Ultimatum edges Ulster to brink

BELFAST (UPI)—A militant Protestant spokesman said today the British army has one week to wipe out the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) or else.

If the army fails to meet the ultimatum, the spokesman for the Ulster Defense Association (UDA) said, his group will institute its own solution to the sectarian strife that has killed 60 persons in three years.

A UDA source said the strategy would be simple: "We will send teams into the Roman Catholic areas and kill every IRA man we find." The spokesman told a mid-night news conference the UDA knows the identity of the bombers and gunmen and would eliminate them in "seek and destroy operations."

The Protestant threat came after the Provisional wing of the IRA claimed responsibility for a string of Belfast bombs that killed 11 persons and wounded 130 others Friday.

On Saturday, gunmen shot and killed five more persons—all Catholics. A sixth man was found dead with a hood over his head Sunday but his religion was unknown.

A British soldier and a civilian died of gunshot wounds in Northern Ireland today.

The soldier was killed by a sniper at an army post in Belfast, on the edge of a Roman Catholic area. The civilian died in Londonderry, caught in crossfire between gunmen and British troops in which four other civilians were wounded. The deaths brought to 471 the number of persons killed in three years of violence.

The UDA spokesman declined to say whether his group was responsible for any of the weekend murders, but made it plain that time for any peaceful solution was rapidly running out.

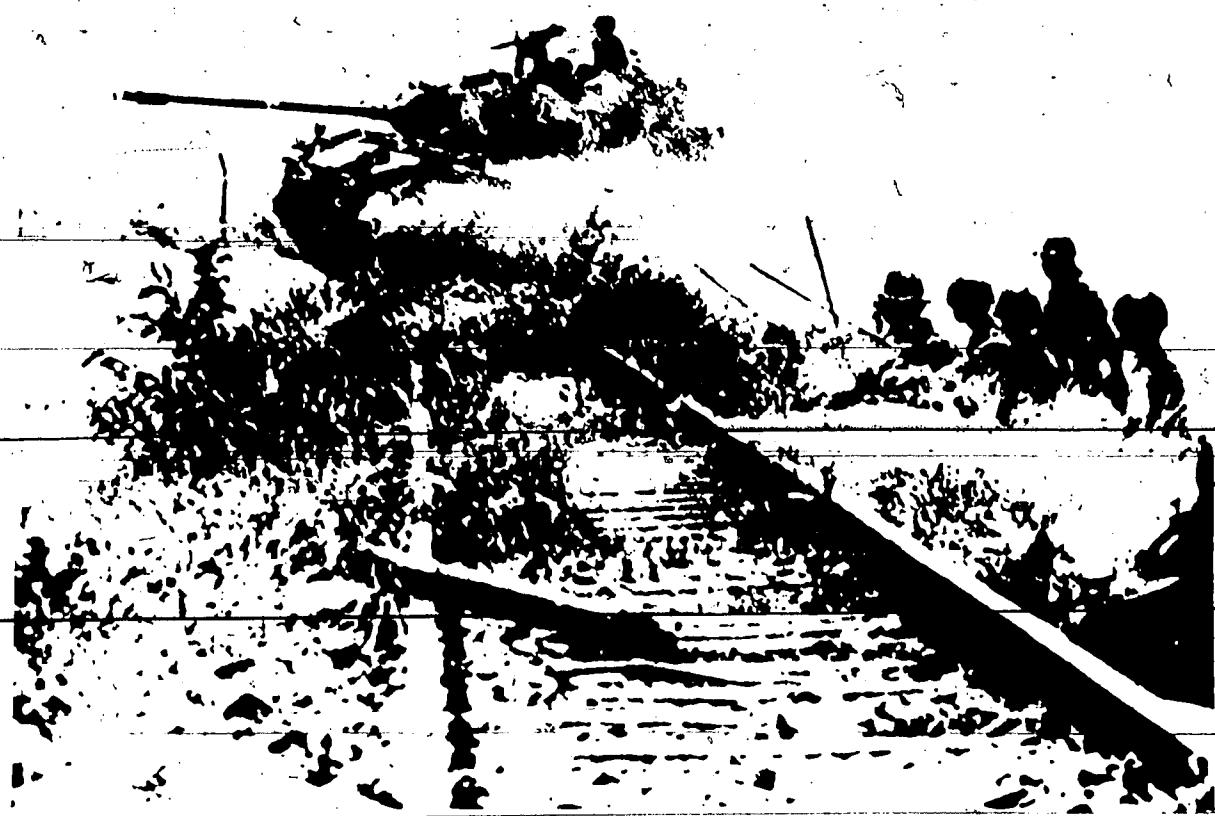

"Unless we get the action we require from the army during the coming week, we will issue a statement announcing our plans," he said.

These would include the elimination of the IRA, which he estimated would only take another week provided they did not receive passive Catholic support.

The news conference was called in a Protestant neighborhood of Belfast. The spokesman appeared wearing a mask and carrying a pistol on his hip.

In reaction to the Friday bomb blasts, the army continued its search of IRA strongholds in the city, uncovering an explosives factory and arresting 100 suspects.

An army spokesman said the factory was believed to have been used to make the Friday bombs. It contained 400 pounds of explosives, 45 detonators, three bombs, 1,000 bullets and a dozen guns.

Viets trade bases

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops today recaptured a second of the coastal highlands district towns overrun by the Communists three months ago but the Saigon command announced the loss of a fire base only 40 miles farther north.

UPI reporter Edward Bassett said government rangers walked in unopposed and raised their country's flag over Tam Quan, 300 miles north of Saigon. The town is only 10 miles north of Dong Son, another district town liberated by South Vietnamese paratroopers last Friday.

The Saigon command announced that Fire Base Lion overlooking the Que Son Valley, 27 miles southwest of Da Nang and 40 miles north of Tam Quan, was abandoned under Communist attack Sunday. Military sources in Da Nang told UPI reporter Ken Wagner that Lion was abandoned after a five-and-a-half-hour battle in which 20 men of a company of the South Vietnamese 2nd Division's 6th Regiment were killed. Communist casualties were unknown.

The U.S. command announced that two Navy planes crashed from unknown causes while on missions over North Vietnam during the weekend. One pilot was listed as missing.

A noon hour rocket attack today on the old imperial capital of Hue destroyed a house, killing two civilians and wounding another, spokesmen said.

North of the Tam Quan action, U.S. B52 bombers today hit suspected Communist positions along the western edge of Highway 1, the Quang Tri-Hue link that field officers say more than 1,000 North Vietnamese troops are threatening to cut.

Navy planes from the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk struck four miles south of Hanoi Sunday and touched off 12 secondary explosions in North Vietnam's Van Dien battery plant, the U.S. command said today. The blasts sent a pillar of smoke 4,000 feet into the sky, spokesmen said.

Britain near general strike

LONDON (UPI)—Tens of thousands of workers, angered by the jailing of five picketing longshoremen, walked off the job Monday and threatened Britain with its first general strike in almost half a century.

Their walkout halted seaport operations, deprived much of the country of newspapers, hit food markets and automotive plants.

Prime Minister Edward Heath and key government ministers discussed the crisis at his No. 10 Downing St. office, guarded by strong police reinforcements. But workers' threats to picket Downing St. did not materialize.

Government officials said the cabinet might proclaim a state of emergency if the industrial crisis becomes worse or if a general strike appears imminent. Britain last had one in 1926.

Heath and other ministers scheduled a meeting Monday night with leaders of the 10-million-strong Trades Union Congress (TUC) to discuss damping down skyrocketing wages and prices. But TUC officials said they would refuse to discuss this while the longshoremen remain in jail.

The five were jailed Friday at London's fortresslike Pentonville prison for contempt of the National Industrial Relations Court. They defied a court order to cease picketing and boycotting container depots.

Under British law the longshoremen could stay in jail indefinitely until they "purge" their contempt by apologizing. Police threw strong cordons around the court to guard against demonstrations Monday, but they did not show up to apologize and no demonstrators arrived.

Worst hit by the walkouts were Britain's seaports. Port authorities estimated most of Britain's 40,000 longshoremen stayed off the job. Most loading and unloading of cargoes was at a standstill.

London's newspapers did not appear because of a sympathy walkout by press hands, though some papers printed limited runs in Manchester and Glasgow.

Coal mines in South Wales and Yorkshire were idled by a miners' sympathy strike.

Workers at London's fruit, vegetables and fish markets quit work and set up picket lines to keep truck drivers away.

US defense needs set at $20 billion

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress will have to appropriate $20.5 billion this year for military supplies and research as the "minimum program essential for our national defense," Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said today.

Stennis spoke of the defense needs as the Senate took up the defense bill, one of the largest authorizing measures it will handle this year and one which was expected to provoke several days of spirited debate. Sharp controversy was expected over a $444.5 million authorization for continued research and development on the B-1 bomber, $906.4 million for the Trident submarine and missile program, and $299 million for initial work on a fourth nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.

Summing up his opening defense of the measure as written by his Armed Services Committee, Stennis pointed out it was $2.7 billion below what Nixon requested.

Dog slashes boy, 4

BURLEY — A friendly hug of a full grown German Shepherd dog brought injury to a Burley Child Saturday evening.

Robert Dale Belbins, 4, son of Mrs. Jeanie Talburt, was treated at Cassia Memorial Hospital where 40 stitches were required to close wounds inflicted to his head by the dog. He was released after treatment.

The dog, the pet of the family of Mrs. Sue Lujan, was reportedly used to playing with children. He was apparently frightened by a display of affection by young Robert, and snapped at him after the boy reportedly hit and squeezed the dog.

Cassia County Deputy Sheriff Don Taylor said today the dog had been impounded for three weeks to be checked for possible disease.

The Belbins boy was bitten while playing with the dog at the farm home of Cletus Trueblood. He is a brother of Mrs. Lujan.

Nixon to visit Japan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon will attempt to repair strained relations between the United States and Japan by flying to Hawaii Aug. 31 for a two-day meeting with newly-elected Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

The talks, which will cover "the full range of U.S.-Japanese relations," are expected to concentrate on the two nations' stance toward mainland China and America's $3 billion dollar trade deficit with Japan.

Announcement of the meeting was made simultaneously in Washington and Tokyo Sunday night, shortly after Nixon returned to the White House from his Camp David, Md. mountain retreat.

Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka of Japan has accepted the invitation of President Richard M. Nixon to meet in Hawaii on August 31 to Sept. 1 for an exchange of views on relations between the two countries.

Resort ends slope bias

SUN VALLEY — The Sun Valley Ski School has agreed not to discriminate against women instructors in assigning classes at the school.

A complaint filed against the school with the Idaho Commission on Human Rights had charged that men instructors were conducting more classes than women because the women were not allowed to teach on higher slopes.

Commission director Judy Grimes said today the conciliation agreement, signed July 14, signalled the school's agreement to assign classes only on the basis of the instructor's ability.

The complaint was filed in December by an instructor who requested anonymity from the commission.

