Viet force flees

SAIGON (UPI)—Some North Vietnamese army troops who attacked South Vietnamese paratroopers below the My Chanh River defense line above Hue broke and ran for the first time in memory under record onslaughts by B52s and U.S. 7th Fleet ships, a South Vietnamese colonel said today.

An estimated 100 B52s dropped more than 2,500 tons of bombs on Communist positions in the Quang Tri Province area of northeastern South Vietnam, and the U.S. Navy hit the area with the greatest bombardments since the Korean War, spokesman reported in Saigon. Strikes by 137 fighter-bombers caused fires blazing more than a mile high.

It was the first time so many B52s had ever concentrated their might in one target area. UPI correspondent Chad Hantley reported from the northern front that a South Vietnamese colonel told him the North Vietnamese threw away their rifles and ran for the first time in his 20 years of battlefield experience.

A veteran U.S. military adviser said he could not believe how green the North Vietnamese tank crews were acting. He said they were leaving their tanks like sitting ducks on exposed hilltops and that planes, ships and hard-fighting South Vietnamese paratroopers were knocking them out.

Commanders aboard the U.S. Navy ships in the Gulf of Tonkin said the bombardment was taking a heavy toll among North Vietnamese troops in the region.

But it appeared that the untired South Vietnamese paratroopers, making their first battlefield appearance, were the heroes of the North Vietnamese strike across the My Chanh River. They held their ground and fought back and the North Vietnamese drive believed aimed ultimately at the falter.

Battlefield reports said remnants of a North Vietnamese regiment made last ditch attacks today but were no match for the well dug-in government paratroopers who reported killing 58 of them at a loss of five men killed and 23 wounded.

Eastern floods leave over 100,000 homeless

By United Press International
Deadly floods spawned by tropical storm Agnes forced the evacuation today of two cities in Pennsylvania, one in western New York and the downtown area of Richmond, Va. and threatened the water supplies of half-million persons in the Washington, D.C. area. The storm center itself began to taper off but the death toll continued to mount.

Water was only four inches below the tops of some two-story buildings in the Richmond business district in a low lying area near the overflowing James River. Devastating flooding forced the 76,000 residents of Wilkes-Barre and Kingston in Pennsylvania to flee their homes and the Allegheny River in New York threatened to swamp 25-foot high dikes and flood the city of Olean.

The death toll from the storm's weeklong rampage reached 68. At least 52 persons died as Agnes lumbered up the East Coast Thursday and continued to cause rain today from the Carolinas to New York.

Twenty-five persons died in Pennsylvania, 12 in Virginia, 12 in Maryland, two in North Carolina, and one in Delaware. Fifty persons were injured in New York but no deaths were reported.

Mayor William Smith of Olean ordered half the city's 22,000 population evacuated as the Allegheny reached a record height of 22.9 feet. National Guardsmen went door to door to assist residents and guard against looters.

Slow but steady rain continued to pelt the nation's capital and in suburban Fairfax County flooding of a pumping station at Occoquan Reservoir left more than 400,000 persons without water or sharply reduced supplies. Another 75,000 persons in nearby Prince William County were reported without water altogether.

Power cut due

TWIN FALLS — An interruption in electrical service for five hours is planned Sunday morning between Main Avenue and Second Avenue West from Second to Fifth Streets West.

The power will be off from 6 a.m. to 11 a.m. Purpose of the interruption is to complete improvement on overhead facilities connected with the urban renewal project, according to Jim Johnstone, Idaho Power Co. electrical superintendent.

This is the last of four Sundays in which power has been interrupted for the urban renewal work, Johnstone said. There should be no further outages.

The Times-News plant is in the affected area and Sunday morning calls cannot be made to the paper until 11 a.m. The switchboard will be open from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. to take circulation calls.

SS benefit hike appears certain

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The way has been cleared for the almost certain approval in Congress next week of an election year increase in Social Security benefits of 20 per cent. Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, met Thursday in the Capitol with Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and agreed to a procedure to speed the increase through before Congress recesses a week from today for the Democratic National Convention.

With 66 Senate cosponsors,

Church wants to attach the increase to a bill raising the ceiling on the federal debt. That bill must pass by June 30. Mills agreed to that procedure in the private meeting. Normally he resists Senate riders to House bills dealing with another matter.

But he is the original proponent of the 20 per cent boost in benefits. He proposed it last winter.

In addition to the increase, the bill will provide for higher Social Security taxes to finance it and to a provision making increases automatic whenever the cost of living as measured by government statistics, increases by 3 per cent or more.

The increase would take effect retroactively to June 1. But since it takes about three months to recalculate benefits for all recipients, it will not show up in Social Security checks before October.

The average check is now

$129 for a single person and $223 for a couple. Twenty per cent more would raise those figures to $155 and $267.

Mills and Church did not agree on the exact formula for raising taxes to finance the higher benefits.

But the increase probably will be achieved by increasing the amount of wages subject to Social Security taxes.

The tax rate, now 5.2 per cent, paid by workers and their employers, is now applied to the first $9,000 of earnings, putting the maximum tax at $468 for each.

The Church proposal will probably increase the wage base to $10,600 in 1973 and to $12,000 in subsequent years.

So if the 5.2 per cent rate is retained, workers earning that much would pay $501.60 in taxes next year and $624 in subsequent years and their employers would pay the same amount.

Freeze on meat prices studied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Price Commission is considering slapping a temporary freeze on retail meat prices, it was learned today.

With beef, pork and other meat prices on the upswing and expected to continue going higher—and President Nixon considering suspension of restrictions on foreign meat imports—the price group is weighing a one-month freeze.

Commission sources said the price commission was disappointed at failure of the Costing of Living Council, which has over-all jurisdiction over the economic controls program, to act on soaring food prices, especially meat.

The Price Commission has authority to impose controls over foods within its jurisdiction, including meats, at the wholesale and retail level. But it has no control over farm products, which have been rising steeply also. They are exempt from controls and the Price Commission has asked that this be removed.

The President said Thursday he might lift temporarily import quotas on beef to alleviate short supplies and help curb red meat prices that he acknowledged were beginning to rise again and rising very fast.

Nixon at the same time once again expressed doubt whether controls would really help. "Controls alone will not work unless you also move on the supply side," he said. But he said he was considering the possibilities of controls.

LONDON (UPI)—The government will allow the value of the pound to float temporarily, a treasury spokesman said today. The pound has been under heavy selling pressure in recent days.

London's foreign exchange markets will be closed today and Monday, the spokesman said.

The value of the pound closed on the London market Thursday at $2.5750. It will be allowed to float—find its own level against other currencies—beyond the normal limits of parity with the dollar and with common market currencies.

Central banks will not be obliged to step in to maintain the normal parity, as they now must do.

Opinion backs public rights

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES

Times-News Writer
HAILEY — Judge Charles Scoggin has issued an opinion indicating the public has a right to the use of Silver Creek for fishing and other purposes.

The written opinion was submitted by Judge Scoggin, Fifth Judicial District, to attorneys for the Southern Idaho Fish and Game Association and the Picabo Livestock Co., plaintiffs and defendants respectively, in a court action brought in 1970.

The sportsmen's organization from Twin Falls filed the action to maintain access to the world famous fly fishing stream, Silver Creek, in Blaine County.

Property surrounding portions of the stream has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Bud Purdy, owners of the Picabo Livestock Co. The property owners contended they had the right to keep others from floating down the surface of the stream without permission.

In his opinion, which is preliminary to actual findings of fact, conclusions of law and judgment, expected to be officially filed later, Judge Scoggin said both the plaintiffs and defendants have rights which must be protected.

He said the defendants put great emphasis during testimony on the fact the prior owners of their property patented the land in February, 1893, under President Benjamin Harrison and in October, 1905, under President Theodore Roosevelt.

"In reading the patents there seems to be one common clause," Judge Scoggin said.

The patents emphasize, the exception in granting rights to the land owners "subject to any vested and accrued water rights for mining, agriculture, manufacturing or other purposes, and rights to ditches and reservoirs used in connection with such water rights as may be recognized and acknowledged by the local customs, laws and decisions of courts and also subject to the right of the proprietor of a vein or lode to extract and remove ore therefrom."

Judge Scoggin said in his opinion the vested and accrued rights "for other purposes" includes fishing, gaming or fowling and the patents did not pass any property rights in the natural water course but reserved these subject to other actions customarily exercised in the area.

In his opinion, Judge Scoggin found the public has a right to use these waters for recreation as well as for commercial navigation.

"From the proof offered in the case," the judge wrote, "there is no question in my mind but this stream has been navigable for years and has been used for boating in connection with just the pleasure of seeing the area and for fishing, trapping, gaming and fowling, those various attributes for which the stream is a natural."

"People from all over the world have fished this stream as tourists and guests of Sun Valley and local and state residents have always used and enjoyed the stream's attributes."

Further, the judge said, the defendant's basic rights in the land should be protected. "But," he added, "I consider this a problem of proper law enforcement."

The judge said the Idaho Fish and Game Department has planted fish in the stream and the fact the water flows through the private property of individuals does not follow that the property owner also owns the surface of the stream or reservoirs. His right is limited to the storage of the water and its application for irrigation, Judge Scoggin said.

Donald Zuck, Twin Falls, member of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game Association and fourth district president of the Idaho Wildlife Federation, said the final judgment in the case will have statewide impact on other navigable streams.

He said it is not legal to fish Silver Creek from a boat, but many fishermen float down the stream to reach favorite fishing spots and have no other immediate access to these.

He said the opinion of the judge is not a final action at this time, but does indicate fishermen and other recreationists have a right to streams and rivers.

At the same time, he said, the sportsmen must respect the rights of the property owners and should not abuse the private property along the streams.

Edward Heap, Ketchum, is attorney for the plaintiffs in the case. He said it had been indicated to him by Judge Scoggin a final judgment would be forthcoming late in July.

Nixon OK's school fund

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon signed into law today a $19 billion education aid bill but accused Congress of providing rhetoric instead of solutions to the critical problem of court-ordered school busing. The law delays until January, 1964, implementation of such orders that can still be appealed.

The moratorium ... is temporary; the relief it provides is illusory," Nixon said in a statement criticizing the Democratic-controlled Congress for failure to pass his recommendations for dealing with school busing.

The President had proposed a moratorium on enforcement of all court-ordered busing until Jan. 1, 1974, and enactment of standards for school desegregation to make busing a last-resort measure.

The President faulted Congress for not drawing uniform national desegregation standards which he said would provide guidance to federal judges "so that court ordered busing to integrate public school systems would be used only as a last-never a first resort."

