

Demos nominate Sen. McGovern

By STEVE GERSTEL
MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Arming for November, George S. McGovern set about today choosing a running-mate acceptable to both the coalition of discontent which nominated him for the presidency and the angry old pros who think he can't win it.

Vice presidential ambitions swelled in a dozen hearts while McGovern pondered his choice. Whispers and rumors and speculation — and clandestine campaigning — were evident wherever Democrats gathered.

But McGovern kept to his rented penthouse and kept his own counsel. Some of his associates said he had narrowed the list of possibilities to four. Others insisted 12 to 14 names were still being considered.

Wallace
Chisholm
Sanford
Humphrey
Mills
Muskie
Kennedy
Hayes
McCarthy
Mondale
Abstain

In a living room crowded with kinfolk and confidants, McGovern watched his nomination on television under the heat and glare of television lamps recording the moment.

After 18 months, starting from nowhere, the candidate of discontent had won. His eyes shone bright with emotion. He kissed his sisters and his nieces and shook hands with the men, then went back to writing on a yellow pad with a felt-tip pen the acceptance speech he will deliver tonight.

But hostility remained from the old guard. On the convention floor, the die-hard supporters of Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie cast their votes for the token candidates or for Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, a party warhorse, rather than go with the obvious winner.

Jackson and Alabama Gov.

George C. Wallace remained unreconciled to the bitter end to a McGovern candidacy on a liberal platform — and so did Wallace's antibusing supporters and Jackson's labor supporters.

The votes of Illinois delegates who had ousted and antagonized Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley provided McGovern's majority. Illinois swelled his total to 1,728.35 votes, 219 more than a majority — showing how close it might have been had he not recovered 151 California delegates taken from him by the party's Credentials Committee in an act he had decried as foul and evil.

Big gains reported for blacks

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Black Americans made solid gains in education, income and job opportunities between 1960 and 1970, a Census Bureau report said today.

In northern and western states, young black families reached an income comparable with that of their white counterparts.

In a study based on statistics from the 1970 census, the bureau cited gains in home ownership and young strength for the nation's 23 million black citizens. More black youths are attending college and fewer are dropping out of high school, the report said.

"Overall, however, in 1972, blacks still lag behind whites in most social and economic areas, although the differentials have narrowed over the years," the report said.

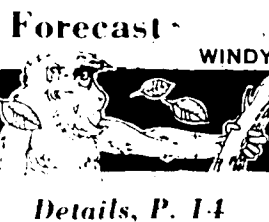

The most impressive gain, according to the study, was among families under 35 years of age in the North and West where both husband and wife worked in that category, the median income for black families in 1970 was $11,045 in 1970 compared to $10,578 for a comparable white family.

For the nation as a whole, the young family income figures were $9,287 for blacks and $10,396 for white.

The report also noted that young black working wives earned about 30 per cent more than their white counterparts.

In education, the study showed that the high school dropout rate for blacks had dropped sharply to 11.1 per cent in 1971 but was still higher than the 7.4 per cent rate for white students.

Burley boy drowns

BURLEY — An 11-year-old Burley boy drowned Wednesday afternoon when he fell into the Snake River while fishing near Burley.

Joseph Gabriel Herrera, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Herrera, Burley, was fishing with several friends at the old pier and pump house north of an old sugar factory in Burley when he fell into the river and failed to surface.

Cassia County Coroner Dr. L. L. Fillmore, summoned to the scene of the accident, pronounced the boy dead.

The body was recovered by the Snake River Diving Team about 30 feet from where the youth had fallen into the water about an hour earlier. The accident was reported to police at 3:20 p.m.

Cassia County Sheriff's officers are investigating the incident.

Reds reject Nixon plea as 'absurd'

PARIS (UPI)—The Vietnamese Communists today rejected President Nixon's latest peace plan as an "unreasonable and 'absurd' ultimatum" and said they will settle for nothing except acceptance of their own plan.

North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy and Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong foreign minister, turned down Nixon's plan and pushed their own, long-rejected peace package, when the Vietnam Conference resumed after a 10-week suspension.

The Communist delegations' stand, coupled with a violent condemnation of U.S. air strikes in Vietnam, failed to move the conference off dead center as had been hoped in Washington.

US now uses chemical weapons in war effort

SAIGON (UPI)—U. S. warplanes are using a full range of non-nuclear bombs in the attempt to beat back the 106-day-old Communist offensive, military sources said Wednesday.

Sophisticated bombs rarely if ever used in South Vietnam now are being dropped regularly on Communist-held portions of the country, the sources said.

They in effect confirmed a Viet Cong claim that American planes were dropping chemical bombs in Communist-held Quang Tri Province. The sources denied, however, that the bombs were either "toxic" or "poisonous" as claimed by the Communists.

The only gas used in the bombs, they said, are standard riot control agents — CS1, standard tear and nausea gas; and CS2, a powdered, more potent form of the gas.

An official Air Force description of the bombs involved, code named BLU52, says each contains 270 pounds of the gases, which have long been used by U. S. forces in South Vietnam.

"After the bomb is released, the thin-skinned bomb case breaks open on impact with the ground, spreading its contents over a wide area," the description says. "CS1 will last for three to five days and CS2 will last for 30 to 45 days."

Arraignment planned in grisly hit-run mishap

JEROME — A Jerome man was expected to be arraigned today following a hit and run accident that caused a Wendell girl to lose a leg.

Jerome County Pros. Atty. Eugene Frederickson said Carl Dean Lambert, about 20, would be arraigned for the alleged failure to stop at an accident and hit and run.

The victim in the Tuesday evening accident, Cherie Hobday, 16, was in good condition today at St. Benedict's Hospital at Jerome after she lost her leg in the accident.

A spokesman for the Jerome County sheriff's office said Lambert would be taken into custody following the issuing of a warrant.

Jerome County Sheriff Pat Burns said Miss Hobday was riding her bicycle on Appleton Road two miles west of Jerome when she was struck from behind by a fast moving car.

He said the driver made no apparent effort to stop or slow down following the accident. He cited a lack of skid marks in the road as evidence of his statement.

Frederickson said Lambert would be arraigned today before Russell C. Shaud in magistrate's division of district court. He said the charges to be filed against Lambert were indictable misdemeanors under state law.

Burns conducted the investigation into the accident, with assistance from Gooding County sheriff's officers and the Jerome, City Police Department.

Gem delegates boost McGovern but balk at mentioning lettuce

By DWIGHT JENSEN
Special to the Times-News.

MIAMI BEACH — After deciding not to mention lettuce, Idaho's delegation threw the bulk of its support behind Sen. George McGovern.

"Madam Chairman," Gov. Cecil Andrus told the Democratic National Convention Wednesday night, "Idaho votes two votes for Congressman Chisholm, two and one half votes for Sen. Henry Jackson and 12 and one half votes for Sen. George McGovern."

No mention was made of lettuce because the Idaho delegation, after a long wrangle, voted against such mention.

Gov. Andrus cast the tie-breaking vote against mentioning lettuce.

Earlier in the day, the Idaho delegation in caucus went through a long wrangle over whether to support the Cesar Chavez lettuce boycott.

Several states have used their place on the roll call to announce that they support the boycott. Delegate Pedro Lopez, Weiser, asked that Idaho do the same. Andrus said, "If we are going to do that, we had better be prepared to take the second step and support a potato boycott. I am not ready to do that."

There followed an argument not only on the merits of the case, but also on such parliamentary questions as who could vote on it. Andrus limited the voting to delegates, excluding alternates and other Idahoans in the room.

Mike McNichols, Orofino, moved to leave it up to the governor's discretion.

Ralph Harding, Blackfoot, said, "The most important thing is to elect George McGovern president in November. If you think an announcement on national TV that we support the lettuce boycott will help a McGovern ticket in Idaho you're kidding yourselves."

Some other delegates argued that the most important thing was to let the nation know that a new political age was dawning.

The vote on the motion was seven and a half to seven and a half. Andrus cast the tie-breaking vote and there was no announcement about the lettuce boycott.

When McGovern went over the top on last night's roll call, most of the Idahoans stood in front of their chairs and joined the brief shouting celebration that ensued. Some members unrolled a large blue and white sign saying "President McGovern in 1972."

There was an embarrassing moment in the afternoon caucus. A man identifying himself as Bob Camilari said he represented Hubert Humphrey and asked to speak to the group. He began by saying "George McGovern has double-crossed you and I can prove it."

He continued in that vein for several sentences before Governor Andrus stopped him to inquire more closely about his connection with Humphrey. Camilari then admitted that Humphrey had not sent him, Idaho's delegate, Ray Brandt, Boise, said Camilari's views did not represent Humphrey's position and the visitor was instructed to leave the room.

Delegate Bill Williams, Albion, made a brief appearance to seek support for George Wallace.

TF wrecks injure 2

SIMULTANEOUS bicycle accidents injured two Twin Falls youths Wednesday night. At left, Ronnie Robinette, 10, son of Mrs. Shirley Robinette, and Patricia Little, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Little, were hurt in accidents in the Lynwood shopping area parking lot at about 10:30 p.m. Robinette collided with another unidentified boy on a bicycle in front of the Greenawalt's store. He received a cut on the back of the head. Miss Little was riding west on Filer and attempted to turn left into the Arctic Circle driveway. She hit the curb and fell on her left arm, breaking it. Both youths were treated and released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Hijackers commandeer two passenger planes

By United Press International
Two men believed armed with a bomb, a pistol and a shotgun commandeered a National Airlines passenger jet today, demanded and received a $600,000 ransom and parachuted, and then forced another National craft from Philadelphia to Texas.

The plane, with six crewmen held hostage, landed at a tiny commuter airport 50 miles south of Houston. It blew out four tires on landing and officials said it could not possibly take off again because of the airport's size. Authorities also said there were no facilities at the airport to refuel the craft.

At about the same time, a gray-haired man surrendered after he succeeded in obtaining a $200,000 ransom from American Airlines in Oklahoma City following the hijacking of an American 727.

In the National hijacking, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said the pilot of the first National craft the two black men hijacked while during a flight over New York jumped through a window to escape while the craft was on the ground in Philadelphia.

The two men then transferred to another plane with six crew members as hostage. The 113 passengers of the original craft were set free.

After the second plane landed in Freeport, the flight engineer was shot and wounded and the copilot was pistol whipped. Both were taken to a Freeport hospital.

In both cases passengers had been released and the crew held as hostages.

Both incidents began Wednesday night when the hijackers seized the planes and demanded parachutes plus ransom totaling in excess of $1 million.

The first hijacking occurred about 7 p.m. EDT as a National Airlines 727 jetliner with 118 persons aboard was making its final approach to John F. Kennedy Airport in New York.

Two armed men, demanding three parachutes and $600,000, some of it in Mexican pesos, diverted the plane to Philadelphia where it landed while officials scurried about in an attempt to procure the money.

Less than two hours later, a man identified as Melvin Marvin Fisher, 49, of Norman Okla., commandeered an American Airlines 727 shortly after takeoff from Oklahoma City enroute to Dallas, federal agents said.

The man, who demanded $550,000 and parachutes, ordered the plane with its 50 passengers and crew of seven, to circle the Dallas-Forth Worth area but eventually permitted it to land at Oklahoma City.

The passengers on the plane in Oklahoma City were released by the lone hijacker.

For reasons not immediately known, however, he surrendered in mid-air. The pistol he was carrying was found to be empty.

In Philadelphia FBI agents refused to turn the money over to the air pirates until the passengers were released.

Two men sentenced in threat

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Two Salt Lake City men received sentences Wednesday for separate incidents of threatening to blow up airplanes.

Ronald D. Rearick, 31, was sentenced to 20 years in federal prison for interference with interstate commerce by threat of violence. Chief U.S. District Court Judge Willis W. Ritter also sentenced Rearick to five years in prison on a charge of conveying false information regarding the destruction of aircraft.

Also sentenced was Leon E. Faulstich, 38. Rearick was found guilty May 19 of a March threat to blow up a United Air Lines jetliner, unless $1 million was delivered by airline officials.

On June 29, 1941, he was married to Dorothy Bradley at Wendell. Shortly after their marriage they moved to Jerome, where they lived until 1966, when they moved to Compton, Calif.

At the time of his death Mr. Olson was living in Hemet, Calif. He was a member of the Church of God.

He is survived by his wife at Hemet; three sons, Eugene Olson, Marloma, Calif.; Robert Olson, Baldwin Park, Calif.; and Roger Olson, Romoland, Calif.; one daughter, Sylvia Olson, Downey, Calif.; one brother, John Olson, Alameda, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Charlie (Charlotte) Weiser, St. Joseph, Mo.; and four grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his parents, one brother and one sister.

S. Viet forces leave route open

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese forces fought on three sides of Quang Tri City today and purposely left an escape route open to the city's North Vietnamese occupiers.

Military sources said South Vietnamese troops left the western side of the city open for a Communist escape across the Thach Han River, which at this time of year is easily forded because it would make the government's 16-day-old drive to recapture Quang Tri City easier if the North Vietnamese troops can be surrounded and forced to use of the escape hatch.

The U.S. command announced 16 American advisers were wounded in South Vietnam in the past three days, 10 of them in the counter-offensive to retake Quang Tri City, and two were missing.

The old imperial capital of Hue, 32 miles south of Quang Tri, was bombarded with 43 Soviet-built 122mm rockets today, killing two civilians and wounding seven. It was the first time Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, had been hit since a week of shelling ended last Saturday.

The Saigon command said on today's three battle fronts north, northeast and southeast of embattled Quang Tri City, 68 North Vietnamese were killed at a cost of four South Vietnamese dead and 22 wounded. All told Wednesday and today, the command said South Vietnamese troops knocked out 25 Communist tanks.

In a delayed report, the U.S. 7th Fleet announced today that gunfire from the heavy cruiser Newport News and the destroyers Shelton, Davis and Warrington off the coast of Quang Tri destroyed six tanks Tuesday near the city.

Off North Vietnam the same day, the destroyers Robison and Hammer reported blowing up one barge and damaging two others that were unloading supplies from a foreign freighter near Hon La Island, 65 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams.

