

Vietnam War foes open House attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional doves, fresh from a triumph in the Senate, have opened up a second front in the House and scored a preliminary victory in their effort to legislate an end to U.S. military involvement in Indochina.

In an unprecedented action, the once loyal House Foreign Affairs Committee broke with the administration Tuesday and approved an antiwar amendment to the foreign aid bill that would seek a U.S. military withdrawal by Oct. 1.

The Senate Monday approved an amendment directing a withdrawal within four months but then turned around and killed the aid measure. Opponents of administration policy in and out of Congress are hoping that the new burst of antiwar activity in the House might help revive that measure and persuade enough dove senators who voted against the bill because of their dislike of the military aid program to vote for it if given a second chance.

Passed by the narrowest possible margin of 18 to 17, the House committee measure would condition the pullout and a halt in U.S. combat activity on the release of American prisoners and the safe withdrawal of remaining U.S. forces. It also calls for a cease-fire but only to the extent necessary to complete the withdrawal and only between U.S. and Communist forces.

President Nixon has proposed a U.S. withdrawal four months after return of the prisoners and the establishment of an internationally supervised cease-fire covering all parties to the conflict. He says this is necessary to stop all the killing, not just that of Americans. Doves claim it will do just the opposite, contending that it will not be accepted by North Vietnam and will offer South Vietnam a chance to veto a settlement.

Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., of the Foreign Affairs Committee said he hopes to bring the aid bill and its end-the-war amendment to the floor next week.

Farm prices spur food costs to June record

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spurred by a 2.8 per cent jump in farm prices, the retail cost of a typical family food market basket rose 0.9 per cent in June to a record high, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The retail increase was the sharpest monthly gain since February when prices rose 1.9 per cent. It left the market basket cost, which had declined in March and April before beginning a new rise in May, at 0.6 per cent above March levels and 3.6 per cent above a year ago.

The department's monthly "Price Spread" report showed supermarkets reduced their margins for the third consecutive month as a partial offset to June increases in raw farm products. But the narrowed margins absorbed only part of the raw product and wholesale gains, leaving part of them to be passed on in the form of higher retail prices.

The report said the chief factors in the June price increases were "substantially higher" farm returns for beef cattle, which reached record levels, and for hogs. Increases were also reported in values of frying chickens and fresh fruit, while farm and retail prices for eggs were down sharply.

Officials noted the recently-released Consumer Price Index report for June showed retail food prices up 0.6 per cent compared with the bigger 0.9 per cent gain shown in the Agriculture Department study.

The difference came because the agriculture figures cover beef and pork rises for the entire month of June, while the CPI survey was made only in the first week of month.

The 0.9 per cent June market basket increase lifted the annual cost of the food for a typical family of four to a record $1,299, up $11 from a month earlier and $2 above the previous record set in February, 1972.

The farm value of foods in the market basket was put at a record $522 for June, up 2.8 per cent from a month earlier, 3.3 per cent above March and 10.6 per cent above a year earlier.

The spread between farm and retail prices — the middleman's share of the food dollar — fell to $771 on an annual basis in June. This was 0.4 per cent below a month early, 2.4 per cent below March and 0.8 per cent below a year ago.

Peace in Viet by October?

PARIS (UPI) — A high American official said today a peaceful settlement to the Vietnam war may come before the American presidential elections.

He also said the agreement, which is likely to come in October, would probably be announced in Washington instead of Paris.

The official, who is close to the peace talks, said there was not likely to be a settlement Thursday when the delegations from the United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Viet Cong, meet for their 152nd session.

Demo VP choice admits treatment

CUSTER, S.D. (UPI) — George McGovern's presidential campaign, already off to a bumpy start, ran into more problems Tuesday when his vice presidential candidate announced he had been under psychiatric care during the early 1960s.

Key aides to McGovern confessed they did not know what the voter reaction would be in November to Tuesday's disclosure by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo.

Eagleton said he had been hospitalized three times for a "nervous condition" and had undergone electric shock therapy between 1960 and 1966. Eagleton did not tell McGovern about the difficulty when he was tapped by the Democratic nominee as his running mate at the Miami Beach convention.

"There just isn't any way we can measure what this will do," said Fred Dutton, a political advisor to McGovern.

The main hope in the McGovern camp was that the issue would gradually die down in the remaining 3-1 months before the election and that the public would come to appreciate the McGovern-Eagleton team's candor in disclosing a painful episode.

SEN. EAGLETON ... disclosure

Richard Dougherty, McGovern's press secretary, said the issue might even help by focusing attention on Eagleton.

previously an unknown first-term senator, and give him an opportunity to "prove himself."

But there was always the possibility the matter would bring more problems to a campaign afflicted by extraordinary troubles.

McGovern stands 19 points behind President Nixon in the latest Gallup poll. The Democratic team has failed so far to attract manpower and money from organized labor, although some headway was being made. And traditional elements of the Democratic party, including long-time political leaders in some of the industrial states, have been reluctant to help McGovern's team of newcomers who seized the leadership of the party from them in bitter spring primary campaigns.

The major concern in Eagleton's announcement was that it would cause some of McGovern's financial contributors and his hard working grassroots supporters to lose heart, snowballing into a disaster for the party in November. (Continued on P. 2)

Ex-Idaho treasurer dies at 92

GOODING — Mrs. Myrtle Enking Beatty Clark, the first woman to be elected a state treasurer in the United States, died Monday evening at the age of 92.

Mrs. Clark, a former Gooding resident, died in a Boise nursing home.

She was an active Democrat all of her life and was appointed deputy Gooding County District Court clerk in 1915. In 1918, she was appointed to serve the remaining term of the resigning clerk and recorder. She was elected to the post as a Democrat in the strongly Republican county and was re-elected until 1932, when she successfully ran for state treasurer.

Andrus hits CSI policy

By DAVID ESPO Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Tuesday a College of Southern Idaho policy barring college employees from holding elective positions made them "second class citizens."

He made his comments at a Twin Falls press conference.

A policy established by the CSI board of trustees earlier this year thwarted the apparent efforts of candidate from both political parties. Andrus said he thought the ruling might be found discriminatory if tested in court.

The controversial ruling held that employees could run for office but could not assume them if elected. The governor stopped short, however, of urging that the decision be given a court test. But he said, "Just because a man's an instructor" shouldn't bar him from holding office. Other topics, the governor said he wanted state officials to scrutinize bids they are receiving on state lands.

"It is my feeling that two or three parcels had not been scrutinized properly. If we're not careful, we can lose money," he said.

Earlier in the day he suggested the land board defer approval of sale of 117 acres near the Teton Reservoir.

He also expressed pleasure at the progress of a proposed Salmon Falls Irrigation project. Andrus, who testified at congressional hearings in favor of the project, said, "not all dams are bad."

The $62 million project was given approval Monday by a House subcommittee in Washington. The bill now moves before the full interior committee before going to full House for action.

He also repeated his earlier statements that a recent trip to Minnesota in search of new industry was "productive." Andrus said he met with the president and top vice presidents of the 3M Co. But he said he didn't know when the state would hear from the company about any plans it might have for moving into Idaho.

Voter residency rule out

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — There is no residency requirement for Idaho voters, Idaho's top election official said today.

Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa said much confusion has developed because the constitution and current Idaho election laws say a voter must have lived in Idaho six months and in the county for 30 days to be eligible for registration and voting.

"This has been superseded by the ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court which in effect states there are no residency requirements for voting," Cenarrusa said.

Cenarrusa said Idaho Atty. Gen. Anthony Park has issued an opinion at his request saying registrars and county clerks should register any person who intends to be a resident of the state and whose habitation at the time of registration is within their counties or precincts.

County Clerk Harold Lancaster, Twin Falls, said he has instructed registrars and his staff to register anyone who can show they now reside in the county or will be a legal resident by election day, Aug. 8.

At least two other county clerks had said they are not aware the residency requirement had been dropped and are continuing to follow the Idaho Constitution and election laws.

Cenarrusa said the state laws are causing some administrative problems for clerks. Many states, he said, close their registration books 30 days before election but in Idaho, persons may register with their registrars up to 10 days prior to the election and with county clerks up to two days before election. This will create problems for the clerks' offices to complete the registration lists and get them to the election boards by election time.

The secretary of state said deadline for registration with the registrars is 8 p.m. Friday. He urged persons to register by that time if possible.

Under the new Idaho law, all voters must be registered on the uniform registration cards if they are to vote in the election. Persons who have voted for many years in Idaho but who did not mail back the new registration cards cannot vote if they do not re-register prior to the deadline, he said.

The cards provide a permanent registration for voters. Persons, once they have filled out the uniform registration cards, may miss one or two elections without having to register again, so long as they maintain residency in their counties, he said.

To help voters and election officials better understand the laws, Cenarrusa has mailed an information sheet in the form of a question and answer series to all newspapers and others involved with public information.

The information sheets, originally sent out under the signatures of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and Secy. of State Cenarrusa, were revised to carry only the authorization of the secretary of state at the request of the governor.

Gov. Andrus said he did not wish to be involved with the confusing election regulations of the state.

Spending curb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told the Democratic-controlled Congress today he will veto any spending increase which he considers a threat to the federal budget.

In a politically charged special message to the Senate and House, the President said:

"No matter what the political pressures, no matter how frequently I may be told that in an election year a president cannot veto a spending measure, I will simply not let reckless spending of this kind destroy the tax deductions we have secured and the hard earned successes we have earned in the battle against inflation."

The President urged Congress to impose a tight ceiling of $250 million on federal spending in the fiscal year that began July 1. Nixon first proposed such a ceiling when he sent his new budget to Congress last January 24.

Eagleton reveals woes

In a steady voice but with trembling hands, Eagleton made the dramatic disclosure of his medical problems at a news conference in a wooden recreation hall at McGovern's Black Hills vacation retreat.

With McGovern seated at his left, characteristically displaying no outward emotion, Eagleton told how he was hospitalized in 1960, 1964 and 1966 suffering from exhaustion and fatigue. The first visit lasted four weeks; the second, four days; and the third, three weeks.

Eagleton said he was under a psychiatrist's care and received electric shock treatments because "at that time it was part of the prescribed treatment for one who was suffering from nervous exhaustion and fatigue, and manifestations of depression."

Eagleton attributed the problem to overwork beginning with his 1960 campaign for Missouri attorney general when he was only 30 years old. Now 42, he said he has learned to pace himself and that doctors had pronounced him in "good, solid, sound health."

He said however, that he could not campaign under a rigid seven-day-a-week schedule, and although he would be active, would limit himself this fall.

McGovern backed his running mate to the hilt, even though he said Eagleton had not advised him of his past condition until after the Miami Beach convention.

McGovern said he asked Eagleton before he picked him as running mate "if he had any problems in his past that were significant or worth discussing with me." He said, "no."

McGovern said he agreed with Eagleton's answer because all that had happened was that he had "the good judgement to seek out medical care when he was exhausted."

McGovern, who turned down Eagleton's offer to resign from the ticket, said his running mate was "fully qualified in mind, body and spirit to be the vice-president of the United States and, if necessary, to take over the presidency on a moment's notice."

Dougherty said rumors had been floating through the convention that the Missourian was an alcoholic and had a nervous disorder. He said aides checked out the rumors with numerous sources including members of Congress and Missouri newsmen and could find no basis for them in fact. Consequently, Eagleton was not even asked to confirm or deny the rumors because they appeared so absurd, Dougherty said.

Eagleton refuted "categorically and without hesitation" that alcohol was connected with his problem.

The rumors which circulated in Miami Beach were pursued by newsmen traveling in Eagleton's campaign, and eventually they forced the vice-presidential nominee to make a clean disclosure.

