

US-Soviet treaty pledges end to harassment at sea

By STEWART HENSLEY
UPI Diplomatic Reporter
MOSCOW (UPI)—The United States and the Soviet Union wrapped up another accord in President Nixon's visit to the summit today, signing an accord whereby their navies will stop "playing a game of chicken" on the high seas.

In the fifth treaty signed in three days, the U. S. Navy Secretary-designate, John Warner, and Adm. Sergei Orshkov, Soviet Navy commander-in-chief, pledged the two countries to stop harassing practices on both sides which have threatened to grow into major confrontations.

The ceremony came after Nixon and his aides met with Kremlin leaders for the seventh time in four days. They continued to work toward final agreement on a strategic arms limitation treaty—due to be signed either Friday or during the weekend—while also zeroing in on the extremely sensitive issue of Vietnam.

For the first time since the summit sessions began, Secretary General Leonid I. Brezhnev of the Soviet Communist Party did not sit in. There was no official explanation for his absence.

The incidents-at-sea agreement was aimed at stopping a practice that has resulted in at least two minor collisions and countless close calls between American and Soviet ships.

A White House spokesman in Moscow called the treaty the "first high level military-to-military agreement between the United States and the Soviets since World War II."

Warner told newsmen after the ceremony that the agreement differs from previous naval accords in that it specifically mentions harassment by aircraft and aiming of guns or missiles as being on the forbidden list.

The secretary said the treaty leaves both navies free to conduct surveillance of each other, and that it applies strictly to activity on the high seas and not in territorial waters.

MV health agency committee chosen

By HUGH DAVIS
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley health and governmental officials have agreed to form a steering committee to develop a comprehensive health planning agency.

Hospital administrators, county officials and health agency members met with Idaho Comprehensive Planning officials Wednesday night to discuss the feasibility of comprehensive health planning for the eight-county Magic Valley area.

Richards Adams, Boise, discussed such planning and why it had come about in Idaho. Adams said former Gov. Robert E. Smythier was in favor of the concept when it was supported by federal legislation in 1966.

The political atmosphere in Idaho then had changed to the district area health plan currently in force.

The swing now is back to comprehensive health planning, Adams said.

Adams was asked if he foresaw federal grants being channeled through such agencies in the future.

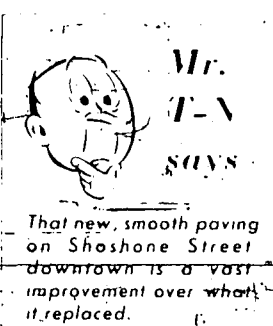

"I can't speak for my association," said Adams, "but I personally do not see federal money being channeled through CHPs."

A representative of the American Hospital Association, Mike Greenwald, disagreed. Greenwald said federal programs probably will be administered through such agencies and along with those programs will come federal guidelines.

"In health planning," Greenwald said, "someone has to win and someone has to lose. If you want health planning, you have to give up a little something, you can't satisfy all the people."

"What you have to decide tonight, is who you want the planning done by. You can form an agency and have a guiding hand in planning or you can do nothing and let the boys in Boise take care of it."

Oakley youth killed

OAKLEY — Robert Brent Stimpson, 17, Oakley, was killed Wednesday in a farm accident, 10 miles north of Oakley.

The youth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Brent Stimpson, Oakley.

Stimpson was hauling manure from the Land Ranch feedyards and was spreading the fertilizer on a field south of the feedlot.

The spreader became stalled and Stimpson crawled into the back of the spreader to unclog the machine.

He apparently had left the machine in gear and as he freed the mechanism, his clothes caught on the feeders of the spreader and they pulled him into the machine.

Sheriff Ray G. Mitchell was called to the scene at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Funeral services are pending at Payne Mortuary in Burley. (Obituary p. 2)

First Lady gets night out in Moscow at last

MOSCOW (UPI) — For Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, today was the day her husband finally knocked off work and took her out on the town.

The day started with a visit to the Bolshoi Ballet School at 11:15 a.m. (4:45 a.m. EDT).

But the itinerary also held President and Mrs. Nixon's first night of relaxation and entertainment in Moscow, an evening performance of Mrs. Nixon's favorite ballet, "Swan Lake," in the red-and-gold Bolshoi Theater.

"I haven't even seen that guy," Mrs. Nixon said with a chuckle in response to reporters' questions about the President Wednesday. "He called me last night (Tuesday) to say he'd be late for dinner, but that he'd had a snack."

Wednesday night was even worse.

Just about the time Mrs. Nixon might have expected her husband back home in the Kremlin after a tough day's work, Leonid I. Brezhnev took him into a night out with the boys—a five-hour negotiating session, plus dinner, at Brezhnev's country home.

The President got home about half past midnight this morning.

Before the evening's ballet performance, Mrs. Nixon got an opportunity to see where tomorrow's prima ballerinas will come from with her morning visit to the Bolshoi School of Choreography.

The afternoon took her to a salon, the All-Union Fashion House, that likes to demonstrate to visitors that the Soviets can produce high fashion—even if they don't.

The fashion house produces for display a wide range of men's and women's fashions.

Waiting

REFUGEE CHILD waits with empty bowl for meal at camp near DaNang, South Vietnam. Former U. S. Marine base now serves as refuge for thousands who have fled fighting north of Hue. (UPI)

N. Viet drive repulsed

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese forces attacked in "multibattalion" strength along the My Chanh River defense line north of Hue today but were beaten back with heavy losses, front dispatches reported.

They also occupied part of Kontum City in the Central Highlands.

The Communists struck around the northern headquarters city of Da Nang. They blew the Nam O Bridge on Highway 1, five miles to the north, cutting Hue off from Da Nang, and overran a firebase and three villages in the Que Son Valley 20 miles south of Da Nang.

The North Vietnamese increased their pressure on the town of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, and once again halted a relief column with a rocket and mortar attack that killed the commander of an armored battalion. U.S. advisers there said, "We're in trouble."

Another Communist success was reported in the coastal region 42 miles southeast of Saigon where Viet Cong and North Vietnamese captured the town of Dat To three days ago and then fought off government attempts today to recapture it.

The Communist attacks came despite U.S. and South Vietnamese air attacks and large scale raids against North Vietnam.

Hanoi Radio reported more raids today and accused the Americans of hitting civilian targets inside Hanoi and the Red River dike system to the southeast in "savage acts of war."

The U.S. command had no reports on today's bombing activities but said U.S. jets flew 270 raids on Wednesday and bombed out three rail and highway bridges and two power plants in the Hanoi-Haiphong area. The U.S. command announced the loss of two more jets in the North and field reports said an OV10 prop jet and two helicopters were shot down in the South with 10 men killed.

The Hanoi Radio broadcast said the dikes were being bombed at a time of rice harvest and just before flood time. It said six workers trying to repair the dikes were killed. It also hinted that the U.S. naval blockade of North Vietnamese ports was beginning to hurt when it demanded an immediate end to the blockade and the naval and air attacks.

The attacks across the My Canh River began early this morning while three battalions of South Vietnamese marines were still carrying out a commando-type sweep of Quang Tri Province just to the north. They were hastily recalled and helped stop the Communist attacks.

Two battalions of North Vietnamese troops—about 1,000 men—also struck at the town of Kontum in the Central Highlands under cover of a heavy artillery barrage and there was house-to-house fighting inside the city, field reports said.

Woman freed

Texan surrenders, releases hostage

DALLAS (UPI)—A young bandit, described as "just a boy in trouble," kidnaped a woman from a market he robbed, sped 100 miles north to Dallas with a pistol pointed at her stomach and demanded that police let him escape in a jet airplane. He surrendered today without a fight nine hours after his spree began.

For three hours before dawn, the young man held Meredith Roberts, 20, of Waco, Tex., at gunpoint in a small car on an airport ramp at Dallas Love Field. Officers talked him into driving to police headquarters downtown to "negotiate."

He had the gun cocked and stuck to her side," said Police Chief Frank Dyson. "We told him he would not walk out of that office unless he let the girl go. We promised him an attorney and he decided to give up."

Police identified the gunman as Virgil Lee Fuqua III of Dallas.

He was charged in Waco of robbery and kidnapping.

The young bandit robbed a small market at midnight at Waco, 100 miles to the south. He hit a clerk, Jimmy Roberts, 21, on the head with a soft drink bottle and kidnaped the clerk's wife.

He forced her into a small foreign car, handcuffed the hostage to him and sped north. At Love Field, the gunman demanded that police give him another pistol, drugs to keep him awake and let him flee in a Braniff International 727 jetliner.

He was very quiet and composed," Dyson said.

Pioneer-ing

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — The unmanned Pioneer 10 spacecraft today crossed the orbit of Mars — the goal of the longest previous space missions — on its 620-million mile journey to the mysterious planet Jupiter.

Pioneer 10, now 155-million miles from Earth, then rushes at 67,500 miles an hour into the unexplored reaches of the solar system.

Controllers at NASA's Ames Research Center said the spacecraft safely crossed the dangerous "great galactic ghoul" despite encountering more meteoroids and dust particles than expected.

The area, just inside the orbit of Mars, has claimed two spacecraft bound for the planet and caused a third to halt communications for seven hours. Scientists believe all three incidents were caused by the impact of high velocity meteoroids.

Hijackers release airliner hostages

BLANTYRE, Malawi (UPI) — Two hijackers today released the nine hostages aboard the South African Airways (SAA) Boeing 727 jetliner they commandeered and threatened to blow up in flight Wednesday if it landed in South Africa.

The tri-jet plane remained parked on the airfield here but the fate of the two men, believed to be Arabs, was not immediately known.

Passengers said one of the hijackers called himself "Captain Z" and grinned at them constantly as he stood guard at the door leading to the cockpit during the hijacking. They said the other carried a suitcase with a fuse sticking out of it and one passenger said: "I distinctly remember his eyes—he kept looking at us."

