

Careening auto plows into Burley band ranks

BY GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Writer

BURLEY—A car driven by an allegedly intoxicated student careened into the Burley High School Band Monday night, injuring 17 players, one critically.

A car driven by Milo Hatt, 17, Burley, skidded over 300 feet into the rear of the 80-member group consisting of band and high school Stepperette members as they practiced in a Burley street at about 10 p.m.

The car careened through all 14 ranks of the band players who had just been ordered to stand motionless. Students and instruments were thrown into the air by the impact.

The only warning was the honking horn of the speeding car, which to some band members sounded like a "siren." Most band members obeyed the command and didn't turn to look as the car struck from the rear.

Before striking the students, the car skidded around the vehicle stationed behind the band on the street as a protective barrier, according to Band Director Michael Chesley.

He said the car skidded 365 feet before striking the students.

Hatt was charged with driving while intoxicated and reckless driving.

Today Hatt entered a plea of not guilty to both charges before Judge Gleason Anderson in magistrate court.

Hatt requested the services of Herman Bedke, public defender, who appeared with him. The court appointed Bedke to represent Hatt.

Hatt was released on $100 bond.

Police said today they were waiting to determine the extent of injuries before filing possible additional charges.

Seventeen students were taken to Cassia Memorial Hospital. Among those, Debbie Flowers, 17, remained in critical condition today.

Four others were listed in good condition today at the hospital. They were Steven Woolstenhulme, 17; Don Letroy Black, 15; Mike Brown, 14; and Deanna Winks, 16.

Students treated and released from the hospital were Ruben Saldana, 16; Sharon Green, 18; Jeff Broadhead, 16; Connie Beason, 16; Richard Wolf, 18; Robin Holyoak, 17; Shauna Croft, 17; Janine Wood, 16; Julia Stephenson, 17; Barry Burbank, 16; Denise Olson, 15; and Janet Heiss, 16.

The driver of the car and a passenger, Judy

Reeder, 17, Burley, were not injured.

The Hatt car sustained about $200 in damages. As the victims were rushed to the hospital, additional hospital personnel were called back to work. All off-duty policemen were called to duty for the emergency. The hospital switchboard was loaded with calls from anxious relatives.

Before the mishap, the band and members of the Burley Stepperettes had been marching east along 23rd Street toward Burton Avenue.

The members were practicing for their planned trip to play at the Calgary Stampede in Alberta, Canada.

Hatt could not be reached for comment.

Burley police said they were continuing investigation of the accident this morning and said many details were yet to be tied down.

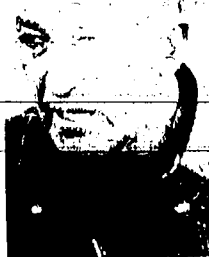

Officers said they were not even certain as to the total number of the injured, pending further interviews with persons involved.

Officers were still checking statistics at the accident scene today and had not completed the official report.

Chief of Police Ken Barry said, "We are still pretty much in the dark until the investigation is completed."

'Groundhog'

LOOKING AT SPOT where relative, Lowell Elliott, found what is believed to be about $500,000 in airline hijack ransom is Mike Hopkins, Peru, Ind. Elliott, right, found money in pouch in spybean field Monday. Weapon thought carried by hijacker was found about three miles away in another field, lending support to theory that hijacker was killed in parachuting from American Airlines 727 Friday night. FBI agents said money was almost all in pouch. Hunt for hijacker continued today. Elliott said he first thought pouch was a groundhog in the field. (UPI)

Firm discipline yields, band member turns...

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News writer

BURLEY—Band discipline prevented members of the Burley High School band from looking as the skidding car approached from the rear.

According to band members, drum major John Ham had given the band the command "break ranks," a maneuver in which band members stand at ease in preparation for the next marching step.

Once the command was given, band discipline kept members from turning around as the honking car approached from the band's rear.

One student did turn around: Ruben Saldana was standing inside his sousaphone at the rear of the band when he heard "something like a siren coming" — the sound of the approaching car's horn.

He turned just as the car struck the band. As he turned, his large sousaphone cushioned the car's impact.

It looked like this in ranks

Saldana, who received minor leg injuries, said several band players were knocked out of their shoes.

"It was horrifying like a nightmare, but when you woke up it was real. A lot of instruments were broken and mutilated. Drumsticks on the lawn."

Another injured student, flutist Connie Beason, suffered a broken collar bone in the crash.

"I think most of us had had dreams about something like that happening," she said. "This seemed like a dream until we got to the hospital."

"I remember riding in the ambulance. Somebody asked if anybody was dead and I told them to shut up."

"I'm one of the lucky ones," she said.

Trip off

BURLEY—The Calgary trip, for which Burley High School band members had planned and saved many months, has been canceled.

Michael V. Chesley, band director, said today that at least eight injured students would be unable to make the trip to Canada. With less than two weeks until the trip to the Calgary, Alberta, Stampede, he said, "there is little use to plan for the trip."

Chesley said at least 15 band instruments were damaged.

Two new fiberglass sousaphones worth $1,500 each were destroyed, he said. Estimates of total damage had not been made at noon today.

Pound sterling slumps on mart

LONDON (UPI)—The British pound sterling slumped to $2.4800 today when the London foreign exchange markets reopened, an effective devaluation of 4.6 per cent since the pound was allowed to seek its own level last Friday. The dollar improved slightly but was still low.

There have been widespread predictions the pound will sink to $2.40 from its former $2.6057 exchange rate—the same price it reached before the dollar was devalued earlier in the year in a major monetary upheaval.

Britain took the emergency step because a Common Market agreement to keep currency fluctuations within a 2.5 per cent range was cutting deep into its gold and hard currency reserves. The $2.60 rate for the pound also was raising British export prices, hurting business and contributing to inflation.

Kennedy supports gun control bid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who lost two brothers to guns, said today Congress should "declare death by gunfire an epidemic."

"We need no research to seek a cure for death by gunfire," Kennedy testified at a House Judiciary subcommittee hearing.

"The cause of gun deaths is clearly known. We shall control gun deaths when we control the easy access to guns."

He said this is a fact the people have to consider.

Oscar Arstein, Idaho commissioner of agriculture, said today the action seems to be an answer to the appeal of housewives to lower the price of beef.

He said he hopes it doesn't break the market and create a loss condition after producers have worked hard to get fairer prices.

The effect the open market will have on prices depends on two factors, Arstein said. "The amount of beef imported into the country will be one influence, he said.

Perhaps the greatest factor will be the psychological effect, Arstein said. "The prices may be driven down by the threat of large amounts of import beef alone," he said.

As far as the quality of imported beef, Arstein said the Idaho consumer will probably not be affected. He said Idahoans use mostly home-grown beef. Idaho is a beef exporting state and the price problem will come from areas to where the beef is exported, Arstein said.

Remember when the British pound sterling was the standard of monetary solidity?

Programs may boost tax bite

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's budget director said today Congress will force a huge tax increase if it insists on adding new federal programs.

Caspar W. Weinberger also disputed the contention of Sen. George S. McGovern that too much of the federal budget is being spent on defense.

The director of the Office of Management and Budget told a subcommittee of the Congress' Joint Economic Committee the share of the budget allocated to national defense was declining by a third since Nixon took office, while the share for human resources programs was increasing at about the same rate.

Weinberger argued the basic problem facing the federal government today was controlling spending. He said spending should not be increased.

Hot floor fight looms for Demos

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democratic platform writers wound up a 18-1/2 hour marathon drafting session early today by rejecting abortion and "gay liberation" planks but taking a strong pro-busing stance that seemed to signal a heated convention floor fight.

The lengthy meeting adjourned at 3:30 a.m. EDT and was to resume at 10 a.m. EDT. The platform was complete except for approval of the introduction and action on minority reports. Delegates supporting Gov. George Wallace are expected to have at least three—busing, foreign policy and welfare.

The committee adopted a probing stance after Wallace backers were voted down overwhelmingly in their effort to put the party on record in the presidential campaign as unalterably opposed to busing to obtain racial balance in schools.

The committee adopted a plank saying busing must be retained as a method "to eliminate legally imposed segregation."

A Wallace representative, Fred Folsom, warned the platform writers that the busing plank would lose votes in November for the Democrats. "Busing of little children around the country, my friends, to achieve racial balance in schools is very unpopular with a vast majority of Americans," Folsom told the committee.

Quota end irks Gem ranchers

By MIKE ROBERTSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—Area and Idaho cattlemen are upset with President Nixon's removal of import quotas on beef.

Gene Walker, president of the Twin Falls County Farm Bureau, said today "We feel like this is a step to put a price ceiling on all raw farm produce. We don't like to see it."

Walker said many Farm Bureau members in this county are involved in some type of livestock operation.

All Farm Bureau members have been asked to protest the move by sending telegrams to Nixon, who announced the move Monday.

"Farm products are not at parity—beef included," Walker said. He said this is true even though beef prices are higher than they have been for a long time.

He said the Farm Bureau believes the poor prices the farmers are receiving have affected the whole nation and its economy. He said this has caused many farmers to move off the farm, forcing others to work larger areas.

Walker said effects would be immediate but would be harmful in the long run.

He said it is nothing new but something that has been going on for years—keeping farm prices low. He said whenever farm prices rise, people protest.

The farmer is receiving an all-time low price while his costs are rising, Walker said. "They are just not keeping pace."

"We are upset," said John Olson, executive secretary of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association.

Olson said the association is upset especially with the fact that the action was necessary, not particularly that it was taken. He said cattle growers have worked hard for 20 years to raise the level of profit high enough for them to make a decent living.

Olson said the action would not immediately affect Idaho beef producers. He said it will definitely be felt in the long run with lower prices for producers.

In the past 20 years, Olson said, the cattle business has basically been break-even or loss, except for the large producers. He said prices this year were above the break-even mark for the first time since 1952. Prices peaked in January for the first time since 1952, he said.

He said the long range effects will hurt the man who doesn't have a large operation.

The Idaho Cattlemen's Association has sent a statement of its opinion in the form of a telegram to the President, expressing the concern of the cattlemen.

"We are hoping the President has knowledge of what he is doing," he said. "The cattlemen

Reds launch new drives

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops, unable to penetrate the My Chanh River defense line north of Hue, launched big artillery and ground attacks today on the western approach to the old imperial capital.

The South Vietnamese said the attacks—only five miles from Hue—were repulsed and that the Communists lost 71 dead against light government losses.

In the air war, U.S. planes flew to within two miles of Hanoi Monday and attacked a major airfield with guided bombs. They also blasted a main thermal plant, barely a mile from the center of the port city of Haiphong, also with guided bombs.

The U.S. command said about 100 B52s dumped another 2,500 pounds of explosives on Communist positions in Quang Tri Province, north of the defense lines, and that U.S. 7th Fleet ships, and hundreds of Air Force, Navy and Marine fighters took up where the B52s left off.

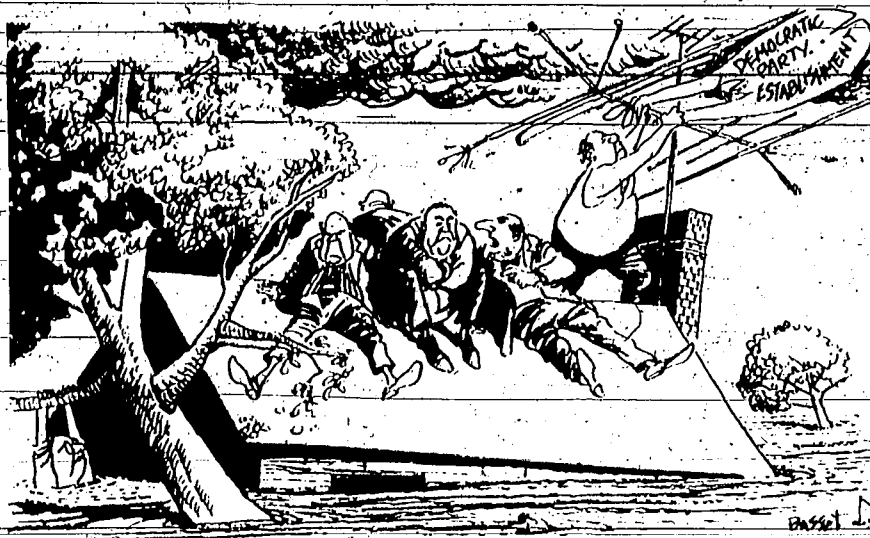

The naval bombardment cost the lives of two American sailors killed when the forward gun mount on the destroyer Benjamin Stoddert blew up from unknown causes. Four other sailors were wounded. Names were not disclosed.

UPI reporter Chard Huntley, reporting from Hue, said the Communists fired more than 2,000 rounds of mortar, artillery and rocket fire at the 13 government outposts west of Hue and that North Vietnamese made heavy battalion-sized attacks (about 450 men) on three outposts.

