

Dollar devalued 7.89% in world monetary deal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States engaged Saturday on a major change in world currency exchange rates—pegged to a 7.89 per cent devaluation of the U.S. dollar—and agreed in return to drop its 10 per cent surcharge on foreign imports.

President Nixon personally announced "the conclusion of the most significant monetary agreement in the history of the world" after two days of intensive bargaining at the Smithsonian Institution by finance ministers of the Group of 10—the United States and its most important free world trading partners.

Although no details were announced about the reciprocal upward revaluation of other major currencies, it was understood that the Belgian, Netherlands, West German and Japanese currencies would rise in value. The biggest revaluations would be a boost of about 13 per cent for the German mark and nearly 17 per cent for the Japanese yen, in tandem with the dollar devaluation.

The U.S. dollar and the Italian and Swedish currencies would be devalued. The British pound and the French franc would remain at their present levels.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr. said the currency realignment package would give the United States a "weighted average increase of approximately 12 per cent" against the other nations, excluding Canada.

This was a slight improvement over the 11 per cent increase of other currencies against the U.S. dollar which the administration had said it was willing to accept. That figure would have resulted in a $9 billion favorable swing in the U.S. trade balance.

Anthony Barber, British chancellor of the exchequer, promptly announced that the London foreign exchange market would be closed Monday, and that the Bank of England would announce new trading limits for the U.S. dollar before Tuesday. The British pound was pegged Saturday night at 2.6067 dollars.

Connally said the United States would continue to seek more favorable trade concessions in continuing negotiations, including talks starting Tuesday in Brussels with the European Common Market. He said the Common Market's proposed concessions so far were "barely" satisfactory.

Devaluation of the dollar by raising the price of gold from its official price of $35 an ounce to $38 an ounce must be approved by Congress, which has indicated overwhelmingly that it will go along. Devaluation will have little noticeable effect on domestic prices, but will help boost the United States' competitive position in foreign trade.

A communique issued nearly two hours after Nixon's announcement by the Group of 10 ministers at the Smithsonian said exchange rate decisions by other countries would be announced by individual governments "in the form of par values or central rates as they desire."

Reports from Tokyo, however, said the Japanese yen—which Washington regards as an especially overvalued currency—would be revalued by an effective 10.88 per cent. Taking into account the proposed dollar devaluation of 7.89 per cent, this would mean the yen's value would rise by nearly 9 per cent on its own.

Finance ministers and central bank governors of the so-called Group of 10, the informal association of the 10 wealthiest industrial nations of the non-Communist world, reached agreement after two days of hard bargaining in the Mediterranean-style headquarters of the Smithsonian Institution.

Nixon, who had precipitated the worst international monetary crisis since World War II with his stern moves in mid-August to reverse the United States' chronic balance-of-payments deficit, went personally to the Smithsonian to announce the agreement and praise the 200 U.S. and foreign monetary experts who gathered around him.

Drives bargain

U.S. TREASURY Secretary John Connally briefs newsmen on the details of the mammoth trade agreement reached by the U.S. and its major trading partners on new currency-exchange rates. As part of the deal, the dollar would be devalued nearly 8 per cent. (UPI)

Indian War fight flares

By United Press International India and Pakistan accused each other Saturday of violating their day-old cease-fire with a series of border attacks on the western front. But the Indian government said the truce was successful and pledged to seek negotiations to forge "a new relationship with Pakistan."

On the political front, Pakistan's deputy prime minister and foreign minister, Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, was summoned home from the United States and Pakistani spokesmen said as soon as he returned the reins of power would be turned over to a "representative" civilian government.

Before returning, Bhutto conferred with President Nixon in Washington. There was widespread speculation that Pakistani President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan might step down or be removed as leader of Pakistan.

In Islamabad, a Pakistani government spokesman said the treason trial of Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, leader of the Bengali autonomy movement, had come to a close after five months and the verdict may be handed down soon.

Rahman's arrest after his Awami League party scored a parliamentary election victory led to the outbreak of the East Pakistani civil war nine months ago. Indian government officials have indicated the fate of Rahman would play a significant role in any peace negotiations with Pakistan.

Military spokesmen in India's western command headquarters at Jullunder, reported a total of six incidents since the start of the ceasefire at 6 p.m. (9:30 a.m. EST) Friday. They said two involved attacks of battalion size or larger, and classified them all as "major attacks" by Pakistani forces.

A military spokesman in New Delhi, however, characterized the incidents as "very minor" and said the truce had been a success so far. "These are normal things that go on after a cease-fire," said the spokesman, Maj. Gen. M.G. Bhatra.

The spokesman both at Jullunder and New Delhi said that all Pakistani "violations" had been repulsed.

Cuba sounds alarm

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuba put its air and naval forces on alert Saturday, saying it would not be "intimidated" by President Nixon's military alert, or his demand that a captive American sea captain be freed.

Cuba's official Communist newspaper "Granma," in a statement read over Havana radio, warned that "Cuba will not be intimidated by the hysterical campaigns and bluffing of the Nixon government."

The Fidel Castro regime put the island's air and naval forces on alert less than 12 hours after refusing to release the captain of the Miami-based freighter Johnny Express strated and captured by Cuban gunboats in international waters 120 miles off Cuba Wednesday.

After learning of Cuba's refusal to release Capt. Jose Villa, a 55-year-old naturalized American citizen, the U.S. State Department denounced the Cuban seizure of the Johnny Express and her sister ship, the Lya Express earlier this month.

"The United States is prepared to take all measures under international law to protect U.S. citizens and the freedom of the seas against these attacks in the Caribbean area," State Department spokesman Robert McCloskey said.

A short time later, the Department of Defense ordered Naval and Air Forces in the vicinity of the Caribbean on special alert.

New law to shield wild horses

KEYBISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon has signed a bill to protect the nation's remaining 20,000 wild horses and burros roaming free on public lands.

In signing the legislation Friday Nixon said he was responding to countless appeals from young people who sought to protect these "noble animals" from extinction.

There are only about 9,500 unbranded and unclaimed horses and 11,000 free-roaming burros in the country. Use of horsemeat as dog food, competition for forage by domestic livestock and the dwindling open space areas have reduced their numbers, and their habitats.

Solons support 'no fault' plan

BOISE (UPI) — A legislative interim committee agreed Saturday to recommend a modified "no fault" type of automobile insurance next year if the rate impact is favorable.

Son, Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, committee chairman, said the committee's recommendation, however, hinges on a rate impact study being made by the state insurance commissioner.

If there is a rate reduction indicated, he said, the committee will recommend the bill. If rates go up it will not. At present, seven states now have some form of "no fault" auto insurance first undertaken in Massachusetts.

Kidwell said the bill envisioned by his committee would have a $2,000 threshold, that is, aside from serious personal injuries, a motorist involved in an accident could receive up to $2,000 for his damages but would give up the right to sue. He said the Massachusetts law has a $500 threshold.

Hailey publisher Burke, 63, dies

HAILEY — Berwin-Frank Burke, 63, of Hailey, a prominent Idaho newspaper publisher and editor, died unexpectedly at his home Saturday.

Mr. Burke was editor and publisher of the Hailey Times from 1947 until his retirement in 1968. In 1959 he was commended as a "master publisher-editor" by the Idaho Press Association.

At the age of 28, Mr. Burke earned distinction as the youngest printer in Oregon after he leased and operated the Gate Journal at Nyssa, Ore.

In 1937, he and his brother, Ronald Burke, purchased the North Side News of Jerome, publishing the weekly newspaper until 1945, when Mr. Burke acquired a weekly paper at Richfield, Wash.

During his career, he served as president of the Idaho Press Association, and belonged to the Masonic Lodge in Jerome. He was also a former president of the Jerome Jaycees and served on the Jerome City Council.

In Hailey, Mr. Burke served as president of the Chamber of Commerce for two terms and as president of both the Rotary and Toastmasters Clubs.

Services will be in Hailey at 2 p.m. at the Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

Cassia crash claims victim

BURLEY — A Brigham City, Utah, woman, Carolyn Kimber Ferrol, 31, died from injuries received in a one-vehicle traffic accident early Saturday southeast of Burley.

State Police Officer Tom Thompson said Mrs. Ferrol, driving north on Interstate 20 about midnight Friday, attempted to pass a truck. She apparently lost control on the highway, and the vehicle rolled over two and a half times, throwing Mrs. Ferrol out.

A passenger, Michael Larson, 31, Logan, Utah, was treated for minor injuries at Cassia Memorial Hospital and released after treatment.

The vehicle was apparently lost control on the

Airwest to resume TF flight service

TWIN FALLS — Hughes Airwest will resume Twin Falls service Monday, without union mechanics.

Paul Shoaff, Twin Falls station manager, said the Twin Falls airport was one selected for partial resumption of service following a court decision in Los Angeles Saturday which prohibited pilots and stewardesses from refusing to cross the striking mechanics' lines.

Shoaff said what schedule of flights would be resumed at the Twin Falls City-County Airport had not been determined late Saturday.

The court decision, handed down in an unusual Federal Court Saturday session, will remain in effect, for 10 days.

It prohibits the Airlines Pilots Association from ordering its members not to cross picket lines established by other airline personnel.

Two justices signed the injunction Saturday afternoon, after hearing arguments in the case. Friday the U.S. District Court had refused to issue a temporary restraining order against the pilots, with Airwest taking its appeal to the U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals.

In its arguments, the airline claimed its fleet could be serviced by supervisory mechanic personnel.

The mechanics had walked off their jobs Tuesday, grounding the company's 45 jets for five days.

George F. Bode, an attorney for the pilots' union, argued before the court that it had no jurisdiction to hear an appeal from the denial of the temporary restraining order "and that the law prohibits an appellate court from issuing orders in a labor dispute."

Gem speaker OKs 1¢ gas tax hike

BOISE (UPI) — William J. Lanting, speaker of the Idaho House of Representatives, says he is in favor of a one-cent increase on the state gasoline tax and looks for such an increase to pass during the upcoming session of the legislature.

Lanting, R-Twin Falls, made the comment during a question and answer session on viewpoint seen on the television network of Idaho.

He said it is evident that a "majority" of legislators feel there is a need for the increase. The State Highway Board has proposed a one or two-cent increase on the tax to be used for road building in the state. Lanting said if the increase is approved by the lawmakers the new revenues would be split up between the state and counties.

He said he didn't know if there would be increases in other areas of taxation, such as the state sales tax.

But he did say the elimination of "double deductibility" on state income taxes would be a method of raising revenue, and thought there was a possibility that Gov. Cecil D. Andrus would ask for such a plan in his message before the legislature.

Mr. T-N says... The legislative chips are beginning to fall where they may, and it looks like a T-cent gas tax hike.

Mutilated Bengalis discovered

DACCA (UPI) — A scene of incredible horror unfolded here Saturday with the discovery of the mutilated bodies of a score of leading Bengali intellectuals who disappeared from their homes during the past week.

AT LEAST 20 bodies were found scattered in shallow ponds and depressions in a deserted brickyard near the Bihari community of Mohammedpur on the outskirts of Dacca.

It was feared that more bodies would be unearthed in the area.

The bodies found today had their hands tied behind their backs. All bore bullet wounds and at least a dozen had been brutally butchered. One of the bodies was tentatively identified as that of a United Press International stringer, Nizamuddin In Ahmed.

JFK pledged Pakistan aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Official sources said Saturday that President John F. Kennedy gave Pakistan some form of assurance in 1963 that the United States would help defend Pakistan against aggression from India.

The officials declined to say exactly what form the assurance took except that it was not a formal treaty. The official archives have no evidence of any U.S.-Pakistani treaty at that time.

The officials said only that it was "something less than a security treaty."

The Los Angeles Times said it learned Friday that Kennedy gave the assurance "in an agreement signed by U.S. Ambassador Walter McCone and Pakistan's Prime Minister Ayub Khan."

Mohammad Ayub Khan was president of Pakistan at that time. He resigned March 25, 1969, and was succeeded by Yahya Khan, the present leader of Pakistan.

140 needy T.F. families get holiday baskets

TWIN FALLS — About 140 families will be getting Christmas baskets in Twin Falls this year through the combined efforts of community organizations and helpful individuals, YWCA officials say.

Sally Molyneux, YWCA executive director and program coordinator, said the Elks Club will be providing for about 80 families this year and the Salvation Army and Y organizations will take nearly as many. Everyone in the community has been given an opportunity to participate in helping needy residents through the holidays, she said.

Donations from school children of canned foods and gifts will be collected Monday, she said. Cash and meat donations brought to the YWCA building will be added at the last minute and most organizations will be delivering the baskets Dec. 23 or 24.

Mrs. Molyneux said there are a large number of unemployed in the community this year, including some migrant worker families who have remained here this winter because of a slowdown in seasonal work in other areas.

Boy Scout Troop #7 of the Methodist Church, under the leadership of Frank Mogenssen has donated seven turkeys and will also assist in packaging the food baskets.

Good toys are still needed by the Fire Department to fill some of the gift boxes and baskets for families with young children. Firemen work throughout the year in their spare time repairing and collecting used toys and since it is too late now for major repairs and painting, donations should be in good condition, Mrs. Molyneux said.

All names of families signed in to the YWCA offices are checked for need and duplication. Mrs. Molyneux said a number of young families have declined help this year, saying they will be able to take care of their own needs. Others, she said, have found work, but are behind in bills and living costs and will need help for the Christmas food and gifts.

County auction nets $450

TWIN FALLS — An auction of unclaimed evidence and items obtained in the investigation of crimes in Twin Falls county enriched the county coffers by about $450 Friday.

County Commission Chairman William L. Chancey served as auctioneer. High sale of the day was a 1965 four door sedan which brought $300. Other items included bicycles, musical instruments, tires and smaller items brought a total of $140.75.

Ruth K. Jones, county treasurer, said the items had been on hand in the courthouse for a long time, some for many years. They were sold to clear storage space in the courthouse basement, she said. Four bicycles, two guitars, a small violin, traveling cases, brief cases, a public address system, clothing, tools, sleeping bags, bowling balls and one small pair of skis were sold by auctioneer Chancey.

T.F. owed over $2 million tax

TWIN FALLS — More than $2 million in real property tax payments are going to have to reach the Twin Falls County Treasurer's office on Monday if residents are going to meet the 1971 real property tax deadline with payments.

Mrs. Ruth K. Jones, county treasurer, said Monday is the deadline for all payments, mail or in person at her office. At the close of business Friday just over $2.5 million had been collected toward the total bill of $5,802,424. Over half a million dollars is to be collected in utility taxes with only a $45,776.16 half year payment from Intermountain Gas Co. received as of Friday.

Mrs. Jones said payments have been coming in at the rate of about $400,000 a day during the past week. Mail payments must carry a postmark prior to midnight Monday and payments may be made in person at the treasurer's office on the second floor of the courthouse by 5 p.m. Monday.

Politico to enter primary

By United Press International

Ohio Congressman John M. Ashbrook expects to announce late this month whether he will mount a conservative challenge to President Nixon in the New Hampshire Republican presidential primary.

Ashbrook said Friday he still was undecided about whether to make the race. But he said he would announce his decision at a news conference in Washington, probably on Dec. 28.

The Republican representative said he expected to be in New Hampshire Tuesday and Wednesday "talking with Republican leaders there and making courtesy calls."

Ashbrook, who is one of the leading conservative members of the House, has said the odds are "about even" he will run in the March 7 primary. He is a member of a faction of the Republican party which has expressed dissatisfaction with Nixon's China policy and control of the economy.

While Ashbrook continued to ponder his decision Friday, former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy formally joined the list of Democratic candidates for the presidential nomination.

McCarthy, who led a party revolt against President Lyndon B. Johnson's Vietnam policies in 1968, appeared in Boston to help open a "McCarthy for President" headquarters. Asked by reporters if this meant he was in the 1972 race, McCarthy replied, "It's kind of an announcement, yes."

McCarthy said he had signed the necessary papers to have his name entered in the April 26 Massachusetts primary.

Giant kidnap haul sought

ESSEN, Germany (UPI) — Police said today they hoped that known registration numbers of bank notes will help catch kidnapers who released chain-store millionaire Theo. Albrecht for a $2.1 million ransom.

"The serial numbers of part of the bank notes handed to the kidnapers are known to us," a police spokesman said.

"All banks have been notified of the registration numbers and have been asked to immediately inform police if somebody tries to change them," he said.

"The serial numbers of part of the bank notes handed to the kidnapers are known to us," a police spokesman said.

"All banks have been notified of the registration numbers and have been asked to immediately inform police if somebody tries to change them," he said.

The kidnapers released the 40-year-old Albrecht Thursday night after a go-between handed them the money. Family and police delayed the announcement one day.

Chief Prosecutor Erich Helmeschoff said Albrecht could not say exactly where the kidnapers freed him.

Essen Police Chief Hans Kirchhoff said "several hundred police" began a nationwide manhunt for the kidnapers.

Albrecht's family asked police to give the kidnapers 24 hours to make their getaway without fear of pursuit.

Police stayed out of the ransom dealings to protect the millionaire's life.

Helmeschoff said Albrecht, who runs a chain of more than 600 discount food stores with his brother Karl, first told investigators two masked men kidnaped him in an open field.

But Public Prosecutor Gerd Lindenberg said Albrecht told him later that the masked men forced their way into his car at a gas station when he was about to leave the company's head office in Herten, about 18 miles northeast of Essen.

Helmeschoff said because of some contradictions in Albrecht's report, investigators would keep questioning him today.

Albrecht, a baker's son, called his abductors "nice people" who treated him well.

Max Jakobson of Finland was said to have received eight votes—one short of majority—but with five against and two negative votes. Both unidentified negative votes were of permanent members.

Other candidates who received votes were Sweden's Gunnar V. Jarring, the U.N. Middle East peace envoy, who has said he does not want the job; Prince Sadoudin, Khan of Iran, U.N. high commissioner for refugees; Engakachew Makonnen, Ethiopian communications minister; Hamilton Sharif, secretary of Guyana's U.N. ambassador; and Felipe Herre of Chile, former president of the Inter-American bank.

UN delegates deadlock over Thant's successor

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Security Council was deadlocked today on the election of a new secretary general and agreed to try again Monday in a tightly secret session to choose a successor to Thant.

Two votes of permanent members—generally believed to be China and Britain—blocked the nomination of Kurt Waldheim of Austria Friday night. Waldheim received 10 votes, one more than necessary for his nomination, but two permanent members cast votes against him.

The secretary general is elected by the General Assembly upon recommendation of the Security Council. Secretary General Thant has repeatedly said he will step down when he finishes his second term Dec. 31.

The council shelved consideration of the Indo-Pakistan War to take up the secretary generalship. It planned another meeting on the South Asian subcontinental conflict again Monday afternoon.

Security Council sources said all the candidates voted on Friday night would still be contenders when the council met again Monday.

Informed diplomatic sources said Waldheim received 10 "yes" votes, three "no's" and two abstentions. Two of the three votes against him were cast by veto-capable permanent members.

Nixon's Cruel And Crafty Clique

WASHINGTON — With a political cadres in South Vietnam that surprises experts here, North Vietnam is now warning the remnants of its program is having a remarkable success.

nonetheless clear that Mr. Nixon's "cruel and crafty clique" following 17 years of repeated defeats suffered by the U. S. aggressors is making savage invasions against what used to be a powerful and aggressive Communist political structure in South Vietnam.

Strike Is Costly

A strike — all things being equal — benefits neither the company or the employees.

A case in point is the strike involving mechanics against Hughes Air West. Of course, it is unfortunate the two sides couldn't have come together and settled the matter before the actual walkout resulted.

However, we do know it came at a time when it hit the traveling public at the worst possible time. That time? During the Christmas season.

In Twin Falls the action was sorely felt. Air express and air mail and freight came in by truck. And it will continue to come that way until the strike is settled.

And on top of it all the first Airwest jet flight from San Francisco, bringing skiers for Sun Valley through Twin Falls, was to have been Saturday.

One thing is certain because of the strike. Citizens complain about no service by the airline and they complain of the strike move by the workers.

Winter

RAY CROMLEY

Perhaps it is because of its proximity of Christmas and New Year that the advent of winter seems to receive less mention traditionally than that of other seasons.

In fact, the season that has its start on Dec. 21 is responsible for some of the changes which could carelessly be thought of as associated with the coming of spring, startling as this may seem.

Anyway, it's that time again. And despite the frenetic and overshadowing activities related to the holidays, the official bowing in of winter shouldn't be permitted to occur without some slight acknowledgment.

And it isn't difficult to envision some of the occurrences of that 12-month period, not the least of which will be a presidential election campaign.

Even Mr. Nixon

RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Strong dissatisfaction is rife at the highest levels of the Nixon administration with U. S. military leadership.

This reporter has found dissatisfaction among the President's advisers, in the State Department and in the top civilian leadership of the Defense Department itself.

The resignation of Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard was, in part, a result of this dissatisfaction. It is known that he personally had come to despair of getting a handle on the top military brass.

The foremost problem bothering the dissatisfied men close to the President is the inability of the President himself to bring the military under complete civilian control.

This is not a new problem. Defense Secretary McNamara faced it. So did his predecessors.

It is not that generals and admirals defy civilian orders. The problem is more sophisticated. The military bureaucracy is selective in the information it sends upstairs.

Without a careful reading of this report only certain words stab your consciousness: "government," "hexachlorophene" and "brain damage."

inability of U. S. military leaders to adapt to the different kind of war found in Vietnam. They were disturbed that a poorly equipped, poorly armed and often poorly led force could so frequently outmaneuver us.

These Nixon advisers see in the military hierarchy a fascination for dramatic new weapons, sometimes only marginally better than those they replace, or very costly in terms of effectiveness.

The military develop repeated costly improvements in old gadgetry, rather than considering whether a particular weapon is even required.

On Bathtubs

In Atlanta a motorist, stopped for speeding and clocked going 80 m.p.h. on a wet city street, swore that he was on his way to a "health food store."

Wouldn't that be the ultimate irony, DOA at a health food store?

Like this motorist, risking his life on a wet pavement in order to purchase health foods, are the Ralph Naders sometimes rightly anxious about the wrong things?

Now that the government's products investigators suspect certain deodorant soaps, please, let's not stop bathing! Where human health is hazarded, may those in authority always give you and be the benefit of any doubt.

Here's this right now for instance: The bold type caption says, hexachlorophene danger. The Food and Drug Administration warns against bathing with bathing with soaps containing hexachlorophene.

Immediately you look at the popular soap in your own bathroom and sure enough you read "Phisohex" — another name for "hexachlorophene."

Men get promoted because they don't make mistakes and don't make waves or have too many unorthodox (new) ideas. The men who rise to the top are too often managerial specialists.

He's going to nursery school and uses scissors, colors, etc., and I see he shifts from one hand to the other.

If encouraged, I believe he would soon be right-handed. His parents have never done anything one way or the other.

Which Hand?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 4-year-old grandson showed a tendency to be left-handed at about 2. For a while there was a definite preference; now he uses either hand almost equally well.

He's going to nursery school and uses scissors, colors, etc., and I see he shifts from one hand to the other.

If encouraged, I believe he would soon be right-handed. His parents have never done anything one way or the other.

They fear some emotional problem might develop from interference. They feel he should just use his hands as he wishes.

What exercises are effective, and what types of food should be avoided? Do you have a booklet I could send for? — Mrs. E. H.

I said that exercise and proper diet will HELP — because everybody, sooner or later, is going to have some arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries). It's part of growing older.

The point is that you cannot prevent it, any more than you can "prevent old age." Rather, do what you reasonably can to keep it within reason.

I didn't mean any particular exercises, just exercise in general. As to diet; that's discussed in detail in "Control Cholesterol Sensibly," sent in return for 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Yep! All The Way!

The Postoffice Department at Washington was making a careful investigation of titles to proposed post office sites in Louisiana. In due course, the Department received an abstract of titles to a tract under consideration.

Replying, the Department commented on the fact that the title record began with the year 1803 and stated that, while the title seemed to be complete, while it seemed satisfactory as far as it went, still, as a justification for the investment of the sum contemplated, the Department would require to know more of the origin of the title involved in records prior to 1803.

In due course a reply was received from one who signed himself as attorney for the owners of the land. He wrote: "I note your comment upon the fact that the record of title sent you as applying to the lands under consideration dates only from 1803, and your request for an extension of the record prior to that date."

"Please be advised that the Government of the United States acquired the Territory of Louisiana, including the tract to which your inquiry implies, by purchase from the Government of France in the year of 1803.

The government of France acquired title by conquest from the government of Spain. The Government of Spain acquired the title by discovery of one Christopher Columbus, traveler and explorer, a resident of Genoa, Italy, who by agreement concerning the acquisition of title to any land discovered by him, traveled and explored under the sponsorship and patronage of Her Majesty, Queen of Spain. The Queen of Spain had verified her agreement arrangement and received the sanction of her title by consent of the Pope, a resident of Rome, Italy, and regent of Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ was the Son and heir apparent of God. God made Louisiana. I trust this complies with your request.

In case you are wondering, we came across this bit of "history" after Chick Hayes received it from his son, Earl, who lives in San Jose, Calif.

Series on TV as media seen 'gold mine' in viewer rating

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Not too long ago, we suggested in a column that television can't expect sympathy from viewers when it is under attack if it keeps it going on virtually a secret from the remainder of the time. The point, in short, was that television badly needs to do what it hasn't done: Cover itself, in depth, on the air, frankly and openly.

I don't mean in an academic, stuffy way either. A dull public affairs approach may satisfy gray-flannelled corporate types who think they are, therefore performing a great service, especially if they don't get good ratings with such a show. Nothing could be worse than this approach. Anyone who can't see the tremendous show business potential of a program—a series—about television is simply blind. Why settle for dullsville when so many people are interested in the home medium and its affairs, and when these affairs can be presented in an exciting way?

There is ratings gold to be mined in such a series, properly done—and particularly by the network that gets there first. At any rate, here, and there one finds a broadcasting executive who is alive to these potentials, and such a one is Mike Shapiro, general manager of station WFAA-TV in Dallas. For a decade now, he has been doing a weekly prime time show called "Let Me Speak to the Manager," and he says:

"For more years than I care to remember, I have been trying to sell other stations, our trade association and, yes, even the networks on doing something similar... the television audience has become increasingly interested in what goes on behind the scenes. Everyone has a question or a gripe about TV; and the audience likes—in fact, is beginning to demand—some two-way communication with the people who make the decisions about what they—the viewers—watch."

Shapiro's series has been remarkably successful. The station says the show gets a quarter of a million viewers, a No. 1 rating in its time period and a 38 per cent share of audience. Shapiro has become a star in his own right, and sponsors are anxious to get in on the action.

Now, with his proven local success, the Dallas general manager is finishing up a new syndicated version of his series which will give other stations the chance to do precisely what they—and the networks—have failed to do? Cover themselves, make friends with viewers, and probably get ratings in the bargain if the show goes off as planned.

The name of the syndicated series will be "Inside Television," and Jim Pratt, who will produce it, says: "This program will promote broadcast; viewer communication and public access to a television forum on a national level. And 'Inside Television' will be entertaining as well as informative—a sort of 'TV Guide-of-the-Air.'"

Unknown best paid

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Possibly the most highly paid actor in television is Philip Abbott.

What's that, you ask? What of Raymond Burr, Jim Arness, Lorne Greene, Dean Cain, Philip Wilson, Glenn Ford and Rowan and Martin? Not if you count their incomes per minute on the screen.

Using that as a gauge, Philip Abbott is likely to win out. He plays Arthur Ward, assistant to the director of television's "The FBI."

One day recently Abbott was required to report to Warner Bros. studio for less than half a day's work which would result in his being on screen for perhaps a minute.

On other occasions Abbott toils as much as five days.

Either way he is paid a comfortable salary, quite probably in excess to what the genuine assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation earns in Washington, D.C.

Moreover, actor Abbott is spared the brutal summers and terrifying winters of the nation's capital.

A serious actor who would like to become a full-time director, Abbott is a pleasant man who would rather discuss subjects other than his earnings per minute, as who would not.

"I've directed five segments of 'The FBI' and I must say I enjoy it more than performing," he said. "Having as much free time as I do led me to investigate other aspects of the industry."

Diggs quits panel

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Rep. Charles C. Diggs, D-Mich., today submitted his resignation to President Nixon from the U.S. delegation to the U.N. General Assembly in protest against White House African policy.

Diggs told a news conference the Nixon administration was guilty of "hypocrisy" on many African issues before the United Nations and charged that its attitude in aiding white minority regimes in southern Africa has brought on a "deterioration in U.S. policy on Africa."

There is no precedent for a congressman or senator serving with the U.S. delegation here to have quit such assignment.

Builds new cable cars

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Ever wonder why San Francisco's cable cars don't just wear out, one by one?

The answer is that Archie W. Kidd and his fellow craftsmen, in a sheltered corner of the Municipal Railway System repair shop, are busy making new ones.

It takes a year to manufacture a cable car from designs that are nearly a century old, and the workers start from scratch on every job.

"There's no cable car equipment available, whatsoever," said Kidd, a foreman at the repair shop. "We manufacture everything ourselves, every bit of it."

The 51-year-old carpenter paused beneath a familiar looking suede-gray ash roof, salvaged from an old cable car. Below it, workmen were building a new body to fit its size.

"We make our own dimensions and try to standardize everything as we go," Kidd said. "It's hard to find any two cars the same."

Most of the old-timers in cable car work are gone and new crews now build the antique hoppers. Kidd and other craftsmen work on a car when they can take time from their usual maintenance chores on the city's trolleys and buses.