American loses 1st chess game

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) — Bobby Fischer, already one game down in his drive for the world chess championship, today threatened to walk out on the second match with titleholder Boris Spassky unless all television cameras are removed from the hall.

Fischer's demands were presented by Fred Cramer, a vice president of the U.S. Chess Federation, at a closed meeting with representatives of the International Chess Federation (FIDE), the Icelandic organizers and representatives of U.S. companies owning the television rights to the match, international chess sources said.

The referee of the match, Germany's Lothar Schmid, said Fischer will lose the second game by default if he does not turn up for the scheduled 5 p.m. (1 p.m. EDT) start today.

Schmid also said organizers will not keep spectators from the first two rows of seats in the hall as they did during the first game on Fischer's request. The 29-year-old New Yorker walked out for 35 minutes Wednesday to protest two television cameras hidden above the stage where the players sit at the chess board for their championship match, scheduled to run a maximum of 24 games.

Although he went into the much-postponed first game a heavy favorite, Fischer made what appeared to be a beginner's error and went down to defeat at the hands of the 35-year-old Soviet world champion. The moment of truth was painful. Fischer rose from the massive mahogany chess table, made a helpless gesture and resigned at the 56th move. Before stomping out of the hall, he reached over to shake Spassky's hand.

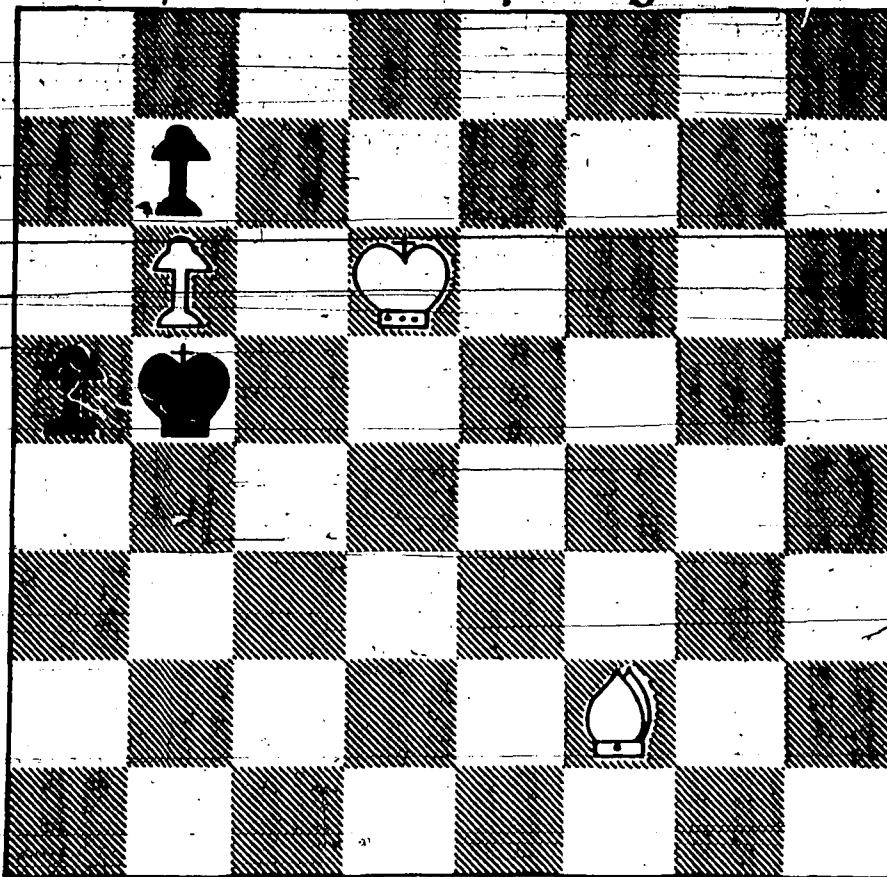

Fischer obviously was upset but Cramer, who is a member of the American's camp, said "he is a pro and this is part of the game. I believe he has got enough to come back in the match. After all, there are 23 possible games left."

Fischer locked himself into his hotel suite with his second, Father William Lombardy, a Catholic priest who is a grandmaster, to analyze the lost game and prepare for today's encounter.

The challenger lost the first game at the 29th move when in taking one of Spassky's pawns he allowed his bishop to be trapped. By doing this he in effect exchanged one bishop for two pawns — an action which favored the champion.

Although Fischer made a desperate attempt to turn the game into a draw, it became obvious that Spassky could not be kept from promoting a pawn to a queen, thus making an eventual checkmate a certainty.

Longshore dispute ends

HONOLULU (UPI) — Negotiators for Hawaii's longshoremen and the stevedoring industry reached agreement Wednesday night on a new contract, following 15 months of sporadic talks and mounting fears of a devastating strike.

The announcement by federal mediator Reynold F. Hagist ended the fears that the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) would launch a strike that could be a tough blow to Hawaii's vulnerable economy.

Representatives for both sides left the ILWU headquarters shortly before midnight, smiling and congratulating themselves. "The parties have reached agreement on all issues in the longshore dispute," Hagist said, adding that the agreements are "subject to the required ratification of the ILWU membership."

Bernard T. Eilerts, chief industry spokesman, said "the agreement we have reached is a fair one." Terms were not disclosed. Legally organized "land runs" were a unique Oklahoma institution and one of them resulted in Oklahoma County growing from zero population to 10,000 in one day.

13 indicted for July 4 mass rape

OAKLAND (UPI) — Thirteen motorcycle gang members from Oakland, Calif., Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah, were indicted Wednesday for a July 4 mass rape of two teen-aged girls from Victoria, B.C.

The two 17-year-old girls, on a tour of America as a high school graduation present from one of their parents, were homeward bound for Canada from the Big Sur area when they took a wrong turn off a freeway going through Oakland. They were looking for a motel for the night, but the area they found themselves in had no motels. Instead, at the first stop sign in the district, according to testimony presented to the Alameda county grand jury, the girls said they were surrounded by a group of motorcycle riders, one of whose members jumped into their car with a hunting knife and forced them to drive to a clubhouse.

There, they told the jury, they were repeatedly raped from 11 p.m., July 3, until 3:30 a.m., July 4, before they were released. They said they then found a motel and called police.

The next morning, after they had been released from the hospital, the girls showed police the house where the incident allegedly happened. It was staked out and the girls identified each of their assailants as he came out the front door. The man with the knife was not among them and police are still looking for him.

Alameda County Deputy District Attorney Wright Morton said the following members of the Sundowner motorcycle gang of Utah were charged with sex crimes: Billie Burton Jr., 23; David C. Murphy, 24, and John Dewitt, 23, all of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Duane H. Lacey, 31; Wayne A. Meyer, 23; Jack M. Jendrin, 24, and Vance A. Sommers, 20, all of Ogden, Utah.

They were held in lieu of $100,000 bail each and will be arraigned later.

'Evil eye'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Juanita Vasquez Garcia, 45, was arrested in a courtroom Wednesday and accused of staring at persons with an "evil eye" intimidating a witness and threatening to turn Judge John G. Benavides into a frog.

She was charged specifically with intimidating a prosecution witness by threatening to cause the unborn baby of the witness to be deformed.

District Attorney Charles Conaway said she affixed "the evil eye — a flat, unblinking stare" on persons in the courtroom during the burglary trial of one of her friends.

The woman was released on $2,500 bond.

Nixon, aide talk

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon engaged in a bit of psychological warfare with Hanoi Wednesday by holding a warm and friendly chat with the Soviet ambassador on the eve of the renewal of the Paris peace talks.

Presidential spokesman Ronald Ziegler said it was "only coincidental" that the meeting was held the day before the Vietnam talks resume. But he did confirm that Vietnam was among the subjects discussed in Nixon's hour-and-a-half session with Anatoly Dobrynin and the White House took the unusual step of inviting photographers in to record the event.

This focus on the warm relations between the United States and Hanoi's chief military supplier appeared to be an effort to add some pressure on the North Vietnamese delegation to take a more flexible stand in the negotiations. Ziegler said Ambassador and Mrs. Dobrynin had come west to inspect a recently opened Soviet consulate in San Francisco and had been invited to visit the Western White House by presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

Official City and County Newspaper
Pursuant to Section 60-108 Idaho Code, Thursday is hereby designated as the day of the week on which legal notices will be published. Published daily and Sunday, except Saturday, at 172 Third Street West, Twin Falls, Idaho, 83301, by Magic Valley Newspaper, Inc. Entered as second class mail matter April 8, 1918, at the post office in Twin Falls, Idaho, 83301, under the act of March 8, 1879.

He Woos The South

Like Stephen Leacock's uncle who mounted his horse "and rode off in all directions," Senator George McGovern mounted his Southern campaign and rode off in all directions.

While continuing his campaign to slash military spending, he said he would not close down military installations until new jobs were found for those affected.

He called for a multi-billion dollar effort to fight the nation's unemployment, with guaranteed public service jobs for Vietnam veterans unable to find private employment.

He proposed that government contract with private industry to take care of needs he said have been neglected because of the war in Vietnam, which he would end immediately by just pulling out all American forces upon release of war prisoners.

He promised appointment of Mexican-Americans to his cabinet and other high posts in reasonable proportion to the population and said he favored a gradual phaseout of the oil depletion allowance over a period of possible five years. At the same time, he said he favored a reasonable depreciation allowance for machinery.

McGovern said he favored repeal of the "right to work" section of the Taft-Hartley Act.

He didn't gain any ground in Texas, that's for sure.

The Southern conservative Democrats want more than promises from the candidate. They would like to see the price tags on McGovern's social revolution. They are disturbed over what McGovern did to the party with the uproar over credentials and the party platform.

ANDREW TULLY

A Pragmatic Campaign Comment

WASHINGTON — Bemusedly watching a gaggle of professional "poor people" cavort on the TV screen, a Democratic National Committee official roused himself for a pragmatic comment on the campaign his party's Presidential nominee must wage when all this foolishness is done with.

"Ideals — of course," he said almost snappishly. "We've always been the party of ideals."

But spouting ideals doesn't win elections. It takes hard, practical politicking. Our tiger has got to offer things that are possible, not dreams.

He was saying it as well as it could be said. Except for a few characteristic Democratic overtones, the candidate's "working" platform that will emerge from smoke-filled rooms in the next few weeks will be one that Richard Nixon could endorse with safety, if not enthusiasm.

The rhetoric will be grandiose and pugnacious, but the specifics will be blurred. As much as possible, the nominee will avoid identification with the crazies, even if he privately assures some of the less obnoxious zealots that he's with them in spirit.

The idea, after all, is to reassure the American voters that no revolution is contemplated, and at the same time, charm them into joining a cause. Indeed, for those who fear the "New Politics," there could be reassurance in the fact that even George McGovern went at the business of collecting convention votes just as the "Old Politicians" always did — by power politics.

At any rate, it is the nominee who will interpret the platform. For example, he is not bound by that document to dismantle the nation's defense establishment. He can employ carefully vague language like "prudent, responsible" and "a deterrent to potential aggressors" to soothe the hawks, even while patting dovish feathers by promising a "substantial" cut in the military budget.

On taxes, the nominee is committed only to "close loopholes" that favor the rich. There are even some rich people who go alone with that and, anyway, Congress will have the last say in the matter.

It is most unlikely that the nominee will go about the country announcing, in George McGovern's words, that he will "beg, not bomb" the enemy in Vietnam. No, he need only demand "an immediate and complete withdrawal of all U.S. forces in Indochina," which everybody from Main Street to the White House favors.

Moreover, the party's position now is that the release of all prisoners of war must be part of the peace package. That's Richard Nixon nodding his head in agreement.

Naturally, the nominee will come out against crime but in a bow to the liberals, he will promise to make sure that people are protected without undermining their fundamental liberties. For the crazies, this could mean a nice permissive approach; for Middle-America, assurance that the Constitution still lives and breathes.

Unless he suddenly loses his mind, the Democrats' tiger will avoid as the head cold any mention of amnesties for military deserters. Indeed, the official party line is that amnesty for draft dodgers would be granted "on an appropriate basis." The voter can define "appropriate" according to his ideological tastes.

Digesting all this, the voter may conclude that there is really not much wrong with President Nixon's policies that a Democratic administration couldn't cure. But unless he shifts at purple oratory of this a communist in the Democratic woodwork, he's not going to be frightened into a fit.

State Courts

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has offered a provocative proposal to help the state courts with their myriad problems.

Addressing a meeting of the American Law Institute, the chief justice proposed that Congress create and fund a national center on the state courts along the organizational lines of the existing National Institutes of Health. The center would be empowered to make grants to state court systems for programs designed to solve technical problems and improve court administration.

Mr. Burger, who increasingly has emphasized the importance of the state courts in our dual system, emphasized that the center would be committed to the independence of the state courts, not their federalization. In that connection, the chief justice offered some wise words on federal-state court relationships that are timely because every litigant these days, it seems, wants to make a federal case out of his grievance.

But Mr. Burger reminds us that "our basic system of justice lies within state power," not within the federal government. The federal courts, he added, are "courts of special and limited jurisdiction" within the rather plain meaning of the Constitution.

The national center proposed by Justice Burger, if it became a reality, should go far in improving the administration of justice in the state courts, restoring their prestige and at the same time bringing a better balance to federal-state relationships.

Bicentennial

The nation is not to have an international exposition to help celebrate its bicentennial year, which begins 3 1/2 years from now.

President Nixon has agreed with that recommendation from his bicentennial commission, reversing his earlier commitment to such an exposition in Philadelphia.

In its place, the federal government will assist in financing 50 mini expos, one in each of the states. How they will be developed, or even if they will be held, presumably now is up to the individual states to decide.

There are some lessons to be learned from the mistakes and disappointments which have marred the planning for the bicentennial up to now. One is that it was a mistake to rely so heavily upon Washington for direction and financing.

MR. SPECTATOR

It's Just Fantastic

Every once in awhile something comes up that is an earth rattler.