Eagleton said he informed McGovern about his past problem in the weekend following the convention. The news conference to let the public know was delayed for a week while the two running mates tried to decide what to do. Originally Eagleton was due here Sunday, but without explanation his visit was postponed for two days.

He arrived here Monday night and met with McGovern for two hours privately in McGovern's rented log cabin. Then the two men walked down the hill to inform members of the staff that Eagleton would disclose his medical history at the scheduled news conference.

McGovern and his aides took the news with outward serenity. McGovern went out for a game of tennis following the session.

McGovern, whose two-week vacation has been a series of staff meetings, news interviews, sessions with photographers and continuing work on campaign plans, planned to be in seclusion until Friday.

Eagleton left after the news conference en route to a campaign appearance before the retail clerks' union in Honolulu.

No issue

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Nixon has ordered his staff not to make Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's past health problems a campaign issue, campaign director Clark McGregor said today.

McGregor told a news conference at the Roosevelt Hotel, "The mandate and directive from the President is that no one connected with him would have any comment to make about this very personal matter. I concur 100 per cent."

McGregor added later that voters consider a wide range of issues when they cast their ballots and that it was the duty of the candidates to assist them in their consideration of policy matters, not personalities.

GOP maintains silence

By United Press International

Republicans maintained a discreet silence about Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's revelation that he once received psychiatric care, while Democrats praised Eagleton's courage and promised to back his vice presidential candidacy.

But Utah State Democratic Chairman John Klas said the disclosure would not help the chances of Sen. George S. McGovern and Eagleton beating President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in November.

And Gov. Warren Hearnes, the Democratic national committeeman from Missouri, said he feared that "the administration will have a hatchetman make it an issue, under cover."

The first Republican reaction, however, was muted.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said at the White House, "We couldn't comment on that. The President has made us very aware he doesn't want any comment on personal matters."

—Utah's Klas: "As long as he (McGovern) is convinced that the senator is capable of doing the job that's enough for me."

—Alabama's Robert Vance, who knew about Eagleton's medical history at the convention: "I am not disturbed by this aspect. So Eagleton was depressed before, and he's not now."

—Massachusetts' Helen Rees, whose husband is an internal medicine specialist: "The shock treatment is very much misunderstood and it is often administered."

McClure favors strikes on N. Viet flood dikes

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Rep. James McClure said Tuesday American air forces should bomb flood control dikes in North Vietnam to "apply as much pressure as we can on civilians."

He also said he would "have them (North Vietnamese) worry about the use of tactical nuclear weapons," although he stopped short of endorsement of their use in the Indochina war.

The three-term congressman made his remarks in a wide-ranging interview Tuesday at the offices of the Times-News. He was in the Magic Valley campaigning for Republican nomination for the Senate.

President Nixon has stated repeatedly in recent months that American war policy rules out bombing of the dikes in North Vietnam. McClure, a consistent supporter on Congress of the President's conduct of the war, said he had "made known" his views to presidential aides.

McClure said he was "not urging a military victory" in Vietnam, but said "the enemy ought to be afraid of a military victory."

The candidate also predicted favorable legislative action this year on the proposed $62 million Salmon Falls Irrigation Project. The bill cleared the House Subcommittee on Irrigation and Reclamation Monday. It now goes before the full parent interior committee for action before moving to the floor of the House.

"There is a pretty good likelihood it will pass this year," McClure said, of the legislation.

McClure also applauded President Nixon's decision to retain Vice President Agnew on the ticket for the general election, and branded George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, as "an extremist."

But he cautioned Republicans about overconfidence, saying the McGovern campaign was a "dangerous one," and the candidate had a "tough camp."

He denounced what he termed an "extremist platform" that passed the Democratic National Convention earlier this month.

He said an early campaign pledge by McGovern to give $1,000 to every "man, woman and child" in the country was "economic extremism" and "radicalism."

"I am opposed to a guaranteed income," McClure said. "I favor a guaranteed opportunity for people to do and to work for themselves. But I am fundamentally opposed, philosophically opposed to a guaranteed income."

He said it would be a "country different than America" to "take from people who achieve and give to those who don't."

But he saved his biggest swipe at McGovern's campaign for the Senator's anti-war position. "McGovern's statements almost guarantee there won't be an end to the war until after the election in November," McGovern has said. "If I'm elected you can have everything you want."

McClure said he supported a policy of gradual withdrawal of ground combat troops in South Vietnam while maintaining pressure on the North Vietnamese through air strikes.

"You have to admit there are increases in troops in Cambodia, Thailand and perhaps Laos," McClure said, "but they are there at the request of the governments."

The conservative Republican also supported the President's policy of secret negotiations to end the conflict in Southeast Asia. "There are some negotiations that can't take place in the headlines. They are secret."

But he agreed there should be effective congressional checks on the ability of any president to wage war. He said he favored in theory a bill introduced by Sen. Jacob Javits of New York granting the president authority to commit troops on foreign soil, subject to congressional approval if they were to be stationed there for more than 30 days.

Turning to Idaho issues, McClure predicted increased federal participation for the construction of regional airports. Bills pending in Congress now would boost federal financial aid from around 50 per cent to 75 per cent or more.

But he steered clear of the sticky problem of whether to build a regional airport to replace the present one in Twin Falls County. "There are some things best determined by the people here rather than by those in Washington, D.C.," he said.

McClure, whose voting absentee record in Congress has become a campaign issue, said his record "compares favorably" to any of Idaho's present legislators, as well as George Hansen, a former congressman who opposes him for the senatorial nomination.

GOP aide backs pick

TWIN FALLS — Ornette Sinclair, National Committee woman for the Republican Party in Idaho, has endorsed President Nixon's selection of Spiro Agnew as his running mate.

"I wholeheartedly support the President's decision," she said. "America, under the leadership of President Nixon and Vice President Agnew had made a start, a beginning toward the twin goals of peace and prosperity. Together they will continue to work toward these goals."

Mrs. Sinclair is a resident of Twin Falls.

Mourning Irish walk off jobs

BELFAST (UPI)—Thousands of Northern Ireland's factory workers, store employees and public transport drivers walked off their jobs today in observance of a national day of mourning for the nine victims of "Bloody Friday."

The observance marks the series of bombings in Belfast last Friday. The Irish Republican Army (IRA) later claimed credit for the bombings.

A spokesman for Belfast's Harland and Wolff shipyard, which employs 10,000 persons, said today's walkout "has been almost 100 per cent." Many of the administrative employees stayed on the jobs but production stopped, he said.

Work also stopped at most factories, and stores in the downtown area closed when the mourning observance officially began at 11 a.m. (6 a.m. EDT). Public transport kept running until noon to allow the workers to get home.

The UDA said there would be an electricity shutdown, except to hospitals, from noon until 8 p.m., but a spokesman for the Electricity Board of Northern Ireland said there had been no power cuts by midday.

The action, called by the Ulster Defense Association (UDA) and the Loyalist Association of Workers, came as military sources said a British army assault on IRA strongholds in Londonderry may be imminent.

In the only known fatality Tuesday, the body of a 25-year-old Protestant man was found shot in the head in West Belfast. Residents of the mainly Protestant area said he had been shot by gunmen firing from the nearby Roman Catholic Lower Falls district.

He was the 61st person killed since a two-week cease-fire of the IRA's extremist Provisional wing ended July 9 and the 473rd slain in three years of violence in Northern Ireland.

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls firemen assisted in clearing the Twin Falls Auto Parts lot Tuesday.

The firm requested the lot be burned after moving its business.

British clear one-day strike

LONDON (UPI)—The Trade Union Congress (TUC), representing 10 million British workers, today approved a proposal calling for a one-day national strike Monday to protest the jailing of five longshoremen, a union source said.

The proposal, introduced to the TUC's General Council by the Engineering Union, was passed by an 18 to 7 vote, the source said.

The council included in its proposal a provision that no action would be taken Monday if the men were released.

Norman Turner, the official solicitor, was applying today for a court order for early release of the men, jailed Friday for defying the National Industrial Relations Court.

Meanwhile, sympathy strikes for the longshoremen cut most of London's bus service and canceled many flights out of London's Heathrow Airport. But a London transport spokesman said the situation was not as bad as first feared because some bus drivers did report for work.

The House of Lords ruled today that the Transport and General Workers Union is responsible for actions of its shop stewards. This reverses an appeal court ruling last month and means fines totaling 55,000 pounds ($137,500 U.S.) will have to be paid by the union after all.

The union was fined for boycotting trucks at the Hull and Liverpool docks, a move connected with its battle against containerization — the issue at stake in the jailing of the five longshoremen.

It was up to Turner to head off Monday's national strike by obtaining release of the jailed men.

License deadline nearing for '73's

TWIN FALLS — Motorists whose license plates are on the staggered system and have numbers ending in "7" are reminded of the July 31 deadline for new stickers.

Ron Taylor, county assessor, said the "72" black and white sticker on the plates expires Monday, and must be replaced by the red and white "73" sticker by midnight July 31.

The assessor said persons going on vacation should keep the deadline in mind in order not to have their plates expire during the time they are away.

"no reservations" about the proposed Salmon Falls Irrigation Project.

Johnson told a meeting of Twin Falls County Democrats he gave his full support to the $62 million project. Earlier in the campaign, the Boise attorney had expressed concern about the effects of well drilling in the project on springs in the Hagerman Valley area.

But he told the Democrats Tuesday he was satisfied there could be no harm in the area, and gave his full endorsement to the project.

Johnson also vowed total support to the Democratic ticket in the general elections this fall. He said if he is nominated for the Senate race, he would most like to oppose Rep. James McClure, R-Idaho, in the November elections.

McClure, Johnson said, "polarizes the state the most."

In The Saddle

The decision by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to oust all Soviet military advisers, estimated at anywhere from 10,000 to 20,000 from his country because of the Soviet Union's refusal to provide Egypt with all the weapons it asked for inspires a mixed reaction.

It is good news to the extent that a decline of Soviet influence anywhere in the world may be good news for the West.

Yet for the same reason it is disquieting news because it suggests that since the disastrous Six-Day War the Kremlin has been, at least to some degree, a restraining influence on the Arabs who are hell-bent for another showdown with Israel. It confirms that prowar forces are firmly in the saddle in Egypt, and whether Sadat is riding with them or is being ridden by them makes little difference.

But if not from Russia, where then will Egypt get the weapons it needs to support a fourth war with Israel in 24 years? Oil-rich Libya and Saudi Arabia, the latter in particular no great admirer of the Soviet Union, have reportedly promised Egypt western arms in return for a break with Moscow. A Beirut newspaper mentions France as a source.

It would be ironic if western-armed Israel were one day to be confronted by a bellicose Egypt also armed by the West, but it would not be the first time the democracies have worked against their own best interests.

According to Egyptian political sources, however, Egypt is not beginning to cozy up to the West, certainly not to the United States. Instead, this latest move by Sadat is a demonstration of his independence from the superpowers. This would also include China.

If that is the case, then the Middle East status is more quo than it was before, despite continued Arab blustering. There will be no peace in the foreseeable future but not war either, or at least no war that a strong and vigilant Israel cannot handle.

That is about the most encouraging interpretation of the situation that can be made at this time.

Youth Contrast

Youthful American radicals, exuberant in their causes and naive to much about them, have been trouping to various communist countries to savor what they imagine to be a kindred spirit.

Some of the visits have been not only interesting, but enlightening. One such group recently attended a Young Peoples Conference in Minsk. They went with the avowed intention of engaging their Soviet hosts in a rap session over such topics as world politics, the role of the individual and the family.

