

US halts N. Viet air strikes

SAIGON (UPI) — American planes hit North Vietnam for the fifth consecutive day today, then concluded the most sustained and the most intense bombing campaign north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) ever ordered by President Nixon. Three U.S. planes were reported lost in the five days of raids and five crewmen missing.

U.S. military spokesmen said the "limited duration" raids were completed and that one Air Force Phantom jet was shot down on Sunday and two Navy jets, an F4 and an A6 Intruder, were lost today. Five U.S. airmen were missing and one rescued.

North Vietnam had reported only a few hours earlier that 14 American planes had been downed since the raids began Sunday, including three jets shot down today. Hanoi said "a number of pilots" had been captured.

U.S. spokesmen said one of the crewmen of the A6 jet was rescued and the other was missing as are the two crewmen of the F4 Phantom lost today and the two crewmen of the F4 shot down Sunday.

In announcing the end of the raids, the command disclosed for the first time that the bombing was confined to the North Vietnamese panhandle south of the 20th Parallel, which is 70 miles south of Hanoi. The command said most of the raids were south of the 18th Parallel, which is more than 200 miles south of Hanoi and 70 miles north of the DMZ.

In Washington, the Pentagon said a total of 1,000 sorties were flown in the bombing campaign. A sortie is one mission by one aircraft. It meant the Air Force and Navy jets had surpassed in intensity the air effort of 400 sorties at the time of the American-South Vietnamese invasion of Cambodia in May of 1970.

As the end of the bombing campaign was announced, the command said one American soldier was killed on Vietnamese battlefields last week for the lowest death toll since the final week of February, 1965, when there were no American battle deaths.

The low casualty toll of one killed and 29 wounded last week was attributed to the low level of Viet Cong activity during its three-day Christmas cease-fire, military sources said.

In the ground war, the South Vietnamese military command called off a five-week-old operation against Viet Cong sanctuaries in eastern Cambodia.

Military sources said the 35,000 troops who took part were needed to try to thwart an expected offensive by Communist guerrillas infiltrating further north from Cambodia into South Vietnam's Central Highlands.

U.S. pilots said the anti-aircraft fire they encountered was light and that no MIG had yet attacked. None of the planes flying out of Da Nang air base has been hit, the airmen told UPI correspondent Stewart Kellerman.

Hanoi Radio said three aircraft were downed today, over Nghe An Province in an area 125 miles south of Hanoi and that they brought to 14 the number of U.S. jets downed since the bombing campaign began Sunday.

Hanoi Radio said its forces had "captured a number of pilots" but did not say exactly how many in shooting down the three planes.

The North Vietnamese government also ordered the nation's 17 million people "on constant alert" because of the American air raids, the longest in duration since former President Lyndon B. Johnson halted bombing north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) Nov. 1, 1969.

North Vietnam said 47 civilians were killed by U.S. air attacks Sunday and Monday alone.

The U.S. command had little to say about the raids other than that they have been directed against military targets and supply bases along the Ho Chi Minh Trail, over which the Communists ship ammunition.

7 killed on Valley roads

BY DAVID ESPO and GEORGIA LAYTON Times-News Writers

Seven persons were killed Wednesday in two separate Magic Valley traffic accidents. A Union Pacific freight train-car collision at the Curry Crossing three miles west of Twin Falls killed four persons including George Compher, 54, Castleford, and his wife, Katie, age unknown. Also killed instantly were two other passengers in the car, Linda Mills, 15, Castleford, and her son Willie Lonel Mills, 14 months.

The bodies of the mother and child were removed from the twisted wreckage of the car and placed in ambulances shortly after the accident occurred. Two wreckers were summoned to the scene to pull the automobile frame apart to free the Comphers.

Compher was driving the 1950 sedan.

A few hours earlier, three men died in a collision involving two trucks and a car on snow covered roads 40 miles south of Burley on Interstate 80.

Police identified the victims as Arthur Graves, 36, Pomona, Calif.; Barney Lee, 55, Fort Worth, Tex.; and Frederick L. Hess, 27, Denver, Colo.

Police said the accident at Curry Crossing occurred at 12:48 p.m. when Compher, apparently failed to see the oncoming train until he was too close to the crossing to avoid a collision.

The car skidded 81 feet along the eastbound lane of U.S. 30 before being struck broadside. The car was pushed more than 100 feet by the train before being deposited along side the tracks.

The train came to a stop another 650 feet down the tracks.

Roy Jackson, 54, Pocatello, was identified as the engineer of the train. He was not injured in the collision, although other trainmen on board told officers they could feel the force of the impact at their stations.

Witnesses at the scene told Twin Falls police the crossing warning lights were obscured by snow. Paul Corder, Twin Falls County sheriff, said, however, that one set of lights was clear of snow when he arrived at the scene shortly after the accident, and a second set above the crossing was only partially covered. (See photograph)

Twin Falls Coroner Cloyce Edwards said no autopsies would be performed. The bodies of the Comphers were removed to the Albertson-Dickard Funeral home in Burley, where funeral arrangements are pending. The bodies of the Mills woman and her son were at Reynolds Funeral Chapel, Twin Falls.

O. J. Brannon, Idaho State Police officer who investigated the Burley accident, said Graves was driving a 1970 tractor pulling a semi-trailer. His vehicle slid sideways in the southbound lane and jackknifed into the opposite lane, colliding with a truck and semi-trailer driven by Lee.

Hess apparently was asleep in the Graves vehicle at the time. After the impact, the trailer from the truck driven by Graves spun around and broke loose from the tractor, rolled onto its right side and collided with a station wagon being driven by Fred Armeman, 34, Salt Lake City. Armeman was not injured, although his car was knocked off the road.

Police estimated damage in the wreck at $56,000 to the vehicles, not including the cargo they were carrying Wednesday.

Graves' truck, owned by the Stephen Frost Trucking Co., Billings, Mont., was hauling frozen meat. The other truck and semi-trailer, owned by Global Van Lines, Fort Worth, was carrying electronics equipment for the Mountain Home Air Force Base.

Police said Air Force officials arrived at the scene following the accident to oversee the removal of what they said was classified cargo from the highway.

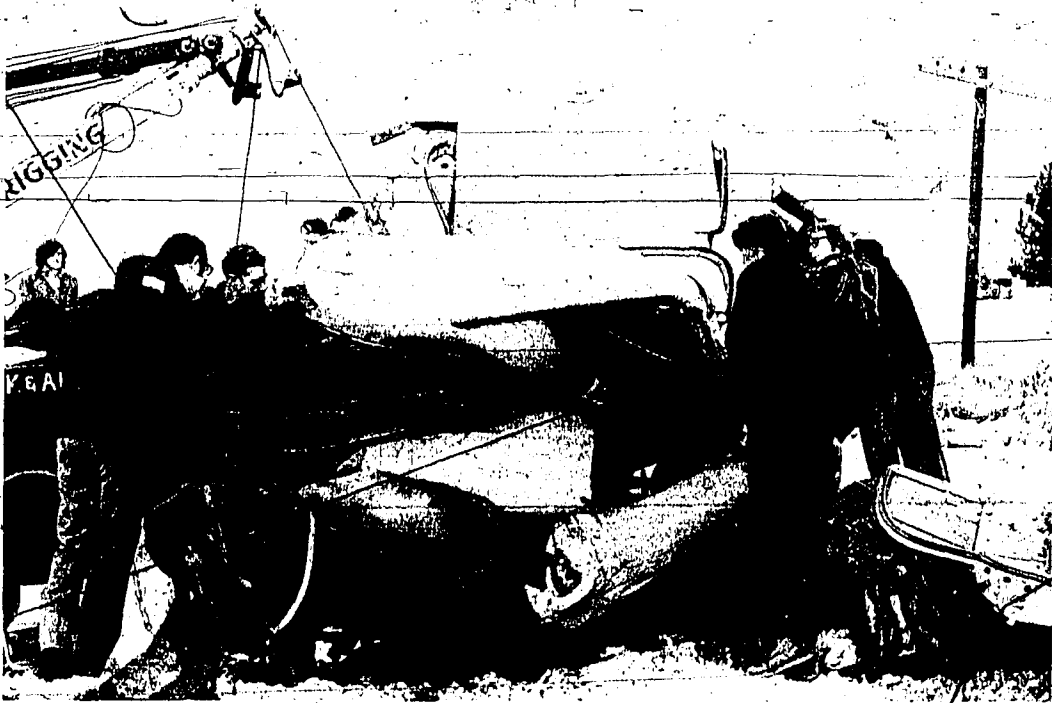

The tractor driven by Graves broke into several pieces after colliding with the station wagon, scattering its sleeper, cab, fuel tanks and front wheels along the pavement.

A witness to the accident, William Barnett, Bountiful, Utah, told police he saw the collision from a half-mile away, and saw Armeman's car attempt to pass one of the trucks.

But Brannon said the cause of the accident was still under investigation, maintaining one of the trucks had jackknifed. "Armeman's car was definitely not the cause of the accident," he said.

The bodies of Hess and Lee were removed to the McCulloch Funeral Home, Burley. Graves' body was at Payne Mortuary, Burley.

Police maintained one-way traffic on the road until 5 p.m. Wednesday.

John Harlan dies at 78

Harlan dies

Forecast OVERCAST Details p. 13

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fourteen weeks ago, ill health forced the retirement of Supreme Court Justice John Marshall Harlan, a scholarly jurist who earned the title "The Great Dissenter" during more than 16 years on the court.

Wednesday, Harlan, 72, died at George Washington University Hospital. The cause of death was not announced, but it was widely known when he retired Sept. 23 that he was suffering from spinal cancer.

His death came eight days before the scheduled swearing in of William H. Rehnquist, a former assistant U.S. attorney general, who will be his replacement. Joining the court at the same time will be Richmond, Va., attorney Lewis F. Powell Jr., who was appointed by President Nixon to replace the late Justice Hugo L. Black.

A private funeral service for Harlan is scheduled Tuesday at Weston, Conn. Harlan was the only Supreme Court justice with a direct ancestor who served on the court. The ancestor was his grandfather, the first John Marshall Harlan, after whom Harlan was named.

Harlan was born in Chicago, May 20, 1899, and graduated from Princeton University in 1920. He attended Oxford University as a Rhodes scholar and obtained his law degree from New York Law School in 1924.

As a justice, Harlan established a conservative reputation, arguing that the court was going too far, was trying to find a cure for "every major social ill in this country" in some constitutional "principle." He believed in the principle he called "federalism," a clean dividing line between federal and state authority.

At Harlan's bedside Wednesday were his daughter, three sisters and his close friend, Justice Potter Stewart.

Eagles scarce after air hunt

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI) — The Casper Murie Audubon Society reported Wednesday the sighting of only nine golden eagles and eight bald eagles during the society's 24th annual Christmas bird census. The count was conducted in a 15-mile circle near Casper.

Last year 53 golden eagles and 24 bald eagles were sighted during the same period. Director Dr. Oliver Scott said "presumably this was due to the killing of eagles in Wyoming and poor weather conditions for an eagle flight."

Garage repair ratings asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's consumer affairs adviser asked representatives of consumer groups, the industry and government Wednesday to help devise a public rating system to aid motorists in finding the best garages to repair their cars.

"Too many consumers have paid for unnecessary repairs and too many consumers have had repairs made with unsatisfactory results," said Virginia H. Knauer.

"I am sure you will agree with me that these experiences on the part of many Americans are intolerable," she wrote in a letter. "We must remove this burden and one way we can do it is by stimulating service competition through independent, objective evaluations."

