Motel complex planned in TF

TWIN FALLS — Construction of a $1.6 million, 100-unit Rodeway Inn in Twin Falls was announced Saturday.

The new facility will be located on U.S. Highway 93 at the north entrance of Twin Falls, just north of Bill Workman Ford, said Robert Spaulding, Pocatello, president of Idaho Corporation Inc. His firm has purchased 10 acres of land from John Breckenridge, president of L.L. Breckenridge Co., Twin Falls, for the new facility.

Spaulding said the first construction phase will include 100 rooms, convention center facilities, a heated swimming pool, sauna baths, formal dining room, coffee shops, a specially designed cocktail lounge.

A second phase of construction at a later date is planned with an additional 100 rooms to be added.

Construction is scheduled to begin this fall when crops have been harvested on the motel site. Spaulding said the first 100 units should be ready for occupancy by late spring of 1973.

L. James Koutnik, Western Realty Co., Twin Falls, acted as agent for the Idaho Corporation in arranging the selection and purchase of the site.

Koutnik said Spaulding and T.D. Jones, Malad, secretary-treasurer of the Idaho Corp., said the economic impact of the increased employment in Twin Falls will be significant and the new facility will make Twin Falls a major center for convention activities in south central Idaho.

Trees stay

TWIN FALLS — Giant poplar trees on the John Breckenridge farm which have long provided a shady and picturesque entrance to Twin Falls from the north are likely to remain.

Ten acres of the Breckenridge farm is being acquired as the site of a new Rodeway Inn on U.S. 93 at the north entrance of town. Breckenridge said he joins other residents in hoping the trees will not be destroyed. He said architect plans at this stage indicate the trees will remain.

U.S. B52 bombers strike North Viet

SAIGON (UPI) — Waves of U.S. B52 bombers struck North Vietnamese positions on three sides of the northernmost provincial capital of Quang Tri Sunday, but intense Communist shelling continued to rain down on the city.

North Vietnamese troops Saturday captured a district capital on the Central Coast, set up heavy artillery positions within easy firing range of refugee-swollen Hue and tightened their grip on the provincial capital of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon.

Military sources said Quang Tri City was still in government hands Sunday as the Communist offensive went into its second month. But Communist fire was so intense no allied helicopters were able to land at the city, 18 miles south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

Two U.S. helicopters were shot down Saturday, killing one American and wounding three others, the U.S. command said.

An estimated 75 American military and civilian advisers were reported still in their military compound at the city with another 20 advisers with government forces outside Quang Tri.

Supplies failed to reach Quang Tri and its South Vietnamese combat base just to the north for the fourth consecutive day Sunday. An ammunition convoy trying to drive from Camp Evans, 10 miles to the south, came under artillery fire and was turned back.

UPI correspondent Stewart Kellerman, reporting from the American military base at Phu Bai near Hue, said North Vietnamese forces had moved 130 mm guns into newly captured Bastogne base and were now in a position to shell Hue and Phu Bai.

South Vietnamese military spokesmen said 131 Communists were slain when northern-based government troops attacked infantry units two miles southwest of base camp Birmingham Friday night. The base is located five miles southwest of Hue and represents the new defense line after the loss of Bastogne and nearby fire base Checkmate, both about 35 miles south of Quang Tri.

To the south, American B52s also flew 10 missions in Kontum province in the Communist threatened Central Highlands and struck twice within four miles of An Loc, where government troops were reported trying to flee, some clinging to the skids of American helicopters evacuating wounded soldiers.

The huge eight engined bombers also struck 25 miles northwest of Saigon in an area of Communist troop activity in Binh Duong province. Military sources said it was the closest to Saigon the big bombers have hit since heavy fighting in 1969.

Rally in NY draws 3,000

By United Press International

About 300 antiwar demonstrators marched from the Lincoln Memorial to the Pentagon in Washington Saturday in one of a few scattered protest actions against bombing of North Vietnamese targets.

Campus guards evicted antiwar protesters from one Columbia University building Saturday afternoon. Two buildings were still held by protesters, but the rest of the university community largely ignored them.

University of Pennsylvania officials revealed that several files were stolen from offices in the administration building during a two-day sit-in by 200 antiwar protesters that ended Friday night. They said little other damage was done.

The Washington protesters were almost lost among tourists as they stepped off from the Lincoln Memorial for a march called by the National Peace Action Coalition. Only a few policemen were on hand.

The group marched 2 1-2 miles to the Pentagon without incident. A platform with loudspeakers was set up at the foot of the stairs leading to the Pentagon's main entrance, where a rally was held. Only a handful of Pentagon security guards were on duty.

Most Columbia students went about their weekend activities, taking no note of the buildings still held by antiwar demonstrators.

On Friday about 40 demonstrators moved out of physics laboratories after an all-night debate with faculty members and students opposed to the demonstrations.

A spokesman for Penn said most of the files stolen during the sit-in at Philadelphia contained information on the university's budget and staff salaries.

He said the University Court, composed of administrators, teachers and students, will meet within two weeks to hear cases of students identified as involved in the sit-in. Those convicted of violating the school's discipline code could be suspended for two years.

In Atlanta about 40 sign-carrying demonstrators gathered in front of the federal information center to protest the war.

Hawaii greets astronauts

HICKAM AFB, Hawaii (UPI) — Back from the mountains of the moon, the Apollo 16 astronauts got a cheering welcome from a crowd of 2,500 persons and a kiss from a lovely Hawaiian girl Saturday, and then headed home to the Houston Space Center by Air Force jet.

"The frontiers of the unknown are man's eternal frontiers," Astronaut John W. Young Jr., 41, told the crowd after he stepped out on a red carpet, to U.S. Soil for the first time since Apollo 16 left Cape Kennedy April 16.

Young, the Apollo 16 commander, and astronauts Charles M. Duke Jr., 36, an Air Force lieutenant colonel, and Thomas K. Mattingly II, 36, a Navy lieutenant commander, flew to this air base on the outskirts of Honolulu from the Carrier USS Ticonderoga.

The Ticonderoga plucked them from the Pacific Thursday after a perfect splashdown ended their 12-day lunar flight, the next to last Apollo journey to the moon and man's fifth lunar landing.

Each of the astronauts got a lei of red carnations and a kiss from a lovely "wahine" or Hawaiian girl—as they alighted from their Navy planes under bright blue skies and balmy 80-degree weather.

After greeting Adm. John S. McCain, Commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific, and Hawaii Gov. John Burns, they boarded an Air Force Starlifter for the flight to Houston where will arrive at about 11 p.m. EST.

"I can't tell you how glad I am to be back on United States soil," Young told the crowd in Hawaii.

"As a Navy captain, we view the USS Ticonderoga as American soil but there's something about the soil here, the beauty and the warmth that says it better than a Navy ship. And it doesn't have the pitch and roll."

He paid tribute to the "100,000 people" in the space agency and allied organizations responsible for the flight.

"What you saw was teamwork," he said. "That makes our country great."

Duke described the journey as "the most fantastic trip I'll ever have. But the important feeling I have is how glad I am to be an American and to represent this country in such an endeavor."

Mattingly drew laughter from the crowd at Hickam when he observed "how nice it is to see a mixed group for a change."

Protest in Boise goes well

BOISE (UPI) — About 400 war protesters, buffeted by cold spring winds, marched from a Boise park to the world headquarters building of Morrison-Knudsen Saturday.

Boise police said the march "ran smoothly" and no incidents or arrests were reported.

Morrison-Knudsen, which is an international construction company based here, is one of America's major builders of military installations in South Vietnam.

Groups participating in the march, including the Valley Peace Action Committee, the BSC student steering committee, the Covered Wagon, and Vietnam Veterans Against the War, held a news conference Friday at the BSC campus to announce plans for the march.

Even Twin Falls is getting into the act with a protest rally.

Girl killed in Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Gunfire in Belfast Sunday killed a 6-year-old girl and wounded her father, an army spokesman said. In East Belfast, troops fired rubber bullets to disperse hundreds of rock-throwing Protestant youths.

The spokesman said the youngster, not immediately identified, was walking with her parents along Heathfield Avenue in a protestant section, when four shots were fired from Ardilea Drive, a Roman Catholic area. The girl died instantly and her father was hit in the legs.

GOP governors briefed on Nixon's strategy

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (UPI) — The nation's Republican governors gathered Saturday for their annual spring conference and special secret briefing on President Nixon's re-election strategy.

As they arrived, one political strategist for the President told UPI that six governors were now considered the major stand-in or "surrogate" candidates for Nixon, who has said he would not actively campaign until sometime after he is renominated at the national convention next August.

The strategist, who cannot be identified, said the six chosen were Govs. William G. Milliken of Michigan, Linwood Holton of Virginia, Winfield Dunn of Tennessee, Thomas J. Meskill of Connecticut, Ronald Reagan of California and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

These governors were selected, he said, because — geographically as well as politically — they were thought to represent a good cross-section of the party and therefore could appeal to nearly every segment of the electorate.

Presidential campaign manager John N. Mitchell, GOP National Chairman Robert J. Dole and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew headed the line-up of officials coming from Washington to talk with the governors about Nixon's bid for a second term and their role in the upcoming battle.

TF plans march to protest war

TWIN FALLS — A protest march against the escalation of the Vietnam conflict is scheduled for downtown Twin Falls Friday at 3:30 p.m.

Mark Story, a College of Southern Idaho student, was issued a parade permit April 26 allowing the march.

According to Story, 100-150 marchers will take part in a demonstration against President Nixon's recent dispatching of naval vessels to North Vietnam waters.

Story said the march will start at the Twin Falls City Park, progress to the corner of Main and Shoshone, then turn west and go up to Fourth Street North. From there, the marchers will make the return trip to the park on Fourth Avenue North.

Story said the march is part of a nationwide action sponsored by the National Student Association. The association began protest action April 21 and has scheduled related activities until May 13.

"President Nixon's reasons for escalating the bombing of North Vietnam and the movement of naval vessels to North Vietnam do not justify the continuation of war," said Story.

Story said the march had originally been scheduled for April 28 but due to a lack of foresight, we had to reschedule it for May 5."

WORK ASSIGNMENT for these eager members of Girl Scout Troop 357, Burley, in the Saturday Johnny Horizon clean up campaign in Cassia and Twin Falls counties was litter along a county road south of Burley. The girls, led by Mrs. Stan Barth and Mrs. Gene Funk, not shown, had difficulty gathering the trash before high winds carried it away. (See story on page 17)

Revenue sharing may not help small states

TWIN FALLS — Revenue sharing may be of little benefit to smaller states, and could represent a net loss, Roy Haney, Idaho coordinator of federal programs, forecast Friday.

Haney addressed a noon luncheon meeting of the rocky mountain chapter, American Public Works Association at the Holiday Inn.

He said presently proposed revenue sharing legislation would provide about $5.3 billion more revenue per year to be allocated to the states.

However, in the case of small states such as those of the Rocky Mountain area, he said, states would stand to gain little and possibly in the long run lose through the reduction of other federal programs.

There are two types of revenue sharing, he said, including general and specific. The general plan would be for new money at the federal level to be shared with the local governments.

Specific revenue sharing would be the condensing into fewer divisions the categorical grants.

This type, Haney said, would mean very little new money for states such as Idaho where existing federal programs might be combined with the categorical grant system.

It could, in fact, Haney said, put the highway trust funds of Idaho in jeopardy.

Public works officials from Idaho, Montana and part of Wyoming attended the three-day meeting in Twin Falls with William W. Sacht, Boise, district engineer, Idaho Department of Highways, presiding.

A banquet Friday night was highlighted with the presentation of the American Public Works Association plaque to Helena, Mont., for outstanding cooperation in a winter research program. Walter Anderson, Helena City manager, accepted the award from Sacht on behalf of the community.

A cooperative program in snow and ice removal and control earned two awards for Montana, Anderson said. The state also received the top award for the nation in carrying out principals of the American Public Works Association.

Ray Rostron, Twin Falls Chamber of commerce manager, addressed the banquet meeting. His topic was "Free Enterprise."

John Rosholt, Twin Falls attorney, addressed the public works officials Saturday on land and water resources.

Speaking Friday was Robert Burd, Seattle, regional director, Environmental Protection Agency.

In closing sessions Saturday, delegates selected Bozeman, Mont., as the 1973 convention site and elected new officers.

Richard A. Nesbit, Helena, Mont., was named president, and Don Lloyd, Idaho Falls, was elected vice president. New board members are Marvin Tatspeich, Lewiston, and Gene Claussen, Billings, Mont. Members re-elected Richard T. Kanemasu as secretary.

REVENUE SHARING was discussed during a meeting of the Rocky Mountain chapter, American Public Works Association in Twin Falls Friday and Saturday. Roy Haney, coordinator of federal programs in Idaho, left, spoke Friday. With him are Robert Burd, Environmental Protective Association, Seattle, another speaker, center, and Richard Nisbet, Helena, Mont., new chapter president.

TF truck fired

TWIN FALLS — There is one less pickup truck in the city parks department today.

Crews burning weeds in a spring cleanup effort at Dierkes Lake Friday had a good fire going and when they went to move a 1964 pickup out of the path of the fire, the truck refused to start.

Howard Johnson, parks superintendent, said the truck was destroyed and he believes it will be covered by insurance.

Johnson said the incident was most regrettable and his department is already short on pickup trucks.

The fire did no other damage and was under control but the vehicle would not start as the fire burned to where it was parked.

TAXPAYERS OF IDAHO

The undersigned list of State Representatives feel strongly that HB789 passed the last day of the legislative session is unconstitutional. Article 3 Section 14 reads "Bills may originate in either house, but may be amended or rejected in the other, except that bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives." If any tax bill can be so greatly changed in the senate as to constitute a new bill of entirely different intent than the purpose of the constitution have been completely thwarted.

HB789 is the tax bill that requires double taxation — removes the so-called double deductibility, allowing deduction of federal income tax from state taxable income and substantially increases the top state tax rate.

It is our purpose, if we can raise funds for legal fees, to take it through the District and Supreme Courts for a decision. All taxpayers who would be willing to support such a court challenge send your checks dated approximately June 1, 1972, made out to "Committee to Challenge HB789" and addressed to the chairman listed below. (If we are unable to raise enough money to finance the court and attorney and incidental fees your checks will be destroyed.) Act now while you are still awdre of the cost of taxes, while you still have a chance of reversing such incentive destroying legislation.

New Rodeway Inn sets TF opening

The Rodeway Inn will employ about 50 persons in the initial stages and will expand as the second phase of construction is completed.

Koutnik said an economic survey which has been completed in the area indicates Twin Falls is the logical location for a major convention center such as is planned by the Idaho Corporation Inc., in the new Rodeway Inn complex.

With the geographic location Twin Falls enjoys, Spaulding said, there is no reason why further expansion of the resort-convention facility will not result in becoming the major contributing factor of the total economy in Twin Falls.

Rodeway Inns of America, a national concern, has more than 100 franchise facilities in operation or under construction at this time.

The Idaho Corporation officials said they expect the Twin Falls Rodeway Inn will provide the finest convention and tourist accommodations in southern Idaho.

Pointing out Rodeway Inns is the fastest growing motel chain in the country, Spaulding said it will operate with a national referal system with direct communications between associated motels. This will enable guests in this area to arrange for accomodations throughout the United States or from Twin Falls to the next stop on their tour.

TF newsmen get awards

BOISE — Three Times-News staff members have won awards for their work in two separate competitions.

Larry Hovey, Times-News sports editor for the past 16 years, has again been named Idaho Sportswriter of the Year for the fourth consecutive year, and for the seventh time since he first won the accolade in 1960.

The honor was announced by the National Sportscasters and Sportswriters Association, Salisbury, N.C.

Hovey also won other awards from the National Baseball Writers Association for covering professional baseball with the Magic Valley Cowboys. He also was named Idaho Conservation Writer of the Year in 1967 by the Idaho Wildlife Federation and the Sears Conservation Foundation.

In the annual Idaho Press Club Achievement Awards competition Friday night in Boise, Richard G. High, Times-News managing editor, and City Editor Dale Stewart were commended for their work in two categories of competition.

High was named first-place winner for a "spot news story not on deadline," while Stewart claimed second for a feature picture story.

High said his award was granted for his story in February, 1971, that the Perrine Bridge had been dangerously overloaded for years before its weaknesses were discovered. Stewart's feature photos on the Golden Spike Memorial in Utah brought his honors.

In a surprise ceremony, Press Club directors presented the Sandor S. Klein "Newsman's Newsman" awards to Earle Jester, Associated Press correspondent and Press Club president, and John Corlett, political writer for the Idaho Statesman.

The Sandor S. Klein award was named in honor of the late managing editor of the Idaho Statesman, who had served as a wire service newsman for many years.

Castleford girls hurt

CASTLEFORD — Two teenage girls were taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Saturday noon following a one-car accident south of here.

Penny Gonterman 17, Castleford, was listed in fair condition with multiple injuries. Pam Runyan, 15, Castleford, was treated and released.

Twin Falls County sheriff's officers said the car driven by Miss Gonerman was traveling north on the Lilly Grade road when the driver lost control.

The vehicle traveled to the left of the highway, going off the edge of the pavement, then swerved back to the right, crossed a borrow pit and rolled over into an adjoining field, coming to rest facing south.

Both occupants were taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Nephew killed

SHOSHONE — Mrs. Dora Frees, Shoshone, has received word of the accidental death of her nephew, Otto Bargenquist, Shelby, Iowa.

He was killed when his clothes were caught in the machinery of an elevator where he was employed.

Law Day USA

Twin Falls, along with most other communities in the Magic Valley, will join thousands across the nation in observing Law Day USA. Observances will vary—some large, some small.

And even though the observance trend will be nationwide, there are still those who wonder just what Law Day is.

Law Day is set aside May 1 each year by joint resolution of Congress and Presidential proclamation as a "special day of celebration by the American people in appreciation of their liberties" and as an occasion for "rededication to the ideals of equality and justice under the law."

The annual nationwide event is not a "lawyers day," but rather an occasion for honoring the place of law in our lives, for learning how the law and our legal system operates, and for examining how the law can better serve your people and the nation.

It is a day, too, when all the people of the United States are asked to consider their individual duties as responsible citizens. Such as (1) the duty to be informed on issues of government and community affairs, (2) to vote in elections, (3) to respect the rights of others, (4) to practice and teach the principles of good citizenship in their home, (5) to serve on juries if called, (6) to obey, respect and uphold the law, and (7) to support those institutions and persons charged with law enforcement.

The primary purpose of the observance is to emphasize the values of living under a system of laws and independent courts that protect individual freedom and make possible a free society.

Law Day is tomorrow. It is a day to fly the Flag.

Hidden Genius

What makes a genius may be less important than what a person with a high intellectual potential does with his gift. The notion that a genius automatically rises above the ordinary scheme of theings to exercise his extraordinary talent is not borne out by historicial fact.

Many geniuses are intellectually lazy, just like others who do not live up to their potentials. In fact, there may by more potential geniuses than is generally realized.

Depending upon definitions of potential geniuses (experts disagree), about one out of 250 persons has an intelligence quotient of 140 or higher and six out of a million have a level of 180 or more.

In a population of 208 million, that adds up to a small army of potential geniuses. Some of them apply themselves in the arts, commerce and public service. Many of them apparently become lost in the crowd, never to be heard from in a constructive capacity.

That is unfortunate, a loss of natural resources greater than any others. Brainpower is what the world could always use more of.

Down To Earth

Is man working the world to death? Scientists have warned again and again that the planet is being overexploited and overcrowded. The evidence they offer gives much to think about.

In three centuries, the earth's population has increased from 400 million to more than three and a half billion persons. By the year 2000 it must support six billion people. The trouble is, say the scientists, there isn't enough earth, air and water.

Perhaps it is true, as some claim, that the disillusionment and fears of those who find their lands unproductive are primary causes of international unrest. Nowhere in recorded history is it possible to discover a common cause or a belief that was of enough magniture to get all the people thinking in one direction.

Now, perhaps, this is it.

The most obscure tribal dialect has in its limited vocabulary a work or a synonym for "earth." Maybe this is the common denominator the world needs.

MR. SPECTATOR

The Birds Of Prey

As the tourist season approaches and hundreds of thousands of Americans begin planning their vacations, another segment of society is making preparations for what many predict will be the greatest tourist season in history.

