Cassia approves 'minis'

BURLEY — Cassia County schools are the first in the state to have subdistricts.

Cassia voters approved two of four proposed subdistricts Monday.

Burley and Raft River subdistricts were approved, while proposed subdistricts for Oakley and Declo areas were defeated.

The subdistricts would permit voters in each subdistrict to proceed with building projects financed by bonds issued from the subdistrict.

Voters in other sections of the school district could not influence the outcome of a subdistrict's building program.

Supporters of the subdistrict concept had argued that needed school buildings had been defeated by reluctant voters in other sections of the county.

They saw subdistricts as a way to bypass sectional rivalries.

The subdistricts would be governed by the single Cassia County School Board.

All four subdistricts were approved by a majority of Cassia County voters, but voters in the proposed Oakley and Declo subdistricts defeated the proposals at their polling places.

Approval of the subdistricts on both a county-wide level and subdistrict level was necessary for the subdistricts to be created.

County totals for each subdistrict are: Burley subdistrict, 419 yes, 213 no; Raft River, 382 yes, 251 no; Oakley 380 yes, 246 no; and Declo, 448 yes, 333 no.

The Burley vote, creating its own subdistrict was 287 yes, 102 no; Raft River, 89 yes, 18 no; Oakley, 40 yes, 76 no, and Declo, 79 yes, 99 no.

Election judges at the Declo City Hall reported only Declo subdistrict voting failed to report totals on the other three subdistricting proposals.

Unofficial voting totals on the Burley subdistrict proposal, by polling place, are:

Burley High School, 89 yes, 28 no; Burley Junior High, 76 yes, 48 no; Southwest Elementary 93 yes, 25 no; Bean Growers Warehouse at Milner, 29 yes, 1 no.

Albion Elementary School, 4 yes, 17 no; Oakley High School, 41 yes, 75 no; Raft River High School, 35 yes, 14 no, and Almo Elementary School, 32 yes, 8 no.

Totals on the Raft River subdistrict proposal are: Burley High School, 80 yes, 37 no; Burley Junior High, 63 yes, 61 no; Southwest Elementary 77 yes, 33 no; Milner, 24 yes, 1 no; Albion Elementary School, 4 yes, 17 no; Oakley High School, 40 yes, 76 no; Raft River High School, 56 yes, 11 no; and Almo Elementary School, 31 yes, 9 no.

Unofficial totals on the defeated Oakley subdistrict proposal are: Burley High School, 79 yes, 38 no; Burley Junior High, 6 yes, 60 no; Southwest Elementary School, 77 yes, 34 no; Milner, 29 yes, 1 no; Albion Elementary School, 4 yes, 17 no; Oakley High School, 40 yes, 76 no; Raft River High School, 56 yes, 11 no; and Almo Elementary School, 31 yes, 9 no.

Alone in dark

An air mattress, a flash light, and plenty of determination saved the lives of a Twin Falls woman, her daughter and grandson in Rapid City, S. D., Friday night.

"You can't imagine the feeling of being alone in the dark, swirling flood waters and finally hearing a voice tell you he would get help," said Mrs. Rex Ulrich, Twin Falls.

Social Security benefits trimmed

By MIKE FEINSLHER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Seeking economies, the Senate Finance Committee has trimmed an increase in Social Security benefits it approved last week.

By an unrecorded voice vote Monday, the committee decided to make the increase 5 per cent for those who draw the minimum $70.40 a month for individuals and $105 for couples.

All others among the 28 million Americans who receive benefits would get the 10 per cent increase agreed on by the committee last week.

Those who draw the minimum benefits are people with low lifetime earnings or those who worked only a few years under Social Security payroll taxation.

The committee's reversal apparently was motivated by a desire to keep to a minimum the tax increase which will be required next year to pay for the increase in benefits.

A decision was expected today on how large that increase would be.

The minimum benefit now is $70.40 a month for a single person and $133 for a couple. It would rise to $74 and $141 under the committee's decision to hold to 5 per cent the increase for those drawing the minimum.

The Senate, however, is likely to reverse that decision. It has voted in past years for special minimums of $100 for single people and $150 for couples on the grounds that they need the increase the most. The Senate view has never prevailed in the House.

The committee said some people who get the minimum are former government workers who took jobs in the private economy only long enough to qualify for a minimum Social Security pension atop their government pension check.

A special Social Security program exists for people 75 or over who never qualified for Social Security or any other public benefit. Single persons get $48.40 a month and married couples $72.50. The committee also decided to make the increase for this group 5 per cent.

Many who get that special payment are retired farmers who were too close to retirement to qualify for Social Security when the program was broadened to include farmers and other self-employed people.

The decision on what to do about Social Security payroll taxes was the last one confronting the committee before its massive bill.

Vietnam policy OK by lone vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — By a one-vote margin the House Foreign Affairs Committee today approved a resolution endorsing President Nixon's chance of getting approval and the safe departure of Vietnam policy in place of an end-the-war declaration.

Democrats said they would carry the fight for the defeated resolution to the House floor. They felt they would have a chance of getting approval there.

TF school budget for '73 adopted

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school trustees gave final approval to a $3 million budget Monday night.

The budget reflects a slight dip in district budgeted spending in comparison with the preceding year's budget.

District Supt. George Staudacher said earlier that a $90,000 error in the previous 1971-72 budget caused that budget's spending to be overestimated.

As a result, he said, district spending will rise slightly during the 1972-73 year, contrary to the budgeted decline.

The budget provides for no increases in the teacher pay schedule from the previous year. Beginning teacher salaries remain at $9,050, and senior teachers can earn up to $9,085.

The budget provides for general fund expenditures of $3,035 million. Special fund expenditures bring total district budgeted spending to $3.79 million.

District taxes are estimated at $1.00 million, based on a $30 million district assessed valuation up from the 1971 valuation of $28.7 million.

Little TF effect seen from rule on counsel

TWIN FALLS — The impact of Monday's U.S. Supreme Court decision requiring attorneys be made available to indigents facing jail terms may have little effect here.

According to Twin Falls County Pres. Atty. Leon Smith, Twin Falls County began providing an attorney to anyone facing a jail sentence at the beginning of this year following a ruling by Fifth District Judge Theron Ward in Twin Falls.

Ward ruled late in 1971 on an appeal from magistrate court that indigents be provided counsel even though no such measure was provided in Idaho law.

According to Smith, Ward based his decision on rulings by several state supreme courts and in anticipation of the Monday U.S. Supreme Court decision.

"It's one we have been expecting. The trend has been in this direction," Smith said.

Smith said additional cost of providing attorneys has proved far less than expected.

He said the county provided an additional $10,000 in the public defender fund this year in anticipation of an increased case load stemming from Judge Ward's decision.

"I doubt we'll use half that," Smith said today.

He said few people request an attorney in minor crimes. He said many defend themselves, or manage to find the funds needed for an attorney. He said many plead guilty.

Some people at the start of the year were predicting astronomical sums. It wasn't borne out.

Gold price soars on Europe market

LONDON (UPI) — Gold buyers pushed the market price $1.55 an ounce higher on the free market today and the value of the dollar decreased in some European centers.

Gold's price jumped to $63.75 an ounce when the market opened but the price guideline was later set at $63.30, $1.55 higher than the previous day's closing price. This was still $3.70 below gold's recent peak of $67 set Thursday, and which had tempted some profit taking by speculators.

When gold's price pushed higher again today, the value of the dollar turned down on some European markets such as Paris, Frankfurt, London and Amsterdam.

Today's spurt in the price of the metal was based on the belief that its place in the global money system is still assured.

Monday's annual report from the prestigious Bank for International Settlements (BIS) and its remarks on gold's continued essential role in the world's monetary picture have speculators more heart market sources said.

Financial experts say the present dash to buy gold is not directly linked with any new doubts about the U.S. currency.

BIS which is owned by Western government banks, said gold must always have its place as a guarantee of value and a standard for currencies.

MIGs fall to Israelis

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israeli aircraft shot down two Egyptian MIG21 jets today in a dogfight over the Mediterranean Sea 25 miles from the Sinai Peninsula, Israeli military spokesmen said.

The spokesmen said two Egyptian pilots "were seen parachuting" and that all Israeli aircraft returned safely to base.

They said the Egyptian aircraft were encountered by an Israeli patrol.

Water board hears Gem development reports

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Two study reports of new land development and additional irrigation water use in Idaho were presented the Idaho Water Resource Board today.

Warren Reynolds and William Gotsch of the planning staff of the resource board presented projection figures indicating more than one million acres of additional irrigated lands will be in production in Idaho by the year 2020, and pointed to population and consumption trends supporting the need for such land development.

Second speaker on the program, Robert L. Sargent, extension economist, University of Idaho, reviewed Potato pricing effects on development of new land in Idaho and surrounding states. He told the board if Idaho growers are to compete in the market place with other states new land development is necessary.

"If we can't compete, our present growers are certainly headed for difficulty," he said.

The board met at 9 a.m. in the Holiday Inn with George Yost, Emmett, vice chairman, presiding. Business sessions followed a tour of fish hatcheries Monday, and were scheduled to continue through 5 p.m. today.

Agenda items also include a budget review for the current fiscal year and reports on various reclamation projects under development or proposed for development in Idaho.

A report on the Bear River negotiations and the Pacific Northwest River Basins Commission, and Western States Water Council reports were among items scheduled for discussion this afternoon. Dr. Robert Lee, director, was scheduled to discuss public works appropriations this afternoon.

Sargent told the commission Idaho can expect a greater price stability at the farm level because of the increase in potato production under contract to processors.

He said there has been a marked decrease in consumption of the fresh potato product, but at the same time again in consumption of processed potato items.

Convenience to the working housewife and institutional trade in the use of processed food items has changed the consumption trends over the past decade, he said.

Sargent said per capita consumption of potatoes has risen gradually since 1960 but fresh potato consumption which occupied 78 per cent of the total in 1960 dropped to 50 per cent by 1970. Trends indicate fresh potatoes, by 1980, may represent only 20 per cent of the total consumption, he said. These will be bakers for which Idaho has developed an enviable reputation, he said.

"Whether Idaho moves aggressively toward further land development or restricts such development may be irrelevant insofar as the potato prices to growers, but since other states are moving forward in new land development, Idaho will be in difficulty if it does not compete," he said.

Sargent said competition in the potato market will continue to crowd out inefficiency with only the aggressive and efficient farmer, whether he is on new land or presently productive lands, will be able to continue farming as a livelihood.

Reynolds told the board if Idaho does not meet its projected agricultural output, other states will and if the United States does not meet food needs, the government will turn to imports or the average consumer will have to change his food habits.