Her letter went to the American Automobile Association; the Ralph Nader-sponsored Center for Automobile Safety; Consumer Federation of America; the Department of Transportation; Consumers Union and individual members of the National Automobile Dealers Association.

Mrs. Knauer asked for replies "within the next few weeks" and said the recommendations would be used in future discussions with dealers and automakers about the public rating proposal.

Minidoka Project director succumbs

BURLEY — Glen H. Simmons, 64, Burley, superintendent of the Minidoka Project for the Bureau of Reclamation, died Wednesday at his home following a heart attack.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Monday at the Burley Elks Lodge. Burial will be in Jackson, Wyo., on Tuesday.

Simmons was born in Lincoln, Neb. He had joined the Bureau of Reclamation in 1934 at Jackson Lake Dam, Wyo., as a gatekeeper. In 1940, he was named reservoir superintendent. Simmons was transferred to the Burley headquarters in 1945 as an administrative assistant at the Minidoka Project. In 1957 he was named chief of the river control and storage division, responsible for the operation of the upper Snake River facilities.

He was named chief of the operation and facilities division in May, 1964, and in November, Jackson Lake Dam, Wyo., as a Project supervisor. (Obituary, p. 8)

Solon proposes expediting legislation

BY LINDY HIGH

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. Majority Leader Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, is sticking by his prediction of a 1972 session limited to 60 days — partly because of some time-saving procedures which may be implemented.

Further, legislative leadership, committee chairmen, secretarial help and Gov. Cecil D. Andrus have had a year of experience and are probably better prepared.

"Last session, some of the delay, I felt, was because the new governor, feeling his way, had delayed legislation," Kidwell said. "I would assume the governor's legislation will be in this time when the gavel drops."

The delay, he said, would have been true of any governor who had just taken office, adding, "When they've only been in office one week, you can't expect them to be ready."

The most controversial, time-consuming issue, Kidwell said, will be the possibility of a tax increase, but said he thought the "hold the line" attitude will be bi-partisan.

Some of the innovations which may shorten the session are new arrangements for budget hearings, a proposed consent calendar, the possibility of a "package" or categorized budget bill, elimination of the interim committees, and removing commodities commissions from the budget process.

The Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee will begin its budget hearings almost a week before the session convenes and Legislative Fiscal Officer John Androsen has already heard requests from dedicated funds or smaller state agencies.

Kidwell also recommended an omnibus approach to the general fund budget and Sen. David Bjvens, R-Payette, assistant majority leader, said an alternative would be a categorized budget lumping similar areas together.

Now almost every agency has a separate appropriations bill which must be put through separately even if there is no opposition.

Under Kidwell's proposal the general fund appropriations would be packaged and voted on as a total program.

That bill, Kidwell said, could be the "most debated, most discussed bill of each session, but when you get through and when you've voted you have your general fund budget."

Bjvens said removing the commodities commissions — all dedicated fund commissions — from the budget process would eliminate 20 to 30 items of business. Instead, commissions could propose their own budgets from their assessments and the legislature could simply review the proposals.

"I don't know how much we could save here by eliminating the days we fool around with them and the cost of printing bills," he said. "Each time we get into a session we have to explain the commissions all over again."

Presently, interim study committees are formed which in turn make recommendations when the session begins to the appropriate committee, a standing committee of the legislature.

Kidwell suggested using the standing committees for studies — which would shorten a session by eliminating the need for briefing those members who may not have been part of the interim study.

Kidwell said an interim committee studying legislative procedures will probably recommend adoption of a "consent calendar" — a calendar containing bills which will be unanimously approved with one vote rather than the present bill-by-bill routine votes.

Kidwell said the proposal will be to place measures on the consent calendar for the usual three day period and if there are no objections when the final roll-call begins a number could be approved with one vote.

Hanoi buildup causes bombing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's decision to resume heavy air attacks against North Vietnamese military targets come as no surprise to those familiar with intelligence reports flowing into Washington from Southeast Asia in recent months.

Top Presidential advisers concluded some days ago that Hanoi was embarked on a course jeopardizing the success of Nixon's effort to remove virtually all American ground forces from Vietnam by mid-1972. They contended some U. S. counteraction was clearly required.

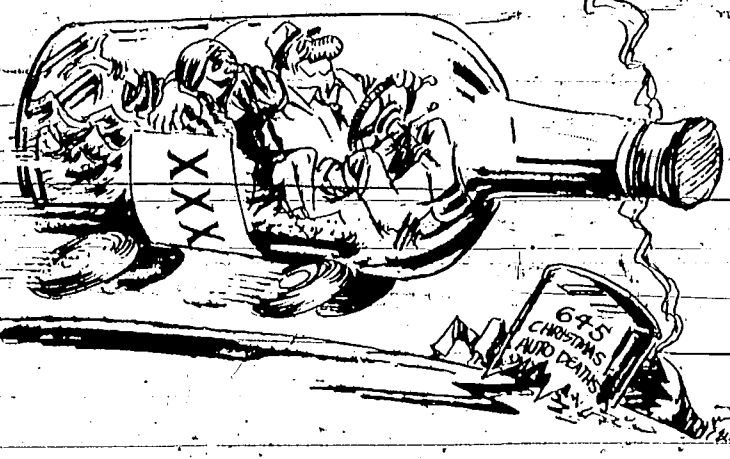

The White House received in late October what it considered conclusive evidence that Hanoi was preparing a supreme effort to make the United States pay a far heavier price than heretofore for its continued air support of South Vietnamese, Laotian and Cambodian forces.

Intelligence sources reported that the North Vietnamese were installing a considerable number of new Soviet-supplied anti-aircraft missile batteries near the Demilitarized Zone as well as in Laos, all of them in a position to operate against American aircraft flying reconnaissance and attack missions along the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Intelligence sources also reported in late October that the North Vietnamese appeared to have brought back to their own airfields, virtually all of their Russian-made MIG warplanes. They had been sent to China several years ago for safekeeping when the United States was carrying out continuous attacks against airfields and other targets all over North Vietnam.

Toward the end of October, for the first time, MIGs rose against U.S. B52 bombers.

Meanwhile, taking advantage of the early onset of the dry season, North Vietnam for two months has been sending relatively large numbers of men and substantial material southward along the Ho Chi Minh Trail to a staging area in southern Laos.

Fire kills three

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (UPI) — A boiler explosion and fire demolished a two-story commercial building on this city's Main Street Wednesday, killing three men and injuring 30 other persons.

The blast shattered windows in nearby buildings in the business center of this Long Island Sound community 20 miles north of New York City and sent a sheet of flames into an adjoining structure, gutting it.

The explosion was set off by a fire in the boiler room of Crabtree Motor Sales Co., resulting in a second raging blaze which took more than four hours to control.

The basement of the structure housed an insecticide manufacturing company and a metal-plating firm.

Debate continues on tragedy

HYDEN, Ky. (UPI) — One year ago today, an explosion rocked a coal mine near this Appalachian hamlet, killed 38 men and aroused a public outcry for safer operations in the nation's mines.

Although the blast came one year after Congress passed the 1969 Coal Mine Health and Safety Act, the debate rages whether the act was adequately enforced at the time of the Hyden tragedy and whether it is adequately enforced now.

Glenn Simmons

BURLEY — Glenn H. Simmons, 64, Burley, died Wednesday at his home of a heart attack. Mr. Simmons was Minidoka Project superintendent for the Bureau of Reclamation.

Mr. Simmons was born Sept. 2, 1907, at Lincoln, Neb., and was married to Ethel Brett on Dec. 6, 1934, at Durango, Colo. They lived at Moran, Wyo., until 1945, when they moved to Burley. He attended Bethany High School in Nebraska and the University of Nebraska.

He was a member of the Burley Elks Lodge No. 1384 and was past exalted ruler of the lodge. He was also a member of the Masonic Lodge at Jackson, Wyo., and had been active in many civic organizations in Burley.

E. Hoodenpyle

GOODING — Services for Emmanuel Lee Hoodenpyle, 85, Gooding, who died Tuesday at a Gooding nursing home of an extended illness, will be conducted at 2 p.m. Friday at the Thompson Chapel with Rev. Harold Hake of First Christian Church officiating.

Interment will be at Elmwood Cemetery.

He was born March 31, 1886, in Salem, Mo. He was reared and attended schools there and moved to Colorado, where he farmed. He was married to Leola Cosler April 10, 1908, at Fruita, Colo. He farmed there until 1912 when he moved to a farm east of Gooding.

They moved to the town of Gooding in 1940 where he served as deputy watermaster until his retirement in 1956.

Chester Viers

BURLEY — Chester Lloyd Viers, 70, Burley, died Wednesday at Cassia Memorial Hospital after a long illness.

Born April 5, 1901, at Guide Rock, Neb., he was married to Sheila G. Hott in Scottsbluff, Iowa. He attended school at Guide Rock, worked as a machinist in Topeka, Kan., and was a rancher in Nebraska. He moved to Burley 34 years ago and was employed by the Burley Fire Department and later by the city of Burley for several years.

Mr. Viers was a member of the Christian Church.

Surviving are his widow, Burley; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Rose Freymiller, Burley; three stepsons, Claude C. Hott, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Wayne Hott, Port Townsend, Wash.; and John Hott, Boise; his mother, Mrs. Hattie Warrell, Boise; three half-brothers, George E. Warrell, Burley; Hubert Warrell and James M. Warrell, both Boise; a half-sister, Ruby B. Cook, Downey, Calif.; and seven step-grandchildren and 14 step-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Monday at the Burley First Christian Church with the Rev. Warren Sechler officiating. Concluding rites will be at Pleasant View Cemetery. Friends may call at Payne Mortuary Sunday afternoon and Monday prior to time of services.

Woman freezes

POWELL, Wyo. (UPI) — A Powell housewife whose frozen body was found near here Sunday died of exposure, according to an autopsy conducted in Billings, Mont., Tuesday.

The body of Mrs. Diana Marie Henderson, 21, was taken to Billings Tuesday for the autopsy. She was found dead in an open field several miles from Powell. Temperatures in the area had gone down to 10 degrees below zero.

Park County Coroner Don Easton said there would probably be an inquest into the death. The victim's husband, Ralph Henderson, told authorities he and his wife were driving home after a Christmas party when she asked him to stop the car, saying she felt ill.

Henderson said his wife didn't return to the car and he was unable to find her. Investigation revealed she walked along the road for awhile and then tried to go across country. She was dressed in light clothing and a coat.

Blame Gem legislators, aide claims

BOISE (UPI) — Edward V. Williams, administrative assistant to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, said today petitions criticizing the Idaho Human Rights Commission should be directed to legislators rather than the chief executive.

The governor's office has received signatures from Idaho Falls residents in Bonneville school district 93 asking the governor to prevent the Idaho Human Rights Commission from taking legal action against the school district.

Earlier this month, the Human Rights Commission found the school district is in violation of Idaho's civil rights law by its half-length standards which apply to male students only.

Mrs. Dorcas Rock, Idaho Falls, spokeswoman for the group, said the petition supports district 93 trustees and their regulations.

She said it asks the governor to "keep the Human Rights Commission in Boise" and allow the school board to operate the school district in a manner supported and approved by the large majority of the taxpayers.

Williams, however, said the Human Rights Commission is a statutory body created by the legislature and not by the governor.

"The executive branch has no way to significantly alter a legislative statute," he said. "Therefore, we don't think the governor's office has the right to interfere."

"The powers and duties (of the commission) are spelled out by the legislature and these petitions should be directed to the members of the legislative delegation from Idaho Falls for any corrective action they deem necessary to take care of the problem."