The North Vietnamese sent large forces against the My Chanh River line in suicidal attacks which were turned back with heavy losses. They also have sent large forces through the A Shah Valley west of Hue and it was these forces involved in today's unsuccessful attacks.

Hue is believed to be the main object of the Communist spring offensive which began March 30 and quickly overran Quang Tri Province just to the north. The South Vietnamese stabilized their lines near the My Chanh River about 20 miles north of Hue.

Huntley said the Communists had hit Hue's western outposts with 4,000 rounds of rockets and artillery fire in the past three days, the heaviest shelling there in almost two months. Some of the probing attacks began Sunday with bigger assaults today.

Witnesses fail to name suspect

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Prosecution witnesses have failed to identify hijack suspect Richard F. McCoy as the man who commandeered a United Airlines jet April 7, took $500,000 in ransom money and bailed out over Provo, Utah.

The four witnesses called in the first day of testimony Monday during the Federal Court trial were crew members aboard the Denver to Los Angeles flight diverted to San Francisco by a man who threatened to blow up the plane with plastic explosives.

The witnesses who actually saw the hijacker told a six-man, six-woman jury he was wearing what appeared to be a wig and large, bushy mustache. They could not identify the clean-shaven, conservatively-dressed McCoy as the hijacker.

In addition, defense attorneys moved prior to jury selection that evidence found in McCoy's Provo home, including all but $30 of the $500,000 ransom and a parachute, be suppressed on grounds that an FBI agent improperly filled out an affidavit to a search warrant.

Chief U.S. Judge Willis J. Butler said he would rule on the motion when the evidence was introduced into court by the prosecution.

First witness for the government was stenographer Diane Surdian, who told the jury she was the main contact point between the disguised hijacker and crewmen in the cockpit.

1st ballot victory predicted

By United Press International

Sen. George S. McGovern's strategists expect him to carry enough delegates either today or Wednesday for a first ballot victory at the Democratic National Convention.

McGovern needs 1,509 delegates to get the Democratic presidential nomination at Miami Beach starting July 10. Monday, he told a Washington news conference he had 1,515 by his own count, but his headquarters then made a recheck and he came up 17 short with 1,492.75.

The reason for the miscalculation, McGovern aides said, was that some of the uncommitted black delegates who came out for the South Dakota senator Monday had been counted twice.

But Rick Sterns, the McGovern delegate counter, said he expected the front-runner to get the necessary delegates either today or Wednesday.

George Lowe

TWIN FALLS — George D. Lowe, 70, Altadena, Calif., died at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Sunday morning of a brief illness.

Born June 6, 1902, at Pasadena, Calif., he was a retired electronics worker and was on a vacation trip through this area at the time of his death. His body was sent by plane to Pasadena for funeral services and burial.

Local arrangements were under the direction of Reynolds Funeral Chapel.

Eva Woodall

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Eva L. Woodall, 91, Twin Falls, died Monday evening at her home of a short illness.

Funeral services are pending at the White Mortuary.

Gulbransen

RUPERT — Irene Gulbransen, 57, Rupert, died Tuesday morning at Cassia Memorial Hospital.

Funeral services are pending at Payne Mortuary, Burley.

Suit filed

BOISE (UPI) — The State Attorney General's office and Finance Commissioner Thomas D. McElwain have filed suit in Fourth District court asking that the Inational Silver Murt Corp. be stopped from engaging in practices which would constitute a violation of Idaho Code.

The suit also asks an order be issued restraining and enjoining the defendants from engaging in acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce in the state of Idaho which are deceptive or unfair to the consumer.

Named as defendants are the corporation, Robert Graybar, president, and Keith Bybee, representative of the company.

The suit also asks that the defendants rescind all contracts entered into with Idaho residents.

Electric hot water baseboard (without plumbing)

One of the many nice ways to convert to electric heat is to install electric hot water baseboards. The sealed, self-contained units offer the steady, even temperature from hot water for satisfying comfort. They save space, and are installed easily. Quiet and dependable, they use only the clean energy that takes nothing from the air, adds nothing to the air for a nicer environment.

Ranchers blame 'middlemen' for price hikes

By United Press International
Ranchers from the beef-producing states west of the Mississippi River say they will suffer the most because of Monday's lifting of beef import quotas, even though they say it is the "middlemen" who have caused prices to rise.

"Most of the price that the consumer is paying for in the marketplace is added on higher up the line," said cattleman W.C. Hines of the JJJ Gorman Ranch south of San Antonio, Tex.

He blamed price hikes on packers, processors, shippers and retailers.

"Most of the cost is added after the cattle leave the ranch, because I know for sure the rancher isn't making any sky-high profits," he said.

Cattleman throughout the Southwest and Midwest said President Nixon made the wrong move when he lifted quota restrictions on foreign beef imports, but some were more critical than others.

In Iowa, the presidents of two major farm organizations called the action a "great disappointment."

Oren Lee Staley, president of the National Farmers Organization said removal of import

'Most of the cost' is added after the cattle leave the ranch'
— W.C. Hines, Texas

limitations would weaken cattle and sheep prices which, he said, "is no different than depressing prices in the manner of imposing ceilings" on meat prices.

"It is a very great disappointment after the secretary of agriculture has made repeated assurances that he would defend farm and livestock prices from price controls like a wounded steer" that the White House has now acted to depress meat and cattle prices," Staley said.

J. Merrill Anderson, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau, said his group was "disappointed that the President took this action at a time when beef prices reached 90 per cent parity—a goal that agriculture has tried to achieve and political parties have advocated—and the overall farm parity level is only 79 per cent."

Cattleman in the Southwest received the news during a three-day heat spell that has shown no signs of letting up. It was 110 or higher in North Texas Sunday and Monday.

"The President lets in foreign beef and it's 105 degrees outside. Both of those things are putting the ranchers on a collision course," said Charles Taylor, editor of the Farmer Stockman Magazine.

"The ranchers aren't going to have enough grass to feed their cattle, so they are going to have to sell—and sell at reduced prices now that the foreign competition is in. It's a very serious move," Taylor said.

'Americans won't know what they have when they eat imported meat'
— Jack Jones, Kansas

In Kansas, feedlot manager Jack Jones of Emporia said he was not overly concerned because he said the foreign meat, most of which will come from New Zealand and Australia, won't be as good as U.S. meat.

"Americans won't know what they have a hold of when they start eating imported meat," Jones said. "It's like boot leather." Most ranchers were fearful not because of any immediate effect, but because the action appeared to them to be a step toward broader agricultural price controls.

Cattleman Paul Hiteh of Guymon, Okla., said he did not see a big rush of imports, but was worried about future policies.

"If these damned temporary measures turn out to be permanent, the door could get lodged open and the government will forget it was temporary," he said.

Youths swarm into Colorado

GRANBY Colo. (UPI)—Long-haired youths on foot trudged eight miles through rugged Colorado mountain land Monday to reach the shores of Strawberry Lake, a marsh-like body of water which will provide the setting for a July 4th "religious festival."

The Colorado State Patrol said the numbers of youths at the site was increasing despite road blocks which were thrown up earlier this week by deputies of the Grand County Sheriff's department.

"Even though the Strawberry Lake access has been blocked off to additional population, it is still increasing," said Lt. Col.

Pat Schippers of the state patrol.

Officers were turning back both food supplies and motorists before they could reach the site, but were allowing supplies of medicine to get through. Spokesmen for the estimated 1,600 persons now at the site said they needed medical supplies because of the possible outbreak of disease.

A number of youths also were reported to have left the site because of the cold, damp weather and after hearing no rock bands would be performing. Deputies manning the road blocks were permitting persons to leave, but not to enter.

A delegation of youths from the sponsoring "Rainbow Family of Living Light" met in Denver with Gov. John A. Love to urge that the state halt its efforts to stop the festival.

"It was a good rap," said family member Berry Plunker of Eugene, Ore.

Research efforts endorsed

By United Press International
Steve Symms, Republican candidate for Idaho's First Congressional District, said Monday that a highly advanced technology and a "simple satisfying life style" will occur if Americans can avoid governmental intervention.

"Contrary to what most ecologists are saying today, the answer to a cleaner environment and better life style will come from further development of technology and not from laws which restrict research and development," he said.

Speaking in Kellogg, Symms said, "Everyone believes in clean air and clean water—and nearly everyone enjoys their television sets, electric dishwashers and food on their table. However we have to realize that there isn't no such thing as a free lunch, there's always a tradeoff," he said.

Bob Purcell, Republican candidate for First District congressman, told a conservation group Monday in Coeur d'Alene that those who advocate giving the state of Idaho referendum powers on dam building on the Middle Snake River "are taking a position which is no position at all."

Purcell said, "I have heard it advocated that we pass a bill creating a permanent moratorium on dam building on the Middle Snake, with a provision giving the people of Idaho the right to decide whether or not they want to change the moratorium."

He called this an escape hatch. Democratic Senate Candidate Byron Johnson speaking before the Mountain Home Chamber of Commerce Monday said "Farmers need a larger piece of the economic pie."

Johnson said recent studies show Idaho's agricultural industry is continuing to expand. He said residents must plan to take advantage of the opportunities to build upon the current agricultural basis.

George Hansen, Republican senatorial candidate said Monday in Shoshone it would be extremely untimely to legalize marijuana. He was asked about the American Medical Association's sanctioning of legalization of marijuana.

"As far as punishment goes, I would favor a misdemeanor on first time offenses," he said. He said there is no real knowledge on the drug's effects.

Glen Wegner, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, Monday stressed the need to end loophole legislation regarding criminals.

He said America is a nation built on law and order and if a law is bad we should change it. "But people who break the law should not be allowed special legislative privileges," he said.

Social Security

When it was first established back in New Deal days, Social Security had the goal of insuring that every American worker or his family received at least a minimum pension and that no one would be forced in his after-years to live in abject poverty.

It was designed to be self-sustaining through employee and employer contributions. It still is. But from a payroll deduction of a fraction of a percent, the Social Security tax now represents a substantial chunk of money a worker never sees, and may never live to collect.

When scheduled future increases already written into law are taken into account — not to mention even higher increases that are being proposed — and when matching employer contributions are added (and most people tend to forget that this doubles the amount), the Social Security tax begins to rival the income tax paid by many workers.

Specifically, the Social Security tax rate is due to go from its present 5.2 per cent to 5.7 per cent (11.4 per cent with employer tax) next January, on a wage base of $9,000. The average American's income tax is only about 14 per cent.

Yet while everyone complains about inequities in the income tax laws, Social Security has replaced motherhood as something few people, certainly few politicians, seem to question.

When the Senate Finance

Committee recently voted to raise the Social Security tax by 10 per cent next year, and the wage base to $10,200, those who were opposed did not object to the increase but argued that it ought to be 20 per cent.

It is not too early to begin asking ourselves just how high the Social Security tax can or should go, and just what Social Security can or should be expected to accomplish. It is argued that it isn't possible to live decently on Social Security. But that was not its original purpose. Its purpose was to try to erase destitution.

One thing is sure. If there is need for reform in the income tax system, there is just as much need for reform in the retirement tax system.

A retired government worker, for example, who takes a job in the private economy and works long enough to qualify for Social Security, can collect both his government pension and the full minimum Social Security pension.

Or someone else can collect no end of unearned income, such as from an annuity, and also receive the full Social Security benefits to which he may be entitled.

But an ordinary person who has contributed to Social Security all his career and has to or wants to work after the age of 65 is penalized for every dollar he earns over a ridiculously low minimum. He should not be punished at all, for ostensibly Social Security is only paying him back his own money.

WASHINGTON — Two unrelated events this month should have a beneficial impact upon Idaho's growing community of Chicanos and Basques.

The first is a special report from Idaho Sen. Frank Church's special committee on aging which details the plight of elderly Mexican-Americans and the legal barriers which deny them services. The second event was the two-day visit last week of Mexican President Luis Echeverria.

Elderly Mexican-Americans are among the most economically deprived in our nation today, but they are among those least likely to receive benefits of Federal programs," Church said.

He added, "yet, the effective resolution of this problem is absolutely necessary to come to grips with the complex problems — limited incomes, rising health costs, dilapidated housing, inadequate transportation, and many others — besetting aged minority groups."

Church emphasized the committee report distinguishes between the theoretical "availability" and the actual "accessibility" of services for Mexican-Americans.

According to the report, "a service or program may be available but rendered inaccessible and/or useless by the mere fact that the elderly people do not know of its existence; do not know how to use it; or if they do, are prevented from using it due to a lack of transportation; lack of ability for health reasons; language barrier or the attitude of those providing the service."

The report stressed that in the single category of the poor is the gap as great between availability and accessibility of services as for elderly Mexican-Americans.

It noted that the average life expectancy for a Chicano is 57, as opposed to 69 for an Anglo. The report also noted:

Anglos over 65 years of age in 1960 constituted 9.1 per cent of the Southwest's population whereas only four per cent were Chicanos over 65.

1960 statistics (no statistics were compiled in 1970) show that the median income of a Mexican-American male over 65 was $1,616 compared to $2,140 for his Anglo counterpart.