"I was baffled when I first came here," said Kidd of the unusual job.

Blacksmiths, pattern makers, carpenters, electrical mechanics, machinists and painters turn out the finished project, which will clang along one of San Francisco's three remaining lines.

"Once you've done a couple of them, you're pretty hep," said Kidd, who has lived in San Francisco most of his life. "Carpenters make their own notes and patterns for use on the next job."

The entire fleet operates from a three-story red brick downtown "barn" where the machinery and "ropes" for pulling the dinkies are located, along with facilities for major overhauling and repair.

It's also a visitor's museum, with lithographs and the original cable car, built by Andrew Hallidie for the Clay Street Hill Road Co.—Car No. 8—that first climbed a San Francisco hill Aug. 1, 1873.

Charles Smallwood, a 59-year-old "barn" foreman and "railway fan by profession," said the city's cable car system, which once numbered 600 vehicles and employed 1,500 men, now employs 300 men to maintain operation of 39 cars, two of which are inactive.

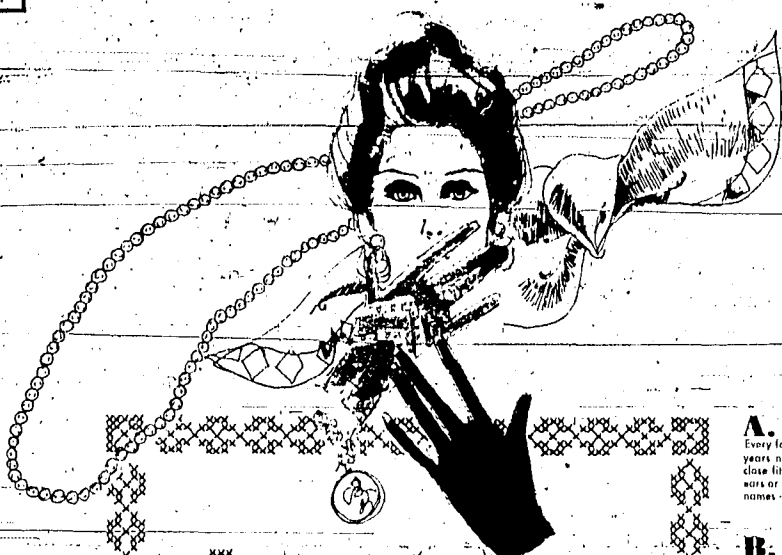

Many of the original cable cars were destroyed in the 1906 earthquake and fire, and others were sold as souvenirs to willing buyers throughout the world.

Smallwood, who began as a car-cleaner 38 years ago and has ridden nearly every old-fashioned rail system in the United States, said modernization hasn't affected the cable car, which has hardly changed since its heyday.

The Powell Street line to Fisherman's Wharf started in May of 1898 and "never changed," Smallwood said. "It has the same cars, the same equipment and the same terminals."

The cable car lines are now protected by city charter and run by the Municipal Railway. In 1904, the vehicle became an official U.S. National Historic Landmark.

Cables buried under the street and driven by 750 h.p. motors pull the cars along at a constant 9 miles per hour up and down hills as steep as a 20 per cent grade. The cable itself is 1 1/2 inches in diameter and is made of six strands.

Army officer freed

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI)—Col. Oran K. Henderson, highly-decorated Army veteran of three wars, has been acquitted of charges of hushing up the 1968 My Lai massacre. He was the only officer brought to trial by the Army among 13 originally accused of the alleged cover-up of the slaughter of unresisting civilians. Five other soldiers were tried in connection with the actual murders but only one, Lt. William L. Calley Jr., was convicted.

The wiry colonel strode forward Friday, snapped off a salute and stood at attention as a sober-faced major general told him: "Colonel Oran K. Henderson, it is my duty as president of this court to advise you that the court in closed session, and upon secret written ballot, has found you not guilty of all specifications and charges." The court president, Maj. Gen. Charles M. Mount Jr., announced the decision that he, another general and five colonels reached on Friday after three hours and 57 minutes of deliberations spanning two days. The courtmartial lasted almost four months.

Moments later, Henderson rushed to telephone his wife and two daughters that he had been acquitted of trying to cover up the massacre of over 100 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai in 1968.

Henderson, 51, commander of the 11th Brigade, under which the My Lai assault was conducted, was the highest ranking officer and the last of six Army men to be courtmartialed in connection with the incident. Only Lt. William L. Calley Jr. was convicted. Calley's life sentence, later reduced to 20 years, is still under review.

After Henderson's trial, he told newsmen: "I bought a tree last month. I left it out back of the house. I wasn't sure whether to put it up or not."

Henderson had been charged with failing to investigate and report alleged atrocities at My Lai on March 16, 1968, and with making a false official statement to investigators.

Meade home Friday after he was acquitted of charges he tried to cover up the murder of unarmed South Vietnamese civilians at My Lai. From left are Nancy, 12; Col. Elimination of office sought BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Law Enforcement Planning Commission plans to ask the legislature to eliminate the clerk of district court in each county as an elective office.

It voted to ask for constitutional amendments to eliminate the present constitutionally elective office of court clerk and ex-officio auditor and recorder.

Another amendment proposed by the commission would substitute the office of county auditor and ex-officio recorder, beginning in 1974.

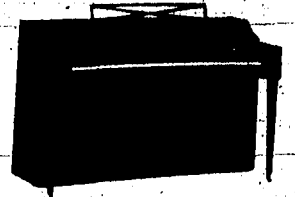

The commission also approved drafts of several other bills proposed for submission to the legislature. These included: —Increasing to 20 from 15 the number of members on the commission. —Remove juvenile violators of boat and watercraft and fish and game laws from purview of the Youth Rehabilitation Act. —Requires all peace officers in the state — except for elected sheriff's police chiefs and the superintendent of state police — be certified by the Police Academy within one year after employment. —A constitutional proposal eliminating the prosecuting attorney as a constitutionally elective office so the legislature can determine a prosecutor plan for counties or judicial districts.

Gem justice quits

BOISE (UPI) — Justice Clay V. Spear has ended six years of service on the Idaho Supreme Court.

Spear, who served for 13 years as a district judge in Coeur d'Alene before his appointment to the high court in January of 1966, retired Friday because of poor health. He took disability retirement after the Idaho Judicial Council asked that he be suspended temporarily. No action was taken on the request to suspend him. Spear said his plans are indefinite but he indicated he may join a law firm — either in Boise or in northern Idaho.

Film actress dies at 45

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television and film actress Diana Lynn died Friday night at Mt. Sinai Hospital, officials said today. She was 45.

Miss Lynn suffered a stroke on Dec. 9 and was in the hospital's intensive care unit at the time of her death. She underwent surgery Thursday for an aneurysm.

The wife of businessman Mortimer Hall and the mother of three, she starred in dozens of motion pictures in the 1940s and 1950s and later made extensive appearances on television.

Miss Lynn's mother was a pianist, and she was considered a musical prodigy. She made a number of film appearances as a child star, and became a successful singer. Her bratish kid sister in "The Major and the Minor."

She starred in "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" as a comedienne and went on to romantic and dramatic leads in films, television and on the stage.

One of her most recent films was "Track of the Cat."

$2 million stolen at race track

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI) — Three bandits, posing as cleanup men, held up the Royal Bank Saturday and escaped with about $2 million, half of it in U.S. currency, the receipts from the Windsor Raceway horse race track.

Police said 12 employees had arrived at the bank on Saturday to count the receipts from an armored truck delivery from the raceway. After the truck guards left, the three men apparently entered the bank, dressed in coveralls and carrying pails, they said.

They handcuffed the employees and took them to the counting room, then waited for the bank manager to arrive. They also handcuffed him and locked him in the counting room.

Peace River is polluted

PUNTAGORDA, Fla. (UPI) — Mrs. Hanchey, who knows the Peace River as well as anyone in Hardee County, looked down into its sludge-coated basin Monday and confirmed the biologists' reports.

"It won't do you any good to go out on the river today," said Mrs. Hanchey. "You won't see any fish in it, except for a few dead ones."

Mrs. Hanchey was on her porch on the banks of the river, running wet clothes through a wringer into a galvanized wash tub. When not caring for her ailing husband, Mrs. Hanchey, 69, keeps watch on the winding, moss-shaded river for the U.S. Geological Survey.

Every day she puts on a floppy bonnet and goes out to measure the river's depth and take its temperature. She has seen it ravaged several times by the industries to the north. She was there Dec. 3 when a slimy gray tidal wave came boiling down, sweeping with it thousands of dead and gasping fish. A dike had broken at the Cities Service Company's phosphate plant 18 miles upstream, releasing 2 billion gallons of chalky sludge into the normally black-running river.

Legal action has been filed by the state asking for more than $20 million in punitive and compensatory damages from Cities Service. Wildlife specialists said it would take some time to assess the full damage.

Fisheries biologist Phil Chapman of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission in Lakeland described the fish kill as extensive but said, "It will be weeks before the full extent is known."

Casualties, he said, were 11 species of game fish including snook, bass and bluegill.

Punta Gorda's Ed Hendrickson, the "dean" of Charlotte Harbor's seafood fishermen, said the area's blue crab industry would suffer a $1 million loss. Before the phosphate spill the crabbers had been enjoying their best season in a decade.

Ronald Graf, general manager of Cities Service agricultural division in Tampa, and other top officers of the firm were unavailable for comment on the spill.

Cities Service maintains the rupture at the mining pond near Fort Meade, 75 miles north of Punta Gorda, was accidental. The company says it is retaining a consultant firm to assess the damage.

Reports that the phosphate tide left dead fish hanging in trees 10-foot high were faretched, but Mrs. Hanchey said the river at Wauchula, crested six feet above normal. It left the bottom of the river and its banks coated with the gooey substance a foot thick in most places.

"I went down to the river this morning to see if I could see any small fish along the shore," said Larry Reynolds, ranger at Pioneer Park in Zolfo Springs. "I didn't see any signs of anything. It seems that stuff just forced everything out into the bay."

The current also swept away most of the dead fish except for those trapped in the marshland. The river seemed devoid of any forms of life except back in its tributaries where some of the fish managed to escape.

Chairman retained

SPOKANE (UPI) — W. O. "Bill" Allen, chairman of the Spokane County Board of Commissioners six times during his 15 years on the board, Thursday was elected to his seventh term as head of the commissioners.

Commissioners E. W. Parsons and Ray W. Christensen said they bowed to Allen's experience in voting him into the position. Both Parsons and Christensen have been commissioners less than a year.

Parsons said, "running this county is a difficult and important job" and he said Allen's experience was needed as chairman.

Glacier tale

CHICAGO (UPI) — Warmer weather during the past 100 years has caused extensive shrinkage of the world's glaciers, but they still cover about 10 per cent of the earth's surface.

Glaciers, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, are remnants of the Ice Age, when the ice-covered area was three times its present size.

The final recession of the North American and European ice sheets began about 11,000 years ago and now all but about 4 per cent of the world's glaciers are concentrated in Antarctica and Greenland. They contain enough ice to cover the entire earth's surface to a depth of more than 100 feet.

Major issue report

Gene ponders

FORMER SEN. Eugene McCarthy tightens his lips as he ponders a question during press conference in Boston Friday where he announced he will seek the nomination for president on the Democratic ticket. (UPI)

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Here is a breakdown of Congress' record on major issues of the first session of the 92nd Congress which ended Friday:
Economy—Enacted cuts in business and personal taxes of $15.7 billion over three years—about what the administration had asked. Granted President Nixon's request for extension to April 30, 1973 of his authority to impose wage and price controls. Voted $2 billion to create a two-year program of 200,000 public service jobs to help fight unemployment, and approved scaled-down version of job-creating public works bill that had been vetoed by Nixon.

Welfare—House approved Nixon's family assistance plan to replace present welfare system. Working poor would be included in welfare benefits guaranteeing family of four at least $2,400 a year, which states could supplement Senate plans to act next year. In surprise move, Congress enacted sleeper amendment to a minor Social Security bill just before adjournment that would require most welfare recipients to sign up for jobs or training. President vetoed $2 billion plan for federally subsidized, private and public child care centers offering, on voluntary basis, wide array of services to preschool children of all economic levels.

Revenue Sharing—One of the administration's glamor proposals, it would mean turning back to the states $5 billion a year in federal funds for spending at their discretion. Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, with backing of ranking Republican Rep. John Byrnes, Wis., has effectively killed it. Now Mills has produced his own version of revenue sharing that would allocate about same amount of money but with more of it getting to the cities and with stricter limitations on its use. House and Senate consideration of issue expected next year.

Health—Sent to Nixon bills authorizing sharply increased research effort to find a cure for cancer, and another to boost the number of doctors, nurses and allied health personnel. In field of health insurance, Nixon has proposed federal-private plan to make medical insurance more widely and cheaply available. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and others have countered with proposals calling for total federal financing. Should be major issue next year.

Defense—Went along with Nixon's plan to extend draft for two years, but reinforced his push toward a volunteer Army by ordering a $2.4 billion pay raise for the military, almost twice what Nixon asked. For first time in past three years, Congress halted downward trend in defense spending by appropriating $70.5 billion in the regular Pentagon money bill.

Constitution—States ratified amendment lowering voting age to 18 in all elections. House passed amendment assuring women of equal legal rights and turned down another that would have overruled the Supreme Court and restored organized prayer in public schools.

Consumers—House passed Democratic-sponsored legislation embraced by administration that would set up consumer protection agency to serve as consumer advocate and out of Government. Ralph Nader and other consumer activists pressing for Senate to strengthen the measure.

Miscellaneous—Congress overrode presidential objections and voted federal workers 5.5 per cent annual pay raise effective Jan. 1. House refused to follow its Commerce Committee's recommendation to cede CBS President Frank Stanton and his network for contempt of Congress for Stanton's refusal to supply unused film from a documentary on the Pentagon. Congress repealed 1950 law authorizing government to operate detention camps for suspected spies and saboteurs in time of national emergency.

Goal said possible

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The chairman of President Nixon's Pay Board believes the administration can reach its goal of reducing inflation to a 2 to 3 per cent annual rate by the end of 1972.

George H. Boldt told a news conference Friday he believed the Pay Board's organizational problems had been overcome.

"I am completely confident we are over the hump and on the way to becoming an effective agency and putting inflation under control in the United States," Boldt said.

Thursday, the board took action to limit exceptions to its 5.5 per cent annual guideline for wage increases. Its rules will allow increases up to 7 per cent a year under limited circumstances.

Boldt said he believed the Pay Board has "ample time to meet the goal of 2 to 3 per cent inflation by the end of 1972."

Although Boldt contended early confusion during the first month of the board's existence had been overcome, board staff members disclosed that because of an apparent misunderstanding, the panel may not have approved full retroactive pay for 11,500 railroad signalmen as indicated earlier.

A signalmen's contract that included a 5 per cent wage increase effective Oct. 1 was approved by the board Dec. 8. It indicated the raise was retroactive to Oct. 1 as an exception to the board's general rule against retroactivity during the 90-day wage-proce freeze that did not end until Nov. 13.

However, Pay Board Executive Secretary Jerome K. Tinkel said Friday the signalmen's union has not been officially notified of the board's approval.

Gem water board asks study funds

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Water Resource Board decided Friday to ask the Pacific Northwest River Basins Commission to allocate $45,880, representing Idaho's share of funds available for studies.

Dr. Robert R. Lee, director, said the funds would be used for a three-phase program in the present fiscal year. Lee said the program includes determination of in-stream needs mainly on the Snake River in southern Idaho and on the Middle Snake above Lewiston; preparation of an analysis of Salmon River alternatives and their relationship to the Middle Snake; and an information program to include a motion picture presenting today's water planning problems and outlining the need for a state water plan.

Lee also outlined for the board an organization plan for coordinating federal and state agencies on the state water plan.

He said county groups and a statewide citizens advisory council will be formed which will have a direct contact with public involvement.

Assistant Attorney General Phil Barber, assigned to the board, presented proposed legislation which will define as a beneficial use of water the recharging of underground aquifers.

Barber noted the legislation is now in preliminary form and will be changed a number of times before submission to the 1972 legislature.

Veri King, assistant director for development, reviewed a proposed engineering and environmental study to expand the Lower Raft River project and prepare an application for a small projects loan.

King said the proposal is to irrigate about 12,000 acres of new land at an estimated cost of $10 million.

Travel precaution urged

BOISE — Traveling by car during this heavy weather? Take plenty of precautions in case you get stuck far from immediate help. That's the word from the Idaho Department of Highways. Though a cozy, warm car does not seem to call for heavy clothing, remember that winter is only the width of a car window away. An accident can throw passengers from that warm car into below-freezing temperatures, and from a dry environment into wet snow which can bring frostbite in minutes on exposed skin. Generally, car travel during the winter is more hazardous than in fair weather. Motorists should take several sensible precautions, including: — When traveling any distance, especially when driving through remote areas or infrequently traveled routes, always keep the "home folks" informed where you're going and when you expect to arrive. Also, check road and weather conditions carefully. Adequate clothing for all motorists is absolutely essential, including heavy shoes or overshoes, headgear and several layers of warm, comfortable clothing. Extensive experience in cold climates has proven that several lighter layers of clothing is preferable to fewer layers of heavy items, since the lighter clothing can be removed as temperatures warrant. Also, the multiple layers of clothing will protect you against getting wet from snow or rain. — Tire chains should be carried in the trunk if not on the wheels. Motorists must know how to put them on under any conditions. A flashlight, first-aid kit and signaling material, such as brightly colored cloth, should be readily available in the car. A tire jack, short-handled shovel and tow straps, chain or cable should be supplied for each vehicle. — Always travel with as full a gas tank as possible, starting even a short trip with a refill, and keeping the tank at least half full. This way, you can run the heater — with caution — for some time if the car slips off the road. — If for some reason you become stranded, advises the department of highways, motorists should follow several tips: — Keep calm. Size up the situation. Make a mental appraisal of the problem and how to approach it. Remember, help is usually only a short wait away if you are on a traveled highway. Stay with the car. Do not attempt to walk out unless you can see no other solution. — If you can shovel some of the snow away from the rear wheels to put on your tire chains, try it. However, if a reasonable effort brings exhaustion while falling to help, quit. You need to conserve your energy, and should avoid perspiring. That can bring on a dangerous chill when you stop working. — While waiting in your car, use the heater only sparingly. Do not run the engine steadily, as this increases the danger of carbon monoxide poisoning. Run the engine for a short while to heat the car, then shut it off. — Keep a window cracked open for fresh air, regardless of the outside temperature. — If you are stranded at night, turn your inside "dome" lights on. This will give some warning to others who come your way. In short, the department of highways says, travel as if you planned to stay out overnight (or longer) in your car. Take extra food and water if traveling any distance. — Be ready for winter driving — and you'll survive. A thought for today: British writer Sydney Smith said, "When you rise in the morning, form a resolution to make the day a happy one for a fellow creature."

Servicemen sub as flying Santas

HELSINKI (UPI) — As every Finnish child knows, Santa Claus lives in Finnish Lapland on the desolate, snow-covered Korvatunturi high moor, 100 miles north of the Arctic Circle. As many orphaned Finnish children know, he has helpers with the white beard (who still prefers his reindeer-drawn sled for transportation) come with their gifts in an airplane.

The flying Santas are U.S. servicemen stationed at the Ramstein Air Force Base in West Germany. Every year since 1955, when "Operation Jinglebells" began, a gift-laden plane has flown into Finland from Ramstein laden with presents and Christmas eating treats for orphans living in the Finnish far north. An Air Force plane flies the gifts to Helsinki, and there they are transferred to a smaller U.S. Embassy plane which flies them on to the Tuntula Orphanage in Lapland. Meanwhile Santa Claus — called "Joulupukki" here — is busy with his own sled and reindeer on the 1,603-foot high Korvatunturi moor. Although no one knows for sure, he may have some communication with Father Frost who is the bearer of gifts for Soviet youngsters on New Year's Day. Korvatunturi is cut right down the middle by the Soviet-Finnish border, which effectively makes Santa Claus and Father Frost close neighbors. Only they know whether they exchange secrets.

Average income tax rates

DR. JOHN MERRIAM

DR. C. A. HOFMAN

State tax law changes urged

POCATELLO — Two Idaho State University economics professors advocate that Idaho drop its double deductibility tax law because it creates serious inequities for Idaho taxpayers and siphons off potential state revenues to the federal government.

In a report called "A Proposed Change in the Idaho Tax Structure," Dr. John H. Merriam, chairman of the ISU Department of Economics, and Dr. C. A. Hofman, professor of economics, point out that Idaho is one of only 18 states which cling to this law.

The Idaho provision that federal income taxes are deductible from income which the state may tax, coupled with a federal provision that permits state income taxes to be deducted from income which the federal government may tax, is known as "double deductibility."

"At first blush," the professors write, "most taxpayers look upon double deductibility as something of a bargain. It reduces the income which the state may tax by the amount of federal taxes paid and gives the illusion of reducing state income taxes. But the facts are very nearly the reverse of this."

"Double deductibility has the effect of shifting revenues away from the state government and increasing collections by the federal government. States desiring to produce a given amount of revenues are then forced to impose higher income tax rates to meet educational and other objectives."

Merriam and Hofman say the double deductibility law creates an indefensible distortion of income tax rates because it sets a higher rate of tax on middle income earners than on higher income earners. The system of reducing rates of taxation as income increases — known as regressive taxation — occurs in the Idaho tax structure because higher income earners pay higher income tax to the federal government than do lower income earners — known as progressive taxation. Thus a greater portion of higher incomes escapes taxation by the state.

Illustrating the regressive nature of the present system, the authors say that people in the $10,000 bracket pay state tax at the rate of 7.15 per cent, but this declines to 3.6 per cent for those earnings $100,000, because the rate of income tax paid to the state begins to decline above $10,000 a year.

"For example, a state with an income of $8,000 pays a higher rate on additional income than does a person with an income of $35,000," they point out.

Taxing higher income earners at lower rates than middle income earners raises serious questions about the fairness and equity of the Idaho tax system, the professors say.

"Regressive income taxation is almost universally condemned and we decidedly join in that consensus," they write.

"While the elimination of regressivity will not be greeted with great enthusiasm by the highest income earners, equity considerations argue that such individuals should pay at least the same rate as middle income groups. Our proposal would have this effect."

Aside from the equity considerations, the loss of revenue that comes with rising incomes is of particular concern for state finance," they write.

They say that eliminating double deductibility would raise an additional $18 million for Idaho in 1972 and that only part of this increase would fall on Idaho taxpayers, because people's decreased payments in federal taxes would partly offset the higher amounts they would pay to the state.

While the combined amount of federal and state income taxes paid by Idaho taxpayers would increase only 3 per cent, the state would gain 22 per cent more in income tax revenue, they stress.

To illustrate the scale of increases that would result in $18 million more in state tax revenue they give these examples for individuals with average deductions, including three dependents: Persons with a gross income of $5,000 would pay a total of $9.20 more a year in federal and state taxes.

Persons with incomes of $7,000 a year would be taxes $18.56 more. Those earning $10,000 a year would pay $43.28 more, and those with incomes of $20,000 would be taxes $169.74 more.

Trees popular in Spain

MADRID (UPI)—Thousands of Spanish families will decorate Christmas trees for the first time this year.

The growing popularity of Christmas trees has stirred up a yearly controversy: should a Spanish family celebrate Christmas around a tree or around the traditional "Belen," an abbreviation for Bethlehem, the name given to the Nativity scene.

As part of the new cosmopolitanism invading all walks of Spanish life, the Christmas tree began to appear in Spanish homes a decade or so ago.

Even though older people and traditionalists consider it a foreign intruder, the tree has increasingly been replacing the "Belen." It wins new converts every year and also has begun to appear as part of the Christmas decoration of Spanish cities.

Looking out over Madrid's Alcala Avenue where the city government was putting up 35 illuminated 15-foot Christmas trees, lawyer Paulino Pencoza said: "All my life I have celebrated Christmas in front of a Belen. But this year we'll have a Christmas tree for the first time. Its lights and colors will enchant my children."

Office employe Ernildo Sanchez agreed. "A tree is merrier," he said. "It embellishes your whole home."

But a traditionalist such as Mrs. Rafaela de Queros would not agree.

"It takes more than a tree—no matter how beautifully it is decorated — to replace the sacred Nativity scene," the elderly woman said.

The fight for the "Belen" is carried on by the "Association of Belenistas," a group of people dedicated to promoting the old way of celebrating Christmas.

Every Christmas, the 30-year-old association stages a show of "Belenes" at Madrid's biggest exhibition hall, awarding cash prizes to the owners of the most beautiful Nativity scenes. Last year, more than 100,000 persons attended the exhibition.

"We are not anti-Christmas tree," association president Fernando Parilla Asensio said. "We are simply pro-Belen. The Nativity scene is more symbolic than the tree—more educational, more religious and more artistic."

'Black Christmas' slated by action group in Ireland to protest war

BELFAST (UPI)—The auburn-haired housewife smiled without humor at the women sitting around the rough wooden kitchen table. "You can tell the kids Santa Claus is in prison," she said. The others nodded agreement. "He won't be missed around here," said one. "He has never been too busy in these parts," said another. The women met in a mean, two-story terraced house in the Roman Catholic Ardoyne area of Belfast. They were discussing how to take the joy out of Christmas. "There must be nothing, absolutely nothing, in the way of festivities," said the auburn-haired one, chain-smoking from a packet of "Sweet Afion" cigarettes made in the Irish Republic. They were part of an "action group" backing the outlawed Irish Republican Army's (IRA) campaign of violence in Northern Ireland. On a rickety wooden table stood two transistor radios. One was tuned to police transmits on the other to the British army's ground patrols. The women came from neighboring streets in the tough heartland of the Catholic working district where the militant provisional IRA is strongest. Already the call for a joyless Christmas has seeped through the back alley grapevine of the Catholic slum-areas. They have been told not to send Christmas cards, not to put up decorations, not to show Christmas trees in windows or elsewhere in their homes, not to organize or attend Christmas parties or dances.

Can Yugoslavia hold after Tito?

VIENNA (UPI)—President Tito, 79 years old and tougher than nails, has conquered another threat to his beloved Yugoslavia. But by so doing, he has raised once again the question of whether Yugoslavia can hold together when he is gone. The threat arose early this month when university students in the Yugoslav republic, or province, of Croatia went on strike to demand that Croatia be allowed to keep more of the foreign currency which it earns. Behind this economic issue lay the specter of nationalism—the deep-rooted feeling that Croatia, and its capital of Zagreb, have been robbed and exploited by the neighboring Serbs of Belgrade. In the 28 years since he founded Communist Yugoslavia,

Tito has recognized that this sort of nationalism—a mutual and age-old antagonism between the nation's six republics—could rip the country apart. Faced with the Croat challenge, he acted swiftly. In a speech before a party meeting, Tito condemned the for Tito to purge the Croat party himself. Instead, he told the Croats to purge their own party. It was a dangerous maneuver. Had the Croats refused, the independent-minded province and the tough old president would have been eyeball to eyeball.

strike and went on to accuse the leaders of the Croat Communist party of showing too much tolerance toward Croat nationalism. This, he said, imperils Yugoslav unity. And therefore, he concluded, those leaders must be purged. But the Yugoslav party has been largely decentralized in recent years, making it hard Diplomats in Zagreb said the Croats appeared to take the affairs lying down. If Tito follows through, as is likely, with a satisfactory settlement to the foreign currency issue, they said, all will remain peaceful—for the time being. But it is that "time being" that worries Yugoslavia. Tito, as he says himself, "is not getting any younger," and there is no leader on the horizon who could have carried off this maneuver and made it stick.

GOP confident-looking toward Nixon re-election

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Confidence, verging on overconfidence, appears to prevail across broad segments of the GOP looking ahead to the re-election of President Nixon next Nov. 3. Signs of this optimism can be found around the White House and among the party leaders who met here recently to make plans for the 1972 convention and campaign. The confidence is based partly on the findings of pollsters, whose reports over the past year have indicated that public opinion is subject to wide swings within a few months. The stock market also came out of its nosedive and vaulted upward to indicate investor hopes rising about the economic outlook. Nixon now is ahead in the polls but not so far as to suggest a landslide over possible Democratic rivals, and he is getting higher performance ratings.

1972 campaign should be tough and that serious mistakes must be avoided. They are making claims to

Analysis

Nixon gains in the south, the 11 Dixie states, where Nixon carried five in 1968, George C. Wallace five and Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic nominee, only Texas. More Nixon electoral votes from the south in 1972 are seen as an offset against the possible loss of some of the states he carried in 1968. Openly or indirectly, the President is expected to show himself as a candidate for re-election in January. The committee to re-elect the President is operating and expanding on two floors of a private office building a block from the White House.

SHAGGY LOOKS are in, as they say, and not only among young people with long hair, or girls with their "shag" hairstyles. The shaggy look is relaxed, easy-going, not straining after formality or elegance. It's in keeping with today's more casual "lifestyle." This casual style has moved into our homes from California to New England. In carpets it is exemplified in the remarkable popularity of "shag" carpeting, which helps to create an atmosphere that is lively, casual, fun to live in. Shag carpets come various lengths, from a conservative half inch up to two inches or so. They come in just about any fun color you can dream up for your new decorative scheme. And they are just as at home in a bathroom as they are in the living room.

Perhaps best of all, shag carpets are not restricted to any one "period" or style of furnishings: A luxurious shag will complement the popular Mediterranean home as comfortably as it will go into young contemporary or Early American homes. And that's not just a shaggy-carpet story! Choosing the right shag carpet takes just as much thoughtfulness and good advice as selecting any other. That carpet expertise is yours free when you talk over your carpet needs with us. And you won't find a better selection anywhere in town.

