Red units gain in Cambodia

—SAIGON (UPI)— Saigon spokesmen today reported the capture of a huge Communist supply dump in Eastern Cambodia but the military situation deteriorated elsewhere in Cambodia, and in Laos where the big CIA base at Long Cheng was gravely threatened.

—UPL-correspondent Pon-Chan-taraj reported from the Lao capital of Vientiane that B52s had been called in to try to stem the North Vietnamese attack on Long Cheng, under heavy artillery and rocket bombardment. But government sources in Vientiane said they doubted Long Cheng could be held.

The big North Vietnamese offensive, second of the year, began Saturday with tank and heavy artillery support. The Communists quickly captured the outpost of Sam Thong and Skyline Ridge, overlooking the base where Mao Gen. Vang Pao operates with CIA assistance. Thai-mercenaries and Mao tribesmen fled back to Lon Cheng but were taking a heavy pounding. Fall of Long Cheng would open the way for a North Vietnamese drive southward on Vientiane itself.

North Vietnamese blew up an estimated 50,000 gallons of aviation gasoline in an attack early today at Ai Tu Airfield just north of Quang Tri, in the coastal regions, 400 miles northeast of Saigon. This was one of 63 Communist attacks reported in the suddenly increased tempo of the war. UPI correspondent Kate Webb reported from Phnom Penh that the Communists also blew up an ammunition dump

Senate receives new health levy

BOISE (UPI)— The Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee sent to the floor without recommendation today legislation authorizing county commissioners to levy up to a two mill tax to support regional health districts.

Robert Des Aulniers, acting state health administrator, told the committee the health districts provide nursing, sanitation, health education, administrative services, and other programs.

Sen. Warren Brown, R-McCall, chairman, questioned wording in the bill on grounds it appears to make the two mill levy mandatory.

Revised Gem code may reach house

BOISE (UPI)— A revised version of Idaho's controversial, new criminal code should be ready for introduction in the house late today, Speaker William J. Lanting, R-Hollister, said.

Lanting said he hoped the house will be able to get rules suspension for early consideration, if necessary, or both versions so the legislature can make up its mind which way it wants to go.

Something has to be passed before April 1 or the state will be without a penal code.

Court backs California death rule

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Supreme Court refused today to delay the effect of a California Supreme Court ruling abolishing the death penalty in that state.

The state court ruled on Feb. 18 that capital punishment was "cruel and unusual punishment" under the California constitution.

The high court's ruling came the same day the California court's ruling was to become effective. The California court planned to meet today to hand down an order making its ruling final.

California Attorney General Evelle J. Younger asked that the state ruling be stayed while it is being appealed to the high court.

The U. S. Supreme Court is expected to decide the constitutionality of the death penalty before the end of the current term in June.

Younger said the people of California have been denied their right to "a republican form of government" by having the court step into an area where "elected representatives and executive officers (are) empowered to act."

He said a stay would not harm the inmates of death row because they would be subject to further confinement under sentences reduced to life imprisonment. But he said the state's right to an appeal could be prejudiced. "Dangerous criminals" now held for trial without bail may be released, he told the court.

New violence hits Walpole

WALPOLE, Mass. (UPI)— A new round of violence broke out at the Walpole State Prison Sunday when 18 inmates who "couldn't see any real reason" for being locked up barricaded themselves in a maximum security cellblock.

Five inmates and two guards were injured when corrections officers used tear gas to re-enter cellblock Two and take the rebellious prisoners back into custody.

Robert Donnelly, superintendent of the facility for the past two weeks, said the inmates refused to be locked up, barricaded themselves inside the cellblock, armed themselves with furniture legs and broom handles, daubed vaseline over themselves to ward off the effects of tear gas and put wet stockings over their heads.

Three of the inmates were taken to Massachusetts General Hospital and the two others were removed to the correctional infirmary at Norfolk. Officials said the guards suffered only minor injuries. A sixth inmate, an asthmatic, was hospitalized because of an allergic reaction to the tear gas.

Trouble began Friday night when a black inmate, Roland Stokes, 22, was stabbed in the back by a white inmate.

Idaho potato tax amendment asked

BOISE (UPI)— Despite fears it is too late in this session to change it, a house committee today decided to try to amend the senate's potato tax increase bill.

—Rep. Allan F. Larson, R-

Backfoot, said he felt a revised bill still could be pushed through this session of the legislature if all segments of the potato industry would get behind it.

But even as he urged the bill be changed, a processor warned the House Agricultural Affairs Committee he would not go for any bill that increases the tax on him without giving him a vote in the referendum.

"I think it is unfair to ask that," said Jay Connelly, president of the Idaho Processors Association. Spokesmen for growers and processors both objected to the bill in its present form, as amended in the senate.

Jack Coles, a lobbyist for the National Farmers Organization, said the bill was a compromise but others disagreed.

Under the bill the present tax of two and one quarter cents per hundredweight would be hiked to three cents July 1, 1972; to four cents July 1, 1974, and to five cents July 1, 1975.

Gooding's HS opened

GOODING — Supt. of Schools James Muscat welcomed students to the new $1.3 million Gooding High School this morning.

Classes began in the new plant today. William Bade, principal, praised the students for moving into the new plant within three hours, rather than three days anticipated by officials.

Richard Graves, chairman of the board of trustees, and Joe Daniels, student body vice president, also spoke at opening ceremonies.

The flag raising ceremony was conducted by Jeff LeCroz, student body president, and Joe Daniels. The Gooding High School band played the National Anthem.

The new plant culminates two years of work plagued by financial difficulties which delayed construction 18 months. A bond issue for $1.1 million was passed by Gooding property owners in May 1969, but before the bond sale could be completed the supreme court ruled that bond elections could not be limited to real-property owners.

The ruling halted sale of the bonds until the issue was settled.

A year later the school board obtained a legal opinion that the supreme court ruling did not apply since the bonds were approved before the decision was handed down.

Construction began early in 1971. The school was ready in January, but Muscat said lockers were two months late, delaying the move until March.

Students have been using the gymnasium since January.

Chinese, US talk in Paris

PARIS (UPI)— U.S. Ambassador Arthur K. Watson and Chinese Ambassador Huang Chen conferred for 70 minutes at the U.S. Embassy today in their second meeting to maintain the Sino-American contacts begun by President Nixon's visit to Peking.

Details of the meeting were not disclosed, but a U.S. Embassy spokesman quoted Watson as saying, "We had a fine meeting."

Washington and Peking chose Paris as the site to continue regular contacts between the two nations begun by Nixon's visit to China last month. The first meeting was held at the Chinese Embassy last Monday.

No announcement was made about the next meeting, and U.S. officials indicated that future meetings, like the first two, would not be announced in advance.

Anti-drug drive opens

NEW YORK (UPI)— President Nixon, seeking to highlight his personal interest in a federally coordinated campaign to drive drug pushers from the nation's streets, flew today to the home of most of the nation's addicts and suppliers.

The presidents plane landed a plane landed at 10:40 a.m. EST at Kennedy International Airport. There the presidential party boarded helicopters which took them to lower Manhattan for a meeting with federal narcotics officers at Federal Plaza.

Mars photos hint water on planet

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)— There may be a large amount of water on Mars, frozen in vast deposits of ice under ground, according to evidence turned up by Mariner 9, the Mars-circling satellite.

The Martian surface may have been eroded by running water, scientists said.

Jet Propulsion Laboratory, control point for the Mariner mission, released photographs

Sunday that indicate the presence of large amounts of water ice.

The Martian polar caps are frosted with dry ice, frozen carbon dioxide, and scientists said in the past that there were traces of water vapor in the atmosphere, but no evidence of anything but a very tiny amount of water on the planet.

Mariner 9 returned pictures earlier in its mission, however, of features that appeared to be dry river beds and stream systems, including a Martian "Grand Canyon," inspiring some cautious speculation that perhaps Mars once had rivers.

The question remained: If Mars ever did have water, what became of it?

at an altitude of 2,321 miles above the South Pole.

The photo "shows a feature that suggests there may be deep deposits of water ice beneath the surface," a JPL spokesman said.

A second photo, taken March 9 from 1,116 miles up, shows a complex of "a series of channels or grooves formed by fluid erosion of some kind," he said. The photos "strongly suggest to some scientists that there has been liquid water on Mars at some time or other," the spokesman said.

"There is nothing to suggest that there is a large quantity (in liquid form) now, but the North Polar cap may contain a lot under the carbon dioxide cap," he said.

Nampa man, 22, injured in TF

TWIN FALLS — Bernard Lee Galloway, 22, Nampa, suffered minor injuries and was given a citation for violation of the basic rule following an accident Saturday night.

Twin Falls County sheriff's officers said the young man was traveling north on Washington Street when he failed to negotiate the turn at the north end of the street onto Pole Line Road. Officers said he was traveling too fast for the weather and road conditions. A sign warning of the curve is located ahead of the turn.

The accident occurred at 8:13 p.m. Saturday. A passenger in the vehicle, Sharon Deagle, 16, Twin Falls, escaped injury. The driver was treated for cuts and released.

Two burglaries reported in TF

TWIN FALLS — A quantity of drugs and an undetermined amount of cash and merchandise were taken in two burglaries in Twin Falls during the weekend.

City police said someone broke the glass door on Oslo Drug on the southwest corner of the building and entered while two janitorial workers were in the back of the building cleaning. The building is located in the Blue Lakes Shopping Center.

Police said a quantity of drugs had been taken but exact amount and value were still unknown.

At the Brake and Petroleum, 2134th Ave. W., Charles Bowyer told officers someone pried open the back sliding doors and entered the building sometime prior to 1:30 p.m. Sunday. He said some cash and merchandise were taken but the amount of the loss had not been determined.

COMMENT

Hubert's Ante

Portland Oregonian

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., has out-bid Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., for the senior-citizen vote. Recently Rep. Mills, who is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, proposed that Social Security benefits be increased by 20 per cent instead of the 5 per cent provided in pending legislation. Last week, in a speech to a group of elderly folk in Florida, Sen. Humphrey raised the ante to 25 per cent.

Both the senator and the congressman are candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination and one need not be overly cynical to connect their ambitions with their proposals for giving retired people and other Social Security beneficiaries a substantial boost in income.

Few would argue that people who depend largely on Social Security do not need more money. Many of them are below the poverty level, as Sen. Humphrey pointed out in his speech.

However, raising the extra billions to meet the cost of increased benefits is of great concern to working Americans who must pay ever-higher rates on increasing pay bases and to their employers who must match the workers' taxes. Rep. Mills proposed that this system for financing Social Security be continued but that the increased bite be kept comparatively small this year. Sen. Humphrey called for cutting the contributions of workers while at the same time giving retired people a big boost in benefits.

