Presents petition

CHRIS McKIM, student-body president at Minico High School, presents a petition asking for creation of a student-faculty board of review, and for a policy allowing wearing of headbands at the school, to district trustees at Monday night meeting.

Smoking heats up Minico meeting

BY LEETREMAINE
Times-News writer

RUPERT — The controversial issues of smoking and headband wearing brought a hot debate to the Minico County School Board Monday night.

Trustees of the district heard a number of requests from Minico High School students to allow smoking in student cars parked at the school, despite school policy prohibiting smoking near the school.

The students said they are all 18 years of age, and are allowed to smoke by state law, thus school district policy would not apply to them. At least, one of the students had been suspended from school for a brief period for disobeying the no-smoking rule.

She declared that "You're depriving students of their education by expelling them for smoking."

Trustee Fern Hunter replied that "We're going to do a lot of trouble and cost to keep you in school. If you get out of school, you will find lots of places that do not allow smoking."

Mitchell claims ITT link 'false'

By ROY McNEE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell told Senate investigators today he discussed general anti-trust policy last year with ITT's president but said suggestions linking him to a settlement with the corporation were "totally false and totally without foundation."

Mitchell, who resigned recently as head of the Justice Department to become President Nixon's campaign manager, denied there was any mention of the International Telephone & Telegraph case in his talk with Harold S. Gensem. The Senate Judiciary Committee is investigating charges that an out-of-court settlement of three anti-trust actions against ITT was involved in a pledge by the giant corporation to help underwrite the Republican national convention by as much as $400,000.

The former Cabinet member emphatically denied allegations in a memorandum by an ITT lobbyist, Mrs. Dita D. Beard, that Mitchell was "helping us" in the anti-trust case.

Columbus Jack Anderson published the memorandum, setting off the investigation into the fitness of Mitchell's deputy, Richard O. Kleindienst, to become attorney general.

A member of the committee, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., demanded that a White House aide, Peter M. Flanigan, be called as a witness. Flanigan's name has come up during the hearings and Eagleton described him as "a man who works in the shadows... only with the fattest cats."

Mitchell told the committee he wanted to address himself to "my relationship — or rather my non-relationship — with the case."

He told of twice having had contact with Gensem. The first time, Mitchell said, was at a White House dinner May 27, 1970, also attended by 45 business leaders. He said that was "purely social."

"My second contact with Gensem was on Aug. 4, 1970, in my office," he continued. "My office calendar shows that this meeting could not have lasted more than 35 minutes. It might have been shorter."

Nixon slates Canada visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will visit Canada April 13-15, the White House announced today.

Nixon's course charted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has settled on the course of action he will propose to handle the busing issue, and will reveal his decision before the middle of next week.

The White House gave no hint on the substance of Nixon's plan, except to say that aides have yet to translate the President's broad concepts into specific proposals.

Nixon has been deciding whether to support a constitutional amendment against forced busing or to deal with the problem through legislation. Previous reports indicated it was unlikely he would choose the amendment approach.

A spokesman said Nixon would make his decision known within 10 days, but would do so in a written message to Congress rather than in a broadcast statement. The White House had said previously that Nixon wanted to make his choice on the forced busing issue before today's Florida primary — but to withhold announcing his decision until after that election so that voters passing on busing issues on the ballot there would not be influenced.

Ronald Ziegler, the President's news secretary, said Nixon was not looking for an election year issue in the busing problem but rather "he is looking for action to deal with a problem... action now."

On Capitol Hill a House Judiciary subcommittee was in its third week of hearings on various constitutional amendment proposals to deal with busing. Monday's session saw testimony from four Michigan lawmakers who said they represented 73 members of the 110-member Michigan House in their plea for an antibusing amendment.

In an announcement, issued with Trudeau last Dec. 6-7 to simultaneously by the Canadian government in Ottawa, the White House said the visit would give Nixon and Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau an opportunity "to discuss the current international issues and matters of bilateral interest to the United States and Canada."

The two leaders also met in June, 1969, at ceremonies marking the 10th anniversary of construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway. They conferred first at Messina, N.Y., then flew to Montreal.

The President is expected to give Trudeau a fill-in next month on the approximately 20 hours of talks Nixon had with Premier Chou En-lai in China, Feb. 21-28. Canada has diplomatic relations with the Peking government.

Nixon's visit to Canada also will take place about a month before he travels to Moscow in May for a summit meeting with Soviet leaders.

Shoshone patrons OK facility levy

SHOSHONE — Residents of the Shoshone School District approved Monday a special two-mill school plant facilities levy.

The vote was 166 for to 32 against. School Supt. Kenneth Crothers said the board canvassed the vote during the regular meeting Monday night, reporting the levy carried by 83.8 per cent.

He said the board adopted a resolution expressing appreciation to the voters of the district for their support of the educational programs.

The levy will raise about $8,500 per year and was voted into effect for a 10-year period. Ten years ago the district approved the levy in a similar election.

Funds from the levy are reserved for school bus purchase, building improvement, repair and additional construction and for new school equipment.

Federal state due in Jordan

BEIRUT (UPI) — Baghdad Radio said today King Hussein will declare Jordan a federal state in a press conference he has scheduled for Wednesday.

The radio in the neighboring state of Iraq said Jordan will henceforth be named "The United Arab Kingdom" and will have a Jerusalem-based government for the Israeli-occupied West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

It said in addition there will be an overall federal government in the capital of Amman with representatives from both the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The radio quoted the Iraqi news agency correspondent in Amman as saying Hussein will announce the restructuring of his kingdom at a news conference Wednesday in Amman.

Baghdad Radio said veteran politician Bahjat Talhouqi had been nominated by Hussein as Federal Prime Minister.

According to the broadcast, the kingdom will have a new flag, which is described as "nearer to the Palestinian flag."

Favored Wallace rolls sleeves

Big turnout in Florida primary vote

MIAMI (UPI) — Floridians voted in heavy numbers and beautiful weather today in a presidential primary which was expected to produce a victory for Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and have a crucial effect on the prospects of five major candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination.

A heavy turnout of Negroes — 15 per cent of the electorate — was reported in Fort Lauderdale. In Orlando after two hours, 100 voters had cast ballots in a ballwether precinct where only 40 had voted in the last general election.

At some places in Miami, up to 50 voters were waiting in line when the polls opened.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Henry M. Jackson of Washington and George S. McGovern of South Dakota and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York were battling for second place, conceding victory in advance to Wallace, who rode sentiment against compulsory school busing for all it was worth.

All were optimistic today about their chances of emerging from the nation's second primary — the first to put them all together — with enough support to give impetus to their campaigns in primaries yet to come.

"I think we're going to do very well," Humphrey said, refusing to rule out the possibility that he could even beat Wallace on the strength of his labor, black and Jewish support in Florida.

McGovern said a finish even "close to second" would be "remarkable."

Wallace, who would gain attention and bargaining power at the Miami Beach convention in July if he won a bloc of delegates here, disavowed any intention "at this time" of pulling out of the Democratic party and making the presidential race on a third party ticket. "The people can change the direction of the Democratic party and I can win the nomination," he said in a television interview.

Around St. Petersburg, some poll workers said today's turnout was "the best we've had in years."

Mutuel racing peril charged

BOISE (UPI) — A bill to reenact the old criminal code went to the senate floor today and a house member said if it passes in its present form it can kill pari-mutuel horse racing in Idaho.

Rep. John Molyneux, D-Coeur d'Alene, said he has two private attorneys researching this and other problems that could crop up if the senate bill is enacted into law.

But he said that it appears from a cursory examination of the bill in question that it will take precedence over a number of laws passed by the Idaho Legislature in the past 15 years. Trouble is, Molyneux said, when these other laws were enacted they simply replaced existing sections of criminal law because they took precedence over them by being enacted at a later date.

However, he said, they did not repeal sections of the code on the books.

The Senate Judiciary Committee reported to the floor without recommendation today a bill to reenact the old criminal code as it existed on Dec. 31, 1971.

A new criminal code enacted at the last session went into effect Jan. 1 of this year. This session of the legislature has passed a law to repeal the new code — effective April 1 — and Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has signed it.

Senators tried to put through a bill extending the expiration of the new code until July 1, 1973, but failed Monday.

Gun battle in Ulster kills pair

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Two men were killed early today during an "intense" gun battle in Londonderry between the Irish Republican army (IRA) and the British army shortly after the end of a 72-hour truce proclaimed by the IRA, a British spokesman said.

The spokesman said one of the dead men was a known IRA member. The other was not immediately identified.

Bomb blasts and gunfire rang out across the province only minutes after the unilateral truce declared by the provisional wing of the IRA ended at midnight. One man was killed and five wounded in other incidents late Monday and today.

Colorado governor criticizes 1976 Winter Olympics referendum

DENVER (UPI)—Gov. John A. Love criticized a proposal Monday which called for a referendum to let Coloradans decide whether to spend more state money on planning for the 1976 Winter Olympics.

"As far as I know, the first time we could hold a referendum would be in November, and it seems to me that would be too late," Love said. "The decisions for planning and funding need to go ahead prior to November."

The state already has spent $1.1 million toward planning the Games and the governor has estimated the total cost in Colorado tax money will eventually be $5 million. "We did present, in good faith, a bid for the Winter Games in 1976," Love said. "I certainly have no objections if the people of Colorado change their minds, but I think it would be a mistake since we have gone this far."

Love rejected a Denver newspaper's recent poll showing that a majority of people were opposed to the Games. The newspaper said its poll and a corresponding telephone survey showed a majority of persons thought there should be a referendum to determine if more state funds should be committed to the Games.

"I have no reason to think the questionnaire or the telephone poll were scientifically sound," the governor said. "The last (scientific) poll taken on the Olympics was last year, I believe, and that showed 60 per cent of the people in favor of the Games." The referendum proposal was introduced in the Colorado Legislature by Reps. Charles Lindley, a Republican, and Richard Lamm, a Democrat. Both are from Denver, the host city for the 1976 Games.

"I think the Olympics are basically a national event and that the money to pay for them should come from the federal government," Lindley said.

Official proclaims Egypt ready for Israeli war

By United Press International. Prime Minister Aziz Sidky, in the strongest statement by an Egyptian official in months, has proclaimed Egypt ready for war against Israel.

Sidky, in a speech at a public rally in Aswan, said Monday "The time has come to realize our hope of liberating the land and regaining our rights after nearly five years of preparing for that objective."

"What was taken by force can only be regained by force," he said, "and the Egyptian armed forces are capable now of realizing what is required of them. Therefore, the day on which they will move to liberate the land is drawing nearer."

The prime minister's statement was the strongest made by a high-ranking Egyptian official so far this year. President Anwar Sadat had set 1971 as the "year of decision" on whether there would be war or peace in the Middle East, but since the deadline passed with a tenuous cease-fire still in effect with Israel, he has moderated his statements, particularly in the past month.

Egypt also has not become involved in the Israeli reprisal attacks on Arab guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon, including a four-day strike against a number of villages. The Arab commandos have been hitting at targets in Israel from their bases in Lebanon and Israel has been using the attacks as an attempt to convince the Lebanese government to take action to oust the guerrillas.

Sidky said that Egypt now was capable of retaliating against Israeli raids deep into Egyptian territory.

"We know that when the battle begins the enemy will not hesitate to attack our rear lines," he said. "Therefore, we had to prepare ourselves to absorb the blows and shoulder the losses that we may be able to achieve victory."

Indians bent on revenge

DACCA (UPI)—Reliable reports said Monday that revenge-seeking Bengalis stabbed and beat to death 300 to 1,000 Biharis in the southern city of Khulna, tossing their bodies into a nearby river to be washed out to sea.

The reports said the victims included women and children. Another 250 Biharis were reported being treated at Khulna Hospital, mainly for stab wounds and beatings.

The deaths came in the wake of a withdrawal of Indian troops from the new country of Bangladesh, formerly East Pakistan.

Most of the residents of the new country harbor a long-smoldering hatred for the Biharis, who look over most of the top jobs and supported Pakistan in the two-week Indo-Pakistani war that ended Dec. 18.

Officials predicted violence between the Bengalis and the Biharis as soon as Indian troops returned to their homeland.

The reports said there was no formal count of the victims and gave no clear cause for the slaughter.

One version said the killing started Friday, following the murder of a Bengali whose body was discovered near the Bihari colony.

Angered by the murder and resentful because the Biharis took most of their jobs at one of the city's jute mills before the war, the Bengalis reportedly poured into the Bihari settlement, armed with bamboo staffs, knives and machetes.

Most of the dead were thrown into a nearby river and the wounded were left in the streets, the reports said.

Politicians search Florida's primary

MIAMI (UPI)—When the returns from the Florida primary begin rolling in tonight, politicians all over the country will be looking for indicators that might tell them a little more clearly who the Democratic presidential candidate will be in November.

These are some of the things to look for:

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace — If he runs a strong race in Florida, better than the 28.5 per cent he polled in the 1968 presidential contest, he could become a major factor in other primary states, go to the national convention with a sizeable bloc of delegates, and play the role of spoiler to the end. A poor race here where the vote is basically conservative, the busing issue is at its peak, and parts of the state are still Old South would be a serious setback and might push him into a third party candidacy more quickly.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine — Farnished by failing to win 50 per cent of the vote last week in the New Hampshire primary, Muskie needs to recoup if he has any hopes of starting a pre-convention bandwagon. A second place to Wallace would be acceptable, a third behind Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota would hurt, and a fourth behind Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson would make him just another candidate going into the April 4 Wisconsin primary.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota — Going into his first 1972 primary, Humphrey has to convince the professionals he can still appeal to the Democratic voters despite his 1968 loss to President Nixon on a treadmill. Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota — Although he expects little out of Florida and will take anything he gets here as a bonus, McGovern is matched against New York Mayor John V. Lindsay in an important fight for the liberal vote. If McGovern can beat Lindsay he could emerge as the dominant candidate on the Democratic left.

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York — The Florida primary, where he has invested heavily, is considered crucial for Lindsay's hopes. He must edge McGovern to stake out his claim as a serious contender for the nomination and enhance his chances in Wisconsin.

Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York — The only woman and the only black on the ballot, Mrs. Chisholm has campaigned off-and-on in Florida. Politicians will watch to see if she cuts into the black and youth vote.

Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana — Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota and Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas — None of them campaigned in Florida and are on the ballot because a state committee put them there. None of them is considered a factor.

and the image he still carries as President Johnson's vice president. If he can run ahead of or even with Muskie, Humphrey will have started the long road to proving his claim that he deserves a rematch. A finish behind Wallace, Muskie and Jackson would tend to damage that claim.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington — Also entering his first primary, Jackson claims he can finish ahead of Muskie or Humphrey or maybe both. If he does, Jackson will pick up steam for the forthcoming primaries and make his candidacy — which appeals more to the right than to the left — more believable. A fourth place finish would leave him running on a treadmill. Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota — Although he expects little out of Florida and will take anything he gets here as a bonus, McGovern is matched against New York Mayor John V. Lindsay in an important fight for the liberal vote. If McGovern can beat Lindsay he could emerge as the dominant candidate on the Democratic left.

Inspection data on TF schools set

BY RUTH MILLER

Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — A comprehensive report on the condition of buildings in Twin Falls School District No. 411 should be presented at the April 10 board meeting.

George Staudaher, superintendent, said Monday night architect Ed Peterson of CTA architects, has inspected each of the district's schools and his report should be complete in time for the April meeting.

Staudaher said Peterson's report will include the condition of each building, what needs to be done and how critical the need is.

The report is preparatory to a bond issue which trustees had hoped to present to voters this spring.

Staudaher said the bond proposal is being scheduled primarily because an architect to do the school study was not hired until several weeks after he had hoped.

The next step in the proposed bond issue will be formation of a committee which will determine justification of needs, desires of the community and the willingness to program a bond issue election.

Staudaher said he did not know how long it would take to get the committee formed and functioning but this must be done before a bond issue is called for. The time-table set out last fall had called for the committee to be formed in mid-winter and the bond vote to be this spring.

Staudaher said he did not know when the vote might be set, but "we won't do it during the summer." He said he would rather wait until fall if necessary, pointing out that many electors are out of town during the summer months and that people are not "quite as interested" in schools when they are not in session.

Staudaher said this morning no specific dollar amount has been mentioned for the issue. This he said, is contingent of the feeling of the citizens' committee and what priorities it feels should be covered by the issue.

First priority according to Staudaher is construction of an elementary school on the 10 acres north of the stadium at the high school, the addition of four teaching stations are Harrison Elementary and at Morningside Elementary and replacement of Happy Day

Priority N. 21s construction of a vocational building or addition to existing facilities at Twin Falls High School.

Addition of four classrooms to Robert Stuart Junior High School and three to the special education school at Robert Stuart are listed as third priority.

Fourth priority would be purchase of 10 acres south of Twin Falls to provide place for construction for students in that growth area.

Several supplemental priorities also are listed.

If a bond proposal passes, the Washington-Elementary-School property would be sold, with the purchase price to be applied to reduce the amount of the issue.