Officials here refused to say whether any agreement had been reached with the hijackers for the release of the hostages. Troops and police continued to seal off the airport where the plane landed Wednesday after the hijackers seized it on a flight to Johannesburg, forced the pilot to return to Salisbury, Rhodesia, and then to fly to Blantyre.

Surgeons ease pain for Wallace

SILVER SPRING, Md. (UPI) — George C. Wallace underwent minor surgery today to relieve abdominal pain caused by an accumulation of fluids beneath the skin in the area where he underwent surgery for bullet wounds last week.

Incisions were made in two areas, a hospital statement said — "in the superficial layer of the surgical incision through a drain site, and the second ... in the left lateral side of the abdomen, under the skin, in the area where one bullet was removed."

Pending US-Soviet plan criticized

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Prospects for Senate ratification of a Soviet-American arms control treaty now nearing agreement in Moscow evidently are not so certain as backers of the treaty thought.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., criticized the pending agreement Wednesday, charging it would fuel the arms race rather than halt it. He promised "fine print" scrutiny of the agreement and complete Senate hearings before he would vote for it.

Jackson is an important factor in all military debates in the Senate and his opposition could carry weight. Until he spoke out, criticism of the agreement had been confined mainly to traditional ideological opponents of disarmament such as Conservative Sen. James L. Buckley of New York and Rep. John N. Ashbrook, R-Ohio.

Ashbrook, who is challenging President Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination, said Wednesday the arms limitation agreement "permits the Soviet Union to retain most of their present wide lead in land-based missiles, while permitting them to surpass us by a wide margin in the one area where we will lead, submarine-based missiles." The State Department challenged his claim.

Jackson, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, has been in the mainstream of strategic arms decisions in Congress. He has headed an armed services subcommittee which for the past year has been monitoring the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

And, although he frequently has expressed distrust of the Soviet Union, it generally has been assumed he would back the treaty.

Jackson has widespread contacts among uniformed officials at the Pentagon and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and his criticism produced speculation that he was reflecting some disgruntlement among those officers with the agreement.

Nixon is studying in Moscow. But the senator is also a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. And in recent weeks he has been staking out a position on foreign affairs to the right of Nixon, charging that administration bungling on arms aid to South Vietnam had led to the success of the current communist offensive.

Jackson said his quarrel with the SALT agreement was that it would place quantitative—but not qualitative—limits on strategic weapons.

He said "experts"—he declined to name them—now have evidence the Soviets are preparing to deploy a 50 megaton missile, twice as big as the blockbuster SS9 that raised alarms at the Pentagon two years ago. The SS9 also led to deploying of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system to protect Minuteman land-based missiles from enemy knockout attempts.

Jackson said the 50 megaton estimate was based on the size of holes in the ground. The Soviets have dug in the past year that have mystified intelligence officials.

Jackson said there was only one reason the Soviets would build a missile of this size—to use against a "hard site" such as an ABM system.

Ulster lull continuing

BELFAST (UPI)—An unusual lull in Ulster violence moved through its second day today with support rapidly growing for Roman Catholic peace campaigns.

Since midnight, the British army said two men have been hospitalized with gunshot wounds, but that no other incidents of violence have been reported. Less than 12 sniping attacks and no major bombings were reported Wednesday although one man was shot to death.

Peace drives in the Catholic enclaves of Londonderry gained momentum with the meeting of a men's "peace committee," which vowed to support the peace efforts launched by Catholic women in the Bogside and Creggan areas.

In Belfast, volunteers stepped up their door-to-door campaign for signatures on a peace petition. The organizers said the response was surpassing expectations.

Despite the push against violence, the Provisional Wing of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) today renewed its vow to continue its militant campaign for unity with the Irish Republic.

"How can anyone who claims to be bitter at these past events, who claims to be sincere in their purposes, who claims to be Irish, put any more trust in the world of an English puppet?" a spokesman asked.

He described the Ulster violence as a "just war" and said "the oppressed (Catholic) minority" sought the same aims as the Provisionals.

His statement came in reaction to five Catholic housewives, who met with British Secretary of State William Whitelaw Wednesday night to enlist his help in their campaign for a cease-fire.

Delegates named

SHOSHONE — Five delegates to the state Republican Convention June 16-17 were named at the district 21 GOP meeting held Wednesday night in Shoshone.

One delegate, C.W. Ward said delegates are uncommitted and will go to the convention in that status.

A thought for today: American poet Ralph Waldo Emerson said: "A friend is a friend with whom I may be sincere; before him I may think aloud."

Samuelson not a candidate

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
Two Idaho Supreme Court justices will seek re-election, former Gov. Don Samuelson will not be a Senate candidate, and a number of legislators and legislative hopefuls have announced intentions for the 1972 elections.

Chief Justice Henry McQuade, completing his 16th year on the high court, and Justice Joseph McFadden, completing his 13th year, have announced they will seek re-election on the non-partisan judiciary ballot at the Aug. 8 primary.

There are only two vacancies on the five-justice court to be filled this year.

In Seattle, former Governor Samuelson, who earlier said he was considering seeking the Republican nomination to the U.S. Senate, said he has informed Idaho Republicans he will not seek the seat to be vacated by Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho.

Samuelson is regional representative with headquarters in Seattle for Secretary of Transportation John R. Volpe.

His statement said he decided "I can best help our President's re-election in the position I now hold."

In Idaho Falls, House Majority Leader Terry Crapo, R-Idaho Falls, said he will not seek his fourth two-year term in the Idaho House.

Citing business obligations as a deciding factor, Crapo said in his announcement Gov. Cecil D. Andrus had vowed to replace Republican legislators who opposed his tax program with Democrats who would endorse the program.

Three incumbent legislators have announced plans to seek re-election. They are Rep. Melvin Hammond, D-Rexburg, assistant house minority leader; Rep. Karl E. Koch, D-Hammont, house caucus chairman; and Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert.

Two Boise residents have announced intentions to seek the Senate seat in legislative district 18. Jason W. Smith, a Boise State College archeologist, will seek the Democratic nomination and Mrs. Dorothy Fisher will seek the Republican nomination.

Gem VD problems told at Shoshone

SHOSHONE — Dr. Wayne B. Carte, in speaking to the Shoshone Rotary Club, said Wednesday there were 7,200 cases of venereal disease recorded in Idaho in 1971.

In his district, Carte, director of the South Central District Health Dept., said Cassia and Blaine counties have a higher incidence of venereal disease. Lincoln County, said Carte, had seven cases in 1971, but these cases are only the reported cases. The count is not accurate in view of concealed identity, said Carte.

Carte said the state health treatment program available and said clinics have been set up in Burley, Twin Falls and Blaine County.

Don Rundberg reported on the musical jamboree given in Shoshone as a fund raising project for a swimming pool. The proposal to form a county swimming pool district was discussed as the desirable means of supporting a swimming facility in Lincoln County.

Jordan Defends Welfare Reform

First of Two Parts
WASHINGTON — Idaho Sen. Len Jordan (R) strongly defends the recent welfare reform bill approved by the Senate Finance committee, despite a volley of criticism from the Nixon Administration and critical newspaper editorials throughout the country. Opponents of the Senate bill, including Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Eliot Richardson, have characterized the Senate approach as a "9 billion step backward," a "leaf-raking scheme of the 1930's," a "new jumbo of overlapping Federal and State programs," a "massive intrusion into private life," and a distortion of "private market incentives." One critic even charged the Finance committee's work approach was a "new Deal program gone insane." The former Idaho governor, a staunch fiscal conservative, rejects all such charges.

Asked about the leaf-raking charge, Jordan replied "there's nothing too much wrong with that. I believe people are better off working than sitting around." He then recited a long list of jobs not covered by the Federal minimum wage law which those able to work will be employed in. "There's a lot more to do than just raking leaves," he said.

Added Jordan, "the committee decided that if society is affluent enough to employ over 80 million people, it is affluent enough to provide work for a few more able-bodied workers."

Reducing it down to a local level, Jordan said the committee's bill would be asking a businessman who employs 80 people to employ 81 — that is to find a job for one more person with monetary incentives provided by the state and federal government.

Jordan characterized the Senate bill as a guaranteed employment program administered by a Federal employment corporation working in conjunction with State programs to see that those not eligible for Aid to Families with Dependent Children under their bill receive a guaranteed opportunity to work.

Under the Senate bill a family headed by an able-bodied father would not be eligible for welfare payments and a family headed by a mother where all children are over six would not be eligible either. Those remaining eligible for welfare payments without working would be families headed by a mother with any child under six, a family headed by a disabled father, any of the employment programs, and a family headed by a mother attending school full-time even if there is no child under six.

An estimated 40 per cent or 12 million of the 3 million families currently receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children would no longer be eligible for welfare once the committee provisions become effective," Jordan said.

Asked if the Senate bill would not inevitably create a new federal bureaucracy structured to find work for the many not eligible for welfare, Jordan conceded "this is true if you want to look at it that way."

He added, "the concept of the new corporation is its employees would be those who are currently on welfare with leadership and involvement on a local level. It will not be a great big bureaucratic involvement. Forty per cent of those administering AFD could be taken from that program and placed in the new corporation."

Jordan stressed that the purpose of the new federal corporation will be "to match jobs with needs in a local area, and the corporation will serve as a transition from welfare to a full-time job status. Every incentive will be for the individual to move up and out of the public and private sector welfare jobs."

He explained that a key difference between the past welfare worker role and the future welfare worker role will be that an employee of the federal corporation will be out trying to find jobs and match people with the job instead of out trying to find more people to add to the welfare rolls.

Jordan constantly compared the committee bill with H.R. 1, the Administration-backed bill.