That is not what the Russians had in mind. Their delegation consisted of party officials a good bit older than the rest, and they came with a prepared agenda. Conversing about such topics as interested the Americans was not included.

Some among the American delegation may have gotten the idea Soviet youths don't engage in dialogue very much, nor for that matter contribute much to party business. Which is about all the political action there is in Russia.

Quite a contrast to the piece of the action youths in America are carving out for themselves these days. For those not too blind to see, that is.

It's Tax Free

Next time you win anything you might do well to remember the Mexican who recently won $3 million in a lottery — and the entire winnings were ruled tax free.

A commerce Clearing House News Report tells the story. Seems the Mexican, deeply religious, made annual pilgrimages to pay homage to the Virgin of Guadalupe, patron Saint of Mexico. Following one such trip, he telephoned his nephew, a U.S. citizen living in Texas, to tell him he had had a wondrous dream.

In his dream the Virgin of Guadalupe directed him to purchase ticket number 37281 in the Mexican National Lottery.

Nephew and uncle went to great lengths to track down this ticket number, buying up the entire block bearing that number with the savings of the uncle. Then they placed the ticket in the uncle's name.

Miracle of miracles, ticket number 37281 eventually won $3 million, whereupon the Internal Revenue Service entered the picture, proposing a $1.6 million tax on the nephew on the grounds he was the real owner of the winning ticket, since he had been instrumental in its acquisition, retention and redemption and had generally guided his uncle in the implementation of the uncle's dream.

On the factual issue of who was the taxpayer, the United States Tax Court was faced with the credibility of witnesses on behalf of the U.S. nephew-taxpayer who wove the consistent story of divine inspiration, reliance on the inspired direction and ownership of the lottery ticket by the uncle.

Testimony of the taxpayer's grandmother, mother of the uncle, was found by the court to be most convincing.

Result: The court ruled the United States could take nothing in tax!

ROBOT ADVANCES

Recently the Illinois Institute of Technology Research staged a robot convention. About a dozen robots and 200 people showed up. The idea was to show industry representatives what man-replacing robots can do on the production line. If some of the predictions hold, a future meeting will be necessary to discuss what man will do when he finally is pushed completely out of the factory.

What industry calls robots are mechanical devices which do the tedious and repetitive work which humans find monotonous. The robots have made some inroads, but largely only in jobs involving simple movements like picking and placing.

A new generation of robots is predicted for this decade. They will possess electric eyes and a sense of touch. But the 1980s will usher in the decade when robots could become a real threat. Plans envision robots in that decade which, within limited parameters, will be able to sense information and act on it on their own.

That is still not the same as intelligent life, but it will come close. Eliminating the non-thinking tedium in work is a phase most workers will find acceptable, but going beyond that — to even half a mechanical brain — crosses into a new challenge. Many people are not going to like it.

Is McGovern Really Boss?

WASHINGTON — Sen. George McGovern's spectacular about-face in naming Lawrence F. O'Brien his campaign chairman was made without consultation with his own top campaign aides and was intended to serve notice that McGovern, not those aides, will be in charge.

Just after the announcement of O'Brien's appointment in a joint press conference McGovern turned to Gary Hart, his coolly brilliant chief political organizer, and quietly said: "I'm sorry I didn't have the time to discuss this (the O'Brien appointment) more fully with you."

Behind that comment were six days of secret, high-velocity negotiations between McGovern and O'Brien, displaced as Democratic national chairman by fast McGovern-staff footwork on July 14 without McGovern clued in.

O'Brien's true influence and power in the campaign remain to be seen. Also in doubt is the effectiveness of the new Hydra-headed campaign organization

O'Brien operating in the ticket energetically, tried to telephone McGovern to urge maximum pressure on O'Brien to stay as national chairman. But Crangle couldn't get through to McGovern. Instead, he was forced to make his case to Jean Westwood, national committeewoman from Utah and a McGovern insider. What Crangle did not know was that McGovern staffers had privately informed Mrs. Westwood she would be the new national chairman. In short, she was a poor salesman for O'Brien.

Crangle then sought out Sen. Thomas Eagleton, McGovern's just-chosen running-mate. Dripping wet from a swim, Eagleton listened as Crangle urged him to telephone McGovern at once with the same message: keep O'Brien. Eagleton agreed, but not even he could get through to McGovern. Instead, he left his urgent message with Mankiewicz — already committed to Mrs. Westwood. Thus, the Eagleton-Crangle effort was doomed.

With big labor, big city politicians and the party's establishment up in arms following O'Brien's replacement, McGovern came secretly to O'Brien's apartment in Washington's Sheraton-Park Hotel to make a two-hour appeal: Would O'Brien act as McGovern's bridge to the hostile camps of big labor and the party's old guard?

But O'Brien, deeply disturbed by the apparent split between McGovern and his top lieutenants, declined to say yes. He wanted absolute assurance from McGovern that he would be free to operate on his own subject only to McGovern's personal orders.

O'Brien flatly refuses to discuss details of that two-hour conversation, but one intermediary told us that McGovern was genuinely angry and upset at clear signs that his staff had shielded him from such outside, high-level intercessions as those by Eagleton and Crangle.

Thus, in the nominee's own mind, arranging a campaign post for O'Brien without consulting Hart, Mankiewicz, et al. became a test of his own authority and a warning to Hart & Co. to keep their place.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

How It Works

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We have a friend who has a little trembling in her hands. We were told it could be Parkinson's disease. What is it, what causes it, can it be cured? — T.V.

Dear Doctor: Is Parkinson's disease hereditary? Are strokes involved? — B.J.

Parkinson's disease or Parkinsonism (once called paralysis agitans) is a disorder of the nervous system that affects 1 or 2 per cent of people over 50.

It involves a combination of shakiness and a rigidity of the muscles — the hands shake, the fingers characteristically make what is called "pill-rolling" motion. Gait becomes awkward, the patient tends to lean forward and posture becomes stooped. The face may develop a masklike expression. Drooling sometimes occurs.

The cause isn't always clear, but it isn't hereditary. Some of the known causes, however, are encephalitis (brain inflammation), head injuries, carbon monoxide or manganese poisoning, and some known drugs if overdosed or the person has undue sensitivity. Evidently there are other causes, not identified.

The thought was once held that hardening of the arteries of the brain was the cause, but that idea has been discarded. Strokes don't cause the tremor, either, although it would be possible for a person to have both Parkinsonism and a stroke since that's the general age bracket.

One possible clue was the discovery that Parkinson patients had less than the normal amount of a substance called dopamine. This led to a drug called L-dopa in 1959, and after extensive testing and learning how to use it, it is now in general use. Reports are that from 70 to 80 per cent of patients are helped to varying degrees — sometimes markedly, as in the case of carpenters, unable to work, going back to their jobs.

Prior to L-dopa, drugs of the atropine family were used but had the disadvantages of dryness of the mouth and visual disturbances.

Brain surgery, cutting certain nerve patterns, has been tried; this reduced the tremor but not the muscle rigidity.

For patients who aren't helped by L-dopa, another drug, Symmetrol, may help.

Discovery of the newer methods of treating Parkinsonism is a blessing to a great many people — the disease is an annoying and sometimes disabling one, but not fatal. Studies are continuing to try to make L-dopa even more effective than it now is.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 25 and two years ago underwent surgery for an undescended testicle. Should this lead to sterility? Would it interfere with an active sex life? — T.D.

No to both questions.

It Means Many Things

Editor, Times-News,

Growing old means many things to many people. It means more time alone, it means a back seat, it means less money, it means being frightened and trying to figure out what one's life has meant. It means more time and freedom and it means more demand upon inner resources.

The Senior Citizens in our area have pioneered for us by building schools, roads, and developing the wonderful resources we have in Magic Valley. They have spent a lifetime contributing to our society. The legacy they have left us is one that I hope will not be forgotten.

They are still pioneering in a new field to make a better world for us when it becomes our time to retire.

These people are in a position where they can no longer physically and financially contribute as actively as in the past so we are asking you to pledge your support in this field.

We have an organization in Twin Falls that is governed by an Advisory Council, largely composed of Senior Citizens. At this time we are determined to have a center that will help take care of the needs of being lonely by providing a meeting place for activities and a social center. We have found such a place as a start but we need a $2,000 down payment to obtain the building.

If you would like to be involved in this project we would appreciate your help. Our operating funds are limited so no contribution is too small.

Send your contribution to Twin Falls Advisory Council, Box 531, Twin Falls. The telephone number of the Senior Citizens office is 733-9351. If you have any questions concerning this project please feel free to call.

United Nations

Editor, Times-News

The United States should get out of the United Nations because (1) the UN was conceived by Communists. Joseph Stalin's book Marxism and the National Question (published in 1942) outlined the following principle: Divide the world into regional groups as a transitional stage to total world government. Later the regional groups can be brought all the way into a single world dictatorship.

That the U.S. was to be the means to achieve that goal was made clear in the April 1945 issue of the Communist journal Political Affairs in the following words: "Great popular support and enthusiasm for the United Nations policies should be built up, well organized and fully articulated."

(2) The UN was created by Communists. In 1950 the State Department issued a volume called Postwar Foreign Policy Preparation, 1939-45. It described the policies and events leading up to the creation of the United Nations. This and similar government documents list seventeen men who had key roles in shaping these policies. The list was headed by convicted perjurer, Alger Hiss, and sixteen of them — including Hiss — have been identified in sworn testimony as secret Communist agents.

(3) The UN is controlled by the Communists. Perhaps the most important position in the entire UN structure is that of Under-Secretary-General for Political and Security Council Affairs. This position supervises all military functions, all disarmament activities, and all UN uses of atomic energy. Since 1945, ten men have held that job and every one of them has been a Communist. A law has already been passed to disarm our country and turn our "defense" over to the United Nations.

(4) The UN is an integral part of Communist plans. On April 6, 1970, UN Secretary-General U Thant said, Lenin's "ideals of peace and peaceful coexistence among states," — meaning no resistance to Communism — "have won widespread international acceptance and they are in line with the aims of the UN Charter." They certainly are, which is why responsible Americans want to get the United States out of the United Nations.

An Answer

Editor, Times-News

In answer to Mrs. Callen's letter of August 23.

First of all everyone on welfare isn't stupid, no good, or lazy and for years the cry has been "make these people go to work." Who is responsible for this day care movement? Are you willing to take in the children in those day care centers? Do you have a better answer?

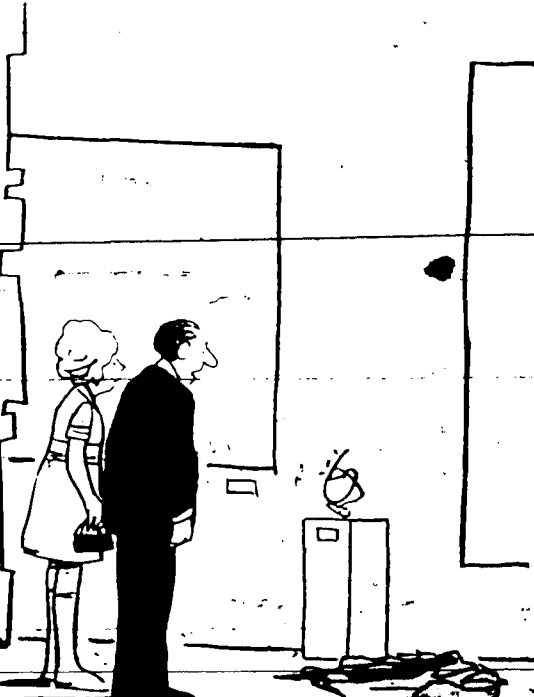

I agree the responsibility lies in the home, and mothers are still needed there. It is not the government who is supposed to take care of the children, it is all of us.