"Were Idaho to stop bringing new acreages into production, our share of the market for various crops would decrease," Reynolds said.

Damaged jetliner sets down safely

DETROIT (UPI)—An American Airlines pilot safely landed his crippled jetliner carrying 87 persons at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport Monday night, just moments after a "decompression explosion" ruined his landing gear and steering mechanisms and left him without radio contact.

Ten persons, two of them stewardesses, were taken to nearby Wayne County General Hospital. They suffered minor injuries during an emergency evacuation of the plane after it landed.

The explosion occurred just 10 minutes after the plane had taken off from the same airport and was gaining altitude over Ontario.

It was first reported that a bomb exploded in a rear baggage compartment of the huge DC10, but airline officials this morning said a cargo door opened at 12,000 feet, causing the decompression explosion.

"Because the airplane was pressurized, decompression with a loud sound occurred," an airline spokesman said.

The spokesman also said airline personnel had inspected the cargo compartment doors on the entire DC10 fleet and all were found functioning properly. Signal lights aboard the crippled DC10 had indicated the cargo compartment door was closed and latched normally at takeoff, the spokesman said.

The pilot, Bryce E. McCormick, a 28-year veteran with American Airlines, gained control of the aircraft, brought it around and turned back to Detroit.

The plane, with the door blown out and a main engine shut down, waddled back and forth, on and off the long runway for half an hour, one mile before it came to a rest with its right wing dipped into the grass by the side of the strip.

A normal landing, airport officials said, takes one-third the distance.

The explosive force of the decompression would have been greater at higher altitudes, but it ripped off the four-by-six-foot left rear cargo door. A coffin in the rear baggage compartment fell through the hole and then 12,000 feet to the ground.

It was found this morning in a field near an old road four miles east of the Windsor city limits. Airline officials in New York definitely ruled out the possibility the coffin might have shifted and broke through the skin of the plane.

The plane was American's flight 66, en route from Los Angeles to New York's La Guardia Airport with a brief stop at Detroit and another scheduled at Buffalo, N.Y.

Allen Alken, zone sales manager for the airline in Detroit, said there were no mechanical devices in the baggage compartment that could have caused the explosion.

Authorities praised McCormick's skill in returning the damaged airliner to the airport.

"God must have been flying as his copilot," a sheriff's deputy said. "How the hell he brought it in, I don't know," said Deputy Robert Ruelle. Ruelle said the pilot brought the plane down "with no brakes, no rudder, no ground steering and no radio contact at the end."

Red troops open fire, kill An Loc refugees

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist troops opened fire today on a fleeing column of 1,000 refugees fleeing the provincial capital of An Loc and killed 12 civilians and wounded 30, field reports said.

Newsman who reached the scene shortly after the attack said the Communists fired a barrage of mortars onto Highway 13 while the refugees were trying to flee from An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon.

A government relief force broke through to An Loc Monday, and refugees who had been living there during the siege began streaming southward. They had escaped death by living in underground shelters while thousands of rounds of shells crashed overhead.

The reports said the refugees "mainly old men, women and children" ran down the highway as the mortars screamed into them and the chunks of shrapnel flew through the air.

One old woman, shrapnel cuts across her body, died in the arms of her young granddaughter, the reports said. They said a young boy, hit by shrapnel in his head, was cradled in the arms of his parents while a South Vietnamese medic tried to stop the bleeding.

One refugee trying to patch up the bleeding leg of his young son said the thousand refugees left An Loc early in the morning after local government officials said Highway 13 appeared safe.

He said Communist troops stopped the refugees about halfway between An Loc and Chon Thanh, 75 miles to the south. He said South Vietnamese jets began flying overhead as the fleeing refugees were stopped along the highway.

He said the Communists were apparently frightened by the planes and opened fire on the refugees, shooting some in the back as they ran.

US, Russia blamed for pollution

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—China has told the United Nations environment conference the key document of the conference should include a paragraph blaming the United States and the Soviet Union for the destruction of the environment, conference sources said today.

The Chinese delegation made the suggestion in the special working group, set up at China's request to re-examine the declaration on the human environment, the sources said.

They said the United States and other Western delegations would not accept the Chinese proposal, which was one of 10 amendments the Chinese asked for.

The working group, meeting behind closed doors, was in session until early today and scheduled new meetings during the day.

The Chinese delegate said the declaration should include language putting the blame for the pollution of the environment on "the imperialist, colonialist and neocolonialist policies of the superpowers," the sources said.

In other developments a conference committee early today reached agreement on the size and financing of a new environmental body in the United Nations.

White Flags?

President Nixon, having achieved a basic agreement with Russia to renounce nuclear war and to begin limitation of strategic arms, now must win the consent of the U.S. Senate and its Democratic majority to the arms treaty. Reluctant approval is expected after prolonged debate.

Senator George McGovern's position that defense spending can be cut safely by $30 billion dollars finds disagreement on both sides, including his rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Senator Hubert Humphrey.

Another would-be rival, Senator Henry Jackson, assailed the agreement in Moscow as giving too much edge to the Russians. Senator Fulbright, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, disagreed, observing that each side has more than sufficient deterrent power. Fulbright noted that we have 1,054 Minutemen and Russia about 1,600, but asked what difference does it make when both sides have more than enough to destroy the other.

If Congress should approve a $30 billion dollar cut in defense spending, Defense Secretary Melvin Laird told a Senate Subcommittee, it should provide $1 billion dollars for four "white flags" because it would mean surrender.

Laird warned that unless Congress approves funds for new and improved weapons systems it would jeopardize agreements for further arms limitation which he said must be negotiated from a position of strength.

Clearly, Congress is reluctant to grant any boost to the military and would like to save something there for more popular domestic purposes.

But the Brookings Institute reports that decisions already voted by Congress will mean a $4.5 billion annual increase in costs for defense manpower, which is taking more than half of the defense budget.

Fulbright says that if we go ahead with Trident, a new and bigger nuclear submarine to replace the older Polaris, "We will not save any money at all."

It's nice to have Congress worrying about saving money, but we think it's risking the nation's future to ax defense. There are any number of less vital areas that could and should be chopped.

Connally

President Nixon, admired the way Treasury Secretary John Connally handled the tough negotiations on devaluation of the dollar and the trade deficit so much that he picked him for a round-the-world diplomatic mission to 15 nations in South America, the Far East, South Asia and Europe.

Special interests in our relations with our South American neighbors was shown by placing six countries, Venezuela, Colombia, Brazil, Argentina, Bolivia and Peru, at the top of the list.

Connally's chief concern, as it is Nixon's, will be current economic issues. He also will be in a position, as the President's special representative, to discuss any topic of concern to the heads of the states he visits.

Senator Hubert Humphrey's suggestion that Connally be sent to Hanoi to seek agreement for release of American Prisoners of War was treated by Press Secretary Ron Ziegler as merely a statement "made in a political debate in California." However, Ziegler said Connally will be prepared for such negotiations "if the occasion should arise."

Washington observers believe Nixon is grooming Connally for further important tasks and some are infatuated with the idea of Connally replacing Spiro Agnew as the President's running mate. Nixon could take that action and Connally would hardly refuse if asked. Still, it must be considered improbable.

MR. SPECTATOR

Why The Excitement?

We just can't understand why all the excitement because Vern Rayenscroft changed from a Democrat to a Republican.

Mr. Spectator had the same experience — although more so. Back when we were a student and that was a long time ago — we joined the Young Republican Club and our first vote was for Herbert Hoover. Well, Herbert was defeated and we were disturbed, so we joined the Young Democratic Club and our next vote was for Franklin Roosevelt. He won — so we felt better.

Then we worked a year, after college and before coming to Twin Falls, for Governor Ben Ross. He was a Democrat so we stayed in. Then we came to Twin Falls and went to work for the Twin Falls News. Well, Roy Reed, the owner, was a Republican, so we switched once more. The change was probably made emphatic for all time when we married. The gal we married — and her family — were Republicans so back we went once more to the Republican side.

Now that we are older and know more about these things we realize that being one or the other doesn't really make much difference. We are all in the same boat!

So why all the excitement over Vern?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Nixon's visit was crucial to Leonid Brezhnev's drive for absolute power within the Soviet Union. Information trickling here from Moscow indicates President

"See What the Boys in the Back Seat Will Have!"

BRUCE BISSAT

His Rivals Fade

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — Sen. George McGovern's triple sweep over Sen. Hubert Humphrey in the California New Jersey and New Mexico primaries gives him so much presidential nomination strength that it now seems unlikely anyone can stop him. His delegate bag for the day could run as high as 370, including the 17 he won as an unopposed contender in his own state of South Dakota. He gets 271 on a winner-take-all basis in California, probably upwards of 70 out of 109 in New Jersey, nine or 10 in New Mexico.

McGovern's adversaries, not least Humphrey himself, are quick to note that the South Dakota's winning California percentage may prove to be less than half that which was suggested for him in a recent slate poll. But presidential nominations are gained by amassing delegates, not by totaling up percentages.

Humphrey's fairly close showing in California may encourage him and his followers, plus others in the Democratic party who appear to have strong doubts about McGovern's electability in the fall against President Nixon.

The hard reality of the delegate count is working for McGovern. NEA's periodic checks of the entire country have shown the senator to be on a sharply rising curve. These latest results only arch it higher toward 1,500 delegates needed for nomination at Miami Beach in July.

On top of that, NEA's newest survey provides preliminary indications of widespread, though little noticed, delegate gains for McGovern that may bring him unstoppable momentum.

More decisive still, the evidence suggests that Humphrey is losing some of the delegate potential indicated for him earlier and may, this time out, with fewer delegates in prospect than when the last check was made some three weeks ago.

Judgement

BY MARY W. COE
(Third In Series of Four)
"A doctor actually is a rugged individualist with nothing to sell but his own good judgement. He is called upon to make important decisions, affecting human life. Because of concentrated and specialized training and subjection to a discipline entirely of its own, doctors do not lend themselves well to group action. Their reluctance to conform is part of the thinking of the medical profession."

These words of Dr. Anthony J. J. Bourke, hospital consultant from New Rochelle, New York, devoted to the board of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital in 1955 would be as characteristic of the newer doctors as it was of the medical profession then.

When asked why they had moved from larger cities, where the technology is better and the potential for lucrative practice greater, doctors' answers reflected this individualism.

"Medicine is not a commodity, and I won't be just another 'vendor' in that kind of system. It is a personal thing that requires personal interest and skill and individual decisions."

"I'm here because Twin Falls and this hospital offer tremendous medical potential. If the people decide they want 'our' hospital to be a good one, it could be a really outstanding medical facility."