Latest is the advertising gimmick (or thought up, if you please) by the Idaho Bank and Trust Co. It's called "Design-A-Check" and the idea is that you send them a photo or a sketch of anything you have in mind — your face, your dog, your house, you and your wife, you and your girlfriend — and they will print it on your own personal checks.

We have been thinking this over and we can think of a lot of possibilities. One which looms highest in our thoughts, however, would involve members of a nudist colony. Gad! Are there any such things in Idaho and, if so, do some of the members have checking accounts in the Idaho Bank and Trust?

Of course, presenting a check with your picture in the nude on the face of it would be taking unfair advantage of anyone cashing the check. They would never notice the amount the check was written for!

But just think of the other possibilities. A guy sends in a picture of his wife — with him sitting beside her — and order 1,000 checks to be printed. A month later, after 150 checks have been used, they get a divorce. Should the checks be torn up?

Or you have a picture seated in your favorite auto and then wreck it and get a different one?

Well, the Bank officials suggest that this personalized check idea gives you the opportunity to sound off on love, war, peace, ecology, politics, traffic or what have you.

Like we said, ideas are always coming up. But this one of the Idaho Bank and Trust with offices in Burley and Paul in this area, just has to be the most!

And somehow our mind keeps drifting back to the nudist colony idea. Would that make it an "X" rated check?

Act Of God

WASHINGTON — The news that the United States has been secretly seeding clouds in Vietnam to increase and control the rainfall for military purposes has repercussions far beyond the war in Indochina.

For one thing, it opens up an entire new dimension in warfare and could cause all sorts of difficulties not covered by the Geneva Convention, the SALT talks or any treaties now in existence.

I went to the Pentagon to find out what it all meant. No one was willing to talk about the United States' rainmaking abilities except my friend, Orlando. He was very defensive about it.

"I don't think there is anything wrong with dropping rain on the enemy. For years we've been raining bombs on them, and it didn't work. So now we've decided to bomb rain. If we can get them in a quagmire, we can win the war."

"But what about the international repercussions of bombing rain on people?" Surely the Soviets and even the Chinese, have rainmaking machines which they could use against us."

"We are not making rain against the Soviets and the Chinese. We are only making rain against the North Vietnamese. They know that in Moscow and Peking."

"But it could rain on Russian ships and Chinese advisers in Vietnam."

"We are using smart rain bombs," Orlando countered. "They are programmed to hit only military targets. We have a laser beam that zeros in on a target, and then the rain is released. It's possible that an occasional civilian can be hit by the rain, but we are doing everything to see that no civilian gets wet."

"There is something wrong about this, Orlando," I said. "It seems to me that making rain in a war is a very serious thing."

"Wouldn't you have us drop rain on the enemy rather than bombs?" he asked.

"But you've been dropping both bombs and rain!" I protested.

"Next question," Orlando said angrily. "Suppose the Russians decide to seed clouds over the United States during the World Series? Would we consider this an act of war?"

"The Russians wouldn't dare because we could seed clouds over Siberia. We could flood everything from Vladivostok to the Black Sea. They know it."

"Well let me ask you this. This has been the worst year for rain in the history of the United States. It coincides with the discovery that we are making rain in Indochina. Is it possible that some Air Force planes have been practicing on us?"

"That's absurd," Orlando said. "Our training flights have never used anything but dummy rain seeds. I can say unequivocally that the Pentagon is not responsible for any of the rain we've experienced in the United States."

"Suppose someone else has been seeding the clouds around the United States — let's say the French or the Canadians. What can we do about it?"

"We have no intelligence that any foreign power is behind this year's rainfall. Every story we checked out has been an act of God."

"And in Indochina?"

"In Indochina it's an Act of Congress."

"An Act of Congress?"

"Of course, stupid. Read the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution."

PAUL HARVEY

Compatibly

In a capitalist country, government minds its own business and keeps altogether out of yours.

What'll you bet? When the SST — the super-sonic transport plane was under consideration in our Congress, the subject, as they say, generated much more heat than light.

So Uncle Sam, pioneer airplane builder and supplier for the world, ends up sitting on a nest of stale eggs while industry worldwide prepares to purchase its next generation airplanes from Britain — or France — or Russia.

And overlooked in the rhubarb was the fact that it cost the United States $578 million to terminate the program where it would have cost only $478 million to complete it.

Airplanes have helped us win hot wars and survive the economic cold war — up to now. When we sell some other country one Boeing 747, in the export-import balance that one plane equals 12,000 Volkswagens.

This discourse is not just for the purpose of rehabilitating the SST thing. What's distressing and potentially even more damaging to our interests is the misapprehension left in the wake of that fuss.

For example, some members of Congress protested that taxpayers must not finance industrial research, that we should not take government money to help private industry develop new products.

Research and development is a major activity of all industry — collectively we've put $25 billion into R & D in recent years — and most of that money was "government money," not private capital.

In 1971, almost three-fifths of our nation's total expenditure for the purpose was paid for by federal government.

Federal government performs as well as finances research. During 1971, 15 per cent of all research and development was performed directly by federal agencies.

Indirectly, it is almost impossible to guesstimate the degree to which federal monies contribute to the search for new knowledge.

Yet, when inflation is taken into consideration, our government has been spending less each recent year for research and development. Also nonfederal spending for R & D has declined the past two years.

The goose that laid all those golden eggs is threatened with starvation while our nation is under unremitting pressure to earmark more of each budget for "social services."

Where military spending increased 97 per cent in 10 years, welfare spending increased 944 per cent.

President Nixon, for fiscal 1973, dares to propose an 8 per cent increase in federal money for R & D without which our technology, in atrophy, is no match for the world's manpower.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Kidney Stones

Dear Dr. Thosteson: The doctor put my husband on medication for gout. However, since he began taking this white and orange capsule he passes kidney stones about every six weeks. He was in the hospital only once for the stones. Is there anything that will keep these stones from forming? — I. Y.

This might be a case of "take it - for - granted -itis."

It is true that gout, which involves excessive uric acid in the system, often causes kidney stones. But you can't take it for granted that all kidney stones result from uric acid.

There are different kinds of kidney stones. There are urate stones (from uric acid), oxalates, calcium stones, phosphate stones — and stones that are mixtures.

So in your husband's case, I'd say the first order of business would be to find out what kind of stones he gets. If they are, indeed, urates, then he may have to adhere more carefully to a low purine diet, along with his medication. Or, conceivably, he may have to change to some other anti-gout medication.

The acidity or alkalinity of the urine may have to be controlled, depending on the chemical nature of the stones.

Infection in the upper urinary tract can be a factor in stone formation. Recurrent stone-formers sometimes require more extensive studies to rule out such possibilities as overactive parathyroid glands, or vitamin A deficiency.

Some modification of diet may be called for if the stones are oxalates. Chocolate and many greens are high in oxalates.

If the stones are calcium, then restriction of calcium intake may be in order.

In any case involving stones, copious intake of fluids is important to keep the urine dilute and thus inhibit stone formation, but that is about the only general rule that can be offered for kidney stones.

They are, as you see, a varied problem, and the treatment varies considerably, depending on the type of stone.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has porphyria but is also an alcoholic. The doctor said he isn't supposed to drink at all, but he does, heaviest on the weekends — beer, wine, vodka, whisky. He also has epilepsy. What can be the outcome if he continues to drink as he does? — Mrs. J. C. H.

Outcome? Misery. Porphyria is a disorder in which the body does not properly handle pigments (coloring matter). This can affect various organs of the body, skin, liver and others. Nervous system complications are not unusual — which includes epilepsy.

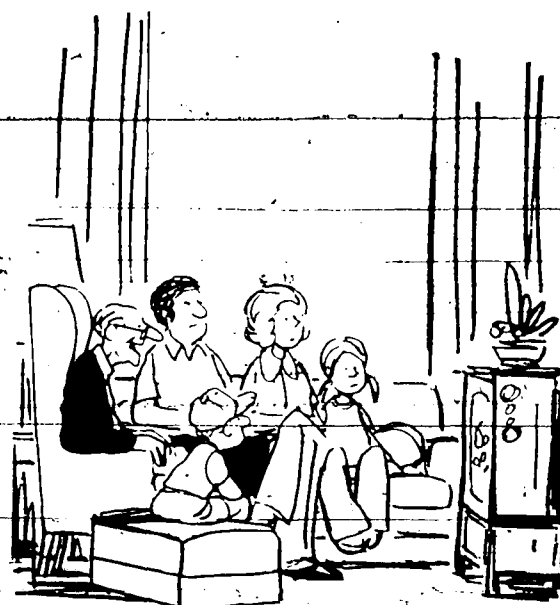

Attacks of severe pain can be precipitated by various things, but the principal ones to guard against are barbiturates and alcohol.

Porphyria can be of varying severity, but your husband apparently is doing his best to make his case as severe as he can.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told there are undesirable side effects of aspirin. What would you suggest as a substitute? Mrs. A. B.

I wouldn't stop using aspirin because there "might" be side effects. But if you DO have trouble from aspirin, then acetaminophen (Tylenol) is a drug that can be used by aspirin-sensitive persons. It has a different chemical structure but is an effective analgesic (pain killer).

Gem Demo hopeful airs meat prices

By United Press International
Democratic Senate hopeful
William E. Bud Davis said Wednesday the cattleman is not responsible for high meat prices.

Campaigning in Rexburg and Idaho Falls, Davis said cattle prices are about the same today as they were 20 years ago when the price of meat was 40 per cent less.

Meanwhile, Rose Bowman,

another democratic aspirant to the U. S. Senate, said in Pocatello that Congressman
James McClure is trying to fool the people of Idaho with his positions against government spending.

"It's impossible to be against government spending and still support billions for a war that all of us want to get out of,"
Mrs. Bowman said.

In an Emmett interview

Wednesday, Republican Senate candidate Glen Wegner said,
"the people of Idaho want a hard-working senator who will stick to business and establish a clear voting record."

"I say this because it's the people who will make the decisions this year, not the old political pros," Wegner said.

Tony Park, state attorney general and Democratic hopeful for the Senate, said in Lewiston Wednesday "Idaho must have help from the federal level to solve its growing unemployment problem."

He proposed a national job bank to help unemployed persons "find jobs where they exist," and a system of job relocation loans.

Meanwhile, Republican congressional hopeful Wayne Kidwell Wednesday proposed using electronics to encourage Idahoans to vote in greater numbers.

Speaking to the Nampa exchange club, he said,
"Statistics indicate the percentage of persons voting in general elections is decreasing each year."

Byron Johnson, Democratic candidate for the Senate, said in Nampa Wednesday that state and local governments should remit "all or part" of the taxes on housing occupied by senior citizens.

He said owners assistance should be made available to enable the elderly to retain their homes in the face of unreasonably high taxes and mountain maintenance costs.

Trapped

BOSTON (UPI) — Chester Robinson, a bartender, heard muffled cries early Wednesday morning and went to look for their source. He traced them to a chimney at Paul's Foodland, next door to the bar.

"In here, man, in the chimney. Get me the bell out of here," a voice called.

Robinson called the police. The police called the fire department which partially dismantled the chimney and poured salad oil over the trapped man to make it easier to ease him out.

The man, Robert Flower of Roxbury, was freed after seven hours. He was not injured.
Police arrested him for burglary.

More parking area set for hospital

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners toured Magic Valley Memorial Hospital property Wednesday afternoon to make plans for additional parking and a new exit system.

Chairman of the commission,
William L. (Bill) Chancey, said the county is hoping to provide additional parking space at the rear of the hospital and to black top the area now used by employees at the north end of the property.

Chancey said the commissioners and hospital officials are considering constructing a circle drive which would utilize the present hospital entrance area along the east side of the building, and add an exit route by constructing a new drive way at the west of the building.

Between the structure and Hook Creek canyon.
This would necessitate moving of some of the trees and reducing the lawn area by a small amount. Fill would be needed to build up part of the area considered for the roadway, he said.

"We probably will not get all of this done this year, but hope by fall to have a roughed in roadway and the parking area pavement completed," he said.

At the same time, Chancey said he and Commissioner Merl Leonard visited the site of the Rock Creek Park just west of the hospital. Fill dirt is being put in place at the present time so grass can be planted.

The commissioners said about 140 trees will be planted in the park area and picnic tables put in place. Chancey said there is a well now drilled and operating at the park site and the well house is complete with the pump installed. Officials of the Aberdeen Experiment Station, University of Idaho, visited the area to take soil samples Wednesday to advise on the most suitable types of planting, Chancey said.

Chancey said work will be undertaken as soon as possible to improve the road into the canyon area so the park can be enjoyed by area residents and tourists alike.

County commissioners also announced completion of the new seal coating on the county courthouse parking lot by the Eco-Logic Inc., Twin Falls.

The sealcoat is a new type of surface which dries immediately and while it looks wet was dry shortly after being applied, Chancey said.
Parking stalls will be striped in the near future to complete the project.

August price level predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury
Secretary George P.
Shultz says increased imports of beef and veal should bring about a leveling of meat prices in August.

Shultz said it was "very heartening" that foreign producers which supply about 75 per cent of American meat imports estimated they could increase shipments over the next 5-12 months.

Representatives of 12 meat exporting nations met Wednesday with Shultz, Acting Secretary of State John N. Irwin, II and other administration officials.

In return for increasing exports to the United States, the nations would get preferential treatment when quotas are set for 1973.

"This government when it considers 1973 quotas will loosen the quotas for those who help us in 1972," State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray III said.

Shultz said that Australia, for instance, agreed to increase its shipments from 5,200 tons of meat a week to 8,000 or 10,000 tons.

Besides Australia, other nations represented were New Zealand, Mexico, Ireland, Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras,
Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama, Dominican Republic and Haiti.

The prices most likely to be affected directly, Shultz said, are for hamburger, hot dogs and processed meats. But he said reduced prices on these products may ease consumer demand for better cuts and bring those prices down too.

The appeal for increased imports was needed because of stagnant response to President Nixon's action on June 26 of lifting import quotas.

The United States in 1971 imported 1.11 billion pounds of meat. The quota was hiked by 11 per cent this year, but Bray said it was not enough to have any effect on domestic prices.
U.S. production for 1972 was estimated at 23.3 billion pounds.

