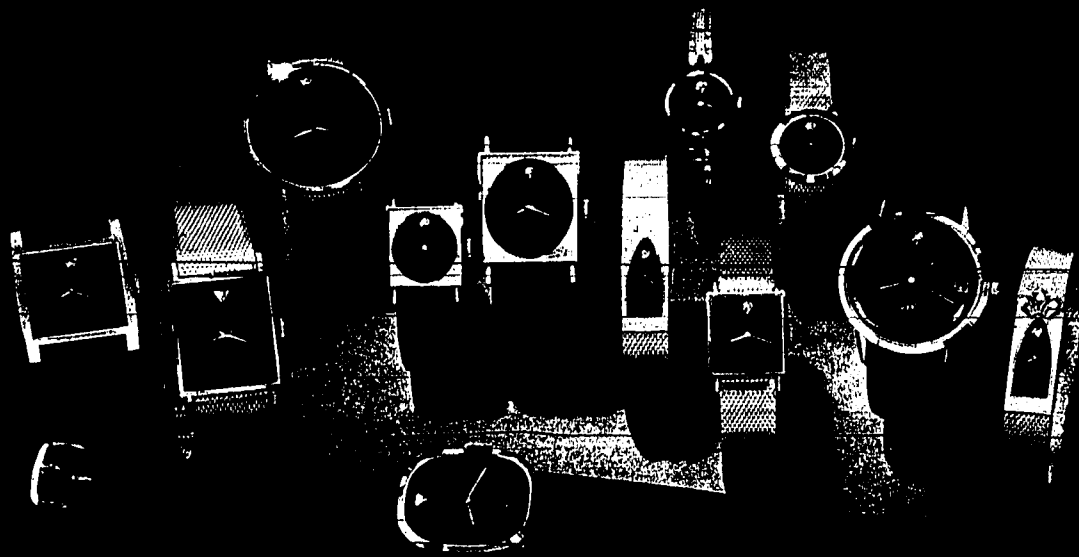

These new Recipe brand dinners smell every bit as good as they look.

Lassie is not an ordinary dog. But then, neither is yours. Why feed him like one?

Jobmanship

A feature dedicated to helping you understand and improve your on-the-job relationships.

By S. R. Redford

DO YOU HAVE THE TEMPERAMENT TO TAKE BUSINESS CHANCES?

• Are you the kind of person who values job security highly? Or could you adapt well to the insecurity of going into your own business? How would the insecurity of leaving a routine job to try work with higher potential but greater risk affect you?

Recent psychological experiments indicate that people who need job security have temperaments which they themselves describe as: cooperative, determined, deliberate, efficient, stable. People who can take business chances in their stride and who do not value job security highly see themselves as being: important, courageous, sharp-witted, clear-thinking, imaginative, ingenious and foresighted. Do you have the temperament to take business chances? Which type of person are you?

It's easy and fun to decorate with Hershey's Kisses. And if you make a mistake, you can always eat it!

Hershey has dressed its Milk Chocolate Kisses in shiny green, red and silver foil for Christmas. So you can make ornaments with them and stand back and watch your tree glitter. You can tie them into the ribbon on your packages and seal your gifts with a Kiss.

There's lots of things you and your children can make with Hershey's Kisses that we haven't even thought of. So be creative. What could be merrier than a house filled with silver Hershey's Kisses all year round...and special Hershey's Kisses at Christmas.

HERSHEY'S KISSES

Mouse: 3 silver Kisses; 2 orange beads; 2 ears cut from pink foil; glue.

Bird: 1 silver, 1 green, 3 red Kisses; 2 yellow beads; toothpicks; glue.

Reindeer: 1 silver, 2 red, 2 green Kisses; 2 marshmallows; 2 white beads; toothpicks; glue.

Christmas Tree: silver, red, green Kisses; styrofoam cone; toothpicks.

Arteries, Diet and Cholesterol

Can Arteries Be Cleared By Diet Alone?

Do you know that arteries have their own natural cleansing system? Famous scientists have proved that our own body forces are constantly attacking and removing non-living matter. They say once we find the right diet to stop forming new deposits, our clogged arteries will tend to clear themselves.

The right diet! This is the vital secret, long sought by science. Now at last an independent laboratory has made an exciting new discovery: The Fresh Food Diet. They found that cholesterol and fat choke the arteries only when eaten in certain processed foods, but are harmless when fresh as in shell eggs or meat. Cholesterol and fat set and harden like lime in a certain way and soap when stored in a certain way, and form deposits in the arteries when changed in this way. Fresh foods permit our arteries to clear themselves.