Summer months are the busiest working period for this latter group, for they are the confidence men and women who find vacation spending produces rich pluckings. They know that some unexplainable incongruity in human nature transforms the most frugal into devil-may-care spendthrifts when they take to the open highway.

Confidence games are by no means just a seasonal pastime, but exist anywhere money changes hands. However, during vacation season these parasites are aided by the disarming feelings of exuberance and good will which prevail.

Comic operas have portrayed time and again the gimmick of the penniless patron who, after he has consumed a hearty meal, discovers to the horror of himself and the management an obnoxious-looking bug in his ice cream. Naturally, he received no bill.

Confidence men are not content with freeloading, however. After employing several variations of this trick, the confidence man threatens to sue and settles for a nuisance fee.

The amount involved is never enough to attract unwanted attention, but is sufficient to maintain the crook until his next escapade. And the legitimate customer helps pay the bill incurred by confidence men.

SAN MONDAYS

Apprehension with which many persons begin to read their Monday newspapers is justified by front page headlines. The toll of weekend accidents, most but not all on the highways, chronicle is always a sobering total for a period when the public supposedly is seeking relaxation.

Year in and year out, week-ends and holidays account for most holiday fatalities. Until drivers decide they must take an increasingly important hand in promoting driving safety, instead of winking at the rules by which others try to protect them, the toll can be expected to continue rising. If there were enough one-man campaigns, they could slow the slaughter on the highways.

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK

The Doves Jumped The Gun

WASHINGTON — The top Democratic leaders of the House reversed themselves and embraced their party's anti-Vietnam orthodoxy last week at just the moment when polling data pointed to new public anger over North Vietnam's offensive and new support for President Nixon's war policy.

Those House Democrats still supporting the President were stunned last Thursday morning when Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma and Majority Leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana unexpectedly ended seven years of support for the U.S. commitment in Vietnam by voting with the 135 to 66 majority to get out now.

Albert and Boggs said nothing before or during the closed-door Democratic caucus to signal their dramatic switch to the party's new Vietnamese orthodoxy which stands apart from public opinion. Indeed, that orthodoxy is so intense that the peace Democrats actually believe their abhorrence of retaliatory bombing is shared by the public. In their zeal, they imposed this view on the Albert-Boggs leadership.

As a result, House Democrats now lead public opinion on Vietnam after seven years of lagging behind the Senate doves. Although unpredictable events on volatile battlefields in Vietnam might any day produce the public dovishness they now imagine, current evidence is that they misread the public.

That is indicated, among other polling data, by pollster Albert Sindlinger, who regularly makes national telephone surveys to thousands of respondents. When the Communists invaded South Vietnam March 20, hawkish sentiments—wanting to "go all out to win" the war—rose from 23.3 per cent to 29.7 per cent, then climbed again to 31.4 per cent with Mr. Nixon's bombing of the north. Extreme dovish sentiment—wanting to "admit defeat and give up"—dropped from 19.8 per cent to 19.2 per cent with the invasion, then rose to 20.3 per cent with the bombing.

Equally significant are Sindlinger answers to whether "President Nixon is doing all he can to settle the war." Hitting a low of 46.8 per cent after the 1070 Cambodian operation, "yes" answers reached 63 per cent with Mr. Nixon's peace plan in January. They dropped to 59.1 per cent with the Communist offensive, then, remarkably, climbed to 63.3 per cent with the bombing.

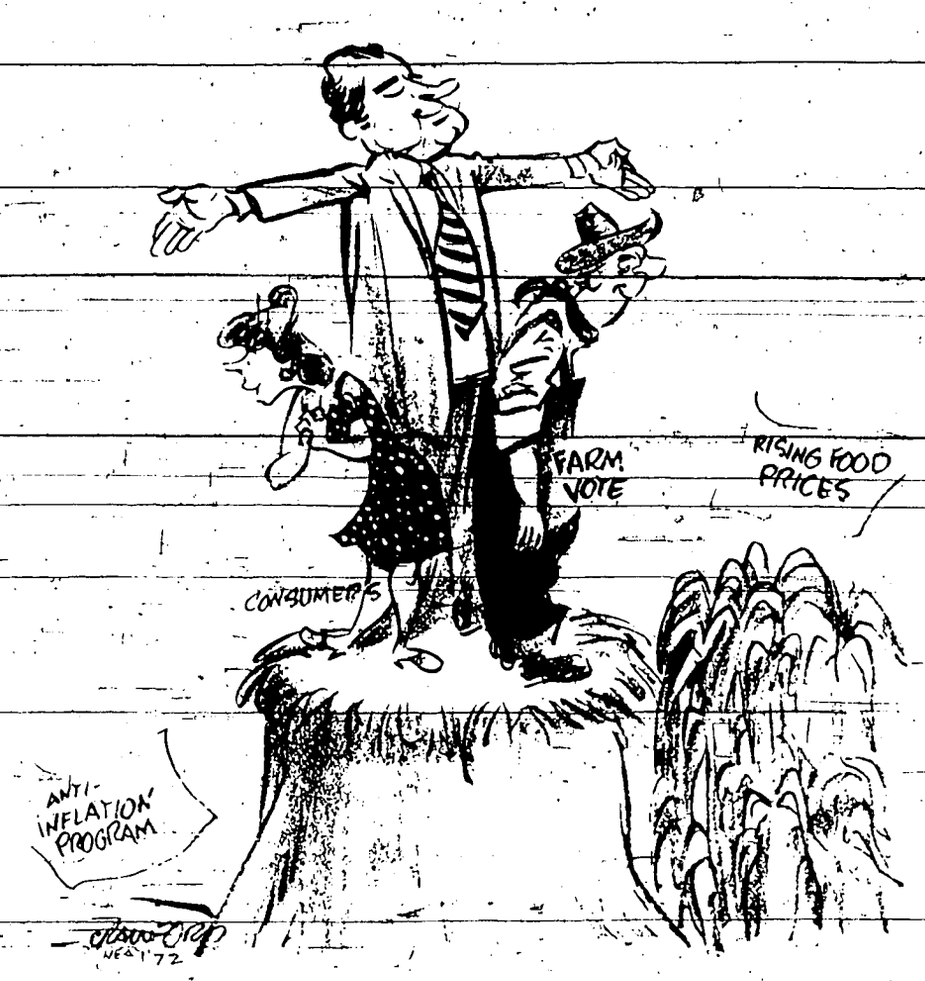
Such findings contradict the conventional Democratic wisdom that the public is outraged by renewed bombing. On the unsupported assumption that super-dove Sen. George McGovern's campaign for President has been dramatically aided by anti-war feeling, House doves claim Mr. Nixon erred fatally in unleashing the B-52.

These convictions increased months of pressure on Albert and Boggs by House Democratic doves, who laid down this implicit ultimatum: If you continue to oppose the caucus majority, yours days of leadership may be numbered.

Following a private Pentagon briefing Speaker Albert gave intimates the impression he still supported the Nixon policy. But on Thursday morning, Albert and Boggs submitted to the new Democratic majority. First voting against the resolution which denounced U.S. bombing without mentioning the North Vietnamese invasion, they switched when it was amended to condemn the Communist offensive that triggered the bombing.

Some conservative Democrats did not even wait for that amendment. The original resolution was backed by erstwhile hawks James J. Delaney of New York, Daniel J. Flood of Pennsylvania, Eligio de la Garza of Texas, Thomas N. Downing of Virginia and Chet Holifield of California.

A View from the Top



ROBERT ALLEN

Deliberations

WASHINGTON — The $20-to-$25 billion higher education program, biggest in U. S. history, is teetering ominously on the edge of a possible fatal deadlock in the secret deliberations of a House-Senate conference committee.

So critical is this backstage situation deemed by Rep. Edith Green, Ore., ranking Democratic conferee, that as a precautionary safeguard she is sponsoring a bill to continue existing higher educational programs for one year. They amount to around $3.5 billion.

"In my opinion," says Mrs. Green, leading House authority on education and main author of her chamber's measure, "the likelihood of higher education legislation emerging from the conference committee that would be acceptable to a majority of House members is a darkening prospect. So if worse comes to worse and there is no compromise between the House and the Senate, then it will become necessary to pass this simple one-year extension of existing programs as quickly as possible."

She pointedly stressed that Federal funds for these nationwide educational programs will run out in about two-and-a-half months — June 30, end of the fiscal year.

The 32 House-Senate conferees (20 House; 12 Senate) have been trying to iron out differences at closed door meetings for more than a month — with none of the major issues settled, and most of them not yet considered.

There are 282 variations between the House and Senate versions of this history-making legislation — which explains the uncertainty of the ultimate cost. That total is definitely not less than $20 billion and could soar to $25 billion under the Senate measure.

Also programs authorized by the House bill would extend to 1976; those of the Senate to 1975.

The gravely embattled legislation has been in the works for around two years. Mrs. Green, one-time teacher and chairman of the House Education Subcommittee, began extensive hearings in 1970.

All the 282 differences between the House and Senate bills are of Senate origin — many of them written into the latter measure by floor amendment. A number of the Senate provisions have little or nothing to do with higher education. Sponsored by militant liberals they are primarily propaganda and politics motivated.

A graphic example is a vague scheme for promoting "consumer" education — presumably a good campaign ploy in this election year.

While most of the Senate's variations are relatively minor and not serious obstacles to compromise, a numbr of others are very much so.

High among them is the super-heated student busing controversy.

The House bill deals with that in three decisively approved provisions — all aimed at curbing busing. The toughest, offered by Rep. William Broomfield, R.-Mich., prohibits courts from ordering busing "until the appeals process has been exhausted."

In other words, a judge might direct that students be bused but he couldn't make that edict stick until every appeal possibility had been exhausted — which could require several years.

PAUL HARVEY

To Resist

Did you hear Robert Oben's definition of the "income tax"? He calls it a "do-it-yourself mugging."

Never in my recollection have so many been so up-tight about taxes, and this is a year when we can do something about them.

Public resentment over ever-higher taxes is near the flash point.

We saw the resentment expressed dramatically in Illinois when the Daley machine got a stinging warning from primary voters.

In Wisconsin, what hay George Wallace was able to make was the result of his campaigning against higher taxes.

Historically, Americans have voted for the politicians who promised more and better schools and streets and sewers and police and fire protection and welfare.

It was assumed that government could "soak the rich" or "tax the corporations" or otherwise pay for this more and better everything.

Now the rich have been soaked, the corporations have been taxed and government's only remaining source of revenue is the voter himself.

Now the bills for all the "more and better everything" are being handed to the wage earner and the homeowner.

In Chicago in 1949 the property tax rate was $3.25 per $100.

By 1960 it was up from $3.25 to $4.67. In 1969 it jumped to $6.89. This year it will be $7.85.

This year the average Chicago homeowner will pay $99 more than last year—just property taxes.

Add income tax, state tax, sales tax, gasoline tax, Social Security tax and such and the average Chicago wage earner now turns over 35 per cent of each paycheck to government—49 cities have added some form of local income tax.

Watchdog organization such as the Civic Federation are talking of "chaos," predicting "economic self destruction."

And if that sounds like an exaggeration, hear this: This year's aggregate 20 per cent property tax increase in Chicago will evict an estimated 20 per cent of the city's fixed-income retirees who cannot afford the increased tax on their homes. But where do they go? Of the city's apartment houses, 70 per cent will be unable to operate unless they are allowed to raise rents a corresponding 20 per cent; the retiree may be no better off renting.

Already an increasing number of apartment houses and hotels are being given away to church groups — which will pay no taxes on their continuing use for charitable purposes.

Cities' administrators insist that increased taxes are inevitable to pay higher wages and salaries for public employees.

Critics blame waste, mismanagement, patronage. Everybody has to blame some other body.

It will be ironic, though not without historical precedient, if Americans who have fought so valiantly to defend their right to private property—if Americans who have died to deter any dictator who threatened to take it away from them—allow themselves to be taxed out of it.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Arthritis

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like information on degenerating arthritis. Also, where can I obtain medication for relief of pain in spine and hip bone?—J.S.

Wish I knew who told you that you had "degenerating" arthritis. If that was a medical diagnosis, then the word was "degenerative." And the implication is quite different.

There are many forms of arthritis, but the two principal ones are rheumatoid arthritis which is a violent, inflammatory type and needs expert care (sometimes in a hospital), and "degenerative joint disease," also known as osteoarthritis.

Rheumatoid arthritis is the type that does the terrible crippling. That's why expert and immediate treatment is necessary.

Degenerative joint disease, instead of being an acute inflammatory disease, is a gradual thing, often called the "wear and tear" type of arthritis.

The joints have degenerated, become stiffer, the bone ends have changed shape. It's painful, but with reasonable care it does not cripple the patient severely.

There are various medications to relieve pain, but other than aspirin most of them are prescription items, so you'll have to get your doctor to select the one that does the best job for you. Whether the pain is in the hip, the spine, the knees or somewhere else isn't of special significance. You don't choose a special drug for some particular part of the body.

However, that's only part of the job. With degenerative joint disease it is important to relieve the painful joints of excessive strain (which would damage them further), but it is also important to keep them mobile. That is, they need movement so they will remain flexible and not "freeze."

I urge you to have your doctor make a definite diagnosis of what kind of arthritis you have; at the same time he can advise you on medications.

Meantime, I think you can learn a lot rather quickly if you'll send for my booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis." People use the term "arthritis" freely, but it's surprising how much they can easily learn about it that they didn't know. For the booklet, send 35 cents and a long, self addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of Times-News.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In reference to lead poisoning: much plumbing is now done with copper tubing, the joints being soldered with solder that is half lead.

Does the water supply pick up enough lead particles to poison or gradually affect a person?—A.E.C.

No, because water does not dissolve—or pick up—lead. For example, some paint and plaster includes lead in chemical combination with other elements. A good many cases of lead poisoning stem from small children gnawing on wood with paint of that type, or on bits of old plaster. But water will not pick up metallic lead, so solder or lead pipe is not a hazard.

Plight Of Oldsters Is Prompting New Legislation

BY O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Editor, Times-News

The number one need of older Americans? A more adequate retirement income.

There is a bipartisan move on in Congress to put through new and pending legislation aimed at correcting this truism. The White House Conference on Aging was a step in the right direction if many of the proposals put into thoughts at that time actually come about. But regardless most people look forward to the 1970's to become a period of triumph instead of one of despair for older Americans.

How much money is needed to do the job? To find the answer — get some figures together — we contacted Senator Frank Church, D-Idaho, who is chairman of the Subcommittee on Consumer Interests of the Elderly for the Senate Committee on Aging and who is also chairman of the full committee.

He commented that the Committee was established almost 11 years ago when it became clear "that jurisdiction over legislation affecting older Americans was spread out over too many Senate Committees. The Committee as constituted does not receive bills or report them to the Senate floor. Rather, take 20 committee members are a fact-finding group, they issue reports, they make recommendations and they try to follow-up on these recommendations."

Senator Church said he is backing a five-point program for long range and immediate action. The steps:

(1) Social security should be used to lift all of the elderly out of poverty. He is backing a bill which would provide a supplimentary payment for those whose Social Security is below the statistical poverty level. The supplement would be administered through the Welfare office. It would be mailed in the same envelope along with the Social Security check.

(2) Important as realistic income strategy is, the need for improvements in Medicare must be overlooked. New statistics indicate that older Americans are now spending almost as many dollars on health care as they were before Medicare began. Per capita, out-of-pocket health expenditures for the elderly were $234 when it began. In 1971 those costs had again reached $225. Senator Church said his purpose was not to attack Medicare. He points out it was a blessing when it first started and is still a blessing to many people. But he said "we must not be blind or uncaring" if we refuse to face the fact that Medicare is riddled by weaknesses and threatned by an ominous rise in overall health costs.

He contends another part of the problem is an administrative decisions which raise the cost of Medicare to participants while reducing the number and quality of the services. Another premium rise, for instance, is due in July for Part B medical services. Probably the worst cutback in services under Medicare has occurred in so called extended care benefits. Cutbacks, Senator Church said, have been so severe that this benefit has become almost non-existent.

(3) Another area for early action during this session would be the establishment of a strong Federal agency for the elderly. The Administration on Aging is now weak and submerged within the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. There should be an independent office on aging at the White House level. It would establish a new position — Assistant Secretary for Aging.

(4) Congress should act promptly to enhance employment and service opportunities for aging Americans. Many oldsters are jobless because their skills have been outdistanced by technology. It is urged that the training, counseling and other supportive services that would enable these people to move back onto the payrolls in more productive work, be activated.

(5) The Committee on Aging estimates that six million older American s live in unsuitable housing. Mealry one in every three persons age 65 or over live in unsuitable quarters.

Senator Church said the Senate Committee on Aging would work with senior citizen organizations, educators and others in development of an effective system for the delivery of social and health services.

"The necessity for coordinating social and health services is now widely talked about," Senator Church said, "but it is still rarely practiced. But the much-sought goal — to assist aged persons to live independently, instead of being institutionalized — will not really be resolved until that principle is widely applied."

He said another key concern is to find ways to involve the elderly more in programs meant to serve them. They must have a role, a voice, and an input in the decision making process. One possiblity is that "our national policy should encourage the development of what might be called Community Councils of Older Americans." Today there are more than 20 million Americans who are 65 or older, about one out of every 10 citizens in the nation. The elderly's combined totals, he said, are nearly equivalent to the total population in 20 of our states.

How much money would all this take?

Senator Church said that "We could completely abolish poverty among the elederly in this country for what it costs us to run the war in Southeast Asia for just three months."

He added that out-of-hospital prescription drugs could be put under Medicare for "what we now spend on a single nuclear aircraft carrier."

Further: we could establish comprehensive manpower programs for older workers for the cost of one Polaris submarine.

"Elderly Americans are not blind to the present patterns in public spending or the distorted and dehumanized priorities they represent," he said. "They see a nation which boasts a gross national product of one trillion dollars but the same nation allows nearly five million older Americans to subsist below the poverty line.

"The elderly see the poor among themselves. They also see a nation where the median family income is almost $10,000, but where nearly one-fourth of all aged couples have incomes below $3,000.

"They see a nation in which $70 million is requested for military aid for Spain, but in which only $30 million is appropriated to enable elderly Americans to live independently.

"But despite all the discouragements of the past, today's elderly can also see new hope on the horizon. Through the voices raised at the White House Conference on Aging, all Americans have heard a stirring declaration for action."

Letter Of Protest

Editor, Times-News:

This letter is to protest the creation o f Local Improvement District No. 87 for the City of Twin Falls and Area No. 1 in particular for the following reasons:

1. While this program apparently has been under consideration for many months, and the resolution itself was signed April 3 by the City Clerk, still notice of same was not mailed to the property owners affected until two weeks later, hardly affording sufficient time properly to study all the ramifications of the proposal.

2. Despite the fact that Locust Street from Kimberly Road to the High School carries year round very heavy pedestrian and bicycle traffic of children and teenagers, no provision has been made for sidewalk on either side of the street. Harmon Park with its swimming pool and playground area attracts more youngsters than any other area of the city throughout the summer. Likewise, the High School to the north on Lucust Street is a gathering point of more than a thousand students daily through the school year. Locust Street carries much of the pedestrian and bicycle traffic back and forth to these points. There is no provision now for safe traffic of these young people, neither is there any thought for their safe traffic in the program of this Improvement District.

The proposed improvement to Locust Street calls for a 44 foot street. This better street will undoubtedly generate much heavier, and faster, automobile traffic. To anticipate such change without considering the increased danger to the many children using the street is unthinkable.

A similar situation exists, to lesser degree, on Filer Avenue proximate to Harrison Street where youngsters from streets west of the Garden Homes Addition of Twin Falls are forced to walk in the street for a considerable distance going back and forth to Harrison Elementary School.

3. Apparently, part of the planning for the improvement of Locust Street involves relief of heavily traveled Blue Lakes Blvd.

The area of greatest traffic congestion along Blue Lakes Blvd. is the portion north of the Washington School corner. Much of this traffic is generated by the Blue Lakes Shopping Center, residents going back and forth to the Fairbanks Addition, and students, faculty, and others at the College of Southern Idaho.

Traffic to the Blue Lakes Shopping Center and the Fairbanks Addition has been greatly complicated by the fact that a benevolent and short-sighted city government of a few years back allowed the center development to build back into the area that should reasonably have been planned for the extension of Buchanan Street through to Falls Avenue. By such boob-oddities are problems created.

