

Delegate stripping 'illegal'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Attorneys for Sen. George S. McGovern's California delegates charged in federal court today that the Democratic convention credentials committee illegally changed the rules in stripping 151 McGovern supporters of their seats.

At a hearing before U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr., attorney Joseph P. Rauh said that before the California primary all candidates were willing to abide by the state's winner-take-all provision.

"Now suddenly what was clear is to be changed," Rauh argued. "All of a sudden, after it was over, a challenge was filed."

The committee created an explosive controversy last week by voting to apportion the 271-member California delegation on the number of votes the candidates received and on that basis ruled in favor of 151 non-McGovern challengers.

Rauh, on behalf of McGovern's California supporters, filed suit asking that the action be reversed.

However, Hart commented during the court hearing: "It may not be cricket to change the rules, it may even be dirty pool, but is it unconstitutional?" He also asked: "How far are the courts going to get into violations of party rules?"

McGovern finished first in the June 6 primary.

The committee decision could block a McGovern first-ballot nomination at the convention, which starts in Miami Beach a week from today.

Stephen Reinhardt, Democratic national committeeman from California and a co-chairman of the state delegation, said McGovern approved the legal move.

"He told us he thinks we are doing the right thing," Reinhardt said.

In Los Angeles, California delegates for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, who were selected after the Credentials Committee decision, said they were not concerned about the court suit or a potential convention floor fight over seating of their state.

TF youth, 17, drowns in Salmon

TWIN FALLS—A 17-year-old Twin Falls youth, whose identity is being withheld pending location of his parents, drowned Sunday on the main Salmon River near Challis.

Sheriff Bert Mechem, Challis, said the boy was a member of a party of four young Twin Falls men floating the main Salmon in two inner tubes and one two-man rubber raft.

He said about 1:45 p.m. the party went through a treacherous series of rapids. As they entered a second group, the two-man raft capsized. One of the boys was able to make it to shore but was badly battered by rocks and swift water. The other was carried downstream. He disappeared in the river.

Sheriff Mechem said his office was notified and some of his deputies, fishermen and other members of the river-running party, kept the victim in sight for about two miles but could not get to him because of the swift water and difficult terrain in the area of the drowning.

Sheriff Mechem said the boy's parents are on vacation and reported in the Island Park area. Efforts were being made to notify them late this morning, he said.

The sheriff said the area where the drowning occurred is probably the most hazardous on the main Salmon River. It is not suited to the type of float equipment the party was using. He said they were not wearing life jackets.

Mechem said a search is continuing along the river today with many holiday vacationers and fishermen joining forest rangers and the sheriff's office in combing the river in an attempt to recover the body.

The sheriff said the party put into the river earlier Sunday about two miles downstream from Sunbeam Dam. He said the party included four men in their early 20's or late teens.

Kennedy help due McGovern

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Eleanor McGovern said today that she is certain Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will throw his support behind her husband, Sen. George S. McGovern for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"He has done everything short of a formal endorsement," said Mrs. McGovern. She said Kennedy also says "every member" of the Kennedy family is behind McGovern.

In an interview, Mrs. McGovern came through as a leader in a new breed of politician's wives and potential first ladies. She speaks out on candidates and the issues, and she strikes out on the campaign trail alone.

She doesn't mind saying that she is "disappointed" in Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., for his role in helping to split the 271-member California delegation.

"I think it's a reprehensible thing," she said. "My husband won the election fair and square, according to the rules of the state. It was really unfortunate. I think the beneficiary of it can only be one person—that's Richard Nixon."

Barely five feet tall, the blue-eyed Mrs. McGovern, 50, is fighting a losing battle to get her weight back up to 100 pounds. But she displays stamina and determination in her commitment to her husband's political future.

"I'm just running in support of my husband," she said.

Reds bombard Hue as fighting flares

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist gunners fired 675 rocket, mortar and artillery rounds into Hue and its outer defenses today and two large, equally-matched units slugged it out with tanks and artillery north of the old imperial capital in a South Vietnamese attempt to recapture Quang Tri province.

A 20,000-man government force is driving north from Hue to try to take back Quang Tri—the only South Vietnamese province ever captured by the Communists.

With most of Hue's defenders sent north to try to recapture Quang Tri, Communists increased the pressure on the old imperial capital and threatened a long-expected, major attack on the city.

A 1,000-man South Vietnamese paratroop unit, backed by air power, artillery and tanks, fought a savage battle with an North Vietnamese force of the same size only two miles south of Quang Tri City, the provincial capital. While the battle was underway, Communist gunners slipped into the Hue area from the west and bombarded the city and a half-dozen outposts on its inland flanks.

In the air war over North Vietnam, the U.S. command said U.S. jet fighter-bombers destroyed a coal treatment building near the country's major port city of Haiphong, dropped a span on a bridge near Vinh and bombed an oil storage area south of the Chinese border.

The command in a delayed report said a U.S. Navy A7 fighter-bomber crashed "from unknown causes" June 18 on a night mission over North Vietnam about 107 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams and listed the pilot as missing. A Communist radio broadcast claimed today two U.S. jets were shot down Sunday over the Haiphong-Hanoi area.

UPI photographer Willie Vicoy said government paratroopers in today's Quang Tri City fighting, 32 miles north of Hue, were backed by allied jets, helicopters and heavy B52 bombers. The B52s overnight dumped more than 500 tons of explosive on the approaches to Quang Tri City. The city and the province of the same name were captured a month after the Communist offensive began March 30 in South Vietnam and have been in North Vietnamese hands ever since.

Vicoy said he saw a South Vietnamese armored personnel carrier "sink like a stone" as it tried to cross the Truong Phuoc River to join the Quang Tri fighting, drowning about seven paratroopers. Vicoy said the vehicle, overloaded with paratroopers in full battle gear, "plunged downward and seven of the men aboard never came up."

Dollar remains steady

TOKYO (UPI)—The U.S. dollar remained unchanged on the Tokyo foreign exchange market today, but it appeared that the Bank of Japan had stepped in to support the American currency.

Exchange officials described activity during the day as "more than normal." Volume totaled $42.4 million.

Spot transactions of dollars were quoted at 301.01 yen to the dollar, only .03 yen above the lowest level the dollar can fall.

In Hong Kong the gold price in the Asian bullion market soared to the highest level since World War II.

Reacting to the floating of the British pound, the price opened at 443.5 Hong Kong dollars ($79.48 U.S.) per tael (171.3 ounces). A 1.75 Hong Kong dollar rise over last Thursday's post-war peak of 441.75 Hong Kong dollars ($75.10 U.S.).

About 30 minutes before the market closed, it jumped to 444.75 Hong Kong dollars ($79.7 U.S.), the highest level since World War II. It closed at the same rate.

The dollar fell to 301.10 on Thursday, when the exchange re-opened after being shut down for four days due to floating of the British pound.

Stomach disorder hospitalizes HST

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman, 88, hospitalized with a renewed digestive ailment, spent a quiet night although he did not sleep soundly. Doctors said today his condition continued to be "satisfactory."

A Research Hospital spokesman said Truman was awakened at 7 a.m. to prepare for radiologic examinations of the lower intestinal tract. The examinations took one hour and the 33rd chief executive returned to his seventh-floor room at 9:30 a.m.

Spokesman John P. Dreves quoted Dr. Wallace H. Graham as saying Truman was "slightly fatigued by his trip to the hospital and lack of sound sleep." Graham said blood tests were scheduled for today and Tuesday.

It is too early to determine how long the former President will be hospitalized, Graham said.

"I'm pleased with everything so far," said Graham, Truman's personal physician since the White House days.

Dreves said Truman ate scrambled eggs, toast and fruit juice after returning from his X-rays. "He's up and around," he added.

He said based on Truman's present condition, the next report on him would be at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Dreves said Truman's meals after admittance Sunday were limited to jello, broth and tea in preparation for today's X-rays.

He said Truman had been joking with nurses taking care of him and had expressed a dislike for hospital gowns. The nurses said Truman "continues to be cheerful and happy," Dreves said.

Truman was driven to the hospital from his home in nearby Independence, Mo., Sunday afternoon. He entered in a wheelchair.

His wife, Bess 87, accompanied him but returned home Sunday night. She came back to the hospital at 10 a.m. today and planned to stay all day.

Irked youths quit Colorado festival

GRANBY, Colo. (UPI)—Disgruntled youth, upset over the cold, damp weather, no entertainment and a limited water supply, began leaving the site of a Colorado "religious festival" faster than they were arriving Sunday, police said.

Colorado State Patrol Deputy Chief Richard Schippers estimated 20 persons were leaving Strawberry Lake, the high mountain peak where the festival is being held, to every one that is arriving.

Schippers flew over the site and estimated that about 8,000 people present. Originally, the festival with an eight-mile sponsoring Rainbow Family of Living Light estimated 140,000 persons would attend. "There's a lot of smoke, a lot of fires and a lot of people hassling," said one young woman who hiked out of the area. "They are going to wreck the land."

The wind was blowing hard late Sunday and a cold rain had started to fall. Temperatures in the area fell below freezing, as they did Saturday night and Sunday morning when a reading of 27 degrees was reported.

Rainbow Family spokesmen said they would wind up the people present. Originally, the festival with an eight-mile sponsoring Rainbow Family of march at midnight tonight.

LDS leader dies in SLC

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Joseph Fielding Smith became spiritual leader of more than 3 million Mormons around the world at the age of 93.

Smith was called as 10th president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints on Jan. 23, 1970. The grandson of Hyrum Smith, one of the early Mormon martyrs, Smith was the grandnephew of Joseph Smith, who founded the church in New York in 1830.

The white-haired patriarch, a survivor of three wives and father, grandfather and great-grandfather to more than 140 descendants, died of a heart attack at his daughter's home Sunday night. He was 93.

Smith had been a member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles, the church's ruling body, for 52 years, serving most of them as church historian.

Known as a doctrinaire theologian, Smith, author of more than 20 books on history and religion, spoke often about keeping the faith of his fathers pure.

In a sermon he once criticized "modernists who reject the doctrine of the atonement of Christ, the resurrection of the Son of God, and consequently the resurrection of mankind."

"They have discarded the miracles of the scriptures and make light of the saving ordinances of the Gospel which the Lord declared essential to salvation," he said.

Smith made no move during his two and a half years as president to lift the church ban on elevating Negroes to the priesthood, a group which most men join in their teens. The priesthood carries out the spiritual and worldly affairs of the church.

"The Latter-Day Saints, so commonly called Mormons, have no animosity towards the Negro," Smith wrote in 1964. "Neither have they described him as belonging to an 'inferior race,'" he said. "There are Negroes in the church who are respected and honored for their integrity and faithful devotion. The door into the church is open to all."

"We may not fully understand but the time will come when all these things will be explained (by divine revelation) in the spirit of sympathy, mercy and faith, we will also hope that blessing may eventually be given to our Negro brethren, for they are our brethren and children of God—withstanding their black covering."

A native of Salt Lake City, Smith grew up on his family's farm in nearby Taylorsville. He took part in sports enthusiastically as a youth and maintained his interest in athletics throughout his life.

Money taken from plant

TWIN FALLS — Sometime between 6 p.m. Saturday and noon Sunday thieves entered the Pepsi Cola Inc. plant in Twin Falls and took $58.12 from a money bag.

City police were continuing their investigation today. They reported it appeared someone had pried away a wooden door jamb to gain entry and then ransacked the office area and a safe which was not locked.

Jeff Mullinix, 217 7th Street West, told city police he left the front door of his home unlocked Sunday and someone entered and took $95.

He said the money was in a bedroom. Persons entered the house and went to the bedroom, ransacked the drawers and took the money. They also took several containers of beer from the refrigerator. Nothing else was disturbed.

Idaho solons mourn Edwards

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus joined legislative leaders today in mourning the death of State Rep. John A. Edwards, R-Council, calling it "a tremendous loss to the people and the legislature of Idaho."

"I've respected him as long as I've known him because he always placed good government before partisan politics," the Democratic governor said of the GOP legislator.

"I will miss him, the people of Idaho will miss him," Andrus said. "My sympathies go to his wife and family."

House Speaker William J. Lanling, R-Hollister, said "Edwards, a physician in private life, was the most respected legislator of any I can think of in my terms in the legislature."

He called the Council lawmaker a hard worker and dedicated individual.

"We will miss his expertise on the Revenue and Taxation Committee," Lanling said. "His community and the state as a whole are losers."

Chairman H. Ferd Koch, R-Boise, of the House State Affairs Committee, called Edwards an "unusual man in the legislature."

"He was learned in matters of taxation, and because of his profession worked actively in matters of health."

TF council to consider agreement

TWIN FALLS — City council members in Twin Falls will meet tonight to consider an agreement with Twin Falls County on future landfill operations.