He charged that actual value of 40 hours of work under the committee bill is greater than H.R. 1 because the committee allows the welfare recipient to keep any extra private income whereas H.R. 1 subtracts any extra from its total payment. Jordan said that while their bill permits a private employer to pay as little as $1.20 an hour, that translates to $1.62 an hour for the workers due to a special 10 per cent payment by the government, if a welfare recipient is working in the private sector. And if the private employer is paying the minimum wage of $1.60 per hour, the welfare recipient actually receives $1.76 per hour.

By contrast, Jordan said, H.R. 1's payments translate into 63 cents an hour or 76 cents an hour, if a welfare recipient does no work at all during a 40-hour week.

Through this system of incentives, subsidies and bonuses, Jordan said the committee hopes to move a welfare recipient in two or three steps into the regular labor force.

Jordan predicted that he and other Republicans on the Finance committee will be able to convince the Nixon Administration to drop its support of H.R. 1 and back their bill. "I think we're nearer the concept of what the President wants than H.R. 1... what we're seeking to implement is good American common sense."

JOHN GOLDSMITH

OLYMPIA, Wash. (NEA) — Two progressive western Republican governors, Dan Evans of Washington and Tom McCall of Oregon, share the judgment that President Nixon — for all his problems at home and abroad — is in better shape than many public figures think.

I interviewed them both in the immediate aftermath of the President's strong new moves against North Vietnam. They agreed that the evidence coming to hand from varied sources suggested heavy backing for the President in the Pacific Northwest, as seems true in many areas.

Evans believes, however, that events not yet recorded will determine the impact the Vietnam war has on Nixon's chances for re-election next November.

Both men see danger in the stepped-up Vietnam situation, not to mention the political peril to Nixon of having the war front-paged again after it had seemed to slip into the background. But neither will say now that it sharply diminishes Nixon's prospects.

McCall doubts that either Sen. Hubert Humphrey or Sen. George McGovern, top contenders for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, could whip Nixon in Oregon. The President beat Humphrey there in 1968 by 50,000 votes.

Though Humphrey eked out a 22,500-vote victory over Nixon in Washington last time, Evans says the President's position in the state is markedly better today. An early spring poll had him beating Sen. Edmund Muskie, then the Democratic front-runner, by eight points.

Evans thinks McGovern, a rising figure in the lists, may be cut closer to Washington state voter tastes. Yet he still gives the President a chance to put the state in the GOP column this fall.

McCall finds it bewildering why the North Vietnamese poured it on so hard in their heavily armored spring offensive. He adds:

"This was a time for them to facilitate our creeping away. Nobody here was going to sound any bugles of victory."

"We've been pretty darned well humiliated already. The gruel is so thin, I just look for a few flakes of sustenance."

Feeling thus, McCall sprang quickly to the President's side when Nixon announced his retaliatory blockade. Though the governor received a few telephoned bomb threats, he clearly believes his response is in tune with majority thinking among Oregon voters.

Both governors, of course, had to contend with student demonstrations in their major cities.

With housing output and the consequent demand for lumber up, this mainstay of the Washington-Oregon economies is stronger. The picture could be still brighter were there not such a worldwide glut in the paper-and-pulp field.

Enlarging trade prospects with Japan, Taiwan, and perhaps ultimately with China give further good cheer, however, to both governors. Washington-Oregon wheat, of a variety especially prized in the Orient, is a promising item. And Evans says even the huge Boeing aircraft company, hurt by cancellation of the SST, is recovering some with good orders for intermediate-size jet planes.

Unemployment in these states stays high, but somehow the mood is much better. McCall and Evans think that's good news for Nixon, unless much bigger trouble develops.

Litigation

Law seems to have taken the place of engineering as a "glamor" career.

Whether or not Ralph Nader and the rise of consumer and environmental advocacy have anything to do with it, the number of persons applying for entrance to law schools has been doubling every five years.

In 1960, 24,000 people nationwide took the Law School Admission Test (LSAT). It is predicted that 135,000 will take that test in 1972.

"This intense interest in legal education has puzzled a lot of people," says Angus S. McSwain Jr., dean of Baylor University's School of Law, which has room for 150 new students a year and already in 1972 has received 1,500 applications.

"I can't help but think this trend will peak out either this year or the next and things will return to normal."

Suburban Schools

One of the harder myths about education is that of the "rich suburbs." But it is just that, a myth, claims columnist Guy Wright.

On the surface it seems reasonable enough. The affluent have fled to the suburbs. Let's send the tax man after them by putting all school taxes in a statewide kitty from which all schools draw equally. That way the well-heeled deserters in the suburbs will have to help support the impoverished city schools they left behind.

But the real meat-and-potatoes from the property tax doesn't come from homes but from business and industry, he points out. In proportion to population, cities produce more revenue from property taxes than suburbs.

True, some suburbs have industries, too, and when they do they may have rich school systems.

More often than not, though, a suburb is a bedroom community with no sizable business-industrial complex to tax and, far from being rich, its schools may be quite poor, even though its tax rate may be higher than that of the city it is supposedly a parasite of.

Rocks In Heads

WASHINGTON — All political columnists have rocks in their heads, but those who predict Secretary of Treasury John Connally will run for Vice President — their noodles are a veritable Mt. Everest.

The job of Vice President may be the most boring and frustrating ever invented. Despite Spiro Agnew's celebrity, the Vice President remains essentially a nonperson. He is a political and governmental eunuch with no power and statutory prestige. By law, his only duty is to preside over the Senate, a chore most Vice Presidents usually contrive to avoid lest they wind up in the booby hatch from listening to grown men say idiotic things.

Two facts may be stated about John Connally without fear of successful contradiction: He hates to be bored and he likes power. The thought of this handsome aggressive, bright Texan grinning at a delegation of school kids from Runny Nose, Ark., or crowning the Queen of Rutabagas, and then calling it an official day is preposterous.

The argument of my well-intentioned but misguided colleagues is that President Nixon needs Connally on the ticket to carry Texas and most of the rest of the South and therefore Connally will accept the nomination. That argument is wrong on two counts. First, John Connally doesn't do favors like that for anybody, even a President. Second, there has been no evidence that Nixon needs Connally on the ticket to accomplish the aforementioned task.

In Spiro Agnew, Nixon already has a man who at this writing would help him just as much as Connally would in Texas and the South. Agnew is Texas' and the South's kind of man, with his bluntness, his ability to get to the guts of issues that concern that area, his capacity for saying old-fashioned words about old-fashioned values.

In short, Agnew is a square — a term which is no longer derogatory, thanks to the antics of the crazies. Washington, New York, San Francisco may be unsquare, although one might remind oneself that the unsquares get more publicity these days and therefore may, in fact, be in the minority. By the standards of these cities, most Americans are registered, bottled-in-bond squares. You've got to be square if you work for a living and own a mortgage and a passel of kids.

Moreover, a recent George Gallup poll suggests that Agnew is even more popular with Republican voters today than he was last fall. (I say "suggests," actually the poll declares flatly Agnew is more popular, but I have learned to speak cautiously about polls.)

Gallup took one of his famous surveys April 15-17 and came up with the finding that Agnew was favored by 43 per cent of GOP voters as the first choice for Vice President. In October, Agnew was favored by only 17 per cent. In the South, says Gallup, Agnew gets 34 per cent of the vote, to 21 per cent for California's Gov. Ronald Reagan and 17 per cent for Connally. And nationwide, Connally is favored by only 8 per cent, trailing Reagan and New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller as well as Agnew.

For Nixon

WASHINGTON — Despite the still-continuing flood of rumors, conjectures, hush-hush reports and what-have-you (so typical of Washington), there is no mystery about the sudden resignation of Treasury Secretary John Connally.

The inside story is very simple.

The tall, white-crested former Texas governor quit to be free to organize and actively head a new campaign organization — Democrats for Nixon.

It will be national in scope and operations, and work parallel to and in close conjunction with the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, directed by former Attorney General John Mitchell.

Mitchell and Connally and their organizations will be the principal instrumentalities of the President's drive for a second term.

Still undecided is the timing of the formal announcement of the launching of the Democrats for Nixon Committee — whether before or after the Republican national convention in August.

Inside opinion favors the former.

The President, Connally and Mitchell discussed the contemplated electioneering set-up at an announced meeting at the Camp David weekend retreat.

Highly significant — while there was no mention of or reference to Vice President Agnew, the whole tenor of their talk held a clear implication that he would again be Nixon's running-mate.

There was quite a bit of conjecture about the most probable Democratic state.

Edward Kennedy

Mitchell was inclined to view Sen. George McGovern as a very real possibility. This opinion was based chiefly on Mitchell's contention that the Democratic convention will be dominated by militants, activists and extremists of all types, ages and hues — the primary source of McGovern's support.

The President, Connally and Mitchell were agreed that if McGovern is the Democratic standard bearer, there would be widespread defection to the Republicans.

They were also in accord in giving Sen. Humphrey little more than an outside chance of winning renomination.

Rep. William Ryan, Dem.-Lib., N.Y., appears to have a lead over Rep. Bella Abzug, New Left Democrat, N.Y., in their torrid primary battle in a new district combining parts of both their old ones. Ideologically there is no choice between the two leftists, but polls show six-term Ryan definitely out in front of one-term Bellowing Bella.

Apparently, Ryan's longer record of doing personal services is paying off. Also, seemingly adversely affecting Mrs. Abzug among older ethnic voters is her persistent and vociferous women's lib clamoring. Now you can learn all about how to maneuver and manipulate to get a government job for the significant sum of $2.75 a fall spelled out in a newly published book, "Strategy and Tactics for Getting a Government Job," by two women, Susan Lukowski and Margaret Pilon. They are described as holding "well-paying jobs in the areas of their preference" — with no hint of what that is. The book is a serious how-to-do-it guide.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Off Work

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has phlebitis in his left leg and has been home from work for six weeks. He is under a doctor's care, and can't understand why it takes so long to overcome it. — Mrs. J. R.

Six weeks is a long time to be laid up with phlebitis, but there can be reasons. It may depend in part on what kind of work he does.