Does anyone have any better solution to this?

Is it right to take the homemaker out of the home and put her to work? With her out of the home and her children in day care centers, our homes are wide open to those who would teach our children contrary to our own way.

Filer phone fate

FILER RESIDENTS were asked their opinion on a purchase offer made by the Idaho Telephone Co., Homedale, to the Filer Mutual Telephone Co. A public meeting to discuss the decision is scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday at the Filer High School auditorium. Members and subscribers of the firm are invited.

RANDLE BRISTOL, of the Bristol Agency, said, "I am opposed to the Idaho Telephone Co. buying the Filer Mutual Telephone business but I would be in favor of Mountain States Telephone Co. buying it." Bristol, who sells real estate, said he was glad to see a meeting called before any action or vote was taken so many questions could be answered and the entire proposal clarified.

JOHN KUEST, manager of the Magic Mill, voiced the confusion felt by many area residents when he said, "I don't know how I feel about the proposal because I don't know enough about it. I received and read the letters from the two companies which were sent to all subscribers but I don't know enough about it to voice an opinion either way."

LARRY AINSWORTH, employe at the Magic Mill, said he felt he didn't "know enough about it as yet. I would like to know the advantages and the disadvantages before I make any decisions."

EARL CROUSE, proprietor of an appliance store in Filer, said, "I am satisfied with the company and service the way it is. I do think it is good to have a meeting to inform the people."

MARTIN GROSSHANS, Filer farmer, said he thought the company should "be left just as it is. The Filer Mutual Telephone Co. is one of the first and oldest in Idaho and does all right and I would be against any changes."

Davis tours reactor station

Idaho Political Candidates By United Press International Democratic senate candidate William E. Davis toured the national reactor testing station Tuesday and predicted a major role for the atomic commission site in developing new power sources.

Davis said hydro-electric dams are no longer desirable and by devoting its energies to solving power shortages through nuclear research, the nation could turn from a wartime to a peacetime economy without the adverse side effects.

First district congressional candidate Wayne Kidwell told the Nampa Lions Club Tuesday a congressman can do an effective job only by long hard hours of homework and communication in committee.

"Pounding on the table and making political promises makes good election fodder, but it won't get the job done in congress," said the Republican Candidate.

Speaking in Boise, Stanley and Grangeville Tuesday, Glen Wegner, Republican U. S. Senate candidate, said tax reform should be the number one priority of the new congress.

"Before we can have true tax reform, we must make the federal government accountable for its spending," he said.

Another republican first district congressional candidate, Steven Symms, appeared Tuesday night during a Grangeville Chamber of Commerce "Meet the Candidates" forum and called upon his audience to join him in the fight to get the federal government "off the backs of the American people."

There is no rational justification for the federal government to have to be the conscience of the American businessman if free entry and open competition are maintained," he said.

Speaking to Boise supporters, senate candidate W. Anthony Parksaid Tuesday that unless tax reform is initiated, there will be a tax revolt.

The democratic candidate said "It is not fair when the average wage earner or small businessman has to pay one dollar out of five in taxes, while millionaires and huge corporations pay only one out of a hundred."

Second district congressional candidate Willis Ludlow said in southeast Idaho that representation of non-urban areas is "captivity to the same international military-industrial corporations that are controlling and running the world."

The Pocatello Democrat compared living in non-metropolitan America" with living in the "two-thirds of the world that is used, abused and forgotten by the rich nations such as the United States."

Robert Purcell, a first district congressional hopeful, said in Nampa Tuesday that too many problems that could be solved on the state level are referred to the federal government.

The Lewiston Republican said if the only alternative to a problem is to use the federal government, then, if elected, he will "bird dog the agency until satisfactory results are achieved." Rose Bowman, a candidate for U. S. senator, told Lewiston residents that many Idahoans she has talked to "are convinced the Nixon Administration and its supporters cannot and will not end the war in Southeast Asia."

"Voters believe that Nixon is so burdened with a warfare outlook and a commitment to businesses that are profiting by giant defense contracts that he will not take the necessary steps to end the war," the Boise Democrat said.

Republican Senate hopeful Robert E. Smylie said price controls on farm products should never have become necessary and will not solve America's inflation problems.

In Franklin, Smylie said all world price controls will not halt inflation until all world deficits are brought under control.

Byron Johnson, a Democratic U. S. senate aspirant, said in Twin Falls Tuesday a national sales tax will be imposed on Americans in 1973 if President Nixon is re-elected with a Republican majority in congress.

He labeled what he called a planned "value-added tax" as "nothing more than a regressive hidden sales tax," and said it would put the burden on the lower and middle classes.

No women on committee

BOISE (UPI) — The governor's newly appointed committee to study insurance plans for state employes has representation from private business and state government — but no women.

The first to spot it was State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon.

Responding to a letter from Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, Miss Moon said since 41 per cent of state employes are women it "would not only be logical but practical to include women on the insurance committee which you have appointed."

Andrus earlier sent a letter to all departments and agencies that the new committee was appointed to provide employes of Idaho with the best insurance program for the best price.

Miss Moon said, "Many women employes have different problems than men employes when it comes to insurance matters, and I feel that they should be represented when coverage and contracts for insurance affecting them are discussed."

In a letter to the governor, she said, "To be in line with the women's proportion among the total state employes, in my opinion your committee consisting of eight men should have added at least seven and possibly eight women."

The state treasurer, who is chairman of the Idaho Commission on Women's Programs, told Andrus the commission is vitally interested in seeing that more women have the opportunity to participate in the policy making activities of government on all levels."

S. Viets fly flag in Quang Tri City

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese paratroopers took control of half of Quang Tri City today and raised their country's flag on the highest point of its wall while the battle for the fortress continued, field reports said.

North Vietnamese gunners intensified their efforts to block convoys on Highway 1, the main supply route for the paratroopers inside the citadel, UPI correspondent Arthur Higbee said.

Higbee said Communist artillery fire was directed at government positions on the highway near the My Chanh River today, but that the shells dropped short of their targets.

A U.S. adviser told Higbee that the flag-raising gave the paratroopers "not only a psychological advantage but a tactical advantage. It's the highest point for miles around and from there you can look down the throats of the North Vietnamese."

In Saigon, a government spokesman said more than a battalion of Communist troops were "still holding an area in the western part" of the citadel. However, Higbee said the paratroopers seized the southeastern half of the fortress while the North Vietnamese still held the northwest half.

"Since the enemy is still in the citadel, it is not yet under the control of the government troops," the spokesman said. The Saigon command has said it will not consider the embattled city under government control until the Citadel is entirely recaptured.

The Saigon spokesman said U.S. fighter-bombers were striking today at Communist defenders inside the fortification. A U.S. command spokesman said the U.S. Navy apparently thwarted a North Vietnamese attempt to float in supplies to the Communists, defending the provincial capital they have held for 87 days.

Communist barges apparently circumvented the American naval blockade in the Tonkin Gulf and entered the broad Cua Viet River connecting the Thach Ban River flowing past Quang Tri City. However, the barges were spotted Monday night and three U.S. destroyers and the cruiser USS Newport News opened fire on them in the river six miles northwest of the city. Seven barges were sunk, a Navy spokesman said in a delayed report today.

A high command spokesman in Saigon said light, sporadic fighting continued in other parts of Quang Tri City, which has been reduced to rubble by air strikes, artillery and mortar fire. Few of the 22,000 residents of South Vietnam's northernmost provincial capital are believed to be still in the city.

Pay tribute

BLACKSVILLE, W. Va. (UPI)—Coal mines in northern West Virginia stood idle today in tribute to nine men killed in a fire at the Consolidation Coal Co. Blacksville No. 1 mine.

Thousands of miners mourned the deaths of their fellow workers in a 24 hour memorial that has become a traditional sequel to such tragedies.

With the bodies of the nine miners buried more than a mile beneath the surface, the mine was sealed with reinforced concrete caps Tuesday to prevent any more oxygen from entering the mine and feeding the flames.

The men were trapped by a sudden electrical fire Saturday night. All hope for their survival vanished Monday when a methane gas explosion sent rescue teams scurrying for safety. Officials then had "no alternative" but to order the mine sealed.

Order exempts some

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Cost of Living Council, responding to a federal court order, has exempted 10 million low income workers from wage controls.

Council Director Donald Rumsfeld said Tuesday that the floor of $1.90 per hour would be lifted to $2.75.

That means any workers earning less than $2.75 per hour will be exempt from wage controls.

Rumsfeld's announcement still fell short of the court's suggestions.

Judge William B. Jones ruled in the U.S. District Court last Friday that the $1.90 was too low for controls and suggested that $3.35 per hour, or $7,000 per year, would be more suitable. Jones did not set $3.35 as the level, however.

Rumsfeld said the Council's action would result in about 56 of every 100 workers in the private nonfarm economy being freed of economic controls.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Wednesday, July 26, the 208th day of 1972 with 158 to follow.

The moon is full.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Leo.

Irish playwright George Bernard Shaw was born July 26, 1856.

On this day in history:

In 1847, Liberia, the only sovereign Negro democracy in Africa, was declared a republic.

In 1941, Gen. Douglas MacArthur was named World War II commander of U.S. forces in the Philippines.

In 1967, four days of racial rioting in Detroit ended with 39 dead.

In 1971, Apollo 15 blasted off for the moon with astronauts David Scott, James Irwin and Alfred Worden aboard.

A thought for the day: Irish playwright George Bernard Shaw said, "The test of a man or woman's feelings is how they behave in a quarrel."

The first kites appeared in the Orient about 2,500 years ago, says National Geographic.

Still hospitalized

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson must remain hospitalized indefinitely for tests to find out what caused chest pains and nausea.

But Johnson's doctors at Brooke Army Hospital said Tuesday "there is at this time no evidence of a major heart attack of the sort he experienced in April, 1972."

A hospital spokesman said this morning there that Johnson was resting comfortably and remained in satisfactory condition. "President Johnson spent a comfortable night without recurrence of severe chest pains or nausea. His electrocardiogram remains stable and his heart rhythm regular," a hospital statement said Tuesday.

Johnson's wife Lady Bird was by his side in the 36th President's seventh-floor suite.

About 70 miles away in Austin, the Johnsons' younger daughter, Luci Baines Johnson Nugent, was hospitalized with what doctors said was a severe cold. She was in good condition.

Brooke information officer Ken Wilson said doctors had not determined whether Johnson suffered a mild heart attack Monday night when he was flown to the hospital at Ft. Sam Houston from his LBJ Ranch.

Change needed, Mrs. Meir says

By United Press International

Prime Minister Golda Meir, in what reportedly was Israel's first direct appeal to President Anwar Sadat of Egypt for a Middle East peace, said today the two sides should "meet as equals" in finding a solution to the conflict.

Mrs. Meir, in Israel's first reaction to Cairo's expulsion of Soviet advisers from Egyptian soil, told the Knesset (Parliament) in Jerusalem the Egyptian action had created an "hour for change" that should not be ignored.

A senior adviser to Mrs. Meir said it was Israel's first direct appeal to Sadat for peace.

"It was not a mistake," the adviser said. "The purpose was to show the situation is not deadlocked and the time has come for movement."

Opinions divided

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said in a brief interview after the speech that Mrs. Meir made "a serious peace initiative made possible by positive developments in the area."

"Let us sit down together to discuss peace settlements," Mrs. Meir said. "Let us search for a way to break the deadlock, to seek a way out of the ossified situation, lest war be renewed between us, and let us advance towards complete peace."

The prime minister also said Israel does not intend to perpetuate the cease-fire lines between us (Israel and Egypt) or to freeze the existing situation.