The report also shows that 67 per cent of Mexican-Americans had less than four years of education. Small wonder that so many Chicanos have to become seasonal pickers or pipe movers in Idaho.

The report specifically recommended that the five-year residency requirement for aliens to participate in certain Medicare programs be eliminated. It said all future increases in Social Security benefits should include "mandatory pass-on" provisions for people who receive both Social Security and Old Age Assistance. Some states currently cut back on welfare payments in proportion to Social Security increases.

According to the aging committee report, the Medicaid Act should be strengthened to restrict the ability of states to enact massive cutbacks in coverage, which fall most heavily upon elderly Mexican-Americans. The report also calls for legislation to be adopted requiring cost of living adjustments for OAA payments to protect all elderly from inflation.

An event which could be even more significant than the committee report was Echeverria's visit to Washington. While most of the publicity from the visit concerned the Mexican president's blunt statements to President Nixon and a show of independence, privately he was promoting the thesis that it is in the best interests of the United States to support Latin governments like Mexico which attempt to achieve social change while maintaining economic ties with the United States.

Guessed Wrong

WASHINGTON — Richard Nixon, sometime gambler, guessed wrong. A unanimous 8-0 Supreme Court called his bet in ruling unconstitutional the Federal government's practice of wiretapping domestic radicals without first obtaining court approval.

Clearly, the President was wrong on past performance. In 1966, President Truman had broadened a 1940 decision by President Roosevelt that he had the power to wiretap suspected German spies by including American citizens suspected of espionage. Then in 1968, Congress authorized lawmen to get court warrants to investigate a whole package of crimes. But the law stated it had no effect on any constitutional authority the president might have to wiretap in national security cases without court warrants.

So Nixon and any Gen. John Mitchell took the chance the Supreme Court would uphold warrantless eavesdropping in such cases.

Not so you'd notice it, said the highest bench. In an opinion written by one of the Nixon justices, Lewis F. Powell, the Court cited that pesky Fourth Amendment which guarantees freedom from unreasonable searches and seizures. Those freedoms, said the Court, cannot properly be bargained if domestic surveillance may be conducted solely within the discretion of the Executive Branch.

Without putting it in so many words, Powell's opinion made a point which cannot be cited to often, to wit, that it is the unorthodox who most need the protection of the Constitution. Most Americans may hate both the guts and the thinking of these "radicals," but the Constitution does not limit freedom of speech to those with whose ideas the country's majority agrees.

It must have been a blow to way-out liberals who have denounced Powell as a hanging judge to read Powell's words in behalf of unorthodoxy. The price of lawful public dissent must not be a dread of submission to an unchecked surveillance power, he wrote.

"Nor must the fear of unauthorized official eavesdropping deter vigorous citizen dissent and discussion of government action in private conversation."

At the same time, the decision did not leave the government defenseless against domestic subversion. Wiretapping and bugging may still be carried out by court warrant. On this point, Powell properly delivered a slap at the Justice Department's view of that process.

He rejected the department's argument that internal security matters are "too subtle and complex for judges." There is no reason to believe that Federal judges will be insensitive to or incomprehending of the issues involved, said Powell. "If the threat is too subtle or complex for our senior law enforcement officers to convey its significance to a court, one may question whether there is probable cause for surveillance."

In short, Justice made a lousy case. It may have had patriotism on its side, but the Constitution is concerned with preserving freedoms, even from the action of patriots. As Powell noted, "History abundantly documents the tendency of government, however benevolent and benign its motives, to view with suspicion those who most fervently dispute its policies." To me, he was saying that the Republic may not be protected by unconstitutional means.

Help Police!

So now we've listened to criminals criticizing police. Now we've let them slur, slander, vilify and stone police. Now we've let the wrongdoers do late how the cop must rectify rights and shoot last and with rubber bullets.

Haven't we been punishing the good guys long enough now?

"Help, police!"

Historically that's been the cry of anybody in danger.

Now it's time for law-abiding Americans to "get the commie out." Now we must help them. Today the rallying cry must be, "Help police!"

Sixty percent of all married policemen in Seattle are divorced their first three years on the job; wives just can't take it.

New York policemen were ordered to become residents of their home precincts. It was decided that a policeman living among the people he's policing would be recognized as a friend and neighbor, rather than an "outside authority."

That didn't work.

The first two resident policemen were so harassed — their families so threatened — that they've asked and received reassignment elsewhere.

And in Gary, Ind., patrolman Frank Meyers, age 36, decorated for valor, has been shot to death on his home doorstep.

Detroit, with a crime rate that's particularly embarrassing when it's compared with Windsor, Canada, just across the river, sought to make its streets safer by creating a special police unit.

A decoy system of plainclothes police to trap street thugs.

But Michigan's Civil Rights Commission, alleging that the effort has caused "deep cleavage in community relations," has urged the special unit be abolished.

Nationally, three policemen were killed on duty every week last year; 20 of them from ambush.

The late FBI director, J. Edgar Hoover, called for an "aroused citizenry."

But what do decent people, aroused, do? You will not resort to methods employed by police detractors.

You will not bait traps, fire from ambush, shout filthy phrases. And if you demand public recognition for police heroism, it'll likely be buried somewhere back there with the eczema and herma ads.

The national president of the Fraternal Order of Police says lawmen may initiate their own shoot-to-kill campaign if they do not receive more "public support."

But again, what can we the "public" do?

We need to get organized and there's not time for that. Besides, sometimes I think we already have too many organizations keeping minutes and wasting hours.

I'd like to see any one of them give legal lawmen more than slogans and lip service. I'd like to see the Jaycees or Kiwanis or some such fully respect for law and lawmen, mobilize whole cities, afford, in shirt-sleeve English, outshoot and drown out the cop-haters who are aiming us at anarchy.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Is She Weird?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have two friends, aged 36 and 45, who douche every few days and have done so since they were teenagers. They also use such things as chlorine bleach or vinegar in the water.

I am 42 and have never had a douche. I am a firm believer that plain soap and water and Mother Nature will take care of everything unless there is an infection or some other problem.

I have never been troubled with itching or odor, which they both say they get if they do not douche. They tell me douching is a necessity for all women, and think I am weird because I refuse to start. Would like your opinion. Mrs. R.B.H.

Stick to your guns. Routine douching is NOT necessary, even though some women — perhaps quite a few — think it is.

The normal secretions of the vagina — not take care of things, and your own experience is sufficient proof of that.

The douche, if not indulged too often or with various chemicals added, may be harmless enough to many women, but in some cases the chemicals may disturb the membrane which lines the vaginal tract. Either that or some infection that needs more specific treatment could be a factor in their itching and odor. Medicated douches are, of course, useful for specific purposes, but the notion that the douche is "a necessity for all women" simply is not so.

Dear George: Don't you newspaper doctors go back for a refresher course? Haven't you heard about Zylprim or Allaprimol for gout medication? It's been out two or three years and it works. E.M.

Thank you, sir. Glad you've got the word, finally. That drug, among others, was in my booklet, "Gout, The Modern Way to Stop It," years earlier than that.

If you suffered some needless years of gout pain, I'm sorry. For newcomers to the "gout club," the booklet remains available for 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do you know of or have you heard of cataracts being cured without an operation? I have heard that this was printed in a paper but cannot learn anything definite. — L.T.

I've heard such stories, but have never found any evidence to indicate that it is true, so I would guess it is another of those hopeful rumors which circulate without foundation.

The Haunted House

Remember the haunted house which was recently burned down on purpose?

Well, we received a note from Mrs. W.H. Brown of Route Three, Jerome, telling some of the background of the place as she knows it.

Here's what she writes:

"Bert Hobbs came to Idaho in 1906 and, I believe, he proved up on the 80 acres on which the house stood. The original house was a two-story structure with a flat roof and dropped eaves that came down about three feet. It looked very much like some of the buildings being built today.

"Mr. Hobbs, his brother Ralph and their mother lived there. I.R. Senten of Castleford tells me Mrs. Hobbs didn't want any trees around the house as she wanted to see out. There was a wind break at the rear of the home which was about 10 feet high. It was built from the tops of sagebrush which, in those days, most of us used for fuel.

"In the early 1920's Mr. Hobbs remodeled the house into the one which was burned down. It was his own design and the fireplace had the best draft that could be built into one. The air circulated constantly. The downstairs floors were of one-inch hardwood.

"Mrs. Hobbs didn't get to enjoy the beautiful home as she was taken ill and was left an invalid. Her sons hired a woman to care for her. She was confined to her room at all times and people passing reported they could hear her cries of pain both day and night.

"The young people of that day often rode up and down the road at night and the screams of the ill Mrs. Hobbs frightened them. Thus the place came to be known as the 'Haunted House.' After she and her son Ralph died, Bert left the farm, moving to Twin Falls. It then became the Hupked House for real as very few people lived in it after that.

"Many are the stories 'invented' by the young people of the neighborhood.

"Mrs. A.T. Rees painted a beautiful picture of it a few years ago. One almost expected to see a ghost come floating out of the empty windows.

"The poor old 'Haunted House' never did become the beautiful home its owner intended for it to be."

BERRY'S WORLD

"What do you suppose made it fall — violence on TV, or dirty movies?"

Beer sale boom looms

By GEORGE FRANK
BOISE (UPI) — "It's going to be one helluva weekend," said the way Steve Bonde, owner of the East Cleveland Beverage, Caldwell, views next week when a new law goes into effect which will allow 19-year-olds to buy beer, wine and liquor.

"I will have extra help just to check identification," Bonde, whose store deals in wine and liquor, said.

The law was passed by the 1972 legislature as a compromise measure following long debates on another bill which would have allowed 18-year-olds to buy liquor. Presently state law permits 20-year-olds to purchase beer, but no wine and liquor.

"It will be a helluva weekend," he said. "Face it. If you were 19- or 20-years-old, what would you do? I would probably go out and get drunk."

He said it will be harder to determine who is of legal age under the new law, because 15-year-olds look much like 19-year-olds.

Bonde said young people tend to drink wine and beer more because of the cost. He said the younger person doesn't have the money to hang out in bars.

The lower drinking age will be one of 270 bills which will go into effect next Saturday.

Gene Enebo of the Idaho Beverage and Sporting Goods in Boise said he expects sales to be "booming for months."

"I think it will pick up for a while, say two months, and then simmer down to a slightly higher level," he said. "We will have extra people to check identification next week and the fourth of July."

Enebo said from his experience he feels that young people are sticking with beer because many of them don't have the money to buy a good bottle of liquor.

But Max Garrison of the Vista Beverage and Sporting Goods said the younger set is more for wine and those over 30 are drinking beer.

He said he sees no problems with ID's concerning the younger people because "we are continually checking identifications now."

Garrison said he has mixed feelings about the new law. He said it will be better momentum for the liquor, wine and beer industry, but "from the moral standpoint it's not too good of an idea."

City Sullivan of Quinn's Lounge said he didn't anticipate any problems in his bar with the younger drinkers. He said he didn't know if there would be any real increase in business at his establishment, but thought some bars in Boise which cater to the younger set would have more business.

He also said the younger person did not have $10 or $20 to spend on liquor and would probably be drinking beer.

Vick Barr of Andy's in Boise said he saw no increased problems with the lower age.

"Now the 19-year-olds are trying to get in with the 20-year-olds. Next week the 18-year-olds will be trying to get in with the 19-year-olds," he said.

Barr, owner of Andy's for the past 14 years, said he thought the legislature should have passed a law which would have allowed 18-year-olds to drink since they have the right to vote

Appointed

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has appointed Mrs. Bonnie Bergeson, Pocatello, to fill the unexpired term of State Rep. Jenkin L. Palmer, R-Malden.

Mrs. Bergeson is the widow of F. W. (Bill) Bergeson, a former legislator who was running for the GOP nomination for the United States Senate when killed in a Boise-area traffic accident Feb. 29.

Palmer resigned from the legislature to accept appointment to the State Tax Commission.

Metal taken

TWIN FALLS — About 250 pounds of copper tubing and brass electrical insulators valued at about $80 have been stolen from McCoy Coal and Transfer.

Apparently the break-in occurred early this week. Twin Falls Police are continuing investigations.

Busy 4th looms

DENVER (UPI) — The nation's rodeo cowboys will have a busy 4th of July. The Rodeo Cowboys Association said Monday 42 rodeos are scheduled over the upcoming holiday weekend.

The association said Phil Lynn of George West, Tex., defending champion in the all-around cowboy standings, holds the lead in the event with $23,128.

Right behind is five-time former all-around titlist Larry Mahan of Brooks, Ore., with $21,248. The all-around title is determined by winnings in two or more events.

Mahan also leads the bull riding event with $12,746 in prize money.

Other leaders include: J. C. Bonine, Hysham, Mont., saddle bronc riding, $12,220; Joe Alexander, Rora, Wyo., bareback

PUBLIC NOTICE

THE STANLEY SEWER ASSOC. will be holding a public meeting on July 6, 7 p.m. at Nicholson's Laundromat in Stanley. All property owners in the immed. Stanley area are urged to attend.