He would do this by taking one-third of the cost out of general Treasury funds. This, he said, would reduce the payroll-tax workers now pay by two-thirds. Employers evidently would continue to pay half the cost.

Sen. Humphrey went even farther to appeal to Social Security recipients. Benefits would escalate as cost of living rises. Beneficiaries could earn $3,000 a year, instead of $1,680 without losing any benefits. Benefits of husbands and wives would be equalized with those of single individuals so that there would be no inducement to obtain divorces to qualify for higher payments. Medicare would pay full cost of prescription drugs and the requirement that beneficiaries pay the first $50 for medical care would be eliminated.

Possibly other candidates will make proposals even more generous than those of Sen. Humphrey and Rep. Mills. Also certainly Social Security benefits will be raised this election year. But it should be obvious to everyone that the extra costs will have to be paid by the public, either in larger payroll taxes or higher income taxes. Federal deficits are at record levels and soon must be reduced if the country is to remain solvent. Higher Social Security costs will be piled on top of them.

No Problem

Albert Gore, former senator from Tennessee, was in town the middle of the week to urge the election of a "peace candidate" to the U. S. Senate. It looks as if he'll get his wish.

firm anti-war record, should have no trouble winning the Republican primary. Both announced Democratic candidates, former Senator Wayne Morse and State Senator Don Willner, see eye to eye on that question, too.

Peas Or Bees?

Lewiston Tribune

A public hearing is scheduled here Friday on a proposal that deserves much more thoughtful consideration than it is likely to get. The State Department of Agriculture has proposed to lift the restrictions on daylight spraying of toxic insecticides on pea fields in the counties north of the Salmon River. The hearing, at the Clearwater Power Co. auditorium at 2 p.m. Friday, is to sample public opinion on the matter.

Spraying now is limited to the first three hours after sunrise and the last three hours before sunset, a recognition that unrestricted spraying could be ecologically damaging. The Department of Agriculture has not said as much, but the presumption is that the lifting of the restrictions is being considered largely for the benefit of the applicators. If they could spray throughout the day, they could much more easily schedule their work and do more of it. Balanced against this, however, is the grave danger of honeybee destruction. At least one Lewiston beekeeper is convinced that unrestricted spraying of the pea fields will wipe him out because even if the honeybees do not work the pea fields they do work in close proximity to them and unrestricted spraying would subject them to a new hazard during the hours they are most active. And how would it affect other insects, such as ladybugs, that are needed to control aphids in home gardens? The layman cannot answer these questions, but he can insist that they be answered by those who can, and that the answers be seriously weighed by the Department of Agriculture. Unfortunately, there has been some indication that expert testimony might not be easy to come by on Friday. One university entomologist qualified to give expert testimony won't, he told a concerned citizen the other day, because he has a good working relationship with officials who favor the proposal and he doesn't want to rock the boat. At least one county agent in the region concerned has said he favors the proposal, in spite of the ecological hazards, because the peas are more important to the region economically than the bees.

If the question is to be decided purely on the basis of agricultural economics, there is no point in holding the hearing. And if the people most able to predict the consequences of unrestricted spraying are hesitant to testify because of their working relationships, the hearing will not be very informative.

Even if this should be the case, however, the presence Friday of a large number of concerned people should suggest to the Agriculture Department that the issue is somewhat more important, and controversial, than it might have thought. The effects of unrestricted spraying would be felt far beyond the pea fields and by people who may not now think they have any stake in the outcome.

Jordan And The Middle Snake

WASHINGTON — Sen. Lan Jordan, R-Idaho, called on the States of Oregon and Idaho, to contribute funds from their share in the Land and Water Conservation fund for purposes of purchasing private property along the Middle Snake now in danger of being sold to developers for subdivision purposes.

Jordan's comments came prior to the opening of a hearing before the Senate Interior's appropriation subcommittee which took testimony from Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Bob Packwood, R-Ore., and Govs. Cecil Andrus, D-Idaho, and Tom McCall, R-Ore., in support of an increase in the U. S. Forest Service's share of the Land and Water Conservation fund so that the Federal Government can buy the river holdings for $4 million.

Jordan, whose old sheep ranch at Kirkwood Bar is among the holding up for sale by the present owners, said he is "in full accord with Sen. Church's effort since it is an effort to deal directly with the present owners."

The Idaho Republican who ranched for 13 years in the canyon said his paramount concern is that his former friends and neighbors get treated fairly and receive a just compensation for their years of labor in the canyon.

"The question is who should pay the bill. It has always been a policy of this office not to coerce money from Appropriations, particularly when we're looking at a $40 billion national deficit for this year," Jordan said.

"I think the states, to the extent they share in the Land and Water Conservation fund might be in a better position to buy the properties than the Federal Government. If the governor's place such a high priority on acquisitions in the canyon, why shouldn't they be willing to allocate funds to this particular project?" Jordan asked.

He added, "what kind of environmental priority in their states has a higher demand than this?"

On Thursday, Sens. Church and Packwood, and Govs. Andrus and McCall, asked the Interior appropriations subcommittee to approve a larger allocation to the Forest Service from the L&WC fund than requested by the Nixon Administration. The Administration has proposed the Forest Service's share of the fund be limited to $11 million for fiscal 1973.

The Forest Service's allotment for 1973 had originally been $29,652,000 from the fund, which was slightly less than what they received last year. The original 1973 allotment had also included $4 million for the Middle Snake purchases due to talks both Sens. Church and Packwood had held earlier in the year with Forest Service chief Edward Cliff to express their alarm at the threat of subdivision along the Middle Snake.

The powerful Office of Management and Budget, however, cut back the allotment, most of which was slated to go for acquisitions of inholdings in other national forests and along the Middle Snake. Most of the $11 million which the forest service was cut back to was already earmarked for other purposes, with only $2.5 million left-over for new purchases.

Both senators and both governors tried to impress upon subcommittee chairman Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., the imminent threat of subdivision in the canyon due to the likelihood that unless the Federal Government does act, the present owners will sell to commercial interests. "An attempt to reverse this process at a later date would be considerably more costly," Sen. Church warned.

Both Church and Packwood who want to preserve the Middle Snake, hope that new appropriations committee member Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., will use his influence to obtain approval from the subcommittee. Church and Packwood are also slated to testify on April 12th before the House Interior appropriations subcommittee, chaired by Washington congresswoman Julia Butler Hansen.

Chiang's Son

WASHINGTON — A quiet but forceful effort is underway to arrange a visit to the U.S. by Nationalist Deputy Premier Chiang Ching-kuo, son and presumed successor of the long-time ruler of Taiwan.

Purpose of the trip is to "firm up" the severely frayed ties between Washington and Taipei resulting from President Nixon's recent trip to Red China.

A personal invitation from President Nixon to the Generalissimo and his son was presented by Asst. Sec. of State Marshall Green when in Taipei last week. In addition to giving Nationalist officials a first-hand report on the Peking discussions, in which Green participated, he also conveyed categorical assurances that there has been no change in U.S. commitments under the 1954 mutual defense treaty.

Green did not see Chiang Kai-shek. He did meet with Chiang-kuo. The 61-year-old Deputy Premier reportedly is willing to come to the U.S. He is understood to deem it essential for Taiwan to "reaffirm" the existence of good relations with the U.S.

But the decision rests with his aged father — 84 last October — and in the process of being selected for a fifth consecutive term, although nominally desiring to retire. Since last spring, the Generalissimo, who has dominated the Kuomintang since 1927, has been shifting most administrative functions to Chiang-kuo — although still firmly in top control.

If Chiang-kuo comes to Washington he will be received by President Nixon and other high officials, including Congressional leaders. The Generalissimo's likely successor visited the U.S. in 1970. He spent several weeks touring the country and various air and other military installations. While keeping very much in the background, Chiang-kuo has long been groomed for leadership. He is credited as being an able, experienced and tough administrator.

As a youth, he spent 12 years in the Soviet Union and married a Russian woman. After the Nationalists established their rule on Taiwan in 1949, Chiang-kuo extensively reorganized their routed forces — now considered among the best trained and equipped in Southeast Asia.

They are armed with late-model U.S. weapons and trained by American advisers and technicians. While Chiang Kai-shek's health is said to be generally good, his eyesight is failing.

As a consequence, he sees few visitors, particularly foreigners. Also, reports and digests that once were submitted to him personally, are now directed to his son.

About Mills

WASHINGTON — In the shorthand used between courtiers of opposing political camps, Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas has let both Sens. Ed Muskie and Hubert Humphrey know that he could be persuaded to abdicate his Presidential ambitions for a price.

That price, relayed to Muskie and Humphrey aides by a member of the staff of Rep. James Burke, D-Mass. — a longtime Mills crony — is the job of Secretary of the Treasury.

At this writing, Mills, chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, is still running for President. On the judgment that he hasn't a chance to win the nomination at a Democratic convention dominated by Northern liberals, most observers had concluded that Mills was really running for Vice President.

But what Wilbur Mills wants is the Treasury job. Indeed, as a Congressman who has spent a lifetime boxing a committee which virtually dictates the financial and economic policies of Congress, he is eminently qualified to fill the post, Dwight D. Eisenhower once remarked that Wilbur Mills knows more about the business of money than anybody in the country.

Some Mills people and those close to Jim Burke suspect Mills would still settle for the Vice Presidential nomination. Few Vice Presidents have been able to find much to do, but Mills' expertise in the wide field of taxes, tariffs, fiscal problems and the art of manipulating Congress would support his argument that he play an active part in formulating White House policies in that area. A President could deem himself lucky to have a Vice President with Mills' knowledge and experience — and his contacts on Capitol Hill.

However, Mills' emissaries have not mentioned the Vice Presidency in their informal chats with Muskie and Humphrey people. After noting carefully that his Presidential candidacy is for real, they then speak wistfully of their man's "lifelong ambition" to head Treasury.

There is a reason aside from Mills' competence why Muskie and Humphrey find the idea of handing the Treasury job to the Arkansas attractive. It is that such a move would open the way to having two Southerners on the Democratic team. After publicly announcing that he "hoped" Mills would accept Treasury, the Presidential candidate could give the South another plum by naming a man from Dixie to the No. 2 spot on the ticket.

For the Democrats must have their own "Southern Strategy." A Northern liberal is practically sure to get the Presidential nomination, and horse sense politics dictates that a Southerner get the nod for Vice President. The Democrats ignored this urgent fact of political life in 1960 when they came up with the Humphrey-Muskie ticket. With a popular Dixie name on the ballot Humphrey could have beaten Richard Nixon.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Polluted Water

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it harmful to pour bleach into a well? And how long should you wait before drinking any of the water. — P.G.

I DON'T recommend pouring bleach into a well, but I DO encourage precautions against using polluted drinking water.

