

US returns to talks as peace hopes rise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon says the United States and North Vietnam have agreed to resume peace talks July 13 and that serious negotiations could end the war within seven months.

"If those negotiations go forward in a constructive and serious way," Nixon said Thursday night, "this war can be ended and it can be ended well before Jan. 20."

The talks in Paris were broken off by the United States May 4.

The President said at a news conference he believed that the bombing of North Vietnam and the mining of Communist harbors in the past seven weeks turned the war around and forced the Communists to the table for the first serious negotiations since the talks began in 1968.

"It has always been my theory that in dealing with these very pragmatic men—and we must respect them for their strengths and their pragmatism—who lead the Communist nations, that they respect strength—not belligerence but strength—and at least that is the way I am always going to approach it, and I think it is going to be successful," Nixon said.

Sen. George S. McGovern, the front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination, said he was "always glad to see the Paris peace talks open again," but did not expect them to produce anything until the United States was ready to set a date for total disengagement.

McGovern said the bombing, which Nixon renewed May 8, was a "miserable, immoral outrage that's against everything decent this country stands for and if I'm elected President it's going to end 30 seconds after I take office."

Nixon said the U.S. position will be the same one on the table when the talks broke off—an internationally supervised cease-fire and a total withdrawal of all Americans within four months. The President said an end to the bombing would also be a bargaining chip.

The 43-minute news conference, which was carried live on radio and television, was Nixon's first full session with the press since June 1, 1971. There were several occasions in the 13-month period, however, when the President met the press on specific matters.

Senate OKs SS boosts

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate today voted today to increase Social Security benefits by 20 per cent just before the presidential election—and to increase payroll taxes just after the election.

The vote was 82-10. The Senate approved the big hike after first voting down, 66 to 20, President Nixon's advice to scale down the increase to 10 per cent.

The benefits increase was attached as an amendment to a bill to raise the national debt limit, expected to be approved later today before Congress begins a 10-day recess for the Democratic National Convention.

The higher Social Security benefits would take effect Sept. 1 for 28 million people—one American in eight.

Payroll taxes to finance the increase, taking effect Jan. 1, would be 41 per cent higher than this year's taxes for workers who earn $12,000 a year or more.

Supporters of the plan felt Nixon would find it difficult to veto the big benefit increase by attaching it to the measure to retain the $450 billion temporary ceiling on the national debt.

Jobless list remains long

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Labor Department reports its list of major cities with "substantial" unemployment of 6 per cent or more remained unchanged in June at 54. But the number of smaller areas with joblessness that high went up by six to an all-time high of 84.

This marked the sixteenth consecutive month that at least one-third of the 150 largest metropolitan areas in the nation were on the 6 per cent or more unemployment list. A high point of 65 was reached last October.

State to evaluate schools

By RICHARD G. HIGH

Times-News Managing Editor

TWIN FALLS — In unprecedented action, the Idaho Legislative Fiscal-Budget Committee voted to follow state funds into local school districts to find out how well they are used.

The committee, meeting Thursday in Twin Falls, unanimously approved a motion by co-chairman Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, to conduct performance audits of representative school districts.

The performance audits would be the first ever conducted by the Idaho Legislature on non-state agencies.

Sen. High said the legislature currently lacks information needed to evaluate the use of state funds appropriated to schools.

Legislative Auditor James Defenbach said after the meeting that one likely approach to the project would be to audit three districts representative of large, medium-sized and small districts.

He said the audit would have two purposes: To evaluate the effectiveness of state funds distributed to school districts, and to evaluate the overall performance of districts in meeting educational goals.

Defenbach said the audits would require at least one "man-year" of effort by committee auditors.

He said the task could not be completed before the next legislative session.

The three districts to be audited will be chosen by the committee co-chairmen Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, and Sen. High after consultation with Sup't. of Public Instruction D. F.

Engelking.

The committee action followed presentation of a performance audit of the Idaho State Department of Public Instruction.

One of the findings of the department audit report was that state-distributed funds may be improperly used by school districts.

The report said it was unable to confirm such misuse, and reported that the state department of public instruction had inadequate data for such a determination.

Besides the school district audits the committee also called for fiscal audits of the offices of governor and lieutenant governor, Customarily, Defenbach said, these offices were not included in the regular audits.

South Viets advance

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese paratroopers, part of a 21,000-man task force trying to retake Communist-held Quang Tri Province, leapfrogged in U.S. helicopters to within three miles of the province's strategic capital city today.

It was the closest yet government troops have come to Quang Tri City in their counteroffensive, now three days old. They closed in Thursday night on three sides to within five miles of the city, captured by the North Vietnamese along with the rest of the country's northernmost province May 1.

U.S. B52 bombers pounded targets within four miles of the city to back the push.

President Nixon said Thursday night in Washington the South Vietnamese drive on Quang Tri Province has put the government on the offensive in the war. He cautioned, however, that the North Vietnamese would continue their offensive and that the conflict was not over yet. He also said the Paris peace talks, broken off May 4, would resume July 13.

The assault on Quang Tri, however, took its toll on neighboring Thua Thien Province to the south, home of the old imperial capital of Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon. The South Vietnamese—their numbers sapped by the Quang Tri push—gave up an artillery base 12 miles southwest of Hue to the Communists.

Field reports said Artillery Base Checkmate was abandoned after a heavy North Vietnamese attack during the night. Other bases stand between Checkmate and Hue, notably Bastogne.

Military sources said the loss of Checkmate bore out allied commanders' concern that in advancing on Quang Tri, the South Vietnamese may be stripping the western defenses of Hue, 32 miles south of Quang Tri City, to a dangerous degree.

In the air war over the North, U.S. fighter-bomber pilots in 210 sorties (a sortie is one flight by one plane) in the 24 hours ending at 5 p.m. Thursday reported "damaging" surface-to-air (SAM) missile sites.

Mac stalks lost votes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George S. McGovern expressed confidence today that the full Democratic National Convention would overturn a ruling denying him 451 California delegates and that he would win the party's presidential nomination.

McGovern was still bitter, after sleeping a night on the Credentials Committee's decision leaving him only 120 of the 21 delegates he was awarded after winning the June 6 California primary. He refused to say absolutely he would support the nominee if he failed to win the selection. The South Dakota senator said the Credentials decision, sure to set off a heated convention floor fight the opening night of the meeting at Miami Beach July 10, would be reversed.

He predicted the action may actually "rebound to my favor" and said, "I am convinced more than ever that I will win the nomination."

McGovern said he was "horrified" at the 72-66 decision upholding a challenge of California's winner-take-all rules.

Andrus balks at cash count

BOISE (UPI)—Legislative Auditor James A. Defenbach attempted to conduct an independent year-end audit of the general fund agencies, but the attempt was stopped by Gov. Cecil Andrus.

Andrus directed state agencies to give the information only to the budget office and not the legislative auditor.

Andrus accused Defenbach of a "political witch hunt."

Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, charged the Governor's action had "stepped over executive bounds in placing a block in the way of legislative business."

Roberts said in Buhl that "it has long been the legislature's privilege of checking on receipts and expenditures inasmuch as it is the branch of government that makes the appropriations to the various state agencies."

"This is anything else but a political witch hunt," Roberts said.

The Governor's action, he said, "simply boils down to the Governor attempting to suppress the facts from the Legislature as of the close of the fiscal year."

He charged Andrus had "made up his mind long ago that there was to be a deficit situation in the state."

"Since he does have it in his power to create either a paper deficit or surplus it is quite evident he is going to create a deficit and play politics with the Legislature and the people of Idaho."

Defenbach was asked Thursday in Twin Falls to prepare a report for the Legislative Fiscal-Budget Committee on the state's cash position as of the end of the fiscal year which ends today.

Defenbach said he had dispatched about 15 auditors to find out the cash position of the state when the books closed. Under the Idaho constitution the books must be balanced.

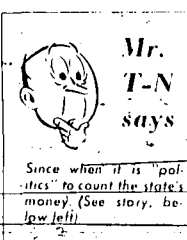

Andrus and Budget Director Skip Chilberg hit the ceiling when they heard about Defenbach's plan.

On Andrus' order, Chilberg instructed all agencies to go about their normal course of business and refuse the information to Defenbach's men.

"As quickly as we have this information compiled next week they'll get a printout of all the information," Andrus said.

"I'm not going to shut down state government on the last day of the fiscal year to put together material for his (Defenbach's) political witch hunt," Andrus said.

Journal says Mao has cancer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chairman Mao Tse-tung of China reportedly is suffering from incurable throat cancer, the Wall Street Journal said today.

In a Washington, D.C. dispatch, the newspaper said, "his affliction is said to be incurable. One estimate is that he may not survive beyond this year, though that is not a firm medical prognosis."

The 78-year-old Chinese Communist Party chairman, who has been a chain smoker for years, has received radiation treatment for his illness, but it's not known if there are any plans for surgery.

Despite the disease, the Journal said, Mao "remains both ambulatory and mentally alert; major decisions are still referred to him for approval."

But the paper added, "According to cancer authorities, it's common for patients to have serious—often incurable—throat cancer without showing any obvious symptoms of the disease."

Youngsters get drinks at midnight

TWIN FALLS — Young men and women between the ages of 19 and 21 will be able to drink liquor legally as of midnight tonight.

A law adopted by the Idaho legislature and going into effect July 1 permits persons 19 years of age and older to drink beer, wine or liquor. Previously 20-year-olds could drink beer only. Liquor drinkers had to wait until they were 21.

Law enforcement officers, including Sheriff Paul Corder and Police Capt. Tim Qualls, say they are not anticipating any unusual problems as a result of what may be increased liquor purchases as of midnight.

They agreed there will be fewer law enforcement problems with the 19-year-olds drinking legally than when they were drinking illegally.

Price jumps for SV land

HAILEY — "Elkhorn at Sun Valley can afford it. If they can't Johns-Manville can."

That quip was made Thursday by Chicago real estate agent Robert W. Reiss, after he was bested in a long, intense bidding duel for two Elkhorn Gulch state school section parcels.

But the winners, two subsidiary companies of Elkhorn at Sun Valley, had to share their victory with the State School Endowment Fund as successive bids jacked up the total price on the 620 acre to $1.151 million—more than three times the original appraised value.

(Related story p. 13)

Thursday's auction ended a hassle which began last year and which forced reappraisal of the land.

At that time, Harry Holmes, president of the Sun Valley Co., and his wife, Gayle, applied for the land, located adjacent to the planned 2,300-acre $36 million Elkhorn resort. State land board members agreed to put the acreage up for sale and placed an arbitrary value of about $350,000 on it.