Berlin accord signed

BONN (UPI)—East and West German officials, who spent more than a year negotiating an agreement on traffic access to Berlin, sat under television flood-lights Friday and signed the settlement in a seven-minute ceremony.

The agreement was aimed at improving relations between the two German states and bringing into force the four-power Berlin accord signed Sept. 3.

State Secretaries Michael Kohl of East Germany and Egon Bahr of West Germany actually began months of rigorous and detailed talks following a decision by their governments in October, 1970.

Both men recalled that when they went before 100 journalists and guests in the green-carpeted "Gobelin salon" of the Bonn chancellery to sign copies of the agreement bound in matching red and blue folders.

"On Oct. 29, 1970," the squa-red-haired Bahr began, "It was agreed between the German Federal Republic and the German Democratic Republic to begin an exchange of views which would be in the interests of relaxing tensions in Europe."

"My government now welcomes this agreement... the first step towards peaceful coexistence has been taken."

Kohl, thick-set and unsmiling, said in a voice barely audible above the whir of movie cameras that he too wanted to remember the date.

"The result of the initiative at that time, after more than a year of intensive and complicated talks, has been the signing of this agreement today," he said.

The traffic access agreement is intended to speed up the flow of goods and travelers on land routes through East Germany and between West Germany and isolated West Berlin.

Ambassadors of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union authorized Bahr and Kohl in September to round out details of the draft protocol. The four powers signed to improve the situation of the divided city.

In parallel talks to implement the four-power accord, West Berlin officials negotiated opening the Wall for West Berliners to visit East Berlin for the first time since 1961.

Both agreements were completed and initialed last week. The Wall pact is to be signed formally in East Berlin Monday. But neither can take effect until the four World War II allies signed their accord and that was not expected before May 1972.

Strike due anew in '72

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The National Labor Relations Board said Friday west coast longshoremen have overwhelmingly rejected a final offer from employers, setting the stage for resumption of their dock strike early in 1972.

The NLRB regional office in San Francisco said the vote by the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union was 10,072 against the contract offer and 746 in favor.

The balloting was required by the Taft-Hartley Law, under which a federal judge ordered an 80-day cooling-off period in the strike last October.

The 80-days-are-up-December 25, and ILWU President Harry Bridges has said the strike will resume soon after New Year's day.

The offer from Pacific Maritime Association, representing employers on 24 west coast docks which were struck for 100 days earlier this year, based the "final offer" generally on positions the union had already rejected.

National leaders of the union had urged a "no" vote. Included in the offer's provisions were an immediate 72-cent increase to $5 per hour and a jump to $5.40 after 12 months, lowering the normal retirement age from 63 to 62 and wage guarantees of $180 per week for experienced men and $90 for younger men.

Bridges has said that PMA must come up with "at least 15 cents per hour more for each year of contract on money items," as well as a solution to the container issue—a key dispute.

The job of loading and unloading the cargo containers which have revolutionized shipping in recent years has sometimes been done by teamsters when the site is near but off the docks. The ILWU has demanded sole jurisdiction.

Fifteen thousand longshoremen went out on the west coast July 1. In October, President Nixon invoked the Taft-Hartley Law to send them back to work.

that since today's the beginning of a weekend, I'll plan on a little golf-tomorrow."

Henderson told reporters that he had not been worried that the jury would find him guilty of purposely covering up the massacre, but that it might convict him of negligence in not pursuing the investigation more vigorously.

"I admitted to Gen. William C. Westmoreland, (then commander in Vietnam and now chief of staff) almost two years ago in a letter that I wrote him that I had used poor judgment," Henderson said. He also said that he now expected to retire from the Army.

Henderson, 51, a slight man who has served in three wars, was commander of the 11th Brigade on March 16, 1968, the day more than 100 civilians were killed in the sweep on My Lai. One of the platoon leaders under Henderson that day was Lt. William L. Calley Jr., the only person convicted, in the various court-martials.

The Henderson trial tied Calley's as being the longest court-martial in U.S. history. Both lasted 62 days.

Colonel cleared

FT. MEADE, Md. (UPI)—Col. Oran K. Henderson was acquitted Friday on all charges of trying to cover up the 1968 murder of Vietnamese civilians. He was the sixth, final and highest-ranked Army man to be court-martialed over My Lai.

The jury of two generals and five colonels deliberated only three hours and 57 minutes despite a trial that stretched over three months and 24 days. The decision came at 2:38 p.m. EST Friday.

As Henderson, the brigade leader at My Lai, stood, Maj. Gen. Charles M. Mount said to him: "Col. Oran K. Henderson, it is my duty as president of this court to advise you that the court in closed session, and upon written ballot, has found you not guilty of all specifications and charges."

Henderson rushed from the room at this base outside Washington and went down the hall to his attorneys' office to telephone his wife.

"I plan to go home in a few minutes and greet my wife and relax a little while," Henderson told reporters. "I've been under the gun for two years. I think able to cut some of the over-mature timber and return immediate revenue to the common school endowment fund.

Idaho still must select some 37,000 acres of BLM land to replace lands taken by the federal government for national forest and for some reclamation projects. Earlier, Murphy proposed selection of some 12,000 acres in Healdland Park and Henry's Lake area of eastern Idaho.

If the eastern and northern Idaho selections win approval this would leave about 10,000 acres still to be selected. Murphy indicated he has some ideas on that acreage, too.

He said the total value of all the lands eventually to be selected will approximate $40 million.

Choice OK asked

BOISE (UPI) Lt. Gov. Jack M. Murphy asked an advisory committee Friday to approve his proposed selection of 15,000 acres of Bureau of Land Management lands in northern Idaho for part of the state's in lieu land selections.

Murphy said the timbered land is located in the Orofino area and that it will tie in with existing state holdings in the area.

Additionally, he said, the land has an intermedial stand of all species of timber.

Because of the formula under which the state must operate in its harvest of timber land, he said, Idaho now owns stands of over-ripe timber which are susceptible to disease.

By acquiring the land he suggests, he said, the state will be

Ouster sought

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—At the demand of Communist China, the United Nations issued an eviction order Friday on the Nationalist Central News Agency of China and lifted the credentials of its correspondents here.

William C. Powell, deputy director of press and publications in the Office of Public Information, said Secretary General Thant issued the order on the ground that the news agency is government-owned.

Therefore, he held on advice of U.N. legal counsel Constantin Stavropoulos, its employees are paid by the Chiang Kai-shek government whose delegation was ordered expelled from U.N. organs in the General Assembly resolution of Oct. 25 seating the Peking representatives.

Correspondents argued the issue with Powell at his regular noon briefing, contending that the U.N. press corps was not a "U.N. organ." Those were threats of resignation if the press corps were to be so considered.

Powell called Chen Chi-lin, chief of the Nationalist agency's U.N. bureau, into his office Friday morning. Powell informed Lin that he must vacate his office immediately and surrender his U.N. accreditation card upon his departure. The accreditation of T. C. Tang of the news agency also was lifted.

The Central News Agency has had an office at the United Nations since its inception in 1945. Lin has been accredited here as its chief U.N. correspondent since 1955.

Dollar loses Tough $$$ talks start

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States and its biggest free-world trading partners began what Treasury Secretary John B. Connally called "a lot of very tough negotiations" Friday looking toward a historic new currency and trade agreement—more favorable to American exports.

Connally said he was "very hopeful that we can wind it up here" this weekend at the climactic latest meeting of the Group of Ten, an informal association of finance ministers and central bank governors from the United States, Japan, Canada and leading European industrial nations.

The 200 officials meeting behind closed doors in the vaulted, medieval-style Commons Room of Smithsonian Institution headquarters were prepared to extend the two-day meeting past Saturday, if necessary, to reach some sort of interim agreement ending the world monetary crisis that President Nixon started in mid-August.

As bargaining began, the Bank of England removed its support from the dollar, which plummeted to a four-year low of 2.5282 to the pound on the foreign exchange market, an effective devaluation of 5.36 percent from the official rate of 2.40 dollars.

Elsewhere on the continent, the dollar opened mixed in comparatively light trading as speculators awaiting a decision from the Group of Ten in Washington. Prices held firm in early trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

With the United States finally accepting a formal devaluation of the dollar, Connally's task is to seek reciprocal upward revaluations in other currencies, especially the West German mark and the Japanese yen, to bring the overvalued dollar into better balance with the currencies of its most important trade competitors.

The effect, combined with a lowering of individual nations' barriers against American goods, would be to make U.S. exports cheaper and more competitive on foreign markets while making foreign imports more expensive domestically.

This is a prime goal of Nixon's Aug. 15 suspension of the dollar's convertibility into gold and imposition of a 10 per cent surcharge on nonquota imports.

Food boom

NEW YORK (UPI)—The natural health food industry is one of the "fastest growing" in the nation, according to an exposition official.

"There are an estimated 2,100 retail health food stores in the United States, up from about 1,400 a year ago and 700 in 1969," says Jay Thalheim, producer of the Physical Fitness, Health and Diet show slated for the New York Coliseum in 1972. "Sales this year are projected at more than double last year's estimated $150 million."

Mitchell silent power behind throne

EDITOR'S NOTE: Attorney General John N. Mitchell, the silent political power behind President Nixon, is widely expected to resign early next year to run his close friend's re-election campaign, despite his public disclaimers. The following look at the man was written by UPI's Justice Department reporter.

By ISABELLE HALL
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Marsha Mitchell's husband has made a career of being the strong, silent power behind public figures. It is a role that fits John Newton Mitchell as easily as his expensively tailored suits.

Often content to puff on his pipe and say little, Mitchell is something of an enigma in this town where people like to see the power brokers making their plays in the open, boasting of their influence. His former aides have quietly penetrated the White House and high government posts, and one, William H. Rehnquist, is now on the U.S. Supreme Court.

Complimented in 1969 on the choice of Warren E. Burger to be chief justice, Mitchell quipped to a reporter: "Central casting. It's wonderful."

He made a similar tart remark ("handsome") about the surprise appointment of Democrat John B. Connally, an intimate of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, to be President Nixon's Treasury Secretary.

During an interview in his fifth-floor Justice Department office, Mitchell was asked if he was instrumental in bringing Connally into the cabinet.

"Was I instrumental? I wouldn't say that. I'm not instrumental in doing everything around here. It's the President that's instrumental in doing everything. I also get the blame—and that's the way it should be—and the President gets the credit," he replied characteristically.

Treasury Department employees were gleeful on one occasion when Connally kept Mitchell cooling his heels in his reception room for 20 minutes. Actually, Connally was unavoidably detained by a call from the President, but that made the anecdote even more delightful to his staff.

As one justice official put it: "It's a great feeling when you're dealing with other government agencies to know that your boss has the clout if it ever comes to a showdown. It makes everything so much easier that you end up negotiating amicably."

"It's great to know that Mitchell is one of the few people in this town who could tell Ehrlichman and Halde-man (presidential aides John D. Ehrlichman and Bob Haldeman) to leave him and the president alone so they could talk privately."

The relationship with Nixon has grown over a decade when they both practiced law on Wall Street after their separate firms had merged.

Ironically, Mitchell might possibly be directing Nixon's re-election campaign next year against Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., whose brother, John, was a junior Na officer under Mitchell in World War II, when Mitchell was commander of PT boats in the Solomon Islands.

"I don't want to get blamed for what he did," Mitchell chuckled in recalling the late President's exploits as skipper of PT-109.

"The Kennedys lived in Bronnville," he said. "I know the family when we lived in Bronnville through different functions and activities."

Most observers expect Mitchell to quit soon and resume his 1969 role as Nixon's campaign manager. He, himself, is denying any such plan, at least for the moment. "Who, other than the President and myself, would know the answers to such things? I'm sure he doesn't talk about it. I'm sure I haven't," he says.

Behind Mitchell's almost perfect poker face is a multifaceted man: smooth manager of the 41,700-employee Justice Department, intimate friend and adviser to the President, political expert, Mr. Law and Order, indulgent husband, symbol of repression to militant leftists.

For all his political acumen, Mitchell-watchers are baffled at how he could have recommended for the Supreme Court men like G. Harrold Carswell, a former Florida federal judge found belatedly to have a record as a one-time white supremacist.

Both Carswell and federal appeals Judge Clement F. Haynsworth were rejected by the Senate in an embarrassing episode for Nixon. And when the chance came for two new nominations, it ended in a bitter fight with the American Bar Association.

After the ABA Judiciary Committee found two prospective nominees—Herschel Friday of Little Rock, Ark., and California State Court Judge Mildred L. Lillie—to be unqualified, Mitchell angrily broke off the ABA review process.

Budge speaks against bill

BOISE (UPI) — State Sen. Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, spoke out Thursday against governmental purchase of goods and services from out-of-state suppliers.

Budge voiced his objection during a legislative interim committee's discussion of a bill providing for central purchasing for all levels of government through the state.

He singled out for special criticism the recent awarding of a state motor pool contract to a Texas firm.

"I feel strongly that we as legislators have a responsibility to see that money is spent judiciously," Budge said, adding, "we also have a responsibility to look out for the taxpayers."

"I hate to see an out of state bidder come in here and take away from Idaho taxpayers," he said.

Meantime, committee members heard conflicting views on a proposal to make participation in a council of governments at the local level a mandatory

Pollution deadline said not possible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's top anti-pollution enforcer says it is not possible to stop all water pollution by 1985 — the aim of legislation backed by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

Environmental Protection Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus said Thursday the 1985 goal would do more harm than good.

"What happens to those pollutants that don't go into water? They go into the air or onto the land. Is this the best place to put them? The bill assumes yes. Such an assumption is unwise and unsupportable," he said.

The Senate passed the water cleanup bill last month, but the administration has opposed it, preferring another approach. Ruckelshaus, in a speech Thursday, decried the political aspects of the situation.

"Since everybody is for clean air, pure water and unspilled oil," he said, "the environment is a tempting bauble for any aspiring politician. It is tempting to propose simple solutions."

He said Muskie's bill was a "case in point" so far as bad legislation goes.

The House Public Works Committee approved its own water cleanup bill. It would authorized $20 million over four years, compared with $14 billion in the Senate bill and $9 billion in the administration's request.

The bill also maintained the basic 1985 cleanup goal, despite the administration's opposition. It changed the wording, however, so that the date for ending pollution by then would be a goal rather than a national policy.

Eye catching carrier

REMEMBER WHEN LOTS OF ITEMS WERE DELIVERED BY HORSE? Two paperboys for the Times-News have revived the old custom and are using their Shetland pony, Pretty Boy, and a pony cart to travel their routes during bad weather. The carrier boys, Terry Helms, 13, and his brother, Gary Helms, 11, from left, are assisted by their younger brother, Mark, 7. The boys say the pony and cart is not as fast as their bikes, but when streets are snow-covered it's a lot faster than walking.

T.F. eyes plans on trailer park

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council will consider an ordinance regulating operation and construction of trailer parks at Monday's council meeting. Other ordinances to be considered include a third reading of an ordinance providing payment to the city for towing and storage of motor vehicles and an ordinance vacating a portion of Blake Street, as well as a proposed amendment to the gas-filters licensing statute. The council will also appoint a member to the Gas Filters Examining Board to fill the unexpired term of Ralph G. Haas, who has resigned. Carl Scheele has been recommended for the appointment. Other agenda items include

Workshop set Jan. 12 at Burley

BURLEY — The University of Idaho Extension Service and Idaho Wool Growers Association will sponsor a day-long workshop in Burley Jan. 12 to explore methods of feeding lambs, ewe and lamb diseases and means of reducing losses during lambing. Speakers will include Dr. Floyd Frank, head of the veterinary science department at the University of Idaho; Wade Wells, extension livestock specialist; Dr. Richard Hall, extension veterinarian; and Dr. Robert Simmons, veterinarian with the sheep commission. Other workshops are scheduled for Rigby Jan. 11 and Caldwell Jan. 13. The Burley convolve will begin at 10 a.m. in the Ramada Inn.

Youth, 17 cited for mishap

BURLEY — Gregory E. Ostrander, 17, of Burley, was cited for failure to yield the right of way to a train Friday evening following a car-train collision in Burley. The accident, at 100 south and 50 west of Burley, near the Boise-Cascade box factory, occurred when Ostrander, traveling west on a county road, apparently failed to stop at the crossing, police said. The driver hit the train broadside, then skidded off the road into the borrow pit. The Union Pacific train, with Glen M. Paradis, 47, of Pocatello, as the engineer, was backing southward across the crossing at the time, police said. There were no injuries. Ostrander's vehicle was heavily damaged. The accident was investigated by Charles Peugh of the Idaho State Police.

Rules given on parking

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone City Council this week announced restrictions on permanently parking cars on city streets. A city ordinance prohibits such parking on streets or alleys and notice is given by the council at this time that "if after due notice the vehicle is not removed, the vehicle will be impounded."

Light contest set by Jerome Jaycees

JEROME — The Jerome Jaycees, with the support of many Jerome merchants and Idaho Power Co., are sponsoring a Christmas lighting contest for Jerome residents. Judging will be held Monday night and those registered are asked to make sure their lights are turned on at that time.

Teachers get salary hike

SHOSHONE — Beginning with the month of December, teachers in the Shoshone School system will receive their approved wage increase for the year, $300 each. Supt. Kenneth Crothers said today that the District was following suggestion of the State Department of Education to keep within the Phase II wage increase, which would mean no teacher's salary in the district could increase more than 5 per cent. He said the previously approved $300 increase does not reflect that much increase.

Burglar gets $100 from Bliss station

BLISS — Going County — the men throwing a bag into the Police were reported without. The gas station employee also told police he called the man back into the office, but then allowed him to leave in the car after a short while. The robbery reportedly took place at 3 a.m. Saturday, but was not reported to police for another half an hour.

Reinstated

RICHFIELD — Supt. Neil Anderson has announced that driver's training has been reinstated at Richfield High school. Classroom work began this week for the freshman students taking the class. Charles Buttane is the instructor with training class held after school each day.

Jaycees assist 25 youngsters

TWIN FALLS — The Annual orange sale sponsored by the Twin Falls Jaycees raised $550 to buy clothing for 35 needy children, according to Denny Erickson, chairman of the fund drive. Nearly 2,000 bags of oranges were sold by members of the Jaycees, assisted by College of Southern Idaho students and Junior Achievement members, Erickson said. Jaycee members took the 25 children, belonging to six families whose names were submitted by the Department of Public Assistance to Twin Falls stores Saturday to buy clothes. The merchants offered 10-per-cent discounts as their donation to the cause, and the children were provided with heavy weather clothing including shoes. The 1971 drive was considerably more successful than in previous years, Erickson said. He and co-chairman Brian Colman voiced gratitude to the many volunteers who participated in the effort.

'Wetbacks' big business in U.S.

BY LEETREMAINE
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — "Wetbacks" are big business. The importation of illegal Mexican migrants into the United States has proven very profitable for a group known as the South Coast Enterprises, while presenting a major problem for migrants seeking work legally. The recent arrests of 150 allegedly illegal migrants in Southern Idaho over the past two weeks by the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service points up the problem, according to Manuel Lopez. Lopez, director of the Burley Neighborhood Center, operated by the South-Central Community Action Agency, has been concerned about the "wetback" problem for some time. He and his fellow Mexican-Americans have long faced the problem of trying to find work in a job market already overflooded with illegal migrants. A report by the Los Angeles Times, surveying the smuggling of aliens into the United States, indicated that the South Coast Enterprises "made at least $240,000 in profits during a recent five-month period for their expert service as smugglers of 1,600 illegal aliens into the United States from Mexico." Another "more enterprising firm," the report said, "took in an estimated $875,000 for smuggling in about 45,000 aliens, and has now turned into a multifaceted operation, bringing both people and drugs, working wide sections of the Mexican border." These "smugglers," Lopez explained, will contract to bring aliens into the United States at a stated amount per "head," hiding them in false beds under "legal" trucks or secreting them in other ways. At one time, Lopez said, "it was estimated there were as many as 4,000 illegal migrants in Southern Idaho, with many in the Magic Valley." Some of these "illegals," he said, stay in the area throughout the year. A major problem with the presence of the illegal migrants, Lopez said, is the heavy drain on welfare funds in many counties. Legitimate migrants and others who can't find work because of a heavy influx of "wetbacks" must turn to welfare for survival, placing a heavy drain on available welfare monies. Cassia County Commissioner Weldon Beck told the Burley Rotary Club last week that the welfare burden is "now out of hand." He declared that "the faucet is going dry." Beck summarized indigent expenditures for the county, including $29,537 for nursing care, $25,971 for hospital care, $4,701 for medications, $1,284 for services of physicians, and $1,087 for ambulance services. Another major drain on tax funds is the bussing of illegal migrants back to Southern California for deportation to Mexico, Lopez added. "Every time they send a busload down to California, it will cost $50 to $70 or more. They have to send people along with them to guard them, then have to put them in a jail before they deport them. It all costs the taxpayers a lot of money," Lopez said. A truck accident earlier this year in which 17 "wetbacks" were injured, several seriously, demonstrates the cost of the illegal migration, Lopez said. The injured people had to be hospitalized for lengthy periods, at a continuing cost to the county in which the accident happened.

"We need to get together and solve this problem. We need to get together with management and the employers to discuss our common grievances," the Mexican-American spokesman said. "Employers will schedule meetings to plan working conditions and wage rates, but they won't let us participate or even listen in. This needs to be solved."

Mishap involves nine vehicles

BY GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Writer
BURLEY — A freak accident caused when a small foreign-made car was drawn into a collision with a semi-truck and trailer on icy roads southeast of Burley triggered a chain reaction of collisions involving four trucks and five cars carrying 18 persons late Friday night. State Police Officer O. J. Brunson said Nancy C. Nelson, 23, of Provo, Utah, driving north on Interstate 80 about 33 miles southeast of Burley collided with a southbound semi-truck driven by Jim Dale Patten, 38, Arvada, Colo. The strong suction from the moving truck apparently sucked the small car off-course on the extremely slick highway. The car slammed into the side of the truck. Passengers in Mrs. Nelson's car included her husband, Boyd C. Nelson, 25, and Melaine D. Carter, all of Provo. They were taken to Cassia Memorial Hospital and released after treatment. Damage to the truck was estimated about $5,000, while the sedan was demolished, police said. Shortly after the initial collision, a late-model lumber truck driven by Allen R. Carpenter, 22, Bountiful, Utah, which had been parked in the median strip so Carpenter could assist the people involved, was struck by another truck driven by Gary Farrar, 25, Granite, Kan. Apparently Farrar's truck and trailer combination was jackedknifed as he attempted to slow at the accident scene. The lumber truck was demolished, but no injuries were reported. As all this was occurring, a late-model sedan driven by Mario Duane Merrill, 22, Moses Lake, Wash., next entered the collision sweepstakes, colliding with a parked semi-truck and trailer owned by Magee Truck Service, Inc., Milwaukie, Ore. Merrill's car was then struck from the rear by a following car driven by Robert Behr, 34, of Burley. Passengers in Behr's car included Ed Sargent, 34, and George Sargent, 35, both Murtaugh, and his wife, Ruth Behr, 31, Burley. They sustained bruises and did not require treatment. Merrill's passengers, including Rhona Walker, 21, Othello, Wash., and Christine Brezindine, 21, Jeanne Merrill, 20, and David Merrill, 18, all Moses Lake, Wash., were taken to Cassia Memorial Hospital. Miss Walker and Miss Brezindine were admitted, and were listed in good condition Saturday afternoon. Finally, adding insult to wreckage, Merrill's car, already damaged front and rear, skidded after the second impact into another parked semi-truck and trailer, also owned by Magee Truck Service Co. of Milwaukie. Charles Peugh of the Idaho State Police helped investigate the series of accidents. Beckline on the highway was cited as the cause of the multiple-crash series, police said.

No plans made for rebuilding

KETCHUM — John Sabala, owner of Sabala Cleaners, Ketchum, said he has not yet made any plans for rebuilding the firm which was extensively damaged in an explosion and fire Tuesday morning. The fire started when material below the boiler ignited, Sabala said. The blaze was contained in the boiler room in the central portion of the building. Sabala estimated damage to the boiler room machinery at $5,000 to $6,000. Smoke damage to customers' clothing store in the building has not yet been determined, he said. The clothing is being sent to Twin Falls for cleaning and pressing and accounts will be settled in about three weeks. Sabala said.

Jaycees play Santa for real.

Cassia now faces taxpayers revolt

BURLEY — "The welfare burden here is now out of hand and Cassia County faces a taxpayers' revolt," according to J. Weldon Beck, Cassia County Commissioner.

Beck was guest speaker during the Rotary Club luncheon Thursday at the Ponderosa Inn. He said "As long as nothing is mentioned about it (welfare) and we continue to solve this nightmare by giving them some more money, the public seems to feel everything is hunky dory."

"This welfare problem isn't and won't be solved today or tomorrow with money because the faucet is going dry," Beck continued. "As long as most indigents can draw up to $100 more per month in benefits than many people can pay in wages for honest work, it's going to get worse, not better," he said.

"This fall the welfare department served notice on the county commissioners that they needed a new suite of office rooms, three more case workers and another secretary. Under the law—the county is compelled to provide this extra facility and staff," Commissioner Beck said.

Beck said he had a sure cure. "Work could solve this problem instead of cash and gratuities," he said. "Until the day comes that these people who are able can expect to put in an honest day's work for what they get like the rest of us do, welfare will be a bottomless pit."

The Cassia County commissioners are presently working on the levy for local participation. Beck anticipated the levy, presently at about two mills, will be up to at least three and a half mills for 1972. Last year, he said, $65,000 was raised from Cassia County property owners on the mill levy and "that money went through our hands like a sieve."

"Just this week, we, the commissioners, approved $11,000 out of this fund in just one day," Beck said.

A few years ago the local share was about $25,000 and it will run about $85,000 for the coming year, with the possibility of growing to $250,000 in a very short time, Beck speculated.

The cloak of secrecy which the welfare department operates under was scored by the commissioner.

"Have you ever seen an accounting of these funds in Cassia County or in the state level?" Beck asked. "Recently I attempted to get a little information from the state agency and didn't even get an answer. Finally I signed my name with the additional nomenclature of attorney and then I received a prompt reply," he said.

Applicants for indigent funds come from everywhere. Cassia County is high on the list and the benefactors know the law and what they can obtain. Every civic group, responsible leader in the county is earmarked and identified.

"These people know where to go when they arrive in town and what to ask for," Beck declared.

This year the expenses of the indigent funds for Cassia County's share have included $29,537 for nurse care; $25,971 for hospital care; $4,701 for drugs; $1,264 for "doctor" services; $495 for food stamps; $426 telephone; $2,030, gas; oil heat, bus fare; $300 Booth Memorial home for fatherless children, and $1,987, ambulance services.

Growing costs for the coming year will include the new criminal code—expenses and county landfills. Beck expressed the need for keeping the 20 per cent in sales tax revenues which revert to the counties under the phasing out of inventory and livestock revenues.

Boys League chief addresses chamber

RUPERT — The leader of the Minico High School Boys League told the Rupert Chamber of Commerce Thursday of his efforts to revitalize his organization.

Israel Espinosa told the chamber members that Boy's League was originally founded nearly a decade ago but has since "collapsed for lack of initiative." He is attempting to reorganize the group, he said, partially in response to an all-girls organization, and partially as a result of the relatively small number of boys who participate regularly in varsity athletics.

Espinosa said a small group of the boys dominate the varsity athletic program from their freshman year through graduation.

Older people barred

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department said today it found 2,522 employers, labor unions and employment agencies discriminating against workers aged 40 to 65 because of their age during the fiscal year which ended June 30.

Such age discrimination has been illegal since 1967. The department said its investigations during the fiscal year resulted in 615 workers who were discriminated against being hired, rehired or retained because of government enforcement of the law.

Cassia Selective Service board members retiring

BURLEY — Frank H. Spencer, chairman of the Cassia County Selective Service Board, Russell H. Jensen and John F. Chisholm, all Burley, are retiring from the board and will attend their last meeting Tuesday.

Lawrence Elliott, Oakley, also a board member for the past three years, is resigning from the board.

Spencer, Jensen and Chisholm are retiring due to the new law which requires a mandatory retirement of all board members after 20 years of service.

Spencer has served for the past 20 years and 18 of those years has been as chairman of the board. Jensen has also served 20 years and Chisholm has served 18 years but decided to retire with the other board members.

The new board members are Thomas M. Anderson, Oakley; Willis R. Howard, William A. Parsons and Donald E. Westfall, all Burley. All of the new board members will assume their duties in January. The new members are also planning to attend the Tuesday meeting along with the retiring members.

James B. Cruzen, deputy director of the Idaho Selective Service System, presented certificates of appreciation to the trio in behalf of Maj. Gen. George B. Bennett. The certificates were signed by Pres. Richard Nixon and D. Curtis W. Tarr, national director of the Selective Service System.

The only remaining holdover director is Melvin B. Darrington, Declo. Mrs. Loanda Manning, executive secretary of the Cassia County Selective Service, will continue as the secretary.

The new board members will reorganize at their first meeting in January.

Snow removal problems discussed at Richfield

RICHFIELD — Snow will be piled at the sides of city streets in Richfield instead of in the center as has been requested by some area residents, the City Council has decided.

Dog tags have been ordered and will be available by Jan. 1, reports Mrs. Ruth Swainston, city clerk. All dogs must be licensed if they are 6 weeks old or older. House dogs are not exempt, she said.

