

TF teacher talks lagging

TWIN FALLS — Teacher negotiations are lagging in the Twin Falls schools.

Nearly a year after teachers were given the legal right to bargain collectively with their school district, Twin Falls teachers have not begun negotiations.

Instead, the Twin Falls teachers are still "negotiating about negotiations," seeking an agreement with the district on what subjects can be discussed once negotiations begin.

The slow pace of collective bargaining has angered a few teachers and concerned others.

The agitation is aggravated by the approach of the Monday deadline for returning signed teacher contracts for the 1972-73 school year.

Teachers who do not return their contracts in time can lose their jobs.

The Twin Falls trustees approved a tentative salary schedule that held teacher salary scales to the same level as a year ago.

Despite the slow pace of bargaining the new head of the Twin Falls Education Association believes that "good results" will be forthcoming from the preliminary negotiations next week.

Keith Farnsworth, the new president of the TFEA, said Thursday he believes it is too late to expect teacher negotiations to affect salaries for the 1971-72 year.

He said the district had called for the 1972-73 contracts to be signed and returned by Monday.

He said most Twin Falls teachers had already signed their new contracts and had turned them in to the district.

The call for contracts angered another group of Twin Falls teachers, the American Federation of Teachers.

The AFT last week criticized issuance of contracts before salary negotiations had begun.

The AFT called for a three-mill emergency levy to supplement district teacher salaries. In addition, the AFT asked teachers to refuse to turn in their contracts to the district until negotiations had taken place.

In contrast, the TFEA's Farnsworth said Thursday that there had been no discussion in his group of the emergency levy proposed by the AFT.

Farnsworth did say the teachers are seeking to negotiate salaries and items concerned with "better education" including curriculum and text book selection.

The district reportedly opposes negotiation of teacher involvement in choice of curriculum and text books.

Farnsworth would not comment on details of preliminary negotiations.

It was reported from other sources Thursday that teacher and district negotiating teams had met until late Wednesday night, and had scheduled another session for Tuesday.

Hospital room rates boosted

TWIN FALLS — Room charges will rise $4 per day at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital beginning May 1.

The additional money largely will be used to pay for increased salaries for the hospital's 335 full and part-time workers.

In addition, Mrs. Irene Oliver, hospital administrator, said the hospital hopes to hire about 10 registered nurses to supplement the overburdened nursing staff.

The changes were approved Wednesday night by the hospital's trustees.

The new room rates will bring bed charges to $45.50 for four-bed wards and up to $52.50 for the most expensive private rooms.

Bed rate increases ranged from 8.1 to 9.4 percent.

The wage increases will raise overall wages by about 9 percent, Mrs. Oliver said.

She said the increases will: —Increase the hospital minimum wage from $1.60 to $1.80 per hour.

—Raise registered nurse salaries by $750 a year to an annual salary of $7,650.

—Because of additional nurse staff, Mrs. Oliver said, nursing complement of each department should be augmented.

One important effect of this, she said, may be the re-opening of the hospital's intensive care ward.

The intensive care ward had been closed since July, because of staff shortages.

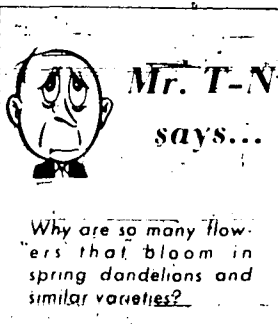

The last room rate increase was on Nov. 1, 1970, Mrs. Oliver said.

The hospital room rates account for about half of total patient charges. Additional charges such as laboratory fees, X-ray charges and surgery are additional.

According to the hospital's annual report for 1971, the per day charges to patients for all hospital services averaged $80.27 per day.

That was an increase of 8 percent above the average total charges of a year earlier.

The new room rates along with rising costs elsewhere are expected to bring total patient charges during 1972 to above $85 per day.

Ulster talks loom

DUBLIN (UPI)—The prime ministers of Britain and the Irish Republic may meet soon in a renewed bid to solve the Northern Ireland crisis, Irish government sources said Friday.

The sources said the possibility of such a meeting—the first since last fall—was discussed at talks in London Thursday between Patrick J. Hillery, the Irish Republic's minister for external affairs, British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home and William Whitelaw, Britain's secretary for Northern Ireland Affairs.

Hillery flew unexpectedly to London Thursday at the request of Irish Republic Premier Jack Lynch and held a 90-minute meeting with the two British ministers. He returned to Dublin late Thursday night and reported Friday to Lynch and the Irish cabinet.

Irish government sources said the meeting, held after the British government lifted a ban on parades in Ulster and announced an amnesty for those who had participated in illegal processions, has helped thaw out Anglo-Irish relations. These have been tense since the British Embassy in Dublin was burned down by a mob in the wake of "Bloody Sunday," rioting in Londonderry Jan. 30 in which 13 civilians were killed by British soldiers.

The sources said Thursday's London talks indicated both governments see signs of improvements and of lessening violence in Northern Ireland.

Irish government sources said Hillery told Douglas-Home and Whitelaw that in the interests of peace, the release of Ulster internees should be speeded up.

Reds draw noose on S. Viet city

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops drove government defenders out of the southernmost outpost of Dong Ha today and pushed their offensive toward the city of Quang Tri, eight miles to the south. Field reports said more than 100 North Vietnamese tanks were seen in the Quang Tri area, 10 miles below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

The Communist troops reported on all sides of Quang Tri eased their stranglehold on the city enough today so tens of thousands of refugees could head southward along Highway 1 toward Hue, 35 miles to the south. Scores of the refugees were killed by landmines along the way.

Heavy clouds and rain allowed some of the tanks to move openly, free of attack by U.S. fighter-bombers. But B52s dropped tons of bombs on the troop concentrations and U.S. Cobra helicopter gunships fought air-to-ground duels with tanks which infiltrated south-east of Quang Tri.

Cobras of the 4th Cavalry Regiment have reported knocking out four Soviet-built PT76 amphibious tanks southeast of Quang Tri, but two Cobras were shot down today and three others were damaged. Two Americans were killed in one of the crashes.

The pilots reported tanks four miles southeast of Quang Tri, which meant the North Vietnamese had been able to breach the Cua Viet River defense line which runs eastward from Dong Ha to the South China Sea. They did once before when they launched their offensive on March 30.

Board recommends uniform standards

BOISE (UPI)—Legislative Auditor James Defenbach recommended today the State Board of Education establish uniform standards for the institutions of higher education to compile and report on use of teaching space.

Defenbach's recommendation, presented to the legislature's budget and fiscal committee, came as a result of a study of space utilization at the university of Idaho.

At the same time, the committee—studying a resolution approved by the 1972 legislature—decided to expand one of its assignments to cover lease and rental and construction of office space for state agencies with an eye toward establishing legislative control.

Defenbach's recommendation included in a letter to Dr. Ernest Hartung, president of the U of I—stemmed from a 1971 report on space use at the school. Officials at the school, however, objected to the report and as a result the school did its own study and Defenbach's office audited the results.

In response, Hartung, in a letter to Defenbach, said the school's designation of use of rooms was different than the designation used by the Defenbach's staff.

Further, he said, many buildings used were older than the standards allowed and noted the use "may not be completely material" since the school is not seeking new classrooms.

In any event, Hartung said, the school faces a "critical need" for facilities.

The hospital room rates account for about half of total patient charges. Additional charges such as laboratory fees, X-ray charges and surgery are additional.

According to the hospital's annual report for 1971, the per day charges to patients for all hospital services averaged $80.27 per day.

That was an increase of 8 percent above the average total charges of a year earlier.

The new room rates along with rising costs elsewhere are expected to bring total patient charges during 1972 to above $85 per day.

McGovern receives support

By United Press International
Sen. George S. McGovern collected an early political dividend from the withdrawal of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie today when Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., endorsed him for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"Once Muskie's campaign collapsed, there was no question for me but that George McGovern was the man," Ribicoff told a news conference.

In addition, Julian Bond, the first black to be elected to the Georgia state legislature, announced for McGovern.

Ribicoff said he no longer believes that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., can emerge as a compromise presidential nominee from a deadlocked convention. Ribicoff said he informed Kennedy of his decision to back McGovern and the younger brother of President John F. Kennedy commented "that's fine."

The Connecticut senator said McGovern's present chief rival, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, was overly "past oriented" and predicted McGovern would win key primaries in New York and California.

Muskie, who announced Thursday he was withdrawing from all of the remaining primaries but would continue as a candidate at the convention, said he felt he still would be the nominee.

Crewmen healthy

ABOARD USS TICONDEROGA (UPI)—Apollo 16's three astronauts were pronounced in good shape today as they steamed toward Hawaii with lunar samples that may open a new era in moon science.

John W. Young, Thomas K. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke Jr. are scheduled to reach Honolulu Saturday afternoon, then fly to the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston late in the day.

At 11:30 a.m. EST, the recovery carrier Ticonderoga was 1,170 miles south of Hawaii, heading north at 26 knots.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, the space agency's medical director, reported in Houston that preliminary data showed the three spacemen had no significant medical difficulties and appeared to be re-adapting to the return to Earth's gravity with less trouble than that experienced by the Apollo 15 pilots last summer.

Their record 245-pound haul of moon samples and mapping pictures will be divided and flown to Houston on two planes Saturday. Impatient scientists at the Lunar Receiving Laboratory expect to open the first rock box Monday in a sterile, nitrogen-filled cabinet.

The astronauts Thursday made one of the smoothest and most accurate landings of the Apollo series and cleared the way for the flight of Apollo 17 on Dec. 6, the final expedition of the $25.5 billion U.S. lunar exploration program.

They received a telephone call of congratulations from President Nixon in Key Biscayne, Fla.

Young, four times in space, was unusually talkative when he stepped on the deck of this fighting ship Thursday and called the flight "a mission of discovery."

"There are secrets in that vehicle right now," he said, referring to the command module which still was bobbing in the Pacific 1,519 miles south of Honolulu.

Students jeer Dole talk

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — GOP National Chairman Robert Dole, who was booed, jeered and laughed at last week at Tulane University when he defended the stepped-up bombing in Vietnam, gave the same speech Thursday night at Kansas University and got the same response.

Students on the front rows greeted Dole, the Republican senator from Kansas, with Nazi salutes and shouts of "Sieg Heil!"

Nixon-logie-on-bombing, the students laughed and booed.

"If you want to stand there laughing, I'm leaving," Dole said at one point. But he did not leave. He stayed and engaged in a shouting exchange with the heckling students among the audience of 1,000.

Dole said that without the bombing, invading North Vietnamese divisions could have "slaughtered" the remaining American troops.

The crowd responded with catcalls and shouts for complete withdrawal.

Dole shouted back, "Sure, we could accept the North Vietnamese peace proposal. We could watch the south defeated. We could lose credibility in the face of the world."

The students answered with cheers and mock laughter.

Although Dole halted at times, waiting for a break in the steady flow of heckling, only once did he threaten to leave.

Apply for booth

SHOSHONE — Members of the North Shoshone Home Improvement Club will apply for a game booth at the Lincoln County Fair.

Fifty of the students attended the speech with their faces painted blue on one side. They said it was their way to make a "visual protest" of the bombing.

"I don't have to be defensive about Mr. Nixon," Dole said. "He is winding down the war, casualties are down, costs are down."

Wrong Choice?

Practically all announcements where one politician backs another are made for political expediency. This had to be the case when Senator Church and Governor Andrus came out with the "we back Muskie" program.

But it has apparently backfired because, after two more defeats in the last two Presidential primaries, it looks like the former frontrunner is also an also ran. Actually, we were not surprised that Governor Andrus took such a leap before he looked — or thought. We were rather shocked, however, that Senator Church made such a decision so early. We actually had given him more credit.

But the whole thing may have a bright side. It should stop any dreams Senator Church had entertained of being tapped as the Democrat vice-presidential candidate. The feelers were out.

Remember Senator Glen Taylor? He tried it and disappeared from the political scene. Even Senator Borah — who entertained thoughts of becoming President — never made the leap because of a variety of reasons. And he thought long and hard about the proposal.

It just isn't in the cards for anyone from Idaho to end up in — or at — the front door of the White House. Senator Church, all Democrats and most Republicans agree, is more valuable to Idaho as a Senator.

The Solutions

As the Penn Central Railroad continues to founder in its deficits, comment is heard more frequently that there are only two ways to solve the railroad's dilemma: scrap the line or nationalize it. Ultimately, those may be the only two viable choices.

But they are both harsh medicines and there should be no illusions to the contrary. To dissolve the business under bankruptcy proceedings would involve a tragic loss to many individuals.

Tens of thousands of families would be directly affected through loss of jobs. Although the rail passenger business continues on the decline, a large number of people would be forced to scramble for alternate transportation.

Closing down a major transportation link can have other serious results, some of them impossible to foresee. But nationalization is not all that promising either. The illusion that government takeover would solve Penn Central's ills is just that — an illusion.

Unless major operating changes also were accomplished, the deficits would continue. Conceivably they would become worse, for the philosophies of management of public affairs and private businesses are vastly different. Under nationalization the debt load would be shifted entirely to the taxpayers.

Economic decisions affecting business operations generally are settled in the market place. When they are diluted by public interest, balance sheets and profit and loss statements take second place to a new concern. Political considerations may yet dictate nationalization. But there should be full realization of the costs involved.