The eastern panel of the commission met June 14 following an investigation of the complaint, and returned a "reasonable cause" finding, saying evidence suggested a possible violation of the state statute barring sex, age or race discrimination in hiring practices.

The conciliation agreement was signed by the school in mid-July, and accepted by the state commission meeting in Boise Saturday, closing the investigation.

Grimes said the agreement signed said "all conditions and terms of employment shall not discriminate" against race, age or sex.

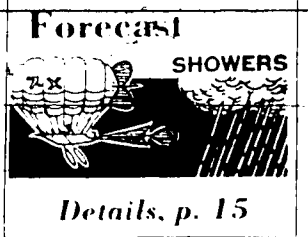

In signing the agreement, the school admitted "no violation" of the statute.

Earlier in the meeting, the commission referred to the northern panel complaint of alleged hiring discrimination at the State Hospital North in Orofino.

The action followed a discussion of the commission's finding possible "reasonable cause" that the hospital had discriminated against Nez Perce Indians, whose reservation is located nearby.

Commission investigator Mike Groesbeck told commission members that the hospital has employed only five Indians during the last five years.

Most Groesbeck said he spent almost a month investigating the hiring practices of the hospital after he received a complaint from an Indian woman who was laid off when the hospital cut back its personnel.

Rescue hopes fading

BLACKSVILLE, W. Va. (UPI)—Rescue workers battled a raging, smoky mine fire today in an effort to reach nine men trapped more than a mile underground since Saturday night.

But John Corcoran, president of Consolidation Coal Co., said, "Hopes are quite dim at this point."

"Conditions are unfavorable but obviously there is always hope," he said. "Our primary efforts at the moment are to find the men in the mine."

W. R. Park, an inspector for the U.S. Bureau of Mines, also told newsmen the situation "doesn't look good."

"Rescue teams are searching every possible place," he said. "The fire has been localized three quarters of a mile down a haulage way by foam but we're having trouble encircling it."

Thirty-one miners escaped ahead of the smoke and flames. The trapped men contacted the outside by telephone shortly after the fire erupted but the contact was broken after a brief conversation.

Company officials said the men, who were doing maintenance work at the time of the fire, were wearing self-contained oxygen equipment which would enable them to breathe up to five hours in the smoke-filled passageways.

Second hearing asked on death penalty ban

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A rehearing of the Supreme Court's decision banning the death penalty has been asked by two states and one eastern city.

Petitions containing the request for the rehearing were filed today by counsel representing the states of Texas and Georgia and the city of Philadelphia.

The ruling in the split decision during June banned capital punishment for all crimes under existing state laws and procedures. Although it dealt with the cases of two men from Georgia and one from Texas, it affected more than 600 persons on death row.

District Attorney Arlen Specter of Philadelphia, who with two assistant attorneys general from Georgia personally filed papers for rehearing, said reconsideration should be granted in two Pennsylvania cases because the death penalty "not applied in a random or wanton manner" in his state.

Justices Potter Stewart and Byron R. White opposed the death penalty in part because they felt it was imposed in the various states in such a manner.

Georgia asked for rehearing of 13 cases from the state on grounds the high court had ignored its own rules for dealing with constitutional questions.

"The Court does not in fact limit consideration to the murder and rape penalty statutes of Georgia nor more narrowly to their application," State Attorney General Arthur K. Bolton argued. "The context is exploded by country-wide proportions and the objections to the sentences imposed in these cases are based on statistics and studies and statements drawn nationally."

Idaho GOP aides back Spiro pick

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's Republican leaders have endorsed President Nixon's decision to retain Spiro Agnew as his running mate.

"It was an obvious wise choice," said David Little, Republican National Committeeman from Emmett. "When you have a winning team, you don't break it up."

"I think it's an especially good choice as far as Idaho is concerned," he added. "We're basically a conservative state, and most citizens can identify with the Nixon-Agnew ticket."

Secretary of State Pete Cenarrusa said he "wasn't surprised in the least" with the nomination.

"I knew eventually Agnew would be chosen over (former Treasury Secretary) Connally or anyone else," he said, and added he was "extremely pleased" with the announcement.

"All of Idaho will profit by the decision," Cenarrusa said. Republican State Chairman Larry Jackson called Agnew "the perfect complement for this country's conservative element," and said the re-nomination would help unite the state Republican delegation before it convenes in Miami next month.

"Vice President Agnew makes a good, stable foundation for the Republican Party," Jackson said, "and I think as far as Idaho Republicans are concerned, he brings back into perspective some of Mr. Nixon's recent decisions and policies."

Despite Agnew's frequent criticism of several groups including the news media, Jackson said, "His overall view on crime and permissiveness are what will make the party attractive to most Americans this November."

"I'm for it a hundred per cent," said State Sen. James Ellsworth, R-Leadore, Senate president pro tem. "It would have been a complete mistake to nominate anyone else."

"I feel Mr. Agnew will make a good vice president for Idahoans," Ellsworth added. "He's been very popular and well-received when he's visited the state."

Asked if he would endorse Agnew as a presidential candidate in 1976, Ellsworth answered without hesitation, "definitely. I think I could support him with no problem at all."

Question...

I am caring for my granddaughter born out of wedlock to my daughter who was killed in an automobile accident. Is it true that illegitimate children may not sue for damages in the death of a parent?

Answer...

There was a time in several states when the right to sue for damages in the wrongful death of a parent was based upon the legal rather than biological relationship they bore to each other. In these states an illegitimate child was denied the right to sue for damages.

As a result of a 1968 Supreme Court decision this was changed and now all states have been made uniform. Justice Douglas delivering the majority opinion for the Court said, "Illegitimate children are not non persons, they are humans, live and have their being."

Some state laws restrict the right of illegitimate children to inherit from their parents, very possibly the Supreme Court's decision will now equalize their rights with those of legitimate children.

By United Press International
Republican congressional hopeful Rob Purcell told a Nampa group Sunday he is opposed to development in the Middle Snake River unless "unequivocal need" is demonstrated.

Democrat Rose Bowman will appear in an upcoming television special focusing on women in American politics. The program, to be aired July 26, is entitled "The Hand That Rocks The Ballot Box."

In another political development, Tony Park, Idaho Attorney General and Democratic aspirant to the U.S. Senate, said in Twin Falls Sunday the Nixon Administration's apparent joy over a slightly reduced inflation rate cannot be shared by an increasing number of unemployed Idahoans.

It's ironic, he said, "that the same day the administration announced with pleasure the most recent economic reports, the Idaho Department of Employment had to announce unemployment rate had climbed again."

Meanwhile, congressman James McClure, campaigning for the Senate near Castleford, told supporters Sunday that "ways have to be found to live in harmony with our environment and still maintain an acceptable standard of living and a healthy economy."

TWIN FALLS — Fire gutted a one-family Twin Falls dwelling Saturday night, but there were no injuries reported in the blaze. Firemen said fire broke out shortly after 10 p.m. Saturday at the Polk St. home of Glen Pufahl. It took Twin Falls city fire fighting units about half an hour to control the fire.

The fire apparently broke out in the kitchen and spread to the other rooms of the house. The bulk of the testimony during the first four days of the hearing last week centered around conditions in the mine prior to the fire and on the day of the fire.

Peace And Politics

Christian Science Monitor

Democratic candidate George McGovern accuses Republican President Richard Nixon of not winding down the war as fast as he seemed to promise in 1968, and the Republicans reply by accusing candidate McGovern of weakening the American bargaining position in the peace talks now reopening in Paris.

This is politics, on both sides. It may to some extent interfere with the smooth development of foreign policy. It is in part inevitable in a presidential year in the United States. But it is doubtful that it will make much, if any, difference to the time of ending of the war.

Consider the charges from the two sides. Each has some merit. Neither is totally valid.

It is true that Mr. Nixon seemed to be promising an end to the war short of four years when he declared that he had a plan for ending it. His semipromise is four years old now. The war is still going on (at this writing).

But against that should be set the fact that there are very few Americans left in Vietnam now, fewer than fifty thousand as against over half a million. And there are very few draftees among the remainder, and no more draftees being sent.

So, while Mr. Nixon is politically vulnerable for not ending the war sooner, he has a strong counterargument in the fact that American participation is way down. Besides, it will probably (we think) be finished entirely well before election day.

And, to take up the Republican case against Mr. McGovern, it is true that peace talks have just reopened and that at this precise moment Mr. McGovern renews his pledge to have all Americans out of Vietnam within 90 days after his inauguration, if he is inaugurated. The McGovern pledge does, at least on the surface, seem to be an invitation to Hanoi to hold out until after election day in the hope of getting a better deal from Mr. McGovern than Mr. Nixon is now offering.

But there is nothing new about the offer, nor about the attitude of Democrats toward the war. The renewal of the offer by Democrats is unlikely to make the slightest difference in Hanoi. The leaders there have long ago known that there is a loud peace movement in the United States trying to push Mr. Nixon to a faster pace in his search for peace. All along, they have had to consider whether to wait for the November elections, or settle with Mr. Nixon now.

The chances are that they will negotiate with Mr. Nixon now (if they do) on the basis of the state of military operations rather than on what is said on the American hustings. If their armies are doing well, they will want to hold out. If their armies are doing poorly, they would logically want to salvage on the tables of diplomacy what they are losing on the field of battle.

Our own guess is that any holding out they do now is a bargaining tactic. After all, peace by September or October would be worth a lot politically to Mr. Nixon. They can get better terms from him now than they could expect if he were reelected.

If we can read their thinking processes at all we think that they will settle with Mr. Nixon just in time to give him the political advantage in November on the war issue. Once there is even a ceasefire in Vietnam the war ceases to be of any political value to Democrats.

In other words, both American political parties are trying to get a domestic political advantage out of the war issue. This is a pity. At least in theory, "politics should stop at the water's edge." But it is normal American practice. And the chances are that its indulgence in this case will not do real harm.

The Sore Loser

Lewiston Tribune

AFL-CIO President George Meany persuaded the national ruling council of the organization yesterday to sit out the presidential contest between incumbent Richard Nixon and challenger George McGovern. Meany said he personally will vote for neither candidate.

Anti-labor forces recognize that Mr. Nixon is more on their side than McGovern. Most union members will know that McGovern is a better friend of organized labor than Mr. Nixon.

Yet Meany has led the national union movement into a neutral position in an election involving two candidates, one of whom is more favorable to labor than the other. Ironically, Meany's neutral stand on the presidential candidates results functionally in an anti-labor position by the AFL-CIO. Meany has made the AFL-CIO the instrument of his own peevish political preferences, greatly enhancing the possibility that the candidate less favorable to labor will control the White House for another four years.

Meany has placed a higher priority on his personal differences with McGovern than on the welfare of his movement. That is his right but it would indicate that his dedication to the cause is no longer sufficient to warrant his continuation in an office that requires a higher devotion than he has demonstrated.