Phlebitis is inflammation of the wall of a vein, usually in the leg, and quite commonly related to varicose veins — one of several reasons for taking care of varicose veins before they get too bad.

But there are various other causes: injury, leg muscle strain, infection, blood disorders, even cancer somewhere in the system.

You didn't say what treatment he is receiving, but usually the affected area is supported by elastic bandages, which should extend from the ankle to the thigh. This gives better support than support hose for an active case of phlebitis.

Anti-inflammatory medication, such as phenylbutazone is used, and often one of the antibiotics.

Smoking most definitely can contribute to a slow recovery, so don't underestimate the importance of that.

The patient usually is allowed to walk about, but he should be careful not to bump or otherwise injure the leg.

Since in his case the trouble has lasted so long, a complete physical examination is in order, to make sure that no constitutional disorder is involved, particularly a blood disorder, such as polycythemia which increases coagulation of the blood.

If varicose veins are present, they should be removed as soon as the phlebitis improves; otherwise, a recurrence of the phlebitis is likely.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What are the chances of a pendulous polyp of the colon becoming cancerous? I am 74 and feel pretty much okay. — M. I. M.

By "pendulous," I presume you mean one on a pedicle. These are less likely to be malignant than those on a solid base.

However, if the polyp can be reached by a sigmoidoscope, it should be removed. Otherwise, periodic X-ray to note any change in size is important. If changes are seen, removal is in order.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send me any information on what a paranoid is and what the treatment is and how to do it. — R. K.

HOW TO DO IT.—R.K. Paranoia is a chronic, slow mental illness characterized by delusions of being persecuted or plotted against, and sometimes with delusions of grandeur. It is difficult even for a psychiatrist to treat; there is no way for you to attempt any treatment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any way to remove a small brown mole from the face? Can it be done without a doctor's supervision? Or must it be done with a doctor's supervision? — C.J.

It's not a do-it-yourself. It can be done by a physician (not under his supervision). If a prominent location, it may be best to have a plastic surgeon do it. Or sometimes a dermatologist.

Busing opponents push for passage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House backers of legislation to delay compulsory school busing, encouraged by lopsided Senate approval of the measure, pushed today for final congressional passage. Opponents said they would redouble their efforts.

The measure, part of an aid to higher education bill, passed the Senate Wednesday 63 to 15. House approval would send it to the White House, which has criticized the bill without talking veto.

House managers of the bill, originally planning to take it up June 1, said it probably would not be considered until sometime during the week of June 5.

Muskie seeks to sway votes

By United Press International
Sen. Edmund S. Muskie said he is trying to sway uncommitted delegates to the Democratic national convention while Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and George S. McGovern carry their presidential battle through primaries in California and New York.

Muskie also revealed in an interview that he believes some of the delegate commitments to Humphrey and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace are soft.

Except for the delegates committed to McGovern, he said, "it's really very fluid. I don't think people have focused on that fact to the extent that I think they will increasingly as we approach the election."

McGovern vowed Wednesday to remain in California until the winner-take-all primary June 6. "I want you to know we're going to take no risks at all in losing this election," he told supporters in Los Angeles.

Ammunitions plant blast kills 6 women workers

KILN, Miss. (UPI)—An explosion demolished a building at a munitions plant Wednesday and touched off a fire that threatened a powder shed containing the explosive force of sixty 2,000-pound bombs. Six women workers died in the blast.

"If it goes, it's going to be a powerful explosion," said Sheriff Sylvan Ladner. Firefighting crews were pulled back out of danger and authorities were letting the fire burn until the arrival this morning of an Air Force plane with 1,500 gallons of special liquid which will be dropped on the flames.

Church leaders criticize

DENVER (UPI)—Presbyterian church leaders, who earlier this week opposed President Nixon's Indochina policies, criticized him Wednesday for his stand to delay busing for school integration.

Members of the United Presbyterian Church went on record at their 184th general assembly as affirming school busing as an "acceptable desegregation" tool.

In words nearly as strong as their attack against the President's Vietnam policies, the delegates announced their opposition to Nixon's plans to bar all new school busing for integration until July, 1973.

Bremer's 'stalking' reported

TORONTO (UPI)—The Toronto Star reported Wednesday that Arthur H. Bremer, the man accused of trying to assassinate Gov. George C. Wallace, was in Ottawa April 13-15 during President Nixon's visit to Canada and stayed in the same hotel as U.S. Secret Service agents.

The Star quoted what it called "a highly placed" Canadian official as saying "there is no doubt he (Bremer) was here doing a little stalking." It also said news photographs show that Bremer at least once was close to the Nixon party.

The Star quoted sources as saying it appeared only massive security arrangements by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Secret Service averted a possible tragedy.

Officials in Washington had "absolutely no comment" on the newspaper report.

Timebombs explode at base

HEIDELBERG, Germany (UPI)—Two timebombs, so powerful they blew a door-like hole in a building 150 feet away, exploded in parking areas at the U.S. Army's European headquarters Wednesday, killing an officer and two enlisted men.

Five other persons—all American servicemen or wives—were injured, none seriously.

Consulate washrooms bombed

PARIS (UPI)—Two bomb explosions wrecked washrooms in the American Consulate and an American Legion post early today and police said they found an unexploded bomb in the offices of Pan American Airlines.

Nobody was injured in the predawn blasts, which occurred within 90 minutes of each other and caused considerable damage.

Police later hurried to the Paris head office of Pan American and the office of Trans-World Airlines after a communique signed by a "Coordination Committee" claimed bombs were also planted there.

The third bomb was found in a parcel in a broom closet in the Pan Am office, police said.

The "Coordination Committee" said it planted the bombs to protest U.S. bombing in Vietnam.

Police said the first bomb exploded at 1:37 a.m. in a ground floor washroom of the Consulate.

Security at the military base already was stepped up following a wave of bombings throughout West Germany involving police stations, private cars and another U.S. Army installation in Frankfurt. An Army colonel died in that explosion.

A West German police spokesman said the bombs Wednesday apparently had been left in civilian automobiles parked inside the sprawling headquarters compound.

The police spokesman said authorities were seeking six cars seen in the area around the time that the bombs went off at 6:10 p.m. but he said there were no other clues as to who had planted the timebombs.

Police have blamed a left-wing group calling itself the "Red Army Faction" for the previous bombings and also for a series of bomb threats in the past two weeks.

The first thing Sgt. Bill Erwin thought of when he heard the window-shaking "whump" was a sonic boom—and a strong one.

"I waited for a jet to come over, but none came," the 25-year-old Shreveport, La., native said. "Then I heard another boom. We saw smoke through the window and suddenly I knew they were bombs."

Aide says US has new laser-beam weapon

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — A former government "think tank" researcher said Wednesday the United States may have a devastating new laser-beam weapon which will make nuclear weapons and even modern armies obsolete.

In a copyrighted column in the Anaheim Bulletin, Lowell Ponte said this could account for President Nixon's apparent willingness to give the Soviet Union nuclear weapons production superiority.

Ponte, formerly employed by the government-consulted International Research & Technogy Corp. in Washington, said the new weapon could be a combination of two lasers phased together as "matter energy scramblers, the sort of science fiction weapons called 'phasers'."

Such a device, he said, could be used to trigger an H-bomb without an A-bomb as detonator and emit a little dangerous radiation that it could be hand-carried by a tourist or a terrorist. It conceivably also could be used to shoot down aircraft and missiles.

Ponte said the Air Force code-named a secret project

"Eighth Card" in 1968 to develop the laser as a weapon and since has dropped hints of its success. As an example, Ponte cited an article in Air Force Magazine that mentions in passing a "new generation of nuclear weapons dramatically different."

Ponte said scientists at Kirkland Air Force Base in New Mexico have successfully used a laser device to shoot down several drone aircraft.

"If this is what we have, and such may be the case, then more than nuclear weapons are obsolete," he wrote. "This technology makes a world of armies and borders as helpless as the invention of gunpowder made a society dependent on hilltop castles."

Ponte said he believes the United States has such a weapon. "The only justification President Nixon could have for letting the United States fall far behind the Soviets in atomic weaponry—which we have already—is the development of a new, secret weapon which supersedes the atom as completely as the atomic bomb superseded dynamite," he said.

BRUCE BACHNABER, Mayville, Wis., gets enjoyment and satisfaction from his unusual pet, a great-horned owl he raised from the small bird he picked up on a Rock River bank, where it apparently had fallen from a nest. The owl feels secure perched on Bruce's gloved hand. (UPI)

Rural health care studied

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer
SUN VALLEY — Methods to improve rural resident access to health care are currently being studied under a federally funded program.

In an interview, John W. Gerdes, director of the Mountain States Regional Medical Program, Boise, discussed his group's plans to increase the general accessibility, availability, and quality of health care as well as to meet specific local problems.

The program — serving Montana, Idaho, Nevada and Wyoming — is part of an association of 56 regional medical programs which ended a national convention here Wednesday.

Gerdes said the delivery of health care to scattered, rural populations poses many problems including transportation and inability of some areas to support a physician.

One solution, which Gerdes said "is destined to grow rapidly," is a family nurse practitioner program under which a nurse works in a rural area but remains in constant touch with a doctor by telephone.

One such nurse works in Montana and three are in Idaho. Another is planned for Stanley to administer emergency care. Within three years, the regional medical center hopes to locate 30 more communities interested in the program, Gerdes said.

The project usually utilizes former nurses, who have married rural residents and are not likely to move from the area where they are living, he said. The nurses are then given general medical training to strengthen their backgrounds.

In the past, a center has either given grants to local associations that have set up their own programs or has supported the nurses' education.

The Mountain States Center, which employs about 45 persons, this year has a $1.4 million budget, funded by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. In its effort to improve delivery of health care, Gerdes said the center usually works through local education and health related organizations.