Stars Attract

The stars long have been a source of inspiration to lovers and other romantics, but they may provide an essential service to man at some point in the future. Early navigators relied on stellar formations for guidance. A future generation may find in the stars a new source of energy.

Dr. Homer E. Newell, associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, believes there is a chance an entirely different energy source exists in outer space. It was man's studies of the sun which provided the basic knowledge of nuclear energy. It is not unreasonable to expect that similar discoveries will come with a better understanding of more distant bodies.

Something more definite should be known about new power sources within the next 20 years, says the man in charge of NASA's long-range planning and policy studies.

WASHINGTON — Idaho Reps. James McClure, R-1st and Orval Hansen, R-2nd, have strongly defended their recent votes on toughening amendments to the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 which environmentalists here felt were pro-industry.

"By any standard the House bill is a tough bill," Hansen said. "In many respects it is stronger than the Senate bill. The House bill authorizes $18 billion of federal assistance against $14 billion in the Senate bill," he added.

McClure said the House bill "tries to strike a balance" and he too defended the House version as a good, strong bill.

Asked about a charge by Ralph Nader that the bill was so full of loopholes favorable to industry it was a piece of Swiss cheese, Hansen countered, "Nader ought to be more specific instead of offering a blanket condemnation. A great deal of effort and long study went into that bill."

McClure, assuming that

Nader favored the Senate version, denounced the Senate bill as "too broad and almost irrelevant because of the impossibility of attaining its stated goals in such a short time." The Payette Republican pointed out that to achieve total pollution free industry by 1986 would require a tentatively estimated expenditure of over $3 trillion and speculated that neither industry nor the public was ready to make that kind of commitment.

Both congressmen flatly denied an environmental charge that the House "copped out" in its version by setting up 1985 as a goal for zero pollution while a two year study is conducted into the total cost of pollution control. The Senate bill, passed late last year, mandated 1981 as the deadline.

Both congressmen said the House decided the fairest thing to do would be to establish a two-year study of the total cost before legislating a congressional commitment to the total cost and both pointed out that up through 1981 the House bill is almost identical with the Senate bill.

One amendment which both voted against would have delayed transfer of water pollution control authority to the states until federal standards for toxic pollutants had been established. It also would have given the Environmental Protection Agency permit-by-permit veto power over state programs and have eliminated a provision in the bill giving immunity until 1976 to polluters who applied for effluent discharge permits.

Both Idaho congressmen stressed that their opposition to this amendment was based on what they felt to be an infringement upon a state's right to handle its own water pollution programs. McClure said he thought the State of Idaho was doing a fine job and dismissed the environmental fear that a state might "go easy" on a large polluting industry.

Hansen termed this "a false issue." The Idaho Falls Republican said "the committee bill assigns over-riding authority to the Federal Government and directs administrative responsibility to the states only when and as the individual states demonstrate their ability and reliability to live up to that responsibility. The Federal Government would have authority to take complete charge of any state program whenever a state fails to discharge its assigned responsibility. The committee bill also retains the organization, expertise and experience that individual states have built up over the years."

McClure was asked why he voted for some amendments that even the more moderate Hansen voted against. "I tried to strike a middle ground between the two points of view, between the extreme environmentalists and the ardent pro-industry," the declared senatorial candidate said.

Poison Ivy

(Second of Two Articles) Continuing the problem of poison ivy from yesterday:

First defense against poison ivy is soap and water — if you know or think you've touched the plant, wash as quickly and thoroughly as possible with a good thick lather. The ivy sap is sticky, so don't expect a quick rinse to do much good. Use naphtha laundry soap.

Learn to watch for the "leaves of three," green in summer, turning yellow, brown or red in the fall. Sometimes the ivy will have white berries.

Can you be protected? To some extent. Injections have been tried with doubtful results; however, extracts can be taken by mouth in tiny doses, starting six weeks before possible exposure. Reports say this can prevent or minimize trouble in 80 per cent of users. The extract is used cautiously by physicians, because highly sensitive patients can be bothered by it.

Once the itch has developed, it runs its course, untreated, in two or three weeks. To ease the itching, a good treatment is a cold, wet dressing. Wrap the affected area in gauze, then wet it with one or another of the soothing solutions.

One good one is Burrow's solution (aluminum acetate, one part to 10 of water for adults, one to 20 of water for small children).

Epsom salts (one tablespoon to a quart of water) can be used alternatively.

Then wrap the wet dressings with cellophane, to keep from dripping all over.

If a case isn't too severe, catamine lotion is soothing enough.

Applied early enough, a zinc oxide ointment will neutralize the poison.

In severe cases steroids (cortisone-type) may be needed. These can be applied in the form of sprays, or given by mouth in diminishing doses — this will have to be done by your doctor.

One word of warning. Some patients get so desperate for relief that they try everybody's pet remedy, and it is possible for such shotgun treatment to cause irritation of itself and more harm than good.

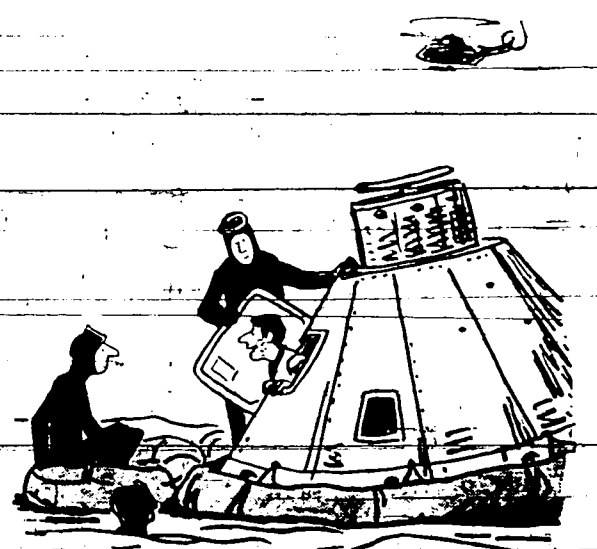

Of course one good means of protection is to get rid of any ivy in your yard or garden (the nasty stuff can pop in the most unexpected places).

Around my summer cabin I've virtually eliminated poison ivy by killing it off. There are several effective ways; ammonium sulfamate (2-4D), ammonium thiocyanate, borax solution, sodium chlorate solution, fuel oil.

Personally I have found that ammonium sulfamate sprinkled on the leaves is very effective. Garden shops also have weed-killer sprays that do a good job. Meantime, the old jingle:

Leaves of three, Quickly flee, Berries white, A poisonous sight.

Don't Laugh Yet

WASHINGTON — "Don't laugh," said the Democratic National Committee aide, "the party might have to go for Mandel to strike a balance for law and order."

It's Mandel Who? now. He is known to only a handful of plain citizens across the country as Gov. Marvin Mandel, Democrat, of Maryland, and heretofore he has been on none of the serious lists of potential Democratic candidates for Vice President.

But the nuts-and-bolts people at Democratic headquarters perked up when Mandel took a tough line against anti-war demonstrators at the University of Maryland, calling out the National Guard and opening the way for mass arrests. If violence becomes endemic in the streets this year, the Democrats could discover a sudden need for Marvin Mandel.

Mandel has taken what most qualified observers discern as the Middle American position toward rioting and other vicious high jinks by students, other young people and — of course — the overage kids among the radical Left. He has denounced demonstrators at the state university as "a handful of vandals," and has declared himself "fed up with this violence and destruction of public and private property."

He has said he will "use every resource and force at my disposal as governor to see that the University of Maryland remains open and free of disruption and disturbances."

Don't laugh, yet, at Mandel Who. By design or not, he is taking the same path trod by a Maryland governor in 1968 who later was chosen by Richard Nixon as his running mate. In his case, Spiro Agnew summoned a group of black militants to his office and read them a scorching lecture on their responsibilities. At the time, if I may be forgiven an immodest recollection, I suggested that Agnew's stand put him in the running for the Republican Vice Presidential candidacy.

It is virtually indisputable that the Democrats will be forced to nominate a liberal for President. Above all, their candidate must offer a contrast to Richard Nixon and thus give the discontented the change they are demanding. Indeed, there is now a very real possibility the boys in the smoke-filled rooms will be forced to accept Sen. George McGovern to head the ticket.

But unless the manic violence of the "handful of vandals" everywhere cools, the Democrats also will have to consider the feelings of Main Street. Rioting by students and by just plain nuts turns off the older voters, who are still in the majority. The turbulence of 1968 was one of the reasons Richard Nixon — hardly the most popular GOP candidate of modern times — was able to beat Hubert Humphrey. Nixon was for law and order, so were most Americans.

Thus it is not inconceivable that the Democrats would turn to someone like Marvin Mandel, who represents toughness toward the crazies. If 1972 becomes another year of National Guard callouts to quell disturbances the party will need a Vice Presidential candidate who will "strike a balance for law and order."

Pessimism

WASHINGTON (NEA) — One old Vietnamese friend, a guerrilla with Ho Chi Minh's forces in his younger days, has become pessimistic about the outcome of the war in all the years we've known each other.

Always the army was doing poorly. The political situation was deteriorating. The Communists were gaining strength. Hanoi would win in the end.

A few days ago, after the first two weeks of Communist victories, another letter arrived. Again full of pessimism. The South Vietnamese army lacks morale. The political situation is bad. Corruption is worse. The United States is wasting resources. American policies are not workable.

But, curiously, my friend had doubts in his mind, for the first time since I have known him, that the North Vietnamese would win the military victory.

"First," he said, "I would like to let you know that the Communist offensive will not lead to a collapse of the South Vietnamese army or the Saigon government."

This is undoubtedly the most optimistic statement my friend has ever made on the war.

His complaints in this letter are of a different order entirely — that the war will take too long to win. But he no longer talks of defeat.

"I would like you to come here one more time to see and to realize what is the situation. It is not bad, you know, but I am very sorry that with all the aid that you give us, we cannot do the job better and defeat the Communists more quickly."

My friend wants the United States and South Vietnam to do a great deal more to build strong political parties and do more to bring a civilian democracy. All this is a far cry from the defeatism which has plagued my friend's thinking for the past eight years.

This change in thinking, which first showed itself after major Communist advances at a time when there were no South Vietnamese victories to point to, is in a way somewhat like the attitude of some of my other South Vietnamese friends after Tet 1968.

The losses at Tet seemed to create in these men and women a new sort of courage. The worst had come and they had not gone under. They had done badly at the beginning. But they had come back to fight — perhaps not efficiently, but fighting nevertheless.

They had learned the Viet Cong were not 10 feet tall — but, after all, men like themselves, who could fail.

This time they are up against the mainline North Vietnamese armies in full force. It was an invasion that in the back of their minds they had expected and feared. They did not know how they would react.

Now they have been hit with the actuality of the invasion, and they are surprised that they have done as well as they have. They did not expect miracles. And they have not gotten miracles. But they have found something more. Inefficient as their armies may be, they have not collapsed.

This is a new wonder the South Vietnamese will take time to get used to. For they have found that the North Vietnamese armies in all their might, like the Viet Cong, are not invincible either. They make mistakes like anyone else.

So now this is a new war with new hope.

It Happened In Bliss

A dozen very juvenile members of the recently organized "Ma Brown Gang" — ages 8 to 13 — swept through Bliss on horseback the other day and systematically (and politely) held up the luncheon customers of the three restaurants. The three — the Circle Bar Cafe, the Y-Inn Cafe and the Ox-Bow Cafe.

No shots were fired inside the establishments — but the customers claim that they heard volleys of cap-pistols just prior to the entrance of the gang members.

Armed with signs proclaiming THIS IS A HOLDUP — YOUR MONEY OR SOMEBODY'S LIFE — THANK YOU — THE AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY, the masked youngsters passed around a white and scarlet airplane bag among the cooperative diners. They dashed away with their loot and straight into the lariats of seven of the members of the Gooding County Sheriff's posse — with Sheriff Earl Brown throwing the biggest rope.

During the wild chase behind the Ox-Bow, two of the young riders were thrown by their bucking ponies and the gang's leader (Ma Brown, impersonated by Brent Smith) took a header into a patch of sagebrush.

The captured gang turned the money over to Sheriff Brown and convinced the official that their motives were "the purest."

Then came the reward. The Ox-Bow treated the youngsters to ice cream and the adults to coffee.

The names of the "gang", members, Sheriff Brown said, were filed away for future reference. Included were Lislle and Doug Byee, Fudsy and Judy Hess, Jamie and Artie Brown, Louis Wilkins, Ray Falkner, Marty and Kenny Newby, Charlie Wenig, Brent Smith and Bobby Wareham. All from Bliss, of course!

Ketchum sets bicycle fair

SUN VALLEY — To further bicycle safety, a "Bike Fair" sponsored by the Ketchum-Sun Valley Papoose Club has been scheduled for Saturday.

Events will include a bike "road-race" to test skills in courteous bicycle riding. Bicycle accessories will be awarded to riders scoring the most points on a road course in the following age groups, pre-school, 6 to 8 years, 9 to 12, and over 12.

Younger children are also invited to bring their tricycles.

Safety inspections will be made at no charge by Ketchum and Sun Valley police officers. Free theft-loss registration will also be available.

Cooperating agencies include the following: Sun Valley Col. Ketchum Police Department, Blaine County Sheriff's Department, Sun Valley Police Department and the Blaine County Extension Service. Participants will be able to purchase lunch at the fair.

