

'Torpedo' probes Kellogg shaft

KELLOGG, Idaho (UPI)—In a cold mountain rainstorm funerals were conducted Saturday for the first of 35 men killed in the Sunshine Mine while rescuers got an unexpected break in attempts to use a scrap-metal "torpedo" to reach 47 others missing nearly a mile underground.

U.S. Bureau of Mines officials announced that they were able to drop a small television camera down a ventilation shaft in a preliminary probe before the actual use of the 7-foot rescue cylinder. The lamp-equipped camera was lowered to 4,800 feet—the bottom of the shaft.

Don Long, chief geologist for the Sunshine Mine Co., said the sides of the narrow shaft appeared to be "smooth with a few jagged areas." The rescue cylinder, he said, could be dropped safely.

Long said that on the TV monitor he could see the telephone which had been dropped down the neighboring No. 10 shaft Friday night. He added that through the camera's audio system he could hear the telephone ringing.

The phone was kept ringing in the hope the missing miners would answer it. But none has.

Company officials said they would not use the rescue cylinder until Sunday. "We were a little worried about it getting jammed so we decided to go ahead with our major effort," Sunshine Vice President Melvin C. Chase said.

Chase said the "major effort" was getting the main hoist in the No. 10 shaft in operation. He added the hoist was bigger and could carry 36 men while the torpedo had only a two-man capacity.

"We're so darn close" to getting the hoist moving, he said.

The TV drop came hours ahead of schedule because "more fresh air than they thought" was found at the 3,700-foot level room.

The purpose of the probe was to determine whether the torpedo-shaped cylinder could reach the bottom without running into obstacles in the four-foot-wide ventilation shaft.

The camera doesn't give the clearest picture but it does well in dark places," the bureau spokesmen said.

Sunshine Mining Co. representatives said they still held out hope for the missing men because of the possibility that the smoke from the fire was only between the 3,100 and 3,700-foot level and there was still sufficient air in the bottom tunnels.

The fire broke out Tuesday, sending lethal carbon monoxide and smoke through the mine.

Wallace wins third primary

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI)—Gov. George Wallace of Alabama rode the school busing issue to a larger-than-expected victory in the North Carolina Democratic presidential primary Saturday night, then said he might be a "little more inclined" to enter the California race on a write-in basis.

Wallace had more than 50 percent of the vote in North Carolina with about half the ballots counted. Many of the precincts that had not reported were in rural districts, expected to vote heavily for the Alabama governor.

Rockets hit US airbase

SAIGON (UPI)—Communists shelled the U.S. air base at Da Nang early Sunday, wounding two Americans and three South Vietnamese, destroying one observation plane and blowing a large hole in one of the base's two runways.

UPI correspondent Stewart Kellerman in Da Nang said the hole in the runway was repaired within 90 minutes. He said one OV-10 observation plane was destroyed and one other was damaged.

There are about 15,000

American stationed at Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, but that includes a unspecified number of men at a second facility at nearby Marble Mountain.

Kellerman said two Americans were wounded when Communist rockets hit the U.S. side of the base. The Communists also shelled the South Vietnamese section of the sprawling facility, wounding two civilians and a South Vietnamese air force man.

Da Nang is 50 miles south of Hue and the city is already swollen with refugees from the former imperial capital who fled south to avoid an expected Communist attack.

Hue is expected to be the next major target for the Communists, who are trying to move south after taking Quang Tri and the top 30 miles of South Vietnam.

There was no estimate of the actual number of dead but the sources, basing their information on monitored radio broadcasts and prisoner interrogations, said two North Vietnamese were so severely mauled they were being consolidated into one.

Big firms violate US rules

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Price Commission cited 374 of the nation's largest companies Saturday for failure to file required profit reports and said it would ask the Justice Department to prosecute them if the information is not submitted within a week.

The list of those violating the price control regulations includes such corporate giants as E.I. du Pont Nemours & Co., Wilmington, Del.; Monsanto Co., St. Louis, Mo.; Olin Corp., New York; Revlon Inc., New York; and Reynolds Metals Co., Richmond, Va.

In telegrams to be sent Monday, Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. will charge the companies with failure to submit quarterly profit margin reports as required under federal regulations. The reports are one of the commission's most important tools in keeping an eye on inflationary price increases.

The government has decreed that while profits can increase with expanded volume of sales, the profit margin—or profit as a percentage of sales—cannot exceed the average of the best two of a firm's past three fiscal years.

Gov. Preston Smith, who made $62,000 on a stock deal that eventually led to the bribery conviction of Texas' speaker of the house, was booted out of office in the rush for reform. Smith ran fourth in the Democratic race.

Briscoe was polling more than 50 per cent of the vote but a runoff appeared certain with either Mrs. Frances Farenthold, another reform candidate, or Barnes Mrs. Farenthold was running well ahead of Barnes, however.

Rudolph Valentino would have been 77 Saturday. Shakespeare would have been even older.

Mishap claims TF man

SHOSHONE — A 29-year-old Twin Falls man, Frankie (Frank) W. Cucas, was killed in a one-car accident 14 miles north of Shoshone early Saturday morning.

Sheriff Thomas W. Conner, Lincoln County, said Cucas was alone in the vehicle, traveling south on U.S. Highway 93.

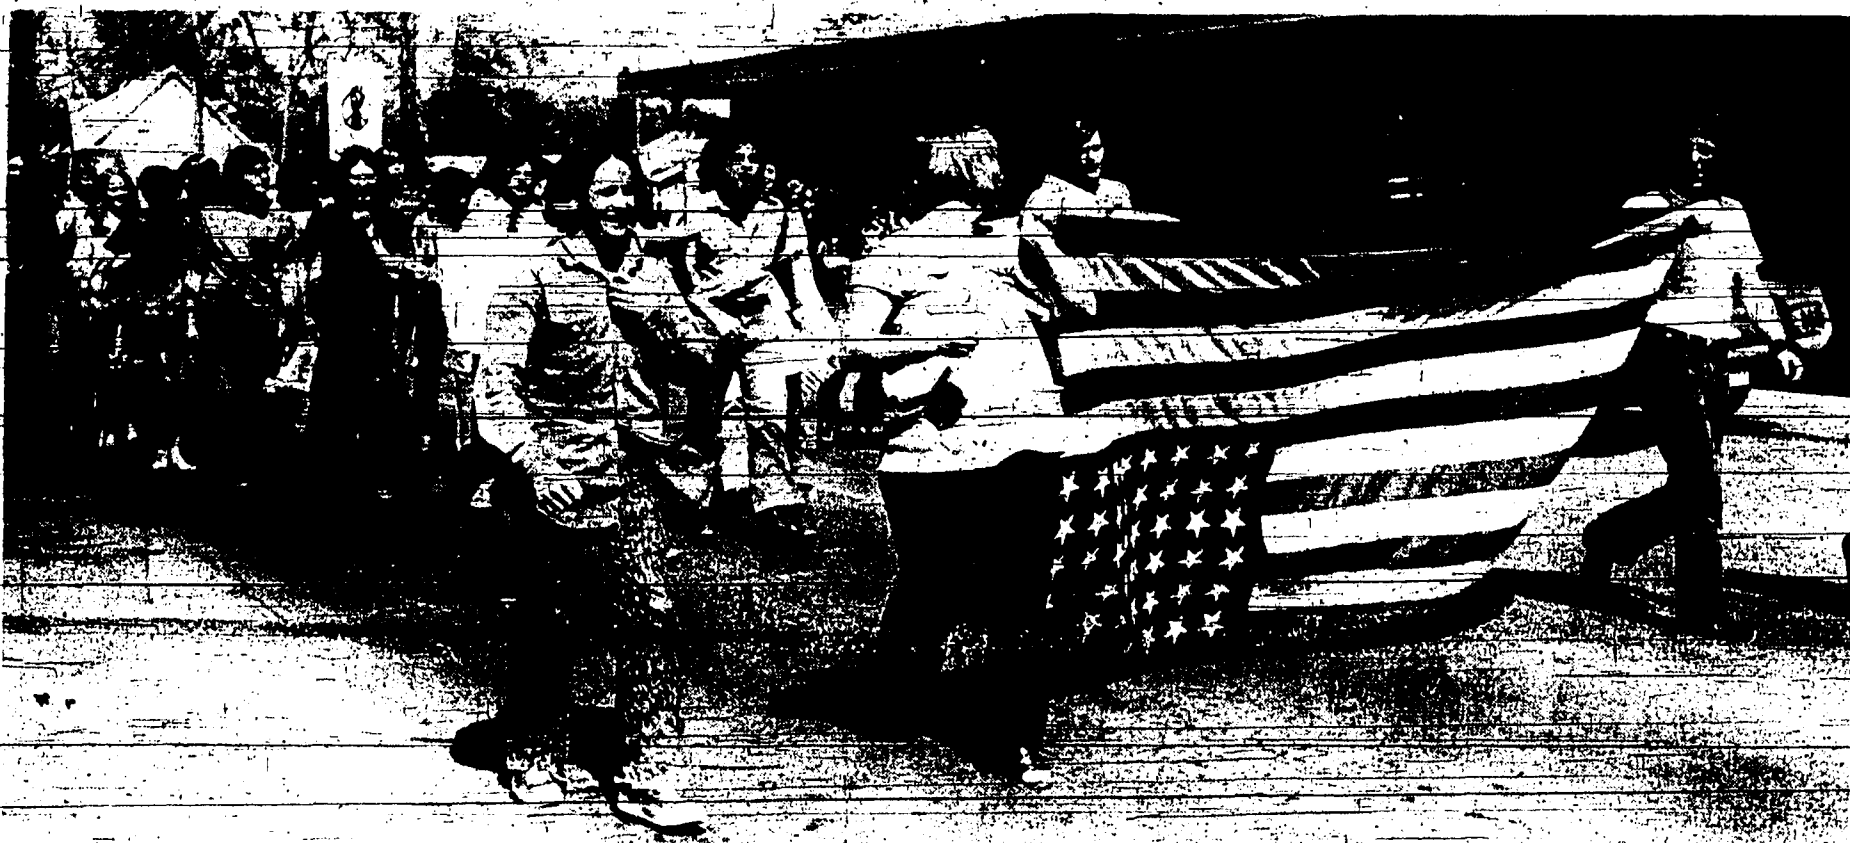

He apparently went to sleep, drove his car off the right hand side of the road, then awakened and pulled it back too quickly.

It went out of control, skidded about 60 yards, then went end-over-end off the road and landed about 100 feet off the roadway.

Cucas was found lying outside the overturned vehicle by Glen Croft, a Shoshone farmer at about 6:30 a.m. Croft notified the sheriff and Bergin Ambulance, Shoshone.

Sheriff Conner said Cucas was probably killed instantly, about 4:30 or 5 a.m.

TF marchers display upside-down flag as distress signal

TF peace parade ho-hum happening

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls gave its first antiwar march Friday. Only about 65 persons, including two politicians, came.

Threats of violence failed to develop under the watchful eye of about 20 law enforcement officers.

Marchers were orderly, complying with the terms of their police-approved parade permit issued last week by the Twin Falls City Police — the first permit ever issued in the city for an antiwar activity.

Two marchers carried an upside-down American flag, a traditional distress signal. As their arms tired by the end of the 45-minute march through the center of town, the flag occasionally brushed along the pavement.

Most marchers were young. Many were College of Southern Idaho students.

Among these was Mark Story, a CSI student who had applied for the parade permit.

According to Story, the turn-out was larger than expected.

"I was also surprised at the turn-out of law enforcement people. I was told only city police would be involved in the escort."

Texans reject LBJ dynasty

DALLAS (UPI)—Texas voters Saturday brushed aside the political empire built by former President Lyndon B. Johnson and Treasury Secretary John B. Connally in favor of a reform movement led by a rancher-banker who kept his name out of a stock scandal that swept the state.

Dolph Briscoe, 49, a soft-spoken millionaire with ranching and banking interest, took a solid lead in the Democratic primary for governor. Briscoe has not held political office for 15 years.

With about one quarter of the votes counted, Lt. Gov. Ben F. Barnes, considered an heir to the Johnson-Connally political base, ran third in the gubernatorial race.

Gov. Preston Smith, who made $62,000 on a stock deal that eventually led to the bribery conviction of Texas' speaker of the house, was booted out of office in the rush for reform. Smith ran fourth in the Democratic race.

Briscoe was polling more than 50 per cent of the vote but a runoff appeared certain with either Mrs. Frances Farenthold, another reform candidate, or Barnes Mrs. Farenthold was running well ahead of Barnes, however.

Pakistanis, Indians ask battle end

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Indian and Pakistani governments ordered an end Saturday night to two days of fighting between Indian and Pakistani troops in Kashmir, apparently in fear the cease-fire violations would jeopardize the forthcoming Indo-Pakistan summit talks. They said the fighting had stopped.

TF school incumbents returned

BY HUGH DAVIS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — All five incumbent Twin Falls school trustees were returned to office in a record vote Friday.

Board chairman John Wolfe won the single-year term in Zone 1 over former-board member Frank DeLuca and "youth" candidate challenger Ken Hodge.

Wolfe collected 166 votes while DeLuca received 126. Hodge had 82 votes.

Zone 2 was the most closely contested race with newly appointed incumbent Richard Sayer's drawing ahead by 24 votes, 102-78 over Gary Custer. Zone 2 had the lightest turnout of the five contested zones.

The most spirited contest in zone 3 saw appointed incumbent Mrs. Ruth Day win easily over Frankie L. Hale. Mrs. Day received 408 votes while Mrs. Hale got 189. Scott Erwin, who had dropped out of the race received nine votes.

Incumbent Tom Kiely returned to his zone 4 seat, winning over two other candidates. The recently appointed Kiely garnered 337 votes while challengers Dr. Marvin Strope and Dr. Kenneth Briggs received 201 and 61 votes respectively.

Board incumbent vice chairman Dr. Howard Runk won handsily in zone 5, receiving 264 votes to 120 for challenger Mrs. Marge Slotten.

Kiely and Sayers, the newest trustees, will serve three-year terms while Mrs. Day and Dr. Runk serve two-year terms.

Supt. George Staudaher said the turnout at the polls brought a record 2,155 votes.

"The vote was heavy, mainly because all five positions were up for election. Last year, with two posts available, there were about 700 votes cast."

"Two years ago, Chairman Wolfe was elected by a vote of eight to nothing. He was running unopposed for the only available trustee position," Staudaher said.

Players liven TF mall

TWIN FALLS — Shakespeareans strolled while musicians made melody Saturday afternoon during the introduction to Music Week in the Twin Falls mall.

The program, sponsored by the Magic Valley Junior Music Clubs, provided continuous entertainment Saturday afternoon at the downtown fountain and the corner of Shoshone and Main Streets.

CSI art students also demonstrated their skills along Main during the afternoon, displaying paintings and pottery.

David Follingstad's group, the Twin Falls percussion ensemble, drew enthusiastic applause from a growing crowd of onlookers as the young musicians fluted and rattled a number of melodious and fast-moving numbers.

A number of Shakespearean players, dressed in the finery of 17th-Century England, presented scenes from the famed dramas and comedies of the Bard of Avon, then strolled along the street, adding a vibrant touch of color to the avenue.

Other performers included a Dixieland band, a string trio directed by J. Slaughter, Johnny Martizia and his guitar, and Del Slaughter's woodwinds.

Downtown merchants put on special displays and sold flowers from a mall booth during the festivities.

TF blood donors asked to give at Monday draw

TWIN FALLS — The Red Cross bloodmobile will be in Twin Falls Monday, according to Burt Huish, blood recruitment chairman.

The drawing will be at the American Legion Hall. The hours are set for 1 to 6 p.m. and have been changed for the convenience of the nurses on duty.

The quota is 150 pints and Huish said the local chapter of the Red Cross hopes the quota will be exceeded because of the great need for blood in this area during the last six months.

The Red Cross program depends on the active participation and support of the public throughout the year to maintain blood supplies.

Donors may give as many as five times per year, according to Huish.

There is a real need for type O negative blood at this time, says Huish.

115 killed in Italian plane crash

PALERMO, Sicily (UPI)—Italian officials said Saturday they were still without a clue as to the cause of the crash of an Alitalia airliner which struck a mountain top near Palermo Airport Friday night, killing all 115 persons aboard.