To properly relieve traffic along Blue Lakes Blvd. to the three areas named Harrison Street should be improved from Addison Avenue to Falls Avenue (possibly to Pole Line Road and at least one other street (probably Fillmore) established as an arterial and completed through to Falls Avenue.

I realize that this single improvement program cannot solve all Twin Falls' street and traffic problems in one fell swoop but neither can constructive suggestions be forthcoming when it appears that deliberate attempt has been made in this instance to forestall reasonable discussion.

Concerned

Editor, Times-News:

In all concern, I would like to know why all the front page write up on the Harrison PTA deciding to go on their own. And also, in the same item, why were not some of the statements checked more closely as to the truth.

For one thing, we State and National do lobby — but these people are not paid one PTA dime for this service. The only paid employe of the state is our office secretary, Mrs. Trenna Day, and she receives $4,200 a year. She is a very capable person and without her the office would cease to function. "At certain times of the year she and certain PTA volunteers work 12 to 14 hours a day and no one, including Mrs. Day, gets any overtime pay.

If it were not for all the great people and all the volunteer help we no longer could have a PTA. If you do not believe the PTA is a useful and necessary organization, then ask any responsible school official or any person seeking public office.

Therefore, why is it that when some of the PTAs in our town or district are doing a great service for school and community, the news items they submit are edited and cut so that the real meaning is completely removed. If the items get in the paper at all you really have to search to find them.

Because there were no funds for our president, Mrs. F. O. Kisling to do any visiting of the units and districts, she traveled — at her own expense — to every district and practically every school in Idaho. She has turned down very few requests to make these visits.

We are very proud to have Idaho's PTA president from the Fourth District. She is a resident of Dietrich where her husband is a rancher.

Prayer For Today

Are you tired of our excuses, God? Some of the people Jesus asked to follow Him made excuses. In one of His parables Jesus told of some people bidden to a feast who "all with one accord began to make excuses." Aren't we doing pretty much the same thing, though? There are things we know you'd like us to do, but we aren't ready just now. Please forgive us and help us to be willing to do whatever you ask of us.

Need Of The PTA

Editor, Times-News:

Why do we need a national, state and council organization of the PTA? There is enough to do in our own local school without carrying out work for council, state and national.

This is what so many other uninformed people like those at Harrison School are saying. First let me say I, as a PTA member, and a number of other very satisfied PTA members, were not informed that Harrison was "going out on their own." As in a great number of cases, letters sent home through the students are lost or found in a youngster's pocket the next wash day — and much too late to attend the meeting which was being announced.

This method of communication for such an important meeting is for the birds. So I would urge other schools in our city to not let themselves be taken in by a few people who would turn their PTA into something entirely different than it is. This, I am sure, is not what the majority of the paid up PTA members want.

Stand up and let yourselves be counted and heard. Don't pass the buck to some one else to do the job for you.

Ever heard the story about the hand?

First finger said: "I'm the most important. I point the way and I don't need any of you other fingers to help me do it."

Second finger said, by virtue of size: "I'm the most important one and can get along quite well without any of the rest of you."

Third finger said: "I hold the riches — the diamonds and pearls and gold, and because of my wealth I don't need you."

Fourth finger said: "Because I'm a buffer, I'm the most important. Every time a hand pounds the table with authority, I'm the one who makes the hit."

The very wise thumb said: "I'll settle the question for you. Let's see each one of you hold this book by yourself. When each finger had failed the thumb braced the book against the fingers, resting it against himself in the cup of the hand, and the book held securely. "You see," he said, "what can be done when we work together?"

The real worth of the PTA rests in the fact that working within an established framework each unit is free to work solutions to its own problems revelant to children and youth.

National, state and local councils endeavor to provide programs sufficient for every unit to find at least one area of interest they may work toward. Your participation in state, national and local is established to help you. In reality, every unit is state and national.

So please THINK before you jump.

Good News?

Editor, Times-News:

Oh! What wonderful news for the Village of Hansen. A California "developer" is coming to build a new mobile court.

You see, the California "developers" have about "developed" California to its limits and we are now reaping the benefits of their talents by having them help us "develop" Idaho.

Some think a field of golden grain waving in the wind is beautiful or that the smell of new mown hay is refreshing.

Not me. I enjoy the sight of a field full of trailers with loose sheet metal siding flapping in the breeze — the occasional whiff of sewer gas and the smell of the fumes from their collective chimneys.

Potatoes

Editor, Times-News:

I just read about the lady in Twin Falls telling of the small potatoes she got at the market.

Well, I never have been able to get nice potatoes in a store. I believe they send the No. 1's out and we eat the culls. We used to raise potatoes and we fed the culls to the stock but that is the only kind we can get now.

Wonder why we can't have a few good potatoes instead of the black and partly rotten ones we always get anc pay high prices for?

Please, whoever you are, give us decent potatoes.

Dangerous Methods

Editor, Times-News:

Every election year we hear and see things that never come to pass. This year is different.

Our politicians are using various methods that are dangerous to this country. They are encouraging riots by the things they say and do. If you look at those wild crowds of agitators anyone with common sense would know what kind of people they are. But to get elected the men running for office would and do encourage all this by what they say. This war has been prolonged because our leaders never pulled together.

One party starts a war and after it gets out of hand then that party wants the other party to stop it. They give the second party all the blame and yet that second party received the whole thing all tied up in a silk ribbon. Everyone who is a citizen of this nation should stand behind the elected officials.

We have a great country but we owe more money today than all the rest of the world. We have come to be greedy and nothing satisfies us. The more we get the more we want and the less we appreciate what we have. I hired a man the other day and in the first 30 minutes he spend 20 minutes smoking and then he wanted to get some beer. He said he had been on a party the night before. But he did have a job — and that is the world today.

Getting back to the war. If we want this war to end then we should act that way. Our officials should not incite riots. We should work for what we want. I want this war to end but first I want to see every one of our boys come out of those prison camps. I want this if it means blasting the enemy to hell.

Try doing a little pushing rather than holding back. Everyone should be willing to do something. If you do not do this then we must believe you are not interested in this nation and do not care if it falls.

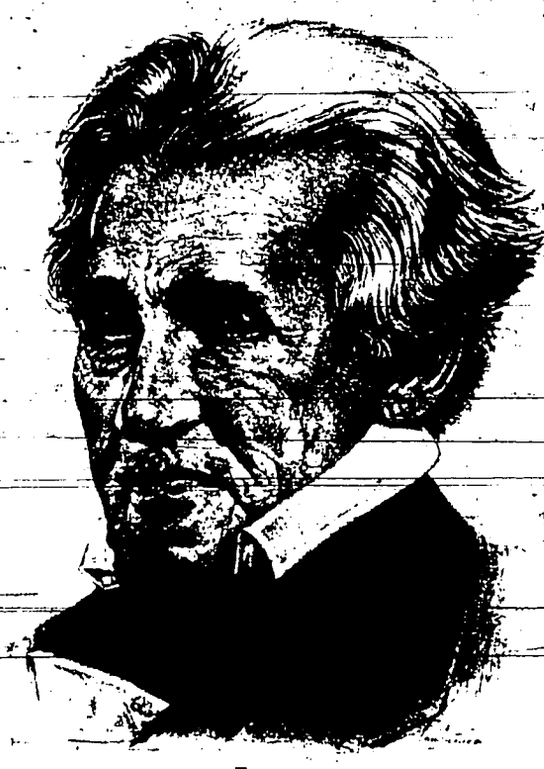
Presidents Of Manifest Destiny



Andrew Jackson

(Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles revealing little known backgrounds of Presidents of the United States. It will be continued until all Presidents have been discussed)

Seventh President Andrew Jackson
(First Administration: March 4, 1829-March 3, 1833)
(Second Administration: March 4, 1833-March 3, 1837)

In the entire procession of American Presidents, no sharper political or cultural contrast can be found than when unschooled and plebeian Andrew Jackson succeeded John Quincy Adams, one of the most scholarly and aristocratic of all the Chief Executives.

The mercurial Jackson had received more popular and electoral votes than Adams four years before, but had lost in the House of Representatives when fourth-place candidate Henry Clay had used his prestige as speaker to throw his votes to Adams.

When Adams almost immediately named Clay secretary of state, the hotheaded, blunt-spoken Jackson called Clay "the Judas of the West," and said his secretaryship was his "thirty pieces of silver."

Jackson was an easy victor in the next election which was so clogged with political and personal scurrility that one observer said, "On the whole, possibly, it was more honorable to have been defeated in 1828 than to have been elected."

One daub of this muck, dealing with a legal irregularity in their marriage nearly 40 years earlier, had a devastating effect on Jackson and his wife. A shy, sensitive woman, Rachel Jackson was overcome with shame and died shortly before her husband's inauguration.

Rachel Donelson Jackson was the great love, the gentling influence, the "significant other" person in Andrew Jackson's life, and her death sent him to the White House a bitter and broken man.

Moreover, the shock of his wife's death had seriously undermined his health — he had long been plagued by tuberculosis and bullets from old dueling wounds — which was worsened by what has been called "Eaton malaria." This attack, primarily psychic, was the result of Jackson's feud with Washington society leaders over their refusal to accept as a social equal Peggy O'Neale Easton, wife of Jackson's friend and Secretary of War John Eaton, and a charming woman of somewhat smudged repute.

Adding to the harassed President's woes was the unruly and demanding horde of office seekers which descended upon the White House in response to the Jacksonian campaign slogan, "To the victors belong the spoils." As a result, the turnover in federal jobs was greater in the first few weeks of Jackson's Administration than in the preceding six Presidencies altogether.

Even Jackson was disgusted. "If I had a tit for every one of these pigs to suck on," he said, "They would still be my friends."

So lavish was Jackson's use of federal patronage that Sen. Daniel Webster queried James Kent, professor of law at Columbia College, regarding the legality of some of the President's dismissals. "That the President grossly abuses the power of removal is manifest," Prof. Kent wrote, "but it is the genius of democracy to be the sport of faction."

Nor was Sen. Webster's thinking on the matter any more idealistic, for we find him writing, "Were it not for the outdoor popularity of President, we would have negatived more than half of his nominations." That Jackson was leavening his partisanship with practicality is seen in the fact that of more than 300 nominees submitted to the Senate, only six failed to be confirmed.

Jackson was confronted by his most serious political crisis late in 1832 when the South Carolina Legislature declared the recently enacted federal tariff acts null and void. These acts were special privilege legislation favoring the new manufacturing industries of New England, and Jackson knew it. Nevertheless, this open defiance by Vice President John C. Calhoun's home state angered "Old Hickory."

Constitutionally belligerent and daring — "I like to graze danger," he once said — Jackson immediately dispatched a naval force to Charleston Harbor and ordered federal troops readied to march on South Carolina. On a less visceral level, Jackson issued a Proclamation on Nullification which appealed to the patriotism of the South Carolinians, but also warned, bluntly and prophetically, "disunion by armed force is treason."

Andrew Jackson's always high popularity reached its crest when the Southern nullifiers nullified their nullification. But the die had been cast and Confederate cannonading of Fort Sumter lay just 28 troubled years ahead.

Wallace and Humphrey campaign

By United Press International

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey campaigned head-to-head against Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace in Indiana Saturday while Sen. George S. McGovern, making big strides in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, stumped to defeat Humphrey in Ohio.

Both Midwestern states hold their presidential primaries Tuesday, with Humphrey and McGovern jockeying for first place now that Sen. Edmund S. Muskie has withdrawn as an active candidate in all primaries.

In his Indiana appearances, Humphrey took as a theme "the wrongdoing of Richard Nixon," and described himself as the single candidate with the strongest challenge against Wallace.

Talking to reporters in Terre Haute, the former vice president said: "I would hope the McGovern supporters or the Muskie supporters would realize that I stand here in Indiana as the legitimate spokesman for the progressive Democratic Party ...

"I can't imagine that people who want change in America, people who believe we should end this war and end it promptly would in any way try to discourage voting for the one candidate that challenges Wallace. That one candidate is myself."

Wallace, winner of the Florida primary on an antibusing campaign and shooting for blue-collar support in Indiana, campaigned in Anderson, Gary, Indianapolis and Evansville. In Anderson, he attacked school busing, liberals and Supreme Court justices.

As McGovern continued to appeal for votes in Ohio, his campaign aides in Washington tempered their initial glee over Muskie's withdrawal after concluding that the development may not help their man all that much.

With more time to assess what may happen to the delegates Muskie had amassed, McGovern's headquarters predicted the South Dakota senator would not pick up more than half and go to the national convention with only a little more than 1,200 delegates, 300 short of the number needed for a first-ballot victory.

Humphrey made a side trip Saturday into Ohio. In a speech prepared for a farm forum at Vandalia, he promised that as President "I will not only strengthen the role of the Department of Agriculture as it relates to agriculture and conservation, but also as it relates to all rural America.

Takes 'stand'

Pakistan, India chiefs to meet

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) —A meeting between President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto and Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi may take place within four to five weeks, foreign office sources said Saturday.

Arrangements for the meeting are currently being discussed by emissaries representing the two national leaders at a meeting in Rawalpindi, Pakistan. The emissaries met twice Saturday and the Indian team announced it will leave for New Delhi Sunday.

Bhutto is believed to have told Durga Prasad Dhar, Mrs. Gandhi's emissary, at a meeting Friday that Pakistan would discuss the issue of establishing a durable peace on the subcontinent.

The Indian emissaries wanted to discuss such issues as the long-standing dispute over Kashmir and the prisoner-of-war problem arising from the 1971 Indian-Pakistan war; however, Aziz Ahmed, Secretary General of the Pakistan Foreign Ministry, argued that those questions should be left to Bhutto and Mrs. Gandhi.

Agency budget cut criticized

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Secretary of State William P. Rogers warned Saturday that budget cuts proposed for the U.S. Information Agency (USIA) would seriously weaken this country's effort in the propaganda battle with Moscow and Peking.

In a statement, Rogers said the USIA and the Voice of America lend "vital support" to American foreign policy by explaining U.S. actions and aims. He said he was concerned about the "drastic cuts" the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has proposed.

The committee has proposed a reduction of $45 million in USIA's budget which has been estimated at $197 million. It also proposed restrictions on the way the budget could be spent.

Rogers said a cut of this size would require the USIA to close all offices in 30 countries and 35 branch offices in other countries. He said it would force the Voice of America to end 25 of its 35 language services, reduce USIA's television and motion picture capability by 50 per cent, and stop the publication of many of USIA publications.

"The Soviet Union and China among others have devoted enormous amounts of money and effort to advancing their policies and philosophies in the world today through information programs," Rogers said.

"The task of presenting our views and essential facts about us to the world —always a difficult job, under any circumstances —would be enormously increased if, for example, the broadcast hours of the Voice of America were to be cut by nearly 50 per cent and the strength of the voice were to be muted by the elimination of seven of its 15 worldwide transmitters," Rogers said.

The Voice of America broadcasts in 36 languages for 780 hours a week. The State Department said that under the cuts the Voice of America would have to reduce its broadcasting to 454 hours a week in 11 languages.

Chinese players give farewell

NAPA, Calif. (UPI)—Behind tight security, the Chinese table tennis team murmured polite invitations for visits to Peking Saturday at a picnic in the California wine country.

The picnic, featuring Chinese food, was the 34-man group's thank-you and farewell to some 60 Americans who have traveled with the ping pong players since their arrival.

As their U.S. visit drew to an end the ping pong players remained on the grounds of the Silverado Country Club, where they have been housed while in northern California.

Planet X existence suggested

LIVERMORE, Calif. (UPI) — A scientist at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory suggested Friday the existence of a "Planet X" three times as massive as Saturn and nearly six billion miles from earth.

The planet, far beyond Pluto which is currently the outermost of the nine known planets of the solar system, was predicted on sophisticated mathematical computations of the movements of Halley's Comet.

Joseph L. Brady, a Lawrence mathematician and an authority on the comet, reported the calculations in the Journal of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific.

Brady said he and his colleagues, Edna M. Carpenter and Francis H. McMahon, used a computer to process mathematical observations of the strange deviations in Halley's Comet going back to before Christ.

Lawrence officials said the existence of a 10th planet has been predicted before, but Brady is the first to predict its orbit, mass and position.

Brady said the planet was about 65 times as far from the sun as earth, which is about 93 million miles from the sun. From earth "Planet X" would be located in the constellation Casseiopeia on the border of the Milky Way.

The size and location of "Planet X" were proposed to account for mysterious deviations in the orbit of Halley's Comet. But the calculations subsequently were found to account for deviations in the orbits of two other reappearing comets, Olbers and Pons-Brooks, Brady said.

No contradiction between the proposed planet and the known orbits of comets and other planets has been found.

The prediction of unseen planets is not new. The location of Neptune was predicted in 1846 on the basis of deviations in the orbit of Uranus. Deviations in Neptune's orbit led to a prediction of Pluto's location in 1915.

Although no such deviations of Pluto have been found, Brady pointed out that since its discovery in 1950, Pluto has been observed through less than one-fourth of its revolution around the sun and a complete picture of its orbit is not available.

Brady said "Planet X" may be as elusive as Pluto was a half century ago. It took 15 years to find it from the time of its prediction.

"The proposed planet is located in the densely populated Milky Way where even a tiny area encompasses thousands of stars, many of which are brighter than we expect this planet to be," he said. "If it exists, it will be extremely difficult to find."

"Planet X," in its huge orbit, takes 600 years to complete a revolution around the sun, he said.

Blacks and youths qualify for meet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Democratic leader reported Friday that blacks and young people were qualifying in record numbers as delegates to the party's convention in July but he expressed concern over the "under representation of women."

But Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., predicted at a news conference that when Democrats gather in Miami Beach on July 10 they would conduct "the most open and interesting convention in the party's history."

Fraser, chairman of one of two reform commissions set up after the tumultuous 1968 Democratic convention in Chicago, said that party organizations in the 50 states and the District of Columbia had adopted rules either totally or substantially in compliance with new Democratic guidelines.

SHOSHONE — Pre-school registration for children who will be enrolling in the first grade at Shoshone's Lincoln school next fall will be held at 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Principal Jack D. Bowlin said the children must be 5 years old by Oct. 15 and parents are instructed to take birth certificates to the registration.

The Merry pet

By LINDA MERRY, D.V.M.

Question: I have a 2½ year old Cocker Spaniel female. I was wondering how can I keep her coat from matting? Her fur mats behind her ears, on her legs and paws. Would vitamins help? What is the best shampoo to use that will help eliminate some matting? Is the shampoo the vets use for sale? Hope you can help because she scratches and sheds a lot.

Answer: It's spring. You can tell because all the boy dogs are calling on the girl dogs (in packs), last fall's kitten has developed the most amazing mee-mee-mee-rrrou, and half the world is certain their pet is balding. (The other half don't own pets.)

All animals do shed more in spring and fall — the trick is to keep them from doing it all at once. The vitamins which affect coat and skin condition (i.n. A, D, and E) will definitely help. But the unsaturated fatty acids and lecithins may be even more important.

Luckily these vitamins, amino acids, lecithins, and sorbitan (to aid the dog in absorbing it all), are combined in some coat conditionrs. Get a really good one, put it in the food, give it ten days trial, and I'll bet you can see the difference on both the dog and furniture.

The shampoos veterinarians use for routine grooming are available from most clinics. They're neatly packaged in 6 ounce bottles, complete with directions, and you con't need to be the last of the big spenders to afford them. The real advantage of these shampoos is that they are made to cut through the dog's skin oils and prevent return of "aroma de dog" for some time. Try it, you'll like it.

But don't stop there on your cocker. Get out the old cream rinse and give her a real beauty treatment. Rinse, dry, and just before brushing, dust a little talcum powder around the ears and "geathers", long hair on the back of the legs. Cockers do need to be trimmed and part of a clip includes manicuring the long hair which grows between the toes and pads, shaping the ears and brushing the feathers.

If the mats are too bad to be combed out, this is the time to scissor them out and start fresh with daily brushing.

Finally, if you want to make a clean sweep of your housecleaning, and the dog will go along with it, try vacuuming her instead of the furniture every so often.

If you have a question about your pet, send it to The Merry Pet Column, care of the Times-News, Box 548, Twin Falls, Idaho, 83301.