The active ingredient in a bleach is chlorine — the label will show if it is in the form of hypochlorite.

To be effective in destroying germs, you need a concentration of 0.2 to 0.5 parts per million parts of water, but since you have no way of knowing accurately how much water is in a well, you would have to go by sheer guesswork, and might put in too much, or conversely might not put in enough to make the water safe. So that's why I simply do not recommend the attempt.

I do most decidedly urge that you have your private water supply, whether at a summer home, on a farm, or in a locality that does not have city water, analyzed. Contact either your local or state health department. They will tell you how to collect a sample for analysis, and usually will provide a suitable container. Next step is to use them — to test to see whether the water is safe, and if it is not, to tell you what needs to be done.

Meantime as a temporary measure with drinking water, there are several methods of purifying. One is to use eight drops of a household bleach containing sodium hypochlorite per gallon of water.

While the chlorine is released quickly and works rapidly, I would suggest waiting an hour after the water has been treated before drinking it. Might as well play safe.

Some drug stores and sports stores have tablets that can be used for the same purpose — when dropped in the water they release chlorine. These tablets come with directions for use. Usually it will be four tablets to a gallon of water.

Still another method is to use ordinary 2 per cent tincture of iodine, which is chemically similar to chlorine, one of the so-called halogen elements. Use 12 drops per gallon.

But I repeat: use these purification methods only in temporary circumstances. For wells, have the water tested.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please do not laugh but I am thinking seriously of going to a tattoo artist and having my legs done from the tips of my toes to the very top of my thighs in one shade, of course, to camouflage the many awful spider veins I have. Is there any reason I should not try this? — Mrs. M.R.J.

I'm not laughing; I'm shuddering. I don't think you've thought it through.

Some reasons for not trying it: the pain of such an extensive job; the risk of not getting uniform coloring; infection ranging from anything from skin infections to tuberculosis, syphilis or hepatitis; risk of being allergic to the dyes; regrets afterward.

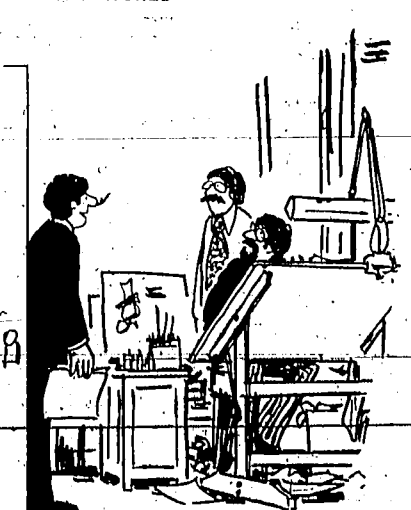

Anyway, what color would you use? Red? Blue? Green? Don't do it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there an organization for people with a colostomy? If so, what is the address? — Mrs. C.E.B.

Try United Ostomy Association, Inc., 1111 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90017. It is a non-profit organization. Or the Colostomy-Ileostomy Rehabilitation Association, P.O. Box 121, Philadelphia, Pa.

Dr. Thosteson is interested in all his readers' questions, and whenever possible uses them in his column.

Life magazine report denied

NEW YORK (UPI)—Life magazine reported Sunday that the Nixon administration has "taken steps to neutralize and frustrate its own law enforcement officials" to protect friends of the President from prosecution in San Diego.

The Justice Department in Washington denied the report, saying it had "proceeded properly and vigorously and without favoritism to anyone" in the cases, which Life charged involved income tax evasion totaling several million dollars, accepting a bribe, and an alleged scheme to cover up an illegal contribution to President Nixon's 1968 campaign.

It was the second investigative report in two weeks alleging improper links between the administration and San Diego. The Senate Judiciary Committee is investigating charges by columnist Jack Anderson that the Justice Department agreed to settle an antitrust suit against International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. in exchange for a $100,000 contribution from an ITT subsidiary to help finance the Republican National Convention in San Diego this August.

"The Nixon administration has seriously tampered with justice in the city of San Diego," Life said. "In an effort to protect certain of its most important friends there from criminal prosecution, the administration has, in several instances taken steps to neutralize and frustrate its own law enforcement officials," wrote Life associate editors Denny Walsh and Tom Flaherty.

In a statement, the Justice Department said, "The Department of Justice states unequivocally that there has been no White House influence or attempted influence, direct or indirect, in the department's investigations and prosecutions. The department has proceeded properly and vigorously and without favoritism to anyone."

Nuclear test

CHINA conducted the 14th of its series of nuclear tests in the atmosphere, the Atomic Energy Commission announced. Monitoring indicated that the yield of the explosion at the Lop Nor test range in northwest China was 20 to 200 kilotons — comparable to the last few previous tests and not in the H-bomb range. Minority enterprise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon asked Congress today for legislation that would encourage white businessmen to invest in minority-owned ventures. He said minorities make up 17 per cent of the nation's population but receive less than 1 per cent of total business income.

"Opening wider the doors of opportunity for one-sixth of our people is a social necessity, which responds to an imperative claim on our conscience," Nixon said. "It is also an economic necessity."

Brown files suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. will sue the Republican National Committee, ITT and the Sheraton Corp. in federal court today, charging them with violating the federal campaign contributions law, state government sources revealed.

Brown and his staff worked through the weekend to prepare the lawsuit, to be filed in U.S. District Court.

The suit will accuse the Republicans and the two business firms of violating the Federal Corrupt Practices Act in connection with the controversial $100,000 donation for the GOP convention in San Diego, the sources said.

Arabs asked to shape front against proposal

Iraq today called on the Arab governments and guerrillas to form a unified front against King Hussein's proposal to make the West Bank of the Jordan River a semi-autonomous state.

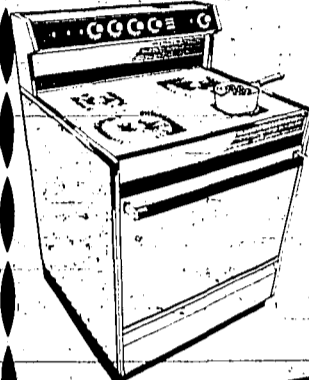

Baghdad Radio said the Iraqi plan came in a communique after talks in Baghdad between government leaders and Yasser Arafat, head of Al Fatah, the largest Palestinian guerrilla group.

The four points included unification of the various guerrilla organizations, establishment of a united front of all "progressive" Arab forces, union of Arab "confrontation countries" to form one military front against Israel, and closer relations between Arab and Socialist nations.

In Jerusalem Israel's Prime Minister Golda Meir today described as "totally without foundation" reports that Hussein's plan resulted from negotiations between Jordan and Israel.

HEROD ANTIPAS

The leading personality in public circles during the lifetime of Jesus was the son of Herod the Great. Called "Herod Antipas," he was Tetrarch of Galilee and Peraea and ambitious for political advancement.

St. Luke tells us that Antipas was "perplexed" about Jesus and had some hope of meeting him. As the Master's popularity grew, so did the rumors that Antipas would have him murdered, just as he destroyed John the Baptist. John had preached against the foul life of the Herod household.

On Good Friday, Antipas had a brief interrogation of the Lord, hoping for a miracle or some amusing answer to his insulting questions. Getting neither, St. Luke adds that "Herod and his troops treated him with contempt and ridicule, and sent him back to Pilate dressed in a gorgeous robe." An enemy of Jesus, he became an enemy of all people, eventually including his Roman supervisors who could no longer accept his playboy regency and banished him to Gaul.

By VERNON SCOTT

UPI-Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Lorne Greene again begins work on his 14th year with "Bonanza," one of television's oldest shows.

Greene was asked how he felt about his long run as Papa Cartwright.

Question—Is it an effort for you to get into the Cartwright character?

Answer—Not at all. It all comes quite naturally after all these years.

Q—Are you bored with playing the same role year after year?

A—It's something you have to watch out for all the time.

Q—How do you combat boredom?

A—By doing a great many other things.

Q—For instance?

A—I've done three television movies in the past three years. I appeared on "The Sonny and Cher Show" and I did the documentary on "Shoot-Out at the O.K. Corral."

Fights lethargy

Q—But how do you fight lethargy when shooting "Bonanza"?

A—I try to find things in the script that excite my mind.

Q—For example?

A—I come up with one piece of business that will give the audience an insight into how I feel. There are many choices, an infinite variety, but only one is precisely correct.

Q—Does "Bonanza" tie you down more than you like?

A—Actually it's not as demanding as it used to be. When we started the show we had only an eight week hiatus because we made 34 shows a year. Now we only film 26 episodes a season.

Q—How else do you break the monotony?

A—I give speeches. Once I get involved in the preparation of a speech I devote hours and hours to the project without giving a thought to "Bonanza."

Q—Do you still make a number of public appearances each year?

A—Not as many as I did in the past with Dan Blocker. Now I appear solo at five or six rodeos around the country, singing and chatting.

Q—Have you changed the character of Cartwright over the years?

A—Hell yes. I have a print of the pilot show. I used to be a bombastic, eye-rolling tyrant. I was humorous and terrible. Not anymore.

Q—Would you like to do another series?

A—I'm loyal to "Bonanza" because it's done so much for me.

Session expected to end this week

By LINDY HIGH
BOISE (UPI) — Legislative leadership is hoping to wind up this session's work before the end of the week with decisions on the budget and criminal laws the major stumbling blocks before adjournment.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus now has before him the legislative income tax increase measure which adopts higher federal tax deductions, raises $4 million to replace the money lost in the adoption, and picks up another $2.5 million for the general fund.

Andrus and Senate Republicans, however, are still at odds over the current tax base, Andrus saying his "very liberal" projection would be $132 million and the "gop" holding tight to $134 million.

The $137.3 million general fund budget for fiscal year 1973 will be balanced with the income tax increase and increases in the cigarette tax and a water pollution fund supported with tobacco and liquor returns if Andrus agrees to let the income tax bill become law.

House Majority Leader Terry Crapo, R-Idaho Falls, predicted the lawmakers could go home by the middle of the week if the liquor surcharge and Criminal Code issues are resolved.

A group of attorneys from the Idaho State Bar hope to present two, and possibly three, alternatives to the legislators by mid-Tuesday for filling the gap created April 1 when the revised criminal laws are repealed.

The attorneys, called to Boise after the House declined to approve the House-passed bill reinstating the old laws as they existed the day before the revision went into effect, are studying both the revised and old laws and may draw up a third bill incorporating the best of both.

Crapo said the House could

'Fringe' warning given

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Former Gov. Robert E. Smylie says political parties and young voters "should beware of ideas and candidates who tend to draw them too far out on the fringes of the political spectrum."

Smylie, a U.S. Senate candidate, addressed delegates at a constitutional convention of Region Nine of the Campus Republican Conference in Moscow Saturday.