Opponents to the move included Secretary of State Pete T. Conrussa, who termed the board's unanimous decision to sell the land "hasty."

Conrussa said he questioned the decision "because of the valuation of the property in proximity to the land in question, a need for study to determine the highest and best use of the land and a possibility that Blaine County tax revenue will be minimal should the land be sold and identified as agricultural land at the time of the sale."

In consequence to the public criticism, the land was appraised at about $798,000, and the public auction was scheduled.

Trail bike control in peaks area

TWIN FALLS — Vehicle controls in the White Cloud area are now in effect, forest supervisors, E. A. Fournier and Richard Benjamin announced today.

Fournier, supervisor of the Sawtooth National Forest, has joined with Challis National Forest Supervisor Benjamin in a policy prohibiting motor vehicles in the White Clouds peaks area except on forest developed roads and on designated trails and non-system roads determined to be suitable for vehicular travel.

Fournier said the closure order, signed by Regional Forester Vern Hamre, allows vehicle use on roads and trails that have been designated as suitable.

It prohibits all off-road and off-trail machine travel except snow machines.

General travel by the public either by foot or on horseback is not prohibited. Consignations signs and maps showing trails and roads that are open or closed to vehicles are posted at each entrance of the area to advise visitors of the restrictions.

Restrictions are necessary, the supervisors said, to minimize resource damage and to prevent disturbances of mountain goat and bighorn sheep. Many of the trails in the White Cloud peaks area are not constructed to a standard to accommodate vehicle use and resource damage is the result of such use.

Some trails are steep and dangerous to the average vehicle operator, they said. Resource damage to the watershed often results when indiscriminate vehicle use occurs.

Most other areas of both forests remain open for vehicle use for hunting, fishing and recreation travel.

Accused hijacker McNally

Man charged with hijack identified

DETROIT (UPI)—A suburban Wyandotte man charged with last Friday's $502,000 hijacking of a jetliner reported by a man Blair had "frisked" during the search for the hijacker.

The chief of the Peru, Ind., police, Richard H. Blair, identified FBI photographs of Martin J. McNally Thursday as a man Blair had "frisked" during the search for the hijacker.

McNally, 28, was charged Thursday with air piracy after evidence found by the FBI in the American Airlines Boeing 727 linked McNally with the incident.

The hijacker bailed out of the St. Louis-Tulsa airliner over Peru. Authorities immediately began searching the area, and a farmer found the ransom money Monday. Other farmers found a small submachine gun used in the hijacking and a pair of trousers believed worn by the gunman.

The FBI found the parachute Thursday about four miles south of Peru, covered with leaves in a wooded area near Indiana 21 where Blair found McNally walking Saturday night.

Blair said McNally identified himself as Patrick Clarence McNally, the name of the suspect's older brother.

Blair said he did not arrest McNally because he did not match the description of the hijacker given Blair. The policeman said McNally had "a few cuts and bruises" which McNally told Blair he received in a fight with a brother earlier in Peru.

Blair said he notified the FBI of the encounter with McNally, and drove him to a nearby motel.

"He was probably the coolest guy I ever met," Blair said. "He appeared nervous from the standpoint that any young fellow you'd stop would be nervous. But for a guy who'd apparently been through what he'd apparently been through, I'd say he's probably the coolest guy I've ever met."

TE banks to open Monday

TWIN FALLS — All banks in Twin Falls will be open Monday for business as usual.

They will be closed only July 4, which is a state holiday, according to Curtis Eaton, official of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust. It was erroneously reported in Thursday's Times-News that banks would be closed both days.

Speed limits reduced in T.F.

TWIN FALLS — George Michelt, acting city manager, today announced speed limits will be reduced by the state to 25 miles per hour on both Second and Third Avenues through Twin Falls.

He said information received late Thursday indicates the Idaho Department of Highways has made a traffic and speed investigation of the two streets which carry U. S. Highway 30 traffic through Twin Falls by means of a one-way couplet. As a result the 25 mile per hour speeds have been found most satisfactory.

The limits have been 30 m.p.h. past two schools and 25 m.p.h. through the downtown area, and 35 m.p.h. elsewhere.

School officials and the Twin Falls City Council appealed to the state department of highways several months ago to reduce the 30 m.p.h. limits because of traffic hazards to small children at Lincoln and Bickel elementary schools.

Sky diver guilty of air piracy

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Richard F. McCoy Jr., a Vietnam war hero and former school teacher, was found guilty by a federal court jury late Thursday of air piracy involving a half-million dollars in ransom.

The sky diver and helicopter pilot, who was studying police science at Brigham Young University, was convicted of hijacking a United Air Lines jet April 7, holding the plane and its passengers for $500,000 ransom and then bailing out over Provo, Utah, with the money.

McCoy, appearing calm and outwardly relaxed, was led handcuffed past his sobbing wife Karen, moments after the six-man, six-woman jury handed down its verdict.

The decision came in 90 minutes of deliberations after four days of prosecution testimony and a 30-minute defense case.

Report requested on Idaho funds

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Legislative Fiscal Budget Committee wants to know if the state will be in the red when the books are closed at midnight tonight.

The committee, meeting in Twin Falls, requested a report on the state's cash position as of the end of the fiscal year.

Legislative Auditor James Defenbach said after the meeting he would have about 15 members of his staff checking the books of state agencies as soon as the books are closed.

Defenbach said his staff would "significantly expand" the usual year-end audit to provide a "comprehensive report of revenues, expenditures and outstanding encumbrances." He said he would also prepare a general opinion as to the state's revenues expenditure position.

The politically touchy decision followed a continuing feud between Gov. Cecil Andrus and executive officials and legislative leaders who disagree on just how healthy are the state's finances.

State Auditor Joe R. Williams said earlier this week that the state could anticipate about a half million dollar surplus, but only because some bills were not being paid until the new fiscal year.

Williams said the state would be in the red if it paid its bills promptly.

He argued that because bills were being held, it would be impossible to accurately determine the state's fiscal status when the books close tonight.

Republicans had argued that unexpected additional revenue would bring the budget into the black without the holdbacks.

Sen. Richard S. High, co-chairman of the fiscal budget committee, said any deficits would be the result of earlier failure of Gov. Andrus to reduce the number of state employees at the beginning of the fiscal year.

High said Gov. Andrus had approved by executive order an average state salary increase of "about 10 per cent" which was to have been funded by a correspondingly large cutback in the number of state employees.

High said the promised cutback has not been made, resulting in a $6-7 million additional salary expenditure by the state.

Airline pilots strike

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — More than 1,000 Northwest Airlines pilots walked off their jobs today and set up picket lines at Wold Chamberlain Airport in the Twin Cities and the Seattle, Wash. International Airport. Northwest said flights over the next three days were "indefinite."

The strike, which culminated 16 months of contract negotiation, was called despite a plea by U. S. Labor Secretary James Hodgson for a 10-day delay and more meetings. The pilots walked off the job at 2 a.m. CDT.

The pilots gave no indications how long they were prepared to be off the job.

Gem school aide defends positions

TWIN FALLS — Idaho's chief state school officer defended his department Thursday against charges of "excessive travel" on grounds the trips are necessary to compete for federal funds.

Legislative Auditor James A. Defenbach, in a performance audit of Engelking's agency, criticized out-of-state travel. Defenbach said just one or two persons should be sent instead of several. He also said the extensive out-of-state travel restricted the department's school district consultation program.

Public Instruction Superintendent D. F. Engelking defended the travel on grounds his agency is in competition for federal grants with eastern school districts which have immediate access to information about government programs.

In order to compete with these districts, he said, his staff must attend eastern conferences to obtain the needed information.

Engelking also defended college and university faculty members who sometimes skip classes to serve as private consultants at fees averaging as much as $75 per day.

Demo backers give warning

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Democratic leaders backing Sen. George McGovern warned today President Nixon might carry vote-rich California and win re-election if the party convention turns its back on their candidate.

U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., predicted many McGovern supporters will "sit on their hands" during the fall campaign and stay away from the polls on election day in this key state with the nation's largest bloc of electoral votes, 45.

"It would be a disaster for whoever got the nomination under such circumstances," said Cranston, who remained neutral during the California primary campaign but endorsed McGovern immediately after the votes were counted.

State Assemblyman John T. Burton of San Francisco, co-chairman of the 271-member delegation McGovern thought he won free and clear in the June 6 primary, declared "for the convention to turn its back on Sen. McGovern would be turning its front to chaos, division and the re-election of President Nixon."

There seemed to be little doubt California's winner-take-all primary system will be abolished before the 1976 presidential election.

Pilots shown

TOKYO (UPI) — Fifteen American pilots captured in North Vietnam in the past three months were shown to newsmen at a press conference held in Hanoi Thursday evening, the Vietnam News Agency (VNA) said today.

VNA, monitored in Tokyo, said their presence at the press conference was "convincing proof of the defeats sustained by the Nixon administration in North Vietnam in the past three months."

VNA devoted its report on the press conference for the most part on the speech by Ngo Dien, head of the press and information department of the North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry.

Ngo Dien said President Nixon ordered the "escalation of the war in Vietnam because his Vietnamization policy was irremediably going to its doom and the puppet army and administration continued to fall asunder."

Following his speech, four of the prisoners were introduced and permitted to make some remarks.

TF art club meets

TWIN FALLS — "The Haviland Lady" was the subject of the program for the Mary Davis Art Club meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Dolbert Craig.

Mrs. Ernest Stetler presented the program. She reported on the activities of Ethel Hanson, a retired school teacher now living in Orlando, Fla., who has the largest private collection of French Haviland china in the world.

She has over 700 patterns and conducts a mail-order business around the world, Mrs. Stetler said. This china was made in Limoges, France, and is attainable today only through private collectors and antique shops.

Mrs. Chace Anderson has been elected secretary. It was announced by Mrs. Elgin Wilson, president. Mrs. Craig served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Marion Wall, Kimberly.

Press decision queried

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The Supreme Court decision that newsmen cannot refuse to reveal confidential sources to grand juries in criminal investigations hinders the effectiveness of the press as a check on the government, a leader of the American Society of Newspaper Editors said Thursday.

Robert G. Fichenberg, chairman of the group's Freedom of Information Committee and executive editor of the Knickerbocker News-Union Star, said in a statement:

"What was at issue here was whether a reporter can be compelled to reveal his sources for a story in which the government may have an interest, for if he can, he becomes in effect an agent for the government. The effect on the news media's credibility and ability to function effectively as an independent, reliable source of information about the government should be obvious."