The event will start at 4 a.m. on the Sun Valley Mall parking lot.

Heyburn approves contract with BPA

HEYBURN — The Heyburn City Council approved a new electrical power contract with the Bonneville Power Administration during a brief special meeting Wednesday night.

The BPA periodically renegotiates its contracts with its city clients, according to Heyburn Mayor Harold Hurst. There were no major changes in the new contract. Rates will be the same, Hurst said.

The BPA also indicated it is working toward additional generating capacity to guarantee additional power supply in the Heyburn area when necessary. Hurst said today that there is no immediate threat of a power shortage, although earlier indications pointed to a potential shortage by 1975.

The council also agreed to close a portion of 16th Street in Heyburn to allow construction of a warehouse by the J. R. Simplot Co.

Talent recruiter position planned

TWIN FALLS — A new position in the talent search program under auspices of Idaho State University will begin July 1.

David Perkins, director of student personnel services at the College of Southern Idaho, said applications are now being taken for the position and should be sent to talent search program, Idaho State University, Pocatello. Applications must be received prior to May 10.

The job will be as a talent search recruiter and counselor who will be mainly recruiting disadvantaged persons into either an educational setting or training program.

The target population is the Mexican-American and they area to be covered is Cassia, Minidoka, Jerome and Twin Falls counties.

The person hired will work out of offices at CSI and in the Burley area.

A person who speaks both Spanish and English is being sought.

Decision delayed

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — Magistrate Court Judge Eli B. Ponack has delayed a decision on whether to bind Willis Meehan, Lewiston, over to District Court to face a charge of murder.

Meehan, 52, is charged with the beating death of his wife at their local home April 18.

During a preliminary hearing Wednesday a doctor said the woman apparently suffered several broken ribs and the rupture of an artery just below her heart.

However, Ponack delayed a decision in the case until final autopsy results are available.

Returns to Idaho

BLACKFOOT (UPI) — Dr. Howard C. Cowlishaw has returned to Idaho from California and rejoined the psychiatric staff at State Hospital South in Blackfoot.

Cowlishaw, who received his medical degree from the university of Nebraska, served on the hospital staff from 1956-60 under Superintendent S. Wayne Smith.

He then moved to California, where he worked on the medical staff at Norton Air Force Base for eight years before going into private practice in San Bernardino.

Glass manufacturing officials meet in TF

TWIN FALLS — Major progress in safety glass techniques is protecting and saving lives, glass manufacturing representatives said here today.

Officials of the nation's leading glass manufacturing concerns were in Twin Falls Thursday to address Bennett's Glass-sales forces and division officials in an annual meeting in the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium.

William F. Condon, Kansas City, Mo., of the Rohm and Haas Co., Philadelphia, told the firm's employees of new developments in the use of plexiglass to protect riot squads, bank tellers and others whose jobs create threats from bullets and other dangerous objects.

In major cities, he said, riot control squads maintain a large van equipped with plexiglass "snap on" windshield coverings.

"On the sound of an alarm," he said, the officers convene with the van and in a matter of six minutes, cars are equipped with the safety covers for windshields and windows to prevent officers being injured and killed by bullets and flying objects.

Condon said the glass is not absolutely bullet proof but in tests of gun firing, has been found resistant with no penetration from most hand guns.

Ralph Prickett, Los Angeles, representing Libby-Owens-Ford Co., said the new safety glass being used in some newer model vehicles is also a life saving item and can reduce insurance rates for the motorist. A sandwich type lamination with a plastic or plexiglass center and thin covering of glass, it is known as shock absorbing glass.

In addition to a tough and more flexible glass which prevents the driver going through the windshield, if it does break, it will crumble, giving the driver scratches instead of severe lacerations.

Other uses for this type of glass is in the building and construction industry. Many builders now use it for all glass expanses of 18 inches or less above the floor and in areas where an individual could mistake an expanse of glass for open space.

J. R. Gardner, manager of the glass division for Bennett's said his firm now refuses to sell ordinary glass to a builder or even for replacement in an area of high hazards.

The glazing of the glass with protective and unbreakable coating is now in such high demand it is frequently difficult to supply the need, he said.

Originated as burglary proof glass to protect the window displays of jewelry stores, this type of glass has found countless uses.

Other new innovations in glass include the reflective coated glass in which thin metallic coatings are used to reflect heat and light.

Use of this glass, while more expensive than the conventional type, will save money in the long run by reduction in air conditioning needs.

Some of this glass is now in use in Twin Falls including the Blue Lakes Country Club, First Federal Savings and Loan and the Bennett's Glass building.

Condon said this opens new avenues of aesthetic and environmental benefits. Residents with this glass in their homes can see out without difficulty, but those on the outside cannot see in.

It reduces the cost of heavy drapes by keeping out some of

17 per cent of America moves in year's time

WASHINGTON D. C. — Between March, 1970 and March, 1971, some 36.2 million persons — 17.9 per cent of the population — changed addresses.

The estimates released by the Bureau of the Census are based on answers to questions in a nationwide survey made annually since 1948 by the bureau, a part of the U. S. Department of Commerce's Social and Economic Statistics Administration.

The percentage of the population that moved in the 24 previous surveys ranged from a high of 21 to a low of 18.3 per cent. The 1969-70 figure was 18.4 per cent.

Of the 36.2 million persons who moved in the year before March 1971, 23 million moved to another address within the same county, and 13.1 million crossed county lines.

The survey shows that peak mobility rates — the proportion of persons who change addresses — occur among persons in their early 20s, an age group that is going to school, finding employment, serving in the armed forces, and setting up new households.

The mobility rate was 43.8 per cent for persons 22 to 24. After this peak is reached, the rates generally decline with increasing age. Among those persons who first married during the survey year, the mobility rate was especially high, as might be expected — 83 per cent.

The report notes that blacks had a higher residential mobility rate than white — 20.5 per cent compared to 17.6 per cent. The higher rate for blacks was due to greater local mobility.

Banquet slated

RICHFIELD — Richfield Grange members will honor the mothers at a Mother's Day banquet to be held at Lincoln Inn, Gooding, at 8 p.m. May 13.

The decision was reached at a regular Grange meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ross.

Master Ray Hubbsmith conducted the meeting. Mrs. Burl Aikens read an invitation from the Magic Grange, North Shoshone, to the Richfield group inviting them to attend the dedication of the new Magic Grange at 8 p.m., May 1.

The group was also invited to attend a public open house at the new hall from 2 to 5 p.m. May 7.

It was reported that $200.00 had been made on the sale of lunches at local farm sales recently. Another sale lunch will be served Saturday at the S. M. Crowther sale.

The next meeting is scheduled for May 7 at the Edgar Stubbs home.

President James Knox Polk was born in a log cabin near Pinesville, N.C., in 1795.

SUE COLEMAN

TF High names co-valedictorians

TWIN FALLS — Five Twin Falls High School seniors have been named co-valedictorians for the class of 1972.

John Lawrence, principal, said Vicki Bair, Jeannine Barry, Julie Morris, Alan Olmstead and Laurie Wright share top positions in the 461-member class.

Sue Coleman has been named salutatorian, Lawrence said. Commencement exercises will be at 8 p.m. May 22 at Bruin Stadium at Twin Falls High School. Baccalaureate will be at 2:30 p.m. May 21 at the high school gymnasium.

Rev. Albert E. Allen, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, will be speaker at baccalaureate services.

Miss Bair is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy J. Bair. She is recipient of the National Council of Teachers of English Award and was Altrusa Girl-in-1970. She is a three-year member of Girls' League and is secretary of the French Club. She was a member of Mu Alpha Theta and belongs to the National Honor Society.

Miss Barry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill E. Barry. She has been accompanist for the concert choir for three years and for the Madrigal group two years.

She was a member of the All-Northwest Choir in 1971 and the All-State Choir in 1972. She has been a member of the Music Club, the French Club, Girls' League, Pep Club and drill mistress of the drill team. She also belongs to the National Honor Society.

Miss Barry has received two scholarships to Ricks Summer Music Camp and one to Sun Valley Music Camp. She is winner of the Smith, Hackney, Ronk Memorial Scholarship and has received a scholarship from the College of Southern Idaho which she will attend this fall. She is a member of the LDS Church.

Miss Morris is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John L. Morris. While attending Twin Falls High School she has been active in Pep Club, Girls' League, Magic Valley Symphony Orchestra, band and marching band, orchestra and All-State Band.

She has served as vice president of the German Club, treasurer of the National Honor Society, National Merit Finalist and National Council of Teachers of English award winner.

Olmstead is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Olmstead. He is vice president of Interact Club, was a Boys' State and is a member of the National Honor Society. While a junior he placed third in Twin Falls High School on the National Mathematic Test and as a senior placed first in the school on the test.

As a junior he won a National Science Foundation Summer Science Training Program scholarship at the University of Hawaii for seven weeks doing original research in biochemistry.

As a ninth grader he was a president of the student body at Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School.

Miss Wright is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Wright. She has been active in dramatics throughout junior and senior high school and has been secretary of the Thespians.

She also has participated in orchestra and has been secretary-treasurer of the senior high symphonette. She received the outstanding student award during her junior year, has been Key Club sweetheart and received the National Merit Letter of Commendation.

She has been a member of the student council, the senior council, National Honor Society, French Club, Mu Alpha Theta, Ski Club and co-editor of Inscapes.

She is a student of ballet and has taught beginning ballet classes. She presently is teaching at a Montessori Kindergarten and plans to go into child psychology.

Miss Coleman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Coleman. She has been a member of Twin Falls High School Orchestra and Symphonette for three years and has served as secretary-treasurer and president.

Miss Coleman also has been a member of the Twin Falls High School Madrigals and for the past two years has belonged to the Magic Valley Symphony Orchestra.

She has won three scholarships to summer music camps and has attended Ricks Summer Music Camp and BYU Summer Music Camp.

She was elected to participate in the All-State Orchestra in 1970 and 1972.

Methodists OK integration

ATLANTA (UPI) — The United Methodist General Conference voted Thursday to end racially structured regional conferences, taking a stand it had avoided in past years, and approved a $191.2 million budget over the next four years.

A mandatory date of July 1, 1973, was set for the remaining four all-black conferences with seven geographically overlapping, all-white conferences in Mississippi, Alabama, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

The new church structure plan was far from complete. Delegates have voted to set up a governing council of ministers and a council on finance and administration.

streamlining other church operations such as boards, agencies and commissions. Under the plan there will be five boards and under their auspices will come all related units.

Speaking for ending the segregated conferences, a black minister from Jackson, Miss., the Rev. Wendell Taylor said the resolution merely sets "the climate in which we can work, where we can say once and for all, 'End racial segregation in the United Methodist Church.'"

But another black minister, the Rev. W. D. Lester of Little Rock, Ark., said more time was needed to "pray about and work things out." He said the black conferences would be "consumed" and would not be able to express their rights.

Golf clubs stolen

TWIN FALLS — Despite some unfavorable temperatures, the golf season is here.

City police said today golf clubs were stolen during the past 48 hours from two homes in Twin Falls.

Merrill Call, 2150 Hillcrest Lane, told officers Thursday someone entered the garage at his home while he was in Salt Lake City and took a number of clubs including woods and irons. He estimated the value at $250. Nothing else in the garage was bothered, including a golf cart.

Mrs. James Little, 2144 Alta Vista, told officers someone entered her automobile while it was parked in front of her home. She said one door of the vehicle was unlocked and golf clubs valued at about $150 were taken from the back seat. Several other items in the car were left by the thieves.

Coin boxes cleaned out

TWIN FALLS — About $160 was reported taken from a cash box, coin change machine and a coin operated cleaning machine at the Norge Cleaning Village, police reported today.

Mrs. Artell Kelly, owner of the business, told officers someone broke into the building Wednesday night. Officers said a door was apparently pried open and the rear door used as an exit since locks can only be opened from the inside.

The business is located in Lyndwood Shopping Center.

Officers said a cash box, empty of money but containing some checks, was found in the alleyway behind the building.

CSI fund gains $19

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho Associated Students came out in the black on "The Nitty Gritty Dirt Band" concert Wednesday — but just barely.

Jack Sims, director of student activities, said that after expenses were paid, the show netted $19 which will be contributed toward replacement of windows broken at the college.

Expenses for the show ran over $6,000, mostly for payment of the band. About 2,100 attended the concert.

Another project for benefit of the window fund will be held Saturday at the college. A dance, featuring music by "King Kong" and "Woodland" is planned from 9 p.m. to midnight at the gymnasium. The public is invited.

Protesters still active

By United Press International
Students at Columbia University opposed to the takeover of the mathematics building by antiwar protesters slipped quietly through an open window Thursday and forced the protesters to leave. Protesters, however, continued their sit-ins at four other Columbia buildings.

Antiwar activity led to the suspension to 75 students who were occupying a building at Cornell. Forty-four protesters were arrested when they disrupted the broadcasting of WBZ-TV's evening news program in Boston.

At the University of Pennsylvania, school officials obtained an injunction against about 300 students occupying the administration building. The students were demanding that the school sell stock in companies making war material. A university spokesman said this demand was granted three months ago.