Williams said the letter with the signatures read, "This is only the beginning. More will follow."

Becoming aware

STEVE WEDLAN, left, and Miss Ann Loeffler, both of Kansas City, Mo., practice a sensitivity awareness exercise at the regional convention of the B'nai B'rith Youth organization at the Hilton Airport Inn at St. Louis. In this exercise, called mirroring, participants follow one another's moves while standing nose to nose. Social workers supervising the games said they help young persons become more aware of themselves and others. (UPI)

Lawyer ban said contrary to law

BOISE (UPI) — In what could be a far-reaching decision, Federal Judge Fred M. Taylor announced Tuesday a Shoshone-Bannock Tribal Court ban against professional attorneys is contrary to law.

The decision stems from a civil suit filed by Fort Hall residents Leroy Towersap and his wife, Zephia, against the tribal council and court. They began the suit after their Pocatello attorney representing them in a criminal case in August of 1970 was allegedly ordered from the courtroom by Tribal Judge Jimmy Dann.

During arguments on the case, the U.S. Justice Department entered as a "friend of the court" favoring the position of the Towersaps.

Arguments centered on use of the word "counsel" in the Indian Bill of Rights Section of the Civil Rights Act of 1968.

Fort-Hall attorney Fred Bowen, Idaho Falls, argued tribal law provides for assistance by a spokesman, who traditionally is a fellow tribesman, but not a practicing attorney.

Taylor ruled, however, the U.S. Constitution has defined the term counsel to be "a member of the bar in good standing."

Taylor wrote, "It is this court's opinion that the plaintiffs and all other persons similarly situated are entitled to the legal assistance of professional legal counsel of their choice and at their expense when appearing before the tribal counsel of the Shoshone-Bannock Tribe of Indians on criminal charges."

Taylor added his decision does not bar a tribesman in a criminal case from seeking counsel from a non-professional colleague.

Winning ticket in stolen purse

NEW YORK (UPI) — Holda Johannson, 68, cried Tuesday when told that her Irish Sweepstakes ticket had won $2,000. Her purse containing that ticket had been snatched a month ago by a young thief as she walked down a Manhattan street.

But the Brooklyn widow's story may have a happy ending. The seller of the ticket said he still has the receipt and Mrs. Johannson will get the money if she can provide positive identification.

"I am nothing right now," Mrs. Johannson said. "I feel like I'm half dead. I want to use the money to visit my sister, Sigrid, who is dying now in Sweden. I haven't seen her in 10 years."

Mrs. Johannson has been sent sweepstakes tickets for several years by her daughter who buys them from a coworker, William Indonist.

HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL!

Hoffa says he got poor treatment

DETROIT (UPI) — Former Teamsters President James R. Hoffa said today he was kept in maximum security at the Lewisburg, Pa., Federal Penitentiary for almost three years in a government attempt "to break my spirit."

In a copyrighted story in the Detroit News, Hoffa also said he was assigned to a job which kept him confined in a cage for seven hours a day on orders from Washington. Hoffa blamed the treatment on persons in the Justice Department who remained from the John F. Kennedy administration.

Hoffa spent four years, nine months and 16 days in prison before his 13-year sentence was commuted last Thursday by President Nixon. He had been convicted of jury tampering and pension fraud.

Since his release, Hoffa has been granted permission by the U.S. Parole and Probation Department to travel, have speaking engagements and associate with former union friends.

In the Detroit News story, Hoffa said he was placed in maximum security as soon as he completed the initial quarantine period and remained there for two years and nine months.

"I was in the A block building, which is the tightest security in the prison, in a cell by myself with an open front, like you see in the movies," he said. "I tried several times to get changed but they wouldn't change me."

"Always their answer was the order came from Washington and not to change my quarters," he said.

"In my opinion, they were trying to break my spirit," Hoffa said.

Swiss reject U.S. plea to extradite Dr. Leary

BERN, Switzerland (UPI) — The Swiss government Wednesday rejected an official U.S. request that American LSD advocate Dr. Timothy Leary be sent back to California to finish serving a prison sentence for possession of marijuana.

In refusing to extradite the former Harvard University instructor, the Swiss police and Justice Ministry said the formal U.S. appeal lacked proof of Leary's guilt.

In the same announcement, however, the ministry said Leary, 51, and his 34-year-old wife Rosemary would not be granted the political asylum they had requested in Switzerland.

This is because Leary already has been granted asylum in Algeria—where he fled after escaping in September, 1970, from the California Men's colony—and because his "political persecution (in the United States) cannot be considered credible," the statement said.

Leary said he "would like to stay in Switzerland." He said "I like Switzerland and hope to make it my home."

However, the government's refusal to grant either extradition or asylum left unclear whether the Learys will be permitted to stay in Switzerland.

Under Swiss law, Leary has 30 days to appeal the rejection of his appeal for asylum. But the government decision not to extradite him is final.

News Of Servicemen

TWIN FALLS — Marine Corps Sgt. Jimmy R. Berkley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Berkley, Twin Falls, spent a holiday leave with his parents. He is stationed at the Yuma, Ariz. Marine Corps Air Station.

During a tour of duty in Vietnam, he was awarded the Good Conduct Medal and the Navy Achievement Medal with Combat V. He was cited for service with Marine Air Traffic Control Unit 68 between July, 1970, and May, 1971 in connection with combat operations. An air traffic control repairman, he was cited for his efforts in maintaining communications equipment and contributing to the "defensive readiness" of his command post.

Accompanying Sergeant Berkley to Twin Falls was Sgt. Ernie Butts, Tolson, Mont.

Signup set

RUPERT — Registration for junior basketball players from the fourth, fifth and sixth grades is planned for Friday between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the city recreation office.

Terry Duffin, director of recreation for the parks department, said a clinic is planned for 5 p.m. Monday in the Civic Auditorium for participating boys. Players will be assigned teams at the clinic. A registration fee of $2 will be charged each player.

Pre-school plan controversial

HOUSTON (UPI) — Dr. George T. Oser isn't entirely sure what his critics mean when they call for a return of sound American education in Houston's public schools, the South's largest system.

But Oser, president of the city's board of education, is convinced that a system that forces first graders to master a spelling book or reader and then to pass courses as early as age six, is wrong.

"If a youngster's first or second experience in school is one of failure," Oser said, "you very likely have fixed a pattern."

For these reasons, Oser, an oil company physicist and father of three daughters, has asked that the Houston schools begin enrolling 44-year-olds next fall.

The idea brought a flood of reaction, mostly from mothers who didn't want their toddlers forced into learning their ABCs before they could tie their shoes.

Those 3-year-olds who go to school in 1975 will wait until the first grade until 1978, but when they do, Oser says they will be better prepared to really gain from their educational experience.

"It's a plan to develop sensory-motor skills, among other things. In preschool, play is an important part of a youngster's activity. Through play he is assimilating his environment. The use and discovery technique is very important."

Oser said it costs the Houston school system $688 in lost funds for every student who has to repeat the first grade. Under the advanced preschool program Oser believes repeats would be virtually eliminated at least among participating youngsters.

The school system is turning to the federal government for funding the new plan which calls for the creation of 60 preschool centers in Houston to handle an estimated first-year enrollment of 5,000.

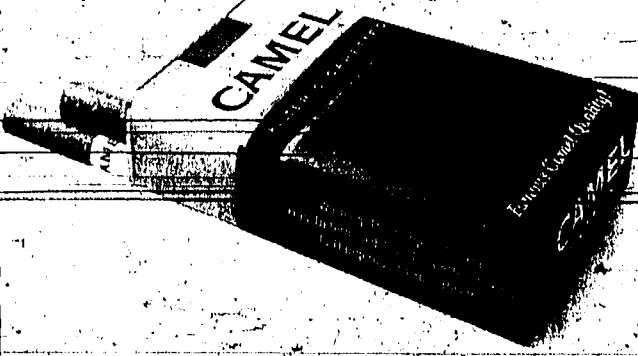

"The reason for thrust in preschool education is that it has not been shown that increased expenditures have been significantly connected with increased achievement," Oser said. "It's time for a new approach and a new attack."

Firm blames union pilots

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise spokesman for Hughes Aircraft said Wednesday there would be flights to Lewiston and Twin Falls if union pilots had not ignored a court order earlier this month.

Don Cooper, Idaho sales and service manager, said there is no way Alrwest can serve the two cities with its present manpower until the union flight crews return to their jobs. Cooper made his statement shortly after Clifford Hinkley, Lewiston, chairman of the Idaho Aeronautics Board, asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to either order Alrwest to serve Idaho or grant the routes to another carrier on an emergency or temporary basis.

The Aircraft Mechanics Fraternal Association struck against the airline earlier this month. On Dec. 18, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the pilots to fly after they refused to cross picket lines, but the pilots refused to return to their jobs.

Cooper said a decision on a contempt of court citation against the pilots will not be made in Los Angeles until Jan. 6.

Meantime, Alrwest had to reduce its schedule to six cities using supervisory, non-union pilots at the management level to fly the airplanes. Idaho was not included in the reduced schedule.

New Year's Eve dance

Firemen's Ball Friday

TWIN FALLS — Firemen in Twin Falls will be observing New Year's Eve with a gala Firemen's Ball in the National Guard Armory and proceeds will go to assist community projects sponsored by the firemen.

The dance begins at 8 p.m. Friday with music furnished by Jerome Ficus and the Malody Masters. The public is urged to attend and support the firemen in such programs and funds for repair and purchase of toys for needy children at Christmas time.

Lt. Dale Plott and Engineer Phil Clough, in charge of ticket sales, said tickets may be purchased at the door Friday night or from any fireman in advance of the event.

Lt. Plott said firemen work throughout the year in their spare time to paint, repair and collect used toys to be donated at Christmas time to needy children in the community. This year about 200 children received gifts ranging from bicycles and tricycles to Tinker Toys. When funds permit, new toys are purchased if donated and repaired items are not sufficient. Funds are needed for paint and parts.

In addition, proceeds from the dance are used to help firemen in event of injury, accident or other tragedy within their families.

City Council members, businessmen and other community leaders have voiced support for the annual ball and fund-raising event.

Charges filed for abduction

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—A Silver Spring, Md. couple face arraignment today on charges of kidnaping, armed robbery of $31,700, and aggravated assault, in connection with the bizarre abduction of young Los Angeles producer Peter Gayle from Miami Beach to Los Angeles.

Under threat of retribution against his parents, sister, and her children, police said Gayle, 30, made his way back to Miami Beach without mentioning the incident to police.

Two other suspects are still being sought. Miami Beach detectives said the 16-hour abduction one week ago today, netted $31,700 for the suspects from two of Gayle's safety deposit boxes in Los Angeles banks.

Martha Kaplan, 25, said to have been a girlfriend of Gayle's and also known as Linda Rosello and Linda Narbona, was arrested Wednesday in the Silver Spring apartment of Anthony C. Kallas, 25, by county police. Both were booked and waived extradition. They arrived in Miami Wednesday night.

Gayle, who grew up in Miami Beach under the name Peter Schwartz, was staying at his Miami Beach apartment with a New York friend, Stuart Wallach. Wallach reported he heard Gayle scream at about 1 a.m. and three men and one woman burst in with a .45 caliber automatic.

They wore masks and allegedly beat Gayle for information concerning his safety deposit boxes. They then handcuffed Wallach, spread eagle to his bed, and the woman and one of the men remained while the other two men took Gayle to Miami International Airport.

Politics take over football

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The University of Michigan band was taking the spotlight from its undefeated Wolverine football team Wednesday in a flap over the half time program at the Rose Bowl which reached the point that it went to court.

