Gem health chiefs quit

BOISE — Dr. Terrell O. Carver resigned today as Idaho Health Department administrator, while in a related move, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus accepted the resignation of Fred C. Humphreys as chairman of the state health board.

Carver announced his resignation at a press conference where he said his most significant accomplishment in his 14 years at the job was "survival."

Humphreys said the reason for his resignation was a "professional hardship" caused by his service on the board. He had asked the governor to accept his resignation in September, but agreed to stay on until the department's budget had been presented to the legislature. Carver was appointed administrator of health for the state in 1958. He has served in that position since. Before that he was director of the preventive medicine division and later medical director for the city-county health department of school health service for the Boise Independent School District. He is also the secretary of the Idaho Water Pollution Control Advisory Council in addition to being secretary for the Idaho Board of Health. He is chairman of three legislative established advisory councils for construction of health care facilities.

New rights fight looms

By LINDY HIGH-BOISE (UPI) — The senate reconsidered the 18-year-old age-of-majority bill today and sent it to the amending order with another fight forecast over the age for drinking alcoholic beverages.

The bill to give 18-year-olds full rights and responsibilities as adults was killed Thursday following two hours of debate. Shortly afterwards, the senators killed 13-21 a proposed constitutional amendment to do the same thing.

Objections both times appeared to be over the "Omnibus" or one-bill approach which would have given the teen-agers drinking rights in addition to other privileges and responsibilities.

Today Sen. James Stoicheff, D-Sandpoint, asked for reconsideration and said his intention was to change the bill to give 18-year-olds all rights except drinking, which would be reserved for 19-year-olds.

Magic Valley senators split on the issue Thursday. Their vote followed no party lines.

Voting against the measure were Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, Sen. Robert Saxvik, D-Burley, and Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert.

Voting for the bill were Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, and Sen. Don Fredericksen, D-Gooding.

The 16-19 vote Thursday on the omnibus bill already approved in the house followed two hours of debate and attempts to amend the bill or send it back to committee.

Despite contentions by proponents of the measure that lowering the age for use of wine, beer and liquor constituted only a very small portion of the proposal — three per cent, by one count — debate on both sides tended to center on drinking.

Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, noting it would take 34 separate bills to do what the omnibus bill was designed for, asked for a chance to "vote selectively" on individual age changes.

But he, too, raised the spectre of future problems with youthful drinkers. "Can you see what would happen on a graduation night in May of 1972?" he asked. "There won't be enough police to control our graduation dances."

Gem code changes approved

By RICHARD CHARNOCK-BOISE (UPI) — To meet objections to the controversial, new criminal code and head of its repeal, the house approved a dozen bills to amend it Thursday, including two outlawing promiscuous sexual acts.

Chairman Clyde Keithly, R-Nampa, said his Judiciary Committee has three more bills in the works. He added the senate is coming up with 10 additional changes.

After approving a bill last Friday to repeal the code, the house since has done an about-face and sent the repealer back to Keithly's committee to await outcome of the proposed amendments.

Keithly said the principal sponsor of the repealer, Rep. Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, has agreed to wait until next Wednesday of Thursday before asking it be brought out for floor consideration again.

Should the legislature decide finally to repeal the new code and re-enact the old one instead of amending the new document legislation to reinstate the old code is being prepared.

CSI nursing instructor dies at TF

TWIN FALLS — Lucile J. Pimental, 54, former nursing supervisor at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and a nursing instructor at College of Southern Idaho died Wednesday.

Mrs. Pimental died in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. Private services were conducted in Boise.

She was supervisor of nursing at the Idaho State Tuberculosis Hospital in Gooding from 1967 until 1970 and at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital from 1970 until last year when she joined the CSI staff.

At the time of her illness she was instructing in the nurses training program at the college (Obituary, P. 2).

War debt talks set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a move which could lead to increased trade, the United States and Soviet Union have agreed to resume negotiations after a lapse of more than 12 years on Russia's outstanding World War II lend lease debt to the United States.

During the war, the United States supplied to the Soviet Union civilian and military goods valued at $10.6 billion. After the war, the United States attempted to settle the debt and similar debts owed by other allies, charging only for civilian-related items which could be used in peace time.

TF teens split on senate vote

By MIKE ROBERTSON Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — High school student reaction was mixed today following the Idaho Senate defeat of a bill that would have made 18-year-olds legal adults.

Most students questioned today had strong opinions on the subject. Bill Macklin, a sophomore, said "everybody was hoping they would pass it."

He said if 18-year-olds are old enough to vote they should be old enough to do other things.

Sen. Vern Brassey, R-Boise, cited drunken driving statistics and warned temptation to drink while driving would be great.

Sen. John Evans, D-Malden, said rather than omnibus bill the measure should be termed "omni-booze" bill and warned his colleagues of traffic problems caused by Oregon, Washington and Utah teenagers crossing the borders to take advantage of the lower ages.

would be driving while drunk if the law was passed and there are already too many."

Student teacher Claude Rasmussen thought it was good the law didn't pass. He said students aren't responsible enough to accept the legal responsibilities.

Another teacher thought many 18-year-olds in high school are mature enough to handle the legal responsibilities while others have shown they are not. Milton Barrus said, however, it will eventually pass even though he thought the Senate was wise in defeating the bill now.

Principal John Lawrence agreed that many 18-year-olds are old enough for the responsibility but others are not. He said the biggest problem would be increased drinking and smoking.

In a world problems class, the opinion was that the law should have been passed. Comments in favor of the measure varied.

One married student said 18-year-olds should be able to enter into contracts.

One student said it should be about time youths are liberated, saying since blacks are and women are, why not kids? Another said "If we can vote and get killed in war, we should be able to drink and sign contracts."

Most of the class agreed if an 18-year-old can fight and vote he should be able to drink and sign contracts. If it is legal in New York, why not in Idaho.

On the drinking problems such a law would raise, class members said alcohol would be abused at first as when the wine law passed, but within a few weeks the excess drinking would slow down again.

"Those who drink are going to drink anyway," several said. One pert brunette quipped, "If the law passed it would mean the elimination of fear and hiding from the authorities — the cops."

"That would take all the fun out of drinking."

The class agreed that young people need to be more educated about contracts. One member said, "Old people get hooked too. We all need to be educated about them."

British miners reject pay offer

LONDON (UPI) — A three-man government-appointed court of inquiry today recommended a $293.8 million pay boost for coal miners whose nearly seven-week-old strike has threatened Britain with economic disaster. The miners said it was not enough.

In recommending an increase averaging out at 20 per cent for the 280,000 striking coal miners the government commission overrode the unofficial 8 per cent limit on pay hikes on the ground that the miners' case was "exceptional."

The miners' rejection followed a one-hour meeting of miners' union leaders with the National Coal Board. The board had said it automatically accepted the findings of the board of inquiry but said it would not go beyond that.

Employment Secretary

Robert Carr canceled a statement on the crisis he was to have made to the House of Commons and called representatives of the two sides to his office.

The strike has blacked out Britain and left thousands of persons uncomfortable in chilly homes and offices. More than 3 million persons were out of work because of industry shutdowns and continuation of the strike threatened the jobs of 20 million persons.

The strike brought Prime Minister Edward Heath close to political disaster himself and he won a close 309 to 301 vote in the House of Commons Thursday night on British entry into the European Common Market. The narrowness of the vote reflected growing dissatisfaction with his handling of the coal crisis.

Even if the miners accepted the package the coal shutdown could continue another week since any final settlement would need either a secret rank and file ballot or show of hands vote by miners locals. Further delay would come before they actually could begin producing more coal and shipping it to generating stations shut down for lack of coal.

The court of inquiry proposals meant that the miners would get increases ranging from $11.70 to $15.60 a week. Some 65,000 surface workers would be raised 15 per cent to a minimum of $59.80 a week; 70,000 underground workers would get an increase of 30 per cent to $65 a week, and another 125,000 workers at the coal face would be raised 15 per cent to $89.70 a week.

The cuts lead to suffering and near tragedy as well.

President rests

KANEOHE MARINE AIR STATION, Oahu, Hawaii (UPI) — On ground sacred to Hawaiian antiquity as the meeting place of kings, President Nixon rested and studied today for his historic trip to meet the rulers of modern China.

Nixon, accompanied by his wife Pat and official staff, flew from snowy Washington to sunny Hawaii Thursday for a tranquil rest to adjust to changing time zones and for further study before his departure for China Sunday.

The President stepped off the presidential jet "Spirit of 76" into sunny 75-degree weather, at this Marine base to the cheers of a crowd of 5,000 persons.

Draped with a colorful red flowered lei, Nixon got into a long black White House limousine and went to the home of Brig. Gen. Victor A. Armstrong, commander of the base, 15 miles from Honolulu.

The Nixons will spend two nights in Hawaii and another on Guam before arriving at Shanghai on Monday China time for a week of conferences with the leaders of the People's Republic of China.

Nixon seemed deeply touched by the warmth of bipartisan congressional support he received in Washington Thursday.

and a traditional aloha welcome on his arrival in Hawaii.

Kaneohe is built on a peninsula still called "Mokatu" — sacred because Hawaii's first king, Kamehameha the Great, chose it as a site for a royal meeting place.

The President spent most of his time en route to Hawaii Thursday conferring on the plane with national security affairs advisers Henry A. Kissinger and Secretary of State William C. Rogers, his two chief foreign policy advisers on the trip.

While the agenda has not yet been set, the secret meetings in China were expected to cover a range of controversial problems which have separated the two nations, particularly Taiwan and the Vietnam War.

Reds threaten Laos attacks

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist broadcasts made public today threatened widespread attacks on major cities of Laos for the first time in the Indochina War.

and urged the Viet Cong to "make the greatest efforts to score new victories" in South Vietnam.

The U.S. command reported 10 new B22 strikes and 132 fighter-bomber strikes against Communist buildups in south Vietnam. Dispatches from Vietnam reported U.S. planes and "possibly" B52s involved in a new government offensive against the Plain of Jars, and Cambodian reports said "allied" planes were aiding a government offensive against Angkor Wat.

The U.S. command today acknowledged the loss of seven more planes in Indochina, including three shot down over North Vietnam by an unusually heavy concentration of missiles.

Three other planes lost in "operations" caused earlier this month. Hanoi reported seven planes were shot down over North Vietnam alone.

FBI agent speaks to TF Kiwanis

TWIN FALLS.—The Federal Bureau of Investigation is no better than the degree of cooperation provided by private citizens.

Vincent McCarthy, assistant FBI special agent in charge of the Butte, Mont., headquarters office, asked that everyone aid in the fight against crime.

He spoke before members of the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club Thursday night at the Turf Club. He was introduced by Dick Reed, chairman for the day, who said the Butte office had jurisdiction over Montana, Idaho and a part of Wyoming.

The FBI agent explained that, countrywide, a "new" crime practice is the theft of securities. These are then put up as security for a loan and the method is difficult to detect because by not moving through the open market it is sometimes difficult to catch the transaction. These thefts of securities, he said, are becoming fairly common.

During his talk, and a question and answer period following, McCarthy said there are 10 divisions in the FBI and there are more than 4,000 agents. Where in the past most agents were either lawyers or

Murder-suicide claims US aide

SILVER SPRING, Md. (UPI)—Earl D. Rhode, the executive secretary of the Cost of Living Council, was shot to death by his wife who then turned the antique Derringer murder weapon on herself, Montgomery County police alleged today.

Police said the purported murder-suicide occurred about 11 p.m. Wednesday and the bodies discovered about 24 hours later.

Neighbors reported that Mrs. Rhode, 28, seemed to have been

Hunt observes 85th birthday

DALLAS (UPI)—H. L. Hunt, one of the world's richest men, marked his 83rd birthday Thursday by putting in a day's work in his office.

Hunt said he dreads both birthdays and parties and would rather work, but he was touched by a carrot cake and a huge card from about 30 members of his personal office staff.

Tears rolled down Hunt's cheeks as they brought the cake and card in and sang, "Happy Birthday."

Driver receives injuries

TWIN FALLS.—A driver, suffered minor injuries and two vehicles were severely damaged in an accident at 5:30 p.m. Thursday on Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

City police reported Fredrick Walden Hiler, 18, Route 4, was traveling south on Blue Lakes Boulevard, when a pickup truck driven by William R. Lancaster, 54, Jerome, crashed into the rear of the first vehicle.

Officers said Hiler was attempting to turn left at the intersection of Green Acres Drive and Blue Lakes Boulevard. Lancaster attempted to change from the inside lane to the outside and avoid the Hiler vehicle but struck the rear of the first vehicle. Damage was listed as total to the 1965 sedan driven by Hiler and $800 to the 1968 pickup truck of Lancaster.

TWIN FALLS.—Two Twin Falls County Commissioners have been asked to continue their special appointments.

Commission Chairman William L. Chancey has accepted another term on the Highway and Transportation Committee for the National Association of County Officials.

The appointment was made by the president of the national organization.

Heber Loughmiller, commissioner, has also been reappointed to the Idaho Public Lands Advisory Committee.

TF bar reports burglary

TWIN FALLS.—Police are investigating a burglary report from the Blue Top Bar, 701 Second Ave. S., in which $432 in cash and checks is listed as missing.

Officers said apparently someone broke out a side window in the building, gaining entrance through the women's restroom. About $20 in cash was taken from the cash register and $400 in checks and currency from a metal cash box and money bag, officers reported.

The burglary was reported Wednesday morning.

Idaho public meets set on undeveloped lands

TWIN FALLS.—The first of several public meetings to air future classification and management of undeveloped lands in national forests of Idaho will be held March 6 in Boise.

Vern Hamre, regional forester, Ogden, said the public meetings will be held in each state in the region where undeveloped areas of 5,000 acres or more are located within national forests.

These meetings will be followed by area meetings in each of the national forests.

