Viets enter Quang Tri

SAIGON (UPI)—A 30-man South Vietnamese reconnaissance team landed by helicopter in the center of Quang Tri city today, paving the way for a government move to recapture the provincial capital held by the Communists for more than two months.

Military sources said the team met only light resistance. A 1,000-man South Vietnamese force moved into the suburb of Mai Linh only one-half mile away earlier in the day and also reported only light resistance.

Another small force also moved unopposed into Quang Tri combat base two miles northwest of the city. The base is the former home of the U. S. 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Infantry Division. It was turned over to the South Vietnamese one year ago.

Despite the apparent disappearance of Communist troops, U. S. advisers said they expected a tough fight ahead. An estimated 48,000 North Vietnamese soldiers took part in the drive to capture Quang Tri province and the capital.

Russian chess ace protests delays

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI)—Russian chess champion Boris Spassky today filed a formal protest against U.S. Challenger Bobby Fischer and walked out on a meeting set to determine who would get the first move in the opening game of the scheduled world title bout.

The president of the International Chess Federation (FIDE) said he was "pessimistic" the match would be held.

"The situation is critical. I don't know if the match will be played at all. I am very pessimistic," said FIDE president Dr. Max Euwe.

Spassky, who has been waiting in Iceland for more than one week for the match which was scheduled to start Sunday, filed a formal protest in Russian against Fischer's late arrival and walked out of a meeting where lots were to be drawn to see who had the first move. Fischer, who finally agreed to play Spassky after a British banker said he would double the prize money, did not attend the meeting.

He stayed in his room to sleep to get ready for the match, scheduled to start at 1 p.m. EDT, and sent his seconds, the Rev. William Lombardi and two lawyers, Paul Marshall and Andrew Davis.

Volgar Schmid, the official arbiter of the match, said he would need a translation of the Soviet protest before he could act upon it.

"What happened was that Spassky, lodged a protest against the fact that Fischer did not arrive in time Sunday and he walked out of the meeting," Euwe said.

The match was postponed for two days while Fischer haggled for more money.

No TF show

TWIN FALLS — The traditional Twin Falls fireworks display won't be held this year.

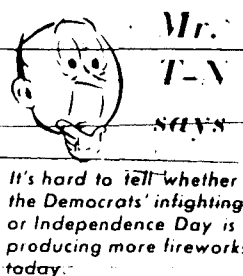

In previous years the display over Harmon Park was either put on by the Twin Falls Parks and Recreation Department or by civic organizations.

A cutback by the city stripped the $400 required for the annual display from the parks department budget, according to Howard Johnson, parks superintendent.

He said it is also difficult to get employees to take over the responsibility of setting off the displays because of the many injuries over the years.

Following the city's belt tightening, the display was put on jointly by the Twin Falls American Legion and the Magic Valley Cowboys Baseball Club.

Sheriff Paul Corder said as far as his department can tell, the only public display in the county will be a small night show in connection with the Buhl Sagebrush Days.

It's hard to tell whether the Democrats' infighting or Independence Day is producing more fireworks today.

MV celebrates nation's birth

TWIN FALLS—Parades, barbecues, rodeos and fireworks highlight Fourth of July celebrations today as Magic Valley residents celebrate the nation's birthday anniversary.

Everywhere kids lined up in front of fireworks stands to buy legal sparklers and other pyrotechnical marvels. But popping sounds from illegal firecrackers could be heard as well.

Clear sunny skies cooperated as many families headed for the hills or a nearby park for picnic. Mini-Cassia festivities were centered in Rupert this year where a three-day rodeo began Sunday. The new rodeo queen will be crowned during tonight's rodeo performances.

Rupert set off fireworks Saturday night at the high school, and part-mutual racing was a Sunday afternoon feature at the Minidoka County Fairgrounds. The Fourth of July parade started at 11 a.m. this morning in Rupert. It featured floats, riders, and the Minico High School and Burley High School bands.

Receiving a big hand during today's parade in Rupert was the Burley High School band some of whose members were

Kids, fireworks draw complaints

TWIN FALLS — But what do you expect on a long July 4 weekend?

Apparently people don't expect kids to be kids on the Fourth, but expect them to be quiet.

The Twin Falls Police Department has received numerous calls of city residents complaining of noise from firecrackers and fireworks.

They are illegal and dangerous, law enforcement officers have stressed.

But can't some noise be expected on July 4?

Teenagers did drink, not drive

TWIN FALLS — Teen-age drinkers did drink but apparently didn't drive while drinking this week.

The Twin Falls Police Department and the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Department listed no drunk driving arrests for 19 or 20-year-olds since July Tonight the final performance of the Buhl Rodeo featuring a 5,000 purse, is scheduled. Grand entry time is 8 p.m. and the crowning a new queen will highlight the program.

An adult dance and fireworks display, both sponsored by the Buhl Jaycees will cap the two-day celebration.

Drowning victim sought

CLAYTON — Search continued today along the main Salmon River for the body of a 17-year old Twin Falls youth.

Another search was being made for his vacationing parents.

Sheriff Bert Mecham, Challis, said he cannot release the name of the youth until the parents are located. They are reported on vacation and were in the Island Park area in eastern Idaho until Monday when they left there for an unknown destination.

The youth was one of four young men who put into the river in two inner tubes and one two-man light rubber raft Sunday. Sheriff Mecham said the river is at an all-time high and dangerous. The young men were not wearing life jackets and were attempting to travel one of the most treacherous areas of the river.

TF council OK's water agreement

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—Arguments by a Twin Falls attorney failed to deter the City Council from entering an agreement Monday night to deliver six second feet of water.

The arguments were offered by attorney Lloyd Walker during the council's discussion of the agreement to deliver the water for Joseph McCollum, Twin Falls.

The agreement was approved by a 4-2 vote. For about $72 per month consideration, the agreement would allow McCollum use of the presently unused city water and would transport it across Snake River by means of the city's water pipe.

Under terms of the agreement, the city could withdraw the water at any time it was needed by the city system.

Walker, who said he represents Blue Lakes Trout Farm, now using the city's water supply which has been filed on but which is not presently needed said his firm has filed with the Idaho Water Administration Board for rights to excess water from the city's filling.

He said he is naturally interested in protecting his client, but more than that, he is interested as a taxpayer and citizen of Twin Falls in protecting the city's rights.

By allocating six second feet of water to an individual, he said, the city may well be endangering its application for the 45 second feet of water from Alpheus Creek which supplies the city's needs.

He said he intends to advise the water administration board members of the situation before field studies are made. These have not been made, he said, and he believes the "preference to single individual" shown by the city could cause the board to take another look at the city's application.

"The city's system is reportedly designed to accommodate 45 second feet of water and this is the basis of proof the city has submitted to the water board for their application," Walker said.

"To now say there is probably an extra six second feet of water which can be made available and delivered to an individual raises many questions," he said.

'76 invitations out

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon said today the United States will invite the world to its 200th birthday party, so that the children of those who stayed behind when others immigrated to America can "see what wonders your countrymen have worked in this new land."

He predicted 28 million would come.

In his Independence Day address, Nixon said he was preparing to issue an "unprecedented invitation to the world" to visit the United States during the bicentennial celebration year of 1976.

He appealed to the travel industry to try to put a vacation trip to the United States within the economic reach of more foreigners, and asked Americans to open their homes to visitors from abroad.

The invitation, Nixon said, would be issued in conjunction with Festival USA, one of three main themes for the nation's bicentennial celebration, which he promised would be "as wide as America's land and as richly diverse as its people."

The President made his remarks in an Independence

Day address prepared for delivery over nationwide radio from his office at the Western White House.

The invitation is appropriate because the United States "is, and always has been, a nation of nations," Nixon said.

"The blood of all peoples runs in our veins; the cultures of all peoples contribute to our culture; and to a certain extent the hopes of all peoples are bound up with our own hopes for the continuing success of the American experiment," he said.

He said the bicentennial was "a time for America to say to the nations of the world 'You helped to make us what we are. Come and see what wonders your countrymen have worked in this new country of ours. Come and let us say thank you. Come and join in our celebration of a proud past. Come and share our dreams of a bright future.'"

Nixon gave only the broad outlines of the planned celebrations, which are being coordinated by the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, established by Congress in 1968.

Settlement dimmed by angry words

HONOLULU (UPI)—An angry statement by the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen Union, accusing the Hawaii stevedoring industry of bad faith, dimmed the possibility today of an early settlement of the smoldering island dock dispute.

No negotiations were scheduled today, but a joint session was tentatively set for Wednesday afternoon.

Union sources indicated "anger" at what it believes an attempt by the employers to reduce work guarantees for Hawaii's 900 stevedores.

The ILWU withdrew its strike deadline Sunday, a few hours before it was to shut down every port in the state, "until there is a settlement or a complete breakdown in negotiations."

At that time, however, ILWU regional director Robert McElrath said "negotiations are not progressing as they should. We are far from a settlement and it appears a strike may be the only way to resolve current longshore negotiations."

Monday, McElrath accused the employers of bad faith. The dispute centered on an announcement by the employers they will reduce the guaranteed work week for neighbor island longshoremen if an agreement is not reached by Friday.

The employers also announced that, while the work week would be increased for Honolulu dock workers, the method of computing it would be changed for all Hawaii longshoremen.

The tense dock situation has been brewing for 15 months while negotiations for a new pact have continued.

A dock strike, which would have staggered Hawaii's economy, was narrowly averted last week when Gov. John A. Burns persuaded the union to stop the clock on its strike deadline.

This week the union, at the recommendation of the governor, withdrew the deadline.

But sources indicated mistrust on both sides, and said the possibility of a Hawaii dock strike remains ever present.

Kansas man, 73, writes prayer

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI)—While most Americans went to picnics, fireworks displays and parades to celebrate Independence Day, retired hotel executive Harold A. Belts, 73, wrote a prayer.

He said "it expresses his gratitude for the privilege of living his life in the United States. The prayer:

"Lord of all life, we are thankful for the privilege of living in this good land. Graciously renew in our people a spirit of high patriotism, a true love of country. In these difficult days, may our beloved nation have a new birth of freedom.

"Strongly remind us to obey the laws of our society, to observe the common rules of good behavior and to approach all people in a spirit of friendliness and good will. Teach us to respect and defend the rights and dignity of all human beings.

"Encourage us to be honest workmen, diligent students and good homemakers. Help us in our businesses and professions to seek the welfare of all the people. Remind our public officials that they are elected not to rule but to serve. And inspire all of us to be responsible citizens of this republic.

"Endow us, we pray, with the common sense and patience we need in working hopefully for a better world. Grant us wisdom and courage for the living of these days. And help all of us to be kind. Amen."

Belts said he wrote the prayer after taking his daily early morning walk around the Kansas State University campus in Manhattan.

"On this particular morning, my thoughts turned to July 4th and then I started thinking about what a privilege it has been for me to live in America," he said.

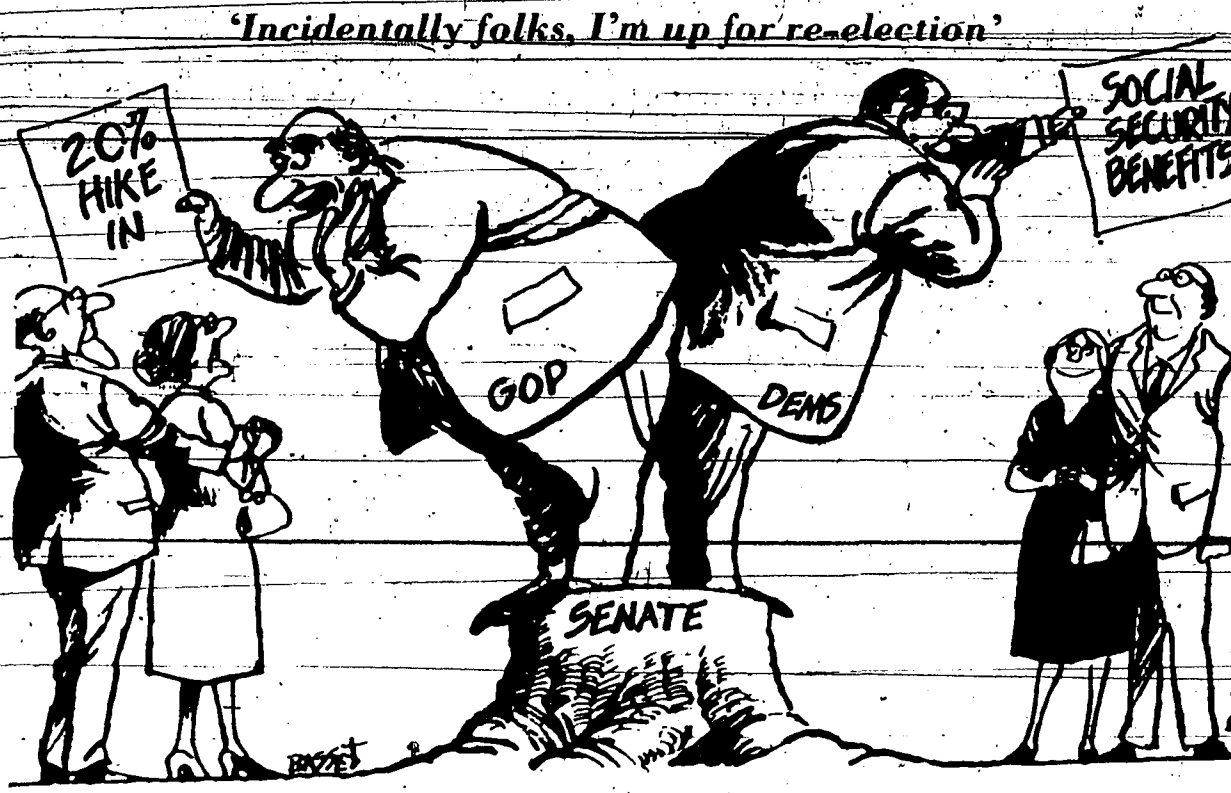

"I'm just one of many millions of men that life has treated very well and I'm just grateful for it," he said.