Winner describes 'battle of bulge'

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — "Whenever I'd catch a glimpse of myself in a mirror, I'd either thumb my nose or stick my tongue out at my reflection."

For many years this was Mrs. Martha Sullivan's hopeless attitude toward her weight problem which never seemed to improve in spite of various diets, reducing aids and exercise programs.

Although they all managed to make her lose poundage, the problem always came in keeping excess weight off. As soon as she would resume a regular diet, she would start gaining again.

This year's state TOPS queen, who now proudly says she has lost 90 pounds and never felt better, has been waging the "Battle of the Bulge" since she was a young girl, she states.

When she was 13 she was 5 feet, 6 inches tall and at 15 weighed 150 pounds. She had passed all the students in her class in height and weight.

She started dieting in high school and did manage to get down to 130 pounds in her senior year; however, it wasn't long until she was back up to 150 pounds.

Mrs. Sullivan calculates that through the years she has lost 350 to 400 pounds. When she became ill with colities and ulcers, she was not allowed raw fruits and vegetables so she turned to starchy foods which didn't irritate the ulcer buf did put on the pounds.

When put on a strict diet before a hernia operation, the ulcer again became irritated. Mrs. Sullivan states that finally in despair she quit trying to diet and started eating again.

It was at this time that she gained until she was wearing a size 28½ dress.

When a good friend persuaded her to try the TOPS Club plan, she realized this was what she had long been seeking. It took her 18 months to reach her goal of losing 90 pounds. In February, 1971, she reached KOPS status, which meant she had been able to stay within her desired goal.

"I intend to retain that goal by facing the scale every week," emphatically declared the new queen.

Gem state news

Gem auditor suggests depositing state liquor funds with treasurer

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho legislative auditor has recommended a way the state can make money by depositing state liquor dispensary funds with the state treasurer.

Legislative Auditor James Defenbach recommended putting the funds to work and earning from $18,217 to $33,125 per year for the state general fund.

The recommendations, presented to the Legislative Budget and Fiscal Committee, were included in a generally complimentary audit of the dispensary which included some recommendations for change.

Defenbach's audit said there is an average daily balance of $171,774 in the dispensary's main bank account in Boise. He said if the total average balance of the idle liquor funds of $662,505 could be given to the state treasurer each day, $33,125 could be earned in interest each year for the general fund.

But admitting it may be difficult to get the money to the treasurer, he said an alternative plan would be for the various liquor stores to mail receipts daily to the dispensary which would skip the bank and deposit the returns with the treasurer. Estimated earnings would be $18,217 per year.

The audit commended both former dispensary superintendent Fred Charleton and present superintendent Bill Webster for efficient operations and effective methods of achieving goals.

But some of the recommendations and responses included:

—Modernization of the appearance of the liquor stores throughout the state, although with a caution that too much modernization may be interpreted as a violation of the prohibition against stimulating the "normal demands" of customers.

Council hears of tax plan

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senior Citizen Council was told Friday night that social security benefits could be raised 20 per cent without a significant change in taxing.

Nelson H. Cruikshank, president of the National Council of Senior Citizens, told the group that Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has introduced an amendment to current social security legislation to raise the benefits.

Cruikshank said present social security financing has produced a substantial surplus in the social security old age trust fund, money which he said should go to social security beneficiaries.

He said it was "regrettable" the president has refused to support a social security increase of more than five per cent even though the social security council said the social security old age trust fund is heavily over "financed."

Smylie offers proposals

CALDWELL (UPI) — A Republican candidate for the nomination to the U.S. Senate called Friday for a constitutional amendment to require expulsion of congressmen who fail to attend at least 60 per cent of the roll call votes during the year.

Robert E. Smylie, former governor of Idaho, spoke before two American government classes at the College of Idaho.

First time

BOISE (UPI) — James King, 11, Mountain Home, ran into a problem when he was touring Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' office Friday with his classmates.

When someone asked him to open the door so his friends could exit his arm became wedged between the wooden handle and the glass door. His fellow students rushed to his aid but all the tugs and pulls were to no avail.

The governor's secretary, Jean Taylor, surveyed the situation and then consulted a member of the Army Corps of Engineers who just happened to be waiting to see the state's chief executive.

Road work discussed

SHOSHONE — Status of highway projects in district 2 and the Sawtooth Valley Recreation Area use proposals were discussed at the Northside Communities meeting Thursday night.

District engineer Howard Johnson, Shoshone, said $10 million is under contract in district 2 at this time, and the current projects are about 7 per cent complete.

State Rep. Vernon Ravenscrof, Tuttle, spoke on the Sawtooth Valley use proposals, reporting on the April 12 Seante Parks and Recreation Subcommittee hearings he attended in Washington, D. C.

Ravenscroft said, "I feel a national recreation area is the middle-of-the-road, so to speak, something which most of us can live with, where we couldn't live with the national park status."

He discussed legislation to guarantee validating pre-existing mining claims in the Sawtooth area. There are 76 patented claims and 5,000 unpatented claims. They take about 20 acres per claim and involve about 100,000 acres, Ravenscroft said.

If they can be validated without conflicting with public interest, the holders have property rights to go ahead and develop the mines. Request for this provision to be added to the recreation bill is being sent to the Senate subcommittee by the Public Lands Resource Council, Inc., Ravenscroft said.

With passage of the national recreation bill, Congress will in fact be saying the dominant use of the area will be recreation, Ravenscroft said, but this does not rule out other types of use of the land and area, he emphasized.

He urged those wishing to add exact wording to the bill to write to the Senate subcommittee immediately as he expects it will be enacted in the near future.

Johnson outlined various projects in the district now underway, noting that two safety improvement projects are being carried out at the Burley and Raft River interchanges.

State funds will improve two narrow bridges on Idaho Highway 24, ne west of Paul and one west of Rupert, Johnson said.

The Federal Highway Administration and state are working onthe following projects: one in the Fairfield area; eight miles north of Shoshone on U. S. 93 will receive an overlay this spring; the Filer west area is ready for sealcoating and striping and the Tuttle-Wendell section is 60 per cent complete.

Johnson said a six-mile section of interstate highway east and west of Bliss will be added this summer. Because two million yards of dirt must be moved from one side of the road to the other, construction there will be somewhat different, he said.

Structures will be built first, and traffic detoured over the new section while the remainder is being done. Johnson also reported on the Corridor Study being conducted for U.S. 93 in Blaine County.

This data will be studied and a location hearing will be called before final determination is made, said Johnson. The first project, after the exact rout is established, will be to advance purchase of right-of-ways.

Money Box

By Frank Schell

From T.D., Twin Falls: I am interested in getting a set of all the Federal Reserve Bank $1 bills that have been issued since we quit using silver certificates. I have asked the banks, but they cannot get them for me.

Can you tell me what notes I would need, and how much money they would cost, for all that have been issued up to now?

Also, do you think this is a good investment for later years? I would appreciate an answer.

Answer: The Federal Reserve $1 notes were first issued as Series 1963. I assume the set you are interested in would be one note of each series, from each Federal Reserve District.

There are 12 Federal Reserve Districts, as follows: No. 1, (AC) Boston; No. 2 (B), New York; No. 3 (C) Philadelphia; No. 4 (D) Cleveland; No. 5 (E) Richmond; No. 6 (F) Atlanta; No. 7 (G) Chicago; No. 8 (H) St. Louis; No. 9 (I) Minneapolis; No. 10 (J) Kansas City; No. 11 (K) Dallas, and No. 12 (L) San Francisco.

The 1963 Series, with the signatures of Kathryn O'Hay Granahan and C. Douglas Dillon, were issued from all 12 districts, so the original face value would be $12.

The next series is the 1963A, with the signatures of Kathryn O'Hay Granahan and Henry H. Fowler. These were also issued from all 12 districts. The Series of 1963 B, also Kathryn O'Hay Granahan with Joseph W. Barr were issued from New York, Richmond, Chicago, Kansas City and San Francisco — not from the other districts.

Series 1969 notes, signatures of Dorothy Andrews Elston and David M. Kennedy, were again issued from all 12 districts. When Mrs. Elston remarried, the Series 1969 B notes were issued, under her married name, Dorothy Andres Kabis and also David M. Kennedy.

Again, all 12 districts are represented. When John B. Connally took David M. Kennedy's place, the Series 1969 B notes were issued together with Dorothy Andrews Kabis' signature. Recently Mrs. Kabis died, and President Nixon has just appointed Mrs. Banuelos in her place.

This will be another issue which has already started off the presses.

Thus, face value of the notes you need for a complete, up-to-date set of the $1 Federal Reserve notes would now amount to $65.

In sets, from dealers, the price is now approximately as follows:

Series 1963 — $19; Series 1963A — $19; Series 1963B — $10; Series 1969 — $19; Series 1969A — $19; Series 1969B — $18 — and the new series will probably bring about $1.50 apiece, from dealers.

These prices are approximate, as the sets fluctuate somewhat and sometimes can be bought a few dollars cheaper than this. Your investment would be about $100 to acquire these notes — all, crisp, new and uncirculated.

I cannot predict whether they will increase in value enough to make a good investment. So many are printed, and so many have been saved that it is questionable whether they will rise very fast in price.

The Series 1963, now nine years old, bring less than twice face value.

If you are seriously considering the purchase of these notes, drop this column a self-addressed envelope and we will mail you several ads from different dealers so that you can purchase them at a reasonable figure.

This column is still searching for merchants' tokens (hickeys) and trade checks from any of the western states. If you know of some, or have them, we would appreciate it if you would drop us a line.

(Questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, c-o The Times News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.)

Rupert chamber has talk on wills

RUPERT — William Goodman, local attorney, spoke to the Rupert Chamber of Commerce on "Wills and Estates" at a Thursday luncheon.

He said there are three kinds of wills — typewritten, handwritten and oral.

A typewritten will must be dated and have the signatures of the person making the will and two witnesses.

An autographic, or self or handwritten will must be dated and signed, but does not have to be witnessed.

Oral wills are given in the presence of witnesses who then appear in court and give testimony of the will.

Idaho law permits anyone 18 years and older to make a will if they are competent and of sound mind. A change in marital status automatically revokes a will, Goodman said.

He went on to tell the group there is no tax on community property in the state of Idaho. There is an exemption of $10,000 and a two per cent rate on any property above this tax rate on separate property. If the net value exceeds $120,000 there is a federal tax.

Goodman told the group many people are naming a bank to handle a trust fund as a means of reducing inheritance taxes.

He said the community property agreement will not be a law after July 1, but will be taken care of by the Uniform Probate Code.

Shirley Cox, program chairman, introduced Goodman.

Pete Ford, chamber president, announced a board meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday in the chamber office.

It also was announced that several chamber members plan to attend the centennial program for National Parks at Craters of the Moon National Monument where Gov. Cecil Andrus will speak.

Wait 5 minutes

JEROME — Jerome Police Chief Howard DuBois asked residents today to wait five minutes before calling to find out the location of a fire.

DuBois said it would help the police department in notifying emergency units if the residents of Jerome will wait at least five minutes after the fire siren stops.

He said the police department's switchboard is flooded with calls from curious residents when the fire siren blows and because of this the department is unable to make outgoing calls to alert emergency units.

Nurse Corps head Navy's newest admiral

ALINE DUERK
. . . flag rank

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Thursday nominated Alene Bertha Duerk, a Navy nurse who once treated wounded sailors in the battle for Eniwetok in World War II, to be the first woman admiral in U.S. history and the highest ranking woman in the armed forces.

Miss Duerk, 52, now one of 47 woman captains and head of the Navy Nurse Corps, was visiting her mother in Holgate, Ohio, when the Pentagon made the announcement. She was one of 50 captains nominated for promotion.

If confirmed by the Senate, Mrs. Duerk will automatically outrank six women who previously had made general's rank in the Army and Air Force, starting in June, 1970.

As rear admiral, she will wear two stars, putting her ahead of the two women brigadier generals in the Air Force and four in the Army, two of whom are retired.

Only last year, the Navy got its first black admiral, Samuel L. Gravely Jr. of Richmond, Va., 21 years after the Army broke the color barrier by promoting its first black to general. The Army now has four black generals and the Air Force has two.

Miss Duerk, born in Defiance, Ohio, joined the Navy as an ensign in 1943, two years after her graduation from the Toledo Hospital School of Nursing.

In 1945, she was stationed aboard a hospital ship off Eniwetok atoll in the Marshall Islands which received the sick and wounded from U.S. 3rd Fleet operations in the Pacific against Japan. After Japan's surrender, her ship helped process liberated American prisoners of war.

"It is clear to me . . . women of America are every bit as concerned about the safety and security of our country as are the men.

Miss Duerk left active duty after the war but returned for the Korean conflict. She became a captain in 1967 and chief of Navy nurses three years later.

Her nomination is in line with Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird's policy of attracting more women into uniform as part of the drive toward an all-volunteer armed force.

"It is clear to me that the women of America are every bit as concerned about the safety and security of our country as are the men," Laird said in a recent speech. "As we move toward zero draft and an all-volunteer force, we will need a greater percentage of women in uniform and we want a greater percentage of women in uniform."

Solons study intrusion

BOISE (UPI) — The legislative Budget and Fiscal Committee said Friday it wants to talk to acting budget director D.E. "Skip" Chilberg about what some lawmakers consider an executive intrusion into the legislative branch.

James Defenbach, legislative auditor, told the committee Gov. Cecil D. Andrus ordered department heads at a meeting earlier this week to route all legislative requests for fiscal information through the budget office.

Both Defenbach and legislative fiscal officer John Andreason indicated the move appeared to be an attempt to coordinate information, assure its accuracy, drop the workload required of state agencies and allow some central control.

Rep. Jenkin Palmer, R-Malad, co-chairman of the committee, said the request appeared to "take away any recourse of the agency — other than going through the executive branch.

"Next time (the legislature meets) we'll have only the information the governor wants to give us."

Mexicans run into Marines

CHULA VISTA (UPI) — Twenty Mexican nationals will return home convinced the United States doesn't like people sneaking into the country illegally.

The group was ambushed by a detachment of United States Marines who were involved in a night training exercise late Wednesday.

The Marines, from the 1st battalion, 7th marines, were participating in the exercise on the Camp Pendleton Red Beach training site when they saw a group of figures sneaking through the darkness along the beach.

Thinking the group was part of the "enemy" force in the war game, the unit set up an ambush — and when the Mexicans walked into it, opened fire with blank ammunition.

A Spanish speaking sergeant suddenly realized the group being ambushed was not the enemy, but some frightened Mexican nationals looking for work in the United States.

HOWARD JOHNSON superintendent of Twin Falls Parks and Recreation, shows Gordon L. Crockett where $500 will be spent to improve Drury Park. The money was donated by the Twin Falls Board of Realtors and the Twin Falls Multiple Listing Service.

TF realtors donate for Drury Park

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls realtors want to make Drury Park in Twin Falls a better place for children to play.

The Twin Falls Board of Realtors and the Twin Falls Multiple Listing Service have donated $500 to the city for the purpose of improving the park.

According to Gordon L. Crockett, chairman of the "Make America Better" program, sponsored annually by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, the Twin Falls project was to make improvements on one of the city's parks most in need of improvement.

Park improvement committee members Crockett, Harley Mathers and Doug Vollmer inspected the parks and recreation facilities in Twin Falls to find the park in most need of improvement.

Crockett said the project was coordinated with Howard Johnson, superintendent of park and recreation for the city of Twin Falls, and the city commission.

Crockett is also chairman of the Twin Falls Parks and Recreation Committee. He said he hopes other service and fraternal organizations will undertake similar projects.

The $500 will be used to refurbish the rest rooms and equipment storage area in Drury Park.

The money will be spent for building materials and the labor for the improvements will be furnished by the city employes.

Crockett said the city of Twin Falls is not promoting the project. He said, however, while "it is the responsibility of the city to make necessary improvements whenever needed, with tight budgets and increased costs, appropriations for things such as these are usually the first ones to be cut when the budget becomes overextended."

Johnson said the improvements to the Drury Park facilities will be started this fall.

Kleindienst's nomination delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Democratic leadership put a "hold" Friday on Richard G. Kleindienst's nomination to be attorney general and one of his harshest critics promised a full airing of charges of improper political influence in the Justice Department.

The delay in Senate consideration of the disputed nomination was requested by one of the four Democratic members of the Senate Judiciary Committee who voted Thursday against Kleindienst's approval.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said the "hold" would be honored at least until Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield returns week after next from a visit to China with GOP Leader Hugh Scott, and decides when the nomination will be taken up on the Senate floor.

By Senate tradition, Byrd did not identify who made the "hold" request. But Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., one of the four dissenters, called a news conference to announce he intended to arrange a "full airing" of the committee's two-month investigation.

While disclaiming any idea of leading a filibuster against Kleindienst, Tunney said he would concentrate on the decision by John N. Mitchell's former deputy to clear Harry Steward, the U.S. attorney in San Diego who blocked a subpoena in a grand jury investigation of alleged illegal contributions to President Nixon's 1968 campaign.

It appeared to Kleindienst's friends and foes alike that Senate debate would last several weeks. But Byrd and Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., the Judiciary Committee chairman, said they were sure any filibuster attempt would fail.

Byrd himself, although he voted for Kleindienst in committee, reserved the right to change his mind once the full Senate is ready to act.

The committee originally voted unanimously on Feb. 24 to endorse Kleindienst as Mitchell's successor as attorney general. But, after two months of reopened hearings on the Justice Department's settlement of an antitrust case against International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., four members switched and voted against him.

They were Tunney and Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and Quentin Burdick, D-N.D. Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., abstained from voting.

Both Kennedy and Tunney have predicted a prolonged debate. But Byrd said Friday that "as of now," he did not believe Kleindienst's foes could prevent a two-thirds majority — or 66 members of the full Senate — from acting to halt a filibuster.

Beef prices edge up again

By BERNARD BREENER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cattle and wholesale beef prices began moving up again this month after a two-month slide, but a government expert says he sees no reason yet to prediet a renewal of increases in retail prices.

Retailers normally absorb small hikes in cattle and wholesale prices without changing price tags on supermarket counters, Agriculture Department Economist A. Donald Seaborg said in an interview.

Prices for carlot loads of 600-700 pound steer carcasses at Chicago, according to Agriculture Department records, reached a peak of 58.75 cents a pound on Feb. 11 and then fell steadily to 52.90 cents on April 8. That left the wholesale price about half a cent per pound below the price in effect when President Nixon imposed his wage-price freeze last August.

Since April 8, however, the wholesale price has moved up for two successive weeks — to 53.60 cents a pound on April 15 and 54.08 cents a pound on April 22. Figures for the week ending today will be available early next week.

Seaborg said if the advance, which accompanied an upturn for live cattle, stretches into four or five weeks it might produce an increase in retail prices.

"But I don't think this (two-week wholesale rise) alone is evidence that retail prices are going up. A wiggle like this in the price graph would not be enough," Seaborg said.

Other Agriculture Department reports indicate, meanwhile, that supermarket chains apparently widened their margins on beef last month while live cattle and wholesale prices were sliding.

Food industry spokesmen frequently attack the department margin reports as inaccurate. The most recent report, however, showed wholesale beef carcasses in March were down 3.6 cents a pound, or 4.4 per cent, from February, a drop which was greater than the March decline in live cattle prices.

As far as consumers were concerned, however, the impact of the wholesale drop was canceled by a simultaneous jump of 3.6 cents a pound, or 10.8 per cent, in the margin between wholesale and retail prices. As a result, average retail beef prices for March held steady at the February 1 level in spite of lower cattle and wholesale prices.

Some experts believed the retail average would have shown a slight decline if the published March average had included supermarket prices in the last week of the month. The survey on which the report is based, however, collected prices only through about March 25.)

The March jump in supermarket beef margins was the third straight monthly gain in that figure.

The margin had dropped from 28.7 cents a pound last November to 28.2 cents in December. But after that, it rose to 29 cents in January, 33.2 cents in February and 36.8 cents in March.

Meat packers have fared less well in recent months, according to the same Agriculture Department reports.

— In December, the "farm value" of 2.28 pounds of live choice cattle, the equivalent of 1 pound of beef in the supermarket counter, was 71.9 cents a pound and retail prices averaged $1.085 a pound. In March, the "farm value" was back down to 71.9 cents a pound but the retail price was $1.15 a pound.

