Stuck galoshes

RAIN that plagued Magic Valley meant many things to many people. But to one fearful first grade Hollister girl, the rain resulted in a long walk home in stocking feet after her overshoes became mired in six-inch-deep mud.

Russia recognizes new Asian nation

By United Press International

The Soviet Union Monday officially recognized the new state of Bangladesh, the official Soviet news agency Tass said in Moscow.

The agency said President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin informed the government of the former East Pakistan of their action by telegram.

The Soviet Union was the main supporter of India and East Pakistan during their 15-day war for independence last month. Nearly a dozen countries, including most of the Communist bloc nations and India, have recognized the new government.

Burley boy said dead

BURLEY — Todd M. Anderson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ariel Anderson, Burley, was dead on arrival at Cassia Memorial Hospital Monday afternoon, apparently from breathing solvent fumes, police said.

City police said this is the first such death in Burley. Police called to 1642 Normal Ave. at 2:47 p.m. found the youth unconscious. He was taken to the hospital by ambulance and pronounced dead on arrival. An autopsy has been called by Dr. L. L. Filmore, Cassia county coroner.

Officers said investigation indicated the young man had been sniffing solvents from an aerosol deodorant can containing aluminum chlorohydrate materials. Sgt. Pete Rodriguez, Burley, is leading the investigation.

Revolt kills sheik

BAHRAIN — UPI — The ruler of the country, Sheikh Khalid bin Shammah al Qasbi, and nine of his relatives were killed today in a palace gun battle and attempted coup. Political sources said.

The sources said that shortly afterwards, the former ruler and the sheik's cousin, Sheikh Saqr bin Sultan, who led the unsuccessful takeover, surrendered to loyalist troops which surrounded the building in the tiny Persian Gulf state.

Saqr, who was ousted in a bloodless palace coup six years ago, apparently had returned to the country from Cairo.

The fighting broke out Monday afternoon when the rebels broke into the palace and took Qasbi hostage. Troops of the newly formed Union of Arab Emirates army then surrounded the white and blue building and opened fire.

Sharjah is one of the six former tribal states in the Persian Gulf, which banded together to become the Union of Arab Emirates in December. Both Sharjah and Bahrain, a string of islands forming an archipelago in the Persian Gulf, are rich in oil deposits.

Criticism of code 'imprudent'

RETHUM — Cassia County Prosecuting Atty. Gordon Nielson's comments opposing the new Idaho penal code are "imprudent and unprofessional" according to Rethum City Atty. F. Lee Schlender.

Schlender said, "People are entitled to look to lawyers for reason, knowledgeable guidance in these matters. That is our duty. It is a blatant violation of our responsibility to go off half-cocked, as Mr. Nielson has done, and make wild criticisms that throw no light on important questions concerning our penal code."

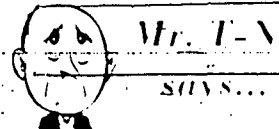

Nielson charged that the code completely does away with criminal law in Idaho since it became a state. He opposed the code, which became effective Jan. 1, on grounds it would cause more expense because it wiped out all legal precedent.

Schlender said Nielson's comments only inflame people unnecessarily and actually obstruct the specific intent of the legislature, which is to simplify and make workable our penal system.

He asked, "Upon what can Mr. Nielson, or for that matter the prosecutors' association, base their opposition to the code?"

"It is impossible at this time to form a sound opinion on whether the new code will result in more or less crime, will cost more to administer or will need revision," he said.

Schlender said well known lawyers and judges as well as legislative leaders have been prudent in restraining comment on the new code. "They are working with it, testing it, thinking about possible problem areas."

$ drops in money markets

LONDON — UPI — President Nixon's budget plans for massive deficit financing to boost the U.S. economy sent the dollar plunging on European foreign currency exchange markets today.

Dealers described early trading as "despite small price rises later in the morning, the dollar's exchange value against European currencies was well down on Monday's closing levels."

One French newspaper called the budget "a gamble" while a French banker said it had "no basis."

In Zurich, the dollar's exchange value fell to 3.8635 Swiss francs after closing Monday at 4.8725. Although it recovered slightly to 3.8650 francs, the rate was still 0.65 per cent below its official parity of 4.8400 Swiss francs.

The pound strengthened sharply against the dollar in London, the exchange value of one pound sterling jumping at the outset to $2.5925 from Monday's $2.5876 closing. But later the dollar edged back a bit to $2.5895 when speculative transactions gave way to normal commercial business.

He said he heard of neither the atomic bomb nor television and stared in incredulity when told that a jet plane would return him to his hometown of Nagoya in three hours.

In Tokyo, the Japanese government said it would pay Yokoi's fare to Japan and James Shintaku, honorary Japanese consul on the island, said he would make travel arrangements. A spokesman for the Japanese Ministry of Welfare said there was no doubt the man on Guam was the same soldier reported dead on Sept. 4, 1944.

Nixon may trade POWs for pullout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is expected to announce in a national television appearance tonight that he stands willing to set a specific date for full withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam once the Communists agree to free American prisoners of war.

Shortly after a high administration official disclosed the President's intention, the White House arranged network television and radio time for Nixon, at 8:30 p.m. EST.

The new U.S. proposal is expected to be presented formally to North Vietnamese and Viet Cong negotiators at the stalled Paris peace sessions on Thursday.

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said the President would speak to the nation from his oval office.

Ziegler refused to characterize the nature of the speech beyond saying it would be "a major foreign policy announcement."

Ziegler told reporters, "I would move with some caution as to what you say in your reports prior to the President's statement tonight." But high administration officials said Nixon was prepared to signal the Communists a willingness to set a withdrawal date, contingent on release of POWs. It was considered possible that the President might insist as a condition for full withdrawal pledge that the Communists drastically reduce their military activity in South Vietnam which has mounted in recent weeks and might preface a major offensive just before or around the time of Nixon's trip to China next month.

As the White House arranged the President's broadcast and word of his intentions became public, Senate Democrats adopted a resolution urging him to withdraw all U.S. troops within six months on condition all prisoners were released. While the White House declined to say officially what Nixon would talk about, it was learned that in requesting broadcast time it told the networks Nixon would make new peace proposals. The plan would be formally given the Communists at Paris by William J. Porter, Nixon's ambassador to the peace talks who has been in Washington since last week.

Both Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., said Nixon was prepared to get a date.

Scott said in an interview with UPI that Nixon would offer to get out of Vietnam "lock, stock and barrel" in exchange for a release of POWs.

Scott said the offer would come "well before the elections."

Brooke, in a speech to the Greater Boston Young Republicans Club Monday night, said, "I have heard that we will very soon and I predict very soon make an offer to North Vietnam to set a date for withdrawal."

Shirley's in

By United Press International

Proclaiming herself "the candidate of the people," Rep. Shirley Chisholm formally announced today she will seek the Democratic presidential nomination.

The 47-year-old Congresswoman made her declaration in her home area, Brooklyn, asserting she was not running as a black woman, or as a candidate of black America, or as a representative of Women's Lib.

"I am the candidate of the people and my presence before you now symbolizes a new era in American political history," she told a large crowd of supporters at the Concord Baptist Church in Brooklyn.

Air strike fury grows

SAIGON — UPI — The U.S. command today reported an intensification of the air war against North Vietnamese missile and radar sites, and U.S. military sources said the Communists have moved tanks to within three miles of the Central Highlands city of Kontum.

South Vietnamese officials have predicted a major Communist offensive in Indochina to coincide with the Tet lunar new year in mid-February, apparently aimed at embarrassing President Nixon who visits Peking shortly after that.

Today, the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government called in a radio broadcast for the South Vietnamese people to rise up against the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu and demand a total U.S. troop withdrawal and the downfall of Thieu.

Official U.S. spokesmen gave no explanation for the new "protective reaction" strikes into North Vietnam but military sources said parts of the Ho Chi Minh Trail were now as heavily defended as were Hanoi and Haiphong at height of the U.S. bombing from 1965 to 1968.

Military sources said the defenses had been built up along the Communist supply line to rush men and supplies southward for an offensive.

The major Communist strike was expected to be in the Central Highlands 180 miles north of Saigon despite saturation raids by B-52s against Communist bunkers along the area where South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia meet.

U.S. commanders in the highlands said four tanks were sighted near Kontum and that special helicopter "tank-hunting" missions were seeking them in the jungled area. They also reported that bulldozers had been seen carving out trails which could be used by tracked vehicles in border areas.

The U.S. command said American jets attacked missile sites three more times Sunday and Monday to bring the total of strikes against the north to eight in three days — the largest number of strikes there since the 1968 bombing halt.

Funds asked for Heyburn

HEYBURN — A request for $640,000 for the Unity-Heyburn power transmission line has been included in the federal budget for fiscal year 1973, according to Emanuel G. Asp, Idaho Falls area manager for the Bonneville Power Administration.

The proposed nine mile, 138,000 volt line is intended to provide additional service and transmission capacity to meet increasing load demands.

'Sugar coated' budget scored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Exhausted every device left to hide the fact that the government will run $44.7 billion deeper in debt this year.

This means, the veteran Texas lawmaker said, that to avoid "fiscal collapse" taxes must be raised to pay for the cost of government. "We've got to do something before we go over the cliff," he told House members.

Mahon's $44.7 billion figure, as compared to the President's estimate of $38.8 billion for this year, resulted from the congressman using an accounting method which includes in the deficit money the government borrows from federal trust funds such as Social Security.

Nixon estimated fiscal 1973's red ink at $25.5 billion, but Mahon's bookkeeping system boosted that figure to $36.2 billion.

Republicans, on the other hand, defended Nixon's proposed plan to continue spending at levels exceeding income as in the President's own words, "strong but necessary medicine" to balance the economy.

Delivering the Democrats' strongest attack, Mahon told the House that Nixon had recommended spending cuts in some areas of public health, housing, education, antipollution and economic development.

Nader sues co-ops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Large milk cooperatives pumped $300,000 into President Nixon's re-election campaign fund after the Agriculture Department reversed itself and agreed to increase milk price supports, consumer advocate Ralph Nader charged Monday.

Nader said that Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie — both candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination — received $10,625 and $1,600 respectively from the dairymen. In all, he said, more than 50 senators and congressmen of both parties have received more than $150,000 in the last two years.

In a suit filed in U.S. District Court, Nader said "former Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin changed his mind last spring based not on the economics for the industry, but on promises or expectations of substantial campaign contributions."

Under law, Nader said any decision on raising the supports must be based on "economic data, not politics. Rather than economics, the decision was in fact dictated by political considerations," Nader said.

Nader's suit alleges that Hardin's action increased the price of dairy products for the housewife by as much as 4 per cent and will cost the taxpayer $125 million in extra support payments to dairy products manufacturers.

Imperial order obeyed 28 years

AGANA, Guam (UPI) — The Japanese imperial army troops who occupied Guam in World War II were under orders never to surrender to the Americans who stormed the Pacific island on July 21, 1944. Sgt. Shoichi Yokoi was faithful to that command for nearly 30 years.

It was a chance meeting in the fading light of dusk with two hunters that managed what the U.S. 3rd Marine Division and the Army's 77th Infantry had not accomplished — the capture of Yokoi.

The hunters surprised Yokoi, 56, as he was tending a homemade shrimp trap in the Talofalo River 20 miles outside Agana Monday night. Yokoi told how he had survived for 28 years in the jungles of Guam on a diet of nuts, breadfruit, mangos, papaya, shrimp, snails, rats and frogs. He drew the line at snakes.

A tailor when he was drafted into the Japanese army in 1941, Yokoi said he weaved a burlap-like cloth from tree bark fiber and fashioned himself trousers and a jacket. He said he used a pair of scissors he carried through the war to tailor the clothes and to cut his hair. He was heavily bearded.

He said he heard of neither the atomic bomb nor television and stared in incredulity when told that a jet plane would return him to his hometown of Nagoya in three hours.

In Tokyo, the Japanese government said it would pay Yokoi's fare to Japan and James Shintaku, honorary Japanese consul on the island, said he would make travel arrangements. A spokesman for the Japanese Ministry of Welfare said there was no doubt the man on Guam was the same soldier reported dead on Sept. 4, 1944.

Yokoi said other Japanese troops scattered into the wilderness of Guam when the Americans captured the island but that he found his last two companions dead in a cave eight years ago.