He said the first step in successful participation in the political process is "to get personally involved in running for office."

get "rolling" on the main issues if Democrats will agree to suspend rules on the newer proposals and if Andrus does not veto any more bills.

House Minority Leader William J. Murphy, D-Wallaec, said the legislators could go home before next Saturday — and possibly as early as Thursday — if they can reach agreement on the Criminal Code.

He predicted, however, lengthy debate on the code.

Senate President pro tem James Ellsworth, R-Leadore, said the upper chamber could end its business by Tuesday, but he, too, predicted two more days to reach decisions on the Criminal Code.

Ellsworth said, however, the length of the session had saved taxpayers about $12 million since the session "could have been shortened if we had agreed to massive tax increases needed to fund the $149.2 million requested by the governor."

Instead, he said, the Republicans decided not to "unduly burden" the taxpayers and took the time to cut agency requests, the governor's budget, and the tax increases sought by the chief executive.

Ellsworth maintained the $134 million revenue projection backed by Senate Republicans was a "factual estimate."

Andrus, however, said he agreed to go to the $132 million level "arbitrarily" to give the legislature a chance to "clean up their work and go home."

DAV has no objections to cemetery

BURLEY — The Disabled American Veterans (DAV) of Idaho has "no objection" to a controversial veterans-only cemetery plan, according to Gordon Geiger of Burley, state DAV commander.

The proposal, under development in several privately endowed cemeteries throughout Idaho, including Burley, has been "thoroughly investigated" by DAV officials as well as by the state Attorney General's office, Geiger said in answer to queries about the advisability of participating in the program.

Under the program, offered in Burley by Gem Memorial Gardens, a qualified veteran of military service may obtain a gravesite free of charge, as a "reward" for having served in the armed forces.

In addition, he is urged to purchase a gravesite for his wife at $50, half the going rate for non-veterans at Gem Memorial Gardens. The program also involves purchase of perpetual care for both gravesites at $15 each, or a total of $30; a joint memorial plaque for both the veteran and his wife, at $350; and two burial vaults at $150 each or $300 for the two. The entire program costs $749.50, payable monthly over a specified period of time, Geiger said.

For this amount of money, the veteran will receive "goods and services" costing a non-veteran in the neighborhood of $1,102, according to current rules at Gem Memorial Gardens.

In addition, the Veterans Administration pays for a grave marker for the veteran, a service which costs the non-veteran $25.

The program has been developed by two Boise entrepreneurs, Eldon Lee and George Layn, operating under the joint name of "L and L Enterprises." The firm has been promoting the veterans-only program at a number of cemeteries, starting with Terrace Lawn Cemetery in Boise, and planning to include cemeteries in Pocatello and Coeur d'Alene in addition to Burley.

"That way, the program will be fairly evenly spread throughout the state," Geiger said.

The program has been investigated by the Idaho Veterans Affairs Commission, Attorney General's office, Geiger said, though he was unaware the investigation had been requested.

The participating cemeteries are setting aside areas of land for the veterans' gravesites, marking the sections with appropriate plaques. In Gem Memorial Gardens of Burley, the veterans' section is largely empty at the present time, marked with a plaque honoring the veterans in which some of the appliques lettering has already slipped out of place.

"The sponsors of the program felt that veterans were not being properly honored in most cemeteries by setting aside of reserved plots," Geiger said. The Boise promoters of the program are developing the idea to remedy this situation, he added.

"I would like to reassure veterans in Idaho who may have been suspicious of the veterans' memorial program that the program is a good and worthwhile program," the DAV commander said. "They have nothing to worry about."

He added, "Some people say the veterans are being exploited by the program, but we can reassure them that this is not the case in Idaho."

Admittedly, there is a profit motive for the cemeteries as well as for the founders of L and L Associates, Geiger said. The cemeteries, while offering the veterans a legitimate bargain, stand to gain in the long run, while Lee and Layn charge a fee for their services in handling the details.

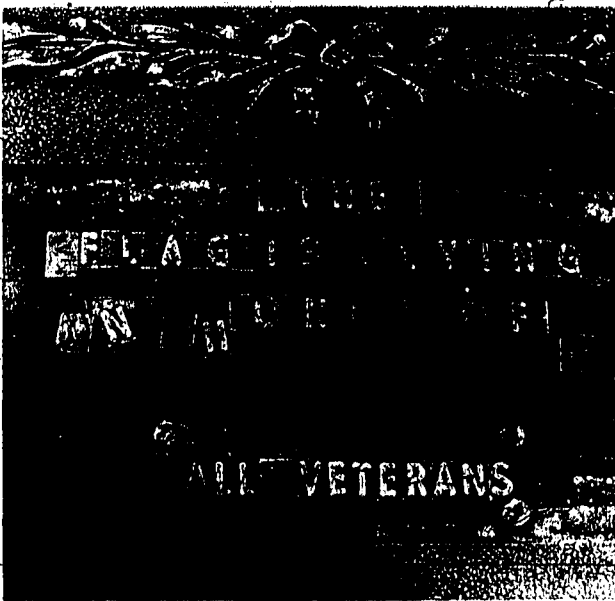

"For every person buried in a cemetery, an average of 10 others will eventually be drawn to the same cemetery," Geiger said. Thus, by offering a free grave site to the veterans, the cemetery owners are hoping for more business in the future.

A feature of the program, Geiger said, is an automatic insurance benefit. If the veteran has paid at least 10 per cent of the contract amount — $75 for the full $750 program — he is guaranteed that the program will be paid in full should he die before paying it out.

Salesmen are selling the plan throughout the Burley area, and finding relatively good success, according to Mrs. Ronald Sneed, operator of Gem Memorial Gardens with her husband.

Aussies like

Sydney (UPI)—Australians are eating more potatoes, making them the world's champion consumers of carbohydrates. Potato consumption in Australia averages barely 120 pounds a year, compared with 104 pounds in 1939. The Census Bureau figures it out at 412.7 grams per person, compared with 389 grams in England and 381 in the United States.

Slippers letters

THIS PLAQUE, honoring veterans of the U. S. armed forces in a "veterans memorial section" of Gem Memorial Gardens, is already showing the ravages of time. Several letters of the slogan, "The flag is flying in honor of all veterans," are slipping out of place, even though the area is still under development.

New business opens in TF

TWIN FALLS — A new business has opened in Twin Falls, designed to provide a service to other business firms in the area.

Larry E. Ek, 21, a victim of cerebral palsy, has found new independence in establishing a letter writing service. Already he has four regular customers and is hoping for more.

Letter writing might seem an impossible business for a young man who cannot use his hands and fingers and Larry says when he first looked at the special typewriter his only reaction was, "I can't do it."

The very special typewriter was purchased for him by Joe Clements, of Clement Oil Co., now a customer. It consists of a teletype sort of electric typewriter which perforates tape as it types. The tape is then run through the machine time and time again to produce an original letter if the same message is designed for a number of customers.

With this, Larry needs only type the name and address and salutation, then on the same machine complete the full letter by automatic tape.

The most time consuming measure for Larry comes in making the original perfect copy of the letter. He can hold a pencil in one hand and type one letter at a time to great perfection.

"It usually takes me about half an hour to type a letter," Larry says, "but once it is typed and on the tape it takes only a minute or two to type it again."

On the tape, a mistake can easily be corrected by backing up and marking it out. It is also possible to stop the tape and hand type in a number, name or special message for the individual customer, then turn the machine back on to finish the letter.

Larry's big selling point is the fact a customer would rather have a personal letter just to them which shows it is the original and not a copy, or a duplicated or mimeographed copy and when the cost is only a tiny bit more or even the same the businessman can't go wrong.

Larry is enthusiastic about his new business and has been given much help from Clements and the Boy Scouts in Twin Falls where he is currently being furnished free office space.

Murray Clements, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clements, is now studying for a career in special education or work with those with learning difficulties. She has volunteered her services during spring vacation to help Larry make new contacts and increase his business.

In addition to those who need personalized letter service on a regular basis, he hopes to do specific projects for other businesses. He will compose the letters if the customer wishes.

In fact, Larry is now looking forward to assisting another handicapped individual, Bob Quinn, Boise.

"It would be a reciprocal thing," says Larry. "I would be able to help him maintain a job and he would be able to help me with telephone contacts and composing the letters."

This is Larry's fourth job. He began working for his father when young by watching supplies and equipment in the truck while his father cleaned furnaces. Next he worked for Hammond's Repair moving lawn mowers and sweeping up.

More recently, while attending high school, he has sold Times-News newspapers in the downtown area from his special three-wheel bicycle which still serves as a means of transportation. Last spring he graduated from the Twin Falls High School.

Earl Paulkner, local merchant, was one of the first to utilize Larry's services and is high in his praise of the results.

Larry has even had Gov. Cecil Andrus as a customer and has sent out letters for him. The machine can produce about 15 to 20 letters per hour, depending on length and the number of hand-punched inserts to be made.

Clements, who did a business survey to determine what causes the loss of a customer, said the personal letter approach makes more than a 100 per cent difference in response.

Candidates or office holders could do wonders for their public image by sending an original personal letter to their constituents, Larry says.

Larry says the State of Idaho will buy him a second machine if business increases to a point where he could show a need for a second unit. This is entirely possible, he says. He is also hoping to determine within the next few months about what his income and operating costs will be to find out if he can afford his own office and let the Boy Scout office have the space back they have given him.

Great Salt Lake in Utah is 2,560 square miles in area.

Moms, dads outplay offspring in game

RICHFIELD — Enthusiastic fans of all ages watched the moms and dads outplay their sons and daughters in a hilarious basketball game at Richfield Thursday.

The game is an annual event sponsored by the PTA to raise funds for a worthwhile project. This year's proceeds will go for equipment for the new speech therapy department at the school.

The mothers outscored their seventh and eighth grade daughters by a score of 33 to 8. But the dads barely eased by their sons 42 to 36 in a hard fought game.

The ball game was preceded by a regular PTA meeting.

Officers for the coming year were elected and include Mrs. Dale Sluder, president; Mrs. Le Roy Parker, vice president; Mrs. Richard Sparks, secretary, and Mrs. Charles Buttume, treasurer.

A garage sale will be held

April 14, according to Mrs. S. C. Peterson, outgoing president. The proceeds will be used for the speech therapy project.

Here's how the Big Winners in Las Vegas did it!

If you thought the big winners in Las Vegas were the highrolling gamblers—think again! The big winners were the lucky people who, way back, invested their money in Las Vegas land.

The tremendous growth of the Las Vegas area has made land investment a winning occupation. Clark County property values are up 375% in 10 years. Nye County property values are up an astounding 250% in 13 short years. That's the kind of profit that makes big winners.