Surplus milk removals decline in market year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government "removals" of surplus milk under the Agriculture Department's support program and related operations declined in the 1971-72 marketing year even though actual surplus production rose, officials announced in a report today.

The drop in surplus acquisitions listed for the 1971-72 season which ended March 31 came because of the unusual timing of government butter purchases last spring, officials said.

Previous reports had shown a sharp increase in surplus removals and government spending in calendar year 1971 on the heels of a controversial increase ordered in federal dairy support rates in March, 1971.

Previous reports had shown a sharp increase in surplus removals and government spending in calendar year 1071 on the heels of a controversial increase ordered in federal dairy support rates in March, 1971.

Officials had first refused to raise the $4.66 per hundredweight support price, then boosted it after pressure from dairy groups.

Today's report was on a marketing year basis for the 12 months ending March 31, 1972. It showed removals of 6.6 billion pounds during the year at a cost of $387 million compared with removals of 7.2 billion pounds for $379 million in the 1970-71 marketing year.

A department specialist said that in early March, 1971, butter processors—knowing the support price for the spread was about to be lowered in comparison to prices of cheese and nonfat skim milk—sold large amounts to the government before the March 31 marketing year deadline.

In effect, the specialist said, the government thus took over in the dying days of the 1970-71 marketing year a great deal of surplus product it would normally have taken a few months later in the 1971-72 marketing season.

The report also said heavy donations of government surplus dairy stocks and export sales of butter reduced the value of the government stockpile on March 31 to $61 million, more than 50 per cent below a year ago.

It's time to change to CLEAN
ELECTRIC HEAT

Many ways to change to clean electric heat—

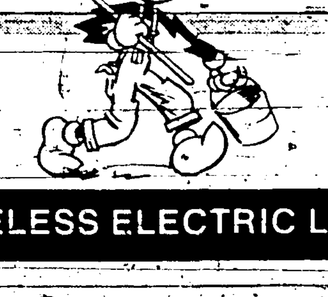
- Electric furnace
- Heat pump
- Radiant ceiling cable
- Electric baseboards
- Hot water baseboards
- Electric boiler
- Wall-mounted heaters

You can get expert assistance in selecting the best type for your home and budget by calling your local Idaho Power office.



Sunshine clean, sunshine comfort — yours with flameless electric heat. At the same time Reddy wipes out a host of spring cleaning chores. Because electric heat has no flame, there's no soot, smoke smudge, no products of combustion. So there's less cleaning, painting and redecorating required.

Electric heat helps keep your home clean, and because it needs no chimney, it helps keep the outdoors clean. Clean electricity takes nothing from the air, adds nothing to the air. Join Reddy's clean-up campaign for a nicer environment.

FLAMELESS ELECTRIC LIVING FOR A NEATER, CLEANER WORLD

Green thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

Those small white worms you see in the husk of walnuts are called the walnut husk fly.

They do not penetrate the nut itself, but they aren't pleasant to look at. One reader writes: "We husk our walnuts as soon as possible, and then wash them at an outside faucet. You then drain them for a short time and place them in an oven of a gas stove. Heat from the pilot light is enough to dry them. Place the nuts on cookie sheets or in a big roast pan. Stir often.

"After a while shell them out, keep the nice halves for decorating cakes or cookies. Roll the rest with a rolling pin and then place in a jar. Refrigerate till used up. I do think that by drying them in the oven, they do not get wormy."

For those who want to spray, commence at the beginning of the July when the flies are generally present. Use Sevin or Gardona, and repeat every two weeks while the flies are present. The control measures are essentially the same as those for apple maggot, another species of Ragoletis.

Incidentally, if you're interested in nut culture, you should join The Northern Nut Growers Association or purchase a copy of the "Handbook of North American Nut Trees.

CRAB CACTUS AGAIN: Our recent note about the Christmas or crab cactus made a lot of readers crabby. It's understandable because there was a misprint in the piece. The crab cactus does not need full sun from May to September. We blame this error on the printer's devil and the Green Thumb gets a rap across the knuckles.

FRUIT TREE POLLINATION: A reader purchased a fine sweet cherry called Schmidt's Bigarreau, an ebony oxheart delicious to eat fresh, frozen or canned.

A nurseryman told him it wasn't necessary to plant a second tree for pollination. Do sweet cherries need a "rooster" tree for fruit set? Yes, sweet cherries are self-unfruitful, meaning they need another variety nearby.

Where Napoleon and Emperor Francis are to be planted together, another variety such as Windsor or Black Tartarian, must be added, as the first two will not pollinate each other. Any sweet cherry can be interplanted with the flavorsome Schmidt's Bigarreau.

Do you need a rooster tree for sour cherry trees? No, sour varieties are self-fruitful. Will a sour cherry tree pollinate a sweet cherry, and vice-versa?

They would if they blossomed at the same time, but since they don't, the sweet or sour will not cross-pollinate.

JEWEL-OR SNAP WEED: A surveyor writes: "I agree with you about Jewel weed or Snapweed, as an antidote for poison ivy. I've used it after cutting ivy or working in it as a surveyor a few years back in Ohio. We used to get welts across the backs of our necks where the plumb bob string was hung, after the string had been dragging in the weeds.

"Applications of fresh jewelweed juice completely neutralized the ivy sap. The basic ingredient of the juice of Jewelweed has been studied by several pharmaceutical firms but it decomposes so rapidly it is not commercially marketable.

"It's completely odorless and non-sticky. One application as a preventative lasts about eight hours, or until it's diluted with sweat. It relieves itching and redness after exposure to the ivy oils.

"Another use of the weed's juice is that of repelling mosquitoes, horsefly no-see-ums" and other insects. As the snapweed grows in wetlands, its availability when mosquitoes abound is very handy. The history of its use was well documented by the American Indians, especially those of the five nations. It and other Indian remedies are written up in Wildwood Wisdom available in most libraries."

Thanks for your good information!

LET'S KEEP IT CLEAN — American industries withdraw more than 17 gallons of water per year from ground and surface sources. Less than one third is treated to remove pollutants before discharge into public waters. The boys on the moon saw the earth and it was the size of your thumb nail. We're a small planet and may be the only one fit for human life. Let's keep what we've got clean.

HOME RAISED GERANIUMS: A reader writes: "For the past several years I've been saving my geraniums. I get paper boxes from the supermarket and place about two inches of peatmoss on the bottom of the box. I lift the geraniums out of the ground with about as much soil as would be in a four inch flower pot, and then the box is filled with the geraniums. I put peatmoss in between plants.

"They are kept in the cellar in a not too-well-lighted spot, and watered about once every two or three weeks. During the first week in spring I repot them and prune back to three or four inches.

"They are now kept in an easterly window until it's safe to keep them in a cold frame. By June 15 I have a beautiful display of hardy geraniums much better than I purchase for my planter in front of the house. I buy a few for blooms needed by Decoration Day."

Good way to grow geraniums and save yourself some money.

QUESTION BOX

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: E. D. of Twin Falls: "Is it true that you should pound the stem of cut flowers before you arrange them in a vase of water?"

For years, florists have followed the ritual of pounding the lower two or three inches of stems, especially chrysanthemums. There's a valid reason for doing this — hard stemmed varieties don't take up enough water to maintain "crispness."

Here's why: The water-conducting pipes in the bottom one to two inches of the stem plug up, a natural process that occurs after flowers are cut from a plant. When you pound the stem above the bottom inch or two, water enters here, and flower "turgidity", (crispness) is maintained. The crushed lower two or three inches are only serving the purpose of elongating the stem.

Home owners who want more mileage from their cut flowers know that if you cut the stem end every day or so, the flowers last longer, mainly because water can get up the stem. The latest wrinkle is to use a preservative so that the water-conducting tissues will remain "unplug." Many flowers are finding that it's simpler to use preservatives in the water to keep the pipes open, than it is to pound the stem.

With a preservative florists put in your box of cut flowers, the blooms will continue to develop, so it's a good idea to use that little packet you see in the box.

You can buy cut flower preservatives, or make your own. Use four teaspoons of cane sugar, two tablespoons of white distilled vinegar mixed with one quart of water (100 degrees F). Vinegar makes the water acid and prevents spoilage due to fungi and bacteria. Sugar serves as food, but cannot be used alone.

C H of Castleford: "Our soil seems to lack earthworms. Does this mean something is lacking, or aren't earthworms that important?" Would it pay to buy earthworms and bring them into our garden?"

Usually, earthworms are present in nearly all soils. If the soil is too dry or full of some alkaline or acid material they're apt to be scarce. You can buy earthworms but I doubt if it pays. Build your soil up with extra humus and the worms will come to your soil.

Some call the earthworm "nature's plowman" because it turns soil over and over, bringing up subsoil. It eats the soil to get tiny bits of leaves and other pieces of organic material. They enrich the earth by passing more than 10 tons of dry earth through their bodies annually in one acre alone.

They help water and air get down into the subsoil, and can bury two inches or more of decayed material every decade.

Next time you see a robin tugging on an earthworm, don't feel badly if it gets only half of the worm. The part that refused to come out of the ground usually regenerates a new head. Did you know that moles are fond of earthworms?

Student work, pay rules told

PORTLAND, Ore. — The U.S. Labor Department's Wage-Hour Division has reminded employers of Fair Labor Standards Act regulations regarding summertime employment of students.

Donald W. Henry, the division's area director for Oregon and Idaho, said there are no restrictions on types of employment that may be offered those 18 years of age and over at the federal minimum wage of $1.60 an hour.

He said employers in retail and service industries and in agriculture are authorized to pay fulltime students — those who attend an accredited school and who work only during hours they are not attending classes or during school vacations — at 85 per cent of the applicable minimum wage — $1.60 in non-farm work and $1.30 an hour in agriculture.

While the Fair Labor Standards Act imposes no requirement regarding employment or age certificates (work permits), Henry recommended they be obtained in proof of age and suggested that employers check on state laws in this regard.

The Fair Labor Standards Act does restrict employment of those under 16 to work between the hours of 7 a.m. and 9 p.m. from June 1 to Labor Day. It provides that they may work no more than eight hours a day not more than 40 hours in a workweek, but the restrictions do not apply to farm work outside school hours; nor to newspaper delivery to consumers; caddying; performing in theatrical, motion picture or broadcast productions; not to those working for their parents in non-manufacturing.

Most hazardous occupations are not open to those under 18, and farm workers must be 16 or over to work in dangerous jobs such as operating certain tractors and farm machinery, handling dangerous agricultural chemicals, working in enclosed areas with certain types of breeding animals or in places deficient in oxygen or containing toxic atmosphere, such as some storage areas and manure pits.

However, the age limit for engaging in certain hazardous agriculture occupations is lowered to 14 for youths who have taken 4-H Club or vocational agricultural training on tractors and certain farm machinery.

Additional and more specific information about federal child labor regulations may be obtained from Wage and Hour Division offices located at Boise.

Mandatory seat belt law asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., proposed legislation Friday to continue to make seat belts mandatory in automobiles, even those equipped with air bags.

At a news conference, Cook called "unjust and inexcusable" a federal regulation, effective with 1976 models, requiring the bags instead of seat belts. He said few people realize that the regulation strikes completely the requirement for seat belts in new cars.

Cook cited last week's experimental test of the air bags at Phoenix, Ariz., as proof the belts are needed.

"I watched in horror as the dummies were thrown into the windshield," Cook said. "Seat belts obviously would have prevented such an occurrence, despite failure of the air bags.

"As it was, had those dummies been real people, one or more would have been killed," he said.

Cook's amendment would continue mandatory requirements for the belts "until such time as actual experience with the air bags indicates that seat belts provide no measurable safety benefit."

Valley school sets Thursday program

Musical numbers will include religious songs and instrumental numbers, spirituals, blues, "Chicago" rock, music from Norway, Italy and the Caribbean and selections from two Broadway musicals, "Flower Drum Son" and "Man of La Mancha."

The program begins at 8 p.m. in the Valley school. Donations to the music fund will be accepted.

Silver

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman Friday quoted silver at 158.4 cents per fine ounce up 0.7 cents.

Jerome theft

JEROME — About $300 in cash was taken from the Ida-Cal Freight Lines building south of Jerome early Saturday.

Sheriff Pat Burns said the building was entered by breaking a glass from a door on the west side of the structure sometime between 1 and 5 a.m. A driver who left the building at 1 a.m. said everything was intact when he was there but another driver who pulled in at 5 a.m. discovered the entry.

Sheriff Burns said the burglars entered the coffee room and then went to the main office area where the cash box was discovered and removed.

Filer holds exercises

CLOVER — Closing kindergarten exercises were held Friday evening in the Clover Lutheran School with eight students receiving diplomas.

William Rupprecht, principal of the Clover school, welcomed the guests who attended the exercises. Rev. T. D. Johnston, pastor of the Clover Lutheran Church, gave a short address, and David Lutz, chairman of the board of education, presented the diplomas.

The graduation culminated the seven months sessions of the church-sponsored kindergarten. Mrs. Orville Graesch was teacher for the class.

A social hour which followed the exercises was under the direction of Mrs. Ray Eggleston and Mrs. Herbert Roesler.

Mining rules hearing May 12

BOISE (UPI) — Tentative approval of rules and regulations for surface mining in Idaho will be considered by the State Land Board at a special meeting in Boise May 12.

Land Commissioner Gordon Trombley said if the board gives the new rules tentative approval public hearings can be held to prepare them for final approval.

Besides consideration of the rules and regulations, Trombley said, the board may meet with a grazing association and other groups which want an audience with it.

Drugs said GNP boost

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. said Thursday that the gross national product would increase by $50 billion if it included the market value of goods and services such as heroin, marijuana and illegal gambling.

It is becoming increasingly difficult for anyone to ignore the fact that crime is imposing heavy costs on U.S. society," the bank said in its monthly survey.

However, it said state lotteries, legal off-track betting and the Nixon's administration's declared fight on drug traffic were having their effect.

Sugar firm gains loan

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Utah-Idaho Sugar Company has taken on a $10 million long term loan for expansion of its factory in the Columbia Basin of Washington, and for continued development of irrigated farm acreage.

The company's board of directors approved the loan Wednesday. It was negotiated with the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, with which the sugar firm already has a $6-7 million long term debt.

When completed, the expansion of the Columbia Basin sugar factory, near Moses Lake, will be the largest sugar refinery in the United States.

Mind Your Money

BY PETER WEAVER

More and more communities are cracking down on "noise pollution," and air conditioners are one of the prime targets.

Some cities require special permits to install an air conditioner so it won't bend neighbors' ears. But most only react to complaints. If your machine bothers a neighbor, officials measure the sound at your boundary lines If the reading is too high, you've got to cut the noise.

With window units there are several steps you can take to cut noise — inside and outside. The Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers says it's important to buy the right size unit. Technicians claim most customers buy units that are too big. They're noisy and they don't get rid of humidity as well as a smaller unit with the correct cooling power.

To pick the right machine, you need a special form to help calculate the necessary cooling power (measured in BTUs per hour). You need the measurements of windows, walls, floors and doorways. You also have to account for insulation (or lack of it), whether you have double or storm windows, how many people live in the dwelling and what kind of shade you have.

To do the job right, you need AHAM's "Cooling Load Estimate Form." You can get this form plus a booklet, "How to Choose a Room Air Conditioner," by sending a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to: AHAM; 20 North Wacker Drive; Chicago, Ill. 60606.

According to Chet Wheeler, an air conditioning consultant, your air conditioner should have a fan that runs on the lowest rpm (revolutions per minute) while moving the greatest amount of air. The unit should use the lowest watt (electricity) input to get the required cooling. Your dealer should have AHAM's air conditioner directory which gives all these figures.

If you already own a window unit, Wheeler suggests cutting noise by gluing "sound-absorber" insultation, ½ inch thick, inside the covering case. You can get insulation from an air conditioning supply house or, better yet, have a repairman who specializes in window units do the job. The Yellow Pages have the names.

The repairman should also clean and oil your machine, check the fan blade for nicks and dents and tighten loose screws. This can cut noise considerably.

For those who need central air condtioning, the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute (ARI) has a directory which lists most major manufacturers and rates their units for noise. You can pick the correct cooling power with the lowest possible noise rating.

For example, the directory (which contractors should have) reveals that American Standard has three machines rated at 17 (the lowest). Heil-Quaker has two listed at 17, Whirlpool has two and Bryant has one. Carrier, General Electric, York and Sears have machines rated as low as 18.

All the companies have other machines rated higher. For some cooling loads it may be necessary to get machines rated above the lowest numbers.

If so, you can also control the noise level by locating your outside unit in a strategic spot. The further from the neighbor's windows or your patio the better. If you can arrange it, ARI says the best place for the outside unit is in the front of your house — hidden by bushes.

You can get a good noise-control booklet, "Predicting and Controlling Sound Levels of Outdoor Air Conditioners," by sending a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to: ARI — 7th floor; 1815 N. Fort Myer Dr.; Wrlington, Va. 22209.

Senate kills Nixon's welfare plan, adopts proposal of Chairman Long

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee voted Friday to kill President Nixon's welfare reform program and adopted a plan which would require 1.2 million welfare recipients to take jobs or lose all federal benefits.

After two years of consideration of Nixon's bill, the committee, by a 10-4 vote, adopted a plan drafted by its chairman, Sen. Russell B. Long, D-Lous. Long's measure would offer low-wage jobs to welfare mothers unable to find work in the private economy.

If they spurned such jobs, they would be ineligible for federal welfare assistance, but states could choose to help them.

Work would only be required of welfare parents whose children are over age 6. These constitute 1.2 million of the 3 million families now receiving welfare payments under the aid for dependent children program.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., assailed Long's plan as "slavefare, not workfare." He said it was "barbaric" because it would force those people to work at $1.62 an hour, depressing wages throughout the economy.

Ribicoff's own proposal, a liberalized version of Nixon's family assistance plan, was rejected by a 10-3 committee vote. It would have guaranteed every welfare family of four an income of $3,000 a year.

Red offensive still going strong

SAIGON (UPI)—The Communist offensive in South Vietnam will be a month old Saturday, and it shows no sign of running out of steam.

Despite optimistic statements issued recently by American and South Vietnamese generals and politicians, the news from the battlefronts has been almost uniformly bad.

Perhaps worse, the Communists seem to be making serious dents in the carefully nurtured "pacification" programs designed to win back for the Saigon government the loyalty of its own people.

The one great curiosity of the conflict so far is that Saigon itself has not yet been hit. If the Communists are really bent on winning a military victory in South Vietnam, of course, they must strike the capital sooner or later.

There have been one or two bright spots on the battlefield. South Korean troops earlier this week reopened the An Khe pass along Highway 19, the only supply road into the Central Highlands, and today for the first time since the first week of the offensive, a convoy moved up it.

So starved for essential supplies had the highlands capitals of Pleiku and Kontum become that the United States had to resort to flying fuel to them in C130 "bladder bird" transports.

Earlier, the South Vietnamese won a major tank battle west of Quang Tri, and both Vietnamese and American generals hailed it as a major victory that had stopped the Communists' northern offensive.

But this Thursday, North Vietnamese tanks rumbled across a railroad bridge at Dong Ha. The bridge had been left standing by the allies and the tanks proceeded south to participate in the encirclement of Quang Tri city.

In the past 24 hours the Communists have overrun the Cua Viet River line, where their northern offensive was said to have been stalled 10 miles south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), and pushed another five miles to the south, giving them control of most of Quang Tri Province.

South of Quang Tri the government has been confined mainly to the coastal plains—the eastern one-fourth of Thua Thien, Quang Nam, Quang Tin and Quang Ngai provinces.

The guerrillas attacked west of Hue and overran the westernmost government base on the road to the A Shau Valley, but they were beaten off closer to the old imperial capital, and are still well out of artillery range from it.

They have shelled the big U.S. Air Force and army airfields in Da Nang, headquarters for the northern region, but so far have done relatively little damage. South of Da Nang in the Que Son Valley, theyhave occupied two bases and are fighting for control of a district town.

The box kite was invented by Australian Lawrence Hargrave in the 1890s, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Castleford woman wins Gem TOPS competition

MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Martha Sullivan, Castleford, was crowned queen of the Idaho State TOPS clubs Saturday at the College of Southern Idaho.

The new queen, who has now reached her desired weight after a 90-pound loss, was presented a bouquet of long-stemmed roses from Nada Black, Blackfoot, last year's state queen.