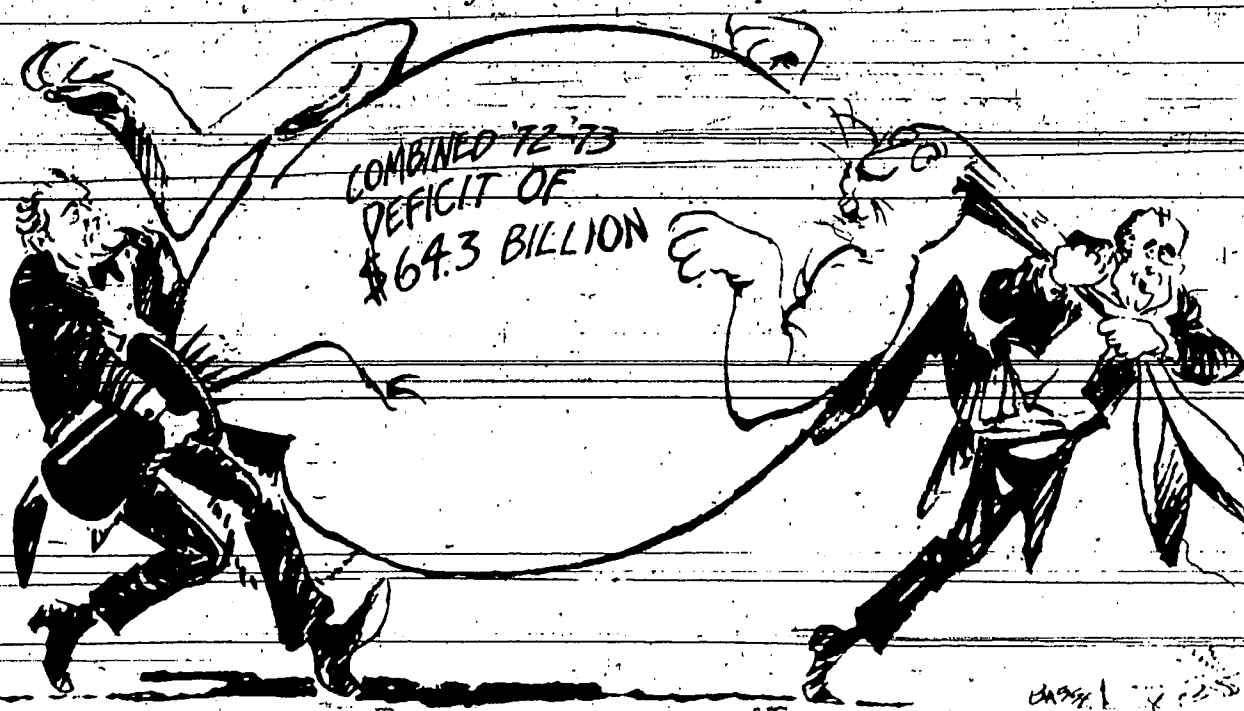

"I believe they died of starvation," he said. "I got sick a few months after I came here," he said. "However, I pulled out of it. Another time I was ill after I caught a pig and apparently didn't cook it very well. Another time I became numb and feared I was starving."

His family in Japan was notified in September of 1944 that he had been killed in action. Both his parents are dead.

Officials to spend $8 million to pay informers, buy evidence

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Justice Department officials disclosed Monday they want to spend $8 million in the next fiscal year to pay informers and buy evidence.

Although the FBI and the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs (BNDD) are allotted only $70,000 each in "unvouchered" funds in the budget proposed by President Nixon Monday, an FBI official said his agency would actually spend about $2.5 million and administrator John E. Ingersoll of the BNDD said it would spend about $5 million.

'Blue Heaven' singer passes.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) - Singer Gene Austin, whose recording of the song "My Blue Heaven" was one of the major successes of the 1920s, died Monday of lung cancer. He was 71.

Austin had been ill for ten months before he succumbed in Desert Hospital, his widow, Maxine, said. They moved to Palm Springs from New Orleans when he became ill.

Austin's last major public appearance was on a Columbia Broadcasting System television show in Hollywood last February, his widow said.

what those agencies actually spend, is provided from accountable funds, budgeted for other purposes.

The clandestine spending goes for such things as payments to

Mrs. Bowman seeks all volunteer help

TWIN FALLS - Rose-Marie Bowman was in Twin Falls Monday and in Blaine County today, jining up a team of volunteers which she hopes can help her win a seat in the United States Senate.

Mrs. Bowman, spoke, Monday at a no-host luncheon in Twin Falls and continued on her swing through southern Idaho today.

She is counting on the state-wide network to make her name well-known and help her gain a position in the U.S. Senate so she can work for a program of social welfare, peace and the family farm.

The 35-year-old Democrat, determined and idealistic, but also experienced in politics, thinks campaign costs have risen too high and that television is "the spoiler." She wants to prove she can win a primary election on $25,000, no more than $25 from each campaign contributor.

She plans to do this by traveling extensively for personal campaigning, by making judicious use of the money she has, and by recruiting lots of volunteer help.

Many political observers say it can't be done - that more money is needed to make her name known. But the candidate is not convinced. She says other techniques will bring the name identification that means votes.

For example, at some point she expects to have volunteers survey voters around the state, telling them that "Rose-Marie Bowman would like to know" and, at the end, thanking them in behalf of Rose-Marie Bowman.

She is refusing to accept more than $25 from any one person for her primary campaign.

Aside from the cost of campaigning, her three main issues center on welfare, war and a change in basic values.

She favors a program of national health insurance and national health care.

The cost of the military in general and the Vietnam war especially, she contends, keeps the nation from spending money it should spend on the quality of life. She wants the war ended at once and military spending cut back.

She finds the gross national product to be, indeed, "gross," and thinks emphasis should be directed away from piling up more goods and more production. In particular, she opposes the swing away from the family farm toward massive agri-business corporations.

She was raised on a farm near Walla Walla, and has worked for the Idaho Department of Agriculture. She was educated at the University of Idaho and at the Sorbonne in Paris. Her husband is an interior decorator.

Politicians in Boise will give you three opinions about her chances and her effect on the race:

1. That she will pick up enough votes through her campaigning and enough votes because of her female name to win the primary.

2. That she, Tony Park and Byron Johnson, all of them Ada County liberals, will split the Ada County and liberal votes and the race will be decided between William F. Davis and Vernon Ravenscroft.

3. That she and Davis will split the vote among those who are looking for a new face, that Park and Johnson will divide the liberal vote, and that Ravenscroft will win.

And then there are a few observers who admit they don't know yet who will win, and are waiting for the primary election itself.

Hall of fame selects six

TWIN FALLS — Six men — three from Twin Falls, one from Burley, one from Hansen and one from Boise — today were announced as those to be honored in February when they are inducted into the Southern Idaho Livestock Industry Hall of Fame.

Karl D. Patrick, Dr. Ivan Jackson and Charles A. Sewell are the nominees from Twin Falls. Blaine Curtis is from Burley, W. D. Bill Wiseman is from Hansen and from Boise is Wade Wells, who will receive a special honor.

Announcement of the selections was made by Earl E. Stansell, hall of fame president. He reports competition for the honor was brisk this year and that it took three sessions of the 20-man hall of fame board before the final selections were made.

The awards will be presented at a banquet set for Monday, Feb. 14, at the Holiday Inn in Twin Falls. An informal social hour will start at 6:30 p.m. with the dinner set for 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available from any director and only capacity will be sold, Stansell said.

This is the 13th annual banquet and during that time there have been 73 men and one woman named in recognition for their contribution to the livestock industry.

Patrick has been a resident of Idaho since 1898. His first school was a log-cabin affair with a dirt roof in the Three Creek area. He is now in semi-retirement and lives with his wife at 1952 Granada Drive in Twin Falls.

Dr. Jackson, a Twin Falls veterinarian, was raised on a Colorado farm and received his doctor of veterinary medicine degree from Colorado State University in 1938. He came to Twin Falls in 1946 and has practiced here since that time. He and his wife live in Kimberly.

Sewell came to this area in 1892, settling in Nevada. He started cattle feeding operations in Idaho in 1949 and in 1967, with Albert Alabaria, purchased the Twin Falls Livestock Commission Co. and is still engaged in that operation. He and his wife reside in Twin Falls.

Curtis has been engaged in cattle feeding all his adult life and in 1963 started raising registered cattle at his ranch six miles south of Burley. He became interested in nationally known Hereford lines and developed three of them in this area.

He was selected as Cassia County Grassman of the Year in 1968. At one time he headed the J. R. Simplot Co. in Burley.

Wiseman has been active in farming and livestock areas in both Hansen and Twin Falls. He has also served as member and chairman of the board of the Hansen school system, has been a Grangemaster, was at one time president of the Magic Valley area.

Wells, who lives in Boise, is a livestock specialist with the University of Idaho, extension service. He is one of the newest members of the Hickman Hall of Fame and has been associated in the livestock industry for more than 30 years. He has been a livestock specialist for 26 years and is widely known in the Magic Valley area.

First session

Fire fighting degrees sought by TF firemen

TWIN FALLS — Twenty-five members of the Twin Falls Fire Department are going to college.

They will be attending classes sponsored by the College of Southern Idaho and the city of Twin Falls and those who graduate will receive degrees in fire fighting. The fire fighters' and department administrative officials will be attending classes three hours per night on Mondays and Wednesdays during a 90-hour training program.

Opening sessions were held Monday morning with Dr. James Taylor, CSI president, City Manager Jean Milar, City Fire Commissioner Tom Nelson, Orval Bradley, director of CSI vocational training, and Frank Schell, instructor, addressed the opening class session. Fire Chief Bobby K. Bopp introduced the officials.

Dr. Taylor told the fire fighters the college was anxious to cooperate in any way possible to give Twin Falls the best possible fire department. He said CSI will be willing to tailor the course to meet their needs. Most of the training sessions will be held in the Twin Falls Fire Department building to utilize equipment available there.

Innocent plea entered in TF shooting death

TWIN FALLS — Harold Gordon Waddell, 37, Twin Falls, Monday entered a plea of innocent to charges of voluntary manslaughter in the Dec. 31 shooting death of Robert J. Lee, 70, Twin Falls.

The charges were reduced last week from first degree murder.

Fifth District Court Judge James M. Cunningham conducted the arraignment. The defendant was represented by his attorney, Lloyd Webb, public defender. He told the court the defendant plans to use mental illness as a defense. Webb asked the court to approve psychiatric examination for the defendant. Judge Cunningham authorized such examination stipulated to by Prosecuting Attorney Leon Smith and set bond at $10,000, remanding the defendant to the custody of Sheriff Paul Gorder, pending posting of bond.

Waddell is charged with killing Lee as the latter sat at a bar New Year's Eve. The complaint charges the defendant fired through the door of the bar and the bullet struck and killed Lee.

Support pledged on TF park plan

TWIN FALLS — Representatives of service clubs in the county Monday pledged their cooperation to develop Rock Creek Park, west of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

The club representatives met at a luncheon convened by the Twentieth Century Club.

County Commissioner William Chancey, Edward Woods, county zoning administrator, and Donald Zuck, county parks and recreation officials, briefed the group on the progress which has been made on the park.

Woods said a blueprint had been prepared, calling for landscaping and fencing off the property, and providing for playground and picnic areas.

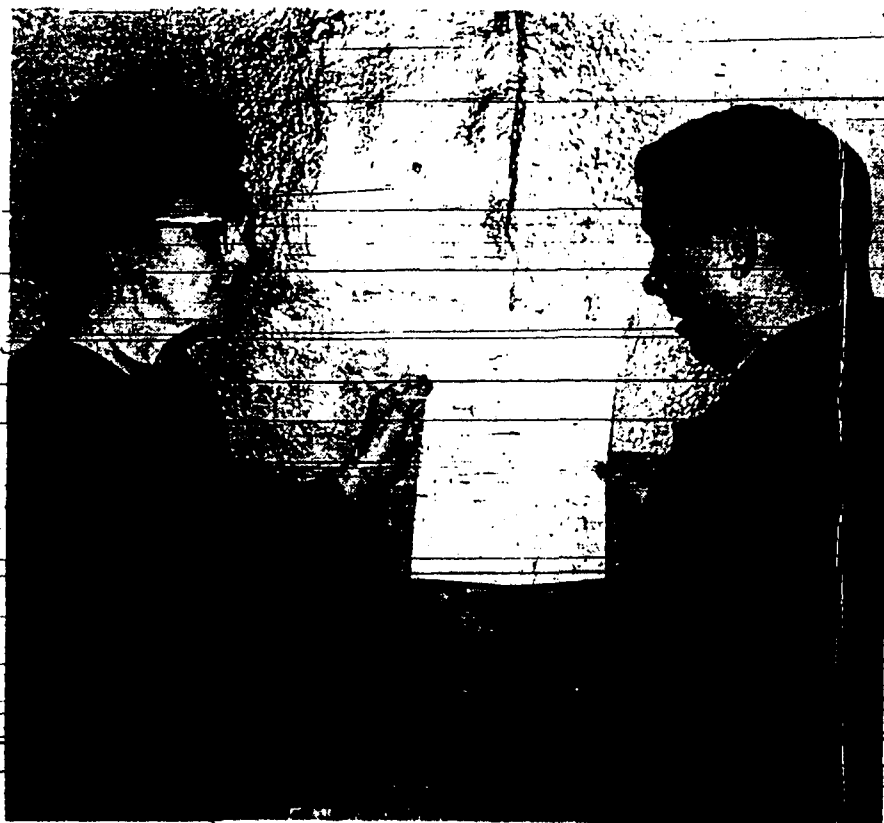

Zuck told the group federal matching funds were available to bear half the estimated $30,000 cost of the project, but they must be claimed before this year expires.

Woods told the group the county can save some of its funds if service organizations would donate labor or materials needed to develop the park.

Speaker set in TF

TWIN FALLS — Melchor Moreno Ocampo, former radio announcer from California, will speak on "The Power Behind Chavez and Chicanos" at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the American Legion Hall here.

His appearance in Twin Falls is being arranged by the Truth About Civil Turmoil Committee, according to Lois Glenn, Kimberly, chairman.

Project reviewed

Twentieth Century Club president, Mrs. Roy Painter, and Donald Zuck, county director of parks and recreation, look over proposed plans for the Rock Creek Park project located west of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Primary Smog

The Presidential primaries won't decide who the nominees will be but they will provide a pall of foggy rhetoric, innuendoes galore, and promises that if kept would break the country.

Governor George Wallace of Alabama is running again, this time as a Democrat, which is a relief to those who feared a third party campaign might throw the election into the hands of the House of Representatives.

