Sawtooth bill wins House OK

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The U. S. House of Representatives yesterday voted 369 to 9 in favor of a long debated Sawtooth National Recreation Area Bill.

The bill, which would preserve the scenic Sawtooth region north of Sun Valley as a recreational area, now goes to the U. S. Senate where it is expected to gain approval.

A year ago the measure was approved in the Senate but was defeated in the House. Idaho congressional delegates reversed their tactics this year, introducing it first in the House. They now anticipate little opposition in the Senate.

As approved by the House, the bill would set aside 753,900 acres of the scenic Sawtooth Valley and mountain region under national recreational area classification.

Proponents of the bill have urged passage of the measure to protect the area from piecemeal development by commercial interests. Some housing and other development has already taken place in the valley area at the base of the scenic mountain region.

The area would be placed under U. S. Forest Service administration. Although Sen. Frank Church has objected to some of the wording of the bill, he joined other members of the Idaho delegation in sponsoring it and is expected to help guide it through the Senate voting.

The bill calls for a comprehensive study of the Sawtooth — White Cloud Mountain region with the secretary of interior designated to conduct the study and submit a proposal on national park classification potential. This is to be submitted to Congress no later than Dec. 31, 1973.

Many of the conservationists are still calling for a national park in the area at this time, while ranchers and other area land owners in the vicinity of the Sawtooths favor the national recreation concept because of the multiple use system.

Mining interests supported the recreation plan which would allow current valid mining claims to be maintained through prospecting, developing or mining so long as their surface activities did not degenerate the region's scenic values.

Most of the 753,900 acres in the proposed national recreation area is already federally owned and would include about 216,000 acres of current — primitive area classification which would be changed to wilderness area and preserved as such.

Financing called for in the bill totals $46 million and includes $19.8 million for land acquisition and $26.2 million for development. An additional $50,000 is earmarked to pay for the study of the proposed national park in the Sawtooths.

Congressman Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, who said the future of the beautiful Sawtooth country has been debated for many years, called for immediate action on the bill.

The most serious and immediate threat is to the Sawtooth Valley, he said, "where we already see the evidence of unplanned and unsightly subdivisions."

If not controlled these will rapidly transform the area from its western ranching character to commercial developments that will forever mar its unique scenic beauty."

Hansen said high priority is also given the White Clouds Peaks which are threatened with serious and permanent damage as a result of inadequately regulated prospecting and mining activities.

The bill approved Wednesday by the House gives the secretary of agriculture the immediate authority to publish regulations and set standards governing the use of privately owned property in the area, to acquire scenic easements and to take other actions necessary to assure highest and best use of the area.

The bill further imposes on the area a five-year moratorium on all forms of location, entry and operation under the existing mining laws.

Wage, price controls to stay, Nixon warns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's economic advisers predicted today the economy would forge ahead on all fronts in 1972, but cautioned that wage-price controls would remain in force until inflation cools.

Despite a number of "uncertainties" that could alter their forecast, the Council of Economic Advisers told Congress they expected business, government and consumers to spend more this year, giving the economy a needed shot in the arm.

The prospects for the nation's economic health were contained in the council's annual "Economic Report of the President," sent today to Capitol Hill. The message traditionally follows the President's budget by a few days and outlines in more detail the administration's economic strategy.

In an accompanying statement, Nixon said the nation was on the way to "a new prosperity without inflation and without war." He also pleaded for "greater productivity and a resurgence of the competitive spirit" so that the United States could win a bigger share of international markets.

The economic report was signed by two of the council's three members — Chairman Herbert Stein and Ezra Solomon. The third seat has been vacant since the resignation last month of former Chairman Paul W. McCracken.

Buoyed by an end of the year surge in a number of key economic indicators, Stein and Solomon predicted 1972 "would see rising output, diminishing unemployment, a reduced rate of inflation and a stronger U.S. position in the world economy."

"It seems likely that in 1972 every major category of expenditures for goods and services will rise more or decline less than in 1971, except for investment in new houses," they said.

GNP Will Increase
Meanwhile, the economic controls program will attempt to convince people "that rapid inflation is no longer the prospective condition of American life. When that happens controls can be eliminated."

"How long that will take, no one can say."

Hijacker cut down by agent

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (UPI) — An airline hijacker was shot and killed by an FBI agent early today when he tried to escape in a car from Poughkeepsie's airport with $200,000 ransom and a stewardess hostage.

A spokesman for the Dutchess County prosecutor's office said the hijacker, identified as Heinrich Von George, 45, of Brockton, Mass., was killed by a shotgun blast after he had fired a starter's pistol at the FBI man.

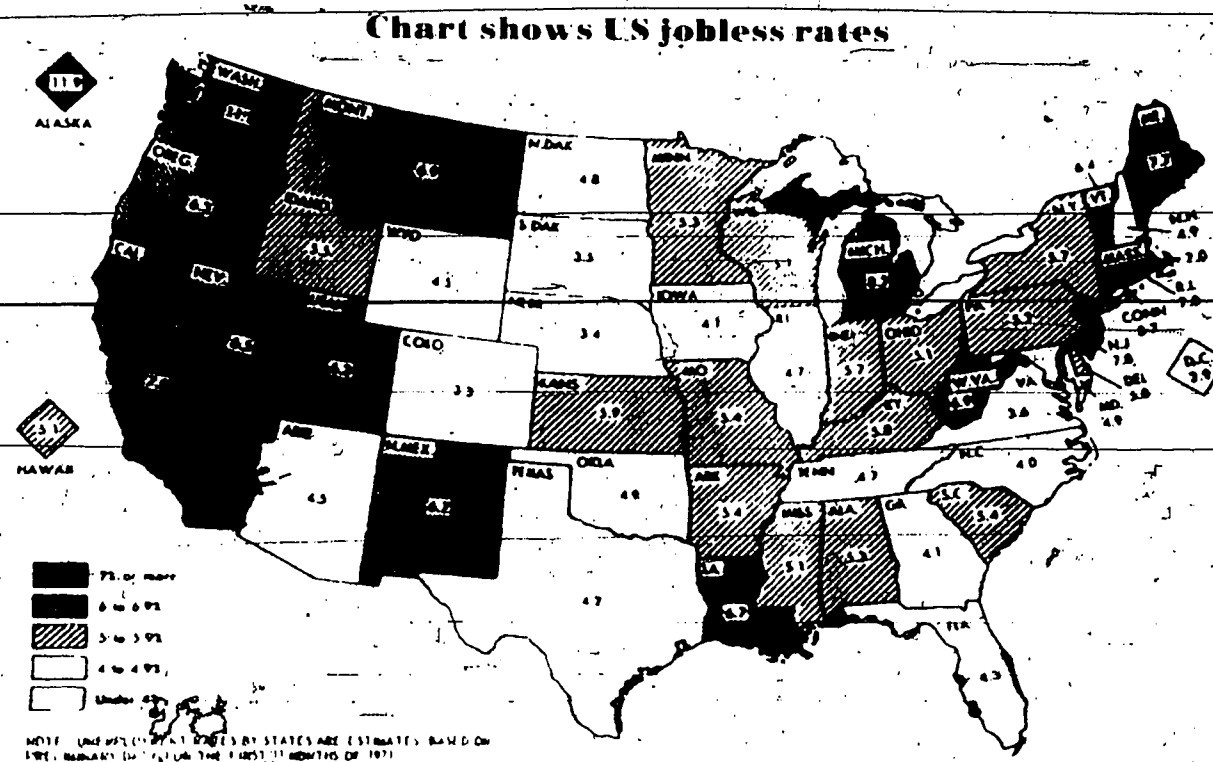

The close range shotgun blast blew away most of the hijacker's head.

The stewardess-hostage, Eileen McAllister, was not injured.

Von George, the father of seven children, hijacked the Mohawk Airlines F227 twin-engine propeller Wednesday night on a flight from Albany, N.Y., to New York City.

But instead of landing at LaGuardia Airport, the plane's scheduled stop, Von George ordered the plane to land at Westchester County airport near White Plains, N.Y., where he released the 42 passengers and demanded the $200,000 ransom.

Von George held Miss McAllister at gunpoint throughout the hijacking.

Labor asks pay chief dismissal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The AFL-CIO asked the Senate today to remove George H. Boldt as chairman of the Pay Board.

The request, which is likely to go unheeded, was made before the Senate Banking Committee which is holding confirmation hearings on Boldt's qualifications. His confirmation and that of C. Jackson Grayson as chairman of the Price Commission are required under the 1971 Economic Stabilization Act.

Andrew J. Biemiller, chief lobbyist for the AFL-CIO, told senators Boldt "has no qualifications to sit as the impartial chairman" of the tripartite board "and we see no reason for anyone so knowledgeable in labor-management relations to receive such expensive on-the-job training."

If you think it's cold here, consider Yakutsk, Siberia. It hit 76 below today, but the record is 80 below zero.

End dock walkout, aide asks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson told Congress Wednesday a voluntary settlement of the West Coast dock strike was the best and urged quick action on President Nixon's proposal for a compulsory settlement to save the economy from further harm.

"I see no basis for thinking prospects are any better for a voluntary settlement than they were months ago," Hodgson told the Senate Labor Committee. "I see no basis for hope of any settlement."

The committee is holding hearings on Nixon's proposed legislation to end the strike — creation of a three-man arbitration board to examine the issues and impose a settlement within 40 days that would remain in effect at least 18 months.

Hodgson said quick action was needed because the strike had already done enormous damage to the economy and a continuation would sabotage the government's efforts to revive the nation's business.

Jerome recall held 'invalid'

BOISE — An opinion from the office of the attorney general holds recall against Jerome City Councilman S. N. (Shorty) Weeks, said several months of his current term before petitions can be filed against him.

"It makes no sense to elect a man one day and circulate recall petitions against him the next," Croner said Wednesday in explaining his position.

Walt Bentzinger and Elwin Tinker, members of the Jerome council, are also subject to recall action but are not involved in the conflict, having several years of their current terms.

Simmerman had been requested to secure the opinion by the city officials of Jerome.

Reds 'studying' Viet peace plan

PARIS (UPI) — The United States and South Vietnam today offered a two-phased peace plan to end the Vietnam War and the allied negotiators said after the 5 1/2 hour session that the Communists had started to study it carefully.

"We had a pretty interesting meeting," U.S. negotiator William J. Porter said. The Communists "asked questions which we have answered, we had quite a few questions for them which they answered." The allied plan called for signing a basic peace treaty now with a final peace treaty to come later to wrap up all loose ends of the conflict and permit American troops to return home. Porter indicated the Communists had shown close interest in the package.

B. Stricker dies at 88

HANSEN — Bernard Stricker, 88, eldest of the sons and daughters of the pioneer settler, Herman and Mary Stricker who settled in Rock Creek in 1870, died early today in a convalescent home in Kimberly.

He had been ill for some time. When the Strickers came to Rock Creek, they were among the first white people to live in this area. For many years they operated a stage station and general store.

Bernard Stricker was born in Rock Creek and spent his entire life in the area.

White Mortuary will announce funeral services.

'Faulty' Paul homes probed

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES and LEE TREMAINE
Times-News writers

PAUL. — State and federal housing inspectors are checking reports in the Paul area of faulty construction of 25 to 30 housing units built with loans obtained through the Farmer's Home Administration for moderate-to-low-income families.

Jim Hopper, rural housing specialist for the Idaho Special Services Department, revealed the probe Wednesday.

Hopper, working with the South-Central Community Action Agency in a contract between the CAA and the Idaho Special Services Division, said a number of families had obtained FHA loans in the Paul and Rupert area last year to build new homes.

The first of the new homes, completed last April, are in many cases "falling apart," according to Hopper.

He said homeowners have complained that the builder, E-Z Homes of Rupert, has failed to make needed repairs.

Philip R. Bare, Rupert owner of the firm, however, today denied the allegations. Bare said he had built "about 70 homes" in the area under "Section 205, Rural Housing," of FHA regulations.

Under this legislation, the FHA provides loans for the homes at lower interest rates for families with stipulated income levels, with the interest depending on the income, Bare said.

Bare, who is also a real estate dealer, said he is making repairs on the homes, which carry a one-year warranty.

Hopper, however, claimed state FHA inspectors are checking the homes and have found numerous irregularities in construction. An investigation is continuing, Hopper said.

A number of the homeowners will meet at 8 p.m. today at the Burley Neighborhood Center to discuss their problems and consider further action, Hopper said.

A meeting is also scheduled Wednesday between the homeowners, representatives of the FHA and the contractor, Hopper said.