Meany's snit is reminiscent of the most immature losers at the 1968 Democratic National Convention. When Sen. Eugene McCarthy lost the Democratic nomination that year to Meany's first choice, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, some of McCarthy's supporters stamped their feet, dishonestly declared that there was no difference between Humphrey and Nixon and swore they would support neither candidate. Most of them recovered, but not enough of them. The difference on vital issues between the two contenders was relatively small, but real. The result of the temper tantrum by a few hundred thousand McCarthy supporters was the election of the candidate most at odds with their own view of domestic and foreign policy.

Meany regarded the 1968 McCarthy absolutists as sophomoric and self-destructive. They cut off their sanctimonious noses to spite their cry-baby faces.

His opinion of them was correct. How does his own performance differ?

WASHINGTON — The Republican version of the McGovern Commission reforms, ignored by both public and party, may be saved from burial in an unmarked grave by eleventh-hour intervention of progressive Republican Congressmen.

The proposed reforms, increasing the number of women and youth delegates to the 1976 convention, were to be quietly buried next month in the rules committee of the Republican National Committee. But Rep. Tom Railsback of Illinois, a respected young Congressman, this week called an informal meeting of all GOP House members to try saving the reforms.

Railsback and other House Republicans fear the McGovern Commission reforms will preempt the new youth vote for the Democrats unless the Republicans also reform.

Whether or not it is successful, their effort could produce a major floor fight at an otherwise somnolent Republican national convention in Miami Beach beginning Aug. 21 — incidentally reviving ideological factional disputes within the party which have been dormant since President Nixon's election.

The movement for Republican reform was begun by the 1968 convention when it authorized the Delegates and Organizations (DO) Committee (headed by Rosemary Ginn, Republican national committee-woman from Missouri).

Nothing more than pious rhetoric was expected from the DO committee. Consequently, conservative Republican leaders were horrified when they glimpsed the preliminary DO draft during the Republican National Committee meeting in Denver a year ago. Clarke Reed, Mississippi's influential Republican state chairman, managed to sidetrack provisions that, in effect, established racial quotas for 1976 delegate selection.

But the remaining recommendations for 1976 are bad enough from the standpoint of Reed and his friends: a 50-50 split of delegates between men and women; a quota of youth delegates (under 25 years old) for each state equal to their voting strength in the state; each state naming a man, a woman, a youth and a "member of a minority ethnic group" to major committees of the national convention.

With the White House and Mr. Nixon's campaign apparatus uninterested, conservatives were confident the DO reforms would be interred by the National Committee's rules committee meeting in Miami Beach the week before the convention. The rules committee chairman, national committeeman William Cramer of Florida, is a conservative ex-Congressman who is most unresponsive to Mrs. Ginn's innovations.

About a month ago, however, Railsback — apprehensive about a Democratic monopoly over youth — became interested in the DO reforms. So did Reps. John Anderson of Illinois (chairman of the House Republican Caucus) and John Dellenback of Oregon.

The upshot: a letter from Railsback inviting all Republican Congressmen to breakfast here Tuesday with Mrs. Ginn. He also invited Cramer, who declined but agreed to send an aide.

A New Payroll

WASHINGTON — Money voted by Congress to create employment is being used to pay good salaries to avowed Communist revolutionaries and other extremists.

How many is not known. But in one definitely established case, the Labor Department is refusing to do anything on the that the Revolutionary Union and Venceremos organizations constitute a potential threat to the internal security of the United States, it is difficult for me to justify the expenditure of Federal funds for the salary of a publicly admitted active member of the Venceremos.

The Communist extremist is being paid $868 a month by the Redwood City (Cal.) Housing Concerns Committee with funds provided by the Emergency Employment Act. This measure, passed by Congress in 1971 with a $750 million appropriation, authorizes the Secretary of Labor to enter into contracts with units of Federal, state and local governments, public agencies and institutions to undertake public service projects designed to create jobs — with the U. S. Treasury paying the bill.

Last February, Ichord got wind that the Redwood City agency had hired an admitted member of the Venceremos and wrote the Labor Secretary citing the extremist nature of the Venceremos — a "violence-prone splinter of the Maoist Revolutionary Union."

Ichord pointed out that sworn ground that it's up to the local authorities who hired the Communist revolutionary.

That was the startling brush-off experienced by Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., chairman of the House Internal Security Committee, when he asked Labor Secretary James Hodgson to crack down. After months of stalling, Ichord finally got a letter from Assistant Secretary Malcolm Lovell passing the buck to the local officials.

Indignantly, Ichord told Lovell: "In view of the findings of the Internal Security Committee testimony in the hands of his committee "clearly established that both organizations are Marxist-Leninist groups unalterably devoted to the idea that violent revolution in the United States is inevitable and desirable, and that members of these groups expect to take an active, armed part in the anticipated revolution."

"I know you will agree that the payment of Federal funds to one who is actively working with an organization devoted to the overthrow of the government by force and violence is a serious misuse of the taxpayers' money."

Aches To Grow

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Egypt's expulsion of Soviet advisers has brought into the headlines difficulties that Moscow has been running into throughout the Middle East recently.

New independent analyses by Indian and American scholars suggest these Soviet-Arab problems are going to grow, not fade away as time goes on.

First, Numbers of Arabs are becoming disillusioned economically. At the start, Arab leaders had magnificent dreams of what Soviet assistance would bring. As is now evident, this prosperity is not working out. The reaction is strong.

Worse yet, the Arabs are finding that when they buy goods from the Soviet Union under Moscow aid agreements, they frequently pay 10 to 25 percent more than on Western world markets. They're learning that what they sell to the U.S.S.R. under the aid arrangements often nets them 10 to 15 percent less than they could get elsewhere.

Second, Despite some considerable caution in Moscow, the Soviet Union is finding itself more and more embroiled in inter-Arab rivalries and ambitions.

If Moscow takes either side in these quarrels, it makes enemies of the opposition. If it doesn't favor either, it makes enemies of both.

The Russians lost ground in Morocco when they sided with Algeria in the border war between these two nations. Moscow has weakened its influence in Iraq by its on-again, off-again backing of Kurdish quarrel over influence in the Persian Gulf.

Third, There's the problem of Arab Communist parties. If Moscow backs these local Red groups, their intrigues can put egg on the Kremlin's face, as did the aborted Red-supported coup in the Sudan last summer. In these cases, Russia loses influence with a government whose friendship it needs.

But if Moscow fails to back the local Communists, as is true more often than not of late, then Russia loses control of these undergrounds and forfeits to some extent to China its position as worldwide leader of the Communist movement.

Peking has been taking advantage of this Soviet dilemma, stepping in with propaganda, comfort, technical advice and some training and a little money in order to pick up those Middle East Communist groups Russia alienates. All of which makes the Soviet task more difficult.

As a result of these Soviet problems, prospects for some U.S.-Russian agreement on the Middle East are becoming brighter. And the possibilities for a more normal relationship between the United States and the Arab lands may be in the cards.

The decision by Yemen to improve its contacts with Washington may be a tipoff of things to come.

How Much Water?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You said once that drinking too much water can be dangerous. Why? How much water? What can the effects be? — K.E.T.B.

Yes, too much water can be dangerous — but "too much" means more than anybody in his right senses would be likely to drink.

The average need is about 2½ quarts a day, which includes the water in your coffee, soup, fruit juice, vegetables, and other foods. Mashed potatoes contain water. So does meat. The juices in the meat.

The body readily disposes of that much water, or more. The average normal kidney can excrete about a quart of water an hour. You also lose moisture through perspiration and from breathing. Didn't you ever breathe on your glasses to clean them? There's moisture in every breath we exhale.

Between the amount one needs and the amount one can handle, there's a wide range of safety. Your normal thirst tells you how much to drink — more in hot sweaty weather, less in cool weather.

Drinking huge volumes of water — ENOUGH TO GET YOU INTO TROUBLE — usually occurs in psychotic individuals. But it does happen. The most recent case that came to my attention was only a couple of years ago, but the man died and his death was officially reported as from drinking enormous amounts of water.

The essential danger is that the water carries away too much of the sodium (plus other minerals) that the body needs. This leads to swelling, mental confusion, convulsions, and in the extreme case death.

Of course the body's organs become congested from taking in more water than the kidneys can handle — but the washing away of minerals starts before that phase.

And loss of sodium is important in itself. For a more familiar example, you have the case of people doing hard physical work for long periods under high temperatures. This can lead to heat collapse. That also can be fatal.

What causes these collapses? Perspiration carries away too much sodium! So people working under such extreme conditions long since have learned the value of taking salt tablets, to replenish the sodium supply in the body and to satisfy thirst by drinking water.

There has to be something wrong, mentally, with anyone who would deliberately drink so much water as to harm himself or kill himself, but it does happen.

Exactly how much water would depend on the physical condition and characteristics of the individual.

For most of us, the important thing is just to understand a little about the importance of proper mineral levels in the fluids of the body.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a boy, 18, and have heard that masturbation causes pimples on the face or makes them worse. Is this true? — H.P.

No, not true. No connection.

6 jurors needed for Ellsburg

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Six alternate jurors remained to be chosen today in the Pentagon papers trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo, Jr. It appeared opening arguments might get under way as early as Tuesday.

The selection of a regular jury of eight women and four men was completed Friday after two weeks of questioning a pool of prospective jurors by Federal Judge Matt Byrne. The judge excused the regular panel until Tuesday.

A pool of 16 prospective jurors remained to be questioned to serve as possible alternates in the trial, which stems from the release to news media of classified Pentagon documents on the Vietnam war. Ellsberg, 41, and Russo, 35, former associates at the Rand Corp., a government think tank in Santa Monica, are accused of espionage, conspiracy, theft of government material and related charges.

Byrne limited questioning of the prospective jurors to himself, although he considered suggested queries from both defense and prosecution.

Much of the questioning centered on the prospective juror's knowledge of the Pentagon papers and their views on the Vietnam war.

None of those selected for the regular panel admitted reading the actual documents, but some said they recalled news reports on the controversy following their publication.

Those chosen to the regular panel include an immigrant from Italy, a woman whose uncle is a judge and several college graduates.

The jury includes a Mexican-American, a Japanese-American and several jurors of apparent Italian or German descent.

No blacks sit on the regular panel, but two members of the pool of possible alternate jurors were Negroes.

Court officials said they expected opening arguments to begin by the end of the week at the latest and possibly as early as Tuesday.

There were several weeks of pretrial maneuvering by attorneys on both sides. The papers were published by the New York Times and other newspapers more than a year ago.

Writers deny backing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The endorsement by The Newspaper Guild executive board of Sen. George S. McGovern for President has been disavowed by 297 Washington-based members of the working press.

The newsmen and women signed an advertisement that appeared Sunday in The Washington Post.

"We in the news business have an obligation to inform the public," the statement said. "The Guild has no business interjecting its members into a partisan political role. Its efforts to do so demean us as professionals whose hallmark is fairness. It ties us to a political decision we personally may or may not favor."

The endorsement of McGovern was announced at the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach by union President Charles A. Perlik Jr. He said the union executive board made the endorsement of authority granted by the union's annual meeting.

It was the first time The Newspaper Guild had endorsed a political candidate.

Drug arrests said doubled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon today received an optimistic report from his chief drug law enforcement officials: The number of arrests for drug violations has doubled in the past three years.

