

McGovern in charge

By STEVE GERATEL

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — George S. McGovern clinched the Democratic presidential nomination today as Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey quit the race.

Humphrey's concession followed sweeping McGovern victories in credentials battles that ended early today.

The turning point came when the convention overwhelmingly overturned a credentials committee decision that would have stripped McGovern of 151 members of the California delegation.

With his California support restored, McGovern appeared certain to gain the nomination.

With a bottle of beer, a long, thin cigar, his shoes kicked off and his tie discarded, McGovern watched on television in his penthouse suite as all his rivals—united in their fervor to stop him—fell to the power of his tightly disciplined loyalists on the convention floor.

The supremely confident Prairie state senator planned to seclude himself today, possibly on a boat, to go over drafts of the acceptance speech he fully expected to deliver before the convention Thursday night following Wednesday's presidential balloting.

There was no word from him about a choice of a running mate.

UPI's tally showed McGovern only 43 votes short of the 1,509 needed for nomination, with 311 delegates still uncommitted.

Certain of his own strength, McGovern turned aside Edmund S. Muskie's final offer of a backroom compromise at the summit Monday and instead masterminded the floor fight which awarded him 151 disputed California delegates.

These were enough, he figures, to assume him the nomination on the first call of the states.

Falling that goal, he estimated he still had on call 87 additional second-round delegates who were bound by state law to support other candidates on the first ballot.

A sweet victory for many of McGovern's young supporters seeking to revenge the bloodshed of Chicago in 1968 came in the convention's decision at 4:35 a.m. EDT today to unseat Daley and replace him with a more representative delegation.

The challenge to the nation's most powerful old-line political leader was a setback for McGovern, who had hoped to work out a compromise which would have avoided antagonizing Daley.

McGovern even sent Gary Hart, his close strategist, to the convention room to plead for a compromise. But the peace mission failed by 115 votes.

The McGovern forces displayed cool political acumen in the strategy they adopted to defeat all challengers in the crucial California vote.

Taking directions from strategists Hart and Frank Mankiewicz, ensconced in a trailer just off the convention floor, the McGovernites backed away from a possible victory in a minor skirmish over the seating of seven South Carolina women challengers. They were worried about the pitfalls inherent in winning.

If the challengers had won, a vote could have been forced at that point in which Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien could have been beaten on his procedural ruling which favored McGovern's chances in the California dispute. O'Brien ruled Sunday that all delegates except those directly challenged could vote on other challenges.

A vote overriding O'Brien on that issue could have made it more difficult for McGovern to win on California.

So Mankiewicz, and Hart, from their trailer, instructed friendly delegations to change their votes, assuring a McGovern loss by so wide a margin that O'Brien's ruling could not be subjected to a vote. The strategy worked.

As it turned out, McGovern had the votes to spare when the California decision came—the first test of his strength and a moment which could prove to be the most suspenseful of the convention.

By a vote of 1,618.28 to 1,238.22, with 8.5 abstaining, the 2,865 delegates ruled eligible to participate gave McGovern the full 271-vote slate he had won in the June 6 winner-take-all California primary. The Credentials Committee, in a decision denounced by McGovern as evil, had voted to divide the delegation in proportion to the popular vote won by all the contenders—a decision which cost McGovern 151 votes.

The Supreme Court had refused to overthrow that decision.

A UPI tabulation showed that McGovern's re-established claim to all of the California delegation pushed his first ballot committed delegate total to 1,466.95.

Jubilant McGovernites after California victory

Humphrey quits

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The self-styled happy warrior, Hubert H. Humphrey, pulled out of the race today for the Democratic presidential nomination in the face of the speeding McGovern steamroller.

Humphrey, the 1968 nominee, appeared with his wife Muriel and daughter at his side at 12:22 p.m. EDT before a crowded room full of reporters to announce his withdrawal, saying he was releasing his delegates to "vote as they wish."

Humphrey appeared somber as he read a three-paragraph statement on his decision that clinched the nomination Wednesday night for George S. McGovern. His voice broke slightly toward the end of the statement as he thanked his staff and supporters who worked for him.

After reading the prepared statement, Humphrey added a few words saying, "We've fought the good fight...Now we bow out."

"After consultation with some of my closest friends and supporters, I have determined that I will not permit my name to be entered in nomination at the convention, and I am now releasing my delegates to vote as they wish."

"My withdrawal from the presidential race is a withdrawal of candidacy only. It is not a withdrawal of spirit, or of determination to continue the battle I have waged all my public life on behalf of those who had no voice," Humphrey said in a statement.

"On behalf of Mrs. Humphrey and me, I wish to thank those who have worked so hard for these past six months—not only for my candidacy, but for the greater goal of a nation governed with justice and compassion."

McGovern was relaxing in his

More convention coverage, pp 10-11

hotel room when Humphrey announced he was conceding to the South Dakotan's nearly two-year battle to beat the pros at their own game.

McGovern was just 43 votes short of the 1,509 needed for victory when balloting begins in the convention hall Wednesday night. Humphrey's 429-plus delegates, many of them almost sure to back McGovern, will put him easily past the required quota.

Humphrey's pullout came just hours after McGovern forces on and off the convention floor captured a crucial vote which restored to McGovern 151 California delegates which had been taken from him in pre-convention rulings.

That victory—and the weight by which it was won—prompted Humphrey to give up his decade-long quest for the presidency.

George C. Wallace announced plans to go to the convention floor tonight to press his fight for the kind of conservative platform he says the party must have for victory.

'Five o'clock high'

Church gathers delegates

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Sen. Frank Church successfully wooed more Idaho delegates to the McGovern camp during crucial credentials votes Monday night in the Democratic National Convention.

Just as the convention began, Church had predicted an improving situation for his candidate, and hoped to have 9 or 10 votes. The Idaho delegation arrived here with 7 McGovern votes.

On a roll-call vote to add more women to the South Carolina delegation Idaho voted 12 1/2 to 4 1/2 on the McGovern side. On the next vote, to allow McGovern to keep 151 disputed California delegates, Idaho voted 11.5 to 5.5 with the McGovern forces.

It appeared that Gov. Cecil Andrus was working in vain throughout the day Monday in trying to switch more of the state's uncommitted votes to Muskie. Andrus is one of the three Muskie delegates from Idaho, and he had announced Sunday that he had wooed two more Muskie supporters.

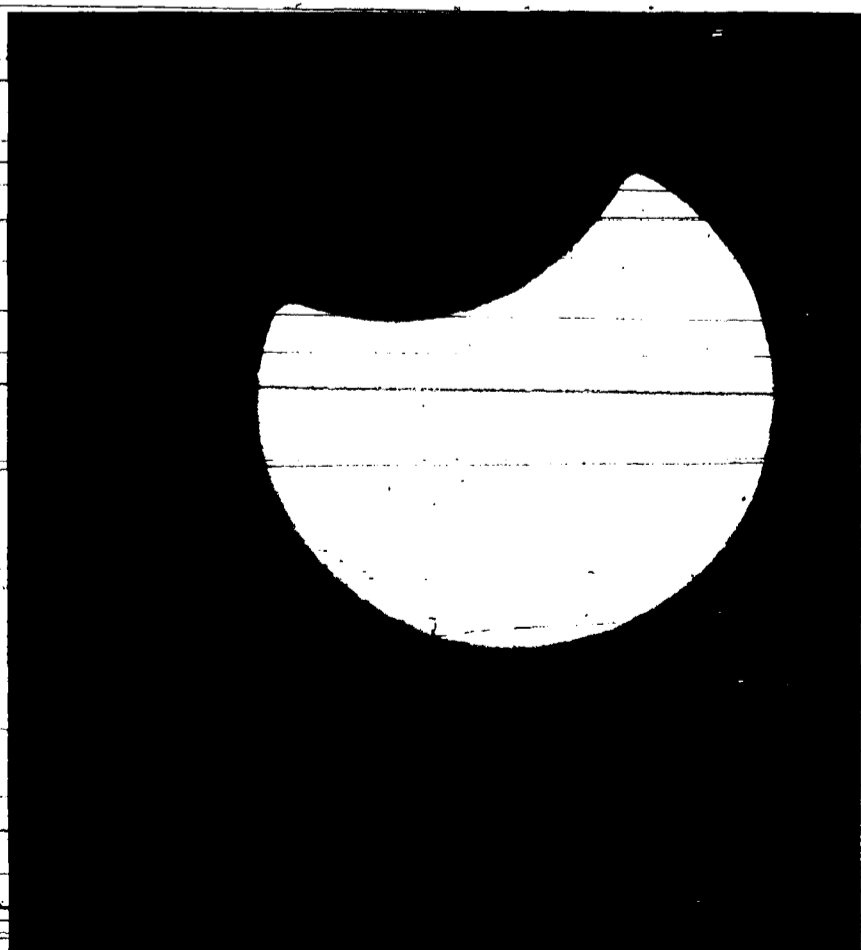

The Idahoans did not caucus prior to the convention session Monday because Andrus said he did not want to "put a haywire on anyone."

Amid some mention of Sen. Church as a vice presidential candidate, Church said he was not campaigning for it and never has. He suggested it may not be a good idea to throw the vice presidential selection to an open convention.

Mr. T-N says

It would be nice if the politicians work as hard after the election as before.

Eclipse reduces sunshine

Something took a bite out of the sun

TWIN FALLS — A partial solar eclipse Monday caused about one-third of the sun to disappear from view here.

The eclipse, which was total in eastern Canada, caused only a slight loss of sunlight in the Magic Valley early Monday afternoon.

Although most people appeared unaware of the eclipse, at least one person remained indoors afraid of danger from the eclipse.

One woman caller to the Times-News asked when the eclipse would be over. "So I know when it is safe to go outside."

Apparently she misunderstood repeated warnings not to look directly at the sun during the eclipse to prevent eye injury.

The phenomenon lasted for two hours and 13 minutes, beginning at 3:22 pm EDT in the Orient and fading out at 5:45 EDT in the Atlantic.

Scientists who had set up their projects on Stanhope Beach on Prince Edward Island, in the direct path of the total eclipse, were disappointed when a last-minute cloud cover moved in and obstructed many of their experiments.

"We got lots of pictures, but the cloudiness certainly affected the more sensitive of the projects," said Dr. Donald H. Menzel.

Angler drowns in river

HAGERMAN — A Nampa fisherman drowned Monday evening at the lower Salmon Falls Power Plant here.

Gooding County officers identified the victim as Clark LeRoy Skogen, 59, Nampa. Officers said the victim was fishing about 7 p.m. when he apparently slipped on a rock and fell into the river near the plant.

Searchers recovered the body about two hours and 20 minutes after the drowning. County officers, Sheriff Earl Brown and deputies Bill Bunn and Bill Boyer were joined in the search by officials of the Idaho Power Co., and company owned rescue equipment.

The body has been taken to Thompson Funeral Home, Gooding.

Church ponders duties of Veep

Special to the Times-News. MIAMI BEACH — Idaho Sen. Frank Church said Monday night he would have to talk to George McGovern about the vice presidential role before accepting nomination.

Church was being mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate.

"I believe in the McGovern candidacy, what it stands for," the Senator said. "But before I would want to be vice president I would want to know that he would make it live up to its title of the second highest office in the land."

"I would not want to hold the office if it were conducted as it has been conducted in recent years. I would not want to be a huckster for the administration, going out on the banquet circuit to defend all policies without having had a voice in making any of them," Church said.

Church indicated he might prefer being secretary of state. "That office would hold great attraction for me because of my interest in foreign policy and because McGovern has made it clear that there will be no Henry Kissinger in his administration."

He has said he would return the state department to its rightful role formulating the foreign policy.

S. Viets stage surprise assault

SAIGON (UPI)—An estimated 4,500 South Vietnamese marines and paratroopers attacked embattled Quang Tri City today from three sides, pushing back into the city's southern edge and staging a surprise assault behind Communist lines.

Military spokesmen said the airborne troops, landed by U.S. helicopters, punched into the southwest corner of the city in a daybreak assault that met heavy Communist resistance.

The attack came after government paratroopers were forced to re-group Monday just outside the city, leaving it temporarily in North Vietnamese control.

Today's action marked the first time South Vietnamese troops were reported within the city, occupied with the rest of Quang Tri Province by the Communists May 1, since last week when spokesmen said government soldiers occupied two-thirds of the northernmost provincial capital before withdrawing under heavy fire.

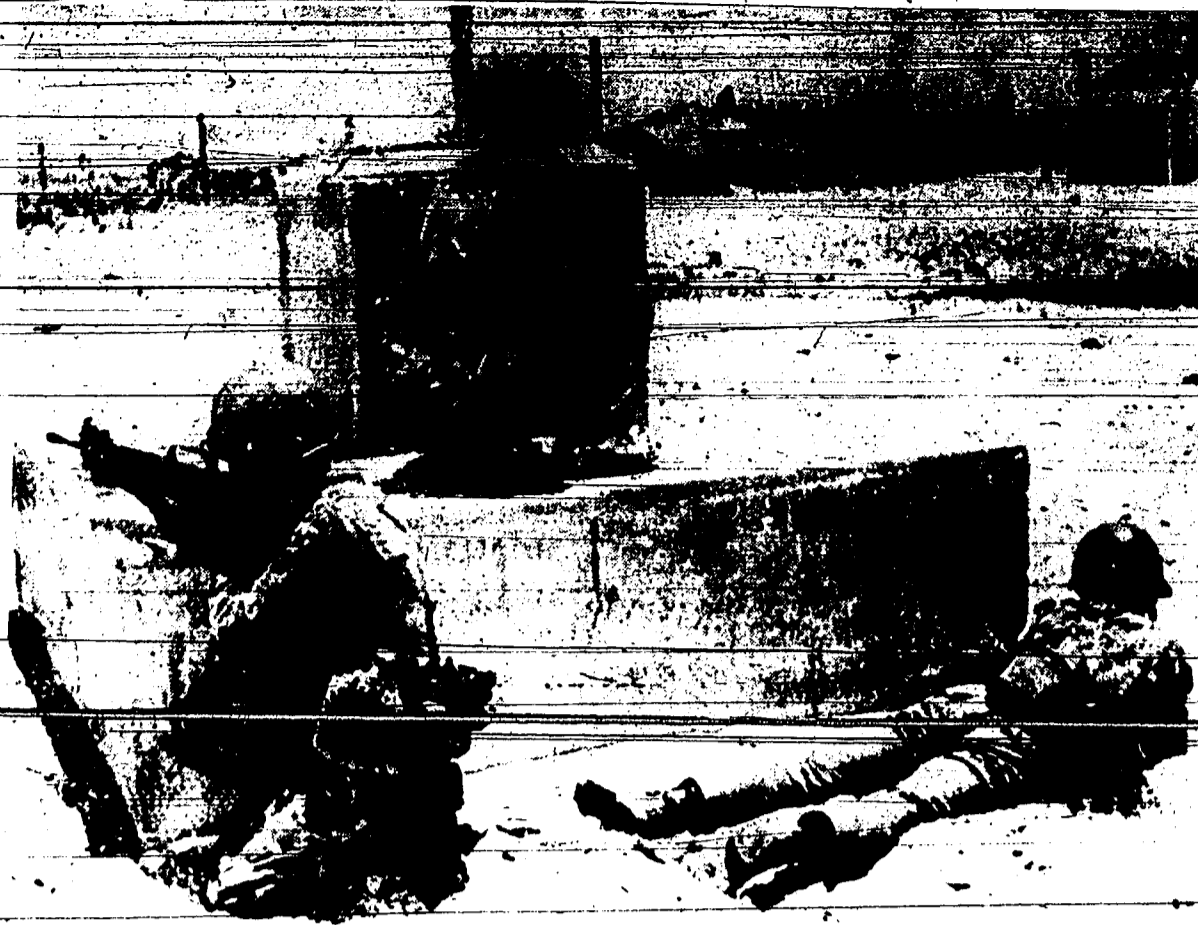

In the most daring maneuver of the precision attacks, government marines aboard U.S. helicopters whirled into an area 2 1/2 miles northwest of the city near the old Ai Tu combat base. The marines became the northernmost South Vietnamese element fighting to retake the city.