'Angels' see helmet law lose

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — With a "lobby" of Hell's Angels looking on and applauding its demise, a Senate committee Monday killed a bill sought by the California Highway Patrol to require motorcycleists to wear safety helmets.

The measure by Republican State Sen. Craig Biddle was rejected following an applause-punctuated hearing when none of the eight committee members present offered a motion to bring it to a vote.

As soon as the bill was pronounced dead, the Hell's Angels—numbering about 100—stood up, applauded and cheered.

The proposal, similar to legislation rejected in the past, was denounced by a string of witnesses, many of whom said helmets would be a hazard to and not protection for riders.

"I don't want to be killed, dig? So don't make me buy a helmet," Pat Coughlin, a young, fatigue-clad motorcyclist from Sacramento told the committee. Coughlin said he was not an Angel.

Charles Clayton of Long Beach, publisher of Cycle News Magazine, said the bill "sets a terrible precedent for the deprivation of individual liberties."

"I can't understand or comprehend this anti-before-the-horse attitude," said Mike Henshaw, a representative of the American Motorcycle Association, urging stricter licensing examinations.

"As it now stands," a motorcyclist has to demonstrate a little more skill than being able to balance a bike between his legs."

But Biddle said his measure, which would have taken effect in mid-1973, was an attempt to "cut down on some of these deaths." He said it would "protect life and limb."

Forty-three states have some form of safety helmet requirement, Biddle said, adding that fatal motorcycle accidents in California increased 75 per cent between 1965 and 1971.

Dr. George Snyder, director of the Sacramento Medical Center, said there is "no data to support the thesis that the helmet could prove injurious to the rider." He said tests had demonstrated that helmets do not hinder a rider's vision or hearing.

But Pat Rajuetti, another young Sacramento motorcyclist, disagreed, saying that helmets provide no protection for crashes in excess of 13 miles per hour.

Flat tires on Sunrise

TWIN FALLS — City police reported at least eight vehicles of residents in the Sunrise Boulevard area had flat tires this morning.

Apparently the work of vandals, the vehicles were parked in front of homes or in driveways. Police said they had six reports before 9 a.m., all involving one or more tires on each vehicle which had been flattened during the night.

Friday meet set in job complaint

BOISE (UPI) — A meeting has been set for Friday to work out the differences in a discrimination complaint filed with the Idaho Human Rights Commission against the commission's parent and funding agency — the State Department of Special Services.

The western panel of the commission has found reasonable cause existed in the case of Sylvia Garza, Boise.

Mrs. Garza, a Chicano, was formerly employed by Special Services and took a job with another agency after she was told there would be no position open for at least a year as senior secretary with special services.

But her job was filled shortly thereafter by an Anglo woman receiving a senior secretary salary.

Judy Grimes, attorney-director of the commission, said the meeting Friday will deal with revisions to Special Services affirmative action plan and she said if special services fails to accept recommendations then a public hearing will be set.

Fraud case hearing continued

BOISE (UPI) — Federal Judge J. Blaine Anderson has continued until Wednesday the arraignment of Dorothy Lee Austin, 26, also known as Dorothy Lee Marshall, Selma, Ala., on conspiracy charges in alleged fraud.

Miss Austin waived preliminary hearing Monday on five felony counts when she appeared before Judge Anderson. Four counts allege she was a "spotter" while a woman confederate went into banks in Idaho Falls and Boise and presented forged checks totaling $16,587.60.

In a fifth count she is accused of conspiracy to commit interstate transportation of forged securities.

Miss Austin was remanded to federal custody in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Child hit, unhurt

TWIN FALLS — A 6-year-old Twin Falls girl was hit by a car Monday but sustained no injuries.

According to Twin Falls Police reports, Chantel Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Anderson, Twin Falls, ran from the curb behind a passing pickup truck into the path of another vehicle.

Maynard Riley, 70, Twin Falls, skidded to a stop, hitting the girl, apparently with little force, police said. The accident occurred about 5 p.m. in the 700 block on Park Avenue.

No citations were issued.

Pilot draws fine

BILLINGS, Mont. (UPI) — A Wyoming helicopter pilot was fined $1,200 Monday on three counts of transporting illegally killed game across state lines.

Daniel Hawkins, a principal in a Greybull aviation company, pleaded guilty earlier this month to the charges. He could have faced one year in jail and a fine of $10,000 on each count.

He appeared before U.S. District Judge James Battin.

Seminar scheduled

BOISE (UPI) — A pre-annual appraisal course seminar is scheduled in Boise July 11-13 for county appraisers and 37 persons from 15 counties have enrolled.

Primary purpose of the conference is to prepare beginning county appraisers for Appraisal Techniques II which will be offered at the annual short course starting July 31 at Pocatello.

Tool might be piece of string

BOISE (UPI) — Warden Raymond May says two maximum security prisoners who nearly escaped from the new state prison over the weekend may have cut through their bars with nothing more than string.

May said Ronald Lee Mack, 24, cut his way out a so-called "escape-proof" cell, and then helped fellow inmate Danny Ray Powers, 22, to get out of his cell.

Although no evidence of a cutting tool was found May said a piece of string treated with an abrasive substance can be nearly as effective as a hacksaw blade on bars.

The warden said neither of the prisoners managed to get out of the maximum security building.

Mack and Powers are among three convicts charged with the knifing death last Aug. 14 of fellow inmate William H. Butler, 27, and are scheduled to stand trial Sept. 11 on first-degree murder charges.

McGovern tells South he's not radical Demo

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern sought to assure the South today he is not a radical and that the Southern strategy of the Republican party was racist.

He spoke in Oklahoma Monday before flying to Texas, where he spent the night, and planned trips later today to Arkansas, Georgia and North Carolina, seeking the last elusive votes that would give him a first ballot Democratic presidential nomination.

"What is the Republican answer to the new hopes in the South? The answer is that President Nixon and his associates offer to add a new device to the strategy of racism that has been practiced so viciously in the past," McGovern told a rally by the historic Alamo Monday night.

"That new strategy is to introduce the specter of radicalism into the politics of 1972. What is right is always called radical by those who have a stake in what is wrong in this country.

"Do not let the Republicans fool you with false labels just as your parents did not let them fool them in 1936 by branding Social Security as socialism," McGovern said.

During his visit to Oklahoma City, McGovern promised to take the government from the control of rich businessmen and place it in the hands of the common people.

"In my administration we are going to have a farrier as secretary of agriculture, a working man as secretary of labor, an Indian in charge of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and women in positions commensurate with their numbers and concerns about the country," he said.

Earlier Monday, he claimed he had enough delegate votes to take a first-ballot victory in Miami Beach. Later, however, he backed off that statement, saying some delegates had been counted twice.

In San Antonio, he said the Republicans offered a voice from the past.

"I know the Republicans are arguing they can carry the South. The words are modern, but the strategy is not. The strategy stretches back to the dark days of the Civil War, a strategy that scarred an entire century of American history," he said.

"What is this Southern strategy? It is first of all a cynical attempt to trick the people of the South into voting against yourselves next November."

FIRST PUBLIC appearance of F15 Eagle, being developed by McDonnell-Douglas Corp. for U. S. Air Force, was Monday in St. Louis. Plane has wingspan of 42.8 feet, and is 63 feet long, and is about 40,000 pounds lighter than F4 Phantom. Powered by two jet engines, it will be armed with 20mm cannon, missiles for air-to-air combat. (UPI)

Major obscenity rule due from high court

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court has set the stage for a major ruling next term to fix standards of obscenity that could bring the court out of the "morass" in which one justice finds it has placed the entire issue.

The court had been expected to act during the current term, which ends Thursday, in a California case that clearly presented the issue of whether states may set up their own obscenity standards or must defer to national standards.

Instead, the court Monday called for reargument next term on this issue plus two related cases and agreed to hear three more, specifically to determine if sexually oriented films and magazines can be constitutionally displayed if the public is notified of their nature, and if there is reasonable protection against exposure to juveniles.

In past rulings, the court has said there should be national standards.

The court created the problem in part in 1957 when it said material may be considered obscene when "to the average person, applying contemporary community standards, the dominant theme of the material taken as a whole appeals to the prurient interest."

The court gave a bare hint of its thinking in an unsigned opinion Monday in which it overturned the conviction of an underground newspaper editor for publishing an allegedly obscene poem and two pictures of a nude man and woman embracing in a sitting position.

"A quotation from Voltaire in the flyleaf of a book will not constitutionally redeem an otherwise obscene publication," the court said. But it found the pictures relevant to a news story about a photographer who had a similar picture seized.

In the case of the poem, "an undisguisedly frank, play-by-play account of the author's recollection of sexual intercourse," the court found, "it bears some of the earmarks of an attempt at serious art."

New arms fund OK due

By DANIEL RAPOPORT
WASHINGTON (UPI)—House defenders of a $21.3 billion Pentagon arms request expressed confidence today they could beat back any and all attempts to halt or slow down multi-billion dollar new weapons programs.

Members were expected to start—and probably complete—voting today on the big military measure.

It would authorize the Defense Department to commit itself to going ahead with such major hardware items as the $1 billion per boat Trident submarine; a fourth nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, priced at $1 billion, and the B1 manned bomber, a fleet of which would cost an estimated $11 billion.

Opponents of the package prepared plenty of arguments, including claims that the weapons were unnecessary and outrageously expensive. Supporters contended the weapons were necessary to keep America secure.

Administration spokesmen have said they include the new weapons package essential if the Soviet Union is to be persuaded to negotiate a permanent limitation on nuclear weapons.

Last month in Moscow, President Nixon signed a temporary offensive weapons treaty and a pact to limit antiballistic missile installations. These treaties are now being considered by Congress. Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said he was sure the House would maintain its tradition of sticking with the recommendations of his committee. Dissidents privately agreed.

Also planned were attempts by doves to attach two antiwar amendments to the bill. Intended more as statements of principle, because the legislation did not technically lend itself to the proposed restrictions, they too appeared doomed to failure.

ACLU challenging role of Rehnquist

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) in an unprecedented action will challenge the participation of Justice William H. Rehnquist in the Supreme Court refusal to outlaw Army spying on civilians.

The ACLU expects to ask the court in a day or two for reconsideration of Monday's 5-4 decision which held persons put under surveillance by the Army had not shown they were injured by the practice.

In a news release the organization recalled that when Rehnquist was assistant attorney general he testified before a Senate subcommittee on the subject of political surveillance and indicated that the case decided Monday was not a proper one for judicial consideration.

The ACLU said it was not appropriate for Rehnquist to act as a judge on a matter in which he had been an "advocate." He cast the deciding vote for dismissal of the case.

ACLU Executive Director Aryeh Neier said he knows of no occasion when his organization has ever sought to disqualify a Supreme Court justice and thinks it "extremely unusual" for anyone to do so.

If the court should agree to rehear the case, the argument would not take place until fall, since the court is expected to adjourn for the summer on Thursday.

The court's opinion, by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger drew a fiery dissent from Justice William O. Douglas who said "surveillance of civilians is none of the Army's constitutional business." The government has said the practice has been stopped.

President to work for vote

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon is expected to campaign for re-election by being "very active" on the job at the White House, his political strategists said today.

"I would doubt that you'll see him out on the stump," said one adviser. "I don't think he will have the time."

The outlines of Nixon's post-Republican National Convention campaign are beginning to emerge with the President limiting his public appearances because of the press of his duties.

Nixon is unlikely to do much cross-country campaigning as he did in his presidential bid in 1968 and in 1970 when he attempted to bolster Republican forces in Congress.

"There is every indication he will not be doing that kind of campaigning," an aide said. "But that decision has not yet been made. It depends on a number of imponderables."

The imponderables presumably included who will be the Democratic presidential nominee and what kind of a campaign he conducts.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A federal attorney argued Monday for the dismissal of a suit challenging the constitutionality of the Vietnam War, saying the matter is in the hands of Congress and the President.

U.S. Attorney G. Michael Penner said the suit should be dismissed because the U. S. District Court here "lacked jurisdiction" in the case.

A three-judge federal panel was considering a suit filed by the National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee that seeks to end funding for Vietnam because Congress has never declared war. The panel took the question under advisement.

Columnist scores snooping on widow

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Columnist Jack Anderson said today the FBI put the widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. under surveillance after King's death.

"It is no secret that the late, redoubtable director of the FBI, J. Edgar Hoover, hounded the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. from Montgomery to Memphis," Anderson said. "Now the FBI has zeroed in on his widow, Mrs. Coretta Scott King."

Anderson made his statement to a hearing of the congressional Black Caucus where he described FBI files on other black leaders including Floyd McKissick Jr., a supporter of President Nixon.

"To the FBI," apparently, anyone with dark skin who dares to open his mouth is viewed as subversive," he said.