He said "Congress has not given us the answer we have requested; it has given us rhetoric. It has not provided a solution to the problem of court ordered busing; it has provided a clever political evasion. The moratorium it offers is temporary; the relief it provides is illusory."

Nixon had indicated Thursday to newsmen that he would sign the bill but said it was one of the "hardest decisions" he had made since becoming President because the busing language was "so vague and so ambiguous."

Nixon said he agreed with the provisions of the measure which would provide $19 billion in federal education aid over the next three years with $1 billion earmarked each year for assisting in school desegregation.

"If they could be separated from the rest of the bill and stand on their own there would not be any question about signing the bill," he said.

It would divide $1.8 billion among states to start with, climbing to $3 billion by the fifth year. It would funnel $3.5 billion a year to the 38,700 localities in the nation.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., promised that the Senate Finance Committee which he heads would open hearings next week on the measure.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The plan to share $30 billion in federal funds with the states and cities over the next five years has passed the House and will receive early hearings in the Senate.

An effective lobby of mayors and governors received much of the credit for getting the big revenue-sharing bill through the House Thursday. It passed 274-122, helped along by strong backing from President Nixon and a rare alliance of House Democratic and Republican leaders.

'Frustrating, isn't it?'

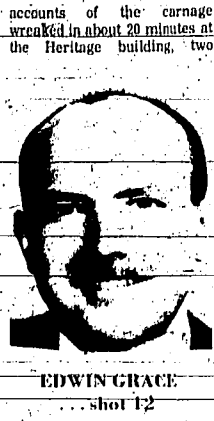

Killer's motives remain unknown

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI)—Unless police, psychiatrists or the suspect himself can supply the information, the reasons for the transformation of a quiet, introspective, churchgoing man into a senseless killer may never be known.

The terrible facts about Edwin C. Grace, 32, who allegedly fatally shot six men and wounded six others, are in the police files. His motives, however, are unknown.

Grace, under heavy security today in Cherry Hill Medical Center in serious condition with self-inflicted gunshot wounds, will be tried for murder, and atrocious assault and battery.

Factual clues to Grace's rampage in the Colonial-type office building here are limited. They consist of eyewitness accounts of the carnage. sawed-off .22 caliber rifles and wrecked in about 20 minutes at the Heritage building, two Opinions expressed by neighbors in Brooklyn, where Grace's parents live, were unanimous in their insistence that the suspect was nice and quiet. As a boy, one neighbor said, Grace "sat out on his stoop watching the other boys play" but rarely joined.

His associates at Pinkerton described him as a "quiet, easy-going" man who liked his job. Pinkerton officials said Grace, who was not issued a gun, was "quiet, nice, no problems" with no demerits for untidiness or other flaws.

But a source close to the Camden County prosecutor's office says officials have a very strong lead which could create a motive.

Democrats begin laying presidential platform

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democrats started the process today of preparing the platform on which their presidential candidate will run, with supporters of George S. McGovern allotted three times as many places as any other candidate on the subcommittee writing the document.

David Ginsburg, general counsel of the 150-member Platform Committee, said at the outset of five days of platform hearings that nominations for the 15-man subcommittee would be divided up according to the current delegate strength of the Democratic presidential aspirants.

On that basis, McGovern delegates stand to get six seats while those favoring Hubert H. Humphrey and George C. Wallace get two apiece, and Edmund S. Muskie one, Ginsburg said. Four would go to uncommitted delegates.

McGovern apparently will not appear before the Platform Committee's Saturday morning session for candidates or their representatives.

Humphrey said it "will spell doom for the party" to adopt the McGovern welfare plan which Humphrey attacked for being too costly in proposing a $1,000 allocation per needy individual without any "work incentive."

He also contended that McGovern's proposal for a 43 per cent cut in defense spending "bordered on being dangerous" and said he hoped the platform writers could come up with something not so "extreme."

While the platform panel was beginning its session, at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, its companion Rules Committee was in the second day of hearings at the Washington Hilton.

Kennedy says McGovern has been underestimated

By United Press International

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., says Sen. George McGovern has been "underestimated from the beginning" and now has the momentum to win both the Democratic presidential nomination and the election in November.

Responding to reports that McGovern has alienated union bosses and old line political leaders, Kennedy said in an interview published in the June 24 issue of Business Week magazine: "I can't speak for them. But I believe he can win the fall and can put together a successful alliance."

McGovern and two of his leading challengers, Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie, were forced to cancel some campaign appearances Thursday due to tropical storm Agnes. The three candidates spent the day working in their capital hill offices.

McGovern lacks 170 votes of locking up a first-ballot nomination at the Miami Beach convention beginning July 10. At last count, he has 1,339 of the 1,509 votes needed to win the nomination.

Humphrey has 346 delegates, Muskie has 208 and 488 are still uncommitted. Alabama Gov. George Wallace, recuperating in Silver Spring, Md. from an assassination attempt, has 360 delegates pledged to him on the first ballot.

The Democratic Platform Committee assembled today in Washington to begin drafting the party's 1972 platform.

The Rules Committee ran into procedural problems Thursday when representatives of 13 states to the 150-member panel had not been certified. Many were challenged because they failed to balance their representation by sex.

Leaders off to China

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Hale Boggs and Gerald Ford, the Democratic and Republican floor leaders of the House, conferred over breakfast with President Nixon today, then departed for a two-week visit to China.

A few hours later, Nixon welcomed back from Peking his national security affairs adviser, Henry A. Kissinger. Kissinger was returning from a five-day visit during which he held several talks with Premier Chou En-lai and other Chinese officials on Vietnam and other matters, including the Moscow summit.

Wegner scores OSH Act

TWIN FALLS — Republican senatorial candidate Glen Wegner said Thursday he backed President Nixon to stop implementation of the Occupational Safety and Health Act.

Wegner was in Twin Falls campaigning from house to house. He said he asked the President in a letter to intervene until a review can be made of the impact of OSHA on the small Idaho businessman.

There is a drastic difference, he said, between the large corporate businesses and the small businessman who works alongside his employees and who doesn't have the margin of profit to spend large amounts required to meet the regulations of the act.

Wegner attended a coffee in his honor at the home of Mrs. William C. (Jan) Davis, at which 50 women were present. He said although he helped create the marijuana commission, he cannot agree at this point with the legalization of marijuana.

"Most Americans," he said, "use some form of brain deteriorating drugs and substances in the home daily. This means anything from coffee and cigarettes to amphetamines, which are in many ways more harmful than marijuana."

Wegner said gun legislation should be handled by local, not federal legislation.

He also called for the promotion of incentive in the welfare program. "Those who are able to work should work, and we must develop programs to promote this now," he said.

"Programs such as the Civilian Conservation Corps might be looked into and perhaps tried again."

Bowman flays Nixon

TWIN FALLS — Democratic senatorial candidate Rose Bowman said in Twin Falls Thursday the Nixon administration and John Connally have been a total flop in stopping inflation.

"Again, prices are soaring, the nation is disturbed and every person from the aged to the comfortable middle class are being robbed by the President's inactivity with sending Kissinger on secret trips," Mrs. Bowman said.

She said it is true the President quit playing games with the Chinese and Russians and got our nation headed back to the people.

The first step to control inflation and quit wasting money is to get all the way out of Vietnam now, Mrs. Bowman said. If she is elected, she will support as strongly as possible an immediate withdrawal and release of prisoners, she said.

Israelis attack bases

Israeli planes and artillery hit Arab guerrilla bases in Lebanon today in the second punitive raid in three days, and Israeli Premier Golda Meir warned Lebanon there would be more of the same unless guerrillas halted their attacks against Israeli settlements.

The Israeli Air Force attack hit the village of Dir el Achkar, 19 miles northeast of the ceasefire line on Mount Hermon. It followed overnight shelling attacks from Lebanon on the village of Kiriat Shmuna and shelling attacks from Syria against a post on the occupied Golan Heights.

New weapons key to N-arms limit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon believes chances for a permanent nuclear arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union will be "totally destroyed" unless Congress approves a new offensive weapons program.

Nixon insisted at a news conference Thursday that the arms agreements he made at the Moscow summit in May should be approved by Congress on their merits.

But he warned that U.S. security would be "seriously jeopardized" unless offensive weapons not covered in the pact are given a go-ahead in the new defense budget.

Nixon argued that the new weapons—which include the Trident submarine and B1 bomber—are needed as an incentive for the Soviets to move ahead this fall on "Phase Two" negotiations for the big prize of a permanent arms freeze.

Without such a bargaining chip, he said, "chances for a permanent offensive agreement would be totally destroyed."

Congress has under consideration treaties for a limited, temporary offensive nuclear weapons curb, and for limitation of antiballistic missile sites.

The President's 30-minute impromptu news conference in his oval office—his third of the year—was keyed at his request mainly to domestic issues. He promised another "general" news conference next week.

Informed sources said he will announce his next troop cut from Vietnam.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird had testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that he could not support ratification of the Moscow arms agreement unless the nuclear Trident submarine and the B1 offensive bomber were approved.

Asked for comment, Nixon did not go that far—but agreed with Laird that the United States would fall behind the Soviet Union unless it matches its nuclear weapons advances.

"If the United States falls into what is a definitely second position, an inferior position to the Soviet Union overall in its defense programs, this will be an open invitation for more instability in the world and an open invitation for more potential aggression in the world, particularly in such potentially explosive areas as the Middle East," Nixon told reporters.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Earl J. Silbert argued against the reductions, especially for McConrad. "He is a ruined man. How is this man going to face his friends, his neighbors, his church?"

Silbert also said federal charges would be filed against the suspects soon.

McConrad, a former agent of the CIA and security official of the FBI, had earned $2,000 per month from security contracts with the Republican National Committee and the Campaign for the Re-Election of the President. He was fired after his arrest.

Nixon denies bugging links

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon denied involvement Thursday in an alleged bugging of Democratic national headquarters as a "ruined" man formerly on his re-election campaign's payroll "stood charged with the crime."

Nixon told a news conference Thursday that he did not want to discuss the case while it was under investigation.

"This kind of activity has no place whatever in our electoral process or in our governmental process," the President said.

In Superior Court, James McConrad Jr. and four Miami men asked for reduction of bonds that have kept them in jail since their arrests early Saturday.

McConrad, Bernard L. Barker, Frank A. Sturgis, Virgilio R. Gonzales and Eugene R. Martinez were purportedly wearing surgical gloves and carrying surveillance equipment when they were discovered inside the Democrats' office.