Wallace says he wants to take the Democratic Party away from the "intellectual snobs" and return it to the "grass roots." He will be a favorite in the Florida primary, March 14, in a field of 12.

Senator Henry Jackson of Washington, another candidate, said that the Florida Primary could involve the making of the next President.

Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine is favored in the New Hampshire primary a week earlier and will have less competition there. Muskie has said he will enter each state primary. Most others will pick the states where they hope to do well.

There is likely to be some thinning of the ranks of hopefuls long before convention time rolls around but there'll be no let-up in the smog of campaign oratory.

Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota is happy to be on the hustings again, in the familiar role of savior of labor, the jobless, the aged, and other voters. He promises to "revitalize the economy" and his rhetoric suggests that means to vastly increase government spending.

Despite Muskie's statement that a black candidate for vice president couldn't win, Rep. Shirley Chisholm, of New York, seeks to give the women and the blacks a chance to nominate a black woman as head of the ticket.

Most primaries amount to little more than popularity polls, where oddly enough, Senator Ted Kennedy, a non-candidate, stays among the leaders.

Comedian Pat Paulsen invested $500 to enter the New Hampshire primary, doubtless hoping to be at least as funny as some of the serious candidates.

WASHINGTON — Without going into chapter and verse, I think it is reasonable to assert that Sen. Ted Kennedy has offered evidence that he is the weak reed in a distinguished family. He is also a dangerous man because his name and its attendant charisma have given him a considerable political following.

This has been demonstrated anew by the cheers that have greeted his demand for amnesty for Vietnam War draft dodgers. It is irrelevant that many of his supporters would have difficulty framing a logical thought on the problem of trash collections; they exist. Thus, although it can be argued that Kennedy should never be taken seriously, in fact he is. That curious circumstance makes mandatory an examination of his views on amnesty. In a question-and-answer period after a speech before the Washington Press Club, Kennedy endorsed amnesty on the most incredible grounds imaginable. He said that if the Vietnam War is recognized as "a fundamental mistake," then "the young people who expressed their opposition to the war, by enduring jail or exile, were right and the political leaders were wrong." Some argument. In effect, Kennedy would establish a precedent that would make defense of the country virtually impossible and throw law enforcement generally into a state of chaos.

The Selective Service Act is just that — a law. It may have its weaknesses, it may even be a bad law. But it is still a law until it is repealed. Kennedy is saying that draft dodgers should be told that they had the right, or privilege, to violate that law because "the Vietnam War should never have been fought."

He does not even demand that the law be repealed retroactively, he says merely that it should be violated and its violators rewarded.

Paraphrasing, I suppose it would be hard for Kennedy to seek retroactive repeal. For in doing so he would be indicting his own brother for shipping to Vietnam the first substantial body of American troops. At any rate, although Kennedy — and I, for that matter — believe the war was a mistake, that conclusion does not make it official United States policy, complete with statutory weight. No legislation has been passed by Congress and signed by the President making the war illegal. Perhaps such should be done, but wishing doesn't make it so.

I expect Kennedy's argument that amnesty would be "an act of reconciliation" is shared by most of us working stiffs and even, perhaps, by some of the young men who were wounded in Vietnam while the draft dodgers lolled in safe exile. But I reject his implication that it is we the people who are in need of forgiveness. Certainly we should try to salvage the dodgers and deserters. That's one of the things the Republic is all about. But the burden should be on the dodgers and deserters, not on the Republic.

Unfortunately — because he has that large following — Kennedy is endorsing the premise nourished by a decade of dumb permissiveness that the young can pick and choose the laws they will obey. This is a tough hard on the young men who went to Vietnam. It also makes me wonder what would happen if I told the Internal Revenue Service it could drop dead before I paid any income tax.

That could be the crux of the matter. We have developed into a citizenry that feels it owes something special to its youth. I wonder why. Of all the segments of the population, youth has contributed less to the nation's wealth. They have been pampered beyond their parents' wildest dreams.

Some of them saved their children from Adolf Hitler and Mussolini. East, did their fathers die in the tax collector's office, the Boy Scouts, the churches, and the charities.

Except for those who fought and are fighting this war, I don't feel I owe youth an iron dime. Particularly, I feel no debt to draft dodgers and deserters. Amnesty, yes, provided they put in time serving the country they deserted. But unlike Teddy Kennedy, I am not about to apologize to them, but to enlighten them, as even send them to Harvard.

Nonviolence

WASHINGTON — There seems to be a dangerous trend in this country toward hardcore nonviolence. Many persons are becoming concerned about it and Dr. Womrath Shruggs has just completed a study on nonviolence which points up how this trend is affecting all of us.

Dr. Shruggs told me, "You can't turn on your television set any more without finding at least one show devoted to nonviolence. It could be a comedy or a musical hour, but my study indicates that the public is willing to accept more nonviolence than it ever has before."

But surely, I said, they're not showing hardcore non-violence shows in prime time."

"Not really," I said. "Dr. Shruggs said, 'but there are still enough to affect young persons' minds. Just the other day I saw my son watching two nonviolent shows back to back. What do you think was going through his mind while he sat there?'"

"I have no idea," I said. "He was thinking. If this is the way life is on the TV screen then that's the way it must be on the outside. He was getting a distorted picture of America."

Why don't they ban hardcore nonviolence on television altogether?" I asked. "Because there is a certain type of public that goes for it. Advertisers are only interested in selling their products and if they think they can do it with nonviolence they will, no matter what it does to children."

Dr. Shruggs said, "This non-violence syndrome is not just on television. It is permeating every part of our lives. In every town in this country there is a least one motion picture theater featuring a nonviolent film. These theaters blatantly advertise the pictures in the newspapers. Look at this advertisement for 'Fiddler on the Roof.' Here is a musical, a hardcore nonviolent picture, and any child with $2.50 can go see it."

"That's terrible," I said. "Why do the police allow it?"

"They're helpless. Every time they arrest a theater owner for showing a comedy or a musical or a clean love story the judge throws the case out of court. We're living in a permissive society where non-violence is as American as apple pie."

"But Dr. Shruggs," I said, "isn't there an argument made that it's better for people to let out their nonviolent feelings in the theater than take them out on somebody in the street?"

"It's nonsense," he said. "Nonviolence breeds non-violence. Kids get ideas from what they see and emulate the nonviolence they've been exposed to. My study shows that the more nonviolence a child watches, the more pacified he becomes. I've known kids who have left a Walt Disney film and gone home and kissed their mothers."

"Oh, dear," I said, "what can we do to stop this trend from getting out of hand?"

First the public must be made aware that it is going on."

Then they must be shown that nonviolence on TV and in the theaters cannot be separated from the nonviolence being committed in our towns and cities. We must make the producers and networks responsible for their products. If they won't police themselves and eliminate hard-core non-violence from their entertainment then the government should step in. And if the producers and network people still won't get into line then there is only one thing left to do."

What's that, Doctor?

"Kill them."

The Empire

WASHINGTON — J. Edgar Hoover has quietly won President Nixon's approval for an expansion of the FBI's international intelligence-gathering operations despite grave misgivings in the State Department and Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

That will put the Federal Bureau of Investigation in over 25 foreign capitals, unauthorized specifically by law and unknown to the public, most Congressmen. Moreover, these FBI agents, supposedly stationed abroad to help apprehend fugitives from U.S. justice, are transmitting secret intelligence reports back to Director Hoover.

This bizarre story casts further light on two intriguing aspects of Hoover, first, his undiminished ability, born of four decades' experience as the bureaucratic supreme, to get his way in Washington; second, the tenacity of Hoover's passion to get the FBI into the spy business and his animus toward the CIA.

The overseas FBI agents are called, officially and euphemistically, "legal attaches" and are assigned to U.S. embassies abroad. Legal attaches have long performed useful work in Ottawa, Mexico City, helping track down fugitives. Similarly, the case can be made for agents assigned to London, Tokyo and perhaps one or two other foreign capitals.

But Hoover has gone far beyond this. Shielded from public and Congressional scrutiny, he has quietly built an overseas network of FBI agents in some 20 countries. The latest step came last year when the director proposed expansion into another dozen capitals, and showed his legendary deftness in the bureaucratic jungles by going right to the top for approval.

In a private conversation at the White House with President Nixon, Hoover casually brought up his desire to establish a few new legal attaché offices. Like most Presidents of the past 47 years, Mr. Nixon has no desire to cross the director. He agreed.

Thus, Hoover went to the State Department armed with the President's prior approval, a fait accompli. State Department functionaries, faced with cutbacks in the demoralized Foreign Service, were appalled at Presidential approval for a dozen legal attaché offices containing two to six FBI agents each. Across the Potomac River, CIA officials eyed Hoover's overseas expansion suspiciously.

In tedious negotiations, the State Department managed to cut back Hoover's expansion by about half. Finally, the FBI proposed opening new offices in six additional cities: Manila, Rio de Janeiro, Singapore, New Delhi, Canberra and Santo Domingo. Although the location of legal attaché offices is a closely guarded secret, it is understood that FBI agents will now be placed in all of these cities with the possible exception of New Delhi.

A "TV Bottom"

Dear Dr. Thosteson: From an old injury I have much pain as a result of a fractured coccyx. No doctor ever seems able to help me, saying there is nothing they can do. They say they have found surgery not advisable.

Is there anything a person can do for relief from this pain? I am also very weak in the upper part of my legs. Can this have anything to do with it? I am 64 and have always had good health. — Mrs. V. D.

The coccyx is the vestigial "tailbone" at the base of the spine, and pain there, usually from an injury, is not uncommon.

In point of fact, the bone is not fractured as often as folks commonly suppose. Bruising, straining of the muscles, and such injuries are more likely to be the real trouble. After all, if the bone is fractured, it knits again — but you are one of many people who find that the pain persists.

Very seldom is surgery the answer. There just isn't much a surgeon can do to alter the situation.

But there ARE things you can do for relief. The way you sit is distinctly important. It is hard to persuade patients of this, but it is true.

Never slouch when you sit. Avoid soft seats. Avoid overstuffed furniture. You may think offhand that, since the area is painful, you should therefore sit on soft things.

That's not so. What you need is to sit on a chair that gives you firm support. Sit with buttocks against the chair back. That puts you in a posture in which excessive strain is not exerted on those painful muscles.

One doctor, incidentally, coined the phrase "television bottom" because so many people slouch while watching the tube — and for long hours. Sometimes that's about the worst thing you can do for your type of trouble.

Much of the trouble really comes down to a matter of spasm of certain small muscles in the area, so besides sitting in a posture that relieves them of strain, you can help relax them by sitting in hot water.

Finally, massage of these muscles can help. This has to be done by a physician, through the rectum. It is not merely a matter of massaging the lower back. Reports indicate this type of treatment has been helpful in 80 per cent of cases in which it has been used.

Yes, pain and weakness in the upper leg or buttocks can result from a problem with the coccyx, so pay particular attention to my suggestions of proper posture, the right kind of chair, and sitting in hot water.

The Business Uniforms

We are told that "career apparel" is what they call the new white-collar work clothes now being worn by more and more employees who deal with the public.

Most of the new outfits are based on the airline look and they are becoming popular in such fields as banking, car dealerships, hotels and motels, public utilities, door-to-door selling — to name a few.

Some of them cost around $250. Some cost down as low as $25 or so. The high cost ones, of course, are usually designed by some big name individual and are being made for both men and women. Some concern foot the entire bill of the outfits — some concern pay half — and some tell the employee to pay it all or look elsewhere for a job.

Generally, we are told that customers like the new uniforms. Some employees like them but some object, saying it eliminates any individuality.

But right here in the Times-News we have no problems. Here individuality is supreme. Each employee wears what he or she wants to.

As a result we see slacks, hot pants, overalls, levi's, sweaters and shirts with various slogans printed on them, multi-colored shirts and slacks — you name it — the Times-News employees wear them.

Like we said — no regimentation here — individuality is supreme!

“Don’t drag your heels about changing to electric heat”

—Mrs. F. D. Lössee, Jordan Valley, Oregon

"My husband suggested changing to electric heat a long time ago, but I kept dragging my heels," says Mrs. Tossee. "When we finally made the change, we found it so easy to put in, so inexpensive to operate and so comfortably warm, we're sorry we waited. Now we tell our friends that electric heat is the only thing for an older home. Don't drag your heels!"

Defense funds to help update Navy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon proposed a $7.5 billion defense budget Monday with emphasis on rebuilding the Navy's conventional fleet and developing a new submarine-launched nuclear missile system.

Noting the winding down of the Vietnam war, which absorbed large portions of the Pentagon's budget in recent years, Nixon told Congress it would be "foolhardy" not to modernize our defense at this crucial moment.

In asking for $700 million more for fiscal 1973 than the Defense Department will spend in the 12 months ending June 30, the President urged lawmakers to "avoid the costly mistakes" of past defense spending cuts on Capitol Hill.

"Nothing could be more wasteful than to have to pay the price of weakness," Nixon declared in his budget message.

It costs far less to maintain our strength than it would cost to fall behind and have to catch up even if that could be done.

It was the second straight defense increase he had sought, but the total was still $2.2 billion below the record 1969 spending at the height of the Vietnam war, and Nixon took pains to answer the Democrats' election-year calls for a feebly allocation of part of the military money to the solving of domestic ills.

A demagogue may find it easy enough to advocate that we simply allocate necessary defense dollars to social programs, but a responsible Congress and a responsible President cannot afford such easy answers," Nixon said.

Despite the increase, the Administration noted that the health, education and welfare budget Nixon proposed would surpass Pentagon spending for the first time. Defense Comptroller Robert C. Mott said the Pentagon request represented less of the nation's total wealth than at any time since 1950.