The band director also was upset over an incident Tuesday at which members of the rival Stanford band reportedly pelted and jeered the Michigan musicians while they were practicing for their performance New Year's Day.

A suit was filed in Superior Court on behalf of the university's student government council seeking an injunction to order university officials not to prevent or interfere with an anti-war demonstration during the Michigan part of the halftime show.

A similar show was presented at the homecoming game at Ann Arbor this fall with the theme, "Bring all the troops home now."

The performance consisted of the band playing "taps" while the audience stood in silence and Vietnam veterans released black balloons symbolizing Asian and American war dead.

A. L. Wirin, counsel for the American Civil Liberties union, which filed the suit, said subpoena were being issued for University President Robben Fleming and other officials to appear at a hearing set for Friday morning.

The suit charged Fleming with censorship and violation of the First Amendment of the Constitution guaranteeing free speech.

There were conflicting interpretations of the incident between the two bands on the UCLA campus where both bands are housed.

Michigan band leader George Cavender was said to be angry and asking an apology. A Michigan spokesman said Cavender told him that the Stanford band members threw objects at the band while it was practicing and spat and shouted obscenities.

David Ruiz, manager of the Stanford band, said the incident was a "humorous" and "non-malicious" affair which had been highly exaggerated.

"We saw the Michigan band marching and heard their drum section," Ruiz said. "Our guys are very spirited and fun loving and they went up and lined the streets and were cheering."

Joel Silverstein, a member of the Michigan Student Government Council, and Doug McHenry, president of the Stanford student body, attended a news conference announcing the court action.

Silverstein said Tournament of Roses officials had indicated they would not try to prevent such a demonstration but that view was not supported by Charles Taylor, athletic director and a member of the Rose Bowl Management Committee.

Taylor said that while the content of the show lay in the hands of each university the Tournament of Roses Committee had traditionally taken the position that the occasion should not be used for any expression of political opinion and that view still stood.

Window broken

TWIN FALLS — A janitor at the Idaho Department store in Twin Falls reported a window in a door at the business had been broken early today.

The janitor told officers about 1:20 a.m. he heard a noise and when he investigated, the window in the east door was broken. It was the second time this month that such an incident has taken place at the store.

Three remain hospitalized

TWIN FALLS — Three Magic Valley residents injured in two traffic accidents Sunday night remain hospitalized.

Brent Vaughn, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vaughn, Rupert, is in critical condition at St. Alphonsus Hospital, Boise, where he was flown following a two-car collision late Sunday south of Rupert.

Two Twin Falls youths, Diedrian Denney, 15, and Robert Olmstead, 17, who were injured in an accident Sunday night north of the Perrine Memorial Bridge, are hospitalized at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. Miss Denney is in poor condition and Olmstead in fair condition today.

Shopping bus available for TF senior citizens

TWIN FALLS — An additional shopping tour is in store for senior citizens of Twin Falls each month with the announcement by Lynwood Shopping Center of plans to sponsor a shopping bus on the first Wednesday of each month.

New firm planned in Buhl

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners said today they have received a letter from Adolph Coors Co., Golden, Colo., asking for information on building restrictions applicable to the proposed grain receiving facility the firm plans for the Buhl area. Commissioner Mord Leonard said the firm indicates it wants to begin work on the large facility for the coming construction season. The letter, signed by W. F. Moses, asked for county building restrictions for the proposed site one mile east of Buhl on U.S. Highway 30, pertaining to grain receiving station construction. Further, the firm requested health department regulations on sanitation facilities necessary to serve the firm's operation and personnel. The brewing firm plans to build the facility and contract farm land for production of barley necessary for making beer. No brewery operations are scheduled in the area at the present time.

The bus will pick up retired persons wishing to take advantage of the shopping opportunity and take them to Lynwood Shopping Center where they may make purchases or window shop. They will be assisted with heavy packages. The bus then returns the group to the Senior Citizens Agency headquarters for a hot meal and delivered them back to pick up points. The first tour will be Jan 5.

Earlier a similar program was started at Blue Lakes Shopping Center and the bus will continue there on the second Tuesday of each month, offering two shopping tours per month. This one has worked out successfully, Ray Pruett, Senior Citizens Agency director, said. The second monthly tour will give residents an even wider opportunity to shop because of the greater number of stores at Lynwood. Interested shoppers may board the bus at 9:20 a.m. at the Colonial Apartments; 9:30 a.m. Pioneer Courts; 9:40 a.m. Justamere Inn; 9:45 a.m. Sunnyside Courts; 9:50 a.m. Duvall and Terry Courts and at 10 a.m. at Washington Courts. Pruett said special entertainment will be offered following the dinner at the agency center in the former St. Edward's School.

No reservations are needed for the shopping tour, but those wishing to stay for a dinner should call the agency in advance at 734-3832.

Some balance intake, output

NEW YORK (UPI)—With a marvelous feeding machine three scientists proved that some people, like some rats and other experimental animals, automatically and unwittingly match their intake of food with their output of energy.

That means their body weight hardly varies month to month and year to year. It is the effortless way of being healthily slender. Scientists have found this inborn and purely physiological knack in an assortment of animals but were despairing of proving its existence in humans.

There are a lot of consistently slender people to be sure—just as there are a lot of persistently fat ones. But people eat for obscure psychological reasons as well as for the physiological demands for nutrition.

The scientific problem is to "eliminate" the psychological reasons in order to isolate the inborn physiological control over intake (if one exists in people) and watch it at work. Drs. Robert G. Campbell, Sami A. Hashim and Theodore B. Van Itallie did it with a feeding machine.

All you see is a box mounted on a wall. From it projects a tube and a bulb. To be machine fed, you put the tube between your lips, squeeze the bulb and liquid food is shot into your mouth.

Inside the box is a reservoir of the nutritious liquid and a pump that precisely regulates the amount each bulb squeeze delivers. Through the wall it is wired to a recorder that prints out the time and amount of every squeeze.

Voluntarily five lean young men lived for weeks in an experimental metabolic unit of Columbia University's Institute of Human Nutrition. Their only food was the food they squeezed from the machine and since the food was liquid and otherwise undistinguishable, presumably they squeezed only when they felt the physiological need for energy input.

Secretly the scientists were manipulating the "nutritional density" of the liquid by adding water to reduce its caloric value and a thickener and other agents to prevent any detectable change in taste or texture.

As density went down, the number of bulb squeezes increased and when density increased, bulb squeezes decreased. The recorder printouts documented a physiological control in the young men which matched their intake with their energy output, and so their weights varied little during the experimental weeks.

Treaty planned

By United Press International

The Soviet Union and the newly proclaimed Peoples Republic of Bangladesh announced plans today to draw up a trade treaty and begin arrangements for Russian engineers and technicians to help rebuild shattered East Pakistan.

The plans to draw up the trade pact "as quickly as possible" were announced in Dacca after talks between Soviet trade mission chief V.V. Zvreb and Finance Minister M. Mansoor Ali and Home Minister H. Kamruzzaman.

The Bangladesh government said it needed cotton and electricity, as well as cash and technical advice to rebuild agricultural and industrial production which all said was "threadbare."

India and Bhutan are the only nations thus far to recognize the state of Bangladesh but the Soviet actions indicated Russian recognition would be forthcoming shortly.

UPI correspondent Ajit K. Dass reported meanwhile from Jessore that the first train from India to reach East Pakistan since the 1965 India-Pakistan war had arrived in Jessore today to help with the repatriation of refugees.

UPI correspondent Kenneth J. Bradlock reported today from Narayanganj in East Pakistan that at least 20,000 non-Bengalis face death by starvation or at the hands of vengeance-seeking Bengalis. He said they were huddled in squalid ghettos inside the world's biggest jute mill at the town 14 miles from Dacca, protected by 400 Indian soldiers.

Could speed work

"AIR TRUCKS" can shorten the construction schedule for the proposed giant Alaska oil pipeline, petroleum leaders are told by the Lockheed-George Co., Marietta Ga. Company official Don Webster said use of Hercules air-freighters, shown in this artist's concept, could put the pipeline into operation as much as eight months earlier. The planes could airlift pipe and other material along the route and 60 per cent of the work could be done by the time a "haul" road was built for trucks. (UPI)

Serious crime rises six per cent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Serious crime rose 6 per cent in the first nine months of 1971, FBI Uniform Crime Statistics showed today.

General John N. Mitchell said it was the smallest increase for the period since 1965.

The 6 per cent climb in all forms of serious crime from January to September this year compared with a 10 per cent gain during the same period in 1970.

However, violent crimes the first nine months of this year increased 10 per cent—the same rate as last year.

Murder, rape and aggravated assault were all higher than a year ago, but there were decreases in the rate of nonviolent crimes such as burglary, larceny and auto theft.

Mitchell also pointed out that crime in Washington—the only area where the federal government has jurisdiction—fell by almost 14 per cent.

Nationwide, armed robbery increased 17 per cent, according to the FBI. Assaults with firearms, which account for about one-fourth of all serious assaults, were up 11 per cent.

The FBI preliminary figures showed the nation's six largest cities—Chicago, Detroit, Houston, Los Angeles, New York and Philadelphia—had an overall crime rate increase of 4 per cent, but that murders were up 17 per cent, forcible rapes up 8 per cent and robbery up 45 per cent.

Cities of 500,000 to 1 million persons showed a reduction of 3 per cent in overall crimes, while cities of 250,000 to 500,000 were up 3 per cent. Suburban areas had an 11 per cent crime increase and rural areas were up 6 per cent. But the highest rate of increase came in small towns of 10,000 or under which were up 14 per cent over a year ago.

In a statement accompanying the statistical report, Mitchell said the crime rate decreased in 52 of the 156 major cities with populations of 100,000 or more.

China has good year in Middle East, 1972 may be even better

BEIRUT (UPI)—It has been a winning year for the Communist Chinese in the Middle East and 1972 may prove to be even better.

Chairman Mao Tse-tung's mainland government emerged from three years of isolation following the cultural revolution to extend both its diplomatic and economic influence in the Arab world.

Lebanon, Libya and Kuwait announced plans this year to establish diplomatic relations with the People's Republic, leaving the monarchies of Saudi Arabia and Jordan the only major Arab nations still shunning Peking.

Chinese salesmen, selling everything from fly swatters, pencil sharpeners and soccer balls to frozen foods and chemicals, had a busy year, according to Hsinhua, the Chinese news agency.

Hsinhua published figures showing a 10 per cent increase, worth $200 million in exports to Arab markets in 1970, compared with the years 1967-1969. This year was expected to be as good.

Chinese economic assistance to the area between 1964 and 1967 was $312 million, or about 23 per cent of Peking's total foreign aid during the period.

The latest Chinese economic package was announced Christmas Day when Maj. Gen.

Khalid Hassan Abbas, Sudanese defense minister, announced a $40-million low-interest loan for investment in industrial projects in his country.

Hardly had Abbas left China when Abdel Khaled Samarral, Iraq's acting minister of economy and a member of the ruling Baath party leadership, flew into Peking for a 10-day review of world problems with Chinese leaders.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad scheduled a trip to Peking in January in an attempt to clarify Peking's position toward the Arab conflict with Israel. This followed trips to China earlier this year by two Egyptian economic and political groups.

Chinese influence in the Arab world is still not as strong as that of Russia, the United States or Britain. But diplomatic observers say Peking has been making points at the expense of other big powers in recent months.

China's diplomatic thrust into the Arab world has been marked by a tactical change in the last year. At one point, Peking's diplomats concentrated on developing ties with such groups as the Palestinian guerrillas, but they have switched emphasis to strengthening relations with established governments.