A U.S. Navy spokesman said one U.S. Marine CH53 Sea

Stallion helicopter was shot down during the Ai Tu attack and two Marine CH46 Sea Knight choppers were damaged by ground fire. The Sea Knight crews were picked up safely after landing in government-held territory but there was no word on the Sea Stallion fliers.

Eyewitnesses said about two battalions of South Vietnamese marines launched an assault in the southeastern corner of the city. There were no details of the fighting.

Fifty-seven U.S. B52 bombers dumped an estimated 1,425 tons of explosives in the upper part of South Vietnam in the 24 hours ending at noon today, spokesmen said.

SOUTH VIETNAMESE soldiers fire M-16s from cover of stone platform during house-to-house fighting on the outskirts of Quang Tri City. The 1,000-man South Vietnamese task force that moved into the battered city last week withdrew to the edge of town. (UPI)

Vatican attempts to exchange POWs

ROME (UPI)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today a Vatican attempt to arrange an exchange of prisoners of war in Vietnam has failed.

"They (the Vatican) made several attempts, directly and indirectly, to see if there is some way prisoners could be exchanged," Rogers said. "So far, (it has been) to no avail." He did not elaborate on what steps had been taken.

When he saw Pope Paul VI 13 months ago, Rogers asked him to intervene to improve the condition of U.S. prisoners of war in Vietnam and see if there was any chance of gaining their freedom.

The secretary saw the Pope for an hour today and heard the Vatican report.

Earlier, the secretary conferred for more than two hours with Italian leaders in the first official contact between the Nixon administration and the 15-day-old coalition government led by Premier Giulio Andreotti.

The Secretary of State, who originally was scheduled to fly home from Yugoslavia Sunday after a 10-day swing through Asia, the Mediterranean and East European nations, decided at the last moment to add Rome to his itinerary, extending the trip by two days.

"I think there is reason for hope," Rogers said when asked about the prospects at the Paris peace talks resuming Thursday.

He called a recent North Vietnamese offensive a failure and described the decision to mine North Vietnamese harbors and step up bombing by U.S. warplanes "unusually effective."

N. Viets want U.S. to make first peace move

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam has made clear it wants the United States to make the first move towards breaking the Vietnam peace conference deadlock when the talks resume Thursday.

Carefully choosing his words, Chief Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy said Monday it was up to the American and South Vietnamese delegations to reveal their bargaining positions.

Thuy told newsmen upon his return to Paris that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were "ready to give a favorable hearing to any new offers the Americans may wish to make in the coming days."

The veteran Communist diplomat sidestepped questions as to whether he himself would put any new offers before the conference.

He said North Vietnam stood by the Viet Cong's year-old program urging a total and unilateral U.S. military pullout plus the establishment of a new provisional cabinet in Saigon.

As to "new instructions," Thuy said, "My instructions are to come to Paris and continue the conference with the American side."

The Poor Folks

Once again a raise in social security benefits will not help the people who actually need it most.

In Idaho, the elderly on welfare find their welfare payments reduced each time the social security payments go up. In other words, an elderly person in a real time, for instance, would have the payments to that home reduced 20 per cent when the social security goes up 20 per cent.

Under this arrangement the elderly poor gain nothing. We have been critical of this situation for years but nothing has been done to correct it. Why?

Is it because the elderly poor are forgotten? If nothing is done this year by October 1 then the 20 per cent increase in social security will be of no help to those folks.

Will we see some action this time or will this unfair situation be allowed to continue?

Death Penalty

Consensus of comment seems to be that the U. S. Supreme Court's death penalty ruling seems to be less a definitive judicial prohibition of this ultimate punishment than an affirmation of the existing status quo in the U.S.: that the death penalty, through disuse, has been rendered obsolete.

The court appeared to leave open the question whether Congress and the states, if they provide reasonable criteria for decreeing an execution, can reclaim capital punishment. As Justice Stewart phrased it, the death penalty has been imposed "so wantonly and freakishly" as to be simply a matter of a defendant's luck, like being, or not being, struck by lightning.

One of the dissenters, Chief Justice Burger, argued that the Stewart position and a similar view expressed by Justice White suggested that legislatures could provide precise standards to guide judges and juries in the imposition of capital punishment. It has happened, for instance, as a result of separate trials and a lack of guidelines that the triggerman in a holdup-murder has won a life sentence from a jury while the driver of the getaway car has paid with his life.

Only two of the nine justices, Brennan and Marshall, appeared to lean to the theory that capital punishment is per se unconstitutional.

It seems unlikely, however, that there will be any legislative rush to enact effective death penalty statutes. No one has been executed in this country since 1967 as a result of the unofficial moratorium brought about by an interminable appellate process and what seems to be an official reluctance to pull the switch.

But legislatures will probably address themselves to the enactment of appropriate penalties for first degree murder to make sure that the court-reprieved killers, and those to be convicted in the future, are not returned to society with unseemly haste.

In many states, the misnamed life term is completely inadequate as a penalty for the wilful, deliberate, premeditated, or felony-connected, taking of a human life, for it permits parole after only a few years.

It will be interesting to see what transpires in Idaho.

MR. SPECTATOR

It Has Happened

The order from President Nixon that airline passengers should be searched — in view of the wave of skyjackings — was inevitable. There was no other step to take and this step will be well received by all who have their safety, and the safety of others who use the airlines, at heart.

So when you take that next trip by air you can expect things to be a little different. This will even be true at the Twin Falls Airport. Cooperation by all, however, will get the job done with a minimum of delay.

Back many years ago now it became apparent that skyjackings were not going to be a few isolated incidents, a passing threat to the traveling public that would run a brief aberrational course and go away.

As the pattern progressed from the early forced flights to asylum in Cuba to seizures for a variety of political causes to the current skyjackings for escalating ransoms, it was increasingly apparent that eventually the public was going to suffer much more than inconvenience.

At San Francisco it happened — the death of a passenger in the shoot-out between FBI agents and skyjackers.

There are many who, while regretting that death and the several injuries in that and previous incidents, will nevertheless approve the FBI's decision to meet the challenge by a frontal assault. Just as there were many who earlier applauded the Israelis in setting the hard-line precedents for the storming of hostage airliners.

Force is certainly one way of answering force.

Not many of those speaking up for force, however, are themselves involved in the business of flying passengers.

Those who know it best, the flight crews, insist the skyjacking threat be met on the ground, by adequate passenger screening and other security measures.

This was the demand directed at governments and airline managements; that took pilots out on a spottily effective worldwide strike in June.

Note: The Trumpet Has Sounded

MIAMI BEACH — The trumpet has sounded. Let the blood letting start. Where the vicious buffoonery of the Democratic National Convention will take its loyal subjects knows only God, but the atmosphere in this playpen of the arriviste suggests the party is tempted to give defeat another try.

Hatred is always a welcome guest at a national convention, but this time the big and little meannesses of the competing forces by comparison make the Byzantine maneuverings of the early Popes seem almost a wholesome exercise in campus politics. If this violence ends, historians may be forced to edit down to a few lines Al Smith's 1928 crucifixion by the bigots.

The flower and chivalry of the Democratic Party convenes not to launch a campaign for the Presidency, but to cut itself up. Forget the court rulings and convention votes on the California and Illinois challenges. The first order of business must be to try to make the Democratic nomination worth winning. Almost always before, the Democrats have slugged it out and somehow managed to get together for the big effort against their Republican enemies. Almost always, because in 1968 — Gene McCarthy's precious mob saw to it that Hubert Humphrey lost the election to Richard Nixon. That dirty business in '68 is the Democrats' problem today because it's setting modern precedent. There now are those in both George McGovern's camp and in that of the Establishment regulars, who seem determined to pick up their marbles and go home if they lose this game. Clean jeans show them how to do it.

Unfortunately, the would-be defectors who would assure Nixon's reelection are not merely faceless crazies. McGovern himself has threatened to bolt the party if someone else wins the nomination by "illegal" means. Hubert Humphrey has called McGovern a poor loser and in effect announced he could not support the Souty Dakotan unless McGovern radically alters his "radical" views on the economy and national defense.

Chicago's Dick Daley, whose Illinois is one of the states vital to a Democratic victory in November, broods sullenly over McGovern's challenge to the Daley delegates. Meanwhile, his votary eagerly passed the word to journalists that Illinois Democrats will not tolerate a McGovern candidacy. McGovern's top strategist, Frank Mankiewicz, goes about calling Humphrey an assortment of ugly names, including "a mean, destructive, failure of an old man," and utters other four-letter epithets unsuitable for publication in family newspapers. It's preposterous.

McGovern courtiers depict Humphrey as a kind of glorified Storm Trooper who would set up a back-yard barbecue police state dedicated to waging racist wars in Siberia and Malagasy.

In turn, Humphrey people announce that McGovern would deliver the country to the Kremlin. They suggest he would find Cabinet posts for the wildmen, Abby Hoffman and Jerry Rubin, in return for this odd-couple's endorsement. Although their own tiger may be Israel's leading champion, they deplore McGovern's pledge during the New York primary campaign that he would dispatch American troops to Israel if necessary to preserve that little state. There is, in this mafia-like situation, with its quick thrust of the blade, and its politically-poisoned fruit, a crying need for heroes. But so far, no hero is in sight — only politicians engaged in back-room conspiracies to rule or ruin. The credentials fight has made even reasonable men instant haters and when the process is completed they may have to call an ambulance to transport the nominees from the convention hall.

Now is the time for all good men to...

RAY CROMLEY

We Could Profit

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Nixon's aides count on the unfortunate results of Leonid Brezhnev's latest economic experiments to push the Soviet Union into greater accommodation with the United States these next five years.

If these current boggles become increasingly serious, and Nixon's experts predict they will, Brezhnev's economic problems could be a strong force for an effective follow-on agreement covering all major strategic arms and hopefully calling for cutbacks as well as ceilings.

Brezhnev's immediate problems began as the result of a decision he made about two years ago, in part to solidify his position as first secretary through increasing party control over the economy and in part to remedy the growing productivity problems that plague Soviet industry, agriculture and mining.

The Communist party has always been supreme in overall economic direction — setting quotas, prices and priorities. This has been bad enough for economic efficiency. Brezhnev has gone a step further, given the party committees in each local factory strong direct say in day-to-day operations.

The word now coming out of the Soviet Union is that this shift is not working well. Factory managers complain their authority is being undermined. They strenuously object to party interference in the selection of foremen, superintendents and department heads, in work assignments and in training methods. Party workers in each plant find themselves required to police their superiors on technical matters outside their competence. Party interference, even when it succeeds in forcing an inefficient manager to resign or to change his methods, has had unsettling effects among the workers. Professional relationships have been destroyed. Production is suffering. Each side blames the other.

Despite all this, local party committees are reported working on ways to intensify their supervision.

Nixon's economic analysts see a basic unsolvable conflict here. They are certain that these difficulties will deepend and that increasing party interference in the details of local factory production will lead to greater inefficiencies, regardless of what brilliant technological breakthroughs Soviet scientists achieve. This will make the Russians increasingly conscious of their arms burden and (if analysis here is correct) of their need for U. S. management and development skills.

ROBERT ALLEN

Pro-Israel

MIAMI BEACH — Sen. McGovern's recent hastily acquired devotion to Israel faces revealing test when the Democratic convention acts on the party's platform.

Delegates of Sen. Henry Jackson, leading Congressional champion of Israel, are set to demand a showdown on a plank strongly opposed by McGovern supporters during the Platform Committee's deliberations in Washington last week. Instead, the McGovernites put over a watered down version of the pro-Israel declaration.

Thereupon, the Jackson forces succeeded in forcing the issue directly before the convention as a whole for final determination.

They did this by securing the required 10 per cent sponsorship of the 150 Platform Committee members. The Jacksonites got more than 20 signatures on their petition, thus ensuring that the pro-Israel provision will be considered by the convention as a whole. It is as follows:

"The Democratic party pledges to maintain in Europe and at sea in the Mediterranean ample forces to deter the Soviet Union from putting unbearable pressure on Israel."

Sen. Jackson and his delegates will vigorously urge that this declaration be added to the Middle East plank approved by the Platform Committee. As watered down by the McGovernites, it reads:

"Maintain a political commitment and military force in the area ample to deter the Soviet Union from using military force in the area."

Sen. Jackson holds this is "meagrimouth" and "unacceptable."

All the inside indications are that the plain-taling Washington State Senator and his convention supporters are determined to wage a tough fight to rewrite the innocuous plank.

Such a bare-knuckle scrap could bring into the open the charges which played an important role in last month's California and New York primaries that McGovern has an equivocal record on Israel. This accusation unquestionably cost him heavily in Jewish centers.

Illustration: Instead of carrying California by a resounding 20 point margin as was widely predicted, McGovern topped Sen. Humphrey only 44 to 39 per cent. Similarly, in New York, three ultra-left Congressional candidates strongly endorsed by McGovern were defeated in Jewish districts.

Apparently belatedly aware of his vulnerability on the Israeli issue, Sen. McGovern has run for cover.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

A Junkie

A few weeks ago I wrote a column explaining what heroin does to a person who takes it, and I ended with the question, "What compulsion makes thousands upon thousands take the first, second or third shot of heroin?"

To date I have received only one answer, and even that was anonymous. I'll print it for what it's worth, if anything.

"Dear Dr. Thosteson: Why do 1,000s take heroin?"

"Because society, per se, is a failure."

"All the leaders, local, state and national, are speaking with a forked tongue."

"Because my parents make me sick drinking."

"To escape from reality. To have a few hrs. of high."

"But since you belong to the establishment, etc., you won't dare print this."

"Our parents made us what we are. I KNOW."

"Because so-called Christianity is hypocritical and a failure."

"Because there is no reason to desire to be in with the establishment."

"We can't rap with our parents. They're too busy drinking and committing triple adultery and condemning the younger generation."

"I've been there. Now you know why."

"Yeah, my anonymous correspondent. Now I know why! It's all somebody else's fault! But just how do drugs correct any of that?"

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have recently been stricken with an ear disease in my right ear called "tinnitus." My other ear has been deaf since girlhood. Can you tell me anything about it, and is it really incurable? — D. H.

"Tinnitus" isn't strictly a disease. It's a symptom — ringing or other such sounds in the ears. Or in one ear. I can't say it is "incurable," because in a good many cases the ringing noises can be stopped or made much less annoying. In other cases, nothing can be done, except to learn a couple of tricks to make the noises less bothersome.

Sometimes ear disorders are found to be the cause; sometimes high blood pressure is responsible, and relief depends on lowering the blood pressure; yet again, some commonly used drugs can be the cause. Aspirin is one of them.

True, tinnitus is the technical name for this problem, but for simplicity's sake I've long called it "ear noises." You may well benefit by sending 15 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for my booklet, "Ear Noises: Their Causes and Cures."

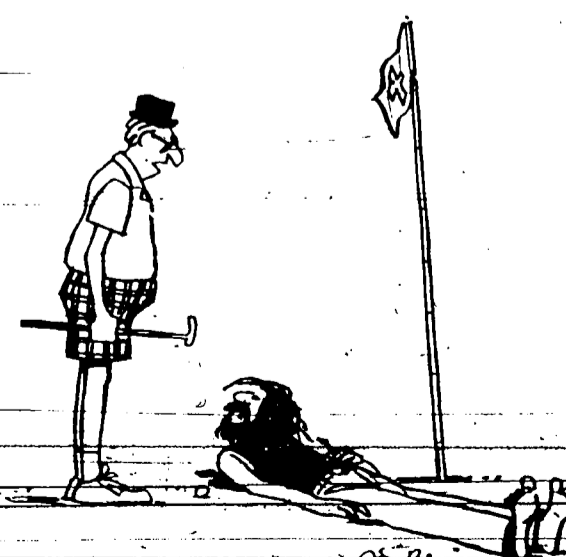

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you explain the cause of an autistic child and if there is any cure? — A. D. M.

The autistic child is one with a certain type of emotional problem, too involved for me to try to explain here. In this case, all I can do is suggest that a child psychiatrist be consulted as to care and treatment of the youngster.