First quarter beer and liquor licenses for businesses in Richfield have been approved by the council, Mrs. Swainston said.

The council also has approved adopting the same budget as last year. The complete budget will be set up by the January meeting.

Mrs. Billie Swainston, Richfield's first woman council member, will begin her term of office in January. John Lemmon, incumbent, also begins a new term in January.

No shortage of winter power

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — H.R. Richmond, administrator of the Bonneville Power Administration, said Thursday with any luck the Pacific Northwest should get through the winter without a major power shortage.

Richmond, here to address the annual meeting of the BPA's 108 preference customers, said at present the water levels are good and so far temperatures have not fallen drastically below normal in the Northwest. Preference customers are public agencies which have first call on federally produced power.

"If the temperatures drop seriously we could be in trouble unless the Hanford and Centralia plants are on the line," Richmond said.

He said the Hanford Atomic steam generation plant in southeastern Washington went back into production Wednesday after being shut down since Dec. 3 for refueling.

Hanford adds about one million kilowatts to the BPA system. However, Richmond said the new Centralia plant has been shut down since Nov. 29 for modifications to the induced draft fans but is expected back on service soon.

"While these two plants have been out of service our branch of power supply and scheduling for the past two weeks has been keeping an even closer than usual eye on the temperatures," he said.

Richmond said for every degree below normal the temperature drops, an additional 100,000 kilowatts of power is needed for the Northwest.

"A five degree drop equals the power produced by a Bonneville dam," he said.

Richmond said at present water supplies are sufficient to meet the power needs but if this situation does not remain the same the Pacific Northwest could be in trouble.

Cars may change

NEW YORK (UPI) — The car of the future promises to be a battlefield for the nation's big raw materials producers as it is reshaped by safety and pollution legislation, changing lifestyles and new technology.

Wind of change blowing over the drawing boards in Detroit have caused producers of steel, aluminum, plastics, copper, zinc and lead to sharpen their R&D tools, their sales pitches and their production facilities. All of them have vested opinions about the parts of tomorrow's car, including the body, the engine, the bumpers, the radiator, exhaust filtering equipment, trim, the interior and many more.

The car body promises to be a hot topic at next January's meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers at Cobo Hall, Detroit. This huge tonnage market, long dominated by steel, may be challenged soon by aluminum and later by plastics. Not totally, of course. Steel has the only capacity to meet all the demand, not to mention the inside track and the experience. But the new safety and antipollution equipment is adding weight and something's got to give.

The stakes are enormous. Every pound of auto application held or gained is multiplied by 10 million, the approximate annual car production in the United States.

The steel industry, which has the biggest stake and therefore the biggest target for others to shoot at, counts every pound of vehicle use it can hang on to or gain as worth $1 million a year. The American Iron & Steel Institute (AISI) has calculated steel's auto business is worth a dime a pound for each of the 3,500 pounds of steel going into the average car. Figuring 10 million cars, that makes each added pound a gain of $300,000 or $1 million.

A Ford Motor Co. research chemist, Dr. William Burlant, jettisoned the steel industry about 4 years ago by laying the Ford of the future certainly will have plastic bodies, even though there is no plastic today that can meet requirements. Dr. W. D. Compton, who manages a Ford research department that includes plastics technology, said Ford was pursuing the idea energetically but realistically.

Closer, perhaps, is the challenge from aluminum. Aluminum producers say they have sheet aluminum alloys for auto body applications that can be competitive in cost with cold rolled sheet steel and can be shaped with the same forming machinery.

Apart from the future three-day race in auto bodies, there will continue to be skirmishes for other car applications. Aluminum, plastics and zinc battle for die cast parts and stainless gets into the act on trim.

Each raw material producer projects gains, admittedly on dotted lines, because he one knows for certain how tomorrow's car will look or be powered.

APWA will hold T.F. convention

TWIN FALLS — Persons involved in public works programs in Idaho, Montana and Wyoming will meet in Twin Falls in April for the annual convention of the Rocky Mountain Division of the American Public Works Association, City Manager Jean Milnar said Friday.

The convention sessions will also be open to city, county and state elected or appointed officials who work in planning and financing public projects. Any agency where public money is used to pay for improvements such as streets, airports, buildings or other construction, is eligible for membership in the association.

Convention sessions for the last weekend in April were announced by Milnar following a meeting with William Sacht, Boise, Rocky Mountain Division president. Sacht, a district engineer for the Idaho Department of Highways, said plans are being made for speakers and discussion topics involving programs in which cities and counties are especially interested.

Milnar said he will be urging City Council members, especially those serving new terms, and county commissioners from throughout the area to attend the meetings.

County and state highway departments and districts will also be sending representatives, he said, for an exchange of ideas on pending projects and financing.

Four Twin Falls City employees hold membership in the organization, including City Engineer George Mitchell, Assistant Engineer Edward Kibbe, Milnar and Airport Manager Harry Merrick. Last year's meeting was held in Helena, Montana.

Unemployment coverage added

TWIN FALLS — Unemployment protection will be available after Jan. 1, 1977, for an additional two categories of workers, B. C. Smith, area tax consultant, Department of Employment said today.

He said new regulations will provide coverage for workers performing services for nonprofit organizations and for some agricultural related employers. The additional coverage is provided by the amended State Employment Security Law enacted by Idaho's 41st legislature. In addition to workers performing services for nonprofit employers, those working in agricultural jobs other than for the farmer and involving packing, processing and transporting agricultural commodities, Smith said.

State-wide about 4,000 business firms will receive notices of the extended coverage. Employers who believe they are eligible but do not receive notices, should contact the employment office in their community, he said.

Medicare terminated

TWIN FALLS — Harold A. Drake, administrator for Sky View Manor and Hazel Del Manor rest homes will no longer participate in the program and the agreement with the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare covering the program will terminate as of Jan. 1.

Drake said this will mean patients admitted after that time will not be eligible for Medicare benefits, but payments will continue to be made for beneficiaries admitted prior to that date. He said only one patient is presently qualified.

Grant awarded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two members of Idaho's congressional delegation announced Thursday the Economic Development Administration had awarded a $113,000 grant to the Shoshone-Bannock tribes on the Fort Hall Indian Reservation.

Sen. Len B. Jordan, and Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said the money would be used to build a grandstand and additional public facilities at the fairgrounds.

Sworn in

NEW TREASURER of United States, Mrs. Romano Banuelos of Arizona, receives welcoming kiss from Treasury Secretary John D. Connally. Mrs. Banuelos' appointment was confirmed by Senate and she was sworn in Friday. Democrats charged her with hiring illegal aliens in factory she owns, but she said charges were political. (UPI)

ABILENE, Tex. (UPI)—Billie Sol Estes, a church-going gentleman farmer, will spend Christmas at home with the family for the first time in seven years.

Estes is a little more plump and a lot less pompous than when his name meant easy money to the Texas farmers he swindled in the early 1960s.

The fallen financier, who served six years, four months and seven days in prison for swindling, was paroled last July 12 from La. Tuna Federal Prison near El Paso, Tex. He works on his brother's farm east of Abilene near Clyde, Tex., tends to the yard of his Abilene home, helps the kids at his church and is a typical family man.

But most of all, he keeps quiet. "One of the conditions of Billie's parole was that he keep his mouth shut," said his wife Patay. "We aren't going to open it now."

Estes, who will celebrate his 47th birthday Jan. 10, grinned from behind his horn-rimmed glasses and said only: "I do thank you for your interest, but I'd better not say anything." He obviously thinks about the parole bond.

His neighbors like him. "He always speaks, and is very polite," said Lavon M. Young, an oil supplier, who moved into the neighborhood after Estes went to prison.

"Billie Sol attends worship here regularly," said Bob Douglas, minister of the College Church of Christ near Abilene Christian College campus. "He is working in our Head Start program—something his whole family is involved in."

The preacher said the program helps pre-school children. At home with Estes and his wife are their three youngest children—Dawn, a freshman at Abilene Christian College; Billie Sol Jr., a senior at Abilene Cooper High School; and Joy, a ninth-grader.

Two other daughters are married.—Mrs. Walter Tedford of Houston and Mrs. Don Rosell of Cleveland, Tex.

At the age of 14, Estes bought 400 sows and feeder pigs and built them into a multimillion-dollar "paper" empire. From his Pecos, Tex., home, he operated the empire that crumbled around him in March, 1962.

His downfall came when he induced farmers in 11 West Texas counties to sign mortgages on nonexistence fertilizer tanks to hold anhydrous ammonia. He sold the mortgages to finance companies for $24 million to finance his empire, the government charged.

Operations were centered in low-brick building on the outskirts of Pecos near the airport where he kept two airplanes. Down the highway was his mansion, complete with swimming pool, double tennis court and guest home built for a visit by former President Harry S. Truman which never took place.

A federal jury convicted him of fraud in 1963, and after appeals, he entered prison at Leavenworth, Kan., March 5, 1965. He served time in prisons in Minnesota and Texas before his parole. The parole was granted in April after he had served six years of a 10-year sentence. Conditions of the parole were that he would not engage in any self-improvement or promotional type activity without specific prior approval.

The last public words he spoke came the day he entered prison, March 6, 1965. "Business and money are no longer my gods," he said then. "I don't have hate in my heart for anybody. I'm not on anyone's side any more except god's."

Backlash menaces corn purchases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says he "means business" about solving the administration's top farm political headache by pushing up corn prices.

But he's running into a backlash from the south.

Within 24 hours after taking office two weeks ago, Butz announced plans for an open-end government purchase of surplus corn. First purchases under the program this week were small, but Butz indicated he expected buying to increase later as weekly purchases continue.

Already, however, the new secretary told a panel of farm broadcasters, he's getting go-slow advice from some southerners.

Butz did not identify the source of the advice except that it came from "some" southern states where many poultry and livestock producers import corn from the Midwest as raw material for their chickens, hogs and other livestock products. But the gist of the message, he said in the broadcast interview, was: "Whoa... don't go too far on this corn thing."

In contrast, meanwhile, Butz is facing pending action by farm bloc members of Congress who want to go beyond his surplus-buying program by legislating a 25 per cent increase in price support loan rates for wheat and all livestock feed grains, including corn. The price-boosting bill has passed the House and is expected to get early Senate consideration next year.

Under this pressure, Butz told the broadcasters he is studying the price increase plan which some of his agriculture department aides have denounced in an analysis as a "cruel hoax" — and continuing his own purchase program.

The corn-buying announcement, he added in the interview, was meant as a signal he intended to be aggressive in attacking the problem. The announcement was prepared before Butz was actually sworn into office, he said, because "The house was on fire, and I wanted to grab the hose."

Boise firm buys Parma pump plant

BOISE — The Parma Water-Lifter Co., manufacturers of farm machinery and pumping equipment and distributors of golf carts and Astro-turf, has been sold to the Agri-Lines Corporation of Boise.

A division of Parma Water-Lifter, the recreational division, installed the "Astro-turf" artificial grass on the south and east sides of the Times-News building in the summer of 1970. Fred Maltz, Wendell, is sales manager for four states for the recreational division.

The sale presently involves only the pumping division, while no decision has been made on the recreational division, according to Maltz. He expects to remain with the company, however, he told the Times-News.

With the sale of Parma Water-Lifter, former owner-manager Lloyd L. Nelson will leave the firm. Roland Barton, former president of Shur-Gro Liquid Feed Co., Hereford, Tex., will succeed him as president of the new subsidiary of Agri-Lines.

Robert M. Rawlings, Boise, Agri-Lines president, made the announcement of the sale and personnel change.

Parma Water-Lifter, of the small agricultural community of Parma, about 50 miles west of Boise, was formed 67 years ago to design and sell equipment for low-level pumping of surface water for irrigation.

The firm also manufactures sugar beet and onion harvesters, beaters and toppers and other farm equipment.

Production of mixed grain at 6.8 million bushels was three per cent less than last year and five per cent less than 1969.

Production of rye at 210,000 bushels was six per cent below last year and unchanged from 1969.

Oat production was 3.9 million bushels, compared with 5.8 million last year and 5.5 million in 1969.

Gem harvest completed

BOISE (UPI) — Harvest of fall crops was mostly completed during November under somewhat adverse weather conditions, according to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The service said Idaho's all wheat production at 50.6 million bushels is 18 per cent above last year and the third largest crop on record. Winter wheat production was placed at 35.8 million bushels and spring wheat production at 14.9 million bushels.

The barley crop at 38.8 million bushels is seven per cent above last year's previous record production and 28 per cent above 1969.

Oat production was 3.9 million bushels, compared with 5.8 million last year and 5.5 million in 1969.

Sheepmen say careful poison use protection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Had it not been for the "careful, selective" use of a poison, the sheep herders in the west might have gone under, the president of the National Wool Growers Association said today.

Vern Vivion of Rawlins, Wyo., who heads the organization representing 23 sheep producer groups, testified before Sen. Gale W. McGee's Senate subcommittee examining predator control programs and their possible threat to certain species.

"The raising of sheep and lambs on our farms and ranches simply cannot exist without an adequate, effective predator management program," Vivion said. Yet some people have spread "vicious propaganda and half truths and outright lies" about sheep raisers' attempts to protect their herds, he said.

Compound 1080, used in predator control, is the object of much of the misrepresentation, he said. The chemical, contrary to beliefs of some, "has been thoroughly studied and is thoroughly regulated," he said. "Its careful use under strict regulations of the Bureau (of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife)

Minidoka district chooses 2

RUPERT — Clyde Greenwell and Joe Studer were elected to three year terms as directors of the Minidoka Irrigation District.

The unofficial votes were 344 for Greenwell and 414 for Studer. Others receiving votes were Carl Schrock 308 and Lud Mahler 234.

Both Greenwell and Studer are new persons for the board. LaVern Montgomery and Tad Abo present board members did not seek re-election.

Holdover directors are George Stromiro, Ruben Ketterling and William C. Nichols.

Safeway Pledges Continued Support Of Our Nation's Fight Against Inflation

STOP INFLATION

As you would expect from a company which has devoted its life to keeping food cost down, Safeway will give full support to Phase II of the President's Economic Stabilization Program. We are in the process of making available in our stores lists of our base prices for non-exempt food products. These were our selling prices during the Freeze period of the President's program. From these lists you will learn that many of our shelf prices are below our base prices. This will continue to be true under Phase II controls. Prices we pay for foods we sell are always subject to changes resulting from such things as crop conditions and seasonal demand. Thus, you will find that some prices will go up, others will go down, while many will remain unchanged. Control regulations provide for adjustments over base prices where necessary. In working under these regulations, you can be sure that Safeway will raise prices only when absolutely necessary. Also, we will promptly reduce prices whenever possible. In Phase II, as during the Freeze period, you can be sure that Safeway will do its part to help put the brakes on inflation.

ALL OF YOUR NEEDS FOR THE HOLIDAY SEASON

Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

Recently some one asked if it was true that horsechestnuts could be roasted and used as a substitute for coffee.

We said that the nuts were toxic and should be discarded. We don't have much information on the subject but a reader bills us out by writing: "Horsechestnuts are poisonous, containing nesculin. Flour can be made from the nuts by roasting them, shelling, and grinding the meat. Then soak the meats in water for 4 or 5 days, changing the water periodically. This will take out the poison, and bread can be made from this meal."

He also adds: "Coffee can be made by roasting dandelion roots until dry. Then grind up and use like regular coffee." Does anyone have additional information concerning horsechestnuts. We still do not recommend them in any way for food purposes.

SAVE TOMATO SEED? We've always cautioned our readers about saving seeds from their tomato plants, particularly if they are hybrids. Many gardeners save seed from non-hybrids. Here's a letter from an 88 year old gardener who writes: "About 30 years ago I bought a package of 'Yellow Ponderosa' tomato seed. We liked them so much that I saved seed and planted it the next year. They've been such a favorite I kept on saving seed and planting it each year for over a quarter of a century."

"The yellow tomatoes have never mixed with the red ones planted in same garden and are still the big lovely yellow meaty fruits (with very few seeds), and bear over a longer period than most kinds. I'm going to continue saving seed from my yellow tomatoes as long as I garden."

LIPSTICK PLANT: Here's a trailing-type plant with green leaves with clusters of flowers on stems. Each scarlet flower resembles lipstick, hence the name. However, the plant is known more for its waxy green foliage, than flowers, so if yours doesn't bloom, you should still enjoy the leaves.

Lack of flowers is due to poor light. Pinch the tip out to make it stronger. Avoid direct sun but give bright window for flower bud formation. Best soil mixture is 1-3 sand, 1-3 peat and 1-3 loam.

CHRISTMAS BEGONIA: Probably the showiest of all is the Christmas begonia. Give it a bright window with a room temperature of around 65 degs. Prefers a humusy soil and ample water. Too light light causes the plant to become spindly. While coating on leaves is powdery mildew, a common complaint.

No practical cure, except to keep water off foliage. After flowering, cut plant back to within three inches of the pot and let new growth come on. Store mother plant in basement or on sun porch until spring. Dropping of foliage is due to age of plant, poor light or high temperatures.

MEALYBUGS ON PLANTS: A reader writes: "If you can find space, please urge people not to transport plants from one state to another. In most cases it's breaking the law, and it's a good way to spread insects and diseases. Two years ago I had a bouquet of gardenias given to me from Florida."

"When the blossoms faded I rooted one and potted it up. Then one day I noticed mealy bugs had developed. I cleaned them off with alcohol, but they kept coming back and before long all my violets and other house plants became badly infected. I can't completely get rid of the bugs, even if I start new plants from clean cuttings. I don't know if I should discard all my plants or keep on fighting the bugs.

"I think I've got a super bug — a Florida native that won't give up even after using a bottle of rubbing alcohol on it."

GREEN THUMB NOTE: You're right — a good many insects and diseases are spread across state borders. Mealybugs are one of the toughest pests to fight. You have to be persistent. Keep on treating your plants with dabs of cotton dipped in alcohol. Also handpick and destroy each cottony mass you see.

TAKE UP GARDENING: If you're frustrated or bored with life, take up gardening as a hobby. A reader sent me this ancient Chinese proverb. "I have found that all the people in the world who are dull in their conversation and hateful to look at in their faces are those who have no hobbies." — Yuan Chinglan — 16th century.

Our reader adds: "The gardening hobby is a life-saver for retired people — whose numbers greatly increase. It affords a continuing interest, healthful exercise and contact with life-minded people. Also 'it's something to get up for each day.'"

"We agree. There isn't a better hobby in the world than gardening. It's good for young or old, black or white, rich or poor, sick or healthy people. A single geranium or a pot of tomatoes on a window sill can provide comfort, even to an amputee, or a heart patient. If you aren't a gardener, let's resolve to start in 1972. Growing plants could make your life a lot rosier."

QUESTION BOX
QUESTION OF THE WEEK: F.T.R. of Twin Falls: "We have a small greenhouse and for some reason I can't get a good stand of seedlings from any kind of seed I sow. Our water is from a deep well. Should this have any effect?"

It could. Seed must be kept warm for germination. Often in a greenhouse temperature is 65 or 70 degrees, but the soil temperature in the seed flats can be as much as 10 degrees lower. Here's why: Moisture evaporating from the surface of the seed box cools the soil, often more than 10 degrees. If your water is from a deep well, this could lower the temperature of seed even lower. If seed lies in a seed box at temperatures of 60 degrees or less, the seed rots, or germination becomes very spotty. Greenhouse operators are finding that misting the soil results in poor germination due to the cooling effect.

Your best bet is to draw off some water and temper it by leaving it stand in a watering can in the greenhouse. Another trick is to cover the seed flat with a plastic sheet to preserve moisture and trap heat inside. C.P. of Murphy: "I have a night blooming cereus which does not bloom. What care do they need?"

Many plants are called night-blooming cereus, causing a lot of confusion among home gardeners. The cereus family (cacti) is a big one, but all of them have large blooms, many fragrant, and they always open at night, remaining a thing of beauty until dawn. Perhaps the most outstanding night-blooming cereus is Hyloteleus undatus, favored for its large

Valley Weather Report

Winter all over the place!

As skies clear, chill moves in Twin Falls and vicinity: Fair today and tonight; partly cloudy Monday with areas of fog or low clouds during morning hours. High today and Monday 30 to 40; low tonight in the low teens and 20s. Little or no chance of precipitation through Monday. Spot temperature forecasts: Twin Falls, 34-13; Jerome, 32-15; Gooding, 32-14; Buhl, 33-14; Burley-Rupert, 33-14; Camas Prairie; Halley and Lower Wood River Valley: Fair today and tonight; partly cloudy Monday with areas of fog or low clouds during morning hours. High today and Monday in the 20s; low tonight zero to 10 below.

Central Idaho mountains, south of the Salmon River: Generally fair through tonight; partly cloudy Monday with areas of valley fog or low clouds in the morning hours. High today and Monday in the 20s; low tonight near zero.

Weather synopsis: A weak, almost stationary front brought considerable snow to Western Montana on Saturday, while Washington and Northern Oregon experienced only some light cloudiness. Fair skies continued across Southern Idaho with areas of fog in Western Wyoming and Southeastern Idaho.

Little change is anticipated in these conditions through today as surface high pressure will continue to insure fair to partly cloudy skies. Some increasing clouds may result early in the week from another low-pressure system developing in the Gulf of Alaska.

Clearing skies should allow overnight temperatures to drop sharply, hitting below zero at higher elevations; and ranging from zero to 10° above in the valley. Idaho Falls reported a low Saturday morning of 3 degrees above zero, while Malad shivered as the mercury dropped to 8 below.

BOISE (UPI) — U.S. Gov. Jack M. Murphy suggested Friday that the state nullify a lawsuit against it by making arrangements to reimburse the endowment funds for lands taken for parks and other uses.

The Parent-Teacher Association brought a suit against the state to force payment for endowment lands placed in the park system. It contended these are not returning revenue as intended to the schools.

Murphy said a similar case in Arizona ended by a federal court directing that state to make payment not only for the land taken but for improvements on that land.

He said it appears the state will lose the suit now confronting it and he suggested the lands be appraised and the state enter into a contract to pay off the indebtedness in annual installments.

"I think it would be wise for the state to go in on its own terms and acquire this land and pay for it consistent with what the Land Board sells all land for," he said.

Mind Your Money

BY PETER WEAVER
Q — I enjoyed your column on how to get a college education at bargain prices (community colleges) but I would like you to go one step further. How can you get graduate school training at bargain prices? Where can one look for financial help? — Mrs. C.A.L., Philadelphia, Pa.

A — It's more difficult to learn about scholarships and financial aid for graduate work than it is for undergraduate work but the money is there if you have the time to play detective.

In general, if you can finance your first semester at graduate school and show promise in your field, a number of schools will find a way to help you stay in school.

Also, in certain fields, government agencies and various businesses will help bright people work their way through graduate school. Nowadays, a lot depends on your field of study. Naturally, there's little hope in getting space and aeronautical engineering help. There are too many people looking for jobs that have advanced degrees in this field.

Unlike its brother cacti, it's thornless, but fleshy and succulent. This fleshiness is the plant's secret weapon for storing moisture inside itself. A natural gum prevents evaporation, thus sustaining it through the dry months.

Some companies (once you're working for them) will pay all or part of your graduate tuition in such fields as business administration. There's also growing interest in helping engineers get graduate degrees in applied sociology, urban problems (waste disposal, transportation), food engineering, and nutrition. Accounting is another field that interests employers.

Still another night-blooming cereus is the Epiphyllum brypetalum, which has many day-blooming hybrids known as orchid cacti. Don't let this classification scare you.

For listings of scholarships, grants, fellowships and work-study programs for graduate students, look up these source books in the nearest major library or university library: Grants Register (Academic Press, Los Angeles), Student Aid Annual (Chronicle Guidance Publications, Moravia, N.Y.) and Financial Aid for Graduate Students (College Opportunities, Inc., Peoria, Ill.).

The main thing to remember is that culture is same: A loose, humusy soil, good drainage; use a potting soil mix of equal parts sand, peat and loam. Best temperature is 72 degrees to 82 degrees. Low night temperature (below 50 degrees) cause it to wilt. Grow in a bright window.

We called an "authorized" repairman to fix our built-in oven. The serviceman said we needed to buy a new timing device which costs $36. After the old timing device was removed, we had it checked and it was found to be in perfect condition. How can we protect ourselves against businesses that list themselves as "authorized" dealers? — Mrs. M. K., Los Angeles, Calif.

First, write the president of the company that made the oven. If you do not get a satisfactory answer, then write: Major Appliance Consumer Action Panel; 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60606. This organization has solved many a problem by bringing pressure on manufacturers and their distributors.

Finally, if you feel your problem has still not been solved, send a complaint to the nearest Federal Trade Commission office (found under Federal Government in the phonebook). Your state has a Department of Consumer Affairs which should also get a copy of your complaint.

Q — I have some money invested in bonds and I'm considering buying stocks too. The broker says they're perfectly safe in his hands. Is it safe to leave my securities with the broker or is it better to have them in my own hands? — S.W.S., Natchitoches, La.

A — Your securities are protected when they're left with a broker because they're insured through the Federal Securities Investors Protection Corp. for amounts up to $50,000. Still, if they're lost or your broker goes broke, you may be faced with an aggravating and time-consuming recovery process. The best bet is to get the securities made out in your name and put them in a safety deposit box.

Medicare deadline set Dec. 31

TWIN FALLS — Deadline for filing claims under the Medicare program for medical services received between Oct. 1, 1969, and Sept. 30, 1970, will be Dec. 31, John K. Carlton, Social Security district manager, said Friday.

Carlton explained the law sets this deadline for paying medical insurance claims and applies to medical supplies covered by Medicare as well as medical services.

Claims are filed on "Request for Medicare Payment" forms available at most doctors' offices or at any Social Security Agency office.

Spartans run league record to 4-0, thump Boise Braves, Nampa

RUPERT — The Minico Spartans, behind a stout defense and unexpectedly high scoring from Heworth and Morehouse, dropped Boise 67-50 Saturday night for their fourth straight Southern Idaho Conference victory. Friday night the Spartans defeated Nampa 70-51.

Heworth scored 11 of his 16 points in the first half as Minico jumped into a six-point lead and nursed it to nine by intermission. In the second half, Tony Saras and DeLynn Seamon's penetrations on drives and fed off to the big men as the defense collapsed on them. Morehouse got eight of his 10 that way.

Burke, who wound up with 16 points for Boise, kept the Braves within hailing distance by getting 12 in the first two periods. Most of them came on short jumpers as he broke up to the high post. But Minico shut him off in the second half.

In the preliminary, the Minico juniors defeated Richfield 77-32.

Friday night Minico pulled its defense together in the third quarter to rip into a prohibitive lead and coast past the Nampa Bulldogs.

Nampa gave the favored Spartans some problems in the first half with 6-3 Ed Weldenbach and 6-1 Russ Nell picking up a lot of points. Nell got all 10 of his tallies before halftime as the Bulldogs stayed within four at 31-27.

But in the third quarter, Tony Saras and DeLynn Seamon came up with a couple of steals each which Minico turned into points and the defensive unit held Nampa to only four points.

Hepworth hit two inside shots immediately after the second-half tip-off to help get the decisive rally going.

Minico sophs romped to an easy victory.

Burley romps past Rigby by 89-77

BURLEY — The Burley Bobcats shot a torrid 50 per cent from the field and used everybody Saturday in breezing past Rigby 89-77 in an Eastern Idaho Conference game.

Coach Ivan Davis watched his charges hit 34 of 69 attempts from the field as the Bobcats took an early lead and enjoyed 10 to 14 points most of the time.

The victory brings Burley squarely up to the big "hate" rivalry with Minico, which will bring a 5-0 record into the affair, Wednesday night at the Bobcat gymnasium. A sellout is expected — about 5 p.m.

Coach Davis shoved 13 men into Saturday night's battle and all but three of them broke into the scoring column. The Bobcats led only 17-11 at the end of the first quarter but mushroomed for 24 points in the second period. Their complete control of the boards kept Rigby well at bay despite the liberal substitution.

Tar Heels rip N.C. State 99-68

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI) — Robert McAdoo and Dennis Wuyck scored 20 points each Saturday night as 5th ranked North Carolina smashed 19th ranked North Carolina State 99-68 to win the second annual Big Four championship.

Duke took third place in the holiday event for North Carolina's Atlantic Coast Conference teams, clobbering Wake Forest 70-58 behind the 24-point shooting of Richie O'Connor.

Steve Nuce led North Carolina State's scoring with 15 points.

The victory gave North Carolina a 5-1 record for the season and left North Carolina State at 4-2.

Tennessee batters Mich. St.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Tennessee swamped Michigan State 63-41 Saturday night to win its sixth straight Volunteer Classic title and run its season record to 3-1.

Mike Edwards led the Vol attack with 26 points.

In the consolation game, Colorado State beat Penn State 70-63.

Bill Kilgore led the Spartan attack with 19 points.

The Vols jumped to a quick lead in the game and half way through the first period were ahead 16-5. The Spartans were never able to mount a serious threat after that as its two big guns, Kilgore and Mike Robinson, got into foul trouble.

Price got 24 points to lead Colorado State in the victory over Penn State.

St. John's wins cage journey

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Randy Noll scored 33 points, including the winning basket with 1:20 remaining, to give Marshall a 110-107 overtime upset victory over sixth-ranked St. John's in the final of the Marshall Memorial Tournament Saturday night.

Mississippi beat Rhode Island 86-72 in the consolation game.