The new queen wore her royal-blue velvet cape and sequined crown during the afternoon events which climaxed the two-day state TOPS convention.

Dr. Benjamin F. Briggs, Twin Falls physician, was guest speaker for the afternoon sessions. Using the theme "Feedback," he noted that obesity is only one of many imbalances, and these imbalances may be used on successfully to try to avoid painful or too intense situations in life.

One reason for the frequency of the obesity problem in women, the doctor noted, is that they are constantly exposed to food while preparing it for their families.

It is an occupational disease and if they succumb to the temptation to overeat, it is not necessarily because they have less character, he added.

Much eating is in response to conflicts, frustration and boredom, and these are frequent problems in modern life and are part of the rapidly changing roles and customs in our society, Dr. Briggs said.

Mrs. Beverly Burns, Twin Falls, convention co-chairman, served as mistress of ceremonies Saturday. Mrs. John Pastoor, Twin Falls, gave the invocation at the noon luncheon which was attended by more than 700 TOPS and KOPS members throughout the state.

Table decorations featured musical notes and queen's crowns in red, black and white and had been made by Marjorie Lake, Twin Falls. A 45-calorie luncheon served consisted of tossed salad with tomato juice dressing, turkey steak, green beans, cranberry sauce, fresh fruits and black coffee.

A "baggy dress parade" was presented for afternoon's entertainment and narrated by Barbara Hailey.

Area captains had attended a workshop and dinner meeting on Thursday and Friday's activities got underway with a breakfast and workshop. Gus Kelker presented the icebreaker speech at Friday's luncheon.

Mrs. Kramer was toastmistress for the KOPS banquet Friday evening and Mrs. Burns directed the graduation exercises. Five-year pendants were awarded Darlene Gaerte, Nampa; Mildren Nichols, Nampa, and Sharon Crosman, Hansen. The three had maintained the same weight for five years.

Mrs. Joyce Harding, Filer, was in charge of music for the convention. Dr. James L. Taylor of the College of Southern Idaho gave the welcoming speech on Friday. Mrs. Doloris Simms, Pocatello, state supervisor, also spoke.

1,500 help MV cleanup

BY A. LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer

More than 1,500 youngsters and their adult advisers faced strong winds and wintry temperatures Saturday in Twin Falls and Cassia Counties during "Johnny Horizon Day."

The one-day cleanup of county roads dawned bleak and cold, with winds of 30 miles an hour and more threatening to wipe out the event.

However, the youngsters, aided by Scout leaders, National Guardsmen, pickup truck drivers and trash-haulers' trucks, showed up on schedule in Twin Falls, Burley, Oakley, Declo and Murtaugh.

Only the cleanup crews at Hollister turned toes up to the wind Saturday, postponing the campaign a week until next Saturday.

In Twin Falls, county commission chairman William L. (Bill) Chancey said an estimated 800 to 1,000 people participated throughout the county.

Burley, about 750 turned out, according to a tally of the refreshments served by Price's Cafe throughout Cassia County. The figure of 750 volunteers actually topped the turnout last year, according to officials.

Trucks for collecting the trash were donated by a large number of Cassia County merchants, including auto dealers, the Bureau of Land Management and Teal's Trash Service, which provided two trash-collection trucks.

In Twin Falls County, Commissioners Merle Leonard and Heber Loughmiller, along with Chancey, commended the many volunteers, saying "They are due a big bouquet for their outstanding show of good citizenship."

More volunteers and equipment turned out than ever before, according to Twin Falls City Manager Jean Milar.

Robert Day, coordinator for Twin Falls County, said enough volunteers and equipment was provided to cover 12 districts in the Twin Falls area alone. In the city, city trucks under the direction of Milar, collected a large quantity of trash and carried it to the city landfill.

Area collectors brought their trash to the city hall, where larger trucks collected it — a bizarre variety, including huge timbers, abandoned appliances; construction debris and other clutter.

In Burley, Robert Brock, Bureau of Land Management, voiced appreciation for the many volunteers who braved the bad weather. A number of groups turned out, including the Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, 4-H clubs and others, Brock said. National Guard and Army Reserve equipment and troops helped to clean up the Hub Butte area south of town.

In Murtaugh, more than 200 volunteers were served lunch.

Shoshone puts in new lights

SHOSHONE — The Stoud company, Burley, has the contract for installing 15 new light standards along South Rail Street and South Apple Street.

The new lights will provide more lighting for the street than those removed during the recent road excavation work. At the present time there are no street lights along the area.

Mayor Ellwood R. Werry said electric plugs will be installed for lighting of Christmas decorations.

Excess rock blasted out along the storm sewer in the center of the street, by Miller Construction Co., Twin Falls, has been hauled into the low area near the city park and will be leveled with dirt to provide more parking space for park visitors.

The storm sewer system will carry off excess water and empty into the old excavation water from the street to the west edge of the park. It will seep through sides of the hole into Little Wood River. Passageway under the railroad tracks has already been constructed.

Holmes Construction Co. has the contract with the Idaho Highway Department for the road work on the 4.5 mile section of State 26 just outside the west edge of the city through Shoshone to U. S. Highway 93. Miller Construction Co. is under subcontract to Holmes for the storm sewer work.

No inquest set in Rupert death

RUPERT — No inquest or autopsy will be required in the death of a 17-year-old Rupert girl who died at her home Saturday morning, according to Minidoka County Coroner Robert Walk.

Walk said the girl, Debra Foster, a senior class student at Minico High School, apparently suffered a seizure and drowned in the bathtub. She was found by a family member.

The girl was subject to seizures, Walk said.

Cleanup postponed

RICHFIELD — High winds have caused postponement of the final cleaning up activity at the close of Richfield's cleanup week.

Officials said early Saturday that the pick up scheduled for Saturday by the Little League, Boy Scouts and school ecology club, will be rescheduled.

Winds were so high Saturday officials were fearful trash would be spread. Groups and volunteers will be notified when another date is set

High winds cause damage at Jerome

JEROME — High winds Friday damaged a patio and hay stacker at the Howard Harrell farm five miles north and a half mile east of Jerome.

Harrell said today the high winds uprooted a large tree which fell across his fiberglass patio cover about 6:30 p.m. splitting it in half, and also striking the house.

Harrell and his family spent Friday evening chopping up the tree and removing it before it did further damage to the roof of the house.

When they were moving the tree to a back pasture, they found that a conveyor-belt type hay stacker has also been blown over with heavy damage.

No other major wind damage was reported in the Jerome area.

'Two-horse' town

SHOSHONE — The City of Shoshone is no longer a "one-horse town."

There are at least two horses in town.

Red Olsen, Idaho Falls, a construction worker, and sanitation engineer Lorenzo Bollar of Shoshone brought their "critters" to town for an impromptu horse race on South Rail Street Thursday evening.

The street is under construction, with all paving and sidewalks removed. The dusty "track" proved tempting, so the race was staged.

Nothing was proved, however. The horses came in on a dead heat.

TF telephones out

TWIN FALLS — Mountain Bell repair crews were busy Saturday afternoon restoring telephone service to a three to four mile area south of Twin Falls.

A large truck and boom wiped out a telephone line and pole as it turned a corner from Washington Street to Park Avenue in the south end of town.

The outage covered an area two to three miles south of the city limits.

College concert planned today

TWIN FALLS — The annual College of Southern Idaho Spring Vocal Concert will be this afternoon at 3 p.m. in the Fine Arts Auditorium.

Groups performing will be the Concert Choir, the Madrigal Singers, the Girls' Madrigal Chorus and soloists Becky Shebley, Delsa Allen and Linda Talley.

Choir director is Eugene Mildon. Admission is free and the public is invited.

Bellevue plants trees

BELLEVUE — Arbor Day was celebrated Friday at the Bellevue Grade School with the planting of about one dozen trees and shrubs.

Trees for the project, which was sponsored by the Hailey-Bellevue PTA, were donated by local residents or were purchased with funds raised by the students.

According to project chairman Teresa Bergin, planting sites were designated by Blaine County Extension Service agent James Eakin after he made a study of the students' play and traffic patterns.

The majority of the plants were placed in the northeast corner of the school grounds, which Mrs. Bergin said will become an "ecological area" to provide spring color. Silver maple trees were planted along the east side of the grounds.

Future plans include a row of trees along the southwest corner, Mrs. Bergin said.

Bellevue classes, which provided trees, included the following, Mrs. Mary Allred's third graders, green ash; Mrs. Hazel Stephen's second graders, flowering crab, and Mrs. Louise Cloughton and Brian Clark's fifth graders, scotch pine and cotoneaster.

Private donations were received from the following residents, Mr. and Mrs. Rupert House, silver maples; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bickett, three blue spruce; Barbara Kriley, lilac bushes; Texie Brown, syringa, and Mrs. Bergin, honeysuckle.

Hazelton funded for park project

HAZELTON — The city of Hazelton has received reimbursement of $1,016 for work thus far completed on the Hazelton City Park.

Merle Allison, Filer, member of the board of directors of the Idaho State Parks and Recreation Department, said the amount represents 50 per cent reimbursement from the Land and Water Conservation Fund which provides matching funds for the acquisition or development of outdoor recreational facilities.

Work already completed includes site improvement and partial completion of the tennis court and lighting. The project will also have a picnic area and a tot lot.

The fund is administered by the Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation and the federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

Recital at Springdale

SPRINGDALE — Mrs. Edna Wardle and Mrs. Joy Hurst presented their piano students in a recital Thursday at the Springdale chapel.

Thirty students performed.

Lincoln contest Monday

SHOSHONE — The American Legion sponsored spelling contest will be held at 7 p.m. Monday at the Lincoln School auditorium.

Students from Richfield, Dietrich and Shoshone will participate.

The annual contest was started eight years ago.

A point system will be used to determine winners and the school with most points will be declared winner and host the 1973 contest, Jack D. Bowlin, Shoshone elementary principal and commander of the legion post said.

Subs help Squires gain 3-2 edge over New York

HAMPTON, Va. (UPI)— Substitutes Ray Scott and Adrian Smith, a pair of former NBA players, combined for 42 points Saturday to spark the Virginia Squires to a 116-107 victory over the New York Nets in the fifth game of their ABA Eastern Division playoff series.

The win snapped a two-game losing streak for the Squires and gave them a 3-2 margin in the best of seven series.

The Nets had cut an eight point halftime deficit to 67-66 when the Squires caught fire midway through the third quarter. When the smoke cleared, Virginia led 102-84 and the issue was decided.

Smith, an ex-Cincinnati Royal, sparked the Squires' blitz by pouring in 12 points in the second half and finishing with 16 points.

Rookie Julius Erving, recovering from a sub-par first half, chipped in six during the streak and finished the game with 24 points and a game-high 32 rebounds.

Scott, who saw no action in the opening quarter, came off the bench in the second period to key the Squires' comeback after they had trailed 28-26 at the end of the first period. He popped in 14 points in the second quarter alone and was Virginia's high scorer for the game with 26 points.

Rick Barry, whose play enabled the Nets to tie the series at 2-2 earlier in the week, led New York with 34 points.

The Nets led by as much as eight points midway through the first quarter, mainly on the play of Bill Paultz and Barry, who combined for 21 points in the quarter.

But the Squires roared back in the second quarter to go up as much as 11 points, 57-46, before Barry's three-pointer at the buzzer made it 59-51.

Playmaking guard Roland "Fatty" Taylor chipped in 12 points for the Squires in the first half and had 10 points for the game.

Erving, Virginia's rookie sensation, was held in check the first half, scoring only 11 points.

Paultz was second high scorer for New York with 26 points. Bill Melchionni added 19 and John Roche 12 points respectively.

The series shifts back to New York for the sixth game Monday night.

SPORTS FROM ALL ANGLES

BY LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports editor

There are some things to see in Magic Valley track this week.

One of the best high jumpers in the country and one of the leading high school long jumpers will highlight what should prove another good round of spectating.

The high jumper is a girl, Lesli Hamilton, a Twin Falls senior who if she were a boy would be called a heckova athlete.

In her last three meets, Miss Hamilton cleared 5-4 in the high jump which didn't really excite us too much until the 1971 annual AAU report came through the mails Thursday.

The fact is, staying at 5-4, she would have been no worse than tied for first place in the national junior girls AAU meet last year and third in the national junior Olympics girls competition by three-fourths of an inch.

Further, she would have been right there in the senior women's AAU as fourth and fifth went at 5-6 — a Yugoslavian miss winning the ting at 6 feet, ½ inch.

Now that considers Lesli at her meet best and one must remember that the girls haven't had a good day for competing yet.

On the infrequent good-weather practice days, she has clearned 5-6 and a few days of good practice days followed by an ideal meet day could propel her considerably higher.

Hopefully, the weatherman will cooperate with her sometime in the next three weeks, and she will get a good shot at the national school girl record of 5-6¼. First chance comes Monday when the district meet, blown out Saturday, is scheduled for Gooding.

In addition to Miss Hamilton, this area also boasts Miss Bradford, a Twin Falls sophomore who has cleared 5-2, and Miss Reimers of Wood River, also in the 5-1 or 5-2 class. So, afterall, those seeing the girls compete are seeing things most people in the nation don't.

The other thing is the sudden awareness of Liggins of Pocatello, a senior, who has come out of no where to be the biggest thing ever in Idaho long jumping history.

He sailed 24-2 last week and came up with a 23-8 Friday. He'll be a feature at the Southern Idaho Conference championships at Bruin Stadium Friday evening — and the broadjump runway is directly in front of the bleachers.

CSK Coach Jerry Hale is faced with a problem that seems happy on one side but has its ramifications somewhat deeper. Among Tom Bush, Lew Schaffel and Neville Shed, Coach Hale has been given the inside track on great prospects ranging from 6-4 guards to all manner of 6-10 and 6-11 center-forwards.

The problem is twofold. First, CSI can't afford to give scholarships to more than a few this year and secondly, there's nothing but internal problems involved with sitting all-New York City players on the bench when all-Chicago men are starting.

It becomes a case of too many chiefs and not enough Indians.

The other problem is making the right choice — if things really are as rosy as Coach Hale is told. He has to decide who would best fit his needs, play best with the team and present no citizen risk, etc.

Make the wrong choice — or let the top choice get away late after the second pick has figured CSI doesn't want him and he's going elsewhere — and the "one that got away" could come back and haunt you, like at nationals.

On the Idaho scene, it appears that the Eagles may come out pretty well on a couple of prospects that four-year schools have been wooing. More on that later.

Dan Dressen, CSI center this year, has decided he'll return to Utah State where he spent his freshman year. Dan looked at a couple of other schools but decided Utah State was what he wanted.

FIRST BASEMAN Vic Wells of CSI turns to tag out a Treasure Valley runner after a throw from shortstop pulled him off the base. CSI won the first game 7-6 but lost the second 14-9 in a doubleheader slugfest.

Idaho wins all-state track meet

BOISE (UPI) — The University of Idaho Vandals, taking 10 first places and a total of 112 points, captured first place in the Idaho Collegiate track meet hosted by Boise State College.

The Boise State Broncos were a distant second with 51 points, followed by Ricks College; Northwest Nazarene College, 30; College of Idaho, 13; and the College of Southern Idaho, 13.

A total of five meet records were broken and one was tied during the day which saw the athletes workout in a chilly wind.

The Idaho Vandals were the defending champions of the meet capturing it last year by a one-half point margin over Boise state. The only dual winner of the afternoon was the college of Idaho's Bernie Hamilton who won the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash.

The College of Idaho and Northwest Nazarene captured two wins apeice, while the College of Southern Idaho had one.

The two Bronco winners were Rollie Woolsey in the 440, and Mike Bennett in the intermediate hurdles. Hamilton won two for the Coyotes, the 100 yard dash and the 220.

NNC's winners were Dick Huting and Jim Wolf in the triple jump.

CSI's winner was Clayton "Fuzz" Gunter, who cleared 6-4 in the high jump.

Daryl James, CSI sophomore, placed third in the 440-yard intermediate hurdles with a 58.6 time while the mile relay team placed fifth at 3:35.1 for College of Southern Idaho.

2 records fall in Penn relays

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — North Carolina Central shattered the sprint medley record with a 3:14.8 clocking Saturday and then closed out the 78th annual Penn Relays by splintering the classic mile mark with a 3:03.1 victory, the second fastest mile relay ever run in track history.

The mile record included a gremi anchor leg by Larry Black, the fastest mile relay leg on record.

In between, the Maroon and Gray speedsters from Durham, N.C., took the time to win the 880 yard relay in 1:21.8 for their third record breaking performance before 37,351 roaring spectators.

In sequence, the combination of Julius Sang, Black, Jeff Horsley and Robert Ouko turned in the fastest sprint medley ever run.

CSI splits twin bill with TVCC

College of Southern Idaho and Treasure Valley Community College continued their series of split doubleheaders Friday afternoon, the Golden Eagles winning the first game 7-6 and TVCC collecting the second 14-9.

CSI maintained its spell over the Chukars who have lost only four times in 30 outings and all four to the Eagles. But mainly it was a matter of booming bats Friday with Ben Plaza, hitting .600 for the last 15 CSI games, raising his seasonal mark to .468.

TVCC took a 2-0 lead in the first inning with CSI coming back to tie it on a walk and back-to-back doubles by Plaza and Vic Wells, now hitting .344. CSI took the lead in the second when Randy McCraw and Bob Leise singled and John Wilson delivered a triple.

But in the third, Treasure Valley came alive when a single, walk and error loaded the bases. Hall doubled in two runs and hits by Walker and Mako scored two more. The Eagles iced it in the third when Plaza and Wells opened with singles. After two were out, Mike McGraw and Ralph Bollinger sent in a run each with hits and Bob Leise beat out a surprise bunt for a hit while the winning run scored from second.

Both teams scored five runs in the first inning of the nightcap, McGraw singling in the first CSI run and Bollinger and Mike Touchette plating two each with hits.

Treasure Valley added four more in the second inning, highlighted by Lynn Sakata's solo homer. But CSI again rebounded into a tie, scoring four times in the fourth. After Wilson lived on an error, Wells drilled a double and both scored on Plaza's hit. Tony Reynolds beat out an infield hit and Bollinger and Touchette followed with one-run singles.

Treasure Valley took advantage of some errors, however, in the fifth to score five more runs in the fifth to ice it.

N.Y. seeks to bolster advantage

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)— Bidding for their second National Basketball Association title in three years, the surprising New York Knicks attempt to take a 2-0 lead against the Los Angeles Lakers Sunday in the teams' championship series.

Second-place finishers in the Atlantic Division during the regular season with the seventh best record in the NBA at 48-34, the Knicks have put it together in the playoffs.

New York disposed of Baltimore 4-2 and then upset Boston 4-1 for the right to play the record-breaking Lakers. The Knicks have won eight of their last nine playoff starts.

In Wednesday night's opening game, Dollar Bill Bradley fired in 29 points and Jerry Lucas added 26 on outside bombs while the New York defense restricted Jerry West to 12 points in a 114-92 victory.

Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 20 points but was held to one basket and a pair of free throws by reserve Dean Meminger after pouring in 16 in the opening quarter against Earl Monroe.

"We had a good night and they had a bad one," said Knicks' coach Red Holzman. "We've been playing well lately, which you have to do to beat a team like that."

LA ends Met's winning skein

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Willie Davis and Frank Robinson cracked back-to-back homers to spark a four-run first inning Saturday night and the Los Angeles Dodgers went on to snap the New York Mets' seven-game winning streak with an 11-1 victory.

Finley hits Kuhn's meddling

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)— Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland Athletics, Saturday night strongly criticized Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for getting involved in the contract dispute betwen Finley and star pitcher Vida Blue.

Finley responded to a report by a wire service (not upi) that Kuhn was ordering that Finley's latest contract offer remain in effect.

"I am chagrined, to say the least," Finley said, "that Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has ordered me to keep my offer open to Bida Blue. One would think the commissioner would at least extend me the courtesy and consideration of inquiring whether I would keep my offer open before ordering me to do so in the press."

Kuhn made his comment Saturday after he returned from a Friday meeting in Chicago during which Finley made a $63,000 total money offer to Blue. It appeared the contract was satisfactory to eveybody involved.