The two groups have been discussing a plan for county administration of the sanitary landfill south of town to serve county and city needs. Details of lease fees have not yet been determined.

Other items on the agenda include a public hearing on the proposed creation of Local Improvement District 87, a $500,000 street, curb and sidewalk improvement project. Assessments for individual property owners have been prepared and residents objecting to fees may be heard tonight. A public hearing will also be held on the request of Marshall Bros., Inc., for a conditional use permit to construct an eight unit dwelling on Hayburn Avenue East.

The city will consider the agreement with Joseph McCollum for use of a city pipe to convey water across the Snake River.

Council members will also consider an ordinance for rezoning a large area in the northwest party of the city to residential, medium density. It is now residential, low density. The council is also scheduled to set a hearing date for an amendment to the zoning ordinance on curb, gutter and sidewalk requirements.

YMCA classes set for July

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley YMCA program for July has been announced by Chuck Upton, director.

On Monday, July 10, there will be an archery and arts and crafts class for both boys and girls. On July 11, a wrestling class for boys will begin.

The archery class will be conducted in six sessions from 10 a.m. until noon on Monday and Wednesday. The class will include the teaching of the basics of archery and give the participants an opportunity to shoot for awards. The class will be conducted by Chuck Upton.

The arts and crafts class will meet from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday. The class will be divided into two age groups with youngsters 6 through 9 in one class and children 10 through 14 in another. The program will feature various kinds of projects permitting the youngsters to deal with various kinds of materials. Leaders for the program are Mrs. Edith Stacey and Becky Halby.

The wrestling class, an eight session program, under the leadership of Steve Cover will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. at the "Y" on Tuesday and Thursday. The program will include elementary wrestling for the younger and less experienced boys and advanced techniques for the experienced wrestler.

Further information may be obtained by calling the YMCA at 733-4384.

Reception honors Shoshone couple

SHOSHONE — Mr. and Mrs. David Johnston, Mesa, Ariz., former residents of Shoshone, were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday afternoon at the LDS Church.

Ten of the couple's 12 children attended along with their families.

The reception table was covered with a gold lace cover over white. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride dressed in gold and the bridegroom standing inside gold rings with white lovebirds sitting at the top of the rings. Other decorations on the cake were white swans.

The cake, made by Mrs. Henry Smith, Arco, was placed on a mirror.

Yellow flowers and candles were a gift of four grandchildren. Mrs. Johnston's corsage was of yellow carnations and ribbon.

Mrs. Merle (Robertta) Race and Mrs. Gary (Beckie) Moates, Phoenix, Ariz., daughters of the couple, served and were assisted by other members of the family.

Special guests were Johnston's brother, Jess, Kaysville, Utah, and his sister, Mrs. Ellen Thompson, Millwood, Ga. Mrs. Johnston's brothers who attended were Jim Connell, Canogo Park, Calif.; Lorenzo Connell, Hurley, M.M., and Mylie Connell, Ogden, Utah.

Other guests attended from Filer, Idaho Falls, Carey, Gooding, Hagerman, Richfield, Boise and Hailey; Salinas and Canogo Park, Calif.; Kaysville, Tremonton, Ogden, Hooper and Orem, Utah; Mesa and Phoenix, Ariz.; New Mexico and Georgia.

Cyclists meet

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Trail Machine Association will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Idaho Power Service Center.

Scheduled for discussion are future trail rides and a report on a meeting with Rep. James McClure, R-Idaho.

Bolton travels at 81

TWIN FALLS — Mary Bolton, Twin Falls, has returned home following a 4,000 mile trip, most of it by air.

At 81, Mrs. Bolton visits relatives annually and usually attends the reunion of her family, the Delaney family, now of Texas.

During her tour this year, she visited six states and the District of Columbia, and spent time with a daughter and grandchildren. She visited Washington, California, Oregon, Utah, Arizona, and Texas. Of the eight Delaney sons and daughters living, six were able to attend the reunion in Texas. Mrs. Bolton is the oldest and a brother is 80, with others ranging down to 65 years of age.

K-Mart Inc. land plans in progress

TWIN FALLS — Full plans for developing a shopping center on Addison Avenue East by K-Mart Inc., are expected to be announced soon.

George Haney Jr., Twin Falls Realty, who is handling the real estate transaction, said the firm is in the process of buying the site known as the old Stronk property at the corner of Eastland Drive and Addison Avenue, and will announce their plans in the near future.

A story in the Times-News Thursday credited Western Realty with the real estate transaction. It should have said Twin Falls Realty.

Rupert carnival

IT'S FESTIVAL TIME in Rupert as a week-long Fourth of July celebration gets underway.

The Inland Empire Shows brought their carnival to town Thursday, setting up a number of rides in downtown Rupert. These youngsters are a few of the many who flocked to the scene to whirl, twirl, spin and fling through the air in true carnival style. The rides will continue throughout the festival week.

Cashiered?

Portland Oregonian

In this strangest of wars in Indochina it is perhaps understandable that an American general should be "fired" for attacking the enemy. His error was in bombing a vast buildup of North Vietnamese tanks, artillery, fighter planes and other machines and supplies obviously intended for an all-out attack on South Vietnam. He admitted "stretching" the conditions of "protective reaction" bombing.

In any other war (except that in Korea in the 1950s) Lt. Gen. John D. Lavelle, U.S. Air Force Commander in South Vietnam, would have been expected to do as he did. But, like Gen. Douglas MacArthur who was cashiered for defying President Truman in the Korean War, Gen. Lavelle did not hold to the strict line of authority from above. That the North Vietnamese offensive was permitted to develop without major hindrance, and that the orders to bomb tactically and strategically thereafter came only a few weeks after Gen. Lavelle was removed, only to add to the irony.

The Lavelle incident emphasizes again what so many complainants about the fighting in Indochina choose to disregard. Even on its new scale of mining of harbors and bombing of trains, bridges, power stations, airfields and other targets on the military supply lines, American participation in the war is and always has been severely limited. All the whining about an American defeat, which it is not, has no relation to the facts of a "limited war."

When President Johnson stopped the bombing of North Vietnam's military targets in 1968 it was with the definite understanding that Hanoi would go to the peace table in Paris and work toward a political settlement. The Communist side, instead, has used the grace period to continue the war and to build up its Soviet and Chinese arms for this last, desperate and unsuccessful offensive.

The three-pronged North Vietnamese attack across the demilitarized zone and out of Laos and Cambodia was launched after President Nixon's withdrawal of almost a half-million troops from South Vietnam. It was ordered by Hanoi in defiance of President Nixon's repeated warnings that the United States would respond in force if such an offensive occurred.

The limited response permitted by Gen. Lavelle made it necessary for him to retire rather than accept reassignment. But it was militarily and politically correct, as demonstrated by the present, much greater U.S. efforts to cut the supply lines of the North Vietnamese offensive and end a war that has dragged on all too long. Gen. Lavelle retires with honor.

Lawyers' Lobby

Lewiston Tribune

The lawyers' lobby against no-fault auto insurance continues to fight federal legislation on ground the states ought to do it, while fighting no-fault in the state legislatures. It may not be unethical under the terms of the canons of law but it is cynical, misleading and irresponsible.

The vice chairman of the Colorado Bar Association told members of the Montana bar Saturday that the presently proposed federal law — the so-called Hart-Magnuson bill — should be opposed, and urged the lawyers to fight for an auto insurance law tailored to the needs of the people of Montana. It's a good argument. The lawyers are right when they say the states can do a better job of experimenting with this new concept in auto insurance than the federal government can simply because there are more of them and they can offer a number of different kinds of laws to examine and choose from. But the lawyers don't take their own argument seriously. Whenever a no-fault bill surfaces in a state legislature, the organized trial lawyers stamp it out. When fighting no-fault at the state level, the trial lawyers claim that it is inherently bad legislation because it restricts the right to sue. When fighting no-fault at the federal level, they claim it should be enacted by the states.

It is largely because the lawyers have been so effective at the state level that federal legislation is now being pushed. If the trial lawyers want to be effective in curbing federal activity in this field they will reverse their previous position and push for good no-fault bills in the state legislatures. That's not likely to happen soon, but that would be the responsible course.

Inflation Wins

Christian Science Monitor

Let us be very clear about why the British Government unhooked the pound sterling last week, because there is an ominous warning here to every democratic government in the world. That warning had better be heeded.

The pound had to be unhooked and allowed to find a new, and inevitably lower, level for itself because the present government in Britain is the third in a row there which has lacked the political courage to resist unreasonable and inflation-building wage demands from trade unions.

The sequence tells the story. On June 13 the government allowed a railway settlement permitting a rise in wages of 14 per cent. As the London Economist points out this is a rate of inflation which, if generalized, "will cause the value of the pound to depreciate below the value of the penny during the average adult's lifetime." Immediately, runs on the pound began. By June 23 it had to be unhooked, and was.

It's so much easier for a government to capitulate to an unreasonable wage demand than stand up against it. The habit is insidious. It's very much like a drug addiction. It got started in such a mild way in Britain back in the days when Harold Macmillan was Prime Minister. The rationalization then was that you can't seriously expect a Tory government to impose restraint on trade unions. That, it was then said, would have to be done by a Labour government.

So there was a Labour government in Britain and it recognized the fact that only a Labour government can impose restraints on organized labor without being suspect of anti-labor bias. And much noise was made about a Trade Union Reform Act which was to domesticate Britain's unruly trade unions. And then the crunch came and Prime Minister Harold Wilson abandoned his reform act in return for a promise by the Trades Union Congress that British labor would discipline itself.

ANDREW TULLY

The Plight Of Mrs. Frankfurter

WASHINGTON — No columnist in what might loosely be called his right mind would come out against widow women, but I confess to mixed emotions about the plight of Mrs. Felix Frankfurter, whose late husband served long and well as an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Obviously, Congress should do something for Mrs. Frankfurter, whose $5,000-a-year pension doesn't begin to pay the cost of her stay at the Washington Home for Incurables. A relic of a dedicated public servant deserves special privilege in a special case. However, I'm afraid I take a dim view of the move on Capitol Hill to increase pensions to Supreme Court widows, probably to $10,000 a year. This seems a bit much — not because such a widow is undeserving, but because it conflicts with the unceasing lectures of our ruling class which urge faceless American husbands and fathers to provide for their families after their death.

Supreme Court justices earn $60,000 a year. This may not seem much to a Rockefeller or a Kennedy, but I expect most citizens consider it a tidy sum. Indeed, $60,000 must seem munificent to that majority of ordinary workers who will never make more than $15,000 per annum and yet must somehow accumulate an estate sufficient to support those they leave behind when mortality calls its loan.

It is unkind, perhaps, but I can't help wondering what in thunderation Felix Frankfurter did with his money. The couple was childless, and although Frankfurter was not around when Congress raised Court salaries to their present level, his pittance in a period unharassed by inflation was the equal of today's remuneration. Surely his income, supplemented by that from his writings and lectures, was adequate to the purchase of a substantial annuity for his widow.

Mrs. Frankfurter's case aside, no Supreme Court justice of my ken was a poor man when named to the highest bench. All the present members had earned good if not big salaries as lawyers and judges before making Top Banana. None was appointed to the Supreme Court to rescue him from the relief rolls.

Moreover, as lawyers, the justices presumably know a great deal about money and its management. I have never encountered a legal beagle who was unaware of the value of a buck, especially when he sat down to arrive at a fee. Most of us unerringly head for a lawyer as well as a banker for advice on setting up an estate. The lawyer is rich in the lore of gimickery when it comes to such matters.

It is true, of course, that a Supreme Court justice is barred from certain investments by the peril of conflict of interest. He cannot participate in a suit involving, say, U.S. Steel. If he has substantial holdings in the stock of that corporation, he must beware of the speculator offering the instant windfall, lest the profits he earns from buying a piece of the action later turn out to be the fruits of financial thuggery.

Nevertheless, when the taxpayers pay a Supreme Court justice 60,000 claims a year they have a right to expect him to set aside a substantial portion of this dough for a rainy day. It's his hard luck if he spends his substance on champagne and caviar breakfasts, or dallies with a sultry female with a lust for egg-sized emeralds. No one feels sorry for the shoe clerk who plays the horses instead of buying $5,000 worth of insurance for his wife.

Again excepting Mrs. Frankfurter's case, a $5,000-a-year pension would be a godsend to some of my correspondents. I am thinking especially of the lady who writes that her late husband never made more than $7,000 a year, on which they had to rear two children. As a widow she now receives from her benevolent government the minimum Social Security benefit of $70.40 a month. Unless my arithmetic has gone awry, that amounts to $844.80 per year.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Ear Wax

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband puts peroxide in his ear every so often, and he thinks because it foams up it is getting the wax out of his ear. I don't think he should use peroxide. I think it is too strong. He told me to write and ask you. — Mrs. F.S.G.