Belts said the country today has many problems that have to be solved, but that there aren't any more now than there were when he was young.

"Most of us were just ignorant of the problems in those days."

Smith services set Thursday

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Joseph Fielding Smith, the late Mormon patriarch, will be buried Thursday after funeral services at the Salt Lake Tabernacle.

Smith, 95, died Sunday of a heart attack after serving two and a half years as president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The man expected to succeed him as prophet, seer, revelator and spiritual leader for 3,090, 953, Mormons said of Smith that he was a man whose "purpose in life could well be penned in one sentence—'His was an eye single to the glory of God in bringing to pass the immortality and eternal life of man.'"

"We who have been his closest associates knew of his kindness, his gentleness and his concern for others," said Harold B. Lee, 73, senior member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles, the group which runs the church.

By a precedent reaching back to Brigham Young, the senior member of the Twelve becomes president. Smith named to the presidency in 1970 the day after the funeral of his predecessor, David O. McKay.

President Nixon said he and Mrs. Nixon were "deeply saddened to learn of the death of Joseph Fielding Smith."

"I had the privilege of enjoying the friendship of Joseph Fielding Smith in the closing years of his life," Nixon said. "This was a profound experience for me, and I know that men and women everywhere have lost a devoted and inspirational leader."

The white-haired Smith, who was a member of the Council of the Twelve for 62 years, was known as a historian and theological conservative.

He outlived three wives and left 140 children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

"A man should never retire and I am witness to the fact," he once said.

Smith did not move during his presidency to change the Mormon rule against allowing Negro members of the church to join the priesthood, a group most males enter during their teens.

"We may not fully understand but the time will come when all these things will be explained (by divine revelation)," he said.

Services set for Edwards

WEISER (UPI)—Funeral services have been set for Thursday afternoon for State Rep. Dr. John Edwards, 53, who died at a Council hospital from an apparent heart attack Sunday.

The services will be held at 2 p.m. in the Council High School. Edwards was brought to a Council hospital Sunday afternoon by his wife, Mary, after he became ill at home. He died in the hospital 30 minutes later.

He is survived by his wife and six children.

He was a long-time physician in Council and was seeking his fourth term to the State House of Representatives from Adams County.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus joined legislative leaders Monday in mourning the death of Edwards. The governor called the unexpected death a "tremendous loss to the people and the legislature of Idaho."

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said he was "greatly saddened" to learn of Edwards' death.

"He gave unselfishly of his time and energy to provide medical services to rural communities. He was part of a vanishing breed of physicians and will be sorely missed."

Church said one of Edwards' greatest contributions was his work with the nurse practitioner program which gained him well-deserved national recognition.

Bingham Canyon not forgotten

BINGHAM CANYON, Utah (UPI)—This little mining town no longer exists, but the people who lived here don't want it forgotten.

The town was reincorporated Saturday, and the remaining nine citizens plan to erect a monument to its past when it had 10,000 people. Kennecott Copper Corp. will take over the area in mid-July, when the town is completely vacated.

Bingham residents voted the town out of existence this past November because it no longer has enough people to support it.

Question...

My first wife is buried in Golden Gate National Cemetery. I am remarried and when I die I will not be buried with her. Will this create complications?

Answer...

When your first wife died she was allowed to be buried in a National Cemetery because you agreed to be buried with her at the time of your death. This intention on your part is reconfirmed periodically by the Army.

Since your wife had no military service, her entitlement to burial was based entirely upon your service connection.

Following your death if you are not buried with your first wife this will cause her to be disinterred at the expense of your estate and reburied in a cemetery stipulated either by her family or the Secretary of the Army.

HAILEY — Unknown vandals stole flags, placed for the Fourth of July celebration, off Main Street utility poles early Sunday morning. The remainder of the flags around the Blaine County Courthouse were also stolen sometime Sunday night.

TF commission okays requests

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners Monday morning approved two zoning requests and delayed action on two others following public hearings.

Commissioners approved a zone change from residential to general commercial on property located on Highway 74 and Orchard Drive. The request was made by D.W. Benkula and Harold Caldwell. They plan to locate a warehouse and garage on the property in conjunction with their carpentry and trucking business.

Also approved was the request of Mr. and Mrs. Don Barlogi for rezoning of their property from agriculture to general commercial. The property is adjacent to the Curry Trailer Park which they own. Enlargement will provide additional parking areas for the court.

Commissioners delayed until July 14 a decision on the request of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Amey to allow overnight camping facilities to be established on a three-quarters mile north of Buhl on the Clear Lakes Road. The couple said they planned central sanitary facilities and water supply with other camper units.

Commissioners asked additional time to check into sewage run-off provisions and other conditions of the shallow soil area.

A delay of 60 days was voted by commissioners on a zone change request from agriculture to residential agricultural on the Bodenstab property.

The property, northwest of Twin Falls on Poleline Road, is currently in orchard and the owners propose to build a mobile home park. A protest to the request was voiced by one resident of the area.

Yachtsman, 70, withdraws from solo race

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI) — British yachtsman Sir Francis Chichester, forced to withdraw from a solo transatlantic race because of bad luck and ill health, entered a Royal Navy hospital Monday for a physical checkup.

The 70-year-old sailor arrived during the night, but no one sighted his Gipsy Moth V bobbing in Plymouth Harbor until dawn dissipated the heavy fog which shrouded his return to England.

Chichester pulled out of the Sunday Observer newspaper's singlehanded transatlantic yacht race and headed back to England after a bout of rough weather, mishaps and illness.

His son Giles, 25, and three Royal Navy yachtsmen helped him on the final leg of the return.

"My father took a battering in rough weather in the first two or three days of the race," young Chichester said. "Then he took a pain-killing injection which had some interesting side effects."

This, combined with a bad radio, proved too much for the mariner, who had been warned against making the trip because of poor health. When spotted by a search plane, he signalled he was sick and cold.

A French weather ship, France II, first offered him assistance but knocked off the top of his yacht's mizzenmast in the process. Later a British frigate, the HMS Salisbury, nove into view with an emergency yacht team and Chichester's son was flown aboard by helicopter.

The France II, meanwhile, encountered further misadventures. Shortly after leaving Chichester, the weather ship rammed and sank a Danish Yacht Lesteria in the Bay of Biscay. The Lesteria had changed course to come to Chichester's aid.

Three Americans and a Swede were pulled from the water alive. The body of an American woman was later recovered, but six crew members remained missing and were believed dead.

Other competitors in the Observer race pushed on towards Newport, R. I., the final destination.

But, one of the leaders, Gerard Dijkstra of the Netherlands had to withdraw after a storm over the weekend broke the main mast on his 70-foot ketch, Second Life. The French favorite, Jean-Yves Terlain in the 128-foot schooner Vendredil 13 Monday reported his position as 745 miles northeast of Newport.

Another French entry, the Pen Duick sailed by Alain Colas, had been within sight of the Vendredil 13 until a few days ago when they were separated by violent storms.

The elder Chichester was knighted by Queen Elizabeth in 1967 after sailing solo around the world. Although suffering for months from a blood ailment, he entered the transatlantic race — "not to win," according to his son, "but just to finish — to sail the Atlantic just one more time."

Issues left undone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, in recess until after the Democratic National Convention, has left unresolved so many thorny issues that one leader says he will seek six-day-a-week work sessions.

Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, the assistant Senate Democratic leader, wants his colleagues to buckle down between the time Congress returns July 17 until it breaks again Aug. 18 for the Republican Convention. Many lawmakers say it is essential that all important work be finished during that span, since all the House members and a third of the senators will be busy this fall campaigning for re-election.

The Senate's list of undone business includes: welfare, foreign aid, defense, the minimum wage, ratification of the strategic arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union and creation of an independent consumer advocate agency.

The House, according to its leaders, still must grapple with the highly-controversial busing issue and extension of the national debt limit.

Also in the legislation works is a multibillion dollar water pollution bill, which is mired in a House-Senate Conference Committee; an antipoverty bill ready for conference; and determined efforts by House and Senate committees to get action on some kind of gun control. President Nixon has stated he would approve legislation to ban the so-called "Saturday night special," a cheaply-made handgun seen as a major contributor to the nation's crime rate, if the bill were "precisely written."

The administration's record of pushing its legislation through Congress has been mixed so far.

The program, the first of its kind in Idaho, will enable persons over age 60 to provide supportive services for dependent, neglected, or otherwise disadvantaged children.

Horses set for show in Jerome

JEROME (UPI) — Close to 300 Appaloosa horses are scheduled to be shown next weekend at the Jerome County Fairgrounds during the second annual Magic Valley Appaloosa Show.

Show chairman Jerry James said it is one of the largest Appaloosa shows in the northwest this year, and all events are open to the public without admission charge.

He said entries will come from Idaho, Washington, Montana, Utah, Oregon and Wyoming with exhibitors representing five regional clubs.

Events include halter classes, costume classes, jumping, equitation, races and roping. An English saddle will be awarded the high-point youth exhibitor of the show for those 17 and under.

Sue Billington of Twin Falls, Magic Valley Appaloosa Queen, will crown her successor on the final night of the show.

There will also be a special equitation class, "The Jack Benny Class," for riders 39 and older.

The Lady Ump

Women's libbers might do well to ponder the case of the lady ump, one Bernice Gera, who broke the sex barrier to become a professional baseball umpire.

Mrs. Gera, a 5 foot, 2 inch, 40 year old housewife from Jackson Heights, New York officiated as a base umpire in one New York-Penn League game.

The traditions that every woman has a right to change her mind and frequently takes advantage of that right was maintained by Mrs. Gera as an umpire. She called a player safe at second and then quickly reversed herself.

This naturally aroused the ire of the manager of the team that suffered the reverse. He did not find satisfactory the lady ump's explanation that she had made a mistake in calling the player safe in the first place.

She thumbed the manager off the field, as she had the power to do. The manager shouted, "Why throw me out because you made a mistake?" a response that would seem to indicate the manager was a bachelor. A married man doubtless would have perceived the feminine logic involved.

All's well that ends well. As soon as the game was over, Mrs. Gera resigned quit baseball and probably had a good cry.

The Eagle Shrieks

It is a habit of nations as of individuals to observe Birthdays. So the American Eagle will spend Tuesday in sounding its call and in flapping its wings.

One interesting point about the Declaration of Independence is that it was adopted so tardily. More than a year previously armed conflict had occurred with the English troops, an intercolonial army under Gen. George Washington had been organized, and George III had proclaimed that the colonists were in open rebellion.

The delay in proclaiming independence shows how slowly the colonists came around to that idea. In the interim, sentiment for breaking with the mother country had been augmented by a flood of pamphlets, sermons, speeches and newspaper articles.

Discussions of the Continental Congress were dispassionate and deliberate, perhaps because almost one-half of the delegates were lawyers. There was no dominant personality or group, and most of the work was carried on by committees, which almost always move slowly.

MR. SPECTATOR

About Freedom

One-hundred-ninety-six years ago I count them — the Declaration of Independence was signed. This is a very long time in terms of individual life spans, and a not unrespectable record even as ages of nations go.

Perhaps this sense of lengthy tradition is why it is so easy to think of Independence Day as merely commemorating an event, that happened once and was over with — just another fact of history, just another date.

We tend to forget that July 4, 1776, was more than one self-contained day in history. It was the watershed from which has streamed a great, ever-broadening river of freedom into our own time.

We are wrong if we think of this date as marking the day when freedom was brought forth by decree and handed to posterity. Independence was not a completed event. It was a continuing process, an evolution, a growth.

Freedom in America is still an unfinished business.

This involves much more than the fact that in the years since Yorktown marked a successful conclusion militarily of what was proclaimed politically in Philadelphia in 1776.

At one time, freedom in America was for the "respectable" people, those who owned enough property to qualify for the right to vote. Throughout our history, too often freedom has been abridged or denied to certain classes and minority groups.

Yet eventually these groups attained full acceptance into citizenship not by riot or revolution but by steady evolution within the framework of the Constitution.

That is the pride and the glory of the United States, that we have been able to grow in freedom toward an ever-broader freedom.

Let freedom in America never be finished business, and let America never cease working at it.

WALL SWAP

Time is running out for members of Congress who are opposed to obliterating the last of the original walls of the U.S. Capitol in order to provide more offices, restaurants and visitor meeting rooms. The issue will be decided by conferees working on a legislative appropriations bill.