Current regional programs include continuing education for nurses, conducted through local colleges; coronary and intensive care training for nurses and physicians, carried out through each state's heart association; and a tumor registry project.

First spaceman joins Peace Corps

By MARGARET A. KILGORE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Donn F. Eisele, 41, a member of the crew of America's first three-man space mission in 1968, was sworn in Wednesday as Peace Corps director for Thailand. He said his aim is "to help the wholeness of the people of the earth."

The former astronaut, a crewman on the first Apollo flight that orbited the earth, said he felt his switch from the space program to the Peace Corps was a logical progression.

"I was impressed from space with the wholeness of the earth and I believe the human race is one whole thing and we should be working together," Eisele said at his swearing in.

Eisele was given the oath by Joseph Blatchford, director of Action, whose office encompasses the Peace Corps.

Bulbul gets TV

TOKYO (UPI) — Tokyo Zoo officials have big things planned for Bebe and Bulbul. Bulbul is a 500 pound neurotic male gorilla who has been so despondent in recent months that zoo officials installed a color television in his cage to keep him occupied.

Bebe is a female gorilla whose mate died two years ago. The zoo officials decided to bring Bebe from her home in Kyoto, in Central Japan, to Tokyo's Ueno Zoo with the hope that she could bring Bulbul out of his sullen mood. The two caught their first glimpse of each other Tuesday and Bulbul immediately perked up, even though he only caught sight of Bebe through a 12-inch vent in a concrete wall separating their cages.

For her part, Bebe took the meeting calmly, even a bit shyly, according to one local news report.

Zoo officials say the courtship will continue for another two months after which they hope the two will mate.

Agreement over arms favors Russ

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S.-Soviet agreement on limiting strategic nuclear weapons expected to be signed by President Nixon in Moscow Friday will give the Soviet Union a superiority in long-distance missiles.

But administration officials today were relatively unconcerned about this because of the superiority of American technology in equipping U.S. missiles with multiple and independently targetable warheads.

Thus the agreement which is emerging will also give the United States superiority over the Soviet Union in the numbers of warheads which the United States could target against Soviet military objectives.

Officials here said the agreement is in sight although they acknowledged there had been recent difficulties related to negotiating a freeze on submarine-carried missiles.

The agreement will place these limitations on both defense missiles and strategic, offensive missiles.

—The United States and the Soviet Union will limit their defensive missiles (anti-missile missiles) to approximately 200 each. These will be distributed at two sites — around the capital areas of Washington and Moscow and at an offensive missile installation by each side to protect it against possible attack by the other.

—Each will put a freeze on offensive missile arsenals. The United States now possesses 1,054 such long-range missiles while the Soviet Union has nearly half again as many with more than 1,500 missiles in its offensive arsenal. The freeze is understood also to limit the giant Soviet SS9 missiles to 228.

This giant missile has been a great concern for U.S. strategists who consider that it was aimed against the U.S. Minuteman offensive missile strike force.

—The two countries will put a freeze on submarine-carried missiles, an agreement which was made possible by a basic compromise between Nixon and the Communist party leader, Leonid I. Brezhnev. Under this section of the agreement, the Soviet Union will be permitted to maintain 42 nuclear submarines carrying 16 missiles apiece or 672 missiles in all.

The United States currently operates 41 nuclear submarines carrying 16 missiles apiece or 656 in all.

Top U.S. and Soviet negotiators have been working extra-long hours at Helsinki in an effort to break the deadlock on the submarine-carried missiles and are expected to go to Moscow shortly to wind up the agreement.

Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, a conservative challenger to President Nixon in some GOP primaries this spring, charged the agreement would "legitimize — and insure — Soviet superiority" in the nuclear weapons field.

Joint space flight set by Russ, US

By AL ROSSITER JR.
UPI Space Writer
CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The U.S.-Soviet space agreement announced Wednesday in Moscow calls for an unprecedented earth orbital joint spaceflight of American and Russian spacemen in 1975 to test space-rescue equipment and techniques.

The treaty is the fruit of more than 18 months of detailed technical talks between representatives of the Soviet Academy of Sciences and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Another meeting is scheduled for Houston to begin final planning for the mission.

According to preliminary planning, a three-man Apollo space ship and a three-man Soviet space station would circle earth docked together for about two days. Two Americans would transfer to the Soviet craft and two cosmonauts would visit the Apollo cabin for several hours.

After completion of the joint rendezvous and docking exercise, the Apollo would separate from the Russian craft and spend 10 more days in orbit, carrying out scientific experiments and Earth resources observations.

The biggest technical obstacle to such a joint mission was solved last December when engineers from both sides agreed at a meeting in Moscow to develop a common airlock and docking module.

The module will fit onto the Apollo on one end and latch to the Soviet spacecraft on the other. It also will serve as a two-man airlock to allow crewmen to transfer between the different atmospheres of the two spacecraft.

A preliminary mission plan proposed by the U.S. side last December called for a Russian space station to be launched unmanned from the Baykonur Cosmodrome with its three crewmen flying to it the next day in a Soyuz spacecraft.

After docking by the two

Soviet spacecraft and completion of initial systems tests, the Apollo would be launched from Cape Kennedy on a Saturn 1B rocket. It would fly up to the Russian ship's 186-mile high orbit and dock a day or two after launch.

The first Russian space station, Salyut, was launched last spring and was visited first by three Soyuz 10 cosmonauts. After they returned to Earth, three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts occupied the station from June 7 to June 29.

After they undocked from the Salyut, the three Soyuz 11 pilots were killed when their cabin atmosphere escaped through a faulty hatch seal.

Filer poppy sale set

FILER — Filer's American Legion Auxiliary will observe its poppy sale Friday and Saturday with the theme, "Poppies made by the Veteran — Profits used for the Veteran."

A display honoring Filer's servicemen has been placed in the Clover Farm Store in the Fairways Shopping Center. Shown are the medals which were awarded posthumously to the parents of Eric Harshbarger and Ronnie Shaff, both of whom lost their lives in the Vietnam conflict.

Billy Smith, Filer, also was a Vietnam casualty, and Danny

DEAR ABBY: My husband has many fine qualities, but he has one serious hangup. He absolutely refuses to let me go to a male doctor!

For some reason, he believes that male doctors are in the profession to get their kicks from viewing the anatomies of their female patients.

When I became pregnant, my husband insisted that I go to a woman doctor. There was only one, and she wasn't a specialist in obstetrics or gynecology. She was a general practitioner. And she was in a town 75 miles from where we lived. I went to her, but complications set in after I went into labor, and she called in an obstetrician (a man) and when my husband got the news he nearly left me. The fact that this obstetrician saved my life and my baby's life didn't matter to my husband.

Don't tell me my husband needs to see a psychiatrist. He'd never go. He thinks they are all quacks.

What do I do if I need a specialist again?

AFRAID TO GET SICK

DEAR AFRAID: Get the best professional care available, and if it happens to be a man, and your husband leaves you because you had a male doctor, you haven't lost much.

DEAR ABBY: Now that women have demanded equal rights, particularly in the area of employment, I wonder how many females will apply for jobs as ditch diggers, plumbers, coal miners, garbage collectors, and slaughterhouse butchers?

I am aware that not all women in the world are pushing for equality, but those who are have made so much noise about it that I can no longer give up my seat on a bus to a lady. And I will never stand back and let a lady go first, unless, of course, she wants to jump out of a window, or off a bridge.

Sincerely Yours,

DEAR JOHN: After you, sir!

DEAR ABBY: We had a family party and invited my daughter's widowed mother in law, Anna, and we told her to bring Henry (her boyfriend). Well, Henry was so rude and obnoxious, we were embarrassed before our friends.

Our problem is that our daughter is being married, and we want to invite Anna to the wedding, but we sure don't want her to bring Henry. Would it be proper to invite Anna and tell her not to bring Henry because he might spoil it for all the other guests?

How can this be done without hurting anyone's feelings? When I say Henry is obnoxious, I am not exaggerating. Even my husband, who doesn't get upset often, said Henry really got to him.

Can you help us?

TOUGH DECISION

DEAR TOUGH: There is no way to tell a woman that her gentleman friend is "obnoxious" and therefore not welcome to accompany her without hurting her feelings. I say, invite Anna and let her bring Henry. I doubt that Henry would "spoil" the wedding for all the other guests.

A Lovelier You

SWIMWEAR UNDERCOVER

By Mary Sue Miller

Swim fashions promise a beautiful season in the sun. The sirens among us will wear the briefest halter bikinis or plunging maillots body-suits of slick jersey. And why not? Brevity makes the most of a form divine.

But what if the peek-a-boo idea runs contrary to your talents or taste? Then by all means take the opposite approach and wear a romantic swimdress. The look has appeal if only by contrast to the bare minimum — as witness a bright print of nylon crepe cut straight like a chemise or nipped at the waist. For beach dolls, teen and terrific, ruffled cotton suits are a flippity.

Colors to swim by appear sunlit, no murky tones. Red, white and blue still wave. Black and white, used singly or together, and prints from tiny flowerettes to lordly lions reflect strong fashion currents.

Now for a surprise. After swimming, suit, go undercover. Beach dresses, skirts, coats and side-laced pants do the covering job. Dresses, in solid and print cottons, sometimes shrug up and bare-backed, fall to the ground. Of sheer materials; others are mini-length and otherwise mini. Cute, though, for cuties.

Coats range from classic, double-breasted terrys to blackground prints left unconstructed and open. Airy short coats abound. More coats than not have hair-saving hoods. As for pants, printed crepes and wide legs top the list, but grommeted denims remain popular.

What else? Repeat. It's going to be a beautiful summer.

Readers of Tennyson may recall that Galahad's strength was as the strength of 10 because his heart was pure. That made it rather easy for his father, Sir Lancelot, to teach him how to handle sword, spear and shield. As for his bridge, the Wizard Merlin, who was the first bridge teacher, found him a most apt pupil.