Noll hit a long shot from the corner with 1:20 left in overtime to give Marshall a 106-105 lead. Bill James then sank two free throws on a one-and-one situation with 39 seconds remaining.

Russell Lee scored on a fast break layup to ice the game for Marshall, 110-105 with 11 seconds to go. Lee finished with 22 points. Marshall won its sixth straight game.

St. John's, losing its first after five victories, was led by Mel Davis's 32 points and Greg Guess's 25.

Noll, a 6-foot-8 transfer student from Kentucky, was voted the most valuable player.

St. John's sent the game into overtime by wiping out a 94-91 Marshall lead in the final 76 seconds of the regulation game.

Utah runs past WSU by 75-60

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah's Runnin' Redskins exploded in the second half of the championship game in the fourth Utah Classic to down Washington State 74-60 Friday night.

In the consolation game Oklahoma City dropped Yale 100-99 on a last second basket by Norman Russell for the come-from-behind thriller.

Guard Eddie Trail picked up the tournament's Most Valuable Player award as he led the Ute attack, tossing in 16 points and forcing numerous turnovers.

Trail had 18 in Utah's opening win over Yale, 87-75, Friday night.

Utah's little man under the boards, 6-4 forward-Soel Jones led for game high scoring honors with 18 points, mostly on driving layups.

Utah led by a single point, 43-42, at halftime, but with 11 minutes remaining in the game the Redskins increased that lead to 16, 60-44, on its fast-break attacking offense.

Lakers trounce Suns 132-106 for 24th straight victory

PHOENIX (UPI) — Jerry West and Happy Hairston sparked a second-half scoring outburst Saturday night as the Los Angeles Lakers trounced the Phoenix Suns 132-106 for their 24th straight NBA win.

The Lakers win came before a record Phoenix crowd of 12,534. West and Hairston each added 16 points in the final half as the Lakers pulled away after a 55-51 halftime edge. West finished with 18 and Hairston with 19.

However, the Lakers' leading scorer was Gall Goodrich, a lefthanded shooting guard, who hit for 28 including a perfect 10 for 10 from the free throw line. Jim McMillan had 21 for the Lakers and Wilt Chamberlain 18.

The Suns outrebounded Los Angeles 54-53, but shot only 40 per cent from the floor compared with 52 per cent for the Lakers.

The Lakers pulled away opening five minutes of the third quarter when they out-

Arkansas and Tennessee meet for first time in 64 years

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Arkansas and Tennessee, split only by the muddy Mississippi, clash in football for the first time since 1907 Monday night and the Liberty Bowl's outcome could well rest on the talented feet of George Hunt and Billy McClard.

Fever is running high, to put it mildly, on both sides of the river and scalpers are gleefully demanding up to $100 a seat in the Liberty Bowl's first-ever sellout.

Gov. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas and Gov. Winfield Dunn of Tennessee have even bet country-hams on the outcome. Bumpers says, however, that "in the unlikely event" that Tennessee wins he will escort Dunn "to the edge of the (Arkansas) woods" to catch his own hog.

Tennessee (9-2), which won the only other football game between the two schools 14-2, is a slight favorite over Arkansas (8-2-1) for the 8 p.m., CST, nationally-televised (ABC) kickoff before 50,100.

Two of the big guns on both sides are plagued somewhat by injuries and that's where Hunt and McClard come in. They are the highest-scoring college place-kickers in history.

With the field goal-kicker worth his weight in gold to the pro teams these days, you can bet your eggnog bowl that scouting eyes will be watching Hunt and McClard.

Arkansas' McClard is the number-one-kicking-sooner in the history of college football with 212 points and Tennessee's Hunt second with 203.

Hunt has had a fantastic senior year with ninth-ranked Tennessee, making good on 12 of 15 field goal tries and all 30 extra point attempts. McClard had a 50-50 (for him) senior year with 12-22 on field goals and 35 for 38 in the extra point department.

Tennessee, a solid defensive team which sports All-America kick-runnback star Bobby Majors, will be hampered slightly with the slowdown of all-Southeastern Conference fullback Curt Watson because of cracked ribs.

Kentucky runs past Princeton

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Eloquent-ranked Kentucky put on a dazzling fast-break display Saturday night as it rolled over 19th-ranked Princeton, 98-82 to capture the University of Kentucky Invitational Tournament (UKIT).

Missouri knocked off California 82-70 in the consolation game.

Kentucky scored the first seven points of the game, rolled up a 12-point halftime lead, and led by as many as 21 in the second half as it won its 13th UKIT crown and its fifth game this season against two losses.

Kentucky had three players with more than 20 points, Jim Andrews 28, Tom Parker with 23 and Ronnie Lyons with 21.

Brian Taylor led Princeton with a game-high 39 points, giving him 66 in the tournament. The loss dropped Princeton's record to 5-2.

Andrews was the game's leading rebounder with 15 and was named the Tournament's most valuable player.

Kentucky connected on 33 of 64 field goal attempts for 51.6 per cent; while Princeton got 44.4 per cent of its shots.

Hawks snap loss streak

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta Hawks, in danger of tying their longest losing streak of the season, blasted the Baltimore Bullets here Saturday night 123-94.

The victory broke a five-game Hawks losing streak and putted them to within three games of Baltimore's Central Division lead.

Walt Bellamy led the Hawks with 23 points and 15 rebounds. Don May came off the Atlanta bench to score 20.

Jack Martin led Baltimore with 16 points.

Atlanta took an 18-point lead early in the first quarter, lost it completely in the second quarter but then proceeded to blow the Bullets out with a 71-point second half.

The Dolphins scored the last 6 points before intermission for a 43-35 halftime margin and then quickly widened the gap to 15 points early in the second half.

Celtics trim Buffalo

BOSTON (UPI) — John Havlicek scored 30 points to pace the Boston Celtics to a 124-91 National Basketball Association victory over the Buffalo Braves Saturday night.

The victory kept the Celtics two and a half games in front of New York in the NBA's Atlantic Division race.

Havlicek opened the scoring with a hook shot with 50 seconds gone in the game to open the scoring and the Celtics never trailed.

Boston scored 20 consecutive points in the third period to outscore the Braves 37-15 after building up a 60-47 halftime edge.

Jo Jo White backed up Havlicek's performance with 22 points and Dave Cowens added 19. Walt Hazzard topped the cold shooting Braves with 15.

Jacksonville posts win

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Jacksonville, led by Harold Fox's 21 points, pulled away from stubborn William & Mary late in the first half Saturday night and rolled to a 83-72 victory.

The Dolphins scored the last 6 points before intermission for a 43-35 halftime margin and then quickly widened the gap to 15 points early in the second half.

Nampa outlasts Twin Falls for 58-51 victory

The Nampa Bulldogs outscrambled the Twin Falls Bruins in the last four minutes Saturday night to take a 58-51 Southern Idaho Conference victory.

The Bulldogs, who dropped a Friday night encounter at Minico, led most of the time but Twin Falls flurried three times into the lead early in the fourth period. But at the four-minute mark, the youth and inexperience of the club began to tell as turnovers and a rash of poor percentage shots turned the ball over to the Bulldogs. Nampa however, stayed within easy reach as both teams went without scoring from 3:18 left in the game until Nampa's Jerry Hess dropped in a rebound shot with 59 seconds remaining to give the Bulldogs a near prohibitive 58-51 lead. Two free throws by Simmons with 17 seconds left sacked it up.

Nampa seized control of the game early, particularly on the offensive backboards when the Bulldogs had multiple follow shots on almost every offensive thrust. The Bulldogs grabbed an 11-5 lead before Bob Durham and Charlie Brown gunned Twin Falls back to within one and just before the first-quarter buzzer, Steve Chapman put the Bruins ahead.

From that point Twin Falls twice appeared enroute to breaking away, going up four points and getting the ball three times — but falling in score. Durham hit eight points in the period but with 2:01 left. Hess hit twice to tie it at 28-all. Sophomores Kent Schmidt and Landy Haynes picked up two free throws each for a quick lead but Nampa hit the next 10 points and went ahead 30-34 at halftime.

Twin Falls shooting began to die in the third quarter as Nampa moved ahead by nine twice. But then three defensive plays picked up six Twin Falls points and Chapman's follow shot gave Twin Falls a 43-43 tie at the rest.

Twin Falls took its first lead early in the fourth period when Browne hit a rebound shot for a 47-46 lead. Brown then sandwiched follow shots between two more Nampa field goals and gave the Bruins their last lead at 51-50 with 4:23 remaining. Markus, who rebounded well and scored 17 points, then hit two free throws with 4:11 left and that closed it as Twin Falls missed six field goal attempts and eight free throws — four of them one and ones.

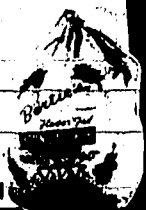

The Bruins sophomores won the first game 56-42.

Jones passes LSU past Iowa State in Sun Bowl

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Quarterback Bert Jones hurled three touchdown passes and ran in a fourth Saturday to lead the 10th ranked Louisiana State Tigers past Iowa State 33-15 in the 37th annual Sun Bowl football classic.

Jones hit setback Andy Hamilton for 37 yards, split end Gerald Kelgley for 21 yards and tight end Jay Michaelson for six yards, and carried six yards for another touchdown drive to outdistance the youthful Cyclones of the Big Eight Conference.

Tennessee drills for bowl game

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Tennessee conducted a thorough review of its kicking game here Saturday, with emphasis on the punting and placekicking aspects. The Vols meet the Arkansas Razorbacks in the 13th annual Liberty Bowl Classic here Monday night. The game will be televised nationally on ABC. Coach Bill Battle said fullback Curt Watson, with badly injured ribs, will "definitely" play although Battle was not sure he would be in the starting lineup. "I don't know if he'll start but he wants to play too bad to be duded," Battle said. Defensive end Tommy Bannel was listed as doubtful starter for the game, having sprained his ankle in Tuesday's practice session. Battle said there will be a brief workout Sunday evening for the team.

Memphis converts errors by San Jose into 28-9 victory

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Sophomore Tom Carlson blocked a punt and recovered it for a touchdown for Memphis State in the opening quarter and the Tigers went on to intercept four passes and pick up a fumble for a 28-9 victory over San Jose State in the Pasadena Bowl Saturday.

A disappointing crowd of 15,244, the smallest turnout in the four-year history of the game at the Rose Bowl, watched the Missouri Valley Conference champions turn in an interception by David Johnson and a fumble recovery by defensive tackle Carl Taylor, both sophomores, into two quick touchdowns at the start of the fourth quarter to break open a 14-3 contest.

Johnson had two interceptions, Carlson one and Walter Daggett one for the Tigers, who were 3-point underdogs after posting a 4-5 regular season record. Carlson was voted the defensive player of the game and another Memphis State sophomore, tailback Dornell Harris, was named the top offensive player. Harris scored on an eight-yard run and was the Tigers' leading ground gainer. Johnson's second interception of the day, a Travis McMichael pass set up Skeeter Gowen's 18-yard touchdown burst around left end with 2:36 gone in the last period. Clifton Taylor plunged into the San Jose State end zone from the one after Taylor had made his fumble recovery. The final Memphis touchdown came with just 4:56 gone in the last quarter.

San Jose State, representing the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, scored its touchdown with only 38 seconds left to play on a one-yard run by quarterback Brad Matheony. Carlson, a 5-foot-10, 175-pounder from Miami, Fla., set the stage for the Tigers' defensive crunch with just 50 seconds left in the opening quarter. He crashed through San Jose's line and blocked John McMillen's punt from the Spartan 15, and then pounced on the ball after it rolled on the end zone. Memphis State scored on its first series in the second period, going 65 yards in eight plays for the Tigers' only sustained offensive drive. The key play was a 13-yard pass from Al Harvey to Harris on a third-and-ten situation on the San Jose 45. Harris also had a 20-yard run in the series to personally account for 42 of the Tigers' 65 yards. Larry Barnes gave the Spartans a 3-0 lead on a 33-yard field goal with 3:59 left in the first period.

The key to the game might have come only five minutes into the second half when Memphis State stopped San Jose on the Tigers' two. On a fourth down play, San Jose's Joe Hicks was wrapped up by the Tigers' linebacker Terry Mulwee. Dave Pawlink and Glenn Whittemore helped on the block. San Jose State coach Dewey King chose to go for a touchdown rather than a field goal on a similar play midway in the second quarter with his club trailing 14-3. With the Spartans on the Memphis State 16, Ols Cooper tried an end-around off a fake field goal formation but could only get to the Tigers' seven. San Jose, an upset winner over Rose Bowl bound Stanford during the regular season, finished the season with a 6-6-1 record.

McClendon denies A-M move

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—LSU Coach Charlie McClendon, celebrating his team's 33-15 victory over Iowa State in the Sun Bowl football classic, said Saturday big plays in the second half took the Tigers to victory. He also said there was nothing to the rumors of him going to Texas A&M next year as football coach and athletic director. "We made a lot of first half mistakes and offensively we weren't as sharp as we were against Notre Dame," McClendon said. "But the key to victory came in our big plays in the second half." McClendon dismissed rumors he was leaving LSU for Texas A&M. "I've talked to a lot of people down there, but so far I haven't been offered any position," he said. "I have not resigned at LSU. I've got two more post season games to worry about — and there is nothing factual at present about my going to College Station." McClendon said he was "complimented" the Aggies or any other school would be interested in him and he was always willing to talk about a football job.

Walter Camp All America team named

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—Three members of number one ranked Nebraska were named Saturday to the 1972 Walter Camp All America football team. Auburn, Oklahoma, Notre Dame, Michigan and Tennessee each placed two men on the offensive and defensive elevens announced by L.P. "Larry" Deephouse, president of the Walter Camp Foundation. Nebraska tight end Johnny Rodgers joined the Offensive unit while teammates Willie Harper, an end, and Rich Glover, middle guard, were named to the defensive squad. Auburn's quarterback Pat Sullivan was chosen along with his favorite receiver, end Jerry Bensley. Rounding out the offensive line were tackles Terry Sismore of Texas and Dave Joyner of Penn State; guards Reggie McKenzie of Michigan and Boyce Smith of Georgia and center Tom Brahaney of Oklahoma. The backfield included Johnny Musso of Alabama, Ed Marinaro of Cornell and Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma. On the defensive team, Walt Patulaki of Notre Dame joined Harper in the end slots. The two selections from Tennessee were linebacker Jackie Walker and back Bobby Majors. The other linebacker was Mike Taylor of Michigan. The tackles were Sherman White of California and Herb Orvis of Colorado.

Walt Frazier leads Knicks to victory

NEW YORK (UPI)—Walt Frazier scored 25 points, including nine straight leading off the second quarter, as the New York Knicks defeated the Cleveland Cavaliers, 104-84, Saturday night. It was the 10th time in the last 17 games that Frazier had scored 22 or more points in a game and the third consecutive Saturday in which New York scored a runaway victory over an expansion team. Frazier, born Robert Tyre Jones Jr., on March 17, 1902, began playing golf at age 5. He was only 14 when he qualified for his first U.S. Amateur tournament in 1916 and only 18 when he appeared for the first time in a U.S. Open, finishing eighth. There is no way of estimating how many major titles Jones might have won if he had continued play. No golfer of his time ever beat him twice in championship play and many of his victories over other amateurs were almost embarrassingly one-sided. When he laid down his clubs at 28, he said he felt he had nothing left to conquer, nothing to prove. Jones never wanted his son, Robert T. Jones III of Nashville, Tenn., to follow in his golfing footsteps although he did qualify several times for the U.S. Amateur, losing to Nicklaus in 1959.

Golf's legendary Bobby Jones dies

ATLANTA (UPI)—"Grand slammer" Bobby Jones died quietly in his sleep after a long illness Saturday, leaving behind a golfing record none has equalled in the 41 years since he retired from tournament play. Jones, who would have been 70 next March, won 13 major golf titles in the eight-year span from 1923 to 1930—two more than Jack Nicklaus has won—and called it quits at the ripe old age of 28, after his 1930 "Grand Slam" in which he won the U.S. and British open and amateur titles all in the same year. His death leaves only Boxer Jack Dempsey from the so-called "big four"—Jones, Dempsey, Babe Ruth and Bill Tilden—of the "golden age of sports" between World War I and the depression. Jones never played golf as a professional and, since the lure of the multi-million dollar pro golf tour now leaves few good golfers who remain amateurs for very long, it is unlikely that any amateur will ever again match his feats. Nowadays, the so-called "grand slam" is the U.S. and British Opens, the PGA Championship and the Masters—a tournament that Jiffes founded

Nicklaus recalls influence of Jones

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Golf champ Jack Nicklaus returned from a fishing trip off Palm Beach Saturday to learn of the death of Bobby Jones, a man who had been both his personal friend and idol for over two decades. Before returning to his home near here, Nicklaus recalled the days in 1950, when at age 10 he began playing golf and learned about Jones. "My dad was a member of the Scioto Country Club in Columbus, Ohio," our home town, and it was there that Jones won the 1926 U.S. Open. For this reason and many others when I started playing golf I knew more about Robert T. Jones Jr. than I did about any of the current champions. Next to his own father,

CSU drops Penn State in tourney

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Guard George Price got 24 points to lead Colorado State to a 70-63 win over Penn State Saturday night in the consolation game of the 8th annual Volunteer Classic. Tennessee took on Michigan State in the championship game. The Nittany Lions, playing without Ron Brown—who suffered a deep shoulder bruise Friday night in the game with Tennessee, were led by Ron Kodish with 21 points.

Duane Thomas propels Dallas over Cardinals for division title

IRVING, Tex. (UPI)—Duane Thomas' booted 63 yards once and three yards twice for three touchdowns and begged a screen pass 34 yards for a fourth score Saturday to propel the Dallas Cowboys to a 31-12 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals and their sixth straight division championship.

Thomas' superb first half performance was more than enough to offset Jim Bakken's

Clark after a Dallas first down at the St. Louis six.

But Staubach—the National Football Conference's No. 1 passer, finished with 10 out of 16 for 147 yards.

Thomas carried 18 times for 63 yards and caught three passes for 61 more.

The Cowboys played more than half of the game with

Notre Dame is drubbed by Indiana

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI)—Indiana dedicated its multi-million dollar Assembly Hall Saturday by handing Notre Dame's basketball team its worst drubbing ever, 94-29, before 15,000 fans.

The 10th-ranked Hoosiers, 5-1 for the season, spotted Notre Dame an early 5-4 lead, then roiled off 12 straight points enroute to a 44-13 halftime lead.

The Irish, now 2-4, hit only three fielders in the first half and 7 of 14 from the free throw line.

For the game, Indiana hit over 50 per cent from the floor while the Irish could muster only 13 per cent, on 8 of 61 chances.

John Ritter capped a career high of 31 points for Indiana, hitting 13 of 17 shots. Joby Wright had 15 for IU while tops for Notre Dame, with 7 points, was Gary Novak. Willy Townsend had 5.

The worst previous shellacking for a Notre Dame basketball team was its 114-63 loss to UCLA in 1967, a margin of 51 points. Saturday the Irish were spanked by 85 points.

Hawaii applies for WAC group

HONOLULU (UPI)—The University of Hawaii board of regents has authorized University President Harlan Cleveland to apply for membership into the Western Athletic Conference. It was announced Friday.

The application must be approved by the WAC Council of Presidents, which meets next month, by at least a three-fourths majority.

23-, 29-23 and 35-yard field goals as the Cowboys finished their season with a seven-game winning streak which sends them into a Christmas Day playoff date with the Minnesota Vikings in Bloomington.

The Cowboys were far from sharp in posting their 11th win against three losses and the game also marked the end of quarterback Roger Staubach's non-interception streak at 134 when Cards safety Dale Hackbart picked off a poorly-thrown pass midway through the third quarter.

But, even a below-par outing by the Cowboys was too much of an obstacle course for the crippled Cardinals, who repeatedly dove into scoring territory only to have to settle for Bakken's field goals. Bakken missed two others from 22- and 45 yards out.

The Cardinals' defense had some good moments, halting the Cowboys' inside rushing and trapping Staubach three times for 29 yards in losses. They once forced the Cowboys to settle for a 24-yard field goal by Mike Calvin Hill on the sidelines after he was shaken up in the second quarter. He gained 34 yards in six carries until that time.

Thomas, who started at fullback when Hill was in, shifted to halfback when Hill went out and his yardage output immediately began to suffer.

Cards quarterback Jim Hart, who had only two operable running backs in Cyd Edwards and Johnny Roland, opened the game with Edwards carrying the ball nine straight times and surged to within field goal range only to have Bakken miss.

Hart finally turned to the air with bombing attempts to Mel Gray and John Gilliam, but he completed only 11 of 36 for 141 yards before he retired in favor of Pete Beathard in the final period.

Wisconsin downs Pitt

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—The University of Wisconsin used a stingy defense and accurate free-throw shooting Saturday to notch its fifth consecutive win in downing University of Pittsburgh 80-63.

The Badgers used just six players the game as they built up a 38-30 halftime lead—only to see it almost disappear in the second half before pulling away for good.

Wisconsin committed 10 fouls—five by La Mont Wenver—and Pittsburgh could only convert on seven of 13 charity tosses. Wisconsin made 24 of 33 free throws.

Sophomore forward Bill Knight led Pittsburgh with 22 points while Gary Watson was high for the Badgers with 19. The win gave the Badgers a 6-1 mark. Pittsburgh is now 2-2.

Royal Owl wins in California stakes

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI)—Royal Owl, one of the year's top two-year-olds, pulled away from stablemate D. B. Carm in the stretch turn at Bay Meadows Saturday and romped home to a 3 1/2-length victory in the $100,000 added California Juvenile Stakes.

The victory was the fifth in a row for the son of Crazy Kid and it was achieved over a fast track in the fine time of 1:41.45.

Master Ribot moved past theirling D. B. Carm in the run to the wire to grab second place by two lengths. D. B. Carm, who stumbled coming out of the gate in the mile and one-sixteenth test, finished third.

The victory was worth $62,400 and boosted Royal Owl's earnings to $183,600.

Willie Shoemaker, who has handled Royal Owl in all of his six career starts, picked up his 45th stakes victory of the year and the 546th of his career. His 1971 total is a record and he now trails alltime stakes riding champion Eddie Arcaro by only eight.

Royal Owl was bet down to 2-5 and he paid $2.80, $2.40 and $2.10. Master Ribot returned $5 and $2.40 while D. B. Carm, running uncoupled in the wagering, paid $2.20.

Royal Owl, who more than likely will become the Winter Book favorite for next year's Kentucky Derby, was first out of the gate and he held the lead around the first turn.

D. B. Carm rallied after his poor start and ran side by side with Royal Owl to the stretch turn.

For Shoemaker, the alltime winning jockey, it was his 90th victory in a $100,000 added race and his 6,264th overall triumph.

Florida is victorious over Cadets

NEW YORK (UPI)—Florida, playing most of the second game of Saturday's college basketball doubleheader at Madison Square Garden without the help of its 7-foot center, Doug Brown, withstood a furious Army attack that tied the game midway through the second half and went on to win, 80-71, over the Cadets.

In the first game, a strong Dartmouth squad defeated Seton Hall, 93-82, as 6-1 junior guard James Brown paced the Indians, now 4-0, with his outside shooting and aggressive defense.

Florida lost the services of Brown when he strained a tendon in his left knee after only seven minutes of the first half had expired and the Gators leading, 18-9. The Cadets fought back to close the gap to five at 42-37 at the half.

Florida regrouped after that and stretched its lead to 14 early in the second half, but had to absorb the loss of another big player when 6-7 forward Dan Boe fouled out with more than 10 minutes remaining in the game. But when Army charged back to tie the game at 65-65 with 6:22 to go, sophomore Steve Williams closed the door on the Cadets by hitting outside jumpers that put the game out of reach.

Brown and his backcourt mate, 5-11 sophomore Bill Raynor, combined for 48 points against a usually good Seton Hall defense. The pirates, leading by as much as eight points, left the floor at intermission with a four-point spread, 40-36.

But the Indians came back after intermission with an even more aggressive full-court press than they used in the first half and ran away to a 48-45 margin. Dartmouth followed that brief explosion with another one, a 12-2 spurt that brought it a 63-51 lead.

A. Henning dominates in skating

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Ann Henning, Northbrook, Ill., dominated two races in women's speed skating during trials for the United States Olympic team Saturday at the Olympic ice rink here.

Mias Henning won the women's 500 and 1,000 meter races to go along with the women 1,500 meter win she chalked up on the first day of competition Thursday.

She turned in clocking of 43.5 seconds in the 500 and 1:35.0 in the 1,000. Neil Blatchford, Northbrook, Ill., won the men's 500 race with a time of 40.0 and Dan Carroll, St. Louis, won the men's 1,500 with a time of 2:09.9.

Qualifying will continue Sunday and Monday and the U. S. International Skating Association will select the 1972 Olympic skating team Monday. Fifty skaters are trying for berths on the team.

Following are Saturday's races, the top five finishers and their times.

Women's 500: Henning, Northbrook, Ill., 41.9; Della Voce, Detroit, 43.1; Kay Lunda, Madison, Wis., 43.7; Lori Monk, Madison, 44.1; Pat Sheehan, Utica, N.Y., 46.2.

Camas County defeats Castleford 62-54 to win Holiday Tournament

CASTLEFORD — The Camas County Mustangs defeated Castleford 62-54 to win the Castleford Holiday Tournament Saturday night.

Castleford dominated play in the first half opening up a seven point spread at the end of the first quarter and a 28-10 margin by halftime.

The game was reversed in the last half with Camas County outplaying Castleford. Camas cut into the Castleford lead in the third period and were behind only five points at the finish of that quarter. In the final period Camas County took the lead and built up an eight point margin by the end of the game.

Coates was the top scorer for Camas County with 25 points and Reese led Castleford's point total with 14.

In the first game Saturday night Gooding State edged Dietrich 57-56. The game was tight all the way with the lead changing throughout the contest. Dietrich held a three point bulge at halftime, then Gooding State went on top by five at the close of the third period.

McCowan was the leading scorer for Dietrich with 22 points. Gooding State's Turner scored 16 and Grammer added 17.

In Friday night's action Camas County edged Dietrich 62-54. Camas County built up a 15 point lead in the first quarter but Dietrich closed to within two by halftime.

Dietrich scored three field goals in the first quarter and nine in the second period while Camas County made 10 field goals in the first period and only two in the second quarter.

The third quarter saw little scoring from either team with Camas County managing only four points. Camas County scored a field goal with only several seconds left in the game to preserve the victory.

Camas County had three men in double figures with Sweet scoring 14 points, Gill scoring 13 and Coates, 11. Camas committed 23 personal fouls. Meservy led Dietrich scorers with 19 points.

In the final game Friday Castleford dumped Gooding State 58-35. Gooding State was cold from the field and the charity line. The Redskins scored only 11 points in the first half and a total of three free throws in the game.

Castleford dominated the game with Steve Peterson leading the scoring for the Wolves with 12 points. Castleford committed only nine personal fouls.

Grammer paced the scoring for Gooding State with 11 points.

Press helps Declo drop Raft River

DECLO — The Declo Hornets caught a spark-off-the-outside shooting of Scott Mallory in the second quarter and a full-court press in the third period to defeat the Raft River Trojans 53-45 and win their own holiday basketball tournament. Oakley, redhot from the field and with five men in double scoring figures, swarmed past the Rockland Bulldogs 81-60 for the consolation title.

Raft River jumped into an early nine-point lead over Declo in the championship battle as the Hornets had trouble finding the range. But Mallory started hitting from the outside as Declo came back into a 25-20 lead. The press was most effective for Declo, which used it to pile up a 19-point lead at one time which was too much for Raft River's closing rally to overcome.

In the first game, it was all Oakley as the Hornets opened hot and riddled Rockland's zone. Burch, Ray Severe, Palmer, Botke and Stanger all got into double scoring figures as the Hornets pushed to an 18-11 first-quarter lead and were in full control at 36-23 by halftime.

Friday night Raft River and Declo came up with strong fourth-quarter performances to oust their first-round foes. Raft River, looking vastly improved over a week ago, dropped Rockland 75-68 while Declo pulled from behind to top Oakley 63-56.

Pasket worked inside very well for Raft River, scoring 24 points and Tracy and Alred took the pressure off him by getting 16 and 17, respectively. Declo jumped out to an early lead against Oakley but Oakley came back with an offense change and forced Declo into a defensive change and that turned the game around. The Hornets, getting good outside shooting from Grant Severe and Bedko, pulled to within one at halftime and then took a 48-44 lead after a see-saw third quarter.

It stayed tight until the final three minutes when Declo's Mallory settled the issue. He tried a short jumper that went away, but stole the ball back as Oakley peeled out on a fast-break with the rebound. Mallory drove for a crumple, made it, and was fouled after to pile up a 19-point lead at one time which was too much for Raft River's closing rally to overcome.

AMERICAN FALLS — The Jerome Tigers edged American Falls 64-61 after leading the Beavers throughout the second half Saturday night.

Hobley opened the scoring for Jerome with a field goal but American Falls tied the score and led the rest of the first half. In the first half Greg Jewell and Cliff Peterson led the Tiger scoring with eight points apiece.

Jerome erased a three point American Falls margin at the start of the third quarter and by the end of the quarter had a nine point lead. American Falls began cutting down the Tiger lead in the final quarter and with 2:54 left Jerome had a 59-55 lead. The Tigers held on for the three point victory.

Jewell and Peterson were the top Tiger scorers with 15 points apiece. Allen led the scoring for American Falls with 15 points.