"I like the style of life here. It seemed preferable even though I'm still over $25,000 in debt from medical school. But, if I can just keep from falling behind, from stagnating, because of the isolation from big medical centers..."

"Big city medicine is too bureaucratic, there's too much hassle..."

One physician newcomer observed that doctors in this town are so independent they can't agree on anything. This accounts, he said, for practically no group or partnership medical practices here.

It was found that they do agree on one thing, however: the hospital.

Physicians interviewed were unanimous in crediting the administrator, Mrs. Irene Oliver, with a dedication and resourcefulness that has been the mainstay of the quality of service provided patients for over 20 years.

They were equally universal in their belief that the time has come for the hospital to start moving ahead or it will begin slipping backward. There is no way, they feel, that it can any longer "stand still."

Because of major technological advances, as well as the changing nature of who patients are and what their medical needs consist of, the hospital as a service-rendering facility is quite a different place from what it was in 1950 when this one was on the drawing boards, they say.

Space requirements reflect not only 20 years of community growth but different patterns of health care delivery.

The physicians speak of new procedures that may make it possible to do minor surgery on an outpatient basis, thus cutting down on the cost to the patient and relieving some of the pressure on hospital surgical facilities and beds.

"They talk about increased sophistication of the public in relation to health and, for the family doctor, the swing in emphasis from curative to preventive procedures."

They describe the different needs of patients with chronic illnesses now that people are living longer and old-time infectious diseases are not the threat they once were.

Isotope scanning and cobalt therapy, radio-immuno-assay, Anger camera devices and deep well counters — the nomenclature of nuclear medicine as applied to early detection and treatment of cancer and other dangerous diseases — frequently are mentioned by physicians as needs and hopes. They speak of "little black boxes" for monitoring functions of patients under various medical procedures and new equipment for better methods of studying the workings of blood vessels.

But they do more than just talk.

Just under four years ago, physicians on the staff of the hospital agreed to a voluntary contribution of $100 per doctor per year to buy small pieces of equipment not available through the hospital budget.

A committee handles the funds, collects ideas, investigates costs and presents the information at a meeting of the full medical staff who vote on a purchase.

First purchase was a $6,500 emergency call system, consisting of pocket-sized radio receivers for the physician and the laboratory and x-ray technicians who are "on call" for emergency room service, and a 25-mile range transmitter on the roof of the hospital. Eventually this equipment will be incorporated into a federally sponsored disaster system linking all hospitals in the area.

Funds are being accumulated for a second purchase, not yet definitely decided upon.

In looking at the needs of the hospital, the physicians, generally, tend to be critical of the hospital board for its past conservatism.

The intensive care unit is a case in point. Every doctor interviewed mentioned the need for this critical care area which, for want of nursing staff, has been closed for the last nine months.

This was apparently one major reason that Brezhnev did not let anything — the mining of Haiphong harbor or pressures within the Communist world — prevent the Nixon meetings from taking place.

The Nixon summit session and its preliminaries have already enabled Brezhnev to goad P. Ye. Shelest, one of his four principal rivals, into an opposition so strong and so unacceptable by Politburo standards that Brezhnev was able to oust him as first Secretary of the Ukrainian Communist party, one of the most powerful posts in the U.S.S.R., and to put in his own man, V. V. Shcherbitsky. Thus Shelest's power base is gone, weakening seriously the anti-Brezhnev group.

The denouement of Shelest was also three in Brezhnev's four-stage program for pulling the fangs of the four men most likely to block his move toward one-man rule or to attempt a takeover on their own.

Brezhnev already had been successful in removing G. I. Voronov as head of the Russian Republic and Aleksander Shelepin as a Communist party secretary, leaving only Nikolai Podgorny, president of the U.S.S.R., with "dangerous strength." While these rivals remain as members of the Politburo, Voronov, Shelepin and now Shelest have each lost his primary source of strength.

At last report, Shelepin had been moved from seventh to 11th place in the 15-man Politburo, Voronov down from fifth to 10th place.

Podgorny held firmly to the number two spot, up actually from a few years back.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Specialist

Dear Dr. Thosteson, In having an eye operation for a cornea transplant, should I go to an ophthalmologist or would an M.D. doctor whose practice is limited to the eye be qualified to operate? — WWC

There's enough confusion about specialists, so I think this ought to be explained.

Quite a few people (including WWC) have the impression that a specialist is something other than "an M.D. doctor."

Well, that isn't the case. A specialist first has to complete his regular medical training, medical school and internship. Only then is he ready to become a specialist. This he does by spending a varying number of years as a "resident," getting additional training in his particular specialty.

A prospective surgeon, for example, will spend several years in one or more hospitals, working under the supervision of older surgeons who teach him some of the finer points of surgery, watch him do operations, and in general teach him a lot more.

Ultimately, he has to pass a searching examination by a specialty board. If he passes, he then becomes "board certified," or, in common language, a "certified" specialist.

The same process is true for other specialties besides surgery — neurology, psychiatry, internal medicine, pediatrics, pediatric surgery, urology, proctology, gastroenterology, dermatology, ophthalmology (eyes), ear-nose-throat, orthopedics and so on.

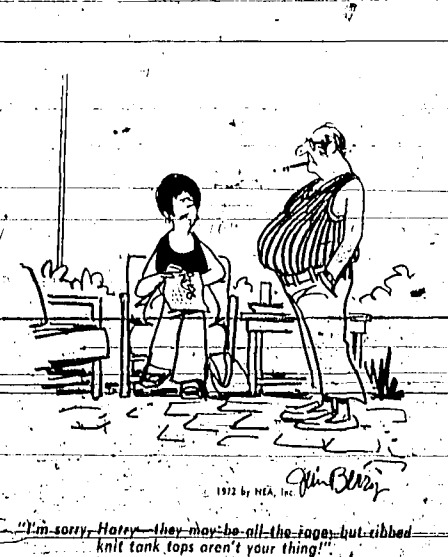

But it's always the same process, learning more specialized skills after first having completed basic medical training.

This is not to denigrate the "M.D. doctor," or general practitioner, who has not specialized. Indeed, we would be in a sorry fix without the general physician.

We need them for their perspective, their ability to evaluate the whole patient and his problems. We need the doctor who day in and day out must focus his attention, not on a single field of healing, but on the whole person.

He must sort out the trivial problems from the critical ones that require the utmost skill in treatment, and refer patients to the proper specialists. Perhaps this one needs, first of all, a radiologist, the next one a gynecologist, another wants a plastic surgeon, and the next a psychiatrist. A broad view and a sense of balance are the invaluable requisites of "an M.D. doctor."

TF hires 2 therapists

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school trustees Monday voted to add two additional speech therapists to the district staff.

District funds would come from eliminating a senior English teaching position.

The board made the decision after hearing a presentation from district therapist Jay Lloyd.

Lloyd said at least four per cent of the district's 6,300 students have either a hearing or speech problem. His current case load involves more than 100 students.

He said the state department of education recommends one speech therapist for each 2,500 students. Also, a provision of the state educational finance system reimburses districts 80 per cent of the salaries of such instructors.

Supt. George Staudaher said the district cost for the two therapists would be about $3,000. Staudaher said the money would be available to the district now that there is no senior English teacher requirement.

The Idaho Department of Education's new decision to allow students to graduate early makes senior English an elective, thus, making the instructor position optional.

Staudaher said not renewing the position would save the district $4,050 in instructional costs, that money going to defray the expense of hiring the two therapists. Staudaher was authorized by the board to fill the therapist positions.

Tuesday meetings for 4-11

TWIN FALLS — The regular meeting date for Twin Falls School Board meetings was changed Monday night.

Instead of meeting on the second Monday of the month, the board chose to begin meeting on the second Tuesday of the month.

Additional meetings will be held on the fourth Tuesday of the month on an optional basis.

Members cited Monday night as a particularly busy night for meetings.

The much-deferred issue of Happy Day School was again delayed while the board studies recommendations from outside authorities and citizen committees.

The replacement of the school will remain a key priority on the district's proposal for educational upgrading. Ending the recommendation of a citizen committee, the replacement of Happy Day School would be an item on a bond issue proposal.

Two items involving teachers were also delayed until teacher-administration talks resume in the fall. One issue involves district participation in Blue Cross health insurance, the other concerns personal leave privilege of teachers.

4 sworn in

TWIN FALLS — Four Twin Falls school trustees were given their oaths of office Monday night.

Mrs. Ruth Day, Dr. Howard Ronk, Dr. Richard Sayers and John Wolfe had been re-elected last month following redistricting.

Re-elected trustee Tom Kiely was out of town and will be sworn into office at a later date.

The board was reorganized, with its officers unchanged.

Wolfe again was elected chairman, Dr. Ronk vice chairman, and J. T. Anderson rehired as board secretary and clerk.

UP drops Hansen station

HANSEN (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has granted a Union Pacific Railroad application to discontinue its dualized agency serving Murtaugh and Hansen.

The IPUC ordered the railroad to maintain toll-free telephone service between Murtaugh and Hansen and the agency at Twin Falls.

In 1967, the Murtaugh and Hansen agencies were combined, but the railroad contended in its new application the work done by the agency at the dualized agencies could be handled more efficiently by personnel at the Twin Falls depot. It is open 24 hours each day of the week.

The IPUC said Union Pacific has attempted to continue the dualized agencies, but said business has continued to decline to a point of being insufficient to justify the continued services of an agent.

The commission said no protests opposing the closing were received.

This past week, the commission approved a UP request to close the agency serving Eden and Hazelton, and earlier this year the road reduced train service on the Wood River Camas Prairie branches to one train weekly.

In addition, the station serving Ketchum, Sun Valley and Hailey was also closed earlier this year.

CALDWELL (UPI) — Clare Conley, recently editor of Field and Stream Magazine, has been appointed editor of True Magazine in New York.

Conley spent 11 years with Field and Stream. He is a 1951 graduate of the College of Idaho and a former employee of the Idaho Statesman in Boise and the Idaho Free Press in Nampa.

Rights charge denied

BOISE (UPI) — Federal Judge Fred M. Taylor denied a motion Monday by three Ada County Jail inmates who sought a temporary injunction against Sheriff Paul Bright.

Judge Taylor held Dennis Lee Laundon, 26, Jeffrey Folsom, 24, both of Portland, and Maurice Richard Ruddell, 22, Hermiston, Ore., failed to show Bright had infringed on their rights.

The three sought the temporary injunction to prevent such practices as cutting of hair, censoring of mail and confinement in segregation cells. Judge Taylor emphasized, however, his ruling is only on the preliminary aspect as to whether an injunction should be ordered while trial of the larger issues raised by the suit is pending.