Wild pitch in 11th inning lets Cardinals nip Astros by 4-2

HOUSTON (UPI)—Pinch-runner Luis Melendez scored the winning run in the 11th inning on pitcher Ken Forsch's wild throw to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 4-2 victory over the Houston Astros Saturday night.

Melendez, running for Matty Alou, was on second base when Joe Hague laid down a sacrifice bunt. Farsch fielded it in time to force Melendez at third, but his throw sailed over the head of shortstop Roger Metzger in to the left field corner and Melendez scored.

Reds rally in ninth by Cubs

CHICAGO (UPI)—Tony Perez raced home from third base while Glenn Beckert was throwing out Dave Concepcion Saturday, capping a two-run ninth-inning rally and giving Cincinnati a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Perez scored the winning run when Beckert fielded Concepcion's grounder and apparently took his eye off the runner at third.

S.F., Torrez edge Expos

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Righthander Mike Torrez, making his first start of the season, stopped the San Francisco Giants with a five-hitter to give the Montreal Expos a 2-1 victory Saturday.

Torrez, obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals last year, gave up all singles. The Giants, who have now lost seven of their last eight games, scored their only run in the third inning on a single by rookie Chris Arnold, a sacrifice by losing pitcher Steve Stone and a single by Chris Speier.

And the duel goes on

TRADING WINS, Kip Dennis of Wendell, recording a personal best of 14.7, gets the edge on Wood River's Kim Croft over the first high hurdle en route to a victory during the Big Six meet Friday. Crofts returned the loss in the 220-yard dash with an individual best of 22.9.

TF cops east division; Blake, Woodson sparkle

POCATELLO — The Twin Falls Bruin Team ran off with the Eastern division SIC track title Friday.

More importantly it qualified four relay teams and 21 individuals for next week's conference championships.

The Bruins, who will host the league meet at 3:30 p.m. Friday, piled up 88 points while Highland had 50, Pocatello 43, Skyline 36, Minico 30 and Idaho Falls 25.

Twin Falls took 21 of the 78 individual spots available and won three of the four relays but Pocatello continued to show great quality — little quantity — including the all-time best long jumper in Idaho history.

Liggins, a senior, won Friday at 23-10 but everyone was talking about his 24-2 leap in a double dual last Friday. Pocatello also defeated Twin Falls in the one relay the Bruins lost, clicking off a 43.7 quartermile time against 43.8 for Twin Falls.

But the Bruins got best-ever efforts from John Blake and Bill Woodson and their broad-jumping would have been outstanding had Pocatello's not been better.

Blake, who's been battling 12-6 for two years and finally broke the 13 foot barrier last week, soared 13-8 and had two good efforts at 14 feet Friday. Woodson turned in a 22.7 220-yard dash, beating favored Roy Smith of Minico by a couple of yards.

Although weather was warm, a wind estimated at 15 to 20 miles per hour blew up the track and all flat races were run into it. Still the times held up well.

Young won the 100-yard dash in 10-flat and Bair of Minico took the discus with a good 151-foot effort. The Spartans were hurt when Toby Harding, injured two weeks ago, was unable to run in the hurdles. Skyline went one-two with Hawksworth and Masson.

The Twin Falls quartermile duo of Bruce Cooper and Alan Gibbs continued their one-foot battles, Cooper winning in 51-flat to even the series at three each. Gary Sievers remained undefeated in the halfmile but this time Medley of Highland sneaked in ahead of Randy Mildon, marking the first time the Bruins haven't gone one-two this year.

Jim Kennedy grabbed a second in the two mile while junior Dave Sears, back out after a month's sabbatical, qualified by getting sixth and will have next week to get further into shape.

In the long jump, senior Alan Conner and junior Brent Thomson went 21-10 and 22-2, respectively, but Pocatello had the 23-10 from Liggins and a 22-7 from Monroe, a sophomore.

Twin Falls will be gunning for its third straight loop title Friday. Running preliminaries start at 3:30 p.m. with field events at 5 p.m. and final track events at 6:30 p.m. The west division, which will also send six men per event, will conduct its qualifying meet Wednesday in Boise.

Crofts, Ward lead Wood River to Big six crown; Dennis top point winner

FILER — The Wood River Wolverines, getting good showing from Kim Crofts and Rick Ward and dominating the distance events, won the Big Six Conference track and field championship Friday afternoon in an afternoon-long battle with Wendell.

Some of the best times in Magic Valley for the season were turned in as the weatherman finally smiled on the Filer track, which proved hard and fast.

Crofts, Kip Dennis of Wendell and Gary Gorrell of Gooding turned in the top times and distances. Dennis broke the 15-second barrier for the first time in winning the high hurdles in 14.7 while Crofts seconded him at 15-flat.

Dennis maintained his low hurdles mastery in the lows in 10.8 but the difference was at the end Crofts, falling behind about three yards at mid-course, had closed to within a couple feet. Crofts then ended a spring-long frustration by nipping Dennis in the 220-yard dash in a solid 22.9 time.

Gorrell, a surprising high jumper, lifted his 6-4, 215-pound frame over 6 feet, 3½ inches, indicating the defending state A-2 champion and state record challenger, is getting back into the swing of things. However, he claimed before the competition that he didn't feel ready to jump.

Wood River's depth was the big payoff. Coach Bob Shay starting to worry early as Disbennett was injured and unable to go in the field events. The Wolverines scored only nine in those five events while Wendell and Gooding piled up goodly margins.

But it all ended at the 220 and two-mile run where Crofts victory took away some expectable points from Wendell and Rich Ward, doubling again in the distances, placed a one-three-four-five two-mile finish, worth 11 points.

Wood River then unveiled a jacked-up mile relay team that tucked it safely away.

Dennis was particularly impressive in the high hurdles. Despite getting a call for false start, he beat Crofts over the first hurdle. Crofts, who won't have to face Dennis again and just might not lose again this year all the way to state, stayed in the thick of things but Dennis was superbly smooth through the course.

Crofts hit the last hurdle which cost him some time and distance but he still turned in a 15-flat. In the lows, Dennis' exploding start gave him the step lead about the third hurdle and this marked the first time anyone has ever closed on him.

Wendell's quality came budding to the fore as the Trojans usually were either first or unplaced. Alan Stevenson, having trouble with his long jumping and scratching all but the winning one — a subpar 19-9½ — took that event and the 100-yard dash. He and Dennis went three-two in the furlong. Wendell's 440-yard relay was toppled by Gooding.

Shoshone's best effort came in the medley where it posed a 3:54.2 time and won by about 35 yards.

Gorrell added 10 more points to Gooding's total when he won the shotput and placed second in the discus.

Redskins, Raiders share league title

GOODING — The Gooding State Redskins and Rimrock Raiders battled to the co championship of the Northside Conference Friday afternoon.

Each scored 70 points while Camas County was third at 53, Richfield 38, Carey 36 and Bliss 4.

It marked the first time Gooding State has won or shared a league track title.

Things went pretty much as expected with Rimrock's Jess dominating the sprints by winning the 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes. He also claimed second in the high jump.

But the Raiders couldn't match Gooding State distance and field power. Hollins came through with victories in the weights with Mike Grammer grabbing second in the shotput.

On the track, McCalley won the halfmile and mile. John Hunter seconded him in the mile run, then won the two mile, placed fourth in the high hurdles and won the pole vault.

Middle distance power points Jerome to Cross State prize

BURLEY — Taking control of the middle distances, the Jerome Tigers ran off with the Cross State Conference track and field championships Friday.

The meet was marked by some of the state's best sprint times.

Jerome scored 67 1-3 points with Buhl second at 44 1-6, Burley 40 1-3 and Mountain Home 27 1-6.

The sprints generally took the spotlight as Mountain Home's Ole McNamar turned the 100-yard dash in 10 flat and the 220-yard dash in 22.6. In the century he nipped Burley's Larry Bell by an eyelash, both runners getting the same time. McNamar also proved a little stronger in the stretch in the longer dash and edged Bell by a half stride.

Jerome proved strongest in the quarter and half mile, taking three of the four places in each. But the Tigers also took double points out of the hurdles, the mile and two miles.

Burley's chances for second place went aglimmering in the low hurdles where sophomore Harper, who appeared heading for a sub 20-second clocking in the lows, caught a trail toe on the seventh hurdle and tumbled. He held about a two-yard lead at the time. The tumble also took him out of the 220-yard dash where he figured to be third or fourth.

Buhl junior Pat Charlton came up with his expected double victory in the mile and two mile, McIntyre of Jerome helping push him to a career best 4:39 in the shorter event. Buhl sophomore Brent Watson won the discus and placed second in the shotput behind favored Toby Walgamott.

Burley will host the Eastern Idaho Conference championships next Friday at 4 p.m. while the other three teams will participate in the SCIC meet at Gooding.

Hansen has Magic Valley loop crown

MURTAUGH — The Hansen Huskies, led by record-breaking long jumper Jim Hopkins, turned their meager 11-man team into a ton of points Friday.

They won the Magic Valley Conference track and field championships.

Hopkins seemingly set the pace when he soared to a record 22 feet on his first leap in the long jump, breaking by 19 inches the record he set last year. One other mark fell, Castleford's 880-yard relay team clipped the old mark of 1:38.9 set by Hansen in 1970, 5o 1:37.7.

Hansen amassed 54½ points while Murtaugh, sparked by John Flynn's all-round showing, scored its highest finish every by getting second at 49. They were followed by Castleford at 45, Declo 38½, Oakley 29 and Hagerman and Raft River at 28 each.

Flynn, another of those guys too big to be a high jumper, cleared a personal best of 6 feet even, despite his 6-2, 195-pound frame. He came back to win the discus, place fourth in the shotput and anchor Murtaugh's winning quartermile relay.

Hagerman provided the other double winner in Edwards, who took the low hurdles in 22.2 and the 100-yard dash in 10.8. In an oddity, Murtaugh's Stuart Tolman, making his first competitive appearance in the event culminated a 10-day acquaintance with the pole vault by winning it at 10-8.

Casper fires 65 for Nelson lead

DALLAS (UPI)—Billy Casper, who said his game has "turned around" since his on-course squabble with his caddy last week, drilled home an 18-foot birdie putt on the final green Saturday to move out in front at the 36-hole mark of the Byron Nelson Golf Classic with a seven-under-par 133s.

Casper's bristling 32-33—65 over the 7,086-yard, par 35-35—70 Preston Trail Golf Club was full of birdies, including one string of four in a row on the front nine, but he had to get the benefit of a final hole lapse of concentration by former funny man Juan Rodriguez to gain the undisputed lead.

Rodriguez, who says he has turned completely serious in contrast to his one-time clowning acts, rolled into the final hole also seven under par, but drove into the trees and had to settle for a bogey which gave him a 33-35—68 and dropped him into a tie for second with early finishers Lee Trevino and Wilf Homenuik at six-under-par 134.

Homenuik, who blew the first round lead with a bogey-bogey finish, wound up birdie-birdie Saturday for a 33-34—67, while Trevino put together a string of three birdies to get a 36-32—68.

A four-way deadlock developed for fifth place with Charles Coody, Miller Barber, Butch Baird and Tom Weiskopf all finishing with four-under-par 136s. Weiskopf made a serious run at the lead but back-to-back bogeys midway through his final nine wrecked his chances.

Casper, whose last 65 and last tour victory was in the Kaiser Open last October, bounced back from a bogey on the first hole when he three-putted from 25 feet. From there on, his putter was red hot.

Starting at the third hole, he canned birdies of 8, 8, 30 and 20 feet and picked up another one of 15 feet at the 12th hole in addition to the finishing 18-footer.

Casper said the turnabout in his golf game came last Sunday when his caddy of nine years, Del Taylor, dropped Casper's bag and walked off on the 10th hole of the final round of the Tournament of Champions.

"I got three birdies right after that—and my game, especially my putting, has changed for the better," Casper said.

The disagreement with his caddy, Casper said, "had been building for months," but he said that after the final round at Rancho La Costa, Calif., he and Taylor sat down and talked about 35 or 40 minutes.

"We cleared the air and we're even closer now than ever."

Twins blank Yanks in 2-0 decision

NEW YORK (UPI)—Harmon Killebrew belted a 450-foot triple to drive in Danny Thompson and Ron Carew in the first inning Saturday and give the Minnesota Twins a 2-0 victory over the New York Yankees.

Jim Kaat and Dave LaRoche combined on a four-hitter. Kaat was making his first appearance of the year after being bothered by tendonitis and Manager Bill Rigney didn't let him go after the sixth although he had an easy game and threw only 72 pitches.

Hunter pitches A's by Brewers

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Jim "Catfish" Hunter and Roland Fingers allowed Milwaukee just five hits for Hunter's first victory of the season and Dave Duncan singled in both runs Saturday as the Oakland Athletics edged the Brewers 2-1.

The A's scored both their runs in the first inning when Joe Rudi walked, Reggie Jackson singled and both runners advanced on a passed ball by rookie catcher Darrell Porter. After Mike Epstein was walked intentionally to load the bases, Duncan singled home Rudi and Jackson.

Seamons powers Minico win

RUPERT — DeeLynn Seamons crashed two homers worth five runs in the first two innings Saturday afternoon to propel the Minico Spartans past the Pocatello Indians 8-3.

Seamons belted a two-run homer in the bottom of the first inning after Randy Hardman had worked losing picther Bob Sherwood for a walk.

In the second inning, Hess lived on an error and Babcock on a fielder's choice that retire no one before Seamons connected for the second time.

Mike Tremayne kept the inning alive by living on another error and he came in on Rick Runyon's base hit.

The Indians got their first run off winner Gary Friesen in the third when Sherwood singled home Presley, on base on a fielder's choice.

Pocatello added two more in the fourth when Pond, Steele and Jensen collected base hits, the last two getting an RBI each.

But in the bottom of the frame, Saras, Runyan and Warburton came up with base hits to get one of the runs back and an inning later Hess was hit by a pitch, moved to third on Babcock's single and scored on a passed ball.

Minico is now 11-4 for the season.

Robbins will speak at Wendell fete

WENDELL — Don Robbins, head football coach at University of Idaho, will be the featured speaker at the Wendell High School all-sports banquet.

It will be held May 11, reports Ben Morgan, Trojan Booster member.

Tickets for the event may be purchased from any booster member or at the door.

Big game hearing

Public meetings in Twin Falls, Challis, and Salmon will provide an opportunity for the sportsmen to present their views on proposed big game hunting seasons this coming fall.

The Twin Falls meeting will be held at the Holiday Inn on Friday at 8 p.m. and May 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Elk's Lodge at Salmon.

Challis is set on May 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the Legion Hall.

In the past sportsmen have indicated they did not have the chance to voice their views without having to drive to Boise to the regular commission meeting. Public meetings will be held in various cities throughout Idaho to provide this opportunity.

The opening dates for all units were set in January. Idaho Fish and Game Department personnel will meet prior to the public meetings to draw up proposed recommendations for season length, number of permits to be issued if the big game unit is on a controlled basis, methods to be used, and possible two deer units.

These proposed recommendations will be presented at the public meetings before the fish and game commission makes any decisions.

All views will be taken into consideration by the commissionrs from each district. Commissioner Jack Hemingway will be present at the Twin Falls, Challis and Salmon meetings.

Steelhead total reaches 3,486

ELLIS — Steelhead spawners continued to return to the Pahsimeroi were at the rate of 100 per day this week, raising the total for the season to 3,486.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department reports 376 came in since last Monday morning's harvest and as soon as the trap was put back into operation Friday night "you could stand there and watch them come in."

Some 300 females were spawned Friday for 1.3 million eggs, giving the department of total of 5½ million eggs harvest so far. The first of the hatch will go into raceways at the Niagara Springs Hatchery Monday, reports C. R. "Bob" Quidor, plant superintendent.

The transporting of last year's hatch to the Pahsimeroi for the state downstream to the ocean is winding down. Guidor reports 185,000 pounds of smolts have made the trip so far with about 60,000 pounds left. The previous poundage represents 1.177 million steelhead.

Twin Falls — golfers win again

IDAHO FALLS — The Twin Falls Bruins completed a nearly-perfect season in winning the sixth and final test of the eastern division, SIC, golf season Friday.

The Bruins, again headed by sophomore Kevin Packard, shot a 320 over the Pinecrest Course at Idaho Falls to defeat the host Tigers and Skyline Grizzlies lodged in second place by 13 shots. Minico had 340, Pocatello 343 and Highland 349.

Over the six-match season, Twin Falls wound up with 41 2-3 points, one third off a perfect score. That developed last week when McGinnis of Skyline was a co-medalist with Packard and Gary Duncan. Skyline was second overall at 24 5-6, Highland 23, Idaho Falls 19½, Pocatello 15 and Minico 7.

Packard shot a four-over 74 Friday and was jointed in scoring by Greg Smutney at 78, Tom Allen 79 and Gary Duncan 79.

The Bruins will host Jerome, Buhl and Filer Wednesday afternoon and then entertain the 12 SIC teams in the league championships Friday.

Hold Your Peace takes opener

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Hold Your Peace romped to an easy but slow victory in the $10,000 Stepping Stone Purse at the opening of Churchill Downs Saturday in the colt's final prep for next Saturday's Kentucky Derby.

With jockey Carlos Marquez in the saddle, the Flamingo Stakes winner won the seven furlong sprint by five lengths in 1:24 flat, far off the race record of 1:21 3-5 set by Majestic Prince, the 1969 Kentucky Derby winner who also used the Stepping Stone as a final prep.

Combat Ready finished second in the field of eight three-year-olds with Brick Door, the early pace-setter third.

But Combat Ready was disqualified for bearing in on Fast Irishman as the field raced down the backstretch and placed fourth. That moved Brick Door into second place and Fast Irishman from fourth to third.

Marquez rode a competent race aboard Hold Your Peace who carried high weight of 122 pounds. The jockey held his horse in fourth place until he reached the end of the backstretch and then took off after first place Brick Door. On the turn, Hold Your Peace, owned by Maribel G. Blum, rapidly gained on the leader and went to the front at the start of the homestretch. Marquez hand rode the son of Speak John although he did tap him lightly with the whip twice during the quarter-mile stretch run.

He then tapped him again shortly before the finish to keep the colt going. Hold Your Peace, who paid $2.60 to win and $2.20 to place and show.

Watches teacher

WHEN LEARNING to tie dye, the first thing to do—is watch how the teacher does it. Here Angela Erickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denny Erickson, watches CSI art instructor Mike Green cut strings on a tee shirt after it has been through the first batch of dye.

Drip Dye

AFTER THE shirt is tied in several places with strings, it's dipped into a bucket of fabric dye. Sherie Santos, above, daughter of Mrs. Victoria Santos, watches intently as her shirt begins to pick up color. She dyed half her shirt in one bucket and then switched to another to effect a multi-color shirt. At right Sue Brangham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stern Brangham, finds a little stirring helps speed the dying process.