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)—Sen. George S. McGovern has reportedly won the support of at least 10 more Democratic National Convention delegates in New Jersey to add to the 73 he gained in the June 6 primary.

Martha wants John to quit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Martha Mitchell says she is "sick and tired" of politics and has threatened to leave her husband unless he gets out of the political arena.

"I gave him an ultimatum," the wife of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell told a UPI reporter in a telephone conversation from Newport Beach, Calif., Thursday night.

Mitchell, contacted at his Washington apartment, took his wife's latest phone call "in stride."

"She's great," he said. "That little sweetheart. I love her so much. She gets a little upset about politics, but she loves me and I love her and that's what counts."

Mrs. Mitchell's phone call, which she initiated, was ended abruptly when someone apparently grabbed the phone from her hand. She was heard to say: "You just get away."

Attempts to regain the broken connection failed when an operator said: "Mrs. Mitchell is indisposed and cannot talk."

Mitchell said his wife's sister and a secretary were with her in Newport Beach and it was probably one of them who terminated the call.

Mitchell explained that his wife wants him to return to his highly successful New York law practice.

"Martha has never been happy with me in politics," he said. "We have a compact. We have agreed we're going to get the hell out of this jam. We aren't going to be in Washington after Nov. 7. We're going to leave lock, stock and barrel. We have that understanding. We're going to get out of this rat race. We have no interest."

Mitchell resigned his attorney general some months ago to head President Nixon's re-election campaign, the same post he held in 1968.

He said he has absolutely no interest in accepting another Washington job, including a rumored Supreme Court appointment.

Mitchell returned to Washington early this week after attending a plush party in California with his wife, first lady Pat Nixon and several Republican celebrities.

PRESIDENT NIXON holds news conference

Price freeze eyed on beef, some food

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon says he is considering a freeze on "troublesome" food prices, especially beef, amid claims that it would result in a black market and rationing.

The President also revealed at a news conference Thursday that he might, first try to lift temporarily the import quota on beef to help curb red meat prices that are beginning to rise again and rising very fast.

He said the reason for lifting the quota was the high demand for beef in a time of apparent short supply.

"Now with regard to meat prices, to give you an indication of the direction of my thinking, you can move on the control side, but as we all remember in that period immediately after World War II, when we had controls but too much demand and too little supply, and all the black markets, controls alone will not work unless you also move on the supply side," Nixon said.

The cost of Living Council Thursday took up the question of a freeze on now export agricultural products, but deferred announcing any action until at least next week.

The reaction from farm organizations and farm bloc congressmen was immediate and angry.

"If the government freezes food prices, which we hope it will not do, it had better begin to distribute ration books and try to police black markets," said William J. Kuhfuss, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

British, IRA skirmish

BELFAST (UPI) — British troops exchanged gunfire with the Irish Republican Army (IRA) Thursday night and today despite an agreement by both sides on a cease-fire starting Monday to end three years of sectarian violence in Northern Ireland.

The latest shooting occurred first in Andersonstown, a stronghold of the more militant elements of the IRA which has opposed an end to the campaign of shooting and bombing which has killed nearly 400 persons and injured 3,000.

An army spokesman said the British troops thought they had hit three of the snipers although no bodies were recovered. Most of the IRA gunfire was against a sandbagged army observation post.

In the Roman Catholic Ballymurphy district of Belfast a British soldier suffered an arm wound.

The Provisional wing of the IRA, announced in Dublin in the neighboring Irish Republic Thursday that it would observe a cease-fire starting at midnight Monday with the provision that the British Army would do so, too. William Whitelaw, the British-appointed secretary of Northern Ireland, said the army would observe the cease-fire.

IRA sources said the cease-fire announcement had been delayed by arguments between those in favor of halting the fighting and the more militant Belfast leadership which argued for continued violence.

The IRA held meetings in Belfast and Londonderry Thursday in an effort to explain the decision and to get support from IRA members.

In London, Prime Minister Edward Heath called a cabinet meeting that included Whitelaw and Defense Secretary Lord Carrington to consider the peace move.

In Belfast, the news of the agreement was greeted by most people with relief tempered with disbelief that the years of bombings and killing could be near an end. There was no sign of exultation.

Court And School

Public school administrations must be wondering which way to turn in the current era of strange jurisprudence with conflicting court orders, decisions and appeals.

In the end, the Supreme Court, which started a train of litigation with its 1954 school desegregation decision, will have to decide whether rich districts may spend more for education than poor ones and whether judges can order busing of thousands—upon thousands of youngsters to achieve some sort of racial balance.

The Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals has overturned an order by Federal Judge Robert Merhige, Jr. for merger of Richmond schools with those of suburban Chesterfield and Henrico Counties to achieve greater racial balance.

Appeals Courts judges, in a five to one decision, held that Judge Merhige had overstepped his constitutional authority in his zeal to force integration. Schools in the Virginia capitol are 64 per cent black and more than 90 per cent white in the suburban counties. Merhige's order would have created a single, 700 square mile district of 104,000 pupils, 78,000 of whom would be bused.

Judge Merhige failed to take sufficient note of a "fundamental principle of federalism" enunciated in the Tenth Amendment to the Appeals Court held.

Barring invidious discrimination, which the Appeals Court said it did not find, Judge Merhige lacked power to "compel one of the states of the union to reconstruct its internal government." An appeal to the Supreme Court is expected.

Meantime, the Supreme Court has agreed to hear an appeal from a three judge Federal Court ruling that the system of financing schools through local property taxes in Texas unfairly discriminates against the poorer districts. This system, used by most states, has been assailed as denying pupils "equal protection" under the Fourteenth Amendment.

The crucial point is whether districts with more valuable property can provide quality education at a lower tax rate, while districts with low value property must get along with less.

Hawaii is the only state which finances its schools entirely with state funds so the outcome of the appeal will affect all the others.

Not For Everyone

The old bugaboo about a college education for everyone finally is coming to rest in the United States, as it should have years ago. The consequences of this fantasy are all about us: a shortage of mechanics and a surplus of aeronautical engineers; teachers with no children to teach and good-paying jobs in the crafts and trades going begging.

In Washington, the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education has issued its latest report on the future of higher education. It is a call for as many as 900,000 students now in college to be counseled to drop out.

Reluctant attenders, the commission says, should be counseled by admissions counselors away from colleges and toward jobs or vocational training. These are the students who are in college because of parental pressure or because it is the thing to do. They would be better off working at something they enjoy.

The overall theme of the commission's study, entitled: "More Effective Use of Resources: An Imperative for Higher Education," is that colleges and universities must pare their costs by 20 per cent by 1980 to survive.

They can achieve this goal only by economizing in faculty size, number of new course offerings and in enrollment.

MR. SPECTATOR

Fighting A Plaque

As the American people become better informed on the ravages of alcohol, work of a great organization, Alcoholics Anonymous, looms with added importance.

A recent survey discloses there are at least three million excessive drinkers in the United States, and 600,000 men and women confirmed alcoholics. Some estimates put these figures considerably higher. Alcohol ranks fourth in the causes of death. Certainly efforts to remedy this condition are worthwhile.

Fines, imprisonment, liquor cures, temperance lectures, all are lost on a person who has given in to alcohol. It no longer is looked upon as a matter of morals.

An alcoholic is a sick man who needs something besides lectures and punishment.

It is this knowledge which brought Alcoholics Anonymous into action. Those who belong to it give strength to each other through regular association and help themselves by helping others.

They gather their membership from the gutters, if necessary, seek to rehabilitate these unfortunates, restore their self-respect and lead them to a better way of life through human kindness and assistance.

AA is not a cult nor some fanatic's dream. Physicians and welfare workers say it is the only effective means so far in restoring hopeless drunkards to a life of decency. Police and enforcement officials say it is doing more good than all the jails in the nation.

Society will owe Alcoholics Anonymous an increasing debt of gratitude.

Many we owe this debt to live right here in Twin Falls.

STILL TRYING

The age-old dream to sail from the Atlantic to the Pacific via the Northwest Passage dies hard. Despite repeated failure to open the ice-studded waters of the far North sufficiently to permit the passage of ships, U.S. Army engineers are still exploring the possibility.

In testimony before the House Appropriations Committee, a representative of the engineers asked for $30,000 to continue a $384,000 study of deep draft ports on Alaska's Arctic Coast. Deep draft tankers, the engineers indicated, may yet be utilized to bring in supplies and remove oil from the North Slope.

"It does make you wonder," commented a member of the committee, Rep. John J. Rhodes, "if you are not beating your head against nature's stone wall."

Democrats: Incredible Ferment

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Even if the 1972 Democratic national convention at Miami Beach picks the presidential nominee quickly next month, its hazy, controversial party reforms and the vastly altered make-up of the delegations could produce incredible ferment.

Full review of the strengths and weaknesses of the reforms could consume thousands of words, I am going to talk here about just one phase — the strange conflict that has been allowed to develop between state authority and the Democratic national party.

Actually, the heralded reform guidelines designed for the admirable purpose of opening up party processes brush only lightly upon the issue of that conflict.

The real source of trouble lies in strictures laid down by the party at the height of emotional heat in the chaotic 1968 convention in Chicago. In the course of getting rid of what is called the "unit rule," by which some states bound their delegations to act in unison rather than divide by majority and minority, the 1968 convention broke all restraint.

In one of the most astonishing passages ever committed to print, it said it would not ask any delegate to perform any duty which he would consider to violate his individual conscience. To enlarge that idea, it added:

"As to any legal, moral or ethical obligation arising from a unit vote or rule imposed either state law or a state convention or state committee or primary election of any nature . . . the convention will look to each individual delegate to determine for himself the extent of such obligation if any."

The kindest thing an objective reporter can say about that language is that it is sheer madness conceived in a wild convention that had lost its bearings.

Read literally, it is an open invitation to national convention delegates to violate the laws of their states and ignore, as they choose, any moral or ethical limit upon their political conduct.

Some elected 1972 delegates have for weeks been talking as if they plan to do just that when they gather in Miami Beach. Mostly these are people pledged by law to vote for disabled Gov. George Wallace, who legally gained their convention votes either by winning or placing well in various presidential primaries this spring.

This prospect has surfaced in such states as Florida, North Carolina, Tennessee and Maryland. Some chosen delegates have indicated they intend to vote for someone other than the voters' presidential choice.

Now, a profound issue of good faith is involved here. Put bluntly, it is this:

"What kind of 'individual conscience' is it that would tell an elected delegate he should go to a convention and act directly against the wishes of the voters in his state, as expressed in open primary balloting?"