One witness during the 4½-hour hearing, James R. Akin, told the court the jail "is better than most of 'em I've been in." Akin said he had spent time in 16 other jails and three penitentiaries and said his treatment in the Ada County Jail, where he has spent six months of a one-year term, is "excellent."

Bright testified restrictions on mail, length of hair and detention in solitary are all necessary for over-all jail security, safety of prisoners and limitations of time and personnel.

GOP chief commends party shift

BOISE (UPI) — The Republican state chairman has praised former Democratic State Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft of Tuttle for his work in the legislature and said she was pleased he was switching to the Republican party.

Chairman Mrs. Majorie Miner said Monday. "Representative Ravenscroft's excellent stature in the state legislature is unparalleled. He has earned the respect of his fellow legislators and thousands of Idahoans. We support and welcome his candidacy on the Republican ticket."

Ravenscroft recently announced he would seek re-election on the Republican ticket.

TF women rescued after boat flips

THOUSAND SPRINGS — A pair of Twin Falls women escaped injury in a boating mishap near Thousand Springs Resort Sunday afternoon.

Terry Fisher, 24, and Terry Daniels, 28, were rescued by boaters after the boat they were riding capsized. Three boats converged on the women and plucked them from the strong currents of the Snake River "in a matter of seconds."

Recalling the spill, Miss Fisher said they were sitting on the dock when an unidentified boater asked them if they would like a ride. They were returning to the dock, behind another boat, when their craft caught in a wake and turned over.

"Both boats were going at good speed," said Miss Fisher, "and then we caught in the wake of the boat ahead of us. The driver lost control and we were over. It happened so fast there was nothing we could do."

Neither woman could identify the driver of the boat except by the first name, "Bob."

Miss Fisher said she could not swim and could have been in serious trouble if other boaters had not responded so quickly.

Neither woman wore a life jacket.

Currents were so swift, salvage workers labored for two hours to retrieve the capsized craft.

US planes bomb N. Viet

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. B52s taking advantage of new electronic developments that protect them against missiles, bombed targets in North Vietnam today for the sixth consecutive day. Fighter-bombers hit bridges 25 miles from Hanoi despite Peking warnings the raids threatened China's security.

The Pentagon said the B52s confined mostly to South Vietnam in the past because of the missile threats, were now bombing the North on an almost daily basis. The United States has increased the number of B52s in Southeast Asia fourfold since the start of the Communist offensive on March 10.

Pentagon sources said the B52s are being accompanied with special planes equipped with electronic countermeasure gear capable of jamming the radar guidance system of the Soviet-made Surface-to-Air missiles (SAMs). The B52s on rare occasions have struck near the Hanoi-Haiphong area but most of the current raids are still just north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and directed against Communist supplies.

U.S. military spokesmen reported jets from the aircraft carrier Midway blew up a huge oil storage complex near the port of Vinh, filling the sky with black smoke and flashes of orange flames. Air Force F4 Phantom II fighters directed against Communist supplies.

The U.S. command said the F-4s knocked out two railroad

GEN. JOHN D. LAVELLE, right, acknowledged Monday that he ordered the bombing last winter of military targets in North Vietnam, probably beyond rules laid down by the Pentagon, but he testified his action was justifiable. He was lead-off witness at a House Armed Services subcommittee probe of the affair. At left is Gen. John D. Ryan, U. S. Air Force chief of staff. (UPI)

Justifies action

Demoted aide testifies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An Air Force general abruptly removed from his command in Vietnam, demoted and retired, testified Monday that Gen. C. Wright Abrams knew he ordered raids on North Vietnam which at least technically violated long-standing U.S. policy.

"I believe General Abrams knew what I was doing," said former four-star Gen. John D. Lavelle.

But Lavelle told congressional investigators Monday he was "positive" that Abrams, the commander of all U.S. forces in the war zone, did not know that the strikes were being inaccurately reported to the public.

Lavelle, 55, a native of Cleveland, commanded the U.S. 7th Air Force in Southeast Asia from his Saigon headquarters. In March he was ordered home and retired with the recommended rank of lieutenant general, one grade below his active duty rank.

The Air Force chief of staff, Gen. John D. Ryan, told the House Armed Services investigating subcommittee that he sent an inspector general to Vietnam after he heard allegations that unauthorized air strikes had been conducted in North Vietnam.

Ryan said the inspector confirmed on March 23 that 17 aircraft had conducted unauthorized raids during 28 missions and over a three-month period.

General Lavelle admitted to him that he had executed a small number of such strikes to attack military targets, reported as protective reaction.

Ryan testified that he "chose to make a very liberal interpretation" of bombing rules starting in January this year. The rules at the time limited U.S. bombardment to "protective" raids against such targets as anti-aircraft weapons that fired at U.S. reconnaissance planes.

Lavelle argued the strikes were necessary to counter a Communist air defense buildup and stepped up infiltration of North Vietnamese troops southward across the DMZ.

The period preceded the start of the North Vietnamese offensive into South Vietnam.

Lavelle said that if he had it to do over again, "I would do the same thing."

The general was asked by Rep. John E. Hunt, R-S-C, if the strikes were successful.

Very, Lavelle replied.

Despondent wife flies to America

LONDON (UPI)—An American Jewish girl whose husband was arrested Monday after she left Moscow flew to the United States today utterly despondent and hopeful President Nixon will help her.

"I'm utterly despondent and despondent," said Mrs. Judy Silver Shapiro, 26, of Cincinnati. "When I get home I hope President Nixon will come to my aid."

Members of the "Students for a Democratic Society" organization saw her at the airport, waving placards reading "Free Soviet Jews" and "Fascist Russia."

Mrs. Shapiro, who flew to London from Moscow Monday night, arrived at London's Heathrow Airport today after an all-night vigil outside the Soviet Embassy.

During the vigil she met a Jewish immigrant from Russia who has been staging a hunger strike near the embassy to protest Moscow's refusal to let her Soviet husband emigrate.

Space switchboard launching slated

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The space agency prepared to launch the fourth in a series of high-capacity, least 4 commercial communications satellites today to serve as a space switchboard for Indian Ocean nations.

The $145 million satellite is owned by the Intelsat Corp. and its 42 partner nations which make up the International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium. The government will be reimbursed $16 million for launch operations.

When it enters service late next month, the new satellite will have the world's global network of the powerful Intelsat. Two now are over the Atlantic and one is relaying telephone and telegraph communications to the lands of the Pacific.

The scheduled launch will be to propel the satellite into a preliminary orbit ranging from 150 to 22,000 miles high. A small rocket motor in the satellite will be fired Wednesday night to achieve a circular 22,000 mile high orbit.

The Intelsat 4, shaped like a fruit 17 feet tall, will be able to relay an average of 6,000 telephone conversations or it can handle up to 12 simultaneous telecasts. Indian Ocean communications now are being relayed by a 7,000-mile Intelsat.

IRA steps up bombing as peace effort grows

BELFAST (UPI)—The Irish Republican Army (IRA) stepped up its bomb campaign today amid growing signs that a Roman Catholic women's peace effort has started to spread to Protestant neighborhoods.

By the British Parliament, William Whitelaw, secretary of state for Ulster, reacted to the escalating violence by pledging a tougher stand against both Protestant and Catholic gunmen.

The first step in this direction, he said Monday, would be the immediate dispatch of another 550-man battalion of British soldiers to Northern Ireland, boosting troop strength there to more than 15,000.

A British army spokesman said that suspected members of the Provisional IRA set off seven major bombs across the province within the past 24 hours, injuring 13 civilians. He also reported a riot in the rural town of Strabane and at least two shooting incidents.

A soldier wounded in Sunday's fighting died at a hospital, raising the toll from seven days of increased violence to 12. He was the 77th soldier and 376th person killed in three years of Ulster strife.

The continuing violence coincided with indications that residents in Belfast's Protestant communities were distressed by the bloodshed.

The Ulster Women's Unionist Council drew up a peace petition for circulation in Protestant neighborhoods, and the politically powerful Grand Orange Lodge of Belfast called on all Protestants to beware of "baiting" and preaching violence.

Make sure your leaders are men of principle and not just servants of a political party," the lodge, a highly respected Protestant organization, said. "Beware of politicians who incite you to take up arms."

The militant Protestant Vanguard Movement issued a similar statement, saying that the Protestant vigilantes who set up barricades over the weekend had been motivated by undesirable elements.

"Vanguard does not condone the destruction of property or intimidation," the statement said.

The petition drawn up by the Protestant women's group was similar to one circulated over the past three weeks by a group of Catholic housewives with the help of their parish priests.

The Catholic campaign prompted the official wing of the IRA to call a cease-fire, but the IRA provisionals refused to agree.

Auto collection goes for junk

McLEAN, Va. (UPI)—To Robert C. Reynolds, his 28 Studebakers, aged 8 to 45 years, represent a "priceless collection." To his neighbors and his wife, they represented a junk yard exercise.

Said while Reynolds said at work Monday, his wife arranged to have nine trucks back up to a lot next to the Reynolds' $100,000 home in this wealthy Washington suburb and haul away 16 of the mostly rusting and inoperable cars.

Mrs. Reynolds, stepdaughter of the founder and owner of Dell Publishing Co., George DeLoe, acknowledged she had some heated arguments

49 bodies recovered

JOHANNESBURG (UPI)—South Africa (UPI)—Police said today 49 bodies have been recovered of the 60 persons killed Sunday when a bus carrying two rugby teams and their families crashed through the guard rail of a bridge and plunged into the Riversonderend River.

The accident occurred 50 miles south of Johannesburg on a bridge from which another bus fell into the same gorge a year ago, killing 11 persons.

Police and volunteer divers used tractors and road maintenance machinery to haul the bus out of 20 feet of water.

Violent video

TOKYO (UPI)—Shukan Asahi, one of Japan's largest weekly magazines, reports that a group of Tokyo housewives watched six television networks for four hours on one Saturday evening.

During the four hours, about 140 gangsters, samurai warriors, American Indians, cowboys and other people were killed on the screen. Some killings came so quickly that an accurate count was difficult, the magazine said.

Court extends search power

WASHINGTON (UPI)—By a 6-3 liberal-conservative split, the Supreme Court extended Monday the power of police to "stop and frisk" suspects on the street for dangerous weapons.

"We reject the argument that reasonable cause for a stop and frisk can only be based on the officer's personal observation; rather than on information supplied by another person," the Court held.

"Informants' tips, like all other clues and evidence coming to a policeman on the scene, may vary greatly in their value and reliability. One simple rule will not cover every situation."

The opinion in a Connecticut case was written by Justice William H. Rehnquist, who is emerging as the most law and order member of the Court.