The Chinese have coupled their own diplomatic ventures with an attempt to undermine Russian achievements.

NEW YORK (UPI)—One of the largest Yiddish language daily newspapers in the country, the Day Jewish Morning Journal, ceased publication with Tuesday's final editions.

The paper, with a daily circulation of 38,000, ended its 57-year existence because of an apparent lack of funds. The Journal was founded in 1914 and expanded as it acquired four other Yiddish papers. Its demise leaves the Daily Forward and the Morgan Freiheit as the only major Yiddish dailies in the United States.

Hearing slated at Boise Jan. 18

BOISE — A hearing before the Idaho Public Utilities Commission has been scheduled for Jan. 18 at 9 a.m. in the Industrial Administration Building, Room 3301, 317 Main Street, Boise, on an application from Gem State Truck Lines, Mountain Home.

The firm, owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Gulsasola, has applied for permit to transfer livestock and agricultural products and coal between major communities in southern Idaho.

Another hearing has been scheduled for the same location

Jan. 27 at 9:30 a.m. by the PUC to establish a ruling of interpretation on a portion of the Idaho Code.

The code states a hearing shall be held before issuance of the original operating authority to carriers, except when sale, assignment or transfer is made to members of the family of the permit holder or to himself when organized as another form of business.

Under present regulations, a hearing is required on transfer even when the present permit holder is the principal owner of the firm to receive the permit.

Q — What do you know about the new hangover cure "Quick-Over"? Does it really work?

A — Yes, Washington, D. C.

According to Dr. Julian Waller, University of Vermont expert on the effects of alcohol, you can't really "cure" a hangover. You can relieve the distressing symptoms of headache and upset stomach with aspirin and an alkalizer.

"Quick-Over" does contain aspirin but the amount is not stated. It also contains an alkalizer, some caffeine (as a stimulant) and some vitamin B. The experts claim the vitamin B is of no real value in relieving hangover symptoms.

You can help stave off a hangover by eating well before you drink and nibbling some snacks while drinking. This helps keep the intoxication level down. Plenty of liquids (soda, water) also helps.

"Quick-Over" sells for around 50 cents for just one dose. It's far cheaper to buy regular ASP aspirin (a whole bottle for 50 cents) and some salt-type alkalizers.

Q — We've made an extra room in our basement which is not heated. What's the best way to heat an extra room? We use forced hot-water heat through the rest of the house. — Y.M.R., Fitchburg, Mass.

A — You should use hot water baseboard heat with a zone control valve operated by a separate thermostat. It's always best to use your existing heating system if you can tap into it. The thermostat will cost around $50 and the baseboard unit will cost around $15 per foot installed.

You could get a hot water unit heater for around $250 installed but they're big and unsightly. Electric baseboard heat would give you the lowest initial cost but cost of operation would be much more expensive.

Q — Which is better, Latex or oil-base paint, for outdoor use? — M.D.S., Dayton, Ohio.

A — Latex paint goes on much easier and is much easier to work with. It dries in 30 minutes or so. By then and finish can be cleaned easily with plain water. Oil-base paint has an excellent adhesive quality and works better on such things as doors, trim and other hard-use surfaces because it's easier to wash and maintain. Latex is better on stone and concrete surfaces but should not be used on asphalt roofing material.

Hearing set over award

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court will hear the appeal Jan. 6 by the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. and the Aetna Casualty Co. from an award by the Industrial Accident Board to Mrs. Lois A. Hadden, Paul.

Mrs. Hadden, while working at the company's potato processing plant near Burley, injured her elbow. Two months later a similar accident injured the woman's other elbow.

The complaint said she was not able to work at full efficiency following the accident and a hearing was held before the Industrial Accident Board to determine compensation. The woman said she had experienced pain, tingling and other symptoms in each arm.

Mrs. Hadden attempted to return to work several months later but experienced increasing pain and the lack of mobility. The complaint said specialists in Salt Lake City gave a diagnosis of dermatomyositis, with an uncertain prognosis.

The complaint said the woman was unable to work and reopened her case to modify the compensation award. This was granted.

The employer and the insurer appealed the decision on the grounds that the woman had been "adequately compensated" and that "no causal relationship between the accident and the disease were shown."

Rupert offices to close Friday

RUPERT — City offices in Rupert will be closed all day Friday but Heyburn offices will remain open.

Idaho First National Bank and First Security Bank in Rupert and the Idaho Bank and Trust, Paul, will close at 3 p.m. The Minidoka County courthouse will close at noon.

Slick area roads cause accidents

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley roads and highways are snow covered, icy and slick with numerous minor accidents being reported by area law enforcement agencies.

In the last 24 hours, Twin Falls Police reported 11 minor accidents due to slick roads. There were several incidents of children "hooky-hobbling" behind cars on the slick roads, police said.

The Twin Falls sheriff's department investigated three minor accidents besides one fatal mishap. County roads are snow covered and drifting with winds.

State police at Cottoral and Hollister ports of entry said seven accidents were investigated and state police assisted in two others.

The state police and the Idaho Highway Department report in general, all roads and highways in the Magic Valley are snow covered or with icy spots and slick.

Highways from King Hill to Gooding and Bliss to Buhl are listed with snow floor; Twin Falls to the Nevada border on U. S. 93; icy and broken snow floor; Jerome to Hazelton on Interstate 80, broken snow floor; Burley and Rupert to Raft River on Interstate 80, broken snow floor, and icy spots; Shoshone, U.S. Highway 933, icy; Fairfield, State Highway 68, icy; Hailey, State Highway 63, icy spots and broken snow floor; and Galena to Stanley, snow floor.

Travelers' warnings of hazardous driving due to the icy and snow covered road conditions with local areas of drifting snow were in effect.

Weather reports show cloudy with scattered snow showers frequent Friday. The winds will be westerly from 10 to 20 miles per hour at times.

December sets record this year in Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — Records from the National Weather Service show it's colder and there is more snow now than has ever been received on the average in Idaho in any December since the late 19th century.

To date temperatures in December have averaged 10 to 12 degrees below normal and snowfall has been 300 per cent above normal.

Man arraigned in murder case

AMERICAN FALLS — A 39-year-old American Falls man was arraigned late Wednesday morning on first degree murder charges in the shooting death of Lloyd Casper, Wendell, on Tuesday evening.

Lester Eugene Waters appeared in magistrate's division of Sixth District Court before Judge Ray O. Berge. Judge Berge set Jan. 6, 1972, as the date for Waters' preliminary hearing and ordered the accused to hold the custody of Power County Sheriff's officers.

First degree murder is a non-bailable offense. Waters was identified as a foreman for the Union Pacific Railroad.

Casper was apparently shot to death early Tuesday evening while backing his car out of the parking lot of the downtown Gardner Hotel in American Falls. Police took Waters into custody shortly after the incident occurred.

Power County Prosecuting Atty. Ben Caraness said Casper was shot in the chest with a bullet fired from a rifle.

Casper's body was returned to Leeper Mortuary in Wendell following an autopsy in Power County Wednesday.

2 Scouts walk out of hills unharmed

ALBION — Two Boy Scouts walked out of the hills near Albion at 1:30 a.m. Wednesday, after having been the objects of an hour-and-a-half search by rescue teams.

Wayne Bowler, scoutmaster, who had taken a group of Scouts into the hills near Albion, reported the two unidentified boys missing shortly after 10 p.m. Tuesday. He said they had not been seen for nearly three and a half hours.

It was the second fruitless search of the night for volunteer search teams. A few hours earlier a Rupert man and his Burley nephew also were reported missing, but walked into the Pomerelle Ski Resort shortly after a search was organized. They reported their snowmobiles were stuck in heavy snow and they had abandoned them and walked the six miles to the resort.

Progress told for Malad Park

GOODING — Progress in development of the Malad River Gorge State Park was described for the Gooding Historical Society Wednesday evening by Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, D-Tuttle.

He said the state has acquired the necessary land and that the paper work for the park is now being completed.

Construction of the park should begin next year. He said the park will contain about 680 acres and that when it is complete, there should be 250 overnight camping sites.

Ravenscroft said park construction will be coordinated with Interstate 80 construction so that some park facilities will be completed when the interstate opens.

He said there is a possibility of reconstructing the old trading post and wagon station on the old Kelton Trading Road which could be used as a museum site by the historical society.

Members of the Idaho Parks Board will tour Box Canyon, Malad Canyon, Niagara Springs and Thousand Springs on a field trip Jan. 17. Ravenscroft suggested members of the historical society could meet with the park board and discuss what cooperation could be arranged between the park service and the society in reconstructing historical sites within the park.

New Perrine Bridge one of largest 1972 construction projects slated for Idaho

BOISE — One of the largest projects in the $40-million Idaho highway construction program of 1972 is the $8.4 million Perrine Bridge replacement project.

Members of the Idaho Board of Highway Directors announced the state's 1972 program today, saying all of the work including the Perrine Bridge project depends on approval of state matching funds when the state legislature meets after the first of the year.

The total program calls for $23.6 million in interstate highway system work and $16.3 million for improvements to the primary and secondary systems of Idaho.

Interstate projects are financed through 92 per cent federal and 8 per cent state money from the highway users' fund. Primary, secondary and urban projects are constructed with 65 per cent federal money and 37 per cent state highway user funds.

In the Second District, with headquarters in Shoshone and covering most of Magic Valley and Wood River Valley, 18 projects are proposed including eight federal aid highway undertakings.

Those in the Magic Valley area include paving of 7.7 miles of U. S. 93A from Corral to Fairfield; safety improvement for the Wood River Bridge on U. S. 93 south of Ketchum, part of which is now complete with grade changes on the approaches to be completed in the coming season.

Other work involves 4.7 miles of new construction on Interstate 80N running from the West Bliss Interchange to the East Bliss Interchange to connect with State Highway 25 and include a new connection with U. S. 30.

Also on the interstate plans call for 7 miles of new construction from Tuttle to Wendell, the last leg of construction of I-80 in this district. Highway officials said this will complete the high speed highway from Raft River to the Elmore County line. Right of way is still being obtained for this section.

Construction of the new Perrine Bridge hinges on approval of state matching funds, officials said, with federal money now assured.

West Five Points in Twin Falls, postponed from last year, is expected to be completed this summer with federal, state and city funds providing cost.

Safety improvements are planned for I-80N at the Valley Interchange and to the Meridian Road. This involves upgrading this area with signing and guard rail changes to meet new safety standards for interstate construction.

Similar work is slated for I-80N from the junction with I-15W to Meridian Road and for I-15W from the junction with I-80N to Raft River.

Seal-coating is scheduled for two other areas including I-15W from the junction with I-80N to Raft River and I-80N from I-15W to a point 6.8 miles south.

E. I. Kidner, highway department official in Shoshone, said this is a new endeavor for the department of highways in this district. A heat application will be used to warm up the cracked surfaces of the Interstate in these areas. It will be compacted by rolling while hot and a seal coat applied.

Jerome closing schedule

JEROME — With New Year's Day falling on Saturday, Jerome units of government have announced the following schedules.

The Jerome County courthouse will be closed all day Friday, Dec. 31, according to county auditor, Mrs. Ella McVey. But city offices will be open Friday, according to Mayor J. A. (Jack) Russell.

Dale Vining, Jerome postmaster, said that the post office will conduct business as usual on Dec. 31.

Most of the stores in Jerome will be open on Friday with the banks in Jerome staying open until 3 p.m. Friday.

Stores in TF operate Friday

TWIN FALLS — Saturday will be a holiday for nearly all workers in Twin Falls, but Friday will see a large number of store and office employees on the job as usual.