Washington School is in a precarious position, Staudaher said in his priority proposal last fall, not only from a student safety standpoint, but because highway repairs and improvements may require its eventual abandonment.

Staudaher said that while no amount has been set out in the bond issue, contingent on architectural estimates and approval by the citizens' committee, the district is limited to $3.3 million bonded indebtedness.

Volunteer workers

Class starts each week with ecology

TWIN FALLS—Members of the fourth grade class in Room 11 of Bickel School have been starting each week with a lesson in ecology.

As a result more than 300 pounds of debris has been collected each week from Harmon Park.

The class, accompanied by the teacher, Mrs. Connie Hamilton, uses large burlap, plastic or paper bags to collect trash left in Harmon Park during the weekend.

Mrs. Hamilton said the project will continue each Monday morning for eight weeks. Pupils walk to Harmon Park, spend the first hour cleaning up the park area and then walk back to school.

Pupils are working with the Johnny Horizon program of the Bureau of Land Management and have written the BLM office concerning their project.

One of the pupils said they have collected everything from discarded shoes to forgotten coats and jackets, silverware, dishes and pounds and pounds of picnic papers and pop and beer cans have been picked up.

The class members have been returning the debris to the school where it is picked up by the sanitation collector. Mrs. Hamilton said she hopes they are not imposing too much on this service and if they are arrangements will be made with the city for hauling the debris away.

Election aides approved Window damage continues in TF

TWIN FALLS — Officials for the April 4 rezoning election for the Twin Falls School District were approved Monday night. The State Board of Education had previously approved the rezoning proposal and on April 4 district electors will be asked to express their opinions.

The rezoning will more evenly distribute population in the five trustee zones, but will move board chairman Elmer Sommer and trustee Dr. H. W. Ronk together into Zone 5 and assistant chairman John Wolfe and Frank DeLuca together into Zone 1. Mrs. Ruth B. Day will be the only trustee unaffected by the rezoning.

Places for the election will be Bickel, Lincoln and Washington elementary schools, Robert Stuart Junior High School and the Twin Falls High School. Voters can cast ballots at any of the polling places from noon to 6 p.m.

Election officials named Monday night are Mrs. Donna Christensen, Mrs. Bernard Ruffing, Mrs. Howard G. Arrington, Mrs. June Eldredge, Mrs. George Wilkening, Mrs. Lulu Shumway, Mrs. Nell Young, Greta Smith, Mrs. Vera Rauch, Mrs. Victor McBeth, Mrs. Bonnie Williams, Mrs. Virginia Hack, Lewis Hack, Mrs. Merle Miller and Mrs. Evelyn Hoover.

TWIN FALLS — Window damage continues in Twin Falls, city police report, with several additional business firms and homes reporting broken glass. Sears Roebuck Co., where about $100 for one large window, several large store windows Ek Furnace Co., 464 8th St. W., were broken by marauders last week, reported another window was damaged during the estimated at $25.

Jerome hires 2 teachers

JEROME — Jerome School Trustees Monday night signed contracts for two teachers.

Mrs. Napina Cummings was hired to replace Mrs. Carla Dillinger as high school English teacher, and Mrs. Dixie J. Parton to replace Sandra Hight as physical education teacher and drill team instructor.

Mrs. Cummings, 32, Boise, has a B.S. in home economics and English from the University of Idaho. Mrs. Parton, 22, has a B.S. in elementary social and education sciences from the University of Idaho.

The contracts are for the remainder of this year and both teachers will assume their duties immediately.

The trustees approved a recommendation from Superintendent John Campbell that the drill team be given permission to attend the state competition in Boise this Saturday. At the last school board meeting, it was brought out that some difficulties with the drill team members might prevent them from attending the competition in Boise.

Also at that meeting, the resignation of Miss Hight was approved. She stated she was resigning because of medical reasons and because she felt she was unable to handle the drill team members.

See related story page 13

Campbell reported to the board that the drill team had been working hard and that most of the problems had been worked out.

The tentative calendar for the district for 1972-73 school year was approved. School registration will be Aug. 21-23. The starting day of school is set for August 22 and ending May 24. Approval was also given to the Jerome Kiwanis Club to rent the junior high school audiovisual room or the Jefferson grade school auditorium.

Superintendent Campbell read a letter from the Kiwanis Club requesting use of the facilities to show cartoons and other movies to the youngsters in the community.

The letter stated it would be a service project for the club and it is not anticipated at this time that there would be a profit motive. A charge may be assessed, however, to cover the cost of obtaining the film and any other expenses incurred.

It was brought out at Monday night's meeting that the distributive education program would be dropped from the curriculum of the high school next year. Campbell said the instructor LaVere Gooch, reported that the program has not been working out, in his opinion, and he could see no reason to continue it.

The distributive education program was set up to try to give high school students on-the-job training by having local merchants hire them as paid employees a few hours a week.

TF County aides plan meet today

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners are planning to meet this afternoon with Parks and Sons Sanitation Service to discuss possible county collection of solid waste.

William L. (Bill) Chancey, commission chairman, said the county is faced with making arrangements for county-wide collection and disposal of solid waste.

He said the commissioners are interested in obtaining estimates on cost and a proposal for collection of waste throughout the county for further consideration as to future plans.

Park and Sons handle the trash collection for the city of Twin Falls and in several other areas of the state.

Trustees to call for bids

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school trustees voted Monday night to call for bids for re-roofing Harrison, Morningside and Lincoln Schools.

Meeting in regular session, the trustees heard recommendations from James Long, buildings and grounds supervisor for the district, that skylights at Lincoln School should be done away with if re-roofing is done.

Long said it has been 16 years since portions of the Lincoln roof have received repair. He said skylights, especially in the rooms, provide no usable functions and the windows are often broken.

Trustees authorized the administration to obtain an architect to make estimates for doing away with the skylights and re-roofing the schools and to call for bids.

Trustees voted to call for bids for three new pickup trucks to replace three 1963 models being used by the schools. Estimated cost is $2,500 per vehicle.

A contract with Kirkman Brothers Transportation to provide school bus service for the district was signed by Dick Kirkman and board chairman Elmer Sommer.

Trustees also voted to enter into an agreement for Title I assistance in the food services program for the summer months. Under this program Twin Falls School District No. 411 can receive commodities.

4 youths hurt in Declo crash

BURLEY — Four teenagers were listed in good condition Tuesday at Cassia Memorial Hospital following a one-car rollover Monday night.

Kelly Peterson, 16, Heyburn, was driving a 1964 sedan northeast on a county road four miles north of Declo at 9:20 p.m. Monday. It came into a curve, went off the road with the nose of the vehicle striking a drainage ditch and the car rolled onto its left side and came to rest on its top.

The vehicle was demolished. Mike Simcoe, 16, Burley, was thrown from the vehicle when it rolled. The other occupants remained in the vehicle. The remaining two persons are Larry Samuelson, 16, Declo, and Ryan Weech, 16, Burley. All four youths were taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Garage destroyed in Twin Falls fire

TWIN FALLS — A one-car garage was destroyed by fire Monday afternoon at 445-2nd Ave. West.

The structure, owned by Noel Dickenson, Twin Falls, was empty. Twin Falls Fire Department officials said the garage was gutted by the fire. No damage to surrounding buildings was reported. The building was not attached to the house.

Firemen had the blaze out shortly after arriving at the scene.

The cause of the fire is not known and no damage estimates have been set.

Probe Of TV Operations

WASHINGTON — The television industry is unhappily girding for another and potentially highly painful confrontation with a long-time Congressional critic.

Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, is getting ready to schedule public hearings for a sweeping investigation of TV and its operations.

For months, committee staffmen have been gathering material for the probe throughout the country.

While all three major networks — ABC, NBC and CBS — are slated to be grilled, CBS unquestionably is due to be the principal target. Staggers has not forgotten or forgiven the failure last summer to cite CBS for contempt.

After stormy wrangling, the House turned this down 226 to 181. It was openly charged the rejection was the direct result of tremendous lobbying and pressure.

Staggers' demand that CBS be cited for contempt was based on a detailed inquiry of the network's intensely controversial "Selling of the Pentagon." The program was heatedly denounced by top military officials and Congressional leaders for gross distortions, falsifications and deliberately biased manipulations.

From the acrid tenor of the House debate, it was clear the legislators were leery of cracking down on CBS because of possible infringement of freedom of the press.

Throughout the furious rhetoric, the network was denounced in unsparring terms by Republicans and Democrats. "Deceitful," "dishonest," "distorted," "devious," "irresponsible" were some of the scathing castigations. Of the numerous participants in the discussions, not one said a word in approval or defense of the CBS feature.

as part of a probe of the whole industry.

Recently, the one-time New Orleans newsmen told the House:

"It has been more than a year since the nostrils of America's television audience were choked with the stench of the irresponsible, politically curious presentation disguised by the title 'The Selling of the Pentagon.' The odor has never faded, as witnessed by the most recent analysis published by Accuracy in Media, an independent organization which will not let the truth die."

Thus, after a year of squeamish, pusillanimous explanations by the Columbia Broadcasting System, the truth continues to emerge. As the AIM study concludes, "Many of the questions CBS did not answer probed the most serious flaw, the fact that 'Selling of the Pentagon' was fundamentally dishonest. That is why CBS has not answered AIM's deeply probing questions."

Similarly, Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., another long-time House member and former television news commentator, bluntly warned the National Association of TV Program Executives to watch its step.

Unless a more effective job of self-regulation is done, he admonished, government control, if not actual ownership, is "almost inevitable."

Staggers, 24-year Congressional veteran, is quiet-spoken and quiet-mannered. But the House's rebuff cut him to the quick, especially after the blistering bipartisan excoriation of CBS. The tenacious West Virginian determined to continue the fight and quietly ordered a full-scale investigation of the entire television industry.

In this contemplated crusading, Staggers has influential House support; for example:

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the powerful Armed Services Committee and one of the sharpest critics of "Selling of the Pentagon," has vigorously encouraged renewing the fight against CBS.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

About Drugs

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In recent years most topnotch weightlifters and many football players, shot-putters and other strength athletes have started taking anabolic steroids.

I am a weightlifter. The weights I presently lift would have made me a top contender five years ago; but today this same total is barely good enough to qualify. To be competitive I feel I must take this drug.

Before I do, I would like more information. What does the drug actually do in the body? In your opinion do the obvious benefits outweigh the dangers? — J.J.

You might give your age, which didn't seem very important. These drugs you mention are potent androgen — male hormones, that is.

True, the drug is anabolic, meaning that it has a positive influence on body cells. But if taken before you have reached your full growth, it could have a stunting effect because of its influence on the ends of the long bones.

The drug also can have a harmful effect on the prostate gland, and the manufacturers warn that liver damage can occur in individuals who are sensitive to it.

While the drug is neither a narcotic nor a hallucinogen, in my opinion — and you asked my opinion — it has to be classed along with the other drugs in the current concept of drug abuse. It is the desire to obtain either sensation or ability beyond the normal dimensions of human activity. And, like some of the other drugs, it remains to be decided conclusively what long-term overuse may do.

Drugs of many kinds are useful in controlling disease conditions and bringing the body back to a normal healthy state. But virtually all (I can't think of any exceptions) carry the potential of doing harm. That, in plain language, is what we are talking about when we refer to "side effects."

Yours is not the first letter I've received on this subject and, with all honesty as a physician, I have to say this: We know that the drug can be harmful; we probably do not yet know the full extent of possible harm, and it will take years to find out — perhaps at the cost of irreversible damage to some of the people now using the drug.

The primary use of androgen is in elderly, debilitated adults whose glandular output has slowed down, so giving the androgen is a matter of replacing some of the material their glands no longer provide in needed quantity. I'd as soon leave it that way.

If, some years from now, we find that overuse of the drug has incurably harmed the users, I hope you won't be one of them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I used birth control pills for a number of years. Now I am blessed with a wanted pregnancy.

Would the amount of estrogen in the pills over the years have any lasting effect on my newborn — if a boy, cause of feminine behavior or lead to other problems? — Mrs. W.J.Z.

No such difficulties have been observed so far, and in view of the millions of women who have used the pill for varying periods, I don't think you have anything to worry about.

The Politicians

WASHINGTON — One of the biggest clichés of American politics is that politicians are no different from anybody else.

"They put on their pants one leg at a time." Everyone has accepted this without question, and while I hate to destroy another myth I can now reveal after some very difficult research that politicians are different from other people, at least when it comes to putting on their pants.

The first clue I had to this was when I read a book about Lyndon Johnson and how he dressed when he was President. Mr. Johnson had two Secret Service men hold his pants as he sat on his bed, and he put both legs into them at the same time. This certainly made him different from the rest of us and I decided to pursue the subject of other political leaders.

President Nixon, for example, has his valet lay his pants on the bed, and then the valet leaves the room so the President can make his decision in private. He keeps a yellow legal pad by his bedside where he writes out all the alternatives. Will it be better to put his right leg into his pants first, or will it be better to put his left leg? What will be the political repercussions if Jack Anderson finds out how he puts his pants on? Will the electorate think less of him if he puts his pants on like everybody else? What would happen if he didn't put on his pants at all?

Occasionally he might ask Henry Kissinger's opinion or call up John Mitchell wondering how he should do it, but the final decision has to be Mr. Nixon's. It is probably the loneliest decision that any President of the United States has to make.

When it comes to putting on his pants, no one agonizes more about it than Sen. Edmund Muskie. Since he doesn't want to offend either the left or the right he usually sticks his foot into the center of his pants, this, of course, causes complications as it takes him over an hour to put them on and makes him late for his appointments all day long. Sometimes Sen. Muskie gets so angry when he tries to put on his pants that he is short-tempered all day long. His staff has been working on this and hopes to have a solution to the problem before the July convention.

Sen. George McGovern has a different problem. He has only one pair of pants and he has to be very careful when he puts them on so that he doesn't tear them. Before becoming a presidential candidate he always put on his shoes first. But when Frank Mankiewicz took over as campaign manager he persuaded McGovern to put on his pants first and then his shoes. This changed McGovern's image overnight and he has lost his serious demeanor, and seems much more relaxed as a candidate.

Gov. George Wallace, on the other hand, goes through three pairs of pants before he gets one on. What he does is jump out of bed in the morning and he is so excited to get going that he rips the pants as he is trying to get into them. His people have tried to persuade him to take it easier when he's getting dressed, but Wallace says, "Nobody, not the Supreme Court, nor those Eastern Establishment press lords nor those Washington bureaucrats are going to tell me how to put on my pants."

Sen. Hubert Humphrey has been identified with President Johnson's hard-line pants policy until late in the 1968 campaign, and many people feel this cost him the election. This year Humphrey no longer has to worry about Johnson and he has let it be known that when it comes to putting on his pants, he's his own man. He has told audiences, "At least now when I put on my pants I no longer have my foot in my mouth."

Sen. Teddy Kennedy refused to say how he puts on his pants in the morning as he was afraid that people would think he was a candidate for the Presidency. But people close to him told me that if there was a deadlock in Miami at the Democratic convention, Kennedy would be willing to put on his pants and accept a draft.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Neck And Neck

MIAMI (NEA) — Sen. Edmund Muskie has the best organizational muscle in today's Florida presidential primary, but Sen. Hubert Humphrey has himself. And that makes them a pretty close match for what is expected to be a runner-up spot behind leading Gov. George Wallace.

Muskie's highly professional managers applying their skills in what is probably the most efficient voter canvass this state has ever seen. In a state unaccustomed to political combat on this level, it isn't easy. Says one manager:

"Trying to organize Florida for a primary campaign is like putting your hand in a bowl of mashed potatoes."

The systematic chocha in Miami and other key cities provide strong indications of wide support for Muskie, though only one or two analysts are bold enough to suggest he might wrest first place from Wallace.

Muskie aides think their man has the prospect of winning national convention delegates from three to six of Florida's 12 congressional districts. But Wallace, expected to take around 30 per cent of the total Democratic vote, is considered a good bet to win nine of 12 districts, and the only man with a chance to win them all.

When Muskie people got a favorable response from a Florida voter in their telephone canvass, a letter from the senator says "Your vote and your help... will be crucial."

Neither Muskie nor Humphrey set Florida afire with stirring campaign speeches. Both have muddy, wobbly positions on the one hot issue here, the busing of school children to foster racial integration. Both say they dislike it but accept it reluctantly as a "tool" usable until other means of providing quality education can be achieved.

Muskie is often tame on the stump. Humphrey seems rankly opportunistic. The other day he stood in a Miami park before a statue of Latin hero Jose Marti and lamented Soviet influence in Cuba. The target: the city's 40,000 registered Cuban voters. One gets the feeling he goes in search of statues to stand in front of.

But the real Humphrey campaign is Hubert meeting people. He has virtually no recognition problem anywhere. He is big with blacks, who make up 15 per cent of Florida's Democratic vote. He is lovingly embraced by the lower middle class Jews in the "South Beach" section of Miami Beach, whose year-around population is 80 per cent Jewish.

Rain and flooded streets broke up a walking tour through a Miami black area one afternoon, but Humphrey wouldn't give up. Peering out of his station wagon, he said:

"If we get a little relief from the rain, we'll jump out of the car and talk to the folks."