Justice Thurgood Marshall said in a dissent that the decision "invokes the spectre of a society in which innocent citizens may be stopped, searched and arrested at the whim of police officers who have only the slightest suspicion of improper conduct."

Also dissenting were Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and William O. Douglas.

The case is a sequel to an important 1968 ruling that policemen under proper circumstances may stop and frisk a person suspected of criminal activity even though they do not have enough prior evidence to make an arrest.

The appeal was brought to the Court by Connecticut authorities after the 2nd U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York overturned the conviction of Robert Williams of Bridgeport, Conn., on a charge of illegal possession of a handgun and of heroin found in his car.

The circuit court said the "stop and frisk" procedure was for use in "serious cases of imminent danger or of harm recently perpetrated to persons or property, not the conventional one-of-possession offenses."

But Rehnquist said, "while properly investigating the activity of a person who was reported to be carrying narcotics and a concealed weapon and who was sitting alone in a car in a high crime area at 2:15 in the morning, the policeman had ample reason to fear for his safety."

In other major actions, the Court:

- Refused to prevent states from issuing liquor licenses to private clubs which practice racial discrimination against guests. The decision went against K. Leroy Davis, a black who is majority leader of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, who was denied bar and dining room service at a Moose lodge in Harrisburg.

— Declared in a Texas case that if a major street on a military base is open to public use, a base commandant cannot bar a person from distributing leaflets on that street.

— Placed on the docket for next term a New York case which will decide whether aliens must be treated the same way as U. S. citizens as far as state civil service rights are concerned.

5 jailed in plot

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Five persons, including a juvenile, have been arrested on extortion and grand theft charges for allegedly drugging the 45-year-old son of actor John Carradine and holding him prisoner for three days in Hollywood-area hotels.

Sheriff's deputies said Richard Carradine told them he met two men at a Hollywood bar late Thursday and, after several drinks, allowed them to drive him home because they persuaded him he was too drunk to drive.

Instead, Carradine said, they took him to a hotel, where they used one of his credit cards to rent a room, and drugged him. The next day, he said they drove him to his bank where he withdrew $500.

Then, he said, they moved him to another hotel where they continued to ply him with drugs.

Looters hit flooded city

RAPID CITY, S.D. (UPI)—National Guardsmen and other law enforcement agencies patrolled the flood-stricken Rapid City area today, enforcing a curfew and guarding devastated homes and businesses against increased looting.

The official death toll today in this Black Hills tourist resort city was listed at 202 persons, 160 identified and 42 unidentified. However, the toll was expected to climb as searches continued in the ruins.

A dog team was used again during the night in the effort to uncover victims of the Friday and Saturday flash flood.

Still in doubt was the fate of hundreds of tourists who were believed to have been camping in the Black Hills near Mt. Rushmore national monument.

The search for victims spread to ranchlands 60 miles away Monday. Ground crews also searched Custer State Park and National Guard helicopters cruised the mountain canyon country for marooned tourists.

Authorities made their first official assessment of property damage Monday, estimating overall damage was still about $100 million but saying personal property damage in Rapid City alone was $31 million and damage to county roads and bridges was $8 million. Another estimate was expected today.

Law enforcement officials from throughout the state met Monday to discuss means of combatting looting and a 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew was imposed for the entire city. A Civil Defense pass was needed to move anywhere after 9 p.m.

The guard said tightened security around flooded areas was becoming a "bigger problem" for foot and motor patrols by night. A guard spokesman declined to specify that the "problem" was looting, but some law enforcement officials said looting had increased.

The first burials of victims were to take place today. Eight bodies at the Jefferson Funeral Home were to be buried in Mt. View and Plain Lawn cemeteries.

Water was turned on in part of Rapid City Monday, but most of the town was still without water and Civil Defense officials warned that water still was not safe for drinking.

Rate cut

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada's major banks made plans today to cut their interest rates on short-term deposits from 6½ to 5½ per cent in a bid to control the flow of American capital into the nation. Finance Minister John Turner said Monday he had approved in principle a request for the reduction made last week at a meeting of the Canadian Bankers Association in Winnipeg, Man.

The Canadian dollar now stands just above $1.02 (U.S.) as compared to 92 cents (U.S.) in January. The rapid rise in value was the largest since the early 1960s.

Tour starts in Sweden

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Indian Prime Minister Mrs. Indira Gandhi arrived in Sweden today to start a 10-day tour of three European countries and address the U.N. Environment Conference in Stockholm.

Swedish Premier Olof Palme and Mrs. Alva Myrdal, Swedish minister of disarmament, greeted Mrs. Gandhi at the airport as she flew in aboard an Air India jetliner to begin her four-day official visit to Sweden.

Senate gets arms treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon sends to the Senate today for ratification the Moscow treaty to limit U.S. and Soviet defensive and offensive nuclear arsenals.

Nixon's foreign affairs adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, has predicted the Senate will ratify the treaty in August, despite questions raised—for different reasons—by both some conservative and liberal senators.

Nixon met with Senate and House Republican leaders in the Cabinet room in a preview of strategy to steer the nuclear arms limitation pact through the Senate. They also discussed domestic programs he still is seeking.

Hijacker profits

'illusion'

DENVER (UPI)—The "silver lining is an optical illusion," the government's top hijacking security officer said Monday of airplane hijackers.

Benjamin O. Davis, assistant secretary of Transportation for safety and consumer affairs told members of the American Trucking Association the government is tougher and going to get worse in dealing with hijackers.

"Hijacking for passage or profit is no longer the sure and easy 'trick at once seemed to be," Davis said, primarily because of the "combined efforts of the airlines, the airport operators and the government."

Davis, the nation's first black general, said more than 1,000 weapon detection devices are being made available for use at airports and airline operators are required to keep all unauthorized persons out of operational areas.

Said Davis, "Members of the Air Line Pilots' Association have agreed to fight back—to resist hijacking attempts to the extent possible, short of risking innocent lives."

The retired Air Force general had recently chastized the airlines and their pilots, saying the hijackers were getting better treatment than first-class passengers. Davis urged them to adopt a get-tough policy.

The government is confident that "we have thwarted some hijacking and extortion attempts."

There were 626 battles, engagements and skirmishes in Mississippi during the Civil War.

Suspected bomber brings plane down

ROME (UPI)—A BOAC flight from Cairo to London made an emergency landing here today when Egyptian authorities warned the captain there might be a woman aboard with a bomb strapped to her waist.

Italian police hustled a pretty young Egyptian off the VC10 when it landed but said Karima Mustafa Amin, 24, was not carrying a bomb on her person nor was there any suspect material in her flight bag.

All passengers were ordered off the plane and police began a search of baggage.

The flight commander, Capt. Rampling, told authorities at Leonardo da Vinci Airport he was 20 minutes out of Cairo on a nonstop flight to London when he received a radio message from police at the Cairo Airport.

He said they told him they had received an anonymous phone call saying a woman in seat 18 in the tourist section was wearing a belt full of explosives around her waist.

Ambulances and fire trucks were waiting on the runway when the VC10 set down. Police surrounded the plane and a munitions expert rushed aboard. Then Miss Amin was taken off.

Frontier police said the girl told them she was a former ground hostess at Kuwait for Middle East Airlines (MEA).

They said her passport appeared to be in order.

HUD chief denounces housing law

WASHINGTON (UPI)—HUD Secretary George W. Romney denounced today as "harsh" a proposed section of a new housing law that would allow public housing authorities to evict tenants without notice if they fell more than 60 days behind in rent.

In testimony before the House Banking Committee, Romney said:

"This provision appears to legislate a harsh procedure, possibly inconsistent with state or local law, for removing the belongings of tenants without any safeguards of notice or opportunity to be heard."

Romney aligned himself with tenant and welfare organizations on at least two sections of the proposed 1972 Housing and Urban Development Act which would rewrite laws on housing, mortgage interest rates, closing costs, federally assisted housing and rapid transit.

Demos can back farm statement

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leading contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination will have no trouble supporting a "statement of principles" adopted last week by the National Farm Coalition, farm sources predict.

Many of the specific proposals in the statement, however, run counter to the basic elements of President Nixon's farm policies. As a result, the coalition is likely to find little support for its key plans in the national GOP campaign this fall.

The statement was adopted by representatives for 27 groups gathered under the National Farm Coalition banner.

The groups, including many which have been frequent critics of administration farm actions, included both national organizations such as the National Farmers Union, National Grange and National Farmers Organization, and regional groups ranging from the big midcontinent Farmers Association to the small Webster County (Neb.) Farmers Organization.

The list also included commodity groups including the National Milk Producers Federation, National Wool Growers Association, Soybean Growers of America, National Corn Growers Association, and the National Association of Wheat Growers.

As usual, however, the coalition's list of signers did not include the nation's biggest farm organization, the American Farm Bureau Federation, which has opposed the coalition on most farm policy issues. Also absent were such groups as the American National Cattlemen's Association and the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives.

The policy statement, drafted for presentation to the platform committees of both parties, includes a demand that farm price support levels should be raised to not less than 90 per cent of parity when accompanied by "effective" production control programs. The statement charged the current farm program, which administration officials endorse, "has failed to meet these objectives."

Also, the statement calls for building a government-owned "strategic reserve" of surplus farm commodities and passing a law to ban big non-farm corporations from farming. The administration has opposed legislation on both points this year.

On price supports, administration officials generally contend that support levels should be set at levels geared to promote maximum export sales on the theory this would yield more farm income than a high support level.

A spokesman for the National Farmers Union said today he could not predict whether the Democratic platform committee would embrace the coalition statement. But, he added, major presidential contenders including Sens. George S. McGovern, S.D., Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., and Edmund S. Muskie, Maine, all have "100 per cent voting records" on farm policy bills endorsed by the farmers union.

A GOP source added his party's platform on farm policy "probably will basically reflect the program we have in effect now."

Magic full

SHOSHONE — Magic Reservoir is full and, Leon Grieve, manager of the Big Wood Canal Co., said Monday.

More than 2,400 second feet is flowing out of Magic, but this is gradually dropping.

The inflow increased temporarily during the rains of the past week. Moss and algae seem to be growing well in all laterals and canals, Grieve said.

American Falls was still almost full with over 3,000 second feet being spilled at Miller. Pallasades Reservoir is now half full. Almost all of the Snake River reservoirs are at about the same stage of full as they were a year ago, Grieve said.

Food research bill 'menaced'

WASHINGTON — The proposed Wheat and Wheat Foods Research, Education, and Promotion Act (HR10514) — a bill to enhance the position of the entire United States wheat industry — has been placed in grave danger by a referendum amendment.