How would it be if I disagree with both of you? But not very vigorously.

Let him use his foamy peroxide if he wants to. It won't hurt him. But if he really has trouble with large amounts of hardened wax, he is missing a trick that will help him.

Hydrogen peroxide, as a matter of fact, is quite widely used to loosen and rinse out ear wax — but it won't necessarily soften the wax, any more than tap water would.

A few drops of warm sweet oil (olive oil) dropped into the ear will soften the wax. Let the oil stay long enough to soften the wax before rinsing it out. The rinsing can be with peroxide, with warm water, or a weak baking soda solution.

Another trick for softening wax, if there isn't too much wax, is to let hot water spray on his head in the shower.

For the rinsing process, water can be gently squirted into the ear with a small rubber syringe. Do NOT insert the tip of the syringe into the ear so that it exerts pressure in the ear canal. Just hold it close enough to squirt water into the ear, always leaving space for it to run out freely. And NEVER use hairpins, toothpicks or any such thing in the ear canal. Too much danger of scratching the canal or damaging the ear drum.

One more word of caution, which perhaps may not be needed. A person with a perforated ear drum, or with any infection in the ear or ear canal, should not use ANY of these processes for removing wax. After all this discussion about removing wax, maybe it will be wise to add that I'm not recommending that everybody start removing ear wax. There's a great deal of difference in the rate at which people form wax.

In most cases, the excess wax dries and falls out. A SMALL AMOUNT OF WAX IS SUPPOSED TO BE IN THE EAR CANALS, SERVING AS A PROTECTION OF THE EAR CANAL MEMBRANE.

It is principally when excessive wax forms, and hardens, and in time may become impacted against the ear drum, that removal is required.

For those in doubt, it might be a good idea to remember, once, to have the doctor check and see whether there is excessive wax or whether just let nature take care of things.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My nose has been giving me trouble for two years now — raw, red, pimples, very sensitive.

I do have a cocktail or two in the evening. Someone told me I had a whisky nose. Please explain. I am 60. — S.D.

"Whisky nose" is a vague term that doesn't mean anything medically.

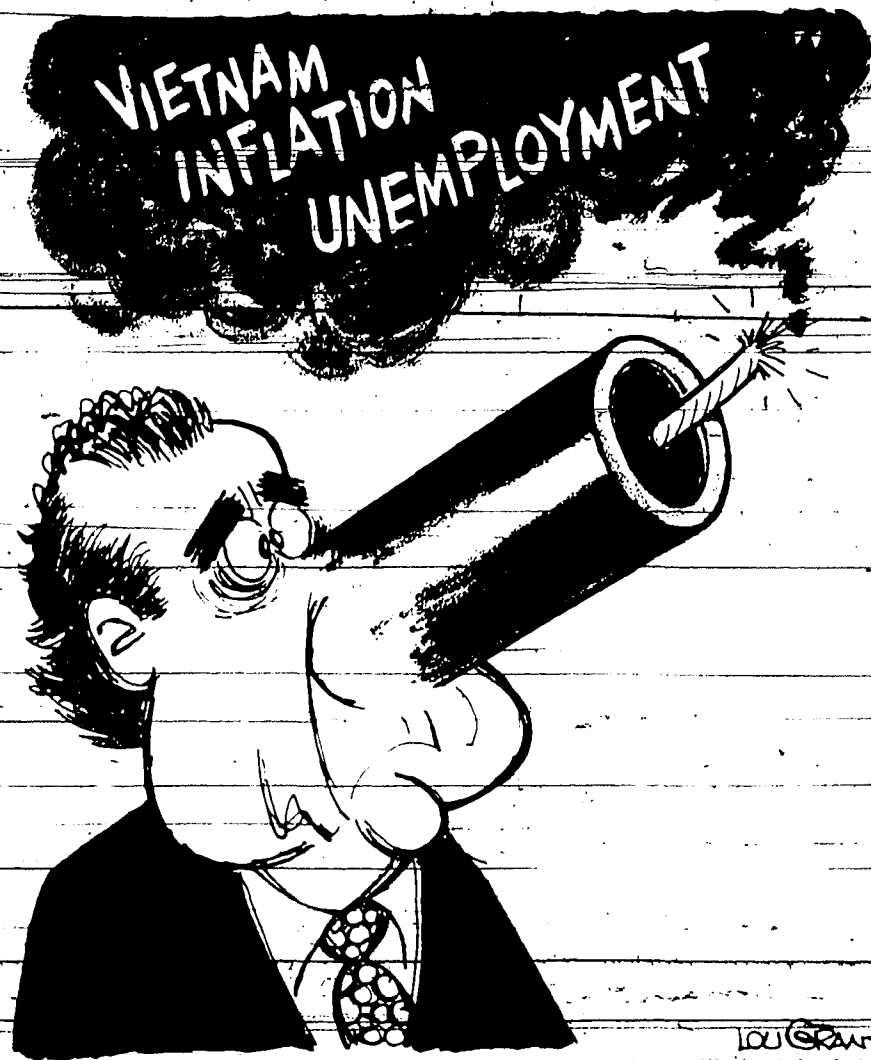

But if your trouble is acne rosacea, which it could be from the sound of it, alcohol can aggravate the condition.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In view of the prevalence of venereal disease, please answer two questions:

Do vaginal spermicides protect from gonorrhea or syphilis?

Does a Pap smear also constitute a check on the presence of gonorrhea? — E.A. The answer to both questions is no.

The Windmill

Back to the windmill. Why not?

We're running out of gas for producing more electricity; costs soar and pollution becomes suffocating.

Ecologists say our waterways have been dammed to the limit. Why not back to the windmill?

A House science subcommittee, searching for future energy requirements and prospects, has heard from H.G. Stever, director of the National Science Foundation. After contemplating the pros and cons of harnessing the Gulf Stream, harnessing the geysers, converting solar energy, all possibilities for the 21st century, Director Stever cited the windmill as a power source which is applicable right now.

Russia, confronted by a similar crisis, has raced ahead in the development of "magnetohydrodynamics," the science of generating electricity by direct heat conversion.

Russia has three such plants in commercial operation and another on the drawing board, said to be 60 per cent more efficient than a conventional power plant and utterly non-polluting.

A 60 per cent improvement in efficiency is sufficient for the needs of Russia's foreseeable future, not for ours.

Within our lifetimes, yours and mine, the national demands for power will multiply 8 to 16 times. Power losses over long-distance high-tension lines will be intolerable, and such losses would be as huge as our present total consumption of electricity.

We could begin construction in Chicago tomorrow of skyscraper windmills adequate to power the city with no fuel and no pollution.

This power source — wind — which pumped water for early Americans and generated electricity for recent generations is undiminished. Director Stever's testimony made it sound so simple one cannot imagine why we've not relapsed that source already. To his knowledge only one significant experiment was undertaken in the 1940s. Central Vermont Public Service Corp. built an electric generating windmill with a capacity of 1,250 kilowatts and operated it successfully for four years.

Following mechanical failure resulting from metal fatigue, the project was abandoned. At that time, construction and maintenance costs exceeded the cost of readily available public power.

In the 30 years since that breakdown, we've learned much about metallurgy. Rotating shaft technology has been refined — yet, for no known reason, it has not been applied to windmills.

Let's.

Compromise

WASHINGTON — McGovern and Wallace forces in secret negotiations last weekend attempted to unite the Democratic party on the corrosive issue of racial school busing but barely failed — a dramatic episode showing how much Sen. George McGovern will compromise to be elected President but also indicating even that may not be enough.

In closed-door sessions of the 15-member platform drafting committee at Washington's Mayflower Hotel, agents of McGovern and Gov. George C. Wallace actually agreed on a busing plank that was later rejected by Wallace himself. Amazingly, McGovern then embraced the compromise unilaterally. But McGovern operates the next day permitted the full platform committee to substitute a pro-busing plank, insuring a bitter challenge from Wallaceites on the convention floor in Miami Beach.

The episode fits the inconsistency of McGovern's platform policy. His dominant forces refused to budget an inch from dovish positions on defense and Vietnam, but bent miles on taxation, welfare and social issues. His strategy on the crucial domestic issue of busing has been mixed, reflecting the entire platform.

On balance, McGovern's march to the center has been a reconciliation between the sometime thing. When the drafting committee came to school busing last, Richard M. Nixon, Saturday, its liberal majority proposed a pro-busing plank. McGovern's "another tool" to integrate schools. That plank would guaranty bitter opposition from Wallace delegates.

But state Sen. Pierre Pelham of Alabama, Wallace's skillful platform representative, interjected: Why not let him and former Gov. Grant Sawyer of Nevada, an uncompromised delegate and one of the few experienced politicians on the platform committee in New Politics 1972, try to work something out? Ted Van Dyk, a one-time aide to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey now running McGovern's platform operation, agreed.

Surprisingly, Pelham and Sawyer returned with a busing compromise worthy of the Delphic oracle: "Quality education is the issue — busing is not." Moreover, "transportation of students" — a delightfully vague term — is endorsed only when it achieves "quality education." Whether that is anti-busing or pro-busing depends on the eyes of the beholder.

Van Dyk quickly relayed McGovern's approval. But it was too late Saturday night to contact the hospitalized Wallace. McGovern's inner circle was jubilant, joyously envisioning the center has been a reconciliation between the McGovern and Wallace wings of the party to insure victory over

BERRY'S WORLD

"It's nothing! I just interdicted his railroad!"

Agreement caps 5-day summit meet

SIMLA, India (UPI)—Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and Pakistani President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto signed an agreement today, hopefully bringing to an end a 25-year-old era of conflict which has led to two wars.

The agreement was signed in a five-minute ceremony at this Himalayan hill station 240 miles north of New Delhi. It capped five days of intense summit conference talks by the leaders of the two nations.

Under the agreement, India will return to Pakistan all territory lost along the "western front" during the two-week war which ended last December, except the areas along the Kashmir cease-fire line.

The agreement also calls for withdrawal of all troops from their mutual borders and renunciation of the use of force in settling future disputes.

The issue of Bangladesh, formerly Pakistan's eastern wing which was captured by India and Pakistani rebels during the war, was not discussed.

Present troop positions in the border state of Kashmir, bitterly disputed since the two countries won independence from Britain 25 years ago, will remain frozen under the pact pending future negotiations. Later talks will also take up normalization of relations, repatriation of war prisoners, trade and scientific and cultural exchanges.

The two leaders declined official comment on the nature of the agreement, although Bhutto told reporters: "It is more than an agreement. It is an understanding and I am satisfied."

Six hours earlier he told newsmen the talks had reached an "unfortunate deadlock." But he and Mrs. Gandhi held further negotiations and signed two copies of the four-page agreement at 12:40 a.m. (9:10 p.m. Sunday, EDT).

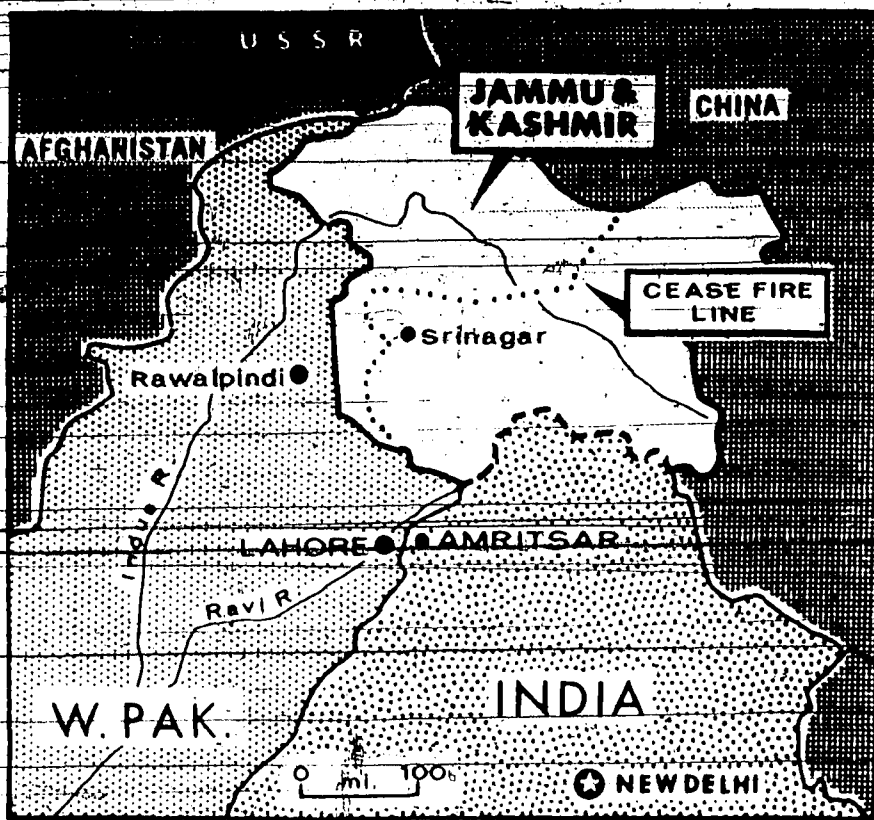

Mrs. Gandhi and Bhutto appeared weary at the signing ceremony but both managed smiles. A small group of officials applauded lightly when the two leaders shook hands after signing the documents.