Big Questions

Active diplomatic contacts with China through a third nation, possibly Canada, may be announced soon.

In pursuit of the desire for "normalization of relations" between the U.S. and China, an essential preliminary is the provision for a contact point to facilitate a continuing dialogue on mutual interests, including technology, trade, journalism, sports and culture.

The questions of greatest interest to the American people, the release of American war prisoners and the end of hostilities in Vietnam, remain unanswered. While neither the U.S. nor China "is prepared to negotiate on behalf of any third party," the fact is that Premier Chou wants the Americans out of Vietnam, a desire shared by President Nixon contingent upon release of war prisoners. This surely must be taken into account by Hanoi.

Meantime, establishment of a Sino-American contact point on neutral ground and further visits between leaders of both countries should further the growth of trust and understanding.

The forthcoming journey to Peking of the Senate leaders, Mike Mansfield, D-Montana, and Hugh Scott, R-Pennsylvania, at the express invitation of Premier Chou, should be a useful second round of talks.

House members, through Speaker Carl Albert, D-Oklahoma, indicated they wanted to be represented and Chou may broaden his invitation to include House leaders or invite them through the Senators.

In any event, however slight the mutuality of interests between China and the United States, broader contacts carry fresh hope for eventual solutions to long-standing problems.

The North Vietnamese in time may be influenced by the less hostile lead of their Chinese allies and realize that their best interests will be served by freeing the prisoners and letting the Americans leave in peace. They would have nothing to lose and much to gain.

Practical Advice

It was not unexpected that the President's Commission on School Finance would recommend the states absorb most of the cost of education. Courts in three states have ruled to that effect, with a strong possibility that others may follow.

The basis for the commission's recommendation, and court rulings, is the assumption that dependence upon local property taxes automatically works against the quality of education in poorer neighborhoods.

In place of dependency upon local property taxes, the commission offers no alternatives. That decision, it said, ought to rest with the state legislatures. However the funds are raised, the commission said local school districts should contribute no more than 10 per cent of the state allocation.

Whether such a plan would improve the quality of education, or simply strain it, is the question. The assumption that if the per capita contribution was standardized, educational quality would be uniform is a fallacy.

It is a fallacy which, if pursued to its eventual conclusion could help destroy the public school system. If all the school buildings, texts and teaching aids in the nation were identical, there could be no uniformity. Those are not robots being taught. They are children, each with his own different set of aptitudes and interests.

Averaging school per capita costs could raise the standards in some districts. It would lower them in others. And control would be shifting to an ever more distant authority.

The Seasons

Spring will not be officially ushered in until March 20, but it has been apparent for some time that it is on its way. And many outdoor activities are long past the planning stage when spring officially bows in.

But it was somewhat startling to read in a New York dispatch that dress manufacturers in the higher price field are now working on their fall styles, which will be unveiled to merchants in May.

Shipments of summer merchandise, except for late orders to supplement inadequate stocks, are now being completed. The dress industry is now concentrating its efforts on creations to be unveiled in the dress emporiums come fall.

And a dispatch from Detroit reveals that only minor changes will be made in 1973 model automobiles, for which tooling is already under way. Of course, as in the case of the dress manufacturers, details are closely-guarded secrets.

MR. SPECTATOR

This Is The Day

We Magic Valley residents can thank our lucky stars that we do not reside down in Florida on this day. Why? There is one problem. There are 13 folks who want to be President of the United States running in the Florida primary.

There are a few interesting facts involved. For instance, 12 of the candidates are men and one is a woman. The lone gal is Shirley Chisholm, the black Democratic congresswoman from New York. She is 47 years old. The age average of all the candidates is 53.5.

Of the 13, a total of 9 lawyers, three are teachers and one was a pharmacist. Who are they?

Cong. Shirley Chisholm, New York; Senator Vance Hartke, Indiana; Senator Hubert Humphrey, Minnesota; Senator Henry M. Jackson, Washington; Mayor John V. Lindsay, New York City; Senator George McGovern, South Dakota; Cong. Wilbur D. Mills, Arkansas; Senator Edmund S. Muskie, Maine; Governor George C. Wallace, Alabama; Mayor Sam Yorty, Los Angeles, and Eugene McCarthy.

The Republicans: Cong. John Ashbrook, Ohio, and President Richard M. Nixon, from the White House.

So there you have it. And later on this evening you will know the winners.

Aren't you glad you live in Idaho where we have only five or six running for the United States Senate?

Population to increase 25 per cent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A presidential commission believes that the U.S. population will increase nearly 25 per cent by the year 2000, accompanied by growing economic and environmental problems.

The Commission on Population Growth and the American Future recommended that American couples limit themselves to two children.

The commission, after two years of research, concluded in its weekend report to President Nixon and Congress that the current population of 208 million would swell by 50 million over the next 28 years.

"With continued growth, we commit ourselves to a particular set of problems. More rapid depletion of domestic and international resources, greater pressures on the environment, greater dependence on continued rapid technological development to solve these problems and a more contrived and regulated society," the report said.

The commission favored a two-child family average, compared with the present 2.5 children. But even reducing the average to two children would not bring about the desired stabilization of population — when births and deaths are roughly equal and the growth rate is zero — for 70 years.

Msgr. James T. McHugh, director of the Family Life Division of the U.S. Catholic Conference, criticized the report for its "fewer is better" findings.

Commission Chairman John D. Rockefeller III, the father of four, said at a news briefing that the study was cause for neither complacency nor alarm, but that some commitments by individuals would be needed.

The commission will release in the next few weeks findings on abortions and unwanted births and present specific recommendations to reduce population growth.

Buhl horses win top

BUHL — Teen-age Jeff Juker, Buhl, drove his father's cutter racing team to victory in the Bear River Valley Cutting Association Futurity Saturday at Tremonton, Utah.

Bob Juker's team of Bold Diamond Bar and Bar Star Rocket won the All-American Futurity during the two-day meet. The team posted a 10.04 the first day and a 10.01 the second day for a total time of 38.07.

The two-year-old Bar Rocket colts out-paced all other teams in combined time and won races both days on the 350 yard track.

Jeff has been driving the Juker team in races throughout Idaho this season and was one of the drivers of 48 top teams competing in the All American Futurity.

Juker expects to enter his team in the world championship cutter races in Pocatello this month.

Cassia Co. agent has barley info

BURLEY — Information on a new feed barley variety that does well under both irrigated and non-irrigated conditions is available at the Cassia County agent's office.

The new variety will be available to growers in 1973, according to a report by Howard B. Roylance, extension agronomist, University of Idaho, received by J. Wayne Cole, Cassia County agent.

Steppe 6, a six row feed barley, is high yielding, white-kernelled and rough-awned with high test weight and moderate lodging resistance. It also is highly resistant to prevalent barley diseases, according to Roylance.

Steppe out-yielded other feed barleys in trials at Grangeville, Moscow, and Bonners Ferry and in irrigation trials at Aberdeen and Twin Falls. Its one drawback may be its potential for lodging under irrigation, reports Roylance.

Steppe was developed by Washington State University plant breeders and will be increased for seed during 1972. It will be released to growers in 1973 through improvement associations.

Water resource projects threatened by discounts

WALLA-WALLA, Wash. — Half of the water resource projects under consideration by the Corps of Engineers in the Pacific Northwest will become unfeasible if proposed new higher discount rates are approved.

Figures released by H. Calvert Anderson, executive vice president of the Pacific Northwest Waterways Association, show that of 35 projects in Idaho, Oregon, Washington and western Montana which had favorable cost-benefit ratios, at the discount rate in effect which the work was approved, nine would be ruled out by the present 5% percent, 17 by the proposed 7 per cent rate and 19 by the 10 per cent rate.

Washington has 18 projects under consideration of which 4 are out at 7 per cent and 7 at 10 per cent. Western Montana would lose one out of three at the 10 per cent rate.

Major northwest projects which would become unfeasible under a 10 per cent discount rate include the second power house at Bonneville Dam and the power producing regulating structure below Libby Dam in Montana.

"This proposed new principles and standards will be placed in effect by executive order unless we can demonstrate their complete unfairness," Anderson said.

"Adoption of the new criteria would not only impose the unreasonable interest rates but would imperil the consideration of any regional benefit in calculating values of these works."

EPA endorses insecticide use

BURLEY — A cooperative users of ethyl parathion program for safe use of the insecticide — parathion — has dangers of the material so they entered its second year, can take steps to protect themselves, other people and the environment, the program is part of a continuing effort to improve farm safety.

The agricultural chemical industry and federal agencies, including the Environmental Protection Agency, have areas of heavy use. Hospitals, doctors and veterinarians can recommended it be continued, then be alerted so that adequate amounts of antidote are on hand said, is to make sure that all if needed.

Growers approve promotion plan

BURLEY — Potato growers of the United States have approved a national research and promotion plan.

Officials of the USDA Consumer and Marketing Service said the program was approved by 89 per cent of growers voting in a mail referendum during first part of February. The vote in favor of the plan represented 70 per cent of the potato production.

A majority of two-thirds was required.

The program was authorized by special legislation and is based on evidence presented at a public hearing last summer.

The promotion plan will be financed by an assessment of up to one cent per hundred weight of potatoes marketed.

The department of agriculture said several steps are needed before the program goes into effect.

First, the plan will be prepared by the secretary of agriculture. Then there will be nominations in each of the 48 contiguous states followed by election of board members.

Finally, on recommendation of the board, regulations will be issued designating the handlers who will collect assessments and the rates.

Idaho House votes to hold farm bill debate

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the House Agricultural Affairs Committee voted today to postpone debate on a Farm Labor Act extension for at least one day to see what the Senate does with a new plan.

A bill to put back on the books for one year the Farm Labor Act vetoed earlier by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus was up for final consideration in the house today.

A compromise bill drafted by an executive committee appointed by Andrus was ready for introduction in the Senate.

At the suggestion of chairman Jack Clairborn, R-Twin Falls, the House committee decided to ask that its bill to extend the act Andrus shot down be held on the calendar one legislative day.

might be advisable to hold up action on the extension bill for 48 hours so the House could find out what the Senate intends to do with the compromise bill.

Little said perhaps it would be well in that case to hold it one day and the committee went along with that suggestion.

TF Canal water earlier

TWIN FALLS — Water in the Twin Falls Canal system may be turned in a little earlier this year if warm weather and drying winds continue.

Alfred Peters, water master, stated the water usually comes in around April 10 but may be a little earlier this year.

The high line canal is now about a fourth full of water spilled from the Deep Creek Canal.

Two small dams on Deep Creek between Hollister and Rogerson are full and require water to be spilled.

Peters noted Murtaugh Lake is now being raised from Dry Creek with water coming from the hills.

It will be filled to about seven feet and when irrigation season begins, will receive water from Milner Dam to an 11-foot level.

At first, Rep. Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, suggested the House act on the extension bill now because time is so short in this session of the legislature. He said if the lawmakers prefer Andrus' committee's approach the Senate could always hold the extension bill if it passes the House.

Rep. Angus Condie, R-Preston, said, however, he felt it

Rain maker bill ran into storm

BOISE (UPI) — A Senate bill to require state licensing and regulation of rain makers ran into storm clouds in the House Resources Committee today.

Chairman J. Vard Chaburn, R-Albion, told fellow members of the committee that the director of water administration — who would be charged with the responsibility — has no strong feelings about the measure either way.

He said, however, it might be advisable to establish some records on weather modification.

State income tax hiked

BOISE (UPI) — The House has sent to the Senate a state income tax bill billed as a "slight increase" and written to bring $2.28 million to the General Fund in fiscal year 1973.

The measure adopts the higher federal deductions and raises taxes enough to make up the $4 million lost by the adoption and bring in the extra to the General Fund.

But the debate on that bill and other economic factors during the day did little to clear up confusion over just how much the state must have to balance a proposed fiscal year 1973 budget between $137.1 million and $137.3 million.

The major stumbling block remains a firm decision on the amount to come to the state's coffers from current revenue sources. That figure will tell the lawmakers which tax increases they must approve to balance the budget.

Current estimates include $130 million from Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' revenue projection advisory committee, $131 million from the governor himself, $132 million from a house revenue and taxation subcommittee, and $134 million from senate Republicans — some of whom are willing to go as high as $135.4 million on the basis of an expanding economy.

At the request of the governor, the advisory committee met Monday to review those GOP indicators but closed the session without changing its estimate.

Acting budget director D. E. (Skip) Chilberg said of the committee members only Max Yost, executive manager of the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho, was willing to boost his estimate and then only to $133.8 million.

Chilberg said Andrus will be given the information today and from that can decide whether he wants to increase his own estimate.

Most of the budget problems came up during the House debate on the income tax bill, described as a "going home" measure by revenue and taxation committee chairman Allen Larsen, R-Blackfoot.

Larsen said the income tax bill, a two-cent cigarette tax increase, a revenue loss of $132 million from present sources and $1 million in reversions will bring in $138.8 million.

But Rep. Robert Haakenson, D-Coeur d'Alene, questioned whether state agencies would, in fact, have $1 million left at the end of the current fiscal year to turn over to the general fund.

"This is an 'iffy' situation and we can't count on it," he said.

The House has already approved the two-cent-per-pack cigarette tax increase but that measure's future, too, looked cloudy Monday.

Hearing set

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Transportation Committee has scheduled a hearing Wednesday on a house-approved bill providing for a one cent increase in the aircraft fuel tax.

The hearing will be at 7 p.m. in Room 420 of the Statehouse.

Authority asked for new agency

BOISE (UPI) — The chairman of the Idaho Air Pollution Control Commission urged Monday cease and desist authority be included in the proposal to create a Department of Environmental Protection and Health.

Robert Montgomery told the combined Senate State Affairs and Health, Education and Welfare Committees the House approved legislation repeals the legal authority given to the commission.

He warned the deletion means Idaho's act will not conform with the Federal Clean Air Act and said there was a possibility the state would receive no federal money.

Rep. Fred Koch, R-Boise, chairman of the House State Affairs Committee, said the cease and desist authority was amended out of the bill at the request of "a portion of industry" — but that his committee had been assured the same authority was carried in another section of the bill which gives the health administrator responsibility to assure certain air quality standards.

Senate kills delay effort on repeal

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate killed 12-21 today a bill to delay enactment of the revised Criminal Code repeal to give proponents time to amend the most criticized areas of the revision.

The bill to repeal the revised Criminal Code, already signed by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, becomes effective April 1. The bill killed today would have postponed the effective date until July 1, 1973.

Still to come before the Senate is the 142-page bill repealing the old Criminal Code as it existed Dec. 31, 1971.

Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, floor sponsor of the bill to extend the repeal, said a legislative study committee reviewing the old code agreed it needed a "wholesome re-write" rather than amendment and warned reinstatement of the old code would have precedence over any other law passed since then which may be in conflict.

But Sen. Robert Saxvik, D-Burley, a proponent of repeal, asked "What credibility are we lending to the people of Idaho when we repeal it (the revision). The governor has signed it and now we are back-drafting it in another route."

School plan dead

BOISE (UPI) — For the second and final time the house killed by a 32-37 vote Monday a bill calling for a school district reorganization study.

Speaker William J. Lanting, R-Hollister, in announcing the vote by which the measure was

More signatures in airport vote

BOISE (UPI) — The senate approved 20-9 and sent to the house Monday a bill to increase from five to 10 per cent the number of registered voter signatures needed to petition for special elections for regional airports.

Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, floor sponsor, said the last election in Twin Falls County cost $10,000, adding, "for five per cent of the people to keep running these elections past just isn't good government."

High said an original objection to the bill in the last legislature was the five per cent requirement. At that time, he said, many lawmakers noted the minimum needed for most other county-wide elections was 20 per cent of the registered voters.

Opposition came from Sen. Robert Saxvik, R-Burley, who noted only Twin Falls and Blaine counties in the Magic Valley region chose not to enter a regional airport election last fall.

Rock festival bill buried for study

BOISE (UPI) — After a lengthy discussion of constitutional and other alleged flaws in the measure, the House State Affairs Committee buried for further study Monday a rock festival advertising bill.

Designed to control large public gatherings by regulation of their advertising the bill was an outgrowth of a study of the Universal Life Church picnic last July 4, at Farragut State Park.

It requires regulation of advertising for public gatherings which are expected to attract attendance of 500 persons or more.

The attorney general would be charged with enforcement.

Memorial okays multiple use

BOISE (UPI) — By voice vote the senate approved a memorial to the U.S. Forest Service Monday supporting the multiple use land management concept for lands placed in the forest system in Idaho.

The memorial noted the forest service is surveying undeveloped areas within Idaho's national forests for inclusion in the National Wilderness System. It said presently 15 per cent of the national forest area within Idaho and six per cent of all lands in Idaho are devoted to wilderness and primitive areas.

Sen. Warren Brown, R-McCall, floor sponsor, said the measure asked that only lands "uniquely qualified" be included in the wilderness system.

Merit system plan killed

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate killed 21-18 Monday a bill to create a merit system for deputy sheriffs, mandatory for counties of 30,000 or more population and optional for counties with less population.