Most of Merlin's pupils, like many pupils today, would go right after clubs at trick two, only to find that they would wind up one trick short because of the bad club break.

Galahad simply pointed out that he could be sure of nine tricks if he just went right after diamonds. He had only six diamonds, but was sure to establish two of them as winners.

Then he surprised his teacher by explaining that he might well wind up with an overtrick on his safe line of play.

The young prodigy did exactly this. East won the first diamond and led back a spade. Now Galahad, who had played the three of diamonds the first time, led out his queen.

West could do no better than win the trick and clear the spades, whereupon Galahad cashed the last two diamonds while discarding a heart and a club from dummy.

East, who had discarded a heart on the third spade, let a second heart go. Now Galahad had played king and ace of hearts and by that time his seven spot had become high.

Luau climaxes school year

Read and heed

TWIN FALLS — The 50th state came to Idaho briefly Tuesday in the form of a year-end Hawaiian luau held at Washington Elementary School.

The annual affair was a lavish production prepared by mothers of fifth graders for all in that class at the school.

The luau is not only the culmination of the school year for the fifth graders, but ends in a festive style, intensive study of the nation's 50th state.

Bright Polynesian decor set the scene, for the students, teachers and mothers to display their Hawaiian apparel.

Mrs. Ruth Turner, music director, put the students through their paces in a program of Hawaiian songs, dances and games.

A dinner of fried rice, sweet fruit salad, Hawaiian punch and coconut cupcakes was served luau style on the brightly decorated tables.

Co-chairmen of the event were Mrs. Kasey Weigt and Mrs. Ruth Day. Mrs. Janet Latham was in charge of decorations.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Read labels carefully before using any pesticide.

Even if it's a brand you've used for years, check the label because products formulas change and improve. If any is spilled accidentally on skin or clothing, wash skin thoroughly with warm water and soap and remove clothing.

Hawaii visits

Rupert Scout named local winner

RUPERT — A dissertation on man's future in space brought honors and a chance to spend a week at Cape Kennedy for a Rupert youth.

Alan R. Johnson, a member of Explorer Scout Post 53, sponsored by the Rupert Second Ward LDS Church, was named local winner in the 1972 Explorer Space Seminar state competition. He will compete with other Idaho Explorer Scouts for the grand prize of a week-long tour of the Space Center at Cape Kennedy in July. One Explorer from each state will tour the center.

Young Johnson wrote a 400-word theme on "What is Man's Future in Space" for the competition, sponsored by PepsiCo, Inc. in cooperation with the Boy Scouts of America's Exploring Division, and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Alan also won first place in the Snake River Area Council "speak-off" competition, sponsored by the Boy Scouts and the Reader's Digest, and will represent the council in the western region BSA speak-off competition, vying for an opportunity to compete nationally for scholarships. The national speak-off will be scheduled during February, 1973, in New York City.

John Weston, Post 36, Jerome, captured second place in the council event, and was named first alternate in the Pope Gooding, Post 32, was the event Alan cannot attend the named second alternate as national competition. Arden third-place winner.

Open house set for TF couple

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Wayne L. Ward will observe their 25th Wedding Anniversary Sunday June 4 with an open house at their home from 2 to 5 p.m.

They reside at the Grandview Trailer Court, space 50. Friends and relatives of the couple are invited.

Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ward, Buhl, and Donna Wigington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Wigington, Jerome, were married June 1, 1947, at the First Methodist Church, Buhl. They have four children: Mrs. Diana McGinnis, Louisville, Ky., and Wilford, Larry and Garry Ward, Twin Falls, and one grandchild.

Hostesses to the open house will be Mrs. W. R. Ward, Mrs. Wilford Wigington and Mrs. Clinton Uptain, Buhl. The couple will be honored with a money tree.

Buy practical gifts

NEW YORK (UPI)—Money is a mighty important consideration when planning a shower for a bride. For young couples starting on a "showering" gifts to fill practical needs may be the most welcome. A handy caddy filled with a seasoned homemaker's favorite cleaning supplies may not be glamorous, but it's certainly useful. Or, try tucking some tried and true, quick and easy recipes into a set of kitchen utensils.

TF OES unit meets

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Al Robinson, worthy patron and worthy matron, of order of Eastern Star Chapter No. 29 presided at the Tuesday evening meeting.

Introduced were Mrs. Grace Johnson, past worthy grand matron OES of Idaho, Mrs. Louisa Montgomery, chairman of the finance committee OES of Idaho; Mrs. Marion Jenkins, chairman of district No. 3 publicity; Maxine Machamer, district No. 11 chairman of interest benevolence fund; Jim Clark, assistant grand sentinel, and Iva Kilborn, chapter chairman of visiting committee.

Mrs. Montgomery reported on changes in the code and digest.

Air bag system doesn't work

By DAVID W. CHUTE
DETROIT (UPI)—In a "most embarrassing" demonstration, an air bag passive restraint system failed to inflate Tuesday in a crash test arranged to prove the air bag's reliability. The dummy driver in the car broke the steering wheel and cracked the windshield with its head as the test vehicle slammed into a barrier at 30 miles per hour.

The air bag, which was supposed to inflate and provide a protective cushion for the driver, remained inactive in the steering column housing. The deploying mechanism apparently was damaged in the crash as technicians were unable to fire it manually.

"This is most embarrassing," said Prof. Lawrence M. Patrick, who conducted the demonstration at the Wayne State University Bio-mechanics Center for the National Motor Vehicle Safety Advisory Council.

Judson Branch, chairman of the council, an agency of the U.S. Department of Transportation, had been scheduled to talk with newsmen after the demonstration, but left before he could be questioned. An associate said he had to catch a plane.

Patrick, a Wayne State University member and an expert on automotive safety, said the air bag was not properly tested prior to the demonstration.

The batting average on air bag tests was .600 until today and now has dropped to .333. The Council member Henry Hill said. One of two earlier tests was successful. Passive restraint systems will be required, under governmental safety standards, for 1976 model cars. The air bag, designed to activate in frontal barrier crashes at a point when impact speed is great enough to cause serious injury or death, is the only passive restraint system which has undergone thorough testing thus far. The auto companies are seeking a one-year extension of the 1976 deadline so that data can be accumulated on the effectiveness of new passive and shoulder harness systems.

A European automotive executive said today that his company is developing a semi-passive seat belt system that would be 4.5 times more effective than air bags in saving lives.

Derek P. Peck, representing Triumph Motor Co. of England at the second international conference on passive restraints here, said the system under study by his company would provide for an integrated lap belt and shoulder harness of energy absorbing webbing for occupants of the front seat and an interlocking ignition system that would limit the car to a speed of 10 m.p.h. if the belts were not secured.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) Investors showed pre-weekend uncertainty Thursday as prices moved higher in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was ahead 4.14 at 969.60 shortly before 1:15 p.m. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index climbed 0.17 to 110.48.

Advances held a narrow 697 to 610 lead over declines among the 1,649 issues crossing the tape. The three-hour turnover amounted to 10,650,000 shares, compared with 11,130,000 traded during the comparable period Wednesday.

Analysts said investors normally show restraint before holidays. The market will be closed Monday to commemorate Memorial Day. There was some profit taking.

While the news background generally was favorable, some profit taking was apparent. The government's index of leading business indicators rose again in April. Also, the summit talks in Moscow were producing results.

Steels, motors, chemicals, rails, airlines and aircraft were mixed in fractions.

Minidoka sport program hurts

By LETREMAINE
Times-News writer

RUPERT — The sports program in the Minidoka County School District is hurting.

It may hurt worse unless the voters loosen their purse strings.

Trustees of the school district hearing that voters had defeated a five mill plant facilities levy Tuesday, said during a board meeting Tuesday night they have no choice but to refuse a request for a fourth assistant football coach.

The board approved the hiring of John Astorquia as social studies teacher and assistant football coach at Minico High School.

Astoria will be the third assistant in the department.

Bart Templeman, head football coach of the high school, said he has contacted at least 86 boys at the junior high level who indicate an interest in football. He said he needs a fourth assistant coach to work with the boys.

In addition, a number of grid fans have requested a junior-class football program, complete with a game schedule. Without additional coaching help, Templeman said, he cannot implement the program.

After a lengthy discussion the trustees agreed with the financial situation that no justification can be found for adding the additional coaching position.

Supt. Darrell Hatfield said the district has already had to trim four coaching positions, saving about $2,400 in increment which would have gone to teachers willing to add the coaching to their duties.

A request from Mrs. Barbara Fagg, girls' drill team adviser, for additional funds was also tabled after a two-hour discussion on financial grounds. Mrs. Fagg asked for an increment of $800 per year for her work with the drill team, and renewed a request for traveling expenses of $1,000 per year plus $500 per year for a fund to acquire new uniforms for the 50 girls on the team. Her request was endorsed by several parents of the drill team members who stressed the importance of drill team activities.

Ed Schenk, assistant principal at Minico High School, stirred a brief flurry of protest from the parents when he said the drill team is a worthwhile activity but it is too selective.

"I know of several girls who would like to be on the drill team but are unable to," he said.

The parents protested his statement the sports program is "not selective" insisting the basketball team is indeed one of the most selective teams at the school.

General fishing season opens Saturday morning

By STU MURRELL

Idaho Fish &amp; Game Dept.

General fishing season opens at midnight on May 27th and the outlook is good, particularly for the reservoirs and spring fed streams in the Magic Valley region.

There are several regulation changes this year, the most important of which is a 10 trout limit or 7 pounds and one fish. Fishermen are advised to obtain a copy of the fishing regulations and check those given for their favorite spot. Silver Creek has some major changes as does Billingsley Creek. Kokanee and coho have a daily limit of 25 fish in addition to the regular trout limit.

Spring Fed Waters

The spring fed waters listed below are expected to produce good fishing on opening weekend because rapid runoff should not affect them.