Note to Mrs. M. E. C.: Pregnancy is quite possible with only one ovary, if it is active and healthy. Tests should be made to see whether the Fallopian tube is open. Your particular situation is so complicated that I would not try to assess the chances of your becoming pregnant. Your gynecologist might.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of the booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Please enclose a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

TF LID projects begin on streets

TWIN FALLS — Reconstruction and improvement of parts of nine Twin Falls streets under a half-million dollar Local Improvement District project began today.

The work, which includes street reconstruction, installation of drains and catch basins, curbs, gutters and sidewalks, will continue on an accelerated basis with all streets to be paved and completed by Sept. 28.

Neilsen and Co., contractors, will be announcing detours and area closures during the projects. The construction contract is in the amount of $484,278.25.

City Manager Jean Millar said today the first streets to be brought under reconstruction are Russell and Shoshone streets. Work on Russell will run from South Park Avenue to the railroad tracks to the north.

Equipment was scheduled to move to the site today with excavation and demolition work to go on by July 17.

Along with railroad crossing drains, curb and gutter will be completed by July 21 and the asphalt will be placed by Aug. 2.

On Shoshone Street, reconstruction will run from Second Avenue North and East to Sixth Avenue North and East. Excavation and demolition was scheduled to begin today and be completed by Aug. 4. Manholes and catch basins will be constructed from July 26 to Aug. 2. The entire street is scheduled for completion by Aug. 29.

Millar said the industrial area will not include sidewalks, but Shoshone Street will include some sidewalks. In the business area where full sidewalks run from the curb to the building, only the outside sidewalk is being replaced by the local improvement district.

Persons wishing to replace the walk areas adjacent to their business buildings may contact Neilsen and Co. and make arrangements for the additional work at their own expense. Millar said. Sidewalk and driveway work on Shoshone Street is scheduled from Aug. 9 to 15.

Other projects beginning in the immediate future will include South Park Avenue from Washington Street west to the city limits. Work on this street begins Friday and will be completed by mid-August.

Other parts of the project include Locust Street from Heyburn to Fourth Avenue East, scheduled to begin the first week in August and be completed Sept. 14. The same work schedule applies to Elizabeth Boulevard from Locust to Madrona Streets.

Glendale, a short section of Street, and Sunrise Boulevard from Heyburn to Shoup Avenues will be under reconstruction Aug. 16 to Sept. 14.

Martin Street and a small section of Morningside will be started Aug. 17 and completed Sept. 26. Martin Street improvements will extend from Addison Avenue West to Heyburn Avenue.

Millar said improvement of structures over Eighth Avenue Lateral, where reconstruction programs are scheduled, will be completed this fall and winter to avoid interference with irrigation water delivery.

He said residents of Twin Falls are asked for patience and understanding during the reconstruction program.

"Because of the nature of the work, these projects come during hot, dusty weather and there will be some inconveniences and unpleasant conditions."

"We are certain when the project is complete residents will agree it was worth the inconvenience of the construction period," he said.

Millar said the downtown area which is now a functional and attractive area is an example of what can be accomplished by reconstruction work.

Schedules, he said, are furnished by the contractor to keep the public informed on what the work plans are at this time. They are preliminary and may be modified as work progresses.

No evidence

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise Police arson investigation has found no evidence to indicate arson in a fire at the unoccupied Idaho Old Soldiers Home.

The Boise fire department responded Sunday night with three trucks and 10 firemen.

Firemen at the scene said the fire started in the basement of the building and at that time they thought arson may have been involved.

Carr, 6 others charged by jury

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Former Texas Attorney General Waggoner Carr and six others were charged Monday with using funds from one of their own insurance firms to pay off personal debts in excess of $582,000.

The firm, National Bankers Life, went bankrupt. The federal indictment was the first criminal action against Carr to come out of the Texas stock fraud scandal although he was a defendant in a civil suit filed 18 months ago by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The grand jury for the Northern District of Texas, sitting in Fort Worth but investigating under a Dallas venue, returned the indictments against Carr, his law partner John Osorio, Joseph P. Novotny, Tom Max Thomas and David Hooper. They had all been named in the SEC's suit of Jan. 18, 1971.

Also indicted were Houston attorney Thano Demaris and Dallas attorney Jarrell B. Ormond.

The grand jury accused Carr, attorney general from 1963 to 1966, and Osorio, a former Texas state insurance commissioner, with first borrowing $550,000 from the City Bank and Trust Co., which at the time was controlled by central stock scandal figure Frank Sharp of Houston.

The government said the pair used the money to buy a controlling block of stock in the South Atlantic Co. of Tampa, Fla.

Later, the indictment said, they borrowed another $550,000 from the Exchange Bank of Dallas and put up the assets of National Bankers Life as collateral.

The indictment also said they were unable to pay back the loan from their stock investment deal, so they covered it with another loan. The second loan was made from the Exchange Bank of Dallas, and the men are accused of putting up the assets of National Bankers Life as collateral for this loan.

Carr, the Democratic Party's candidate for senator who lost to Sen. John Tower in 1966 and a candidate for governor who ran third in the 1968 Democratic primary, could get up to 99 years in prison if convicted on all 21 counts.

Carr, Osorio and Novotny, a former president of the Sharpstown State Bank of Houston, were indicted on 10 counts of mail fraud and two counts of wire fraud.

Carr, Osorio, Thomas, Hooper, Ormond and Demaris were indicted on two counts of filing false reports to SEC, four counts of fraud in the sale of securities, four counts of mail fraud and one count of conspiracy.

Watermelon bombing proves to be hoax

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The 51-pound watermelon weapon was grown by the Pitdown man with seeds he bought for a $3 bill from one of Orson Wells' Martian invaders. In other words, it was phony.

The detectives who thought up the hoax may have plenty of time to eat their enormous watermelon—on the picnics they can go on while they are suspended without pay.

Local newspapers, radio and television stations, and national news agencies picked up the tale of the "assault with a deadly watermelon" promulgated Sunday by 77th district stationhouse.

According to the story, one "O.C. Henry," had an argument over a waitress with his girlfriend, "Ofena Jones." As police told it, Henry stalked angrily from the house, but the "unforgiving" Ofena called to him from an upstairs window. As Henry looked up, Miss Jones let fly with a 51-pound watermelon, which smashed him to earth.

The watermelon was supposed to have survived the impact undamaged, but not so Henry, who was hospitalized.

Area meet postponed

BURLEY — The meeting between Western Ambulance officials and the Cassia County commissioners scheduled for 8 a.m. Monday was postponed until 10 a.m. today.

About 25 interested persons arrived to attend the Monday meeting but the commissioners had not been informed about the meeting so it was re-scheduled.

Roger Porter, owner-manager of Western Ambulance, requested a subsidy from the county in January when the budget was being prepared. The commissioners refused the request at that time. Western Ambulance will again make the subsidy request of the commissioners.

with broken ribs, collarbone and punctured lung, while detectives hunted for Miss Jones.

There is no Miss Jones. Nor does the O.C. Henry in the police report exist. There was no watermelon bombing.

But there is a big watermelon, and that, it appears, inspired the tale.

As police investigators tell it: Patrolman Gary Lowden and his partner, Larry Whitman, brought the giant watermelon to the stationhouse Saturday. They had bought it, and intended to split it later and take it home.

As other officers came and went, they asked questions about the presence of the big watermelon. A few bored lieutenants began telling other officers to keep their hands off the watermelon "to preserve the fingerprints. We're booking it as evidence in an assault case."

The story grew. The jollity spread. Finally, to howls of laughter from his colleagues, one officer sat down and composed a fictitious crime report, starring "exhibit A," the watermelon.

By midnight, the tale had grown, like Pinocchio's nose and a reporter called the station to ask if anything was happening.

"Not much, except for a guy who got hit on the head with a 51-pound watermelon dropped by his girlfriend," replied an officer, reading the crime report.

"It really isn't funny," said a spokesman for the department. "It's quite embarrassing. We've checked it out and there isn't a seed of truth to it."

He said later shifts may have been fooled by the phony crime report, and innocently passed the story along. An investigation now being conducted may result in suspensions, he added.

Another demand made before chess play starts

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —

The $250,000 world championship chess match between American Bobby Fischer and Russia's Boris Spassky was still going today, but Fischer made a last minute demand to stop televising the first of the scheduled 24-game series.

"There will be no tv filming tonight, but we hope some other arrangements can be made so they can film later during the match," said Fred Cramer, vice president of the U. S. Chess Federation.

Fischer said the television cameras, hidden behind cloth-covered scaffolding above the stage where the players will sit, would distract him.

Fischer's opponent, world champion Boris Spassky, said he was ready to play. "Everything is fine with me," said the popular Russian.

Cramer said earlier that Fischer was "go, go go."

The first game was scheduled to start at 5 p.m. (1 p.m. EDT) with Fischer the experts' favorite but Spassky far ahead in the popularity poll.

Both men made final inspection tours of the sports arena where the match will be played. Fischer made an unannounced tour early in the day and Spassky strolled in at noon (8 a.m. EDT).

Spassky studied the chess board and picked out a chair from among several provided by the Reykjavik furniture stores. Fischer earlier had his favorite chair flown in from New York.

Fischer earlier complained about a number of details in the hall, including he lighting, the chess board and the size of the chess pieces, the television cameras and the thickness of the window drapes.

To accommodate Fischer, the lighting was dimmed and the first row of spectator seats was moved farther away from the stage so the nearest spectator would be about 25 yards away.

An unofficial poll among chess experts assembled in Reykjavik showed the 29-year-old Fischer the favorite. But most of Iceland's 210,000 chess-mad citizens were behind Spassky.

Only a few weeks ago the fans of Iceland were with the unpredictable American but he lost his popularity quickly when he demanded more money and failed to show up in time for the scheduled July 2 start of the match.

While Fischer was in New York demanding more money, Spassky was walking the streets of Reykjavik patting children on the head, conversing with local chess players and piling up points in the prematch popularity contest.

The prize money was raised from the original $125,000 to $250,000 through a wealthy British banker named Jim Slater who came up with more cash to save the match.

Richfield school trustee sworn in RICHFIELD — Bruce Sorensen was sworn in as the Richfield School trustee from Zone 4 during the regular school board meeting Monday night.

He will serve until the next regular trustee election, next May, when the vacancy will be filled for the remaining two years of the term.

A tie vote in the recent election caused the board to appoint a member until a new election can be held. Sorensen tied with Carol Pugh in last May's election.

The board hired Colleen Csee, Coeur d'Alene, to teach third grade. Miss Csee attended North Idaho Junior College at Coeur d'Alene, and graduated from Idaho State University with a major in elementary education major and music minor.

Also hired was Larry Newlan as janitor. He and his wife are from Castleford and have three children. LaRae Brown was rehired as bus mechanic and driver. Other busdrivers hired were Mrs. Carol Peterson and Mrs. Regina Erwin, and James Welhausen, relief driver.

Supt. Neil Andreason announced that school will begin Aug. 28 and end May 23.

Weekend rockfest peaceful

LONG POND, Pa. (UPI)—It was the biggest and most peaceful rock festival since Woodstock. More than 200,000 people braved the rains, mud, lack of toilet facilities and cheap wine at Pocono International Raceway over the weekend.

Despite massive traffic jams and several minor accidents, state police reported the rock fans were well controlled. Marijuana and hard drugs were available, but police said use was not extensive.

By Sunday afternoon, only a few stragglers remained to pick up broken glass and rake up garbage on the 600-acre track. The festival was to last only one day, but was extended when rain forced rock bands from the open stage Saturday night.

"On a scale of 10, I'd have to give them a 9.9," said raceway manager Bill Marvel. "A lot of people hear about other concerts, but this was the first I've been involved with and we're very happy about it."

The biggest problem at the concert was traffic. State police said major highways through the resort area were closed because some fans parked their cars on them when the spaces ran out at the raceway.

While there were no serious injuries at the festival, Dennis Fennell, 17, Wallingford, N.J. was killed Saturday in a car accident near the site.

At Monroe County Hospital, 15 persons were treated for minor cuts and bruises.

Frasier alive and well in park

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI)—Frasier the lion may not look like it, but he is well.

His fans were worried for a while. Nothing had happened for more than two months, and people were beginning to wonder. Had the charm disappeared? And what about the energy?

Had Frasier lost his touch? Not so. But the doddering old beast, who has fathered 33 cubs in less than a year and a half, had his human friends on edge for a while. For 2-1-2 months there were no new cubs.

But then Frasier became a grandfather and Frasier, not to be outmatched, fathered two more cubs of his own.

Frasier heads a pride of 11 lionesses. Even during his inactivity, they still pranced about, purring contentedly and catering to their patriarch. They still fetched his food and placed it at his feet, and propped him up when Frasier took a backsliding to stool about.

Frasier had assumed control of the pride only as a last resort—after five younger and stronger lions were mauled one by one by the fussy lionesses. His success as a lover made him a national sex symbol. He was honored in Congress. He was called "Father of the Year."

A few persons even cast their votes for "Frasier for President" in the California primary. Business at the park where he prowls for the public boomed 22 per cent!

All because a nearly toothless old lion with a hide like a motheaten carpet managed to do what no other lion could. He took a disorganized assortment of temperamental ladies and whipped them into an efficient, swiftly growing and contented family.

The charm of it all was Frasier was pushing the human equivalent of 100 years old. The muscles in his mouth had given out during his stint as a circus lion in Mexico, his tongue flopped about incessantly and he suffered from rheumatism, arthritis and a sorrowful case of bleary eyes. Just before the fears arose that Frasier might be through, a doubting reporter spent a whole day watching the Frasier phenomenon. By the time the sun went down, the venerable lion had mated 22 times.

"And each time, you'd think it was his last," said a spokesman for Lion Country Safari, where Frasier roams in a compound with 1,500 other animals. "But he really doesn't have much choice. No sooner does he finish and fall asleep with his feet sticking straight up and his tongue hanging in the dirt, than one of the lionesses begins seducing him."

And then there was a string of good news. One of Frasier's first cubs sired his own youngster, making the old patriarch a grandfather. Not to be outdone, two of Frasier's wives suddenly turned up in the maternity ward. In his honor, a whiskey manufacturer created the "Frasier." Its ingredients? Simply a shot of Old Granddad mixed with passion fruit.

Most suntan preparations contain a lubricant. This helps to keep skin from drying out too quickly, say medical authorities.

Protestants threaten war against IRA

By COLIN BAKER
BELFAST (UPI) — Militant Protestants today threatened civil war against the Irish Republican Army (IRA) unless British troops take the offensive.

The paramilitary Ulster Defense Association said it would stay out of the fighting providing martial law was imposed.

The UDA, whose leaders claim they can call up 25,000 men, denounced the 13-day IRA cease-fire which ended Sunday. They called on Northern Ireland Secretary William Whitelaw not to negotiate with the IRA, "who are nothing but murderers and rebels."

"Unless the army take the initiative, we will take steps to eliminate the IRA ourselves and consequently we shall be known then not as the UDA, but as the UDA-Ulster Offense Association," the statement said.

A rank-and-file IRA member commented: "This is the sort of thing we have been expecting for some time now. We're not really worried but we see it as our clear duty to defend our areas."

The body of a young man, hooded and gagged, was found early today in Carlisle Circus, a predominantly Protestant neighborhood, in what was apparently a vengeance killing.

His death raised the toll for almost three years of bloodshed in Northern Ireland to 418 dead.

Sporadic gunfire continued through the night in several areas of Belfast, and just after midnight a 100-pound bomb demolished shops near the Roman Catholic Unity Flats housing block. One bystander was slightly injured.

Five persons were treated at Belfast's Royal Victoria hospital today for wounds suffered in Monday's all-day battles.

Among the injured were a 3-1-2 year-old girl and a woman of 30.

The UDA statement said the Protestants would accept imposition of martial law, and if this were done, would avoid involvement in the fighting.

Political sources said White-law discussed this possibility with Gen. Sir Harry Tuzo, military commander in Northern Ireland, at a meeting Monday.

Meanwhile British troop reinforcements rushed to the province to deal with the escalating violence and anticipated sectarian trouble Wednesday when Protestants celebrate the 1690 Battle of the Boyne, the victory that assured Northern Ireland would remain overwhelmingly Protestant.

By Wednesday, an army spokesman said there would be more than 17,000 British soldiers in the province, the highest total in the three years the army has been responsible for security.