FHA spokesmen have been ordered to keep silent on the matter, according to Millard Stevenson, Boise, state housing director, and Lee Robinson, Paul, Minidoka County supervisor.

Both said they had been told by Donald Winder, state FHA director, not to issue any news releases or even to discuss the matter.

Winder was in the Magic Valley today, conferring with FHA offices at Paul. He said he had no formal comment this morning, but promised to "discuss" the problems in question with the Times-News following his conferences in Minidoka County.

Hopper claimed "green" or uncured lumber apparently had been used in many of the new homes, causing jammed doors, warped windows and sagging floors. Plumbing had been left exposed and other inadequate features had been found, Hopper said.

Hopper said the contractor has been "suspended" by the FHA and will be unable to construct any FHA-financed housing in the state until repairs are made good in the Paul area.

Bare, however, denied this report, saying he is continuing to work with the FHA on Section 502 housing.

'Gem change' stressed by Park at TF dinner

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park said Wednesday that a "dramatic change" in Idaho's life style may be nearing.

The change, he said, will be one result of population pressures that may cause a "dramatic increase in our numbers" in the not too distant future.

The population pressures will bring to Idaho racial violence, crime, pollution and problems currently facing urban centers.

Park, talking to the annual dinner of the Twin Falls YMCA-YWCA Wednesday night, said that the nation and Idaho must be prepared to pay the price to overcome the factors that cause both ghetto outbreaks and rising crime rates.

The solution is a massive educational program combined with improved law enforcement.

"If we can spend billions of dollars of the national treasure each year for the benefit of the South Vietnamese in that bewildering war, but cannot afford to spend an equivalent or lesser amount to keep our own country alive and well at home, then we may have given our young people real cause to question our value system."

It is clear where the priority must be," he said.

Parks said that the disillusionment of youth has a foundation in fact.

Although the U. S. has the "finest and fairest system of government," he said, "there are within it, imperfections."

The youthful critics, he said, are trying to tell us that no manmade institution can remain static, that evolution, constructive change, is inevitable and good.

Following his YMCA speech, Park said that the U. S. had exceeded its optimum population already.

But, he said, Idaho "has enough room to accommodate substantially bigger population."

He said the state's policy however, should be one of "selective encouragement" of new industry and population.

Park said the signs of urban ills are apparent elsewhere in the U. S. already visible. He cited the influx of "well-heeled Californians." He said that the future holds in store an influx of "ordinary people" in addition to the "pleasure seekers."

An additional threat, he said, is possible government forced citizen relocation programs moving people from cities into Idaho's open spaces.

He cited the rising incidence of drug abuse in Idaho as "the beginning of some of the problems" that have moved from the urban areas into Idaho.

Speaks in TF IDAHO Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park addresses members of the Rotary Club Wednesday in Twin Falls. He later spoke at the YM-YWCA annual dinner meeting.

Organized crime cited in Idaho drug traffic

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho attorney general said Wednesday that organized crime is involved in drug traffic in Idaho.

He said that dealing with the organized drug traffic is the "highest priority" of the newly reorganized Idaho drug control effort.

This week the Idaho Division of Narcotics and Drug Control was transferred from the control of the Board of Pharmacy to the office of the attorney general.

Atty Gen W. Anthony Park said a reorganization of the state's drug control apparatus would result in a "great increase" in the manpower assigned to the Magic Valley area.

Park said his office will concentrate on the pusher rather than the user. Among pushers, he said, those involved with organized crime will be given the highest priority.

"It is reasonable to say that organized crime is involved in Idaho," he said. "To what extent we're not sure."

He said that "we have reason to believe that one of the most significant sources of organized crime gathered together for meaningful conclusions on its physical and psychological effects."

Despite this, he said, "the reality of its illegality still exists as a deterrent."

With other drugs, he said, "evidence is readily available that they do distort and disable the body and the mind."

He urged a "three-pronged program of education, law enforcement and rehabilitation." He called on parents to understand that drug abuse is a symptom of escapism.

If we, as parents, can provide meaning to a youngster's life, there should be no need for him to look into a pill or a needle in a search for worth," he said.

He said that prison terms are in order for the "professional pusher," but that the drug user who is at the "mercy of the pusher" should not receive punishment only. He said the user needs the help of society to "reorient his life into more useful channels."

He said that there is cause for alarm over rising drug usage, but "there is not cause for panic."

Date nears

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park said Wednesday an announcement of his candidacy for the U. S. Senate is nearing.

"It's all but certain that I will be announcing after the legislature is over," he said.

He said that citizens' groups are in the process of being formed around the state.

"I'm not discouraging them," he said.

Gem aide promotes center

TWIN FALLS — Idaho's attorney general said Wednesday he would "encourage" creation of a watchdog/consumer affairs center at the College of Southern Idaho.

Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park said his office is seeking to strengthen consumer protection throughout the state. One means of doing this, he said, is through establishment of consumer centers similar to one already in operation at Idaho State University in Pocatello.

He said his office currently is negotiating with the University of Idaho to arrange a similar center at the Moscow campus.

He said his office is first seeking the centers at the universities because federal funds for the programs are more readily available at the larger campuses.

"I would be most happy if CSI could somehow set up either a voluntary consumer protection office or perhaps offer for credit certain efforts in the direction of what we're doing in Pocatello."

He said his office would support and cooperate with such a center.

Earlier Wednesday Park told the Twin Falls Rotary Club that "consumer conscience" is a "very real force today in America."

He said that it is the policy of his office "to attempt to resolve consumer problems without litigation, with the attorney general acting as an arbitrator."

Oil, gas up

DALLAS (UPI) — The United States in 1970 consumed 5.4 billion barrels of crude oil and 22 billion cubic feet of natural gas, according to the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors.

The totals represent increases of 50 per cent for oil and 72 per cent for gas from 1960 levels. Association officials predict the nation's consumption will double by 1985.

Idaho stores named in suit

BOISE (UPI) — Violations of the economic stabilization act and executive orders dealing with wage — price controls by Seven-Eleven stores have been alleged in a suit brought by the federal government here.

The suit named as defendants the Texas-based Southland Corp. parent firm of Seven-Eleven stores.

The order cited in the suit requires stores to post base prices in each department of those 40 items of the largest dollar volume of firms doing more than $100,000 in business during a single fiscal year.

Work injuries

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Twenty per cent of the disabling injuries received by workers in Michigan each year are caused by the building or the environment in which they work, reports the Michigan Department of Labor.

In a study of 31,500 disabling work injuries, it was determined 6,428 of them resulted from such things as noise, heat, ramps, roofs, floors and parking lots.

Boy Scouts

Many a boy grown to manhood in the 62 years since the Boy Scouts of America were incorporated at Washington Feb. 8, 1910, has found occasion to be grateful for training received through that organization. Forty million have been identified with the movement during that period and have been helped to self-reliance, consideration of others and understanding of how to meet emergencies. That training, physical as well as moral, has been of good stead on world battlefields and in civilian life.

There are in the United States today nearly a hundred thousand units of Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers, the older boys' branch. Hundreds of thousands of adult volunteer leaders are teaching Scout principles and imparting Scout lore to nearly 5 million currently active members. It is a fine showing by a worthwhile movement whose cumulative results are impressive. So all Americans say: More power to the Scouts.

And in our own Magic Valley the Snake River Area Council is recognized as one of the best in the nation.

Juxtaposition

By a curious juxtaposition of events, two unrelated, yet very much related, stories appeared in the news on the same day. The one told of the landing in Seattle of a half-ton of food, accompanied by more than $800 in cash, as a "mercy gift" to the needy people of Seattle from their sister city of Kobe, Japan. The aerospace industry in the Northwest has been especially hard hit by the economic slump. In Seattle, said the story, "once-affluent aerospace engineers gather three times a week in the rain and snow for bags of free groceries."

Agriculture Department officials finally agreed to release stockpiled surplus food to the unemployed. The other story told of an impasse on the federal Pay Board regarding a 12 per cent pay increase negotiated in new labor contracts in the aerospace industry. Some members of the board hoped to limit the increase to 10 per cent, still well above the official guideline of 5.5 per cent. Unemployed aerospace workers standing in line for food handouts employed aerospace workers looking for a 12 per cent wage increase from a depressed industry.

What was it Hamlet said about things being out of joint?

Censorship

The Republic will undoubtedly stand the suspense of the court-ordered postponement until 2014 of the publication of President Warren G. Harding's love letters to Mrs. Carrie Phillips. Most historians, though personally and professionally disappointed, will probably agree with the conclusion of one of their number that the matter "will not be a shadow across the rest of my life."

But have President Harding's heirs considered the risk inherent in the new timing? In the Age of Aquarius, an indiscretion of this nature would be assured maximum understanding, perhaps even admiration. But given the cyclical nature of national attitudes toward the affairs of Eros, who is to say that neo-Victorianism may not again be in the saddle in the second decade of the 21st century?

MR. SPECTATOR

Louse's Lease On Life

An unexpected guest has joined the back-to-nature or do-your-own thing or commune movement. According to the American Museum of Natural History in New York, human lice, almost eradicated by DDT powders developed during World War II, are now staging a comeback as a result of communal living among young people with low standards of hygiene.

The museum even built an "Exhibit Of The Month" around a wax model of Pediculus humanus corporis, the common body louse. (With a name like that, how can he be anything else but common?) And as it does with other primitive tribal groups, the museum has created a communal living scene, complete with used cups, dirty blankets and community hairbrush.

By no means are all communal groups lice-prone, the museum hastens to assure. If members maintain ordinary standards of personal grooming and hygiene, lice are not likely to appear. But when these standards are allowed to lapse, Mr. Louse and all his relatives join the group, bringing along a number of unpleasant diseases.

Aquarius, the Water Bearer, needs a bath. And Mr. Spectator might suggest that the next time you take a bath you might keep a close look for Mr. Louse and his relative rather than wasting your time admiring yourself in the mirror.

TODAY'S CHUCKLE Character is when you have the same ailments as the other person but refrain from mentioning it.

ADD STATISTICS School and college enrollment to the year 2000 has been projected by the census bureau.

Mr. Spectator finds that the total of Americans enrolled in school from kindergarten through college in the year 2000 is expected to range from 62.3 to 101.4 million, depending on the future course of fertility.

The three assumptions governing this report are 1) that school enrollment will continue to increase at the same rate as in 1950-70; 2) that enrollment will continue to rise but at a lower rate of increase than in the past 20 years; and 3) that school enrollment will continue at October 1970 levels. The census bureau admits (although not in these same words) that the only thing they are not sure about is how many men and women will get "hitched" in the next few years and will take to having babies rather than taking the "pill."

A THOUGHT Mr. Spectator cannot understand why people always put their house numbers in the dark where you just can't find them at night! The other night we spent several anxious minutes trying to find a house which had all the lights burning and bright with the exception of the area where the house number was hung on the place.

WASHINGTON An exhaustive investigation is underway of the muddled management and steeply-inflated finances of the widely-glamorized Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts—the $70 million marble behemoth on the Potomac.

The unpublicized probe is being made by the General Accounting Office, watchdog agency of Congress, at the instigation of Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., chairman of the Public Works Committee. He asked for the sweeping inquiry in preparation for a public airing of the Center's chaotic affairs by his committee next month. Behind Sen. Randolph's backstage action are admissions by Center officials of heavy indebtedness, and numerous reports of mismanagement, high salaries, nepotism and favoritism, and waste and extravagance. Illustrative of the latter is a claim that a production of Leonard Bernstein's "Mass," which opened the Center four months ago, cost $300,000 more than planned. Information also has reached Congress that number of contractors are claiming $3 million to $5 million in damages and other costs due to blunders, "unreasonable and excessive" delays and other difficulties. Arthur Sampson, public buildings commissioner of the General Services Administration, has been quoted as castigating the dealings with the building companies as "one of the most mismanaged contracts I have ever seen in my life."

Charges have also been made to Sen. Randolph that Roger Stevens, board chairman of the Center, has been using funds to pay for day-to-day operating expenses that should be spent for construction costs. He is also accused of high-handed and autocratic meddling in activities outside his immediate authority. Other serious complaints lodged against both Stevens and Center Director William McCormick Blatt, Jr., involve nepotism, favoritism, excessive payments to stage hands and other employees, and feuding among officials.