And the growth goes on! Now, Nye County is the location of a new, recreation-oriented city, master planned for 52,500 people. It's called Calvada Valley and it could be your chance with a money-back guarantee to be a winner in Nevada's land boom! Calvada Valley is taking shape now. Its growth pattern is established. Yet it's still in its beginning stages—which offers you the same kind of investment opportunities that paid off in substantial profit for early Las Vegas investors.

Investment literature of Calvada Valley, outlining its unusual money-back guarantee protection and details of a special property inspection trip to Las Vegas... is available now!

Have you noticed how many young families get carried away with Chevelle?

They get carried away to lands of history and fantasy like Six Flags Over Georgia, enjoying a ride as soft as cotton candy and handling as precise as if their Chevelles were on rails.

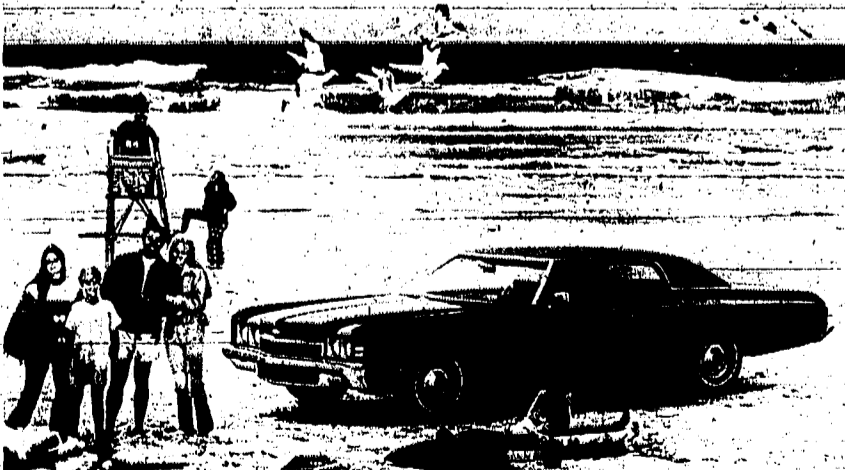

We built quality into Chevelle from one end of its mid-size wheelbase to the other because we want it to be the best car you ever owned. For example, we put Full Coil suspension and cushions of rubber between the frame and body to keep noise out of the passenger compartment. Plus a sturdy steel guard beam in every door, double panels in the door, in the hood, in the deck lid. And up inside the fenders—inner fenders that help protect against corrosion.

There's also an engine that operates on regular, no-lead or low-lead fuel, a battery with sealed terminals on the side so corrosion won't build up and a new front seat belt system that reminds you to buckle up.

Just try a Chevelle once and even those "wild indians" at Six Flags couldn't tear you away from it. Have fun.

Dr. Richard Sutton, Burley, accepted the equipment, in behalf of Cassia Memorial Hospital.

The equipment was for the

The equipment donated to Cassia Memorial includes instruments needed by medical physicians to remove eyes from deceased persons who have pre-arranged to donate their eyes; kit for storing the eye and the shipping containers.

Presently the cornea transplants surgery is being done at the Boise and Logan, Utah, hospitals. In the past one and half years 23 transplants of cornea have been completed for Idaho residents. All have been successful except for one.

The Malta Lions members reported at present there are about 1,000 persons that have signed up to donate their eyes at the time of their death, so another might see. Persons interested in donating their eyes may fill out the necessary card at the hospital or get the card, from any of the Lions members.

Jerome trustees postpone meeting

JEROME — The Jerome School Board has postponed a meeting scheduled for tonight until March 27.

Supt. of Schools John B. Campbell said the trustees canceled tonight's meeting to give them more time to make a decision on what should be done about Lincoln School.

Campbell, at the last school board meeting, presented to the trustees a series of reports from impartial sources indicating the Lincoln Grade School is unsafe and substandard.

The most damaging report on the condition of Lincoln was a survey by the Idaho State Department of Labor which said "Children, teachers and the public are in grave danger from fire in Lincoln School and it recommended that the building be brought into conformity no later than the beginning of the next school year," Campbell said.

A technical survey made by a representative of the Insurance Company of North America in February reported six top priority items that had to be fixed before the insurance company could continue coverage of Lincoln School.

The school board agreed to spend $1,050 to maintain the insurance for the rest of the school year, but has not made a decision on the expenditure of in excess of $20,000 required to be sure of having insurance coverage for the next school year.

The board also is expected to make a decision on a seven point list of emergency repairs for Lincoln with an estimated cost between $70,859 and $82,195, with the difference being in quality of repairs.

Also under consideration by the board is a decision on what will be done with the students in the event it is decided to either close Lincoln School or repair it.

Several recommendations have been given to the board. One included operating on a split shift basis for the high school, seniors attending school from 7 a.m. until noon, juniors from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and sophomores from noon to 5 p.m.

Under the split shift plan the district could accommodate more students with redistribution of students in Washington, Jefferson and the junior high.

Leif Odmark, director of the Nordic Ski School, said eight classes will be offered with prizes awarded in each class.

Vote set on Ketchum bridge

KETCHUM RESIDENTS will vote Tuesday whether to replace the old one-lane Warm Springs Bridge, left, with a two-lane structure, above. JUB Engineers representatives said some of the wooden beams of the old bridge are decayed and have longitudinal cracks. The bridge is posted for a 10-ton load limit. In the $160,000 special bond election, if passed, $48,600 will be devoted to construction for the new bridge. Another $88,300 is estimated for roadway construction and right of way. Ketchum Mayor Kenneth Richey said if project bids come in under estimated costs, not all the bonds will be let out.

Bellevue nominating caucus set

BELLEVUE — The nominating caucus of candidates for the annual Bellevue City elections has been scheduled for Tuesday evening.

Three two-year councilmen's posts are up for election on April 3. They are the positions of councilmen James Pigg, Mark Patterson and Thomas Barrett.

The one-year term mayor's seat, currently held by Claude Ballard, also will be open for election.

The caucus will be conducted at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the city hall. The City Council has requested that any candidate's name that will be placed in nomination be accompanied by a written agreement that he is willing to accept and serve in the office.

Supreme court convenes in TF

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Supreme Court justices arrived in Twin Falls this morning for a one-week session in the county judicial building to hear 15 appeals.

Three cases were scheduled for today including the case of Lois Highbarger and C. J. Bohannon, plaintiffs and appellants, versus Wayne H. And Zurl Ansel Thornock, an appeal of the district court's action dismissing a claim by the plaintiffs against the defendants, the appeal of the Industrial Accident Board of Idaho ruling on damages awarded Ruth Madron, Twin Falls, in a suit against Green Giant Co., and the appeal of Virgil McPheters versus Leon Hapke, executor of the estate of the late Joseph W. Fuld, Hailey. During the week's session, the court will conduct a proceeding on an alternative writ of mandate in which the South Central Idaho Health Board and county commissioners of Twin Falls County are asking a ruling on health service levies. This case is scheduled for Wednesday at 9 a.m.

Ruling at Burley

RUPERT — A six member coroner's jury has returned a verdict of no criminal negligence in the traffic death of Mrs. LaVon Marselle. Robert Walk, Minidoka County Coroner, called the inquest after the March 12 traffic death of Mrs. Marselle when she was struck by a J. R. Simplot Co. truck driven by Harley Cox, 25, Heyburn.

Assisting with the inquest Friday was Don Chisholm, prosecuting attorney.

NFO director charges Butz is farmer enemy

RUPERT — The U. S. government, spearheaded by Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, is a major enemy of the American farmer, according to a national director of the NFO. Glen Utley, Fort Branch, Ind., a director of the National Farmers Organization for the past 14 years, described Butz as "the most devious man I know" in a wide-ranging 90-minute speech Saturday during the annual NFO "amusee feed" in Rupert.

More than 100 NFO members and their wives accorded Utley a standing ovation at the conclusion of his speech, after interrupting him several times with enthusiastic applause.

Utley's theme was the failure of American agriculture to obtain a "just price" for agricultural products. This failure of the American economy to repay the farmer for his contributions is a major cause of inflation in all sectors of the economy, Utley declared.

He attacked trading stamps, TV advertising, "the extension of credit," and federal farm policies as destructive to the farmer and as major causes of inflation. These and other factors, add "another price rise" to the cost of all products, causing all Americans, farmers and non-farmers alike, to pay far more for their products than they should have to pay, Utley said.

Each dollar invested in the economy by farmers generates $7 in the economy, the speaker said. Over the past few years, farmers have been denied at least $450 million that they should have had. "Multiply that by seven and see what you get," he challenged.

Kids race at SV

SUN VALLEY — Non-racing youngsters got a taste of competition during Kindercup Ski races Sunday.

About 200 children competed in the annual race sponsored by the Papoose Club on Dollar Mountain. Racers' ages were from 2½ to 12 years old and older.

According to club president Diantha Myer, the races are meant for Blaine County children who do not compete in the Sun Valley junior racing program. However, for the first time, a separate category was set up for farm team members.

Trophies were awarded to the first three place finishers in each class. Preschoolers who completed the slalom course were given special pins.

Dan Urban, Hailey, recorded the fastest time of the day on the long course, 42.125 seconds. He competed in the boys 12 and over class.

Winners included preschool girls, first, Ruth Matthes; second, Lisa Scherthanner, both Ketchum; third, Hillary Shumway, Sun Valley; preschool boys, first, Jim Grossman, Sun Valley; second, Jim Harper, and third, Matt Brown, both Ketchum.

Girls, age 8 to 11, first, Jackie Brown, Ketchum; second, Stephanie Meyer, Sun Valley; and third, Cydney Conger, Ketchum. Boys, age 6 to 8, first, David Clement, second, Tim Brown, and third, Nels Moulton, all Ketchum.

Girls, 9 to 11, first, Maria Maricich; second, Kim McDorman, and third, Amella Matthes, all Ketchum. Boys, 9 to 11, first, Douglas Harrison; second, Max Wilson, third, Paul Pichon, all Ketchum.

Handling course procedures were Alice and Andy Scherthanner.

Dietrich hearing scheduled

DIETRICH — The annual city budget hearing here will be held at 7 p.m. April 10 at the city hall.

The budget is tentatively set at $7,394 with $4,094 anticipated expenditures in the general fund, $1,500 in street improvement and lighting, and $800, dump maintenance.

Anticipated revenues include $1,325 from taxes to the general fund, and a cash balance of $3,449.17.

Hurt Burley officer flown for treatment

BURLEY — Burley Police Officer Glen Wilkinson, seriously injured in an auto mishap early Saturday morning, was flown to a Boise hospital for treatment Sunday afternoon.

Wilkinson was listed in serious condition early today at St. Alphonsus Hospital in Boise. He had been taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital in Twin Falls following Saturday's accident, then was flown by helicopter to Boise.