Nixon's request for increased defense spending reflected administration concern over the rapid expansion of Russian naval and nuclear forces and over the lack of progress so far in the Soviet-U. S. Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

Until such time as there are agreed limits on strategic forces, we must prepare to meet the growing Soviet threat," Nixon said.

Federal budget details

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal government's money problems will continue for at least the next five years with no spare funds in sight for new programs through 1977, figures in President Nixon's budget indicated today.

The Office of Management and Budget estimated the present tax system would produce $346 billion if the economy is at full employment in the 1977 fiscal year which begins July 1, 1976.

But the cost of government programs either now in operation or proposed in the new budget would total $323 billion in 1977.

That would leave a margin of just $23 billion—an edge which probably will not exist by 1977.

The projection for 1976 shows full employment revenues of $114 billion, just $5 billion ahead of the cost of current or already proposed programs.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion on a statement my boyfriend has made to me. Let me preface by saying that our relationship is very serious, and we are considering marriage.

We were discussing marriage and children, and I asked him if he would ever change a baby's diaper. He replied, "Absolutely not. Just the thought of it is revolting!"

Abby, I am not saying that this particular task would be shared equally between us, but I would like to think that if I were not feeling well, or happened to be away for a few hours, my husband would assume the job if necessary.

How do you feel about this? NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: I think there should be some "changes" made before you have children. And for openness, one should be your fiancé's attitude.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 33 years. My husband is 62 and I am 58.

Recently, my husband lost his job because he had an affair with a young married woman who worked where he worked.

My question: Should I write and tell our son the truth about his father? Our son lives in another state but will be coming home soon, and I'm afraid somebody might tell him. This is a small town and you know how people talk, and I'd rather have him hear it from me than from a stranger.

Also, the young woman my husband had the affair with is still working there. Her husband is employed and I am not, and I am too old to start looking for a job. Do you think that's fair? UNHAPPY AT 58

DEAR UNHAPPY: No. If your husband was fired because of the affair, the woman should have been fired also. Don't tell your son the reason for his father's dismissal. He may not hear about it. But if he does, tell him the truth.

DEAR ABBY: I'll get right to the point. I've been a saleslady in the same store for 36 years, so you know I'm no kid. I've sold neckwear, blouses, costume jewelry and purses over the years.

My pet peeve is the "looker." When I notice a customer is interested in something, I approach her with a smile and in a pleasant tone of voice, I say, "May I help you, Madame?"

Nine times out of ten, she will drop whatever she was looking at and say, "No thanks, I was just looking." Then she walks away.

I suppose I should be used to it by now, but it still burns me up.

Why do women do this? MISS B.

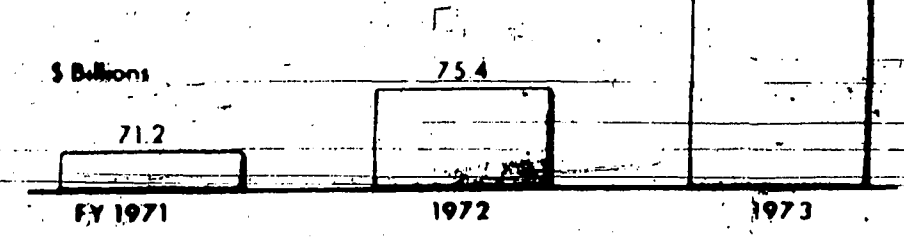

DEAR MISS B: Because while "Madame" is trying to make up her mind, the salesperson interrupts her silent "should-I-or-shouldn't-I" debate, and Madame becomes defensive. She's afraid she'll be talked into a sale she may later regret. A better approach would be, "If you find something you like, I'll be glad to help you."

Remember, all buyers were "lookers" first.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GOLDEN GATE GIRL: The man who is forever talking about what a great man he is with the ladies is usually doing what he does best. Talking.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90009. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Anti-war feelings

PROTESTERS carry coffin around the Federal Building in Harrisburg, Pa., where the jury selection for the trial of "Harrisburg 7" got underway Monday. The coffin contained any papers reflecting anti-war feelings. (UPI)

Harrisburg jury selection slow

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—The Rev. Philip F. Berrigan and his six antiwar activist codefendants sat in a courtroom Monday and saw 38 of the first 84 prospective jurors in their kidnap-bomb plotting trial dismissed for personal prejudice.

The jury in the trial of the Harrisburg Seven is being drawn from the 11-county Harrisburg Division of the Middle Pennsylvania Federal Court District. The selection process went into its second day today with the judge urging press secrecy about the nature of questions until the full jury is picked.

U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman apparently sought to protect prospective jurors from possible public hostility in requesting that the news media not report their names nor the questions and answers in the examination that lawyers called the voir dire.

This was in the form of a written statement saying "it is requested and strongly urged that those details not be reported until the jury of 12 and 6 alternates was finally sworn. He put some potential teeth into the request Monday by telling the press that "it is in the province of the court if you violate it (the request) to continue the voir dire in camera." That means in private.

The only questions asked Monday, however, were not by opposing lawyers in an effort to pursue their adversary role but

Students battle Cairo police

CAIRO (UPI)—Students demanding immediate war with Israel battled Cairo police for the second day today and President Anwar Sadat called the nation's leaders to a conference on his Arab-Israeli strategy.

The students have expressed displeasure with Sadat's "no war, no peace" policy with Israel. They have asked immediate war to regain lost territory and demanded a stronger anti-American policy to protest U.S. sales of F-4 Phantom jets to Israel.

Political observers called the civil unrest the worst political threat to Sadat since last spring when he ousted and tried for treason a number of government leaders accused of plotting against him.

Today, Sadat met in Abdin Palace with government leaders, students, businessmen, editors, farmers, civil servants and politicians.

by the judge himself. This was prejudices, preconceptions, the standard probing into sympathies one way or the other whether each prospect had either formed an opinion.

FTC accuses 4 firms of business monopoly

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) accused four manufacturers Monday of illegally monopolizing the breakfast cereal business by a complex system of overpricing, false advertising and keeping competitors out.

The FTC proposed that at least some of the four firms be broken up, that the "big four" license some brands or trademarks free, and that they stop all anti-competitive practices including false advertising and control of grocery shelf space. Named in the complaint were the Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Mich.; General Mills, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.; General Foods Corp., (Post Cereal), White Plains, N.Y.; and the Quaker Oats Co., Chicago.

The FTC said these four firms control 90 per cent of the $650 million annual ready-to-eat breakfast cereal business. Two smaller producers, Nabisco, Inc., New York City, and Ralston Purina Co., St. Louis, Mo., were not named in the action, although the FTC said they "contributed by acquiescence to the noncompetitive structure of the cereal market."

Kellogg, the largest producer with 45 per cent of the cereal market, strongly denying the FTC allegations, claimed the complaint amounted to a belief that "it's a crime to be big, it's wrong to be efficient, it's wrong to succeed."

Janitor strikes against 'system' by shooting 2

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An unemployed janitor said he stopped his car and shot two policemen with a rifle Monday because of a sudden impulse to strike against the system.

Asked by newsmen why he had done it, James L. Poole, 21, replied, "Aw, man. It was a fool's play. Just a fool's play."

Poole was arrested several blocks from where he stopped his car and "without saying a word," wounded two officers, one critically.

They hadn't done anything. It was the whole system.

Poole told newsmen from his jail cell, "I don't know why I decided to let them have it. It just jumped out."

Poole said Poole had received a number of traffic tickets recently, the last one hour before the shooting. They speculated he was after the officer who issued him the citation and when he couldn't find him, attacked the first policeman he saw.

Patrolman James C. Bailey Jr., 30, underwent emergency surgery and several transfusions from being shot in the abdomen. Officer Code W. Beverly was shot in the thigh. Bailey said from his hospital bed that he and Beverly had begun walking their beat in the Mission district when a white car pulled up.

A Negro got out with a rifle in his hands and, without saying a word, started shooting at us, Bailey said.

Code got hit right away and went down. He did not have a chance to return the fire. I got hit, but I was able to squeeze off eight shots. I don't think I hit him, though.

Court orders new trial for 3 big drug firms

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court ordered a new trial Monday for three big drug firms convicted of conspiring to fix prices, and let stand rulings that keep New York and Connecticut from using a loophole to impose residency requirements on welfare recipients.

By a 3-3 tie vote the court upheld an appeals court ruling setting aside the 1967 conviction of Chas. Pfizer, American Cyanamid and Bristol-Myers Cos.

The Justice Department had called the suit "one of the most important criminal antitrust cases in recent years. The government claimed that American Cyanamid, for instance, sold for $30,000 a quantity of tetracycline that cost only $1.52 to produce.

After the 1967 trial, which followed years of court litigation and congressional investigation of antibiotic pricing, the firms were fined $150,000 each and agreed to pay $32.5 million in partial settlement of customer suits.

But the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court set aside the conviction in April 1970 on grounds the trial judge erred by overemphasizing "the more inflammatory issues of illegally exorbitant prices charged to a victimized public and patent fraud."

Rockefeller seeks governor's post

BLUESFIELD, W.Va. (UPI)—John D. (Jay) Rockefeller IV, who came to West Virginia as an anti-poverty worker in 1964, announced Monday he is a candidate to become governor of his adopted state.

Rockefeller, 34, a Democrat serving as secretary of state under a Republican administration, became the third member of his famous family to seek the governorship of a state.

New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas both are his uncles. His father, John D. Rockefeller III, is one of the nation's leading philanthropists. Young Rockefeller chose this southern West Virginia coal mining town to announce his candidacy both "to symbolize, and declare irrevocably, my total commitment to a man our government has forgotten more than any other—the coal miners of West Virginia."

He said he will seek the Democratic nomination for governor in the May 9 primary. And should he win the nomination, as most political observers expect, he probably will be opposed by incumbent Gov. Arch A. Moore.

Crib death explored

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Senate subcommittee today began exploring the mysterious "crib death" disease that each year kills thousands of seemingly healthy babies as they sleep. Medical experts and parents who have suffered the shock of suddenly losing an infant were summoned to testify at a series of hearings on the rights of children.

Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., chairman of the subcommittee on children and youth, said it was fitting to begin with "the most fundamental right of all—the right of a child to live."

Market Review

Idaho Temperatures

Valley Weather Report

National Temperatures

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, down in early trading, turned higher after mid-session following the announcement—President Nixon would make a major foreign policy statement this evening which sources said would deal with a withdrawal date for U.S. troops from Vietnam.

The rebound, which followed four consecutive losing sessions, was reflected throughout the list, with particular strength noted among the electronics, computers, oils and motors. Major carmakers reported higher mid-January automobile sales.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average, down more than 5 points in early trading, picked up 2.19 to 899.01 near 1:15 p.m. Advances outscored declines by around 100 issues.

IBM was a strong feature, picking up 7 1/2 points. Other firm spots included bauch and Lomb, up 4 1/2; Xerox, up 2 1/2; Control Data, up 3 1/2; Superior Oil, up 3; and Natamias ahead 2 1/2.

Among the issues advancing a point or better were Trans World Airways, Flying Tiger, KLM Royal Dutch Airlines, Fairchild Camera, Memorex, Polaroid, Walt Disney, General Motors and Eastman Kodak.

Stocks of cereal producers, however, bucked the trend. Quaker Oats, weakest of the group, fell 1 1/2. General Foods (Post Cereals) Kellogg and General Mills were steady to fractionally lower. The Federal Trade Commission accused the four manufacturers of inflating prices through an illegal monopoly built largely on false and costly advertising. All the companies denied the accusation.

Levitz Furniture was off more than 3 points after a delayed opening.

Jane Pratt, Page marry in temple

TWIN FALLS — Jane Pratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pratt, Twin Falls, and Glen Page, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Page, Scottsdale, Ariz., were married in rites Jan. 7 at the Salt Lake City LDS Temple.

President Selvo J. Boyer of the temple presidency, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a breakfast after the ceremony.

The newlyweds were honored at a reception Jan. 8 at the Carillon Reception Center, Twin Falls.

The bride wore a floor-length, empire styled gown of polyester crepe, fashioned with a Victorian neckline and full bishop sleeves trimmed with pearl teardrops. She carried a cascade bouquet of Forever Yours roses and pink baby carnations with pink satin streamers.

Bridal attendants were Lawana Palmer, Marie Bryant and Ann Pratt, sisters, and Jolene Grow, cousin of the bride. Vicky Page and Angela Palmer were flower girls.

Dallas, Kelly and Brock Page, brothers of the bridegroom, served as best man and groomsmen.

Guests were greeted before a white satin and velvet flanked backdrop flanked by candleabra with pink tapers and pink satin leaves.

Jane Baumgardner, registered guests at a white lace covered circular table decorated with a sweetheart arrangement of Forever Yours roses.

Elvanna Fite and Barbara Christensen were in charge of gifts. Chris Pratt, Hal Palmer and Ricky Page received gifts.

The bride's table was covered with white satin with an overlay of white lace and garlands of pink flowers. It was centered with a three-tiered spice wedding cake decorated with pink lilies and lattice work and topped with three white bells and pink lilies of the Valley.

Leana Gorringer and Janna Hansen served the cake and punch. Guests were served at quartet tables covered with pink with an overlay of white lace centered with pink candles and pink lilies.

Marion Baumgardner, Sharla Martinson and Lonnie Dudley sang a medley of songs.

The couple was honored at open houses at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Palmer, Sandy, Utah, and at Scottsdale, Ariz., by the bridegroom's parents.