The whole purpose of the reforms is to make the process of choosing a nominee fairer, more balanced and more open. The reforms did not call for more primaries, but the increase this year in their number is tied to the demand for wider voter participation.

For the Democratic party to tell delegates they need not be bound by the decision the voters made in their states is to promise an enormous breach of faith — misleading at a minimum, deceitful and fraudulent at most. Why have "voter participation" if a delegate is truly free to ignore the results of that participation and make his conscience supreme?

"PSST... YOU REALLY BELIEVE ALL THIS JAZZ?"

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK

The Phenomenon

NEW YORK — The astounding tide for President Nixon in two weather-vane election districts of the borough of Queens suggests that Sen. George McGovern as Democratic nominee for President must dramatically move towards the center to avoid catastrophe.

This strong conclusion is based on answers by voters to a questionnaire prepared by pollster Oliver Quayle's organization. They indicated bipartisan admiration for Mr. Nixon's White House performance mixed with widespread defections among Democrats who either are unfamiliar with McGovern or consider his positions too leftist.

The two ethnically mixed districts, selected for us by elections analyst Richard Scammon, contrast sociologically — one a lower-middle-class Jackson Heights neighborhood of rundown apartment houses, the other a middle-class Flushing suburban-style neighborhood of new homes. But their voting records are similar and recently have proved barometers of statewide results. In 1968, Hubert Humphrey comfortably carried both districts against Mr. Nixon.

Hence, our interviews with 81 registered voters (conducted with Eleanor Seimann, Quayle's national field director) yield eye-popping results: Nixon, 52; McGovern, 23; Gov. George Wallace, 1 write-in; undecided, 5. What's more, of 47 registered Democrats, 28 favored Mr. Nixon compared to McGovern's 18 and 3 undecided — a defection rate above 50 per cent.

Although this is partly attributable to the fact Democrats have not yet coalesced around a nominee, we found surprising confidence in Mr. Nixon — an extremely high 71 per cent positive performance rating (68 per cent among Democrats). "He used to be hesitant," explained a retired bartender intending to cast his first Republican vote. "Now, he's confident, especially in foreign policy." Expressing admiration for the President's role in foreign relations, several Democrats admitted they knew little about McGovern.

However, greater exposure to McGovern is not necessarily the answer. We found many with awareness of McGovern's policy stands were more adamantly opposed to him. By about two-to-one, these voters felt McGovern is "too liberal." Here, for the first time in our 1972 interviewing is erosion in the McGovern Phenomenon — non-liberal Democratic voters supporting McGovern despite disagreement with his more radical policies.

RAY CROMLEY

No Frock Coat

WASHINGTON — Senior Japanese officials have privately told American friends they fervently wish the United States would be represented to Tokyo by a man very close personally to President Nixon, with a "strong working knowledge of both U.S. and Japanese politics."

That man would be able to understand and mesh the conflicting internal political pressures of both countries and be able to speak with authority for Nixon and with complete knowledge of his objectives.

They beg us not to send any more proper ambassador types, however talented.

They blame the lack of Japanese understanding of American domestic politics and the limited American understanding of Japan's internal situation for the frictions which have developed in the past year.

These men see an urgent need for a closer association with the United States in the years ahead — not a lessening of the ties built in the years since World War II. But they want it to be a different sort of cooperation, one less formal, and more personal with less bureaucratic nicety and more human give and take.

Since the Japanese group involved includes both the present and likely future leaders of Japan, they speak with some authority.

As one longtime Japanese friend writes from Tokyo (a man with close relationships with the top men in the Tokyo government), Americans and Japanese have got to be "more frank and candid" about ways and means for breaking down whatever impassable arise.

There has been, he says, too much of government officials "talking to one another across a square table, limiting themselves to more or less officially-sanctioned points of argument."

His letter is typical. Other letters, too, complain of the formalized government-to-government talks where feelings are carefully controlled and hidden in the background.

The Japanese are a very human people, deeply concerned with human intentions, personal feelings and the individual problems of men and women and their families and communities.

Our compassion to Japan immediately after World War II has bound the United States to Japan more closely than most people understand. The Japanese value our friendship more than our formal alliance.

For some reason, the U.S. government, over several administrations, has not understood this. And this has been our failure.

Getting down to specifics, what some Japanese would like is for Americans and Japanese (or the American and Japanese governments) to work closely together in developing political, investment, trade and all relationships with other countries in the Far East and the greater Pacific basin.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Arthritis

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am suffering from arthritis in my knees and legs so bad I can hardly get about. Please tell me the best food and medicine to take. I read in the paper that you can help those with arthritis. Please tell me the simple foods and cheapest, because I can't afford expensive foods. I'm 59, and weigh 248 pounds. — Mrs. T.

Arthritis, as much as any ailment I can think of, requires effort by both the doctor and the patient. So let me give you a brief little lecture.

You are oversimplifying your problem, yet at the same time overlooking one of the simplest and most obvious parts of it.

You have arthritis in the knees. In other words, the joints are painful, and especially painful when you put your weight on them.

Well, why not, when you are carrying around a burden of 145 extra pounds or so? That's the simple aspect you have overlooked. You weigh 248 instead of about half that, and it is putting double burden on those painful knees.

At 59, you've evidently long had the habit of eating more than you need, and it may not be easy to change your eating habits at that age. Still, you can do it if you set your mind to it. Every pound you lose will be that much help for your knees.

There are no special foods that will help arthritis. But your part of the treatment is just eating less.

As to medicine, a fair number are in use for arthritis, of which the familiar aspirin is the most widely used and, on the average, produces the best results. However, not everybody is average, so the other medications are used when they are found to give better results with a particular patient.

While I realize you have to keep your costs down, I still see no alternative to having physician guide you in the choice of medicine that suits your case. It is also of great importance, what kind of arthritis you have. While I could make a guess at what type your is — suppose I happen to guess wrong? A physician's decision, after examining you, is the best way to answer that question.

You or others concerned with arthritis, and the various types that exist, and how to keep it from disabling you, will find some worthwhile help in my booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis." It's available by mail. Send 35 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of Times-News.

The booklet isn't intended to be a substitute for whatever medical care is necessary, but it will help you understand the nature of arthritis, outline such things as you can do yourself and explain the type of treatment that will do the most good.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a diabetic, 69, and take insulin every day. I will be traveling in Europe. How important is it to keep insulin refrigerated? I am told this is a must. — F.R.

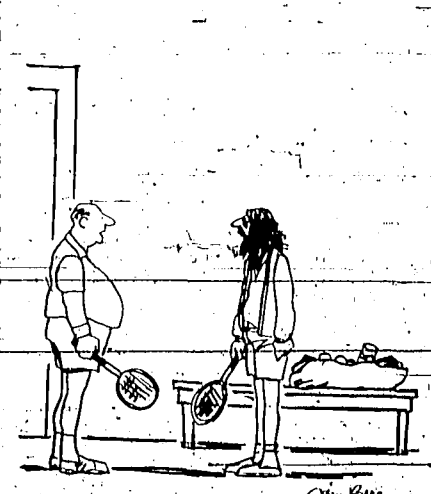

It keeps much better if refrigerated — or at least kept cool.

For short periods (a day or two), no appreciable deterioration occurs. For traveling, one good way is to chill a small, thermos bottle, then put the vial of insulin in it. Take care to keep insulin away from heat — never set it in direct sunlight, in the trunk or glove compartment of a car, or next to a heating unit of any kind.

But avoid freezing insulin.

Note to Mrs. J.R.C.: There is no reason to think that stomach ulcers caused brain tumors — just a remote, worrisome coincidence that you know of two people who had both.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I didn't think you people played tennis!"

Bean beetles hit northwest gardens

TWIN FALLS — Residents of the northwest part of Twin Falls are being asked to spray their gardens after 12 instances of Mexican bean beetle were reported in the area.

Don Youtz, Twin Falls County extension agent, said all the bean-damaging insects were found in the area north of Filer Avenue and between Harrison and Washington streets.

The infestation may be more widely spread, he said, and anyone in the city raising garden beans should check for the insects and immediately report findings to the county agent or Clyde Butcher, Twin Falls, state plant pathologist.

He said it is helpful if the persons suspecting bean beetles capture samples and take them to the pathologist's office, 434 Shoshone St. West, or to the county agent's office in the old hospital.

Butcher, inspecting gardens in the northwest part of the city, found the 12 insect locations last week and this week, Youtz said. This is the second year the bean beetle has appeared in this area.

Youtz said the beetle resembles the ladybug with orange wing cover and black spots, but is somewhat larger and always has eight spots on each wing or a total of 16 black spots.

Cooperation in helping control the small infestation is encouraged in view of the importance of the commercial bean industry to this area. Only twice have commercial fields in Twin Falls County had any bean beetle infestations.

In 1954 one season's infestation required a number of sprayings and special precautions and again about eight years ago some fields were found to contain the insects.

Never has a field infestation reappeared for a second year and control measures have been completely effective.

Youtz said the recommended control is a spray with Malathion insecticide which is available from any garden supply firm.

Larva of the bean beetle strips the leaves from the plant, leaving skeleton type remains.

Should infestations spread into commercial fields, Youtz said it would require two to three sprayings per year. At a cost of about $3 to $4 per acre each spraying, the cost in Twin Falls County to bean growers would represent hundreds of thousands of dollars a year for control.

Valley students honored

MOST VALUABLE student awards were presented by the Twin Falls Elks Lodge to Bonnie Allee, Twin Falls left, and Wesley Remmley, Kimberly, Thursday. Exalted Ruler Pete Slaver presented each with a $100 award from the lodge. Gene Sharp, chairman of the youth activities chairman, said they were picked from among 25 applicants. Remmley also received $150 after placing second in the Idaho competition and was awarded a $600 college scholarship by the National Elks Foundation.

Burley club installs

BURLEY — New officers were installed for Burley Soroptimist Club Wednesday during a Hawaiian Luau at Bryan's Cafe. Installed in a bell ceremony were Mrs. Edith Raustadt, president; Mrs. LePage Layton, vice president; Mrs. Harlow Cheney, recording secretary; Mrs. Joe Hinz, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Walter Povlsen, treasurer; Mrs. Hal Jolley and Mrs. Ernie Stephenson, both directors.

Mrs. Edythe Koontz, Twin Falls, Horky Mountain Soroptimist regional governor, was installing officer and presented each of the new officers with a bell. Each of the new officers also was presented with a fine carnation corsage from the Burley club.

Mrs. Glenn Bailey, retiring president, was presented the past president's pin by Mrs. W. Gay Jones, a past president.