The crash, worst in Italian air history, came on the 25th anniversary of the founding of the airline.

Investigators said at first there were indications the passengers had been forewarned of disaster and had removed their shoes, glasses and dentures before the crash, even though the pilot did not report an alarm. Later, they said it was the impact of the crash itself that knocked off the passengers' shoes.

Authorities said all but four of those aboard were Italian. The others were a couple from Paris, an English woman, and a Belgian stewardess.

Small named head of Idaho office of Higher Education

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Milton Small, Boise, was promoted Friday to the permanent position of executive director of the Office of Higher Education by the State Board of Education.

Small has been acting director since the resignation of Dr. Donald Kline as director. In the new post, effective immediately, Small will receive a salary of $20,000 per year.

In a surprise move Friday, the board rescinded previously approved pay increases for the Boise State College football coach and two vice presidents, and later approved pay raises for the two vice presidents.

The board also rescinded actions establishing salaries for two assistant coaches at the Boise school and took back approval of a program change which would allow BSC to drop mandatory physical education requirement.

The board, according to members Mrs. Janet Hay, Nampa, had received a supplemental agenda including the items only a few minutes before the meeting and had no time to review it.

She said, "In reading through this information later we agreed that our action was premature."

The board initially raised Dr. Richard E. Bullington, academic vice president, from $23,500 to $25,380 and increased the salary for Dr. Roger Green, financial vice president, from $23,500 to $24,912.

The board rescinded the action but still later set Bulling-ton's salary effective July 1 at $24,500 and Green's at $24,000.

The other action approved by the board would have increased football coach Tony Knap from $16,800 to $18,800 and would have set salaries for assistant coaches Adam C. Rita at $8,000 and Douglas J. Woolsey at $7,000.

Other pay levels set effective July 1 include:

— Dr. Robert W. Coonrod, academic vice president, University of Idaho, $27,900, and Dr. Sherman Carter, financial vice president, $27,500.

Dr. Charles Kegel, academic vice president, Idaho State University, $25,752, and William J. Bartz, financial vice president, $25,752.

— Ray W. Turner, director of vocational rehabilitation, $17,750.

— Roy D. Irons, director of vocational education, $17,750.

— Edward W. Reay, superintendent, State School for the Deaf and Blind, $18,000.

— Winston G. Taylor, director, State Youth Training Center, $18,000, and Robert E. Parrish, assistant director, $14,600.

— And Harold Farley, deputy superintendent, State Department of Education, $17,750, and Reid Bishop, deputy superintendent, $17,750.

In other activities, the board expanded duties of the director of public information for the state department of education, Donald L. Watkins, to include identical duties with the board itself.

The Blunder

When bigger blunders are made it is apparent that Idaho's Legislature will make them. The last one to come to light — a product of the 1970 Legislature — takes the cake.

It has to do with the recodification of the election laws of the state and has to be a direct result of failing to understand what they were actually doing.

The result of this blunder is that three or more candidates for national offices could very well have their residency requirements challenged. And if the letter of the law — the blunder law of 1970 — is followed it could well mean that Former Congressman George Hansen and Dr. Glen Wagner, both Senatorial candidates, and also Robert Purell, candidate for Congress in the First District, would be ineligible to run.

For years and years a citizen has been able to maintain legal residence in Idaho even though living elsewhere for a period of time. Thus someone who was away at school, or on a mission, or on an engineering job in South America, or serving in the Congress of the United States in Washington was considered an Idaho citizen.

usually because they voted in Idaho, even though absentee, or because they owned property here and paid taxes on it.

Now the recodification makes it appear these individuals would end up as "second class" citizens of Idaho or even people "without a state." Why? The new law states that candidates — Senators and Representatives — shall have "resided within the state two years prior to his election." The U.S. Constitution says these citizens must be "inhabitants" of the state. There is a lot of difference.

It looks now like the blunder might have to be tested in the courts. But is there time? In lieu of time we would suggest that the voters vote for or against them regardless of the cloud hanging over their head because of the blunder of 1970.

And when the next Legislature meets, let's get on the job and change the listed requirements. Otherwise it might turn out that any Senator or Congressman we sent to Washington would have to spend the time between elections living inside Idaho so he will be eligible to run again the following term.

No Cure

According to Granville Sewell, a Columbia University environmentalist, not just big business but the whole political system in the United States is responsible for industrial pollution.

Politicians lean toward big business in such matters in payment for campaign contributions, he says.

One wonders who is buying off whom in a country like the Soviet Union, where there are no businessmen and no political campaigns but where pollution nevertheless has wiped out the Volga River caviar industry and continues to threaten Lake Baikal, the world's oldest and deepest lake.

MR. SPECTATOR

Getting Hungry?

Are you getting hungry? Actually, you should have been hungry a few years back because you would have been able to get that old meal for less money.

The proof was given us by Lillian Arnga who handed us several copies of the menu from the Park Hotel Cafe, which used to operate in the Hotel by the same name which stood where the Twin Falls postoffice is now located.

No dates are on the menus she sent us so we will not hazard a guess as to just when they were in vogue — but it was a few years ago.

For a starter we will breeze over a Sunday Dinner Special menu which gave you a cocktail (seafood, fruit or whatever), a bowl of chicken gumbo soup or a cup of hot consomme entasse, an 18 ounce T-bone steak, or filet mignon, or breast of chicken or a New York cut sirloin. All for $1.

Or roast young tom turkey with all the extras for 85 cents; or spring lamb plus all the extras for 75 cents; or milk fed breaded veal or calves liver or filet of halibut or loin pork chops, with all the extras, for 65 cents; or one large brook trout or roast sirloin of beef espagnole, with the extras, of course, for 50 cents. The extras, in case you are interested, included a piece of pie, cake or English plum pudding.

All the menus — weekdays included, offered the same price range with changes of food now and then.

In its day the Park Hotel was the place to eat. We can remember when the Kiwanis and Rotary Club members ate there and when that Sunday dinner was really something.

Well, like we said, are you getting hungry?

NOTE RECEIVED

Received a note from Willes D. Jorden of Sandpoint, Idaho, ordering the Times-News. Although that far away the note said that "we are natives of Magic Valley" and "we prefer your paper." To which we say "thank you."

GIVEAWAY DEPT:

We have two male and two female Black Labs to give away. Are nice dogs. The mother is a registered Golden Labrador. If interested please inquire at the Town and Country Drive-in on Blue Lakes Boulevard North in Twin Falls.

Have a female puppy, about nine weeks old, to give away. Is a German Pointer and Labrador. Call 733-8694 in Twin Falls.

WE POINT OUT

Mr. Spectator would point out that one way to get your name and picture in the paper is to protest something — practically anything. We sometimes wonder why the more than 20,000 citizens in our community who don't march in the protests are not pictured?

GIVEAWAY DEPT:

Two dogs need new homes. They are house dogs, good watch dogs and love children. One is an English fox terrier and the other an apricot colored dog of some mixture. Both are small. Also have two other dogs and four are just too many. You can see the ones needing new homes at 221 South Washington St., in Twin Falls or call 734-2066.

The Irony Of Presidential Politics

WASHINGTON — It is one of the many cruel ironies of Presidential politics that George McGovern could be deprived of the Democratic nomination simply because he forced the country to sit up and take his candidacy seriously.

As a dark horse, the senator from South Dakota could say and promise almost anything, with relative impunity, as he went about building his liberal constituency. But as a front runner he has attracted national attention to his views, and people are beginning to ask questions about him just as they aimed their querulousness at Sen. Ed Muskie when the man from Maine seemingly dominated the field.

Foremost among this "they" bloc is Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, who when last seen was still trying to get people to notice his own candidacy, despite his woeful primary record. Jackson is not the Democratic Establishment's hatchet man, as some McGovern people charge — Scoop is too much his own man for that. But he obviously is determined not to let McGovern's candidacy proceed without searching scrutiny. Accordingly, with perfect propriety, Jackson has slashed away at McGovern as the man "who wants to legalize marijuana, who favors total amnesty for draft dodgers, who wants to strip the United States of its defenses, who supported the radical Henry Wallace for President in 1948."

Not surprisingly, Jackson's attacks have caused McGovern — who now must pitch a little woo at the center — to back off a little. For example, he has denied he favors legalizing pot, insisting that he merely suggested the dope be controlled by regulations similar to those imposed on the sale of alcoholic drinks. Well, in politics a suggestion is as good as a demand in the eyes of the opposition. Having "suggested" that pot be legalized, McGovern has only himself to blame if Scoop Jackson publicly takes him at his word.

Jackson is on less solid ground in the matter of McGovern's "endorsement" of the kooky Henry Wallace. That is to say, McGovern claims he abandoned his support of Wallace before the general election and wound up voting for Harry Truman. Nevertheless, Jackson has raised the doubt, the question now is whether middle American voters will believe McGovern's statement that he switched to Truman in the polling booth.

As a candidate who must be taken seriously, McGovern suffers also from the routine political problem of winning support of people he'd just as soon remained in the background.

"Did you hear about the awful thing that happened to us?" McGovern's fiancée chairman, Henry Kimelman, asked a friend the other day. "George was endorsed by Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin. We need them like we need a second head." Kimelman was right. Jackson has now taken to portraying McGovern as "the candidate of those two Yippies, Hoffman and Rubin."

All this is unfortunate in the opinion of an objective, non-aligned observer, because George McGovern is a decent and honest man with a positive program and thus deserves a shot at top banana. In this book, he is a radical not because he is Red, but because in the classic definition of that word he is dissatisfied with the way things are and wants to radically change them. He may be wrong, but he's neither a phony nor a pawn of Moscow.

But George McGovern is not entitled to have it both ways, any more than the next candidate. Jackson's attacks may be cruel, but they are neither illegal nor unfair. McGovern must live with them and defend himself as best he can while seeking to expand his constituency into the broad center of the electorate. If it's any consolation, he can remind himself that other politicians wouldn't be sniping at him if he were still a dark horse.

One Man's Meat

Nutritionists are getting overbold with their categorical prescriptions for "what's good for you." They don't know you.

Great-grandmother knew that "one man's meat is another man's poison."

Her grandchildren need to be reminded. Nutritionists, in print and on TV, have been issuing unqualified proclamations concerning what you should and should not eat. And they can't know because individuals have varying tolerances, and sometimes the tolerance varies within an individual at different times.

So the food faddist, representing his or her opinion as an edict from Olympus, is a fraud.

And this goes for the amateur food faddist or the professionals of the FDA when they issue sweeping claims for, or indictments against, whole categories of foods and-or supplements while ignoring human variables. So they discredit themselves.

As surely as chemistry, metabolism and tolerances differ among different individuals — what's sauce for the goose may be toxic to the gander.

Then some centenarian, asked the secret of his long life, replies, "Booze and tobacco."

Addicts, looking for justification for their addiction, say, "See!"

What they don't know is that some humans have a leather liver — though most don't. Some circulatory systems tolerate repetitious constrictions, some lungs slough off irritants — though most don't.

Yet, while acknowledging the degree to which responses vary among individuals, some medical journals casually categorize certain substances as "good" or "bad" for you.

Thus the public tendency to paranoia is worsened by massive doses of "don't."

One best-selling book on nutrition is guilty of outlandish generalizations concerning diet, sleep habits and infant care.

To sell a book these days it seems all one must do is "relate" to you.

The author, therefore, is understandably inclined to talk to and about you, prescribe for you. The author does not know you.

Inside you are as different from others as you are on the outside.

Some of us find generous doses of vitamin C useful in warding off head colds. Others, consuming the same amount of vitamin C would suffer blistered lips.

Vitamins A and D misused can cause disease.

Supplemental iron, essential for some adults, can kill some children.

Even an excess of protein may overtax ailing kidneys.

As with most pseudosciences, the food faddists embellish a nucleus of validity with tons of absurdity.

Many Americans do need a more balanced diet, a variety of wholesome food, but frequently I've seen St. Petersburg's elderly budget food money for comparatively worthless supplements.

ART BUCHWALD

Smile, Smile

WASHINGTON — No one talks about it, but there are definite medical hazards involved in running for the Presidency of the United States. One that is increasingly a problem has to do with a candidate's face.

Anyone who has been following the Democratic primaries on television knows that every presidential hopeful always has a smile on his face. What people don't know is that these smiles are frozen there and the longer the primaries go on, the less chance the candidates have of wiping them away.

A plastic surgeon named Cooke told me, "Most of the candidates running for the Presidency have been smiling steadily for five months. By the time they get to Miami they will have smiled for eight months. The muscles controlling these smiles have hardened them into place. I fear that by the time Election Day comes we could wind up with a President with a permanent stupid grin on his face."

"I don't know," I said. "Everybody likes to see a happy President."

"It's all right to have a happy President," Cooke said. "But what happens when he attends the funeral of another head of state?"

"Suppose he has to go on television and tell the people the cost of living has gone up 25 percent, and unemployment has reached a new high. He'd look pretty silly doing that with a smile."

"I never thought of that!"

"What happens when he meets with the Russians to discuss disarmament and is grinning all the time? Do you think they could take him seriously?"

"They might think he's nuts," I said hopefully, "and out of fear give in on something."

"It's too big a gamble to take. I can't believe anyone would have confidence in a President who is smiling all the time," Cooke said.

"Wait a minute," I said. "We've had presidential candidates in the past who smiled continuously, but their faces went back to normal after the election."

"That was before television," Cooke said. "TV has forced the candidates to maintain permanent grins. We saw what happened to Muskie in New Hampshire when he stopped smiling and sobbed. People thought he was shaken up. All he was trying to do was relax his smile muscles for a few minutes. But because of what happened to Muskie, no candidate dares stop smiling now. It would be political suicide."

"Isn't there some way plastic surgeons could do away with the frozen grin after the election is over?"

"It's very difficult. It requires uncreasing the mouth as well as reshaping the face muscles. We've tried cheek transplants but everyone comes out looking like former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell."

Cooke said, "I am not only concerned about the man who is elected President, but I am also worried about the losers."

"What will people think of a man who ran for the highest office of this land, lost in a bitter fight and is shown smiling helplessly into the '70s and '80s?"

"A lot of his financial backers would be pretty sore," I said.

"We must accept the fact that a politician's smile is a physical affliction," Cooke said, "and I hope that after the primaries, when he is shown with his frozen grin, people will not have the bad taste to laugh at him."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Every Night

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any harm in taking an enema every day? I have been taking one every night for seven months before I go to bed. The purpose is to help me lose weight.

My doctor advised me to lose weight to get my blood pressure down. I joined Weight Watchers and have lost 40 pounds in seven months.

I am 73 and very spry and active. I eat a lot of vegetables. Now that I have reached my goal I would like to get away from the enemas, but I do not know how many days I should wait for a normal bowel movement. —Mrs. E.C.

Wait at least three or four days. The reason the bowel does not empty itself until enough material has accumulated to provide the nerve reaction which causes bowel action.

Not knowing that basic fact is the reason for some people becoming habitual slaves to the "enema habit." (Or to the laxative habit. The principle is the same.)

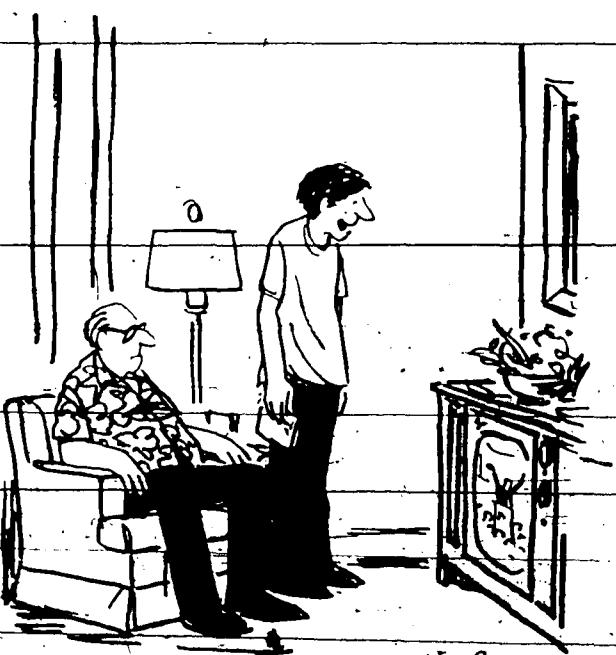

They stop the enemas or laxatives, and then expect the colon to act normally the next day — even though they have not given it time to do so. So they jump to the conclusion that they are "constipated," go back to their enemas or laxatives, and doom themselves to continuing the habit. How much colitis and other colon trouble is caused by this mistaken idea, nobody knows. But it's a lot.