12,007 graduated from TF school

TWIN FALLS — Since 1980, there have been 12,007 students graduate from the Twin Falls High School.

George Stauda, superintendent of the Twin Falls school district, said the graduate lists which his office researched back as far as 1908 reflect the steady growth of Twin Falls. The first graduating class was in 1904 but no records were found prior to 1908, he said. In 1912, 1913 and 1915, estimate figures were used.

Only eight high school students graduated and the number increased by one for 1909. In 1923 the graduate list had climbed to 160, but it dropped back to 90 in 1925 and then continued to climb with fluctuations until 1952 when the number had increased to only 200.

Major growth was seen in the 60s when the 1959 figure of 269 had climbed to the all time high of 483 in 1965. The next highest number is the 461 who graduated in 1972.

Stauda noted there were 5,868 graduates in the school's first 44 years and 6,139 in the next 19 years.

July Y class slated

TWIN FALLS — The YWCA Slinnastics class will be held for the rest of the month of July.

Instructor is Mrs. Jack Straubhaar. Sessions are Monday, Wednesday and Fridays at 8:30 a.m. There is also exercise equipment available for use for those registered for the class.

Women joining the YWCA

Incorrect number

TWIN FALLS — The
telephone number of Mrs. Faye Sharp in the Twin Falls Canning Kitchen story in Tuesday's Times-News was incorrect.

The canning kitchen number is 734-4297 and Mrs. Sharp's number is 733-3497.

The kitchen will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on each Monday and Friday. Appointments must be made for canning chili, pork and beans and ham and beans.

Makes good recovery

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Troy (Elna) Jones reports she is recovering successfully from the same type of open-heart surgery which County Commissioner Heber Loughmiller is scheduled to undergo today at Boise.

Mrs. Jones, whose husband is security guard at the airport, underwent open heart surgery
June 8 at St. Luke's Hospital, Boise, to bypass three major heart arteries which were blocked.

She has just returned from a checkup in Boise, and reports doctors told her she may resume light housework, go camping, and may start driving soon. She is not to lift anything heavy.

The doctors expect complete recovery, she said, and she urged anyone needing heart surgery not to hesitate.

Voting indicates party split

By STEVE GERSTEL
MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—No better evidence exists of George S. McGovern's great difficulty in uniting the splintered Democratic party than the penciled figures on the roll call which won him the nomination.

The totals are fine. They gave McGovern the presidential nomination with 1,864 votes, an edge over his nearest challenger, Henry M. Jackson, almost large enough to win a second time.

But the impressive figures fail to hide the troubles that lie ahead for the prairie populist from South Dakota.

Although he finished far ahead and literally spread-eagled the field, he was incapable of convincing the backers of 11 other candidates that he should be the party's nominee, even though he had clinched the prize 48 hours earlier.

True, the final roll call included some throw away votes, sentimental gestures that might not have been made had the contest been close.

There were 10 votes for Edward M. Kennedy, who stated; time and time again, he would not run; 2 votes from memory lane for Eugene J. McCarthy; five diehards for Rep. Wayne Hayes of Ohio; and a mystery vote for Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota.

But the 485 votes for Jackson, the 377 votes for George C. Wallace, and 69 votes for Perry Sanford were serious. So were the 35 votes for Hubert H. Humphrey and the 20 votes for Edmund S. Muskie, although both had let their delegates go.

That bloc of votes was anti-McGovern. They were delegates who knew that their votes would be wasted but, for one reason or another, could not bring themselves to vote for McGovern.

After McGovern had clinched the nomination, thanks to the Illinois delegation, there was some speculation that an effort would be made to make the victory unanimous and, at least on the surface, let the 36th quadrennial Democratic National Convention go on record for unity.

Nothing of the kind happened. There were some vote changes—one here, two there, and seven in Minnesota who wanted to express their gratitude to Humphrey on the initial roll call.

But when the chairman of the Illinois delegation, Clyde Choate, tried to put his group on the record for McGovern, he couldn't do it. Instead, Illinois spread its favors among seven candidates—and Choate is not a reformer, but a Daley man. Then Shirley Chisholm, who had won 101 votes, came to the podium and, again, there was speculation that she, the most prominent black and the most prominent woman ever placed in nomination, would seek to heal the wounds and plead for unity.

In a white skirt and a flowered blouse, she stood before those cheering delegates and told them that Democrats have always fought among themselves and reminded them that "in unity there is strength."

'Try it . . . you'll like it'

Voting indicates new rule

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The vote from Southern states for the presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention Wednesday night dramatically demonstrated the new rules governing selection of delegates.

The unit rule, which for years governed the actions of many Southern delegations, was gone. Blacks were represented on all delegations—heavily represented on some. Young people and women made up large blocs on all delegations.

The changes were apparent in the voting. Shirley Chisholm, the black congresswoman from New York, was given 68 delegate votes from the 11 states of the South before votes were change after the decision became obvious.

Her total from the South, before the changes, made up more than 44 per cent of her national total. She got twice as many votes from the Mississippi delegation (12) as she did from her own state of New York (6).

Utah woman may get post

(Special to the Times-News)
MIAMI BEACH — There seems to be a good possibility that sometime within the next year, one of Idaho's neighbors will become the first woman to be Democratic National Chairman.

Sen. Frank Moss, Utah, said he believes Jean Westwood, Salt Lake City, has an excellent chance of being appointed to that position.

She is national co-chairman of the McGovern for President Committee, and at the convention led the campaign to win the California credentials fight for McGovern.

Moss told the Times-News that McGovern told him two weeks ago he would like to keep Lawrence O'Brien as national chairman.

O'Brien, however, has said he wants to return to private life, probably at the end of this campaign. If O'Brien does so, says Moss, McGovern has told him he would like to suggest Mrs. Westwood as the new national chairman.

Reform kills vaudeville

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Where were the bands? Where were the drum majorettes? The balloons? The funny hats? Oh, where were the spontaneous demonstrations of yesterday?

Gone, gone in the hot light of reform. Vaudeville is dead, and for the reformed Democratic National Convention, so, apparently, is the traditional spectacular of noise and color that used to be the hallmark of nomination night.

Back in the old days, nominating speeches went on and on, and always refrained from naming the object of their over-ripe tributes until the final sentence. Whereupon out of the parking lots would spring hundreds of people who had absolutely nothing to do with politics except to whoop, holler, blow horns, dance, and wave banners for the candidate who had paid them for a night's performance. Thousands of dollars were spent to produce the longest, noisiest and biggest show.

Wednesday night at the Miami Beach convention hall, the presiding officer announced in advance who was going to be placed in nomination and held a strict watch on the proceedings.

The candidates' supporters had just 15 minutes to make their nominations and seconding speeches. Any time spent in demonstrations came off the time for speechmaking.

Of course, there was some hoopla. The convention band did do a couple of rousing bars of music after each nominating speech, and delegates, got in some cheers and sign and banner waving. But nobody marched in the aisles, and when the gavel went down, the demonstrations stopped cold.

Some old-time convention watchers mourned the passing of the colorful phony demonstrations, but they died, at least for the Democrats, for several good and sufficient reasons.

First, they were starting to cost a lot of money, and Democrats still are in hock from 1968.

Fifth to win on 1st ballot

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — George McGovern is the fifth straight Democratic presidential nominee to be chosen on the first ballot.

In 1952, Adlai Stevenson won the nomination on the third ballot. He was renominated in 1956 on the first ballot, and thereafter John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson and Hubert H. Humphrey all were picked on the first roll calls.

Two men arrested near Mac's Hotel

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Two men were arrested by Secret Service agents near Sen. George McGovern's hotel Wednesday and charged with carrying concealed weapons.

The men were reported to be members of a black nationalist group called the Republic of New Africa. Agents later said there was no information to connect the activities of the two men with any possible harm to anyone protected by the Secret Service, such as McGovern.

The men told authorities their names were Alek Sonbeyatta, 32, and Ahmed Obatemi, 33. Late Wednesday the Secret Service said Sonbeyatta's real name was Wayne Harris Foster and Obatemi's real name was Jessie Dixon.

But said they were from Jackson, Miss.

They were taken before Florida Magistrate John A. Tanksley, charged with carrying concealed weapons, and held in Dade County jail with bond set at $100,000 for each.

Northeast Asia thought important

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The most interesting and potentially important part of Asia, according to one high American official, is the northeast where the interests of the United States, Russia, China and Japan converge.

Marshall Green, assistant Secretary of State for East Asia, believes this area contains enough natural resources, human energy, business acumen and technical knowhow to transform the face of the Orient if the various governments involved can cooperate.

At the same time it contains explosive elements which could shatter hopes for progress and peace for decades if precedence over human needs. China and Russia are at one another's throats and the settlement of their differences is not in sight. Japan is still feeling its way cautiously toward a new relationship with Peking after having been left out on a limb when the United States changed signals on China policy without notifying Tokyo. North and South Korea are still divided and until last week were threatening each other on the brink of war.

Korea is the center of the area Green describes as the "power belt." That is why, he told newsmen this week, he was most gratified by the surprise announcement that Communist North Korea and South Korea had agreed to begin negotiations for peaceful reunification of the peninsula. Green, who has just returned from a three week tour of Asia and has spent most of his career in posts from Seoul to Jakarta, is no misty-eyed dreamer. He has always had a reputation as a relative hardline officer. For that reason, his optimism is taken more seriously.

Green says he believes the move toward settlement of differences between the two Koreas reflected a growing awareness on the part of the Communist countries in Asia that their best interests lie in seeking diplomatic and economic progress and setting aside their extremist policies.

He emphasizes that the Communist countries, including China and Korea, have certainly not abandoned their revolutionary precepts but have simply decided that they can serve their own national interests best by a willingness to talk and possibly cooperate with their adversaries. He points out that in the non-Communist countries of Asia, pro-Communist revolutionaries are being replaced by persons interested primarily in nation-building instead of ideology. Green feels that not only the Communists but the Japanese must alter their approach to regional operations. Japan, according to Green, now has the bargaining power but is rather reluctant to use it because Tokyo knows that the Chinese, among others, still have some fear of resurgent Japanese militarism.

Filer approves mobile home park

FILER — Filer City Council approved the final plat for the Filer Mobile Home Park on Stevens Street at Tuesday's meeting in the city hall.

The new mobile home park owned by LeRoy Fleenor will have spaces for six units.

It is on Stevens Street, formerly U.S. Highway 30, and south of the Ralph Smith Mobile Home Park which has space for 11 units.

The council made a resolution that all money from state county and highway users tax will go into the city's street fund.

Ordinance passed annexing South Adel Street, another ordinance passed limits the number of animals residents of South Adel Street may keep. Regarding horses and cows, one horse and one cow will be allowed per each half acre.

Mrs. Helen Cannon, Twin Falls certified public accountant, gave her annual audit report which was approved by the council.

Hearings set for Ketchum drug raid

HAILEY — Preliminary hearings for all five people arrested in connection with the Ketchum Police's recent drug raids have been set for July 24.

All are charged with felonies possession and manufacture of a controlled substance.

Released on $500 cash bonds were Charles W. Dixon, 22, and Lee E. Claymore, 20, both Ketchum. Freed on $1,000 surety bonds were Scott E. Gerber, 23; Janice Gerber, 25, and Scott A. Meyers, 23, all Ketchum.

Arrests of Dixon, Claymore and Meyers stemmed from a July 6 raid on a Ketchum residence which netted police a garden containing over 200 marijuana plants.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerber were arrested the next day following a second raid on another residence during which numerous marijuana plants in pots were confiscated.

Ketchum police Chief Dennis Haynes has pledged more raids will be conducted during the next few weeks to stem illegal growth of marijuana.

Gooding man hired

BOISE (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy reports his In Lieu of Lands Committee hired University of Idaho geology graduate Leroy Mink, 28, Gooding, to work with the committee until fall.

The U. S. Bureau of Mines at the University released Mink so he could work with the committee for an unspecified length of time. He will locate specific grounds and build files of aerial photos, seek appraisements of and perform other duties.

The last legislature authorized the committee, Murphy said, to hire more help in carrying out its duties.

The committee is selecting and due the state of Idaho by the federal government. Last year the committee, as directed by the legislature, selected 21,000 acres and 17,000 to 18,000 remain to be chosen.

In other action, the committee worked on concluding phase three of the land acquisition project, about 2,000 acres in the central Magic Valley.

Murphy said the committee decided to proceed with selection of the acreage there and work up statistics and appraisals on the land.

Nixon seeks storm aid

SAN CLEMENT, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon announced Wednesday he would ask Congress to appropriate more than $1.7 billion to help rebuild communities on six Atlantic seaboard states devastated by tropical storm Agnes.

The President also said he would propose that Congress authorize special disaster loans to affected homeowners and businessmen in New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia and Florida at only 1 per cent interest. No payment would be required on the first $5,000 of a loan.

Never before has so thorough and so all-embracing a recovery effort been launched. Never was it more uniquely needed," Nixon said in a special, five-minute speech taped for radio broadcast.

In a third step to speed disaster relief, Nixon said he had invited some 500 mayors, county executives and other leaders from the stricken six-state area to attend a special conference with federal officials in Washington this Friday.

Frank Carlucci, deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, will preside at the conference. Nixon pointed out Carlucci's native of one of the hardest hit communities in Pennsylvania—Wilkes-Barre.

The $1.7 billion allocation, the President said, was the largest amount to be earmarked for recovery efforts in the United States.

US-Japan trade talks scheduled

TOKYO (UPI)—The United States will have a first-hand chance later this month to learn whether Japan's new premier, Kakuei Tanaka, really wants to help America improve its trade balance.

The occasion will be official U.S.-Japan talks on trade scheduled for July 25 in Hakone mountain resort west of Tokyo. William Eberlee, the U.S. presidential envoy, already has sent Japan a list of items America wants Japan to buy to close the gap in the two-way trade.

Tanaka, who formally became premier on July 6, indicated he would help but refrained from saying just how far he was willing to go. The United States had a deficit of $2.2 billion last year and is expected to register another $3.6 to $4 billion deficit this year if the present situation continues.