Myles Ambrose, director of the Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement, showed Nixon a chart which tabulated the number of drug violation arrests in fiscal 1972 at 16,144 compared to 8,465 in fiscal 1969.

"You haven't of course completely solved the problem?" Nixon asked Ambrose. "The problem is so enormous."

"Oh, no," said Ambrose. But

British line

HANNOVER, Germany (UPI)—If the British royal succession barred the throne to princesses, as was common in some kingdoms, the present sovereign would be 57-year-old German Duke Ernest August of Brunswick instead of Elizabeth II.

The Dukes of Brunswick were the Kings of Hannover prior to Bismarck's confederation of Germany in 1866.

he said progress is being made in "reducing the availability and easing of distribution" of heroin and other addicting illegal drugs.

Then Nixon expressed it in football terms: "We were on the 10-yard line. Now we're on the 50 yard line and we have the ball. They had the ball before and now we have it." Ambrose told Nixon that heroin seizures had doubled since the administration began its war on drug peddlers.

"Do you need more money?" Nixon asked.

Ambrose said he thought although there already was a good cooperation, more public support was needed. He said however that people were cooperating in reporting drug purveyors.

The Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs and the U.S. Bureau of Customs reported 218,905 pounds of drugs, including heroin and marijuana, were seized in fiscal year 1971, compared to 446,496 pounds in the 1972 fiscal year.

Among those also attending the meeting, during which Nixon was given a report on anti-narcotics activities were Eugene T. Rossides, assistant Treasury secretary, and Vernon D. Acree, commissioner of the Customs Bureau.

The dandelion is a hardy plant that has adapted to many climates in North America, Europe, central Asia and the Arctic. It immigrated to America from Europe soon after the first colonists landed, probably arriving in the earth-en ballast then carried by many ships.

US strength down

SAIGON (UPI)—American troop strength in South Vietnam dropped by 700 men last week, leaving 46,500 servicemen still in the country.

The total is the lowest since 36,000 were stationed in the country on April 30, 1965, but still well above President Nixon's goal of 39,000 men by Sept. 1.

Peak U.S. strength in Vietnam in April, 1969, was 543,400. A command spokesman said 500 soldiers and 300 Air Force personnel went home during the week ending July 20 but the number of sailors increased by 100. Marine and Coast Guard strength were unchanged.

The 46,500 troops now in South Vietnam include 30,700 soldiers, 2,300 sailors, 1,300 Marines, 12,100 airmen and 100 Coast Guardsmen.

The 700-man drop in U.S. forces was the highest in the three weeks since Nixon set the latest withdrawal deadline. The first week in July 500 men were pulled out and 300 were withdrawn the following week.

All of Nixon's goals have been exceeded since the troop withdrawals began in August, 1969.

Army chapel gone

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U. S. Army has a mystery on its hands—the case of the jerry-built chapel that vanished from its foundation at a shut-down missile base in New Mexico.

Servicemen stationed at the Red Canyon Range Camp constructed the chapel in 1957 at a cost of $200. But a great deal of ingenuity and labor also went into the project.

The men made the interior walls from the tops and sides of Nike rocket booster cases and the exterior walls from red rocks quarried by the soldiers.

Property tax up since '60

BOISE (UPI)—Idaho property tax has increased by leaps and bounds since 1960 more than any other comparative time period, according to the executive manager of the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho.

Max Yost, Boise, said property taxes in 1960 totalled $62.3 million for all units of government in Idaho compared to $108.7 million in 1971—a 74 per cent increase.

He added, however, the property tax increase is not as great as the increase in other major types of taxes.

Yost said total individual income taxes during the same period increased 125 per cent and corporate taxes 135 per cent in volume of dollars.

The percentage change in property taxes, Yost noted, varies in each of Idaho's 44 counties. Between 1960 and 1971 there was a three per cent reduction in Lemhi County, and a 203 per cent increase in Blaine County.

The increase in property taxes for all cities in Idaho ranged from $10 million to $18.1 million, Yost said.

Since all Grange members are subscribers to the Filer telephone company the feeling was they did not wish the local telephone company sold to the Homedale company.

Veterans get new hearts

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Two veterans have become the first persons in the United States to receive nuclear-powered heart pacemakers. They underwent surgery here earlier this week.

One of the recipients, a 48-year-old man who remained unidentified by officials at Veterans Administration Hospital, made medical history 12 years ago as the first person to receive the conventionally powered pacemaker.

The other patient, a 43-year-old man who also was unidentified by the hospital, had been living with a conventional pacemaker since 1967.

The implantations were performed by Dr. Anthony Frederico, a thoracic (chest) surgeon; Dr. Andrew A. Gage, chief of surgery at the hospital; and Dr. William M. Chardack, chief of thoracic surgery at the hospital.

Gage said the main difference between the conventional and nuclear powered units was the power supply. He said the energy source of the conventional battery device has to be replaced every two to three years, while the nuclear pacemakers are expected to last from 10 to 20 years.

The pacemakers are used by patients suffering from heart blockage which causes abnormally slow heartbeat.

Coordinator named

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man was named Saturday as a campaign coordinator for Glen Wegner.

Wegner, a Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, named Steve Blaye, 21, coordinator for central Idaho. Blaye, a former student at the University of San Diego, has been active in community affairs while in high school and college.

The sea lamprey, an eel-like fish that sucks its victim's blood, sometimes fastens onto swimmers—but it invariably lets go, apparently repelled by warm-blooded animals.

special 15-judge court to decide whether monopolies and oligopolies—a few corporations controlling an industry—should be redistributed.

He admitted such a move could force a break-up of General Motors Corp., a homestate industry for Hart which accounts for about 50 per cent of the domestic auto sales.

Any break-up decision would be based, he said, on the greatest benefit to the consumer and whether the company involved meets three criteria for assumed monopoly.

Those criteria would be an average return on net worth exceeding 15 per cent for five consecutive years; no substantial price competition among two or more corporations; and control of 50 per cent or more of sales for a product or industry by any four or fewer corporations.

Oregon school program helps delinquents

By ROBERTA ULRICH BEND, Ore. (UPI)—The Bend School District's elementary school counseling program is viewed by the Oregon Law Enforcement Council as a possible means of reducing juvenile delinquency. To the people who run the program, it is "a way to help kids."

A report made after the second full year of the program indicates it is doing the second. Law enforcement officers say it will be a few years before the first can be confirmed.

The program is aimed at spotting youngsters with problems in the early grades and giving them, their teachers and their families some counseling aimed at solving the problems. The Law Enforcement Council hopes that solving the problems will keep the kids from growing into delinquents.

The program operates in all 10 elementary schools—nine public and one parochial—in Bend, a growing city of 16,000 in central Oregon. The schools have a total enrollment of 2,750 in grades 1-4.

Funded this year with a federal grant of $31,530 from the Law Enforcement Council, the program has three persons full-time and one person working three days a week. Additional funds will add one person half-time next fall. The Bend School District put in $22,000 this year and will continue to pay 40 per cent of the cost next year. Eventually the school district plans to finance the entire program.

The program had its beginning in 1966 when the school district hired Miss Helen Marcy, a psychiatric social worker, under a federal program of aid to deprived children. By 1968 teachers were asking similar aid for other children.

The full-scale project got under way during the 1969-70 school year and operated throughout the past two school years.

Most youngsters are referred to the counselors by their classroom teachers but an increasing number are being referred by their parents as families learn about the program, according to John Harbison, veteran elementary school principal who serves as project coordinator.

During the 1971-72 school year 181 children were referred to the counselors, who also worked with 41 youngsters who had been referred the previous year. In addition, many more students were interviewed without being formally referred to the program.

Youngsters with behavior problems or other suspected difficulties—such as the too quiet child—are first given the Walker Problem Behavior Identification check. Those whose scores indicate they need help are given counseling, either alone or in small groups. In most cases the counselor also works with the child's teacher and family.

"We feel working with the people who influence the child is as important as working with the child himself," Harbison said.

"Children welcome the program, Harbison said. 'If a kid has problems, he knows it better than anyone else. I don't perceive the defensiveness in the kids I do in adults. Lots of times the parents have more problems than the kids do.'

Dr. Mark M. Greene of the Northwest Regional Educational Laboratory in Portland analyzed the program this spring and noted, "These findings indicate that during the 1970-71 school year significant reductions in the rate of problem behaviors were found for three of the four analysis groups. The most dramatic reductions in rated problem behaviors were found among girls grades 1-3. Changes in some aspects of behavior were noted in boys grades 1-3 and boys grades 4-6. Little difference was found in girls grades 4-6.

"These findings would seem to indicate that changes in problem behaviors are more effectively dealt with among children in grades 1-3 and girls in particular seem more amenable to change than boys," Greene wrote.

Hopes for small boy

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — There may be hope after all for Sergio Pacheco, a 14-year-old who is only 37 inches tall and wants to be at least five feet.

Doctors examining the 36-pound boy have been baffled, but Dr. Maurice D. Kogut of Children's Hospital in Los Angeles offered a tentative diagnosis Saturday which was promising.

He said Sergio's problem seems to involve human growth hormone (HGH) and its control of body-building material.

Sergio, he said, probably has enough HGH but appears deficient in a chemical factor needed to allow HGH to perform its job of making the body grow.

More tests will be needed to establish the diagnosis, but a treatment involving daily oral doses of male hormones was suggested.

Sergio, of nearby Tijuana, Mexico, is normal in other respects, including intelligence and body form, according to doctors who examined him.

He is very bright and "amazingly knowledgeable" about his condition, Dr. Patricia Dunklee of Project Concern's medical center in Tijuana said. She said Sergio has been studying physiology in his seventh grade class and knows a lot about endocrinology and growth.

"He hopes to grow up to be his father's size," she said.

Kogut said treatment could last six to 10 years, and he suggested the boy might grow to five feet tall, his father's height, in 10 years.

Disasters may trigger almost suicidal period

By United Press International

A psychiatrist working in this community devastated by Hurricane Agnes said Saturday that such disasters normally trigger an "almost suicidal period" among victims who are overwhelmed by their losses.

It has not happened yet in this city of 300,000, said Dr. Edward M. Whalen, but "we are preparing for that" on the basis of stress patterns that followed Hurricane Camille on the Gulf Coast in August, 1968, and the earthquake that struck southern California Feb. 9, 1971.

The full impact of such tragedies normally are not felt "until the second or fourth month," said Whalen, a psychiatrist on the staff of the Wilkes-Barre Mental Health Center, whose out-patient section was destroyed by the rampaging Susquehanna River.

Pennsylvania's worst flood disaster, caused by Hurricane Agnes, occurred during the last week of June.

"Most people have gotten through the grim determination stage and now they are becoming quite angry or depressed as they discover what an overwhelming task they face," said Whalen. "The end is not in sight."

He said heightened depression is brought on by a combination of factors — fatigue, loss, frustration and "feelings of anger over the disaster. It's an almost hopeless situation I've seen in certain people."