Robert Hoag, recreational staff officer, Sawtooth National Forest, said meetings will be scheduled later in the Sawtooth, probably in Twin Falls and Ketchum. He said about one million acres of land in the Sawtooth National Forest falls into the undeveloped category in addition to the much discussed White Cloud and Boulder Peak areas.

In the past several months, Hamre said, forest rangers and supervisors have reviewed national forest lands to identify all undeveloped areas of 5,000 acres or more and have prepared inventories and maps showing their location and size.

These areas, contain no permanent improvements except trails and some are adjacent to presently classified primitive and wilderness areas.

Hoag said a result of the public meetings could be the inclusion of some of the areas in the National Wilderness Preservation System or consideration to classifying them under scenic, historic or archaeological values.

Following the meetings, officials in specific forests will review information and comments and make their recommendations to the regional forester.

Hoag said some 20 areas are included in the Sawtooth Forest which fall into the undeveloped classification. He said the meetings are being held to let the administering officials know how the public feels the lands should be managed and to give the public a greater voice in their future.

Meetings in the Sawtooth will probably be held later in March, Hoag said.

Suspect fights return to U.S.

TORONTO (UPI)—Karlton Lewis Armstrong will fight all efforts to have him returned to the United States where he was listed on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted list for murder and bombing at the University of Wisconsin, his attorney said today.

Armstrong, 25, was arrested Wednesday in an east-end rooming house by two Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers. He surrendered peacefully and was alone at the time, the RCMP said Thursday.

Authorities are still seeking three other persons charged with the Aug. 24, 1970, bombing of the University's Sterling Hall in Madison, which caused $6 million damage and killed one person.

The three fugitives were Armstrong's 20-year old brother, Dwight, David S. Fine, 19, and Leo F. Burt, 23. RCMP officials said Fine and Burt were seen in Peterborough, Ont., on Sept. 3, 1970 and may still be in Canada.

Armstrong's lawyer, Paul Copeland, said he expects an immigration inquiry, which could decide whether Armstrong will be deported to the United States, to begin sometime next week.

Copeland said he had contacted immigration officials in Toronto and was told that they needed time to study the case.

The attorney said Armstrong will fight any subsequent deportation order.

Wisconsin Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, state Attorney Gerald Nichol and Madison Police Chief Wilbur Emery sent a joint telegram to U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Attorney General John N. Mitchell asking immediate action to extradite Armstrong.

The University of Wisconsin has offered a $100,000 reward for information leading to the conviction of the person or persons responsible for the bombing which killed Robert Fasnacht, 33.

Influenza deaths down

ATLANTA (UPI)—The National Center for Disease Control (NCDC) said Thursday the death rate attributed to the current nationwide outbreak of Hong Kong influenza declined for the second consecutive week, strongly indicating the disease may have run its course.

"The worst appears to be over," a spokesman for the NCDC said. The prediction was based on reports from 122 major U.S. cities.

The two decreases, coming together, are considered by disease experts at the NCDC as establishing a significant downward trend.

In addition to the decline the number of deaths from Hong Kong influenza, state health departments reporting to the federal health center in the past week also noted an apparent decrease in influenza activity.

Study effects

WINNIPEG, Man. (UPI)—A $2 million study by the federal and Manitoba governments is under way to determine the effects of industrial development on the environment of northern Manitoba.

The purpose of the study, to continue to 1974, is to find out what diversion of water from the Churchill River and development of the hydroelectric power potential of the Churchill River are likely to have on water and other related resources, environment Minister Jack Davis said today.

MV Gem Show set March 4, 5

TWIN FALLS.—Gem collectors and faceters from Idaho and adjoining states will display their work and collections March 4 and 5 in the Magic Valley Gem Show here.

The 20th annual show will be in the National Guard Armory, beginning at 10 a.m. each day. Displays will be open until 10 p.m. on Saturday and 6 p.m. on Sunday.

In addition to displays of gems the show will feature artifact collections, minerals, demonstrations in faceting, silver casting and other activities.

Dee Almsworth will be chairman with Harold O. Waggoner co-chairman. Clifford Jackson, Burley, 1969 winner in national faceting competition, is in charge of special demonstrations. He said silver casting will be new this year and should create additional interest in the show.

Mrs. Ellwood T. Rees, Twin Falls, said three cases of faceted gems will be shown by national award winners. These include Quincy Howell-Jackson and Dr. Ellwood T. Rees, Twin Falls. George Dotson, Hagerman, will show a case display on inlays and Howard Duncan, Murfreesboro, has entered an opal display.

Competitive and non-competitive displays will be entered and awards presented to the top entries in competition. Judges will present the awards including ribbons which will be displayed on the winning items for the benefit of the public.

Sunday between 9 and 10 a.m. has been set aside for photographers who wish to take pictures of the displays. Doors will be closed to the public during that time and only photographers will be admitted.

Some commercial displays are also planned and dealers will have certain items for sale. Those in the commercial division include: Irv's Hand-Crafted Gems, Bellevue; Spencer Opal Mines, Spencer; Snowy Rang Rock Shop, Laramie, Wyo.; Lowell Fields, Gooding; Owenby's Gem Stones, Bend, Ore., and Moon's Rock Shop in Twin Falls.

Bill Patten will be in charge of a swap table and a silent auction will be conducted. Door prizes will be given away including an inlay coffee table made by George Martin.

That Spark

In George Washington's day boys became men at an early age. At 15 he was writing in a copybook certain "Rules of Civility" he regarded as important. At 16 he was one of a surveying party sent to survey Lord Fairfax's lands across the mountains.

This was no holiday excursion. The party crossed the blue Ridge Mountains into the Shenandoah Valley, then the frontier, where pioneers were only beginning to clear the land for settlement.

Young George was there to carry his share of the load — and be paid for it. Lord Fairfax was so pleased that he recommended him for another surveying job and permitted him to buy some land with his earnings.

These rules of civility that George Washington saw fit to copy, quaint as they may sound today, should be worth any rising young man's attention. Here are some of them:

"In the Presence of Others Sing not to yourself with a humming Noise, nor Drum with Your Fingers and Feet.

"Sleep not when others Speak. Sit not when others stand. Speak not when you Should hold your Peace, walk not when others Stop.

"When you meet with one of Greater Quality than yourself, Stop, and retire especially if it be at a Door or any Straight place to give way for him to pass.

"It's unbecoming to stoop to ones Meat. Keep your fingers clean and when foul wipe them on a corner of your Table napkin.

"Use no reproachful language against anyone, neither Curse nor Revile."

But the last of George Washington's rules of civility deserves special note. It reads:

"Labour to keep alive in your Breast that Little Spark of Celestial fire Called Conscience."

Only five years after the surveying mission, Gov. Dinwiddie chose militia Maj. George Washington — he was 21 — to take a small party of men and carry a warning to the French who were disputing English claims to the Ohio country. He won fame in an unsuccessful expedition against the French the following year.

When the Continental Congress needed a commander for the Revolutionary Armies, the burden and the glory fell on Washington. Every American schoolboy knows — or certainly should know — the rest of the story of the man whose birthday is recalled on Feb. 22, who at 15 wrote out his Rules of Civility — and included in them the command to "keep alive" that Little Spark of Celestial fire Called Conscience.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — We don't have any firm evidence that Democratic voters this year are going to pick a presidential nominee on the basis of who was "first" against the Vietnam War. But Sen. George McGovern thinks they should and is getting stirred up about it.

His agitation is leading him to attack a fellow contender, Sen. Edmund Muskie. He is obviously resentful that the Nixon administration's assaults on Muskie for criticizing the President's peace proposals seem to make the Maine senator the top peace candidate. McGovern, of course, was an early opponent of the war. One can sympathize with him at this moment. For a year, he has been charged with being a one-issue candidate. That's bad enough. But then to have the Nixon crowd help Muskie take the issue from him!

So, on the record today are McGovern's arguments that Muskie, along with candidates Hubert Humphrey and Henry Jackson, is right in there with Nixon himself; that Muskie is one of the "architects" of Vietnam war policy; that Muskie proved his incapacity for leadership by opposing the "peace plank" in the 1968 Democratic platform.

It's this last charge that interests me the most. Only if you were for the peace plank, says McGovern, can you offer the credentials of purity as an antiwar candidate.

Well, now, what did that plank say?

On the subject of getting out of Vietnam:

"... mutual withdrawal of all United States forces and all North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam ... over a relatively short period of time. This matter, by the way, to be negotiated at Paris.

On U.S. bombing:

"... an unconditional end to all bombing of North Vietnam while continuing to provide in the South, all necessary air and other support for American troops."

That language naturally has meaning only when set in comparative framework. How does it measure against the wording of the "majority plank" adopted by the 1968 convention, after drafting by pro-Humphrey forces with a compelling assist from Lyndon Johnson?

The majority plank on troop pullout:

"We reject as unacceptable a unilateral withdrawal ... We strongly support the Paris talks to negotiate withdrawal ..."

On bombing:

"Stop all bombing of North Vietnam (but only) when the action would not endanger the lives of our troops."

Only a difference of tone thus separates the two planks on the pullout question. Neither urges unilateral withdrawal. The majority plank declares against it openly; the peace plank just turns it around and calls for "mutual withdrawal." Is this the cutting edge on which presidents are to be made or destroyed? If so, then McGovern and every other dovish Democrat should work for Richard Nixon's re-election. Since mid-1969, he has been engaged in the unilateral withdrawal of our Vietnam forces, course no prominent Democratic dove ever advocated through 1968. The President's actions have reduced both 1968 Democratic planks to very timid fare.

As for bombing, the two planks agreed air protection (including bombing) had to be maintained for the safety of our troops. The majority plank urged an end to bombing of North Vietnam only when the safety seemed assured (a halt actually was called Oct. 30). The peace plank used the word "unconditional," but its proposal was less sweeping than that sounds. It really affected only North Vietnam's area from the 17th parallel north to the 20th. LBJ had stopped bombing above the 20th on March 31, 1968.

The platform fight was merely symbolic. The symbols look frail today. They neither help nor disable any candidate.

Neck and Neck

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Overactive

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor prescribed propylthiouracil for an overactive thyroid. I have been taking two or three of the pills for a year and I feel fine.

Can this medicine be taken permanently and can it have any side effects in the long run? I heard about a hospital a few miles from here that is supposed to be able to cure my thyroid condition without surgery. Can you advise me on this? — Mrs. M. I.

Propylthiouracil is an "anti-thyroid drug" and used for cases like yours — to slow down a thyroid gland that is too active.

It is usually used for a year to 18 months, after which the drug is usually stopped, and the patient is watched to see whether the condition has been satisfactorily controlled.

Yes, there can be side effects with continued use, primarily effect on the white blood cells, skin reactions, and fever, so naturally a physician keeps watch over a patient, with periodic blood counts, to detect trouble if any develops.

As to other treatment without surgery (in some cases, however, surgery is the best answer) there are other anti-thyroid drugs, and there is also the so-called "atomic cocktail," which contains radioactive iodine. Iodine is automatically attracted toward the thyroid gland, and the radioactivity it brings serves to reduce activity.

Thus I would take the stories about that hospital with a grain of salt. It may use any or all of the various non-surgical treatments, and I dare say that your present physician already knows about them. Sounds to me as though he is treating you very successfully and I don't see why you have the urge to go off hunting for some other treatment.

Dear D. Thosteson: My husband had a blood test and discovered he has uric acid. The doctor gave him uric acid information. Can you enlighten me? Diet, etc. — Mrs. C. D.

The doctor must have given him SOME information — high uric acid is responsible for gout and often for kidney stones, and hence should be kept under control with medication and, to a lesser degree, by diet. I suggest that you send 25 cents and a long self-addressed stamped envelope (or my booklet, "Gout, the Modern Way to Stop It," which explains what it's all about, diet, medication and so on.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 82 and have had minor prostate trouble for 20 years. It suddenly became worse four years ago and I saw a urologist who made an examination. He said the condition was serious and I needed immediate surgery.

I went home to get ready to go to the hospital and discovered that the examination had evidently dislodged the obstruction and I could urinate freely.

I did not go for surgery but now the trouble is coming on again. At my age would it be better to have surgery or just another examination in hopes that it will give relief for several years? — H. H.

I'd say that you were lucky that the examination served to open up the passageway, but it would be tempting fate to expect to be that lucky again. Your age, however, is no bar to having the surgery. It is done with patients older than you are.

Note to Mrs. M. C.: Are you sure he said "blood test"? I don't know of a blood test for cancer of the colon, but tests of other types are, of course, in use such as a blood count to determine anemia. (Yes, there are plenty of causes, other than that, of cramps and diarrhea.)

Accountability

If the present horde of presidential candidates has any funds left by the first week in April, the new ground rules of the 1972 campaign spending reform law go into effect.

The law also provides for better reporting of campaign contributions, but the main feature is the spending limitation. It is the first time in American history that a candidate for national office will find it necessary to construct his campaign budget around the number of voters his appeal is directed toward.

Formerly, the amount of funds available to him was the guiding factor.

Beginning in April, all candidates for national office will be limited to spending no more than 10 cents per prospective voter. It should be an interesting lesson in budgeting, and perhaps informative to the voters as well.

The candidate who can complete his campaign within the proper budget balance and adhere to the other complex rules of the new law will show good organization and discipline. Public life could use a few more individuals with those traits.

ANDREW TULLY

Gauge Said Empty

WASHINGTON — Leaving the theater the other night, the gas gauge said empty. But of course it was impossible to find a filling station open in the area around our homeward route. We were lucky; we just made it home.

The shame was that I thought nothing of it at the time. Not until the next day, walking to the neighborhood Esso to buy a can of gasoline did I realize that the night before was merely a piece of the way of life urban dwellers subconsciously have accepted. Gas stations are not open at night because the city is too dangerous. Unthinkingly, that is taken for granted, just as one unthinkingly is aware that a midnight illness poses the problem of finding an open drugstore.

At night, one locks and barricades one's doors. One's womenfolk do not venture out of the neighborhood, alone, after dark. Bus drivers accept only the exact fare. And we take it, like cattle — in Washington, in New York — in other big cities.