The bride was honored at a pre-nuptial shower given by Mrs. George Grow, aunt of the bride, and her daughter, Jolene.

After a wedding trip to Utah and Arizona, the couple reside in Provo, Utah, where the bridegroom will attend Brigham Young University.

players who feels he can produce miracles in no-trump. His two no-trump "call" was poor. He should have bid two clubs. If we belonged in three no-trump we could still find our way there, but he was afraid I might play it instead of him.

"Once he responded to no-trump he rebid three followed naturally. Who was I to take him out of no-trump?"

"If I had bid four no-trump as my cards really warranted, we might have reached six clubs. I doubt it. He would have looked at his heart and spade kings and if he had bid a slam it would have been in no-trump. Playing at three no-trump he would only make five. As it was we did make game."

A Lovelier You

ACCESSORIZING HANDBAGS

By Mary Sue Miller

You are about to attend a feast of tasteful new handbags designed to accessorize new spring and summer fashions. Small envelopes, suspended from chains, or shoulder straps have been taken up by women of all ages — not only the blazer set.

At the opposite end of the spectrum there are huge carryalls in carpet, cut velvet and tapestry. Excellent business and travel pieces.

Smooth patent is back with a bang. Shapes are mostly classic, tailored, quite structured. Swaggers and envelopes come in varying sizes, shapes and degrees of formality. Chinkle patent continues in demand.

The return of lady clothes probably accounts for the new emphasis on suede. Suede is hot — and not just in black and earth colors. There is a big selection of pastels, with lavender the reigning favorite. These suades are designed in soft, almost unstructured, casual bags, as well as in the smaller, dressier kind.

For evening clothes, peau de soie, satin, and chiffon seem right, and the little black bag — many in suede with rhinestone clasps. Most of these small bags are suspended from long chains but there would almost seem to be a trend toward clutch bags again for after dark.

Against the background of fashion, accessories will play a more important role than ever. Women will depend on really smashing shoes and handbags.

Valley schools open

Schools closed Monday by drifting snow and other adverse weather conditions were re-opened today, although some areas of Magic Valley still reported roads closed.

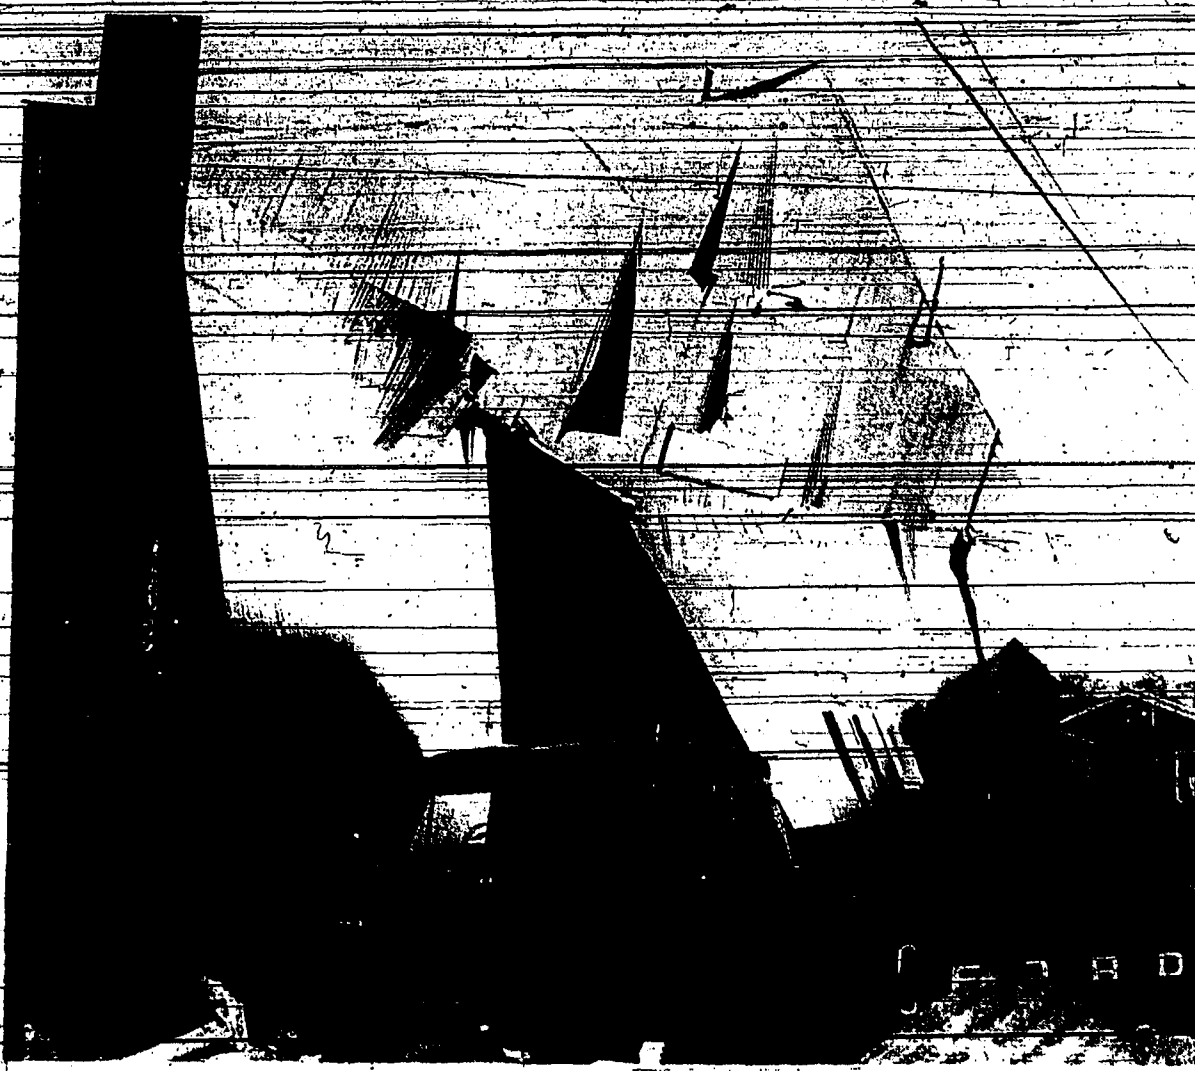

Classes resumed on schedule today in Carey, Shoshone, Richfield, Fairfield and Minidoka County Schools.

In Fairfield, officials said about 15 students were unable to reach schools, but others were either picked up by buses on newly cleared rural roads or were able to ride snowmobiles to where they could connect with buses. Some roads in the north and west extremities of Camas County remained closed.

Camas County schools have been closed eight full days this winter, which is approaching the record 12 days during any one school year.

Idaho Department of Highway officials at the Shoshone district report State Highway 46 between Fairfield and Gooding is still closed, as is State Highway 68 between Hill City and Mountain Home.

U. S. Highway 93 over Galena Summit was closed Friday and district highway officials said it was still closed Tuesday morning although plows were working.

Minidoka trustees revise sick policy

Want to see

TWIN FALLS — The student council from the Washington School presented its recommendations Monday night for the proposed new elementary school building and it includes low windows.

Brian Tjarks, a sixth grader, presented the trustees with a list of proposed features for the new building.

The students would like to see carpets on the floor, larger rooms and workrooms for science and the arts, the list said.

But the recommendation which drew immediate recognition from school superintendent George Staudacher was one calling for windows low enough for the students to see out.

BY LEE TREMAINE
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Minidoka school trustees adopted a revised sick leave policy for teachers Monday.

A new provision of Idaho allowing teachers to transfer accumulated sick leave between districts was discussed at length. Trustees said they feared a possibility that an experienced teacher with considerable sick leave would become employed, work a few days, then take up to 90 days off, since state law allows accumulation of a maximum of 90 days.

Dr. Darrell Hatfield, district superintendent, said, however, that he could see little likelihood of a problem developing, since few teachers have accumulated that much sick leave.

The policy, as adopted by the trustees, allows teachers to accumulate eight days of sick leave each year, providing the teacher is serving in the Minidoka County School District as of the first day of school. Teachers hired after the start of school will have their sick leave prorated according to the number of days they teach.

Dr. Hatfield said he and the school district attorney, Roger Ling, drafted the policy carefully to conform to state law and to protect both the district and the teachers. The policy includes a provision that the superintendent can ask for a physician's certificate of illness when sick leave is taken.

"Bereavement leave" may be taken for a death in the teacher's family, not to exceed three regularly scheduled consecutive school days.

The teacher must "submit proof of relationship and death" to the building principal in order to be granted the leave, the policy states.

This portion of the policy drew a strong rebuttal from trustee Fern Hunter, who deemed it "heartless" that a teacher would have to prove his or her relationship to the deceased. She also protested a provision that if more than three days are required, the teacher must make a written request "with details" to the principal.

"At a time like that (a death in the family), you're hardly worrying about time and whether you've been gone three days or more," Mrs. Hunter said.

Dr. Hatfield said the policy is designed to protect the district, and that full enforcement of all provisions can be left up to him. In clear-cut cases where there is no doubt of the facts, full documentation may not be necessary, the superintendent explained. But if a question arises, the policy is designed to provide a means of clarification.

TF trustees approve early graduation plan

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school trustees Monday night approved changes in the high school curriculum to bring the district into line with a new state education policy on early graduation and to eliminate study hall problems.

Acting on the recommendations of principal John Lawrence, the trustees approved a reduction in the required number of semester credits in English from eight to six. The change would enable students to graduate from high school in less than three full years, at the Idaho State Board of Education has ruled they could.

Lawrence told the trustees "we have no choice in this," since a student who is required to study English for eight semesters is unable to graduate early.

The principal said under the new plan, the present senior English course, mandatory for all students, would become elective and would be divided into several different course offerings. Sections in creative writing, Shakespeare and other areas could be offered, he said.

The second change in school policy would allow students to attend school for only five classroom periods a day, instead of the current six.

Lawrence said under the plan students would have the option of missing either the first or the last class period of the school day, contingent upon parental approval.

The principal also said the proposal was framed to deal with "troublesome" study habits.

Many students and some faculty members feel that the large study halls we now operate are not too valuable and are very troublesome to handle, he reported.

Lawrence said curriculum change would allow a student to skip his study hall during the day, in effect, and either enroll for a sixth course or remain off campus during that hour, either at the beginning or end of the day. Students would still have the option of scheduling a study hall during the day, however.

Lawrence told the trustees the changes would go into effect in September, 1972. He said he expected "some problems" in smoothing out the administrative details.

Airport board asks for land

BURLEY — The Interim Regional Airport Board will make formal application by mail for 8,470 acres of Bureau of Land Management acreage this week in the first major step toward establishment of the regional airport, according to board chairman George Forschler, Burley.

The board had applied informally for the land, but must make specific application for the land to complete the acquisition process. The airport will also utilize about 1,500 acres of state land for a total of more than 10,000 acres.

The board will meet with representatives of several engineering firms at 4 p.m. next Monday at the Ponderosa Inn in Burley for a final appraisal of proposals for the airport design. That evening at 7 p.m., the board will meet with representatives of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), at which time the FAA will approve the engineering firm to be retained by the board.

Plans must be drawn in detail, and a careful environmental study must be presented to the government for approval before further plans can be made. The survey must delineate in detail the "environmental impact" of the airport on the proposed area, Forschler said.

The engineering firm "will be asked to look not 10 years into the future, but at least 50 years ahead," to determine all possible factors impacting on the airport design.

The main runway of the airport will be 12,000 feet in length. Two other runways will extend about 10,000 feet and "between 8,500 and 10,000" feet to provide additional air service, Forschler said.

TF council eyes change in signs

TWIN FALLS — Proposed changes in the downtown signing regulations of a revised city zoning ordinance were reviewed Monday in an unofficial meeting of the Twin Falls City Council.

The changes were recommended by a downtown study committee made up of merchants, and were put in ordinance form by City Manager Jean Milner. He suggested the City Council members give the matter some study between now and the next regular council meeting Monday when the proposed zoning ordinance will be presented.

The revisions cover size and location of roof top signs, freestanding signs, off-premise directional signs, and marquee-type signs.

Firemen called

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls firemen answered a call at 12:30 p.m. Monday to the 200 block of Blue Lakes South.

Firemen said a mattress had been set on fire by children playing with matches. Firemen were back in quarters at 1:05 p.m.

Patrons protest Cassia bond vote

BY L. PAGE LAYTON
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Trustees of Burley School District No. 151 met a torrent of protests and objections from more than 50 district patrons Monday night during a discussion of the proposed bond issue for construction and remodeling throughout the district.

A number of citizens said the bond issue election should be delayed until after the spring trustee elections, in which a permanent board will be named. The district realigned its trustee zones last fall, throwing the board into an interim situation in which all members had to be temporarily reappointed pending formal elections.

An area farmer, Glenn Larson, spearheaded the group of citizens who met with the board, saying that no bond issue should be sought until a permanent board has been elected.

Larson charged the board with failing to promote bond issues successfully in the past, and with failing to heed the wishes of citizens.

Larson cited the petitions, which, he said, were signed by 500 citizens last October, endorsing the concept of a consolidated high school.

The trustees ignored the petitions and vetoed the consolidation. Larson charged Monday night, Mrs. Forest Hall, Burley, also said the trustees have failed to promote construction programs successfully. Several times in the past 10 years, Mrs. Hall said, the idea of a bond issue has been discussed but was not put to the people. She also recommended waiting until after the trustee election for the bond vote.