Two city blocks long with a flight deck of 4.5 acres, the CVN-70 would be the fourth atom-powered carrier in the American fleet. It would carry a crew of 5,300 and serve as the base for 100 aircraft.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, contended today that "aircraft carriers are the backbone" of a modern Navy which will allow the United States to engage in world commerce, enter into treaties, or aid allies.

Candidates file funds

BOISE (UPI). — Four more Idaho candidates for federal office filed lists of their expenses and receipts with the secretary of state Tuesday and expenditures appeared to be rapidly eating up contributions as the August primary neared.

Democratic senatorial candidate William E. (Bud) Davissaid in a statement that his total receipts for the June 1 through July 17 period totaled $6,684 with receipts since the beginning of his campaign of $13,584.

All federal candidates must file statements 15 days prior to the state primary and again five days before the Aug. 8 runoff.

Davis listed his expenses for the period of $16,564 with total campaign expenses of $21,299. His balance sheet showed he was in the red $7,418.

Of his $3,009 contributions during the period one for $750 came from the H-Hook Ranch, Boise, and another for $500 came from the Committee on Environmental Quality and Economic Development.

Democratic senatorial candidate W. Anthony Park listed receipts for the period at $19,376 with an 11,000 loan coming from Isaac McDougall, a Pocatello attorney. Park listed total receipts for his Idaho campaign of $23,612 and expenses during the June 1 to July 17 period of $19,824. He listed his total expenses at $23,337.

Park's statement showed ticket sales at a campaign dinner at the Rodeway Inn brought $4,414 in receipts.

Of the contributions received during the period the largest one came from Dr. Lee Pulley, a Meridian physician, for $500.

Republican candidate for Congress, Bob Purcell, listed $7,418 in receipts for the period and $9,493 for the campaign.

His total expenses were listed at $11,450 with expenses during the period at $7,821. He listed personal expenses for the campaign at $1,830.

His largest single contribution for the period came from Harry Lenton, Boise, of $500.

Steve Symms, a Republican candidate for the U. S. House of Representatives, reported receipts of $7,892 for the period and $15,070 for the campaign.

His expenses were listed at $9,642 for the period with total expenses of $11,156.

His largest single contributor for the period was Laurence Betts, Boise, who gave $500.

Sunshine Mine testimony ends

KELLOGG, Idaho (UPI). — The Department of Interior hearings on the May 2 Sunshine Mine fire ended Tuesday, with six days of testimony providing answers to only two of the three crucial questions surrounding the blaze.

Testimony of 61 witnesses representing the Bureau of Mines, the State of Idaho, the Sunshine Mining Co. and the United Steelworkers failed to shed any light on the cause of the worst disaster in Idaho history and killer of 91 men.

James M. Day, hearing examiner from the Department of Interior Office of Hearings and appeals said in closing the hearing he would release the summarizing interim report on the sessions in about one month.

He said the report would come after the Bureau of Mines had concluded its investigation of the mine.

It is unsure just how long it will take for the investigation to be completed, mainly because of a statement made by a Salt Lake City mining engineer, Robert Riley, in the opening day of the hearing.

"Indications are there still may be a fire in the mine," Riley said. "At present we estimate the fire started within a 200-foot radius of the 3,400 foot ventilation drift and the number nine vein."

Riley said the investigation team has been unable to enter several areas of the mile deep mine because of heat, smoke and contaminated air.

The hearing did determine, though, that Sunshine was not in violation of any of the Bureau of Mines or state mandatory standards as far as safety and health are concerned.

Bureau of Mines officials testified, as did the State of Idaho that the firm met all the necessary requirements during the last inspection a few months before the disaster in the nation's largest and richest silver mine broke out.

McClure charges

WASHINGTON (UPI). — In a written statement to the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare Tuesday, Rep. James McClure, R-Idaho, said the Occupational Health and Safety Act (OSHA) has made government the enemy of small businessmen.

"Never before have I seen the confidence of businessmen in their government so shaken," McClure's statement charged.

The government is the enemy and the safety inspector is its agent. The struggle is so unequal that it really constitutes a denial of due process."

He told the committee that no employer should be subjected to the inflexibility of present regulations and urged that the administration of the regulations no longer be "arbitrary and excessive."

McClure urged adoption of his own bill which provides that any time a citizen has to go to court to defend himself against the U. S. government and wins, the government must pay costs and reasonable attorney fees.

The first district congressman appended his statement with letters from more than 25 Idahoans who have written to complain about OSHA inspection penalties and procedures.

Employee coverage

BOISE (UPI). — Acting budget Director D. E. (Skip) Chilberg said Tuesday in a letter to agency heads that the state's insurance advisory committee has negotiated an increase with the Continental Life and Accident Co. to maintain coverage for state employees.

Chilberg said in 1971 the company incurred a loss of over $400,000 and has projected a loss of approximately $419,000 for 1972 for state employee insurance coverage.

Chilberg said at one time the company informed the state that they were going to cancel coverage unless a rate increase was granted.

He said under the present statutory requirements, the increase can not be paid from any single fund and must be allocated to the individual departments and agencies.

Skyjacker recaptured

DENVER (UPI). — The Federal Bureau of Investigation says convicted skyjacker Richard Floyd McCoy Jr. briefly escaped from jailers last week while being transported to the Leavenworth, Kan. federal prison. He was easily recaptured.

McCoy, 29, of Provo, Utah — who leaped from a hijacked United Airlines 727 jetliner over Provo with $500,000 in cash April 7 — fled three blocks from the Adams County jail in Brighton, Colo., the FBI said Tuesday.

Canal sprayed by pilot error

JEROME — The Idaho Fish and Game Department said today an insecticide accident reduced the number of fresh water shrimp in the Richfield Canal.

Stu Murrell, regional conservation educator for the department, said the chemical malathion had been sprayed on the canal as a result of pilot error.

The accident took place Saturday during anti-grasshopper spray operations and affected only the lower three miles of the canal.

Murrell said Shannon Wilson, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture plant protection and quarantine division, said the pilot had been instructed to "cut off the spray while crossing the canal." Wilson was quoted as saying the pilot "also misjudged the wind drift on one pass."

Murrell said Robert Bell, fish and game department regional fisheries management biologist checked the canal Monday and "found live shrimp throughout the canal but reduced numbers in the area that had been accidentally sprayed."

Bell reportedly found no dead fish in the sprayed area.

Murrell said the spraying will result in a reduced food supply in the lower three miles of the canal until the shrimp can replace the numbers lost.

Murrell quoted Roger Pollard, of the plant protection and quarantine division of the fish and game department, saying the grasshopper spray operations had been completed in the area and there "should be no danger of future kills." He said malathion "breaks down very rapidly so there probably will be little lasting effect."

The fish and game department had requested the USDA to spray no closer than one-eighth mile from the canal and other waterways.

Spud meet in TF hears techniques

TWIN FALLS — Potato experts from throughout the world, participating in the Potato Association of America meetings here today, heard reports on new techniques for control of potato quality, yield and disease.

About 600 persons from the United States and numerous other potato producing countries are attending the 56th annual meeting of the association at the College of Southern Idaho. This afternoon the group will travel in buses to the Bell Rapids Project to see Idaho's potato production on new lands. They will also inspect other potato producing and storage facilities in the county.

More than 60 papers, reporting on new studies, experiments and techniques, will be presented during the five-day meeting. All facets of the industry from growing to processing will be discussed during the week.

Control of specific gravity of the potato through application of fertilizer, especially nitrogen, was discussed by Robert E. McDole, University of Idaho Branch Experiment Station, Aberdeen.

Specific gravity, the indicator of potato quality as to dryness and texture, was tested on tubers from nitrogen fertilizer plots on loam and loamy and textured soils to observe the influence of nitrogen fertilization on this quality factor, McDole said. Rates of nitrogen applied ranged from none to 700 pounds per acre. Nitrogen was applied as ammonium sulfate banded at planting and Urea-32 with sprinkler irrigation water at various times during the season.

Specific gravity was reduced, he said, approximately .001 units for each 200 pounds of nitrogen applied. The greatest reduction in specific gravity resulted from heavy applications banded at planting time and applications with irrigation water during the season. A single heavy sprinkler application of 300 lbs. nitrogen per acre, applied just after tuber set had little effect on the specific gravity, he said.

Other reports Tuesday included reports on helicopter application for control of early blight of potato. H. S. Potter and W. J. Hooker, Michigan State University, reported the experiments revealed a higher degree of control by helicopter through a more even application and no yield loss from wheel damage as was experienced by ground application.

Doyle A. Smittle and R. E. Thornton, Washington State University, Pullman, discussed the importance of temperature factors on potato damage at harvest time. They said damage increases average from 7 to 11 per cent more with each 10 degrees increase in temperature but this can be modified considerably with control of hydration factors. Information from commercial harvester studies on the speed of equipment during harvest was also presented with recommendations for speed of equipment, based on the yield rate.

Chemical applications for vine killing were discussed by Joseph J. Pavak, Aberdeen experiment station.

Oscar Arstein, state commissioner of agriculture, addressed the potato industry delegates Tuesday, stating Idaho's $20-million potato industry has been in jeopardy in recent years due to plant diseases and pests.

Jerome hearing has no protest

JEROME — Jerome City Council met in a special hearing Tuesday night to hear protests on the city irrigation rolls.

Hearing no protest the council directed the city clerk to certify the irrigation rolls at $13,769.90 and submit them to the Jerome County commissioners.

In other business the council approved a fourth subdivision for F.R. Mann, subject to Mann's signing the final plat and turning the water rights over to the city.

The council opened three bids for a 200-horsepower pump to be installed at the city water tower to replace the present pump which is now working beyond its capacity.

The council delayed action on the bids until members could meet with the city attorney and check legal specifications. Bids were submitted by Layne Pump Co., $11,271; Layne Bowler Pump Co., $11,720.82; and Floyd Lilly Co., $15,102.

It was brought out at the meeting that several applications have been received for the position of city engineer and works director. Councilmen read through the applications to narrow down the number of applicants which will be called in for personal interviews.

No definite action was taken because one councilman was not at the meeting and it was recommended by the mayor that action be delayed until a full council was present.

Minidoka tour set

RUPERT — The Minidoka County 1972 Grassman Tour is scheduled Thursday, visiting three farms of this year's candidates, according to George Haynes, committee chairman.

The tour will leave from the parking lot of the Rupert Bowl at 9 a.m., traveling to the farm of Blaine Hodges, followed by a visit to the Delmas Beaver farm. A no-host luncheon is scheduled for noon at the Rupert Elks Lodge, followed by a tour of the DeVon Hunsaker farm in the afternoon.

The three candidates for Minidoka County "Grassman of the Year" and all other interested persons are invited to participate in the tour.

No effect

BOISE — The national wage and price freeze has no effect on Idaho's recent minimum wage increase, according to Bartlett R. Brown, Idaho commissioner of labor.

The state minimum wage was raised to $1.60 per hour as of July 1, 1972.

Brown said that all employees working in Idaho are covered under the minimum wage law with the exception of domestic and agricultural workers, bona fide executive, professional, or administrative employees, persons younger than 16 years old working at odd jobs of less than four hours duration and outside salesmen.

The new law also states that tips or gratuities may not be taken or applied to the employee's wages to raise them to the minimum wage.

An employer may deduct up to $1 per day if he furnishes one or more meals to his employee, provided the employee eats the meal. If the menu cost for the meal is less than $1, only the menu cost may be deducted.

Director named by four-county group

RUPERT — A planning director with unique experience in Vietnam, Eric Barnes, 28, Sebastopol, Calif., has been named director of the four-county South Idaho Resource Planning and Development Association.