The Fresh Food Diet provides the first realistic hope of fully clearing arteries through the body's own self-cure method that really helps, done at home without extra expense. Thousands following it are saying they are much better. They feel better, look better, enjoy life more. They also say they have never before eaten so well at small cost, or cooked so easily and quickly. This easy method is steadily gaining favor, but many years may pass before it is universally adopted. Can you wait that long? You need not wait at all. The new diet is available now in handy booklet form.

This easy-reading booklet gives the first and only account of the new findings. Tests how to help clear arteries, reduce high blood pressure and cholesterol. How fresh food helps poor circulation in the neck and legs, angles, ear noises and dizziness. Also helps fatty yellow lumps in the eyelids, indigestion, acid stomach, and colitis. Includes the Fresh Food Diet showing which foods to buy in your grocery store and which to avoid. Pictures and drawings. Effects of better diet on face and figure. Quick easy ways to cook well and reduce kitchen work.

The booklet is fully guaranteed: May be returned for refund if you are not satisfied with it. Over 100,000 satisfied readers. Very successful. Liked well by the public, but not so well by a few food industries and their spokesmen who promote the artery-choking foods.

If you could wear something taped to your chest that would warn you of an incipient heart attack, in time to get help before it happens, would you wear it? Working on the knowledge that the heart often sends out irregular electrical warning signals for up to three days before a fatal attack, an engineer and a physician (Robert Chapman and Dr. John Gofman, both Californians) have invented an electronic, pocket-sized continuous heart monitor. Called VIDA (Ventricular Impulse Detector and Alarm), the monitor has skin electrodes for sensors and is powered by transistor batteries. If the alarm sounds, the patient should have time to phone his physician—who can hear the audio tone for an immediate electrocardiographic reading. The device was patented in 1964, but it took seven years to raise the money for production—now expected in the spring of 1972, from Cardiodynamics, Inc., Dept. FW, Dublin, Calif. 94566.

What Part Does Luck Play in Your Life?

True or False: The same factors which bring "bad luck" can also make you accident prone (see number 5)

What makes some people lucky, others unlucky? In this true-or-false quiz, the experts take a hard look at Lady Luck to see what makes her tick.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Lucky at cards, unlucky at love.
2. People who go overboard in trusting their luck—who are always willing to back their hunches to the hilt and take long chances for high gains—are usually happy-go-lucky types, slow to anger and easy to get along with.
3. Bad luck can often be better for you than good luck.
4. You can change your luck by changing your state of mind.
5. The same factors which bring "bad luck" can also make you accident prone.
6. Nobody knows what makes you lucky.

ANSWERS

1. False. Sociological studies conducted at a leading university show that in most cases a person's luck in games of chance tends to parallel his fortune in other areas of his life, such as business, investments, relationships with others. Consistent losers at the gaming tables, the investigation showed, tended also to be "losers" in life.
2. False. Psychological studies at the University of Massachusetts have shown that these people tend to be aggressive in their attitudes, are inclined to be egotistical, have a desire to dominate others and are quick to show resentment when they suspect someone of infringing on their rights.
3. True. Psychological studies at California State College explored the effects of two types of experience on men and women students: 1) joyful, happy, ecstatic experiences and 2) painful or sorrowful experiences. Each student was asked "What lasting effect—if any—did your peak happiest experience produce?" The same question was asked about the most unhappy or painful experience. Thirty-nine percent of the students said that their most painful experience had the most important, beneficial and lasting after-effect on their lives. The consensus was that it served to strengthen their character, help them acquire fortitude, patience, tolerance and understanding; that it offered a challenge to develop self-reliance, maturity and self-control.

4. True. Harvard University studies show that your ability to take advantage of opportunities, to acquire yourself creditably in various situations, is largely determined by your state of mind. Tests showed that your mental reflexes—your ability to think, reason and make the best decisions—function at peak efficiency when your mood is optimistic and upbeat. A pessimistic or depressed state of mind, it was found, puts two strikes on our mental powers, thus robbing us of the ability to make the most of opportunities. It's also pointed out that a downbeat mood further discourages good fortune by creating a negative reaction in those who we may try to favorably impress.

5. True. University studies have repeatedly shown that a negative attitude makes a person more prone to all sorts of accidents and injuries.