At Columbia, members of the "Majority Coalition," a group opposed to the seven-day strike at the school, overcame the occupying force of antiwar protesters after a brief scuffle. Protesters also abandoned picketing at another Columbia building.

At Kent, Ohio, about 650 Kent State University students attended a campus antiwar demonstration Thursday.

Booby-trapped autos explode

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Bombs exploded in bobby-trapped autos in shopping areas of Belfast and Newry today, sending crowds fleeing and hospitalizing several persons for shock.

In Belfast, a bomb-laden car blew up and ripped paint and decorator shops and smashed the facades of a two-block stretch of stores and offices in the Roman Catholic Lower Falls district. Police said several persons were hospitalized for shock and one man suffered a heart attack.

A bomb blast in a car parked outside a pub in Newry injured a civilian and a policeman who were trying to clear shoppers from the area. A telephoned warning preceded the explosion, allowing time for most of the shoppers to be evacuated.

The bomb-laden car in Belfast was spotted in advance but the blast erupted before the area was cleared entirely.

Diary edited

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — An 18-page "diary" Angela Davis sent to "Soledad Brother" George Jackson was edited down to seven pages Thursday by the prosecutor, who said it was vital to the state's case in the murder, kidnap and conspiracy trial.

Judge Richard E. Aronson, who on Tuesday ruled the document inadmissible as evidence on grounds much of it was "irrelevant," said he would spend the three-day weekend studying the pared-down version.

He met behind closed doors for three hours Thursday with attorneys for both sides after dismissing the jury for the week on Wednesday. The panel was excused after Assistant State Attorney General Albert W. Harris Jr. reopened arguments on having the diary-type communication entered as evidence.

No price reductions

DETROIT (UPI) — Although first-quarter profits soared to the highest level in any quarter in its 64-year history and a major competitor has announced substantial price reductions, General Motors Thursday said profits were within government guidelines and no price reductions would be made on 1972 model vehicles.

GM Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg and President Edward N. Cole said first-quarter earnings totaled $651 million, up 6.7 per cent from the same period last year.

SALT sessions postponed

HELSINKI (UPI) — The 121st session of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) was postponed today because of the absence of the U.S. chief delegate.

The press center of the talks said the session had been postponed indefinitely.

Ambassador Gerard C. Smith went to Washington Wednesday and had been expected to remain a few days for consultations regarding the conference.

Same spring problem relieved at Columbia

NEW YORK (UPI)—Soon after protests, hundreds of arrests and bloodied heads had rattled Columbia University four years ago, Dr. Grayson Kirk announced he was quitting as chancellor "to ensure the prospect of more normal university operations."

Today, again in bright spring sunshine, the man who inherited Kirk's mantle is reliving his problems. Dr. William James McGill, a sturdy, white-haired psychology professor who came to Columbia "absolutely committed to freedom of inquiry and freedom of expression," is weathering the test of his commitment.

How he rides the storm one year, one month and 25 days after assuming the chancellor's reins is being closely watched by students, faculty and university administrators across the country.

Four years ago, the cause was different—thousands of students violently protested plans the university subsequently dropped to build a gymnasium in one of Harlem's two parks. Today, fewer students are protesting less violently the Vietnam.

Eggs, stones, bottles and slogans have been thrown about—decks, chairs, filing cabinets and windows have been broken. Six buildings were under student occupation today.

Already, McGill, 48, has repeated one move that students roundly criticized Kirk for—calling in police to quell demonstrators. But, unlike Kirk, McGill watched club-swinging police wade into a group of students, saw several out academic activities" even "if we have to have classes on the lawn."

American share of corruption in Viet ignored

SAIGON (UPI)—In a single day last October, a U. S. military policeman—in consort with South Vietnamese soldiers—stole $30,000 worth of building supplies from the Newport docks on the outskirts of Saigon.

commanders turn a blind eye to much of the corruption because prosecution bogs them down in lengthy investigations and mountains of paper work.

The Army claims no records are kept of the extent or value of material stolen in Vietnam. Officers cite a 2.65 per cent loss through theft and other causes from the $248 million business the post exchange system did in the republic in 1971. They say the loss compares "most favorably with civilian businesses in the U.S."

Despite sophisticated computerized cataloging of material arriving in Vietnam—most of it, through the Newport facility—a check of where the millions of dollars of goods go is said by authorities to be impossible.

Forged transport orders enable South Vietnamese troops to drive U.S.-supplied 2 1/2-ton trucks loaded with material off the docks in daylight. Because they cannot be searched by Americans, the goods wind up in the thriving black market, which plays a large role in the wartime economy here.

Further, they say, some U.S.

Four Idahoans get national stipends

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — Four Idahoans were among the 1,000 high school seniors across the nation named today as winners of National Merit $1,000 scholarships.

Griffith, Osburn, Wallace senior high school, and Mark E. McNee, Boise, Borah high school, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene McNee, Twin Falls.

RICHFIELD — The Blaine Stake LDS Youth Chorus received a standing ovation Wednesday night as it performed at the stake choral and music festival at Hailey.

Sixty-four young people from Richfield, Shoshone, Hailey, Dietrich, Carey and Sun Valley made up the chorus that sang four numbers.

The chorus was directed by Phyllis Flavel, Richfield, and accompanied by Susie Gold, Hailey.

C. W. Ward, Richfield, was master of ceremonies for the event, which included choral, band and organ numbers.

The Richfield Laurel class sang, accompanied by Carol Sanders, Richfield.

Ruth Knowles accompanied the Shoshone MIA Maid class and they sang one song.

Horst Glauche, Sun Valley, played two organ solos. Marianna Bingham, Dietrich, sang a vocal solo, accompanied by Daniel Sorensen.

The second year Beehive girls from Hailey sang a novelty song, accompanied by Susie Gold.

The Carey High School Swing Choir sang two selections accompanied by Johnnie Pyrah and Rusty Baird.

A quartet from Shoshone sang accompanied by Ruth Knowles.

Candy Brower, Hailey, presented a vocal solo, accompanied by Susie Gold.

Club members donate

TOYS, DISHES and silverware have been donated to the Child Development Center in Twin Falls by members of the Squilla Club who gathered the items from residents of the area. From left are Mrs. Kay Crawford, club president, and Mrs. Rodney Davis, reporter, and Patty Burke, social services worker at the center. She said the items will be used both for play periods and in learning processes.

New blue uniforms introduced

JEROME — The Jerome Police Department dispatch girls are now wearing new uniforms.

The uniforms are navy blue, one-piece dresses which replace the two-piece skirt and blouse of gray the girls had previously worn.

The new uniforms along with the remodeling of the police department, are part of the effort to upgrade the working conditions for the department's personnel, according to Chief Howard DuBois.

The design of the uniform was decided on by the dispatchers but the color was chosen by Du Bois. The dresses were made by Loreta Bayley.

DISPATCH girls for the Jerome Police Department, Carol Jackson, standing, and Deanie Moore, are wearing the new one-piece navy blue uniforms which replace the two-piece gray skirt and blouse previously worn.

Dairy Princess contest slated

SHOSHONE — A Dairy Princess contest will be held in Lincoln County May 1-15. Mrs. Ward Mills, women's chairman of the county Farm Bureau, said today.

Candidates must be high school graduates, including 1972 graduates, between ages of 17-25 inclusive and they must "enjoy dairy foods."

The princess must be willing to spend a reasonable amount of time representing the dairy industry, have a reasonable knowledge of dairying and photograph well.

Professional models will not be eligible. Contestants will not be required to appear in bathing suits or have a special talent.

Interested young women can obtain score cards from Mrs. Mills, fill them out and return them no later than May 15 to be judged.

A possible 160 points can be scored on beauty, ability to speak in public, poise, charm, photograph well, enthusiasm and knowledge of dairying. The county winner will receive a gift and will then participate in the state contest. Finalist will be given a $100 scholarship.

Educational meats program scheduled Thursday in TF

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley home economists and members of the Desert Gold CowBelles are invited to an educational meats program Thursday.

The program, "Everything You Wanted to Know About Meat (but were afraid to ask)," is sponsored by the Idaho Home Economics Association and is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the Idaho Power Auditorium, 113 3rd St. N.

Dr. John C. Miller, extension meat specialist for the University of Idaho Cooperative Extension Service, will present the program.

Topics to be discussed include: The importance of yield and quality grades to the consumer; tips on buying, storage and handling of meat, as well as cooking it right — method to meat.

The program will conclude with a meat cookery demonstration entitled "What You See Is What You Get." The demonstration will include ideas of using different meat cuts in barbecue and fondue cookery.

Interested women with home economics degrees and members of the CowBelles may contact Carolyn Barnes, area 4-H specialist for the University of Idaho Cooperative Extension Service at 734-3600 or Sharon LaFray, Jerome County extension home economist at 324-4571 for more information.

At Lovelier You

SKIN IS WRONG SIZE!

By Mary Sue Miller

Overheard at a beauty salon: "My skin doesn't fit my face. It has come loose at my jaw and droops under my chin. I didn't think this would happen to me until I was too old to care. Well, I'm not that old and I care terribly. I need advice."

What was said next became inaudible. But it is hoped that the lady was assured that a woman never gets "too old to care." And that is why she should always take very special care of herself. Lack of it causes aging before time.

In the throat and chin area, crepey conditions are hastened by faulty posture and inadequate attention to the skin. If the head were always carried erect — neck drawn out of the shoulders and chin tilted upward — the jaw and throat muscles would resist the laxity that age threatens.

As regards skin care, the neck is almost a victim of neglect. Honestly now, how often do you apply a cream to your face and stop short at the chin?

Whenever you apply cleanser, emollient or moisturizer, it should be massaged upward from the base of the throat to the hairline. In addition, the fortieth birthday signals the need for throat creams. These are formulated to firm and tone the special texture of the throat complexion.

It is never too late to begin the program. The measures help to keep good skin from going to bad, to worse.

Some new church forms said working out well

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
Christians throughout America are experimenting with new forms of church organization at the local level. Some of the experiments seem to be working out very well.

The vast majority of U.S. church members—probably 90 per cent—continue to be affiliated with the traditional type of congregation, which has its own building, paid staff, budget and fixed weekly schedule of services.

At its best, this type of congregation can be very effective in creating a sense of community among its members and drawing new people into its fellowship.

It may, however, invest so much of its money and power in its own housekeeping functions and become so preoccupied with providing a chaplaincy to its own members that it has little time or energy left for representing Jesus Christ in the role of humble and compassionate servant to the poor, sick, lonely and ostracized of society.

Recognizing this fact, thousands of concerned Christians, Protestant and Catholic, young and old, black and white, are trying to evolve new types of congregational life that will put less emphasis on buildings and budgets and more emphasis on worship, fellowship and service.

The most successful of these experiments isn't really new, but a revival of the kind of Christian congregation that existed in the apostolic age—

the "house church."

In the period of Christianity's most rapid growth, there were very few buildings used exclusively as churches. Most Christian congregations met in private homes. Today's "house churches" often rotate their meetings among the homes of several members. Sometimes they hire a hall for an especially large gathering, such as a joint meeting with several other "house church" congregations.

Their pastors not infrequently are ordained ministers who earn part of their own upkeep through weekday secular jobs.

Despite the fact they don't have to raise money for mortgage payments and a large paid staff, these small congregations usually stress generous giving. Many of them make tithing (giving 10 per cent of your income) a condition of membership, and some practice double tithing (20 per cent). They also typically require of their members a tithe of their time. Having both money and manpower to deploy, a small house church often is able to do vastly more than a large, rich, conventional congregation, in actually ministering to human beings in the name and spirit of Christ.

Another mode of organization that appears to be working well is known as "clustering." Originally it had a more limited and specific connotation, but today the term is applied to any arrangement under which several different congregations share the cost of the facilities.

CHURCHES

Nazarenes choose church officers

TWIN FALLS — The First Church of the Nazarene has elected officers for the new church year.

Norman Garlington has been reelected Sunday school superintendent. Mrs. John Nelson, elected missionary president; Mrs. Jim Jensen, young peoples group leader.

Elected trustees were Russell Rosenau, Doyle Mason, Rudy Loder Jr., Charles Johnson, Harold Jensen, Don Edwards and Charles Brockway.

Stewards include Mrs. J. M. Anderson; LaVern Boyd, Mrs. Calvin Dietz, Mrs. Dan Edwards; Hubert Hendrix, Mrs. Jim Jensen, Neil Miller, Danny Peak, Marvin Robinson, John Stevens and Bob Kuhl.

Delegates to the District Assembly in Nampa May 11-12 are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Garlington, Mrs. Clyde Lowery, Mrs. John Nelson, Dan Edwards, Pastor and Mrs. Joe Chastain, Mrs. Doyle Mason and Mrs. Ruby Franklin.

Preaching mission ends Sunday in TF

TWIN FALLS — Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg concludes his preaching mission at First Baptist Church, Ninth and Shoshone, on Sunday.

At 8:30 and 11 a.m. he will speak on "A Personal Faith for a Revolutionary Time." At a 7:30 p.m. family "snack supper" in the church's fellowship hall his topic will be "The Brotherhood of the Kingdom." Dr. Dahlberg is a former president of the National Council of Churches, a former member of the central committee of the World Council of Churches, and is one of the few persons to serve two terms as national president of the American Baptist Churches.