Closed Friday will be city, county, state and federal offices, with the exception of law enforcement offices and the U.S. Post Office which will make deliveries and maintain normal Friday hours.

Most stores will also be open Friday as usual while banks will be open until 3 p.m. only.

Couple dies in blaze at Pocatello

POCATELLO (UPI) — An early-morning house fire in a residential district Pocatello's east side has claimed the lives of a young married couple today.

The two have been identified as Wallace Dale Johnson, 20, and his wife, Sally Finch Johnson, 18. They apparently died of smoke inhalation.

Rainfall damages phones

CHICAGO (UPI) — Heavy rainfall forced water into a normally pressurized Bell System south of Chicago and knocked out a number of wire systems, an Illinois Bell spokesman said today.

The failure occurred somewhere between Plano, Ill., and Winnetka, Ind., affecting United Press International news wires and some long-distance telephone calls.

It's similar to a short-circuit. We guess water got in, maybe through a manhole cover, and in effect knocked the circuits out," the spokesman said.

Major outage began at about 8:40 a.m. CST. Most services were restored shortly after 8:30 a.m. CST.

Exchanges to close Friday for holiday

BURLEY — Offices in the Burley City Hall and Cassia County Courthouse all will be closed Friday, due to the New Year Holiday.

The Cassia National Bank, Idaho Bank and Trust and First Security Bank, all Burley, will close at 3 p.m. which is early for a Friday.

Most businesses in town will close at 5 or 5:30 p.m. for the day.

By United Press International — All U.S. commodities exchanges will be closed Friday for a three-day New Year's holiday, but securities exchanges will operate as usual on this final day of the year.

Closing early today were the Chicago Board of Trade, Chicago Mercantile Exchange, Kansas City Board of Trade,

Car knocks out power at Burley

BURLEY — Portions of Burley were without electric power for about two hours Tuesday evening after a car hit a power pole and knocked down lines at the corner of Conant Avenue and Fifth Street.

Municipal power crews worked about two hours to restore service to the area. Burley police said the auto, driven by James A. Roed, 17, Burley, received damage estimated at $250. None of the occupants of the car was injured. Damage to the power pole was placed at $150.

New historical society organization complete

By PEGGY CHU Times-News Writer

GOODING — Organization of the Gooding Historical Society was completed at a meeting Wednesday night.

Bylaws ratified at the meeting included one setting up a 13-member board of directors and offices of president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer. An annual meeting will be held the first Monday in June when officers and directors will be elected. Membership fees and dues were set at $1.

Temporary chairman, Mrs. Dan Coates, announced that nominating committee will be chosen before the next meeting to draw the slate of officers.

Jack Varlin, Gooding, attorney for the society, said the society has been incorporated through the state as a non-profit organization.

Mrs. K. T. Butler, one of the organizers of the society, presented a $100 check to the society. The money was donated by Mrs. Dick King, Boise, daughter of E. L. Wilson, Gooding City clerk for many years and a Gooding pioneer. In a letter to the society, Mrs. King said her family would provide documents and antiques from early Gooding days for the proposed museum.

The historical society is looking for information on the early history of Gooding and its pioneers. It is also seeking artifacts from the pioneer period to be eventually housed in a museum to be created at Gooding County. Mrs. Butler said many items have already been donated and historical records are being compiled for them.

Britain plans pullout

LONDON (UPI)—Britain set plans in motion today for a quick military pullout from Malta, the strategic Mediterranean island that has been a key British base for 171 years. It did so, even at risk of a Soviet takeover, rather than knuckle under to a two-time ultimatum from the island's fiery Socialist Premier Dom Mintoff.

In messages to the British government on Christmas Eve and again on Wednesday, Mintoff demanded withdrawal of all British armed forces from the island by Friday unless Britain paid immediately another $11 million for the right to station them there. This was in addition to a one-time cash payment of $12.35 million already paid by Britain for six months from Sept. 30. Officials said that immediately after rejecting Mintoff's ultimatum, the British government ordered contingency plans for just-such-an-emergency to be put into operation. However, they said Britain will insist on "reasonable" time to get its troops and their dependents out of the island. But Mintoff told the Maltese parliament Wednesday night all British troops must be out by Friday. Later he survived by one vote a parliamentary no-confidence motion.

There currently are about 3,500 British army, air force and navy men and 7,000 dependents on the island. They are stationed there under a 10-year defense agreement signed in 1964, when the former British colony was given its independence. Mintoff denounced the agreement as soon as he came to power with a one-seat parliamentary majority in elections in June.

British officials said some of the troops may be transferred to the British sovereign bases in Cyprus and others to Gibraltar. British officials said withdrawal of their forces would mean a loss to Malta of about $3.8 million a year spent there by British servicemen and their families. They estimated it would add about 7,500 to Malta's 6,000 jobless in a total work force of 100,000.

Wyoming lawsuit filed

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI)—A $1 million lawsuit has been filed in Natrona County District Court against two Minneapolis corporations and the estate of a Minneapolis man in connection with a plane crash that killed five men in 1970.

Killed in the October, 1970, crash of a Piper Cherokee near Douglas, Wyo., were pilot Howard Kneeland, John Mueller, David Dehler, Bob Amos and John Kutler, all of Minneapolis. They were flying to Casper to hunt.

The wreckage of their light plane was found southeast of Douglas after a nine-day search which began after the plane failed to land at Casper Oct. 10. Kneeland had radioed the Casper air terminal but did not indicate any trouble.

The suit was filed by Mrs. Thelma Ruth Lewis of Casper as administratrix of Dehler's estate, against the estate of Kneeland and Equity Leasing Corp. and Thunderbird Aviation. Kneeland owned Thunderbird Aviation.

The suit alleged the plane crash was due to "negligent and unlawful misconduct" by Kneeland and poor maintenance by the two corporations which owned the plane.

Impossible

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—A report that the United States is using a "super bomb" in Vietnam—a non-nuclear weapon that destroys everything within 3,200 feet—is a scientific impossibility, says one of the nation's foremost explosive experts.

Dr. W. E. Baker, who earned three engineering degrees at Johns Hopkins University and is listed as one of the "American Men in Science," said Wednesday that even if such a bomb existed, it would be so heavy no airplane could lift it.

Forecast good for '72

NEW YORK (UPI)—If business leaders and money managers who control more than $200 billion annually in sales, assets and customer accounts know what they're talking about, 1972 should be a good year.

Top executives in steel, railroads, utilities, autos, oil, rubber, insurance and investment bankers responding to a United Press International survey were optimistic about the coming year. One predicted boosts in corporate profits up to 20 per cent; another saw the economic growth doubling; others were less optimistic but saw steady growth.

"The ingredients are present for a vigorous expansion," said James M. Roche, chairman and chief executive of General Motors, the world's largest industrial complex with 1970 sales of $18.75 billion.

"We believe there will be steady growth through 1972, a good year for transition and recovery for the free world," said J. K. Jamieson, Chairman of Standard Oil of New Jersey, second largest industrial company with sales of $18.5 billion last year.

"The economy should continue the slow recovery started in 1971 and develop enough new jobs to dampen unemployment," was the way H.L. Romes saw it. He's president and chief executive of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the world's largest utility company with assets of $50 billion.

"We expect the real Gross National Product (GNP) to be more than double as the rate of inflation tapers off, and corporate profits to rise with volume about 15 to 20 per cent," said Charles R. Orem, president and chief executive of Investors Diversified Services of Minneapolis, the world's largest group of investment companies.

It manages assets of about $8 billion and is a major stock market force. "We believe the actual economic growth should be double that of 1971, and disposable income is expected to increase by more than 8 per cent," said Chairman Raymond C. Firestone of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, with sales of $2.33 billion.

While most economists echo this optimism, a few are more cautious. Dr. Pierre A. Rinfret, president of Rinfret-Boston Associates and former advisor to presidents Johnson and Nixon, said he was "cautiously optimistic." Rinfret saw the "best economic environment since 1965" with inflation slowing, lower wage rate increases, lower money rates and higher profits, but he felt that this did not spell boom. "Too many businessmen still have 'Phase II blues' and too many consumers still are cautious," he said.

Elliot Janeway, famed as the "economic bear," held true to form. "I'm more scared now than ever because the climate in the world economy is turning bearish," he said. "Asked what should be done to restore economic stability over the long term, most of the executives polled said the priority items were consistent increase in productivity and tight control over inflation."

NEW YORK (UPI)—A former New York City policeman, accused of hijacking an Eastern Airlines 727 in May was found innocent of air piracy Wednesday on the ground of insanity.

U.S. District Court Judge Jack B. Weinstein set a hearing for today to hear arguments on a charge of kidnaping against the defendant, James Bennett Jr., 40. The Brooklyn federal court jury that found him innocent of air piracy (unlocked on the kidnaping charge.

Bennett testified that a love song—"It's Just Impossible"—that he heard while standing in line at Miami Airport triggered his decision to hijack the Miami-to-New York jet. He had been in Miami looking for a job. He told the jury he had problems at the time and his wife had secured a court order to "keep him away from five children.

The climbers were so exhausted from their efforts that they bedded down at 5:30 p.m., trying to ignore heavy snow, winds gusting to more than 30 miles an hour and the sub-zero temperatures.

Ranger Wayne Welch reported avalanche conditions were severe in most areas of the towering mountain peak.

"Their primary problem is avalanche danger," Welch said. "We have seen one avalanche on another mountain, and a climbing party they heard an avalanche about every five minutes."

Welch said 44 climbers were scaling various peaks in the park and another climbing party planned to attempt the Grand Teton after Petzoldt's group finished.

ROME (UPI)—Home city fathers, trying to convince citizens to leave their cars at home, today began a nine-day experiment with free bus rides for all commuters.

"Will it work?" Giorgio la Morgia, president of one of two city-owned transportation companies, asked newsmen. "Time will tell ... what we hope to do is confront the citizen with the choice: Spend fatiguing and very costly hours in his own car or move more rapidly, more easily and more cheaply—even free of charge—in public transportation."

The Atac and Stefer companies began the experiment at 6 a.m. today and were continuing it until midnight Jan. 7. Over that period, all public transportation except some suburban bus lines and the only existing subway line, will accept passengers in daytime without charging the usual 10-cent fare. Payment will still be required for night runs between midnight and 6 a.m.

The philosophy behind it is that free transportation may help keep cars out of the traffic-jammed city centers—and that the transportation companies are losing so much money already that a bit more doesn't really matter.

Officials estimated the nine days of free service would cost Atac $600,000.

That's peanuts for a company which has an annual deficit of $113.5 million. Stefer has a deficit of $42.9 million. The city of Rome itself has piled up a total debt of $1.44 trillion over the years.

No change proposed in food stamp regulations

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng said today the administration is not proposing to change new food stamp regulations which reduce aid to some needy people while liberalizing benefits for many others. Earlier this month, a bipartisan group of 28 senators had asked Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz to take steps to avoid cuts in benefits produced by the new stamp eligibility and benefit schedules. The revised regulations were drawn up under a 1970 law which called for uniform national income eligibility standards in place of varying state-by-state schedules. They took effect in some states this month and will apply in others beginning in January.

Lyng said in an interview that a reply to the senatorial letter, which was drafted by Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., is being prepared. But the reply will not, he said, propose any change in the regulations.

Under the new uniform stamp rules, about 1.7 million people previously barred from the stamp program by low state eligibility ceilings will become eligible for aid for the first time. And officials said nearly six million others will get bigger stamp "bonus" allotments than in the past because of changes in benefit schedules.