"This, we tell ourselves in our subconscious, is the way it is: This is the norm for life in the city — a life spent under siege by muggers, rapists and murderers. Indeed, an individual is well-advised to move cautiously even in his daytime rounds.

A New Yorker named Peter Schneider, whose brother was murdered in his auto sales office in the Bronx, put it as well as it could be put in The New York Times: "For the grotesque, the monstrous, the aberrant, the perverted, have become the common and the commonplace — the usual and — God help us — the expected."

Peter Schneider also reported the response of New York's public officials to the new commonplace — a responseaped by the government of the District of Columbia: "Our mayor and his police commissioner," he wrote, "divert us with their quixotic — and sometimes criss — political antics with police department personnel."

"They have inveighed against police corruption and they have forced out of the police department a number of high-ranking officers, and in the public's mind these acts are related."

has become part of our life style, campaigns against police corruption make bigger headlines than murder. Let them eat cake. The Washington Post, which buries crime news in its second or third section because crime no longer is news, opens Page 1 for Mayor Walter Washington's campaign against crooked cops. New York's Mayor John Lindsay, who is running for President — and away from New York — can dominate the news on any given day merely by denouncing some petty grafter in a blue uniform.

Of course the crooked cop is evil. But what is worse is the acceptance by the people's representatives that we must live with a crime wave that has become a national industry — as much a part of the urban scene as the neighborhood grocer. ("We close at 6 p.m. sharp.")

Meanwhile, Presidential candidates weep over the unsafe streets of North Vietnam and plead for an end to the war — an end to American participation in the war, that is. To my knowledge, Sen. Teddy Kennedy has never once applied himself to the problem of crime in America, perhaps because he has been too busy mourning for Vietnamese orphans and the refugees of Bongo.

My friends, the war is here — just outside your locked door.

ROBERT ALLEN

Sex Appeal

WASHINGTON — Mayor John Lindsay, who with characteristic modesty considers himself exceedingly handsome and very appealing to women, is baldly trying to make the most of that in stumping for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Plastered around Miami are posters reading: "Come Hear Mayor John Lindsay Recently Voted the Sexiest Man in the Country."

Advance men and crowd organizers for the New Yorker are under orders to make certain that ranks of effusive women are in the forefront of the gatherings he meets and addresses. Special efforts are made to ensure that acclaiming women are so positioned that TV cameramen and other photographers have to include them in their films.

On his part, Lindsay heartily cooperates by unabashedly embracing feminine admirers who welcome that — and quite a number seem to.

He is far less cordial about his rival aspirants.

Publicly, he never misses an opportunity to scornfully challenge them to debate privately, he speaks of them with outright diadlan and derision. He lowers no doubt that he rates himself as eligible for President.

President. Illustrative of his attitude are the following disparaging characterizations:

Muskie — "Wooden Indian. Lincoln"; McGovern — "Kennedy Stalking Horse"; Wallace — "The Kluxer"; Humphrey — "The Hump" or on occasion "The Has Been"; Hartke — "Hoosier Huckster"; McCarthy — "Mac the Knife."

Lindsay's opponents don't think much of him, either.

Some of them refer to him as "Pretty Boy" and "The Street Walker."

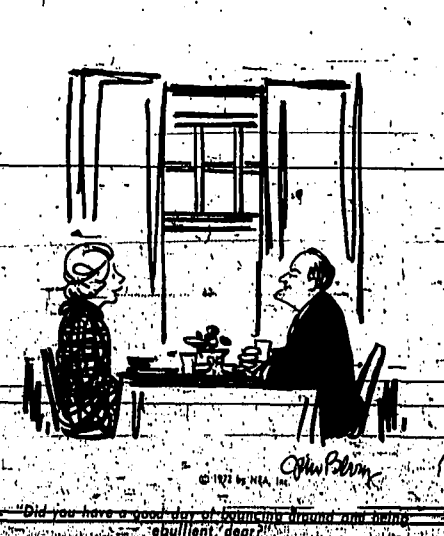

The June 20 New York state primary is certain to be a dilly — with Lindsay as the universal principal target.

Not only is he in the personal and political bad graces of his rivals, but local party chiefs are seething after his scalp — and already firing away at him venomously.

A graphic illustration is Councilman Matthew Troy, Queens Democratic leader and a militant McGovern backer. A free-wheeling scrapper, Troy delights in taking pot shots at Lindsay and his cohorts with such bare-knuckle barbs as the following:

"If I had run the city of New York the way Lindsay has run it for the past six years, I would have gone to Alaska to an island and the rest of the world for President."

Save Your Calendar

Mr. Spectator likes to pass on suggestions. Here is one we want you to remember!

Hold onto your 1972 calendar, folks. According to the World Almanac's perpetual calendar, the identical arrangement of days and dates will repeat itself in the year 2000.

Actually a 1944 or a 1916 calendar will do just as well, if you still have one of those around. Which means, by the way, that this is the first time this century that this particular calendar has begun without a World War in full swing.

For those looking forward to ringing in a new century, it's good to realize that New Year's Day, 2000, will fall on a Saturday, as it did this year. That will leave a whole weekend to recuperate, though maybe by that time there will be a one-day work week and a six-day weekend!

Anti-poverty bill passed in House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House passed and sent to the Senate Thursday a $5.3 billion anti-poverty bill that opponents said President Nixon would veto because of his proposed overhaul of free legal services for the poor and expansion of the Head Start program.

The bill passed on a 234-127 roll call vote after the House rejected on a 206-159 record vote a $4.1 billion administration substitute bill that would have extended Office of Economic Opportunity programs unchanged for two years.

The measure, drafted by Democrats, was meant to replace a $6 billion bill that Nixon vetoed Dec. 9 because it included a $2.1 billion program of day care centers and failed to give the President authority to select a board of directors that would operate an independent legal services program.

The bill approved by the House Thursday included $1.5 billion for a sharply expanded Head Start program offering pre-school training to needy children and a provision to turn the free legal services program into a private corporation. Opponents said Nixon would veto the bill because of the two provisions.

Critics of the House bill said the money to expand Head Start was merely camouflage for reviving the child care program to which Nixon objected in the earlier bill.

The measure would authorize $500 million in the current fiscal year for Head Start, compared to the $376 million appropriated for it so far this year, and $1 billion in the new

US woman arrested on espionage charge

CAIRO (UPI)—A U.S. woman diplomat was arrested in Egypt last September on espionage charges, a close aide to President Anwar Sadat said today.

Mohammed Hassanin Heikal said the unidentified woman was "caught red handed" trying to find information about the new Soviet planes in Egypt.

Heikal, the editor of the semi-official Al-Ahram newspaper, made the disclosure in his regular weekly column.

In a separate story, Al-Ahram said Foreign Minister Murad Ghalib has told the nation's political bosses war with Israel is inevitable and that Israel would withdraw from occupied Arab lands only after blood had been shed on its own territory.

were arrested in Cairo recently and accused of being Israeli agents.

Carrier sails

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—The carrier Kitty Hawk, minus seven of its 5,000 crewmen who sought sanctuary in churches, sailed for Vietnam waters Thursday.

The missing crewmen, along with two from the Long Beach-based oiler Misapillon, said they expected to surrender peacefully to government agents later at the First Church of the Brethren.

Heikal said the woman's arrest created a serious incident with Washington which threatened to discontinue its Middle East political efforts. He indicated the United States later admitted the woman was guilty of trying to gather data on the Soviet MIG23 warplanes.

The woman, who was released, acted as a liaison with an Egyptian agent for the Central Intelligence Agency, Heikal said.

His article followed remarks by Sadat Thursday that two Belgians and a Frenchman

Southern school students fight

STATESVILLE, N.C. (UPI)—Black and white youths fought in a high school hallway Thursday in a renewal of racial violence that forced the closing of schools in three counties.

The fighting between 30 to 40 students came as the youths were returning to classrooms from a lunch recess and lasted eight to 10 minutes, according to Principal Albert Hiatt.

Stewart Gains, a white student, was hit on the head by a potted plant and underwent surgery for a skull fracture. Thursday night, Hiatt said, He was reported in satisfactory condition.

Two other white students were treated and released at Irede Memorial Hospital for cuts and bruises. Hiatt said at least six white students were injured.

Classes were called off at Statesville today as well as at Bear Creek in Chatham County and Jones Senior High in Trenton, near the coast.

New liturgy

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Vatican announced a new liturgy Thursday based on early Church practice in which converts to Roman Catholicism enter the church by degrees.

The reform offers religious life to a variety of people, from African polygamists while they are getting rid of their wives to doubters who are groping their way to faith.

Would-be converts will be welcomed into the Catholic community after a period of instruction in a ceremony which marks them as "catechumens," or apprentices in religious life and practices.

Only after further instruction lasting for several years will they become baptized, confirmed and given First Communion in different stages.

Elite concern

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Business Council, an elite group of about 100 corporate executives who advise the President, expressed "strong concern" Thursday that attempts to revitalize the economy with deficit spending might stimulate inflation.

At its winter meeting, the council said in a one-page summary of its economic forecast that most of its staff economists had "strong concern about the continued stimulation of the economy resulting from monetary and fiscal policy and the effect this may have in the form of more rapid inflation later this year and in 1975."

The council's economic consultants predicted that consumer spending would be the economy's strong point this year, but expressed some disappointment at the pace of sales so far.

Snipers strike

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Snipers opened fire four times during the night on an army post in Newtonabbey, a Belfast suburb normally untouched by violence, the army said today.

In Dublin, political sources said the arrest in the Irish Republic of four members of Sinn Fein, the Irish political arm of the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), could be the first step in a possible government move to re-establish military courts to hear civil political cases in Ireland.

In earlier violence in Belfast, police said Sharon Anderson, 16, released from a hospital after being treated for minor wounds from a bomb explosion that gutted the British Caledonian Airways offices was readmitted in "serious condition" when a second bomb went off next to her as she was walking home.

Paddle damages

CRESTVIEW, Fla. (UPI)—A four-man, two-woman jury ordered Taylor to pay $500 in compensatory damages and $15,500 in punitive damages for applying a wooden paddle to young Tizecker.

After the three men and three women alternates were selected, U.S. District Judge R. Dixon Herman said opening arguments and testimony would begin no sooner than next Monday.

Alternate jurors

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Six alternate jurors were selected Thursday in the conspiracy trial of the Rev. Philby Harrison and six other antiwar activists, clearing the way for the start of opening statements in the case possibly by Monday.

The "Harrisburg Seven" are charged with plotting to kidnap President Richard M. Nixon and his family.

Andrus gets farm labor bill he vetoed in 1971

By RICHARD CHARNICK
BOISE (UPI) — A farm labor act that so displeased Gov. Cecil D. Andrus a year ago he nearly vetoed it is headed for his desk again in virtually the same form.

By a vote of 21-13, the senate approved the house-initiated measure which, in effect, simply extends indefinitely the act scheduled to expire on March 1.

A few hours before the senate voted, Andrus told a Farm Bureau meeting that while he would not "pre-judge" legislation he would be displeased if the bill is the same as last year's.

Not only are there questions of constitutionality that disturb Andrus about the act but he dislikes some of its picketing, administration and other provisions.

"At first, it appeared the legislature might do something with the act — adopted after farm labor strife in southern Idaho fields during the summer of 1970.

But, pointing to the lack of trouble this past summer, an interim committee appointed to study the bill and its effects did nothing about changing the law. In fact, the committee met only once.

There is a question of whether this legislature will enact another farm labor bill should Andrus veto the measure extending the life of the present one. Farm lobbyists have suggested hanging tough, the theory being if Andrus vetoes the bill and there is strife "it's on his head."

Before the measure goes to the governor's desk it must undergo some perfunctory signatures and enrollment. But Andrus should have the proposal to consider by the first of the week.

Meantime, the senate shot down two proposals to give full adult privileges and responsibilities to 18-year-olds and the house began amending the new criminal code.

First, the senate killed 16-10 a house bill which would lower the age of majority for all purposes to 18 from 21. Then, it knocked off 13-21 a proposed constitutional amendment which would put the question before the people.

Principal opposition to both proposals hinged on lowering to 18 the minimum age for purchase and consumption of alcoholic beverages.

While the senate spent about 24 hours wrangling over what rights should be given to the state's newest bloc of voters the house approved 12 bills designed to make the criminal code more acceptable.

BOISE (UPI) — The House State Affairs Committee called Thursday for introduction of a bill to create a department of environmental health and a seven-member board to set policy for it.

An outgrowth of an interim committee study and embodying at least one idea put forth by Gov. Cecil Andrus, the bill would create the agency from the present Department of Health.

It would increase membership on the health board to seven, rename the agency, and, as suggested by Andrus, let the governor appoint the administrator with the consent of the senate.

Wine proposal study assigned

BOISE (UPI) — House taxwriters assigned a subcommittee Thursday to study a proposal giving the state all the table wine wholesale business and earmarking the profits for water pollution control.

Chairman Allan F. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, of the Revenue and Taxation Committee called for the legislation. He said it would give the state about $1.5 million per year if a 45 cents per gallon tax is included.

At present, both the state and private enterprise may wholesale table wine in Idaho and the private sector's 32 wholesalers make about $1,082,037 from it and the state $311,533.

Larsen and Reps. James Elgin, R-Caldwell, and Robert Haakenson, D-Coeur d'Alene, were named to the subcommittee to study the impact of the plan.

Haakenson suggested limiting distribution of the revenue from the plan only to those counties which permit table wine sales in grocery stores or opening up all counties to such sales. His motion was beaten 3-10.

Less expensive

BOISE (UPI) — Believing it less expensive to send medical students out of state than educate them at home, the senate approved 24-6 Thursday a supplemental appropriation to the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education.

Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, said the $30,000 was needed to pay out-of-state fees for Idaho students attending school in other states in medical, dental and veterinary fields.