Silver Creek — Fly fishing only on the main creek from Kilpatrick Bridge upstream, including Sullivan Lake and Stocker Creek to the posted property lines.

This fly fishing section does not open until July 1st. Fly fishing is with a fly rod and line, no spinning bubbles or rods allowed. No float tubes are allowed on the fly fishing only section. Loving Creek and Grove Creek open on May 27th. Silver Creek below Kilpatrick Bridge in the fish and game access area has been recently stocked.

Billingsley Creek — Fly fishing only section from Tupper Bridge upstream to Vada Grade as posted. Adjacent landowner on this section require permission for access. Remainder of creek open to general fishing.

Riley Creek — Excellent for trout.

Hagerman Refuge Ponds — Good for both trout, largemouth bass and bluegills.

Malad River — Good if not too riled from return irrigation flows.

Reservoirs

The following reservoirs are expected to be the best producers on opening day and all the ones listed below have been stocked with trout prior to opening day.

Magic — Good for bank and boat fishermen. Good holdover of trout.

Sublett — Located east of Malta. Has cutthroat, rainbows, and recently introduced brown trout. Always clear on opening weekend.

Little Wood & Fish Creek — Near Carey. Good for all sizes of trout.

Mackay, near town of Mackay — Should be excellent even if murky from runoff. Kokanee are an added bonus on this reservoir.

Roseworth — Recently stocked and should be good.

Morrison — Open year around and recently stocked.

Salmon Falls Creek Reservoir — Open year around and has been producing well on good trout and kokanee particularly by trolling in a boat.

Dog Creek, north of Gooding — Recently stocked with catchable rainbow and has been good fishing.

Thorn Creek Reservoir — North of Gooding — good for holdover of trout averaging a pound and recently stocked.

Other Streams

It is expected that many of the larger rivers will be difficult to fish successfully because of high water.

Big Wood River — Recently stocked.

Big Lost River — Recently stocked.

Jarbridge River — Open all year and may be high because of record snow pack.

South Fork of Boise — Will be stocked if waters are not too high.

Featherville Dredge Ponds — Recently stocked.

Trail Creek Ponds — Should be good for brook trout and catchable rainbows.

Richfield Canal — Recently stocked.

Waters in South Hills — Should be stocked if water conditions permit but record snow pack may make fishing difficult.

Stander shows no uneasiness on eve of bout with Frazier

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Heavyweight challenger Ron Stander happily fielded the adulation of home town fans Wednesday, showing no sign that he is worried about reports of impending disaster in his title bout Thursday night with champion Joe Frazier.

Frazier went into his customary prefight seclusion in his hotel suite. No appearances were scheduled through Thursday, an aide said.

The boyish Stander visited his family, then appeared in the downtown area of neighboring Council Bluffs, winding up at a barber shop.

Signs sprouted from stores, houses and lawns in Council Bluffs proclaiming: "This is Stander Country." "You expect more from Stander," and "Go big Ron."

His fans generally poo-pooed sports writers' predictions of an early end to the battle, to be held before 10,500 at Civic Auditorium here.

The challenger, stopping by Dick Wood's barber shop where he has had his hair cut for years, was besieged by well-wishers and autograph seekers as Wood snipped his long, black locks.

A reporter noted his newly extended sideburns.

"You like 'em?" asked Stander, grinning.

One faithful Stander fan, Mike Antrum, 20, Council Bluffs, said his wedding gift to his bride consisted of two $20 tickets to the fight.

Wood said he is part of a 69-nan Council Bluffs delegation who will be occupying 30 seats.

Another fan, Ken Maschmeier, said he bought $180 worth of tickets to permit relatives from Beatrice, Neb., to attend.

The proprietor of a "buy and sell shop," Speed Larkin, brought in a splintered portion of axe handle for Stander to sign. Stander broke the handle, he said, in training for the Frazier bout and Larkin figured to sell it with a "Broken by Ron Stander" caption.

Stander visited his family and was happily mauled by his two children, whom he has only rarely seen the past three months.

Stander's wife, Darlene, was frankly critical of the long training period which has kept her husband away from home. Stander began his training stint with a month in Boston under trainer Johnny Dunpe.

Stander, outspoken on nearly any subject, told newsmen he feels he has at least a 50-50 chance and that he especially wanted to win the title to earn a shot at Muhammad Ali.

Stander added, "He yells about Frazier being a white man's fighter. I wouldn't let him forget that talk." The challenger said Frazier was far superior to Ali in their fight 14 months ago.

Stander shrugged off taunts of the visiting press, who have labeled him the "white hopeless" and "burn of the month."

NFL to count ties in loop standings

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Football League Wednesday voted approval of a new standings system this season in which a tie will count for a half game won and a half game lost.

The proposal was first put before the league at the meetings in Hawaii two months ago and tabled until this session. Under the new system, every team's record will be based on a 14-game performance, but the eventual champion still will be determined on a percentage basis.

"The idea is to make a team play to win, rather than not to lose," said a league spokesman.

There have been three instances in NFL history where the new half-game system would have affected the final outcome of the championship. In 1932, the Chicago Bears had six ties in a 7-1-6 record. Green Bay was 10-3-1, but would have finished first under the new rule.

Detroit won the 1935 title with a 7-3-2 mark and Green Bay was second with 8-4-0. If ties had counted, each would have been 8-4. In 1949, the Los Angeles Rams were 8-2-2 and Chicago 9-3-0. Again, this would have been a situation with identical 9-3 records.

The league also heard a presentation from Kansas City seeking the 1974 pro bowl game. The 1973 game is scheduled for Dallas and it had been decided that '74 would go to an American Conference city.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said at the meeting, he was surprised that a law suit was filed in behalf of 32 National Football League players against him and league owners instead of the issue being resolved in "normal union-management relations."

The anti-trust suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Minneapolis Tuesday charging Rozelle and the NFL owners with "anti-competitive practices" in the so-called "Rozelle Compensation Rule."

The rule allows the Commissioner to set payment for a team losing a free agent to another club when the teams involve can't agree on payment.

"We would have hoped that issues relative to employment would be resolved through the process of collective bargaining, as is the case in normal union-management relationships," Rozelle said. "This process if, of course, currently available to both the players and the clubs and both certainly are aware that the rules of professional football offer players a greater freedom of movement than the rules of any other professional sport."

Tex Schramm, president and general manager of the Dallas Cowboys and chairman of the league's powerful competition committee, viewed the suit as "the first shot in a negotiations of the new contract coming up in 1974."

Other changes adopted by the NFL were: permission for the ball to be moved three yards either way on fourth down when the ball is within 15 yards of the goal line in order to get a better angle on a kick; and no blitzing except by outside linebackers on third down and short yardage in the Pro Bowl All-Star game as a means of preventing injuries.

Also, a zone defense on passing situations will be disallowed in favor of man to man coverage in the Pro Bowl game.

Final dress rehearsal staged in preparation for Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—The final dress rehearsal for Saturday's Indianapolis 500-mile auto race was staged Wednesday with most of the participants getting the feel of their machines under racing conditions. No one attained super speeds.

All but two of the entries took part in more than three hours of carburetion tests during the only period prior to the race that the machines are allowed on the 2.2 1/2-mile circuit at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Drivers John Mahler and Carl Williams skipped the traditional final practice period as their crews made final checks of the racers.

Campbell says clubs responsible

NEW YORK (UPI)—Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Wednesday that it was up to individual clubs to take action in instances where players from their roster sign contracts with the World Hockey Association.

"In the cases I'm aware of the clubs sent notices to players in every instance that they intended to enforce the terms of their contract," Campbell said.

He added that no other action has been taken yet "primarily because there are no services a player would be required to perform for a team at this time (during the off-season)."

Campbell said it would also be difficult to get an injunction against these contracts because no one, other than the parties who signed them and those who now hold them, has seen them.

"It can be a situation like Cunningham," Campbell said in reference to basketball player Bill Cunningham, "where players may have signed two contracts. I know of two players who are alleged to have jumped to the WHA but who have signed contracts with their NHL club."

The carburetion tests normally are limited to three hours, but additional time was given Wednesday to allow drivers to practice under a new system of safety lights, alternating between the green and the yellow caution lights.

Later most of the crews took part in two hours of pit stop practice although no engines were allowed to be operated.

The field technically was filled Wednesday with the approval of an Andy Granatelli car which had been damaged in practice after it was qualified. U.S. Auto Club technical committee chairman Frank DelRoy announced approval of the car shortly after the end of the carburetion tests.

The car was qualified in 10th place on the first day of time trials by Art Pollard. Pollard sustained a broken leg two days later in a practice crash. The car was damaged extensively, but repairs were made and the machine approved Wednesday.

Granatelli replaced Pollard with Wally Dellenbach, who had qualified another car but then was "bumped" from the 33-car field by a faster racer. Dellenbach's original car, owned by Lindsay Hopkins, is the only alternate machine this year and would make the race with another driver only if one of the machines in the starting lineup is unable to make the post.

Granatelli's car, under USAC rules, was reassigned the last- or 33rd starting spot because of the repairs.

Three-time "500" king A. J.

Foyt experienced turbocharger problems in Wednesday's practice sessions—a problem that could cause him up to an hour's pit stop if it occurred in the race itself.

Gordon Johncock, who has "blown" five engines this month, had the top recorded speed of the day, 186.4 miles an hour.

Foyt and Bobby Unser—the pole sitter—had laps in excess of 183 m.p.h., well below Unser's record qualifying speeds of nearly 196 m.p.h.

Mark Donohue had laps in the 182 m.p.h. range, Mike Mosley, 181, and defending champion Al Unser and Gary Bettenhausen 180.

The "slower" speeds may have resulted in part from a warm but sunny day with temperatures in the mid 80s. However, the track temperature was nearly 120 degrees, which was not considered excessively hot.

THE SECRET OF GETTING AHEAD.