He was named by directors of the association Tuesday night. Barnes, a graduate of San Francisco State College and the University of California, holds a master's degree in regional and city planning. He served in Vietnam as an urban development adviser at Da Nang, and has worked with the Institute for Local Self-Government and the University Extension Service at Berkeley, Calif.

His salary was set at $12,000 per year, according to Wayne Hollenbeck, chairman of the planning association.

The south Idaho association includes the counties of Minidoka, Cassia, Jerome and Twin Falls. Barnes will be located in Twin Falls at 634 Addison Ave. W.

TF Demo's plan full slate of candidates

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Democratic chairman Vince Smazal said Tuesday his party would fill a slate of candidates for the fall legislative elections.

But so far, men being touted as candidates are not running. Smazal told a meeting of over 100 Twin Falls County Democrats Tuesday night there were several mentioned candidates.

They include Cecil Brim, the former owner of the Twin Falls Livestock Commission; Dr. Ernest Ragland, former superintendent of the Twin Falls school district, and A. K. Reed, a farmer from Filer.

But Brim, reportedly considering a race for the seat being vacated by the retiring Jack D. Claiborn, declined any comment on his possible bid. Ragland, who was not at Tuesday night's meeting, was unavailable for comment today.

Thus far only one Democrat, Raymond E. Strickland Sr., Buhl, has filed his candidacy. Strickland will oppose John M. Barker, a Buhl state senator.

There is a total of five other state races in the county this year.

At least two other men, employees of the College of Southern Idaho, were reported interested in candidacies earlier in the year, but a recent policy established by the college board of trustees has soured their interest.

The trustees ruled no college employee could hold a state elective position that would require his absence from Twin Falls for lengthy periods of time. Mike Gray, a Twin Falls City councilman, was also mentioned as a possible candidate, but Gray publicly disavowed any interest at the meeting, citing family reasons.

Locally, Smazal told the group, the party is faring better. Golden Bennett, a Twin Falls lawyer, is challenging Robert Galley for the prosecuting attorney's office, while Robert Geer is running against William Chancey for county commissioner.

Range fire at Richfield

SHOSHONE — A five and one-fourth acre range fire nine miles northeast of Richfield was controlled at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Michael Green, public information officer for the Bureau of Land Management, Shoshone office, said the fire was man caused and was reported at 3:50 p.m. Tuesday.

Hancock promised a major statewide party effort in this fall's elections, including a major registration drive, computerized voter identification and help for the candidates in the races.

McCart said there were only 11 vacancies statewide for Democratic slots, and five of them fall in the win Falls County's two legislative districts.

Andrus said after the meeting his promise of "legislative schoolhouses" would include sending a group of experienced men to advise the local candidates on techniques for their campaign. He said the men would possibly include former state legislators not running for re-election, but would not include state employees.

Byron Johnson, running for the party's senatorial nomination, also appeared before the group. He asked them to make "1972 the year the Democratic party came to full maturity in the state of Idaho."

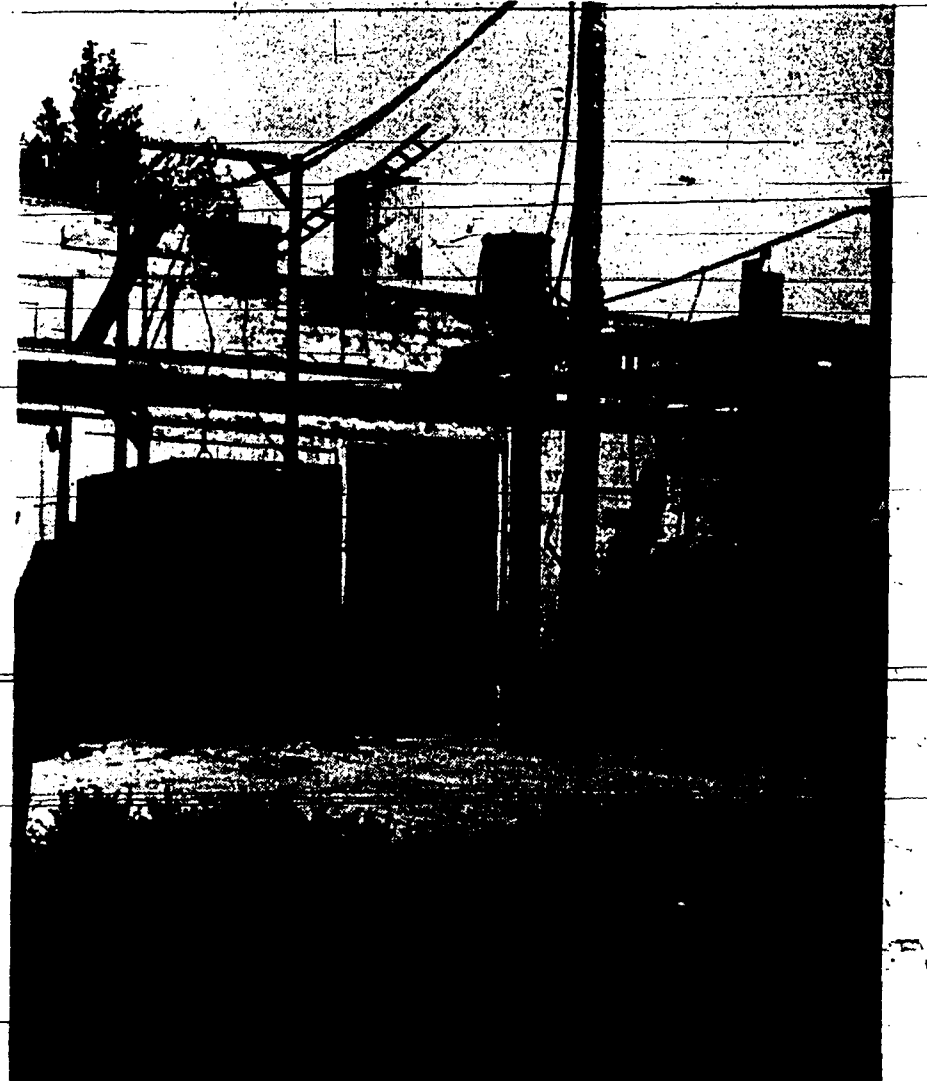

He asked for support in his campaign, vowing to work against any federal gun control legislation and for tax reform.

Johnson took the opportunity to denounce what he said was President Nixon's tax reform policy, "a national sales tax."

"This is something Richard Nixon and his economic and tax advisers have been building up step by step," Johnson said.

Also at the meeting were Golden Bennett, and Robert Geer, candidates for prosecuting attorney and county commissioner.

Responding to charges that he was "soft on drugs" Bennett said, "I'll be soft on drugs if that means I don't want to take every drug user and put him in jail." Bennett vowed a strong effort to prosecute drug pushers, but said he favored a policy of rehabilitation for the user.

Plant tests

BOILERS AND COOKERS at the Cascade Commodities Corp. near Buhl went into operation Tuesday to test the firm's deodorizing equipment. Plant officials said this far operation has been odor free. They plan to operate the equipment for a test of not more than two weeks.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Standard & Poor's Outlook warns investors to remain cautious about making new commitments while political uncertainties exist and the government continues "inflationary federal spending trends." The market will need some "dramatic new development" to bolster investor confidence significantly, Standard & Poor's maintains.

The Dines Letter says the stock market is experiencing a tug-of-war because the "McGovern bear market seems to want to start" and the Nixon administration "won't permit it." The analyst notes an administration economist has represented "a disaster" for the United States. Dines concludes: "With comments like that around, one can see why the market has been so nervous on the downside."

Achievement day slated Thursday

FILER — Twin Falls County 4-H Club members will meet here Thursday for the annual Achievement Day.

More than 600 youths will bring projects to the Twin Parks Pavilion at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds for evaluation during the day-long program.

This will be the first time combined councils from the east and west sections of the county have joined in the event.

"Achievement Day," according to Mrs. Patricia Maughan, Twin Falls County extension home economist, "is planned as a learning experience for every member. The young person has an opportunity to ask questions and determine if the project he or she is working on is correct. If correction is needed, there is still time to improve the exhibit before display at the fair. Hopefully, all 4-H'ers will take advantage of this help."

General assembly of all participants will be at 8:30 a.m. followed by registration. Teen leaders helping with the registration and distributing of programs and name tags are: Jeanene Webb, Phyllis Ramseyer and Janet Burkhart.

Evaluating the clothing projects will be Mrs. Marvin Custer, Mrs. Lee Eldredge, Mrs. Dean Kohnstopp, Mrs. Calvin Hoffman, Mrs. Walter Mueller, Carolyn Barnes, Mrs. Alan Kinyon and Teen leaders Susan Southwick, Cheryl Armstrong and Luanne Platt.

The food evaluations will be made by Mrs. Edward Tartar, Mrs. Ted Quigley, Mrs. Joe Wusko, Mrs. Robert Norris, Mrs. John Burkhart and teen leaders Jeanie Burhart and Patti Quigley.

All divisions of art will be evaluated by Mrs. Novella Lazaros.

Knitting projects will be seen by Mrs. Ivan Skinner, assisted by teen leader Carolyn Jessor.

Others helping with miscellaneous projects are: Family living, Mrs. Dale Platt; child development, Mrs. Lawrence Sill; health, Katy Wagelin; teen leader projects, Mrs. Frank Southwick, self-determined project, Richard Fuehner.

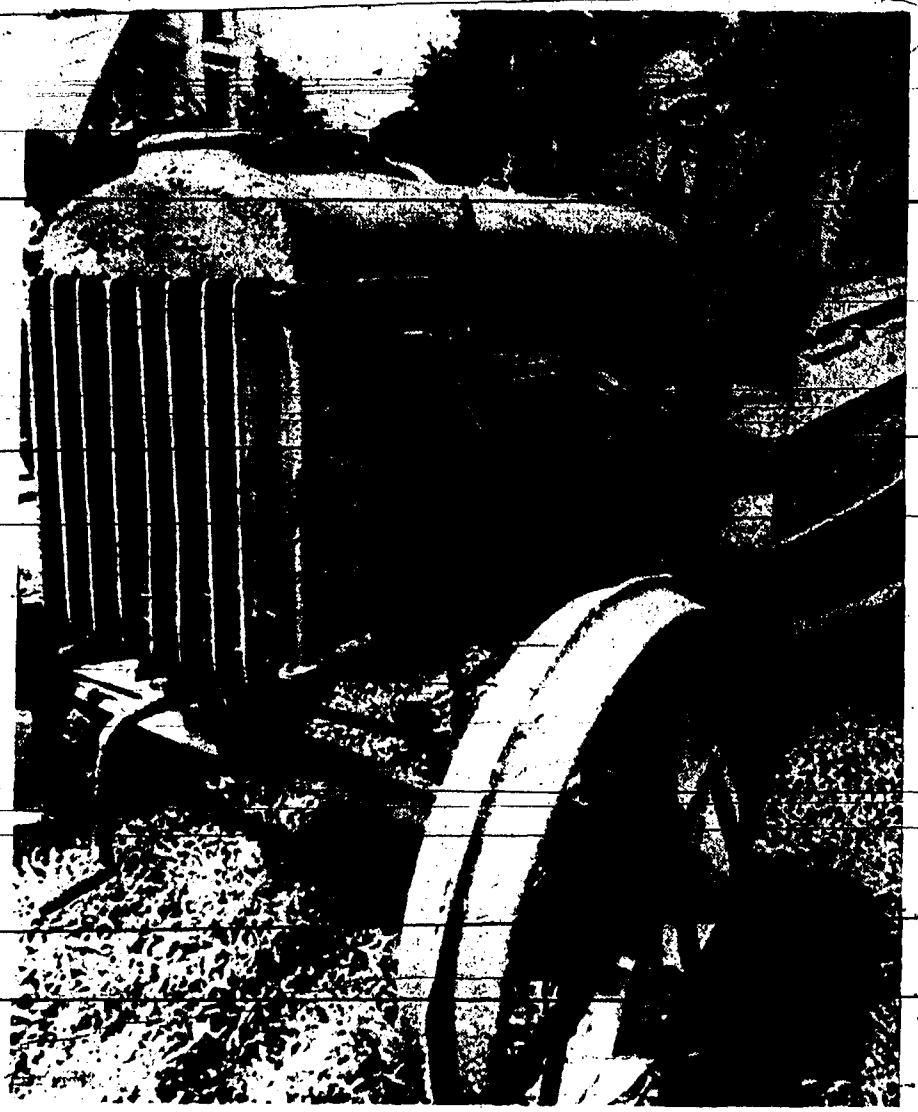

Activities are planned from as early as 7 a.m. when home economic demonstrations will be reviewed until early afternoon.