Troop withdrawals along the troubled border are to begin 30 days from ratification by constitutional procedures on both sides.

A transcript of the agreement, released nine hours after it was signed in Himachal Pradesh, an estate called Barnes Court in the days of British rule, said the line of control resulting from the Dec. 17, 1971, cease-fire line "shall be respected by both sides without prejudice to the recognized position of either side."

Neither side shall seek to alter it (and) both sides further undertake to refrain from the threat of use of force in violation of this line.

Indian troops in their victorious war with Pakistan captured 5,619 square miles of Pakistani territory. New Delhi will return 4,765 square miles in the desert areas of Sind and Kutch and 374 square miles in the Punjab sector but will continue to occupy 480 square miles of Kashmir.

Binh, 24, dies while trying to hijack jet

SAIGON (UPI)—A month ago Nguyen Thai Binh graduated from the University of Washington with honors. Sunday he died attempting to hijack a Pan American 747 to North Vietnam with "bombs" made out of lemons.

The 24-year-old Vietnamese, a vehement antiwar protester while in college, took a stewardess hostage while the plane with 149 persons aboard was on the last leg of its San Francisco - Guam - Manila - Saigon flight. He sent a note to the pilot, Capt. Gene Vaughn, demanding "to be flown to Hanoi."

When Vaughn, 53, of Scottsdale, Ariz., did not immediately comply, he sent another note written in his own blood saying "you have failed to comply with my first demand." The blood indicates how serious I am about being taken to Hanoi.

Instead, Vaughn brought the plane into Saigon airport and went back to negotiate with Binh. At a press conference later he told what happened:

"When we landed at Saigon airport I told the military under no circumstances to allow the aircraft to depart. I'd already made my decision.

"The man was standing in the rear most part of the airplane holding one of the stewardesses hostage. He said, 'Don't come any closer because if you do I'll blow this airplane up.'"

"I told him, 'We have a language problem. I can't understand you too well. Let me come closer.' I moved about two feet closer and saw my opportunity to jump him."

Vaughn, a 200-pounder, grabbed Binh and several other passengers rushed to his help.

"I shouted 'Kill the son of a bitch!' and the passenger put five bullets into him right there while I was holding him by the throat," Vaughn said.

"I want to tell you something," Vaughn added. "I took that fellow by the back of his neck and legs and threw him right out of that aircraft. He was already dead. We knew that."

"I just felt it was offensive to have him anywhere near that plane. I must have had the strength—I felt he had the weight of a Ping-Pong ball when I threw him out."

The passenger who shot Binh at close range with the high-powered .357 magnum pistol was not identified, but he was believed to be a former San Francisco area policeman en route to Vietnam to work as a security guard with an American firm. Vaughn said the passenger had checked his pistol when boarding the plane but was given it back when the hijacking started.

Binh had a knife with a 10-inch blade and two lemons wrapped in tin foil which he said were bombs.

Squabbling Demos to keep spotlight

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon, buoyed by polls showing him leading all his likely opponents, plans to leave the spotlight to the squabbling Democrats and spend the next two weeks quietly mapping his own re-election strategy.

White House aides said today he still would rely heavily for political advice on former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, who stepped down over the weekend as his campaign chief.

Mitchell, who engineered Nixon's successful 1968 effort and left the Justice Department several months ago to manage the campaign, resigned under pressure from his wife after she threatened to leave him if he didn't. He planned to return to his New York City law practice but will be available as a consultant.

The President Sunday conferred by telephone with both Mitchell and his successor, Clark MacGregor, a five-term congressman from Minnesota who lost a bid for the Senate in 1960 to Hubert Humphrey and has served on the White House staff since then as chief liaison with Congress.

Nixon was reported pleased by results of the latest Gallup and Harris Polls which show him substantially ahead of all Democratic contenders. Aides said he planned to keep a low profile during the next two weeks in order not to detract public attention in anyway from the intraparty fighting among the Democrats.

The President arrived here Saturday for a 2 1/2 week stay at the Western White House. He was joined by two close personal friends, C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo of Key Biscayne, Fla., and Robert H. Abplanalp of Bronxville, N.Y.

The three flew to Los Angeles by helicopter Sunday night for dinner at a restaurant there. Mrs. Nixon, who attended a folk dance festival in Chicago Sunday, joined her husband at his ocean-side villa Sunday night.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon planned to spend most of his time meeting with Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, his chief foreign policy strategist, and other aides. Nixon and Kissinger will be conferring on the negotiating posture the United States will take when the Vietnam talks resume in Paris July 13.

Kissinger's top assistant on the National Security Council staff, Maj. Gen. Alexander Haig, was in Saigon today talking with U.S. and South Vietnamese officials and will report to the President Tuesday or Wednesday.

Hawaii receives strike reprieve

HONOLULU (UPI)—Hawaii received a temporary reprieve from a state-wide dock strike by the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, although no negotiations were scheduled today.

The ILWU late Sunday withdrew its threat of a strike on Hawaii's docks "until there is a settlement or a complete breakdown in negotiations."

A dock strike, which would have been the first since 1949, was scheduled to begin at 12:01 a.m. today. It would have isolated this island-state, almost totally dependant on surface shipping for supplies, and wrought "devastation" on its economy.

The Hawaii stevedoring industry quickly accepted the ILWU's strike deadline withdrawal and said it would assure continued benefits to longshoremen under the current pact.

ILWU Regional Director Robert McElrath said, "negotiations are not progressing as they should. We are far from a settlement and it appears a strike may be the only way to resolve current longshore negotiations."

He added, however, "we are going to make a final effort to reach agreement at the bargaining table." The employers agreed, saying, "the industry is prepared to conduct intensive negotiations in order to reach a settlement."

Negotiations for a new dock pact have continued for more than a year.

US command beats deadline

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command Thursday beat by one day President Nixon's deadline of lowering U.S. troop strength to below 49,000 men in South Vietnam by June 30, spokesmen said today.

The command last week withdrew 6,000 men from its Vietnam-based U.S. force to beat the Friday deadline by a single day, spokesmen said.

Military sources said about 1,300 of the U.S. servicemen were simply transferred to neighboring Thailand, where they were assigned to aid in air war over Indochina.

Spokesmen said that as last Thursday, there were 48,000 Americans based in South Vietnam. Nixon had ordered U.S. troop strength to below 49,000 by Friday.

In addition to the Vietnam-based Americans, approximately 55,000 airmen are based in Thailand and Guam, and another 42,000 men are serving offshore with U.S. 7th Fleet aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and other warships.

U.S. officers said Air Force strength in Vietnam dropped last week by 1,400 men to a total of 13,100. They said about 1,000 of the airmen "withdrawn" simply switched to Thai bases.

Another 300 Marine airmen also were pulled out of Vietnam, reducing the number of leathernecks to 2,200. All of those who left South Vietnam went to Thailand.

The U.S. Army in Vietnam lost 4,000 men from its rolls last week, spokesmen said, and now has 31,200. Navy strength dropped by 300 to 2,200. The strength of the U.S. Coast Guard remained steady at 100.

The United States flies regularly out of more airbases in Thailand than it does in South Vietnam.

Federal agents seize explosives

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Federal agents seized seven tons of explosives aboard an airliner and arrested nine men in what the Justice Department said Sunday was a plot to smuggle guns and explosives to Cuba for an attempted overthrow of the Castro regime.

The men were arrested in New Orleans, Shreveport, La., and Eagle Pass, Tex. The explosives were found aboard a DC4 in Shreveport bound for a secret landing strip in Vera Cruz, Mexico, the first stopover on their way to Cuba.

Bargaining talks set with pilots

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—A federal mediator announced Sunday night that Northwest Airlines officials and representatives of the striking Airline Pilots Association have agreed to go back to the bargaining table today. The pilots will remain off the job during the talks.

Harry Bickford of the National Mediation Board said in a statement that bargaining would resume at 1 p.m. today at the Northwest offices at Twin Cities International Airport.

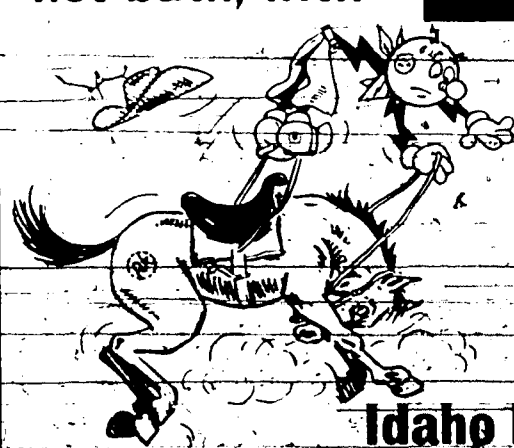

Bickford said he will act as joint spokesman on the status of the negotiations.

The talks will be the first between representatives of the 1,600 pilots and Northwest since the pilots walked out of talks Thursday and set up pickets at 2 a.m. Friday, interrupting 16 months of negotiations.

Bickford said he had met separately with representatives of both sides since the strike began, and finally got agreement to resume negotiations.

Besides freezing much of the air traffic in the Rocky Mountains, the Midwest, the West Coast and most U.S. flights to the Orient, the strike has caused the layoff of a BELFAST (UPI)—One of the bloodiest weekends of Ulster violence pushed the death toll today to 400 for the three years of Northern Ireland terror and threatened to smash the week-old cease-fire.

Police said two bullet-riddled and hooded bodies were discovered in Belfast today, bringing to seven the number of persons killed in gunbattles or executed by militants this weekend.

The body of a man was found in a car abandoned near Belfast's Crumlin Road jail before dawn, and a passerby on his way to work in the same area found the body of a young man dumped in Twickenham Street.

Police said they also were on the lookout for a man who may be still another execution victim — Augustus "Gusty" Spence, a 39-year-old Protestant who had been serving a life sentence for murdering a Roman Catholic bartender in 1966. Gummy kidnapped Spence Sunday night as he was returning to jail from a two-day parole granted to allow him to attend his daughter's wedding and visit his ailing mother.

Both the IRA and the British army emphasized they considered the cease-fire still in force despite the heavy gun battle Sunday morning in Belfast's Old Park area and fresh outbursts early today between Protestants, Catholics and troops across the M1 superhighway leading to Dublin.

Children playing soccer found the bodies of two Protestants Sunday night on a cricket ground in Belfast's Old Park district, near the scene of an early morning fight between Protestants, Catholics and British troops. They were identified as truckdriver Hugh Clawson and busdriver David Fisher, both 30.

Like an unidentified body of a man dumped from a car soon afterward in the Forth River area of west Belfast, they had

American author John Mason Brown was born July 3, 1900.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI)—Bobby Fischer's time runs out at 8 a.m. EDT Tuesday.

Fischer, the 29-year-old Brooklyn chess genius, must turn up in Reykjavik by then or lose the right to challenge Soviet titleholder Boris Spassky for the world championship, a match that has generated wider interest than any chess game in history.

Fischer, apparently bargaining for more money, was hiding out in New York while the great debate of "will he show up or won't he?" raged.

The 24-game series was to have started Sunday. But when Fischer didn't show the president of the International Chess Federation (FIDE), Dr. Max Euwe, announced that he was postponing the deadline until noon Tuesday (8 a.m. EDT). If Fischer does not appear for the drawing of lots scheduled for that time, he will be disqualified and lose his right to challenge the 35-year-old Russian for the world chess title.

An Icelandic friend of Fischer, Freystrinn Thorbergsson, flew to New York Sunday to try to persuade the American grand master to return with him. He said he was acting as "a friend of Bobby Fischer" and said only "I know where to find him." He refused to answer other questions.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon and his top advisers do not expect an early breakthrough at the Paris peace talks, despite Hanoi's agreement to resume negotiations July 13, authoritative sources said Saturday.

That was one reason, the sources said, that Nixon took an extremely tough stand at last week's news conference about continuing the intensified bombing of North Vietnam and the mining of its harbors.

Although Hanoi's industry and communications are taking a savage beating by American air power, North Vietnamese leaders still have not given any real signal they are willing to negotiate on a basis agreeable to the United States. Nixon's statement that the talks were resuming based on his "assumption that the North Vietnamese are preparing to negotiate in a constructive and serious way" indicated nothing more than an assumption, officials said.