At the same time, however, it has been predicted that about two million stamp recipients toward the high end of the income eligibility scale will get lower "bonus" allotments. And perhaps about 60,000 people in 12 states will lose eligibility for stamps completely because their incomes are above the new standard ceilings.

Officials said most of the 60,000 are elderly singles and couples who had been eligible under older state ceilings in California, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, New Jersey, Rhode Island, New York, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

In these states, needy people on public assistance will continue to get food stamps even if their incomes exceed the new national cut-offs of $22 monthly for a couple and $360 for a family of four. But non-welfare stamp recipients with incomes above the new national standards will lose eligibility for stamps.

One Agriculture Department official estimated the cost of continuing stamp aid to those facing a complete cut-off might be up to $4 million a year. But Lyng said that because the low calls for uniform national treatment, the ceilings could not be raised for the limited group without simultaneously raising eligibility limits for people in all other states.

Lyng had no estimate of the cost of such across-the-board action.

Nullarbor Nymph saga intriguing

PERTH, Australia (UPI)—The Nullarbor Nymph may be a tall, blonde girl dressed only in a fur miniskirt who gambols with kangaroos. Then again, it may be an Englishman with long hair who decided to become a hermit. Or maybe it all is just a publicity stunt.

In any case, the saga of the Nullarbor Nymph has captured the imagination of the Australian public, so much so that a land and air search for whatever it may be is under way at the little town of Eucla, 600 miles east of Perth.

Some rabbit trappers, who spotted what they called "the kangaroo girl" earlier this week, swear she is tall, has long blonde hair, wears what appears to be a fur miniskirt and nothing else, and runs with the kangaroos. They said when they tried to approach her on the Nullarbor Desert near Eucla, a village with a population of eight persons, four dogs and a parrot that swears, she disappeared into the brush.

Passengers on a bus on the Eyre highway that passes near Eucla also said they saw her about four miles from the village. When the bus stopped the girl disappeared. They left some food and went on their way.

Steve Patupis, who owns Eucla's Amber Motor Hotel and a foul-mouthed parrot, said the creature is an Englishman with long hair who decided to become a hermit. He said the man disappeared about eight months ago and he later found his suitcase and clothes on the desert.

Perth publicity man Geoff Pearce, who first heard the rabbit hunters' story, insists the whole thing isn't a publicity stunt. "What would be the point of it? There's nothing to publicize at Eucla," he said.

Today, a series of expeditions were under way for the Nullarbor Nymph, with some men searching on foot while light airplanes circled the area. The search centered near a cave where local hunters said they found "utensils and evidence of habitation."

The area is a desert, with scorched, wasted lands, lots of kangaroos and rabbits. Helen Gurney, wife of a ranch owner in the area, shrugged off the whole affair. "I think it's just a big publicity stunt," she said.

"My husband is a good tracker and it seems funny that the hotel, which is making all the fuss, has not asked him to track this girl down."

Lenient treatment

GARY, Ind. (UPI)—Police Chief Charles Boone, Gary's first black police chief, said Wednesday arrests are lenient in treatment of blacks in his city.

Boone, who was appointed police chief by Mayor Richard G. Hatcher, who also is black, said there has been an increase during the last year. In the number of blacks arrested. Boone said, however, that less than 10 per cent of his department's felony arrests result in convictions. The police chief, displayed charts he said showed the increase in arrests of blacks and the fewest convictions.

National Temperatures

NEW YORK (UPI)—An early morning stock market decline quickened as trading rounded mid-session Thursday.

Most of the setback stemmed from profit taking and late minute, year-end tax selling. Some analysts added that the market is overbought and the profit taking could spill over to the early part of the new year.

Steels and motors lost fractions, while electronics generally gave ground. Oils pointed in both directions, and the day's most heavily traded stocks were slightly lower.

The Dow Jones industrial average showed a loss of about 4 1/2 points at 889.08 near 1:15 p.m. Other leading indicators also eased, and declines topped advances, 805 to 524.

A three-hour turnover of 8,200,000 shares compared with 11,620,000 shares traded in a comparable period Wednesday.

Among the point-sized losers were IBM down 1, Texas Instruments 1 1/2, Honeywell 2, Polaroid 1 1/2, Tek 1 1/2, Walt Disney 2 1/4, and Bausch & Lomb 3 1/2.

Active American Telephone eased 3/4, Boise Cascade 3/4, Delta Air Lines also 3/4, and Occidental Petroleum 1/2.

Qann Central showed a steady tone, Standard Oil of California edged higher.

Weather preview

SHOWNERS are forecast for the northwest Pacific Coast with snow in the northern and central Rockies through the northeastern part of the nation. No important temperature changes are expected. (UPI)

Warming trend expected by weekend

Rupert area, northside, Burley-lower Wood-River Valley.

Scattered showers of snow tonight becoming more frequent Friday. Westerly winds 15 to 25 mph at times. Lows tonight mostly zero to 10.

Outlook for Saturday, cloudy with scattered snow showers.

Synopsis: The weather disturbance that moved into the northwest Pacific coastal section yesterday caused rather widespread light snow to the northwest plateau sections to the intermountain area.

A weather disturbance moving toward British Columbia and northwest Washington is much warmer and will bring moderating temperatures to much of the northwest by the end of the week.

This new storm is rather moist and will cause increasing shower activity over the western plateau by early Friday. This storm is expected to track farther north than the previous system and therefore should not bring too much shower activity to southern Idaho.

Temperatures will develop a rising trend to near seasonal proportions by the end of the week.

In general the extended forecast is for variable cloudiness through Friday with scattered snow showers. Winds will be light and variable.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — I bought Mortgage Associates (OTC) at $6. It is now $32. Please advise if company will continue to grow. —B.G.

A — While there is nothing negative in the corporate picture at present, I cannot state categorically that growth will continue at the same pace as in the past. Although mortgage loans had jumped 133 per cent to $62 million year-over-year, as of Apr. 30, 1971, notes payable by the company had increased only 68 per cent.

Earnings for fiscal 1970-71, adjusted for a 100 per cent stock dividend payable Aug. 31, were 65 cents a share, up from 30 cents. For the first quarter of the current fiscal year, net rose sharply to 54 cents a share versus 18 cents in the previous year. While shares command a high multiple, this has been justified by operating results.

However, some near-term consolidation is probable.

While long-term price appreciation is the prime consideration for growth investors, dividend return when figured on costs can mount up geometrically over a period of years. Your own five stocks are an excellent example of the kind of growth which results from compounding. Earnings have grown at a 13 per cent annual compound rate on average for the five companies, while dividend growth has been at an average compound rate of 15 per cent. Using a base dividend rate of $1 increased annually at 15 per cent, in 5 years the dividend would be $1.89. By comparison in a controlled economy with a 4 per cent

Q — I have followed your advice over the years and invested in strong growth companies with a pattern of annual dividend increases. My holdings are Avon Products, Bristol-Myers, Eastman Kodak, Simplicity Pattern and Xerox. Will the proposed 4 per cent, Phase 2 restriction on dividend increases also limit the appreciation potential for these stocks? —T.O.

A — If the restraint on dividends is of lasting duration, it could eventually dampen enthusiasm for these and other blue-chip growth stocks. The long-term appeal of stocks, such as your five Big Board issues, lies in their consistent annual increases in sales, earnings and dividends. If a limit, even one as modest as 4 per cent, is placed on dividends, some long-term investors are going to have second thoughts and switch to high yield bonds.

Mississippi's sophs face Tech's defense in Peach Bowl tonight

ATLANTA (UPI)—The 1971 Peach Bowl question: Can Mississippi's amazing sophomores stand up to Georgia Tech's bully-boy defense.

Colorado expects tight bowl game

HOUSTON (UPI)—Bill Yeoman's Astrozone record—35 victories in 39 games—has Colorado's Eddie Crowder frightened. But the Buffs' coach predicted a close game Wednesday against Houston in Friday's Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl game.

Wide-open Sugar Bowl game looms

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—With the likes of Heisman Trophy winner Pat Sullivan passing to Auburn's Terry Beasley and Oklahoma's Jack Mildren running, handing off or passing to his crew, anything is liable to happen in the 34th Sugar Bowl football classic New Year's Day.

watching on a special network. Coach Billy Kinard is a rookie and so are 21 members of the Mississippi squad.

But with this contingent of youngsters, Kinard ran up a 9-2 record and finished third in the tough Southeastern Conference.

Tech's tough defense wasn't enough early in the season. But the Yellow Jackets began to win halfway through the season when quarterback Eddie McAshan was able to move the offense over sustained drives.

McAshan, first black ever to quarterback a Deep South team, suffered a groin injury after the end of regular-season play, but Georgia Tech coach Bud Carson said Wednesday he expects McAshan to play.

Carson said defensive end Smylie Gebhart, who twisted a knee this month, would be able to play.

Kinard will have sophomore Norris Weese at quarterback. Weese took over in mid-season after his roommate, Kenny Lyons, suffered a shoulder separation.

Lyons' shoulder apparently has mended but Kinard said Wednesday that he does not anticipate putting him in the game.

Area teams set 2 tilts for tonight

The Minico Spartans will travel to Jerome while the Burley Bobcats entertain the Madison Bobcats Thursday night in the concluding two holiday basketball games in Magic Valley.

Minico, running undefeated, should find the going a little more difficult Thursday night at Jerome than it did when the teams met earlier in Rupert.

Siemon gets Pop Warner grid award

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI)—Jeff Siemon, Stanford's All-American quarterback, Wednesday was named the 1971 winner of the Pop Warner Award, emblematic of the top college football player on the West Coast.

Siemon, who will lead his Stanford teammates in the Rose Bowl on Saturday, won out in the Warner balloting in a close fight with Bernard Jackson, Washington State's fine running back, and Bobby Moore, an equally accomplished runner from Oregon.

Balloting was among West Coast sports writers and sportscasters but no actual votes tallies were announced.

Bears launch search for new coach after canning Dooley

CHICAGO (UPI)—Chicago Bears owner George Halas launched a "wide open" search for a new coach today, but it was unlikely some stranger would come in to take over the Halas fired his protege, Jim Dooley, yesterday after four unsuccessful years in the job, during which the Bears had three consecutive losing seasons for the first time in history.

But four times previously, since he founded the Bears in 1920, Halas has chosen a replacement for himself as coach, and each time he looked only into the ranks of Bears players or coaches.

Thus Ralph Jones, once a part owner of the club, coached from 1930 through 1932; Hank Anderson and Luke Johnson coached from 1942 through 1945; Paddy Driscoll headed the team in 1956 and 1957; and finally Dooley held the title the last four seasons.

These facts indicated that while any applicant, from college or pro ranks, could send his recommendations to Halas, the 76-year-old club owner was most likely to dip into his present staff.

Front runners for the position thus had to be Bill Austin, a former head coach of National Football League teams at Pittsburgh and Washington, and Abe Gibron, the Bears' defensive coach.

Halas, though, said he would consider "other coaches with professional experience, or college coaches." The new coach was to be named before the NFL draft Feb. 1-2.

Prospects from these categories might find it hard to get the job, however. Pro coaches first would have to get clearance from their current employer and college coaches, who also might be under contract, would have to break down the thought that professional football requires different talents.

Halas said he would pay Dooley for the year remaining on the two-year contract he signed when he became head coach, but added that Dooley was free to seek any other job he wished.

Halas said Dooley was let go because "the record speaks for itself."