"As a practical matter, few confidential sources, no matter how public spirited, would provide news media with information that the public has a right to have in order to be fully informed, if these sources knew they would be identified and subject to possible harassment and recrimination."

"The court's narrow view, on this issue, of the scope of the First Amendment, cannot help but having a chilling effect on the relations between newsmen and their sources, drying up the free flow of news and depriving the public of an indispensable check on the operations of the government. This is contrary to the spirit of the First Amendment."

Transylvania College in Lexington, Ky., founded in 1780, is the oldest college west of the Alleghenies.

Equality argued

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — The Louisiana Legislature rejected the women's equal rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution Thursday. Opponents argued if it were passed it would mean an end to separate rest rooms and Southern chivalry.

The Senate had approved the amendment, but the House voted it down 64-32, deciding the issue once and for all.

Nineteen states have ratified the amendment.

Arguments against ratification in the Louisiana House dealt with fears that it would end rape and abortion laws and chivalry, but mainly that it would mean men and women could use the same rest rooms.

"You can rest assured that once it becomes law of the land, all it would take is one lady who's of a mind to go to a dressing room with a man, or one man who's of a mind to go to a dressing room with the ladies, to take it to court."

Connally-Kissinger Confrontation?

WASHINGTON — If John Connally should become secretary of State in the next Nixon administration, expect major changes at State and the White House.

In the short time he was at Treasury, Connally established himself as a major rival of Dr. Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's security and foreign affairs adviser. The two men bumped, politically and gentlemanly to be sure. But they bumped firmly all the same.

The issue was the position of the dollar, foreign exchange rates and the monetary exchange system that might replace gold — resulting from the Nixon August, 1971, bombshell announcement on the dollar. Connally, as secretary of the Treasury, believed this dollar policy was his province, under the President. Kissinger believed that it was his to a considerable degree, since it involved foreign policy.

Both Kissinger and Connally are able, forceful, determined men. Both command a heavy degree of loyalty from their staffs. Both come out swinging. The result was inevitable.

The men backing Connally for secretary of state, see a department expanded to far wider interests and powers than that agency has commanded in the past two decades.

For one, foreign economic policy would be a major function of State. What is now done at the Treasury, these men say, should be transferred.

The Department of State has, of course, long been interested in foreign economic policy. It has a bureau of economic affairs, headed by an assistant secretary. Though sometimes led by very able men, that bureau has been historically heavily restricted in what it was given to do. Other government agencies — Treasury, Commerce, the Agency for International Development (under the State Department but not always working completely in harness) and a plethora of other bodies seem to have gone their separate ways.

Since the advent of Robert S. McNamara as head of the World Bank, the American input to the bank's policies has not always jibed completely with other government actions.

As a result of all this, more often than not the United States has had no strong, well-thought-out, coordinated foreign economic policy framework or objective. At least none that were clear to all American agencies in the field — and to foreign governments with which we have strong economic ties.

Some men would go further and say the United States has had no foreign economic policy.

What makes the situation serious is the continuing economic crisis here and in many countries abroad, which demonstrates how closely U.S. and world prosperity are tied with regard to our friends and allies around the world.

State was strengthened in this field when ex-Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy was made economic ambassador at large.

But if the President is to go farther in centering economic effort at State in a postelection reorganization, and if a strong man such as Connally is given the post, then that department and its secretary will become indeed a major power in the next administration, probably second to no one except the President himself. What then would happen to Dr. Kissinger?

He's So Sure

Senator George McGovern, the original dove in the Vietnam war and the first to announce his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination, is so sure of winning at the Miami convention that he is now trying to unify his party for the campaign to replace President Nixon in the White House.

If the odds on his nomination are three to one, as estimated by rival Senator Hubert Humphrey, the odds on his defeat by President Nixon must be rated at ten or a hundred to one.

A deal with any one of his chief rivals would assure McGovern first ballot nomination. But such a deal would be difficult nor would it square with McGovern's image of a man who scorns political deals. Therefore, McGovern hopes to pick up the additional support he needs from among the uncommitted delegates. He may have the momentum to do it.

Yet it is possible that the majority of the Democrats do not really want McGovern to carry the party banner into the general election against an incumbent that many Democrats believe will win reelection. The majority has been divided against controversial issues and too many candidates.

Senator Muskie refused to endorse McGovern and can hardly be expected to reverse himself before the nomination is final. Senator Humphrey has his own hopes of winning and predicted McGovern would not win on the first ballot and perhaps not at all.

Governor Wallace is a maverick to be reckoned with and is least likely of McGovern's rivals to lose control of his delegates. There is always the possibility, however remote, that Wallace might once again run as a third party candidate unless the Democratic platform reflects his views in a substantial way.

Many Democratic delegates fear that McGovern's extra liberal views would assure his defeat by Nixon and losing the election has absolutely no appeal for the party work horses.

As one delegate said, "the main thing is winning." Another summed up the attitude of more than one delegate: "None of them (the candidates) turns me on. I think the winner is Nixon."

"BROTHER, CAN YOU SPARE A DELEGATE?"

ROBERT ALLEN

A Cease Fire

WASHINGTON — There will be a Vietnam cease-fire possible by Aug. 1.

It depends on the outcome of extremely delicate dialogues between Washington, Peking, Moscow and Hanoi which have been underway for about a month.

These potentially fateful exchanges could yet very quickly into concrete results. They also could evaporate in frustrating futility as has happened in the past.

This time there is one possible crucial difference.

Moscow and Peking appear to be desirous of bringing the years-long Vietnam war to an end. If that is the case, Hanoi will have to go along.

Its obstreperous balking has been a fatal stumbling block in the past.

In the current parleying, two major unresolved obstacles are: (1) President Nixon's adamant insistence on the immediate return of all U.S. prisoners of war, held by both the Vietcong and North Vietnam; (2) following the declaration of a cease-fire, Hanoi wants to delay POW liberation until after the conclusion of a peace settlement. But the President is standing pat on the immediate release of the POWs.

(2) Hanoi's demand for a guarantee of Vietcong participation in the South Vietnam government that would replace the Thieu regime. President Thieu has expressed willingness to resign to enable the holding of elections for a new government. The U.S. maintains that whether Communists are a part of that government is strictly an internal question to be settled by the Vietnamese alone, and does not involve deliberations or a cease-fire.

Washington has given categorical assurances that all remaining U.S. troops would be withdrawn from Vietnam within 30 days after a cease-fire.

Powerful factor in the moments four-way dialogue is the devastatingly effective U.S. air offensive against North Vietnam, coupled with the steady decimation of the Communists' ground forces and exhaustion of their supplies.

Virtually important in the latter is the mining of Haiphong and other ports. That has proved highly successful. No shipments are going in or out.

While the North Vietnamese desperate efforts to mount such venereal devastation-for-devastation's sake attacks behind their lines, they are laboriously assembling munitions (particularly large caliber ground-to-ground rockets) and other supplies. Whether they will be able to use them is conjectural. They are under intense air bombardment.

PAUL HARVEY

Archie Bunker

Another season is set for Emmy-winner Archie Bunker and his All-in the Family family. The very idea that melting-pot Americans should be applauding a bigot has everybody pretending the reason is not what it is.

Archie Bunker is a spokesman for American standpatters who resist and resent being pushed when they won't yield and shushed when they dare object.

But they are not haters. Professional ethnologists don't understand this. They equate Archie's slurs with some sinister subterranean hostility. Archie is, menaced, not menacing.

A Black Panther on the left or a Minuteman on the right would not last two episodes on TV. They are militant, hostile, aggressive, threatening.

Archie Bunker threatens nobody. He is, instead, the classic "victim" — in the image of Charlie Chaplin, Harry Langdon and Stan Laurel.

He is not frightening; he is frightened. And a very big bunch of Americans identify with that.

You've heard some minority spokesmen express resentment, indignation.

Dr. Eugene Kusilewicz of the Polish-American Historical Society is incensed.

"Benjamin Epstein of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith is enraged.

Usually temperate rights leader, the late Whitney Young of the Urban League, protested "gratuitous insults designed further to polarize a nation already torn by racism."

Most interpreters of the "lovable bigot" phenomenon have decided that there's a little bigot in all of us. That Bunker is a "backlash spokesman."

The program's creator, Norman Lear, reared an Orthodox Jew, deduces that "bigotry exists in good people, separated only by shades of intensity."

But if this explains why the nation times in Archie it would have to deny that the American majority is turned off by the self-appointed Hitler who rear their heads from time to time. Their hate begets our hate. Archie's "something" wins affection.

And that "something" is his very understandable response to a world that's closing in on him, a son-in-law moving in on him, government taking his taxes to give to loafers and, "If Mexican don't like our wages they should stay in Mexico!"

In recent years the press and information facilities — particularly TV — have become so preoccupied with defending the defenseless that they became offensive, intimidating all dissent to silence.

Actor Carroll O'Connor, who plays the Archie role with such classic aplomb, says, "The world is changing and the Archies won't change, so, lashing out, they have to blame the changers."

No, if "hate" were the attraction, you'd be seeing Panthers and Klansmen on TV. And they, alas, are promoted only on the "news."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

A Fissure

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Over a year ago I had surgery for hemorrhoids. Now I have a fissure. Does a fissure heal without surgery?

I was put on bulk preparations after surgery which makes the stool softer, but I still have bowel problems. The only relief I get is from milk of magnesia or an enema. Please advise — Mrs. G. M.

You're having more than your share of trouble, but better to take wise measures to get over the trouble rather than have it continue.

A fissure is a split in the membrane of the rectum. It becomes irritated, and it is not surprising that the fissure may also become infected.

Because of this, a fissure seldom heals without surgery but with the infected tissue removed, it heals quite promptly.

Straining and constipation are the two factors most responsible for fissures. Your doctor, by telling you to use bulk-producers after the hemorrhoid surgery, was trying to avoid that.

I have a booklet, which has been quite successful for readers, called "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids." (Available by mail, send 25 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy.)

If it, I put a good deal of stress on the importance of avoiding both constipation and straining after hemorrhoid surgery (and before, for that matter).

Now that the fissure has developed, I feel that surgical correction is probably the only sensible course for you to follow, but I do have a couple of further suggestions.

Although bulk-producers ordinarily work, you have found that you continue to have bowel difficulty. One possibility is spasm of the bowel produced by the presence of the fissure.

Correction of the fissure may be of more service to you than you suspect.

But if the bulk-producers are not sufficient for your needs, what about a daily portion of prune juice? That's a mild but effective laxative.