Summer sewing idea

This summer "Glamour" editors suggest making a super easy, super looking dress or beach cover up.

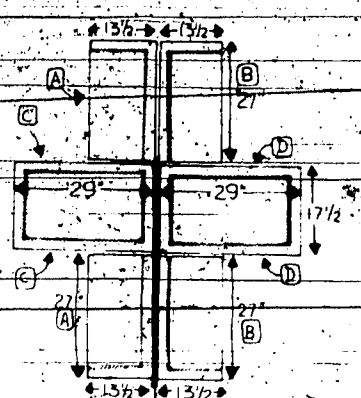

All you will need are six dish towels. Irish linen ones are lovely, but fringed towels can also be used for a pretty decorative touch at hem and sleeve cuffs.

No. 1. Place the dish towels as sketched and pin all the sides.

No. 2. Try on, and adjust for fit. Cut off excess fabric, allowing for one-inch seam allowances.

No. 3. Stitch back seam and sleeves to body section. Stitch sides A-A', B-B', C-C', D-D'. Bottom sketch shows finished work. A sash can be made from any leftover fabric.

Super cover up

SIX dish towels are all you need to make this beach cover up. Fringed towels can be used for a pretty decorative touch at hem and sleeve cuffs.

4-H club to host 30 youth

TWIN FALLS — Thirty youngsters from area towns will attend a two-day camp in the Sawtooth Mountains as guests of the Twin Falls 4-H Builders Club.

The club which is composed of teen-age members of 4-H clubs, earned the money for the children's camp expenses by selling a lamb at last year's county fair, and sponsoring a style show this spring.

The 30 children, 10-12 years of age, will be accompanied by 10 members of the club. Adults accompanying the group will be Mrs. Frank Southwick, Castleford; Mrs. Pat Maughan, home extension agent; Mrs. Clinton Dougherty, coordinator of the Expanded Nutrition Program; Caroline Barnes 4-H club specialist, and Richard Fuerher, 4-H county agent.

The group will leave by bus Wednesday morning and will return Friday evening. Most of the youngsters have never attended a camp before. Each of the 4-H Builders Club members will be responsible for three youngsters while at camp.

Expanded Nutrition aids selected the 30 children from Twin Falls, Kimberly, Buhl and Filer. Most are less fortunate children who would not be able to attend camp otherwise.

The Builders Club hopes to help teach patriotism to the campers by holding daily flag-raising and lowering ceremonies. Table prayers and devotional services will be featured at mealtimes. Nature hikes, sports and other camp activities will be included in the two days.

Easy Halter Top

Scraps of materials left over from sewing ventures can be put to good use this summer. The halter-top is big news and it's easy to make your own wardrobe of tops. Take a piece of material about a yard long, drape it around the neck, then cross the ends over the bust and tie a knot in the back and you've created a fashionable original.

Keep Moist

A thin coat of moisturizer under make-up helps to prevent caking and peeling, particularly when the warm weather sets in.

Lash Comb

A new product has come out on the cosmetic market that will put an end to the problem of lashes sticking together. It's a new mascara that comes with a comb applicator so it separates the lashes as it goes on.

Oswald: "He was lucky to find West with the diamond ace, but he made his own luck by playing for it incidentally, it doesn't matter how he plays the clubs once he starts the suit since it splits 2-1 but when he leads from dummy and East follows low South should finesse to guard against the possibility that East started with king-queen-small."

Oswald: "He also had just two heart tricks and needs to get five from the minor suits to bring home his contract. Asking himself 'How can I make this contract?' he sees that he should be able to make plenty of tricks except for the time factor. His opponents will get in their spades first."

Jim: Then he finds a way to work on both suits. He leads a low diamond at trick

Zero loss

NEW YORK (UPI)—Interest-free loans have helped construction or renovation of parish and mission buildings of the Episcopal Church in 39 states and two foreign countries.

The money was advanced by the Revolving Loan Fund of the Episcopal Church Foundation, an independent national organization of laymen and women that initiates and underwrites projects in support of the work of the church. In the two decades since the Fund was created, $4,233,825 has been advanced to complete construction projects such as churches, rectories and parish halls and the loss factor on the loans has been zero, according to Henry S. Noble, Foundation president.

The loans, repayable in ten annual, equal installments, bear a one per cent service charge on the unpaid balance.

"These payments," Mr. Noble said, "are used for new loans to other parishes, so that the Funds' capital is in constant, productive motion."

Pool maintenance

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—With summer upon us doctors see many cases of irritation and infection of eyes, ears, nose, throat and skin traceable to improper maintenance of private pools.

To safely enjoy the health and recreational benefits of a pool, the California Medical Association recommends:

1. When adults or competent older youngsters are not present, be sure the pool is adequately fenced or covered and never leave youngsters in the pool without supervision.
2. Depth of water should be plainly marked at shallowest and deepest points, and no more than 25 feet apart.
3. A handhold should be provided not more than nine inches above normal water level. Steps or ladders should be provided if the distance from the bottom of the pool to poolside is over two feet.
4. Paved surface around the pool should be non-slip and adequately drained away from the pool.
5. If the pool is to be used at night it should have underwater lights. Waterproofing of circuits should be checked by a competent electrician.
6. The water supply should come from a community water system holding a State Board of Public Health permit.
7. The pool should be skimmed and floating scum, sputum, and debris removed.
8. Pools should be continuously disinfected by a chemical which imparts a residual effect.

A Lovelier You

SHIRTDRESS, THE CLASSIC

By Mary Sue Miller

Fashions come and go, but the shirtdress goes on forever. In fact it has been so beloved and so much worn by American women over the years, it has become known around the world as an American classic.

As Lovelies are doubtless aware, fashion highly endorses a second all-time classic — our flag colors — for shirtdresses, pantsuits, sweaters and accessories. If you are so lucky as to own a red-white-and-blue outfit, you surely would not leave it in the closet on the morrow.

Oh, perhaps you'd be happy with the color in touches — a tri-color bow for your hair; three strands of beads, each in a different flag shade; tiny red and blue chiffon squares to twist in the throat of a white dress.

Use your ingenuity and you'll come through with flying colors. What better way to spark the Fourth than wearing the threesome?

Celebrations in days gone by were rip-roaring. Tales are told of how in every city and town there were flying flags and fireworks, parades and brass bands, speeches and pageants. How fabrics were decked out with watermelon, frosty white cakes and blue clothes. How young ladies went on picnics with tricolor ribbon streaming from their boaters.

Why not bring back some of the old spirit? You're the girl who can do it. What fun!

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman, age 40, but physically I am like a girl of 20. My doctor tells me that I have absolutely nothing to worry about insofar as getting pregnant is concerned. He says the oldest woman he has known to get pregnant was 47, and that was very unusual.

Abby, I'm afraid to let my guard down because my family is grown and the last thing I want at this time of my life is another baby.

What do you or your readers know about this? The medical books tell me nothing. My doctor thinks I am foolish for worrying.

WORRIED SPITLESS

DEAR WORRIED: Although the chances of becoming pregnant at age 47 are greatly reduced, it is by no means impossible. My doctor tells me that he has heard of a woman bearing a child at age 52, so keep your guard up, lady.

DEAR ABBY: Something in your column caused me to recall something I hadn't thought of in years. Perhaps it's worth sharing.

Many years ago, when potato chips were first on the market, they weren't available in our small town, so my mother would order them from the big city near us for special occasions. She had ordered some for her bridge luncheon, but they did not arrive on time, so as a joke mother sliced raw potatoes, and put a few on each plate.

When the plates came back to the kitchen, there wasn't a potato slice to be seen! But for weeks afterwards we kept finding them in flowerpots, vases and under the sofa cushions.

JEAN P. IN MONTANA

DEAR JEAN: There's nothing new under the sun. People are still doing it.

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a wonderful guy, and we are talking about getting married, but a problem has come up.

He says that before we get married he would like to go out with some other girls just to see what it's like. He says it's not that he doesn't love me, but he would just like to have a little variety before he settles down.

I suppose I should be glad that my guy is so honest with me about this, but I am by nature a jealous person, and I don't want to even think about my guy being with another girl. What do you think?

UNCERTAIN

DEAR UNCERTAIN: A man sufficiently mature for marriage would neither announce his intentions to go out with other girls, nor ask for his fiancée's permission. His idea could be good, but discussing it with you is adolescent.

CONFIDENTIAL: to Square Shooter in Kenosha, Wis.: I agree, it's better to go by "the old rule." Never hit a man when he's down. (He may get up again.)

Mini-Cassia quiet

The Mini-Cassia area was relatively quiet over the pre-Fourth of July weekend, according to law enforcement officers.

No major problems were reported with the advent of the younger drinkers as 19-year-olds became able to drink legally for the first time. The Cassia County Sheriff's Office said only one minor fracas resulted, but no arrests were recorded.

"The fact that bars were closed on Sunday may have helped," a deputy said.

Holiday festivities continued today in Rupert with downtown sidewalk concessions continually busy. Most area stores remained open.

The Rupert rodeo continues today.

Parimutuel racing began Sunday at the Minidoka County Fairgrounds, continuing this afternoon. The Rupert Rodeo will also continue at 6:30 p.m. today, featuring the Silver Sage Riders, Pocastello, and three queen contestants.

The new Rupert rodeo queen will be crowned at the conclusion of the three-day rodeo on the night of the Fourth, succeeding Debbie Gittens.

The Fourth of July parade will begin at 11 a.m. Tuesday in downtown Rupert, featuring floats, riders and novelty events. Bands from Minico High School and Burley High School are expected to march in the parade along with the Civil Air Patrol color guard.

Suit attacks delegate loss

top fund-raiser in California, said that "it's awfully late for a judge to get involved in it." He said the decision would be appealed if the district judge rules in favor of the McGovern backers.

Earlier Sunday, in a television interview, McGovern said he had not "the slightest doubt" that the full convention would reverse the Credentials Committee decision. He said the convention was going to be "the most open, the least biased" in American history, and he said he was convinced he was going to be the nominee.

"But whether I am the nominee or not, if the process is fair, as I fully expect it will be, I will be backing the nominee of the Democratic party," McGovern said.

McGovern by the statement appeared to back still further away from his hint last week that he might bolt the party if the California delegates he lost were used to deprive him of the nomination.

McGovern was interviewed on the ABC television program "Issues and Answers."

He said he wanted Lawrence F. O'Brien to remain as chairman of the Democratic National Committee after the convention. O'Brien, who already is in Miami Beach, thanked McGovern for a "generous expression of confidence in me" but added that "I must maintain my neutral role" until the nomination is made.

McGovern said he wanted to call on AFL-CIO President George Meany within the next few days and assure Meany "that I both welcome and need his help." Meany is believed to have played a key role in the Credentials Committee action on California.

The South Dakota senator said he had not ruled out the possibility of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy being his running mate if he is nominated.

Health papers read at SV meet

SUN VALLEY — Papers bearing important medical significance are being read this week at the Sun Valley Forum On National Health.

The 38 professional and lay readers attending the forum, from all parts of the United States meet in Sun Valley once a year to consider a basic health topic.

The Sun Valley Forum was incorporated in 1970 as a non-profit educational organization, an began its activities in June, 1971.

Bayless Manning, who heads the Council On National Relations in New York City, is chairman of the board for the Forum. Executive director is Robert G. Lindee, associate dean for administration at Stanford University School of Medicine.

According to Manning, the forum's purpose is "to work toward improving the health of America and its health care system through lectures, conferences, symposia, discussion study and publications."

"The forum brings together small groups of influential leaders to meet on a personal basis and share ideas on many aspects of health, both mental and physical."

Participants include professional people representing all health-related fields as well as lay leaders and policy makers, including trustees, legislators, public administrators, labor leaders, businessmen and journalists who are interested in health affairs.

The six speakers presenting papers at this year's forum are: Avedis Donabedian, M.D., School of Public Health, University of Michigan; Paul M. Ellwood, Jr., M.D., executive director, American Rehabilitation Foundation, Minneapolis; I.S. Falk, professor emeritus of public health, New Haven, Conn.; Prof. Rashi Fein, Center for Community Health and Medical Care, Harvard University; Cecil Sheps, M.D., vice-chancellor, health services, University of North Carolina; and Kerr White, M.D., Department of Medical Care and Hospitals, Johns Hopkins University.

Andrus confers today on general fund budget

By RICHARD CHARNOCK

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus conferred with his fiscal advisers about the general fund budget today.

His budget director said if forthcoming information bears out predictions there is trouble ahead.

"If the information bears out our predictions, it's going to require some early corrective action," Budget Director D.E. ("Skip") Chilberg said after the conference. "There are two forms it can take: cut spending or raise taxes."