Other activities besides the individual evaluation of each project will be practice judging under the supervision of Mrs. Fred Britt and teen leader Christine Britt, to prepare contestants for the final judging contest at the Twin Falls County Fair; practice modeling and grooming tips presented by Miss Carolyn Barnes, area 4-H specialist, who will work with the junior division girls, and Mrs. Larry Christensen who will assist with the senior division girls.

A potluck lunch is planned for all participants at noon with watermelon furnished by the 4-H County Council.

Demonstrations will continue in the afternoon, evaluated by Mrs. Clinton Dougherty and Mrs. John Burkhart, assisted by teen leader, Vicki Sobotka.

Charles A. Lindbergh, the famous aviator who made the first non-stop flight from New York to Paris in his "Spirit of St. Louis," was born in Detroit in 1902, the son of a schoolteacher.

Farm Aide's claims draw rebuttal

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — The president of the Idaho Environmental Council has criticized statements by the director of the Idaho Resources Board concerning nitrogen supersaturation as "irresponsible" and "inaccurate."

Jerry Jayne, president, said Dr. Robert R. Lee has "acted irresponsibly in his recent inaccurate statements concerning nitrogen supersaturation and other environmental aspects of dams."

He said Lee's statement that there would be "virtually no benefits" from setting a 110 percent nitrogen limit "contradicts" with the board's previous expression of support for nitrogen control before the U.S. House of Representatives.

Jayne said Lee's labeling of the critics of dam projects as "self-styled experts" is inaccurate and reactionary. He said that the Swan Falls-Guffey area is far from being barren and desolate as described by Lee.

He questioned Lee's suggestion that Idaho should develop more irrigated acreage than the projected need "since recent studies show that artificially accelerated agriculture and industrial growth will be economically disastrous both to the farmers and society at large in the long run."

Commenting on Lee's statement that the Middle Snake could be preserved by the state instead of the federal government, Jayne said, "We view Lee's suggestion as merely a delaying tactic. The Middle Snake needs and will eventually receive national protection under the proposed Snake National River Bill."

He said, "The most difficult thing for the board to understand is that dams usually create more environmental and economic losses than economic benefits."

Hormone ban ruling slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) plans a quick ruling on requests by drug producers for public hearings on the agency's proposal to ban use of a cancer-causing synthetic hormone in cattle and sheep feeds, a spokesman said today.

Nine firms asked for hearings on the proposal, which FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards had announced was issued because it represented the only legal way to set up formal hearings in which all facts on the controversial hormone diethylstilbestrol (DES) could be gathered.

Edwards said earlier the hearings, assuming they are held, could supply a factual basis for a decision on whether to ban the hormone outright or adopt some further controls on its use.

Colts feel Smith will report

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Baltimore Colts coach Don McCafferty said Tuesday he expected holdout defensive end Bubba Smith to report to the Colts training camp Wednesday.

Smith has a signed contract with the Colts but failed to report with other veterans Saturday because he wants to renegotiate the agreement. General Manager Joe Thomas has refused and slapped a $300-a-day fine on the 6-7 defensive star.

McCafferty said he had talked to Smith by phone at his home in Baltimore Tuesday and added: "I think he'll be here tonight or tomorrow (Wednesday). We are counting on him being here."

While confident that Smith would show up, McCafferty quietly made a switch in the offensive line to make up for the absence of guard John Williams, who played out his option last year and has been negotiating with Thomas through an agent.

McCafferty moved 11-year veteran Dan Sullivan from right tackle to right guard. The 6-3 250-pounder formerly played guard for the Colts but has been at tackle since the third game of the 1970 season.

Steelers sign No. 1 draft pick

LATROBE, Pa. (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Steelers announced Tuesday they had signed their No. 1 draft choice, running back Franco Harris, to a multi-year contract. Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

A Steelers' spokesman said the agreement was reached in Evanston, Ill., where Harris is working out with the College All-Stars for Friday night's game with the Dallas Cowboys.

The former Penn State star said he planned to report to the Steeler camp Saturday and begin working out Monday.

Dan Rooney, vice president of the Steelers, had been meeting off and on with Harris and his agent, Tony Radziano, since last February.

"We are glad the situation has finally been settled and we feel Franco will be an asset to our organization," Rooney said. "He is a fine football player and an outstanding young man."

The 6-2, 230-pound Harris teamed with Lydell Mitchell to give Penn State a powerful running attack last season.

Regional 'port meet set tonight

BURLEY — The Interim Regional Airport Authority huddles tonight with engineering specialists and a citizens' review panel to discuss the status of the proposed regional airport.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Ponderosa Inn in Burley.

Representative of Barton, Stoddard, Milhollin and Higgins, a Boise, San Francisco-based engineering firm, will present findings from their area-wide survey to the trustees as well as the review board.

The firm has investigated the proposed regional port sight as well as other proposed areas, and will suggest alternative uses for Joslin Field, site of the present Twin Falls City-County Airport. The meeting comes less than two weeks before elections for representatives to the permanent authority. Five men have filed for the three available seats on the committee.

One of the men to file, George Forschler, currently chairman of the interim board, did so despite his repeated earlier statements that he would retire from the board when elections were held.

Forschler, who recently returned from a trip to Washington, D.C., said Tuesday there is increased possibility of more generous federal financial assistance in the proposed project.

One House bill reported favorable out of subcommittee would raise federal participation in regional airport costs from 50 per cent to 75 per cent.

A Senate bill would have federal money pay for the entire cost of land acquisition for regional airports, as well as up to 82 per cent for safety and security costs, according to William MacKnight, a board member.

Forschler Tuesday also repeated earlier hopes that Twin Falls residents would vote to join the airport authority. Twin Falls was one of three counties, along with Blaine and Camas, to reject the airport referendum last year.

Demonstrates
'hoky-poky'

JANET PACKHAM, Rupert, director of the summer recreation program at Washington School, demonstrates the "hoky-poky" dance along with a number of eager youngsters. As many as 50 youngsters have participated in the summertime fun, including supervised play, arts and crafts, dancing and the "Great Hula-Hoop and Frisbee Contest."

Rupert offers variety of activities for all

RUPERT — Summertime is funtime for the youngsters — and that means work for those not quite so young.

The Rupert Parks and Recreation Department sponsors a number of activities for youngsters of all ages during the summer, from swimming for all to arts and crafts, along with a dancing class, for the younger set.

Janet Packham of Rupert, is director of the arts and crafts and the dancing at Washington elementary school, said she has had about 40 or more youngsters participating in the various activities. She works with several assistants, including Jill Bateman, the dancing instructor, and Colleen Dailey, a recreation major at Idaho State University during schooltime.

On Friday, a new excitement spiced the day's activities — the local version of the national Hula-Hoop and Frisbee competition. Sponsored, logically, by the Sham-O Corporation, makers of Hula-Hoops and Frisbees, the competition includes local, state and even a national go-round. Miss Packham said

A pesky, unpredictable breeze forced a delay in the Frisbee contest, now tentatively scheduled for Monday afternoon at Washington School. But the Hula-Hoop skill was completed on schedule among about a dozen youngsters.

Contestants cavorted in a number of standardized Hula-Hoop swing-grounds, including the "knee-knocker," the "stork," requiring a balancing act on one leg; "wrap the mummy," involving maneuvering a hoop from knee to knee and back again, and freestyle, giving the youngsters a chance to invent their own skills.

Dave Shanahan and Creed Herbold won first place in the boys' senior and junior divisions, respectively, while among the young ladies, Nancy Chun and SuAnn Vaughn topped their senior and junior divisions.

Cassia reports awards

BURLEY — Mrs. Joan Parr Cassia County home economist, Cooperative Extension Service, has announced scholarships totaling $4,200 are offered to six coeds majoring in home economics.

The scholarships are available to present to former 4-H members who are entering their junior year in college with a major in home economics or clothing-textile-merchandising.

The S & H Foundation, Inc., New York, and the West Bend Company, West Bend, Wis., each provide two $800 scholarships. The Boye Needle Company, Chicago, Ill., is making available funds for two scholarships of $500 each.

This is the first year that the latter company has sponsored 4-H scholarship awards. Labeled 4-H knitting-crocheting scholarships, the awards are named for Florence Flannery Wollerton and Mary Elizabeth Hendry.

Special applications for the scholarships and deadline dates for submitting credentials are available from the state 4-H office or the county extension agent.

A committee of Cooperative Extension Service personnel will review the applications and select scholarship winners on the basis of interest and desire to major in a field of home economics; financial need; scholastic record in college and all-around 4-H record.

Announcement of winners will be made during the 1972 National 4-H Congress Nov. 26-30 in Chicago, Ill.

The six grants are among 245 scholarships valued at nearly $172,000 offered through the National 4-H Service Committee during this year.

Brook now river

WHAT WAS ONCE a narrow, shallow babbling brook has become a 200-foot wide raging river just south of Brainerd, Minn., near Camp Ripley. The recent 12-inch rainfall caused the Nokasippi to look like the Mississippi, top of picture. On right a new home is about to topple into the new river. The foreground shows the remains of Highway 371 and the Burlington Northern tracks. (UPI)

Woolworth heir killed in crash

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI)—Lance Reventlow, heir to the Woolworth five-and-dime fortune and son of Barbara Hutton, one of the world's richest women, was killed with three other persons Monday in the crash of a small plane in the Colorado Rockies, law officers said Tuesday.

Reventlow, 36, a sports car racer who was given the title of "the world's richest baby" at birth, was killed in the crash during a heavy thunderstorm 17 miles north of this Colorado resort.

Reventlow had been surveying a tract of land he wanted to buy, officials said. Killed with him were the pilot and two other passengers, all unidentified.

The craft slammed into a wooded mountainside eight miles from the nearest road. Sheriff Carol Whitmire said the wreckage was spotted by another plane. A rescue crew reached the site Monday night and confirmed that all aboard were dead.

Reventlow married actress Jill St. John on March 24, 1960, in San Francisco. They were divorced in 1963.

On Nov. 8, 1964, he married starlet Heryle Holdridge, then 19. The only relative who attended the wedding was Cary Grant, a former husband of Miss Hutton's.

Reventlow was an avid sports car enthusiast and polo player. He built and drove Grand Prix racing cars and developed his own racing engine.

His personal fortune was estimated at between $50 million and $100 million.

On his 25th birthday, his mother gave him a $500,000 home in Beverly Hills, Calif.

He was the son of Miss Hutton's marriage to Danish Count Curt von Haugwitz-Reventlow.

"So you were born with brown eyes," he would tell friends. "I was born with money. It just makes life convenient."