Milk of magnesia is pretty good, too, but it has the characteristic of emptying the bowel too completely, just as an enema does.

The lower bowel needs some bulk — in it, to stimulate a movement, and if emptied too thoroughly, then you have to wait for more material to accumulate before nature calls for another movement.

Thus waiting time misleads a good many people; they think they are "constipated" when in reality all they need to do is wait a little longer. That's why enemas and overly strong laxatives cause a good deal of worry to those who don't understand how the normal bowel operates.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 28. Two years ago my ovary was removed because of a cyst. Since then I've been having sharp burning-type pains in the same area, which seem to be increasing. When I mention this to my doctor, he says, "There is nothing there to hurt." What is causing this and what can be done? — L. M.

Hard to say. Of course an ovary that isn't there can't hurt, but adhesions can form after an operation. An X-ray of the colon might show whether adhesions are affecting the bowel.

Turks And "Ms."

The campaign to establish the indeterminate abbreviation "Ms." as a feminine title in place of the too-revealing "Miss" or "Mrs." is only part of a larger goal of weeding alleged sex bias out of the language as a whole.

The idea is that the words we use determine, or at least reinforce, our attitudes and prejudices. Obviously, if we can get rid of "sexist" terms, it will go a long way toward erasing unfair discrimination against women.

Any theory, however, is only as good as the assumptions it is based on. And in this case that may not be very good.

Someone has pointed out that Turkish, for instance, is almost totally free of "sexist" forms.

There is one pronoun, "o," meaning he, she or it. There are no words for brother, or sister, just the word "kards," which means sibling. To specify a brother or sister it's necessary to modify it with the word for boy or girl.

Women, whether married or single, have always been addressed by the same term, "bayan." And since many Turkish first names are used by both men and women, there is one word, "sayin," which can be used in addressing a letter to someone whose sex is unknown.

According to the theory then, Turkish women should always have been among the most "liberated" women in the world. History casts some doubt on this.

MR. SPECTATOR

Luck O' The Irish

Received a postal from Joe Clements, the local old man and jack of other trades. Believe it or not, he's in Ireland.

He said he's not coming home until the fighting stopped and added that he received a "hot" welcome in Belfast. Also, it seemed that he was having some problems — or knew someone who did. He wrote that thousands of tourists seem to be stranded in Ireland and that one charter airline went broke — thus not helping the situation.

When Joe gets back to Twin Falls we're going to have a talk with him and will pass along some of his observations which, we are sure, will be interesting.

It's really not important — but we are going to ask one question. That's how come the postal he sent from Ireland, showing Irish scenes, was lithographed in Canada?

GOOD TO KNOW

The other day we published comments from Mrs. Laurence J. Welch of Tulsa, Oklahoma. She wrote in to tell us that a couple from Twin Falls had made her journey most enjoyable when she met them in Pendleton. She couldn't remember the name of the couple but wanted to thank them for their courtesy. So Spectator used it.

Well, now we have discovered that the cooperative and courteous couple from Twin Falls was Bob and Martha Watson. The Watsons were returning home from a trip to Portland.

"We enjoy extolling the merits of this wonderful community in which we live," Bob and Martha wrote. "This kind and appreciative lady was thoughtful enough to make known through you that she too enjoyed her brief acquaintance and overnight stay in this beautiful area."

So there you have it. Hats off to Bob and Martha Watson for their courtesy to a visitor through our area.

TODAY'S CHUCKLE

Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home for exceeding the original estimated cost by at least 50 per cent.

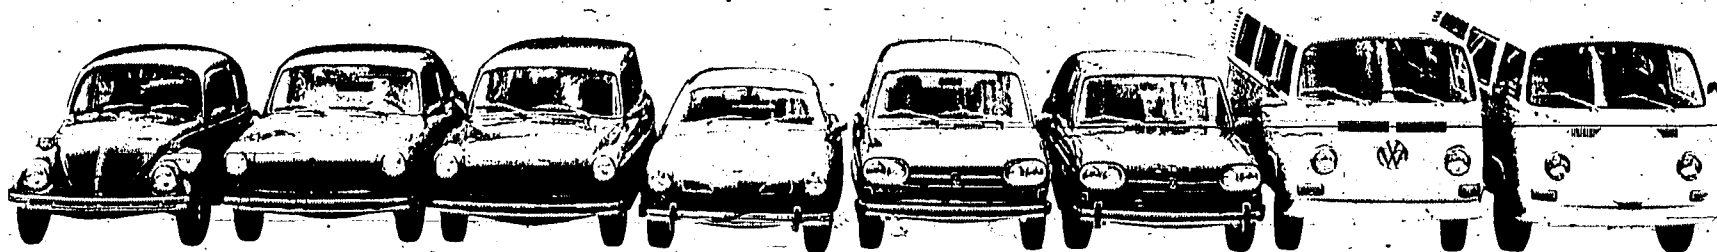

BERRY'S WORLD

"Well, I think I'll call it a day. This is Larry O'Brien signing off!"

Volkswagen announces an honest bribe.

If you'll buy a new VW from us,
we'll give you free tune-ups,
oil changes, lube jobs, and pay for all your service expenses for one year or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first.

Honest.

Effective July first, we'll give you a written promise for free service and maintenance—including parts and labor—on any new 1/2 Volkswagen you buy. Simply drive your car back to the VW dealer who sold it to you and he'll do everything your car needs, free for one year or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first.

No questions asked.

And the beautiful thing about it is, this is over and above our regular 2-year/24,000 mile warranty* which covers just about everything else on the car.

For years now, we've taken a special pride in the fact that our regular 2-year/24,000 mile warranty was exactly twice as long as any other car in the world except Rolls Royce.

Well, now we've even managed to topple the mighty Rolls. Because even they don't offer you a free service contract.

What all this means is about the only thing you'll have to pay for the first year or 12,000 miles is the gas.

And when you consider the way VWs sip gas, that's no big deal.

Of course, you do have to pay for the car. But when you consider the tiny little price tag on a VW, that's no big deal either.

The offer is good on all the VWs we make. And just on the off chance you haven't noticed lately, we're making a lot of new VWs lately. Big 411 4-Door Sedans. Bigger 411 Wagons. Fastbacks. Squarebacks. Campers. And, of course, our beloved little Beetle.

Just one more thing. Unlike a lot of offers you hear about these days, we're not asking you to pay for all this by secretly raising our prices.

When we say honest bribe, we mean just that. Honest.

Irish avoiding confrontation

BELFAST (UPI) — Protestants and Roman Catholics inched back today from a confrontation that threatened to shatter Northern Ireland's fragile, four-day-old peace.

The Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) announced Thursday night it will pull down today three of its two dozen barricades which have turned Londonderry's Roman Catholic areas into "no-go" zones for security forces since last year.

Source close to the paramilitary Protestant Ulster Defense Association (UDA) said the UDA would reciprocate by calling off a threatened showdown with the IRA this weekend.

The British army, in what a spokesman called an "anticipatory reciprocal gesture of good-will," removed its anti-speed barriers at three entrances to Londonderry's Bogside district where the IRA said its barricades were coming down.

Who will represent Chicago?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Democratic convention committee, tugged on one side by a party chieftain and on the other by angered delegates of "the leading candidate," decides one of its thorniest problems today — who will represent Chicago.

But with a muddled melange of actions taken by parties to the dispute over seating the 59 uncommitted Chicago delegates of Mayor Richard J. Daley, the issue will be far from resolved when the Credentials Committee votes.

The committee is holding two weeks of sessions to hear challenges to delegate slates selected for the national convention starting in Miami Beach July 10.

Angered delegates pledged to Sen. George S. McGovern and serving on the committee caucused in secret Thursday night to determine the stance they will take on the Chicago question. They make up a major portion of the committee's 150 members.

The Chicago challenge represents 59 of 86 Illinois delegates whose seats have been disputed — more than half the state's 170 delegates. The others to be decided today are 3 from Chicago's 6th District, 5 from the 17th, 6 from the 18th, 7 from the 23rd and 7 from the 2nd, including Rep. George Shuply.

Linda Ashcraft Ochsner say vows

TWIN FALLS — Before an altar flanked with white and orchid gladioli and chrysanthemums, Linda Sue Ashcraft became the bride of Steven L. Ochsner.

The double ring Nuptial Mass was performed by Father Simon Van De Voord June 15 at St. Edward's Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.E. Ashcraft, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ochsner, Filer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white crystalline over satin. The empire-styled gown of white brocade etched in silver featured a V-neckline with long tapered sleeves.

The nylon illusion finger-tip veil fell from a band of pleated crystalline touched with white beaurels sequins. She wore a pearl necklace borrowed from her grandmother, Mrs. Elsie Ashcraft Baldwin. She carried a cascade of feathered white carnations with natural greenery caught with white and silver-ribbon.

Caralee Ashcraft was maid of honor for her sister.

The bride's gown and that of the maid of honor were styled and made by the bride's mother.

Gina Ochsner, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

Richard Keeney was best man and ushered, and Mike Ochsner, brother of the bridegroom, also ushered and gave the reading.

Brian Ochsner and Bill Schmah were altar boys.

Leslie Ashcraft acted for the guest book and Lauri Ochsner received the gifts.

A reception for the bridal party and immediate families was held at the bride's home after the ceremony.

The bride's table, covered with a white linen heirloom cloth belonging to the bride's paternal grandmother, was centered with the three-tiered wedding cake and flanked by lighted tapers. Mrs. Myrl Ashcraft, aunt of the bride, served the cake and Leslie Ashcraft served punch.

The bride attended school in Twin Falls and the bridegroom in Filer. He is employed by Royal Catfish Industries, Twin Falls.

After a short wedding trip the couple will reside in Filer.

90th year observance set Sunday

RICHFIELD — Richfield pioneer Walter Stevens will be honored on his 90th birthday Sunday at a family reunion at Salmon Park, Burley.

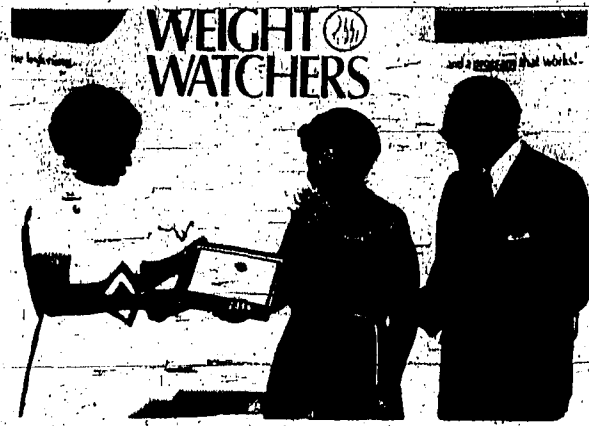

Also being honored will be his wife, Cora, 88; a brother, Albert Stevens, 88, Twin Falls, and a brother-in-law, John Rogers, 88, Mantle, Utah.