Congress officially is divided on the issue. The Senate has voted a restriction, the House has not. Instead, the House conferees have offered to restore the Old Senate chambers in exchange for the Capitol extension project. Restoring one historical relic already ruined while destroying another still in existence makes no sense.

Somewhere along the line, taxpayers keep telling themselves, taxes have to come down. But that line seems longer than life.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — With the election coming soon, President Nixon is caught between the devil and the deep blue sea economically.

Major improvements in industry and the economy are having some worrisome side effects, at least temporarily.

The administration has pushed long and hard to bring a revival in consumer buying. But consumer confidence has been a long time coming. The story was that the public was jittery, wouldn't buy until there was more light in the economic outlook. And consumer reluctance was holding back recovery.

Now the reports are that consumers are buying and buying strongly. Economists expect retail sales will improve even more as the year wears on.

The new worry is that this blossoming consumer demand will spur stronger inflation. The way these economists see it, demand will make supply so tight prices will have to go up. The improved economic situation, therefore, is not likely to bring inflation below 3 1/2 to 4 per cent a year for a long time to come.

Worse, the recovering U.S. prosperity is putting new pressures on the balance of payments. Americans are buying more, and that includes buying foreign goods heavily.

But U.S. exports, even though they may improve considerably, are having hard sledding abroad now because the prosperity in many other countries isn't matching our domestic gains. Foreign peoples aren't buying as much as they would if things were going "like they should be" economically around the globe.

Despite the devaluation of the dollar, therefore, our own prosperity may work against the balance of trade we need to keep our international accounts in order.

A major cause for inflation over the past decade has been the slow pace at which productivity has increased in major areas of the business world. A drive for improved equipment and techniques these past three years has cut costs. New depreciation rules and tax incentives are encouraging more of these improvements in efficiency, necessary if prices are to be held down, and essential if we are to compete with foreign-made products.

But these new efficiencies, in part, are holding back greater employment increases in manufacturing, mining and transportation needed to bring unemployment down to 5 per cent or below.

It can be argued with considerable justification that in the long run increased productivity will increase employment. But there is no doubt that sharp increases in productivity create short-term unemployment problems. Reducing the number of men and women in the military has been a major goal. An attempt to eliminate the draft by creating a volunteer army. Here again, success, or partial success, has caused some economic repercussions.

Taking more than a million men and women out of uniform, cutting defense civilian personnel by 267,000 and reducing defense industry employment by more than 600,000 has thrown a total of two million men and women into the job market at a time when increased numbers of women and teen-age workers are seeking employment.

This, like the increasing productivity, almost insures that unemployment will not sink below 5.4 or 5.5 per cent in the next six months, according to economists this reporter has talked to.

The drive for a volunteer army is resulting in increased pay and other financial benefits for men in uniform. These increased costs are eating up most of the savings from the cutbacks in numbers.

It will be interesting to see how Mr. Nixon attempts to resolve these anomalies in the four months before election day.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The Avid Eater

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am rather concerned about my sister. She eats newspaper, magazines, practically anything she reads. I'd like to know if there is any danger in that, as she is a rather avid reader and eater. — E.M.

I think you have reason to be concerned.

The craving for unusual things to eat is often a sign of some nutritional deficiency, nature's way of saying that something is missing in the diet. Unfortunately, nature doesn't always have any way of steering the appetite in a particular direction.

Such oddity-eaters, when tested, often prove to have some degree of anemia. You say your sister is an avid eater — but does she eat a balanced diet? She may be eating less than she needs of some foods.

It's perfectly possible, you see, for someone to appear well-fed, or even fat, and yet be anemic, meaning that certain elements are missing in the bloodstream.

The danger in your sister's case is not so much from eating paper, but finding out why she does it — whether for physical or psychological reasons.

Instead of "avid" would it be out of order to say she's a "voracious reader"?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send your booklet, "You and Your Gall Bladder." I enclose 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Can a gall bladder become cancerous? — N.F.

Yes, it is possible for it to become cancerous, just as it is possible for virtually any tissue in the body to become so. It is not a high-risk area as compared to the breast or cervix, but it occurs often enough so that it is wise not to ignore signs of gall bladder trouble, particularly if it is due to stones.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We received an advertisement from a company for what they call a growth product. It guarantees you to grow taller. Is there really such a thing? Could taking such things do harm to the body? I am 27 and very short. Sure would like to be taller. — S.M.

I don't know what the product is, but I would venture a guess that it won't work even if you were half your age.

Since I don't know what's in the stuff, I have no way of guessing whether it can be harmful.

Or to cut out the double talk: save your money!

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been a salad lover and though now in my 70s have never been bothered by eating lettuce.

Now I am being continually admonished by friends who say, "You cannot digest it. It just lies in the stomach and causes trouble."

How much truth is there in this, if any? — S.R.

No truth whatsoever — and you seem to be living proof that these friends are talking gibberish.

Lettuce is a low-residue vegetable, easily digested, a good source of certain vitamins and minerals which we need.

For some reason that I don't understand, people go in for streaks of maligning one food, then another. Pork and potatoes are a couple of examples.

Lately lettuce has been the target of quite a bit of criticism, but without foundation in fact. So eat it. Enjoy it.

Shingles can be a painful disease! To receive a copy of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Note to H.M.V.: Some medications, including the one you are using, soothe the skin and make psoriasis more tolerable, but there is no absolute, certain, sure-fire cure for it.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble." It may be only minor, but to can be dangerous. Read R. Thosteson's booklet, "Your Kidneys Facts You Need To Know About Them." Write to him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in this column whenever possible.

The Platform Test

WASHINGTON — The surrealistic harmony enveloping the Democratic Platform Committee concluding its work at Washington's Mayflower Hotel was typified by a panegyric in praise of Lyndon B. Johnson delivered by the Rev. Joseph Duffey of Connecticut, a militant member of the 1968 dump-LBJ movement.

"President Johnson did more domestically in a short period of time than any other President," erstwhile LBJ-hater Duffey told the committee. What's more, Duffey, as chief platform whip for Sen. George McGovern, was rounding up votes against a move to expunge Johnson's name from the platform. He succeeded. The McGovern-dominated committee overwhelmingly rejected the effort.

That would have been inconceivable when Platform Committee members arrived here in a pugnaciously independent mood. For McGovern's lieutenants just four days later to control fervent anti-war activists enough to vote praise for Lyndon Johnson is a measure of the amiability and unobtrusive discipline imposed by McGovern.

This platform drafting must be judged in that light. Although it could have been much worse, the platform substantively does give President Nixon amnesty for Vietnam draft dodgers, school busing and other issues. What could be more important, however, is McGovern's control over his delegates to establish a facade of party harmony. Whatever chaos lies ahead in Miami Beach, McGovern passed his test of drafting a platform.

The brief furor over the LBJ amendment showed this. The amendment praising "domestic progress and enlightened internationalism" of Johnson, among other Democratic Presidents, was drafted by Ben Wattenberg, platform adviser to Sen. Henry M. Jackson and onetime LBJ speechwriter. During Monday night's marathon session, it slipped into the platform.

Rank-and-file McGovernites realized they had implicitly endorsed LBJ policies — perhaps even the Vietnam war. Deeply alarmed, they prepared to remove the amendment and probably had the votes but only after a predictably rancorous televised debate against party regulars.

The foresight of Ted Van Dyk, McGovern's platform coordinator, paid off. He had made sure McGovern delegates were not seated together but scattered through the room, preventing emotional solidarity among them. By Tuesday afternoon, moreover, the unbosomed McGovern amateurs had become accustomed to bossing from staffers.

That Plank

WASHINGTON — Idaho Sen. Frank Church (D) is trying to straddle the fence on the current controversial "liberalized abortion" plank contained in the recently passed Democratic state platform.

Unlike Gov. Cecil Andrus, the Democrat's other top office holder, Church refused this week to disavow the abortion plank approved at the Sun Valley convention. Church also refused, for the first time ever, this reporter's request for an interview on the subject. Instead, through his press secretary, Cleve Corlett, son of IDAHO STATESMAN political editor John Corlett, Church issued a short statement.

"The question of abortion is in the hands of individual state governments, where I believe it should be left. Any legislative proposal affecting personal matters, such as abortion, should be debated and decided by the Idaho Legislature or by direct vote of the people," Church stated.

He added, "the platform of the Idaho Democratic party is directed at local statutes in as much as there are no generally applicable Federal laws on abortion. I will oppose any attempt to legislate on this matter at the Federal level."

Gov. Andrus, on the other hand, was quick to reiterate his disavowal of any pro-abortion plank when interviewed here while attending the annual Rocky Mountain States Federation meeting.

"I absolutely disavow that plank," Andrus said, adding, "that's been my view for many years." The Democratic governor said this has been his personal view before and through many campaigns.

Andrus acknowledged he was somewhat surprised Church had not disavowed the plank, but declined to comment on why he thought Church was trying to straddle the controversial subject. He conceded that if Church were running for reelection this year, he probably would have been quick to repudiate the "pro-abortion" plank.

Andrus dismissed speculation, however, that the abortion plank in the platform may hurt Democratic legislative candidates in the fall election.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Have you ever heard of Fraser, the lion?"

Koreans agree to unify land

Tuesday, July 4, 1972 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 5

SEOUL (UPI)—North and South Korea, divided for 27 years, agreed today to work for peaceful reunification of the country.

The agreement, reached through negotiations so secret that even Korean diplomats expressed surprise, was issued simultaneously in Seoul and the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

The two nations, which have been technically at war since 1950 and have refused to recognize each other, agreed not to undertake armed provocations against each other and decided to promote mutual understanding and expedite peaceful unification of the Korean peninsula.

(In San Clemente, Calif., Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren said President Nixon viewed the development as "an encouraging indication of lessening of tensions in the area which could have a favorable impact on the prospects for peace and stability on the Korean peninsula.")

The agreement was signed by Lee Hu Rak, director of the South Korean Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), and Kim Young Joo, director of North Korea's Organization and Guidance Department.

Lee described the agreement as a move from "a confrontation without dialogue into a confrontation with dialogue" and added, "The (North Korea's) sincerity will decide whether the agreement is going to be a success or not. For our part, we pledge our utmost sincerity."

Lee said the agreement was reached after highly secret visits in May and June by officials of both countries. He said he proposed the meetings in March and traveled to Pyongyang in May for two sessions with North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung. May 29 through June 1, he said, North Korean Vice Premier Park Sung Chul came to Seoul for talks with President Park Chung Hee.

The communique came as a shock to officials who knew nothing of the sessions. Lee said the decision to hold the meetings was made without consulting the United States or any other third country. One South Korean diplomat in Tokyo said, "I've never been so surprised in my life."

Short of official recognition of each other, the exchange of visits represented a tacit understanding that there are two Koreas. Previously, neither recognized the existence of the other and both claimed they represented the entire peninsula.

The two Koreas began moves toward reconciliation in August last year when Chul Doo-Sun, president of the South Korean Red Cross Society, proposed a plan for reuniting 10 million families separated by formation of the two nations.

It was the first direct contact between the North and South Korean governments since the peninsula was divided along the 38th parallel when World War II ended in 1945.

Bishop assails anti-bus stand

DETROIT (UPI)—President Nixon's strong antibusing stand could bring blacks "a lot of allies who have been hanging around in the wings" and rejuvenate the civil rights movement of the 1960s, a top NAACP official said Monday.

"It may just be that the actions of the President and his advisers, of the congressmen feeding on backlash, of the Nixonized Supreme Court; will provide the impetus needed to revitalize the great coalition of the sixties," said Bishop Stephen G. Spottswood, chairman of the board of directors of the civil rights group.

Spottswood set a tough tone in his remarks made at the opening meeting of the 63rd annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in this city, inflamed over anticipated cross-district busing. His most stinging remarks, to the 2,300 delegates, were aimed at Nixon.

"Before the President and his Constitution-wreckers get through, there will be a whole lot of Americans besides black Americans who will witness the gutting of civil rights," said the Spottswood, 58th bishop of the AME Zion Church. "If the courts can be stopped from enforcing the Constitution in education, they can be stopped in housing, employment, public accommodations and the administration of justice," he said.

"Nothing is a better measure of the seriousness of today's peril than the so-called busing issue," he said. "Who could ever have supposed that the question of how children ride to school would become the test of candidates for the presidency, for the U.S. Senate, for seats in Congress and in governors' mansions?"

Spottswood received thunderous applause after each attack on Nixon. Gov. William G. Milliken of Michigan, a life member of the NAACP, got a polite but unenthusiastic reception when he told the group he is with blacks "in this long march" for equality.

As the annual meeting opened, some delegates sought support for a resolution to overturn an unofficial tradition that the elected president of the NAACP is white. The civil rights group never has had a black president in its 63 years.

Anti-rain try denied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Pentagon spokesman Monday denied published reports that U.S. warplanes have been making missions over North Vietnam.

But Jerry W. Friedhelm, deputy assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, refused Monday to comment on American weather modification efforts elsewhere in Indochina.

He responded to a report in the New York Times that said the United States secretly had been seeding clouds over North Vietnam, Laos and South Vietnam to increase and control rainfall for military purposes.

Vigilantes join street patrols

BELFAST (UPI)—Protestant vigilantes with lead-tipped axes joined British troops patrolling Belfast's Roman Catholic streets today as part of an agreement aimed at avoiding a showdown that could have shattered the province's cease-fire.