Chilberg and other advisers of the governor have predicted that a combination of carry-over bills from the fiscal year ended last Friday plus an anticipated shortfall in revenue for the current fiscal year would put the state between $3 million and $4 million in the hole this year.

Exact figures on the general fund balance at the close of business last Friday still were unavailable today, Auditor Joe R. Williams estimated the general fund technically was in the black by $225,000 to $250,000.

— thanks to a last minute deposit of some $280,000.

Chilberg said the real question that must be answered, however, is how much money accruing to the general fund this fiscal year was committed to pay bills run up last year.

"We have to wait until we get a report on the encumbrance level," he said, adding, "All indications are that it substantially is what we've been saying."

That would put the level at some $1 million.

"We're going to have to do some serious analysis of revenues this next week," Chilberg said. "But it still will be mid July before the governor makes a decision on it (the budget)."

Besides discussing the status of the budget with Andrus Chilberg also outlined a new budget format his office will use to brief the legislature on budget requests next January. Chilberg said he believes the budget office has been able to simplify the format.

Williams said auditors from the legislative auditors office went to him this morning and asked to go over his encumbrances. He said he put them off until his staff is not so rushed.

"I refused to stop the operation of my office to give him the information," Williams said, adding he will let the legislative auditor go over his books at a later date. He called it "rather ridiculous" to send auditors to his office at this time to request the information.

"You're not going to create any more money in the general fund by checking encumbrances," he said.

Meantime, Williams said he has inaugurated a new claims paying system which should speed up the handling of claims against the state — especially the larger ones.

"We're eliminating a little red tape," he said, adding it should enable the state to pick up a few thousand dollars each year in discounts.

At an institution such as the University of Idaho, Williams said, the new system should speed up the payment of bills.

Red gunners blast Hue

Today's shelling of Hue, the old imperial capital 400 miles north of Saigon, prompted allied fears that the North Vietnamese would try to overrun the city while its defenses are stripped by the government drive to retake neighboring Quang Tri Province.

UPI correspondent Barney Seibert said an undetermined number of 122mm rockets hit Hue today but there was no immediate report of casualties. Sunday's rocket and artillery barrage of 80 shells that killed 12 persons and wounded 41 marked the first such attack on Hue since the start of the offensive.

Allied commanders noted following Sunday's shelling that the South Vietnamese force of about 30,000 men guarding the city was reduced to the 10,000 troops of the 1st Infantry Division last week for the northward drive into Quang Tri now in its sixth day.

Far to the south at the province capital of Song Be, the U.S. command reported that the North Vietnamese have dragged big 130mm guns into the area—the farthest south any Communist artillery has been reported in the war.

Image gone?

BURLEY — Some Burley residents expressed concern Saturday that their image as a friendly city was tarnished by two service station operators.

Crews working up to 10 hour shifts to repair a broken water line over the Snake River were refused use of restroom facilities by one nearby service station, while another charged $2 to fill a five-gallon can with ice water during the heat of the day.

Mayor Garis Robertson intervened, making certain that workers had free ice water and access to restrooms.

Main waterline in service again

BURLEY — A 10-inch main water line which provides service to the portion of Burley north of the Snake River was back in service Saturday.

The line broke Monday night, letting about 200 feet drop into the Snake River from the bottom of the Burley-Paul bridge which supports the line as it crosses the river. Since then North Burley homes and businesses have been supplied by water pumped from the Green Acres well. Because of the extreme pressure it was necessary to man the pumps on a 24-hour basis for the emergency supply.

Crews of the Nelson Construction Co., Twin Falls, repaired the pipe line, completing tests and pronouncing it sound at 6 p.m. Friday. They will return Wednesday to secure bridge railing sections which had to be removed to reach the broken pipe hangers.

M-C Cowbelles honor officers

BURLEY — The Mini-Cassia CowBelles met for their annual luncheon Saturday at Price's Cafe with state officers as guests.

Honored guests presented corsages included Mrs. J.W. Swan, Rogerson, State CowBelles president; Mrs. Noy Brackett, Hagerman, member of the Idaho Industrial Information Council; Mrs. Tad Abo, Paul, State president elect, and Mrs. Lenz Hunt, guest speaker.

Mrs. Ester Easton modeled a leather cape and Mrs. Adeline Beaver reported on a bulletin titled "Sewing with Leather" written by Beverly Hansten, extension home economist from Owyhee county, and Mary Lee Wood, extension clothing specialist.

Mrs. Brackett and Mrs. Swan showed slides sponsored by the Idaho Industrial Information Council and distributed by the American Cattlemen's Association titled "From our Range (pasture) to your Range (stove)." The presentation, which tells the story of the cattle industry is available to other organizations.

Mrs. Hunt narrated slides of a world tour she and her husband recently completed under auspices of the National Retired Teachers' Association and the American Association of Retired Persons. She displayed items of the various countries she visited, including bird figurines, Koala bear, jewel box, and a Maori god carving.

The next meeting will be the summer picnic at the home of Mrs. James Horner with time and date to be announced. Husbands will be guests at the picnic.

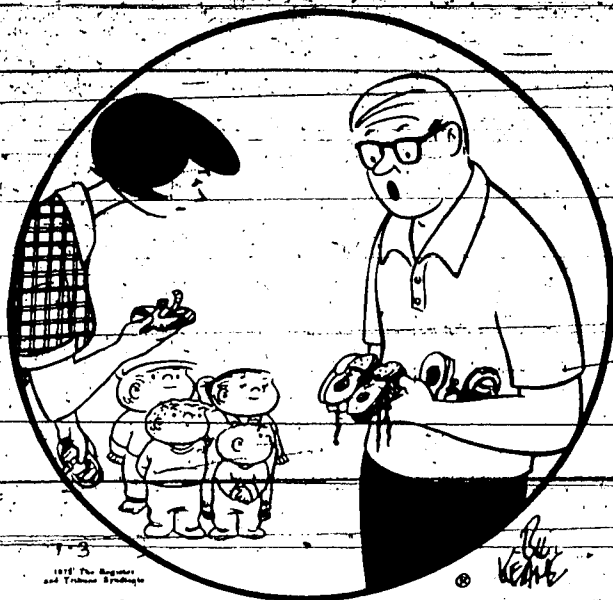

Range fire burns acres at Shoshone

SHOSHONE — A range fire six and one-half miles south of Shoshone burned 225 acres Sunday afternoon.

Michael Green, public information officer for the Bureau of Land Management, Shoshone office, said the fire was reported at 12:25 p.m. It was brought under control at 4:30 p.m. Twenty-four men on three tractors and one shovel crew were dispatched to the scene.

Greene said the only other fire reported was one which burned about two acres near Devil's Corral above the Snake River Friday evening. He said there have been 16 fires in the district so far this season.

FAMILY CIRCUS

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JULY 4, 1972

horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unusually good day and evening to put in motion those plans for action that you have been considering, but not gotten around to yet. Combine the best from the past with some electrifying new ideas and methods that will bring you up to date, and thus carry the best of the past and present into the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can put certain plans in motion now that can make your life more productive and happy. Join those social groups that are geared to your pattern of life. Avoid one who is a troublemaker.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can enjoy new pleasures now if you are more modern in your thinking. Doing something kind for those you are fond of can bring you much happiness as well. Evening is good for reading.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you listen to the views of good pals today, you can gain new respect and greater happiness; so get out to see them early. Plan just how to secure the things you want most in the future. Think constructively.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Doing something of a civic nature is fine on this holiday. Show your appreciation of the country you live in. You understand better, how to get ahead in the coming days, so make concrete plans now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can have leisurely discussions of new outlets and ideas that will make your future brighter. You have the inspiration to achieve your ambitions. Making many new contacts is fine, but choose those best suited to your ideas.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can handle certain responsibilities well today and should do so. Plan how to make mate much happier in the future. Show ingenuity where pleasure is concerned. Think.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you are detached in thinking about how to straighten out any arguments with associates, you find you can do so objectively. Out with good friends later to the pleasure you like. Don't get home too late.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have an opportunity to do a great deal to improve your future, so don't waste time at silly amusements. Show courtesy to those who work side-by-side with you. Avoid one who gossips a great deal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have the time to go out for the amusements that really give you pleasure, so make the most of this opportunity. Get busy handling creative matters as well. Avoid some situation that is unpleasant.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Home and kin are most important to you now, so do whatever will improve conditions and harmony in that vital realm of your life. Do some entertaining tonight, or else rest and plan entertainment for tomorrow night. Reading can be fascinating, too.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do some visiting around to places and with people who can help you greatly. Put more vitality into your daily living. Hobbies are fine in p.m. in the company of good friends, relatives.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Although you want to make repairs, etc., be sure you study your savings account well first. One who has much data will now give it to you. This can soon add to present assets.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people who is ever alert to goings-on around him or her, and will quickly adopt any suggestions or ideas which the parents give. Since there is brilliance in this chart, will follow through with duties most intelligently. There is also the ability to finish whatever has been commenced. Property management, real estate, building are all fine here. Much success is possible.

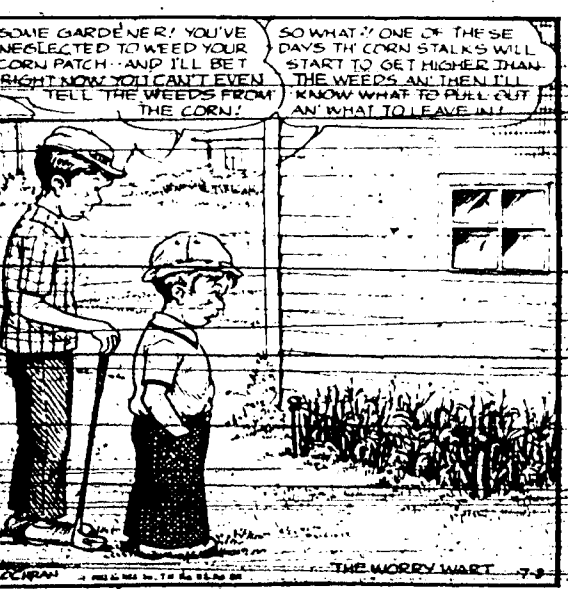

The Stars impel, they do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

No President Born In June

The Dominican Republic is now where the 24-hour divorce sells best of all.

QUICK, let's have the plural of "piecemeal." It's "flookmeal."

AM TOLD we've never had a president who was born in June. That defies all odds of probability.

CAN YOU name the Atlantic's westernmost seaport in this country? Correct, Duluth.

IT'S SAID that fish which most readily takes the largest variety of baits is the catfish.

MILEAGE is not turned back on all used cars. But it is on many, oh yes many.

And among those, the average turnback is 25,000 miles. Such were the findings of the Massachusetts Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection in a checkup of 250 vehicles.

TO KISS "How do you know whether you should kiss a girl good night?" inquires a youthful Pennsylvanian. Can only quote Thomas Carlyle, that renowned Scottish kisser, who advised: "If you are ever in doubt as to whether or not you should kiss a pretty girl, always give her the benefit of the doubt."

STATISTICS show half the brides who want babies will be expectant within six months. A fourth, within 30 days. Four-fifths, within a year. Nineteenth, within a year and a half.

Q. "AS an ex-drinker who's now a teetotaler, that's me, pal. I sure do feel cheap at a party when somebody proposes a toast. What...?"

A. Toast with water. That's what King Gustav of Sweden does. He's not cheap.

QUARRELS Note it started in print that evidence indicates wives start approximately 87 out of every 100 family quarrels. That's an extreme estimate. Wives start only about 73 out of every 100 family quarrels. I think it's also claimed in the same print that these catalytic wives secretly want their husbands to have the last word. That contention is probably right.

WHAT'S a "housewife"? Funk and Wagnell editors once defined her as "one who doesn't work for a living." Understand they got a little mail. Besides "homemaker," the wordmen now are labeling said lady as a "domestic economist," "household executive" and "home manager." These aren't good. Not enough status. "Chairman of the Board and Room" might do.

Hinson, Wadkins share lead in Cleveland Open

CHAGRIN FALLS, Ohio (UPI)—Larry Hinson and Larry Wadkins shared the third round lead Sunday in the rain-threatened $150,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament, but at least six other players were within striking distance of the $30,000 first prize.

Hinson, who has either led or shared the tournament lead all three rounds, fired a two-under par 69, while Wadkins rallied with a 67 Sunday, giving both a 54-hole total of 206.

Hinson, who dropped three strokes to par on the closing holes during Saturday's second round and complained of feeling weak said he felt much the same way during the closing holes today.

"I just ran out of energy," said the 6-foot-2, 158-pounder who had one birdie on each nine for a 34-35 score on the par 71, 6,907 yard Tanglewood Country Club course. "I made a lot of fantastic pars out there today," Hinson said.