Warranty sought on mobile homes

BOISE (UPI) — The senate approved 23-5 and sent to the house Thursday legislation requiring a one-year warranty on mobile homes manufactured or sold in Idaho.

Sen. C.C. Chase, D-St. Maries, floor sponsor, said the measure would put the responsibility on the manufacturer where it belongs.

Sen. Warren Brown, R-McCall, opposed the measure on ground mobile home manufacturers should not be held responsible for defects in appliances made by another

General fund plan tentatively OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — Despite criticism of interagency billing procedures the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee gave tentative approval Thursday to a general fund budget of $135,023 for the Department of Administrative services.

But legislators suggested a study be undertaken before the next session of the legislature of the procedure by which the department can bill other agencies for certain work.

Ideally, the temperature of hot water in the home should be between 135 degrees F. and 140 degrees or not higher than about 40 degrees above body temperature.

Fund hiked

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the Idaho Endowment Investment Board told legislators Thursday the principle amount in the endowment fund has increased from $71 million in 1969 to $81 million.

Board Chairman Steve Metkile, Rexburg, and investment trustee William G. Hepp also told lawmakers there has been no loss to the endowment fund as alleged by State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon.

Shoshone couple leaves 'legacy'

SHOSHONE—Arthur Hall and his wife of Shoshone left a legacy of life when they died in Phoenix six years ago.

Death was undoubtedly the last thing on their minds as they left home in December, 1965, for a trip to San Diego, Calif., to visit their oldest son, Byron, then serving in the U. S. Navy.

En route, they stopped in Mesa, Ariz., for a visit with Mrs. Hall's father. Death caught up with them there—a horrifying kind of death that left a lasting impression in the minds of many.

While driving through Phoenix on the day before Christmas in 1965, the car carrying the Halls was struck head-on by an intoxicated driver who ran through two red lights at an estimated 80 miles per hour. Mr. and Mrs. Hall died instantly; their two children, Marilyn and Douglas, were severely injured.

The driver behind the Hall vehicle was Ernest I. Stewart, associate dean of liberal arts and professor of health education, Arizona State University. The horror of the collision seared his mind, he said later, and inspired action to "do something" about drunken driving.

Stewart had already evidenced an interest in controlling drinking drivers. He contacted the chief magistrate in Phoenix after the Halls were killed, asking for a meeting with police, public health spokesmen, traffic safety personnel and university officials.

He said he knew he must take action when "on that fateful morning when the reality and horror just reached out and grabbed me." At the time of the accident.

Stewart's program is outlined in the current Reader's Digest, in an article on "How Phoenix Gets Drunks Off the Road." He organized a 10-hour series of instructional courses, taught in a Phoenix courtroom, which must be attended by motorists convicted of driving while intoxicated. Judges have agreed to include the course in the driver's sentence.

Offenders pay $10 for the course as a part of their fine. In the 5½ years since the fateful accident, more than 6,000 drivers have completed the studies.

Careful studies of driving records indicate that recurrence of drunken driving has been significantly lower than normal.

Until last fall, Stewart conducted each class session. He has since trained several teachers to keep up with the expanding program. The first class session of each series begins with a recounting of the 1965 tragedy, keeping the memory of Arthur Hall and his wife ever alive and active—helping to combat the enemy who claimed their lives.

MR. AND MRS. MARVIN H. PIERCE JR. (Davis photo)

Kathryn Vawdrey, Pierce say vows

JEROME—Kathryn Vawdrey and Marvin H. Pierce Jr. were married to rites Feb. 11 in the LDS First and Third Ward Church, with Melvin VanNoy officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Vawdrey, Jerome, and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin H. Pierce, Jerome.

The bride wore a street-length lavender dress, fashioned of polyester dooskin, with an empire waistline defined with a purple silk rope. The dress featured bell sleeves and a cowl collar. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and lavender-tipped carnations with purple streamers.

The church was decorated with baskets of lavender-spider chrysanthemums.

The couple was honored at a small family reception at the home of Mrs. William D. Thomas after the ceremony.

After a honeymoon trip to Boise, the couple resides in Twin Falls, where the bride is employed by Castillon Cuffures and the bridegroom is employed by Kilde Construction Co.

Miss Parish, Creech plan May rites

TWIN FALLS—A May wedding is planned by Laura J. Parish and Alan D. Creech, both students at the College of Southern Idaho.

Miss Parish is the daughter of Mrs. William H. Carnahan and the late Mr. Charlie W. Parish, citizens Perry.

Creech is the foster son of Mr. and Mrs. Lavon Cooper, Lewiston, former Glenns Ferry residents.

of spades to sleep if West holds that card. He leads a spade to the ace and a spade back toward his hand.

First ruff, he will be ruffing South's ten spot so East discards.

Now South enters dummy with the ace of hearts and leads dummy's last spade. Again East can't afford to trump. South scores his last high spade; leads the ten spot and ruffs in dummy.

East can overruff or not as he chooses. All he can make is that one trump trick.

This line of play is sure-fire as long as East can't trump the ace of spades or ace of hearts. It is certainly better than just going set and complaining of bad luck.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you said, "If identical twins really want to be 'individuals,' they should not dress alike."

I am an identical twin, and I disagree with you because my twin and I have been mistaken for each other just as often, wearing entirely different outfits as when we dressed alike.

Dressed differently, we had to identify ourselves to everyone we met. ("I'm June, dressed in green today. Jean is wearing blue.")

We felt we were more individually identified when we dressed alike because then people would have to find a distinguishing facial feature, a mole, something personal in order to tell one from the other.

I have often heard the "Don't-dress-twins-alike" theory to encourage their individuality, but I cannot believe that clothes make the twins or the individual.

Sincerely, MRS. J. P. A.

DEAR MRS. A: I see your point, but do not agree with you. I maintain that when twins are small, and have no voice in their selection of clothing, most mothers will dress them alike because they look so cute. But as soon as they are old enough to express themselves, their individual preferences (if indeed they have any) should be respected and encouraged.

Twins who dress themselves identically are saying, "Look at us. We're twins!" (P. S. I asked my twin and she agrees with me.)

DEAR ABBY: How does a respectable man keep from falling in love with his neighbor's wife?

STARTING TO FALL

DEAR STARTING: He keeps a "respectable" distance from her.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend and I are mature adults who are living together in an apartment near my parents' home. My parents are not crazy about this setup, but they have accepted it. The problem is this: When my folks go South for a month they want someone to stay at their house, and since I am an only child, I stay there. It's no hardship for me, but my boy friend feels that he should be able to stay with me at my parents' home, too, and I don't agree with him.

I know my parents would be hurt if I brought this kind of living into their home. I have let him stay with me at my folks' home a few nights, and I felt terrible about it.

We have argued a lot about this, and I think I am right. He thinks HE is right. What do you think?

ONLY DAUGHTER

DEAR ONLY: I think you are right.

DEAR ABBY: A question for "SOPPING WET AND COVERED WITH DOG HAIR IN HARTFORD." Was this the dinner party at which the hostess said, "I'm sorry there are no napkins, but from time to time a large shaggy dog will pass among you?"

End of session seen

BOISE (UPI) — Senate majority leader Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, hopes the legislature can close up shop in about three weeks if leadership can agree to work out pending legislation which seems destined for defeat.

Kidwell said each committee chairman has presented him with a list of bills still in committee along with predictions on the future of each measure.

Some bills such as 18-year-old rights and responsibilities and the criminal code—both scheduled for debate today—are among the major pieces to be considered in the session and, along with the budget, cannot be hurried.

But legislators also face a raft of "little bills" which are causing time problems, particularly items of legislation presented to substantially the same membership in 1971 without success.

The problems of looking at bills for a second time, often with the same result, has caused some legislators to look back to the biennial approach to legislatures.

The state affairs committee in the senate introduced a proposed constitutional amendment Wednesday which would let voters decide whether to return to the biennial approach. Less than four years ago on another constitutional amendment Idahoans decided to go to the annual sessions.

An alternative to a constitutional amendment, a bill limiting areas of study in the sessions, appeared to be heading toward defeat in the senate Wednesday before floor sponsor Edith Miller Klein, R-Boise, pulled the measure back to committee to save it for comparison with future proposals.

Senate needs coffee

BOISE (UPI) — What does it take to keep the Idaho Senate going for a day?

Among other things, about 300 cups of coffee, five dozen doughnuts and a lot of carrot sticks.

According to Mrs. Virginia Smith, Senate hostess, egg salad sandwiches, split pea soup, milk and fruit juice are winners in the Senate snack bar. Each of the senators contributes money during the session to support the snack bar, located in the fourth floor of the Statehouse.

Mrs. Smith believes in getting the senators going and keeping them going all day—even if it demands making soup from scratch and baking homemade pies.

Asked what the favorite food for lawmakers is, she replied "carrot sticks."

Education system criticized

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise Cascade executive who resigned from the state board of education last week says there is too much fragmentation in Idaho's educational system.

Steele Barnett, whose five-year term would have ended in 1974, said he resigned "because of the press of business, and I felt I didn't have the time."

Educational fragmentation in the state, Barnett said, could be eased by implementing some of the planning done by the state board of education planning subcommittee, of which he was chairman.

End absenteeism

BOISE (UPI) — Republican senatorial candidate Dr. Glen Wagner said today if voters elect a man and send him to Washington they are entitled to his services.

Wagner said he supports a constitutional amendment proposed by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith to end absenteeism in the U.S. Congress.

Impact uncertain

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's commissioner of public assistance said today it is too early to tell the exact impact of the proposed welfare program on the state, but said indications are it will cost more.

Dr. John Marks said until "workfare" is proposed, reform of the welfare program is approved by Congress it would be difficult to determine the cost to Idaho.

The departments of public assistance has requested $14.3 million from the general fund for fiscal year 1973, which, coupled with federal funds, would give the state a total budget of $40.1 million.

Marks said initially it appeared the expanded number of eligible recipients would mean more spending on the state level.

Marks was among those present today when John C. Montgomery, assistant to the secretary and director of family benefit planning for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, outlined changes under discussion in Congress.

Back expensive student union

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — Lewis and Clark State College students have voted to build the most expensive of three student union proposals offered them, even if it costs them more to do it.

The students voted to build the $700,000 structure by an overwhelming margin. The vote was 408 in favor of the most expensive plan and 234 for the other two plans or no student union at all.

The climb up Mount Shasta in California totals 12 miles.

House rejects 'revolt'

BOISE (UPI) — Rejecting the so-called "sexual revolution," the House today voted to make fornication and adultery crimes in Idaho again, even though such laws no longer seem to be enforced.

They were part of a package of a dozen bills to amend the controversial, new criminal code and make it more acceptable to the people and those who must enforce it.

Rep. Edward Rice, R-Boise, floor sponsor of both the fornication and adultery statutes, said he could find little evidence of enforcement of either crime under the old code.

The important thing is the people of the state of Idaho have spoken," Rice said.

Potato proposal hearing Tuesday

BOISE (UPI) — Despite objections from potato processors, public hearings will be conducted Tuesday on proposed legislation to increase assessment to support advertising and provide for a supply management program.

The interim potato marketing committee made the decision Wednesday to go ahead with the hearings.

However, processors said they would prefer a new proposal for a referendum using a weighted system of voting to determine whether to increase the advertising assessment.

Farm

US Farm Bureau sees favorable future

WASHINGTON, D.C. — American agriculture will have the technology and resources in 1990 to produce an abundant supply of food and fiber provided certain basic conditions prevail, William J. Kuhfus, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said in a paper prepared for the White House Conference on the Industrial World Ahead.

The goal of abundant food and fiber can be met, the national farm leader said, provided that:

"Farmers are permitted to enlarge, specialize, and change as the production and marketing picture changes. This means that the U.S. must avoid government farm programs that put the farmer in a straitjacket."

"Inflation is brought and kept under control. Over the long pull, farm costs outrun farm prices during inflationary periods. Net incomes are squeezed and farmers can't invest in needed resources and technology."

"Market expansion continues at home and abroad. If we lose the export market, we'll have weak markets and low incomes, and farmers won't be able to invest to improve efficiency."

"Farmers have the ability and the right to organize and manage the marketing of their products. Production needs to be geared to market needs."

"Consumerism trends don't harass farmers and limit their ability to perform efficiently."

"We must avoid programs that will fix farm prices which tend to blunt the direction given by consumers and not allow farmers to participate in the potential dynamics of our economy."

"We must be certain that limitations on the use of pesticides, antibiotics, and feed additives are reasonable and realistic."

"We must have reasonable rules on disposal of animal wastes, anti-pollution, and zoning."

"Adequate farm credit continues to be available."

As a background to his comments on the future of American agriculture, Kuhfus made these observations:

—There could be a reduction in the number of commercial farms from the current 1.8 million to one million or fewer, larger, more specialized farms by 1990.

—Today, consumers spend 18 cents of their disposable dollar for food. This is the lowest relative food cost ever reported for any people anywhere in the world. Some project this will be 14 cents by 1990.

—With today's agriculture operating at 70 per cent of parity, when compared to 67 per cent of parity in December, 1933, it is difficult to project a prosperous agriculture even though agriculture is a very important segment of our total economy. Agriculture will continue to supply needed food, but U.S. farmers must have a continued increase in the efficiencies of farm production if they are to increase the net returns to producers unless there is a change in our comparative relationships with the rest of the economy.

—The U.S. is going to have improvement in methods, plant breeding, the use of fertilizers, pesticides, and herbicides, but it will be most difficult to maintain the rate of increasing efficiency that agriculture has achieved in the past 20 years when productivity has increased more rapidly than in the rest of the economy.

—We are going to continue to improve mechanization just as long as we allow economics to dictate the direction of agricultural development and there is economic justification.

—Labor is one of the costs to be reckoned with. In order to have equity among groups, we must eliminate the monopoly that has been granted organized labor so that we can have a more equitable position for proper negotiations between producers, labor, and business.

—If we are to be a part of a dynamic world, we must compete in that world.