In another development, the bullet-riddled body of a Roman Catholic was discovered near Coalsland, 30 miles west of Belfast. He was the 40th fatality in the three years of fighting in Ulster and the eighth victim in a wave of assassinations since Friday night.

For five hours, members of the Ulster Defense Association (UDA), a paramilitary Protestant organization, confronted British troops in Belfast Monday night. The UDA planned to barricade Catholic "no go" areas, an action that almost certainly would have touched off fresh fighting.

Instead, the UDA and the British troops reached an agreement under which they would patrol the areas together.

The UDA is the Protestant answer to the illegal Irish Republican Army (IRA), which controls barricaded Catholic "no go" areas of Londonderry. It demands the Catholic "no go" areas be wiped out, and it created Protestant "no go" areas last weekend as a form of pressure on British authorities.

Monday night, more than 3,000 masked UDA men in military-style peaked caps and olive drab fatigue jackets confronted 1,500 British troops backed by armored cars in Ainsworth Avenue. Gen. Robert Ford, commander of British land forces in Northern Ireland, bargained with UDA commanders in an attempt to avert bloodshed.

After a hurried drive to gain Secretary of State for Northern Ireland William Whitelaw's approval, Ford announced a compromise had been reached.

Pompidou, Brandt seeking agreement

BONN (UPI)—French President Georges Pompidou and West German Chancellor Willy Brandt strove today to smooth out differences encountered in two days of Franco-German talks.

A private meeting between the two leaders lasted 20 minutes longer than the planned half hour. And delayed the start of the concluding plenary meeting between the two delegations.

French spokesman Jean-Philippe Lecat said there was no sign of agreement on a common approach to the current monetary crisis.

At a state banquet at Gymnich Castle, outside Bonn, Pompidou reiterated doubts about the value of a 10-nation summit conference of the enlarged European Common Market planned for October.

Idaho cycle theft ring probe starts

BOISE (UPI)—With the hint that organized crime might be involved, Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park has started a statewide investigation into bicycle thefts.

Park said Monday the thefts are primarily of 10-speed bicycles and labeled it a "brand of petty larceny that is getting more serious everyday."

The attorney general said more than 200 bicycle thefts were reported in Boise since January. He said a special Boise Police Department investigator was assigned strictly to the bicycle stealing incidents.

Park said more than 650 of the bikes have been stolen since the first of the year statewide, amounting to between $65,000 and $100,000 in losses.

He said from information his office has received there is an indication of "the possibility of a sophisticated fencing operation involving 10-speed bikes."

Friendship rally target of attack

MANILA (UPI)—About 2,000 youths hurling firebombs tried to break police barricades near the U.S. embassy today during a Philippine-American Friendship Day rally.

Initial reports said at least 26 persons were injured in the explosions about 100 feet from the embassy compound. Seven of the injured were police and included Manila Deputy Police Chief James Barbers.

The youths, carrying red banners, marched in a brief downpour from various points throughout the city and converged at the bayside U.S. Embassy.

Police stood behind wooden barricades for about 15 minutes while the youths denounced the "hypocrisy of the Philippine-American Friendship Day."

When police moved back about 20 feet, the youths lifted the barricades and hurled small "pillbox" bombs, gunpowder wrapped with nails and broken glass.

Mental tests due accused hijacker

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Daniel B. Carre, 25, charged with attempting to hijack a Hughes Airwest jetliner on a flight from here to Seattle, must undergo a psychiatric evaluation.

U.S. District Judge Gus Solomon Monday issued the order at the Tacoma, Wash., resident's arraignment.

against Carre said he told stewardess Judith Kay Frasier he had a knife and wanted a parachute and $50,000 in cash. He was arrested here Friday.

Carre, when he appeared in court, was manacled to a chair and he appeared agitated. Solomon appointed Portland attorney Keith Burns as counsel and set no bail pending his next court appearance.

Justice official denies charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department denied Monday it ever had personnel operating under assumed names at the Democratic National Convention. But it said one of its units had temporarily rented a $100-a-day suite permanently reserved by the International Longshoremen's Union.

"They had no use for it and room. It will have 5 two-man teams operating during the convention in Miami Beach and Miami.

CRS is a branch of the Justice Department established to keep watch on possibly tense situations in the nation's cities and to work with community leaders to defuse them.

"The crisis coordinator in the Atlanta regional office has a the Information Unit actually at the convention," Sheehan said. "We had no problem with this arrangement."

The Civil Disturbance Unit of the Justice Department's Internal Security Division will have four men operating on 12-hour shifts in the basement of the Jackie Gleason Auditorium which is part of the Convention Center.

The unit, whose job it is to keep abreast of possible civil disorders, will be under the direction of Donald Synnott.

Assistant Attorney General A. William Olson, chief of the Internal Security Division, will be working with Wood at the courthouse site. The FBI and the Secret Service will both have liaison men at this site.

"Nobody in the federal government is operating under an assumed name at the conventions and there won't be anyone operating under an assumed name," Sheehan said. He also will be at the courthouse site to act as its information officer.

Vietnam troop strength at new low

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command said Monday it had exceeded President Nixon's order to reduce the number of American servicemen in South Vietnam to 49,000 by July 1.

The command said in its weekly report on troop strength that 6,000 Americans were withdrawn from the country last week, leaving 48,000 here as of last Thursday, June 29. The figure is the lowest since April 1965.

Of the 6,000 troops pulled out last week were Army troops. In a breakdown of the movements, the command said 4,000 Army personnel were pulled out of Vietnam, reducing Army strength here to 31,200. The Air Force was reduced by 1,400, with 1,000 being transferred to Thailand and 13,100 still based in South Vietnam. Both Marine Corps and Navy strength dropped by 300, all 300 of the Marines being transferred to Thailand.

High death rate

TOKYO (UPI)—The mortality rate among expectant and nursing mothers in Tokyo is among the highest in developed nations, according to a survey by the Tokyo metropolitan government.

The survey showed between 240,000 and 250,000 women a year give birth in Tokyo. One out of every 2,000 mothers dies of blood poisoning or abnormal bleeding, the survey showed. This is six times the number in Denmark, four times as much as in Sweden and twice that in the United States, according to the survey.

In 1822 Capt. William Becknell led the first wagon train over the part of the Santa Fe Trail that crossed the Oklahoma Panhandle through the Cimarron Desert.

'The Democrats expressed a desire to only have career Justice Department people in the Information unit'

were happy to have the Community Relations Service (CRS) rent it," a spokesman said. "The Lido Hotel understands the arrangement but somebody got the impression the government was renting it under labor's name."

Richard J. Murphy, convention manager, raised the issue at a June 20 meeting with Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst, Assistant Attorney General Harlington Wood Jr., Florida Gov. Reubin Askew and congressional leaders in the office of Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

"Murphy raised it at the briefing and it was explained to the group," information officer Mark T. Sheehan said. "The Justice Department people felt the matter was explained. CRS subsequently withdrew from the arrangement and is no longer renting the suite. In fact, it was never used."

CRS originally wanted the beachfront suite for a briefing friend in the Longshoremen's Union," Sheehan explained. "The union has a standing reservation for the suite at the Lido Hotel."

Sheehan said the plan to rent the union suite was dropped when officials decided it wasn't needed. He said it was not because the issue was raised at the June 20 meeting.

Wood, who negotiated parade permits for the 1970 May Day demonstrations here, is in charge of the federal presence in Miami and Miami Beach for both conventions.

As a result of a recent meeting with a member of Democrat-National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien's staff, Wood and other top officials of the Justice Department will be operating from a combined state, federal, local unit in the Dade County Courthouse in Miami.

SALT pacts are question of trust

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Monday urged the U.S. Senate to treat the Strategic Arms Limitation (SALT) agreements as "a question of trust" that would be hurt by new missile expenditures.

Izvestia, the government newspaper, said some U.S. Senators were troubled by Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's attempt to link approval of the U.S.-Soviet nuclear pacts with expenditures on new weapons systems.

"The future of Soviet-American relations is bound up in a solution of this question," Izvestia said.

"It is a question of trust.

Until recently, it was possible to hear the following argument: Until there is trust between the United States and the Soviet Union there cannot be any agreement on any major problem.

"And until there is an agreement so long as thousands of rockets are pointed at each other in both nations there can be no trust."

"Now this vicious circle has been broken," Izvestia said.

The treaty limiting defensive ballistic missiles to 200 for each side, signed in Moscow by President Nixon, needs U.S. Senate approval.

Pet owners plan to visit Lindsay

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mayor John V. Lindsay will have a chance Tuesday to "practice what he preaches" in his dogfight with New York City pet owners.

The Pet Owners Protective Association said its members and their pets would descend on Gracie Mansion "to request that John V. Lindsay come out and demonstrate how he expects dog owners to pick up dog litter in a sanitary manner with one hand while holding a leashed dog with the other hand."

Association leader Max Schnapp said the group would provide the mayor with a demonstration dog and some dog litter.

"Let's see him practice what he preaches," Schnapp said.

Lindsay angered dog owners with a weekend announcement he would submit legislation to the City Council seeking fines of up to $100, maximum jail terms of 30 days, or both, for dog owners who fail to clean up after their pets in public places. Seeing-eye dogs would be exempt.

Earnings said up

BOISE (UPI)—J.L. Scott, president of Albertsons, Inc., has predicted continued increases in sales and earnings. During the firm's yearly shareholders meeting in Boise Friday, Scott said sales for the first fiscal quarter ending this week will exceed $154 million, a 16 per cent increase over the same period last year.

He said sales for the 52 weeks ended April 1, 1972 totaled $550,175,000, a 13 per cent increase over the total for the 53 weeks ended April 3, 1971.

Earnings for the year amounted to $6,257,118, or $1.08 per share as compared to $5.25

273,802 or 91 cents per share last year. In other board activities, Scott, president since 1965, was named vice chairman and chief executive officer. The former executive vice-president of administration and finance, Robert D. Bolinder, was promoted to president.

A thought for the day: French novelist Anatole France said, "People who have no weaknesses are terrible. There is no way to take advantage of them."

B & B Rental Toilets ... Portable Sanitary Toilet Service.

One of the most unique businesses in the state is owned and operated by Russ and Bob Bartlett who have been partners in business for the past twelve years in Twin Falls.

In addition to paint contracting and decorating, they provide the construction industry, special events, and large gatherings with the finest cleanest portable restrooms in the world. At present, units have been placed at many locations in the state.

One of the main advantages of the rental units is that they are sanitary and meet all health standards. They are made of polyethylene plastic and do not absorb odors.

The rental program includes delivery of the units to the chosen site; washing with disinfectant cleaner daily or weekly as needed; emptying, by method of a huge vacuum and furnishing paper and chemicals for odor retardation.

On construction sites, the units save valuable man hours by keeping workers on the job, and morale is higher because clean sanitary toilets are available. At any large gathering, the units can be indispensable for meeting state health standards.

B & B sells sanitation systems for the home, recreation vehicle and mountain cabins. Units range from the all new electric and gas waterless type to recirculating flush and chemical holding tank type.

If you are planning to build in the mountains or hills of Idaho, phone 733-5025 and check with Bob or Russ for your complete sanitary facilities.

Vast Viet work ends

SAIGON (UPI)—A firm made up of several large U.S. companies poured enough concrete during 10 years of construction work in South Vietnam to build a wall two feet wide and five feet high completely around the country, a spokesman said Monday.

Rear Adm. Walter M. Enger said the efforts of the firm, known as RMK-BMJ, was the largest construction program in the history of the world. A spokesman for the firm said enough asphalt was used during the period to pave a 5,000-mile highway from Paris to Saigon; enough earth was moved to leave a hole one-fourth of a mile square; and enough rocks (48 million tons) were used to make ballast for a railroad running half way around the world.

The program, which brought in $1.9 billion in contracts during its tenure, was formally closed out Monday. The last project ended May 30.

Projects included the huge base at Cam Ranh Bay, the U.S. Embassy building in Saigon, deep water ports in Saigon, Da Nang and Qui Nhon, enough hospitals for 8,000 beds and more than 600 miles of highway.

The original contracts in 1962 went to Raymond International Inc. of New York and Morrison Knudsen International Co. Inc. of Boise, Idaho. In 1965 when the war escalated, the firms of Brown and Root of Houston and the J.A. Jones Construction Co. of Charlotte, N.C. were added.

Contracts were administered by the Navy on a cost-plus arrangement—a practice that will die with the RMK-BRJ firm. In the future, all military contracts in Vietnam will be bid at a specific amount. Vietnamese and non-American firms also will be allowed to bid.

Under the cost-plus arrangement, the contractors were reimbursed for their costs, plus a profit. The profit was negotiated according to the anticipated cost of the specific project and the firm was limited to a maximum profit of 17 per cent.

The firm was formally shut down at official ceremonies at the Saigon Island heavy equipment repair depot.

Enger said the program started as a "modest" one that grew to "become the largest concentrated construction effort in the history of the world."

No laughing

CHICAGO (UPI)—Male hyenas may not have much to laugh about.

When in groups, says Encyclopedia Britannica, hyenas apparently are dominated by females, which is unusual for carnivores.