AMES, Iowa (UPI)—Forward Clint Harris scored 28 points to lead Iowa State to a 97-94 win over intrastate rival Iowa Saturday night and the Cyclones claimed the state's mythical collegiate basketball championship.

Nebraska beats LaSalle to win own tournament; Idaho winds up last

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI)—Nebraska expanded a five-point lead in the last minute of play to record a 76-60 win over LaSalle in the Husker-Basketball Classic championship game Saturday night.

Baylor had claimed consolation honors with a 74-53 win over Idaho.

Nebraska sophomore Lee Harris stole a LaSalle inbound pass with one minute remaining and hit a layup to give the Cornhuskers a lead which put the game out of reach.

LaSalle sophomore guard Jim Haggarty, who finished with 20 points against Nebraska after a 31-point performance Friday night against Baylor, was named the outstanding player of the tournament.

Nebraska finished with a 65 per cent mark from the field (31-48) in recording its fourth win of the season against three losses. LaSalle's record is now 2-5.

Nebraska sprinted to a 42-22 halftime lead, increased the margin to 60-33 with 13 minutes left in the second half, and played reserves the rest of the game.

Buhl controls rebounds to thump Wendell 68-56

WENDELL — Buhl took over the backboards early in the second quarter. Friday night and stormed past the Wendell Trojans 68-56 in a non-conference game. Wendell, getting six early points from Bennett and giving Buhl trouble with a zone press, managed a couple of early six-point leads before Buhl, which had a 3-1 record going into the affair, settled down. The Indians caught up in the first 47 seconds of the second period and then pushed steadily away before both coaches went liberally to their benches. Bennett and Henderson got six points each in the first period when the Trojans moved ahead 10-3 and 14-6 before Kendall Meler hit just before the buzzer to make it 14-10. Rex Kruse hit the opening two buckets for Buhl in the second period and Meler followed with a rebound shot to give the Indians the lead for keeps.

Twice thereafter Wendell cut the deficit to one point but Joel Watson and Craig Saunders scored to set Buhl ahead 22-17 and by halftime, with four of the five starters scoring again, Buhl went ahead 29-20.

The Indians settled it early in the third period when Wendell almost completely cold while the Indians outscored them 10-3.

Much of Wendell's misery could be traced to poor free throw shooting, the Trojans hitting only four.

Wendell won the preliminary 50-43.

Gooding scores win over Ferry

GLENN'S FERRY — The highly regarded Gooding Senators held off a late rally by Glens Ferry to score a 52-44 win Friday night.

Gooding dominated the first half of play running up a 18-5 margin by the end of the first quarter and leading 29-12 at halftime. Glens Ferry got its offensive game moving in the second half, outscoring 32 points to 23 for the Senators.

Glens Ferry was down only four points with 2:54 remaining in the game when the Senators scored two free throws and a field goal.

Paul Strum led Glens Ferry scoring with 18 points. Hoye scored seven for the Pilots. Frank Krahn paced the Gooding scoring with 16 points.

Savages tip W.R. at foul line

HAILEY — The Salmon Savages, held to only 10 field goals, turned to the free throw line for 25 points Friday night to defeat the Wood River Wolverines 45-33.

Wood River jumped into an early 11-3 lead, running its patterns well and scoring on the good shots it produced. But at that point, Salmon started its game-long parade to the foul line. The Savages hit all but eight of their points from the free throw line as they moved ahead 22-15 by intermission.

Wood River came up with a momentary tie at 30-30 late in the third quarter but Salmon pushed steadily away in the final period.

BSC, North Arizona reclassified

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two Big Sky Colleges are among nine schools that have been reclassified to University Division status statistically by the NCAA for the 1977-78 basketball season.

The two Big Sky schools are Boise State College and Northern Arizona University in Flagstaff.

This latest reclassification for statistics purposes raised the number of major college basketball teams to 216. The remaining 171 basketball-playing members of the NCAA are classified in the College Division.

Nampa charges Borah with recruiting

NAMPA (UPI) — A Nampa high school principal has accused Borah football coach Dee Pamkratz of illegally trying to recruit a Nampa Junior High School football player.

The accusation was reported Friday in the Idaho Free Press of Nampa.

High school principal Darrel Relsch claims the football coach and his assistant, Don Clegg, recently visited the home of a central junior high school football player and his parents. The name of the boy has not been disclosed.

Relsch says the action violates the Idaho High School Athletic Association rule that forbids visits by coaches with athletes in other high school districts.

The board of control is expected to consider Relsch's charges at its January meeting.

He claimed Clegg, a former Nampa coach, was a friend of the boy and that the two went over to "offer help" when it was reported that the boy's family was moving to Boise.

Rebound squabble

LONG REBOUND resulted in this three-way battle for possession, which was won by Buhl's 6-6 senior Kendall Meler (42). Buhl defeated Wendell 68-56.

Kimberly tops Valley to win Snake River tourney crown

HANSEN — The Kimberly Bulldogs, despite atrocious free throw shooting, pulled out to a 10-point lead in the third quarter and outlasted a closing rush by Valley for a 56-50 victory and the championship of the annual Snake River holiday basketball tournament.

Hansen 53-48 in the first game. Kimberly, which hit only three of 16 free throw attempts in the first half, fell behind in the first quarter but then outscored the Vikings 17-8 in the second period for a 31-26 intermission margin.

Early in the third quarter Valley flurried into a 33-33 tie with Pennington doing most of the scoring, but the Bulldogs regained the lead immediately and pushed into its first 10-point margin of the night.

Valley cut a few points off that in the final quarter with Rötzel and Pennington getting 10 points. But Rötzel fouled out, taking his rebounding height with him, and Kimberly shook loose on a couple of fast breaks to clinch the victory. Good outside shooting by Collins in the second half sparked Kimberly's victory.

In the consolation finals, Murtaugh piled up a big lead then got a 13-point effort from Denny in the fourth period to hold off Hansen's late closing rally.

Hansen managed an early 8-5 lead but Murtaugh caught up at 8-8 and took the lead for good as sophomore Rob Wright scored all 12 of his points in the first half—and sat out the last two periods. Hansen scored only seven points in the second quarter as Murtaugh muscled into 32-17 lead.

The closest Hansen came after that was late in the game at 51-48 before Denny hit the final bucket.

American Falls rallies past Filer

FILER — American Falls rallied in the fourth quarter to defeat the Filer Wildcats 44-37 Friday night, with the lights out over one basket in the second half.

American Falls was trailing by one point at the end of the third quarter but came back to score 17 points to only nine for Filer in the last quarter.

After taking an opening 2-0 lead American Falls was behind throughout the first quarter and didn't take the lead again until midway through the second period at 11-10. American Falls led the remainder of the second quarter and took a 20-17 margin into halftime intermission.

Play was delayed for about 10 minutes at the start of the second half when the lights went out over the basket on the American Falls end of the court. After an unsuccessful attempt to fix the lights American Falls took the darkened end of the court for the third period with Filer playing there for the fourth quarter.

American Falls was apparently disturbed by the lighting problem scoring only seven points in the third quarter. Filer took the lead 23-27 at the end of the third quarter.

Filer went cold in the fourth quarter playing on the darkened end of the court as the Wildcats scored only nine points. With 2:56 remaining the score was tied at 32-32. American Falls built a four-point lead at 36-34 with 1:44 remaining and increased the margin to eight by the final buzzer.

Deeg and Allen led the scoring for American Falls with 14 points each. For the Wildcats, Bob Harting, Lynn Peterson and Doug Lincoln all scored seven points to lead the scoring.

Butler-led Pirates tip Shoshone

HAGERMAN — Senior Doug Butler went on a 38-point scoring tear Friday night to shoot the Hagerman Pirates to a 79-59 decision over the Shoshone Indians.

Butler was nearly unstoppable inside as he worked for an assorted of inside turn shots and jumpers. His scoring was aided by the generalship and passing of senior guard Greg Laughlin who had several assists and 13 points.

The Indians ran into a cold spell in the first quarter and before Hagerman really got warmed up. That coat the Indians an eight-point deficit and early in the second period Hagerman caught fire and ran up a 19-point lead. Shoshone reduced that to 12 by halftime, largely on the scoring of Kinney who hit 12 of his 20 points in the opening half.

Shoshone's rally continued into the third period, the Indians pulling back to within eight. But then Butler hit a couple of quick buckets and Hagerman zoomed back into an 18-point lead before the Indians flurried in the final two minutes to establish the final count.

Pat Nixon really cares about mail she gets

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—If you think "Dear Abbie" is tuned in on people's troubles, you should read Pat Nixon's mail. Just ask soft-spoken Gwen King, director of the First Lady's correspondence who sifts through hundreds of letters a day and sends them to Mrs. Nixon for replies.

"She really cares about her mail," Mrs. King told UPI in an interview. "She has an eagle eye and can go to the heart of a letter. She wants her mail answered promptly. She answers many personally."

The President's wife spends about four hours a day on the letters that pour in at the rate of well over a thousand a week, depending on White House news. They range from heart-rending requests for help to childish scrawls, saying: "We love you Mrs. Nixon."

Mrs. King said that "astorishingly little" of the mail is critical or "kooky." Some letter writers do ask her why she is spending tax money on White House restoration. They are told that the President's house, like their own home, gets lots of "wear and tear." She also explains that wealthy donors contribute to the refurbishing.

After Mrs. Nixon put pressure on the President to name a woman to the Supreme Court—and he didn't—there were letters saying her husband "has let her down."

Mrs. King said Mrs. Nixon seems to work magic in reaching out to help others. She cited a young girl who wrote Mrs. Nixon that she was "very poor and had been caught shoplifting" and wondered whether the First Lady could help her get a job.

She said they drafted a sympathetic letter but when Mrs. Nixon looked at it she said, "but Gwen, she needs help." As a result, they found that there is a Civil Service rehabilitation service for first-offenders. It helped the girl get a job.

Mrs. King said one of the most poignant letters the First Lady has written went to Mary Perkins of Sweetwater, Fla. The 10-year-old girl was beaten up by neighborhood teen-agers last year after she spent her $10 in Christmas money to buy gifts for some Negro kids who were evicted from their home.

"They knocked her off her bike and called her 'nigger lover,'" Mrs. King said.

In a letter to Mary, Mrs. Nixon said: "I've read an account of your deed of kindness during the Christmas season and I was distressed to hear of the unhappiness you experienced because of it."

"It is as difficult to explain prejudice and discrimination as it is to understand violence. All are rooted in fear and ignorance. The differences in backgrounds of various groups have often promoted insecurity and tension ..."

"Perhaps the question should not be why prejudice and hatred continue to exist but how we can eliminate them from our society. You have set a shining example by your selfless act by sharing with the less fortunate. I hope you will always display the same courage and conviction ..."

The First Lady signs her letters "Pat Nixon" or "Patricia Nixon."

One woman wrote that her mother, an immigrant from Italy, wanted desperately to become a U.S. citizen before she died, but could not read or write. Mrs. Nixon's correspondence staff quickly found out that the woman had been in the country 20 years, long enough to waive the literacy regulation.

"She gets hundreds of requests for pictures and requests for a personal note on birthdays, anniversaries, baptisms and bar mitzvahs," Mrs. King said. "Tricia's wedding mail was staggering, but every letter was answered."

Mrs. Nixon also is a "pen pal" of many Vietnam wounded war veterans.

Mrs. King, an attractive brunette who still has a trace of a Southern accent, was born in Hartsville, S.C. She was graduated from Coker College and got her first glimpse of the White House in 1936 when she attended a press reception given by President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"I was from a small town and I was ecstatic," she recalled. "Roosevelt noticed the clematis corsage I was wearing and asked where I was from. After a chat he said, 'Well you know if you want to work at the White House you can.'" "I was flabbergasted," she said.

She did join the government, working for the Library of Congress, the Agriculture Department and the Pentagon. She went to the White House in 1953 during the Eisenhower years and has been there ever since. She took time out to marry LaBruce King, a government official, and they have two children, now grown.

She was the only woman on the "advance team" that went to Moscow to arrange President Dwight D. Eisenhower's trip there in 1960. As it turned out, the downing of the American U-

2 plane over Russia caused Eisenhower to cancel his journey.

Mrs. King said life was more predictable in the Eisenhower era. She said Eisenhower's secretary, Ann Whitman, "taught me how one can handle an impossible job. Her desk was totally disorganized, but her mind was totally organized."

When President Kennedy took over the White House, Mrs. King stayed on in the Appointments Office.

"On Nov. 22, 1963, I was in a restaurant when I heard he was assassinated. I was shocked. I ran back to the White House and did not leave until 3:30 in the morning. I helped clean out his desk drawer. There was a comb ... and a letter from his mother."

Like most of the staffers in the White House at the time, she also experienced first hand the towering rage of President Lyndon B. Johnson. She said "Johnson would blast whoever was around" when things did not please him.

Once Johnson came into the Appointments Office and shouted that his calendar was "too heavy." She had typed the agenda, but it was the higher ups who scheduled his day.

"What's the matter with you, girl? Don't you hear what I'm saying?" Johnson said angrily.

"Everybody down the hall can, Mr. President," she answered quietly.

NO TOOLS WERE used to fashion many of the rings in the collection. Gems were inbedded in the dagger's handle and sheath, background. The necklace in the foreground has beads of hand carved and polished coral and bone.

Mandala painting

INCORPORATING JEWELS and bronze figurines, the mandala paintings have historical and cultural value as well as esthetic value. The paintings in the display have emeralds, tourmaline, turquoise, garnet and other gems worked into the mandalas' design.

Treasury of Dalai Lama family art objects come to Sun Valley

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News Writer

SUN VALLEY — From mythical Tibet to the mountains of Idaho has come a treasury of art objects of the family of The Dalai Lama of Tibet. This collection of arts, crafts and cultural objects is currently on display by the America House Gift Shop in the Sage Room show case of the Sun Valley Lodge.

The exhibit features an array of jewelry, rugs, temple paintings and statuary, costumes and historical objects.

Considered to be a reincarnated being, the Dalai Lama is traditionally the spiritual as well as executive ruler of Tibet. He and his family fled Tibet in the 1950's after the Red Chinese invasion and were given sanctuary in northern India.

His Holiness The Dalai Lama of Tibet still lives in northern India where thousands of his followers, who also escaped, now live in camps, divided into small groups throughout the northern states of that country. An estimated 55,000 Tibetans escaped to Indian sanctuary.

Thubten Jigme Norbu, brother of the Dalai Lama, is a longtime friend of Luther Douglas, owner of America House. Both are members of the International Explorers Club, of which Douglas is Idaho's only member.

The long-time association of Norbu and Douglas, along with the assistance of the Tibetan authority, His Royal Highness Prince Peter of Greece and Denmark, has led to this exhibit.

A highlight of the collection is the tangkas — temple paintings — which are about 200 years old. The paintings feature fine brush strokes and each hair on the figures' heads is individually detailed.

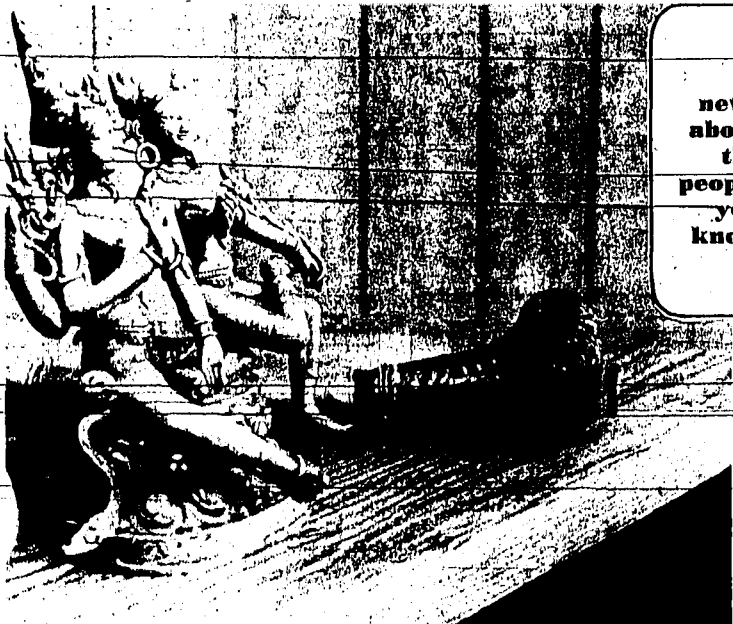

The rugs are rich in color and velvety in texture. They are hand woven from wool which was carded and spun by hand. Their designs include bright dragon, floral or geometric.

Of special significance are the Nandala paintings. These incorporate tiny bronze temple figures, emeralds, tourmaline, turquoise, garnets and other gems and each has a cultural and historical value as well as being a wall hanging of unusual beauty.

Tibetan boots, fur lined and handwoven hats, and a brocade costume of Kim Chung-Norbu add interest to the exhibit as do the prayer wheels, temple horns and other cultural objects.

Some of the pieces are for sale as well as on exhibit. A limited number of autographed copies of two of Norbu's books, "Tibet is My Country" and "Tibet," will be sold.

A program of Tibetan slides, along with a taped commentary by Norbu also is being scheduled for showing at a later date. The Douglasses hope to entertain Norbu and his wife at their Sun Valley home later this winter.

Treasured objects

Traditional Tibet

MRS. BILL JANSS models a traditional Tibetan costume owned by Kim Chung Norbu against a backdrop of handwoven rugs and temple wall hangings. The costume includes an apron which is decorated with gold brocade embroidery. Mrs. Janss holds a fox fur lined cap with a handwoven crown.

Temple plaque

FINELY DETAILED embossed religious figures decorate a bronze and copper wall plaque which used to hang in a Tibetan temple.

Sugar and spice food gift idea

TWIN FALLS — Few gifts have more meaning than the ones made by hand and with care and love.

The giver has the pleasure of showing thoughtfulness in a way that nothing store-bought can. The recipient basks in the warmth of knowing that he's someone special, and isn't that what Christmas giving's all about?

A food gift is especially appropriate when dropping in on friends and relatives throughout the holiday season.

This delicious and fragrant sweet yeast bread is as beautiful to the eye and it is palatable. In addition to the wreath form of the bread, the Christmas motif is carried through with "berries" made from maraschino cherries and "leaves" from angelica or gumdrop slices.

It is an excellent food gift because of its "keeping" quality. The addition of molasses to the dough mixture helps keep it fresh and moist for a week or 10 days.

SUGAR AND SPICE WREATH DOUGH

- 1/2 cup milk
- 1-3 cup light or dark molasses
- 1-3 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt

- 2 packages active dry yeast
- 1/2 cup lukewarm water
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup vegetable shortening
- 5 cups all-purpose flour, un-sifted

Desired filling
Heat milk, molasses, sugar and salt to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water and then stir into milk mixture. Beat in eggs and shortening. Stir in flour and beat until blended. Knead dough on a floured board until smooth and elastic. Cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Knead dough again and roll out on a floured board, until about 10 by 20 inches. Spread with desired filling and roll up like a jelly roll starting at the 20-inch side. Keep roll even and place on a greased cookie sheet. Bring ends together and shape into a ring. Pinch ends together firmly. Brush top of ring with beaten egg. Slash top 1/2 inch deep every 1 1/2 inches. Let rise until double in bulk. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) for 30 to 35 minutes or until richly browned. Remove from oven and cool on rack. Mix confectioners' sugar and milk until the consistency of heavy cream and spoon over ring, allowing it to drip over sides. Decorate top to resemble Christmas wreath, with halved candied cherries and leaves made of angelica or green gumdrop spearmint leaves. Makes 1 large 12-inch round wreath.

- margarine
- 1 package (12 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon instant coffee (fine type)

Spread butter over dough.
Sprinkle with chocolate pieces. Mix sugar and coffee and sprinkle over chocolate.

Naomi Circle meeting held

BURLEY — The Naomi Circle of the United Presbyterian Women held its meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Neva Dalton.

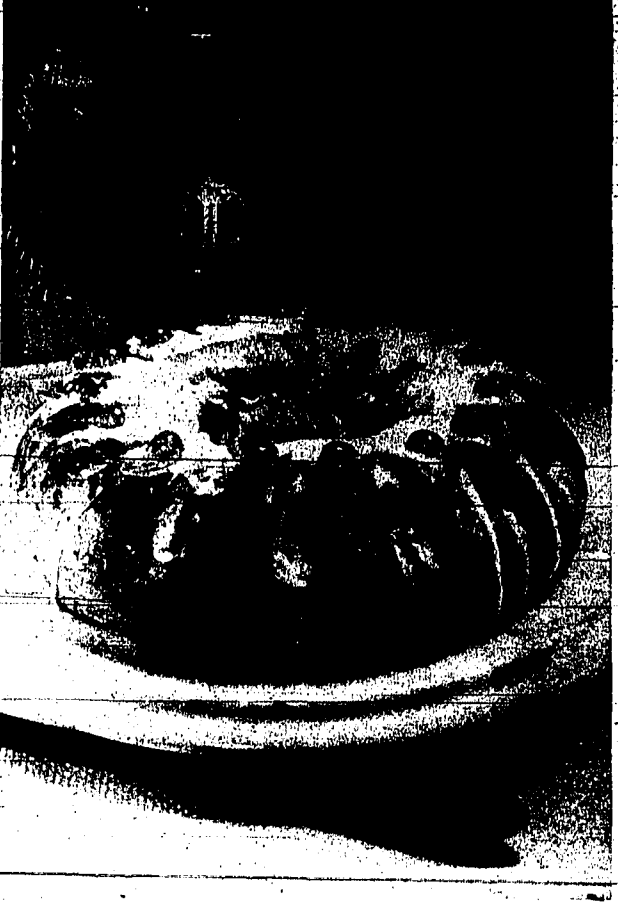

"Patterns of Change: Poverty and Race from Changing Society" was the topic of the study lesson given by Mrs. Lawrence McCall.

The scriptures were read by Mrs. Clifford Sutton, chairman. Each member answered roll call with verses of scripture or short prayers.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Sutton. It was announced the January meeting will be hosted by Mrs. Jake Bowers.

Mrs. Ona Foster assisted Mrs. Dalton in serving refreshments.

Mrs. Toq. Randslev was a guest.

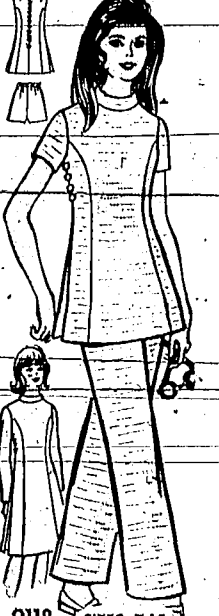

Holiday wreath

FEW GIFTS mean as much as those made by hand. This bright Sugar and Spice Wreath will make a perfect gift to take when dropping in on friends or relatives during the holidays. The inclusion of molasses in the dough helps keep the wreath fresh and moist for up to 10 days.

BYU students present program

SHOSHONE — A group of students from Brigham Young University presented a Christmas play "Santa's Workshop," at the Shoshone LDS Ward Christmas party this past week.

The event was held during the regular MIA meeting time.

The students presented the play at the Lincoln Elementary School the next morning.

Mr. and Mrs. David Rands, who are living in Provo and where he is to be graduated this year, were among the cast members. This is the fourth year for Rands to serve with the group.

The play was first written by Burton Thorne, MIA superintendent, conducted the meeting at the church, and announced a New Year's Eve party would be held Dec. 30 at the church.

Members welcomed at party

RICHFIELD — The Richfield Woman's Club Christmas observance was held this past week at the home of Mrs. Sadler Rider, with Mrs. Marvin Webb and Mrs. Eugene Alexander as hostesses.

Mrs. James Exon and Mrs. Robert Ford were welcomed as new members.

The club approved assisting with sponsorship of an electrical scoreboard for the Richfield school grounds, and voted to give $75 toward the cost of building one.

A Pollyanna Christmas gift exchange was held and the 88th birthday of Mrs. Rider was observed. Mrs. Dave Kennison, club president, presented her decorated birthday cake. Mrs. Exon received the club surprise package.

Special guests were Mrs. Rider's daughters, Mrs. Clox Morganreth, Elko; Mrs. Don Stone, Carlin, Nev.; and Mrs. Mae DeWitt, Richfield. Mrs. Roy Young was a Richfield guest.

Mrs. Carl Paulson, Mrs. Jody Parker and Mrs. Theo B. Brush served as committee for making the club's five dozen popcorn balls for community treats.

'The Messiah' set in Burley

BURLEY — Four featured sololists will perform during the second annual performance of "The Messiah" at 8 p.m. Monday at the Burley High School Auditorium.

The performance will be given by the Bel Canto Choir of Burley, and will feature Jan Peirson, Heyburn, soprano solo; Mrs. Leynor Smith, Ogden, Utah, alto; Terry McCombs, Rupert, tenor; and Clifford Jackson, Burley, bass. Mrs. Peirson was voted the "outstanding vocalist of the year" for two years at BYU. Mrs. Smith was a vocalist at Weber State College and has performed in several operas. McCombs is working for his masters at BYU, and is an instructor and vocal teacher. Jackson is the director of the area Singing K's.

Accompanying the choir will be Mrs. Lloyd Hamilton, Twin Falls; Ken Severe, Oakley, and Jean Graham, Burley. Eldon Wood, Burley, will conduct the 85 voice choir.

Gray marks from stirring utensils on glass-ceramic cookware are easy to remove. Use a fine-polishing cleansing powder with a damp cloth, paper towel or sponge. Rub gently.

Christmas stocking gifts to sew

Christmas stockings are a favorite gift-to-sew. They are quick and uncomplicated, they don't go out of style, they last practically forever, and they are always appreciated.

There's still plenty of time to stitch up a batch of felt stockings. And, in case you're tired of the stridently traditional approach, here are some ingenious new ideas from Necchi Sewing Machines of Italy, all designed to be made with the fancy embroidery stitches on your sewing machine, plus felt appliques, buttons, sequins and other whimsies.

Each stocking is made of two pieces of 12-inch-square felt, cut to a stocking shape about 7 inches along the foot and 12 inches from heel to boot top. Cut them good and wide, so they'll hold plenty.

Here are a few decorating suggestions for your basic stockings. Remember to do the fancy work before sewing the two sides together.

- Make gift boxes of small squares of colored felt, using your zigzag stitch to simulate the ribbons and secure the boxes.
- Write "Merry Christmas" with machine embroidery stitches; accent with felt balloons secured in the center by a decorative stitch. Use gold buttonhole thread for the balloon strings.
- Silver paper or aluminum foil backed with Pellon can be stitched just like fabric. Stitch each letter "Merry Christmas" on one of 14 stars, scatter over a blue felt stocking, and secure with a loose satin stitch.
- Why not a Christmas witch? Make one with a red cloak, attached to the stocking along the sides and left open along the bottom to stuff with tissue for fullness. Outline her face and shoes in straight stitching; give her gay Christmas boxes to balance.

- Show off your machine's talents with a stocking decorated entirely in row after row of fancy stitching in different colors and designs.

- Take a variation on the basic theme and make a lady's boot. Cut the felt to shape, applique a contrasting heel section, and add a high-button trim with real machine-made buttonholes and bright buttons.

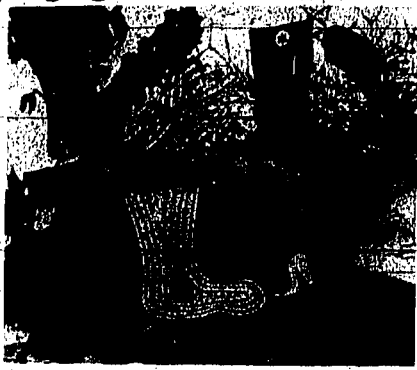

- Embroider green holly leaves with red berries on a white felt stocking; accent with a decorative outline stitch.

- Applique a snowman, complete with scarf, boots, cap and broom.

- Make a stylized Christmas tree of green felt branches, and a center trunk of stitched-on green braid.

If there's a new baby on your Christmas list, make his own special Christmas stocking as a present for his first Christmas. Newlyweds will appreciate a matched pair of stockings. They can decorate the tree or a Christmas wreath, and you could even stuff a stocking with kapok for a Christmas pillow.

Possibilities are endless—so pick up a supply of felt squares, some trimming materials, and turn on your imagination to stitch up the stockings.

Gift pleaser

DECORATIVE machine embroidery, bright felt squares, buttons and trimmings make these Christmas stockings. Copy them yourself for gifts and mantelpiece decorations. The stockings were designed by Necchi.

Toy drive

MALTA — The Office Education Association of Raft River High School is sponsoring a drive for usable used toys. Members have been visiting area homes this week collecting toys.

They will be donated to the Burley Elks Lodge for redistribution among needy children in the Raft River area.

'Christmas Now' cards featured

While most Christmas cards this year have traditional designs of holly, Santas, stagecoaches and Yule trees, others are radically different. Pollution, ecology and long-haired youth are among present-day themes featured in "Christmas Now," a new group of cards by Hallmark.

One shows Santa in a gas mask, soaring through smog clouds in his sleigh. Inside are the words: "Silent Night, Holy Night. All is Calm. And Viability Is Poor." Another shows Santa astride a motorcycle with extended front wheel.

Spending for Yule

(NEW YORK UPI)—Young women last Yule spent $18.3 million to wrap their presents, a survey by Seventeen magazine shows. For special wrapping paper the young women spent $12.9 million; for Christmas tape, $3.4 million.

Toy sales leveling off

NEW YORK (UPI)—The nation's toy sales have been in the billions since 1962, climbing steadily each year, but this year may see a leveling off.