It was offered by Rep. Paul Findley and passed this week by the subcommittee on grain and livestock of the House Committee on Agriculture, said Jerry Rees, executive vice president of the National Association of Wheat Growers.

He asked wheat growers to get in touch with their Congressmen and urge passage of the bill by the House Agriculture Committee with repeal of the amendment.

HR 10514, now ready for consideration by the House Committee on Agriculture, proposes a comprehensive self-help program for U. S. wheat growers, processors, and end-product manufacturers which would be financed through an assessment to the end-product manufacturers ranging from one cent to 25 cents per hundredweight of flour. The funds would be administered by a new Wheat Industry Council. The Council would have equal representation from each of the three participating groups, each with veto power over budget, projects and programs.

The immediate problem was posed by Rees said, "is that the Findley amendment, if retained by the full committee, will have the effect of killing the wheat promotion program. The program would not be able to survive the burden of the referendum cost-the amendment would place upon it."

Rees said the amendment proposes that the secretary of Agriculture conduct a referendum among wheat growers, processors and Idaho members of the administrative committee include Jack Alfred, Murfreesboro, Tenn.; Gerald K. Ball, Rexburg, and Brent Stoworthy, Idaho Falls.

Other Idaho potato growers attending the meet were James Klair, Parma; Dwayne Skogberg, Nampa; Clarence A. Parr, Burley; Thomas C. McClain, Buhl; George M. Wheat surplus seen growing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wheat production this year may be big enough to add new stocks to the nation's surplus stockpile for the second consecutive season, an Agriculture Department report indicates.

The department's monthly crop report estimated the 1972 winter wheat crop at 1.192 billion bushels, up 1 per cent from a May estimate and 2 per cent bigger than 1971.

No official estimate of spring wheat production has been made yet. But if that portion of the crop reaches the 374 million bushel level possible on the basis of planting forecasts, the total 1972 wheat harvest could reach over 4,566 billion bushels.

This would be done 79 million bushels from last year's record 1,640 billion bushel crop but, according to department economists, would likely outrun prospective demand unless exports stage a sharp recovery.

The Crop Reporting Board said winter wheat prospects as of June 1 were up from May forecasts because timely rains and favorable temperatures improved per-acre yield prospects. In Kansas, the nation's leading winter wheat state, the crop was estimated at 306 million bushels as of June 1.

While no estimate of spring wheat production will be made until July, the board said seeding of the crop was delayed in major growing areas by wet fields, and some acreage in the Dakotas and Minnesota may be left unplanted.

TF meet reviews new act

TWIN FALLS — David Burgess, manager of the Land Bank Association of Twin Falls, said today that with the passage of the new Farm Credit Act the association is now taking steps to implement the act in this area.

According to Burgess, board president Melvin J. Buhl, called a special meeting of the board of directors of the Twin Falls association, to meet at the Holiday Inn, here today to review the new law and regulations with officers of the Federal Land Bank of Spokane.

Directors of the Gooding, Burley, and Rupert associations also attended the Twin Falls meeting.

The Twin Falls board will consider adoption of a revised set of bylaws as well as resolutions concerning loan policies for the local association. These new bylaws and policies will reflect changes authorized by the new law.

Principal features of the new act provide authorization for the land bank system to increase its credit service to farmers and ranchers and to make non-farm rural residence loans.

Burgess said under this act it is the intent of the land bank system to make sound first mortgage real estate loans which place emphasis on a potential borrower's managerial ability and repayment capacity.

At the year-end, the Twin Falls Land Bank Association had $14.6 million in long-term loans outstanding. This was a 6.69 per cent increase over the previous year-end figure.

Night of terror described by flood victims

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls woman, her daughter and two-year-old grandson arrived in Twin Falls Monday, still not fully certain of some of the events of a terror-ridden night in the flood waters of Rapid City, S.D.

Mrs. Rex Ulrich, her daughter, Mrs. David (Sandy) Rounds, and Bryan Rounds, 2, are among the very few residents of their trailer park in Rapid City to survive when the flood hit Friday night.

Some quick thinking by Mrs. Rounds, who grabbed a rubber air mattress which happened to be blown up and a large flashlight, probably saved their lives.

It also was the fact a Rapid City furniture store owner decided to check his store during the night that prevented our drowning," Mrs. Ulrich said.

After bobbing about helplessly on their air mattress for more than two hours and so cold and wet they were about to give up, the man who had climbed to a roof adjoining his own store, saw their flashlight signal and yelled down to them that he would get help.

"You wouldn't believe the feeling," Mrs. Ulrich said, "unless you experienced it. We had not seen a soul since getting on the air mattress. There were no lights as electricity was out and we had been lying on our stomachs across the mattress in a rigid position for over two hours."

"Sandy had just told me she couldn't hold on any longer and I was trying to talk her into trying to hold on when she saw the man on the roof," she said. Little Bryan, wet and cold had gone into shock and both were afraid he would die. It was all they could do to keep him from falling from the air mattress and still keep the flashlight — the only thing they saved from their home.

Mrs. Ulrich had gone to visit her daughter, son-in-law, and small grandson. She arrived by plane about 4:10 p.m. Friday for a pleasant visit but in a rain storm.

The Rounds, also former residents of Twin Falls, met her at the airport and they returned to their mobile home in a beautiful valley-like area not far from Rapid Creek, where the weakening dam was holding back flood waters from the heavy rains.

It continued to rain and during the evening lightning struck so close it burned out the electric clock. David Rounds disconnected electrical appliances including the radio and television set.

As they watched the rain without much concern, water began rising a few inches at a time. At 8 p.m., Rounds, a member of the National Guard, was called on alert because of flood threats.

"When he went out the door," Sandy recalls, "I said to him, 'Be careful, dear, and don't drown,' but I didn't think we were in danger."

Not long after that, all electricity went out and most of the residents of the mobile home park apparently went to bed.

"They probably were drowned or killed in the explosions, which followed," Sandy said.

Mrs. Ulrich and Mrs. Rounds kept watch on the rising water and soon realized they were in trouble when cars and a concrete wash room from the court swept past.

"While we were thinking about it, our own trailer washed from the docks," Sandy said. "I remembered the air mattress my brother-in-law had blown up the day before while staying with us. In the mud and water under the bed (by that time water was inside their mobile home), I found the flashlight and told him to get her coat. We knew we had to leave the trailer," she said.

"They managed to open the back door despite pressure of the rushing water and put the baby on the mattress; then climbed across either end to balance it. We tried to paddle with our feet and hands to get to higher ground but the water was too swift, so we just went where it took us," Mrs. Rounds said. Floating garbage and debris surrounded them and kept hitting the mattress.

They washed between two trailers which had floated to the nearby furniture store. At times they were hidden by the bobbing trailers but Richard Johnson, store owner, caught a glimpse of their flashlight signal just after they spotted him on top of the adjoining building.

He summoned the fire department trucks and by lowering ropes to the mattress the baby was lifted first and then the two women, about 30 feet to the building roof and safely inside the store. They took off wet clothes and donned furniture wrappings and anything they could find for warmth. Sandy was wearing a burlap costume left in the store.

Bryan, hiccoughing and blue by that time, was brought once he was wrapped in heavy furniture covers and is apparently none the worse for the experience. Both he and his mother, four months pregnant, scheduled visits to a Twin Falls doctor Monday afternoon.

Rex Ulrich, whom they finally succeeded in reaching after being rescued, worked with airline officials here to get reservations for them out of Rapid City. Mrs. Ulrich said the airport was jammed with persons trying to leave.

He met them by car in Salt Lake City Sunday night.

Mrs. Rounds said there had been some warnings during the rain to tourists in the Black Hills, but no serious indication that townspeople were in any danger until just before the dam gave way. Many of the people, the Rounds included, heard no warning because the electricity was cut and their televisions and radios were off.

"It was only a matter of a few seconds from the time we realized the water was rising and we were in danger until the wall of water hit, washing our trailer from its foundation," Mrs. Rounds said.

As for what she will do now, Mrs. Rounds said her husband will join them here when he is released from emergency Guard duty but they have lost all of their possessions except their car which was taken to answer the Guard call.

Many people did not have flood insurance but the Rounds did and may be able to recover some of their loss.

Costumer is T.F. resident

TWIN FALLS — Ron Hodge, choreographer to see what he has in mind. Then listen to the Hodge, Twin Falls, will return to ISU, his alma mater, this week as part of his work as costumer and designer for the Repertory Dance Theatre.

The professional dance company is in residence at the University of Utah. RDT will be performing Thursday evening, in Frazier Hall on the university campus.

Hodge received his BA from ISU in 1969, and has complete all his course work for his MFA. His thesis project was the design of costumes for the ISU production of "She Stoops to Conquer."

He came to RDT in 1970, and has designed the costumes for 24 works in the repertory. "Because of my previous background in dance in high school, I thought that perhaps I would be interested in specializing in dance costuming. When I was offered a job with RDT, I felt that it would be an exciting challenge to adapt what I had learned as a costumer for theater into a specialized field such as dance."

In creating costumes for RDT, I first talk with the choreographers as many artistic egos can work together so smoothly. Without an artistic director enforcing his attitudes and viewpoints, the company's work becomes a tremendous artistic cooperative effort," Hodge said.

The Art Mart is a social center to become acquainted with local artists, their different techniques, color harmony and general knowledge of the paintings. It is opened from 1-5 p.m. daily. Newlyweds need insurance, too

NEW YORK (UPI) All you with stars in your eyes about the coming wedding will be inclined to turn thumbs down on this suggestion. Visit an insurance agent some weeks before the wedding. With $4,000 that's the average worth of new furniture and appliances, not to mention wedding gifts and clothes, a visit with the insurance man might save you trouble and even money. You'll have to see that your name is changed on all policies you now have. Be sure to go over your existing auto insurance policies with the agent, too.

Few young couples realize that a change in marital status can affect the amount they pay for auto insurance, said Richard B. Nealey Jr., a vice president of Insurance Company of North America.

Brides under 25 and grooms under 30 may find their auto insurance premiums somewhat reduced once they're married. Statistics on which insurance company rates are based show that, on the average, the young married man or woman is a better risk than the single counterpart.

The authority said couples are likely to be substantially in the young man had auto insurance with a state assigned risk plan usually made up of drivers with a record of traffic violations or accidents.

The change in marital status might make him an acceptable risk for private insurance companies. And the rates for insurance from a private company usually are less than those in the assigned risk plan, Nealey said.

He also advises young couples to get tenant's or homeowner's insurance.

"Many people just getting settled in an apartment don't realize that their landlord's insurance doesn't protect the things they own," he said.

"A tenant's policy, which is relatively inexpensive, covers the contents of the apartment — clothes, furniture, books, that sort of thing.