Anderson's prepared testimony did not say whether the surveillance of Mrs. King continued after Hoover's death when L. Patrick Gray was appointed acting FBI director. But an Anderson assistant, Les Whitten, told UPI Anderson was referring only to the Hoover days, "although we wouldn't be surprised if it continued under Gray. We just have no evidence one way or the other."

Saying he had with him some of the FBI's secret files on Mrs. King, Anderson said he would read nothing but innocuous quotes because "I have no desire to spread across the land the plethora of half-truths and misinformation that is contained in the FBI files."

He read from one 1965 entry he said contained nothing but trivial information, "but it does indicate the pains taken by the bureau to keep her under surveillance."

Indo-Pak chiefs meet

SIMLA, India (UPI)—The leaders of Pakistan and India begin historic summit talks Wednesday that will affect the destiny of an entire subcontinent and the 700 million people—nearly a quarter of the world's population—who live on it.

Three main problems top the agenda for the meeting between India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and Pakistani President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto at this Himalayan hill station. They are:

- Readjustment of Indo-Pakistani frontiers.
- The future of Kashmir.
- Repatriation of 80,000 Pakistani prisoners of war captured in India's war with Pakistan last December.

Diplomatic sources say the frontier issue will probably be the most difficult hurdle. India has captured 5,810 square miles of Pakistani territory.

Board meets

Jerome — The Jerome County Farm Bureau board of directors will meet at 8:30 p.m. today at the multi-county Farm Bureau office. On the agenda will be preliminary resolutions, working from resolutions on a list sent out by Shep Quate, and government price controls on raw farm products, according to Gordon Hollifield, chairman.

DDT ban queried

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee, saying DDT had saved millions of lives, questioned Monday the government's ban on its use and said substitute insecticides may prove a real hazard to man.

The committee said the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) displayed a "regrettable lack of information" in taking the action. It said underdeveloped nations especially may pay a big price if the DDT prohibition spreads to the rest of the world.

In a report to the House on a $12.9 billion money bill for farm price supports and consumer and environmental protection, the committee questioned whether EPA was giving sufficient consideration to long range effects of its actions.

Use of DDT was banned in this country effective Dec. 31, 1971 except for use on green peppers, onions and sweet potatoes in storage. The committee noted that in effecting this almost total prohibition the EPA overrode findings of a hearing examiner "who ruled, based on evidence at hand, that no reason existed for banning DDT."

JEROME — A Holstein cow, owned by Frank W. Houston, Jerome, has been cited by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

The three-year old registered Holstein, Hou-Ston Citation Milsy 7087400 has completed a lactation of 20,000 pounds of milk, 721 lbs. of butterfat and 1,706 pounds non-fat solids in 315 days, according to the report.

Production testing and sampling procedures were supervised by the University of Idaho in cooperation with the official Holstein breed improvement programs.

Aid planned for blacks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government has been late in moving to aid black land grant agriculture colleges, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz conceded.

"But at last we're moving," Butz told a Senate subcommittee, adding that the agriculture department woke up to the need for action before congress was ready to move.

Butz's comments came at a Senate migratory labor subcommittee hearing on the operations of the "land grant complex" of state agricultural colleges, experiment stations and extension services.

The hearing was mainly devoted to exploring charges that most colleges have served big corporations at the expense of small farmers and the rural poor, but it also produced a rare look into the past and potential future of 17 predominantly black land grant colleges.

"Haven't they been the victims of systematic racial discrimination, largely at the state level? What is the agriculture department doing to eliminate discrimination," asked subcommittee chairman Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill.

"For too long (they) have shared only nominally in the great traditions of our (research and extension) system," Butz conceded.

He said their ability to contribute to solutions of both rural and farm problems has been boosted by recent federal appropriations. "But their needs for further support are still great," Butz added.

Alvin I. Thomas, president of the Prairie View A. & M. College, Prairie View, Tex., agreed in a statement to the subcommittee that the 17 colleges — mostly founded as black institutions — have been traditionally underfunded and undersupported generally. But working on with an "oppressed constituency," Thomas said, the colleges built a phenomenal record in comparison to their resources and are now positioned to serve the millions of poor blacks who live in the South where the 18 colleges are located.

"The professional staffs of these institutions, because of their ethnic backgrounds, can frequently relate more closely with minority people than other educators can. This sensitivity to problems of the disadvantaged, and an acceptance by the minority population, should help them reach solutions to poverty and rural development problems more rapidly," the secretary said.

Perrying Stevenson's question about what the Agriculture Department has done to aid the colleges, Butz told him that former Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman asked Congress in 1967 for $1 million for the institutions.

Congress appropriated zero," Butz said, "but I want the record to show the Agriculture Department asked for it and then gave (the colleges) $230,000 transferred from general funds."

In 1970, Congress agreed to a $150,000 appropriation for the colleges, but refused a request to increase it the following year. In the 1972 fiscal year, however, Congress took a $4 million administration request and provided $12.8 million for the black colleges.

But more is needed, Prairie View's Thomas said.

"The colleges have brought black and poor people from the point of gross deprivation to the threshold of a democracy."

Demonstrations given

TWIN FALLS — Diane Murphy demonstrated four important measurements in sewing to members of the Healthy Cookie Cutters 4-H Club Monday.

Other demonstrations were given by Pam Moseley on how to be a clean cook and Tammy Steel on how to keep a health score card. Miss Steel presided at the meeting at the home of Luann Plott, teen leader. Miss Murphy led the pledges.

Members were thanked for making cookies and working at the booth during the horse show last Saturday. Ticket sales for the 4-H dance jamboree this Friday were reported. The group drew names for secret pals and a gift exchange later this summer.

Janene Webb, junior leader, handed out information sheets on the roll call, demonstrations and meeting dates for the rest of the summer. Mrs. Dale Plott, assistant leader, showed a chart containing each member's project information for the record book.

Miss Plott gave a talk on posture and had the girls practice walking correctly. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Plott. The next meeting will be July 10.

Spud field near Filer turns into sea of lavender blooms

By MARJORIE LIERMAN Times-News writer

Norgold-Russets potatoes in full bloom and the plants are literally covered with lavender-pink flowers which also emit a fragrant odor.

Most potatoes have a white, odorless blossom, so this type of potato is, unique in several respects. Kohntopp says the seed must be ordered from Wisconsin or South Dakota and this is the fourth year he has raised this kind of potato.

Since he planted early, he will harvest early, probably the latter part of August, the farmer said. He will sell the crop right from the field to Carl Gilb, Inc., Twin Falls, who will sort, package and ship the potatoes. The potato is round, of good quality, easily grown, and with no Number Twos, Kohntopp said. He does not store them since he sells them all at harvest time.

Several other farmers in the same vicinity are also growing the potatoes, Kohntopp said, among them one of his sons and a brother.

Bees aid crop in Gem alfalfa

By KATHY CUCCINELLO Times-News writer

RUPERT — Alfalfa farmers have realized crop yields double or triple previous results because of the work of the female leaf-cutter bee.

This small insect, which is assumed to have entered the U. S. during the late 1930's, was once a native of many Asian and European countries. "According to authorities, the bee's migration to this area took about 20 years, and it is now common to southern Idaho, Utah, eastern Oregon and Washington."

Boise Valley farmers discovered the insects' usefulness around 1958 when the crop yield was double its previous output. They have now devised methods to aid the bees, such as housing them in controlled areas during their incubation period.

Germination of a new alfalfa crop is difficult because the alfalfa lower is "self-sterile." It must be tripped or opened in order for pollen to be distributed.

In the past, this was only rarely accomplished by parasites or wind, since the stamens protrudes with a snap when the flower is opened, causing most insects to shy away.

The leaf-cutter bee, however, is not unnerved by this sharp rap on the head, and continues from flower to flower in search of nectar, pollen and bits of leaf for her nest. As she moves, she carries the pollen on her abdominal area, until she can hold no more, and loses just enough along her way to pollinate the new alfalfa crop.

In one lifetime, the bee is capable of depositing up to 40 eggs in various nests, not leaving more than five or six eggs in any one area. A natural nesthole may range from bubble holes in lava to wormwood. Farmers have now saved her the problem of searching for ideal areas by housing the bees in four feet by six inch pine boards.

Each board is drilled with many holes 7-32 of an inch in diameter and three inches deep. One female may occupy six to eight of these holes, each of which will hold a nest and about five eggs.

After many trips gathering sufficient pollen, nectar and leaves to building her nest, the bee returns to one board hole, enters head-first and checks for any intruder. She then backs out of the hole and enters again tail-first.

During this process, she scrapes the pollen from her thorax, side to the floor of the hole and on that deposits her eggs. She then enters head first to regurgitate nectar on the egg-pollen combination. The nest is then covered by small pieces of leaf which the bee has pinched off the alfalfa plant by tiny cutting devices attached to the front of the female.

Quarrels often arise between females who, by mistake, enter the wrong nest. After a few seconds of furious buzzing the intruder female leaves in accelerated reverse.

The male of the leaf-cutter species has only one function — fertilizing the female eggs — and his life span is anywhere from one to three days. The female, on the other hand, will live perhaps 10 times that long.

There are at least as many, if not more, male births as female. Neither sex will adapt or work in temperatures above 90 degrees or below 70.

At the finale of her nest building, the female stuffs the tube with a ball of the same glue-like substance used on her nest.

The life cycle of the leaf-cutter bee begins when it hatches into a larva. After a hibernation period the new bee makes immediate use of its cutting device to break out of the dry, sticky nest. If it is the first to recover from hibernation, the bee may also have to chew past its brothers and sisters from the back of the nest.

The third stage of the leaf-cutter life cycle includes the fertilization of the egg and implantation of the egg in the nest. Usually not more than two such cycles occur during the alfalfa season.

The bees enter a winter-long hibernation period as soon as temperatures drop beneath 70 degrees. The bee boards which stand on end in alfalfa fields all summer are collected in the fall by farmers, and kept in a dry, enclosed area with constantly controlled temperature until spring.

Drilled boards of Ponderosa pine can be purchased, including bees, for $20.00 per board. The price varies with the price of hay and the supply of bees.

Gooding miss weds Shoshone resident

GOODING — Carolyn Conrad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Conrad, Gooding, and Richard Bateman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cal Bateman, Shoshone, were married June 9 at the LDS Temple in Idaho Falls.

A reception in honor of the newlyweds was held that evening at the LDS Church in Gooding. The bride wore a Bridal Original gown of organza in an empire style. The bodice was trimmed with fine cotton, lace with full bishop sleeves.

The high-rise princess line skirt swept to a chapel train and was edged in lace. Her pearl-trimmed lace tulle cap held her elbow length veil of English nylon illusion. Her bouquet was white carnations with yellow roses.

Maid of honor was Janet Conrad, sister of the bride. Attendants were Marilyn Yore, Boise; Kay Tolman, Dallas, Tex. and Tamie Bateman and Jan Bateman, Shoshone. Spencer Bateman was best man.

The three-tier wedding cake was decorated in white with pastel flowers and was baked by Mrs. Gordon Sorensen, aunt of the groom.

Serving at the cake table were Lela Wagner, Gooding, and Nancy Yearsley, Twin Falls. Linda Driscoll was in charge of the guest book. At the gift table were Jeanie Bateman and Jackie Conrad.

Showers for the bride were given by Marilyn Yore, Mrs. Bill Varin and Kay Tolman.

Following a wedding trip to northern Idaho the couple resides at 528 7th Ave. W. in Gooding. The groom will farm with his father.

For an extra bit of decorative dash in the bathroom, add a planter, either wall or ceiling hung. Fill it with trailing ivy. Hardy houseplants that need very little light do well in the moist air of a bathroom.

ISU names students to list

POCATELLO — Eight Magic Valley students have been named to the dean's list for second semester in the college of medical arts, Idaho State University.

They are Karen E. Anderson, Burley, and Leah K. Duncan, Twin Falls, both speech pathology and audiology; Martha V. Ewer and Carolyn Schgorzman, both Burley; Manna L. Akers, Hagerman; Susan D. Johnson, Shoshone; Patricia A. MacKay, Filer, and Sheryl M. Reinke, Buhl, all nursing students.

Seven Magic Valley students also are listed on the pharmacy dean's list for outstanding achievement during the Idaho State University second semester.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My father wrote to you at least 12 years ago, and you put his letter in your column. (You reprinted it twice on request.) My father had it framed and when we brought him here last year to live with us, he carried it in his hands for fear it might get damaged or lost.

When he heard that his letter had been framed and hung in the chapel of a cemetery, he said, "What a pity it will be seen only by those for whom it is too late. It would accomplish more posted on a bulletin board in a high school."

Abby, he made me promise that after he died I would write and ask you to run it once more. He died one week ago today (at 72), so I hope you will print it once more in memory of my beloved father. Here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: I am the most heartbroken person in the world. I could always find the time to go everywhere else, but never time to go visit Mom and Dad. They sat at home alone and loving me just the same. It's too late now to give them those few hours of happiness I was too selfish and too busy to give. Now when I go to their graves and see the green grass above them, I wonder if God will ever forgive me for the heartaches I must have caused them when they were alive. I pray to God that those who still have their parents to visit, do so, and show their love and respect while there is still time, for it's later than you think.