As Minister of International Trade and Industry in the cabinet of his predecessor, Eisaku Sato, Tanaka said Japan should spend at least $8 billion, half of its foreign exchange reserves, in buying raw materials and investment abroad. If he acts on what he advocated, his administration undoubtedly will encourage imports from America.

Government sources say Japan will attend the trade talks with tentative plans calling for the purchase of uranium, livestock feed and aircraft worth about $1 billion. This would be designed to ease growing pressure on Japan to open its doors to more American-made goods.

"If the trade deficit persists," explained an American economist, "the danger of 'protectionism' becomes greater and greater."

Being a pro-American politician, Tanaka is aware of the importance of keeping Japan closely aligned with the United States. Relations between the two countries, he said recently, are "like air and water. Without them we will all die."

Tanaka says U.S.-Japan friendship takes priority over all other issues, including the improvement of relations with China.

However, despite such statements the new 54-year-old premier has proved himself to be a tough negotiator. Japan budged very little until the United States in effect devalued the dollar last year which was followed by a 16.33 revaluation of the yen. The Smithsonian agreement was, from the Japanese standpoint, designed to make Japanese products less attractive on the U.S. market and foreign goods more attractive in Japan.

Despite this, Japan sold $2.1 billion worth of goods in America and bought only $1.2 billion in American goods in the first three months of 1972.

War asked on drunk drivers

BOISE (UPI) — Congressional Candidate Bob Purcell today called for mandatory jail sentences and heavy fines for all convicted drunken driver in order to "clean up" Idaho's highways.

Purcell, a Republican, proposed two plans to rid the highways of intoxicated drivers. One would be mandatory jail sentences and heavy fines for all convicted drunken drivers. His plan would also advocate suspension of driving privileges.

Purcell held a press conference at the Boise Municipal Airport before departing on a three-day tour of the first district that is scheduled to cover 11 different cities and towns.

Purcell's second plan would include a "ride" service by local authorities for those unable to drive themselves home because of too much alcohol.

"I'm not trying to protect the drunk driver. I want to clean the highways up," he said. "It will cost money but it will save lives. It is time to declare war on the drunken driver."

PERTH, Australia (UPI) — The West Australian government has declared a limited open season on shooting of a species of Australian kangaroo in some districts in the southwestern part of the state.

A government spokesman said reports showed a buildup of gray kangaroos in the southwest is causing problems to farms and increasing road hazards.

Ski hits boat

KEVIN CROFT, 18, Burley, collided with this 14-foot boat while water skiing in the Snake River Wednesday, leaving one of his skis stuck in the boat. Croft was taken to the Cassia Memorial Hospital following the accident.

2 women hurt at Ketchum

KETCHUM — Two women remain hospitalized today following a three-car accident Wednesday evening north of Ketchum.

Listed in fair condition are Ann C. Schwartz, 27, Sun Valley, and Alice Cartman. The Schwartz woman received whiplash injuries in the accident and the Cartman woman has a skull fracture and broken ribs, according to a Blaine County sheriff's deputy.

Three children in the Schwartz vehicle were also treated for minor lacerations and abrasions and released from the Moritz Community Hospital, Sun Valley.

The deputy said Christian A. Dietz, 43, Rupert, was traveling south on U.S. Highway 93 near the Eagle Creek Road following a car driven by Suresh P. Shivadasani, 32, Sun Valley. He said the Shivadasani vehicle slowed to turn to the left when it was struck in the rear by the car Dietz was driving. Dietz then skidded across the road into the oncoming lane of traffic and collided with the Schwartz vehicle. The accident occurred about 6:30 p.m.

Dietz was cited for inattentive driving. His vehicle was ruled a total loss by the deputy.

The Shivadasani vehicle sustained about $1,000 damage and about $500 damage was done to the Schwartz vehicle.

Fire crews assist in Utah fire

TWIN FALLS — Inter-regional fire crews from the Sawtooth National Forest and the Payette National Forest flew to Utah Wednesday night to assist on a large fire.

Sawtooth officials said 25 crew members from Gooding and about the same number from the Payette will be assisting on a large fire burning out of control in the Fishlake National Forest in southern Utah.

One helicopter from the Sawtooth forest also left for the fire area late Wednesday night.

Heyburn aides wrestle dogs, weeds

By LEE TREMAINE

Times-News writer
HEYBURN — The Heyburn City Council wrestled with problems of construction, dog control and weeds during its July meeting Wednesday night.

Building Inspector Bill McClung presented a proposed statement to be given to all contractors and others applying for building permits cautioning that complete building inspections are required at every stage of construction.

The Heyburn council has fought for several years to control an influx of substandard housing, while allowing the city's substantial growth to continue. Modular homes, built on factory assembly lines and trucked to the owner's lots, have concerned the council since local inspection was difficult on the finished structures. The council solved the problem by asking that the homes be inspected as they are built.

McClung said many local contractors apparently are unaware that building inspections are required at each stage of construction, under the Uniform Building Code, a standard set of construction criteria adopted by a conference of building officials.

The statement warns contractors that the new structure cannot be occupied until all inspections are completed satisfactorily and a signed certificate has been furnished. The council approved issuance of the warning to all contractors.

Several Heyburn residents attended the meeting to voice complaints about dogs running loose in the city. Mayor Harold Hurst admitted the city does not have a dog catcher at present but is considering an application. Owners of dogs should attempt to control them.

One problem, however, Hurst said, is that many dogs roam from house to house scavenging for food from sympathetic residents or available trashcans. The mayor admitted that "I seem to be feeding one large dog myself — not because I want to, but because he finds it at my place."

The city does allow pasturing of horses within the city limits, so long as no complaints are received from neighboring families.

AMBULANCE CREW members and local police officers carry Kevin Croft, 18, Burley, to Cassia Memorial Hospital Wednesday. Croft was injured when he collided with a 14-foot boat while water skiing in the Snake River near the Burley Municipal Golf Course.

Aerial spraying project to begin in area Friday

TWIN FALLS — A four-county aerial spraying program covering 380,000 acres to control grasshoppers should be launched early Friday, if the crews arrive from Arizona.

Aviation Specialists Co., Phoenix, Ariz., has been awarded the contract to spray land in Blaine, Lincoln, Jerome and Minidoka counties, according to Roger Pollard, Twin Falls, acting supervisor of the program for U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

The four-county effort will increase to more than half a million acres the grasshopper-infested land to be sprayed throughout the Magic Valley, Pollard said today. Reeder Flying Service, Twin Falls, is spraying 62,000 acres near Hollister, and another 140,000 acres area in Gooding County will be sprayed by a Washington contractor.

The spraying program involves co-operative agreement between the USDA Plant Inspection and Protection Service and the growers whose land adjoins federal rangeland. The planes will spray the federal land and adjoining private land at a cost of about 30 cents per acre to the grower, Pollard said.

The planes, flying in tandem to cover a 500-foot above the ground at a speed of about 180 miles per hour, spraying malathion at a rate of only eight ounces per acre, in a mist of tiny droplets. The spraying will be done in the early morning hours, as soon as the pilots have enough light to see the ground.

Pollard said aerial spraying, particularly of the insecticide, is a tricky business at best, as the ultra fine mist can be blown far from the desired area by the slightest breeze, while any heat rising from the ground will distort the spray pattern.

The area to be sprayed by the Arizona firm covers desert land north of Interstate 80 and east of Highway 93, between Shoshone and Minidoka, in northeast Minidoka County.

The hoppers are running about 20 to 25 per square yard in the infested area according to a rough estimate, well above the minimum of eight per square yard required to initiate the spraying program, Pollard said.

The spray program is expected to take about five days to complete if the weather is suitable.

Agriculture, education major Jerome problems

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — Agriculture and education were rated as the most serious problem areas for Jerome in a study made public Tuesday night.

William A. Shields and Dr. Victor S. Hjelm, members of the government research institute from Idaho State University, Pocatello, described problems in Jerome which were identified in a comprehensive survey conducted here last year and in 17 other Idaho communities.

Attending the meeting at the county courthouse were city and county officials, members of the planning and zoning board and interested citizens.

Shields said the information obtained last year was collected and analyzed according to six planning regions, into which the state was organized by Gov. Cecil Andrus last April.

The objective of gathering the problem data was to pinpoint areas considered serious among communities in each of the planning regions, and to provide leaders and public officials with the information, Shields said.

He explained that 18 community leaders in Jerome were contacted and asked to complete a questionnaire rating the severity of 184 problem items in their community on a scale from 0 to 5.

"A response of 0 indicated no problem and 5 indicated a very great problem," Shields said. "Under this system, 51 areas were listed as most serious problems for Jerome."

Low prices for farm products ranked first in severity, Shields said. Other problems connected with agriculture included the high cost of farm purchases, lack of employment opportunities in agriculture, declining farm population, too much government regulation of agricultural production, and lack of available capital and credit.

Education ranked second according to the number of problems listed in that area, Shields said. "Jerome has, according to the report, more problems in education than any of the other communities in the survey," he said.

He noted that Jerome is the only city surveyed that lists vandalism of school buildings and facilities in the top 25 per cent of problems listed.

Other problems listed in education were inadequate tax revenue for schools, lack of public support in the financing of schools, crowded classrooms, poor physical structures, lack of adequate financing for vocational training, lack of basic education programs for adults, lack of motivation from home environment to succeed in school, and over emphasis on athletics.

Shields told those present to bear in mind that this is an opinion survey. "All the problems listed are not all the problems facing this city and some are not as serious to some people as others may be. Maybe some of the problems which should be listed are not."

He said the survey is now one year old, and some of the problems may now be solved or greatly increased.

Other problems high on the list according to those surveyed were Jerome's lack of adequate airport facilities for business development and industrial growth, rental housing, employment opportunities, revenue to provide public recreational facilities, private recreational facilities, organized recreational activities for women, rail passenger service, recreational facilities for senior citizens, adequate city planning, adequate tax base and community renewal programs.

Also listed were low wages, unemployment or seasonal employment, and changing moral and ethical values among young people.

Dr. Hjelm told city officials of a community action guide which was prepared for the development of workable programs in the communities to solve some of their problems.

"While educational institutions, national and state government agencies and private industry have been charged with improving and maintaining our communities," Dr. Hjelm said, "the major responsibility for defining problems, for analyzing local needs and for planning and implementing programs still rests with local people."

Jerome Mayor Jack Russell said after the presentation, "Each official sitting here as well as private citizens, has to work on these problems if we are to solve them. No matter how many committees are appointed, it will take each of us as individuals, working together, to get the job done."

Cassia trustees approve Malta school bleachers

By LePAGE LAYTON

BURLEY — Construction of bleachers and a concession stand for athletic events at the Raft River High School were approved here Thursday night.

Cassia trustees of district 1151 discussed a proposal from the Malta Alumni Association for the construction and authorized the group of community boosters to go ahead with their plan under district supervision.

Elmo Ellison, association president, said the plan is for building the bleachers six feet high and 73 feet long with a 10 by 10 foot concession stand.

The group, he said, has sufficient money to pay for half of the cost of material and will provide all of the labor. They asked the district to provide the remaining half of the cost. Ellison said estimates from building suppliers indicate material can be purchased for a total 1,654.30. There are no seating facilities at the athletic field.

Trustees awarded a joint bid of $49,573 to Gem International of Burley and Williamson Equipment Co., Pocatello, for the purchase of six new 66-passenger school buses.

The Williamson Equipment Co. submitted a low bid on the bus bodies while Gem International offered the low bid on the chassis. The buses will be assembled in Richmond, Ind., and board members said about $300 per bus can be saved if the district drives them from Indiana to Rupert.

Board Chairman A. Paul Brown, who conducted the Wednesday night meeting, said no decision has been made on transporting the buses.

Two teacher contracts were approved for new teachers in the district.

Richfield sewer can progress

RICHFIELD — Richfield Mayor C. W. Ward announced today that work can go forward on the new sewer system in Richfield.

The city had been awaiting the outcome of a hearing held Monday by the State Highway Department.

No one appeared at the council meeting to protest the sale of the state land to the city of Richfield for use in construction of the new city sewer system. Now that the land has been purchased for an undisclosed amount, planning and work will be able to proceed, according to Ward.

The council approved the installation of a new four inch water line to be run two blocks east of the new cheese factory. Five residents in the area who have had low water pressure will be hooked up to the new line. A new fire hydrant will also be installed. There will also be a new six inch fire line run to the new plant, on the west borders of the Richfield city limits.

The city clerk, Mrs. Ross Swainston, reported that the city tax levy for 1972 will remain at $6,214.38.

Employee needed at Albion

ALBION — Applications for city maintenance man were read during the Albion City Council meeting Tuesday evening.

Lynn Orthman recently resigned the post. The applications were discussed and the council decided to interview each of the three applicants in person before any hiring is done.

Mayor Odeen Redman presided at the session.

The need for a city marshal was discussed at length. The city of Albion has been without a marshal for several months. Vandalism of many kinds has been reported including destroying city lights, riding of motorcycles and driving cars in the town park and just general harassment by youth to city residents.

Alva Wunder, councilman, reported the 18-inch culvert is expected to be completed within 10 days. The culvert is being installed across Highway 77 from the AA Market. This corner has flooded for years.

Herman Bedke, city attorney, reported the council did not have to act on the petition presented to it last month in regard to mobile homes being parked in the city.

Bedke offered two suggestions: either zone the town and leave a place for mobile homes or adopt a national building code which would ban mobile homes in the city completely.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bailey reported plans to build a new home outside of city limits and requested city electricity and water hookups. The request was approved by the council.

Mayor Redman reported he would inquire of several persons to see if they are interested in a combination marshal and maintenance.

Shopping center at Burley picketed

By GEORGIA LAYTON

BURLEY — Howa Construction Inc., Salt Lake City, contractors for the new Albertson-Skaggs shopping center, is being picketed.

The picketing began over the refusal of the Howa firm to sign a labor contract with labor local 267 and operating engineers 370 unions, Pocatello.