Dear Doctor: How difficult and-or serious is a hair transplant, for the purpose of filling the recession at the temples? Except for that I have a full head of hair.

Is a transplant the only solution? I am 26, and not concerned about the cost. —R.S.

Hair transplantation is a successful and accepted procedure; it requires a physician skilled in that technique but is not serious in the sense of dangerous or incapacitating.

BEARY'S WORLD

"Wow! Hey! If you like these presidential primaries — you'd LOVE the 'DEMOLITION DERBY'!"

BY O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Editor, Times-News

Remember awhile back when we reported that local citizen Frank S. Mansfield — along with Maine's Senator Margaret Chase Smith — was concerned because so many members of Congress never seemed to be on the job?

Remember, too, that he wrote Senator Smith telling her of his support for her proposal to make a certain level of attendance mandatory? Also that he was contacting members of the Idaho delegation seeking their attendance record and also their personal beliefs concerning the attendance proposal?

Well, the letters are now in and, like we promised, we will bring you the results.

Although Senator Smith had proposed a Constitutional amendment to get the job done, Idaho's Congressmen and Senators were of the opinion it could be done in some other way. They were, however, in favor of it.

For instance, Cong. Orval Hansen wrote Mr. Mansfield that "I certainly agree wholeheartedly with the underlying spirit of her proposal," but he added:

"I personally believe that the Constitution should be amended only under the most pressing circumstances and as an ultimate step when justice cannot be otherwise had. In the matter of Congressional attendance, which grantedly is abused by many members, it would seem to me that an adequate remedy already exists by the voters who must consider whether the candidate's attendance to his duties has been sufficient."

Senators Frank Church and Len Jordan both expressed backing for some sort of proposal along this line.

But the most comprehensive answer to Mr. Mansfield's query came from Cong. James McClure. He wrote he had members of his staff compile the attendance record of "all the members of the Idaho delegation with whom I have served since coming to Congress."

Then, in the letter to Mr. Mansfield, Cong. McClure explored the background — the under-meaning — of the entire issue. He wrote:

"I feel I should warn you that this data can be very misleading. It does not reflect excused absences. Last fall, for instance, the Speaker of the House appointed me to represent the Congress at the International Lead-Zinc Group. I was given this task because I am the senior Republican on the Mines and Mining Subcommittee and because Idaho is a major producer of lead and zinc. During the four days I missed, approximately 10 per cent of all votes taken during 1971 transpired."

"Furthermore, the inclusion of recorded teller votes can distort the statistics. Yea and Nay votes reflect, for the most part, votes on the passage of legislation and usually occur only once on each piece of legislation. Tellers, on the other hand, reflect how many amendments are offered and can occur repeatedly during debate on a particular bill."

"Perhaps the most accurate gauge of a man's daily attendance is through the quorum calls which occur almost daily. So I have refigured the Congressional Quarterly data to reflect this aspect as well."

"I think a couple of other factors should also be taken into consideration. The first one is the simple fact that in most instances the key work done on each bill occurs in committee. I know of no one, however, who has ever figured attendance based on committee work."

"In the last three years, only on a single occasion has a vote in the house been resolved by a one-vote margin. Consequently, if an opportunity to serve your constituents in another capacity presents itself, you must weigh where the greater responsibility lies."

"For example, among the votes I missed in recent months occurred while I was conferring with Russell Train on environmental problems in Idaho."

"In the final analysis, I do think that the primary responsibility lies within the House of Representatives. For this reason, I have co-sponsored legislation to expel any member who does not retain a 70 per cent attendance record with respect to yea and nay votes. It is on these votes that the final judgment on major pieces of legislation is made, and their importance cannot be discounted."

"My voting participation record in 1972, as of March 29, on all votes (both yea and nay and teller) is 85.51 per cent."

"Twice on recent occasions, two members of the Interior Committee, both Democrats, made public statements thanking me for my 'diligent service' to the committee. One of these was Wayne D. Aspinall, Colorado, chairman of the full parks and recreation committee."

"He said 'your conscientious attendance at meetings of the committee and your cooperative and constructive approach to the many legislative matters which we have had before us made it possible for the Congress to consider many important matters.'"

"The compilation of the voting attendance record is enclosed."

And, according to the figures supplied by Cong. McClure, the vote participation, Idaho delegation, by percentage since he has been in Congress, follows:

Senator Church, 1957 through 1971 a total of 81 per cent.

Senator Jordan, 1962 through 1971, a total of 89 per cent.

Cong. Orval Hansen, 1969 through 1971, a total of 85 per cent.

Former Cong. George Hansen, 1965 through 1968, a total of 72 per cent.

Cong. McClure, 1967 through 1971, 82 per cent.

The Energy Gap

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Editor, Times-News

The big worry, not too long ago, was termed the "generation gap." We still have that one around but it is being overshadowed by another — "The Energy Gap" — which is very real and very critical.

The "Energy Gap" is in reality that distance between demand and supply of energy fuels — oil, natural gas and coal. Americans are consuming more oil per capita at the present time than they used water about 75 years ago. An average of three gallons of oil is going down the drain for every man, woman and child in this country every day.

Those in the know — the experts — point out that when someone shouts "energy shortage" everyone believes we are running out of these energy fuels. Actually, the United States has reserves of all these fuels, but domestic reserves of oil and gas are not now keeping up with growing demand.

Before these energy sources can be used, they must be found, taken from the ground, turned into marketable fuels, and distributed to homes, factories, power plants and transportation equipment all over America. Available supplies of some energy fuels are running behind U.S. demand for energy which is increasing faster than new reserves are being found.

At the present time the United States gets energy from various sources. Oil provides 43 per cent of this energy, while natural gas supplies 32 percent, coal almost 21 per cent and hydroelectric power about four percent. Nuclear power right now provides less than one percent.

Thus, the statistics show, the fossil fuels — oil, natural gas and coal — supply more than 95 percent of our energy. The ratios may change but not the need.

The experts in this field estimate the coal reserves of the United States could last for centuries. In addition, it is believed that substantial reserves of oil and natural gas have not yet been tapped.

However, there are two key questions. How much of this oil and gas is recoverable from the ground and how much greater will be the costs of finding and developing it in comparison with today's costs?

Any reserve cannot be counted a contributor until found and until it is available.

Here is how things change. A 1964 National Power Survey by the Federal Power Commission projected an average annual growth in United States electricity demand of 6.9 percent between 1965 and 1970. Many coal companies used this figure for future production. But the actual growth of electrical demand averaged eight percent annually during the period. Result — the coal demand was raised 25 million tons above the FPC forecast.

Today (as we stated in a previous article dealing with electric demands) most of the hydropower sources that are economically feasible have already been developed. Hydroelectric sources now provide for about four percent of the energy supply. And nuclear power? Experts say it "might" furnish 16 percent of the nation's energy needs by 1980.

Today, in oil fields, proved reserves are down to only nine times the annual production. In the search for oil, only about nine wells out of every hundred drilled provide any oil or gas and only two are of commercial significance.

In Alaska, an estimated 10 billion barrels of oil have been found under the cold North Slope. Because of complications not one barrel of North Slope crude oil has reached consumers in the "lower 48 states." Ten billion barrels makes North Slope the largest oil field in American history — larger than any in Texas or Oklahoma — yet the U.S. uses that much oil in two years. Right now nearly one-fourth of the oil used in this nation is imported. The delivered price of foreign oil has been above the price of domestic production.

Anyone — even politicians — will tell us that to become overly dependent upon foreign oil is not the way to go.

The way things are going, the price of energy fuels will have to go up. A basic requirement will be adequate incentives to encourage investors to provide capital that will be needed. The petroleum industry alone will have to invest at least $150 billion during the 1970's to help assure a full, continuing energy supply. The other energy industries will also have to make large commitments.

Getting down to brass tacks, the experts now tell us that the day of cheap energy is gone. We have created our higher standard of living and we will be paying for it.

The gap in energy — the "energy gap" — is much more critical than the generation gap.

As a public service, the Times-News has made arrangements for additional information on the status of energy fuels to be available free of charge by simply writing the Idaho Petroleum Council, P. O. Box 516, Boise, Idaho 83701.

Poor News Coverage

Editor, Times-News:

After reading the front page coverage given to the Harrison School PTA of Twin Falls, I would ask a question. Why is it that the PTA groups of other schools — and especially the PTA council — have not been given equal consideration in the Times-News? I'm sure you hear from other civic organizations and I realize that the Times-News is not reimbursed for any material they print on our behalf, that you do have a limited amount of space and would prefer using materials paid for, rather than voluntarily support a worthwhile organization and not get paid for it. I am wondering how much you pay per line for news items from out of town correspondents.

In the first place, the procedure taken by the Harrison School PTA was illegal. They did not notify the state PTA office or the Twin Falls PTA council. There were falsehoods printed concerning their actions and I am sure you will hear from Mrs. Floyd Kisting, the state PTA president, concerning the matter.

As publicity chairman for the Twin Falls PTA Council, I have asked for coverage on articles in the Times-News. I have been rudely rejected. One such article I am referring to was a meeting held by the Council involving a speaker concerned over our lawsuit with the Idaho Land Board. If the staff of the Times-News has the idea that the public isn't interested in that kind of news material, may I point out a few facts to whomever decides what should be printed and in which section.

The PTA is a volunteer organization. It has anticipated revenues for this coming year of $15,000. Mrs. Trenna Day, the state PTA office secretary, is the only paid member of the organization. Her salary is $4,200 annually for work days which sometimes total 15 hours.

All other workers are strictly volunteer. We, as members of the Twin Falls PTA Council, defy anyone to maintain such an efficient office on that amount of money.

Also, the PTA purchases playground equipment, audio equipment, library necessities and tape recorders.

The Council itself is responsible for the welfare room and has been since 1963. The welfare room provides for families, for instance, who have lost their homes. Several migrant workers would never have had a start in education had it not been for the PTA. No hot lunch program has been without original equipment furnished by the PTA.

Have you noticed the new billboard type sign on the front corner of the Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School grounds? Another point is the fact that each $1 membership paid, 10 cents is received by the National PTA, 50 cents by the State PTA and 40 cents remains in the local schools.

Each school has their own fund raising projects. All schools, with the exception of the pre-school administration, pays $30 into the Council fund. The pre-school pays $5. The Council is made up of all schools, therefore, the Council does not have a fund-raising and this is the only way they arrive at their working budget. The money is spent for scholarships, the Honorary Life Merit Award, welfare room expenses, local schools of instruction for all elected officers and for convention funds.

Membership information for this last year alone should prove to the public that the PTA stands for something worthwhile. The present membership is 1,397 compared to 819 last year. Every school, with the exception of Morningside, had a gain in membership. Twin Falls is the leading city in Idaho with membership gain.

Now, back to complaints about PTA news coverage. An article was placed on the front page concerning Harrison PTA which is adverse publicity. Details were evidently not checked into as most of it was incorrect.

We have found that, most of the time, when any PTA function in any school has a service to the community, it is either omitted completely, cut down to where the original meaning is entirely lost or you have to search for it through articles about dead cows, rabbits, eagles and so on.

It leaves much to be desired by the volunteers on the PTA council who are disgusted by lack of cooperation from the Times-News.

In conclusion, it appears that some citizens feel the PTA is neither a necessity or desirable. Ask any politician running for office as to his opinion of the PTA. There is a motto — "United We Stand, Divided We Fall." Thank you for the coverage we did receive on the "Hot Line" program and for your patience with one irate mother who is concerned with what I can do to better the education of my two sons.

I believe a beginning in this direction is by supporting the PTA wholeheartedly and by also supporting any other organization concerned with bettering our children's education.

God Fearing?

Editor, Times-News:

The Methodist General Conference meeting in Atlanta, Georgia has, according to a Times-News story, passed a resolution "condemning the war in Southeast Asia."

I cannot believe that 1,000 delegates represent the true feelings of 11 million American Methodists. These delegates branded American involvement in Southeast Asia as "a crime against humanity" and "an intolerable monstrosity."

It seems to me we have heard that line before — like from the communists at the Paris peace talks.

Perhaps we should look with pity on the people at the conference because they must have been living in a Monastery somewhere in Lower Slavovia the past 10 years.

Unless the newspapers have been kidding us lately, it is the communists who crossed the border into South Vietnam. It is the northern people who have been killing men, women and children in Cambodia, Laos and South Vietnam. Where is the condemnation for the communist?

Did you Methodists condemn China when they slaughtered 50,000 Monks and tribal leaders in Tibet?

Where were your Methodists when Russia invaded Hungary and Czechoslovakia?

Where were your anguished cries of indignation when the United Nations sent troops into Katanga and murdered the anti-communists there?

Apparently the leadership of the Methodist churches think the communists are pure, God-fearing people, because you never say they are wrong.

Methodist leaders, they had your type in Jesus' day, only then they were called Pharisees.

Your flip comparison between the Alamo and Quang Tri was a cheap shot.

The Alamo was then, and Quang Tri is NOW! You damn

It rates, at least, a flag at half mast rather than a crude attempt at journalistic humor.

Travel Talk

Editor, Times-News:

What sticks in the mind after a drive thru several States? First that old truism, "show me a man with whiskers and I'll show you what he had for breakfast" took the social honors at a restaurant where a young man, who had apparently swallowed a horse and left the tail hanging out, dug out a rag and vigorously blew his nose. Then strained coffee thru this schnozzle loop and delicately sopped himself dry with a napkin. But you can't judge a man by the length of his hair or the condition of his beard. He could be a Cum Laude graduate of some institution of higher learning.

Turning to the lighter side we learned that in Seattle, according to police records, over $600,000 worth of goods are stolen every day by drug addicts. It was estimated that 4500 to 5000 hard core addicts roam the city, shoplifting, stripping cars, burglarizing stores and warehouses and homes.

One man boasted he had been arrested 37 times without spending an hour in jail. That he could open any car in 20 seconds. Asked where he disposed of his loot, he said, "Any laundry, barber shop or service station is quick to make a fast buck. You can sell to private homes if you have good stuff." A $600 TV set brings the thief $50, mens' suits from $10 to $25. This scene goes from fifth grade school children to wealthy families, from the lowest street walker to high school teachers and professors.

And taking an active part were groups, calling themselves Citizens for Civil Rights, Citizens Protective Committee and a half dozen other names, who stand ready to defend the criminal or take parents into court if a child complains of difficulty at home.

They seem well financed and always boast a few Dr.'s or Rev.'s to lend dignity to the legal shysters.

But cheer up. Everywhere we found the highway builders going bankrupt, the housing developers demanding more Federal guarantees, the teachers slowly dying of malnutrition and threatening to leave little Willie uneducated. It sounded like old home week.

In every case the taxpayer simply wasn't sheltering out enough money to satisfy the taxloarder. And the poverty stricken politicians! In Olympia the Legislature had just reduced the assessed valuation of timber lands from $5 per acre to $1. This was only a minor peccadillo but the language used in the press would take the hair off a cast iron buffalo. Yet no big corporation will admit to lobbying or pressure tactics. As that old politico Jesse Unruh of California states, "No fat cat contributes to a candidate, he INVESTS." He should know. And that makes the little fellow, who tosses $5 of grocery money into a politician's hat, a trusting cat.

Does that old politician's cliché "Economy in government" make you gag when you crawl past a crew, on Interstate 80, building a median strip cross-over 20 yards long and four feet high? Here were four huge dump trucks, a road patrol, a bulldozer, a backhoe, a 20 ton hoist, a three-year power scoop, two unidentified rigs, four pickups, one passenger car and an engineers' panel wagon.

Eight men were loitering around with two flagmen slowing traffic, no doubt to keep traffic from running over some worker who might have fallen asleep on the warm pavement. Returning two weeks later the same crew was on the job.