The 30-member Center board is dominated by Kennedys and their partisans. Board members include Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.; Arthur Schlesinger, White House adviser of the late President Kennedy; Mrs. Steven Smith, one of the Kennedy sisters; and Lemoyne Billings, another White House assistant under Kennedy. Sen. Randolph already has one highly critical report detailing Kennedy Center mistakes and bungling. It is a 60-page study compiled by the General Services Administration on the basis of an extensive technical survey by a team of building engineers. It was undertaken on orders of Earl Lund, GSA project director for the Center. The engineers uncovered numerous costly delays, due to changes in design and specifications, which stalled completion of the Center for two and half years. Cost of this dawdling and blundering is put at $3 million to $5 million.

To meet this big overrun, Stevens has let it be known he proposes to ask Congress for a multi-million dollar loan—despite repeated previous assurances that the Center would not ask for more public funds. Approximately $46 million of Federal money has gone into the still-unfinished huge marble edifice. That's about two-thirds of the $70 million total—so far.

ANDREW TULLY

That New Suit!

WASHINGTON I was brave and entered a shop. Eventually, I signed up for a new suit. There is, as far as I am able to determine, nothing wrong with the suit. It is gray in shade, has two pant legs and the requisite number of buttons. But the experience fell short of titillation. My trouble is, I have memories. A few years ago, after several weeks spent nervously covering the Vietnam War, I stopped off in Hongkong and fell a victim to the hospitality of one Albert Nafraj, whose establishment is tucked into a rubbyside of the Chungking Arcade in Nathan Road.

You could find me there almost every day as I pursued Hongkong's most exhilarating experiences. Nafraj is not an opium den; it merely has the same narcotic effect. It is, in mundane actuality, a tailor shop.

Warned by the counsel of old Hongkong hands, and the style of my bank balance, I had vowed not to fall into Albert Nafraj's oriental clutches. I vowed to spurn his advances, lest I depart Hongkong trembling with withdrawal pains. Who needed a custom-made suit of prime English worsted at $40? Would a vicuna sports jacket at $35 really cause me to forget the time I fell out of a jeep at Tay Ninh? Forthwith I repaired to the Chungking Arcade, just for a look.

For 10 minutes I resisted Albert's blandishments, his piercing eye, then agreed to buy one summer suit. Twenty-four hours later I had contracted for two more suits, a vicuna sports jacket, two pairs of slacks and four custom-made, monogrammed shirts at $2.50 apiece. As a result, I spent most of my time at Albert's getting fitted.

Aside from his expertness with difficult seams, Albert was a gracious host. The moment you sat down, a Scotch and soda was at your elbow. Tea and biscuits materialized from a cupboard. Deluged with such jollity—and at those prices—I was a pawn in Albert's hands. I needed those suits like Hubert Humphrey needs another speech, but a body couldn't afford not to buy. A London banking tycoon of my acquaintance summed up the happy frustration of shopping in Hongkong: "I've bought four watches I don't need because they cost me half what I'd pay in England," he reported. "I've had to buy two new suitcases to hold the seven suits and a dozen shorts Albert foisted on me while I was drinking his Scotch. I don't smoke, but I've bought three cigarette lighters."

The conversation among tourists had a luxurious sameness. I can't go sight-seeing today. I've got four fittings. Or, with a show of diffidence, "Do you like these Mikimoto pearls? I picked them up for only $50. My wife has three strands already, but they'd have cost me $250 in Milwaukee."

Meanwhile, I trust President Nixon will not be offended to learn that a journalistic friend has confessed the reason he is accompanying Nixon to Peking is sartorial. I'm stopping off in Hongkong on the way home, he explained. Gotta see my tailor.

We Monkeys?

GM is testing a digital computer intended to prevent a drunk driver from starting his car. Honda has developed a steering wheel sensor that sniffs your breath before it'll turn on loose Volkswagen has a computer that will diagnose and prescribe for most mechanical malfunctions.

If computers are to do what our brains used to, how long before human brains atrophy? Might "machines" make monkeys of us again? The computer people have now successfully automated enough heretofore human functions that we have to assume there's more to come.

A talking computer is nearing completion at Stanford. In the control room of my broadcasting studio is a panel of lights and tapes and relays performing technical functions beyond my understanding. All I know is that there's now no need for humans at our transmitter.

But here's a military man hollering beware! W. Sidney Taylor, 15 years senior management analyst for our Air Force, says we're putting too many eggs in the computer basket.

He says the machines are turning us into a nation of lamebrains. He says hold on—don't depend for decisions on the much-vaunted objectivity of the computer. He says that historic night at Trenton if the pros and cons had been considered and the decision made by a computer—George Washington would never have crossed the Delaware.

A computer analysis of the odds of an army in leaky rowboats in a snowstorm in a river of drifting ice—the mission would certainly have been vetoed—and perhaps our nation would have been stillborn.

Mr. Taylor says the automobile withered our ability to walk, reliance on the computer threaten to diminish our ability to think.

He says the trend now in government and industry is to base decisions on the logic of mathematics, whereas the historic leadership decisions are sometimes based more on daring or novelty.

Mr. Taylor was the Pentagon project officer for a $2-billion aircraft and missile evaluation program. Relying heavily on computers, our Pentagon got a bum steer.

There was no way the computer could compute the factors of "human will," "ecological human feelings," "spiritual considerations" and other factors which have again proved the jet fighter plane superior to tactical missiles.

In industry, he says, both GE and RCA were misled by computers into, of all things, the computer business. Now both have backed out at a cost of lost millions.

Mr. Taylor concedes that computers can steer us to the moon but insists they are incompetent of value judgments. Important decisions are not digital, but analog. That is to say they require more than knowledge—wisdom.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Blood Cells

Dear Dr. Thosteson, Please write about polycythemia of the blood, cause and treatment. Why are the fingers affected? D. J. N.

Polycythemia means an increase in the red blood cells—not as common as the opposite condition, a lack of sufficient red cells, anemia. But a not especially uncommon condition either.

There are two forms of polycythemia. One is secondary to some other condition, such as chronic lung disease, congenital heart disease, blood vessel abnormalities, or obesity.

The other form is primary. That is not caused by some other disease condition. Then it is called polycythemia vera. Its cause is not known.

Anyway, with a greatly increased supply of red cells, part of the body will have a dark, congested appearance. But in the case with the fingers and the nails may be dusky or dark. The face usually has a ruddy hue. Flushing of the skin and headache are common initial symptoms.

It is not unusual for the condition to be discovered incidentally to examination or treatment for a heart attack, stroke or some other illness.

Treatment, aside from correcting the underlying cause when there is one, is to reduce the red cell count. Sometimes this can be accomplished by the use of radioactive phosphorus, to suppress red cell formation. Another method is simply drawing off a certain amount of blood periodically.

Dear Dr. Thosteson, Tell me please how to get rid of cramps which cause unbearable pain in my calf muscles nearly every night. My doctor prescribed several medicines, but they were good for nothing. The sleepless nights are so dreadful and exhausting that I am in despair. Please help me if you can. A. G.

You aren't alone in that trouble. It is a very common complaint, but in the majority of cases such cramps can be stopped or very much relieved if the patient knows what to do.

besides taking pills. Quinine medication taken before retiring helps, but may not be enough to do the job by itself. Very often lack of calcium in the diet is a factor, and a glass or two of milk per day helps. Finally, simple leg exercises to encourage circulation in the legs are very effective. But if there is serious obstruction in the arteries of the legs, medicine won't help. Surgery may be necessary.

For more details on these, I suggest that you read my booklet, How to Stop Leg Cramps. Send 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and the booklet will be on its way.

Dear Dr. Thosteson—After two weeks in the hospital, my lung condition was diagnosed as histoplasmosis. What is the cause of this? Is it fatal, or what is the cure? Mrs. J. M.

This is a fungus infection which can range from very minor to very severe (rare). Many people, we now know, encounter it, think it is nothing more than an attack of flu, and get over it readily. In other instances, the fungus can attack other organs, and the disease then can resemble a considerable number of widely divergent diseases ranging from anemia to tuberculosis, so it is virtually impossible to describe any particular pattern for the disease. Most cases require no treatment.

To learn the major categories of prostate trouble—symptoms, treatment, how to speed recovery—I write to Dr. Thosteson in care of "this newspaper for his booklet, 'The Pesky Prostate,' enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, use zip code, stamped envelope to cover cost of printing and handling. Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Lincoln for rights group

BOISE — Rep. Ray Lincoln, R-Twin Falls, said Wednesday he will vote against a bill to abolish the Human Rights Commission but favors legislation limiting its scope.

The State Affairs Committee of the House voted last week to introduce legislation to abolish the commission. Lincoln, a member of the committee, was not present at the meeting, he said. Several law makers are upset over the role the commission played in the dispute between long haired high school students and school officials from Idaho Falls.

"There is confusion in the minds of the people as to what the rights and duties and obligations of the committee are," Lincoln said.

He added it is not the intent of the law that it should involve itself with school matters.

Lincoln said, "I don't think this is the proper area for the Human Rights Commission to be spending its energies."

Claiborn not sure of stand

BOISE — Rep. Jack D. Claiborn, R-Twin Falls, said Wednesday he doubted the legislature would vote to abolish the Human Rights Commission, but declined to say how he would vote on the bill.

A bill introduced into the House State Affairs Committee for abolition "is to call to the attention of the commission that it overstepped its bounds."

Claiborn and other law makers are upset over the commission's role in a recent Idaho Falls dispute between school officials and students with long hair.

"I think the commission overstepped its authority and I think it would be involved with situations involving human rights rather than with setting policies with schools," Claiborn said.

The Twin Falls Republican, a member of the State Affairs Committee, said he wanted "the commission's authority cut back," but said "I don't plan to redraft any legislation."

Reorganization plan studied

BOISE (UPI) — House and Senate Republican leaders outlined a proposal Wednesday for bi-partisan committees to work jointly to study executive branch reorganization plans.

Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grandview, GOP caucus chairman, said the proposal is to set up a five-man committee in each house. The groups would work jointly on approaches to reorganization — including Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' proposal to limit by constitutional amendment the number of executive branch agencies and departments to 20.

"We feel we do not need a constitutional amendment to reorganize state government," Yarbrough said, adding, "There are many areas that need to be considered."

House speaker William Lanting, R-Hollister, noted some of the 260 agencies listed by Andrus during his initial proposal that exist in the executive branch are "practically non-existent."

Lanting said it appeared many of the agencies could be removed by executive order and others by legislative decisions.

He said, however, he had insisted the concurrent resolution to create the joint committee include an invitation to representatives of the governor's office to sit in on the sessions.

Sen. John Evans, D-Malad, minority leader in the senate, said the Democrats would cooperate in any way if they propose this program.

The Iguazu Falls, located where the Brazilian, Argentine and Paraguayan borders meet, surpass both Niagara and Victoria Falls in size.

BOISE (UPI) — Speaker William Lanting, said legislation is being introduced which would provide minimum arrangements for buildings and the Lanting said proposal — which would be funded by Idaho State Police state capitol, state

Mistakes made in drug case

BOISE (UPI) — The prosecuting attorney for Canyon County has confirmed there may have been mistakes made in analysis of a substance labeled mescaline in several recent Caldwell drug cases.

According to KBOI television news, prosecuting Attorney C. Robert Yost said one mistake has already been found and the case is being dismissed.

He has obtained a court order to hold up other cases dealing with mescaline until a full investigation is made to see if other mistakes have been made.

As part of the investigation, Yost has sent substances to the Oregon State Drug Laboratory and to an independent laboratory for analysis.

He said Wednesday he was concerned about testing methods and started the investigation when he learned of the possible mistakes about a week ago.

He noted the problem seemed to be centered on identification of mescaline, not other drugs.

He added he has full confidence in the Idaho and Caldwell laboratories, but he is investigating to see if the analysis procedures, equipment or both could be faulty.

He admitted that if there have been faulty analyses made over the last few months, it is possible there have been convictions based on faulty investigation.

Security staff proposed

Thursday, January 27, 1972 Times News, Twin Falls, Idaho 5

BOISE (UPI) — House Speaker William J. Lanting, R-Hollister, said Wednesday legislation is being drafted which would provide even minimum security arrangements for state buildings and the governor.

Lanting said under the proposal — which still is tentative — a staff of about 14 would be funded through the Idaho State Police to patrol the state capitol, state buildings, and the governor and his family.

Lanting said he had already met with Gov. Cecil D. Andrus on the proposal and said Andrus was "basically in agreement" although hesitant about requesting security for himself and insisted that the security force not be provided for out of the state highway fund which supports the state police.