The bill was killed 13-19 Feb. 24, but held in committee to give lawmakers time to check with local county commissioners and law enforcement officers.

Sen. Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, noted he had used the time to check and determined county commissioners in his three areas opposed the bill.

Cigarettes for registry

BOISE (UPI) — The senate approved 25-3 and sent to the governor Monday a bill dedicating one tenth of a cent per pack of cigarette tax to the central tumor registry.

Sen. Neil Miller, D-Blackfoot, floor sponsor, said there are presently over 10,000 persons on the registry here in Idaho and said part of the function was to study areas, occupations, activities and ages which show a high incidence of cancer.

Need workers

BOISE (UPI) — The senate by voice vote approved a memorial to President Nixon and Congress Monday asking for a study of the shortage of irrigation pipe makers, noting it may be necessary to legally import foreign labor.

Sen. Robert Saxvik, D-Burley, said farmers in Idaho face a "critical situation" because of the lack of workers willing to move the irrigation pipes.

He said the memorial is "calling attention to the problem" and asks for assistance.

Proposal Wine tax gets nod increase pocketed

BOISE (UPI) — A constitutional proposal to allow the legislature to enact a compulsory public school attendance law won approval of the House Education Committee Monday.

Lower age for treatment

BOISE (UPI) — With surprisingly little debate, the senate passed 18-9 Monday a bill lowering from 18 to 16 years the age for consent for treatment of drug addiction without parental consent.

Floor Sponsor Art Murphy, D-Mullan, said the original bill would have changed the age from 18 to 12.

Wendell dairyman named

WENDELL — A representative from the National Milk Producers Federation has announced the appointment of Robert Burks, Wendell dairyman, to the board of directors of the National Milk Producers Federation.

The NMPF is the parent organization of all milk cooperatives in the 50 states with offices in Washington, D. C.

Burks is currently president of the Ida Gem Dairyman of Jerome, vice president of Challenge Foods, Los Angeles, Calif. He also is a member of the Idaho Dairy Products Commission representing five counties on the northside of Snake River.

Machine to probe on Mars

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union will use "robot biologists" to begin the search for life on Mars but it will finish the job with human explorers, according to a Soviet scientist.

The time will come when automatic microbiological laboratories will appear on the surface of Mars, space engineer A. Trofimov wrote in Sunday's edition of the newspaper, Lenin's Banner.

"Robot biologists will seek to answer the question whether life exists on Mars."

Trofimov said final answers might depend upon "phenomena beyond contemporary knowledge" and hence beyond the analytical capacities of the mobile robots.

"The last word in the dispute about life on Mars will remain with man, who sooner or later will walk on the surface of the Red Planet," he said.

Trofimov's remarks indicated the Soviets are developing their Mars robots in the form of "Marsmobiles" similar to the Lunokhod wheeled robot that explored the moon for 10 months by remote control in 1970 and 1971.

US-India relations explored

NEW DELHI (UPI) — President V.V. Giri today criticized the U.S. government but said India hoped that relations between the two countries would not deteriorate further.

He also praised the Soviet Union for "setting the seal on a friendship that has been tested by time."

"In a 'state of the nation' address to the opening meeting of parliament's budget session, Giri said 'there was great disappointment in our country at the lack of sympathy displayed by the government of the United States towards the struggle of the people of Bangladesh for their democratic rights and fundamental freedom."

"Public opinion in the United States has expressed this sympathy in abundant measure and has been critical of the policies of the erstwhile military regime of Pakistan," Giri said. "This gives us hope that our relations with the United States of America, based on mutual respect and understanding, will not be allowed to deteriorate."

news about the people you know

Valley Living

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Here is the situation: There is an obviously pregnant unmarried high school girl who is attending classes.

The principal called her in and suggested that she attend evening classes instead. The girl hired a lawyer to secure her rights. Successful in this, the pregnant but unmarried girl continues to attend regular classes. This has created quite a stir. Some of the more conservative teachers have threatened to walk out unless the girl quits.

Have you a solution for this problem? Perhaps some good pregnant answer. PORTLAND, ORE.

DEAR PORT: The only problem at this point is what to do if the teachers walk out. The solution: Hire substitutes.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is 68. She's been a widow for nearly two years and she is driving me crazy. She telephones me at home and at work at least 12 times a day for absolutely no reason!

All she does is take tranquilizers and watch television. She stays in her nightgown all day long. She does no housework whatsoever. My 10-year-old runs her vacuum. (It's too hard for her to push.) I change her bed for her. (Her arms are too short.) I write her checks for her. (Writing makes her nervous.) I hope you get the picture.

Don't tell me to take her to a doctor. I have taken her to four since Dad died, and they all say there is nothing physically wrong with her. She makes such a pest of herself on the phone, no doctor wants her as a patient.

My husband says if she doesn't lay off he will quit his job and move us out of town. My mother says if we ever move she will sell her house and move with us. (She's the only reason we would move in the first place!)

She blew a lot of money Dad left her on remodeling and refurbishing, but thank heavens the rest of it is tied up so she can't spend it all foolishly.

Please, please help me. I think I'm having a nervous breakdown. EXHAUSTED

DEAR EXHAUSTED: Your mother may be physically well, but she sounds lonely, bored, slightly childish, and hungry for attention.

But from your letter, I think your mother is in better shape than you are. See a doctor about your nerves, and get professional help in learning how to cope with your mother. (Family Service offers excellent counseling.) If you run away from your mother, you will feel guilty. Stay there and work it out. After all, she is your mother.

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently told our children (elementary school age) that he "sold" his high school notes to other students. I feel that this is nothing to be proud of and I would not want our children to follow in his footsteps.

My husband maintains that it is no different from buying published notes in bookstores.

Am I stuffy, or a sucker, to feel that personal integrity is to be strived for always? Or am I all wet?

DEAR MOTHER: You're all right. Your husband is all wet.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 68704, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Engagement revealed

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Kevan, Boise, announce the engagement of their daughter, Kristina, to John Warner.

Warner is the son of Tony Warner, Twin Falls.

Miss Kevan and Warner are students at the University of Idaho. She is affiliated with Phi Beta Phi Sorority and he with Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity.

An early summer wedding is planned.

A Lovelier You

YOUR SMILE-ABILITY

By Mary Sue Miller

It is said that a smile conquers all. Indeed we are warmed by a friendly smile. And how a good-natured smile does soften our differences and difficulties.

Still, some girls won't even smile at a good joke, even when it's on you. One wonders whether the tight-lipped lady is as forbidding as she appears. She may not be. Smiles are sometimes withheld because of doubts about attractiveness.

For instance, a mouth may be so small that when it is stretched into a smile, the effect is a smirk. Or the upper lip can be so short as to expose the gum margins in smiling. All such quirks, of course, dampen the desire to smile and the lips clamp shut.

What a pity, when modern dental and surgical treatment can relieve facial problems. The reach of the lips can be improved by these simple routines after long and diligent practice:

1. Clench the upper lip between the teeth and say "moo." 2. Holding the upper lip with the teeth, grin as broadly as possible. 3. Hold the lower lip with teeth and curl the upper lip toward nose. Repeat each part in turn 10 times, very slowly and deliberately.

Remember all the while to keep the lips relaxed. Never close them tightly. Then you can smile a closed-mouth smile. It's most winning.

STRICTLY PERSONAL — Everything you need to know about dental care, anti-perforants and depilatories is contained in my leaflet, STRICTLY PERSONAL. All doubts are cleared up about why, what, when and how to use these safeguards of femininity. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 15 cents in coin.

TF miss develops career in ecology

CATHY-CRYDER

TWIN FALLS — A trip to Death Valley, Calif., with 24 eighth graders is more than just a part-time job to Boise State College freshman Cathy Cryder.

Miss Cryder, a biology major, plans a career in educating youngsters in ecology through field trips and boat trips. "I want to work for a private institution teaching children by pack trips and boat trips — by practical experience — what nature is and how man is affecting it."

The group from Fairmont Junior High, Boise, will ride a bus to Bishop, Calif. They will then proceed on 10-speed bicycles while camping equipment is carried by the bus.

"The kids are paying for this themselves but it is organized by their science teacher, Robert Ransom."

"It'll help a great deal. A lot of these kids have never camped before or been on their own in their environment. They're going to remember this," she said. The trip will take place from March 25 to April 7.

Miss Cryder's interest in ecology started when she was in the eighth grade. She was allowed to work in seed laboratories doing germinations. Her father, Don Cryder, is manager of the Keystone Seed Co., Twin Falls.

She chose a biology major to get into botany, then I found this job at Fairmont through the placement office at Boise State College. They wanted someone interested in biology or ecology. I went to talk to Mr. Ransom and I got the job."

The college placement office finds jobs for students who wish to work part-time to help meet their school expenses.

Miss Cryder doesn't limit herself to wilderness trips, however; she also skis, rides horses and swims. In the summer she works as a sailing instructor.

She belongs to the newly organized Southern Idaho Sailing Association. The group sails at Lucky Peak Reservoir, Red Fish Lake and Alturas Lake. They also hold races at Bear Lake on the Idaho-Utah border.

A cement slab was poured at the 4-H fairgrounds pig barn for washing animals. The group organized the Fourth of July Parade, conducted a toy drive and repaired toys for the Hammett Head Start children at Christmas.

A committee was formed to study drug abuse programs for the area, and youth programs for summer recreation were planned. The group erected a "Welcome to Glenns Ferry" sign.

Donations were made to the Debaney family after a fire, to the Gooding Deaf and Blind school, for the ice skating rink and for a patio cover at the new boat ramp.

Fund-raising projects and family events were held. Members attended several conventions. A "Jaycee of the Month" presentation was initiated with Dick Irving, Neal Abnot, Don Kom and Dic Callison taking honors.

Methodists plan event

FILER — The United Methodist Church will observe Family Night from 8:30 to 8 p.m. March 21.

A potluck dinner will precede the evening program. Those attending are to bring hot dishes and table service. Rolls and drink will be provided. There will be childcare service during the program.

Mrs. Gernie Iwerson will present a color slide trip of Japan. She lived in that country for four years. Fellowship singing and table fun will also be included in the evening's entertainment.

Athletics banquet set

SHOSHONE — The annual banquet for students of the high school who won letters this year in athletics will be held at 7 p.m. April 14.

Joe Bertrichon, president of the Booster Club, said Burrell Williams is chairman to secure a speaker and Mrs. Williams will be in charge of dinner arrangements. The event will be held at Lincoln School.

Twins celebrate

BURLEY — Twins celebrated 60th birthdays during a surprise party this past week.

The honorees were Ethan (Mike) Clark and Mrs. George (Ethel) Fairchild, both Burley. The surprise event was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Amen, daughter and son-in-law of Clark.

The evening was spent playing pinocle. Special guests besides the honorees were Mrs. Clark, Fairchild, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fairchild, Rupert; Mr. and Mrs. John Oppé, Hazelton; and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Etherington, Burley.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Etherington, Mr. Oppé and Mrs. Ronald Fairchild.

Valley Briefs

TWIN FALLS — The next pinocle party for Elks and their wives will be held Wednesday in the lodge room. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. with the card party to follow at 8 p.m.

TWIN FALLS — Shamrock Club will meet Wednesday at the home of Mrs. L. A. Albee, with Mrs. Lloyd Kimpton as co-hostess. A food auction will be held.

TWIN FALLS — Ronald G. Braun, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Braun, Twin Falls, is a member of the 30-Voice Eastern Washington State College choir which began a four day, 10 concert tour in western Washington Monday. Braun is a graduate of Twin Falls High School and is majoring in music education at EWEC.

HANSEN — Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Mayaw, Kimberly, and Mr. and Mrs. Blake Froehlich were prize winners at the Ace Hi Pinocle Club meeting Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Simmons. Mrs. W. I. McFarland won the traveling prize. The April 8 meeting will be a dinner in Twin Falls and cards will be played later at the Signy home.

TWIN FALLS — The Dr. Lotz Mission Circle of the First Baptist Church will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. Stanley Walters, 1.5 miles west of Washington Street North on Falls Avenue, West.

FILER — The Filer Wildcat Booster Club will hold its athletic awards banquet at 8 p.m. Friday at the Twin Falls American Legion Hall. Booster members are to call the high school principal's office for reservations.

SHOSHONE — Three students at the University of Idaho, Moscow, who made the dean's list are from Shoshone. The students are Mary G. Hata and Donna E. Mabbitt, both of the college of letters and science, and Terri A. Churchman, college of education.

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho Music Department will present "Fiddler on the Roof" April 20, 21 and 22. Auditions will be held Monday and Tuesday, with Joan Milton, music director, in charge.

TWIN FALLS — The Bowl and Blossom Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Bert Carlson at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

GLENN'S FERRY — Franklin K. Clark and Benjamin D. Christensen have been named to the dean's list for academic achievement at the University of Idaho. Clark earned the distinction in the college of letters and science, and Christensen, college of education.

TWIN FALLS — Morningside Club will meet at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Norris Hall for a work meeting and potluck luncheon.

Engagement announced

GLENN'S FERRY — Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Sellers, Glenns Ferry, announce the engagement of their daughter, Victoria, to 2nd Lt. Stephen F. Wilcox.

Lt. Wilcox is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mayo Wilcox, Glenns Ferry. He is a graduate of West Point and is stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Miss Sellers is a junior at Idaho State University, Pocatello, and a member of Alpha Chi Omega Sorority. No wedding date has been set.

Irish stew for St. Pat's

MARJORIE LIERMAN Times-News writer Share! And the Irish deserve to have St. Patrick's Day made a national holiday! Make it a special day at your house by serving an Irish dinner.

A tasty Irish stew made with beef or lamb is a fitting main dish for the dinner. Rich with carrots, onions and celery, serve it as the Irish do with mashed potatoes at the side.

The stew may be put in a brown casserole with the mashed potatoes in a ring at the top, or they may be served in a separate dish.

A tossed green salad, Irish soda bread, and a lime chiffon pie for dessert, and you have a dinner guaranteed to please any true son of the sod. For something extra-special, serve Irish coffee in mugs or glasses as after dinner dessert in the living room.

Decorations for the table are easy and varied. Children may cut out green shamrocks to put at each place. Pipes, little green snakes and leprechauns are all connected with St. Patrick's Day. Because potatoes are as Irish as the land itself, two well-scrubbed ones can serve as candle holders for green tapers.

I use a large green Paddy hat for my centerpiece and place a green paper shamrock on each napkin. Since the centerpiece is rather large, I use my pull-down light fixture over the dining room table as part of the arrangement, and hang shamrocks, sprigs of pussy willows, daffodils and ivy from the fixture.

I try to bring out all the green glass dishes I can find — a large green salad bowl, a relish dish and condiment jar, a cruet. An antique bread plate is brought into use to hold the Irish Soda bread, a longtime favorite of ours.

This unique bread is made in a two-quart casserole which is greased before using. Into a mixing bowl, sift four cups all-purpose flour, one-fourth cup granulated sugar, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon baking powder and two tablespoons caraway seeds.

With a pastry blender, cut in one-fourth cup butter or margarine till mixture resembles coarse corn meal, stir in two cups raisins. Combine one and one-third cups buttermilk, one egg and one teaspoon baking soda, and stir into flour mixture until just moistened.

Turn dough onto lightly floured surface, knead lightly till smooth and shape into ball. Place in casserole. With sharp knife, make a 4-inch cross in center. Brush with one beaten egg yolk. Bake until done, approximately one hour — 10 minutes. Cool in pan 10 minutes and remove. Cool before slicing.

Irish coffee is a rich beverage made with coffee to which two tablespoons whiskey and one or two teaspoons sugar for each cup have been added. It is topped with whipped cream sweetened with powdered sugar and flavored with vanilla.

March 'Y' exhibit features paintings by Gooding woman

TWIN FALLS — Lalene Meyer, Gooding, is the exhibiting YMCA artist of the month for March.

The exhibit consists of paintings done in acrylic, oil, water color and one in casein.

Mrs. Meyer is an art teacher at Fraham Junior High School and is vocal music director at the junior high and Gooding High School.

Mrs. Meyer studied art with the University of Idaho Workshop on Wheels, with Mary Kirkwood, Alfred Dunn and James Smith as instructors. She also studied drawing with George Roberts at the University of Idaho.

Her paintings have been accepted in juried exhibits in California, Nebraska, Nevada, Utah, Wyoming and Idaho, winning some awards.

One of her watercolors is now on tour with the Federation of Rocky Mountain States Eight State Touring Exhibit, as one of five Idaho watercolorists representing Idaho.

In the past few years she has had eight paintings accepted in the Idaho Artists' Annual at the Boise Art Gallery.

She has just received an invitation to participate in the 32nd Annual Invitational Art Exhibit at Cedar City, Utah, in April. Several of the paintings in the exhibit at the YMCA have been in juried exhibits.

Her work is largely concerned with design and relationships, utilizing ideas and moods inspired by nature and landscape.

What this legislature needs . . . ?

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — What this legislature needs is another interim study.