Now in partial retirement, Dr. Dahlberg is minister in residence at Orangewood Estates (an American Baptist retirement center), Phoenix, Ariz., and is widely heard as a guest preacher. Recently, he commuted weekly from Phoenix for a midweek Lenten series in Los Angeles.

Jellison given 'Others' award

TWIN FALLS — Ernest B. Jellison was presented the golden "Others" award by the Salvation Army for 1972.

The award, presented in a service award banquet Monday night in recognition of outstanding services in the community to assist other persons.

Hugh Phillips presented the award to Jellison, listing his many community services. The chairman's plaque was presented to Rev. Eugene Tjarks who has served as chairman for the past year.

About 50 persons attended the dinner meeting which also featured the installation of new board members, Marjorie Hoops, Evelyn Christoffersen, and Wayne Annis.

Mrs. Harold Peterson, Salvation Army regional official, San Francisco, addressed the Salvation Army members. He spoke on his "three loves," — love of God, love of other people and love of the Salvation Army.

Relief Society lists lessons

SHOSHONE — May will be the last month of the season for weekly lessons at the LDS Relief Society. Only one meeting a month will be held from June to September.

"One-Parent Families" is title of the Visiting Teacher's message for the month of May, and objective of the lesson is to explore what can be done to strengthen one-parent families.

Studies in the United States estimate that at least two million children under 18 live in one-parent families, the women of which generally feel more unhappy than married women.

Ways to help such families will be emphasized in this lesson. A study from the Pearl of Great Price entitled "One Heart and One Mind" will be undertaken at the Spiritual Living lesson period in May. Need of teachings of spiritual unity will be emphasized.

A study of some of the Old Testament prophets and teachings will be used in the Cultural Refinement lesson for May along with a study of the music of Felix Mendelssohn. Objective of this lesson is to show how the Lord's power can prevail against seemingly impossible odds and to enhance the individual's enjoyment of music.

The Social Relations lesson topic is "Gospel Living Opens the Channels of Spiritual Communication," and deals with happiness a woman receives through participation in prayer and religious worship.

"Gospel living is requisite to opening the channels of spiritual communication and gospel living becomes a major force in our lives and we reap rich blessings from the Lord," the text notes.

In continuing the homemaking lesson theme of the year, "Wise Use of Time," the May topic centers around "A Family-Shared Responsibility."

The objective shows that dividing work responsibilities among family members can help the LDS Woman use her time wisely.

Night of prayer

TWIN FALLS — The monthly night of prayer is planned for Saturday at the First Church of the Nazarene.

Anyone is invited to call 733-3679 to request prayer anytime during the night. There is no obligation to the caller, and the person calling may either give his name or remain anonymous as he wishes.

Kimberly holds ecumenical fete

KIMBERLY — Ecumenicalism is 28 years old for Kimberly area church women.

The annual Community Spring luncheon, which started in 1945, was held this year at the United Methodist church with 118 women attending. They represented all churches in this area.

"The Transformed Life" was the theme of the event, which also included a brief history of the community luncheon. The first luncheon was held at the Kimberly Christian church with Rev. Hendricks, then pastor, assisting. Mrs. Sarah Van Houten, who is now in her 90's and lives in Twin Falls, gave the prayer at the first meeting.

Participating in this year's program were the Singing Mothers of the LDS church who sang "Rain" and Roni Rehn played an autoharp solo.

The Christian church presented Mrs. James Keefe who sang two numbers, "Ho, Mr. Piper," and "God Lives in my Heart," accompanied by Mrs. Douglas Gee.

Methodist numbers included a reading given by Debbie Nelson, which was an original speech written by Charlotte Presnell for the declamation contest. She won superior at the regional and excellent at the district and state for the presentation.

Program at Almo

ALMO — A religious program presented by primary classes of the Almo Ward at the LDS Chapel had "Keep My Ways" as the theme.

"Keep My Ways, Give of Yourself, Be Thoughtful, Be Kind, Be Honest and Pray Always" were presented in songs, stories, verses and scripture. Bishop William D. Jones also participated in the presentation.

Mrs. Robert Ward, Mrs. Zenith Taylor, Mrs. Thern Ward and Mrs. Richard Jones helped prepare the program. Mrs. Arlo Lloyd and Mrs. Rulon Royce directed music and Mrs. William Jones and Mrs. Arley Gibson were accompanists.

School set

TWIN FALLS — The First Southern Baptist Church will hold a lay-evangelism school at 7:30 p.m. May 8 through 12.

The school will be conducted by Pastor Willis Blair of Burley. The school is to train Christians for witnessing according to Pastor Bennie E. Wright. Enrollment for those interested in the school will begin this Sunday.

Top teen-ager

YOUNGEST "brother" in the gospel singing Blackwood Brothers group is Billy Blackwood. He plays drums and guitar and last year was honored as the only teen-ager among the nation's top gospel instrumentalists.

Blackwood group to sing in TF

TWIN FALLS — Gospel music enthusiasts of Magic Valley will have an opportunity to hear the Blackwood Brothers May 10.

The gospel singing group will give a public performance May 10 at 8:30 p.m. in the O'Leary Junior High School auditorium, sponsored by the First Church of the Nazarene of Twin Falls.

Performing around the nation since 1934, the Blackwood Brothers group has been judged outstanding gospel singing group, gospel recording group, and has had many award winning individual performers over the years.

James Blackwood, one of original organizers, has been with the singers since that time. Still with the group after 17 years are Cecil Blackwood and Bill Shaw.

The singers have sold more than three million phonograph albums since gaining national attention in 1954 when they won the Arthur Godfrey talent scout show. Since that time, they have won the same award again and have performed with Ernie Ford, Johnny Cash, Billy Graham and others.

In 1967, 1968 and 1970, they won the Grammy award for the best gospel album and in 1970 also won the Dove award from the Gospel Music Association. Youngest member of the troupe is Billy Blackwood, 16, youngest son of James Blackwood.

He also plays guitar but is probably known best for his ability on the drums.

Valley members to assist in rites

BOISE — Several Magic Valley people will participate in consecration of the state's seventh Episcopal Bishop Tuesday and Wednesday in Boise.

The ceremonies, in honor of the Right Rev. Hanford L. King Jr., Ph. D., will be at the Rodeway Inn convention center.

Commentator for a two-hour broadcast which will be carried on KMYT television, Twin Falls, at 10 a.m. Wednesday, is Rev.

Albert E. Allen of the Church of the Ascension, Twin Falls.

Young people from Twin Falls who will be participating in services are Scott Roberts, crucifier; K. Ellen Waegelin, flag-bearer; Andy Inkley, banner-bearer; Ann Turner, attendant, and Mary Louise Allen, Oblation bearer.

Bert Larson, Twin Falls; Malcolm Stuart, Jerome, and William Nungesser, Buhl, will be ushers.

Guest speaker

JEROME — Rev. and Mrs. Jasper Havens will be guests at the Sunday morning worship and coffee hour at the First Christian Church.

Rev. Havens is the new First Christian regional minister. He will bring the message both for the morning worship and the senior banquet sponsored by the Christian Women's Fellowship.

Youths attend Episcopal meet

TWIN FALLS — Youths of high school and college age will attend the annual convention of the Episcopal House of Young Churchmen this weekend in Twin Falls.

From 50 to 60 youths from throughout the Diocese of Idaho are expected at the Church of the Ascension, according to Rev. Albert E. Allen, minister. He will speak at the breakfast on Saturday.

Luncheon speaker will be Mary Wyles, student at the University of Washington and member of the Diocesan Council of Olympia and an officer of the youth council of that diocese.

Rev. Albert Metcalfe, Shelley, will speak at the Saturday evening banquet. Officers will be elected, evangelistic teams formed and a new diocesan structure adopted.

Ann Turner is general chairman of the event with Robin Carle as co-chairman. The program is under the direction of Joe Marshall, III, the local youth adviser.

Services on Sunday will include holy communion at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. with the church school. Rev. Allen's sermon is entitled "Set your troubled hearts at rest."

Lutheran women meet at Clover

CLOVER — Mrs. Martin Knip presented the opening devotionals on the theme "My Father's House" to Lutheran Women's Missionary League members in the school.

Mrs. David Lutz served as announcer for a skit presented by Mrs. Walter Kaster, Mrs. John Burkholder, Mrs. Harold Gunther, Mrs. Edgar Meyer, Mrs. Hugo Meyer, Mrs. Vernon Lassen and Mrs. Gary Sims.

Mrs. Raymond Lassen welcomed two guests, Mrs. Clara Johnston and Mrs. Melvin Jagels. The members were asked to designate which Sunday they would like to put flowers in church.

The LWML convention will be held May 2-3 in Ontario, Ore., and delegates appointed included Mrs. Lutz, Mrs. Knip, Mrs. Hugo Meyer, Mrs. Edwin Lierman and Mrs. Roy Gartner. Mrs. Burkholder and Mrs. T. D. Johnston will serve as alternates.

The group voted to extend an invitation to host the 1974 convention. A clothing drive is now underway and clothing may be brought to the Clover school. Mrs. Edmund Ulrich and Mrs. Lucy Burkholder are new honorary members.

The LWML will serve a meal for the pastoral conference in May. A report was given on the meal which the group served for the Walther League zone rally. Mrs. Meyer presented the closing devotional service. Mrs. Leo Gahringer and Mrs. Gunther were hostesses. Members-at-large were Mrs. Lee Hartwig and Mrs. Meta Holtzen.

Dinner postponed

FILER — The Challenge Class of the Baptist Church has postponed its potluck dinner from April 27 to May 4. Hosts will be Mr. and Mrs. Everett Andrews and Rev. and Mrs. Roy Watson.

Jerome men to install

JEROME — The Jerome Methodist Men's Club will install officers Sunday at the United Methodist Church in Jerome.

Officers include, Truman Beam, president; Ron Emberton, vice president; Gary Anderson, secretary; and Tom Mahan, treasurer.

According to Ray Baker, president, the meeting will be an after-dinner dessert meeting served by the retiring and new officers.

Delegate named at Gooding

GOODING — Mrs. Jerry Neils will be delegate to the Lutheran Women's Missionary League Utah-Idaho district convention May 3 at Ontario, Ore.

She will represent the local unit of the Calvary Lutheran Church in Gooding and other women in the group plan to accompany her for the one-day meeting.

It was announced at the Wednesday meeting that a potluck dinner will be served after church services May 7. The congregation will honor an adult confirmand and six high school graduates.

Mrs. William LeFurgey reported information about gold symbols to be added to the church altar scarves. Mrs. Kurt Westendorf said bookmarks have been given to patients at Gooding Memorial Hospital and Green Acres Terrace nursing home for Easter tray favors.

Couple to talk Sunday

JEROME — Rev. and Mrs. Duane Alton, Spokane, Wash., will be guests of the Bible Baptist Church Sunday.

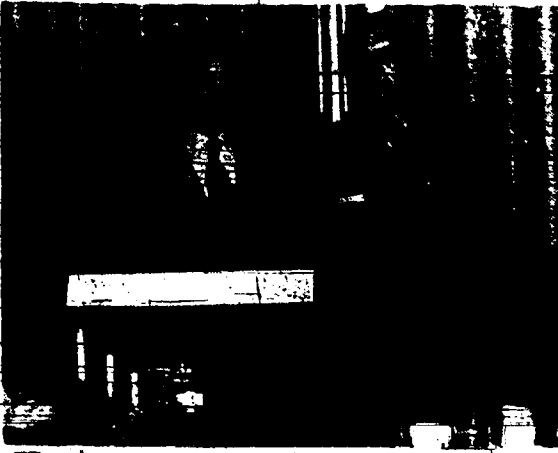

Rev. Alton will speak at morning and evening services, with his wife assisting with a chalk drawing.

Collision looms in Wood valley

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Population growth and environmental quality in the Wood River Valley are on a collision course, according to a Soil Conservation Service official.

Neil Simpson, Boise, SCS area conservationist, made the comment before about 200 persons at the first annual Environmental Science Fair Thursday evening at the Wood River Junior High School.

Sampson stressed advanced planning before a crisis is reached — a crisis in which "continued population will cause economic activity to go downward with the decrease in environmental quality."

Residents will have to determine what kind of quality they are willing to support, Sampson said. The same task is facing other Americans, but it is "so much more critical" in the Wood River Valley, he said.

Efforts should be made to encourage economic interests and environmental interests to work and plan together, Sampson said.

Student displays — depicting local problems — as well as informative slide shows and demonstrations were presented.

School officials said they hoped the student project, which involved detailed research of their water and noise pollution as well as valley soil conditions, would serve as a pilot program for other school districts.

Planning for the event was started in February by two science teachers — David Standley, from the junior high school, and Ray Grosvenor, Wood River High School.

Support and help were enlisted from the Blaine County, planning and zoning office, government agencies and private developers.

About 60 high school and junior high school students divided into special groups to work on the projects with adult supervisors.

Featured speakers and topics included Sampson; Clair Baldwin, U. S. Forest Service, "Elk herds in the Warm Springs Area," and Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, "Current Legislation on Returnable Containers."

Exhibits included an enlarged map of proposed highway alignment, a working scale model of a sewage treatment plant, and a recycling demonstration by Coors Distributing Co.

Set ahead

TWIN FALLS — Daylight saving time begins Sunday in the Mountain Standard time zone. Clocks can be moved ahead one hour when residents of the zone retire Saturday night.