"If they're starting off in a home of their own, they'll need a homeowner's policy. It protects the house itself as well as the contents among other things. A certain amount of insurance is required by the bank holding the mortgage, anyway."

Be sure to make an estimate of the total worth of your possessions. That way you'll be able to get adequate coverage.

Retires

FOR A FEW — Ronald L. Reed, former coordinator at Idaho State Normal School, has retired after 30 years of service. He is now living in Pocatello, Idaho. He was a member of the Idaho State Teachers Association and served as its president from 1969 until 1971 and closed with his years at Pocatello.

Reed has not decided on what he will do now that he has retired, but is interested in carpentry, farming and raising cattle, besides being a salesman.

'New look'

NEW YORK (UPI) All the new synthetics in the piece goods departments mean a new look at sewing techniques. One hundred per cent polyester thread or cotton-covered polyester, good for all fabrics, are especially helpful in sewing materials containing synthetics. The cotton covered polyester is available in a wide range of colors and has the strength, stretch recovery and low shrinkage needed for sewing permanent press, knits and textured weaves. In addition, the all-polyester is highly durable through repeated washings.

A steady diet of cottage cheese at lunch helps keep the waistline under control.

Stylish Terry

Cotton terry is an easy-to-care-for, comfortable fabric that has been making summer appearances for many years. But this year's version is one of the best. It's a floor-length dress with round neckline and a slit straight up to the thigh. Terry's look but in better style.

It's a perfect fit that's off where it breaks naturally. That way, you avoid tough ends.

Select color plan

SHOSHONE — Selection of a color plan by young newlyweds is recommended by Jeanne B. Annett, Lincoln-Blaine and Camas county home extension economist.

She said, "Let your friends know so that they may select gifts that can fit into the color scheme."

She also suggests selecting furniture together, choosing good quality furniture, concentrating on such things as refrigerator, cooking unit, good mattress and springs. She said, "then add quality items as finances allow."

Mrs. Annett warns against installment buying as "you can get bogged down fast with payments that go on and on."

Consider just one set of dishes with extra place settings and use them eventually. This will eliminate a large storage need, extra place settings, and use them every meal. This will eliminate a large storage need, she said.

When selecting china, silver or crystal, stay within a price range that's not too high for shower gifts, nor too high for replacements.

"Be practical," Mrs. Annett said. "Choose china, silver, crystal and glassware that are usable. When crystal and china are too fragile or silver too ornate, they aren't used and enjoyed."

It's fun to redo secondhand and early attic pieces. By doing this, delay until the budget allows quality furniture is much easier.

Pocatello miss to Gem music teachers set meet

SAMPA — The Idaho Music Teachers Association will hold its 10th annual convention June 16 and 17 at Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa.

Featured artist-lecturer will be Prof. Marvin Blickenstaff, chairman of the Piano Department of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N.C. His appearance at the convention is made possible through a grant from the Idaho Commission on the Arts and Humanities.

Other speakers and performers for the convention include Mathys Abas, conductor of the Boise Philharmonic; Dr. Marvin Bloomquist, professor of voice at NNU; Adelaide Marshall, well-known Boise Valley pianist; state auction winners Nancy Wilson, cellist, College of Idaho; Alan Ludwig, pianist, Boise State College; and Richard Johnson, pianist, Baldwin Jr. High, Boise.

Miss Helen Wilson, professor of English and journalism, NNU, and Mrs. Joseph Bray, Oregon State University, Northwest Division, President of Music Teachers National Association.

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence M. Allsberry, Pocatello, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Patricia, to Ronald R. Bolinger, Twin Falls.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Bolinger. Miss Allsberry is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunfield, Twin Falls.

She is a 1968 graduate of Pocatello High School and was graduated from Idaho State University in 1972 with a BS degree in psychology. She served as president of Alpha Chi Omega, social sorority, and was a member of Mortar Board and Spurs honoraries and was active in student government.

She was listed in the publication "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" and was recently named May Queen of the outstanding senior woman of ISU.

Bolinger is a 1966 graduate of Twin Falls High School, a 1968 graduate of the College of Southern Idaho and received a BA from ISU in 1970. He will be graduated with a master of education degree in August.

He has served as a student senator, Utah Idaho district governor of Circle K International, and is presently a member of Kiwanis International. He is a teacher in the Filer School District and will be teaching at American Falls next year. A July 2 wedding is planned at the Grace Lutheran Church, Pocatello.

Wendell principal seeks staggered class shifts

BY PEGGY CHU
Times-News writer

WENDELL — Wendell school board considered staggering class shifts at the senior high level at a trustee meeting Monday night.

No action was taken on the plan.

According to high school principal Willard Spalding, class shifts could run from 8:30-2:00 and 9:30 to 3:00.

Under this system there would be five classes per day with no study halls.

He said the teachers are in favor of dropping study halls. He said discipline problems were part of the reason for trying to eliminate them.

Other alternatives, he said, could be a regularly scheduled six-period day with no study halls. He asked the board "do we want to offer more classes or use teacher time in study halls?"

Trustees expressed concern that first-shift students riding the school bus would have to wait for second-shift students to be dismissed before going home. Trustee Robert Smith said that if teachers required more work from the students, then the students would use the study hall for what it was intended and develop better study habits.

Spalding says he is still considering other possibilities and that nothing is definite.

Lawrence La Rue, school superintendent, told the trustees there would not be a student lounge for the coming year because of the costs.

Trustees have their approval to lease seven mercury-vapor lamps for $400 a year.

In other board action, the student handbook was edited and revised without major alterations.

James Benson, co-ag teacher, met with the board to explain his summer program.

Vard McFann was sworn in as the new school trustee. Frank Orth and Smith were re-elected to chairman and vice chairman of the board.

Rupert settles buffer zones

RUPERT — Minidoka County Commission settled the question of the "buffer zones" around the cities with adoption of an amended ordinance on Monday.

The buffer zones around Rupert, Heyburn and Paul involve a mile-wide strip of land into which cities are expanding, but which are not yet incorporated within city limits.

Growth of housing subdivisions has posed the question whether city or county should be responsible for issuing building permits not pasturing the new construction in the zones.

The commission ruled Monday that the cities will be responsible for building inspections on land up to five acres in size within the buffer zone, while the county will handle inspections on larger tracts of land.

In other business, the commissioners agreed to order a feasibility study on including county employees in the state retirement program.

Cassia hears tax protest

BURLEY — The Cassia County commissioners heard a tax assessment protest, discussed the Declo dump ground and inspected the new county landfill Monday.

The meeting was conducted by John Clark, chairman, with Weldon Beck and Orville Beecher, commissioners, present.

Wayne Newcomb, farmer and rancher in the county, met with the commissioners and protested the tax assessment on property he owns. He told the commissioners that the Newcomb's property had been appraised too high, and asked for independent appraisal to reappraise his property.

Calvin Heiner, county assessor, was called to the meeting and went over the assessment of Newcomb's land with the commissioners. The commissioners took the situation under advisement for further study.

The commissioners agreed to pay Newcomb $1,000 to clean up the Declo dump, which has been in use for many years on Newcomb's property.

Tax complaints heard by Blaine commission

BY TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Conflict over agricultural versus subdivision tax classification arose Monday before the Blaine County commissioners.

E. V. McFann, Ketchum, questioned the assessment of his land as a subdivision, resulting in higher taxes, because he said his land was solely used as pasture.

The matter was tabled for further discussion.

During the Monday meeting the commissioners also requested the appraisal firm of Sun Valley Appraisal Associates, Pocatello, to submit cost estimates for reappraisal of Sun Valley as well as for the entire county. The estimated are expected to be completed next week.

Currently, a rotating reappraisal program is in progress, starting with Sun Valley and northern Blaine County.

McFann said the subdivision classification of his land and similar situations "forces the

Hailey okays housing plans

HAILEY — Three separate developments, containing a total of about 100 housing units, were considered Monday by the Hailey City Council.

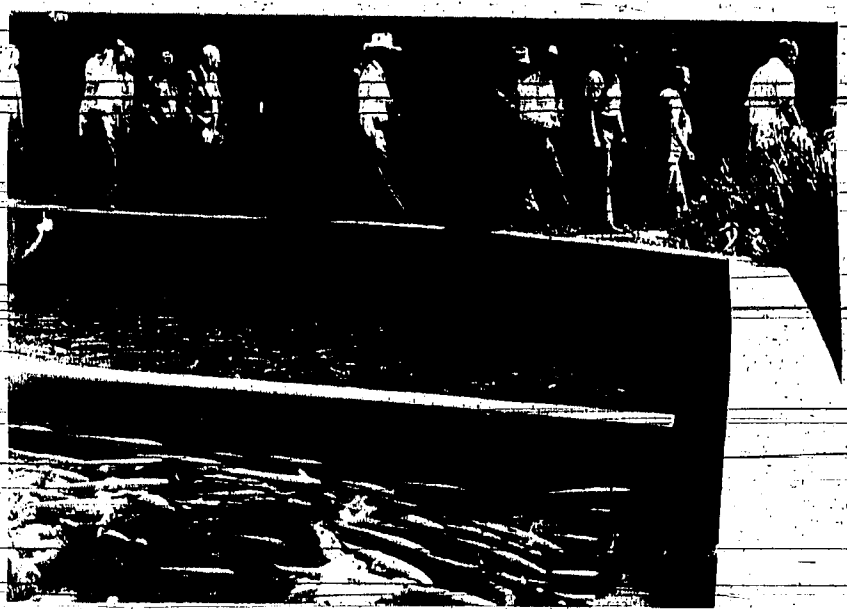

The council gave final approval for phase I of the Hayathia Estates, located east of the railroad tracks and south of Croft Street, within the Hailey City limits.

The initial development contains 55 lots which are about 8,000 square feet or more. According to Jim Koonce, representing J-U-B Engineers, Boise, the complete project will consist of about 120 lots and will encompass 38 acres.

The project is a cooperative venture between Stanley Levison, Toledo, Ohio, and the building firm of Reston, Inc., Seattle.

Housing values within the subdivision are expected to rise from $22,300 to $30,000. Preliminary water and sewage work is anticipated to begin next week.

In other action, the council moved to begin annexation proceedings for the Valley View apartment complex, proposed by the Watson Construction Co., to be located on the north end of Hailey.

Tour Hagerman hatchery

Tour hears importance of area trout industry

BY RONNIE BAIRD JONES

TWIN FALLS — Importance of water to the $10 million annual commercial trout industry of Snake River Canyon was outlined Monday for Idaho Water Resource Board members.