Pilot challenges sound of speed in old plane

RAPID CITY, S. D. (UPI)—Eastern Airlines jumbo jet pilot J.D. Morrison is spending his two-week vacation challenging the sound of speed in a replica of a 1927 Curtiss-Wright Pusher. The sound in this case is the noise of the 85 horse power Continental engine nestled in the center of the plane's wing-span right behind his head.

Morrison, 59, Miami, Fla., is on a flight from Moses Lake, Wash., to Miami aboard the vintage aircraft and was scheduled to take off from here today after a rest and continue following highways, railroad lines and streams in his relentless pursuit of his first love: flying.

The distance is about 3,300 miles and Morrison hopes to touch down in Miami within the time allotted for his vacation.

Besides the challenge of the venture, Morrison said this is sort of my swan flight. He will retire from his job at the airlines in March when he turns 60.

"I learned to fly in one of these," Morrison said. "And I've always wanted to own one. Well, I saw this one for sale about two months ago in a trade magazine. And here I am."

Morrison bought the sleek, white with blue trim, canoe-like plane from Buck Wheat, a flight instructor at Big Bend Community College, Moses Lake, who spent 4,000 man-hours and two years building it. "It'll do about 80 miles an hour with a good wind," Wheat said. "I put an 85 horsepower continental engine into it. The originals had 42 horsepower engines."

"I didn't have any set plans for the plane," Wheat said. "I just took the dimensions of the originals, which were built between 1927 and 1932, and made a few modifications. The outward appearance is the same as the original. It cost me $3,000 to build, and that's what I sold it for."

Morrison started his hedge-hopping flight home to Miami last Friday aboard the craft, nicknamed "Snoopy" which features a large picture of a snarling beagle wearing a goggled cap with a five-foot scarf trailing back along the fuselage.

From here Morrison planned to fly to Kansas City, St. Louis, Atlanta, down Highway 23 to Jacksonville and then follow Highway 1 to Miami "with several unscheduled stops in between."

Insurance bids said

Gem saving

BOISE (UPI)—Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told newsmen today that the state saved $63,866 during 1971 by putting its insurance out on bid.

At the same time, Andrus said the state cut the number of its policies to 75 from 1,500. He said further reductions planned will cut the number of policies eventually to about 20.

He said he received a report on insurance from Dan Obenchain, chairman of the Insurance Committee of the Idaho Association of Independent Insurance Agents.

Decision due in August

BOISE (UPI)—Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told newsmen Monday he will cut spending or raise revenues to balance the budget this year but probably will not decide which until August.

Andrus met briefly with reporters after he conferred with fiscal advisers about the status of the general fund when the state closed its books last Friday.

"We hope that we'll have all of the figures by Wednesday afternoon or maybe as late as Thursday morning," Andrus said.

Budget Director D. E. "Skip" Chilberg has said the state carried over an estimated $2 million or more in unpaid bills to this fiscal year. They will have to be paid out of revenues from this fiscal year and thereby will affect the current budget.

Additionally, Andrus and the Republican-controlled legislature disagree on how much the revenue sources will produce this fiscal year. The legislature adopted a budget some $2 million higher than Andrus felt there will be revenue to support.

Andrus told reporters the carryover bills will have a "dramatic and traumatic impact on our state revenues" in the year ahead.

"In the fiscal year we've just started...there isn't any question we will have a situation where we've appropriated more monies than we have revenues we can cover," he said.

If he decides to raise revenues rather than cut spending he will have to call a special session of the legislature, something he said is "not a desirable method" in any year let alone in an election year such as this one is.

Andrus indicated the size of the gap between revenues and appropriations may determine his course of action. He indicated he will cut spending if the gap is a small one but that he might call special session if it is a large one.

"In early August I've got to have that determination," he said. "I admit it's not going to be a popular one — no matter which way you go."

Bail bondsman 'last hope'

BOISE (UPI)—Besides his reputation for subtle notoriety and shrewdness, the bail bondsman is the last hope for freedom for the man behind bars.

Once regarded with suspicion by the general public as well as criminals, today's Bail bondsman is probably a good family man whose interests, like most other men's, range from fishing and golf to the stock market and other current affairs.

Two agents from Boise who handle well over 90 per cent of the bonding business in southwest Idaho and eastern Oregon are Nick Cladis and Jim Skinner.

"When in Jail, You need Bail," is the way Cladis advertises his 24-hour-a-day business.

Skinner calls himself "the freedom engineer."

Both agree the bondsman has to view his clients with a skeptical eye and mind.

"You've got to be as con-wise as they are or you'll get hurt," says Skinner. "And I don't care how good a bonds man you are, you'll get hurt sooner or later."

"A bail bondsman gets an average of about 30 calls a day," says Cladis. "Usually it's just for information pertaining to someone's whereabouts."

In 1971 Cladis wrote an average of two bonds per day at about $432 per bond. Despite this large volume of business, Cladis says he only wrote off about two per cent loss to bond skippers.

Skinner estimates his loss at one-half of one per cent last year.

Most of the bonds written, despite the fact they are considered poor risks, are for drunken drivers.

Surprisingly, both men concur that the practiced felon is perhaps the best bond risk of all. The poorest, they say, is the driver who gets caught with a suspended license.

"If I think they're bad risks, I won't bond them out," says Cladis. "You have to make up your mind if you want to get them out, because you're dealing with your own money."

Both men agreed a bail bondsman is the world's best gambler.

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI)—The University of California campus here has started a program allowing students to "stop out" of school temporarily without endangering their status.

Officials said students may pursue other activities during their leave, gain experience, or solve personal problems. They will be readmitted with a minimum of procedural red tape.

Bhutto calls for approval of accord

SIMLA, India (UPI)—Pakistan President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto flew home Monday to summon a special session of the National Assembly to ratify his agreement with Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi ending 25 years of hostility on the subcontinent.

"The agreement we signed last night represents a breakthrough in our relations," he said in a farewell message to Mrs. Gandhi. "I have no doubt that we can set the foundation of durable peace which we owe to our people."

On his arrival in Lahore, Bhutto said he would call the National Assembly into session next Monday to consider the historic accord reached in this Himalayan hill station where the partition of India and Pakistan was planned in 1947.

Technically the agreement, which renounced the use of force to settle the two nations' disputes, was ratified with the signatures of the leaders but Bhutto had promised to present it to his sensitive parliament. It would take effect 30 days after the ratification by the Pakistani National Assembly.

Initial reaction in Pakistan was generally favorable and diplomatic observers said Bhutto was moving quickly so that his political foes would not have time to build up opposition.

Mrs. Gandhi, who planned to leave for New Delhi Tuesday, made no public comment but leaders of all of India's national parties except the Jana Sangh Hindu nationalists hailed the agreement.

Meanwhile, the British government, which ruled the subcontinent until 1947, welcomed the pact as "a first step" toward a permanent peace. British sources interpreted it as a major diplomatic victory for India because it provided for direct negotiations between the two countries on the Kashmir dispute and designates the 1971 cease-fire line there a "peace line."

India and Pakistan have fought three wars over the territory, leaving India in control of two thirds and Pakistan with the remaining third. The agreement provided for a freeze on present troop positions in Kashmir pending further negotiations.

India and Pakistan also agreed to withdrawal of all troops from mutual borders. India will return to Pakistan all territory lost in their December war except the areas along the Kashmir cease-fire line.

But repatriation of the 93,000 Pakistanis, including more than 70,000 soldiers held since the war, must await further talks. Mrs. Gandhi has insisted Sheikh Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh be party to any agreement affecting the prisoners.

Nol sworn in amid battle din

PHNOM-PENH (UPI)—Marshal Lon Nol took the oath as Cambodia's first popularly elected president Monday in a ceremony in which the sounds of artillery and exploding bombs were clearly audible from fighting 15 miles away.

Military command spokesmen said the battle sounds came from Tmar Doh, an area south of the capital, where a government force was surrounded by Communists.

Air support was sent to assist the government troops, trapped on a wooden knoll for the past four days, as the Communists attacked with light artillery and recoilless rifle fire.

In contrast, the scene in this capital was festive in observance of the inauguration of Lon Nol, who actually has ruled Cambodia since the ouster of Prince Norodon Sihanouk in a military coup in March 1970.

Lon Nol pledged to dedicate himself to the interest of the Cambodian people and their nation during his five-year term, and he warned them against relaxing vigilance against Communist incursions.

Banking government officials, members of the diplomatic corps and leading Cambodian citizens attended the ceremonies on the grounds of the Chamcar Mon presidential palace. Outside the gates hundreds of others gathered to watch, many of them refugees from the estimated two-thirds of Cambodian territory communist Khmer Rouge guerrillas already control.

Lon Nol, 59, who is partially paralyzed from a stroke he suffered 14 months ago, administered the oath of office to himself and then using only a cane for assistance, mounted seven high steps into the palace's open gallery to deliver his speech.

The army marshal has ruled as premier since the overthrow of Sihanouk and last March proclaimed himself president while the new constitution he ordered was being completed. In popular elections held June 4, he won in a three-man race.

Dakotan claimed an asset

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The chairman of the House Democratic Study Group (DSG) said Monday a staff analysis showed that Sen. George S. McGovern, if he were the Democratic presidential nominee, would help rather than hurt the party's chances to retain control of the House.

Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., a McGovern backer, disputed the findings of a poll conducted by supporters of three McGovern opponents claiming that most Democratic congressmen think McGovern could jeopardize the 255-178 margin the party now enjoys over House Republicans.

"There is absolutely no chance that the Democrats will lose control of the House under George McGovern or any other Democratic nominee," Burton said in a statement, adding that the DSG study indicated McGovern could boost Democratic hopes of increasing their control. The DSG is an organization of Democratic liberals in the House.

The analysis, according to Burton, revealed that the areas where McGovern has been running best in the primaries—the suburbs and college communities—are the areas where the Democrats have the most to gain. Conversely, according to Burton, Democrats are safest in areas—such as big cities and in the South—where McGovern's opponents claim he is weakest.

Last week three congressmen supporting Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota asked their colleagues whether they felt a McGovern candidacy would adversely affect Democratic possibilities in the House.

Of the 117 who responded to a questionnaire, 63 per cent said they agreed or strongly agreed that McGovern would hurt the party in the House, according to the poll takers.

Navy torpedo cost set at billion over claim

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said Monday the Navy's long-troubled Mark 48 torpedo could cost the taxpayers nearly $3 billion—$1 billion more than the Navy claims.

At a minimum, according to Aspin, the wire-guided torpedo will cost $623 million above the $1.9 billion the Navy has fixed as the price tag for developing and buying an undisclosed number of the torpedos.

The overrun could top $1 billion if the Navy decides to place the Mark 48 on destroyers as well as submarines and completely out of the water," he said in a statement.

Aspin said his cost analysis of the Mark 48 was based on a June 22 letter to him from Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, chief of naval operations and a recent report to congress from the General Accounting Office (GAO).

Zumwalt included the Navy's latest cost estimate on the Mark 48, which is set at $1.9 billion. The number of torpedos the Navy plans to buy is classified, although the initial contract from Gould Corp. of Cleveland, manufacturer of the weapon, calls for delivery of 50 torpedos.

"Progress of the Mark 48 Torpedo program during the last year has been most gratifying," Zumwalt told Aspin.

Aspin urged Zumwalt to "admit" the Mark 48 cost had been underestimated and to provide and make public "a reasonable assessment" of it. And he asked Zumwalt to consider cancelling the entire program.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — New red, white and blue window stickers reading "International Visitor Seeing the USA" are being issued to tourists from other nations.

Part of the revised "Visit USA" campaign of the U.S. Department of Commerce, the stickers are issued to designate the tourist as a guest from another country.

Assistant Secretary of Commerce James L. Hamilton III said Americans are asked to extend special courtesy and assistance to travellers whose autos display the stickers.

Hamilton said many of the tourists from other countries travel by automobile. He said the kits provided foreign tourists also include the "USA Travel Information" printed in French, Spanish, German and English.

It includes driving regulations and instructions and international driving agreements.

Arms said linked to anti-Cuba plot

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Justice Department officials insisted Monday that the seven tons of contraband ammunition seized in Louisiana during the weekend was bound for Cuba in a plot to dispose Premier Fidel Castro.

But the Cuban Embassy and anti-Castro Cuban refugee sources in Mexico City, along with the Mexican government denied knowledge of any plot or of any plans to ship guns through Veracruz, Mexico.

Port officials in Veracruz said they noticed no preparations for any kind of an arms shipment to Cuba. But special agent Michael B. Pollack of the Justice Department's strike force said the smugglers planned to ship the arms to a secret landing strip in Veracruz and then take them to Cuba.

Police arrested nine men, including a former U.S. immigration official, in connection with the alleged plot. Officials were looking for two other suspects in Mexico.

The Justice Department said a DCI carrying plastic explosives was seized Saturday at the airport in Shreveport, La. The nine arrests were made in Shreveport and Eagle Pass, Tex., near the Mexican border.

Pollack said special agents had been monitoring negotiations for an arms shipment from the United States to Mexico for months. He said the smugglers eventually planned to ship 5,000 weapons, including M16 and M1 rifles and Thompson submachine guns to Veracruz.

Blacks want affluence

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—"I'm tired of white folks telling me what black folks are interested in," said Ben Hooks. "I know what blacks want. It's a car and a television set and a good meal. Good books and a good church and college for their children. Just like everybody else."