The fill had raised about two feet and the backhoe was the only machine working. It was scratching around in the borrow pit while flagmen waved their "slow" signs. Any farmer with a scoop on his manure loader, a blade on the rear hitch, a dump truck and a hired hand would have finished that fill and forgotten it.

At Libby Dam in Montana the two big construction companies had full staffs and hundreds of workers on the job. But the staff of the Corps of Army Engineers on that dam exceeded the personnel of the builders.

Economy in government? Bah!

There are a hundred more observations but we're out of paper and can't buy more until the Editor settles for this.

My Hat Is Off

Editor, Times-News:

My hat is off to our younger generation for speaking out in defense of rodeo. I think we older people tend to sit idly by, thinking nothing can happen to the sport we have enjoyed for so many years. The time is now for us to join these young people and speak out in defense of rodeo. For the wheels of the Humane Society and their followers are moving much faster to stop rodeo than we realize. I feel rodeo is one of the healthiest sports our young people can participate in. It teaches them how to win and lose. And most important how to care for animals.

Rodeo producers make their living by producing and furnishing stock for rodeos. All of these animals are extremely valuable to the producer. He cannot afford to have them in anything except top condition, if only to perform for a few seconds. He certainly cannot afford any inhuman treatment of these animals which might endanger their lives. I realize animals are accidentally injured or killed occasionally, while performing. I emphasize "accidentally" because it is only an accident.

We don't outlaw basketball because a player receives a broken ankle during a game, or football when a player sustains injuries and is confined to a wheel chair the rest of his life. Nor is baseball outlawed when a player is hit in the head with a ball and killed. So why rodeo when an animal is injured or killed? I agree rodeo is a rough sport, but aren't all sports? When even our Vice-president can hit a golf ball and smack a spectator?

I contested in at least twenty approved rodeos last year; not to mention several jackpots, and cannot recall any animals being injured. I feel if there was an accurate survey made on the injury and death of rodeo stock during rodeo performances, we would find these were very few incidents. But when brought to the attention of the public by the Humane Society, are blown completely out of proportion.

In order to contest and be a winner, contestants and horses (if contesting on a horse) must be in top physical condition. This is not accomplished by riding in rodeos on weekends. It takes hours of exercising, grooming and training the horse during the week. Not to mention the amount of time one must spend conditioning himself. I am speaking as a barrel racer. I am not a teenager, myself. I am the mother of two teenagers. One is married and about to make me a grandmother.

For those of you concerned with the welfare of the goats being tied, they are in no way injured in this event. To the people who have never tried tying a goat, I assure you it is much harder on the contestant than the goat. The noises you hear from a goat when it is being tied could also be heard if you were around when it was being fed.

I have my own practice goat, and can assure you she has been tied many times. She has suffered no ill-effects. In fact, she has gotten so big I can no longer throw her down. So will retire her (rather than sell her to be eaten) and replace her with a smaller one.

Rodeo is a sport, and should not be endangered by being outlawed by humane societies or anyone else, any more than any other sport. Nor should we allow these people to meddle in rules covering rodeo events. Rules for rodeo are made by competent people who understand the sport. If the Humane Society and people in general with time on their hands would utilize it in seeing that our high schools and colleges appropriate the same amount of money for the sport of rodeo as they do for basketball and etc., their time would be well spent.

Rather than the Humane Society trying to eliminate the sport of rodeo, why not put their money to good use and start a fund to build some indoor arenas, which the state so desperately needs. The only indoor arenas in the state of Idaho, to my knowledge, are privately owned and not open to the public.

Rodeo is one of the few sports left that entire families can enjoy, either as spectators or contestants. Our young people are, as we all should be, concerned with the possibility of it being outlawed. Now is the time for us to join with them in the fight to save this sport. By doing this we'll not only achieve our goal, but will leave behind us a generation that will continue to work for the betterment and continuation of rodeo. Be Alert! Rodeo is in grave danger!

Sacrifice?

Editor, Times-News:

Mark Story's statement that "President Nixon's reasons for escalating the bombing of North Vietnam and the movement of naval vessels to North Vietnam do not justify the continuation of the war" ignores the situation as it exists — totally and completely. Who invaded whose country? Who is trying to deprive another country of its freedom?

As a student at our local college, what sacrifice is Mr. Story willing to make to bring our POW's home or stand by our allies when they are in dire need?

He and his friends will no doubt carry large signs extolling the virtues of "peace" but whose brand of peace? It will not be for the South Vietnamese. It will not be for the United States. It's the kind of "peace" that says any opponent of the North Vietnamese or the communist countries can only be peaceful if he's dead!

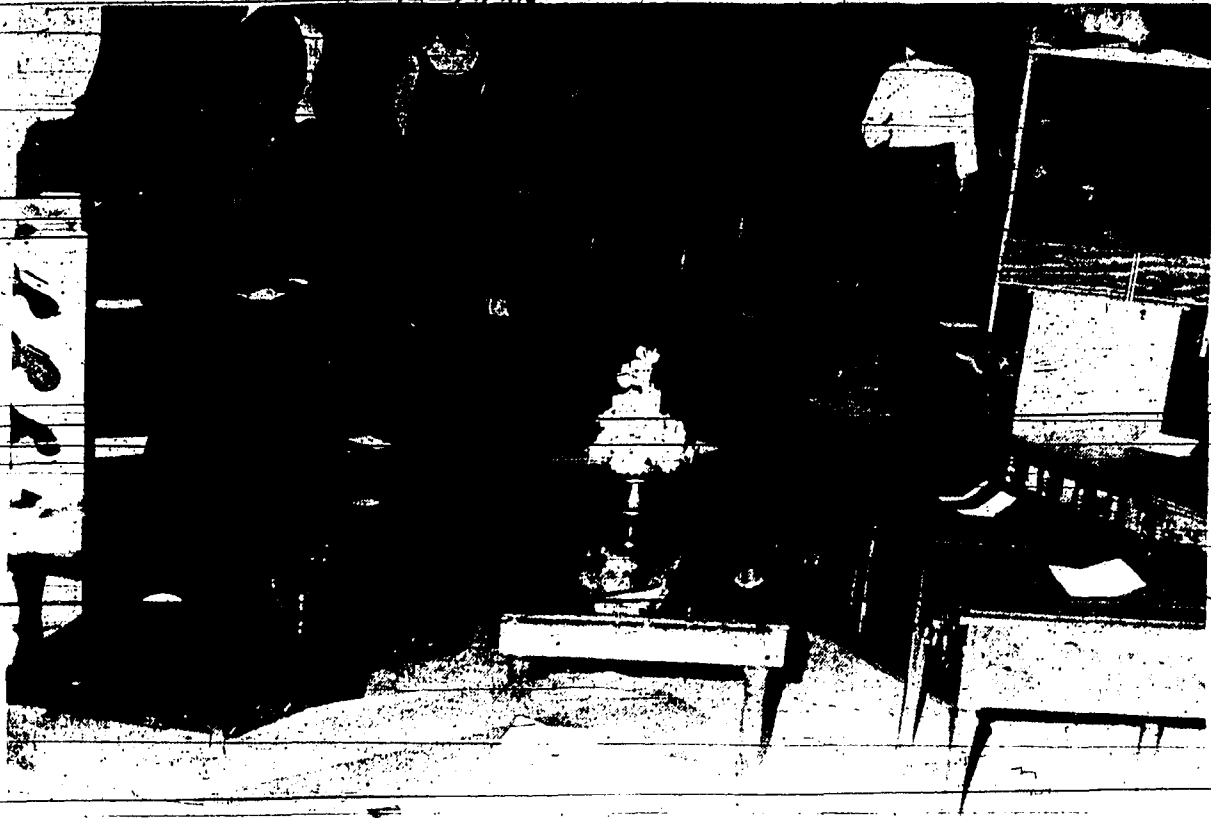

Peace, Mr. Story, in case you haven't heard, is a two-way condition. It exists because two countries, such as Canada and the United States, trust and respect each other. On the other hand, the only thing that keeps Russia from taking over the rest of Europe or making the United States bend to its will, is our unity. We are in Vietnam to prevent the takeover of our small country by its northern neighbor — whose support comes from Russia and China — and that is all! If we lose there, which you young people seem to want so badly, it may be that we will be fighting a lot closer to home within your lifetime.

The denial of free speech to persons who are invited to present their views on any given campus in the United States will only lead to the denial of that same free speech to everyone.

I gather from the attitude of the National Student Association that they couldn't care less about the fact we have tried very hard to wind down the war. Neither do they attempt to get the communists to cease their aggression.

What they are doing is giving aid and comfort to the criminal instead of the victim. Is this what you want? I think it is.

Italian vote nears

ROME (UPI)—Thousands of Italians registered Saturday vote Sunday in parliamentary elections that are expected to make little change in the nation's political scene.

The last-minute rush created traffic jams outside registry offices around Italy. In Rome at midmorning it required 15 minutes for traffic to inch past the main registration office near the Roman Temple of the Vestal Virgins.

Public opinion polls indicated most of the 37,039,769 men and women entitled to vote for a new Senate and Chamber of Deputies would stick to the parties they voted for in the 1968 elections.

The Christian Democrats gained 39.1 per cent of the vote four years ago, the Communists 26.9 per cent, combined Socialists and Social Democrats (who have since split) 14.3, liberals 5.8 and neofascists 4.5. No other party gained more than 4.5 per cent of the vote.

Most attention centered on the far left and right. The largest Communist party in the West has gained in every national election since World War II. The neo-fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI) doubled its vote in local elections last year.

Nixon kin defense contractor

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon's younger brother has obtained a substantial stock interest in a prefabricated building manufacturing company which holds a $4.27 million U.S. Air Force subcontract, the Santa Ana Register said Saturday.

The copyrighted story said Francis Donald "Don" Nixon and his wife became owners of 5,000 shares of stock in Hallamore-Homes Inc., Fountain Valley, Calif., on Feb. 29. Hallamore-Homes, the Register said, was awarded a subcontract last December from Community Science Technology Inc., Los Angeles, to build prefabricated buildings for the Air Force.

Washington columnist Jack Anderson had reported two weeks before the stock transfer that the younger Nixon, 57, Newport Beach, Calif., was attempting to swing government contracts to the Hallamore firm.

At that time, the Register said, Don Nixon told one of its reporters, "I wouldn't dignify that piece of trash by even answering."

At the same time, the Register said, Lloyd Hallamore, president of the two-year-old company, stated, "At no time was there any wrong-doing on the part of myself or Don Nixon or members of the corporation. Don Nixon has been a personal friend for a long time and I know he would never knowingly do anything wrong."

After being informed Friday that the Register had learned of the stock transfer to Nixon, Hallamore said, "If he has any stock, he bought it the same way every one else does."

Hijacker bailed out over Honduras

Parachutist jumps with airline loot

YORO, Honduras (UPI)—A man described as in his mid-40s and believed to be a former Vietnam War pilot parachuted from an Eastern Airlines jet into a Honduran jungle in Central America Saturday with $303,000 he extorted during a 20-hour long hijacking.

The sky pirate, who launched his plot by taking over an Eastern airliner on a domestic U.S. flight Friday, jumped from the 727 jet shortly before dawn near this isolated mountain village, about 1,000 miles south of New Orleans.

Honduran federal police immediately organized a man-hunt and sent search teams into the jungle.

"It is a savage region that still holds some completely primitive Indian tribal villages," one of the government searchers said. "And if he has $300,000 with him, it will not be hard to find people to hide him."

Meanwhile another hijacker, a long-haired youth who said President Nixon would be assassinated if American bombing in Vietnam continued, diverted a Western Airlines jet to Havana Saturday. The youth, armed with a pistol, seized a Salt Lake City to Los Angeles flight Friday and first demanded he be flown to Hanoi.

He later settled for Cuba and the plane landed in Havana at 7:37 a.m. EDT. It later was released by Cuban authorities and flew to Miami.

The parachutist, armed with a .38-caliber gun and a satchel he said was full of explosives, forced the 727 with a crew of six to Central American from New Orleans, where he had exchanged the original hijacked aircraft. Forty-eight passengers and one shaken stewardess were released earlier in Washington.

"He evidently studied our flight schedules," said Robert Martin, an Eastern spokesman. "He was supposedly a pilot in the Vietnam war. He had flown and knew all about airplanes."

The hijacker, described by passengers as white, in his mid-40s, 5-foot-8 and weighing about 160 pounds, boarded Eastern flight 170 in Allentown, Pa. He ordered the plane, which was enroute to Miami with a stop scheduled at the Washington National Airport, to Dulles Airport near Washington, D.C. in rural Virginia where he picked up $303,000 in ransom.

Dissatisfied with the small denomination of the bills he demanded $1,000 and $500 bill substitutes.

Go-getter surrenders

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—Millionaire Glenn W. Turner, founder of the "Dare to be Great" program and Koscot Interplanetary, Inc., surrendered to police Saturday and was charged with conspiracy to commit fraud and conspiracy to violate the state lottery law and the securities act.

Turner was booked, fingerprinted and released on $2,500 bond.

Turner and another unnamed man were charged Friday in Jacksonville by the Duval County Grand Jury. Indictments against Turner had been returned in at least three Florida counties in the last month.

Critics of the flamboyant Turner had charged that his "Dare to be Great" program and his Koscot-Cosmetics operation rely on an illegal multilevel or pyramid sales tactics.

Turner has been ordered to halt his operations in several states and is under investigation in several others.

Turner, the 37-year-old son of a South Carolina sharecropper, has amassed a personal fortune estimated at $150 million from his cosmetics line, based on the regenerative powers of mink oil, and the "Dare to be Great" motivational courses.

He heads Glenn W. Turner Enterprises, a holding company with 68 subsidiaries and annual sales of about $200 million.

Turner's personal life style runs to the God-fearing but gaudy, with flashy mod suits, unburnt cafskin boots and a $3 million pink marble castle he is building in an Orlando suburb.

Turner's operation is set up so that a man can buy a Koscot distributorship for $5,000, with

Twin Falls Lions Club sets sale May 17 to assist handicapped

TWIN FALLS—Products manufactured by the handicapped work forces of Live Inc., Boise, will go on sale in Twin Falls May 17.

Lions Club members will be selling the useful household items in a one-day door-to-door campaign.

poration designed to guide handicapped persons back to a productive life in their own communities.

He said the center receives handicapped persons from throughout the state on a job training basis. The saleable products are the result of their training in various skills and in technical fields while at the center.

"We are not designed to provide a permanent job outlet for these people, but rather to train them for other jobs in the communities from which they come," Taylor said.

"Once a person is capable of doing a job, he is ready to leave the center," Taylor said.

Taylor, who originated Live Inc. through the Department of Public Assistance, said the center, in Boise, is an employment evaluation center and sheltered workshop.

During their stay in the center, the handicapped persons are constantly evaluated and their productivity guided upward to as high an income level as possible.

"Almost everyone can do something, and somewhere there is a job his limited skills can match," Taylor said. "Our job is to build his confidence and train him to do the maximum his abilities will allow and the return him to the community where his services can be used."

Rupert's July 4 parade to feature magic theme

RUPERT — Parade theme for Rupert's Fourth of July parade will be "The Magic of Magic Valley," announces parade officials.

Larry Edgar and Larry Halstead are serving as co-chairmen of the parade.

This year's theme was selected by the committee in anticipation of a bigger and better parade, reported Edgar. It is hoped that individuals and organizations will begin to plan now to enter a float in the annual parade.

Participants are urged to notify either Edgar or Halstead or the Rupert Chamber of Commerce of their intention to enter a float and what category the float will be in.

Featured band for the parade will be the Minico High School Band, said Edgar. The band has also been invited to play a concert in the city park during the afternoon. The chamber of commerce will again sponsor the prizes for the parade winners. New this year will be a prize for the most outstanding drill team and band participating in the parade.

Parade lineup area has been changed to K Street next to the canal west part of Rupert, between First and Eighth Streets.

Regional airport board meet set

BURLEY — The Southern Idaho Regional Airport Authority will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Ponderosa Inn, announces George Forschler, chairman.

Members of the board and committee chairmen are expected to attend and progress reports will be given on the various portions of the proposed regional airport program.

The airport authority comprises five counties including Minidoka, Cassia, Gooding, Jerome and Lincoln. A contract for about $45,000 has been approved for updating of the area regional airport concept with the firm of Barton, Stoddard, Milhollin and Higgins, Boise, according to Forschler.