Lanting said funding for the security force — which could come from the general fund — is estimated to be about $150,000 the first year but would drop about $20,000 the next year since equipment, uniforms and automobiles would be purchased the first year.

"I think the governor would be the first to say he has asked for no security," Lanting said, "But still I think he should have it, and his family too, for that matter."

Solon favors retention of farm proposal

BOISE — The chairman of the House Agriculture Affairs Committee said Wednesday he favors retention of a six-day moratorium on farm labor picketing for new workers.

Rep. Jack D. Claiborn, R-Twin Falls, said there is "a lot of sentiment" for extension of the 1971 Farm Labor Act, and added "I feel now the bill should be re-enacted in its present form."

The bill passed a year ago in relation to labor strike in 1970 carries a provision forbidding farm laborers from picketing until they have worked on the farm for six days.

The purpose of this is to prevent "Chavez and a bunch of his followers" from stopping people who want to work, Claiborn said.

"I feel a person certainly should work a few days before he pickets," Claiborn said.

The chairman said a hearing scheduled Monday will consider the merits of the provision.

Gem department retains agency

BOISE (UPI) — A legislative council interim committee drafted final legislation Wednesday leaving the Department of Environmental Protection under the health department.

But in doing so the committee designated the agency as "The Department of Environmental Health." It also increased the present five member health board to seven and said they should be appointed by and serve at the pleasure of the governor.

If enacted by the legislature the proposed law changes would require the new board to appoint a director of environmental protection and health to administer the entire department.

Under the proposal the board would set policy matters but the administrator would run the department.

Air pollution and the air pollution control commission both would be under the board.

No criticism made on cigarette hike

BOISE (UPI) — Five persons testified at a public hearing on proposed increases in the cigarette tax Wednesday and not one person spoke out against a recommended hike of two cents per package.

In sharp contrast to Tuesday afternoon, when the same Revenue and Taxation Committee of the house took testimony about extension of the sales tax to telephone service there was no lobby to represent the taxpayer.

Earl Rodendaul, Boise, a cigarette and tobacco distributor, spoke out against bills to put a one cent per carton taxes on cigarettes to support a tumor registry and pay for a state fire marshal's office.

He said these plus the two cents per package increase asked by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus to balance his general fund budget would put Idaho cigarette suppliers in a tough competitive position against out-of-state cigarette merchants.

But he specifically said, he was not speaking against the two-cent increase sought by the governor.

County tax asked

BOISE (UPI) — A private citizen asked the House Revenue and Taxation Committee to "tax all the wealth" Wednesday by substituting a county income tax for real property taxes collected at the county level.

Warner Brammer, Kendrick, said he felt such a plan would "tax all the wealth at the county level which we are not doing now." Later, he added he felt the same principle could be applied to cities and other units of government.

TF chamber seats chiefs

TWIN FALLS — Fred Wanzonier was installed Wednesday night as new president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce during one of the largest chamber dinners ever held in Twin Falls.

About 325 attended the dinner at the Holiday Inn to meet new officers of the group and hear a talk by Evel Knievel, daredevil motorcycleist.

Outgoing president is Bob Harvey. John Rosholt was named first vice president and Dan Obenchain, a newly elected director, was named second vice president. Other new directors are Robert Warberg, Ivan Skinner and Bill Satterfield.

Holdover directors are John Bishop, Harold Gerber, Dr. Frank McAtee, John Massey, Charlie Sieber and Norm Tarter. Harvey takes over the past president's position on the board from Holly Houffburg.

Retiring directors are Jack Ramsey, Bill Workman and Wayne Wyatt.

Knievel announced plans at the dinner for moto-cross races to be held in Twin Falls again this summer. He said 33 European cyclists already are entered and he expects entries to reach $1,000.

He said the races on May 6 and 7 will be the richest prize money motorcycle race in the world and ABC's Wide World of Sports plans to film the activities.

Knievel did not announce a definite date for his planned jump across the Snake River Canyon northeast of Twin Falls, indicating it might be 1973.

He did, however, say a week of events will lead up to the actual jump and that $100,000 prize money will be offered during the week.

Knievel said the realization of the moto-cross races brings one of his lifelong dreams. The other will come when he makes a successful canyon jump.

The motorcycle he will use is now being built and he plans to test it next week in California and here in May.

He said about 300,000 people are expected in Twin Falls when he makes the Snake River jump.

Knievel also told chamber members and guests about some of the publicity which Twin Falls and Magic Valley is receiving because of his proposed canyon jump. He said posters advertising his 15 to 20 performances this year all will mention the jump and Twin Falls. He also said he understands four records have been made about the jump, all mentioning Twin Falls or the canyon.

Perfume, like fine wine, changes when opened.

Cattle rustling may be felony

BOISE (UPI) — Acting in Committee of the Whole, the House took preliminary steps Wednesday toward making cattle rustling a felony again in Idaho.

Earlier, the senate tried to do this with a bill to make theft of "captured" or domestic animals a felony. But when the bill reached the House the Judiciary Committee expressed fear the wording could bring dogs, cats, parakeets, guinea pigs and perhaps even gold fish under its purview.

Accordingly, the Judiciary Committee directed the measure to the Committee of the Whole where language from the old law — the one existing prior to the new criminal code — was inserted in place of the senate verbiage.

McGill heads Cassia's Red Cross county group

Heads chapter

BURLEY — William McGill was elected as the new Cassia County Red Cross Chapter chairman Tuesday.

McGill was elected to fill the post vacated by the recent death of Palmer Saterstrom.

Mrs. Jean King, aide to servicemen chairman, said 19 calls had been received during the past month and two stranded families were assisted during the month.

A home nursing training course is planned for April. There must be at least 10 persons in the class, to be taught by Margrethe Lynholm, Spokane, Wash. Persons interested in the course should contact McGill.

Mrs. Linda Halouska, county blood chairman, reported the last Red Cross blood drawing in Cassia County fell short. The next Red Cross blood drawing will be Monday from 2 to 6 p.m. at the Burley Elks Lodge Hall. The quota is 150 pint.

Problems of getting donors for the blood drawing were discussed. Also discussed was the blood drawing operation locally.

The safety service representative with the Red Cross, Ray Miller, suggested that a program be started this year in "small water craft safety." More and more people are turning to water recreation, and they should know how to react when an accident occurs to save their own life and others, Miller added.

Mr. Keith Stoddard, was appointed fund drive chairman in Cassia County. Mrs. Stoddard replaces Mrs. Charles Terhune who recently resigned.

The group of volunteer Red Cross workers set their meeting dates at 7 a.m. the second Tuesday of each month through May. During June to September there will be no regular meetings.

It was reported that during the fund drive for 1971 the sum of $3,686.16 was received by the Cassia County Red Cross Chapter.

Junior Achievement program outlined

About 80 to 100 Twin Falls High School students are involved in operation of four companies. These include Kiloco, sponsored by Idaho Power Co., and engaged in producing and marketing telephone memo pads; Trey Co., sponsored by Buttre's Food Store, which makes fireplace logs and wall plaques; PAX Inc., sponsored by the Mountain Bell Telephone Co., making beer bottle candles and modpage wall hangings; and Boteco, sponsored by IBM Machines and making glasses used in the beer bottle candle production.

A Lovelier You

DANDRUFF, WHO NEEDS IT?

By Mary Sue Miller

The dandruff problem is always with us. It's one of the oldest human ills. "Cures" have been recorded through the ages. Some of them may have removed dandruff but they also removed your hair.

One shampoo, with new features, purports to do an efficient job with the usual scaly type of dandruff. Its formula, approved by the F.D.A., contains clinically tested pythione. In relieving symptoms, pythione disrupts and dissolves the bond by which dandruff adheres to the scalp.

This opens the way to a really cleansing wash. And the second sudsy application does drain away dandruff. Further, it acts as a conditioner. Small wonder, the conditioning ingredients are derived from a world-famous shampoo.

Use just might solve your problem, but hear this: Never, but never, self-treat eruptions on the scalp. Wide-spread irritation signals a serious condition, a threat to both hair and skin. Get thee to a doctor! Because some kinds of scalp diseases are infectious—catching on contact—you would be wise to take them precautions. Never borrow another's comb or brush. If someone borrows yours, wash them before using again. Be sure to keep everything that goes on your head and in your hair from scarves to rollers—hospital clean.

You cannot be too careful!

HOW TO HAVE LOVELIER HAIR

Overcome your hair problems! Send for my booklet, HOW TO HAVE LOVELIER HAIR. King. Back came the rack of hearts and our hero played the queen. West took the king, led a second heart and the defense scored four tricks and 100 points.

The defense would have some justification in a match-point game. Give East the king of hearts and South would have his overtrick. At rubber bridge it represented the height of folly.

South couldn't make his contract if East held the heart king because he could still play East for that card after rising with the ace this first time. He would still go down a heart and both top diamonds and no king of hearts. In that case there would be no play for the contract. As the cards lay the ace play would insure it.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

CARD Sense

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
2♣	Pass	Pass	3♣
4♣	4♥	Pass	4♠
5♣	Pass	Pass	5♠

You South, hold ♠AKQJ1065 ♥A32 ♦K5 ♣A2. What do you do now?

A Bid five spades. You can't be hurt. It may turn out your opponents could make five clubs.

TODAY'S QUESTION: Instead of bidding four clubs, West has passed, as has North. East bids four clubs. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

DEAR ABBY: May I give your readers the benefit of my very valuable experience? I address this to any woman who is "in love" with a married man.

Never expect to see him on Sundays or holidays. Never call him at home.

Don't ever expect him to take you out in public, but be prepared to entertain him at your place. He may bring a bottle or the steaks occasionally, but in actual dollars and cents you will spend more on him than he'll spend on you.

Never depend on him in times of personal crisis. Don't believe him when he tells you his wife is a shrew, cold, homey, too fat or too thin and she hasn't slept with him for 10 years.

Don't ever expect his wife to divorce him, even if she catches him. She knows that you are not his first and won't be his last. Also, she is not about to give up her social status, financial security and retirement income because of you. However, her discovery will probably terminate his affair with you so be prepared to get some new clothes, circulate and find another married man whose wife is a shrew, cold, homey, too fat or too thin and hasn't slept with him for 10 years. Sign me, HIS WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: Bravo! Thanks for sharing.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently met a very attractive and charming couple. We took to each other on first meeting and they asked us if we played bridge. We said we did, so they invited us over for a foursome of bridge. We accepted.

Abby, my husband and I enjoy bridge, but these people took the game so seriously, that they nearly came to blows with each other. All evening long they were making sarcastic remarks to each other and my husband and I didn't enjoy the evening one bit.

We invited them to our home, avoiding any mention of cards when we asked them, but we ended up playing bridge again, anyway. This time was worse than the first.

They have since twice invited us over for bridge and I said we were "busy." Which we weren't.

They are a charming couple when they aren't playing bridge, and would like to see them again. If they invite us again, would it be proper for us to accept and suggest we don't play cards?

DEAR NORTH: Certainly. That's one way of finding out if it's your company they want, or a foursome of bridge.

DEAR ABBY: When my wife and I were married she was 33 and I was 41. She said at the time she didn't want any children until she was sure our marriage would last. Well, it's lasted for 11 years, and she's still not sure.

I told her if she doesn't make up her mind by next Easter, she will have to get another "Daddy" for any children she plans to have, because I am not about to start raising kids in my middle fifties.

If you can provide me with any other arguments for my side, please let me have them. Thank you.

NO KID MYSELF

DEAR NO KID: I think you're the one who's being kidded. Your wife doesn't really want any children. There are exceptions, of course, but a Daddy who's old enough for Social Security is hardly young enough for tough football.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SORRY IN CENTRALIA WASH.": There is no disgrace in saying, "I was wrong." It proves that you're smarter today than you were yesterday.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 67700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90060. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

US offered withdrawal date

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's top aide, Henry A. Kissinger, said today the United States offered a specific Vietnam troop withdrawal date of Aug. 1, 1972, if the Communists would agree to a

Test animals

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Animals on Alaska's North Slope are responding about as expected to a "stimulated" pipeline across their migration route, according to oil industry sources.

The stimulated line consists of 9,400 feet of fence covered with burlap and containing spaces for the animals to travel over and under as wildlife experts watch. A report is expected soon saying caribou will use underpasses and overpasses such as those planned for the Alyeska pipeline from Prudhoe Bay to Valdez.

cease-fire and release American POWs.

Kissinger told a news conference in the East Room of the White House that the offer was made at a secret negotiating session in Paris with North Vietnamese officials on Aug. 16.