Hansen attacks Demo platforms

TWIN FALLS — Attacking Democratic platforms, state and national Idaho Senate hopeful George Hansen said they have some "pithy planks," and "the whole thing will fall through."

In an interview Thursday, Hansen said this is not only true in Idaho but in the national Democratic platform.

Referring to the Idaho Democratic convention he said the platform is weak not only because of the "element" that took over the democratic platform in Sun Valley, but also because of a problem of fiscal matters out of the statehouse. Problems also stem from the relationship the person occupying the statehouse has with the state legislature, he said.

He made no comments on specific "pithy planks." When asked who would be his toughest opponent should he win the Republican nomination, Hansen declined to name one. "It's going to be a horse race between at least two of the candidates," he said.

The Republican candidate was making a swing through southern Idaho in his campaign for the Senate seat being vacated by Sen. Len Jordan.

Hansen said his "southern strategy" has given him a strong position for victory in the primary.

Idaho Guard head

skeptical of rule

By RANDY LE BLANC
BOISE (UPI) — The adjutant general of Idaho's National Guard says he is skeptical of a new Selective Service ruling that Army draftees now have the choice of joining Reserve units.

Maj. Gen. George Bennett said, "personally, I would rather see the Guard remain as a true volunteer force. But I guess I'll have to acquiesce to the active Army's whims. Since I'm sure this is another step in their move toward a zero draft for next year."

According to the ruling made Thursday, which takes effect July 1, draftees who accept service in the guard or reserve units will spend as little as four months on active duty, but then participate in monthly weekend drills and two week training periods for six years.

Bennett said, "I hope this new ruling works out well. But I think I'll hold final judgment for now. I'd hate to see draftavoiders join the Guard simply as a way out of an obligation."

The general said, "We've just begun to emerge from the draft dodging stigma of the last few years, and I'd hate to see us return to it."

More than a year ago, The National Guard and Reserves had waiting lists of well over 100,000 men as draft age young people tried to join standby units before they received notices that might send them to Vietnam.

But the waiting lists have disappeared entirely in the last year, forcing an all-out reserve recruitment effort in several states including Idaho.

Bennett said, "actually, we've been reasonably lucky. Our authorized strength is 3,300 men, and although we've experienced some depletion, it's been limited to only about 80 men."

The new regulations allow a man up to 20 days to find a guard or reserve unit that will accept him for a six-year enlistment.

"This new move should raise the guard's manpower total," Bennett said.

He added, "I feel sure this is a sign that the guard will never be phased out. It's been around for nearly 300 years already, and has certainly proved its worth."

Store changes hands

POCATELLO (UPI) — The landmark Fargo's Department Store in Pocatello has changed ownership, according to an announcement by J. Wayne Van Engelen, president of a 108-store chain in Ohio.

President of the Fargo-Wilson-Wells Co., L. Fargo Wells, of Los Angeles, said the purchase price would not be disclosed. The change will be effective Aug. 1.

Van Engelen, a native of Burley, said while his family operates other stores in Idaho, Fargo's will remain a separate entity.

Murphy addresses Idaho Cities meet

POCATELLO (UPI) — U.S. Gov. Jack Murphy, keynoting the Association of Idaho Cities Convention today, said that both local and state government appear to have more complex problems today than in years past.

He said, "many times in past years we have not attacked the problems such as pollution, transportation, city streets and law enforcement."

"Now that we are addressing ourselves to these problems and trying to solve them, it makes an image of more complexity," he said.

He referred to the revenue sharing bill now before congress and indicated that the states and counties would have to institute new accounting procedures in order to comply with the federal rules and regulations "that no doubt will be advanced if and when the bill becomes law."

Murphy urged the association and their national affiliate to put as much input into the rule making process as possible so that the fiscal administration of these funds would not create an undue burden on local units of government.

Most of Thursday's activity centered around pre-convention workshop meetings. A three-hour workshop session was held for city clerks and fiscal officers, and the association's nominating committee, policy and resolutions committee, board of directors and city airport managers conducted separate sessions.

Gem political action

Idaho Political Roundup by United Press International
Attorney General W. Anthony Park told Idaho Falls Senior Citizens Thursday that "we can never solve the problems of the aged until we reorder our priorities at home."

The Democratic U. S. Senate candidate said, "As a nation we have increased our Gross National Product to more than a trillion dollars, but the number of older Americans subsisting below the poverty line has now increased to more than $5 million."

Park also voiced approval with most of the recommendations of the White House Conference on Aging and with Sen. Frank Church's income supplement plan.

In St. Maries, Republican Senate hopeful Robert E. Smylie said he would support legislation providing for a 20 per cent hike in Social Security benefits.

The former governor also said one of the major problems of the Social Security system is that "too many programs other than retirement payments are being financed with funds collected for Social Security."

In Boise, Democratic U. S. Senate candidate Rose Bowman joined a group of women and children at the Borah Station Post Office Thursday to peacefully protest the war in Vietnam. She called on members of Congress to cut off all funds which perpetuate the war in Indo-China.

Republican congressional candidate Wayne Kidwell called on the governor Thursday to use the power of his office to stop the threatened closure of the Shoshone County Nursing Home in Silvertown.

In a telegram to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, the first district candidate said, "We call on you as governor of the state of Idaho to provide the leadership in convincing the federal funding agency concerned that closure of Silvertown would be inhuman as well as costing out on our avowed national policy of providing care for the aged."

He said the reason given for withdrawing federal support for the institution is the failure to immediately meet the standard guidelines laid down by the federal funding agency.

Another Republican candidate for First District congressman, Robert Purcell, told the Vista Lions in Boise people cannot afford to "have apathy toward government and the people in it."

He said some people have told him they don't care about government or politicians. He said, "apathy is the worst enemy of government. If the people don't care, government will run rampant."

In Bonner County Thursday, Byron Johnson, a Democratic Senate aspirant, said he is opposed to proposals providing for national hunting and fishing licenses to be used on federal lands.

The Boise attorney said, "federal licenses would allow out-of-state residents to invade Idaho's great wildlife and fish resources without contributing to the cost of management and replenishment."

Supreme court upholds ruling

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court affirmed a decision of the Fifth District Judge Charles Scoggins Thursday in which he modified a pre-existing decree of divorce by increasing child support payments.

Linda Dylstra and David L. Dylstra were married in 1961 and divorced in 1969. Three children were born to them.

The District Court at Gooding ordered that the child support payments previously ordered in the divorce decree should be raised when the mother produced evidence she was not able to support the children on the previous payments.

The supreme court affirmed the action of the trial court, stating that a "material, permanent and substantial change in conditions justified the action of the lower court."

The court also affirmed the lower court's action in awarding attorney's fees.

Airline initiates trial run

OGDEN (UPI) — Sun Valley Key Airlines will provide air service from Utah cities to Montpelier, Idaho, on a trial basis for two months beginning July 1.

Robert Soltys, spokesman for the commuter airline, said the service is being instituted because of demand from new industrial developments in the Idaho town. The route will include Salt Lake City, Ogden, Brigham City, Logan and Montpelier.

The carrier will fly twin-engine eight-passenger Piper Navajo airplanes on day flights only. The city has no lighted runway.

Inspectors of mines doubled

DENVER (UPI) — The U.S. Bureau of Mines has doubled its number of safety inspectors for metal mines since the Sunshine Mine fire that killed 91 persons, according to a bureau official.

Donald Schlick, the bureau's health and safety director, said Wednesday the inspectors soon would begin to study the interior of the Sunshine Mine at Kellogg, Idaho, to determine the fire's cause.

Schlick said a preliminary investigation indicated that there was a lack of emergency training among the miners before the fire.

Fire kills Boise man

BOISE (UPI) — Lawrence J. Hickey, 66, Boise, died at his home at 211 Ruby Street Thursday afternoon, apparently from a fire which broke out in his bedroom.

Ada County Deputy Coroner Steve Jablonski said Hickey, who lived alone, was pulled from his bedroom by neighbors who noticed the house was on fire.

An autopsy was ordered on the body to determine the exact cause of death. Jablonski said the fire may have been caused by a cigarette dropping on the man's bed.

Idahoans invest

BOISE (UPI) — Monthly statistics issued Thursday by the Treasury Department have credited Idahoans with investing $4.5 million in U. S. Series E-H savings bonds during the first five months of 1972.

MR. AND MRS. STUART MICHAEL DAVIES

Miss Pharris weds in Jerome ceremony

JEROME — Margaret Anne Pharris and Stuart Michael Davies were married in June 10 rites in the Jerome First Presbyterian Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. William L. Barrett before two beauty baskets of pink carnations, pink and white gladioli and daisies and candelabra accented with pink bows and greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Pharris, Jerome, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Davies, Caldwell.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of ivory chiffon styled with an empire waistline and accented with a bow at the back and smocking on the bodice.

The gown featured long sleeves and a gathered skirt and a ruffle at the neckline. Her fingertip veil, which belonged to her mother, was of two tiers of net edged with scalloped lace gathered to a small cap covered with ivory lace and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of carnations, roses, lilies of the Valley and baby's breath with greenery and ribbons.

Kristen Pharris, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Janet Meeks, Jerome, and Mrs. Michael Dingman, Caldwell.

Jay Chapman, Nampa, was best man. Ushers were Ron Hurry, Burley, and Michael Dingman, Caldwell, and Martin Davies, Caldwell, brother of the bridegroom.

The couple was honored at a garden reception following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The occasion was also the 28th wedding anniversary of the bride's parents and their friends Mr. and Mrs. Clair Hicketts, Jerome, Mrs. E. Adams, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. J. V. Ruebel served as hostesses for the reception.

The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth with a pink skirt and an embroidered nylon overskirt. The three-tiered cake was iced in white and trimmed with three nosegays of pink roses, pink and white carnations and cascading pink ribbons. Crystal candelabra holding pink candles were arranged on the table.

The bride's table was placed on the patio which was decorated with pots of pink and white geraniums and petunias. Guest tables on the lawn were centered with bouquets of peonies, roses, syringa and columbine, designed by Mrs. Ralph Peters.

Mrs. Larry Braga, Nampa, and Mrs. Don Gifford, Omaha, Neb., cut and served cake. Mrs. Glen Day, Caldwell, and Mary Burkhalter, Jerome, served beverages. Mrs. Larry Hohansen, Jerome, served ice cream balls from an ice bowl. Paula Remaley, Kimberly, assisted at the table.

Mary Davies, sister of the bridegroom, had charge of the guest book. Tricia Van Camp and Cindy Adams received gifts.