Gary Asson of Burley, who told the trustees two weeks ago that he represented a group which would help in any way to sell a bond issue, reversed his stand Monday night. Asson said his group is now opposed to the idea of voting for the bonds before the trustee election.

Asson added that the Burley district is the only school district in the state operating four separate high schools. He charged the trustees with "being in conflict" on school issues.

Wayne Beck, an area farmer, said he represented the Burley Farm Bureau, and promised that the group's directors would work to support the bond issue when the election is scheduled.

Other citizens voiced similar opinions, asking that the bonds be delayed until after the trustee election in April or May. State law allows trustees to schedule the election at any time between the first of April and the end of May.

Trustees also discussed possible locations for a consolidated high school if the consolidation were realized. Trustee Charles Ward, Malta, said he is firmly opposed to closing present high schools in Malta, Declo or Oakley — thus in effect opposing the consolidation, which would do just that.

Ward said he does not believe that "even $1 could be saved" by busing students to a consolidated high school from throughout the district.

The trustees issued a revamped bond-issue proposal, involving a total of $3,325 million. The construction program would include $2 million for remodeling of Burley Junior High School; $715,000 for a new Declo elementary school; $120,000 for remodeling of the Malta school into a multi-purpose structure; $250,000 to renovate two Oakley schools, and $240,000 for addition of a vocational education unit at Burley High School.

Trustees also discussed a proposal to hire a school psychologist under a state-sponsored program in which state funds would pay up to 80 percent of the salary up to a total of $10,000 per year. Several principals, including Tom Gruwell, Burley High, and Lovell Turner, junior high school, commended the idea, saying a psychologist would be of great help in dealing with troubled students.

TF Farm Bureau hits funding plan

By MIKE ROBERTSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Farm Bureau board of directors is opposed to the proposed legislation for 75 to 100 per cent funding of public schools at the state level.

The statement was formulated Monday night to follow the Farm Bureau's policy of keeping education as local as possible.

Charles Harris, a Farm Bureau member, said the Farm Bureau is completely against state control of local government or education.

He said he thinks the Farm Bureau should find out if local people are ready to surrender control of education to the state.

According to Gene Walker, president, a letter will be sent to local legislators stating the Farm Bureau stand on education.

Monroe Hays, past State Farm Bureau president said the State Farm Bureau position is that the state should not support more than 50 per cent of educational costs.

In other legislative matters, the board members went on record as favoring reenactment of the Farm Labor Law as it now stands. The board said any changes would weaken the law and the farmers position.

The members of the board also apparently opposed to the potato referendum coming to vote in February, although they made no official statement. The referendum, if passed, will provide money for nationwide potato promotion and market research.

Hays said if the referendum passed, it would be the "death of the Idaho potato." Another member added that once the program was started it will never be stopped even though there are provisions in the law to stop it. It was stated that there would be no mention in the national promotion of the "Idaho potato."

Hays reported on the Farm Bureau State Tax Commission meeting in Boise and the status of its local income tax proposal as a concept of financing of education and county government.

He said most legislators believe the proposal to be unconstitutional. He said the committee met with leaders of both houses and the leaders of each party to discuss the proposal. Hays said the legislators were concerned with public school financing and agreed something must be done. They stated this in the wake of court action in several states making it unconstitutional to use property taxes alone to fund schools.

Hays said the legislators seem "almost in a panic" over the situation.

Reporting on a multi-state Farm Bureau meeting, Hays said he had met with Dr. Earl L. Butz, new secretary of agriculture. Hays said Butz seemed to be a man the farmers could work with. Butz told members of the multi-state meeting that he would speak on behalf of the farmers, not for them.

Lost Baggage

TWIN FALLS — A dog abandoned at the Twin Falls bus depot last week was claimed as "lost baggage" Monday by a bus driver.

The unidentified man, who had originally transported the dog and its owner to Twin Falls, took custody of the animal at the Blue Lakes Veterinary Clinic Monday afternoon.

Dr. C. I. Manners, veterinarian at the clinic, said he doubted the dog was trained to lead blind persons, as had originally been reported by several people. He based his claim on lack of identification on the animal.

The bus driver said he had a baggage claim from his company, and was going to return the dog to his owner.

Lincoln closes escape avenue

SHOSHONE — Lincoln County Sheriff Thomas Conner said today that a popular avenue of escape from the Lincoln County jail has been closed.

Conner said that work crews had closed the escape route Saturday under the sheriff's supervision.

Conner would not release the details of the jail improvement, saying that any information about the jail could be used by prisoners attempting to escape.

He said the avenue had been "substantially repaired" and "will stop anyone from going through there in the future."

The repairs were prompted by two recent escape attempts using the same route.

TF eyes animal control

TWIN FALLS — More restrictive measures to control animals within the city limits and to regulate parking of large trucks and trailers in residential zones were discussed Monday night by members of the Twin Falls City Planning and Zoning Commission.

A subcommittee of Harold Grigg, Dale Riedesel and David Hamlett was named by zoning chairman John Rosholt, to study the present restrictions on keeping of horses, cows and other large animals, and fowl in residential areas. Complaints have been received from many of the newer residential areas, board members said, that the city's present animal permit system.

Another committee made up of Bill Crawford, Jerry Shane and Thomas Schafer, was asked to study possible regulations on the need for more specific parking of large trucks in residential areas. Zoning Administrator Reed Coulam said frequently persons who drive large trucks will park the vehicle in front of their homes and that of their neighbors while in town overnight or for a few days, causing parking problems and traffic obstruction.

Other subjects discussed included possible steps for preserving the scenic values of Snake River Canyon rim and the need for more specific regulations on apartment houses within the city. This committee, headed by Schafer, has prepared a format for review by the city attorney.

Several public hearing dates were proposed on issues to be acted on at a later time. These include an amendment to the new zoning ordinance which has not been adopted by the council as yet; a request for annexation of the Crestwood Subdivision No. 3, and annexation of 60.5 acres of land west of the Crestwood Subdivision presently planned for housing development by N. A. N. Inc., if

Financial expert sets Burley talk

BURLEY — Walter Watson, West Coast financial writer and consultant on money and what to do with it, will be the guest speaker at 7 p.m. Friday at the Burley-Rupert Knite and Fork dinner meeting.

The meeting will be at the Ponderosa Inn.

"Maybe you can't take it with you, but it is nice to have it until one learns he isn't going to take it with him," according to Watson.

Watson has spent most of his life dealing with the financial problems of other persons. He is a professional counselor and licensed investment counselor. He is the author of books and booklets on family financial planning that have been widely distributed throughout the 50 states which have been read in more than 40 foreign countries.

His talk here will be "Master Plan for Financial Security," and is the result of years of research and study in the field of family financial planning. As he readily admits, any plan is subject to change just as economic conditions change.

Pick wrong target

DPA pay may go to guardian

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's Department of Public Assistance can resort to somewhat unusual proceedings for welfare payment recipients unable to accept budgeting responsibilities.

Dr. John Marks, director of the department, said the DPA can make protective payments directly to landlords or to suppliers of utilities or a more cumbersome route can appoint a guardian for the recipient.

Either way may be necessary from time to time but both are more costly and more complex.

Marks said the protective payments are done where experience has shown that the person involved, who receives the payments, doesn't get budgeted well enough or cannot accept the full responsibility for seeing the money is budgeted properly.

He said it gets very involved when the DPA must pay the recipient's bills. Staff workers must take time to do the budgeting and payments must be routed through the DPA's fiscal office.

But there are advantages, including the assurance living expenses will be met.

We hope to investigate the problems as they come up and perhaps in some areas use it a little more than it has in the past," Marks said.

Another alternative is to appoint a guardian for a public assistance recipient. The full amount of the payment would be made to the guardian, who in turn would see that the money is budgeted and spent properly.

That route Marks said is more difficult since it is not easy to find someone willing to become a guardian and the DPA must often go through the courts.

Before doing this, we like to work with the people and counsel with them and help them with their budgeting problems," he said.

During the group's business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Frank Sanders, president, thank you notes were read by Mrs. Yvonne Bean from Mrs. Larry Miller and Mrs. Jack Yasutis. Mrs. Larry Wright, chapter Valentine Queen reported on a Valentine Queen contest at Boise. Plans were made for Mrs. Wright to attend the four events in the contest.

It was announced that Mrs. Robert Saxvik, sponsored by the chapter, was named Outstanding Young Woman of America for the state of Idaho.

Guests were Mrs. Richard Maggard and Mrs. Clyda Carpenter.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Beon and Mrs. Reese Garro.

Quartet clinic

Feb. 19

BURLEY — The Snake River Flats, Burley Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, will sponsor a quartet clinic Feb. 19 at Ponderosa Inn. Bill Thomas, president announced Al Knight, Calgary, Canada, will be one of the instructors.

Other instructors and judges, each qualified in his particular category, will be on hand to give help in diction, interpretation, and styling for barbershop singers.

There will be video tape machines to show each quartet visual and oral playback of their performances.

Quartets from Division 5 in Idaho and Montana have been invited to attend.

A public show will be held the evening of Feb. 19 at Minico High School Auditorium, with all participating quartets invited to perform. Also at the public show The Snake River Flats Chorus will sing.

Toni Pierce has again been selected as chorus director. Pierce was selected as Barbershopper of the Year for 1971.

Plans are under way for the annual show to be held Sept. 30 and Sylvan Burgi will appoint a committee to make contacts for a headline quartet for the show.

End of tax exemptions could provide funding

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Ray Lincoln, R-Twin Falls, said today he has asked the legislative council to find out how much money can be derived by eliminating all sales and use tax exemptions.

Lincoln said this might be one way to fund the public schools 100 per cent from the state level and eliminate the property tax for public schools at the local level.

I don't have any figures to back this up but I think it would be an interesting approach inasmuch as the property owner would get relief on the property tax," Lincoln said last Friday, four former members of the Revenue and ready some cases where a final product is taxed more than once and there is, in essence, a tax on a tax.

Until figures on its impact are compiled, Lincoln said, he cannot be certain his plan really is desirable.

But he added, "I think this would broaden the tax base and give relief to the property taxpayer."

He said he felt there already some cases where a final product is taxed more than once and there is, in essence, a tax on a tax.

He said he felt there already some cases where a final product is taxed more than once and there is, in essence, a tax on a tax.

Until figures on its impact are compiled, Lincoln said, he cannot be certain his plan really is desirable.

But he added, "I think this would broaden the tax base and give relief to the property taxpayer."

Nixon's budget shows subsidy payments to rise by $1.1 billion

Most of the increase—$504 million—would be concentrated in a program of loans for single-family low and moderate income housing, which would go to a new level of $2.059 billion. This would provide mortgages for about 142,000 rural families compared to about 112,000 in the current fiscal year.

Humphrey noted that Butz, in a Jan. 18 letter to Committee Chairman Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., charged that the higher livestock feed grain prices produced by the bill "would have a significant impact on the livestock-poultry sector, reducing production and increasing prices to unprecedented levels."

"Let's not fall into the 'cheap food' sinkhole," Humphrey retorted in his statement.

"Farmers can be paid a fair price for their products without—to use Secretary Butz's words, increasing prices to unprecedented levels."

Humphrey said farmers should not be blamed for rising retail food prices.

Barber takes Tucson playoff after 21 holes

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Miller Barber sank a 20-foot putt on the 21st hole Monday to beat George Archer in a history-making playoff of a Tucson Open golf tournament.

Barber, who at times during the regulation 18-hole playoff held a three-stroke lead and even survived a double bogey on the 12th hole, made his winning putt on the par three 17th hole at the Tucson National Course.

Archer, the lanky Californian who led or was tied for the lead three of the four days of the tournament, shook off a bad start and caught Barber with birdies on the 16th and 17th holes to make it all even at par 72 after the regulation playoff.

After going back to the 15th hole for sudden death, both golfers parred two holes, setting up the climax.

Barber took home $30,000 as the tournament champion, and Archer's second place was worth $17,100. Both also received $5,000 each from the television network for the playoff.

Barber started off slowly, overshooting the first three greens and using fine recovery shots to keep up with the lanky Archer until the fourth hole when Archer missed a two-foot par putt and Archer missed a two-foot par putt to put Barber in the lead.

Archer, usually a deadly putter, had trouble on the greens and missed several chances to pull even with Barber on the front nine. However, the eight-and-10-foot putts, which were sinking in earlier rounds, would not go in the first nine holes while Archer was one over par at 37.

Barber moved to a three-stroke lead on the 10th hole when Archer shot another bogey.

Both golfers had trouble on the par-three 12th hole. Barber took a double bogey five after a poor shot out of the sand trap. However, Archer could only pick up one stroke when he bogied the hole.

Archer pulled into a tie with birdies on the 16th and 17th holes. They both took a par four on the 18th to set up the history-making sudden death playoff after a 18-hole playoff.

Both golfers parred the 15th and 16th holes but on the par three 17th Archer missed a 16-foot putt and Barber dropped his in from 20 feet.

Barber wins $30,000

DISPLAYING THE first place check for $30,000 are Dean Martin and Miller Barber. Barber received the check for winning the Dean Martin Tucson Open. Barber was tied at the end of regulation play with George Archer and they went into an 18-hole playoff and then into sudden death where Barber won with a 17-foot putt on the third hole. # Boyd says colleges won't adopt clock

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The colleges won't take the lead of the pros by adopting a 24 or 30-second time clock, University of Southern California coach Bob Boyd predicted Monday.

"I don't think the college coaches would ever pass a rule like that," Boyd told the Southern California basketball writers.