—If we can have equity among groups—producers, laborers, processors, distributors, and business—enterprise will provide discipline and will keep us competitive and in balance in our total market.

—In the long run, commodities are going to be produced where they can be best produced for the lowest price. We are a part of the world market, and the world market in the long run is directed by the buyers and users of commodities.

—I predict that by 1990 many of the accepted practices of today will be recognized as antiquated methods. This applies to tillage practices, fertilization, irrigation, weed control, and harvesting methods. Beyond the farm, it could well apply to the movement of products from the farm to the market. I am sure there are going to be many innovations to circumvent the monopolistic merchandising patterns that are commonplace today.

TF aides tell NFO bargaining role

TWIN FALLS — If the National Farmers Organization goes under, America's farmers will no longer be able to successfully bargain for fair prices, according to NFO officials.

In a special committee meeting of Twin Falls County NFO officer, Thane Roberts, secretary-treasurer, said the NFO is the only national farmers bargaining group left. He said the small farmer can't talk to large organizations and be treated fairly. He said the farmers must have equal strength.

When a group of farmers get together to bargain, Roberts said, it can't help, but help them.

Gathering farmers together for bargaining strength is the purpose of the NFO membership drive, according to Alvin Johnson, president. The committee members cited examples of the NFO bargaining potatoes, dumping milk and withholding livestock to successfully raise prices.

Roberts said organization members from throughout the state are now blocking their production of calves and shipping them to other points for better prices. Wednesday they shipped about 1,000 head from Gooding to different markets. Roberts said the prices were bargained for before the cattle were shipped. He said they ranged up and down with weight from $43 per 100 for a base 500 pounds.

Committee members told the Times-News that if agricultural raw product prices were brought up to parity, which would be about double prices received now, in about 12 months the nation's economy would be balanced.

NFO member George Juker said it has been proven if the prices of raw agricultural products are manipulated up or down, so goes the national economy.

Roberts said all new wealth comes from the land, air and sea and nature doesn't have to be paid back. Wealth from credit being pumped into the economy has to be paid back, he said, but nature doesn't.

Juker said all the NFO members are asking is supply the market for what it needs and receive a fair and just price for their commodities.

The committee said it boils down to the fact that the con-

Top 4-H judges

Hagerman FFA team honored

FILER — The Hagerman Future Farmers of America Chapter was named first place winner in Thursday's swine judging events at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds, Filer.

The team was presented a trophy from the Southern Idaho Swine Growers Association. Members of the team are Baad Gialer, Lee Cox and Rex Dalton. Dalton also received the trophy for high individual in the FFA judging.

The first place team in the 4-H club judging included three members from the Filer-Twin Falls area, John Gilster, Twin Falls, and Vicki Sharp, and David Ramseyer, both Filer. Gilster was named high individual in 4-H swine judging and was presented a trophy.

The Berger, Barnyard Bunch placed second in 4-H team judging and the Twin Falls FFA unit placed second in FFA competition.

Susan's day

SUN VALLEY — Saturday has been named "Susan Corcock day" at Sun Valley in honor of the bronze medal winner, according to officials.

A special reception will be conducted from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Limelight Room of the Sun Valley Inn, during which trophies will be awarded to winners in the Sun Valley Ski Club Junior Championships which will be run earlier in the day.

For the first time, a "Susan Corcock Perpetual Trophy" will be awarded to the fastest girl skier in the race between the ages of 15 and 18.

Refreshments will be served during the reception and the Walt Wagner Trio will entertain. The event is co-sponsored by the Sun Valley Co. and the Ski Club.

Duroc top breed at Filer sale

FILER — In Thursday's Filer swine sale, 34 animals brought a total of $4,722.50 or an average of $139.50 per head.

Duroc swine proved to be the top breeds, bringing top selling prices in all classes.

A Duroc bred gilt, Miss Golden Lady V, consigned by Clark Mills and Sons, Twin Falls, sold to John Farmer, Melba, for $235, top price of the sale.

A Duroc open gilt, Massacre Gal, consigned by Mills sold for $140 to Gale Wiegley, Burley, and a Duroc boar, Red Star 18, consigned by Wiegley, brought $200 from Clair Daniels, Gooding. Daniels is Idaho Pork man of the year.

Average selling prices were $153.50 for bred gilts, $100 for open gilts and $137 for fall boars.

Studies needed on TF air pollution source

By DAVID ESPO

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The state's top air pollution expert said Thursday more studies are needed to determine the source of Twin Falls air pollution.

Al Elguren, head of the Department of Health's Air Pollution Control Board, said however, he would not request an extension from federal agencies to meet 1975 primary air pollution standards.

But at the same time he said "We'd be misleading the public to say flat out we're going to make them."

He outlined what he said was the department's continuing three-part policy for the Twin Falls area:

— "Control the things we know about."

— "Define what is the problem we don't know about."

— "Prevent new plants without adequate pollution controls from moving into the area."

He said efforts at reducing industrial pollution had been a success, citing the Amalgamated Sugar Co. decision to invest $3 million in pollution controls as an example.

But at the same time, he said, "On the studies we did, we found it may be very likely that even shutting down all industries would not attain the primary standards."

He said the guidelines laid down by the Environmental Protection Agency, called for an average of 75 micrograms of particulate solids in the air per cubic meter.

The number, published each day in the Times-News is a gauge of the concentration. For the first four days of this week, the reading has averaged 189 micrograms per cubic meter.

Elguren said research so far shows a hidden source of pollution to be the area's topography and weather conditions.

"It's a flat top open plain, a lot of cultivation and a high wind," he said, adding "a good share" of the non-industrial pollution is sand and dirt—road dust, agricultural dust, fertilizer, pollen and soot from incomplete combustion in motor vehicles.

He said possible safeguards against these pollutants include paving parking lots now unpaved and street sweeping.

But he said these measures wouldn't solve the basic problem and admitted, "I don't think the control technology is here yet."

Elguren had one hopeful note, however. He said that unlike the situation with secondary waste treatment facilities in Twin Falls, he expected to have enough money in the coming year to continue and expand on the studies being made in the area.

He said federal money and matching state funds would be available if the department's 1971-72 fiscal year budget is approved by the legislature.

Both the department and the governor have requested $211,000, $84,000 beyond the estimated "continuation budget" for the coming year.

School singled out, aide says

HAILEY — Wood River High School has been "singled out" as the only place in Blaine County where drug sales have occurred, principal John Barton said today.

Ketchum Police Chief Dennis Haynes said after a series of drug raids earlier this week that "statements obtained and investigations indicate that drug sales have taken place in Wood River High School" and that investigation is continuing into the matter.

But he said today "It isn't the only place where drug sales have occurred, we know that."

Barton said that the drug raids were not at the high school and "consequently the school should not be made to appear as a retail supplier of illegal drugs."

The principal said "undoubtedly drug sales have taken place here as well as many other places within the county." And, he added, "Any time a person who is using drugs meets with someone who is selling them you have a potential for an exchange to occur. It might be in a movie house, in the lobby of a bank or anywhere people meet."

Five Blaine County adults were arrested in connection with the raids and about $3,000 worth of narcotics and drug paraphernalia were confiscated. Seven juveniles were involved but have not been arrested as yet.

TF official said 'fair' in hospital

TWIN FALLS — Heber Loughmiller, Twin Falls County commissioner, is listed in fair condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital where he is being treated for chest pains.

He was admitted to the hospital Monday.

Also in fair condition is Jean Thompson, 53, Filer, who was injured in an automobile accident Sunday night west of Twin Falls. In fairly good condition are Albert Schroeder, 70, and his wife, 63. They were injured in the same three-car accident in which Mrs. Thompson was injured.

Club's annual dinner held

TWIN FALLS — The annual dinner of the Country Woman's Club was held Wednesday at the Karl Patrick home.

Dorothy McCracken baked a birthday cake in honor of Nora Lewis. Guests were Marie Lancaster, Filer, and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Sparks and R. L. McCracken, Twin Falls.

The next meeting is at the home of Genevieve Bird.

Less porridge

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)—The traditional porridge of oatmeal and rolled oats for breakfast is fast disappearing in Australia. Government statistics show that in 1939 more than five pounds of porridge was eaten annually by every Aussie. Now it averages out at 11-ounces.

Holiday for some

TWIN FALLS — Monday will be a holiday for most business office workers and College of Southern Idaho students, but not for students of the Twin Falls School District.

Nearly all business offices including city, county and federal offices, banks and atorney's offices will close Monday for Washington's Birthday.

Schools in Twin Falls and nearly all other Magic Valley communities will remain open as will most stores, some of which are planning special holiday sales.

Clean air index 431

Exceeded at micrograms of particulate matter per cubic meter of air. The number averaged during a 24-hour period. Readings were taken in Twin Falls by the South Central region District office.

Federal recommendation for air quality is 75 micrograms per cubic meter of air. Readings above 75 are considered "poor" and below 100 are "fair".

Burley man posts $500 bond

BURLEY — Roy Munoz, 20, Burley, posted $500 bond in Burley Magistrate Court Thursday morning on a drug charge.

Munoz was charged with delivery of a controlled substance (marijuana). He was arraigned Thursday.

Jelly Kelley, 14, Heyburn, appeared in court Thursday on charge of delivery of controlled substance (LSD) and was released to the custody of his father. He is to appear Feb. 20 for a preliminary hearing.

One male juvenile was also arrested on an LSD charge.

Jaycees plan fete at Buhl

BUHL — The annual Buhl Jaycees Distinguished Service Awards dinner is scheduled for 8 p.m. today at the R and R Cafe, according to Mike Thomas, chairman.

A no-host cocktail hour will begin at 7 p.m. Mel Miller, Payette, state Jaycee programming vice president, will speak on the topic, "Today's Jaycees Role in the Community."

Jed Pence, Buhl mayor, and Ken Patterson, president of the Buhl Chamber of Commerce, will each present a short talk.

The junior and senior DSA winners, outstanding young farmer and outstanding young educator of the Buhl area will be honored.

Hearing slated

TWIN FALLS — Public hearing in the United States Senate on the bill to create the Sawtooth Recreation Area has been scheduled for April 13 and 14.

Several individuals are expected to go to Washington, D.C., for these hearings. Full particulars are available through the Boise or Washington offices of Sen. Frank Church or Sen. Len Jordan.

'Shirt sleeve' skiing forecast

TWIN FALLS — If the weatherman's predictions hold true, skiers in Magic Valley may be enjoying shirt sleeve weather this weekend along with excellent conditions at all resorts.

Reports by resort include Soldier Mountain, 56 inches of snow at the top of ski runs and 48 at the lodge with three inches of new snow this week. Temperatures are 30 to 35 degrees and skies have been clear with some high clouds during the afternoons. The area operates Thursday through Sunday and the road is good with some mud in the lower areas and snow tires required in the higher elevations. The area will be open Monday.

Magic Mountain has 10 inches of new snow this week with 100 inches at the top and 84 inches at the lodge. Temperatures in the daytime range around 30 to 35 degrees and the area is operating Friday through Sunday. Bus service is available Saturday and Sunday from Lynwood. Road conditions are good but snow tires are required.

Pomerelle has three inches of new snow and 122 inches at the top of ski runs and 84 inches at the lodge. Temperatures are 30 to 35 degrees with some melting in lower parts of the road. Upper areas still have some one-way traffic and snow tires are recommended. Pomerelle operates Friday through Sunday this week.

Sun Valley reports 58 inches at the top of Baldy, 49 at the Roundhouse and 25 inches on the valley floor. A trace of new snow has fallen and temperatures are 30 to 40 degrees. The road is dry and sunny. All runs and bowls are open.

Rotarun has 18 inches of snow with no new snow. Temperatures are 25 to 35 degrees and the road is bare and dry. The resort operates Saturday and Sunday with night skiing Tuesday and Thursday.

By RIP WILSON
Special to the Times-News

BUHL — Idaho Commissioner of Agriculture Oscar Arstein told Buhl Rotarians and their farmer guests Thursday that his department needs more money.

Speaking at the Rotarians' annual Farmer Appreciation Night, Arstein listed four legislative priorities for his department.

Jerome airport limits

JEROME — Cleo Ambrose, Jerome County commissioner, today announced a load limit of $2,500 pounds on the Jerome airport.

Ambrose said the airport is open to planes but due to mud under sweeping under the asphalt, heavy craft can no longer use the field. A plane landed at the airport Thursday, he said, and was approaching the gasoline pumps, broke through the asphalt. Ambrose said the limit will remain in effect until further notice.

Arstein said a new state program for licensing, training and inspecting commercial pesticide dealers is a necessary step.

"If we don't administer ourselves, the federal government will not babysit us—they will take away the chemicals we need," he said.

He cited the recent withdrawal of the pesticide 1080 and restricted use of DDT as examples of likely federal action.

Arstein said no funds had been appropriated to administer a program setting up weed control districts throughout the state. He said he recently had asked the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee for $20,000 to fund this program.

Should funds not be made available, he said, his department could be sued for failure to set up the weed control districts.

He said Idaho facilities for testing soil quality are inadequate. He said the state "badly needs" a pure seed lab. He estimated the cost at $88,000.

He urged the legislature to determine whether it chooses to rely on a program of state meat inspection or a program administered by federal inspectors.

He said Idaho meat packers now are unsure whether they must comply with state or federal standards.

He strongly endorsed the state inspection because state inspectors would be more inclined to cooperate with packers to upgrade practices, rather than issue penalties for shortcomings, he said.

He praised Gov. Cecil Andrus as a competent administrator. He said the governor had not interfered in the administration of his department.

Chambers to meet soon

BURLEY — The South Idaho Chamber of Commerce will meet March 21 at Ponderosa Inn, announced Clayton Stewart, Ketchum, president. Stewart said new officers will be introduced at the annual meeting during the business session the afternoon of March 21. Community delegates will make their annual reports.