Special guests were Herman Schultz, grandfather of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. John Davies, Nampa, grandparents of the bridegroom. Other guests attended from Los Angeles and San Francisco, Calif.; Eau Claire, Wis.; Omaha, Neb.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Caldwell, Nampa, Boise, Idaho Falls, Hailey, Twin Falls, Buhl and Hazelton.

A luncheon and shower were given by Mrs. L. V. Ruebel, Mrs. Ralph Peters and Mrs. John Steele. A barbecue was hosted by Mrs. Glen Day, Caldwell, for college friends and a salad buffet and shower was given by Mrs. Jack Adams, Jerome.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at the Turf Club, Twin Falls.

Following a wedding trip to Sun Valley and Redfish Lake the couple will live at 2120 S. Ohio, Caldwell. Both are 1972 graduates of the College of Idaho where the bride was affiliated with Delta Phi Omega sorority and the bridegroom was affiliated with Lambda Zeta fraternity.

MR. AND MRS. MARK STORY

June nuptials unite Miss Bixler, Story

TWIN FALLS — A garden wedding united Shana Kaye Bixler and Mark Scott Story in matrimony June 10th at the home of the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde N. Rosa.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Bixler, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of T. Sgt. and Mrs. K. W. Story, Vandenberg Air Force Base, Lampaca, Calif.

Rev. Leslie Brown of the Valley Christian Church officiated at the double-ring ceremony, at a garden altar flanked by matching white columns supporting circles of pink peonies and lilac iris and centered by three candles in shades of pink.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of lilac polyester seersucker. The gown, fashioned and made by the bride, featured a high rolled collar, short sleeves and empire waistline accented by a deep lilac narrow satin sash and front streamers.

Her headpiece was a halo of silver and lilac straw flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and white roses fashioned in a French Colonial nosegay.

Terry Bixler, Twin Falls, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Kenneth N. Story, Lampaca, Calif., brother of the bridegroom, served as ringbearer. Don McNitt, Twin Falls, was best man.

Susan Bixler, sister of the bride, and Kristine Story, sister of the bridegroom, were in charge of the guest book.

Kimberly Story, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. John Senecal, cousins of the bridegroom, sang "My Own True Love."

Traditional wedding music was taped and amplified through the garden.

At a reception following the ceremony, the bride's table, placed in front of a white lattice arbor, was covered with eucalyptus and deep pink.

The three-tiered wedding cake was flanked by green vases of pink peonies and lilac iris.

Presiding at the refreshment table was Mrs. LeRoy Lancaster, aunt of the bride. Jeanne Lancaster and Kimberly Story served punch.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to Twin Falls. They will live in Filer. The bride is employed at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and the bridegroom at Sam's Pancake House. They will continue their education this fall at College of Southern Idaho.

The bride was honored at a food and flowers shower, by Mrs. LeRoy Lancaster and Judy Potter.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and have an 8-month-old girl. My husband's mother lives 90 miles from here and my husband is the only son she has left. (She lost a 19-year-old son in Viet Nam three years ago.) She has one daughter, 17, who is dying of leukemia. Abby, this woman is so brave and wonderful. With all her trouble she never complains.

Well, my husband and I decided to drive up to be with his mother on Mother's Day, but first we stopped off at my mother's so I could give her a Mother's Day present. We found her sulking like a child, and you should have heard her carry on. She said she was hurt that I chose to spend Mother's Day with my mother in law instead of with my own mother. Abby, my mother has three other children (all healthy and living nearby) and she had been invited to spend Mother's Day with them, but she stayed home instead, and told them all that I gave her a migraine headache. Now she's barely speaking to me. She says she could have forgiven me if it had been any day besides Mother's Day. Was I wrong?

HEARTSICK

DEAR HEARTSICK: No! Under the circumstances I think you did the right thing, and unless your mother isn't playing with a full deck, she knows it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 years old and have a 5-month-old baby, which makes me a mother, right? Well, as a mother I think I should be honored on Mother's Day, don't you? My mother doesn't seem to think so. She wants all her children to honor her, regardless.

Since this is my first Mother's Day as a mother, my husband planned to take me out for dinner. He bought me an orchid and everything. My neighbor said she'd watch my baby if I brought him over. Then my mother called and blubbered into the phone. "You mean you aren't spending Mother's Day with ME?"

When I told her of our plans, she said, "You have the rest of your life to spend Mother's Day with your husband. Who knows how many years you'll live with him?" (Mother is 58 and in good health.) So I went to my mother's and had a miserable time. Never again! Should I have gone?

REGRETS

DEAR REGRETS: You should have done what you wanted to do. But once having made the decision, you should have put a smile on your face and tried to have a good time.

DEAR ABBY: My mother in law is a widow, but she is only 30 and she still likes a good time. Well, she told me that on Mother's Day she would keep my 5-month-old baby so my husband and I could go to my mother's who was making a big dinner, and having a houseful and I took my baby with me. I wouldn't be able to help her.

Well, I later found out that at the last minute some man called my mother in law to go dancing. So she put my baby in a basket and took him to the dance. Imagine, Abby, a 5-month-old baby in a dirty, smoky hall with all that noise and a bunch of strange people breathing all kinds of germs into the air.

You don't have to answer this. I just wanted to get it off my chest.

FEELS BETTER

DEAR ABBY: For Mother's Day I received a lovely card signed, "Todd, Jennifer and Laurie" who are my grandchildren, ages 5, 3, and 14 months old. Their mother (my daughter) didn't remember me, however, and I was very hurt.

Please don't misunderstand, Abby. I love my grandchildren very much, but they are NOT my children, and even though I am a proud grandmother, I am no less a mother.

I realize that my daughter bought the card which read, "To Granny on Mother's Day," and she signed her children's names, but it wasn't the same as receiving a sentimental Mother's Day remembrance from my daughter. I would like your opinion.

SENTIMENTAL

DEAR SENTIMENTAL: Your daughter probably feels that the best gift she's ever given you are your grandchildren. And she is reminding you of it. I'd say you were "remembered," but you'd have preferred a sentimental remembrance from your daughter, which is understandable.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Banker speaks

Retail sales up in TF

BY O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Editor, Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Retail sales in Twin Falls County are especially strong up more than 15 per cent over 1971.

Thomas Frye, Boise, president of the Idaho First National Bank, told a group of business men Thursday noon he is optimistic about the economy of Idaho during the balance of this year and expects good improvement in 1973 although the "foreign situation" and the national budget tend to form "a dark cloud."

The bank official spoke at a luncheon at the Holiday Inn. He concluded a special meeting of the institution's board members—the second time the bank board had met outside Boise since it was established 105 years ago.

In predicting the future of the economy of the state, Frye said:

(1) The state's economy will show a "nice growth" over the 1971 figure before the year is out.

(2) Growth in Idaho will be steadily and consistently

(3) The population and economic growth in the entire state is in an accelerated pace at the present time.

(4) Agriculture started slow but is now coming along well.

(5) The livestock situation is still bright.

(6) Retail sales are good over the state but better than any place right in Twin Falls County.

(7) Mining has been suffering from lower prices.

(8) The phosphate industry is now improving following a slump.

(9) Production in potato processing is setting a record.

Frye said it was two years ago the Idaho First merged with the Fidelity National Bank and announced start of three construction projects for the bank two in Twin Falls and one in Filer.

He said the board during the meeting here approved preliminary plans for a new bank building on Blue Lakes Boulevard-North opposite the shopping center, with start of construction set for Sept. 1 at a cost of $250,000-excluding-land costs.

He also said construction of a new building in Filer, at the corner of Highway 20 and the Fairgrounds Road, is also slated for a September start, also at a cost of about $250,000 plus the land costs.

He said construction of a new drive-in facility on Shoshone Street East at the rear of the main downtown Idaho First building is in progress at a cost of $150,000 above land costs.

This drive-in, he said will feature "television tellers" with all transactions practically automatic.

The president said Idaho First is now 128th in size among the nation's 14,000 banks, has an annual payroll of $10 million of which one half million is in Twin Falls County, plus another like amount paid in account-interest and dividend payments to stockholders. Of the stock 85 per cent is owned by Idaho residents. There are 1,300 full time employees of the institution.

The board members arrived in Twin Falls Wednesday after a charter bus drive from Boise and inspection of various areas between there and Twin Falls. They inspected facilities here Thursday afternoon before returning to the capital city.

Snake in back

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Darwin Vests, Idaho Falls, is recovering at a local hospital from a bizarre snake bite.

A snake trainer, he had an African Cobra and a rattlesnake in a bag on the back seat of his car when he was bitten by the cobra at Rigby. He is reported in good condition.

Court reverses Georgia case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled 6 to 3 Thursday that a white defendant has the same right as a black or any other minority person to challenge conviction or indictment by juries chosen in a discriminatory manner.

The court reversed the Georgia burglary conviction of Dean Rene Peters, a white man who complained that blacks were systematically excluded from the county grand jury that indicted him and from the jury that convicted him.

Justice Thurgood Marshall, the court's only black member, wrote the opinion holding that a state cannot subject a defendant to indictment or trial by juries chosen in an arbitrary and discriminatory manner. He was joined by Justices William O. Douglas and Potter Stewart.

Justice Byron R. White concurred but on grounds that the U. S. criminal code since 1875 has banned the disqualification of any citizen "on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude" from serving on grand or petit juries. He was joined in his legal view by Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Lewis F. Powell Jr.

Whatever his race, a criminal defendant has standing to challenge the system used to select his grand or petit jury, on the ground that it arbitrarily excludes from service—the members of any race, and thereby denies him due process of law," Marshall wrote.

Peters was indicted June 6, 1966, by a Muscogee County grand jury for burglary and was tried and convicted. The Georgia Court of Appeals reversed and remanded the case for a new trial at which he was again convicted and sentenced to 10 years.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, joined by Justices Harry A. Blackmun and William H. Rehnquist—all appointees of President Nixon—dissented, contending that the question of excluding anyone from juries on account of race was not the issue in the case.

"The real issue is whether such illegality necessarily voids a criminal conviction absent any demonstration of prejudice, or basis for presuming prejudice, to the accused," Burger said.

Pilot advisers now in Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI)—U. S. pilot advisers are flying combat missions in South Vietnamese Air Force fighter-bombers almost daily, U. S. military spokesmen said today.

The spokesmen said Americans fly A1E Skyraider bombers and A37 Dragonfly jets in formations with South Vietnamese pilots.

They did not say whether the U. S. pilots also fly the F5 Freedom Fighter jet fighters or South Vietnamese Air Force helicopter gunships.