Picketing of the construction site began Wednesday. Nick Waters, construction superintendent, reported he was paying $6.32 per hour, which is union scale and he is using local people. He said that if he was to sign a contract with the union, there is not a union in the Burley area and workers would have to come from Pocatello and Twin Falls, necessitating the payment of travel time.

Presently Waters has about 10 local men working on the project. He said that if the men want to join the union, that is their business and that construction work would go on even though the picket line would make an inconvenience for the Teamsters Union which delivers steel and some other building materials to the site.

The union members will not cross the picket line and therefore would unload materials at the street leaving final placement to the company.

2 Gooding residents injured

GOODING — Jana Esterbrook and Merle Lehr, both Gooding, are reported in good condition at Gooding County Memorial Hospital this morning after being injured Wednesday.

Miss Esterbrook, 16, and Lehr, 67, were injured when the pickup trucks they were driving collided in Gooding at about 6 p.m. Wednesday.

Miss Esterbrook was traveling east on 10th Street, and Lehr was traveling north on Wyoming when the accident occurred. Miss Esterbrook was cited for failure to yield.

According to the Gooding City Police Department, about $600 damage was sustained by each vehicle.

Gooding group approves plans

GOODING — Planning commission members of Gooding County have adopted a resolution requiring their approval of all new construction or development in the county.

Action was taken in a meeting Wednesday night by the planning group. Other provisions of the resolution, which will not become effective until authorized by the county commissioners, sets a $1,000 cost minimum on items to be approved and requires final approval of the county commission.

The resolution will be presented to the county commissioners at the next meeting of the commission and some opposition is expected. Commissioners told the planning commission last month they did not think an ordinance such as this could be enforced until a comprehensive plan is developed.

members attending the meeting were concerned that it would be difficult to find someone to take the responsibility of answering calls from persons wanting to build in the county.

Allen Ravenscroft, the only commission member voting against the resolution, said that it wouldn't work if people had to wait a month for planning commission and county commission meetings to get an okay. He said there should be someone they can call to get permission right away or they will go ahead and build what they want anyway.

Ravenscroft said his firm cannot build a hay shed for less than $3,000 and that construction of that nature should not have to be approved by the commission or planning commission before construction can begin. He suggested that $6,000 be set as the cost limit requiring approval.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—The list continued to move lower Thursday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 5.87 at 917.28 shortly before 1:15 p.m. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was off 0.64 at 106.25.

Declines led advances, 937 to 326, among the 1,596 issues crossing the tape. The three-hour turnover amounted to 8,770,000 shares, compared with 9,700,000 traded during the comparable period Wednesday.

Pan American World Airways was the most active issue, unchanged at 15 on 423,900 shares, including a block of 380,000 shares at 15.

American Motors was second, up 1/4 at 4 1/2 on 200,300 shares. Stauffer Chemical was third, off 1/4 at 38 1/2 on 115,800 shares, including a block of 99,900 shares at 38 1/2.

Allied Mills was one of the big gainers, up 4 1/2. Continental Grain, which owns 53 per cent of the firm's stock, has offered to buy 500,000 more shares.

Utah International plunged 9 1/2 after a delayed opening. An industry analyst said the company's high growth rate would end this year, according to the Wall Street Journal.

Curtiss-Wright, holder of North American rights to the Wankel rotary engine, opened at 37 1/2, up 1 1/2. The future of the Wankel has been the subject of much critical speculation. Curtiss-Wright has been weak in recent sessions.

Airlines were mixed. Chemicals and oils were mixed. Steels, motors, rails and aircrafts were mixed in fractions.

Synopsis:

The latest in a series of thermal systems moving rapidly out of the northern Pacific into the northwest will move across southern Idaho this evening.

The portions of the front passing through this area will be very weak and no precipitation is expected in the valley. Temperatures will be a little cooler tomorrow but still average near seasonal normals. While moving inland yesterday the front dropped heavy precipitation amounts in western Washington, bringing most rivers near or slightly above flood stage.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—Some time ago I was advised to buy Cenco Inc. on the NYSE. I did not have the money then but do now. Would this still be a good stock for longer-term investment? —D.E.

A—A leader in medical and scientific equipment, Cenco Inc., through acquisitions, is engaged in several promising growth areas. The company is placing more emphasis on health-related fields, as evidenced by the rising proportion of total revenues these areas are contributing and by the firm's plan to drop "instruments" from its corporate title.

The company's latest move involves an agreement to purchase Life Labs of Calif., a leading producer of natural skin care items and health food supplements.

Over the years, Cenco has compiled a strong record, and fiscal 1972 has extended this pattern. For the nine months ended January, earnings per share gained 13 cents on a like increase in net sales and revenues.

Results for the full year (ended April 30) are anticipated in the $1.20-$1.25 a share area (adjusted for the 2-for-1 split), and estimates for fiscal 1973 range in the $1.40 area.

Moderately priced on these estimates and offering excellent future potential, Cenco is recommended for long-term appreciation.

Q—I bought Apco Corp. in 1963 at $15 a share. Should I sell or hold now? I don't need the money. —C.A.

A—With worthwhile earnings gains in prospect, Apco (NYSE) shares carry speculative recovery appeal and should be held.

Despite a 17 per cent profit decline in the company's 1972 second quarter, full-year results are still expected to hit previously projected levels. For the second period (ended May), Apco earned 15 cents a share versus the previous year's 18 cents, while sales climbed over 17 per cent to $33.2 million.

First-half results were reported at 27 cents a share versus the 30 cents netted in fiscal 1971. It is believed that nearly all of this decline occurred in the business systems group.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wall Street "desperately" wants peace. Indicator Digest says in its latest review. A "peace rally" last week indicated that when peace finally comes, "the reaction is likely to be spectacular," the firm adds. On the technical side of the picture, it notes that July is traditionally bullish, and it advises that any rally would provide a good opportunity for selling before any severe decline.

Faulkner, Dawkins & Sullivan looks at setbacks in Vietnam, the high rate of inflation for the first quarter of the year, price controls, unemployment, the economic policies of Sen. George McGovern and market technical statistics as negative factors bringing pressure on the current stock market. However, the firm also points to the overall economic upturn, the containment of short and long interest rates, the growth of money supply, little pressure caused by overseas monetary problems and increasing capital expenditures as positive Wall Street factors. From this, the firm says, "we derive that near term market prospects will remain highly volatile, but there is probably an upward bias to the trend."

Fem mechanics

NEW YORK (UPI)—Feminist Forums in New York recently offered women one-day home mechanics workshops. The basic course covered carpentry, electricity, plumbing and power tools.

The workshops were taught by Florence Adams who, worried about the high cost of renting space for herself and her two children, bought and rebuilt a brownstone. Ms. Adams stressed the practical approach to problem-solving and how to avoid the high cost of outside help.

Results for the full year (ended April 30) are anticipated in the $1.20-$1.25 a share area (adjusted for the 2-for-1 split), and estimates for fiscal 1973 range in the $1.40 area.

Easier test

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—A new test for detection of lead poisoning in children has been developed by New York State Health Department researchers.

The new process, which requires only a few drops of blood from a finger, employs a computer to analyze blood lead levels with greater speed and reliability than any previous testing method, according to Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, state health commissioner.

The method now in general use requires a large blood sample, which must be drawn by a syringe, and nearly twice as much laboratory preparation and analysis time.

Free demonstration set Saturday in TF

TWIN FALLS — A demonstration in acrylic painting will be given by Susan A. Hutchison at the Art Mart Saturday.

There will be no charge for the demonstration which will be given between 2 and 4 p.m.

Mrs. Hutchison was born in New York City and raised in a brownstone in the heart of Times Square. She spent the first 23 years in New York attending Hunter Elementary, a division of Hunter College, and then the High School of Music and Art. The high school is quite special for even at young age a child majors in either music or art, having four periods of art a day and carrying six majors as well.

She remembers having to be at school at 6:40 a.m. and not leaving until after 5 p.m. She wondered at that time if it was worth it, now looking back she realizes how valuable it was. "I was really determined in those days. I would take the three trains required to get me home, grab a bite to eat and head up to the Art Students League on 57th Street and paint in the evening sessions five evenings a week and morning and afternoon sessions on Saturday."

She started at the Art Students League at the age of 12 with an all-day Saturday class and for five years studied with many well known instructors and artists. She received five art scholarships upon graduation and attended the Art Students League where she studied fashion illustration.

After six weeks of concentrated study with Ann Schabbehar and Dagmar Freuchen she became a fashion illustrator for Russels Department Store.

She designed kitchens for Youngstown, designed fabric for Constance Green Designs, a top design studio, did magazine illustrations, pocket book covers, murals in restaurants and private homes, portraits and had her own art gallery.

"We began to tire of New York and my son and I moved to Los Angeles where I painted, exhibited in galleries and worked as assistant to two prominent fashion designers," she said.

She met her husband, Tom, during that time and he decided to move to Idaho. Susan is now a content and enthusiastic Idaho wife.

"We have the Bowl and Board. I teach adults and children, which I thoroughly enjoy, do paintings and portraits on commission and squeeze as many fishing, hunting, camping and canoeing trips in as I possibly can."

"What more could a woman ask for?"

'How to' planned

SUSAN A. Hutchison will present a demonstration in acrylic painting from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday at the Art Mart. There will be no charge for the demonstration. The public is invited.

New crust

SHOSHONE — For one-nine-inch pie crust, use one cup cornflakes or rice flakes, crushed, Jean Annet, home economist, said today. Add a quarter cup sugar and a third cup butter or margarine, melted. Mix the ingredients thoroughly, press into nine-inch pie pan and bake 5 to 8 minutes in a pre-heated 375 degree oven.

conducts women's meet

DEAR ABBY: We love the house we moved into last spring, but there is a problem with the boy next door. He is almost 16, and I have seen him looking into our windows with binoculars during the day time as well as at night. He also used to stare at me when I was sunbathing on our deck over our porch.

I thought perhaps it was just a young boy's normal curiosity, so I made certain the shades were drawn while I was dressing, and I never went around the house half-clothed.

It gave me a rather uncomfortable feeling to wonder if I were being watched, but I didn't really become upset until last week when I received an obscene letter from this boy. He wasn't even ashamed to sign his name.

Should I speak to him? Or should I go directly to his parents? Or should I just keep my shades drawn and my doors bolted and pretend that nothing has happened?

ANNOYED

DEAR ANNOYED: Go directly to his parents and tell them what you have told me. The boy appears to be disturbed, and needs to be psychiatrically examined. For his sake, and the sake of his family and society, please follow my suggestion at once.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the employer who made it a policy never to hire a teen-ager whose parents lined up the job reminded me of my own experience.

My father was well-connected in our town, so he would get me a summer job every year from the time I was 15. (I later learned that my father even paid my salary, which was a terrible blow to my ego.)

I was an average student, but my father used his influence to get me into his college which was way over my head. It took me five years to graduate, but it made my father very happy.

After graduation my father continued to run interference for me and to make a long story short, in his well intentioned efforts to help me, he all but destroyed my self-confidence.

Abby, please tell parents that unless kids are allowed to try their wings, they'll never learn to fly on their own.

STILL LEARNING AT 35

DEAR STILL: You did it very well. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: Your idealistic philosophy of "sharing and caring" is beautiful in theory, but it doesn't work. I learned that 15 years ago.

We took our young family to a public park, hoping to enjoy an outdoor picnic supper. We were all set to have a lovely time when a family of loud, crude characters moved in next to us and started to get friendly. They had a bunch of dirty looking children and a couple of mangy dogs sniffing everybody and everything in sight.

This unattractive carload of people soon took over the whole area. We had no privacy, and could hardly wait to pack up and head for home.

When we arrived home, we discovered several things were missing from our car. Then I remembered that a couple of the children had engaged us in conversation in order to distract us while some of the others were looting our car.

That cured us! Sorry, Abby, I am not interested in "sharing and caring," and chumming up to loudmouthed characters, thieves, juvenile delinquents, and dogs that urinate on my picnic basket.

"JUST ME" IN N. Y.

DEAR ABBY: Pardon me while I laugh at the foolish 47-year-old woman who refused to be called "Grandma." I married a widower with three lovely children 10 years ago. Today I am probably the proudest Grandma in the world, and I am only 29! GRANDMA (STEP OR OTHERWISE)

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 9700, L. A., CALIF. 90009 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

TWIN FALLS — The college of regents members were in charge of the Women of the Moose meeting Tuesday evening at the Moose Hall.

Mrs. Virgil Malone, collegian, led the session, assisted by Mrs. Gene Tyner, junior graduate regent; Mrs. Claude Severt, junior regent, and Mrs. Lou Hoffman, recorder.

Others participating who are not members of the college of regents were Mrs. Rose Williams, chaplain, and Mrs. Gene Hamilton as pro tem guide.

Mrs. Malone was presented her red tassel by Mrs. Hoffman. Mrs. Tyner received a cap and gown charm, presented by Murphy from the Women of the Moose Friendship Circle. Members of the college of regents announced a silent auction will be held after the meeting July 25.

Give proper care to all upholstery fabrics. Periodic vacuuming keeps fabric free of dust.

KH picnic slated

KING HILL — The King Hill Subordinate Grange picnic will be July 25, the next regular meeting date, at 7 p.m. at Timbers Park.

The Pomona Grange picnic will be July 30 at the Glenns Ferry park.

Dr. John Kieffer, Mountain Home, Democratic candidate for senator, was guest speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Subordinate Grange.

Frank Jones, of the Elmore County Fair Board, asked members to check the Mountain Home newspapers for the lists of categories for the fair. The board will not put out a special fair booklet this year.

There will be no pari-mutuel horse racing this year at the Elmore County Fair, but local horses will be racing. Members were urged to gather grain for sheaves for the King Hill Grange booth. There will be cash prizes for the sheaves this year.

Mrs. Marilyn Jordan, Elmore County home extension agent, asked all women to enter some flowers in the fair.

Thank-yous were received from Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Ruberry for the money tree presented by the Grange for their 25th anniversary and from Mrs. Florence Greer and Karl Anderson, for their 50-year Grange pins.