Hooks should know. He ate nothing but Navy beans and bacon-skin at many a meal as a boy, worked hard to get through college, then built a law practice and got upper-class-black affluence.

On July 3, the 47-year-old attorney, Baptist minister and former Criminal Court judge will be sworn in as the first black ever to serve on the powerful Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

Hooks was nominated to the seven-member commission in April by President Nixon and approved by the Senate on May 30. He will serve in the $38,000 a year post for seven years.

The FCC is one of the most influential boards in the nation in its capacity as regulator of the radio and television industry. And Hooks says that for years the news media have failed to give "balanced" coverage to blacks.

For the most part, Hooks told UPI in an interview at his home, the media have represented blacks as throwers of Molotov cocktails, thieves, killers, rapists and lazy good-for-nothings who do nothing but plump for more welfare.

"When my little grandson turns on the television," said Hooks, "why doesn't he also see black middle-class doctors striving to fight sickle cell anemia, black educators fighting to bring order out of chaos, black lawyers battling injustice, or black women selling cakes and cookies to raise money for old people's homes?"

Hooks said the public is bombarded with prominent white figures on television as a matter of course.

"The white audience has its President Nixon and John Connally and Henry Fords to relate to. You ever see a black on a talk show except maybe an entertainer or a sports figure?"

"I'm not saying that any of that is bad. But I am saying that my grandson ought to have a choice of more than baseball, show business or rioting in the streets."

Hooks, a graduate of Le Moyne-Owen College in Memphis and DePaul University Law School in Chicago, is a lifetime member of the NAACP and an official of the late Dr. Martin Luther King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

BURLEY Do you have a World War I uniform in your attic or storage room? Would you loan the uniform?

A total of about 14 World War I uniforms is needed for the "History in Harmony" pageant set for 8:30 p.m. July 17 at Cassia County Fairgrounds. The event is being sponsored by Cassia County Historical Society.

A cast of hundreds will appear in the pageant, all local residents. Proceeds will be used by the Historical Society for expenses at the county museum, located at corner of East Main Street and Hiland Ave., Burley. The museum is to be officially dedicated at fair time.

In charge of costumes for the pageant are Mrs. Retta Payne and Mrs. Helene Coffey. "If residents even have part of a World War I uniform which they will loan it will be a great help," stated Mrs. Payne.

"We presently have one complete uniform which has been donated by Henry Van Engelen for use in the pageant and then will be on display at the county museum," announced Mrs. Coffey.

Mrs. Eldon Wood is director for the pageant.

Other committee chairmen are Mrs. Lex Kunan, advance ticket sales; Glen Draper, props; Martin Anderson, electricity; Gary Hubsmith, finance; Jake Hodge, Mrs. LePage Layton and Mrs. Harlow Cheney, publicity; Eldon Wood, music director; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Nielson, ticket takers at door; Neal King and Bob Sagers, ticket sellers at door; Al Dawson, program booklet and Wayne Konrad, general chairman.

Highway district asks owners to remove unique mailbox supports

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS—Unique mail box supports which range from threshing machines to tree stumps have become the vogue over the past few years, but highway crews are not impressed.

The unusual items selected by rural residents to support their mail boxes are usually placed on the highway right of way. While the well meaning resident probably doesn't realize it, they often become traffic hazards and create problems for maintenance crews.

Twin Falls Highway District officials say they are appealing to rural residents to replace such items as plows, mowing machines and over sized tree stumps with standard sized mail box posts to help crews in control of weeds and grass along highway right of way.

Keith Anderson, district engineer, said the items constitute traffic hazards. In some instances a motorist, who might veer from the highway to miss another vehicle or a child darting from a rural driveway, could suffer severe injuries and vehicle damage if he or she crashed into a farm machine at the edge of the roadway.

Anderson said the Twin Falls Highway district has adopted a policy for mail boxes and newspaper boxes and is urging residents to comply.

The policy is designed to provide maximum safety for the carrier, owner and traveling public. He said because many of the unusual items used for mail box supports are on highway property the highway district is concerned about liability as well as safety hazards and maintenance problems.

The policy requires mail boxes meet Post Office requirements and states the department will assume no liability for accidents which may result from occupancy of the right of way by mail or newspaper delivery boxes.

Newspaper and mail boxes should not be located where they will create a traffic hazard including on sharp curves, steep slopes or at restricted sight distance.

Boxes should be installed, when possible, where they can be reached by delivery vehicles without parking on the travelway of road or highway.

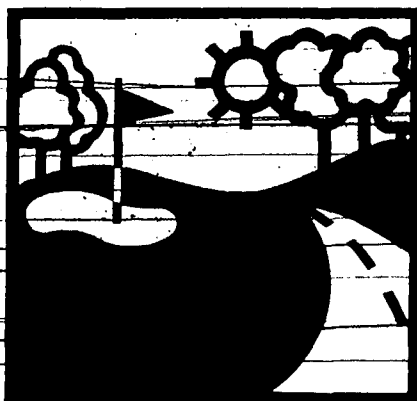

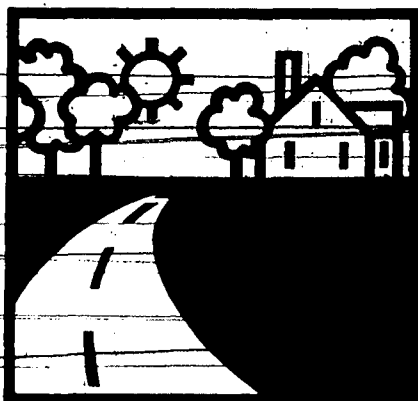

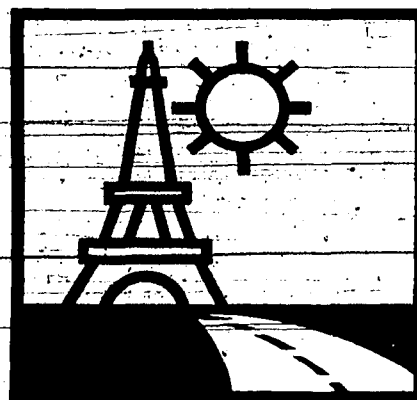

Supports for the boxes should be adequate to hold the mail container and boxes should be firmly attached to the support. Heavy metal posts or pipes, concrete posts and miscellaneous items of farm equipment such as milk cans, mowing machines and plows should not be used, the policy states. Wooden supports should not be larger than five inches in round or more than four by four inches if square. Metal posts should be no larger than 1.5 inches inside diameter or three pounds per foot of other shapes.

TF upgrades city streets

TWIN FALLS — City Council members approved an ordinance Monday night creating a half-million dollar local improvement district to upgrade city streets.

The project, Local Improvement District 87, includes improvement of a number of major streets in the older parts of Twin Falls, plus curb, gutter, and sidewalk replacement and new construction. Sharing in the cost will be the city and the abutting property owners.

In addition to approving an ordinance to go ahead with the district, the city also awarded the contract to Nielsen and Co., Twin Falls, for $484,778, the low bid received several weeks ago.

During a public hearing the city received written protests from Joe Salisbury and Roy Babbel on plans for reconstruction of Shoshone Street in the downtown area. Three verbal protests were received on widening of Locust Street in conjunction with improvement there. These were denied by the city.

City residents where improvements have been scheduled were advised of their assessments several weeks ago and given an opportunity to protest the district Monday night. The district ordinance was passed under suspension of the rules.

City Manager Jean Milar said awarding of the contract at the same time of the ordinance approval is important to get the work started as soon as possible. Dale Riedesel, consulting engineer for the district, said work will begin immediately.

In other action Monday night, the council approved an agreement with the county for operation of the sanitary landfill as a countywide facility. The agreement will provide city management for the next 30 days while the county prepares to take over.

A total of $4,500 per year will be paid by the county for water rights, excavation already done and for the first month's supervision.

In addition the county will then be paying for maintenance and operation. A meeting will be held in the near future with Ellis Fuller, property owner, to work out details of the lease agreement.

City officials also approved a request of Marshall Brothers Inc., for conditional use to construct an eight-plex apartment on Heyburn Avenue East.

A public hearing was set for Aug. 7 on the amendments to the city zoning ordinance on curb, gutter and sidewalk requirements. The planning and zoning commission will hold a similar hearing July 24.

An additional $2,500 was approved for Riedesel for work on the airport improvement project. Because it has been decided to do this year's work in two phases, additional engineering services will be required, Milar explained.

Gerald Conrad in pasture

Conrad named Cassia grassman

By GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Gerald L. Conrad, Burley, has been selected Cassia County Grassman of the Year.

Making the announcement today were members of the grass committee Glen Jensen, chairman; Reed Bowen, vice chairman, and J. Wayne Cole, secretary. Conrad was sponsored by Burley Kiwanis Club.

There were three candidates this year and judges were Boyd Baxter, First Security Bank, agricultural representative, Boise, and LaMont Smith, Minidoka County agent.

Conrad operates 1,320 acres southwest of Burley. The land was taken out of sagebrush eight years ago.

He has 360 acres of irrigated pasture and 40 acres of dry native grass.

About 280 acres of the pasture land is irrigated by two circular sprinklers. Water is on two days and off two days. This area is cross fenced in the middle.

Conrad has some 60 acres of pasture irrigated from waste water and this pasture has one cross fence. Also there is field of about 15 acres of crested wheat grass pasture that is irrigated from waste water collected in a pond.

The field of native grass and sagebrush is the area used by Conrad at calving time. He keeps about 200 head of cattle.

In addition to the property Conrad owns he leases some 400 acres of crested wheat grass for cattle feed. During the winter months he feeds green chopped alfalfa, sugar beet tops, bean straw and the grass on the ditch banks.

Along with the grassland operation, Conrad has some 800 acres of other irrigated crops and about 80 acres of non-irrigated crops.

A brief including pictures and story of the operation by Conrad will be prepared and entered in the state grassman contest.

Pasture tour set for July 11

TWIN FALLS — A tour of Sanitary Landfill to observe the irrigated pastures will be plan and operation of the sponsored by the Twin Falls Soil Conservation District from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. July 11.

KETCHUM — With neighbors opposing the planned access road, the Ketchum City Council in a split vote approved a 182-unit condominium project Monday night.

Approval of the plan of the Balsamroot Project, to be located in southeast Ketchum, came after development officials termed use of Garnet Street "the only alternative," and residents along the street called use a "possible bottleneck."

Councilmen Glenn Branen and Gerald Sidwell voted for the move. Councilwoman JoAnn Algiers voted no and Councilman Vern McClellan abstained.

After the meeting, Miss Algiers said, "It is ridiculous to believe that the present access is feasible." Referring to use of the 22-foot-wide required paved roadway as access, she said, "It is like having to fill a swimming pool with a kitchen tap."

McClellan said after the meeting he felt the project had some technical problems. He said the project would "be depriving the rights of other people. By law they (the developers), have use of the road, but I don't necessarily think the law is right."

Prior to the vote, Mayor Kenneth Richey said that if the project adhered to the city planning and zoning laws, "there is nothing legally the city could do to stop it."

Kent Elwell of Keith Romney Condominium Consultants, Salt Lake City, represented the developer, Selag Development Co., Galesburg, Ill., during the meeting. Elwell said that from 160 to 192 condominium units would be built on the about 30 acre site over a three and half year period.

He said the density would be under six to seven units per acre, which he said was far less than one-half if the area were developed as a regular neighborhood.

The development spokesman said project population would be 600 or less, not the rumored 1,000.

Two other access roads had been considered, including the road behind Swank's Motor Lodge, and seeking easement further south of the project. But he said the first alternative had from 18 to 21 per cent street grades and he called chances of gaining easement for the second alternative "very poor to impossible."

Elwell said the developer would improve Garnet Street and maintain it year around.

During the meeting, Garnet Street resident J.D. Pace presented a petition signed by 11 street property owners or residents opposing the move.

The petition, written by Pace, said that in several areas the roadway is about 25 feet wide because of jutting logs, trees and fences. He said although two-way traffic is possible in the summer, "one-way traffic is the rule in the winter and only then with the full cooperation of all the neighborhood."

The petition said that the residents of Garnet Street "totally reject the designer's proposed maintenance and snow removal responsibilities." Pace said the residents did not want to become dependent on Balsamroot "for solving our street problems. Like any citizens, we would rather rely on self-help, the mayor and the City Council."

"It is inconceivable to us that anyone would gamble $4 million on a project with such poor access," the petition said. And the signers requested that the developer "find a decent safe access, preferably one that doesn't destroy an entire neighborhood."

TF okays agreement on water

Walker also said the $72 per month for that amount of water is "a ridiculously low price considering it is delivered across the Snake River. He said this figure has never been made public and certainly the taxpayers should know about it."

Walker said he understands the water is requested for a nine-hole golf course in the vicinity of Blue Lake on the south side of the river. In addition to this, he said, he understands 350 water and sewer hookups for a housing subdivision adjoining the golf course are planned, he said.

John Rosholm, attorney for McCollum, said he could see no threat whatsoever to the city's application for water rights through the agreement.

Cities can and do file for more water than they need to provide for long range growth. He said the agreement clearly states the city may terminate the delivery of water to McCollum at any time it is needed for city use.