Orders received by manufacturers in the first six months of 1971 totaled $1,331,300,000, the Toy Manufacturers of America, Inc. report. The figure is 1.2 percent below their sales from January through June last year.

The same leveling of sales held true for the first three quarters, about the same as last year "but certainly no increase," said a spokesman.

He blames what may end up as a "fractional decline" this year to conservative buying by mass merchandisers who were concerned about the state of the general economy.

He said final figures on 1971 would not be available before next February. The 1970 total for manufacturers was $2,259,000,000, a record.

In trends, the manufacturers report a strong increase in hobby craft items, crafts that produce wall plaques and decorative clothing, or hand work such as crewel or macrame.

Favorites for '71 are activity games which require some manual dexterity. Puzzles of all types are throughout the toy departments.

There's a whole new boom for the old favorite, the bicycle. And in smaller wheeled vehicles, most of them operated by pushing rather than riding. These include dune buggies, ATVs (all terrain vehicles), and "funny" cars with offset frames like a miniature telephone booth instead of the regular body.

A group of cars, planes and trucks operate by programming—small cards inserted in them cause them to travel in the direction the small owner wishes. The plane does not get airborne; it taxis around the floor.

Building toys take on new, abstract forms and come in a multitude of colors, the manufacturers say.

New this year is a collection of toys inspired by "Sesame Street." The include 38 products in all, developed by the Children's Television Network (CTW). There are Muppets, Walking Letters, Spell-A Phones, plus books and records.

The Chinese influence is evident this year in toyland. A Chinese-born chemist, Dr. Tien Liu, has developed a new modeling clay for Rainbow Crafts, Cincinnati, Ohio. It can be used to sculpt without using heat.

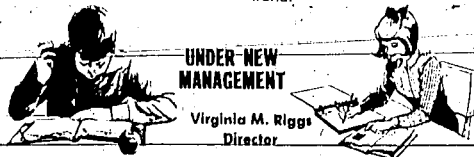

Dr. Liu also has dreamed up "Dream Drops," a color burst painting discovery for making professional looking silk screen posters. It also is for the Cincinnati firm.

The ancient Chinese game of "Go," an intricate strategy game newly named "Mikado," has been adapted by E. S. Lowe of Long Island City, New York.

WHAT IS THE BEST GIFT YOU CAN GIVE YOUR CHILD? A LOVE OF LEARNING

Many children find it hard to keep up with the fast pace of learning and get behind. Soon they are discouraged and lose all desire to even try to learn.

Woman sees snow for first time

SHOSHONE — Mrs. Myra O'Donnell, Geelong, Melbourne, Australia, is enjoying her visit with Mrs. Elmer I. Terry, Shoshone.

The two women have corresponded for a number of years after their children, Ronald Terry, Burley, and Pamela O'Donnell began writing as pen pals in 1948.

Mrs. O'Donnell said she has experienced a number of "firsts" during her visit here. Seeing snow, she thinks it is beautiful, and eating popcorn and pumpkin pie for the first time are among her new experiences.

She is also learning American names for many things common to her in Australia by another name.

As a result of an article that appeared in the Times-News last month, she is looking forward to seeing Mr. and Mrs. Edward Otton, formerly Wendell, and their children in Australia. The Ottons visited her in Shoshone to learn what

Christmas addenda presented

TWIN FALLS — A Christmas addenda was the highlight of the meeting this past week of Chapter No. 20, Order of Eastern Star.

The program was given by the associate matron, conductress, the associate conductress and the star points. Loren Nelson, worthy matron, and Paul Moseley, worthy patron, presided at the meeting. Pro tem officers were Elizabeth Usher, James Spriggs, Marian Jenkins and Edith Joines.

The Christmas decorations were by Maude Shotwell and Ruby Spriggs. Others on the committee were James Spriggs, Lucille Youth, LaVern Routh, Leba Riddle, Christina Petersen, Ora Sumner, Creath Wilkison, Wilma Wirsching, Irene Basom and Elson Basom.

The Merry Pet

Current Cues

Question: How dangerous is it to pet cats to have DeCon and strychnine wheat bait stations in basements and out buildings? The mice are arriving in large quantities out of the fields at this time of year. What can you recommend? Ordinary mouse traps can't handle the populations of field mice.

Answer: I recommend putting the cats to work. God built the better mousetrap a long time ago.

Poison bait is dangerous since animals can be killed both by eating the bait and by munching the mice it kills. DeCon is warfarin, a drug which kills by preventing clotting of blood. Repeated exposure to small amounts over several days sets an animal up for internal hemorrhage and death. Strychnine more often kills from a single dose by producing dramatic (and fatal) muscle spasms.

Question: We have a poodle about to have pups. She is a preferred bitch. Could you tell us just what that means and if her pups would be worth more? Also we would like to know how to go about registering the pups when they get here as we are new in the business.

Answer: I wish I knew. After you ask the man who sold her to you, will you please tell me?

I've asked a number of professional breeders what the term "preferred" may mean and here are a few suggestions:

1. "Preferred color" in poodles means a clear, strong hair color from tip to base of hair and throughout coat. For example, an apricot color should be clear, not shaded with white, and the nose, eye rims, pads, and other areas should be a good dark black.
2. A dog which has shown well before and is being shown in another class may be the "one preferred" to win this match.
3. The "pick of the litter" might be called either the preferred birth or male.

Regardless, the value of a pup depends first on its individual characteristics, second on its lineage, and somewhat on its breed.

To register the pups the litter must first be registered. Write the American Kennel Club to request a litter registration blank.

I also think you might find it interesting and useful to write for the pamphlet "AKC - Rules Applying to Registration and Dog Shows", 51 Madison, New York, New York, 10010.

If you have a question about your pet, write The Merry Pet column, care of the Times-News.

HELEN WALKER
TWIN FALLS — Deck your home inside and out with bows of holly, laurel, mistletoe and evergreens.

Make your whole house a Christmas card — your lawn and home, windows, roof, porch and doorway are a broad canvas upon which you can paint a Christmas picture. In light and color: Christmas lights are available in a wide array — from colored snow-ball bulbs to twinkling lights to the familiar flame-shaped sets.

Let the whole family pitch in with ideas — and work too; just keep the plans simple for best results and lots of fun.

Bare branches of trees or shrubs take on a lacy Christmas look when decorated with lights. How many lights? A rule-of-thumb suggests a 25 light set for every 5 feet of tree height above ten feet off the ground. Use white or a single color for the best effect. For lighting an evergreen tree multiply the height of the tree by the width. Double this number and you'll have the approximate bulb count. If you plan to use midgelet bulbs, use twice as many.

Floodlighting your outdoor display not only provides special effects, but most Christmas lighting looks better with some floodlighting. When you floodlight evergreens, avoid warm colors, such as red, yellow or orange (they make the foliage look brown). Use cool colors such as blue, green or white, to intensify the green foliage. When you floodlight bare branch trees, light from below is most effective. By now you have probably picked out your tree for indoor decorating. In case you haven't, it makes little difference whether you prefer a spruce, fir or pine. Select one that is full, symmetrical and of pleasing color. Tap the tree on the ground a few times — if the needles fall, the tree is dry. Pines hold their needles best.

Whatever kind you buy, saw an inch off the butt diagonally and store the tree in a cool, shady place outdoors. Keep it in water before and after you take it into the house. Do not locate your tree near a heat source or fireplace. Do not leave the tree lights burning when no one is at home. A good idea is to use an automatic timer for the lights — they will turn on and off automatically. Better quality lights carry the UL (Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.) label.

Your home, shining with colorful jewel like Christmas lights decked with greenery and sparkling Christmas accessories, the spicy aroma of holiday baking, will be a joy and inspiration to every visitor and will make the Yuletide season gay, and more delightful for your own family and friends.

Deserves special treatment

Keep it fresh

TWIN FALLS — The Christmas tree, focal point in household holiday decorations, deserves a little special treatment to keep it green, fresh and fragrant and to prevent it from becoming a fire hazard.

A plant supplement, micronized iron, is effective in preserving the freshness of evergreen arrangements.

Light corn syrup, household chlorinated bleach, and hot water make up the rest of the mixture. Trees kept in this liquid preservative retain their fragrance and freshness for days.

Each ingredient serves a particular purpose. The micronized iron makes the nutrients stored in the tree available to it after cutting. The corn syrup gives quick nourishment and the bleach helps prevent the growth of algae. Hot water replaces lost moisture and carries the mixture to all parts of the tree.

To start with, a tree as recently cut as possible should be selected. The end of the trunk should be sawed off at least an inch above the original cut. A diagonal cut should be made if possible.

If it is necessary to store the tree, stand in water in a cool place until it is ready to place in the holder. Place the tree and secure it in a base which holds a generous amount of water.

The formula for the preservative mixture is one fourth cup micronized iron, two cups light corn syrup, four teaspoons household liquid chlorinated bleach and one gallon hot water.

Pour or ladle the hot mixture into the tree holder, saving the portion not used to be added as the mixture evaporates.

Check the tree daily to make sure there is enough preservative to cover the base of the tree. Add the mixture as needed and use warm water after supply of the formula is used.

This will help to insure that your tree will remain bright and green to better show off all the bright decorations placed on it. It also will help to eliminate a potential fire hazard which has marred many families' holiday happiness.

If your tree is already decorated, it's still not too late to start "feeding" it to keep it fresh.

The Christmas tree, like the Christmas turkey, provides half the enjoyment by the aroma. Very dry trees give off little aroma, but if fed with the special mixture, the tree should remain fragrant until it is taken down.

The cleanup problem of a Christmas tree, too, can be given a helping hand by using the mixture. Fewer of the pine needles, which manage to stick in the carpet from one Christmas to the next, will fall off when the tree is taken down.

The mixture can be used effectively in other evergreen decorations if they can be created to include a dish, can or other base to hold the preservative.

Micronized iron, by itself, is an effective food for household plants and has long been used by florists and home owners.

All about Santa

The legend of Santa Claus, his reindeer and his chimney-climbing habits has ancient origins, according to researcher Sally Hopkins of Hallmark Cards.

St. Nicholas, a kindly bishop in Asia Minor during the A. D. 300s, was adopted as the patron saint of children and the spirit of Christmas by the people of Holland. His name in Dutch was Sinter Nikolaas, which was later pronounced Santa Claus in the U. S. The belief that Santa rides a reindeer-drawn sleigh and enters houses through the chimney comes from Scandinavia.

Hundreds of organs built to provide accompaniment to silent films remain playable.

DEAR ABBY: I have a sister in law who is a terrible show-off. My husband, and his friends and relatives think she's real smart.

She stops doing housework to listen to the news or debates on politics on the radio or TV. Then she reads a lot of newspapers, magazines and books. Believe me, her house looks like it. I am a much better cook and housekeeper than she is.

She is always showing off how much she knows about politics and the happenings of the day. Men seem to enjoy listening to her views. They think she's a real "brain." I say she's a show-off. I would like your opinion. Sign me.

BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: The prescribed "treatment" for your kind of "burn" is obvious. Why don't you start reading and listening so that you, too, will be informed on politics and the happenings of the day? You need not compete, but you can contribute.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend is 18 and I am the same age. We plan to get married next June, after which Albert is going to learn how to fly. (He wants to be a commercial airline pilot.)

Albert went to my father to ask him for my hand in marriage, and they had a long talk in which Albert told my father he was a virgin. My father said he thought that was very commendable, but he didn't want him practicing on me!

I never knew a man had to have special training to be a proper husband. I would like your opinion.

DEAR OLD-FASHIONED: I think if Albert just does what comes naturally until the automatic pilot takes over, he'll make out all right.

DEAR ABBY: My brother in law, Glen, is 30 years old. He has been living with Marcle, a very beautiful 21-year-old girl, for the past two years. Glen was married, has a child, and his divorce became final a year ago. Marcle doesn't know his divorce came thru and Glen isn't telling her because he promised her he would marry her when he was free.

Glen has told my husband and others that he will never marry Marcle. Meanwhile Glen has been running around on Marcle behind her back. He uses my house as an excuse as to where he's been. Abby, Marcle loves him and trusts him, but I think she ought to be told what kind of a rat she's mixed up with. My husband says I should keep my mouth shut.

It seems that men think this sort of thing is O. K. because if a girl is dumb enough to live with a guy without marriage she deserves whatever she gets. I would like your opinion.

ON MARCLE'S SIDE

DEAR ON: When a girl agrees to live with a man without marriage, she takes her chances. Marcle took hers. Glen is a rat, for sure, but I still wouldn't "rat" on him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CURIOUS IN BALTIMORE": Yes, I received nearly 1,000 responses AFTER I reported the results of the "vote." But the "Don't Go's" continued to outnumber the "Go's"—nearly two to one. And you are correct, the majority of the "Don't Go's" were from women.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 29704, Los Angeles, Cal. 90060. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Place An Ad For A Wife

"Wife: A person who sits up with you when you are sick, and puts up with you when you are not."

When that Swedish gentleman Erik Eriksson advertised in Turkish newspapers for a prospective wife, more than 3,000 girls sent him photos. Gorgeous, some of them like the Hadlowen had with the bag of candy, he knew what to do, but he didn't know where to start. Anyhow, a study of his correspondence indicates a sizable number of Turkish women do not want to marry Turkish men. Eriksson's shocked, he says, that the easiest place in the world to find an attractive, eager, obedient and hard-working wife is through the classified ad pages of Middle East periodicals.

Then he led a trump but the hand was gone. He could not draw trumps and had to play his ace of hearts and ruff his last club in dummy. This gave West a chance to shed his last heart. Now when South led the heart queen, East ducked; South discarded his diamond, but West ruffed for the setting trick.

The bidding has been: West, North, East, South. Pass, 1, Pass, 2.

You, South, hold: A Q W K G A Q 10 R S K 10 9. What do you do now?

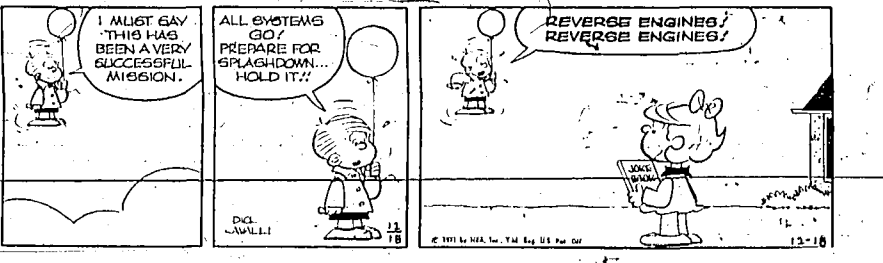

Answer Monday

By Oswald & James Jacoby South's two-club opening was artificial and forcing. North's two-heart response was the JACOBY MODERN artificial response, and showed 4-6 high-card points. With 0-6 he would respond two diamonds; 7-9 two spades; 10-12 two no-trump and 13 or more three clubs.

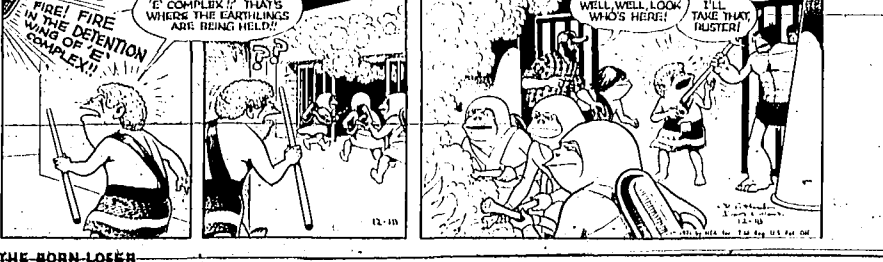

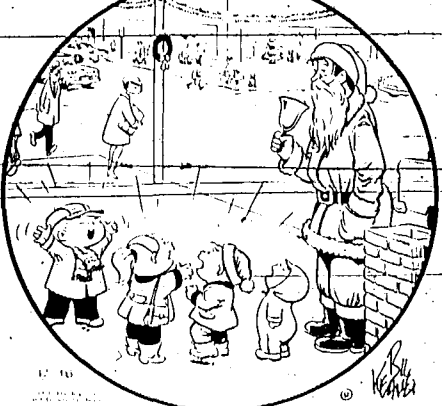

South might have settled for game, but after North showed spade support South decided to take the bull by the horns and jumped to six spades. As you can see the hand is cold because East holds the king of hearts. This represents a 50% chance so the slam is a good one and all South had to do to make it was to win the club lead; play his ace of trumps; continue with the ace of hearts; ruff East's king; whenever he plays it; concede a club trick and eventually ruff a club and discard his last

By Mary Sue Miller

A Lovely writes: My eyelids often become puffy. Why—should this be? I am in my twenties and my health is excellent. Is there a cosmetic that would minimize the puffy look?

The Answer: When a young woman has no basic health problem, puffiness around the eyes is usually a localized condition. An allergy or dermatitis may be at the root of the trouble. It can also be triggered by the need for glasses or corrected lenses. A visit to the ophthalmologist is therefore a wise move when swelling occurs with frequency.

An occasional swelling of the lids may be caused by "simple" eye fatigue. The lids puff from glare, close work and lack of sleep. An evening spent in a smoky, crowded night spot might well bring about morning-after puffiness.

And there's where a few simple cosmetic measures would prove safe and effective. First off, remove any eye makeup, before treatment and before retiring, with a hypo-allergenic product made for the purpose. To reduce swelling, apply cold water compresses—3 minutes on, 3-off and 3-on—3 minutes in all. The full effect comes about 15 minutes after the treatment. A bit more sophisticated, several brands of prepared compresses are available at cosmetic counters.

The puffy look is minimized by firming the lids with brown eyeshadow and the under-eye areas with a stick cover-up. Too, it may help to avoid heavy coats of skin cream around the eyes. A little goes far on puff-prone eyes. Better to use an eye cream.

THE EYES OF YOUTH

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness, or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions. Methods are detailed in my leaflet, THE EYES OF YOUTH. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Money Box

By Frank Schell

Question from C.W.T., Burley, Idaho: Perhaps this is slightly out of your department. I have a penny postal card uncanceled. I understand collectors are bidding up to $50. for these items. Can you say where?

Answer: You are, indeed, out of this department. I cannot even give you a lead on this item. I would suppose, however, that if that amount is being offered, it is for a particular card, rather than just any penny postal card. Maybe some of our readers may know the answer to your question—if so, please write this column and we will forward the information to this gentleman.

From A.M.T., Jerome, Idaho: I have a merchandise token—don't know how old it is. It is on an Eden pool hall owned by Jay W. Blevins, $1 in trade.

Answer: Your token is not uncommon—we have seen them in 25 cent, $1 and $5 denominations. Blevins is still in Eden and I believe used the tokens in the 1930's. The value of this token at the present time to a collector is about 75 cents, depending upon the condition.

From W. G., Twin Falls, Idaho: I shall appreciate it if you can tell me something about the following coins: Copper, 1855, Cinq centimes. One side: Emperor Napoleon III—other side, eagle. Silver, 1913, Drei Mark, 100-year anniversary of war of 1870-1871 against Napoleon. One side: Eagle holding snake in its claws. Other side, King on horse surrounded by men, women and child.

Written above: Der König rief und alle, alle kamen. (The king called and everyone came.)
Written below: Mit Gott für König und Vaterland. (With God for king and fatherland.)
17. III. 1813
Silver, 1925, 3 coins: Drei Mark (Three Mark), 1 coin Fünf Mark (Five Mark). Inscription Tausend Jahre Rheinland. One German mark, made of china (brown) in memory of Martin Luther. One side his face and name. Other side: Eisenach 1821-1921, with cross in center.
Three Indian pennies, 1892, 1893, 1904.

Answer: Thanks for the excellent description and the translation. The first coin you describe, that of Napoleon the III, is very common—worth about 35 cents in Extremely Fine condition.

Your second coin (three marks, silver) was issued under Wilhelm II. Current collector price for this item in Extremely Fine condition is $1.50.

The three-mark coins, dated 1925, sell for $3, while the 1925 Five mark is currently going for $10. All these prices are for coins in extremely Fine condition.

The porcelain coinage was specially struck, and there are a lot of varieties of this coinage—as a general rule they bring an average of $3 each. They were not state issues—therefore they were not legal tender and constitute more of a token, than a coin, since coins must be struck and backed by a government. Your three Indian pennies (cents) are fairly common dates. The 1892 brings from 15 cents to 80 cents, depending upon condition; the 1893, 15 cents to 40 cents and the 1904, 10 cents to 50 cents. Uncirculated coins are worth about three times this value.

(Questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, c/o The Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.)

Couple recites VOWS

FILED—Allee Pauletta Patterson and John Leo Basquez were married in rites at the Church of the Brethren, Twin Falls. Rev. Henry Gerhard performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a street-length gown of off-white polyester knit which she had fashioned herself. Her necklace was a single strand of pearls which had belonged to her grandmother, and was worn by her mother at her wedding. A corsage of carnations accented with blue and green enhanced her gown.

Mrs. Stanley Melton, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Stanley Melton, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man.

Mrs. Loren Holloway, sister of the bride, played several accordion selections and sang "Whither Thou Goest."

The couple was honored at a reception at the Patterson home Dec. 5.

The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth over blue and centered by the three-tiered wedding cake which was trimmed in blue and green and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom under an arch of wedding bells. The cake, baked by Mrs. Herbert Thieme, was flanked by blue tapers in antique crystal holders.

Mrs. Melton and Mrs. Holloway served as hostesses. Mrs. Susan Eakin, sister of the bridegroom, arranged the gifts.

Mrs. and Mrs. Patterson were presented a decorated cake and a ring and the bar bearing the birthstones of their daughters as a surprise 30th Anniversary celebration at the reception. Their daughters are Mrs. (Helen) Melton, Mrs. (Pauletta) Basquez, Mrs. (Joan) Holloway, Mrs. Michael (Janet) Partin, Seattle, and Kathy Patterson, Logan, Utah.

The bride is a graduate of Filer High School and Northwest Nazarene College. She is presently enrolled at GSI for additional credits. The bridegroom attended schools in California and Hagerman and served with the Marine Corps in Vietnam. He is employed by Norman Walker, Wendell. The couple will reside in Twin Falls.

a Merry Christmas from your Milkman

GREETINGS

May the celebration of His Day bring peace to the hearts of people everywhere. Our sincere wishes to you and yours for the Merriest Christmas ever. Grateful thanks for your loyalty and confidence.

DEAR POLLY—I use a large Parmesan cheese can for a flour sifter, and do not waste so much when flouring food.—GEORGANE

DEAR POLLY—When I macramo such things as belts, I find it easier when I take the long strands of jute, yarn, etc., and wrap them around my hand several times till a fifth is reached that is easy to work with. Secure this with a rubber band to keep the material from tangling so badly. When more is needed, just pull the long string you are working with from the bundle.—DEBBIE Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—When babys stops drinking from a bottle, use leftover plastic filler bags for storing jewelry. Your jewelry box stays much neater, and any piece can be easily found.—ESTELL

DEAR POLLY—Instead of covering the addresses on packages to be mailed with clear plastic tape I spray over the name and address with clear plastic spray. It is indelible and less expensive.—MRS. A. G. G.

DEAR POLLY—Quite by accident, I discovered the best bags I have ever used for straining juice for jelly. Having nothing else on hand, I used two thicknesses of white nylon net to make a jellysack that really strains the juice, washes out clean and can be used all season.—IRENE

DEAR POLLY—The pans hung on hooks inside the door of a kitchen cabinet used to make so much noise every time I opened or closed the door that I nailed a small strip of foam rubber across the door at the point where the pans hit. This certainly lessens the noise.—VERABLE

DEAR POLLY—To make wonderful pillow covers to use while traveling, I use the lightweight terry towels the size of bed pillows, and saw two sides and one end together. Sew a zipper in the other end.—MRS. H. E. M.

DEAR POLLY—An old percolator with a coffee basket makes a neat-looking grease strainer and container to keep on the stove.—JERRY

DEAR POLLY—To get my oven racks really clean, and with little work, I soak them overnight in a tub of hot water with laundry detergent added. Sometimes I add baking-soda, too. The next day, a gentle wipe with a sponge or piece of nylon net gets them spanking clean.—RUTH

DEAR POLLY—To hide my roll-away bed, I made a three-sided cover of two-by-twos, plywood and a plywood top. The exterior is of leftover maple paneling put on horizontally, and I added six large wooden drawer pulls, varnished match. Casters make it roll easily. When slipped over the bed, it looks like a chest of drawers.—PENNY

FOR EILEEN FULTON, star of "As the World Turns"
Since you play the wicked role of Lisa on the country's top TV soap opera, do viewers ever get angry with you when they meet you in real life?—William Jackson, Dothan, Ala.

● Do they! I've been struck in the face, hit over the head and chased after with a torrent of blasphemous remarks. One afternoon a woman approached me as I was leaving a department store in New York and said, "Are you Lisa?" I smiled and said, "Yes, that's the role I play." Before I knew what was happening she cracked me over the head with her umbrella. Another time when I was singing in Chicago, a woman sitting with her husband suddenly hit him on the arm and said, "See? I told you she's no good! Here she is singing in a night club, and she's supposed to be happily married to John Eldridge." (Lisa was married to him at that time.) In fact, there was a period of three or four months, when I was playing a particularly nasty Lisa, that I received so many notes threatening to take my life that CBS had to hire a bodyguard to protect me.

FOR JAMES M. ROCHE,

Chairman of the Board, General Motors Corporation

When General Motors issues a "recall of thousands of cars" for corrections, how many usually come in for adjustment?—Harry L. Ross, Atlantic City, N.J.

● About eight percent of the newer model cars that are recalled actually are brought in by their owners for adjustment. If cars are four or five years old, when they're recalled, many have changed hands, and the owners are unreachable.

FOR GOVERNOR RONALD REAGAN

Is it true that you and Mrs. Reagan do not fly in the same plane together?—D. Schwartz, Claremont, Calif.

● My wife and I do not fly together unless our two children, Patricia and Ronald, accompany us.

FOR GALE SAYERS, Chicago Bears halfback

What has been the most successful exercise or drill to improve your unique moves on the field?—Rick Hillerman, Council Bluffs, Iowa

● There are no exercises or drills that can develop moves for a runner in football. This ability is inherent in an athlete, and I am fortunate that I was blessed with it.

FOR JOHN V. LINDSAY, Mayor of New York City

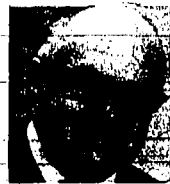

In January, 1971, you said it was not viable to run for President as a Democrat because you were an enrolled Republican. Since you have changed parties, how do you feel now?—F. McDermott, Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

● I am determined to play a role in the nation in 1972, but I have not defined yet what that role will be. I may run in the Democratic primaries, if I conclude that would be the most effective way to get my message across.

FOR SHELLEY WINTERS, actress

I am surprised when I see good actors and actresses on mediocre made-for-TV movies. How do you feel about them?—Mrs. R. M. Peters, Sacramento, Calif.

● I think they're important, not only because they give so many members of our industry who are out of work a job, but because they offer viewers about the only drama they are likely to see on television.

FOR OSCAR HANDLIN, historian at Harvard University

Who was the first President's daughter to be married in the White House? How many have been married there?—Mrs. A. Rohrs, Tallahassee, Fla.

● Maria Monroe was the first President's daughter to be married in the White House in 1820. There have been eight married in the White House since then.

FOR RONALD ZIEGLER, Presidential Press Secretary

What sort of work did the President do to earn spending money as a boy?—R. L. Hunt, Dover, Del.

● He sometimes picked citrus fruit or sold magazine subscriptions door to door to earn spending money as a boy in Whittier.

FOR JOHN SACK, coauthor of "Lt. Calley: His Own Story"

I read that Lt. Calley and you received a $100,000 advance on your book. Don't you find it disgusting that Calley will be financially comfortable because of his participation in the My Lai massacre?—L. D. Rogers, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● Lt. Calley will not be made financially comfortable by his share of the royalties. Most of the money he received will be paid to lawyers who worked for his defense.

FOR LOWELL THOMAS, author, adventurer

In this column, you said that the most fascinating place in the world is Tibet. Don't you know that Tibet is actually a part of China?—T. L. Choi, San Luis Obispo, Calif.

● When my son (Alaskan Sen. Lowell Thomas, Jr.) and I visited Lhasa in 1949, Tibet was an independent country. A few months later it was over-run by Mao Tse Tung's army. While the Tibetans are of Mongolian origin, they are no more like the Chinese than the Swedes are like the French. Their language is different, and they have their own culture. They are a great people and should be permitted to govern their own country.

This Special Deluxe Limited Edition Not Available in Stores!

SPECTACULAR MEMORIAL ALBUM OFFER through special arrangement with MGM Merchandising Corp.

48 All-Time Sensational Hits on 4 Deluxe 12-Inch LP Records

ENJOY THEM FOR 10 DAYS FREE!

Hank Williams died in 1953; he was only 30 years old. He had not even reached the peak of his career, yet he was recognized as "the king of country and western music." His death was a tragedy. It meant that America had lost one of its greatest artists, for Hank Williams had brought joy and pleasure to millions... had truly interpreted "country and western music" so greatly that his influence is evident in many country and western artists popular today.