A note was sent to thank Mrs. Ira Kistler, Gooding, for a 50-year anniversary gift to the Grange of a golden picture album. Plans were made for a workshop in King Hill with all Idaho State Grange officers as coaches. A tentative date of Sept. 12 has been set.

A patriotic program closed the grange meeting. Mrs. Joel Young, Mrs. Horace Lipe and Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Timbers presented the program. Mrs. C. E. Spence and Mrs. Charles Finlayson served refreshments.

Miss Higley, Rasmussen recite vows

SHOSHONE — DeAnn Higley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vallie Higley, North Shoshone, became the bride of Burt Rasmussen in rites June 24 at the Gooding LDS Church.

Rasmussen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Rasmussen, North Shoshone.

Bridesmaids were Lynelle Rasmussen, Corinne, Utah, cousin of the bridegroom; Debbie Skaggs, Twin Falls, and Jana Moody and Carol Roseberry, both Gooding. Crystal Higley, Shoshone, sister of the bride, was flower girl, with Tod Rasmussen, Burley, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

Dennis Rasmussen, Corinne, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man, with Steve Kimber, Brigham City, Utah; Eldon Braun, Shoshone, and Sidney Fridal, Declo, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, serving as attendants and ushers.

Anniversary open house set

GOODING — Mr. and Mrs. John M. Guinn, Gooding, will be honored at an open house Sunday commemorating their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

The open house for friends and relatives will be from 2 to 5 p.m. at the home of their son, John W. Guinn, 438 Orchard Drive, Gooding.

The couple's two daughters, Mrs. Willie Boesiger, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Ann Williams, Northridge, Calif., will attend and help serve as hostesses.

The couple was married in Morristown, Tenn., July 3, 1922, and remained there until 1944 when they moved to Gooding.

They have resided on the same farm since moving to Gooding in 1944. Guinn is a Mason and both have been active in the Gooding Southern Baptist Church.

The couple requests no gifts.

DELUX STRAWBERRY PIE Use either fresh or whole frozen berries. Have a prebaked eight or nine-inch pie crust and glaze to cover berries.

To make glaze, use one and one-half cups sugar, one and one-half cups water, one-fourth teaspoon salt and three tablespoons cornstarch. Mix dry ingredients together and add slowly to the water. Bring the mixture to a boil and cook slowly until clear and add one-half teaspoon red food coloring. Cool.

Place a layer of berries in the crust and add glaze. Repeat until berries are heaped up in the center. Cover all berries with glaze. Add a ring of whipped cream or other good topping and refrigerate until time to serve.

Z remarked, "This looks like a hand I played in Wilbur Whitehead's column back in 1925. In any case, there is no reason not to provide for a possible trump coup."

Then he called for dummy's ace of hearts and a lead of a low heart at trick two.

He ruffed and led a trump to dummy's ace. West showed out.

Buhl couple say vows

BUHL — The Filer Mennonite Church was the setting for the marriage of Shirley Stutzman and Gary Eichelberger July 1. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Stutzman, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Eichelberger, all Buhl.

Royden Schweitzer, pastor of the Filer Mennonite Church, performed the ceremony before a blue and lavender floral arrangement and candelabra. The bride, given in marriage by her father, paused at her mother's side while walking to the altar, and presented her mother and the bridegroom's mother with a rose from her bouquet.

The bride wore a Bridal Original gown styled with cascading ruffles of scalloped acetate and nylon chantilly lace that swept into a cathedral train. The gown featured a fitted bodice, sabrina neckline and lily point sleeves.

Her veil, a fingertip mantilla of English nylon illusion, was held by a camelot base trimmed with Chantilly lace. She carried a cluster of Phalaenopsis orchids with a cascade of white roses on a Bible borrowed from her sister.

Bishop Verl Mafziger, Albany, Ore., gave the blessing. The benediction was given by Harold Reeder, Roseburg, Ore., grandfather of the bride.

Shela Johnson, Buhl, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Margo Wittig, Albany, Ore., and Anita Brubaker, Sweet Home, Ore. Flower children were Barbara Stutzman and Curtis Stutzman, sister and brother of the bride.

Kent Eichelberger, Denver, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Doug Stutzman, Roger Stutzman and Dwight Stutzman, all brothers of the bride. Candelighters were Gordon Stutzman and Byron Stutzman, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Woodrow Ash, Buhl, served as organist. Evelyn Slatter was soloist and Robert

TF miss, Kunsman marry

TWIN FALLS — Tauna Pauletta Green and Don G. Kunsman were married in an evening ceremony June 30 in the Twin Falls First Ward LDS Church.

Bishop Darrel Helder performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Green, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kunsman, Filer.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over white taffeta, featuring a high ruffled collar and long puffed sleeves. The gown was made by the bride and her mother. Her three-tiered floor-length bouffant nylon tulle veil was held by a camelot styled cap. She carried a bouquet of delphiniums and orange and golden Eclipse roses.

Mrs. Rod Potthast, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Linda Kunsman, sister of the bridegroom, Glenda Osborne and Patricia Bastain.

Ron Taylor was best man. Ushers were Art Brown, Rod Potthast, brother-in-law of the bride, and Paul W. Green, brother of the bride.

Penny Leavitt, Burley, provided the music.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony in the recreation room of the church.

New officers

TWIN FALLS — New officers for the Country Cousins 4-H Club are announced.

They include Georgeanna Massey as president; Janet Burkhardt, vice president; Rhett Massey, secretary; Shari Stoler, treasurer; Pam Helliman, reporter for county agents, and Phyllis Ramseyer, news reporter.

New cooking tips given

A reception for 175 guests was held after the ceremony in the church basement. Mrs. Kent Eichelberger registered the guests.

A three-tier wedding cake centered the bride's table. The cake was decorated with blue and lavender roses and accented by two heart-shaped cakes with the names of the bride and bridegroom on them.

Mrs. Robert Hildreth, Twin Falls, sister of the bridegroom, cut and served the cake. Evelyn Slatter, and Connie Miller, both Filer, served coffee and punch.

Reception assistants included Glenda Miller, Becky Quigley, Darice Komadoski, all Buhl, and Mrs. Dan Kauffman, Filer.

Mrs. Alfred Reeder, Burley, and Mrs. David Reeder, Nampa, both aunts of the bride, and Lynell King, Lebanon, Ore., were in charge of the gifts.

After a wedding trip to Denver, the couple will reside in Filer.

The bride was honored at showers hosted by Mrs. Lee Mathews and Mrs. Dale Gould for members of the Cedar Draw Club; Evelyn Slatter and Loren Schweitzer at the Schweitzer home, and by Shela Johnson and Melody Heringer at the Johnson home.

Special guests at the wedding were Cassie Schweitzer, grandmother of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reeder, grandparents of the bride.

Guests attended from Burley, Twin Falls, Castleford, Buhl, Filer and Nampa; Portland, Roseburg, Albany, Sweet Home, Lebanon and Shed, Ore., and Broken Bow, Cairo and Sargent, Neb.

Mirror-bright aluminum pots should be cleaned only with soaps or mild detergents.

MR. AND MRS. DON G. KUNSMAN

The bride's table was covered with white lace over turquoise. The table was trimmed with white and turquoise streamers and large and small bells.

The four-tiered wedding cake was flanked by four crystal candleholders with turquoise candles. The cake was frosted in white with pink miniature roses and pink trim. Four angel pillars separated the middle layers. The cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and was centered on a large mirror with lilies of the Valley surrounding the base.

The bridegroom's table was decorated to match the bride's table. Two matching sheet cakes and a bridal centerpiece completed the bridegroom's table. The cakes were made and decorated by the bridegroom's mother and sister.

Guest tables were covered with white cloths and centered by brandy snifters with floral arrangements in colored liquid to match the bride's colors.

Mrs. Lois Brown and Mrs. Ron Lancaster, aunt of the bridegroom, cut and served the cake. Punch was served by Mrs. Frank Cucas, aunt of the bridegroom, assisted by Ron Lancaster Jr., cousin of the bridegroom. Russell Lancaster, cousin of the bridegroom, served mints.

Melanie Green, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book. Gifts were received by Elaine Lancaster, cousin of the bridegroom. They were opened

Connally doesn't see post

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally believes it unlikely he will be chosen as President Nixon's running mate.

"As I read the tea leaves, that's not in my future," Connally said Tuesday when he returned from a five-week, 17-nation tour as Nixon's emissary.

The former Texas governor, a Democrat, said however he was "reluctant to make a Shermanesque statement" about his political future. He indicated he would campaign for Nixon, at least to defend the economic policies he helped formulate during his term as treasury secretary.

"I think it would be a mistake to think that I'm going to sit this one out," Connally said.

California school has no principal

SAN ANSELMO, Calif. (UPI) —Can a public school get along better without a principal? Could your shop operate without a boss?

Attitude decried

CHICAGO (UPI) —When young narcotics addicts need help, they find the way is blocked by the attitude of their elders, according to Ruth Aikens, associate director of health, National Urban League.

At the Quality of Life Congress sponsored by the American Medical Association, the official added: "He can be jailed because he must reveal his addiction, and very little help of a concrete nature exists."

This term, the Red Hill Intermediate School was run entirely by its 13 teachers, and now they are unanimous that they don't want to go back to the old way of doing things.

"You are a better teacher if you must take full responsibility for your actions," says Mrs. Doris Hornsberger, a science teacher. "You take more pride in your work."

In some ways, the Red Hill teachers miss having a boss—but not for the reasons of special talent and wisdom that principals everywhere would expect. His value, they say, is in handling some clerical duties, representing the faculty at administrative headquarters, and just being an extra adult body around the yard.

The Red Hill situation developed when their principal died a month before the opening of the school year last September. The teachers, already accustomed to being involved in school decision making, feared the replacement would be somebody with whom they couldn't get along.

After hasty phone calls, the teachers asked the then superintendent to let the question of a replacement slide. He agreed, and as time went on, things went so swimmingly the matter never came up.

Strikes deprive Rome of services

ROME (UPI)—Strikes deprived many Romans of gasoline, fresh milk, bus and streetcar service and newspapers Wednesday but union leaders timed the walkouts to cause as little disruption and discomfort as possible.

All of the strikes were announced ahead of time to alert shoppers, motorists and commuters.

Some tourists were caught unaware, however, and hotels and tourist guides reported dozens of complaints.

The strike by transport workers demanding an overhaul of the entire debt-ridden, understaffed transport system began at 9:30 a.m., after the morning rush hour, and ended at 2:30 p.m. to accommodate shoppers and commuters returning home.

The 24-hour gasoline strike began Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. but the distributors, protesting a municipal order requiring half of the city's 2,000 stations to open on Sundays, allowed about 100 Rome stations to remain open.

The city's central milk processing plant was shut for 24 hours at midnight Tuesday by unions contending the current plant is too small to produce enough milk for all of Rome and demanding a larger one.

Journalists and printers continued a series of staggered strikes against newspapers throughout Italy begun 17 days ago to protest the decision of most publishers to discontinue Monday editions to save money.

Tupling leads Jacklin, Nicklaus in golf meet

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (UPI) — Peter Tupling, one of Britain's hungry young professionals, shot a three-under-par 68 Wednesday to take a shocking first round lead over fellow Briton Tony Jacklin and Nicklaus, the 1970 U.S. Open champion, was just one stroke behind the 22-year-old Tupling while Nicklaus, who bogeyed the final hole, was another stroke farther back at 70 in a tie with three others.

The 8-foot-2 leader, who has yet to win a tournament since turning professional after the 1969 Walker Cup match at Milwaukee, Wis., shot four birdies and one bogey in posting halves of 34-34 over the 6,892-yard course.

Nicklaus, the 34 favorite to win his third major championship of the year in his quest for the Grand Slam of big four titles, birdied the ninth and 10th holes to go three-under at that point, but he lost one of those strokes with a bogey on No. 11.

On the final hole, with a chance to draw even with Jacklin, the blond American sent his approach shot into a green-side trap on the right and he blasted out well past the pin. He then required two putts to get down.

Although he was satisfied with his one-under score, Nicklaus wasn't too happy with his performance.

"I didn't have a bad round, scorewise, but I hit the ball all over the course. I have played a lot worse and I know I can play a lot better," he said.

Nicklaus added: "I missed the fairway with seven of my tee shots but only paid the penalty twice—at the 11th and 18th—where I made bogeys."

In winning the Masters and U.S. Open earlier this year, Nicklaus either was tied or headed the field over all eight rounds, so Wednesday's effort was a bit of a disappointment for the gallery of 15,090 which came to see him rip Muirfield apart.

A combination of strong winds blowing in from the sea and rain during the afternoon helped preserve Muirfield's reputation of being a tough championship course.

Nicklaus got his first birdie at the third when he hit a wedge to within 14 feet. At the 45th yard par five fifth he was just off the green in two and got down with two putts, while he birdied the 10th by coming out of the rough with a nine iron to within five feet.

Tupling, who wears contact lenses, holed a 35-footer at the sixth for his first birdie; an eight-footer at the ninth; got home from four feet at the 12th and holed a 15-footer at the 14th.

Tupling was perfectly realistic when he told newsmen later: "I can't possibly win. I'm just not good enough yet to put together four rounds of under 70. There is no point in my worrying and I certainly won't go to bed early because I've found out from previous experience that I just can't sleep and that would spoil whatever chance I had."

Tupling has made the cut only twice this year on the British circuit and his winnings from those efforts total just under $750.

Jacklin had nines of 34-35 over the 6,892-yard par 71 course. He opened with a bogey but made birdies at the third, fifth and eighth to turn two under. He birdied No. 11, followed this with a bogey and then made his fifth birdie at the 13th.

The Briton, who won the title in 1969 and followed this with victory in the 1970 U.S. Open, missed a three-footer on the home green and three-putted for a bogey five after his original effort from 20-feet just failed to drop and ran away downhill.

Although it rained for much of Jacklin's round, the wind dropped and he and the other contenders had the better of the conditions.

Frank Beard of Louisville, Ky., and Dave Marr of Houston were tied at 70, along with Briton Peter Townsend, while defending champion Lee Trevino of Dallas was one of several men at 71.