Purists, however, can sit up until 2:30 a.m. Sunday, to wait for the official change time.

The switch to daylight saving time means more evening daylight hours during summer months.

Swim pool group named at Shoshone

SHOSHONE — Swimming pool committee members from the Rotary Club were named Thursday by Myron D. Johnson, coordinator.

Members of the correlation committee are Gilbert Pierson, Roy Hubert, Kenneth Crothers, Don Runberg, Harrell Thorne, Howard Adkins and Ray Walker.

The questionnaire committee includes Crothers, Wayne Perron and Neil Andreason.

Those on the fund-raising committee are Donald Runberg, Robert Ford and Myrtle Hutchison.

Others are Thorne, Bill Thomason and Larry Bardsley, site location; Howard Adkins, Jay Ward and Roger Stoddard, recreation district, and Walker, Robert Miller and Louise Braun, publicity.

The Rotary Club and other interested persons in the community are making a study to determine feasibility of construction of a municipal swimming pool in Shoshone.

State official to speak

GLENN FERRY — J.D. Williams, assistant attorney general of the state of Idaho, will be the guest speaker at the Monday chamber of commerce meeting.

The meeting will be at noon at the Hansen's Cafe.

Negotiations lag for TF teachers

A temporary deadlock was reported broken Wednesday, resulting in the agreement to meet again on Tuesday.

Twin Falls Supt. George Staudacher would not comment on the negotiations Thursday.

But the spokesman for the three-man teacher negotiating team, Reid Pfefferle, said "We're encouraged... we're still meeting."

Pfefferle said Thursday night that the general tone of the meetings was "meaningful."

"We've had dialogue. We feel we're really coming to grips with the issues," he said.

Pfefferle also refused to discuss the details of negotiations.

"We had agreed that any press release be made jointly by the school and teacher negotiating teams," he said.

He said the slow pace of bargaining developed because "the association wants to establish the best procedural agreement we can iron out."

He said the negotiation process was delayed somewhat because the TFEA was recognized as the teacher representative only late in 1971.

Preliminary negotiations began in January, he said, and have continued to the present.

"There is no stalling going on right now,"

Pfefferle said.

Under new state law that became effective last summer, teachers can select a negotiating agent to represent them in dealings with the school districts.

The TFEA, considered more moderate than the AFT — and representing far more teachers — was recognized by the Twin Falls school trustees, as the negotiating agent for the teachers.

Since then, no progress has been reported in the bargaining.

To date, neither side has issued a public statement about the subjects being negotiated.

In other Magic Valley districts, notably the Cassia School District, teachers have pressed negotiations to a deadlock.

There the schools refused to negotiate curriculum and text book selection, arguing that these areas had been the traditional prerogative of the districts.

The Cassia deadlock had led angry teachers to agree to "stack" their contracts.

Under this procedure, the signed teacher contracts are given to the teacher representatives to be returned to the district or withheld in order to spur negotiations.

Grapes next agricultural industry in Magic Valley?

By MIKE ROBERTSON

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Will wine grape growing be the next giant agricultural industry in the Magic Valley?

According to Dr. Robert R. Ferguson, head of the chemical engineering department at the University of Idaho, there are several areas in Idaho with a considerable number of acres that could grow grapes for wine.

Speaking at the Institute of Food Technology meeting here Wednesday he said, however, that the Magic Valley area could be a questionable or borderline area in suitability.

Dr. Ferguson said in order to determine the feasibility of growing wine grapes in Idaho, University of Idaho Plant Science researchers are going to plant experimental plots in the Hagerman Valley within the next few weeks.

In the future, plots may be planted in the Twin Falls area, depending on funding and manpower available to the university for research.

From test plots in various sections of the Magic Valley,

Dr. Ferguson said the major areas for wine grape growing could be delineated. He said in the studies three things would have to be clearly established before the area could be said feasible for growing wine grapes.

He said first the economics of growing wine grapes must be as good or better than other crops such as potatoes, sugar beets or other crops raised in the Magic Valley.

Second juicing the grapes or shipping the grapes to a processor must be considered.

Dr. Ferguson said perhaps the most important factor in the study would be the growing or climatic conditions of the area.

The frequency of real cold weather late in the growing season would be a problem. He said cold weather could kill or damage the vines. He said a frost could also wipe out the entire production.

He said grapes could easily mature in this area if there was no frost until around Oct. 18.

Dr. Ferguson said the sugar and acid content is important in the grape. The longer the grape matures, the higher the sugar content. The acid cannot be controlled.

Dr. Ferguson said "we have not been encouraging" those who might go into the industry until tests have been established by the university.

Someday, Idaho may have acres and acres of grapes for wine being grown in different parts of the state," Dr. Ferguson said.

He said it generally takes three initial growing years, five years to get into full production and several years for wine aging to start realizing economic gain in the industry.

Dr. Ferguson also discussed other aspects of the industry saying a grower could expect a crop failure every seven years. He said if a vineyard yields four tons of grapes per acre the life of the vineyard would be 100 years.

The plant life drops to 25 years if the vineyard yields five tons per acre and on down.

He said the profit per acre is very favorable to other crops on rotation.

7 vie for posts on Cassia board

BURLEY — The May 15 Cassia School District trustee election will see a field of seven candidates seeking the five seats up for election.

Three incumbent trustees, including board chairman W.B. Whiteley, Oakley, T.W. Matthews and Charles Ward, filed nominating petitions before the deadline at 5 p.m. Thursday.

Matthews will be opposed in zone 4 by Daniel L. Crane, while Ward will face Brent Peterson in zone 5.

There will be no contest in the other three zones. Whiteley, in zone 1, Dr. A. Paul, in zone 2, and Alvin M. (Pat) Kelly, in zone 3 are running without opposition in their respective zones.

Incumbent trustees Norval Wildman and Albert Klink have decided not to seek re-election. Both cited the press of business as their reasons.

The election on May 15 in the Cassia County School District will also seek voters' approval of a subdividing proposal and a three-mill plant facilities levy.

The subdividing proposal, presented to the school board by Burley area patrons, advocates creation of a small subdistrict within the county-wide school district. Though remaining under the overall control of the countywide district, the new subdistrict would be able to pass bond issues and construct and maintain its own school facilities, as provided by state law.

District PTA meet slated for Burley

BURLEY — Fourth district PTA annual spring conference will be held Saturday in Dworshak school in Burley.

The one-day event is being hosted by the Cassia County PTA Council. Theme of the conference will be "Career Development." Dr. LaVerd John, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, will be the featured speaker.

Mrs. Floyd O. Kisting, Dietrich, state president, said registration is scheduled from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. H. Lee Childs, executive director of the Idaho Youth Ranch, Rupert, district president, will conduct the session.

State and district officers will conduct job seminars for officers of local PTA units. There also will be workshops on programming, membership, publicity.

A district nominating committee will be elected and delegates will vote on district bylaw amendments.

Idaho physicians meeting at Burley

BURLEY — The Idaho chapter of the American Academy of Family Physicians is holding a two-day annual conference at the Ponderosa Inn.

The two-day event, which opened today, will feature speakers from the University of Utah, University of Alabama, panel discussions and the annual banquet.

Special separate sessions are planned for wives of the physicians.

Dr. Con Annett, Burley, state chapter president, and Dr. Walter Peterson, Burley, program director, are in charge of the meeting.

Wendell Hospital board studies to buy new patient care rule packer

By MARY GOE
Times-News writer

WENDELL — Wendell City councilmen voted to buy a complete garbage packer unit during their meeting Thursday night at the Wendell City hall.

The unit will be purchased from Tesco Truck and Equipment Sales, Blackfoot, at a price of $12,711 including delivery. If a member of the City Council or the mayor wishes to pick the truck up in Milwaukee, Wis., the cost would be $450 less.

Councilman Vernon Mason reported land leveling is underway on 7 1/2 acres of land east of Wendell, the site of McGinnis City Park.

The council approved rental of 28 acres of unused city property to Dale Bunn for pastureland. Fire Chief George Wahler was authorized to purchase a section fan estimated that this regulation could cost the hospital upwards of $168,000 per year, budgeted in advance, in addition to the $100,000 presently written off annually as bad debts.

Reimbursement for Medicare and Medicaid patients and losses from bad debts could not be included as a portion of the $168,000, according to the proposal as now written, Rosenbaum said.

The hospital's policy has always been to treat any person who needed care regardless of ability to pay, Mrs. Oliver said.

As required by law prior to the enactment of new regulations, the HEW proposal was published in the April 18 issue of the "Federal Register."

Without public pressure causes withdrawal of the proposal, Rosenbaum said, the regulation becomes effective and im-forceable 30 days following publication, in this instance, May 18. No congressional action is required.

Concurring that implementation of this regulation would be tantamount to putting the hospital out of business, the board authorized the staff to prepare letters to appropriate Congressmen and U. S. Senators presenting the board's position in opposition to the HEW proposal.

William Chancey, chairman of Twin Falls County commissioners, was asked by the board for the support of the commissioners in trying to defeat this proposal. Chancey assured the board of the commissioners' cooperation.

Board members further volunteered to write individually opposing the measure and to enlist other interested citizens to do likewise.

Riva Ridge hikes chances in derby

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Riva Ridge's easy victory in the Blue Grass Stakes Thursday warned other Kentucky Derby hopefuls that his championship juvenile campaign was no fluke.

The four length victory in the $49,700 race at Keeneland re-established the Meadow Stable colt, an offspring of First Landing, as the favorite in the May 6 Derby.

The triumph in the Blue Grass, a major Derby prep, may frighten out a couple of marginal Derby entrants, whose owners were not convinced by Riva Ridge's $500,000 winnings last year as a two-year-old.

Jockey Ron Turcotte let Riva Ridge bide his time as long shots Sir Woodley and Mr. Charge battled for the lead in the backstretch. The winner grabbed the lead going into the final turn and held off a stretch challenge by Sensitive Music.

Sensitive Music finished second, three lengths in front of Thurlow Square, while Introductory was fourth. Riva Ridge covered the 1 1/8 mile distance, just one furlong short of the Derby distance, in a rather slow 1:49.3, well off the track record.

"It was a very easy race on the horse," said Turcotte. "There were no problems."

"When that other horse (Riva Ridge) went by me, there was nothing I could do about it," said jockey Carlos Marquez, who rode Sensitive Music.

Riva Ridge, despite a fourth place finish in his last outing in the Everglades at Hialeah, was the overwhelming betting favorite of the crowd and returned $2.60, $2.60 and $2.20.

Sensitive Music paid $13.40 and $8.20, while Thurlow Square was $5.40 to show.

Jockey Dave Whitened on Our Trade Winds, an also ran, was thrown in the first turn and was taken to a Lexington hospital with a concussion.

Vandals sign 3 griders

MOSCOW — Coach Don Robbins announced today that the Idaho Vandals, Big Sky champions in 1971, have signed three more outstanding Idaho high school athletes for grants-in-aid to attend the University of Idaho this fall.

Robbins said that the three athletes are "blue-chippers" and that he felt each of them had a fine chance to become outstanding athletes while furthering their education at Idaho. The athletes are James Chadband, Thomas Shew and Steven Parr.

Chadband is a 6' 185-pound running back who played his high school football for Jim Carberry at Pocatello high school. Chadband, who also is an outstanding wrestler, will enroll in the college of business and economics at Idaho. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Chadband, Pocatello.

Shew is a 6'2" 218-pound offensive tackle who played for coach Norm Thomas at Twin Falls High School. Shew, who is the senior class president at Twin Falls, will enroll in the college of forestry, wildlife and range sciences. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ken Shew.

Parr is a 6' 205-pound offensive guard who also played at Twin Falls. Parr, also a highly talented wrestler, will enroll in the department of art and architecture at Idaho. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Parr.

ISU happy with 11 frosh, 8 JC grid transfers

POCATELLO — "Qualitywise, this is the best group we have ever recruited at Idaho State," says head football coach Ed Cavanaugh.

ISU has signed 11 incoming freshmen and eight junior college transfers to national letters of intent, and as Cavanaugh says, "The Big Sky Conference has cut the number of football scholarships so we have to be sure of a prospect before we can sign him. We can no longer take a chance that a kid might develop. We are sure that these 19 are top-caliber prospects."

The 19 are from all over the country. Three are from Idaho. Russell Sloan is from Pocatello, H. S. where he was a 225-pound offensive lineman. Cavanaugh feels he can play quite a bit for ISU by midseason next year. John Flynn is a 6-2, 185-pound running back from Murtaugh who is a great prospect. And John Love is a 6-3, 215-pound tight end-defensive end from Caldwell. "Some college scouts think he is the finest high school football player in the state," comments Cavanaugh.

The Bengals picked up some super preps from the East. Charlie Walsh is a 220-pound offensive lineman from St. Francis Prep in New York, a school with a tradition of turning out college All-Americans. "Charlie is a great football player," says Cavanaugh. "Some people in New York think he's better than Larry DiNardo, the Notre Dame All-American guard who also went to St. Francis."

Another great New Englander is running back Kevin Crocker, who sat out last year after starring at Lowell, Mass. in 1970. "He ran for 165 yards and two TD's in the Massachusetts state all-star game," says Cavanaugh. "He was the best prospect in the state." Incidentally, Kevin is one of 18 children.