Whalen said he and his staff had so far heard of "no increase in suicidal threats" nor any actual suicides. But he said thinks was due largely to "the efforts of relief agencies" which have set up offices throughout the city.

"Offering concern is almost an anecdote to suicide," said Whalen. "I look upon this as a sign of improvement, but don't get me wrong. There's still no optimism."

Whalen's observations were first published in the current issue of the American Medical News. He was quoted as saying that doctors were beginning to worry about serious mental health problems in eastern U. S. communities devastated by Agnes.

"We're in a depressing, frustrating, almost suicidal period," he said. "People are just beginning to realize the monumental task that lies before them. The phrase you hear most is 'wiped out.'"

Lincoln art event

SHOSHONE — The Wood River Soil Conservation District will sponsor at least one division in the art contest for adults at the county fair Aug. 4 and 5.

Cash prizes will be awarded at the same time as other presentations are made at the fair.

If a number of youths want to enter their work, a junior division will be added.

All paintings must be framed and ready to hang, minimum size of 16 by 20 inch canvases or a durable material such as a pressed board.

Paintings entered in the contest must be done in oils and should pertain to conservation and or be Idaho scenes. Work in other mediums will be welcome for display.

Mrs. Paul Bancroft will be at the hobby building the afternoon before the fair opens from 2 to 5 p.m. to register paintings.

Those under 14 years of age who want to enter a junior division are asked to contact Mrs. Robert Gaskill 886-2279.

Wider marts asked

KIMBERLY — Glen Wegner, Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, called Saturday for expanded U. S. agricultural markets overseas.

Wegner, campaigning in several Magic Valley cities and towns, said the U. S. farmer cannot compete in a favorable market place "and this holds his profit down to a poverty level."

The candidate called for depletion of "huge stockpiles" and the encouragement of private trade with foreign countries, in an attempt to deal with the situation.

"Increased trade will not drive up food costs at the supermarket," he said, because much of the trading will be done with stockpiled goods.

A thought for the day: Christian Science founder Mary Baker Eddy said, "Divine love always has met and always will meet every human need."

Unrealistic

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — American high school students don't see much relationship between the things they do in school and the world of work most of them eventually will enter.

"Knowing how hard he works, I get terribly exasperated when I see electioneering slight-of-hand that's critical of him ... as with an attendance report projected out of focus. It just happens that he has a very high 82.5% attendance record for the five and a half years he's served in Washington. When he's not on the floor, he's usually in committee hearings or engaged in other official duties.

Moments like that make me remember Harry Truman, I think it was, who said, 'If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen'. So I sit down and talk to myself awhile and I cheer up.

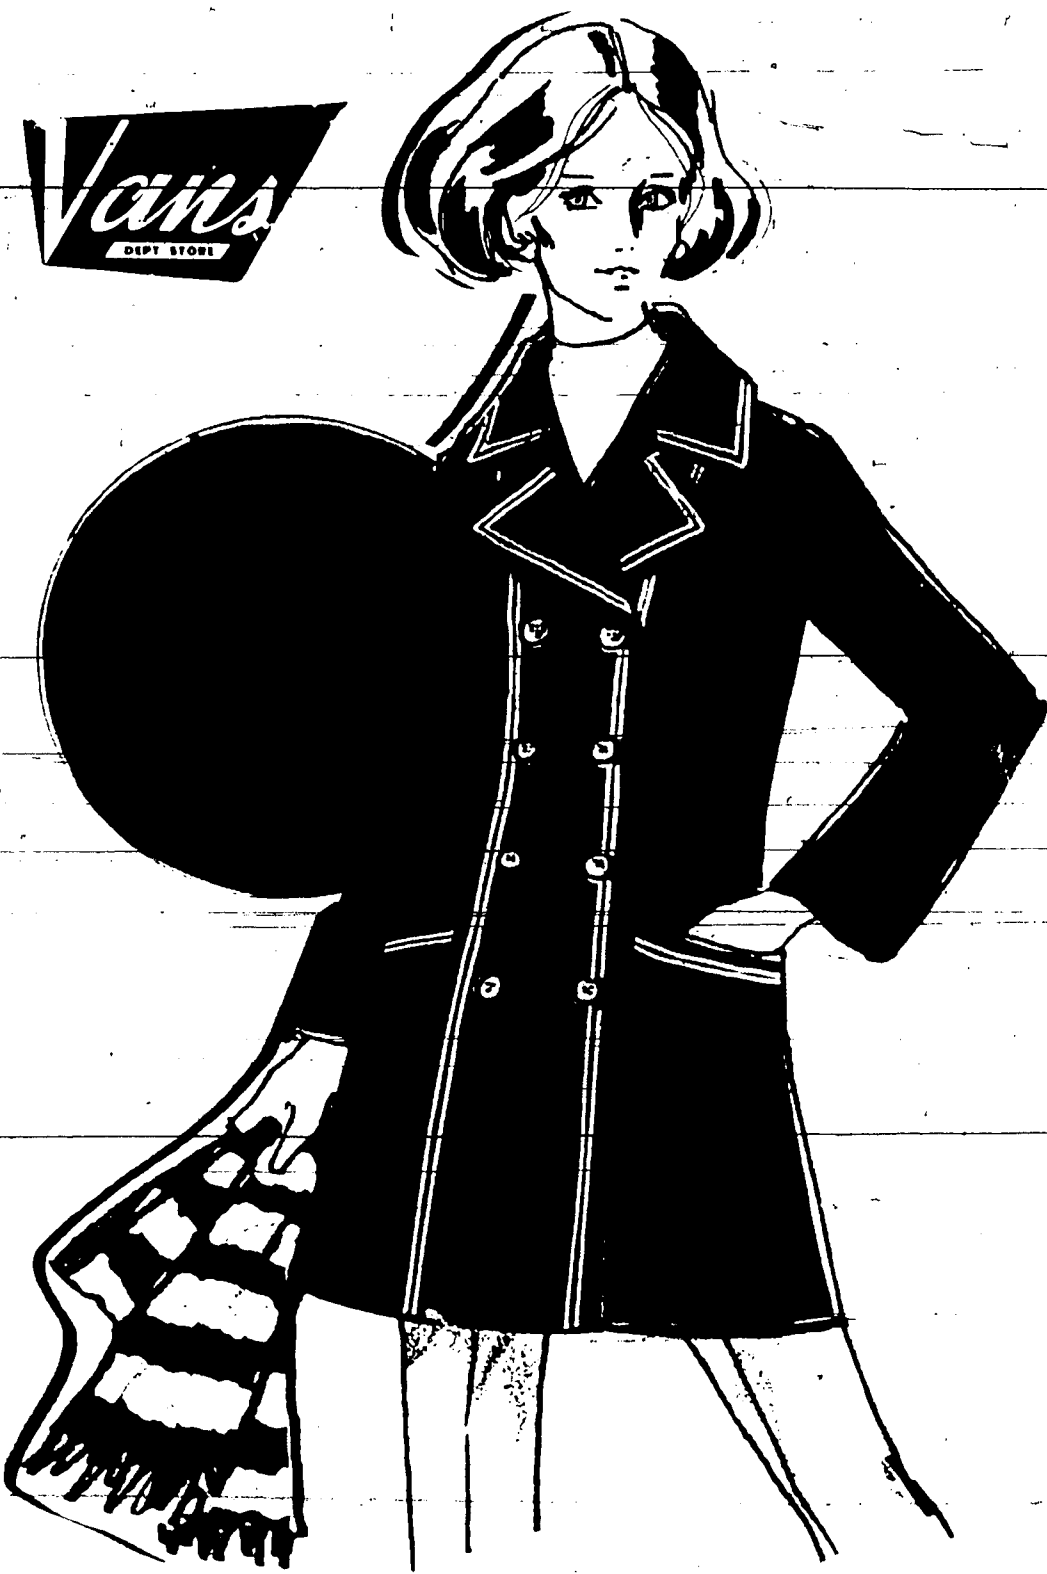

All in all, it's a rewarding life. I feel that I'm part of the process. I feel good just seeing to it that he has a clean shirt and a good breakfast each morning."

Taylor and Idaho Commissioner of Agriculture Oscar Arstein Tuesday morning before settling down to three days of scientific and business meetings.

Between 200-400 registrants are expected for the convention, the first national meeting to be held at CSI.

The registrants will make a sightseeing trip to Jackpot, Nev., tonight, and the conference will conclude Friday with a tour of the Aberdeen branch experiment station.

Bellevue man faces charges

HAILEY — Berry W. Shipman, 19, Bellevue, was charged with involuntary manslaughter over the weekend in the July 16 traffic accident death of a Hailey youth.

The felony complaint, filed in Blaine County Magistrate's Court, was made in connection with the head-on collision which resulted in the death of James E. Stricker, 17, Hailey.

According to State Patrolman Gene Bolton, Shipman's parents have been notified of the complaint. However, Bolton said that Shipman will not yet be able to appear in court because of injuries he suffered in the accident.

Shipman is currently home after being released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, where he was treated for fractures of the nose and ankle.

The accident occurred about 9:30 p.m. July 16 on U.S. Highway 93 about five miles south of Ketchum.

Bolton said July 17 that witness reports had indicated that Shipman, who was traveling south, had been passing vehicles but had returned to his lane, then drove left of center, colliding with the north-bound Stricker vehicle.

Stricker was thrown from his vehicle and died at the scene.

Shoshone holds election seminar

SHOSHONE — A seminar for judges and clerks who will serve on the election boards in Lincoln County was held at the courthouse in Shoshone Friday night.

The session was conducted by Luella Kinsey, Lincoln County clerk. All four Lincoln County precincts were represented, with 34 judges and clerks present.

Mrs. Kinsey outlined the voter's qualifications and the voting procedures as they appear in the new 1972 book of election laws. She noted a changeover last year wherein each elector must sign his own name in the combination election — poll book following his name. No person shall knowingly sign his name in the book if his residence address is not within that precinct at the time of signing.

Mrs. Kinsey stated there would be four separate ballots to mark in the Lincoln County election — the political and judicial ballots, and those concerning the formation of a Lincoln County recreation district and regional airport authority.

In addition to the Democratic and Republican parties listed on the ballots will be the American Party, the Socialist Workers Party, and the Peace and Freedom Party.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. in all precincts of the county for the Primary election August 8.

In order to vote, each person must be a citizen of the United States, be 18 years old, and have resided in Idaho for six months and have lived in the county where he votes for 30 days preceding election day. He must be a registered voter.

The Gooding High School Senatorelles received the first place trophy for the marching groups and the Filer Riding Club placed first in the riding group division.

Chuck Rock placed second in the Pioneer Division with a four-horse hitch on a dray wagon.

Second and third place cash winners in the commercial division were Ray Messner, Buhl, and the Buena Ventura Ranch, Bliss.

The Hagerman LDS MIA placed second in the organizational division. The LDS Primary placed third with "Our First Pioneers."

Judges for the parade were Mrs. Dave Nicholson and Mrs. William Brailford Sr., both Hagerman, and Mrs. Joyce Johansen, Gooding.

Ann Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Harvey, Twin Falls, was named first runner-up.