Cheering meet

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho will host a cheerleaders convention next week.

About 30 members of the American Association of Cheerleaders from the Gem State will hold a five-day convention at the Twin Falls school, it was announced this week.

Registration for the convention is set for Sunday, with the cheerleaders set to remain on campus through the week.

Queen's veteran works for Mac

CUSTER, S.D. (UPI)—Matthew Troy is a veteran of the rough and tumble borough politics of New York.

The Democratic leader for Queens was an early endorser of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and ever since has been an anomaly among the political newcomers in McGovern's organization.

"When someone mentions the word 'regular' they all say 'stand up, Matt,'" he laughed.

The heavy jowled Irishman was here all last weekend with McGovern's mostly young, mostly lean and mostly precocious staff, tromping through the woods with them "like a kid from the Herald-Tribune's fresh air fund."

He has mixed feelings about them, regarding some with the detached attitude of an old time pro looking at students who have learned their job well, and regarding others as more ambitious than a job seeking ward heeler.

Saturday Troy filed into a wooden meeting hall at Sylvan Lake for the first strategy conference of McGovern's campaign. Suddenly, he says, a particularly ambitious young lion jumped in front of him and pushed his way into the closest available chair to the candidate.

"I let him have the chair," Troy said. "What the hell, I'll still be the Queens leader no matter what happens."

But Troy claims the incident illustrates a central problem in McGovern's effort to unite Democrats—grass rooters and regulars behind his campaign.

Idaho June employment rate up

TWIN FALLS — Department of Employment reports for June, 1972, show last month has the highest employment rate of any month thus far this year.

Seasonal work was credited by the department with providing 11,600 additional jobs over the May employment figures. Total employment for Idaho was up 3.8 per cent with a total of 313,400 workers employed in June.

In spite of this increase in employment, unemployment was also increasing during the month, the department said. The number of unemployed increased by 2,700 during June bringing the total to about 20,000 in the state. This brought the total unemployed to 6 per cent, with an increase of 6 per cent over May.

The department reported unemployment generally increases during May and June, with the influx of students seeking jobs at the close of college and high school classes.

Major seasonal increases in both agricultural and non-agricultural industries provided the 11,600 jobs, the department said, with non-agricultural industries showing a gain of 6,000 workers in June. Of these, 5,100 were in non-manufacturing fields. Manufacturing provided 700 additional jobs.

The agriculture increase of 5,400 jobs resulted from row crop farming as a whole, with 3,900 in the hired worker category.

In other phases of the work picture, the department said the loss of the majority of the fruit crop has resulted in a reduction of agriculture work such as the cherry harvest usually handled by a large extent by migrant farm workers. This situation will continue with a reduction or total loss of other fruit.

Coeds Need Nurseries

If you want to leave the university of your choice a sizable sum of money, madam, why not endow a nursery for it? Loyal men of great wealth bequeath professional chairs, libraries and football stadia. But what's needed by the married coeds is some place they can drop off their toddlers while they attend classes. Nothing would do more for the higher education of prolific girls than endowed nurseries, contends a dropout mother, wistfully.

THAT PROFESSIONAL fellow known as a "nose" he passes judgment on accents for the perfume makers -- does his work in a sound proof room. It has been established scientifically that noise interferes with the "sense of smell, that's why."

QUERIES

Q. "Mister, who's Peggy Lee?"

A. What you don't recall that female carnival barker who jumped up in 1942 with Benny Goodman to make a hit of that ditty called "Why Don't You Do Right"? It's past your bedtime, young fellow.

Q. "HOW do you clear up iced tea that's real cloudy?"

A. Splash in a couple of shots of boiling water.

WRITES AN OBSERVANT

Los Angeles: "Why I don't know, but these things a woman can do with far more grace than any man: 1. Dress lightly without getting cold. 2. Choose a gift. 3. Pick up hot plates. 4. Buy underwear for the opposite sex. 5. Ask for a doggy bag in a restaurant. 6. Remove a speck of dust from somebody else's eye."

GRASS

Timothy Hanson was that farmer's name. In about 1720, he got fed up with New York State's winters, went south to Carolina. Took some grass seed with him. Just another variety from Europe, nothing special. But on the new land, it really flourished! What fields of hay! In 1747, even old Ben Franklin took note, referring to that grass the way everybody else did by that time as "Timothy's." That's how the main dry grass crop of the country came to be named Timothy, sir.

Jazz band concert scheduled in TF

TWIN FALLS — The World's Greatest Jazz Band will appear in concert here Friday at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center.

The Twin Falls Jaycees are sponsoring the group's appearance in Twin Falls. Funds raised will go toward the Jaycee's continuing program of community development, club members said.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. and continue for about two hours.

Tickets will be available at the door only.

The band, composed of nine men, has played before audiences all over the world. Their appearances include one at the White House for President Richard M. Nixon in 1970.

The band members have more than 250 years of combined experience and the youngest of the members is 44.

All have played with some of the best known big bands in jazz history.

Co-leaders are Yank Lawson, jazz trumpet player, and Bob Haggart, bassist, arranger and composer. Lawson has been featured with Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey and other bands. Haggart had his own band and also played with the Bob Crosby Band.

Other members are Billy Butterfield, trumpet player who has performed with Artie Shaw, Benny Goodman and Tommy Dorsey; Bud Freeman, tenor sax player featured with Ray Noble and the Goodman and Dorsey groups; Bob Wilber, clarinetist and soprano sax player who has played with Goodman and Eddie Condon and Bobby Hackett; Vic Dickenson, trombonist who has played with Count Basie, Benny Carter and Eddy Heyward; Eddie Hubble, trombonist, who has worked with Ken Murray's Blackouts, the Jackie Gleason Show, the Dukes of Dixieland and others; Gus Johnson Jr., drummer who has toured with Count Basie, Ella Fitzgerald, Woody Herman and Gerry Mulligan; and Ralph Sutton, pianist who has had his own group as well as playing with Jack Teagarten's Orchestra and others.

If your car catches fire and you don't have a fire extinguisher, the National Automobile Club advises smothering the blaze with dirt from the roadside.

Jazz band to appear

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a 21-year-old daughter who will be a college freshman. She was raised in a moral and decent home. Lately she has begun to pepper her language with filthy four-letter words.

When I told her that I found her language offensive, she said everybody talks that way nowadays, and I should "get with it."

I am 50 years old and am not about to "get with" filthy language.

"My daughter says, 'They are only words, and it's a person's right to use the words he wants to use.'"

I would like your opinion.

OFFENDED MOM

DEAR MOM: The "right" to swing one's arms ends where the other fellow's nose begins. Tell your daughter to "get with" and launder her language in your presence. No one has the right to pollute the atmosphere with audible garbage.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is young, 25, and she is naturally big busted, and usually a little cleavage shows when she wears a dress with just a normal neckline.

My parents think this is in bad taste. They invited us for lunch at their country club, and told me to please tell my wife to wear something with no cleavage showing. They say nobody dresses that way at a country club.

Abby, if I were to tell my wife what they said, you would hear screaming from Los Angeles to New York, so I turned down the invitation.

I like the way she looks in these dresses. Most of the women in my family are flat-chested.

I don't know how they dress at country clubs, do you?

J. IN MIRADA, CAL.

DEAR J.: I doubt if a woman wearing a dress with "a little cleavage" showing would be out of place in any country club.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder how many houseguests there are who think they are being helpful to their hostesses, but are actually making more work for them?

When a guest has slept in one of my beds and is leaving, why on earth would he carefully make up the bed—spread and all? I have to tear it apart in order to change the linen anyway.

Also, some guests will use towels, and then fold them so neatly I can't tell which towels have been used and which haven't. If they would leave the used towels a bit rumpled it would be so much easier for me.

Also, some people's idea of "washing" dishes is to run hot water over them. I'd prefer to have dirty dishes left in the sink for me to wash MY way.

Please rush this into print, Abby; I am expecting some "helpful" houseguests soon. NAMELESS BUT SERIOUS

DEAR NAMELESS: Consider it rushed.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "OLD TIMER:" He who takes but never gives may last for years but never lives.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 87700, L. A., CALIF. 90080 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Undoubtedly there are unlucky bridge players around just as there must be lucky ones, but it is remarkable to see just how much bad luck these unlucky players bring on themselves.

East takes two club tricks and decides that if he is going to get any diamond tricks they will do him just as much good later on as right away so he returns a trump.

South cashes his ace and king of trumps, enters dummy by overtaking his six of trumps with dummy's seven.

Then he leads a diamond to his 10.

West promptly takes his ace and plays a diamond right back. This takes care of any problems in diamonds. Later on South takes a successful finesse against East's queen of spades and makes his contract.

If West is one of those unlucky players he will point out that South needed two finesses and a trump break to make his contract.

Someone may point out that if West had just let the 10 of diamonds hold the first diamond trick South would not have been able to make his contract because he wouldn't have the two dummy entries necessary to take a second diamond finesse and a first spade finesse.

Probably no one will. They may not have seen it or may not want to annoy poor West further.

US resumes relations with Sudan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States said Tuesday it was resuming full diplomatic relations with the Sudan, the third such resumption among seven countries which broke ties with Washington as a result of the 1967 Arab-Israeli War.

The State Department and the government of Sudan, in simultaneous statements, said: "The government of the United States of America and government of the Democratic Republic of Sudan have decided to resume diplomatic relations as of this date. An exchange of ambassadors will take place in the near future."

The United States resumed diplomatic relations with the government of Yemen when Secretary of State William P. Rogers made an unexpected trip to that country in early July during a world tour. The United States had previously resumed relations with Mauritania.

The other countries which broke relations with Washington were Egypt, Algeria, Syria and Iraq.

The State Department considered the resumption of relations with the Sudan a victory for the American policy of keeping lines of communication open to the Arab countries despite the break in formal diplomatic relations.

It was reported that The Sudan was anxious to resume full diplomatic ties with Washington because it had become increasingly dependent on the Soviet Union and the Communist countries of Eastern Europe.

Cobras kill 6 Filipinos

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's reelection campaign committee said Tuesday 3,000 youths will travel to Miami Beach at their own expense to serve on the Republican convention staff.

Campaign Director Clark MacGregor said they will be drawn from a force of 125,000 youth campaigners already organized in 35 states. The Committee for the Re-election of the President hopes to enroll more than 1 million in 50 states by November.

MacGregor said the under-30 volunteers "will be performing important and responsible positions as delegate aides, security aides, rally coordinators and will lend convention floor support."

"Not only will they provide the vital manpower for President Nixon's nomination but these young voters will be sponsoring some of the major convention events," MacGregor said.

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI)—Six Filipino villagers in Central Luzon were attacked and killed by cobras flushed out by floods, reports reaching disaster relief headquarters said today.

The six snake bite victims were reported to have been attacked in a shack in Santa Rita, Pangasinan Province, 15 miles south of this big American air base.

Three of the victims died Monday night and the three others remained alive until today, the reports said. Serum arrived at Clark today but too late to save the three, officials said.

144 new parks created

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon said Tuesday his program to return unused federal properties to local governments has resulted in the creation of 144 new parks in 39 states, and reversed the trend "toward government so big it loses touch with its citizens."

He told members of the Federal Property Review Board they should "twist the arms" of the federal bureaucracy to gain control of property not being properly utilized and then follow through to make sure it is made available to the public. Nixon received a report from the board, which was established in 1970 to make a review of federal land use. He was told 20,400 acres valued at approximately $100 billion already have been turned over to state and local governments for park use. He said he wanted the program extended to all 50 states.

"Government agencies seem to get a vested interest in every piece of land they have and they fight against turning it over," he told members of the board during a meeting in the Oval Office.