It was the first disclosure that the United States had offered a pinpoint withdrawal deadline.

The limit

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI)—Ice fishermen in Maine have a day catch limit of eight whitefish, the state Fish and Game Department reports.

President, Nguyen Van Thieu either directly or indirectly.

Kissinger said that the United States would not take that step. He said the Communists want the United States to offer them what they have not been able to achieve militarily.

Kissinger held this on-the-record session with newsmen, running well over an hour, after Nixon unveiled in a nationally televised appearance Kissinger's secret negotiations with the Communists in Paris. He spelled out an eight-point peace proposal including an exchange of a total withdrawal for release of American prisoners of war.

Kissinger said North Vietnam demanded during the secret talks that the United States withdraw all military and economic aid from the government of South Vietnam, including equipment provided the Army.

They are in effect asking us to ally ourselves with their overthrow of the people who have been counting on us," he commented.

"They want us to achieve for them what they have not been able to accomplish themselves."

Kissinger added: "We are still ready to resume talks in either public or private channels. Sometime this war has to end. Sometime it has to end through negotiations. It isn't we who are looking for a military end."

The White House adviser acknowledged that domestic division had played a big role in convincing the President that he should open the book on the 30 months of the secret negotiations with Communist negotiators. He explained that the administration had withstood attacks by Senate doves and other critics in hopes that the private negotiations would be fruitful.

But he explained: "We had always thought that if our secret negotiations had not made significant progress by the time Congress returned, we would bring it out in public.

Swiss officials say money hidden

ZURICH (UPI)—Swiss bankers said Wednesday they believe the $650,000 missing in the Howard Hughes autobiography mystery is still in Switzerland, hidden in a numbered account.

The banking officials, at the Swiss Credit Bank, said they do not think such a large sum could have been taken anywhere else without it being noticed.

A Swiss police spokesman said information to help them in the case has now started to come in from the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI).

He said FBI and Swiss police experts may get together at some stage, but nothing is yet planned.

Legal sources said sets of fingerprints were among documents sent to Zurich by the FBI today.

One set was of fingerprints on the manuscript of the alleged Hughes autobiography as written by author Clifford Irving, the sources said.

It was the Credit Bank, Switzerland's third largest, which paid out the money in 1,000 franc ($260) bills to a woman calling herself "Helga R. Hughes" and who had an account in the name of "H. R. Hughes."

Bank officials told lawyers for this McGraw-Hill and Time Publishing companies they believe the money must still be in Switzerland in one of the famous secret accounts.

McGraw-Hill made out three checks for the total amount in the belief the money was going to Howard Hughes in return for the rights to his life story.

Sen. Jordan approves Nixon's peace stand

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Len B. Jordan commended President Nixon Wednesday for his efforts to bring an end to the war in Vietnam.

The president has worked hard to bring about a settlement in Indochina but, unfortunately, the North Vietnamese have not given a positive response.

"I am pleased that the president has offered a total withdrawal of U.S. forces in exchange for release of our prisoners of war. This is the policy which I have urged the President to adopt since the Fall of 1970."

Jordan said the public disclosure of the settlement terms which were offered to the North Vietnamese in private will force the men in Hanoi to negotiate in a more positive and responsive manner.

Puzzle

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—Sometimes school students, writing about pollution, direct their letters to the State Motor Vehicles Division.

One letter received from "Jan" said:

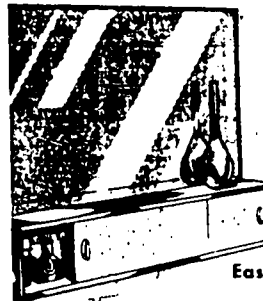

"I was wondering where you put the pollution from the new cars? If you're just putting it in the garbage then you're polluting the air, but I hope you're being nice to our world by putting the pollution some place else."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) The stock market, in the opinion of Wright Investors' Service, will "renew its confidence in the future of American business."

Hopper, Watson, Inc., commenting on the public's historical tendency to lose money in speculation "because it wallows in the fashionable emotions of unreasonable fear and greed," says it "now looks as if the little fellow had reached the trough of his classic cyclical trip and will now begin the long journey back to the other extreme of unwarranted confidence. If the past is a reliable guide, the first beneficiaries of this return of the small investor will be the blue chip stocks that not far behind will be the little junky low-priced issues."

Now that the first steps have been taken toward rebuilding the international monetary system, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith says, a considerable amount of foreign funds could flow into the United States stock market.

North Side unit selects woman

SHOSHONE — Members of the Northside Communities Inc. elected new officers Wednesday night at the Manhattan Cafe in Shoshone.

Mrs. Harrell Thorne, Shoshone, was elected president, the first time a woman has filled the post during the 22 years since the Northside Communities Inc. was organized. She succeeds Clyde Peterson, Wendell, to the post.

Claude Bowman, Rupert, was elected vice president, and Ralf Lucke, Gooding, was named secretary. Treasurer, Plagues, made by Merle Hanna, Rupert, were presented to the retiring president and Lucke in appreciation for their work in the past year.

James Muffley, Gooding, reported for the nominating committee. Other members of the committee were Kenneth Blackburn, Shoshone, and W.W. Whitehead, Wendell.

C. J. Price, Gooding, coordinator for the resource conservation development council of Blaine, Camas, Gooding and Lincoln counties spoke to the group regarding possible means of support for road improvement to the West Magic Reservoir resort.

Price outlined the work of his agency and offered counseling service to the Northside

TF airport gets federal funds

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City-County Airport will share in $15 million in federal funds for 26 aviation projects in the Pacific Northwest, members of the Twin Falls City-County Airport Commission were advised today by Chris Walk, Jr., director of the Federal Aviation Administration for the Northwest region.

Walk said the Twin Falls field will receive about $285,000 to install an instrument landing system and approach light system. The city-county participating funds will come to $25,000, making total project cost $310,000. In addition there will be the taxiway-ramp improvement project which has already been approved and which will get underway this spring.

Walk said the landing system and instrument system construction will probably start in August with completion no later than January, 1973. With completion of the landing-light systems airline jets will be able to land at Joslin Field in minimum weather conditions now possible at such fields as Salt Lake City, Denver and Boise.

Walk also advised Twin Falls airport officials a new control tower will be constructed this year at Gowen Field in Boise. A fully manned control tower is expected for Twin Falls during 1973 or early 1974.

Regional board to select firm

BURLEY — Selection of an engineering firm to update a 1966 regional airport study and report is scheduled by members of the interim board of the Regional Airport Authority at 1 p.m. Monday in the Ponderosa Inn.

In 1966 the regional airport study was made by Cornell, Hayes, Howland and Merryfield at a cost of $16,000 provided by the city of Twin Falls. Since that time it has served as a basis for regional airport planning as to location, cost and service areas.

Updating of the study has been recommended by the Federal Aviation Administration as a preliminary measure for obtaining federal funds to conduct preplanning for the regional facility on a site north of the Perrine Bridge in Jerome County.

Three engineering firms have been invited to submit proposals for the updating.

George Forschler, chairman of the interim board, said the board hopes to select one of the three in the Monday afternoon meeting.

Forschler also said the interim board has accepted an invitation from the Twin Falls City-County Airport Commission to meet in Twin Falls March 4. Forschler said he will attend and several other members of the interim board were asked to attend.

A budget of $36,500 for 1972 for the interim board was approved.

Major items in the budget include $5,000 for a half-time salary for an executive secretary and $2,500 for a half-time secretary and $20,000 estimated for land acquisition, engineering studies to include environmental impact information, updating the CH2M report, public hearings and other first year work.

Board mulls use of Gooding facility

By DAVID ESPO Times-News writer

BOISE — The Idaho public lands commissioner said Wednesday the land board is studying a proposal to convert the former Idaho Tuberculosis Hospital in Gooding into a veterans' nursing home.

Gordon C. Trombley said the board has heard proposals from the state Veterans Affairs Commission and an unidentified group in Salt Lake City interested in opening an alcoholic rehabilitation center at the site.

Larry Laughridge, executive secretary of the Idaho Veterans Affairs Commission, said his office has been considering the nursing home aspect and has met several times with private nursing home representatives. No decision has been reached, he said.

The former hospital has been official "state surplus property" for over a year, Trombley said. The state currently pays the maintenance of the plant's heating and plumbing and landscaping to maintain the property for possible sale.

Surplus property can be disposed of in one of three ways, Trombley said. These include transfer to another state agency for its use; selling it at a fair market value to a non-state governmental agency or sale at a public auction.

The commissioner said no value has officially been given the property and the land board is maintaining an open mind.

"We hope to get it into good productive use. No one wants to see property like that just sit and go to waste," he said.

Official says Jerome recall partly invalid

Croner's response to the request was a copy of a similar ruling he had made on a recall action against Ada County Cemetery board members. In that opinion he wrote, "My personal opinion would be one re-elected should not be subject to the circulation of recall petitions within six months. My reason is simply in my opinion, the obvious legislative intentment was to provide anyone elected an opportunity to discharge the duties of his office unfettered by the fear of recall."

Croner's opinion is based on Idaho Code 34-1717 stating "no petition for a recall shall be circulated against any officer until he has actually held office for six months. The grace period in municipal elections is only three months.

The legal dispute, Croner said, is whether a newly elected official is entitled to the grace period at the beginning of each new term of office. Croner wrote arguments may be advanced for both sides of the question and said no court has yet construed the section.

PUC rules against gas firm

BOISE — The Public Utilities Commission for Idaho has ruled Intermountain Gas Co. must discontinue its "lease rental program" in which gas appliances are provided customers by the firm.

In a ruling announced Wednesday, Intermountain Gas Co. was ordered to end the program effective Feb. 15. The PUC said appliances now in service under the program may remain until termination of the service contract.

At the same time, the PUC held Intermountain's promotional practices through the "dealer gas service lines," "school range program," and the "gas appliance sales" are not discriminatory and preferential and should be allowed to continue.

PUC officials dismissed any further investigation into the utility's promotional practices.

August Averett, sales representative for Intermountain Gas Co., Twin Falls, said the firm has not yet sent information regarding the policy under the PUC ruling to this office. He estimated several hundred lease rental program contracts are in effect in the Twin Falls area now.

Averett said he understands there will be no new contracts of this type issued but those currently in effect will be allowed to continue as long as the customer desires or until the contracts expire.

More confusion added in recall

BOISE — The recall of Councilman S. N. Shorty Weeks was further confused Wednesday when an assistant attorney general said a "strict constructionist" judge might rule that any signatures already on a recall petition against Weeks might be permanently voided.

John F. Croner said an Idaho statute ruling that a city councilman must serve three months of a term before being subject to recall contained a contradiction in wording which further clouded the issue.

The relevant section of code, 34-1717, titled "time within which petition may be filed," says "no petition for a recall may be circulated against any officer until he has actually held his office six months." The period for municipal office holders is three months.

Croner said the difference between the terms "held" and "circulated" could conceivably lead a judge to rule that any names signed to such a petition before the grace period had expired would be invalid, regardless of the date of filing. The net effect of such a ruling would be to force sponsors of the recall movement against Weeks to recirculate petitions after the three-month period ended at the beginning of April.

Croner emphasized, however, that the question about the wording difference had not entered into a recent opinion he had given on the case.

Hailey easement granted

HAILEY — Action in Fifth Judicial District Court granting an easement to Gary Eldred and Elba Hubbard, Hailey, across land owned by Deer Creek Inc. has been upheld by the Idaho Supreme Court.

In an opinion written by Justice Allan G. Shepard, the high court upheld the Hubbard's claim of prescriptive easement as an affirmative defense. The action was originally brought by Deer Creek Inc. to prevent the Hubbards from trespassing. Fifth District Court had held the property owners had a right to access to all of their property

Utah man injured

TWIN FALLS — Fred Jurasek, 61, Salt Lake City, was taken by ambulance to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital this morning after his car skidded off Addison Avenue East and overturned in the borrow pit. Hazardous driving conditions created by the light cover of snow falling in most of the Magic Valley last night contributed to the cause of the accident, police said.

Free to fly

TWIN FALLS — Model airplane buffs, whether radio-controlled or "fly-by-wire" style, will have a field of their own away from traffic and neighbors, thanks to a new group, the Magic Valley Aeromodellers.

Bob Gillespie is president of the new group, which has acquired 40 acres of Bureau of Land Management land two miles south of the Twin Falls Municipal Airport for model airplane exhibitions and competitions. The land will be improved by club members and volunteers, with plans in the works to construct a grandstand for spectators.