Jenny Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peterson, Lemhi, second runner-up.

The queen was crowned during the afternoon rodeo by acting queen Terrell Yost. Miss Yost was named first runner-up in last year's competition and became acting queen when the reigning queen, Lynn Sherrell, married, forfeiting her title.

The queen received a pair of boots from Vicker's Saddlery, Twin Falls; a tiara from Simplot's; a bouquet of long-stemmed red roses from Phil's Flowers, Gooding; a leather belt from the Leatherman, Twin Falls, and gift certificates from J & J Supply, Hagerman, Peterson Western Apparel, Twin Falls, and a silver belt buckle.

Colors were presented prior to the rodeo by Ted Andrus and Dean Williams, Hagerman. Mrs. Doug Wood sang the National Anthem. The prayer was offered by Jesse Elgan, Hagerman.

The Magichords, barber shop quartette, entertained in the evening in the city park. Scott Boyer, a Hagerman cowboy, was injured while bareback riding. Boyer was taken to the Gooding Memorial hospital for treatment. Family members reported Saturday evening that he received some fractured ribs in his fall, but is in satisfactory condition.

Gooding, and third place went to Gayland Edwards, Richfield. Bob Jucker, Buhl, placed first and Ray Sparks, second, in calf roping.

Smylie speaks at Castleford event

CASTLEFORD — A Senatorial candidate said Idahoans still must be wary of plans which would export Snake River water to other areas.

Robert E. Smylie, Republican U.S. Senate Candidate, spoke Sunday during a picnic at Balanced Rock Park.

"Too many people in both state and federal governments are singing lullabies designed to lull our people to sleep, unmindful of the fact that some more thirsty areas view water in the Snake-Columbia basin as 'surplus'," Smylie said.

"The Colorado River Bill, already on the books, speaks softly of seeking no replacement water for the Colorado basin until 'adequate studies' have been made of possible sources," Smylie noted.

"Regardless of studies, there is only one place where such replacement water is available, and that is here," Smylie said.

Last seat

MUSICAL CHAIRS race at Carey's Pioneer Days celebration saw two contestants battle for the last chair. During other events Dale Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Hunt, Carey, was named queen. Sue Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Verle Simpson, Carey, was named junior princess.

Burglary probed at Richfield

RICHFIELD — The Pheasant Cafe at Richfield was burglarized sometime after 1:30 a.m. Saturday, Sheriff Thomas W. Conner said Monday morning.

Missing were two or three cases of beer, according to David Roessler, who owns the business.

The burglary was discovered when Jerome Roessler, brother of the owner, reported for work Saturday morning. He said the back door had been "Caved in" and entrance was gained through it.

Burley goes 'all out'

BURLEY — The City of Burley went to Oakley today, in large measure, for the annual Oakley July 24 celebrations.

All county offices, including the sheriff's department, were closed today in honor of the Oakley holiday. Any county law enforcement matters were being handled by city police, relayed to sheriff's deputies in their cars by radio. The sheriff's office was completely unmanned and all calls relayed to city police.

Cassia Memorial Hospital, operated in part by the county, was also manned only by a skeleton crew. No hospital officials were present, according to a spokesman.

Kimberly stages fun fest

KIMBERLY — A parade, races and just plain old fashioned fun were enjoyed by Kimberly residents during "Neighborhood Days" Saturday.

Celebration opens at Oakley

OAKLEY — The annual Oakley Pioneer Days celebration opened this morning with a sunrise salute by the American Legion.

At 11:30 today a barbecue, featuring beef and buffalo, was scheduled to be served. The luncheon is being sponsored by the Cassia Stake presidency.

Funds raised will be used for church remodeling. At 2 p.m. today a gymnastics was scheduled at the rodeo grounds and also scheduled at 2 p.m. was a program at the stake house, with David Haight, Apostle of the Twelve, Salt Lake City, and former Oakley resident, as guest speaker.

At 6 p.m. tonight, a parade with the theme, "Early Pioneer Trails," will be held.

Tuesday, team roping will begin at the rodeo grounds at 9 a.m. and at 7 p.m. will be the 25 mile Pony Express Horse Race. Teams of five horses will compete on a dirt track, starting in front of the grandstands. The winning team will receive $1,000, the second place team $400, and the third place team $200.

Rodeos are scheduled at 9 p.m. tonight and Tuesday. Jake Pope's Spur Rodeo Co., Twin Falls, is producer.

Reigning queen is Charlyce Bench, 30, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bench, Oakley. The Oakley Vigilantes are sponsoring the two-day celebration.

Sunday night. He was not even aware of the fire until early this morning.

Titus said he did not believe there was anything in the building. "I never stored anything in the building, and I'm not exactly sure if the Burkhalter family had anything in it or not," Titus said. He had no idea what could have caused the blaze. "There was no electricity hooked up to the building, so it couldn't be an electrical fire," said Titus.

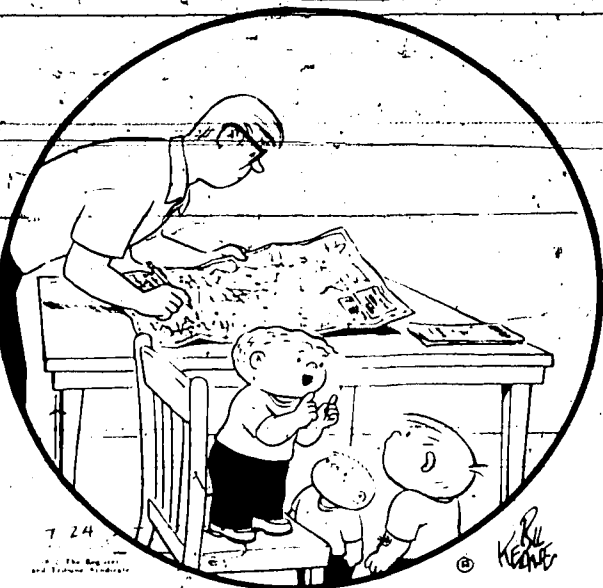

He said the cellar was lined with straw, which would make the fire spread faster if some children had been playing in the area with matches.

Two fire units were called from Wendell, with one of them remaining on standby alert at the Jerome Fire Station in the event another fire should break out in the Jerome area.

The other Wendell unit remained at the fire for about two hours. Neither truck had to pump any water, and both trucks returned to Wendell.

The fire spread to the lawn of Pacific Co-op, but was extinguished before doing any further damage. It was feared the co-op's large fertilizer storage tanks might be endangered by the intense heat of the fire and would explode.

INJURY Am asked what's the most damaging injury a husband can inflict on his wife's peace of mind. Opinions vary. Think personally it's set an unwashed universal joint down on her kitchen cutting board. This accidental laceration tore our scatter but once. A long time ago, too. But the scar, it's ugly, ugly. Any man with an unwashed universal joint in his hands ought to make haste toward the open air. Keep it clear of counter tops. Elbow through doorways with it. Deal with it, in fact, much as though it were a nervous puppy just fed.

Local reaction varies on drug detection plan

TWIN FALLS — Local reaction ranging from caution to outright opposition has greeted a recent proposal for early detection of drug abuse.

Local educators and health officials say the new plan, which would administer urinalysis tests on a random basis to America's junior high school students, is questionable on both moral and scientific grounds.

Writing in the current issue of "Today's Health," an assistant secretary of defense proposes the tests be conducted to identify drug users at an early stage to prevent addiction at a later time.

Dr. Richard Wilbur, assistant secretary of defense for health and environment, based his proposal on Army experiences in controlling drug abuse which he says at one time affected seven per cent of the GI's in Vietnam.

Keith Farrell, a counselor at the College of Southern Idaho, said "I'm not in favor of that. That is infringing on a person's private life. He also doubted the effectiveness of such a program, saying "That sort of thing isn't going to frighten them into not using drugs."

Camden Meyer, assistant superintendent of schools in Twin Falls, disagreed with Farrell. "If it's something that's run through the Department of Health," Meyer said, "I don't see what's wrong with it."

He cautioned, however, that administering officials "might want to get the parents' permission. This is something like taking a lie detector test." He said he would favor a thorough investigation into the legal aspects of the program before considering its local application.

But, he said, "Personally I'm for it, if they can determine something from it."

The South Central Idaho Health District head, Dr. Wayne Carte, isn't certain of the scientific value of the proposal, however. "It would be useful as a survey," he said, "but there would have to be more to it to use it in clinical work."

He cautioned, however, "the individual would have to release confidential information," concluding the program would fall close to "search" on the part of the administering authorities.

Carte went on to say there are relatively easy and scientifically reliable urinalysis tests for detecting the use of heroin and other opiates. There are more complicated and less reliable tests to detect use of amphetamines, he went on, but said he knows of no comparable tests to deal with either marijuana or LSD or other hallucinogenic drugs of that type.

David L. Perkins, director of student personnel services at CSI had the strongest reaction to the proposal. "I am opposed to it on the grounds that nobody has that right for whatever reason," he said in reference to the question of privacy.

"If it were for the safety of the population, I would say yes. But to detect the use of drugs, I would say no."

Doyle Lowder, assistant superintendent of schools in Minidoka County, said his first reaction would be opposition to the plan as an invasion of privacy.

He also said, however, he saw nothing wrong with the proposal "as long as it is supervised and the results of the test go to the family doctor and the students' parents. Not to the government."

Under those circumstances, he went on, if the results ultimately went to the government it should be solely as a statistical report, stripped of any identification of persons involved.

In his article, Wilbur said there was precedent to the alleged invasion of privacy the plan would necessitate, citing the Army's experience with heroin users in Vietnam and other parts of the world.

A Lovelier You

TEEN RANKLES AT ANKLES

By Mary Sue Miller

A teen Lovely writes: My ankle bones stick out like door knockers and actually do knock together when I walk. Even when I wear heavy wool socks. There's no flesh — just big bones. Help!

The Answer: First let us consider your weight. Protruding ankle bones often indicate a large frame. In that case you must be careful to maintain normal weight. If you fall below, those big bones "stick out" all over.

As for a walk with knock-knock effects, your bones just cannot be that large. The trouble is in your feet. Be sure to step out with the toes pointed straight ahead, to keep your weight rolling through the center of your feet, and to walk along two imaginary lines placed two inches apart. Faithful practice puts style in your walk and flesh on your ankles, too.

To hasten the plump-up, perform this routine 10 times night and morning: Stand with feet together. Center weight on heels and lift soles off floor, so that toes point straight up. Hold position for five slow counts; relax and repeat.

Now about your hose — medium weights and shades in the sock department help to camouflage bony problems. Heavy knits emphasize boniness; likewise brights and white. This summer, suntan tones in stockings and panty hose are with it and will aid your cause. Lucky you!

"Oswald: 'South ruffed the diamond opening and remarked, 'I guess I should have responded six diamonds to your Blackwood four no-trump to show an ace and a good void. That would have got us to seven.' Then South proceeded to go down at six."