6. False. Modern psychological studies bear out what the canny student of human nature, essayist Joseph Addison, observed more than 200 years ago: I never knew an early-rising, hard-working, prudent man, careful of his earnings and strictly honest, who complained of bad luck. A good character, good habits and iron industry are impregnable to the assaults of all the ill-luck that fools ever dreamed of.

And, as another astute philosopher has observed—the only good luck many great men ever had was being born with the ability and determination to overcome bad luck. □

Winter Ice Fishing: A New Sport Opens for Snowmobilers

By James Joseph, author of the forthcoming book,
"Here Is Your Hobby: Snowmobiling"

"Wherever you live, if there's enough snow to snowmobile, local winter 'hot spots' await your tub and line."

Hook, line and sinker, families are falling for the hottest of winter weekend sports. It's ice fishing—by snowmobile.

"Before we got our snowmobile," says a new convert to ice angling, "it seemed the family and I spent half the winter just waiting for spring—and fishing. Now, nearly every weekend, and with just half an hour's snowmobile ride, we're over a frozen-hot spot."

"Hot spots"—usually 12 to 36-inch diameter holes punched through the ice—arq making lakes, bays and frozen backwaters from the Adirondacks to Alaska's Kenai peninsula both fun and fishable for snowmobilers.

Bundle up against the cold, hitch a sled-mounted "caboose" for the kids behind your snowmobile, put aboard your ice-fishing gear—and you're on-track to an unforgettable family adventure. You'll be joining a considerable crowd: the nearly two million families who own snowmobiles (and thousands more who rent them), who are just now discovering the fun of ice angling. In a recent survey by Snow Over magazine, ice fishing topped the list of activities most enjoyed—and participated in—by snowmobile families.

The snowmobile hasn't made them bite better, of course. Winter fishing has always been excellent (and, sometimes, downright spectacular). But always there was a chill—"if," if you could reach them across miles of snowed-in woods and roads. Now you can—by snowmobile.

Wherever you live, if there's enough snow to snowmobile, local winter "hot spots" await your tub and line:

● New York's myriad upstate lakes (as others like them from Maine to Minnesota) have been newly opened to winter fishing—by thousands of miles of well-marked, winter-maintained snowmobile trails. Once winter-isolated—and seldom fished—Schroon Lake is now an Adirondack hot spot for northern pike, since it lies an easy 45 minutes by snowmobile trail from Schroon Lake village (winter population: 1,500 residents, 500 snowmobiles).

● Maryland's Northeast river (headwaters of Chesapeake Bay) and the frozen miles of Mississippi backwaters stretching north through Illinois to central Minnesota have one thing in common: snowmobiles, in taking much of the chill off winter fishing, have made their hot spots family favorites. Explains a backwaters ice angler: "Even the most remote hot spots (for bass, catfish and crappie)—are, by snowmobile, only a half-hour or so from home. If the kids get too cold, we pack up quickly and head for warmth. In the old days, it wasn't often you could coax the wife and kids into going winter fishing...too cold, they said. And I'll admit it was."

● California's repeal in 1969 of its 57-year-old ban against ice fishing has boomed snowmobile angling (for bass and trout) on the state's fast-frozen, northern and high mountain lakes and reservoirs. Many are reachable in winter only by snowmobile. In fact, snowmobilers were largely

Ice Fishing:

Great Lakers are enjoying something different: the best lake trout winter angling in years. Snowmobiles (which whole family anglers effortlessly cover miles of frozen lake surface) and the rebirth of the nearly decimated lake trout population both happily arrived—almost at the same time. Hottest spots include Lake Michigan's Grand Traverse Bay (where anglers take upwards of 1,500 trout a winter's Sunday), and Munising and Keweenaw bays, the latter near L'Anse, Mich. Wisconsin snowmobilers are finding that ice trout (most under five-pounds) abound around the Cornucopia and Apostle islands. Lake Superior is a favorite snowmobile angling area, too.

"Name the place," vouches a veteran ice angler, "and if you punch a hole at the right spot and fish it right, you'll get your share of frozen fighters."

Ice anglers abide by three rules: (1) Fish in relatively shallow (often, only 15- to 20-foot deep) water, preferably near known weed beds; (2) Keep your bait or lure within one to three feet off the bottom; (3) Keep moving. If 10 minutes fishing through one hole fails to get results, move (something only snowmobilers can do without fuss or bother). Punch a new hole and try again.

"Jigging" and "tip-up" rigs are the preferred gear—and methods—for ice angling.