Highlighting the program and dinner in the evening will be a report on the development and progress of the regional airport which is planned on Site A-1 northeast of the Perrine Bridge. George Forscher, chairman of the interim board, will make the report.

Thirteen community delegates met at Jerome recently and discussed chamber affairs. Communities represented were Castleford, Rupert, Paul, Burley, Jerome, Ketchum, Sun Valley, Halley, Buhl, Heyburn, Hazelton, Shoshone, Kimberly, Declo, and Hansen. Millard Means, Carey, presented membership fees to affiliate that community with the South Idaho Chamber.

Forscher, said Barton, Stoddard, Milhollin, and Higgins, Boise, a subsidiary of Morrison-Knudsen contracting firm, was selected by the board recently to conduct the pre-planning studies which also include the environmental study of the proposed airport site.

The engineers will review the airport situation for the entire valley which will include Joslin Field which presently serves the valley. The pre-planning Grant Program will cost about $40,000 and the expense will be borne by the Federal Aviation Agency, State Aeronautics Commission and the Regional Airport Authority. Federal funds will amount to two-thirds of the total cost.

Bill Strasser, Rupert, stressed the need to refer State Highway 25 between Rupert and Paul to the state highway commission for improvement. One of the most heavily traveled roads in southern Idaho, it is too narrow and poorly constructed, he said.

Edgar Moorman, agricultural chairman, reported that southern Idaho people should defend agriculture development from the reclamation and dam building to insure the orderly development of 6.5 million acres of fertile, virgin lands still in brush. He said the environmental movement was now actually redefining and delaying reclamation lands.

Camden Meyer, Twin Falls, assistant school superintendent, reviewed changes which seem to be approaching the field of education in the funding program of state and federal government. Property taxes may be replaced by federal and state funds raised by sales tax. It would relieve local boards of much authority, he warned.

Interest was expressed by delegates from Blaine county in the possibility of joining the Regional Airport Authority some time this year. This would require a special election in that county. Similar interest was evidenced by delegates from Twin Falls County. Presently five counties comprise the airport authority including Jerome, Gooding, Minidoka, Cassia and Lincoln.

Henry Woodall, Twin Falls, reported that public hearings are scheduled for U. S. 93 routing over Timmerman Hill and north to Halley.

Blaine approves 4 plans

HAILEY — In quick succession, the Blaine County Planning and Zoning Board Tuesday approved four measures discussed on Feb. 1. The board was unable to act at that time for lack of a quorum.

Approval was given Robert Carrell to build a concrete batch plant about two miles south of Bellevue. Carrell had said earlier the plant was portable and would be located on a bench, below sight distance from U. S. Highway 93.

The board placed a two-year limitation on the approval with an option to renew at that time. It also requested that the county inspect the site annually.

Approval was also granted three Bigwood Development requests. Bigwood, located north of Ketchum off Highway 93, is owned by the Sprenger Land Investment Corp.

A zoning designation was changed from R-1, residential district, to C-1, highway commercial, for the portion of the development containing the present office building and the proposed hotel and clubhouse.

The board also approved a zoning classification change of a Bigwood Condominium subdivision from R-1 to R-1 planned unit development, and approved the plat drawing of the subdivision.

In other action, the board gave preliminary approval to plans for replacing a number of apartment and condominium lots in Hulen Meadows, north of Ketchum, with duplex lots at the request of Lorraine Curtis, subdivision developer.

Action on two developments near the Red Top Motel between Hailey and Ketchum was deferred for further study.

The board decided to visit the site of the proposed Aspen Acres subdivision after the snow is off the ground. Chairman Robert Vernon read a letter from Robert Amoureux, Idaho Health Department environmentalist. Amoureux said his office did not recommend building on five lots within the subdivision and the use of subsurface sewage systems because of the proximity of the lots to the flood plain.

Action was also deferred on a request by Gordon Gasmann, Twin Falls, to relocate an overnight trailer area from the northeast to the southwest corner of the proposed Mountain Meadows Mobile Home Park. Earlier, Vernon said the zoning of the whole area north and south of the park should be studied because of pressure to have the area reclassified for commercial use.

No waiting list

TWIN FALLS — Navy recruiters, Harold Smith and Dennis Abrams have announced there is no waiting list for those desiring to enlist in the navy. For more information on available programs, interested persons may contact them at 132 2nd St. E., Twin Falls.

Payments listed

BOISE — Recently compiled statistics by the Veterans Administration show the nation's second largest agency spent $41 million in Idaho during the past fiscal year. Figures for counties receiving portions of the total spent are as follows: Twin Falls county, $2.45 million; Blaine, $254,592; Cassia, $798,889; Gooding, $495,343; Jerome, $531,680; and Lincoln, $153,742.

Theta Rho girls to honor official

BURLEY — Plans were made by the Theta Rho Girls to honor Mrs. Eula Shook, Shoshone, March 1 during a meeting at IOOF Hall.

Mrs. Shook is a member of the Theta Rho board of control and will make her official visit to Burley.

Other business include voting to assist with the Easter Lily sale in March under the direction of Mrs. Arlene Sutton.

On March 6 the Theta Rho girls will serve dinner and wash dishes for the Rebekahs when they host the official visit of the Assembly president.

A report was given on the recent cooked food sale which was termed a success. Proceeds will be used for various club projects.

New members were initiated, including Esther Asbogast, Tammy Prestidge, and Laura Skeen. Each received the regalia at the close of the initiation ceremony conducted by Valerie Land, president.

Special guests were Mrs. Ted Arbogast, Burley; Mrs. Pat Arbogast, Pocatello, and Nancy Johnson, Burley.

TF Nazarenes slate indoor camp meet

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley's "Indoor Holiness Camp Meeting," an annual event of the First Church of the Nazarene, will begin Tuesday and continue through Feb. 27.

Sessions will be held each evening with morning services on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 10 a.m.

Dr. John Knight, executive secretary of the Department of Evangelism, Kansas City, Mo., will be featured speaker. Special music will be by Lee Everleth of Ohio and other singers and musicians from Magic Valley communities.

All programs are open to the public. A nursery will be provided during evening sessions, Pastor Joe Chastain said. All programs will be in the First Church of the Nazarene, 401 Sixth Ave. N.

Tour set

FILER — The "Good News" Singers of the First Baptist Church will undertake a two-day singing tour March 18 and 19, according to Rev. Roy Watson, pastor.

The group will sing at the First Baptist Church, Idaho Falls, March 18 and at 11 a.m. in the American Falls Baptist Church March 19.

The choir now numbers 24 members. Mrs. Gordon Larsen is director and Leona Wright is piano accompanist.

Heads youth

FILER — Rose Miller was elected president of the Senior High Baptist Youth Fellowship.

Lynn Peterson was elected vice president; Debby Ranson, secretary-treasurer, and Jeannie Holloway, publicity chairman.

The group held a swimming party at Silgar's Sunday.

Workshop slated by Episcopalians

TWIN FALLS — Vestry members and other parish leaders of Ascension Episcopal Parish will attend a weekend retreat and workshop beginning tonight.

The workshop is under the direction of Father Albert Allen, rector, and will include study, fellowship, meditation and parish reorganization.

Parish officers will be installed at the 10 a.m. service Sunday. Communion will be served at both the 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. services.

Special Lenten services include mid-week communion at 7 a.m. Wednesdays and a

LDS aide speaks at Declo

DECLO — "The greatest evil in the world today is selfishness," Robert L. Simpson, first counselor in the presiding bishopric of the LDS church, told the Cassia East Stake conference here Sunday.

"It is not easy to overcome the sins and wickedness of this generation," he said, "but we should strive to do this and the time is now."

The speaker urged his audience to learn to control their anger and strive to forgive others who have offended us.

Bishop Simpson, former president of the New Zealand mission, was chief supervisor of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. accounting office in Southern California until called to the presiding bishopric in 1961. He is involved in the administration of the church's hospital system.

Joseph A. Gillett, stake president, conducted the stake convocation. He cautioned against "joining a group of protesters who fight against all that is good."

Other speakers were Golden Gardner, Jay Nielson and Horace Coltrin. Mrs. Merna Marchant directed congregational singing and Mrs. Clyde Wardle was accompanist. Ronald Walters, who has moved from the community, was released from his stake positions. Sustained as elders in the Melchizedek priesthood were Nicholas Neddo, Terrel Hurst, Brent Bowcut, Arlo Kidd and Kim Darrington.

The Declo ward choir furnished special music with Ora Darrington directing and Mrs. Norman Hurst accompanist. Prayers were offered by Gary Fowler and Don Adams.

Stimpson named to LDS post

SHOSHONE — Don Stimpson has been named the superintendent of Shoshone LDS Church Sunday School. He replaces Lawrence Sturgeon.

Named as assistants to Stimpson are F. N. Stowell and Spencer Bateman.

Mrs. V. F. Perron will be the new junior Sunday school coordinator and Mrs. Elwin Webb is the new senior Sunday school chorister.

Other officers and teachers serving the past year were sustained.

Final session of the ward conference was held Sunday night at the church with President Walter Bowman, Dietrich, officiating.

Speakers were Stimpson, Bishop LaMar Duffin and his counselors, Dennis Andrus and William Harris, and President Bowman.

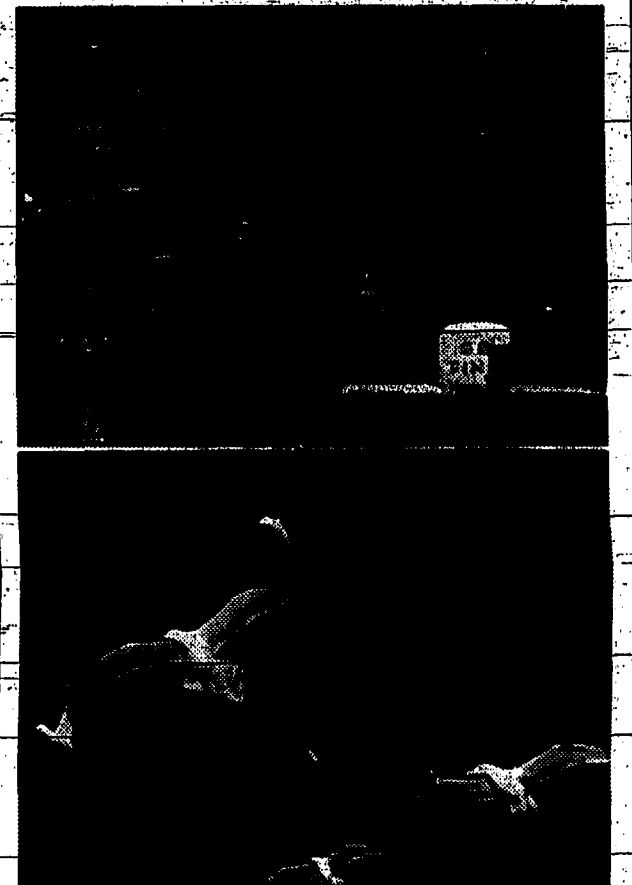

Annual meal set at Kimberly

KIMBERLY — The "annual meal for others" will be served at 1 p.m. Sunday in the Christian Church Fellowship Hall in Kimberly, according to Rev. James Keefe, pastor.

The menu will be a suggested dinner menu for a family using the emergency food supply, consisting of a meat, plain vegetable, flavored gelatin and dry potatoes.

The dinner is used as an opportunity to acquaint the local congregation with what a particular group is doing to help a group of needy persons.

An offering is accepted following the dinner to benefit the group whose needs are represented during the dinner.

Some men live in the cages of routine, others fly in the open skies of the spirit. Puzzled by the contrasts we see in our lives, we ask the question "Why? Why poverty in a land of plenty? Why loneliness in a world that would join hands? Why war when the impulse of the heart is to love? The aching chasm between the real and the ideal everywhere provokes the question

Three hold lead in Phoenix open

PHOENIX (UPI)—Dale Douglas, who has not won since the 1970 Phoenix event, and Paul Moran and Jim Jamieson, both looking for their first four victories, tied at five-under par 66 Thursday to share the first-round lead in the $125,000 Phoenix Open.

They each had six birdies and one bogey over the flat, 6,641-yard Phoenix Country Club course that plays to a 66-35-71 par.

Each of the leaders attributed their low scores to "strong putting."

Moran, on the tour only three years and winner of just $10,971 last season, said every putt of under 35 feet was a "gunner." Jamieson chipped in from 60 feet for a birdie on the third hole and had four other birds ranging from 15 to 30 feet.

Douglas, two-putted all three 15-foot holes for three of his birds.

Ramos may reclaim lost title

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Former lightweight champion Mando Ramos of Long Beach, Calif., was a slight favorite to capture the crown for a second time tonight when he and Pedro Carrasco of Spain meet for the World Boxing Council 135-pound title.

The fight is a rematch of the controversial bout the pair staged for the WBC championship Nov. 5, 1971, at Madrid. In that bout Ramos floored the Spaniard four times but referee Samuel Oduabe of Nigeria disqualified the Californian and awarded the bout to Carrasco for low blows by his opponent.

The referee's verdict drew an outcry of protests, even from Carrasco's followers and the WBC declared the fight no contest and ordered the pair to meet again for the vacant championship.

Ramos, 23, was the youngest man ever to hold the lightweight championship when he took the title away from Carlos "Tito" Cruz Feb. 18, 1969, at the age of 20.

Norris Burton, refuge manager at Hagerman refuge, is presently banding ducks. He hopes to have at least 1,000 birds banded before the end of the month and has gone over the 500 mark already.

Why do we band ducks? There are two basic reasons, to determine migration patterns and to obtain an estimate of the harvest. Banding has been going on at Hagerman refuge for many years and we have a good picture of the migration routes. Most of the mallards and pintails are banded in the Canadian provinces, primarily Alberta. They head south, arriving in Eastern Idaho, and follow the Snake River downstream as winter progresses and freezes the open water areas. Some may come past Hagerman and winter at Lake Lowell near the Snake River.