What is the secret of getting ahead?
 Most people are planning so that they will be able to make the most of every opportunity that comes their way. And in the modern times, with our technological advances so rapidly, there are more opportunities, particularly for the trained man, than ever before.

No doctor or dentist bills.
 Your medical care is free and it's the best in the world. While you're in the Army, all your health needs are provided for you.

Your food is free.
 Regardless of what you've heard about Army chow in the past, today's Army meals are well prepared, well balanced and well served. Army cooks are specialists in their jobs, and the meals they turn out would do credit to the chef of some top restaurants.

Thirty days' paid vacation.
 You probably can count on your fingers all your civilian friends who get 30 days of paid vacation every year. Most have to be content with packing as much fun as they can get into one or two weeks of vacation. Not so with you. As a soldier, you'll get 30 days' paid vacation every year.

Make your choice of training.
 The Army has it. The Army offers training in your choice of hundreds of courses. These courses are designed to give you the job they are designed to equip you for added responsibilities in the Army—to move you ahead in your military career. Even if you decide to return to civilian life after completing your military training, the training you get in the Army will give you an edge in getting the kind of job you want.

GOODING — Three additional senior citizens were named to the advisory board for the Senior Citizen Center at a meeting Tuesday night at the War Memorial Hall.

Ethyl Heller, Mary Loewen and Howard Loller will join the seven other board members. Two more members will be chosen from the Hagerman and Bliss areas.

About 20 citizens attended the meeting, held to discuss objectives and activities and to hear ideas from those attending.

According to Mrs. Marlene Lees, board chairman, the group favors the present plans of the board, which include a transportation program which provides rides to doctors and downtown, recreation and free time activities including games, movies, arts and crafts, potluck dinners and dances.

Richfield honors students

RICHFIELD — Richfield High School students were honored at an awards assembly Tuesday afternoon at the school gymnasium.

The event climaxes the school year that will end with a student body swimming party at Banbury Hot Springs Thursday.

Academic awards were given to outstanding lower and upper division students, by faculty members.

Work force increases in Idaho

TWIN FALLS — An additional 6,300 persons went to work in Idaho during April, the Idaho Department of Employment reports.

This dropped the state's unemployment by .2 per cent for an overall unemployment rate of 6.2 per cent of the work forces.

About 78 per cent of the increase in employment was tied to the agricultural industry.

In south-central Idaho, gradually improving weather boosted farm activity and brought more demand for workers in the trades, service and construction industry. Food processing plants began a wind down, and the inclement weather caused construction work to move at a slower rate than anticipated for April.

Increased employment in the Twin Falls area in general is forecast by the department with additional industrial interest. The Moore Business Forms, Inc., prospect would indicate 150 to 200 additional jobs.

Dedication set at TF memory rites

TWIN FALLS — Dedication of a new monument to the memory of veterans of all wars will highlight Monday's Memorial Day services in Sunset Memorial Park.

The ceremony at 11 a.m. is open to the public and will feature a speaker to be announced.

W. W. Frantz said the new memorial at the park replaces a marble monument which was erected more than 30 years ago and was crumbling beyond repair. It contained the names of many World War II dead. The new monument is in memory of all servicemen who died in all wars.

It was made possible through the donations of the American Legion, World War I veterans, several other veterans and service organizations and the major contribution from Sierra Life, Frantz said. Labor was donated by Robert Harney of Sunset Memorial Park.

J. Ted Davis is in charge of the Monday program.

Israeli census considered feat

By KENNETH L. LUCOFF
TEL AVIV (UPI) — It took a little Talmudic logic, some modern technology and simple persuasion to get Israel's first census in 10 years off the ground.

The population count, which began Sunday, almost came to a halt when Orthodox Jews refused to answer questions because they feared plagues would befall them.

Religious law has forbidden head counting since Moses led the Israelites out of slavery almost 3,000 years ago. It was feared then that the Egyptian pharaoh would know exactly how many Hebrews to hunt down.

"We simply told the chief rabbi that we weren't counting heads, but air," census official Micha Limor said Tuesday.

"It was a Talmudic battle with the Orthodox, but we convinced them to cooperate when we explained that our computers don't count people, but the holes of computerized punch cards," Limor said.

It wasn't quite so easy to organize the counting of Israel's wandering Bedouin Arabs, he said. "They've got a neighborhood, no street address and no telephones out in the desert."

Census officials first had to find tribal sheiks and hold a Bedouin pow-wow to discuss the matter.

"They came by camel, on donkeys and by foot to meetings we had," Limor said.

The tribal heads agreed to participate in the census when officials explained that knowing how many Bedouin, wandering about tending sheep and goat herds would mean more money for schools, medical care and social services.

"They went back to their tribes and announced that on a different day each tribe would gather somewhere for a meeting. We would be invited, and then could do our countings," Limor said.

Only Israelis, Arabs and Jews will be questioned in the census — not residents of territory Israel-occupied in the 1967 six-day war.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MAY 26, 1972

CARROLL RIGHTER'S
HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have many small duties to perform which win goodwill and respect from those with whom you have usual duties and obligations. So be sure you handle all personal, business and governmental responsibilities well, then you will be free to look into new avenues of expression tomorrow.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Make the right plan now to keep all the promises you have made, and please allies immensely thereby. Follow your intuition, which is apt to be most accurate now. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Discussing with associates those policy and other matters of importance puts your relationship on a more satisfying and successful basis. Don't delay in handling that civic matter. Show you have great ability.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get the cooperation of associates and co-workers so you clear up all that work ahead of you in jing time. Make sure you rest after the day's toil instead of going out for fun that could be strenuous, expensive as well.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you get your work done early, you have plenty of time later for joining with congenials at mutually enjoyable pleasure. Spend more time having fun with closest tie. A great deal of mental harmony can be built up this way.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) If you show you are understanding of the woes and anxieties of kin, you can diplomatically straighten out matters at home. Smile more and give credit where it is due; though Evening is fine for reading.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) An ideal day for shopping for whatever it is you need the most, as well as for running errands for yourself and others. If you don't have a really comfortable chair, buy one. Relax tonight.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 23) You can economize more now and also put new ideas to work that will add to present prosperity. Listening carefully to what a highly successful person has to suggest is fine. Let some of that success rub off on you.

SCORPIO (Oct 24 to Nov 21) Visit the beauty or barber shop and improve your appearance, as well as your mood. Later gad about town and have a delightful time with others. Show you have much savoir faire.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) You can get into all those secret matters you have delayed handling, with good results. Follow your intuition which is quite accurate now and let it help you immensely. Don't waste valuable time, yours or that of others.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Getting together with good pals or going out socially is excellent today, tonight, since you have time and opportunity for so doing. Use ingenuity in making your plans to reach most cherished aims. Advance.

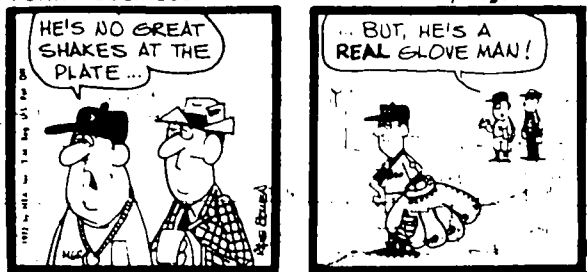

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) You would do well to go straight to that bigwig where some aim in the business world is concerned and get the right results. Take care of that credit affair quickly and well. Don't take any chances.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) You can expand along various lines today if you play your cards right, so stop wasting time foolishly. Study facts and figures carefully and you do not make mistakes later on. Preparation is the keynote.

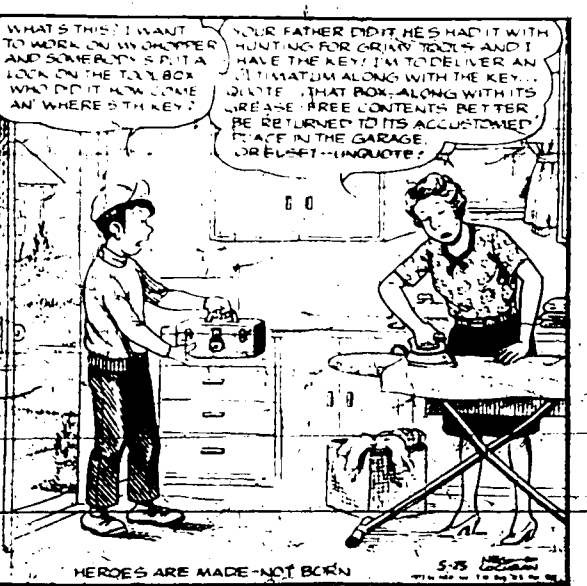

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people who has a tremendous willpower and others will find it very difficult to dissuade him or her from such decisions as are made, so give the finest religious and ethical training you can early. Then the life will be properly directed and there will be fine accomplishments. The field of investigations, research and science is very good here. Sports for body building early.

Contrary to widespread notion, most of the door knockers, such as the encyclopedia men, are hometown boys. QUERIES
Q. "Are rats either right-handed or left-handed?"
A. They are. And mostly right-handed.

Q. "WHO first learned that men and women have the same number of ribs?"

A. A Belgian named Andreas Vasalius. In 1513. He found out with a sharp knife. The discovery didn't do much to enhance his popularity; either Vasalius was one of the first of those curious critics who kept skeletons in their closets.

Q. "HOW often does a lie detector get it right?"

A. About two out of every three times, say the legal critics. Not bad, I say, not bad at all.

YOU'D THINK the U. S. Coast Guard fire boats would always have the right of way, would you? But they don't.

SLEEP

That women need more sleep than men is a theory, not a proven fact. That women get more sleep than men, however, is a proven fact, not a theory. Recent studies show the ladies average 52 minutes more sleep than the men in any 21 hours. But do not sleep as deeply, the girls. It is they, not their gentlemen friends, who are most apt to hear the odd noise at midnight. What's that, Ralph? Wake up.