All seven of the Stevens children are planning to attend the celebration. They are Frank Stevens, Othello, Wash.; Dave Stevens, Phoenix, Ariz.; Grant Stevens, Richfield; Mrs. Harvey (Lucille) Bickett, Gooding; Mrs. Perry (Ruth) Coughlin, Burley; Mrs. Leon (Faye) Wright, Filer; and Mrs. Russell (Helen) Pugmire, San Francisco, Calif.

Stevens was born July 2, 1882, at Holden, Utah. He came to the Richfield tract in the spring of 1913 and settled in Marley Valley, five miles south of Richfield. He farmed the farm that is now owned by his son, Grant, until he retired in 1957 and moved into a newly built home in town where he and Mrs. Stevens reside.

He was married to Grace Crowther Nov. 13, 1909, and they had seven children. She died Dec. 30, 1930. Later he married Cora Sweet, a widow with eight children. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens have both been active members of the LDS Church and still attend church regularly.

A high priest in the church, Stevens has served as presiding elder of the Marley Branch for four years before the old brick church was built in 1929 and the branch was moved into Richfield. He has served as superintendent of the Sunday school two different times and was first counselor in the bishopric for seven and one-half years.

Campers can enjoy Camp Tawakani this weekend

TWIN FALLS — Lloyd LeClair, Camp Fire Girls camp chairman, announces Camp Tawakani in the South Hills will be open over the weekend for camping.

All the snow has now melted at the camp and LeClair urges all parents of Camp Fire Girls to come up to the camp over the July 4th weekend.

The camp will be open Saturday through Tuesday, July 1-4. Campers are asked to bring own sleeping bags and food. There will be cooking facilities available.

"Parents are welcome to help clean up the camp or just look the place over if your daughter is considering attending camp for the first time," LeClair said.

The regular resident camping season begins July 17 with three one-week sessions. The first week, July 17-22, is filled. There is still time to register for the other two weeks.

Any girl may attend camp. She does not need to be a member of Camp Fire Girls.

Brochures are available from any Camp Fire leader or from the Southwestern Idaho Council office in the old hospital building, Twin Falls. Telephone 678-2506 for additional information.

A day camp is being planned for July 13. This will be a one-day preview of what the resident camp will be, including a hike, crafts, games and lunch. Deadline for registration is July 12. It is wise when purchasing new carpeting to shop around and consult reputable dealers servicing your community.

of the Day Camp is July 5. Camp Tawakani is located south of Hansen, about two miles beyond the Magic Mountain Ski area. Signs are posted South doesn't need to see all the enemy cards to bring home his contract. Just a flash of the ace of hearts and queen of spades in the West hand will be enough.

As it happens, West is not showing any of his cards and South has to operate in the dark. He starts out with the normal play of a trump at trick two.

West is in with the ace and if West is the sort of defender who tries to beat every contract he will give South an immediate problem.

West will see that the only chance to beat four hearts will be to find his partner with queen and one club.

After working this out, West will lead a low club. It is not really important which one he puts his finger on. The important thing is that East does have that queen and one club and unless South rises with dummy's king, East will win the trick with the queen, return the suit to West's ace and ruff a third club to ruin South's fine game contract.

We aren't going to tell you what a actually happened. That is not important. The important thing is that West will have the only play to give declarer a chance to go down.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl and I don't think I've ever seen a problem like mine in your column.

I am dating a guy who is a member of a minority group, and to make a long story short, my father would make Archie Bunker look like Abbie Hoffman!

This guy is no bum. He's a college freshman who is working hard for his education, and someday he will amount to something. He's the kind of guy my folks want me to go with, except for the fact that he belongs to this minority group which my parents despise.

I hate to lie and sneak around to see him, because I am really proud of him, but my folks are so bigoted and prejudiced it's unbelievable.

Altho he likes me a lot, he has never let our relationship get out of hand, if you know what I mean. His folks like me and I like them, but there is no way I can get my folks to agree to letting me go with him. Can you help me? PARENT PROBLEMS

DEAR PROBLEMS: At age 16, your relationships are your parents' concern, and advice from a third party, unless sought by both sides, is out of order. I think your parents are unfair to judge a person without meeting him, but unfortunately until you are old enough to do as you wish, you will have to play by their rules. Time will solve your problem.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle an argument? How should I introduce my father's second wife? I introduced her as "my father's wife." My roommate contends that this is poor taste and I should have introduced the woman as "my mother." Since I was raised by my mother who is still very much alive and well, I think it would be a slight to her. Please advise me. WHOSE DAUGHTER (?)

DEAR DAUGHTER: Your roommate flunked this one. You will always be your mother's daughter regardless of who your father's wife is.

Under the circumstances you introduced the woman properly. If your father's wife had reared you, and you addressed her as "Mother," then she should be properly introduced as "my mother."

DEAR ABBY: That lady who says her husband can't hear without his glasses can relax. He's not crazy.

Many near-sighted people who have worn glasses for a long time depend upon lip-reading and facial expressions in order to "hear," and without their glasses they can't see the speaker clearly enough to catch what he's saying. It happens to me all the time. MRS. MYOPIA

DEAR ABBY: I'll bet I know why that man can't "hear" when he takes his glasses off. His hearing aid is in the frames! LEO IN SHERMAN OAKS

Program extended

Inquiry asked

Enough rain to fill lake

Friday, June 30, 1972 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 9

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite administration objections to politically active antipoverty lawyers, the Senate has passed and sent to the House a bill to extend the antipoverty program until June 30, 1974.

The bill, which cleared the Senate 74 to 16 Thursday, would authorize $6.6 billion for the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) and related programs. It would also create a private, nonprofit corporation to provide lawyers for the poor.

The legal services program is now under the OEO structure. Assistant Republican leader

Robert P. Griffin of Michigan said before the vote that President Nixon would veto the bill if it passed Congress with the legal services provision.

The Senate made some modifications to try to appease Nixon, who vetoed a similar bill last year.

The major concession was to authorize the President to appoint 16 of the proposed legal service corporation's 19 directors. Another concession was to prohibit the proposed corporation's employees from taking part in politics, illegal demonstrations or picketing.

Of the $6.6 billion authorized, $71.5 million was specifically for legal services with the potential for another $100 million.

The first complaint to Nixon about federal antipoverty lawyers came from California Gov. Ronald Reagan in 1970. Reagan asked Nixon to cut appropriations for the California legal aid program because it was instituting actions against the state government.

MOUNTAIN HOME AFB, Idaho (UPI) — Fourteen Air Force enlisted men asked President Nixon Thursday to set up a court inquiry to determine whether unauthorized bombing raids over North Vietnam ordered by retired Gen. John D. Lavelle resulted in any deaths.

If any deaths occurred because of the bombing, the complaint said, the president should charge Lavelle with murder.

The enlisted men also asked that the inquiry include Gen. John D. Ryan, Air Force Chief of Staff.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tropical storm Agnes dumped enough rain on the eastern states to fill a lake the size of the 67-square-mile District of Columbia to a depth of 2,000 feet.

This estimate was made Thursday by Robert M. White, administrator of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

McGovern talks to teachers

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern told cheering teachers Thursday night that, if elected president, he would recommend that the federal government pay one-third the cost of public elementary and secondary education.

Such a commitment would add $15 billion per year to the government's spending on education, thereby doubling it, McGovern told the convention of the National Education Association (NEA).

The South Dakotan also said he would elevate the office of education to a full department. "Since women today account for 75 per cent of all our teachers in the elementary and secondary schools, I would put their practical experience to use by naming a woman secretary of education," McGovern said.

In the closing stages of his drive for the Democratic presidential nomination, McGovern repeatedly brought the teachers to their feet as he made his proposals for far-reaching changes in federal involvement in education.

The loudest applause came when McGovern said he backed the teachers' drive for collective bargaining.

"We need not only to achieve decent treatment on pay and benefits; we need it to back up the public interest in quality education," he said. "I want teachers to have the same right to bargain collectively that people in the private sector enjoy."

Airwest adds new employee

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Tony McMahon, 26, a bachelor, and former lightweight boxing champion, takes his place today with the 400 flying stewardesses of Hughes Airwest.

"I'm looking forward to my flying assignment," said McMahon, who sat through a four-week course that included lectures on female hair styles and beauty secrets.

Hughes Airwest is coming out with new uniforms for its stewardesses but a spokesman said McMahon, who is five feet and weighs 140 pounds, would get a specially made one.

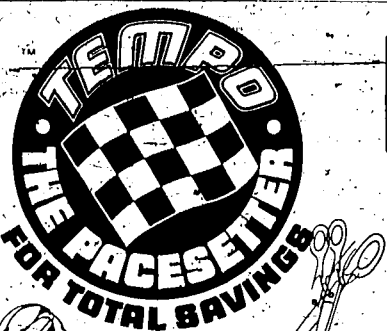

McMahon received his wings Thursday after graduating from a flight attendant class of 14 women. He said he enrolled because he "enjoyed working with people," and his last job was a self-employed process server in San Jose, Calif.

The airline said it accepted his application because it is illegal to discriminate against men. However, a spokesman said the regional carrier had not yet had time to gear its training for co-ed classes.

"Besides that, Tony is a very personable young man," the spokesman said. "He finished the four-week course with the second highest scores."

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Three million trout have been distributed this spring by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission. They were placed in 800 streams and 87 lakes within the state since February.

Annual barbecue

TOP CHEF Bob Harney serves Mrs. Harold Peterson, hostess, during an annual barbecue Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peterson. About 80 persons associated with horses attended the lamb and pig barbecue. The crowd included ranchers, cowboys and veterinarians. The two animals were roasted whole on a spit by Harney from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. using three gallons of barbecue sauce. He has special equipment for roasting whole animals and cooks for barbecues throughout the area. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Robinson furnished the lamb and Producers Livestock of Jerome furnished the pig. About 200 pounds of meat were consumed, Mrs. Peterson said, and the remainder of the dinner was potluck.

Ruling to have little effect

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The Supreme Court's finding that the death penalty is unconstitutional is unlikely to have much effect on the nationwide war against crime. For all practical purposes, the United States abolished the death penalty a long time ago. It has been more than five years since anyone actually was executed in this country. The last person put to death was a convicted murderer, named justice to the court. Public opinion in recent years has swung strongly away from the once popular idea that executions are a deterrent to crime.