The agreement was approved by a 4-2 vote. Councilmen Winston Jones and Paul Ostyn voted "no." Tom Nelson abstained, and Ann Cover, Stephen Lincoln, Michael Gray, and John Christoffersen voted "yes."

Gooding sets meet

GOODING — The Gooding City Council will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the city hall. The council's regular meetings are the first and third Monday

A thought for the day: American writer John Phillips Marquand said, "It is worthwhile for anyone to have behind him a few generations of honest, hard-working ancestry."

Burley council given garbage pickup report

By LEPAGE LAYTON
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Vealton Teal, sanitation contractor, reported on the garbage and waste pickup in Burley at Monday's council meeting.

The new pickup system has been in effect for a month and Teal reported he was getting along very well, had received a few complaints but was taking care of them as fast as he could.

Councilman Les Morgan cited several instances of reported dissatisfaction but said he was taking care of them. On the whole the council commended Teal for the way he was doing the job. Additions, remodeling and new building permits were approved.

The council and mayor asked for a reclassification of the personnel in the water department. This would be on a seniority and qualification basis and would include common laborers up to first class operators with the pay scale to fit qualifications and seniority of the department.

Leonard Stokes, water superintendent, was asked to have this ready to go into effect July 10.

Gordon Paving Co. of Burley was awarded the contract on airport repairs and surfacing of runways for $79,122, with roughly 50 to 55 per cent of this to be funded by federal funds.

City attorney Bill Parson told the council that Magistrate Judge Gleason Andreason would like to meet with the council and discuss court matters pertaining to the city. The members decided to invite him to meet with them at the next regular council meeting July 17.

The council discussed action on another bridge across the Snake River on North Overland between Burley and Paul. Traffic on this four-lane highway is heavy enough to warrant another bridge, according to council members.

The motion was passed to have Mayor Garis Robertson write a letter to the Idaho Highway Department to see what could be done to start action on a bridge.

Councilman Morgan suggested making Fifth Street between Overland Avenue and Highland Avenue a three-lane street with stop signs on all streets coming into Fifth. The council will take this under consideration.

Paul sets meet on sewage plans

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer

PAUL — A spokesman of the Federal Environmental Protection Administration will confer with officials of the city of Paul at a public meeting Wednesday.

Progress of the city sewage disposal facilities will be aired at a meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the fire station adjoining the city hall, for all city officials and interested members of the public.

A discussion will be held on the proposed timetable for construction of an adequate sewage disposal facility.

A number of proposals have been advocated to improve sewage disposal throughout the Mini-Cassia area and particularly for the smaller communities of Heyburn and Paul.

The city of Rupert is considering a sizable expansion of its sewage plant to handle the growing population of the city and anticipated industrial expansion.

One proposal for Heyburn and Paul would link the two cities in a joint system leading into a lagoon-type disposal system, much the same as Burley now has.

A proposed truck stop and restaurant, to be built by the Husky Oil between Burley and Paul on Highway 27, could add an additional load to the system if the company wishes to join the Heyburn-Paul system.

A spokesman for the oil company had asked the city of Burley to consider providing water and sewer service, but this has been deemed far too expensive and difficult due to the interstate which bisects the route on which the facility would be built.

The city of Paul was recently "warned" by the EPA which apparently "suffered" a momentary "communications gap" that the city must draw up a suitable schedule for development of sewage treatment facilities.

At the same time city officials were conferring with other EPA representatives who had approved the services of the target dates already drawn up by the city.

US to invite world to 200th birthday party

Of the other two themes, one called Heritage '76 will focus on the nation's history during the past two centuries and the other—Horizons, '76—will involve setting goals for the third century, he said.

Nixon said he would send formal and official invitations to governments around the globe and urged Americans to participate in people-to-people contacts with the millions of visitors he predicted would accept the invitation.

Nixon called on corporations with foreign branches, U.S. municipalities with sister cities abroad; Americans with overseas relatives; shipping lines; airlines; all to join in the campaign to urge foreigners to accept the invitation—and then to help act as host to them.

"Volunteers young and old can serve as guides, as interpreters, as hosts and hostesses, to help greet a flood of bicentennial guests which may be double the nearly 14 million persons who visited the United States last year," Nixon said.

Such contacts, he said, would go a long way in "reducing the fear and the ignorance which have divided mankind down through the ages."

The bicentennial commission has been criticized from some quarters for moving too slowly in preparing for the celebrations, but Nixon promised it would follow up his announcement with a vigorous action program.

He asked the travel industry to redouble efforts to bring the costs of lodging, meals and transportation within the reach of visitors and people throughout the country to open their "hearts and homes and communities to those who come to America for the first time."

Rupert action

PLENTY OF ACTION is being offered at the Rupert rodeo which concludes with a final performance tonight and the crowning of the Rupert rodeo queen.

Certain food additives are suspected of being potential health hazards. The most worrisome, according to some scientists, are such preservatives as nitrites, nitrates, BHT, BHA and some of the artificial food colors.

Because there isn't enough solid proof yet that these additives pose a real health problem, they have been okayed (with some reservations) by the Food and Drug Administration. Even so, some food manufacturers—to soothe public fears—are removing the more controversial additives. In the baby food field, the main worry has been focused on nitrates and nitrites which may possibly cause anemia or cancer. These chemicals have been added to ham, bacon and other meats used in baby foods. Spinach used in baby food has its own "natural" nitrates which come from farm fertilizers.

Also this summer, Gerber's spinach will contain a new warning: "Not recommended for infants under 12 weeks of age."

Heinz says it has diluted nitrite and nitrate additives in its ham dinners by mixing three parts fresh ham with one part nitrite-cured ham.

Wesson does not use anti-oxidant additives, BHT and BHA, in its cooking oil. These additives have been frowned on by some scientists. Crisco doesn't use BHT or BHA in its solid shortening but does use these additives in its oil. Planters peanut oil doesn't contain BHT or BHA nor do other Planters peanut products. Mazola corn oil contains some mild additives but not BHT or BHA.

Other products that do not contain BHT or BHA are: Wise potato chips, Jays potato chips, Red Star dry yeast, Downey's frozen French toast, Luter pork sausage, Swaltney pork sausage, Del Monte and Mother Filbert's desserts.

you might want to shift to some other meat product or use the meats with additives only sparingly. Remember, cured ham and bacon have nitrites added but are not required to be labeled as such.

When processed meats have ascorbic acid or locoflor listed as fresheners, it's usually a good sign because it means they didn't have to use as much BHT or BHA. These nutritious fresheners come from vitamin C and E sources.

In some stores you can find frozen meats that have few additives or none at all.

This is because freezing serves as a preservative. Professional restaurant food buyers say frozen meats stay fresher longer and retain vitamins, minerals and taste qualities better than most processed or fresh meats.

So your refrigerator can help serve as a substitute for some food additives. Bread without additives will stay fresh longer if it's refrigerated. So will vegetable oils that don't contain BHT or BHA.

What about sugar? Most of us don't consider it a "chemical additive" but it is. Doctors say sugar that's added to processed foods and drinks probably poses more of a long-term health problem than most of the more ominous-sounding synthetic chemical additives. Wherever possible, steer clear of breakfast foods, fruit juices and other products that have "sugar added" on the label.

Prices to be watched by IRS at convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Just in case merchants get greedy, federal, state and local agencies will be keeping an eye on prices here during the Democratic National Convention next week.

Agents of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) will be at Miami Beach during the convention to make sure there are no violations of the federal price guidelines.

"We're fearful that some of the hotels have made reservations at rates that would be in violation of the federal price guidelines," said Holger Euringer, a spokesman for the IRS. The agents also will watch other businesses for possible price gouging. Businessmen are quite aware of the situation.

The owner of a liquor store near the convention hall said, "the only way I could raise prices is if our wholesalers do." And he pointed out that the wholesalers are watched carefully by the Price Commission.

In addition to the IRS surveillance, three other agencies will operate a service under which delegates, tourists or citizens can make a telephone call to report any suspected price hikes.

Operating switchboards will be the Miami Beach Chamber of Commerce, the Florida Hotel and Restaurant Commission and the Miami Beach Tourist Development Authority.

There were news reports during the 1968 Republican Convention here on such things as $1.50 hamburgers and $17 swimming trunks.

Merchants and publicity-conscious city officials claim the reports were unfair.

Federal civilian jobs down in May

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A congressional committee report showed today there were 2.85 million federal civilian workers in May, down 19,457 from the previous month.

The Congressional Joint Committee on Reduction of Federal Expenditures said the federal civilian payroll in April was $2.58 billion, down $240.77 million from March. Pay figures available lagged one month behind those showing the size of the work force.

Hotelmen say plush hotels charge as much as $1.50 for a hamburger, but they point out that the not-so-affluent delegates can go around the corner to a drug store and get one for 50 cents.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—I would appreciate your views on Aileen, Inc. (NYSE). What are prospects for this year and next? —S.C. & M.N.

A—A drop in earnings and revenues has been reported by this dress manufacturer for the last two quarters. Dyed yarn, which was in short supply, was the major factor in production cutbacks during November and February quarters.

This situation is expected to carry over into the May period as well. With backlog and incoming orders at record levels, the production line downtime has been particularly difficult for the company.

However, a solution is in sight as in-house dyeing capacity will be increased sharply by the August quarter when a 400,000 square foot plant addition is scheduled to be completed.

In spite of the vagaries of the world of fashion and the excessive competition in the industry, Aileen has an unusually good earnings growth record. A 15 per cent compound average annual growth rate was achieved in the five years through 1971. Shares should be held for their strong recovery potential.

Q—When cash is paid for a fractional share balance in a stock dividend, what is the payment based on? Is it net worth, market value or an arbitrary figure chosen by the company? —H.D.

A—The fractional shares due in cash are paid on the basis of the market value for the stock on its ex-dividend date.

Q—What are the advantages of a mutual bond fund over a stock fund? Are there any no-load bond funds? —R.S.

A—These two types of funds serve the needs of different types of investors. The former offering above-average income coupled with capital protection and the latter, capital appreciation potential plus a more modest income return.

The Voice of Patriotism STILL Rings Loud and Clear

At a time when our great nation is slandered by America haters at home and abroad, millions of Americans who love this country seldom make front page news. The loud minorities of kooks, hippies and protesters seem to drown out those who believe in this country and "Old Glory."

When Sunset Memorial Park installed its "Old Glory" Memorial, it did so with a firm conviction that the voice of patriotism in America needed to be heard above the din of who seek to destroy freedom throughout the world.

Performances set in TF and Buhl

TWIN FALLS — In New York, Shakespeare in the park has become one of the most popular kinds of summer entertainment.

The Antique Festival Theatre is giving park performances in Buhl and Twin Falls this month. "The Battered Bard" is Shakespeare, in short scenes chosen for their focus on women. H. Paul Kliss has selected the material, cut and arranged it within a play featuring Queen Elizabeth I.

The well-known theatre character on a summer sojourn at the House of Norwich, plays "theatre" with her court and hosts, much as a modern weekend party might do charades.

The result is a delightfully funny and informative piece of theatre, just the right length for family entertainment.

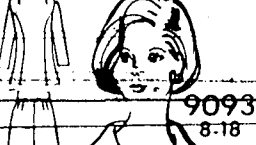

In Buhl at Eastman Park "The Battered Bard" can be seen Friday and Saturday, July 7 and 8, at 8:30 p.m. In Twin Falls the show will be done on subsequent Friday nights, July 14 and 21, at 8:30 p.m. There is no admission charge, but donations will be requested.

The whole family is invited for an introduction to the Bard of Avon, to sit in outdoor comfort and enjoy this "other" kind of entertainment made possible by each city and the Idaho Commission for the Arts and Humanities.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I wish I could have answered "DISCOURAGED" who couldn't get a job because nobody wanted to hire a person who had no experience. I'd have told him that sometimes we have to ~~have~~ get what we want.

When I was 17, I was bright, capable and eager to work. I could accurately type 60 words per minute. But I couldn't get a job because I was inexperienced. I pounded the pavement without success for three weeks, then I gave the employers what they wanted, a whopping lie about my "previous positions." I was hired immediately.

I was very upset about lying, but if I hadn't lied I never would have landed a job.

I know you don't encourage lying, but honesty doesn't always pay off in a dishonest world. NO REGRETS

DEAR NO: Sorry, I don't buy your philosophy. Most employers check out applicants, and had yours done so, you'd have wound up with egg on your face, which could have hatched into plenty of trouble.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for saying if a teen-ager is old enough to work, he's old enough to ask for his own job. I once operated a placement service, and you wouldn't believe the number of pushy mothers who did all the talking, punched and nudged their embarrassed children who weren't allowed to open their mouths during the job interview.

Also papa and mama should not get into the act at all. They shouldn't call the employment agencies to find out if junior got the job, and if not, why not.

The best teen-ager employees are the ones whose parents are never heard from. MARIETTA, CA.

DEAR MARIETTA: Thanks for a timely reminder to well-meaning parents.

DEAR ABBY: When I was fresh out of high school, I also couldn't get a job because they wanted only experienced people, so I finally told one employer, "If I were experienced, how much would this job pay?"