Now, it has studied no-fault automobile insurance, self-insurance for public agencies, a proposed Department of Ecology, workman's compensation, potato marketing, farm labor, local government facilities, central purchasing and a host of other selected subjects.

In some cases, the studies even led to proposed legislation. Using information gleaned from earlier studies, for instance, the legislature last session adopted a new Criminal Code.

Listening to complaints voiced by some who must enforce it, this session repealed that act. Now it is looking at a repealer of the repealer.

It has stood four-square for turtles and coyotes and is looking askance at legislation to regulate rainmakers.

But, to date, it has not called for an interim study on the proliferation of interim studies.

For a paltry $50,000 or so — by legislative standards — your lawmakers could mount an impressive, comprehensive, in-depth, soul-searching, fact-finding probe of all these investigations.

With that kind of money they could hire a small staff of specialists — and still have enough — if the committee is kept small enough — to hold public hearings throughout the state.

For instance, with careful planning they could be on the scene to never a sister committee holds a hearing and take a good, hard look — as one executive use to say — at the good, hard look these other committees are taking.

They could conduct a hearing on the hearing, if you will, and get some real public input about what the man on the street thinks about that hearing.

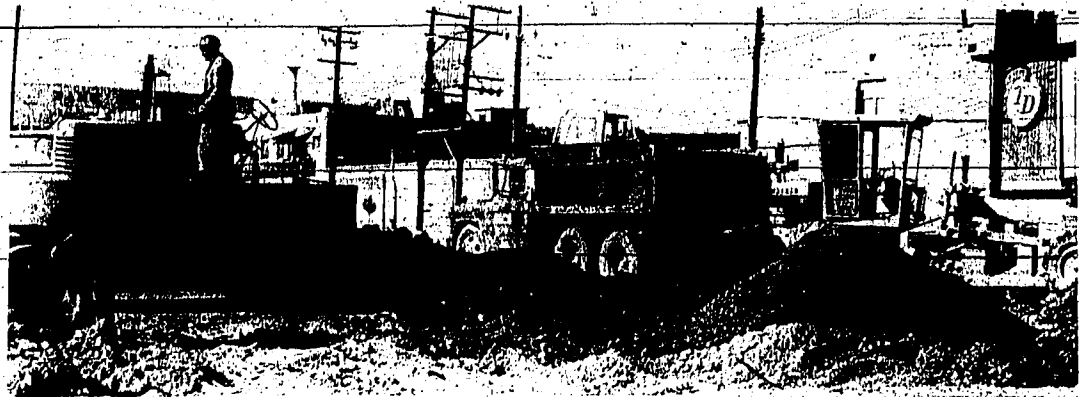

Through careful questioning they even might ascertain the purpose of the initial hearing. Additionally, they could put sleuths on the trails of their colleagues and find out just what it is they do when out of town on legislative business. They could learn what and where they eat with whom they speak and why they sometimes go to resort areas to study.

In fact, they might learn why these interim committees gather facts and, possibly, what they do with all this testimony they take over and over each year on these same old bills.

Then, with a little guidance from their staff researchers they could write an extensive, penetrating, information-laden, costly and thoroughly safe and confusing report to the next legislature.

And, if they did it properly, they probably could re-activate the interim committee to continue its studies for one more session to make certain what it said coincides with what it meant if, indeed, it did make a decision about what it thought the other lawmakers wanted.

A study like this could be monumental.

Pat's 60 Thursday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pat Nixon will be 60 on Thursday but as is its tradition, the First Family will mark the occasion on Friday — St. Patrick's Day.

Connie Stuart, Mrs. Nixon's press secretary, said she expects there will be a birthday cake, and a low-key "family style get-together" probably at Camp David, Md., the presidential retreat where the Nixons are expected to spend next weekend.

Two shipwrecked crewmen rescued

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Liberian tanker San Nicola sank in the middle of the night March 5 in the Gulf of Mexico, according to a grim tale by two Italians rescued during the weekend. They apparently were the only survivors of 30 persons on the vessel.

They were plucked from a tiny raft after six days at sea without food or water. One said he thought an explosion caused the 522-foot-long tanker to sink. "I heard a sort of bang, realized the engine was going faster and faster, and noticed the ship was inclining — getting to a very, very, very sharp angle," engineer Giorgio Gagliardo, 28, said Sunday.

Gagliardo also said he witnessed the deaths of three other crewmen who made it to the raft but did not survive the six days. The other Italian who survived was Danilo Pizigala, 19. Both are from Trieste.

The Coast Guard was still searching for other possible survivors. Today's rescue effort centered on a 10,000-square-mile area of the Gulf 380 miles southeast of New Orleans.

Vote expected

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — The last of five craft unions was expected to vote this week on a proposed settlement which would clear the way for the Evening News to publish for the first time in nearly 10 months.

Typographers Local 103 voted Sunday, 133-30, to accept a settlement offered by the management of the News, New Jersey's largest evening newspaper.

Tobacco tax could provide sewer funds

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. Warren Brown, R-McCall, chairman of the Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee, said Monday one alternative for funding the state's share of power construction grants is use of a tobacco tax.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus asked the legislature to provide $900,000 from the general fund to aid local units of government in sewer construction. If the state contributes 25 per cent of the cost of the project, the federal government will pay 50 per cent, leaving the local unit only 25 per cent.

If the state does not contribute money the federal government will pay only 25 per cent. Brown said his committee will take testimony Wednesday on a House-approved bill to tax tobacco other than cigarettes, estimated to raise $500,000.

He said he is also drafting an amendment to the House-approved bill to increase the tax on cigarettes by two cents a pack.

Dead whale returns to California

STINSON BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — A dead whale was towed to sea by the U.S. Coast Guard for the second time Sunday.

The 36-foot gray whale first floated into San Francisco Bay last week and was towed out to sea. On Saturday the whale's carcass washed up on Stinson Beach, a popular bathing area. "It was the same whale," said George T. White, the small town's fire chief. "There were tow marks on the tail and a piece of unattached.

Coast Guardsmen put an anchor line on the carcass Saturday night and Sunday towed the whale to the Farallon Islands, about 30 miles off the Marin County Coast.

5 Blaine route plans listed

BY TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Five alternate corridors for U. S. Highway 93 through Blaine County have been proposed by the Idaho Department of Highways.

According to a release by State Highway Engineer E. L. Mathes, a location study is in progress for improving the highway between its junction with State Highway 68 and a U. S. forest boundary near the North Fork of the Big Wood River.

Also under study are improvements of State Highway 75 between the junction with U. S. 93 and Sun Valley.

Assistant District Highway Engineer Everett Kidner said corridor hearings may be scheduled this summer.

Mathes said estimated right-of-way costs, construction costs as well as the evaluation of anticipated social, economic and environmental effects of each alternative will be presented at the hearings.

"Local groups, state and federal agencies and all interested persons are invited to submit their views pertaining to possible effects of various alternatives," Mathes said. Views must be presented to the department by April 30, he said.

Of the five plans, one proposal calls for the retention of the present routing with improvements.

A "river" plan would leave the existing roadway several miles north of Timmerman Hill and travel between the present road and the Wood River to a point south of Bellevue. From there it would cross to the west side of Wood River, continue north, recross the river to the east bank between Hailey and Bellevue and return to the present highway north of Hailey.

At the junction of the railroad tracks and U. S. 93 south of Ketchum the proposed river corridor would branch off west of the present road, bypass the Elkhorn Gulch exit and return to the highway.

Essentially following a route on the east side of the railroad right-of-way, the "east" plan would leave U. S. 93 south of its junction with former State Highway 23. Proposed routes would pass through Bellevue on Sixth Street and travel east of the Hailey Cemetery.

Returning to the existing road at the railroad track junction, the proposed corridor would follow U. S. 93 north until it reached a point just south of Ketchum. From that point it would travel on the east side of Trail Creek, loop across Sun Valley road and back to U. S. 93. A "west" plan would travel west off U. S. 93 north of Bellevue and return to the existing highway at the south edge of Hailey.

A short roadway would be constructed east of the junction of the railroad tracks, travel east of the tracks and would cross the tracks and the river, returning to U. S. 93.

Below Ketchum the "west" plan would again leave the present highway and travel on the east side of the railroad right-of-way to north of Ketchum, where it will return to U. S. 93. Another short bypass would be constructed west of Lake Creek.

The last proposed corridor, the "Hailey" plan, would branch off U. S. 93 at Hailey's south city limits, follow Fourth Avenue and return to U. S. 93 several miles north of the city. Mathes said, "property owners should comment on how the various alternatives would affect their property; commercial or industrial firms should remark on access characteristics; conservation groups should give their views on environmental features and school administrators should comment on bus routes affects."

The engineer said responses should not be limited to these groups and that the department solicits views of "all anticipated significant effects from any individual or group."

A reference list of guide determinants include the following: right-of-way and construction costs, maintenance costs, displacement of families and businesses, property values, business and other economic activities and the availability of replacement housing, employment, community planning and aesthetics.

Unloaded bus, truck collide

Burley truck, school bus hit

BURLEY — Only minor injuries were reported in an accident Monday between an empty school bus and a heavy truck.

Bus driver Wendell Cole had discharged the last children shortly before the accident occurred at 4:15 p.m. Monday about 1 1/2 miles west of Burley on U. S. 30.

The school bus, owned by the Cassia County School District, was eastbound in the outside lane.

Ross Jones, 49, Burley, who was driving the truck, owned by Beckley Trucking Co, stopped at a stop sign at the Ore-Ida Foods Plant No. 2 entrance, and apparently did not see the bus. Jones drove the truck onto U. S. 30 into the inside lane and proceeded east.

The bus slowed slightly but kept to the outside lane and was in the process of passing the semi truck on the right-hand side when the roadway narrowed to two lanes.

The truck then began to make a right turn into the driveway of the Beckley Trucking Co. parking lot.

The bus struck the truck on the right side behind the cab. Both vehicles left the roadway and the truck was left blocking the eastbound lane of Highway 30.

The front wheels of the school bus were knocked out from under the bus and hung up.

Damage to the bus was estimated at about $6,000.

About $5,000 damage was done to the truck tractor.

Cole was taken to Cassia Memorial Hospital, where he was checked and released. Jones was not injured.

Officers said both drivers were familiar with the roadway in the area of the accident. The accident was under investigation today.

Farm meet at Jerome

JEROME — Jerome County Farm Bureau will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Wood Cafe.

Jerome County Extension Agent Bill Priest will be guest speaker. The program will be on bean blight and other new developments. This will be the regular community meeting and a legislative report will be given.

Wendell reports poisoning

WENDELL — Wendell Chief of Police Dale Bunn reported last night that four dogs and three cats were found Tuesday suffering with poisoning symptoms.

All three cats and three of the dogs have since died. The fourth dog has been taken to a veterinarian in Gooding and its survival is in question.

Bunn has been authorized to offer a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for the animal poisonings.

Kimberly sets meet over budget

KIMBERLY — Public hearing on a $146,100 budget for the city of Kimberly will be at 8 p.m. today at the Kimberly City Hall.

Mrs. Edythe Widmer, city clerk, said the 1972 budget is up about 8.35 per cent from 1971. Increases include raises for city employees, funds for purchase of a new police car and $1,000 for construction of a dog pound.

Blaine gets new clerk

HAILEY — Mrs. Marie Ivie was appointed as the new Blaine County clerk Monday by the county commissioners. She replaces George McCoy, who retired the same day. A Hailey resident, Mrs. Ivie was appointed chief deputy clerk in September, 1951. She will also serve as recorder and auditor.

The water department shows an increase of $25,000 in this year's budget for a total of $185,000. City clerk Mrs. Bruce Bragg said the $25,000 increase is for bonded indebtedness.

Art Gonesa asked, "Who was the resolution supposed to help except Faulkner?" James told the group the county commissioners completed what should have been done years ago, but the law has not changed. If you have a legal fence and the cattle break through, the cattle owner is responsible for the damage, he said.

In other business, a request from the South Central Idaho Health District for $50 per month for Gooding County's share for secretarial help was taken under advisement. District Judge Charles Scoggin presented a request for $1,250 as the county's share for new law books.

Highway rerouting could make Hailey ghost town

HAILEY — Hailey will become a "ghost town" if it is bypassed by the highway, a Hailey minister said Monday.

Rev. W. B. Ellway, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, commented on the proposed alternate corridors for U. S. Highway 93 during the Hailey Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Ellway was appointed chairman of a committee to study the right of ways and to make recommendations to the Idaho Highway Department. Committee members include Alan Bixby, Milton Fite and Leo Stavros.

Of the five proposed plans, the minister said he favored only that the existing route passing through Hailey be improved.

"Any move away from Main Street will affect the economy in a serious manner," Ellway said.

If the highway is rerouted, the minister said, the results would be "a lack of local employment and lack of supplies in stores."

Hailey would go elsewhere to buy.

And Ellway said, "It would practically wipe out gas stations."

Commenting on the "Hailey" plan, which would place the highway four blocks east of the present road, Ellway said, "If a four lane roadway was constructed houses on both sides of Fourth Avenue would have to be removed."

He said, "It would be detrimental to tax purposes." He said "where is the alternate housing?"

Ellway said the "river" plan, which would travel between the Wood River and the east side of Hailey, should be ruled out because of its possible ecological effect on the river.

"We should consider nothing better than what we already have," Ellway said.

Lost men walk into Minidoka

RUPERT — A search for four men lost in the desert near Arco was halted at 4 a.m. Tuesday when two of the men walked into Minidoka.

Randy Knopp, Heyburn, Steve Bellem and Bob Wright, both Rupert, and Galen Meyer, Paul, left Sunday to go jackrabbit hunting on the desert north of Minidoka.

The men took the Minidoka-Arco road and became mired in mud about 50 miles from Minidoka.

They blew out a tire and broke their jack. Two of the men decided to walk back for help, leaving the other two with their pickup truck.

The Bellem family notified the Minidoka sheriff's office

Monday that the four had not returned from the trip. After officers were notified, a private plane was sent to search the desert area between Minidoka and Arco.

In the afternoon, the Civil Air Patrol was notified and another plane was sent to search the area.

Arrangements had been made Monday night for five planes to join the search Tuesday morning.

According to the Minidoka sheriff's office, family members were returning to the area this morning with a four-wheel-drive vehicle to attempt to get the pickup out of the mud and rescue the other two men.

Minidoka school to buy 4 buses

RUPERT — The Minidoka County School District will order four 60-passenger school buses instead of two 66-passenger and two 72-passenger buses, trustees decided Monday night.

Bids for the four buses were opened during the previous meeting two weeks ago, and trustees agreed on the order for two large and two smaller buses at that time. However, the bidders for the bus bodies offered to supply 72-passenger bodies instead of the 73-passenger bodies specified in the bid call.

Calling the attention to the trustees to the discrepancy, district Supt. Dr. Darrell Hatfield said the state sets a limit on overall length of buses, and the 72-passenger bus bodies plus the chassis ordered would exceed the state maximum length.

Hatfield suggested the trustees change the order to purchase four 60-passenger bus bodies, instead of two, with chassis to match. The trustees accepted the suggestion.

The four buses will be ordered with automatic transmission, according to previous bid. Trustee Leonard Martin said he has received several favorable comments from district bus drivers who approve of automatic transmissions in school buses.

In other business, the trustees:

— Declined a request from Rupert recreation director Mike Rindard to sell a surplus school bus to the city senior citizens' center. State law requires that sale of any property valued at more than $300 be carried out through public auction, according to assistant Supt. Doyle Lowder.

— Approved a bid from Idaho First National Bank to loan the district about $50,000 on a 20-day tax-anticipation note at an interest rate of 2.95 per cent. The funds will be used for the district payroll, Hatfield said.

Dr. Darrell Hatfield, district superintendent, said he suggested the Minico High School Council be allowed to make a recommendation, and that the public, particularly the parents of other students at the school, be allowed to express their feelings on the subject.

The board took no action at Monday's meeting.

The second controversy developed over a request from Chris McKim, Minico High student-body president, to allow formation of a joint student-faculty board of appeals which would decide, in its first action, on whether the school should allow wearing of headbands by long-haired boys.

Hearing set on proposed new bridge

KETCHUM — A public hearing on the proposed new Warm Springs Bridge will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Ernest Hemingway School.

Bridge and city officials will be available to answer residents' questions.

A special municipal $160,000 general obligation bond election will be conducted March 21.

The figure includes a new bridge — to be constructed north of the present bridge — site acquisition and incidental improvements to the street approaches on either side of the bridge.

Recognition asked for educators

WENDELL — The Wendell School Board heard requests at its regular meeting last night that it recognize the Hub City Education Association as official negotiating organization.

James Haddock, president of the organization, asked for the recognition pursuant to the Idaho statute governing school negotiations with professional employees.

Board members said that a secret ballot election would have to be held before they would recognize a negotiating group. The time and place of the election will be announced later.

Minico High Principal Glen Maughan told the board the issue developed when he told a student he could not wear a headband, as he denied it "disruptive to the educational process." The students replied with a request for a 30-day trial period during which headbands would be allowed with few or no restrictions.