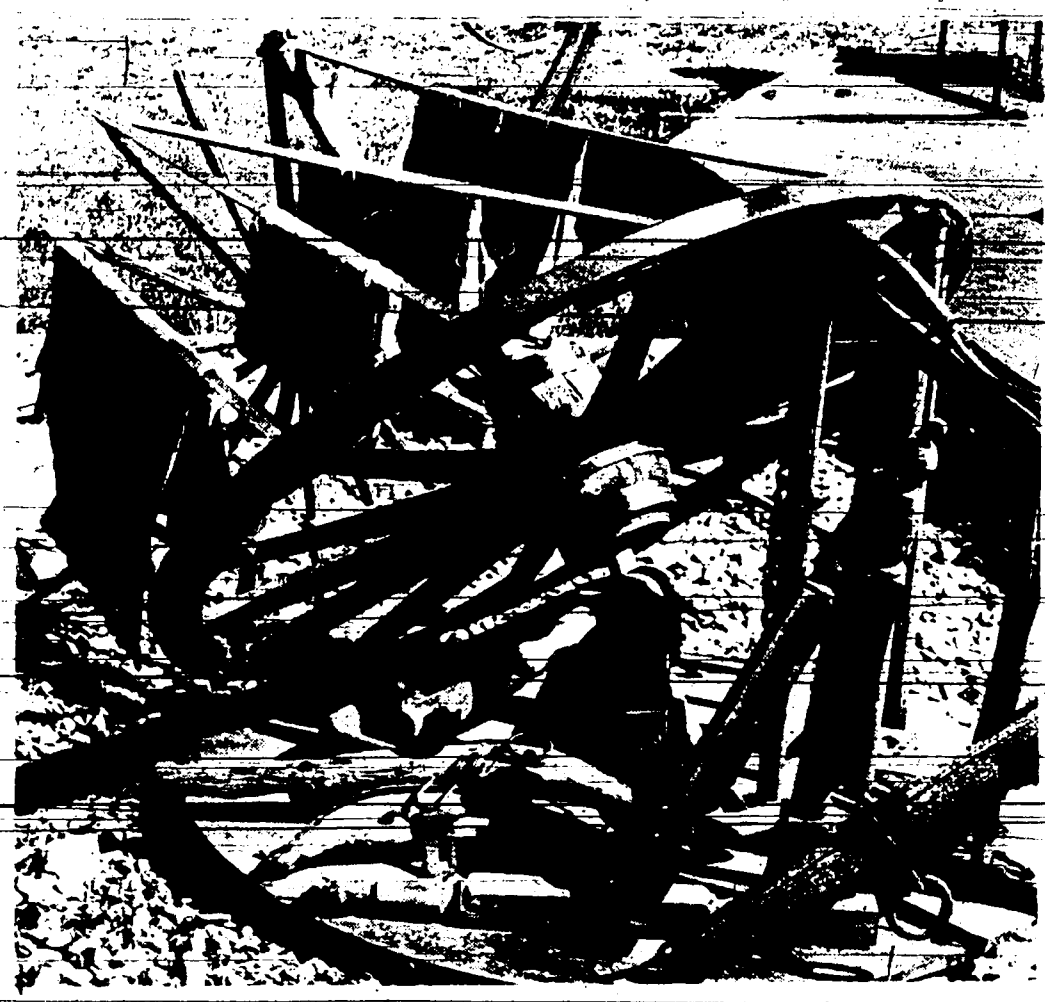
Tie dying taught to young artists

Togetherness

AMONG 7-and 9-year-olds in the children's art class at CSI are these youngsters. Susan Vincent, center, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Vincent, Filer, looks toward Michael Lockerby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lockerby, to see if she might dye the other half of her shirt like his. Michaele Augustis, right, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Augustis, tries to see into the depths of the dye bucket.

Rocky Project

NOW THAT he has cut strings which created stripes around his shirt, Boyd Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Price, ties several small rocks into his shirt. When plunged into the dye again, the rocks will create circles on the shirt.



Drying dying

WHEN THE dying was done and, lacking a clothes line on which to dry their creations, students hung their shirts on a junk sculpture to dry. The 26 young art students, who ended their classes Saturday, also learned drawing, and how to make mobiles, pottery, prints. Another session will be offered this fall for 7 through 9-year-olds and 10-through 12-year olds.

HUDSON'S MAKES THE WEDDING COMPLETE

Stepping out in just the right footwear is important to Pam as her day of days nears. She finds the choices at Hudson's very exciting. Bob Rowe is adjusting a white ankle strap sandal by Pierre for Pam. The white lustre stretch boot is Color Mate's. The boot could do double-duty as under a floor-length gown it would simulate a beautiful plain pump and provide fascinating miles afterwards. Many, many more styles are available including the conventional white pumps in peau de soie for the bride that can be color coordinated for her attendants.

Any color under the sun. Bring us a snip of your prettiest dress and we'll dye this white peau de soie shoe to match.

Couple recites vows

MR. AND MRS. CALVIN CRUMRINE.

HAZELTON — Susan Ellis and Calvin Crumrine were united in marriage in rites April 15 at the Hazelton LDS Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Bishop John Okleberry before altar arrangements of peach-color gladioli, white pompons and palm fern.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ellis, Hazelton. The bridegroom is the son of the late Don Crumrine and Mrs. Doris Cameron, Eden.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white empire-styled satin floor-length gown trimmed with organza. Her chapel-length veil of silk illusion was bordered with alencon lace and attached to a lace headpiece.

She carried a formal cascade bouquet of peach carnations centered with a white orchid. She carried the traditional white lace handkerchief borrowed from her grandmother.

Maid of honor was Marie Wood. Jeanie Sellers, Dana Hansen, Judy Hagan, Charlotte Crumrine and Zella Morrill were bridesmaids.

Flower girls were Cheryl Kandler, Sheri Webb, cousins of the bride, and Carla Nakano, niece of the bridegroom. Ronald Darrington and David Stevenson were ringbearers.

Best man was Ed Crumrine. Groomsmen were Don Ellis, Richard Hawkins, Marvin Harlow, John Hansen and John Meyer. Dwayne Ellis, Doug Nakano and Randy Sellers were ushers.

Theo Humphries was soloist, with Donna Lance as organist.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony in the recreation hall of the church.

Iona Webb registered guests at a circular table skirted in white lace and accented with a plume pen and a bud vase containing peach color roses.

The newlyweds greeted guests before a white organza backdrop draped with boxwood garlands centered with wedding bells and peach-color satin streamers.

The bride's table was covered with white alencon lace with an overlay of white satin draped with table corsages of peach-color and white carnations and peach-color satin bows.

The table was centered with a four-tiered square cake decorated with peach-color carnations and lace work and topped with white satin wedding bells. The cake was flanked by floral arrangements of carnations, pompons and leather leaf.

A screen of gold and white velvet with peach-color bows completed the bride's table.

Cake and punch were served by Kathy Manley and Mrs. Doug Nakano.

Gifts were displayed on a table decorated in white acrylic draped with peach-color satin bows and streamers and centered with a gold cherub arrangement of peach-color and white flowers. Gay and Allen Ellis, June Requa, Jeri Darrington, Carma Pennington, Valda Hensely and Linda Robinette cared for the gifts.

A pre-nuptial bridal shower was hosted by Mrs. Gonald Sellers and Mrs. Mercer Stover. A lingerie shower was hosted by Marie Wood and Zella Morrill.

A rehearsal dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cameron, Eden.

After a wedding trip through Nevada, Arizona and Utah, the couple will reside in Hazelton.

Out-of-town guests attended from Ogden, Utah, Boise, Burley, Twin Falls and Gooding.

Attending the conference will be university, college, high school, professional and community theater people from Utah, Colorado, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming.

The Children's Theatre Association is a subsidiary of the Rocky Mountain Theatre Association and the National American Theatre Association.

Two lectures will be presented by Corey and the Coreys will present a tandem lecture on theater production from directorial analysis through performance. Mrs. Corey will lead a session on makeup and costuming.

In addition, CSI will present a Reader's Theatre production of "Thidwick, the Big-Hearted Moose," under the direction of Fran Tanner.

Temple Buell College, Denver, Colo., will send its Fun and Games Theatre Company to the conference and the University of North Colorado will present a children's rock musical.

A highlight of the conference will be the lecture demonstration at 2:30 p.m. Saturday by Mrs. Corey. The conference will be of interest to anyone working in the field of theater or with young people.

TWIN FALLS — Many homemakers have adopted the use of roasting bags for oven cooking. In recent weeks there have been some reports of problems.

A few cases have been reported of the bags bursting inside the oven. This problem arises because, during cooking, the fat and juices are released from the meat and as the juices boil under the fat, pressure is created which could, on rare occasions, be sufficient to break the bag.

Following are some recommendations for use of these roasting bags which are designed to help solve the problem.

When using a plain roasting bag, add 1 tablespoon of flour to the bag, shake well, then add the meat. Spices may also be added to the flour for flavor, but a sprinkling of salt and pepper on the meat is not sufficient without the flour.

When using a bag product where a seasoning or sauce mix is included, the mix is sufficient and flour should not be added unless otherwise specified in the product directions.

Use a pan large enough to contain the entire bag so that the bag does not overlap the sides and is deep enough to hold all liquids that may be released during cooking. The pan should be at least one and one-half to two inches high. A metal pan, preferably aluminum or stainless steel, is recommended.

Trim any excess fat from the meat before putting it in the bag.

Puncture the bag as directed on the package.

Preheat the oven to the recommended temperature.

Place in the oven so that the bag does not touch the sides or the racks of the oven.

Do not use under the broiler heat or on an outdoor grill.

Carefully read the manufacturer's directions as to cooking temperature and times.

After cooking, allow food to stand a few minutes to allow steam in the bag to subside.

Use same care when opening the bag as you would when removing the lid from a steaming sauce pan or kettle.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is a hand that decided an important team match in the early 30s. Both teams reached seven hearts on identical bidding and both Wests opened the diamond queen.

One South cashed one trump and the king and ace of spades, ruffed a spade with dummy's last trump and tried to discard his last spade on dummy's second high diamond. East ruffed and the party was over.

This was a pretty good line of play, but Edward Hymes Jr., the other South and one of the great players of all time, decided that he would be able to locate the queen of spades if he just ran off a lot of trumps.

He ruffed a low diamond at trick two to get some sort of diamond count and noted that East dropped the club 10. Then he cashed six trumps, leaving dummy with king-five of spades, king-nine of diamonds and queen of clubs. He was also sure at this point that West was holding two spades, two diamonds and the club king.

Send $1 for JACOBY MODERN book to: "Win at Bridge," (c/o this newspaper), P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

He led his last trump. West discarded the king of clubs and Eddy claimed the grand slam.

East sputtered. "You've claimed. Now you can't finesse."

"I don't intend to finesse," said Eddy. "Watch and try to discard."

Then Eddy discarded the nine of diamonds from dummy and led a spade to dummy's king. The king of diamonds was led and East had to unguard the spade queen in order to keep the club ace. "See," said Eddy. "No finesses at all."

A. Pass or bid two no-trump. We have a very slight preference for two no-trump, but we aren't proud of our bid.

Instead of bidding two clubs your partner has bid one no-trump over your one heart. What do you do now?

DEAR ABBY: What's gotten into you? Everyone is entitled to privacy!

I refer to those people who were vacationing near Monterey when a car full of strangers drove up, and asked if they could share their picnic table. I think they had a lot of nerve trying to butt in that way.

I give those people credit for saying, "No, we want our privacy." You took the part of the intruders and gave out with a lot of dialog about "caring and sharing."

Look at the English. They are great protectors of their privacy. You don't see them letting just anybody move in and get chummy with them. LIKES MY PRIVACY

DEAR LIKES: For the other side of the coin, please read on:

DEAR ABBY: After reading about the people who didn't want to share their picnic table, I couldn't help but think how much they were missing. Privacy can be found in the confines of one's own home, and if that is what one wants, he should stay home.

We are not world travelers, but we have had many memorable outings when we took our children camping. We've shared picnic tables [and even lunches] with strangers from all over.

Had we wanted our privacy, we never would have met the two charming retired schoolteachers who were crossing the country on the narrow back byways instead of the freeways. ["You don't see anything from an airplane!"]

Or the party of happy young people who insisted that we share their campfire on the banks of a river one beautiful moonlit night too beautiful to describe.

Our children have romped with children of every color and creed, and it has enriched their lives.

Once we joined a family with nine children who were giving "Mamma" a vacation from the kitchen, treating her to a dinner of peanut butter and jam sandwiches and chocolate milk.

Those who shun strangers will never know the wonderful feeling of making friends of strangers, and have them blow you kisses when you wave them goodby.

Privacy seekers miss the whole point of living in, and enjoying, God's beautiful world, which belongs to all of us. I weep for them, and their growing numbers.

RECEIVED MORE THAN WE GAVE

DEAR ABBY: 27 years ago, I married a smart, young, ambitious man. Climb! Climb! Climb! Year after year the goals got higher. He worked, worked, worked!

Last week I nearly lost this wonderful man to a heart attack. What good was the split level home, the beautiful furniture, the sterling silver, the mink, the extra car? My only prayer was that this devoted husband and father should live to enjoy the fruits of his hard-earned labor.

I reproached myself a thousand times for having demanded so many material things. I nearly worked him to death. No wonder most women outlive their husbands.

I was lucky. Thank God mine is going to make it.

Abby, please tell young married women to settle for less and not to drive their husbands to exhaustion. Sign me,

GRATEFUL

DEAR GRATEFUL: No one can tell it like the one who's been there. Thanks for the reminder.

DEAR ABBY: Three of my friends came here for lunch and bridge the other afternoon. One is a widow, the other a divorcee and the third is married. They all had a wonderful laugh over a sign they had recently seen in the needlework department of The Farmers Market.

"NEEDLEWORK HAS TAKEN THE PLACE OF SEX"

Needless to say no one brought out her needlework, even when she was dummy. E. L. M. MALIBU

TWIN FALLS — We are living in an era of imitation.

The list is endless . . . imitation leather, artificial flowers, false fingernails, synthetic wigs, margarine, near beer, fake fur.

Would you believe I recently purchased a jar of "creamy imitation peanut butter"?

It has been said that imitation is the greatest form of flattery, but synthetic peanut butter is going just a little bit too far.

The prime moving force behind such products must be economics, since the imitation products are generally less expensive than the real McCoy.

There are, of course, exceptions to the expense ratio — i. e. Astroturf, which is initially quite costly but comparatively more economical than grass from a maintenance standpoint.

Look around your home and see how many imitations surround you. I think you'll be surprised . . . from the sugar substitute in the kitchen to the fake logs in your fireplace!

If your list is as long as mine, I'm sure you'll stop and wonder why you would ever want an original anything when you can settle for a bona fide, guaranteed, gold-plated fabulous fake.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 30, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until shortly after midday most people are likely to be too abrupt and critical in their comments to others, but later extremely good aspects are in effect for making changes, gaining information of importance and traveling or arranging a future change of location. State your mind directly tonight.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You had better wait until after lunch when you get right facts and figures concerning the matter you have to decide about that is important to you. Investigate new outlets, but don't just jump into them now. Avoid risks.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Morning finds you having to take care of some irksome duty, but then you can still get out to places and see people you enjoy. Keeping promises made to others is most important in p.m. Clear the slate for a happy week ahead.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you have long conversations with associates during spare time today, you find you come to a perfect understanding. Plan some time for that public work you have assumed. Show you are most capable at it.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) It may be necessary for you to work today even though it is Sunday, so get at it willingly, then show bigwigs appreciation. Go over your wardrobe and see where it needs replenishing and refurbishing. Plan it now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You may have worries in the a.m., but they soon disappear through right activity. Then you can enjoy the company of congemals. You have some creative work to do that you like. Get at it in the afternoon.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take more interest in your home and family today and establish more harmony and comfort there. Know what is of greatest importance to you and concentrate your efforts on that, also. The future can be as bright as you can visualize it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Begin the day properly by attending services you like and become spiritually strengthened. You want to enjoy the company of others and the evening is the best time for that. Avoid one who has an axe to grind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Enlarge your thinking to include greater things so you can have increased prosperity in the right way. You can get advice from an expert in your field of work who can be most helpful. Avoid one who argues too much.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The morning starts with some difficulties cropping up, but as the day progresses all becomes much more favorable for you. Dress well and be off to some social affair where you can make big headway, meet interesting people.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Investigate the true principles under which you want to operate in the days ahead, which will make your life brighter and more prosperous. Get advice secretly from experts you trust. Follow through on it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A perfect day for you to exercise that sociable side of your nature you enjoy so much. Benefit will come from this. You can easily realize some very important aim. Avoid any situation that looks difficult.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Put some effort into the philosophical and charitable aims you have and get right results now. A higher-up will give you all the information you need if you ask for it. Start using the right tools and all is well.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those charming young people with a fine mind and good physical health, so be sure to give an adequate education stressing both the sciences and manual dexterity then the finest talents can be put to work in a most practical way. Spiritual learning is also necessary for best results.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

'Let's Go To Rome, Brenda'

The Eurail Pass is what it's called. No, it's not a divide between mountains. It's a ticket that lets you ride trains all over Europe. For 21 days, it costs $125. A month, $160. Two months, $210. Three months, $250. Also allows you to take water trips. On the Scandinavian salt. Among German rivers. Around Swiss lakes. Ah me. Munich was nice, but Paris is such a bore, Brenda, let's romp off to Rome. Excellent, excellent.

WHITCOMB L. JUDSON is the name of the fellow who invented the zipper. Just 80 years ago, that was. It was not that he didn't like the gap between buttons, that wasn't why he created the device. Rather, he found it difficult to bend over. First zipper was designed particularly for the shoes of overweight men.

MISS, at Princeton, the boys outnumber the girls by three to one. The administration wouldn't have it any other way, I'm told, and neither would the girls.

QUERIES

Q. "Says here Rockefeller Center is the richest privately owned entertainment center in the country. What about Disney Land?"

A. That's a public corporation.

Q. "HOW old do chimpanzees get?"

A. Oldest known, a beast named Wendy, died not so long ago at the Yerkes Primate Center in Atlanta at age 48.

IF A CITY has more than a million people, certainly you and I will recognize its name, no? Thought as much, but that's wrong. There are at least a million people each in such cities as Ahmedadad, T'aiyuan, Surabaja, Kita-Kyushu and Wu-Han. Just 75 years ago, only nine cities could claim a million or more -- London, Paris, Berlin, Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Tokyo, Vienna and what's now Leningrad.

BATH

Madam, if a pollster on your front doorstep were to ask you how frequently you take a bath, would you reply? Most ladies will not, turns out. Those surveytakers, who can find out just about everything else, say they cannot come up with accurate statistics on how often women bathe. The ladies clam up at that query. Understandable.

IN THEIR SEARCH for new sources of energy, the science boys ought not overlook the electric eel. It was just 32 years ago that a cunning technician at the New York World's Fair plugged into one of those hot eels -- I don't know how exactly -- so as to get enough juice to run a radio, power a toy train, and illuminate 300 neon lights.

105 women placed in top positions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon announced Friday his administration has placed 105 women in policy-making positions in the federal government —the largest number in history.

In a statement, Nixon said the number of women recruited for $28,000 and up posts nearly tripled since April 1971 and added that more than half of the appointees hold positions previously held only by men.

"We reached another milestone with the employment and or advancement of more than 1,000 women in middle-management positions during the past year," Nixon said. "This is particularly noteworthy because it occurred during a time when budget policy required a 5 per cent reduction in the federal work force."

The Chief Executive said "now we must do even better in giving women the equal opportunity they have so long deserved."

He called on private business and state and local governments to follow the administration's lead by taking a close look at employment practices that may be discriminatory against women.

Nixon commented: "In this era of great challenges and potentials, the nation —in the private sector as well as in government at all levels — needs the capabilities and brainpower of every single American. The full and equal participation of women is crucial to the strength of our country."

The statement was issued at a joint press conference at the White House held by Jayne Baker Spain, vice chairman of the Civil Service Commission, and Nixon's chief female recruiter, Barbara Franklin.

Idaho Falls man speaks at Burley chamber fete'

BURLEY — Mel Richardson, Idaho Falls, was the guests speaker Thursday evening during the annual Burley Chamber of Commerce banquet.

Richardson attended broadcasting schools in California and has worked in that field since 1951, having managed a station in Logan, Utah, KID FM and AM in Idaho Falls, and where he is currently the Sports and Public Affairs director.

He urged those attending the banquet to get involved in community work and "make things happen for the betterment of the area." He cited the cycle according to history of a country rising and falling in a span of 200 years from bondage, freedom, plenty and prosperity, to apathy.

"This does not have to happen in America; it will not happen unless you let it happen," he stated. "Get involved in your business, be a leader," said Richardson. "It is our responsibility to the coming generation to build and grow, for our forefathers were involved and built for us," he added.

"Help your fellow man when he cries for help, be it a woman on the street who is being attacked and stabbed, or a policeman being beaten by persons he stopped for a traffic violation," said Richardson. "Be different and extend that helping hand. Don't say, 'I didn't want to get involved,'" he added.

"Drugs could be stopped and cleaned up overnight if people would get involved, by turning in the person next door, or the one down the street to law enforcement officers, and then follow through, going to court if need be and testify," Richardson said.

"Apathy is all around us, but let's get rid of it by getting involved," he concluded.

Jay Schofield, chamber president, welcomed the group and introduced the retiring and present board members.

Mrs. Agnes Anderson, secretary-manager, presented the past president's plaque to Grant Fillmore.

Musical entertainment was by the Gem Staters, Twin Falls, who sang barbershop selections. Members include Clarence Dudley, Bert Huish, Rip Gerdes and Joe Hutchinson. They dedicated one selection to Ray Rostron, Twin Falls chamber manager.

Guests attended from Twin Falls, Rupert, Heyburn and Albion.