THE WRECKAGE of a stolen car which was blown apart by a bomb lies on Lombard Street in Belfast. Five persons, including a baby and three girls, were injured in the blast. A local newspaper received a phone call warning of the bomb. (UPI)

Fed welfare planners urge state trackers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal welfare planners are urging states to use local private credit bureaus to spot welfare cheaters and track down deserting fathers.

They also are conferring with a national private credit company on how to improve government welfare investigating methods.

Federal law protects the confidentiality of an individual's welfare records. But UPI learned today that the Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) Department last week sent new welfare guidelines to the states that, said, in part, "the feasibility of the utilization of credit bureaus as a source of information regarding savings or income should be explored."

Richard Nathan, the administration's chief welfare planner, said the use of credit firms was one of the methods being explored for improving welfare management.

"We haven't made a final decision on this possible approach," Nathan said.

Federal welfare officials recently attended meetings in Albany, N.Y., and Atlanta, Ga., with representatives of Retail Credit Company, Inc. They discussed how the firm could help in welfare investigations and in providing information about a recipient's financial resources.

Retail Credit, federal officials said, recently tracked down for a Cincinnati, Ohio, agency 30 per cent of the agency's list of absent welfare fathers.

A spokesman for the firm in Atlanta confirmed reports of its discussions with the government.

General testifies

ZRIFIN, Israel (UPI) — An army general testified today he offered Kozo Okamoto a pistol so he could commit suicide in exchange for a confession about his part in the Lod Airport massacre.

Maj. Gen. Rehavam Ze'evi said he offered a pistol with one bullet in its chamber to Okamoto a week after the May 30 massacre that left 26 persons dead and 70 injured.

The general said the pistol in exchange for the confession was contained in a pact, written in the form of a legal agreement, signed by him and Okamoto. But the exchange was never made, Ze'evi said, because Okamoto "wasn't telling the truth" about his part in the slaughter.

The court ordered Ze'evi to produce the agreement within two days.

"I warned him that if he didn't tell the truth I would leave the room as he was not as frank as he promised," Ze'evi testified. "I made a unilateral decision that our agreement was null and void and since he wasn't telling the truth, he wouldn't get the pistol from me. He tried to convince me but I didn't heed his plea and just left the room without coming back."

Defense attorney Max Kritzman claimed Monday, the first day of Okamoto's trial, that the 24-year-old Japanese was duped into signing the pact. The military tribunal hearing the case ordered Ze'evi's appearance today on Kritzman's request.

"He was promised that if he made a declaration, he would be able to commit suicide—that he would be able to die by way of a pistol put at his table," Kritzman said. "The written agreement was signed by Ze'evi. My client believed it would be kept and he was talked into making a confession because of this agreement."

Kritzman in a surprise move asked the three-man court Monday to call Ze'evi, whose central command includes the Lod area. The court granted the request.

Okamoto earlier Monday ignored Kritzman's advice and pleaded guilty to the four charges facing him, three of which carry the death penalty. The tribunal all but ignored him saying it would not consider Okamoto's admission a formal plea of guilty. Kritzman said he pleaded Okamoto innocent so the court could not render an immediate verdict.

Police search

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Police officials have assigned 10 extra detectives to an "around-the-clock, check-out-all-leads" search for two men who gouged out the eyes of two robbery victims.

Police identified the latest victim as Robert Paro, 19, of Rochester. He was attacked and blinded by two robbers Sunday night as he worked at a Main Street gas station.

Authorities said two men took Paro down a side street, robbed him of $10, gouged out one of his eyes and injured the other. He was in critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital.

Earlier Sunday, a lone robber who resembled one of Paro's assailants gouged out the eyes of Samuel C. Schafer, 72, also of Rochester, police said.

State officials fight Fed ruling

By RICHARD HUGHES
DETROIT (UPI) — State officials rallied today for a fight against a Federal court ruling requiring them to buy 295 buses for possible cross-district busing to achieve racially balanced metropolitan schools.

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley called an abrupt halt to his stay at the convention in Miami Beach and flew back to Michigan to take charge of the state's legal response to the ruling issued by U.S. District Judge Stephen J. Roth.

In his ruling, Roth ignored protests from state attorneys who argued the purchase request was unreasonable and that the state could not afford the $1 million it would cost for the buses.

Instead, Roth indicated he and the 11-member panel he commissioned to devise a workable integration plan would move at a fast pace to integrate Detroit and its suburban schools.

He also denied the state's request to delay further action on the Detroit case pending the outcome of appeals of his ruling last September that Detroit's predominantly black schools are deliberately segregated.

The 295 buses, at about $10,000 apiece, could be used to transport approximately 20,000 students to an interim desegregation plan for Detroit and 52 predominantly white suburbs.

The purchase of the buses was recommended by the panel created to draw up a city-to-suburb desegregation plan involving only elementary schools this fall and a "full and complete plan by September 1973." The plan would involve a huge metropolitan district of about 800,000 students—one-third of the state's student enrollment—in Detroit and its suburbs.

The judge's order put a stop to claims that the desegregation ruling was inconceivable from an operational standpoint because the state did not have enough vehicles to transport students from school to school.

Now, state officials say they don't have the money to pay for the buses, and Eugene Krasicky, assistant Michigan attorney general, said he's afraid the state will be stuck with 295 buses it doesn't need if Roth desegregation ruling is reversed by higher courts.

But Roth said he feels he has a "50-50" chance of being upheld and even if he is reversed, the buses could be used in an integration plan for Detroit only—one that excludes the suburbs and cross-district busing.

Why doesn't somebody else make a whiskey taste soft? It's a free country.

It took us many years, thousands of tests and millions of dollars to come up with a soft whiskey. To do it we had to break a lot of whiskey-making traditions. We think you'll find the end result was well worth it.

Strangers lend hand to anglers

RICHTFIELD — Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Lee, Richtfield, said there are still a few citizens willing to lend a hand to strangers.

This week-end they went fishing at Wood River Dam, and awakened Saturday morning to find their boat and two motors as well as their fishing gear, at the bottom of the reservoir. They had tied the boat up at the dock but wind-driven waves capsized it, still tied to the dock, and it sank in several feet of water.

Lee said two other fishermen in the area, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Johnson, Rupert, who owned a four-wheel drive pickup, used their ropes to assist in retrieving the craft. Ralph Short, also of Rupert, arrived a bit later and contributed the use of chains to complete the task.

When it was finally righted, the boat, motors, fishing poles and even the boat trailer's spare tire were all recovered. Life jackets had floated ashore and were also recovered.

Soviets plan glamorous wedding ceremony Oct. 12

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union's most glamorous wedding in a generation will take place Oct. 12 when a Spanish nobleman and the beautiful blonde daughter of a Uruguayan diplomat, both Roman Catholics, marry in one of Moscow's most picturesque Russian Orthodox churches.

The unprecedented ceremony—courtesy of the Primate of All Russia and an American Roman Catholic chaplain—is scheduled for Moscow's Trinity Church in the Lenin Hills overlooking the Moscow River.

The bride-to-be is Carmen Posadas-Montero, 18-year-old daughter of Uruguayan ambassador to Moscow Luis Posadas-Montero. Her fiancé is Rafael Ruiz Cueto, a Spanish aristocrat who met in Madrid where Posadas-Montero just completed six years as ambassador.

Patriarch Pimen, primate of the Russian Orthodox Church, authorized the Rev. Joseph Richards, a chaplain serving foreign Roman Catholics in Moscow, to perform the ceremony in Trinity Church. Richards is an American.

Pimen's dispensation making the wedding possible has no precedent in Soviet history.

The wedding of Valentina Tereshkova, the Soviet Union's only woman Cosmonaut, to fellow space hero Andrian Nikolayev in 1963 with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev on the scene was the last big glamorous Soviet wedding.

But for Moscow's foreign community, Carmen and Rafael's wedding promises to bring back the glamor of the czars for at least an afternoon.

A chartered plane will bring 100 diplomats, political leaders and socialites from Madrid, where the couple is still staying. Another 30 guests will arrive from Uruguay, where Posadas-Montero served twice as a member of parliament and as secretary of the national council of government.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Have I got a problem? I am stunned. My wife went to another state to attend our great-granddaughter's graduation. I told her I'd stay home and keep myself busy dating some of the lonely widows in our church. She said it was okay with her.

Well, I called one up and asked her for a dinner date, and she said yes. The next morning she telephoned so early she woke me up to say she had changed her mind, and what kind of woman did I think she was, anyway?

Abby, she is a member of our Sisterhood, and I am a member of the Brotherhood, and there is certainly nothing wrong with a brother taking a sister out for dinner, is there?

She sounded scared to death! And at my age yet. I am over 80. I honestly wish she had something to be afraid of. I assure you she hasn't. She nor anybody else.

REBUKED, IN SUN CITY

DEAR REBUKED: Never mind you. How old is SHE?

DEAR ABBY: My name is Annie and I am 12 years old. My mother died when I was eight, and I had no daddy either. No one wanted to give me a home, not a soul, except one lady who came to my mother's funeral. She was very nice to me and asked me to come and live with her. I stayed with her for a year, and she treated me very mean. I had to wash clothes at night, and take care of six little kids all day. If I complained, she beat me with a leather strap. Once she got me ready to send me to an orphan's home, but I heard it was like a jail there so I got down on my hands and knees and begged her to keep me and raise me, so she let me stay.

This lady kept me out of school so much to help with the other kids, my teacher sent for her and said if I was absent one more time she would have to hold me back, so this lady said, "Leave her back," then she purposely made me stay home from school again, and now the teacher is going to leave me back.

Oh, Abby, by the help of the Lord Almighty, I don't know what I am going to do now. Please tell your readers if their mother and father die, don't pick the person who pretends to be the best person at the funeral to live with or else they will end up being treated like a dog. What shall I do?

ANNIE

DEAR ANNIE: I want to help you, but you did not sign your last name, neither did you give me an address. No child has to be treated like a dog. Please tell me how to get in touch with you.

DEAR ABBY: While reading "DEAR ABBY" I came across the letter from NOT SO DUMB, who puts all her "white elephant" gifts in a box and gives them to others on gift-giving occasions.

Last Christmas, Abby, something very nice happened around our office. One of the girls heard of a sorority that collected body powder, colognes, wallets, scarves (wrong color) etc., things that people had received as gifts and couldn't use or didn't want. This sorority distributed these items to rest homes for the older residents who were forgotten by friends and family. The recipients LOVED each gift. Nice idea?

HAPPY DONOR

DEAR DONOR: Nicer than nice! I hope it's contagious.

DEAR ABBY: I have a beaut of a squelcher for people who ask me, "How come you aren't married?" I reply, "I'm just lucky, I guess." That stops them cold!

Versatile jacket returns to scene

SHOSHONE — One of the key "looks" for this summer is the jacket, notes Mrs. Jean Annett, extension home economist, Shoshone.

The jacket has returned in several designs and is making a popular comeback because of its versatility. It can be worn with dresses, pants or skirts. For daytime wear, look for the bold weave of tablecloth plaids. And other popular fabrics are plaid seersucker, flax tweed, chino cloth and sharkskin. Red, white and blue in a nautical theme is both practical and easy to accessorize.

Besides the blazer, another jacket design to consider is the military style. Look for details such as roomy flap pockets, with shirt construction in these designs. Back or pattern-on-pattern designed fabrics.

And don't forget the Peking jacket, with a fabric or cord frog closing down the front or side.

A Lovelier You

AIR-CONDITIONING

By Mary Sue Miller

What's your system for keeping cool? It's surprising how many of us cling to outdated ideas on the subject that cause us avoidable discomfort and disarray.

These are cool facts: Scanty attire will not keep you cool on town or city streets. Neither will dark coverings like jeans with murky clinging bodysuits. This carries on down to bare feet in flimsy strap sandals.

Acting like a thermostat to regulate the body's own cooling mechanism is non-constricting clothing—light-weight, light-colored, absorbent and cover-up. Thus a brimmed straw hat, long-sleeved cotton voile dress, sheer pale stockings and ventilated kid pumps perform like a personal air-conditioning system.

You'll know that is so when you think how desert nomads always wear white. Our own researchers have worked with weight and colors, and proven light shades in thin fabrics to be coolers.

"Non-constricting" apparel is vital to the scheme. Tight underpinnings or collars, armholes, and belts not only make for heat but for chafe.

Over and above clothing, a mere film of makeup and a sleek hairdo are cool and look it. The gels offer the skin a natural, healthy finish in summer. Protein pomade polishes and smooths your locks into place. Add just a touch of ferny cologne and you will be the cool one.

STRICTLY PERSONAL

Everything you need to know about deodorants, anti-perspirants and depilatories is contained in my leaflet, STRICTLY PERSONAL. All doubts are cleared up about why, what, when and how to use these safeguards of femininity. During the course of their short marriage, the late Al and Helen Sobel did not play much bridge together. After all, Helen was winning tournaments and Al was directing them. Perhaps some people blame their divorce on the hands they did play together.

If so, this hand is not a case in point. They defended it as well as a hand can be defended.

The game was rubber bridge and Al and Helen held the bad cards that each one claimed to hold most of the time.

Al got off to the normal lead of the heart jack. The deuce was played from dummy and Helen took her ace.

She studied awhile and decided that the contract could only be defeated if Al held the right cards in spades. Then she led her queen of spades.

South played low and Al dropped the 10. Helen continued with the eight and, when declarer ducked again, Al was able to play his seven and leave Helen on lead for another spade play. The defense had four spade tricks and declarer a headache.

"Beautiful spade play, Al," said Helen.

"What spade play?" replied Al. "I have to confess I did not find the seven of spades until trick three."

Preliminary pomp: avenue of flags opens Democratic Convention

McGovern 'strategist'

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — George S. McGovern, once shrugged off as a political neophyte, proved today he can match strategy with the wildest of professionals on their own turf.

In an amazing display of maneuvering, McGovern perfectly orchestrated the Democratic National Convention Monday night and early today. His reward was to recapture the entire 271-member California delegation.

The first credentials challenge involved the state of South Carolina. Backed by McGovern, an insurgent group sought to seat a delegation with more women.

To McGovern, the key in the South Carolina challenge was not winning or losing. It was to prevent the winning vote, whoever won, from falling between 1,496 and 1,509.

Keeping the final tally out of this narrow range was important because of the party's ruling that in the case of South Carolina, a majority was 1,496 and not the absolute majority of 1,509. Had the final figure been between these two, anti-McGovern forces would have had a chance to appeal the party ruling and perhaps establish a precedent that an absolute majority (1,509) governed.

McGovern did not want the confrontation to come on South Carolina. He wanted to wait until California, on which he pinned all his hopes and where he had his greatest strength.

As the roll call on the South Carolina challenge went on, it became apparent that the vote could fall into the danger zone. As Ohio delegates wrangled on what vote to announce for their group, McGovern started relinquishing votes.

One by one, delegation chairmen rose to announce changes in state totals—small, seemingly insignificant changes—giving anti-McGovern forces additional votes. Doing this, they lost the South Carolina challenge but they put the opposition's total well over 1,509.

McGovern had averted the confrontation he did not want.

So successful was the McGovern play that Hubert H. Humphrey's strategists first thought they had won a key test vote on the South Carolina challenge. Only when a computer printout of the roll call told them what had happened did they realize McGovern had outmaneuvered them.

With South Carolina out of the way, well-disciplined McGovern delegates steamrolled the Humphrey coalition on California and easily crushed an appeal.

Humor en Espanol

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Convention Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien asked them to keep their good humor, and they did, in the wee hours of the first session.

There even was a debate, of sorts, in Spanish. When it came New Mexico's turn on one of the roll call votes, it was announced that "New Mexico, la tierra del encanto land of enchantment votes ..."

A few minutes later, Puerto Rico had a reply: "Puerto Rico," that delegation announced, "que tambien tiene su encanto, votes ..."

That is to say, Puerto Rico, "which also has its enchantment, votes ..."

Demo fight ho-hum affair for Nixon

By EUGENE V. RISHER

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon had a television set installed in his office but looked at it only sporadically as the Democrats went about the business of picking his opponent.