About 50 persons including the board members, legislators, county officials and representatives of state and federal industries and many water users viewed the trout producing area Monday in conjunction with today's meeting of the Idaho Water Resources Board in Twin Falls.

Meeting in the Holiday Inn, the tour moved to the Wendell area, making the first stop at the Rangen's Fish hatchery and research station. Otto Lynn, superintendent, explained the research program here involving testing of fish food, produced by the Rangen firm in Idaho.

Members met next at the Idaho Fish and Game Dept. fish hatchery in the Hagerman area with Bud Ainsworth, Jr., superintendent, conducting a tour and explaining the production of fish for stream, lake and reservoir stocking by the fish and game department.

At the nearby U.S. Department of Interior, Bureau of Sport Fisheries, Kenneth Huggs, superintendent, explained the federal hatchery program and the nutrition laboratory.

A proposal from U. S. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, to create a park in the Thousand Springs area is scheduled for discussion today by the board.

On the fish hatchery tour the group also visited the Idaho Power Plant at Thousand Springs.

Robert Erkens, manager of Snake River Trout Farms, explained trout production and the needs of water for the industry. He said in a one-acre pond area his firm is producing about 400,000 pounds of trout a year.

He said the water can be reused and oxygen added by aeration, but the removal of nitrogen and ammonia, especially where irrigation water filters it into the water supply, is another matter.

As a final stop, the group inspected snail steelhead trout at the Niagara Springs Hatchery owned by Idaho Power Co. and operated by the Idaho Fish and Game Dept. Robert Quider, superintendent, explained the steelhead production.

Vocational classes sought for Rupert

BY METREMAINE
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Rupert youngsters need more vocational training to prepare them for the world of work.

In addition, Minidoka School District may be failing to provide the needed training for its students, emphasizing athletics and the traditional academic studies at the expense of more practical training.

The conclusions and several others were reached nearly unanimously by an audience of 70 persons from all areas of the Rupert community attending a report session on the city's major problems Monday night at East Minico Junior High School.

Sponsored by the Institute of Government at Idaho State University, the session culminated a year-long survey of the Rupert area. Dr. John Eyre, chairman of the department of government at ISU and his associate, Dr. Victor Helm, explained the survey procedure to those in attendance, outlining the areas of major concern.

The participants then were divided into four discussion groups for consideration of the suggestions. Rupert Mayor Wendell Johnson and councilman George McDonald, Bill Strasser and Clark Cameron led the four discussion groups, which issued outlines of their conclusions to the entire audience at the end of the session.

Dr. Eyre explained that ISU's Institute of Government has developed a technique for delving into a community's problems in-depth by interviewing a relatively few highly influential and knowledgeable people who represent a cross section of the city's life.

Each participant is interviewed, then asked to indicate the relative seriousness of a selection of "problem areas" by rating them on a scale of one to five, with five being the most serious.

By assigning mathematical symbols to the ratings, Dr. Eyre explained, a computer can then calculate the profile of a community's problems. The single problem with the highest severity rating in the final calculation was continuing low prices for farm products, averaging 4.1 out of the possible five points, Dr. Eyre said.

However, throughout the entire survey, youth problems proved the most often selected.

The lack of vocational training topped all youth problems, followed by a lack of finances for the vocational training.

Dr. Eyre admitted some problems cannot be solved easily on the local level, but they should be recognized as a part of the overall pattern. He suggested no remedy and offered no solution; that will be up to the citizens and local officials, he said.

Helms bats Astros past Montreal Expos 3-1

HOUSTON (UPI)—Tommy Helms, plagued by injuries the last three weeks, drove in two runs with a single and a sacrifice fly Monday night to support the six-hit pitching of southpaw Jerry Reuss and pace the Houston Astros to a 3-1 triumph over the Montreal Expos.

Helms, who returned to the lineup Sunday after being out with ribs and groin injuries, broke a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning with a two-out single, which capped a two-run rally off loser Ernie McAnally, 1-7.

He knocked in an insurance run in the sixth inning with a sacrifice fly after Lee May doubled, and moved to third on a hit bouncer and a walk.

Reuss, 4-5, gave up a run in the second when Terry Humphrey singled and scored from first on a double by John Bocanella.

He retired the next 11 batters and never let another runner beyond first base.

Helms started the Astros' two-run fourth inning with a single He moved to second on a single by May, and took third as Bob Watson forced May.

John Edwards singled to score Wynn with the first run, and, after a fielder's choice, Helms scored Watson with a looping single to right.

St. Louis defeats Dodgers 3-2

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Lou Brock singled home Dal Maxvill with the winning run in the fifth inning and Reggie Cleveland checked the Dodgers on four hits Monday night as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated Los Angeles, 3-2.

Maxvill, batting only .132 at game time, singled for the second time in the game of lead off—the fifth off-lower Bill Singer, now .3-7, Cleveland sacrificed Maxvill to second and the speedy shortstop raced home on Brock's liner to center.

Cleveland allowed three hits in the third inning when the Dodgers scored twice to tie it, 2-2. Doubles by Bobby Valentine and Manny Mota scored one run and a single by Billy Buckner knocked in the other. Cleveland held the Dodgers scoreless the rest of the way.

Demo candidate says McClure will be man to beat in November

By United Press International
Democratic senatorial hopeful Byron Johnson says Republican Rep. James A. McClure will be the candidate to beat in the general election.

Johnson made the statement during the grand opening of his Boise headquarters. He said he is the only Democrat who can beat the Republican in November.

If elected, Johnson said he will vote to limit farm subsidy payments to a maximum of $20,000 per farm unit. The current limit is $55,000.

In other political news, Democratic candidate for the First Congressional District, Ed Williams, told a group of supporters Monday in Priest River.

that "we must harvest out timber crops in the first district." "But we need not indiscriminately clear-cut every hillside," he said.

He said where there is a harvest there should be reforestation to protect the land and water shed.

It is time we, in the United States start to re-evaluate, reassess and reorient ourselves to solving the ordinary problems of the people — the American people."

"We must quit ignoring our domestic problems while we lavish our taxpayers dollars on foreign nations whose people really don't want to be remade in our image."

Wayne Kidwell, a Republican candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives, speaking to the Idaho Farm Bureau said the "deepest of all penetrations by the federal government into the free market has been in agriculture."

"Subsidies have become a tremendous burden on taxpayers. We must begin to get government out of the farmers' business," he said. Kidwell said the Agriculture Act of 1970 permits the farmer more control over his own land and does away with certain market quotas for wheat and acreage allotments for corn.

"I would like to see the next congress move even closer to a free market concept," he said. Speaking to a group of Republicans in Payette Monday, Robert Purcell, First District Republican candidate for congress, called upon all citizens in Idaho to help him in his campaign to place more emphasis upon the accountability factor as it applies to federal agencies. He said "federal agencies must be more responsive to the needs of the average citizen."

He added, "I fail to see any logical objection in applying the accountability factor to the federal bureaus as well," he said. Purcell said in Caldwell Monday night at an Idaho Farm Bureau Federation meeting that high taxes on agricultural land is placing an extreme burden on the small and medium farm.

Church aids in voter campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Monday he will join in a bipartisan effort to mount a national campaign to register voters during September.

He said he will join Sens. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., and Robert Dole, R-Kan., in sponsoring a joint resolution which authorizes the President to designate September 1-30 as National Voter Registration Month.

Church said he sees the legislation as part of a national effort to register as many voters as possible throughout the country.

"Regardless of political party," Church said, "it is very important that as many citizens as possible register and cast their ballots in November."

Meanwhile, Church said he will leave Washington Tuesday for Idaho to take part in the Democratic state convention at Sun Valley and keep other engagements.

Church is scheduled to address the state convention of the AFL-CIO Wednesday morning in Idaho Falls.

Church will be on hand for the Idaho Democratic convention beginning Thursday, where he is scheduled to deliver the address at the concluding banquet Saturday night.

Gem court upholds denial of claim

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme court has affirmed an order of the Idaho industrial accident board denying a claim for death benefits by a Barley woman on the grounds that there were not enough evidence to prove a common-law marriage.

The claim was filed by Patsy Hamby, Barley, who contended that she was Lawrence Hamby's wife by common law marriage. The board earlier ruled that the evidence failed to establish the existence of a common-law marriage relationship between the two.

Hamby died in an industrial accident at the J. R. Simplot Co. plant in Heyburn in 1970.

The opinion noted that according to Idaho statutory law, a common-law marriage arises where "the consent of the parties capable of making it" is followed by "a mutual assumption of marital rights, duties and obligations."

Kellogg deaths said avoidable

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — A state labor leader says 91 miners who died in the May 2 Sunshine Mine fire in Kellogg might have been saved if his suggestions had been followed.

State AFL-CIO President Mac Farlane told some 150 delegates to the opening session of the AFL-CIO convention in Idaho Falls Monday both governmental and mining interests rejected his proposals.

He said he recommended laws establishing escape routes in mines, fire drills and the use of rescuers during the administration of former Gov. Don Samuelson.

But he said the companies took the position that mine safety was their business alone. He said if mining interests had cooperated the men who died at Sunshine mine might have lived.

Later Gov. Cecil D. Andrus addressing the group said his administration is doing everything it can at the state level to combat unemployment.

The governor noted there are some five million persons out of work in the country.

Andrus also took the Republicans to task because the occupational safety and health act did not pass during the last session of the legislature. The act would have provided for state inspectors to oversee the implementation of the act in Idaho.

Petition dismissed on name change

KELLOGG (UPI) — The national labor relations board has dismissed a petition by the United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO, asking that its name be used in place of the South-west Metal Workers Union.

The decision of the three-member panel concluded that, in view of a 1970 election in which independent members voted not to merge with the national union.

If man arraigned

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — A 19-year-old Idaho Falls man has been arraigned on a charge of first degree burglary in connection with $50,000 to $100,000 damage at Skyline High School last week.

Officials said Gil Brandon Turner is being held. His bail was set at $15,000. He was a former student at Skyline.

Officials said the vandalism included breakage of glass, damage to film projectors, a copying machine, numerous books, a master control unit in the language laboratory, typewriters and vending machines.

a name change would subvert the policies of the National Labor Relations Act.

McClure requests silver aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, has renewed his request that the Cost of Living Council be granted an industry-wide exemption to silver producers from economic stabilization controls.

In a letter to Donald Rumsfeld, head of the Cost of Living Council, McClure said the council has ignored the arguments advanced in his earlier petition on behalf of the silver industry. In comparing gold and silver, McClure said, "both are freely traded international commodities and domestic production of each metal is less than one-third of domestic industrial consumption."

He accused the council of ignoring the fact that the ceiling imposed on producers is forcing consumers to purchase silver from abroad.