Wadkins, 22, who had a four under par start washed out with the first round on Thursday, started the round with a bogey five when he three-putted.

He then birdied two of the next three holes, however, and went on another birdie binge, getting them on 8, 10, 11 and 12. From there he parred out for a 34-33-67.

"I feel real comfortable with my putter right now," said Wadkins, a former U. S. Amateur champion and a Treviso, who passed up this

"I'm rolling the ball real well." The final few holes were played in a steady rain and officials expressed concern that the Tanglewood course, hit by nearly 2.5 inches of rain on Thursday which washed out the scheduled first round, might not be able to take much more water.

Cesar Sanudo, who had four birdies in his round of 67 Sunday, was one shot off the pace at six under, par 207. Because "I've been hitting and putting well," Sanudo said. Lee Trevino, who passed up this the Kemper Open and "it finally helped me get over the fence."

Susan Berning fires 71; wins USGA championship

MAMARONECK N.Y. (UPI)—Susan Maxwell Berning, who thought she had no chance to win the tournament after taking a 79 on opening day, posted a one-under-par 71 Sunday and overhauled third day leader Pam Barnett down the stretch to win the USGA Women's Open golf championship for the second time.

Mrs. Berning, who previously won the Open in 1968 at Fleetwood, Pa., and is now the mother of a 19-month-old daughter, posted nine-hole scores of 34 and 37 to finish with a 72-hole total of 211 over par 299.

That was one stroke better than Miss Barnett, Judy Rankin and Kathy Ahern, with Betty Burfeindt two strokes farther back at 302. Miss Barnett posted a 76 Sunday, Miss Rankin had a 73 and Miss Ahern had a 70, the lowest score of the tournament. Miss Burfeindt came in with a 75.

Miss Barnett began the day with a three-stroke lead over

Miss Burfeindt, Miss Rankin and Betsy Rawls and a four-stroke advantage over Miss Berning and Gloria Ehret. But Mrs. Berning reduced Miss Barnett's lead to one stroke after nine holes as she posed a two-under-par 34 while Pam slipped to a one-over-par 37.

Mrs. Berning remained one stroke behind through 14 holes but then three putted on 15 to drop temporarily two strokes behind. Miss Barnett, who was playing two twosomes behind Miss Berning, also bogeyed 15, however, to allow Susie to remain one stroke behind.

The turning point of the match came on the difficult 200-yard, par three 17th hole, which had been a disastrous hole for most of the girls throughout the tournament. Mrs. Berning hit her tee shot to within 20 feet of the pin and sank a difficult birdie putt to tie Miss Barnett for the lead.

Mrs. Berning then took the lead for good when Miss Barnett took a bogie four on the same hole.

Mrs. Berning, who earned $6,000 for her victory, was quite surprised that she managed to win the tournament.

"When your opening round is 79 you don't think you'll be in contention," said Miss Berning. "It takes a good golf course like this where everybody has a chance for me to have still been in contention today. I thought I would need to shoot a 68 today to win it."

Mrs. Berning, who left the tour in 1970 after giving birth to her daughter Robin, said she felt much stronger this year than she had last season when she limited her tour play to only a few tournaments.

"I took a year to get my strength back after the baby," said Mrs. Berning. "I feel a lot stronger than I did last year and I also made a change in my swing. I think winning this tournament is much more gratifying to me than my first victory in 1968 because I didn't think I had a chance."

T.F. defeats Caldwell 3-2

The Twin Falls Legion edged Caldwell 3-2 Sunday afternoon with Dennis Warburton hitting a three-hitter.

Twin Falls opened the scoring in the first inning when Mike Fries singled, went to second on a fly ball hit to right field by Tony Saras and scored on a single by Kevin Nelson.

In the fifth inning Mark Hanchey walked, advanced to second on a wild pitch and scored on Kevin Nelson's infield single. Twin Falls scored the final run in the sixth inning when Carey Wentworth was hit by a pitch. Mike Tremayne walked and Wentworth scored when Dennis Warburton hit a ground ball and Caldwell made an error. Caldwell scored a single run in the first and in the seventh. In the seventh Schmidt led off with a walk, Robinson was safe on Darrell Groves' error with both runners advancing on a wild pitch. Winbiger then singled up the middle scoring Schmidt and Rich Spriggs made an excellent throw from center field to put Robinson out at the plate.

Twin Falls Legion has won 16 games against eight losses. The team has won 12 out of the last 14 games. The next home game for Twin Falls will be against a highly regarded Peacemaker squad at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Americans may capture singles at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON (UPI)—The 86th Wimbledon tennis championships move into their second week Monday and for the first time since 1955 there is a good possibility both singles titles will be exported to the United States.

Tony Trabert and Louise Brown were successful back in '55 when the game was played for trophies and the word professional was a dirty word. Now a total of $130,358 is there for the taking with the male winner collecting $13,000 and his female counterpart earning $6,250.

Before the championships opened, with 32 of the world's leading male professionals banned because of a dispute with the International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF) and Lamar Hunt's World Championship Tennis (WCT) troupe, the canny London bookies installed Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., and three-time women's champion Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., as the favorites.

Both are still alive in the competition although Smith and Mrs. King haven't been as convincing as they should. Jim Connors, fifth-ranked American player from Belleville, Ill., has reached the quarterfinals of the men's singles along with Smith while Mrs. King is supported by four other Americans—Nancy Gunter of San Angelo, Tex., Chris Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Rosie Casals of San Francisco, and British-based Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif.

The quarterfinal pairings are: Smith against eighth seeded Alexander Metreveli, the first Russian to be seeded; Onny Parun of New Zealand against Czechoslovak Jan Kodes; Collin Dibley of Australia against third seeded Manuel Orantes, the reigning Italian champion from Spain, and Connors against second seeded Romanian Ilie Nastase.

On the distaff side it's the defending champion and top seed Evonne Goolagong of Australia against eighth seeded Francoise Durr of France; Miss Evert, the fourth seed, against the unseeded Miss Hogan; Miss Casals, the sixth seed, against the third seeded Mrs. Gunter, and Britain's seventh seeded Virginia Wade, the reigning Australian open title holder, against Mrs. King, who was seeded second.

Of the male newcomers, Connors, 19, has been the sensation of the tournament. "I'm happy to be playing on grass and am satisfied with my game," he said Saturday after topping Frenchman Francois Jauffret in straight sets.

The new queen of Wimbledon is little Miss Evert, the 17-year-old Florida sensation who is unbeaten since her arrival in Britain last month.

She played two winning singles in the Wightman cup and then won the London grass court title at Queen's Club in the week preceding Wimbledon.

Miss Evert, who hits her shots within an inch of the baseline, has had moments of stress in four winning matches here—all against American rivals—and she may not win this year. But if the crowd had its choice as to who it would like to see crowned champion come July 6, they'd pick Chris, unless the temperamental Miss Wade was in the opposite court.

She could run into trouble against Miss Hogan, the only girl to scalp a seed thus far when she dumped fifth rated Kerry Melville of Australia in the third round. If Miss Evert survives that, then she should meet Miss Goolagong, the 19-year-old who took Wimbledon by storm last year.

Seagren went 17-9 at South Lake Tahoe, Calif., to set the world record.

Steve Smith of Long Beach State and Jan Johnson of Alabama became the world's fifth and sixth 18-foot vaulters during the competition when they cleared 18-0 1-2 and will join Seagren as America's representatives in the event at Munich.