"The President doesn't plan to lose any sleep this week over the convention," Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler told newsmen. He said Nixon will follow developments on television "as time permits" but will get most of his news from the newspapers.

Nixon, who has been quietly planning his own re-election strategy with top aides during a two-week working vacation here, scheduled a session today with his budget manager, Caspar Weinberger, to talk about what surely will be one of the issues in the forthcoming political debate—spending by the Democratic-dominated Congress which the White House feels aggravates inflation problems.

Protest rises again

By DAVID L. LANGFORD

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Youthful antiwar protesters waving Viet Cong flags stormed the gates at convention hall Monday night but were turned back by riot police with nightsticks and mace.

Chanting "open the door, open the damned door," about 400 demonstrators ripped down an 80-foot section of chain-link fence guarding the hall where the Democrats were meeting and broke open two gates.

But they fell back when about 50 helmeted officers quickly moved in swinging clubs and squirting mace.

There was one arrest and three policemen were injured in the hour-long confrontation. The demonstrations broke up when a light rain began.

Leaders urged the group to break up.

"This is not the time to fight," they said. "We know we can fight. We were in Chicago."

A man identified as Ernest I. Herron, 30, one of the few blacks in the crowd, was arrested and charged with breaking and entering to commit a misdemeanor when the fence came down.

Platform hassle may rise tonight

By FRANK ELEAZER

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Democrats who talked the nation to sleep in a credentials battle early today may do it again tonight in a dispute over platform planks on busing, welfare, gun and birth control, and gay liberation.

After a nine-hour credentials wrangle that went on until 4:54 a.m. EDT—a modern record—the delegates were to resume deliberations at 7 p.m. and hoped to get to the platform by 10.

Philip Zeidman, executive director of the platform committee, said that even if no roll calls were demanded—an unlikely possibility—consideration of the basic document and 20 minority planks could take as long as 8 hours.

As drafted in advance by a 150-member committee, the proposed policy statement commits the party to end the Vietnam War, fight inflation, restore full employment, end the draft, close tax loopholes, reform welfare, and the sale of cheap handguns and assure "the right to be different."

It also supports busing as "another tool to accomplish desegregation." Tonight's biggest fight, to be mounted by Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, in a personal appearance at the convention, is expected to be about that.

Charles Snider, Wallace's campaign manager, called the busing language a party "suicide note" for November. He and other Wallace supporters were proposing a substitute plank calling for a constitutional amendment to outlaw busing as related to school integration.

Wallace forces also were seeking language to affirm the right to keep guns; restore prayer to public schools; and subject federal judges to periodic review.

Other minority planks with varied support included proposals to raise welfare payments to $6,500 a year; protect homosexual rights; close all tax exemptions and substitute a steeply graduated income levy; and guarantee the right of abortion.

Muskie held support

By DONALD LAMBRO

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie had a tough choice to make Monday—either to throw his support to George McGovern and perhaps avert a bitter floor fight, or to join the stop McGovern movement.

He picked the latter, and the political image of the man who a few short months ago was all but conceded the Democratic presidential nomination today was tarnished still further.

Ending his self-imposed silence on the bitterly contested credentials dispute, Muskie announced Monday night that were he a delegate, he would vote to sustain the decision that removed California 151 votes from McGovern.

Early today, the full Convention overturned the credentials decision. McGovern was the winner, Hubert Humphrey and Muskie the losers.

In announcing his position, which made him a leader of the stop-McGovern forces, Muskie said he hoped the delegates pledged or leaning to his candidacy would consider his arguments in support of the credentials challenge.

At the time, Muskie strategists said they hoped his last minute decision on the dispute would sway enough votes in the convention to uphold the challenge.

Earlier Monday, Muskie had failed in a late attempt to bring all the presidential candidates together to resolve the credentials battle before the convention started.

"The convention was being turned into two armed camps," he told a news conference.

"If preparation for the battle continued, the toll in political dead and injured could be horrendous and our party and its nominee could be among the casualties," Muskie said.

O'Brien wields huge gavel

Teddy goes a-yachting

By MICHAEL WIDMER

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI)—"I'll bet they're not having this good a time in Miami," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy shouted with enthusiasm.

He almost seemed to mean it. While other leaders of the Democratic party wrangled over credentials challenges during the first day of their convention Monday in Miami Beach, Kennedy was 1,500 miles away at his summer home on Cape Cod—sailing, working, entertaining and then watching his colleagues on television.

It was an unaccustomed pose for the 41-year-old senator who, until Chappaquiddick, was considered the odds-on favorite for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

In other years, other Kennedys waited out election struggles here, but the atmosphere is different this time. And the last of the Kennedy sons couldn't help but enjoy it. Instead of dozens of last-minute details, there was a sailing trip with the family.

Instead of a score of high-level advisors marching in and out, there was a picnic for 60 boys attending a summer caddies' camp nearby.

The youngsters ate hot dogs, potato salad and watermelon outside Kennedy's summer home in the family compound while the tanned senator, wearing bright purple pants and a short-sleeved yellow sports shirt, kidded the boys and signed occasional autographs.

Perhaps it would be different by the end of the week, but Kennedy repeated his denials that he was a candidate for the vice presidential nomination. He said he would not attend the convention unless asked to by the nominees.

Meanwhile, noncandidate Teddy Kennedy went sailing.

Youth view 'confusion'

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)

Youths' view of the Democratic National Convention is mostly confusion. Ken Hays Jr. likes it. Katherine Harkjo isn't so sure.

The two are the youngest delegates attending the party convention under reforms which emphasize youth and representation for everybody.

"I like the confusion best. Most everybody doesn't seem to know what they're doing," says Hays, from Chattanooga, Tenn.

Hays is 17, and will be 18 on Nov. 2, just in time to vote in the general election under Tennessee's new law. He is an alternate from his state's Third Congressional District and favors Sen. Edmund S. Muskie.

Kathy Harjo is a full-blooded Seminole Indian from Frederick, Okla. She will be 19 on July 20, and she got a trip to Miami Beach when party credentials officials decided the Oklahoma delegation had too few minority members.

Kathy, who works for the Tillman County Indian Organization, took her first plane trip to get to her first convention and decided when she got here that "It is all kind of confusing."

"I don't really know anybody here. I am rooming with Kathy Strain—she works for Governor (David) Hall," Kathy said Monday. She was clad in hip-huggers and an orange blouse, her pigtails held together with Indian beads.

She sat on the edge of the delegation at a caucus, bewildered at all the hullabaloo and not sure what it was all about. She is uncommitted and hasn't picked her candidate.

Young Hays' victory in the district delegate election turned him from an engineering career to politics.

"I planned to go to Georgia Tech and be an engineer, but politics came up and now maybe I'll get law courses at Alabama," he said.

He's learning fast, buttonholing other young delegates and urging them to the Muskie cause.

Since arriving, Hays has been staying in an $8-a-day room near the southern end of Miami Beach, away from the bright lights and big hotels.

"I paid for one meal so far, and I got the others free," he said.

Humphrey to decide about withdrawal

By DANIEL RAPOPORT
MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Jolted by a defeat in the crucial California credentials fight, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey said he would disclose today whether he will withdraw from the Democratic presidential race.

Humphrey, asked after the floor loss whether he would stay in the race, said "I think I'll reserve my judgment."

It was the first time since he launched his campaign Jan. 10th that Humphrey wavered on his candidacy. He indicated his decision would be announced at a news conference in late morning.

Wallace tries for change

By BESSIE FORD
MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Gov. George C. Wallace was considering going to Convention Hall tonight to try personally to change the platform drafted by the Democratic party.

In his first full news conference since arriving at the Democratic National Convention, Wallace said Monday he had no plans for running as a third-party candidate, even if he loses the fight for concessions in the platform. But he did not shut the door altogether on a possible maverick role.

And he said the party needs his support to beat President Nixon in November.

"I will say that the Democratic party cannot win in November without the active support of those who support George Wallace," the Alabama governor told newsmen at his convention headquarters hotel.

Looking stronger than he has since his arrival here, Wallace said he still has hopes of running for president and is not interested in a vice presidential nomination.

"I have no master plan, but I want to stay in the Democratic party," said the 52-year-old governor.

whom are cool toward his candidacy.

Humphrey also could aid McGovern in his efforts to gain the support of Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, whose delegates were rejected by the full convention in the credentials challenges earlier today.

Humphrey was smiling and apparently in good spirits early this morning when he emerged from the elevator carrying him down from the 15th-floor suite in a hotel three blocks from the convention center. But he obviously was not in the same expansive mood he displayed before convention delegates gave McGovern all 271 California votes.

Reporters who visited with Humphrey in his headquarters suite at the Carillon Hotel before the voting began Monday found him relaxed and in fine humor. Humphrey said he felt just great, that "I'm going to give it everything I've got."

"I don't want to say I'm going to be perfectly happy (in losing) but I'm at peace with myself," he said.

A few hours later, Humphrey appeared in equally fine fettle when reporters saw him analyzing the first credentials fight of the evening, a contest over the seating of extra women in the South Carolina delegation.

Working in shirtsleeves, hunched over a wooden table, Humphrey and three advisers pored over lists of states on tally sheets. William Connell, a long-time associate, remarked that the McGovern forces had been beaten on what many regarded as a preliminary indicator as to how the California clash would be resolved.

But Humphrey would have none of it. He said the McGovern camp had purposely lost the South Carolina contest so as not to be forced to fight out a critical parliamentary point at that particular stage.

Shortly after the California vote, Press Secretary Walt Wurfel told newsmen that Humphrey was "quiet, thoughtful, pensive" when he realized the defeat.

The senator told newsmen he had telephoned McGovern and congratulated him on his California victory.

"I told George to save his strength," he said of his friend and one-time neighbor. "He'll most likely need it." Humphrey was still smiling but this time the smiles seemed to take a little effort.

Candidate relaxes

Mac takes time out

By JOHN HALL
MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—After three years, George McGovern took a day off today from the rigors of campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination. He needed the time to write his acceptance speech.

Leaving his convention managers to attend to the cleanup, McGovern secluded himself to put his dreams and aspirations into what he hoped would be a momentous address.

The fact that the party's convention delegates won't actually be voting on presidential nominations until Wednesday night no longer worried McGovern. Shortly after 2 a.m. today he figured the battle was over.

With a beer under his belt, along with a couple of thumping convention victories that assured his control, he pulled on a pair of maroon pajamas and crawled into bed in his plush penthouse headquarters on the 17th floor of the Dorai Hotel.

Awaiting his inspection later today were partial speech drafts prepared by aides including Pulitzer prize-winning historian Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. and Fred Dutton, who was an aide to President John F. Kennedy.

To assure his privacy as he labored over his speech, there was a possibility McGovern would slip away on one of two private yachts anchored for his use in Indian Creek across Collins Avenue from his hotel.

The 49-year-old Methodist preacher's son had come a long way. As a little-known South Dakota senator not long after the 1968 Democratic convention debacle and subsequent election defeat, he decided he was the man to lead the Democrats back to the White House.

When he announced his intentions in January, 1971, nobody paid attention. Not until he had battled his way through primary elections from New Hampshire to New York did McGovern begin to look like a winner.

And not until the nominating convention early today upheld his claim to all 271 contested California delegate votes could he rest assured that he had won.

RELAXING in his hotel suite, presidential candidate Sen. George McGovern watches TV as chairman Lawrence O'Brien opens the 1972 Democratic National Convention. (UPI)

Seating victory won, November trouble seen

By GEORGE SKELTON
MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—George McGovern won a dramatic battle to seat all his 271 California delegates today, but his Democratic critics in the nation's most populous state said he would have a tough time winning the war in November against President Nixon.

McGovern's California delegates cheered, hugged each other and some even wept when the Democratic convention voted 1,618 to 1,238 to seat their entire slate, thus ousting 151 delegates committed to eight losing candidates in the June 6 primary.

But the ousted California delegates were not exactly rushing to climb on the McGovern bandwagon.

"I can see myself doing anything to keep Sen. McGovern from ever being president of the United States," said George C. Wallace's California campaign coordinator, electronics technician John Grainer of Los Angeles.

State Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally of Los Angeles, one of Hubert Humphrey's top black advisers, said, "It was a good floor fight. They won. But McGovern's going to have a lot of repairing to do in California."

Mayor Daley loses fight

By HOWARD FIELDS
MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley lost a bare-knuckles political fight today, but nobody, not even his vanquishers, was ready to count him out as a continuing force in the Democratic party.

Daley insisted on remaining aloof from the in-fighting of the past several months, rejected all appeals for compromise, and decided to carry his fight for convention delegate seats to the convention floor.

He lost—a rarity indeed.

It was Daley, in his home base of Chicago, who dominated the 1968 convention, the bloodiest and most rowdy ever held. And it is the same man who will have no active part in the 1972 convention, although he will certainly wield tremendous influence on whether the nominee carries Illinois in November.

Even though the Chicago insurgents and McGovern both wanted a compromise to keep Daley happy, the memory of the Chicago mayor's role in 1968 apparently was too fresh for the new breed of convention delegates to forget.

Daley became mayor and head of the Chicago political machine in 1956 after rising through ward ranks by precedents solidly established by the machine-boss mayors before him.

But if the losing fight to a 31-year-old lawyer and Chicago alderman, William Singer, didn't knock Daley out of the political power circles, it revealed countless flaws in judging the mood of the people and the party, and the power a bunch of political novices were able to muster.

Daley's biggest miscalculation appeared to be the manner in which he carried on the credentials fight. It rankled even some delegates who might otherwise have been in his corner.

When the Singer group filed challenges to the Daley delegation, Daley's men fought back with stall tactics and verbal broadsides. When the insurgents held meetings in Chicago to choose an alternative delegation, fistfights erupted between Singer people and the Daley men who infiltrated in large numbers. A battery of Daley-organization lawyers, meanwhile, carried a separate fight through the courts—in Chicago and in Washington—using every legal maneuver they could to beat the insurgents or at least delay them.

Their lobbying efforts were never as smooth or as urgent as that carried on by the Singer people, who appeared to be everywhere during credentials proceedings in Washington and then in Miami Beach when the various delegations held their caucuses. The Daley men also were heavy-handed at times, and had a Hawaii delegate on the Credentials Committee in tears when she cast her vote for Daley's side.

Through it all, Daley was active only behind closed doors. He refused to be seen in Miami Beach until he had won a seat at a convention. He never was seen at all.

Delegates have wills of own

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Their hearts may belong to George McGovern, but the Democratic delegates have a will of their own.

By a surprisingly large margin, the delegates went along with McGovern in his effort to reclaim the entire bloc of 271 California delegates.

But they bucked McGovern when he asked them not to unseat Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and his 58-delegate group from Cook County, Ill.

The convention kicked Daley out, even though McGovern wanted him kept in so as to avoid antagonizing a man who can produce votes. McGovern sent a top strategist, Gary Hart, to plead Daley's case and to offer a compromise which even was accepted by the Daley challengers.

But nothing doing. The convention decided, by a 115-vote margin, to oust Daley.

Crowd came for business

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK
MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—This crowd came to do business. It looked like no national political convention seen before—lots of blacks, lots of youngsters, lots of long hair and casual clothes. But when there was work to do, this convention did its job.

Still, it wouldn't have been a convention without congested aisles, despairing ushers, a festooned hall and a gavel-pounding chairman. And, of course, there had to be state plugs in answering roll calls—a New Mexico delegate answered by reciting his state's nickname, "Land of Enchantment," in Spanish. And there had to be lots of trick hats, buttons, and heaps of empty coffee cups and snuffed-out cigarette butts and the heat that 5,000 bodies packed together on three acres of floor space are bound to generate.

Compared with the last time, it was a tea party. Despite the intense emotion of the California, Illinois and other credentials challenges, there was nothing of the simmering hate that pervaded the Chicago convention four years ago. The delegates obviously felt passionately about the issues, but they listened to everyone, and, except for the instances when it was part of the grand strategy of the contending forces, went along with Chairman Larry O'Brien's rulings and requests for attention and decorum.

Delay sought in bug case

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Committee to Re-elect the President has gone to court to delay until after the presidential election the hearing of a Democratic National Committee civil suit asking damages in the attempt to bug the Democratic headquarters.