On the record Dooley's teams won 20 and lost 36 games and he was in charge in 1969 when the team had its worst record ever, one win and 13 defeats. The last two seasons the Bears finished 6-4, and this year, with a 6-3 record to be contenders

Rice hands coach over to Houston

HOUSTON (UPI)—Rice University gave Wednesday and released Bill Peterson from the four years remaining on his contract, allowing Peterson to accept a $1.25 million offer with the cross-town Houston Oilers.

Peterson, 48, called a news conference for Thursday to sign the lucrative 15-year contract with club owner and oil millionaire K. S. "Bud" Adams.

Dr. Norman Hackerman, president of Rice, formally dropped his opposition to Peterson's move after the two met 30 minutes at Hackerman's home.

"The contract has been terminated by Rice," Hackerman said. "I wished him well."

Peterson served only one year with Rice after coaching 11 years at Florida State. He compiled a 3-7 record and installed a pro-style offense which generated strong enthusiasm among Rice fans and alumni.

Adams made the offer last week when Peterson was in Montgomery, Ala., coaching the South in the Blue-Gray game. Peterson called Hackerman Christmas Eve and said he wanted to accept the "enticing" offer.

Hackerman at first balked and said he would not voluntarily release Peterson. He declined to explain his reversal.

"I handed him his letter to terminate the contract," Hackerman said. "I don't know enough to say what the legal questions involved were. We terminated it so we could get on with something. We need to resume our recruiting."

"Dr. Hackerman and I parted on very pleasant terms," Peterson said. "We are good friends. I enjoyed my stay tremendously at Rice and I want my sons to get their degrees there."

Peterson replaced Pat Humphreys, fired last week after the Oilers closed with a 4-11 record in his rookie season.

The initial contract is for 10 years, with a five-year extension at Peterson's option.

"It's nearly a lifetime contract," he said. "To a man with a family like mine (five sons) that's most important."

Aberdeen cops team title in Filer tourney

FILER — Aberdeen, one of the most lightly regarded teams going into the day, shoved six men into the finals and won the annual Filer Invitational wrestling tournament Wednesday.

Aberdeen wound up with 91 points while Jerome was second at 84. Ironically, those two teams met in a dual before Christmas and Jerome won it 45-11—that being the meet that caused pre-tourney dopests to put Aberdeen in the also-ran class.

In the lightest match of the day, eventual 155-pound champion Chris Cornforth defeated Twin Falls' Mark McKain on a pin in the third overtime round.

In the tightest match of the day, eventual 155-pound champion Chris Cornforth defeated Twin Falls' Mark McKain on a pin in the third overtime round. In another overtime match, Tomlinson of Jerome nipped Steve Cover of Twin Falls 10-9. Jerome freshman Norm Cochran won the heavyweight championship, a rarity in the sport that one so young would win at the weight.

wrestle-offs. But of five men in the championship round, Jerome got only the one title from Cochrane while Aberdeen tied it with three titlists.

Meridian was the only team stopped short of at least one individual champion as the blue ribbons were fairly evenly split. Aberdeen and Twin Falls won three each, Buhl 2 and Wood River, Minico, Filer and Jerome one apiece.

Results of the championship round include: 98 pounds, Doug Yturbe, Buhl, over Chris Weigle, Jerome; 105 pounds, Joe Ross, Aberdeen, over Jeff Harper, Minico; 112 pounds, Bruce Billington, Twin Falls, over Louie Asumendi, Meridian; 119 pounds, over Steve Harrison, Jerome; 126 pounds, Denny Kuntz, Buhl, over Roy Campbell, Jerome; 132 pounds, Monte Brothwell, Wood River, over Paul Clayton, Aberdeen; 138 pounds, Harper, Twin Falls, over Randy Wasla, Aberdeen; 145 pounds, Roger Graham, Minico, over Alan Phillips, Aberdeen; 155 pounds, Chris Cornforth, Aberdeen, over Tony Williams, Jerome; 167 pounds, Ron Griff, Filer, over Shawn Christensen, Aberdeen; 185 pounds, Steve Parr, Twin Falls, over Mike Morrison, Buhl, and heavyweight, Norm Cochran, Jerome, over John Courtnay, Filer.

Indiana, BYU post meet wins

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—Seventh ranked Indiana defeated Old Dominion 88-86 Wednesday to win first place in the Old Dominion Invitational Tournament.

Old Dominion's Dave Twardzik missed a final jump shot with one second to go that would have tied the game.

The first minutes of the Brigham Young-Rice contest was a see-saw battle, but Brigham Young sent its equally fast guards into the game and pulled ahead midway through the first period.

Kresimir Cosic led Brigham Young with 27 points and Rice was paced by Dan McGuire with 17.

made it impossible for the throw-in to develop. This made an interesting article, but our expert readers have discovered an alternate line of play that would have brought in the slam if Willard had made it. We were repeating the actual play. Here is the might-have-been. Just let the jack of diamonds hold that trick. Suppose West had the four of diamonds, which is as good a play as any. Dummy's queen wins the trick and a third spade is led and ruffed. Now South runs out all his hearts coming down to the ace of diamonds, a spade and a club in dummy while he holds a diamond and the ace-queen of clubs. The diamond is led and West must either chuck his good spade or unguard his king of clubs.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Here is a reprint of our hand of Sept. 3. It was originally played by Willard S. Karn against Edward Hynes Jr., back in 1931.

The peculiar bidding is due to the fact they were jockeying for position in a rubber bridge game. Eventually Eddy doubled six hearts and opened the king of spades. Karn ruffed a trump to dummy; ruffed a second spade and led a low diamond. Eddy proceeded to play the jack of diamonds. He visualized an eventual throw-in play against him if he played the low diamond and by playing the jack he and the king on the next diamond lead he

Cuddling Is A Treatment

L. M. BOYD
"The most fundamental requirement of man is neither food nor drink nor air, but affection."
A. D. Schultz
WHAT CAN YOU do for an addict in withdrawal from drugs? Besides administer more drugs, I mean. A doctor says the best treatment is cuddling. Anxiety is what's most apt to tear up a citizen come sick in this manner. Nothing so well ends the cold turkey terror as to be held in the arms of a loved one.
THAT MANY a 15-year-old girl bears a child out of wedlock is not news. What's news is one out of five who do so repeats the performance again the next year.
TUFFY PULLERS, please be advised: Sprinkle cornstarch on your hands, before digging in. Look, if this isn't the season for such advice, what is?
NOW THE PSYCHOLOGY boys contend men who bite their fingernails are, particularly stubborn. Hogwash! As an old fingernail biter, I'll never believe that. Never. Never.
USED CARS
She regularly buys her cars used, not new, this retired school teacher, and she's worked up a pretty nifty way to test them out. Doesn't bother to drive them first. She just turns on the radio and starts pushing the station's buttons. If said buttons are tuned to hard rock or hillbilly stations, she says no. If they're tuned to classical or the gentler music stations, she says yes. Been picking out her cars this way for almost two decades, she says, and has never got a bad machine.

QUERIES
Q—"Land area of Japan is equivalent to which of our states?"
A. Montana.
Q—"How long will dill pickles last in the refrigerator?"
A. A year maybe.
Q—"HOW MANY rooms in nation's capitol building?"
A. Just 540.
WHEN NEGOTIATORS in a tough business meeting take off their coats, there's hope. A government arbitrator of lengthy experience makes that claim. Says he has sat in on many a conference. When no settlement is in sight, says he, the negotiators keep their coats on. But if one by one they begin to remove said coats, you can count on some kind of agreement.
TO MARRY
No girl should be permitted to marry before the age of 16. That's the recommendation of a United Nation's committee. Presumably, this committee is of the opinion the United Nations will someday legislate such matters. Doubt that.
THOSE WHO believe in the significance of names contend girls called Sibyl tend to be particularly intuitive. Imagine this notion is a carry-over from the old Roman days when all the feminine fortune tellers were so called.

Gets out of main stream

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Susan Hayward harvested five Academy Award nominations and an Oscar before a voluntary retreat from the acting wars, living in Georgia and Florida. "I like to think of it as getting out of the main stream for a while to catch my breath on the bank," said the veteran actress of some 60 motion pictures. A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., Susan has replaced another Brooklyn girl, Barbara Stanwyck, in a television movie, "Fitzgerald and Fido." Miss Hayward was given the role after Miss Stanwyck underwent surgery for removal of a kidney. Sitting in her dressing room at 20th Century-Fox, Susan lauded Miss Stanwyck, regretting she had to forfeit the role which may well become a CBS dramatic series.

No one hopes more fervently that "Fitzgerald and Fido" becomes a series than Susie Hayward. She plays a female attorney, Fitzgerald, opposite Jim Stacey, a younger man who essays the role of Fido. Susan's partner in the law firm. Though Susan's home is in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where she owns a condominium, the red haired actress longs to return to Hollywood and a series. "I've never worked in television before," she said. "I love the fast pace. But the whole scene has changed. I grew up in a different age in Hollywood. Movies were all we thought about.

"But some things don't change. The faces. I have the same makeup man I had when I left here in 1957. I see stagehands, hairdressers and wardrobe ladies who were at the studio when I first started."

Widowed since the death of rancher Eaton Chalkley six years ago, Susan is anxious to fill her life with activity.

"I got my feet wet acting again in Mexico earlier this year in a small part in 'The Revengers' with William Holden," she said.

"For a while I thought it would be difficult to pick up acting again. But I found it came back to me naturally. The only thing I worried about was whether I'd lost the ability to memorize lines." Susan looks more slender than she did when she was a reigning star of some of Hollywood's best dramatic films.

She was nominated for best actress in "Smash-Up" (1947); "My Foolish Heart" (1949); "With a Song in My Heart" (1952); "I'll Cry Tomorrow" (1955) and "I Want to Live" (1959) for which she won an Oscar.

Of her current project Susan says, "I'd love to see this show develop into a series. It would be nice for women viewers to see a well-dressed intelligent contemporary female in a dramatic series. There is no such program for them on the air now.

"I know that it's peculiar I should be signed for this role because movie stars haven't been doing well on TV. But I never thought of myself as a movie star—I'm just a working girl."

First-born children more fearful

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A couple of university psychologists reported recently that first-born children are much more fearful than younger members of the same family.

Their study recalled one of several years ago in which another university psychologist concluded that first-borns are more likely to amount to something in the world than the later arrivals.

The two findings do not seem to contradict each other, and the reasons offered to explain them are similar.

Frank H. Farley of the University of Wisconsin at Madison and Wallace L. Meehan of Indiana State University gave what they called a standardized fear test to 148 college students.

First-borns showed more extreme fears than their younger kith "in social and interpersonal situations such as being alone and parting from friends," Farley said.

"These results," he reported, "seem to support other research indicating their first-borns are more anxious, more likely to conform to group pressures, and more dependent on others."

Why? One reason may be that parents usually expect more of their first child than they demand of later ones, and put greater pressure on the first-born to succeed.

Another may be that parents are over-anxious about their first child and communicate to it their own fears.

Five years ago Prof. William D. Altus of the University of California at Santa Barbara reported on research which included a study going back nearly 100 years of prominent achievers in "puny fields."

"In England and in the United States," Altus reported, "there appears to be an indubitable relation of birth order to the achievement of eminence, however it has been defined. The dice are loaded in favor of the first-born."

Altus had suggested that the cause might lie in the way parents treat their first offspring. Such a child may be more thoroughly disciplined than later ones. It may develop more dependence on its elders. It may strive harder to please. It may be more determined to make good.

Farley in the more recent study suggested that as parents acquire more confidence in their ability to rear children, their confidence is somehow transmitted to the later-borns.

The inference appears to be that the later children, being more self-confident, are more relaxed, less assertive, more easy going and less impressed by their adults.