The Federal Aviation Administration has approved funding of two-thirds of the total cost of the survey which will consider both Joslin Field, Twin Falls, and the site A-1 which has been approved for consideration by the regional airport authority, located north of the Perrine Bridge and east of U.S. 93.

The results of this survey will have a major effect on the final location of an airport in southern Idaho and the allocation of future funding by the FAA, Forschler said.

Topics on the meeting agenda include review board status, approval date of engineering survey, cost of survey and completion date, financing of the regional airport authority to date and availability of funds for survey.

The trustees for the five-county regional airport board must be elected in August during the state primary elections, said Forschler.

Three trustees will be named from the five counties. Nominees must file before the primary election to be listed on the ballot and they will represent designated districts which will be determined by the regional airport authority board and the county commissioners in the five counties.

Regular monthly meetings will be planned for the remainder of the present board's tenure. The present board's term will expire when the three new trustees from the five counties are elected.

Faces along the track

TWIN FALLS — One of the high points of the year for any Cub Scout is the Pinewood Derby. It is the culmination of several weeks of effort devoted to construction of a small wooden racing car which must meet strict specifications for weight, length and width. The Cub Scout often has assistance from his father or another adult.

It is a brief time of high excitement in which smiles of triumph are mingled with a few tears of disappointment.

Showing some of the excitement of race night are members of Cub Scout Pack 67 — of the First United Methodist Church in Twin Falls — their parents and friends. Their endeavors and reactions are typical of those of Pinewood Derby racing fans in other Cub Scout units in Twin Falls and throughout the Magic Valley.

May ITA Festival scheduled in TF

TWIN FALLS — Representatives from 26 western colleges and universities will participate in the fifth annual Interpretation Theatre Alliance Festival.

guest critic

The festival is being hosted by the department of speech and drama at the College of Southern Idaho May 11, 12 and 13, reports Fran Tanner, festival director and first vice president of ITA.

The three-day festival will feature half-hour programs in reader's theater, chamber theater, and/or choral reading presented by approximately fourteen schools.

They will be evaluated by special guest critics, Dr. Pauline Nelson, San Francisco State College, and Dr. Clyde Vinson, University of Utah.

The purpose of the festival is to share ideas in reader's theater and to stimulate groups into creative performances. The festival is conducted as a workshop rather than as a competitive contest.

Schools from Montana, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, California, Washington and Alberta, Canada, will participate.

Special attractions include a lecture-demonstration by Irene and Orlin Corey on "The Imaginative Theatre," May 12 at 8:15 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center.

The Coreys, from Shreveport, La., are internationally known for their work in choral reading, imaginative makeup, and costume design. Their book, "Masque of Reality," is used widely in colleges and universities. Their program is open to the public.

Tickets for their lecture will be obtainable at the door the night of performance.

Other features of the festival include a special showing of "The Village Wooing" by Antiquarian Festival Theatre. The cast, directed by Ditch Bowler, consists of Di Bowler and H. Paul Kliss.

Guest critic Dr. Nelson is a professional-oral interpreter, book reviewer and director who has worked extensively in the

CALLING ALL HOME MAKERS

Brought to You by C.E. "BOB" WADSWORTH

A LOOK INTO THE FUTURE

What will the home of tomorrow be like? Here are some ideas on how our homes will look perhaps 20 or 30 years from now — or less. We thought you might enjoy reading this.

Lamps will be cordless. They will automatically turn on when you enter a room, and then turn off automatically when you leave the room.

You won't have to worry about closing windows any more when it rains. Windows will close electronically by themselves when rain starts.

Walls will be one-way transparent — you'll be able to see out the whole length of the wall space — but nobody will be able to see in.

Some decorators feel tables will be recessed into ceilings and then lowered electronically when needed.

Chairs and sofas will be recessed into walls. When you want one — you just push a button and out it comes into place.

These chairs and sofas will have adjustable legs that will automatically raise or lower for tall or short people.

These are great ideas to think about, and no doubt they'll all come true, but mean while, if you want some present down-to-earth furniture values for your home, we are ready to serve you with the best there is — in the world today — for your home right now.

By HELEN WALKER

TWIN FALLS — Kitchen mini-machines need space — find a convenient spot for their use and storage.

The list of small kitchen appliances available reads like a turnpike exit ticket. Most kitchens boast at least five electrical helpers but the number could be expanded to over 25.

All are useful and add to creative cooking while saving time and energy. But they need space and placement is important for ease of use.

Study how often various small appliances are used. Consider, too, those you would use more frequently if they were easier to get out and put away.

Due to inconvenient storage and use factors, the time and energy you save with the appliance may well be frittered away "fetching" and returning.

There is another angle to this time-motion story. Easy cleaning is always a major consideration in the kitchen. Here suds-quick sanitation is important to family health and timesaving. Anything immersible in sudsy water is helpful. If not, are parts easy to remove for cleaning?

The special coatings on many newer appliance models make washing simpler. Sometimes adding an attachment to the sink, such as a rinse hose spray helps everything in the washing department.

Now, when doing a major kitchen cleaning, reorganizing or remodeling, try to find a convenient spot as possible for each kitchen aid.

Ideally, small appliances should make their home where or near where they are used, especially those frequently in operation, such as a toaster, blender, or can-opener.

The next best storage area is an easily accessible shelf or cabinet.

Wall hooks or pegboard can be one solution to keeping some small appliances handy, without using counter space. Among the "wallables" are hand mixers, electric knives and warming trays.

Seldom used equipment should be stored out of the way but still be easy to retrieve whenever it is needed. Though a cabinet corner or high shelf may be suitable, don't overlook the accessibility value of utility room or basement shelves or cabinets.

Getting the kitchen organized for action isn't always easy, but it pays off to concentrate on convenience. Then meal preparation and washup become easier than ever.

Bankards Welcome

Downtown & Lynwood

DEAR ABBY: This memo came to our office a few days ago. You would be doing a tremendous public service to publish this in your column, Abby.

P. L. SCARSELLA, SEATTLE

DEAR MR. SCARSELLA: Approximately a year ago I published a similar item, but it's worth repeating: DON'T DO IT, SON.

"So you were stopped for a traffic violation and were discovered in possession of pot. And you were convicted of possession—a felony—and received a suspended sentence. Do you think that is the end of it, son?"

"NOT QUITE! You also lost your right to vote, to own a gun or to run for public office. You lost the opportunity of EVER becoming a doctor, dentist, certified public accountant, engineer, lawyer, architect, realtor, osteopath, pharmacist, schoolteacher, barber, or a stockbroker. You can't EVER hold a job where you must be licensed or bonded and you can NEVER work for the city, the county, or the Federal government. You can't be admitted to West Point, Annapolis, or the Air Force Academy; but you CAN enlist in the military service... and be assigned to a labor battalion."

"Son, take it from some guys with a lot of mileage behind them: To you—with a lot of mileage still ahead of you—it just isn't worth it! DON'T DO IT!"

DEAR ABBY: I recently divorced my husband of many years after he was arrested for molesting our young adopted daughter on several occasions. He has done other things over the years, but this was the last straw.

He is now planning to marry a young woman who has three young daughters. Should I tell her why I divorced him so she will be forewarned? Or should I mind my own business? I hate to have him ruin another little girl's life.

Please answer in your column. Perhaps others would also know what to do in a situation like this.

FIRST WIFE

DEAR FIRST: Do unto others as you would have them do unto you. [If you were she, wouldn't you appreciate the warning?]

DEAR ABBY: I have been keeping steady company with a very fine woman, about my age for the past year. I have taken her out for dinners, to the concert, theater, etc. I really enjoy her company.

I recently turned 65, and was retired from my job, thereby reducing my income considerably. Since my lady friend has no money worries, she has been picking up the tab for both of us so that we may continue our social outings. She's very discreet about it. She turns over sufficient money to me beforehand, so that I can "pay" for everything in public.

She never makes me feel beholden to her, but I still can't get used to accepting money from a lady.

Do you approve of this setup, Abby? If so, how can I get over feeling slightly embarrassed?

OLD FASHIONED

DEAR OLD: I see nothing wrong with it, as long as the lady doesn't attempt to obligate you in any way. Your embarrassment will fade once you're convinced that she enjoys your companionship as much as you enjoy hers.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FEELING LOUSY IN MILWAUKEE:" Yes, confession might help. But after all these years, tell it to a priest. What your husband doesn't know can't hurt him.

By Margie Morris

TWIN FALLS — I'm looking forward to old age!!

Since I can do nothing to halt or stall the aging process, I've decided to enjoy it. With each birthday I become more disenchanted with our youth-oriented society.

Categorizing grandparents of retirement age as "senior citizens" and providing them with separate retirement apartments, housing or complete communities disrupts the natural order of living. Few cultures relegate people to increasing levels of oblivion based upon their advancing years.

European and Asian countries respect, honor and revere the elders in their communities. In our country, we equate the words old and elderly with an image of a dottering, senile shadow of former existence.

The scientific and medical strides of this century have greatly increased the human life span. We've witnessed the birth of senior citizen agencies and organizations like AARP (American Association for Retired Persons).

Why not create an agency to integrate these valuable citizens into active positions in our own communities. By virtue of age and experience, the advice and council from a retired person may indeed be invaluable.

A person retires from a job, not from life. If hindsight is better than foresight, a senior citizen certainly has a jump on the rest of us.

My grandmother is a swinging lady with more than eight decades under her belt. She's vital, alert, wears psychedelic prints, drives her own car, plays a mean game of bridge and has been known to tell a shady story or two.

She is quite sensitive about her age. This sensitivity stems from the fact that she doesn't care for the subtle change in attitudes toward her once her age is mentioned.

Grandmother and millions like her have spent a lifetime growing old gracefully. Hopefully, I will too.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: Old age is like everything else. To make a success of it you've got to start young.

Richfield girls hold installation

RICHFIELD — Blue floral arrangements and blue candles set in crystal provided the setting for the Richfield Girls' League installation ceremonies Thursday evening.

The candlelight ceremony was conducted at the Richfield High School lunchroom by Girls' League president Charlotte Davis for members and their mothers.

Cheryl Jensen was installed as president; Joanne Riley, vice president; DeAnn Dixon, secretary; Brenda Johnson, treasurer; and Mickey Holland, student council representative.

Mrs. L. T. Sanders is the club sponsor. Reports were given by members who attended the tri-state convention at Moscow early in April.

The eighth grade girls were welcomed into the group. Following the ceremonies a fashion show was held. Girls in the high school home economics classes modeled outfits they had made during the year.

Narrators were Mickie English and Jene Swainston.

Every member of the bridge columnists union is entitled to his stock of trick hands. The stock is limited, so that all columnists use these same trick hands when ever the spirit moves them.

These trick hands don't have to appear at all complicated. Take today's hand as an example. It looks easy enough. South makes the obvious play of letting the spade lead come around to his king. Then he looks over the hand carefully and sees that, if he lays down the ace of trumps, he will guard against the only danger to the success of his contract, which is to find all four trumps in one hand.

So he lays down the ace of trumps and is pleased with his forethought. West does hold all four trumps.

Several minutes later, he is less pleased because he can't collect 10 tricks. He can lead a trump to dummy's nine at the next trick. Then he can play three rounds of diamonds and trick the third one with dummy's last low trump. Next he cashes dummy's king of trumps and would be home free if he could only find some way to get back to his own hand to pick up that pesky jack of trumps that is still left in the West hand.

Where did South go wrong? If he had stopped to think before playing low from dummy at trick one, he would have seen the danger of four trumps in the West hand and the possible need for an extra entry to his own hand. Then he would have won the first trick with dummy's ace of spades, led a trump to his ace and eventually made the game.

Fancy That

By Norma Herzinger

TWIN FALLS — Who said chivalry is dead?

I met a man recently who has certainly restored my faith in mankind. His lovely wife was of the same caliber, which made the situation doubly special.

Let me explain.

While on a three-day trip out of town several weeks ago, combining business with pleasure, I lost my diamond ring. The ring was not of great monetary value, but it meant a lot to me. My mother gave me the diamonds from two rings of hers and I had them reset in a dinner ring.

When I realized the ring was gone, I was miles from my last stop. I turned around and went back to the last two places I had been. There was no sign of the ring at either place.

Several days later I placed an ad in several southern Idaho community newspapers. Still no response.

Then, during a trip to Washington, D. C., some weeks later, I got a call from a very excited daughter. She explained she had received a call from a man saying a ring he found could be mine as described in the newspaper ad.

When I returned home, I called the number left for me. I had convinced myself it couldn't be my ring after so long a time — and even after talking with him it didn't seem possible. I drove to his home that same night extremely dubious of what I would find.

After describing the ring to him, he produced a neatly tucked box from his pocket. When he opened it I could hardly believe my eyes. It was mine!

When offered a monetary reward, he refused emphatically, as did his wife.

All I could say was "Thank you, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Melander, 130 Tyler St., American Falls."

TWIN FALLS — Motorcyclists of the Checkmates Club in Twin Falls are launching a campaign to abolish "noise pollution" caused by motorcycles.

John Fry, safety committee chairman for the club, said state law requires cyclists to have adequate mufflers on their machines, but many of the machines are used for trail cycle purposes only and are not licensed thus never coming to the attention of law enforcement officers.

Fry said the club is working with law enforcement, U.S. Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management officials in the interest of requiring all machines to have spark arrestors for fire prevention and suitable noise control mufflers.

He said a single unit to handle noise and spark control can be purchased for about $3 or slightly more and will not rob a machine of more than two horsepower. Most of the machines do not require as much horsepower for the use they receive, he said.

In the interest of making the machines more compatible with other outdoor recreation uses, Fry said, all members of the Checkmates Club are following regulations on both spark and noise control and helping educate other cyclists to requirements and courtesy.

He said U.S. Forest Service and BLM requirements stipulate spark arrestors on all machines for fire protection on public lands. Forest officials also prohibit machines without adequate mufflers from use in recreation areas. Safety clinics are being planned for this summer, Fry said, to check machines for proper lights, mirrors and mufflers.

All cyclists are invited to attend the Checkmates meetings each Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Twin Falls City Hall.

Fry said all machines manufactured since 1971 have sound and spark arrestors as standard equipment, and the club is aiming its campaign at the older machines or those on which expansion chambers have been installed for extra power.

Suitable mufflers will eliminate 70 per cent of the noise, Fry said, and unless the machines are used strictly for racing, the power loss is not detected.

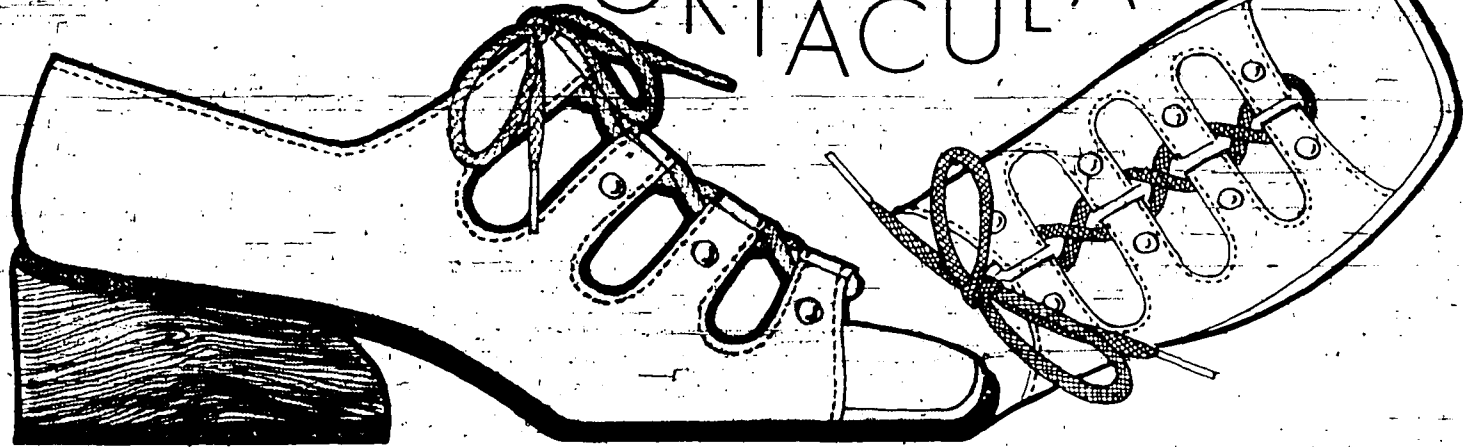

TWIN FALLS — Unity Club will meet at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Carl Boyd. Esther Noble is co-hostess and Mrs. Louis Svehlak is in charge of the program.