TOO LATE"

DEAR ABBY: While my wife and I were at the movies last evening, a middle-aged woman sitting next to my wife spilled some popcorn on my wife's new suede coat. The butter stains were immediately visible.

I called it to the lady's attention, and all she said was, "Oh, I'm so sorry."

I then whispered to my wife that it would cost about $8 to have her coat cleaned and I was going to suggest to the lady that she should pay for the cleaning. My wife told me not to make a scene, so I kept my mouth shut.

We left the theater and that was that.

Abby, would I have been out of line to have asked the lady to pay for having my wife's coat cleaned?

BEFUDDLED

DEAR BEFUDDLED: No. And you wouldn't have been out of line had you asked the theater manager to pop for the cleaning. (This is a new way to "butter up" customers.)

DEAR ABBY: If you can stand just one more letter about whether to share prize recipes, here it is:

I have a number of excellent recipes, and I have always given them to anyone who asked for them. Like you, my philosophy was, "Do I enjoy something less because someone else enjoys it, too?"

My generosity paid off when I lost one of my favorite recipes. (It was Spanish rice, with about 16 ingredients.) I simply telephoned a friend to whom I had given it, and she gave it back to me.

Now, where would I have been if I had refused to share my best recipes?

HELEN

DEAR HELEN: Out of luck! Good for you. I'm sure many others (including this writer) have had the identical experience.

DEAR ABBY: Sorry to inform you that your husband is not the world's best salesman. My ex-husband is.

He sold my former best friend on the idea that he would make a better husband than her own. I expect any day to hear that he has been called up before the Better Business Bureau for false advertising. GOOD RIDDANCE

Problem? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 6760, L. A., CALIF. 90060 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Castleford picnic scheduled July 23

CASTLEFORD — Benny Blick, president of Castleford Men's Club, announces the first annual picnic perpetuating the establishment of the Balanced Rock Park will be July 23.

Robert Sample has been named general chairman of the event with Rick Milton, last year's chairman, assisting.

The Antique Festival Theatre, produced by Aldrich Bowler, will have a return engagement. The family play this year will be, "America, I Love You." Alan Pierce, club secretary, will head the committee in charge of the repertory company's appearance. A fish derby for the children present will be headed by Phil Blick.

A new feature for this year will be a "Candidates, Meet the People" program giving political candidates an opportunity to briefly state their position and views in their campaign for election this fall. Benny Blick will be contacting all candidates.

Jim LaGrone, chairman of the musical entertainment committee, promises some outstanding talent and enjoyment for all attending.

Jennings Pierce, publicity chairman, said the event would be an old-fashioned picnic with each family bringing its own picnic lunch. He said there would be a concession stand with hot dogs, pop and ice cream for those desiring it. Jim Wheeler is concession stand chairman.

Don Kramer, club vice president, will coordinate the activities of the Boy Scouts for guest parking on the canyon rim. John Ensmann will be in charge of the cars which will shuttle guests down into the park and to the top again.

The picnic proper is scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. and will continue without pause until the Antique Festival Theatre raises the curtain at 8 p.m.

Idaho campaign tab tops $100,000

BOISE (UPI) — Advertising, travel and office expenses and salaries seem to be taking up a lot of the more than $100,000 that Idaho's Senate and congressional candidates have already spent on their campaigns.

According to reports filed at the secretary of state's office under the Campaign Expense Disclosure Act, Senatorial candidate Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, had one of the heaviest advertising campaigns among congressional candidates. He listed expenditures of $19,240—some included $12,041 for printed material and television, $5,161 for outdoor advertising and $1,225 for bumper stickers.

The reports, which have not been filed by Republican congressional candidates Steve Symms or Republican senatorial candidate George Hansen, included campaign expenditures through May 31.

McClure listed $37,000 on hand when his campaign began and reported $6,004 in contributions. His biggest contribution of $2,500 came from Claude C. Wild Jr., vice president of the Gulf Oil Co.

Byron Johnson, Democratic candidate for the Senate, reported he had received $13,929 in contributions and expenses of $16,235.

All his contributions came from labor—$5,000 from the committee on political education which is AFL-CIO. Johnson also received $5,000 from the United States Steelworkers and $500 from the Carpenters Legislative Improvement Committee, $1,000 from the Railway Clerks Political League, and $1,500 from the good Government Committee, which listed its address as Detroit, Mich.

Johnson's advertising expenses were listed as $3,965 for television, printed material, $3,316 bumper stickers, $1,500, newspaper advertising, $1,000, and $1,731 for radio.

Republican senatorial candidate Robert Smylie reported $4,674 in contributions and $547.85 in expenditures. He said in the report that he had $13,801 cash on hand and some of his largest contributions came from Lourayne Klengensmith, $1,000 and Velma Morrison, $400.

His expenses included airline tickets and travel.

Democratic senatorial candidate William E. "Bud" Davis listed contributions of $6,900 and expenses with $2,865 going for travel. His largest contribution came from S.H. Bennion of Idaho Falls of $5,000.

W. Anthony Park, another Democratic senatorial candidate, listed expenses at $3,513 and total contributions of $4,236. His largest expense items were for advertising and phones. His largest contribution, $800 came from Boise attorney Jack Tache.

Ross Bowman, Democratic senatorial candidate who based part of his platform on accepting no contribution larger than $25, reported $2,401 in contributions and expenses, which included rent, printing, postage and calls, of $1,896.

Republican candidate for the Senate Glen Wegger, reported $12,001 in receipts and $11,641 in expenses. He listed his major contributions as the Friends of Glen Wegger and Idahoans for Wegger.

Wayne Kidwell, a state senator and candidate for the Republican nomination to the U.S. House, listed campaign expenditures of $6,922 and contributions of $8,932.

Edward Williams, Democratic congressional candidate from the First District, listed receipts of $6,312 which included a $500 gift from the United Steelworkers and $1,984 in expenses.

Andrus signs anti-litter plea

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has turned part of a potato chip commercial into an autographed plea for motorists to stop littering Idaho's highways.

Rectangular white signs with the black legend, "Idaho is too great to litter" have begun appearing near major highway entrances to the state and along recreational routes.

While a simple plea against littering may not be unique, these signs have a little something extra—they bear a painted replica of the signature, "Cecil D. Andrus, Governor."

Lloyd Howe, executive secretary of the Department of Commerce and Development, said he suggested the legend to the highway department. But he credits Andrus' press secretary, John Hough, with the idea for the signature.

He said the highway department—which is the only state agency with authority to erect signs along the state roadways—recently told him about plans for an anti-litter signing program.

Howe, who had been using radio tape-recordings with the "Idaho is too great to litter" theme, suggested the department use that slogan.

Originally developed for part of a public service commercial for a potato chip company, non-commercial portions of it were excerpted for use by Howe's agency.

Howe said the anti-litter sign sort of evolved from entrance signs the highway department is erected at the state's borders. While Andrus' press secretary suggested the signature for the signs, Howe said he, too, thought it a good idea and pushed it in talks with the highway department.

"It's really something somebody has to say," Howe said.

Jim Pline, state traffic engineer for the department, said his agency started putting up the signs this month. There is one, for instance, along State Highway 21 just outside Boise on the route to the Lucky Peak Recreation Area.

These signs as well as litter barrel signs which feature a blue on white silhouette of trash being deposited in a barrel are being sent out to the six districts around the state. They'll be put up on major routes first and then on the more remote ones—and it probably will take until mid-July to finish the job.

Pline said the department put Andrus' signature on the anti-litter appeal at the request of the governor's office.

He said it is the first time he has seen a sign of this type erected along a state highway although some southern states do put the governor's signature on the entrance sign.

Pline said the signing program—counting both types of litter signs—will cost several thousand dollars. The money will come from state funds and out of the department's "signing program in regards to trying to combat the litter problem," he said.

Yellowstone Park bear hunted down

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI) — A 100-pound female grizzly bear that apparently killed a camper here was trapped and killed by park rangers early Monday.

Rangers said the animal was being shipped to Bozeman, Mont., for an autopsy.

The bear was described as old and possibly ill.

It was snared near the campsite where Harry Walker, 29, Anniston, Ala., was killed early Sunday. Rangers said the bear had been tagged and moved to more remote areas of the park following earlier trouble-making incidents.

Walker was killed when he startled the animal with a flashlight as it was eating food. Walker and a companion had left lying on the ground at their camp.

Park officials said Walker and Phillip Bradberry, Oxford, Ala., had camped in a restricted area near Old Faithful Geyser. Bradberry was not injured but being treated for shock after watching his friend being mauled to death.

Rangers were continuing to patrol the area where the incident occurred.

Chase nets charge

GOODING — Bud Winkler, 44, Gooding, appeared before Magistrate Charles C. Shaw Monday morning and requested continuance before entering a plea.

He was charged with driving while intoxicated, having no driver's license and leaving the scene of an accident after a chase through Gooding late Friday.

According to City Police Officer Dwayne Walker, Winkler was traveling north on Colorado Street when he ran over the sidewalk and over a parking area onto the front yard of property owned by Ralph Vaughn.

Winkler reportedly left the scene and was chased by neighbors of Vaughn to a cafe, where he was arrested by city police.

EBRONIX OFFERS CHILDREN

A MORE SUCCESSFUL FUTURE IN SCHOOL. James R. Bradshaw operates a testing machine for Jeff A. Bartlett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Bartlett, Route 4, Twin Falls, while Darlene Ohlenschlaeger records progress for evaluation. Each child is tested to determine the exact level and all of his instruction is designed to fit him specifically. The development of skills is done by tutoring on a one-to-one basis. The tutor spends one hour each day with the child. Once each week the child is tested at the Ebronix Learning Center to determine his progress. Accelerated learning is offered in the fundamental fields of Reading, Spelling and Math.

Students may start any time giving the student a chance to improve during the summer months for a more successful scholastic year next fall.

Free diagnostic testing is done to place the child in his especially designed program. Monthly conferences are held with the parents about the child's development. All services are guaranteed. Most children can advance one grade level in as short a period as six weeks. Personal motivation including graduation diplomas is granted to each child. A program may be developed to coordinate with the present school program. Have your child tested today by calling 734-2369.

Hollifield named chief of Jerome school board

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — Gordon Hollifield was elected chairman of the Jerome School Board Monday night.

Hollifield was elected by fellow trustees at the board's annual reorganizational meeting. Others elected were Leroy Welgle, vice chairman; newly-sworn-in trustee William Kearsy, treasurer; Warren Kays, clerk; and Frank Heltig, school attorney.

The board accepted without prejudice the resignations of Marya Duncan and Linda Reid, district teachers, and Margaret Seed, junior high school secretary, who will be succeeded by Ann Wellhausen.

In related action, the board approved Supt. John Campbell's request to offer contracts to five teachers. They include Geraldine Card, 34, Jerome, first grade, BA degree from the University of Idaho in elementary English, education and social science; Lynnda Dunn, 30, Boise, sixth grade, BA degree in education from Boise State College, and also attended College of Southern Idaho.

Kathleen Chapman, 39, Jerome, high school English, BA degree in speech and social education and an MA degree in English drama from New Mexico Highlands University, Las Vegas, N. M.; Carol Allred, 28, Bellevue, high school English; BA degree from Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, in English and psychology.

Campbell reported to the board on a note from the Ray Duncan family to bus driver Jerry Osler. "The Duncan family, whose last child graduated this year, thanked Osler for being such a good driver over the past ten years," Campbell told the board.

Campbell said he thought it was worthy of mention because usually, the only type of notes received are complaints.

The board approved partial payment of $1,500 to Levi Gifford for remodeling the front of the junior high school. The total bill is expected to be $7,700.

Also, $300 was approved to pay Mike Morgan for tile work in the junior high rest rooms.

Ron Rogers, certified public accountant, was hired to do the annual audit of the school district.

Campbell reported the activities fund for the high school is in the black this year, noting that football supported itself and basketball showed a profit which helped pay for the other activities.

Campbell read the trustees the proper legal procedures in reorganizing the district, and presented the board petitions containing 119 signatures requesting rezoning.

Hollifield moved that a change of zones be instigated by the board, which was approved.

He said by the board's instigating the action, the necessity for verifying the signatures on the petitions will be eliminated. The petitions must have 50 qualified elector signatures according to state law.

A check of the zones by Campbell shows there are about 492 residents in zone 1; 500 in zone 2; 750 in zone 3; 334 in zone 4, and 400 in zone 5.

The trustees approved by a 4-1 vote to join the Idaho School Trustees Association and pay the $400 fee. Hollifield objected to the district's rejoining the organization, saying he does not feel the association represents the taxpayers or does anything of much value.

"I feel the district would be more effective in getting legislation passed by contacting our legislators and representatives ourselves. When we bypass them, they must listen to the trustees' association, and our local representatives are not sure of how or what are our district's needs," Hollifield said.