One reason why more than 600 condemned men were on death row at the time of today's ruling was that governors have been reluctant to allow execution to be carried out for fear of the backlash of public revulsion that might follow.

But even among those who have long advocated abolition of the death penalty for most crimes, some believe it should be retained for a few types of crimes such as murder of a prison guard or police officer.

If a criminal serving a life term knows nothing else can be done to him, he may be more inclined to attack a guard.

Protest march

Among demands is for disarming all immigration officers. (UPI)

Checks expected to ease DDT ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal farm officials are banking heavily on a planned new random-sampling check of tobacco for pesticide residues to help ward off the danger of a crack-down from European buyers next year, spokesmen said here.

The sampling program for DDT and TDE residues will begin when the tobacco marketing season opens next month in the Georgia-Florida producing belt, and will continue in all other growing areas.

Officials could not predict how many samples would be taken, but said "some" would be inspected at every auction market.

Farmers were notified of the sampling plan last month in direct letters, an official said.

An Agriculture Department regulation, in effect since 1970, requires farmers who want federal price support for tobacco to certify they have not used either of the pesticides, DDT or TDE.

Officials said the urgency of getting full compliance with this regulation is underlined by the fact that West Germany, a major buyer of U.S. tobacco, is planning stiff new tolerance on DDT and TDE beginning next Jan. 1, and these restrictions may spread to other Western European countries.

Checks made privately by tobacco firms last season, however, showed "some" residues appearing, despite the certification program, agriculture spokesmen said. An official said the largest number of complaints involved tobacco marketed in South Carolina and in the North Carolina border belt auctions.

If tobacco samples taken at random from auction market floors this year show high residue levels, an official said, growers will be called in to "explain" at county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) offices. Just what penalties may be involved for growers who used the banned pesticides remained unclear. Potentially, farmers could face loss of price support and those proved to have falsified compliance with the ban could face criminal prosecution.

One official here warned that farmers "will be subject to penalties" if they cannot satisfactorily explain any residues which might be found on their tobacco. Another however said he was uncertain whether it would turn out to be practical to go much beyond "reprimands."

Aside from direct penalties, however, one expert here warned that tobacco companies might be "leery" about buying leaf from individual growers whose leaf had shown a high-residue rating. Tobacco buyers in many cases will be making their own residue tests, the expert said.

Co-op tax bill rises

BOISE (UPI) — Gross earnings taxes for Idaho's cooperative electrical associations for 1971 are up $107,703.25 or 10.5 per cent from a year earlier, the State Tax Commission reported today.

They amount to $207,779.95, the commission said, in its monthly newsletter.

Irrigation and pumping rebates also are up for the year by $837.72 or 2.6 per cent, the commission said. Net taxes increased $18,968.53 or nearly 12.2 per cent from 1970.

Kootenai farmers watching, waiting

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — The next week will be a wait and see period for livestock owners in Kootenai County to learn whether or not an outbreak of black leg disease has been controlled.

The county agricultural extension agent, Joe Dobson, said Wednesday that nearly all owners had administered the vaccinations to sheep and young cattle, but that it would take about 10 days altogether before the vaccine takes effect.

The problem with the livestock disease became apparent earlier this week when a veterinarian diagnosed the cause of death of 10 calves in the Pleasant View area of northern Idaho as black leg.

The cattle were owned by Jack French in the area south of Post Falls.

Hogs are not affected by the disease, but cattle up to two years of age and sheep of any age are affected. Dobson said that penicillin would be used on those animals who have contracted early symptoms.

Contract rule voiding asked

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The United Farm Workers Union asked California's Supreme Court Wednesday to overturn a ruling that Teamsters Union contracts with some employers are legal.

Involved are five-year contracts the Teamsters signed with central coast vegetable growers before Cesar Chavez and his union started organizing in that area.

Chavez contends the pacts were signed without regard to the wishes of field hands.

His union seeks to reverse a ruling in Los Angeles by the State Court of Appeal that the pacts are legal and that strikes or picketing by Chavez' union against those growers are illegal.

The Los Angeles court said that state law permits unions to demand contracts with growers without the benefit of vote by workers.

It also found that the Teamsters used a strike threat to force the growers to sign the contracts.

Demos promise no ceilings

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic plank drafters have produced a farm plank promising to avoid price ceilings on farm products unless prices rise substantially above current levels.

In a direct challenge to administration policy, the plank also calls for higher support rates for family-size farms and a two-phased crackdown on giant farms. The party would be pledged, under the proposal, to seek new laws banning farming by nonfarm corporations and eliminating federal subsidies for "farm units larger than family-size."

The plank was approved by the party's platform committee for submission to the national convention next month at Miami Beach, Fla. Its price ceiling section promises to "resist a price ceiling on agriculture products until farm prices reach 110 per cent of parity" and conduct a consumer education program to inform all Americans of the relationship between the prices of raw commodities and retail prices.

Pressure for price controls on raw farm products rose within the administration's price commission recently in the wake of increasing cattle and wholesale beef prices. But with farm spokesmen in both parties warning that ceilings would discourage needed production increases, the White House thumbed down the idea — for the present, at least — and settled for an attempt to raise beef supplies by temporarily ending beef import quotas.

Under the Democratic Plan, cattle prices could rise nearly a fifth above their record-high mid-May average of $33.10 per hundredweight before controls could be considered. The mid-May price equaled 91 per cent of the "fair earning power" parity price for beef. To reach 110 per cent of parity on the basis of May cost-price data, the average live cattle price (including both high and low grades) would have to reach $40.04 per hundredweight — far above levels most economists believe are in sight this year in view of predicted increases in domestic beef production.

What would happen to retail beef prices if live cattle should go as high as $40.04 depends on whether middlemen would absorb part of the higher raw price. If processing and retailing charges remained at May levels, one economist calculated the average retail price of choice grade beef could go to $1.22 a pound or higher, compared with an actual May average of $1.11 and the all-time March record of nearly $1.16. Overall, the average of all farm product prices on May 15 stood at 73 per cent of parity. Hogs were at 82 per cent of the "fair" standard. The Democratic farm plank repudiated the set aside program of flexible acreage controls and supports, including direct payments, adopted in a 1970 farm law. The plank promised to replace the law, after it expires next year, with "a permanent law to provide fair prices" to family-type producers.

This law will include loans and payments and effective supply management to raise family farm income to 100 per cent of parity, based on the 1910-14 ratios," the document added. The platform also endorsed a series of income-boosting steps including higher returns on exported crops, removal of all barriers to collective bargaining for the sale of farm products, and creation of a "strategic reserve" stockpile of crops.

Most sections of the platform were in line with recent recommendations by a national farm coalition including most major farm groups except the American Farm Bureau Federation and major cattle organizations.

The platform also pledged support for United Farm Workers Union efforts to organize farm labor.

Land purchase funds OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Wednesday passed a bill providing for $4 million to purchase private land along the Snake River, which travels through Idaho, Oregon and Washington.

Firm declares dividend

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Board of Directors of the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company has declared a regular quarterly dividend on common stock and Class A preferred stock of the 81-year-old firm.

Company President Rowland M. Cannon said Wednesday a regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents per common share will be paid on July 31, to stockholders of record at the close of business July 13.

General fund in Idaho faces financial crunch

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's general fund appears to have averted a crisis in this fiscal year but faces a real "financial crunch" in the new one beginning Saturday, Budget Director D. E. (Skip) Chilberg said Thursday.

Chilberg agreed with Auditor Joe R. Williams that the state would complete this fiscal year with a balanced budget in the general fund — at least, a budget balanced on paper.

Williams Wednesday said the general fund may be in the black as much as $500,000 when the books are closed Friday on this fiscal year. He said this is possible, however, because the state has stalled its creditors until after Friday. Chilberg said he hoped the paper surplus in the general fund could be reduced below a half-million dollars before the books are closed on this fiscal year. He said he was recommending some of the unpaid bills being held by state agencies be cleared for payment.

He said the prime reason there may be some money to pay some of the bills with monies on hand this fiscal year is "our payroll is not as great as we expected."

"We were guessing early in June what the payroll would be and now we're not guessing," Chilberg said.

While the books will meet the constitutional requirement of a balanced budget technically,

Chilberg said, the general fund actually will be in the hole by more than $2.5 million going into the next fiscal year.

He said the state already has encumbered some $2.4 million from the current fiscal year appropriations to pay bills in the next fiscal year. And though these payments technically come out of this year's appropriations they will be paid with revenue accruing the general fund during the next fiscal year.

This means, Chilberg said, the state will begin the new fiscal year with some $2.5 million or more debt run up this year and which must come from money the state planned on using to pay next year's bills. In addition he said, his staff still disagrees with the legislature on just how much money the tax sources will produce for the next fiscal year.

Chilberg said his revenue estimating committee will meet again this week and next to take a closer look at the fiscal picture, confronting the state. Barring something now not foreseen, he said, he expects it to be a bleak one.

To make ends meet as the state constitution requires the legislature will have to increase taxes or the administration will have to cut back on spending, Chilberg said.

Research slated

BOISE — The Idaho Wheat Commission has allocated $56,793 of its 1972-73 budget for research projects at the University of Idaho, Commission member Keith Amende, Albion, said.

Research will be conducted by University scientists at testing stations in Aberdeen and Moscow, Amende said. Projects receiving grants include wheat breeding, wheat laboratory, wheat quality studies and wheat genetics research.

Cenarrusa opposes appointive plans

BOISE (UPI) — Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa Thursday said he opposes a constitutional amendment which would make membership on Idaho's State Land Board appointive instead of elective.

At present, the five-member board is comprised of the governor, auditor, secretary of state, superintendent of public instruction and attorney general — all elected officials. An amendment proposed by the 1971 legislature would abolish the board in its present form and permit the lawmakers to create a board comprised of appointed officials.

Cenarrusa said making the board appointive would give the governor control of the state lands and he said that would put the administration of them strictly under politics.

Under the present system, he said, board members must stand for election every four years and renew their credentials. If the people don't like their actions, he said, they can vote them out of office.

Earlier, Auditor Joe R. Williams expressed opposition to the amendment.

The first teachers' college west of the Alleghenies was the Michigan State Normal School at Ypsilanti, founded in 1849.

Vets preference effective July 1

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Personnel Commission announced Thursday that Idaho's revised veterans preference law, becomes effective on Saturday.

The new law grants five point preference to eligible veterans and widows of veterans in addition to the existing ten point preference for eligible disabled veterans, widows, and wives of certain disabled veterans applying for jobs with the state and other public employers which have merit systems.