ISU coaches checked films of Altus, Okla., looking at an all-state player, but came away convinced that 5-11, 185-pound Joe Smith was a better player. Joe will attend ISU next year. The next in a long line of great ISU quarterbacks could be Billy Williams, a 6-0, 175-pounder from Sacramento, Calif. area. He's an outstanding football player.

"I have to get one football player a year from Waterbury, Conn.," comments Cavanaugh, "and this year's newcomer is Mike Lagauskas, a 6-2 1/2, 211-pounder."

Outstanding Massachusetts tackle Pete Henderson, from Holliston, Mass. will attend ISU.

Squires failed on game plan

HAMPTON, Va. (UPI)—The Virginia Squires are blaming a short circuit in their communications system for their sudden tie with the New York Nets in their ABA Eastern Division semi-final playoff series.

"We had a breakdown in our communications in our game plan," said sensational Virginia rookie Julius Erving after the Nets' 118-107 win Wednesday night. The win, New York's second straight, pulled the Nets into a 2-2 tie in the best-of-seven series.

"When we got to a point where we realized that time was against us, we didn't follow the game plan," continued Erving, who was well off his game even though he led the Squires with 27 points.

The game plan, according to Erving, is to go to Erving. And his teammates didn't do that often or well enough.

Erving gave credit to the Nets' Tom Washington for that, saying Washington was concentrating on defense "everywhere he went." Washington's sticky defense held Erving to only 10 points in the first half.

"Their defense forced the action around the other way and I wasn't going to go chasing the ball," Erving said. "About the only time I got the ball inside was when I got a rebound."

Buhl grabs intercity lead

BUHL — Homestanding Buhl took the lead in the opening round of the Magic Valley women's inter-city golf series.

Playing on the Clear Lakes course, the Buhl women piled up 11 points, followed by Twin Falls Municipal at 8 1/2, Jerome 6 1/2, Rupert 5 1/2, Burley 3 1/2 and Blue Lakes 1.

Second in the round robin series will be held the last week in May at Burley.

ABC holds 'wildcard' openings

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Tennessee-Georgia Tech game at Georgia Tech Sept. 9 will be the first televised game of the 1972 football season, the National Collegiate Athletic Association said Thursday.

The first six dates of the television schedule were announced. Under a new contract with the American Broadcasting Company, ABC will select the remaining games possibly as late as the Monday immediately preceding the Saturday game.

Other games designated for television coverage:

Sept. 16—Arizona State at Houston.

Sept. 23—(Regional) Nebraska at Army, Georgia at Tulane, Stanford at Duke, Bowling Green at Miami of Ohio.

Sept. 30—Illinois at University of Washington.

Oct. 7—Notre Dame at Michigan State.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Greg Luzinski's 9th-inning lead-off homer, Philadelphia's fourth round-tripper of the game, snapped a 6-6 tie Thursday and gave the Phillies a 7-6 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Six of Philadelphia's seven runs came on homers. Deron Johnson drove in three runs with his second of the year and Don Money hit a pair of bases-empty blasts, his second and third.

A single by Luzinski, an infield out and another single by Mike Anderson produced the Phillies' other tally.

Zimmer replaces Gomez as manager of San Diego Padres

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The San Diego Padres Thursday fired Preston Gomez as manager and named third base coach Don Zimmer to head the National League club.

Gomez, 49, San Diego's only manager since entry in the NL in 1968, had a 180-316 mark. The club lost five of its last six games for a 4-7 record this season.

The change was made after a meeting between Gomez and Padre President E.J. (Buzz) Bavasi early Thursday.

"The meeting was very amicable," Bavasi said.

explained to Preston why I felt the change in managers was necessary at this time.

"After 12 years association, with Preston I consider him an exceptionally qualified baseball man, and I told him that he would have a job in my organization any time that he desired."

Zimmer, 41, is in his 23rd season of professional baseball. In 1969 he managed the San Diego farm team at Key West, and in 1970 he handled the club's Salt Lake City team in the Pacific Coast League. Last year he worked as third base coach at Montreal.

WBA snubs Marciano's protest

HONOLULU (UPI)—Robert M. Lee, executive secretary of the Hawaii State Boxing Commission and a vice president of the World Boxing Association, said Thursday "I wouldn't want to dignify" the request made by the Federal District Commission in Caracas that the WBA review the 15-round title fight in which Alfredo Marciano lost his crown to Ben Villafior.

"I wouldn't want to dignify it by making a statement," said Lee. Lee also is vice-chairman of the WBA's Championship Committee.

Lee said that as far as he knew, none of the news services covering the fight, including some of the Venezuelan delegation, differed from the unanimous decision by the three officials who gave Villafior the title in the fight Tuesday night.

Retiring trapper sees predators getting edge

By RUTH MILLER
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — The stockman versus the predator. Which has the toothhold?

The balance, according to a Twin Falls man who's been a government trapper for 30 years and a private trapper since childhood, has been finely scaled for many years.

But, since Feb. 8, when a federal ruling outlawed use of poisons on coyotes, the balance got tipped in favor of the predator.

Frank Ivie, who has retired after half a lifetime with the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, believes the new ruling is bad for both stockmen and wildlife.

"We were beginning to make headway in the last few years," Ivie said.

But, complaints about livestock depredation in the two months since the law went into effect are up over the same period a year ago, according to Owen Ellis, who was Ivie's superior with the bureau.

In one recent week alone, Ellis received eight calls regarding sheep killing by coyotes.

Present rulings allow government trappers to dispose of coyotes only with traps or in rare cases by hunting from airplanes.

And, trappers are supposed, in effect, to try and convict a coyote before disposing of them. Where damage is reported, Ivie said, "We are supposed to catch only the ones doing the damage."

Ivie was born and raised on a homestead near Duschene, Utah, when the "Indians were still pretty hostile."

He was born in 30 degree below zero weather in a "walled up tent."

Ivie was born into a trapping family. His father used to trap wolves for which the government paid $60 and the stockmen $40 in bounties. "I remember once he brought home two old wolves and a den of 10 young ones. That was good money in those days," Ivie said.

His father also mined and ranches in Utah and he learned to love the out-of-doors at an early age — a love that has stayed with him for his 63 years.

He and an older sister, Mrs. Beattie Graham of Heber City, Utah, used to trap as children. His sister, he remembers, was a pretty good trapper for a girl and it was not unusual for her to come riding in with six or seven coyote hides tied across her saddle.

The children got $15 to $20 for a good coyote hide and $5 to $6 for a good bobcat hide. "It gave us spending money," Ivie recalls.

Coyotes are probably the number one predator problem in Idaho, but Ivie also has worked on ridding areas of rodents and has trapped black bears, which Ivie said are a particular nuisance in the higher regions of Idaho, and bobcats.

Through the years Ivie has watched the slow relocation of Idaho's coyote population from desert areas more toward farm ground.

Coyotes, Ivie said, are curious creatures and in the past several years have been found more often around inhabited areas. The desert, he said, gets hot and dry and coyotes often find better hunting around ranches and farms.

While sheep are perhaps the favorite target of the coyote, they also kill calves and rabbits, pheasant and other wildlife.

They are an intelligent breed, Ivie said, and usually hunt in pairs. Deer, elk and antelope are easy prey for the coyote team which often kills an animal and leaves it untouched. Other carcasses are found nearly consumed by the coyote. "I've seen them kill 25 to 30 lambs and never take a bite," Ivie said.

Like all long-time hunters, Ivie has lots of favorite stories to tell.

One is about one of the most intelligent coyotes he was ever called on to destroy.

The coyote was operating in the Little Wood River area around flocks of sheep pastured near rocks and timber. It was a big coyote, Ivie said, and he set many traps for the animal, but it always managed to elude the trapper and continue its killing.

After the coyote had killed 40 or 50 head of sheep, Ivie finally trapped it. He found it had three stub feet from three other encounters with traps. His trap had snagged the only good foot on the animal.

During his career as a government trapper Ivie has worked in much of the Gem State. His hunting has taken him through most of Blaine, Custer, Lincoln, Twin Falls, Cassia and Gooding counties and much of the Salmon River country.

To those who would ban coyote trapping because of a danger to the species, Ivie says there's "no chance." The government hunter works only to reduce the predator problem and only in areas where livestock depredation has occurred.

Although retired from his government job, Ivie will continue working and will spend the summer near Muldoon working for the Flat Top Sheep Co. ranch.

If Ivie has any regrets about his 30 years as a hunter, it's only that he didn't start in the work sooner in his life.

Study gives clues to bobcat habits

MOSCOW — A study into the secretive life of the bobcat has just been completed by the University of Idaho Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit.

The study has unraveled some of the mystery surrounding bobcat populations while adding to a growing understanding of predator-prey relationships.

Theodore N. Bailey, wildlife doctoral student who conducted the bobcat study on the desert surrounding the National Research Testing Station near Arco, pointed out that felids (the cat family), along with timber wolves and coyotes, have long shared the brunt of man's lack of understanding.

Many hours of observation and data collected on the bobcats' distribution, reproduction and prey preferences have resulted in a more accurate appraisal of bobcat numbers and food habits.

In addition, Bailey found an important correlation between bobcat kitten mortality and a fluctuating rabbit population within the study area.

"In order to have a predator population anywhere," said Bailey, "there first has to be a readily available source of food."

Bobcats have been condemned for preying on large animals, such as deer and domestic sheep, and they have also been commended for controlling populations of small rodents.

Bailey's findings, however, support neither of these popularly accepted beliefs. "Rabbits composed 92 per cent of the bobcat's diet in the study area," he pointed out.

Of interest to woolgrowers, Bailey found sheep remains in only one of 300 bobcat stomachs and feces examined. He also followed several bobcats near flocks of sheep but the bobcats made no effort to attack them.

Bailey speculated that before his work began, the rabbit population in the study area had been increasing for a number of years. Bobcats, profiting from this readily available source of food, also increased in number.

But while the rabbits continued to multiply, the growth of the bobcat population came to a sudden halt.

"The bobcats reached a point where they started to defend areas against others of their kind," said Bailey. Like domestic cats that roam city streets challenging alien cats to the right of a city block, bobcats set up territories in the wild.

However, instead of fighting over these areas, bobcats avoid confrontations by marking their territories with feces, scent and urine.

Territorialism was most pronounced in female bobcats who forced even their own kittens to leave their territories when mature.

"Territorial behavior establishes an upper limit on the number of bobcats residing in an area and averts the drastic consequences of overcrowding," Bailey said.

"After bobcats reach their population limit in an area, only an environmental catastrophe could cause a significant change in their numbers," he added, "and this would invariably be a downward fluctuation."

Such a catastrophe occurred during the study when the rabbit population, subject to a ten year up and down cycle, took a sharp dive. Jackrabbits became scarce and territorialism was replaced by lack of food as the factor limiting bobcat numbers.

Census data showed that rabbits increased during the first year of the study, reaching a peak the second year, and then declined nearly 90 per cent the third year.

During each of the first two years of the study 15 and 17 bobcat kittens were captured in the study area.

Wildlife viewpoint

By STU MURRELL,
Idaho Fish & Game Dept.
Bob Bell, regional fishery biologist, Idaho Fish and Game Dept., and Paul Fritz, National Park Service, met recently to discuss the forthcoming study of the Thousand Springs area.

The National Park Service will begin the study July 1. They flew the entire area from Devil's Corral Creek downstream to Malad River Gorge, to observe the development which has taken place along this portion of the Snake River.

Of the original 18 named large springs, and seven unnamed large springs lying on the north side of the Snake River, only four are left that have not been developed in some manner and two of the four remaining are presently scheduled for private fish hatcheries.

The key areas left are Devil's Corral Creek, Vinyard Lake, Box Canyon and Blue Springs (Big Springs).

Box Canyon and Devil's Corral Creek are the ones presently scheduled for hatchery development.

Paul Fritz has indicated the National Park Service would request the Idaho Fish and Game Dept. to furnish a representative for the federal study team.

It is hoped a point plan can be worked out for state-federal ownership of some of the key areas which might be of national significance for preservation and important hunting and fishing areas available for public access.

Fritz indicated there are a number of designations other than national monument status for areas managed by the Park Service that might apply to those which could be acquired along the Snake River.

For example, if the area supplied important waterfowl hunting then it might be designated a national recreation area which provides for such activities.

National monument designation usually provides for fishing but not hunting.

Fish and game personnel have recommended the Hagerman Wildlife Management Area and Billingsley Creek property, which is owned by the Idaho Fish and Game Dept., be excluded from the study area.

Aide denies top pressure

By JOHN HALL —
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acting Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst steadfastly denied Thursday that the White House brought pressure to bear on a huge antitrust settlement last year involving the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

He told the Senate Judiciary Committee he still could not remember meeting with anyone at the White House about the matter, but it was now "extremely probable" that he did.

Kleindienst returned to testify for a fifth and final day as the committee prepared to vote at 5 p.m. on his nomination to succeed John N. Mitchell as attorney general.

He was commanded to appear again after Presidential aide Peter Flanigan told the committee he passed on a complaint from ITT to Kleindienst last June about the harshness of the Justice Department's trust-busting campaign against the multi-billion dollar conglomerate.

Kleindienst said he still did not remember that meeting on June 29, but "if he said that, it was true."

In any event, he testified, neither Flanigan nor anyone else in the White House ever tried to "pressure or importune" him into a settlement of the case on favorable terms to ITT. If they had, he said, "I think I would have told them to mind their own business."