Any model airplane fancier, whether favoring radio controls or wire ties, is welcome to join the group, which aims to further the science of aerial modeling via models, Gillespie said.

Standards hit at Burley meet

By LEE TREMAINE Times-News writer
BURLEY — Warning that Idaho farmers must work to enhance the environment or be forced to by federal statute, a University of Idaho specialist took the federal government to task for its pollution standards on Wednesday.

Dorrell C. Larsen, Boise, irrigationist for the University of Idaho Extension Service, told the South-Central Idaho Potato School at the Ponderosa Inn that he personally questions a statement by the federal Environmental Protection Agency that irrigation water is deprived of its dissolved oxygen at an extremely rapid rate.

Larsen said his experience does not justify this contention. He warned potato growers that "about 10 years ago we were warned that we should take additional safety precautions. Now we have the federal Occupational Safety Act and we're right in the middle of the legislation."

Growers are being warned now, Larsen said, to work to prevent pollution from agricultural activities. If they do not, "we will be forced to" by additional legislation.

About 150 potato growers from southern Idaho are attending the two-day series of discussions on all phases of farming, particularly involving growing and marketing potatoes. The annual clinic is sponsored by the University of Idaho.

Other speakers on Wednesday included J. Wayne Cole, Cassia County extension agent, presenting the welcome for Cassia County; James L. Graves, Moscow, associate director of the extension service, who discussed the university's potato research programs; C. E. Dallimore, plant pathologist for the university at Aberdeen, speaking on potato diseases; three members of the Idaho Potato Commission, including Chairman Jack Alfred, Bob Mercer and Bill Webster; Alfred Miller, representing the Idaho Department of Agriculture, Boise, who spoke on pesticide application and licensing laws; and Wayne L. Thiessen, Twin Falls, extension service soil specialist, who outlined ways to improve potato crop yields.

Other speakers included James R. Davis, plant pathologist at Aberdeen, on controlling potato scab; Gene Rinebold, Burley, area potato specialist, who discussed control of Rhizoctonia, a disease of potatoes; Robert Callahan, Aberdeen, assistant agronomist, speaking on weed control.

Valley officers seek penal code repeal

By DAVID ESPO Times-News writer

BOISE — Magic Valley law enforcement officials joined the call for repeal of the penal and correctional code Wednesday. Officials from Twin Falls, Cassia and Minidoka counties testified before the Joint Judiciary Committee hearing.

They were unanimous in their opposition to the 27-day-old code. Minidoka County Prosecuting Atty. Donald Chisholm appealed to the law makers to "swallow your pride and consider the taxpayer who will have to foot the bill."

Chisholm told the joint committee the new code would be costly because of a dramatic increase in the number of courtroom trials and costly appeals. "The people are either going to have to pay more or suffer the consequences," he said.

Chisholm warned legislators to "beware of defense attorneys who praise this code. They will be tearing it apart tomorrow in court."

Gordon Nielson, Cassia County prosecuting attorney and president of the Idaho Prosecuting Attorneys Association, said the organization has voted in favor of repeal of the new code. He said the new law began with a "new framework" and urged a return to the basic framework of the old law.

He called for re-enactment of the old code and insertion of "good items" from the new law. Nielson said court costs would rise in Idaho as a direct result of the new code. He put the cost of a two-day trial at $1,000 to the taxpayers and $2,000 for an appeal procedure.

Buhl Chief of Police Richard Frazier, the first to testify, strongly criticized omission of adultery laws from the code. "I don't think we can go against the Ten Commandments and survive," he said.

Frazier also attacked what he said were weak laws dealing with bad check writers and called for a concealed weapons charge which he said was omitted by the writers of the new law.

Kenneth Barry, Burley chief of police, said the wording of the code is confusing, vague and ambiguous. He called for tougher pornography and adultery statutes. He said the cost of the code to the taxpayer would be large in terms of police time spent in court and in court costs.

Twin Falls Chief of Police Frank Barnett said he finds "very little in this which is an improvement."

Barnett acknowledged the need for criminal statute overhaul but said it is easier to revise the old system than a new system. He called for change in the bad check laws and sex crime laws and said the gun laws are either unworkable or there are none.

Twin Falls Sheriff Paul Corder told the legislators they would "save a lot of difficulties" by repealing the new code in favor of what is needed today.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market rose sharply Thursday after six consecutive losing sessions. Trading was heavy.

Around 1:15 p.m., the Dow Jones Industrial average was ahead 7.15 at 896.30. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was up 0.65 at 103.15. The three-hour volume was 12,160,000 shares against 8.5 million at a comparable time Wednesday.

Advances topped declines, 980 to 393, among the 1,655 issues crossing the tape.

The news background provided impetus for investors. The Commerce Department reported the government's index of leading economic indicators was up sharply in December. Mohawk Data Sciences was the day's most active issue as the result of an early block of 122,000 shares changing hands at 24, down 1 1/2. Most other active stocks pointed higher. Memorex and National Cash Register rose more than a point each.

National Cash Register and Control Data, up 1/2, announced a joint venture in which they will manufacture equipment for computers.

Other strong spots included Natamox, up 2 1/2. Trans-World Airlines, 2 1/2. Honeywell, 3 1/2. Motorola, 2 1/2. Polaroid, 3 1/2. American Research & Development, 3. Walt Disney, 2. and Bausch & Lomb, 5 1/2.

BOISE (UPI)—Legislation regulating placement of Idaho's potato crop on the market was placed before an interim study committee Wednesday.

Drafting of the measure was approved earlier by the Senate Agricultural Affairs committee. Sen. Joe Allen, R-American Falls, who drafted the proposal, said it is intended to "discourage large overplantings of potatoes by a graduated assessment."

Allen said statistics from the U. S. Department of Agriculture show that for each one per cent change in production of potatoes that is about a five per cent change in price.

Idaho he noted, is about "20 years behind in the pricing of potatoes and you and I know our costs have skyrocketed."

"Some way, somehow, we have got to find a way to price our potatoes reasonably unless we want the industry to go to corporate farmers."

He said the legislation will be implemented only by referendum of growers and said will go into effect only if 60 per cent of the other states agree to similar action to secure other surpluses.

are not placed on the market.

The proposal would create a seven-member board which would purchase potatoes on a competitive basis from producers whenever the market price paid to growers falls below 95 per cent of parity.

Allen said the purchase would stabilize prices paid to growers and "assure a supply of potatoes to the consuming public at reasonable prices."

"Parity" defined in the measure is the 1970 processors' contracts plus an annual increment adjusted for the cost of production increases.

By purchasing the potatoes, the board would remove the spuds from channels of trade. The purchasing power would be financed by a graduated assessment per hundredweight, varied depending on the number of acres used.

The board may reduce the assessment, which ranged in the initial proposal from four per cent for farms between 10 and 99 acres to 18 per cent for farms over 1,500 acres.

Allen's figures indicate present acreage and crop production would yield $8.2 million in assessment.

Feed ban asked

BOISE (UPI)—The Senate Agricultural Affairs Committee is holding for further information a bill which would prohibit feeding garbage to swine.

The proposal would prohibit removing from the premises any hog fed garbage, although an exception would be made for an individual who wanted to slaughter a hog for his own use.

Sen. Leon Swenson, R-Nampa, committee chairman, said he understood only two producers in the state are now feeding garbage to swine.

Sen. John Evans, D-Mulden, said it is legal to feed only cooked garbage to swine. A permit must be obtained to cook the garbage.

Corn buying plan keeps slow pace

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department's corn purchase program continued in low-key operation this week with government buyers taking 1,857,000 bushels off the commercial market Monday.

The purchase, seventh in a weekly series which will continue until further notice, brought the total amount acquired under the program so far to 10,670,000 bushels. This week's purchases in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri were made at prices ranging from $1.15 to $1.19.

Department officials also reported that stocks of feed grains—corn, oats, barley and grain sorghums—totaled 174 million tons on Jan. 1. This was up 20 per cent from a year earlier. Corn stocks alone totaled 4,642 billion bushels, up 24 per cent from a year earlier.

Wheat stocks on Jan. 1 were 1,553 billion bushels, up 10 per cent from a year earlier and the biggest since January, 1964.

The stocks report indicated last year's record corn crop has been followed by a sharp gain in usage of the grain. Consumption from October through December, 1971, was estimated at 1.561 billion bushels compared with 1.362 billion a year earlier.

Nomination wins nod

BOISE (UPI)—The confirmation of Alvin Benson, Melba, to a five-year term on the Soil Conservation Commission was recommended by a Senate state affairs subcommittee Tuesday.

Benson, reappointed to the commission for a term ending July 1, 1976, was the first of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' appointees to appear before the subcommittee, which will make its recommendations to the state affairs committee.

Gem bean crop larger

BOISE—According to the United States Department of Agriculture, Idaho's commercial dry bean production was up 3 per cent in 1971.

Commercial dry beans produced in Idaho during 1971 totalled 2,024 million CWT, a 3 per cent increase from 1970. The beans were harvested from 110,000 acres, 5,000 more than a year earlier. Yield per acre at 1,840 pounds in 1971 compares with 1,800 pounds in 1970.

Percentage changes by class from 1970 to 1971 were: Great Northern, 11 per cent increase; pinks, 2 per cent drop; red kidneys 84 per cent increase; pinks, 16 per cent increase; small reds, 17 per cent drop.

Pintos, the leading variety grown in the state, totaled 960,000 cwt. in 1971 compared with 988,000 in 1970. The production of pinks in 1971 was 475,000 up from the 409,000 cwt. grown in 1970.

The growing season was cool through June which held back growth. Heat from mid-July to the completion of harvest allowed the crop to mature before frost but lowered yields in some localities.

Crop loss loans open

BOISE (UPI)—Individual emergency loan applications from farmers in Bonneville County who suffered losses by frost in their 1971 beet and potato crops are being accepted in the Idaho Falls office of the Farmers Home Administration, an FHA spokesman in Boise said today.

The growing season was cool through June which held back growth. Heat from mid-July to the completion of harvest allowed the crop to mature before frost but lowered yields in some localities.

Ecological good news surprising

Thursday, January 27, 1972 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 21

BY LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
There's so much bad news about the pollution of the environment that it comes as a refreshing surprise to encounter an occasional bit of ecological good news.
Here are a few examples that have come to my attention lately:
The ivory-billed woodpecker, a large and beautiful bird that ornithologists have feared was extinct, has shown up in the dense Santee Swamp of South Carolina.
Their welcome reappearance in the Santee Swamp insures a mighty battle by conservationists to forestall a proposed new logging operation in that area. Mindful of the growing "ecological vote," officials already have suspended the logging permit for a year to permit study of the situation.

From the plant world comes news that Spanish moss, the beautiful gray stuff that hangs from giant oaks in the coastal plains of the Southeast, appears to be making a comeback.
A blight caused by a fungus began to attack Spanish moss several years ago, and widespread die-off was reported by botanists all the way from Mississippi to North Carolina. Now, nature on her own seems to be licking the menace, before man has got around to finding a treatment.

Alligators admittedly are not as beautiful as ivory-billed woodpeckers and Spanish moss. But they are fascinating creatures, and have as much right to existence as any other species, including man.
Because real estate developers were so zealous about draining the swamps which are the main habitat of alligators, the big-jawed amphibians have been listed by the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife as an "endangered species"—meaning one that needs protection to avoid becoming extinct.

In the past few years, southeastern states have been rigorously enforcing protective laws, limiting the kill of alligators for shoes and handbags and withholding permits for land development that would destroy alligator preserves.

Twin Falls opens hot, defeats Jerome 66-55

The Twin Falls Bruins opened red-hot to mount a 10-point lead and then matched baskets with the Jerome Tigers for a 66-55 non-conference victory Wednesday night.

Charlie Brownie, Darrell Groves and Kent Schmidt provided the opening impetus that shoved Twin Falls quickly into a 10-0 lead and after that Jerome could only hit flurries that cut to within three or four points. Each time Twin Falls pulled away, most of the time on the outside hitting of Groves and Brownie. Although Bob Durham got a lot of 10-footers to keep the Bruins ahead.

Twin Falls resumes SIC action Friday night by traveling to Minico and is idle Saturday.

Jerome travels to Mountain Home Saturday evening.