Bruins take third straight SIC title

Sievers sets 880 mark, helps break 2 others

Junior Gary Sievers set one record and assisted in two others Friday night when the Twin Falls Bruins won their third straight Southern Idaho Conference track and field championship.

Showing much better depth than expected, the Bruins, dominating the relay, scored 63 1-3 points while Pocatello, which didn't score a point in this event last year, claimed second at 27.1-3, that fraction showing the Bruins ahead of Borah and Capital which tied for third at 27.

Sievers participated in three of the four records set, although another was tied twice. He turned the 880-yard run in 1:57.9, breaking open a three-man duel 180 yards from home and winning easily. He also anchored the 880-yard relay group of Gary Scott, Bruce Cooper and Brent Thompson, to a 1:31.2 clocking in that event, six-tenths better than the 1965 Bruins quartet did it. But he might have been at his best in the final event when he took the mile relay baton four yards behind and beat open quartermile champion Allen of Borah to the tape, this time in 3:24.7, some 1.4 seconds under Borah's old standard.

Pocatello Liggins shelved the broadjump record of 22-3 3/4 by sailing 22-10, somewhat disappointing since the Indian senior had come into the event with 24-2 and 2-8 efforts in his last two competitions. The high hurdle record of 14.6, originally set last year by Idaho Falls

Paul Shaber, was tied by defending state champion Wren of Borah in the preliminaries. Then Hawksworth of Skyline pulled off an upset, and again tied the record, by beating Wren by a foot in the finals. It was Wren who set the upset one in last year's state meet when he stunned Shaber in the hurdles. Friday he got a taste of what it was like: Hawksworth ripped him again by perhaps five inches in taking the low hurdles, too.

Twin Falls came up with some surprising efforts in its biggest challenge thus far in a bid for three straight state crowns. The relay events held up well, the Bruins winning three of them and seconding Capital in the medley. Junior John Blake joined the exclusive 14-foot club in the pole vault, in nailing down a second place. He attained that height without a miss, giving him three weeks of steady improvement, amounting to 16 inches.

Junior Brent Thompson added another pleasant surprise for Coach Jerry Kleinkopf when he won the 220-yard dash — just when it appeared Twin Falls' early season domination of the sprint was winding to a close. In all Twin Falls closed in 14 of the 15 events it was qualified in — missing out in two during the eastern division eliminations.

The relay winning blunted the bid of Borah to make a run for the title or at least take second place. Minico's showing was hampered by the injury-enforced absence of hurdler Toby Harding, a sure point winner, but the Spartans picked up a first when Bair won the discus at 150 feet. The Spartans' junior sprinting ace, Roy Young, placed third in the 100-yard dash and fourth in the 220-yard dash, but both races were extremely close, one through five.

Idaho Falls' Brian Parker, defending state champion on both counts, was the easiest winner of the day, taking both the mile and two-mile.

The close races found Allen of Borah just nipping Twin Falls' Bruce Cooper and Alan Gibbs in the quartermile, the hurdle events and Sievers' come-from-behind leg in the mile relay, not mentioning the two short sprints.

Caldwell ends TF golf reign

TWIN FALLS — The Caldwell Cougars ended a four-year reign of the Twin Falls Bruins by taking the Southern Idaho Conference golf championship Friday afternoon.

The Cougars totaled 293 strokes against 299 for co-runners-up Twin Falls and Nampa. The SIC not only ruined Twin Falls' undefeated boast but snapped another mark of always having at least a share of the medalist pin. The low score was posted by co-medalists Russ Neil of Nampa and Keith Evers of Capital.

Following the top three in team scoring were Boise 306, Capital 311, Idaho Falls 312, Highland 314, Skyline 317, Pocatello 326, Minico 333 and Borah 336.

Indiana overpowers New York 124-103 to open ABA series

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — The Indiana Packers, sparked by a pair of flashy guards, Freddie Lewis and Billy Keller, overpowered the New York Nets Saturday, 124-103, in the opener of their best-of-seven series for the American Basketball Association crown.

The Western Division champs, who last Monday dethroned champion Utah, took charge of the nationally televised game late in the third period to score their easiest win since the start of the post-season playoffs.

The second game will be played at Indianapolis Tuesday night before the series shifts to New York.

The six-foot Lewis tossed in 31 points to offset Rick Barry's 34 in a losing cause. Lewis, who canned two of Indiana's four three-point field goals, exploded for 26 of his total in the second half, while teammates Mel Daniels and Roger Brown each pumped in 23 and Keller 19.

The score was tied 11 times and the lead changed hands 10 times before Indiana pulled ahead for good on Lewis' first "home run" shot late in the third period for a 77-74 lead.

Wendell repeats as A-3 district champ

Junior duo paces win; GF second

MURTAUGH — Juniors Alan Stevenson and Kip Dennis romped for three firsts each and threw in relay and second-place points Friday.

They lead the Wendell Trojans to another fourth district A-3 track and field title.

Stevenson won the long jump, 100 and 220-yard dashes and anchored the winning quarter-mile relay team while Dennis took both hurdles — setting the only record of the day in the highs — and added a first in the high jump and second — for the first time this spring — to Stevenson in the 220.

At the end Wendell had brutalized the remainder of the district with 74 points with Glenns Ferry, its anticipated distance strength never making a showing — grabbed second at 36. Gooding State completed its most successful year with its best showing ever, third place at 31.

The top three in each event will advance to the regional runoffs against their counterparts from the third district Saturday afternoon at Twin Falls Bruin Stadium. The top winners there will advance to state at Boise the week after.

Dennis had one wobbly minute over the fifth hurdle and hit the last one en route to a 15.1 flat clocking that shelved the 15.1 record posted in 1960 by Castleford's Keith Barnes.

Other than that the field gave the record book little threat and, indeed, the first places pretty much had their races to themselves as the A-3 field proved perhaps its shallowest in eight years.

But nothing could dim the Wendell juniors' performances. After winning the high jump it appeared logical that Dennis, duplicating his brother Kirk's feat of the past couple years, would get four firsts.

But Stevenson took the 220-yard dash away from him at the midpoint of the curve and Dennis couldn't get the couple yards back — moot point since Wendell glommed the 10 points. Stevenson had a better than excellent start in the 100-yard dash in posting his best time of 10.1 and his anchor leg pulled Wendell's quarter-mile relay baton form a definite second to Camas County and into a two-yard victory. He also repeated as the district long jump king.

Joining in the good individual showing was Castleford sophomore Schultz whose long strides carried him to a strong victory over favored Chuck Morgan of Wendell in the quarter.

Richfield's mile relay team refused to 'will' under three challenges by Glenns Ferry and led almost all the way in taking the last event.

Before then, Gooding State proved the distance aggregation. John Hunter, holding off teammate McCalley in the closing 50 yards, won the mile and was unopposed — in fact double lapping at least three men — in taking the two-mile. McCalley came on to win the half.

Team scoring: Wendell 74, Glenns Ferry 36, Gooding State 31, Castleford and Hansen 27, Shoshone 21, Kimberly 16, Camas County 12, Murtaugh 12, Richfield 10, Declo 4, Malheur and Pragerman 3, Oakley 2 and Carey 1.

High hurdles — Dennis, W. Wendell, 15.1 (new record, old record 13.1 set by Keith Barnes, Castleford, 1960).

800 yard relay — Wendell (Higginbotham, Marlow, Webb, Morgan), Camas County, Castleford, Declo, Glenns Ferry, 3:36.9.

100 yard dash — Stevenson, W. Hopkins, H. Slanger, H. Barnes, M. Sweet, C. G. 10.1.

Mile run — Hunter, G. McCalley, G. Brown, Hag, Warner, Oak, Johnson, G. 4:43.8.

440 yard relay — Wendell (Isaacs, Marlow, Webb, Stevenson), Camas County, Kimberly, Hansen, Declo 4:06.

440 yard dash — Schultz, Camas, Morgan, Murtaugh, Glenns Ferry, 3:54.4.

220 yard dash — Stevenson, W. Dennis, W. G. 11.6.

2 mile run — Hunter, G. Webb, Sh. Severa, Cat, Johnson, G. Allen, G. 10:27.5.

Mile relay — Richfield (Brown, Daley, Allred, Hubsmith), Glenns Ferry, Castleford, Shoshone, Carey 3:41.2.

Pole vault — Jacobson, 300 (116) Shelby, G. and Jones, G. (4) Howard, K. and (5) Hunter, G. 10.9.

CROSSING THE LINE, Wendell's Chuck Morgan keeps the Wendell 880-yard relay baton ahead of Camas County's Mike Gill and Schultz of Castleford in the district class A-3 finals Friday. Wendell repeated as district team champion.

Move to shorter seasons and control hunts aired at meet

TWIN FALLS — A move to shorter seasons and controlled hunts was unveiled Friday night by the Idaho Fish and Game Department at a public hearing.

The meeting, held at the Holiday Inn, was designed to let area sportsmen voice their opinions on the setting of big game season lengths and bag limits. By and large, following a unit-by-unit explanation by Game Biologist Dale Turnipseed, the 45 sportsmen had little opposition.

Mostly the sportsmen sought more checking stations and enforcement to prevent poaching and over-killing, reduction of hunter and guides salt lick stands and crowding drainages with camps.

One man expressed opposition to the continued move to controlled hunts, noting the state had fought long and hard to remove these. The sportsman, Marshall Everheart of Jerome, noted the precluding hunters in one area simply concentrated them in general areas and eventually, to prevent over-kill, all areas would need permits.

The sportsmen seemed satisfied with the department attempts for supplemental feeding of distressed animals during critical winter periods.

In his point-by-point recommendations, Turnipseed listed:

Unit 162-1 (Picabo Hills), 300 permits; unit 152-2 (Lava Flats) 130 permits; Unit 45, Nov. 4-Dec. 3 with control; Unit 46, Oct. 21-Nov. 29, regulations same as last year; unit 47, Oct. 21-29, 400 deer tags; unit 48, (Big Wood) Oct. 7-Nov. 12, same permit number with seven-day season reduction; unit 49, Oct. 7-Nov. 12, seven-day reduction in season; unit 54 (Cassia) Oct. 21-Nov. 5 with 2,000 permits;

Unit 55, Oct. 21-Nov. 12, increase of 300 to 1,300 permits and additional seven days to season; Unit 56, Oct. 21-Nov. 5, 2,000 permits with interstate 80 closed by one-half mile on each side; and unit 57, Oct. 21-Nov. 5, 400 permits with one-half mile boundary closure on each side of interstate 80.

Turnipseed noted the highway closure was designed to preclude two things. The first was harassment of migrating deer from summer to winter range, the movement being triggered by the opening of the season. The second was, methods of helping deer pass over or under the interstate will be installed. Wing nets will be spread to funnel the deer into this point and the department doesn't want hunter sitting at the end of the funnel shooting deer.

He also recommended: The regional goat hunts, 643-1, 643-2 and 648 remain the same with eight, six and 14 permits; Antelope units and permits 446 and 15; 447 and 30; 449 and 75; 452-1 and 35 and 452-2 and 10. The last two denote division of previous unit 452.

Coyote and bobcat hunting allowed in units 43 and 44 from Oct. 7 to Nov. 19. Cougar hunting, six permits on unit 46 from Jan. 1 to Feb. 28. Units 43, 44, 45, 47 and 48 closed to cougar hunting with hounds. However, a "non-consumptive" season (not killing the cougar) will be allowed for photographers and those wanting to train hounds.

The upland bird seasons follow the standardized dates, Sept. 1 for mourning doves; quail and partridge Sept. 16 and pheasants Oct. 20.

In addition, Turnipseed said he's proposed leaving the archery seasons untouched, except for adding seven days to second with 56 points in a dog fight with Mountain Home (53) and Buhl (50). Gooding was fifth with 33 and Filer had 13.

The field was sprinkled with double winners with Wood River boasting a pair in Kim Crofts and Rick Ward. Crofts won both hurdles, the highs, by an eyelash over Jerome's rapidly improving Randy Hobley. Crofts bid for three firsts was stopped in the 220-yard dash where Mountain Home's Ole McNamar beat him to the tape. McNamar also added the 440-yard dash but was upset by teammate Campfield in the 100-yard dash, finishing second.

Ward continued to get company in the mile run from Buhl junior Pat Charlton who extended the Wood River junior to about the limit. Ward came back to win the mile in a conservative 10:15.6 as Charlton didn't double for the first time this spring.

Leise's late homer lifts CSI into regional meet

Bob Leise cracked a two-out, ninth-inning solo homer in the bottom of the rubber game Saturday afternoon to propel the College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles past Mesa College 6-5 and into the regional junior college baseball tournament.

Leise's offensive heroics, into the teeth of a brisk breeze, gave the victory to righthander Kurt Barron who came on with a masterful bit of relief pitching that snuffed out a burgeoning Mesa rally in the eighth.

The victory gave CSI the 2-1 series edge as Barron won the opener 6-5 before Mesa claimed the second game Friday 4-2.

The Eagles now wait until May 19-20 to play in a four-team, single elimination regional playoff at Ontario, Ore., and if successful there will advance to the national junior college playoffs in Grand Junction, Colo.

Barron earned the victory in the eighth when Mesa sidled on reliever Jack Rowberry.

Cavner opened with a hit and after a sacrifice, an error and Lange's single loaded the bases. Garcia plated the tying run with a hit. Then came Barron to fan the last two men and controlled Mesa in the top of the ninth.

A single and three walks gave Mesa a short-lived 1-0 lead in the second and it padded that with another in the third when Hamilton singled and eventually scored on a wild pitch.

CSI rebounded with four in the third as Leise lived on an error and Mike McGraw singled. Bob Dunsmore second on a run with a double and Ben Plaza and Vic Wells followed with singles worth three more.

CSI stretched ahead 5-2 in the fourth when John Wilson walked and Leise doubled him home.

Mesa pulled to within one in the fifth when Lange and Larson singled and Hamilton and Konopka laced doubles.

In Friday's opener, Barron drove in two runs with a single and Leise beat out a daring two-out RBI bunt to highlight a five-run inning and break a 0-0 tie. Mesa, being the home team, came up with three runs in the bottom of the fifth. But in the sixth, CSI moved out of reach when Dunsmore's single delivered the clinching runs.

Mesa bounced back in the nightcap behind the pitching of Jim York. The Mavericks scored twice in the first and seventh innings and York shut the Eagles out until the eighth.

Leise got that run when he singled, moved to second on an overthrow and romped in on Vic Wells' safety. But the Eagles could add only one more run in the ninth, that coming when Mike Touchette singled and McGraw followed with an RBI double.

Killebrew powers Twin win

BOSTON (UPI)—Harmon Killebrew drove in his second and third runs of the day with a long double to left-center field in the eighth inning Saturday to snap a 1-1 tie and give the Minnesota Twins a 3-2 win over the Boston Red Sox.

Pitcher Jim Perry opened the inning with a base hit and went to third on Rod Carew's double to right field. Killebrew laced the ball high off the wall in left-center to score both men.

Tom Harper smacked a home run over the left field fence for Boston in the bottom of the eighth.

RIGHT IN UNISON. Skyline's Robb Hawksworth has about a four-inch leg lead on Borah's Wren going over the seventh high hurdle and that's the way it ended in the SIC track meet Friday. Hawksworth won a similar decision in the lows, handing the defending state hurdle champion a double setback.

Racers can't catch Malloy

Twenty cars were on the track, two less than Friday.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Billy Vukovich, Gary Bettenhausen and Peter Revson improved their speeds at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Saturday but still lag behind Jim Malloy, who has been the pace-setter thus far in "500" practice.

Malloy's 188.048 miles per hour Friday was the fastest speed recorded thus far in practice for the May 27, 500-mile auto race. Malloy, from Denver, did not take to the track Saturday as he and his crew worked on the car in the garage.