James Mabey, a passenger in Wilkinson's police car, was listed in satisfactory condition today at Cassia Memorial Hospital.

Wilkinson was injured during a high-speed chase from Burley four miles south about 1:30 a.m. Saturday. The driver of the car he was chasing, identified as Harley L. Carson, 22, Burley, was charged with driving while intoxicated by Cassia County Deputy Sheriff Don Taylor.

Deputies said Carson, traveling at high speed on a county road at 400 south, crashed through a barricade where a canal bridge was under construction. Carson's car leaped the 35-foot-wide chasm, blowing both front tires on landing, then rolled 972 feet further to end up in a ditch.

Carson and two passengers in his car, identified by police as Steven Schorzman and Gary Hill, both 18, and both of Malta, escaped injury. Schorzman and Hill left the scene before officers arrived. They were located and identified following an investigation.

Carson was released on $250 bond Saturday. Burley police would not comment today on further progress of the charges against Carson.

Governor Andrus sets speech in Burley

BURLEY — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus will address the South Idaho Chamber of Commerce during its annual banquet Tuesday night at the Ponderosa, Burley.

The South Idaho Chamber, a joint organization composed of local chambers of commerce members from Magic Valley, will meet at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Ponderosa for presentation of committee reports.

George Forscher, chairman of the Interim Regional Airport Board, is expected to discuss progress of the board in drafting initial plans for the proposed airport.

The evening banquet will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Ponderosa with Gov. Andrus as the featured speaker.

Filer pool meet planned Tuesday

FILER — A public meeting regarding the Filer community swimming pool has been set for 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Filer High School auditorium.

During a meeting several months ago a unanimous vote was cast to try and obtain a pool for the Filer area and a committee was appointed to look into prices and other aspects of the pool.

Bill Brakes, committee chairman, said an uncovered pool of a desirable size for Filer would cost about $65,000. There is a well at the Filer City Park where the pool would be placed and it has a temperature of 81 degrees.

The pool project would be eligible for matching funds from the Idaho Department of Parks.

The committee will give its entire report at Tuesday's meeting and plans will be formulated to raise money for the pool. All Filer citizens are urged to attend.

Testing at Shoshone

SHOSHONE — A Child Development Center for testing pre-school readiness will be held Tuesday, at 9 a.m. at the Jennings House, Shoshone.

Mrs. Dorothy Alexander, public health nurse, said parents who would like further information may notify her.

The Jennings House is located on Greenwood Street next to the Episcopal Church.

Gather trash

SHOSHONE — Sixth grade pupils in the class of Alfred Kristal collected bottles and cans Saturday for recycling.

Only returnable bottles and aluminum cans were collected in the door-to-door canvass of the city.

Ketchum sets fund hearing

KETCHUM — A public hearing on the proposed $245,116 Ketchum 1972 budget will be at 7 p.m. tonight at the city hall.

The figure is 9.6 per cent higher than 1971 expenditures. Additional revenues in 1972 over last year are expected to total about $24,000.

Five out of nine departments showed budget increases over 1971 expenditures. The miscellaneous account had the greatest increase, reflecting a $31,000 budgeted payback of last year's borrowing.

A proposed $20,000 budget cut was made in the road and street fund, with the major decrease — about $15,000 — in capital outlay for automotive equipment.

Shoshone gives filing deadline

SHOSHONE — Nominating petitions for the Shoshone School Trustees election must be filed with the clerk of the school board, Mrs. Claude Chess, by Thursday.

The election will be from 1 to 7 p.m. April 10 at the high school building. Nominating petitions must be filed 18 days prior to the election because of newly enacted state law, according to Superintendent Kenneth Crothers.

Terms are expiring for Dr. E.V. Saras; zone 1, and Wayne Sorenson, zone 4. Neither has indicated if he will seek reelection. Continuing school board members are Donald Runberg, Bennie Ray Webb, and Waldo Jones.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market maintained a small lead during the first three hours of trading Monday, but it was a small one. Trading was moderately active.

Shortly before 1:15 p.m., the Dow Jones industrial average was ahead 3.54 at 946.52. It had been higher earlier. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index rose 0.20 to 108.21.

Advances and declines were almost even among the 1,670 issues crossing the tape. The three-hour volume totaled 3,660,000 shares, compared with 3,160,000 traded during the comparable period Friday.

One of the most active issues on the Big Board was Bausch & Lomb, which opened at 110, down 15 1/4 after a delay by an influx of orders. It did not trade Friday.

There were reports last week that the company's first quarter earnings would not meet some analysts' expectations. Also, at least one firm withdrew its "buy" recommendation on the issue, which now has fallen 84 1/2 points since reaching a high of 194 1/4 about two months ago.

The NYSE is investigating last Thursday's trading in the issue. There have been published reports the Securities and Exchange Commission also has moved in this direction.

Motors and steels moved higher in fractions. Chemicals and oils were mixed. Eastman Kodak, which has introduced a new camera line, advanced 2 1/4. Natamox gained 1 in the oils, but Superior Oil dropped 2.

Rails, airlines and aircrafts were mixed. Southern Pacific slipped 1 in the rails.

IBM gained 3 1/4 and General Electric 1 1/4 in the electronics and computers. Soffer by a point or more were Honeywell, Admiral and Motorola.

Kendall Corp. gained 4 1/4 and Itek 2 1/4. Comsat surrendered 6 1/4 after Barron's, a financial weekly magazine, said the firm's 1971 earnings fell below expectations.

Chalk up another first for women

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chalk up another first for women. This time, it's a slip of a girl showing the boys what it's all about in the world of science.

Nina Felice Tabachnik, 16, of Little Neck, N.Y., has just waltzed off with the grand prize in the annual Westinghouse science talent search, the first time in the 31-year-history of the search that a girl has placed No. 1.

To do it and win a $10,000 scholarship, she had to prove her research abilities over 14,000 high school seniors in the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

She doesn't think the boys minded at all that a girl won the top honor. "Maybe it's the new morality or something," said Miss Tabachnik in an interview via telephone.

"But the boys all seemed quite pleased."

Her own age group applauds her, but let's face it, the woman scientist still is a rare breed. Oh, we all know of Madame Marie Curie who with her husband shared the Nobel Prize for discovery of radium. Then their daughter Irene shared a Nobel with her husband for their work in chemistry.

The National Science Foundation, Washington, D.C., estimates there are 650,000 scientists in the United States today. Only 8 per cent are women.

"I think there are so few outstanding ones because of the way people look on women," said Miss Tabachnik. "You don't become a scientist overnight. It takes years of growing. And women rarely have been given opportunities to grow. It's the great putdown in the masculine world."

"I don't think there are differences that make men better scientists than women, or the other way around. It's an individual thing... having the intellectual stamina to go on."

One Other In Family

Miss Tabachnik, a tall, brunette, says there's only one other scientist in her family—her father, William, an engineer and management scientist. Her mother is a professional musician; her sister, 13, plans a singing career.

The research that won Miss Tabachnik top prize began in her biology lab, in further experiments at home, and her reading of scientific journals. It was a study to determine the effects of chemicals called aldehydes on plants, euphorbia, that live in the water.

Folk dancers

MEMBERS of the Valhalla International Folk Dancers at Ricks College, Terrie Heider, Twin Falls, standing, and John Tensior, will participate in the dance concert March 22 and 23 at Ricks Field house. The concert begins at 8 p.m. with the theme, "Wonderland of Dances."

Her job—bunny mother

CHICAGO, Ill. (UPI)—The room is dim and crowded, filled with the smell of cigarette smoke and cologne. Blue velvet booths and candlelit tables line the walls. Four Playboy bunnies wait and smile, smile and wait, eager to serve and please.

In the middle of it all stands smiling Helene Mirecki. When she stops smiling so do the girls.

Helene, 20, and divorced, is "bunny mother" for the 74 Chicago Playboy bunnies. It is her job to hire, train, advise and fire the women who work in the Playboy Club of Chicago, where Hugh Hefner's empire is headquartered.

She must sort out the applicants to "find a fresh, young, attractive face that fits the image of Playboy," Helene explained. "The girl who is all smiles—the constant hi-how-are-you type of person."

"Mr. Hefner based his bunny image on the young, well proportioned girl without prior experience. It's refreshing (for the customer) to meet a young girl willing to serve you properly. The girls here don't have the know-it-all hardness of some women yet."

Helene, who herself wore a bunny tail for seven years, laughed quickly and shortly when the Women's Liberation movement was mentioned.

"Oh, I just don't understand why Women's Lib is down on Playboy for degrading and exploiting women. If they could just take an honest look here."

"The girls we hire are just that. They don't know what the world is about yet. They think they do but they really haven't been out in it yet. These girls are babies."

"Playboy has a lot to offer them. They come—at least 30 a week—right out of high school. Many do not know what to do with their lives and they don't want to settle in an office job or get married right away."

The girls do not project sex the way a mature woman does, Helene said. "Oh, there may be a few of the older girls—but most of them just don't have that total personality one develops as a full woman."

"And the whole costume—it enhances the sex—not creates it. Our whole image is the girl next door just becoming a woman. That freshness. The biggest point is the smile."

Until recently there were no women in top management positions with Playboy. Now three out of six top jobs in Chicago are filled by women, according to Helene.

"That sounds Women's Lib-bish doesn't it? But you know I'm an advocate of Women's Lib to a point."

DAVID ALLED

Eagle rank earned

BELLEVUE—David Allred, Bellevue, has been awarded the rank of Eagle Scout.

Son of Mrs. Billy Knörpp and the late Jack Allred, the Youth is the fourth member of his family to receive the distinction.

Allred is a member of Halley Rotary Troop 6 and a member of the Order of the Arrow. A student at Wood River High School, Allred is vice president of his sophomore class, a member of Future Teachers of America and participates in football, basketball and track.

Ricks Day

RICHFIELD—Ten Richfield LDS Seminary students traveled to Ricks College, Rexburg, Saturday to attend the Junior-Senior Day.

College President Henry B. Eyring addressed the students at the morning devotional. They were entertained at a talent show featuring "The Best of Ricks." The Mikado, a light opera by Gilbert and Sullivan, was seen in the afternoon. They were treated to a free luncheon and taken on a guided tour of the campus.

Students attending were Dennis Allred, Steve Bowers, Toby Dayley, Cheryl Jensen, DeAnn Dixon, Kim Haws, Carol Sanders, Rhonda Swainston, Norma Ralls, and Lynn Tree. Mrs. Ross Swainston, seminary teacher, and Mr. Glen Jensen and Clifford Dayley accompanied the students.

Breakfast—or hearty, large meal

SHOSHONE—A basic breakfast—fruit, whole grain or enriched cereal and milk—fits into many early morning schedules as well as the bacon and eggs type.

Mrs. Jean Annett, home economist for Lincoln County, said the fruit, cereal and milk can be just as adequate.