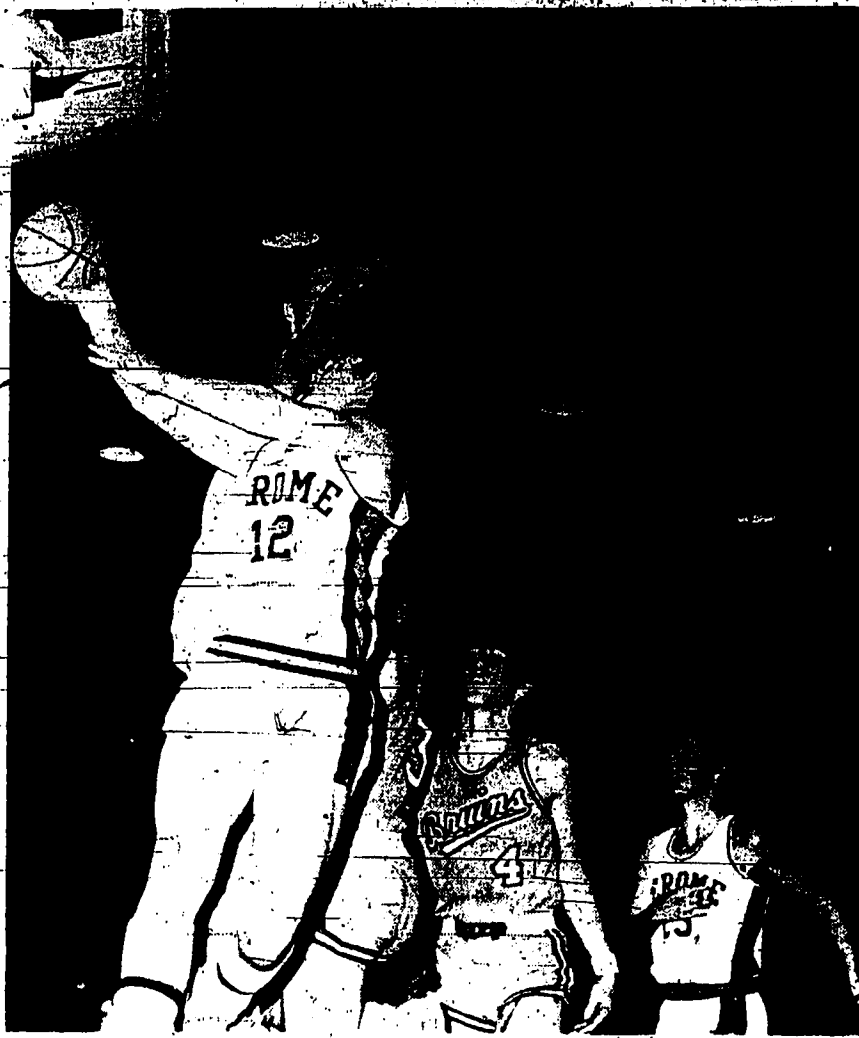

The most surprising statistic of the series right now is that Twin Falls has won the last 15 games in a row, not losing since their first meeting at Jerome in overtime in December of 1964. Up to that point it had been about a 50-50 series.

The Bruins' blazing scoring promise of the first quarter, which saw them ahead 24-14, faded in the second period as Jerome started coming on a little better. Groves hit the first field goal in the second quarter to give Twin Falls a 32-point advantage but then Curt Morris and Fyke started bringing Jerome back. Randy Hobbie hit a field goal and Morris and Hobbie two free throws each as Jerome cut the deficit to 28-31. Durham hit the last shot to give the Bruins a 33-28 lead.

The third quarter was largely a three to six-point match until late when Groves and Durham hit buckets and Brownie connected twice to stretch Twin Falls from a three-point lead to 50-41 at the buzzer. That pretty well took care of it as Jerome couldn't get closer than eight.

Twin Falls won the preliminary 44-26.

COVERED UP, Jerome's Greg Jewell got a little too far under the basket and a little too close to Twin Falls 6-8 sophomore Kent Schmidt to convert on this drive during action Wednesday in Bruin gym. In background are Bruins Charlie Brownie (3) and Bob Durham (4) and Tiger Cliff Peterson (13). Bruins won 66-55.

SPORTS FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HONEY
Times-News sports editor

The Twin Falls Senators celebrate a couple of firsts this week one that eventually will have to leave but one that will be a boon to Senators' youth center.

Captain Thacker took his Senators into the new Twin Falls Community Center Monday and Buhl will help them inaugurate it Saturday night. The Associated Press also ranked Gooding No. 1 in the state this week, so all in all it should be remembered as a fine week.

The benefit of the new gymnasium should be felt for years. For years the Gooding athletes have crunched themselves into little fragments of school gym and you had to get there early for a chair. Six years ago when Gooding had the state championship bunch, the crowds were shoe-horned in and the past couple of years when Coach Thacker was fashioning perhaps the state's best ever aggregation, it has been even tighter.

But as of Saturday night there will be in the area of 2000 seats available and all kinds of room for the players to roam.

We went in Monday and the kids got winded. Coach Thacker smiles. "They weren't used to going on that big a floor. I think about our first three shots were air balls, too."

But it's great, he continued. "Tonight Wednesday we had three teams practicing the varsity, jayvees and ninth grade at the same time and no one was getting in the other's way."

Coach Thacker also is pleased that while the gymnasium is complete, there's still a little detail work left. It has been slightly behind scheduling, but it has been done in time for what should be one of the best couple three home games of the season. Buhl comes into it with some fairly good size — almost equal to Gooding and a couple of pretty good ball handlers.

"We expect a good game. It should be a good one to open the gym on," he said.

Coach Thacker then shifted to the idea of being No. 1. "It's a nice feeling and we hope we can enjoy it for a long time. No one seems to be able to hold it very long. The only thing we know is that we're going to play our best."

Gooding is one of four Magic Valley teams to have been rated first at one time or another in the 10-year history of the poll. (The poll is an Associated Press feature and the Times-News, being United Press International, can't use it.) Twin Falls, Burley and Minico all lost it on their first outing after the poll was announced. Minico held it three weeks until being defeated by Skyline last week.

The surprising thing about the poll has been the Magic Valley control of the top spot this year with Burley, Minico and now Gooding all having it at one time or another.

In response to some phone calls from Gooding, Times-News records, which go back only to 1957, show the longest winning streak is 31 games, a mark set by Wendell Gooding now has 20 straight, dating back to an opening loss to Jerome in the district tournament last year. Gooding has seven games left in the regular season and might have to get through district and win one in state to tie the mark or beat it.

Coach Thacker doesn't like to talk about winning streaks since they are the heaviest things to carry in the world of sports. But from a fan standpoint, it couldn't work out better because the state A-2 tournament will be held in the CSI gym this year and the Senators could do it in front of home fans.

Curtis to leave Cal. end row

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Isaac Curtis, a central figure in the University of California NCAA probation, has requested a petition of withdrawal from Cal but says he doesn't know yet whether he definitely will transfer to San Diego State College.

"I've not quite made up my mind what I'm going to do, and I don't want to say anything unless it is solid," the football and track star said.

I requested the withdrawal petition so I could have everything set up just in case I decide to go to San Diego.

If he does, he will leave before Saturday. The new semester starts Feb. 6.

Curtis and Larry Bramsey were ruled scholastically ineligible to compete in athletics because, through no fault of their own, Cal did not pay them the academic scholarship stipend at the right time.

Providence shocks USC 70-66

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Earle D'Gregorio scored 27 points Wednesday night as Providence of Rhode Island shut off a late rally to upset seventh-ranked University of Southern California 70-66.

The 6-foot-11 junior forward talked to the Friars first 11 points. He had 20 by the end of the first half and scored in clutch spots in the second half to assure the victory.

Providence rolled up a 15-point advantage, 38-23, with 11:09 left to play. The Friars held off a late Trojan surge that saw USC cut their lead twice to two points, 66-64 with 1:30 left and 68-66 with :49 remaining.

Paul Westphal led the Trojans with 20 points to bring his career total to 1,985, to displace Bill Sharman, coach of the Los Angeles Lakers, as the fifth leading USC scorer of all time. Sharman had 1,966 during his career at USC.

The score was tied four times in the first half, the last time, 19-19.

Marylin Barnes, whose lay-up tied the score 39-39 into the second half, followed with a short jumper to put Providence ahead for good, 21-19.

With Barnes, who had 22 points for the night, and D'Gregorio doing most of the damage, the Friars led at halftime 38-32.

Providence hit on three successive field goals by Frank Costello, Barnes and D'Gregorio in the first two minutes of the second half to sprint to a 44-24 advantage.

Tracy spent most of the rest of the game trying to catch up.

After 10 years' planning, Denver can't pick game sites

DENVER (UPI) — After nearly a decade of promotion and planning, the organizers of the 1976 Winter Olympics have yet to select a site for the majority of the event.

Except for sites inside Denver where ice skating, speed skating and ice hockey, plus figure skating and bobsledding will be conducted, the location of the remaining games for 1976 still must be set up with the 100 cities that are still in the running.

A letter to the IOC, with the International Olympic Committee for 1976, is being sent to the 100 cities, asking them to pick a site for the 1976 Winter Olympics. The letter was sent to the 100 cities, asking them to pick a site for the 1976 Winter Olympics.

In its original bid, the IOC chose Mt. Sniktau, an undeveloped mountain, and the existing Loveland Basin ski area for Alpine events. The complex has since been found to be unacceptable, "ecologically, economically and athletically."

The IOC also will have to find new sites for the ski jumping events and the bobsled and/or luge, pending an IOC decision. Brown said the luge definitely would be in the 1976 games and requires an expensive refrigerated track.

Minico-Burley rematch features weekend play

A-1 action, punctuated by the awaited rematch of Burley and Minico Saturday night, and a return to full conference play among Magic Valley team highlights a 22-game, weekend basketball schedule.

The A-1 thing starts Friday night when Twin Falls, with visions of 31-point deficits rebounded about, travels to Rupert for a Southern Idaho Conference battle. The Spartans tasted their first defeat the last time out and that probably won't help the Bruins' chances any.

But the howling mob won't descend on Rupert until Saturday night when it would be nice to have the toll concession on the north Burley bridge. Minico-nipped Burley by two in their first meeting and, the truth be known, neither team really got into their game. Burley was slowed down as planned by the Spartans but the Spartans back court pressure was never much of a factor. Burley never got to the offensive board or to Tracy Nielsen enough to swing that first meeting.

There's another mainliner on tap for Saturday night at Gooding for two reasons. In the first place the Senators are supposed to inaugurate their new gymnasium which will open up entire new viewing vistas for those used to the Frahm junior high school thing. The other is that Buhl is coming to town and that could be the last chance to keep the Senators from clinching the South Central Idaho Conference and an undefeated season. Of note, Gooding currently is working on a 20-game win streak.

The Friday night feature in the Magic Valley Conference belongs Hagerman to Murtaugh and both have to win. Hagerman currently is tied with Declo for the lead while Murtaugh is a game back. Declo, meanwhile, will be home to Oakley, the defending champion in the battle of Hornets. But the Oakley Hornets haven't been stung as hard as Declo's this season.

The remainder of the Friday schedule will bring Wood River down the hill to play at Shoshone while Buhl tries to prepare for Gooding by hosting the Valley Vikings Glenns Ferry. Then from a rare two-loss weekend, will travel to Filer and is favored to end that streak while Burley goes on the road to Madison and a chance to gain another step on the Eastern Idaho Conference title.

Gooding will be at Wendell for another of the strong intra-county rivalries. In the third Magic Valley loop game, Gooding will be at Buhl River with the Wolves needing the road win to stay in step behind whoever comes out as the loop leader.

On the Northside, the Camas County, striding purposefully toward the title, will travel to Carey while Dietrich goes to Gooding State with a revenge factor, the Indians having won their meeting last Saturday. Richfield takes the long trip to Rimrock.

On Saturday night, Filer hits the road to invade Wood River, the Wolverines getting awfully close to winning a loop game of late after a slow start. Jerome leaves the district to meet non-conference foe Mountain Home. Shoshone will be at Glenns Ferry while Wendell travels to Kimberly. Kimberly and the

Fla. State upset

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Unranked Jacksonville University held off repeated spurts by 10th-ranked Florida State to take an 84-82 upset victory Wednesday night.

The victory snapped the Seminoles' won streak at 10 games and avenged a 90-83 loss to FSU by the Dolphins last month in Jacksonville.

Jacksonville's Ernie Fleming was high scorer for the game with 29 points, and led in rebounds with 16.

FSU high scorer was Reggie Royals with 17.