"A deliberate game gives you a better chance to win sometimes. I don't think the coaches want to give up this option."

Boyd spoke after UCLA's John Wooden, a long-time exponent of a 30-second clock, was quizzed about Santa Clara's slowdown tactics during the weekend game won by the Bruins 92-57. UCLA was in front 37-13 at halftime.

"I'm not in favor of a straight 30-second clock," said the USC coach. "It might be okay if they turned the clock off the last part of each half to give the team with the lead a chance to protect it."

Asked if he would order his No. 8-rated Trojans to sit on the ball when they face the top-ranked Bruins in their Pacific-8 crucial Feb. 5, Boyd replied:

"I really haven't thought about our game with UCLA yet."

In his sixth season at the USC helm, Boyd said, "the only time we've tried to be a deliberate team" was against the Bruins.

"I don't like the word stall," he continued. "I think it's a negative word. When we go out and play a deliberate style, we do it with a positive approach. We are trying to accomplish something."

On the same subject, Wooden said: "I've never meant to criticize the strategy of the stall game. If I could, I would abolish it but it's part of the game and I'll use it myself if I have to."

UCLA, which is 14-0, has two nonconference games before it faces USC Nov. 12, while the Trojans have three nonleague contests before then.

The Bruins, who have scored more than 100 points in nine of their victories, are at Loyola of Chicago Friday night and Notre Dame Saturday.

USC hosts Providence at the Sports Arena Wednesday night and is at Seattle Friday night and Santa Clara Saturday night.

Bruce Clark, a 6-foot-8 sophomore who was a probable starter before suffering a hairline fracture of his leg in preseason practice, will accompany the Trojans to Seattle and Santa Clara, Boyd said.

"The doctor says he can't play yet but it may be soon," the Trojan coach added.

Cal State Long Beach, rated in a tie with Ohio State for sixth place in last week's national poll, is at San Jose State Friday night and at Pacific Sunday. Both are Pacific Coast Athletic Association contests.

Kentucky topples Vanderbilt

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Towering Jim Andrews, much maligned for his defensive play this season, unleashed a 34-point offense Monday night to power the Kentucky Wildcats to a 106-80 Southeastern Conference romp over Vanderbilt.

Kentucky went on a rampage of 12 straight points early in the second half, and expanded its margin to 20 points before Vandy cut it down to 48-36 at the half.

A blistering fast break sent the Wildcats into a 32-point lead late in the game, before coach Adolph Rupp cleared his bench. Substitute Terry Compton, a native of Horse Cave, Ky., paced Vanderbilt with 20 points, 19 of them in the last half.

Kentucky reached the century mark for only the second time this season in raising its SEC record to 4-2 and its overall mark to 10-4. Vanderbilt dropped to 3-3 in the conference and 9-5 against all competition.

Bob Cousy has acclimated himself to losing situation

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Bob Cousy, the coach of the struggling Cincinnati Royals, admits he has "acclimated" himself to losing but does not expect the Royals to turn around for some time.

"The key is not to let yourself accept defeat," Cousy says. "If that happens, you should get out of the game altogether."

Cousy, who produced a 117-34 record as coach at Boston College but in two and a half seasons as coach of the Royals, has not been able to produce the consistency necessary to make the NBA playoffs.

"Naturally, the fans are impatient and want a winner," he admitted. "In this league it just doesn't work that way. You have 12 teams and if you're lucky, you might find five or six really good college players in the draft each year."

"Even if you get the best man in the draft, he won't spin anything around by himself, unless he's a Lew Alcindor, and they only come around about once every 50 years."

Cousy says that even though the Royals are not winning, they have lost two-thirds of their games this season. He is satisfied if they play to their potential.

"I believe the whole criteria in coaching or handling men on this level, or any level, is to be able to sit back in the privacy of your own conscience at the end of the season and say, 'I gotten the most out of my material.'"

Cousy, the basketball star of seven world championship teams with the Boston Celtics, drew the ire of many fans when, shortly after becoming coach three years ago, he traded the team's only superstars Oscar Robertson and Jerry Lucas.

However, Cousy has had no second thoughts about those trades or any of the players he picked in the college draft.

"I think it's safe to say that in the past three years we have had less internal problems among our players than any team in the league," he said.

Cousy has attempted to transmit his own enthusiasm for the game and determination to win to the youngsters on the Royals roster. With the exception of 38-year-old Johnny Green, the Royals have one of the youngest teams in the league.

The only time I get discouraged is when I feel we go out and let down mentally to the point where we don't function as we should," he said. "This is the coach's responsibility."

He means what he says. When the Royals dropped a game to the Milwaukee Bucks by 38 points, despite the fact that Kareem Abdul-Jabbar did not play, Cousy fined everyone on the team, including himself, $200.

In my estimation most of the teams in the league let down more than we do," Cousy said. "Unfortunately, when we let down, all hell breaks loose. A stronger team can get away with it. We did it all the time with the Celtics."

The Royals record this season includes a 10-game losing streak which tied a club record. They have bounced in and out of the Central Division cellar.

"Naturally anyone with a competitive spirit hates to lose," Cousy readily admitted, "but my main concern is that we continue to make progress with a young team and that most of the time they are in the right frame of mind."

"I think we get the most out of the potential we have to work with," he continued, "and that's really what it's all about."

Rain brings thaw to winter ranges

BOISE (UPI)—Warm chinook winds and rain brought a January thaw to many critical big game winter ranges, giving a respite to deer and elk from deep snows and cold, the Idaho Fish and Game Department reported today.

But wintering conditions for big game animals still are critical throughout most of Eastern Idaho, and the Dworshak Dam and reservoir area of the North Fork of the Clearwater river.

The Idaho panhandle region reported above freezing daytime temperatures, bareing and greening south and west-facing slopes, and animals moving freely from valley floor to 7,000-8,000 feet. In the Clearwater region, the reservoir cover behind Dworshak dam between Dent bridge and Big Island is still a death trap for deer concentrations.

Predation and drowning are the two big causes of deer mortality. Deer are losing winter habitat as the waters now being impounded by Dworshak Dam flood over 25 miles of it. Reports indicate no problems in the McCall and western regions, or Magic Valley or Salmon.

It rained on the south fork of the Payette river, improving conditions for game. Snow depth ranging from 38-40 inches brought elk to the bottoms in the Big Snokey area of the south fork of the Boise, with conditions severe but no worse than they have been the past three winters. Large numbers of deer are moving into low farmlands all the way from Tuttle to Arco.

Temperatures have been extremely cold. South of the Snake River the only problem area for wintering game is north of Snowville, Utah.

The Salmon region reported snow-melting chinook winds reached, the upper Snake region. Temperatures rose and cut snow depths. High winds cleared the ridges of snow. Conditions for wintering big game animals were generally relieved, although two critical areas remain—Victor angle near Driggs, unit 62, and the Iron triangle north of Ashton.

Extremely deep snows and little available forage on poor range in limited areas made problems.

Trapping and moving deer to desert areas where forage is more abundant is underway again this winter on Leslie buttes near Leslie. An emergency feeding program is maintained for a small herd of antelope near Roberts.

Two warm days of rain. High winds cleared ridge tops of snow, making more forage available to elk. Animals are moving freely at all levels but some ranges are in poor shape.

Eastern Idaho has abnormally high snow depths and deer are beginning to concentrate along roadways and the railroad tracks. About two dozen deer have been killed by trains this winter between Lava Hot Springs and Bancroft. Deer are along all roadways. They have been seen at Black Rock, from the interstate highway near Inkom, above Lava, from homes on Pocatello's north bench, and among the homes on Mink Creek on their old wintering range. Wintering conditions for birds range from rather severe to good.

Jacksonville dumps Stetson

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Forward Ernie Fleming scored 29 points to lead Jacksonville University to an easy 107-82 victory over outclassed Stetson Monday night. Jacksonville, 10-2, rolled to a 64-27 halftime margin and then quickly built its lead to 30 points at 74-44 with 13:41 left in the game.

The Dolphins continued their fast break attack, piling up an 81-48 margin before Stetson fought back in the closing minutes to reduce the margin to 25 points at the end.

Guards Leon Benbow and Harold Fox added 22 and 19 points for the Dolphins.

Seniors Jim Orr and Ron Beal provided nearly all the Stetson offense.

Fordham ends Army win streak

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI)—Ken Charles scored 20 points and Bart Woytowich added 19 Monday night as Fordham outmuscled Army to earn an 81-71 victory and end the Cadets' four-game winning streak.

The Rams took a 34-28 lead at halftime but Army turned a 39-32 deficit into a 40-39 lead early in the second half when guard Bob Sherwin scored six straight points and forward Chris Peterson added another bucket.

The lead exchanged hands several times before the Rams, ahead 57-54, outscored the Cadets 13-2 to pull away.

Fordham had a 51-35 edge in rebounding as Army's record dropped to 8-6.

Sherwin lead all scorers with 28 points while the Rams, now 11-4, had Tom Pipich with 13 to back Charles and Woytowich.

Debbie Meyer will retire

AFTER ANNOUNCING her retirement from swimming competition at the age of 19, triple Olympic gold medalist Debbie Meyer glances through her scrapbook. In the 1968 Mexico City Olympics, Debbie won gold medals in the 200, 400 and 800-meter freestyle events, the only swimmer in history to win three individual gold medals in a single Olympics. She had said last year she would try for another Olympic team spot, but reconsidered her decision. (UPI telephoto.)

Swimming great is retiring

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—Debbie Meyer, the only swimmer in history to win three individual gold medals in a single Olympics, said Monday she is retiring from competition at the age of 19 because "I just don't seem to have the drive anymore."

Until her decision to quit swimming competitively, Miss Meyer had been a leading candidate for a berth on America's squad for the summer Olympics in Munich, Germany.

But she said "I just don't seem to have the drive anymore. I have been to the Olympics and I don't want to work that hard to get there again."

Miss Meyer has broken world freestyle swimming records 19 times. At the age of 16, she became the youngest person ever to win the Sullivan Award, given annually to America's outstanding amateur athlete.

In the 1968 Mexico City Olympics, she won gold medals in the 200, 400 and 800 meter freestyle events and was named Woman Athlete of the Year by Russia's Pravda newspaper.

In announcing her retirement, she said, "Swimming has been a tremendous and exciting experience for me. The many, many friends I have made throughout the world and the beautiful places I have visited, the fun of competition and the arduous work schedules have made me a more understanding and, I hope, a more grateful person."

Words cannot begin to describe my thanks to my coach, Sherrin Chavoor, my parents, the newspaper, television and radio people and all the hundreds of friends in the AAU and Olympic committee and the people who have supported me. Everyone has been considerate and helpful.

McGuire looks at non-conference life

NEW YORK (UPI)—Frank McGuire, basketball coach at the University of South Carolina, is finding life as an independent can be very exasperating.

When South Carolina dropped out of the Atlantic Coast Conference last year, McGuire greeted the move with mixed emotions. But he has found that it might have been better if the Gamecocks had stayed in the conference.

First, there was the matter of scheduling. As soon as the Gamecocks announced their decision to drop out of the ACC the rival teams, except for Clemson, immediately dropped South Carolina from their basketball schedule. That was a major blow to the Gamecocks' program, but there was a further hitch.

How would you like to be sitting around on April 5 without a schedule? McGuire asked newsmen Monday at the weekly gathering of the Metropolitan Basketball Writers.

"The ACC dropped us completely. I can't understand why they kept us in football and dropped us in basketball. Actually, it was a question of money. In football there's a guarantee of $100,000."

The thing that really bothered me was that nobody told me that the ACC teams weren't going to play us. I really had to get to work and get us a schedule. I called Al (McGuire) and Frank (Layden) at Niagara. They were willing to play us at home, but it wasn't that easy lining up other teams.

"It's going to take a few years before we get a balanced schedule. Everyone wants to play us down. Nobody wants to come down to our little palace."

McGuire did manage to fill the schedule, but to do it he had to agree to take his team on the road to such places as San Francisco, Chicago, Houston and Las Vegas. The result of all that travel has taken its toll on his team, McGuire feels.

"I feel like a pro coach again," said McGuire, who once coached the Philadelphia Warriors in the National Basketball Association. "I haven't been able to catch up with my clothes. We have a very difficult schedule and all this travel is beginning to tire us out."

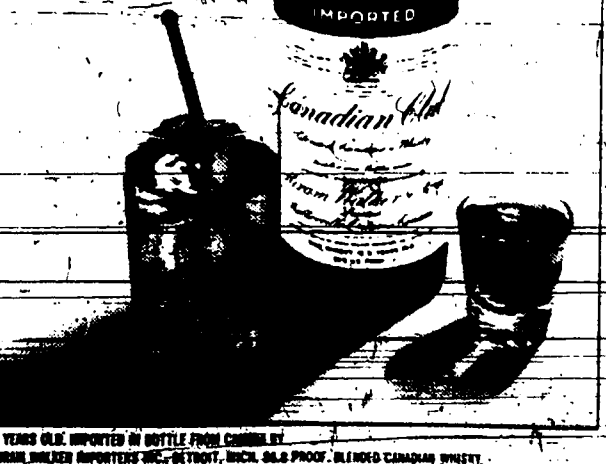

Despite the rugged schedule, the Gamecocks have managed to win 10 of their first 13 games. Two of their losses—to Marquette and Villanova—were by one point and the other was a six-point loss to Iowa last Saturday at Chicago Stadium.