The disclosure that American pilots are flying Vietnamese warplanes recalled the early 1960s, when U. S. officers flew in aircraft with South Vietnamese government markings as a subterfuge.

After the late President John F. Kennedy authorized U. S. forces to take direct part in combat operations in 1962, U. S. fliers still continued to bomb from South Vietnamese Air Force planes until the first U. S. Air Force pilots arrived in Vietnam three years later.

Spokesmen for the U. S. command denied today that there was any "return to the bad old days."

They said they did not know when the "advisers" began flying combat missions, but said, "It's been going on for some time."

"I guess it will be going on so long as we have advisers with the VNAF," said one officer.

Bombing missions by the South Vietnamese Air Force are normally conducted by flights of two warplanes each.

A spokesman described the mission of the Americans on such flights as similar to U. S. advisers to government ground troops.

McGovern can keep delegates

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Declaring that losers cannot change the rules after they've played the game, a federal judge ruled Thursday that Sen. George McGovern can keep all 271 delegate votes he won in California's primary.

An attorney for four defeated presidential candidates, including Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, said he will appeal the decision on grounds the winner-take-all system violates the "equal protection" clause of the 14th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

"The plaintiffs appear to have gone along with the present system until they lost," said U.S. District Court Judge Philip C. Wilkins.

"And their delay until the last out of the ninth inning is a late-date to complain about the rules of the game, in the view of this court."

He also said, "in a democratic society the majority must rule."

Rep. Cellar ahead of times, but still loses

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Elizabeth Holtzman, 30, contended that Emanuel Cellar, 84, wasn't attuned to the times. His close associates in the House agreed. They said he usually was ahead of the times.

Mournfully today they ticked off the record.

As chairman of the Judiciary Committee for 21 years Manny Cellar did most of the writing and much of the pushing to get through Congress civil rights laws that the country had to swallow hard to accept.

He sponsored antitrust, court reform, civil liberties, gun control and other legislation considered advanced or progressive. He authored four amendments to the Constitution, including the ban on poll taxes.

He did, alas, oppose a fifth constitutional amendment (still pending in state legislatures) to guarantee equal rights for women. And Elizabeth Holtzman said this showed he not only was old but a sexist. So she went against him, and won.

Knowing now what he did not know before Tuesday's New York primary election, Cellar wishes he had taken Miss Holtzman more seriously. Maybe he would have gotten out and campaigned like he did a couple of decades ago before he started taking his re-election for granted.

But he wouldn't have changed his stand on the equal rights amendment. He said at the time the Constitution already carried plenty of guarantees against sex discrimination. Enforcement was needed, not an amendment, he said.

Having won the Democratic nomination in Cellar's Brooklyn district, Miss Holtzman presumably will succeed him in Congress next year. She won't be chairman of the Judiciary Committee, of course.

And she will have a hard time replacing Manny Cellar in the affection and respect of returning House members. Almost all the members like Cellar, even those who oppose his ideas and battle his bills.

Cellar took his House seat on March 4, 1923, six years before broken soon.

Cellar worked his way up the seniority ladder to become chairman of Judiciary in 1949. Except for two years of Republican control of the House, he has held the post ever since.

There is indisputable truth in what Miss Holtzman said about Cellar's age. He was born May 6, 1888, and anyway you count it that makes him now 84. Even Cellar recently has acknowledged that his years are beginning to show.

When challenged on a historical point the other day he admitted to the House he might have erred.

"A man is said to lose two things when he gets old," Cellar

Total of smokers declines

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There were more heavy smokers among Americans in 1970 than in 1965, but the total number of smokers has continued to decline, according to a government report issued today.

Basing its conclusions on information gathered from interviews in 37,000 households during 1970, the National Center for Health Statistics also concluded that men continue to show greater interest than women in kicking the habit.

The report said that in 1970 an estimated 48.8 million persons, 17 and older were puffing anywhere from one to 50 or more cigarettes a day. In 1965, an estimated 50.7 million persons were cigarette smokers.

An estimated 23.9 million persons were considered former cigarette smokers in 1970, the latest year available.

But the most unusual statistic showed the increasing proportions of both men and women smokers who smoke 25 or more cigarettes a day.

For example, 23.7 per cent of the male smokers in 1965 were 25 or more a day smokers but in 1970 the percentage had increased to 26.2. For women, it was the same story—heavy smokers increasing from 13.5 per cent of all women smokers in 1965 to 17.6 per cent in 1970.

Dodd had pistol in Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The late Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., carried a pistol in his pocket to the Senate floor when he was censured, according to syndicated columnist Jack Anderson.

"Those who knew about the pistol feared the despondent Dodd might try to end his humiliation with a pistol shot, thereby turning the drama into Roman tragedy in front of the assembled senators," Anderson reported in columns published Thursday.

Dodd was censured June 23, 1967 for spending campaign contributions on personal debts.

Blaine urged to join airport

By TERRY CAMPBELL, Times-News Writer

SUN VALLEY — Blaine County participation in the Regional Airport Authority was urged Thursday.

Toward an initiative election Aug. 8, reviving the airport issue in the county, members of the Regional Airport Authority were invited to a Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce meeting to discuss the proposed facility.

Frank Titus, Jerome, authority trustee, told the group that without Blaine and Twin Falls counties "we can't under any circumstances go ahead with the project."

A "broad base" of support, in the proportionate amount of each county's usage, was required to make the project feasible, Titus said.

On Oct. 26, 1971, voters in Blaine, Twin Falls and Camas counties turned down a proposal to establish a regional airport authority. However, the authority was established in Gooding, Jerome, Lincoln, Minidoka and Cassia counties.

At the time, about 280 Blaine voters favored the move and about 400 were opposed.

George Forscher, Blaine, authority chairman, said Thursday that tourism, air freight and farmers in all counties would benefit from a regional facility.

"I hope you will all be part of a great undertaking," Forscher said. "We will not build an airport tomorrow, but if we don't plan now, I don't know what we will have down the road," he said.

State Rep. E. V. McHan, Ketchum, said the "whole meat of the question" was what it would cost to build an airport. He said the main reason the proposal was defeated was because the public "did not have the facts."

Forscher said costs will not be determined until an engineering and site selection study is completed. At that time, the authority will go to the voters, who will have the opportunity to approve or disapprove continuing the project.

However, Titus, said law limits assessment for maintenance and operation at one cent. Construction assessment must not exceed two per cent.

Forscher said Blaine could join the authority this year at no cost. Based on the authority's current budget of $36,000, future participation would cost a cattle ranch owner, with a property evaluation of about $50,000, about $1.21 per year to support the authority, with about 83 cents per year assessed on a $33,000 Sun Valley horse, he said.

McClure visits Rupert

RUPERT — Idaho Rep. James McClure, an announced senatorial candidate, will visit the Rupert area today.

McClure will attend an evening public meeting sponsored by the Minidoka County Teen-Age Republicans at Minico High School, beginning at 8 p.m. The meeting will be held either in the school auditorium or the English building, depending on the size of the crowd.

He is expected to discuss "Youth and the Republican Party." A question-and-answer session will follow. All area youth, as well as all voters, are invited.

Hagerman bank opening set

HAGERMAN — Grand opening of the new Hagerman branch building of the Idaho State Bank will be held Saturday.

Located across from the Prince Memorial Gymnasium on the corner of State and Reed streets, the new white building of scored cinder block has a dark brown Mansard roof. It has a drive-in window, night depositary and at the present time has 40 safety deposit boxes with more on order.

Norman Hansen, manager, said.

Contractor for the building was Jensen Construction Co., Burley. Mostly local labor was used in the project.

The interior of the building is decorated in black, red and gold in a modified Mediterranean decor. Mary Jensen, Glens Ferry, was decorator. The building was finished late in May and opened for business May 26. Prior to that the banking firm did business from the Cady Auto Co. Building owned by Marion Pugmire.

In addition to Hansen, the firm will employ three local women, Mrs. Sylvan (Georgia) Clark, note teller; Mrs. Patricia Wilson, bookkeeper; and Mrs. Charles (Barbara) Boluc, teller.

Lloyd Jensen, Glens Ferry, is bank president, and Mary Jensen is chairman of the board.

Pioneer Days July 22

HAGERMAN — The Pioneer Days celebration will be Saturday, July 22, not July 21, as reported in the Times-News Thursday.

New rails laid in Shoshone, Gooding

SHOSHONE — New quarter-mile long sections of welded rail being laid by Union Pacific crews here will provide a better ride.

But about the only people who will know are train crews.

The road-discontinued passenger service almost 14 months ago.

The continuous welded rail will replace worn out track on a 20-mile segment of the UP main line. A crew of about 100 Indian workers putting down the new track is now about seven miles west of Shoshone.

The rails have been shipped from a plant at Laramie, Wyo., in five train loads. The long rails are placed on strings of flat cars for shipment, then are unloaded at the worksite. They replace rails 300 feet long.

The new rails will reduce maintenance costs and provide smoother, quieter riding conditions, according to UP officials.

Similar continuous welded rail has been laid near Soda Springs, between American Falls and Pocatello, near Minidoka and in the Bliss area.

In this area, the work has been carried out between Gooding and Shoshone.

Present rails are taken up as the new rail is laid.

150 expected at Burley meet

BURLEY — About 100 to 150 delegates and party members are expected to attend the state convention of the American Party on Saturday at the Ramada Inn.

Mrs. Wayne Belnap, Rupert, state committeewoman for the American Party, formerly the American Independent Party, said John Steinbacher, a noted author and lecturer, will be the featured speaker during the evening banquet.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. with delegates to be seated by 10, Mrs. Belnap said. Resolutions now being prepared by a platform committee headed by John Theibert, Twin Falls, will be voted on during an afternoon session.

Delegates will caucus during the noon luncheon.

Other business will include voting on new officers. Nominations will be presented by Lyle Blanchard, St. Anthony, and his nominating committee.

Richard B. Kay, Cincinnati, Ohio, the American Party presidential candidate, is expected to attend the convention, Mrs. Belnap said.

Tickets for the banquet may be obtained from Mrs. Belnap and Mrs. Joyce Carnahan, Burley, co-chairman of the convention.

Steinbacher, the banquet speaker, has lectured extensively on college campuses and for service clubs over a wide area. He has also taught mentally retarded youngsters, as a psychology major, at the junior-high level for four years.

As an Orange County, Calif., newsman, Steinbacher has interviewed many of the members of President Nixon's cabinet. The "Summer White House" is located near his community of Orange, Calif.

Girl, 14, hurt at Ketchum

KETCHUM — A California girl has been released from the Sun Valley Hospital after receiving a concussion in a horseback riding accident Wednesday afternoon.