A committee of three teachers, selected by Maughan, and four students, named by Miss McKim, would then decide whether the practice of wearing headbands had indeed been "disruptive" and make a recommendation to the principal and the board.

The request stirred fervent feelings among the trustees. Leonard Martin opposed the wearing of headbands on principle, declaring that "The students are stretching the rules broader and broader every year for their benefit. First we had the issue of hair length, then

Shoshone slates school election

SHOSHONE — Members of the Shoshone School board, meeting Monday night, set April 10 as the date for the election of two trustees.

Patrons of the district will elect trustees from zones 1 and 4. Polls will be in the Shoshone High School with hours to be announced later.

Members whose terms expire include Dr. E. D. Saras, zone 1, and Wayne Sorenson, zone 4.

Neither trustee has announced whether or not he will seek reelection.

Holdover board members are Donald Runberg, Waldo Jones and Bonnie Ray Webb.

Trustees also set April 24 for the hearing on the district budget for the coming year. The hearing will be held at 8 p.m. in the high school building.

Supt. Kenneth Crothers said the approval Monday by voters of the district of a two-mill plant facilities levy will enable the district to complete the budget as planned.

In other business, the board announced plans to purchase a new 40-passenger school bus.

Bids will be opened during the next meeting April 10.

Calendar for the 1972-73 school year was adopted. Classes begin Aug. 28, 1972, and close for the year May 23, 1973. Holidays will include Labor Day, Sept. 4; teachers' conference, Oct. 6; Thanksgiving, Nov. 23 and 24; Christmas holidays Dec. 22 through Jan. 1, and spring vacation April 19 and 20.

Superintendent Crothers reported on progress of the Needs Assessment Program being carried out in the school district at the present time.

Webb reported on a study and estimates for possible remodeling of the old shower room in the high school building. It could be converted into a teachers' room, he said.

No action was taken. Crothers said teachers who were offered contracts for the coming year must indicate their plans to his office by April 1.

After that date, he said, the district will know if any vacancies exist and must be filled for the coming year.

Richfield trustees get salary plan

By DIXIE DIXON
Times-News writer

RICHFIELD — Richard Starks and Charles Buttcane, teachers in Richfield district, presented a new salary schedule to trustees during the meeting Monday.

Negotiations on the salary schedule have been in progress for several months. The board took the proposal under advisement for further study.

Supt. Neil Anderson reviewed legislation pertaining to schools that is presently before the legislature. He said proposed appropriations would be $3.8 million above last year. He also said the distribution formula for school funding is being changed.

Legislation already passed includes rulings that school districts must provide schooling for exceptional mothers of school provide funds for educating the exceptional child and allow teachers to serve on jury duty, Anderson said.

Anderson said he will investigate the possibility of finding instructors for mini-classes in art, leather craft, industrial art and bowling.

Gooding commission has complaints on fencing

GOODING — Nine visitors met with Gooding County Commissioners Monday to air objections to a herd district resolution passed unanimously in the January commission meeting.

The resolution adopted Jan. 11 said owners of deeded lands are required to have fences between their property and public domain. The resolution was requested by Ralph Faulkner, Gooding area cattleman.

County Attorney Andrew James met with the group of farmers and livestockmen and explained the herd district law.

In 1907, he said, the Idaho legislature passed a herd district law, prohibiting persons from turning stock out to graze in given districts. Later the legislature amended the law to say before a herd district could be established, it had to be surrounded by fences.

According to James, Gooding County put the law into effect by adopting the January resolution.

Orville Henry, farmer, argued the usefulness of the new resolution, asking, "Why should we build fences to keep others' cattle out. Our fences will keep our own in but will not keep out the range cattle."

Paul Queanell said, "The Bureau of Land Management should pay for the fence." Nelson King, county commissioner, said since the BLM is a non-taxpayer perhaps they should help with the problem.

Art Gonesa asked, "Who was the resolution supposed to help except Faulkner?" James told the group the county commissioners completed what should have been done years ago, but the law has not changed. If you have a legal fence and the cattle break through, the cattle owner is responsible for the damage, he said.

In other business, a request from the South Central Idaho Health District for $50 per month for Gooding County's share for secretarial help was taken under advisement. District Judge Charles Scoggin presented a request for $1,250 as the county's share for new law books.

Minico eyes headbands

Dr. Darrell Hatfield, district superintendent, said he suggested the Minico High School Council be allowed to make a recommendation, and that the public, particularly the parents of other students at the school, be allowed to express their feelings on the subject.

The board took no action at Monday's meeting.

The second controversy developed over a request from Chris McKim, Minico High student-body president, to allow formation of a joint student-faculty board of appeals which would decide, in its first action, on whether the school should allow wearing of headbands by long-haired boys.

Minico High Principal Glen Maughan told the board the issue developed when he told a student he could not wear a headband, as he denied it "disruptive to the educational process." The students replied with a request for a 30-day trial period during which headbands would be allowed with few or no restrictions.

A committee of three teachers, selected by Maughan, and four students, named by Miss McKim, would then decide whether the practice of wearing headbands had indeed been "disruptive" and make a recommendation to the principal and the board.

The request stirred fervent feelings among the trustees. Leonard Martin opposed the wearing of headbands on principle, declaring that "The students are stretching the rules broader and broader every year for their benefit. First we had the issue of hair length, then their longer hair is completely out of hand, they want to wear headbands to help keep it out of their eyes."

Trustees refused to support Martin in a motion to prohibit the wearing of headbands, refusing to second the motion. Martin said he objected "stubbornly" to the idea of loosening the district control of student conduct and attire.

The trustees finally agreed to give Maughan full authority to control the situation as he deems necessary.

Cassia elects 3

BURLEY — Members of the 4-H Leaders Council have elected three Cassia County 4-H leaders to represent the county on the 4-H district fair board.

Elected were Jim Chaburn and Leo Jolley, both Albion, and Mrs. Mary Hondo, Burley, during the March meeting at the courthouse.

It was announced that J. C. Penney Co. is sponsoring a 4-H Leaders Forum in Boise. A letter was read from Blaine Linford, district extension supervisor, which told of changes in the Off-the-Farm Survey. The letter stated the date was changed to March 31 and the Cooperative Council is sponsoring four $35 scholarships for the eight counties. One county can win one or four scholarships.

It was announced a new 4-H beef project is being started in the district this year. The new project is "Feeder, Market, Breeding Feeder Project." Leaders were urged to study the requirements for the new project and assist their 4-H club members in adopting the project.

It was noted Unit I workbooks will be used this year, manual and judging book which is new. A new horse project record book will also be used this year.

It was reported 10 per cent of the beef shown at the county fair will be able to go to the district fair. They will be graded and placed live. The steers will then be taken to Independent Meat and slaughtered and the carcasses graded. The steers will then be placed using live grade and carcass grade for a total final grade. There will be premium paid on the first six places.

Mini-Cassia

Cassia CAA elects

BURLEY — Rev. George A. Trobough, Burley, was named chairman of the Cassia County Community Action Agency Committee. It was announced today.

Rev. Trobough had been serving as acting chairman of the committee for the past two months.

Rafael Rodriguez, Burley, was named vice chairman and Juanna Castillo was elected secretary.

Delegates to the Tri-County CAA board from Cassia County include Weldon Beck, Harold Blauer, Al Dawson, Fonda Cannell, Pablo Fuentes and Joan Thomas.

Albion budget down

ALBION — The 1972 proposed Albion City budget shows a slight decrease over the previous year's budget, according to Mayor Odeen K. Redman.

The village board set a budget hearing for April 4 at 4 p.m. in the city offices, on the budget for the coming year which totals $28,000. The figure is slightly lower than the 1971 receipts of $28,165.10.

Mayor Redman said most city departments are holding the line on expenses in the new budget.

Love pays off
RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The slogan "Virginia Is For Lovers" has reaped an estimated $3 billion in tourist revenues since it was launched nearly three years ago, says the Virginia State Travel Service. State officials explain what the slogan really means is that Virginia is for history lovers, beach lovers, mountain lovers and, of course, just plain lovers.

Patching project

MASSIVE PATCHING project is underway on Twin Falls streets. Here employees of the State Highway Department fill chukholes at West Five Points while about a block away city crews were doing similar work on Main Avenue North. Warm weather has dried roadways enough to allow permanent patching to take place.

Minidoka accident draws damage suit

TWIN FALLS — Circle A Construction Co. is asking recovery of damages from a Sept. 2, 1971 traffic accident in Minidoka County.

In a suit filed Monday in Fifth District Court, the firm asks recovery of loss of a large truck tractor, valued at about $17,600 and a trailer on which value has not yet been set.

The vehicle was involved in an accident in Minidoka County which claimed the life of Melvin H. Aslett, Twin Falls. Named as defendants in the action are Aslett Construction Co., and Lloyd and Dennis Montgomery, Minidoka County residents.

In the complaint, the plaintiff charges negligence on the part of Aslett and on the part of the Montgomery family. Aslett was driver of a 1971 sedan with which the Circle A truck collided along the road in thick smoke. Smoke from weed burning by the Montgomerys obscured the view of the driver of the truck, the complaint, states.

Springdale LDS celebrate date

SPRINGDALE — The Relief Society of the LDS Church observed the 130th year observance with a special dinner Saturday.

The organization was formed March 17, 1842, by the LDS prophet Joseph Smith. Prayers were offered by Willard Bowen and Ralph K. West. Mrs. Ray Zollinger, Mrs. Willard Bowen, Mrs. Dewayne Clayton and Mrs. June Larson were in charge of arrangements for the dinner.

Applications holding own

Applications for admission to four-year colleges in the fall of 1972 are holding steady although the western region has a three per cent decrease.

A new national survey by the college board indicated fall 1972 applications are coming in at about the same rate and same general proportion as last year. Predictions had been that economic restraints and changing student attitudes might cause a decline in college-going.

After sampling freshman application trends at 227 four-year colleges and universities, Albert G. Sims, vice president of the board, said applications for 1972 will stand at about 1.83 million compared to 1.81 million a year ago, an almost insignificant gain of one per cent.

Applications to the private sector are keeping pace with those to public institutions. Applications to state colleges are slightly up.

TF boy injured

TWIN FALLS — An 8-year-old boy suffered minor injuries at 5:30 p.m. Sunday in a one-car accident at the corner of Falls Avenue and Rosemont Street. City police reported a vehicle driven by Lorna Marie Meyer, 18, 708 Greenwood Drive, was turning from Falls Avenue onto Rosemont from the center lane and was traveling too fast to negotiate the turn. Miss Meyer was cited for making an improper turn. The vehicle went out of control and skidded into a utility pole crushing the front end and left front fender. Damage was estimated at $500. Matthew Dorian Meyer, 8, suffered minor injuries but was not hospitalized.

Plans drawn for Elmore dump site

GLENN'S FERRY — Plans for an Elmore County dump site are being drawn by the county health department.

According to John Palmer, county sanitarian, the county presently pays a portion of city dump site costs for use by persons living outside the city limits. Palmer said a county dump would provide those persons with their own site.

The official said more than one county site may be necessary.

Miami cruise ship pushed off sandbar

MIAMI (UPI)—The luxury liner Mardi Gras was on its way to Puerto Rico today on an inaugural voyage marked by an uncheduled one-day stop on a sandbar at the mouth of Miami harbor.

Four heavy tugboats, a high tide and the siphoning of 1,700 tons of fuel were necessary to get the 27,000-ton cruise ship off the sandbar Sunday night.

The ship made a final check to test its engines and determine there was no damage to the hull, then sailed out of Biscayne Bay on the voyage to Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Jamaica.

The 630-foot Mardi Gras, formerly known as the Empress of Canada, set out on its first Caribbean cruise under new management Saturday with 530 tourists and 200 crewmen.

Swiss men indicted for theft

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI)—Florence authorities indicted one of Switzerland's best known businessmen and four other persons today on charges of smuggling art treasures valued at $1 million out of Italy.

The indictments followed investigation of a case which began in mid-1969 when police said they had broken up an international art smuggling ring.

One indictment named Baron Hans Heinrich Thyssen-Bornemisza de Kaszon, 51, an internationally known art patron and collector and president of dozens of banks and businesses.

The 15th annual America's Junior Miss Pageant will be aired on NBC from Mobile, Ala., on May 9. Ed McMahon will be master of ceremonies.

And now a word about H&R Block's competition.

Because we think our competition represents more of a threat to you than it does to us, we're going to help you sort them out.

Your Family

The greatest people in the world. Most of the time. Unfortunately, most of the time doesn't include income tax time. Because the last thing you need when you're doing your taxes is an aunt who took an accounting course just before she dropped out of college. Or a father who thinks how much money you make and what you do with it is something the rest of the family should know about.

Your Neighbors

You know the type. The mild-mannered shoe salesman next door who suddenly turns into a mathematical genius just about the time income tax is due. He knows all the angles. Some of which even the Internal Revenue Service doesn't know about yet. And he's willing to share them with you. "Just to be neighborly."

You

Your own worst enemy. All year long you can't balance your check book, but that doesn't stop you. Armed with your W-2's, a few reams of paper and a couple of gallons of coffee you bravely attack that stack of forms. You may be taking deductions you're not entitled to, and entitled to deductions you're not taking. So, should you be doing your own taxes?

Us

We're H & R Block, with over 6,000 conveniently located offices manned by thousands of specially trained tax preparers who eat, sleep, and drink income tax returns. People who set out to save you money and much of the time do it. The cost? Fees start at $5 and the average cost was under $12.50 for over 7 million customers we served last year. Furthermore, if your return is audited we will accompany you, at no extra cost, to the Internal Revenue Service and explain how your return was prepared, even though we will not act as your legal representative.

And everyone is eligible to receive our year round service which is covered by our one time fee. No extra charge for help with audits, estimates, or tax questions.

We know the people we've just told you about will do your income tax return for less than we can but we don't think you can afford them.

DON'T LET AN AMATEUR DO H&R BLOCK'S JOB.

H&R Block.

The income tax people.

Growth speed drops

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—The

Census Bureau recently made what appeared to be a portentous announcement that the United States is approaching "zero population growth."

Economists are somewhat skeptical. Even if it is true, they say, the key word is "approaching," and that means it will take at least 50 years to actually reach zero population growth.

Nevertheless, they say, if the Census Bureau is right, that means a substantial long-range change in the economic climate of the country.

The nation had a birth rate low enough during the depression of the 1930s to bring about zero population growth, but that was offset by substantial immigration. Dr. Solomon Fabricant of the National Bureau of Economic Research told

United Press International he doesn't believe Americans would accept larger numbers of immigrants in the years ahead.

On the contrary, there is a campaign now to curb illegal immigration and expel aliens who are in the country illegally.

Dr. Fabricant said the Census Bureau might have erred in its calculation. The bureau in the late 1940s grossly underestimated the growth of the population in the past 20 years, he pointed out.

"Supposing that the Census Bureau is right, and I concede that its supporting data seems better than that on which it based its erroneous forecasts in the late 1940s, there's still no reason for business to be frightened about the prospect of an ultimately stable population," Dr. Fabricant said.

He said a nearly stable population 20 years hence would mean a smaller Gross National Product in constant dollars.

"But," he said, "and this is the important thing, it would not mean lower production per capita. It might mean more production per capita, because we would have greater incentive to make maximum use of machinery and automated techniques."

The population would be older on the average, he said, and this would compel big changes in the life style and force tremendous adjustments in marketing and production strategies.

He thought such adjustments could come about rather slowly.

There probably would be somewhat fewer workers retiring early since there would not be so many younger workers seeking to push older people out and get the better jobs, he said.

Certain kinds of burdens on taxpayers probably would diminish. Education would cost less and so would other forms of tax supported welfare programs for the young.

"But the quality of life for all probably would improve," Fabricant said, "because the country would stop becoming more crowded year by year and our pollution and other ecological problems would be eased somewhat."

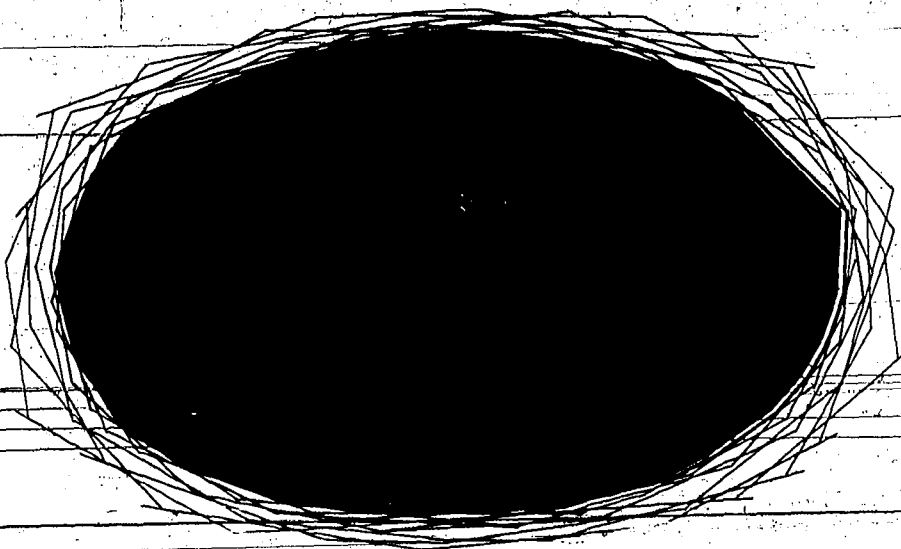

This optimistic outlook is tempered for Fabricant by concern over how a stable population might affect the nation's military strength and its national power. He pointed out that many nations who are potential rivals of the United States continue to have high birth rates.