He told me, "Then I said, 'Let me work for nothing for one week. If you decide to keep me, pay me for the week. If you don't want to keep me, you owe me nothing.' It worked. AMBITIOUS

DEAR ABBY: I couldn't afford to go to college, so I applied for a selling job with a large company I had always admired.

The personnel manager said, "Sorry, we're hiring only men who have had some sales experience."

I looked him straight in the eye and replied, "How can you expect a man [I was all of 16] to have experience if no one will hire him?"

The manager said, "You're right. I'll give you a chance, but you have to start at the bottom as a trainee." I did.

That was 16 years ago and I'm still with the company. Last year they had a sales contest and first prize was a trip to Hawaii for the winner and his wife. Guess who won? TRIP TRULY

DEAR ABBY: Re lack of experience — no chance of being hired. An excellent source of experience is volunteer work. Hospitals, churches, and any number of charitable organizations need volunteers. No money, of course, but they pay off in self-esteem, a sense of accomplishment, and experience.

Even if the paying job requires skills other than the volunteer job, one can still get a recommendation for cooperation, diligence, punctuality and ambition, which most employers consider equally as important as skills. MARY IN LOS ALTOS

A Lovelier You

BURNING'S A "NO NO"

By Mary Sue Miller

You love the sun. So that you could laze in it you put a good sunscreen in your bag. You applied it, too, in the morning before going outdoors. Then why is your skin hot, aching and painful to touch?

You simply did not follow instructions on your sunscreen container. You did not reapply your product after a few hours of steady sunning and after every dip, if it was only under the garden hose.

Maybe you are too wise to burn. But still your skin feels tight all over your body. You know reconditioning care is needed. Fast!

New help is at hand. Medicated Sunburn Spray, from a prestigious maker of medicated face cream and lotion, cools off sun pain and also moisturizes away sun dryness in one step. Without, mind you, laying a finger on that super-sensitive skin.

How's that? A featherlight foam changes on your skin to a water-washable, non-stain, penetrating film. You don't have to rub it in or spread it around. It sinks in right away. Relief is a blessing.

But beware, fake cure. You cannot repeatedly burn without drying up like old leather. Doctors call sunburn an insult to the skin. Very serious consequences sometimes ensue. Don't let it happen to you.

RELIEF FOR OILY SKIN

An oily skin can be improved. Just send for my leaflet, RELIEF FOR OILY SKIN. Advice covers corrective treatments and makeup; such special problems as pimples, blackheads and enlarged pores. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin.

Buhl reception honors couple

BUHL — Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Guthrie were honored at a wedding reception at the LDS Cultural Hall, Buhl, June 18.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white tucked polyester, featuring long bishop sleeves, a stand-up collar trimmed with lace and an empire waistline. The gown was made by the bride's mother, Mrs. Joan Watson.

She carried a bouquet of blue, white and pink carnations with white satin ribbons.

Marilyn Kendrick, Buhl, was maid of honor. Teresa Watson, Buhl, sister of the bride, and Debbie Guthrie, Pocatello, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Linda Carter, Twin Falls, was junior bridesmaid.

Mike Guthrie, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The reception table was covered with a blue cloth with a white chiffon skirt. The white chiffon scalloped flounce at the top of the skirt was held in place with blue flowers. A bouquet of pink, red and white roses was on the serving table.

The four-tiered cake featured a stairway leading to the top with a miniature bride and bridegroom ascending the stairs to a miniature LDS Temple that topped the cake. The cake was made by Mrs. Leo Ottley of Buhl.

Mrs. Charlet Watson, Buhl, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Elton Kendrick, Buhl, served. Quartet tables for the guests were covered with white net over blue and had centerpieces of blue candles and greenery.

Joanie Chandler, Buhl, was in charge of the guest book. Vicki Walker, Boise, and Kathy Stimpson, Hagerman, cousin of the bride, were in charge of the gift table.

Don Watson, Buhl, uncle of the bride, was master of ceremonies for the program. Sheldon Thayer, Hagerman, grandfather of the bride, was photographer for the occasion.

Special guests were Mrs. Don Bloomquist, mother of the bridegroom, and her husband and family of Lansing, Mich.; grandparents of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Thayer, Hagerman; Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Conner and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Guthrie, all Shoshone.

Other guests attended from Shoshone, Buhl, Hagerman, Boise, Twin Falls, Bellevue, Gooding and Castleford, and Sandy and Ogden, Utah.

The couple resides in Shoshone where the bridegroom is employed for the summer.

Marine returns for Leenie

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI) — Steve Menta overcame bureaucracy, war and a year of separation Sunday to be reunited with his Leenie.

Leenie—real name Thai Thi Thiet—was informally engaged to Menta when the 24-year-old New York City native was a U.S. Marine in Vietnam a year ago.

Three months ago, her hometown of Cam Lo, just below the Demilitarized Zone separating the warring Vietnamese, was overrun by Communist troops. Leenie became one of more than 500,000 refugees.

Menta, worried about the girl he called Leenie, decided that he wanted to marry her. He came back to South Vietnam last week to look for her.

Sunday he found her, thanks to a tip from Leenie's cousin in Saigon, and his own good memory.

The cousin said that Leenie could be found at a refugee camp just outside Da Nang. Ironically, the camp is a former U.S. Marine base, Camp Books.

Steve wandered aimlessly about the camp, when he suddenly spotted a young child whose face he remembered as a youngster he had seen more than a year before.

In quick order: The child led him to the Cam Lo section of the refugee camp.

Menta was told Leenie was living in Da Nang city with a friend of her brother.

An oncoming youngster on a motorcycle was dispatched to town, and Leenie drove up to Steve perched on the back seat. Leenie and Menta looked at each other for a long moment.

"Hello," said Menta.

"Hello," Leenie replied.

The shy, 21-year-old Vietnamese girl said little else in the hearing of the small group of newsmen who accompanied the day together, talking over their plans. Leenie at first was not overjoyed with the idea of leaving Vietnam.

She and Menta spent most of

Giant popsicle

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — A 310-pound cherry popsicle made of 33 gallons of water and seven gallons of syrup was devoured by 500 children Sunday.

The children made quick work of the summer-time treat that required 27 hours to freeze.

A refrigerated truck hauled the popsicle to a grassy site near the sponsoring Church of the Nazarene and kids were turned loose. Within minutes all that remained was a giant stick, about six feet long, two feet wide and six inches thick.

Miracles do happen

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (UPI) — It took 27 years for Mrs. Rosie Morita's "miracle"—a reunion with her daughter who disappeared while an infant in war torn Germany.

Mrs. Morita, wounded while foraging for food in 1945, was unable to find her baby when she returned to a refugee camp near Passau.

The daughter, Elizabeth, grew up in Hungary and began hunting for her mother in 1966 after being informed by foster parents that she was an orphan.

Their lives, lived on separate sides of the globe, came together during the weekend in California.

"I thought she was dead, I couldn't dream," said Mrs. Morita, who operates a nursery in this San Francisco peninsula community with her husband Henry Morita, an ex-GI whom she married in Germany.

Mrs. Morita gave birth to her child in a Nazi child labor camp at Wiener Neustadt, Austria at about the same time her first husband died in a separate detention center.

Elizabeth married Bela Bartfei the same time she began searching for her mother. She finally tracked down an uncle in Yugoslavia who knew of Mrs. Morita's marriage and from there traced her mother to Santa Clara.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartfei got a three week visa after a year's attempt and arrived at San Francisco International Airport Saturday on the 25th wedding anniversary of her mother's second marriage.

"I'm really thrilled," Mrs. Morita said Sunday, following a tear-filled celebration at her home. "Getting here was just a miracle."

Makes list

SHOSHONE — Susan D. Johnson, Shoshone, was among 91 students named to the dean's list at the college of medical arts, Idaho State University, Pocatello. Miss Johnson is a nursing student.

Why Women Hate Bridge

Among those girls who despise the game of bridge, it's said, is an occasional soul who feels that way because she hates to make up her mind. In an average bridge session, each player is called upon to reach 400 border-line decisions. This requirement to come to some solid conclusion every few minutes is just more than some women can bear. Scholars who offer the analysis claim those ladies who dislike bridge make excellent matrimonial mates for demanding husbands who insist upon being masters of their houses.

Q "AT what age is a child old enough to set the table?"

A Age 3. That's Spork's claim. Age 2, put away toys. Age 4, dry the silver.

CAT

When a house cat died in Old Egypt, everybody in the family shaved their eyebrows. That was the mourning custom. Those cats really had the thing under control. History records that everywhere a fellow went outdoors, he'd see shuffling along some occasional clown without eyebrows.

waiter, butcher or grocery clerk should be permitted to grow a beard. Such was the recent claim of a Los Angeles public health expert. Germa, he warned ominously. Was about to take the old boy seriously, but he added: Nor should a truly clean, lissome conscious woman allow herself to be kissed by a man with whiskers. There, he exceeded his expertise.

NO MATTER what color the paint once it's daubed on a house, before its can is opened, it's black, absolutely black. Bet on that.

ON A metro wall in Paris, somebody scrawled: "My mother made me a sissy." And somebody else scrawled underneath: "If I bring her the yarn will she make me one, too?"

FOR CENTURIES the camel drivers of Arabia carried their water in goat skin bags. Not anymore. Use old rubber in nertubes now. Niftily fit ted over the camels' humps.

INCIDENTALLY, it has been calculated that the combined strength of 140 kittens is approximately equal to that of the average man.

HOW DID the word 'tomboy' get into the language?

WHY MORE men than women keel over with sunstroke also remains unexplained.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 5, 1972

CARROLL RIGNER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early morning brings you a chance to benefit through something that is very practical in its nature, but from late morning and through tonight you need to be very careful to avoid any display of temper, or getting upset by some startling and annoying conditions that arise to test your patience, abilities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Carry through with whatever you have in mind during a.m., but be prepared for some possible unexpected events. Don't make a mistake in judgment. Don't reach any important decisions until tomorrow.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You want to break up existing conditions in a fit of temper, but you would regret it later on, so keep cool, calm and collected. Get at whatever is the root of the trouble and clear it up instead. Think logically.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't jump into that new activity now, but keep working on the plans for it, or you could get yourself into deep debt. You resent what others are doing, so get at the cause of the matter. Forget temper tantrums.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you obey every regulation that applies to you, or you could get into real trouble today or tonight. Don't slough off where paying bills is concerned, or you ruin your credit. Show you are practical.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Involvement in some civic matter can be very important to you and others now, but don't come to any definite decisions until tomorrow. Diplomatically state your disapproval of the actions of others. Bend them to your right way of thinking.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You had better continue with work at hand, and not take on more responsibilities that could be more difficult. Avoid a new contact who could be greedy. Show loyalty to allies who are tried and true.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) There are time limits to making payments on debts, so arrange for meeting such deadlines now, and keep your credit unimpaired. Some strange situation with mate should be most carefully handled. Think cleverly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Both you and an associate are in a rather bad humor, so make sure you handle him or her with kid gloves. A smile will do much to ease the situation. An irritating situation arises, but better wait until tomorrow to handle it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Instead of rushing out to be with a possible charmer, make sure you get important work done instead. Don't get into any trouble. Some health treatment could be very helpful now. Don't wait for a tooth to decay beyond repair before acting.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Going out for amusement is fine provided you do not spend so much as really hurts. Show more affection for mate and smile more, and there is harmony restored quickly. Avoid one who has an eye on your belongings.

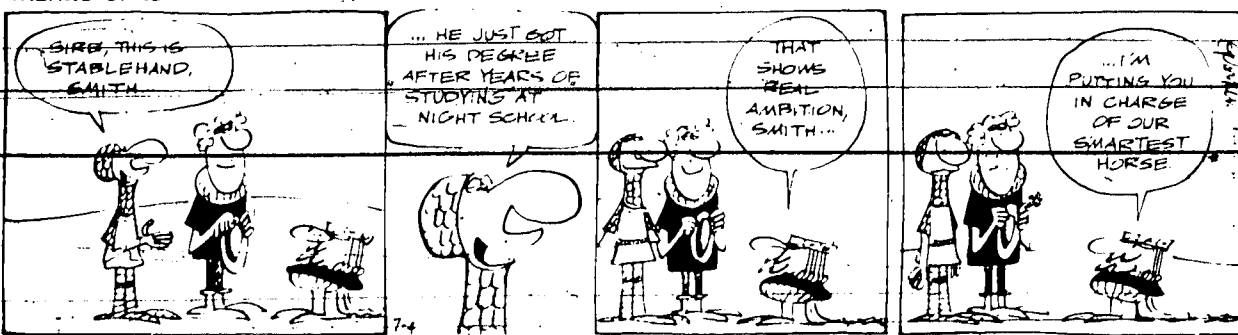

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If a family tie starts an argument, do not turn it into a battle royal. Otherwise this could lead to something really serious. Have a more streamlined system operating at home, too. Don't forget to pay those bills.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to drive with utmost care now, or you get into trouble. Even walking or other forms of motion should be controlled. There may be some delays in trying to get much accomplished today, so take them in your stride. They are for the best.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who has too much energy and doesn't know exactly where to use it, so be sure to supervise both study and play while young and all is fine. Give right religious training, also, which will stop this child from arguing and fighting with others unnecessarily. Teach the handling of money at an early age, otherwise it will be spent very fast for the wrong things.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!