"I didn't believe we'd be 10-3 at this time," said McGuire. "I thought we'd have about seven wins. I'm very pleased with the way the boys have played. We're a very young ballclub. We have a lot of soph and they play very well at times and at other times they make a lot of mistakes."

"Of our three losses, two of them could have gone either way. The one we lost to Iowa, a kid named (Rick) Williams hit 10 of 12 from the floor and 10 of 12 from the free throw line. And you should have seen the shots he took. Everyone of them was a William Tell—straight an air arrow."

Brundage says winter games to start on time

SAPPORO, Japan (UPI)—The flags of five newly-arrived national teams fluttered in the breeze at the Olympic Village here Monday while Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, gave assurance in Tokyo that the XI Winter Olympics will begin next week as scheduled.

Brundage, stepping off a plane in Tokyo's International Airport, commented on the continuing dispute he is having over the amateur eligibility of certain European ski stars by telling newsmen:

"In case you're worried, the Games are going to be held according to schedule and are going to be a great success."

Actually, representatives of 17 countries already are on hand here where the first Winter Olympics ever to be held in Asia will begin officially on Feb. 3 and run through Feb. 13. Included in those checked in so far are 269 male athletes and 59 female competitors, plus 143 team officials.

This number will be more than doubled on Tuesday when the 170-member United States team is among the six national teams scheduled to arrive. Flag raising ceremonies at the Olympic Village were held Monday by Canada, Italy, East Germany, South Korea, and Czechoslovakia. Similar ceremonies previously had been held for Japan and Great Britain, so a total of seven flags now are officially flying. In addition to the U.S. athletes, competitors from West Germany, France, Sweden, Norway, and Finland also are scheduled to arrive on Tuesday. Brundage is not scheduled to arrive here for several days, remaining in Tokyo for meetings with various people.

He dropped a hint on his arrival that a way may be found out of his impasse with the International Ski Federation (FIS) in the dispute over whether certain European ski stars should be barred from the Olympics for allowing their names and pictures to be used for commercial purposes.

Asked about a list of 10 skiers he issued last November whom he said were in violation of amateur rules, Brundage commented:

"There is no list of banned skiers. There is a list of skiers who violated the rules last year. But it's up to the screening committee to report before any decisions are made." Brundage said he had received a letter from the FIS on the matter "and they said it had permitted this event and if there were any violations, it (FIS) and not the athletes were responsible."

However, Brundage reiterated that the Olympic amateur code must be enforced.

"The duty of the International Olympic Committee is to see that the games are conducted according to the Olympic code," he said. "The rules are designed to eliminate those interested in sport for financial reasons."

"We hope all entries will be eligible," he added. "But we don't know yet because we haven't seen the entries."

The weather was excellent for training at various sites today. The Okurayama 90-meter ski jumping site was closed for three days, but training went on at the Miyazono 79-meter jump.

CSI defeats Treasure Valley

ONTARIO, Ore. — After a shaky first half, the College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles turned back Treasure Valley Community College 86-60 Monday night.

The Golden Eagles held a 36-26 margin at the half but came out in the second half with an offensive charge that put the Eagles out of reach for Treasure Valley. In the first seven minutes of the last half Rick Sobers and Willie Williams scored 14. The Golden Eagles only committed 10 fouls in the game. The Golden Eagles will be trying for their 16th win Friday in Twin Falls when they meet the College of Eastern Utah. Saturday, CSI will be home to Mesa College.

Eagles against a single loss. The second half, however, Sobers was taken out of the game after injuring his hand on the basket. He finished the night with 12 points.

Williams was the leading scorer for the Golden Eagles with 19 points. Stroebe had 17, and Kelly and Dresser each scored 14.

The Golden Eagles will be trying for their 16th win Friday in Twin Falls when they meet the College of Eastern Utah. Saturday, CSI will be home to Mesa College.

New coach sets goal for team

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—California's new head football coach said Monday his goal is to have his team among the top 10 in the nation next season, and he thinks he can get there "regardless of our probationary status."

Mike White, 36, in his first appearance as the Bears' head coach, said he came into the job fully aware of Cal's status on probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association in a controversy over Isaac Curtis.

"I had a talk with Curtis this morning, and we just got acquainted. He's a good man. He did not tell me his future plans. He's just a guy trying to find himself," White said. "I realize how much pressure he's under and, believe me, I want what's best for him."

Cal is on probation by the NCAA until Curtis leaves. The track and football star has signed a commitment to transfer to San Diego State, but apparently has not definitely decided to leave Cal.

Dave Maggard, 32, who became the university's athletic director last week, said he plans to "discuss the situation" with the NCAA soon and "try to get something resolved."

Maggard said the present status of the affair is "quite explicit." But he said the only unsettled question is "What Isaac Curtis and Larry Brumsey want to do."

Brumsey is another Cal athlete involved in the rule infraction which brought on the NCAA probation. White named four assistants, all from his old Stanford staff which took the Indians to the Rose Bowl twice.

Press lets Kansas nip Iowa State

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—Kansas used a full-court zone press in the second half to pull out a 74-71 Big Eight Conference victory Monday night over bobbling Iowa State.

The Jayhawks trailed 36-30 at intermission, but the pressing defense caused 14 Iowa State turnovers in the second half.

Bud Stallworth led all scorers with 24 points and substitute Dale Haasey scored a career high 16 to pace the Kansas attack, which was outrebounded 36-34 and outshot 50 per cent to 46 per cent.

The win gave Kansas a 3-1 conference mark and kept alive its hopes of repeating as Big Eight champion.

Clinton Harris led the Cyclones with 18 points.

Marquette overpowers Irish 71-62

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—Second ranked Marquette trailed Notre Dame by nine points four different times in the first half but managed to pull ahead by two points at haltime and went on to post a 71-62 victory.

Notre Dame's Gary Nozak and Tom O'Mara combined for 22 of their team's 27 points in the first 13 1-2 minutes while the Irish piled up a 27-18 lead. But then Marquette, in a rally led by 6-9 center Jim Aronnes, outscored the Irish 3-2 in the last six minutes of the half to lead 31-29 at intermission.

The Warriors scored six points while holding Notre Dame scoreless in the first minute and 20 seconds in the second half to put the game out of reach. The closest Notre Dame could get after that was 53-49 with 8:06 left.

Novak led all scorers with 25 and O'Mara scored 13. Chrones led Marquette with 24 points and teammates Larry McNeill and Bob Lackey added 13 and 12 respectively. The victory boosted Marquette's undefeated season mark to 15-0 while Notre Dame dropped to 3-9.

Xavier player catches hand

LSU defeats Florida 84-73

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Bill Newton canned 23 points for Louisiana State as the Tigers downed Florida 84-73 Monday night in a southeastern conference basketball game that had to be stopped several times so debris thrown by the hometown crowd could be cleaned off the court.

Al Sanders and John Brantley added 18 points each for LSU, and Sanders was responsible for bringing down half the team's 40 rebounds.

Dan Bue scored 19 points to lead Florida, whose record fell to 8-5 overall and 2-1 in the SEC. LSU is now 5-9 for the season and 2-5 in League play.

Bulls edge Golden State

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Bulls snapped a Golden State 11-game winning streak Monday night defeating the Warriors 110-105, in National Basketball Association play.

The Warriors were in command in the early part of the game, outscoring the Bulls in the first period, 28-25. But in the third period Bobby Weiss began hitting from the field and scored six points in a row to pull the Bulls ahead to stay.

It was the Bulls fourth straight victory. Top scoring honors for the game, however, went to Jeff Mullins of Golden State with 43 points.

Staubach, Cornell back get awards

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Quarterback Roger Staubach, who guided the Dallas Cowboys to a world championship, and running back Ed Marinaro, who led Cornell to an Ivy League championship, were honored as the outstanding football players of 1971 by the Maxwell Football Club Monday night.

Staubach was a repeat winner. He was named the outstanding college player while quarterback at Navy in 1963.

Staubach, praised by his coach Tom Landry as "the man who exemplifies all that is good in athletics," told the 1,000 club members that "I realize every second that an athlete can't be complacent."

"This is a great award—for myself and for the Ivy League. I just hope that someday I can be a repeat winner like Roger Staubach."

Staubach praised Landry as "the finest coach in football. He's had a tremendous influence on me."

Landry said Staubach "led it and won it for us."

"A player puts an extra ingredient in a team," Landry said. "Maybe he provided that extra ingredient."

NHL admits two new franchises

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—The National Hockey League Monday admitted two new franchises upon payment of $700,000 and the NHL Players Association announced that Tuesday it would ask the league for a 150 per cent increase in playoff benefits.

Representatives of the new Long Island and Atlanta teams each paid $350,000 to the league to be welcomed officially as members. Each must pay an additional $1.4 million by May 31.

Atlanta will complete its payments of its $6 million membership fee in 1977 and Long Island will complete payment of $11 million including $5 million indemnity to the New York Rangers, in 1981.

Commissioner Clarence Campbell said the owners agreed that the 1972-73 schedule would require 78 games, the same number played this year, and will run from Oct. 3 through April 1. But realignment of the 16 teams into divisions was deferred until Tuesday.

Campbell said only two alignments would be considered, separation into four divisions of four teams each, or two eight-team divisions which would not necessarily include the same teams now in the East and West divisions. He said that the makeup of the four-team divisions was agreed upon and that 13 of the 14 previous members had approved the proposal, but the shift must be accepted unanimously.

Detroit, it was understood, was the sole opponent because the Red Wings wanted a Canadian team in their division.

Louisville wins 95-72

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Senior forward Ron Thomas scored 17 points and muscled a career-high 22 rebounds Monday night as fifth-ranked Louisville gunned down North Texas State, 95-72, to equal a school record of 13 consecutive victories.

With Jim Price hitting 13 of his 23 points in the first half, the Cardinals soared to a 51-32 halftime margin and never trailed afterwards.

Al Vilcheck had 16 points and Mike Lawton 14 in the well-balanced Louisville attack.

North Texas was led by Eph McDaniel with 21 points and Willie Gandy with 16.

Louisville, favored to win the Missouri Valley Conference crown this season, boosted its league record to 3-0 and its overall mark to 13-1. The Eagles suffered their seventh loss in 15 starts and saw their MVC record dip to 2-3.

N.Y. cowboys

CHICAGO (UPI)—Western movie buffs: the American "cowboy" was noted first in New York state.

The word cropped up, according to Encyclopedia Britannica, during the American Revolution.

Grand tour of planets scrubbed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon scrubbed the space agency's ambitious plan for a $1 billion unmanned "Grand Tour" of the outer planets Monday and proposed spending more of its money for research on airplanes.

The $1.2 billion budget Nixon proposed for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) was virtually unchanged from spending in the current fiscal year that ends June 30.

The most dramatic cutback was in NASA's plan to send an unmanned spacecraft on a grand tour of Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto when these planets assume a rare alignment late in this century. Lack of support from the scientific community was a contributing factor in its elimination.

Nixon also cancelled a program to build a 750 million pound thrust nuclear rocket engine that might have one day been used for a manned flight to Mars. He replaced it with a proposal to develop a far smaller, 15,000 pound thrust engine for unmanned planetary missions.

But in aeronautics research which has taken a back seat for years to the more glamorous space projects, the President proposed increasing spending by about 50 per cent. He requested $183.4 million to try to quiet the noise of aircraft engines, build a new type of short takeoff airplane and join with the army in research on a vertical-takeoff plane. This year aeronautics research received only $110 million.

In place of the "grand tour," Nixon called for a start toward developing manned probes to fly by Jupiter and observe it in passing.

Nixon's budget called for two final remaining Apollo missions, both scheduled for moon landings this year. For 1973, he asked Congress to continue a program to develop an embryonic space station with $541 million additional funds. The President asked $200 million for the space shuttle program, in which contracts are expected to be awarded this summer.

Federal budget data

Medicare payments sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon asked Congress Monday to assume the $15 billion annual cost that the nation's elderly now pay for Medicare coverage of doctor bills.

"A new commitment to the aging is long overdue to add dignity and usefulness to their lives," Nixon said in his budget message. Under present law, the monthly optional Medicare premium, payable by the beneficiary, is supposed to reflect medical costs and it is scheduled to rise from $5.60 to $5.80 in July.

Nixon said he wanted to spend $50 billion next year on behalf of the aging, an increase of $16 billion over four years.

Among his proposals — A fivefold increase over 1972 spending to $100 million for the administration on aging to provide more homemaker services, home health aides, transportation and nutrition services to keep the aged in their own homes.

Social Security and welfare benefits proposed in the House-passed Welfare Reform Bill, which is pending in the Senate, which would add $5.5 billion to income of the elderly.

Additional funds to help foster grandparents who now work with children to expand their services to other aged persons. Hire more elderly workers for community jobs, and increase volunteer activities for the aged.

Unit asks new Idaho mining law

BOISE, Utah — The Idaho Environmental Council is calling for a new surface mining law to help solve weaknesses in a law passed in 1971.

The council also called for creation of an Idaho wild and scenic rivers system.

Creation of a separate state department of ecology.

Protection of flood plains. Abolition of the Fish and Game Department's fund for the destruction of predatory animals.

Council president Gerald Jayne, in a letter to legislators, said the group also supports adequate funding to enforce the 1971 stream channel protection act, the concept of state land use planning, and minimum stream flow.

Earnings for due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service reminded the nation's employers today they must get their W-2 forms — earnings statements for 1971 — into their workers' hands by Jan. 31.

The date is set by law, and the service urged employers to get the forms out earlier if possible so both taxpayers who owe the government and those who will be getting refunds will be able to file their returns in advance of the April 17 deadline.