The law limits veterans' preference for both five and ten point veterans to initial appointments.

NO MEASURE. NO PREMIX. NO BLIGHT.*

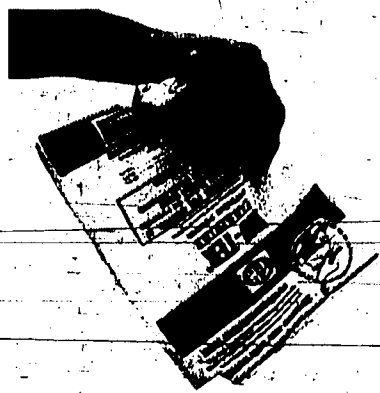

DU-TER® Now in a unique water-soluble pack that takes all the work, dust and mess out of measuring and mixing your potato fungicide. Just fill your spray tank half full of water, drop the soluble 30-ounce pack into the tank with full agitation. Complete filling then agitate the mix 3 to 5 minutes to dissolve the pack. It's the fastest most efficient way to get the jump on blight this season.

And you can count on DU-TER to give protection all season long against both early and late blight. If treatments are started early it doesn't matter where infection is hiding. Potato dump piles, neighboring fields or wind-blown spores can't rob you of a profitable yield if you use DU-TER.

Because DU-TER is an ultra-low volume fungicide, we recommend application of just 5 to 10 ounces per acre as opposed to 1-1.2 lbs. per acre with other fungicides. Begin early and spray every 7 days as conditions dictate. Be especially alert to blight attacks when temperatures remain above 50° F or when relative humidity is above 75% for 48 hours or longer.

Ask your neighbor about DU-TER. It's doing a great job all across the country. And it's also registered for sugar beets.

If you're tired of mixing and measuring your fungicide, try a tankful of DU-TER. You'll like the convenience of the new water-soluble pack and the effectiveness of DU-TER's blight control. So will your potatoes.

*When used in accordance with the directions on the label, DU-TER will substantially reduce the incidence of early and late blight. Performance data also available on request.

Gooding requests land plan

GOODING — The Gooding County Planning Commission will request passage of a county ordinance requiring planning commission approval for any construction or land use alteration.

The ordinance will be designed as a stop-gap measure to give the planning commission and the county commissioners time to work out zoning plans, according to Ben Glauner, county commissioner.

"We don't have any control over what people want to do in the county until we zone," Glauner said.

The planning commission met Thursday night at the soil conservation office. Whitey Price, Gooding, conservation and development coordinator with the Idaho Department of Agriculture, told the commission the county commissioners and the planning group will have to back each other in order for the plan to work.

Scott Brown, eight-county community development planner from the University of Idaho Extension Service, offered his assistance in drawing up community plans.

House at Wendell burns

WENDELL — A fire at the Terry Anderson residence on South Idaho Street caused $1,000 $1,200 damage Thursday.

The fire at 2:45 p.m. gutted the interior of the Anderson garage and damaged power and telephone lines.

According to Wendell Fire Chief George Wahler, the fire was apparently started by children playing with matches. Three engines and 11 firemen responded to the call.

Postal details

EYTHOLLE GREER, left, retiring postmaster at the Rupert Post Office; discusses details of his job with Mervin Allen who will serve as officer in charge until a new postmaster is appointed.

Rupert postmaster quits after 18 years service

RUPERT — Rupert Postmaster Eytholle Greer turned over his office today to Mervin Allen, new "officer in charge," retiring after 18 years.

Greer was named Postmaster on Sept. 1, 1954, succeeding Harry Colwell on his retirement.

The retiring Postmaster's term of office was marked by a number of "growing pains," the major event being construction of the present Post Office building in 1961.

He also was instrumental in adding two new rural routes to the Rupert system, plus a city route and a part-time auxiliary route for city delivery.

The Rupert Post Office has added six new employees during his tenure, growing from 13 in 1954 to 19 at the present time. Receipts have increased from about $40,000 when he took office to more than $164,000 in 1971. The total figure however, necessarily includes several postal rate increases, Greer cautioned.

Rupert's retiring Postmaster served a term as president of the Idaho chapter of the National Association of Postmasters two years ago. He is a member of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce, holds a charter membership in the Kiwanis Club, has served three terms as Master of the Rupert Masonic Lodge, is a member of the Minidoka County Historical Society board of directors and has been awarded the "Hats Off Award" for service to the DeMolay organizations. Mervin Allen will serve as officer in charge pending appointment of a new Postmaster by the U. S. Postal Service. He has been assistant Postmaster in Rupert for four years.

Crews repair pipe at Burley

BURLEY — Crews were working Thursday to repair the 10-inch steel main water line on the Burley-Paul Bridge.

Skin divers Thursday hooked onto some 200 feet of pipe in Snake River. Skin divers were Kirby Harkness, Allen Smith, both Burley police officers; Kelly Reynolds, Burley, and Ken Evans, Heyburn.

Neilsen Construction Co., Twin Falls, is making the emergency repair on the pipe. A large crane was being used to life sections of the bridge railing to give workmen and welders room to work.

Three boat docks were floated down the river to the bridge and are being used as a platform for crews working under the bridge.

One way traffic across the bridge has been directed by flag men with traffic moving by a pilot car.

The 10 inch steel main water line supplies water to North Burley. Water is being supplied to business and homes in North Burley by the Green Acres well, which is being manned 24 hours per day to control water pressure.

The pipe line broke Monday night and is expected to be back in service sometime Friday, according to Slim Fox, bridge specialist with Neilsen Construction Co.

Range fire out

SHOSHONE — A three-acre range fire was extinguished one mile north of the Perrine Bridge just off Highway 93 Thursday evening.

Michael Green, public information officer for the Bureau of Land Management, said a crew of three men handled the blaze which was first reported at 5:15 p.m. It was out at 6:30 p.m.

Additional tax on spuds effective on Saturday

By BONNIE JONES
Times-News writer

BOISE — An additional one cent per hundred weight tax on Idaho potatoes for promotional programs becomes effective Saturday.

To remain in effect the tax must be approved by a grower vote, according to Oscar Arstein, Idaho Commissioner of Agriculture.

He said the agricultural office can neither support or oppose the issue, but will be conducting the referendum vote between July 1 and July 15.

Ballots are being mailed to growers of potatoes on five or more acres of land. These ballots must be returned by July 15 to be valid.

The proposed additional one cent per hundred weight would bring the total tax to 34 cents per hundredweight and is provided for in House Bill 790, approved by the 41st session of the Idaho Legislature.

To be approved, the additional one cent tax must have a two-thirds vote of all potato growers balloting or a simple majority of the growers who produce more than half of the state's total potato crop.

Arstein said he will ask industry representatives to be present when the votes are tabulated so there will be no question about handling of the referendum. He said there is wide support for an affirmative vote on the potato assessment among industry leaders.

Lenard Schmitter, president of Potato Growers of Idaho, said the additional funds are needed for better advertising of the Idaho potato.

Similar support has come from Potato Processors of Idaho. President of this group, J. Wray Connolly, said failure on the part of Idaho to strengthen its promotion efforts commensurate with the increased promotion now being carried on by competing states and to inform the public of the superiority of the Idaho potato will seriously damage the state's potato industry.

Growers producing potatoes on five or more acres of land may vote in the 15-day election by mailing their ballots to the commissioner of agriculture, Boise.

The bill states the one cent shall be paid, half by the first handler and half by the grower.

Arstein said ballots will be mailed to the farmers on Saturday and should be delivered early in the week, with the holiday mail schedule taken into consideration.

Top price paid on Blaine land

Over 60 spectators crowded into the county courtroom Thursday with the jury box filled, a few persons reclining on the railings and more standing in the doorway to watch the auction.

The section was divided into two parcels because, under law, no one person or corporation may buy more than 320 acres of school land at any time.

After a lively exchange of about 125 bids and counterbids, John Manville Corp., represented by its Idaho vice president, John H. Fisher, purchased the first parcel of 320 acres, which was appraised at $416,000 for $641,000.

Russ Horn, Hilley, representing Armita Land and Cattle Co., Houston, Tex., fell out of the bidding at $576,000, after holding his own in a two-man contest with Reiss, only occasionally met by bids from Fisher.

Reiss, wearing dark glasses and with a half smile, reclined in his chair and met each Fisher bid almost spontaneously, but stopped when the bid reached $640,600.

Dollar Mountain Co., Inc., a subsidiary of the Sun Valley Co., captured the second about 300-acre parcel after outbidding Reiss by $7,000 setting the acreage purchase price at $510,000. It had been appraised at $382,000.

Horn, this time representing W. B. Waters, Sr., Houston, bowed out of the contest with a bid of $390,000. Dollar Mountain Corp. was represented by its assistant secretary, Rene L. Meyer.

After the bidding, Fisher said the land will be included in the Elkhorn development, but he declined to disclose development plans at this time.

On the first parcel, Reiss said that he wanted to purchase the land to hold undeveloped as an investment for his children. In the second bidding, he said he represented about six Chicago friends, three of which, he said, had never seen Sun Valley.

The land was sold exclusive of mineral rights which are held by the state. A grazing lease is currently in effect on both parcels until Dec. 31, 1974.

Serving as auctioneer was Jim Mitchell, Boise, division chief of the Idaho Department of Public Lands, with Lou Benedict, Idaho Falls, area supervisor for the department, acting as his assistant.

Also present were Joe Williams, state auditor and land board member; Ralph Samson, assistant state land commissioner, and county and local municipal officials.

Twine across road puzzle at Shoshone

SHOSHONE — Investigation is continuing into an incident north of Shoshone along Highway 93 in which heavy twine was strung across the highway.

John Shafer, Shoshone, chief of police, said Friday morning that the twine had been strung back and forth across the highway several times on two occasions this week.

At about 7 p.m. Thursday Shafer received a call from the Hollister. Part of entry with a report that an unidentified woman motorist said she had run into the twine. She reported five long haired men standing alongside the road.

Shafer said two other vehicles received broken antennas and window glass this week in similar incidents.

The twine is that which is used as guidelines for road construction work going on in the area. It comes in large rolls.

Owner buys

KETCHUM — Calico Condominium-Resort was purchased Thursday by its mortgage holder during an uncontested sheriff's sale.

Proxident Federal Savings and Loan Association, which had received the foreclosure judgment calling for the sale, bought the resort in parcel for the judgment price of about $2.3 million.

Agents for the mortgage company were Davison, Copple and Copple, Boise.

About 100 spectators attended the sale.