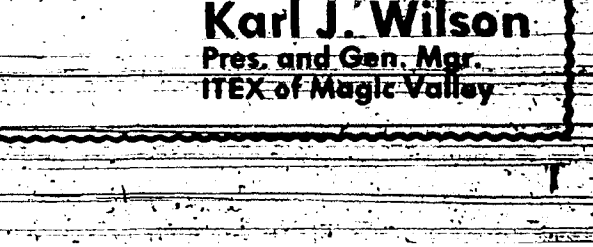

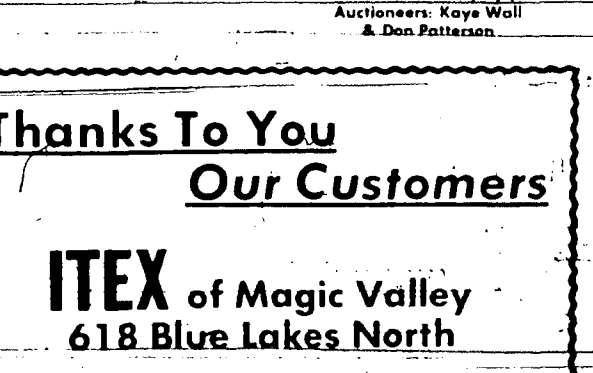

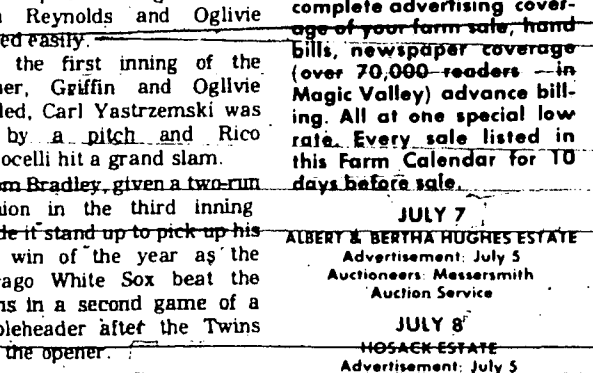

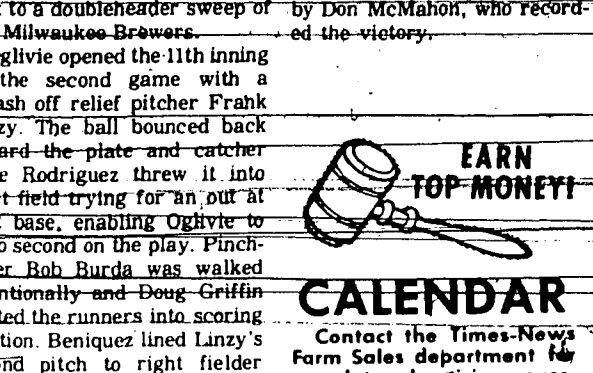

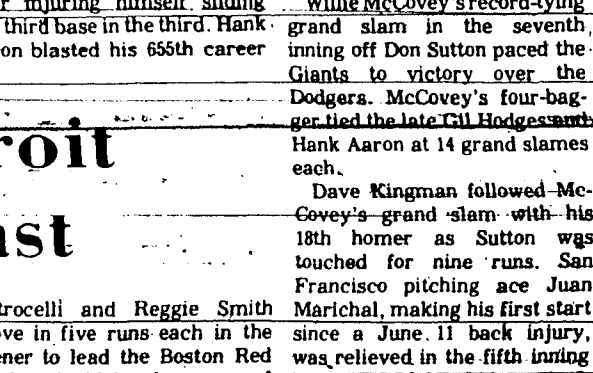

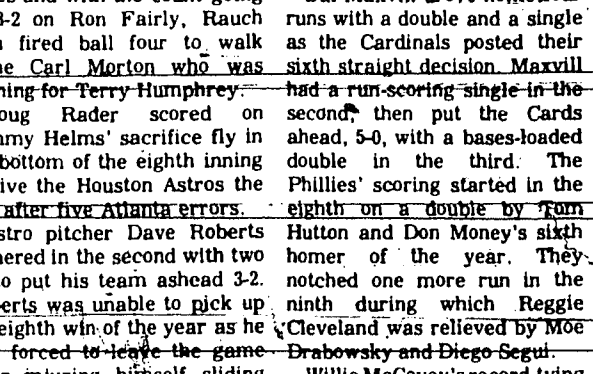

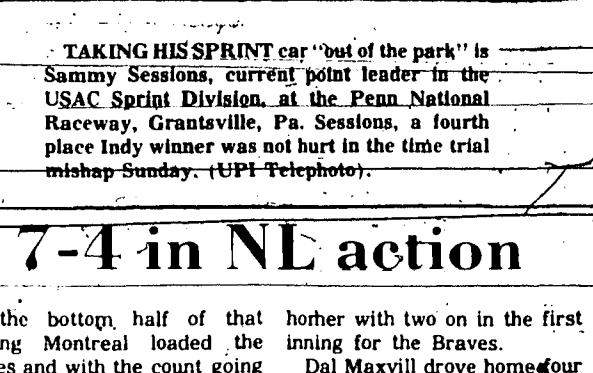

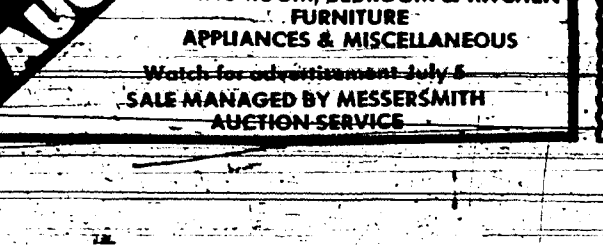

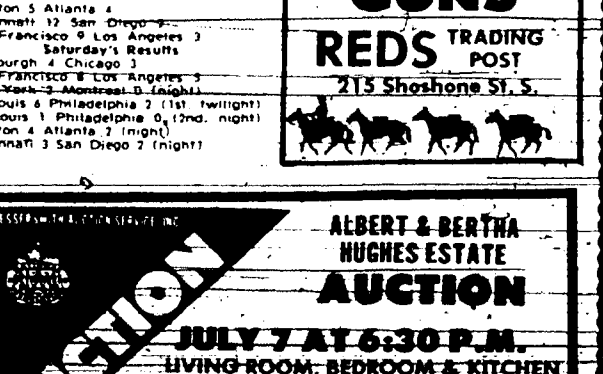

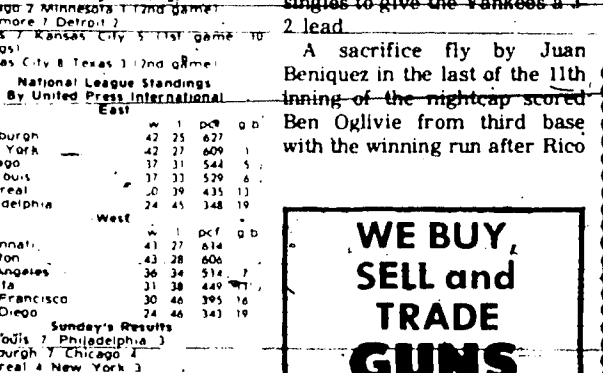

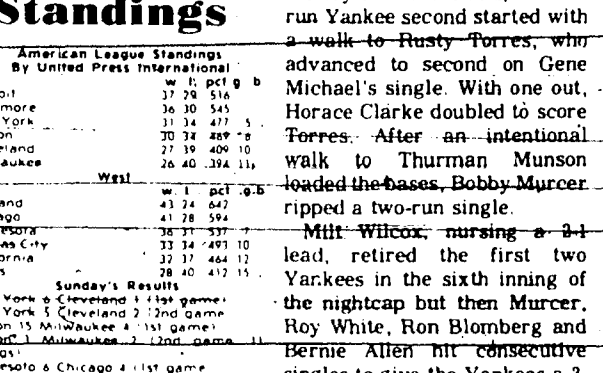

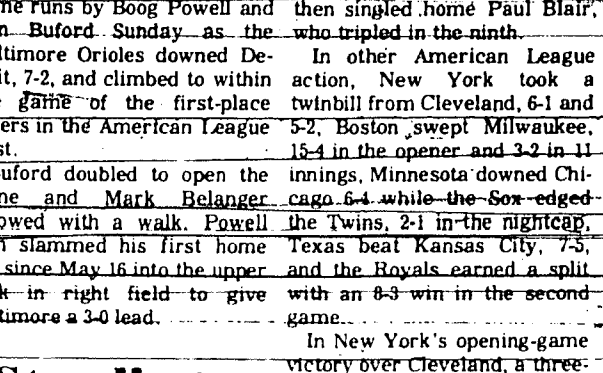

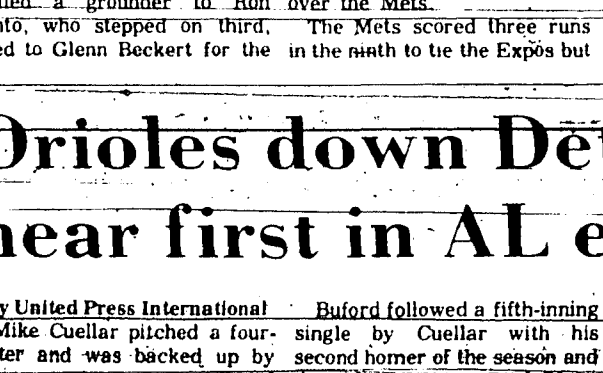

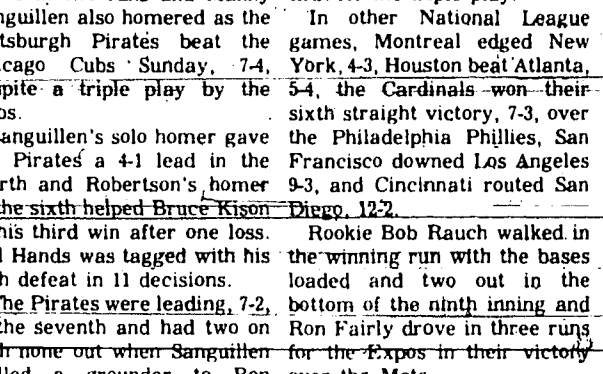

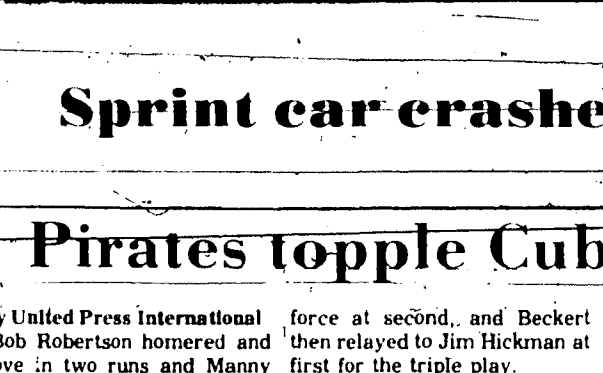

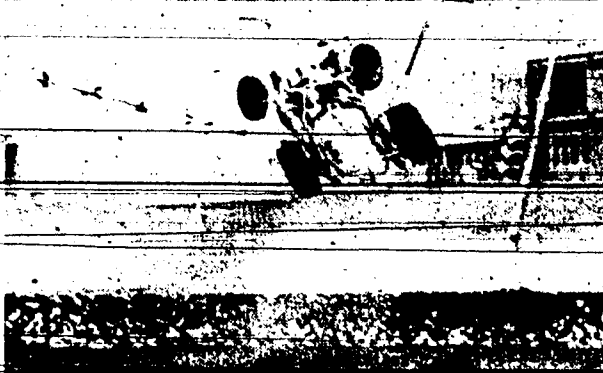

Dave Roberts of Rice, who joined the 18-foot club when he won the AAU title at 18-0 1-4 last month, failed in three tries at 18-0 1-2 and, thus, did not make the Olympic team.

Chris Papaniolau of Greece is the world's other 18-foot vaulter. He was the first to clear that magic barrier.

Ralph Mann started Sunday's five final-event program by winning the 400 meter hurdles in the American record time of 48.4 seconds.

After Seagren set his world record in the vault, Mike Manley of the host Oregon Track Club took the 3,000 meter steeplechase in 8:29.6.

Richard Bruggeman of the Ohio Track Club finished behind Mann in 48.6.

Pirates topple Cubs 7-4 in NL action

By United Press International
Bob Robertson homered and drove in two runs and Manny Sanguillen also homered as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs Sunday, 7-4, despite a triple play by the Cubs.

Sanguillen's solo homer gave the Pirates a 4-1 lead in the fourth and Robertson's homer in the sixth helped Bruce Kison to his third win after one loss. Bill Hands was tagged with his fifth defeat in 11 decisions.

The Pirates were leading, 7-2, in the seventh and had two on with none out when Sanguillen drilled a grounder to Ron Santo, who stepped on third, fired to Glenn Beckert for the force at second, and Beckert then relayed to Jim Hickman at first for the triple play.

In other National League games, Montreal edged New York, 4-3, Houston beat Atlanta, 5-4, the Cardinals won their sixth straight victory, 7-3, over the Philadelphia Phillies, San Francisco downed Los Angeles 9-3, and Cincinnati routed San Diego, 12-2.

Rookie Bob Rauch walked in the winning run with the bases loaded and two out in the bottom of the ninth inning and Ron Fairly drove in three runs for the Expos in their victory over the Mets.

The Mets scored three runs in the ninth to tie the Expos but in the bottom half of that inning Montreal loaded the bases and with the count going to 3-2 on Ron Fairly, Rauch then fired ball four to walk home Carl Morton who was running for Terry Humphrey.

Doug Rader scored on Tommy Helms' sacrifice fly in the bottom of the eighth inning to give the Houston Astros the win after five Atlanta errors.

Astro pitcher Dave Roberts homered in the second with two on to put his team ahead 3-2. Roberts was unable to pick up his eighth win of the year as he was forced to leave the game after injuring himself sliding into third base in the third. Hank Aaron blasted his 655th career homer with two on in the first inning for the Braves.

Dal Maxvill drove home four runs with a double and a single as the Cardinals posted their sixth straight decision. Maxvill had a run-scoring single in the second, then put the Cards ahead, 5-0, with a bases-loaded double in the third. The Phillies' scoring started in the eighth on a double by Tom Hutton and Don Money's sixth homer of the year. They notched one more run in the ninth during which Reggie Cleveland was relieved by Moe Drabowsky and Diego Segui.

Willie McCovey's record-tying grand slam in the seventh inning off Don Sutton paced the Giants to victory over the Dodgers. McCovey's four-bagger tied the late Gil Hodges' mark. Hank Aaron at 14 grand slams each.

Dave Kingman followed McCovey's grand slam with his 18th homer as Sutton was touched for nine runs. San Francisco pitching ace Juan Marichal, making his first start since a June 11 back injury, was relieved in the fifth inning by Don McMahon, who recorded the victory.

Dave Kingman followed McCovey's grand slam with his 18th homer as Sutton was touched for nine runs. San Francisco pitching ace Juan Marichal, making his first start since a June 11 back injury, was relieved in the fifth inning by Don McMahon, who recorded the victory.

Orioles down Detroit near first in AL east

By United Press International
Mike Cuellar pitched a four-hitter and was backed up by home runs by Boog Powell and Don Buford. Sunday as the Baltimore Orioles downed Detroit, 7-2, and climbed to within one game of the first-place Tigers in the American League East.

Buford doubled to open the game and Mark Belanger followed with a walk. Powell then slammed his first home run since May 16 into the upper deck in right field to give Baltimore a 3-0 lead.

Buford followed a fifth-inning single by Cuellar with his second homer of the season and then singled home Paul Blair, who tripled in the ninth.

In other American League action, New York took a twinbill from Cleveland, 6-1 and 5-2, Boston swept Milwaukee, 15-1 in the opener and 3-2 in 11 innings, Minnesota downed Chicago 6-4 while the Sox edged the Twins, 2-1 in the nightcap. Texas beat Kansas City, 7-5, and the Royals earned a split with an 8-3 win in the second game.

In New York's opening game victory over Cleveland, a three-run Yankee second started with a walk to Rusty Torres, who advanced to second on Gene Michael's single. With one out, Horace Clarke doubled to score Torres. After an intentional walk to Thurman Munson loaded the bases, Bobby Murcer ripped a two-run single.

Milt Wilcox, nursing a 3-1 lead, retired the first two Yankees in the sixth inning of the nightcap but then Murcer, Roy White, Ron Blomberg and Bernie Allen hit consecutive singles to give the Yankees a 3-2 lead.

A sacrifice fly by Juan Beniquez in the last of the 11th inning of the nightcap scored Ben Oglivie from third base with the winning run after Rico

National Temperatures

NEW YORK (UPI)—The list drifted slightly higher Monday in what was shaping up as the slowest trading session of the year on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was ahead 1.74 at 930.77, shortly before 1:15 p.m. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up 0.27 at 107.41.

Advances led declines, 699 to 505, among the 1,549 issues crossing the tape. The three-hour turnover amounted to 6,140,000, down from the 7,860,000 traded during the comparable period Friday.

The NYSE noted that volume of 3,880,000 shares for the first two hours was the smallest since Nov. 8, 1971. With the holiday Tuesday for the Fourth of July, many traders are on a four-day weekend.

Hannumill Paper was the most active issue, off 1/4 at 15 1/2 on 127,000 shares, including a block of 124,000 shares at 16 off 1/4. Marcor was second, down 1/4 at 23 1/2 on 105,800 shares.

Curtiss-Wright, holder of North American rights to the revolutionary 21st Century engine was third, up 1/2 at 54 1/2 on 99,600 shares. There has been considerable interest recently in the Wankel.

Foxboro, which expects a lower second quarter, lost 5/4.

Among the higher electronics and computers, IBM gained 2 1/4, Motorola 1 1/4 and Honeywell 1 1/4. Chemicals and oils were mixed. Steels, motors, rails, airlines and aircrafts were mixed in fractions.