One industry is sensitive to population changes — housing construction.

Lou Ripps of Porter & Ripps, a large community developer, said the stabilizing population trend could affect that market within 10 to 20 years. Other housing contractors said it could end the present booming trend in apartment and single dwelling construction much sooner.

FARM REVIEW & FORECAST

3 teams dominate picks for M.V. all-star game

Burley, Minico and Gooding dominate the selections for the first annual Magic Valley high school all-star team which will meet in a special showcase battle at 8 p.m. Friday at the College of Southern Idaho gymnasium.

The three teams which provided the three best records in the state during the season and one state championship, each placed three men on the respective clubs. In all, eleven Magic Valley schools will be represented in the event which will provide support for the Easter Seals finance campaign.

On the eastern team, coached by Gary Swan of Minico, will be Spartans Tony Saris, 5-11; Toby Harding, 6-2, and Randy Ketterling; from Burley will come Lon Frazier, 6-10; Cory Kidd, 6-4, and Kent Sagers, 6-2. Others are Tom Sapp, 6-2 of Kimberly; John Flynn, 6-2 of Murtaugh; Randy Hobbey, 6-2 of Jerome; and Ray Severo, 5-8 of Oakley.

Opposing them will be Gooding's trio of 6-7 Frank Krahn, 6-4 Gary Gorrell, and 5-9 Jeff LaCroix; Mark Tenpa, 6-2, and Kendall Meier, 6-7 of Buhl; Greg Laughlin, 6-0, and Doug Butler, 6-3, of Hagerman; Paul Sirum, 6-3 of Glenns Ferry; Durrell Groves, 6-0, of Twin Falls, and Mike Kinney, 5-11 of Shoshone. The west will be coached by Jim Thacker of Gooding. Rollie Moore, Twin Falls, chairman of the game committee, announced the lineups after a long day on the telephone in which all possible high school and college eligibility conflicts and obstacles were removed.

Although the committee had obtained verbal disclaimers from the NCAA that participation could possibly effect future college eligibility, several players, on advice of their coaches and school officials, had been reluctant to play. Moore said he has the telephone conversation of NCAA headquarters recorded, a telegram confirming the conversation and a back-up letter on its way.

"We have contacted five different athletic groups on the state and national level and have been cleared by all of them," Moore said. "It has been a frantic past several hours but we now are in the clear and just pointing toward a great game."

Initiation of the series this year should provide a great start since the area has probably its all-time best selection in the way of height.

There are only two rules for the game other than the usual high school standards. The first is neither team will be allowed to play a zone defense and, secondly all the boys will play. The east will have the biggest man in 6-10 Lon Frazier but the west isn't out of the height business with two six-seven men, Krahn and Meier. Each side has only two men under six feet. The east has Sagers at 5-11 and Ray Severo at 5-8 while the west has LaCroix at 5-9 and Kinney at 5-11.

The matchup of Frazier against Krahn is something Burley and Gooding fans have been awaiting since the all-star idea first came up. There are others at the guard position where Saris and LaCroix will lock horns, both with top credentials on all parts of the game.

Neither coach plans an elaborate offensive system, with only time for a couple of three practices, the game will rise or fall on the one-on-one situations that will occur everywhere. In such contests, about the only thing the coach can do is try to contrive situations that will allow his boys to take full advantage of what he does best.

Following the game, the players will be further honored at a banquet. Sterling Jewelry of Twin Falls has donated suitable inscribed plaques for the participants — to the full measure of the allowable limit set up by the state athletic code. Moore said no passes or cards will be honored at the game since all proceeds go to charity.

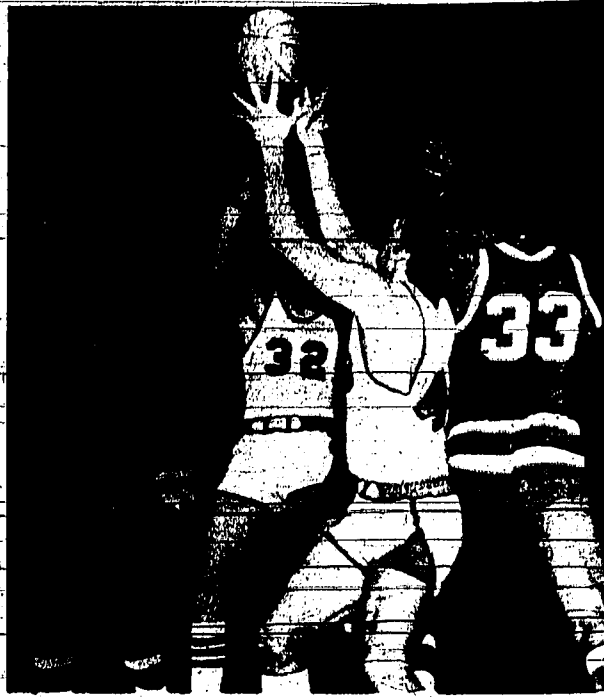

Shooters conclude matches

Brent Barham, Boise, and Sheila Saleen were the top winners Sunday in the Idaho State Junior gallery rifle championships.

The competition Sunday was for youths 14 years and older. Barham was the first place winner for the boys division and Miss Saleen took the top spot in the girls division. Don Schiermeier, Twin Falls, was second place in the boys division and Ross Barham, Boise, was third.

Dave Zuck, Twin Falls, was the match winner in the prone position with 100. Other winners in the prone matches included Don Schiermeier, Twin Falls; Brent Barham, Beth Pulley, Vicki Smith and Pam Saleen.

Match winner in the sitting position was Ross Barham, followed by Brent Barham. Other winners were Don Schiermeier, Mark Smith, Vickie Phillips, Sandy Wokersien and Brad Shaw. Don Schiermeier, Twin Falls, was the match winner in the kneeling position with Brent Barham, second. Winners in that position also included Mel Olson, Clare Olson, Sheila Saleen, Steve King and Don Stevens.

Players try for rebound

GOING UP for a rebound are Edinboro State's Don Gerdich (32) and Jim Romaniszyn (40) in the first game of the NAIA basketball tournament Monday against Westmont College (Calif.). Westmont's Charles Anderson is in on the action as Fred DeVaughn (53) watches. Westmont won the game 91-72. The tourney is being played in Kansas City, Missouri.

Coach says miracle required for Long Beach to top BYU

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Coach Jerry Tarkanian said Monday it took a miracle for his Long Beach State 49ers to come back against Brigham Young University in the Far West NCAA regional, for an overtime victory.

"I keep reading that the best way to beat us was to get ahead but that's our idea too," Tarkanian told the Southern California Basketball Writers. "We were fortunate to be down by only 10 points at halftime and we didn't get ahead until about 40 seconds were left in the overtime period."

Racing fans discuss plans

Local members of the National Hot Rod Association met this past week-end to discuss 1972 rules as well as the race schedule throughout the Northwest.

Mr. and Mrs. Aldon Miller, Idaho Falls, discussed their plans for a drag strip in eastern Idaho. Ed Brubaker, Los Angeles, explained his plans for possibilities concerning a new drag strip in Gooding.

Films of the recent Winter National's in Los Angeles were shown to the group. Several racing fans from Magic Valley attended this California race.

Wheat dies

VERSAILLES, Mo. (UPI) — Funeral services were scheduled for Tuesday morning here for baseball Hall of Famer Zack Wheat, who succumbed Saturday night, apparently of a heart attack.

Wheat, 33, spent 14 of his 18 years in the major leagues with the Brooklyn Dodgers. He was the National League batting champion in 1918 with a .335 average.

Eau Claire is winner in NAIA

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Tall and powerful Eau Claire (Wis.) proved it was deserving of the top seed in the NAIA basketball tournament Monday night, ripping Bishop (Tex.) 96-65 behind the 24-point scoring of Mike Ratliff.

Fourth-seeded Gardner-Webb, with George Adams scoring 34 points, pounded Eastern Montana 109-94 in the first game of the night session.

Eau Claire stormed to a 44-22 halftime lead and increased the margin to 62-33 in the first six minutes of the second half.

Behind Ratliff in scoring for the Wisconsin team was Frank Schude with 18 points and Tom Peck with 17. Willie Collins led Bishop with 28.

74-year-old holds record

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Virgil Sturgill, 74, holds the world record in the mile run for the 70-year-and-over set with a time of 6:55. The former teacher runs three miles every day to stay in shape.

Undefeated UCLA is No. 1 in final UPI cage rating

NEW YORK (UPI) — UCLA, which raced through a perfect 26-0 season, Monday became the unanimous choice of the United Press International Board of College as the 1971-72 collegiate basketball champion.

The Bruins of coach Johnny Wooden, highly regarded at the opening of the season because of an influx of sophomores in their starting lineup, quickly put themselves on a par with past Wooden-coached teams when they became the only major college to finish the season undefeated.

Led by 6-11 soph Bill Walton and 6-2 backcourt ace Henry Bibby, UCLA averaged close to 100 points per game while yielding just 64 to lead the nation in scoring margin as well as victories. Walton averaged 22 points and 15 rebounds per game while Bibby, the only senior in the starting lineup, had a 17-point average.

North Carolina (23-1), which won the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, was eleventh followed by Minnesota, Memphis State, in the final ratings with 27 points and Penn, the Ivy League champ, was third with 247 points.

Fourth place went to Louisville which won its Missouri Valley conference in a playoff with Memphis State last week and at No. 6 was South Carolina, which finished its season at 22-4 and then opened the NCAA tourney with a 53-51 win over Temple.

Long Beach State, which began past season NCAA play with a 95-90 overtime win over Brigham Young, was sixth and Marquette finished seventh.

The rest of the top 10 saw Southwestern Louisiana (8th), Brigham Young (9th) and Florida State (10th). For the No. 8 again Cajons, the leap into the top 10 marks quite an accomplishment after being classified as a college division school just one year ago.

Maryland, which finished up at 22-5 with a bid to the National Invitation Tournament, was eleventh followed by Minnesota, Memphis State,

Frazier and Ali set return match

NEW YORK (UPI) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali will probably meet in a return match in September in the Los Angeles Forum, it was revealed Monday.

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Los Angeles Lakers pro basketball team and the Los Angeles Kings hockey team, holds the rights to the rematch, sports commentator Howard Cosell said on "Monday Night Sports," televised by the American Broadcasting Company.

Cosell interviewing the key figures in the heavyweight match won by Frazier a year ago, talked to Frazier, Ali, and their respective lawyers Bruce Wright and Bob Arum, and Cooke.

It had been thought that Cooke had a two-year agreement for promoting the fight, but he told Cosell that "this is the first time I am announcing publicly that my option lasts for more than two years."

Actually, Arum said, Cooke's contract ran in perpetuity and that if the fighters ever want to meet in a rematch they must fight for Cooke.

Frazier and Ali were understood to have been guaranteed $750,000 each, plus a percentage of the gate for a rematch. However, Wright revealed that Cooke had agreed to a more substantial guarantee.

Cooke would like a June or July rematch, but both fighters insist they want a few more tune-ups before the big fight. Frazier's only action since the Ali bout was an easy knockout over Terry Daniels in New Orleans last January. Ali has had three fights since then.

Cooke also revealed that there would be no change from the first Frazier-Ali fight in which closed circuit ticket prices were set at a $25 minimum.

Nicklaus leads PGA money list

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jerry Heard's $30,000 check for winning Sunday's Florida Citrus open moved the Californian from 26th to seventh place among the pro golf money winners Monday, with 1972 earnings of $45,108.

Jack Nicklaus leads the money standings with $97,720, including the $3,000 picked up for 10th place ties in the Citrus. Tom Weiskopf, 21st in the tourney, is second with $64,504. Bob Rosburg is third at $57,107. George Archer is No. 4 with $56,425 and Grier Jones ranks fifth with $54,035.

Rounding out the top 10 are Bob Murphy, $52,256; Lanny Wadkins, $44,217; Lee Trevino, $39,479; and Paul Harney, $33,035.

Marquette reinstated for NCAA tournament

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Marquette University officials and player Bob Lackey said Monday they were not surprised the NCAA ruled Lackey and the seventh ranked Warriors eligible to play in the NCAA basketball tournament because, they said, Lackey never did anything wrong.

Head Coach Al McGuire admitted he was pleased by the decision. "We kind of blew a day's practice today because of this, but I'm very happy for the players, the student body and the fans."

Assistant coach Hank Raymonds, commenting on the NCAA's decision, said "We more or less expected they had to. We didn't figure he (Lackey) did anything. We felt it was a misunderstanding and never should have started anyway."

Lackey, who worked out with the team Monday afternoon, said that all during the controversy "I felt like I was going to play. I'm glad it's over with, but I hadn't done anything."

The NCAA Sunday said Marquette would be ineligible to continue play in the tournament because Lackey hadn't signed an affidavit disclaiming reports he had retained an agent to negotiate a professional contract.

Monday, in a meeting with NCAA officials, coach McGuire and other Marquette officials, Lackey signed the affidavit and the NCAA said the whole issue was over.

The NCAA last Friday asked Lackey to sign the affidavit, as it did several other players. But coach McGuire cautioned him not to sign the 15 question form immediately without consulting a lawyer.

Raymonds said the situation was like someone "awakening you at 2 a.m. and saying 'Hey, you come down to headquarters with us and sign this.' He naturally wanted legal advice."

The NCAA allowed Lackey to play Saturday. He scored 20 points to help lead the Warriors to a 73-40 win over Ohio University. Sunday, the NCAA ruled Marquette ineligible to continue in the tourney but said Marquette could appeal the action.

The Warriors did and according to Raymonds "the NCAA is satisfied, we are satisfied."

Raymonds said the team was not at all affected by the brief controversy which lasted less than 24 hours. The NCAA ruling came down Sunday about 4 p.m. and Lackey signed about 3 p.m. Monday.

That period, Raymonds said, "was all between our two practices. When we finished practice yesterday (Sunday) we hadn't known about it. And at practice today it was over."

The team practiced its regular drills Monday, Raymonds said, and Tuesday will start gearing up for Kentucky, which it will meet Thursday night in the semifinals of the Midwest regional at Dayton, Ohio.

"We had a good practice today," he said. "Tomorrow we start working for Kentucky."

Raymonds said the effect on the team, if anything, will be positive. "It will probably help us psychologically," he said. "They'll be closer together than ever before. Believe me, we will be ready to play."

Lackey, too, said the Warriors would be up for Kentucky, a team that has played some rousing contests against Marquette in the past.

"Yeah, no doubt about it," he said. "We will be up for Kentucky. It's all we've been talking about since we beat Ohio. We'll be there to play, that's for sure."

Gunter, Smith lead grand prix

BOSTON (UPI)—Nancy Richey Gunter has taken over the lead in the women's segment of the $375,000-plus Commercial Union Grand Prix of tennis and Stan Smith has stretched his lead in the men's race, it was announced Monday.

Mrs. Gunter of San Angelo, Tex., climbed past last week's leader, Rosemary Casals, by winning the $30,000 Maureen Connolly Brinker International last weekend in Dallas. The victory gave her 50 points and boosted her Grand Prix tournament total to 80, 22 points ahead of Miss Casals.

Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., streaked to his fourth consecutive pro tour victory last weekend, winning the $25,000 Equity Funding International in Washington. He now has 140 points, 64 more than the Nastase of Romania.

Top prizes in the Grand Prix are $50,000 for the men's winner and $25,000 for the women's champion.

The Grand Prix Committee of the International Lawn Tennis Foundation ruled last week that men must participate in 12 events and women in 10 to qualify for the bonus pool.

Previously, only players participating in the French open, All-England Championships at Wimbledon and U.S. Open at Forest Hills, N.Y., would be eligible for Grand Prix bonus awards.

Royals win

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI)—The Kansas City Royals jumped on veterans Denny Lemaster and Ron Taylor for 10 hits and four runs in their last four times at bat to overcome an early Montreal lead and defeat the Expos 4-2 in a Grapefruit League game Monday.

Abernathy doesn't encourage youngsters to adopt style

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI)—A lot of ballplayers encourage youngsters to imitate their styles, but Ted Abernathy of the Kansas City Royals, who has a style all his own, is not one of them.

"I don't recommend it," says Abernathy, whose submarine pitching delivery has carried him through 636 major league appearances.

Abernathy, 39, now the oldest player in the American League, says his type of pitching would place too much strain on a youngster's arm.

But he says some still insist on trying it.

"I try to explain it to them, but they come back and tell me, 'Well, you're doing a good job with it,'" he said.

"It's definitely hard on the arm. You have to throw the ball with all arm."

The Abernathy delivery is almost underhanded, resembling as it does a softball pitch. But it has also been highly successful, since his earned-run average has been above 2.67 only once in the past six seasons.