Jacksonville was leading 70-62 with 7 minutes left and was trying to stall when FSU began its late surge. The Seminoles came to within two points, 80-78, with 1:10 on the clock on Roland Garrett's layup.

Ron Harris stole the ball from Jacksonville with 44 seconds to go and passed to Otis Cole. But Leon Benbow stole it back with 40 seconds left to end the Seminole threat.

Big Ten Chief holds decision on Minnesota-Ohio State bout

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke Wednesday viewed films of a brawl that broke up a Minnesota-Ohio State basketball game but said he'll have to study them further before commenting.

A free-swinging Pennybrook ended the game with 36 seconds left to play Tuesday night, with Ohio State emerging as the winner 50-44.

Three Ohio State players were injured in the fight that involved players and spectators.

Mark Minor was treated at the university hospital and released Tuesday night. Luke Witte and Mark Wagar, both bruised, were hospitalized overnight.

Duke and Minnesota Athletic Director Paul Giel viewed the films Wednesday and were expected to issue a statement afterward. But Duke said he wanted to study the case further before commenting.

The films were not totally conclusive, Duke said. "There are excerpts of the fight that are not shown."

Exactly what precipitated the battle was foggy, but the general picture, reconstructed from viewing the game and interviewing the players and coaches, is this:

Tension began building before the game, and flared up at halftime, when the teams were tied 23-all. Allan Hornyak of Ohio State had been guarding Minnesota's Bobby Nix closely. Nix complained during the intermission that Hornyak had been "hammering" him.

Nix said Witte swung at his head with his elbow just before halftime.

Minnesota players apparently took some verbal shots at the Buckeyes on the way to the dressing rooms.

"Our players were talking about it in the locker room," Minnesota Coach Bill Musselman said. "When they're protecting Bobby, I know something's happening."

Nix is the only white in Minnesota's starting lineup.

The second half was rugged and with time running out Minnesota's Clyde Turner knocked 7-foot Witte to the floor in a rebound duel. Turner was kicked out of the game as a result.

Minnesota's Corky Taylor said he offered his hand to Witte to help him up, and pictures of the game showed this. But a general fight broke out, with players trading punches and fans joining in.

Corky Taylor said Witte spit at him. Taylor rammed his knee into Witte's groin. Turner, Jim Brewer and others from Minnesota tore after Witte and both benches emptied.

Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor said Minnesota's Ron Behagen, who had fouled out midway in the second half, rushed onto the floor and stomped on Witte's head and neck.

"I had to pull Behagen off Witte or he might have been hurt a lot more seriously," Fred Taylor said.

At one point, nearly all players of both teams were trading punches.

"We didn't have any choice," Giel said. "If we had tried to play the last 36 seconds we might have had a riot we couldn't control."

Battered Buckeyes come home

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Ohio State's battered basketball team limped home Wednesday afternoon from Tuesday night's Big Ten game against Minnesota which was stopped with 36 seconds remaining when fists and feet started flying.

The Buckeyes, who led 50-44 at the time the game was halted and were awarded the victory, bore the marks of battle, with patches, bandages and black eyes much in evidence.

A grim coach Fred Taylor, who pulled one Gopher player off the Buckeyes' 7-foot center Luke Witte during the battle, refused to comment on the incident until he had talked with OSU Athletic Director Ed Weaver.

Weaver had remained in Minneapolis to attend a meeting Wednesday of Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke and the two schools' athletic directors. The officials viewed films of the outbreak, but Duke said the films were "not totally conclusive" and a decision as to what disciplinary action, if any, would come later.

Witte, the Buckeyes' second leading scorer and leading rebounder, was the most seriously hurt.

He suffered a concussion, cuts above his right eye and on his chin, a "blue ear" (blood clot), and numerous scrapes and bruises on his face.

His availability for Saturday's game at Michigan is unknown.

Mark Wagar, 6-8 reserve forward, suffered a cut above his left eye and suffered more than a mild concussion. Wagar, who had recovered enough from an ankle sprain to make the Minnesota trip, was first attacked by a Gopher player and then, after getting to his feet, by one of the 17,775 fans, some of whom got into the action.

Both Witte and Wagar spent the night in a Minneapolis hospital for observation and were released Wednesday morning.

Cincinnati passer retires

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Greg Cook, the Cincinnati Bengals rookie quarterback sensation of three seasons ago who has been sidelined for two years with an arm injury, Wednesday announced his retirement from football.

Cook said he did not plan to join the Bengals this summer when they open training camp at Wilmington (Ohio) Co. "I may try to log a few passes between now and then just to see if there's some kind of medical miracle," he stated, "but I don't expect one. As far as I'm concerned, this is it. It's all over."

Cook's right shoulder was injured during a game with the Kansas City Chiefs during his rookie year in 1969. He completed the season, however.

"I've never been without pain since the day I was hurt," he admitted. "I can only think of one thing—it's never going to get any better."

BYU begins first out of state trip

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — Brigham Young University, current king of the Western Athletic Conference, travels across the Rockies for a pair of league games this week its first out-of-state.

The 13th-ranked Cougars have rolled up a 3-0 league record, 13-2 overall, but have yet to play a WAC opponent out of Utah. They beat Arizona and Arizona State at home and then traveled to Salt Lake to dump Utah.

This week they meet Colorado State Thursday and then Wyoming, in the Cowboys' Plots currently tied for the Little Five top spot.

In the long Magic Valley loop game, Hansen will travel to Hagerman while Declo steps out of the league and onto A-3 action by invading Valley.

Dietrich stays on the road Saturday, moving across to Bliss while Rimrock revisits the area to play at Camas County.

BYU is led by center Kresimir Cosic, the league's leading rebounder at 16.3 and third leading scorer, 21 points a game, and guard Bernie Fryer, averaging 23.3 points a game, the second best scorer in the WAC.

Colorado State, which meets Utah Saturday after the Utes open at Wyoming Thursday, is still thinking about last year's two point loss to BYU in Provo and triple-overtime defeat at the hands of the Cougars at home.

But this year Colorado State is a new team in the clutch. Saturday, it dropped Wyoming at Laramie, 68-66. The Rams also edged Denver University 47-45 last week.

Wyoming has a three-game WAC losing streak it would like to break this week. The Cowboys prepared themselves for a winning weekend Monday by edging non-conference Creighton, 76-65.

"Innocence is as valuable as education." C. G. Hardywick

In the French Cameroons in Equatorial Africa now, the going price on brides is up. Particularly brides with a college degree. They bring $50 each. That's if they can be described as pure. Experienced girls with a little education are only good for about $40. And experienced young ladies with no school at all may fetch in the neighborhood of, say, $25. It's just another case of the rarity commanding the higher price. A young lady with a college degree who can be described as pure just does not turn up every day in the French Cameroons.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JANUARY 28, 1972

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES—Unexpected problems can arise to annoy you today and tonight. It is wise to do nothing which can lessen harmony in solving problems because you as well as others are too quick to take offense and can become greatly overwrought, making mountains of molehills.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do your utmost to keep harmony within the home now, and you find your business life improves. Quickly get rid of whatever is causing trouble. Try to talk less and listen more. Learn.

TAUROS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Avoid any tendency to be restless in driving, walking or motion of any kind and so prevent trouble. Criticizing others could get you in hot water. So think before you speak. Save more money for the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You are tempted to spend lavishly and then regret it at leisure, so think twice and don't do it. Put your money in the bank and be glad you did. It is important you stay within your budget now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 21 to July 21) You are in a discontented mood and could accomplish little or nothing, or get into trouble, so change your attitude and this becomes a happy, good day for you. Test your mettle, turn adversity into gain.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Instead of trying to get out of those obligations facing you, you had better use tact and dig right into them. Then you find you have time to help others in similar circumstances. Keep objective.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Friends are in the mood to criticize, so do not give them any cause for doing so today. Some group meeting is best avoided. Others' moods are combustible and the wrong word could start off a big fracas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) You want to handle some public affair today, but take care you do not inadvertently do something that could ruin your reputation. Take no risks with bigwigs whatever. Show you know exactly what you are doing, saving.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Although your head is buzzing with new ideas you want to put in operation just because you are bored, you could get into trouble if you do not study them well. Show you are a good, cautious person. Relax in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Although you are reaching the end of your patience, go through with promises you have made and then all is fine. Being blunt with others could get you into a peck of trouble. Use diplomacy instead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You feel unhappy where others are concerned, so study the situation well before you lose your temper, and then don't do it. Don't rush out to see an opponent angrily, either. Get down to constructive work to be accomplished.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although your work may be boring now, it is no time to neglect it and then lose out on the benefits it can bring. Discipline yourself well, especially where dealings with others are concerned. Get things accomplished today.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Although you want to get away from worries, you must be sure not to neglect promises you have made, because this could increase anxiety. Listen to the worries of others. Show you have understanding.

Senate again upholds EEOC enforcement

WASHINGTON, UPI—The Senate today upheld for the second time this week its decision to allow the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to enforce its own orders against racial, religious or sexual discrimination in hiring or promotion.

By a vote of 48 to 46, the Senate today rejected an amendment by Sen. J. H. Doolittle, R-Mich., that would have blocked granting the EEOC "cease-and-desist" orders and required the agency to seek court enforcement of its findings. The same amendment was defeated Monday in the House vote.

But the Senate margin by which the Senate acted again Wednesday was not only to harden its determination to defend the entire measure. Southern Democrats were reported to have voted in a closed caucus to filibuster the bill to death.

The bill also widens the jurisdiction of the commission to include the agency created under the 1964 Civil Rights Act, as the only civil rights legislation Congress was expected to consider this year, although it doubtless will vote on various proposals aimed at forbidding discrimination in the design of schools.

The AFL-CIO Leadership Conference on Civil Rights and the Women's Coalition for Equal Employment Opportunity had lobbied for approval of the cease-and-desist provision, sponsored by Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Harrison A. Williams, Jr., D-N.J. Reconsideration of the Senate's vote on Monday was delayed until Wednesday by supporters of the Javits-Williams provision who figured they needed the votes of some absentee Democratic presidential contenders and others.

The EEOC presently has power to receive and investigate discrimination complaints and to seek compliance through conciliation and persuasion. The bill, as approved by the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, would permit the agency to order an offending employer to "cease and desist" and provide for employer appeals to the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Similar legislation passed the Senate in 1970 but died in the House. Enforcement presently is limited to cases in which the Justice Department finds a pattern of discrimination.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., reached an amendment to delete another major section of the bill that would extend EEOC coverage to state and local government employees.

Skyscraper burns

IMPRESARIO Sol Hurok is carried to ambulance Wednesday in New York City after a fire, possibly caused by an incendiary device, blazed through the mid-town skyscraper in which his offices are located. One person was killed and seven injured. (UPI)

TV won't cut training costs

BOISE, Idaho—The safety coordinator for the Idaho Department of Education said today that television would probably not cut instruction costs for driver training programs.

Idaho's House of Representatives today passed a Senate House transportation subcommittee use of television for driver education would not eliminate the need for instructors, adding teaching without on-the-scene instructors had been found to be a "miserable failure."

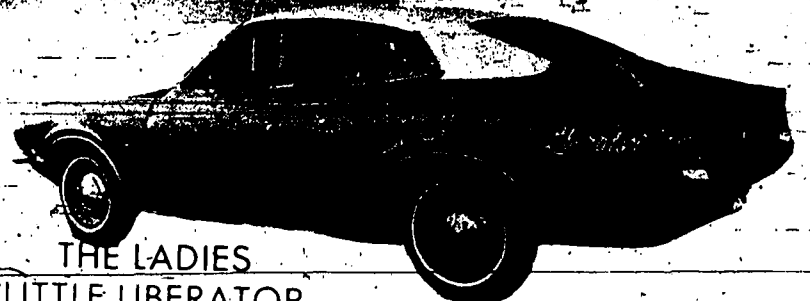

Sen. John A. D. Moscow, chairman of the subcommittee, had suggested use of educational television in the drivers' program. Rep. Bill Stephens, Jack Kennebeck, R-Boise, and Bill Roberts, R-Buhl, met with Kirk and Elmer Hunt Jr., state ETV coordinator, to discuss the possibility.

Hunt outlined plans to reach 95 per cent of Idaho's school children through educational television by adding a transmitter at Twin Falls and translators at Malad, Soda Springs, Swan Valley, Salmon, Challis, Hailey, Mountain Home, Grangeville, Sandpoint and Little Mead near Coeur d'Alene.

He said there would also be a translator at McCall and that ETV would be placed by cable in the Wallace-Kellogg-Mullan area.