Joining the wise-cracking Trevino at even par were fellow Texan Doug Sanders of Houston, twice runner-up for the title, Spaniard Antonio Garrido, two-time winner Gary Player of South Africa and England's Brian Barnes and John Garner, who went out in the second pair when the course was at its worst.

Jacklin, who made some good putts, said he also missed from three feet on three occasions.

Sinden selects 35 NHL stars to challenge Russian squad

Toronto (UPI)—Coach Harry Sinden, helping himself to the National Hockey League's first and second All-Star teams.

Wednesday named 35 pros to Team Canada, the aggregation that will represent Canada against the Soviet Union in an eight-game hockey series in September.

But one of the most prominent players named, Bobby Hull, appeared a doubtful starter in light of his recent signing with the Winnipeg entry in the World Hockey Association.

The Montreal Canadiens led the NHL in supplying players to the team with seven, including Frank and Pete Mahovish and Yvan Cournoyer.

The Boston Bruins were next with six and these included the NHL's leading scorer, Phil Esposito, and outstanding defenseman Bobby Orr, whose chances of playing are also in doubt due to a knee operation after last season. The New York Rangers had five of their players named to the team.

Sinden announced the names at a packed news conference at a downtown hotel. Featured in addition to 19 of the players at the hotel was a jazz quartet, hostesses in hot pants, melting ice statues and a room-wide bar.

Sinden said "balance" was the "main criterion" in his selection of 21 forwards, 11 defensemen and three goalies from 10 of the NHL's 14 teams.

"We were looking for balance—between youth and experience, offense and defense and finesse and aggressiveness," he said.

Defensemen named to the team were: Don Awrey, Boston; Gary Bergman, Detroit; Jobelyn Guervremont, Vancouver; Jacques Laperriere, Montreal; Bobby Orr, Boston; Brad Park, New York; Serge Savard, Montreal; Rod Seiling, New York; Pat Stapleton, Chicago; J.C. Tremblay, Montreal; and Bill White, Chicago.

All players on the first and second NHL All-Star teams for 1971-72 were named to Team Canada.

A condition for playing on the team which meets the Russians is that every player sign a contract with an NHL team before Aug. 13, the day practice sessions begin. The series opens in Montreal on Sept. 2.

K.C. rips Orioles on seven-run 10th

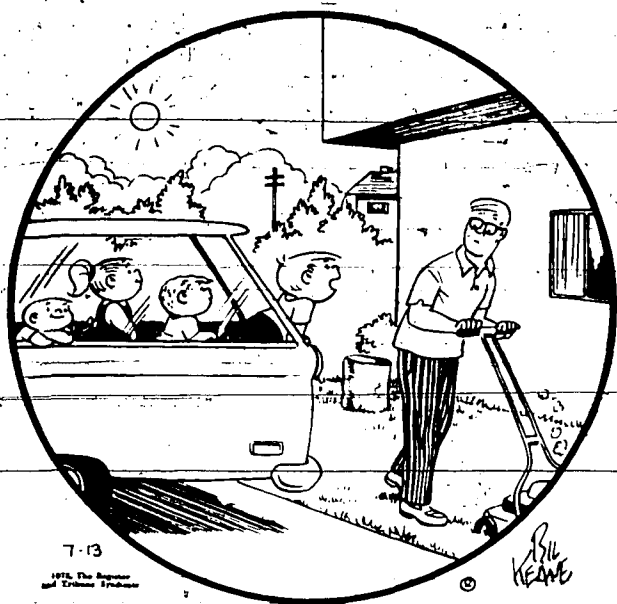

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Cookie Rojas' grand slam home run highlighted a seven-run 10th inning Wednesday night as the Kansas City Royals belted the Baltimore Orioles 11-4.

Before Rojas powered his second home run of the year off reliever, Mickey Scott, losing pitcher Eddie Watt struck Lou Piniella with a pitch with the bases loaded, forcing in with what proved to be the winning run. John Mayberry and Bobby Knoop also drove in a run apiece in the rally as Ted Abernathy got the win.

Who Wants The Divorce?

Studies of divorce 80 years ago indicated in nine out of 10 cases it was the man rather than the woman who wanted out. Not anymore. In about half the cases now, it's said, the woman instigates the thing.

TIP from a banker: Take that check out of your checkbook before you sign it. That way, if your checkbook is lost or stolen, the next check won't carry the imprint of your signature.

TRICKY, this thing called eyesight, even if normal. Objects that are either blue or yellow when seen from a distance of about 200 feet are said to appear about six feet closer than things of other colors.

TEENAGE There are more teenage girls in this country who don't date at all than who go steady. Or such were the findings in a survey of almost 4,000 such young ladies. Surprising. Said survey also turned up the conclusion that the average teenage girl stands 5-foot-4 1/2 inches tall, weighs just about 115 pounds, and manages somehow to get her hands on about $12 a week.

Q. "DON'T just about all suicides leave notes?"

A. On the contrary, only about one in five does so, statistics show. Incidentally, a "Cosmopolitan" authority reveals that most men who kill themselves get all dressed up first while most women who do likewise usually first take off all their clothes. I will explain the significance of this oddity, sir, if you will step out on the veranda with me for cigars while the ladies have their tea.

DEATH That more citizens die in March than in any other month has been reported. But not why. Researchers claim it's because seasonal change then leaves a sizable batch of people in a weakened condition. Resistance to ailments is said to be at an all-time low. Second most fatal month is February. Third, January. That month in which the fewest die is August.

DON'T spend too much money on your honeymoon, young fellow. That's bad. Wives polled by a periodical said so. When the surveytakers asked a big batch of same to name the most significant thing a bridegroom can do to make his honeymoon successful, most replied, "Economize."

STATISTICIANS now say teenagers own more radios than cameras, more cameras than musical instruments, more musical instruments than record players, more record players than TV sets.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1972 WIZARD OF ID

CARROLL RICHTER'S horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An adverse day and evening - one in which there are many disappointments and delays. If these setbacks are taken in a philosophical fashion, you will be able to perfect your plans better and then forge ahead when the planetary aspects improve late tonight.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You must apply yourself so that you do your finest work now, whether at office, shop or home. You are now capable of handling a civic affair. Take health treatments.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A plan of yours may be delayed today, but don't let this bother you since greater happiness is coming your way, later. Give comfort and aid to mate and bring greater harmony at home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your home needs much more attention now, so attend to chores without grumbling. You can handle a problematical affair with kin and have more happiness. Avoid persons who like to argue.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have to be more careful in travel if you wish to avoid unexpected trouble. Look for the good things in people instead of accentuating their faults. Be more cheerful.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Look into new activities that bring you added income instead of spending foolishly at this time. Take better care of small expenditures and the larger ones will seem smaller. Be wise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Showing others that you are independent can bring respect from others. Do not even think of going along with a situation that a friend proposes. This would be very bad for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Personal duties require quick handling now. Talk over with experts how to get ahead in the future. A good friend may come to you for assistance. Give help without spending money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be careful not to argue with good friends who refuse to along with your ideas, since they have personal reasons. Put extra effort on a certain desire if you wish to attain it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Show discretion in handling whatever public duties you may have. Getting bills paid on time will safeguard your credit now. Evening is fine for the social side of life.

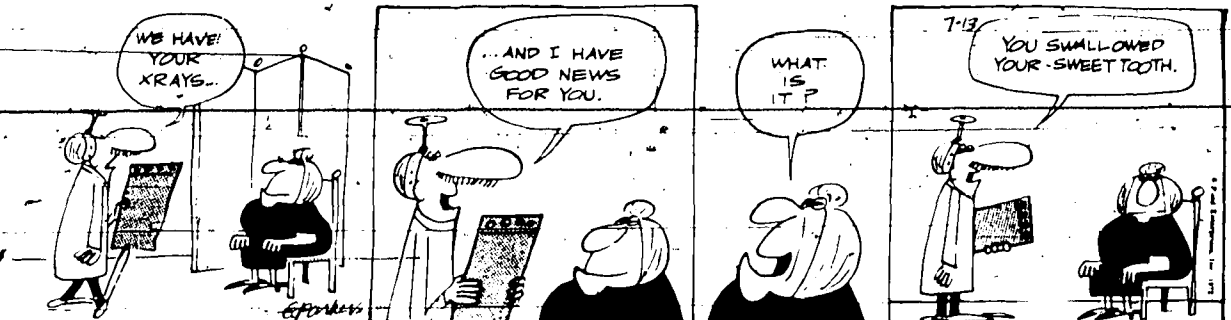

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget about going off on a tangent today and get busy handling daily routines that are important. Any untied ideas should be forgotten now. Show that you have good common sense.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You could get into trouble now if you fail to handle your responsibilities well. Try not to urk mate or there could be serious difficulties following. Show that you have wisdom.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Associates are in a strange mood today, and so are you, so take care you don't get into arguments or there could be a severance of connections. Handle a civic affair diplomatically.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be on of those delightful young people who has the ability to solve difficult problems and would do well in any of the professions. Teach early not to argue with others and to use energy in the right manner. Direct education along the humanities. Give religious training early.

Rogers' trip results in Yemen relations renewal

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

One of the lesser noted aspects of Secretary of State William P. Rogers' trip around the world has been the renewal of relations between the United States and Yemen.

In fact Yemen, occupying a tiny niche on the corner of the Arabian peninsula, poverty-stricken and barely emerged into the 20th century, never has received much popular notice in the West except for occasional mention during seven years of civil war in which Egypt and the Soviet Union took over direction of its destiny.

Yemen played an important role in the scheme of things as seen by the late Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser and still does have a role in the eyes of Nasser's successor, Anwar el-Sadat, and in the Soviet Union's drive for pre-eminent influence in the Arab world.

At one time Nasser had 70,000 troops in Yemen supporting the republican regime which overthrew the Imam in 1962.

Its arms came from the Soviet Union and before relations with the Communist bloc cooled, its debt to the Soviet Union and to China came to $132 million.

Nasser sought to link Yemen to his United Arab Republic and thus make the Red Sea an Egyptian sea. For Soviet planners it was another step toward control of the sea routes by which the Western world and Japan received Mideastern oil.

Thus there was understandable irritation in Cairo with the announcement that Sana, capital of Yemen, and Washington were resuming relations broken in April, 1967, after Yemeni charges of U.S. subversion just prior to outbreak of the Israeli-Arab War.

Cairo saw it as one more example of Arab inability to maintain a common stand against common enemies.

To make it worse for Cairo, there also were indications that Sudan soon would follow Yemen's course.

Sudanese President Gaafar al-Nimeiry had expressed his gratitude for $18 million in American aid for the rehabilitation of southern Sudan after its years of civil war.

Brazil sparks 'fever'

By ALAN RIDING
London Financial Times-UPI

MEXICO CITY—The emergence of Brazil as the main economic and political power of Latin America has set off a fever of competitiveness among the rulers of Argentina and Mexico, the continent's two other large nations.

In an attempt to end their traditional isolation from the rest of the continent, Argentina and Mexico have launched diplomatic offensives throughout the region while their presidents—Gen. Alejandro Lanusse of Argentina and Luis Echeverria of Mexico—have become ardent travelers in the hope of limiting Brazil's economic and political influence.

Ironically, since the three largest nations in Latin America have always been somewhat cut off from the rest of the continent, the Brazilian phenomenon has indirectly stimulated moves towards regional integration. There is at least a new awareness of the continent as a single geo-political unit.

Brazil and Argentina have been traditional competitors and their history is interwoven. For example, in the mid-19th century, Uruguay was created as a buffer state between them and they also have vied for influence in neighboring Paraguay and Bolivia. But only recently has the competition between the two countries become acute and, on the part of Argentina, bitter.

Both countries are governed by conservative military regimes that seized power in the mid-1960s. Since their respective "revolutions", Argentina and Brazil have both had three military presidents, but Argentina's leaders have changed because of disputes within the armed forces, while in Brazil there has been a natural succession and the military unity has not been seriously challenged.

The Argentine economy responded first to the new order and enjoyed rare stability and growth under Gen. Juan Carlos Onganía between 1966 and 1969. But just as political and economic pressures were building up in Argentina, Brazil's economy moved into top gear and its government, headed by Gen. Emilio Garrastazu Medici, became suddenly conscious of its potential political role in the world.

Last year, when Lanusse ousted Onganía's short-lived successor, President Roberto Marcelo Levingston, he immediately began to respond to the Brazilian challenge. Since Argentina's economy was in no condition to compete with Brazil, Lanusse launched a diplomatic offensive aimed at isolating Brazil. For example, instead of reacting against the appearance of a Marxist regime in Chile, Lanusse courted President Salvador Allende under the new flag of "ideological pluralism."

Lanusse also played up to Venezuela and Peru. In less than a year, he traveled to every nation in South America, climaxing his wanderings with a visit to Brazil this spring where, according to diplomatic sources, he adopted an attitude of hostility towards his hosts and succeeded in worsening relations between the two governments.

Mexico's response on the other hand, has been mainly to Brazil's recent economic growth since it has meant that Mexico is no longer the main attraction in Latin America for foreign investors. Brazil's boom also coincided with a recession of the Mexican economy—Brazil grew by 11 per cent last year compared to 3.1 per cent for Mexico—so new investors are now entering Brazil at a much faster rate than Mexico and some industrial operations have even switched countries.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS ...

1. You browse through 2 acres of cars, and with the assistance of one of our courteous salesmen, select the model, color and equipment of your choice.

WRITE YOUR OWN DEAL ...

2. That's all the salesman will do. From there you will meet with the sales manager and he will furnish you with our cost on that particular new car.

5% PROFIT ...

3. You will then figure your own deal by adding to dealer cost, a service and handling charge of $60, plus 5% profit for the dealership.

GOT A TRADE-IN??

4. Should you have a car to trade in, you will deduct the actual cash value, less reconditioning expenses from the previous dollar amount you figured. You and the sales manager will agree on a figure mutually acceptable to you and the dealership.

NEED FINANCING??

5. Should you need assistance with financing or insurance on your new car or truck, you will then meet with our finance manager and figure the finance terms.