Abernathy was forced into his style following injuries to his shoulder. Since it is unique, batters rarely see it, and thus they are ill-prepared to hit it.

"If you're gonna pitch like a softball pitcher, get a big ball," someone once yelled.

"It took me 10 years to learn to hit the curveball that goes down," Deron Johnson, now with the Phillies, once told Abernathy. "Then here comes some freak that throws a curveball that goes up."

"He didn't like me," Abernathy recalled. "Naturally, it's an advantage to me, the way I throw, because a guy throws overhand, say for the first seven innings, then I come in and they've got to pick up my motion."

This spring, as he does every year, Abernathy took his time working into shape. Because of his old injuries, he says it takes his arm almost all of spring training to get ready for the season but when Opening Day comes, he usually is there.

"I tell every club I'm with not to go by what I do in spring training, because I might not get anybody out down here," Abernathy says.

Abernathy believes the success he and other relief specialists have enjoyed may some day foster a whole generation of young pitchers who will grow up hoping to be relievers instead of starters. He admits the day is probably still far off, however.

Islands will remain off limits for boats

Some 85 islands in the Snake River from Walters Ferry downstream to Brownlee Reservoir will continue to be off limits for boat fishermen through May 15, 1972.

These islands represent the Snake River sector of the Federal Deer Flat National Wildlife Refuge and shoreline fishing is prohibited on the islands during the goose nesting season from February 1 to May 15. Each island is conspicuously marked with refuge signs, according to Dick Norrell, state game bird supervisor.

Geese are susceptible to human activity, including boating and fishing, and sometimes will abandon nesting chores when disturbed in this way.

In addition to the islands, Deer Flat National Wildlife Refuge includes Lake Lowell and adjacent lands. On the Deer Flat sector of the wildlife refuge, boats with motors may be used during daylight hours only (one hour before sunrise to one hour after sunset) from April 5 through September 30. Boats without motors may be used year-round except in hunting areas 2 and 3, described in the game bird regulations available at license vendors.

Whistle while they talk

CHICAGO (UPI)—When your neighbor is beyond shouting distance and there is no telephone, try the Gomera way.

Gomera is among the Canary Islands and, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, many Gomeras "talk" by whistling. They've been doing so for centuries.

Scientists have authenticated that the whistling natives can carry on lengthy conversations although far out of range of the human voice simply by thrusting fingers in mouths and whistling at each other.

Charges will be delayed

PROVO, Utah (UPI)—Possession of marijuana charges against two former Brigham Young University football players were put off indefinitely Monday and authorities have all but given up hope of getting a third to return to the state.

Utah County District Attorney Arnold Roylance said a continuance has been granted at the request of BYU officials for Chris Parasopoulos, now with the New York Jets football team, and Ron Knight, the school's first black player.

However, he said, an arraignment will have to be set in Provo City court "within a reasonable time."

Roylance said a summons for the appearance of Kwn Serek has never been served because he is out of state and authorities do not know where to find him.

Charges against the trio were filed by BYU security officers last month.

COVERING HIMSELF is New York Rangers' Bruce MaoGregor (14) as he collides with Seattle's Dick Redmond (4) on the board during a game Monday. The Seattle upset the Rangers 7-3, snapping the Rangers' unbeaten streak at 16 games. (UPI-Telephoto).

Baltimore topples Rangers

MIAMI (UPI)—Striking for four runs on just three hits in the third inning, the Baltimore Orioles toppled the Texas Rangers, 5-2 Monday.

The Orioles, now 2-2 in the Grapefruit League, opened the scoring in the first inning when Don Buford walked, moved to second on Merv Rettenmund's hit, then scored on Boog Powell's single.

In the third, Buford again led off with a walk, moved to second when Rettenmund walked, then scored when Rangers' second baseman Lenny Randle bobbled Bobby Grich's infield bouncer. Three more runs followed on singles by Powell, Brooks Robinson and Dave Johnson.

Texas scored once in the second on two walks and a hit from Jim Mason. In the third the Rangers used a hit and stolen base by Randle, followed by a Larry Billmer single for their second run.

The Orioles picked up all of their runs and six of their nine hits off Texas starter Dick Bosman. The Rangers got their two runs off Baltimore starter Wayne Garland.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, in a turnaround, moved higher Tuesday in a session featuring the largest block trade in the New York Stock Exchange's history.

Kaiser Industries sold 5,245,000 shares of American Motors at 7 1/4 unchanged from Thursday's closing prices, in a transaction with more than $38 million. The previous record was 3,248,000 shares of Allis-Chalmers on Feb. 8, 1971. In dollar volume, the American Motors sale was well off the record $76.1 million, trade of American Standard preferred A in June, 1968.

The trade Tuesday pushed the three-hour volume up to more than 15,730,000 shares, compared with the 10,400,000 traded during the corresponding period Monday.

The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chip stocks rose 6.94 to 934.00, after being lower at the outset. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which in early trading, rose 0.30 to 107.63. Advancing issues topped declines, 763 to 565, among the 1,681 issues crossing the tape.

Steels and motors moved narrowly higher. Chemicals and oils were mixed. Eastman Kodak gained 1 1/4 in the chemicals. Jersey Standard added 1 1/4 in the oils. Superior Oil lost 2 1/4, Natoms 1 1/4.

Rails, airlines and aircraft moved in both directions. Flying Tiger (ex-dividend) gained 1 1/4 in the airlines. Electronics and computers were mixed. Honeywell dropped 1 1/4.

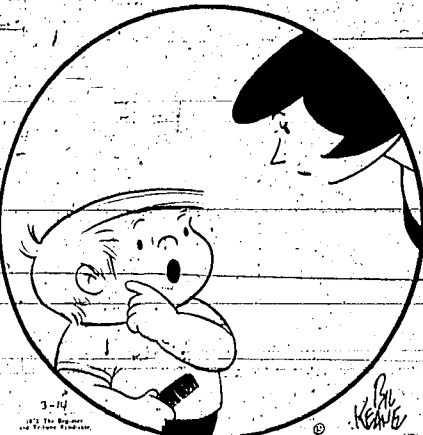

Wrigley gained 3 in its group after the company said it expected its first quarter earnings to exceed those of last year. International Telephone & Telegraph gained 2 1/4. American Research & Development and Warner Communications were point-sized gainers. Xerox was softer by a point.

"Can't I leave this hair long right here? It's the only way I can grow sideburns."

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MARCH 15, 1972.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning brings an opportunity to wind up a tiresome task and to get ready for a new set of circumstances that can bring you the goodwill of your associates. Be ready to pioneer in new lines of activity that mean much and can inspire you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you get your health toned-up you can accomplish a great deal today. Put new plans in operation in the afternoon for best results. This brings greater support in the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Obtain information from experts for ideas and advice you need at this time. Showing a philanthropic spirit with others gains you much goodwill and greater support in the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Contact personal friends who have it in their power to help you attain personal and business aims more quickly. You can state your aims best in the late afternoon.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan what you most desire to accomplish, and then contact influential persons who can open the right door for you. Attend to pressing bills promptly. Be alert.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Delve into new activities early with new contacts you've made recently and get the results you want. Put a new project in operation with confidence. Be more broadminded.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have the right sense of obligation now and can make a fine impression on others. One who charms you can be most helpful. Cultivate this person. Show that you have wisdom.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Your dynamic associates are in a good mood to cooperate with you today, so act quickly and come to a fine understanding. Show mate that you are a very reasonable person.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Tackle your work from a different angle and get better results at this time. Plan some time for shopping that is necessary. Purchase some expensive finery and feel good.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are able to do now those things that bring the pleasure that has not been possible to you for some time. Put a good plan across and feel elated. Think constructively.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can handle an irritating condition at home wisely and well in the morning. Then engage in business affairs that are vital to your welfare. Use the right philosophy.

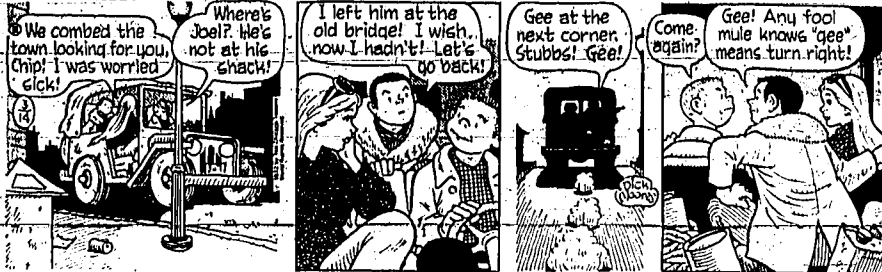

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can come to a fine understanding with kin now as well as associates because you are thinking accurately. Show others that you will help them to gain their ambitions.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to study a situation in an objective manner if you are to get the extra money you need right now. Experts in business can be helpful if you are practical.

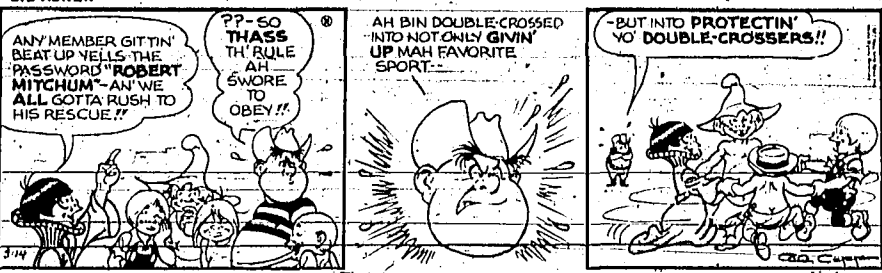

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those young people who will have modern ideas and can become successful in the world of tomorrow. Much pioneering will be the order of an interesting future. Give as fine a course as you can in schools that have a great variety of subjects so that your progeny will know something about many things. This is the key to success here.

"The Stars Impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Miss, Here Is A Perfect Face

Young lady, the distance from the tip of your nose to the end of your chin should be exactly one-third the length of your face. And from your hairline to the inner tips of your eyebrows, likewise one-third. And from the inner tips of your eyebrows to the end of your nose, also one-third. That is, if you're the one girl in 100 said to possess the perfect countenance. Such is the claim of a sculptor who has made an extensive study of feminine features.

ONE MORE candidate for the title of the world's best knock knock joke, if you please: "Knock knock." "Who's there?" "Eucalyptus." "Eucalyptus who?" "Eucalyptus—hair—too short." No, that one won't make it. Regrets.

DON'T CARE if it is the most profitable grub on the market, I certainly wouldn't eat it. Dog food. Do you realize the citizenry spends almost four times as much on it as on baby food?

HANDWRITING
According to the graphologists, if your handwritten letters get a little larger toward the end of your words, you're prone to talk too much. But if they get somewhat smaller, you're probably a tactful diplomatic sort.

Q. "In professional football, what does a place kicker have to worry about most?"

A. Clump for sign labor. I think. No, that's too cute. Timing.

A WALL STREET headwaiter says the size of the tips in his place precisely reflect the day's ticker action. Reasonable.

EVERY TIME I say Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest Greek letter fraternity in the nation, somebody wants to argue. Why?

GOOD NEWS! Once you pass age 16, chances you'll be arrested get littler and littler, statistically.

CIGARETTES

The U. S. Congress won't let cigarette ads show up on our television sets known by all. But all are not aware the U. S. government at the same time has been subsidizing cigarette advertising in Japan, Thailand and Austria. Theoretically, to build a market overseas for the tobacco boys. It is all so strange, so very strange.

JUST ABOUT all the major opera companies in the world have warned their sopranos to stay off The Pill. Tends to lower their vocal registers. It's said.

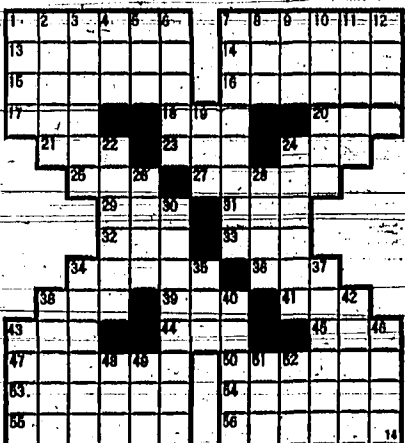

LET IT ALSO be known the average birthday present nationwide now costs $13.

ORIGIN: "TO SPILL THE BEANS"

In Ancient Greece, members of secret societies, in order to keep their votes secret, cast white beans in a jar if they favored a candidate, dark beans if they wanted him black-balled. Occasionally a clumsy voter would knock the jar over, disclosing its contents — spilling the beans. It's no secret that to find good value and opportunity you should read the contents of Times-News Classified. Each day House hunters, auto hunters, job seekers, will find Want Ads a handy guide to getting more out of life. Check Now!

Doctor says pilot ill unnoticed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Airline pilots suffering from such problems as alcoholism, mental ailments and heart disease are escaping detection, the government's top aviation medical official said Monday.

The Federal Aviation Administration's (FAA) air surgeon, P.V. Siegal, put the blame on a small number of the 2,187 private doctors designated by the FAA as aviation medical examiners for commercial pilots.

Some of these doctors do not report "all they know" to the FAA for fear of endangering a pilot's job, Siegal said in an interview. Others have "well known reputations among the pilot community for being easy examiners," he added.

In an effort to get rid of bad apples, the government revokes 10 to 12 medical examiner certificates a year, and lets about 100 others lapse," Siegal said.

But, he said, "the pilots know where to go. One medical examiner performed over 3,000 physical examinations in a year. Twenty three examiners did a total of 18,000 examinations in 1971."

There are approximately 60,000 pilots in the United States with advanced commercial licenses who must take on FAA-required physicals as often as twice a year, but at least once a year.

Under a proposed FAA rule, the government would scrap the aviation medical examiner system for commercial pilots and give the airlines power to conduct the examinations.

Capt. J.J. O'Donnell, president of the 46,000-member Air Line Pilots Association (ALPA), opposes the rule change, contending the existing system works.

"There has never been an accident in the history of the jet age," he said, that could be blamed on a pilot's health.

But Siegal argued that because some pilots do get inadequate physical examinations "the potential" for tragedy exists.

To support his argument, Siegal said that the FAA had received anonymous tips which uncovered cases where pilots were being treated for serious ailments. But the aviation medical examiners never reported the conditions to the FAA, he said.

Fog prediction causes planning

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI)—Scientists in Boulder are working to try to avoid a massive traffic jam of ships in the Panama Canal, predicted for the mid-1980s due to fog.

The fog rolls in off the ocean to cover the canal locks about 180 times each year. So far, the fog has not caused many major problems but fears are that the crunch will occur in the 1980s when ship traffic reaches a peak.

The studies in Boulder are being conducted by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA). Data on elements within the Panama Canal fog layers has been collected and tests are due soon on dissipation techniques.

Dr. Lothar H. Ruhnke, senior scientist at the NOAA labs, said the research, also supported by the Panama Canal Co., includes sampling of sizes and types of fog particles because different types of fog respond differently to various methods of weather modification.

Some fogs can be dissipated by blowing air, Ruhnke said, while others can be dissolved by particles which collect airborne water and bring it to the ground.

"Artificial heating, washout and electrostatic precipitation are other proposed methods of fog dissipation," Ruhnke said. "Each has its own unique requirements."

According to Ruhnke, there is some reason to believe that ships passing through the Canal are in part responsible for the fog. He said the ships burn fuel which results in water vapor and particles that are found in fog.

He said tests on ways of dissipating the fog would be conducted with computer models of the Panama Canal and also would include on-site experiments.

"This will provide us with a unique testing ground for fog modification concepts as well as give us a general idea of the practicality of attempting to keep the canal open to more traffic," Ruhnke said.

Methodist Rabbi?

By WILEY MALONEY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—To the beat of hard rock and pulsating psychedelic lights, a 72-year-old Jewish leader was installed Sunday as a "rabbi in residence" at the free-wheeling Glide Memorial United Methodist Church.

"We hope to announce in the very near future that we will have in residence, a Roman Catholic priest," said Glide's Rev. Cecil Williams, who is "spiritual adviser" to black militant Angela Davis.

Establishment takes trouncing in Georgia

ATLANTA (UPI)—They let "grass" Democrats select the delegates to the National Democratic Convention for the first time in Georgia. The establishment took a trouncing.

Georgia's fifth congressional district, about two-thirds white and encompassing Atlanta, ended up with an all-black delegation when the rock 'n' roll music died out Saturday.

In rich DeKalb County, where the old established Democrats often throw little political get-togethers in their $80,000 homes, a former Roman Catholic priest engineered a coup to "install" himself, a Presbyterian minister and two women—all of whom are committed to peace, civil rights and Sen. George McGovern.

Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York made the best showing, capturing five delegates and four alternates. McGovern got the four delegates and three alternates, one delegate ran pledged to Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas and one alternate was pledged to Sen. Edmund Muskie.

Before this presidential year, the governor always hand-picked the delegation. In 1968 Gov. Lester Maddox took a hand-picked delegation to Chicago and promptly had half of them unseated by a militant group led by State Rep. Julian Bond, a black.