"In fact, a basic breakfast may be better for the average person, than a too hearty meal."

Laboratory tests at a midwestern university showed that some people who ate basic breakfasts did as well on performance tests as other people who ate a hearty breakfast and sometimes did better.

The basic breakfast provides the nutrients needed for energy and health, but doesn't overload a person with more calories than needed.

People who ate no breakfast were slower in reacting to signal, did less work and found it difficult to keep up to the speed of those who ate some breakfast.

"Don't feel guilty if no one in your family has time to cook in the morning," Mrs. Annett said.

Eagle Scout

and put down the dummy happily.

Oswald: "South isn't that happy when he sees the dummy. This time 30 points may not be enough because he can only collect three tricks in each major suit and at first glance he won't make his grand slam unless one of the minor suits breaks 3-3."

Jim: "Neither minor suit breaks 3-3 but South is going to make his slam by the simple expedient of cashing his high cards. Once he has played out all the spades and hearts, East will be forced to discard a club or diamond and either discard will be fatal."

Oswald: "It hasn't taken any real skill to work this simple squeeze."

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am being blamed for causing a scene at my mother-in-law's funeral. Here is what happened:

Before I married Kenny, he went with a girl named Polly. Ken's mother was crazy about Polly, and even after Ken married me, Polly kept up her close friendship with Kenny's mother just to bug me.

Well, Polly came into the church just before the funeral services started, all dressed up like for mourning. She spots Ken, runs to him, bursts into tears, and starts hugging his neck.

I said, "Please find a man of your own to cry on," and I gave her a little shove. She shoved me back real hard and knocked my hat off.

Then I lost my temper and hit her a good one. She hit me back and grabbed my arm and started to twist it. Then Ken and a few others tried to separate us. The pastor came running over, and somebody knocked his glasses off.

Polly ran out of the church in hysterics expecting somebody to run after her. Nobody did, so she never came back.

Now everybody is blaming me. Was this my fault? If Polly hadn't started hugging Ken's neck this never would have happened.

MY NAME IS MUD IN ARKANSAS

DEAR MUD: Since you landed the first blow, I would say it was indeed your fault.

DEAR ABBY: For "North and South," the couple whose friends are unpleasant to each other at the bridge table.

My husband and I have had similarly unpleasant experiences with couples who are very compatible UNTIL they become bridge partners. We solved that problem by pretending that WE were tired of playing together as partners. We suggested that the men challenge the women. Or the other man and I play against the other woman and my husband. It worked! "ANOTHER NORTH AND SOUTH"

DEAR ANOTHER: Your suggestion makes sense. My mail indicates that the No. 1 cause of friction between married couples is JEALOUSY. No. II: Money. No. III: Cards!

DEAR ABBY: My son, a freshman in college, has a habit of putting off today what he can do at the last minute. He would never think of refining an original first draft, but at the last minute he asks me to type up his papers because I am faster, more accurate, and can correct his spelling and grammatical errors.

I helped him during high school but I've refused to help him in college (thinking he would plan ahead better. But he hasn't).

My husband says, "All the college kids hire someone to do their final typing anyway, and the professors don't care as long as the copy is legible" so I should type up our son's work. What do you say?

HOLDING FIRM

DEAR HOLDING: There is a vast difference between "typing up work" and correcting spelling and grammatical errors. And don't let Hubby and Junior con you into capitulating.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FROM THE OLD SCHOOL": Welcome to the club. Very few of us who had "old world" parents were told "the facts of life" by our mothers. All my mother told me, God-bless her, was never to put bananas in the refrigerator.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69740, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Jacklin wins playoff in Jacksonville open

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Tony Jacklin defeated John Jacobs in a sudden death playoff Sunday to win the Greater Jacksonville Open golf tournament and $25,000. Both players finished the hole event with 283 to force the playoff.

Both Jacklin and Jacobs had relatively short putts for birdies on the 18th hole which would have given them the championship without a playoff. Jacklin's 10-footer stopped beside the cup while Jacobs was short with a 25-footer. Rod Funseth had a shot at joining the playoff, but he left an 18-foot birdie putt short on No. 18 and had to settle for a third place tie with Bruce Crampton at 284. Crampton sank a 20-footer on the 18th to gain the third-place tie.

Bob Murphy, who started out the day tied for the lead with Jacobs and Funseth at 3-under 312, finished two strokes back at 285 after firing a 72. John Schlee, who fired a closing 60, was another stroke back at 286. Arnold Palmer made an early run at the leaders in one of his patented closing charges but had to settle for a 69 and 287 tie with Jerry Heard, winner of last week's Citrus Open. Heard had a closing 67.

Lee Trevino, who was never a serious threat Sunday, closed with a 72 to head a group of 288 which also included Bobby Nichols, Mike Hill and Grier Jones. Nichols had a 70, Hill a 72, and Jones a 73.

Tommy Aaron (71), and Doug Sanders (72) were grouped at 289. Gary Player finished with a 73 for a 291.

Jacklin, a former U. S. and British Open champion who won here in 1968, said his only previous playoff was against Pete Brown in the 1970 San Diego tournament.

"I am just absolutely thrilled and delighted," said the handsome Englishman.

The key shot in Jacklin's round was an eagle two on the 383-yard 4th hole. He hit a 6-iron 160 yards past the cup and the backspin caused the ball to back up into the hole.

Jacobs, looking for his first tour win, said he hooked his drive on the playoff hole into the trees. He said he had a clear shot to the green but hit the top of the tree.

Jacklin said he just tried to get his first putt "as near as I could" after seeing Jacobs miss his par.

"I was nervous," admitted Jacklin. "You would think after winning the U. S. and British Opens it would get easier. But it never does."

Jacklin said his primary concern was holding his concentration. "I think choking has to do with losing your concentration. I don't think you choke if you keep your mind on what you are doing."

Jacobs, 27-year-old brother of tour pro Tommy Jacobs, admitted he "choked a little out there on the playoff."

Addition to trophy case

FOURTH-PLACE TROPHY, won by the CSI Golden Eagles in Hutchinson last week, is displayed by Coach Jerry Hale and frosh Rick Sobers. In three trips to nationals, CSI has picked up an eighth, second and fourth place trophy. A crowd of perhaps 400 greeted the team on its return Sunday.

Large crowd welcomes Eagles back from national tourney

Between 250 and 400 fans turned out Sunday afternoon to welcome back the College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles from their fourth place finish in the national junior college tournament.

The gathering, which was followed by a brief reception at the CSI cafeteria, marked a close to the fifth season for the Eagles who have an eighth, second and fourth place in national competition to mark the last three years. In the first two, CSI made it to the regional finals but was stopped there.

Vic Kelly, the darling of local fans and also those watching the nationals, drew the most attention. The 6-6 New Yorker moved gracefully through the crowd, loving it and being loved.

He tried to negate his heroics as thrice he led CSI from halftime or second-half deficits to victory. "It seemed like no one else wanted to shoot the ball. They seemed to want me to," the youngster said with all the modesty possible. "In the Ferrum game (which CSI lost by one point) there were other guys open but I got the ball and I had to force up two shots."

Overall Kelly had to have done something, particularly in the second half of the opener when he scored 29 points—a period that propelled him on to becoming No. 1 scorer in this year's tournament.

"That was probably the best half I've ever had—at least for a long time," Kelly said, asked to compare his tournament showing with other games he's played in Twin Falls and particularly the "North Idaho regional finals" in which he scored 40 points. "I did not play real well in the first half of that game. The other games I felt I played pretty well most of the time but we were always running into good guards and it took me a while to figure them out," he said, explaining why CSI never took control at the outset as local fans are used to seeing.

He, of course, drew some attention from NCAA coaches. "A couple of them talked to me but I told them I wasn't thinking about that. I was only concentrating on trying to win," he said.

Sophomore center Dan Dreesen, making his first trip to nationals and seeing his first national JC meet since he transferred here from Utah State, said, "It was tougher than I expected it to be."

On the other hand, frosh streakout Rick Sobers, who hit 34 for 59 during the tournament, said, "I thought it was easier than I expected it to be. I can see that Dan might feel it was tougher, because he had to guard the big guys. But I expected more from the forwards. They were good ball players but they weren't as tough and as physical as I expected."

Asked if he felt some fresh jitters in the first game, Sobers said, "I don't think I was as nervous as I was trying to play hard. I felt I over exerted in the first half and tried to play too hard rather than just take the game as it came." And he added once he found the tempo, things were considerably easier.

Dean of admissions Jerry Meyerhoeffer, who has seen the last three national tournaments, seconded the assertion by coach Jerry Hale that this was the toughest field CSI had seen.

Niagara routs Texas El Paso

NEW YORK (UPI)—Unheralded Niagara, paced by Marshall Wingate's 20 points, placed five players in double figures and routed 17th-ranked University of Texas at El Paso, 76-57, Sunday to gain the quarter-finals opposite Princeton in the 35th annual National Invitation Tournament.

Ted Manakas offset a sub-par scoring performance by Brian Taylor with 20 points in the opener to lead Princeton to a 60-40 victory over Indiana. Princeton will play Niagara in the quarter-finals Tuesday night.

The victory by Niagara was the third upset of a nationally ranked power of the opening round. Earlier in the tournament Oral Roberts knocked off 13th-ranked Memphis State and St. John's (N.Y.) downed 19th-ranked Missouri.

Niagara grabbed the lead at the outset of the game and never lost it. The Purple Eagles led by 10 points, 39-29, at halftime and Texas-El Paso never got closer than seven points.

Both teams played very rugged and the game featured a total of 57 turnovers, 29 by the Minors.

Al Williams, a 5-foot-9 guard, scored 14 points for the Purple Eagle, who also got 18 from Jim Chassar, 12 from Craig Ellis and 11 from Ed Street.

Charlie Brakes led Texas El Paso with 15 points. The Minors, who lost out in the Western Athletic Conference to Brigham Young by only one game, ended their season with a 20-7 record. Niagara is now 19-8.

Chicago topples Pistons

DETROIT (UPI)—Bob Love and Chet Walker combined for 60 points and the Chicago Bulls broke open a tight game Sunday to hand the Detroit Pistons a 115-107 National Basketball Association defeat.

Chicago, now winners of three in a row, outscored the Pistons 14-6 in the final 2-1/2 minutes to take the victory in a game that saw 18 ties and 20 lead changes throughout the contest.

Love and Walker canned eight of the 14 final Chicago points. Love finished with 33 and Walker, his running mate at forward, ended the game with 27.

Lance Bing and Bob Lanier led the Pistons with 25 each while Willie Norwood chipped in 19. The loss was Detroit's eleventh in their last 12 outings.