Kleindienst last July 31 — 10 days after ITT's Sheraton Hotels division pledged $200,000 to underwrite San Diego's costs of hosting the Republican National Convention — approved an out-of-court settlement. It sanctioned ITT's merger with the Hartford Fire Insurance Co. but forced ITT to divest six smaller firms, including Avis Rent-a-Car.

He stuck by his story that the convention pledge and the settlement were unrelated, that the consent decree was a better deal for the government than it could have gotten in court and that Richard S. McLaren, then head of the antitrust division, negotiated the settlement free of political pressure.

But Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and John V. Tunney, D-Calif., promised a full floor fight to block the nomination on grounds that the record of the six-week hearings was replete with inconsistencies and direct contradictions.

Justice agency to intervene

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department sought Thursday to intervene in a court-ordered school desegregation plan in Oklahoma City, the fifth busing case it has protested since President Nixon called for a moratorium on all new busing orders March 17.

Acting Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst announced that a motion was filed in the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver seeking permission for the department to file a friend of the court brief in the Oklahoma case which is under appeal by the Oklahoma City Board of Education.

The brief suggested the case be remanded to the district court to determine whether schools with virtually all black enrollments were the result of officially imposed segregation or stemmed from changing residential patterns.

As an alternative, the government suggested it would be appropriate for the appeals court to defer a decision until the Supreme Court acts on the pending Denver school desegregation case.

Earlier, the Justice Department sought to intervene in school desegregation cases involving busing in Detroit, Richmond, Nashville and Dallas.

The Justice Department said there were eleven black schools in Oklahoma City during the 1954-55 school year at the time of the Supreme Court's original Brown decision against segregated schools. It said today there are 20 schools with virtually all black enrollments.

Brandt beats back opposition

BONN (UPI) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt Thursday beat off an opposition attempt to throw him and his Socialist-dominated government out of office by two votes. His victory cleared the way for ratification next week of his controversial nonaggression treaties with Russia and Poland.

Brandt told Parliament that approval of the pacts with Moscow and Warsaw would be followed by relaxation of East German Communist restrictions on travel across the demarcation line dividing Germany since 1945.

The East Germans have promised to ease curbs on traffic, which would permit East German citizens to cross through the Berlin wall for the first time since it was erected in 1961, if the treaties are signed.

The opposition challenge to Brandt was made in the unusual form of a "constructive vote of no confidence" filed by Christian Democrat leader Rainer Barzel.

Barzel needed 249 of the 496 votes in the Bundestag, the lower house of Parliament. But the motion was rejected when it won the support of only 247 deputies.

Mountain vale target for last Apollo trip

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The last men to walk the moon in the $25.5 billion Apollo program will make a pre-Christmas trip to a mysterious mountain valley near the Sea of Serenity.

Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E.

Evans and Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt will ride Apollo 17 to the Taurus Mountains on the final U.S. moon expedition in the foreseeable future. Schmitt will be the first scientist to fly on Apollo.

The sixth U.S. manned moonlanding mission is scheduled for launch Dec. 6 at 9:38 p.m. EST from Cape Kennedy.

Cernan, Evans and Schmitt will be gone 12 days, including three days by Cernan and Schmitt on the surface.

Photographs and orbital observations indicate the valley, between the Taurus Mountains and the crater Littrow, is covered with dark material geologists believe may be volcanic ash remnants from the moon's wilder, ancient days.

The 7,000-foot mountains are light-colored material which could represent rock formed earlier in the moon's history than the 4.15 billion-year-old sample returned from the Apennine Mountains on Apollo 15.

Apollo 15 command ship pilot Al Worden radioed Earth that the valley was dotted by cones which could be the remnants of ancient volcanoes.

Cernan and Schmitt will use the third electric moon car to deploy the fifth nuclear-powered science station.

Evans will orbit with a third Apollo orbital science package to analyze the lunar surface on a grand scale. New experiments will include devices for detecting subsurface water and the density and variety of the lunar atmosphere.

Ocean trip spans week for Casper

ABOARD USS TICONDEROGA (UPI) — It took the Apollo 16 command ship Casper only 11 days to travel to the moon and back, but it will take it nearly eight to get from the mid-Pacific to San Diego.

The spacecraft was hoisted aboard this aircraft carrier and put into the hangar deck, where its precious cargo of rocks and film will be taken out for a rapid flight back to the United States.

Casper itself will move more slowly, arriving with the Ticonderoga in San Diego May 5.

Mission hints new era dawns

The basic knowledge that's locked in those secrets is pushing back the last frontier, the frontier of the unknown. And, by golly, that's essential to the survival of humanity on this planet."

At the Manned Spacecraft Center, Dr. Isador Adler said data from his lunar orbital x-ray sensor agreed with speculation of geologists that Young and Duke may have collected an unexpected booty on their three-day exploration of the moon's highlands. He said they may have found long-sought pieces of the primitive lunar crust, a discovery which might force a revision of lunar history.

"This thing may represent a veritable treasure chest of information, and it may also turn out to be a Pandora's box. The ball game was started all over again," Adler said.

To medical specialists, one of the important preliminary results of the mission was the apparent good health of the three spacemen. The Apollo 15 crew encountered heart abnormalities, during flight last summer and they were slow to adapt to the rigors of gravity on Earth.

But the Apollo 16 crew displayed none of these problems Thursday.

"They look great, they walk great and they talk great," Dr. Charles Berry, the Space Agency medical director, said in Houston.

The crewmen got a good night's sleep after eating flat mignon, souffled spinach and stuffed potato for dinner.

point in five months with 10 killed and 78 wounded. The Saigon command said 1,149 government troops were slain last week for the highest weekly toll of the war.

The American death toll dropped slightly from the 12 men killed two weeks ago but the number of wounded was up from 63 in the previous weekly casualty count.

U.S. deaths this week brought to 34 the number of American soldiers killed since the North Vietnamese launched their offensive three weeks ago. Another eight GIs were reported missing in action.

Official war communiques showed that at least 34 Americans have been killed since the offensive began March 30. Another 122 have been wounded and 46 are missing, spokesmen reported.

Wives admit Apollo 16 flight brings tension

NASSAU BAY, Tex. (UPI) — Young Charlie Duke was perched on a bicycle in his garage, watching a television set with a group of newsmen and photographers.

"Look, there's splashdown," said the 7-year-old son of Apollo 16 astronaut Charles M. Duke Jr. He immediately ran out into the backyard and climbed up on a swing set.

"That's the way he reacts under tension," said a smiling Dotty Duke, the boy's mother. "He just goes berserk."

Inside the Duke home a couple of dozen adults were cheering and applauding and breaking out the champagne, and Mrs. Duke didn't mind admitting she had been under a little tension herself.

"It seemed like every night there was something to worry about," the petite, blonde Georgia girl said after the astronauts were safely aboard the USS Ticonderoga Thursday.

Elizabeth Mattingly, the pregnant wife of command ship pilot Thomas K. "Ken" Mattingly, confessed she was a little nervous during Apollo 16 recovery operation.

Mrs. Mattingly, a former schoolteacher who is expecting her first child in early May, said she was concerned while the astronauts were still inside the capsule bobbing in the choppy Pacific.

"Today was more exciting than yesterday," she said. The day before, after her husband had crawled out of the spaceship to retrieve some film canisters, she said she had not worried because she had confidence in the mission planners.

Susy Feldman Young, 28, who married Apollo 16 commander John W. Young after he divorced his first wife, stayed in seclusion throughout the entire flight.

Young's two teen-age children — John 13, and Sandy, 14 — were with their mother in Jacksonville, Fla. John missed the splashdown because he had an industrial arts test in school at the time. Sandy skipped her afternoon classes to watch.

A welcome home celebration is planned for the astronauts when they arrive at Hillington Air Force Base from Honolulu Saturday night.

Split seam no bother

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Singer Tom Jones, whose tightfitting trousers have become a trademark, split a seam Thursday night.

Jones was 15 minutes into his opening night act at Caesar's Palace when it happened. A thread gave way and within minutes the inside seam on the left leg of his trousers had split six inches.

"Excuse me," said Jones coolly, "while I change my pants."

Would you believe it? For only a few dollars cash you may be eligible to purchase a brand new home with monthly payments possibly lower than the rent you are now paying. Think of the advantages. Real estate taxes and interest are deductible from your income tax. Over the years you will build an equity through your monthly payments plus an average appreciation in value of 5% per annum. Together, these can add up to hundreds or even thousands of dollars in a few years time! Also, think of the pleasure of owning your own home—to do with as you please. Don't wait. Call today to get all the particulars and arrange to see our model home.

Church against funding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said today he will refuse to vote for extra funding for the National Rail Passenger Corp. because of its continued refusal to serve south Idaho.

In remarks prepared for delivery during Senate debate on legislation to give Amtrak $270 million in federal funds for rail passenger service, Church said he felt Amtrak "has failed to carry out the duty with which it was charged by Congress."

He said Congress directed Amtrak to improve and expand rail passenger service between urban and other areas of the United States, but that instead the system has concentrated on the urban centers.

"Instead of improving service in my state of Idaho, Amtrak has effectively wiped out passenger service there," he said. "All railroad passenger service in southern Idaho was abandoned, and only a single stop in the northern part of my state was retained."

Trial set in Tacoma for mayor

BOISE (UPI) — U. S. District Judge Raymond McNichols has ordered that the bribery-conspiracy trial of Mayor Joseph Alloto of San Francisco and two former Washington state officials begin May 15 in Tacoma, Wash.

Tacoma is the home of codefendant John J. O'Connell, former attorney general. The other codefendant is George K. Faler, former assistant to O'Connell.

Toll-free access to job data

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. James McClure, R-Idaho, said Thursday Idahoans dialing 800-632-5916 will have toll-free access to federal job counselors providing a wide range of services.

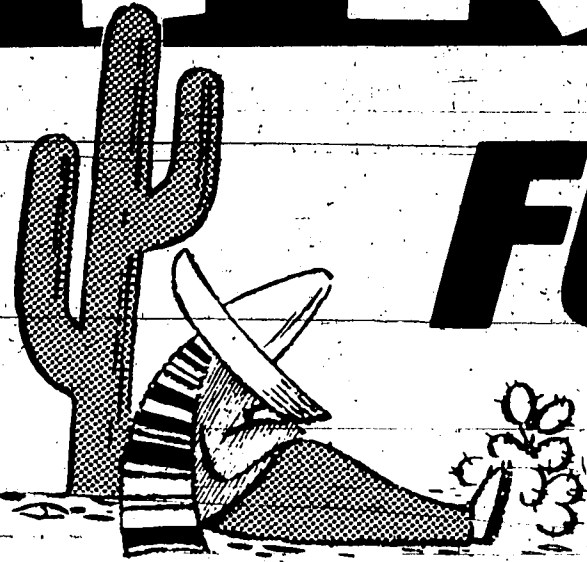

McClure said the new federal job information center offers immediate counseling on the employment opportunities outlook, job requirements and qualifications, hiring programs for special groups such as the handicapped and returning vietnam veterans, and special employment counseling and guidance.

Air West expands

SPOKANE (UPI) — Officials of Hughes Air-West have announced expansion of their service to and from here.

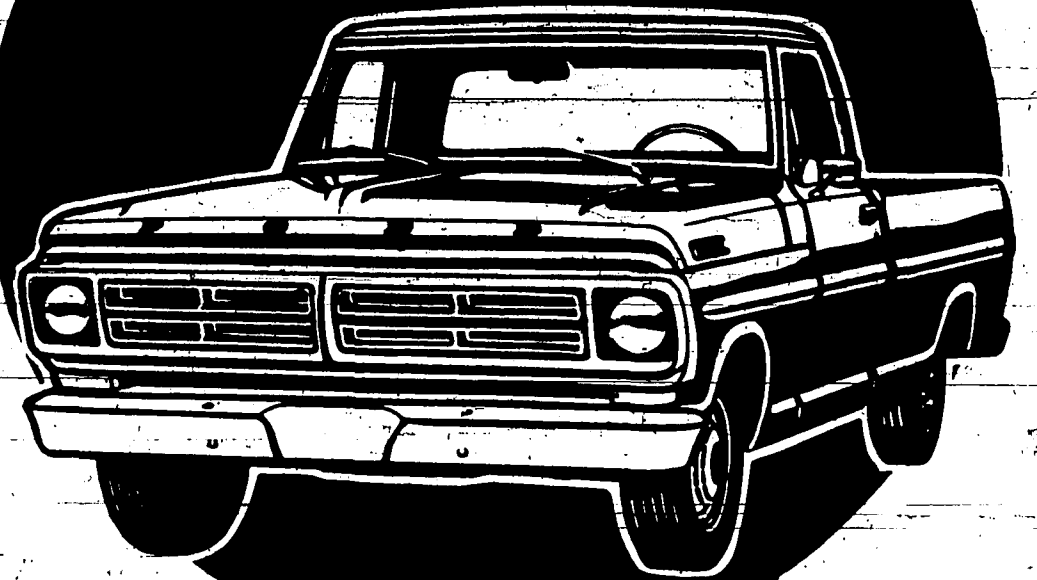

Officials said the expansion will begin April 30 and will include a fourth daily round trip jet flight to Seattle and its first round trip jet service to Kalispell and Great Falls, Mont.