In jigging, you let your lure drop to the bottom, then take it line enough to lift it two to three feet, and begin an up-down pumping motion. On the upstroke, your bait rises. On the downstroke, it flutters toward the bottom. It's here that fish, attracted, take the bait. Usually on your next upstroke—you set—the hook.

A "tip-up" is an unattended ice-fishing rig, usually fitted with an underwater reel and a long pole with a flag on it. When a fish takes the bait, the rig is tripped—raising the flagpole, which is visible a long ways across the ice. In states where ice anglers may set numerous tip-ups, a single snowmobiler may attend many of them—racing flag to flag to haul in the prizes once they're hooked.

Bait and lures depend on what you're fishing for—and where. Local sporting goods dealers have the answers. Ask them. While the usual—worms, minnows, cut bait or lures—work in many places, some species are finicky eaters. And changeable ones, too. Great Lakes trout once were ravenous for deep-water chub minnows. Today's newly planted breed like shallower water and have a taste for shallow-water smelt and alewives. "Spudding" ice holes can be done the quick, effortless way with a powered auger, or the harder way—with hand tools. Some fishermen even use chain saws. But often only power augers work—such as on some of Alaska's hot spots, where the ice freezes 40 inches thick.

You can fish surprisingly warm in makeshift shelter tents (sometimes draped over your snowmobile). Sled-towed shelters also make welcomed warming places for the kids.

You need, as well, to take along snowmobile common sense. For long forays to isolated lakes, don't go it alone. Invite along another snowmobile fishing family. Take extra gasoline, the usual emergency supplies (extra spark plugs, quick-fix tools, drive belts, etc.), a change of warm clothing for every family member—and snowshoes. If in doubt about the ice's strength, inquire locally before you set out. If still in doubt, punch a test hole, and more of them as you progress from shore—just to play it safe. Ice nine inches thick is normally enough to sustain even a heavily loaded snowmobile.

With a little luck, you'll catch your supper—and fish to spare. And like most snowmobiling families, you'll be hooked for the winter—on ice fishing. □

Look what you and Reynolds Wrap (and lots of love) can do.

Festive Reynolds Wrap Ideas for Feasting, Giving, Merry-Making.

TURKEY TRICKS. Tent your turkey and line your roasting pan with Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Your bird will brown beautifully without basting. And no oven-spattering or pan-scouring. Roast your bird using directions on the Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap package. And bake an extra portion of your favorite stuffing separately in a foil "bundle."

GIFTWEAR. Wrap your presents in shiny-bright Reynolds Wrap, and add your own imaginative touches. Molds easily to hard-to-wrap shapes. So pretty and surprisingly economical!

QUICHE NOËL. (The delicate flavor stays delicate when you freeze it before you bake it, because you cook it only once!) Prepare 1 package pie crust mix. Line 9" pie pan with Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Place crust in pan, fluting edges. Combine 1½ cups grated natural Swiss cheese and 4 teaspoons flour. Sprinkle into pie shell. Sprinkle on ½ cup diced ham. Combine 3 eggs, 1 cup milk or light cream, ¼ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. dry mustard. Beat until smooth and pour evenly over cheese and ham. Place unbaked pie in freezer until frozen solid. Turn over from pie pan and over-wrap in Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Return to freezer. When ready to bake, remove foil over-wrapping, return to pie pan. Bake in 400° oven about 1 hour. Cool slightly. Garnish with chopped parsley and pimiento.

THE WARMEST GIFTS-COME FROM YOUR OVEN. Different, thoughtful, personal...your favorite fancy cookies, fruit cake...or our baked Holiday Cake. You'll need Reynolds Wrap to bake, freeze and gift wrap them. And Reynolds Wrap keeps them fresh and moist.

HOLIDAY CAKE: In an electric mixer, cream 1 cup butter or margarine with ¼ cups sugar until very light and fluffy. Beat in 5 eggs one at a time, beating 1 minute after each addition. Fold in 2 cups all-purpose flour, 1 tablespoon vanilla and 1 jar (4 oz.) chopped mixed candied fruit. Line 9x6x3 inch loaf pan with Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Pour in batter and smooth top. Bake in preheated slow oven (325°F) 1 hour and 45 minutes. Frost with simple confectioners' sugar icing. Decorate with candied fruits, or pecans; first cool, then over-wrap unfrosted cake in Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Place in freezer. Be sure to thaw in foil package about 1 hour at room temperature.

Remove foil, frost and decorate.

GIFT WRAP YOUR DOORWAY.