Ecological study of moose is made during winter in southeastern Idaho

It's a real happening when somebody sees a hump-back, long-legged behemoth with a hooked nose and scanty tail. It's even more noteworthy when wearing colored ear patches and a neck band. Even so, most people recognize this animal as a lordly moose, largest member of the deer family.

All marked moose sightings should be reported to the Idaho Fish and Game Department in Boise, or regional offices located at Idaho Falls, Pocatello, Salmon, Jerome, Garden City, McCall, Lewiston and Coeur d'Alene, or to the district conservation officer. This information should include the color of ear patches, color of neck bands, numbers on the bands (if observed), where the moose was sighted (or bagged by hunter) and the date. The metal tags, ear patches and neck bands may be kept as mementos of the chase. A $5,000 reward will be paid for the return of radio transmitters worn by the animals.

Moose are found in many forested areas of northern, central and south-eastern Idaho. Densities generally are low. Fremont County probably has the largest concentration in the state, according to Brent W. Ritchie, St. Anthony, game research biologist for the department. He estimates the winter moose population on a 1,200 square mile area at 500 to 600 animals, or about 0.5 moose per square mile.

The coming of new drugs (Succinylcholine chloride) took moose out of the unmanageable animal class and a tagging program soon followed. Succinylcholine or Anectine are trade names of the drug used to immobilize the big body muscles of moose long enough for workers to mark them. "It is delivered with standard dart gun equipment. All darts are barbed, with the top of the barb one-fourth inch from the basal end of the 1-1/2 inch needle. The darts easily catch and hold firmly in the animal's hide."

This technique was borrowed from the domestic livestock industry which had found it reliable for use during branding round-ups without roping and tying horses and cattle. The effect of the drug, a muscle relaxant, wears off in a half hour or so and the animal jumps up and runs off.

Moose tagging made its debut in the Sand Dunes area of Fremont County early in 1961. Wes Shaw, Boise game biologist, was the project leader, assisted by A. E. Nrelson, former regional biologist, conservation officers and a "hundred veterinarian." This was the start of a yearly program to learn about moose movements, migrations, age, amount of calving and other factors needed for good management.

Shaw says such data helps maintain game populations at desired levels. During the years 1961, 1962, 1964 and 1966, 92 moose were marked in the Junipers, Henrys Lake, Kilgore and Madock Creek areas. Moose, unlike deer and elk, tend to be solitary animals, but frequently concentrate after migrating to winter range where the feed will be better and winter survival is easier. Tagging is done while the animals are in the winter areas. The animals move out later, following the new grass, weeds and greening twigs, back up the hills into high country. By hunting season they are many miles, sometimes over a hundred, from the winter areas.

Brent Ritchie started his ecological study of moose (Alces americana shirasi) in southeastern Idaho in 1969, continued it during 1970-71 and again this winter. His study area is about 30 by 40 miles in Fremont County. It is bordered on the north by the state of Montana and on the east by Yellowstone National Park. His program objectives are to determine population status and habits, condition of the habitat, and controlling factors so that moose management can be improved.

Shaw and his fellow workers hovered over moose in a helicopter and discharged the muscle relaxant drug into moose by means of a hypodermic needle dart fired from a Capture Gun. Often the range was no more than 35 feet. The target is a large muscle high on the hind quarter. Anyone who has ever has a "shot" at a doctor's office knows the spot. It takes an average of about ten minutes for a moose to go down after the dart hits. These big animals are alert but docile for about one half hour. But some recover in no more than five minutes. Workers, too, must be alert for a moose that jumps up sooner than expected, often belligerently.

Ritchie's crew of four to six men use snowmobiles most effectively in capturing moose. This method puts less stress on the moose and is less costly and more convenient. Wintering areas are cruised until a moose is sighted. The crew leader rushes the moose and places the dart while other members circle the animal to prevent it from bolting. The moose stands at bay, hemmed in by snowmobiles within a circle of 50 to 80 yards radius until the drug takes effect. Calves of the previous summer are wrestled down or bulldogged in soft snow instead of being immobilized. They are forced feet-first into the snow by a man who jumps from his snowmobile astraddle the calf's shoulders. Two men hold the calf for tagging.

Ritchie began marking moose on the Fall River ridge winter range during the winter of 1970-71. Organized crews on snowmobiles captured 40 moose. Five more were tagged in conjunction with other activities. The work is being continued this winter.

Ritchie says that a search of the historical records indicates that moose first migrated into Fremont County in the late 1800s. Some of the findings to date of the Shaw and Ritchie ecological studies are as follows: The observed bull-cow calf ratio was 96-100-65 in 1970.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 21, 1972

CARROLL RICHTER'S horoscope

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Most everyone is in a highly restless and nervous state of mind, and all too apt to break promises made, or to snap back when anything that annoys them occurs. Therefore it is advisable to use self-control and see that you live the Golden Rule in thought, speech and deed, then potential separations will not occur.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you do not use force in driving and motion of any other kind, you find you can get into a good deal of trouble. Keeping promises you have made is also a must. Avoid difficulties of all kinds.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you are extravagant in any way, you find you will regret it later when you need the money most. Add to, instead of deducting from, your present bank account. Follow through with ideas which an expert in business gives you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't be angry if another gets something you think you want, since what is really for you nobody can take away. Decline any invitation that will bring you face to face with one you do not want to see at this time. Do so courteously.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't adopt a martyr complex because you think another has put one over on you, since the fooler is often the fool. Try to help those who are not as lucky as you. Forget the past and dwell on the future happily.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A good day for dealing with others provided you do not act in an imperious manner and alienate them from you, especially one who is vital to your welfare. Go about gaining aims quietly and intelligently. Think constructively.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get advice from one who is knowledgeable about present conditions before you tackle those outside duties of importance. Obey every rule that applies to you and avoid costly trouble. Do nothing at all that reduces prestige.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Dig into that new outlet with enthusiasm, but don't go overboard over it. Forget tangents that lead nowhere. A new ally has good suggestions but you need to study them for a day or so. Then you can follow them with more confidence.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Stop thinking you can just forget responsibilities you have to meet for they can be much harder later on, so pay your bills in good conscience. Mate is also irritable, so smile and ease tensions in p.m. Then all is okay.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Not a good day to talk over that disagreement with a partner or a very serious argument could develop. Cool off and later you get right results. A good joke can relieve many tensions today, tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Some boring duties have to be handled anyway, so resign yourself and get them done now. Forget temper tantrums. Do something to improve your health also in your spare time. Wear glasses if you need them instead of being so vain.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although having fun is on your mind, make sure you do not neglect matters that are important first, and then be sure you do not spend too much. Get the bugs out of that creative outlet you started thinking.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Making your home more comfortable and operative is wise, but don't argue with those dwelling with you. Take no risks that could lead to damage and even physical injury. Your wardrobe needs some toning up, too.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those charming young people who wants to do good work at whatever is of interest, so make sure the wrong type of individuals do not get hold of your child and deter him or her from right path in life. Religious training is important here, as well as learning to finish what is started, and the tendency toward criticizing should be curbed early.

Carol Mann fires 68 for win

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—Carol Mann fired a four under par 68 Sunday to win the $20,000 Orange Blossom LPGA Golf Classic with a three-round total of 213.

Kathy Whitworth was second at 215 after shooting a 69 Sunday.

Kathy Ahern and Judy Rankin shared third place at 216.

Sandra Palmer, Pam Barnett and Jane Blazek were knotted at 218.

Miss Mann, who joined the LPGA tour in October, 1960, sank a 40-foot putt to close out the final hole with an eagle three. "It looked like a 70-footer while I was hanging over it," she said.

She had two bogeys on the fifth and 16th holes and four birdies.

The win over the par-72 Sunset Country Club course was worth $3,000 to Miss Mann, winner of the 1970 Hurdline Invitational in Miami.

Cleveland beats Angels

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Alex Johnson went hitless in four trips, in his first appearance against the California Angels since they suspended him last June 26, but his Cleveland Indians teammates recorded a 4-1 win Sunday.

But six strong innings by righthander Milt Wilcox more than offset the performance by Johnson who was greeted by a mixed reaction from the crowd. Wilcox, who allowed six hits and one run, was given a 2-0 lead in the second when Ray Fosse singled and eventually scored on Ken McMullen's throwing error. Wilcox followed with a sacrifice fly.

The Angels scored their lone run in the sixth when Mickey Rivers doubled, McMullen singled and Jim Spencer hit a sacrifice fly.

Cleveland added two runs in the seventh on Jack Heide's double, which scored Chris Chambliss, and a run-scoring single by John Lowenstein.

IDAHO DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Meat Inspection Service

REGULATIONS

Under the provisions of the 37, Chapter 19, Idaho Code, I, Oscar C. Arstein, Director, Department of Agriculture, propose to amend the Meat Inspection Regulations, by the addition of new sections which are summarized as follows:

New section 4.19 establishes a mandatory methicillin-resistant (MR) certification program under which there are three alternatives in the handling of cattle and sheep at slaughter: (1) the animals can be slaughtered if certification requirements are met; (2) the animals can be held alive for a required 7 day period; or (3) the animals can be slaughtered and tissue samples sent to a private or commercial laboratory acceptable to the USDA Laboratory Services Division for testing.

New section 4.3(a) (1) a carcass must be condemned when lesions of tuberculosis are found in the hepatic lymph nodes.

New section 4.3 (e) - Tuberculin reactors: a swine carcass with a localized lesion of tuberculosis in any two primary sites, and a cattle carcass with a localized lesion of tuberculosis in any location must be passed for cooking and may be used in meat food products provided such carcasses have been subjected to 170 degrees F. for 30 minutes prior to preparation or during preparation of the product.

New section 4.3 (f) describes the conditions under which a cattle carcass and a swine carcass may be condemned without restriction in relation to tuberculosis lesions. For the purpose of determining if the proposed regulations will be adopted as summarized above, any person or group interested in this matter may submit written testimony under the provisions of the Idaho Department of Agriculture Administrative Regulations, Rule 14, published January 1, 1968. Such written testimony must be submitted in accordance with such Rules and Regulations on or before the 10th day of April, 1972, to the State Department of Agriculture, P. O. Box 790, Boise, Idaho 83701.

Oral testimony may also be submitted to the State Department of Agriculture at 4000 Overland Blvd., Boise, Idaho, on or before the 10th day of April, 1972. Such statements will be recorded at a hearing by the Idaho State Department of Agriculture and made a part of the record in this matter unless 25 or more persons or a governmental agency or an association having at least 25 members request such general hearing in writing on or before the 4th day of April, 1972.

Any person wishing to obtain a full copy of the proposed regulations or further information on this matter may do so by writing to the Idaho State Department of Agriculture, P. O. Box 790, Boise, Idaho 83701.

Dated this 20th day of March, 1972 at Boise, Idaho.