Jim: "Let me see if I can work out the play. South ruffed the diamond; played out two of dummy's trumps; paused for a moment when East showed out; then cashed dummy's last trump and ran dummy's clubs. West just refused to ruff at any time and eventually dummy would be down to diamonds. South would wind up taking five clubs; five trumps and one spade, but that would be one short." Oswald: "The funny thing about the hand was that South never saw the simple, winning line of play."

Jim: "Probably he suffered from 'Scotch syndrome.' Players with that illness just can't waste a high card."

Oswald: "You are entirely correct. South played the hand just as you surmised. He completely overlooked the play of overtaking dummy's good jack of trumps with his own ace. This play would set up West's 10 as the master trump, but that would be West's only trick. South would run off high spades and high clubs until such time as West chose to take his good trump. Then South would ruff in with his last low trump and claim."

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I trust that President Nixon reads your column. Just in case he does, and hasn't appointed a replacement for J. Edgar Hoover, I would like to recommend my wife. She has had 46 years experience, and I can guarantee you that if she is appointed head of the FBI, within 90 days she will have rounded up all of the ten most wanted criminals.

UNDER SURVEILLANCE FOR 46 YEARS IN BATON ROUGE, LA.

DEAR UNDER: The acting director of the FBI has been appointed. He is L. Patrick Gray. Prudent man, Mr. Nixon, he chose neither Black nor White.

DEAR ABBY: My parents read your column faithfully, so I hope you will publish this. It's an open letter to Parents of a Single Woman:

Dear Mom and Dad: I'm 26 and single I live my life day to day, trying to find purpose, peace of mind, a way to conquer loneliness. I'm frightened of being alone, never marrying or having a child, or being labeled a spinster. I'm filled with guilt for disappointing you, not giving you grandchildren, not giving you a chance to say, "My daughter is getting married."

But it takes strength to make it today, and to feel that I am a worthy person, single, but worthy. I'm reasonably happy. Dating sometimes, hurting at other times. I start to think that I am somebody even if I'm not married. Then comes a phone call from Mother or Dad, and for "my own good" I am reminded that I am single, getting older, wasting time, not looking hard enough for a husband. And there goes my self-esteem. The guilt returns and suddenly I am more alone than before. Can't I be your daughter, married or not? I'll never shame you. I want to marry someday, but only if I find someone who loves me as I love him, and not because you want grandchildren to talk about when your friends talk about theirs.

Instead, say, "Come for dinner tomorrow night and we'll enjoy your company." If you can't do this for me I will have to widen the gap to protect my own peace of mind, and that would cause me great pain and loneliness, because I love you.

YOUR SINGLE DAUGHTER

DEAR ABBY: What do you do about a boss who pockets the waitresses' tips from signed tabs off dining room and banquets?

Abby, the boss is the owner, and this is a high-class supper club. To confront him would mean our jobs, and other than this problem, it's a good place to work.

Maybe if he sees this in the paper, he'll know we are wise to him. Sign us . . . "CHEATED IN MISSOULA"

DEAR CHEATED: Here's your letter. And I hope this is the last "tip" your boss takes.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HEARS TOO MUCH IN BIRMINGHAM": If you honestly want to discourage gossip from telling you things you'd rather not know, cut them off abruptly with, "That's really none of my business"—then quickly change the subject. It works every time.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 6770, L. A., CALIF. 90009 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Kevin Packard takes Gooding championship

GOODING — Almost as if it were tradition for a Packard to win here, 16 year old Kevin Packard never relinquished his first day lead to win the Gooding Amateur golf tournament Sunday by three shots.

After leading with a first day, two under par, 69, young Packard closed around the course at three over par 74 and a two day total of 143.

Kevin claimed the championship from brother Jim Packard, who had won the Gooding Tournament the two previous years, and was favored to make it three wins in a row.

Packard actually bogied the last two holes of the tournament to beat out Rupert Amateur champ Jim Blandford, Twin Falls, Joe Maylay, Weiser and Jay Scanlon, Gooding, who all tied at four over par 146.

Blandford carded a 72 while Maylay and Scanlon faltered, shooting 75 and 76 respectively. Maylay had even par 71 Saturday and Scanlon had 70. Jim Packard and Larry Malone tied for fifth at 149.

In the first flight young 15 year old Bill Spencer, Burley, and Bruce McNeer, Twin Falls, shot second day 72's to tie for the top spot. Spencer beat McNeer on the first hole of a sudden death playoff to take sole possession of first.

Dave Driscoll, first day leader in the first flight tied with Brad Smith, Gooding, at 151. Porter Ingram, Twin Falls, took the last money spot with 155.

Del Rupert, Twin Falls, hit only four greens in regulation but needed only 21 putts to shoot a two over par 73 and win the second flight at 152. Next was Ray Wight, Twin Falls, 155, Gordon Brown, Glens Ferry, 160. Wayne Huffaker, Mountain Home, tied for fourth at 161.

In the third flight, Larry Willis, Boise, hung onto his first day one shot edge to win at 157. Second was Odis Henderson, Gooding, 164. Third, fourth and fifth places went to Glenn Blakeslee, Gooding, 166; John Lemoyne, Gooding, 169 and D. M. Barton, Boise, 170.

Dick Cook, Twin Falls, won the fourth flight gross division at 172. Paul Rose, Gooding, was second at 173 and Jim Shrum, Glens Ferry, nailed down the third spot at 176.

The first money in the net division of the fourth flight went to Stan Jones, Glens Ferry, at 135. Bill Herr, Nampa, took second at 139. Third spot went to Bob Alkire, Ely, Nev., at 145.

Winner of the long drive contest after the tournament was Robert Langdon, a Championship flihter from Twin Falls. Carl Hoss, Pocatello, hit the first shot in the closest to the pin contest, dropping his ball just over three feet from the pin from 135 yards out. His shot wasn't bettered as he won this post tourney competition.

Next tournament in the valley amateur tour will be at Burley next weekend with Curt Thomsen, Twin Falls, defending his title against what may prove to be the strongest tournament field of players this year.

Title stays in family

RELAXING after firing a 74 Sunday to win the Gooding amateur golf championship, Kevin Packard, Twin Falls, right, is congratulated by his older brother Jim, the 1970 and 1971 Gooding Titlist. Young Packard had a two day total of 143, one over par.

Hulme cops challenge cup race

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (UPI)—Denis Hulme of New Zealand and Californian Peter Revson, driving like two men out for a Sunday ride, brought their team McLaren cars home first and second in the Canadian American Challenge Cup Sunday.

The two bright orange cars grabbed the lead at the start after holding the front row of the grid, and finished more than one lap ahead of all the rest of the field.

Hulme had an edge of about two seconds on his teammate at the finish.

Francois Cevert of France proved that the next best thing to a new McLaren is a one-year old version and brought that car home third.

David Hobbs of England was fourth in a Lola and George Follmer of Arcadia, Calif., was fifth in a Porsche.

Hulme, a two-time world champion, won the 60-lap race at an average speed of 114.44 miles an hour.

Whitworth is Raleigh champ

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI)—Kathy Whitworth fired a one-under-par 71 Sunday to win the $20,000 Raleigh Golf Classic by a two-stroke margin over Marilyn Smith.

Miss Whitworth, who won the classic in 1967 and 1971, finished with a 54-hole total of 212, four under par on the Raleigh Country Club Course.

She won $5,000 for the victory. She is all-time leading money winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) tour.

Amos Otis is injured in game

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Kansas City centerfielder Amos Otis was resting in satisfactory condition Sunday night in a local hospital after crashing into the centerfield wall at full speed in the first inning of the Royals' 8-4 loss to Baltimore.

Otis suffered a slight concussion, a cut between the eyes and a bruise to his left knee.

Royals' team physician Dr. Paul Meyer said he believed Otis would be able to play when the Royals visit Chicago Thursday after the All-Star break. Otis had been named to the American League All-Star team for the third straight year.

Pitcher offered $2,000 to throw game

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Right-hander Wayne Simpson of the Cincinnati Reds disclosed Sunday that he had been offered $2,000 to throw a game against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Simpson said the offer was made Saturday about noon on the telephone by an unidentified man.

Simpson, who pitched Saturday night against the Pirates, said he told the man he would not do it.

"You'd better think about it,"

Simpson quoted the man as saying, Simpson hung up and told Reds Manager Sparky Anderson, who in turn notified Cincinnati General Manager Bob Howsam. Howsam called the FBI and agents questioned Simpson further.

Simpson said the caller also asked him to make Bob Robertson, a former first baseman turned utility player, to look good in the sixth inning.

"This made me think the call was a prank," Simpson said, "Because there was a chance Robertson might not even get up in the sixth inning." However, Robertson did come up in the sixth inning and hit a long foul before singling.

Simpson admitted he thought about the attempted bribe during the game.

"I wouldn't exactly say it was fear running through my mind, but I did think about it throughout the game," the right-hander said. "It was ironic when Robertson came up in the sixth inning and hit that long foul."

Simpson (6-3) was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth inning and did not receive the 6-3 victory. The win went to Ed Sprague in relief.

Anderson said he felt the caller was a crackpot.

"But you have to play these things safe, so that's why I contacted Howsam," he explained.

Candidate chats

Ludlow tours towns to raise new Idaho issues

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The candidate drifts down one side of the Twin Falls City Mall, distributing literature to everyone who will accept it.

"Hi, I'm Willis Ludlow running for Congress, here's some of my propaganda. I hope you'll read it."

If the response seems good, he'll add another sentence: "and maybe even vote for me." But that is added in a quizzical, almost believing manner.

That exchange, repeated hundreds, thousands of times in Idaho cities or towns, sets the mood for the Ludlow campaign.

He is running for Congress, trying to "Free Orval" Hansen, the two-term Republican second district representative.

But he says he is also running to try to raise new issues for Idaho. He concedes freely his chances of unseating Hansen are slim. "Right now I think we'll do better than lose two-to-one," he said in Twin Falls last week. "Maybe 40-60 or 45-55."

In his uphill campaign, he finds new hope. The Democratic Convention in Sun Valley earlier this summer helped him, he says, and so does his lack of competition in the Democratic primary.

But he is running hard now, trying to establish his support in the primary for the fall campaign. He hopes to get "75 or 80 per cent" of the votes in his one-man primary that Hansen gets in his own.

So he is touring Main Street across the state handing out his "propaganda." Ludlow, an ordained minister, has been associated with the campus ministry at Idaho State University, Pocatello.

The people who read his literature learn that Ludlow is for a stronger congressional check on the executive branch of government. "Congressmen should stand independent of the President, not subservient to him."

He is for income redistribution, an end to the war in Indo-China and is concerned about what he sees is a threat to the Bill of Rights.

He says the Democratic state leaders in Idaho have given him help, and he expects more. Sen. Frank Church will endorse him after the primary, he says, and Gov. Cecil D. Andrus made a personal financial contribution to his campaign.

In Twin Falls Friday, he said he was pleased with the downtown reception he found. Walking down one side of the mall, he distributed nearly all the literature he had with him. Walking back up the other side, he found only two or three pamphlets that had been thrown down by their recipients. He picked them up, added them to his stack and mused "instant recycling."