In memory of this unsurpassed artist, here is a wonderful Memorial Album, produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, for whom Hank Williams recorded exclusively. Hear Hank Williams sing—as only he could—such haunting hits as Cold, Cold Heart... Your Cheatin' Heart... Move It On Over... Hey, Good Lookin'... Jambalaya... Honky Tonkin... Howdy At The Moon... Lonesome Whistle... You're Gonna Change (Or I'm Gonna Leave)... A House Without Love... and dozens more! Truly a fitting memorial to Hank Williams are these four 12-inch LP records containing 48 hits! Faithfully reproducing every note and nuance of his honey, haunting delivery, these records will thrill and delight you as only Hank Williams' voice and music can. And best of all, you can hear these records in your own home for 10 days FREE! You can sit in the comfort of your own living room while you listen to the hit songs previously mentioned... plus I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry... There'll Be No Tears This Time... Rosie... Swingin' Pines... and still more—most of which were Hank's own compositions. Yes, play these fabulous records in your own home over and over, to your heart's content! Then, if for any reason you decide you don't want to keep them, return them in 10 days and owe nothing. BY THE LENNON SISTERS, television stars
"Big Chief's Last Christmas"

The Christmas we all remember most vividly was the Christmas of 1968. It was the last Christmas that Daddy was with us.

In our family, we've always awaited Christmas Eve with great anticipation—for that's when we open our presents. When it came in 1968, we gathered around the brilliant lights of the Christmas tree for a dinner of 28 people. The group consisted of Mother and Daddy, our seven brothers and sisters, the husbands, wives and children.

Daddy was the big chief, and he carved the tremendous turkey. All the time he was cutting the bird, he was joking and laughing, especially with the little ones who had one eye on Daddy and the other on the presents stacked under the tree.

After dinner, the presents were given out. Daddy was Santa Claus without a beard. Again, it was fun because he made it a game. He would look at one of the children and say, "This is for..." then he'd give the present to someone else. He made giving and receiving an extra-special joy. Afterward, we all went to Church.

Christmas Day was very informal. In the morning, we found our Christmas stockings filled, and we knew Santa Claus had been on the scene. All through the day, 78 Lençons, all of whom lived in the vicinity of our house, dropped in to share the warmth of the holiday. Daddy kept remarking what a treat it was for us to all share the beautiful holidays together. He recalled the years when we had very little to give one another—when he and Mother scrimped and saved to give us each two dollars to buy gifts.

That was Daddy's last Christmas. As you may remember reading in the papers, in 1969 he was murdered by a deranged man. This year, brother Don will be carving the turkey and handing out the presents. We will be together as a group, we will share the love and spirit of the holiday and we will be happy. We know that Daddy is at peace—but he will also be with us, and the Lennon will continue to remain a complete family.

Christmas"—Six Great Days Relived

Collected by Martin Abramson

It has been said that every Christmas is the same. Yet most people have experienced one particular Christmas that stood out from all the rest. Here, exclusively for Family Weekly, a number of prominent Americans recall "that one special Christmas" that had an unusual impact on their lives.

BY LUCI JOHNSON NUGENT
"It Was a Day of Firsts and Lasts"

My most memorable Christmas was the Christmas of 1968. It was a Christmas filled with firsts and lasts. Such situations make a holiday memorable no matter whether the memories are of a good or bad nature.

It was the first Christmas that my small son of 18 months could open his presents and squeal with delight. It was also the first Christmas he had spent without his father, who was then serving in Vietnam. It was also the first Christmas that my sister's child had experienced—and her father was in Vietnam, too. It was the first Christmas that we had Mass served in the White House, and my whole family attended, even though they are Protestant. It was the first Christmas that my husband had ever spent away from his family, and yet he was fortunate to spend it with his brother-in-law. It was the first Christmas that all of us at the White House had hung up stockings by the chimney. It was also the last Christmas that I would spend in the hallowed halls of America's first house and the last Christmas that I would get to hug the truly magnificent people who take care of the President and his family.

Though it was inevitable that this Christmas would not be as joyous as many others—with Patrick and Chuck in Vietnam—I found myself unbelievably in love with life. When I dropped into church after shopping all day a few days before Christmas, I sat almost in complete solitude and took a few moments out to think. I realized then that I could be just as happy that Christmas as I chose to be. The firsts in my life took on the magic that a great first experience can have, and my lasts were either beginnings of a new chapter or the end of a fortunate experience in life.

BY PAT NIXON
"A Family Christmas in the White House"

Christmas for us is traditionally a family time—a sentimental time—each year bringing new joys to add to our memories of Christmas past.

Our first Christmas at the White House, in December of 1969, will always hold a special place in our personal family reflections. While preparing the tree and decorations of this residence, a particularly poignant aura of history seemed present in each room. Although much political history has been made behind the White House's doors, it is often forgotten that the mansion has been a home for many families over the past 170 years. Families like ours, which have felt the unique blend of yuletide nostalgia and historical perspective.

We found most rewarding the opportunity to share with others the pride and sentiment of this historical atmosphere. Children of foreign diplomats filled the halls with laughter and excitement. Members of Congress, the Cabinet, White House staff and their families enjoyed the spirit of the season at White House worship services. And thousands of Americans passed through the state rooms enhanced by the soft glow of candlelight.

Surrounded by reminders of American tradition, our family will always remember our first White House Christmas because we shared it with so many.

BY MRS. BING CROSBY
"My Turning Point Was at Sacre Coeur"

I looked forward from years of warm Christmases in West Columbia, Texas, with Aunt Frances and Uncle Leon driving in from the valley like a pair of Santa Clauses, with my brother and sister and the cousins and aunts and uncles from Louisiana and the Gulf Coast of Texas—all meeting at our big house where mother and the aunts were preparing our big Christmas Eve dinner.

I look back from a series of Crosby Christmases—the wonderful ones when the boys and their wives and young children joined us for dinner after Christmas Day Mass at Bing's big house in Holmby Hills, where Bing's mother was the queen of the household.

The Christmas that brought these two different kinds of family scenes together in my mind was one that happened to me in 1955. I was on a USO tour of France and Germany and visited 21 camps in 20 days. We saw a lot of homesick soldiers there, and the fact that we could bring them a little cheer made up for the fact that this was one of the few Christmases of my life when I was without my family.

On Christmas Day I found my way to Sacre Coeur, the beautiful white church in Paris. I heard the music, looked at the nativity scene and felt that baby Jesus—all over the world for all of us—and that we are all members of God's family.

"Guess Who's Coming to Dinner?"

Soon after my wife Marvella and I were married, we began a tradition of hosting her parents and mine at Christmas dinner. We would remain home in Terre Haute, Ind., and welcome my folks from Washington and Marvella's from Oklahoma.

In 1955, however, we informed both our families that for this Christmas dinner, we would only be able to accommodate one guest. We advised the families in Washington and Oklahoma to wait for word of the guest's arrival.

Christmas dinner came and went and with the holiday nearly over, our eagerly awaited guest still had failed to put in an appearance. At 11 o'clock, however, my wife informed me that she had received certain signs indicating the guest was ready to arrive. I got out the car and escorted her to the hospital. As we entered the hospital, I noticed that the time was 15 minutes before midnight. Our Christmas day had not yet ended.

Our son Evan, born that night, was not the man who came to dinner—but almost.

"My Favorite Christmas"

BY GUY LOMBARDO, orchestra leader
"The Day I 'Made It' in My Parents' Eyes"

My love of music was inherited from my father, Guy Lombardo, Sr., who worked as a custom tailor in London, Ontario, but was an accomplished amateur musician. He gave me my first violin at Christmas and gave musical presents at one Christmas or another to all my four brothers and two sisters. He never anticipated, however, that we would try to make a career in music. In fact, he had misgivings when I organized some of my brothers into a traveling band.

"No matter where you go on the road, you must remember that this is your home, and it will always be here when you're ready to come back," he told us. He also cautioned us never to take a professional engagement on Christmas—that was the day for family reunion.

We traveled for countless miles during the next 20 years and always returned to Canada at Christmas time for our private family observance. Although we became increasingly successful, Dad still thought of us as "temporaries" in the insecure music business.

At long last, I decided it was time to end this pattern. I bought a big home in Old Greenwich, Conn., and informed my parents that we couldn't get back to Canada for Christmas that year. Instead, they were to join us in Connecticut. As soon as they left Canada, I had a moving van pull up to the house and take all their belongings. The moving van arrived shortly after they did, and it was then that they realized that this wasn't another rented house.

"This is our permanent home—and yours, too," I told my folks. "Please understand that we've really achieved success and that we want you to enjoy it with us."

All seven Lombardo children and their families then gathered in the huge parlor, and we struck up the band. We were not playing for the public that night but for our own enjoyment. As we sang the Christmas carols, Dad's voice was louder than all the rest. When it was time to sit down to dinner, Dad said he'd like to sing a special song commemorating this first Lombardo family Christmas in the U.S.—the song he sang to the accompaniment of Lombardo's Royal Canadians—was "God Bless America."

Every Family Needs This Hospital Protection—Now, Every Family Can Easily Afford It!

This plan pays so much and the $1 offer is so good, you probably have some questions—or even some doubts. We've put all the answers (including the minor limitations) down right here in black and white for Family Weekly readers so you won't miss the Enrollment Deadline for the Extra Cash/Plus Hospital Income Plan. Ordinary hospitalization insurance alone just is not enough now when your family is hit with a hospital stay. Especially with the bigger bills at home. It takes a hospital income plan that pays enough extra money—or you could end up draining your savings. Low Cost Extra Cash/Plus is the answer, your Safest Answer. Pays more because it covers more. Helps out for both sickness and accident, the burdensome costs of Intensive Care and convalescent facility. Yes, even prepares for further initiation.

Now for only $1—with no health questions asked and regardless of your age, or size of your family, you get your first month's protection for all eligible family members.

Your policy will be issued to you on your application with no age limit for adults. No physical. No medical questionnaires, without the usual insurance investigations... without any red tape whatsoever... and no salesman will call!

All of your unmarried dependent children may be included under this plan between the ages of 1 month and 19 years. Both you and your wife if neither has ever hospitalized for sickness for more than a total of seven days in the past two years—are eligible for coverage. There are no other qualifications! The few customary exclusions which help keep your premiums low are described in question and answer (Number 17) at right.

All this and more, plus, Question N-DF Life keeps costs down with no red tape and because many people are enrolled at one time through the U.S. Marine Benefit the 1st month ($1 only) you can continue your Extra Cash/Plus protection at those very LOW MONTHLY RATES:

SPORTS MINI-PROFILE/RICHARD PETTY

King of Stock Cars: "We've Spent Three Million Dollars to Earn One Million"

Richard Petty in 1971 had the most rewarding season of any driver in the history of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR). "King Richard" earned well over $200,000 during the year and became the first NASCAR driver to surpass the million-dollar mark in career winnings... Says Petty, "If you race long enough, you'll reach certain milestones, like winning a million dollars. But setting a record for the most money in one year is more important; it means you've had the best year anybody ever had"... At 34, Petty, whose curly, jet-black hair and light blue Plymouth No. 43 are well known to Southern stock-car fans, has come a long way since he grew up in a trailer in Level Cross, N.C. He still lives in Level Cross with his wife Lynda, their son Kyle, 11, and daughter Sharon, 10, but now they live on 22 acres of property. Richard was introduced to racing by his father, Lee, one of the early giants of the stock-car circuit. "When I was 18, I told him I wanted to race," Richard recalls. "He told me to wait until I was 21. When I was 21, I asked again. Without looking up, he said, "Okay, there's an old convertible over there. Get it ready." When Richard's winnings passed the million-dollar mark, he remarked, "We've spent three million dollars to make our cars good enough to win one million. When asked how far he wants to go in racing, Richard says, "I'm there." —By Larry Bortstein

THE DOCTOR LETS YOU IN

A Child's Bite—More Dangerous Than a Dog's?

What's the most dangerous kind of bite? Snake? Maybe. Dog? Barely. The one that is always severe (mothers of young children, take note!) is the human bite.

The human mouth carries vast numbers of germs which can be extremely dangerous in a closed-off wound. Among the bacteria known to thrive in the mouth are staph, strep, gangrene, tetanus, even rabies and gonococcus.

What to do? Immediately and thoroughly wash your wounds under a stream of hot water with plenty of soap. Do this for 10 minutes. Then apply hydrogen peroxide. Don't use colored agents such as mercurochrome or methylene; they obscure the wound so the doctor is less sure of what he's looking at. Then go at once to your doctor or an emergency room for antibiotics and a tetanus toxoid shot. The doctor will want you to follow up with several visits to make sure no complications occur. —By John J. Secondi, M.D.

THE DIET WATCH Turn Your

Anger to Advantage

Mad at somebody? Dieters should cool off, simmer down before calling. A dieter who is furious at his boss, for instance, often turns the repressed hostility on himself and vengefully stuffs himself with food. So do dieting daughters mad at their mothers and husbands and wives mad at each other. "More chocolate cream pies have been eaten out of angry resentment than out of pure pleasure," says one doctor. How to get rid of the hostility? Exercise is one outlet for the adrenaline. You'll then eat more sanely, and you'll have had exercise that has worked off some calories, toned your muscles, reduced your measurements. It's almost worth getting mad at somebody!

PEOPLE AND YOU

Neighborhood Love: A Wintry Blessing?

As winter arrives and sets in, you can expect your neighbors' attitude toward you to change. Though you might think that summer weather, which draws people outdoors, would encourage more neighborhood socializing, a recent University of Toronto study reveals it's not so. In June the suburban families studied reported that most of their friends and socializing occurred outside their neighborhood. In February the same group had reported that most of their friends lived inside the neighborhood. Even the number of people "you know and say hello to" in your neighborhood drops in warm weather and rises in winter. Therefore, as February approaches, you can depend on your neighbors noticing and appreciating you more. Now, doesn't that make you look forward to winter?

JOBMANSHIP

Allbi Joe: How Understanding Him Can Save You Grief

"Nobody told me it was due today," "Sales should have known it couldn't be done," "Engineering didn't send up enough facts." These words might have come from Allbi Joe, the employee whose self-confidence exceeds his job competence. Because he exudes so much confidence, Allbi Joe is the guy who often lands a work position that is above his actual ability. Though his coworkers rapidly size him up, in a large complex organization he may survive surprisingly long.

Though he is constantly finding blame elsewhere, Joe is not really interested in "getting" fellow workers: He has only two genuine interests: protecting his own position and preserving his own good opinion of himself. His favorite target is "they" or a whole group such as "sales." Supervisors can solve matters by placing Joe at a level where he can handle the job. But they must also convince him that the new job is compatible with his abilities. If he is not convinced of that, Allbi Joe becomes a dangerous employee. Angry about his "demeaning" new assignment, he will blast morale by constantly sniping and griping.

HOUSEHINTS

- To remove white water marks from furniture or varnished surfaces, apply mayonnaise to spot, rub in, let stand an hour, then remove with soft cloth. Or make a paste of cigar ashes and cooking oil and use the same way.
- Black shoe marks on tile or linoleum? A small piece of cotton moistened with furniture polish and rubbed on spot quickly removes, and won't scratch as some cleaners do.
- With winter close at hand, wax the snow shovel well so the white stuff won't stick. —By Lee Patten

TV's Barbara Eden:

"By Today's Standards, I'm a Strict Mother"

"My parents always had to know where I was, and I was not allowed to stay out past 12 when I was in high school. We are raising our own child, Matthew, with love, but he has rules, and he knows it."

"I am a Christmas person," Barbara Eden told me as she was getting ready for the holiday season. "Christmas was always a big thing for me. I still have the Christmas book and the little toy train my parents gave me when I was three. Every year until I was married I celebrated with my family, and we'd read the book of Christmas stories and put out the train. Even after Michael and I were married we used to go to San Francisco and spend the holiday with my parents. Only after Matthew was born did they send us the Christmas ornaments with which we used to decorate the tree when I was a child, and the Christmas book and toy train. We will use them and keep them in trust for our children, so they can carry on the tradition. I was never alone for Christmas. I pray my children will never be, either."

Both Barbara and Michael are strong believers in Christmas, in tradition, in plain old-fashioned togetherness—which makes it all the more amazing that a nice girl like Barbara should have done so well in an industry built on toughness and exhibitionism. In fact, that's exactly what a Hollywood casting director told her when she first arrived in town.

At 17, Barbara Eden was a blonde, blue-eyed babe among wolves—Hollywood variety. Cute as a button, with a nicely developed figure but not exactly a la Jane Russell or Marilyn Monroe, she'd come to Tinseltown naively expecting to land a singing job as easily as she'd managed back home in San Francisco.

She was in for a shock. "What's a nice girl like you doing in Hollywood?" the first casting director she met wanted to know. "If you want to get any place in this business, you gotta look like this!" and he whipped out a picture of an amply endowed starlet. "That's what they want, kid. If I were you, I'd go back home and marry a nice dentist!"

But Barbara stayed. She also remained a nice girl. She moved in with her aunt and uncle in nearby San Marino and, while doing "Voice of a Turtle" at the Laguna Playhouse, was discovered by a 20th Century-Fox director who put her under contract. She went on to establish herself as a star in films, night clubs, civic light opera, theatres and eventually the hit TV show, "I Dream of Jeannie."

To Barbara, however, stardom isn't all there is to life. In the first place she old-fashionedly belongs to her husband of 13 years, actor Michael Ansara, and their six-year-old son Matthew Michael. "I met Michael on a studio-arranged blind date," Barbara recalled. "I was doing 'How to Marry a Millionaire' (TV series) and he was Cochise in 'Broken Arrow' (also TV). He didn't really want to take me to the publicity party but finally gave in. He showed up at the studio make-up department before the make-up man was finished getting me ready. I was so embarrassed!"

Undaunted, Michael was sufficiently impressed to ask her to dinner before their scheduled appearance. They enjoyed each other's company so much, they didn't arrive at the party until all the other guests—and photographers—had left! Two months later, they were married.

Because both are in show business, their marriage has had to sustain some unusual pressures. They are often separated. Barbara's career has had easier sledding than Michael's. However, both insist, that because they are actors, they've been able to adjust to one another much better. "When Barbara works in a series, she's gone from five in the morning until seven at night and then comes home tired, showers, takes a nap, studies her lines. If I wasn't in the business myself, I feel it would disturb me greatly," admitted Michael. Said Barbara, "I am sure a normal nine-to-five businessman wouldn't understand at all. Nor would he have the patience. I couldn't get along without the hours and hours Michael helps me every night, learning lines! And because he knows I have to concentrate a certain amount of time during the day, he keeps Matthew busy while I study."

A Word About Our Cover...

As "Jeannie" on television, Barbara Eden plays the wife of an astronaut—a role which, over the years, has stirred her interest in NASA and the U. S. space effort. Fittingly, the "space tree" on our cover was designed exclusively for Barbara and FAMILY WEEKLY by the folks at Hallmark. It's their way of carrying Season's Greetings to the farthest frontiers of man.

Barbara and Michael are self-contained, were never anxious to be part of the traditional Hollywood scene. "We haven't deliberately avoided going out," Barbara explained. "Occasionally I love parties! But there are only so many hours in a day, and if you have a script to learn and a small son to look after and you want to spend some time with him, you can't go out, too!"

Barbara's upbringing is evident in every phase of her life. "By today's standards I was raised strictly. Manners were very important in our family. My parents always had to know where I was, and I was not allowed to stay out past 12 when I was in high school. We are raising Matthew with love, and he's a very happy little boy. But he has rules to live by, and he knows it. He isn't allowed to make other people's lives uncomfortable. We all live together, and we can't think just about ourselves."

She has quite a head on her shoulders. She clearly anticipated the turn of events that foreshadowed the demise of films as the entertainment. With Michael's help, she began easing into other facets of show business. Since she had done her first musical at 16, she was a natural for night-club work. Audiences loved her. She is equally successful with summer stock. Earlier this year she starred in "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" and "Sound of Music." She constantly appears on TV panel shows. There isn't any facet of show business that down-to-earth Barbara can't handle. "I don't think show business is in such a healthy state that you can say I will only do this or that. I think you better be ready to do just about everything."

Do just about everything and still be a nice girl, a good wife and mother and thoroughly professional—that's our Christmas cover girl, Barbara Eden. □

Does More Than Help Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due To Infection

Also Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases from Pain and Itching in Such Tissues.

When hemorrhoidal tissues swell, become inflamed and infected—it can be very painful for the sufferer. But doctors have found a remarkably successful medication which is so effective that it actually helps shrink swelling of such tissues. And it does more. In many cases, it also gives prompt relief for hours from the pain and itching in hemorrhoidal tissues.

This medication is obtainable without a prescription under the name—Preparation II. Tests by leading doctors on hundreds of patients in New York, Washington, D.C., and at a large medical center verified Preparation II gave similar successful results in many cases.

When you consider Preparation II offers so many benefits—it's no wonder millions of sufferers buy it each year to obtain this relief. See if it doesn't help you.

There is no other formula like Preparation II. Ointment or suppositories.

Denture Invention

For People With "Uppers" and "Lowers"

For the first time, science now offers a unique plastic cream that holds dentures—both "uppers" and "lowers"—as they've never been held before. It forms an elastic membrane that helps hold your dentures to the natural tissue of your mouth.

It's FIXODENT—a revolutionary discovery for daily home use. So different it's protected by U. S. Patent #3,003,988.

FIXODENT not only holds dentures firmer, but it holds them more comfortably, too. It's so elastic you may bite harder, chew better, eat more naturally.

The special pencil-point dispenser lets you put FIXODENT exactly where it's needed. Resists oozing over and gagging.

Just one application may last for hours. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get easy-to-use FIXODENT Denture Adhesive Cream at all drug counters.

Christmas Breakfast: A Bacon-Sausage-Toast Platter

Shredded coconut and thawed frozen strawberries are served with this festive Christmas platter along with coffee and sherbet-topped grapefruit sections.

BACON-SAUUSAGE-TOAST PLATTER

- 8 to 12 slices white bread, oven dried
- 2 eggs, beaten until light and frothy
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1 cup milk
- 4 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground cardamom or ground nutmeg
- Butter or margarine
- Canadian-style bacon
- Bacon curls
- Pork sausage links

1. Set 8 to 12 slices of white bread onto cake racks on a baking sheet, and put into a 250°F. oven. Allow oven door to remain partially open while bread is drying, about 15 to 20 min. Remove from oven, trim crusts, and cut slices diagonally into halves, or into Christmas-tree-shapes.

2. Add the heavy cream and milk gradually to the beaten eggs, beating until blended.

3. Thoroughly mix flour, sugar, and cardamom or nutmeg and sprinkle over egg mixture. Beat until blended.

4. Thoroughly heat desired amount of butter or margarine in a large skillet.

5. Meanwhile, soak dried bread pieces (turning once) in the egg mixture, about 1 min. Using a slotted spatula, drain slightly and transfer to the hot skillet. Brown on both sides.

6. Transfer to hot serving platters along with the hot slices of Canadian-style bacon, bacon curls, and pork sausage links. Tuck in pineapple slices, as in photo.

7. If desired, sprinkle hot toast with confectioners' sugar or serve with thawed frozen strawberries and coconut, or maple syrup. 8 servings.

Meat for Platter: Using the desired amount of bacon, Canadian-style bacon, and pork sausage links, arrange bacon slices, Canadian-style bacon slices, and pork sausage links (allowing space between links) on racks in shallow pans. Heat in a 400°F. oven 3 to 5 min. for Canadian-style bacon; about 10 min. for bacon; and 20 to 25 min. (turning after 15 min.) for sausage links. To make bacon curls, roll hot slices around tines of a dinner fork.

CREAMY CRANBERRY SHERBET

- 2½ cups cranberries, washed and sorted
 - 1¼ cups water
 - 1½ cups sugar
 - ¼ cup orange juice
 - 1. tablespoons lemon juice
 - 1 cup chilled whipping cream
1. Combine cranberries and water in a saucepan; cook until skins pop. Force through a sieve or food mill. Immediately add the sugar and fruit juices; stir until sugar is dissolved. Cool and chill mixture.
2. Beat cream until of medium consistency (peaks softly). Fold into chilled cranberry mixture and turn into refrigerator trays. Freeze until mushy.
3. Spoon cranberry mixture into chilled bowl and beat until smooth but not melted. Return to trays and freeze until firm. About 12 servings.

Amazing Scientific Discovery!

NEW "WONDER-FORMULA" THAT MAKES SKIN LOOK YOUNG AGAIN!

THIS IS NOT A DREAM—BUT A REAL BREAKTHROUGH TO RENEWED BEAUTY FOR WOMEN OF ALL AGES... a revolutionary, new, All-Natural Special Skin Formula that will help you combat the signs of "over 30 skin"—make you look years younger in as little as two to three weeks or your money back!

A NEW MIRACLE OF SKIN BEAUTY!

Can you imagine what this important announcement may mean to millions of women over 30 who have begun to notice age lines, wrinkles and crowfeet around their eyes, nose and mouth...women who are bothered with dry, flabby and sagging skin...women who have been searching desperately to regain the radiant glow of youth!

One of America's leaders in the field of natural health and beauty has undertaken to solve this beauty problem. After months of scientific experiments and extensive laboratory tests, an amazing formula was discovered that had such great youth-supporting qualities that even small amounts preserved, revived and reconditioned the skin.

WORKS JUST LIKE MAGIC FOR A THIRSTY, TIRED SKIN!

It is called Vita-Creme Special Skin Formula and is a "multiple-action" beauty formula of pure natural oils, scientifically enriched with the miracle Vitamin E and exclusive dermal penetrants—able to penetrate below the skin's surface—building natural "moisture-balance"—to skin and dermal tissues—helping to combat wrinkling from within. Activates the skin's own nourishing process, bringing once again, a new vibrant look-to-aging-complexions.

RESULTS ARE NOTHING SHORT OF AMAZING!

Whether you are a woman of 30 who is starting to show the signs of time—or much older, and never thought your skin could look young again, we promise you that within 30 days, you will experience a truly remarkable transformation thanks to the amazing benefits of All-Natural Vita-Creme Special Skin Formula.

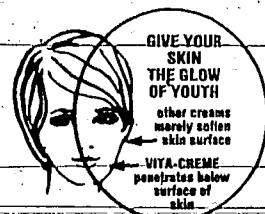

Women who have tried it report their skin appeared to look years younger in a very short time. Foll-tale lines and wrinkles seemed to vanish...tired skin became fresh, good to look at, desirable to touch.

It is not a face mask cream, that when applied, only temporarily tightens the skin and must be removed after application...or the usual "softening" cream with its greasy look. It adds a natural glow to dry, aging moisture-starved skin, keeping the face in harmony with a young body and mind...with the soft suppleness and elasticity it deserves.

And it does all this, in Nature's way, the safe way! When applied all bedtime it helps tone and enrich your skin while you sleep and can also be used as a powder base by day. Non-synthetic—contains only 100% natural and organic ingredients. No hormones or harsh chemicals. No danger of over-application—use it as often as you wish. Safe even for problem skin.

Send for a jar of the amazing Vita-Creme Special Skin Formula today and enjoy its beneficial results in the privacy of your own home, for just pennies a day!

Guaranteed To Make Your Skin Look Younger—or YOUR MONEY BACK!

Can this be an expert chef talking? Listen... Food must taste like what it is. Anything added must enhance this taste, not change or camouflage it... If you lack an ingredient for a recipe, omit it; most recipes have too many ingredients anyway... I think soufflés are a pain in the neck. Why go through all that aggravation when the same amount of energy can produce an entire meal of elegant proportions? And while you're doing all that work, why not enjoy it? Have a glass of wine; it's the perfect kitchen drink." (From chef Joe Hyde's book, "Love, Time & Butter," Dutton $12.50)

You want your dog to be just as happy as you are at Christmas, so you'll share your holiday goodies with him. Right? Wrong, say the experts, and they've got their fingers crossed. As much as proud owners like to think so, dogs are not "just-like-human-beings," at least not in their digestive systems. Most dog owners know that turkey bones will splinter and choke their pet; but they'll share their cocktail hors d'oeuvres or poultry dressing or rich desserts to make up for it. That has to be a no-no, since dogs simply can't digest all these things.

BEAUTIFUL JENNIFER
"Gray hair? So what?"

Jennifer O'Neill, who's being called every man's idea of the unattainable woman since her triumph in "Summer of '42," is only 24. But already she has "quite a few strands of gray hair—which she just leaves there. "That's the least of my worries," she told us. "Maybe I'll let it go all white. Most of my life I haven't liked my face. In school, I didn't have many friends. I was taller than the boys and skinny. Actually, I'd rather look like everyone else." Jennifer's made a new movie ("Such Good Friends" for Paramount) and is working on another one, but she seems indifferent to that beautiful face of hers. The day we talked to Jennifer, she was wearing her brown and gray hair pulled back in a kind of peruke and very little apparent make-up. She isn't sure she wants to be a celebrity. "I don't like being put on a pedestal," she said.

Quips & Quotes

NEVER ON WEDNESDAY
By Richard Armour

My wife and I can't both be gone.
Not Wednesday nights, at least,
For then a TV show is on
That I shall call "The Beast."

We've watched it, now, week after week,
With spellbound gaze we've looked,
And, such the plotter's shrewd technique,
I must confess we're hooked.

Each episode unended ends,
Suspense is at its height.
So ask us out to dinner, friends,
But not on Wednesday night.

Our little girl was proudly learning to ride her new bike. The only flaw in her pleasure was the need for training wheels. None of the older kids needed training wheels, so why should she? The problem finally resolved itself, though, when one day she saw a small plane coming in for a landing at a nearby airport. "Look, Daddy," she squealed, "airplanes have training wheels, too!" —Mr. M.P.T., Grand Rapids, Mich.

A husband, worried by a fall-off in his business, suggested that his wife fire the maid for the time being and do a little housework herself.

"I think you're the one who's going to have to fire her," the wife pointed out. "After all, she's your mother."