Others may remain in the Lake Lowell-American Falls area in a mild winter. Before the main objective is to obtain harvest information from the 1,000 banded birds we hope to send on their way this winter. For example, if hunters kill 1,000 banded ducks after next fall's hunting season, this indicates to us that there has been a minimum of 20 per cent of that particular flock taken that year. Some bands are not turned in by hunters so this indicates a minimum harvest and of course there are natural losses such as disease, predators, accidents, etc., in addition to the hunter's take. However, this information gives waterfowl biologists some basis for setting regulations. Hunters should watch for these numbered aluminum bands on ducks legs and turn in this number if they don't have to send the band in. If they wish to, they can send it to the refuge.

There are over 150,000 ducks at Hagerman Refuge at the present time and photographers are welcome to try their luck on the different species. Norris Burton states the camera bug should contact him first but the ducks are easily photographed either from a prepared blind or by access along the dikes. This state refuge truly provides year-around recreation for the sportsman with fishing all summer, hunting in the fall, and photography during the off season. Visitors are welcome to view the wildlife at any time and a tour through the refuge is available.

FLYING Vic Kelly and center Dan Dressen will wind up their regular season careers for College of Southern Idaho tonight and Tuesday against Dixie College and Weber State. Gene Stroebel, Kuna, will be the third starter in his last scheduled appearance.

Departing sophomores Kelly, Stroebel, Dressen set last appearances for Eagles

Vic Kelly, Gene Stroebel and latecomer Dan Dressen, three of the important cogs that have led the College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles into the regional playoff and a 22-3 season up to now, will make their final appearances on the local floor Friday and Tuesday night when the Eagles play Dixie College and the Weber State Frosh. Game time is 8 p.m. both nights.

It will be the end of an era for CSI basketball with Kelly leaving. The youngster from New York, by way of Washington, D. C., introduced

Five JC transfers enroll at Idaho

MOSSCO — Don Robbins, head football coach at the University of Idaho, announced today that five top junior college transfers had enrolled at Idaho and would be candidates for positions on the 1972 Vandals team in spring drills.

Robbins said this is the first step in an updated recruiting program which he hopes will bring some of the fine junior college and freshmen athletes to Idaho. Robbins said that he hoped to have eight or nine more transfers enter the university in the fall and also a crop of freshman athletes to join the Big Sky champion football team.

The five players who have enrolled are Randy Amerman, Darrell Dodson, Joe Feehan, Scott Hansen and Kelvin Wolske. Amerman, a 5'11", 205-pound fullback from Prosser, Wash., was all-conference for Yakima Valley Junior College. He has excellent speed with 4.7 timing for the 40-yard dash. UTEP and N.M. seek NIT bid

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI)—Texas-El Paso hosts New Mexico Saturday night in a game that could decide a place in the National Invitation Tournament and the Miners would like nothing better than to avenge their loss to New Mexico earlier in the season.

Brigham Young, which lost its first Western Athletic Conference game of the season last week, is a consensus pick to become the first team in the league's history to participate in the NCAA tournament two years in a row.

When UTEP and New Mexico met earlier this season in Albuquerque, it marked a turn around for the Lobos. New Mexico, coming off opening losses to Colorado State and Wyoming, stomped the Miners 66-44, and has lost only once, to BYU in Provo, since then.

UTEP, (16-3, 5-1) has regrouped its forces since that loss and is easily the WAC leader in defense, allowing only 30 points a game.

Sonics sign McDaniels after star walks out on Carolina

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—The Seattle SuperSonics of the National Basketball Association Thursday signed a six-year contract with seven-foot Jim McDaniels of the rival American Basketball Association.

The Sonics said they hope to have the former Carolina Cougar star in the lineup as early as Sunday to aid in Seattle's stretch drive for a playoff berth in the Pacific Division of the NBA.

Financial terms of McDaniels' contract with the Sonics were not disclosed but reliable sources reported it was for $1.5 million over the six years.

In last year's draft, the Western Kentucky graduate was one of the Sonics' two top draft choices although it appeared at the time that Carolina already had him locked up in what later was described as "the richest contract given any athlete in any sport," exceeding $1.4 million.

McDaniels recently walked out on the Cougars and the Sonics immediately put attorneys to work looking for legal loopholes in the rookie's contract with Carolina.

Zollie Volchok, a Sonics board member, said the new contract was promptly approved by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy. The Sonics called a news conference to make the announcement with the tall center sitting in.

Player-coach Lenny Wilkens of Seattle said he would have McDaniels working out with the team in the Thursday afternoon practice session.

"I would think, possibly, he might be able to play Sunday," Wilkens said.

The Sonics, currently trying to wrest second place and the final playoff spot from the Golden State Warriors, host the Portland Trail Blazers Sunday.

Wilkens said he would not try to use McDaniels in Friday night's game with Golden State at Seattle.

"I'm just delighted to be in the NBA," McDaniels said. "I'll have to work a lot harder. It will take a little more time to blend into the Sonics and I'll have to be real patient."

Volchok said several attorneys who studied McDaniels' contract with the Cougars are confident several provisions make the Carolina contract invalid.

Neither Mel Monheimer, attorney for the Sonics, nor Charles Burdell, Seattle attorney representing McDaniels, would comment on possible legal efforts to prevent McDaniels from playing for Seattle.

The Cougars filed a suit earlier in the week in U.S. District Court at Los Angeles asking that All-Pro Management, Inc., be barred from interfering with McDaniels. The suit sought $1 million in damages.

A hearing to show cause why a permanent injunction should not be issued was set for Feb. 25 in Los Angeles. The Cougars allege that attorneys with All-Pro Management helped McDaniels jump from the ABA to the NBA.

Although the terms of the Sonics contract with McDaniels were nearly a carbon copy of their contract with Spencer Haywood, who left the ABA's Denver Rockets last year, Sonics officials said McDaniels' situation was "entirely different."

Driver dies in 12-car pileup during Daytona trial race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Richard Petty said he just shut his eyes and somehow managed to get through Thursday's race which claimed the life of Raymond "Friday" Hassler during one of the two 125-mile qualifying races for Sunday's Daytona 500.

Lane has guide to player's salary

NEW YORK (UPI)—How much is a ballplayer actually worth?

How much is anyone worth, speaking strictly in dollars and cents?

Chemically speaking, the human body has been appraised at 97 cents. That figure was established a long time ago. But no one ever has really established what a major league ballplayer is worth. Not to his wife or his mother-in-law, but to his ball club.

Frank Robinson says he's worth $150,000 and that's what he's asking Dodgers. Juan Marichal is asking the Giants for the same thing. Tom Seaver accepted $120,000 from the Mets and Richie Allen says he'll agree to the same figure with the White Sox. Vida Blue got $14,500 from the A's last year, and he says all it'll take for them to get him back this year is $115,000.

Everyone in baseball feels strongly, one way or the other, over today's rising salaries, but no one feels that strongly enough to come out and say anything that can be challenged. Nobody wants to be the one to tie the ball around the cat. Nobody except Frank Lane, the Milwaukee Brewers' director of baseball operations who has always been an independent thinker.

He's not afraid to speak up. "On physical exertion alone," he says, "a ballplayer is not worth more than $10,000 or $15,000 a season. Anything more than that is based on how many tickets people line up to buy to see him perform. Babe Ruth comes to mind immediately.

Sandy Koufax also drew people into the ballpark. Vida Blue was another example last season. He probably drew somewhere around 400,000 fans for Oakland. I'm talking about on the road as well as at home. I know Blue was worth 12,000 extra admissions in our ballpark."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players' Association, goes along with Lane on Vida Blue but disagrees completely with Lane's "physical exertion" figure.

"How do you measure what physical exertion is worth?" Miller asks. "Even if you can measure it, I don't see its relationship to the amount of money anyone gets paid. The question of what a man is worth and what he gets paid for is a very complicated matter. Let's take a doctor for example. If he is a reasonably good one, he has a handsome income. Clearly this has little to do with physical exertion. He's being paid for something. What is that? He's being paid for what he knows and how well he applies it in diagnosing ailments and treating people."

To this, Lane says: "I still stand on my original figure. It is supported by a lot of baseball people who forgot more than I'll ever know. Branch Rickey was one, Larry MacPhail is another. No matter what has been said about him, he was a tremendous judge of ballplayers and their worth."

Marvin Miller would like to know where Frank Lane got his figure on how much physical exertion is worth.

"I got it through long years of experience," Lane says. "It isn't a frivolous figure either. Branch Rickey was one of those baseball people whose opinion I respected, and he subscribed to that figure. I've heard others claim the physical exertion of any player is worth only $10,000. I'm willing to concede it's worth $15,000."

Miller says you can't figure that way because there are certain "intangibles." These intangibles become involved, he says, even to how many fans a player draws to the park. "You can have a performer who is not a great drawing card, who's not colorful, but whose performance on the field merits a salary in the higher brackets," Miller says. "There are leadership qualities, also. All are necessary to the success of the team, and in that sense, all that is important in his team being a drawing card. Getting back to the business of physical exertion, how much do you pay a skilled maintenance engineer in an expensive automotive factory? For stand-by? What's in his head is what he's paid for."

"As an afterthought, Marvin Miller asks:

"How much physical energy does Frank Lane exert?"

"Plenty," Lane comes right back. "Every waking moment, too. Frequently I'll get up five o'clock in the morning to look up something because I can't wait to get to the office. That's physical exertion. Never mind me, though. You take a ballplayer getting, say, $25,000. He just had a normal year but he expects a raise. For what? It's getting so that anything over and above mediocrity calls for an increase."

Hodges and Mets seek starter

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—Manager Gil Hodges stated Thursday that the chief aim of spring training for the New York Mets this year would be to come up with a replacement for the traded Nolan Ryan.

New York held a two-hour drill for pitchers and catchers and will have a singular drill Friday. The rest of the squad reports next Wednesday, with the first exhibition game March 14 at Sarasota against the White Sox.

Hodges named Tom Seaver and Gary Gentry as the top two starters on the staff and said that southpaw Jerry Koosman would be given a good chance as the No. 3 starter.

Koosman has been plagued over the past two seasons by arm and shoulder injuries and he posted only six wins last year.

A fourth starter may emerge from among Jim McAndrew, Jon Matlack or Charlie Williams.

Memphis tops Bradley 70-59

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Memphis State University overcame Bradley's delay tactics Thursday night and, led by junior guard Larry Finch, took a 70-59 Missouri Valley Conference victory over the Braves.

The win put the Tigers in a second place MVC tie with St. Louis.

The Tigers, avenging an earlier 95-79 defeat at Bradley, brought the Braves out of their delay game with torrid shooting in the first half. The Tigers were ahead 33-8 about midway through the half, when Finch exploded to give Memphis State a 30-20 halftime advantage.

Finch had 24 of the Tigers' first half points, including 10 of 19 from the free throw line. The Braves double teamed Finch in the second half and held the MVC's leading scorer to only four points.

The accident happened on the 18th lap as the field, tightly bunched following a caution flag, screamed down the long backstretch at 200 miles per hour. David Boggs blew a tire on his Dodge and suddenly debris was flying everywhere.

"It was just like a bomb going off," said Williams. "There were cars in the air and then there was so much smoke you couldn't see." Williams' Plymouth slammed into the wall and he rode the barrier for several hundred feet.

Petty was picking his way through the field following a pit stop when suddenly cars were spinning wildly in front of him. "Somehow a hole just opened," said Petty. "It was as if the two cars in front of me wanted me to make it through. It just wasn't my day to get wiped out."

Petty said he saw Hassler's car down on the inside of the track still spinning. "Then I saw a white car slam into it and parts were flying everywhere. It was a real bad scene."

Hassler, 36-year-old Chattanooga, Tenn., driver, was dead on arrival at the infield hospital. Miraculously, only one other driver was injured in the pileup. Jimmy Crawford of College Park, Ga., received a cut chin and was admitted to the hospital for X-rays.

After the race was stopped for 30 minutes to clean up the wreckage, Bobby Isaac took advantage of mechanical problems which wiped out the Richard Petty-Buddy Baker team and coasted to an easy win.

Isaac, who will start on the pole Sunday in his Dodge, finished nearly a lap ahead of Coo Coo Marlin's Chevrolet. Richard Brown was third in another Chevrolet and Frank Warren was fourth in a Dodge.

Errant pass intercepted

NEW YORK (UPI)—Walt Frazier (10) leaps high to pass to Dick Barnett (12) but the ball is taken from him by Chicago's Chet Walker (25) as Bulls Gary Sloan (4) looks on. The Knicks nipped the Bulls 102-96 in overtime. (UPI telephoto)

N.Y. nips Bulls in overtime

CHICAGO (UPI)—Earl Monroe dropped in a jump shot at the buzzer Thursday night to put the New York Knicks in a 90-90 tie with the Chicago Bulls and pave the way for a 102-99 Knicks victory in National Basketball Association play.

The Knicks trailed by 23 points during the third period. Chicago was leading 71-48 at that point and had a 79-66 lead going into the final period. But the Knicks turned on a blistering offense in the fourth and finally managed to catch up. In overtime, the Knicks took an early lead, 91-97, and although the Bulls managed to creep within one point with 18 seconds left they could not catch up. The final two points came on free throws by the Knicks' Dick Barnett.

It was the fifth straight victory for the Knicks, now 39-24, and the second loss in a row for the Bulls, Chicago is 44-19 for the season.

Chicago's Chet Walker led all scorers with 28.

Cougars rip Virginia

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI)—The Carolina Cougars came out firing Thursday night and crushed the Virginia Squires 145-122 behind the play of Stu Johnson and Joe Caldwell, who had 28 points apiece.

The Cougars moved into fourth place in the American Basketball Association's Eastern Division with the devastating offensive show. Four Cougars collected 20 points or more. Caldwell and Johnson were followed by Flarry Miller with 25 and Wendell Ladner with 21.

For the Cougars it was the fourth victory of the season over the Squires.