Vukovich, of Fresno, Calif., took top speed honors Saturday with a 186.567, a fraction higher than his previous top speed. Bettenhausen, of Tinley Park, Ill., turned one lap at 196.3 and Revson, of Redondo Beach, Calif., reached 184.162. Revson holds the official Indianapolis 500 record of 179.354 and 178.696 m.p.h. for one and four laps, but there's no doubt his marks will be broken by a number of racers this year.

Already 11 cars have exceeded 180 m.p.h. in practice, although no newcomers topped that plateau Saturday.

Other top speeds Saturday included defending champion Al Unser of Albuquerque, N.Mex., 182.445; Gordon Johncock of Mount Pleasant, Mich., 182.371; and three-time winner A.J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., 181.525.

Mel Kenyon of Lebanon, Ind., reached 179.462 and former "500" king Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., had a lap at 179.1.

John Martin of Long Beach, Calif., completed his rookie test.

Newcombe may default finals

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Australia's John Newcombe and South Africa's Cliff Drysdale posted semifinal victories in the Alan King Tennis Classic Saturday but Newcombe suffered a severely strained stomach muscle and may have to default in Sunday's finals.

"I'll play Cliff if it's at all possible," Newcombe said. "After all, there's a big difference between the $10,000 to the winner and the $5,000 to the runner-up."

Newcombe found himself incapacitated after beating Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-1, 7-5 and then had to default in Saturday's doubles finals.

Newcombe and his partner, Tony Roche of Australia, were scheduled to play countrymen Rod Laver and Roy Emerson.

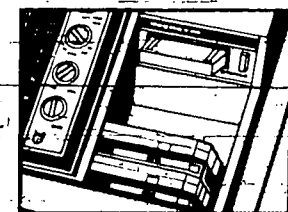

In the other semifinal match, Drysdale turned back Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 6-4, 6-

Devlin cards 7 birdies to take lead at Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Bruce Devlin, overcoming erratic winds which bothered second day leader Hale Irwin, struck for seven birdies Saturday for a five-under-par 67 to grab a two-stroke lead in the $125,000 Houston Open.

Mays-to-Mets story may end in announcement on Tuesday

NEW YORK (UPI)—While the Willie Mays-to-New York story seemed to be coming closer and closer to reality Saturday, no formal negotiations between the Mets and the San Francisco Giants have been made regarding the fabled slugger.

And, no talks concerning Mays will be made until Tuesday when Giant owner Horace Stoneham comes here, preceding a three game San Francisco-New York series which begins on Friday.

Pirates coast past Reds 8-1

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates scored two runs in the second inning and added five more in the third when the first six batters hit safely, then coasted to an 8-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Saturday behind the four hit pitching of Steve Blass.

chairman of the Met board, will sweeten the pot for Mays with a pitcher or two. Among those mentioned being ticketed for the pitching poor Giants are righthanders Jim McAndrew, currently 1-0, and Charlie Williams, who is with New York's Tidewater farm team.

Grant, who has always kept a standing offer open to Stoneham regarding Mays, has also promised the Giants owner that the future Hall-of-Famer would be taken care of financially by the New York club when his playing days are over.

McDowell wins 4th for Giants

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Chris Speier's two run homer in the fifth carried the San Francisco Giants to a 3-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday as Sam McDowell posted his fourth straight victory.

Speier's homerun, his third of the season, followed a two out infield single by McDowell and tagged Dick Selma 1-2, with the loss. It was the first round tripper against Philly pitching in 57 innings.

his time off the tour designing golf courses, relied on strong iron shots and a sharp putter to pickup five strokes and go 10 under for the 72 hole tournament. Irwin, who started the round 10 under, slumped to a two over 74 on the 6,998-yard Westwood Country Club course.

Devlin, whose best finish this year was a fifth-place tie at the Masters, sank birdie putts of 3, 2, 3, 15, 7, 15 and 2 feet. He drove 290 yards straight down the fairway on the mammoth par 4, 580-yard fifth hole, hit a 6-iron three feet from the cup and sank the birdie putt.

Devlin, 34, a native of Australia, was 69-70-67-206 but disappointed he didn't have a better round.

"I haven't been playing a lot because I am spending a lot of my time building golf courses and apartments," he said. "I am not practicing when I am off the tour and my game has suffered a bit. I decided a couple months ago to play little more."

Irwin, 26, suffered five bogeys and was bothered by 20 mph wind gusts.

"I missed a lot of good shots when I guessed wrong on the club selection," the former University of Colorado golfer said. "The wind came up four times and each time it cost me a bogey. But I don't want to blame the round on that. It was a 74 and I'll have to take it."

Irwin was 67-67-74-209 and sank birdie putts of 20 feet on the par 5, 505-yard ninth hole and had a 6 foot putt on No. 17 after a 90 yard wedge shot.

Thorpe was 33-37-72 and disappointed in some of his followers.

"I feel proud that I am only three off the pace and shot a 72 but some blacks don't see it that way," the Detroit golfer said. "You tell them you can't shoot a 66, 65, 67 every day and they look at you like you were crazy."

Ewing, of Bakersfield, Calif., stroked 26 putts in shooting the three-under 69, dropping birdies of 5, 12 and 18 feet. He suffered one bogey and scored another birdie with a 40 foot chip shot on the par 3, 170-yard 10th hole.

"Putting used to be the strongest part of my game," he said. "Now it's the weakest."

Bruins nip Borah, fall to Boise

The Twin Falls Bruins rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to nip Borah 4-3 but fell to Boise 3-2 in the nightcap of an error-filled twin bill Saturday.

Twin Falls scored single runs in the third and fifth inning as Gary Ward sent Mark Hanchey across twice with a single and a squeeze bunt. Borah came back in the fourth when three consecutive errors, followed by Adams hit up the middle and a long double by Tim Magnuson scored three.

In the last inning, Hanchey opened with a walk, but was forced at second on Dick Walker's grounder. Larry Ward followed with a double to send Walker across and Gary Ward hit a bouncer to shortstop. But as the throw from short went to first base, Larry Ward kept running, drawing a wild throw to third base. He scored on that miscue.

In the second game, Boise jumped ahead when Monagle lived on an error and rode in on Maxwell's double. In the third, after two outs, Bob Frisch and Maxwell collected doubles for one run and an error let the decisive tally come home.

Twin Falls got one back in the second when Keisel drew a walk, stole second and scored on Chuck Bowyer's single. In the fourth, Gary Ward doubled and eventually scored on a fielder's choice. But Boise Terry Sheehan slammed the door thereafter with 10 strikeouts.

ERRANT THROW carooms off the glove of Twin Falls' first baseman Jay Ronk and skims the top of an unidentified Boise runner's head during play Saturday at Jaycee Park. A third strike went away prompting the bad throw from the catcher, Boise won 3-2.

Field closes on leader

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—The field closed in on Betty Burfeindt Saturday in the third round of the Sealy Ladies PGA Classic, but the blonde better from Gaanan, N.Y., still enjoyed a three-stroke lead going into Sunday's finale of the $50,000 event.

Eight shots ahead after 36 holes, Miss Burfeindt added a shaky three-over-par 76 Saturday to her earlier sub-par efforts of 67-70 for a 54-hole total of 213 on the Desert Inn course.

Tied for second place at 216 in the chase for first money of $10,000 were Judy Rankin, Midland, Texas, and Kathy Ahern, Denton, Texas. Miss Rankin scored 71 Saturday after previous rounds of 72-73.

Miss Ahern tied Saturday's low of 70 to go with a pair 73s. Still another Texan, Conroe's Gerda Boykin, turned in the other 70 Saturday and was safely installed in fourth place at 217, three shots in front of fifth place Sharon Miller, Marshall, Mich.

6 researchers cited

AWARD OF MERIT is presented to Dr. Marvin Jensen, left, director of Snake River Conservation and Research Center, Kimberly, for his work in computerized irrigation scheduling. Six researchers were given individual awards and bonuses by John C. Stephens, branch chief of northwest soil and water conservation research division, ARS.

KIMBERLY — Six men from the Snake River Conservation and Research Center, Kimberly, have received awards of merit for their work in computer scheduled irrigation.

The research group, headed by Dr. Marvin Jensen, center director, and Dr. James Wright, research scientist, has been working on a computer scheduled irrigation procedure that increases the efficient use of water and in turn, greater economic returns.

The method applies the latest meteorological principals to irrigated agriculture.

Others in the research team include Ben Pratt, B.J. Ruffing, John L. Stevens and James Chapman.

The awards were presented Wednesday by John C. Stephens, branch chief of the northwest soil and water conservation research division, Agricultural Research Service.

Besides certificate of award, $1,000 was divided among the six men as a bonus for their work

Idaho lab sets tests

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Bureau of Animal Industry livestock disease control laboratory is one of 20 laboratories in the U.S. approved to run a special test on the movement of horses.

Oscar C. A. Stein, commissioner of agriculture, said the test is required by Canada on the movement of all horses from the U.S. to Canada.

He said the "Coggins test" discloses a disease known as infectious anemia of horses known to be infected carry the infection, which is transmitted by biting insects or by use of non-sterile medical instruments.

Arstein said the disease is known to exist in Idaho but it is a rather rare condition. The Idaho laboratory will make the test available without charge when the samples are submitted by a licensed veterinarian.

Meat price hike laid to retailers by House

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A forthcoming report is likely to put much of the blame for early 1972 meat price increases on retailers, informed congressional sources predicted Friday.

The report, summarizing findings by the House Livestock and Grains Subcommittee in public hearings last month, is being drafted by staff aides who said they could not forecast its contents.

But Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., chairman of the subcommittee, is known to have come out of the hearings dissatisfied with the answers food chain spokesmen provided on their costs and margins on meats.

Purcell was said to feel that meat packers and farmers documented their claims that price changes at the farm and wholesale levels were justified, but that food chain testimony left many gaps.

Initial drafts of a proposed subcommittee report were expected to be in Purcell's hands next week for review. If the Texan goes ahead with current plans, he will later present the material to his subcommittee for its consideration.

The indication that the Purcell panel may give much of its attention to retailers' margins was another sign that farm forces have, for the moment, at least — successfully headed off conversion of the early 1972 wave of meat price publicity into government action to control livestock prices.

The administration's price commission chairman, C. Jackson Grayson Jr., announced this past week the commission decided against recommending additional controls on food. The commission decided such controls would raise the danger of "disrupting a delicate supply and demand situation," Grayson said.

This was the heart of the argument voiced vigorously in recent weeks by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz and other farm spokesmen. Butz warned repeatedly that meat ceilings would discourage farmers from badly-needed expansion of livestock herds and charged that meat ceilings would lead to consumer rationing.

"We knew we were in a strong position from the start (of the meat price controversy)," Butz summed up in a speech at Trenton, N.J., earlier in the week.

"Some people thought maybe I fired a little too quickly... but you can shoot in rapid-fire fashion when you're right, and have the facts, and are not hiding anything," Butz said.

The food price furor has eased recently, partly because declines in cattle and wholesale meat prices have been converted into reduced retail prices for beef and pork.

An Agriculture Department report late last month showed the retail cost of a typical family market basket in March down 0.4 per cent from a month earlier despite expanded retail store margins.

Gem spud unit slates session

BOISE — The Idaho Potato Commission will meet May 17 in Boise with a U.S. Department of Agriculture market study team.

According to Commission Chairman Jack Allred, Twin Falls, each commission member will have the opportunity to discuss some aspect of the potato industry with the team.

The market team was appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz to inquire into the potato industry on a national basis and prepare a report for Butz by September of this year.

The Boise meeting will be at the Rodeway Inn, and another meeting is scheduled by the marketing team May 18 at Idaho Falls. These will be the only visits to Idaho by the team.

The team, which includes top officials from the Agriculture Department, will also meet in Boise with Gov. Cecil Andrus and Idaho Commissioner of Agriculture Oscar Arstein.

Meetings will be scheduled with grower, shipper and processor groups during the Idaho visits, Allred said.

The Idaho Potato Commission has approved an additional $35,000 for its extended season consumer radio advertising campaign in five cities, according to Allred.

The additional funds bring the amount that will be spent on advertising of potatoes held for late season storage to $66,000.

New VW agency building rises

TWIN FALLS — A $190,000, 9,000-square foot area building being built on Blue Lakes Boulevard North for Blue Lakes Volkswagen will be ready for business in July.

According to David M. Hoggan, president and general manager of the auto firm, groundbreaking for construction of the new building was Monday.

He said the facility should be finished within a 90-day period. Hoggan said all new shop and office equipment and furnishings will be installed in the facility because everything had been destroyed in the Youree Motor Co. fire. He estimated the cost of the new equipment at $20,000.

Hoggan said Blue Lakes Volkswagen will probably be one of the first dealers in the northwest to have the new computer service diagnosis.

The computer plugs directly into a special unit integrated in the computer makes 68 different readings in a 20-minute period, checking the operation of the car. The results of the reading are printed out on paper for the service man and customer to see. The system has the capability to check pollution emissions, he said.

Hoggan said, nine original Youree Motor employees will be retained. Six other employees will be added to the staff.

The building was designed by Juan Stone, Twin Falls, following basic national VW standards. Construction will be done by Ullman Construction Co., Twin Falls.

The land and building will be owned by R and K Investment Co., a subsidiary of the northwest district for Volkswagen. Hoggan said Blue Lakes Volkswagen will lease the building and property from the larger company.

Hoggan said Blue Lakes Volkswagen hopes to be the service point for 5,000 VW owners in Magic Valley Area.

Brandt slates test on treaty

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Willy Brandt said Friday he will put his nonaggression treaties with Russia and Poland to a parliamentary test next Wednesday even though a week of negotiation has failed to overcome opposition objections.

As matters stood when Brandt ended a two-hour meeting with opposition leader Rainer Barzel at noon, the government was still one short of the 249 votes needed to ratify the pacts.

But Brandt told Barzel he intended nonetheless to put the treaties to a parliamentary vote Wednesday night at the latest, spokesman Conrad Ahlers reported to a news conference.

Despite the parliamentary deadlock, Brandt's cabinet approved a general traffic agreement negotiated with East Germany's Communist regime 10 days ago. Ahlers said the contract will be initialled next week, but signed only after the nonaggression pacts are ratified.

The Soviet Union also is delaying signature of the Berlin agreement it reached with the United States, Britain and France until the Bonn Parliament approves the nonaggression treaty.

Opposition Christian (Christian Democrats) reject the nonaggression treaties in their present form. However, Barzel accepted when Brandt proposed a week ago they try to draft a parliamentary resolution embodying their joint foreign policy aims.

Barzel said the resolution must make it clear that by signing a nonaggression pact recognizing Europe's borders as inviolable, the divided German people is not denied its right of self-determination.

It also must make clear Bonn expects ratification of the treaties to result in more freedom of movement across the West-East German demarcation line, and that Russia does not challenge West German membership in the Common Market.

The resolution also must be binding on the Soviet Union, Barzel said. He left uncertain however the manner in which

FTC scores second win in ad campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission said Friday the makers of Ocean Spray Cranberry Juice Cocktail had agreed to correct in future advertising the allegedly false nutritional claims it made in past ads.

A consent order, provisionally accepted by the FTC, marked the agency's second triumph in its campaign to force companies to run "corrective ads" so that consumers would not continue to believe allegedly false claims.

The first corrective ad case involved Profile Bread, and the corrective ads said that Profile is not good for weight reduction and is a bit lower in calories than other breads only because its slices are thinner.

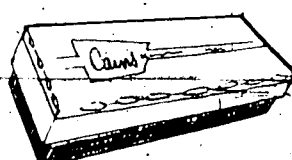

The FTC is seeking similar corrective ads in cases involving Wonder Bread, Hostess Snack Cakes, Hi-C Beverage and Sugar, Sunoco and Chevron gasoline, Lysol Disinfectant, Listerine mouthwash and several analgesics.

The Merry pet

By LINDA MERRY, D.V.M.

Question: I have a German shepherd that appears to be small for his age. He is approximately 4 months old and weighs only 18 pounds.

He seems to be very healthy and active. I feed him a leading dog food, about a tablespoon of evaporated milk, and a tablespoon of cooking grease three times a day.