The committee contended in an action filed Monday in U.S. District Court in the District of Columbia that hearing the suit prior to the election would cause "incalculable" damage to Nixon's campaign.

The Democratic National Committee filed a $1 million lawsuit against the re-election committee and five men arrested by police early in the morning of June 17 in the Democratic committee's headquarters in Washington.

Among the arrested was James W. McCord Jr., who at the time was the senior chief of security for the Nixon re-election committee. Police said

McCord and the four other men had in their possession electronic surveillance devices and photographic equipment. All five were charged with burglary.

The Nixon committee in its Monday request said any hearings before the election could obstruct their campaign workers, discourage contributors to the Nixon campaign, provide the Democrats with a reason to hold news conferences, and force disclosure of confidential campaign information.

The committee in its request again denied any involvement in the incident.

The Democrats in their suit argued they should receive damage because the break-in interfered with the First Amendment rights of all Democrats. National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien contended there was a clear line to the White House in the case.

No casualty list for third time

WASHINGTON (UPI)—For the third time this month, the Pentagon did not have a Vietnam casualty list Monday.

There were only five weeks before July when the Defense Department had not put out a daily report of Vietnam war casualties since the first list was issued Sept. 2, 1965.

The list sometimes ran to a dozen, or more, and was published at the height of the war. In the past year, however, it has shrunk as the American combat role has declined. On many days the report has carried only one name.

American combat deaths in Indochina since Jan. 1, 1961, total 45,806. Another 10,229 have died from illness, accidents and other noncombat causes.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—James Dines and Co. stands by earlier predictions of an upcoming "summer rally" to be led by "glamor, growth and gold stocks." However, the firm says if the Dow average were to fall well below 920, "the implications will be very strong a major bear market has started."

Moody's Investors Service reports "new technical analysis points towards an increase in trading volume for America's stock markets and an accompanying likelihood of some sharp swings in stock prices." The firm says the oversold position of short-term indicators "hints at a possibility of nearby brisk rallies," but adds, "the intermediate indicators, on the other hand, continue to render negative readings as they have since early March."

Roger E. Spear, of Spear and Staff, Inc., says the soon-to-be released second-quarter earnings reports should make "excellent reading" and have a positive effect on the stock market. Spear also says the "good news" as it weathers the recent currency crisis. Further, in view of the "improving economic outlook," Spear says he advised a "basically optimistic investment policy."

Alexander Hamilton Institute appears optimistic in view of improving economic indicators. "The bright economic outlook should soon overshadow current market depressants....The many reasonable stocks that abound should be bought—and held."

Pigeons pals

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UPI)—A drive by city hall officials to eradicate wild pigeons living in nearby houses and spires by poisoning them has brought sharp opposition by sidewalk vendors in the neighborhood. They make a profitable living by selling popcorn to local and foreign visitors to feed the birds.

Richfield plans new factory

RICHFIELD — C. W. and Jay Ward, Inc., will build a new cheese manufacturing plant in Richfield, Clifford W. Ward, co-owner of the corporation, announced Monday.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new creamery are scheduled for 9 a.m. July 18 at the plant site on the west edge of the Richfield City limits.

The Taysom Construction Co., Pocatello, will move in equipment Monday and start Tuesday. The 12,000-square-foot plant will cost over $400,000, and will be financed by a loan from the Small Business Administration.

The facility, modern in design, is expected to handle double the capacity of milk now handled in the company's present Richfield plant. The work force will remain the same for the time being, Ward said.

"We hope to be in the new plant and making cheese by the first of the year," said Ward. The plant makes American, Cheddar and Monterey cheeses.

"I have a lot of faith in dairying in this area," said Ward, "and that is what led us to build the new plant. It is fulfillment of a dream of seven years ago, when increased milk production outgrew the present facility."

C. Jay Ward will succeed his father as president. Serving with them on the board of directors will be J. Murray Rawson, Orem, Utah; Larry Taylor, Pensacola, Fla., and Curtis Park, Carey. Other directors may be added in the future, Clifford Ward said.

The chief architect, Fred Montmorency, Salt Lake City, and officials of the Taysom Construction Co. are expected to attend the groundbreaking ceremonies.

Clifford has been in the creamery business for many years. He came to Richfield as manager of the Nelson Ricks creamery plant in August of 1946, and had served as manager of the Ashton Nelson Ricks plant prior to that time. In 1957, he leased the plant from Nelson Ricks and he and his son have operated it since.

Theft reported at Willow Run

FAIRFIELD — Investigation to enter to snowmobilers, had been unoccupied for about a year and is located about 23 miles northeast of Fairfield on upper Willow Creek.

It was recently sold to M. Melton, Salmon.

In a separate case, Sheriff Paul Cox said the theft occurred July 1 or 2 but was not reported.

Stolen from the four-year-old lodge was a $300 rug from the upper floor of the facility, a double door refrigerator, dishes and all the silverware, Cox said.

Cox said the thieves apparently used a key because no signs of forced entry existed. He said his department currently has no leads in the case.

The Willow Run Lodge, built in 1911, was recently damaged by a fire in the main building.

CAA meet tonight at Jerome

JEROME — The South Central Community Action Agency will meet at 8 p.m. tonight in the Jerome County Courthouse in the court room.

The agency will conduct a review of reports from the personnel committee, including interviewing of applicants for the executive director position, the budget request from the Community Improvement Association and consideration of allowable salary increases for staff members.

The meeting is a very important one, according to Royal C. Slotten, board chairman. Travel pay is authorized for low-income members of the board and should be requested from Mrs. Betty Wooten, acting director, at the July 11 meeting.

Hearing slated on Gooding men

FAIRFIELD — Arraignments for two Gooding men charged with first degree burglary were scheduled for this morning in Camas County Magistrate Court.

The two are identified as Steve Davis, 19, and Galen Beckman, 20.

According to Camas County Sheriff Paul Cox, the men were arrested last week by the Gooding County sheriff's office in connection with the theft of about $250 in goods from a cabin in the Little Smoky area June 11.

Two more warrants have been issued in the case, Sheriff Cox said.

Davis and Beckman were transferred Monday from Gooding to the Camas County jail where they are being held in lieu of $500 bond each.

Sheriff Cox said the theft occurred at a summer cabin owned by Ray E. Hendrix. Gooding, located in the Bryam Addition about 16 miles north of Fairfield.

The stolen items included a sleeping bag, fishing pole and reel, lanterns and camping stoves.

Entry was made by kicking in a door, Cox said.

Blaine citizens meet

HAILEY — Citizen committees from two Blaine County schools met with the Blaine School Board Monday night to discuss improvements in facilities and school curriculum.

Charles Clark, superintendent, said one group composed of parents of Wood River High School students is working closely with the board in planning new programs and making recommendations on new school facilities.

The district presently has a five-year, 10-mile levy which will gather about $1.3 million. Clark said construction on a new high school is anticipated within about five years. He said enrollment is increasing from 10 to 12 per cent each year. At present the funds would cover cost of construction, but Clark noted that construction costs are rising rapidly.

The other committee was from Ernest Hemingway Grade School, Ketchum. They discussed improvements of school grounds for which federal, local donation and district funds are available.

Hutten Meadows is located two miles north of Ketchum.

TF probes break-ins at Hollister

HOLLISTER — Twin Falls County sheriff's department officers are investigating break-ins at two Hollister stores.

According to Sheriff Paul Corder, Monti's Mini-Mart and Henslock's grocery store and service station were broken into sometime late Monday night or early this morning.

The sheriff's office was notified at 6:39 a.m. today.

Corder said Monti's was entered from the back. The other store was entered through the front door after a window was broken to unlock the door.

Vocational plan draws Jerome ire

Monday night board members present were upset to learn that the program would be funded the same way as federal Title I programs. Under this system, the district receives a certain amount of money to be used for programs for the disadvantaged student.

Hollifield said, "You can not define who the disadvantaged students are, and this proposal works exactly like the Title I program, and that money is used for almost anything because of the different categories." He said he has always been against the Title I program, saying he feels that in some cases it does more harm than good to the district.

He does not want to see the district get caught up in another program like this, where some students would not participate because of the stigma of being classified "disadvantaged students," he said.

Campbell said that each school district in the valley is classified a disadvantaged district in some respects, and that the CSI program, like the Title I program, would be open to all students without any classifications given.

Kersey said he feels the program was misinterpreted to the board at the last meeting, and that this was not the type of program that he understood it would be.

He asked that the matter be reconsidered by the trustees.

Weigle said he thought this was going to be a new deal the state is coming out with, and not the old arrangement, which depended on how much money one made or whether one received food stamps.

Acting upon a suggestion by Hollifield, the board delayed further action in the matter until all board members can be present.

Campbell reported to the board on the security of the school buildings, and read a letter concerning vandalism at Skyline High School and several other high schools in the Pocatello-Idaho Falls area. A break-in had occurred in the Jerome High School earlier this month, Campbell said.

He noted that extra effort is now being placed on tighter security for all school buildings.

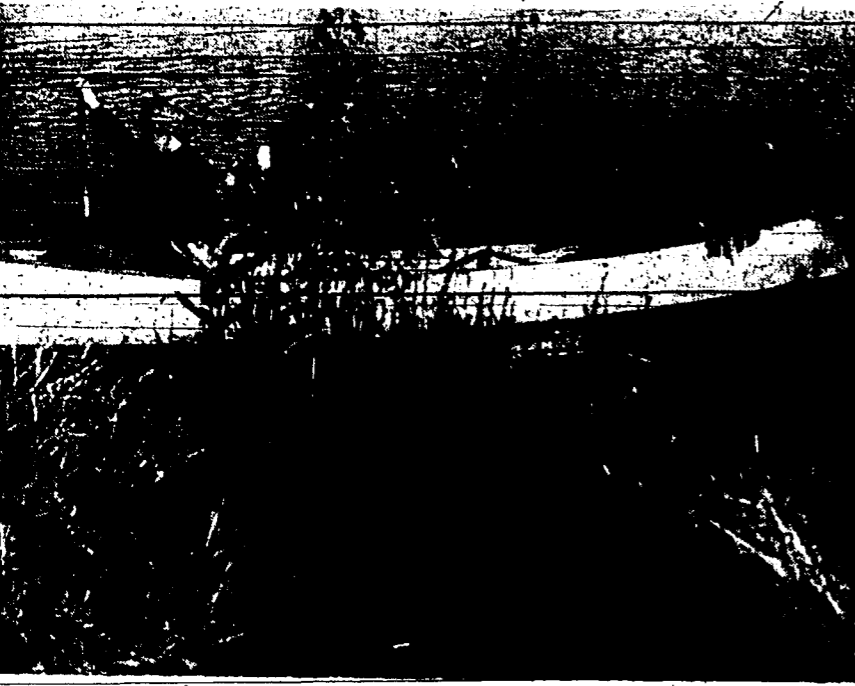

A 3.28 per cent salary increase for district teachers was approved. The increase had been included in the teacher's contracts for 1972-73 before the board formally approved the salary schedule.

For some of the administration personnel, the increase includes up to $3,000 a year. Teachers with a B. A. degree are figured on the 3.28 per cent increase, with other personnel prorated on a lower schedule.

Hollifield instructed Campbell to prepare a detailed athletics salary schedule to present to the board for its approval at the next meeting. Hollifield said he felt the administration and athletics salary schedule should be spelled out in plain language so teachers in the district would know who is and who is not included, and the reasons, and that copies of the schedule should be placed in each of the district's policy files.

The trustees approved a request by Campbell to spend up to $500 for a summer band program. Campbell said he has contacted Larry Standee, band director, but has not heard from him on whether he would conduct a summer program.

He said if the program can be initiated, the band, in addition to playing for the fair in August, could hold several concerts in the band shell at the city park.

Rehearse pageant

IMPORTANT HISTORY of southern Idaho will be enacted in "History in Harmony" Monday night at the Cassia County Fairgrounds. Rehearsing a canoe landing scene are Martin O'Donnell, Rupert, left, and Bob Bruce, Heyburn. Cassia County Historical Society is sponsoring the pageant.

Mini-Cassia to re-enact pioneer days in pageant

BURLEY — Cassia and Minidoka county residents will re-enact pioneer scenes in the "History in Harmony" pageant set for 8 p.m. Monday.

The musical production will be presented at the Cassia County Fairgrounds and is sponsored by the Cassia County Historical Society. A rehearsal will be held Wednesday at the fairgrounds at 7 p.m.

Playing leading roles will be Terry Hutchison, Andy Wilson, Kelly Crane, Christine Garrard, Carla R. Crane, Tom Pierce, Sylvan Burgi, Diana Luke and Brian Adams, all of Burley, and Sally Cheney, Frank Cheney, LaRue Cheney, Harlow Cheney, Terry McCombs and Ruth Ann McCombs, all Rupert.

Production manager is Wayne Conrad.

Scenes from history included in the pageant will be the Wilson Price Hunt expedition of 1811, pioneer settlers, signing of the Idaho Territory Bill, the Diamondfield Jack episode and Indian battles.

The Wilson Price Hunt explorers were the first white men in what is now Cassia County, and traveled the Snake River in 1811. On Oct. 28, 1811, the party met disaster in rapids near the present Milner Dam, west of Burley, drowning one of the explorers.

Mrs. Picola Wood is production director. Advance tickets are now on sale under the direction of Mrs. Celia Kunau. Proceeds from the pageant will go to the Cassia County Historical Museum, located in the former cannery kitchen at the corner of Highland Avenue and East Main Street.

Minidoka okays building plans

RUPERT — The Minidoka County Commission completed a formal agreement with the city of Rupert Monday afternoon for joint occupancy of a proposed new law enforcement building.

The City Council of Rupert earlier ratified the agreement. The city police department will be located in the new facility, and the city will pay a share of the utilities and other expenses.

The new law enforcement stages, will unify all police radio communications in the county, along with police officer training and other activities.

State and federal funds will meet half of the overall cost of the construction estimated at $160,000, with the remaining $80,000 to be paid by the county from funds now available.

County Commission Chairman Wayne Hollenbeck said.

The funding agreement is under consideration at the state level at this time, Hollenbeck said.

Teachers hired at Rupert

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Minidoka County School District lost five teachers through resignation and hired five new teachers during a brief board meeting Monday night.

Four of the five resigning teachers had signed their new teaching contracts. Trustees voiced concern over the continuing attrition of contracted teachers who have moved to other positions. In some cases they have found new jobs after signing contracts here.

On trustee commented, "They go right on looking for something else after they've signed contracts."

Resignations were approved for Cathy Caltan, who plans to move to Utah; Janet Marie Johnson, who gave no reason for resigning; Melvin Wireman, who has obtained a higher paying position in Oregon; Patricia Okeberry who will teach in Utah, and Patrick Ridge, who had not signed his contract but said an investigation of "housing and living conditions in the Rupert area" convinced him to look elsewhere.

Ridge was hired earlier by the board to fill a vacancy in chemistry at the Minico High School. No replacement has found, Doyle Lowder, assistant superintendent said.

Lowder presided at Monday night's meeting in place of Darrell Hatfield, superintendent, who is on vacation.

Assistant board chairman, Leonard Martin, substituted for Chairman Nile Maricle, who was also absent.

The trustees approved contracts for five new teachers including Shawna Ryan, Twin Falls, as girls' physical education teacher, drill team adviser and girls track coach at Minico High School. She takes the place of Patricia Okeberry.

Other new teachers are Karen Christensen, Lewisville, to teach English at West Minico Junior High; Edd Story, Boise, boys' physical education at Minico; Anna Schulthess, Rupert, sixth grade at Heyburn, and Diana Lynn McBride, Burley, fifth grade at Heyburn.

An Army draft call annulled another prospective teacher, Robert C. Thompson, who was to have taught Spanish and French at Minico.

Trustees also approved a new salary schedule for school bus mechanics ranging from $437 to $583 per month, and for custodians from $408 to $504.

Solon against lifting of import restrictions

RUPERT — State Rep. Steve Antone, Republican, told Livestock Auction Assn. members here he strongly opposes lifting of restrictions on meat imports.

Addressing auctioneers in a meeting here, he said he also objects to price ceilings on any agriculture products.