Stu Irving led the way for Virginia collecting 28 points while Charlie Scott, the ABA's leading scorer with a 35 point average, picked up 27.

Poky and Teton lead mat meet

BOISE — Ever powerful Teton took a big lead in the B division while Pocatello managed a one-half point edge over surprising Nampa in the opening round of the state wrestling tournament Thursday.

Semi-finals were slated for Friday afternoon and evening with the final going Saturday night.

Teton piled up 21 points to take a big 11-point lead over runner-up North Fremont. With no placement points yet awarded, the score means Teton had to win 11 matches as the maximum for Thursday was two provided it was won by T pin.

Magie Valley's showing in the B division came from Valley which picked up 7 points while district champion Declo won only one and wound up with two.

On the A side, Pocatello had 15 points against 15 for Nampa. Twin Falls won four matches to lead Magie Valley entries with 7½ while district champion Jerome won four also and had seven points, one more than Buhl. Twin Falls was fourth in the district, tournament, finishing behind those two along with runner-up Burley, which picked up only two points.

horoscope

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful day to put your affairs of a material nature in good order and to enjoy yourself as you like best during the daytime. Be careful not to upset others tonight, or get the wrong impression about a companion who seems to be too greedy but actually isn't.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Spend part of this day wisely getting financial affairs nicely planned and handled. Strive for more security in the future. Trust your own good judgment.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Come to better terms with those who can be of assistance to you in the future. Attend group affairs that bring the most pleasure to you. Dress nicely. Be wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Enjoy yourself with good friends whose aims are similar to yours. Plan the future so that it will be what you desire it to be. Avoid intrigues that are annoying.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Being with allies who are loyal is best today. You are able to gain a personal wish that was not possible before now. Be sure you take the right steps.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Doing whatever stamps you as an excellent citizen is wise today. Follow every rule and regulation that applies to you and gain added prestige with the public.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study every enlightening angle of opportunities that are possible and then take quick action. Listen to what experts have to suggest. Show that you have ability.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take care not to make mistakes when paying bills or making out reports, or it could be costly to you and others. Fall in with your mate's mood for having fun.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If your joint associates in pleasurable pursuits, you can come to a fine mutual understanding. Activity out of doors is very good for your health. Stop worrying.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) An ideal day for shopping for something you need very much. Make sure the price is right. Later engage in those pleasant activities that keep you trim.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Contacting good friends can make this a most pleasurable day for you in their company. Make sure you express those fine talents you possess and become more popular.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) This is a fine day to make necessary improvements at home. You have to be more practical in your outlook to get the right results. Contact a relative tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A fine time to find out what your true position is with partners and to make the right overtures for greater harmony in the future. Show that you have wisdom.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those interesting young people who wants to be financially secure, so be sure to give the kind of education that prepares your youngster for a happy and satisfying life. Banking, business and artistic professions are very fine here.

Few Survive Great Film

"I have forgot much, Cynara! GONE WITH THE WIND, 'Hung roses, roses, riotously with the throng.'"

Ernest Dowson

Consider the cast of major actors and actresses in that classic film "Gone With the Wind." Am asked who among them, if any, survive today? Only Olivia DeHavilland, Gone are Clark Gable, Vivian Leigh, Leslie Howard, Laura Hope Crews, Paul Hurst, Harry Davenport, Ward Bond, Hattie McDaniel, George Reeves, Olin Howland, Gone also, writer Margaret Mitchell, scenarist Sidney Howard, director Victor Fleming, designer William Menzies. Here's to them all — clink! And to Miss DeHavilland the 100th birthday.

AS TO ITS NUMBER of earthquakes, no doubt you know Japan ranks No. 1 in the world. But can you name the nation that rates No. 2? Neither could I. It's Italy, turns out.

THE HARD FACTS

By the time they're 25, half the men in this country are married. The same can be said for only a quarter of the men in Europe.

ALL RIGHT, one million dollars' worth of $100 bills in a stack would be 40 inches high, remember that.

THOSE LADIES in Women's Lib may be glad to hear that girls definitely are better pearl divers than men. That's been proved.

IF A WOMAN is to commit murder, odds run three out of four she'll do that thing in her own home, most probably in her kitchen. If a man commits murder in his home, he's most apt to do it in the bedroom.

QUERIES

Q. "How thick is that ice over the Arctic Ocean?"

A. Seven to 10 feet in most places.

Q. "WHAT'S the smallest state capital?"

A. Carson City, Nev.

Q. "HOW many starting college freshmen actually get their degrees?"

A. About 45 per cent.

ONE WOMAN in 12 last year lost some sort of cash. Only one man in 20 did likewise. By "lost," I mean said currency or coins just disappeared from her purse or his wallet. How do you account for the fact the women in these unfortunate situations considerably outnumber the men?

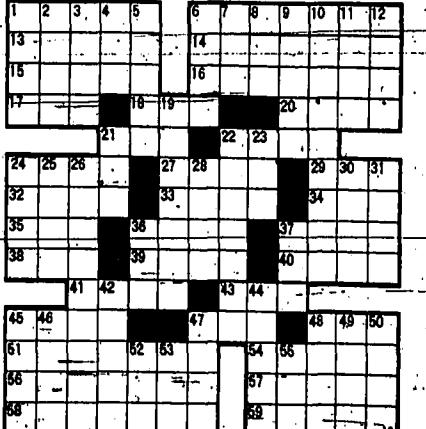

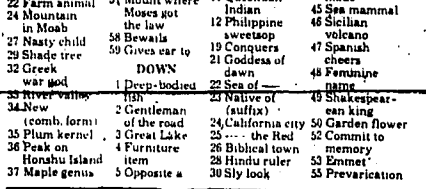

NO MATTER how tricky the machine might be, it's got to be based on one of six mechanical principles. Name them: Spring that test query at the dinner table on your family mechanic. He hasn't completed his course, if he doesn't say the lever, the wheel and axle, the pulley, the inclined plane, the wedge and the screw. Tomorrow, basic chemistry. Don't miss it!

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock prices moved broadly lower in early active trading Friday. It was a specialty market, with a number of issues reacting to corporate news.

As of 1 p.m., the Dow Jones Industrial average had dropped 5.64 to 916.39. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index 0.38 to 105.21. Of 1,647 issues traded, declines outnumbered advances, 804 to 495. Volume totaled 10.3 million shares, against 13.4 million changing hands after three hours Thursday.

The most active issue was Curtis-Wright, which gave up 2 1/4. Its opening was delayed by an influx of orders. The issue has gone through a sharp rise followed by profit taking in the past two weeks with news the company acquired the North American license to make the revolutionary Wankel Rotary combustion engine.

G.D. Searle, also delayed in opening, lost more than 3. The drug firm is benefiting from favorable speculation in Wall Street regarding a new sugar substitute of the firm.

In the chemicals Du Pont added a large fraction. Dow and Eastman Kodak dropped more than a point apiece.

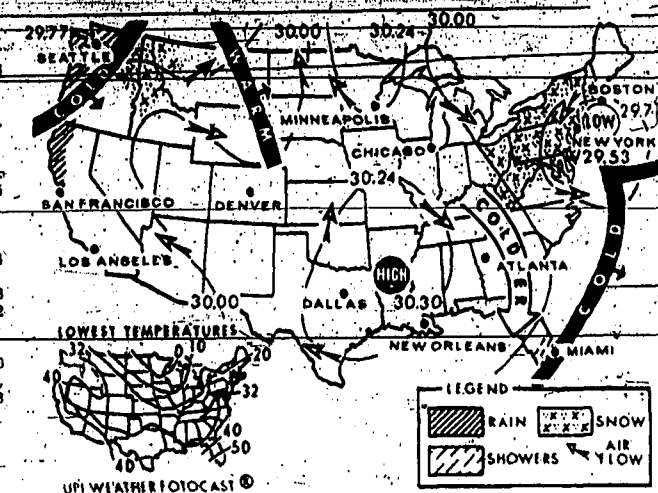

Natamox with a 2-point gain and Superior Oil, up a point, bucked a generally lower trend in the oils. Motors were mixed.

In the airlines KLM, off 4 Thursday, fell another 1/4. The carrier reported a loss for its latest nine-month period. It had a huge profit in the year earlier period. Aircrafts and rails moved down fractionally.

Other point-size movers included Polaroid up 1/4, IBM a point. American Telephone was unchanged.

Occasional showers on Saturday

Twin Falls, northside, Burley-Rupert area: Partly cloudy tonight. Increasing clouds Saturday with occasional rain showers. Overnight lows in the mid 20s. High Saturday 40 to 50. Outlook for Sunday, cloudy with chance of snow in the mountains. Partly cloudy tonight.

Increasing clouds Saturday with chance of rain in the valleys and snow in the mountains. Overnight lows in the 20s. High Saturday 40 to 50. Outlook for Sunday, cloudy with chance of snow in the mountains. Partly cloudy tonight.

Rockies this morning. This caused some rain in the valleys of Washington and northern Idaho and some snow over the mountains. This moist air moved out of a large storm area off the West Coast.

The major storm to the west is moving slowly eastward and will bring some precipitation across southern Idaho Saturday and possibly Sunday as the main part of the storm moves inland.

The air moving in from around the east side of the Pacific storm to the west is pleasantly warm. The temperatures over southern Idaho climbed into the low 50s yesterday in this airstream.

SNOW Conditions

Forest Service reports indicate snowmobiling is excellent in the Ketchum, Fairfield and South Hills areas and good in Hailey with snow cover becoming shallow there. Country skiing is also listed as excellent.

MAGIC MOUNTAIN
 Magic Mountain has 1 1/2 inches of new snow this week with 100 inches at the top and 84 inches at the lodge. Temperatures in the daytime range around 30 to 35 degrees and the area is operating Friday through Sunday. Bus service is available Saturday and Sunday from Lynwood. Road conditions are good but snow tires are required.

SOLDIER MNT.
 Soldier Mountain, 56 inches of snow at the top of the ski runs. 48 at the lodge with three inches of new snow this week. Temperatures are 30 to 35 degrees and sky has been clear with some high clouds during the afternoons. The area operates Thursday through Sunday and the road is good with some mud in the lower area and snow tires required in the higher elevations. The area will be open Monday.

POMERELLE
 Pomerelle has three inches of new snow and 122 inches at the top of the ski runs and 84 inches at the lodge. Temperatures are 30 to 35 degrees with some melting in lower parts of the road. Upper areas still have some one-way traffic and snow tires are recommended. Pomerelle operates Friday through Sunday this week.

SUN VALLEY
 Sun Valley reports 58 inches at the top of Baldy, 46 at the Roundhouse and 25 inches on the Valley floor. A trace of new snow has fallen and temperatures are 30 to 40 degrees. The road is dry and weather has been clear and sunny. All runs and bowls are open.

ROTO-RUN
 Rotorun has 18 inches of snow with no new snow. Temperatures are 25 to 35 degrees and the road is bare and dry. The resort operates Saturday and Sunday with night skiing Tues. and Thursday.

View microbook reader

CSI equipment loaned school

TWIN FALLS — The library at the Idaho State School for the Deaf and Blind grew by 20,000 volumes Thursday morning.

At a brief ceremony at the office of College of Southern Idaho's president Dr. James E. Taylor, college officials loaned the state school a microbook reader. The $125 piece of equipment will allow students at the Goshute facilities to "borrow" any of the college's 20,000 volumes in its microbook library.

The college's head librarian, Dr. Bruce Harrison, said the college is extending into cooperative efforts with community groups and schools "wherever it can and ought to."

Edward Reay, director of the state school, said the facilities present library has about 7,000 volumes. He said it would rely the micro reader from the college until it could purchase its own.

The microbook enables a student to read an entire book; microscopically reduced and printed on a single rectangular plastic card. The card is inserted into the machine, illuminated and magnified onto a viewing screen, a page at a time.

Dr. Taylor said the 20,000 books in the college's library are available "for the state school a few at a time, for the price of a postage stamp."

Along with the reader, Reay also received a complete author's catalog of the books from the college. Harrison said the 20,000 volumes covered the history of America from its pre-independence days to the early 20th century.

The college has six of the readers, officials said, and is ordering more.

Farmers night set at Jerome

JEROME — The annual stag Farmers Night program will be held Feb. 28 at 8 p.m. at the National Guard armory, according to Pete Schmidt, chairman of the event.

Schmidt said the program will feature Ponci Ponci, a member of the cast of the television show "Hawaii Five-O," who will be performing at Jackpot, Nev., at that time.

Details of the show will be released later, Schmidt said.

He said Jack Morley will be master of ceremonies and other committee assignments include meal preparation, Larry Fleming, Alan Mencher, Leo Alfitt and Schmidt; food serving, Alfitt, Schmidt and Mencher; refreshments, Clayton Toler and Francis Boyd; stage, Walter Bentzinger, Dick Rice, Charles Hosman and Schmidt; sound, Archie Anderson; chairs, Walt Thueson, Pat Crutchley, Hosman, Rice, Schmidt and Bentzinger; and greetings, Mike Sullivan and Mac Ambrose.

The program is being sponsored by the Jerome Chamber of Commerce.

Methodist women hold Burley fete

'Heart Sunday' planned

JEROME — This Sunday has been designated as Heart Sunday, according to Mrs. H.S. (Lora) Hurd, chairman.

Heart Sunday climaxes a week of general solicitation in the Jerome area for the Idaho Heart Association, which is participating in the nationwide start of American Heart Month in February.

Vivian Luckman is Heart

Fund campaign chairman for Jerome county.

Helping Mrs. Luckman the past week in the drive were Mike Buhler and Roger Samson who solicited funds in the business district. Mrs. John Miller, educational chairman.

Mrs. Joe Duffek, memorial chairman and Maxine Stroder, treasurer.

Heading the drive in the Eden-Hazelton area is Mrs. Rex McClain.

During the week members of the County Neighbors Home Extension Club, under the direction of Mrs. Buck Thompson, contacted rural residents.

The value of world offshore oil production is about $5 billion a year.