Campbell also questioned the amount of the fee, but noted that if the district does not belong to the association, "We are out on a limb in getting information. We could not effect exchange of information with other districts without a clearing house, which the association serves as," Campbell said.

The board approved a recommendation by Campbell that the district serve as "district of record" for the proposals, being drawn up by eight Magic Valley superintendents for the vocational program to be held this fall at CSI.

Campbell told the board the program has been in effect the past three years, but has been run very poorly. He explained that he has met with superintendents in the valley who are unhappy with the program, and has drawn up some guidelines for it.

They recommend the program be designed primarily for senior students who only need a couple of credits to graduate from high school, Campbell said. "Rather than have these students spend their spare time in my study halls, or in classes they don't want to be in, they will have the opportunity of attending the vocational classes at CSI. The classes will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. five days a week for eight weeks, starting this fall," Campbell said.

He noted the only cost to the district will be for transportation, and no cost to the students.

Support shown on Filer levy

HOLLISTER — About 15 taxpayers in the Hollister area attended an information meeting Monday night and expressed general support of a plant facilities levy.

The meeting was held to inform the voters and seek their views on a proposed five-mill levy plant facilities election for school district #13 covering the Hollister and Filer areas. The election is scheduled for July 7.

A similar meeting is scheduled for tonight at 8 p.m. and in the Filer High School for property owners and school patrons of the Filer area.

Ray Baker, newly appointed school superintendent, said nearly all the property owners attending the Hollister meeting indicated they feel the five-mill levy is necessary to continue the program of maintenance and improvement of school buildings in Hollister and Filer.

He said the levy has not been imposed in District #13 pending final payment on the bond issue floated a number of years ago to provide for the Filer High School building improvement. These bonds were retired last year, he said.

The five mills would raise $37,000 per year for the proposed six-year period. First year improvements under the plant facility revenue would include new heating plants in the Filer and Hollister elementary schools with general improvements to all three school buildings in the district.

Plans are to set aside about $5,000 per year from the special levy toward a permanent building fund to provide additional buildings as needed and to complete a vocational agricultural building in Filer and to blacktop drive and parking areas around all three schools.

Baker told the patrons there are 110 schools of the 150 in Idaho utilizing the plant facilities levy to maintain and improve school buildings.

He also presented a similar program for the Filer Kiwanis Club members Tuesday.

Lawrence Knigge, school board chairman, conducted the Monday night meeting and Tom Turner, retiring superintendent, discussed the proposal.

Turner, who is retiring July 1, said the school has prepared a list of priority needs for the Filer and Hollister elementary schools and the Filer High School.

He said the top ten of these priority needs could probably be met in the first year of the levy.

If approved by a majority of the voters in the district, the five mill levy would mean a net increase for district taxpayers of only two and one half mills the patrons are now paying for the Filer High School bonds will be eliminated in the coming year's tax levy.

Ray Baker, newly appointed school superintendent, said nearly all the property owners attending the Hollister meeting indicated they feel the five-mill levy is necessary to continue the program of maintenance and improvement of school buildings in Hollister and Filer.

He said the levy has not been imposed in District #13 pending final payment on the bond issue floated a number of years ago to provide for the Filer High School building improvement. These bonds were retired last year, he said.

The five mills would raise $37,000 per year for the proposed six-year period. First year improvements under the plant facility revenue would include new heating plants in the Filer and Hollister elementary schools with general improvements to all three school buildings in the district.

Plans are to set aside about $5,000 per year from the special levy toward a permanent building fund to provide additional buildings as needed and to complete a vocational agricultural building in Filer and to blacktop drive and parking areas around all three schools.

Baker told the patrons there are 110 schools of the 150 in Idaho utilizing the plant facilities levy to maintain and improve school buildings.

He also presented a similar program for the Filer Kiwanis Club members Tuesday.

Lawrence Knigge, school board chairman, conducted the Monday night meeting and Tom Turner, retiring superintendent, discussed the proposal.

Turner, who is retiring July 1, said the school has prepared a list of priority needs for the Filer and Hollister elementary schools and the Filer High School.

He said the top ten of these priority needs could probably be met in the first year of the levy.

If approved by a majority of the voters in the district, the five mill levy would mean a net increase for district taxpayers of only two and one half mills the patrons are now paying for the Filer High School bonds will be eliminated in the coming year's tax levy.

HOLLISTER — About 15 taxpayers in the Hollister area attended an information meeting Monday night and expressed general support of a plant facilities levy.

The meeting was held to inform the voters and seek their views on a proposed five-mill levy plant facilities election for school district #13 covering the Hollister and Filer areas. The election is scheduled for July 7.

A similar meeting is scheduled for tonight at 8 p.m. and in the Filer High School for property owners and school patrons of the Filer area.

American pulls upset at Wimbledon tennis event

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Jim Connors, fifth-ranked American from Belleville, Ill., survived a string of double faults on crucial points Monday to pull the first upset at the 88th Wimbledon lawn tennis championships when he eliminated seventh-seeded Bob Hewitt of South Africa in straight sets.

Connors, the 20-year-old winner of the Queens Club tournament last week, made his Wimbledon debut on Center Court and upset Hewitt, 6-3, 9-7, 7-5 in a tense two-hour struggle to maintain the tournament's tradition of a seed falling on the opening day.

Tournament favorite Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., and the only American male to be seeded, opened the championships by rolling to a 52-minute victory over bearded German Hans-Joachim Platz, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3.

Smith, beaten finalist last year when he lost in five sets to John Newcombe, was given the honor of opening the tournament because the Australian and 31 fellow World Championship Tennis professionals were barred from playing because of a dispute between their organization and the International

Ali, Quarry take physicals

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Muhammad Ali and Jerry Quarry shook hands and almost came out fighting Monday, indulging in a bit of arm wrestling when they took their physical examinations for their scheduled 12-round bout Tuesday night.

Both fighters wore rather strained expressions during the few moments of horseplay. They were given physical OKs by Dr. Donald J. Romeo, of the Nevada State Athletic Commission.

Light heavyweight Bob Foster, and challenger Mike Quarry, Jerry's 21-year-old brother, on the same card at the convention center, also passed their physicals.

Romeo said the Quarry brothers' blood pressures were slightly elevated, indicating more tension than Ali and Foster showed.

Mike had a blood pressure reading of 122-74 while Jerry's was 122-80. Foster's blood

Conigliaro may return to club

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Outfielder Billy Conigliaro, who left the Milwaukee Brewers without a word Sunday, told the club Monday he wanted time to reevaluate his personal life, leaving Brewers officials thinking he may return to baseball.

"My whole life has been tied up in baseball," Conigliaro said in a letter to the Brewers. "It has started to become an unhappy chore rather than a pleasant way to earn a living."

"My recent slump and being taken out of the starting lineup may have affected me—but my discontent is deeper than that," he said.

"I want to reevaluate my personal life in a perspective away from baseball. Also, I want to be a part of my business commitment in Boston. I would like to visit with my parents and my brothers, although the final decision will be mine," he said.

"I refuse to discuss the matter any further or to answer any questions. I will add that I was happy with the Brewers management and with the Milwaukee fans."

Conigliaro's mention of the batting slump referred to his batting average which dropped from .268 to .230 in the past three weeks. Manager Del Crandall took the rightfielder out of the starting lineup three times since last Thursday.

The 25-year-old outfielder, who came to the Brewers in a 10-player trade with the Boston Red Sox last fall, was a starter all season until last week, hitting seven home runs and batting in 16 runs.

Aparicio is injured

Federation.

Connors served three double-faults when serving for 5-3 in the third set, while he had another in the 4th game when serving for the second set.

Afterwards he said: "You can call it a crooked elbow. My mind started to wander and I lost concentration, but I pulled it out in the end."

The capacity crowd of 15,000 Center Court fans were behind Connors throughout his match with the 32-year-old Hewitt, who probably has more experience on the world's premier show court than anyone else in the 128-man field.

Hewitt hit a string of unforced errors. He appeared slow about the court—and this gave the left-handed American,

Brewers stop Baltimore 3-0

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Joe Lohoud scored the game's first run in the first inning and homered in the sixth inning Monday night to give the Milwaukee Brewers a 3-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles behind the one-hit pitching of Skip Lockwood and Ken Sanders.

Lohoud scored the game's first run in the first inning and homered in the sixth inning Monday night to give the Milwaukee Brewers a 3-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles behind the one-hit pitching of Skip Lockwood and Ken Sanders.

Lockwood pitched a one-hit ball for 7 1/2 innings, allowing only one run in the sixth inning. Sanders pitched the final 1 1/2 innings, allowing no runs.

The Brewers' offense was led by Lohoud, who hit a home run in the first inning and another in the sixth. He also had two RBIs.

The Orioles' lineup was led by Tony Oliva, who hit a home run in the first inning. He also had two RBIs.

The game was played at the Milwaukee County Stadium.

Cardinals nip Montreal 4-3

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Dale Maxwell scored and Lou Brock's fly sailed over Boos Day's head in centerfield Monday night to back the slight pitching of Bob Gibson and give the St. Louis Cardinals a 4-3 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Brock was credited with a double on the game-winning play as Maxwell scored from first base in the second inning.

The other three St. Louis runs came on Joe Torre's homer which scored Ted Sizemore and Matty Alou, who both had singled in the first inning.

The Cardinals have won their last six games and 11 of their last 15.

Montreal's lineup was led by Tony Oliva, who hit a home run in the first inning. He also had two RBIs.

The Cardinals' lineup was led by Dale Maxwell, who hit a home run in the first inning. He also had two RBIs.

The game was played at the St. Louis Cardinals Stadium.

Cubs to win

CHICAGO (UPI)—Rick Reuschel, making his first major league start, pitched the Chicago Cubs to an 11-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Monday.

The Cubs backed Reuschel with a 15-hit attack and snapped a four-game losing streak, including the last three to the Pittsburgh Pirates, in the process.

Reuschel, 23, who had won once in two previous relief appearances, held the Phils to six hits, three of them in the first inning when Willie Montanez singled in the only run the Phils got.

Philadelphia's lineup was led by Tony Oliva, who hit a home run in the first inning. He also had two RBIs.

The Cubs' lineup was led by Rick Reuschel, who pitched a one-hit ball for 7 1/2 innings, allowing only one run in the first inning. He also had two RBIs.

The game was played at the Chicago Stadium.

Giants blank Atlanta 3-0

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Leftyatter Ron Bryant pitched his second straight shutout Monday as the San Francisco Giants defeated the Atlanta Braves, 3-0.

Bryant, who pitched a two-hitter against the Chicago Cubs in his last start, blanked the Braves with a three-bitter. The victory was his fifth against four defeats.

San Francisco's lineup was led by Tony Oliva, who hit a home run in the first inning. He also had two RBIs.

The Braves' lineup was led by Dale Maxwell, who hit a home run in the first inning. He also had two RBIs.

The game was played at the San Francisco Giants Stadium.

Hull to sign with WHA

WINNIPEG, Man. (UPI)—Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks "will definitely be signing" a multi-year contract worth "about $3 million" with the Winnipeg Jets of the newly-formed World Hockey Association, the Jet's general manager Annis Stukis said Monday.

The Jet's manager said Hull was offered "somewhere around $3 million give or take a couple of hundred thousand."

The agreement includes a five-year playing contract after which Hull would go into management.

"If and when that happens, Bobby expects to move to Winnipeg and settle down," Stukis said.

"It's the biggest sports story of the last ten years," Stukis said. "It's comparable to the signing of Mickey Mantle."

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 28, 1972

CARROLL RIGNER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning finds you eager for changes and a willingness to fight to get what you want. Try to wait until the afternoon when you will have more inspiration and the advantage of knowing what you want most of all. Be altruistic. Be happy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A higher-up can be in a bad mood during the morning, so work carefully and avoid confrontation, if possible. The evening can be spent happily with congenials. Be wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Keep busy at career matters and please higher-ups, since this is not a good day for new ideas or starting a new project. Go after personal aims but avoid anything extravagant.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle your responsibilities in a conscientious way so that higher-ups will be pleased. Show patience to those who owe you money. Being thoughtful to mate now is wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) The afternoon is best for making new arrangements with associates since the morning is a difficult time. Be sure you are in control of yourself. Speak quietly but firmly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take care of duties that are necessary early so that later you can be with associates to talk over a new deal. Evening is best time for amusements. Show you are a good mixer.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Attend to duties you can do most efficiently in the morning, then you'll have free time for being with individuals you enjoy. Improve your appearance and be at your best.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) Do whatever will please those who dwell with you in the morning, and then engage in creative activities you enjoy. Evening is best time for recreation. Avoid controversy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) Come through with promises made to an associate early in the day, then devote yourself to family and home. Finish those errands and keep appointments on time for best results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Financial matters should be handled in the morning so you can later go out to other activities. Don't neglect to pay an important bill. Enjoy your hobby in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care of personal problems early in the morning then get down to career affairs. If you do something about improving your health, you can accomplish more than before.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle any difficulties in the morning so that later you can enjoy the social side of life. Take the exercise that will improve your health. Avoid one who is too talkative.