"It seems ridiculous to me, that for years, wages have been allowed to increase with no restrictions. Other industries have been allowed to increase the prices of their products to compensate. All but the rancher and farmer, who have been faced with low prices for their products and high prices for the items they must purchase, have realized higher income."

On another subject, Antone said, "Ecologists are today having their say in today's world. By and large, if they all had their way, every industry would be forced out of business. Insects would destroy crops and weeds would smother farmland."

"There are, however, pollution problems that must be solved. No longer can feed yards be placed on stream banks or anywhere where drainage could pollute water supplies," he said.

"Further, I am highly opposed to the environmentalists idea of a National Park. This would take valuable grazing land and as has been proven in Yellowstone the tourists are much harder on the environment than the cattle," the representative said.

On the subject of the controversial Qsha Bill, Antone said, "I am bitterly opposed to this act. I am not in opposition to the safety aspect of the bill, but do not believe the power it gives to one agency."

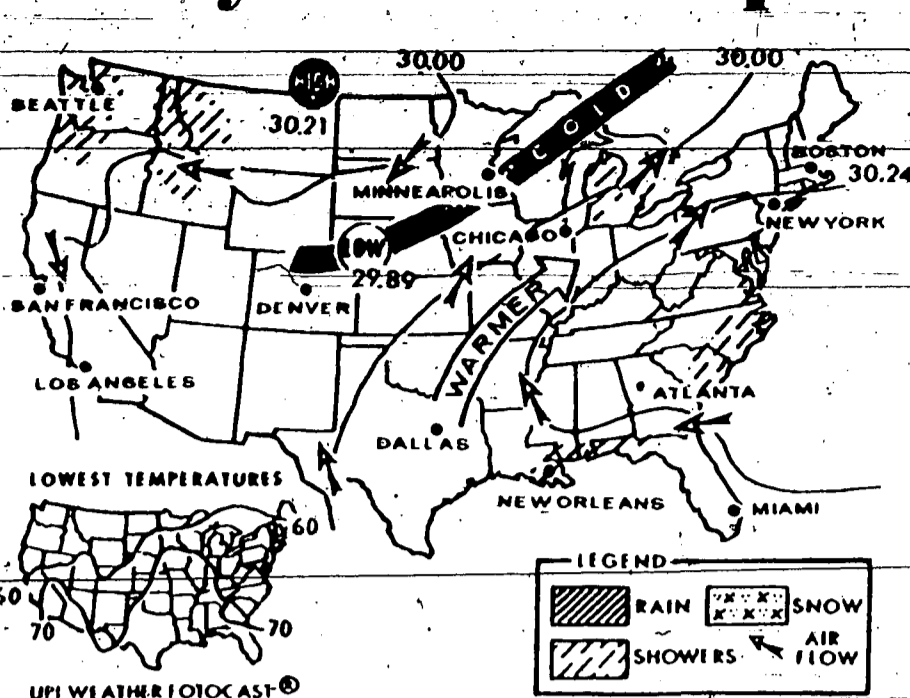

"We must, in the next session of the legislature, assume state control of this act," he said.

Antone said many candidates seeking national office are advocating further "giveaway" programs, to stifle the desire to work. History has proven when taxes rise above 35 per cent, government will collapse.

Should you buy a mobile home?

This question has been asked by many readers. To find the answer, I interviewed experts in the field of mobile home finance, construction and legal advice.

The first step, say the experts, is to visit several mobile home parks in the area where you want to live. Never buy a home and then look for a place to park it.

When you find a park that looks nice and the residents look like your kind of people, stop and chat with three or four families. You'll find that they're probably the most gregarious, "have-a-cup-of-woffee" people you've ever met.

You'll quickly learn whether the park management is fair or foul. You'll also learn whether you like the kind of communal, neighborly atmosphere park living offers.

Most parks have a rigid set of rules and regulations. Some are necessary; some are abusive. After talking with park residents, get a copy of these rules and regulations.

Some parks charge an entry fee. Some offer swimming pools, central laundry and cable TV. Some don't allow children or pets.

Some parks have "tie-in" requirements where you must buy the home unit from the management. Others require residents to purchase electricity and fuel from the management. These deals can be hotdogs or, occasionally, can save you money. For example, it's less expensive to buy electricity in bulk if the management "passes on the savings."

After investigating mobile home parks, look into the possibility of buying your own lot. It's usually better to own your lot. You aren't subject to the abusive whims of some manager.

Perhaps the best deals of all can be found in the newly forming condominium-type mobile home subdivisions where you buy your own home and land. They're mostly in Florida and California but are popping up in other states.

If you can find a park backed by the Federal Housing Administration, you're assured of certain standards with no restrictive "tie-ins." Also, FHA goes to bat for you on legitimate home loans which are excellent but hard to find.

For more information, check with the nearest FHA office under "U.S. Government" in the phone book. You can find a descriptive and unbiased rating of some 12,000 mobile home communities plus all sorts of other pertinent buyer facts in "Woodall's Directory." If your library doesn't have a copy, you can get one by sending $6.50 to: Woodall's, 500 Myrtle Place, Highland Park, Ill. 60035.

Before making the final decision on mobile home living, investigate and compare other low-cost housing. You can get a good single-width mobile home, furnished, for $8,000 and a deluxe double-width home for $12,000.

But you have to rent a lot or buy one. The total monthly payments and fees can run from $120 to $220. Tote up your own prospective costs and see how they compare with renting an apartment or buying a condominium.

Mobile homes depreciate at least 10 per cent in value the first year and keep on depreciating on down to around half the original value in eight years. If you buy a condominium (mobile or otherwise), your investment doesn't depreciate and might even be

Your bank, savings and loan, credit union or insurance company can help with these cost comparisons. Copyright 1972, Los Angeles Times

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—I am interested in dollar-cost averaging as a means of building a retirement portfolio. Could you discuss this method of investing?—H.S.

A—Dollar-cost averaging entails regular investment of a preset dollar amount over an extended time period. If you budget a $1,000 investment quarterly, monthly or whatever, you must stick to this predetermined schedule if you are to be successful.

Human nature being what it is, you may change your mind if the stock goes up and wish to postpone your purchase a week or so, or, if the stock drops, you may be tempted to double up your purchase to $2,000. While this may or may not prove to be a wise move, nevertheless, it is not dollar-cost averaging.

In order to illustrate the principle of averaging, I have worked out a $10,000 investment plan with $1,000 quarterly purchases of Zayre Corp. The initial purchase was made the first Friday in January, 1970 at 36 1/4, with fractional shares rounded to the nearest whole share.

Over the 10 quarters, 301 shares would be purchased at prices ranging from $22 to $40. Currently the shares would be worth $10,385. Had the investment been made all at once in January, 1970, the current value would be $9,488.

Commissions, however, would have been 45 per cent greater on the 10 transactions than on a single purchase. In addition, the odd-lot differential would be added to the cost of each purchase of less than 100 shares.

A—What types of stock am I allowed to give my minor grandchildren? Who should be named custodian?—G.B.

A—All states accept the donor, an adult member of the minor's family or the minor's guardian as custodian for gifts of registered securities. Also eligible in certain states is a trust company or any adult.

Any registered securities, including mutual fund shares, are allowed under the Uniform Gifts to Minors Act and revisions thereof, unless the donor is the issuer. Your lawyer is best qualified to explain the particulars of the law as practiced in your state.

Bobby Fischer is ready to begin delayed match

by IAN WESTERGREN
REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI)—Despite some last-minute complaints about the playing conditions Monday, Bobby Fischer was reported in a "go, go, go" mood for the first game of his world championship chess match with Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union Tuesday.

"Fischer does not like the lighting, the board and the pieces, the locations of the television cameras and some other minor details," said Fred Cramer, vice president of the U.S. Chess Federation.

"These things are troublesome but not critical," he said. "The organizers are already doing something about it."

Cramer pronounced the temperamental American in "go, go, go" condition for the first game.

The match, already delayed for nine days, will begin at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

A 1,000-seat hall especially outfitted to accommodate the Russian world champion and the challenger.

The match originally was to have begun July 2, but it was delayed because Fischer attempted to negotiate for 30 percent of the admission fees the organizers are charging in addition to a $125,000 purse and a percentage of the television rights. He came to Iceland and dropped his demand for a percentage of the gate only after a British banker put up sufficient money to double the purse to $250,000.

In addition to the world championship, which Spassky currently holds, the winner of the match will receive $150,000 from the purse. The loser will receive $100,000.

Fischer, 29, of Brooklyn, N.Y., slipped unnoticed into the hall early Monday and spent 80 minutes inspecting details arranged for the match that is scheduled to go as many as 24 games. As champion, Spassky accumulates 12 match points with one point for a victory and one-half point for a draw. Fischer as challenger needs 12.5 points to win.

Cramer, himself a retired lighting engineer, said he was not sure what Fischer objected to concerning the lighting.

"From an engineering point of view it's perfect and very flexible. But if you have to sit for five hours staring at a chess board you might have other ideas," Cramer said.

The chess board, made of green and white Icelandic stones, has been an issue from the start. The organizers treated it with acid to take the glare off it.

Fischer is not satisfied with the board, however, and he also feels the chess pieces are too small in relation, Cramer said.

The deputy arbiter for the match, Gudmundur Arnlaugsson, has a number of different boards and sets to choose from when match time comes.

Fischer also felt the two TV cameras covering the board could be distracting, although they are hidden in burlap "boxes" and placed some 15 yards away from the stage where the players will sit.

Fischer also wants thicker drapes in front of the windows in the hall. In Iceland, close to the Arctic circle, the sun shines at this time of the year until after 10 p.m., and the American apparently is concerned that the evening sun might distract him.

Fischer also inspected the carpeting in the hall and other arrangements made to keep the noise level down, Cramer said.

The spectators, paying $5 each for admission will be reminded by a big, lighted sign to be silent. There also is a ban against pocket chess sets in the hall.

While Fischer was still discussing the setup, the chess experts assembled in Iceland were predicting the outcome of the "chess match of the century," as the Spassky-Fischer match has been billed.

A private poll taken among the experts was in Fischer's favor. Many experts noted that Fischer in fact has a higher point rating in the complex international rating system than does Spassky, who has not been playing at his best recently.

Fischer also impressed the chess world in his qualification matches. He beat Mark Taimanov of the Soviet Union and Bent Larsen of Denmark in six straight games and then overwhelmed former world champion Tigran Petrosian 6-5 points to 2.5.

Detroit victory notches AL lead

DETROIT (UPI) — Norm Cash hit his 15th and 16th home runs of the season to drive in three runs Monday night as the Detroit Tigers beat the Texas Rangers, 8-3, and moved into first place in the American League East.

Joe Coleman went the first eight innings for Detroit but after giving up a hit and a walk to start the ninth he was relieved by John Hiltner. The victory went to Coleman, his 11th against seven defeats.

Jim Northrup also batted out his fourth home run of the season as Detroit made rookie Don Stanhouse's first major league decision a loss. Northrup hit his homer with a man on in the third and Cash followed with his first of the night after Bill Freehan walked in the same inning. Cash added his second of the game with none on leading off the eighth.

Don Mincher followed a leadoff double by Toby Harrah in the seventh inning with his sixth home run of the season for Texas and Hal King followed one out later with his fourth, a 450-foot drive into center field.

Giants edge Mets 5-4 with single

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chris Speier's single to center field in the eighth inning Monday night drove in two runs to give the San Francisco Giants a 5-4 victory over the New York Mets and reliever Tug McGraw.

Pinch-hitter Jim Howarth and Bobby Bonds singled to open the eighth and advanced on Garry Maddox's sacrifice before Speier's game-winning hit.

Don McMahon, 42, came on at the start of the eighth inning after Jim Barr and Jerry Johnson had run into trouble and got credit for the victory while McGraw, the ace of the Mets staff with a 1.87 ERA

Phils rout Dodgers to split twin bill

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Willie Montanez drove in five runs with a single, triple and homer to lead the Philadelphia Phillies and new manager Paul Owens to a 9-1 rout of Los Angeles in the second game of a two-night doubleheader Monday after the Dodgers had taken the opener, 6-4, in 11 innings.

Owens, also the club's general manager, had replaced Frank Lucchesi as field boss earlier in the day to become the first double duty executive in the National League since Branch Rickey, and his debut was spoiled when Los Angeles scored twice in the top of the 11th to win the opener.

A towering sacrifice fly to center by Wes Parker brought in Willie Davis with the winning tally and pinch-hitter Bill Buckner delivered an insurance run with a single.

But Woody Fryman earned the split for Philadelphia in the second game with a six-hit effort, losing his shutout bid in the eighth on Manny Mota's fifth home run. The victory was only the third for Fryman against nine losses.

The Phillies jumped off to a 3-0 lead after three innings and all but wrapped it up with a four-run burst in the fifth. Montanez then hit his seventh homer of the year with a mate aboard in the sixth.

Former Dodger Tommy Horton contributed three singles and two RBI's to the Phillies attack.

Philadelphia also enjoyed a 3-0 lead in the first inning of the opener on Don Money's eighth homer, but Los Angeles tied it against starter Ken Reynolds in

Frank Lucchesi fired as Phillies manager

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A tearful Frank Lucchesi was fired Monday as manager of the last-place Philadelphia Phillies of the National League and replaced for the remainder of the season by General Manager Paul Owens, who will serve in a dual capacity.

Phillie owner Bob Carpenter said Lucchesi would remain with the organization but was being replaced because "the club has been doing very poorly."

Carpenter said "It has been my experience in baseball that you can't change an army so you change a general."

Lucchesi, 45, who managed in the Phillies' minor league organization for 19 years before becoming manager of the parent club in 1970, will become a "special assignment man" under the direction of Owens.

Lucchesi, who attended the news conference along with "naturally, I'm upset and hurt but I don't have red blood, I have Phillies blood."

"I'm thinking of my wife and my eight-year-old boy," Lucchesi began and then started to cry but shrugged off a suggestion by a club official that he be excused.

"I've never ducked a question from the press and I'm not going to start now," said Lucchesi whose team had lost 25 of its last 31 games. "I'm going to stay here and answer all the questions."

"I've worked with beautiful people for 19 years and there are no bridges to burn with this organization."

"I guess I was a little hurt but it is easier to change the general and I'm the general of the Phillies. I have to take some of the blame. I tried everything I possibly could."

Lucchesi became manager in 1970 after Bob Skinner resigned and the Phils embarked on a youth movement.

Plagued by injuries, Lucchesi's first club finished fifth with a 73-88 record and dropped to sixth last season with a 67-95 record.

Owens, who only became general manager last month, was assuming a dual role effective immediately, Carpenter said, "so that we can fully evaluate every individual player on the club and get Paul into

"By managing the club, Paul will have half a season where he'll be in direct contact with each player, both under game conditions and off the field," Carpenter said.

The 48-year-old Owens, who managed for five years in the minors and was the Phils farm director before becoming general manager, said:

"I may not like me as a manager but I'm going to have to try a few of my ideas."

Owens said he was "not at all pleased with the fundamentals" displayed by the team "and we are going to attempt to do some things different, like more running for example."

Owens said he thought one of the problems of the team, which has a 26-50 record and last place in the league's East Division, was "some of these kids think they put on a major league uniform and they are a complete ball player but there is still a lot of learning to do."

Owens, who became general manager last June 3 when John Quinn took early retirement after the Phillies started their skid, said third base coach George Myatt also had been fired and would be replaced by special assignment scout Randy Davis.

"I want to get some youth and I'm concerned about instruction," Owens said. "I feel that is one of our Owens last managed in 1959 with Bakersfield in the California League and became the Phils' farm director in 1956.

Cleveland scores win over Sox

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Gaylord Perry tossed a four-hitter in picking up his 14th victory of the season and rookie Ron Lofchelt belted his first major league home run Monday night to lead the Cleveland Indians to a 2-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The game was played under protest by Chicago manager Chuck Tanner when Tanner complained that Perry was throwing an illegal pitch.

Perry, who has gone the distance 15 times in 21 starts, struck out 10 and walked four in lowering his ERA to 1.87.

Perry got a total of 33 runs in posting 11 of his victories and 26 runs in his other games.