He doesn't mind being wrong

HAILEY — "I am always glad to be wrong when it goes this way."

The grinning man who made this statement was State Auditor Joe Williams. The occasion was the Thursday auction of the Elkhorn Gulch school section, which went to subsidiary companies of Elkhorn at Sun Valley for $1.151 million in the largest, land auction in Idaho history.

Williams said that he had predicted that the sale of the two parcels would not go over $1 million.

But the state auditor said he was "well pleased" with the price, because interest from the invested funds will "relieve the general fund" for school allocations. Under the law, moneys from sale of school land are invested, and only the interest may be spent for education.

Williams said he didn't feel that Thursday's auction will set the pace for further state land sales in Blaine County. He termed the payment price an "isolated case" because of the land's proximity to Sun Valley and because "it was surrounded practically on three sides" by the Elkhorn at Sun Valley development.

Forest birds for holiday crowds

TWIN FALLS — U. S. Forest Service officials say they are anticipating a record number of outdoor recreationists in forest campgrounds this weekend.

Red Fish Lake campgrounds are already filled and many others, especially in the north area, are filling rapidly.

Officials of the Sawtooth National Forest reminded persons going into the wooded areas for the holiday that fireworks of any kind are illegal on forest property and violators will face legal action.

Most campgrounds and roads are now open, but Dollar Hide Summit "is still closed and many high mountain lakes are still frozen.

The lower elevations and soft portions of the forest are already getting dry and persons are also cautioned to be careful with camp fires.

Evangelistic drive set by Methodists in Idaho

PORTLAND — Bishop W. Maynard Sparks announced that Methodists of Oregon and Idaho voted to take part in the Key '73 evangelistic drive.

More than 125 denominations and other groups will take part in the drive, which seeks to reach every person in North America.

"Key '73 is an effort to bring Christian principles to bear on the problems of the day, from war and its tragic aftermath to the generation gap and alienation," said Bishop Sparks.

"We want to help North America make use of God's plans and hopes for mankind. We also want to help Christian congregations become more effective redemptive centers and more aggressive witnesses of God's redeeming love."

He said sponsors plan to use newspapers, radio and television and organized visitation "on a scale never before undertaken."

Taking part in the drive are groups as widely separated as Roman Catholics, Quakers and members of Pentecostal groups. The Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, Campus Crusade for Christ and the American Bible Society will also take part.

An estimated 150,000 local congregations will work in the drive, which gives freedom to each participating group to adapt the program to its own needs.

Some churches are expected to pool their work across denominational lines; others will work cooperatively, keeping their identity, and others will work separately, using plans which will forestall overlapping of effort.

The drive also is expected to make use of "high visibility" events to call public attention to the church.

Bishop Sparks said the drive actually will open late next fall in a period meant to stress repentance and prayer.

Emphasis on Bible study will begin in mid-January, and in Lent the drive will highlight outreach by laymen, to unchurched people.

New kinds of evangelism, using music, traveling performers and television, are scheduled for summer, 1973, and preaching will be highlighted in the fall, he went on. The drive will end shortly before the dawn of 1974 with stress on commitment by newly recruited Christians.

When does life begin?

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

When does human life begin? When does it end?

Those may sound like simple, easily answered questions. But in fact, each of them currently is the subject of controversy which has legal, medical and biological dimensions.

When human life begins is the crux of the dispute over the morality of liberalized abortion laws. If a quickened fetus is NOT a live human creature, a case can be made for allowing a woman to terminate a pregnancy whenever she and her physician choose to do so.

But if the fetus at some point becomes a truly human though still embryonic person, abortion may quite reasonably be called a form of murder.

Even more complex issues are involved in determining when human life ends. Until recently, law, medicine and religion accepted without question the ancient concept that death occurs when the heart stops beating.

But modern medicine has outlasted that concept. It now is possible for a well-equipped hospital to keep a human heart pumping for hours, days, weeks or even years after the body whose blood it circulates has become irreversibly dead as a thinking, feeling, willing human person.

This fact has compelled doctors, jurists and moral theologians to re-think the traditional view which associates death with cessation of heart function. The emerging view holds that death occurs when brain activity ceases without hope of being revived.

The end of brain activity can be determined with scientific precision through electroencephalographs which record brain "waves." When the rhythmic up-and-down motion of these brain waves gives way to a steady flat line on the scope, the brain has gone out of business for good, and there is no way in which it can ever again be made to function as the center of human consciousness, emotion and volition.

The new concept of timing death from the cessation of brain function rather than heartbeat has great practical significance for two reasons. First, it spares families the emotional ordeal and enormous expense of keeping a "human vegetable" going as long as modern medical machinery can contrive to keep its heart beating.

Second, it enables physicians to accomplish heart transplants from persons who are mentally dead into those who have a chance to live healthy, normal lives at a much earlier hour when the chances for success are far greater.

It was a heart transplant operation, protested by survivors of the deceased, that brought the new concept of death before a court in Richmond, Va., recently. Survivors sought $100,000 damages from doctors who performed the operation, claiming the patient's heart had not stopped beating, therefore he was not legally dead, when the surgery was performed.

Medical evidence showed the patient's biological functions had been artificially maintained by respirator apparatus for several hours after brain activity had ceased. It was during this period that his heart was removed for transplantation.

Dr. William Collins of Yale, a noted physician, and Dr. Joseph Fletcher, an Episcopal theologian who teaches medical ethics at the University of Virginia Medical School, both expressed the opinion that death occurs—in the eyes of the law and in the eyes of God—when the brain irrevocably ceases to function.

The jury agreed with them, and threw out the damage suit.

This doesn't finally settle the question of course. The same issue is bound to arise again, perhaps many times, before other courts and other juries. But the Richmond verdict may well prove to be a milestone in law, medicine and theology.

MRS. MABEL HAHN ED SCHWAGER retire from BLM jobs

Shoshone fetes BLM personnel

SHOSHONE Retiring Bureau of Land Management personnel, Mrs. Mabel Hahn and Ed Schwager, were honored at an informal reception.

Michael Green, BLM public information officer, said the event was Wednesday.

O'Dell Frandsen, Shoshone BLM district manager, presented gifts to the two in appreciation for their dedication and friendliness throughout their service.

Mrs. Hahn retired effective

Tuesday, after 10 years of service with the bureau. She began her career in the Shoshone district office as a fire clerk in 1962. Two years later her duties were broadened to include receptionist and general secretarial work.

Schwager, who was heavy duty mechanic for the district, retired after 26 years of government service. He started with the bureau in 1944, and since that time has been responsible for all the district's mechanical equipment.

Homecoming at Albion Saturday

ALBION Over 200 reservations have been received for the third annual homecoming Saturday on the Albion Campus.

Alumni and former students of the Albion State Normal and Southern Idaho College of Education have registered from Alaska, California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Utah, Nevada and Idaho, according to Keith Amende, alumni association president.

The homecoming event will get under way at 11 a.m. Saturday with final registration and coffee hour in the administration building.

A buffet lunch will be served from noon to 1:30 p.m. under the direction of The Oregon Trail Festival of the Arts.

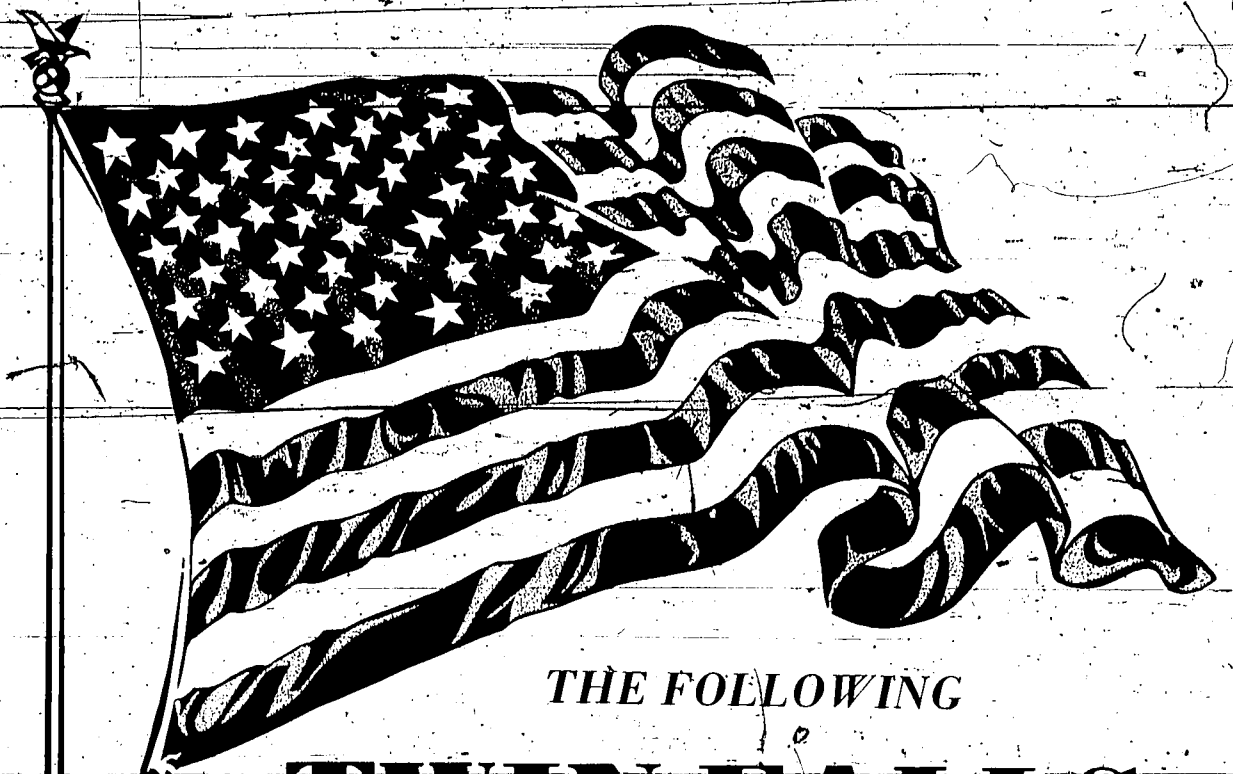

Following the luncheon an assembly will be held in the auditorium for the business meeting. Topics on the agenda include discussion on setting up a display of articles from Albion State Normal and Southern Idaho College of Education in the Cassia County Historical Society Museum. Several articles have already been donated for the display.

Alumni are urged to bring articles for the display to the homecoming meeting.

Officers will be elected, prizes will be awarded and members will be given the opportunity to reminisce.