Occasionally, someone he knew would stop and greet him. Once, a woman whispered "I'm a Democrat, you know" as if it would be indiscreet to admit it aloud.

But Ludlow is convinced that this type of tedious activity is really slow progress.

He is convinced street campaigning will gain him the votes of people who are unhappy with their life in America. In an interview, he talks about "bringing together the farmer and the worker, both used by a system they don't understand."

He stops one man, a Mexican-American, on the sidewalk and hands him a pamphlet and a Ludlow campaign button. The man stops. "How much," he asks.

It is Ludlow's turn to stop. "Nothing, it's free. I hope you'll vote for me."

Russ visa denied to American

NEW YORK (UPI)—Judy Silver Shapiro, an American who married a Soviet Jew in June and then was forced to leave the Soviet Union without him, said Saturday she has been informed she never will be allowed to return to Russia.

Mrs. Shapiro, of Cincinnati, said State Department officials told her the Soviet Union has rejected her request to return to Moscow to attend her husband's trial beginning Wednesday on charges of failing to report for military retraining.

"They have further stated that I shall never be given a visa to return to the Soviet Union," she said. "This is distressing to me because my civil wedding under Soviet law is to take place in Moscow Aug. 30."

Mrs. Shapiro said she would send a telegram to President Nixon "apprising him of the fact that I will not be given a visa and requesting a meeting with him."

Gavriel Shapiro, a 27-year-old chemical engineer who has sought permission to emigrate to Israel, was one of 14 activist Moscow Jews called up for active military duty shortly before Nixon arrived for talks with Kremlin leaders May 22.

Mrs. Shapiro, who was married to him June 8 in a Jewish Orthodox ceremony in his parents' Moscow apartment, contended that the charges against him were "trumped up and baseless" and said she feared he was being railroaded.

Mrs. Shapiro said her husband, a reserve lieutenant who already had served in the Red Army, was given notice to report for a physical after he sent a letter to Nixon asking to meet with the President in Moscow.

Progress made in telling of Idaho discrimination

By GEORGE FRANK
BOISE (UPI)—The outgoing president of the Idaho Human Rights commission said Saturday the group has made progress in educating the public and businesses in the state that discrimination does exist.

Glenn E. Selander, 36, an assistant professor of English at Boise State College, said he would not seek re-election to the post because he feels leadership should be rotated.

Selander will be running for the Idaho House of Representatives this fall from District 17. He is an unopposed Democrat in the primary.

The commission, which handles discrimination complaints from around the state, elects a new president during its first meeting of each fiscal year.

"I think we have made headway in making it known that many of the problems of discrimination are a result of the structuring of business systems in the state," he said. "They are not necessarily the intent of anyone."

The commission has also made people in Idaho aware that the educational and business systems must operate for the good of all people involved, he said.

"The members of the commission have done an unselfish service for the state and an outstanding job in their efforts to implement the 1969 State Anti-discrimination Act," he said.

Selander said actions of the commission during the last year have assured residents of Idaho that the group works with integrity and fairness and has "tried to act to protect the integrity of all involved." He said people in the state have realized a need for the commission during the last year.

"A large number of people did not realize the state had hidden forms of extant discrimination," he said.

Mind Your Money

More and more motorized miniwheeled vehicles are maiming children.

First, it was minibikes with headlines blaring such shockers as: "Minibike Accident Kills Boy."

Now, manufacturers are coming out with 15 m.p.h. motorized tricycles and "all-terrain vehicles" that climb 30-degree inclines. Some are electric, some are gasoline-powered. All are potentially dangerous for children who are not strictly supervised.

The FDA's Bureau of Product Safety estimates that minibikes alone will cause 73,000 injuries this year. The agency warns that only under these very special conditions should powered, miniwheel vehicles be purchased for children:

- 1—They should never be used on or near streets, sidewalks or parking lots.
- 2—They should be used only in supervised facilities such as grass or dirt tracks or special trails.
- 3—Vehicles should have drive chains and exhaust parts covered and should have brakes and proper suspension on all wheels. Riders should always use the best helmets available (costing $30 to $40) with the Snell Memorial Foundation seal of approval.

Minibike riders should always use gloves and wear heavy jeans and long-sleeve shirts for crash protection. Sturdy boots or shoes should also be worn.

The YMCA has an excellent, supervised, minibike program for inner-city youngsters with problems. Grant money is coming from the Department of Justice and the Honda Co. (motorcycle) is donating 10,000 minibikes.

The youngsters will be trained to ride and repair minibikes and will be carefully supervised in competitive sports events. In some areas, local police will co-operate with the training. Isn't it a pity the YMCA or some other organization can't start similar programs for young people who, as yet, are not in trouble?

Saddleback Park, Calif., has supervised minibike competition. So do special minibike parks in Anaheim, Calif., and Mt. Vernon, N.Y. Parents whose children already have minibikes or who are contemplating buying them should form clubs to supervise their use.

According to Pete Suto of the Motorcycle Industry Council, "When parents buy minibikes for their children and just turn them loose, it's like telling them to go out back and play with a loaded gun."

Minibikes and other power-wheel vehicles for children can be extremely dangerous because they have such a low profile motorists can't see them. The bikes' small wheels can get caught in potholes and if there isn't proper wheel suspension, bumps can flip a rider off.

Coming along to compete with minibikes this summer are such things as the Roamobile, a six-wheel "hill climber" that goes 10 m.p.h. on a gasoline engine.

It should be kept under lock and key unless strictly supervised by adults.

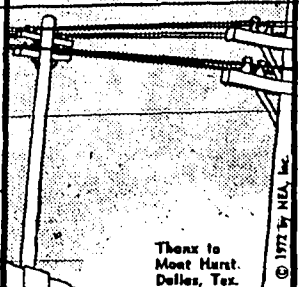

The same company will market an Avenger gasoline-powered car for kids. It can go 15 m.p.h. and is supposed to be used only on special, supervised tracks. But what if there is no supervised track and a child wants to zoom down the driveway?

Then there's the big, Lodestar tricycle "for adults" that will go 15 m.p.h. What if a child quite naturally wants to try it out solo?

Insurance agents say you should check your homeowner or home-renter policies carefully before buying or operating any miniwheeled vehicle. You probably do not have enough—if any—coverage to protect against a possible lawsuit filed by an injured neighbor.

Heroin used more among educated class

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Heroin use may be more widespread among better educated, middle class families than among the poor and uneducated, a government study indicated Saturday.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration said it financed a survey of 612 persons in the Bedford-Stuyvesant and Fort Greene areas of Brooklyn, N.Y. — neighborhoods where heroin addiction is estimated to afflict 70 to 233 in every 10,000 persons.

Among the findings: Almost all heroin users are introduced to the drug by friends or family, and the abuse spreads "in epidemic fashion" among such close-knit groups.

Forty-three per cent of those questioned said they knew someone who used heroin.

Thirteen per cent of those surveyed had been offered heroin at least once; 11 per cent said a relative used heroin; 24 per cent had friends who used it.

The percentage of those surveyed with high school or college training who reported heroin use in their families was double that of those with grade school educations.

Those with blue collar jobs or annual incomes of less than $6,000 had significantly fewer heroin users in their families than did those with white collar occupations or incomes above $6,000.

Jerris Leonard, administrator of the agency, said one unexpected finding was that addicts do not necessarily come from broken families. The study, he said, showed a slight rise in heroin use among relatives and among those questioned who were living in intact families.

In addition, where households are contrasted by the sex of the head of the house, we find those headed by females have a somewhat lower rate of reported heroin use — 11 per cent — compared to those headed by males — 14 per cent.

On a racial basis the survey reported that Puerto Ricans had the highest incidence of a family background of heroin use — 41 per cent. Blacks were next with 22 per cent, followed by whites with 15 per cent and British West Indians with 14 per cent.

In general, Leonard said, the survey concluded that "heroin use is pervasive and widespread in a community like Bedford-Stuyvesant and touches in some way more than two in five families."

Conflict over electric research vs. pollution

By CARL A. VINES

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — An Oak Ridge National Laboratory engineer finds a basic conflict in the practice of electric utilities spending millions promoting their service and then crying about a crisis in electric power use.

Why, asks Eric Hirst, spend all that money to encourage additional use of electricity in home heating, cooling, cooking and other areas when there is a constant threat of brownouts and blackouts, plus problems of environmental pollution from power generating plants of all kinds?

The question is valid, says Hirst. And his boss, Dr. Jack Gibbons of the ORNL, agrees. But a report Hirst wrote and the laboratory distributed back in April has caused some internal hand-wringing by the lab management.

As a result, says Gibbons, internal review procedures have been tightened to be sure that what goes out in report form meets certain standards of objective and scientific credibility.

It isn't that the conclusions of the report are in doubt. Hirst says many congressmen, state legislatures, regulatory agencies and environmental specialists have been concerned with the problem. Some already are moving to ban private utilities from advertising or promoting additional power use.

What caused all the stir was insertion into the report of the author's personal opinions as to electric utility motives in their promotional activities.

"In retrospect," says Hirst, "I'll have to agree that I made an error in the way the report was stated. But it was an error of innocence. After all, I'm an engineer, not a business management specialist or anything else."

Alvin Weinberg, director of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, ordered the re-evaluation of the report long before there was any feedback from those outside the ORNL, was distributed.

The report is part of an environmental program being financed by the National Science Foundation, and is only one small project in the overall program.

But, when it got out—and then a kind of belated recall was instituted—it stirred all kinds of comment. From many utilities, the reaction was highly critical.

Environmentalists, on the other hand, loved it. And many are using parts of it in their campaigns.

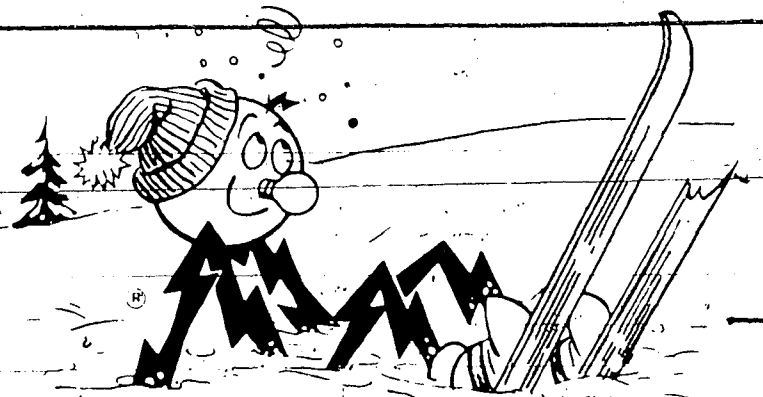

The report, itself, isn't particularly noteworthy. But the way it was handled has stirred up some folks pretty strongly.

Benefits hiked

TWIN FALLS — All Social Security beneficiaries who are on the rolls in September will automatically receive the 20 per cent increase in Social Security benefits.

The increase becomes effective with payments for the month of September with the average monthly benefit for a retired worker going from $134 to $162 and for a couple from $224 to about $271.