Singles by Buddy Bell, Alex Johnson and Graig Nettles' sacrifice fly gave the Indians a 1-0 lead in the first inning and Lofchelt homered into the left field stands off Dave Lemmons in the fourth.

Willie Davis runs home

Dan Devine says Green Bay defensive line is unsettled

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Dan Devine, Green Bay Packers coach and general manager, said Monday a great defense is the most important part of a pro football team—and the admitted that his own defensive line is "unsettled."

Devine said the Packers would have nine defensive linemen coming to camp and "we're going to have a lot of one-on-one drills to see who can do what."

The Packer coach, who is beginning his second year at the Green Bay team, speculated on the number of combinations for his defensive line. He said Alden Roche would probably move to left end, especially if rookie Dave Purefoy is as good as Devine thinks he is.

Devine also said Clarence Williams, who was the other defensive end most of last year, might go to tackle and compete with Bob Brown and Mike McCoy. Also on the roster are second year defensive linemen Donnell Smith and Jim De Lisle.

Another name thrown in the defensive line hopper was that of outstanding left linebacker Fred Carr.

If Dave Robinson bounces back from his Achilles tendon injury and Jim Carter plays in the middle, Carr may move to defensive end if rookies Eric Patton and Larry Hefner can do the job, Devine said.

Devine also admitted, to no one's surprise, that the quarterback position in Green Bay is still up in the air.

Signs pact

TORONTO (UPI) — Sgt. William Harris, a 35-year veteran of the Metropolitan Toronto police force, chose Monday to hand in his resignation.

At about the same time his son, Bill, 21, a brilliant rightwinger last season with the Toronto Marlboro junior hockey team, signed a two-year contract with the New York Islanders of the National Hockey League for $250,000 — the most money an amateur hockey player has ever received for jumping straight into the professional big league.

Royals defeat Baltimore 3-2

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Lou Piniella stroked a two-run homer with two out in the ninth inning to give the Kansas City Royals a 3-2 victory over Baltimore that extended the Orioles' losing streak to five games.

Piniella's blast, his eighth homer of the year, also scored Richie Scheinblum who had singled as Cuellar absorbed his seventh loss against seven wins.

Reliever Ken Wright, 1-0, picked up the victory with hitless ball over the final two innings.

Brooks Robinson, who extended his hitting streak to nine games, singled to lead off the fifth inning and scored on Dave Johnson's double into the leftfield corner for the Orioles' first run. The ball dribbled through Piniella's legs, allowing Robinson to score.

Elrod Hendricks drove in the second Oriole run, following Johnson's double with a line drive to right field. Hendricks juggled for an error.

Starting pitcher Bruce Dal Canton doubled and scored the first Kansas City run in the sixth inning. He went to third on a groundout and tallied on a sacrifice by Ambros Otis.

Buckman was the fourth man on the Texas team which won the NCAA title the last two years.

Crenshaw is the favorite in the tournament, and as co-champion in the individual NCAA race is exempt from qualifying.

Buckman ties for golf lead

DALLAS (UPI)—Brent Buckman, who played behind Ben Crenshaw and Tom Kite on the Texas Longhorns NCAA championship golf team, fired a one-under-par 70 Monday to tie for the lead midway through qualifying in the 69th Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament.

Buckman, from Parkville, Mo., shared the qualifying lead with Penn Branch of Georgia and Mike Kilian, of Largo, Fla.

Baugh is the brother of the current U.S. women's amateur title holder, Laura Baugh, and Kilian is a former member of the University of Houston golf team.

Buckman was the fourth man on the Texas team which won the NCAA title the last two years.

Crenshaw is the favorite in the tournament, and as co-champion in the individual NCAA race is exempt from qualifying.

Minnesota topples Milwaukee 8-1

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Bobby Darwin's first major league grand slam and two runs batted in lifted Jim Perry and the Minnesota Twins to an 8-1 win over the Milwaukee Brewers Monday.

Darwin's homer helped the Twins to one of their two four-run innings. His first-inning grand slam followed hits by Danny Thompson and Rod Carew and a walk to Harmon Killebrew. The homer, Darwin's 10th of the season, gave the Twins a 4-0 lead against Earl Stephenson.

Ron Clark's sacrifice fly scored John Briggs from third base in the second inning to cut the Twins' lead to 4-1. Briggs opened the second with a double and moved to third on Dave May's single.

Four walks by reliever Bill Parsons helped the Twins to four runs in the second inning and an 8-1 lead. Cesar Tovar doubled in George Mitterwald with the first run of the inning to chase Stephenson. Tovar later scored on Carew's single.

Bill Parsons, Parsons walked Darwin and Eric Soderholm to score Thompson and Carew with the final runs.

Perry held the Brewers to six hits over 7 2-3 innings while increasing his record to 7-8. Perry left the game after being struck by a line drive on the left thigh off the bat of Brock Davis in the eighth inning.

McGrath is leader in bowling tourney

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Mike McGrath, El Cerrito, Calif., captured another six games Monday, ran his record to 13-3 and with one more eight-game block remaining in the $50,000 Winston-Salem Open bowling tournament, was the leader by only three pins.

The 26-year-old left-hander saw most of his 90-pin lead vanish when he shot games of 219, 109, 211, 165, 236, 202, 208 and 242, an average of 211.

Closing the margin was Bob Singleton, second-year pro from Houston, Tex. The left-hander took six of his games, but outscored McGrath by 87 pins when he turned in games of 214, 204, 266, 217, 237, 191, 198 and 202.

Singleton, trying for his first Professional Bowlers' Association title, showed a 124 mark, with each of his triumphs earning 30 bonus pins. There was a gap of 125 pins between the runner-up and third-place Larry Laub, San Francisco. Laub moved from ninth place when he lost only two games while knocking down 1,785 pins.

Don Johnson, Akron, Ohio, the qualifying leader when he averaged 226, continued to slip, dropping to fifth place behind Curt Schmidt, Fort Wayne, Ind.

N. Viets hold Quang Tri

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese paratroopers regrouped on the outskirts of Quang Tri city Monday, temporarily leaving the northern capital in the hands of entrenched North Vietnamese forces who appeared determined to hold it, U.S. advisers said.

U.S. fighter-bombers stepped up their raids over North Vietnam Sunday, the command spokesman said. More than 300 "tactical air strikes" and four waves of heavy B52s hit the North from the Demilitarized Zone to within 70 miles of China.

UPI correspondent Barney Seibert, reporting from La

Vang, two miles south of Quang Tri, said U.S. advisers told him "the North Vietnamese are determined to hold" the city.

The advisers, who were with the 1,000-man South Vietnamese airborne unit that unexpectedly pulled out of Quang Tri Sunday, said the city was in ruins. "I saw only one building standing," an officer said.

But despite the heavy pounding by North and South Vietnamese artillery, U.S. naval gunfire and American air strikes—including a B52 raid within the city limits Sunday, about 500 Communist troops remained in deep fortified bunkers, the advisers said.

The American soldiers said the bunkers, built since the Communists took the city May 1, were "unbelievably" strong. "I saw a bunker which a 500-pound bomb landed within 20 meters of," an officer told Seibert. "It had no effect."

A captured North Vietnamese soldier reported that despite the American effort to cut the Communist supply lines, his unit in Quang Tri was receiving both supplies and fresh troops up until at least three days ago.

The U.S. command launched a total of nine waves of B52 bomber attacks within 10 miles of the city Sunday night and Monday morning, spokesmen said. Officers reported that small South Vietnamese reconnaissance teams left behind in the provincial capital 40 miles north of Saigon were coming under sporadic attack.

Outside the city, nine separate ground battles were reported between North Vietnamese troops and government paratroopers and marines. Military spokesmen said at least 88 Communists were killed at a cost of 14 South Vietnamese dead and more than 25 wounded.

Communist gunners shot down an American AH1 Cobra helicopter 11 miles Southeast of Quang Tri Saturday, the U.S. command reported, but both crewmen were rescued unharmed.

The bulk of 178 U.S. air strikes flown Sunday in the northern provinces of South Vietnam aided government ground forces in their battles, along with the guns of eight U.S. Navy ships and 12 B52 strikes, spokesmen said.

Pilots reported knocking out nine tanks, six big Communist field guns and 13 trucks in the air strikes Sunday.

A person standing 4,000 feet above sea level can see about 83 1/2 miles.

Arrives for talks

Negotiator arrives to continue peace talks

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam's chief peace negotiator, Xuan Thuy, flew in Monday to resume the Vietnam peace talks and said a quick settlement could be reached if the United States showed goodwill.

Thuy told newsmen at Le Bourget airfield that North Vietnam stands by its past negotiating proposals, but was ready to examine any "new" offers by the United States.

Mixing tough talk and pledges of a serious attitude, Thuy said he had no precise new peace plan to submit to conference which resumes Thursday after a two-month break.

"We come to the negotiating table with a serious attitude and goodwill. We are sure that if the American side shows the same attitude we can rapidly reach a peaceful settlement," he said.

Thuy returned after both Hanoi and Washington late last month agreed to restart the 3-year-old talks, suspended May 4 by the United States.

Thuy said Nixon was forced to resume the conference under pressure of American and world public opinion.

"We consider that the seven-point plan of the Viet Cong's Revolutionary Provisional Government is the correct basis for a settlement."

"But we will gladly examine any new American proposals that may be made to us in a few days," he said.

Thuy, in his airport statement, served notice the Vietnamese Communists still want the United States to pull out their remaining troops quickly.

He was less explicit, however, when he commented on the second Communist requirement concerning his side's standing demand for the overthrow of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

"President Nixon, in his June 29 news conference made it clear he obstinately sticks to his warmongering policies. Such action is not likely to favor negotiations," Thuy said.

Speaking before a battery of microphones, he shook his finger and said, "The Vietnamese people are determined not to give in to any threat and to face up to continued American aggression."

Wallace attack trial postponed

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI)—Prince Georges Circuit Court Judge Ralph W. Powers Monday delayed the state trial of Arthur H. Bremer, the accused assassin of Arizona Gov. George C. Wallace, until July 31.

Powers postponed the trial, slated to begin Wednesday, on a motion by Benjamin Lipsitz, the defense lawyer.

Powers said it was his "impression that in view of the time schedule and the circumstances, it appears that in the interests of justice the defense is entitled to a continuance for a relatively short period of time."

He made the announcement after a half hour meeting with Lipsitz, and state's attorney Arthur A. Marshall.

Bremer, 21, a former Milwaukee busboy, is charged with assault with intent to murder Wallace and three others May 15 in a Laurel, Md., shopping center.

He is undergoing court-ordered psychiatric examinations at Clifton T. Perkins State Hospital and was not present for Monday's pretrial hearing.

If convicted on the state charges, Bremer could receive a total sentence of 135 years in prison. He has pleaded innocent on the grounds of insanity. If found insane he could be sent to a Maryland mental institution for an indefinite period of time or until he is ruled sane.

Federal charges were indefinitely postponed last Friday to allow the state to proceed with its case.

Tear gas disperses NJ mob

LONG BRANCH, N.J. (UPI)—Police used tear gas early Monday to disperse a mob of about 200 youths who began throwing firebombs and bricks at passing cars and police several hours after a gang fight was broken up on the Boardwalk.

Police Capt. Carroll Green said about 75 riot-gear officers moved through a three-block area bounded by Chelsea Drive, Laird Street and South Broadway at about 1:30 a.m. as the youths tossed bricks, tire irons and debris at passing motorists and police.

Green said the mob quickly dispersed after the tear gas was fired. "They couldn't see," he said.

Patrolman Ronald Matthew suffered a minor injury when hit in the groin by a brick.

A firebomb smashed the rear window of a patrol car but rolled off to explode in the street. Four policemen escaped injury.

There were no arrests during the early morning fracas, Green said, but one youth, identified as George Vega, was arrested during the gang fight that broke out at about 10:30 p.m. and cleared the Boardwalk of Sunday night strollers.

One youth also was treated at a hospital for stab wounds.

POW outlook still bleak

WASHINGTON (UPI)—With the resumption of the Paris talks on Vietnam, the outlook for American prisoners of war looks as bleak as ever.

A look at French experience with the North Vietnamese suggests that Hanoi will drive a hard bargain to the very end.

President Nixon expressed interest in the fate of the French prisoners of war in Indochina when he declared in a news conference June 29 that after the disengagement of French forces in 1954, 15,000 French were unaccounted for.

Although this statement does not appear to be strictly accurate, it is true that thousands of soldiers — French and Indo-Chinese — did not return. Furthermore, the North Vietnamese in the 1950s blatantly used the prisoners to bargain for tactical military advantages, and to wring out propaganda confessions.

You can't read the history of the French involvement in Indochina without being impressed by the atrocious treatment to which the prisoners were callously subjected," a State Department official commented recently.

Nonetheless, the North Vietnamese may be according the American prisoners better physical treatment than the French. While the North Vietnamese have refused inspection of their camps by the International Committee of the Red Cross, they have gone to some lengths to convince the world that the American prisoners are being given medical care and food.

On the other hand, in 1972, the North Vietnamese are using the prisoners as a bargaining chip in their proposals at the Paris peace conference, which resumes Thursday. In their seven-point proposal of June 26, 1971, the Hanoi leaders have linked the release of the prisoners to the withdrawal of U.S. troops and to the overthrow of the current government in Saigon.

Apparently, the heighten pressures in the United States, the North Vietnamese negotiators have occasionally said publicly that the prisoner of war issue might be handled independently from the other problems involved. But they have never stated this in the private negotiations, U.S. officials report.

France in 1786 outlawed the practice of ringing church bells to appease thunderstorms after a 33-year period in which lightning killed 103 bellringers.

Special use permit required for access

OGDEN, Utah (UPI)—The Forest Service announced Monday new regulations requiring miners who operate on National Forest lands in the Intermountain Region to obtain a special-use permit for access to their claims.

Regional Forester Vern Hamre in Ogden, Utah, said effective immediately, a permit is necessary before a prospector or miner begins to construct or maintain a road or use any cross-country access to mining claims within the National Forest.

Hamre further stated that if an existing Forest Service road is used for haulage of an appropriate road-use agreement will be necessary.

Forrestal hit by fire again

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—Fire damaged the officers' quarters aboard the attack carrier Forrestal Monday but no injuries were reported. A 1967 fire killed 132 persons and injured 62 others.

A Navy spokesman said the fire was reported at 9 a.m. in the "flag officer's area" one deck below the flight deck in the center of the ship. Firemen quickly contained the blaze but it burned until 11 a.m.

A spokesman said the section of the ship hit by the blaze contains quarters for the captain and fleet admiral. The cause of the blaze was unknown and officials declined to estimate the amount of damage. A team was scheduled to begin an inspection late in the day.

Five units from the Naval fire station sprayed thousands of gallons of water to keep nearby bulkheads from buckling in the heat.

The 1967 fire occurred while the Forrestal was stationed off the coast of Vietnam. The fire swept over the flight deck, trapping crewmen below.

President Nixon, in his June 29 news conference made it clear he obstinately sticks to his warmongering policies. Such action is not likely to favor negotiations," Thuy said.

Speaking before a battery of microphones, he shook his finger and said, "The Vietnamese people are determined not to give in to any threat and to face up to continued American aggression."

Drunken Lion
Is Kittenish

Another African animal known to get drunk intentionally on fermented berries is the lion. As previously reported, the elephant does, too. And the baboon more notoriously than any. An inebriated baboon reportedly turns belligerent. And elephant just staggers around. But a lion in this unwholesome condition is said to become kittenish. Among my numerous money-making notions is a plan to film at some distant future date a television wildlife special featuring a drunken lion with a one-ton ball of yarn.

QUERY "What's it with you, suppose you were an idiot, and suppose you were a member of Congress?" but I repeat myself?"

SHE DESCRIBED her husband as "a bore," did this San Antonio wife who filed for divorce. "Just what is a bore?" inquired the judge. She thought about it, then quoted, "A person who deprives you of solitude without providing you with company."

The record shows the judge regarded that as grounds sufficient.

POLITICS Political candidates are notoriously bad credit risks. Take the 1968 campaign. Almost all the presidential candidates chartered commercial jets. But most couldn't afford them. A lot of those airlines couldn't collect, so ultimately — shrug — settled for half price.