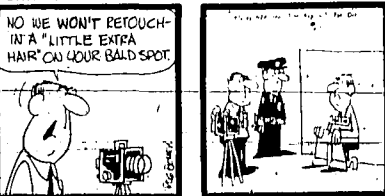

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are able to help a good friend who is in trouble. You should do so cheerfully. Later make better plans for the future. Experts give fine advice. Show appreciation.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be one of those delightful young people who early in life wants to be alone to work on practical matters and get everything well organized. The field of government is fine here, as well as personnel work, the theater, the lecture platform, etc. Give as fine an education as you can afford.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

'Fat Doctor' Makes Money

"The threat of a neglected cold is for doctors what the threat of purgatory is for priests — a gold mine." Nicholas Chamfort

Client asks what sort of medical specialist makes the most money. The surgeon maybe, don't know. Do know about 1,000 so-called "fat doctors" reportedly earn more than $100,000 a year each. These are the old boys who exclusively treat patients who want to lose or gain weight.

ANOTHER common expression that doesn't hold up is that phrase "mad as a wet hen." Lot of poultry men on these blazing hot days turn on cold showers in their coops. And the hens reportedly love that.

IT WAS none other than the great Groucho Marx who suggested skydiving can be stopped by giving each passenger upon boarding the airplane two parachutes and $500,000 in small unmarked bills.

LADYFRIEND Am asked if the ladyfriend was a northern girl or a southern belle. Tell you about that. Years ago I was informed the snazzy southern belles were apt to be pretty, gentle and romantic, while the fifty northern girls tended to be clever, snappy and diligent. So I said I wanted a southern belle with considerable experience in the north, and that's what I got.

WHY is it the antique dealers tend to charge about $150 each for the Civil War's Union swords, but only about $75 each for the Confederate swords? JUST about 88 out of every 100 gunshot victims recover. And 98 out of 100 stabbing victims do likewise.

WHAT'S the commonest insect of all? The ant. The ant.

QUERIES

Q "Who said, 'What if my trousers are shabby and dirty, they cover a warm heart?'"

A That old boy was Tom Masson. He also said: "Hamlet is the tragedy of tackling a family problem too soon after college." And: "You're not treating a girl right unless you ruin her digestion."

Q "Which way does a cat purr, breathing out or breathing in?"

A Both ways. Two vocal chords. One sounds off on the inhale, the other on the exhale. It's not like snoring.

Q "HOW many miles per hour does your blood run through your arteries when you exercise?"

A Little better than five m.p.h.

Cassia residents given awards on cleanup drive

BURLEY — Awards were presented to Cassia County residents during a noon luncheon Monday at Price's Cafe by Bureau of Land Management officials.

Max Bruce, district manager of BLM, spoke briefly giving highlights of the April 26 county-wide Johnny Horizon cleanup. He expressed thanks to the citizens of the county for their help in the project.

Chamber meets at GF

GLENN'S FERRY — The Glenns Ferry Chamber of Commerce met Monday noon at Hansen's Cafe for a luncheon.

John O'Connor, city recreation director for Mountain Home was guest speaker.

He told of the recreation program in Mountain Home, and the problems they had in maintaining a swimming pool.

The group voted to recess until July 31.

"For the future the BLM officials are looking at a four-county cleanup since there is a four-county planning commission which includes Cassia, Twin Falls, Jerome and Minidoka," said Bruce.

"The awards are taken awards to the area coordinators for their assistance in the Cassia County Johnny Horizon countywide cleanup," Bruce said.

Bruce presented the framed certificates to Bernard Bradshaw, Milner, Leo Henschel, Burley; Dick Fuqua, Declo; Lyle Durfee, Elba; Jim Chaburn, Albion; Dallan Elquist, Oakley; Don Carson, Malta and Jack Erickson, Almog.

Lou Martindale, BLM official who served as co-chairman of cleanup, presented an environment award to the county commissioners and the people of the county.

John Clark, chairman of the county commissioners, accepted the large framed award in behalf of the residents of the county.

In accepting the award Clark said "We appreciate the people of the county and the BLM officials who took the lead in organizing the cleanup. Already we can see a great difference in the county and the new county landfill is working better all the time. As commissioners we are looking forward to the next county-wide Johnny Horizon cleanup."

Demonstration given to club

BURLEY — Ten members answered roll call for Cassiaettes 4-H Club meeting Monday at the home of Mrs. Jeanne Glaesemann.

Darlene Graves, president, conducted the business session. A discussion was held on 4-H camp and a 4-H picnic.

Lynnette Warren demonstrated cake making, Alana Tilley demonstrated making lemonade and Teresa Tegan gave a demonstration on sewing.

Spudnuts club meets

DEULO — The Deulo Spudnuts held its 4-H club meeting Monday at Kiwanis Park. Members viewed demonstrations and heard reports on 4-H camp.

Laurie Harris gave a demonstration on the proper way to brush hair and Becky Anderson demonstrated the proper way to wash faces. Both are health projects.

Mrs. Betty Walker, club leader, discussed 4-H camp. The food record books were discussed by Mrs. Walker and assignments were given in each project.

Mind Your Money

By PETER WEAVER
(First of two articles)

There are so many chemical food additives these days you practically have to stop eating to avoid them.

Fortunately, not all additives are as bad as they sound. You have to be selective in your worries. Otherwise, you might slide into a form of paranoia, mulling such things as "They're poisoning everything."

A couple of practical-minded scientists—friends, who enjoy eating, suggest concentrating your concern on three major additives:

1. Nitrites and nitrates. These chemicals are used primarily in processed meats such as hot dogs, ham and bacon as a preservative to prevent botulism poisoning and to enhance color.
2. They're particularly suspicious because they can combine with other chemicals to form nitrosamines which are a possible cause of cancer. The Food and Drug Administration recently discovered nitrosamines in cooked bacon and ordered a review of all nitrates and nitrites used in foods. Previously, nitrosamines had only been found in smoked fish treated with nitrates.
3. According to Dr. Jay Arena, president of the American Academy of Pediatrics, "nitrates can be particularly dangerous for babies." An infant's body chemistry, he says, is more sensitive to this chemical which can cause a certain form of anemia in the very young.

2. Artificial coloring. In his book, "Eater's Digest," soon to be published by Doubleday, Dr. Michael P. Jacobson says there are two principal food colors to worry about — red no. 2 and violet no. 1. The red is used in soft drinks, ice cream, candy, baked goods, sausage and some cereals. The violet is used in USDA meat stamps, candy and soft drinks.

Soviet tests showed red no. 2 caused birth defects in laboratory animals, and Canadian tests showed violet no. 1 caused cancer. Unfortunately, data from both tests were incomplete or lost.

The FDA has ordered a review of all food colors because they have never been tested as a possible cause of birth defects. The World Health Organization issued a warning against violet no. 1.

There are other suspected colors such as citrus red no. 2, colors orange skins, orange B, used on some hot dogs and yellow no. 5, colors butter, margarine, synthetic orange drinks. The red has suspected connections with cancer, the yellow is related to red no. 2 birth defect suspicions and the orange causes allergic reactions in some people. These colors, however, are not widely used.

3. BHT and BHA. They're used as antioxidants in many products that contain vegetable or fatty oils. Before April 1, manufacturers could get away with just calling them "freshness preservatives." Now, FDA says they must be labeled by name.

BHT accumulates in body fat and neither BHT nor BHA has been effectively ruled out as a cause of cancer.

4. Friendly chemicals. Some additives are not considered dangerous and are even mildly nutritious. Calcium propionate, for example, is used to inhibit mold in bread. Nutritionists say calcium is good for you and propionate is easily metabolized by the body.

Phosphates used in evaporated milk, cheese, ice cream, bakery goods and other products are also considered somewhat nutritious.

Although not necessarily nutritious, the ominous-sounding "carboxy-methyl-cellulose" used as a stabilizer in ice cream, beverages and baked goods is not considered harmful. Neither are the glycerides (di- and mono-) which are used in ice cream and baked goods.

According to Dr. Jacobson, "the most worrisome additives — nitrites, nitrates, colors, BHT, BHA — are usually found in foods that are of dubious nutritional value. . . you can avoid them without upsetting your diet."

He suggests selecting brands that don't have these additives or substituting other kinds of foods and drinks.

TIMES-NEWS STORY INFORMATION

The Times-News would like to have information concerning activities of your organization. To make preparation of news stories easier, this form is provided. It offers spaces for the principal elements in every news story—WHO, WHERE, WHAT, WHEN, WHY and HOW. Because additional information may be desired, the news desk asks that the name of the contributor be provided, along with a telephone number where that source of information may be reached.

The Times News has a deadline of two days following an event in which information will be printed. So, if an event occurs on Monday, information about it should be submitted early enough so it can be in Wednesday's newspaper. There is no limit on how far in advance of a coming event that a story may be submitted.

Important—USE FULL NAMES, NOT NICKNAMES. BE SURE NAMES ARE SPELLED CORRECTLY.

River Street?

RIVER STREET seems to be the proper name for this inundated street in Corning, N. Y., one of the hardest hit communities in New York by tropical storm Agnes. Agnes left at least 122 persons dead, most of them from flooding in northeastern states, and damage approaching $2 billion. (UPI)

Valley resource director hired

TWIN FALLS — Eric Barnes, Sebastopol, Calif., has been hired as planning director for the South Idaho Resource Planning and Development Association.

Heber L. Loughmiller, executive board chairman, said Barnes will begin work on July 15. His office will be at 634 Addison Ave. W.

Barnes, 28, will serve as director of the four county association which includes Cassia, Jerome, Minidoka and Twin Falls counties. His principal job will be to coordinate and assist with resource planning for the association, Loughmiller said.

Valley Briefs

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone Industrial Development Association will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday June 28 at the Manhattan cafe. "Land areas" will be studied along with formulations of plans for upcoming projects, Robert Miller, chairman, said today.

TE resident wins model plane contest

TWIN FALLS — Robert Gillespie, Twin Falls, won first place in the scale division of the Spokane International Radio Controlled Model Airplane Meet.

Gillespie's winning entry was a reproduction of a Ryan S-1A with a 6-foot wingspan. He also entered radio controlled glider and took third place in that division of the meet. His first place plane was flown in competition in the meet, he said.

'Wheels' go through Richfield

By DIXIE DIXON
Times-News writer
RICHFIELD — The Wandering Wheels made a short visit Monday morning to Richfield after spending Sunday in Gooding.

The group expected to reach Arco Monday evening.

The 47 boys are on a bicycle tour of the United States which began at Canon Beach, Ore., and will end at Rehoboth Beach, Del. The group started June 18 and plans to end the 3,500-mile trip in about 35 days or around July 23.

The group of youths is "preaching Christ through bikes," according to a spokesman for the group. None of them drink or smoke and they do not ride on Sundays but spend those days giving programs at various churches along the way.

The boys, aged 14 through 27, furnish their own bicycles and each pays $250, the cost of the trip. They come from all parts of the United States and Canada, and many are students at Taylor University, Upland, Ind., which sponsor the tour.

The riders wear blue shorts and yellow wind jackets and have orange fluorescent patches around their waists and fluorescent pennants attached to their bicycle "handles" so riders and bicycles can be seen easily.

They average between 100 to 120 miles per day. "The ride is rough and physically tough," said a youth from Lancaster, Pa., who added that "we depend on God to give us strength to get through each day."

They hope by their ride to prove that Christians are not sissies, they said. The group is inter-denominational.

The riders are accompanied by three girl cooks who drive a truck and follow-up car and trailer. When asked how they get along with that many boys, the girls said, "Just fine."

Although many of the riders are from the east coast, they came to Oregon to begin the ride because it is tradition to start from the West and it also gives them the wind at their backs, they said.

The group planned to go to Idaho Falls through Jackson Hole and the Tetons.

Hansen talks to Camas supporters

FAIRFIELD — George Hansen addressed supporters at a breakfast meeting in Fairfield Monday.

He said the difference between himself and his opponents in the U. S. Senate race gives the people a "clear choice between a candidate who can get things done and those who simply talk about it."

Hansen said he is the only candidate in the race planning to work for a seat on the Senate Agriculture Committee where many decisions affecting Idaho farmers are made.

Speaking at Shoshone later, Hansen said while others talk about detrimental effects of the Occupational Safety and Health Act, he has circulated petitions throughout the state calling for repeal of certain "Gestapo-like" provisions of the OSHA. He said the completed petitions will be taken to members of the House and Senate appropriations administration offices in Washington D. C. to press for relief from the federal OSHA regulations.

Hansen also was to speak Monday at the College of Southern Idaho about a Grange meeting in Kimberly.

He will speak tonight at the GOP Women's Club in Boise before beginning a tour through northern Idaho for the rest of the week.