The girl was identified as Laura Marczak, 14, Montebello.

According to a Blaine County sheriff's deputy, Miss Marczak was riding a horse on a flat area off U.S. Highway 93, about one and one-half miles north of Ketchum, at about 12:45 p.m.

Witnesses told the officer that the horse was galloping slowly when Miss Marczak "seemed to lose control" of the animal and fell off, striking her head. She was taken to the Sun Valley facility by ambulance.

No uniforms

RUPERT — The new uniforms for the Minico High marching band will not be available in time for the gala Fourth of July celebration after all.

The Minico Band Boosters have worked throughout the spring and early summer to raise funds for the new uniforms, with the hope that they could be displayed for the first time during the Fourth of July events.

Band instructor Keith Farris said Thursday that the supplier cannot deliver the uniforms until late August, due to an influx of orders.

The band will wear red shirts and jeans during the July 4 parade, Farris said, as well as during other Fourth of July events.

Health Fair at GF slated next week

GLENN'S FERRY — Plans are now nearly complete for the Health Fair to be held in Glens Ferry Monday through Thursday.

Nineteen volunteers will be on duty at all times during the clinic to assist the staff of doctors, nurses and therapists. This is a family fair with all members included in the various health aids.

The fair will be held in the elementary school building from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday; from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday; from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Friday the 30th.

On Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. there will be classes on "How to make something from almost nothing."

Height, weight, blood pressure, dental health, family planning guidance, pre-school physicals, hearing, speech, urine screening and blood screening for anemia are on the list. Only a selected group will be given blood tests.

There will be inspections of eating and drinking establishments and of public bathing and swimming facilities; an accident prevention program; classes on nutrition and sewing, and arrangements have been made for Pap tests to be given.

There will be social workers, home economists and environmental specialists. Pregnancy tests will also be given. T.B. tests and immunizations will be given.

Alvin Joslyn is chairman and he has had a crew of dedicated workers working with him. He hopes the public will take advantage of this fine opportunity for medical check-ups, free to the public.

It has a drive-in window, night depositary and at the present time has 40 safety deposit boxes with more on order.

Norman Hansen, manager, said.

Contractor for the building was Jensen Construction Co., Burley. Mostly local labor was used in the project.

The interior of the building is decorated in black, red and gold in a modified Mediterranean decor. Mary Jensen, Glens Ferry, was decorator. The building was finished late in May and opened for business May 26. Prior to that the banking firm did business from the Cady Auto Co. Building owned by Marion Pugmire.

In addition to Hansen, the firm will employ three local women, Mrs. Sylvan (Georgia) Clark, note teller; Mrs. Patricia Wilson, bookkeeper; and Mrs. Charles (Barbara) Boluc, teller.

Lloyd Jensen, Glens Ferry, is bank president, and Mary Jensen is chairman of the board.

Girls' State governor for 1973

KAROLE GREENAWALT, Gooding, will preside over the 1973 session of Syringa Girls' State. Miss Greenawalt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Greenawalt, was elected governor of Girls' State Wednesday. She ran on the Nationalist ticket and was one of several Magic Valley girls elected to offices.

HAILEY — Preparations for July's "Days of the Old West" celebration are in progress. Saturday, a caravan carrying can can girls and cowboys will sell advance buttons to the celebration barbecue. The cars will depart Bellevue for Fairfield about 8 a.m. and travel to all Magic Valley cities.

Sunday, an all-day work session at the rodeo grounds has been scheduled. New metal chutes and corals purchased for $1,900 by the Sawtooth Rangers riding club and the Days of the Old West committee will be installed. The day will also feature a potluck dinner.

Applications are also being taken for rodeo queen contestants and sponsors. The competition is open to all Idaho girls who are 18 years old or older and unmarried. Horse-ownership will count as 50 per cent, with personality and appearance each counting as 25 per cent.

The Days of the Old West will sponsor the winner to the Miss Rodeo Idaho contest.

Current contestants include LaDeane Stocking, Carey Marilyn Stapleton, Hailey, and Vicki McKittrick, Bellevue.

Prospective contestants and sponsors may contact Mrs. Jan Sahl, Hailey.

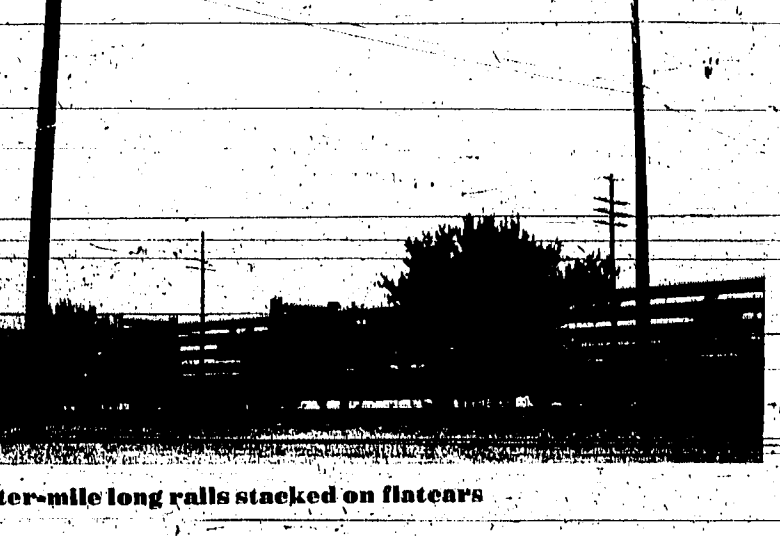

Fire at Hailey landfill

HAILEY — An unauthorized fire burned down the length of a trash pit at Ohio Gulch landfill north of Hailey Thursday night.

Strong winds caused the fire to cross an adjacent roadway and burn a row of stacked dry sagebrush. However, west winds blew across the main fire toward a gravelled area preventing it from spreading to sagebrush on the west side of the pit. A garbage pit was far enough removed so that it was not affected.

By late evening, the fire had burned itself out.

According to Blaine County Commissioner Jack Bennett, only four controlled burns a year are allowed at the landfill. He said the unauthorized fire, and recent similar fires, are considered acts of vandalism. He requested the public to bury signs at the site and not burn.

Astros regain first with win

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Cesar Cedeno and Doug Rader hit homers, the latter's coming with two aboard to cap a six-run third inning, as the Houston Astros regained first place in the National League West Thursday night by thumping the Cincinnati Reds 9-5.

The homers were two of 11 hits the Astros pounded off four Reds pitchers while tagging Wayne Simpson with his second loss in six decisions.

George Culver picked up the victory, his second against no defeats, restricting the Reds to two runs during a 5-2-3 innings relief stint while striking out seven and walking three.

The Astros bunched singles by Roger Metzger and Cedeno, the first of his four hits, with a double by Bob Watson for two runs in the first inning.

Rader's homer, his 11th of the season, was one of four hits the Astros bunched with a walk and a Red error during their six-run third inning which gave the Astros an 8-3 lead.

Dave Roberts started for the Astros but gave way after yielding a run in the first inning and then being nicked for two more in the third.

Ali, Louis clown for cameras

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Muhammad Ali and former champion Joe Louis clowned around briefly together Thursday during a session for photographers at Ali's training camp.

Following a six-round sparring session with three opponents, Ali, who faces Jerry Quarry in a rematch June 27, invited the 56-year-old Louis into the ring for pictures.

"Now I'm going to shoot my jab, Joe," Ali told the former champion. "What are you going to do?"

Louis slowly raised his fist, feinted in a slow motion with a left then leaned over and patted Ali on the backside with his right. Ali never moved a muscle.

Joe Louis was the greatest of his day," Ali told the crowd of 1,000 who watched his sparring session. "In the greatest today, Joe has always been my idol."

Ali sparred two rounds each with Los Angeles light heavyweights Eddie Jones and Lonnie Bennett of Los Angeles and heavyweight Daniel Lee of Ali's old hometown, Louisville, Ky.

Ali's opponent for next Tuesday's fight, Jerry Quarry, took the day off from sparring.

1972 football season opens Saturday night

LIMBROCK, Tex. (UPI)—The 1972 football season opens Saturday night with one of those all-star games that somehow didn't get played last December. This one is the 12th annual contest sponsored by the American Football Coaches Association, and opens a season that ends seven months and 300 miles away in Dallas with the Pro Bowl Game. Kickoff is set for 8:30 p.m. EDT at Jones Stadium on the campus of Texas Tech University. A capacity crowd of 44,000 is expected, and the game will be nationally televised. Most of the big-name talent is loaded onto the West squad coached by Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma. Fairbanks will have the quarterbacks of last season's top two teams, Jerry Tugge of national champion Nebraska and Jack Mildren of Oklahoma. The East, under Alabama's Bear Bryant, will answer with quarterbacks Paul Miller of North Carolina, who was not even picked in the pro draft, and little-known Joe Ciftlik of Tennessee State. Since most of the talent is "rain oriented," Bryant figures this game, which has been decided by seven points or less the past three years, will be different from most all-star games. "I think this game will have much more running than the want game in this sort," said Bryant, "because both teams have so many good runners. I'm not saying we're not going to pass. But what you are not going to see probably is one team throwing three times and then kicking."

Rebellion against male domination hits Jews

United Press International Rumbles of rebellion against male domination, going on for some time in Protestant and Catholic churches, are beginning to be heard also in Jewish congregations.

Like their Christian sisters, Jewish women have traditionally been relegated to housekeeping — rather than leadership roles — in religious organizations. The second class citizenship which they resent is symbolized by the tiny proportion of women admitted to ordination.

In the entire history of Judaism to date, there has been only one woman rabbi. She was a German woman named Regina Jonas, who died in a Nazi concentration camp.

The liberal or Reform branch of Judaism adopted a rule way back in 1922 authorizing ordination of women. But it is just not getting around to actually ordaining two women — Rabbis Sally Priesand and Sandy Sasso.

Ms. Sasso shook up the prestigious American Jewish Committee recently, with a speech in New York giving chapter and verse on the history of male chauvinism in Judaism. A wife was the chattel of her husband — legally on the same footing as his sheep and other property. Her husband was obligated to support her as long as he kept her, but he could get rid of her with a minimum of red tape, simply by giving her a written declaration of divorce. However, a woman could not divorce her husband in this manner.

Of course, all that was a long time ago. But Rabbi Sasso says the aroma lingers on. Even today, she notes, in a Jewish marriage ceremony, the bridegroom tells the bride: "Behold you are separated for me with this ring." But nothing is said about his being separated for her.