He is not skinny and is filled out quite well for his size. Everyone I show him to says he looks small. Is he small for his age?

If so, will he eventually fill out to normal size when he gets older? What is the average size for a German shepherd male?

Answer: Have you seen matama and papa? The average male German shepherd weighs between 75 and 85 pounds when he's full grown.

But if mom and dad were only 12 inches high, junior can't expect to stand two feet in his bare pads.

Besides heredity, nutrition is important. Sounds like you're feeding a good diet but I would also recommend a calcium, phosphorus and vitamin D supplement while he's growing. And, if he hasn't been checked for worms, he should be.

The American Kennel Club calls a dog fully mature at 18 months. Until then there's high hopes and don't forget that dogs can grow in spurts.

Question: I have a male cat. I have had him for a year and a half. Everytime anyone goes to pick him up or wants to pet him he runs away frightened. If you talk softly to him he'll sit run away. What should I do to make him not frightened?

Answer: You may not be able to do anymore than have patience and accept him as he is. Each animal has his own personality and a cat one and a half may not be able to overcome his fear of humans.

A kitten that is mistreated, abandoned, or isolated from human love, as the litters of many strays are, learn to mistrust humans at the very time he should be forming a bond with them.

Sometimes gentleness and love can overcome this early trauma, sometimes it can't. You might consider castration as an aid in the program. It won't make a timorous tom any braver but it could help to make him less nervous.

Question: I would like to know what to do for a dog with bad breath and what causes it? My dog's breath smells so bad at times you can hardly stand him close to you.

Answer: Hold your breath, open his mouth, and take a look at his teeth. Chances are they're dirty with accumulated tartar, calculus, formation, and inflamed or infected gums.

Dogs don't brush after every meal (or any meal for that matter), but they do eat and food particles do build up. Most dogs need to have their teeth cleaned every year or two years at the outside.

I think a veterinarian can make life more pleasant for both of you by putting the dog in the dentist's chair.

Move To Ban 'Illegitimate'

That movement to ban the word "illegitimate" from vital statistics files is gaining ground. Good. Proponents say one youngster in every 10 would be so designated. If all birth certificates were marked in that manner, they note 21 out of every 100 first-born children now are known to be conceived out of wedlock, but fortunately, aren't stigmatized.

WHEN THE survey takers in the Philadelphia study of leisure asked numerous wives if they wished they could spend more time with their husbands, three out of 10 said no, not really. Or words to that effect. Shocking, this. Clearly, it explains why so many marriages are demolished almost immediately after they're molished.

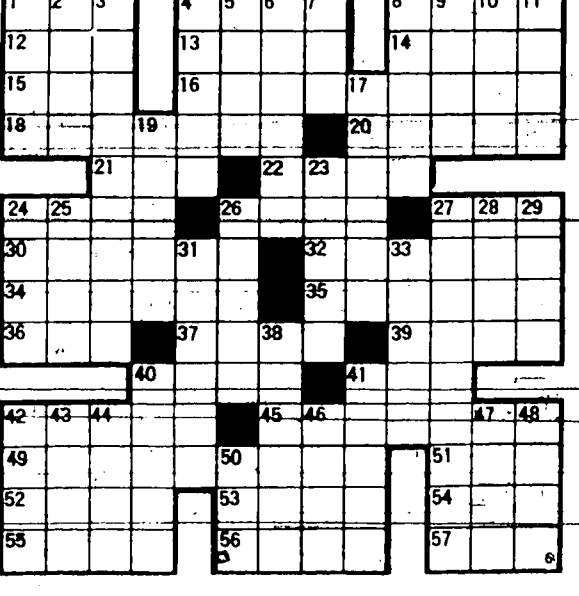

LIFE "Life is what happens to us while we're making plans," said R. L. Balzer. Maybe so. Still, why are all the cunning commentators so cynical about this matter? Christopher Morley called life "a foreign language all men mispronounce." Baudelaire said it was "a hospital in which every patient wants to switch beds." And Ogden Nash referred to it as "sitting down in a chair that isn't there."

IF YOU just turned 65, maybe you can sit back finally to consider what else happened the year you were born. For one thing, Harry N. Allen of New York City not only coined but copyrighted the word "taxicab." He took the "cab" from cabriolet. And the "taxi" from a name of a French company that manufactured tax tickers for horse-drawn carriages.

Minidoka board denies 'port aid

BY LEE TREMAINE
Times-News writer
RUPERT — The Minidoka County Commission has decided against "helping out" the Interim Regional Airport Board in its financial bind.

The board had asked the five counties participating in the regional airport proposal, including Minidoka, Cassia, Lincoln, Jerome, and Blaine, to remit 20 per cent of the first year's levy immediately, to meet expenses of operation.

Minidoka County Commissioner Wayne Hollenbeck said Saturday that the levy was applied to the county tax rolls last fall. However, Hollenbeck said, no money will be paid on the levy until taxes are paid this fall, so the county would have no funds to pay to the board.

In addition, Minidoka County Pros. Atty. Don Chisholm has ruled that the board acted improperly in ordering the levy after the counties had already made up their tax rolls, Hollenbeck said.

Several other counties, however, have paid in their shares of 20 per cent to the airport board, Hollenbeck said.

Airport board Chairman George Forschler said the board could "borrow enough" to make up Minidoka County's 20 per cent of the full first-year levy, Hollenbeck said. The county will pay its full levy this December when tax monies come in.

Totes sign

MARCHER MEHMED Husch carries a sign reading "smile and die" as he participates in Friday's peace march in Twin Falls. He was one of a group of 50 to 65 people, mostly young, who paraded through the city to draw attention to opposition to escalation of the Vietnam war.

Man hurt in Blaine accident

HAILEY — Investigation is continuing today into a one-car accident early Saturday, north of Hailey which injured a California man.

An occupant of the vehicle, John Otterbein, 49, Chatsworth, Calif., suffered an apparent broken neck in the accident. He was transferred from Sun Valley Hospital to St. Alphonsus Hospital, Boise, Saturday where information on his condition was not available by press time.

A second occupant, Roy Eastburn, 48, Sun Valley, received broken ribs and lacerations and remains at the Sun Valley facility.

According to a Blaine County sheriff's deputy, further investigation will disclose which of the two men was driving the vehicle at the time of the accident.

The deputy said the late-model vehicle was traveling south on U.S. Highway 93 about 12:20 a.m. when the driver failed to negotiate the curve at Hibbard's Corner, about four miles north of Hailey.

The vehicle then crossed over into the northbound lane of traffic and into the borrow pit, rolled over several times and landed on its roof about 211 feet from the point it left the roadway. Eastburn fell out of the car as it rolled over about 25 feet before the car came to rest, the deputy said.

The vehicle was totally demolished.

Greenawalt seeks 2nd term in house

JEROME — State Rep. Earl Greenawalt will seek a second term on the Republican ticket for the Idaho House of Representatives for district 23.

Greenawalt announced Friday he will be seeking reelection to the position and is presently unopposed.

Greenawalt said he feels his two years experience will make it possible for him to better serve the people during the next session of the legislature.

Greenawalt said he has never taken a walk during the voting on controversial subjects and has always contended that when a bill is presented the first thing he wanted to know was how much it would cost and where the money was coming from.

Greenawalt said he thinks that the government should first have the money before it decides how to spend it.

Greenawalt is a member of the judiciary and rules, and local government house committees.

Hansen men file

HANSEN — George Golay, Elmer Cook and Harold Miller Jr. have filed petitions for a school trustee post in zone 1.

The election will be May 15 from noon until 8 p.m. at the school house.

Harold Miller Jr. is the incumbent and the term is for five years.

Zone 1 is the square mile including the townsite of Hansen.

Cecil Stanger, incumbent, is running unopposed in zone 2. This includes the area west one mile, and north to the river, and two miles east of the city. This term is for three years.

E.D. Crockett is the incumbent for zone 5 and after is running unopposed. This includes the Rock Creek area, the farthest south of the city.

Crockett was appointed to fill a vacated post when James Epperson moved from the community. This has one year to run.

The three-mill maintenance and operation levy also will be voted on at the trustee election

Business as usual as marchers go by

TWIN FALLS — Business went on as usual Friday as about 75 peace marchers paraded through downtown Twin Falls.

The march was greeted by spectators with mostly disinterest.

Mrs. Don Parrott, watching from Main Avenue, said "I had forgotten all about it being this afternoon."

A young man, accompanied by his wife and small son, yelled smilingly at the marchers, "Why don't you go to Burley?"

The marchers themselves conducted themselves in generally good manner and except for one sign, they kept to their promise to display no obscenity on placards.

A few onlookers became upset when a large flag being carried in front of the column of young people dipped too low at times and touched the ground.

Others deemed it inappropriate that the flag was being carried upside down. Willis Ludlow, congressional candidate who spoke to the marchers following the parade, deemed it appropriate.

"We have had to stand on our heads for too long to salute the flag of our country," he said.

Most people watching the parade were not antagonistic toward the marchers.

One woman said, "I believe in what they are trying to do. I just don't think having a protest march is going to help us get out of Vietnam."

The "star of the show" was obviously a large shaggy dog led by Mike Thompson, College of Southern Idaho student. The dog, until he tired of it, carried a protest sign slung across his back.

Thompson's dog and a large Labrador at a service station passed by the marchers, presented the only threat of violence in the whole proceeding.

The two dogs quickly spotted each other and except for a firm hand by Thompson, who was nearly jerked off his feet, would have tangled.

Another dog, who apparently wanted only to be friendly, lumbered out onto Main Avenue as Thompson's dog passed in the parade, but was called back by his master who evidently didn't want him joining the march.

Several youngsters rode beside the marchers on their bicycles and two young men on bikes "buzzed" the marchers several times, beeping their bike horns.

A few curious people joined the marchers at the park, but to show their non-participation, stayed a short distance away from the main body of war protesters.

Jerome school elects

JEROME — High school principal Jerry Diehl announced Friday the class officers for the 1972-73 school year.

Logan Parker was elected president; Linda Gooch, secretary-treasurer; Steve Allison, vice president; Kay Buttram, historian; Kim Barlow, chaplain; Mitch Wolfe, manager, and Jack Nelson, assistant manager.

Varsity cheerleaders are Shonnita Bragg, yell queen; B.J. Correll, Joni Van Dyke and Karen DeBoog.

Junior varsity cheerleaders are Patty Oneida, Cindy Scheer, Joan Merkley and Nancy Priest.

Lincoln studies industrial group

SHOSHONE — The possibility of establishing an industrial development corporation for the city of Shoshone will be considered by members of the chamber of commerce committee.

The 11-member industrial and development committee met Thursday night at the Manhattan Cafe, with W.D. Henry, Boise, from Intermountain Gas; William Grange, Boise, Idaho Power Co.; and Lloyd D. Howe, Boise, from the Idaho Department of Commerce and Development.

Frank Dallas, Shoshone, from the Farmers Home Administration, and Harrell Thorne, local realtor, were also present to present views on what is needed to promote proper growth and industry in the area.

Decision to look into establishing an industrial development corporation was reached after hearing Howe report that this would then provide the necessary means to work with small business enterprises.

Howe pointed out that "proper climate" in the community goes a long way in attracting growth and urged citizens at large to work together to provide the favorable atmosphere and enthusiasm as well as physical facility.

Chairman of the local committee, Robert Miller, said all citizens of the community are invited to participate in presenting views and support to the current study. He said immediate work will begin by the committee in looking into land development, aimed specifically at a study for housing.

Others on the chamber committee include Kenneth Blackburn, Myron D. Johnson, Roy Hubert, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Magoffin, Ray Walker, Roger Maxwell, Francis Bergin, Wilson Churchman and Mrs. Robert Gaskill.

Smiley faces 4-H club meets

DECILO — Demonstrations were viewed by members of the Smiley Faces 4-H Club during a meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. Delores Smyer.

Debbie Smyer gave a demonstration on finger nails. Marlea Moncur presented a bicycle safety demonstration, and Louise Moncur showed how to make marshmallow candy.

A discussion was held on the 4-H books.

After the march is over

March starts late

TWIN FALLS — The peace march Friday in Twin Falls got off to a slow start.

At one point there were more law officers and members of the press at the city park than marchers.

The march, scheduled to begin at 3 p.m., didn't get started until after 3:30.

Several cars from city, county and state law enforcement agencies and men on foot accompanied the marchers.

One reason for the lateness of the march was a change in route which had to be agreed upon by officers and marchers because of street blockage from downtown construction.

Officers, including plainclothesmen, were stationed throughout the streets to record the march on film. Others carried walkie-talkies to maintain contact with officers in cars.

One officer, passing through the city park was heard to comment, "Oh, oh! I think my antenna's showing."

Candidates come to TF peace march

Story, who applied for the first peace march parade permit ever issued in Twin Falls, was asked if he felt the two candidates were using the march as an excuse to appear before the public.

Johnson talked with marchers but did not participate while Ludlow walked the entire distance with the group.

Ludlow called me from Foratello and asked me if he could appear. He said he would be campaigning and asking for votes. Johnson just came. Now that was opportunism," Story said.

The first peace march in Twin Falls was completed without incident but it will be recorded for posterity.

City detectives videotaped various stages of the march, reportedly to indicate the deployment of police forces in covering a peace march.

Driver killed

CAR which Francis (Frank) W. Lucas, 29, Twin Falls, was driving when it went out of control and turned end over end off U.S. Highway 93 14 miles north of Shoshone at about 4:30 a.m. Saturday. (Story, P. 1)

Weight limit set on bridge

KETCHUM — Load limits on the Warm Spring Bridge have been established.

After a study by JUB Engineers, Boise, the following restrictions were set — 10 tons per single vehicle, 15 tons per semi-trailer combination and 17 tons per full truck and trailer.

The Ketchum Police Department has been instructed to strictly enforce the limits.

Five incumbents returned to Twin Falls School Board

Staudacher said the election returns were still unofficial until canvassed and approved by the board.

The new board's first action will take place Monday night

House change

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new booklet tells vacationers how to trade their homes for others throughout the world.

Copies of the booklet, "How to exchange your home for another for vacations," are available for $1.95 from Adventures-in-Living, P.O. Box 278, Winnetka, Ill., 60093.

when the district's proposed 1972-73 budget comes up for public hearing.

The election brought interest from a usually disinterested quarter.

A group of six high school students showed up at the polls at closing time to watch the counting of the ballots.

The youths asked to watch the ballot counting and cited sections of Idaho code giving them the right to see the votes "computed in public view."

District Supt. George Staudacher okayed the student ballot vigil.

Bryan Katz, Twin Falls High School senior, said he had been told sections 33-406 and 33-409 of the Idaho Code told of the "public view" clause.

Katz and five other students went to each of the five polling places to oversee the ballot computations.

Katz was asked what he thought was the motivation behind student interest.

"All the candidates appeared at the school and the government teachers were all pushing it," said Katz.

Katz estimated 70 per cent of all eligible 18-year-olds voted in trustee elections Friday. About 250 Twin Falls High School students are eligible to vote since the passage of the 18-year-old vote amendment by Congress.

Everyone won a ribbon in MV special olympics

TWIN FALLS — Special Education students win big when they have their own Olympics. They all win because they participate, something most students in regular classes won't do even when given the chance.

Friday, 85 "special ed" students from Twin Falls, 35 from Burley and several from the child development center, participated in a track meet at Robert Stuart Jr. High School to qualify for the state special olympics in Boise, May 22-24.

All who participated in the track and field events, qualified to go to the Boise meet. According to Mrs. Paul Epperson, special education teacher, about 50 students will participate there.

Field events at the Olympics tryouts were broad jump, high jump and softball throw.

Running events were the 50 yard dash, 300 yard dash, mile and different relays.

The meet was run by Mrs. Epperson, Paul Epperson, Elementary P. E. Supervisor; Larry Lewis, boy's coach and Sharon Stemmmons, girls coach.

Twin Falls High School and College of Southern Idaho TORCH members helped in the meet.

Mrs. Epperson said the Twin Falls school district will furnish transportation to the meet in Boise. The students will stay in the dorms at the Boise State College Campus.

She said anyone wanting to sponsor a student to Boise should contact the Special Education Department at Robert Stuart Jr. High School.
